Second 4-Year School 'Needed'

Study Group Advises ECU Med School 'Delay'

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—A study committee of North Carolina's educational Board of Governors recommended today that any expansion of East Carolina University's one-year medical program be withheld so that "serious consideration" can be given to a new degreegranting school of medicine within the state university system.

The committee, headed by Robert B. Jordan III of Mt. Gilead, also recommended immediate expansion of the existing school of medicine at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and step-ups in state financial assistance to the privately operated Duke University and Bowman Gray schools of medicine.

The board was expected to act on the recommendations later today.

The Jordan committee said it had concluded a second fouryear, degree-granting school of medicine was needed to increase the number of physicians in North Carolina. However, it recommended additional study by a team of professional consultants to determine specific needs and the availability of the existing institutional facilities—including those at East Carolina.

It called for the consultants to report back to the governors with recommendations by Sept. 1. "This comprehensive study by the consultants and consideration of their report by the board of governors is essential prior to the commitment of substantial state tax resources to build a second state supported, degree-granting school of medicine," the Jordan report said.

"For this reason the specific budget requests submitted by East Carolina University for the biennium 1973-75 to fund a second year medical education program on that campus should not be approved," the report said. East Carolina had requested funding to expand its first year entering class in 1973 from 20 to 30 students and to add a second year class of 30 students in 1974, and to expand both classes to 40 students after 1974.

The Jordan committee recommended that the class enrollment be held to 20.

Jordan recommended renovation of existing facilities on the Chapel Hill campus and construction of a new laboratoryoffice building to allow expansion of UNC's entering class to 140 in 1975 and to 160 in 1976.

The committee also recommended the creation of a standing board of governors committee to oversee all activity in the area of health sciences by the state's universities. In line with that it recommended the addition to President William Friday's staff of a senior level officer for health sciences.

Interim Road Body Chosen

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A 23-member Highway Commission politically friendly to Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser followed his lead Thursday in handing over the commission's leadership to Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz.

In naming the commission, Holshouser said he had asked each member to serve on an interim basis, possibly six months, until reorganization of the roads department and the entire Department of Transportation could be accomplished.

Holshouser asked the new commission to name Lentz its acting chairman. There was no indication a permanent chairman would be named before reorganization is carried out.

The governor, who pledged in his inaugural address Jan. 5 to make the Highway Commission the "focal point" of change, erased any hold former Gov. Bob Scott's Democratic administration had on the road agency by naming a complete board.

Lauch Faircloth, who had been a fulltime chairman, and 13 other members of the commission had submitted resignations.

Those named by Holshouser include Isabel Stellings Holmes, 47, of Wilmington. Mrs. Holmes, a founder of the Wilmington Republican Women's Club, is the first woman named to the Highway Commission.

A list of commissioners let out by Holshouser aides identified 10 of the new members as Republicans.

Lentz told the commission and newsmen he was freezing all highway projects that were not under contract until they could be reviewed by his office and presented to the new board. He said the review might be ready for the commission's first meeting on Feb. 1.

Holshouser said less than $10,000 was available for primary road construction during the last five months of this fiscal year.

In naming the commissioners, Holshouser said the board and the transportation department "will not be the 'same old game' with just a new set of faces."

Annual Sessions Measure

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation was introduced in the North Carolina General Assembly today to change the primary elections in the state from May to September, and to provide for annual legislative sessions.

Rep. Roy Spoon, R-Mecklenburg, sponsored the House bill to change the primary date, while the Senate bill was offered by Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Forsyth.

The legislation for annual sessions calls for the installation of electronic voting equipment, changing the convening date of the General Assembly and providing for increased full-time legislative staff.

Rep. Howard Twiggs, DWake, sponsored the annual sessions bill in the House, and Sen. Tom Strickland, D-Wayne, sent it up in the Senate.

Under the annual sessions bill, the legislative session would not exceed 90 working days each year. However, the legislative session could be extended for 30 additional days by a majority vote of both houses.

The convening date would be the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January each year except the year immediately following the election of the governor. The date that year would be the first Wednesday after the first Monday in April.

The bill calls for an appropriation of $120,000 to purchase and install electronic voting equipment. It also calls for an appropriation of $240,000 for the 1973-1975 biennium to hire additional legislative staff personnel.

Pres. Nixon's Phase 3 Sees Mixed Impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's unexpected lifting of most mandatory wage-price controls already has set off reactions ranging from a stock market surge to dire predictions of a price crunch on wage-earners.

Nixon Thursday abolished the tight mandatory controls except in the food and health industries, along with most of the government machinery for enforcing them. He set up instead a system of voluntary guidelines and asked Congress to extend the standby control authority, expiring April 30, so that the government could move in quickly to halt excessive increases.

In a nutshell, Phase 3 of the Nixon economic program provides that prices may be raised, but the increase should not exceed the increase in costs; wages may be increased without government approval, but for the present, raises are expected to be kept within the 5.5-per-cent guideline in effect since November 1971.

The old Phase 2 standards will be retained for processors and retailers of food, and for doctor, dentist and hospital bills. Those two areas have seen some of the biggest price increases.

In Chicago, Dr. John R. Kernodle, board chairman of the American Medical Association, said Phase 3 discriminates against the health-care professions. He said there is a possibility of "a flight of allied, ancillary and support personnel from the health field...."

The aim of Phase 3, Nixon said, is to cut the inflation rate to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year—to keep fighting inflation until the "impact is felt at the local supermarket or corner grocery store."

Except in the reserved areas, large business and labor unions will no longer have to get advance approval for wage and price rises. The looser mandatory controls over construction wage increases also were retained and the President said voluntary efforts to hold down interest rates will continue.

The stock market took off on the announcement, pushing the Dow Jones industrial index 15.35 points above the previous day before settling down for a 5.64-point gain to a new closing high of 1051.70.

Analysts said expectation of higher profits steamed up the market.

Recreation Suggestions Accepted By Councilmen

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A Recreation Commission study and recommendations for capital improvements of the city's Receration Department facilities amounting to $612,540.50 was accepted for future reference and consideration by the City Council Thursday night.

In making a motion to "accept, not adopt," the study, Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller said "by this action we will not commit ourselves to any specific action at this time."

The report, prepared by employees of the Recreation Department and endorsed by members of the Recreation Commission, includes a survey of total recreational facilities in Greenville. It shows too, based on standard recommendations of the National Recreation and Parks Association, major deficiencies existing within the current recreation program in Greenville.

Recreation director Boyd Lee said that emphasis now needs to be centered on improvements and additions to existing facilities, rather than acquiring additional land.

The report concludes with a priority of listing of facilities and or improvements and additions to facilities. The priority listing recommended shows: Swimming pool, 25 meters, $149,625; regulation baseball fields, $40,000; tennis courts, $39,960; community center, $117,320; playlots, $35,000; Green Srpings Park $40,000; Evans Park, $15,000; Moyewood property $20,000; Hardee property, $10,000; maintenance shop, $25,000; relight South Greenville Field, $9,000; softball field (Evans Park), $15,000; and craft center, $40,950.

Sidney Carraway, chairman of the Recreation Commission, noted it was the commission's hope that funding could be made without resorting to a tax increase referendum.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller said that possible use of revenue sharing funds in recreation needs was to be considered at an early date along with other possible uses of the funds.

City Manager William Carstarphen revealed that the second 1972 revenue sharing allotment, in the amount of $308,000, had been received January 9 and had been deposited.

The funds have been deposited with Planters National . which offered the highest bid on the certificates of deposit. Carstarphen said that the 1973 revenue sharing funds would be received on a quarterly basis, with an expected $150,-to $175,000 due in for the first quarter of the calendar year.

Rezoning requests for three separate pieces of property which were the subject of public hearings were approved without opposition. The first was that of J.T. Williams property located on the south side of East Tenth Street extended and U.S. 264 bypass, from RA-20 to highway commercial.

The other properties are both north of Tar River. One is the O.E. Whichard property located on the east side of North Greene Street. In four tracts, rezoning was approved from Unoffensive Industry to highway commercial; from RA-20 to highway commercial; from highway commercial to unoffensive industry; and from RA-20 to unoffensive industry.

The third property, that of Barnhill Contracting Company, was rezoned from RA-20 to a mixture of highway commercial and flood plain. This property is located at the House Receives Liquor Measure

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation was introduced in the North Carolina House today calling for a statewide referendum on the sale of liquor by the drink.

Veteran Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, said he had been requested by House Speaker Jim Ramsey to prepare and introduce the legislation.

"If a majority of the voters statewide approved mixed beverages," said Johnson in a prepared statement, "the State ABC Board would implement a system within 90 days for the distribution of miniature containers."

He said mixed drinks would be distributed only in counties or municipalities maintaining a local ABC system, and only upon petition of the local ABC Board.

City Council Schedules Special Meet Tonight

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A special call meeting of the Greenville City Council will be held tonight beginning at 8:00 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the Greenville City Police Department report dealing with the December 6 fatal shooting of Connie James, a 22 year old Greenville Negro.

This special meeting was agreed on following an unscheduled appearance of approximately 60 persons whose spokesmen expressed dissatisfaction over the ruling of the Pitt County Grand Jury. The jury on Thursday returned a "not a true bill" ruling on a bill of indictment charging Greenville police officer Charles A. Williamson with manslaughter in the December 6 fatal shooting of the 22-year-old James.

Mayor Pro-tem Percy Cox presiding in the absence of Mayor S. Eugene West, scheduled the meeting for tonight. City Manager William Carstarphen said the police report would be available at the meeting.

Edward Carter, a member of the Greenville City School Board, was the first of several citizens to make statements in a session that lasted about one and one-half hours before the City Council moved on to regular scheduled business.

"We are passing through the most critical period in the history of both Greenville and Pitt County," Carter read from a prepared statement. "We have finally reached the point where we can no longer say that it will take time to affect positive change in our political, judicial and law enforcement agencies.

"We rational black citizens can no longer restrain the emotional and physical irrational acts displayed by an appreciable segment of our community," he continued. We can no longer say let the mayor, the city council, the police and the judges rectify the wrongs that exist, because regardless as

Witness Insists He Saw 2 New Orleans Snipers

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A witness insists he saw two snipers at a downtown hotel where six sniping victims died, and the mayor says: "There may have been three of them."

Mayor Moon Landrieu told a news conference Thursday that police "have cause to believe" at least two snipers were in the hotel. A police spokesman cited a large number of sniper-set fires as an indication.

The spokesman said investigators are interviewing 400 policemen and firemen who battled the sniping and the fires Sunday and Monday at the DownTown Howard Johnson's hotel. One sniper, Mark J. Essex, 23, a black from Emporia, Kan., was killed by police during the seige.

What each policeman saw and heard during the shooting is being cross-checked against the recollections of others in an effort to determine whether Essex acted alone, the spokesman said.

One witness to the sniping told the New Orleans Times-Picayune he saw a second sniper with Essex on the eighth floor of the hotel. The witness asked to remain anonymous.

"He (the second sniper) is still loose," said the witness, a hotel employe who went to the 17th floor of the Rault Center and shouted across Gravier Street to the hotel, warning guests about the fires.

"I saw him (first) standing on the 10th floor (of the hotel)," the witness said. "He lay down, and he must have heard me yelling. He rolled over and pointed his rifle at me and started shooting."

The witness described the sniper as 5-feet-9, light skinned, with a bush haircut and wearing dark pants, a gray jacket and a "big belt" around his waist.

He said he next saw the sniper emerge from a room on the eighth floor and hide in some bushes on the deck of the hotel swimming pool with a rifle in his right hand.

With his left hand, the witness said, the sniper motioned for a companion to stay behind inside the hotel room.

"The one in the room was short and skinny and had dark skin," the witness said. "He was the one who got killed."

Robert Bemish, 43, a broadcasting engineer and hotel guest who was wounded by the sniper, said earlier that there was more than one.

Police said Essex was wearing military fatigue pants with baggy pockets. "The man who shot me had on a light tan jacket and brown slacks," Bemish said. The man who shot him was also larger than Essex, he said.

Pitt Slowly Emerging From Coat Of Snow, Ice

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Higher temperatures during the day and lots of effort from many quarters are lifting Pitt County out from under its mantle of crippling ice and snow.

Temperatures rose as high as 43 yesterday, according to reports from the Greenville Utilities Commission Weather Station, and the resulting melting cleared many roads, though any moisture on them quickly froze when the sun went down. The low for the night was 25 degrees. The river level is holding steady at four feet.

The North Carolina Highway Commission crews worked till about midnight last night, and now assert that all the main roads are cleared and about half the secondary ones are, also. "We'll work all day today and as far into the night as we can and on into the weekend, till all the roads are cleared. If the weather will cooperate, we should be in fine shape by Monday," a highway spokesman said.

Greenville Public Works director May Allen reiterated his yesterday's thank yous to the citizens of Greenville for their cooperation in putting garbage in front of their homes for pickup. "We're asking everyone to put any garbage they want picked up tomorrow at the curb tonight. We're going to be rolling early in the morning and should cover the twon by 11 a.m., he said. "If anyone who has placed it at curbside hasn't been reached aby 10:30 a.m. we're asking that they call the Public Works Department at 758-4109.

Allen said street crews were throwing out sand early this morning and probably will again tomorrow to lessen the hazard of early morning ice for drivers. He said all streets in Greenville are now open.

Winterville Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said his town's main street is "clean as a whistle" and that residential streets have been dragged, but that there may be patches of ice. Bethel and Grifton reported some dragging, but not a complete job. Farmville, Ayden, Fountain, Grimesland, and Falkland reported that some of their streets are still hazardous. Fountain, which has Highway 222 as its Main Street and Grimesland, which has 264, do have these throughfares cleared, the clerks of the two towns reported.

A Cold Day . . .

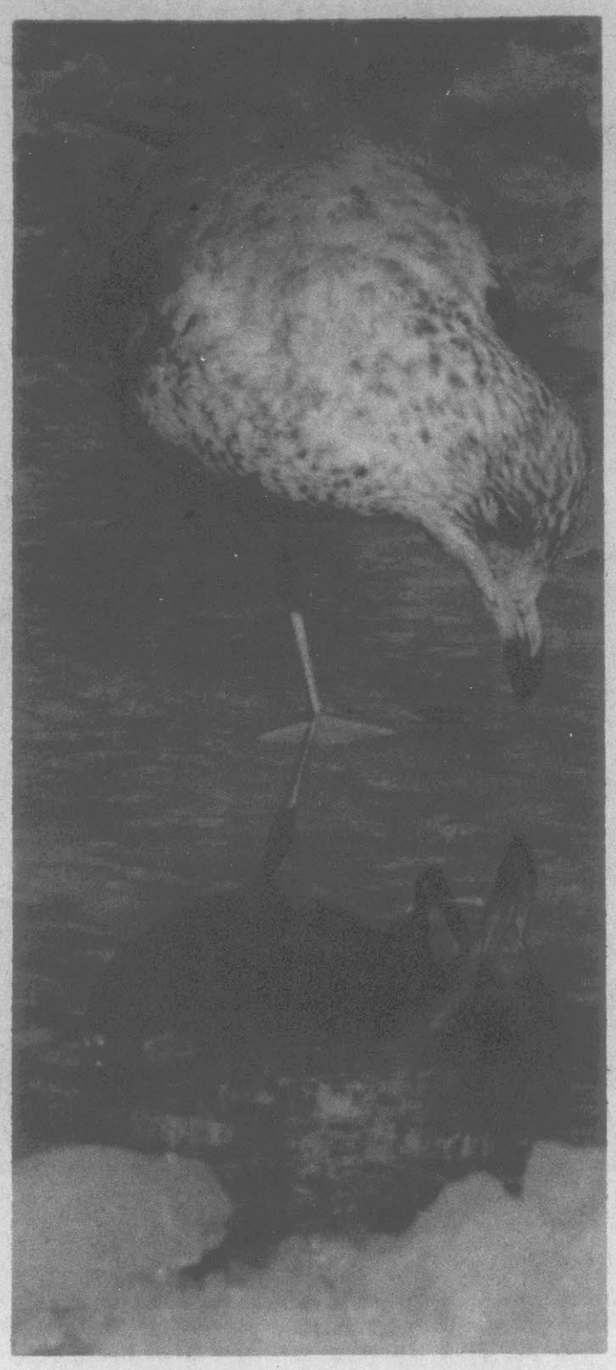

There's warmth in a crowd.

A popcorn handout for hungry gulls.

Wilbur Tooley arrived at work Thursday morning to find a flock of sea gulls in the King's Department Store parking lot. Tooley said that he gave some bread crumbs to the gulls. Later when these photographs were made, the gulls were given popcorn, and they still acted hungry. This is the time in the year when birds discover the ground covered with snow and their food source covered. Tooley added that a bread salesman also handed out bread crumbs in front of the store while making his morning delivery and when the salesman left the birds followed.

Mandatory Jail Sentence Asked

RALEIGH (AP) — Since he is a physician, Rep. John R. Gamble Jr., D-Lincoln, has seen many persons killed or maimed as the result of drunken driving.

He said that is a reason why he introduced a bill in the North Carolina House of Representatives Thursday proving mandatory jail terms for persons convicted of drunken driving.

Gamble said he thought jail terms would be a deterrent to drunken driving "for a lot of people."

"If they suddenly realized they are going to jail, they will give it a lot of consideration," said Gamble.

The Lincoln legislator's bill would require a person convicted of a first offense to serve one day in jail within two weeks of his conviction, a person convicted of a second offense to serve four days in jail within eight weeks of his conviction; and a person convicted of a third or subsequent offense to serve 20 days in jail within 40 weeks of his conviction.

Gamble pointed out the bill would permit the offender to serve the jail sentence in segments of not less than 24 hours at his own convenience within the limits set forth in the bill.

Rep. E. Lawrence Davis, D-Forsyth, sponsored a measure that would enable disabled veterans to obtain free of charge special license plates indicating they are disabled.

Rep. David Jordan, R-Mecklenburg, introduced a bill that would enable persons who develop epilepsy as the result of an industrial accident to collect workmen's compensation benefits.

Reschedule 6 PTI Courses

The six new evening courses that were scheduled to begin at Pitt Technical Institute during the week of January 8-11 have been re-scheduled to begin next week, January 15-18.

Classes scheduled to begin Monday night include: Rug Hooking, Drapery making, and Securities and Investments.

Courses in Income Tax Reporting and Insurance Adjuster 35 will begin Wednesday night. A class in Real Estate will begin Thursday night.

Mom's Apple Pie In Concert On Monday

Mom's Apple Pie comes to town hard on the heels of the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band. Numbering twice the number of music makers of Nitty Gritty, the ten, all hailing from Warren, Ohio, will be in Greenville one night.

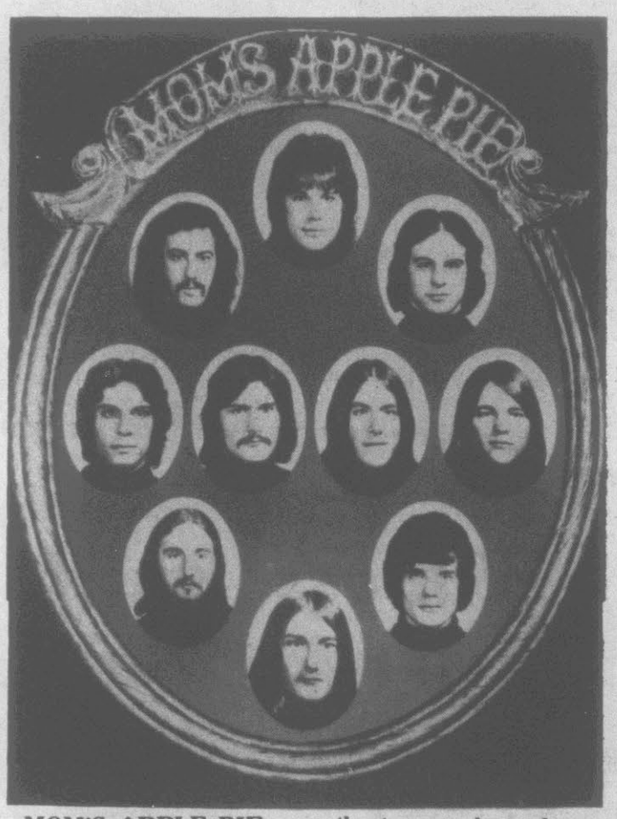

At 8:00 p.m. Monday night, the young men, whose average age is 19, will be in concert at Wright Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Student Union Special Concert Committee.

A relatively recent group, the musicans have a musicianship that pre-dates their formal inception as a group. By December 1970 they had formed an alliance, not only as friends, but as musicians. Larry Patterson, now the group's manager, booked a demonstration recording session in Cleveland with engineer Keenthe Hamann.

But it was the wife of Terry Knight who first recognized the potential of the group. Terry, who worked in the studio that produced the now historic Grand Funk Railroad albums, on hearing the praise of his wife for the music of the new group, signed them for recording and songwriting contracts.

The result has been the debut of their LP album, titled appropriately, Mom's Apple Pie.

It is this groups of youngsters who will be on stage at Wright on Monday night. Tickets are now available at $1.00 per person from the Central Ticket Office.

MOM'S APPLE PIE . . . the ten music makers pictured in the oval above will be in concert Monday at Wright Auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Get Dad Out Of Bed And To A Counselor

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 17 years. We have one child—a 16-year-old son who has slept with his daddy since he was born.

Of course, when the boy got old enough to notice things I moved to another bed, but my husband wouldn't let the boy sleep by himself, and to this day our son goes to sleep in his daddy's arms.

The only attention I get is at two or three o'clock in the morning when Daddy can slip out of bed for a little while. [Sometimes it's four to six months before Daddy can slip out of bed.]

Our son is in high school now, and I keep telling my husband that this is abnormal. He says it's not. The boy makes very good grades so maybe I am worrying for nothing. Can this ruin our son? Please advise me.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Congratulations on your son's grades, but there are other aspects to be considered here. It is NOT normal for a father and son to fall asleep in each other's arms nightly for 16 years. [A man and his wife normally sleep that way.] Your local Family Service Association or Mental Health Association can provide you, your husband, and son with excellent counseling. I urge you to seek their help. You may have to blaze the trail and go alone, but don't let that discourage you.

DEAR ABBY: You are right, but only partially. In the U. S. A. people equate fat with ugly and thin with beauty. However, in the South American countries the opposite is true.

When I was a child living in Bolivia [my parents were missionaries] my mother was constantly told, "Senora would be very beautiful if she would put on some weight."

My mother was beautiful by American standards, but she was far from thin. J. D. C.

DEAR J. D. C.: Easy on the propaganda for Bolivia! Let the South American preference for heft get around in overfed U. S. and the stampede south could sink the southern continent!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live in a small apartment and have only a dining area adjoining the kitchen.

I had a small dinner party—my husband's boss and his wife, another couple, and us. I had no help, which was no problem as I am well organized.

After the dessert, the boss' wife said, "Oh, let's clear the table." So we three women cleared the table. Then the boss' wife said, "Oh, heck, why don't we do up these few dishes?" And she sounded like she really meant it.

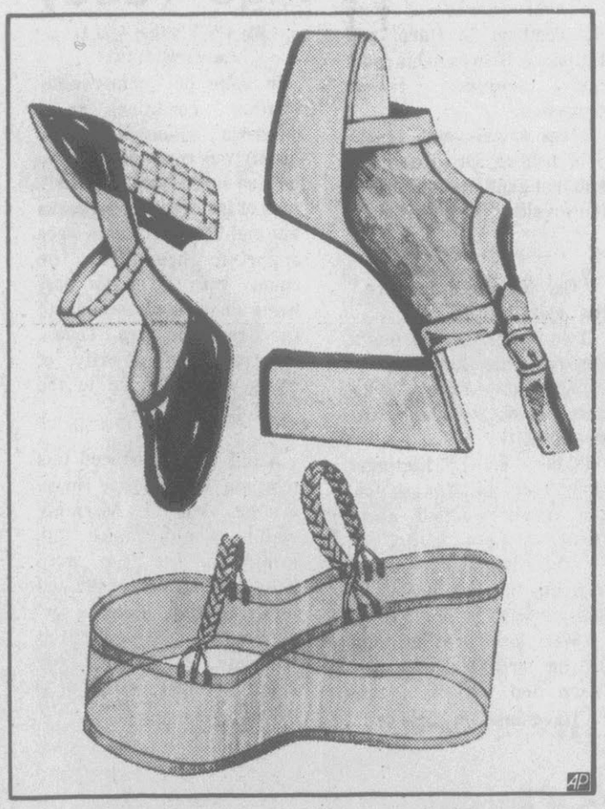

Since the men were talking business in the other room I didn't see anything wrong with it, so we three laughed and talked and did up the dinner dishes. Then we joined the men. Everyone seemed to have had a wonderful time.

After the guests went home my husband had a fit. He said I should not have let the women do the dishes. I tried to explain it was the boss' wife's idea, but he said I could have [and should have] talked her out of it.

Abby, I still think I did the right thing. What do you think? CAUGHT THE DICKENS

DEAR CAUGHT: I think you did, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO NAME" IN ILLINOIS: In your state a man convicted of aggravated incest can get from 2 to 20 years in the penitentiary. And a "daughter" means an adopted daughter, stepdaughter, or blood daughter, regardless of legitimacy or age.

The Men Behind Nation's New 93rd Congresswomen

By Dorothy Marks

WASHINGTON (WNS) — Don't look for the husbands of the new congresswomen to organize a "husbands' lib" movement on Capitol Hill.

"The 93rd Congress seems to have introduced a new breed of congressional husband willing to accommodate his career to that of his Congresswoman spouse.

It is a far cry from the old days when women usually made it to Congress only after the death of their husbands stayed in their home towns pursuing their own careers while their wives had brief flings here as lawmakers.

Take the husbands of 32-year-old freshman Democrat, Rep. Patricia Scroeder of Denver, Colorado and of 39-year-old Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, newly elected to represent California's new 37th Congressional District.

Both of them have pulled up stakes with the aim of joining their wives and families here, though in the case of Bill Burke it may be February or March before he winds up his business in California.

Schroeders Both Lawyers

For example, 36-year-old Jim Schroeder met the press at his wife's office in shirt sleeves with his six-year-old son Scott draped over one shoulder. Wife Pat set some kind of precedent too when she greeted the press fondling a baby's bottle of milk in one hand while clutching her two-and-a-half-year-old daughter Jaimie and her toy frog with the other.

The Schroeders met while students at Harvard Law School, married after their graduation in 1964 and headed west to Colorado to start their professional careers. She went to work as a hearing officer on labor cases for the State. He will leave his law firm, Mosley, Walls and Schroeder in Denver and is now job-hunting in the District of Columbia. The Schroeders have already bought a house in Alexandria, Va., and hired a nurse for the children.

Jim Schroeder lost his own 1970 race for the State Legislature in Colorado by only 42 votes. "My wife helped me all the way," he says of that campaign. So when she was tapped to run for the House seat on the Democratic ticket, he dropped the work he was doing for another candidate and plunged in as campaign manager, in fact if not in name, for his wife.

In a shirtsleeve interview in his wife's bare new office, Schroeder said: "Finding a new job here comes next. I have three choices — going with a private law firm, working somewhere on the Hill, or signing on with some sort of 'pro bono' group or Foundation."

No, he doesn't see any need for "husbands lib." "My wife is very much a liberated woman but both of us are only what you would call reasonably into the movement." (She is a member of the National Organization of Women (NOW) of Denver.

A "Public Service" Team

William "Billy" Burke, the wealthy 33-year-old Los Angeles businessman, who married new congresswoman Yvonne Brathwaite Burke last June, is also set to "support my wife in her career 100 per cent." As the handsome blue-eyed black entrepreneur puts it, "the next four years or so I am going to put aside the idea of making money and concentrate on public service."

Both Burkes are old pros in California Democratic politics and have known each other for seven or eight years prior to their marriage. Both are on their second marriage and he is the father of a five-year-old daughter, Christy. Burke served as Director of Radio-TV for the State of California at the same time Yvonne Brathwaite served as an Assemblywoman at Sacramento. He was also campaign manager for California State Senator Mervin Diamond and a Los Angeles Deputy City Councilman.

Burke is President of Comprehensive Planning Consultants of Los Angeles and an expert on health-delivery-care systems. Of his Bel Air estate, complete with swimming pool and nearby tennis court, he says: "Second only to Wilt Chamberlain, I had the best pad of any black in California."

Congress pays for 36 free trips back home per session for each member of Congress. "I'll pay for other trips myself," Burke says, "that's no sweat."

Mrs. Brathwaite foresees no problems "because Bill wants me do do a good job and understands what is involved." The photogenic Mrs. Brathwaite made national news when she served as temporary chairman of the Democrat National Convention last summer.

Mrs. Majorie Holt, Republican of Maryland, is the only other married woman "freshman" elected to the 93rd Congress and she foresees no change in her husband's lifestyle. The Holts are lucky in that she will be able to commute every day to their home in nearby Severna Park, Maryland. This 52-year-old practicing attorney has been active in Republican politics for years and "my husband has been a silent partner" all that time. He will continue to hold down his job at the Friendship Airport where he is an official of the Westinghouse Company.

Other new Congresswomen, Democrats Barbara Jordan of Houston, Texas and Elizabeth Holtzman of New York, are unmarried.

Advisor Says Womanpower Could Combat Starvation

NEW YORK (AP) — A gray-haired grandmother travels through underdeveloped nations touting "womanpower" for CARE.

Margot Higgins, nutrition advisor, works with the relief and development agency's overseas staff to provide maximum benefits for the 24,000,000 children it feeds in 35 countries.

"Women's liberation will have to take place in underdeveloped countries before they can really develop economically," said Mrs. Higgins.

"Uneducated, submissive mothers, nonpersons, cannot be expected to raise superior children who can make full use of modern education and training toward their country's development," she added.

Women have to give up a purely domestic role and enter the general labor market before a nation can develop. No country can really grow unless women are permitted to influence community and governmental decisions, the nutritionist said.

Mrs. Higgins, 64, began working for CARE in 1968. She had worked in institutional food service and spent nine years with the YWCA, as well as serving with the Peace Corps; she had written and taught about food and nutrition.

"I had hoped to turn my knowledge into valid, life-saving use overseas. When my youngest child was graduated from college, I felt free both in terms of family responsibility and finances to plunge in," she said. "So I did."

Besides traveling, Mrs. Higgins works with local home economists, teachers, government and community leaders helping plan CARE assisted nutrition programs in developing countries aimed particularly at improving the health of mothers and children.

"Progress for women in most developing countries is still just in early stages," she reported, "but one can see and feel stirrings.

"Malnutrition is the dread enemy in so many nations," she added. "It weakens resistance so that huge numbers of children fall ill and die. It retards both physically and mentally. Feeding children nutritiously is not only humanitarian, it's an investment in the future. In a relatively short time you can see formerly malnourished children become more alert; their learning improves by leaps and bounds; they resume growth and can develop into healthy, productive adults."

Mrs. Higgins has slept on floors and slogged through deep mud in travels to Sierra Leone, Uganda, Tunisia, Kenya, Liberia, Lesotho, India, Turkey, Indonesia, Malaysia, Panama and other nations across the world.

Generally CARE helps provide at schools and at pre-school feeding centers the bases for hot breakfasts and lunches as well as helping build school kitchens and cafeterias to enable the meals to be prepared and served.

"Many tribes and sects expect disaster if they break food tabus, like Adam and Eve eating the forbidden fruit. So we at CARE must fit our feeding programs and our nutrition teaching to local customs, beliefs and tastes," she said.

In many parts of the world, mothers still lack the capacity to care for their children. Mrs. Higgins thinks this is so because of poor health, ignorance and other factors. Until that is changed, she thinks world malnutrition will continue.

"So long as women remain second class citizens, uneducated, without any voice in family or community decisions, without legal or economic status, married when they are still practically children and thenceforth producing one baby after another (and seeing half of them die before they are of school age), so long as these conditions persist, development is hopelessly handicapped. We'll be lucky if we don't slip backward," she said.

One area Ms. Higgins sees as a real need in undeveloped nations is continuing education for women. Home economic extension courses, "farmer's wife" programs and nutrition education are essential, she said, if hunger is to be eased.

APPLE POTATO SALAD — It's elegant when served with a jellied ham mousse made in a ring mold.

New Recipe For Potato Salad Features Lots Of Apple Bits

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There are all kinds of potato salads in this world, but one of the best variations you can make of this favorite dish is by adding a minimum of potatoes and a maximum of red Delicious apples.

We served this salad for an elegant Sunday night supper with a ring mold of ham mousse and prefaced this main course with homemade split pea soup. Crusty French bread accompanied both courses. For dessert, Crepes Suzette!

APPLE POTATO SALAD

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream
2 teaspoons minced fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dill weed
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
Red Delicious apples
1 cup cooked diced potato
½ cup finely diced celery
1 scallion (green onion) finely chopped with green top included or 1 tablespoon minced shallot
Romaine
Paprika

In a medium mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the lemon juice, sour cream, dill, salt and pepper.

Wash and dry apples; quarter and core; dice enough apple to make 3 cups. (Apples may be pared if you like.) Add to sour-cream mixture along with the potato, celery and scallion; mix well, adding more salt if needed. Cover and chill. Just before serving, turn out on romaine and sprinkle with paprika.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Serving suggestions: This salad is delicious served with a ring mold of jellied ham mousse. Fill the ring mold with some of the Apple Potato Salad and mound the remaining salad on romaine around the ham mousse. Or serve the Apple Potato Salad with cold sliced ham and turkey or assorted cold meats and deviled eggs.

Kleindienst Words Welcome

It might be a little surprising to hear Atty. Gen. Rochard G. Kleindienst say that news reporters sources should be protected 99.9 percent of the time.

That, however, is just what Kleindienst said at a recent news conference.

"The right of free speech and the press are vital to preservation of our society," the Associated Press quoted him. "But none of our rights are absolute. From time to time one of our rights may be more overriding then another."

The impetus for such legislation will not come from the Justice Department. A reporter asked if the department would submit such legislation. Kleindienst suggested, "The press itself should be formulating that kind of idea to Congress and let the government make its comments."

The Kleindienst statement is most important in that it indicates the Justice Department will not oppose the bills which will be introduced in this Congress to protect a reporter's confidential sources.

Obviously there are rare occasions when the attorney general feels that sources should not be protected and no doubt these will be revealed as hearings are held on the bills.

We have long felt that confidential sources of new reporters should be protected. Some of the press' most outstanding investigative work would never have been done, if the reporters involved had not been able to talk to persons who did not want their names revealed. A law protecting confedential news sources is not primarily for the reporter's benefit. It should be passed to protect the public's right to know.

An Innovative Mood Evident

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The North Carolina General Assembly, comparable to an 18th century carriage in the jet age, rolled off to a new start this week.

Ceremony and cordiality set the theme as the Senate and House convened for the 130th session of the legislature. Like companions beginning a trip together, Democrat and Republican lawmakers alike said they saw a smooth road ahead.

BRYAN HAISLIP

It is certain to take many turnings, and perhaps run into partisan potholes, before adjournment.

What makes the session historic is the presence of James E. Holshouser Jr. in the governor's office, the state's first Republican chief executive in 72 years.

That circumstance is sure to test not only the leadership capability of the Democratic majority in the legislature, but also the legislative machinery.

Legislative Overhaul Talked

Even as they climbed aboard for the 1973 run, lawmakers were talking about what can be done to modernize the old vehicle.

Annual sessions, standing committees, expanded staff and improved legislative pay and other benefits were some of the ideas discussed. The mood for innovation makes it likely that reform of the legislative process itself will be one of the major achievements of the session.

Legislative leaders have endorsed the goal, and will give push in that direction. Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, presiding officer of the Senate, and House Speaker Jim Ramsey have urged changes to make the system more efficient and effective.

"Putting our own house in order" was one of the challenges noted by Sen. Gordon Allen of Person, chosen by his colleagues as President Pro Tem (vice President) of the upper chamber.

Strengthening the Weak Link

"All across our land many feel that the weakest link in the chain of government is the state legislature. We face the challenge of modernizing our legislative processes in order to assure that we do not become a weak link," Allen asserted.

One immediate change in operation was implemented by the legislature. It changed the traditional time of noon for convening each day to 2:30 p.m., a shift designed to further morning work of committees.

The first day also brought in resolutions favoring consideration for standing committees and for annual sessions. Other resolutions urged a new look at the legislative retirement fund, and enactment of a code of, ethics for public officials.

There was widespread agreement among legislators that the move to annual sessions, often discussed and long delayed, now is at hand. The prospect is that this session will be adjourned to meet next year.

Primary Change Possible

If that comes to pass, it probably will be accompanied by a change in the date for spring party primaries. That would avoid the conflict of members running for office in the course of a session.

"I favor moving the primary to August or September," said Sen. Tom Strickland of Wayne. The change would serve the purpose of shortening the campaign, he noted, perhaps heightening voter interest and curtailing the cost of running for office.

Annual sessions could have an impact on who runs for office. Taking time out from earning a living to serve in Raleigh, not every two years but every year, could prove too great a burden for many.

"I could not run if we met every year," said Sen. Charles B. Deane Jr. of Richmond.

The safeguard would be a strict time limit on a session, suggested Sen. Phil Godwin of Gates.

Upgrading legislative pay would be the other necessary step to attract talent, he added.

"If we expect to get the top talent and type individuals that we need to make our laws, the government must do what any other business does. We must pay the salaries for that type individual," Godwin said.

While has hasn't arrived at figures which would be appropriate, Godwin said he is convinced that legislative salaries must be adjusted upward.

Operation of committees between sessions is contemplated if the legislature meets every year. Rather than creating outside study committees, lawmakers then could do their own research in the preparation of legislation.

Heavy Reading Chore Will See Late Start

When the General Assembly convened Wednesday they were missing a Democratic governor for the first time in this century.

Also missing was the big Advisory Budget Commission volume proposing the biennial budget which is usually on hand the first day.

Acting budget state officer Frank Justice blamed the missing budget on a printing delay.

The big budget will come soon enough, however, and it will mean several days reading for our legislators.

FBI Director Has 'Snakepit'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — An undercover campaign by the old-boy FBI network, past and present, against Acting Director L. Patrick Gray has fully disclosed to the White House the tainted legacy of J. Edgar Hoover's 40-year reign over the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Key administration officials deny this campaign will influence President Nixon's decision whether to nominate Gray as the FBI's permanent director or look elsewhere. Nevertheless, Mr. Nixon has not yet made that decision. What makes this significant is that when the President named Gray acting director after Hoover's death nearly eight months ago, he fully intended to make it permanent.

Whatever happens to Gray, the difficulties he has encountered dramatize an unpleasant fact to the White House: the sudden end of Hoover's long personal tyranny left a political snakepit at the FBI. The Nixon inner circle is determined that the new director, whether Gray or not, must radically clean house.

It is Gray's house-cleaning that triggered the campaign against him by old Hoover hands. They were incensed by Gray's purge of Hoover favorites, particularly his elimination of the bureau's crime records division, operated by sycophants as a propaganda agency for Hoover's glorification.

Indeed, the anti-Gray campaign can be traced partially to two old Hoover disciples: Clyde Tolson, who retired as the FBI's No. 2 man when Hoover died, and Cartha DeLoach, once Hoover's heir-apparent and now a Pepsico executive. Tolson, at age 72 a semi-invalid, has displayed surprising energy chipping away at Gray's reputation in order to enshrine Hoover's memory.

But it would be gross simplication to limit Gray's detractors to the old Hoover clique. "When Gray was appointed, I said, 'At last we've got a human being,' " one anti-Hoover agent told us, "but we've been terribly disappointed."

That disappointment derives mainly from the fact that Gray, entering the FBI with three young lieutenants unfamiliar with the bureau, lopped of many anti-Hoover heads along with Hoover cronies. A prime example is Harold Leinbaugh, an anti-Hoover inspector in Washington exiled by Gray to Detroit.

Moreover, anti-Hoover officials are disappointed that Gray emulated Hoover in spending much more time on public relations than running the bureau. They complain that Gray, who underwent surgery recently, does not spend enough time in Washington. Morale in the domestic intelligence division, a hotbed of anti-Hoover feeling, is no higher under Gray.

The result: present and former FBI men, pro-Hooverites and anti-Hooverites, are briefing newsmen and White House aides bout Gray's iniquities. How can a man whose only previous command experience was as a submarine skipper in World War II, they ask, run the far-flung FBI? How can a man who spends long weekends in Stonington, Conn., and is called "Two-Day Gray" at FBI headquarters run an operation of staggering dimensions?

Gray's enemies have no substitute candidate but describe the need for a quiet, highly competent professional less interested than Gray in personal publicity. Two largely anonymous assistant attorneys general, Harlington

President Is Missing

WASHINGTON — One morning two weeks ago a White House aide walked into President Nixon's office, which is located on a mountain overlooking Camp David, and asked, "Where is the President?"

The man sitting behind the desk said, "I'm the President."

The aide looked at him closely. "No, you're not. You're the Old Nixon. Where's the New Nixon?"

"He' gone . He asked me to take over for him. I want 400 more raids on North Vietnam, cut the Health, Education and Welfare budget, scrap all public housing and let's not give any more aid to the farmers."

"Just a minute. What proof do you have that the President gave you his job?"

"Don't push me, boy," the Old Nixon said angrily, "or I'll have you arrested for treason."

The aide rushed out and brought in the chief of the Secret Service. The aide said, "He's done something with the President of the United States!"

The chief yelled to two of his agents, "Don't let anyone leave the compound!" Then he turned to the Old Nixon. "Okay, wise guy, what did you do with the President?"

"I am the President," the Old Nixon said. "I have the presidential seal to prove it."

ART BUCHWALD

"We know the President," the chief said. "He's a statesman, a leader, a peacemaker, a friend of all the people. You certainly don't fit that description."

"I keep telling you the President went fishing after the election and he told me to take over. Now you're wasting my valuable time. I have some scores to settle with the press and television people."

"Not so fast, mister," the chief of the Secret Service said, "something is rotten in Denmark."

The butler came in the room. "When was the last time you saw the President?" the chief asked him.

"I believe it was just before the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong. He was in his room and seemed rather depressed."

"Was anyone with him?"

"I believe Dr. Kissinger, and that gentleman sitting in the President's chair there."

"Get Kissinger in here," the chief said.

Two agents brought Kissinger into the office.

"All right, Doctor," the chief said, "where's the President?"

"I don't know," Kissinger said. "I was going to ask you. I'm rather worried about him."

"What happened in the bedroom the last night you were there?"

"Well, there was three of us, the President, the Old Nixon and myself. I was

To the editor:

On August 10, 1970, a dozen bright-eyed and eager youngsters entered the educational department of the Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church to be greeted by the pastor and three members of the parish. This was one of the first steps toward the conversion of a church's fellowship hall to a Day Care Center for children and parishioners into instructors.

Before official operation could be done, the building had to meet the standards of the building code, pass the inspection of both the sanitation and fire department of Pitt County. The necessary equipment for child care had to be purchased. License for the facility was required. All requirements were met, which allowed the Department of Social Services to purchase slots (spaces for children within the center).

The Good Hope Day Care Center is licensed by the Federal Government, approved by the Department of Social Services, registered with the Child Licensing Board, and a member of the North Carolina Day Care Association which allow the center to accommodate 35 children ages 2-6 (preschool).

Goals were accomplished and the idea appeared workable, but involvement from the general public seemed lacking. It was not enough just to make announcements in churches, run a few ads in the paper, register with the office of Social Services, or have a telephone number listed in the directory, something else had to be done.

The Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church, which is the sponsor, launched a fund raising campaign to help purchase needed equipment for the center. More children enrolled, so a means of transportation was provided. A bus beautifully decorated with the Center's Name, sponsorship and slogan, "CARING FOR ALL CHILDREN IS OUR BUSINESS", was used.

The Good Hope Day Care Center has outgrown the church's fellowship hall and a handful of parishioners. It now has a director and six employees.

The Center, which once accomodated 35 children, plans in the near future to move into a new building with a kitchen, eight class rooms, necessary bath facilities, and an office. In the new facility, space has been provided to accomodate 44 to 50 students. At this point, there are 12 slots available to the general public.

Words That Wound

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a plumber gets tired of hearing:

"You plumbers are getting like doctors — you hate to make house calls anymore."

"Sam Turnjoint, the only difference between you and Jesse James is that Jesse had to use a gun to get his."

HAL BOYLE

"I've got an unemployed brother-in-law who is looking for an easy way to make a living, Sam. Could you put him on as a helper?"

"As your physician, Sam, I suggest we use a little common sense in our business relations. Remember, I can raise my fees too."

"Just because I flunked you out of high school your first year, Sam, you're not going to refuse to come and fix my leaky toilet, are you? Please Sam, your old teacher needs you. Can't we let bygones be bygones?"

"You say you want Sam, my son, the plumber? Can you call back later, please? He's in consultation now."

"Why is it you always forget some of your tools, but you never forget to send your bill?"

"Yeah, I'm a real old-timer, Sam. I can remember way back when I was young and plumbers made about a dollar an hour, and most of them had calluses all over their hands."

"Sam has been spending the winters in Florida so long he wouldn't know how to fix frozen pipes anymore."

"Yes, it's a real desirable neighborhood to move into. We've got three internists living here, a surgeon, a well-to-do undertaker, a banker, a retired admiral — and two plumbers. But don't get your hopes up too high. The plumbers won't accept emergency calls except at their offices."

In spite of unfavorable weather conditions, the influenza situation in this county was reported today to be less severe than the early part of last week. Two weeks ago eight hundred cases were reported throughout the county with the major part being distributed throughout the Greenville area. Today, however, the majority of cases were confined to the rural communities.

A bill was introduced this morning in the lower House of the General Assembly which would make the minimum fee for auto licenses $5 instead of $12 and the graduated increase according to weight would be at the rate of 20 cents per hundred weight instead of 50 cents.

Strength For Today

ON THE WAY OUT

Among the most famous word in the Old Testament are these: "I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies. Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them; neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts. Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy voils. But let judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream" (Amcs 5:21-24).

This Prophet Amos has become extremely popular in modern times. He was not a subject of the Northern Kingdom which he denounced. He lived just across the border in the Kingdom of Judah. He did not hesitate to denounce the Kingdom of Judah as well as the Northern Kingdom of Israel, but his bitterest denunciations were reserved for the latter. This sturdy prophet had something in him which reacted with almost savage vigor at the sight of oppression. The people he denounced were guilty of sanctimonious sinning. They tried to cover their evil with a thick layer of pietistic cant, but their worship was hallow and unspiritual. They might try to cover their hypocrisy in any number of ways, but God was not to be deceived. The rich oppressed the poor. The strong oppressed the weak.

Amos believed that a sinning nation was on the way out, and he did not hesitate to say so. I was a matter of only a few years until the Northern Kingdom was carried off into captivity.

Controls See Mixed Reaction

By JOHN DORFMAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Economic leaders have expressed mixed reaction to President Nixon's proposed reshaping of the nation's wage and price control machinery.

Leaders in other areas who were questioned expressed these views:

Economists were worried about renewed inflation, businessmen called it a step in the right direction and many labor leaders expressed tentative approval.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said his organization was "prepared to cooperate" with Nixon's Phase 3 plan, which eliminates mandatory controls in most sectors of the economy while leaving the government the option to step back in if price hikes get out of line.

Leonard Woodcock, head of the United Auto Workers, said voluntary restraint had "long been a goal" of his union, but he reserved detailed comments until he had studied the plans further.

But Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, charged that the new plan "will be a field day for profiteers and landlords."

Among corporate executives, many comments followed the lines of that by Richard C. Gerstenberg, General Motors chairman. Gerstenberg termed the easing of controls "constructive," pledged support for Phase 3, but urged "an early termination of controls and a return to the discipline of a competitive market."

D. Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said, "I am sure that industry will want to cooperate in developing the new framework of wage and price controls into a workable and effective system. We regard it, however, as an interim program designed to permit the restoration of free markets at the earliest possible time."

Under Nixon's new plan, the health, construction and food fields will remain under stricter government supervision than the rest of the economy.

Walter Hoadley, chief economist for Bank of America, the nation's largest commercial bank, praised the "astuteness" of the selective approach.

"Pieces of the economy are straining, but not the whole economy," Hoadley said.

However, some economists were worried about an easing of controls resparking widespread price rises, particularly in the wake of a big December rise in wholesale prices.

"This runs a lot of risks, with the big hittes among the unions coming up to bat in contract negotiations," said Walter Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. He mentioned the Teamsters, auto workers and meat-cutters.

Cooperate Study Is Undertaken

A cooperate study has been undertaken by East Carolina University, Pitt County Community Health Department and the Soil Conservation Service on the John F. Singleton farm, located about three miles southeast of Pactolus.

Singleton expanded his hog feeding operation last fall by adding an animal waste disposal system, designed by SCS for his farm. The system consists of a large pit which will overflow into a smaller holding pit during rainy weather and a system of pumping effluent out of the holding pit onto nearby farmland.

The pits will impound waste that is flushed out of hog houses, according to Charles Whitaker of the SCS.

"The pits were excavated in Lakeland sand soil because water moves through that type soil rapidly," Whitaker said.

Because of the possibly of pollution, it was suggested that a study be made, using tests wells installed around the animal waste disposal system at various depths, from which underground water samples could be taken.

Water samples removed from the wells will be taken to East Carolina University for labortory analysis. The results of the analysis, headed by Richard Padgett, instructor in the Department of Environmental Health at ECU, will indicate whether or not the underground acquifer is being polluted by contaminants from the disposal system.

"Both of the disposal pits are anerobic in action," Whitaker explained. "Bacteria that grows in the absence of oxygen will break down the solids. At certain intervals the liquid level in the holding pit will rise due to excessive rainfall."

"The liquid will have to be pumped out onto adjoining land areas. This will keep the holding pit from overflowing into nearby Tranters Creek," Whitaker added.

An armadillo can dig so fast that it is able to bury itself out of sight in a minute or two.

"And what did the President say?"

"He didn't say anything. He just went over to the television set and started watching a football game."

"Then what happened?"

"The Old Nixon said to me, 'What are you standing there for? Start the bombing!'

I looked at the President for confirmation but all he said was, 'I like the way Larry Brown goes off tackle.'"

"And that's the last time you saw the President?" the chief asked.

"Yes," Kissinger replied. "I didn't hear from him after the bombing so I assumed he was still watching he football game."

The chief of Secret Service said, "All right. I want a thorough search of all the rooms as well as the grounds. We've got to find the President before January 20th or else. . ."

"Or else what?" the butler asked.

The aide replied, pointing at the Old Nixon, "We'll have to swear him in as President."

"Oh, my God," said another aide. "Who's going o tell Pat?"

burst and the water on the floor is already six inches deep. When could I make an appointment with you?"

"Sam, as your wife you know I don't like to interfere in your business, but I think you're creating some resentment in your clients by driving up to their houses in your new limousine. Don't you think it would be more diplomatic to go back to the old station wagon?"

"Congratulations, Sam. You're the first plumber the bank has ever had on its board of directors."

"My mommy sent me here, Mr. Turnjoint. She says she knows you're far too busy to come yourself, but would you mind lending us a big wrench and we'll fix it ourselves?"

"I tell you I can't see you any more often, Sam. My neighbors are bound to suspect something if they see a plumber go into a house more than once a month. That never happens."

"Yes, my son has decided to become a plumber instead of a dentist. He can't stand the thought of staring into people's mouths all day. Besides, as a plumber he'll make more money and have shorter hours."

"Never mind coming now to fix my flooded basement, Sam. The kids like it that way, and we've decided to keep it as a swimming pool."

Wood at the civil division and Henry Petersen at the criminal divison, are mentioned.

The menace is clear. If Gray is nominated, the old-boy network will slip derogatory information to the Senate Judiciary Committee. Liberal Democratic Senators, eager to prove Gray has politicized the FBI by serving Mr. Nixon's partisan interests, would be expected to cooperate.

But at the very least, Gray seems innocent of such political charges. Close students of the FBI know that Hoover's famed reputation for being above and beyond politics was sheer mythology and that Gray is non-political by comparison.

Gray's real problem is not directly related to hostile charges but goes to this puzzle: how to govern an absolute monarchy immediately after the king's death. John Ehrlichman, the President's top domestic aide, is well aware of this in considering his advice to Mr. Nixon. The anti-Gray campaign, whatever its impact on Ehrlichman's recommendation, has shown the White House the need for a strong hand to clean up the FBI.

Because of a misplaced word in transmission, a recent column gave the erroneous impression that Sen. George McGovern already had decided not to lend a fund-raising list to Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss. It should have read: "He has not even decided to lend it to Strauss for one solicitation, much less hand it over."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning may bring some surprising upsets but don't be alarmed by them for you are now being given a chance to put practical and monetary affairs in order. You are able to advance in the future with the assistance of an experienced higher-up. Take advantage of opportunities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your business affairs well and see how you can improve them so that you can become more prosperous. If you have any doubts about finances, get advice form a business expert.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good pal has the right ideas how to make you look more charming, so listen and follow through. Social life can add much to your happiness. Arrive on time for an important appointment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Analyze the progress you have made in the past year toward your most cherished goals and figure out a way to get ahead faster this year. Consult an expert. Relax at favorite hobby tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to what a loyal friend has to suggest for your advancement and follow through with ideas given you. Repay a social debt and improve your position with one who really counts.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day for handling civic and other public duties that add to your present reputation. Try not to be so naive with the opposite sex. Do something about that fine voice you possess.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to a financial expert for ideas that could be the seed of your own success in the future. Make long-range plans for bettering your position in life. Avoid extravagance tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study the debits and credits of your financial situation and come up with a fine solution for the future. A more devoted attitude toward mate is wise, especially in the evening. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An associate could be irate in the morning but you can do much to restore calm in this person. Handle a civic work you enjoy and get approval of bigwigs. Evening is fine for the social.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to get routine tasks done more cleverly and derive more benefits from them. Do whatever will make you feel and look more dynamic. Avoid stumbling blocks in your way to progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Engage in the pleasure you like with the persons you admire. You can put your finest talents across with the right persons. Gain the backing you need for projects that are important to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may have problems at home that may seem impossible to handle, but objective thinking will solve them quickly. Look into practical outlets that can produce greater income in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study how to become more proficient in your work so that you can command a better income in the future. Make and keep appointments with key persons. Take health treatments you may need.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who knows the power of physical beauty and is likely to rely too much on this if you don't teach to work and earn what is desired, then this chart becomes a successful one. Public work is especially good here, be it civic, cultural or in the field of entertainment. Give good ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — There was a mixed pattern in stock market prices today, after Thursday's economic Phase 3 rally. Trading was active.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .45 to 1052.15, but declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange had a minuscule edge over gainers.

Although the Dow set another all-time closing high Thursday with a gain of 5.64 points at 1051.70, the late hours of trading developed a retreat, and brokers said some uncertainty carried over into today's market.

On the Big Board AT&T, which had gained 1 point in the two previous sessions, was off ⅜ to 54¼.

The volume leader was Gimbel Brothers, down ½ to 21⅜, virtually all of the action coming on a block of 465,400 shares at 21.

Oil issues were active, with Phillips Petroleum up 1¼ to 47¼ and Texaco ahead ½ to 40⅛, but Gulf was off ⅛ to 26⅞.

Kresge, which analysts said would be helped by Phase 3, gained ⅜ to 49⅜.

At 11 a.m. the New York Stock Exchange index was up southeast intersection of U.S. 264 bypass (under construction) and State Road 1534.

In a public hearing on certificates of convenience and necessity, Larry J. Early of Radio Cab Company was granted permits to add three taxicabs. Councilmen also heard a proposal of 11 items recommended by the city manager to tighten up control of taxi franchises and the administrative procedures governing franchises and other matters relative to taxi operations. The council is taking these recommendations under advisement and will consider formal adoption at the next regular meeting.

The temporary closing of Charles Street to traffic during the period May through September 1973 was approved. This will permit the uninterrupted reconstruction of the Green Mill Runn crossing. Council members asked that the State Highway Commission make every effort to permit access to Huey's Restaurant and Foodland store, the two businesses likely to be affected by the temporary closure.

A municipal agreement was approved that will authorize the State Highway Commission to add a third lane to U.S. 13-N.C. 11 from West Third Street to Greenfield Boulevard. The highway commission has agreed to provide funds for improvements at the airport area.

Approval was also given to the establishment of a Cadet Officer's Program for the Greenville Police Department. As a begining, four candidates will be accepted for working in administrative positions on a part-time, four hour daily basis. The candidates will be students from a police officers course to be conducted by Pitt Technical Institute. Provisions will be made to provide city council members with information on the course and on the training received by the cadet candidates.

The body will be at Flanagan & Parker Funeral Home until the time of service. Family visitation will be Saturday from 8 to 9 p.m.

Confer 6 Hours

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho conferred for another six hours today on the fifth straight day of their new Vietnam peace session.

The meeting was briefly delayed by fog and snow around the Communist-owned villa at suburban Gif Sur Yvette. The two delegations lunched in the villa.

There was no official word on their progress. At one time during the day, a North Vietnamese delegation car arrived carrying two typewriters, but there was no immediate explanation.

The two top negotiators have now met for a total of more than 27 hours since they reopened their secret talks Monday.

Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, has held lengthy meetings with Tho every day this week, alternating between the Communist villa at Gif Sur Yvette and an American house in St. Nom la Breteche. Both towns are Paris suburbs.

Tho, wearing a fur hat in the bitter cold, waved and smiled to waiting newsmen as he arrived first to host today's meeting. Kissinger arrived a few minutes later. He smiled but did not wave.

Other matters considered by the Council and action taken are:

—A public hearing scheduled for February 8 on the Southside Urban Renweal Project;

—Approval of an amendment to Ordinance No. 373, governing large garbage disposal container procurement;

—Approval of off-duty court time pay for police officers during October, November and December in the amount of $634.00; and approval of special duty overtime in the amount of $4,224.10 for the period December 6 through December 17;

—Approval of a resolution approving filing of condemnation proceedings of 1.7 acres of land owned by Brewer and Marshall Concrete Co., on behalf of Greenville Utilities Commission;

—Approval of fire protection services for National Boat Works based on 25 cents per $100 assesses evaluation of the property;

—Approval of $5,000 appropriation for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority as the city's share in the cost of a long-range study for the airport, contignent on the county's paying a share of the cost of the study;

—Approval of a low bid by Hastings Ford for three new cars in an amount of $9,147.00; approval of low bids by Leon Morris for painting Guy Smith Stadium and West Greenville Gym in the amounts of $1,995.00 and $795.00, respectively, and approval of G. E. Supply Company's low bid of $2,219.00 for lighting fixtures at Evans Park.

White Resigns

RALEIGH (AP) — Former state Senator Tom White of Kinston has resigned as chairman of the state Advisory Budget Commission, a post he had held since 1963.

White wrote his letter of resignation Dec. 29, to be effective Jan. 5. He offered no reasons for resigning.

During the 1971 session of the General Assembly, White became the center of some controversy because he was registered as a lobbyist for the Tobacco Tax Council, a Richmond, Va. based organization seeking to reduce tobacco taxes, at the same time he was a member of the Advisory Budget Commission.

The Advisory Budget Commission has recommended to the 1973 General Assembly that the state soft drink, and cigarette taxes be repealed, and that a ten per cent refund be granted on 1972 income taxes.

Flu Reaches West Coast

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The U.S. Center for Disease Control says a major outbreak of English influenza has hit California, but nationwide deaths from pneumonia and influenza are below the number expected for this time of year.

The CDC quoted Dr. James Chin of the California Health Department in Berkeley as saying "Clearly, northern California, and especially the San Francisco Bay area, had an epidemic of flu which peaked in the first week of January. We're now starting to get reports that central and southern California are getting involved."

Chin said California had 57 deaths from flu and pneumonia in the first week of January, two below the "threshold of an epidemic."

In comparison, Chin said 150 to 160 deaths were recorded during the peak week of the 1968-69 outbreak of Hong Kong flu.

"We're having a lot more influenza this year than in the last couple, but that's because it's a new virus," Chin said. "in terms of the numbers of symptoms, it's identical or even less severe than the Hong Kong flu."

A CDC spokesman said Thursday total deaths in the nation from pneumonia and influenza for the week ending Dec. 30 were 467, or 73 fewer than expected.

May Boost Milk Price

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina milk drinkers may be paying an extra penny or two a quart after January 23.

That is the day the state milk commission has scheduled for a public hearing on the latest price increase request from the state's dairy farmers.

The commission could raise prices after the public hearing, and the boost would take effect in ten days.

Wednesday, representatives of farmers' groups and a North Carolina State University professor told the commission that rising feed prices have put the dairy farmer in a bind.

Douglas Darch of the Farm Bureau told the commission that the farmers need a 45 cent increase per hundred pounds of Class 1 milk used for fluid purposes.

The dairy farmers got a 28 cent increase on December 1 of last year. Darch said the farmers won't begin to realize any revenue from that until next week, and added they will get only half of the penny per quart extra that consumers will be paying because of it.

Proposed Nat'l Wilderness Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation has been introduced to make national wilderness areas of the 32,500-acre Joyce Kilmer Wilderness in North Carolina, and the Nantahala and Cherokee National Forests in North Carolina and Tennessee.

Camping and hiking are allowed in such areas, but road building, commercial enterprises, including logging, and motor vehicles are prohibited.

National wilderness areas are administered by the U.S. Forest Service.

FLU DEATHS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Deaths associated with pneumonia and influenza from 122 cities reporting to the national Center for Disease Control were reported at 639 for the week ending Jan. 6. This was 84 more than normally expected.

Pirates Go Against Vengeful Paladins

East Carolina University isn't used to being the "short" team on the floor, but Saturday night in Greenville, S.C., they'll be in that position for one of the few times this year.

The Furman Paladins, a team that probably wants to beat East Carolina much worse than anyone else on the Pirate schedule, will have that height advantage on them, and they hope to use it to good advantage.

The Pirates, however, seem to like the Paladin playing court, recording four wins in their last five trips there, although only two of them were over Furman. (The other two came in the Southern Conference tournament over the Citadel and Davidson.)

The Pirates have had a week to prepare for the game, and come into it following their 81-63 win over VMI, upping their conference record to 2-3.

"The week off has given us an opportunity to concentrate on some individual work," Coach Tom Quinn said. "We've done some concentrated review work, and we've had a fine effort. This is one of the hardest working groups I've ever had in the standpoint of attitude and putting out. It's all I can ask of them."

Quinn said that the team is reaching the point where they can react to almost any situation. "We have a height problem this weekend, but we've run into all types of problems so far," he said. Quinn cited The Citadel's slowdown, the Duke trapping defense, and the ability of the Pirates to control their lead and fight back from behind.

"We still have some players who really don't have a lot of varsity experience behind them. Nicky White, despite playing last year, didn't really gain that much time, and Roger Atkinson and Kenny Edmonds are both new to the program, and they've all played a lot."

Quinn admits that the biggest team problem has been turnovers. "Our opponents are having them too, but we can't be concerned about theirs. They've been getting about four more shots per game than we have, and this could be, and in fact, has been vital to us."

The coach also said that he is highly pleased with the play of Earl Quash, who has come on to be the team's leading scorer. He also notes that Dave Franklin has come on strong since the first few games. A slow starter, Franklin has been among the leaders both in rebounding and scoring recently, and now stands second in scoring on the team.

Quinn also noted that the Pirates' pressure defense is coming around more and more. "You don't see a game 'break' as early as in the past. You can be down 14 or 15 and still come back with it, or you can have a game like Saturday's when you suddenly shoot ahead when the other team is forced to break its offensive pattern to catch up." Quinn was refering to the VMI game when the Bucs moved from an eight-point lead to an 18-point lead in the final minute of play.

"We're ahead of ourselves at this point last year," the coach said. After 10 games in 1971-72 the Bucs were 4-6. This year they're 5-5, and Quinn notes that the schedule has been tougher.

Furman will offer a real test to the Pirates, however. "They are just a big, strong, talented team," Quinn said. "And they will be sky-high for us. Not only is it a conference and a home game for us, it has a bit of revenge for them. But we've had this week to get ready, and we're just as anxious to get a piece of them as they are for us."

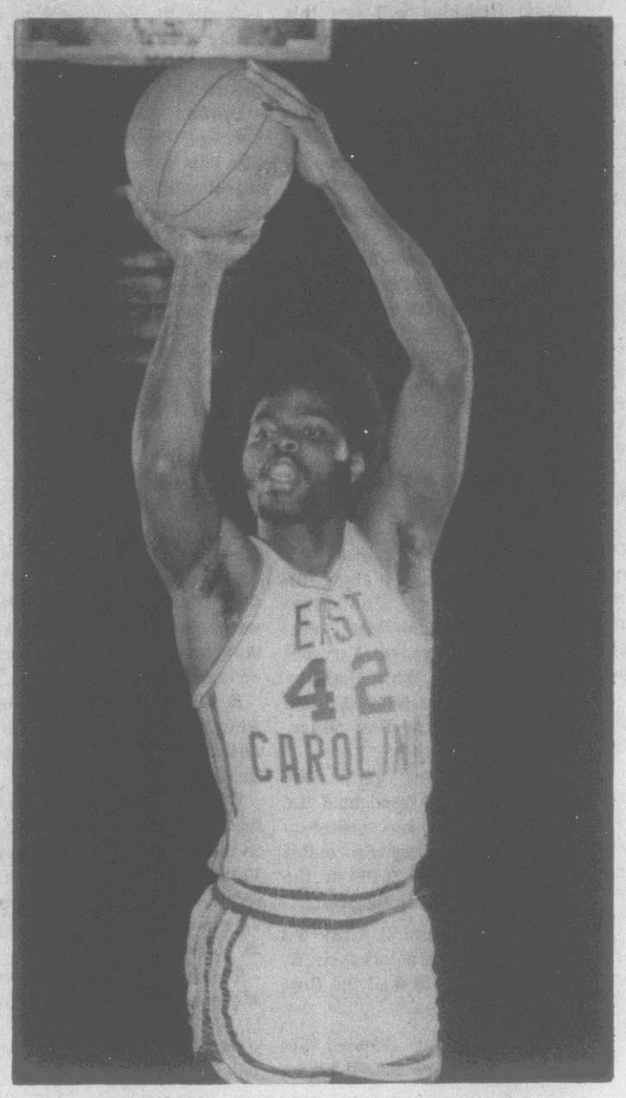

Quinn said weather conditions might affect the Pirate spirits some, referring to any problems the Bucs might have in getting to the game. "But we're looking forward to it. A win can erase of lot of thoughts about some of the early losses," the coach said. "And the conference race isn't over yet."

Quash leads the Pirate scoring with a 15.4 average, while Franklin has an 11.5 mark and Al Faber is right behind at 11.4. White is at 9.6, followed by Atkinson at 8.9 and Jerome Owens at 8.5.

The Paladins, are led by 7-1 Fessor (Moose) Lenoard, who went into this week with a 20.1 average. His fellow sophomore, 6-9 Clyde Mayes has a 16.3 average, while 6-8 senior Roy Simpson is hitting at a 13.8 clip. Russ Hunt, 6-8 player of the Year last season, is getting only 5.3 points a game, but playing a different role from last year. Bud Bierly, the other starter, has a 7.0 average.

On the boards, Lenoard is pulling down 10.4 rebounds a game, while Mayes is averaging 10.2. East Carolina really hasn't produced a leader as in the past, but is getting balanced rebounding from its whole front nine. Faber and White are getting 7.9 per game, while Franklin is getting 7.4

The Paladins come into the game off a 73-71 loss to Jacksonville, and a 7-4 overall record. They are 2-0 in the league.

Pitcher-Hitter Rule Gets Test

By JOE MOOSHIL ...
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Major league baseball, bound by tradition for decades, took a gigantic step towards change Thursday when the American League was given approval to adopt the designated pinch hitter rule.

With attendance lagging compared to the rival National League, the American League also sought a pinch runner rule and interleague play at the joint meetings which were concluded Thursday.

The pinch runner rule was disallowed and the major leagues announced a committee will be adopted to study and review aspects for interleague play which could become a possibility in 1974.

The National League, which will not use the experimental pinch hitter rule, gave its approval for the American League experiment for the next three seasons with Charles "Chub" Feeney, president of the National League, admitting "if it does work out, we wouldn't be reticent to adopting it."

Under the new rule, a manager can designate a pinch hitter to bat for the starting pitcher and all subsequent pitchers in a game without affecting the status of a pitcher throughout the contest.

However, the manager must make his "designate pinch hitter" selection before the start of the game and name the pinch hitter in the lineup cards presented to the umpire-in-chief.

"The rule has great possibilities," said Joe Cronin, president of the American League. "It will give the game a new dimension. We're very happy to be able to use it."

Cronin, questioned on numerous ramifications and intricacies of the rule, said "We'll thrash it all out before the season starts."

As far as the All-Star game, the World Series and exhibitions between the two leagues, the rule will not be in affect and the basic rules of baseball will apply.

Commisioner Bowie Kuhn, who presided over the joint meetings and was strongly in favor of the rule change, said he hoped that the new committee which will be named to study interleague play will have a reort ready before the two leagues hold another joint meeting next August.

Kuhn also said strides had been made towards a new Basic Agreement between owners and players.

The Basic Agreement expired last Dec. 31 and the two groups have been working feverishly on a new agreement. The owners came up with some new twists at the recent meetings in Honolulu but they were quickly turned down by the players.

Here's How It's Going To Work

CHICAGO (AP) — The explanation of the designated pinch-hitter baseball rule adopted by the American League Thursday:

"A pinch hitter may be designated to bat for the starting pitcher and all subsuquent pitchers in any game without otherwise affecting the status of the pitcher(s) in the game. A designated pinch hitter for the pitcher must be selected prior to the game and must be included in the lineup cards presented to the umpire-in-chief.

"A designated pinch hitter shall not take a position in the field in any game in which he appears as a designated pinch hitter; nor shall he appear as a pinch runner. His designation as a pinch hitter for the pitcher limits him to that task exclusively.

"It is not mandatory that club designate a pinch hitter for the pitcher, but failure to designate a pinch hitter prior to the game precludes the use of a designated pinch hitter for that game. "Pinch hitters for a designated pinch hitter may be used. Any substitute pinch hitter for a designated pinch hitter himself becomes a designated pinch hitter. A replaced designated pinch hitter shall not re-enter the game in any capacity.

"Except for designated pinch hitters, all other pinch hitters, and those for whom they hit, will be governed by the adopted official playing rules."

Play For Power Showdown Is Set

CHICAGO (AP) — An apparent power play by major schools to sideline small school organizational influence in the National Collegiate Athletic Association comes to a showdown in the group's 67th annual convention today.

A pivotal proposal calling for splitting NCAA membership into separate voting divisions will be balloted upon this afternoon by more than 400 delegates with voting power.

A two-thirds majority, roughly 276 votes, is needed to approve the historic change in the NCAA governing setup which would give big schools unencumbered control of their athletic policies.

Even proponents were skeptical over chances of approval.

One prominent conference commissioner said the outcome could make or break what he considered a most significant NCAA conclave under pressure of spiraling athletic costs.

The commissioner who asked to remain unidentified said: "I think the institutional reorganizational proposal will be defeated, along with proposals for athletic scholarship limitations and banning of red-shirting and the 1.6 academic predictability rule for enrollment will be knocked out or watered down.

"The overall effect would be a backward step at a time of crucial economic pressure."

The 1.6 rule on which financial aid for incoming athletes is based is one fly in the recruiting ointment of big schools which they contend was foisted upon them by smaller colleges. Another was the freshman rule adopted by the NCAA last year.

Elimination or modification of the 1.6 rule, along with proposals for limited athletic scholarships, financial aid based on need, and a uniform national letter-of-intent program administered by the NCAA, are on tap for Saturday's concluding program.

Kings Claim Close Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Green, the 39-year-old jumping jack of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, continues to amaze his coach, Bob Cousy, and National Basketball Association opponents.

The ice-cool Green, the oldest player in the league, hit two free throws with 10 seconds remaining Thursday night, clinching the Kings' 109-108 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

"I didn't feel any pressure," said the 6-foot-6 Green, whose career free throw average is just over .500—poor for pro standards. "I figu ed if I missed them, we still had a one-point lead."

When Green went to the foul line, the Kings led 107-106. After Green sank his two critical foul shots, the Kings let Golden State's Nate Thurmond score an uncontested basket. "I wish he would have told me he was going to make them both," quipped a relieved Cousy, who was the oldest player ever to play in the NBA. He was 41 when he retired in the 1969-70 season.

"It would have saved a lot of concern," added Cousy. "He didn't seem worried. They went right through the middle of the basket."

In the only other NBA game, the New York Knicks rallied from an 11-point deficit and beat Atlanta 122-107.

The only American Basketball Association action was at Dallas, where Denver overtook San Diego 113-109 in the first game of a doubleheader, then Indiana edged Dallas 107-106.

Nate Archibald, the league's leading scorer, paced the Kings with 42 points.

The Knicks, after falling behind early, finally went ahead of Atlanta to stay 80-78 in the third quarter, then pulled away for their eighth straight victory, putting them in a virtual first-place tie with idle Boston in the Atlantic Division.

New York's Walt Frazier led all scorers with 31 points, while Bill Bradley added 24. Pete Maravich topped the Hawks with 23 points, but had only one in the second half.

Denver, with the help of Ralph Simpson's 33 points and Marv Roberts' 26, rallied from a 15-point deficit in beating San Diego. Chuck Williams was high for the Conquistadors with 27 points.

George McGinnis' short jump shot with 45 seconds left gave Indiana its victory over Dallas. McGinnis finished with 32 points and Donnie Freeman had 27 for the Pacers. Dallas' Rich Jones, who hit a basket at the buzzer that was ruled just outside the three-point area, scored 31 points.

The continued closing of schools in the area forced the postponement of all area games last night.

Among the postponed games were Roanoke-Chowan Technical Institute at Pitt Tech (reset February 12), Rose at Kinston, North Lenoir at Ayden-Grifton, Greene Central at Farmville Central and Conley at Eastern Wayne.

Also postponed was Kinston at Rose and Farmville Central at Ayden-Grifton in wrestling.

Pitt County officials said that while tonight's schedule is still somewhat up in the air Southern Wayne at Farmville Central was definitely off, along with a Rose at Farmville Central wrestling match.

The schedule during the next few weeks is also to be shaken up due to the change in the examination schedule. All area high school athletic director are asked tp please notify The Daily Reflector, in advance, of rescheduled games or additional postponements.

Two Heels Are Picked

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox of the American League have chosen two North Carolinians in the first round of the winter free agent baseball draft. They are Elmer Yelverton of Wilson, a right-handed relief pitcher for Wilmington College, and Joseph "Mickey" Hickerson of Lenoir, a second baseman at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

Hickerson played three years with North Carolina before running into academic difficulties. He was the only black player with the Tar Heels.

Both players were scouted by Pat Gainey of Taylorsville, N.C.

The 1973 Women's International Bowling Congress championships will start on April 5 in Las Vegas.

State To Play Lehigh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All Atlantic Coast Conference teams now have played league games, and the three nationally ranked teams also lead the conference with undefeated records.

North Carolina was the last to see action. The Tar Heels defeated Clemson 92-58 Wednesday night, the most one-sided victory so far.

North Carolina State and Maryland each have won two in the league.

Then come Virginia 2-2, Wake Forest 1-1, Clemson 0-2 and Duke 0-3.

Maryland, second ranked nationally, and North Carolina State, No. 3, have 10-0 records. They will meet at Maryland at noon Sunday in a game which will be televised nationally, just before the Super Bowl football game.

North Carolina, No. 7, is 13-1, beaten only by N.C. State.

ACC taams were idle Thursday night. N.C. State is home to Lehigh tonight and Clemson is at Duke Saturday afternoon in a game which will be televised regionally.

Wake Forest has been a surprise team, winning its last five, the latest 85-79 over Niagara Wednesday. The Deacons have won eight games so far this season, matching the total for all of last season. They have lost four.

Pay Your Money; Take Your Choice
The Dolphins | The Redskins

By HUBERT MIZELL ...
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Shula is too outstanding to be a three-time loser.

The Miami Dolphins are a 20-17 choice here to whip Washington in Super Bowl VII and rub Redskin Coach George Allen's nose in his ice cream.

Allen said it himself, "The Dolphins are the best team in pro football."

I'll buy that. There are no dynasties in the modern National Football League, but Miami has the edge.

Shula wants this one worse than anyone knows. He lost Super Bowl III while coach of the Baltimore Colts and bowed in Super Bowl VI with a younger, thinner Miami team. The thought of 0-3 kills him.

This time he makes it.

A major reason will be a Dolphin defense that will manage to contain the short passing game of Washington's Bill Kilmer.

The key figure is middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti.

Keep an eye on the safeties. Jake Scott and Dick Anderson, who are the best pair in the NFL. They not only handle their areas superbly, but help cornerbacks Lloyd Mumphord and Curtis Johnson.

Look for a standout pass rush from relatively-unknown end Vern Den Heder, a second-year pro from Central of Iowa who has produced a brilliant season for the Dolphins.

Offensively, Miami will have trouble penetrating the veteran Redskin defense led by linebackers Jack Pardee and Chris Hanburger. But, Bob Griese is sharp again at quarterback and he's the best in the business.

Paul Warfield will get double coverage from the 'Skins, but look for this wily speedster to make his three or four receptions lead to scores for the undefeated Miamians.

Garo Yepremian has proved himself often as a clutch kicker and the little tiemaker could become a key figure before the watching millions in Sunday's showdown.

By BRUCE LOWITT ....
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It won't even be close. It'll be just like the playoffs.

While the Miami Dolphins struggle to keep within come-from-behind distance, the Washington Redskins will be concentrating on breaking Sunday's Super Bowl VII wide open.

And barring what this forecaster would call a massive upset, the oddsmakers notwithstanding, Coach George Allen and his Redskins will do it with relative ease, to the tune of a 27-13 final score.

They won't shut down the Dolphins. Nobody shuts down Bob Griese, Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield, Garo Yepremian, Larry Little & and Co. all day.

But that ferocious Washington defense—guys like Verlon Biggs and Diron Talbert up front and Jack Pardee, Chris Hanburger, Pat Fischer and Roosevelt Taylor behind them—will slow them up and wear them down.

On offense, Larry Brown gets the nod over any of the Miami runners. He may Not have quite the dazzling feet of Mercury Morris or the bullishness of Csonka but he's got the best combination of both.

And Charley Harraway is no slouch as the Redskins' No. 2 running back.

At quarterback, it's Bob Griese's first start since the fifth game of the season, some three months ago. That, in this prognosticators view gives Washington's Billy Kilmer the slight edge. Otherwise they're about even, each capable of masterful play calling and long and short throwing.

On the receiving end, the Redskins' Charley Taylor is at least the equal of Warfield. From there on, it's Washington over any of Miami's secondary passcatchers.

The kicking game is a break-even affair. Larry Seiple and Mike Bragg were pretty equal in punting. And in placekicking, Miami's Garo Yepremian had by far the better regular season—but Curt Knight has suddenly become a man with a radar toe in the post season action.

Remember the playoffs? While the Dolphins had to scramble and scratch their way past Cleveland and Pittsburgh for the American Conference title, the Redskins simply mangled Green Bay and Dallas for the National Conference crown.

So while Miami's Don Shula, twice a Super Bowl coach but still not a winner, makes it three in a row on the short end, Allen, dumped by Los Angeles after five winning seasons, will come away with the National Football League's biggest prize—and he'll take it with him out of the home of the Rams.

Stopping Washington Runners Is Prime Objective Of Dolphins

By RON ROACH ...
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manny Fernandez says his mind has a quick trigger and the slightest pressure by the Washington Redskins will fire this alarm: "It's a run! It's a run!"

The 250-pound defensive tackle of the Miami Dolphins says that to be effective in Sunday's Super Bowl VII, "We have got to stop the run. We can't wory about the pass. Our backs will have to take care of the pass."

Specifically, how will the Dolphins try to stop Larry Brown, who gained 1,216 yards rushing?

"You've just got to really not get blocked. When you get down to it," Fernandez says, laughing at the simplicity of his theory, "that's all it really amounts to. You've got to try not to get blocked, try not to get cut off from pursuit and try to stay on your feet."

Brown, who amassed his yardage despite missing the last two games of the regular season with a leg injury, came back to gain 88 yards in 30 carries in the Redskins' 26-3 victory over Dallas for the National Conference championship of the National Football League.

His running mate for four years, Charley Harraway, gained 567 yards. His primary assignment has been blocking for Brown.

Quarterback Bill Kilmer directs the Washington offense and he says it may boil down to a guessing game against Nick Buoniconti, Miami's veteran middle linebacker and signal caller.

"We're going to use a lot of things in our attack," says Kilmer, when asked what he'll do to counteract the outstanding pursuit of Buoniconti and other Dolphins. "We have ounter-plays against the grain ... we have man-for-man straight-on plays ... we have a lot of things.

"He'll be prepared, too," Kilmer says of Buoniconti. "He knots what we can do. It's just a matter of if he can outguess me. That's the big problem."

"We won't do anything special," says Buoniconti. "But you can't key on Larry Brown. You can't underestimate Charley Harraway either. He's a fine fullback."

"We live by the run; they live by the run," says Washington Coach George Allen of the biggest similarity between the two teams. Even when these teams pass, it's often play-action to capitalize on the running game.

The Dolphins boast the best rushing defense in the AFC, giving up an average of 110.6 yards per game—which would have been third best behind Dallas and Green Bay in the NFC.

The Redskins, after averaging 149 yards on the ground during the regular season, rushed for 138 yards against the Packers and 122 against the Cowboys in NFC playoff games.

The Dolphins boast the best rushing team in NFL history—a record 2,951 yards—and the Redskins set their single-season club mark of 2,082.

Three Claim League Wins

Prepshirt, State Highway and Wachovia Bank picked up victories in the Industrial Basketball League last night.

Wachovia dumped Vermont America, 57-41, State Highway took Empire Brush, 42-28, while Prepshirt beat the Post Office, 39-26.

In the opening game, the action was slow throughout the first half as Prepshirt worked up an 18-10 lead. They also outhit the Post Office, 21-16, in the second half to take the win.

W. Johnson and C. Gray led Prepshirt with 15 points each. W. Hardee had 10 to lead the Post Office.

State Highway doubled the score on Empire Brush, which went into the game unbeaten, during the first half, 24-12. Then in the second half, the Highwaymen continued to roll away, building up an 18-16 scoring advantage.

F. Mills led the Highwaymen with 16 points. No one was in double figures for Empire Brush.

Wachovia pushed ahead in the first half, also doubling the score on their foe, Vermont American, 30-15. They came back with 27 points in the second half, while Vermont Americans was scoring 26, to hold onto the win.

T. Sparrow led Wachovia with 20 points, while B. Baggett had 12, P. Taylor had 11 and B. Stephenson had 10. For Vermont Americans, Ed Chance had 10.

New Mexico State's basketball team got bad news just the other day from the National Collegiate Athletic Association and Thursday night, got some more from the Drake Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs welcomed the besieged Amazing Aggies into the Wonderful World of the Missouri Valley Conference with a 75-66 setback.

Unfortunately, the Aggies had to play their first game in the tough conference without the services of their two top players.

The NCAA punished the school Wednesday with two years of probation and declared scoring ace John Williamson and seven-foot center Roland "Tree" Grant ineligible for a number of alleged infractions.

Among the alleged wrongdoings, the national collegiate body declared that the Aggie stars had received illegal payments from a non-university source.

Only two ranked teams were in action Thursday night as sixth-ranked Long Beach State spanked Fresno State 92-72 and No. 12 San Francisco University ripped Los Angeles Loyola 109-72.

Elsewhere, Texas Christian nipped Hawaii 78-76; Notre Dame surprised DePaul 72-67; West Texas State topped Bradley 104-101 in overtime; Temple smashed Syracuse 63-55; Wichita State nipped North Texas State 73-69; New Mexico trimmed Brigham Young 69-67; Texas El Pso beat Utah 61-51; Rice turned back Cincinnati 63-57; Air Force slugged Montana 69-50 and Idaho stopped Portland 64-52.

With Williamson and Grant missing from the premises, it didn't matter that New Mexico's MVC opener was played at home. Dennis Bell scored 21 points and Cleo Kilgore had 20 in Drake's balanced offense.

They helped build a 15-point advantage as the Aggies fell apart in the second half before the disappointed fans at Las Cruces.

Truman Ward scored 18 points and Bill Allen contributed 12 to the New Mexico State attack.

Ed Ratleff deposited 32 points on 16 of 23 field goal attempts to power Long Beach's success. The 49er star also led in rebounds with 10, dominating the lopsided game.

Eric Fernsten scored 20 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked a half dozen shots to ease San Francisco past Los Angeles Loyola.

Dolphins Like Natural Grass

By JACK STEVENSON ...
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coaches Don Shula of Miami and George Allen of Washington made it a point not to say anything bad about each other's teams this past week, yet Allen was sincere in saying:

"We've never played against a team that had three such great runners as Miami."

Fullback Larry Csonka gained 1,117 yards and Mercury Morris 1,000 as the Dolphins came up with the first one-two running punch to gain 1,000 or more each in National Football League history.

Then they have Jim Kiick, the regular last year, who ran for 521 yards this season including touchdown smahes of two and three yards against Pittsburgh in the 21-17 victory that brought Miami the American Football Conference title and the chance to meet Washington in Sunday's Super Bowl game at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"Some of our players, most of our players, all of our players like grass," commented Shula in commenting on the natural turf at the Coliseum. Miami won't be the choice of the crowd there, since Allen was popular as coach of the Rams and has several ex-Los Angeles players with him.

Still the turf is just what Csonka, Morris and Kiick want.

"We don't plan to make any adjustments for Morris," defensive captain Jack Pardee of the Redskins declared. "He does everything that Kiick does but he's much more of a break-away threat with his speed."

Miami bases its attack primarily on running and even though quarterback Bob Griese is adept at throwing, the Dolphins will run perhaps 70 per cent of the time.

The Dolphin triumverate must operate against a hefty and experienced Redskin front line and linebacking corps.

Ron McDole, 265, Bill Brundige, 270, Diron Talbert, 255, and Verlong Biggs, 275, man the front wall.

With Pardee in the linebacking department are Chris Hanburger and Harold McLinton. Hanburger at 218 is the smallest but fast and tough enough to be All-Pro.

The secondary has Mike Bass and Pat Fischer at cornerbacks and Brig Owens and Rosey Taylor at safety.

The man with the least experience in that defensive unit is McLinton with four seasons behind him. Pardee has 15, McDole, Taylor and Fiserer 12 each.

Little Mint In Ladies Lead

The Little Mint moved into first place all alone in the Ladies Basketball League last night with a 34-16 win over R. B. Jr.-Fleetway. In the other game, Azalea downed Beltone, 36-26.

The win left Little Mint as the only unbeaten team in the league after two games. Both Azalea and Beltone have split their games and R. B. Jr. has yet to win.

In the opening game, Azalea shot away into the lead, building up a 27-10 lead in the first half. Beltone came back to outhit them, 16-9, but it wasn't enough to overcome the lead.

Jo Haubenreiser and Emy Fishel led Azalea with 12 points each, while Sandy Barnhill had 16 to lead Beltone.

The Little Mint outhit R. B. Jr., 17-6 in the first period and was never in trouble after that. They again outscored their opponent, 17-10, in the second half to wrap up the victory and sole possession of first place.

Judy Peele and Margaret Johnson led Little Mint with eight each.

Oakmont Gets Win

Oakmont Baptist remained unbeaten in the Church Basketball League last night with a 59-34 romp over winless Trinity. Oakmont now posts a 3-0 record, tieing Black Jack for first place. Trinity is now 0-4.

Oakmont jumped off to an early lead and built up a 28-12 margin in the first half of play. They continued to pull away from Trinity in the second half, outscoring them, 31-22, to win the game handily.

Bobby Hall led Oakmont with 17 points, while Bobby Tungstall had 11 and Doyle Daughtry had 10. For Trinity, Jim Adams had 18 and John Banks had 10.

J.C. Snead's 62 Grabs Golf Lead

By BOB GREEN ....
Associated Press Golf Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "Well," said J. C. Snead in the same soft drawl his uncle, Sam Snead, uses, "if I improve a couple of strokes I should be alright."

He said it with a big smile stretched across his face.

J.C.—it stands for Jesse Carlysle—had just put together a brilliant eight-under-par 62 Thursday for the first-round lead in the $150,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

After making the turn at 30, he admitted he had visions of shooting a 59 on the 6,216-yard Arizona Country Club course, which would have been an all-time tour record.

"I've shot 29 on that back side before," he said. "I told myself, if you've got any guts at all you'll do it again."

But it was not to be.

The 30-year-old former professional baseball player birdied the 10th and 11th to go seven under par, got it to eight with a 20-foot birdie putt on the 13th hole and needed to birdie three of the next five to become the first touring player in history to break 60. But he was bunkered on the 14th, lipped out a birdie putt on the 15th and really didn't have a good opportunity on the last three holes.

Even though his total was the best in the last 12 months on the pro tour, Snead held only a one stroke lead as more than half the field of 144 matched or better par on the flat little desert layout.

Dale Douglass, fighting his way out of a year-long slump, birdied his last four holes for a 63 and second place a couple of former Oklahoma State teammates—Grier Jones and Bob Dickson—followed at 64.

Dave Hill and Gary Groh were next at 65 with Tommy Aaron, Bert Yancy and Jim Hardy at 66. Rod Funseth, winner of last week's Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open and 10 others were at 67.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and Bill Casper are not competing in this event, the second of the year on the pro tour.

UNVEILS NEW CAR

LONDON (AP) — European Formula II championship winner John Surtees will unveil a new version of the car that gained him the 1972 title. Designated the TS-15, the sleek new racer will be powered by an all-aluminum engine said to develop 270 brake horsepower.

Driver Mike Hailwood took the 1972 Formula II title for his team boss driving a TS10. In 1973 Hailwood and Carlos Pace of Brazil will again team up for Surtees who has now virtually retired from the cockpit to devote more time to developing cars bearing his name.

NEW YORK (AP) — Braulio Baeza, a leading figure in thoroughbred racing for more than a decade, was named today as winner of an Eclipse Award as the outstanding jockey of 1972.

The Panamanian began riding in the United States in 1960 and four times as been the leading money winning jockey. His mounts have earned more than $24 million.

Some 1972 highlights for Baeza were several stakes victories on Key To The Mint, the Eclipse Award winner as the best 3-year-old colt; triumphs aboard Droll Role in the Canadian International Championship and the Washington, D.C., International and a winning ride on Roberto in England's prestigious Benson & Hedges Gold Cup.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The first live telecast ever received in Alaska's capital will be Sunday's Super Bowl football game from Los Angeles.

Ken Wiley of KINY-TV in Juneau announced Thursday that the Washington-Miami game will be shown at 12:30 P.M. local time.

The telecast will be beamed off a satellite over the North Pacific with the aid of Defense Department facilities, Wiley said.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF PROPERTY IN PITT COUNTY

The listing of property for tax purposes in Pitt County will begin January 2, 1973, and will continue through January 31, 1973. No extension may be granted unless the County Commissioners extend the listing period for all taxpayers.

Any person, firm or corporation owning property in this county as of January 1, 1973, whether real or personal, must list such property within the listing period or be subject to the penalties prescribed by North Carolina Law. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

Persons who requested to list by mail should receive their listing forms early in January. These must be completed and returned to the office of the Tax Supervisor before the deadline of January 31, 1973.

Bring your social security number and your motor vehicle registration cards with you when you come to list.

Owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space for three or more house trailers or mobile homes are required by law to furnish the Tax Supervisor of the county in which the lot is located, the name of the owner and a description of each trailer or mobile home situated thereon. This list must be submitted by January 15, of each year. Owners and operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of the tax in addition to a penalty of $250.00

SENIOR CITIZEN'S EXEMPTION

North Carolina Law allows an exemption of $5000.00 from the appraised value of the principal place of residence of certain retired persons with a total annual income of not more than $3500.00. If you are 65 years of age, own your home, and your income is not more than $3500.00 you should inquire about this exemption at the time you list your tax, or contact the Tax Supervisor.

Diets Work IF Rigidly Heeded

Edna must realize that it isn't a diet chart but her "100 percent vow" that will lop off her ugly blubber! Then she'll be far more alluring as "cheesecake" in the boudoir. While it is cool weather, use my drugless dehydration diet plan!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-593: Edna P., aged 33, is horrified by her mirror!

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "I look like that 'waddling walrus' description you often use for obese wives.

"And I h - te myself for being so sloppy fat!

"Why, when I was first married, I weighed only 120.

"But look at me now -42 pounds later on!

"At 162, I resemble a hippo or the GOP elephant.

"Some of my friends are urging me to join a new dieting club but they gave me 3 whole pages of typed menus.

"That's too discouraging, for I'd waste my entire morning trying to figure out my day's calories.

"Isn't there some simpler way to take off ugly blubber?

"For my husband now gives me only dutiful little pecks on my cheek, instead of thriller-diller movie kisses!"

Simplified Dieting

Most of the highly publicized modern diets will lop off fat, IF.

And that big "IF" means, if you follow them rigidly!

Personally, I perfer my simplified dehydration plan for losing weight for it doesn't waste your time trying to concoct special menus.

Instead, you merely use your simple arithmetic.

Women dieters thus limit themselves to a total of 800 calories per day; men, to 1,200.

And you need not feel empty or starved, either, for you can pick out "filling" food with low calories!

For example, an average banana counts approximately 100 calories. So does a small hot dog.

And a hard boiled egg is 75 calories.

A full cut (8 ounces) of cottage cheese rates 200 calories, but will fill the stomach quite well, even for a man!

In my case, I'd fill a cup with cottage cheese; then eat half of it.

Next, I'd add a teaspoonful of honey or strawberry jam to the rest of the cottage cheese and call it dessert.

Such a spoonful of honey, sugar or jam counts merely an extra 25 calories.

But the main value of this dehydration diet is the fact you limit your fluid input to but one full glass of total liquids the first day, then 2 glasses the 2nd, and 3 glasses through the 10th day.

You'll then be down at least 10 pounds in the first 10 days.

And that's the tonic needed by all dieters, for unless you can show a quick weight loss, you give up easily.

After the 10th day, you women are then entitled to 1,200 calories; men to 1,600 calories, with not restriction on fluid intake.

Green beans, clery, raw cabbage, lettuce, etc., are rather filling and very low in calories, so use them to supplement your boiled egg, hot dog or hamburger and cottage cheese protein input.

All dieters should consume at least 400 calories worth of protein daily to replace the worn out muscle fibers, especially of the heart.

For there is no storage of protein, though our bodies all contain plenty of fat and sugar!

Besides, protein loses 15 percent of its calories during digestion!

It's the only food that does so!

Send for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and slenderize.

You'll lower your blood pressure; feel peppier and be far more alluring "cheesecake" in the boudoir!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Radio Time For LINC

DURHAM — A new radio feature series produced by the Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC) is making its debut on 45 stations across the state, including Radio WNCT — Greenville, which will air the program each Sunday at 10:15 a.m.

The series New Dimensions in Education is offered as a public service by LINC and the participating stations. The weekly five-minute program series examines current issues and topics in North Carolina education.

The series covers all levels of education, ranging from the preschool through the university levels. Denny Mills, a Charlotte radio announcer, is host for the series.

Topics in the series include open education, individualized instruction, teacher certification, educational accountability, career education, preschool education, and parent involvement in schools.

John Niblock, LINC director of public information services, is scriptwriter and producer for the series.

Opening lead: Deuce of ◇ Quick thinking and accurate counting by East were the essential ingredients of an effective defense against South's six heart contract.

North was not strong enough to show his second suit after his partner responded with one spade inasmuch as a rebid of two hearts would force South to the three level to merely show a preference for clubs. This call, known in the trade as a "reverse" is usually based on a holding worth 19 points.

North contented himself with a simple rebid of two clubs. Responder showed his second suit by bidding two hearts, and North indicated his excellent fit by jumping to game. South checked back for aces and when his partner showed two, he proceeded to six hearts.

West opened the deuce of diamonds and East put up the jack which dislodged declarer's ace. South drew trumps in three rounds, cashed the queen of clubs and then crossed over to dummy to run the rest of the suit.

Declarer discarded two diamonds and one spade from his hand and then led a small spade from dummy. East had been following the proceedings closely, and on the basis of the auction and play he was able to reconstruct declarer's holding with complete accuracy.

South had started with four hearts, three diamonds and two clubs and, therefore, four spades—one of which had just been sluffed on the long clubs. East realized that if he put up the ace of spades on the lead from dummy, and declarer held the king which seemed likely from the auction, then the defense would take no more tricks. South would be in position to cash the spade king and trump out his remaining spade.

East concluded that the only chance for his side was if West held the queen of spades and declarer was subjected to a guess in the suit. When the small spade was led he, therefore, played the five without a betraying hesitation.

South was called on to make a winning decision. He reasoned that East was more apt to have the queen than the ace when he ducked, and on this basis declarer played the ten from his hand. West was in with the queen of spades and the king of diamonds was returned to drive out South's remaining trump. A spade was ruffed in dummy, however East took the setting trick with the queen of diamonds.

If East had located his spade control by doing his thinking after North led the four, and then ducking—declarer would have been alerted to put up the king from his hand. After ruffing a spade, he is in position to concede the other spade inasmuch as he already has his 12 tricks.

Nearly Half Are WomenWorkers

MOSCOW (UPI) —Women's lib has triumphed in the Soviet Union where almost half the workers are women.

The USSR has 45 per cent more workers than the United States. Agricultural areas account for much of this abundance in employment.

Studies Confirm Therapy Value

NEW YORK (UPI) —The National Health Education Committee reports that large-scale, well-controlled studies have confirmed the finding that there is a marked reduction in the recurrence rate, hospitalization and death rate of patients who have suffered from myocardial infarction—if they are controlled on long-term anticoagulant therapy for at least two years.

Marijuana Possession

Pitt County Deputies and ABC officers arrested three persons Thursday at a S. Pitt Street address on marijuana possession charges.

Arrested on a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute were Suzanne Dixon Hall of Richmond, Va., Samuel Mitchel Purcell III of Salisbury, and David Joe Wysor of Bluefield W. Va. Purcell was also charged according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, with possession of a pistol without a permit.

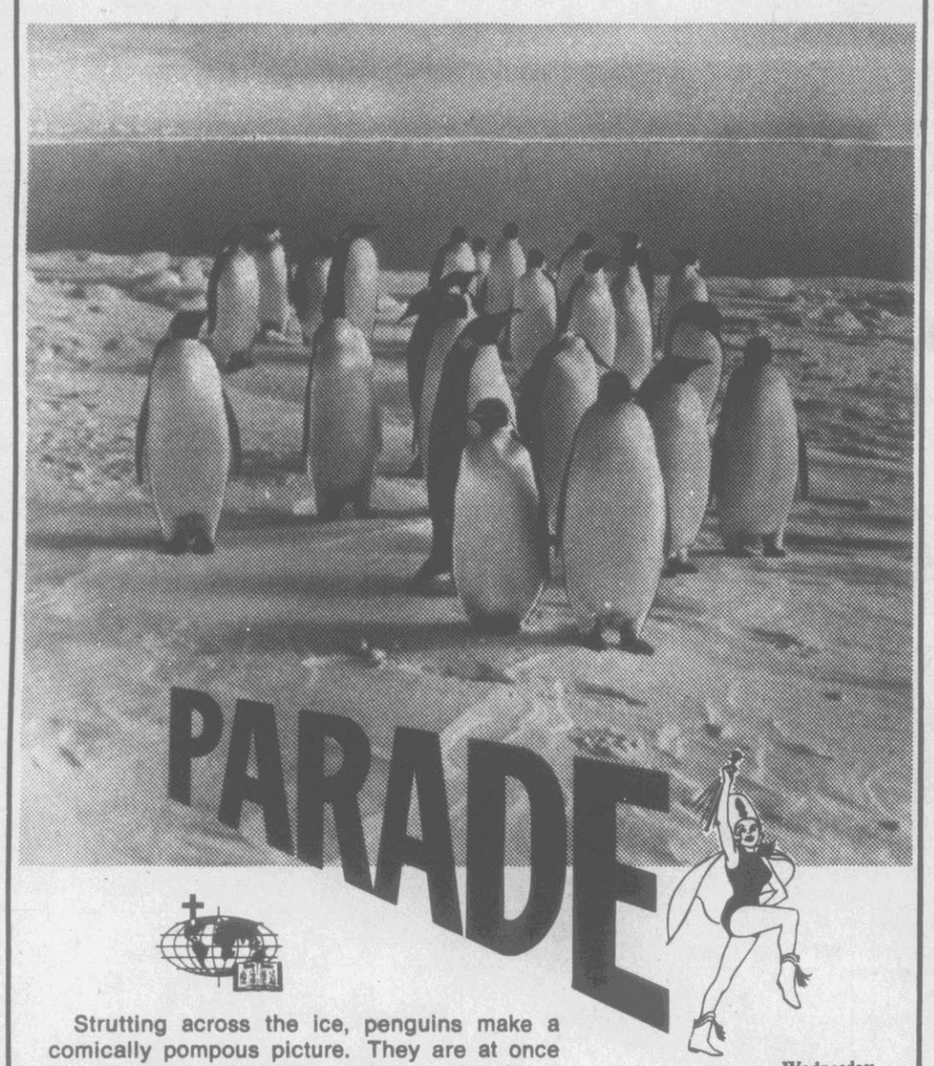

Sheriff Tyson, who noted that Purcell and Wysor are East Carolina University students and Miss Hall attends the University of Virginia, said that the arrests were made at 307 S. Pitt Street around 12:10 a.m..

Bond for each person was set at $5,000 and a hearing for each has been scheduled for Feb. 26 in District Court here.

Officers consficated approximately one pound of marijuana, worth about $180, and one pistol, the sheriff added.

OIL SHARES

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) —Oil industry sources indicate Italy's stateowned ENI and the Japanese are showing interest in participating in Russia's proposed pipeline from Tyumen field in Siberia to the port of Nakhodka on the Sea of Japan.

Strutting across the ice, penguins make a comically pompous picture. They are at once dignified and ridiculous, and if we look at them very long, they remind us uncomfortably of ourselves!

We, too, are apt to mass together on occasion and to be, perhaps, a little ludicrous in our efforts to be "part of the scene." Sometimes following the leader may, indeed, be the best thing to do. But it can also be the easy way out.

Today, especially, we need the courage of our convictions. We need to stand up for what we truly believe in. We need to do the important things.

Like going to church.

Questions And Answers On Wage-Price Rules

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Details of President Nixon's new system of wage-price controls are not firm, but here are some likely questions and answers based on the announced guidelines.

The gist of the new Phase 3 controls is that they will be largely voluntary, with the government standing by to step in if wages or prices rise too much too quickly.

Q. Can a company raise its prices without government approval now that the mandatory nature of controls has been eliminated?

A. Yes, unless it is in the food or construction industry or provides health services, but the government says it will step in if price increases get out of line and violate voluntary standards.

Q. What are the voluntary standards for wage increases?

A. The standard is still 5.5 per cent until a labor-management advisory committee named by the President works out a new standard.

Q. What are the voluntary standards for price increases in Phase 3?

A. Roughly the same as they are now. Companies will be expected to justify their price increases with legitimate costs. They will be expected by the government to comply with a profit-margin limitation, holding their margins to the average they maintained during the best two of the last four fiscal years. They can escape profit-margin restraints by keeping price increas to an average 1.5 per cent a year.

Q. How will the government see to it that these voluntary standards are followed?

A. In several ways. First, large companies with sales of $250 million or more must file quarterly reports with the government on price changes and profit margins. Those with sales of more than $50 million will be required to keep the records of these changes and make them available on demand.

In addition, the Internal Revenue Service will continue its spot checks to find out if anyone is out of line.

Q. What about 1 other companies, those with sales of under $50 million?

A. The government claims that the inflation problem is concentrated in the large industries. But it says it can step in with enforcement moves if wage and price increases become a problem.

Q. How will wage boosts be watched?

A. All employe units of 1,000 or more employes will be required to keep records of wage increases and must produce them on request. All units of 5,000 or more employes will be required to file wage-increase reports with the Cost of Living Council. Smaller employe units will be exempt from making these reports.

Q. Who is running the program?

A. The Pay Board and Price Commission have been abolished, and their functions transferred to the Cost of Living Council. The council will oversee continued mandatory controls in the food and health areas.

Q. What about rent controls?

A. They are abolished.

Q. What about the hundreds of price-increase requests before the Price Commission and wage boosts before the Pay Board?

A. The government says that it will clear out these requests during a 90-day period. But, for all practical purposes, the controls are off. A company with a request pending, if it thinks it can prove it is within the standards, can go ahead and raise prices without prior government approval.

Q. How will the government punish a violator?

A. The Cost of Living Council can issue a temporary order setting interim wage and price levels, set a price ceiling, and even roll back price or wage increases that violate the voluntary standards.

Q. But aren't the standards really mandatory then?

A. Perhaps. It's the "stick-in-the-closet" approach. The system will depend on how tough the government is in enforcing the "voluntary" standards.

Q. Are all food prices controlled?

A. All but those at the farm level, where they have gone up the most.

Q. How can a consumer tell if a price increase he notices at the department store is wthin the voluntary standard?

A. It won't be easy. The price standards are so complex that only an accountant, and the IRS, can figure out if the increase is legal. The IRS will still handle complaints from consumers.

Disappointed By Pitt Grand Jury

D. D. Garrett, president of the Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, expressed "disappointment" in the outcome of a Grand Jury hearing into the death of a local Negro shot by a police officer here December 6.

In a news conference, Garrett said, "I am disappointed in the decision of the Grand Jury," which found "not a true bill", thus clearing the policeman involved in the shooting.

"We Negroes," he said, "do not have the confidence in this system. Where there is no trust, there can be no respect."

The NAACP head said "I feel as though Chief (Glenn) Cannon should be responsible for the conduct of his staff. If he cannot control them, he should be fired immediately.

"As long as this system supports its policemen in killing black young men in the line of duty," Garrett emphasized, "the blacks will need to stick together in order to support one another."

Garrett said the next step being planned is "to seek injunction against the city to stop the use of public funds to support a racist police system."

to how long and hard you have tried, you have consistently failed."

In his statement, Carter cited the council's "inability to represent all the people in the city," and made reference to Mayor West's statement relative to hoodlum elements among the black population, and the action of the City Council in supporting the Police Department "during a time when, as representatives of all the peoples of the community, you should remain entirely neutral."

One of the main points at issue, both in Carter's prepared statements and in remarks of other persons making statements centered on the SBI report.

"You tell the people of Greenville.....that in order to insure that justice prevails you have asked the State SBI to conduct an impartial investigation," Carter read from his statement. Carter said of the SBI report that it was "probably watered down through local political manipulations."

The legality of the SBI report not being available to members of governing bodies, such as the members of the City Council was questioned. There were also questions raised about the legality of spending tax-money to defend the policeman involved in the case.

Cox and other members of the council asserted they had no more information about the facts of the case than did the average citizen. Council members confirmed they were not familiar with the contents of the report made by the Greenville City Police department on the incident.

Councilman Clarence Gray said he has asked Police Chief Glenn Cannon for a copy of the police report but had been denied it.

City Manager Carstarphen noted that he had been furnished a copy and that any member of the City Council could have had access to it if they had requested it.

On this point, Myron Caspar said he was concerned that "the City Council seems to know no more than what I know." Addressing the City Manager, Caspar asked "Am I to understand you did not request a report to share with the City Council? It seems to me," he continued, "if we are going to have respect for the law, for the City Council, we have got to assume you're doing your job."

Several times spokesmen expressed concern about what they termed irrational actions on the part of police members, black as well as white.

The Rev. Albert Williams told of a recent incident in which he said he was harrassed by a Negro policeman. "A few weeks ago I was assaulted by a black policeman," he said, "not through hatred, but because the man was trying to overdo his job."

Williams said a friend of his asked "do you want me to get the boys, get the gang?" Instead, Williams related, "I went to the Police Chief." Williams said after hearing the facts, Chief Cannon told the policeman he owned an apology to Williams.

Carter, Rev. William Moore, Rev. Williams and other spokesman all emphasized that there is an urgent need for more facts available to the public on the case.

This will be the purpose of the special meeting scheduled for tonight, to provide interested citizens with information contained in the report compiled by the Greenville City Police on the December 6 incident.

Plaque Given To Retiree

Employees of the North Carolina State Highway Commission's Maintenance Department recently honored D.F. Johnson, 66, of 809 E. First St. at a dinner celebrating his retirement.

D.F. JOHNSON

Johnson, who retired as supervisor of the Maintenence Department after 49 years with the Highway Commission in Pitt County, was presented a plaque for his years of service from division engineer, C.W. Snell. The employees of the commission also presented him a gift.

Approximately 90 people attended the dinner which was held at Parker's Barbecue. Included among the guests were his wife and two children.

Driver Injured In Wreck Here

No charges were reported in a 1 a.m. mishap here this morning that injured one man and caused an estimated $1,100 property damage.

Officers reported a car driven by James G. Smith III, 35 of Oakmont Square Apts. went out of control on N.C. 43 near the intersection of Southview Drive. and before coming to rest, struck a utility pole guy-wire and a tree. The vehicle traveled some 254 feet out of control, investigators reported.

Damages was set at $1,000 to the car and $100 to the guy-wire.

Smith was reported injured in the mishap.
