Icy Conditions Linger In Continuing Cold For Area

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Slightly warmer temperatures in the Greenville area Tuesday began slowly melting the snow and ice from local streets and highways but the roads still remain icy and hazardous. The high temperature recorded for the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 a.m., according to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, was 32 degrees, while the low for that period was 17 degrees. The temperature this morning at 8 a.m. was 22 degrees.

The low temperature for the 24-hour period ending Tuesday at 8 a.m. was 15 degrees while the high was 26 degrees. A spokesman for the North Carolina State Highway Commission said the local roads are still icy and driving should be limited to emergency reasons only.

He said the main roads were partially cleared but still have icy patches. The secondary roads are covered with ice and chains are required. The commission crews are still working round the clock in an effort to clear the streets and roads of ice and snow. Sand and salt are being put at the intersections and on bridges.

New Water And Sewer Charge Rate Boost Is Voted By Commission

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

A new water and sewer charge rate increase was approved by the Utilities Commission Tuesday night which will increase residential bills by 20 to 30 percent.

for only a 25 percent refund of costs to developers as houses are lapped on. The refund had been 75 percent. Commissioners took the action after discussion of eliminating the refund altogether.

For large users — industries — the increase will amount to around 50 percent. Director Charles Horne said the increase will mean that water department revenues will increase by approximately $150,000 annually. Horne noted that an average residential water user will see his monthly water bill increased by about 47 cents and the sewer charge by 49 cents. A medium residential water user will see about a 60 cents increase in water bill and 63 cents in sewer charge. A large residential water user's bill will increase by about $1.10 and sewer charge by $1. The sewer charge was increased from 75 percent to 80 percent of the water bill to a maximum of $4.

Horne cited higher costs, need for more adequate treatment of water and waste water, more equitable sharing of capital and operating costs between small, medium and large users, and equitable sharing of costs to treat stronger than normal industrial wastes, as reasons for the increase. Commissioners also approved a new policy for water and sewer main extensions which will allow Commissioners also discussed the 21 percent rate increase proposed by Virginia Electric and Power Co., Greenville Utilities electric supplier.

They voted to follow the recommendation of Electricities, which is an organization of municipally owned electric systems that has been fighting rate increases.

Commissioners approved a gas pipeline corrosion survey to be done by General Corrosion Services, of Atlanta. Its low bid was $2,700.

Due to icy conditions in the residents' backyards, the sanitation department will only be picking up garbage Thursday from the curb next to the street," Allen explained.

"We are asking all citizens to please cooperate by placing their garbage in a plastic bag or a garbage container and place them next to the street," Allen said. "Our garbage trucks will be patrolling all areas during the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday to pick up all garbage that has been placed next to the street."

If weather conditions improve, Allen said, he hopes his department will be able to pick up garbage from the backyards on Friday.

Don A. Collier, local manager of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., said trouble is not running any more than usual.

Orders for new telephones and changes in equipment are running a little behind in schedule due to the weather.

"No major trouble is seen at this time," Collier said. "At times, the number of long distance calls run a little heavier than usual, but they are leveling off."

Dr. Robert Holt, vice president and Dean of Administration of East Carolina University, said that classes began later this morning to help avoid any icy mishaps. The school has been operating on a normal schedule since that time.

Dr. Holt said ECU will be operating as usual on Thursday unless the weather changes for the worse.

Classes began this morning at 11 a.m. at Pitt Technical Institute. The faculty and staff of DERAILED . . . Norfolk-Southern workmen brave ice and snow and cold winds last night while attempting to get a 250,000 pound engine back on the track after it left the rails at the Norfolk-Southern crossing at the intersection of

Appeal Basis Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jury described by a defense lawyer as "normal people" begins hearing evidence today in the trial of seven men charged with last summer's break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

But the defense already is talking about using the method of jury selection as grounds for appeal if necessary.

For most of two days U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica asked a big pool of prospective jurors collectively and individually a series of questions aimed at weeding out potential bias or other disqualifying traits.

But the traditional questioning and cross-examination of each prospect by the opposing lawyers was missing.

After trimming the field from some 250 Monday to fewer than 100 Tuesday afternoon, Sirica cut off his interrogation and limited prosecution and defense attorneys to peremptory challenges without benefit of questioning.

"We would have certainly preferred an extensive voir dire," or open questioning of jurors, said defense lawyer Henry B. Rothblatt, "to determine the extent of prejudice caused by pretrial publicity."

Finally seated were eight women and four men, all black except for one white man and one white woman. Six alternates also were accepted. The 12 range in age from 28 to 81.

Rothblatt and the other seven defense lawyers registered their protest to Sirica's handling of the questioning.

"If there is a conviction," said fellow defense attorney Gerald Alch, "this will certainly be one of the grounds for appeal." He said of the jurors: "They look like normal people."

Five of the defendants were arrested in the early morning hours of last June 17 inside the Democratic National Committee offices in Washington's Watergate complex.

The seven are charged with conspiring to commit burglary, intercept communications and to bug the party headquarters.

One of the defendants, James W. McCord Jr., was security chief for President Nixon's reelection campaign at the time of his arrest and was a security consultant to the Republican National Committee.

Another, Everett Howard Hunt Jr., was a former White House consultant, and a third, George Gordon Liddy, was counsel for the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, and a former White House and Treasury Department aide.

RALEIGH (AP) — Several major issues of past years confronted the North Carolina General Assembly as it prepared to meet today to begin what could be a considerably shorter session than in 1971.

Secretary of State Thad Eure was to preside over the opening of the House for the 21st time in his long career. Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt presides over the Senate.

Election of House Speaker-designate Jim Ramsey and Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, as Senate president pro tem were expected during the brief sessions. Both were nominated at Democratic caucuses several weeks ago.

For the first time in recent years the proposed state budget was not on the desks of lawmakers for the opening session. A delay in printing was cited as the chief reason. The budget is expected to exceed $5 billion.

In contrast to recent years, the General Assembly will have a huge money surplus. Former Gov. Bob Scott described the surplus as around $200 million. Others have said it is close to $300 million.

Faced with the surplus, the Advisory Budget Commission is recommending a 10 per cent refund to taxpayers on their state income tax for 1972 and repeal of the tobacco, soft drink and privilege license taxes plus other tax changes.

This proposal has drawn fire from some lawmakers who feel that repeal of these taxes would erode the state's tax base and jeopardize the financial situation in event of an economic recession.

Liquor by the drink, a hang-over issue from other sessions, is certain to bob up again. Legislation is expected calling for a statewide referendum on the mixed drink issue and the death penalty.

Other issues to be considered include no-fault auto insurance, annual legislative session, highway commission changes, further changes in government reorganization, prison reform and expansion of the public kindergarten system statewide.

Ramsey has predicted the General Assembly will go to annual sessions.

"I look for the 1973 session to be over in about four months if we move into annual sessions and adopt a one-year budget,"

Ramsey said. He added he hopes the General Assembly will "slide into annual sessions rather than locking ourselves in with a bill."

At the end of this session, he explained, the legislature could simply recess to meet again early in 1974.

The 1971 legislative session began on Jan. 13 and ran until July 21. It then recessed until Oct. 26 when it met again for five days to complete action on the reorganization of higher education.

Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser has said he doesn't anticipate any bipartisan problems in getting his program handled by the Democratic-controlled General Assembly.

Ramsey announced the appointment Tuesday of the chairmen and vice chairmen of three House committees.

Rep. George Miller-Durham, was appointed chairman of the House Highway Safety Committee. Named as vice chairmen were Reps. Larry Eagles, D-Edgecombe; Bob Farmer, D-Wake, and Homer Tolbert, R-Tredell.

Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, will be chairman of the House Insurance Committee. Named as vice chairmen were Reps. Gerald Arnold, A-Harnett, Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, and Ed McKnight, R-For-syth.

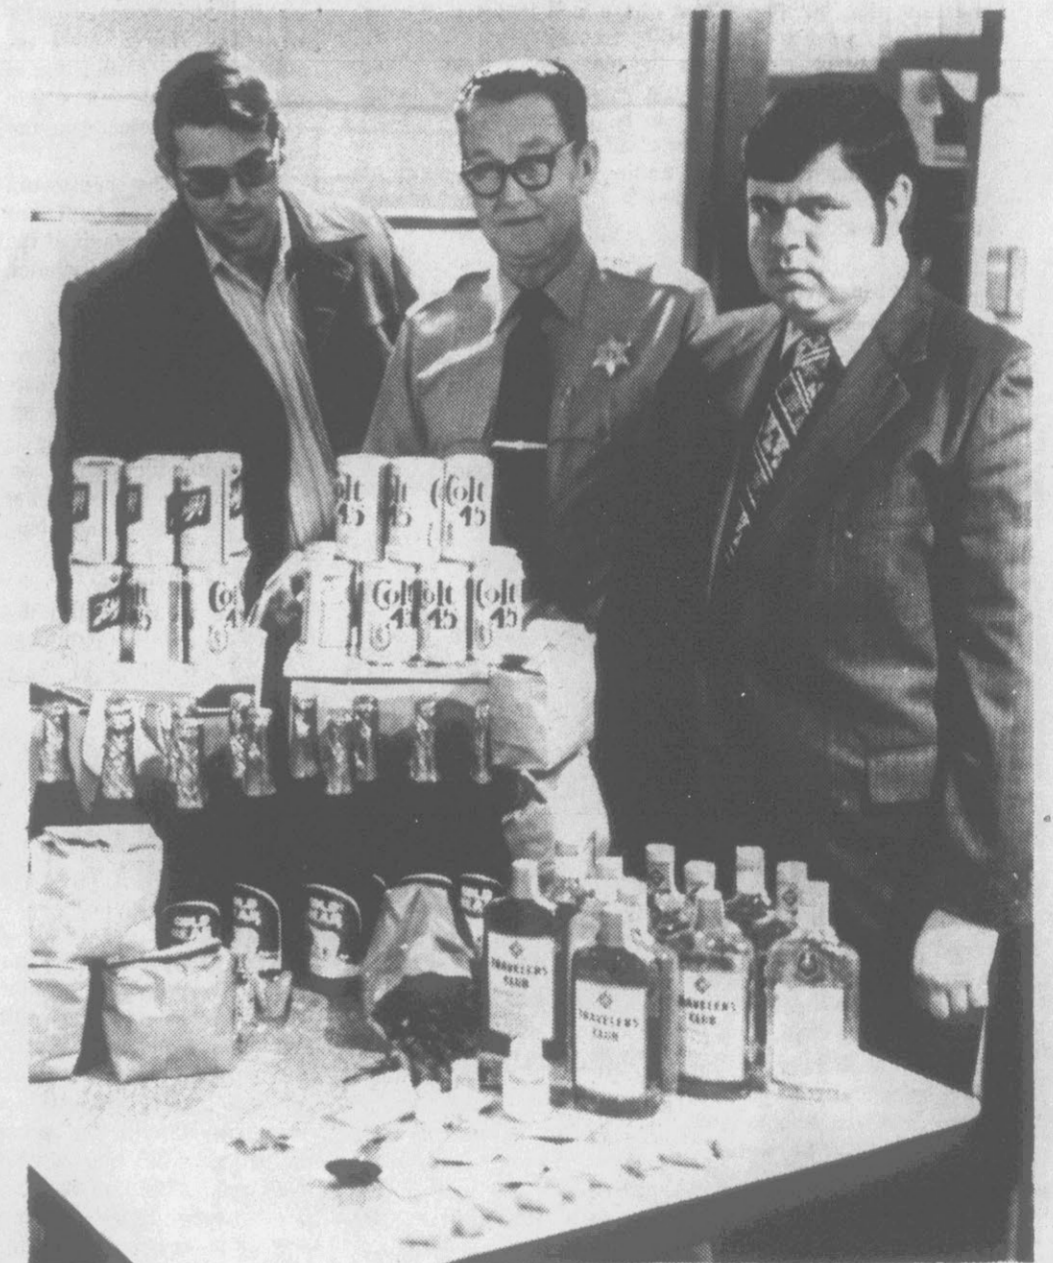

Rep. Jack Stephens, D-Buncombe, was appointed to head House Judiciary 2. The vice chairmen are Reps. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, Laurence A. Cobb, R-Mecklenburg, and Miller.

News Blackout

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho met today in the third meeting of their new secret peace session in suburban Gif sur Yvette. Tho was host in the villa owned by the French Communist party.

For the third time in succession, the two delegations avoided any face-to-face encounter in public view. The sessions opened Monday in an atmosphere of apparent icy confrontation.

Kissinger and Tho maintained a news blackout on their talks.

Officers arrested 32-year-old Barbara Owens Cox of Tyson St., Winterville on charges of possessing heroin, marijuana, tax-paid-whiskey for the purpose of sale, lottery tickets and fireworks, as a result of the 11:30 p.m. raid. Found in the home were 135 packets of heroin valued at $8 each; seven packs of marijuana at $5 each; 11 pints of whiskey; 13 fifths of wine; a case of beer; about 800 fire crackers; a small quantity of lottery tickets and about $300 in cash. ## 'Assigned Risk Plan' To Go

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said today he will abolish North Carolina's existing assigned risk plan for auto liability insurance Jan. 23 and replace it with "a fairer plan."

Ingram said he would hold an open hearing Jan. 22 to consider any alternate plans proposed by the insurance industry but indicated he already had at least broad guidelines developed for a new assigned risk plan.

He said the new plan probably would involve a re-insurance program among companies doing business in North Carolina. Ingram, who took office last Friday, campaigned on a promise to eliminate the plan in use throughout the state.

He said today 112,000 North Carolinians paid $672,000 last year for telegraph charges to receive confirmation of immediate coverage through the plan.

"I have carefully reviewed the provisions of the present plan and find that the features of that plan are unreasonable, inequitable and discriminatory to the citizens of this state who must obtain insurance through the present plan," he said.

Ingram declined to specify what his new proposal would be, but in the past he has expressed favor for a plan in which all insuring companies would reinsure motorists that an individual company considered a bad risk.

Sam Accuses Sister-In-Law Of Interfering

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 67, living alone in a one-bedroom apartment. The only living relative I have is a sister. Gertrude is 73, married and very well-to-do. She has been fighting with her husband Sam, who is 75, for as long as I can remember.

For the past year, Gertrude has been coming here in a taxi at all hours of the night asking if she can sleep in the other twin bed because she and Sam had another fight. Naturally, I let her stay. Sometimes she spends two nights with me until she's sure Sam has cooled off.

Now Sam calls accusing me of "breaking up his home." He says if I didn't let his wife come here to sleep she would stay home where she belongs. The old fool should know that if I didn't let her sleep here she could go to a hotel. She has plenty of money.

Sam says if I let Gertrude sleep here one more night he will cut me out of his will, and his wife's will, too. Can he do that? Please advise me. LAUDERDALE LADY

DEAR LADY: Tell Sam that when your sister shows up at your door to spend the night with you, you will not refuse to let her in. He can cut you out of his will if he wants to, but he can't cut you out of his wife's.

DEAR ABBY: My husband falls into bed dead tired without even kissing me goodnight. Then about 4 o'clock in the morning he wakes me up and forces himself on me without saying a word. After he has satisfied himself he turns over and goes to sleep. All the while I am lying there like a statue. Would you call this statutory rape? CURIOUS IN FRISCO

DEAR CURIOUS: No. It's more like STATIONARY rape.

DEAR ABBY: In one of your columns you told a girl it was all right for her to smile and wave at truck drivers. Thanks a lot! My husband is a truck driver and all he needs is good looking girls waving and smiling at him all day. He's a good-looking guy, and it doesn't take much to turn him on, and I'd just as soon he didn't make any new friends on his job. Not all truck drivers are alike, but I know my husband better than you do, so watch it, will you, Abby? THELMA IN PASSAIC

DEAR THELMA: I'll watch it, Thelma.

DEAR ABBY: Never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but after reading the letter from that young girl who asked if it was okay to smile and wave at truck drivers, I had to put in my 2 cents' worth.

I've been married to a truck driver for 19 years. There's not a better husband and father. It's an honorable position and I'm proud of him. Maybe most people aren't aware of this, but 70 per cent of the food they eat and the clothes they wear are delivered by trucks.

If a lady is stranded on the highway, a truck driver will be the first to stop and help her. And speaking of being a lady, my husband stopped to help a couple of so-called "ladies," and they robbed him of all his money.

So tell that gal to keep smiling. I hope she smiles at my truck driver someday, for it's a lonely job and he can use a smile along the way. KANSAS WIFE

Few Will See Nixon Oath

By Linda J. Heffner
WASHINGTON (WNS) — A huge influx of visitors will descend on this city for President Nixon's second inaugural despite the fact that most of the activities are about as public as the dining room of the Union League.

A glamor-filled three days and nights of inaugural events have been planned and only one of them — the parade — is open to the public.

The inauguration itself, is public of course, VIP reviewing stands, however, will ring the platform and only a few people will be able to see the President take the oath of office.

Seats in the reviewing stands, now being built, are exclusively for friends of the Nixon family, Administration officials, members of Congress and other Vips.

The inaugural committee, however, now has for sale 47,000 parade tickets at $5, $20, $25 and $50, depending on location, for the stands now under construction in front of the White House and along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Cold Parade
The parade is not one of the most popular inaugural events and is one of those

Lonely Hearts Holiday Minus 16

CORFU (WNS) — Lonely hearts who arrived here for a vacation tour arranged by Dateline Computer Dating had only one complaint: the computer had booked 46 men for the trip but only 30 women. Sixteen lady applicants had been rejected by the computer as "incompatible with the rest of the group." The tour director apologized, "This is our first lonely-hearts holiday, and it is difficult to explain romance to a computer. However, there have been no complaints from the touring women, and we shall do better on future tours."

things best viewed sitting in front of a television set. By tradition, Jan. 20 is always cold and windy and the parade gets longer every four years.

In 1969, it lasted over three hours and by the time the last float reached the White House it was dark and bitterly cold.

The inaugural committee, however, emphatically has promised that this year's parade will be cut to an hour and 45 minutes.

For the first time, the inaugural balls will be held in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Smithsonian Museum of History and Technology, instead of Washington hotels.

Some 13,000 people will attend the balls in the center's Grand Foyer, Hall of Nations and Hall of States the night of Jan. 20, while simultaneous entertainment goes on in the center's Eisenhower Theater, Opera House and Concert Hall.

The rest of the ballgoers will be housed at the history museum and at ball sites still to be selected from the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery and Museum of Natural History.

More Glamor
About 35,000 to 40,000 people are expected to attend the balls — at a cost of $40 per person — but again they are invitation-only events limited to Administration friends and officials, campaign workers, party faithful and the like.

Washington hotel officials have complained about losing the business, but most people are enthusiastic about the plans to substitute hotel ballrooms with the glamor of the Kennedy Center.

The center also will be the scene for the inaugural concert the night of Jan. 19 with the Philadelphia Orchestra performing. This will be the first inaugural since 1933 at which the National Symphony has not been invited to play.

While the orchestra is playing in the Concert Hall, a youth concert will be held in the Eisenhower Theater and an American music concert in the Opera House.

On the evening of January 18, planned events include a reception honoring Vice President Agnew and his wife at the Museum of History and Technology and a salute to the nation's governors at the Kennedy Center.

The whole inaugural extravaganza — dubbed "The Spirit of '76" by President Nixon — will cost between $3 million and $4 million, said J. Willard Marriott, head of the Inaugural Committee.

He said it will be paid for by private contributions, tickets to the parade and balls, sales of commemorative medals, program books, and the like. The Washington Area Convention and Visitors Bureau has promised that there will be enough hotel and motel space for anyone who makes the trip to the inauguration.

Homemaker's Haven

By Evelyn Spangler
Pitt Home Agent

Most small spots and stains on rugs and carpets can be removed at home with a little effort. This occasional spot-cleaning, recommended by the Soap and Detergent Association, will prolong carpet life and beauty.

All rugs and carpets should be vacuum cleaned at least once a week, more often in heavily trafficked areas. When spills occur, treat them promptly. Scrape off semi-solids and blot the liquids with paper towels, tissue or a clean cloth or sponge, turning the blotter to continually expose fresh sides to the stain.

Next mix either soap or detergent and a small amount of warm water in a bowl or jar until dissolved. With a clean cloth or sponge apply the cleaning solution, working from the outer edge to the center of the stain, taking care not to allow the carpet to get excessively wet. Should too much moisture reach the carpet backing, wicking may occur. Unsightly dark marks appear on the carpet face which are not removable, even by a professional.

After each application of the cleaning solution, rub the stained area gently, then blot with paper towels or a clean cloth, turning the cloth as before. Sponge with water and blot again. When the stain appears to be gone or no further removal is occurring, place a thick (one-half inch or more) wad of paper tissues or towels over the stain, weight it down with something heavy and leave over night to dry. The following day remove tissues or towels and gently brush up the carpet or rug pile.

Some common stains such as candle wax should be scraped first with a dull-bladed kitchen knife to remove the excess spill, then sponged with dry cleaning fluid followed by a sudsy sponging and a rinse sponging. Tar and paint should be scraped first, then softened by rubbing vaseline or glycerine into the stain. Let set for fifteen minutes, sponge with turpentine, then softened by rubbing vaseline or glycerine into the stain. Let set the fifteen minutes, sponge with turpentine, then follow with a sudsy sponging and finally clear water.

If home methods do not remove a stain, consult a reliable professional rug and carpet cleaner. Be prepared to tell him the cause of the stain if known, how long the stain has been there, and the color, age, fiber and general condition of the carpet or rug.

Call (758-1196) or write the Extension office for a copy of the bulletin "Removing Spots from Fabric".

Slippery scatter rugs at a doorway can be very dangerous—especially when there's nothing to grab hold of. Try sewing some rubber jar rings under the rug to add a little traction.

Eventful Session Lies Ahead

The 1973 session of the N. C. General Assembly convened today in Raleigh and it is going to be an eventful year.

First, the legislators face a new situation this year with the first Republican governor in office during this century. And, in what should be a pleasant prospect, the General Assembly begins its session with a huge surplus on which to base the biennial budget. This might turn out to be not so pleasant, because there are already a number of proposals as to how tax cuts can be made because of the surplus. There are also proposals as to how to spend it. The legislators will have to decide in which direction to turn.

A major issue will be automobile liability insurance and it is expected that no-fault insurance will be debated this year. Some action in this field is almost certain and it will affect Tar Heel motorists for years to come.

Liquor-by-the-drink is likely to come up. A local bill was approved at the last session, but was knocked down by the courts because it was not statewide.

An ethics bill to cover elective and appointive officials in state government is expected to be considered. There will be consideration of law enforcement officers retirement and training, perhaps new drunken driving laws and tax relief for the elderly.

Certainly education will be a major issue during the session and in view of the big surplus there will be plans for expanding the kindergarten program. Teachers' pay and benefits including plans for ten months service, will be among the things that this year's Legislature will have to consider.

A renewed interest in capital punishment for particularly horrible crimes will mean that this issue is bound to come up during this session.

Most legislators are hoping that one issue which could split the session will not come up. That is the expansion of the ECU Medical School. Hopefully a committee and then the Universities board of governors will act to expand the school to its logical second year, and thus it would not become a legislative issue.

This can be one of the great years for the North Carolina General Assembly. With a rosy financial outlook the law makers can act to alleviate some of our state's most pressing problems. The fact that the Democratic Legislature faces a Republican governor should act to keep both branches of government on their toes. Thus we can have sharper, more efficient government.

We wish the legislators well during this session. The 1973 session can go down in history as one of our state's most important.

Biennial Show Begins Today

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The curtain is up, the cast on stage. The North Carolina General Assembly, a show mixing high drama and low comedy, has begun its biennial run.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Rapping gavels convened the 1973 session Wednesday (Jan. 10) in the red-and-gold splendor of House and Senate chambers in the State Legislative Building.

For the next six months or so, the 170 legislators will write the script and play the roles in the making of decisions which will determine the state's future course.

Five million Tar Heels will be both audience and supporting cast for the drama that might be titled "Representative Democracy at Work."

What they applaud and what they boo will have its influence on events on the legislative stage. In turn, their lives will be touched to some degree, for good or ill, by the outcome of the session.

Rhetoric and pageantry will be part of the process. So will the unglamorous work of committees beyond the spotlight, grappling for solutions to tough problems, and the behind-the-scenes activities of lobbyists for specific groups and special interests.

Threshold of an Era
A sense of history unfolding attended the opening. The ceremony and scenery was from the past, but those present felt themselves at the threshold of an era.

For the first time this century, the legislature dominated by Democrats is dealing with a Republican governor in the person of James E. Holshouser Jr. That fact injects a fresh element into the traditional tension between executive and legislative branches.

The unaccustomed venture into bipartisan government has political overtones for both parties, and the potential to make or break the careers of ambitious politicians.

The 1973 session poses a test of leadership, not only for Holshouser as governor, but also for the Democrats whose hands are on the legislative machinery.

Democrats Are Challenged
Responding to the challenge will be Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt presiding in the Senate, and House Speaker Jim Ramsey of Person. As the top Democrats, they are in the key positions to steer the conduct of the legislature.

Subordinate leaders will emerge among the committee chairman named by Hunt and Ramsey. In both House and Senate, Democrats have formed policy committees to define the party position on issues and legislation—a function performed in the past by a Democratic governor.

Holshouser can call on his own legislative experience as a guide in establishing rapport with the General Assembly. He served four terms as Watauga County Representative before gaining the governorship.

While that will be helpful, he still faces the prospect of a new independence on the part of the legislators. The GOP minority-35 in the House and 15 in the Senate—can give him moral support and comfort but he will need Democratic votes to put through his program.

A Cordial Beginning
Thus far, cordiality is the theme. How long the honeymoon lasts will depend on the details of the Governor's recommendations, to be spelled out later in messages to the legislature.

Holshouser's inauguration last week gave a prelude to the legislative session. In the response of the thousands who turned out to cheer the new governor, it raised expectations for change and a fresh approach to state government.

His inaugural address laid emphasis on highway reorganization, support for public education, open government, prison reform, and mental health.

None of these is inconsistent with Democratic aims as expressed in campaigns last year, indicating differences will come on the degree of change proposed rather than the general direction.

"No man's life, liberty, or property is safe while the legislature is in town."

Perhaps not so perilous as the anonymous quote would indicate, the sitting of a General Assembly is still an occasion significant to the state's citizens.

It makes the laws which broaden or limit freedom. It wields the power to tax and spend. It fixes the framework within which citizens work and live.

Message May Impress Hanoi

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — In his closed-door meeting with congressional leaders Friday morning, President Nixon made perfectly clear that he will not be stopped from pursuing the Vietnam war in his own fashion, interference either from Capitol Hill or the North Vietnamese politburo.

This tough message, just two weeks before what should be a triumphant inauguration, left even some Republican leaders dismayed, disconcerted and uncharacteristically saddened; Mr. Nixon had failed to explain the late-December bombing of North Vietnam.

The President was acting in supreme confidence that, contrary to many reports, the country is behind him and Congress will not actually vote against that public opinion. His hope: his hard stand with Congress will be duly noted in Hanoi, paying off in an early settlement.

Mr. Nixon offered a 15-minute monologue on Vietnam in the course of Friday's 90-minute meeting, then switched to other matters without inviting questions. He opened with a promise to explain his sudden decision to unleash the heaviest bombing of the war Dec. 18, without any consultation with Congress. But he failed to return to the subject.

Thus, Mr. Nixon left his audience unsatisfied. Reiterating that "national honor" was at stake in the manner peace is finally achieved, Mr. Nixon then promised that if Henry Kissinger's current round of talks in Paris is successful, a "generation of peace" worldwide would be assured.

He treated the grandees of Congress with typically Nixonian aloofness, revealing no new glimmer of secrets on last month's negotiating deadlock at Paris which led to his first-ever use of B-52 bombers over Hanoi and Haiphong. Contrary to public speculation that Congress is about to strip him of war-making power, he was saying in effect: these negotiations are my business, not yours, and you do not possess the power to tell me what to do here is evidence to support that confidence. Mr. Nixon has been studying secret White House polls showing almost two-thirds of the country either backed his bombing of military targets in North Vietnam's populated cities or did not care.

More to the point, the President is convinced that, despite last week's overwhelming majorities in the Senate and House Democratic caucuses supporting a congressional ban on the war, there is no chance Congress can force his hand for at least six months.

Public Forum

To the editor:

More and more dogs and kittens are becoming lost without identification. While some animals are too young to have their rabies tag, a visit to the hardware store or nearest machine shop should produce a small tag with at least a phone number. It is the owner's responsibility to tag the animal, while the smaller and younger pets should not be left out of sight. This is a form of cruelty. Every animal is valuable in the eyes of God. # Strength For Today

WE MUST LEARN

"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:8). We can mess up our lives with impure thought and images until they become a veritable quagmire. Some people get so into the habit of turning evil images over and over in their minds that they lose the serenity and satisfaction that comes both from pure living and from pure thought. Pornography is a new word with an old meaning. For some people it is the publication of evil material which tends to arouse the passions. Learned attorneys argue back and forth as to what constitutes pornography. Most people know only too well what it is. They besmirch their thoughts, which is only a prelude to besmirching their actions — for all actions are preceded by thought.

Like most situations in life, the way to handle evil is to handle it with vigor and determination. The evil image must be pushed aside to make way for an image characterized by purity.

Most of the problems of life are characterized by a greater simplicity than we are willing to admit. The thing to do with a mind given to evil thought is to begin filling that mind with thought of an opposite variety.

The mind given to evil thinking can be turned into the mind occupied by matters of an entirely different variety. It is a matter of substitution quickly and vigorously arrived at and maintained.

The Bombs Are Briefed

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon insists that its bombing raids have been targeted only for military installations. Some people scoff at this, but I know for a fact it is true.

Before each B-52 mission, the bombs are lined up on the runway in front of their planes with their fuses armed and ready. An Air Force colonel on a platform with maps briefs them:

"American Bombs, your mission today is to destroy all military targets in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas. This includes railroads, truck depots, gasoline storage tanks and SAM missile sites. You have been set to explode at 100 feet and cause as much havoc as possible on the enemy. Are there any questions?"

"Some of you have been filled with antipersonnel material, others with highly explosive material and still others with inflammable substances which will cause earthshaking fires. This will be your big moment and we expect every one of you to give us the biggest bang for a buck."

"Now if you will observe this map closely, there is a large communications facility right next to the Indian Embassy in the center of Hanoi. You are to fall on the communications facility without damaging the Indian Embassy."

ART BUCHWALD

"Any bomb that goes astray will be court-martialed. Is that understood?"

"Please, Bombs, may I have your attention. Over here is Gia Lam International Airport. That, of course, is a military target. It is located next to a large housing project. I don't want any wise guys taking it into their heads to explode in the housing project. If you find yourself falling into a civilian area, release your fuse and become a dud."

"Our job is to get you to Hanoi in one piece, but once we release you from your rack, each of you is on your own."

"Since you'll be falling in clusters, keep your eye on the lead Bomb. If you see it falling astray onto a populated area, try to correct your own drop with your tail fins. If you can't hit a military target, then dump yourself into the river. Are there any questions?"

"Now, over here is the Bach Mai Hospital, or at least what the North Vietnamese claim is a hospital. It, unfortunately, is located next to a petroleum storage dump. Now for God's sake, if you're going to go for the petroleum dump, stay away from the hospital. I don't want some smart Bomb telling me tomorrow it didn't know where the hospital was."

"I know you are as anxious as we are to do as much damage to North Vietnam as possible, but unfortunately there are other considerations that have to be dealt with. For one thing, we have to worry about world opinion; for another we have to contend with a stupid (Continued on Page 7)

Other Editors Say A Second Term?

(Washington Daily News)

Bob Scott favors allowing the governor of North Carolina to hold a second consecutive term.

Under the N.C. constitution now a governor is ineligible to succeed himself. He serves four years and then he must get out. Incoming governor Jim Holshouser also favors allowing a governor the right to succeed himself but only after his own four year term in office.

Several months ago Governor Scott began advocating the constitutional right of a governor to succeed himself. But the last legislature turned a deaf ear to his plea and it was not among the constitutional changes voted upon in November.

If one stops and takes a look, he finds good reasons on both sides. There are many things to be said for a governor not being allowed to succeed himself. For one thing, it tends to play down the angle of partisan politics because if a governor is running for a second term, he tends to look at his actions and programs too often in political equations particularly during the last two years in office. Being unable to run again, he tends to try to do a better job as governor without the idea of political campaigning on his mind.

On the other side of the coin, if North Carolina has a particularly good governor who want to run for a second consecutive term, whether he is reelected or not is for the people to say. The verdict is in the hands solely of the people. And if a governor can get himself reelected, then we see nothing so wrong with the proposition. However, it is our opinion that few governors in our state could get themselves reelected.

Since any change in this direction must be made by allowing the people to vote on such a constitutional change, then we feel that it only right and wise that the people have that right to vote on this issue. The General assembly cannot change it. Only the people can.

But again in a campaign only the people can reelect or defeat a candidate for governor. And the will of the people is a powerful safeguard, and it always offers the wisest and safest solution to a public problem.

We have no objection to giving the right of succession to governors of North Carolina. Indeed we might have serious differences of opinion as to whether a given governor ought to be reelected or not. But the ballot box itself is a tremendous equalizer.

This right of a governor to succeed himself is one which ought to be determined by a vote of the people. And the wisdom of a given governor succeeding himself would also be in the hands of the people.

Ready For 1973?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The start of the new year is always rough. Common sense tells you that each year is getting more demanding than the one before. That is the way the world is going.

HAL BOYLE

Therefore, now is the best of all times to check up on yourself to see that you are fit for the ordeal.

You need a mental as well as a physical exam.

A glance into the mirror will tell you what needs to be done to tone your body up. But how about your mind — that whetstone of decision, that buzzsaw of performance? Is it ready to face the ordeal and challenges of 1973?

We've prepared a simple, easy-to-do home test that will help you solve that problem. Simply answer the following questions:

If someone suddenly played "Jingle Bells" in your ear right now, would you either scream silently or start denouncing Santa Claus?

Do you think modern school children get too many vacations and ought to spend more time studying and less time frittering the year away?

Have you decided that this is probably the year you'll finally go bankrupt before April?

Are you tempted now and then to sell your house and become a hermit on a desert isle?

Do you tell yourself that you and your whole family would probababy better off if you just threw in the sponge and went on relief?

Aren't taxes about twice what you think you should pay?

Isn't it true you feel you wouldn't need Social Security when you retire — if Uncle Sam would just digging in your pocketbook so much you don't have enough to do any real saving yourself?

Don't you just wish the gov-

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
January 10, 1933

President and Mrs. Hoover have donated their camp, the summer White House, at Madison, Virginia, to the commonwealth with the request that it be made a part of the Shenandoah National Park and preserved for the use of other Presidents who wish to camp there.

Japanese calvary and infantry occupied Chimenkou Pass in the Great Wall of China today, blocking further movement of Chinese troops through the famous gate. This the second strategic position taken by the Jananese during the week to block the Chinese from the rich Mongolian provinces, and frustrate Chinese attempts to defend against the impending invasion. Occupation of Shanhaikwan just a week ago by the Japanese shut off the only eastern gate a short distance from where the wall comes down to the sea.

In fact, he continued, "until the press viewed it as a disagreement I didn't see it as a disagreement but as a different approach in governing a national system." The emphasis, he said, should be that Needham and Kolton agree that a system of government must be devised for a new national market. One of the criticisms of Needham's plan to merge the various exchanges is that they would lose their identities and that, since it is the biggest and most powerful. (Continued on Page 7)

Cold Increased Work For Some, Idled Others

By Tom Baines
Reflector Staff Writer
 The first snow fall and major cold spell of the winter apparently brought business activity almost to a halt for some, although the severe weather has meant added work for others. Several Greenville merchants said that the full day of snow fall and freezing temperatures Monday hurt business although sales of cold weather goods were heavy. Watt Moore, assistant manager at Belk Tyler, said that business Monday was almost at a standstill although Monday morning sales of gloves and boots kept the day from being a loss. Moore said that the store closed about mid-afternoon Monday to allow employees to get home. Henry Kearney, manager of Rose's at Pitt Plaza, said that the weather cut almost all business activity off and noted that the pedestrian traffic that did brave the elements purchased gloves, boots and toboggans, almost exclusively. Kearney pointed out that the store closed early Monday. A spokesman at one of the auto supply stores reported that the business had sold approximately 120 sets of tire chains Tuesday and also a large quantity of anti-freeze. Another auto service center spokesman said the firm had approximately 100 sets of chains on hand prior to the snow and sold out of all sets for cars and trucks. He added that snow tires also sold extremely well. John King of Moore-King-Sullivan Oil Co. reported Tuesday that his business had had an influx of calls for oil although the weather had affected business no more than usual under the weather conditions. He said that his trucks were trying to meet all of the calls and Tuesday no accidents had resulted. According to Leon Moore at Leon L. Moore Oil Co., the firm had been able to meet town calls but until around noon Tuesday his trucks had not been able to get out into the county. Moore said that he had had a lot of burner service calls but at that time no emergencies. The owner noted that most of his customers are checked regularly during the oil season and therefore he does not have a great deal of calls concerning oil running out in the city or county. He added that the treacherous driving conditions usually cut down the number of calls answered to just over half the normal number in a days time. Walker Allen Sr. of W. L. Allen Oil Co. said that he had approximately 98 per cent of his customers on the keep-a-check basis, also, and his business had been able to stay ahead of the situation as of Tuesday. He added that he had had a 50 per cent loss in the number of calls his trucks have been able to answer due to the driving conditions. The weather had prevented his trucks from making some calls, Allen said. "We are bound to have more calls than usual during a period like this," Thomas Carawan of Carawan Oil Co. pointed out, adding however that his trucks had been able to get out without incident and "everything seems to be going well so far." Sam Pollard, Sr. of Sam Pollard and Son Plumbing said that his men had been able to handle all calls as of Tuesday but expected the rash of bursting pipes to occur when the weather warms. Most of his calls have been furnace service situations, he said. J.B. Keel of Keel Plumbing Co. reported that he had about a half a dozen calls about frozen pipes through Tuesday morning but that he expected more to show up when they began to thaw out around town.

Most plumbing companies freezing weather. The thawing out period usually produces the rash of damaged pipes, they reported.

 the Big Board would come out on top.
 The so-called regional exchanges, or those situated outside New York, are particularly concerned about being dominated. They have a financial and emotional commitment to their areas that they are determined to preserve.

Their attitude is not just the neurosis of the little guy. The NYSE already has begun referring to itself as The Exchange. There is nothing subtle about it.

But such a fear was not his motivation for proposing an alternative, said Kolton. It was the public interest that he had in mind. That and the feeling that if the industry didn't get together soon to form a central market then Congress would seize the initiative and do it for them.

In a period of transition — to what, precisely, they do not know — the various segments of the industry find themselves wary of each other and wary of Congress.

Just what new central market place will evolve is not known. Just how much identity and power each exchange will retain is difficult to foresee. Each exchange will have to give up something, but none intend to give up all.

And that includes the Amex and its president, Paul Kolton.

 ernment would let you have a raise to pay commensurate with the way you feel prices have gone up?

For some reason inflation has hit your family harder than it has any other family in the block, hasn't it?

You did get a little tired of the football season toward the end, didn't you?

Nothing seems to last very long anymore, and they simply don't make things as well nowadays as they used to — isn't that so?

Those are the questions. Now to your score.

If you answered no to more than three of them, you are out of your mind and living in a fool's paradise.

But if you answered yes to all the questions, you're in the pink of condition. You simply have a normal case of "winter blues." You should weather 1973 in great shape. The more desperate you are in January, the more likely you are to be healthy in June.

 Congress. If just one of you makes a mistake it's going to give all American Bombs a bad name. Are there any questions?

"All right. Now I know you're anxious to get off and wreck havoc on the enemy.

"Bombs, this is the big day you have waited for. President Nixon is counting on you to bring an honorable and just peace to Vietnam. millions of dollars have been invested, and thousands of people have worked to make you the finest and best Bombs that money can buy. We have provided you with the most advanced bombers to bring for you on target. Trained technicians have been provided for your comfort and safety. The entire Air Force has only one purpose—to see that you arrive at your destination in one piece.

"We can do no more. It's all up to you now. Remember that as you search out your military targets all the world will be watching. What you do in Hanoi could very well affect peace for generations to come.

"I can only add my own wished for a successful mission. America expects every Bomb to do his duty. God bless you, one and all."

Evans-Novak .

 For the President, it is immensely important to impress that fact on Le Duc Tho, Kissinger's opposite number at Paris, and on the Hanoi politburo.

It is taken as fact in the White House that a major explanation of Hanoi's sudden procrastination in the last round of Paris talks was to postpone settlement until the new Congress convened. Pressure from anti-war doves who dominate the majority Democrats would force the President into new concessions.

Mr. Nixon's lone-hand aloofness at that Friday White House session was just one more way of conveying to Hanoi his refusal to be enticed into a partnership-negotiation, with Congress kibitzing in the game over the President's shoulder. An earlier way was his refusal to explain the bombing decision either to Congress or to the country, as he had publicly explained both the 1970 Cambodian invasion and last spring's daring decision to mine Haiphong harbor.

The message seems to be getting through to Hanoi that Congress will not be able to impose its will on the White House.

If Congress should send the President a bill cutting off all funds for U.S. participation in the war or aid to Saigon, he would veto it. If Congress should attach such a proviso to an appropriation bill — for example, to continue foreign aid spending due to expire Feb. 28 — he would veto that, too, and then challenge Congress to let foreign aid die or send him a new bill.

Moreover, key presidential aides are convinced that in any toe-to-toe battle with the Democratic Congress, Mr. Nixon could take his case to the country and win it.

If Kissinger obtains a settlement within the next three weeks in Paris, this clash between the White House and Congress will die aborning. If not, Mr. Nixon's second term will begin an embittered and potentially historic struggle for which the President is far better armed than the Congress, considering his veto power and his popular support.

Mothers' March Will Begin On January 19

The 1973 Mothers' March on Birth Defects will get underway Friday, Jan. 19 and will end at 6 p.m. the following Sunday.

The Mothers' March is a community-wide action of neighbor calling on neighbor to request contributions for the prevention of birth defects.

"We have set a high goal this year, and with everyone's efforts we can make it," said Mrs. William Bruner, Mothers' March chairman. "Since Greenville has not conducted a Mothers' March in many years, we have nothing on which to base our goal except the generosity of her citizens. We feel the people of Greenville will open their doors and their hearts when a volunteer calls."

Mrs. Bruner has announced leaders of the Mothers' March campaign. Mrs. Matt Gustafson is co-chairman. Committee chairmen are as follows: Mrs. A. J. Brock, publicity; Mrs. Skip Collier, secretary; Mrs. William James, mapping and coding; Mrs. Richard Hunsucker, supplies; Mrs. Scrapy Proctor, apartments; Mrs. David Taylor, receipts; and Mrs. Paul Breitman, Mrs. Marvin Buck, Mrs. Mike Cavendish, Mrs. William Fuqua, Mrs. Edward Harrington, Mrs. Melvin Hathaway, Mrs. Stuart Savage, and Mrs. Lon Williford, volunteer recruiting.

"The Mothers' March offers every woman the opportunity of personal participation in the prevention of birth defects and the rewards to be reaped in upgrading the quality of life at birth. Volunteers, however, are not limited to women. Any man or male service organization, teenagers, fraternities, sororities, civic groups or other interested individuals are invited to join the March. To volunteer, one should call 758-3155. Remember, birth defects are forever, unless you help," Mrs. Bruner said.

Indicted Cyclist Shot And Killed

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — One of the seven members of the "Storm Troopers" motorcycle club, who was under indictment for murder, has been shot and killed by a Durham policeman. Police reported Tuesday night that Alton H. Mason, 22, of Durham, was shot after he pulled a gun on Patrolman J. F. Lamb, who was taking him to jail.

Mason was taken to Duke University hospital, where he died at 6:25 p.m. of "multiple gunshot wounds" according to a hospital spokesman.

In that shootout, reportedly the result of a grudge over a stolen motorcycle, two people were killed and six others wounded. Mason had subsequently been released on bond.

Tuesday night, Lamb went to the Ninth Street Lounge, a pool room, to arrest Mason on charges of obstruction of justice.

According to police accounts, Mason submitted peacefully. He was frisked, but not handcuffed, and was placed in the rear of Lamb's squad car for the trip to the jail.

At the jail, police say, Mason pulled a gun on Lamb, which police theorize he had hidden in his boot.

Lamb fired at Mason and hit him; some reports said there were two shots and some said four. Police said they were uncertain how many shots were fired. They gave no indication that Mason had fired.

The charges on which Mason was arrested grew from an incident in another Durham night spot, the Cardinal Lounge, Friday night.

Lamb was working there on his own time as a security guard when Mason came to the door. Lamb told him he was not allowed inside.

But the manager of that club, Ruth Cantrell, said she beckoned to him to come into her office. Mason pushed past Lamb and went in.

New Orleans Hotel Sniper Identified As A 'Hater'

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police have identified the sniper they killed on a hotel rooftop as a young Kansas black whose minister says he "hated white folks."

Supt. Clarence Giarrusso told a news conference Tuesday that the sniper was Mark J. Essex, 23, of Emporia and added: "There's some evidence of a conspiracy by other people, but I cannot positively tell you yet."

Six persons were shot to death and 17 injured in the sniping incident.

Giarrusso also said: — Ballistics prove a .44 magnum carbine found next to Essex's body was the same weapon that killed a young police cadet and wounded a policeman in New Orleans on New Year's Eve.

— Police "have evidence that would lead to both conclusions" — that Essex was the only sniper on the roof of the Down Town Howard Johnson's hotel, and that one or more fellow snipers were with him and escaped.

Asked whether his reference to conspiracy meant he had evidence Essex belonged to a militant organization, Giarrusso said: "I'm not certain about that yet ... (but) conspiracy in the sense that it may have been two, three or four people; a small number — you know, it doesn't take many to form a conspiracy — who were intent to kill people. And that's the sum and essence of it."

He said the carbine was the same weapon that cut down cadet Alfred Harrell, 19, as he stepped in front of police headquarters 10 days ago and wounded Patrolman Edwin C. Hosli Sr., 18 minutes later a few blocks away.

At the time of the New Year's Eve shootings, Giarrusso said, "We had some information — reason to believe people were going to hurt someone when Harrell and Hosli were taken to Charity Hospital."

On the basis of that information, during the sniping he deployed extra officers at the hospital, where following a brief disturbance a man with a shotgun was arrested.

In Essex's hometown of Emporia, the Rev. W. A. Chambers, his family's minister, said young Essex had developed a militant dislike for whites when he came home from the Navy.

In Washington, the Navy said Essex was given a general discharge for unsuitability Feb. 10, 1970. A spokesman said this type of discharge involves "character and behavior disorders" but would not elaborate.

Meanwhile, police debated whether there was more than one sniper.

Giarrusso gave these reasons to think Essex wasn't alone: — After his death, a helicopter which participated in a police seige on the hotel was fired upon. "You'd have to assume the police hit the plane (if Essex was alone). This is possible, but highly improbable."

— After Essex died, several policemen saw another person on the roof. "There were very, very many shots taken at this person while this person, or this ghost allegedly moved.... I can't believe that the policemen ... were all hallucinating."

— Policemen heard foul language and shouting and talking on the rooftop after Essex was killed.

Giarrusso cited these reasons for believing Essex acted alone. — "There has been but one person found."

"Our men insist the area was adequately sealed off."

However, under close questioning, Giarrusso conceded that "there was a time span prior to our receipt of the plans of the building that an unobvious exit from the roof would have enabled other persons, if there were any, to leave the roof and go to another floor."

He said he didn't know the length of the "time span," but that it was at the very beginning of the siege. Under more questioning, Giarrusso identified the "unobvious exit" as the elevator shaft.

Newsmen inside the hotel said police didn't begin guarding the bottom of the elevator shafts until after sunrise Monday — or nearly 24 hours after the shooting started.

Robert Bemish, 43, a broadcasting engineer hit by sniper fire, said Essex "was not the same man who shot me."

Police said Essex was wearing military fatigue pants with baggy pockets to carry shells.

Bemish, a guest at the hotel, declared: "The man who shot me had on a light tan jacket and brown slacks."

Newsmen recalled a black policeman asking fellow officers during the siege whether they had seen a heavy-set black man walking with him through the hotel who had "just disappeared."

The man was described as wearing a short, light-colored coat. Shortly afterward, police checked the credentials of all newsmen in the area — raising the possibility a second sniper mixed with police and others inside the hotel and walked out undetected.

Tim Carew, 19, of Omaha, Neb., also a guest at the hotel, reported encountering just one sniper during the siege, however. Carew said the sniper told a black maid employed at the hotel: "Sister, the revolution is here."

Meanwhile, Policeman Paul Persigo, one of three officers killed in the sniper fire, was buried Tuesday after funeral services at St. Edward the Confessor Church. Mayor Moon Landrieu declared New Orleans to be in a "state of civic mourning ... to be extended through Sunday."

Humans Are In The Minority

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Human beings are a minority in Southfield, the phone-test town in the 50 states.

The affluent Detroit suburb has 71,000 people, but they talk on 84,992 telephones, according to American Telephone & Telegraph's 1972 edition of "The World's Telephones."

Even though Southfield folk are apparently the gabbiest in the 50 states — with 118.6 phones for every 100 people — the District of Columbia has 123 phones for every 100 people.

Southfield and the nation's capital are the only cities in the world where telephones outnumber people, the company said.

Pheasants can make a fast takeoff because of their short, cupped wings.

Snake-Handling Cult Today Is Less Common Than Once Was

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Alfred Parsons, a 32-year-old carpenter, put on his best clothes one day late last summer and went to a rural Georgia church. When his faith was strong enough, he lifted a rattlesnake from a box with his bare hands and began to shake it.

The snake sank its fangs into Parsons four times.

The carpenter died before midnight. He had sought no medical attention because other true believers bitten in similar circumstances had lived to demonstrate their faith anew. They buried Parsons in the church cemetery.

Such deaths are relatively rare, but the snake-handling cult itself remains widespread in Southern backwoods and the mountain hollows of Appalachia. It is, however, less common than it once was.

"I thought snake-handling was disappearing several years ago, but it seems to be flourishing again," said Dr. Weston La Barre of Duke University, author of a serious book on the subject.

The same opinion is held by Steven Kane, 25, of Boston, a graduate anthropology student at the University of North Carolina who witnessed more than two-dozen snake-handling services during a 3,000-mile tour of Kentucky, South Carolina and Tennessee last summer.

He said he was shocked to find that snake-handling believers drank "salvation cocktails" — strychnine and water — at some services.

Snake-handling services, he said, are still being held by Pentecostal and Holiness Church members — fundamentalists who interpret literally a Bible passage from St. Mark that says: "They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them."

Kane said that because of adverse publicity, many snake-handling churches have gone underground and allow only members to witness services. "The churches are still in operation, but you have to know where to find them," he said. "They don't advertise."

The cult was founded in 1909 in Grasshopper Valley, Tenn., by George W. Hensley, who was struck by the passage from St. Mark. After pondering its meaning, he chased down a big rattlesnake in a rocky gap and called a meeting of his neighbors. He exhorted his neighbors to express their belief in the literal truth of the Bible by passing the angrily buzzing snake among themselves. No one was injured and word quickly spread.

The founder's faith led to his death on July 24, 1955, at Lester's Shed, Fla. He was fatally bitten by a diamondback during a prayer service. The event was nearly fatal to the movement as well, since it was exceedingly hard to justify to Hensley's followers.

Kane found during his nine-week tour that services are conducted today in much the same manner as in Hensley's day:

"They start with the faithful — mostly low-income whites with low-status jobs — singing and shouting to get the spirit. The praying and music then start in earnest and it gets frantic as they speak in tongues, sway and jerk."

"When the people in the church — usually a cinderblock building back in the woods outside of town — begin shouting that they have enough spirit in them, the snakes are brought out — copperheads and rattlers. Some people wrap them around their arms and others around their neck."

"Then, when emotion has subsided, the snakes are put away and the evening's sermon begins and the minister receives declarations of faith. It was a shock to my middle-class Boston background, but I was impressed with the industriousness and sincerity of these people."

Kane visited a dozen churches and said he heard of another "a poisonous dozens more from Florida to Mississippi. He said he saw no one bitten but talked to one man who claimed to have been bitten more than 50 times and another who claimed 37 bites, four of which made him seriously ill."

He said he occasionally came across a minister who had gone out of business after experiencing the setback of a believer being fatally snakebitten. Such instances, he said, have had more to do with churches folding than the law. A West Virginia woman was the second person to die last summer of a bite suffered in a snake-handling service.

Not all services are conducted in secrecy. They can be observed at the Wade Chapel, near Cartersville, Ga., Wednesday and Saturday nights and the first and third Sunday of each month.

"I don't know if the handling ever died down, so to speak," said James Wade, 29, a construction worker who succeeded his father, Luther, as minister. "But for three or four years, it quietened down some because a lot of folks got upset about it. I suspect the biggest churches now are in Kentucky, Virginia and here in Georgia, up in the mountains. There's still considerable of it, though, in Alabama, Tennessee, West Virginia and up in the Carolinas."

"We don't pass the snakes around like an offering," he said. "A lot of folks don't understand about that. We carry them up to the church in a locked box and keep them behind the pulpit. When people get right enough with the Lord, they come up and handle them."

Wade says he has handled snakes thousands of times and has been bitten about 30 times. Four of the bites were bad enough to make him sick for a while, he said.

The Bartow County sheriff and deputies have been out to see Wade several times but have not interfered with services. "Those are honest, hard-working folks out there," said a deputy.

Snake-handling is illegal in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia but still lawful in West Virginia. A number of other Southern states have laws making it illegal for one person to hand another "a poisonous snake, but they don't make it illegal for a person to pick up a snake of his own volition. Consequently, law enforcement is spotty."

"People around here feel like if they want to pick up rattlesnakes, that's their business," said Berrien County Sheriff Walter Gaskins, who investigated Georgia's last snake-handling death in late September. The victim, Parsons, was bitten at the New River Free Holiness Church near Nashville in south Georgia.

"He got bit several times and instead of throwing the snake down, he took him and put him back in the box," said A. J. Connell of Acworth, Ga., who was present when Parsons was bitten.

Overheat In Winter, Too

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brother, it's cold outside, but the greatest danger a car radiator faces during winter driving is over-heating.

The typical U.S.-made automobile travelling at normal highway speeds will generate (and must throw off) more than 150,000 BTUs each hour it is in operation. That's enough thermal power to heat a six-room house to a comfortable 70 degrees—when the temperature outside is zero.

Today's automotive engines are called upon to perform a great many other jobs than simply moving the car forward or backward.

Automatic transmission, power steering and other power accessories, all place an extra burden on the engine. Add to this the fact that today's styling has restricted the size of the radiator cooling area, and it's obvious the car's cooling system must be kept in top working order.

Du Pont cooling system experts say the use of anti-freeze is not simply limited to preventing freeze-ups when the vehicle is parked outdoors on a near-zero night. In order to operate at maximum efficiency, the car radiator should be filled with a 50-50 solution of water and permanent anti-freeze which has the added value of preventing leaks.

Fire Today Burns Home

The mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moffitt near Farmville burned early this morning.

The Farmville Fire Department answered the call, but were unable to save any of the Moffitts' belongings. According to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, the couple was staying with Mrs. Moffitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Styers, in Farmville at the time of the fire. He said he does not know how the fire started.

The home of Mrs. Barbara Green and her family near Winterville was heavily damaged by fire yesterday morning. The Winterville Fire Department answered the 11:58 a.m. call. The fire marshal said $2,000 damage was done and the family was forced to move by the fire, which apparently started around a chimney. The house is located on the Old Tar Road between Winterville and Ayden.

There were two fires Monday, but neither caused serious damage. A chimney "caught" in the home of Ralph Wade on Rural Paved Road 1120, but the fire was extinguished before damage was done. The Winterville Fire Department answered the call.

Some $50 was the estimate of damage when a hole was burned in the floor of an abandoned house on the farm of Ervin Smith near Pactolus. The Pactolus Fire Department answered the call. Investigation of the cause of this fire is continuing, Joyner said.

Boutin and O'Brien pleaded guilty to noncapital murder and were sentenced last Thursday to life imprisonment.

Birds Flock To Berry Bushes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP) — The swallows return to Capistrano March 19, the buzzards fly to Hinckley, Ohio, March 15 and the robins head for St. Petersburg when the berry bushes ferment.

They are flocking to this Florida west coast city to nip the juicy scarlet berries of the holly bush.

The warm January sun ferments the ripe berries.

The robins gorge themselves, then fly blind, wobbling on branches, staggering, doing ground loops.

Audubon Society leader Mrs. H. R. Mills says the red-breasted birds first appeared last year and seem to have added St. Petersburg to their migratory flight plan.

Mrs. Mills says the birds will begin working their way north in about a month or so.

The first stop: nearby Plant City's strawberry fields.

Athletes In Action Edge Past Pirates In Close Match, 21-18

The Athletes In Action wrestling team gained a 21-18 victory over the East Carolina University Pirates last night in Minges Coliseum.

The loss was the first of the year for the Southern Conference's defending champions, but is officially listed as an exhibition since the Chargers are a post-collegiate team.

The Chargers are rated as one of the nation's top wrestling groups, and have not been beaten this season. A spokesman told the Pirate head coach, John Welborn, that the Bucs gave them one of the top matches so far this year.

"We gave it a real good effort," Welborn said. "We knew that we'd have to have some breaks to beat them. We got a few, but we lose one decision, 10-9, and that meant the difference in the match. I felt like we could have won that one, and then won the match."

The Bucs took two matches, the 118 and 126-pound classes by forfeit when Charger members weren't able to meet the weights. Bob Vroom and Dan Monroe were given credit for the victories.

At 134, Jim McCloe added to the Pirate victories by downing Kyung Mu Chang, 10-3. Chang was fourth in the World Games in 1966, and is a former Korean national champion.

At 142, however, the Pirates suffered their first loss, as Reid Lamphere nipped Milt Sherman, 10-9. Lamphere is a former fourth place finisher in the NCAA championships.

East Carolina took the 150-pound class as Roger Lundy beat Richard Pollack, 13-10. Pollack is a former four-time NAIA place winner.

Art Holden, a Southern Open champion, downed Bruce Hall, 2-0, in the 167-pound class, while Bob Kuhn, a sixth place NCAA finisher, beat Bill Hill, 13-6, in the 167-pound class.

Greg Hicks, a former N.C. State wrestler and leader of the AIA team, and a second place finisher in the U.S. Federation Tournament got the only pin of the evening, beating Ron Whitcomb.

At 190 the AIA's Henry Schaffer downed John Huber, 7-1. Schaffer is a former third place finisher in the Pan-American trials. And rounding out the match, Mike McCready, a former college division NCAA champ, and third place finisher in the university division, beat Mark Pobre, 6-0.

The Pirates, still unbeaten in official dual meets, play host to tough West Chester College tonight at 8 p.m. in Minges.

Maryland Wins Over Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Maryland won handily Tuesday night, 93-74 over Virginia. And the other two nationally ranked basketball teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference, North Carolina State and North Carolina, should come through easily tonight.

Third-ranked N. C. State, 9-0, is at home to face disappointing Duke, 5-6, which has not won on an opponent's court.

The Duke Blue Devils probably will play a zone against the Wolfpack, which has such scoring threats as Tommy Burleson, David Thompson and Monte Towe. Guard Gary Melchioni and forward Christ Redding are the Duke leaders.

North Carolina, seventh ranked and 12-1, which has not lost in the last 20 games in its home McCormick Auditorium, returns to that friendly spot for the first time since Dec. 2 to take on Clemson. The Clemson Tigers have not won an ACC road game since the 1968 season.

The North Carolina Tar Heels are led by guard George Karl and front court men Bobby Jones and Ed Stahl. In addition, guard Darrell Elston has made 14 of his last 18 shots from the floor, and has come from benchwarmer to starter. In all of last year he tried only 10 field goals and hit two of them.

Clemson, 5-5, is led by Van Gregg, a fine shooter, and front courters Dave Angel, Mike Browning and Jeff Reisinger.

Wake Forest, 7-4, takes a four-game winning streak into its home game tonight against Niagara, which has lost recent games on the road to Clemson and Furman.

Len Elmore had 19 points and 17 rebounds as undefeated Maryland, ranked No. 2, won its 10th game this season and its 21st straight at home. Freshman guard John Lucas had 20 points and Tom McMillen 17 for the Terps, who won their 14th game in a row, dating back to last season.

McMillen sank five free throws to extend his streak to 21.

Barry Parkhill, Virginia's back court ace, was held to two points, the lowest of his career, by the guarding of Bob Bodell and Jim O'Brien. Wally Walker had 23 points and Gus Gerard 19 for Virginia, which now is 6-

Cougars Rip New York; Colonels Hold Ground

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Kentucky Colonel guard Louie Dampier has said that Dan Issel has a great touch and that his strength is his offense.

Issel proved that Tuesday night with an awesome display of shooting and rebounding to lead the Colonels to a 113-106 victory over the Virginia Squires in an American Basketball Association game.

Issel, hitting consistently with his medium-range jump shot and muscling his 240-pound frame under the boards, scored 44 points and grabbed 18 rebounds. His efforts helped Kentucky break open a tight game in the fourth quarter.

In other ABA games, Carolina thumped the New York Nets 110-97. Utah rallied to beat Memphis 115-111 and San Diego defeated Denver 113-109.

Coach Joe Mullaney said of Issel's performance, "Dan did a fine job, but it really wasn't because we overemphasized him."

Issel and Virginia high scorer Julius Erving traded baskets throughout the game until Issel took control late in the third quarter.

Erving finished with 34 points, four above his league-leading average, and 17 rebounds. Steve Jones poured in 30 points to lead the Carolina Cougars to a 110-97 trouncing of the New York Nets. Carolina's victory, its 11th straight, is the league's longest winning streak this season.

The Utah Stars, with their regular guards out of the starting line-up, scored 14 straight points in the final quarter to come from behind and defeat Memphis.

Two free throws by Larry Miller with 11 seconds left and two more by Simmie Hill at the buzzer helped the San Diego Conquistadors turn back the Denver Rockets. Charlie Williams and Gene Moore had 21 and 20 points, respectively, for the Qs, who had dropped 21 of their previous 25 starts.

Highway, GUCo Win

State Highway and Greenville Utilities picked up victories last night in the Industrial Basketball League. The Highwaymen remained unbeaten with a 2-0 record after downing winless Vermont America, 81-40, Greenville Utilities won its first in two starts with a 66-36 win over the Post Office.

In the opener, State Highway doubled the score on Vermont American, outshooting them, 36-18. In the second half, they really poured in on, hitting 45 points, while holding Vermont American to just 22.

B. Edwards led the Highwaymen with 20 points, while P. Page had 15, S. Worthington had 14, and F. Mills and L. Jenkins each had 12. For Vermont American, Ronnie Foster and Moses Teel each had 14 and Walter Hill had 10.

In the other game, GUCo also doubled the score on its opponent in the first half, but not by quite as much. This time, it was 30-15. In the second half, GUCo outshot the Post Office, 36-21, to win it going away.

Donal Chase led GUCo with 25 points, while Henry Crumble had 12, and Zeno Smith and James Ward each had 10. P. Fleming led the Post Office with 15.

Furman Goes Against Dolphins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Five Southern Conference basketball teams go against outside opposition tonight with at least four bidding for victories that could enhance the league's image immeasurably.

Furman's Paladins, 7-3 and the choice of most observers to make off with the league championship, have the toughest assignment, playing at home against 15th-ranked Jacksonville, 10-2.

The Paladins played at Jacksonville before Christmas and dropped an 86-66 decision to the Dolphins, who went to the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament finals three years ago under Joe Williams, now the coach at Furman.

Richmond's resurgent Spiders, 3-6, may have the next toughest task as they play host to Villanova, 7-2.

All three Spider victories have come in the last four games since junior college transfer Aron Stewart became eligible. Stewart has led Richmond scoring in all four games and is averaging 26 points per encounter.

"Aron is just what we have been looking for," says Richmond Coach Lewis Mills. "He is not only a great scorer, but he has given the other players the confidence that they need. There is no doubt that we have a very competitive ball club now."

Davidson's Wildcats, 7-4 overall and leading the conference with a 3-0 record, go on the road for a game at Pitt in a bid to start another winning streak after dropping a 78-77 decision last Saturday night to St. John's of New York.

Players Watch Watching Coach

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer Al McGuire would prefer that his Marquette basketball team pay attention to him rather than Wayne Embry. He's really sensitive about it, fellows.

Of course you couldn't really blame the Warriors' coach for feeling slightly neglected. Embry, the general manager of the pro Milwaukee Bucks, comes to Marquette home games to ogle prospective college talent.

And while Embry looks over McGuire's bunch, the kids make goo-goo eyes back.

"I don't like Embry sitting that close because I think my players start using a little peripheral vision," said McGuire after his fourth-ranked team turned back Chicago-Loyola 82-77 for its 81st straight home victory Tuesday night.

Marquette was only one of two Top Ten teams in action Tuesday night. Second-ranked Maryland crushed Virginia 93-74 in the other match.

Elsewhere, No. 16 Indiana drubbed Ohio 80-68; Tulsa beat Arkansas 85-81; Denver stymied Wyoming 63-51; Florida Southern trimmed Connecticut 93-85; Louisiana Tech defeated Arkansas State 80-68; Ohio smothered Marietta 87-31; LaSalle downed Rider 78-67; St. Joseph's, Pa., stopped American University 78-55; McNeese State whipped Texas-Arlington 89-76; Creighton overpowered Augustana 82-63; Hawaii hammered Abilene Christian 79-63; Northern Michigan coasted past Calvin 80-53 and Montana State slammed California-Irvine 75-59.

With its triumph, undefeated Marquette won No. 11 this year. But like most of the other victories, it didn't come easy. Five of the Warrior contests have been decided by five points or less.

The visitors forced several turnovers as Marquette tried to freeze the ball in the final four minutes and cut the margin to 78-75 on Paul Cohen's tip-in with 39 seconds left.

But Allie McGuire, the coach's son, tossed in a pair of free throws with 14 seconds remaining and Marcus Washington later delivered two more to nail it down.

"I think we came back a little tonight, there were signs of it," said Coach McGuire.

The reference was clear: McGuire has long chided his charges for showing off individual talents, rather than playing as a unit, because of Embry's presence.

Len Elmore scored 19 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to lead Maryland to its 14th straight victory, dating back to last season. The Terps roared to a 38-22 halftime lead and Virginia was unable to get closer than 10 points the rest of the way.

Maryland held high-scoring Barry Parkhill to two points — the lowest figure of his career. Wally Walker led the Cavaliers with 23 points.

Bob Devaney, in his last season as Nebraska football coach, has had winning seasons ever since he took over the job in 1957.

Presbyterian In First Defeat

Immanuel Baptist handed First Presbyterian its first loss of the season last night in the Church Basketball League, 55-38. In other games, Oakmont downed St. Paul's, 59-30, and Piney Grove beat Trinity, 71-56.

The loss by Presbyterian left St. James, Black Jack and Oakmont as the only unbeaten in the league.

In the opening game, Oakmont won its second with no losses by moving out into a 33-16 lead in the first half of play. That was more than they would need since they held St. Paul's to below their first half total for the game. In the second half, Oakmont held a 26-14 advantage, wrapping it up.

D. Daughtry led Oakmont with 24, while B. Hall had 18. J. Wall had 12 and J. Ashby had 10 to lead St. Paul's.

In the second game, Piney Grove moved out into a 31-23 lead during the first half of play. They came back with a 40-33 scoring advantage in the second half to win the game and chalk up their first win in three starts.

Wayne Avery led Piney Grove with 16 points, while Buddy Turnage had 15, Tommy Meeks had 13, and Ricky Langly and Buddy Allen each had 11. For Trinity, Donnie Bowen had 16, and Jim Adams and John Banks each had 14.

In the final game, Immanuel eased ahead of Presbyterian at the end of the first half, 27-23, and then rolled through the second half. Immanuel outscored Presbyterian, 28-15, and won, upping its record to 2-1 for the year.

Drew Rumbley led Immanuel with 17, while L.G. Catlett had 12 and Cliff McNeill had 10. For Presbyterian, Ronald Barnes had 10.

Games Are Postponed

Poor traveling conditions due to the snow and ice forced the postponement of most sports activity in the area last night.

Among those postponed were Robersonville at Bear Grass, North Pitt at Southern Wayne, Conley at Eastern Wayne, Greene Central at Farmville Central, Rose at Kinston, Oak City at Jamesville, Williamston at Murfreesboro, North Lenoir at Ayden-Grifton and E.B. Aycock at Southern Nash.

A number of activities have been slated for tonight, but it is believed that most of them will be delayed as the poor road conditions continued.

Bulls Dump Philadelphia As Walker Scores 15,000th Point

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The plight of the Philadelphia 76ers, according to Chet Walker, is just more proof that nice guys finish last.

Walker, an ex-76er who now plies his trade in Chicago, pumped in 20 points in the Bulls' 126-110 rout of hapless Philadelphia Tuesday night, becoming the 18th player in National Basketball Association history to score 15,000 points.

"After I got the basket to pass the 15,000-point mark," Walker said, "I looked over sadly at the press table and saw Philadelphia owner Irv Kosloff. I guess he tried to smile.

"He's just too nice a guy. He tries to be so fair with everybody, but he probably has a tendency to be influenced by persons not equipped to make the right decisions. Philadelphia is in a sad way, and no matter what Mr. Kosloff tries, it doesn't succeed."

The loss gave the 76ers a horrid 4-39 record and left them 30 games behind Atlantic Division-leading Boston. The Bulls, meanwhile, pulled within two games of pace-setting Milwaukee in the Midwest Division.

Elsewhere, the New York Knicks nipped the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 116-115 in overtime, the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 105-93, the Atlanta Hawks downed the Houston Rockets 120-114, the Golden State Warriors whipped the Detroit Pistons 105-98 and the Buffalo Braves beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 106-102.

Chicago's Garfield Heard and Philly's Fred Carter shared scoring honors with 27 points. Bob Love matched Walker's 20 for the Bulls, including 16 in the third period when they broke it open.

New York's Dave DeBusschere, named as an All-Star Game starter for the first time earlier in the day, celebrated by hitting a layup with 10 seconds left in overtime to nudge the Knicks past the Kings despite a career high 52 points by KC-Omaha's Nate Archibald, the NBA's scoring leader.

Elvin Hayes scored 23 points and grabbed 22 rebounds to lead Baltimore past Portland, enabling the Bullets to remain 1½ games in front of Atlanta in the Central Division.

A three-point play by Jim Washington with 2:36 remaining helped Atlanta hold off Houston. That gave the Hawks a seven-point lead after the teams had battled through 18 minutes with neither side leading by more than five.

Golden State's Rick Barry, flattened by a punch from Detroit's Fred Foster in the first quarter, recovered to score 28 points and pull down 17 rebounds to lead the Warriors past the Pistons.

In the opening minutes, Barry jostled Foster with an elbow under the basket and Foster decked the Warrior star with a roundhouse right. After several minutes, Barry recovered and Foster was ejected, causing Detroit Coach Ray Scott to play the game under protest.

Buffalo's front line of Elmore Smith, Bob McAdoo and Bob Kauffman combined for 64 points and outbounded the entire Cleveland team 45-43 in the Braves' victory over the Cavaliers.

Arizona State Star Expected To Be First Winter Baseball Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Philadelphia's tailend Phillies had the first choice in baseball's annual winter draft of free agent prospects today, and were expected to tab shortstop Alan Bannister, a former Arizona State standout, as No. 1 in the regular phase of the draft.

Bannister, who spurned a $55,000 offer from the California Angels in 1969 in order to attend Arizona State, says he's ready to move to the pros now. "I just felt that I had accomplished everything I could at Arizona State," he explained.

"The Phillies definitely need help or they wouldn't be drafting first," he added. "I'll get a chance."

Bannister set NCAA season records with 101 hits, 90 runs batted in and 177 total bases while batting .390 for the Sun Devils last season.

Although he played shortstop in college, the Phillies plan to try him elsewhere in spring training. Dallas Green, Philadelphia's farm director, said that since the Phils have Larry Bowa to play shortstop, they'll look at Bannister at second base and in the outfield in spring training.

Two of the outstanding prospects in the secondary phase of the draft—for prospects selected in the last two drafts but not signed—are pitchers Brad Van Pelt and Dick Ruthven.

Van Pelt, an All-American defensive back at Michigan State, has not said whether he plans a pro career in baseball or football.

So the Phils are leaning towards Ruthven, a 21-year-old right-hander from Fremont, Calif. and Fresno State. He was the top choice of the Minnesota Twins in the June, 1972 draft.

The 24 major league teams were linked to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's midtown offices via conference telephone hook-up for the winter draft which has produced some first-rate talent in past years.

The Phillies earned first choice in the regular phase by the slim margin of a single percentage point. That's how far Philadelphia finished behind San Diego in the composite National League standings. The draft's regular phase order of selection is determined by inverse order of the previous season's standings with the leagues alternating on the first choice.

Starr admitted receiving several coaching offers and said one, from an unnamed NFL club, was "particularly exciting."

"It would have given me a chance to associate with one of the truly great organizations in this league and to work with a sensational owner," he said.

"I did not turn this offer down," he said. "I simply decided to pursue a career in the business world rather than football."

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, who quarterbacked the Green Bay Packers to unparalleled National Football League, success in 16 brilliant playing seasons, is passing up at least one attractive coaching offer in favor of a budding business career.

Starr, who retired as a player last July but stayed on as coach of Green Bay's young quarterbacks and was credited with a major role in the club's resurgence, announced his decision to leave the game at a news conference Tuesday, his 39th birthday.

"It's just that I have a desire to do other things," said Starr, who has an automobile dealership with two outlets in Birmingham, Ala., and a motel in Auburn, Ala.

"It was a tough decision and I know I'm going to miss football," he said. "But I'm very excited about our business ventures. I'm excited with the challenge of doing something else."

Bighouse Takes 500th Victory

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Clarence "Bighouse" Gaines became the second active college basketball coach to gain his 500th victory—John Wooden of UCLA is the other—as Winston-Salem State defeated North Carolina Central 65-61 Tuesday night.

Gaines, whose record is 500-211, has been at Winston-Salem State his whole 26 years as a head coach. He played at Morgan State in Baltimore, came to Winston-Salem as an assistant in 1945, and was named head coach in the 1946-47 season.

Wooden is 590-154. No other coach can reach the 500 mark this year, according to records of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The closest is Ray Meyer of DePaul University in Chicago, who had 464 victories going into this season.

Gaines, whose team is 8-1 this season, said, "Five hundred victories prove one thing. That you've been around a long time. It's a good feeling to have 500. But now I suspect people will be coming around and asking me when I am going to retire. You've got to have a lot of people in your corner to reach 500."

After the game, the school presented him with a plaque. It will be suitably engraved later.

Action Taken Despite Move

CHICAGO (AP) — The governing council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today was expected to level a punitive punch at Southwestern Louisiana, a court-sheltered member accused of violating NCAA basketball recruiting codes.

The nationally ranked school last week obtained a federal court order in Louisiana to halt a scheduled NCAA hearing on the case here Tuesday. The NCAA is holding its 67th annual convention.

The temporary restraining order set a Jan. 15 date for a court hearing to determine whether the southern school should be allowed additional time to prepare a defense for any hearing before the NCAA.

The NCAA council was said to have deliberated Tuesday on as many as four infraction cases, but only Southwestern Louisiana was identified as one.

The council customarily meets four times a year to act each time on no more than four violation cases submitted by the NCAA's infraction committee.

Action taken Tuesday by the council was scheduled to be announced today at either a noon or late afternoon news conference.

Meanwhile, representatives from 665 member schools completed registration for Thursday's opening session of the three-day convention proper at which a record number of 108 proposals will be considered by the full membership.

Cousins Collide In Super Bowl

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a youngster, Roy Jefferson used to tag along after his older cousin.

Now he hopes that cousin's football team gets whipped in the Super Bowl on Sunday.

Nothing personal because they're still friendly like first cousins should be, but Jefferson plays wide receiver for the Washington Redskins and Marv Fleming is the tight end for the Miami Dolphins.

They won't meet head-on, but they'll still be on opposite side of the Super Bowl field at Memorial Coliseum.

"He was more like a brother to me than a cousin," says Jefferson. "When I was in junior high, he got me into his high school games."

The two played together at nearby Compton High School and the University of Utah when Roy was a sophomore there and Marv a senior.

Both are now veteran pros and both have played on winning Super Bowl teams—Fleming with the Green Bay Packers and Jefferson with the Baltimore Colts of 1970. Roy is married with children and Marv a bachelor.

Roy lives in Virginia and Marv in Southern California.

They get together whenever possible and talk anything but football. Latest meeting was Monday night of this Super Bowl week.

"I was visiting my mother and Marv called. When she told him I was here, he said, 'Don't let him leave, I'll be there.'"

"Out he came and we talked. I said my leg hurt and he said, 'Where?' And he said his back hurt and I said 'Where?'"

Jefferson, 29, alluded to the hostility of rivals who seek out each other's weaknesses, but admitted he only was kidding.

Fleming, 31, spent seven years with Green Bay, including some of the late Vince Lombardi's big years, before going to Miami after playing out an option. Jefferson played for Pittsburgh five years before going to Baltimore and then to Washington.

As for the Super Bowl, Fleming said, "I told Roy that it was our turn to win and then they could have their turn."

Miami lost to Dallas in the title game a year ago and is back for a second shot while Jefferson's Washington makes its first appearance.

Fantasy Inching To Reality In Nuclear Technology

By WILLIAM CLAYTON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the man on the street pictured it years ago, a time would come when somebody could throw a lump of uranium into a machine, stand back and watch it light the city from then on. The fantasy is inching toward reality, pushed along by work in what is called "fast breeder nuclear reactor technology"—a nuclear reactor that creates more fuel than it uses while at the same time generating electricity.

Many scientists — and the Nixon Administration—consider this the key to the growing world energy problem. Otherwise, nuclear power generators in and water power about 4 per cent. By 1990, nuclear sources are expected to make up 16 per cent of all U.S. energy. Hydropower will drop to 3 per cent, natural gas to 22 per cent and petroleum to 41 per cent. Coal will again be 18 per cent.

The Interior Department says nuclear energy now supplies less than half of 1 per cent of the nation's power with petroleum taking up 44 per cent, natural gas 33 per cent, coal 18 per cent and water power about 4 per cent. By 1990, nuclear sources are expected to make up 16 per cent of all U.S. energy. Hydropower will drop to 3 per cent, natural gas to 22 per cent and petroleum to 41 per cent. Coal will again be 18 per cent.

The year 2000, according to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), nuclear energy is expected to provide about half the nation's electric power, which by then will be roughly twice as great as now.

Charles Robbins of the Atomic Industrial Forum recalled that the first nuclear power station—a 560,000 kilowatts facility in New Jersey—went into operation in 1963.

Now there are 28 working nuclear generation plants, 52 under construction and 70 for which reactors have been ordered.

Conflicting forces are involved in decisions affecting the future of nuclear power generation. America's insatiable appetite for electricity says "full speed ahead," while growing concern over damage to the environment says "go slow."

The fast breeder reactor could solve both problems. It uses atomic fuel to create heat, which in turn is used to generate electricity. The reactor, however, also "breeds" more fuel in the form of plutonium than it uses in the form of uranium-238. With some changes, the plutonium can be put back into the process or used in another reactor.

The fast breeder also produces less "waste heat" of the type that can harm the environment—less, in fact, than present-day fossil fuel generators.

That will be important to public acceptance of fast breeder reactors.

The public's other area of major concern — radioactivity and possible leaks—is another matter.

Milton Shaw, director of the AEC's division of reactor development and technology, said people are too easily stirred by fears of radiation.

Shaw noted that people have lived on ships powered by a nuclear engine. Conventional power generation plants, he added, have had a minimum of mishaps.

"The safety record in this regard is very, very good," he said. "Of course, there are industrial accidents that will occur, as the business gets bigger and bigger, but we need to show people the precautions we take will certainly minimize the danger."

The Soviets got a leg up in the technology of fast breeder reactors with the recent announcement that Russia's first commercial breeder reactor had gone critical (started operating) at Shevchenko on the banks of the Caspian Sea.

Shaw said this was neither a surprise nor a setback for the United States.

Like starting up a car "Our objective is to be able to go into the capability of building a large number (of reactors) at a time, rather than just a single one," Shaw said. "We believe the position of the United States in nuclear power is good."

He likened "criticality" to starting up a car. "It is like stepping on the starter and having the car idle well. That does not mean it will necessarily run down the highway at 60 miles per hour," Shaw said. The United States is not building a technological base to enable it to run like 60 when it gets going.

The United States hopes to have several commercial reactors ready by the middle or late 1980s after spending something like $3 billion in the effort.

Shaw said the going will be rather slow for many years, however.

What about the day when you can start with a chunk of uranium and light the city from then on?

"Well, that is a dream, but don't remove it too much from the people who talked of some day traveling by rocket to the moon, or building homes at the bottom of the sea," Shaw said.

Ape-Like Footprints At Campsite In Himalayas

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — An American expedition camped at 12,500 feet in the snow of a Himalayan valley discovered ape-like footprints close to one of the tents, and Sherpa guides identified them as those of the Abominable Snowman.

The prints, almost nine inches long and nearly five inches wide with a rounded heel, were found Dec. 20 by Dr. Howard Emery, 34, a Los Angeles physician and zoologist, and Ted Cronin, 27, an ornithologist from Wilmington, Del.

Zoologist Jeffrey A. McNeely, 28, of Los Angeles, a Peace Corps volunteer based in Thailand, made three plaster casts of the prints and deposited them with the American Embassy in Katmandu.

McNeely said he and the others followed the tracks in six inches of fresh snow for just over half a mile before they disappeared in a thicket.

"The first toe was the largest one, positioned somewhat lower on the foot than the other four," he reported. He said the prints resembled those of a mountain gorilla found among the peaks of central Africa.

McNeely said in a report to the Nepalese Foreign Ministry: "They seem to be the tracks of a primate. However, the footprints are considerably larger than those of any monkey and are much wider in relation to the length than are tracks of monkeys.

"It seems quite clear that the

Art Display By ECU Senior

Art works in a variety of media by Marie-Claire Hatcher, senior student in the East Carolina University School of Art, is on display this week.

Miss Hatcher, a candidate for the BS degree in art, is showing paintings, drawings, sculptures, photographs and craft items in the Student Union gallery.

A native of Tangiers, Morocco, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierce E. Hatcher who now reside in Greenville.

tracks belong to an animal which is still unknown to science."

However, McNeely said he didn't think there was anything new about the footprints.

"Many others had already discovered them," he said, "so it does not give any new evidence for the discovery of Yeti," the name given to the creature by the Sherpas.

He said the team will make no special efforts to find the animal.

Yeti was introduced to the world as the Abominable Snowman in 1951 by British journalist Eric Shipton. Many Sherpas — but no foreigners — claim to have seen the creature. Shipton and a few other foreigners have photographed unexplained footprints, but McNeely's casts are the first reported taken of such tracks.

Second Payment For Winterville

WINTERVILLE — Town Clerk Elwood Nobles told the board of aldermen Monday night that the town had received its second and final payment in the federal revenue sharing fund for 1972.

The check totaled $6,706. The first payment received was for the amount of $6,927.

The board set up a federal revenue sharing fund account and went on record to spend $6,880 on the paving of Marshall and Forbes Avenue and Lee Street.

The board also banned the use of fiber sewer pipe within the town limits.

It was pointed out that a few serious accidents occurred in Winterville during the holidays from youngsters firing air rifles.

The board emphasized that it was unlawful to shoot air rifles within the town limits.

The board went on record endorsing a resolution to expand the East Carolina University Medical School to a four-year school of medicine.

W.E. "Bill" Whitehurst was hired by the board as a police officer for the town of Winterville. He will begin his duties on Jan. 15.

Micronesia A Mecca For Snorkel-And-Scuba Set

By ROBERT C. MILLER
TRUK, Micronesia (UPI) —
The mystic beauty of Micronesia is female; some of the most exotic parts are hidden.

This newest target of the S and S—Snorkel and Scuba—set includes 2141 islands anchored in 3 million square miles of toast warm water so clear you can see back into history.

Micronesia's center ring of attraction is the 42-mile-wide lagoon of Truk Atoll, the largest in the world and the Trust Territory's newest district monument.

Entombed in the waters of what was once Japan's Gibraltar of the Pacific are an estimated 60 sunken ships accessible for a small contribution to either skin or scuba divers.

Most of the destroyers, freighters, tankers and submarines were sunk in a dawn surprise raid by an avenging

American carrier force on Feb. 17, 1944.

A decree by the Truk legislature established the monument and prohibits the removal of souvenirs "to preserve the underwater beauty of Truk Lagoon for all."

Most of the hulks lie in the shallow waters of the island studded lagoon, some only 10 feet below the surface, exactly where they went down 28 years ago when trapped by the American bombs and torpedoes. Time has encrusted the deck guns, masts and rails with barnacles and coral and huge tridacna clams have sealed themselves to the hulls along with just about every conceivable form of South Pacific marine life. For variety and numbers, Truk has to be one of the most heavily populated fisheries in the world.

Pacific Zone Memorial The ships still contain much of the cargo in their holds, including the armed aircraft ferry Fujikawa Maru with her unloaded shipment of Zero fighters that went down with her that February morning. Japanese religious groups have removed most of the bones of the dead crewmen, but no one knows how many dead are still entombed in the inaccessible compartments that have never been visited by divers.

Although an international agreement signed in 1969 by the United States and Japan gives Japan the salvage rights for all ships in the Trust Territory, Truk authorities insist that nothing will be removed from what they consider the greatest war memorial of the Pacific war.

Glass bottom boats have been introduced into the lagoon, making it possible to gaze down upon the weird underwater world without wetting a hair.

Nor is scuba gear necessary for Truk Lagoon. The fantastic sights are so close to the surface that nearly everything can be seen by face mask while drifting along the surface.

At the western end of Micronesia in the Palau group

Archeologist Is Close To Work

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) —Michigan State University archaeologist Lyle M. Stone did not have to go far to find a prehistoric Indian site—it was located next door to his Mackinaw City summer home.

The find was made along an ancient Lake Superior beachline which runs through the restored Fort Michilmackinac stockade and through city-owned land next to Stone's house.

most of the sunken Japanese warships have been salvaged, but they have always been a side show attraction compared to the unique beauty of the rock islands that surround the district capital of Koror.

The Palauans claim they have more islands in their district than tourists, but with the opening of the new 56-room Palau Continental Hotel and the introduction of Guam-Koror jet service by Air Micronesia the claim is soon to become a lie.

The rock island waters have everything that is strung hundreds of miles along Australia's Barrier Reef squeezed into an area easily covered in a day by fast outboards.

The islands themselves are not unusual; they are unique. They range in size from a bedroom to a shopping center, are thatched with jungle from the sea's edge to the top of their hummocks. Regardless of the size, each of the islands has the unique characteristic of being undercut at its limestone base, giving them all a mushroom design.

The undersea life in the Palauan waters is probably even more colorful than that found in Truk Lagoon, probably because of the hundreds of acres of coral benches lying from five to 10 feet under the glassy waters. When compared with the Great Barrier Reef, the rock islands have two pluses and a minus. There are practically no man-eating sharks in the area, and few sea snakes. But there are crocodiles, mostly around Babelthup Island—the largest in Micronesia—but being nocturnal reptiles, they are rarely seen. Conservationists, alarmed at the steady decline in the croc population, are pressing for protective legislation to prevent their extermination, but few Palauans have bought the idea.

Throughout Micronesia's chain of 100 inhabited islands the 'biggest tourist attractions are on, or in the water. For years travel in Micronesia was restricted to Trust Territory workers or visiting United Nations or Interior Department investigating committees who foresightedly always found the Territory needed looking into as soon as the first snows fell along the Eastern Seaboard. Tourists were excluded for fear their influx would disrupt the age-old cultures and have an adverse affect upon the 100,000 Micronesians spread out from the Marshalls to the Palau.

But the attraction of the tourist dollar, along with the slowly disappearing copra market, has brought a change of mind to the T.T. administrators. They see tourism as the new cash crop, replacing copra, and giving the islanders jobs and careers which have been pitifully few. New hotels have been built and visitor amenities are available that were unknown five years ago.

Micronesia is no Bermuda, no Nassau, no Acapulco, Hawaii or even Fiji, but neither are any of the world's other tropical spas like Micronesia. So cease wondering next time you see a passenger board a jet with swim fins and face mask; he's probably heading for far away places with strange sounding names like Truk, Yap, Ponape, Saipan, Koror or Majuro.

DRIVING WOMEN
LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Women drivers in Michigan have a safer driving record than men, a survey of the state's 6 million drivers shows. Women drivers had a record of being 94.5 per cent accident free in 1971.

Radio Host Is Poised To Censor Talk

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD
OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Talk show host Don Chamberlain sits with his finger on the "censored" button because the talk is about sex.

Chamberlain, a bearded former Marine, is host of the "California Girls" radio show on station KNEW, and for four hours a day he listens—and sometimes talks—to women who want to tell about their sex lives.

He always is ready to push a button that screams "Censored, censored, censored" over any calls that get out of hand.

"You're going to have to use a little class, girls," he's apt to tell his audience. "You can be creative but you don't have to draw too complete a picture."

The topic of the show can range from "guilt feelings" to the "strangest place you've made love."

Rejected Massage Parlors
The sponsors are lining up for the show but Susie Holmen, a show assistant, says massage parlors and topless clubs are turned down.

The show is big on waterbeds and body lotions.

The female listeners can send in for a "California Girl" card that entitles them to discounts with the advertisers.

"We figure we'll have 50,000 card-carrying 'California Girls' by January," Chamberlain said.

The show receives about 200 letters a day, most of them praising Chamberlain and his approach.

Chamberlain's voice quality has a striking similarity to Bill Ballance, the highly successful Los Angeles disc jockey who started the sex talk shows about a year ago over KGBS with his "Feminine Forum."

Since then Ballance has been syndicated and there are similar shows in other cities.

Chamberlain, who has been married and divorced three times, frequently refers a caller to a special agency. He is particularly fond of San Francisco's Dr. Joel Fort and his "Fort Help" clinic.

Gets Propositioned Occasionally
He hopes to establish a nonprofit organization with Fort to "do sexual research and provide immediate help for people with sexual dissatisfactions."

Chamberlain admits to being propositioned occasionally by callers.

He says his show serves an important function by "opening up lines of communication between men and women."

"That's a pretty healthy thing," he said.

His office, featuring a huge photo of the late famed prolific lion, Frasier, has stacks of letters from women who say the show helped them relate to their husbands.

"My husband and I talk about your show and then we can start talking about our own problems," one woman wrote. "We've never been able to do this before."

The station recently started a show for "California Guys," hosted by a woman.

"But guys aren't near as articulate," Chamberlain said. "There's a lot of stammering around."

Social Drinkers Won't Like It

NEW YORK (UPI) —Dr. Max Hayman, director of the Alcohol and Drug Dependence Center of the Compton Foundation Hospital in Compton, Calif., has come to some conclusions social drinkers won't like.

He figures "social drinking is qualitatively the same as the disorder commonly known as alcoholism—but in a less intensified form." In an article published in the fall issue of Report on Alcohol, Dr. Hayman contends that the effects of alcohol consumption are bad no matter how little the drinker takes. He supports his theory with facts on blood alcohol levels and mortality statistics.

Seek New Name For Philippines

MANILA (UPI) —A move to rename the republic of the Philippines as the republic of Maharlika is gathering momentum among delegates to the constitutional convention. Maharlika in the Filipino language means "of nobility or royalty." The 317-member convention currently is rewriting a new fundamental law of the country.

Subtle Shift May Be Seen In Finland

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH TAMPERE, Finland (UPI) — A large sign advertising the Moskvich, a Russian car, stands above this Finnish city. But two other signs—for Ford and Volkswagen—are bigger.

These signs seem to symbolize a subtle shift in Finland's changing attitude toward the West on one hand and its giant neighbor, the Soviet Union, on the other. Often, Russia seems to get not-quite-equal time.

"Our relations with Russia are very complex," a Finnish journalist explained over a lunch of reindeer steak and vodka in the restaurant atop Tampere's 540-foot observation tower. "There never has been hate. And now, there's not really fear. More of a concern, maybe—but I sleep quiet at night."

"We know there will be no invasion."

Practises "Active Neutrality" This confidence has led Finland to abandon its "passive neutrality"—often called "the policy of invisibility" in favor of "active neutrality."

Mostly, this means it has gone into the East-West bridge-building business in a big way, as the first host for the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks salt and now the site of the exploratory European Security Conference.

Finland was once part of Russia, has fought two wars with the Russians and even ended up on the German side in World War II because of its opposition to the Soviet Union. This sort of history leaves visible marks.

Tampere, for instance, has a Russian Orthodox Church with seven onion domes and many long wooden buildings in the Russian "dacha" style, complete with the tiny Russian "fortochka" windows that let in air while keeping out the cold. But all this is being overshadowed by new modern neighborhoods with Scandinavian architecture and a towering Lutheran church known locally as the "silo of souls."

Kekkonen Hunts With Brezhnev Finnish policy is much the same. Finland still proclaims its neutrality and its Russian-speaking president Urho Kekkonen, goes hunting frequently with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

At the same time, Finland is expanding its ties to the West. It negotiated a free-trade treaty with the European Common Market. Russia, opposes the Common Market, and had so many doubts about this deal that Kekkonen promised Brezhnev Finland would renounce the treaty if it damaged Finnish-Soviet trade. Even then, the Finnish government agonized publicly over whether to sign the treaty.

"We do only 12 per cent of our trade with Russia now—and we are desperately searching for ways to increase it," a government official said.

"Certainly we belong with the West," a businessman said. "But we worry about becoming no more than an outpost of Western Europe—a fringe like Portugal."

Finns Used To Balancing "Those two wars with Russia did us no good," a journalist said. "Now we try the peaceful way. We're used to balancing."

Finns say they have learned to keep cool whenever a Western politician warns of Europe becoming "Finlandized," meaning to fall under Soviet influence. This "Finlandization" is much exaggerated, they say.

"We are pragmatists," the government official said. "After all, it's no fun to be on bad terms with one's neighbor. Look at Cuba."

"Sometime," he went on, "smaller countries are freer than the superpowers. We do what we want. But what about America in Vietnam, or Russia in Eastern Europe? They've got problems they would like to be rid of. But they're stuck."

Denmark's Auto Toll Is Rising

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — According to traffic statistics, one out of every nine Danes will be hospitalized as a result of a motor accident.

On average, 70 of the 5 million population are hospitalized daily, four never to leave their beds again. Survivors spend an average two months bedridden.

The Worry Clinic Column Proves A Pace-Setter

Morris is right in saying this column offers "scoops" as much as 10 to 20 years early! For I spent 5 years as Research Scientist with the National Research Council and Carnegie Institution, so I watch closely all new trends in science.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
 CASE V-591: Morris D., aged 23, is a senior medical student. "Dr. Crane," he began, "when I was in high school, I remember one of your columns that caused a lot of favorable comment between my parents."
 "For you said expectant fathers should be given the right to be in the hospital delivery room when their wives were having babies."
 "My dad had been furious because he was debarred from being present when I was born. "So he quit that doctor doctor and had my 2 sisters delivered by another obstetrician."

"But you scooped the Chicago TRIBUNE again, for last summer one of its columnists finally stated that fathers are now being admitted to the delivery room."

"And in some of the hospitals where we take our teaching clinics, they not only allow the fathers to be present."

"But they even let them assist, as by cutting the umbilical cord!"

Progress is slow
 Many things I have urged in this daily column the past generation are now being adopted as approved strategy.

For example, Billy Graham on TV recently agreed with my earlier statement that thought is the fastest medium of travel to Heaven!

And much of the feuding over the costly National Health Insurance program advocated by Teddy Kennedy, would have been unnecessary if physicians had been as alert to "Human Relations" as dentistry was in 1938.

As you regular readers know, I am a member of the American Medical Association, but I don't hesitate to expose some of its failures to employ smart psychology.

Dentistry foresaw this growing rumble against medicine and anticipated the government's demand for bureaucratic control over all doctors.

So it launched a superb magazine in 1938, to stress the "Art of Practice" and thus show our dental surgeons how to "sell" their vital function in modern society.

Every month for the past 35 years, therefore, I have written an essay for the dental journal on the subject of "Psychology in Professional Practice."

So the dentists are now in far more favor with the general public than are their M.D.

"but the fathers just clutter up the delivery room. "And if they faint, then the distract our nurses!" That's largely malarkey! Few fathers faint, especially if their attention is diverted by giving them some task to perform during the delivery! This may be merely counting the wife's breathing rate or just holding her hand. Sometimes, however, the expectant father gets alarmed at the apparent loss of blood during childbirth. So a deft physician reminds him the blood loss is not great but the bag of waters in which the baby is suspended, can dilute even a tablespoon of blood and make it look as if the mother has lost a quart! If unprepared, as by taciturn physicians, such husbands may be less erotic with their wives thereafter, and thus grow

Two Played Key Roles In Library Of Congress

By H. G. JONES
Administrator Archives and History
RALEIGH (AP) — Few North Carolinians appear to know it, but two Tar Heel natives have played leading roles in the administration and growth of the nation's greatest book repository—the Library of Congress.

L. Quincy Mumford, librarian of Congress, is a native of Ayden in Pitt County. Holding numerous degrees—both earned and honorary—from such institutions as Duke, Rutgers, Columbia, Notre Dame, and Pittsburgh, Dr. Mumford served on the Duke University Library staff from 1922 to 1928, then held positions at the Columbia University Library, New York Public Library and the Cleveland Public Library prior to his appointment in 1954 as Librarian of Congress.

In a private ex-officio capacity, he has held prestigious appointments to an impressive list of major boards, commissions, and organizations, including membership on the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, the Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission, and the board of the American Historic Buildings Survey. In 1954-55 he was president of the American Librarian Association.

Another North Carolinian who has contributed significantly to the recent growth of the Library of Congress is B. Everett Jordan whose term in the United States Senate ended Jan. 3, Jordan, until recently chairman of the Joint Committee on the Library and a member of the committee since 1959, was honored at a luncheon in Washington in December.

According to the Library of Congress Information Bulletin, Dr. Mumford paid particular tribute to Jordan for his "understanding and support of the Library of Congress as well as for his assistance in obtaining passage of the expanded Depos-

Rusk Sees POW Issue Last Item

LAGRANGE, Ga. (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the release of American prisoners of war is more likely to be one of the last issues to be settled in any negotiated peace in Vietnam.

The rise of American public interest in the POW issue in recent years has raised the "price" of their release considerably, Rusk told students and faculty at LaGrange College Tuesday.

Saying he had tried not to play the "grandstand quarterback" after leaving office at the end of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's term, Rusk added that he personally believes the bombing of North Vietnamese ports has not been worth the loss of American lives and planes.

Rusk is currently professor of international law at the University of Georgia in Athens.

itory Libraries Act and the extension of the Books for the Blind Program to the physically handicapped." "Future historians of the library, Dr. Mumford continued, "will give him a prominent place in describing our unparalleled growth during the last decade."

In his response, the former Saxapahaw textile official said that when he was a boy his father, a Methodist minister, had impressed upon him the importance of books and libraries. The knowledge gained from books could not be taken away, his father told him. The senator said that even in the days when food was scarce at home, books were plentiful. "Libraries are a most important part of a nation's educational system," he was quoted as saying.

In presenting Jordan with a framed photograph of the architect's rendering of the library's new James Madison Memorial Building as a gift from the staff of the Library of Congress, Dr. Mumford said that the building "will always be a monument to the senator's legislative skills."

The Library of Congress, originally envisioned as a service to members of the Congress, has developed as the apex of the nation's library system. Its holdings—in the neighborhood of 50 million books and many additional millions of manuscripts—and other special materials—are the largest and richest in the country, and its staff has been in the forefront of all major library developments. When the history of the institution is written, North Carolinians born in the small towns of Ayden and Ramseur will figure prominently.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Cerebral palsy, a disorder caused by injury to an immature brain, affects 750,000 persons in the United States, it is estimated by Stanford University Medical Center.
