

Nation Begins Farewell To Truman

BY HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — For the final time, Harry S. Truman today travels the half-mile from his home to the presidential library that bears his name.

When his coffin arrives, in quiet pomp reserved for statesmen, a military band will play "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief" for him for the last time. It was a greeting he heard often in the years 1945 to 1953 when he was President of the United States.

The nation he led from war into the chill of an uneasy peace will have a day of mourning Thursday, the day of the funeral, to commemorate the man whose dearest wish was to be known as "The People's President."

In keeping with Truman's and Mrs. Truman's wishes, the ceremony transferring the body from the funeral home to the library where he will be buried was to be simple. Mrs. Truman, 87, would not participate today, a family spokesman said.

The widow was at home today with her daughter, Margaret, son-in-law Clifton Daniel and their four sons.

Richard M. Nixon, 37th president of the United States and Lyndon B. Johnson, the 36th, were to be at the library today to bid farewell to the 33rd president.

The family spokesman said they would visit Mrs. Truman at home. The President planned to leave Independence immediately afterward, but Johnson may remain for the funeral Thursday.

The family still has not announced the guests invited for the funeral nor the pallbearers, but apparently they will be mostly intimates of the Truman's.

A memorial service is scheduled in Washington's National Cathedral at 11 a.m. Jan. 5 after Congress begins its new session.

Truman's sister, Mary Jane Truman, will not be able to attend his funeral because she is recovering in Research Hospital from a broken hip. She will watch the activities on television.

Mrs. Truman had asked that original plans for up to five days of ceremony be shortened. "We felt unjustified to add to her strain," the family spokesman said. "We wanted to avoid as much strain on her as possible."

He noted that Mrs. Truman had spent 16 hours at the former president's bedside Christmas Day, the day before he died.

Mostly, the honor of paying last respects is reserved for close family and friends and the ordinary people with whom Truman was strongly identified in his 88 years. President Nixon ordered all but essential government agencies closed Thursday and flags to half staff for 30 days.

Mrs. Truman, daughter Margaret Truman Daniel and her family, and close friends were to be at a private service in the Carson funeral home this morning.

Then a motorcade was to take the coffin in a direct route from the mortuary, through the streets of Independence that Truman had walked so often to the library to which he devoted many of his retirement years.

Midway on the route is the Truman home, a modest Victorian mansion that looks as it did more than 100 years ago except for the fence erected by the Secret Service during Truman's presidency.

There, at the busy intersection of Truman Road and Delaware, the motorcade was to pause briefly and begin the leg Truman had walked so frequently, past the homes of neighbors who knew Harry Truman and Bess Wallace as children.

The wreath-laying visits of President and Mrs. Nixon and former President and Mrs. Johnson a day before the burial was planned as the course best for Mrs. Truman and in deference to her wishes for as simple a funeral as possible.

Thousands were expected to pass by the coffin in the 21 hours of lying in state. But only 200—the capacity of the Truman Library Auditorium—were invited into the service Thursday to be conducted by the Rev. John H. Lembeck, pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Trumans were married in that church 53 years ago and so was Margaret, their only child, 37 years later.

The 87-year-old Mrs. Truman was in seclusion Tuesday after word of the former president's death reached her by telephone. But a family friend, Randall Jessee, said she was calm and composed.

On Thursday, at 4 p.m. EST, Truman will be laid to rest in the landscaped courtyard of the library—near the windows of his private office.

Nineteen Killed In Church Bus Collision

BY ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press Writer
FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP) — A truck loaded with cattle ricocheted off a guard rail on a narrow bridge near here and slammed into a chartered bus carrying a church youth group bound for a holiday ski outing and religious retreat.

Authorities said today 19 persons were killed and at least 14 were injured in the accident Tuesday night in eastern New Mexico.

The bus was carrying young people from the Woodlawn Baptist Church in Austin, Tex., to Vadito, a New Mexico ski retreat near Glorieta Baptist Assembly.

Reports of the number of injured varied from 14 to 16. One of the injured, Edward Lee, 17, said he was asleep when the crash came.

"I thought it was a dream," he said. "But as I became more awake, I knew I wasn't dreaming. I heard screaming, crying and moaning."

He said he knew his arm was broken. He was pinned between seats that had been torn loose.

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said the agency had taken over investigation of the accident.

"The safety board has the authority to take over the federal investigation in accidents which are particularly significant and offer particularly valuable safety lessons," he said. "The lessons that this will offer we don't know yet, but it is obviously a catastrophic accident."

The truck and the bus were so tightly fused together that four wreckers were unable to separate them. Two heavy duty wreckers from Roswell and a bulldozer finally were used to pull them apart.

A number of the 32 cattle on the truck were killed. The injured animals were shot. An area rancher pulled down a fence row and herded the others into a field.

Numerous motorists stopped to help. Clovis Memorial Hospital officials said at least three of the injured were driven to the hospital in a camper truck, wrapped in sleeping bags and coats.

The driver of the first bus, John Roberts, said that after passing the truck he looked in the rear view mirror and saw the lights of the second bus flash and go out on the bridge.

"I stopped the bus and our leader, Ron Killough, ran back to see what happened," Roberts said. "I already knew. I stood up in the bus and made an announcement to the kids. I told them, 'You're going to see something you've probably never seen before in your life. If you can't stand to see your brothers and sisters mangled and possibly killed, don't get off the bus. Just pray.'"

An ambulance driver said the scene "looked like a disaster area. There were a lot of people down there trying to separate the living from the dead. The windows were all broken out of the bus. Fuel was all over the road."

Frank Stanley, a radio newsman from Clovis, said seats in the bus were torn from their moorings by the impact and the frame of the bus tore loose from the body.

Looters Prowl Managua Debris

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Looters prowled through the rubble left by the earthquake that devastated Managua, vultures pecked at decomposing bodies and fires burned today in many parts of the shattered Nicaraguan capital.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the country's strong man, blamed a rash of fires that broke out late Tuesday afternoon on businessmen "trying to get insurance money for their buildings."

"A lot of businessmen had insurance against fire damage but no insurance against earthquake damage," Somoza said.

Others blamed the fires on looters hoping to hide their activities from national guard patrols. And some of the fires were started by demolition teams dynamiting shaky structures.

The troops had orders to shoot looters on sight, but only occasional casualties were reported in the confrontations between the troops and those who refused to heed the order for general evacuation of the city.

There also were clashes between groups of survivors combing the ruins for food as well as loot.

"We turn into animals when we get so hungry," said one man as he ran from a pillaged supermarket. "We'll do almost anything to get something to eat."

The latest official estimate of casualties in the quake Saturday was 3,000 to 6,000 dead and up to 20,000 injured.

Rescue workers continued to burn unidentified and unclaimed bodies pulled from under piles of debris. Bodies that weren't burned were buried in common graves.

Vultures circled overhead and often got to the bodies before the burial squads. A stench blanketed the ruins as the hot sun hastened decomposition.

Aid poured in from abroad as many of the survivors began to settle down in villages surrounding the capital. But a number of those who had left the city defied the national guard and returned to try to salvage belongings from what remained of their dwellings.

Roads in and out of the city were jammed. Trucks and cars arrived empty and left with loads of goods pulled from the rubble.

Col. Frank Simons, in charge of the U.S. relief program, said there was a big shortage of trucks to deliver supplies to emergency food and medical stations.

Simons said the immediate problems were the complete evacuation of the city and the orderly distribution of food and water to survivors.

Drinking water was being distributed at key relief stations, but many of those remaining in the downtown area were drinking untreated water. This raised the threat of epidemics.

Bombers Carry Out Over 1,400 Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers blasted the Hanoi and Haiphong areas of North Vietnam with more than 1,400 strikes in the past week and devastated scores of military targets, the U.S. Command reported today.

The Command, breaking its silence on the heaviest air attack of the Vietnam war, reported in a special communique that more than a dozen different types of targets were attacked, including some for the first time in the war.

The report covered the period from Dec. 18 until late Dec. 24, when the bombing over the North was halted for a 36-hour Christmas cease-fire. It was resumed Tuesday afternoon.

The Command also announced the loss of two more planes in the Hanoi-Haiphong blitz, including the 12th B52 bomber it has admitted losing in the attack.

The U.S. communique said: "Targets struck included railyards, shipyards, command and control facilities, warehouse and trans-shipment points, communications facilities, vehicle repair facilities, power plants, railway bridges, railroad rolling stock, truck

Slim Opera Star Loves Italian Cooking

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"I love to eat. I love everything that's edible," said Metropolitan opera star Anna Moffo, whose lithe figure gives no hint of her large appetite.

Nor does her slimmness indicate the quantities of pasta consumed at the Moffo residences in Rome and New York. The beautiful, American-born soprano credits her figure to hard work, nervous energy and the poundage she insists is shed during a particularly arduous performance.

Although she specializes in the cuisine of Italy, Miss Moffo has developed a keen interest in Chinese cookery as well.

"I am studying Chinese cooking because I love their delicate, tender results, and because I want to appreciate the cuisine when I go to Peking next spring for a concert appearance.

"My husband is a heartfelt Italian," she added. "Just give him tortellini, except for breakfast when he wants chocolate cake."

Miss Moffo described herself as a great "stuffer" in cooking. "I like to make stuffed clams, stuffed artichokes and stuffed mushrooms. And I have done this for more than 60 people when we give a cocktail party. The secret to it is organization."

Before dinner, Miss Moffo prefers an aperitif to a cocktail. Her favorite drink is campari. This moved an Argentine restaurant owner to name a drink in her honor. It includes campari, vodka and benedictine and is called the Travata.

Miss Moffo's Italian cooking is based on the butter cuisine of Parma, rather than the oil used with Roman and Sicilian dishes. She likes to use both oil and butter in certain dishes, such as Canneloni Moffo, a specialty she invented, using egg crepe rather than flour pasta.

She also adores soups and keeps her combination blender-cooker busy.

"It is so easy to take an onion, a bag of spinach, some ground steak, salt and pepper and blend it for five minutes. Add water and cook 10 minutes, and you have a tasty, nutritious soup."

"I feel," said Miss Moffo, "that if you have one burner, one blender and plenty of patience, you can cook almost anything in the gourmet repertoire."

Here is the recipe for her cannelloni creation.

To make two dozen crepes: Beat 12 eggs with salt and pepper, dilute with a little chicken broth so batter is not too thick. Put a tablespoon of egg mixture in hot six-inch teflon skillet greased with olive oil so that it covers the bottom thinly. Keep moving pan until no liquid runs off. Slide crepe onto paper towels and repeat until mixture is all used.

To make filling: In a little butter and olive oil saute a small chopped onion, 2 minced cloves of garlic and a bunch of chopped parsley; add two 8-oz. cans of peeled tomatoes and 2 tbsps. tomato paste, sprinkle some dry basil and thyme. Simmer one hour. Sauté one lb. chopped mushrooms in olive oil and 1 tbsps. garlic juice. Make very small meatballs of 1 lb. of ground round and brown. When sauce is done mix meat and mushroom into it. It should have a peanut butter consistency.

Put two tablespoons of meat-and-sauce mixture in center of each crepe, fold and place in buttered baking dish. Melt 1/4 lb. butter in saucepan, stir in 1 cup of flour and cook until mixture become beige color. Gradually stir in one quart of hot milk. Spoon over crepes, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and bake for 30 minutes.

Birdies, Eagles, And Now Crows

KIBWORTH, England (WNS) — Margaret Clarke was playing against Margaret Hallett in the ladies golf tournament here when a crow swooped down and stole her golf ball on the eighth tee.

"I know all about birdies and eagles, but crows are a new one," commented official Granville Lane. He ruled that the incident should be classed as an "act of God" and ordered Mrs. Clarke to drive again.

Crows swooped for five more balls the same week. "The birds seem to think they're eggs," said Granville. "The ladies are doing a lot of talk usually reserved for fishermen—about the ones that get away."

Electric dehumidifiers may prove a good investment for rooms where moisture condensation is a serious problem.

French Major Leads Her To A Sweet-Smelling Career

NEW YORK (AP) — Liz Martinez got into the cosmetics business because she was a French major in college.

Perfume is imported from France, right? But after her first year with a major cosmetics company, she didn't use her French much.

She depended on her studies in the Harvard-Radcliffe business administration program. Today Mrs. Martinez is a senior brand manager with another cosmetics firm.

"Really, I wanted to be in a business where women's opinions mattered. In cosmetics, women's opinions are terribly valuable. And, after my business studies, I didn't have to begin at a terribly junior level. They knew I was serious," said the dark-eyed young woman.

Mrs. Martinez arrived in her current position by moving through the ranks from assistant senior brand manager in the Prince Matchabelli division of Chesebrough-Pond's.

"I have a traditional sort of job with responsibility for all marketing functions, such as advertising, new products, packaging and display. I work with all the service groups—creative, research and development—as sort of a coordinator."

About 15 months ago, Mrs. Martinez and her staff began preparing for holiday giving with special gift packaging.

"We're particularly lucky. So many of our products have retail success that we pretty well refine ideas used in the past. We think we have good gift appeal," she said.

The idea is to provide enough variety, different combinations, sizes, shapes and a price range that gives customers a feeling of selection.

"Our business is pretty well recession-proof. People want to give gifts no matter what shape the economy is in," Mrs. Martinez added.

Every year or so the graphic design is changed, and each year, cosmetic gift wrapping is redesigned for a fresh, new look.

Happy to have a say in a business so attractive for women, Mrs. Martinez does not feel she has gotten ahead just because she is a woman.

"I think I'm not so much of a rarity these days. I always feel I've been promoted or have my job because I'm good at it, not because I'm a woman. But it may enter into the hiring process."

Mrs. Martinez met her husband, who works in financial planning for RCA, at a New York party. He had also attended Harvard Business School. They have a 2-year-old daughter for whom Liz "joyfully" makes time, and the family enjoys sports.

"Really, I enjoy all those feminine things—needlepoint, sewing and cooking," she said. "And I can read menus that are written only in French. That's about all I use the language for anymore."

Woman Dairy Herd Tester Samples Work In Man's World Of Cows, Computers

By CAMILLE HOWLAND
Ogdensburg Advance Writer
MACOMB, N.Y. (AP) — "In 1959, when I started as DHIA tester, 13,000 pounds of milk was high for a herd average. This year the high herd average is 17,378 pounds. That means there are a lot of cows going over that. The butterfat has increased by 300 pounds per cow."

Phyllis Turner, the only woman Dairy Herd Improvement Association tester in St. Lawrence County, sees the testing program as a very great management tool.

"No matter what business you're in, you've got to keep records. These cows are paying the farmer's bills. He has to have some idea, feed wise, of what's going in and what the results are."

Miss Turner knew pretty much how to test and what would be expected of her in the job when she applied for it in 1959.

"I had worked with my father and tested our own herd," she said. "It's not a job everyone wants. I have to work at odd ends of the day, because of milking times. There are four other employees in the county—all men."

She noted that at the time she applied to the local board in Canton for the job, not many were in the program. Today it is a different story.

"I test 1,350 cows in 23 herds in my district once a month. I cover only a slice of the county."

She travels an average of 700 miles a month, taking samples, going three times a week to meet the refrigerator truck which takes the samples to the New York Dairy Herd Improvement Corp. headquarters in Ithaca for analysis.

In addition to milk weight and butterfat sample of each herd, the program records all data on each cow by IBM computer. Freshening dates, breeding dates, etc., are all at the farmer's fingertips for reference.

"Of course, what the farmer does with the information is the important thing," Miss Turner points out. "But he is on the program to improve his herd, and the data will help him to do that."

DHIA regional meetings are held regularly for seminars, dinners, awards, etc. A recent county meeting distributed DHIA awards.

"I was quite proud of the fact that one of the farms I test had the highest record in the owner sampler category, over 50 cows," Miss Turner said.

Homesick Stowaways Weren't Joking

PERTH, Australia (WNS) — Patrick Fanning imagine that his wife was joking when she told him at breakfast that she was homesick for England and might stow away on an ocean liner. But as soon as he left for work, she and her four sons headed for the docks, went aboard the liner Orca, and sat drinking tea in the lounge until the ship was well out to sea. Then they gave themselves up as stowaways.

Veronica Fanning, 34, and the boys, whose ages range from 2 to 15, became legitimate passenger when hubby Patrick a carpenter, agreed to pay their fares in installments. After that, he'll save up for his own fare home.

She's Veteran Satellite Expert

By ANDREW TORCHIA
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Chivalrous Italian space technicians can't get over it — the top American on launch day is a trim, blue-eyed blonde.

"It's a novelty for them," says Mrs. Marjorie Townsend. "They keep on telling me how unusual it is for a woman to do my job."

As manager of the U.S. Small Astronomy Satellite project, Mrs. Townsend aims for the moment on the seaborne rocket platforms off the Kenyan coast when "I tell the Italians the spacecraft is go and the Italians launch it."

She took part in the successful orbiting Nov. 16 of a National Aeronautics and Space Administration satellite to study high-energy cosmic radiation, the fifth Italian-American launch from the San Marco equatorial range since 1967.

Italians may still consider space a man's arena but Mrs. Townsend, 42, says she gets scant kidding about being a woman from NASA coworkers at Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md. She's been with NASA 13 years, six of them as the first woman satellite project manager in the U.S. space program.

Mrs. Townsend joined a man's world in 1951, when she became the first woman to obtain an engineering degree from George Washington University. She helped develop anti-submarine warfare methods during eight years at the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D.C.

At Greenbelt, Mrs. Townsend guides the design, budgeting and construction of Small Astronomy Satellite experiments. The next San Marco launch on her schedule is in 1975.

Evenings she helps the younger of her four sons with homework or ducks into the basement of their Washington, D.C., home to work on the family hobby — a profitable job printing business. Or she goes over the accounts for her husband, Chris, an obstetrician.

"He spends his working life with women and I spend mine with men," she said. "Turnabout is fair play."

Mrs. Townsend says she gets an occasional "Margie, come home" plea from her husband during long business trips. Although her job keeps her away from Washington for periods up to two months, she finds it pays dividends in keeping in contact with her teen-aged boys.

"The kids are generally pretty proud of me. They respect both their father and me for our work, and respect for parents is hard to come by these days," she said.

"My experience in the working world is a major asset in talking to my children. I can tell them it's rough out there."

Mrs. Townsend sees no conflict between her job and her role as a woman but there are few feminine frills in her life. She says she had her last woman-to-woman gabfest during her sorority days in college and "I go shopping about once a year — that's one of the things I don't have time for."

Almost Injured By Camera-Shy Snake

BURIN, Italy (WNS) — Violet Ross, the snake woman, was saved by circus clowns during her performance here when a python gripped her around the neck and almost strangled her. "The poor python, she's camera shy," explained the 28-year-old circus start later. "A flash bulb can cause me to grab somebody around the neck, too. Usually it's a man, which can be embarrassing."

Will Megadoses Of Vitamin C Cure People's Common Cold?

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
NEW YORK (WNS) — The issue of whether huge doses of vitamin C will ward off or even "cure" colds has come up again now that cold weather is here. As you recall, a book published two years ago by Linus Pauling, a noted chemist, started a big boom in vitamin C. Pauling claimed that massive doses can prevent or even cure colds.

Now two researchers at a Scottish University are reported to have tried doses of 1,000 milligrams a day of vitamin C on 47 people, and a placebo (a make-believe medicine) on 43 others. Those who got the actual vitamin C were said to have had almost 50 per cent fewer colds than the control group. The researchers felt that these results supported Pauling's recommendation.

Vitamin C, of course, has long been used in moderate potencies in an effort to help relieve colds, and sometimes to try to cure other infections. The 100-milligram tablets were the most widely bought and, of course, the doctor usually also told you to drink lots of citrus juices. But after Pauling advised 1,000 milligrams daily to avoid colds, and 3,000 to 5,000 to cure them, 250-milligram and even 500-milligram tablets have become widely sold.

Rebuttal

Many other nutritional and medical authorities feel that Pauling did not prove his claim. One of the most interesting rebuttals to Pauling's recommendations came from Dr. William A. McColl, head of Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound in Seattle. Dr. McColl is a long-time consumer advocate and pioneer in health-maintenance medical groups.

and can hardly be considered a tool of the establishment.

He reported that the Puget Sound co-op has many patients who are following Pauling's advice and are still getting colds. He pointed out that Pauling accused the medical profession of refusing to adopt a cold remedy because it would lose them patients. But Group Health, which charges its members an annual fee for all care whether they get sick or not, does not have that financial interest in treating colds; in fact, quite the opposite. McColl commented in the health co-op's magazine, View, "I feel that taking two or three times as much or a vitamin as the body uses makes as much sense as putting five, ten, fifteen times as much gas in your tank as your car will hold. I simply runs out."

One controlled but limited experiment by doctors at the University of Maryland in 1971 found that giving eleven of the subjects 3,000 milligrams of Vitamin C a day had no more effect or relieving colds than the placebos given to the other ten. (Pauling rebutted that the dose of cold virus given the subjects was "likely" to have been very large compared with ordinary exposure.)

One of the sources of Pauling's recommendations was a study made on University of Minnesota students which found a 15 per cent decrease in incidence of colds in students given 200 milligrams a day compared to those given a placebo. Pauling considered this result more significant than did the three doctors who made the study. They said the 200 milligrams dose might have a "slight" advantage but added that "one may well question (its) practical importance."

Not Resolved

The question of the effect of megadoses of vitamin C on viral colds is not fully resolved, and is difficult to resolve because of the great variety of viruses and the problem of constructing large-scale experiments in which the subjects must be given colds.

There is no doubt of the critical importance of getting an "adequate" supply of vitamin C. It happens to be one of the nutrients actually most often lacking in American diets along with calcium and iron, as shown by U.S. Agriculture Department surveys. While calcium deficiencies were frequent in high-income as well as moderate-income families, the vitamin C lack was most noticeable among lower-income families.

A four-ounce glass of orange or grapefruit juice supplies what usually is considered to be a day's vitamin C need of 50-60 milligrams (Orange juice has a little more vitamin C than grapefruit.) Less-rich but still good sources are tomato juice, kale, collards, cantaloupe, raw cabbage, salad green, and—if cooked briefly in a little water—cabbage, broccoli and greens. Potatoes, too, supply moderate amounts of vitamin C.

While a day's needs for adults is considered to be 60 milligrams, even some nutritionists who disagree with Pauling have suggested 100 to 200 milligrams for optimum health. So a little extra vitamin C may do some good even if opinions differ over the usefulness of taking thousands of milligrams a day. Some warnings also have been issued that huge amounts of vitamin C taken over a period of time might tend to encourage formation of kidney stones.

Natural Vs. Synthetic

Another issue that has arisen, with a good deal of emotion involved, is that of natural vs. synthetic vitamin C. There is no special benefit from a vitamin isolated from natural sources such as rose hips, acerola cherries or citrus fruits, compared to synthetic vitamin C. That statement comes from Charles Glen King, who happens to be the leader of the team that originally discovered vitamin C. It's true that rose hips are richer in vitamin C than citrus fruits, and acerola cherries are richer than rose hips. But 100 milligrams of vitamin C is the same amount no matter what the source. Most scientists, say that vitamin C has the same effect whether natural or synthetic.

There is no need to pay high prices for vitamin C. Many private or "house" brands of synthetic vitamin C are available from department stores and pharmacies for as little as 50 to 95 cents for 100 tablets of 100-milligram potency. In contrast, the equivalent "natural" vitamin C tablets cost $1.05 to $1.75, depending on where you buy them. Often they are part synthetic anyway. Otherwise they would be too big to swallow.

There really is no reason for synthetic vitamin C to cost much. After all, the factory cost of the basic ascorbic acid for the 100 tablets of 100-milligram strength is one cent. The bottle costs more.

No Trifling Problem, But It's For Birds

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I wouldn't miss your column for the world. I find it so interesting and educational, but I do become disgusted with some of the petty things some people find to complain about.

Most of us have so much to be grateful for. I personally find so much comfort in God and prayer that I have no time to think about trifles. However, I do have a problem with birds nesting in my drainpipe. Have you a solution for my problem? Thank you for any help you can give me.

MRS. F. S.

DEAR MRS. F. S.: After the eggs have hatched, clean out the drainpipe with a garden hose. If the Mamma bird comes back after that, she's cuckoo.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of five children. The oldest is seven, the youngest is a year. My husband and I pride ourselves on being good parents and we try to give each child as much individual love and attention as possible. This is sometimes difficult because our eldest is severely brain damaged and requires extra care.

My problem is my 3-year-old. She is a bright and beautiful child, but she throws terrible tantrums, kicks, screams, holds her breath, and won't stop until I give her what she wants. She never sits still, refuses to go to bed at night, and is mean to the other children each time my back is turned. If I have to discipline her with a spanking, I can feel myself really laying it on her with all my might to get my anger out.

I am sure I am part of her problem because she is always so sweet and cooperative with her daddy. When she does come to me for affection I have to force myself to kiss or cuddle her. She is so difficult most of the time, I find it nearly impossible to "love her"—and I feel so ashamed of myself.

The other children are so well-behaved and lovable, I sometimes wonder if maybe I brought the wrong baby home from the hospital. Please help me.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Children who are hyperactive and incorrigible should be examined by a pediatrician. There is a reason for her behavior. Take your problem child to a doctor and tell him your story. Perhaps you, too, need instruction on how to handle her.

DEAR ABBY: You recently allowed nurses to express their views concerning how they preferred to be addressed by their patients.

Will you please give patients equal time? It has become the custom in many hospitals and doctors' offices recently to address patients by their first names. In some social situations elderly people accept this familiarity without resentment, but I think since doctors and nurses wish to retain their titles, patients should be accorded the same respect.

I am not Caroline. I am Mrs. _____

OVER SEVENTY

DEAR OVER: Doctors and nurses who address elderly patients by their first names intend no disrespect. They think the patient appreciates the less formal approach. And some do.

DEAR ABBY: Altho I think I know the answer to my question, I need you to confirm it.

A friend's son was married several months ago, and my husband and I sent a telegram offering our congratulations and best wishes. [We know they received it.]

This couple never bothered to send us a "thank you!" According to my bringing up, an acknowledgement was in order. Or doesn't the younger generation follow the old rules?

WONDERING OUT EAST

DEAR WONDERING: Please don't use the same brush to tar the entire younger generation. All well-mannered people still acknowledge telegrams.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BINGHAMTON MOTHER: Yes, parents should warn their small children about child molesters in language the child is able to understand. Instruct the child to report ALL adults who attempt to take liberties with them whether he's a relative or not. Many relatives, guilty of child molesting have gone unchecked and unpunished because youngsters are taught to believe that it's an expression of affection which is permissible.

Truman Role Grows With Time

The death of Harry S. Truman yesterday removes one of the great world figures of the post World War II era from our midst.

The former president passed away after fighting for his life for weeks. At age 88 the infirmities of old age finally won out over his fighting spirit.

Mr. Truman came to the presidency in 1945 probably as ill informed as he could have been for the awesome job. At the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Truman took over the reins of government in the waning days of World War II. He began his presidency, however, at a time when atomic energy was being harnessed and it fell to him to decide to use the terrible bomb on Japan. Even though the destruction and death were enormous, use of the A-bomb brought the war to a speedy conclusion and undoubtedly saved lives in the long run.

Then President Truman faced the era of Communist expansionism in Europe and Asia. In this time of cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union and China, it is not easy to assess the threat that Russia, led by the old dictator Stalin, posed to the free world. It was a major expansionist threat, however, and Harry Truman faced up to it with the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall plan. Finally in Asia he made the brave move to commit troops to Korea when a Communist take-over was imminent there.

If today Communist Russia is not a threat to non-Communist nations, certainly the reason must be the brave actions which President Truman took in the 1940s to stop the spread of Communism.

Harry S. Truman had attributes that all of us could use in these times of discontent. He was totally honest and the story was told that he spent years paying off the debts of a haberdashery business that he operated which failed.

He took his responsibilities well and his advice to politicians was, "If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen." Everyone who wants to enter politics should be required to post this slogan in a prominent place.

Mr. Truman also weighted his decisions carefully, but once they were made he no longer fretted over them. The story is told that he was actually asleep as the vote tabulations determined that he had scored a startling upset victory for reelection over Thomas E. Dewey, in 1948. Mr. Truman was not a worrier and no doubt it was for this reason that he could carry the crushing responsibilities of the presidency, then come out to live to the ripe old age of 88.

Harry S. Truman was a man who rose from the rank and file of our nation to become president of the United States. His role in shaping post-war America looms larger as the years go by.

System Looks To Legislature

By DR. BEN FOUNTAIN
President
N.C. Community College
College System

Raleigh, N.C. — North Carolina's burgeoning technical institute-community college system is looking to the 1973 General Assembly for appropriations which will ensure the continued commitment of total education for the people of the state.

The 56-institution system is asking the 1973 lawmakers for nearly $400 million for the 1973-75 biennium to support these two-year, post-secondary schools. Of the total amount more than $58,000,000 would be earmarked for construction which is sorely needed in that many schools still remain in temporary housing. The remainder of the money would make possible new curriculums, such as in the health occupations.

To become fully knowledgeable of the commitment the technical institutes and community colleges have to the citizens of North Carolina, one must understand the purpose of these institutions, which is to extend universal education beyond the high school on an educationally sound and economically feasible basis. The institutions strive to meet the various educational needs of their communities, stimulate interest in education and assist citizens in examining their common and distinctive goals.

Myth Dispelled
A challenge that is facing the technical institute-community college system today is to dispel the myths concerning the system that have become realities in the minds of far too many North Carolinians.

It has been said that these two-year, commuting institutions want to become four-year colleges and universities. Nothing could be further from the truth. The system of technical institutes and community colleges has been in existence for more than nine years and to date none has sought to become a four-year school. It was the intent of the 1963 General Assembly when it established this system that the schools remain two-year educational institutions, and the technical institutes and community colleges have lived up to this charge, bringing a broad range of programs to North Carolinians who would otherwise be neglected educationally.

Another myth which has been echoed across the state is that all the technical institutes are aspiring to become community colleges. Again this has proven to be a fallacy. Not one technical institute made application to the 1971 General Assembly to become a community college.

And only one technical institute plans to apply to the 1972 General Assembly for such an expansion.

Academic, Occupational Partners

A third myth which should be dispelled is that when a technical institute becomes a community college it downgrades its occupational education programs in favor of the academic programs. However, the reverse has been found to be true in technical institutes which have added the college transfer program. With the addition of academic studies, the occupational programs have been strengthened in virtually all instances.

Enrollment in occupational curriculums is on the rise in both community colleges and technical institutes. In the fall of 1972, the total enrollment in one-and two-year occupational curriculums in the 41 technical institutes and 15 community colleges reached an all-time high of 34,980, representing a 13 per cent growth over last fall and comprising 70 per cent of the fall credit course enrollment this year.

In contrast, the number of students enrolled in academic programs in these two-year institutions dropped from 11,274 in the fall of 1971 to 10,370 in the fall of 1972. The drop in college transfer enrollment apparently reflects a national trend as young people are increasingly learning a salable skill rather than obtaining a liberal arts education.

Both Offer Technical Study
Many people still do not understand that a community college is identical to a technical institute with the addition of the college transfer programs. Both types of institutions offer technical and vocational programs of study, special continuing education courses and courses of general interest.

Through the years there has been a misconception about adult or continuing education programs administered by the 56 technical institutes and community colleges. Some naysayers have been critical of "short" courses in sewing, cooking or flower arranging. Those who have been critical claim that the taxpayers' money is being spent unwisely for courses with a frill.

What they don't know is that the woman who learns to fit a pattern and sew a seam can make her children's clothes thus cutting down on family expenses. The same can be done by the woman who learns to bake cakes to be sold and the woman who learns enough about flower arranging to help the professional florist in a local flower shop.

First Action: Display Photos

By ROWLANE EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

Secretary of Labor-designate Peter J. Brennan's attitude toward the federal bureaucracy, President Nixon and his country emerged when, on a walking tour of the Labor Department, he discovered a shocking lack of American flags and presidential photographs.

Turning to an aide, Brennan snapped out an order: Every office in the department will prominently display a photograph of Richard M. Nixon. In the intervening two weeks, Labor Department bureaucrats who have seen Presidents come and go have scurried about seeking Nixon photographs. In due time, presumably, Brennan also will remedy the absence of American flags. The incident not only warmed flinty White House aides but reinforced confidence there that Brennan is the right man for an important political mission: keeping blue-collar workers who voted for Mr. Nixon in his New Majority. Thus, in a second-term cabinet of clerkish organization men, the emotive, voluble Brennan is cast in a resplendent role.

That role is misunderstood by liberal Republicans, who grumble that Brennan, a New York City building trades labor leader, is unqualified to administer the Labor Department bureaucracy. Even some administration officials have secretly advised the AFL-CIO to surround Brennan with competent technicians to prevent Brennan boo-boos from embarrassing his labor constituency.

Such criticism ignores the radical Nixon government reorganization. Like Commerce, Interior and other old-line departments, Labor is being emasculated—its power transferred to a new supercabinet. But whereas the Secretaries of Commerce and Interior now become limousine puppets, Brennan definitely will not.

A major reason is Mr. Nixon's fascination with him. The President, a loner who relates to few people, is unusually animated in private chats with Brennan. At the Dec. 16 dinner for past, present and future cabinet members, Mrs. Brennan was seated at Mr. Nixon's left and her husband was the subject of presidential toasts.

White House insiders feel the President sees in Brennan what he perceived (mistakenly, they now say; in Spiro T. Agnew when he selected him for Vice President in 1968; the archetypal self-made man with unshakable beliefs in the value of national patriotism and the work ethic. Mr. Nixon shares those beliefs. More importantly politically, he believes working people do too.

So, the affinity between the President and lifelong Democrat Brennan leads naturally to New Majority concepts developed by Mr. Nixon and White House political strategist Charles Colson. Even though a majority of members in such liberal unions as the United (Continued on page 8)

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Catching Wind In Net

Clay T. Whitehead charged onto the playing fields last week with all the sis-boom-bah of a linebacker kept too long on the bench. He had come to replace Vice President Agnew, who has turned demure in recent months, in the administration's great body-contact game of badgering the TV networks.

Whitehead is director of the administration's Office of Telecommunication Policy, an agency that two years ago sprang full blown from the Nixonian brow. His background is in electrical engineering, by way of M.I.T., and ordinarily his concerns go to the technical aspects of telephones, radio frequencies, cable TV, and satellite communications. On December 18, in Indianapolis, he turned to a topic less abstruse but more ephemeral: the general quality, and especially the fairness, of network television.

The administration, he said, has drafted a bill that would provide for five-year (instead of three-year) license renewals. The bill would free TV stations from some of the tedious form-filling required under present regulations of the Federal Communications Commission. That was the good news.

The bad news, from the industry's point of view, is that the administration's bill would set up statutory criteria for license renewal. A broadcaster would have to demonstrate that his operations are "substantially attuned to the needs and interests in 'all' his programs, whether locally created or obtained from a network. He must also show that he has afforded "reasonable, realistic, and practical opportunities for the presentation and discussion of conflicting views on controversial issues."

"I should add," said Whitehead, "that these requirements have teeth. If a station can't demonstrate meaningful service to all elements of its community, the license should be taken away by the FCC."

The President's man bore down repeatedly on local station responsibility. It no longer will suffice, he warned, for local managers to pass the buck for program content and news judgment to networks in New York. He hurled a couple of Agnewian shafts at TV reporters engaged in "ideological plugola." He denounced professionals "who confuse (Continued on page 8)

Other Editors Say Landmark Study

(Rocky Mount Evening Telegram)

Since 1962, drivers in the United States have seen a 115 per cent rise in the cost of repairing auto crash damage. Now the basic groundwork has been completed, in the form of an insurance industry research study of "Crash Damage to Automobiles," which provides definite guidance for the kind of auto design improvements required if the amount of damage and resultant repair cost for the most common types of low-speed auto crashes is to be reduced.

The conclusions of the study were based on analysis of more than $28 million in crash damage to car models 1969 through 1972 on a nationwide basis — 89,060 cars were involved. It was found that over half of all auto crashes and more than one fourth of the repair dollars involved damage costing less than $250. Crash tests have shown that most damage up to that amount is caused by collisions of cars closing at speeds 10 miles an hour and under.

Much of this damage could be prevented by improved auto design. One reason is that about 70 per cent of all auto crashes involve impacts at either the front or rear end of the car, both of which can be protected against low-speed crashes much more easily than the sides of the car.

Bumper standards for 1973 are intended to only protect safety related items such as brake lines and headlights in front-end crashes at 5 miles per hour and in rear-end crashes at 2.5 miles per hour. The expensive corners of the auto are still vulnerable.

Knowledgeable authorities judge that bumpers protecting up to about 10 miles per hour are economically feasible. And this is the speed range in which a significant part of collision damage occurs.

The auto is the prime mover of the American people. The research work done by the insurance industry pointing to changes in auto design to minimize the lisions, lower insurance costs and reduce the price of transportation for the average family is a public service. It deserves the close attention of the auto makers and of Congress in setting design standards.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
December 27, 1932

The Christmas season passed off quietly in Greenville and only few accidents were reported throughout the community. The Yuletide found men and women in every walk of life striving to do something just make the lives of others happy during the holidays.

The fire department was able to spend the holidays in comparative quiet with the exception of two minor fires on Christmas morning. The home of Roy Atkinson was damaged to the extent of about $50 from fire of undetermined origin discovered in a closet and the Texaco station in front of the court house was damaged about $40 from a fire in an air compressor.

Strength For Today

WAR IS INCONSISTENT

The greatest arousal of peace sentiment that the world has known for two thousand years began about the year 1900 with the organization of peace societies and the attempt on the part of idealists, statesmen and great businessmen the world over to do away with war. They realized that war is inconsistent with the humane sentiments of modern life, that it destroys more property than any peace settlement can pay for, and that from beginning to end war is always bad business, bad economics, bad morals. It is interesting to note that two of the most outstanding businessmen of modern times, Andrew Carnegie and Henry Ford, were particularly interested in peace, which speaks volumes for its economic advantages. For centuries the peace movement had consisted of a feeble minority protest made either by idealists far ahead of their age or by pacifists who disbelieved in war under any circumstances.

Today there are millions of people in the world who have sworn never to let an opportunity pass by to raise their voices against war.

And these people are not pacifists, not mere dreamers, not theorists, but people who believe that war jeopardizes and may perhaps destroy the social benefits that modern civilization confers.

Small Investor Confidence Shot

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the ironic consequences of the very real efforts being made to rebuild confidence in our securities system is that the confidence of many small investors is, for the time being, shot.

The small fellow has been relatively inactive in the past year. He has been redeeming his mutual fund shares even when he hasn't got a profit in them.

This behavior is understandable, because among the revelations made in hearings before the Securities and Exchange Commission is that things have been far from proper in this very image-conscious industry. Very improper, in fact.

Some instances: money and stock left for safekeeping with brokers has been used as if it belonged to the broker; research sometimes has been nonexistent; professional management often has been inept.

The past two years have been excruciatingly painful for the industry, as it would have been for an individual who, while posing as a citizen of high motives and conduct, was forced publicly to disclose his moral turpitude.

The eventual affect of SEC efforts to upgrade standards and make the markets safer and more understandable for small investors will undoubtedly have a more positive impact some day. But with the mystery goes the awe also.

It is now more widely known, for example, that the investment adviser who claims to have such insight and foresight may really be endowed with little more than great ambition and ego.

Brokers must at a minimum pass examinations administered by either the National Association of Securities Dealers or the SEC. But those who peddle advice only — who do not also sell stock — need not prove their competence.

The chief requirements for being an adviser are to register with the SEC, pay the fees and keep proper records. There are no exams that must be passed or educational standards that must be met.

The SEC now has a committee charged with advising it on a program to better implement present legislation or perhaps enlarge its controls over such advisers, some of which misleadingly but accurately advertise: "Registered with SEC."

A greater number of people also are aware of the limitations of mutual funds managers, whose primary qualifications for beginning a fund are that they be able to pay the registration and legal fees and be free of criminal taint.

It is awareness of the limitations of regulation from Washington and self-regulation within the industry that has helped make small investors wiser, more able to handle their own affairs, more realistic about their goals.

Three Factors Caused Managua's Great Damage And Loss Of Life

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The earthquake that ripped Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, was a catastrophic disaster in human terms, but to scientists the jolt was neither unexpected nor unusually severe.

The fact that it wrecked the city and killed thousands resulted not from extraordinary force but from three factors: —It was centered very close to, or within, the city.

—The quake originated close to the surface of the city's loose, ashly land base.

—Few of Managua's buildings apparently were designed or built to withstand such tremors.

Seismographs at various California points indicated Saturday's jolt had an intensity of 6.25 to 6.4 on the Richter Scale. Thus it was somewhat less intense than the 6.6 quake in February 1971 that rocked the San Fernando Valley north of Los Angeles and killed 65 persons. Dr. Don Anderson, director of the seismology laboratory at the California Institute of Technology, said Tuesday a quake is not classified by scientists as "major" unless it reaches 7.5 on the Richter Scale.

The great San Francisco quake of 1906 was estimated at 8.25. He said many quakes as Auto Workers defied their leaders to vote for him this year, Mr. Nixon still feels it is easier to get labor votes when the leaders—as in the Teamsters and Longshoremens—agree with the members.

Mr. Nixon seeks to commend this blue-collar strategy to future Republican leaders not only be favored treatment for Brennan but by his extraordinary guest lists for receptions Dec. 13 and 14 and religious service Dec. 17 at the White House. While invitations for Republican politicians and big businessmen were in limited supply, the lists bulged with labor leaders, almost all Democrats, from such unfashionable Nixonite unions as the Plasterers, Lathers and Elevator Construction Workers.

Beyond his symbolic importance, Brennan is counted on by the White House to shore up Mr. Nixon's greatest weakness with working people: his identification with huge corporations, including pro-business bias in wage-price controls. Even before being sworn in, Brennan was an observer at last week's consultation on controls between the President and labor leaders.

Skeptics wonder how long a hot-tempered Irishman from the sidewalks of New York will stomach Mr. Nixon's icy palace guard. There has been trouble from the start. Brennan clashed over questions of Labor Department staffing with Fred Malek, Mr. Nixon's coldly efficient personnel chief.

That trouble was soothed, but such disagreements flash a red danger signal. Unlike other cabinet members, Brennan represents a powerful constituency. If he is a symbol being toasted by Mr. Nixon he would also be a symbol if he follows the fate of Walter Hickel, Peter G. Peterson and scores of lesser officials purged by Mr. Nixon. Alone among cabinet members, Peter Brennan wears a lable? Handle With Care.

sensationalism with sense and who dispense elitist gossip in the guise of news analysis." It was quite a speech.

Yet Whitehead, whose training is in practical matters, laid down a set of impractical demands; and coming from a man so inspired by "responsibility," his broad-brush charges (he refused to name names) were themselves irresponsible.

As a practical matter, network TV programs, fed through local stations, cannot be equated with Associated Press wire copy, printed in local papers. Well before deadline, a newspaper editor has his hands on the available wire copy. He has read it. He can weigh it against other available copy. He can exercise his own professional judgment in terms of the needs and interests of his own community. Obviously, no such flexibility attaches to the national output of network TV. Local managers can — and do — raise Cain with network executives, just as local managing editors jump on AP; but it is not the same.

Whitehead also failed to acknowledge improvements in the one area of greatest antagonism — TV news and commentary. Much liberal bias remains (it would be interesting to count the conservative books favorably reviewed on NBC). Too many network panels are tilted to the right — and an impression is growing that all the networks are trying conscientiously for better balance.

This troublesome problem of bias doesn't reside in "ideological plugola." It is a human problem: Human beings make human judgments. They err; and none of Dr. Whitehead's remedies will cure the ill. The problem is also a technical problem: Channels of telecommunication are limited in number; they have to be allocated, and some Federal authority has to exercise that difficult function. If the Nixon administration will yak a little less, perhaps the station managers and the viewers, having won some improvements, will strive for a little more.

Whitehead also failed to acknowledge improvements in the one area of greatest antagonism — TV news and commentary. Much liberal bias remains (it would be interesting to count the conservative books favorably reviewed on NBC). Too many network panels are tilted to the right — and an impression is growing that all the networks are trying conscientiously for better balance.

Ocean floor is moving toward and under the mainland mass, causing great compressional forces.

Dr. Robert Brown of Menlo Park, Calif., a seismologist at the U.S. Geological Survey's National Center for Earthquake Research, noted that Managua is particularly vulnerable because it is built on loosely compacted volcanic debris. This material is shaken even more violently by a quake than a base of solid rock would be, he said.

Asks Aid For Victims

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Dr. L. Nelson Bell of Montreat, moderator of The Presbyterian Church, U.S., Sunday urged all members of his denomination to join in making contributions for the relief of earthquake victims in Nicaragua.

Dr. Bell suggested that all gifts be channeled through the Board of World Missions of The Presbyterian Church, U.S., with headquarters in Nashville, Tenn.

The agency will immediately send the relief funds to persons actively engaged in helping the victims, Dr. Bell said.

Belgium Grants Status

BERLIN (AP) — Belgium today became the first member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to grant full diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

ADN, the official East German news agency, reported the East German embassy in Brussels was opening today and said the two governments would exchange ambassadors.

The announcement came as a surprise since the NATO members had been expected to coordinate their diplomatic approaches to East Germany.

France, Britain, Norway and Denmark have invited the East German government to begin negotiations for the establishment of diplomatic relations.

The U.S. State Department has said it would begin such discussions "in due course." The United States also said it would not recognize the Communist regime until after ratification of the normalization treaty between East and West Germany.

The treaty was signed in East Berlin last Thursday, and the West German Parliament is expected to complete its ratification in May.

Dental Technician Says Skull Bormann's

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A dental technician who assisted in treating Martin Bormann has recognized his handiwork in the dentures of a skull recently unearthed in Berlin and believed to be that of Hitler's long-missing deputy, Frankfurt Chief Prosecutor Wilhelm Metzner said today. But Metzner said he will need more than the dental evidence before he can conclusively close the files on Bormann, who disappeared in the final days of World War II.

Further evidence is expected to come from the Institute of Dental Medicine in West Berlin, which is comparing the dentures of the skull with a sketch of Bormann's teeth made from memory by his dentist, a Dr. Blaschke. The dentist, who is now dead, made the sketch right after the war at the request of allied authorities.

"The original X-rays were lost," Metzner said in an interview. "When one has to rely on memory, there is a certain instability factor."

Nevertheless, the prosecutor emphasized, much of the evidence gathered to date tends to support a conclusion that the skull—one of two unearthed Dec. 8—is that of Bormann.

Joachim Richter, Metzner's assistant and a Bormann specialist, told The Associated Press last week that one skull "very probably" was Bormann's and the other that of Dr. Ludwig Stumpfegger, the last physician in Hitler's bunker.

Richter also reported that the teeth in both skulls contain traces of what could be splinters from a glass cyanide capsule. This would indicate death by suicide, the classic mode of death for Nazi leaders at the end of the war.

Meanwhile, Metzner said, dental records from a Nazi document center in Berlin have made investigators "fairly certain" that one skull was Stumpfegger's.

Metzner expects to issue a final report in mid-January. If the Berlin findings are confirmed, this would put to rest recurrent reports that Bormann was still alive in South America or elsewhere.

Charged In Wreck

David Gordon Lee of Box 783, Bethel was charged with failing to reduce his speed following a wreck Tuesday morning at the intersection of E. Tenth and E. Fifth Streets.

Investigating officers reported that the 9:10 a.m. mishap involved cars driven by William Abram Harrison of 620-A Mather Avenue, Kansas City, Mo., and Lee.

Police, who reported no injuries, estimated damages to the Lee vehicle at $500 and $300 to the car driven by Harrison.

Park Takes New Oath

SEOUL (AP) — Chung Hee Park, who has ruled South Korea since 1961, took his fourth presidential oath today with a pledge to "build a great Korea—prosperous, just, full of hope, and above all, reunited."

The inauguration was held before some 3,000 persons. They included 2,359 delegates to the National Conference for Unification which elected Park to a six-year-term Dec. 23.

The inaugural and promulgation of a new constitution earlier in the day marked the start of the Fourth Republic. It ended a Western-style democracy which had existed since 1948.

Park was elected to his third term last year and then rewrote the old constitution, having it approved by a national referendum Nov. 21. He said the reforms were needed so that the nation can meet international power politics and better pursue a peaceful reunification of South and North Korea.

A new single-house National Assembly is to be elected in the spring, but it will have little power and the president can dissolve it when he pleases.

Now you're eligible for our special Blue Cross and Blue Shield "65" plan — whether you're retiring or not.

Why would you need our "65" plan when you're already covered by Medicare? Because our plan supplements Medicare. It covers some of the things Medicare doesn't cover. For example, Medicare will pay for 60 days of a hospital stay, except for the first $72. Our plan pays that $72. Which leaves you in the clear ... just the way we planned it.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield "65" also helps you pay for private duty nursing, prescription drugs outside the hospital or nursing home. And care in foreign countries not covered by Medicare.

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a day for tax selling and bargain hunting on the nation's stock markets today. Prices generally were firm, but showed no dramatic trend.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.28 to 1007.98. Declines held the lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange, however 618 to 530 among the 1,610 issues exchanged.

Defying the anticipations of most stock analysts, the trading pace was brisk, with the Big Board's ticker tape often falling behind the pace of transactions.

Most active on the Big Board was Skyline Corp., down 1/2 to 32 1/2. The mobile home and recreational vehicle stock had plunged 1 1/2 points Tuesday after reporting a quarterly earnings dip.

Houston Lighting and Power was off 1/2 to 50 1/2, following a block trade of 99,900 shares at 50 1/2.

Mountain Fuel Supply, which has soared recently on the strength of a natural gas find in Wyoming, ran into profit-taking today and was off 1 1/4 to 98 1/2.

Record automobile sales in mid-December helped propel auto stocks upward Tuesday and today. General Motors was ahead 1/2 to 78 1/2; Chrysler up 1/4 to 39 1/2; and Ford up 1/4 to 77 1/2. The New York Stock Exchange Index of some 1,400

Await Test On Skull

HAMLET, N.C. (AP)—Hamlet police and Richmond County deputies are awaiting a laboratory report from the State Bureau of Investigation that could determine the identity of a human skull found last week.

The skull was found by Jerry Suggs, a birdhunter, in southeastern Richmond County. Hamlet assistant police chief James Wise carried the skull to Raleigh Friday for examination. Three teeth were still attached to the skull, and police hoped they would provide some clue to the person's identity.

Wise said the skull wasn't damaged, leading police to believe that a head injury didn't cause death. Since the rest of the skeleton wasn't found nearby, Wise speculated that an animal may have found the skull elsewhere and dragged it to the bed of leaves in a swamp where it was found.

Lack Of Minorities In Union May Be Brennan Stumbling Block

By WALTER STOVALL
 Associated Press Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — Union leader Peter J. Brennan, President Nixon's choice for secretary of labor, has been subjected for years to criticism that the hard-hat unions he oversees have made little real effort to open their ranks to minorities.

The criticism, certain to be aired when the Senate takes up Brennan's nomination, comes at a time when minority membership in New York's construction unions is estimated by union sources at two per cent.

In Brennan's 250,000-member New York City Building and Construction Trades Council—an alliance of 40 craft unions ranging from plumbers to steeplejacks in hundreds of locals—two per cent would be about 5,000 blacks and Puerto Ricans.

A 1965 U.S. Department of Labor study said New York construction unions reported 2,916 minority members, about one per cent of the union's 200,000 total membership at the time. New York City is about one-third black and Puerto Rican.

A comparison of the union estimates and federal statistics indicates union membership in the past seven years has risen by 50,000, while minority membership has doubled—though leaving blacks and Puerto Ricans a fraction of the work force.

Part of the problem is that construction unions traditionally, though unofficially, have maintained restricted memberships. Most of the openings were reserved for members' relatives. Moreover, small memberships mean more work for more money in New York's booming construction industry.

Brennan, 54, whose strength as a labor leader rests to a large extent on the fact that his men earn the highest building wages in the nation, denies he ever has supported exclusionary policies. He says his unions are autonomous and he does not "run or control any of the unions. I don't have the power to put people in or keep people out."

Questions about Brennan's minority record have arisen anew with issuance of a federal report expressing disappointment over a minority training program which Brennan helped formulate two years ago.

Park Mobs

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Disney World closed its gates for two hours Tuesday when a capacity crowd of some 50,000 post-Christmas visitors jammed into the Magic Kingdom.

With the tourist attraction's huge parking lots packed with 12,000 vehicles, Disney officials shut off access at 2 p.m. and stayed closed until 4 p.m.

Civil Rights Commission by its New York branch. Brennan refuses to give an opinion of the plan or its implementation. A spokesman for Brennan says that "it would be presumptuous of him to get into it, now that he is secretary-of-labor designate." Furthermore, the spokesman added, Brennan no longer has any connection with the program.

If fully implemented and if all the trainees were admitted into the unions, the plan would increase minority membership in the unions by about four-tenths of one per cent a year.

The plan was devised by Brennan and Donald Rodgers, a local union official who is now a labor adviser in the White House. It was approved by the city government and contractor and minority representatives.

The plan ran into problems at the outset, with four unions refusing to take part. Since then, one of them has joined the plan, two have signed separate agreements to train 100 minority workers each a year. Only the Sheet Metal Workers out of the 40-odd in Brennan's council refused to participate.

Reliable figures on the progress of the program are hard to pin down. Brennan's spokesman said he thought 700 trainees had been taken on in two years. The city says 400, and the Civil Rights Commission report says 562. Other sources gave other estimates. New York Deputy Mayor Edward K. Hamilton, who speaks for City Hall on matters concerning the New York City Plan, says the program has been a "disappointment" and says the time has come to renegotiate it.

Navy Buys Gap Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — The Navy has bought all the shares of preferred stock in the Gap Instrument Corp. for $1.7 million as a means of keeping the Long Island defense contractor in business, the New York Times reported today.

The company, which has a $3.1-million contract to manufacture 31 fire-control consoles for Navy destroyers, has been experiencing heavy cost overruns and has not shown a profit in the last four years, the Times said.

It is believed to be the first time that the Department of Defense has purchased stock in a private company, although it has sometimes received stock in cases of bankruptcy or reorganization. The purchase makes the department Gap's largest single stockholder.

The Times said the arrangement provides that no dividends be paid on the 17,414 non-voting, nonconvertible shares, and that the stock be redeemed starting in 1976 but only out of after-tax profits.

the end of 1976 and include minority members in union apprenticeship programs, rather than on-site training.

This would replace the New York City Plan and its maximum of 800 trainees per year who have no guarantees that they ultimately can get union membership or journeyman cards.

Meanwhile, Brennan, as he prepares to go to Washington, is still the target of critics, one of the most persistent of whom is Jim Haughton, head of a Harlem-based organization called Fight Back.

Fight Back has used nearly every tactic available, from blocking construction sites with demonstrators to negotiations, to force the building trades to accept more blacks and Puerto Ricans.

"Brennan has a splendid record as a bigot and a warmonger," says Haughton, who believes that the prospects of minorities for more union construction jobs are "as bleak as ever."

 Stanley said: "The bodies were stacked off to the side of the road and covered with blankets or coats. Items normally taken on outings were strewn about—things like backpacks and sleds."

Some of the injured weren't removed from the twisted and wrecked wreckage of the bus for as long as two hours after the accident. Neither vehicle burned. Traffic was blocked for about six hours.

The accident occurred as two buses carrying a total of about 67 persons crossed the bridge on U.S. 60-94 a-out 12 miles east of this small eastern New Mexico town. The span is only 25 feet long.

State police said the first bus passed the eastbound cattle truck without incident. The truck then apparently struck the bridge railing and the trailer swung into the path of the second bus.

Markets To Close

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York and American Stock Exchanges announced Tuesday they would close Thursday in observance of the national day of mourning for the death of former President Harry S. Truman.

The Amex announced its board of governors were ordering the close to "join our fellow citizens in mourning the death of a great American."

Both exchanges halted trading at 11 a.m. Tuesday for two minutes of silence in memory of the late president.

They also sent expressions of condolence to the Truman family over their ticker systems. Trading will be resumed Friday at the usual hours.

Profs Resigned

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Resignations by tenured professors at the University of California were the lowest in 13 years during the past year. Only 11 tenured faculty members resigned during 1971-72, compared with 14 in the previous year and a high of 32 in 1966.

Winston Coach Has A Lot To Brag About

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Back in 1941 a 6-foot-3 black athlete, aged 18 and weighing 265 pounds, uncoiled himself from his cramped quarters in a two-door Ford coupe (remember them?) at the campus of Morgan State College campus in Baltimore, Md.

He was from Paducah, Ky., where he had excelled in football and basketball in high school. At the insistence of Buster Lee, a sports writer who had watched him play while covering parts of Kentucky, Illinois and Tennessee for the Pittsburgh Courier, the young giant made the trip to Morgan to enroll in college.

at that time, Morgan was only two years old and had about 400 students. It has 10 times that number now. Lee drove him there to be sure he arrived.

When they reached the campus they were greeted by a member of the admissions office staff, who happened to be just under five feet tall.

The man looked skyward at the young prospect and exclaimed: "My goodness, you're the biggest man I'VE EVER SEEN. Why, you're big as a house!"

Today, at age 49, 285 pounds and 6-foot-4, Clarence E. (Big-house) Gaines is nearing his 500th victory as coach of the Winston-Salem (N.C.) State University basketball team.

"The 'Clarence' has long since been discarded. He's simply Bighouse. National Collegiate Athletic Association records show Gaines, in 25 years as head coach at Winston-Salem, with a 492-210 record through last March. It's the top figure in the NCAA college division. The next biggest winner, among active coaches, through last season, was Dom Roselli of Youngstown State in Ohio. For 28 years his record was 445-269. In terms of total victories, Skorich, an assistant Browns coach since 1964, was named head coach in 1971 after Blanton Collier retired. In two seasons, he has stretched his record to 19 victories and nine defeats.

"I expect the entire staff to be back, and we can concentrate on getting the job done," Skorich said Tuesday. "Having a contract of this length is helpful in dealing with players.

"I'm very happy with both the financial arrangements and the length of the contract."

Gaines is second only to Johnny Wooden of perennial university division champion UCLA, who was 583-154 for 26 seasons through last March.

Winston-Salem has a 6-0 record in this, the 26th year at the helm for Gaines, and makes its next start Friday night against North Carolina Central in the opening game of a two-night tournament in Charlotte.

The Gaines Rams need a victory over Central and another Saturday in the finals against the Johnson C. Smith-Benedict semifinal winner to reach the magic No. 500.

Gaines recalled in a telephone interview that he played four years of varsity football as a tackle and also was on the basketball team at Morgan State.

He chuckled as he continued, "In those days we had a small squad and you played both offense and defense. You played every dog, cat and puppy you had. I wasn't much of a basketball player. But at 6-foot-3 I was the big man and got the rebounds to feed the ball to the guys who could shoot."

During his final year at Morgan, an offer came to join Winston-Salem State staff as an assistant coach. "Back then, when you were a coach, you coached everything," he explained. "I was an assistant in football, basketball, track and 'supervised' the boxing team."

After one year as an assistant, he moved up to the head post in basketball and in 1950 took on the added duties of athletic director.

He almost didn't enter coaching. "I had been accepted for dental school at Howard University in Washington, D.C., but I didn't have any money to continue my education, so I took the coaching offer," Gaines said.

He hesitates to single out a "favorite" team, explaining it wouldn't be "fair to pick out favorite teams or player," but he did get particular pleasure from his 1967 team what won the NCAA college division championship.

Stu Lantz scoring eight of his 37 points in the closing minutes Tuesday night, the Pistons, cellar-dwellers in the Midwest Division, beat first-place Milwaukee for the second time in a row 112-105, the first time they've managed that feat since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar joined the Bucks in 1969-70.

Meanwhile, the Cavaliers, with one of the worst records in the league, snapped Atlanta's five-game winning streak, beating the Hawks for the second time in three meetings 115-96 and knocking them out of a virtual tie with Baltimore for first place in the Central Division.

Elsewhere, Boston turned back New York 115-106, Baltimore trounced Buffalo 121-104, Chicago whipped Kansas City-Omaha 117-103, Houston shaded Phoenix 113-110, Los Angeles crushed Portland 116-92 and Seattle edged Golden State 97-95.

State, W. Va. Arrive Today

ATLANTA (AP) — Combatants arrive today for 3 p.m. workouts in preparation for Friday night's Peach Bowl football clash, in which defense is billed as the key.

North Carolina State Coach Lou Holtz said, "I don't mean that we're going to be playing a nothing-to-nothing game," against West Virginia. "But the team that plays the most consistent defense for the night should win."

The West Virginia Mountaineers were scheduled to arrive in Atlanta by plane at 12:20 p.m., with the Wolfpack of North Carolina State arriving a few minutes later.

Duke Travels To Vegas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke University will represent the Atlantic Coast Conference and perhaps do a little gambling on their own tonight when they travel to Las Vegas to take part in the annual Las Vegas Holiday Classic.

Duke will put its 4-2 record on the table against Las Vegas in the second game at 12:00 p.m. (EST). Purdue and Arizona will meet in the first game at 10:00 p.m. (EST).

Both losses coach Bucky Waters' Blue Devils have suffered were in their two previous tournaments this month. Duke lost in the finals of the Cable Car Classic to highly rated San Francisco 72-68. In the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, the Devils fell to 11th ranked North Carolina, 91-86, after enjoying an eight point edge during the game.

"The experience on the road is good," Waters said. "But of course it would be more helpful to win one. Nevada is fresh from a win against Oral Roberts, the tenth-ranked team in the nation. They should present us with a tough challenge on their home court."

Nevada features one of the top sophomores in the nation with 6-foot-9 Jimmy Baker. He led all freshmen in the nation in scoring last season with a 36.7 scoring average and a 22.4 rebounding average.

Five of the remaining ACC teams also play in holiday tournaments this week. The lone holdout is fourth-ranked North Carolina State, which is idle until Jan. 2.

North Carolina, 7-1, will play in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, which starts today and runs through Saturday. The Tar JAMESVILLE — The Jamesville High School girls are in a rebuilding year this season, with only one senior and one junior among the 13 on the team. "We are nearly without experience," Coach George Hall said. "And right now we're also not aggressive enough, too. We just haven't matured."

But things are not all dark. For with 11 sophomores and freshman, the future appears to be bright. "As soon as we do get the experience and maturity, this could be a very good team,"

Hall says. He feels he has a couple of good sophomores. "Donna Williams is our best shooter, and she may be the best in the conference. We don't have a lot of height, however, Kitty Tetterton at 5-7 is about our tallest girl. Terry Hardison, another with height, is coming around, but she's largely inexperienced."

Hall feels that the youngsters becoming acclimated to the faster pace of girls' basketball during the past two seasons has slowed some members of the team down.

Another sophomore who is a coming shooter is Debbie Leggett. "She also lacks experience," Hall adds.

"Donna is our number one player. The others are working hard, however, but still that overall experience hurts us. We've got to get more aggressive and quicker."

Williams and Lynette Ghee are the only starters back from last year's team.

"Our shooting can be good," Hall said, "but we're not getting the good shots because of our ball handling. Pressure worries us, and that's inexperience showing again. We're not hitting the open girls."

Rebounding so far has been adequate. "It's improved over last year," Hall said. "Donna's our leader, but Terry Hardison is also doing a good job. I feel we can hold our own especially on the defensive boards."

A problem, however is the lack of speed and quickness.

Defensively, the Lady Bullets have run a zone most of the time. "It's done an adequate job, but we've been getting a lot of jump balls because we don't really fight for the ball. The other teams aren't hurting us as much as our own mistakes."

Currently, Jamesville is starting Ghee, Williams, Hardison, Tetterton and Leggett. "We have to mature to be a good team," Hall said. "The experience has come to come, and we've got to learn those basketball skills."

So Jamesville's future may not be this year. But with the experience they'll build this year, they may be the team to watch for the next couple of years.

Cellar-Dwellers Hope To Shake Things Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Pistons and Cleveland Cavaliers aren't going anywhere in the National Basketball Association and they're doing their best to bring the Milwaukee Bucks and Atlanta Hawks down to their level.

With Stu Lantz scoring eight of his 37 points in the closing minutes Tuesday night, the Pistons, cellar-dwellers in the Midwest Division, beat first-place Milwaukee for the second time in a row 112-105, the first time they've managed that feat since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar joined the Bucks in 1969-70.

Meanwhile, the Cavaliers, with one of the worst records in the league, snapped Atlanta's five-game winning streak, beating the Hawks for the second time in three meetings 115-96 and knocking them out of a virtual tie with Baltimore for first place in the Central Division.

Elsewhere, Boston turned back New York 115-106, Baltimore trounced Buffalo 121-104, Chicago whipped Kansas City-Omaha 117-103, Houston shaded Phoenix 113-110, Los Angeles crushed Portland 116-92 and Seattle edged Golden State 97-95.

American Basketball Association scores: Dallas 131, Virginia 126; Kentucky 129, Indiana 120; Utah 119, Memphis 112; Denver 103, San Diego 101. Cleveland, which had lost its last nine games, outbounded the Hawks 65-41 while the Cleveland backcourt duo of Austin Carr and Lenny Wilkens combined for 50 points, 26 for Carr. Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 27.

Detroit's Lantz took over after the Pistons blew an 11 point lead in the final period and trailed 103-102. He made two baskets and four free throws to pace the Pistons' late drive. Abdul-Jabbar had 32 points for the Bucks but it wasn't enough to preserve their seven-game winning streak, a streak which started following their last loss to the Pistons on Dec. 9.

Dave Cowens scored 39 points and John Havlicek 31 in Boston's win over New York, which boosted the Celtics' Atlantic Division lead over the Knicks to 2½ games. Walt Frazier had 29 for the losers.

A run of 13 straight points in the third period shot Baltimore from a shaky 54-50 lead against Buffalo to a commanding 67-50 spread.

running back Stan Fritts, who suffered a knee injury in the Wolfpack's final game of the season, to be ready to play by Friday. Fritts scored 106 points for North Carolina State during the regular season.

Mike Stultz, an All-Atlantic Coast Conference defensive back for the Wolfpack, said West Virginia's speed will be a major factor in the game.

"They're a well-rounded team," West Virginia quarterback Bernie Galiffa said of North Carolina State.

"Personnelwise, I'd compare them to Tulane among the teams we played."

The Mountaineers downed Tulane 31-19.

Grapplers Win Third Tourney

COLLEGE PARK, Ma. — East Carolina's wrestlers continued to roll along as they took their third tournament win recently by capturing the Maryland Federation Open Wrestling Tournament. The Pirates beat the next closest team, Clarion State, by 30 points, 78½-48½.

The other teams in the top five were, Waynesburg 35½, Yale 34½, and Towson St. 26.

The Bucs grappled off four individual titles as well as taking three fourths and another Pirate, wrestling as an independent, took a second. In the 126 pound weight class, Dan Monroe defended his title that he won last year by pinning Jim Blair, in 5:59. Blair, also from ECU, was ineligible to wrestle with the team but took the second as the independent.

At 134, Jim McCloe defeated John Chakamakias by a decision, 6-1. Mill Sherman, wrestling at 142, dethroned Rich Madson of the University of Miami of Ohio, 7-1, for first place in that class. Bill Hill, 177, sank a Navy midshipman, John Christiansen, 11-6.

The three Bucs to take fourths were at 118, Bob Vroom, Glenn Baker, 126, and Tim McAteer took a fourth in the 150 pound class.

The Pirates now have three tourneys to their credit. During November, they took the Thanksgiving Invitational with five champions. They won the North Carolina Collegiate Tournament with eight champs and this one held in Maryland.

ECU will be trying to make it four this Thursday as they travel to Wilkesboro, Pennsylvania to participate in the Wilkes Open. Competition will continue through Friday.

Williamston Girls Have High Hopes

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston High School girls, who won the Albemarle Conference championship for the past two years, were almost wiped out by graduation this year, but there is still a lot of hope.

While no starters from last year's team return, there are five lettermen to build around, and they've gotten the Tigerettes off to a good start, losing only one game prior to the holiday break.

"We are very young and inexperienced," Coach Susan Cox said. "The last game, we played mainly freshmen and sophomores." The whole team is dominated by these two classes, with only four seniors and one junior on the roster.

"But the girls are learning fast and coming on very fast," Coach Cox added.

The Tigerettes are about as tall as they were last year, but they don't have the jumping ability. There are four girls who are 5-7 or better, Miss Cox says.

"We are quicker than in the past, and this helps a little in offsetting the jumping ability's diminishing," she said. "If we can get the rebound and get it out, we can run the fast break on about anyone and score."

Rebounding so far, however, hasn't been what Coach Cox would like. "We're not really blocking out like we should" she said. "But I think this is mainly due to the lack of experience." Shooting has improved with every game, Miss Cox said. "But our defense is what keeps us going. We are able to put on the press and do a good job with it." The offense, however, hasn't clicked as yet.

The starting lineup changes around from game to game, the coach said. Who starts depends on who's doing the job. The five usually come from Sherry Roberson, Sissy Taylor, Fran Hardison, Pam Warren, Bett Brandon, Jancet Thigpen, Nancy Williams and Debbie Warren. "We depend on these girls both as starters and as reserves. They are doing all the playing for us," Miss Cox said.

In the Albemarle race, however, Williamston is not the favorite this year, Gates County draws that position. "They are almost all seniors, and they have two girls who can bomb you from way out. The rest of the conference appears to be well-balanced. I do think Gates can be beaten and they still have to play us here. I don't think they can shoot as well as they did at their place, and if we're ready we can beat them."

But the major problem for the Tigerettes continues to be the lack of experience. How quickly it comes and how soon the girls gain confidence in themselves will tell a lot about the Williamston final record. "We need floor leadership," Miss Cox said. "If we can get that, we'll be all right."

Ten College Teams Go Into Tournaments This Week

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Michigan Wolverines are in a field of 10 Holiday Festival basketball teams, but seemingly in a class all by themselves.

"Their starting team is as good as any starting unit in the country," says Boston College Coach Bob Zuffelato. "It's going to take a great effort to beat them in this tourney."

The Wolverines displayed some of that strength and practically ran Boston College out of Madison Square Garden with an 88-70 victory Tuesday night.

With their success in Tuesday night's quarterfinals, the Big Ten club raced into the semifinals of this 21st annual event. They'll play Thursday night against the winner of today's St. John's-Tennessee game.

South Carolina, another of the leading teams in the Holiday Festival, also earned a semifinal berth with a 80-64 triumph over Villanova Tuesday night. The Gamecocks will be matched in Thursday night's other semifinal game against the winner of today's contest between Niagara and Manhattan.

Because of the enlarged field this year, some teams were forced to play extra games Tuesday afternoon. St. John's made today's quarterfinals by bombing Grambling 112-86 and Manhattan beat North Carolina A&T 73-61.

The Wolverines, with Campy Russell scoring 20 points and Henry Wilmore adding 12, rolled to a 47-30 halftime lead.

Wilmore finished with 31 points. Russell had 29.

Dave Walker scored 20 points and Mark Raterink contributed 17 and 12 rebounds to the Boston attack.

In Tuesday night's second game, South Carolina's Alexander English, who scored 23 points and collected 13 rebounds, was one of the key rookies for the Gamecocks, who had as many as three freshman on the floor at the same time. Tom Inglesby paced Villanova with 22.

Bill Schaeffer scored 40 points to lead St. John's while Mike Moore was Manhattan's big gun with 19.

Elsewhere Tuesday, Rutgers edged Florida 81-79 in overtime and Jacksonville downed Miami, Ohio 66-59 in the opening round of the Gator Bowl tourney at Jacksonville, Fla.

In other major games, Memphis State routed Cornell 90-64 and Wisconsin-Milwaukee beat Long Island University 80-69.

Rutgers earned the right to meet Jacksonville for the Gator Bowl title tonight, nipping Florida on Steve DiPeri's rebound basket with eight seconds remaining in overtime. John Sogoyi led Rutgers with 25 points, while Florida's Tony Miller took game scoring honors with 31 points.

Butch Taylor paced Jacksonville's victory with 20 points. Phil Lumpkin topped Miami, Ohio with 14 points.

Larry Finch's career high 35 points helped Memphis State win its fourth consecutive game. Finch got hot during a three-minute stretch late in the first period, sinking five straight shots.

Harold Lee's 25 points and Mark Ewing's 20 keyed Wisconsin-Milwaukee's triumph over LIU. Fred Gibson had 28 points for the losers.

Issel Thinks Colonels Can Improve, Half Game Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kentucky's Dan Issel sees room for improvement even though the Colonels have won 14 of their last 15 American Basketball Association games.

"I hope we continue to get better," he said after the Colonels whipped the Indiana Pacers 129-120 Tuesday night and climbed within one-half game of idle Carolina in the Eastern Division. "We'd like to continue to improve as the season goes on and be really going by the time of the playoffs."

Elsewhere, Utah, the Western leader, opened a 2½-game lead over Indiana by defeating Virginia 131-126 and Denver Memphis 119-112, Dallas shaded nipped San Diego 103-101.

How Good Are The Trojans?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — How good are the Southern California Trojans, the nation's top-ranked college football team? Their coach, Jim McKay, said Tuesday: "The O.J. Simpson team of 1968 had some good athletes but there were some athletes on that team who would not suit up on this team."

Otherwise, rival Rose Bowl coaches McKay and Woody Hayes of Ohio State reiterated superlatives at the annual Southern California Football Writers Association pre-Rose Bowl luncheon.

Speed of the 11-0 Trojan team was a primary topic.

"It has a lot of speed," said McKay of his team, and for the umpteenth time he judged "This is the greatest team I've had at USC."

The 1968 Simpson-led Trojans lost only once—to Ohio State 27-16 in the Rose Bowl.

Of the Trojans' speed, Hayes said, "No question about it. They are faster than Michigan, faster than we are, faster than anybody."

The Buckeye squad, 9-1 and ranked No. 3 in the nation, is not the best Ohio State team under Hayes. He said his Rose Bowl team of two years ago—a 27-17 loser to Stanford—is more comparable to the 1972 Trojans.

Ohio State this year doesn't have the big name players, such as Rex Kern, John Brockington and Jack Tatum, Hayes noted.

The Trojans are two touchdown favorites.

"We hope to go out there and play well enough to win. If we don't," he joked, "we'll have to go into the lockerroom and think of some excuses."

Texas Is Wary Of Tide Wishbone

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Texas defensive coach Mike Campbell says he doesn't know why, but Wishbone offenses give the Longhorns more trouble than any other formation.

"It shouldn't be that way because we look at the offense every day," says Campbell, who is in charge of stopping Alabama's high-powered Wishbone in the 37th Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

Emory Ballard, now head coach at Texas A&M.

Alabama Coach Paul Bryant, after extensive talks with Royal, switched to the offense in 1970. The Crimson Tide opened with a victory over Southern California and have only lost twice since—to Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and to Auburn in the last game of this regular season.

Texas has compiled a 9-1 season record and its fifth consecutive Southwest Conference title. The Longhorns intercepted 21 passes, with Tommy Keel leading the team with four.

Alabama is ranked fourth and owns a 10-1 record as it enters its 26th bowl appearance—its 14th straight since Bryant became coach. Alabama is 12-10-3 in bowl games.

Texas, making its 20th post-season appearance, is 11-5-2.

The Longhorns are 5-0-1 against Alabama. A Bryant-coached team has never beaten a Royal-tutored outfit. Bryant is 0-2-1 against Royal.

It arrives in the mail like clockwork, once a month, every month. A check for one hundred dollars. The proceeds of an investment that's as safe as having your money in a vault. And, no bank pays out this kind of money.

In fact, as far as income is concerned, a maximum security check actually outperforms most stocks.

But, unlike an investment in stocks and bonds, there is no way you can lose your money.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation underwrites each maximum security account up to twenty thousand dollars.

That's how much it takes to earn that hundred dollars check each month. Twenty thousand dollars invested for at least two years.

Truman Women Took News In Style, Grace

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The widow and daughter of former President Harry S. Truman took the news of his death "with the great style and grace they have always exhibited," a family friend says.

Randall Jessee, public affairs director of the Kansas City regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency, said Bess Truman was notified by telephone and took it "with the same fortitude and calmness with which she has faced all of this."

Margaret Truman Daniel, the couple's only child, also was at the home when the news came, having returned from her home in New York to her father's bedside on Christmas Day.

"They both have taken this with the great style and grace they have always exhibited," said Jessee, who had been a family spokesman throughout the 88-year-old former chief executive's illness.

He added that Mrs. Truman's "loyalty and devotion were fabulous. The vigil was a very trying thing for her physically." Truman was hospitalized three weeks before death came.

The 87-year-old Mrs. Truman, called "The Boss" by her husband, spent most of the day at the family home, her birthplace. Despite grief, she answered the phone, Jessee said, noting, "She had great composure and she is a great lady."

Her aversion to news conferences and interviews remains although photographers were able to snap her picture, along with her daughter, during a brief stroll.

During the final illness, Mrs. Daniel met with newsmen at Research Hospital and Medical Center. Her comments and answers were welcomed by newsmen subsisting on a diet of brief announcements in terse medical terminology.

Jessee could recall only once that Mrs. Truman seemed anxious to make a public statement and that was in 1953 when the Trumans returned to Independence after their White House years.

Jessee, then a Kansas City broadcaster, said he extended a microphone toward the former First Lady and asked how it felt to return to her hometown for good.

"I've been waiting 19 years for this," she replied.

State's Leaders Join In Truman Tributes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political leaders from both parties in North Carolina have joined in paying tribute to former President Harry Truman.

Gov. Bob Scott issued a statement eulogizing Truman when he learned of the Missourian's death Tuesday. Scott said he would attend the memorial service Thursday.

Scott's successor, Republican Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser, said Truman was a "fighter to the very end and it was this quality that endeared him to all citizens regardless of their political persuasion."

"President Truman took over the leadership of our nation at one of its most difficult times in history," Holshouser said. "Not every decision he made was popular, yet history will judge him as one of our greatest presidents."

He added, "I know I join all North Carolinians in mourning the passing of one of the great champions of the so-called

'little people.'"

Sen.-elect Jesse Helms recalled that Truman "when out of his way to be kind to me when I was in Washington more than two decades ago," as an administrative aide to two North Carolina senators.

Helms said Truman had earned a place in history as a man of "intense loyalty and immense courage. He came along at a time when the country needed a man with the strength of his convictions."

Scott said that Truman had maintained a personal friendship with Scott's parents, Gov. and Mrs. W. Kerr Scott. He recalled that Truman sent him a congratulatory note when he was elected lieutenant governor in 1964.

He said, "As I came into public office, I recalled and knew to be so very true the meaning of two expressions he so often used: 'If you can't stand the heat get out of the kitchen,' and 'The buck stops here.'"

Holshouser, Helms, and Scott were only three of many Tar Heels who issued public statements or expressed their brief privately. At Scott's order, all state and national flags were lowered to half-staff.

Students, Prof Safe

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A cable has been received by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington indicating that a professor and two students missing in earthquake-torn Nicaragua are safe.

A spokesman for the University of North Carolina at Wilmington reported Tuesday night that a cable from Doctor Ralph Brauer was received about 9:00 p.m. Tuesday. The cable read, "All is well after earthquake. Please advise parents."

The middle initial stood, he said often, for either one of his grandfathers — Anderson Shippe Truman and Solomon Young.

A reporter once asked about his preference — period or none.

"It doesn't matter to me, one way or another — do as you like," he said, and use of the period became official.

It appears on stationery of the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, on the cover page of the three books he wrote, and — most recently — on the jacket of the biography written by daughter Margaret.

Period Was HST Sore Spot

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman had no middle name and it caused no end of confusion, particularly to typesetters.

He signed his full name with a continuous stroke that allowed no use of a period after the S, and it was commonly assumed he preferred it that way.

Tributes Come From Around The World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Colleagues of former President Harry S. Truman, many members of Congress and others have saluted him as a courageous national leader, a humanitarian and a friend of the "little guy."

And leaders of nations allied with the United States over the past three decades eulogized the former chief executive today for his leadership in the aftermath of World War II.

Truman died Tuesday in a Kansas City hospital at the age of 88.

Charles F. Brennan, Truman's secretary of agriculture from 1948-53, called Truman a "decision maker in that he took a minimum amount of time to reach his conclusions." He added: "History will show that none of his major decisions were proven wrong."

Retiring U.S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, 77, who served as Truman's secretary of agriculture from 1945 until Brennan's appointment, called Truman "a very great president," and a "very competent person. I am grieved and deeply saddened at the death of former President Truman."

Mrs. Georgia Neese Gray, a Topeka, Kan., banker who was Treasurer of the United States under Truman—the first woman ever to hold that office—called him a "great humanitarian. His love for mankind was manifest in his humility ... President Truman epitomized duty as a citizen, soldier and, yes, as a world statesman, though he would detest being termed the latter ... No man

Honorary Citizen

ZEBULON, N.C. (AP)—Harry S. Truman was an honorary citizen of this small farming town near Raleigh, hometown of his son-in-law, Clifton Daniel, associate editor of The New York Times.

Hanging on the wall of T. Ed Hale's office at Hale's Farm Supply is a framed letter from the late president. It thanks the former mayor for making Truman and his wife, Bess, honorary citizens of the town of 1,800 population on one of their visits.

Bombing Mistake

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese fighter-bomber accidentally dropped a bomb in a village 20 miles northeast of Saigon today, killing nine civilians and wounding 10, field reports said.

Six homes were reported destroyed.

The cause of the accident was under investigation. The village is about five miles north of the Bien Hoa Air Base. The F5 plane had just taken off from the base.

in the history of our nation had a clearer and more exalted insight into the true meaning of politics."

George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said he had great admiration for Truman, "particularly because he was a fighter. He didn't give up when he was supposed to be licked. He did typify true democracy, the right and ability to rise from the level of the farm or shop to the highest office in the land. He had courage and he dared to do the unpopular thing when he felt such action was in the interest of his country ... I hope the time will never come when our country has no Harry Truman."

King Constantine of Greece, whose country was the chief beneficiary of the Truman Doctrine, said it "saved Greece from the greatest danger that ever threatened her."

Lord Avon, Sir Winston Churchill's foreign minister and successor as Britain's prime minister, called Truman "certainly one of the greatest presidents."

Queen Elizabeth II — "He will always be remembered with gratitude for his part in the creation of the Marshall Plan, which did so much to help Britain and the rest of Europe to recover from the ravages of war."

President Georges Pompidou of France — "France, which does not forget the role the United States played in its rebuilding under the impetus of President Truman, feels deeply the sorrow of the American people."

President Chung Hee Park of South Korea — "We are saddened at the loss of this distinguished world statesman whose heroic leadership and decisions during World War II and in the 1950s to save freedom and liberty in Korea and elsewhere will continue to be remembered with a sense of abiding appreciation."

Council Sees Economic Turn

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Council of Economic Advisers predicted today that 1973 will bring "rapid expansion and a reduced rate of inflation" and hinted at possible substantial changes in the wage-price control system.

In a year-end statement on the economic outlook, the council warned that deceleration of the wage-price spiral will require stern budgetary curbs and congressional restraint.

Council Chairman Herbert Stein, who read the statement at a news conference, told newsmen that recommendations for changes in the Phase 2 control system might be ready within the next month. The statement said:

"The price-wage control system needs to be adapted to get the maximum benefit from it without allowing it to become a drag on economic efficiency and vitality as we go through 1973.

"The administration has been consulting intensively with all sectors of the community about the necessary changes. The administration's recommendations on this subject are still being developed."

The present control law will expire April 30. In response to a question on the future of rent ceilings under the coming Phase 3 program, Stein replied:

"Everybody would agree that we are on our way out of the rent control business, but the pace at which we get out of it remains for later decisions."

Trade Deficit Takes Big Leap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's trade deficit took a sharp turn for the worse in November, mainly because of record-high imports, the Commerce Department said today.

The department said the deficit reached $559.2 million last month. This brought the deficit for the first 11 months of 1972 to a seasonally adjusted $5.8 billion, easily making it the worst year in international commerce in history for the United States.

The report cast doubt on Nixon administration claims that the trade deficit had turned around and was showing real signs of improvement.

ports climbed to $5.027 billion, topping the previous record by $248 million set in October. Exports were valued at $4.468 billion.

A trade deficit occurs when the value of imports from foreign countries exceeds exports. The result is a reflection on U.S. competitiveness with other countries as well as new pressures on the dollar overseas.

While the international situation worsened, the economic news domestically was better. The department also reported that its index of leading economic indicators rose 1.9 per cent in November, with six of the eight indicator available improving. There are 12 indicators in all.

MANY BUSINESSMEN ARE CAUGHT in a "profit squeeze" these days. The cost of operating a business is going up. Credit and collection problems may actually mean a loss in earnings.

ONE LOCAL BUSINESSMAN who operates his (or her) own business in your neighborhood is affected by the profit squeeze. The young carrier-salesman who delivers your newspaper every day can have collection problems too.

IT'S IMPORTANT TO your carrier to collect in full from every customer. When a customer is slow in paying, or asks the carrier to come back time after time, there's that much less profit for the carrier.

YOU CAN HELP these young businessmen avoid the "profit squeeze" by having your payment ready for your carrier on the very first call.

THANKS FOR HELPING.

Guilt Follows Many Teen Abortions

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Family News Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — After an abortion is a teen-age girl fancy free or full of guilt? Does she have nightmares? Or—does she feel abortion offers a quick solution to a problem pregnancy and quickly resume her sexually active life without a thought?

Such questions are the type Drs. James H. Egan and Eugene J. Mahon of St. Luke's Hospital in New York attempted to answer by interviewing a dozen teen-agers who had abortions months earlier.

The doctors from the hospital's division of child psychiatry held from three-to-five in-depth interviews with each girl. They reported on their findings at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Child Psychiatry in New Orleans.

"A lingering sense of guilt for having destroyed the fetus was present in many girls," the psychiatrists reported.

"It was this sense of guilt that largely produced the symptoms (headache, insomnia, depressive equivalents) and was at the root of changes in behavior."

The changes in behavior included, in some girls, less sexual activity and less enjoyment of sex. Some avoided their peers in the sexual arena. This avoidance was accompanied by a deep distrust of men and a general sense of bitterness. The girls called such feelings maturity.

"Pseudo-maturity would be a more accurate description," the psychiatrists reported, "for beneath the facade of maturity lay poor self-esteem, insecurity and mistrust and not the psychological substrate that would promote developmental growth and maturation."

The study of these girls, mean age 15 years and seven months, also showed that guilt pervaded the dreams of some in the post-abortion period.

Writing Shows Guilt

Guilt also found its way into the poems and short stories of another. Guilt produced regressive infantile behavior in others. "In some girls the sense of guilt produced fears about the infactness of their reproductive organs and fertility, fears that could only be put to rest by subsequent pregnancy," the doctors reported.

"One girl felt in a sort of primitive fashion that expiation of her guilt could only be accomplished by becoming pregnant again."

The girls in the study were from lower socio-economic backgrounds. Black and Puerto Rican, they lived in Harlem and places like Harlem. They had abortions during the first year abortion was legalized in New York state. No one knows if they are typical of the teen-agers who were among the 168,000 females undergoing abortion during the first year of legal abortions in the state.

Among conclusions made by the doctors were these:

"It is not surprising that the awesome existential facts of pregnancy and abortion should produce profound but subtle change in an adolescent's psyche."

"It is surprising that such an important event in the developmental life of a young girl is met with so little help from parent, peer or professional."

"To offer elective abortion to an adolescent without offering counseling to her family and boyfriend and, of course, herself, is to prepare her for a post-abortion period of guilt, ambivalence and depression that may have significant effects on her behavior and personality."

"Failure to recognize that indiscriminate elective abortion without counseling is psychologically hazardous and in certain cases contra-indicated is a demonstration of insensitivity to the psychology of the adolescent and a misuse of an important treatment modality.

During the analyses the doctors also learned a bit about why the girls wanted to get pregnant in the first place.

Reasons ranged from "getting even with a father who abandoned them" to "reinsuring themselves of femininity." They included the wish to have a baby to placate the boyfriend or to undo the guilt for a past abortion. One girl stated that she had to get pregnant again after an abortion or she would have gone crazy thinking about what she'd done.

"Do you ever wish you had the baby?" the doctors asked.

The girls' replies included:

"Sometimes when I'm lonely I wish I did have the baby so I wouldn't be all by myself."

"Even now I wish I had it sometimes, when I'm by myself; that I had something that would be mine."

Got Out Of A Rat Race

TORONTO (AP) — Three years ago advertising executive Ray Senior decided enough was ENOUGH.

He opted out of the rat race and became a weaver.

In Toronto for the opening of a new craft boutique where his woven wallhangings are sold, Senior now calls himself an "environmentalist."

As president of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Co., he said his life was a combination of high-priced decisions and elegant dinner parties.

"I told the people at the office I was going to be an environmentalist," he said. "They told me I was crazy."

He moved to Hudson, Que., made a country home into a studio and then got to work with the weaver's loom and potter's wheel.

"I think it was hard at first for my wife to adjust from the life of an executive's wife to the life of an artist, but now she's into the artistic thing herself," he said.

Senior said he probably works harder now than he did as an advertising man.

His big problem now, he said, is not to get carried away with his success so that he's producing art work the way he once churned out executive decisions in the advertising world.

Tattoos Dangerous

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A Navy doctor wants to do away with tattoos.

Capt. William Carson, M.D., head of dermatology at San Diego Naval Hospital, says the traditional needlework is not only painful and hard to remove but also medically dangerous.

He says California should shut down tattoo parlors.

"New York has already done it," said Carson. "I am surprised that a state as progressive as California has made no major move to stop it."

He says tattoos can turn into a major allergic infection or bring on the risk of hepatitis from the needles.

Got Her Man's Job

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Mrs. Edwina Caldwell applied to the city for a job as a truck driver, couldn't get one, but did get another municipal job. She is Charlotte's first woman water-meter reader.

She walks eight to 10 miles a day, reporting her readings to the office by walkie-talkie.

She has been on the job about a month and says her male co-workers treat her as if she has always been there.

Sparks Cause Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Firemen say sparks from a chimney apparently started a $230,000 Christmas Day fire which roared through a dozen homes in suburban Westwood.

No injuries were reported from the blaze which routed several families from their homes on the holiday.

Gusty winds hampered the more than 100 firemen who fought the fire for two hours.

The Worry Clinic American Youth Is Resourceful

Roberta typifies the resourcefulness of American youth. Our Republic was founded by such independent thinkers. George Washington used similar "horse sense" to salvage Braddock's fleeing army. Remind teenagers that "Eagles don't flock."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M. D.
CASE V-580: Roberta Claypool

"Dr. Crane, you may be surprised at how she did it!"

"For she rented a 30-foot U-Haul truck for $66. Then she drove her own auto up a ramp and into this truck. "After that, she neatly loaded her furniture, thereon, plus her cat. "A Japanese woman who wished to go to Phoenix, became her traveling companion. "And Roberta completed the trip in 2 1/2 days. "She was stopped once by a highway policeman who was surprised to find a young woman driving such a big truck! Resourceful Roberta Roberta's resourcefulness merits a salute. For it is this quality of American youth which has kept the U. S. A. in front of all nations

Yorty To Play Mayor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty has turned actor for a bit part in a movie being filmed for television. But the job did not call for him to memorize any lines. Yorty was hired to play a role he is familiar with — the mayor of a large U.S. city — and one which is selected as the site of a beauty pageant. On the set of "The Great American Beauty Contest" at a hotel Friday, the mayor said of his work: "I do it every once in a while. It's nothing new." Then he took his place before the cameras and ad libbed responses as girls playing beauty contestants were introduced by actor Robert Cummings. "They all look good," he said of the cast when the filming was over. Yorty recently appeared in a segment of the Lucille Ball television series. "Beauty Contest" is scheduled for release in February on ABC.

Tucson Believes It Is Model City, And Government Agrees

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS NEW YORK (UPI)—What is a Model City?

Tucson, Ariz., thinks it has one—and HUD (the Department of Housing and Urban Development) seems to agree.

The federal agency recently granted the city permission to double the area of Model City development there to 12 square miles in the western end of Tucson. Among the residents of this section, half the families had annual income less than $3,600, half the homes were substandard, and 40 per cent were overcrowded.

Why is Tucson's Model City considered a prototype?

Those who have spearheaded the development over the past two years say it is because Tucson is succeeding in bringing government and private resources to bear not on a single problem such as housing, but on all the elements that cause deterioration in cities throughout the country.

Tucson's Model City program includes:

- New housing.
- Subsidized do-it-yourself improvement of existing homes.
- Shopping centers.
- Parks for greenery and space among the homes.
- Improved street lighting for safety and beauty; 22 miles of dirt roads converted to clean, paved streets; improved drainage.
- Plans for a mass transit program.
- Improved education: kindergarten classes have been started, and the children are showing the equivalent of two years development in their first year of schooling; bilingual teacher's aides work in the schools with Spanish-speaking children; a bilingual educational television program for children and evening classes for adults have been implemented.
- Improved nutrition: free breakfasts and lunches for all children in the community's schools; free baby formula to assure proper nutrition for infants.
- Better health care: free medical and dental examinations for all school children.
- Child care centers for working mothers.

—For the unemployed (they averaged 21 per cent of the area's population, compared with 3.8 per cent for the city as a whole): a program of job and skill training, income maintenance during training, and job placement.

Residents Involved

In all this, residents themselves were actively involved in the planning and execution of the program.

It was costly. To date, $8 million of federal, local and private funds have been invested. But authorities are convinced the investment will be paying dividends. One shopping center has added $1.75 million to the tax rolls; another is planned. The rehabilitation has strengthened the city's tax base by boosting by $3 million the values of properties that long had been stagnant and a drain on the financial resources of the city.

One of the motivators of the Tucson Model City was City Manager Roger O'Mara; another was Cressworth C. Lander, director of the Model Cities program. Both give large measure of credit to a Tucson businessman, Martin Ginsburg, who organized the drive and put up private funds.

Ginsburg is a former vice president of and now consultant to Tekton Corp., Chicago-based builder of middle and low-income housing which was acquired by Union Camp Corp. in 1970.

Tekton has $20 million of housing in Tucson, including the Model Cities project. It completed the first major apartment development in the Tucson project, encouraging other private builders to come into the Cities program. Nearly 1,000 housing units are going up now.

Ginsburg intends, when the Model Cities program expands to its second six-square-mile site, to invest more, either as an individual or with Tekton.

Truman Hailed Group's Effort

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—In 1948, a handful of political novices led a fight to get Harry Truman presidential electors on the ballot in South Carolina.

One of the novices, David Baker, now a 53-year-old lawyer in Columbia, says the States' Rights party or Dixiecrats, which had nominated South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond for the presidency, had taken over the Democratic party in the state. This left no way for anyone to vote for Truman, who had a pro-civil rights reputation.

Baker and his friends organized the national Democratic party in the state. They printed ballots and got them recognized in about half the 46 counties.

Truman didn't carry the state, but he acknowledged the efforts of Baker's group by inviting all of them to his inauguration.

Later, the group was included in a gathering of about 150 persons invited to meet Truman. The impersonal assembly was the only time Baker ever met the man he helped get on the ballot in South Carolina.

Baker says that as a young lawyer he declined Truman administration offers of a U.S. attorneyship.

One member of the pro-Truman group, Ashton Williams, was named a federal judge after the campaign.

"You can well imagine that anyone who stuck his neck out then for an unpopular cause was not very well received," Baker recalls. He says he was kidded by some and subjected to racial insults by others after the 1948 campaign. But he has no regrets.

"You know, we all looked at President Truman back then as the president who looked after the little man. We did not expect great things from this man. It just vindicated us to see that we supported this man, who probably will turn out to be one of our greatest presidents."

Brown, Memphis Talks Broken

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Attempts to settle a dispute between black singer James Brown and the city of Knoxville over the entertainer's arrest two weeks ago have broken down, spokesmen for the city and Brown have said.

The announcement of the end of negotiations came in slightly differing statements Tuesday afternoon after Knoxville Mayor Kyle Testerman spent most of the day waiting to meet with the soul singer or his representatives at city hall.

Both sides agreed that the matter would be settled in court but there were conflicting versions of how the decision was made.

As Testerman went home at 4:30 p.m. without seeing Brown's representatives, he told newsmen, "as far as I'm concerned, the James Brown episode is closed and any further recourse will have to be done in the courts."

About an hour later, Brown's Knoxville radio station, WJBE, reported that Bob Honeycutt, vice president of James Brown Broadcasting, and the singer's attorney, Albert Ingram of Augusta, Ga., had met with city officials and informed them that the negotiations were at an end.

Asked about the conflict in the reports, Guy Smith IV, Testerman's information director, said Ingram and Honeycutt spoke with Law Director Louis Hofferbert briefly in the hallway at City Hall about 45 minutes after the mayor went home. Smith said Hofferbert passed on to the two men the mayor's sentiments.

The mayor and Brown's representatives have met several times since Brown and two of his aides were arrested on disorderly conduct charges at Civic Coliseum the night of Dec. 11. Police said the entertainers failed to obey police orders to clear the auditorium after a Brown concert and then attacked two policemen.

Brown contends that he was attacked by the police officers as he was talking with some teenagers outside the auditorium. He has threatened to sue the city for $1 million.

Test Going Slow So Far

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's new driver's test is supposed to be simpler than the old one, but applicants are taking up to twice the time to complete it.

The new test went into use this week. It combines written questions with pictorial queries, placing more emphasis on the latter than the old test did.

Roy Beasley, an examiner in the Motor Vehicle Department's Driver License Division, said applicants are averaging 30 minutes on the new test, compared with 15 on the old.

The failure rate is about the same—46 per cent for new applicants and 15 per cent for renewals.

A spokesman said the old tests were designed for people who had completed the 11th grade; the new version is supposed to be comprehensible to anyone who reads on a seventh grade level.

The examiners agree that the failure rate is largely due to applicants' failure to read carefully the manuals that the division issues to prospective drivers.

Nurses Attend ECU Workshop

Forty-nine North Carolina nurses are participating in an East Carolina University workshop program, "Confrontation: Value Systems and Abortions."

The two-day program is sponsored by the ECU School of Nursing and the ECU Division of Continuing Education. The first session, held Dec. 8, offered participating nurses opportunities to explore their own value systems regarding abortion and the problems of the patient involved.

Group discussions focused on ways in which the nurse can cope constructively with existing feelings and counterfeelings related to the abortion patient.

A follow-up session on Jan. 23 will focus on the nurse-patient relationship and factors pertinent to helping the patient and others work through their feelings regarding future adjustment in the community.

Workshop staff includes Dr. Ruby Barnes, ECU's Director of Continuing Education in Nursing; Patricia Garton, training specialist with the ECU Mental Health Training Institute; and Avis Rabin, assistant professor of nursing at ECU.

Participating nurses come from clinics and hospitals in 21 North Carolina counties.

Names of participating nurses include:

Greene County, Snow Hill—Rebecca Yoder and Sandra Parker.

Pitt County, Ayden—Bessie McLamb; Greenville—Lenore Morton.

Yukon Has Own Hootch

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (AP) — Scotland has scotch. Kentucky has bourbon. Now the Yukon Territory has its own special liquor, too—Yukon Hootch.

A blend of Canadian and imported rums, Yukon Hootch went on sale last week throughout the territory in conjunction with Klondike '73, a year-long celebration marking the 75th anniversary of the Klondike Gold Rush.

Produced solely for distribution by the Territorial government, Hootch has an alcoholic content about the same as most standard brands of rum and is being sold in 12- and 25-ounce bottles.

Rollie Thibault, Yukon director of liquor control, said the brew originated during Gold Rush days.

Varied Reaction To Word That Survivors Lived By Cannibalism

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Despair and anger followed the disclosure that some of the 16 survivors of an Andean air crash fed on their dead companions to stay alive.

Official sources disclosed Tuesday the cannibalism among the Uruguayan men during their more than two month ordeal on an icy mountain ledge.

A dozen of the survivors staying at a local hotel "were very depressed and went to their rooms immediately" when afternoon papers appeared with the stories a hotel employe said.

The 16 were among 45 persons aboard a Uruguayan air force plane that crashed in the Andes Oct. 13. All of the passengers were either players on a Montevideo rugby team or fans.

The survivors spoke freely with newsmen earlier about everything except their food supply. They said 18 were killed in the crash or died of their injuries within several days, eight more perished in an avalanche Oct. 29 and the last three died in November and early December of injuries or undernourishment.

Most relatives and friends of the survivors refused to discuss the cannibalism but Mrs. Domitila de Paez said the reports "soil the grandest miracle of history." She is the mother of Carlos Paez, 20, one of the survivors.

Mrs. Sara Alvarez de Francois, mother of survivor Roberto Francois, said the reports "are lies, it is criminal that they are spread."

Cesar Charlone, the Uruguayan charge d'affaires in Santiago, said the survivors had made a "solemn pact" to say nothing until they had all returned to Uruguay. There, he said, they planned to make a joint statement.

One survivor reportedly compared the cannibalism to "a heart transplant," the survivors made to save one person's life; in this case portions of the bodies were used to continue a number of lives.

Another survivor described the decision in terms of "the sacred sacrament of communion.

"Had we died, it would have been suicide, which is condemned by our faith," the young man reportedly said.

One of the two survivors who finally hiked down the mountain and found help last week, Fernando Parrado, 23, told newsmen earlier that in the first few days after the crash, "we maintained ourselves with chocolates and jellies" they had purchased in Mendoza, Argentina, en route to Chile.

Men Equal Under New Benefit Law

You generally hear nowadays about women lacking equality with men—but it's been the other way around in figuring retirement benefits under social security, according to William McClure, social security district manager in Greenville.

"For example," McClure said, "a woman of 65 who has always earned the maximum amount that could be credited for social security would get about $269 a month if she retires now. But a man, who is the same age and has exactly the same earnings—would get only $259."

The new social security law will eliminate that difference over the next three years, he said.

Under present law, benefit amounts for both men and women are based on average earnings, but average earnings are figured up to age 62 for women and up to age 65 for men.

"Both men and women can strike out some years of low earnings, but because the different ages are used it works out that men must use three more years of earnings than women do in figuring the average yearly earnings on which the monthly benefit rate is based," McClure said.

Under the new law men who reach 62 in 1973 will be able to drop an additional year of low earnings, men reaching 62 in 1974 will drop an additional 2 years, and men reaching 62 in 1975 will drop an additional 3 years.

Also, reduced benefits will now be provided for nondisabled widowers at age 60, as is now the case for widows.

"So in 1975, at least these respects, men and women will be just alike," McClure said.

Opening lead: Four of ♣ South would have found a pause at the opening gun to be most refreshing in today's hand, inasmuch as the apparently routine four spade contract was in jeopardy.

West opened the four of clubs, and when the dummy was spread, it appeared to the declarer that there was little more to the hand than taking a finesse in trumps. If he succeeded in picking up the king of spades, then he would score 12 tricks—five spades, three diamonds and four clubs.

The queen of clubs won the first trick in the closed hand and the queen of spades was put thru. West followed with the three, North the four, and East was in with the king. The latter shifted to the king of hearts on which West dropped the nine. East continued with the ace and another heart which his partner ruffed with the five of spades.

A club was returned and East trumped to score the fifth trick for his side. The rout was now complete and South conceded a 100 point deficit on the deal.

Had West chosen a heart opening originally, declarer would not have had a chance for the defense obtains an immediate ruff, and then East ultimately scores the setting trick with the king of spades. With the club lead, declarer should have seen to it that his opponents were not offered a second opportunity.

Since South has ample tricks available, he should forgo the spade finesse in the interest of extracting trumps as quickly as possible. After he wins the club opening, he first cashes the ace and king of diamonds. He may lead the queen of spades, but when West follows with a small card, the ace should be played from dummy. The queen of diamonds is played on which South discards a heart.

Another round of trumps follows. If East plays the king and switches to hearts, South can ruff on the third round to provide assurance that West does not score a trick by trumping in case the latter holds a third spade. The last trump is extracted and declarer claims.

His losses on the deal consist of one spade and two hearts.
