Laird Says Vietnamization Makes It Possible

Total Withdrawal When POWs Freed

Pitt Blanketed By Snow

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A storm which has brought snow or freezing rain to all parts of North Carolina, has dumped from three to four inches of snow on the Greenville area and made driving on local streets and highways across the state hazardous.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, about four inches of snow fell during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. And the snow had failed to let up by noon.

The low temperature for the same period was recorded at 21 degrees, while the high was 31 degrees. The Tar River level was 5.1 feet.

Spokesmen for the North Carolina State Highway Commission said their crews started to work about 9:30 p.m. yesterday and at mid-morning were still "pushing snow". But, they added, it is coming right back.

They said roads are hazardous for driving, with two to three inches of snow, and ice under the snow.

City crews have also been working, trying to keep snow from building up on major thoroughfares in the city, and spreading sand at intersections and hills, but driving within the WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, the first Cabinet official to face Congress since last month's heavy bombing of North Vietnam, said today that Vietnamization has made possible the total withdrawal of U.S. forces once POWs are released.

"The South Vietnamese people today, in my view, are fully capable of providing for their own in-country security against the North Vietnamese," Laird said in a final report to Congress prepared for the House Armed Services Committee.

He said the Saigon government's ability to defend itself makes possible a settlement in which American war prisoners could be returned and the South Vietnamese would have a chance to survive as an independent nation.

Laird's 104-page report reviewed his four-year stewardship of the Pentagon and his recommendations for the future, but made no reference to the recent heavy bombing of North Vietnam.

But as the first high-level administration official to go before Congress since the bombing was broadened on Dec. 16 and then restricted to below the 20th Parallel Dec. 30, Laird was certain to be questioned closely on the matter.

The defense secretary said the equipment and training provided Saigon in the Vietnamization program, of which he has been an architect, "has significantly enhanced the prospect for successful negotiation, but should negotiations fail, Vietnamization makes possible the complete termination of American involvement in the war."

This, he added, is contingent on the safe return of American POWs and an accounting of the missing in action.

On other matters, Laird announced that only 5,000 men will be drafted this year before Selective Service expires and the all-volunteer force becomes effective July 1.

Predicts Adopting Annual Sessions Of N.C. Assembly

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina General Assembly, aiming at adoption of a one-year state budget and moving into annual sessions, convened Wednesday with auto insurance and proposed tax cuts among the many issues facing it.

House Speaker-designate Jim Ramsey predicted today the lawmakers will decide to meet annually—a move that could shorten this year's session to four months.

"Everything points to annual sessions," Ramsey told The Associated Press in an interview. He said Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, who will preside over the Senate, "is all for it."

Money has always been a major issue for the General Assembly, but this year the problem is in reverse. The state has a huge surplus described by former Gov. Bob Scott as being in excess of $200 million. Others have put the figure closer to $300 million.

In view of this, the legislature may go along with a recommendation of the Advisory Budget Commission to grant taxpayers a 10 per cent refund on their state income tax for 1972.

The budget commission also is recommending repeal of the tobacco, soft drink and privilege license taxes along with other tax changes.

Ramsey said, however, he does not think the legislators "are willing to erode the tax base" by repealing these taxes.

One member of the budget commission said he is opposed to removing the taxes because of the possibility of an economic recession that might find the state in a situation where it would need these taxes.

For the first time this century North Carolina has a Republican governor, Jim Holshouser, whose legislative proposals will be handled by a Democratic-controlled legislature.

Holshouser has indicated a willingness to work on a bipartisan basis with the lawmakers and has appealed to them for cooperation.

In addition to annual sessions, auto insurance and proposed tax cuts, other legislative issues include capital punishment, highway commission changes, an expanded public kindergarten system, and overhauling of retirement programs for legislators and law enforcement officers.

Ramsey said he is hopeful that some form of no-fault auto insurance will be enacted. He noted that if the legislature goes to annual sessions and any

Hotel Is Still Held By Snipers

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two of the heavily armed snipers who authorities said killed seven persons and wounded 13 others held police at bay from two points atop an 18-story hotel today, virtually paralyzing a large section of downtown New Orleans.

Police said one of the gunmen remained in a bunker-like concrete-block house at one end of the roof of the Downtown Howard Johnson Hotel and the other moved to a ledge above the 18th floor.

A third sniper was gunned down Sunday night.

When the gunman appeared in the new position today, police sharpshooters opened fire from several positions but apparently did not hit him. Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso ordered all firing stopped except by marksmen 600 yards away in the federal building.

His order came when policemen on the 17th floor of the hotel said they were being fired upon, apparently by their own men.

Giarrusso, who lost his No. 2 man and two other officers in the sniping which began Sunday, had said earlier he would take no chances.

"Time is our ally," he said. "They're at our will now. We're going to win."

The snipers had started their shooting before noon Sunday, peppering the area with gunfire throughout the day after setting sections of the hotel afire. The hotel is about six blocks from the city's famed French Quarter.

Police on Sunday evening had reported a total of 10 persons killed. Early today, they lowered the count to seven and said the mistake apparently was made in duplicate count of the dead found on the top floor of the hotel. They said three bodies, instead of the six originally reported, were found on the top floor. The other dead included the three policemen and a body found in a stairwell.

It was not immediately known whether all of the victims died of gunshot wounds or in fires set by the snipers.

Mayor Moon Landrieu said that efforts to negotiate with the snipers were fruitless. "They said crazy things," he said. "Things like, 'come and get us.'"

A police spokesman said there was "some indication" that the incident might be related to the New Year's Eve sniping attacks on two other policemen, one of whom was killed.

There were three snipers in the bunker at one time, but one was killed by police gunfire from a Marine helicopter Sunday night.

The sniper exposed himself when he leaped from the concrete-block house to shoot at the helicopter.

Police said the snipers were armed with pistols and rifles shooting .44-caliber magnum bullets. Their big-caliber guns were a bass boom compared to the sharp crack of the smaller, high-velocity police weapons.

Police and firemen first were drawn to the hotel before noon Sunday by fires apparently set by the snipers. Firemen managed to keep the flames under control even while ducking volleys of bullets hurled at them by the gunmen.

Two separate fires in which arson is suspected and which authorities say may be linked

Icy Atmosphere

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho resumed peace negotiations today in an apparently icy atmosphere.

President Nixon's national security adviser and the North Vietnamese Politburo member met for the first time in almost four weeks at a house owned by the French Communist party in Gif sur Yvette, a suburb 15 miles southwest of Paris.

For the first time, no North Vietnamese official was waiting at the doorstep to welcome Kissinger and his aides. Kissinger waited outside for nearly a minute, then pushed open the door and entered.

The lack of a friendly reception presumably was an expression of anger at the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong last month.

Tho and Xuan Thuy, the head of the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris, arrived more than 20 minutes before the Americans and smiled and waved at the waiting newsmen.

Most of the Americans had tense, serious expressions when they arrived.

Three Persons Die In Crash Of Greyhound Bus

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Mae Nixon, 39, of Syracuse, N.Y. Twenty-eight were injured, of whom eight were admitted to area hospitals. One of the injured was listed in critical condition Sunday night.

The vehicle was traveling from New York to Miami. Its last stop was in Richmond, Va., and its next in Fayetteville, N.C.

Kearney said the bus apparently flipped into the air, hit on the top and rolled on its side after it ran off the ramp. He said skidmarks on the pavement measured 104 feet, and the bus skidded another 270 feet on its wheels after it left the roadway. However, the trooper said the driver was traveling within the speed limit.

A Greyhound spokesman said the bus was carrying 33 passengers.

Da Nang Air Base Mistakenly Bombed By U.S. Flight Leader

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — An American flight leader mistakenly guided five U.S. fighter-bombers into an accidental attack on the Da Nang Air Base today.

Ten Americans and one Vietnamese were reported wounded by shrapnel or injured while running for cover. No deaths were reported. The western part of the base where the bombs hit is thinly populated.

The U.S. Command reported that about half a dozen U.S. AC119 gunships and one helicopter were lightly damaged by flying shrapnel and four fuel tanks were destroyed.

The command first reported the explosions at 8:20 a.m. as an enemy shelling attack. Seven hours later, it announced that an investigation showed five Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers "flying above a heavy overcast accidentally dropped 34 500-pound bombs at Da Nang Air Base."

The intended target was suspected North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions near Da Nang. The flight leader reportedly ordered the bombs dropped at the wrong map coordinates.

The planes — an Air Force F4 Phantom, two Marine F4s and two Navy A7 Corsairs — came from two bases in Thailand and from a carrier off the coast, and the pilots may have been unfamiliar with the Da Nang area.

The U.S. Command reported continued heavy aerial assaults on North Vietnam's southern panhandle with the object of slowing war materiel moving down to South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Forty-five B52s dropped about 1,300 tons of bombs, and there were 124 strikes by fighter-bombers during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks in South Vietnam dropped from an average of 100 per day during the past five days to 77 for the 24 hours ending at dawn today, the Saigon command said. Sixty of the attacks were carried out by rockets and mortars and involved no infantry assaults, headquarters said.

U.S. spokesmen reported the loss of the 33rd American aircraft in operations against North Vietnam since Dec. 18, when the air war was stepped up in an attempt to force Hanoi to agree to President Nixon's peace terms.

An Air Force F4 Phantom returning from a combat mission in the north crashed in northeast Thailand, but the two crewmen ejected safely.

In Laos, a government military spokesman said there has been a steady increase in fighting near the provincial capital of Saravane, 280 miles southeast of Vientiane. Ten Communist soldiers were killed and eight wounded during the weekend, while government troops suffered light casualties, the spokesman said.

Couple Exchanges Vows On Sunday Afternoon

Miss Nancy Kay Radford became the bride of Maurice Wayne Denning in a formal candlelight ceremony at the Saint Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Orville Radford of Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Unest Herman Denning of Newton Grove.

The Rev. Milford D. McPherson, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The Rev. Ezra Fann, pastor of the bridegroom, conducted the communion service.

The church altar was decorated with two fifteen branch spiral candelabra holding burning chalice candles. Interspersing each candelabra were arrangements of white and pink gladio mums, and pom poms, backed with standing palms of emerald jade. The communion table was centered with a silver goblet and engraved bread tray on a cloth of imported Irish linen.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Daniel LeRoux. Mrs. Daniel Byrum, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "O Thou Whose Hand Hath Brought Us".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of chantilly lace and silk organza. The traditional styled gown featured a natural waistline and a bodice designed with a scalloped neckline and long, lace sleeves ending in calla points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt, enhanced with chantilly lace inserts, paneled into a full carriage back extending into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of white satin roses trimmed with clusters of seed pearls.

The bride carried her personal Bible covered with satin and lace centered with white bridal roses and centered with a white orchid in a semi-cascade.

Mrs. Bruce Whitaker attended her sister as matron of honor. She was attired in a formal gown of honey beige bridal stain. The princess style gown featured a scooped neckline and wrist length, multi-colored floral sleeves. She wore a beige picture hat with trim identical to that of the sheer sleeves. The multi-colored trim fell in floor length streamers. The matron of honor carried a colonial nosegay of rose-pink pom poms with matching satin streamers.

Also attending the bride as bridesmaids were Mrs. Donald H. Bowen, Mrs. John C. Radford, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Dale W. Denning, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, all of Greenville. Their gowns of rose-pink bridal satin were styled identical to that of the honor attendant. They carried colonial nosegays of rose-pink pom poms with matching satin streamers.

The bridegroom's father served his son as best man. Groomsman were John C. Radford and James K. Radford, brothers of the bride, Dale W. Denning, brother of the bridegroom, all of Greenville, and Julius D. Thornton of Goldsboro.

Mrs. Radford chose for her daughter's wedding, a rose-pink dress with sheer sleeves and matching accessories. She wore a lavender hybrid orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a lime green dress with lace sleeves and matching accessories. She wore a lavender hybrid orchid corsage.

MRS. MAURICE WAYNE DENNING

The bride is a graduate of Junius H. Rose High School and the Dental Assisting School of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She was granted a certificate of certification from the Certifying Board of the American Dental Assistants Association. She had been employed for the past six years with Dr. James M. Williamson of Greenville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Hobbton High School, Newton Grove, Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., and a 1971 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill receiving a bachelor of Arts degree in radio, television, and motion picture production.

For traveling, Mrs. Denning changed to a tangerine orange sheath with black accessories. She wore the white hybrid orchid lifted from her Bible.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will make their home near Goldsboro. The bride will be employed with Dr. Jack E. Silvers of Goldsboro and the bridegroom will be employed with WGBR-WEQR FM Radio, Goldsboro.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. Ruth Scott hosted a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. A pink and white color scheme was used throughout the hall.

The appointed table was covered with an imported white lace cloth and centered with a bridal doll encircled with pink and white bridal flowers and featured two silver candelabra.

A focal point in the fellowship hall was Mrs. Denning's bridal portrait with her bouquet and covered Bible. A single candle highlighted the lace covered table.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes L. Austin welcomed the guests. Assisting at the register were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morris. Aunts of the bride, Miss Meredith Liles, Mrs. Pierce W. Strider, and Mrs. Ray N. Rouse, Jr. of Goldsboro and MMs. Howard W. Stephens of Raleigh served the wedding cake and punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Liles of Goldsboro, aunt and uncle of the bride, said good-byes.

The Denning-Radford bridal party and guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Denning. Hosts and hostesses for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Unest H. Denning and Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Denning.

Mrs. Swinson named Mrs. Marvin Buck, Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, Mrs. Bob Salem and Mrs. Ronald Staley to a Community Improvement Project Committee.

Mrs. Scrapy Proctor and Mrs. Larry Whitlow were named to the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Mrs. John Harris was named as a new transfer member and welcomed by Mrs. Swinson.

'The Perfect Mother' Is 25 Years Old

Editors' Note
The following is the second and final part of a series on growing controversy over prenatal malnutrition.

NEW YORK (WNS-BOSTON GLOBE) — "If I were a baby choosing a mum," said the British scientist, "I'd insist on a 25-year-old, upper-middle-class woman, plump and over five-foot-five, a non-smoker with normal blood pressure, and from a family not prone to having twins."

Dr. Nevil Butler's specifications for the ideal "mum" don't have anything to do with a dislike of twins, the lower classes, or short and skinny women over 30 who smoke.

Rather, his preferences reflect the factors scientists have recently found to be highly associated with babies who are "small-for-date" — in other words, those who were probably malnourished in the womb.

According to Butler and other scientists at an international symposium on nutrition and fetal development here recently, sponsored by the National Foundation — March of Dimes fetal malnutrition is an immense and largely hidden world health problem.

Recent studies indicate it contributes heavily to the rate of stillbirths, congenital defects, early infant death and suspected retardation of physical, mental and emotional development later in life.

Outnumbers Others
The problem is estimated to affect 30 out of every 1000 pregnancies in the United States, producing up to 120,000 fetally malnourished, small-for-date babies every year — many times more than other well-known birth defects. And elsewhere in the world, malnutrition before birth is thought to be frequently more severe.

What can be done about it? Scientists have only scratched the surface when it comes to identifying causes and possible preventive measures. But very recent research has provided some strong clues.

While a woman may not be able to do much about her height, social class, tendency toward twins or age at pregnancy, there is growing agreement that she should:

- Stop smoking.
- Be checked for high blood pressure early and often during pregnancy.
- Eat well, both in terms of daily caloric intake and grams of protein per day.

Fundamentally these measures appear merely commonsensical, but the scientific evidence behind them is often very recent, inconclusive and frequently controversial.

For instance, a scientific debate has been brewing for the past few years over the effect of smoking on the unborn infant. Though still unsettled, the most dramatic evidence to date that smoking is harmful comes from a British huge 14-year study directed by Dr. Butler.

Affects Learning
Following almost every child born in England, Scotland and Wales during one week in March 1968, Butler's group found that mothers who smoked had babies whose birthweight was markedly lower. In addition, the smoking during pregnancy was associated with a 30 percent increase in newborn deaths, a doubled risk of congenital heart defects, and a persistent lag in the surviving child's later learning ability.

The picture concerning high blood pressure in pregnancy is less clear. The risk to the mother of pregnancy-associated high blood pressure has long been known. It can lead to kidney and blood-vessel disorders and sometimes to a grave condition called eclampsia — convulsions and coma.

The risks for the unborn infant are not well-understood, however. Dr. A. Minkowski, director of a newborn hospital in Paris, pointed to two recent studies indicating that high blood pressure during pregnancy greatly constricts the flow of blood in the uterine arteries.

Since the developing fetus depends on the mother's blood supply both for nutrition and to carry away metabolic wastes, this could theoretically retard the unborn infant's growth.

Minkowski thinks that perhaps as many as half of all small-for-date babies are born to women who are not poorly nourished but who have toxemia, or high blood pressure.

Suggesting that the Chinese are ahead of the West in realizing the dangers of this disorder, the Parisian scientist reported that: "If the blood pressure rises above 130-over-90, Chairman Mao dictates one month of bedrest."

You would think that the mother's diet would be obviously related to the development of the child within her—that, fundamentally, he is what she eats.

Nonetheless, the scientific proof of it is skimpy (at least in humans) and the concept runs against folklore and ancient medical dogma.

The old theory is that Mother Nature provides for the unborn infant by making it "the perfect parasite." In other words, the fetus would get all it needed by depleting the mother's fleshy stores, if necessary.

Faithful to this view, many obstetricians still counsel pregnant women against gaining too much weight, and the weight-gain-during-pregnancy issued is currently a subject for hot debate within the medical profession.

Eat For Two?
When it comes to evidence on the other side—that the developing fetus does depend on what the mother eats during pregnancy—"the water become muddy," according to Dr. Jack Metcalf of the University of Oklahoma.

Adds Dr. Jean-Pierre Habicht of the Institute of Nutrition of Central American and Panama: "To date no study provides clear support for the hypothesis that poor maternal nutrition is related to low birthweights."

The best evidence, in fact, may be Habicht's own study, reported at this meeting. He and his colleagues gave high-protein and high-calorie supplements to under-nourished pregnant women in four Guatemalan villages where the average annual income is $200 and one child in seven dies before the age of one. (The US average is one in 45.)

Habicht found that the mother's caloric reserves before conception and the number of calories she ingested during pregnancy were both important determinants of her baby's birthweight, regardless of a host of factors. For every additional 10,000 calories the mother ate during pregnancy, her baby weighed an average of two ounces more at birth.

Protein Affect
Curiously, however, the protein supplements (as distinct from the calories supplements) "had little, if any, effect on birthweight," Habicht said. This was surprising, since the home diet in these villages produces kwashiorkor, a protein-deficiency disease, in preschool children.

This finding does not, however, rule out the possibility that protein intake during pregnancy may influence such things as the number of brain cells at birth—as it does in laboratory animals. Habicht's findings appear to be confirmed by a similar experiment underway in Harlem which also involves giving food supplements to undernourished pregnant women. Dr. David Rush, a Columbia University pediatrician who is conducting that study, said that it is showing so far that the mother's weight gain during pregnancy is the most important factor influencing the baby's birthweight.

The British study also buttresses this general conclusion. Dr. Butler found that small-for-date babies were twice as common in lower socio-economic classes.

Such work may point the way for strategies to attack the newly acknowledged problem of fetal malnutrition. Not only may obstetricians have to change their advice to women regarding weight gain during pregnancy and be more vigilant of high blood pressure, but it may become possible to pinpoint susceptible women and prevent damage to the unborn child.

Dr. Rush, lamenting that "we have no national food policy," thinks that such a policy may not consist of handing out food supplements to pregnant poor women but making sure they have enough money to buy adequate food.

"I don't believe the middle-class woman is any better educated about nutrition than the poor black woman," Rush said. "She just has more money."

March Of Dimes Films Shown At Club Meet

Three films pertaining to the upcoming March of Dimes campaign were shown at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville Wednesday night.

Mrs. W. W. Bruner Jr. and Capt. Jerry Fabisch told of various birth defects statistics and also planned activities for the local March of Dimes.

The local club is sponsoring the Mothers March on Birth Defects for the campaign, Jan. 19-21, and the club committee is being headed by Mrs. Bruner. She announced that a meeting of the area chairmen had been set for Thursday.

Mrs. Bruner also announced that the club sponsored "spring follies" would be held May 18-19 in McGinnis Auditorium.

Mrs. Bobby Swinson, new president, conducted the meeting and heard the following reports: Home Life, given by Mrs. Richard Hunsucker, who said that a Christmas party had been given at Caswell Center.

Mrs. Skip Collier, Public

Affairs, called a short meeting following the general meeting of the group. Mrs. Lawrence Behr, Arts, called a department meeting for Monday, Jan. 9, at her home. Mrs. Matt Gustafson, Education, announced that Miss Elaine Hawkins of Greenville is the club's candidate for the Sally Southall Cotten Scholarship.

Mrs. W. T. James announced that a short International meeting would also follow the business meeting.

It was announced that Mrs. William Fuqua, immediate past president, was remembered with an engraved silver card tray.

Mrs. Swinson named Mrs. Marvin Buck, Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, Mrs. Bob Salem and Mrs. Ronald Staley to a Community Improvement Project Committee.

Break The Chain Or Break The Law

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to that lady who felt guilty if she didn't continue to circulate "chain letters," please tell her she should feel guilty if she DOES. They are against the law and should be turned over to the local postmaster.

Only last week I received a "prayer" chain letter in the mail. It said:

"Trust in the Lord Jesus Christ with all your heart and always acknowledge Him and He will light your way. This prayer has been sent to you to bring you luck. The original copy came from the Holy Land and has been sent around the world 23 times. Make four copies and send them to your friends. You must do this within four days or you will suffer dire consequences. One man in Hawaii broke the chain and on the sixth day he died. On the seventh day he won $50,000, which he was unable to collect."

Such rot!

I am a Presbyterian minister, over 80 years of age. I still preach every Sunday and I believe in prayer, but I broke the chain, and my "four days" are long past and I still feel great!

I shall surely tell my congregation to forward any chain letters to their postmaster and feel repaid for having headed off at least one more piece of superstitious junk.

HAROLD A. SMITH, ATLANTIC, IA.

DEAR REV. SMITH: Thanks. And I'll tell my readers the same.

DEAR ABBY: You have said many times in your column that it is not considered good 'etiquet to put "No children, please" on wedding reception invitations.

Well, I don't care what you say. If you had to pay a caterer $15 a person you would make sure Mom and Pop didn't bring their six kids along to get a free meal.

Some people have to be told in plain English to leave their kids at home, and I say, "TELL 'EM!"

PLAIN TALKER IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR PLAIN: For another point of view, let's hear it from a reader in Coon Rapids, Minn.

DEAR ABBY: So often you hear from people who want to exclude children from a wedding reception. I find this distressing. Such occasions are ideal for families to be together. The father has to work away from his home all day, and in many cases the mother also works. The kids are involved in their various school activities, or just left to bum around with their peers while the parents run off and leave them.

Children should be included with their parents at weddings so they will see the beauty and sacredness of the marriage ceremony. And at the reception, if the refreshments were limited to cookies and punch, children could be included without running the cost up. Who cares what is served? After all, people are supposed to be celebrating the union of two people in love—not food and drink!

The family unit is held together by love and togetherness. It is the only thing that will keep our country strong and save mankind from destroying itself. Where else but with his parents should a child learn how adults should conduct themselves?

MARY K. BERG

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, happily married with two children. My parents divorced when I was 12. That was 15 years ago, but to hear my mother talk, you would think it happened only yesterday. She is so bitter and full of resentment, all she ever talks about is how much she hates my father.

I don't happen to see him the way she does. Fortunately, Mother lives out of town, but she telephones me often to give her long, miserable monologs leaving me drained, depressed, and angry. I am sending my parents the following letter. I should have written it years ago:

Dear Divorced Parents:

I love you both for different reasons, so please don't feel that because I love one of you I cannot love the other. Try to understand that even tho you no longer love each other, I still love both of you.

I cannot be expected to know what went wrong with your marriage, nor do I want to know the details of who did what to whom, so please don't try to tell me your side of it. Don't ask me to judge either one of you, just help me to accept your parting so that I can build a life of my own tho my parents live apart.

I still need to be loved by both of you, so please don't allow your resentment, however justified, to destroy my relationships with my grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins on both sides.

I know that you both love me, so please let me love you both.

YOUR CHILD

DEAR ABBY: To the lady with four children by her first husband who married a man who had five children by his first wife and was frequently asked, "Are all those children yours?" here is the best reply I've ever heard: When traveling by train from Wichita, Kas., to Oklahoma, a lady with 11 children was seated just ahead of us. The conductor asked, "Are all these children yours, lady, or is it a picnic?"

She replied, "Yes, they are all mine. And since you asked, it sure ain't no picnic!" E. W. IN AVONDALE, ARIZ.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90060. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060.

Panicky Senators Not Helping

On Oct. 27 of last year Henry Kissinger startled the world by announcing at a press conference that peace was at hand in Vietnam and an agreement was within sight.

Right? And since peace did not develop it is obvious that the Nixon administration shamelessly used the peace negotiations to win re-election.

Right?

Well, it was not exactly that way, although you might think so to hear some critics tell it these days. Actually rumors of progress in the peace talks had been swirling for some days, but it was North Vietnam which broke the silence on Oct. 26 with an announcement that an agreement had been reached. Their public announcement demanded that the U.S. sign and "give proof of its good will and good faith."

U.S. officials issued "no comments" that day, but the next day it was decided that it would be necessary for negotiator Kissinger to appear at a press conference.

We bring up this recent, but forgotten history because of efforts to make it appear that Nixon used the Kissinger announcement to defeat George McGovern. The fact is, that the polls showed all along that McGovern was soundly beaten and he wound up defeated pretty much as the polls had shown.

Sen. McGovern was not clear on too many issues during the 1973 campaign, but the one issue he was clear on was that of pulling out of Vietnam at any cost. He would have withdrawn all U.S. forces and all support of South Vietnam and hoped North Vietnam would have been kind enough to give back the prisoners.

If one thing is certain, it is that the voters rejected that philosophy. Thus, if Sen. Mansfield thinks Congress had a "mandate" to vote a cut-off of funds for the war he should study the presidential candidates' positions and the final results.

Virtually no one in this country wants to see this tragic war continue a moment longer than is necessary, but the public recognized that a negotiated settlement which will give some chance of permanent peace in Southeast Asia is the proper way to proceed.

Our senators should borrow some of the resolve and understanding of their constituents. We firmly believe that a settlement can be reached that will be fair and just, that will end the killing and will return our prisoners. The conducting of this final phase of the negotiations is a presidential responsibility, however and a bunch of panicky senators is not helping to bring the war to a negotiated conclusion.

Conflict Over Tax Structure

By BRYAN HAILSLIP
Raleigh, N.C. — Contrary currents for tax relief and tax reform will be running in the General Assembly which convenes this week.

BRYAN HAILSLIP

On the one hand, the Advisory Budget Commission has prepared recommendations for tax reductions including repeal of the soft drink and cigarette levies imposed in 1969 and a one-time 10 percent credit on individual income tax.

On the other hand, State AFL-CIO Chief Wilbur Hobby last week laid out a tax reform package which would scale up income tax rates on incomes over $14,000 while removing the sales tax from food and medicine.

At some point, as the session moves along, divergent views on tax matters are likely to clash — in debate if not in votes. Whether either prevails depends on the holding power of those legislators opposed to erosion of the state's tax structure.

With proverbial certainty, taxes again will be an issue confronting lawmakers returning to Raleigh. The difference this time is that the problems of what to do about money arise from a surfeit rather than a scarcity.

Full Revenue Coffers

A record biennium-end credit balance — or surplus — plus millions from federal revenue sharing was the source for the budget commission's tax-cutting bonanza. Gov. Bob Scott heralded the prospect a couple of months before leaving office.

An attitude of caution was expressed by Sen. Gordon Allen of Person, second-ranked in the upper chamber. North Carolina must take care, he advised, to protect its sound revenue structure and good track record in fiscal affairs.

The state is in fortunate financial position, he granted. "A great deal of it is windfall money, of a non-recurring nature," he added. "We should move very slowly in suing it as the basis to eliminate or replace any tax."

As Senate President Pro Tem, chosen by the Democratic majority, Allen is expected to play a leadership role in the session. Of the tax relief propositions raised by the budget commission, Allen said the income tax credit has most appeal since it would not erode the tax base.

Hobby Urges Tax Reform

Hobby disagreed, in the presentation of the tax reforms which he said he will urge the legislature to consider.

The 10 per cent credit on income tax, he contended, "is unfair to the average taxpayer because the present income tax system is not progressive enough... It is weighted heavily in favor of those citizens who make over $10,000 a year and especially for those citizens who are in the $25,000-plus a year bracket."

The issue to be resolved Hobby said, "is not just tax cuts but tax reform and that this tax reform be based on fairness, justice and the ability to pay."

In general, the program Hobby talked about revived proposals from his unsuccessful campaign last spring for the Democratic nomination for governor in which the theme was "keep the Big Boys Honest." He wore a button with the slogan at the news conference announcing the program.

"North Carolina needs a new and a fair tax system. We need to make our present income tax system more progressive so that the big boys in this state pay their fair share of government. We need to take a look at the corporate tax structure in this state. Both South Carolina and Virginia have raised their corporate tax in the past two years," he said.

Medicine Tax Repeal

The best chance for enactment apparently lies with the proposed removal of the sales tax from non-prescription medicine which would entail some $7 million per year. It has the support of Gov. Jim Holshouser.

So far, Holshouser has gone no further than that in proposing revenue changes. At a later date, he will give the General Assembly specific budget recommendations dealing with spending and taxes.

Politics as well as economics are involved in fiscal matters for the coming session. For the first time this century a Republican is in the governor's office while Democrats control the legislature.

Some Democratic legislators already are asking what the consequences would be if taxes were cut under a GOP administration and a few years hence, should Democrats regain the governorship, tax increases would be required. "There are very real political considerations," acknowledged Sen. Allen.

A study by the Research Triangle Institute he reminded showed that if taxes and expenditures continue on present trends the state will be engaged in deficit spending by 1980. That he indicated is hardly favorable to tax reductions in the '70s.

Kissinger At Superbowl

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has announced that he is supporting the Washington Redskins in their battle with the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl Jan. 14.

He is sending Henry Kissinger to Miami to negotiate with Coach Don Shula of the Dolphins an honorable settlement to the hostilities.

Before leaving for Miami, Kissinger briefed reporters on what he hoped to accomplish in the talks.

"We are sticking by our nine-point plan which includes the following": Kissinger told the press, "withdrawal of all Dolphin players from Redskins territory. If the Dolphins cross the 50-yard line, the President will take whatever measures he believes are essential to prevent them from scoring a touchdown.

"The President will insist that Redskins Coach George Allen be recognized as the sole legitimate heir to the Super Bowl Crown, and will support him with air power until the Dolphins realize their hopes of taking over the championship game are futile.

"An international team of referees from both the National and American Football Conferences will patrol the field to report any offside violations by the Dolphins.

"The President guarantees that the Redskins will be free to choose their own game plan. His only objective is to prevent the Dolphins from imposing their totalitarian type of football on the peace-loving Washington team.

"The Dolphins will be asked to return all films and scouting reports that they now hold, and exchange any players the Miami team might intercept in Redskins raids on Dolphin territory."

Kissinger said that on his previous trip to Miami he had worked out a 99 percent agreement with Shula, but it was the 1 percent which was holding up the signing of the treaty.

"What is in the 1 percent?" a newspaperman asked. "The Dolphins still insist they want to win the game." "But isn't that a big 1 percent?" another reporter asked.

"The President has stated many times that the Dolphins will never be permitted to win at the negotiating table what they are unable to win on the gridiron. He believes that the Redskins are able to defend themselves against the Miami running attack, but at the same time both he and Coach Allen want assurances in writing that the Dolphins will not commit aggression against the Washington secondary."

"Will the President consult with Congress before taking any action against the Dolphins?" a correspondent asked.

"The Gulf of Rozelle Resolution, passed by Congress in 1934, permits the President to take any action in a play-off game when the interests of the Washington Redskins are threatened. The world knows the American people want a just and honorable settlement to the Super Bowl contest. At the same time this country has invested too much time and money to allow the Miami Dolphins to think they can win the game."

"Suppose Coach Shula doesn't agree to your terms?"

"Then we'll have no choice but to carpet bomb the Miami locker room."

Former Critics Woo Connally

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DALLAS — The same Texas Republican leaders who in 1970 cursed the alliance between President Nixon and their ancient foe, former Democratic Gov. John B. Connally, are now prayerfully calling for his early conversion to Republicanism and a Connally drive for President in 1976.

These are no Democrat-for-Nixon Tories. They are the men who have led this state's Republican party for a decade with snail-like success. To them, Connally as Mr. Republican in Texas could suddenly uplift the party to a majority status. Their goal of making the Democrats a minority party leaders would be within reach.

Indeed, moderate-to-conservative Democrats, their backs to the wall, fear that Connally as Republican presidential nominee would cut off the last exit. Their hope has been that Republicans, wallowing in tribal insularity and non-pragmatism, would blackball Connally. Hence, the new foundness for Connally by the Republican establishment is deeply significant.

That fondness stems partly from Republican worry that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, if he follows relative moderation, could carry Texas against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. Key Texas Republicans feel Agnew lacks energy, dedication and skill—a judgment reflecting his inattention to fence-mending. "If Agnew walked in here, maybe he'd recognize me—but I doubt it," a leading establishment Republican told us.

But more than the 26 electoral votes of Texas are at stake. Republicans here envision a cornucopia of Republican victories, including scores of legislative seats resulting from a Connally-led ticket. Republican agents now are secretly recruiting Connally's best-known Democratic allies for the 1974 Republican state ticket, including governor.

The process began early in 1972. Republican Dallas oil executive (now Deputy Secretary of Defense) William Clements, chairman of Mr. Nixon's Texas campaign, told Connally the President's victory could be assured if the rural county courthouse machines did not produce their usual landslide of Democratic votes.

The Republicans were awestruck by Connally's performance. In more than 100 telephone calls Connally talked the courthouse politicians into neutrality or a Nixon endorsement. Thus did Connally open the prospect of the Republican party, strong in the big cities for nearly a generation, finally breaking through in rural Texas.

Democratic politicians here who have talked to Connally recently fear he may soon formally embrace

Strength For Today

DIVINE SUPPORT

There is a clinche, and a very ancient one, that the darkest hour comes just before dawn. It seems to us at times that circumstances become unendurable. Illness, loss of money, death in the family circle, the instability (and sometimes the betrayal) of people we have always trusted—these are problems the world wrestles with every day.

Yet these problems often prove our salvation. Light dawns upon us as we try to solve our problems. Discipline makes us stronger. Denial has a way of sharpening our sensibilities. Just when we think we are defeated we frequently find ourselves emerging into a light that shineth unto the perfect day. The more we have to take in the way of denial and punishment, the more we fine we can take. We regret again that ancient clinche that the darkest hour is often the hour just before dawn.

We need always to remember that God is on our side if we allow Him so to be. We think of Him so often as the Judge that the idea of God as our Father recedes into the background. But the teaching of the whole Bible — and particularly of the New Testament — is that God is our Father and has for us the compassion and love that good fathers always have for their children.

If we put everything in our lives in God's hands we will discover how strong those hands are. If we trust his love for us we shall know what love truly means. The Heavenly Father is for us — not against us.

Annual Ritual Meaning's Lost

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The first of the corporate annual reports will be in the mails during the next few weeks, preparing stockholders and analysts for that other recurring phenomenon of the business scene, the annual meeting.

These two practices have become institutionalized—so much so, say the critics, that they have become rituals whose meanings have been lost in the past.

It is literally impossible to assemble any but a minute fraction of General Motors shareholders, for example. There aren't enough planes, trains, hotels and halls to accommodate all 1.3 million of them.

Even if such a miracle could be performed, these shareholders would have little to say that counted. Most business is prescheduled, most shareholders too small. More than 40 per cent of GM owners hold only 1 to 25 shares.

Do they utilize the time so saved to read the annual report? Judging from a survey by an investor relations firm, it wouldn't seem so. It found that 40 per cent of stockholders spent five minutes or less and that 15 per cent don't read their reports at all.

Fred Foy, former chairman of Koppers Co., analyzes the report in the current Harvard Business Review and gives them low, low marks. In effect, he maintains that the poor readership is justified.

It appears, he suggests, that the planners and writers of reports fail to analyze their potential readership. And as media people today realize acutely, any publication that goes unread is soon dead, even if not so declared. "They seem to edit pretty well for the in-depth people but pretty badly for the once-over-lightly, once-a-year stockholder readers," Foy states and then asks: "How do we reach them?"

The solution, he believes, is to highlight the year's activities in single paragraphs for the 15-minute readers, with notations to security analysts and others than an expanded version can be found on inside pages.

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Are you getting older? Well, you don't even have to ask the question if — You have more friends inside the cemetery than out of it. The last thing you do before going to bed is write down a list of things you know you won't be around to doing tomorrow. You spend more time looking backward than looking forward.

HAL BOYLE

When you hear a new funny story, a picture flashes in your mind of the guy who first told it to you 25 years ago. But you can't quite recall his name or what became of him.

Your wife calls you Dad or Father.

Every year you buy a garden seeds a few days earlier.

Getting a new tie for Christmas is no longer an ordeal, but a kind of consolation — because it is one tradition that is changeless. Instead of hiding the tie or giving it away, you wear it yourself the day after you get it, no matter what it looks like.

When you see a man going up steps two at a time, you think he must be slightly balmy.

You have forgiven yourself your own youth, but you can't forgive it in others.

Let the first snowflake of winter fall, and you lift your voice to all within hearing distance and bleat out, "You should have seen the great snowfall here in December 1947. There's never been anything like it before or since — except maybe the great blizzard of '88."

Without your realizing it, your daily speech is larded with faded colloquialisms, such as "They're spitting images of each other or 'I was only kneehigh to a grasshopper in those days.'"

That little round paunch you call a flat tire is getting alarmingly bigger, but you never carry out your threats to do anything about it.

You wonder often how some people manage to hold their jobs, but you no longer wonder how you hold yours.

Any morning you come to work and find the janitor has left your wastepaper basket beside somebody else's desk, you ask aloud why nobody seems able to leave things where they find them anymore. You don't really simmer down until you're halfway through your second martini at lunch. That luncheon is more and more likely to consist of chicken a la king than steak, not only because it's cheaper but because it's easier to chew.

Recognize yourself? Well, if you do, you may not be Methuselah yet, old-timer — but you're getting there.

Latin America Symposium Set FCC Hearing Request For Commercial Ban

The politics, educational trends, topography, industries, and culture of Latin America will be discussed at East Carolina University's annual Latin American Symposium Jan. 11-12.

The two-day event, "Aspects of Latin America," will feature lectures by experts on Latin American affairs. All sessions are scheduled for Room C-103 of the campus Social Sciences Building.

According to Dr. Edward P. Leahy, ECU's Coordinator of Latin American Studies and Symposium director, all sessions are open to the public.

Speakers include: Dr. John D. Martz, chairman of political science at UNC-Chapel Hill; James Goes, Staff Specialist with Burroughs Wellcome and Co.; Stephen Moore, student at ECU who has toured Mexico; Dr. Luiz Costa-Pinto, Fellow of the Woodrow Wilson International Institute for Scholars at the Smithsonian Institution; Dr. Kermit C. King, Director of International Education at ECU; and John and Dorothy Satterfield, ECU faculty artists who were with the Peace Corps in Peru.

On Thursday, ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins will open the symposium at 10 a.m. Following Dr. Jenkins' address, Dr. Leahy will lecture on "The Infinite Variety of Latin America" and Dr. Martz, on "Paths to Revolution: The Left in Latin America."

At 2 p.m. Thursday, Goes will speak on "Living and Working in Mexico" and Moore, on "A Student's View of Mexico."

The Thursday evening session, beginning at 8:15, will consist of Dr. Costa-Pinto's lecture, "Aspects of Populism in Latin America."

At 10 a.m. Friday, Dr. King will discuss "The Brazilian Educational Scene: In Crisis and Change." Concluding the symposium will be the Satterfield' joint presentation, "With the Peace Corps in Peru."

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A demand by a citizens' group for a complete federal ban on commercials during children's television programs comes up for hearings today before the Federal Communications Commission.

The commission has given no sign as to how it will act on the knotty legal and moral questions raised by a petition filed in February 1970 by Action for Children's Television—ACT—a citizens' group based in Newton Center, Mass.

In addition to a ban on commercials, the petition asked the FCC to require a minimum of 14 hours' programming a week for young people, and programming for age groups: 2-5 years old, 6-9, and 10-12.

objections: The proposal would violate the 1st Amendment, it would run counter to long-standing policy which makes stations responsible for programming that serves the public interest, it is unworkable because it is impossible to define what is a children's program, and it is self-defeating because it would dry up the sources of funding for such programs.

On the other hand, the commission has received more than 100,000 letters from individuals who endorse the ACT proposals—the biggest outpouring from the public in the FCC's history.

Effective at the start of this year, the National Association of Broadcasters acted to limit the number of commercial minutes from 16 to 12 per hour between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. on weekends. About two-thirds of the nation's 600 TV stations subscribe to the association's code.

A study made for the FCC by Dr. Alan Pearce, a communications economist, found that a ban on commercials during children's programs would cost the networks $65 million in revenue. The study said 30 per cent of all children's-show revenues come from three advertisers: the Kellogg Co., a cereal manufacturer which spent almost $9 million in 1970; Mattel Inc., toy makers, almost $8 million; and General Mills, Inc., another cereal maker, which spent about $7 million in 1970.

the GOP. They describe him as deeply hurt that Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss—his college roommate, close personal friend and political protege—read him out of any official party role.

Such tidings have panicked old-style Texas Democrats, desperately trying to keep their party in the mainstream of this conservative state. Longtime political comrades of both men, they feel, however irrationally, that Strauss should have welcomed all Democrats for Nixon back to the Democratic fold as prodigal sons. They are beside themselves that Strauss predicts Connally's imminent conversion to Republicanism.

Their nightmare, a Texas where being a Democrat is somehow disreputable, not only in the country clubs and executive suites of Dallas and Houston but in small town cafes and churches.

A portent is George Christian, President Lyndon B. Johnson's last and favorite press secretary and since then top political professional for Texas establishment Democrats. Christian's job as executive director of Connally's Democrats for Nixon was considered a business proposition. But when he accepts a personal invitation to Mr. Nixon's inauguration, that is read here as an omen of changing loyalties.

If Connally himself converts, he can bring along his followers with little competition. Texas Democrats look to their governor for political leadership, but millionaire Gov.-elect Dolph Briscoe seems more interested in getting through his term and back to the ranch than combat with Connally.

Had Republican Sen. John Tower lost his reelection campaign last fall, all this would be moot. Connally endorsed Tower's opponent and would have been blamed for Tower's defeat. But because Tower won, it is absurd to believe a Republican future for Connally will be undermined by his home state Republicans. To the contrary, nobody is calling Connally any louder.

Teachers On Strike Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city's 18,000 public-school teachers struck today for the second time in four months after last-ditch talks failed to reach a contract agreement.

The strike, which came after the teachers' union said an offer of binding arbitration came too late, officially began at midnight Sunday.

A school-board spokesman said it would seek an injunction from Common Pleas Court Judge D. Donald Jamieson today in an effort to end the strike which affects 260,000 students.

Jamieson, who was instrumental in ending a 22-day walkout in September, withdrew from the talks Saturday and said he couldn't issue an injunction until the strike actually began.

As the midnight deadline on the three-month contract extension neared, the school board offered to submit the dispute to binding arbitration, but Frank Sullivan, president of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, said the union refused the offer.

"We cannot accept arbitration now because of a fact-finding process which was so adverse to the union we couldn't accept it," he said.

Talks had been going on for 15 months on the key points of a new contract on which both sides consistently have refused to back down or compromise.

Self-Help Vote Slated Among Peanut Farmers

North Carolina peanut growers will be given an opportunity on March 13th to vote on whether or not they wish to continue their assessment program, according to Joe S. Sugg, Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association. Mr. Sugg stated that in its November meetings the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association went on record as favoring a request to the North Carolina Board of Agriculture for authority to conduct a referendum in March to give the peanut growers an opportunity to vote whether or not they would like to continue their assessment program for the years 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, and 1978.

The assessments for this six-year period, according to Sugg, if voted on favorably by the peanut growers in North Carolina, would be at the rate of $1.00 per ton on farmer stock peanuts sold at the local buying stations. The funds collected in this self-help program will be used for the purpose of promoting the use of peanuts through research, education, legislation and other available means. Sugg said that this is an increase of $.60 per ton, making the assessment rate of $1.00 per ton on farmer stock peanuts, the same as that which is being assessed in the other peanut producing states, namely, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma. The State of Virginia has a bill currently pending before the Virginia Legislature to increase their assessment from $.40 per ton to $1.00 per ton.

According to R. Gilbert Whitley, President of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association, the Board of Directors has found that there is very desperate need for an increase in available funds in order that farmers can help expand their market by promoting an increase in the consumption of peanuts and peanut products which in the United States now is in about 30 per cent surplus. With the increase in funds and the increase in promotional activities, it is expected that an increase in consumption of peanuts would result, thereby reducing the cost of the peanut program to the government, and thus assuring the farmers of a national peanut program to help stabilize their income, said Whitley. Whitley further pointed out that many of the cultural practices now being used by peanut growers in North Carolina to assure themselves of satisfactory production during a given year are results of research sponsored by the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association in the past. There is currently more need for an increase in research to solve the disease problem, black rot, which came upon the scene this year, said Whitley; and, in addition to disease and production research, he pointed out that there is a great need for research in the field of new products made from peanuts which will increase the utilization of the peanuts which are produced each year, thereby giving the farmers an opportunity to grow more peanuts.

At a recent meeting of the heads of the agricultural organizations and agencies in North Carolina, according to Sugg, a decision was reached that a complete educational program would be put forth, with all organizations and agencies cooperating, to be certain that all farmers in North Carolina who are eligible to vote on the peanut assessment program will be thoroughly informed of the activities of the association and its plans for the future.

Peanut farmers can look forward to a number of meetings in their counties to explain the Peanut Growers Association's program and all the details concerning the referendum which will be held on Tuesday, March 13th.

Eleven Dead In Traffic Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed at least 11 persons in North Carolina over the weekend, including three victims of a bus wreck near Smithfield, the state Highway Patrol reported.

The deaths pushed the toll for this year to 26, which is seven less than had died in the corresponding period of last year.

Authorities said the driver of a Greyhound bus apparently fell asleep just before the bus ran off an exit ramp on Interstate 95. The bus was carrying 33 passengers and was enroute from New York to Miami when the mishap occurred Sunday.

Killed in the bus wreck were: Domenick Flora, 12, of Hoboken, N.J.; Mrs. Terri Thomas, 51, of North Augusta, S.C.; and, Josie Mae Nixon, 39, of Syracuse, N.Y. Twenty-eight persons were injured and eight were hospitalized.

At least one of the deaths was attributed to the inclement weather which affected most of the Tar Heel State on Sunday. Troopers said Timothy Jay Murr, 16, of Graham, was killed when the car he was riding in skidded on ice and crashed into another vehicle on Interstate 85 one mile east of Graham in Alamance County.

Other victims of weekend accidents included: Ruth Z. Blake, 28, and Bryan E. Spencer, 7, both of Columbia, S.C., who died when in a collision on U.S. 21 nine miles west of Yadkinville on Sunday.

Henry P. Thompson Jr., 28, of Wagram, who was killed when his car sped through a T intersection on a rural paved road north of Laurinburg and struck several trees.

Theresa Samra, 69, of Patterson, N.J., who died when she walked into the path of an oncoming car on U.S. 301 near Rocky Mount.

Michael Echeverri, 2, of Raleigh, who was killed when the car he was riding in was struck from behind by another on U.S. 64 a few miles east of Raleigh.

Maggie Mae Sessoms, 65, of Roseboro, who died when her car struck another in the rear on N.C. 24 near Clinton.

"I don't care how bad the weather is, I'm going to my Weight Watchers meeting. I can't wait to tell my lecturer and the rest of the class how beautifully I slipped past all the temptations I faced this week."

"And I feel great. I eat 3 well-balanced, satisfying meals every day plus snacks. I'm never hungry. But these weekly meetings are so important to me. Imagine having a room full of people all wanting to help you lose weight and keep it off."

Watergate Affair Finally Reaches 'Day In Court'

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate affair, one of the spicier issues of last fall's presidential election, has finally reached its day in court. Seven men go on trial today on charges of breaking into the Democratic party's national headquarters.

The trial could take up to three months to complete, with the jury sequestered to insulate it from the anticipated glare of publicity. Because of the controversy and high interest in the case, 1,000 prospective jurors have been called.

The defendants, including former White House aides and officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign, are charged with breaking into the Democratic National Committee's headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex.

Five of the men were captured at gunpoint inside the sixth-floor offices at 4:30 a.m. last June 17 at a time when Democrats were winding up a long run of presidential primary races.

The incident immediately became a campaign issue because of the links between the men and the Nixon administration and campaign. But the White House and Republican party have consistently denied any connection with the break-in and the alleged related electronic eavesdropping and theft of documents.

Congressional attempts to bring some kind of official inquiry into the open before the Nov. 7 presidential election failed, making this trial the first public display of an official investigation.

So far, most of the investigation which has reached the public has been conducted by news media, which have reported allegations that the break-in was part of a wide-scale campaign of political espionage and sabotage against Democrats.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield disclosed over the weekend that he has ordered a full-scale Senate investigation, ensuring a probe into any political areas that might be overlooked by the trial.

In a pretrial hearing last week, Charles Morgan Jr., a lawyer representing a number of Democratic officials and party employees, said he had information that the government prosecutors would try to show that blackmail, and not politics, was the motive behind the bugging.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert has said he intends to offer evidence "from which the jury may draw, we think, an appropriate inference as to perhaps a variety of interests."

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica has said he would not brook a prosecution which treats the case as just another burglary.

"This jury is going to have to know what did these men go into that headquarters for," Sirica said at a pretrial conference. "Was their sole purpose political espionage? Were they paid? Was there financial gain? Who hired them? Who started this?"

A blanket of snow covered much of North Carolina today as the state remained in the icy grip of its first severe storm of this winter. Up to six inches of snow was recorded at some points and at least one death in a traffic accident was blamed on the inclement weather.

Schools were closed in some cities and the Highway Patrol warned that travel was hazardous. Travelers advisories and ice storm warnings were posted.

The National Weather Service at Raleigh warned that ice would cause broken tree limbs and power lines to fall in southern counties where snow was tapering off into sleet and freezing rain.

In Charlotte, where the storm dumped more than three inches of snow before turning into sleet and freezing rain, all public schools were closed because of "adverse weather and traffic conditions."

Municipal courts in Charlotte also were closed for the day.

The state Highway Patrol said Timothy Jay Murr, 16, of Graham, was killed when the

Club Meetings Are Cancelled

Club meetings scheduled for tonight which have been postponed include the Lions Club, Rotary Club, Optimist Club, and the Moose Lodge.

A spokesman for the Greenville TOPS Club announced that the day, time and meeting place for the club has been changed.

The club will be meeting on Mondays at 6:30 p.m. at the downtown Planters Bank civic room. The meeting for tonight, however, has been canceled.

Martin County Activity Halted

WILLIAMSTON — The first snow of winter has obviously resulted in most people staying close to home in Martin County, according to town police and county sheriff's office personnel.

Schools throughout the county are closed, and vehicular traffic on streets and highways is reportedly very light.

At mid-morning, officials in Williamston and Robersonville said they had had no calls for assistance for stalled or ditched cars. Merchants generally were opening their stores, and no announcement had been received about curtailment of operations by firms and businesses.

Cultural Field Idled By Snow

Cultural activities in Greenville have been curtailed due to the snowstorm.

At East Carolina University, a recital scheduled for soprano June Laine at 7:30 tonight in the Recital Hall has been postponed. The recital has been rescheduled for Sunday, January 14 at 3:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

The Greenville Art Center is also closed for the day, and will reopen Tuesday unless hazardous conditions continue.

REVIVAL BEGINS

Revival will be held at Corey's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church Monday through Friday with the Rev. F. C. Mitchell as the week's evangelist.

car he was in skidded on icy Interstate 85 in Alamance County and crashed into the rear of another vehicle. Two other persons were hurt in the Sunday afternoon mishap.

Cities around the state experienced flurries of traffic accidents, most of them minor fender-benders, Sunday evening and early today.

At 1 a.m. today, snow depths in North Carolina ranged from one inch at Raleigh-Durham and Cape Hatteras to five inches at Ft. Bragg and Hickory and six inches at Asheville.

Snow continued to fall steadily during much of the night and by 4 a.m. an additional inch had fallen at Raleigh-Durham, bringing the total to two inches.

The snowfall was general over the state during the morning hours, the Weather Service said, but over the southern counties it was becoming mixed with sleet and freezing rain. Along the southern coast, freezing rain and sleet were the rule.

The heavy snow belt was shifting northward somewhat as the snow in the southern counties became mixed with rain. Accumulations of four inches or more were forecast over the northern portions of the state today before it started tapering off to snow flurries this afternoon and evening.

The Weather Service said ice forming on trees and power lines over the southern counties might cause considerable damage today before ending. Persons in those areas were warned to be on the alert for fallen power lines and tree limbs.

As the storm center continues to move offshore during the next 24 hours, the precipitation is expected to taper off to snow flurries and end, followed by gradual clearing from the west later tonight. Skies are expected to be partly cloudy Tuesday, but wintery cold will continue in force over the Tar Heel State.

Temperatures Sunday reached only the lower 30s in most places with Greensboro and Elizabeth City reporting highs of 29 degrees. During the night, temperatures were in the teens and 20s from the mountains to the sea.

To The Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union sent an unmanned spacecraft toward the moon today.

Tass news agency said Luna 21's mission "is to further scientific studies of the moon and near-lunar space."

"The station was launched to the moon from the orbit of an artificial satellite of the earth and was placed on a trajectory close to the estimated one," the agency added.

Cancel Classes

All classes at East Carolina University, including evening and special classes, have been cancelled for today.

Dr. Robert Holt, vice-president and Dean of Administration confirmed that a decision to cancel classes had been made at 9:00 a.m. this morning, shortly after classes began.

Dr. Holt said officials would be meeting again early Tuesday morning relative to the temporary close-down, and that the decision on whether to hold classes Tuesday would be made at the time. In event of a second day of cancellation, Holt said the information would be aired early over both radio and TV.

Miami Grid Star's Showing In Senior Bowl Assures A Job

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — "I don't care who I play for," said Miami of Florida running ace Chuck Foreman regarding his professional football aspirations, "as long as I am fortunate enough to get the opportunity."

Foreman, a 201-pounder, assured himself of getting the opportunity with a brilliant performance Saturday that gave the South a 33-30 victory over the North in the 24th Senior Bowl football game, officially launching the pro careers of 60 college stars.

The Hurricane star scored one touchdown on a 10-yard sweep and set up most of the South's other scoring by rushing for 167 yards on 24 carries and hauling in three passes for another 59 yards.

His performance earned him the Most Valuable Player award — a new automobile.

"If there was some way to slice it into pieces, I would give everyone on our line a piece of it," Foreman said, "but since there isn't, I have a sister getting married and I'm going to give her my old car for a wedding present."

The dreary, overcast and rainy day proved to be a bright one for another Miami player — cornerback Burgess Owens — named the South's outstanding defensive performer, winning $2,500 cash as the award.

Owens intercepted one pass and broke up four others by tipping them away from receivers at the last second.

"Owens had a fine day," said South Coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets, "but you couldn't tell it by the practices though."

Wide receiver Barry Smith of Florida State won the $2,500 award as the South's top offensive performer, pulling in a pair of touchdown passes from quarterbacks Bert Jones of Louisiana State and Gary Huff of FSU.

The North outstanding player awards went to Pete Van Valkenburg of Brigham Young, the nation's rushing leader last season, and defensive tackle Dave Butz of Purdue.

Butz blocked a South punt in the final minute which the North recovered at the Rebel seven, but the play was erased because of a gentlemen's agreement not to block punts in this all-star game.

The South, now leading 14-8-2 in the series, built a 33-16 lead early in the final period before Youngstown State's Ron Jaworski fired a pair of 48-yard scoring passes in the final seven minutes to narrow the margin.

Van Valkenburg, who gained 159 yards, got 75 in the longest run from scrimmage in the Senior Bowl to give the North an early lead, but Auburn's Danny Sanspree returned an interception 21 yards for the tying marker and the South never trailed again.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maryland and North Carolina State, two of the Atlantic Coast Conference's nationally-ranked basketball powerhouses, may have been looking ahead over the weekend. But they both survived scary conference openers and kept their records unblemished.

The second-ranked Terps of Maryland and the fourth-ranked N.C. State Wolfpack, both 9-0 after their weekend road games, meet Sunday in an early-season showdown on national television at Maryland.

The Wolfpack set the pace Saturday afternoon, bouncing a scrappy Virginia team 68-61 at Charlottesville. Maryland kept pace with a hard-fought 79-75 victory at Clemson.

Said Coach Lefty Dreisell of Maryland after his team's win: "Clemson is by far the toughest team we have played."

In the weekend's other conference game, Wake Forest took advantage of its home court and surprised Duke, 83-80. Meanwhile, ninth-ranked North Carolina ran its record to 12-1 by trouncing Nebraska, 79-62, in a nonconference game at Greensboro.

The weekend's battles removed Virginia as the conference leader and replaced the Cavaliers with Maryland and N.C. State, both 1-0 in the ACC.

Virginia dropped to third at 2-1 and Wake Forest moved into fourth at 1-1. Clemson is 0-1 and Duke is 0-2. North Carolina hasn't played a conference game yet.

N.C. State battled through 12 ties and 10 lead changes in its game with Virginia before finally going out in front for keeps in the fourth minute of the second half. The Wolfpack forged a 10-point lead but Virginia trimmed that to two points with 1:48 left to play.

Then, 5-foot-7 mini-guard Monte Towe hit five free throws to seal the Wolfpack's win. It was later learned that Towe played the second half with a broken nose received in a first half spill.

The gritty sophomore led State with 17 points, while Barry Parkhill paced Virginia with 26.

Clutch free throws also enabled Maryland to sneak past Clemson. Bob Bodell and Jim O'Brien each popped in two for the Terps during the last 47 seconds. After Clemson fought back to a 50-51 lead, Maryland shot ahead to stay at 55-54 and fended off a late Clemson surge after the Terps had built a 65-58 lead. Tom McMillen paced Maryland with 16 points and sophomore Van Gregg led Clemson with 24.

The Tar Heels grabbed the lead for keeps over Nebraska at 12-10, but was ahead only 52-48 halfway through the last half. Then North Carolina went on a 16-2 tear in six minutes to sew up the contest. Bobby Jones had 18 points and grabbed 17 rebounds for the Tar Heels.

Wake Forest took the lead for good about midway in the first half against Duke and led at the half 59-39. Duke raced back to trail only 73-72, but Wake Forest weathered the storm and pulled out the victory behind the 29-point performance of Tony Byers. Chris Redding of Duke also scored 29 points.

This week's schedule:
Tuesday—Virginia at Maryland.

Wednesday—Clemson at North Carolina, Duke at N.C. State, Niagara at Wake Forest.

Friday—Lehigh at N.C. State Saturday—Clemson at Duke, 1:30 p.m., regional TV.

Sunday, Jan. 14—N.C. State at Maryland, 12 noon, national TV.

No Jumping For Paterno

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Joe Paterno, admitting he wants to be more than a football coach who has to win to remain employed, says that was why he decided not to jump to the National Football League.

Ending weeks of speculation, Paterno shocked many people Saturday morning when he told newsmen, "I've decided to remain at Penn State."

The 46-year-old Paterno rejected an offer to become coach-general manager of the New England Patriots of the NFL. The offer included a stock interest in the franchise.

A source close to the university said the total package was just short of $1.25 million over five years.

Paterno said his main reason for turning down the plush Patriots' offer was an aversion to becoming a coach whose life revolved around winning and losing. He envisioned himself as more than just a coach. He said he'd rather influence young man than build a pro football winner.

"When I analyzed the situation at Penn State," Paterno said, "I realized that I've always hoped that I could work ... on a campus where the approach by the administration toward athletics was such that I could be a little more than just a football coach. And that's what Penn State has allowed me to be."

Force End Of Ladies' Nights

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A ruling from the Philadelphia Human Relations Commission has forced the discontinuance of the Philadelphia 76er Ladies' Nights.

The National Basketball Association team has announced that the ruling forced an end to Ladies' Nights, and all related activities. Wednesday had been special nights for women at the Spectrum providing $1 discounts on $4 and $3 tickets.

A replacement for the night will be open to all fans with details to be announced later, according to Rich Lannarella, promotion director.

TEAM HAS TALENT
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State basketball coach John Bach says his team will have more talent than his four previous Nittany Lion squads. Bach started the new season with a 53-40 record for his four years since leaving the Fordham coaching job.

Returning starters include 6-foot-4 Ron Brown, a junior, and 6-foot-7 seniors Ed Chubb and Dan Tarr. Chubb is team captain.

Louisville Loses Corso

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Officials at the University of Louisville Sunday began thinking in terms of a new head football coach Sunday, as Coach Lee Corso was named head football coach at Indiana University.

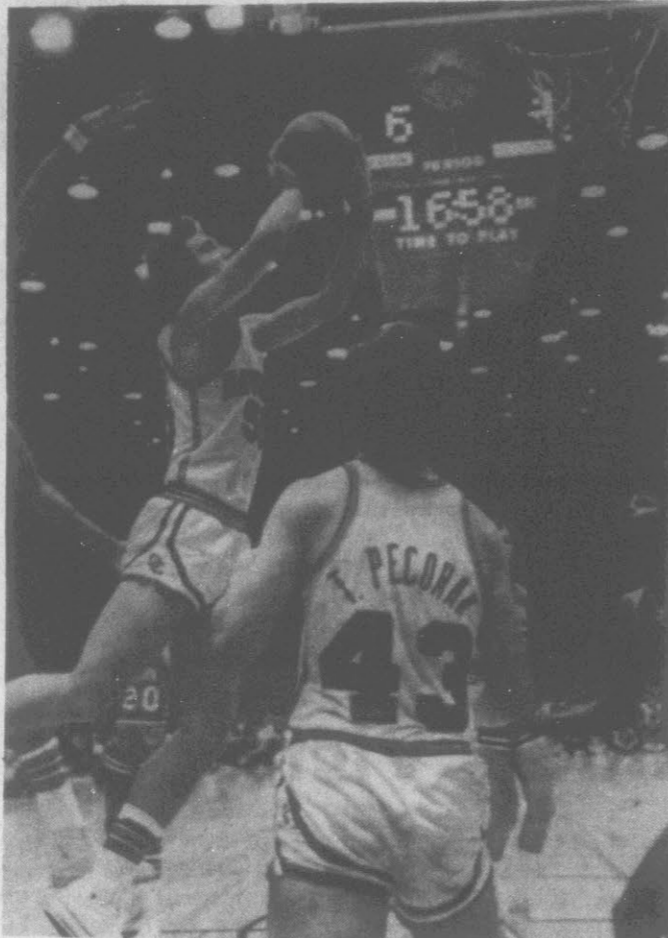

Corso, speaking from his home here, said he has always wanted to coach in the Big Ten. "Now I've got my chance."

The announcement of his appointment was made by Dr. John W. Ryan, IU president, after a telephone vote by the IU Board of Trustees.

The 37-year-old Corso, who was an assistant at his alma mater Florida State, Maryland, and the Naval Academy before taking over in Louisville, succeeds John Pont, who resigned Dec. 23 to accept the head coaching post at Northwestern University.

Corso rebuilt a sagging team at Louisville, and the Cardinals were ranked 17th in the national ratings this season.

His four teams at Louisville compiled a 28-11-3 record and lost only four of their last 28 games. The 1972 team ran up a 9-1 record, losing only to Tulsa, 28-26, in an upset.

SHOOT, LARRY, SHOOT — Six-foot-7 Davidson guard Larry Horowitz, 40, drives for the basket in Saturday night's game with St. Johns. T. Jay Pecorak, 43, looks on. St. Johns eventually won the game, 78-77. (AP Wirephoto)

Funseth's 2nd Career Victory

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rod Funseth, who admits to some occasional negative thinking, called his wife, Sandi, after the third round of the $135,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

"I've got a 17-stroke lead over last place," the curly-haired, soft-spoken Funseth told her.

Sandi, no negative thinker, promptly put two bottles of champagne on ice.

She had the right instincts. Funseth, who has made a 13-year career as a supporting player to the likes of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino, scored a solid, methodical, almost pedestrian three-stroke victory Sunday in the event that opens a 12 months schedule on the pro tour.

"I'm so negative, if I had a 10-stroke lead, I'd be afraid I was going to fall and break a leg," the 39-year-old Funseth said. "Sandi's a lot different, just the opposite. She gets so mad at me sometimes."

Not this time. Funseth stroked irons with in almost tap-in distance for consecutive birdies on the eighth and ninth holes, parred the last nine in routine fashion as he pumped shot after shot to the middle of the green and finished with a two-under-par 69 for a 276 total on the 7,028-yard Riviera Country Club course.

It was only the second career victory—the other was in the 1965 Phoenix open—for Funseth, who has collected a flock of course records only to blow the advantage. This time he collected $27,000.

Second place ended up in a four-way tie among Don Bies—Funseth's long-time roommate—Australian David Graham, Dave Hill and Tom Weiskopf, all at 279. Graham had a 71 with Hill, Weiskopf and Bies all at 69.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of $320,000 when he took player of the year honors in 1972, really didn't get it going as he three-putted twice en route to a final 70 for 280.

Arnold Palmer wasn't a factor. He had his best round, a 69, in the mild, overcast weather of the final day and finished with a 286. Sixty-year-old Sam Snead, just one stroke back starting the last round, bogeyed both of the par threes on the front nine and faded back with a 73-281.

British Open champion Lee Trevino failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Arizona 'Kiddy Corps' Pushing Way To Fore

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA's national collegiate basketball champions keep rolling along with 55 straight victories so maybe you haven't heard about Arizona's Kiddy Korps.

The Arizona Kiddy Korps, so-called because of four freshmen starters, muscled their way into national prominence over the weekend while mighty UCLA was running up an 87-61 score on Oregon State for their 55th in a row.

On Friday the Kiddy Korps upset Texas-El Paso 79-73 and demonstrated it was no fluke by upsetting New Mexico, one of the Top Twenty in the Associated Press rankings, with a come-from-behind 83-73 victory Saturday night.

That put Arizona, which lost 20 of 26 games last season, into a first place tie in the Western Athletic Conference over the pre-season favorite Brigham Young.

Coniel Norman, one of the four frosh, threw in 34 points against the Lobos and led a 24-12 spurt that put the Wildcats ahead after they trailed by 41-36 at halftime.

Norm Ellenberger, New Mexico coach, called Norman one of the premier shooters in the country. "You need a canoe paddle to guard him," Ellenberger said. "Unfortunately we didn't have one."

"These kids are proving something to themselves that not many kids their age get to do," said Arizona Coach Fred Snowden, referring to Norman, Eric Money, Al Fleming and Jim Rappis. "They're learning they have to be adults now."

Snowden said Saturday's game with Arizona State on the road at Tempe "is going to be a real barn burner. It could be the civil war all over again." Arizona State also beat New Mexico and Texas-El Paso over the weekend to tie Arizona for the lead in the WAC.

Minnesota and Southwestern Louisiana, two of the Top Ten in last week's AP ratings, were knocked out of the unbeaten ranks on Saturday.

Iowa upset the No. 6 Gophers

65-62 in overtime on Rick Williams' layup and Glenn Angelino's two foul shots in the closing seconds. Jacksonville clouted the No. 8 Ragin' Cajuns 120-78.

In Sunday games, fifth-ranked Long Beach State ended the University of Pacific's 45-game home court winning streak with a 91-85 victory and Notre Dame edged visiting Kansas 66-64 in overtime.

Ed Ratliff scored 30 points, 20 in the first half, to help boost Long Beach State to a 12-1 record. Pacific got 21 points from Jim McCargo.

John Shumate's late tip-in in regulation play and Dwight Clay's three foul shots in overtime paced Notre Dame.

TEN GAMES AT HOME
NEW YORK (AP) — The St. John's University basketball team will play ten games in its home court in Jamaica, Queens. The Redmen end their campaign with a home test against Providence on Saturday, March 3.

The Worry Clinic Practical Tips On Job-Seeking

Clarence wanted a job. So he sent out 7 copies of the "Letter of Application" cited below. It brought him 3 requests for an immediate interview! All 3 employers offered him a job. He took the one that promised him work in summer, if he later went to college.

By George W. Crane,
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-589: Clarence S., aged 18, is an ambitious teenager. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I'll be finishing high school soon. But I think I better earn some money before I go on to Junior College.

"So how is the best way to find a job?"

"I've noticed a lot of 'Help

Wanted' ads in our newspaper. "Should I call in person or write a letter?"

"But I don't know what to put in such a letter, so could you give me a few pointers?"

How To Get Jobs

In many of the "Help Wanted" advertisements, you may not be given the name of the firm or factory.

A Box Number may be listed, so you must then rely on your "Letter of Application."

Remember, too, that the primary purpose of such a letter is not to get you the job. No; it is to procure an interview!

So follow these practical hints when you prepare such a letter:

- (1) Use the typewriter, unless the ad required a longhand letter.

And if you can't type, get your girl friend or some stenographer to place your data in a neatly typed form.

- (2) Limit your letter to ONE page, single spaced.
- (3) Address the employer or Personnel Director by name, if you can learn it.

If not, then use the "Dear Sirs," or "Gentlemen," sentence:

"Since I am looking for a position that offers opportunity for advancement, I am citing the following qualifications:

- (A) Business Experience
- (B) Education and Specialized Training
- (C) Personal Data
- (D) References

And don't be lengthy or tedious in citing your Business Experience.

Mainly, list one or two of the main jobs you have held, not necessarily in chronological order.

And 3 references will usually be ample, especially if they have "handles," we mean such evidences of leadership as "Judge" or "Sales Manager" or

"Circulation Manager" or "President."

Be sure, however, that you have obtained permission in advance to use the names you are listing as your references! And by all means send for my

"Vocational Guidance Kit," since it contains a specimen "Letter of Application" that was sent to 120 randomly selected names.

Alas, it wasn't even personally typed but wax mimeographed.

yet it produced 70 replies, with 19 requests for an immediate interview.

During the interview, don't dress like a hippie, for modern business firms are not conducting kindergartens for immature youth!

Be polite, alert but not gushing or too talkative.

So send for that "Vocational Guidance Kit," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

It contains an "Introvert-Extrovert Test" plus a 60-minute "Test of Horse Sense" widely used in American Industry and by the U.S. Navy.

Even if you aren't looking for a job at this minute, file this booklet away, for you may be searching for a better job sooner or later and crave this "Letter of Application" in a hurry.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover trying and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Will Resume Arts, Crafts Out To Spend A Penny, Or More

Arts and crafts classes at the Greenville Recreation Department will resume Tuesday and Wednesday with copper tooling classes being featured.

Dianne Williams, director of Arts and Crafts, announces that it will be possible for interested persons to make elegant tooled pictures ranging in size from nine by twelve to 16 by 36 inches. Also, examples and directions for making flowers from cut copper are available.

Step by step instructions will be given in the classes. There is no charge for the classes, but a charge will be made for material used.

Hours of the classes are Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. til noon, 1:00 til 4:00 p.m. and from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. On Wednesday hours are 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. and 7:30 to 10:00 p.m.

Voters League Plans Public Meet Tuesday

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters will hold a public meeting Tuesday evening on the problems and the costly solutions of solid waste disposal.

Leading the panel discussion will be Mayo Allen, Greenville's Director of Public Works; Dr. Fred Mangum, N. C. State's Extension Economist; and Philip Michaels, Pitt County's Planner. Following the discussion, these men will answer questions from the audience.

The meeting will begin with coffee at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and the panelists will begin speaking at 8:00 p.m.

The public is urged to attend this meeting.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS
Q. 1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQJ10 ♠AK2 ♣964 ♣K
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—There is no doubt that a game contract should be undertaken, but there is no need to commit this hand to no trump when it might play better at spades. If partner bids a double club stopper, no trump may be superior. But he should be given the option by a bid of three spades. This is a strength-showing call and offers partner the choice of four spades or three no trump.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as dealer you hold:
♠AKQJ ♠642 ♠A63 ♠743
What is your opening bid?
A.—Some players would be tempted to open this hand with one club in order to provide an easy rebid of one spade. Our own choice, however, is for an opening bid of one spade. It is not our practice to open with a three card club suit which does not contain an honor.

Q. 3—You are South, vulnerable, have 60 part score and hold:
♠KJ104 ♠A73 ♠95 ♠AQ63
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. This bid can be construed in no other light than that of an ace-showing bid. Spades have been agreed upon as trump and partner, by over-bidding the game, is not merely showing that he has diamonds, which actually he may not have, but is making a distinct effort toward slam. You have the right kind of cards for slam purposes, and you should not be bashful about mentioning the fact.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J ♠KQJ10 ♠A9764 ♠108
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. This is a close decision between bidding and doubling the opposition. The excellent texture of your suit plus East's nonvulnerable status indicates that in the present case the greater source of profit may come from trying for a game.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Enough wood was used in the United States last year to build a boardwalk one foot thick and twenty-four feet wide half-way to the moon. Cuttings from farm woodlands provided close to half of the nation's wood supplies last year and added more than 240 million dollars to farm income.

Demand for most forest products seems destined to grow rapidly.

Over half of the farm sales of forest products last year were made by Southern farmers. Woodlands on North Carolina farms brought in over $31 million.

Generally speaking, what can a farmer expect in financial returns from his forest holding?

An increase in land value is one thing he might expect from developments of the past decade. The $30 to $40 per acre base value of woodland has jumped into three figures over a short time span.

Timber values have sharply accelerated over the same period. And it is sales of timber that will give the farmer-woodland the most profit. How much, of course, will depend on where he lives, his markets, and the quality of his timber stand.

Wherever he might be, a farmer would be fairly lucky to have a 40-acre piney woods on good soil with a good stand. The owner's capital investment, time, and effort on this small woodlot should net $600. With little or no financial or management inputs, he can let nature take its course and probably net $200 or $300 annually from the 40 acres.

Timber, of course, is only one forest product. Many others, lesser known, can also give the woodland owner some supplementary farm income. Such products range from pine mulch and fireplace logs to medicinal barks and edible berries—not to mention Christmas trees and home-crafted wood novelties.

Less tangible, with profits less predictable, are potentials stemming from public pressure for private wooded "playgrounds", campsites, fee-fishing spots, nature trails or hunting grounds.

From both economic and social aspects the woodland horizon is broad and should be bright for the 4 million individuals who own various parts of it.

Trouble is, if you are an average farmer you may not have the know-how or monetary incentive to manage your "little forest" the way you do your crops and livestock.

Your returns from your woodlot are therefore relatively small. Moreover, average yearly growth per acre of your trees isn't anywhere near what it could be. You are not adding as much as you might to the Nation's needed wood supplies, nor to your own wallet either.

You can in many cases do something about it. You can improve your timber stand by planting genetically improved stock, thinning, fertilizing, preventing fires, and controlling pests and disease.

Case the market. Determine the needs of local industries. Plan ahead. Time your cuts to take advantage of markets offering the best price. Investigate possibilities for hard-to-market species, sizes, and grades of forest products.

Harvest efficiently and judiciously. Measure the volume of your harvest as carefully as you figure the "quick" profits. Consider the savings if you can do your own harvesting, using your farm equipment.

Management and marketing information and services are available, often free, from a number of sources. Your State-employed forester is probably one of the best for on-the-spot help.

Men Are Chief Gout Victims

NEW YORK (UPI)—About a million Americans suffer from gout. Gout is an arthritic disease that most often affects the joints of the feet, especially the big toe.

The National Health Education Committee says a susceptibility to gout is inherited, and most of its victims are men. Attacks last for days or weeks and usually produce intense pain.

Gout is related to excess uric acid in the blood and tissues. The disease now can be controlled by drugs and treatment that reduce the uric acid level.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES

There is no such thing as a free meal for soybeans. Why do we fertilize our corn, small grain or cotton crops quite well and pay little attention to soybeans? Everyone has a stake in the answer — farmers, processors, elevators, banks, supply agencies. The whole community has a stake in the answer, because higher yields mean a more prosperous agriculture. The usual answer is that we put enough fertilizer on other crops to take care of the soybeans.

If we do, this is fine. But when one examines the fertilizer rate applied, they are usually not high enough to do the job. Also, the soybean acreage in many

Proclaim 'Bill Of Rights' For Hospital Patients

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 12-point bill of rights for patients—which includes the right to reject treatment and choose death—was proclaimed Monday by the American Hospital Association (AHA) on behalf of patients in its 7,000 member hospitals.

The document, drafted after a long study by the association's broad of trustees and four consumer representatives appeared likely to result in some controversial confrontations between hospital administrators and doctors because the 12 patients' rights are, in some case, at sharp variance with present practices by physicians and surgeons.

The right of a patient to refuse treatment and choose to die is, of course, limited in the declaration by the state laws. A number of states consider refusal to accept treatment when it is available to be legally tantamount to suicide and suicide is against the law in those states and in many other states.

Group Drafts Bill
The group that drafted the Patients' Bill of Rights is headed by Joseph V. Terenzio, executive president of the United Hospital Fund of New York.

The four consumer members are W. Carl Moore, a Philadelphia shoemaker; Mrs. Sarah R. Barela, a Denver housewife; Mrs. Martha Grass, a Tulsa widow, and Eugene Johnson, Newark, N.J., medical community social worker. Other members of the panel are either hospital administrators or doctors.

Some of the controversial points in the bill of rights:

Point 3 effectively rules out ghost surgery by saying the patient has the right to know the names of the doctors responsible for all procedures and treatments.

But this third point also may prove the most controversial of all.

It says "the patient has the right to obtain from his physician information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure or treatment," and he must be made aware of all alternatives to the treatment suggested by his doctor. On this point, the accompanying document said—"Patients admitted to a hospital have routinely signed a general consent form find they have no idea of what is being done or what they are being treated for ... a patient might be informed if he needs a major operation and not be informed that there is another form of treatment that involves less risk."

Point 7 says flatly that no hospital has a right to refuse an emergency case even if it feels its facilities are not suitable.

But this point would appear to be certain to bring the AHA in conflict with the many hospitals run for profit that presently refuse emergency cases on the grounds they are not equipped to do so.

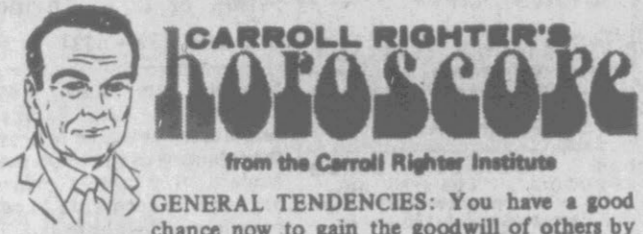

Point 8 says patients must be informed if a hospital to which they are brought is affiliated with a medical school university. The explanatory document says poor people have a fear that they will be used as guinea pigs in a university hospital and even regard such hospitals as "a point of no return."

Point 9 emphasizes that patient must be told in advance of any proposal to use experimental procedures in his treatment.

Other points are not controversial. They demand consideration and respectful care, reasonable continuity of treatment, privacy, a complete explanation of all charges—irrespective of who is paying them and to be told what hospital regulations apply to his conduct as a patient.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a good chance now to gain the goodwill of others by employing new and improved ideas in the realm of business, art and music. You can make your surroundings more attractive by toning them up and bringing more comfort. You can rely better on your intuitions now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact a higher-up and gain the advice you need, but keep it secret for best results. One who is an expert in your field of endeavor gives good suggestions now. Show kin how devoted you are.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) There are good friends who will share a plan with you that can bring in fine benefits in the future, so go along with them. The evening is fine for the social. You can now add much to present happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you find out just what is expected of you by your boss or whoever has power over your affairs. Then follow through very efficiently. Public work can be very beneficial at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are able to gain the goodwill of an important person you have met recently which can be most helpful in your career. Get out of that dull routine, but avoid the limelight tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Both debtors and creditors come to you for help now, so give suggestions willingly. This will be to your benefit also. Come to a far better understanding with the one you love. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You know exactly how much associates will back you now, so make haste to bind the deals you have in mind. You have outside matters that require quick action to make them successful. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to do much valuable work at this time. Take care of important matters with ease. Co-workers will join with you and help you accomplish your aims. Use the right techniques.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to meet the persons you like for recreations you enjoy. Put those creative skills you have to work. The evening is fine for handling correspondence and making important phone calls.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have an opportunity to get the situation at home improved and you should do just that. Start an uptrend that is sorely needed. Add comforts to that important realm of your existence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make appointments early for professional work that is necessary and get there on time. First thing first, and that means you and your welfare. Talk over with associates how to advance in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in the practical affairs that will increase your income in the future. Make repairs to property that are necessary. Add to its value and comfort. Rest on your laurels tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take the time to make yourself more attractive. Take the health treatments you need and impress others. Don't forget to pay any pressing bills. The early evening is fine for the social side of life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those persons who would do well in the field of sound and its various ramifications. Be sure to direct the education along such lines, especially since your progeny is one of those fine individuals who likes to communicate with everyone and the sensitivity and sensibility to do so. Teach discrimination early, otherwise your youngster would not reach the success denoted here. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Baer Quints 'Doing Fine'

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The Baer quintuplets are "doing fine and the father is calming down," says a spokesman at Evanston Hospital.

Even Thomas Allen, the first born who had developed a respiratory problem, was being fed orally and was being given oxygen "just once in a while," the spokesman said Sunday night.

The three girls and two boys were born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. James Baer of Northbrook. Thomas Allen, Elizabeth, Douglas Edward, Leslie and Vickie were moved from Highland Park Hospital to Evanston Hospital, a referral center for premature and high-risk babies.

The father has shuttled back and forth from Evanston to Highland Park, where his wife Lynn, 26, was recovering from 10 hours' labor.

Dr. Melvin Cohen, medical director of Fertility Institute, Ltd., said Sunday he had treated Mrs. Baer daily with the fertility drug Perganol before she became pregnant. He declined to discuss her case further.

Perganol is administered on a carefully monitored basis, usually daily, to women who fail to ovulate.

In Israel, where the drug is used more widely than in the United States, a medical team reported in 1970 that, of 78 pregnancies that followed treatment with the drug, 31 resulted in multiple births.

Surprise, Surprise
SLOUGH, England (AP) — Together with his local property tax bill, a Berkshire resident was sent a leaflet from his local crime prevention unit suggesting ways of avoiding burglaries. Heading the list of things he should not do before going on holiday was: "Do not tell thieves."
