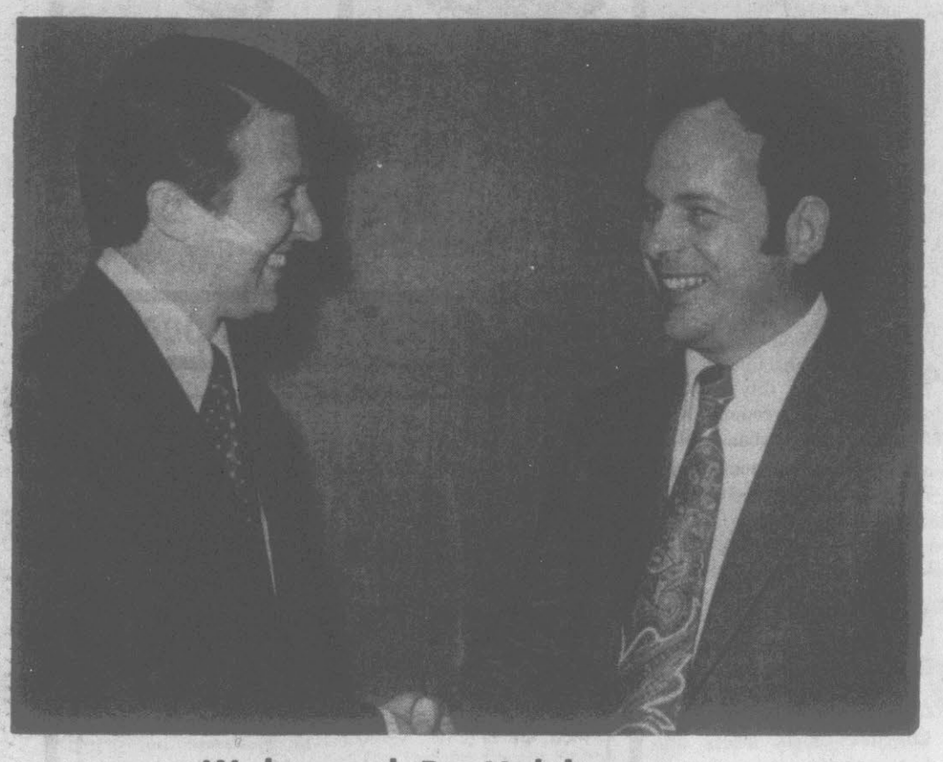
Kissinger Reporting To President

Peace Breakthrough Speculation Is High



Welcomed By Holshouser

WELCOME ABOARD — Governor James Holshouser congratulates Robert R. Browning of Greenville after the latter was sworn in as a member of the State Highway Commission in Raleigh. Browning was one of the 23 new commissioners Holshouser appointed Thursday. They will serve with Bruce A. Lentz, secretary of transportation and highway safety, who will be chairman of the commission.

By GERARD LOUGHRAN

PARIS (UPI) — White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger ended six days of "very useful" negotiations with Hanoi officials Saturday and flew to Florida to report to President Nixon amid speculation of a breakthrough toward peace.

North Vietnam said the talks had "made progress."

Kissinger completed a 7½-hour marathon session with North Vietnamese negotiators Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy— their longest session of the week—and all three emerged smiling and waving to newsmen.

The chief U.S. negotiator then told an airport news conference: "Special adviser Le Duc Tho and I have just completed very extensive, very useful negotiations."

"I shall be returning to Washington to report to the President," Kissinger said. "The President will then decide what next step should be taken to speed a peace of justice and of conciliation.

In the meantime, Kissinger said, Undersecretary of State for Southeast Asian Afairs William H. Sullivan will stay on in Paris to continue technical level negotiations with Hanoi's Nguyen Co Thach.

"Special adviser Le Duc Tho is also remaining in Paris," Kissinger said. "He and I will be in closest contact through our usual channels."

Kissinger, who looked breezy and not at all tired after his 34 hours of talks since Monday, concluded: "That's all I have to say."

North Vietnamese delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le issued a special communique saying: "The private contacts this week between special adviser Le Duc Tho, Minister Xuan Thuy and Henry Kissinger have made progress."

It was the first time the Vietnamemese Communists have ever announced progress after a round of private Paris negotiations.

The North Vietnamese statement also said that tehcnical experts from the two sides would meet again Monday morning at Gif-sur-Yvette, 15 miles from Paris.

Kissinger left at 7:45 p.m. (1:45 p.m. EST) aboard his special U.S. Air Force jetliner en route to Homestead Air Force Base, Fla., to review the result of his 34 hours of talks this week with President Nixon at Key Biscayne. The Florida White House, which was the first to disclose Kissinger's return to the United States, described the latest round of Paris negotiations as "serious."

In Paris conference sources said the U.S. embassy's official photographer and a Hanoi delegation photographer were summoned to Saturday's unusually long meeting at St.-Nom-laBreteche, west of Paris, in a villa owned by a wealthy American industralist.

U.S. and Hanoi spokesmen said they could not say whether there was a breakthrough in the talks. But French radio reports said the latest Kissinger –Tho talks could mark the turning point in the search for a negotiated settlement.

Europe Number One, a privately owned radio station, quoted French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann as saying he may yet win his bet that peace will be made before President Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20 to a second term.

The newspaper Le Figaro reported from Saigon that according to information available to South Vietnamese authorities, the North Vietnamese have made concessions in the military field.

The newspaper said, however, that the Hanoi Communists have failed to budge from their position over the ultimate political settlement in South Vietnam.

Some French press and radio reports said Hanoi now would be amendable to agree to a much larger number of members of the international control commission expected to police a cease-fire than the 250 men North Vietnam was prepared to accept at the beginning.

Technical experts and advisers from both sides also attended Saturday's meeting. It was the second time since Monday that the experts had done so. They have been holding daily private meetings since Jan. 2 averaging eight hours a day to put together detailed protocols to go with the basic peace and cease-fire treaty.

The meeting followed more than six hours of talks Friday between Kissinger and Tho on Communist ground in keeping with the principle of rotating the sessions.

Newsmen watching Friday's drawn-out meeting at Gif-surYvette, in a villa willed to the French Communist party by the late Cubist Painter Fernand Leger, reported an unusual number of arrivals and departures of messengers in speeding cars. At one moment two typewriters under beige plastic wraps were brought to the modest red-roofed mansion guarded round the clock by French police.

Special Wage Board For Food Industry Considered

By GENE CARLSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration hopes to set up a special wage stabilization board for the food industry in a further attempt to bring rising food prices under control, according to Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz.

The food board would be patterned after the successful Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC) which in the past two years has helped reduce the wage rates of hard-hat construction workers nearly to the prevailing pay scales for the economy as a whole.

The CISC was originated and directed by John T. Dunlop. As the new director of the Cost of Living Council, Dunlop would be in an ideal spot to oversee a similar effort in the food industry.

Shultz told a small group of reporters Friday that both union and management representatives have put forth the idea of a joint food industry wage board.

"We're quite ready to sit down and try to work it out," Shultz said.

Some Optimism For ECU Medical School Despite Report By Board

Following the recommendation of the study committee of the State's educational Board of Governors to withhold for the time being the expansion of the School of Medicine at ECU so that serious consideration can be directed to a new degree-granting school of medicine within the entire state university system, a number of local officials have been contacted and asked for brief comments.

Generally, those contacted sound a somewhat hopeful note for expansion of the School of Medicine at East Carolina University despite the report.

Noting that the report was only received on Friday, Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs at East Carolina University, Dr. Edwin Monroe remarked: "From the preliminary hearing on the report, the eventual development of a degree granting medical school at ECU looks pretty hopeful."

State Representative Horton Rountree, commenting on the affair, first reiterated some of the initial efforts to establish a School of Medicine at ECU.

"I served on a commission studying the shortage of rural medical doctors in 1968," Rountree said. "As a result of the study we found that a degree granting medical school would be needed and found further that the shortage of medical doctors was even greater than had first been thought.

"As a result," Rountree continued, "Hugh Johnson of Duplin and me introduced legislation to increase the number of students entering UNC Medical School. An amount of $10.2 million was appropriated, and we also introduced legislation to underwrite students entering Duke and Bowman Gray Medical Schools.

"The report of the committee of the Board of Governors," Rountree commented, "is no different from the report of 1968."Rountree mentioned too that in 1971 $375,000 had been appropriated to get a two-year medical school at ECU started.

"The General Assembly was pressured by the consolidated University of North Carolina and the UNC Medical School to only have a one-year medical school at ECU.

"At this late hour," Rountree continued, "the Board of Governors are acting politically to delay further what the General Assembly said should be done when Walter Jones got the original bill passed.

"The shortage still exists," Rountree said, "and we are still short of meeting the demand for medical care, which has increased."

Rountree said "they have stacked the study committee more with two persons who have proven to be adamantly against any progress for ECU in a medical school, a degree-granting program, or anything else.

"If they want to play politics," Rountree concluded, "we in the East and West will also play the game."

State Senator Vernon White avowed he is "disappointed in the report itself. The bright part of the picture," White said, " is that I see the recommending of establishing of a four year medical school. In my opinion, ECU is the logical place if and when it comes.

"The other bright part of the picture," White said, "is that the committee did not go on record as opposing the idea of other medical schools."

Representative Sam Bundy expressed his feeling by saying "I was very much disappointed by the recommendation of the board. "I was hoping the subcommittee report would go for two years now, later to four years. It would be no more involved, and I feel a two year program now is well worth the effort."

Post-Midnight Meeting Spurs Cautious Hope

By EUGENE V. RISHER

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger flew here from Paris Saturday for an unusual post-midnight meeting with President Nixon, raising new hopes that peace is near in Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese confirmed "progress" had been made in the talks, and Kissinger, before leaving Paris, said: "Special Adviser Le Duc Tho and I have just completed very extensive, very useful negotiations."

Adding fuel to speculation that peace might be near, Nixon also summoned to the post-midnight conference Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., Kissinger's deputy and the man who has served as the chief liaison between Washington and Saigon.

Haig, recently promoted to full general and named vice chief of staff of the Army, would be the likely envoy to present any proposed accord to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu —a step that would precede any final agreement.

Despite Kissinger's late arrival, at approximately 1 a.m., a helicopter stood by to fly him directly from Homestead Air Force Base, south of Miami, to the presidential compound.

U.S. officials, fearful of generating the kind of euphoria that gripped the nation following Kissinger's assertion last Oct. 26 that "peace was at hand," said a tentative agreement had not yet been signed.

This would appear to rule out an end to the fighting before Nixon's inauguration for his second term Jan. 20.

But White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler emphasized that the week's talks had been "serious" —a word that in the past indicated sessions in which substantial progress has been made.

Ziegler also aroused reporters from their beds before dawn today to advise them that Kissinger was returning for talks with the President. He announced several hours later that Haig would be on hand when Kissinger arrived.

Ziegler turned aside all other questions about the unexpected development, declining to say whether Kissinger would be returning to Paris for further talks or whether Haig would be heading for Saigon.

Kissinger's return was the latest high mark in the efforts to end the longest and one of the costliest wars in U.S. history.

Five Major Grievances Discussed At Special Council Session

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Five major grievances, listed by Rev. Albert Williams as ones that most disturb Black residents of Greenville, and presented as the basis of requests for positive consideration by the City Council, were later reiterated by Edward Carter who asked that the council consider them as demands, not merely requests or grievances.

The five items are: To stop calling in the State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) to investigate incidents that may occur unless absolutely necessary; that Mayor S. Eugene West issue a statement of apology for his earlier reference to citizens of the black community as hoodlums; that the Human Relations Council be revamped; that police officer Charles A. Williamson be kept out of the black community; and that if any member of the City Council feels he does not have the interest of the entire community at heart that he or she get off the council.

The requests-demands were made during a three hour plus session at City Hall Friday night. The special session had been scheduled by the City Council at the regular January meeting on Thursday night at the request of Edward Carter and other spokesmen.

The primary issue on Thursday night focused on what spokesmen said was the lack of information bearing on the facts connected with the December 6 incident in which police officer Williamston shot and killed 22 year old Connie James.

City Manager William Carstarphen on Thursday night said there would be a report available Friday night outlining the Greenville City Police report on the incident.

At the special session of the City Council on Friday night, Carstarphen cited three documents—a press release statement; a memorandum written Friday by Police Chief Glenn Cannon to the city manager; and a copy of the January 8, 1973 bill of indictment on the defendant, Williamson.

In both the press release and the memorandum written by Chief Cannon, times and circumstances of the incident were related. Cannon, in his memorandum, stated that he had immediately contacted SBI agents Bill Dowdy and Warren Campbell advising them of the incident after having interviewed officer Williamson and Sergeant David R. Bullock.

The chief pointed out that based on "the fact that a case is pending in civil court against Officer Williamson, Sergeant Bullock and myself, I have been advised by legal counsel that I am not at liberty to divulge the findings of the investigation made by the Greenville Police Department."

Carter, Williams and others expressed dissatisfaction with the report made by the city manager, saying it gave them nothing new.

In asking that the council consider Williams grievances as demands, Carter stated "I would like to paraphrase that list of grievances, and make that demands." He added other demands of his own.

"I demand that you do not use public funds to support Williamson, and I further demand that you show through the newsmedia what positive action you have taken to resolve these iniquities."

Carter, who is a member of the Greenville City School Board, was on Friday night, as on Thursday, the principal spokesmen for the citizens attending the meeting.

Speaking of the Human Relations Council, he extended an invitation to Jesse Harris, Executive Director of the Human Relations, "to attend our meetings provided you come as an individual, not as a flunkey of the mayor." To Mayor West he stated, "I demand that you place a person in charge of Human Relations who doesn't work for you." (Harris is a salaried employee of the city.)

The mayor and city manager explained that although Harris is a full time salaried employee, he works out his own programs and that his actions are not controlled by the mayor, city manager or members of the city council.

Following several questions asking why the mayor and members of the city council had only limited authority relative to rules and regulations governing police conduct of duty, City Attorney David Reid told the audience "the city council has only powers specifically authorized by the State of North Carolina....it has no inherent powers except those granted by the state...it makes ordinances, laws and rules governing the City of Greenville. It has no authority to make rules respecting legal rights on crimes or misdemeanors."

Reid informed that action on part of the city council is limited to situations not involving more than a maximum of 30 days in jail or a fine of $50.

Reid said that the city council had the authority to make certain rules and regulations governing conduct of police officers provided they were not in conflict with existing state laws.

The city attorney concluded that "your council is doing what it ought to do, listening to people. They are in a position imposed on them by state law."

In response to Carter's question "under what authority does the City Council take public funds to support this officer," it was revealed that such action is an established unwritten policy matter. The City Manager said no written policy on such use of funds exists.

Meany Warns 'Poverty Level' Edging Up On Minimum Wages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless the minimum wage is lifted well above $2 an hour, some full-time workers will fall below the government's new definition of the poverty level, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Saturday.

Under new figures released earlier this month, a nonfarm family of four needs an income of at least $4,200 a year to be considered out of poverty—an increase of $200 over last year.

Meany said full-time workers making the present minimum wage of $1.50 an hour would be paid $3,328 a year, $872 below the official poverty line for a family of four.

Even the $2 minimum wage proposed last year by President Nixon and passed by the House would provide an income of only $4,160 a year, still short of the poverty line.

A family of five at the present minimum wage would fall $1,597 short of being out of poverty and would still be $765 short at $2 an hour. A family of six would be $2,222 short at the present minimum wage and $1,390 short at $2.00.

Meany, addressing a union meeting at the Hilton Hotel here, set no specific target for a new minimum wage level, saying only that $2 was not enough and the AFL-CIO would fight hard in Congress this year for a minimum wage above the government poverty level.

The Senate last year approved a $2.20 minimum, but the legislation died when the Senate and House couldn't compromise differences.

"We're not talking about welfare chiselers or loafers or people who don't believe in the so-called work ethic," Meany said in remarks prepared for a dinner honoring the retirement of the top two officers of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers —President Jacob Potofsky and Secretary-Treasurer Frank Rosenblum.

"We're talking about people who believe so much in the work ethic that they go out and work 40 hours a week, 52 weeks a year, and come home with a poverty pay check."

As a result, some full-time workers have to supplement their paychecks with government welfare, Meany said, and "that means the taxpayers have to foot the bill because employers won't pay decent wages."

Meany noted the arguments of business and other opponents that a higher minimum wage would eliminate jobs and increase inflation.

"What these arguments boil down to is the idea that our economic system can't function unless there are millions of wage earners living in poverty," he said. "But whatever system we have in America, we insist that it work for all of the people—not just for the privileged few."

Accused Slayer Is Hospitalized

By JAMES BAPIS

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Juan V. Corona suffered a possible heart attack, casting doubt Saturday on the outcome of his trial on charges of killing 25 men in the nation's largest mass murder.

Attorneys were not certain whether prolonged confinement of Corona in a hospital might cause a mistrial.

The jury was not aware of the defendant's condition, but Corona's attorney, Richard Hawk, said he would not waive his client's right to be present if the jury returns to court for further instructions or rereading of testimony. Corona also has the right to be in the court room for a reading of a verdict.

Corona, 38, experienced two heart attacks in the months after his arrest May 26, 1971, and the seriousness of sharp pains he suffered Friday night was uncertain.

He was kept in bed at the California Medical Facility 10 miles away at Vacaville, where he has been in custody when court is not in session.

Dr. Maurice F. Stock, Vacaville medical officer, said: "We are not certain whether it is an actual heart attack or anginal pain."

Anginal pain would be the result of insufficient blood supply to the heart muscle. A heart attack would involve permanent damage to the muscle.

Hawk said another Vacaville physician told him that anginal pain likely would require seven to 10 days of bed rest. A heart attack would require three to four weeks in bed.

Doctors said the extent of the defendant's illness would not be known for 24 to 48 hours.

Asked if the heart trouble resulted from tension over a verdict, Hawk said:

"That is exactly right. That is why I never put him on the stand. He never could have withstood the attack the district attorney would have put him under."

The trial of Corona, who has been in custody for 599 days, was delayed by his previous heart attacks. Then the proceedings were moved from Yuba City 90 miles away to Fairfield because an appellate court held that publicity had impaired his chance for a fair trial in his home county.

The trial began Sept. 11, and the jury began its deliberations Thursday.

Corona, a Mexican-born labor contractor, was arrested five days after deputy sheriffs dug up the first of 25 bodies found in shallow graves along the Feather River near Yuba City.

All the victims were itinerant farm workers, and some never were identified. All were hacked, stabbed or shot to death.

Key evidence in the trial included blood-stained shorts and tools found in Corona's possession, numerous knives and a green ledger containing names of some victims.

The defense, which called no witnesses, said the investigation of the murders was inept.

Shot Outside Courtroom

DURHAM (AP)—A 48-year-old Wake Forest man was in critical condition at Duke University Hospital Saturday and his sister-in-law has been charged with shooting him just outside a Durham County courtroom.

Patsy Powell, 28, of Durham, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, inflicting serious injury, on Millard Filmore Coley. Mrs. Powell was released under $500 bond.

Hospital officials said Coley had been in surgery twice for his stomach wound.

Mrs. Powell is the daughter of Banks Cates, shot to death Nov. 27 outside Coley's home. The Wake County sheriff's department quoted witnesses who said Cates fired at and missed Coley and that Coley returned the fire.

Cates' family asked that a peace warrant be issued against Coley, but the action was dismissed in Durham District Court Friday just before Coley was shot.

The praying mantis is said to be the only insect able to turn its head.

No ABC Activity

RALEIGH (AP) — Normal shipments of liquor to North Carolina's county ABC stores have not been received this month, and the new state ABC Board has called a meeting Monday to look into the matter, Gov. Jim Holhoiser said Saturday.

Holshouser said in a prepared statement that after the three members of the new board were sworn in Friday, they held a special meeting and were advised by the ABC staff that no shipments had been made this month.

The board was told there had been no activity since Dec. 31 at the Raleigh warehouse facilities of Central Warehouse Inc., which handled storage of all state ABC liquor under contract with the previous board.

Hold Annual Observance

United Methodist women of St. James United Methodist Church will hold one of their most important annual observances this week — The Call to Prayer and Self-Denial.

More than 1.5 million women in 34,000 local units in all 50 states will join in the observance.

The call, inspired by special mission needs and by the opportunities to be made possible, focuses on prayer, a deepened spiritual life and a guided mission study.

Major events of the observance include the Quiet Day and an interpretation of the mission projects in the United States and abroad for which a special offering will be made.

The Call to Prayer and Self-Denial for the women of St. James will be held at 10 a.m. Monday at the church chapel.

School Bd. Agenda Set

The meeting of the Greenville School Board for the month of January, to be held at 8:00 p.m. Monday night, will be at the Sadie Saulter Elementary School.

Agenda items will consist chiefly of regular and carry-forward items of business, such as personnel, school budget-finance, and school facilities. Also, the board's posture-policy on field trips will be reviewed.

On Monday, January 22, a meeting of the school board has been tentatively scheduled (subject to confirmation; to hear presentations from three local architectural and three non-local architectural firms relative to possible contracted services for the middle-junior high school project.

Activities Series Set

A course in the "Activities For Young Children" series is scheduled to begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in room 124 of the Classroom Building at Pitt Technical Institute.

This is a 27-hour course which will meet once a week for nine weeks. The subject matter should be of interest to anyone working with groups of young children.

There is no charge for the course and advance registration is not necessary. Individuals are eligible to attend this class even if they have not attended any of the other sessions.

Course content includes: Music, listening activities, singing, rhythmic activities, rhythm band activities, knowledge of musical instruments, using music to set a mood and musical games; language arts for young children, developing verbal comminication, stories for preschool children; furthering physical development; learning to participate in culture; the importance of play; and a coordinated curriculum.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Pitt Technical Institute.

Sunshine Center To Open Again

The Operation Sunshine Center will open next week now that the snow is disappearing.

According to Linda Harrell, director, said the buss will run according to schedule next week. Transportation home is provided for the girls but they must furnish their own transportation to the center.

"We are looking forward to extra membership of girls between the ages of eight and 14 who live within the city," Miss Harrell said.

Revival Series Begins Monday

GRIMESLAND — Revival services will begin at the Grimesland Pentecostal Holiness Church Monday and continue through Sunday, Jan.21.

The Rev. Bobby Collins of Nakina will be the speaker. Special singing will be rendered by the Williams Trio nightly.

Rev. P. C. Jackson, pastor, invites the public to attend.

City Councilman John Taylor entered a recommendation that the existing unwritten policy be put into writing. "I find it difficult to give support to an idea that is vague and nebulous," he said.

Considerable attention throughout the evening was focused on statements of support of policemen by members of the city government. Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath commented that such action "has to be a decision of the council. As far as I know, we don't have to have a written policy.

She said as long as she held office, "if a man does his job I will support him."

"And I promise I will work against you," Carter replied to Mrs. McGrath.

Several spokesmen, including Carter and Rev. William Moore, declared they did not have faith in the court system.

"We know the kind of people our community selected to appear," (on the grand jury) Moore commented. "Obviously the court knows who to pick. Historically, the sytem has not worked to advantage of black people." Moore said he had more faith in members of the city government. "This is why we are appealing to you. We want to deal directly with you to solve this problem. We think you have the powers, authority, not the court or the state."

"Are you speaking in general, not about this particular case?" Mayor West asked. "My confidence in the courts is not as strong as it should be. If you are talking about better understanding, I think we can accomplish this."

"Specifically," Moore told the mayor, " as long as Williamson is on the force, we can't respect the police department."

Moore said he felt the matter of good judgement on the part of police officers was something the courts could not decide. "A young man of 22 is dead because an officer executed bad judgement," he stated. "I think it is time someone said this. I don't think the officer acted in a manner expected of a officer. If this is the kind of people we have, we are in a bad state of affairs."

Carter, in a statement summing up the purpose of a meeting such as the one Friday night said: "We come as perhaps the most rational group in the black community. I feel everything said here has been in honesty...

"We are the people who have to go back, to tell the people throwing bricks how you feel. I know the mayor stands for what's right I know the people we've appointed (the council) will honestly try to take care of problems," Carter stated.

Carter referred to the December 6 incident. "If I had gone out to tell people throwing bricks to stop, they would have killed me.

"Whom do I....whom do we, turn to?" he asked.

"It is not my desire to fight. I've fought in Veitnam, I've paid my taxes. Regardless of what you think, I'm not a hoodlum.

"It seems to me," Carter stated, "that the only people you respond to are those throwing bricks, hurting people.

"We have two alternatives," Carter said: "You can either turn Greenville over to the real hooodlums, or have constructive people, black and white, get together to effect changes. Anyone who sees a chance to do something and doesn't do it, you are as guilty as anyone. We either live or die together."

Found Victim Frozen To Death

LILLINGTON, N.C.(AP)—Oscar Reid Jackson, a 54-year-old resident of a trailer in a sparsely populated section of Lillington, was found frozen to death 15 feet from his vehicle Friday.

The Harnett County Sheriff's Department said Jackson, who lived alone, apparently went for water and somehow fell while returning. The department said a jug of water had frozen beside his body.

Peace Vigil To Begin Monday

The fast will be climaxed by a silent public vigil for peace on Saturday, President Nixon's inaugural day. The 12 are the Citizens for the Study of Nonviolence.

Dr. Burt Purrington, a professor of anthropology at Appalachian State University and a spokesman, says that for months the members have studied the principles of Jesus, Gandhi, Luther King and others, and have decided to put them into action.

During the week the group intends to consume only water.

TO BE HONORED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It was announced Friday that Rosalind Russell will receive the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award, and Edward G. Robinson a special Oscar for his contributions to the acting art, at the 45th annual Academy Awards ceremony March 27.

PTA Council Meet Monday

The Greenville city-wide PTA Council meeting will be held Monday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium of Wahl-Coates Elementary School.

Presidents of individual PTA groups are asked to have committee chairmen attend the meeting. Other interested persons are also encouraged to attend.

East Has The Votes To Share

More than once Eastern North Carolina has been taken to task by spokesmen in other areas of the state for being backward and unwilling to fight for its own causes.

Sadly, we have to agree that this has been true to some extent. We in Eastern North Carolina too often have been content to take only what is given us by Raleigh, while the populous Piedmont cities went to work to carve up the bulk of whatever state funds were available.

There is much reason to believe now that what has passed as progress in the past—rapid growth, more autos and accompanying pollution—was not really the most desirable course.

Thus the easterner's aversion to helter-skelter growth may now be a real blessing. We have avoided much of the air and water pollution that plagues metropolitan areas, and our scenic wonders have not been chopped apart by super highways. Unfortunately we also have not shared in the higher family incomes that other areas have seen.

Now, however, there is no reason we in the east cannot have the best of both worlds. There are now laws governing the pollution of air and water. We in the east are in a position to attract quality industries which will pay their employees well and still provide for protecting the environment.

On the political side, we think the modern day easterner is far better informed and more aware of his area's needs. So the 20 to 25 percent of the population down here has become a real force which the political animal in Raleigh must listen to, if he expects to survive in state politics.

This new political power of the east will begin to show itself in Raleigh as our elected representatives in the Legislature get the feel of eastern enthusiasm. Often in years gone by, there has been a tendency to trade off eastern votes for relatively paltry expenditures down this way.

If we recognize the political power we have, easterners can force those who plan the state's future to take a true state-wide approach to spending of public funds. Easterners can demand what is needed to build a quality life in our area, if we remain politically aware. We are simply too big a force for the politician to ignore.

We were left out of state planning for many years, and considering the way things went, that may turn out to be a good thing. Now, however we can determine that we will be a part of planning and expenditures. We can have roads which protect the environment and adequate higher education. We have the power to force a restructuring of state government thinking so that the east will be included in these things.

Motor Vehicle Law Revision?

By REGGIE LESTER
(The Durham Sun.)

DURHAM, N.C. — Extensive changes in North Carolina's motor vehicle laws will be recommended to the General Assembly by a legislative study committee.

The "rules of the road" revisions were written by the Legislative Research Commission's committee on motor vehicle laws. Rep. Willis (Bill) Whichard of Durham is chairman of the committee.

If the changes are enacted by the legislature, which convened in Raleigh this week, they will go into effect Jan. 1, 1974.

One of the major changes recommended by the research commission is mandatory revocation of a motorist's license if he refuses to take a breathalyzer test.

Whichard said that under present law refusal to take the test carries a 60-day suspension, but this hinges on conviction for drunk driving.

The motorist who refuses to take the test now is "gambling 60 days against a year" if the driver feels he may get convicted for drunk driving, the second-term representative said.

May Avoid Test

"He may be able to avoid loss of his license for the 60 days if he times his trial right," Whichard said, adding that if the motorist is found innocent of the drunk driving charges, "he may not lose his license at all" for refusing to take the test.

Whichard said under current law "there is no protection (to the motorist) against misrepresentation by a law enforcement officer."

An arrested motorist must be told under the recommended changes that he has a right to refuse to take the breathalyzer test, but to do so means suspension of his license to drive for 60 days.

The law enforcement officer and the breathalyzer operator must sign an affidavit stating that the charged driver refused to take the test, Whichard said.

"There is a built-in warning and two people must certify to the refusal," he said. "We've had some reports of an officer arresting someone unwarrantedly."

The committee's report also states that the motorist may have a "physician, chemist, registered nurse or other qualified person of his own choosing" administer the test. The motorist may call an attorney and select a witness to watch him take the test, but it will not be delayed for more than 30 minutes under the recommended changes.

Other Proposed Changes

Other changes to be recommended by the study group include:

—Creation of a "vehicular homicide" offense that would not require proof of gross negligence for conviction.

The proposal for a "homicide by vehicle" offense is seen as an aid to solicitors who have difficulty obtaining manslaughter convictions in fatal accident cases because of the necessity of proving gross negligence.

Whichard said conviction under the new charge would carry a fine of $500 to $2,000, imprisonment up to five years, or both.

Motorcycle Safety Cited

In addition to the requirement for lights on motorcycles, Whichard said operators of the vehicles would be required to wear eye goggles or have a shield over the handle bars to prevent material from getting in their eyes and possibly causing an accident.

"When there is the chance of injuring someone else, it is not just the motorcycle operator's problem," Whichard said.

The non-resident compact with other states is seen by the Durham legislator as "a major benefit to the motoring public."

Nonresidents of North Carolina would not have to post bond for minor traffic offenses in the state — the current practice — provided they are from a state which has a reciprocity agreement with North Carolina.

"The agreement is a means of enforcing the law but not holding up travelers, who can go on their ways," Whichard said.

The Legislative Research Commission studies problems and issues identified as needing attention by lawmakers. It is composed of five Senators and five Representatives. Whichard is one of the five House members.

Retaliation Is In The Works

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's refusal to permit Secretary of State William P. Rogers to testify on the bombing of North Vietnam now threatens him with this reprisal: a Senate boycott of all his nominations to high diplomatic posts in the second Nixon administration.

The threat is still unstated and will never be spelled out by dovish Sen. J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But the implicit threat is now accepted as reality by the Nixon administration.

This response is surely regarded by Mr. Nixon as a powder-puff reprisal, reflecting congressional impotence in contesting him on Vietnam. But thoughtful Republicans, both in the administration and in Congress, know that Mr. Nixon's post-election hauteur in handling Congress regarding Vietnam is further eroding his relations with Capitol Hill. By refusing to permit Rogers even to make a token appearance, the President is stocking adversity that could plague his second term.

If Rogers had been allowed to testify, it is doubtful whether the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, with the full consent of conservative Southerners, would now be demanding "commitments" that Nixon appointees agree to testify after they take office as a price of confirmation.

Thus, one of Mr. Nixon's highest officials has quietly informed the White House that Mr. Nixon must allow Rogers to appear before both Fulbright's committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee or Mr. Nixon will risk alienating "all our friends"—Republicans included—in Congress.

This official says privately that once Rogers shows up on Capitol Hill—even if he says nothing—the dozen or so high-level diplomatic appointees will be cleared quickly. "When Bill Fulbright gives his word, you can count on him," he adds.

The list of diplomatic appointments is headed by Kenneth Rush, moving from deputy secretary of Defense to under secretary of State, and William Porter, emissary at the Vietnam talks in Paris promoted to under secretary for political affairs. The list of ambassadors is long and growing. Not one has yet been scheduled for an appearance before Fulbright's committee.

Fulbright's last public statement on the explosive crisis now building between Congress and the President on the Vietnam war was virtually an ultimatum: either the President gets a settlement in the Paris talks by Jan. 20 or the Foreign Relations Committee begins hearings on end-the-war legislation.

In truth, neither this nor any other committee in the Democratic-controlled Congress can force Mr. Nixon up against the wall. Nevertheless, Fulbright has strongly emphasized the committee's high priority on the end-the-war resolutions, and that requires testimony from Rogers on the status of the Paris talks and the December bombing decision. Mr. Nixon's contempt for the priority has now led to the boycott on nominations.

In terms of day-to-day conduct of foreign policy, Fulbright's reprisal scarcely jolts President Nixon. Rogers need not be reconfirmed as Secretary, foreign policy is made at the White House anyway and a delay in sending ambassadors abroad is no disaster.

But politically, the new escalation in the White House vs. Capitol Hill war raises tensions in a way some of Mr. Nixon's own men regard as entirely unnecessary.

Thus, one hard-lone official in the State Department was astonished that the White House instructed Rogers not to testify last week. A

Sunday Morning Notes

About last week's snow. Your columnist is an absolute Grinch when it comes to snow, but it comes occasionally and like everyone, else I just have to put up with it.

Last Monday I awoke at my usual hour and, knowing it had been snowing the night before, looked out the window. Sure enough there were several inches on the ground.

So I leaned out of bed and set about getting to work early. I trudged out to the car and began digging snow from the windshie , windows and doors. Then I cranked it up and heated the engine. Next I put the car in reverse and backed from my parking space. The car moved out and then I put it in forward gear. The wheels spun. I rocked it. Still the wheels spun. A couple of people came by and offered to help, but we couldn't move it.

So I went back inside and called the office. Blanche Hardee answered the phone and I told her my predicament.

I hung my head.

"Ask him if he wants one of the girls to come get him," a voice said.

That did it. I'm a male chauvinist. So I hung up, pulled on my boots and coat and started hiking to work. Several cars passed me by including one driven by a pretty young girl, who didn't seem to have any trouble driving in the snow. I hung my head again. I dropped it even lower when the car moved by and I saw that it carried a Florida license plate.

Finally I spotted Stuart Savage, who by then had his car equipped with chains, moving down the street. He picked me up and I got to work. Except by then every body else on the news staff was there. They had all driven.

Well, snow may be all right—if you know how to drive in it.

Everyone doesn't have a sled in this area, but there's lots of ingenuity. Thus boards, plastic laundry baskets and assorted metal

To the editor:

Have you ever heard an angry father shout at his twelve-year old son, "Why don't you grow up?" "That's what I'm trying to do" the boy answers.

That's presumably what all young people are trying to do and it's not an easy job. As adults, we tend to be impatient with others who cannot do as well, as quickly, something that took us perhaps years to learn — if, indeed, we have completely learned it ourselves.

When we humiliate anyone by treating him as though he were an inept, bungling fool, he will begin to hate us, and each time we tell him how inadequate he is with such remarks as "Won't you ever learn?" or "You can't do anything right" or "Why don't you grow up?" — we feed a little additional fuel to the fire.

If someone talked to us that way, we'd punch him in the nose, but youngsters can't do that, much as they'd love to. Youngsters are terribly disappointed in the parent and in themselves. They are torn by the wish to love, the need to love, and the hate they feel.

Not all parents use a double standard in dealing with their children and with other people. Some parents treat their youngsters with courtesy, respect, and love, and, at the same time, lay down firm guidelines and rules of conduct.

Being a good parent must surely be one of the world's most difficult jobs, exceeded only by the process of growing up itself. Yes, "That's what they are trying to do — grow up."

Bombs Do Go Astray

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A Vietnamese radio operator gets "three" mixed up with "two." A radarman slews his target blip to the wrong spot on his computerized screen. An overworked technician miswires a transistor.

That's all it takes for a bomb to drop on the wrong target or the wrong people. What's remarkable is not that it happens but that it doesn't happen more often.

If it takes place in South Vietnam the U.S. Command will report — usually belatedly — a "friendly fire incident," a euphemism for killing or wounding American or South Vietnamese troops or civilians. Such an incident was Monday's mistaken bombing of Da Nang Air Base, in which 10 Americans and a Vietnamese were wounded. Preliminary investigation indicated somebody confused the target with the primary reference point — the Da Nang Air Base.

Last July, U.S. "friendly fire incidents" killed 19 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounded 76. That was the month of heaviest U.S. air strikes in South Vietnam in 1972.

An air strike can go wrong because of any number of variables in combination.

Pilots claim that in most cases of accidental bombing they hit the target they were instructed to hit, someone else fouled up.

Only under severely limited circumstances is the pilot of a U.S. tactical jet supposed to attack "targets of opportunity." Almost always his strike is controlled by a radar coordinator, or by a spotter in a small forward air control plane or on the ground or both.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
January 14, 1933

The House Yesterday passed the Philippine independence bill over the veto of President Hoover. The Senate has yet to act.

The Snowman visited Greenville and blanketed the countryside with eight inches of downy white flakes. The precipation was the most pronounced since the record snow of March 1, 1927 when the heaviest fall in the memory of the oldest inhabitants visited sunny eastern Carolina. On account of the heavy snowfall which visited the community last night and yesterday, virtually all county schools were unable to operate yesterday, D.H. Conley, director of public instruction, said this morning. Although the city school system opened yesterday morning, work was suspended at the noon hour and children were permitted to go home until the weather improves.

Strength For Today

DO WE NEED TO WORRY?

What is the sin against the Holy Spirit? This is the one sin concerning which Jesus said there was no forgiveness. Every other sin would be forgiven, he declared, but this sin would never be forgiven. As a result of this statement of Jesus many people have suffered great anxiety lest they may have committed the unpardonable sin.

But of course no one has committed the unpardonable sin who is in the least worried about the possibility of his having done so. Just recall the scene. Jesus had been casting out demons, and the scribes and Pharisees, admitting that this young freelance Teacher from Nazareth could cast out demons, insisted nevertheless that Jesus was able to cast out demons because he was linked up in some way with Satan.

These men looked upon good and called it evil. Anyone who has ever come the place where he looks upon good and calls it evil, or looks upon evil and calls it good, has involved himself in the sin against the Holy Spirit. So long as we are so perverted morally that we call good evil and evil good there is no possibility of our seeing our mistake and repenting of it.

If you have ever worried about the possibility of having committed the unpardonable sin, then be assured out of the Word of God that your every anxiety reveals clearly that you have not committed this sin.

No Retirement In Motel Work

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like thousands of others, you might dream of kicking the 9-to-5 work habit by buying a small motel and settling down to a quiet, comfortable semiretirement. Beware.

Rather than act on the dream, says Stephen Brener, you should have the facts. And when you have them, he adds, you might no longer have the dream. If you still charge ahead you might find your dream is a nightmare.

The big mistake made by the uninitiated, says Brener, who heads the hospitality division of the big Helmsley-Spear real estate empire, is to confuse real estate and retailing.

"A motel is not just real estate; it is a retail operation, like a shoe store," he says. Real estate, such as an apartment house, appreciates in value, he observes, while motels depreciate every year. They require constant renovation.

The apartment house tenant might stay 10 years and never meet the owner. The motel is intensely people-oriented. Customers must be catered to. The product must be merchandised.

Brener maintains that any motel owner must always fight obolescence on two fronts: physical and economic. The unrenovated plant might last 20 or 25 years before becoming totally unattractive, but economic aging might be immediate.

The latter can occur when an airport is shut down or a highway bypass is built. Such an eventuality could force the owner to abandon his business or sell it off for the value of the land alone.

As a manager-consultant-investor in motels throughout the country, Brener has learned first hand how difficult it is to convert a motel to other uses. Like a bowling alley, it is a speciality building.

The owners options are to turn the facility into housing for singles, an addict or health care center, senior citizens housing, a dormitory or training center, or maybe a nursing home if the law allows.

But even without disaster befalling the owner in the form of economic obsolescence, there remains the constant fight to keep the facility modern and attractive. Costly indoor pools are "in" now. Cable television is coming.

Labor costs are always factors in profitability because, like all service industries, motels are labor-intensive. Service industries do not lend themselves to automation, motels and hotels least of all.

Now, considering the typical value of $15,000 to $20,000 per room for a good motel with restaurant, or $8,000 to $10,000 for an economy motel, are you still willing to follow your dream?

When they learn these facts, Brener said, some dreamers decide instead to put their money into motel-hotel stocks. And so, here he intrudes into the dream again.

"These stocks have been badly oversold by Wall Street," he said, In fact, he continued, some analysts have never properly defined the industry, which he maintains is made up of many disparate entitities.

"You have companies offering rooms and restaurants. Others have rooms and transportation. Some own their real estate. And others lease properties and manage them. But investors view all as if they're one deal."

Moreover, he continues, the great motel-hotel chains have always thrived on the entrepreneurial spirit of one or a few individuals and their families. Whether the transition can be made to impersonal, corporate management cannot be foreseen at this time.

Another danger: Sometime in the 1980s, Brener says, the industry must come to grips with the four-day week. Since most depend on commercial business, they could find their occupancy rates down 20 per cent.

Still dreaming?

Observations From Editorial Columns

A Postal Message

The volume of parcel post carried by the U.S. Postal Service has dropped by more than a third in the past decade, even while the traffic in parcels around the country has risen steadily. The reason is that a private, profit-making enterprise, United Parcel Service, is picking up more and more of the business.

United Parcel's service is faster, its damage rate is much lower, and its costs are often less than parcel post charges. The company attributes its success to highly motivated workers.

Postmaster Gen E.T. Klassen arranged for an article comparing United Parcel's service with that of the Post Office to appear in the house organ sent to all postal employes. We hope they are reading their mail. — Monroe (La.) Morning World.

Money, Anyone?

Handing out money isn't as easy as it sounds, the United States Treasury is finding out. In preparation for revenue sharing, the Treasury mailed out 39,000 postcards to local governments and 4,600 came back marked "address unknown."

Perhaps Uncle Sam will have to follow the lead of banks and other financial institutions which advertise for addresses of lost depositors. We are certain that newspaper advertisements seeking revenue-sharing recipients will bring abundant results. — Dallas (Tex.) Morning News

Speaking Of Inflation

It's common knowledge that the chemical value of the human body is only about 98 cents. Right? Wrong.

You see that 98 cents was before inflation. A recent issue of a trade journal, Chemical and Engineering News, reported that "at current chemical prices, the adult human body is worth $3.50."

And that near quadrupling of the traditional 98-cent figure does much to explain why it seems to cost so much to keep an "adult human body" to say nothing of a growing teenager — fed and clothed these days. — Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch.

Far-Out Fashion

The National Aeronautics and Space Agency has given an explanation — which will sound reasonable to most men — to why American women have not been included as astronauts. "Women would require a new design in space suits," a spokeswomen said. In other words, the ladies don't have a thing to wear out in space, either. — Columbia (S. C.) State.

Brass-Heavy Military

To anyone who believes that the Defense Department can't save a few dollars without endangering national security, here's an interesting statistic:

The U.S. Army, with 2.8 million men, has more Generals and Colonels today than during World War II, when 12 million here under arms. — Tulsa (Okla.) World

Plunderers

To the editor:

The late volatile mentor of the Green Bay Packers, Vince Lombardi, placed in his team's locker room the slogan. "Winning isn't everything; it's the only thing." There is nothing inherently wrong with this motto, but today in our ultra-permissive society one can readily understand that most people—politicians, professionals, athletes—feel it is better to win with the aid of cheating than it is to lose with valor and dignity.

During this generation, emphasis is focused upon the achievements which one garners, no matter the manner in which he accomplished that crown. We witnessed the manner in which Nixon won re-election by a gigantic landslide while members of his own Republican Party were indicated on charges of sabotaging and stealing from the Democratic National Headquarters in the renowned Watergate Affair. We see, furthermore, how most doctors are winners of th huge financial pie—Medicare and Medicaid—while many fellow comrades are rejected by their allies in terms of a quota system which is established by this professional organization to admit only a few new doctors into this field. Moreover, we, as citizens, are subjected to the way wrestling matches—like some other athletic events—are won by those who can cheat best and not by those who exhibit the best skill and expertise.

In concluding, any parent has no one to blame, but himself, when their children use drugs, steal automobiles and commit felonies and misdemeanors for children only reproduce what they see mom and dad do. What's the difference when dad is an alcoholic and his son is a junkie or when dad cheats on his income tax return and his son cheats on his math test? Too much emphasis is focused on the tangibles and winning—money, homes, clothes, cars—rather than on the intangibles—respect, good manners, loyalty, discipline, for each child is taught that the one who has the most dollars is the one who succeeds. Yet, we who have few material possessions are better off for the Bible instructs: "Blessed are the meek for thy shall inherit the earth."

A Conservative View

The Double Standard Is Constantly Encountered

By J.J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee filed a bitchy little report two weeks ago, complaining petulantly of the Navy's decision to homeport a part of the Sixth Fleet in Greece. But the thrust of the report wasn't directed at American admirals; it was directed at Greek colonels instead.

The authors of this report agreed that the United States has legitimate military and security interests in Greece, relating both to NATO and to the Middle East. They could not convincingly challenge the Navy's choice of Athens in terms of the city's housing facilities and the like. This was their points:

"The circumstances of that choice indicate that our government is more concerned about obtaining the minor advantages and conveniences of homeporting in Greece (instead of Italy, for example) than about expressing our opposition ot the Greek dictatorship through a policy of minimal and cool relations until democracy is restored in that country. The world looks to the United States to stand up for democratic principles and if we shirk that responsibility, we are negating the most important principle on which this country stands."

Members of the subcommittee, headed by Benjamin S. Rosenthal of New York, took a lugubrious view of the present government in Greece. It is not, they believe, "stable." There may be some short-term advantage in the homeporting decision, but "our long-term need is for a stable Greek government which will come through a democratic restoration." The Navy, they insist, should have chosen Naples, Livorno or Taranto instead.

The authors' conclusions, viewed on their merits, have no merit. Whatever else may be said of the government in Greece, like it or not, it is stable. The colonels have been firmly in power for nearly six years. Their opposition is divided, disorganized, and impotent. Restoration of what is euphemistically known as "democratic rule" would invited a return of the chaotic conditions that obtained prior to 1967. If forces of the extreme left wing should gain power, it could well mean a swift end not only to democratic rule, but also to Greek participation in NATO.

By contrast, if "stability" is the desideratum, one may recall that Italy has had 34 governments since World War II. In the election last summer, the Communists gained 2 seats for a record total of 179 seats — about 28 per cent of the chamber — and the neo-Fascist movement of Giorgio Almiranti gained 26 seats on the far There are those of us who love Italy dearly but not, heaven knows, for her "stability."

Never mind the merits. What is baffling to the observer of foreign affairs is the double standard on constantly encounters. Indeed, when it comes to our relations with the rest of the world, we seem to have double standards for double standards.

Surely this is true in the matter of Communist regimes. This past year saw the President of the United States toasting the Communists of China and Russia, and bombing the Communists of North Vietnam. It is equally true of dictatorships. Rosenthal and his colleagues despise the dictatorship in Greece. They never cease to mourn the absence of democracy in Portugal, Rhodesia, and South Africa. But you will not see them standing up for democratic principles in Zambia, Tanzania, and the Sudan.

We see the same double standard in the matter of moral outrage. When U.S. bombs fall on Hanoi, it is barbarism; when Soviet missiles fall on Quang Ti, it is no more than the fortunes of war. The history of the bloody conflict in Vietnam is in part a history of the torture, mutilation and murder imposed by terrorists from the North upon peasants of the South. This part of the history seems to affect congressional liberals not at all.

We ought to weep for the dead of war, whoever they are, however they die. And when it comes to dealing with governments we find distasteful, we ought in charity to give some account to the taste of others. In some millennium, all nations will be as democratic as the Eighth Congressional District of New York: meanwhile we ought to work with governments as they are. We ought to tolerate Greek colonels, Spanish generals African despots, and everyone else. After all, they tolerate us — or most nations do — and that in itself is no easy job.

Nixon Can Claim That 'Mandate' As Long As He Makes It Stick

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reduced to basic terms, the mandate of a man who wins an election is what he says it is— for as long as he can make it stick.

And that is a key to the dispute now building between President Nixon and the Democratic Congress.

The controversy is cast in constitutional terms by the leaders of Congress, who contend that the White House is usurping legislative powers.

But the backdrop is political. The question is what the voters were saying when they re-elected a Republican president with nearly 61 per cent of the vote, but denied his party control in either branch of Congress, and increased by two votes the Democratic margin in the Senate.

The President reads his message in the national returns; predictably, the Democrats read theirs in the congressional outcome.

"If there is one mandate to us above all others, it is to exercise our separate and distinct constitutional role in the operation of the federal government," says Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Despite complaints on Capitol Hill, Nixon is acting to exercise his own mandate in three areas: the war, the budget and the organization of the government.

And the Democrats are trying to resist on all three.

There is renewed criticism and pressure for legislation to cut off war spending. Herbert G. Klein, director of communications for the administration, said that came from men who participated "in an election where the President had a very clear mandate to proceed the way he has on Vietnam."

That is not the message the critics read. For example, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, recalled Nixon's election-eve statement to the nation:

"I can say to you with complete confidence tonight that we will soon reach agreement on all the issues and bring this long and difficult war to an end."

Fulbright said that while the voters on Nov. 7 "gave the President a decisive mandate for peace along the lines that he had promised it, they also gave a decisive vote of confidence to the Democratic party in Congress and in the statehouses."

He said the voters clearly intended Congress to exercise its responsibility, in foreign policy and elsewhere.

"This is not the President's war, it is the Congress' war," says Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, long a Republican dissenter on war policy. He said the constitutional power to provide the men and money belongs to Congress.

For the moment, the message from the White House is simply that Nixon is fully accountable for decisions on the war and the peace negotiations.

To deal with government spending, Nixon has used a combination of cutbacks, impoundments, and freezes to withhold about $8 billion in funds approrpiated by Congress.

That, too, has drawn congressional wrath; Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said it showed contempt for Congress, and a group of Senate committee chairmen have joined in a lawsuit challenging one highway-fund freeze.

The Senate already has asked for an accounting from Nixon of all impounded appropriations, by Feb. 5.

In government reorganization, Nixon deputized three Cabinet members to oversee government activities in human resources, natural resources and community development.

"I trust that the members of the House and Senate received the same message I did when we went to the people last fall," Nixon said.

He said the message was that Americans are fed up with wasteful musclebound government, and "anxious for change that works."

But, again, the Democrats may not read the message quite that way. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., already has called for hearings on the executive overhaul, to see whether it "poses any threat to the rights and responsibilities of Congress...."

Republican on the Senate committee was not only astonished but angered, asking: "Do they think we Republicans are going to cooperate in making a monarchy out of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue?"

That is the real meaning of the Fulbright boycott. Some Republicans who for years have disagreed with Fulbright on Vietnam and much else feel his symbolic reprisal is a justifiable response to Richard Nixon's hubris. That suggests a deeper adversity may be at hand for the President on Capitol Hill.

Some Things To Expect From The Legislators

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Now that the Legislature is officially in session, look for these things to happen in coming months:

—A new kind of fight over taxes. Not whether we should raise them this year, but whether they should be lowered.

Some people will try to get the soft-drink tax repealed and keep the tobacco tax as is. That will draw rapid fire from the East. If I had to wager now, I'd say both taxes will remain.

—A lot of people in both Houses are disturbed over automobile insurance. It was such a controversial issue in 1971 that the General Assembly never did really get around to dealing with it. They considered calling a special session to handle it, but it was too explosive for a gubernatorial year.

The issue will come back before the Ligislature this year, after having been studied for a year by a committee headed by former Sen. Neill Jones of Wadesboro.

My guess on this one? That the Legislature will pass some kind of no-fault plan.

—Liquor-by-the-drink is wounded as an issue, but not mortally. Big city Chambers of Commerce will lead a push to get some kind of mixed drink legislation through the legislative halls.

It would appear that the liquor forces are weaker this year than they were in 1971.

Many drys would love to have a state-wide referendum on liquir-by-the drink, but the wets can't buy that. They'd lose by a wide margin.

What the wets hope to do is find some kind of a constitutional measure that would allow metropolitan counties to vote on mixed drinks.

The only prediction I have on this is that liquor will not be allowed to take us as much time this session as it has during the three preceeding ones.

There will be plenty of other issues. The med school for East Carolina University; a State Grand Jury with investigative powers, advocated by Attorney Gen. Robert Morgan; abolishment of the Governor's "slush fund" for highway construction; annual sessions of the Legislature, with corresponding issue of whether to go to an annual budget or continue with a bi-annual budget.

There will be a gib push from some people to establish some kind of public kindergarten program for North Carolina children.

They say the session might be the shortest on record. It might also be the most controversial—and maybe, the most productive.

South Vietnamese military officers have a reputation for a spendthrift attitude toward U.S. airpower. In many cases they have preferred to "call in the tac air" and blow an area to pieces rather than risk losing their own men by attacking with ground forces.

The language barrier also contributes to misdirected strikes. Many news correspondents have seen U.S. advisers struggling to communicate with their Vietnamese counterparts over where and when a strike should go in.

Bad weather and maneuvers to avoid antiaircraft fire also affect accuracy. Close support of troops in contact with the enemy increases the risk of hitting friendly troops.

Even in the best of circumstances of visual bombing it is hard to hit a small target from an airplane traveling a mile every seven to 10 seconds. A one-degree shift in attack angle can mean a difference of 100 feet or more in the spot where the bomb hits.

Equipment malfunction is a significant cause of accidental bombings. The Navy reported that it was a "hung bomb" — one that released too late because of a faulty mechanism — that hit the French Legation in Hanoi last Oct. 11 and caused the death of the French Delegate General, Pierre Susini.

The First Amendment And The Big Media 'Adversary Culture'

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

As a news reporter and editor for some 40-odd years, much of what is being written and said these days about threats to the freedom the press leaves me cold.

There's no doubt about the danger to the constitution's first amendement when a judge orders the contempt jailing of a reporter for refusal to turn over his notes or reveal his sources. This strikes at the heart of a free press.

And if some judges are unable to see this, then it is high time for it to be brought home by restraint on their contempt powers. The Newspaper Publishers Association has asked Congress to do just this, and it should. The past year witnessed a rising trend in these contempt jailings.

But there is something else going on in the name of protecting freedom of the press that is not nearly so clear cut. In fact, it smacks more of a red herring than any sincere effort to protect the "people's right to know."

Anytime anyone suggests that the press does have responsibility to give the people information without larding it too heavily with political or ideological bias, the free press flag immediately shoots to the top of the pole.

This act commenced a few years back when Vice President Agnew, long pictured as a clown, took the press to task, using words which have since become famous. What's called the New York-Washington axis (meaning the Big Media) was surprised, offended and, above all, alarmed. Such a thing wasn't in the usual script. It had to threaten freedom of the press.

Recently Washington Columnist Kevin Phillips wrote on this concern for the first amendment. About Phillips, it should be noted that he is not of the political left. He knows the press, having been a part of it for many years. And he knows Washington, too.

Phillips thinks the key to the feud between the Nixon Administration and the Big Media, meaning what's called the New York-Washington axis, lies in legal and economic history. He notes that when the first amendment was written, the press was a tiny thing.

"These socio-economic circumstances are greatly changed today," he commented, "and 180-year-old legal conceptions can't handle the job. Some of the media, especially the behemoths of the New York-Washington axis, are no longer traditional, small-scale aggregations of free-speech practitioners; instead, they are unprecedented aggregations of economic and propaganda power."

True, the concentration in the media field has been the sort of growth which has brought government intervention into other fields in the past — banking, utilities, rails. But the administration has taken less issue with the concentration of power than to the way it is used.

Phillips calls the Big Media an "Adversary Culture" which he says is "Hostile to the values, more and politics of the average citizen (especially the average member of Nixon's 'New Majority'). " Phillips sees this "anti-Middle American elite" as setting the tone for the national and this "tone is the Administration's target."

This may be pulling the bow a little long. But certainly it is true that when Big Media's critics say anything about slanted or biased news handling they run smack into the "people's right to know" chant.

Phillips calls this "a code for the Manhattan Adversary Culture's desire to wrap the first amendment around its attack on politicians, government and institutions of Middle America."

It will be too bad for all of us if this confusion over ideology denies reporters the protection the constitution intended.

A LIVELY DISCUSSION . . . about a recent swim meet held at Fort Hunt, Va., is carried on by the four girl members of the Rose High Swim Team and Coach Bob St. Clair.

INTO THE WATER . . . with a flying start are Carrie Condra, left, and Laurie Walton, as their teammates shout encouragement from the side of the pool.

Girl Swimmers—They Work To Win

By JANE KELLER

Members of the Rose High swim team accompanied him, lap after lap, arms rhythmically slapping the water and feet splashing it into the air.

This year, for the first time, a new feature has been added to the Rampant tankers — girls.

Four young ladies have joined the 12 young men who represent Rose High in competitive swim meets.

According to Robert Alligood, principal at Rose, girls were added this year because of a change in North Carolina high school athletic rules. The rules say, in effect, that, in non-contact sports, if there is no separate girls' team, girls can compete on the same team as boys.

Both the male team members and the coach seem to be delighted that girls have come out for the swim team.

Coaching the swim team for Rose is Bob St. Clair, a junior English major at ECU from Alexandria, Va. This is St. Clair's first year as coach of the Rose High team, but his background includes extensive swimming experience.

For some 11 years, St. Cair swam in competition. He is currently an assistant swim coach at ECU and coaches the Greenville Swim Club. St. Clair's responsibilities for Rose are limited to swimming only. He is not responsible for the diving activities.

Did St. Clair have reservations about coaching a team comprised of both girls and boys?

"No. Most teams do have girls. My only reservations were about trips to out-of-town meets. We have had only one trip so far this year. The girls stayed in a hotel and one of the the girls' mother went along as a chaperone.

"The girls' mother will take turns accompanying us an overnight trips."

Trips

The girls listed the out-of-town trips as one of the most exciting aspects of being members of the swim team. They all enjoyed the trip to the meet with the team from Fort Hunt, Va.

In discussing the meet, they were exuberant. They enjoyed meeting new people and going places. Each proudly displayed a "spirit" ring which they purchased at the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C., souvenirs of their first meet.

Mont Wooten, who served as the spokesman for the male members of the team, is pleased to have girls on the team.

"I think it is good to have girls participate in athletics," he said.

"They liven up the meets," continued Mont, referring to the addition of girls to the Rose High swim team.

All through practice session, the girls yelled encouraging "go, go" to the boys and the boys shouting encouraging yells to the girls as they race against each other and the clock.

Training

All of the girls have had previous formal swimming training either as member of the Greenville Swim Club or Raynez teams. All plan to be on the team again next year.

Laurie Walton and Carrie Condra are sophomores. Helen Waldrop and Laura Clark are juniors this year and they all like being on the Rose High swim team.

"Being on the swim team is really great," says Carrie Condra.

"I think girls are equal. They should have the chance to compete.

"People think it is horrible that we work so hard, but it is worth it. Some kids' parents wouldn't let them come out for the team because they thought since it was the first year, we wouldn't be organized very well. They've missed something," she continued.

More Girls

Coach St. Clair would like to have more girls on the team, although the girls did well in the meet at Fort Hunt (four second places and one third place).

"I would like to see more of the younger kids, too. We could use more girls — five or six more. It is a little rough on these girls, because there are only four," he said.

The criteria for becoming a member of the Rose high swim team are few: primarily a candidate must be able to swim at least four laps of the pool and willing to work.

Coach St. Clair expressed his views about the prospect for his team:

"I'm optimistic. What we are shooting for is the state meet. We have a strong swimmer in Mont Wooten. But I don't know about the place for our girls in the meet. The rules haven't come out yet and this is my first year in competitive swimming on the high school level in North Carolina."

"We want to be ready if girls can compete," added the coach.

St. Clair is optimistic, also, about the overall future of the swimming program at Rose High. Warm-up suits for the swim team have been ordered and St. Clair sees this as a tremendous boost for the swimmers individually as well as for the team.

Mechanics

Between laps the young coach gives individual suggestions to improve style and time — mechanics.

"Get your elbows up on the left hand," he calls to one.

"Pull all the way back," he demonstrates to another.

"We always work on mechanics," he says.

For at least one hour each day the young athletes swim, almost without pausing, back and forth, back and forth.

"They know that if they don't work, they don't win," the coach stated.

And they do work Many come before practice time and would stay much later than the designated hour if permitted.

"The hardest thing about swimming is getting out of the pool," admitted Helen Waldrop.

Permitting these friendly, hardworking young ladies to join the Rose High Swim team has added more than just looks. They have added four team members.

Winning Actress Lives On 'International Shuttle'

By DAVID DUGAS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Just before she was chosen Best Actress of 1972 by the New York Film Critics this month, Liv Ullmann asked an interviewer to please straighten out one little thing. She doesn't put egg on her face, a habit attributed to her by one writer who reported she kept her glowing complexion by the frequent application of beaten egg whites.

"I never put egg on my face," she said. "I'm sure eggs are very good. Maybe they're wonderful. I'm not against using eggs but I'm against fabricating this thing and making it important."

The Norwegian actress, chosen by the New York critics for her performances in the films "Cries and Whispers" and "The Emigrants," both released from Sweden, has been living on something of an international shuttle in recent years. And she's lined up to continue doing so at least into 1974.

Travels Back and Forth

"First I do a musical," she said. "Then I go back to Sweden and do something really serious with Ingmar (Bergman) —a TV play. Then, I come back to America and do this comedy ("Forty Carats") —something I have never done before. Then, I will go back to Oslo for three months to do a play —and keep my roots in the theater. Then, I come back to Hollywood and do a western, also something I have never done."

The western, titled "Taylor's Bride," will star Liv opposite Gene Hackman, Oscar-winner of 1972 for his role in "The French Connection." If she feels at all intimidated about the assignment it is because in another interview, she called Hackman's film, "Prime Cut," the "worst I've ever seen." She hated its violence and couldn't understand why the actor had agreed to make it.

"But everybody does those things," she said. "I've done pictures I'm not proud of so I really shouldn't say they don't read their scripts."

Loved "Pope Joan"

She doesn't count her film "Pope Joan" as an example. She read the script about a modern girl who elaborately imagines herself to be the historically unsubstantiated woman pontiff of the 9th Century and loved it. It has drawn almost uniformly scathing reviews from the critics.

"I loved the script, the working, everything. We really felt what we were doing. Olivia de Havilland played the Mother Superior and she was sitting and reading the Bible all day and lighting candles.

"Then the producer (Kurt Unger) took over and for half a year he sat and cut it with his friends. Now it's not my picture anymore. I don't recognize it. I haven't seen the final version but I know I wouldn't recognize it.

"Even the writer laughed when he saw it. He couldn't help it because it is so funny now. I heard it's just the story of me looking like George Peppard."

Can't Sing or Dance

Liv can afford to laugh off the disaster of "Pope Joan." "The Emigrants" is an international hit and was nominated as one of the year's five best foreign-language films by Hollywood's Motion Picture Academy. She has now for the third time been named "Best Actress" by the New York Film Critics. And she was cast in the musical film "Lost Horizon" although she can neither sing nor dance.

About the dancing numbers she said: "I'm very bad at dancing. I'm shy about it. I was very bad in dancing school and never got to dance there. I never dance with men at parties unless I'm in love; that's different —because I feel stupid.

"Now suddenly to be in this musical and have to dance alone!"

Ross Hunter called in Hermes Pan, the dance director who taught Audrey Hepburn how to get through "My Fair Lady."

It bothers Miss Ullmann not at all that in "Forty Carats" she is playing a woman of 40 (she is 33) or that in "Taylor's Bride" she will be the mail order wife of a man who expects a beautiful young woman and is shocked to find her much older than the photograph she sent him.

"I don't mind playing older women," she said. "At least I can keep doing that. I'm playing it safe. It's much worse to come here and maybe get a 20-year-old part and then I'm finished immediately."

From her first interviews in Hollywood a year ago, Liv Ullmann has been careful to point out she doesn't want to be "a Hollywood movie star." She tried living in a $300,000 Beverly Hills mansion with swimming pool. Briefly.

"It was like a child's dream to come from Norway and the cold and to have relatives over. Now I've given up the house. It was too much. I'm living in a hotel now with a kitchen and it's better. I still have my home in Norway, which is maybe more real for me than Hollywood. I haven't changed my mind about that. What I like about Hollywood now is being a guest there."

Press Reports Every Scrap

In old-fashioned Hollywood style, the press has taken to reporting every available scrap of information about her. She no longer tries to conceal the salient facts of her private history: her marriage at 20 to a director-psychiatrist, Grappe Stang, whom she left several years later for a five-year love affair with Ingmar Bergman. Bergman is the father of her only child, a six-year-old daughter named Linn.

She and the famed Swedish director ended their relationship some time ago but remain good friends and associates. He recently married for the fifth time.

Some of what Liv reads about herself in the press amuses her. Some doesn't —like the egg white story. She sometimes is upset by gossip column items. One for instance said, "Bachelor Warren Beatty has gotten around to Liv Ullmann as his new girl friend."

"I'm not going with him," she said. "I have been out with him. He's a friend of mine. You're not going steady with somebody just because you go out with each other.

"They have started that in Sweden too. I read about romances I'm having. Otherwise I wouldn't know about them."

MRS. JAMES VINCENT PARISI

Miss Carolyn Sue Lee became the bride of James Vincent Parisi Friday at 8:00 p.m. in Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Harley Brown, pastor, conducted the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Karen Coward of Greenville, organist, and Miss Elaine Vernelson, soloist, who sang "Whither Thou Goes," "Walk Hand In Hand" and the "Wedding Prayer."

In the background of the church were tiered candelabra overflowing with large white mums and pom pons and standards of greenery. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the ceremony took place. In the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom lighted the outside candles as they entered the chancel and after they were pronounced man and wife, they snuffed out the outside candles and lighted the center candle together.

Pews were marked with white satin bows with long streamers. A white carpet was rolled out as the bridal party entered the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Johnnie T. Lee, of Rt. 5, Greenville, and the late Mr. Lee. Mrs. George Parisi of Bricktown, N.J., and the late Mr. Parisi are the parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her uncle, George Boyd, the bride wore a formal length white gown designed with a bodice of chantilly lace. The long sleeves were also fashioned with lace. The full skirt of miramist featured tiers of ruffled lace on the gown front. She wore a formal length chantilly lace mantilla.

Miss Pat Boyd, cousin of the bride, of Greenville, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ralph Linton of Chocowinity, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lunette Coburn of Greenville. They wore formal length pink organza gowns designed with white lace bodices and long bishop sleeves with deep cuffs of matching lace. They wore pink satin bow headpieces with long streamers.

The bridesmaids carried princess baskets filled with lavender, pink, fushsia, yellow, and purple spring flowers tied with pink and purple bows.

Miss Trudy Denean Barber was the flower girl. She wore a long white double knit dress designed like that of the honor attendant with an empire waist and pink velvet trim. She wore a pink velvet bow as a headdress and carried a white basket filled with petals and tied with a pink bow.

Kelvin Lee of Greenville, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a white satin pillow with a spray of mixed flowers tied with a pink bow.

Nick Tanape of Bricktown, N.J., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were James E. Allen, Jerry W. Jones and Randy Johnston, cousin of the bride, all of Greenville, and Kenneth Tetterton of Bethel, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride, wore a teal blue dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a pink dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a hot pink pants suit of polyester and navy accessories. She wore a corsage of flowers lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Stokes-Pactolus High School and Mount Olive College. She is presently a junior at Atlantic Christian College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bricktownship High School and is serving in the United States Army. He will be stationed in Panama with the 534th M.P. Company.

A rehearsal party was held at the church fellowship hall given by friends of the bride. Guests included members of the wedding party, close friends and relatives.

Aye, There's A Rub In Business Scheme

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last year my brother went into a new venture and he's doing a terrific business. It is a massage parlor. He has girls do the massaging, and the customers are all men. I think you get the idea.

Well, my brother asked my husband to manage the place. I was against it from the start. My brother takes in about $4,000 to $5,000 a month. My husband is a salesman, and if he clears $150 a week he is lucky.

My brother told my husband if he would manage the massage parlor he would pay him $1,000 a month, plus at the end of the year my husband could buy the business from him, and my brother would open another parlor.

My husband wants to accept. All that is holding him back is me. I don't want my husband in a business like this.

Do I have a right to come between him and the money? Also, my husband being around those willing young girls all day is something else to consider.

We have three children. Would they be proud of their dad in this kind of a business?

Everybody says I am wrong. What do you say?

HOLDING TIGHT

DEAR HOLDING: I say you're right. [But don't rub it in.]

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago, Jimmy and I met on a blind date neither one of us wanted to go on, but we went to get our friends off our backs. I am 22 and Jimmy is 24.

We hit it off perfectly. He took me to dinner. We danced and laughed and joked and found we had a lot in common. When he brought me home neither one of us wanted to say good night, so I invited him in [I have my own apartment] and we talked until 5 a. m. He kissed me only once and that's the truth. I let him sleep on my couch and the next morning we went to church together as it was Sunday. This may sound crazy, but I'm telling it like it is.

Jimmy is so sweet and clean and wonderful. I've never felt this way about anybody in my life and neither has Jimmy. We've spent every possible moment together since we met and he's never laid a hand on me and neither has anybody else. [This took a lot of self-control as we are very much in love]! Jimmy wants to marry me as soon as possible, but Abby, this all happened so fast, I can't believe it.

Our friends say Jimmy and I should live together first to find out if we are sexually compatible, but Abby, I have always wanted to save myself until after marriage. Jimmy says it's up to me. Should I or shouldn't I? Please be honest.

IN LOVE IN TAMPA

DEAR IN LOVE: Compatibility is based on loving, caring, sharing, unselfishness, and mutual consideration and respect, and from your letter, I'd say you and Jimmy have it. Feeling as you do—for which you are to be commended—the guilt you would experience from premarital sex would damage your self-respect. Since you've waited this long, wait to catch that golden ring. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband and I met, he got a married woman pregnant and she had his child—a boy.

My husband and I have a daughter. How is our daughter related to that boy my husband fathered?

Would you recommend the offspring be told they have the same father? They go to the same school, and are now teen-agers, and there is a possibility of a budding romance.

All the relations know about this mess.

OMAHA MIXUP

DEAR OMAHA: They are half brother and sister, which is closer than the law allows for marriage. I wouldn't tell them they have the same father unless I felt it were positively necessary. The "forbidden" aspect of such a romance might enhance it.

Travels 25 Years One Million Miles

BRISBANE, Australia (WNS) —Cissie Doyle, 73, got the travel bug 25 years ago when a fortune teller told her she would die within a year and should take a good look at the world now. She has just notched up her one millionth mile and said, "I've never been happier or healthier." Nowadays she has trouble finding new places to go. "I've never been to California, the home of Nixon," she said. "That's my next stop."

Couple Weds Saturday Afternoon

KINSTON — The Trinity United Methodist Church, Falling Creek, here was the scene of the wedding of Mrs. Ruth G. Grady and William Glenn Fleming Saturday at 5:00 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Gauldin of Buies Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. William Julius Fleming of Rt. 4, Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pink lace over matching satin. The gown, made by the bride, was designed with an empire waistline and full sleeves.

Her veil was attached to a matching lace headpiece and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Donald Fleming of Greenville served his brother as best man. Ushers were Ronald Fleming, of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, and Thomas Grady of Kinston, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ring bearer was Lester Ray Grady Jr., son of the bride.

The bride was formerly employed at the Beauty Nook, LaGrange. The bridegroom was formerly employed with Monk's Tobacco Factory, Farmville, and is engaged in farming.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the bride included a floating bridal shower held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Grady, sister-in-law of the bride.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pom pons. Mrs. William Julius Fleming, mother of the bridegroom-elect, poured punch and Patsy Parrish, sister of the bride, served the three tier wedding cake.

Mrs. Lasater presided in the gift room.

MRS. WILLIAM GLENN FLEMING

Tyndall-Goodson Vows Solemnized

The marriage of Vickie Lenora Goodson and John Dorsey Tyndall was solemnized Saturday at 2:00 p.m. in a private ceremony in the chapel of Saint James United Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Charles Edward Goodson of Greenville, and the late Mr. Goodson, and Mrs. John Webster Tyndall of Kinston, and the late Mr. Tyndall.

The Rev. C. Norman Bennett Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Bill Cain, organist, and Miss Julie Harris, soloist, who sang "One Hand, One Heart" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride and bridegroom entered the chapel together. The bride wore a formal length gown of pink organza designed with a high round neckline encircled with a band of white lace flowers. The empire bodice of chantilly lace over pink organza was trimmed with Venice lace flowers at the waistline and tiny satin silk buttons extended from the neckline to the waist. The bishop sleeves had deep cuffs of the chantilly lace edged in the Venice lace flowers.

Miss Valerie Lynn Goodson of Greenville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a fromal length Samaron rose knit dress featuring a natural waistline with long fitted sleeves. She wore a Samaron rose double bow headpiece with miniature pink rosebuds. She carried a single red rose.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Kinston.

The bride attended East Carolina University and Fairfax Hospital School of Operating Room Technology. She is presently employed at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom attended East Carolina University where he was a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity. He is employed with Robert Hill Construction Co.

Engagement Announced

MISS PATRICIA ELEANOR DAVIS . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Lawrence Davis Jr. of Winston-Salem, who announce her engagement to Wilton Russell Duke Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Russell Duke of Farmville. The wedding will take place March 31.

Child Care Night Observed

Child Care Chapter Night was held by Chapter No. 1308 of the Women of the Moose Thursday evening.

Mrs. Josdeph Valerio Child Care chairman, introduced Bob Muzarelli as guest speaker. He is assistant professor and coordinator at the ECU Speech and Hearing Clinic. Muzarelli is a member of the American Speech and Hearing Association.

Muzarelli spoke on the development of a child beginning to talk and methods which could be used in teaching a child to talk. He described the outpatient speech therapy clinic at ECU for children and adults.

Senior Regent Mrs. A.W. Diehl presided at the enrollment of new members including Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Bob Swinson.

Mrs. Diehl announced that Chapter 1308 will be hostesses for Chapter Rally Day on March 4.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Women Wear Paintings In Sweater Form

By ALISON LERRICK

There used to be plastic shrubbery, satin apples and painted ice cream sodas in the gallery. Now, there's a two-tone jacquard knitting machine, borrowed along with its technician from Woolmark.

It's busy knitting "paintings" at the rate of 25 a day, all signed and designed by seven contemporary artists: Adzak, Hernandez, Rougemont, Ado, Maglione, Rancillac and Lourdes Castro.

"They had already made rugs and were delighted with the idea of seeing their art walking around. They're painters very much a la mode," explains Laurence Dumaine, who runs Axis.

The customer herself — or himself — chooses among 23 colors and various shapes — turtleneck, V-neck, tee-shirt, sweatshirt or blouson. The prices range from $35-45, but will be about double that figure at the New York Fifth Avenue store now negotiating to ship over some 'paintings."

The severe in taste lean toward barbed-wire stripes or alphabet graphics. The romantic like a landscape of trees and tubes.

For the Pop set is a bass fiddler clutching his instrument or two big hands placed strategically on the sweater so as to clutch you-know-what.

And Ado's design is a line inside an oval inside a circle. "It's a sexual symbol," adds Miss Dumaine.

Certain painters, she admits, "sell much better than others. But I don't like to say who. It would hurt their feelings."

Household Hints

By United Press International

Put freshly cut flowers in warm sugar water for best results.

Gold-filled means that gold has been fixed by soldering or welding to a base metal.

When painting ceilings with brush or roller, cover hair with a scarf or cap to keep paint from dotting it.

Pure gold is termed 24 karat. It is marked 24 K.

What are wash 'n' wear cottons made of? Cotton treated with synthetic resins to give the cloth resilience and to enable garments to keep their shape.

Davis Chapel in Winston-Salem will be the scene of the March 31 wedding of Patsy Davis and Rusty Duke.

The bride-elect is a graduate of R.J. Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem, and Duke University, Durham. She was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Her fiance is a graduate of Farmville High School, Farmville, and Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem. He is now a second year student in the Wake Forest University Law School and is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

Final preparations are now being made for the Miss North Carolina Teen-ager Pageant to be held at the White House Inn, Charlotte, April 6-8.

The reigning Miss North Carolina Teen-ager, Teresa Rivera, of Havelock, will crown Miss North Carolina Teen-ager, 1973.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement-leadership, poise-personality, and beauty. Each contestant will be required to write a 100-word essay on the subject "What's Right About America."

The state pageant is the official state finals to the Miss National Teen-ager Pageant to be held in Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 1.

The winner from the Tar Heel State will receive a scholarship, other prizes and an all expense paid trip to the national contest.

Applications may be obtained by writing Mrs. Sybil Shaffer, executive director, 215 Piedmont Ave., NE, Atlanta, Ga. The pageant is open to girls 13-17 years of age as of Sept. 1, 1973.

The 1973 Southeastern Farm and Home Trade Show will be held Feb. 21-22 in Lumberton at the Cooperative Warehouse, where the annual show is held.

Earliest 1973 exhibition of its kind in the eastern Carolinas, the trade show will have the newest machinery and materials on display.

The event, which has attracted 10,000 or more visitors in former years, is sponsored by the Lumberton Rotary Club, the Robeson County Agricultural Extension Service and the Robeson County Crop Promotion Association.

Mrs. Pat Holshouser, North Carolina's new first lady, will entertain approximately 159 Mother's March workers and key March of Dimes leaders from across the state.

The event will be held at the Governor's Mansion Tuesday beginning at 10 a.m. This will be the 12th year for the benefit of the March of Dimes.

Guest speaker fro the morning will be Mrs. Jean B. Campbell of Montgomery, Ala., program coordinator for the National Foundaion—March of Dimes.

Special guests will be the 1973 N.C. State March of Dimes Poster Child, Betty Katherine Faulk, and her mother, Mrs. Wilston Faulk, of Evergreen.

The Mothers' March, here in Greenville, will be held Jan. 19-21 and is being sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville.

Unborn Babies May Be Harmed Through Diets

HOUSTON (AP) — A nutrition expert says malnutrition threatens the unborn of American middle-class women as well as those of poor women.

"The low income woman who is pregnant does not eat well," said Dr. Myron Winick. "The obstetrician tells the middle-class women not to eat much."

Winick, director of the Institute of Human Nutrition at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, said weight control during pregnancy may be dangerous because the pregnant woman is eating for two persons.

Winick told a meeting of the Society for Neuroscience that the malnutrition problem is most critical for the poverty-stricken woman. Often they do not look malnourished because their starchy but low-protein diets make them fat, he said.

He said unsuspecting doctors then put them on weight-reducing diets which doubly deprive them of needed nourishment.

He said some scientists strongly suspect that nutrition during pregnancy and early infancy affects the ultimate mental capacity of children. However, he said there is no scientific evidence of this.

Winick, who was the first to describe the dramatic chemical abnormalities in the brains of starved baby animals, says scientists are closer to demonstrating that the chronic borderline malnutrition of the type found in the United States affects the brain development in human babies.

Babies who have starved to death show the same chemical changes in their brains that are seen in the baby animals but scientists are uncertain how chronic malnutrition affects brain development.

Nixon's Inaugural Theme Will Be 'Spirit Of '76'

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Milhous Nixon, 37th President of the United States, will be sworn in for a second term on Jan. 20, still seeking what he described in his first inaugural address as the "greatest honor history can bestow—the title of peacemaker."

Nixon, 60, has chosen the theme "Spirit of '76" for his second inaugural to inspire a resurgence of America's values as it nears its 200th birthday. But it is clear that peace in Vietnam, which has eluded him during his four years in the White House, also will be among the goals he will stress.

Ebullient from his spectacular re-election victory in November, the President set in motion his ideas for a four-day inauguration which would stress national unity and the "melting pot" traditions of America's greatness, close advisers said.

Nixon feared the second time around would be a letdown, as it usually is. But Jeb S. Magruder, executive secretary of the Inaugural Committee, said: "All of our plans are to make this a highly spirited inaugural ... broder based, with more segments of society represented."

In essence, the President wants a hefty representation at all the events from the ranks of what he calls the "new majority" which kept him in power.

Some 10,000 out-of-towners are expected to pour into the nation's capital on Thursday, Jan. 18, for the round of social activities celebrating another chapter in presidential history. The leadoff event will be a reception at the Smithsonian Institution honoring Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, a three-hour special invitation affair, beginning at 5 p.m.

Hope, Davis, Sinatra

In the evening at 9 p.m. there will be a "Salute to the States" in honor of the states and their governors at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Bob Hope and country and western singers Lynn Anderson and Ray Stevens will headline the show.

Hope, and Sammy Davis Jr., and Frank Sinatra, all ardent Nixon-Agnew political supporters, are chairmen of the Inaugural Entertainment Committee.

On Friday, Jan. 19, there will be an unprecedented "Salute to America's Heritage" honoring the contributions of the ethnic and minority groups to the nation's culture. The reception, featuring foreign foods, music and art will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

Three separate inaugural concerts, featuring three types of music, will bring crowds to the Kennedy Center. An American music concert will be staged in the Opera House with a candlelight supper for those purchasing $250 orchestra seats or $500 box seats.

A "Youth Concert" with rock entertainers and the Mike Curb Congregation will be held in the Eisenhower Theater of the Kennedy Center, and a "symphonic concert" with pianist Van Cliburn and the Philadelphia Orchestra under conductor Eugene Ormandy will be performed in the Concert Hall. The program will include "The 1812 Overture."

Festivities will wind up Saturday night with three inaugural balls—black tie instead of the more formal white tie of the past. The balls will be held at the marble halled Kennedy Center, the ultra modern Smithsonian Museum of History and Technology, and at the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History.

For inaugural-goers under 30, there will be a special youth ball at the Corcoran Gallery.

About 12,000 youths who supported Nixon's re-election, have been invited to Washington for the cavalcade of inaugural events.

Tickets $10 and Up

Those attending the celebration in style will need well padded pocketbooks. Tickets for the "Salute to the States" go for $100, $75, $50 and $25. To meet the Agnews, it will cost $10.

The "Heritage Salute" tickets cost $10 for adults and $5 for children.

Concert tickets run from $500 to $20, while ball-goers will pay $40 per person. Tickets for the Youth Ball are a more modest $15.

Magruder estimates the inaugural will cost about $4 million—the costliest in history—and he expects a surplus, to be donated to the next inauguration.

To put the extravaganza on a self-paying basis, the committee is selling over-the-counter and by mail: The official inaugural book, $5; inaugural license plates, $15; and official inaugural medals engraved with the profiles of Nixon and Agnew, in bronze for $6 and in sterling silver for $45.

Putting it all together are 200 paid staffers and 4,000 volunteers.

Masterminding the finances and the pageantry for the second time is multimillionaire restaurateur J. Willard Marriot, a personal friend of the President.

As she did at the first inaugural, Pat Nixon will hold the family's 19th Century Bible on which the President will rest his left hand as he takes the oath of office. Black-robed Chief Justice Warren Burger will administer the oath for the first time.

The Bible in 1969 was opened to Isaiah II, 4; "And He shall judge among the nations and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

After the swearing in, Nixon will deliver his inaugural address. In the gathering before him will be members of the House and Senate; the governors of 50 states; the diplomatic corps; the cabinet; 305 Medal-of-Honor winners, and people by the thousands.

Offering Course On Exceptional Child

Pitt Technical Institute, in cooperation with the Department of Special Education of the University of North Carolina and the Department of Public Instruction, will offer a course entitled "Introduction To The Study of Exceptional Children" beginning Tuesday with registration.

Participants may receive certificate renewal for successful completion of the course. The course will be held in room 12 of the administration building, beginning at 7 p.m. It will be a 32-hour, 16-week course meeting each Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The above course offering represents a major combined effort to provide special training for teachers and supervisors who are working with the exceptional child.

Course content will cover 16 different topics dealing with the exceptional child.

This course is particularly designed for teachers in the elementary and secondary school system who need certification which enables them to more effectively meet the needs of the exceptional child. All such applicants must coordinate their interest for this course through the in-service coordinator within their school system.

Class enrollment is limited in order to accommodate the instructional media that will be utilized. Therefore, interested persons, through their city or county school system, should obtain approval as soon as possible. Registration will be held from 6:00 - 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday.

For additional information, call the Extension Division, 756-3130, extension 33 or 38, or your local in-service coordinator.

Add Dimension To Evaluations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 16 states are adding a new dimension to evaluations of their schools: ability to compare student achievement results with national and regional data by using materials of the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP).

National Assessment, administered by the Education Commission of the States (ECS), is a continuing program designed to give educators and the public a systematic, periodic check on what American school students are learning and what young adults have learned.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JANUARY 14, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day for you to study the working details of all branches of life, whether they be spiritual, mental, emotional and/or physical. Organize them so you waste less time, energy and money in the days ahead. Consult an expert if in doubt about anything. Keep calm and contented.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can elevate your thoughts to greater things now by making plans to increase your abundance. Study your budget and make allowances for rising prices. Stop worrying and relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take those treatments that make you more attractive before getting together with those who mean a great deal to you. Then the social hours bring excellent results. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some time spent in meditation can bring forth the intuitive faculties that are so helpful to you in dealing with others. Make plans to improve methods of handling regular routines. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talking seriously with your friends shows you what your position is with them and how much they will cooperate with you. State your ideas clearly. Take time to plan the future more wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Getting together with clever persons who are experts in inspirational, scientific or educational fields is wise. Do research work that is helpful to your progress. Make this an interesting day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your intuition is working fine now and you can use it to get ahead faster, especially in personal matters. A show of true devotion to mate is important now. Avoid one who is belligerent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you come through with promises made to others and insist they do the same with you, all works out fine for you today. Try to cooperate more with mate. Avoid one who is a well-known troublemaker.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Arrange a meeting with associates and work out a plan for more success in the future. You can reconcile with one who has been unfriendly of late. This person is important to your future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An ideal day to show others how much you appreciate their loyalty and favors of the past, and how much you want them to take part in your future. Take health treatments you need. Avoid gossips.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attend the services that uplift your spirits and see individuals who are also inspiring. You can make the future brighter for yourself. Take time for romance in the afternoon and evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make your home more charming and comfortable so you can entertain in the evening and have a delightful time. Strive for more harmony with kin. Show that you are a kind and thoughtful person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is important you attend the services of your choice and become more inspired than you have been for some time. Then call on friends and relations and come to a better understanding. Be wise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people that everyone will love and want to spoil, so be sure to teach to work for whatever is desired and then this becomes a successful and happy chart. The field of engineering, banking and entertainment are especially fine here, although writing, medicine and nursing are also good. Religion is a must here.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1973

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You wisely start the new week on a new note in which you can take your most expansive ventures and reduce them to an understanding so they are very successful. You find it is to your advantage now to deal directly with highly placed persons. Use tact and diplomacy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A higher-up is analyzing greatly the way you are performing your work, so be sure to meet the test and gain big benefits therefrom. Find the right co-workers to assist you. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan to engage in the kind of recreations that please you during spare time. Don't neglect the romantic side of life. Try not to be aggressive when you are in the wrong or you get into trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with kin how to make your lives happier and more affluent. You find that teamwork can work miracles. Put fundamental affairs in good order. The evening is fine for entertainment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan a meeting with associates and discuss moot points so that you come to a better understanding. Use good judgment. Contact others who can give the backing you need for your projects.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to add to present income and can do so now, but don't neglect to pay those bills which are easy for you to do. Listen to ideas which a co-worker expresses. You can gain a great deal from them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) This can be a most enjoyable day for you if you get into the recreational activities you like instead of just thinking about them. The social side of life can bring real advancement. Dress well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Kin can best advise you on how to gain your cherished aims. Experts in business should be consulted for ideas to increase your income. Buy furnishings needed at home. Happiness can be yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't waste time in getting together with associates, either for business or recreation. Social gatherings are fine for finding the extra support you need. Avoid one who bores you. Act wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show one in high position that you have wise and practical ideas and you soon benefit. Working efficiently at your job is acknowledged by your boss. Avoid one who wants to impede your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) While your own ideas are good, you can also get others to give you theirs which are practical and to your advantage. Make this a very productive day. Appreciate favors from newcomers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have worries that need to be discussed with experts and then your problems clear up nicely. Show more devotion to mate. Avoid one who wants to break up this important relationship.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get together with allies at whatever is most important to you at this time. Gatherings for social and business reasons are especially good now. Plan to be more successful in the near future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those clever young people who will easily understand what is going on, and will be a fine conversationalist at an early age, because of the innate intelligence here. An ideal chart for the special investigator, the researcher and the electronics engineer. Give good ethical and religious training to offset tendency to be too materialistic.

Admits Israelis Kept Bargain

By THOMAS CHEATHAM

JERUSALEM (UPI) — It pained Mahmoud Abu Zalef to say it:

"The Israelis have kept their bargain. I agree I have more freedom of speech now than under Jordan, although I don't like to admit it."

Mahmoud edits and publishes East Jerusalem's Al Quds, the largest circulation (25,000) independent Arab newspaper in the territory captured by Israel in the 1967 Middle East war.

As an opinionmaker, he is regarded with respect on both sides of the conflict.

On one hand, he demands the return of occupied land to Egypt, Syria and Jordan, while deploring Israel's construction of Jewish settlements there.

On the other, he describes as counterproductive such Arab guerrilla actions as the one that killed 11 Israeli Olympians in Munich Sept. 5.

"I understand their (the guerrillas') feelings," he said over sweet Arabic coffee. "But I understand world public opinion, too. If they want to fight the Israeli army, all right, but let them leave civilians alone..."

Despises Israelis

The 48-year-old father of five is one of the pillars of Jerusalem's Arab sector, both figuratively and literally. He stands 6-feet-5 and weighs 220 pounds.

Mahmoud despises living under the Israeli conquerors and paying their taxes but realizes he never had it so good in at least one important respect.

Before the war, Jordan dictated editorial policy and controlled the press. The Israelis let him print what he wants.

"Politically, I'm free," he said. "But I don't think there is anyone on earth who wants or likes to live under foreign occupation. I'm for the Arabs, not the Israelis."

As a vehicle for dissimilar opinion, Al Quds has become a showpiece for Israeli officials proud of what they consider their liberal policy of tolerating vocal dissent.

"I know they take advantage of the appearance of the paper," its editor-publisher said, "I expect them to do it. If it is a fact, I don't object."

Mahmoud began newspapering in Jerusalem in 1948 after becoming one of the thousands of Palestinians who left their homes the same year during Israel's war of independence.

With two other men he founded Al Jehad in 1952 and watched it grow to Jordan's largest circulation newspaper. The government ordered it merged with Al Quds in April, 1967.

The newspaper ceased publication June 5, 1967, the first day of the war. It was not until almost 18 months later that Mahmoud got a license to publish again, risking being labeled a collaborator.

That accusation never came, he said, "because I believe the average Palestinian agrees with me."

"My feeling was that as a journalist, I had to publish the paper for the good of the community," he added. "We, the Palestinians, had to express our opinions. Why should we have done nothing and let the Israeli-run newspaper appear to speak for us?"

Paper Outstrips Competition

The occupation authorities gave him a loan and promised not to interfere.

As if to test that pledge, the first issue of Al Quds, on Nov. 18, 1968, called for the immediate withdrawal of Israeli troops from the occupied territories.

From four pages daily, the newspaper has grown to six and will soon go to eight. Mahmoud fills it with a mixture of international news, with special emphasis on the Arab world and reports from the Israeli-held areas.

His circulation far outstrips that of the Israeli-run Arabic daily, Al Anba, and of two other recently begun Arabic newspapers.

Al Quds' readers include King Hussein of Jordan, diplomats and Israeli leaders interested in keeping their fingers on the political pulse in the territories.

What they read in his editorials, he said, reflects the mood of a people frustrated under occupation and anxious for a return to Arab rule.

"At the moment, Israel's annexation of East Jerusalem means I am a Jordanian living on Israeli soil... I don't like it."

Nevertheless, Mahmoud has befriended many Israeli leaders, including Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, and attends government receptions with other prominent Arabs from the territories.

"Friendship with the Jews is no compromise to my basic stance," he said, adding that until he and his friends are back under Jordanian rule, they must face the realities of coexisting with Israel.

"And I don't see such a peace as being near," he said.

JUICY BUSINESS

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Consumers have spent an average of $325 million annually for the past seven seasons for frozen concentrated orange juice, according to statistics from the Florida citrus industry. Sales have ranged from a low of $221 million to a high of $465 million.

Washington, Miami Clash In Super Bowl

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Washington's aging Redskins, many spurred by the knowledge that this may be their last shot at all the marbles, take the role of slim favorite into Super Bowl VII Sunday against Miami's unbeaten Dolphins.

The Dolphins, humiliated 24-3 by Dallas in last year's Super Bowl, cruised through a 14-0 season this year, then knocked off Cleveland and Pittsburgh in the National Football League playoffs to win their second straight American Conference championship.

But going into the kickoff for the nationally televised Super Bowl VII (12:30 p.m., PST, NBC) in Memorial Coliseum, Miami is listed a three-point underdog to the Redskins, who posted an 11-3 regular-season record, then walloped Green Bay and Dallas to take the National Conference crown.

Every seat in the massive Coliseum—the NFL says this amounts to 90,182 tickets—was officially filled nearly two weeks ago.

And with the sellout, it's the first time the NFL has lifted its local blackout of the game, thus giving Los Angeles fans a chance to watch the game on home television.

What they'll see is a lot of former Los Angeles Rams, including Washington Coach George Allen. When Allen was dumped two years ago by the Rams, after five straight winning seasons, he was signed by the Redskins. And, in a wave of veterans-for-draft choices trades, he brought many of his former players and assistant coaches with him.

With these veterans, quickly tagged the "Over-The-Hill Gang," Allen made the Redskins instant winners and got them into the playoffs for the first time since 1945.

Coach Don Shula, hired away from Baltimore for the start of the 1970 season, used Miami's youth to work a similar miracle with the Dolphins. He took a team with a 15-39-2 record in its first four years and, in 1970, vaulted them into the playoffs with a 10-4 mark, then brought them the AFC title with a 10-3-1 record a year later.

Allen, usually tight-lipped and dead-serious, was even more so Friday at the coaches' final appearance before the press. At times he sounded bitter about the attention which he and his players have received this past week.

"If I was running the Super Bowl," he said, "I'd have the team arrive perhaps Thursday or Friday to avoid all the distractions. We had 31 players being interviewed for an hour and a half yesterday," and he blamed that for what he called "the team's worst workout.

"I'm missing my first team meeting in 23 years of coaching to talk to you press guys," he said, "I hope your questions have some value. I've been answering the same questions since Monday."

Shula spiced his comments and answers with jokes about the difference in last year's school of Dolphins and this year's by saying:

"We came into the Super Bowl glossy-eyed last year but this time we arrived knowing what to expect."

The Dolphins are the NFL's first team since the 1942 Chicago Bears to go through a season unbeaten and untied—with the AFC's No. 1 offense and defense. The Redskins are fifth in overall NFC offense and second on defense.

The running game is the key to both teams' attack.

Miami, establishing a league record with its 2,951 yards rushing, was led by Larry Csonka, No. 2 in the AFC with 1,117 yards, and Mercury Morris, No. 6 with 1,000. Washington relied mostly on NFC rushing leader Larry Brown, who wound up with 1,216 yards. Charley Harraway added 567 yards.

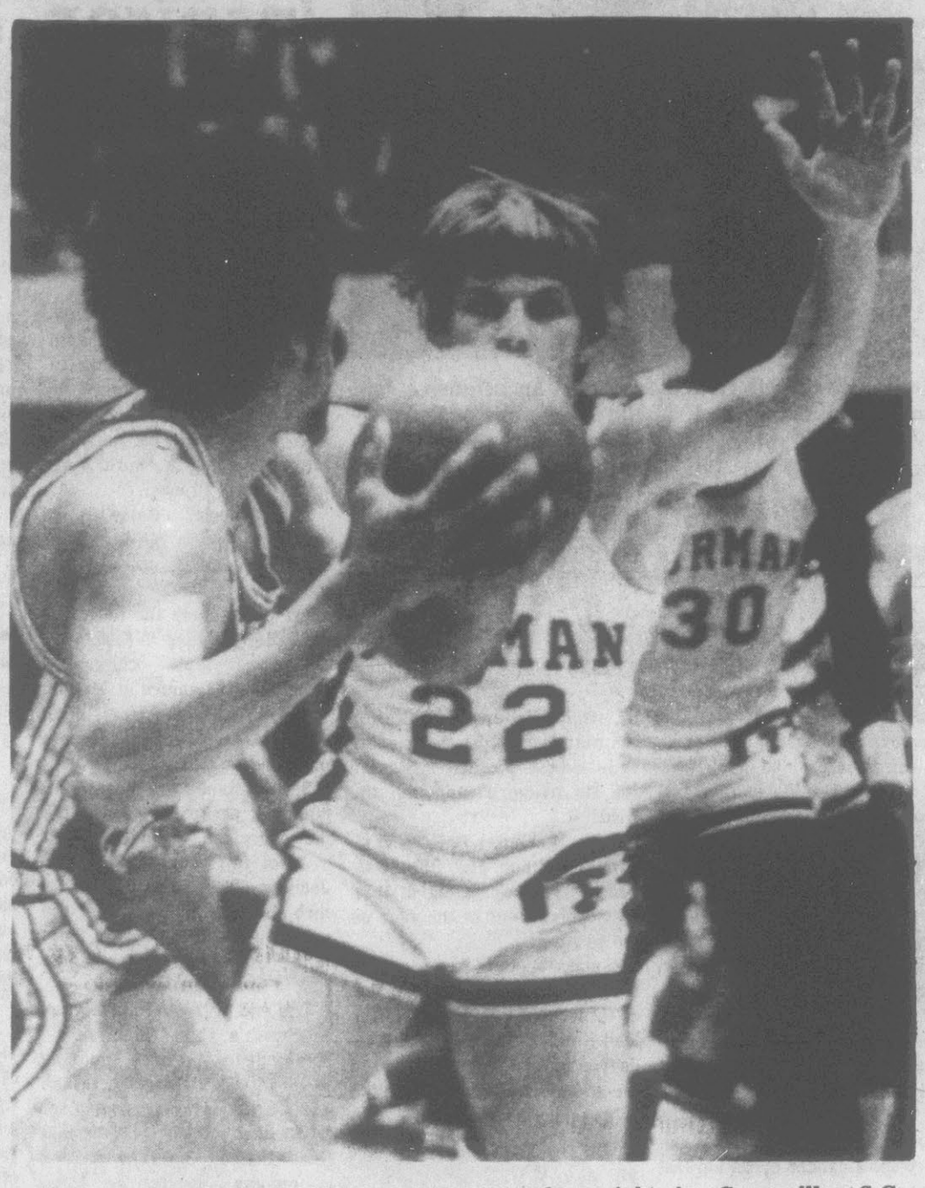
Earl Morrall, who took over as Miami's quarterback after Bob Griese—named to start against Washington—suffered leg and ankle injuries in the fifth game of the season, wound up as the AFC's leading passer. He hit 83 of 150 passes, a 55.3 completion percentage, for 1,-360 yards, 11 touchdowns and just seven interceptions.

Billy Kilmer was fourth-best in the NFC, completing 120 of 225 passes for 1,648 yards and a conference-leading 19 touchdowns. He had 11 of his passes picked off.

Because of Griese's injury and the switch to the more conservative Morall, the Dolphins' passing marks were less impressive than Washington's. Paul Warfield led Miami with 29 receptions for 606 yards, 14 fewer catches and 390 yards fewer than his 1971 performance.

Kilmer's primary target was Charley Taylor, who capped his season by hauling in seven passes for 146 yards and a pair of touchdowns in the NFC title triumph over Dallas. During the regular season, Taylor caught 49 passes, fourth-best in the conference, for 673 yards.

Furman Gets Revenge On Pirates, 84-60



EYE ON THE BALL — Furman's Baron Hill (22) has his eye on the ball as East Carolina's Jerome Owens, left, tries to pass to one of his teammates in Southern Conference basketball action Saturday night in Greenville, S.C. Furman won the game, 84-60, to remain unbeaten in the league. (AP Wirephoto)

GREENVILLE, S.C. — When Furman's Paladins fell to the Pirates last year in the finals of the Southern Conference Tournament, there was the old Brooklyn Dodger epitath of years gone by bandied around: "Wait 'till next year."

Well, next year is here. And so is a fellow named Fessor Leonard.

They call him the Moose around the Furman playing courts. And he was death on the East Carolina University Pirates last night, as the Paladins got their hoped-for revenge in an 84-60 victory over the Bucs that could have been worse.

Neither team really played an outstanding game of basketball, with frequent terms of scorelessness. But they seemed to run together, and the Pirates never could cut into the Furman lead when they had the opportunity.

The Paladins led all the way, and only a 2-2 tie marred their running from tap to horn with the lead.

The Moose, however, was the big man in more ways than one for the Paladins. He used his 7-1 frame to good advantage, blocking several shots, and being the kingpin in the man-to-man press used by Furman.

Altogether, he scored 31 points, and pulled down 13 rebounds for Furman, leading them in both categories. As a team, Furman outhit the Pirates in percentage from the floor 48.6 per cent to 40.0 per cent. And the Paladins grabbed off 40 individual rebounds to 31 for the Bucs.

Clyde Mayes got the ball rolling for the Paladins, hitting from underneath to start their points. Nicky White came back with a jumper to tie it up for the Pirates, but that was the only time they were even with the Paladins.

Last year's Outstanding Player in the tournament, Roy Simpson drove in to hit and put Furman back out, 4-2, and they were never caught again. He followed that up with two free throws after less than two minutes had elapsed to make it 6-2.

After an exchange of baskets, Simpson hit again to raise the lead to six, 10-4, and after another exchange of shots, the Bucs called a time-out to collect themselves.

But it proved to be just the opposite. After White missed on two free throws, the only ones of the half for the Pirates, Simpson hit two more baskets to run it out to 16-6, a 10-point spread.

Earl Quash finally ended the Pirate drought with about 14 minutes left, but they weren't able to cut into the Paladin lead. After the score reached 20-12, both teams went into a temporary loss of scoring ability, which was finally broken by two free throws by Craig Lynch. Todd Brenizer then added a jumper, and that made it 24-12.

For the next few mintes, until nearly the end of the period it was again a case of basket swapping. Then, with just over a minute left, the Paladins hit another streak, running their lead out to 17 points.

Russ Hunt, Player of the Year last season in the Southern Conference, hit to make it 35-24, and then stole the ball on a rebound and put it back up for a 37-24 lead. Ed Kelley got the ball on another steal to hit again, and to top it off, Simpson hit after stealing the ball once more, and it was 41-24 with just seconds left in the half. Roger Atkinson managed to hit at the horn to cut the margin to 41-26.

Then, the Moose took over. He hit the first six baskets of the second half to erase any comeback hopes the Pirates might have had.

After the two teams swapped points for the first few minutes, Leonard hit three straight baskets without a Pirate scoring, and that ran their lead out to 52-30. From then until about 12 minutes remained, the two again swapped baskets and the score climbed to 63-42.

Jerome Owens then got two free throws for the Bucs, and Dave McNeill was credited with two points on goaltending to cut the lead to 17, 63-46, but that was as close as the Bucs got.

The Furman loss of touch continued for another couple of minutes, and the Pirates joined in until Simpson broke it with a pair of free throws with 7:35 left.

Mayes and Leonard both hit from the line to run the lead back to 21, and Mayes followed with a pair of baskets to run the margin to 25, 74-49.

Quash hit a free throw for the Bucs, but Leonard hit another jumper, and then got two free shots to make it 79-50. After another Quash charity shot, Leonard hit again, and it was 80-51, the biggest lead of the night, 29 points with just over three minutes left.

The Paladins cleared their bench after that, and the Bucs trimmed it back to the final 24-point spread in the time remaining.

Besides Leonard's contributions, Simpson finished with 16 and Mayes added 11. For the Pirates, Franklin was high with 14, all in the second half, while White and Quash each had 12 and Owens had 10.

Faber pulled down 10 rebounds, but failed to score in the game. Mayes added nine rebounds to the Furman total.

The Pirates, now 5-6 overall and 2-4 in the league, return home Wednesday night to meet the George Washington Colonials.

Baby Bucs Take Third In Field

MOUNT OLIVE — East Carolina's J.V. basketball team rode a nine-point first half lead to take an 85-74 win over UNC of Charlotte in the consolation game of the Mt. Olive Pickle Classic last night.

UNC-C had led part of the first half but the Baby Bucs went in front 33-30 on a three point play by Al Edwards. With 7:30 to play in the half, UNC-C had commandeered a 26-15 spread but the Baby Bucs out-hit UNC-C in the remaining minutes, 26-6, to take a 41-32 lead into the dressing room at intermission. During the last two minutes of the half, Edwards canned 14 points.

East Carolina continued to dominate the game as they scored twelve points in the first three minutes of the second half while limiting UNC-C to a free throw. That increased the ECU lead to 53-33. William Hill and Fred Stone each hit 12 points in the second half. Hill was also carrying three fouls.

The Pirates hit 38 of 73 shots for 52.1 percent while UNC-C was not quite as hot only sinking 29 of 76 for 38.2 percent. ECU also out-rebounded UNC-C, 49-43, even though UNC-C had the height advantage.

Hill grabbed off 12 rebounds for the Baby Bucs while both Stone and Edwards each pulled down 10.

Edwards led all scorers with 23 points. Shone had 21, Hill, 17, and Lenny Kendall, 14. Lee Wilson led the losers with 22, Don Pearce and Mike Roberts both scored 13, and Olen Wood dumped in 10.

Tar Heels Sink Pirate Tankmen

CHAPEL HILL — East Carolina's tankmen suffered their first loss of the year yesterday as the swimmers of the University of North Carolina paddled to a 69-43 decision over the Bucs.

The hero of the meet, however, was ECU's Paul Trevisan who came away a triple winner and he also qualified for national competition in the 50-yard freestyle which he won in 21.6 seconds. He also took a first in the 100 free style and swam the anchor leg of the free style relay.

The Pirates had a double winner in Jack Morrow. Morrow won both the 1-Meter and 3-Meter diving events.

The Bucs are now 3-1 and will hit the road again Friday as they journey to Florida to take on Florida A&M and Moorehill St. Then on Saturday, ECU goes against the swimmers of the University of Southern Florida at Tampa.

Rams Said Ready To Dump Prothro

DETROIT (AP) — Sources close to the Los Angeles Rams say head coach Tommy Prothro is definitely on his way out with three years to go on his contract, the Detroit News reported Saturday.

The Rams, however, declined to comment directly on the report.

The News, in a story on job prospects for just-fired Detroit assistant coach Chuck Knox, said Knox is one of three men being considered to replace Prothro. Knox, who lost his job when head coach Joe Schmidt resigned Friday, had just returned from being interviewed for the Los Angeles post, the newspaper said.

The News said sources close to Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom "confirmed that Prothro's departure was imminent."

The Rams also are considering Don McCafferty for the head job, The News said. McCafferty was Rosenbloom's head coach with the Baltimore Colts for two years, including their Super Bowl triumph in 1971. The third candidate was not named.

A spokesman for the Rams said, "Mr. Rosenbloom has said no decision has been made yet and that he expects a decision will be made in the next few weeks."

NCAA Drops 1.6 Rule; Adopts Grant Limits

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A limitation on athletic scholarships which may doom football red shirting by major schools and elimination of the controversial 1.6 rule were approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association as it closed its 67th annual convention Saturday.

The 667-member organization also rejected a proposal to grant financial aid on the basis of need after a warning by the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, Notre Dame's athletic chairman that its adoption would "open another can of worms."

In eliminating the 1.6 projected grade point minimum for college entrance and athletic aid, the NCAA replaced it with a 2.0—a C average in high school—for college-bound athletes.

Also approved were revised rules for transferring from junior colleges to NCAA member schools. The junior colleges will presumably be a preliminary stop for high school athletes detoured from immediate college careers by high school grades below the 2.0 average.

The significant measure limiting financial aid allows only 30 new football scholarships to be granted per year. No more than 105 will be permitted to exist at any time.

Most major conferences have overall total football tenders of 120 or more, and the numbers reduction apparently will force a turn away from the practice by some major schools of "red shirting" athletes, a practice of holding out a player for one season during a five-year college stint.

A maximum of new scholarships for all sports for recruiting purposes was fixed at 104.

Basketball will be allowed six recruiting scholarships.

Scholarships can be distributed to other sports on any basis within the framework of a maximum of 228.

The convention also limited awarding of financial athletic aid to one-year periods, a drastic change from the current practice of granting four-year scholarships.

Under the one-year granting rule, a school may drop an athlete's scholarship at its discretion but such an affected athlete could petition a hearing to contest the failure of renewal of financial aid.

Before the convention, which attracted a record 485 voting delegates, adjourned its three-day session, some sparks flew on the subject of the NCAA's withdrawal last October from the United States Olympic Committee membership and on revision of the NCAA's enforcement procedure.

Commissioner Scotty Whitelaw of the Eastern College Athletic Conference protested the withdrawal from the USOC without prior notice to the NCAA's individual members.

"The ECAC is keenly disappointed with the timing and manner in which the NCAA council undertook this action," Whitelaw said, although conceding that there is need for reorganization of the USOC for better collegiate representation.

Whitelaw said the ECAC was deprived of its voting privileges on the USOC by the council's sudden withdrawal. He challenged the "authority" of the council acting between convention periods "on matters of such major significance."

He succeeded in getting NCAA agreement to appoint a committee to draft legislation specifying the NCAA council's future authority relating to similar issues.

Before the convention approved a new enforcement procedure establishing a five-member NCAA Committee on Infractions, Notre Dame's Joyce criticized the proposal, saying it would make the committee "prosecutor and jury at the same time."

A council member, Dr. Harry M. Cross, University of Washington law professor, said the revised enforcement set-up still allows cited schools to petition review of their cases by the council.

Alan J. Chapman of Rice University, a council member, was elected NCAA president, succeeding Earl M. Ramer of the University of Tennessee.

Elected secretary-treasurer was Richard P. Keonig of Valparaiso University.

Colonials Top Spiders

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)— George Washington's Colonials shot 67 per cent from the floor in the second half Saturday night as they overcame a one-point deficit for an 80-72 basketball victory over Richmond's Spiders.

The Colonials, led by Pat Tallent, outscored Richmond 21-10 midway the half to move 10 points in front. After the Spiders cut the gap to three points with 6:28 to go, the Colonials ran off another streak to boost the lead back to 10 and Richmond got no closer than six.

UCLA Gets 57th In Row

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Top-ranked UCLA, after trailing at halftime for the first time this season, stretched its winning streak to 57 games Saturday as Bill Walton returned to All-American form in the second half of a 69-50 Pacific-8 basketball victory over California.

A long jump shot by Cal's Eric Long just before the end of the first half put the Bears ahead 35-33 at intermission. But UCLA outscored Cal 20-4 to start the second half, with Walton getting nine points and controling the backboards.

The 6-foot-11 Player of the Year last season scored only four points in the first half when Cal center Carl Meier had 16. Meier made seven of eight field goal attempts in the first half but sat out part of the second half after picking up his fourth personal foul. He totaled a game-high 20 points. Walton had 14.

Forwards Keith Wilkes and Larry Farmer scored 18 points each to lead UCLA, now 12-0 for the season and 4-0 in the conference. The loss made Cal 1-3 in the Pac-8, 5-8 overall.

The Bears shot 55 per cent from the floor as they surged to their surprising halftime lead.

Duke Slips By Clemson, 75-73

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Sophomore Kevin Billerman's two free throws with 20 seconds remaining gave Duke a 75-73 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball win over Clemson Saturday.

The win was the Blue Devils' first in four ACC contests and gave the team a 6-7 overall record. Clemson is 0-3 in the league and 5-7 in all games.

The Tigers led for most of the regionally televised game behind the scoring for forward Jeff Reisinger, who had 21 points. Clemson was ahead by three points with 28 seconds remaining.

Gregg missed a baseline shot with seconds to go and Redding rebounded to clinch the victory.

Duke, whose second high scorer was Alan Shaw with 20 points, had lost its three previous games, all in the conference. Clemson has now lost three straight.

Irish Snap Long Marquette String

Marquette, which had won its 11 previous games this season—six by five points or less—stretched a 33-29 halftime lead to 50-40 behind the hot shooting of George Frazier with 13:09 to play.

But sophomore Gary Brokaw, who led all scorers with 28 points, and John Schumate led a comeback that pulled the Irish into ties at 54 and 56.

Baskets by McNeil and Allie McGuire gave Marquette a 60-56 lead with 4:28 left, but the Irish fought back and took a 69-67 lead on two free throws by Clay with 1:08 to play.

Tony Davis Is Hurt In Wreck

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Anthony Davis, Southern California's bullet-quick sophomore tailback, underwent successful surgery Saturday to repair a left Achilles tendon partially severed in a traffic accident.

Dr. Frank Jobe headed the team that performed the surgery and later said: "There is no indication that his career will be hampered."

During the 90-minute surgery Davis also was treated for cuts and bruises of the upper and lower extremities and chin and a puncture wound in the right knee.

Jobe said a short cast was placed on the left leg, a plaster splint on the right and that "all indications are that he will be able to play baseball by the end of February."

Davis, leading ball carrier for the Trojans this year and star of his team's smashing 42-17 victory over Ohio State in the Rose Bowl, also played the outfield for USC's national champion baseball team last spring.

California Highway Patrol officers said Davis' sports car crashed into a light pole when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel Saturday morning. They said a passenger in the car, Sharon Lyles, 19, was shaken up and later treated for shock.

Davis was not a starter for the Trojans until late this past season. However, starting only four games, he led the team in rushing with 1,034 yards for the first 11 games and then piled up 156 against Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. The 190-pound running back who stands only 5-foot-9 scored six touchdowns—including two on kickoff returns—in a 45-23 defeat of Notre Dame.

Perry Among AwardContenders

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A panel of sportswriters and sportscasters in North Carolina and South Carolina has selected five top candidates for the initial annual award of the Charlotte Athletic Club's Carolinas Athlete of the Year.

The winner will be announced at a banquet at the club Tuesday night, Jan. 23, at which Woody Hayes, football coach at Ohio State, will be the main speaker.

The five top vote getters were Billy Cunningham of the American Basketball Association Carolina Cougars; Lanny Wadkins, former Wake Forest University star and U.S. Amateur golf champion, now a touring pro; Kevin Joyce, captain and scoring star of the University of South Carolina basketball team; and two North Carolinians who are American league pitching stars—Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the world champion Oakland Athletics and Gaylord Perry, 24-game winner at Cleveland last year, when he took the Cy Young Award as top hurler in the league.

The club stipulated that the winner need not be a native of the Carolinas to qualify. Participation in either state suffices.

In addition, the high school athlete of the year from the two states will be honored at the banquet. Finalists in this category will be announced later.

Jones Claims He's Defamed

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wali Jones charged Saturday the Milwaukee Bucks had "defamed" him by suspending him for alleged detrimental conduct and placing him on waivers without explaining their allegations.

"The Bucks have offered me as a sacrifice—a sacrificial lamb," Jones, accompanied by attorney Richie Phillips, told a news conference.

"I have been spit upon and I have been defamed," said Jones, a seven-year National Basketball Association veteran. "I am positive about my own well being, physically and mentally, and about my integrity and honor."

The Bucks placed Jones on medical suspension Dec. 12, contending he had lost weight and stamina. Subsequently it was learned they also had suspended him for 30 days for alleged "curfew violation and conduct detrimental to basketball."

Bucks' General Manager Wayne Embry said Tuesday a medical examination by the club's physician found no cause for Jones' alleged loss of weight and stamina.

The Bucks then placed him on waivers because, Embry said, "we see no reasonable prospect of Jones returning to the level of performance which we expected of him."

Phillips said after "many, many discussions with the Bucks, they have failed to satisfy me that there is any good reason Wali should not be a member of the Milwaukee Bucks' basketball team."

Phillips has appealed the suspension to NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

He said he had "no idea" what the Bucks meant by detrimental conduct. He acknowledged the term had fanned rumors concerning Jones' conduct, and blamed the Bucks for having taken "contradictory positions."

Georgetown To Drop Football

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Georgetown College, a small Kentucky institution caught between rising athletic costs and declining student interest, has decided to drop intercollegiate football.

The decision, made by the college's Board of Trustees Friday, was announced Saturday.

A statement by the board said that the cost of the football program was "a major consideration" in the decision.

"In recent years the college has invested $44,000 per year in grants-in-aid and about $35,000 in operating expenses," a spokesman said. These figures have held constant for several years and the spokesman said new money would have to be invested in the program "if football were to continue on a quality basis."

Georgetown had a 2-7 record in 1972 and was 1-8 the year before. The board's decision cancels a 10-game schedule for 1973.

The decision to discontinue football does not affect other intercollegiate sports or the college's physical education program.

Georgetown President Robert L. Mills had high praise for Coach Lester Craft and his assistant, Tom Dowling, both of whom will remain members of the physical education faculty and coaches in other sports.

"Coach Craft has done an excellent job against colleges that had almost double the scholarships Georgetown had. He has consistently put together exciting teams that have maintained high standards of scholarship and sportsmanship," Mills said.

"Football will be missed at Georgetown," Mills added. "unfortunately, we have limited resources and our priority is a quality educational program."

SHIFTING TO HIALEAH

When Secretariat won the Garden State Stakes at Cherry Hill, N.J., it marked the second straight Garden State for the Meadow Stable and jockey Ron Turcotte. They won with Riva Ridge in 1971. Riva Ridge went on to take the 1972 Derby and the Belmont.

Grier Jones Vaults Into Phoenix Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Grier Jones, striking his irons with rifle-like accuracy, forged a four-under-par 66 and vaulted into the third-round lead Saturday in the $150,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The 26-year-old Jones, who came into his own with two victories and more than $100,000 in winnings last season, posted a 54-hole total of 198—12 under par on the sunny, 6,216-yard Arizona Country Club course.

J.C. Snead, the leader through the first two rounds, couldn't maintain his pace. Snead, who enjoyed a three-stroke margin starting play in the warm, sunny weather, bogeyed two of his last three holes for a 71—200.

Veteran Dave Hill, who often plays short courses such as this one extremely well, was alone in third place at 68—201—three strokes back going into the last round.

Gene Littler, a 42-year-old veteran on the rebound from a bout with cancer, moved into contention at 202—the day's best round, a six-under-par 64 despite a ball out of bounds on the 16th hole.

Littler played the front nine in six-under-par 29, which included an eagle three, and used only 27 putts in his solid effort.

"It's the best I've putted in months," said Littler, who underwent a cancer operation last summer.

Tied at 203 were defending champion Homero Blancas, Australian Bruce Crampton, veteran Paul Harney and Jim Hardy. Harney had a 65, Hardy 67, while Blancas and Crampton matched 68s as the friendly little course yielded scores in the 60s to more than half the field.

Snead, once a professional baseball player and the nephew of famed Sam Snead, held the lead most of the way in the 75-degree temperature but missed the green at the 16th and 18th holes and bogeyed both.

That let Jones slip into the top spot.

Jones, a former collegiate champion who struggled through three lean seasons before his banner 1972 efforts, bogeyed both the second and 18th but had six birdies in between.

He reached the par-five third hole in two and two-putted and birdied the next from 15 feet.

Jones started a string of three consecutive birds when he punched an eight-iron to within two feet of the cup on the seventh. He lipped out a 10-foot putt for an eagle on the next hole and made it from 25 feet on the ninth. He also wedged to 18 inches on the 16th hole to take the lead for the first time.

In all, Jones hit 16 greens in regulation and missed 12 putts of 15 feet or less—two of them from inside three feet.

"I'll have to play real good to win it tomorrow," Jones said. "I'll just go out and play as good as I can. It was a great feeling today to just keep hitting it at the flag all day long."

Cougars Run Past Dallas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things were looking up for the Memphis Tams when Kentucky's Dan Issel and Artis Gilmore were saddled with foul trouble, but what Walt Simon did to the Tams was really foul play.

"We run most of our stuff to Artis and Dan," said Coach Joe Mullaney, "but if the other teams elect to do extra work on them, that leaves us open on the outside. This is what happened tonight and Walt Simon came through for us."

What Simon did was hit 12 of 19 shots and score 26 points to lead the Colonels to a 104-101 triumph over the Tams that enabled them to remain 2½ games behind Carolina in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division. Carolina routed Dallas 129-106.

National Basketball Association scores: Boston 133, Atlanta 109; New York 104, Houston 103; Milwaukee 117, Kansas City-Omaha 98; Los Angeles 109, Chicago 97; Golden State 108, Phoenix 107; Buffalo 120, Portland 100; Cleveland 113, Philadelphia 109 in double overtime and Seattle 113, Detroit 104.

Carolina overtook Dallas with a 16-1 burst in the second quarter and wrapped it up with a 24-4 tear in the fourth period. Mack Calvin topped the Cougars with 30 points and Billy Cunningham added 23. Eugene Kennedy had 28 for Dallas.

Denver continued its supremacy over Indiana by beating the Pacers for the fifth time in six meetings and opening a 1½ game lead over the losers in their battle for second place in the Western Division. The Rockets trail pacesetting Utah by four games.

Denver, paced by Warren Jabali's 27 points, Ralph Simpson's 26 and Dave Robisch's 24, pulled away in the second half. Indiana center Mel Daniels was ejected in the final period for throwing a punch at Robisch, the Rockets' lanky left-handed center. Coach Bob Leonard was tagged with two quick technicals and followed Daniels to the sidelines 24 seconds later.

State Tunes Up For Clash With Maryland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Third-ranked North Carolina State tuned up for Sunday's nationally televised basketball meeting Sunday with Maryland, No. 2, by slaughtering Lehigh 115-53 Friday night.

Lehigh is a good engineering school, and its players can testify to what a finely engineered team the undefeated State Wolfpack is. Coach Norman Sloan used 15 players in the home victory Friday night, including one freshman who had never seen varsity action and four others who had competed in the preliminary junior varsity game. The score was 69-21 at halftime.

The coach let Tommy Burleson score 30 points and David Thompson 23 before he took them out.

It was the eleventh victory for N.C. State. Maryland also is undefeated, having won 10 games. The Terps will have the advantage of the home court in Sunday's game, which will start at noon and will be on TV before the Super Bowl football game.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference race, N.C. State and Maryland have won two games apiece, and North Carolina has won the only one it has played, trouncing Clemson 92-58 at home last Wednesday.

In the only action for ACC teams Saturday, Clemson was at Duke in a regaionally televised afternoon game.

The winner got out of the league cellar. Clemson had lost both its league games and is 5-6 in all games. Duke was 0-3 and 5-7.

Clemson Coach Tates Locke was fuming after the North Carolina game because he believed his players had quit trying. North Carolina broke to a 48-28 halftime lead, helped by a 14-2 spree in less than two minutes just before intermission. The Clemson Tigers began the second half lethargically, and allowed the Tar Heels to go on another spree, this one 28-6 in a little over seven minutes.

"The only thing encouraging is that nobody got killed," Locke said. He added that North Carolina, 13-1 and ranked No. 7 nationally, "Is a tremendous team. I still believe they're better than last year. It's the first time since I've been at Clemson that the kids quit when things got tough. They just didn't try."

The Duke Blue Devils also fell Wednesday night, 94-87 to N.C. State. Duke, which has lost three straight conference games on the road, will be playing at home this time. Chris Redding sideburned, gum-chewing Blue Devil forward, scored 31 points against North Carolina State, and 29 against Wake Forest last Saturday night. He is averaging 18.6 a game, and his teammate, guard Gary Melchionni is averaging 14.4.

National Meet Inspires Field

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — As the first major event of the season, and with the 1976 Olympics a long way off, the National Invitational Indoor Track Meet produced some fine performances.

Steve Smith, one of a couple dozen former Olympians competing, broke the American indoor pole vaulting record by clearing 17 feet, 8½ inches Friday night. Then he narrowly missed toppling the world mark before being injured.

Bob Wheeler, finely tuned and confident in his first race since September, scored a 10-yard victory while falling just short of cracking the four-minute mile, finishing in 4:00.5.

Two Olympic champions from the 1972 games at Munich were upset, as four meet records were broken and two others were tied.

Smith, named the meet's outstanding performer, broke the old American indoor mark of 17-7 set two years ago by Jan Johnson. Then, at 18 feet, ¼ inch, he ticked the bar on the way down as the crowd of 8,614 in the University of Maryland's Cole Field House groaned.

The end of the bar cut a gash in Smith's right thigh as he tumbled to the mat, and he never made a third try to top the world mark of 17 10½ set by Sweden's Kjell Isaksson last year. Instead, Smith headed for a nearby hospital to have stitches sewn in his leg.

Isaksson, who arrived in the United States after a 16-hour flight Thursday, said he was satisfied with his second-place tie at 16-6, and vowed to be in top shape at Los Angeles two weeks hence.

Olympic shot put champion, Wladyslaw Komar of Poland, finished a distant fourth at 62-9. But he also claimed satisfaction, in view of not yet adjusting to the time change since his arrival two days ago.

George Woods, who lost the gold medal to Komar at Munich by one-half inch, won the shot with a meet record 68-11, and said it was especially gratifying since he defeated old rival Al Feuerbach—the runner-up at 67-10.

The other Olympic champion to fall was hurdler Rod Milburn, who was beaten by 18-year-old Louisiana State freshman, Larry Shipp. While being timed in seven seconds flat for the 60-yard hurdles, Shipp also defeated two other Olympians, Tom Hill and Willie Davenport.

Other meet records were set by Great Britain's Ian Stewart, who won the two-mile run in 8:28.4, and Beaufort Brown with a clocking of 1:09.1 in the 600-yard run.

Lacey O'Neal won the women's 60-yard dash in 6.8 seconds and tied her own meet mark of 7.6 in winning the 60-yard hurdles to complete a double. Hasely Crawford's 5.9 in the men's dash tied another meet record.

Canada May Spurn Games

TORONTO (AP) — A Canadian Broadcasting Company correspondent in Bonn reported Saturday that belief is growing among members of the International Olympic Committee that the 1976 Olympic Games will not be held in Montreal.

"We must get used to the idea that it is not unlikely that Montreal is unable to organize the games," correspondent Alfred Schroeder quoted Willi Daume, German vice-president of the IOC, as saying.

Schroeder said the Montreal organizers of the games are due to report in detail to Olympic headquarters at Lausanne Feb. 3 on what they have done in preparation, and he quotes the vice-president as believing they will have little to show.

He added that leading IOC members now admit that choosing Montreal was a mistake and consideration is being given to the question of what city might replace it should Montreal decide to quit.

Schroeder said IOC members believe Moscow—which bid strongly for the 1976 games—is not ready yet, while another contender, Los Angeles, is given little chance. There was mention of excellent new facilities in Singapore, and Amsterdam was given "some chance."

Coach Is Quitting

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Princeton University was without a head football coach today following the sudden resignation of J.L. "Jake" McCandless after four seasons in which his teams compiled an 18-17-1 record.

The official announcement of McCandless' resignation was scheduled for Sunday but The Associated Press learned Friday night that the former Princeton football star had decided to step down as the result of a "difference of opinion" with Royce Flippin, the athletic director.

Flippin was unavailable for comment and McCandless declined to make any statement pending Sunday's official announcement.

Initial speculation on McCandless' successor at the prestigious Ivy League institution centered on Bob Casciola, head coach at the University of Connecticut, a former assistant at Princeton and Dartmouth and a star tackle at Princeton in the 1950s, and Homer Smith, offensive coordinator at UCLA.

Three Win In Church Games

Grace, Presbyterian and Immanuel picked up victories in the Church Basketball League on Friday night.

Grace downed St. Paul's, 74-56, to win its first game, while Immanuel nipped Piney Grove, 51-44, and Presbyterian beat St. James, 52-42.

In the opener, Grace took command in the first half and ran up a 37-24 lead by intermission. In the second half, they continued to roll along, outhitting St. Paul's 37-32, to wrap up the victory.

Steve Wise led Grace with 20 points while Curtis Sutton had 19 and Lewis Hardee had 18. For St. Paul's, Jim Ashby had 18 and Jack Wall had 16.

Piney Grove gave Immanuel a tussel in the first half, pushing ahead of them, 19-18, by halftime. But in the second frame, Immanuel came to life and outhit Piney Grove, 33-23, to push ahead and take the victory.

Cliff McNeill led Immanuel with 15 points, while L.G. Catlettt had 14 and David Hahn had 10. For Piney Grove, Ricky Langley had 11.

In the evening's final game, Presbyterian inched ahead of St. James, 26-24, in the first half, but then came back to outscore the Methodists, 26-18, in the second and take the victory.

Ron Barnes led Presbyterian with 18 points, while Larry Graham added 15. J.J. Harris led St. James with 14, while Mike Board had 12.

Detroit Begins Hunt For Coach

DETROIT (AP) — William Clay Ford says he is "not going to expect a Super Bowl the first year" from whoever he appoints as new coach of the Detroit Lions.

"But I'm looking for a winner, naturally," the club owner and president added.

That quest began Friday, moments after Joe Schmidt severed 20 years with the National Football League club by resigning the head coaching job he held the past six years.

Schmidt—a dedicated former player who seemed unable to get his players to reach the same heights of dedication—told Ford and General Manager Russ Thomas of his decision Wednesday. But the announcement was not made until a hastily called news conference early Friday.

Afterwards Thomas said he had "six or seven" persons he was considering as a replacement, including several college coaches.

He would not name the candidates.

Schmidt, echoing sentiments expressed by Michigan State University's Duffy Daugherty, who resigned his football coaching job two months ago, said "the job no longer is fun."

The former University of Pittsburgh fullback was Detroit's seventh draft choice in 1953. But he was groomed as a middle linebacker, a position unheard of before the 1950s, and he went on to become one of the NFL's all time greats at the position.

Schmidt played through the 1965 season. He was All-Pro eight times, Detroit's Most Valuable Player four times, and named to play in the Pro Bowl 10 times in his 13 seasons.

He became an assistant coach in 1966 and replaced Harry Gilmer as head coach in 1967.

Overall record for Schmidt's teams was 43-34-7.

UCLA Continues To Roll Along

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"There's not really much to say," said Coach Norm Sloan of the North Carolina State basketball team.

What could you say after beating a team by 62 points?

Sloan was evidently embarassed after his third-ranked bullies splintered Lehigh 115-53 Friday night.

"Basically, all we wanted was a good workout without overworking anybody," said Sloan.

Sunday, North Carolina meets second-ranked Maryland.

UCLA, the nation's No. 1 team, was the only other ranked club in action Friday night and the Bruins continued their success story with an 82-67 conquest of Stanford for victory No. 56 in a row.

Elsewhere, Northeastern nipped Harvard 73-69 in overtime; Brigham Young tripped Texas El Paso 56-55; Montana State romped over Chicago State 97-80; Rollins turned back Catholic University 82-75; Oregon beat Washington 69—65 in overtime; Oregon State topped Washington State 91-71; Southern California slammed California 71-64; Pacific burned UCSanta Barbara 71-59 and San Jose State trimmed Los Angeles State 86-65.

Larry Hollyfield scored 10 points early in the second half to help UCLA run away from Stanford. Hollyfield wound up with 18 points to tie teammates Bill Walton and Larry Farmer for Bruin scoring honors.

The victory gave the beefy Bruins an 11-0 record this season and 3-0 in the Pacific-8 Conference.

Mark Jellison sank two free throws after regulation time had expired to tie the score and Northeastern went on to beat Harvard in overtime. Jellison scored 32 points in all.

Kresimir Cosic hit a jump shot from the key with six seconds left to give Brigham Young a tight triumph over Texas El Paso. The 6-foot-11 Cosic was the game's top scorer with 19 points while Frank Keton delivered 16 for the losers.

Scott Koezler fired in 22 points, 16 in the first half, to power Montana State over Chicago State and Rollins beat Catholic as Bob McNally tallied 30 points.

Abdul-Jabbar Crowns Kings With 38 Point Outburst As Bucks Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One good way to destroy a basketball player's confidence is to miss a couple of shots. Another is to be guarded by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Rookie Mike Ratliff of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings made both those bad scenes Friday night.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 14 of his 38 points in the third period when the Milwaukee Bucks widened a 13-point halftime lead to 83-59 and they went on to a 117-98 rout of the Kings.

The losers played without regular center Sam Lacey, who has an ankle injury, and Nate Archibald, the NBA's leading scorer, was held to 19 points by Lucius Allen, nearly 15 below his average.

Los Angeles remained three games ahead of Golden State in the Pacific Division by defeating Chicago and dropping the Bulls 3½ in back of Milwaukee in the Midwest section. The Lakers turned back repeated Chicago rallies as Jerry West led the way with 39 points.

Rick Barry, Golden State's golden boy, made two field goals and two free throws in the final two minutes to help the Warriors down Phoenix, although Jeff Mullins and Nate Thurmond were the top scorers with 25 and 23 points, respectively. Charlie Scott had 33 for the Suns.

Seven Boston players, led by John Havlicek's 25 points, scored in double figures in the Celtics' rout of Atlanta. Havlicek scored 12 in sparking the Celts to a 39-16 first-quarter runaway.

New York, though, remained in a virtual tie with the Celtics for first place in the Atlantic Division when Earl Monroe's 13-foot jump shot at the buzzer gave the Knicks their squeaker over Houston. Monroe led the Knicks with 24 points while Rudy Tomjanovich and Don Smith split 40 for the Rockets.

Fred Brown scored six points in the final two minutes to lead Seattle past Detroit and give Bucky Buckwalter, the Sonics' new coach, his first win. Brown scored nine of his 13 points in the fourth quarter and had a career-high 13 assists.

Spencer Haywood paced Seattle with 36 points and Bob Lanier topped Detroit with 25.

A 65 per cent shooting average in the first period enabled Buffalo to race to a 22-point lead over Portland and the Braves coasted past the Trail Blazers. Rookie Bob McAdoo hit a career high 31 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked seven shots. Sidney Wicks led the losers with 25.

Lenny Wilkens sank a hook shot with 1½ minutes left in the second overtime period and Rick Roberson added two free throws seconds later as Cleveland handed Philadelphia its 41st loss in 45 games.

Action Delayed

All area high scool sports activity was postponed Friday night due to poor traveling conditions and the continued closing of the schools in most places.

Most schools are planning to begin making up the lost games of this week in the coming week, originally scheduled for examinations. However, since these exams have been delayed a week, it is likely that schedules for the following week will also be disrupted.

Schools are asked to contact the Daily Reflector, in advance, to allow for publication of revised schedules.

To Enroll At Wake

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dan Moody, who recently quit the University of Tennessee basketball team, says he will enroll Monday at Wake Forest.

Moody, a sophomore forward from Blountville, Tenn., said when he quit he wanted to transfer to a school where he could play regularly. He was an occasional starter at Tennessee and played little when he did not start.

A PERENNIAL WINNER

MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) — Montclair State football coach Clary Anderson has enjoyed 31 winning seasons as a coach. He shows 239 wins against 31 losses and six ties.

In 25 years at Montclair High School he had 14 undefeated teams and coached Astronaut Buzz Aldrin, former Princeton basketball coach Butch van Breda Kolff and Princeton's new athletic director Royce Flippin.

Clinic Set For ECU

The Professional Baseball Representatives and college baseball coaches of North Carolina will sponsor a baseball clinic for high school, college, Amercian Legion and all youth league baseball coaches. The clinic will be held on the campus of East Carolina University on January 20, in the Minges Field House. Registration will begin at 9:30 A.M. in the lobby of the Minges Field House. The program is scheduled to start at 10:00 A.M. There is no charge for the clinic.

Featured on the program will be major league players, major league scouts and outstanding high school and college coaches. Modern baseball techniques, strategy and fundamentals will be discussed by James "Catfish" Hunter, star of the Oakland Athletics; George Case, coach for the New York Yankees; Clyde King of the Atlanta Braves and many other baseball notables. All coaches and those interested in baseball should make it a point to attend.

Baby Bucs Bow In First Round

Louisburg gained the finals with a 63-59 victory over East Carolina University's junior varsity, while Mt. Olive beat the University of North Carolina-Charlotte's jvs.

The consolations and finals were held Saturday night.

East Carolina's Baby Bucs, bothered by the absence of two regular starters, Chuck Mohn and Randy McCullen, off with the varsity on a trip to Greenville, S.C., for a meeting with Furman University, had only six players, giving them a depth problem.

Fouls also hurt them as another regular, William Hill, sat out much of the game in foul trouble.

Louisburg burst into the lead in the opening minutes of the first half and built up a 13-point edge, 24-11 with five minutes left in the period. But in the next few minutes, the Pirates went on a rampage, dumping in 13 straight points to tie it up at 24-24. Both teams managed one more basket and it was tied at 26-26 at intermission.

East Carolina then moved into the lead early in the second half, 31-28, but Louisburg slowly began to put its game together again behind the scoring of Russell Davis, and pushed back ahead at 40-39 with 12 minutes left in the game. From there on out, they held command, and were never headed again.

Louisburg outhit the Bucs in percentage, both from the floor and from the line, despite the fact that the Pirates outrebounded the Hurricanes. Al Edwards led the rebounding with 13, while Fred Stone had 11.

"We played a good game, despite all," Coach Dave Patton said. "We just happened to hit Louisburg when they were having a good night.

East Carolina: Edwards 19, Hill 3, Edmonds 18, Stone 9, Carraway 2, Kendall 8.

East Carolina	26	33—59

BREAKS A PROMISE

HONOLULU (AP) — Third baseman Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals charged at the winter baseball meetings that Commissioner Bowie Kuhn broke an agreement with players by disclosing details of owners' offers to players regarding 1973 contracts.

Said Toree: "He (Kuhn) promised the players not to discuss it unless both sides were present. Nobody wants to strike (next spring) but if there is one, what the commissioner did will go a long way toward promoting it."

The present your son wants least...

Tar Heel Outdoors: Big Sports Year

by Joel Arrington

It was an important and memorable year for North Carolina sportsmen.

Fishing records fell like bowling pins in 1972 and thousands of acres of new hunting lands were opened for a nominal annual fee.

The Wildlife Commission took over fish and game management of Forest Service lands and added leased woodlands and farms to its Game Lands program to total 1.8 million acres. Fishing and hunting on these lands are open to licensed residents and nonresidents for six dollars annually.

For a week last January, I hunted with friends on five Game Lands in the east and Piedmont for quail and woodcock. We walked about 80 miles and saw the best and worst those habitats have to offer. I especially remember a woodcock covert in the Croatan Game Land and how thick it was and the great number of birds we put up and the few we managed to bag.

Later that month, I was one of about 100 surf fishermen at Cape Hatteras standing haunch to paunch along the beach. At one time, perhaps 25 of us held rods bent by bluefish weighing up to 15 pounds.

A few days after that, Jim Hussey of Tarboro caught the largest bluefish ever taken on hook and line. He now holds the world's all-tackle record with a fish over 31 pounds from Hatteras Inlet. The International Game Fish Association has accepted that record and is presently considering bluefish applications in the new six-pound test category from two North Carolina anglers. Daniel Abel of Havelock and Chuck Wedemeyer of Raleigh have entered fish of over 18 and over 16 pounds, respectively.

A 20-pound flounder set a new state record and a world's 12-pound test record for Chris Bowen of Topsail Beach. Catherine Willis of Hatteras upped the state record for striped bass with a 60-pounder from the surf at Cape Hatteras in February.

New Tar Heel records also were set for white perch, tripletail, blackfin tuna, wahoo, weakfish and crevalle jack. A new channel bass record for women was set when Lucille Herbig of Buxton caught a 53½-pounder in April. It is a world's 20-pound line test record for women.

Although I caught no record fish, I fondly recall an alternately rainy and sunny day in the Pisgah National Forest when we opened the trout season and three 13-inch brown trout caught from one pool as a mayfly hatch came off in mid-day.

In May we were soaking bait in Barney Slough inside Hatteras Inlet with guides Ken Lauer and John Ochs. Our best fish weighed 24 pounds. The next day, Ochs guided Debbie Eakes of Salisbury to a 60-pounder, the first cobia she had ever seen.

I remember August in Wilson Creek Gorge in the Daniel Boone Game Land and an early morning hike to the falls on South Harper Creek, the water's roar and the damp, coolness of the forest.

In June there was a hot day off Mazatlan, Mexico, and I remember the competence of a skipper named Clemente Sanohez and five Pacific sailfish released to a calm sea.

Off Morehead City in midsummer we caught grouper, amberjack and sea bass on heavy lead-head jigs.

On Thanksgiving weekend at Carolina Beach Inlet, a bright moon shone on striped bass taking bait on the surface and my best fish weighed over 17 pounds.

Back at Cape Point in late December, Lauer and I closed out the year with two 24-pound striped bass with "a gray mist on the sea's face and a gray dawn breaking."

There was much to remember from 1972 and much to be thankful for. Resident and visiting sportsmen await the challenges, the hardships, the good days and the bad that the new year will bring.

It was an outstanding year, but 1973 may be better.

Trout Tagging Is Eliminated

RALEIGH — If you eat fresh mountain trout in a restaurant this year, you won't have to worry about biting down on a metal tag. Now all you'll have to watch for are bones.

The N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission has changed the regulations regarding the sale of commercially raised mountain trout, and the major change is the elimination of the requirement that all such trout be tagged with a metal tag

Instead of tagging each trout, commercial trout growers in North Carolina will be required to package the trout in a printed wrapper which bears the following information. Printed on the wrapper must be the name, address and license number of the producing hatchery, the species, number and weight of the enclosed mountain trout. Also printed on the wrapper must be a notice to the effect that the sale of the contents of the package in North Carolina is authorized by the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission.

The Wildlife Commission will also require that no package of commercially-reared trout shall contain more than ten mountain trout or a net weight of more than two pounds, and it shall be unlawful to remove the trout from such package until they are to be prepared for consumption.

Wildlife Afield: Moveable Feast

By JIM DEAN

Your average strong, hardy outdoorsman isn't exactly a gourmet. Most of us think an "aspic" is something you wear around your neck, and "chateaubriand for two" is a love nest in a French hotel.

But that doesn't mean that hunters and fishermen don't appreciate a culinary triumph. I've eaten snails in garlic sauce in fancy restaurants and enjoyed them, but my most memorable meals have been consumed on hunting and fishing trips.

Once, when I was about 16 years old, my dad and I stopped at a restaurant in Fairfield after hunting geese all day at Mattamuskeet. Pop made the mistake of telling me to get anything I wanted, and since he was paying, I did exactly that. First, we went to the raw bar where I ate a passel of raw oysters, followed up by a goodly number of steamed oysters. Then, we went back to the table where I ordered a large bowl of oyster stew. I still recall that there were 21 oysters in that bowl.

Then came the main course. You guessed it. I had fried oysters, big ones with a crunch coating, the recollection of which is making my mouth water even as I write this.

Finally, it was time for dessert. Scanning the menu, I noted to my dismay that there was no mention of anything like oyster pie or oyster ice cream.

"Got any oyster cake?" I inquired of the bemused waitress.

"Closest thing would be oyster fritters, bub," she daid.

"Okay,bring me some of those fritter critters," I said.

When it was all over, I staggered happily to the car while dad paid the bill, and it's been a good many years since he turned me loose in the presence of an oyster.

Another memorable meal — but with somewhat different results—occured on a striper fishing trip in Albemarle Sound and the Little Alligator River a few years back. I met my good friend Charlie Ogletree in Columbia and we stopped by a supermarket to get a few snacks to take with us in the boat.

As best I can recall, during the course of that day, I consumed at least a dozen cinnamon buns, two or three packs of nabs, a couple of oatmeal cakes, and a can of "famous Georgia hash" not to mention several beverages and a thermos of hot coffee.

That night, we ate a massive T-bone steak with all the trimmings and just before bed, I polished off at least a pound of hot, parched peanuts. It was a long, long night and if Montezuma's Revenge is any worse than Tyrrell County's, I'm staying clear of Mexico.

There have been other memorable meals. Once Joel Arrington, Tom Earnhardt and I ate fresh dolphin steaks on the banks of a western North Carolina trout stream, and that surely is a first. Joel has just returned from Hatteras, and we took the dolphin steaks with us to the mountains.

On several occasions, I have made chili for my compatriots on camping trips. It's almost done when the steam from the pot makes your eyes water. Then, I throw another double handful of chili powder and red pepper, and serve it. One friend of mine credits my chili with curing a congential sinus condition.

The best eating of all, though, is found in a country store during the mid-day break on a quail hunting trip. It has been my experience that the food is better in those country stores where the driveway is paved with old bottle caps and you eat while sitting on a drink crate around a pot-bellied stove.

A typical menu would surely include crackers, vienna sausages, cold pork and beans, potted meat, a slab of rat cheese, a couple of raisin cakes, a bag of peanuts, two magnum soft drinks and a 12-gauge peppermint stick.

There is only one problem. If you dine this way often, sooner or later you'll find out that Graham Kerr is not the only galloping gourmet.

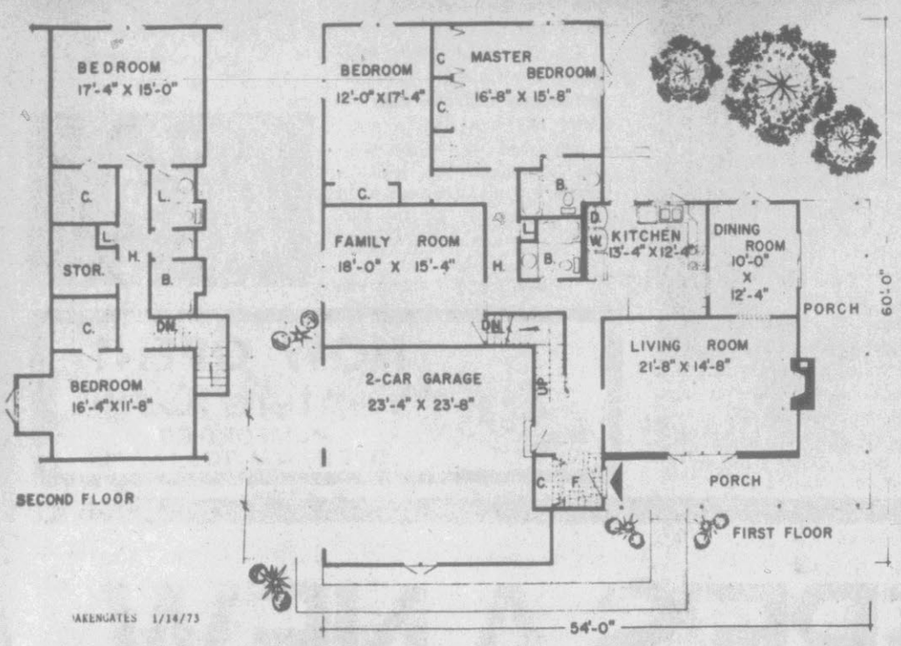
Tudor Design Pleases The Eye



A STORY AND A HALF — The Oakengates, designed by Associated House Plans, is a story and a half that has two bedrooms on the first floor and two bedrooms on the upper level. There also are three full baths, a living room with fireplace, family room, dining room, kitchen, double garage and full basement.

By GERRY BISHOP

The Oakengates, designed by Associated House Plans, has exciting lines that are pleasing to the eye.

The exterior combines stucco and stone to achieve a valid Tudor effect. Rough cedar timbers are used over the stucco to present a clean appearance.

This is a one-and-a-half story that has four bedrooms, two on the main level and two on the second floor. There are three baths, a family room, living room with fireplace, dining room, modern kitchen, foyer, two-car garage and basement.

The frame construction calls for a roof with a steep 10-12 pitch. Shake shingles are used to enhance the Tudor motif.

The main entrance is sheltered by a porch. Traffic is received by a foyer which has a coat closet. The foyer has stairs leading to the upper floor. The foyer also provides access to the double garage.

The living room, which is immediately to the right of the foyer, boasts large dimensions — approximately 22 feet by 15 feet. The fireplace provides a focal point around which furniture could be arranged.

Adjacent to the living room is the dining room, a formal chamber that would be ideal for entertaining.

Next to the dining room is the kitchen, an efficient workshop that contains space for a washer and dryer. Appliances and cabinets are arranged in a U shape.

The family room offers a "relief valve" for entertaining and relaxation. Its expansive dimensions could accommodate many activities. The family room is located near the kitchen for maximum convenience.

The master bedroom features in an arrangement that has lots of closet space and a private bath with a built-in vanity. The dimensions — approximately 17 feet by 16 feet — have a lot to offer.

The other bedroom on the first floor also has good dimensions and a large closet. It's just a step away from the main bath.

Upstairs there are two large bedrooms with walk-in closets. Each is conveniently near a full bath which is compartmented and has two vanities and two commodes.

There's also a storage room on the upper level.

This home has a lot of living area, with 1,926 square feet on the main level, and equal amount in the basement, 864 square feet on the second floor and 583 square feet in the garage.

Penicillin Can Reduce Risks

NEW YORK (UPI) —About one-third of patients with rheumatic fever develop rheumatic heart disease. The National Health Education Committee says medical research has shown that penicillin therapy at the time of strep infection will prevent the development of rheumatic fever two to four weeks later.

Experience has shown continuous penicillin treatment will prevent recurrences in those who have had one attack of rhuematic fever.

The role of insulation in providing comfort within a house has gained importance with the increasing popularity of air conditioning. For insulation not only keeps heat inside during cold weather, it keeps it outside during hot weather. Furnaces and air conditioners thus operate more efficiently, reducing heating and cooling costs.

Insulation comes in four basic types — flexible, reflective, loose fill and semirigid. Within each category, many varieties are available. But in general, flexible insulation comes in blankets or batts; reflective is made with aluminum foil; loose fill is poured from bags, and semirigid consists of boards or panels.

Blankets and batts are similar in appearance, a material, such as mineral wool, being sandwiched between layers of paper. In most types, one side has a vapor barrier — a special paper or foil through which vapor cannot pass. In installing blankets or batts (blankets come in longer rolls) between studs or joints, it is important that the vapor barrier side be placed so that it faces the heated part of the house. This prevents moisture from reaching the underside of the exterior walls, a common cause of blistering and peeling paint.

Many houses which are otherwise well-insulated do not have any insulation in the attic. When the attic is to be finished, either immediately or in the near future, insulation should be placed between the rafters. When the attic is not to be finished, insulation is best placed between the floor joints. In this case, it usually is easiest to pour loose fill insulation in place, although there are some instances where it might be handier to use batts. Insulation between the floor joists keeps heat from going through the downstairs ceiling and warming an unoccupied area. When the attic is to be used, placing insulation between the rafters helps to keep heat inside during cold weather and outside during hot weather. Insulation also may be placed between the studs behind knee walls.

Loose fill insulation is often used in old houses which have no insulation behind the walls. Since it would be difficult to place any other type of insulation there, loose fill is blown into the walls with special equipment. It usually works well, but provides no vapor barrier and tends to settle over a period of years.

How much insulation a house needs depends on where it is located. The Federal Housing Administration and other government agencies which insure mortgages have established insulation standards for particular areas of the country. If you are having a house built, it would be wise to see that the insulation procedures meet or better such standards even if you are obtaining a conventional mortgage.

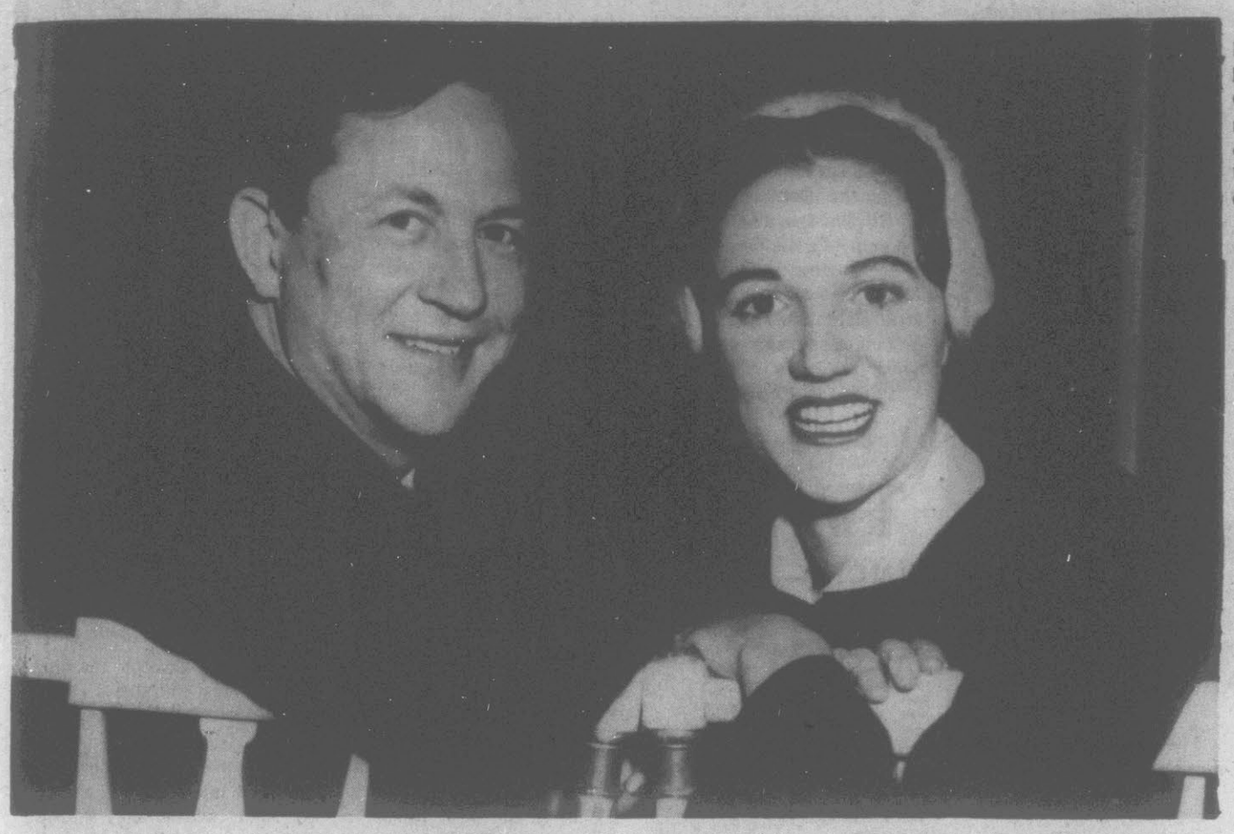
Sam Byrd's 'Tobacco Road' Record Remembered



A LITTLE GIRL . . . Sam comforted in England when she was 12 later became his wife. Pat Bolam and Sam were married in 1951. The two are pictured above shortly before Sam's death in November 1955.

Editor's Note: This story on the late Sam Byrd, native of Mt. Olive, actor, soldier, author and newspaper editor, is by courtesy of the New Bureau of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Text by

Margaret Bobo

NORTH CAROLINIAN SAM BYRD . . . (left) set a Broadway record for 1,151 performances as Dude Lester in Erskine Caldwell's Tobacco Road. With him is Maude O'Dell, who played missionary Sister Bessie. After World War II service in the Navy, Sam retired in La Grange to edit the Weekly Gazette.

CHAPEL HILL — A record for stamina went to North Carolinian Sam Byrd who made Broadway history with his 1,151 performances in Tobacco Road, once the longest running play in the history of American theatre.

From December 1933 until August 1936 Byrd, native of the little North Carolina town of Mount Olive, played the original Dud Lester, the half-witted, ball-bouncing farm-boy of Erskine Caldwell's novel and play. For this role, he received the Literary Digest Award for the "best Young Actor on Broadway" for the 1933-34 season.

In the course of the long run, Sam Byrd bounced a squash ball against the side of the shack on the set—30 bounces a performance or something over 35,000 bounces without a miss. Dude Lester was a turnip eater too, two per night or a total of more than 2300 turnips.

In a tally made after his 738th performance, Byrd had worn out four auto tires, seven car fenders, three granite rocks from New Jersey, and four shirts. His foot had increased a half-size from going barefoot.

The stage was blanketed in a deep layer of dirt for the farm setting and no matter now much the dirt was watered down, there was always a cloud of dust over the stage. It cost Byrd $125 a month to keep his head cavities cleaned out. The dirt finally persuaded him to give up the role.

Such factors about Sam Byrd—actor, producer, and author—can be obtained from scrapbooks, letters, clippings, and other memorabilia being assembled at the North Carolina Collection of Wilson Library at the University of North Carolina here.

The major part of the collection on Byrd was given in the memory of Walter Theron Cherry, a cousin with whom Byrd made his home following his mother's death in 1931. Byrd visited the Cherry family about six months of each year and during his final illness. He died in 1955.

Samuel Armanie Byrd was born in 1908 in Mount Olive and lived there until his teens. After his father's death, he, his mother and his stepfather moved to Sanford, Florida.

Life's Secret

"The secret in finding out early what you can do best and do what you can about doing it," Sam often said and he took his own advice at an early age.

He studied juounalism at the University of Florida until scattered experiences in playwriting and acting convinced him to quit school in his junior year and head for New York and the stage.

Thus began an exciting career in the theatre highlighted by his role in "Tobacco road."

Production caught his interest and Sam plunged in energetically. He couldn't attend the premier of his own production, Journeyman, in 1937 because he was playing the role of Curley of Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men." His career spanned roles in 12 Broadway plays, the production of four more, plus numerous summer theater productions.

One day in 1941 Sam walked into the office of friend and plunked down a publishing contract and a dime. The contract was one with Houghton-Milfflin for Byrd's first novel Small Town South. The dime was a deposit paid by a man who reserved the first copy—the man, another writer named Sinclair Lewis.

Sam finished the book in January, 1942. Submitting the manuscript, he left New York for North Carolina where he received word that he had won Houghton-Milfflin's Life in America prize worth $2500. Then he went to Charleston to join the Navy—all within one week! No need to rest on one's laurels!

Bronze Star Winner

Among the 41 of 150 men in the Navy Beach Battalion which took over Normandy Beach on D-Day was Sam Byrd. He crawled for 12 hours over 1000 yards of sand to reach his assigned beach. He had no combat training and all he knew about beach-mastering he had learned from observation when going along on "dry runs" and from conversations.

However so successful was he in clearing his territory of casualties and debris of war and in landing men and supplies that he received the Navy's Bronze Star Medal and the Army's Distinguished Unit Badge.

After the war Sam returned to England where he had been stationed during the days preceding D-Day. Once during a practice for D-Day off the Plymouth coast a little girl Patricia Bolam and her younger brother had been watching the maneuvers and had been frightened by the live explosions.

In her confusion and fright the little girl had fallen from a 10 foot bluff. Sam had come to her rescue, bandaged her scratches and bruises and seen her safely home. His visits to her family continued and he became a close friend.

Perhaps having premonitions of her own death, Mrs. Bolam made Sam promise to take care of the two children if anything should happen to her. She died on V-E Day. Returning to England, Sam asked to adopt Pat and her father gave permission.

Little girls grow up and so did Pat. A romance began between Sam and his ward and in May 1951, the two were secretly married. Pat's father and stepmother were in attendance. She was 18; he was 44.

Sam had several thoughts about home and the South. "Funny about hometowns. You're just somebody they 'knew when until something you do outside makes you big. Then they're all for you.

"I have all the sentimentality of the real Southerner—but I often make the mistake of returning to places formerly enjoyed only to find strangers at the breakfast table, cousins dead or gone, and filling stations where the oaks were."

But the South was in Sam and that is where he and Pat returned in 1954 to edit the Weekly Gazette inLa Grange. Said Sam: "I jumped at the chance to edit the paper, to renew acquaintances with all the sounds, accents, foods, church goings, Saturday-nights-downtown, and all the other phases of southern small town life that had been a part of everything I had ever had to sell—either in print or in characterizations on the stage."

In September 1954 Sam injured his leg in the printing plant of the paper. What at first had been thought to be a minor infection grew progressively worse after the accident. In October he entered Lenoir Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Duke Hospital where leukemia was diagnosed.

His health improving, he returned to Mount Olive to live with his cousin, Walter T. Cherry, but was forced to return to Duke where he remained till his death on November 15, 1955. He was 47.

At the time of his death he was working on two novels and the production of two plays. His plans for one novel Last Train Home were based on studies he made under Guggenheim Fellowships in the late 1940's.

He had published three books: Small Town South, South Atlantic Shakedown—written for the U.S. Navy in the early 1940's—and Hurry Home to My Heart written following the Normandy landing.

Two centennial celebration pageants he wrote and produced were For Those Who Live in the Sun for Charleston, S.C. and The Duplin Story for Kenansville and Duplin County, N.C.

Byrd once said acting was "80 percent thinking right to keep the part real, 15 percent listening to what other characters say to you, and 5 percent relaxation—the last thing anybody learns." His exuberance for living left him little time to practice the latter.

Student Performs Fire-Knife Dance

By DAN CARMICHAEL

HONOLULU (UPI) —While other youngsters spend their evenings on dates or gabbing on the phone, Dwayne Strong thrills Waikiki visitors by performing an ancient war ceremonial — the fire-knife dance.

Clad only in a brief loincloth, the handsome 15-year-old creates patterns of fire in the air with four-foot long, razor-sharp knife blades.

Dwayne has been doing the spectacular dance for nine years.

"When I was six I went to a Luau and saw a knife-dancer perform," Dwayne said. "I just had to learn how to do it."

It took him a year, with his father's help, to learn the rudimentary skills. Since then Dwayne has practiced constantly—often being cut or burned in the process.

"Each time I learned another step, I'd go back and watch the guy do a more dangerous sequence," he said. "It was hard to get over being scared of the flames and the heat. I'm used to the heat already. If I concentrate, I won't get hurt."

Dwayne has appeared with a number of leading Hawaiian entertainers, including Don Ho. He has made three tours of Japan, and expects to go on a fourth this summer. His first tour came at age 10, when he appeared in more than 60 Japanese communities.

"I had to airmail my homework back to Hawaii," Dwayne said.

At one show in Japan, Dwayne was mobbed by excited Japanese girls while returning to his hotel. He narrowly escaped injury, and after the incident was assigned two police bodyguards for the remainder of his tour.

"I was really scared, and put my bend in front of my hotel door," he said.

Dwayne, of Hawaiian, Japanese, and Indian ancestry, is paid $50 per show, which he is putting in a savings account for college. A high-school junior, he wants to attend the University of Hawaii.

DWAYNE STRONG. . . a 15 year old Hawaiian high school student, thrills audiences in Hawaii and Japan with ritual fire-knife dance performances. Dwayne descends from Hawaiian, Japanese and Indian ancestors.

Puppet Shows In India Boost Literacy Rates

By JACK DAVIS

A spellbound village audience squats in the dirt watching lively modern folk tales on a portable stage.

The plaster hero, a moustachioed peasant farmer like the village men, saves his starving family by planting a new high-yield variety of rice—which he learned about in a night-time literacy class.

Puppet women—in shawls and long skirts like the women in the audience—learn to escape disease with inoculations, instead of prayers to the red goddess of smallpox.

When the show is over, literacy workers answer eager questions and organize a reading and writing course for the audience.

The puppeteers are from Literacy House, a small private center in Lucknow leading the campaign to reduce India's staggering number of illiterates.

The world's largest democracy has 386 million citizens without education—over 70 per cent of its population.

For 18 years the modest brick campus of Literacy House—designed by a British architect to resemble an Indian village—has been bursting with new techniques to make literacy the basic weapon against the country's poverty, hunger, disease and overpopulation.

Literacy House workers grow angry at the traditional notion that literacy consists of merely reading an election ballot and producing a signature.

Every word they teach is in the language of birth control, or improved farm production, or nutrition and health.

This is the concept of "functional literacy." It was developed by the center's 91-year-old founder, Mrs. Welthy Fisher, an American missionary and educator who gave up an opera career in 1924 to marry the Methodist Bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

At the urging of Mohandas Gandhi she focused on improving the life of the Indian villages—where 80 per cent of the population lives.

She insisted literacy workers should not be mere "teachers" in the villages, but family planning counselors and agricultural advisers.

"We can't teach a person in a vacuum," says Literacy House's Indian director, E. C. Shaw. "While we are teaching, we need to solve two fundamental problems—food and population."

The basic texts in a literacy course present vitally important information—how a village without irrigation can obtain a tube-well from the state government, why one birth-control method is better than another.

Adult education is an overwhelming task—in the face of a 53 million increase in the number of Indian illiterates in the last 10 years.

Literacy House is not under the illusion that it can single-handedly convert Indians into an educated citizenry. In fact, it has made literate only 165,000 adults since 1953.

Even the illiteracy of its home town—Lucknow city, with a population of 655,673—is too big a problem for one small institution with "meager resources," admits Shaw.

"Our job is primarily to produce techniques and material to be used by government and other agencies," he explains.

Most of Literacy House's budget—$227,000 last year, from American and Canadian contributors, and the U.S. Agency for International Development—is devoted to testing pilot programs, training teachers, and publishing special texts for the newly literate.

The open-air theatre for training puppeteers is part of the search for new ways to promote literacy courses in the villages.

The puppets are effective "mass communication" in a country with one television station, which has only a 30-mile broadcasting radius. Some of the plays in the large repertoire were developed by American puppeteer Bill Baird, who has served as adviser to Literacy House.

Literacy House restricts its efforts to the Hindi language—spoken by less than half of all Indians—and hopes that soon others will be able to apply Literacy House techniques to all 13 of India's national languages.

Clarence Is Voice Of Donald Duck

By DUSTON HARVEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — His lips pursed and his cheeks drawn in, Clarence Long started squawking.

The sound was familiar—a quack heard round the world during the past four decades.

"Hi! I'm Donald Duck," said the man who has been the voice of the cartoon character since 1934 when Walt Disney turned a little girl named Mary into a cantankerous duck named Donald.

"I'd had that voice for a long time before it became associated with Donald," said Long, 68, a short, gray-haired man with a wispy moustache and unassuming manner, who was born in Watonga, Okla., and moved to Los Angeles as a child.

The squawky duck was originally a goat that Long heard while a youngster. When he started doing imitations on the vaudeville and Chautauqua circuits a half century ago, Long imagined the sound was the voice of a frightened little girl name Mary reciting, "Mary Had A Little Lamb."

Disney Discovered Him

As Long tells it, Disney heard the routine, which he capped with a duck's quack, when the out-of-work imitator was performing for free on a friend's radio show from Los Angeles in the early 30s.

"He decided it was a talking duck. I'd always thought it was a little girl," Long said.

He said Donald Duck's first appearance in one of Disney's Mickey Mouse shorts established his character—and his appeal as the most popular of the cartoon animals.

"His personality typifies America," Long suggested. "He expresses his opinions—and gets mad.

"Sometimes I get hypnotized by him. It's like he's really alive, and he and I are pals.

"But Donald Duck is greater than I. He's a celebrity; I'm just his traveling companion. I didn't know Donald Duck until I met Walt Disney."

Long slipped occasionally into quack-talk during an interview and eventually removed a two-foot high, plastic puppet of Donald Duck, which he carried in a suitcase on his nationwide promotion tour to promote a hand-cranked movie viewer made by Action Films which features Disney cartoons.

Long retired as a cartoon voice 15 years ago, after the last Donald Duck feature, but received permission to use Donald's voice and puppet if he kept his routines in the Disney image.

"We always keep it clean," he said in unctuous tones.

Imitates Only Wildlife

In addition to his duck work Long provided the sounds of birds, frogs, horses, dogs and other wildlife for Disney cartoons before his retirement. More recently, he has recorded the voices of Mickey Mouse and Jiminy Cricket for the "Disney on Parade" stage show—roles handled by Walt Disney and Jim Edwards until their deaths.

"I do everything but humans," he said. "I'm not too good at imitating and there are too many others doing it. I'd rather fool around with birds and things like that."

His most startling imitation—guaranteed to make reporters and audiences jump—is an eagle's screeching caw.

"I was studying animals at the zoo one day when I heard a sound I didn't recognize," he recalled. "I followed it, listened and finally figured out how to do it. It makes a pretty good sound. Caw! Caw!"

Shorted P.A. System

After his listeners recovered, Long told of shorting out the public address system of a theater once with his eagle cry.

"I never saw the kids jump so high," he reminisced. "And the microphone sort of smoked and then the whole P.A. system went out."

On another occasion, the bird call specialist imitated a raven outside a cage of them on Catalina Island.

"One came over, studied me for a few minutes, then picked up some sticks and shoved them through the wire fence," Long said. "I think he invited me to build a nest."

"I get them sometimes, but Donald and I find a few sips of brandy will usually cure the problem."

1972 Proved Good Year For Recording Artists

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — What were the best records of 1972? There is no easy answer because what appeals to one listener's ears and emotions may not register with another's.

Those of us who review records for publication in newspapers are not the best judges because we are individuals. Each week we listen to singles and long-play records and try to find the ones which we think are worthy of mention. The ones which we discard, sometimes reluctantly because there is not enough space for all of them, are not always misses. Some of them become hits on the charts.

In my opinion, 1972 was a good year. Rock groups continued to be the popular moneymakers as their musicianship and showmanship improved.

"Thick As a Brick" by Jethro Tull (Reprise) had great appeal to rock fans. "Trilogy" by Emerson, Lake and Palmer (Cotillion) and "Ekseption 5" by Ekseption (Philips) were great instrumentals. The Moody Blues (Threshold) had two noteworthy LP's, "Seventh Sojourn" and "Every Good Boy Deserves Favour." "History of Eric Clapton" (Atco) and "Hot Rocks" by the Rolling Stones (London) were among the better anthologies. And "Babbcombe Lee" by Fairport Convention (A&M) was an interesting attack by a British rock group against capital punishment.

Broadway albums and Hollywood sound tracks seemingly deserved recognition. "Inner City" (RCA Victor), "Two Gentlemen of Verona," (ABC), "Sugar" (United Artists) and "Grease" (MGM) were outstanding Broadway original cast albums while "Cabaret," starring Liza Minnelli and Joel Grey (ABC), "The Godfather" (Paramount) and "Don't Play Us Cheap" (Stax) should be nominated for best movie soundtrack in the Grammy contest.

Lily Tomlin of "Laugh-In," who won a Grammy for the best comedy album of 1971, should be a strong contender again this year with "And That's the Truth" (Polydor). But she will find competition from "Big Bambu" by Cheech and Chong (Ode) and "Sanford and Son" (RCA Victor).

Woman Singers

Women singers came on strong again in 1972. Barbra Streisand's "Live Concert at the Forum" (Columbia), "Amazing Grace" by Aretha Franklin (Atlantic), Liza Minnelli's "Live at the Olympia in Paris" (A&M9), "Melba Moore Live" (Mercury) and "Annie" by Anne Murray (Capitol) were albums which belong in permanent selections.

Elvis Presley made his first live appearance in New York in 1972 and "Elvis As Recorded at Madison Square Garden" (RCA Victor) should rate as one of the top male vocal performances of the year.

Record companies didn't seem to believe jazz is dead because they produced a good crop of albums, the best among them being "Many Faces of Ragtime" by the Turk Murphy Jazz Band (Atlantic), "Tallest Trees" by Miles Davis (prestige), "Crossings" by Herbie Hancock (Warner Bros.), and "Free Flight" by Ahmad Jamal (Impulse).

Caedmon again produced an eloquent library of spoken word records, including Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" by the American Shakespeare Theater. And Astax Records gave us some fine gospel albums by the Staple Singers, The Howard Lemon Singers and The Christian Tabernacle Concert Choir.

There were so many good country and western records that it would be unfair to single out one without mentioning all.

Jack Benny Admits He Misses School

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the nation's most successful school dropouts, who has a high school named for him, says his biggest regret in life is that "I hated school."

Comedian Jack Benny, who returns to Waukegan, Ill., the hometown he made famous, to address students in the school the city fathers named the Jack Benny Junior High School, says "I tell the kids there now how important it is to study."

"I was lousy in everything when I went to school," the entertainer recalled while preparing for his RCA-sponsored colorcast, "Jack Benny's First Farewell Special" to be viewed Jan. 18 over the NBC-TV network. "I sure missed a lot of schooling.

"Sometimes I write a book. I don't like it and I throw it away because I realize I missed a lost of schooling. I used to think that algebra and geometry were unimportant, then I realized later in life that this is an exercise of your brain—like you exercise your muscles and that later this helps you to concentrate and do things."

Benny said that when he tells this to students, they will say to him: "But, Mr. Benny, look how successful you've been. Why does it matter?"

"I say that's a silly question," Benny continued. "I could be just as successful and have had a good schooling. Now, maybe it might have hurt me, but I wouldn't have known any different. I'm sure I would have been better personally if I had had a better education. But, I fool a lot of people."

One person he evidently could not fool was a young girl attending the junior high school who quite innocently asked:

"Mr. Benny, why were you named after our school?"

Peter Takacs To Perform All-Beethoven Program

Friends and fellow musicians call him an exciting musical talent. Since leaving his native Bucharest, Roumania 11 years ago as a teen-age boy in 1961, 25 year old Peter Takacs has covered a lot of ground. There was a year in Paris before coming with his parents to the U.S., where he completed high school in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

On Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall in Fletcher Music Center on campus at East Carolina University, Peter will give a recital for the second time since first coming to ECU as a faculty member last September.

"I'm going to play the 33 Variations on A Theme by Beethoven. So far as I know," Peter pointed out, "this music has not been performed here previously."

The pianist spoke about the history of the music he has selected for his program. "Diabelli, a music publisher in Vienna, around 1820 sent out an invitation to 51 different composers.

"He asked each of the 51 to provide one variation on a musical theme," Peter said. "All the composers except Beethoven sent Diabelli a variation. Later, however," Peter noted, "Beethoven became so interested he wrote 33 variations on the theme Diabelli had provided. These Beethoven variations are the ones that I will be playing in my recital."

The stockily built pianist-teacher hopes to become a concert pianist. "One of the difficulties, however, is that there are many talented young musicians trying to achieve the same thing. I feel personally the only way I can distinguish my self is to try to develop unique characteristics as a performer."

Although an ardent lover of chamber music and traditional piano music, especially that of Beethoven, Peter expressed his interest in contemporary music. "It does," he said, "present very special problems to a performer. Much of the notation is new. The harmonics and textural idioms are different."

Peter thinks that at this point in the 20th century "there are enough composers who are writing or who have written contemporary music for instruments to make a large repertoire available. But the public needs to be exposed to more of this music," he said. "It is the responsibility of performers to give as much attention to this music as to traditional concert repertoire."

After high school, Peter attended Northwestern University where he received the Bachelor of Music Degree, followed by studies at the University of Illinois for the Master of Music Degree. At Illinois he also received a Creative Artist Fellowship. The latest phase of his music studies have been at Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, where he is working on his doctoral degree, studying under Leon Fleisher.

This past summer Peter was guest soloist with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra on a tour that took him to a number of cities on the eastern seaboard of the U.S. Last fall, soon after arrival as a faculty member, he had his first ECU recital.

Admission to the Peter Takacs recital Wednesday is free. The public, including children, are invited to attend. Because of the limited capacity of the Recital Hall, seating is on a first-come, first-served basis.

By CYNTHIA TIMM

Providing a special glimpse into the world of opera, 5000 NIGHTS AT THE OPERA: THE MEMOIRS OF SIR RUDOLF BING, is the story of the man who was general manager of the Metropolitan Opera House for twenty-three years. Written with wit and style, the book describes the backstage drama never seen by an audience. It tells of Sir Rudolf's clashes with the Met's board of directors, with performers, conductors, and the press. A well-written account of the color and splendor of the Methropolitan Opera and of the man who made it possible.

James De Witt, a young doctor with a good marriage and a thriving medical practice, began using painkilling drugs after rupturing a disc in his back. Gradually, he developed an addiction and resorted to stealing drugs from the hospital supply room and even forging prescriptions. In the years that followed De Witt lost his medical license, became an alcoholic, was divorced by his wife, and spent long periods of time in jail. ADDICT: A DOCTOR'S ODYSSEY by James De Witt and Al Hirshberg is the moving story of De Witt's struggle to regain his respectability. Ultimately, he was able to overcome both his alcoholism and his drug addiction and to regain his medical license. A powerful book directed especially toward young people.

In the autobiographical work HERSELF, Hortense Calisher describes her life as a woman, as a writer, and as a Jew in America. The series of chapters also reflect the development of contemporary American literature. Beginning with an appraisal of the 1930's, Miss Calisher records her views on politics, sex, art, literature, and other topics. Written with a blend of humor and intellectual acuity, the book includes the author's private writings and journals. "HERSELF is indeed the story of a remarkable woman's life and work in progress."

In the foreword to his new book Rod McKuen writes: "Every man keeps a prisoner groaning in his heart. . .This book is an attempt to free such a prisoner from mine. . .This is for me a new beginning, or at least an end." AND TO EACH SEASON. . .is a very personal and autobiographical book of poetry, tracing the author's experiences from early childhood, through adolescence to the present. A unique and moving collection of poems which reflect a new trend in McKuen's writing.

ECU Symphony Broadcast

A radio broadcast of the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra Christmas program is to be presented over Radio Station WNCI—FM beginning at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday.

The program taped during performance in Wright Auditorium, will feature the ECU Symphony under conductor Robert Hause, with guest star Beverly Wolff. Miss Wolff, who appeared here in concert on December 7 in the Artist Series, made her second appearance the same week on December 10 with the ECU Orchestra.

Her selections on the program are Mozart's Allelulia and Ravel's Scherezade.

The program's major work is Bach's Magnificat, with soloists and chorus members from the ECU School of Music.

In addition to the music on the original program there will also be a four minute interview of Hause and Miss Wolff with James Rees conducting the interview.

Duchess On Loan To London

The portrait of a British duchess of the past, never before viewed in England, is now on exhibit at London's Tate Gallery as part of an exhibition titled The Age of Charles I.

On loan from the permanent collection of the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, Van Dyck's portrait of Mary, Duchess of Lennox and Rubens' Portrait of Dr. Theodore Turquet de Mayerne are important items in the show centered on the times of England's King Charles I.

In requesting the loan of the portraits from Raleigh, Sir Norman Reid, director of the Tate Gallery, said the Rubens' portrait holds a preeminent rank in the show for which the finest portraits of the period have been selected.

Works from the collection of Queen Elizabeth II and from public and private collections in Great Britain, Europe and the United States were assembled for the exhibit. Oliver Millar, Surveyor of the Queen's Pictures, selected the works which shows how artistic links with Europe were developed in the reigns of James I and Charles I.

Music On Campus

Romeo And Juliet Next For Charlotte

Gounod's Romeo and Juliet is to be presented by the Charlotte Opera Association in two performances in Ovens Auditorium. The first performance will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon, January 28, with the second performance scheduled for 8:00 p.m., Monday, January 29.

New York City Opera star Harry Theyard will sing the role of Romeo, with Heather Thomson in the feminine lead. Miss Thomson is a native of Canada and has sung in the U.S., England and Canada.

Both principals have performed previously in Charlotte. Thomas Palmer will sing Mercutio, Romeo's friend, and Richard Gill will appear as Friar Laurence. John Ostendorf of the Houston Grand Opera will sing the part of Capulet, and Jerry Helton will be Tybalt.

Others in the cast include Roberta Cobos as the page Stephano; Anne Stephens as Nurse Gertrude; Scott Miller, Gregorio; Bill Tice, Juliet's suitor Paris; Bert Urbano as Benvolio; and George Austin as The Price.

James Lucas, stage director for both the Metropolitan and New York City Opera, is to be guest stage director. The set has been designed by Dennis Maulden, an English teacher at Myers Park High School. Charles Rosekrans, music director and principal conductor of the Houston Grand Opera will conduct the Charlotte Opera Orchestra; and Charles Starnes will prepare the chorus. Starnes is with the Music Department of Central Piedmont College.

In addition to the two scheduled performances, there will also be a free dress rehearsal matinee for students at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, January 27.

Tickets are available from The Charlotte Opera Association, 827 East Boulevard, Charlotte, N. C. 28203, or by phone, 740-334-0787. Ticket prices are: orchestra $6.50 and $4.50; mezzanine, $6.50; balcony, $3.50; and student balcony, $2.00.

Penni Chenney Exhibit Now In Tarboro

TARBORO — An exhibit of work by Havelock artist Penni Cheney opened last Sunday, in the Pender Room of Edgecombe County Memorial Library. Mrs. Cheney, works with oils and specializes in portraiture.

A native of Oregon, Mrs. Cheney attended Barstow College in California. She has exhibited in Oregon, Alabama and Massachusetts, and had a one-man show last October at Eii's in Belhaven.

The show, sponsored by the Friends of the Library, will be up through January 30. Pender Room hours are 9:30 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; 9:30 a.m. - 9:00 p.m. Tuesday, and 9:30 a.m. - 2:00 p.m., Saturday.

Watercolor Society Sets Show

Plans for the first juried show to be sponsored by the newly formed Watercolor Society of North Carolina have been announced by Mrs. Dixie Browning of Winston-Salem, the society's president.

This show will be held at the University of North Carolina-Wilmington, with Claude Howell of the Art Department in charge of arrangements. Entries, to be accepted only from artists who are members of the society, are due in no later than March 1, and are to be juried on March 4 and 5.

The juror will be Frank Getlin, Critic-at-Large for the Washington, D. C. Star News.

Initial plans are to offer a number of awards, including purchase awards. The number of purchase awards will depend on the success in lining up sponsors.

For artists or non-artists who wish to become a member of the society, membership is available at a fee of $10.00 annually. Membership fees should be sent to Donald L. King, 941 Warren Avenue, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27107.

Charlotte's Mint Museum Acquires West Painting

A Benjamin West painting, dated 1798 and bearing the old-fashioned title Husbandry Aided by the Arts and Commerce, has been recently acquired by the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte.

The painting features a design King George II commissioned West to make as part of a ceiling decoration design for the Queen's Lodge at Windsor Castle.

Mint director Cleve K. Scarbrough, who discovered the painting on a trip to London, terms its purchase by the Woman's Auxiliary "a major acquisition" for the museum. The painting is also said to relate closely to the English queen for whom the city of Charlotte is named.

The painting is a variation of the subject matter of one of nine panels designed by West, an American-born artist who became historical painter to George III. The cake decorator for the King; Haas, did the actual painting on the ceiling, based on West's designs.

HALIFAX (AP) — The post office announced it would use the designation Nova Scotia instead of N.S. on all its stamped postal cards depicting scenes of the province.

Ancient Play Garden New in N.Y.

The newly opened playground is based on the architecture of the ancient Middle East. There are pyramids and obelisks to climb and water runs in aqueducts of antique design.

The architect, Richard Dattner, says the garden gives children the feeling of ancient cultures and makes them more aware of the forces of nature.

King's Department Stores operates self service department stores in 17 states throughout the East, South and Midwest. The company, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, reported sales of $233 million for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31.

RETIRED FROM DU PONT

W.A. WRIGHT

DON H. EDMAN

William A. Wright of Greenville and Don H. Edman of Rt. 2, Grifton, retired from the Du Pont Co. on Jan. 1 with 38 and 37 years' service, respectively.

A native of Richmond, Va., Wright attended the University of Richmond and joined Du Pont at the Spruance Plant near there in 1934. He joined the Kinston staff in December of 1952 as accounting superintendent.

Edman, a Waynesboro, Va. native, began his career there with Du Pont in 1935 and transferred to the Kinston Plant in 1952 as a foreman in the Labor Section. He was labor and transportation supervisor when he retired.

Du Pont announced that Les F. Townsend of Kinston retired from the company on Jan 1 with 38 years' service.

OPERATIONS MANAGER

Paul Oughton has been named operations manager for WITN-TV in Washington, according to an announcement by W.R. Roberson Jr., president and general manager of North Carolina Television Inc.

Oughton, a native of Ridgewood, N.J., began his broadcasting career 16 years ago in Raleigh and for more than ten years was associated with WRAL-TV. Prior to joining WITN-TV, he was production manager for WVEC-TV in Norfolk and KMBC-TV in Kansas City.

He attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in radio, television and motion pictures.

PAUL OUGHTON

What's smoother than a Mazda rotary engine? A Mazda rotary engine plus an automatic.

The rotary engine is the engine of the future. It is lighter, quicker, smaller, simpler, quieter, and more efficient. In other words—smooth.

And now we've teamed it with a remarkable new automatic transmission that puts all the rotary power to work. So you can put our new performance pair in an RX-2 Coupe and enjoy smooth riding luxury all the way.

Come in and test drive a Mazda today. You'll find you've made a smooth move.

INAUGURATION WEEK SPECIAL

Key Congressmen Tell What You Can Expect in the Next Four Years

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. ROBERT TAFT, JR. of Ohio

Am I dreaming? Or did I really read that the son of Mr. Republican is for "no fault" auto insurance? —J. Macklin, Syracuse, N.Y.

● America's automobile owners suffered a serious setback with the failure of the Congress to pass the no-fault insurance bill. At the present time, insurance agents, adjusters, attorneys and administrative personnel receive 56 cents of every premium dollar, leaving only 44 cents for people who are hurt in automobile accidents. A study conducted by the Department of Transportation showed that of seriously injured automobile victims, more than half received nothing. When less than half of automobile-insurance dollars goes to pay people who are hurt and who have suffered economic loss, I believe it is time for a change in our system.

FOR PAUL LYNDE

I've heard you refuse to play in Las Vegas, even for top money. Why?—F. T. M., Martinez, Calif.

● Because there is no such thing as a "smart" club audience. They are rude and bored people. I remember appearing at the Versailles Supper Club in New York, which was the so-called "smart" place to go at that time. In the middle of my monologue, a couple got up and started dancing—and there was no music in my act!

FOR EVA GABOR

In "Green Acres" you seemed terribly naïve. Are you?—B. K., Centerville, Ohio

● Well, I'm not a woman of the world. Kooky, yes. But maybe something rubbed off from the series. Just the other day I opened a can of coffee with a hammer and corkscrew!

FOR AMANDA BLAKE of "Gunsmoke"

Is it true that James Arness has never kissed you during a "Gunsmoke" episode?—Steve Barrett, Kings Mountain, N.C.

● Yes, that's true. It's understood that he's my boyfriend in the context of the show, and we just let it go at that.

FOR CARROLL O'CONNOR of "All in the Family"

I've listened to you and Edith sing the opening song on your show week after week, but I still can't understand the next to last line. Could I see it in print?—Sallie Bristow, Mattoon, Ill.

● Sure. In fact, here are the last four lines:

"Didn't need no welfare state
Everybody pulled his weight
Gee, our old La Salle ran great
Those were the days!"

FOR JAMES MACARTHUR of "Hawaii Five-O"

Isn't it difficult to play second banana to Jack Lord in a series when you have done so many leads in films before?—S. P. T., Harlingen, Texas

● Not really. First of all, on television you are in front of so many people—many more than would see you in the movies. Second, I didn't like the type of motorcycle pictures and all that other junk I did before. The only good thing I got out of them was meeting my wife Melody.

FOR JACQUELINE BISSET

You have such an obvious English accent. Has it ever caused you any problems?—F. Lowry, Lafayette, Ind.

● Only once. I recently did "The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" with Paul Newman and was supposed to speak with a Western accent. I taped my speeches and learned them phonetically. But then they kept changing lines on me, and I had to learn new lines at the last moment. I honestly don't know how well I did.

FOR EDIE ADAMS

Are you as extravagant when you buy clothes as your TV commercials make you seem?—P. O'Day, St. Louis, Mo.

● Well, when I did my first nightclub act in Toronto, I went out and bought a thousand-dollar gown—using my father's charge account at a top New York store! "Variety" said nothing about my singing, but my gown got a rave! Today, my biggest extravagance is time. I want to just sit on the beach at our house at Trancas and just look out over the ocean, but then I feel guilty when I am not doing something for my career.

FOR PERRY COMO

I read somewhere that you never read a book in your life. Is that true?—Mrs. M. L. Cook, Oakland, Calif.

● No. It's true that I am a slow reader, but I enjoy reading.

FOR REP. JOHN ASHBROOK of Ohio,
Conservative candidate for President in 1972

You were opposed to the nuclear-arms limitation agreement President Nixon signed with the Soviet Union. What was your reaction to the trade agreement he signed with Red China?—Paul Teerman, Salem, Ore.

● I think it is a dangerous political misconception to believe that increased trade with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries will contribute to better relations. For example, the recent sale of wheat to China and Russia merely means tyrannical rulers can now use this grain to appease their citizens and thus continue their dictatorial control. A few years ago, few people would have wanted trade with Communist-bloc countries. It shows how much a President can influence people. All of a sudden, it's respectable.

What You Can Expect Of Nixon's "Four More Years"

Some surprising statements by nine of the most important people in the Congress that President Nixon has to work with.

"There are bad vibrations"

REP. DONALD RIEGLE
(R., Mich.)

I foresee some tough conservative types in the Administration using the next four years to get a stranglehold on the 1976 nomination for Agnew. The President himself may not get involved, but there are enough Agnew-oriented partisans, both in and out of the White House, who want to see a continued move to the right.

Agnew will lay low for awhile. He is canny enough to realize the biggest mistake he could make would be to overexpose himself. He's got to go through an image transformation and emerge as a nice guy. And I don't see other contenders – like Sen. Charles Percy and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller–denying Agnew the nomination if he avoids classic blunders.

The Democrats are in an even more muddled situation. Each hour it becomes more essential for the country that the Democrats in 1976 nominate a reasonable, moderate, sensitive ticket and support it with that kind of platform, as an alternative to an Agnew candidacy.

There's no love for Nixon on Capitol Hill, and no love in the White House for the Hill. I speak of both Republicans and Democrats. There are bad vibrations. So I foresee a battle of veto messages.

Republican moderates have an agonizing, almost impossible set of judgments about what they do from this point on. Rockefeller is a wild card in all this. He's got his own money, so he's not locked out of participation like others might be. But he's gone along with Nixon on every key issue for the last four years, so I basically see him to the right of center at this point.

"A GOP majority?"

REP. GERALD FORD
(R., Mich., House Minority Leader)

The President's relations with House members will be as good, if not better, than last session. Although Republicans do not hold a majority, our forces have been strengthened by 12 seats. We are planning more personal contact with the President to eliminate the possibility of any misunderstandings. I've talked with him about that.

As for Nixon being a "lame duck," my guess is that the House GOP leadership can put together a winning combination for him on most key votes. We may well have a working majority, if not a numerical one.

We'll see greater emphasis on domestic legislation, with the major upcoming issues probably being welfare reform, private pensions, perhaps trade legislation.

Democrats, I'm told, plan to reintroduce measures the President vetoed last year after adjournment. Many of those vetoes would have been sustained had we remained in session, even in an election year.

I believe the President is in a position to veto them again. If necessary, he can take the issues to the public, and win. In any event, I don't think he would run from a fight.

"A major confrontation"

SEN. WALTER MONDALE
(D., Minn.)

In the months ahead there could be a major confrontation over the President's assumption that Congress is more or less advisory–in other words that we appropriate money, but he decides whether to spend it.

The President apparently plans to retrench on efforts to deal with many important domestic problems. Signs indicate that he will resist further spending in education and poverty, that he may cut into the emergency employment program.

Apparently he intends to stretch or disregard congressional intent regarding money. He may impound funds or spend them in different ways. His targets will be the programs of the New Deal, the New Frontier and the Great Society, which he may try to dismantle.

As for the President's so-called Government reorganization, the rhetoric will be to "cut fat." But the substance will be an attack on these programs. His aim will be to structure the administration of domestic programs so that basic policy is beyond the reach of Congress. He will try to pull more of that into the White House, as he has done in foreign policy.

Democrats will resist, of course, and Republicans won't go along willingly either. It would totally exclude Congress and the public from the policy-making process.

"Agnew can be tough"

SEN. ROBERT C. BYRD
(D., W. Va., Sen. Dem. Whip)

I foresee greater aggressiveness on the part of Senate Democrats. Very few accepted McGovern's platform. Now we must carve out a program on which to run in 1976.

The next four years will be intensely political, starting now and building to a crescendo during the next two congressional sessions. Democrats are optimistic about electing a President four years from now. Our two additional Senate seats have strengthened our resolve to push our own programs and resist some of the President's, although we intend to behave responsibly and in the country's best interests.

Tax-reform legislation seems almost certain in the next two years. We'll have to come to grips with health insurance. There probably will be some strip-mining and consumer legislation. And we must come up with an energy policy in the face of a crisis that is pinching us increasingly.

The bussing issue will still be with us. Nixon will have opportunities to name one or two more Supreme Court Justices, and I surely hope they are strict constructionists. I have nothing against liberals on the Court, but he has to continue to straighten that Court out.

The President's problems will increase, some coming from his own party, as he nears the end of his second term. He didn't go all out for some Republican senators, and that probably contributed somewhat to their losses.

Agnew has a tremendous following around the country. With a little care and shaping of his image, he'd be a tough hombre to beat in '76.

Now, for people who don't have "luck" with most house plants – the amazing
SIX-IN-ONE

GLASS GARDEN $2.00 ppd.

Very Special!

- Often called Terrarium
- Produces its own water supply!
- Goes unattended for months!

(2 for $3.75)
(3 for $5.00)

Long a best-seller at the House of Wesley, the unique Glass Garden continues to be one of your best plant buys. For only $2.00 you get a packet of several unusual woodland plants that will fill your gallon-size container with a charming miniature garden in just 2 to 3 weeks.

Just imagine – beautiful Red Partridge Berries, white flowering Rattlesnake Plantain, tree-like Ground Pine, fern-like Club Moss, palm tree-like Pipsissewa, and carpet-like Sheet Moss – all growing and thriving in a self-sustaining garden that even makes its own water supply!

TERRARIUM. Because no special skill or care is needed, this delightful terrarium can be a wonderful project for children, who will be thrilled and fascinated by the miniature landscape THEY have produced. An enjoyable educational experience for any age child!

VERSATILE. Extremely versatile, the handsome Glass Garden makes a lovely centerpiece for all occasions, an unusual addition to large or small plant collections, or, if your space is limited, the Glass Garden provides a varied collection in itself.

Use the handy coupon below to order several packets (each sent with complete instructions) for yourself and friends. All of you will enjoy the satisfaction of growing the amazing Glass Garden. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay postman $2.00 for one packet, $3.75 for two, or $5.00 for three exciting Glass Garden packets, plus COD and postage. Save money – enclose full payment with order and we pay all postage charges. GLASS CONTAINER NOT INCLUDED

(2 for $2.50)
(3 for $3.50)

Just Count the Many Advantages of this Wonderful House Plant!

1. Gorgeous blooms last for months.
2. Grows in either light or shade.
3. Highly decorative even when not in bloom.
4. Withstands dry indoor conditions.
5. You can watch Nature at work – and see how this unusual plant got its name!

For a different kind of house plant, one that is very easy to keep, and one that gives plenty of color, you can't go wrong with Queen's Tears (Billbergia zebrina). The heavily cross-banded silvery white, long fluted leaves turn purplish bronze in strong light. Produces exceptionally bright pink bracts with a downward curving spike that holds a mass of blue and white flowers. And you can actually watch the "tear drops" of sweet nectar form on the stigma.

SEND NO MONEY. On delivery, pay postman $1.35 for one, $2.50 for 2, or $3.50 for 3 handsome plants, plus COD charges and postage. Plants are sent in 2¼" plastic pots. Save money – we pay all postage charges on prepaid orders.

The Next Four Nixon Years

Wide World

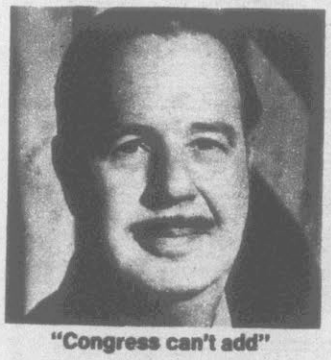
"We'll consolidate. . . ."

SEN. MIKE MANSFIELD

(D., Mont., Majority Leader)

I expect to see the Democratic party consolidate. I expect cooperation between the Congress and the 31 Democratic governors. I expect we'll recapture the South, part of it anyway, in 1974 and 1976. To do that, we have to pass the right kind of legislation, and face up to problems in a way that will be satisfactory to most of the people.

On Government reorganization, we'd be delighted to be of assistance if he takes it in small enough slices. But if he requests what he did two years ago, abolishing the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce and other agencies, he's asking too much. He knows it's impossible to get that type of reorganization through. Businessmen would resist abolishing Commerce and the farmers wouldn't go for abolishing Agriculture.



"Congress can't add"

SEN. HUGH SCOTT

(R., Pa., Minority Leader)

The President has done a tremendous job in foreign affairs. Now he can move into other areas. Much depends on the people around him, his new Cabinet and his White House aides. If they veer away from the conservative bent we have seen, and move toward more aggressive domestic programming, it could make for an interesting time ahead.

Remember that at no time since he became Chief Executive has President Nixon had the comfort of having his own party in control of either House of Congress. Whatever his domestic proposals, the Democratic-controlled Congress will be "upping" the President – monetarily – all the time. Congress doesn't know how to add, only to multiply. The President has the tough job of subtracting in order to balance the budget and hold down taxes.

I foresee resistance to his effort to streamline the Government bureaucracy, to trim "fat." Members of Congress talk it. They want it. But when it comes to the nitty-gritty, when it affects people they've installed in jobs, they won't buy it.

Leftover items we must deal with include health legislation, pension reform, environmental bills (some 36 were left hanging last year), an anti-hijacking law and transportation strike legislation.

"I'm getting out of it. . . . I'm tired of fighting men"

REP. SHIRLEY CHISHOLM

It will be pure, cold, raw, naked politics: This Democratic-controlled Congress is very conscious of the necessity to capture the Presidency four years from now. They'll withhold things Nixon wants that might help build the Republican party or his successor. It's almost a matter of political life and death.

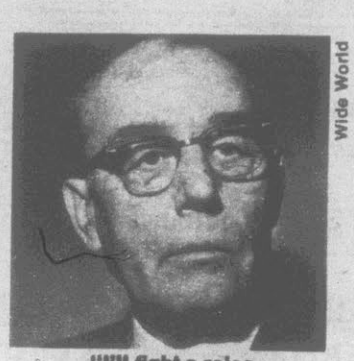
As a result, people will suffer. This is what bothers me—playing a little too much politics at the expense of people who have waited so long for things rightfully belonging to them.

So the next four years will be intensely political. I sense it as I have never sensed it before.

The big issue remains the question of racial attitudes, as reflected in legislation or directives dealing with education, housing and employment. The old bugaboos will rear their ugly heads—quotas, busing, special treatment. All that will get worse before it gets better. Race was the hidden issue in last November's elections, and it will pervade the country for the next four years.

I plan to retire eventually, to get out of this rat race. I'm tired of fighting men—white men and black men. Females are given proscribed roles in America. I've broken the barrier, but there's still a long way to go.

I want people to realize that not all politicians are out to make deals morning, noon and night, to sell out their mothers and grandmothers for a lobbyist's buck. I've been at this for 22 years. I'm now 48. I don't feel I want to go on the rest of my life fighting a bunch of men who seem to feel threatened just because you have the ability, the talent, and because you dare to fight for your principles.



Wide World

"I'll fight a raise in our paychecks"

REP. H. R. GROSS

(R., Iowa)

I'll help Nixon where I think he's right and oppose him where I think he's wrong. A lot of Republicans are ticked off because he didn't campaign for them, but I didn't need him in my district. I care more about saving what's left of this Government.

It's time for the quadrennial review of congressional salaries, and that's bound to be a hot issue. Members get $42,500 a year now. There'll be blood on the moon if they try to put through another raise. What kind of precedent would we be setting in a fight against inflation? I'll introduce a disapproving resolution, and I'll fight it.

The President is going to run into trouble in cutting back Government, unless he cuts across the board. He hasn't said a word about trimming foreign aid, which is running to $8 or $9 billion a year. Unless he does it right down the line, he's going nowhere, in my opinion.

I expect questions to be raised about naming Elliot Richardson Secretary of Defense. What in the world did Massachusetts do for Nixon? The one state in the country that dumped him, so he goes to Massachusetts for his Defense Secretary. I don't know what Richardson's special qualifications are for that job.

"Nixon is a lame duck"

SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE

(D., Wis., Chairman, Joint Economic Committee)

I foresee four very exciting years. There will be a real clash between the President and Congress. The election didn't resolve any ideological differences. While giving the President tremendous popular support, it returned more Democratic senators than before. In fact, it was a kind of liberal victory.

The clash I see ahead will focus over priorities. Where will limited revenues be spent? It is doubtful we'll have a tax increase, and without that the only way we can prevent serious inflation is to hold down spending sharply.

Despite Nixon's smashing victory, he is a lame duck. The likelihood of his getting what he wants from Congress will be in question constantly, and probably will diminish throughout the four years.

We will have to act quickly on wage and price controls, which expire April 30. The present controls haven't worked very well. We have had serious inflation, with five and a half percent of people still out of work. Congress can and should enact more effective limitations on price increases.

You're never too old to hear better

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Write to Dept. 4446, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Her family has a lovely house, balanced meals, stylish clothes—and Pin-Worms!

It's a medical fact that Pin-Worms can attack any family—rich or poor, young or old. Medical authorities say that at least 1 out of 3 persons examined are infected by the troublesome parasite—without knowing it. Even worse, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread through the whole family.

Pin-Worms can happen to anyone. How can you tell if Pin-Worms have infiltrated your family? The most obvious signs will come from children—nose-picking, fidgeting and scratching to overcome the tormenting rectal itch.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. For a free informative pamphlet giving medical facts about Pin-Worms, send name and address to Jayne's P-W, Dept. AI Box 400, New York, N.Y. 10016.

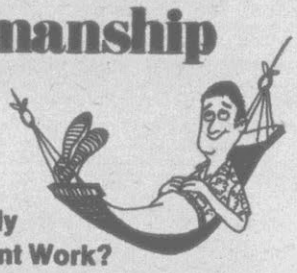
WILLIE SHOEMAKER:

What Makes a Good Jockey?

Willie Shoemaker, 98 pounds, four feet eleven inches, is the winningest jockey of all time. He recently scored Win No. 6,500 in a career that began in 1949 and has brought him ten national riding championships. Shoemaker has been aboard a total of 26,000 mounts that have earned $50 million in prize money, with $5 million of that sum going to the jockey. . . . "Horses are highly individualistic," says Willie. "I've always had an instinctive horse sense for getting along with them and getting them to do their best in a race. It's important, also, to get good position in a race and to pace your horse." . . . Shoemaker, native of Fabens, Texas, grew up on a farm. He first tried a career as a bantamweight boxer and won the Los Angeles Golden Gloves championship. However, he became fascinated with horse racing when he took a summer job in a racing stable. After two years of working around the barns, he became a professional jockey in 1949. . . . Little Willie is the father of a 15-year-old adopted son and also has two teenage children who live with his former wife. . . . The 41-year-old "Shoe" has won 95 races with purses of $100,000 or better and is anxious to make it a hundred before thinking of retirement.—By Barry Abramson

Jobmanship



Does Early Retirement Work?

Most people who've tried early retirement seem to like it—under certain conditions. Over a period of years, the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research interviewed automobile workers who retired between the ages of 58-65. The great majority of people (89 percent) were glad they retired when they did, and said, "I'd recommend early retirement to others." The people interviewed made it clear that they don't become bored with retirement. "I liked it right away. And I like it even more now," was a very popular sentiment. Poor health was the only condition that definitely lowered a person's satisfaction with retired life. The essentials for enjoyment of retirement were: having an adequate financial income; retiring as planned, rather than unexpectedly; and being active. A retired person's activity could be work around his own home, volunteer charity work, leisure amusements, socializing with others, keeping up with the news. No-pay activities were just as satisfying to retired people as part-time work for money.—By S. R. Redford

The Diet Watch

How to "Sneak Up" On a Diet

"Last fling" eating just before you go on a diet can add pounds that will take weeks to knock off. How to avoid those fattening before-the-diet binges? There's more than one way: It's better to pretend to yourself that you're not going to go on a diet at all—and then simply do it, unexpectedly, one morning. It is also wise to adjust one's viewpoint: Instead of thinking of a diet as a form of deprivation, select a diet that includes plenty of delicious tastes. Ideally, this means not even considering fad diets—since fad diets are one-sided eating and really are a deprivation. Eat smaller servings, skip seconds; and when it comes to a favorite calorie-filled food, keep it in your diet, but eat a small portion only, and less frequently than previously. —By Harriet LaBarre

The Doctor Lets You In

Is Health a Three-Letter Word?

One of the more pleasant surveys to come along in awhile recently announced that sex is good for the health! More specifically, sex is good for the heart, for the circulation, for the brain, for the hormones, for the digestion, for the psyche—you name it. Surprisingly, this is true even for patients with heart conditions, except of course in acute crises. There is also one other big exception: The good effects of sex hold only for the kind of sex that the participant considers "good" or "normal" for himself. Any kind of hanky-panky he feels guilty about—whatever it is—tends to cause heart problems, to aggravate ulcers and other stress-caused conditions, and to raise the blood pressure in hypertensive people. Your doctor can tell you what kind of health you're in, but only you can decide what kind of sex is right for you.—By John J. Secondi, M.D.

LORNE GREENE:

Why Men Should Back Women's Lib

"People automatically expect me to have a negative attitude toward Women's Lib. I suppose that's because I played the archetype of a kind of 19th-century American on 'Bonanza,' with some fine but old-fashioned qualities. But that's not the case at all in my real-life views." Lorne Greene feels strongly: "Women have for too long been second-class citizens. The fact that they're finally demanding equal rights with men has my endorsement. I'm proud, too, of my wife Nancy's involvement in this important movement. She has my support. . . . And insofar as men feeling their own masculinity is threatened by Women's Lib—all I can say is, that's their problem." Lorne Greene was seen as Ben Cartwright on "Bonanza" for 12 years. —Interviewed by William Wolf

They say we should consume from one-quarter to one-third of our total food intake at breakfast. That's easy on Sunday. But what about workdays, when you've got to get out fast? This pull-out Cookbook covers all bases—one Lazy Sunday Menu, several recipes you can make ahead, and finally some really speedy ideas for those frenzied, late-to-work merry-go-rounds.

For Sunday...For Every Day... Breakfasts with Starting-Power

BAKED GRITS AND EGGS

6 packets (0.8-oz. size) instant grits
3 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons half and half, light cream or milk
6 eggs
Parsley sprigs

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Pour instant grits into six ungreased 10-oz. custard cups or oven-proof ramekins.
2. Add ½ cup boiling water to each, stirring to blend well. Place 1 teaspoon of butter in center of each, pushing into grits to make well.
3. Pour a tablespoon of cream around outer edge of each custard cup. Top each with an egg. Place custard cups on cookie sheet. Bake 20-25 minutes, or until egg is soft-cooked. Garnish with parsley sprigs if desired.

Makes 6 servings

APRICOT-OATMEAL MUFFINS

1 egg
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk*
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
⅓ cup all-vegetable shortening
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
½ cup dried apricots, finely chopped

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Grease 12 medium muffin cups. In medium bowl beat egg, buttermilk, brown sugar and shortening together.
2. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda together. Add dry ingredients, oats and apricots to egg mixture. Stir only until dry ingredients are moistened.
3. Spoon batter into prepared muffin cups, filling ⅔ full. Bake for 20-25 minutes, until lightly browned.

Makes 12 muffins

*To sour milk add 1 tablespoon vinegar to 1 scant cup milk.

Raisins or currants may be used also.

"There's nothing like getting out in the soil and really working with it and seeing yourself being some kind of help to mankind. . . . Next to actual contact with God, the best thing is for man to grow and harvest the food he eats."

By Dennis Weaver,
As told to Helen Dorsey

I became a vegetarian about 13 years ago, simply because it made me feel so well. I'm not a purist. I've always eaten dairy products and fish, but now only on rare occasions.

I make a great effort to include high-quality protein in my daily diet, with legumes, soybeans and seeds. Often I sprinkle seeds and nuts into salads with hunks of cheese. My salads become a meal in themselves.

Eggs, cheese and brown rice are the basis of my great skillet dinners!

My greatest joy is my organic garden. The vegetables make pungent vegetable soups. You'll find everything in my garden. And it's great fun and wonderful therapy. There's nothing like getting out in the soil and really working with it and seeing yourself being some kind of help to mankind. It's basic, it's natural and there's some kind of connection with a higher being. Next to actual contact with God, the best thing is for man to grow and harvest the food he eats. Psychologically, food seems to taste better, too.

A Celebrity Cooks

Dennis Weaver Says:

Try These Dishes From My Own Garden

Dennis Weaver, star of NBC's "McCloud," chats over dinner with Joan Blondell.

DENNIS WEAVER'S HERBED VEGETABLE SOUP

- 2 cups lentils (about ¾ lb.)
- 2 qts. water
- ¼ cup onion flakes
- ½ teaspoon minced garlic, optional
- 2 bay leaves
- 2 cups diced tomatoes
- 2 cups sliced carrots
- 2 cups shredded cabbage
- 2 cups sliced zucchini
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1¼ teaspoons ground black pepper
- 2 teaspoons basil leaves
- ¼ cup parsley flakes, optional

1. In a large saucepan combine lentils with water. Bring to boiling, reduce heat, and simmer for 2 minutes. Remove from heat, let soak 1 hour.

2. Add onion flakes, minced garlic, bay leaves, tomatoes and carrots. Heat to boiling point. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1½ hours, or until lentils are tender.

3. Add cabbage, zucchini, soy sauce, salt, black pepper, basil leaves and parsley flakes. Cover, simmer 5 minutes. Remove bay leaves before serving. Makes 10-12 servings

AFTERTHOUGHTS: Dennis advises, "Sometimes, at the last minute, I add cubed eggplant or bean sprouts. It's a great chance to use the vegetables from my garden!" Non-vegetarians can easily add protein by simmering lentils with beef or ham bones—but reduce salt.

EXTRA-PROTEIN SALAD

- Lettuce leaves (or your choice of greens: spinach, Swiss chard)
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 pkg. alfalfa sprouts (or 1-qt. jarful if you grow your own)
- 2 tomatoes, cut in pieces
- 1 cucumber or diced Jerusalem artichokes
- Handful pumpkin or sunflower seeds
- Small carrot, grated

1. Wash, dry, crispen greens. Place in salad bowl or on large glass plate. Put cottage cheese in center and garnish with alfalfa sprouts, tomatoes and cucumber. Scatter seeds and carrot overall.

2. For salad dressing: Combine 2 tablespoons sesame oil, 1 tablespoon corn oil, 1 teaspoon lemon juice or organic cider vinegar and pinch sea salt. Use small amount to season salad. Makes 2 servings

AFTERTHOUGHTS: If desired, cottage cheese may be tossed with greens, vegetables and small amount of salad dressing. For a real treat, serve with unleavened flat Armenian bread, called Ak-Mak, available in health-food stores.

APPLE-CINNAMON GRANOLA

- 5 cups quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
- 1 cup flaked or shredded coconut
- ½ cup cashews, finely chopped
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ cup honey
- ⅓ cup vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1½ cups chopped evaporated or dried apples*
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Spread oats in an ungreased 13x9-inch baking pan and heat 10 minutes.

2. Combine oats, coconut, cashews, wheat germ and cinnamon in a large bowl. Stir in honey, oil and vanilla thoroughly with a large cooking spoon. Mix until dry ingredients are well-coated.

3. Spoon into same baking pan and bake 30-35 minutes, stirring often to brown evenly. Cool.

4. Toss apples in brown sugar. Stir apples into granola until crumbly.

5. Serve as a breakfast cereal or a nutritional snack with cold milk. Store in a tightly covered container in refrigerator.

Makes about 10 cups cereal

*One cup raisins, currants or chopped dried apricots may also be added if desired.

APPLE-MOLASSES BREAD

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ¼ cup molasses
- 1 cup canned applesauce
- 1 cup chopped raisins or dates
- ½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans

1. Preheat oven to 325°F. Grease and lightly flour a 9x5x3-inch loaf pan.

2. In large bowl with electric mixer, beat butter until soft; gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time.

3. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg.

4. Combine molasses and applesauce. Add flour mixture, alternating with molasses mixture, to butter and sugar combination, beating well after each addition. Stir in raisins and walnuts.

5. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let cool 5 minutes in pan. Remove to wire rack to cool completely.

A Security Expert's Grim Forecast

Will America Become a Land of Electric Gates and Guard Dogs?

Coded cards, TV monitors, armed guards, roaming Dobermans. . . . Here, if present trends continue, is how one authority sees the suburbs of the future.

The woman drove her station wagon into the line of vehicles passing through huge double gates, then reached out to insert coins in a switch box that lifted a barrier and allowed her car to pass through. An armed attendant waved her to a parking place. As she got out of the car, her image appeared on closed-circuit TV screens under the constant watch of armed guards atop towers like those on prison walls.

She approached the gate in the steel-mesh fence, opened it by inserting a special stenciled card in the gate-control unit, and another security guard nodded a greeting as she signed the "in" docket.

Is she a technician going to work in a Government defense installation? Or a visitor to a maximum-security prison?

This is the picture of a future shopper in a future America projected by one of the country's best-known security experts, Albert Black, head of the International Detective Agency of New Jersey and Florida.

He sees this eerie-sounding "shopping picture" as part of a mammoth business that will rank in dollar-income volume with the country's best-known corporations—and is already moving in that direction.

After she leaves the supermarket, the housewife uses her special stenciled card to open the gate of an electrically charged fence that protects the subdivision where she lives, smiling as she is greeted by first one, then another of the guards patrolling the area.

Of course, she has already unloaded her shopping bags in a special fenced area near the garage, with its remote-controlled doors, and is transporting them in shopping carts designed to fit the elevators in the subdivision. This, too, is part of Black's vision.

It is not a pleasant picture, he agrees. But, he says, "Peace of mind is hard to come by, even today. In the future, it is going to be a big item on the market."

The need for private security became distressingly obvious in the wake of the widespread racial riots of 1967. The Kerner Commission's study of the riots, which was published the following year, predicted that American cities would become armed camps. By now, there is some evidence that such a situation is beginning to take shape.

Security was once a "sideline" for private-detective agencies. Black, for example, was a "divorce detective" for many years, doing what little security business he could muster. But, like thousands of his counterparts, security demands thrust Black into a quasi-law-enforcement category, and he was quick to accept innovations. He was the first to take on canine patrols in Atlantic City, and he is credited with making the famous Boardwalk safe for night strollers—under a contract with merchants.

Now he employs hundreds of men, full or part-time, and admits that his giant income will soon make him an outright millionaire. Nor is he alone. Major security corporations like Pinkerton and Wackenhut gross in the hundreds of millions a year, and many more are springing up all over the U.S.

There's no trouble finding the labor. A lot of people like uniforms, and many of them like to wear guns, Black explains. Consequently, they like to be guards—most of them by "moonlighting"—even though the pay averages little more than $2 an hour. These are in addition to retired policemen, many of whom like nothing better than wearing a uniform again.

But the most telling innovation in security protection has been the trained dog, borrowed from regular police canine corps. Black himself recently demonstrated the talents of his dogs in smelling out guns and explosives on the persons of "skyjackers"—played by policemen—at the Albuquerque, N.M., airport. Passengers were amused when one of Black's dogs trotted down the aisle of an airliner; but they broke into applause when the dog poked his nose into the pocket of the "skyjacker," then backed off and barked ferociously.

The Federal Aviation Agency apparently was impressed, too. Black says the dogs can be trained to specifically separate the scents of knives, guns, bombs—any of the stock hijacker-equipment items. He even foresees the day when dogs can be trained to detect anxieties, nervousness or other telltale signs of the potential hijacker.

It all shapes up as a rather frightening future. But like it or not, say the experts, that's what we're in for.

Helps Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Caused By Inflammation And Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain and Burning Itch in Such Tissues.

There's an exclusive medication which actually helps shrink painful swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. And in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from rectal itching and pain in such tissues.

Tests by doctors on patients showed while it gently relieved such pain, it also helped reduce swelling of these tissues.

The medication used in the tests was Preparation H®. No prescription is needed for Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

A Reader's Remembrance

The Day I Met the Queen of England

Since FAMILY WEEKLY appears only in American newspapers (281 of them), we do not usually expect to receive a "Reader's Remembrance" from Scotland. But receive one we did....

I'm just back from Buckingham Palace.

And who did I see? I saw the Queen. What's more, she was wearing exactly the same outfit as I was, identical in color and style. She looked a little surprised....

But perhaps I'd better begin at the beginning. It all started when I received an invitation (command?) to come to Buckingham Palace to receive an MBE. MBE stands for Member of the British Empire, and is one of the "Honours and Titles" awarded for merit to celebrate the Queen's birthday. I was receiving it for my work in broadcasting for children.

And the first thing I thought about, being a female, was What To Wear. Midi, maxi, mini? A coat, a suit, a dress? I finally picked out a rose-colored silk dress and coat, midi-length, and a black hat.

A handsome young nephew of mine—an architect in London—had been detailed to escort me. Ian arrived in good style at my London hotel, and we drove to the palace. A crowd had gathered to cheer anybody and everybody as we swept through the gates.

I had always wondered what lay behind that royal archway. Now we were driving through, with soldiers standing to attention and policemen saluting us as we passed. Suddenly we were in the inner sanctum, and there at the main portico was the red carpet laid out. For me.

I walked up the steps in a daze, past colorfully dressed Guards standing stiller than statues. Indeed, it was difficult to tell if they were alive, until I saw a blink of an eyelid.

In the entrance hall, I was parted from my nephew and wafted away to a very splendid anteroom to join the other recipients, who were waiting to receive instruction. Among them I recognized David Frost. A very tall, very military man, with clanking sword and spurs, put us through our paces:

"When you approach the ballroom, you will wait at the door till you receive the signal. Then you will move several paces inside the room until you are opposite the Air-Vice Marshal, who will be standing at attention. When your name is called, you will move four paces forward, before turning to face Her Majesty. You will curtsey, walk up to the dais and stand till she pins on your medal. She will shake hands with you. You will then take four paces backward, curtsey once more, turn and walk out."

The sexes were segregated: ladies at one side of the room, gentlemen at the other. The ladies were working themselves up into a lather of fright. One woman kept asking me if her pearls were on straight. Another kept moaning, "Oh dear, what'll happen if I seize up? I'm very prone to lumbago, you know."

I tried to soothe the others' nerves by saying, "Look, we're not going to our execution! When we go in there, the Queen's not going to say, 'Twenty years for you! Off with her head! To the Tower!' It's an honor, and we've jolly well got to enjoy it!"

We were taken through a series of magnificent rooms, nearer to the Presence. I saw wonderful pictures on the walls, many of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, and at last I heard the strains of the orchestra, and had a glimpse through the open door of Her Majesty.

I advanced as instructed till I stood opposite the Air-Vice Marshal. "Lavinia Derwent." Four paces forward. Turn, face the Queen, Curtsey. Walk toward her....

It was at this point that I noticed, to my horror, that the Queen was wearing my rose-colored dress. She noticed it, too. A slight flicker of emotion crossed her face—was it pique? amusement? or just surprise? But she quickly recovered her royal composure.

She leaned forward, pinned on the decoration, and whispered something in my ear.

Now everybody, but everybody, asks me, "What did the Queen say to you?" And everybody, but everybody, is disappointed when I refuse to tell. Why do I refuse? Well, it was private, and I mean to keep it that way.

So, having said her few words to me, Her Majesty shook hands. At close quarters she looks really beautiful, with lovely eyes, a perfect complexion and a truly radiant smile. Mind you, I had other things on my mind. Four steps backward, curtsey, turn to the right and walk out.

It was all over. The orchestra played "God Save the Queen," she bowed and smiled to us all, and left the room with her halberdiers in attendance.

Chatter broke out as guests and recipients mingled, all telling their experiences and showing their medals. When we walked down the red carpet, with the Guards still standing at attention, it seemed like a dream. But I still have my medal to prove that it really happened. —Lavinia Derwent

LIVE LONGER AND BETTER

(*See Below)

Do you know people who wake up to sunshine 355 days out of each year . . . people who don't know what it is to be oppressed by humid heat in the summer or by the cold clutch of winter damp? Do you know people who can say that in their State the rate of cancer and heart disease is half of what the Nation as a whole faces? Do you know people to whom a suntan is a year 'round commonplace, who work and play in a climate called America's healthiest? We know such people. They live in New Mexico.

THERE ISN'T A PLACE ON EARTH WHERE THE AIR IS PURER, WHERE BODY HEALTH IS MORE LAVISHLY BESTOWED. NO PLACE WHERE THE WORDS AT THE TOP OF THIS PAGE—LIVE LONGER AND BETTER—FIT MORE THAN THEY DO IN NEW MEXICO.

And in all of New Mexico itself it would be difficult to match the climate and beauty of the region surrounding Deming. As spectacular as the northern portion, but without the cold of winter. As dry and pure as over the border to Arizona, but not as hot in the summer. As strangely appealing as the desert yet fertile. And as actively vigorous and prosperous as the city you now live in (maybe more so) yet without the fever, without the tension.

To live anywhere in New Mexico is to live better. The superb climate, naturally air-conditioned in the summer and brilliantly sunny in the winter—the breathtaking beauty of a lavish Nature—the young vigor of a state that is causing an unprecedented business and investment boom—the record which shows that one lives longer, that health improvement is almost miraculous—these are the reasons that tens of thousands of Americans already have come here to live, and hundreds of thousands of others will be following in the immediate years ahead.

Consider then: Here in the center of this miraculous climate and beauty are towns which have grown amazingly in the last few years. Las Cruces, for example: In 1950 it had 12,000 people. By 1960, 37,000 . . . a rise of 300% in 10 years—and still growing. Like Tucson and Phoenix, this area has the same desert allure, where the good fortune of pure air, pure drinking water and a salubrious climate permits lovely towns to flourish. Statistics show the same 85% of possible sunshine, summer and winter, of Phoenix and Tucson; these same figures reveal even purer, drier air.

Beginning 3½ miles from the flavorful city of Deming (population 8,500) are 24,000 acres of former ranches whose farthest boundary is 28 miles from town. Spectacularly set off by the breathtaking Florida Mountains, this land is so typical of the romance of the southwest that it has been photographed for the covers of many magazines including the official publication of the State of New Mexico. What better way to describe its Southwestern flavor than to tell you that when the producers of the movie THE TALL TEXAN sought an authentic locale for their picture, they chose some of the very land we have sub-divided into the DEMING RANCHETTES. THE TALL TEXAN was filmed on our ranch, the same place where you may have a Ranchette of your very own. In this lovely basin every DEMING RANCHETTE fronts graded earth roads already dedicated to Luna County in widths of 50 and 80 feet. Every Ranchette has direct access to avenues leading to three major highways—U.S. Highways 80, 70 and brand new Interstate 10.

DEMING is blessed with water which is called "America's finest drinking water, 99.99% pure." (Shop windows in Deming display this proud claim in its window.) There are homes already built on DEMING RANCHETTES and they all have electricity. When you are ready to build your new home, electricity will be made available to you. Schools, hospitals, churches, shops, movies, golf course, tennis courts—these are located in the charming growing city of Deming. Fertile soil is yours for the planting, and wait until you see the stunning landscape of cotton fields in bloom. Almost everything will grow here when watered—fruits, vegetables, flowers, trees.

The one thing that captivates the fancy of people from every state in the Union is the sincere friendliness of Deming's people. To visit Deming is like going back to the warmth of one's own family. But don't overlook the very practical benefits of living anywhere near Deming.

GOLF—the Rio Mimbres Country Club Golf Course is right in Deming itself. It is a beautiful course with the Florida Mountains towering in the background. You play 12 months a year in this delightful climate and green fees are very reasonable.

HUNTING AND FISHING—What are you after? Deer, antelope, wild turkey? Or maybe bear, mountain lion? Well, you can get deer, quail and big jack-rabbits right in your own backyard, in the Floridas. For really big game, and great fishing, try the Gila National Forest 60 miles directly north. Almost 2,000,000 acres set aside for camping, hunting and fishing. Just 65 miles away is the Caballo Dam-Elephant Butte Reservoir, the second largest man-made lake in the United States where you can rent a boat, fish, swim or go water skiing.

HORSEBACK RIDING—You'll find the Florida Mountains enthralling. Bring along a treasure pouch and join other rockhounds seeking amethyst, agate and opal.

INVESTMENT—More than 18,000 people have bought Ranchettes through the mail and on site.

The new U.S. Interstate 10 is now being built with interchanges right in the heart of Deming. Consider other developments such as the new Retirement Home and the new road being built from Palomas, Mexico (33 miles south of Deming) into the interior of Mexico and you will agree with us that Deming has a tremendous future.

And the price of your Ranchette? Just $349 for a full half-acre and low monthly payments of $6, including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6%. At this moment you may reserve as many half-acre sites as you wish but please bear this in mind: DEMING RANCHETTES is not an enormous development and land such as this goes fast. At these prices, you may want your Ranchette to be larger—one, two—even five acres. An immediate reservation will guarantee that your half-acres will adjoin each other (this is becoming increasingly difficult because of the shortage of available lots). And you take no risk. Your reservation does not obligate you. You have the unqualified right to change your mind within 45 days after we send your Purchaser's Agreement, Property Owner's Kit, Maps and Photographs—15 days to go through the portfolio, check our references, talk it over with the family. If, during that time, you should change your mind your reservation will be cancelled with absolutely no obligation. Then you have an ADDITIONAL 30 DAYS AFTER you have made your first monthly payment to change your mind and request a full refund of every dollar you have paid in. If this makes sense mail the coupon today.

Cash Price	$349
Cash downpayment	6
Unpaid balance of cash price	$343

Unpaid balance is scheduled at 67 monthly payments of $6, and 1 monthly payment of $2.95 for each ½ acre, payments including interest at the annual percentage rate of 6% resulting in a finance charge of $61.95, and a total of payments of $404.95, or a deferred payment price of $410.95. NOTE: If you order 2 half-acres (1 acre), double all of the above figures except the period of repayment will remain the same. For 3 half-acres (1½ acres), triple the above figures, etc.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Do You Have Trouble Getting to Sleep?

True or False: If you had insomnia as a child, your child is likely to have it also. (See number 4.)

Millions of Americans have difficulty getting to sleep at night. This True-or-False quiz takes a hard look at why so many people can't go to sleep when they want to.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. There are three kinds of insomnia —they all keep you awake, but have different causes.

2. The reasons for insomnia remain a mystery.

3. Many people who think they are insomniacs are getting just as much sleep as the average person.

4. If you had insomnia as a child, your child is likely to have it also.

5. If you have insomnia, there isn't too much you can do about it.

ANSWERS

1. True. University of Florida investigators have evaluated the findings of leading studies, which divide insomnia into three types: (1) The type that begins as soon as the person goes to bed. When he is finally able to get to sleep, he may be okay for the rest of the night, but it takes an interminable period of restless turning and tossing before he eventually drops off. (2) Sleep that is "choppy, intermittent, with one or more periods of wakefulness in the middle of the night." (3) "Post-dormitional insomnia," where the sleeper awakens much earlier than he should, and finds it impossible to go back to sleep again.

2. False. Prof. Daniel Cappon, of York University, Toronto, finds that the can't-get-to-sleep-in-the-first-place variety of insomnia often results from "sleep phobia"—a fear of what might happen during the sleep period (terrifying nightmares, etc.). Another cause, he reports, is rumination, an attempt to "empty the head" before falling asleep of all the small and large details of one's life.

Middle-of-the-night awakenings are the result of excessive tension, which causes the person to be startled wide-awake by any little thing.

When a person is troubled by waking too early in the morning, and is unable to fall asleep again, Cappon reports, this is a "symptom of depression." And other investigations similarly show undesired early morning awakening to be associated with a downbeat state of mind.

3. True. This is termed "imaginary insomnia," and is not at all uncommon. Authorities agree that most insomniacs get a great deal more sleep than they think they do.

4. True. According to a university study that made a comparison of the sleep patterns of parents and offspring. Findings: People who had insomnia in childhood tend to have offspring who manifest it in childhood, but not as adults.

5. False. Investigations have shown that a key factor in insomnia is tension. Studies conducted by psychologists from three leading universities have demonstrated that no matter how acute your insomnia, if you will make a point of relaxing your mind and muscles before you go to bed, you will be amazed at the results. In the study, subjects who were all chronic insomniacs were given tension-relaxing exercises to practice three times during the day and after going to bed. When the subjects were interviewed several days later, the vast majority reported improvement in their sleeping.

Another tip for people who have difficulty getting a good night's sleep: Avoid napping in the daytime. Sleep-laboratory tests have shown that this has a very pronounced effect on the quality of nighttime sleep, and decreases the amount of stage four (deep) sleep. It's significant to note in this connection that investigations have shown that "deprivation of stage four sleep has resulted in depression and reduced functioning."

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF TO TRY THIS NEW PIPE!

So different that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT patent number 3267941

This top grade London made briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. When you switch to a Carey Pipe, you get cleaner, cooler, sweeter, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking. The coupon below will bring you my FREE TRIAL OFFER which gives you a CAREY PIPE to smoke on a test basis for a whole month.

Please send me another Carey Pipe for my brother. I have about every kind of pipe you can think of. When in the Service, I purchased pipes in France, Germany and Switzerland, but this is the best pipe I have today. There just couldn't be a better tasting, sweeter smoke than you get from the Carey Pipe.
L. S., Edwardsville, Illinois

You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

Not too long ago the Surgeon General shocked the nation with his nerve shattering report on smoking and health. A federal law was passed requiring every package of cigarettes sold in the United States to bear this message, "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health."

AS A RESULT, Americans by the thousands switched to pipe smoking. Most of them were utterly disappointed because they just couldn't tolerate the tongue bite, the bitterness, the sludge, the slugs of foul tasting goo, and the stale after-taste that results from smoking an ORDINARY pipe.

Over 30 Years Ago

I suffered the same disappointments. I bought one pipe after another, always looking for the ideal pipe. I bought the best pipes money could buy, and I bought all the disappointing, so called improved pipes with fancy gadgets and gimmicks, but never found a single solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite or sludge.

It was then, with considerable doubt, I decided to work out something for myself. After months of experimenting and scores of disappointments, suddenly, almost by accident, I discovered how to harness four great natural laws to give me everything I wanted in a pipe. It didn't require any "breaking-in." From the first puff it smoked cool —it smoked mild. It smoked right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be "rested." Yet, it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because my invention dissipates the goo as it forms.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged mediterranean briar—but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

It's Not A Filter

The "Magic Inch" is not a filter that gets soggy and loaded with foul smelling goo. A soggy foul smelling filter transmits its stale foul odor into each successive puff of smoke, creating more problems than it solves.

It's Not A Trap

The "Magic Inch" is not a trap collecting moisture that gurgles with every draw. It is not a trap that must be cleaned after every smoke.

It's Almost Magic

Not my magic but NATURE'S OWN MAGIC. Warm winds pick up moisture by evaporation from the oceans, lakes, rivers, and streams, lift it high into the atmosphere where the cooler upper air squeezes it into drops of water that fall back to earth in its most perfect state of purity. Just as the colder upper air of the atmosphere causes rain, the cool air entering the "Magic Inch" chamber through the special louvres of the patented Carey stem, causes immediate condensation of the moisture in the smoke where it drops to the bottom of the chamber, is absorbed by the natural fiber sleeve of the "Magic Inch," and in turn, is evaporated into the outside air. No accumulation ever remains to form sludge or slugs of bitter tasting goo. The "Magic Inch" also mixes purifying oxygen with the smoke from the tobacco, in perfectly controlled proportions, cooling the smoke, eliminating all tongue bite, and creating MELLOWNESS, MILDNESS, and SWEETNESS that was never before enjoyed in pipe smoking.

When I first started making the Carey "Magic Inch" Pipe as a hobby and gave several of them to my pipe smoking friends, little did I know that their enthusiasm and persistant demands for more pipes for themselves and their friends would make my part-time hobby grow into the most unusual pipe business in the world.

Today, over one hundred and fifty thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They all got started by accepting my most unusual offer to test a Carey Pipe for 30 days, without any risk on their part whatsoever.

They were all granted the same option, an option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it; if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

IT MAY BE TIME TO ASK: IS SKIING GOING TO THE DOGS?
But don't ask when Sir Oliver Twist (of Denmark) and Captain (of Australia) are around

If you never heard of dogs skiing, get a firm grip on something while we tell you about one who skis on water and another who skis on snow. That's Sir Oliver Twist water-skiing on top—and why not, since his master is the Danish water-skiing champion, Finn Grabowski? Beneath is Captain, wearing a converted pair of children's plastic skis. Captain had a professional teacher, too—his owner, Hans Grimus, is manager of one of the ski-lift companies at Mount Buller, in Australia. After two years warming up on a single ski, Captain graduated to two skis for the first time this year.

OLYMPIC DIVER MICKI
Can your child be a champ?

"It's easy to force a child into being good at a sport he may not love," cautions Micki King, Olympic Gold Medal diver and a captain in the U.S. Air Force. "And then just when he's reaching his physical peak, when his body is at its best in the activity, his mind is bored and tired of it. I think it's best to expose children to a variety of sports when they're about nine years old. I'm still interested in diving; I'm not bored yet because I started out relatively old —at 15. One sport shouldn't be stressed too early, because when youngsters start winning meets at 15 they end up stopping their athletic careers before they've physically reached their peak. And that's a shame!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

GET THIS STRAIGHT

I find it hard to sit up straight.
I tend to stoop and crouch.
Perhaps I need a record that Repeats, "Don't slouch. Don't slouch."

Or maybe I should wire myself.
Each slouch would close the circuit
And I would get a sudden shock—
It's something I might work at.

I'd tie a broomstick to my back,
I'd do all sorts of chores,
Unless my posture shows I'm meant
To walk upon all fours.

In the presence of the camp owner and two counselors, we were signing the necessary documents to send our oldest boy to camp for the first time. My youngest son watched all this for as long as he could. Then he looked up with tears in his eyes and asked, "Why are we selling Jimmy?" —Gay Williams, Vallejo, Calif.

Hearing my small son, Donny, crying loudly, I asked his older brother Jack why Donny was crying. "He just came down the stairs without walking," Jack answered.

The housewife was explaining to the electrician about the special wiring job she had in mind:

"I want you to install a switch in the kitchen," she said, "that will connect with my husband's basement workshop. I want everything to stop dead when I call him for dinner."

Selling at retail for as much as $42.95

YOURS FREE

Plus a regular depression proof income of up to $200 a month for spare time hours just for showing friends how they can save as much as 50% on shoes and you can buy shoes for yourself and your family at wholesale prices.

I've given away thousands of boots and shoes like these to men who were fed up with the hopeless job of trying to make their income stretch over constantly increasing prices. They faced up to the fact that there was only one answer—more money—and they got a free pair of shoes or boots for just making that simple decision.

Offer Hanover shoes to your friends and you'll find hard times and high prices working with you instead of against you. Men who have taken Hanover's offer are showing earnings of as much as $200—$250—and more each month. When you can show a man that he can save as much as 50% on high quality shoes; when you can prove that point for point the Hanover shoe that sells for $24.95is equal or superior to a shoe that sells nationally for $42.95, they not only jump at the chance to buy, they come back to you time and time again for more.

Or to put it another way, you can show a friend now wearing "bargain counter" shoes that he can wear high quality, finely styled Hanover shoes—probably better shoes than he has ever worn in his life—for less money than he now pays.

Jumping on the Hanover bandwagon is the simplest thing you can imagine—and doesn't cost you a cent. Just mail the coupon below to me right now while you're thinking of it. I'll mail you—entirely free—a full selling kit including the full color Hanover catalog of nearly 200 styles of shoes. You'll find dress boots, dress shoes, casual shoes, slip-ons, work shoes, fleece-lined boots for working outdoors or hunting. You'll have more shoes at your finger tips than the largest shoe store in the country. Show the catalog to your friends and neighbors and let them take their pick. And you get a liberal commission on every pair.

And how do you get the free shoes or boots? Get your selling kit and let your friends see it. If you take orders for ten pairs of shoes in the first 30 days you can select any shoe or boot in the catalog selling for no more than $24.95—and we'll send them to you free. And remember, a shoe of like quality to the Hanover shoe you select will sell for as much as $42.95 in shoe stores over the country.

If you need extra money; if you are sick and tired of trying to make ends meet, mail the coupon below to me right away. It doesn't even cost you a stamp—just fold it over and drop it in the mail. The information I'll send you could be the most hopeful uplifting story you have heard in years.

HERE'S WHAT OTHER HANOVER MEN HAVE TO SAY

R.F.H., Pa: Spent one hour in a barber shop discussing shoes...and bass fishing. I left with a total order for $95.80 with commission for me of $19.25.

A.K.K., Conn: Biggest individual sale of my entire shoe career. 18 pairs in one hour. The secret was the marvelous styles and prices Hanover has to offer. My total commission was $64.50. Not hard to take for an hour.

J.R.S., Texas: Enclosed is an order for two pairs of alligator shoes for the same customer. Made $30 in commissions. Not bad for 20 minutes work.

NO STAMP NEEDED Cut out and fold over business reply card. Staple, glue or tape and drop it in the mail.

O.K., Mr. King.

I'd like to have information on the opportunity to make money spare time with Hanover Shoe. I agree to show the Hanover catalog to at least ten friends.

I understand that if I sell ten pairs of Hanover Shoes in the first 30 days I get a free pair of shoes—any shoe or boot in the Hanover Catalog selling for up to $24.95

You May Apply for Up to $20,000.00 Coverage. . .

Now you can insure yourself and your wife with a policy guaranteed renewable up to age 70...and even your children ages 15 days to 23 years can be covered and guaranteed the right to convert up to $10,000 coverage when age 23. But you must send in application by midnight January 31st.

The Family Life Insurance Plan is so good and so inexpensive for the amount of coverage you get, that you probably have some questions. We've put all the answers down here in black and white . . . for Family Weekly readers so you won't miss the enrollment deadline. (See especially the Questions and Answers on pages 6 and 7 of this booklet.)

The Family Life Insurance Plan is a low cost, high protection insurance plan offered now to add to your regular group life insurance . . . and you can apply now without joining a group. This plan was designed to fill one and only one insurance need: to provide low cost, high benefit protection security for your loved ones. Up to $20,000 of insurance to be purchased by you, the breadwinner of the family to provide money for your survivors, not for yourself. The Family Life Insurance Plan does just this while it also allows you to insure your wife for up to $20,000 — and all your eligible children for $1,000 each, no matter how many, for one low premium. All of this protection at rates so low that you can't afford not to cover the whole family.

Why Term Insurance is Best For You!

It provides maximum coverage and the lowest possible cost to do the primary job that life insurance is intended to perform. . . protection and security for your loved ones in the event of the untimely passing of the primary family provider.

The Family Plan is Term Life Insurance so straightforward in concept and explained so fully in this booklet that we recommend buying it this easy, low cost way, through the United States mail. And you can apply right from this Family Weekly booklet, but you must mail the application by January 31, 1973. Better yet, do it today!

30 DAY NO-RISK MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

When your Family Life Insurance policy arrives, examine it in your home. Show it to one of your trusted advisors. And if for any reason you change your mind, just return your policy to us within 30 days and we'll refund your money at once.

for Yourself and $20,000.00 Coverage for Your Wife!

During this limited enrollment period you the reader of Family Weekly can apply for yourself and all eligible members of your family. All you need to do is completely fill in and mail the short application with your first month's premium, before the deadline. It's that simple. And, there's no risk with our 30-day Money Back Guarantee! When you receive your policy, you'll find it direct and easy to understand. Your coverage is then in effect.

You're Eligible to Enroll Up to Age 60!

You and your wife under age 60 are eligible to apply for up to $20,000 life insurance each. $10,000—$15,000—$20,000 for yourself. $5,000—$10,000—$15,000—$20,000 for your wife. Plus you can add coverage for all of your eligible children. All your children from 15 days to 23 years old — no matter how many — can be included for one low additional premium of only 60¢ a month for $1,000 coverage. When child coverage is in force, future children are covered automatically when they reach 15 days old at no increase in premium.

Guaranteed Convertible Without Proof Of Insurability!

You and your wife, anytime up to age 65, can convert your Family Life Insurance Plan coverage to the same or smaller amount of Ordinary Life Insurance, without any proof of insurability whatsoever. Your children are guaranteed the right at age 23 to convert their coverage to Ordinary Life Insurance for as much as 10 times their coverage under the Family Life Plan regardless of their health or occupation and without any physical examination or proof of insurability ($10,000 if they have $1,000 coverage.)

Guaranteed Renewable to Age 70!

This means your policy automatically renews up to age 70 without regard to the condition of your health, as long as you continue to pay premiums.

Only You Can Cancel Your Policy!

Once issued to you, your premium schedule can never be changed and your policy can never be cancelled except by you for the following two reasons: If during the first two years it is found that false or misleading information is in the application form (so please answer all questions carefully) or if you don't pay premiums when due. You can continue to renew your policy until you're 70 years old without any proof of continued good health.

Only One Exclusion

Even the one exclusion, suicide, is temporary and is covered only two years after each person's coverage begins.

Here's All You Do to Apply

If you're under age 60, just complete the short, easy Application Form on the back page of this booklet and mail it with your first month's premium by January 31st. We'll process your application just as quickly as possible and issue your policy as soon as your Application is approved.

one of the world's largest insurance groups. National-Ben Franklin Life carries full legal reserves for the protection of all insureds.

C

YES. The Family Life Insurance Plan offers Regular Term Insurance at low rates comparable to group savings... made possible through mass enrollments!

How Can Rates Be So Low?

The answer is simple. The Family Life Insurance Plan was created for association members and employees to supplement their regular group life insurance. But now National Ben Franklin is offering the same plan for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. Through mass enrollments, costs are kept very low and you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.

NOW—JUST ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS

1. If you're self-employed, do you provide as much life insurance protection for yourself as you would expect if you worked for someone else?
   Your family protection needs may be even greater because of your higher standard of living. You can use our plan to provide this added protection.
2. Will you still have your present coverage if you change jobs?
   You need to be sure you and your family are protected at all times. Our plan does not depend on where you are employed — it continues when you change jobs.
3. Have you increased your life insurance in the past two years?
   Prices of everything (as well as your standard of living) keep rising, and coverage adequate a few years ago, just may not be enough today.
4. Does your group life or other insurance also cover your wife?
   Money can't replace the love she gives to the family, of course, but money can help care for the children and your home if she isn't there.
5. Does your group life insurance also cover your children? Are you making sure your children will be able to get life insurance when they start out on their own?
   Conditions of health could change so that your children are no longer insurable. This way they're guaranteed protection up to $10,000 each when they are age 23!

If you answered "NO" to any of these questions, you and your family may need the low-cost, high benefit protection of the Family Life Insurance Plan that covers you and, if you wish, your wife and your children for one low monthly premium. To get these low family rates for your wife and children, however, you must also be insured under the plan.

You Risk Nothing

Even if you change your mind after you receive your Family Life Insurance Plan, just return your policy to us within 30 days of the time you receive it, and NBF Life will promptly refund the money you've paid.

So you risk nothing by applying today. But if you delay, your health conditions (or a family member's) could change suddenly and make it difficult or impossible to get life insurance anywhere, at any price.

Mail Application Today

Please mail your application today so your protection can begin just as soon as possible.

When you receive your policy, you'll see that it is simple, direct and easy to understand. Read it carefully and show it to a trusted advisor to make sure it's exactly what you've wanted and needed. If you change your mind for any reason whatsoever, simply return the policy within 30 days of receipt and your money will be refunded promptly.

20 Important Questions Answered...

1. Who is eligible to apply?

Anyone between 18 and 60 years of age who's in ordinary good health. Wives under age 60 and children from 15 days to 23 years can also be included for very little additional cost. New additions to the family are covered automatically when they're 15 days old at no additional premium when child coverage is in force. However, you must be insured in order to cover your wife or children.

2. How much can I apply for? My wife? My children?

You can apply for up to $20,000 life insurance on yourself (the minimum is $10,000 but you can choose $15,000 or $20,000). You can add coverage for your wife in the amount of $5,000; $10,000; $15,000; or $20,000. And you can add $1,000 protection for each of your eligible children — no matter how many — for one low premium.

3. Why such low rates?

By mass enrollment throughout the country, sales costs are held to the barest minimum with savings passed along to you in lower premiums.

4. Is there any red tape?

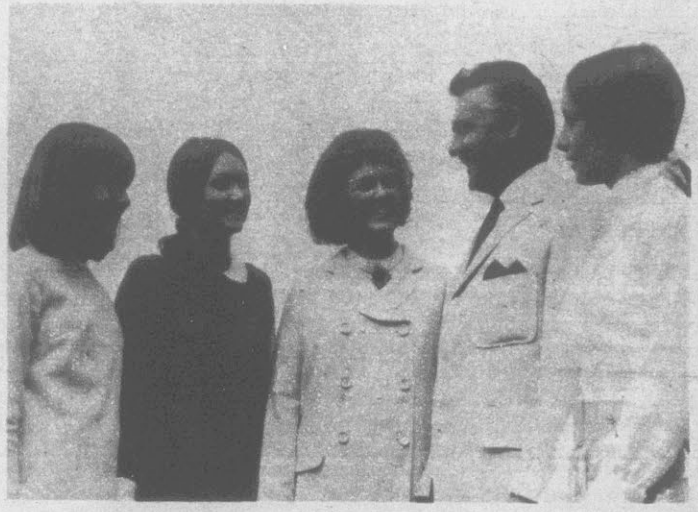
None at all. Just answer each of the simple questions on the Application on the back page of this booklet and mail it with your first month's coverage before the deadline That's all there is to it.

5. Can I convert to Ordinary Life Insurance?

Yes — Ordinary life insurance accumulates cash value, but of course has higher premium costs. You may convert to the same or smaller amount of your coverage anytime up to age 65 without proof of insurability.

6. Can my wife convert her coverage?

Yes — Anytime regardless of her health or occupation and without any physical examination, up to her age 65.



The Family Life Insurance Plan rates are so low to cover your wife and only 60¢ a month more to cover all your eligible children, that you can't afford not to insure them as well.

7. Can my children convert their coverage?

Yes — Your children are guaranteed the right at age 23 to convert their coverage to an amount up to 10 times coverage under the Family Life Plan. This can mean $10,000 of Ordinary Life Insurance regardless of their health or occupation and without any physical examination.

8. Can my insurance policy ever be cancelled?

No — However, to keep your policy in force you must pay premiums when due. NBF Life guarantees renewability up to age 70 without any proof of continued good health.

9. Can my rates be changed?

No—Your premium rate can never be changed from the schedule shown on p. 5 and will be shown in your policy. Each year your age determines your rate.

10. Why do I need this coverage if I have other insurance?

Ordinary life, annuity or other plans providing for retirement income are fine depending on what you want your insurance to accomplish. For pure protection however, this is the buy for you! And if your present insurance is group coverage, it probably doesn't cover your wife and children. Plus the fact that if you should leave your present job, your family might be caught without protection until you could join a new group plan in your new position.

5675—1/14/73 FW

11. How much do I pay each month?

You pay only what is listed on the monthly rate chart on page 5 for your age and the coverage you want, for your wife's age and coverage desired and for the children's coverage. There is also a small payment fee of 50¢ for any payment plan other than annual.

12. Is acceptance guaranteed?

To keep rates low, anyone age 60 or over or with a serious health condition cannot be accepted. Nor can anyone answering "yes" to Question 7 on the application, regarding replacement of existing insurance. Also your children age 23 or over cannot be covered under the children's coverage, but may fill out an application of their own.

13. Will my beneficiaries receive their money promptly?

Yes — We act promptly, many are paid by return mail!

14. Will the money be all theirs? What about taxes?

All theirs! Lump sum life insurance death payments are not subject to income tax.

15. How do I apply?

It's very simple. Just complete the Application Form on the back page of this booklet and mail it by the deadline with your first month's premium. We'll process your application as quickly as possible and the policy on your own life will go into effect as soon as it is approved and issued. Your family's coverage will begin 31 days after yours if the premium notice you'll receive is paid by then.

16. Should I use this policy to replace or change one that I now have?

No. We do not recommend that you do this. In fact, if this is your intention, we will not be able to issue this policy to you. (See item 7 on application form.)

17. Why should I apply now?

Because The Family Life Insurance Plan is only offered to the general public during limited mass enrollments. And this is your opportunity to get the additional protection you need at these low monthly rates previously offered only to association members and employees. Besides, your health or the health of someone in your family could change without warning and make it impossible for you to get all the protection you need and want.

18. Why should I select National Ben Franklin for my Family Life Insurance Plan?

Because National Ben Franklin, a 120 year old company, is licensed by your own state, regulated by your own state's insurance department and carries full legal reserves for the protection of all insured. And is an affiliate of the Continental Corporation, one of the world's largest and most respected insurance groups.

19. What one exclusion is there?

Only suicide, and even this is covered only two years* after each person's coverage begins.

20. Who should I list on the application

We recommend you include every eligible member of your family, you and your spouse under age 60 and your children ages 15 days to 23 years of age. The premium for family coverage is so low you can't afford not to have the added protection.
