Bombing Halt Broadened To All Of North

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The United States broadened on Monday its halt in the bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland to include all of North Vietnam. U.S. officials indicated that the bombing cessation from the 20th parallel 200 miles southward to the demilitarized zone is one of short duration in connection with a 24-hour South Vietnamese cease-fire from the new year that ends at dusk Monday. A unilateral 24-hour Viet Cong cease-fire ended just after noon. The U.S. bombing halt above the 20th parallel, which includes Hanoi and Haiphong, is in effect indefinitely, tied to the resumption of secret peace talks in Paris scheduled Jan. 8. Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported early

Monday a series of statements attributed to captured American pilots. The statements explored the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. One F4 pilot, identified as Maj. Carl Herbert Jefcoat, was quoted as saying U.S. leaders "must take all measures to put an immediate end to the war" in Vietnam. Another, Lt. Col. William Walter Conlee, was quoted as saying: "We observed a row of shops and living quarters which have been bombed and also a hospital which has been badly damaged, and we observed a school that has been bombed heavily." Hungary's MTI news agency said Jefcoat was a lieutenant, however, and said he was from Mississippi. It gave Conlee's home state as Illinois. Other prisoners named were Lt. Paul Louis Granger and Lt. Col. John Harry Yuill, both B52 pilots. Their hometowns were not given. The Saigon command reported more than a score of violations at the halfway mark of the New Year cease-fires. The command said five government soldiers were killed, five missing and 36 wounded. Two civilians also were reported wounded. North Vietnamese and Viet Cong losses were put at six killed. The heaviest fighting was reported in Quang Tri Province in the northern quarter of South Vietnam and in Tay Ninh Province, about 45 miles northwest of Saigon. The Saigon command said North Vietnamese troops hit government positions with 500 artillery and mortar shells and followed up with ground assaults.

There were no attacks reported against American forces. Traditional holiday cease-fires, which always are unsupervised, have been taken in nature and meaningless in effect, since each side always charges the other with scores of violations.

Die On N.C. Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least nine persons have been killed so far in North Carolina traffic accidents over the long New Year's holiday weekend that ends at midnight tonight. The deaths through Sunday brought to a close the bloodiest year ever on the state's highways with at least 1,953 killed. This compared with the previous all-time high of 1,869 in 1968. The Highway Patrol said 1,846 persons died in 1971. The N.C. State Motor Club has predicted that 22 persons may die in traffic accidents during the 78-hour New Year's period.

Charles Wesley Wright, 60, of R.F. 4, Laurinburg, died when his car left U.S. 74 five miles east of Laurinburg and hit a tree Sunday. Helen Louise Baker, 19, of Midway Park, was killed when her car ran off the right side of a rural paved road near Jacksonville and swerved into the path of an oncoming vehicle. Richard Lynn Williams, 19, of Maiden, was killed when the car in which he was a passenger ran off N.C. 16 south of Newton, veered back into the opposite lane and was hit in the side by another vehicle. Gary Lee Matthews, 18, of Faison, died when a speeding car left N.C. 403 just east of Faison in Duplin County and hit a tree, troopers said. Darlene James, 23, of Baltimore, Md., was killed in a two-car crash a half mile east of Wake Forest. The patrol said an oncoming car was passing another vehicle and hit the James auto in the left front.

SHE'S THE NEW YEAR'S FIRST . . . at Pitt Memorial Hospital, but the hours-old unnamed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Gilbert is unconcerned. She sleeps through the picture-taking. The third child of the Gilberts, she was delivered by Dr. Robert Deyton at 5:35 a.m. today and weighs five pounds, 10 ounces. Mrs. Gilbert works at the Lisa Corporation in Grifton and her husband is a school bus driver for the Greenville City Schools. (Reflector Photo by Carol Tyler)

Congress May See Fireworks

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 93rd Congress convenes Wednesday amid indications the coming session could produce more fireworks than any since the late President Harry S. Truman took on the 80th Congress a quarter century ago. Democrats, their Senate majority enlarged to 57 and their House losses held to 12 seats in the Nov. 7 election, are talking of challenging President Nixon on issues ranging from the Vietnam war to federal spending.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the assistant Democratic leader, says he has no doubt that efforts will be made to cut off money for the war unless an agreement is reached in Paris. But he said he personally will not support such efforts during the next 30 days, nor perhaps within the next 60 days, and feels that the real hope for peace lies in the negotiations in Paris.

Questioned Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Byrd offered this list of priorities:

"Hijacking legislation; legislation dealing with highways, trade, the extension of price and wage controls, strip mining, the energy crisis; I think the Congress will come to grips with the issue of separation of powers and I think that it will be more assertive of its rightful place in the constitutional system of checks and balances." Internal reform could set off another battle in the early days of the new Congress. The seniority system of selecting committee chairmen is expected to be tested in the House where a move is under way to persuade the Democratic caucus to elect chairmen instead of appointing them on the basis of seniority. A coalition of some 50 organizations calling itself the Committee on Congressional Reform is pushing for election of chairmen as well as another proposal to ban closed sessions of committees unless personnel matters or national security are being discussed. One perennial Senate fight, over a proposal to modify the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to choke off filibusters, is not expected to come up this session.

Some liberal Democrats who have favored lowering the two-thirds rule to make it easier to cut off debate have had a change of mind. And Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., says he does not anticipate the issue will be raised this session. Some liberals, however, say at least a token effort may be made to modify the rule.

The biggest fights between Nixon and Congress are sure to be over the President's refusal to spend Congress-approved money in his effort to cut federal spending. Another area of conflict is his revenue-sharing approach which turns some of Congress' program control over to states and cities.

The President and Democratic leaders also are at loggerheads over extension of wage-price controls, national health insurance, tax reform, a higher minimum wage and Nixon's government-reorganization plan.

President Quietly Returns To Capital

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon added to his image as a rather secretive loner on New Year's Eve by flying back to Washington from Camp David, Md.

Newsmen and photographers who had gone to the Maryland mountains Thursday, when Nixon flew to his hilltop retreat, had expected him to stay there throughout the holiday weekend.

His departure, minutes after he watched on television as the Washington Redskins captured the National Football Conference championship from the Dallas Cowboys, prompted speculation that he must have invited old friends to an unannounced White House party.

However, acting Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said he knew of no party plans for the chief executive, or of any guests expected at the White House Sunday night.

Warren did disclose that, after returning to the capital, Nixon telephoned congratulations to Redskins Coach George Allen and invited the coach to bring his family to the White House this morning.

Otherwise, said Warren, Nixon had no formal holiday appointment schedule for today. He said Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's Vietnam peace negotiator, is not due back from a California vacation until Tuesday.

Mrs. Nixon, meanwhile, had left earlier for California to participate in today's Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena.

Since winning his landslide re-election victory on Nov. 7 Nixon has followed a pattern that was consistently his throughout the old year. He spent most of his nights away from the White House.

Moreover, there have been no major presidential speeches or press conferences since the balloting. Nixon's only post-election public appearances have been brief. He flew to New York for a weekend of theater-going and strolling, went out to dinner a few times during stays in Florida, and flew to Independence, Mo., last Wednesday to lay a wreath before the casket of former President Harry S. Truman.

In four years, Nixon has made speeches and met the press, but not as frequently as other recent presidents. His 1972 campaign was notable chiefly for its brevity—and its success.

Often described as a rather shy man, the President prefers to make big decisions after studying written reports and memoranda, rather than after engaging in verbal debate.

He has said he can work best at Marine-guarded Camp David, where he can make certain he will not face unwanted interruptions as he studies his opinion papers alone.

Clemente Said Dead In Crash

SAN JUAN, P. R. (AP) — A cargo plane carrying Pittsburgh Pirates' star outfielder Roberto Clemente and four others on a relief flight to Nicaragua crashed into the Atlantic Sunday night shortly after taking off, the U.S. Coast Guard said. A Coast Guard spokesman said today rescue units "have found a suitcase, a hatch cover, metal pieces, a wheel and life jackets" but no survivors. Lt. John L. Paker said the search for survivors would continue "all day."

Amadeo Chardon of the communications department at San Juan International Airport said the four-engine DC7 went down at 9:22 p.m. and that it was loaded with food and relief supplies for survivors of the Managua earthquake. Clemente, 38, was named on Christmas Eve to head Puerto Rico's earthquake relief effort. The plane went down about 1 1/2 miles north of the airport, within sight of some of San Juan's luxury resort hotels. Sources at the airport said it plunged into the ocean as it made a sharp left bank while climbing after takeoff. They said the plane was owned by Arthur Rivera, a private air cargo operator. A Puerto Rico Ports Authority official said besides Clemente occupants of the propeller-driven plane were pilot Jerry Geisel, copilot and owner Rivera, flight engineer Rafael Macias, and another passenger identified only as Lozano. ### Extra Co-Pilot May Hold Clues

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — An extra copilot may be the last living link to what happened in the cockpit of an Eastern Air Lines jumbo jet moments before it crashed in the murky Everglades, killing at least 97 persons. Federal officials say First Officer Warren Terry, 38, who was not a regular crewman on Flight 401 but was listed on the passenger list as an observer, may have been in the cockpit when the plane crash-landed in the swamp 17 miles northwest of Miami Friday night.

Terry, who joined Eastern Aug. 29, 1966, was listed in "poor condition" early today at Palmetto Hospital in Miami. His injuries were not disclosed, but officials said he was unable to talk. "If he was in the cabin, he is the last living link to what happened there," said Ed Slattery, a National Transportation Safety Board official. Terry was believed to be riding in the "jump seat" located behind the pilot seats on the flight deck of the Lockheed 1011. Slattery said NTSB investigators had not been able to establish where he was when the plane crashed, however. Eastern spokesmen couldn't immediately say why Terry was on the plane, and federal officials said they didn't know either.

Meanwhile, Eastern Air Lines tentatively announced 97 of the 178 passengers and crewmen aboard were killed and 80 others survived. One person was unaccounted for, an Eastern spokesman said. He said last-minute ticket changes made it difficult to determine who was on the plane when it left New York for Miami. John H. Reed, chairman of the NTSB, said tapes of the conversations among crewmembers before the plane went down indicated there was no awareness of danger before impact. "There is no evidence in what I have found on this tape or any other tape that an emergency situation existed," Reed said. He said no words of alarm were exchanged as the plane banked to make a second landing attempt at Miami International Airport.

The first landing approach was aborted when a control-panel light indicated incorrectly that the front landing gear had not gone down.

Capt. Robert A. Loft's last radio transmission said the gear was down and he wanted clearance to land.

Reed said one of the life-saving factors was the absence of a major fire and the cushioning effect of Everglades mud. Investigators said there was a minor fire which apparently was extinguished by swamp water.

Federal investigators said they examined the hydraulic, control and electrical systems at the crash site and were unable to find mechanical malfunctions.

Voice tapes, air-traffic-control recordings and Automatic Radar Terminal Service computer readouts are being analyzed and may be able to indicate what caused the crash, Slattery said.

However, Slattery said, studies of that evidence won't be complete for several weeks.

Donald L. Repo, the second officer and flight engineer, was the only regular member of the cockpit crew to survive the impact, but he died Sunday, leaving Terry the last hope for federal investigators seeking an eyewitness report on the plane's final moments in the air.

Reed said Sunday that the regular copilot, First Officer Albert J. Stockstill, was at the controls when the L1011 disappeared from the radar screen at Miami International.

Reed also disclosed Sunday that an autopsy indicated Loft, 52, had a small brain tumor, but Reed said there was no evidence that the benign growth interfered with the pilot's flying ability.

Did You Notice Extra Second?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New Year came one second late for revelers around the world this year as observatories adjusted their clocks to more precise alignment with the earth's rotation. Not many noticed the extra second, of course, but Russell Brown was in a quandary.

Brown presides over the annual lowering of the illuminated ball on the Allied Chemical Tower in Manhattan's Times Square, the symbol for millions of American television viewers of the passing of the old year. "God forbid anything should go wrong in the world for a full second," he said, laughing. "But 11:59:61 is going to look very funny at the bottom of everybody's TV screen, right?"

Celebrations by ordinary citizens around the world today were expected to coincide at times with New Year's messages for 1973 from heads of state. Many Chinese were to spend the day in movie houses, watching a color documentary film on the meeting of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong's chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks.

Calls for an end to war in 1973 were heard from such heads of state as Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who demanded "the earliest signing by the United States of an agreement on a cease-fire and restoration of peace in Vietnam."

Indonesian President Suharto called on all "disputing parties" in Vietnam to eschew violence in favor of "good will and honesty."

Denmark's young Queen Margrethe had a special New Year's message for Danes, her first since succeeding to the throne after her father's death last January.

In light of the Vietnam bombing halt Saturday, she said in her message: "The news of the last 24 hours leads us to hope that peace may now finally come to that unfortunate country."

Meanwhile, many Americans planned to spend the day in front of television sets watching the traditional Tournament of Roses parade and the Rose Bowl football game matching Ohio State and the University of Southern California.

Pope Paul VI appealed for peace "at any cost," expressing "the wish that the new year may be a year of refund and strengthened peace."

Israel began the new year by boosting pensions $2.50 to $29 a month for the elderly and setting controls on basic food, drink, medicine, haircut, taxi and kindergarten prices. Prices on cigarettes and cars were freed from controls.

Bloody Opening For Irish Year

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A young engaged couple were found sprawled dead in a ditch today just across the border in Ireland, making a bloody start for the new year on this divided island.

Both victims — Oliver Boyce, 25, and Breede Porter, 24, his — had been shot in the head, police said. They were found lying face down in the ditch beside a lonely lane.

Irish police said they found the shooting victims after a farmer reported hearing shots about 2 a.m. outside his home near the Donegal village of Burnfoot.

The killings came only three days after a rash of bombings on the Irish side of the border killed two persons and wounded 15.

In Northern Ireland today, there was a flurry of shooting and bombing, and the outlawed Irish Republican Army vowed worse violence in the months ahead.

The last day of 1972 claimed the last death of the year. A 56-year-old Catholic baker, Hugh Martin, was found shot dead in his car Sunday morning in Bel-year in the battered British province, gunfire broke out in the Ardoyne and New Lodge Roman Catholic districts of Belfast. One man was shot and seriously wounded.

A bomb wrecked a garage at Newton Butler, County Fermanagh, and three gasoline bombs were thrown through the window of a Catholic home in Bangor, County Down. There were no serious casualties.

Four people were wounded in Belfast late Sunday night when gunmen ambushed a bus carrying Catholics and sprayed it with bullets.

Just before midnight Sunday, army and police headquarters reported that 469 people had been slain in 1972, bringing the death toll since the present troubles began in 1969 to 680. That is 14 more than were killed in the Irish civil war of 1922.

The figures underscored the escalation of the violence since it began in civil-rights protests by the minority Catholics and grew into full-scale guerrilla war waged mainly by the Irish Republican Army.

In 1971, only 173 lives were lost, compared with 25 in 1970 and 13 in 1969.

Children Develop Skill Through Color Lotto

(Editor's Note: This article is the second of three describing easy-to-make, inexpensive games that are fun—and instructive—for preschool children. The series, prepared by the Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC), is based on experimental work at the LINC Children's Center in Greensboro.)

DURHAM — Learning what colors are, not to mention which one is which, is a puzzler for most preschool children. After all, color is an abstract idea, not a thing.

Now, the Children's Center in Greensboro, operated by the Durham-based Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC), is using a game that simplifies the puzzle, makes the idea easier to grasp, and is a lot of fun to boot.

Called Color Lotto, the game is so simple to make that parents can fashion it at home with a batch of handy materials and a pinch of imagination. Then they can help their children learn the colors and share the fun with them.

Based on that famous game of chance, Lotto, which is similar to the even more famous Bingo, Color Lotto eliminates the element of chance and develops skill instead. While it substitutes colors for number, it operates on the Lotto principle: matching random items with their equals, which are fixed in place on a board.

Here's how the Color Lotto sets at the LINC Children's Center are made:

—A nine-inch square of masonite is divided into nine three-inch squares.

—Two sets of nine different-colored three-inch squares are cut from felt. The colors are the most common ones: black, blue, brown, green, orange, purple, red, white, and yellow.

—One set of colored squares is glued or taped to the masonite board, and the other is used as the "dealer's deck."

At the Children's Center, the game is usually played by a group of children with a teacher serving as dealer. For that reason, there are four masonite boards, and each has the colored squares arranged in different order.

The teacher holds up one of the felt squares and asks the children if each can point to the square it matches on his board. The first child to respond correctly is handed the teacher's square and asked to put it in place on the board.

"If a child points to green when the teacher holds up black, the teacher is likely to sift through the deck, find the black square, and then say, "What about this one?" Or she may ask if one of the other players has found the matching square.

In any case, she never tells the child who points to the green square, "That's not the right one," or, "No, you're wrong." That would spoil the fun, embarrass the child, and bring his or her learning activity to a screeching halt.

Parents who want to make Color Lotto and use it at home are more likely to need a single board for playing the game with only one or two children. Still, they should use the same positive approach.

Perhaps the most important thing for a mother or father to remember, Children's Center teachers say, is to let the child do the playing. Don't give direct guidance, for example, by saying, "This is the one. See how these two look like each other?"

For making a Color Lotto set at home, the scarcity of masonite and felt around the house is no problem. Everyday household items may be used instead, with no loss at all in the fun or the learning.

For example, a nine-inch square of cardboard or heavy paper will make a satisfactory board, and the two sets of three-inch colored squares may be cut from any colored material or paper. Construction paper is especially good for this purpose.

If no colored paper or material is available, the squares can be cut from shelf paper or notebook paper and colored with paints, crayons, or magic markers.

The first step in Color Lotto is color-matching, and the second is giving names to the colors. The teacher or parent, after a while, begin to attach the names by saying something like, "Oh, you found the other red one, didn't you?"

Strictly as a bonus, children will learn what a square is and begin to grasp the basic mathematical principle of matching things in sets. But the point of Color Lotto is to reduce the abstract but wonderful world of color to something children can touch and see and understand.

Next: Number-matching as a jigsaw puzzle.

The basic strand of cultured pearls, the choker, is the length that rests nicely in the hollow of the collarbone.

Fish Rain From The Sky? Readers 'Saw It Happen'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The man who told his wife he saw fish falling from the sky was not crazy; neither was he lying.

In the summer of 1926, I caddied at a local golf course. There had been a long drought that summer and the fairways were brown and dried up.

One afternoon while I was caddying, a sudden storm came up and a terrific thundershower followed. Rain came down in torrents, and with it came a shower of tiny frogs about the size of nickels. They were alive and jumping all over, thousands of them!

The golfers and I couldn't believe our eyes as we watched thousands of frogs come right down with the rain from the sky. We saw it happen.

WM. A. WALKER, EVANSVILLE, IND.

DEAR ABBY: Here I have gone all my 70 years without writing a letter to a columnist, but now Dear Abby has finally smoked me out. I can't sleep until I help out that poor devil whose wife thinks he needs to see a shrink because he said he saw it raining fish!

He may have. In some areas, summer storms are preceded by twisters which are in reality tornados that suck up an immense amount of water from a stream or pond, and with it all the life that is in it. It's converted into a "waterspout" and carried for miles before it's deposited in a shower of rain.

If anyone doubts this, write to me, and I'll spin some wonderful yarns about flying saucers.

F. C. MILLER, SAN DIEGO, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I was raised on a farm in Minnesota, and as a boy I remember a storm coming up. It looked serious so we all ran to the cellar. In 40 minutes it was all over.

Afterwards, we went outside and saw our chickens going wild, eating tiny fish and frogs. We were inland at least 10 miles, so the only explanation was that a tornado had sucked them up out of a stream and had dumped them on our farm. This is not a fish story. I saw it with my own eyes. FLOYD J. McMANUS, LAGUNA BEACH, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I lived on a farm three miles from Ashland, Wis. A storm came up suddenly and afterwards I saw little tiny fish in the cowtracks around our barn. I'm no kid, Abby. I am 80 years old.

RICHARD HAGSTROM, ZIG ZAG, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine named Ed Brady heard something strike the roof of his home during a severe rainstorm, and the next day he found a big eel in his rainbarrel. He lived half a mile from the river. This occurred at Ouaquaga, N. Y. Ed Brady still lives there and can verify it. H. D. JOHNSON, WALTON, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: I personally drove thru a "rainstorm" of tadpoles in western Missouri 14 years ago.

TADPOLES FALLING ON MY HEAD IN DODGE CITY, KAS.

DEAR ABBY: I learned about how fish could be sucked up by a funnel cloud and dropped miles inland when I was a lad in public school in Holland, 55 years ago.

Y. Y. OUDSHOORN, VICTORIA, B. C., CANADA

DEAR ABBY: Of course it could have rained fish. It rained HERRING in Scotland in March of 1817. The "her-ring rain" lasted about an hour, and this is no fish story.

KIM LONG, WHEELING, W. VA.

DEAR ABBY: About 35 years ago while I was driving thru a thunderstorm near Hershey, Pa., dozens of tiny frogs came down and pelted the hood of my automobile.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning brings something that pleases you very much. Later in the day you have the chance to put in action some unique plan you were thinking over as the new year entered. The evening is not good for anything critical or compromising in its nature, so get a good rest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You get a pleasant letter that makes you happy today, then you can put that plan in operation that is important to you. Modernness is the keynote now. Get the right results quickly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have projects in mind that need to be carefully thought out before you put them in operation, otherwise they may not be successful. Hunches are fine early in the day, but not so good in p.m. Think happy thoughts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some new outlet can bring you much needed recreation and you can reach a fine understanding with an associate. Don't bring up any debatable points. Some fascinating condition arises that requires quick action.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do those things that make you look more attractive early and then put more pep and zip into your work, activities. Being more willing to cooperate with fellow workers is wise. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to have a delightful time with good friends and make arrangements for future get-togethers also. An associate has a fine project in mind. Contact this person early and say you will go along with him or her on it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study that situation well in the outside world that will help you make more money with the aid of kin. Putting in more comforts at home is wise. Make it operate more efficiently in the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study well that information you need which will help you get ahead faster and make your life much brighter. Support ideas which good friends have that are of a constructive nature. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas for adding to present income, but make sure you test them for practicality before putting in operation. A business expert can give you shortcuts you had not thought about. Consult this person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to gain personal aims better with aid of those who like you and vice-versa now. Get out to social gatherings and make new and worthwhile friends. Avoid some situation that could get you into trouble later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make arrangements to get ahead faster in your line of endeavor by adhering to your finest philosophical principles. Consult with one who is an expert in your field of activity. Add something comfortable to your home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day when your social consciousness is very high and you can make big headway by getting out to the right places, seeing the right people. Confide your aims to a good friend who can be helpful. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Fine results can come by consulting with bigwigs you know in a.m., then later be sure to carry through with the ideas they give you. Give more attention to all of your activities and you get big results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will be interested in every subject imaginable, but will want to know early how others have made big success in order to follow their example. Give as fine an academic education as you can, then this life will be a most satisfying and prosperous one, provided you also give the right spiritual training. Sports are good here to help keep the active mind well balanced.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Frat Prank Ends In Fatal Plunge

NEWHALL, Calif. (AP) — A 21-year-old Southern California college student described by his father as "a Momma's boy" died at the base of a 500-foot wilderness cliff, the victim of a prank by fraternity brothers.

The dead man was identified by relatives as Fred Phillip Bronner, a student at Pierce College in the San Fernando Valley. His body was recovered Sunday in rugged terrain in Angeles National Forest.

Sheriff's deputies said he was last seen Dec. 22 by three Chi Chi Chi fraternity brothers who left him in the forest at 2 a.m. dressed in a sport coat and gym shorts "to teach him a lesson." They said they considered the 5-foot-10, 270-pound Bronner "obnoxious."

The victim's father, Leon Bronner, a 52-year-old Polish immigrant, said during the search for his son in the desolate mountainous area:

"I know it is not possible for this child to survive. My son, he was not an athlete. He was fat, and he was raised like a Momma's boy. He never walked. We always drove him."

Diane Bronner said she had opposed her son's decision to join a fraternity because of hazing practices.

"I hope all the fraternities will be closed down because of this," Mrs. Bronner said.

"How can they take my son from his bed at two in the morning and leave him in the mountains? They call themselves brothers but they are not."

Sheriff's deputies said they did not know what charges, if any, would be filed in the case.

"If Bronner went voluntarily, they (the fraternity members) are only guilty of stupidity," a sheriff's spokesman said.

A missing-persons report was filed by three fraternity members six days after Bronner was deserted. Gordon Gillespy, 19; John Bergess, 29, and John Morgan, 21, said they thought Bronner would hike along the Old Ridge Route back to Interstate 5, where he could hitch a ride.

Investigators said the three returned on Dec. 24 to search for Bronner but found only his jacket. Authorities speculated that Bronner could have seen automobile headlights and set out across the hills before he fell over the cliff.

Deputies said the young man probably died of massive head injuries suffered in the fall.

Police Gave Aid

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—An experimental program aimed at helping the drinking driver was inaugurated New Year's Eve by the Gaston County Rural Police Department.

Party-goers who felt they were too tipsy to drive were urged to call the police department for help in getting home safely.

Chief J.C. Sanford said the special service was available from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Final Rites For Pearson

WAKEFIELD, Que. (AP) — Lester Bowles Pearson, 14th prime minister of Canada and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, was buried at dusk Sunday in a $10 country graveyard plot he bought 30 years ago.

Only family, closest friends and a few others attended the final five-minute rites under a freezing rain that kept many world dignitaries from attending earlier services in Ottawa, 25 miles south.

The scholar-diplomat, whom many called "Mike," died Wednesday of cancer that doctors said had spread to his liver after destroying one eye. He was 75.

Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain was the only foreign leader able to attend the funeral. Vice President Spiro Agnew of the United States returned to Washington when his plane could not land in driving rain and snow at Ottawa's airport.

The state funeral was held in Christ Church Anglican Cathedral after the body lay in state on Parliament Hill, where lights were dimmed and flags lowered until the burial.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who succeeded Pearson in office in 1968, led honorary pallbearers.

The high point of Pearson's diplomatic career — before he began his climb in Canadian politics — came in 1957, when he received the Nobel Peace Prize. It recognized his efforts the year before in setting up a U.N. peacekeeping force to mediate differences between Egypt and Israel.

The peace lasted until the 1967 six-day war between the two countries.

Pearson was prime minister from 1963-1968.

Body Found At Gastonia

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—The body of a 25-year-old Gastonia man, missing since Dec. 16, was found Saturday in the South Fork River in Gaston County.

Police identified the body as that of Dan Riley, whose brother Jack Riley's body was found about one week earlier in the river. The two men were on a hunting trip when they disappeared. Their deaths were ruled accidental drowning.

Mao Man Of Year

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Mao Tse-tung, leader of Communist China, has been named man of the year by a Beirut newspaper in preference to President Nixon.

As Safa, an independent French-language daily, said Sunday that, while Nixon was "perpetually resorting to war" to achieve his ends, Mao realized much progress and victories with his "silent power."

Year Can Be Full Of Hope

As we begin a New Year today, it can be one full of hope. Locally we would like to see continuation of improvements to the Central Business Districts and the efforts toward upgrading substandard housing areas. We would hope for new industries to locate in our county; not just any industry, but those with the wages and benefits which will give our citizens secure futures, and of course we would want them to be conscious of our environment. We would like to see better relations between races in our community and certainly we would want stronger efforts to provide recreation and guidance to our young people and our senior citizens. We believe Greenville and Pitt County still have the chance to develop a way of life which will be the envy of other areas of our nation. For our state, a new governor will take over and he is a very capable Republican—the first GOP governor in this century. We would hope for a successful four years for Gov. Holshouser and a minimum of squabbling between the governor and the Democratic controlled Legislature.

We strongly feel that this must be the year when East Carolina University's one-year Medical School is expanded to two years. This project is essential to meeting the physician needs of the east. The one year program is off to a fine start, but if the logical expansion does not come this year, there is danger that the momentum will be lost.

Nationally, one thought overrides all others—that is a settlement of the Vietnam war. It has gone on for so long and it has been so agonizing that there is hardly any one who does not fervently wish it to end. Still, after so much cost in lives and material it must be settled in a way that will mean lasting peace for Southeast Asia. We think it can be done and a solution is closer than many people think.

We would hope that Washington will continue to work at easing the suffering of our own citizens through carefully planned programs. At the same time the federal government must take whatever steps are necessary to keep the economy sound. If social programs are to be supported, we cannot afford the drain of inflation which rob us all.

Finally if we are to realize the better life that all of these things mean, each of us as individuals must do what we can to make our community, our state and our nation stronger. We have so much to be thankful for in this nation, but it is only so strong as its people.

Top Story Easy For These Two

By DORIS BURRELL
The Waynesville Mountaineer Staff Writer

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. — You, as a newspaper reader, might have trouble picking out the top story of 1972. It's no problem for two Haywood County men.

In 1972, they found each other — father and son — again after 26 years of searching.

Recognition came through a story in a newspaper, in the Waynesville Mountaineer. The discovery was preceded by a series of "ifs" you wouldn't believe, unless you had seen the reunion.

It would appear to be coincidence that out of 200-million plus Americans, two of them should meet in this one small corner of one state among the 50.

Those who hold fast to a faith in love would say it was not coincidental at all. However that may be, the love between a father and his son that once was no more than a dream now is reality.

Story Starter It started back in July when the Mountaineer published a feature story about the Dick Coopers, a Bensenville, Ill., couple who had moved south to their retirement home at Bethel.

Both had worked hard — he is a railroad machinist and she in motels and other places. They were only middle-aged, but the bustle and noise of Chicago was getting to be too much.

They wanted a quiet place (O'Hare airport and its jet traffic was just four miles away), and they talked of retiring to Florida. That was a long way from home for Yankees, and they compromised on half way.

Western North Carolina looked about half-way. They wrote to a Buncombe County real estate agent. The place he found for them was in the Bethel section of Haywood County. They liked it and moved.

The Mountaineer thought it was a good story. A better one started to unfold when the paper appeared.

That July 19 evening, Harry Borth, a 30-year-old mill worker, sat down in his Hazelwood home and picked up the newspaper his wife had bought at a newsstand. He noticed the story about the Coopers, and the picture of the couple.

Name From The Past "I just casually started reading under the picture," he said, "and there were the words 'the Dick Coopers of Bensenville, Ill.'"

The words hit him like a thunderbolt. Borth's real name, before adoption at the age of four, was Richard Cooper.

"You see," he said, "my father, who was Dick Cooper, and mother were married very young, and when I was six months old, they were divorced. My father went into the service because it was during World War II. My mother later married a Harry Borth, and I didn't see my real father until I was four years old.

"It was the first and last time that I remembered seeing him."

Cooper, too, married again while in the armed forces. After being discharged, he and his wife, Doris, went to see the Borths. They noticed how happy the boy was, and how he greeted Borth with "Hello, Daddy."

So Cooper felt it was best for Borth to adopt the child. He exacted the promise that when the boy was old enough he would be told who his real father was.

The promise was kept, but the son was not content. He wanted to see his real father. Wherever he went, he checked on anybody named Cooper on the chance he might find his Dad.

Phone Book Search "Every town across the country I have ever lived in, I would check the phone book under Cooper and call each one, trying to see if one day I would find my real Dad," Borth said.

Soon after the story appeared, Borth took his wife, Pat, to visit his mother and stepfather in Wisconsin. He showed his mother the clipping, and she identified Cooper as his father.

"Thinking of a possible dream becoming reality made me pretty nervous on the way back to Waynesville," he recalled. Doris Cooper remember the phone call which led to the reunion. "We had always thought there might be a day when Rickie would try to contact us. . . We often talked about and wondered how he was, what kind of man he had become and what he thought of us."

Doris called Dick at work to prepare him for what was waiting at home. There was a tearful meeting in the front yard that evening.

"There have been a lot of 'ifs' in the whole experience," Cooper mused. "What if we had moved elsewhere, even in Buncombe County? What if the newspaper story hadn't been written? What if Richie hadn't read that particular issue? What if he had never come to this area to fish and decided to remain?"

But on this side of all those "ifs" are two happy households, and a family reunited in 1972.

Henry and John Are No Team

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

President Nixon has confided to political intimates that one reason he did not press John B. Connally to become Secretary of State was his concern that Connally could never work harmoniously with Dr. Henry Kissinger.

As Mr. Nixon views it, a clash of powerful personalities, both skilled in the underworld ways of competing bureaucracies would inevitably break out if Connally took over the State Department while Kissinger remained in charge of the National Security Council machinery.

Mr. Nixon gave the matter much thought last fall, when William P. Rogers, a victim of repeated humiliations as Secretary of State, was prepared to resign beginning Mr. Nixon's second term. Rogers then changed his mind about leaving, partly because of last fall's flurry of press criticism. White House aides now believe Rogers will stay no longer than one more year.

Kissinger is also believed to be planning his departure around the end of 1973, although developments abroad could change that tentative timetable. He has informed colleagues at Harvard, which gave him an unprecedented four-year leave of absence with full protection of tenure, that he does not plan to return.

Thus, the grand entrance on the diplomatic scene of the former democratic governor of Texas may occur early in 1974 as the possible springboard for a switch in party registration and a run for the Republican presidential nomination. This is precisely the Connally scenario expected by some Nixon-wise White House aides.

A footnote: Kissinger's grand strategy of a peaceful world power contradicts Connally's chauvinistic goal of a world dominated by the U.S., from trade to monetary relationships to military power.

Patman's Seniority Woes The irony of the reform drive against the congressional seniority system is that its only possible victim is one of the reformers' favorite committee chairmen: Rep. Wright Patman, the 70-year-old populist from Texas.

After much agitation, the reformers now seem likely to subject every committee chairman to formal endorsement by the House Democratic caucus. The only chairman who might fail that test is Patman, whose age, erratic behavior and autocratic methods—as chairman of the Banking Committee will generate opposition votes in the caucus.

However, that's not at all what the outside reformers have in mind. They are not so much interested in purging erratic, autocratic, old committee chairmen as in dumping conservative chairmen. Thus, the recent broadside by Common Cause against the seniority system does not include Patman in its rogues' gallery of high-handed committee chairmen. The reason: officious though he is, Patman's year-around vendetta against the banking industry fits the Common Cause line.

Conservative Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Texas is no winner of House popularity contests and will receive "no" votes for retention as Agriculture Committee chairman. Some doves will vote to remove Rep. F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, personally popular but hawkish, as Armed Services

Strength For Today

THE FUTURE The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews tells us that Abraham went out; not knowing whither he went (Hebrews 11:8).

This is a good reminder for all of us as we confront a new year. We go out knowing very little about the future that lies before us. It will certainly bring problems. It will begin a certain number of failures along with whatever successes we may have. But the future is a closed book for us. We have to have faith in God, in ourselves and in our fellowmen if we would achieve any considerable amount of success.

One of the great mercies of God is that He holds for us the full nature of the future. Uncertainty is often hard to bear, but if we know that a calamity of terrifying proportions would come upon us on a certain date our lives would be made miserable as that date approached. We go into every day, every year, every decade not knowing whither we go. And this is of God's mercy.

The patriarch Abraham had left Ur of the Chaldees to get away from the degradation of idol worship. He felt that in a new land (which we call today The Holy Land) he would at least have an opportunity to live the type of life he aspired to live.

Life for the next twelve months will be largely what we make it. We have to aspire to improve ourselves and to help our fellowmen. Like Abraham, we go out knowing not whither we go.

Bite Your Tongue 1972

WASHINGTON — A lot of things were said in 1972 that people would just as soon forget about. For example, how would you have liked to have been:

The person who said to Sen. Edmund Muskie during the primary campaign in New Hampshire, "Senator, why don't you go down to Manchester and give Publisher William Loeb a piece of your mind?"

Or the one who asked Maurice Stans, "Have you ever thought of opening a bank account in Mexico City?"

Or the campaign adviser who said to Sen. George McGovern, "Senator, if they ask you about Eagleton, just tell them you support him 1,000 per cent."

Or the person who called Jack Anderson and said, "Have I got a story on Eagleton for you?"

And what about the aide who said to President Nixon, "Thieu is in the bag. He'll agree to anything we agree to in Paris."

Lest we forget the poor fellow who said to John Mitchell, "I have this friend who used to work for the CIA and he's been casing the Democratic National Headquarters and . . ."

Or the man who called his friend in California early this year and asked, "How would you like to move to New York City and work for Life magazine?"

Or the office who said to Gen. John Lavelle, "Don't worry, General, they're your bombers and you can send them anywhere you want to."

And what about the State Department aide who said to Secretary of State William Rogers, "I just gave Jimmy Hoffa a passport to go to Hanoi."

Or the person who assured Jean Westwood, "The Democratic National Committee chairmanship is yours for the next four years."

Or the person on Henry Kissinger's staff who told him, "Make it brief. Just tell the country peace is at hand."

I wonder where the man is who advised Tony Boyle, the United Mine Workers' president, "Don't worry, Tony, even if the federal government supervises the elections, you're a shoo-in to win."

Or the Interior aide who told the White House, "My advice is to let the Indians stay in the Bureau of Indian Affairs. What harm can they do?"

And whatever happened to the man who said to Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, "Ask the Russians to leave. That will pressure them into giving us new weapons."

Or the lawyer who told Clifford Irving, "They can't send you to jail for faking an autobiography."

Or the editor at Cosmopolitan who advised Helen Gurley Brown, "Forget it. Nobody will pay to see a photo of Burt Reynolds in the nude."

And what about the man who said to Boris Spassky, "I think I've found Bobby Fischer's weakness."

And while we're at it, I wonder what happened to the man who advised Sammy Davis Jr., "Now when the President comes on the stage, throw your arms around him. He really loves that sort of thing."

And what about the person who said to Julie Nixon Eisenhower, "Well, if you feel that strongly about it, why don't you offer to give your life for the Thieu regime?"

And finally, let's have moment of silence for Martha Mitchell's former bodyguard who said to her, "Please, Mrs. Mitchell, just lie on your stomach. This needle won't hurt."

Hold Onto Hope

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing will seem free in 1973.

But there is no reason for mankind to give up hope, according to our annual Fuzzy Forecast of the year ahead. A glance at the old crystal ball reveals both good news and bad news.

HAL BOYLE

The good news is that jobs will become more plentiful. The bad news is that prices will go on rising, and more and more people will accept the viewpoint that inflation has become a permanent way of life in the United States.

A move will develop to abolish penny coins on the grounds that they clutter up the pockets, slow cash transactions and are no longer worth counting. Twenty years from now an attempt will be made to drop the nickel for the same reasons.

A medical quack will announce that he has solved the problem of cancer and that it is on the edge of extinction. He will die of the disease himself later in the year.

Congress will ban cigarette-smoking during meetings in both the House and Senate chambers. The telling of lewd stories in the cloakrooms will also be prohibited. Snuff and chewing tobacco will continue to be allowed. A move to raise congressional salaries and pensions will be abandoned after voters stage a national chain letter protest.

Developments on the international front: London will offer to set Wales and Scotland free if the struggling Irish will just settle down and behave themselves like the

Although many Greenville people remained up to give the infant New Year a joyous welcome, the celebration was quietly observed. Greenville, like many other cities across the nation, will undergo many changes during the new year. These changes will affect the lives of the majority of people of the city. The community that expects to grow must not neglect the welfare of the working man.

It is our earnest hope that each and every reader of this newspaper may find in the coming of the New Year, something to make him happy, something to make him forget the mediocre things of life and strengthen him to carry over into another year with a feeling that he has gained the inspiration necessary to his continued welfare and happiness. Happy New Year!!!

Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words

To the editor:

Many people are considering the thought of our earth becoming overpopulated. I must admit it is steadily increasing. Some feel we should kill people over 70 years of age; yet this would be similar to sending an innocent man to the electric chair just because of his age. It's cruel even to consider such a death. People are trying to figure out ways to stop the population growth, also by limiting the number of children per family. Really, society need not fear this earth becoming overpopulated because men are being killed every day in fighting wars, diseases, hunger, old age, their religion in some countries, and many other ways. I think God took this problem in consideration; and he let man be the judge; yet we still have wars which are fought by man, we still have rioting which sometimes results in death. So far man is doing something about our population growth and yet he is still trying to find new ways to decrease the people. Man should look around and discover all the old things he is doing before he tries to invent new ones.

Black Activism Takes New Form

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Administrators' at North Carolina's predominantly black colleges and universities say students are not as militant as they were a few years ago, but they believe the old-time activism is taking a new form.

Student leaders mostly concur. Outwardly there seems to be a lot of apathy.

"Most of our students don't seem as concerned now about changing the world. They're going to college so they can make more money. Everyone seems to have gotten more selfish," said Gail Dry, student body president at private Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte.

Cleon Thompson, provost at Shaw University, a private school at Raleigh, said: "Most students seem resigned to the fact that the street is not the answer."

The Associated Press interviewed the administrators and students as a follow-up to the disturbances at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La. They were asked if there is a "new militancy" on their campuses or if students seem to have settled down more to "traditional" college life.

"I haven't noticed any 'new militancy,'" said Albert Whiting, chancellor at North Carolina Central University in Durham. "The activism seems about like always, but it's taking a different form of expression. There is more cynicism now about things in general."

Whiting said the students don't seem any more settled than ever before. "They are using new outlets," he said. "I think they've probably seen that the old approaches did not get the results they desired. Those were the approaches of demonstrations and protests. . . office takeovers and so forth."

At Shaw, where Thompson said students were in sympathy with their counterparts at Louisiana's Southern, the administrators said there is less "outward militancy" among students.

"What everyone is interested in," said Thompson, "is justice. The secrecy surrounding this thing (Southern incident) really bothers a lot of people."

Thompson said students now seem to be concentrating on improving themselves as the ultimate answer to improving the standing of their race.

"They're searching for knowledge. What they want and need is competence. . . to be able to compete on an intellectual level. They aren't going to the demonstrations and the protests. They're going to the library. They're going to the archives. They're going to the classrooms."

Thompson said he thinks most black students are ready to join the system. They want to do this, he said, but they don't want to lose their own identities as black people.

Harvey Alexander, executive officer at J. C. Smith in Charlotte, said: "I would like to think the students are more serious about their education today than a few years ago."

"They seem to me to be more interested in becoming leaders, total people. . . and they realize that to that end they must equip themselves properly. They are trying to make the changes on an individual, rather than group level."

At Elizabeth City State College, Chancellor Marion Thorpe said he believed the incidents at Southern University were "localized. . . an individual incident."

"I detect in our students a wish to have better teaching, better facilities. They want to prepare themselves for a roll in the world. They don't want to destroy what they already have, but they are very keen on making it better."

"There is a lot more working within the system," Thorpe said. "But then, the system has changed. It really is a new system."

Where will these new tactics lead?

"I don't think anyone knows yet," said one administrator. A student added: "I think most people decided somewhere along the way that getting killed and burning down buildings was not a realistic solution to our problems."

Hi-Lites Ups Copies

There's one publication in Greenville that has, without fanfare, increased its circulation twelve fold from one issue to the next.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, revealed the facts about the great leap forward in the December issue of the city schools Instructional and Administrative Hi-Lites.

"Five hundred copies of the November issue of Hi-Lites were distributed; six thousand five hundred copies of this issue will be printed," he notes.

The sudden surge in increase in circulation follows school board action to a Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC) suggestion. Their suggestion was that a copy of the newsletter be sent into every home in Greenville with students in any of the schools.

In making the recommendation, members of the CAC stated they believe much of the timely information contained in the publication would be helpful and of interest to parents.

Hi-Lites, a folded four page mimeographed publication, contains official information relative to school programs and events, as well as numerous brief articles on happenings within the individual schools.

One hopeful note as the New Year comes in is a brief Believe It or Not item in which the editors point out that "someone is trying to do something about the flood of paperwork we are drowning in," and goes on to explain that at the state level plans are to "centralize collection activities, and to collect only those items of information that are absolutely essential."

Charge Two On Drug Law

Greenville police officers and Pitt County Sheriff's Deputies last night arrested two men on drug law violation charges following a raid on a 1200 Myrtle Ave. residence.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, the officers charged Moffette Antwan "Tony" Harris, 28, with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, after finding a quantity of marijuana concealed in a wall of the Myrtle Avenue home.

In addition, 19-year-old Argoon Mugalsingh and Harris were charged with possessing amphetamines after a quantity of amphetamines were also uncovered during the 7 p.m. raid.

Assault, Robbery

Greenville police are investigating an assault and robbery reported by Robert Joseph Lucas Jr., 18 of 308 Crown Point Rd. early this morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Lucas told local officers he picked up a man at a Greenville Boulevard hamburger establishment about 9 p.m. yesterday. The man then allegedly forced Lucas to drive to Holly Ridge where Lucas was cut and robbed of $5.

He returned to Greenville and reported the incident at 2:10 a.m., the chief noted.

Committee chairman. A few Southerners might oppose Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan, a black man, to become the new chairman of the District of Columbia Committee.

But only the vote on Patman will be close, and even he probably will survive.

A footnote: The post of House Majority Whip (no. 3 is the Democratic hierarchy), now appointive by the Speaker, would become elective by the caucus were it not for the aggressive campaign for whip being waged by liberal Rep. Phillip Burton of California.

Even old-line establishment Democrats believe that since the whip's job has become a stepping-stone to Speaker, it should be made elective. But they don't want Burton on the leadership escalator and would feel incomparably safer with Speaker Carl Albert's presumed appointment, California Rep. John McFall. They would elect a less passionate liberal than Burton—sy Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona.

The otherwise unfathomable selection of Texas politician Anne Armstrong, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee, to become a cabinet-level counselor to President Nixon was a hurried move to head off criticism from women.

A coalition of women's groups was about to blast Mr. Nixon for failing to include any women in the second-term cabinet, when the White House hurriedly turned to a stunned Mrs. Armstrong. Though Mrs. Armstrong is an effective party politician, nobody claims she has the background for a job originally designed for the estimable Dr. Arthur Burns, now chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Hunger Problem Before The Earthquake

By VICENTE MORALES
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Hunger was Nicaragua's main problem even before an earthquake devastated its capital more than a week ago. A prolonged drought had seriously affected the production of corn, beans and rice.

Wendell Belew, the U.S. Embassy's commercial attache, said the problem of hunger "existed here 10 days before the earthquake."

He added that the lack of rainfall, normally about 80 inches a year, had caused as much economic damage to the country and its people as the earthquake.

He said the quake had "only revealed the magnitude of Nicaragua's problems. The government already had problems feeding the poor farmers; and, with the arrival of food from foreign countries, both they and the victims of the earthquake demanded food."

Cotton, coffee, sugar, livestock and some semi-manufactured products such as textiles constitute the basis of Nicaraguan exports, and all these were affected in one way or another during the year, Belew said.

Protests mounted here over what many considered slow and improper distribution of food and other supplies by Gen. Anastasio Somoza's national guard. Foreign relief planes have made as many as 500 flights into the city, bringing tons of everything from food to field hospitals; yet a number of the survivors still need assistance. President Nixon's personal representative, Maurice Williams, met with Somoza on Sunday to discuss the possibility of extending American aid for six months.

Williams, head of the Agency for International Development, said Somoza had outlined a list of necessities ranging from food to the reconstruction of Managua. If the assistance is not continued, Belew said, "the country's problems will be aggravated within three months."

The official in charge of receiving the tons of food and other supplies arriving in Managua is a 21-year-old Harvard graduate named Anastasio "Tachito" Somoza, son of Nicaragua's leader.

Without rank or position, but utilizing the strong influence of his father, the younger Somoza controls arrivals and departures of mercy flights at Las Mercedes airport.

Tons of food could be seen stored in the airport's main hanger over the weekend, and Somoza was busy giving orders about where it should be taken.

"As soon as they arrive, the supplies are sent to the National Emergency Committee, which is under civilian control," he said. When informed that there were no civilians on the committee, Somoza replied: "Okay, you can say that there are civilians. Because there will be as of now."

Asked about numerous complaints that foodstuff had not been distributed fast enough and apparently was not reaching all survivors, he said: "That's easy to write, but we have 125,000 homeless here in Managua and 130,000 in other departments of the country. It's not so easy to give them everything they ask."

1st Indian Marshal

NEW DELHI (AP) — Gen. Sam Manekshaw, army chief of staff since 1969, is to become India's first field marshal, according to the Defense Ministry.

Manekshaw, a veteran of World War II and the French Indochina campaign, is to hold the rank for life, the ministry said Sunday.

Rebuilding After Fire

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Owners of the Hungry Fisherman restaurant on Lake Wylie near the North Carolina-South Carolina state line say work will begin immediately to rebuild the facility.

The restaurant was heavily damaged by a Saturday morning fire of undetermined origin. It was built and operated by Shoney's of Charlotte.

Ten fire trucks from communities in both Carolinas responded to the blaze at the restaurant located off N.C. 49 near the Buster Boyd Bridge.

Robinson Has Tests

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Edward G. Robinson, 79, best known for his film portrayals of gangsters, is undergoing tests at Mt. Sinai Hospital, a spokesman there said today.

The spokesman said Robinson's condition was "satisfactory" and "not an emergency situation" but would not say why he was undergoing tests.

The actor also is known for his art collection, which includes Renoirs, Gauguins, Corots and Matisses.

Robinson was hospitalized for three weeks with a heart attack in 1962 and underwent abdominal surgery for ruptured blood vessels suffered in a 1966 auto crash.

Surplus Funds Cause House Problems

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Surplus funds—and what to do with them—have caught the Democratic members of the North Carolina House on the horns of a dilemma. Pressure is mounting on the legislature to cut taxes when the General Assembly convenes next week. It started during the gubernatorial campaign when both candidates promised not to raise taxes and spoke of the surplus in terms of $200 million or more.

When Gov. Bob Scott said he was leaving the state in such good financial shape that it could afford a 10 per cent rebate on 1972 personal income taxes as well as cuts in various commodity taxes. The pressure is likely to grow even stronger when the report of the Advisory Budget Commission is revealed. Portions of that document leaked to the press and shown to House members over the weekend call for not only Scott's suggested tax relief but repeal of the tobacco and soft drink tax as well. The pressure caused some squirming at the Democratic House caucus held behind closed doors in Raleigh Saturday. Reporters outside the meeting room overheard several legislators ask whether the Advisory Budget Commission had any authority to recommend tax cuts and heard others angrily call their recommendation "unprecedented." Rep. William Watkins of Granville, the No. 2 man in the House hierarchy for the next session, cautioned the members that tax cuts may be inadvisable for both political and economic reasons. In the first place, Watkins said, much of the surplus is "windfall" revenue—gained from federal revenue sharing, and from one-time only savings due to state government reorganization and a hiring freeze clamped on by Scott. If the legislators are too hasty in approving the Budget Commission's recommended $190 million in tax cuts, Watkins said, "it would be like cutting your income for the rest of your life and living for the next two years off your savings."

That could lead to political embarrassment for the party, Watkins said. "If we elect a Democratic governor in 1976, we might be faced with a need to add back the taxes that were taken off under a Republican governor," he said.

Rouse Speaker James Ramsey, in an interview with reporters, echoed Watkins. "Take away the revenue sharing and the other windfalls and we're not in as good shape as appears," he said.

Ramsey, asked about pressure to reduce taxes, said "Of course, we'll get it from special interest groups. We always do. But at the grass roots level, I think people will be satisfied with holding the line against new taxes."

While the tax question loomed larger, the Democrats took time to agree on a number of policy questions, largely following the lead of the Senate caucus earlier last week.

By voice votes, they approved the idea of annual session, the concept of a code of ethics bill for all state officials and employees, and agreed to instruct committees to draw up bills reforming the highway commission, the state wildlife commission, and the auto insurance system.

Pirates React To Crash News

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Teammates remember Roberto Clemente as a sometimes misunderstood man whose greatness went beyond the baseball diamond.

Clemente was among five persons missing and believed dead in a plane that crashed late Sunday in the Atlantic Ocean near Puerto Rico while en route to Nicaragua with supplies. The Pirates star was chairman of the island's efforts to aid the victims of an earthquake that devastated the Nicaraguan capital.

"Roberto was many things other than a great baseball player," said Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher Steve Blass today.

"Maybe we as teammates didn't know him as well as we could have," Blass added. "But I think we knew him better than some of the fans. There were so many things beyond his pure ability." Clemente's work with the relief effort was typical, said Pirate home run hitter Willie Stargell. "Roberto was always trying to help someone."

Joe L. Brown, general manager of the Pirates, stayed awake all night awaiting word on the crash.

"I'm really not thinking of the ball club. I'm thinking of Roberto and his family," Brown said. "He was a wonderful, wonderful person and it's a personal loss, a loss to baseball and a loss to the world in general. He was a fine, high-type young man and it's just a terrible tragedy."

Nellie King, former Pirate pitcher, now a broadcaster, remembered Clemente's rookie season at spring training in Fort Myers, Fla.

"He was kind of withdrawn at that time because there weren't many Latin ballplayers and he was new to the States," King said. "And I think a lot of people misunderstood his withdrawing as maybe being not aggressive enough or having the kind of courage to play baseball."

"But I think they were sadly mistaken. His ability to play baseball and meet people and have them understand Latin Americans is going to make it easier for Latinos to play in this country and make it better for all on us."

Crash . . .

As rescue units searched for survivors, Clemente's wife, Vera Christina, and his father, Melchor, watched from a nearby beach. Rescue efforts were hampered by six-foot waves.

Clemente completed his 18th season with the Pirates in 1972.

Last season, he became the 11th man in baseball history to reach 3,000 hits for a baseball career.

Clemente had compiled a lifetime batting average of over .300. He won four National League batting titles and hit over .300 13 times.

Last season, he batted .312 in 102 games.

In 1971, he batted .414 in the World Series against the Baltimore Orioles and was named the outstanding performer in the series, won by the Pirates.

He won the National League's Most Valuable Player award in 1966 and was selected to the league's all-star team 12 times.

He was born Aug. 18, 1934, in Puerto Rico.

It was on Nov. 22, 1954, that the Pittsburgh Pirates paid $4,000 to draft the young, obscure Puerto Rican from the Montreal farm team of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Clemente collected his 3,000th hit Sept. 30 when he lashed a double in the fourth inning in a game against the New York Mets. The crowd of 13,117 at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh gave him a standing ovation, and the game was stopped while he was awarded the baseball from that hit.

Only two other active players, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves and Willie Mays of the Mets have attained the 3,000-hit circle.

Later, the right-handed batter said, "I was just glad to get the hit, period. I give this hit to the fans of Pittsburgh and to the people of Puerto Rico."

He said he had been embarrassed by the standing ovation. "I feel bashful when I get a big ovation. I am really shy, and so is my family. I never was a big shot, and I never will be a big shot."

27 Injured In Florida Riot

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — About 27 persons, including 16 policemen, were injured and 36 young New Year's revelers arrested during an hour-long riot on a popular beach-front early today, police said.

Broward County Sheriff's Lt. John Tamburello said a crowd that swelled to between 4,000 and 6,000 battled a force of about 150 law enforcement officers along about a half mile of Atlantic Boulevard, an area of bars and motels favored by college vacationers.

The riot broke out about midnight when a crowd gathered around two plain clothes detectives who were arresting a man at a bar on assault and battery charges, police said.

Police said one youth struck one of the two detectives, who drew and fired his pistol, grazing the leg of another youth and the crowd responded by throwing bottles and cans.

More officers were called to the scene and the disturbance quickly exploded into a full-scale riot, police said.

The crowds of youths, who were celebrating New Year's Eve, broke windows, tore up beach chairs and set them on fire on the beach, threw up barricades in the street and threw empty beer cans, rocks and garbage at police.

Officers responded with mace, tear gas. Officers fired blanks into the air but there was no shooting, except for the initial incident, police said.

Of the 27 injured, only two, both policemen, were hospitalized. Patrolman Robert Weathering was reported in undetermined condition with a head injury and Patrolman Chuck Tolin was reported in good condition with an injured shoulder.

Those arrested were charged with inciting to riot and disorderly conduct.

Witnesses said police reacted strongly when some of their numbers began getting injured, but appeared to agree that the crowds of young people started the incident and kept it going.

Benefits Rise; Taxes Up Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Social Security law increasing benefits—and also taxes—became effective today.

The measure, signed by President Nixon Oct. 13, raises the amount of wages subject to Social Security taxes from $9,000 to $10,800 and increases the amount of tax from 5.2 per cent to 5.85 per cent.

The maximum Social Security tax under the old law was $468, but under the new one the maximum tax is $631.80.

The new law has numerous new benefits, including a provision that will allow widows to receive 100 per cent of what their husbands would have gotten instead of 82½ per cent.

The new law will also let persons who have reached retirement age earn $2,100 a year without loss of benefits instead of the previous $1,680. Above $2,100, they will lose $1 for each $2 of earnings.

The new law allows men to receive the same retirement benefits as women. Under the old law, a woman with an earning record identical to a man's got $10 more a month if both were entitled to maximum payment.

The new law also requires that all Americans receive Social Security numbers when they enter school, reduces the waiting period for disability payments from six to five months and allows a college student to continue receiving survivor benefits at age 22 until he completes a semester.

Coca Hurt In Wreck

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Comedienne Imogene Coca was seriously injured in an automobile accident near here early today and placed unconscious aboard a plane for New York City, officials said.

The Bayfront Medical Center listed Miss Coca in "guarded condition" after a two-car crash at a rural intersection north of this west coast Florida city at about 3 a.m.

She was transferred from the hospital to an ambulance about 10 a.m. for a flight to an undisclosed New York hospital, said Morris Shinner, producer of the Showboat Dinner Theater where Miss Coca and her husband, King Donovan, were appearing in a play.

Obituaries

Arnold
Mr. William Vance Arnold 63, died Sunday morning at his home near Greenville following several years of illness. The funeral service will be conducted Tuesday at 11:00 a.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Troy Barrett, his pastor, assisted by the Rev. Adrian Brown, associate pastor, and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Redskins Demolish Dallas For First Crown In Thirty Years

Gets A Souvenir

HAPPY BUT HATLESS — Redskins' head coach George Allen loses his hat to a fan Sunday as players carry him off the field after Washington defeated the Dallas Cowboys 26-3. Washington won the right to play the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins, whose last pro football championship came when Franklin D. Roosevelt was in his third term as President, ambushed the Dallas Cowboys Sunday to capture a Super Bowl berth.

Washington's 26-3 victory over Dallas gives the Redskins the National Conference championship and sends them against the Miami Dolphins, 21-17 winners over the Pittsburgh Steelers, for the National Football League's world championship on Jan. 14 in Los Angeles. "We have a lot to be thankful for," Washington Coach George Allen said. "It was a great team win, a 40-man victory."

Later Sunday night, Allen received a telephone call from President Nixon, who invited the Washington coach and his family to the White House this morning.

"This was close to a perfect game," Allen said. Tom Landry, the Cowboys' coach, agreed.

"Washington deserved to win," Landry said. "They were playing excellent football in every phase."

Dallas never had a chance as the marauding Redskins excelled on offense, defense and the specialty teams. The Cowboys could run only six plays, not counting punts, in the first period, and didn't get a first down until nearly 25 minutes into the game. And that came on a personal-foul penalty against Washington.

Curt Knight, who redeemed himself handsomely in the playoffs after suffering a miserable season, broke the scoreless duel with an 18-yard field goal in the second period. He later added kicks of 39, 46 and 45 to set an NFL playoff record for most field goals in a game.

But the twin lightning bolts from quarterback Billy Kilmer to wide receiver Charley Taylor were the bombs that tore asunder Dallas' vaunted Doomsday Defense.

"I think they thought I was going to try to go to (wide receiver) Roy Jefferson more and that could hurt them, so they covered him more," Kilmer said. "So I went to Taylor."

Just after nine minutes into the second quarter, Kilmer found Taylor streaking across the middle on a slant-in to connect on a 35-yard touchdown aerial. That made the score 10-0 before Toni Fritsch added three for Dallas with a 35-year field goal that hit the left upright, then bounced across. After that, it was all Washington as the Redskins' Crunch Bunch kept quarterback Roger Staubach and his Cowboy cohorts surrounded.

Staubach, getting his first starting call since he was injured in preseason, failed to ignite the potentially explosive Cowboy attack. The former Heisman Trophy winner from Navy connected on only nine of 20 passes for 98 yards.

Kilmer, on the other hand, was nearly flawless, hitting 14 of 18 for 194 yards and the two scores.

"We had our opportunities," Landry said, "but we missed them and they didn't."

Sparks Still Flying Over Sun Bowl Call

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Veteran referee Burns McKinney, retiring after 34 years of officiating in the Southwest Conference, said Sunday he had "never seen anything" like the un-sportsmanlike conduct penalty that cost Texas Tech a vital touchdown in Saturday's 32-28 Sun Bowl loss to North Carolina.

Bill Davis, an Atlantic Coast Conference official, made the call that triggered an explosion of anger on the Red Raider bench.

"It (the call) was a shame ... and a new one on me," said McKinney.

It happened in the second quarter with North Carolina leading 9-0. Tech's Davis Corley blocked a Tar Heel punt and Donald Rives plucked the ball off the ground and ran 32 yards down the sidelines for an apparent touchdown.

However, Davis threw a flag toward Tech Coach Jim Carlen. McKinney said "Bill told me that a coach was on the field and I (Davis) had to go around him."

"I asked him was it before or after the score," McKinney said. "Davis said it was before the score."

McKinney penalized Tech 15 yards from the spot where the Tech coach came on the field.

Tech Coach Jim Carlen said he didn't remember going on the field but said "I had to dodge a photographer wearing a red jacket." Tech's team colors are red and black.

McKinney of Midland said "In 34 years, I've never seen anything just like it."

McKinney agreed with Texas Tech Athletic Director J. T. King who said "An official can make the call anytime a touchdown is scored. There is always that much enthusiasm on any bench."

McKinney said "The rule is there but you've got to display good horse sense when officiating."

Asked if he thought Davis had shown good "horse sense" McKinney said "I can't answer that for you."

He added "It was a wild way to go out. It was a good ball game other than that incident. It really set off a spark on the field. We had to keep talking to settle the players down."

The flap overshadowed a tremendous offensive game in which Tech's George Smith scored three touchdowns and quarterback Nick Vidnovic of the Tar Heels threw two touchdown passes—the last with 60 seconds to play to win the game.

Miami Makes It 15 In A Row With Title

By GARY MIHOCS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — It's wait until next year for the young Pittsburgh Steelers, but next year is now for the Miami Dolphins, pro football perfectionists.

The Dolphins earned the right to meet the Washington Redskins in Super Bowl VII Jan. 14 by defeating the Steelers 21-17 here Sunday in the American Football Conference title game.

Larry Seiple's daring dash on a fake punt and quarterback Bob Griese's off-the-bench heroics enabled Don Shula's Dolphins to boost their record to 16-0 and end the best season in Steeler history.

The frenzied chants of Gerela's Gorillas and Franco's Italian Army and the touch of magic that had been a Steeler trademark all season weren't enough against Miami.

Seiple's 37-yard run from punt formation set up the tying score, but the momentum really swung when Shula replaced veteran Earl Morrall with Griese, who had played just one game since breaking his leg five months ago.

The Steelers had taken a 10-3 lead in the third quarter on a field goal by Roy Gerela, but Griese engineered the two touchdown drives that meant the difference.

The Steelers, who finished with a 12-4 record after winning the first division title in their 40-year history, were in the game until the end.

However, Terry Bradshaw, hospitalized last week with the flu and bothered by headaches and a pinched nerve in his left shoulder, was intercepted twice in the closing moments.

The Dolphins, who lost to the Dallas Cowboys in last year's Super Bowl, came from behind to beat Pittsburgh, just as they did last week against the Cleveland Browns.

Morrall, who guided the Dolphins offense in Griese's absence, gave Pittsburgh its only big break of the game in the first period when he tossed a pass that John Rowser intercepted at the Miami 48-yard line.

With rookie Franco Harris eating up yardage, the Steelers drove to the Miami two where Bradshaw rolled to his left.

He was hit hard by Miami safety Jake Scott and fumbled into the endzone, where Pittsburgh tight end Gerry Mullins recovered for a Steeler touchdown.

"We got that first touchdown and I thought, 'Here we go,'" said Bradshaw, who predicted last week that the Steelers would win.

Early in the second quarter, however, Seiple was back to punt on fourth down at the Pittsburgh 49 when he elected to run and gained 37 yards to the Steeler 12. Two plays later Morrall passed nine yards to Larry Csonka for the tying touchdown.

"We changed up a little bit on our punt rush for the first time this year," Steeler Coach Chuck Noll said.

"We opened this game by putting pressure on with one man instead of two," he added. "And the second time we did it he put the ball under his arm and ran. It was a very alert play."

Seiple, a 27-year-old Kentuckian who has one of the last short haircuts and clean-shaven faces in pro football, said he improvised on the play.

"I never thought of it until the situation opened up," he declared. "I saw everyone turn around and look for the ball, and it was a split second decision to run ... It has to be the most exciting thing in my career."

The game remained tied at 7-7 until the third quarter when Terry Hanratty led Pittsburgh on a 73-yard drive to the Miami seven, to set up a Gerela field goal.

Hanratty played the second and third quarters, while Bradshaw rested on the bench after complaining of grogginess and headaches.

"Bradshaw was having trouble out there, he was forgetting things," said Noll. "We wanted to give his head a chance to clear up."

It was in the third quarter that Griese entered the game and promptly hit Paul Warfield with a 52-yard pass to the Steeler 24-yard line.

With the help of an offside penalty that nullified a Jack Ham interception, Miami scored nine plays later on a two-yard run by Jim Kiick and made the score 14-10 Dolphins.

"I was so sure we'd win," said defensive end Dwight White, offside on the Ham interception. "I knew what we had. I knew what they had. It's gonna be a long season."

The Dolphins extended their lead to 21-10 in the fourth quarter when Miami drove 49 yards for a touchdown after Maltby Moore blocked a field goal try by Gerela.

Csonka and Mercury Morris ate up yardage on the drive before Kiick powered in from the three.

Bradshaw then came off the bench and it looked for a while like Pittsburgh was about to pull another miracle like the one that beat Oakland a week ago.

Bradshaw passed nine yards to Larry Brown, 25 to Al Young, 25 to Ron Shanklin and 12 to Young for the touchdown at 9:39. Young made a brilliant one-handed catch on the score and the crowd went wild.

The Steeler defense, spurred by the rabid home fans, then forced a Miami punt, but Bradshaw was intercepted by Nick Buoniconti.

Miami drove to the Pittsburgh nine where Csonka was stacked up on fourth and one, but Mike Kolen intercepted another Bradshaw pass and the season was over for the Steelers and only beginning for Miami.

FRANCO CHARGES — Franco Harris (32), Pittsburgh Steelers running back, picks up yardage in second period play as Miami Dolphins tacklers try to stop him in Sunday's championship game at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. Dolphins are Mike Kolen (57) and Manny Fernandez (75). Dolphin on ground not identified. (AP Wirephoto)

Deacs Only Team Not Over 500

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With a month of the college basketball season over, Atlantic Coast Conference teams are flexing their muscles against nonleague opponents. Only Wake Forest of the seven members does not have a winning record entering 1973, and the Deacons are 4-4.

Two of the teams are in the nation's top 10: Maryland No. 2 and N.C. State No. 4. In addition, North Carolina is 11th.

Three of the six teams playing in holiday tournaments last week took home championship trophies and two others broke even. Duke was the only team to lose twice in a tournament but the Blue Devils roared back Saturday night to pin a 102-76 loss on Harvard.

Maryland won its Maryland Invitational, 90-76 over Syracuse, behind Tom McMillen's 32 points. North Carolina took the Rainbow Classic, 89-86 over Louisville. Earlier, Wake Forest won the Palmetto title at Charleston, S.C.

Virginia and Clemson reached the finals of the St. Louis Invitational and Poinsettia Classic, respectively, but both lost in Friday night encounters.

N.C. State did not play all week.

Conference play has been light so far, with Virginia's win over Wake Forest the only game played. But this week every team but North Carolina will meet a league foe.

Action begins Tuesday with Kent State, going to Maryland and Athletics in Action going to N.C. State for an exhibition. Duke is at Virginia, Niagara at Clemson and Virginia Military at Wake Forest Wednesday, while North Carolina plays Furman at Charlotte Thursday.

Saturday North Carolina

tangles with Nebraska at Greensboro while Maryland goes to Clemson, Duke is at Wake Forest and N.C. State visits Virginia.

Bucky Waters, Duke's coach, was pleased with his team's performance against the Crimson. He said, "This game should help us regain the confidence we lost at Las Vegas. It should also help fortify us for our tough schedule in January."

Waters was particularly pleased with the defensive job Bill Melchionni and Kevin Billerman did on Harvard's Jim Fitzsimmons, who transferred there from Duke in 1969. Fitzsimmons averaged 24 points last year but tallied only seven in his first trip back to Durham.

Billerman was high for Duke with 22.

McMillen didn't play in Maryland's first-round victory over Georgia Tech in the College Park tournament due to a bad ankle, but he was named the event's most valuable player for his play Saturday. McMillen hit 14 of 17 shots from the field and grabbed 13 rebounds. His scoring average rose to 25.6 points.

"McMillen is the best big man in the country," Coach Roy Danforth of Syracuse said, adding, "If McMillen hadn't played, we might have won."

"Without question, Maryland is No. 2 in the nation."

George Karl and Bobby Jones, North Carolina stars in the eight-team Rainbow Classic, were named to the all-tournament team after their play kept the Tar Heels ahead of the Cardinals in the stretch of the final game. Karl hit 10 points in a row and wound up with 18 for the night, while Jones scored 24.

'Dryden Never Saw It': Stapleton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I don't think Dryden saw my shot," said defenseman Pat Stapleton of the Chicago Black Hawks. "Just as I started to let it go one of the Buffalo defensemen skated in front of me and I don't think Dave had a chance to get his glove up."

Stapleton was talking about his winning goal at 15:20 of the third period that gave the Black Hawks a 4-2 victory over the Sabres in the National Hockey League New Year's Eve.

The goal broke a 2-2 tie and the Hawks got their last tally in the closing seconds when Buffalo removed its goalie Dave Dryden and Stan Mikita scored into an empty net.

Pit Martin set up Stapleton's winning shot from 30 feet out by sweeping to the Buffalo blue line before dropping the puck on Stapleton's stick.

The New York Rangers routed St. Louis 6-1 while Minnesota and Detroit skated to a 4-4 tie in other NHL games. In the World Hockey Association New England blanked the New York Raiders 3-0, Quebec beat Ottawa 8-4 and Philadelphia whipped Los Angeles 3-1.

Jean Ratelle scored three goals and assisted on another in leading the Rangers over the Blues. Mickey Redmond's goal at 6:23 of the final period gave the Red Wings their tie with the North Stars.

Goalie Al Smith, who had been benched for three games, turned in the shutout for the Whalers against the Raiders in the WHA. An unassisted goal by Player-coach John McKenzie sparked the Blazers over the Sharks. Jean-Guy Gendron's goals led the Nordiques over the Nationals.

In the NHL on Saturday it was Toronto over St. Louis 5-4, Vancouver over the New York Islanders 5-2, Los Angeles over Philadelphia 5-3 plus two ties, Atlanta-Montreal 1-1 and Detroit-Pittsburgh 2-2. In the WHA it was Cleveland over Houston 4-3 in overtime and Ottawa over Chicago 4-2.

SC Teams Getting Back To Conference Cage Grind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With the holiday tournament madness all but over, Southern Conference basketball teams slowly will get to the business this week of determining which of the eight will go into the season-ending championship tournament with the top-seeded position.

Furman's Paladins, Davidson's Wildcats and The Citadel's Bulldogs are tied for the lead with 2-0 records, while Virginia Military's surprising Keydets have won their only league start.

This week's schedule of league scraps has Davidson at William and Mary, 1-2, on Wednesday; defending champion East Carolina, 1-2, at Richmond, 0-3, on Thursday; and Richmond at William and Mary and YMI at East Carolina on Saturday.

Meanwhile, the conference is savoring its best showing in years on the holiday tournament trail with three championships and a shot at a fourth this weekend when The Citadel plays with George Washington, Rice and American U. in the Presidential Classic at Ft. Myer, Va.

Davidson joined William and Mary's Indians, who won the Scranton Invitational, and Furman, which captured its own Poinsettia Classic, in the championship class Saturday night with a 66-63 victory over Cincinnati's Bearcats in the Wildcats' own Charlotte Invitational.

Republican Wins Top N.C. News Stories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The election of the first Republican governor in this century and of a Republican to the U.S. Senate was overwhelmingly voted the top news story of 1972 in North Carolina. Member newspaper and broadcast station newsmen picked the election of Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser and Sen.-elect Jesse Helms on Nov. 7 as the top story on more than 80 per cent of the ballots cast. The shooting May 29 at a Raleigh shopping where Sen.

Everett B. Jordan was campaigning was runnerup by a wide margin. Four persons were killed and seven others injured by Harvey McLeod before he turned the gun on himself in the lunch hour incident. Holshouser defeated Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles with nearly 52 per cent of the votes and Helms, a Raleigh broadcast executive, defeated Democratic Rep. Nick Galifianakis with about 56 per cent. The elections followed hard-hitting primaries in which Galifianakis, Holshouser and Bowles were forced into runoff. Political observers said President Nixon's Nov. 4 visit to Greensboro, where he campaigned for Holshouser and Helms, helped in the victories. But newsmen did not rank the Nixon trip among the state's top stories in 1972. Violent incidents across the state accounted for the third, fourth and six-place stories, as well as the Raleigh shooting. Editors selected the discovery of the bodies of Boone businessman Bryce Durham, his wife and son in a bathtub at their home in February the No. 3 story. Two Asheville men were charged with the killings. Voted No. 4 was the record number of bank robberies in the state. A total of 70 was reported through Dec. 28, compared to the previous 42 counted in each of the past two years.

Environmental controversies surrounding Bald Head Island, the Blue Ridge Power Project, Tennessee Valley Authority dams on the French Broad River and Chicod Creek were fifth followed by a Greensboro bank robbery Nov. 14 that involved two men who took six hostages on a four hour ride. The remaining stories included the revelation that the Internal Revenue Service was looking into campaign expense reports filed in the 1968 election of Gov. Bob Scott; an investigation into activities at the state's mental hospitals in the wake of charges of patient mistreatment, orgies and drug addiction; the second trial and conviction of black activist Ben Chavis on charges of arson and conspiracy in 1971, Wilmington racial violence; and flooding that followed heavy rains in June. The environmental issues that editors voted the fifth best story of the year ranged from the sea to the mountains. On the shore U.S. Army Engineers denied a dock construction permit to developers of Bald Head Island, saying the resort planned for the semitropical island at the mouth of the Cape Fear River was not in the best interests of the island's ecology. But development continued. In the mountains, the series of dams planned on the French Broad was postponed indefinitely by TVA because of a lack of money; and the Federal Power Commission reopened the Blue Ridge dam case that would back water from the New River into northwestern North Carolina. The FPC said revision and an environmental impact statement would be necessary. Also stopped was a proposed highway from Robbinsville to Tellico Plains, N.C. Another federal project halted, at least temporarily, was chanelization of Chicod Creek in Pitt and Beaufort counties. A federal suit is pending against the proposal. The Greensboro bank holdup that ended in a chase by officers occurred in November. Two men robbed a branch of $76,000 and took six hostages. They led police on a chase to the airport, where they had expected a jet to be waiting, and along busy Interstate 85. Four hours later a roadblock stopped their car. The 1968 gubernatorial campaign was in the news this summer when it became known that the IRS was checking reports that some contributions by supporters of Gov. Bob Scott may have been deducted as business expenses. The government never revealed the status of its investigation and no plans to prosecute have been announced. Scott claimed the stories were intended to embarrass the Democrats. Charges that patients at some state mental institutions were abused led to a probe by the State Bureau of Investigation and a shakeup in administration at Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro. Allegations included sex orgies were held by attendants and patients, blood was taken from dying patients without authorization, and improper administration of medicine. Chavis, brought to trial once on charges he conspired with others during racial violence at Wilmington in early 1971 and committed arson during the period, was tried again in the fall at Burgaw. After weeks involved in selecting the jury and more weeks of testimony, Chavis and eight others were convicted. They are appealing. Hurricane Agnes' blew a lost of rain over North Carolina in June before devastating many sections of the nation's midsection. Many low areas of the upper Piedmont, were flooded but damage was not severe and there was no loss of life.

Want Memphis To Be Prepared

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A state legislator says he will ask the general assembly to take steps to keep Memphis from becoming another Managua—the Central American city leveled by an earthquake and beset with food, water and housing catastrophes since. State Rep. Alvin King, D-Memphis, plans to ask the legislature to establish a commission to probe the readiness of Memphis to cope with a quake. Said King, "I think the city of Memphis should take a look at what's happened in Managua, Nicaragua, because Memphis is situated in the middle of the New Madrid fault, according to physical studies." It is not generally known, even by many Memphis residents, that the nation's 17th largest city sits astride the fault, which extends from near Cairo, Ill., to south of Memphis. The experts say the fault was the scene in 1811-12 of the most violent earth tremors ever recorded on the North American continent. Based on studies, experts say another quake along the fault is a real possibility to be faced, perhaps in the next two or three decades. "We can't forecast earthquakes, but the same as the weather bureau can look at the average climate of an area, we can look at the average seismic climate over a period and tell what has been happening ... and expect recurrence," said Dr. Fred Followill, director of the seismological laboratory at the University of Mississippi. Followill says he anticipates another quake along the New Madrid fault and is worried because Memphis, the largest city along it, has taken almost no precautions. On the basis of studies over 2,000 years in China and Japan, Followill says it is shown that energy builds in fault areas over the years, then is released in a short time during a tremor. The last major earthquake along the central Mississippi valley was in 1895-77 years ago—and was of the kind of intensity which researchers say recurs about every 100 years. Another quake like the one of 1812, which kept the ground shaking for years, has been building up ever since, says Followill, "but we do not know how much energy was released then, or how fast it has been accumulating." Followill definitely, however, anticipates a quake of the 1895 magnitude within 20 years. He has called for work on quake-resistant buildings in the central Mississippi valley and for the government to establish a network of seismographs, but both of the expensive proposals have generally fallen on deaf ears.

Fortification Given To Ga.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Gov. Jimmy Carter announced Saturday that Wormsloe, a well-preserved 1735 fortification at Savannah, has been donated to the state. Carter said the 750-acre tract will be held by the Nature Conservancy pending passage of the Heritage Trust Program by the legislature. Carter said the land, valued at more than $3 million, will be bought by the state for $150,000 upon passage of the act. The program is a $17 million venture designed to preserve significant Georgia lands. Wormsloe, one of the state's original fortifications against the Spanish, contains stands of virgin timber and buildings retained in their original condition.

Flirting With Death Was Game For Police Informer In Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Blonde-haired Linda Dianne Russ, says a Norfolk detective, "flirted with death" in a sheaf of poems and a sketch book she gave him of her drawings.

"It was a game with her," the detective added. "I believe she knew she was going to get hurt. She was just never careful enough."

Linda, a 26-year-old eighth grade dropout who married for the second time at the age of 16, was one of the Norfolk area's most reliable and successful police informants.

Last Thursday, the skeleton of Linda Dianne Russ—who had been missing from her home since last Aug. 24—was discovered in a ditch in nearby Chesapeake. Police still have been unable to determine whether she was beaten to death or strangled.

She had been scheduled to testify in Norfolk Corporation Court in September against two men charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Only a few days before she disappeared, she talked with a newsman.

"You sort of get bored with your married-type friends when you're in a marriage that doesn't have kids," she told him.

She came from a family of five children in North Carolina and worked various jobs, a waitress among them. She met her second husband, Harry Russ, at a drive-in.

Russ says Dianne first became involved as an informant when she noticed a man continued to brag in bars about how many burglaries and robberies he had committed without being caught.

"It bothered her that some guy could do this," her husband says.

She became good at her job. During a three-year period, police said she provided information or testimony that resulted in at least 60 different persons being convicted on charges ranging from possession of marijuana to murder.

One detective went so far as to say Norfolk "is a lot cleaner in the Ocean View area because of Dianne's work."

But it was her adeptness that moved her from the drug scene into the more vicious criminal element.

A detective who knew she was tough and reliable asked Dianne to do a special job for him in mid-1971—watch a convict who was being paroled who police believed was headed for another criminal act.

The young informant became friendly with the convict and learned his plan—he was to go to North Carolina, where he would be paid $500 to murder someone.

Dianne tipped police to the name of the intended victim, but authorities eventually gave up a stakeout at the assigned location. A short time later, the man was killed.

After that incident, a detective said Dianne got into informing as never before. Her testimony convicted criminal after criminal until finally her career was blown.

Police began telling her too many people knew who she was. A story about her appeared in a national magazine. But she wouldn't quit.

Detectives said Dianne often showed concern for those she helped convict. She felt, they said, she could help them in some way.

During the weeks before her death, she began to show her fear of repercussions and got a special permit to carry a concealed weapon.

The night before she disappeared, her husband says, they went together to a beer joint where she was to meet a man who police hoped would turn state's evidence. While the two talked, a third man sat in a nearby booth and stared at Dianne.

Finally, her husband says, she went over and talked to him. Russ says she later told him the mysterious man claimed to be a syndicate operative in Portsmouth for a "hit."

The next evening Dianne got a call—from the stranger she had met. He asked to meet her nearby. She went—but was never seen alive again.

Those who knew her said she took her job seriously.

"If it were my own mother I caught in the wrong," she once told a detective, "she'd go, too. I mean that. She'd go, too."

high one year and low the next? Given a choice, most industries have chosen price stability.

The key to reducing the magnitude of the hog price cycle is forward pricing coupled with profitable production decision based on forward prices. Forward pricing includes any means of establishing a price for the hogs before they are ready for delivery. The live hog futures market is one forward pricing option.

Forward pricing offers a free market solution to the problem of price cycles. Producers must learn to use forward pricing to their advantage. They must recognize that more profits can be made from production decisions based on known forward prices than can be made from trying to get the highest possible price in "the futures market or on contracts. If packers and producers continue to operate on a current price basis, then the only alternatives seem to be the government supply control or continued wild price cycles.

The possibility is real for bringing some order to the chronic hog price cycle situation. But, it takes actions rather than words to turn the possibilities into a reality.

With hog prices around $30 few producers are concerned about price cycles. Hogs selling at $15 seem a long way in the past and prices as low as $20 seem a long way in the future. Most producers are aware of price cycles, but are unable to anticipate when price changes will come. So, they simply produce as if today's prices will last forever. Packer's profits tend to move in cycles opposite to prices and profits or producers. High hog prices squeeze packer profit margins and low hog prices tend to yield packers their greatest margins of profit. For example, 1972 will probably be one of the most profitable years producers have ever had and one of the least profitable years for the packer.

There are arguments for and against cycles in hog prices. Some argue that price cycles cause profits for producers and packers to "average" higher than would be the case with stable prices. The reason being that unstable prices generate risk and that acceptance of risk is rewarded by greater profits.

There may be no definite answer as to whether price cycles are good or bad. But, who has ever heard of an industry that has the ability to set prices

Building Permits Up In November

RALEIGH — Building permits totaling $75,661,709 were reported during November by 36 Tar Heel cities of more than 10,000 population, State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane said today.

Commissioner Crane said the November building figure was 2.7 per cent higher than the $73,701,982 reported for November, 1971. Permits valued at $669,474,420 were reported by the cities for the first eleven months of 1972, Crane stated. This was 8.6 per cent higher than the $616,379,681 reported for the first eleven months of 1971.

Rocky Mount led the cities with building permits totaling $16,485,303. The Rocky Mount total included a permit for construction of a new Texfi industrial building valued at more than $15 million. Raleigh was second, with permits totaling $11,360,456. Durham was third with $6,808,288. Eight other cities reported permits exceeding $1,000,000.

Greenville reported that building permits for the month of November had totaled $806,050, while Kinston reported a total of $460,535. The city of Wilson reported that building permits there had totaled $488,044. Goldsboro reported a total of $1 million in permits.

For the first 11 months of 1972, Greenville's totals amounted to $13,315,880. Other area towns reported as follows: Kinston, $5,917,390; Wilson, $8,833,229; Goldsboro, $16,586,020.

Return With POW Letters

NEW YORK (AP) — Folk-singer Joan Baez and three other antiwar activists have returned from a trip to Hanoi with 600 letters from American prisoners of war to friends and relatives in the United States.

Barry Romo of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War told newsmen on the group's arrival here Sunday night that the intensive U.S. bombing campaign against the Hanoi-Haiphong area "didn't mean a thing in North Vietnam. It only meant 56 more POWs."

He said that, during their stay in the North Vietnamese capital, the Americans met with 13 American prisoners.

With Miss Baez and Romo were Telford Taylor, a Columbia University law professor, and the Rev. Michael Allen of the Yale Divinity School.

Not All Happy Over Common Market

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britain
surrendered a thousand years

of economic independence to join Europe's Common Market
today, but there were signs many in the island nation and on the mainland viewed it as just another historic milestone.

A survey showed British public opinion divided over the prospect of lost sovereignty and higher prices. The poll found 39 per cent opposed the move, 38

per cent liked it and 23 per cent

had no opinion.
Not everyone on the continent
marched to the tune of "Zukunftsmusik," German for

"Music of the Future."
"The competition will be fierce and perhaps not very pleasant at first, but it's bound to be good for this country in the end," said George Dowling, 58, a North London businessman.

settle in any other, but there is a lot of fine print attached to this.

"Lots of people I know are worried that Britain is going to be bossed from Brussels," said Robert Wheatley, 22, a bank
clerk from a London suburb.
"That's probably not true, but many of my friends don't like even the possibility."

Some centralized bossing is inevitable. All the Common Market countries—Britain, Ireland and Denmark, the new members, and France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the original six—have given up some of their independence.

The basic arrangement is that of a customs union. All members let in each other's goods without duty and charge
the same import taxes on goods from outside the nine nations.

But Western Europe's cost of living soars faster than that of the United States, and there are complicating factors in the new accord.

In Denmark, Copenhagen restaurants sold bottles of New Year's champagne at two rates: as much as $22 before midnight and as little as $12
afterwards since taxes on champagne dropped from $6 to $1. However, tax collectors are likely to point out that both bottles sold in Copenhagen at New Year's had to be imported in 1972. They will want to collect from the restaurants at the old rate.

Bubbly buffs in Britain and Ireland got no such favors.

Food will cost more in Britain after Feb. 1 because Common Market prices for farm products are well above world levels. Meat, grain, sugar and dairy products will cost more.
But Britons could get some fruits and vegetables cheaper under the continental system.

The new arrangements add irritation to relations between Western Europe and the United States. U.S. farmers long have attacked the old Common Market for keeping down imports of American products. Now Britain must adopt these measures too.

But higher farm prices are good news in Ireland and Denmark, where farmers make up a large proportion of the eight million population. Only about four per cent of the 55 million Britons still are down on the farm.

Manufacturing tariffs go down April 1, but the cuts are spread over five years, so the first ones will amount to only two or three per cent on most products.

The present rate of inflation in Britain could boost prices by that much between now and April.

Besides, importers tend to take a tariff reduction as an additional profit rather than pass it to their customers.

In Italy, a value-added tax goes into effect today amid fears it will bring higher prices
as it has in other Common Market countries. Britain starts
later in the year.

The West Germans and French have been talking about the advantages of a joint attack on inflation, but what they expect to accomplish is unclear.

In the matters of daily international life, the Common Market has not brought much change to anyone but a comparatively small number of farmers and businessmen.
Tariffs are abolished, but taxes
still are charged on small shipments from one member country to another.

There are more customs posts on the borders than ever.

The nine member countries have agreed citizens from any member ought to be free to Immigrants to Britain, even if they are British subjects, will have to live in the country five years before they can exercise that right on the continent. This will apply to Asians from Uganda.

The freedom to move exists for most manual workers; but,
if you are a doctor, lawyer,
teacher, banker or stockbroker,
your credentials will not be recognized.

Health Care Program Is Proposed

RALEIGH (AP) — A committee has proposed that a state level program be established to assist North Carolina areas which have difficulty in acquiring health care services,
Gov. Bob Scott said Saturday.

Dr. Charles W. Styron of Raleigh, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Community Health Assistance, made the report to Scott.

Styron said the committee
feels that "state government should exert leadership in encouraging the full and effective utilization of all available resources, public as well as private, and directing these resources to best serve the needs of health scarcity areas."

Scott noted that North Carolina is a state comprised principally of many small towns and communities—"areas that are most troubled in attracting health personnel."

"It would seem to me," he said, "that a program within the Department of Human Resources that would provide assistance to these communities in finding doctors and other health professionals and/or planning health services in keeping with the communities'
resources and he availability of manpower would be effective."

Scott said he was commending the report and its recommendations to Gov.-elect Jim Holshouser.

The Worry Clinic Sin Of Omission Costs Husband

Nila must vividly realize that sirens don't win your husbands with tastier roast beef. No; it's their superior brand of "boudoir cheesecake." You virtuous wives are 50 percent to blame for your straying husbands! You lose them by your "sins of omission," so get help!

By GEORGE W. CRANE.
Ph. D., M. D.
CASE V-583: Nila J., aged 36, is sexually frightened.
"Dr. Crane," she began "we have four children and I have always felt ours was a perfect marriage.

"But my husband is beginning to grow platonic toward me, though I have just learned he had an affair recently with a young secretary.
"I am heartbroken! But I still love him and so do the kiddies.
"Besides, he still comes home to us and is very generous with my household allowance.
"So how can I prevent another repetition of this sexual affair?"

Boudoir Cheesecake
Nila is a superb cook. But I have repeatedly warned you wives that the outside siren doesn't win your husbands away from you by serving him tastier roast beef.
No, indeed! She merely dishes out more enticing boudoir cheesecake! Nila, like many happy wives, is too well upholstered.
And excess fat around your equator makes you look stodgy, unromantic, and like a good old motherly soul; not a seductive siren!
Moreover, even young wives are not very aggressively ardent in the bedroom.
So you fat, listless wives better combat your waning physical charm with more coquetry and boudoir finesse.

Remember, girls, though you yourself may feel quite satisfied with your present bedroom menu of erotic calories, your mate may be starving!

For virile males crave maybe 4 times the amount of boudoir calories that you actually desire.
Wives, it isn't the outside paramour that makes your husband start starving!
No; it's the person who stares back at you when you look at your own mirror!

Even the most virtuous wives are usually 50 percent to blame for straying mates! Why?
Because of their sins of omission; not of commission!

Ergo, follow these three rules for happy marriage:
(1) Feign far more ardor in the boudoir than you normally feel for a successful wife any function in lieu of a woman harem!
(2) Slenderize till you are within 10 pounds of your weight on your honeymoon.
To do so, follow the safe, drugless dehydration diet outlined in the booklet below.
Don't expect to find any glamorized "easy" dieting plan so merely limit yourself to about 800 calories per day, with 40% of them in protein foods!
If you mean while use the dehydration strategy that is adapted to cool weather, you'll be down 10 pounds in 10 days.
(3) Until you regain your former sylphlike good nature, try to neutralize the negative erotic effect of your surplus "blubber," by using more seductive perfume, plus trilly slips and diaphanous negligees.
And always test your perfume on your mate; don't pick out
