More Heads Roll In State Shakeup

RALEIGH (AP) — Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty said today sweeping, high level changes in his department were being made because "we must have a man of our own choosing" attuned to Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser's philosophy.

Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig, who had held his post since 1958, was fired by Flaherty Monday. Dr. Eugene A. Hargrove was given his dismissal earlier as commissioner of the Department of Mental Health, effective March 15.

Flaherty named Dr. N. P. Zarzar today as associate commissioner of mental health, to serve with Hargrove until March 15. Zarzar is a former superintendent of Umstead Hospital and has been the department's north-central regional commissioner for the last six years.

Craig's dismissal Monday coincided with announcement that John A. Lang, secretary of the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, had tendered his resignation.

Flaherty told a news conference today he planned even further changes, reaching into the institutions themselves, in the agencies comprising the Department of Human Resources.

He set the trend of reorganization by announcing appointment of Dollie L. Smith, a Fayetteville resident and a former public information director in the Illinois state government, as coordinator of public relations activities involving all agencies within the department. He said Miss Smith would realign the information offices, combining all in one section in Flaherty's office.

The agencies now have nine individuals assigned to separate public information duties. Flaherty said some probably would be dismissed.

Flaherty said Craig's dismissal came because "the governor obviously wants his own administration so he can have complete support of his programs."

He said Holshouser favors county control of the welfare system, which conflicted with Craig's attempts to put the brunt of control at the state level.

Flaherty said the dismissal was based on Craig's action before the November election and did not reflect any approval or rejection by Holshouser of Craig's recent crackdown on welfare fraud.

Unilateral Cease-Fire In Vietnam Slated On Friday

SAIGON (AP) — A cease-fire will be declared by the United States and South Vietnam on the eve of President Nixon's inauguration Saturday to pave the way toward signing of a peace agreement to end the Indochina war, South Vietnamese sources said tonight.

Nixon was said to have advised President Nguyen Van Thieu that an international agreement has been reached to preclude further hostilities by North Vietnam, and to have told Thieu to "trust in me."

NEW YORK (AP)—A man from Pitt County, N.C., who for the last eight years has been president and chief executive officer of Liggett & Myers has been given other responsibilities in the tobacco firm. He is Milton E. Harrington. He has been elected as chairman of the board, and remains as chief executive officer.

He was born in Winterville and reared in Greenville, N.C. The presidency, and the new title of chief operating officer, goes to the former president of the company's Allen Products pet food division, Raymond Mulligan.

Gas Truck Overturned

STOKES — Two Tarboro men narrowly escaped injury yesterday when a propane gas truck they were traveling in overturned four times Northwest of here on N.C. 33.

Investigating Highway Patrolman Fred Davis reported James E. Mullen, 60 of Route 2, Robersonville was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign and leaving the scene of an accident following investigation of the mishap.

According to Ptl. Davis, the gas truck driven by George Raymond Ethridge of Route 4, Tarboro was traveling along N.C. 33 when a pickup truck allegedly operated by Mullen pulled from a side road into the path of Ethridge vehicle.

Neither Ethridge or a passenger in the vehicle he was driving were injured.

Traffic on N.C. 33 was blocked for several hours while firemen and others worked to clear the gas truck from a roadside ditch.

Middle East Is Hushed By Heavy Snow

BEIRUT (AP) — Heavy snow brought road and railway traffic to a standstill in many parts of the Middle East today.

Highways and rail lines between Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Iraq were closed by what officials described as "the worst snowstorms since the turn of the century."

Damascus, the Syrian capital, was reported under almost two feet of snow, while the Golan Heights had more than three feet.

Lunokhod 1 was controlled by a five-man crew on the earth and moved about taking analyses of moon dust.

Like Lunokhod 1, Lunokhod 2 had aboard a French "corner reflector" supplied under the Soviet-French agreement on co-operation in exploration in outer space. The announcement said this would continue experiments in fixing the moon's location more accurately by laser readings.

Tass said Lunokhod 2 will remain stationary until Thursday, recharging its chemical power supply with the help of a solar battery. Then it will go ahead with its program.

administration spokesmen had no comment on the report. "There will be a great number of these reports. We are not going to have comment. We are not going to discuss the subject," Deputy press secretary Neal Ball said.

The unilateral cease-fire would be designed to set the stage for an exchange of prisoners and for the signing by the foreign ministers of the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong of the peace settlement drafted at Paris, the informants said.

There was no clear understanding of whether Hanoi and the Viet Cong had agreed to the allied cease-fire. However, the sources, who have had access to discussions by Thieu and other top-level South Vietnamese leaders of the latest draft proposal, said concessions had been made by both sides on essential issues blocking the peace treaty.

These reports came after Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. conferred for 2½ hours with Thieu on the draft proposal worked out by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in Paris.

Official sources said North Vietnam and the United States had agreed on the size of an international force to supervise the cease-fire. South Vietnamese sources said the new draft still left unresolved such basic Saigon demands as the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam and restoration of the demilitarized zone between the North and South. But progress toward agreement was reported on those also.

The U.S. Embassy indicated there would be further meetings between Haig and Thieu and said the schedule of President Nixon's special emissary was "open-ended."

There were unconfirmed reports from Vietnamese sources that Haig brought a personal letter from Nixon to Thieu. But political sources in Saigon and Washington indicated that the halt in all attacks on North Vietnam which began Monday was not only a sign of good faith to Hanoi but also a message to Thieu that Nixon considers a just agreement is within grasp and he is determined to conclude it.

Nixon ordered all offensive military operations across the entire territory of North Vietnam halted Monday night, citing progress in the negotiations between Kissinger and Tho last week.

Nixon's action, which the Florida White House termed a "unilateral gesture," gave momentum to new peace hopes and came amid a host of reports that an agreement to end the war would be signed soon.

The White House refused to discuss the reports of an agreement, saying instead that "negotiations are in progress" and Kissinger would return to Paris "in the relatively near future."

South Vietnamese sources said that among the provisions of the revised draft proposal being scrutinized by Thieu and Haig is one calling for an international force of about 3,000 men to supervise a cease-fire.

Hanoi, according to Kissinger, was demanding a force of only 250 men when the negotiations broke off Dec. 13, while the United States wanted up to 5,000. Thieu was seeking even more.

Some sources in Washington said that other than the sovereignty and cease-fire supervision provisions, the new draft agreement contains the basic provisions worked out by Kissinger and Tho in October.

Morgan Sees Effort To Kill ECU Plan

'Another Study' Of Med School Needs Flayed

RALEIGH — Chairman of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees Attorney General Robert Morgan expressed "extreme disappointment" at a decision not to expand ECU's one-year medical school.

Morgan, at a press conference called at the justice building yesterday afternoon, reacted angrily to the decision by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors Friday to call for another study to medical education needs in North Carolina and to turn down ECU's request for a two-year program.

He said the Board had offered "the same old remedy" to the shortage of physicians, and charged that the move to study the need for another medical school again was an attempt to kill the ECU proposal. He said, "It is only when the first recommendation is viewed alone that the Board appears to dodge its responsibility by calling for an outside group to make its decision for it."

"The people of this state do not need another study! This question of whether or not a second state-supported medical school is needed has been studied, debated, and discussed for more than eight years."

"The only question that really faced the Board of Governors was how best to expand the initial steps already taken toward this second state-supported School of Medicine. The legislation passed by the 1971 General Assembly clearly states that the current East Carolina program is 'a step in development of an expanded medical school.'"

The Board of Governors also voted Friday to expand enrollment at the medical school at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and to increase state subsidies to medical schools at Duke and Wake Forest, but not to increase the 20 student berths in the ECU program.

Morgan said those measures would not give the state the number of new doctors it needs.

He said he hopes that Eastern North Carolina legislators and the ECU Board would try "everything possible" to overturn the Board of Governors' decision. He said that he does not have enough time to lead the fight himself, but that he would help if called upon.

Dr. Best Looks On Study As No Med School Burial Ground

Local physician Dr. Andrew Best said he thinks several Piedmont newspapers have misinterpreted the intent of the UNC Board of Governor's study committee in recommending that medical education in N.C. be studied further.

"This action was intended as a positive step toward meeting our medical education needs," Dr. Best said. "If indeed, the ultimate goal is to provide another degree-granting school, additional research does need to be done. We thought we made it clear that the consultants retained to do this research should begin to formulate plans for whatever solutions they foresee, not investigate need. We feel the need is already well documented."

"In other words, I think it was the mood of the Board that perhaps the piecemeal step of having a two-year medical school at East Carolina University should be skipped." Dr. Best was a member of the study committee whose recommendation was approved by the full board.

"When I seconded the adoption of the report, I noted that the committee and the Board of Governors were concerned that their action be interpreted as a positive and significant step, that recommending the study was not readying a burial ground for the issue. I also noted that no report or recommendation could conceivably speak to all facets of the question—that there would be problems of implementation and these hopefully could begin to be worked on simultaneously with the consultation, because more medical education and better medical care are so desperately needed as soon as possible throughout the state."

Though both Reginald McCoy of Lauringburg and William

Dees of Goldsboro, chairman, also voted with the majority, their thinking is apparently quite different on the need for further study on the matter.

Dees said, "I believe that the committee's recommendation that consultants be retained to advise the Board of Governors of the best way for the State of North Carolina to provide additional medical education is a very good approach to the problem. I sincerely believe more study is needed, and I know more medical education and care is needed in this state."

McCoy said he participated in the majority decision "because the Board wouldn't go any further in any other direction."

"I believe there's got to be another four-year medical school in North Carolina if we are ever going to produce enough primary care doctors," he said. "ECU would be the logical place. I think we could do without further studies, since 12 have been made in the past eight years. The time has come to quit studying."

"On the bright side, though, I cannot imagine consultants coming in and studying the situation in this state without recognizing our critical needs for more doctors."

Robert Little Elected New Chairman Of Board

Robert G. Little was elected chairman of the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District at the board's regular meeting in January.

Little, a member of the board for 10 years, served as the board's vice chairman for eight years. He succeeds Arch J. Flanagan, who has retired.

Other officers named were F. Curtis Martin, Bethel, vice chairman; and Ralph C. Tucker, Greenville, secretary-treasurer. Moses Moyer of Farmville and Truman Haddock of Gardenersville are also members of the board.

Little, a native of Pitt County, is a farmer and resides at Rt. 1, Grimesland. He attended Grimesland High School, East Carolina University and Parks Air College in East St. Louis, Ill.

He is a member of Salem Methodist Church, Grimesland, where he has served as Sunday School superintendent, Sunday School teacher and a lay leader. He is also a member of the Grimesland Lodge No. 475.

He is married to the former Mary Lillie Best of Pinetops and they have three children.

In other business, the board signed an agreement to work with the Pitt County Community Health Department in projects involving sanitation and conservation problems.

Roy Beck, district conservationist, discussed the SCS framework plan. Beck stated the plan focuses on three main points: quality in the natural resource base for sustained use; quality in the environment to provide attractive, convenient and satisfying places to live, work and play; quality in the standard of living based on community improvement and adequate income.

These goals according to Beck will be accomplished by SCS during the next 10 years.

Unmanned Soviet Craft Lands On Moon

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — An unmanned Soviet spaceship made a soft landing on the moon today and put out a 1,648-pound moon rover that sent television pictures back to the earth, Tass announced.

The Soviet news agency said the spaceship, Luna 21, landed on the eastern fringe of the Sea of Serenity, inside the Lemnigher Crater, at 1:35 a.m., or 5:35 p.m. EST Monday.

The self-propelled Lunokhod 2 rolled down the gangway to the lunar surface at 4:14 a.m., Tass reported. Lunokhod 2 moved about, its running gear and control systems were checked by the ground crew, and "television pictures of the landing stage and the lunar landscape were received," Tass said.

Lunokhod 2 will continue the work of Lunokhod 1, a 1,663-pound moon vehicle that spent 10 months exploring the lunar surface in 1970-71, Tass said.

Lunokhod 1 was controlled by a five-man crew on the earth and moved about taking analyses of moon dust.

Like Lunokhod 1, Lunokhod 2 had aboard a French "corner reflector" supplied under the Soviet-French agreement on co-operation in exploration in outer space. The announcement said this would continue experiments in fixing the moon's location more accurately by laser readings.

Tass said Lunokhod 2 will remain stationary until Thursday, recharging its chemical power supply with the help of a solar battery. Then it will go ahead with its program.

Student Stopped 'Spy' Work After A Close Shave

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Utah college student has told the Watergate case jury he stopped working as a Republican spy in the Democratic camp after a close shave in an effort to bug the headquarters of Sen. George McGovern.

Thomas Gregory resumed testifying Monday after a four-day pause during which four more defendants pleaded guilty. The plea changes make it unlikely that the trial will produce the full story behind the break-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters last summer.

Seven men were charged in connection with the break-in but only two remain on trial: G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to President Nixon's campaign finance committee, and James W. McCord Jr., security chief for the Nixon campaign.

On Monday, the sixth day of the trial, U.S. Dist. Court Judge

John J. Sirica accepted the guilty pleas of four Miami men after questioning them at length and saying at one point to their unrevealing answers: "I'm sorry. I don't believe you."

The judge refused to declare a mistrial, requested by attorneys for Liddy and McCord. They argued that the sudden absence of five defendants would give the jury the impression that the five had pleaded guilty and that the remaining two also were guilty.

Charges against the seven include conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping.

Sirica set bond at $100,000 for each of the four. Their lawyers said later they could not raise it and would stay in jail while awaiting sentencing.

The same bond had been set for former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr., who pleaded guilty last Wednesday, but he posted it the same day.

Gregory testified last Thursday that he had been recruited by Hunt to infiltrate the presidential campaigns of McGovern and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

As he resumed his testimony Monday, Gregory said Hunt introduced him to McCord in mid-May 1972. He said McCord expressed interest in planting electronic listening devices in the offices of McGovern campaign officials.

On a visit to McGovern headquarters, Gregory said, McCord went through the building observing the burglary-alarm system and the location of exits. He said he later was introduced to Liddy, who went along on a nighttime reconnaissance of the area around McGovern headquarters.

Gregory said he refused to provide keys to the building, but agreed to go to the McGovern headquarters on Sunday, May 28, stay late enough to be the last one out and leave some locks open. But, he said, he was discovered by another man working at the headquarters who wanted to know why Gregory was there.

At this, Gregory said, he left and called to warn Hunt, and the bugging operation was called off.

Gregory said he had a final meeting June 15 to tell Hunt he wanted out of the operation. He said he had been paid a total of $3,400 by Hunt for his work.

All this time, Gregory said, he was getting academic credit from Brigham Young University for working in a political campaign.

Gregory identified photographs of Frank A. Sturgis and Virgilio R. Gonzalez, two of the defendants who pleaded guilty Monday, as being present at a meeting in which the bugging operation was planned.

Pleading guilty with Sturgis and Gonzalez were Bernard L. Barker, a Miami real-estate executive, and Eugenio R. Martinez.

AND NOW THERE ARE TWO — Only George Liddy, left, and James McCord are still on trial in the Watergate case after their accused accomplices pleaded guilty and bowed out of the trial. (AP Wirephoto)

By Latest Count, Now 147 Independent States

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — By latest count, the world has 147 independent nation states—give or take a few—and a bunch of unfamiliar name tags dotting the map. Another is due in July.

Preparations are underway for nationhood for the Commonwealth of the Bahamas Islands, a Caribbean neighbor which has been a British possession.

The Bahamas are expected to retain their name but not British Honduras, London's Central American colony, when it gains independence at some still unspecified future date.

British Honduras is slated to turn into Boelize, the land's native name, when the new national flag rises over the capital.

Sri Lanka is the island off the tip of India which became the independent country of Ceylon in 1948. Last May, becoming a republic under a new constitution, it adopted a name from its pre-British colonial days.

The biggest state in the hart of Africa isn't the Democratic Republic of the Congo any more. It's Zaire.

Bangladesh, the latest entry into the family of nations, was the eastern wing of Pakistan on the map before its break-away war in 1971.

All this comes with the continuing country explosion set off since World War II with the dismemberment of once great empires and the yearning of the newborn for an identity of their own, minus a lot of colonial reminders.

Only 70 states covered the globe a generation ago. The nation-state population has more than doubled since.

The postwar entries extend over about one fourth of the world's land surface, not counting Antarctica. Their citizens number more than a billion, a third of the global total.

The largest crop comes from the old British and French estates. France, once the greatest landholder in Africa, now owns only tiny French Somaliland in that continent of 42 independent countries.

Of the last 25 to reach nationhood around the world, all but two used to be British.

When once-colonial lands get their new name they often are sensitive about being properly addressed, relates the State Department Geographer R. D. Hodgson.

But not Sri Lanka, Hodgson said. He said that after the name change the Colombo government wanted Ceylon kept in parentheses after its new designation. That way established products associated with Ceylon, such as Ceylon tea, are less likely to suffer a sales drop.

1972 Leaf Crop Above Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the nation's tobacco crop totalled nearly 1,749 million pounds in 1972. This was 2 per cent more than the 1971 figure and about 16 million pounds above the estimate two months ago.

The year-end review issued Monday said most of the gain of 16 million pounds was for burley, which wound up at 588 million pounds against the November forecast of 573 million pounds.

The average burley yield was estimated at 2,547 pounds per acre, compared with 2,213 in 1971.

Flue-cured tobacco production in 1971 was put at 1,012 million pounds, compared with 1,011 million in the November forecast. Last year's yield averaged 1,970 pounds per acre, compared with 2,050 in 1971.

The first gun accident on record in the Pacific Northwest occurred when a member of the Lewis and Clark expedition wounded himself when his gun accidentally discharged.

Agricultural Outlook 'Good'

RALEIGH (AP) — Agricultural economists at North Carolina State University expect 1973 to be kind to North Carolinians.

In a report projecting trends through the year, the economists predicted rises would continue to rise in some areas but, over-all, a leveling-off trend could be expected.

"Increased disposable income will come from a boost in social security benefits, higher wages, above normal refunds from over-withholding in 1972 and increased employment rates," the report said.

It said higher income will spark an even higher rate of consumer spending.

Strong prices for farm crops in 1973 were predicted. The economists predicted, however, that tobacco price gains would be limited and prices would hover closer to support levels than they did in 1972.

The economists said they expected farm costs to be higher, especially for feed.

Increased prices for consumer products were predicted with declines following late in the year. The report said "food prices are expected to level out slowly in 1973, with only moderate increases during the years over 1972."

The report predicted that pork prices would go up by 9 per cent and then drop later in the year by about the same amount. It said egg supplies will be down about 2 per cent and the retail price will average 5 to 7 cents per dozen higher than last year.

The economists predicted broiler prices will be "attractive" in the face of rising costs for other meats.

No Problem Over Liquor

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's new Alcoholic Beverage Control Committee chairman, Dr. Leslie C. Holshouser, says a recent 11-day suspension of liquor deliveries to local ABC stores was "absolutely no problem."

Holshouser and the other two members of the committee met Monday with W. D. Parker of Raleigh's Central Warehouse, which has the state contract for storing and shipping liquor.

He said afterwards that the recent suspension was not a result of difficulties in the current contract negotiations with Central Warehouse. The problem was a scheduled inventory and then the snow which blanketed Raleigh last week, Holshouser said.

Shipments of liquor resumed Friday, according to a warehouse spokesman.

Gov. Jim Holshouser, who appointed Dr. Holshouser last week, Saturday called the liquor delivery delay a "serious problem." But Dr. Holshouser said Monday, "There was a little misunderstanding as to why it (Central Warehouse) was closed."

Deputy Mayor To Head Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Graham W. Watt, deputy mayor of Washington, was named today to head the Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing.

Watt, 46, who has been deputy mayor two years, will head the government's effort to provide state and local governments more than $30 billion over the next five years.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz described Watt as "ideally suited for the job."

Watt has been city manager of Dayton, Ohio, Portland, Maine, and Alton, Ill.

Watt is a native of Elizabeth, N.J. He succeeds acting director Edward A. Fox, who returns to his post at the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

'Punishment' Suspected

BELFAST (AP) — Three masked men believed to be an IRA "punishment squad" raided two Roman Catholic homes in Lurgan Monday night and at each shot the man of the house in the thigh.

A bullet in the leg is a common disciplinary action by the Irish Republican Army.

The three men first entered the home of a 33-year-old Catholic and shot him in the left thigh. At the second house, they ordered their target to get away from the baby he was holding before wounding him.

In Londonderry, the 22-year-old widow of a policeman killed in an explosion Sunday night was under a doctor's care. Her brother also was a policeman, and he was killed in a machine-gun ambush 10 months ago.

25,000th Telephone Installed In Greenville By Carolina Tel

Recently, Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company installed Greenville's 25,000th telephone.

"Installation of this historic telephone in Greenville shows the growth and progress of this city and its surrounding area," said Don A. Collier, local manager for the company.

Since the first telephone was installed and since the merger with Home Telephone and Telegraph Company in 1926 when there were 1,225 telephones, the number of telephones increased to 1,320 in 1932, 2,217 in 1942, 5,058 in 1952 and 10,557 in 1962.

"During those years," Collier said, "requirements for both local and long distance service have increased tremendously along with the physical, business, and industrial expansion of the Greenville area."

Some local improvements have aided in providing better and faster service. In 1939, the Greenville exchange converted to the dial telephone system. Direct distance dialing was added in 1961 for easier long distance calling, and last year, automatic number identification, on private line service, was added for a faster and easier method of dialing long distance calls.

"In order to meet increased demands for service by residents in the Greenville area," Collier pointed out, "Carolina Telephone is currently engaged in many programs for improving and expanding its facilities." "The company's aim," he explained, "is to meet fully all such demands, both now and in the future."

Waste Disposal Workshop Set

Pitt Technical Institute is sponsoring a Solid Waste Disposal Workshop to be held February 14.

This workshop is one of four funded by the North Carolina Environmental Education Program and partially supported under Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Previous workshops have been scheduled in Western N.C., the Piedmont Triad, and in the Charlotte area.

According to Dean Painter, chairman of the Air and Water Resources Technology Department at Pitt Tech, this workshop will cover Solid Waste Disposal with emphasis on Eastern North Carolina problems.

and State agencies as well as regional experts in the solid waste management field. Emphasis will be placed on solutions to problems including steps necessary to obtain financial aid and planning assistance from State and Federal Government agencies.

Invitations to attend this workshop will be mailed to city, county, and state regional agencies involved in Solid Waste Management Programs. However, all persons who represent civic groups interested in environmental problems or any other civic minded individuals are invited to attend.

Dean Painter, the Workshop Leader, encourages those persons who are interested in attending to contact him prior to February 1 to assist in planning for the workshop. He is at Pitt Technical Institute, P.O. Drawer 7007, Greenville, N.C. 27834 (Phone 919 — 756-3130, Ext. 22)

Offers Bill To Kill Preference Primary

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's Senate has before it a measure to abolish the state's presidential preference primary.

Sen. I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, sent forward the bill that would repeal the act under which North Carolina conducted its first presidential preference primary last year.

Crawford said he introduced the measure because the primary "just didn't work out."

A bill by Rep. Norwood Bryan, D-Cumberland, would give private citizens standing to file suits to compel environmental agencies to enforce their standards of environmental quality.

Resolutions offered by Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, would endorse the concept of annual legislative sessions and call for a study of the desirability of having standing legislative committees in the North Carolina General Assembly.

by.

A bill setting minimum salaries for law enforcement officers was introduced by Rep. Gerald Arnold, D-Hartnett. The bill would set a $6,000 minimum for such officers.

Nurses Ass'n To Meet Jan. 26

CHARLOTTE — The North Carolina Association of Industrial Nurses will hold its quarterly meeting on Friday, January 26 at 10:00 a.m. at the Ramada Inn in Charlotte.

Dr. R.P. Cunningham, Medical Director of Southern Bell, will speak on "Pre-Employment and Periodic Health Evaluation by the Industrial Nurse", and Dr. Roy S. Bigham, Jr., N.C. Medical Consultant, will speak on "What Can I do With A Diabetic".

Membership and management are invited to attend.

Early Riser Gets Litter

DETROIT (AP) — For 33 years Bert Seyfarth has awakened at 4:30 a.m. most mornings to conduct a personal war against litter in his neighborhood.

After a quick cup of coffee, Seyfarth combs the neighborhood, checking side streets and alleys for discarded bottles, stray paper and anything else the regular city garbage collectors miss or litterbugs leave. He makes his rounds again when he returns from work in the afternoon.

The 62-year-old Seyfarth puts the trash in the trunk of his car, disposing of it in his own garbage can or in large trash containers behind local restaurants.

"If people spent just one hour a week picking up litter," Seyfarth said, "we could keep this city clean."

His war on litter does cause some uncomfortable moments for his wife, Adele, however. "What must those trash men think," she asked, "when they see all those beer bottles in our garbage?"

Bundy To Speak At Church Event

State Rep. Sam D. Bundy will make the featured address at the 130th anniversary of the Gordon Street Christian Church in Kinston Sunday at 7 p.m. at a church supper meeting.

Jan. 30 he will be on the program of the 23rd annual Hot Stove League Baseball banquet at the Hilton Inn in Raleigh. Gaylord Perry will be the honored guest.

Film Star Caterer Tells About 'Favorite Eaters'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Feeding film stars is no problem, says the man who feeds film stars. He has more trouble ordering a pound of sugar in a country where he doesn't speak the language than he does with fussy appetites.

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

EL BOQUE, Israel (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor, the movie star with the delicate profile, is one of the biggest eaters in the motion picture business.

"When Liz Taylor sits down to eat, the chef should be certain he's got lots of food, especially if it's turkey."

That's the word from a man who knows as much about feeding movie stars as anyone in the world, Bernard Martin, a 29-year-old caterer from Limerick, Ireland.

Martin, unit manager and chef from a London firm that specializes in feeding film companies, has been cooking for the stars for 13 years. The first picture he nourished was "The Guns of Navarone" and now he is in Israel, preparing 450 meals a day in the middle of the desert for "Jesus Christ, Superstar."

"In a hotel or a restaurant, a big film star might throw tantrums and start slinging things back to the kitchen, but on location they adapt themselves. The bigger the actor, the easier to work with," said Martin.

"I have fed almost every actor and actress I can think of," he said. From an eating point of view, Martin's favorite artists are Omar Sharif, Sir Alec Guinness and Topol of "Fiddler on the Roof." They eat and enjoy almost anything.

Liz Taylor is the only big name he can recall who asks for special items on the menu. Martin just finished serving her in "Night Watch." "Once she asked if it would be possible to have wild rice," Martin said. "We ordered it from a London shop and flew it to the table."

Martin has also fed Miss Taylor's husband, Richard Burton — during the shooting of "Becket" — but said nothing about Burton's appetite.

Martin works in a custom-built mobile kitchen aboard a silver truck labeled "The Location Caterers, Ltd., London." With two British assistants and four Israelis, and food, drinks, water and ice brought from 50 miles away, he was serving 150 people three times a day in the sand and rock of the Negev Desert.

The dinner menu outside the big green dining tent read: Iced orange juice, green pea soup, roast chicken with mushroom sauce, roast beef, sliced beans, roast and creamed potatoes. Five different kinds of salads were listed, with fruit, cheese, tea, coffee and Turkish coffee for a touch of Middle East exotica.

Martin has fed such movie companies as "Fiddler on the Roof" in Yugoslavia, "The Kremlin Letter" in Finland, "Funeral in Berlin" in Germany, "Alfred the Great" in Ireland, and "Dr. Zhivago" in Spain.

"I've never worked in a country where we didn't have problems, but we have always managed to feed the companies. Wherever the camera goes, we are behind it. We have never been late serving a meal. A few weeks ago in Israel we had to carry the food in on donkeys," said Martin, a burly, fair-haired man who looks like he rarely misses one of his own meals. But at home, his wife, Christine, does the cooking.

On "Alfred the Great" he fed 1,500 people for three months, and he never saw the movie.

"When I arrive in a country, I can't speak the language and I couldn't even order a pound of sugar. I spend the first day visiting all the big supermarkets, checking prices. Then I start ordering. It costs about $3.50 a day to feed each member of the company." He uses only disposable plastic dishes and cutlery, to save on dishwashing.

Director Norman Jewison, who is shooting "Jesus Christ, Superstar" and directed "Fiddler on the Roof," said Martin "followed us to Yugoslavia and fed us better than anybody was fed at home. He is by far the best movie caterer I have ever encountered, in America or anywhere else."

"You can be working out in the desert, hours away from lunchtime, and he will show up in a car with tea and biscuits and save our lives. That sort of thing is essential for morale."

"The only trouble is the food is so good that all the dancers are putting on weight."

Their Wedding Announcement Was Unusual

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: All my life I have been worried about what other people think, but now that I've reached middle age, I have decided not to be bothered by these bugaboos, and I must say it's a great feeling.

I recently married for the third time. It all happened very fast, but I'm sure this time I've found the right man. Instead of sending the conventional formal marriage announcements, we had our marriage license photographed and printed, and we sent copies to our friends to let them know we are married. We certainly enjoyed the different reactions.

Some people thought we had sent them our original license, and even mailed it back to us. Others thought we just wanted to prove we weren't "shacking up" (which isn't a bad idea nowadays—to prove it, I mean). One man thought someone was trying to force HIM into marriage and it gave him a good scare. A few thought it was in "poor taste," but most of our friends said they always suspected I was nuts, and I finally confirmed it.

What do you think? LOIS IN SONOMA

DEAR LOIS: It's different.

DEAR ABBY: I am pregnant for the first time and a neighbor of mine is trying to talk me into having my baby the "natural" way. She said she took this course at the "Y" in her sixth month, and learned some breathing exercises and muscle control, and had her baby without taking even an aspirin. She said there was some pain, but not nearly as bad as she thought it would be. Also, her husband took the course, too, and he stayed with her during the labor and delivery, which made it a shared experience.

I am undecided as to whether to have my baby the natural way or not. My husband says I'm crazy to suffer any pain at all if I can avoid it, and I'm inclined to agree with him.

On the other hand, if your husband is right there and sees what you have to go through, it might make him appreciate you more. Please be honest. My doctor says it's up to me.

DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE: It is up to you to decide whether you want to grin and bear it, or take an anesthetic. [The proponents of the "grin and bear it" method swear by it.] As I see it, childbirth will be a truly "shared experience" only when a couple has twins—the wife giving birth to one and her husband giving birth to the other.

DEAR ABBY: You would be doing a lot of hard of hearing people a tremendous service if you would explain the following in your column: The hard of hearing wear hearing aids to amplify the sound, so when people discover that one is wearing a hearing aid, why do they start to shout?

Shouting into a hearing aid amplifies the sound to such a penetrating pitch it makes the wearer extremely nervous, and drives him up a wall. Thank you. WEARS ONE

DEAR WEARS: Here's your letter, and I hope it penetrates.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Roast Carted Away In Old Stove

COLOGNE, West Germany (WNS) — Ursula Danzig, 50, was delightedly surprised on her 25th wedding anniversary when an ultra-modern kitchen stove was delivered to her house as a gift from her husband. Delivery men installed the gift and then carted the old stove away. Hours later Frau Danzig remembered that the anniversary roast had been in the old stove, prepared for cooking. No problem: hubby Paul took her out to supper, and the roast was returned next day by the delivery men.

ORIENTAL PORK — Boneless pork cubes are teamed with pineapple and green pepper plus a sweet-and sour sauce.

Sweet And Sour Oriental Pork Adapted From Chinese Cuisine

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Oriental Pork is excellent for a Chinese supper. Because Oriental Pork is a sweet-and-sour dish, you may want to serve another main dish that has quite different flavoring on the same menu. Beef with Green Peppers (Pepper Steak) or Chicken Chow Mein would be a good choice to offer before the pork-and-pineapple combination.

When we tried the Oriental Pork in our test kitchen we bought a boneless pork loin (rolled and tied) that weighed between 2½ and 2¾ pounds. By the time we untied and unrolled the pork and cut it into cubes (removing the fat) we had just the amount of meat called for in the recipe.

ORIENTAL PORK

2 pounds boneless fat-free pork, cut into ¾- to 1-inch cubes
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple chunks in heavy syrup, drained and syrup reserved

Water
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cut cider vinegar
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup dark corn syrup
1 green pepper, seeded and cut into thin strips

Hot cooked rice
In a 13-by 9-by 2-inch roasting pan, arrange pork. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, stirring occasionally, until browned — about 45 minutes. Drain off any liquid and replace pork in roasting pan; set aside.
Add enough water to reserved pineapple syrup to make 1¼ cups. Reserve pineapple chunks.

In a 1-quart saucepan stir together the sugar and cornstarch. Gradually stir in pineapple syrup mixture, keeping smooth. Stir in vinegar, soy sauce and corn syrup until blended. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. Stir in pineapple and green pepper.

Pour pineapple mixture over meat in roasting pan; cover tightly with foil and return to 375-degree oven. Bake until pork is thoroughly cooked — 25 to 30 minutes longer. Serve with hot cooked rice.
Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Mrs. Clark Is Guest Speaker

Mrs. D. M. Clark was speaker at the meeting of the Arts Department of the Greenville Woman's Club held last week at the home of Mrs. George Snyder.

Speaking on her trip to the Hawaiian Islands, Mrs. Clark described each island telling of its beauty, culture and resources.

"Hawaii is the most beautiful place in the world. When I looked out my hotel window, I was filled with amazement by its beauty and the sunset behind the Diamond Head Volcano was splendid." She was introduced by Mrs. R. P. Rogers, vice chairman.

Mrs. George Clapp, chairman, opened the meeting by reading thoughts for the New Year.

Mrs. Clapp announced that the Arts Festival would be held at the Woman's Club Saturday, March 3, and announced some of the chairmen:

Mrs. Frank P. Pollard, public speaker; Mrs. Snyder, music and voice; Mrs. W. E. Avery, sewing; Mrs. W. B. Gray, paintings; Mrs. Thomas R. Cole and Mrs. George Fleming, crafts.

Refreshments were served by assisting hostesses, Mrs. Clapp, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Fleming.

A Role In Reorganization

We note with interest the appointment of Robert Browning, local attorney, as a member of the State Highway Commission.

Browning's appointment was announced by Gov. Holshouser Friday. He is a Greenville native, a graduate of Greenville High School and Duke University. He received his law degree from Chapel Hill.

Merit System For Judges?

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — How North Carolina chooses its judges will be debated again in the current legislative session.

This time the alternatives of gubernatorial appointment and popular election versus merit selection will be discussed in a changed political atmosphere that may alter the outcome.

A Republican in the governor's office is the factor which could sway sentiment among the Democratic majority of lawmakers towards the merit selection method.

So long as one party controlled both legislative and executive, the mood prevailed to leave unfettered a governor's power in judicial appointments. Present circumstances put the issue in a different light.

Bills will be forthcoming to implement a merit selection procedure, under which a panel would screen prospective judicial appointees for qualifications, confirmed Chairman J. Ruffin Bailey of the N.C. Courts Commission. He is hopeful, he added, they will fare better than in previous sessions.

More Optimistic Outlook

The optimism was shared by Rep. Laurence Cobb of Mecklenburg, the single Republican legislator serving on the courts commission.

"I believe there is a better chance this time," said Cobb, a firm advocate of merit selection for judges. In 1971, he recalled the proposal languished in committee rather than face a hostile reception on the House floor.

A principal argument against the present system is that governors traditionally have used appointments to the bench as pay-offs for political lieutenants.

Cobb said he is confident Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. will avoid that practice, though some Republicans may well be named as judges. "I'm certain that Jim's selections will be based on merit and not just partisan considerations," he said.

Should the legislature fail to enact merit selection by statute, another avenue is open which has been taken in a number of states. That is by way of an executive order in which a governor commits himself to following the recommendations of a screening group in appointing judges.

Bailey and Cobb have acquainted Gov. Holshouser with the voluntary merit selection approach and its use in other states.

Acceptance Is Widespread

Merit selection as a means of disengaging the judiciary from politics is a trend that has gained ground over the past decade. The American Judicature Society reported that 25 U.S. jurisdictions now use merit selection, covering all or a part of the appellate and trial courts, an increase of 300 per cent since 1962.

"Merit plans have traditionally been instituted by means of legislative action, but in the last decade a new phenomenon, voluntary merit selection, introduced by executive decision, has become increasingly widespread," the report noted. Sixteen jurisdictions have had voluntary plans over the last ten years, including Maryland, Florida and Tennessee.

Two features characterize the plans: (1) they create one or more publicly visible panels or committees for recruiting, screening and developing a list of qualified candidates; and (2) the executives who adopt them commit their administrations to rely upon the names submitted by the panels or committees when making judicial appointments.

Advantages For Governor

"The advantages of the voluntary plan to the governor are several. Nominating panels are able to devote more attention to the careful development of a list of qualified men than can a governor's aides and assistants who are occupied with other affairs of state government. In many instances excellent potential judges may not be active politically and without the aid of a panel of committee a governor may overlook them in making appointments. Merit selection is a proven means of making good appointments without diluting executive authority too much. If the laws of his state do not give a governor this valuable tool, he has a right to take advantage of it by means of a voluntary plan," the report said.

"From a political standpoint, a voluntary plan can benefit a governor as much as a plan established by law. It relieves the governor of the political pressures of office seekers and their friends. The public reassured, knowing that the judiciary is being carefully selected on the basis of qualifications rather than party service."

North Carolina law provides for popular election of judges. In practice, all present occupants of the State Supreme Court and the Courts of Appeals, and most Superior Court judges, first came to their positions by gubernatorial appointment.

reorganizing the Highway Department in the State Legislature which convened last week. Gov. Holshouser, himself, made changing the Highway Commission to make it less political, a major campaign issue. He has indicated that he expects to make sweeping changes since his election.

Robert Browning will serve the governor and the state well in carrying out the duties that are assigned to the Highway Commissioners. He will be in an important position during this reorganization period.

The Mosquito Is Also A Potential Nominee

Sen. Bette Anne Wilkie, R-Henderson has proposed that the honeybee to be designated as the official state insect.

The lawmakers should "resolve to be working bees" to make this a "honey of a session," she said. Well, we would like to see this term of the Legislature be a honey of a session; however there might be some other proposals for the official state insect.

For instance, those who have been around North Carolina's salt marshes in the summertime might want to designate those great big mosquitoes as the official insect.

Any other nominations?

Nixon's Waltz With Meany

By ROWLANDE EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON

President Nixon's Phase III decontrol decision announced last Thursday was hammered out in cozy talks between Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz and AFL-CIO president George Meany at a joint golfing vacation just after the November election at the exclusive Augusta National golf club in Georgia.

Details were agreed on one month later within the administration, so completely that a Dec. 11 announcement date had been tentatively picked. A premature leak postponed the date one month.

In that interval, Shultz and Meany kept up their virtually non-stop private talks—"they talked ad nauseum," said one presidential adviser—centered on Meany's alarm that continued wage controls were undermining the very reason for the existence of unions.

Meany hammered Shultz on this point: in contract negotiations, management over and over again was agreeing to sizeable wage-increase packages well over the 5.5 per cent Phase II ceiling, knowing they would be rejected by the now-defunct Pay Board.

To keep a legal ceiling on wages, Meany dolefully told Shultz, was to risk destruction of the unions by stripping them of their fundamental purpose as bargaining agents for their workers.

That was sweet music to Shultz, who had always favored dropping mandatory controls as soon as possible (while keeping "the shotgun in the closet," as he said, for possible use against both labor and business when the now-voluntary guidelines are too brutally fractured).

But Meany and leaders of some of the biggest unions also worried that a sudden return to total decontrol would expose them to rank-and-file wrath, particularly from union wives, over the rising cost of food.

The administration's decision to keep controls on food dealers and its belated pledge to attack long-entrenched policies aimed at holding down farm production—an attack with grave political risk in the farm belt—calmed those fears.

Thus, a major, short-term political significance of the President's surprisingly broad decontrol order is to shore up his tenuous alliance with Meany and big labor. Using Meany's friend Shultz as his agent, Mr. Nixon found new common ground between himself and Meany to strengthen the alliance that started with Meany's neutrality order to the AFL-CIO in the 1972 presidential campaign.

The fact that this alliance has now been strengthened in the immediate post-election period is a portent of ominous dimension to the Democrats. Democratic leaders hope that the 1972 presidential election was an aberration and that rank-and-file union members, who backed Mr. Nixon, will return to their old Democratic hearth.

That is not Mr. Nixon's plan. Inside the White House today, long-range plots designed permanently to break the Democratic hold on union labor are quietly hatching.

Thus, the President personally came up with the novel proposal for Meany, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, president of the Teamsters, and other labor brass at the White House late last month that a dozen or so union officials take second-level jobs in the administration. With Peter Brennan, president of the AFL-CIO Construction Trades Councils in New York already named Secretary of Labor, that would give labor record exposure in the second Nixon administration.

White House and Treasury aides, moreover, are now looking for some way to appease Meany on labor's No. 1 legislative goal: passage of the highly-protectedist Burke-Hartke bill.

It is too soon to predict whether these plots will hatch more political cooperation. They could boomerang. For example, some AFL-CIO officials are highly skeptical of the President's jobs offer, but worry that if they don't

Strength For Today

TIME IS PASSING

Spiritual transformation lies at the center of the Christian life. Jesus Christ did not come into the world just to make people better but to transform them and give them a new life indeed. After the Apostle Paul encountered Christ on the road to Damascus his life was transformed and he became a new person. The same has happened with untold millions of people. Dwight L. Moody became a spiritual leader in his generation because of the few simple words spoken by his Sunday School teacher. In every community today there are people whose lives have been transformed by faith in Christ and a willingness to submit to his moral requirements.

To an extent that we often fail to realize the salvation of our souls is largely up to us. We can accept God's offer or we can reject it. In fact, there is no salvation without acceptance and cooperation on our part. God does not thrust salvation on anyone, but He gives it to anyone who wants it. And salvation means not just improvement but transformation of life.

God makes all things new if we are willing to accept his gift. It's up to us to say Yes or No. And we had better lose no time in making our decision. Tomorrow, next week, next year may be too late.

Sense Of Unease Grows

WASHINGTON — A sense of unease is growing in Washington. If the mood cannot be precisely defined or wholly explained, it can be clearly felt. It results from the pattern of the President's actions since his landslide reelection two months ago. Nixon always has seemed a remote and indrawn figure. In these past two months he has become more remote and indrawn than ever. He has spent little time in the White House itself; he has preferred the isolation of Camp David. Except for a perfunctory birthday interview, he has seen the press not at all. He has made no attempt, by public explanation and persuasion, to rally public support behind his drastic measures in Vietnam.

Everything is sliding downhill. All the buoyant optimism of November now has washed away. The collapse of a Vietnam peace — the peace that once was close at hand — lies at the root of the growing concern, but that collapse in itself might have been accepted. Henry Kissinger's account of the enemy's intransigence was well received.

It is the bombing, the unexplained and unjustified bombing, that has created an almost tangible pall over Washington. Half a billion dollars spent, scores of airmen dead or imprisoned, thousands of lives lost, whole cities shattered — and all for what? Was it to bring Hanoi back to the bargaining table? Granted that the Communists respect strength and treat weakness with contempt: Was this terrifying show of strength the one best road back to Paris?

Only the President can explain; only he can justify. A few days ago the administration sent Admiral Tom Moorer to the Hill. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff is greatly respected, and he did a respectable job; but he had to confess that he had not been consulted in advance of the 12-day bombing. This was the President's solo performance.

Yet the mood cannot be explained in terms of Vietnam alone. The President has failed (and we have to assume the failure is deliberate) to make even the most minimal gestures of political accommodation to the Congress. These are matters of grace, of form, of politesse. Mr. Nixon has spurned them. His impoundment of funds appropriated for the abatement of water pollution — funds appropriated over his veto — could have been handled in ways that might have minimized hostility of the Hill. The president acted with a kind of imperious hauteur instead.

Relations with the press, always bad, have grown worse. Last month's speech by Clay Whitehead, director of telecommunications, is widely interpreted as a further effort to intimidate Uncertainty Among The Tools?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What little is certain about Phase 3 of the Nixon economic policy is that a lot remains to be seen. It is even suggested that doubt and uncertainty are among its weapons.

We still have controls, no matter how enthusiastically Phase 3 was welcomed as a major step toward free enterprise. Presumably, the same anti-inflation goals are sought too. These have not changed.

What is different is that the mandate and the penalties may not be spelled out as sharply as in the previous phases, but the threat exists that if you want the spelling, just step out of line and you'll get it letter by letter.

There is even some question of whether this is really a phase in the same program or whether the program has been changed. The Nixon program was introduced, you will recall, to restrain rising prices.

Much headway was made toward that goal. The inflation rate has been reduced from 5 to 6 per cent to 3 to 3.5 per cent a year, the lowest at this time among the world's highly industrialized nations. Still, the problem has not been overcome. In fact, just prior to the announcement that mandatory controls were being lifted on wages and prices, the wholesale price index recorded in December its highest rise in 22 years.

It is the timing, therefore, that provokes the doubts. Mandatory controls were introduced to restrain inflation, but in the midst of one of the most alarming threats to price stability they are lifted — in the name of stability. While the 19.2 annual rate of price increase in December is not likely to be repeated this month or next, it does suggest that the boom-like conditions now developing could get out of hand without restraints.

In its quarterly economic summary, "Economic Prospects," The Commercial Credit Co. makes these observations about the consumer segment of the economy late in 1972:

—Plans to purchase new and used autos moved up strongly to an all-time high.

—Plans to purchase household durables and furniture also have reached record levels.

—Plans to purchase single-family housing, which had already attained new highs in the past two quarters, took another substantial jump close to 10 per cent.

—Retail sales have been rising at a 15 per cent annual rate since the first of the year (1972), and close to 17 per cent since June.

—Extensions of installment credit and net changes in installment loans outstanding continue to set new records."

It is conditions such as these, among many others, that causes Henry C. Wallich, the Yale economist and analyst for the summary, to make this prePhase 3 comment: "Moderation, not record gains, must be the watchword from here on out."

Whether Phase 3 is a continuation of restraint, as suggested by its name, or a return to a hands-off policy, is up to the President. The guessing is that, of necessity, it will mean more restraint than is now imagined.

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The jury in the Juan Corona mass murder trial has reported an 8-4 deadlock, but the panel has been ordered to continue trying to reach a verdict.

Judge Richard E. Patton instructed the jurors on Monday not to reveal whether the majority favors conviction or acquittal for Corona, who is charged with the slayings of 25 men.

After 28 hours of jury deliberations in four days, jury foreman Ernest Phillips told the court, "We have reached what appears to be an impasse. We cannot decide one way or the other about the guilt or innocence."

Patton ordered the jurors in the 14-week trial to continue their efforts and not to report back before noon today.

Corona, 38, was expressionless as the announcement was made in a makeshift courtroom at the state medical facility in Vacaville, where he has been recuperating from heart trouble since Friday night. Because he was considered too ill to be moved to the Fairfield courtroom, the judge ordered the jury bused eight miles to the Vacaville facility to make the announcement. It was the first the jury knew of Corona's illness.

Corona, a Mexican citizen and a farm labor contractor, is charged with murdering 25 farm workers and drifters whose hacked and stabbed bodies were unearthed in a peach orchard north of Yuba City in the spring of 1971. It is the largest single mass murder charge in U. S. history.

Patton urged the jury not to "sacrifice your honest convictions" simply because they may be opposed to the majority. Do not violate your individual judgment."

Prosecutor G. Dave Teja said in case of a hung jury, a second trial would be automatic.

Thwarts Try At Jailbreak

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP)—A quick-thinking jailer was credited Monday with thwarting an escaped convict's alleged attempt to free inmates of the Richmond County Jail.

Sheriff R.W. Goodman said the convict, Jimmy Collins of Rockingham, was apprehended about an hour after he entered the jail armed with a shotgun and ordered jailer Cleveland Gainey to unlock all the cells.

The sheriff said Gainey was walking at gunpoint toward the jail office when he jumped into a room with a solid steel door, slammed the door and telephoned the sheriff's office.

The gunman fled from the jail in a stolen pickup truck which was later found abandoned in a wooded area about four miles from Rockingham, and Collins was arrested by deputies when he returned to the truck, Goodman said.

Collins, who escaped recently from the Anson County Prison Camp, was charged with larceny of a pickup truck, assaulting an officer with a firearm and attempted forced jailbreak, Goodman said.

Will Try Block Nixon Nominees

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, protesting lack of information on the Vietnam war, says he will try to block until Inauguration Day the Senate confirmation of President Nixon's nominees to top intelligence and defense positions.

In addition, Hughes called for public hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee on the financial holdings of Elliot L. Richardson and William P. Clements Jr.

Richardson, now secretary of health, education and welfare, has been nominated to succeed Melvin R. Laird as secretary of defense on Jan. 20. Clements, a Dallas oil-drilling contractor, has been named deputy secretary of defense.

Chairman John C. Stennis, holding out for private examination of the nominees financial holdings, said he hoped to bring the nominations to a committee vote today.

Meanwhile, three other Nixon nominations were approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. Monday's action clears the way for Senate votes on Claude S. Brinegar, named transportation secretary; Egil Krogh, nominated to be undersecretary of transportation, and Frederick Dent, selected commerce secretary.

Hughes made his demand for a public airing of Richardson's and Clements' holdings at an open meeting Monday. Richardson and Clements expressed their willingness to testify before congressional committees upon demand.

Richardson told newsmen that he is willing to have public disclosure of his financial inventory, but that he has not known what it contained since a blind trust was established in 1969 when he became undersecretary of state.

Clements, founder and board chairman of Sedco, Inc., said he believes his holdings already are a matter of public record since he headed a public corporation.

Hughes, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said his demand for financial disclosure by officials in sensitive positions is unrelated to his move to block confirmation as a protest against the war and the lack of explanation of the intense bombing last month.

He said he has asked Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to hold up Senate action on Richardson, Clements and James R. Schlesinger, Atomic Energy Commission chairman nominated to be director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Hughes said he had been promised that the "hold" would be honored for a reasonable time, and he hopes that will be until after Saturday, when President Nixon begins his second term.

"Surely," he said, "the President will tell the American people something in his inaugural address about where we are going and where we have been in Southeast Asia in the past couple of months."

Reason To Wonder If Seniority System Out

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders say that the Senate has abandoned the seniority system, and the official procedures bear that out—but you'd never know it from looking at the committee assignments.

In fact, with both Democrats and Republicans electing chairmen, senior members and other committee members, the senior man won out each time—with-out opposition, so far as is known.

The only exceptions were in instances where the senior men already had the top spot elsewhere.

Most senators say, in fact, there is unlikely to be any challenge for committee chairmanships except in unusual circumstances.

In one case this year, the relative ranking of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern on the Foreign Relations Committee, was decided on McGovern's greater seniority—he's been in the Senate for 10 straight years, while Humphrey's longer service was interrupted.

The Republicans this year followed the example established by the Democrats several years ago and decided to let the GOP members of a committee, subject to approval by the party caucus, elect their ranking member.

For the Democrats, the chairman, and the members of the committees, are selected in secret ballot by the Steering Committee, with those choices then going before the party caucus and, finally, the full Senate.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield insisted in an interview that seniority is just one of the factors.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott, explaining the new GOP procedures to the Senate last week, said, "I hope the press will take note of this, that this disposes of the argument that seniority necessarily prevails on the Democratic or Republican side under all circumstances."

But earlier in the week, explaining the Republicans' decision to elect their top members on committees, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., said he thought seniority would only be disregarded in extreme cases.

"He'd have to be so bad that the Republicans on that committee who pray every night that some day the Republicans will win" Senate control would be "willing to condemn him back home and probably ensure the election of a Democrat," Cotton said.

Trio Die Of Suffocation

RALEIGH (AP) — Suffocation was the probable cause of death for three people whose bodies were found in a Raleigh apartment building Monday, according to the Wake County assistant medical examiner.

The trio—two men and a woman—had their heads, hands, and feet tightly wrapped in tape, neckties, and electrical cords, and the tape was wrapped thickly around their noses and mouths, Gerard H. Hartzog said.

Police declined to comment on their investigation of the deaths, except to say that only a few coins were found in their pockets, establishing robbery as a possible motive. The apartment was completely ransacked, police said, and a rear window had been broken.

The bodies were identified as those of Grover S. Broadwell, 54, of Raleigh; Della Murray, 20 of Raleigh and formerly of Wilmington; and Michael A. Collins, 33, of Bunn.

the televisions networks. Liberals and conservatives are equally scornful of the petty, petulant decree that banned reporters of the Washington Post from social functions at the White House. As Peter Lisagor has said, this was a bush-league stunt; and whatever we expect of the White House, we expect it not to be bush.

Personnel changes contribute to the melancholy air. The most respected statistician in government, Dr. Geoffrey Moore of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has been fired. The ablest man in the Cabinet last year was Pete Peterson in Commerce. He dared to rise above the herd. Off with his head! With the exception of Rogers Morton in Interior, the new Cabinet will have not a single member who was held elective political office. A major appointee, Roy Ash as director of the Office of Budget and Management, is in deep trouble with Congress already.

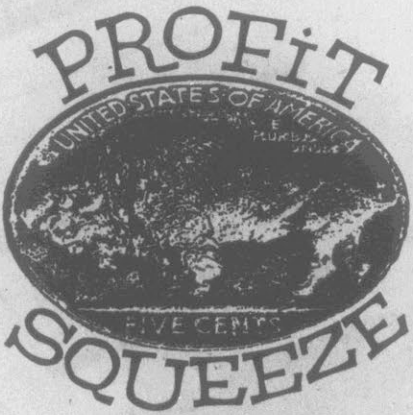

Little or large, these things from a pattern. It is an image, to borrow from Patrick Henry, that squints of monarchy. And we are uneasy.

For some time the anti-Nixon cartoonists have been depicting the President, at the start of his second term, as King Richard II. The caricature may be unfair, but the pattern persists. The real Richard II, a Plantagenet king, came to an unhappy ending. Mr. Nixon, beginning Term Two, has made an unhappy start.

Hunt Woman In Holdup Attempt

GREENSBORO (AP)—Guilford County authorities were searching Monday for a woman believed to be in her late 50s or early 60s who made an unsuccessful attempt at robbing a savings and loan office.

Dick Ruth, manager of the Guilford College branch of Home Federal Savings & Loan Association, said the woman walked into the office at 4:43 p.m. and handed a teller a note demanding money. The woman did not reveal a weapon and she apparently panicked and left without getting any money, he said.

MANY BUSINESSMEN ARE CAUGHT in a "profit squeeze" these days. The cost of operating a business is going up. Credit and collection problems may actually mean a loss in earnings.

ONE LOCAL BUSINESSMAN who operates his (or her) own business in your neighborhood is affected by the profit squeeze. The young carrier-salesman who delivers your newspaper every day can have collection problems too.

IT'S IMPORTANT TO your carrier to collect in full from every customer. When a customer is slow in paying, or asks the carrier to come back time after time, there's that much less profit for the carrier.

YOU CAN HELP these young businessmen avoid the "profit squeeze" by having your payment ready for your carrier on the very first call.

THANKS FOR HELPING.

Five-Part Lecture Series Is Scheduled

A five-part lecture series dealing with "Cultural Change in Eastern North Carolina as Reflected in the Novels of Inglis Fletcher and Ovid Pierce" will begin Wednesday night at East Carolina University.

The first lecture, with Dr. Erwin Hester, chairman of the English Department at East Carolina, as the principal speaker, will deal with Inglis Fletcher's Lusty Wind for Carolina.

The lecture will begin at 8:30 in Room 103 of the Biology Building at ECU. The other four lectures in the series will follow every two weeks through March 14. All speakers will be members of the ECU English Department.

Mrs. Fletcher, according to Dr. Hester, has written several novels about Eastern North Carolina with emphasis on the colonial and revolutionary Hice.

In administrative action, it was reported that approximately 400 persons whose names are on files as prospective teachers will be sent letters. These letters are to assure each applicant that their name is still on file. The applicants will also be asked to restate their availability and willingness to be considered for possible hiring if the need arises.

Also, Cox informed that letters relative to delinquent collection of school fees had gone to parents of students who have not yet paid the $4.00 annual fee. He said he would have a status report on fee collection for the February meeting.

In a brief summation of school board policy on field trips based on sample policies nationally, Dr. Cleetwood told board members it was his opinion the current field trips policy of the Greenville City schools met the requirements needed to cover any situation.

In a non-agenda item, board member William Myers asked that the superintendent look into the recent dismissal of a food service worker. Myers stated the individual concerned had been informed by a note in a Christmas card without further explanation that the person's services were no longer needed. The employee, Myers noted, has worked for 19 years in the Greenville City Schools.

Pitt NAACP Sets Priorities

Three priorities were set for the year 1973 at the regular meeting of the Pitt County Branch of the National Association of Colored People held in Bethel Sunday, according to Edward E. Carter, press and publicity committee chairman for the Pitt NAACP branch.

According to Carter, the three priorities designated by Pitt NAACP chapter president D.D. Garrett included: increasing membership by 1,500 during the year; reviewing the low-income housing problems in the county; and emphasizing political action.

"A thorough review was conducted of the last regular Greenville City Council meeting...and the nature of the special City Council meeting...in which citizens expressed their concern for recent grand jury ruling..." in the Connie James case, Carter noted. "The NAACP members expressed their determination to bring even more pressure to bear on the local system of government which is designed to suppress the oppressed people under its control," Carter emphasized.

Special guests at the Sunday meeting included attorney Jerry Paul and Southern Christian Leadership Conference field representative Golden Frinks.

Many Run Late In Listing Pitt Tax Property

Pitt County Tax Supervisor R.S. Moye urged today that Pitt County property owners who have not listed their real and personal property for taxes do so as soon as possible.

According to Moye, only about 25 per cent of the property owners have listed their property so far, while 50 per cent of the listing time has gone by.

All property owners, according to law, must list their property for tax purposes during the month of January or face a penalty of 10 per cent of the tax.

Moye also urged those people who list their taxes by mail to "get those mail forms in as early as possible," also.

Property, Moye said, should be listed in the township in which the property is located.

A New Look For The N.C. House

By SAM D. BUNDY

The 130th session of the North Carolina General Assembly convened at 12:00 noon on Wednesday, January 10, as prescribed by law, which requires the General Assembly to convene at noon on Wednesday after the second Monday in January in the odd years. In spite of the weather conditions, all 170 members (120 in the House and 50 in the Senate) were present to take the oath of office from the presiding Thad Eure, Secretary of State.

The House of Representatives elected the Honorable James E. Ramsey as Speaker, the Honorable William T. Watkins as Speaker Pro-Tem (a new position), Mr. Jo Ann Smith as Principal Clerk, Sam Burrow as Reading Clerk and Archie Lane as Sergeant-at-Arms. With these experienced people, the House of Representatives is in good hands. For the first time, since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, all committee assignments were made and announced on the first day of the Session. This speaks well of the intention of the General Assembly to get down to business.

I am well pleased with my committee assignments, which are Appropriations (being on the Sub-Committee of General Government and Transportation), Agriculture, Education (Vice-Chairman), Carlton Fleetwood of the State Department of Public Instruction, will speak on federal programs and George Kahdy will talk on career education.

District Two includes: Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington County Boards of Education and Greenville and Washington City Boards of Education.

District Two officers are: George McRorie of Robersonville, president; Sidney Hassell of Roper, vice president; R.E. Rogers of Williamston, secretary.

District Two officers are: Dr. Lokenath Debnath, professor of mathematics at East Carolina University, and Andrew G. Kulchar, recent graduate of the ECU Department of Physics, are co-authors of an article which appears in a recent issue of the Journal of the Physical Society of Japan.

Their article is the result of a joint research project, "On Generation of Dispersive Long Waves on a Rotating Ocean by Wind Stress Distribution."

The pastor, Travis Smith, invites the public to attend.

State Personnel, Mental Health, Local Government No. 2, and Constitutional Amendments (Vice Chairman).

It is apparent that "Jim" will pack a wallop in this General Assembly, since "Jim" Holshouser is Governor, "Jim" Hunt is Lt. Governor, and "Jim" Ramsey is Speaker of the House.

Another feature this year of the House of Representatives is change of its membership. There are 40 new members, which constitute one-third of the House membership. Democrats have decreased from 96-85, while Republicans have increased from 23 to 35. In the 1971 Session there were two women and two blacks, while in the 1973 session there eight women and three blacks. The oldest member in the House is 75 and the youngest is a young lady of 28, and the longest tenure is 12 terms. Also, an important change has been made in the time of the Session. We will meet on Mondays at 8 p.m. and on Fridays at 10:30 a.m., with the meeting time at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. This change has been made in order to give more time for committee meetings.

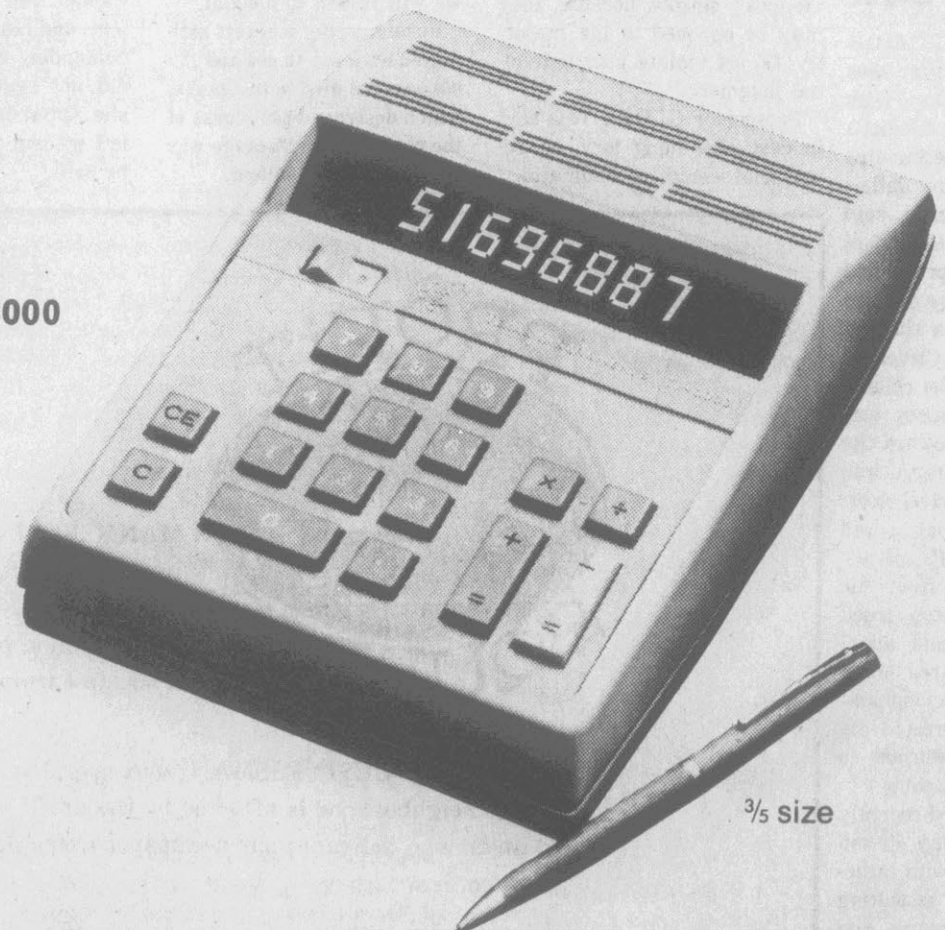

I am back in Office 1302, (second door to the left at the main entrance), with Mrs. Blanche Diuguid as my personal secretary, and my telephone number is 829-5824. Mrs. Bundy and I safely ensconced at the Hilton Inn in Room 313, and the telephone number is 828-0811. I shall be pleased to have any person or group come by to see me about any legislative matter or related problem, or just for a social visit.

Many matters and issues will come before this General Assembly for consideration and I will report to you each week in this column and, as they arise, I hope you will give me your reaction and the benefit of your thinking. I am here to represent you.

Other Dolphins Making Noises

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're in a different sport but they share the same nickname and that's enough to make Jacksonville's Dolphins act every bit as super as the football variety from Miami.

Jacksonville, ranked 15th in The Associated Press poll of college basketball teams, rolled to a 96-64 victory over Pan American Monday night. Butch Taylor led the romp with 25 points as the Dolphins ran their season's record to 12-2 with their seventh consecutive victory.

Most of the teams at the top of The AP rankings took Monday night off but No. 8 Missouri, No. 11 Alabama, No. 13 Southwestern Louisiana, and Jacksonville all were in action.

UCLA continues to lead the rankings but for the first time, the Bruins were not the unanimous choice of the sports writers and broadcasters for the No. 1 slot.

UCLA, undefeated in 57 consecutive games, received all but one first place vote, and totaled 778 points. The other first place ballot went to unbeaten North Carolina State, ranked second after 11 straight victories this season. Maryland, 10-0 through the period covered by the poll but beaten Sunday by NC State, is No. 3.

North Carolina jumped to fourth place, followed by Long Beach State, Minnesota, Marquette, Missouri, Providence and San Francisco to complete the Top 10.

Of that group, only Missouri saw action Monday night and the Tigers would have been smarter to take the night off like the other members of the first 10. Beaten for the first time Saturday night following 12 straight victories, the Tigers dropped another, bowing to Colorado, 81-79 in overtime. To their credit, however, they didn't go down without a battle.

Colorado had to come from behind four times in the extra period to overtake Missouri. Lee Haven had six points in the extra period for the winners after combining with Scott Wedman to help Colorado wipe out an 11-point deficit in regulation time.

Missouri, guilty of 31 turnovers, almost won the game anyway. Steve Blind tied the score at 72 with 48 seconds left but then missed a free throw with 11 seconds left that would have put the Tigers on top.

Haven finished with 28 points and Wedman had 23 for the Buffaloes, now 5-8 for the season.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

Fishel Sparks Citadel Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The return of Steve Fishel seems to have made a difference in The Citadel's basketball fortunes—and the Bulldogs will be glad to have him back later in the week for a pair of Southern Conference games.

Fishel had missed the Bulldogs' last two starts with a sprained ankle, and The Citadel snapped a three-game losing streak Monday night with a 66-57 victory over South Florida as Fishel hit 10 of 16 shots from the floor and scored 21 points.

The Bulldogs, 2-0 in conference play behind Davidson and Furman at 3-0, boosted their over-all record to 5-7 and handed South Florida its fifth defeat in 12 games.

With Fishel hitting consistently from outside, the Bulldogs built a 34-18 lead at intermission and fought off a second half comeback by South Florida.

Proctor's Just Wins

Coca-Cola and the Happy Store took lopsided victories in the City Basketball League last night, while unbeaten Proctor's barely got their fifth straight win.

Coke dumped the Buccaneer Club, 75-24, while the Happy Store downed the Book Exchange, 55-37. Proctor's came away with a 58-53 win over Piggly Wiggly.

The Happy Store struggled into a 21-15 lead by halftime in their game with the Book Exchange. Then, in the second half, Happy Store pulled away from the Exchange with a 34-21 advantage, to win going away.

Ray Peszko led the Happy Store with 20 points, while Glen Batten had 10. No one hit double figures for the Exchange.

Proctor's and Piggly Wiggly battled through the first half with Piggly Wiggly moving into a 28-24 lead at the horn. But in the second half, Proctor's came back to outthrust them, 32-25, and push ahead and take the win.

Tom Cooper led Proctor's with 16 points, while Gene Rackley had 15. For Piggly Wiggly, Robert Pettus led with 12.

Rounding out the evening, Coke rushed away to a 34-10 lead over the Buccaneer Club and never had to worry. In the second half, Coke outthrust the Bucs, 41-14 to win handily.

Milan Djordjevic led Coke with 29 points, while Jim Modlin had 16 and Chris Domenick had 11. No one had more than eight for the Bucs.

Heels Don't Take Deacons Lightly

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Third-ranked North Carolina will not be taking Wake Forest lightly in their basketball game Wednesday night in the Greensboro Coliseum.

The Wake Forest Deacons have won their last five games and are 8-4 in all games.

"We are catching Wake Forest at a time when it is playing outstanding basketball," says Dean Smith, coach of the Tar Heels. "We expect a typical Carolina-Wake Forest game—close down to the wire." North Carolina also has a winning streak, seven games.

Wake Forest is the only team to defeat 11th-ranked Alabama, which has won its other eight games.

Both Wake Forest and North Carolina emphasize the fast break, and a high-scoring game is expected. North Carolina, 13-1, is averaging 89 points a game and Wake Forest is averaging 76.8.

Wake Forest is 1-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, having lost to Virginia five weeks ago and beaten Duke last week.

North Carolina has won its only conference start, routing Clemson 92-58 a week ago.

In other games for ACC clubs Wednesday night, Duke will meet Davidson in the Charlotte Coliseum and Clemson will play St. John's in Jamaica, N. Y.

Davidson is tough in the coliseum, its second home.

ACC teams were idle Monday night.

North Carolina has lost only a second-ranked North Carolina State although it has played since Dec. 9 without David Washington, who broke a small bone in his left foot in the game against Virginia Tech that night. The sophomore led the Tar Heels in scoring in the first four games with an average of 21.3.

Doctors said last week that the break has not healed as quickly as expected. Washington is to see the doctors again next week to learn whether he can return to practice. Then it should take him 10 days to two weeks to get into playing condition.

The Tar Heels are getting good scoring balance. The averages are George Karl 17.6, Bobby Jones 16.1, Ed Stahl 13.6, Donn Johnston 8.0 and Darrell Elston 7.9. Jones is the team's rebounding leader with 14.4 in 14 games, an average of 10.3.

Karl, a senior, has scored 977 points in his varsity career and could hit 1,000 in the Wake Forest game. The backcourt ace has a career 272 assists. Only one player in North Carolina history, Charlie Scott, has ended his career with 1,000 points and 300 assists. Karl appears a sure bet to break Scott's assist record of 310. He also has an outside chance to break the single-season record of 151 set last year by Steve Presis. He has 70 so far.

The Wake Forest leaders are backcourt men Tony Byers, second in ACC scoring with a 24.1 average, and Eddie Payne, averaging 14.3.

A couple of years back, just as George Washington was dropping out of the Southern Conference, they had a "Tallented" basketball team. It was dubbed so because of two brothers, Mike and Bob Tallent, two hot scorers.

But the Colonials, who visit East Carolina University on Wednesday night, just might be the most "tallented" of them all.

The reason for this is just one Tallent, the youngest of the three brothers, Pat. The hot shooting guard is hitting at a 19.5 points per game clip (not counting their last outing, an 80-72 victory over Richmond's Spiders). In that game, Tallent canned 26 points.

But he isn't the only reason that the Colonial fans can smile. The team has put together a 10-3 record so far, and they have four starters hitting in double figures.

Mike Battle, a 6-7 forward who wrecked East Carolina in Washington last year, is hitting at an 18.5 average, and making a fine 56.1 per cent of his shots from the floor. Clyde Burwell, their 6-11 center, is hitting 13.4 points per game and 55.6 per cent of his shots from the floor.

Burwell is also leading the team in rebounding with a 10.3 average, while Battle is pulling down 9.3 per game.

Rounding out those in double figures in Haviland Harper, a 6-6 forward, scoring 11.0 points per game. Keith Morris, a 6-2 guard, rounds out the starting five. He's averaging 5.6 points per game.

Among the teams they have beaten are two the Pirates have lost to, Richmond and The Citadel. And one of these three losses was to third-ranked Maryland, 88-79, at College Park.

Against Richmond, they shot over 60 per cent from the floor. "Battle wrecked us last year," East Carolina Coach Tom Quinn remembers. "He hit 27 against us in that game, and that was the start of the way he's been playing."

For the Bucs, it'll be the second straight time they've given up height at the center position. "We don't have anyone to match their 6-11 man, but we're pretty even across the rest of the lineup."

George Washington, according to the scouting report, likes to press and are not a conservative basketball team, as evidenced by their 80.7 points per game average. "But at the same time, they're not a run and shoot team. But they do have a number of great shooters, and an outstanding one in Tallent."

East Carolina has found George Washington to be a frustrating team in the last two years. After beating them with some regularity in the past, the Bucs found themselves losing by a point, 80-79 in Greenville two years ago. Then, last year, they bowed 84-74, after going almost scoreless the last five minutes of the game.

In both games, the Bucs were ahead most of the time, and appeared to be easy winners in both, only to see the Colonials come roaring back to take the win.

"We haven't lost at home this year," Quinn said, "so I'm sure this will be a fine spectator game, and a hard-fought one too."

He said that the Colonials would be the best team to visit Minges so far.

Referring to the Furman game last Saturday, when the Bucs were overcome, 84-60, Quinn keyed the game on recruiting. "They've done a tremendous job down there," he said, "not only do they have all the key personnel they had last year when they won the regular season title, but they have those fine sophomores." One of those, 7-0 Moose Leonard, was the key factor in the Pirate loss. He hit 31 points and generally intimidated the Bucs.

Quinn also felt that turnovers were another big factor in the game, as the Bucs again had over 20. "With the type of game being played today, turnovers are increasing. For instance, Clemson had 41 and Furman had over 30 when they played each other." "But I don't believe there's that much difference in the two teams (ECU and Furman)," Quinn said. "I think when we play them up there, it'll be a different game."

The East Carolina junior varsity will meet Lenoir Community College in a preliminary game at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday, with the varsity contest between George Washington and the Pirates starting at 8 p.m.

Pirate Runners Sweep Victory

NEWARK, Del. — East Carolina University's indoor track team gained victory in a five-way meet held at Newark Saturday.

The Bucs put together 67 points to capture the event, and were followed by hosting Delaware with 58½ points. Georgetown finished third with 37, followed by Drexel with 32½ and Mt. St. Mary's with 23.

The outing was the second of the year for the Pirates, who earlier took the Lynchburg (Va.) Invitational meet. And they now post a 4-0 record against other collegiate teams.

The Pirates took first place in five events during the afternoon and piled up additional points with other finishes.

In the pole vault, Art Miller took first place for the Bucs with a leap of 13 feet, 6 inches. Teammate Rich McDuffie finished second with a similar jump, but lost out on most misses.

Ivey Peacock took second place in the shot put with a toss of 48 feet, 10¾ inches. LaBaron Carruthers was third with a toss of 46-9½.

John Pitts leaped 6 feet, 8½ inches to win the high jump, while Roy Quick took second place with a jump of 6-2.

In the long jump, Larry Malone finished fourth at 21 feet, 2½ inches.

Walter Davenport won the triple jump, going 49 feet, 1¾ inches. Lawrence Wilkerson finished right behind him with a jump of 46-4¼.

Maurice Huntley captured the 60-yard dash for the Bucs in a time of 6.3 seconds. Les Strayhorn, who ran a 6.4 time in the preliminaries was fourth in 6.6, while Gary Tiffany was fifth at 6.7.

In the 60-yard high hurdles, Sam Phillips took first place with a time of 7.4, while Bill McRee was fifth in 7.9.

Charlie Lovelace was second in the 440-yard dash in 51.3, while Palmer Lisane was third in the 600-yard run in 1:14.5.

The mile relay team of Lisane, Lovelace, Huntley and Phillips finished second in a time of 3:26.1.

The Pirates will take part in the Cornell Invitational Meet this Saturday.

Shula Finally Proves Can Win Big Ones

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "God almighty, I'm not sure I would have walked away at all."

Someone had asked Miami Coach Don Shula how he would have felt, walking away from Super Bowl VII, if his Dolphins hadn't beaten the Washington Redskins.

He had to walk away from two other Super Bowls as the losing coach. "I don't think I could have stood for banquet enemies to introduce me by saying, 'Here's that three-time loser.'"

He doesn't have to worry about that anymore. All he's got to worry about is living up to the title, "Most Perfect Coach."

"This is a totally unfamiliar experience," he said jokingly as he began his press conference Tuesday, the taste of the 14-7 victory over the Redskins still sweet.

Then suddenly, he turned serious, almost bitter, as he thought of Carroll Rosenblum, the former owner of the Baltimore Colts who now owns the Los Angeles Rams.

"It's especially nice to win the Super Bowl in the backyard of the guy who said I couldn't win the big game ... his saying that I freeze up in the big ones is just another in a three-year series of brutal attacks on me and my family."

But having to put up with those kinds of comments wasn't as bad as not having the victory to prove them wrong. "There was always the frustration of that final hurdle," he said.

His "unbeatable" Colts had been beaten 16-7 by the New York Jets in Super Bowl III in 1969. And last year the Dallas Cowboys had humiliated his Dolphins 24-3.

Perhaps it was that later defeat that brought Miami to this pinnacle, the National Football League's first perfect team.

"I think we learned a lot in the lesson we got from Dallas," Shula said. "There was that naked realization that there's only one winner ... after you get beat in this thing you're reduced to almost feeling you haven't been here at all. After it's all over there's just one team left—the winner...."

"Our aim this year wasn't just to get back into the Super Bowl but to win it."

They won it with a game plan that worked almost to perfection. With Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris plunging steadily through and around the Washington line, the Dolphins loosened up the Redskins' defense just enough to give quarterback Bob Griese the gaps he needed to pierce the secondary.

And by shutting down Larry Brown and the rest of the Redskins runners, the defense forced Billy Kilmer to go in effectively, damagingly, to the air.

Only two things in the game seemed to sour Shula—albeit not very much. There was that nullified fumble recovery by Washington's Harold McLinton as Miami prepared to punt in the first time it had the ball. McLinton had slapped the ball as center Howard Kindig began to snap it.

It was a move Shula wasn't expecting from Allen's Redskins. "The call was for off-sides but I think it should have been for unsportsmanlike conduct," he said. Then, turning to the subject of Allen, he added: "I don't agree with how he's done some things. I don't condone them but that's his life."

The only other unpleasant memory—one which Shula could laugh about—was Garo Yepremian's busted field goal attempt with barely two minutes to play. Bill Brundige blocked the kick and, when Yepremian recovered the ball and tried to throw it, Mike Bass caught the mid-air fumble and galloped 49 yards for the touchdown that prevented the Dolphins from becoming the first Super Bowl shutout victor.

"I saw the kick blocked," Shula recalled. "Then I thought, 'Oh, good,' when I saw the ball bouncing back toward us. Then I saw Garo running with it, and I kept thinking, 'Fall down, fall down' then I saw him trying to pass. Then I saw the ball go up in the air and Bass catch it and start running. Then I thought about a lot of things, not one of them very nice."

"I'll tell you one thing," the coach added with a grin, "Garo's never going to throw the ball again. In fact, he usually plays catch with my son, David, in training camp. I'm going to stop that, too."

While Allen and his Redskins were preparing to take their long flight back to Washington, Shula was on the phone with President Nixon. The President, who had rooted for the Dolphins last year against Dallas, had switched allegiance this time and come up with another loser. He'd been pulling for the Redskins. "I didn't remind him of that," Shula said with a smile.

"He wanted me to know how he understood how I felt—that he had experienced losing, then had experienced the other side," Shula said. "He congratulated me and told me he knew how important the victory was, both for the team and for me personally."

No Discipline For Runners

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Four Eastern Michigan University track members will not be disciplined for their disqualification from a New York track meet after meet officials said they snubbed the National Anthem.

After a day-long investigation Monday, EMU Athletic Director F.L. "Frosty" Ferzacca said, "The case is closed and no further action need be taken."

The four members of the EMU mile relay team—three blacks and one white—were disqualified from the Knights of Columbus track meet at Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., Saturday.

Officials said some team members sat on the floor while the National Anthem was played prior to their event.

Huron Coach Bob Parks said one runner—Willie Simms—was doing exercises—"but the other three boys (Carlos Woods, Stan Vinson and Mark Timmons) were standing."

Meet officials insisted more than one runner was not standing at attention, however, and ejected them to the cheers of the fans.

The crowd boomed, however, as the runners trotted around the track with clenched fists to protest their disqualification.

"Foley (meet director Jim Foley) did tell me that at no time were the athletes disrespectful or antagonistic," Ferzacca said. "He said they were courteous and did not use any offensive language in their discussion with them or the (meet) committee."

Parks said Simms went to meet officials and asked that he alone be disqualified and the rest of the team be permitted to stay.

But Foley said, "We were sorry we had to disqualify them, but the tempo of the crowd dictated it."

Tech Assistant Said Top Choice

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Steve Sloan, an assistant football coach at Georgia Tech, appears to be the leading candidate to succeed Bill Pace, who resigned Monday as Vanderbilt head coach.

Charley Thornton, assistant athletic director at Alabama, is a prime candidate for Commodore athletic director, a position Pace also held.

A Vanderbilt spokesman said Monday a committee formed to begin searching for a successor is looking for two men—one for coach and the other for athletic director.

Others considered as likely candidates for the coaching vacancy include Lou Holtz of North Carolina State, Erskine Russell of Georgia, Russ Faulkinberry of Southwestern Louisiana and Tommy Owen, coach of the offensive backs at Vanderbilt and a Commodore alumnus.

Holtz and Fulakinberry, both former Vanderbilt football captains, are the only head coaches in the group.

Pace, 40, head coach for six years and athletic director for the past two, resigned "in the best interests of all concerned."

His teams compiled a 22-38-3 overall record and 6-28-1 mark in the Southeastern Conference. The Commodores were 3-8 this past season and 0-6 in the SEC. In Pace's six years, Vanderbilt had one winning season—a 5-4-1 worksheet in 1968. In the other seasons, the Commodores were 2-7-1, 4-6, 4-7 and 4-6-1.

Sloan, 28, was an assistant at Alabama three years and was head offensive coach at Florida State before taking the job at Georgia Tech Feb. 1, 1972.

A native of Cleveland, Tenn., he was graduated from Alabama in 1966 and lettered three times in football. He was the quarterback on Alabama's national title teams in 1964 and 1965, then played for two years with the Atlanta Falcons.

The new coach will have as a nucleus 12 players who started Vanderbilt's final game of the 1972 season as underclassmen. Four were sophomores, six juniors and two freshmen.

All but one of the second unit players were underclassmen.

Utah Thumps Cougars By 18

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The oldest player in the National Basketball did his thing again Monday night. At 39, Johnny Green scored a season-high total of 20 points in leading the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 135-108 victory over the Philadelphia 76'ers.

Green scored 12 points in the first six minutes of the third period to increase the Kings lead to 30 over the hapless 76'ers. Nate Archibald, leading the league in both scoring and assists, scored 30 points and handed out 14 assists.

In other NBA action, the Detroit Pistons beat the Portland Trail Blazers 112-101. In the only game scheduled in the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars thumped the Carolina Cougars 128-110.

The Pistons snapped a three-game losing streak with some fourth period help from Dave Bing and Bob Lanier. Lanier scored 24 points and snared 22 rebounds while Bing led all scorers with 31.

The Trail Blazers, who lost their 10th game in their last 13 outings, were paced by Sidney Wicks with 29 points.

In the battle of the ABA Division leaders, Utah stopped Carolina behind the scoring of Zelfo Beato, Ron Boone and Willie Wise.

The Stars bolted to a 66-47 halftime lead and Beato's 26-point spree in the second half maintained that lead throughout the second half.

'Miami Fans Are Wonderful'

MIAMI (AP) — "We said last year we would bring the championship to Miami," Miami Dolphins' Coach Don Shula told a tumultuous welcoming crowd of some 5,000 fans at the Miami International Airport Monday night.

Shula, holding the glittering Super Bowl trophy, said of the cheering, chanting and happy throng: "They're the most wonderful fans in the world. I think 17-0 says it all—world championship."

The fans—mainly youngsters, some dressed in Dolphin football jerseys and waving "We're No. 1" banners—rocked with laughter as Shula tapped balding placekicker Garo Yepremian on the head for mugging a pass on a busted field goal attempt which resulted in Washington's only touchdown in the Dolphins' 14-7 victory Sunday.

"I'll never try it again," said Garo. "I'll stick to kicking."

As the Dolphins stepped off the Eastern Airlines DC8 after their 4½ flight from Los Angeles, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, confidant of President Richard Nixon, greeted Shula.

When asked if he had bet on the game with the President, who is the Redskins' No. 1 fan, Rebozo replied, "The President never wagers."

Nixon, who had sent telegrams to both Shula and Redskin Coach George Allen after the game, stayed behind at the Florida White House working on his inaugural address and State of the Union message.

Bob Griese, Dolphins' quarterback who engineered the Super Bowl win, was beaming as he looked down from the special platform at the crowd. "I'm glad they're enjoying it," he said. "We brought them home a winner."

The team—not at full strength as nine Dolphins flew to Dallas from Los Angeles for next Sunday's Pro Bowl game—kept the crowd going waving the Victory sign and joining the chants of "We're No. 1."

The banners gave the Dolphins story loud and clear.

"Shula's No-Names Have a Name: Champs," read one hand-lettered sign. "Right on Dolphins," read another and simply "Thanks."

National Anthem Won't Be Played

NEW YORK (AP) — The Olympic Invitational track and field meet at Madison Square Garden Feb. 16 will be held without the playing of the National Anthem, according to the chairman of the event.

Edwin H. Mosler Jr. said Monday that his staff "couldn't find a spot" for the "Star Spangled Banner" in the program, but he admitted that the anthem was cut also to avoid provoking an incident at the arena.

A spokesman for the Garden said it will be the first of more than 500 athletic events to go on without the anthem since the new Garden opened five years ago.

There have been a number of instances in recent years when athletes and fans did not abide by the tradition of standing at attention during the playing of the anthem.

"Who needs booing?" said Jesse Abramson, director of the Olympic Invitational. "Maybe it's out of time, out of place. But I don't think the anthem and the flag should become an issue."

At track meets, the national song is traditionally played before the mile race. However, Abramson said he didn't go along with inserting the anthem "when the milers are all keyed up to run."

Mosler also cited the timing in explaining the decision, adding, "Sure, the black factor crossed our minds. One doesn't relish incidents that disrupt an event. It entered into our decision but it wasn't the key factor."

Bradley Gets All-Star Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bradley has been selected by the East Coaches to play in the National Basketball Association's All-Star Game at Chicago on Jan. 23 for the first time in his career, it was announced today by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

Bradley will be joined by Elvin Hayes of Baltimore; Jo Jo White of Boston; John Doolen from Philadelphia; Jack Marin of Houston and Bob Kauffman as substitutes for the East Squad.

The West coaches selected Chet Walker of the Chicago Bulls; Dave Bing and Bob Lanier of Detroit; Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles; Nate Thurmond of Golden State; and Bob Dandridge of Milwaukee.

Coach Tom Heinsohn will have an East squad loaded with strong cornermen to cope with Coach Bill Sharman's more balanced squad. The West will have a height advantage up front but the East has the edge in the back court.

The East will open with John Havlicek and Dave DeBusschere at the forwards, Dave Cowens at center, and Walt Frazier and Pete Maravich at the guards. Lenny Wilkens, Lou Hudson and Wes Unseld complete the squad.

The West will counter with Spencer Haywood and Rick Barry at the forwards, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at center, and Jerry West and Nate Archibald at the guards. Sidney Wicks and Wilt Chamberlain round out the West squad. West and Laker teammate Wilt Chamberlain were selected to play for the 13th time, tying Bob Cousy, the all-time leader.

Bill Bradley, John Block and Pete Maravich of the East squad and Nate Archibald, Charlie Scott and Bob Dandridge of the West squad will all be playing in their first all-star game.

Secret Draft Held By ABA

By GORDON PETERSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American Basketball Association held a "secret" draft of collegiate basketball players by telephone Monday and mum is the word.

The draft included both seniors and underclassmen but little information was released concerning the identity of those drafted.

The Virginia Squires formally announced that they drafted George Gervin, formerly of Eastern Michigan. Gervin dropped out of school last year after becoming involved in a fight in the championship game of the NCAA College Division Tournament. He has been playing for the Pontiac team in the Continental League in Detroit.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot reported it is believed that Gervin has already signed with the Squires.

Gervin reportedly had been on the verge of signing with a National Basketball Association team, but NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy would not approve the contract.

Commissioner Kennedy stated that the draft wasn't very secret but didn't comment further.

The Utah Stars reportedly drafted Tommy Burleson, a 7-footer from North Carolina State.

Larry McNeill, a 6-foot-9 star for Marquette, was reportedly drafted by the San Diego Conquistadors.

One ABA coach, who declined to be quoted by name, said, "We're trying to break the NBA and sign these guys even before the other league even holds its draft. Most of us are not even going to leak the names of the players we drafted." The ABA office reportedly gave strict orders not to leak any of the players names.

All-Americans Bill Walton of UCLA, Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State and Doug Collins of Illinois State were not on the list since they were drafted last year in the regular ABA draft.

The Worry Clinic 'The Pill' Has Its Own Flaws

Virginia is a sex tragedy. But she succumbed to what Dr. Fiumara at Boston calls the dangerous "3 P's." Be sure you discuss this case in hygiene classes at school. And remember that religion is still the best deterrent of unwed pregnancy!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE V-595: Virginia R., aged 20, is a sex victim.
"Dr. Crane," her college physician informed me, "she grew up in this modern, permissive society."
"Her parents belonged to the Country Club but were not active in a local church."
"So Virginia missed the moral training that youth leaders of the church and YWCA could have offered to supplement her lack of proper home tutelage."
"When she got to college, she thought the 'Pill' would prevent any pregnancy worries, so she became promiscuous."
"Now she has syphilis and gonorrhea, both!"
"So will you please warn your millions of young readers that morality is far superior to the 'Pill' as a guarantee for happy romance?"

BEWARE, THE 3 P's
At our recent meeting of the American Medical Association, Dr. N.J. Fiumara, warned against the rapid rise in sexual diseases.

He cited the "3 P's" as the chief cause.
And he said they are the "Pill, Promiscuity and Pantyhose."

Dr. Fiumara is director of the communicable diseases section of the Massachusetts Health Department.

The "Pill" obviously frees many women from worry about getting pregnant if they then become promiscuous.

So the "Pill and Promiscuity" might be called the Siamese Twins that are zooming the twin venereal diseases, namely, syphilis and gonorrhea.

An estimated 2,500,000 cases of gonorrhea were reported last year in the U.S.A.

This is the highest rate in the entire history of our country!
"But it is expected to continue to rise," warned Dr. Fiumara.

And he warned women to discontinue use of pantyhose, for they increase the warmth and moisture in the vaginal region.

As a result, infective organisms then can grow and flourish more easily.

Many modern innovations thus seem beneficial in one respect but may upset previous hygienic and health processes.

For example, the "Pill" may figuratively throw a "monkey wrench" into the chemical ecology of the internal glands.

Its use has been so recent that medicines don't know what its longtime dangers may be.

Like DDT, which was greeted with such fervor in 1945 and now is banned, so the "Pill" may later be proved of far more danger than its effect on blood clots.

Morality is still the safest way to avoid unwed pregnancy, as well as the zooming venereal ailments.

For when mankind upsets ecology, it may take a generation or even 50 years to witness all the side effects.

Farmers are now being warned against giving sex hormones to cattle to tenderize their meat.

Same is true of poultry growers, for the sex hormones may ultimately exert a partial chemical castration of human beings who eat such beef and chicken.

For the social pendulum swings back and forth, ranging from the rigorous Blue Laws of the New England pioneers through the flagrant sexuality of Sodom and Gomorrah.

"It's just 3 generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves," is another example of this same swing of the pendulum.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Bighorn sheep have been known to clear more than 16 feet in one leap. The animal is able to climb nearly vertical cliffs because of its concave, suction cup-like hooves.

Will Plan For Protest

Rev. Henry V. Lofquist and Rev. Hugh C. Mulholland, co-chairmen of the Greenville Peace Committee, have announced a meeting of the committee for 8:00 p.m. Thursday at the Methodist Student Center, 501 East Fifth Street.

In a joint statement, the co-

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Tuesday, January 16, 1973—9

chairmen state that a peaceful demonstration protesting the American aerial bombardment of civilian areas in Hanoi and Haiphong in the month of December is planned in Washington, D. C. on January 20, the day of President Nixon's inauguration.

"It will be a lawful, peaceful presence involving no confrontation with those present for the inauguration ceremonies," the two note in their statement.

The purpose of the Thursday night meeting is to coordinate transportation arrangements and meeting places in Washington, D.C.

All interested persons who can provide a car or anyone who desires transportation are asked to attend.

Black Marlin Off California

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND, Calif. (AP) — The first black marlin ever landed in California waters was harpooned recently by commercial fisherman A.C. Sears, while he was hunting swordfish.

The 638-pound, 10½-foot-long fish was caught east of San Clemente Island, at least 800 miles north of the species' usual habitat. Heretofore the tip of Baja California was considered the northernmost boundary for black marlin distribution.

East played his cards a little "too close to the chest" in today's hand, and thereby paved the way for a devastating loss which his side incurred on the deal.

West opened the bidding with three diamonds in an attempt to disrupt his opponents' line of communications, if they held the balance of strength. North was tempted to overcall, but felt that his values did not quite warrant a bid at the four level, so he passed.

East chose to continue his partner's preemptive activities by offering a simple raise to four diamonds. This somewhat mild barricade did not prevent South from entering the auction, however, and the latter bid four hearts.

West and North passed and now East bid five diamonds, an action that he might have considered on the previous round inasmuch as he had no intention of defending against the opponent's game contract. South persisted to five hearts and North suddenly sprang to life, and bid a slam.

East doubled the slam bid in order to warn his partner away from a diamond lead.

When a drawer shows signs of sticking, don't make the common mistake of wetting a cake of soap and running it along the sliding parts. This puts moisture into the wood and causes future trouble. Use paraffin or a lubricant made especially for wood.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day of changes and new arrangements. It is necessary that most everyone remain objective to avoid becoming so sensitive that feelings are hurt and a pouting attitude prevents productive results. Improve home surroundings. Please bigwigs.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look around your home and make those repairs that are necessary quickly and well. Do whatever will create more harmony there. Avoid newcomers who have an eye on your assets.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Shop with care and be careful you are not shortchanged and do not leave purse or wallet where others can pick it up. A letter you may receive could prove disappointing, but it is not so bad. Take it easy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to add to your savings account instead of spending money more lavishly, as you are tempted to do to your detriment. Making repairs to home is wise. Add to its value and comfort.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take the time to make yourself more attractive so you leave a fine impression on others. Get out to your favorite beauty shop or barber. The evening can bring fine results socially.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You had better get busy on unfinished duties instead of jumping into new outlets that you know little about as yet. A good pal needs your assistance. Be sure to give it generously. Take it easy in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have a fine friend who will help you put some plan across successfully, so be sure to accept aid given you. Later, repay social obligations that are important. Avoid one whose thinking is negative.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle civic affairs well and show you are an absolutely A-1 citizen. You have to get new equipment if you are to handle some vocational work particularly well. Don't labor under an unnecessary handicap.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is the right day to get some new idea rolling that can bring you added income, revenue. Make new and efficient associates who can be most helpful to you. Drive away fear and be more sure of yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study those monetary responsibilities well and handle them with intelligence today. Don't neglect taxes and insurance. An expert can give right pointers about new investments you are considering.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use tact and courtesy in dealing with partners today since they are in a very peevish mood. Show you are objective where needed changes are concerned. A little firmness is wise there.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There is plenty of work ahead of you and this suits you to a T, since you like nothing better than to be gainfully employed. Describe your plan to co-workers so they understand it and can work along with you intelligently. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Having a good time is fine today provided you do not bring people together who do not like each other, so stick to congenials. Some creative idea who has needs a little revision for more success with it. Work some tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those very cooperative young people if you teach early not to be so sensitive and self-absorbed that others will barely want to say hello to your progeny. If you make sure the diet is right, this can be very helpful. There is a good mind here that needs the right kind of education, which should be slanted toward such things as building, selling, engineering, beauty culture, etc. Not very good at sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Rec Board Will Meet Wednesday

The monthly meeting for January of the Greenville Recreation Commission will be held Wednesday night beginning at 8:00 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the TV room in the upstairs portion of the Elm Street Gymnasium.

Among agenda items will be a discussion of the recently compiled report of the recreational requirements in Greenville.

NOTICE OF SALE

North Carolina
Pitt County

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust or originally by J.L. Gaskins and wife, Hester P. Gaskins to R. B. Lee, Trustee, dated the 26th day of August, 1953, and recorded in Book F-27, page 410, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, and by virtue of an Order of Judge Herbert O. Phillips dated January 2, 1973; and under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as substituted trustee by an instrument of writing dated the 1st day of December, 1964, and recorded in Book Q-33, page 250, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured and the said deed of trust being by the terms thereof subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned substituted trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash:

AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR IN GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, AT 12:00 NOON, ON THE 5TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1973.

The land conveyed in said deed of trust, the same lying and being in the City of Greenville, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: That certain lot or parcel of land situated, lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the northeast corner of the intersection of Maple and Sixth Streets, and beginning at the point of intersection of the east property line of Maple Street with the north property line of Sixth Street, running thence with the east property line of Maple Street, North 8 degrees 45 mins. East 140 feet; thence with a picket fence, South 84 degrees, 30 mins. East 93 feet; then South 8 degrees 33 mins. West 140 feet to the north property line of Sixth Street; thence North 84 degrees, 30 mins. West the north property line of Sixth Street, 93.1 feet to the beginning and being the greater part of Lot No. 5 and a part of Lot No. 6 in Block 'B' of the Wilson Acres Subdivision, as shown on Map of Survey made by Roger L. Mann, Jr., Civil Engineer, dated August 18, 1953.

The above property is to be sold subject to all taxes, liens and assessments, if any. The highest bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with said Trustee the sum of Ten Percent (10 per cent) of the amount of his bid to show good faith pending the confirmation by the Court.

'Paper Policemen' Nab Crooks With Computer

MIAMI (AP) — Lochard Gracely and his team of self-styled "paper policemen" catch crooks with a computer code. The code is called GACHA, an acronym for General Appearances of Criminals and their Habits Analyzed. GACHA is part of the Miami Police Department's Criminal Information Center (CIC).

Gracely, the unit's commanding officer, is a 26-year veteran of the force. But, unlike most policemen, he doesn't mind all the paperwork his job entails. "We solve crimes where we've never been on the scene," he said. "We can put together a picture of a criminal we've never seen."

Sgt. Robert Teachout, one of his men, agrees: "We are the paper policemen. But there's more excitement in this one little area than anywhere in the police station."

How does GACHA work? For example, take the gold-tooth file, which was inspired by an 18-year-old girl who got a traffic ticket. The policeman who pulled her over noticed she had a gold front tooth. He remembered that a female robber who had helped hold up four Miami finance companies also had a gold front tooth and was at large.

It turned out to be the same tooth and the same girl, Gracely said, and the CIC staff started thinking seriously about denures. It occurred to one team member that another bandit sported gold teeth with diamond insets; still another group preferred stars. Today the CIC files include an entire catalogue of known criminals, indexed according to types of gold teeth.

POSTAL SATIRE
LONDON (AP) — A London member of Parliament reports that he received an official government letter with House of Commons written on the envelope. Beside the lettering was stamped the postmark: "Visit London Zoo, any time of the year."

One crook got caught because CIC files noted he was left-handed, another because police paperwork kept up with his habit of buying a certain brand of cigarettes.

In police computer talk, GACHA tells the complete story of burglary with the numbers 129-007-042-056-171-161-250-300-337. In sequence, each group of three digits say that a clever but hungry housebreaker robbed an apartment house early one morning but stopped to break into a candy machine in the lobby before taking a slim tool and trying to force the lock on an apartment. The computer code then says he failed, broke in through a door, was careful to avoid leaving fingerprints, was familiar with the surroundings and brazen enough to turn on the television set and raid the refrigerator before leaving.

Teachout says that, someday, the computer may be coming up with probability curves, predicting the times and locations of crimes before they happen.

One such instance already has occurred, Gracely said. Two men were arrested by police last week and charged with robbing a convenience store several days earlier. They were arrested at a similar convenience store after GACHA predicted their next move.

RECEIVES AWARD
BARRIE, Ont. (AP) — A Barrie truck driver was presented with a certificate of merit from the Canada Safety Council and Dunlop of Canada recently. The truck driver deliberately drove his truck into the path of a runaway car, saving the only occupant — a 3-year-old boy — from serious injury.

TV Program On Campaign

The March of Dimes campaign will be the subject of a 30 minute program over television station WNCT-TV on Sunday.

From 3:00 to 3:30 p.m., the special program will focus on information relative to the fight against birth defects and the role played by the annual efforts of persons involved in fund raising for the March of Dimes.

The activity of the Mother's March in Greenville, a three day house to house campaign to be conducted on Friday, Saturday and Sunday by about 250 volunteer mothers, will be discussed.

Two Greenville, Dr. Edgar Douglas, obstetrician, and Dr. Ben Shappley, pediatrician, will be guests on the program, which is to be moderated by Mrs. Kathy Proctor.

A special guest will be Pitt County's March of Dimes mascot, Karen James, who will appear with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George James.

In addition to the appearances of individuals, there will be a showing of two brief films that tell the story of two youngsters who were born with birth defects.

Social Workshop For Two Days

A workshop entitled Sexual Responsibility: "Its Meaning For You" will be conducted at the Moyewood Social Service Center January 17 and again on January 24 beginning at 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. both days.

Films will be shown and group discussions held. The workshop will cover Family Planning and the Prevention of Venereal Disease. There is no registration fee for the workshop.

CIVIL WARRIORS
FRANKLIN, Ohio (UPI) — Confederate raiders made many sorties across the Mason-Dixon line during the Civil War, reaching their northernmost point on the outskirts of Franklin, some 30 miles north of Cincinnati.
