Semipublic Peace Talks Halt; Secret Talks Go On

PARIS (AP) — The semipublic Vietnam peace conference, deadlocked for four years while parallel secret negotiations made headway, was indefinitely suspended today by agreement of the four delegations. There was no immediate explanation for the decision to suspend the conference. But it evidently was linked with progress made in the secret negotiations.

The United States said before today's session broke up that there are "grounds for encouragement" in the search for an end to the Vietnam war.

BULLETIN
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House and Hanoi jointly announced today that top-level Paris peace talks will be resumed Tuesday "for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement."

U.S. delegate Heyward Isham told newsmen at the end of the 174th session: "Both sides in the plenary agreed that liaison officers would meet in order to fix the date of the next meeting. We bid you farewell for the moment and we will let you know in due course."

The secret talks by experts of the United States and North Vietnam continued elsewhere and were not affected by the suspension of the semipublic conference.

The conference opened in January 1968

Growth Records By First Federal Are Reported At Meet

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pitt County, at its 36th annual meeting of members Wednesday night, reported total assets of $38,259,985.70.

Judge Dink James, chairman of the First Federal board, served as chairman for the annual session and C. B. Tugwell, president, presented an annual report to the members.

Tugwell reported that First Federal enjoyed its most outstanding year in 1972, highlighted by the opening of the Greenville Boulevard office and the merger with Security Savings and Loan Association of Farmville which now gives First Federal five offices located in Greenville, Farmville, Ayden, and Grifton.

The association set new records in growth in assets, savings deposits, and mortgage loans, he said.

Tugwell reported that during the year the association paid $1,686,445.14 in dividends to savers which was the largest amount paid to savers in the

Record $5.3 Billion Budget Is Proposed

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's public schools will take a $1.2 billion bite out of the record $5.3 billion state budget proposed by former Gov. Bob Scott and the Advisory Budget Commission for the next two fiscal years. The budget, presented to the General Assembly Wednesday, contains recommendations for tax reductions totaling $190.1 million and appropriations of $154 million to provide salary raises of 5 per cent for teachers and other state employees each year of the biennium. Scott and the budget commission said a $209.8 million surplus and the state's "exceptionally strong financial position" made it possible to recommend the tax reductions. These include repeal of the tobacco, soft drink and privilege license taxes and a 10 per cent refund to individual taxpayers on their state income taxes for 1972.

In a combined legislative-budget message, Gov. Jim Holshouser submitted proposals for $313 million in appropriation increases.

However, his proposals would not increase the proposed state budget since he would utilize the $190.1 million by leaving on the taxes and spending $134.7 million left uncommitted by the budget commission.

The budget calls for a $136.2 million increase in spending for public schools, a $15 hike in mental health appropriations, $1.4 million to accelerate the state's attack on drug abuse, and $184.4 million for capital improvements at state agencies and institutions.

The one-shot income tax refund proposal would cost the state $44 million.

The commission proposed that repeal of the two-cent-per pack tax on cigarettes and the one-cent tax on soft drinks become effective July 1. The cigarette tax change would cost the state $41.5 million during the biennium and the soft drink proposal $40.9 million.

Other recommended tax changes would allow: (1) businesses to credit against their income tax 50 per cent of what they pay on the manufacturer's inventory tax, and (2) taxpayers to credit against their income taxes 50 per cent of their tangible tax payments. The inventory tax proposal would cost $30 million and the other change $30.2 million.

The commission recommended that the privilege license tax be repealed effective July 1, 1975, with a revenue loss of $3.5 million.

In addition to the cash surplus of $209 million, the state will receive $97.5 million in federal revenue sharing funds during the 1973-75 biennium.

It also will receive $68.7 million in federal revenue sharing during the current biennium. The $5.3 billion budget is broken down as follows: general fund appropriations, $2.8 billion; highway fund, $785.9 million; federal funds, $1.1 billion, and other funds, $490 million.

Several legislators have spoken out strongly against the proposed tax reductions, saying the state's unmet needs should be considered before giving any thought to tax relief.

The budget calls for $417.6 million for higher education during the two-year period, an increase of $59.1 million over the current biennium; $8.3 million for expansion of state ports at Wilmington and Morehead City; and $8.9 million to the Department of Correction for new facilities, including more single-cell prison units.

Holshouser Asks More To Schools, Mental Health

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser recommended Wednesday that North Carolina spend $313 million more in the next biennium, especially for education and mental health, than the Advisory Budget Commission called for in its proposed $5.3 billion state budget.

Disregarding bids for tax repeal or uncommitted funds, Holshouser presented his own version of a balanced budget to the General Assembly that would utilize a $209.8 million surplus from the current biennium as well as $134.7 million left uncommitted by the budget commission.

His plans left only $3 million uncommitted during the next biennium. "I've taken a long, hard look at our people's needs and have turned away from the temptation to propose a broad attack upon our tax base," the Republican governor said.

He did, however, call for repeal of the sales tax on medicines. Holshouser, who made such a promise in his campaign, said the repeal would cost the state $8 million in revenue.

Holshouser called for spending of $224 million above the budget commission's recommendation for public education and $14.9 million above the $15 million recommended for mental health.

School proposals submitted by Holshouser called for pay raises of teachers and other state employees of 5 per cent the first year and 10 per cent the second year, full funding of the first phase of statewide public kindergarten to the tune of $21.5 million—$18.5 million above the commission's recommendations, class size reductions and appropriation of $50 million in matching funds for local school districts to construct more schools.

The Holshouser proposal brought huge smiles to A. C. Dawson, executive director of the North Carolina Association of Educators. "We're very pleased," he said. "The governor pretty generally recommended our program."

School Supt. Craig Phillips was more critical, saying Holshouser's proposals "are in conflict with the basic education priorities of the state."

Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, said Holshouser and other Republicans: "They've out-liberalized us."

Holshouser's proposals for mental health included a $5 million package for salary adjustments, mostly for cottage parents and attendants at institutions, and more funds for emotionally disturbed children, pay for working patients and in-service training.

Holshouser also suggested more funds for the correctional system, and called for appropriation of $11 million above the budget commission's recommendation of $40.9 million for changes in higher education.

"I have outlined a bold new program which sweeps across the wide spectrum of state responsibilities," Holshouser said. "It is a balanced budget."

"These programs I have outlined, together with the recommendations of the Advisory Budget Commission, include over $210 million in non-recurring items, giving us a safety valve if there is change in the economy or any reversal as far as the revenue-sharing concept is concerned."

New Sub Base Secret Leaked

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — The Merritt Island National Wildlife Refuge and nearby Mosquito Lagoon is under consideration as a site for a $45 billion Trident nuclear submarine base, Today newspaper reported today.

Quoting information gleaned from a classified document accidentally leaked by an aide to U.S. Rep. Lou Frey, R-Fla., the Cocoa newspaper said the Pentagon is expected to decide within about two months between the Florida site and two other recommended East Coast locations near Charleston, S.C., and St. Marys, Ga.

The newspaper quoted the classified report as saying the base would be the home port for 25 Tridents, America's newest and largest nuclear missile submarine.

The port, Today said, would cover some 7,000 acres, cost $45 billion and employ 10,000 workers.

The newspaper, however, noted that Defense Secretary Melvin Laird recently told a Congressional committee that a Trident port would cost $11.2 billion.

Mosquito Lagoon is a narrow strip of shallow water separated from the Atlantic by a thin sand beach and is a popular fishing area. The lagoon is bordered on the south by the Merritt Island refuge, which is located on land purchased for the Cape Kennedy Space Center.

Today newspaper quoted the classified report as saying construction of a submarine port at the Florida location would require the cutting in an inlet through the dune beach to create a channel from the lagoon to the ocean and extensive dredging to deepen the lagoon for a harbor.

The chief advantage of the Florida site, the newspaper quoted the report as saying, would be the natural security provided by the desolate area.

Today said the Pentagon had been keeping the proposal secret to avoid opposition from environmentalists to the destruction of the wildlife refuge and fishing grounds.

John Wayne No Longer Top Box Office Draw

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The winner and new box-office champion: Clint Eastwood.

The lanky gunslinger turned up No. 1 on the poll of movie moneymakers by the Motion Picture Herald, deposing the longtime king, John Wayne.

Since 1932, the trade paper has been polling theater owners of America for the stars who sell the most tickets.

The 1972 winner was Eastwood, who turned out three winners during the year: "Play Misty for Me" (which he also directed), "Dirty Harry" and "Joe Kidd."

Wayne dropped to the No. 4 position, having had only one film during 1972, "The Cowboys." He holds the alltime record for the number of years on the poll: 23. Runnersup are Gary Cooper with 18 and Clark Gable, 16.

George C. Scott, fifth in 1971 when he appeared in "Patton," climbed to second position on the basis of "Hospital" and "The New Centurions." Third was Gene Hackman, Oscar-winning star of the runaway hit, "The French Connection."

Barbra Streisand followed Wayne as No. 5. Then came Marlon Brando, back on the list for the first time since 1958. The reason, of course, was "The Godfather."

No. 7 was Paul Newman, who has been in the top 10 every year since 1963 and placed first in 1969 and 1970. He was followed by Steve McQueen, 8; Dustin Hoffman, 9; Goldie Hawn, 10.

In his office at Universal Studio, winner Eastwood commented, "I appreciate the award because I know that exhibitors get a better reading of the audience than anyone else. I just hope I can keep on bringing 'em in."

Gene Hackman and Goldie Hawn were the only newcomers to the list.

Explosion Of Fertilizer Is Felt 44 Miles Away

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A warehouse filled with 15,000 tons of fertilizer exploded after a fire Wednesday night, touching off major fires at two other plants in an industrial area four miles southeast of here.

Police said six persons were injured. Only two remained hospitalized today. The blast damaged but did not puncture four large tanks near a Cherokee Nitrogen Co. warehouse which contained a highly explosive liquid nitrogen substance. Fire also damaged two gypsum plants in the 9,000-acre Mid-America Industrial District.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol estimated damage at Cherokee Nitrogen between $12 and $15 million.

The explosion was felt 44 miles to the southwest in Tulsa, and it blew out many windows in downtown Pryor.

Police said firemen called to fight a blaze of undetermined origin at the Cherokee Nitrogen warehouse found the structure engulfed in flames. The eight employees had evacuated the building, which contained ammonium nitrate fertilizer.

"I saw that it was out of control and we started backing off," said Mayes County Deputy Sheriff Jack Nation, who had arrived with the firemen. "Then it blew. I was less than a block away and we were knocked to the ground but not hurt."

Officials said flaming material carried one-quarter of a mile on a strong southerly wind touched off fires at plants operated by the National Gypsum Co. and the Gypsum Division of the Georgia-Pacific Corp.

A spokesman for National Gypsum said damage to its plant could run as high as $1 million. Gypsum Division officials declined to comment on the damage at their facility.

Guests Are Welcome, Their Pets Aren't

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how to handle the problem of guests who bring their unwelcome pets when they visit.

My sister and her husband have two obnoxious poodles. They are not trained and are a menace to my children and household furnishings.

I once jokingly hinted, "I can tie our children outside if they get on your dogs' nerves." [No reaction.] These dogs have growled and snapped at our children without provocation, and our little ones are terrified of them.

On their last visit, one of the dogs lifted his leg on my collection of African violets and all my sister said was, "Whoops, Curley had an accident!" [It was no accident. It was deliberate.]

I like animals, Abby, and am not cruel to them, but these poodles are more than I can take.

I love my sister and wouldn't want her to discontinue her visits to me entirely, but how can I handle this?

DOG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Quit hinting and joking, and tell your sister you love her, and her visits, but not her dogs! But be sure to place the blame where it belongs. Ill-mannered and untrained pets are a reflection of their ignorant, lazy owners.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother is suing his parents! How about that one?

Joe claims his parents owe him $3,000. It seems when Joe was in the service he kept sending home war bonds. Well, after Joe came out of the service the folks gave him money left and right whenever he asked for it, but they had to cash the bonds to do it, so now there are no more bonds left. Joe claims his parents OWE him the money. And the folks say they don't.

What I want to know is this: Can a guy sue his own parents?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Anybody can sue whomever he wants to sue. Whether he can WIN or not is anybody's guess—until after the case is settled.

DEAR ABBY: Because I know I speak for many women, I hope you will print this open letter to my husband.

Dear Joe [fictitious name]: You have on occasion criticized me for the way I look, and how different things are from our early years together. Well, I guess you're right. I've heard your side of the story, now here's mine:

When we were courting, you couldn't see me enough. This continued thru our honeymoon and the early months of our marriage. You really made me feel on top of the world. I knew my place in your life. But when the newness wore off, I got shoved further and further into the background. You started going places with your buddies again. Your ego and your job became more important to you than your home and family.

Maybe my figure isn't what it used to be. But pregnancies and childbirth can do that to a woman. [You've gained weight, too. What's your excuse?]

I spend four and five days and nights alone with the kids, being both mother and father to them. If you're home for supper two nights a week you think you deserve a medal. You DO support us, but the paycheck is not enough. We need your presence, too. How long do you intend to ignore the warning signals our older children have given us by the way of the distress they feel over the family being separated so much? It's high time you realize that our kids need a father, too.

So if I eat more than I should, it's only because I am so unhappy over our life and your refusal to take an active part in it.

YOUR PART-TIME WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I'm betting I get at least 100 letters asking, "Did my wife write that?"

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Dr. Isa Grant Gives AAUW Program Monday

Dr. Isa Grant discussed the medical, legal and ethical aspects of abortion in North Carolina at the Monday evening meeting of the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Grant, a pediatrician living in Raleigh and employed by the North Carolina Department of Public Health, was assisted by her sister, Dr. Malene Irons.

Dr. Grant stated that North Carolina was one of the first states to liberalize its abortion laws. The present abortion requirements, established in 1971, are one month's residence in the state, the signature of two doctors and performance of the abortion in an appropriate hospital.

The newly established North Carolina Genetics Clinic at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill could provide valuable counseling to individuals considering abortion on the grounds of possible hereditary defects, she said.

Areas she stressed needing immediate attention were family life education, sex and contraceptive education and available counseling for those who have had abortions.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. W. B. Gray, who welcomed as guests Judy Hall, Susan Thomas, Helen White, Myrtle Gray Bilbro, Clell Moore and Valerie Pfeiffer.

Hostesses were Miss Nancy W. Lewis, Miss Velma Lowe, Mrs. Hugh Patterson and Mrs. Gray.

Everything Points To Accord

Will a settlement come soon in the long and agonizing Vietnam War?

It certainly appears so at this writing and it is our feeling that there will, indeed, soon be a document signed which will end the war and return the prisoners of war.

The White House, of course, is saying little about a settlement at this stage. No doubt the president recalls past disappointments, including the now famous 'peace is at hand' statement of last October. Still everything points to great progress in this latest round of talks. Bombing of the north has been halted by the president because of the way things are going. Even the North Vietnam delegates cite progress in the talks.

The Associated Press reported that the bombing halt will be followed up by a cease-fire to be declared unilaterally by the United States and South Vietnam on Friday—the day before President Nixon's inauguration. If this occurs it will be an almost sure sign that some agreement has been made which can be signed by U.S. and North Vietnam leaders.

Of course, at this point there is no way of telling what a project peace treaty contains and, therefore it is not easy to speculate on how lasting a peace it will bring in Southeast Asia.

Regardless of how many safeguards the document includes, however, there is always the possibility of renewed warfare in that part of the world.

There are signs that the people of both North and South Vietnam are war weary after so many years of fighting and so much suffering and damage. If the people are tired enough of war then their leaders will make a real effort to make peace work. This will be our greatest hope for lasting peace in Southeast Asia.

Unity Is Theme Of YDC Event

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The face of party unity will be modeled in Raleigh this weekend for the first big post-election gathering of Tar Heel Democrats.

The installation banquet for state Young Democratic Club officers on Saturday (Jan. 20) will provide the occasion to bring together a crowd of loyal party members, expected to reach 500 or so.

A roster of leaders, headlined by venerable Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., will exhort the faithful to forget past divisions and defeats and face the future.

to Holshouser, would be able to attend.

Line-Up of Party Leaders
In addition to Sen. Ervin, the banquet has a line-up of speakers representing a spectrum of Democratic leadership. They included Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, House Speaker Jim Ramsey, Mayor Howard Lee of Chapel Hill, and Pat Taylor of Wadesboro, former lieutenant governor and the loser to Bowles in the primary for the gubernatorial nomination.

The party has no scarcity of those capable of giving it leadership, Barringer said. "I look for Bowles to take an active role in party affairs, and I hope he will," the YDC President commented.

The YDC officers for 1973 to be installed at the banquet, in addition to Barringer, include Priscilla Hartle of Forsyth, National Committeewoman; Freida Ross, Guilford, First Vice President; David Post, Rowan, Treasurer; and Barbara Wall, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Secretary.

Barringer said he has named National Committeewoman Hartle and Pat Butler, past president of the Mecklenburg YDC, to serve as co-chairmen for the party study committee.

Study to Give In-Put

The committee will decide whether to hold hearings among YDC chapters across the state in going about its work, Barringer said. Its findings and recommendations will be made available to the senior party, he added.

State Party Chairman Jim Sugg has indicated he is receptive to in-put for strengthening the party, he observed.

What role party organization can play in the face of the tendency of voters to split the ticket is one of the puzzling questions to be faced, Barringer said.

"It's popular to say you vote for the man rather than the party. We have to get across that when you vote on an executive position, such as governor or president, you don't elect just a man but a whole administration," he said.

The plan of organization, with features to assure participation by youth, women and blacks, came in for criticism in the 1972 election year, Barringer acknowledged. Some regarded it as a "quota system."

"I think it caught some of the old pros off guard. They didn't know how to work with it. I don't think of it as 'quotas,' but if there are changes which should be made, we certainly ought to look at them," he said.

Track Development Is Good Move By Board

The Greenville School Board has made a good move in approving an appropriation of $14,000 for paving the quarter mile dirt track at Aycock Junior High and installing a protective fence along Greenville Boulevard.

The track improvements are needed to develop adequate athletic facilities at the school and the fence is desirable as a safety factor in protecting the school grounds along the busy thoroughfare.

Would Change ABC System

By JOHN KILGO

One former member of the State ABC Board says, in his opinion, some "drastic changes" are needed in the state system.

"I think changes are needed from top to bottom," Charlotte attorney Harold Edwards told me in an interview.

Edwards, along with fellow Democrats Charles Cahoon and Lawrence (Buddy) Rose, have been replaced by three Republicans, appointed by Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Edwards, who was appointed to the State ABC Board by Gov. Bob Scott and served for three years, says the number of listings, or the number of products made available to State ABC Boards, ought to be "drastically reduced."

"I think we have 400 to 500 listings now," Edwards said. "That ought to be cut back to where every ABC store in North Carolina could carry every brand approved by the State Board."

At the present time, local ABC Boards decide what brands will be sold in their counties or municipalities.

Don't mistake what I'm saying," Edwards said. "I'm not saying there's any graft. But if all ABC stores stocked all listings approved by the State Board, it would certainly remove the temptations from people who serve at the local level."

Edwards said the pressure applied to State ABC Board members is "subtle, the wining and dining kind. I didn't resent it, because I recognized it for what it was and treated it as such."

Edwards says in his three years on the Board he often heard someone say, "The Governor wants this, the Governor wants that."

"I went to see the Governor," Edwards said, "to ask him about this. He told me he didn't want anything. He just wanted me to do a good job. Bob Scott is a good, up-standing man."

State ABC Board members are appointed by the Governor, to serve at his pleasure.

"I don't know any better way to make the appointments," Edwards said. "If you get a crook on the Board, you certainly want to be able to get him off."

Edwards would also like to see changes made in the way hearings are held for the granting, suspension and revocation of beer and wine licenses. He recommends that the hearing take place before two or more hearing officers, and when prosecution is necessary, that it be handled by a member of the Attorney General's office.

Edwards said the State ABC Board is political in its nature, and people recognize this.

"It was a hectic three years," Edwards said of his ABC Board tenure. "The job consumes a good third of your time. It's hard to win if you do a good job."

Edwards also says meetings of the State ABC Board don't get enough attention.

"Many times we'd meet at an announced time and we'd be sitting in the room by ourselves making decisions,"

Rights For The Victim?

WASHINGTON — This past Monday saw the release of another of those great, thick reports that slide off the federal government like a ton of snow off a wet tin roof. This was the report of the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals. It is too much of a muckness.

The report is divided into four parts. All told, these add up to 611 finely printed pages. If the parts had been released separately, a few weeks apart, perhaps each of them might have drawn a useful measure of public attention and comment. Offered as a single indigestible chunk, the report can only be nibbled at.

I nibbled at the 236-page section dealing with corrections. The section contains much that is constructive and sane, but the tone and approach left me cold. This part of the report was the work of a 20-member task force that included three professors, half a dozen bureaucrats, and other experts on penal reform. Their labors might have been greatly improved if the task force had included John Doe, victim of mugging, and Jane Doe, victim of rape.

In the whole of this gauzy section, one would be hard-put to find a dozen paragraphs that even hit at the nature of violent crime. The emphasis is wholly upon the offender: his rights, his needs, his comforts. The authorities acknowledge that — sigh! — there may be a few violent and dangerous persons who must be kept incarcerated for a time, but as for the rest? The general idea is to treat the poor darlings with sweetness and light.

The concept that crime should be punished is a concept disdained by these authors. Punishment, as such, is the last thing on their minds. In their dream world, the offender — say, a burglar or car thief — would be released upon arrest, on his own promise to show up for trial. Found guilty, he would ideally be put on probation. At the very worst, he would be sentenced to not more than five years in prison.

This offender — the authors do not regard him as a criminal, and they never, never speak of him as a convict — would begin serving his time in a new and comfortable institution located close to his family and friends. He would have a room of his own, not smaller than 8 by 10 feet, heated in winter, air-conditioned in summer. He would be encouraged to decorate the room to express his own personality.

Our typical offender would be well-fed, of course, and provided with abundant opportunities for recreation. He would be permitted to wear his own clothes. He would be offered excellent

How long should your sofas and stuffed chairs last? A national survey indicated that most American families believe such furniture needs to be replaced about every 7 to 10 years. My mother once kept a sofa for 30 years, however, having it redone from time to time, and some of the children protested when she finally got rid of it.

President Wright made a strong talk yesterday to stimulate the students at East Carolina Teachers College to think about the problems that affect democracy in the form of government. He briefly reviewed the tendencies in government today from Washington to Greenville, throwing out the idea that there is danger of citizens shifting personal responsibility in the local government.

President-Elect Roosevelt's assurance that his administration will adhere to the principals of the sanctity of treaties, will not alter Japan's six policies in Manchuria, a government spokesman said today. China, however, received the Roosevelt message with a great satisfaction as approval of the Hoover policy in the Far East.

Restructuring Is Taking Time

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The restructuring of the securities markets, known in advance to be a difficult assignment, is taking longer than was anticipated. Big knots still exist, and a lot of parties are pulling hard on the rope.

Agreement on one of the most important steps, the creation of a composite tape that would report transactions in listed securities wherever they occurred, rather than on just a single exchange, has been delayed at least a month.

The original deadline for agreement was Dec. 26, with implementation to follow sometime late in 1973. When that deadline was missed, the Securities and Exchange Commission extended the time limit to Jan. 26.

One of the more obvious disagreements, whether or not to admit institutional members, appears to be a step nearer resolution following an SEC order this week. But that order conceivably could be challenged in the courts.

And while such differences and difficulties exist, the exact nature of the future marketplace — that is, how the various exchanges will relate to each other — remains a nebulous concept.

The exchanges know that they will be required to work more closely in order to serve the public better. But neither they nor the SEC nor anyone else can say just how tight the relationship will be.

And so, while seeking ways in which they can cooperate, each exchange also feels compelled to remain wary of the other in order to retain whatever separate identity is permitted in the new order.

An indication of the problems is provided by the issue of institutions.

An institution is an organization controlling immense amounts of stock. Among them are mutual funds, pension funds and insurance companies, which collectively own hundreds of billions of dollars in shares. Understandably, they are acutely conscious of the big commissions they pay on their transactions, and some of them therefore have attempted to join exchanges, handle their own transactions, and thus avert commissions.

In making this attempt, though, they have set off a brouhaha that involves so many points of view that a Solomon wouldn't have been able to satisfy everyone. Not when big money is involved.

To admit institutions, say the brokers, will be to deny us commissions. To admit them, says the New York Stock Exchange, will be to destroy liquidity. To admit them, says the little guy, will be to crush me.

But there are opposing points of view. To deny us admittance, say the institutions, is to penalize our members and owners. To deny admittance, says the Justice Department, might be to violate the laws of the land.

Now the SEC has ruled that institutions can be exchange members, but only if at least 80 per cent of their securities business is transacted with the public, rather than for their own accounts.

And so, in simpler times, this might have ended the matter. But not today, when the industry is supposed to be struggling toward that foggy vision off on the horizon, the one, great central marketplace.

Until the vision is close to reality, you may continue to expect a lot of maneuvering, as each element of the future marketplace seeks to better its position. The Justice Department might challenge the decision in the name of the public and free trade. And some institutions might sue also.

Strength For Today

THE POWER OF PRAYER

Our doctrine of prayer is never complete unless it includes belief in intercessory prayer—that is, prayer of others. As the Apostle Peter lay in prison his friends were earnestly praying in his behalf. Peter, bound with chains, slept in prison between two soldiers. He was to be executed in the morning but an angel of the Lord intervened at this point. A light shone in the prison. An angel, or messenger, of the Lord smote the reclining Peter on the side, raised him up and bade him make haste to escape. The prisoner's chains fell off. They left the prison and the angel "came unto the iron gate which leadeth into the city." This opened of its own accord, "and they went out, and passed out through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him."

The iron gate opened of its own accord. Here we see the hand of God doing for us what we cannot do for ourselves. We encounter iron doors frequently as we traverse life's pathways. Some of these we can open ourselves. Most of them, however, depend upon the strong hand of God. Thus we pass out of bandage into freedom, out of darkness and into light.

The power of prayer is very real whether we are praying for ourselves or for others. We may pray for some friend or loved one at the ends of the earth and the result may be as helpful and startling as if we extended a hand of helpfulness. Distance makes no difference with God.

Prayer is one of the most powerful forces in the world and we are wise indeed if we avail ourselves of its power.

Mrs. Corbitt Is Service League Speaker Monday

Beginning another year of community service to Greenville and Pitt County, the Greenville Service League opened its New Year with a program Monday by Mrs. W. S. Corbitt, who is a sustaining member of the league.

Mrs. Corbitt reminded members that the month of January was named after the ancient god, Janus, who had two faces — one looking backward and one looking forward.

During the Christmas season, members of the league contributed over 20 baskets to the needy and answered seven calls for emergency funds. Members also contributed 37 gifts and contributions to Operation Santa Claus.

Numerous hours were reported by members who assembled and distributed the gifts. Other members prepared tray favors for Pitt Memorial Hospital and decorated the hospital Christmas tree. A Christmas decorating contest was held in the various wards.

The Bloodmobile paid a visit to the DuPont Plant on Dec. 14 at which time 21 volunteers gave 159 hours to help the Red Cross collect 260 pints of blood. The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be on Feb. 13 at the Moose Lodge from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

During the past month, the Lending Chest answered calls for two wheelchairs and one bed rest. A contribution of a commode and a walker was made by Mrs. Pauline Cox to the Lending Chest.

A First Aid course will be offered in the next few weeks for interested members. The course will be taught by John Watson of the Pitt Hospital Ambulance staff. There are a few openings for ladies who are not Service League members and interested persons may contact Mrs. F. F. Hendrix.

She Likes France For Raising Children

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

France is a great place for raising children "because it is 40 years behind the times," in the opinion of actress Olivia de Havilland, who lives in Paris. Her children are Benjamin Goodrich, 23, and Gisele Galante, 16.

"A lot of people have the erroneous impression that the French are very sophisticated, but they aren't really... In fact French boys are terrified of English girls. When they are sent off to England to learn a language they are warned the girls are very precocious. At 16 my son was telling me how fast the English girls were, and he has been leery even of having his English cousins visit him when I am not around."

One French mother was appalled that her son, who had lived with an English family while attending school, "became involved." She sadly told Miss de Havilland "it has happened."

Though they are behind "in the ways" of American children, they are more fluent in languages — some study Latin and Greek for seven years. In fact schooling keeps French children so busy they have time for little else.

"Learning is the child's profession" in the opinion of Miss de Havilland, who is in favor of the heavy emphasis on school. Gisele began school at 4½ years, and is at school six days every week at 8:10 a.m. and doesn't return home until 5:30 p.m. — with lots of homework. On Thursdays and Saturdays she has half-day school holidays and might go horseback riding. But, she might study. Their examinations are rugged and the final one, at the end of the 12th year "is horrendous."

"But at the end of that time many children are so well educated, they need no more schooling," she commented.

Gisele may be "too young in spirit" even at 18 to cope with American life and its schools, she observed. "She has never been anywhere, not even a movie, with a boy."

But this summer she will take her on an educational tour of America, retracing its early development, beginning at Jamestown and going on to visit Plymouth Rock, Sturbridge, Washington and Philadelphia before going West.

Benjamin is still studying — advanced math and physics — at the Faculte des Sciences and plans to aim for a "high degree" in America when he has received one in France. But like many American mothers, Miss de Havilland says she doesn't know what her son is up to.

"I suspect he has made up his mind what sort of career he wants, but he doesn't find it necessary to tell his mother," she observed. "However — French children do not usually treat their parents casually..."

She cannot guess how long French children will maintain their lack of sophistication because "more French youths are being affected by traveling American youths." American youth with its mode of dress, music and the type of cigarette smoked is leaving its stamp all over Europe, she says. But French youths have a long way to go to catch up.

Benjamin was born in America and has lived in France since he was 4, but he is extremely American-minded and subscribes to two American news weeklies. In fact he was so involved abroad in the recent American elections, she says, that when President Nixon was reelected, "I sent a wire of congratulations to Benjamin."

The two-time academy award winner, now 56, has the same gracious manner and soft expression remembered by her earliest fans. She lives in a narrow "doll's house" with a few rooms on each floor and a garden in back. Much of the time now Gisele lives across the street with her father, Pierre Galante, magazine editor, from whom Miss de Havilland says she has been separated 10 years. Gisele had to be uprooted so often, it seemed a good arrangement "to billet her there," she explains. But mother and daughter spend much time together.

Gisele likes to cook. Most French girls enjoy the woman's role in the home. It may be because Maitresse de Maison (mistress of the house) is such a nice sounding respectful title, one deserved by women, observes Miss de Havilland, because they are really "chief administrators of complex organizations — their homes."

She makes a big job of being mistress of her home, she says, and thinks "the Lib people in America could work at wiping out the word housewife," and its lack-lustre meaning.

"Running a house is an art and a science if it is done well, and more women would enjoy it if they looked at it that way. A new title would help."

Ribbon-Cutting Opens New Mazda Dealership

Ribbon cutting ceremonies marking the beginning of a three-day grand opening observance took place this morning at Mazda of Greenville on Evans Street Extension.

Mayor Pro Tem Percy Cox was on hand to cut the ribbon at 9 a.m. as the new Greenville franchise officially opened for business.

According to Joe Pecheles president of the new franchise, the grand opening celebration will continue through Saturday evening.

Mazda of Greenville, the franchise dealer for Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Edgecombe and Nash Counties, will carry the new line of Mazda cars and trucks, Pecheles continued, featuring the revolutionary rotary engine.

He pointed out that the sales and service center will be located in a newly constructed brick and masonry building that offers some 7,000 square feet of space. Included in the building is a modern, fully carpeted showroom, he added, as well as a large, fully equipped service area.

Exterior features of the location include a new car and truck display area designed to handle the full stock of Mazda vehicles.

Personnel at Mazda of Greenville have been specially trained at the Jacksonville, Fla. district headquarters of Mazda to service the Japanese import, Pecheles reported.

He said that the dealership currently has about 60 Mazda cars and trucks on hand.

Pecheles said that a cutaway model of the rotary engine will be on display during the grand opening in order to offer customers and other visitors a first hand look at the smaller, lighter power plant. The model was shipped from Jacksonville, he noted.

Mazda offers the first rotary engine in the United States, Pecheles pointed out, noting that Mazda of Greenville handles cars equipped with the rotary engine as well as the complete line of non-rotary coupes, two and four-door sedans and station wagons. Non-rotary models are powered by Mazda's reciprocating engines, he said.

In addition to Pecheles as president, J. Dana Pecheles is vice president. All Jones serves as sales manager while Steve Shuping is sales representative and Mrs. Iris Potter is bookkeeper. Curtis Mills is the service and parts manager and Joe Daniels serves as mechanic. Pecheles said that other Mazda dealerships are located in the eastern part of the state at Havelock, Goldsboro and Jacksonville.

Edwards said. "There was no one there to ask us questions. The press seldom covered our meetings and the press needs very much to keep the spotlight on boards like this."

Another former member, Buddy Rose of Wilmington, was appointed to the State ABC Board by Gov. Dan Moore and served for seven and a half years.

Like Edwards, Rose says he thinks local ABC stores should carry all brands approved by the State Board, "whenever possible."

"Some small stores might not have the facilities to do this," Rose said, "but the big cities shouldn't have any problems at all."

"I think we have too many approved listings," Rose said. "We can take these off if they're not selling in stores. But maybe the guidelines should be made even tighter to reduce the approved list."

Rose is also not in favor of the local ABC Boards deciding what whiskey could be sold in their stores.

"I don't know of any case where it ever happened," Rose told me, "but a local board could have ill feelings toward a person representing a distillery and not sell his product. Then the consumer would not be able to get what he wanted."

Rose said he didn't want to be critical, but he said he feels that he and Edwards were sometimes not involved in day-to-day activities that were handled by Chairman Calhoun.

"I'm not being critical of Charles Cahoon," Rose said, "but I don't think the communication between the chairman and the other two board members was all that it could have been."

I asked Rose if he was put under pressure to approve certain whisky products for North Carolina ABC stores.

"Pressure is the wrong word to use," Rose said. "Salesmen representing distilleries used persuasive powers to get a listing that they wanted, but all salesmen do this. I didn't feel under pressure."

Rose said he "enjoyed very much my term on the State ABC Board, and might like to do it again some day."

The new chairman of the State ABC Board is Dr. Leslie C. Holshouser of Rockwell, and the two other members are Charlotte attorney Marcus Hickman and George T. Coxhead of Chapel Hill.

Full-Time DST Chances Better

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional boosters of a plan to extend Daylight Saving Time to a year-round basis say their chances are better than ever because of increasing crime and the nation's fuel shortage.

The extra hour of daylight on winter afternoons would hamper purse snatchers and muggers who prey on late-afternoon pedestrians and it would reduce the use of electric lights in office buildings, they say.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., planned to introduce in the House today a bill to extend DST from its present six-months-a-year status to a full-time basis. DST is in operation in virtually all the states from the last Sunday of April to the last Sunday of October.

Hosmer's office said 31 other House members had agreed to sponsor the legislation as of Wednesday night. The bill that died in the last Congress had 14 sponsors.

One of the most important names on the bill is that of Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee that must first consider the bill.

"I've been sponsoring this bill for several years in the hope that sooner or later it would come," Hosmer said in a statement Wednesday. "This year may be it."

Moss, who was cool toward similar legislation in the past, said the fuel shortage is the primary reason he has decided to back the measure this year. "I think at a time when we are admittedly faced with an energy crisis it makes very good sense to have year-round Daylight Saving Time," Moss said.

Moss explained that under Daylight Saving Time big office buildings, for example, could take advantage of sunlight until later in the day and thus save on electricity.

Hosmer stressed what he thinks extension of DST would do to the crime rate.

"We want to get the people home from work before the twilight hours, which are the worst crime hours," Hosmer said.

Males Respond To New Modes

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) —The new vogue of colorful male attire can be attributed to masculine response to women's liberation attitudes, changing sex roles and the social emphasis on youth, says a Michigan State University researcher.

One chapter, running to 50 pages, deals with the offender's rights. Except, perhaps, for the right to keep and bear arms, the offender would have every civil right known to man: free speech, peaceable assembly, protection against unreasonable search of his room and his mail. He would have continuing rights to counsel and to due process of law if he had a grievance against the institution. In this happy place, a warden, seeking to maintain discipline, would himself be constantly on trail.

The authors, in brief, reject not only the idea of punishment; except in rare cases, they reject the idea of imprisonment also. In their obsession with rehabilitation, they are utterly insensitive to the public's elementary demand that criminals be kept from committing crime. Rehabilitation is a splendid goal; everyone favors it; but it is not the only goal: Punishment, deterrence, retribution, and simple incapacitation also are splendid goals.

SAIGON (AP) — Girls in snack bars wear Rolling Stones T-shirts. A slender young man speaks English like a Pentagon memo. A middle-aged woman drives a bulldozer. A rice farmer watches cowboy movies on television.

All this and more since the Americans came. It has been a blitz. One year there were 16,000 Americans. Four years later, there were more than half a million — 10 times as many as the French colonialists ever numbered. The Americans paid a week's wages for a taxi ride, built an airport in two weeks and blasted an acre of jungle into compost on the chance of killing one Viet Cong. A Vietnamese could make a fortune just picking up after them.

"With the French, it was an infiltration system," says a Vietnamese professor, "with the Americans, a shock treatment." Most of the Americans have gone, but South Vietnam still is reeling. A society that was once simple and orderly has grown new classes and new appetites. The U.S. military needed people to wash clothes and lug boxes, so it hired them. U.S. agencies and contractors needed people to type, lay bricks, cook and fix air conditioners, so they trained them. The Americans needed Vietnamese experts for "nation building," so they sent them to school.

To keep inflation down and morale up, television sets, wrist watches and a million motorbikes were imported to sop up the incoming dollars. English has supplanted French as the most popular foreign language in secondary schools. Employment of Vietnamese in the "U.S. sector" peaked at more than 160,000 in 1969. The average employe of the Americans earned two to four times the average income, creating pockets of affluence.

The Sears Roebuck "wish book" is popular reading in magazine stalls. Vietnamese officers' jeeps become family cars by night. Civil servants rely on graft and military men on black marketeering to provide luxuries. No government program has succeeded in stopping them.

The war displaced an estimated seven million South Vietnamese at one time or another and started a great migration to the cities. Officials hoped that, when peace came, the uprooted would drift back to the land, but they have changed their minds.

Nguyen Van Anh, vice minister of national planning and development, foresees an even greater influx into the cities as South Vietnam's million-man armed forces are demobilized.

It is not all bad, says Anh, because, "by bringing people into the army, we have given them a glimpse of the world outside their villages and we have opened their minds. Without the war, this process might have taken most of a century."

The war also has had an incalculable impact on the Vietnamese family. Children have grown up with fathers gone. Working wives frequently earn more than soldier husbands. Before the war, less than one-fourth of the university students were women, but now the percentage of coeds is well over one-third.

The draft and the high cost of setting up housekeeping caused registered marriages in Saigon to drop although the city was growing. The nuptial age rose by four years for both sexes, and the latest statistics show women initiated 960 of 1,140 divorces. Hundreds of women have paid a month's salary or more for cosmetic surgeons to sew Caucasian-style folds into their eyelids or make their noses thinner and straighter.

Much recent Vietnamese architecture shows no relationship to tradition. New homes are ornamented with cement parabolas or triangles, and there is no trace of French or Chinese discipline. "Experimentation?" a Vietnamese homeowner was asked. "Dislocation," he answered.

American music is popular among Vietnamese teenagers, but it is not theirs. A person with every reason to sing the blues can't get the hang of the sound made by black Americans.

"The most significant of our shortcomings," an American official wrote recently, "has been that we have failed to provide a dream ... At no time have we attempted to tell the people what is at the end of the rainbow. What is the great aspiration which can make their suffering tolerable and their sacrifices worthwhile?"

Don't the Vietnamese already have a dream of their own? Yes, say many Vietnamese. When asked to describe it, they talk simply of prosperity and peace.

At this point, many Vietnamese seem not quite sure what they are and what they want to be.

And it is peace that may put Vietnam's culture to its toughest test yet.

"The war has opened the people's minds, but it has had bad effects on young people," says Vice Minister Anh of the national planning ministry. "Live and love and die — that is their slogan. They don't want to think about building the future. They just want to live before they die."

Bowen is currently a state director of the N.C. Association of Realtors and is a past president of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors.

The course is approved by the North Carolina Real Estate Licensing Board. Students who satisfactorily complete it may take the brokerage examination without the requirement of six months' experience in real estate transactions.

COLLEGE TRAFFIC COURT
LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — McNeese State University has established a traffic court to hear appeals of students and others cited for campus parking violations. The court's judges are selected one each from the faculty, administrative staff and students.

Required To Be Licensed

All dealers who sell pesticides on the restricted use list or persons who do custom application of chemicals for a fee must be licensed by the end of this month.

According to the North Carolina Pesticide Law of 1971 the above persons should be licensed by January, 1973.

According to Henry C. Riddick, associate agricultural extension agent for Pitt County, there are still several dealers in the county who have not received information about the regulations and have not obtained their licenses.

A person does not have to have a license for applying chemicals on his own farm.

The law requires a license for persons who plan to custom apply (for a fee) fertilizer plus weed control on corn, sucker control on tobacco, or any other pesticide to any crop.

The term 'pesticide' includes all insecticides, herbicides, nematocides or growth regulators.

Application forms or further information may be obtained from the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service.

ECU Collection Adds A Painting By Gerardi

Forest Night II, an abstract painting by Helen Gerardia of New York city, has been added to the permanent collection of art at the School of Art at East Carolina University.

Vice-Chancellor Dr. Robert Holt, who accepted the painting on Monday in the absence of Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins, said "I am most happy to accept this gift on behalf of East Carolina University and the School of Art. It is an important addition to the growing collection of the university."

Dean of School of Art, Dr.

Wellington Gray, said the painting "is a donation from Mr. Samuel Goldberg of New York City." Dr. Gray mentioned also that the collection of art of the university was in several categories, "with some very good items represented in the collection."

Helen Gerardia, who has a one-artist show at East Carolina several years ago, is the winner of a large number of important awards and prizes. She is represented in about 90 museum, gallery, university and college collections including the Fogg Museum at Harvard University, the Cincinnati Museum, Dartmouth University, the Greenville, S.C. Museum of Art.

Her work has been exhibited throughout the U.S. and in France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Greece, Japan, Mexico, Hawaii, India and other countries.

Tran Gordley, Associate Dean of the School and Art and head of the ECU

Any work of art offered for the university collection is subject to the decision of the Acquisitions Committee.

Forest Night II is an abstract, painted in clearly defined areas of black, white, gray and ochre.

Waiting Time Is Part Of Term

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that all prisoners are entitled to credit on their sentences for time spent awaiting trial. It said an attempt by the North Carolina legislature to limit such credit to persons tried after June 19, 1971, is "palpably unconstitutional."

The ruling was in the case of Donald J. Ham, who is in a prison unit at Statesville, N.C., completing a sentence of 20 to 25 years for second-degree murder.

Mental Hospitals Failed 'Test'

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer
STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Who's sane? Who's insane?

The psychiatrists and staffs of mental hospitals cannot be trusted to tell the difference, declares Prof. David L. Rosenhan, a Stanford University psychologist.

Rosenhan says he and seven other sane investigators arranged as a test to be admitted as schizophrenic patients in 12 different mental hospitals, yet none of the eight was found to be sane by hospital professionals.

But Rosenhan says it was "quite common" for actual psychiatric patients to correctly identify the "pseudopatient" imposters.

"The fact that patients often recognized normality when staff did not raised important questions," Rosenhan observes. Rosenhan reports on the findings of the study in an article in the Jan. 19 issue of Science magazine.

Rosenhan said he and his seven colleagues eventually were released as "schizophrenics in remission," despite their best efforts to convince the hospital staff of their sanity.

"We now know that we cannot distinguish insanity from sanity," Rosenhan declared.

"We continue to label patients 'schizophrenic,' manic-depressive,' and 'insane' as if in those words we had captured the essence of understanding," he wrote.

"The facts of the matter are that we have known for a long time that our diagnoses often are not useful or reliable, but we have nevertheless continued to use them."

Rosenhan, who also teaches law at Stanford, said he and the other pseudopatients were shocked and horrified by their experiences.

But, he said, they did not blame the hospital staffs.

"By and large, they were well-intentioned people, and in no way do we want to malign them," he said.

"The hospital itself imposes a special environment in which the meanings of behavior can easily be misunderstood."

Rosenhan said the pseudopatient group included a psychiatrist, a pediatrician, a painter, a housewife, a Stanford psychology graduate student and three other psychologists.

He said they gained admission to hospitals in California, Oregon, Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware by feigning symptoms of schizophrenia.

"The uniform failure to recognize sanity cannot be attributed to the quality of treatment facilities. While there was considerable variability between them, several are considered excellent," Rosenhan reported.

"Nor can it be alleged that there simply was not enough time to observe the pseudopatients. Length of hospitalization ranged from seven to 52 days, with an average of 19 days."

"All pseudopatients took extensive notes publicly. Under ordinary circumstances such behavior would have raised questions in the minds of observers, as in fact it did among patients.

"Nursing records for three pseudopatients indicate that the writing was seen as an aspect of their pathological behavior."

Says System Will Collapse

GREENSBORO (AP) — Dr. Paul E. Lutz, a leader in the 1972 United Nations conference on the environment held at Stockholm, says the total world-system will collapse in 125 years or so without a stringent controls over population and production.

Lutz, a biology professor, cited figures Wednesday which included a 5,300 per cent increase in production of nonreturnable soft drink bottles since 1946.

The global system is "clearly overshooting its limits," the professor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (UNC-G) told the Chancellor's Conference at that school. He said more government controls are needed because, "In our mad rush to have the good life we are on the verge of possibly committing a suicide of overabundance."

rated and had to be removed.

"No life expectancy has ever been established for kidney transplant patients," Mrs. Bussell said. "But I know of one case in Paris, France, where a boy received a kidney from his identical twin 22 years ago and he's still alive—so I guess there is hope."

Kidney-Reject Haunts Mother

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—From her actions as she roams around Vanderbilt Hospital's pediatrics wing, Michelle Bussell's biggest problem seems to be the denial of popsicles.

But the 7-year-old Hixson, Tenn., girl faces the possibility that her body is rejecting a kidney transplant.

Michelle went to San Francisco last August for the transplant operation necessitated by the failure of her diseased kidneys.

"Michelle wasn't scared a bit," Mrs. Jean Bussell, her mother said. "The doctors told us she'd be in the hospital for at least a year, but she was out in only seven weeks."

Michelle is back in Vanderbilt University Hospital at Nashville now for an indefinite stay because physicians have detected the first signs of tissue rejection.

One of her mother's healthy kidneys was implanted in Michelle during her stay in San Francisco.

"But they tell me this is expected in most cases," Mrs. Bussell said. "But I still worry a lot."

Although popsicles are not on Michelle's special diet, her mother says she never complains about taking medicine.

"At home, sometimes she'll think I forgot to give her her medicine and will ask about it—but I never forget," she said.

Michelle was born with underdeveloped kidneys. The condition went unnoticed until she developed a strep throat infection that spread to her kidneys which eventually deteriorated and had to be removed.

Wide-Ranging Reaction To Holshouser Programs

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislative reaction to Gov. Jim Holshouser's call for $313 million in appropriations increases ranged Wednesday from enthusiasm to cautious reserve.

"It was bold and far-reaching," said Rep. Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus. "I was impressed." Quinn expressed the opinion much of Holshouser's program would be put into effect by the Democratic-controlled General Assembly.

House Speaker Jim Ramsey said he was not in a position to comment on the spending proposals because he had not had a chance to read them.

"I'm glad he did not recommend a broad-based tax erosion," said Ramsey in noting that the only tax reduction asked by the governor was removal of the sales tax on medicine which would cost $8 million in revenues.

"It was a very good speech," said Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, House speaker pro tem. "He had a long time to study his recommendations. Now I need time to study them."

Rep. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, chairman of the House Finance Committee said all the governor's spending recommendations were good but he could not say how many would be put into effect.

Ramsey wanted to see the list of medicines on which the governor wants the sales tax removed.

"I was frankly disappointed he (Holshouser) saw fit to raise salaries for higher education by a larger percentage than the agencies asked for," said Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell. "To be specific, they asked raises of 5 per cent for each of the two years. He recommended 4 per cent the first year and 10 per cent the second which is 50 per cent more than what the board of governors requested."

Jones said he generally favors the spending increases asked by the governor, especially funds for public kindergartens and more state parks, but "if all of them are granted, I don't see where we can cut taxes."

"I thought the speech was farsighted and ambitious," said Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, chairman of the Huse Appropriations Committee. "I was pleased to see substantial recommendations in the areas of elementary and secondary education."

Jones pointed out he has fought for extension of teachers' employment terms to 10 months which Holshouser recommended.

"I was gratified the governor resisted the temptation to endorse wholesale tax relief and left the door open for perhaps some limited tax relief if revenue estimates are increased ... and if the appropriations committee can cut some of the fat out of the base budget," Jones added.

Rep. Nancy Chase, D-Wayne, said she did not disagree with the governor's speech. She added that Holshouser was "typically sincere."

"I thought it was a good speech that covered essential items," said Rep. George Miller, D-Durham. "I particularly liked his recommendations on education."

"I considered it a very responsible message," said Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe. "It reflects the knowledge he has amassed through legislative experience and demonstrates his concern in the fields of education, mental health, correction and ecology. As a lawyer, I appreciate his emphasis on penal reform. I think what he has proposed can be reached within expected revenues."

"I thought it was a well-considered and well-prepared message," said Sen. William Station, D-Lee. "I was pleased he put first things first" such as kindergartens, extending the teachers' terms and in "generally strengthening the education system in areas where we rank the lowest."

Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, called the speech "very comprehensive" and that "it will have to be studied to determine where the funds will be needed most."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Reports of continuing economic expansion and progress toward a Vietnam settlement sent stock market prices climbing today.

At 11:30 a.m., the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.35 to 1034.47. Advances edged out declines on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 7 to 4 in moderately active trading.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,400 common stocks was ahead .24 at 64.73 at 11 a.m., while the American Stock Exchange's price-change index had gained .03 to 26.39.

The Commerce Department said personal income rose by $7.7 billion last month, and another department report was expected to show that the gross national product had a "real" rise of 8.5 per cent in the last quarter of 1972.

American Airlines, which confounded analysts' predictions of a loss by saying it would have a small 1972 profit, was ahead 3/4 to 22 1/4. Occidental Petroleum, head of a consortium which had an oil find in the North Sea, was up 1/4 to 13 1/2.

Union Pacific was down 2 1/2 to 61 after a subsidiary reported it had encountered only water in a new test of a Wyoming well.

JCs Allowed To Use House

The Redevelopment Commission, in a call session Wednesday, agreed to permit the Greenville Jaycees to use a house on Greene Street, that is owned by the commission, as temporary offices.

According to Joe Laney, commission executive director, the Jaycees requested the use of the house, located across from the Fire Station, as temporary facilities until office space can be arranged in city hall. Commissioners voted to provide the house on a rent-free basis if the structure meets the needs of the local chapter.

Laney also reminded commissioners of the public hearing scheduled for tonight on the Southside Project. He said that the hearing, conducted by the commission, will get underway at 7:30 p.m. and will afford the public the opportunity to ask questions on the Southside plans.

Tonight's hearing, he noted, will be followed by a review of the project by the Planning and Zoning Commission which will, in turn, channel its recommendations and comments to the City Council.

The Council has scheduled a public hearing on the project for Feb. 8 and the commission hopes to submit final plans to the Department of Housing and Urban Development by Feb. 15. Laney said that the commission hopes to begin execution of the project in the spring.

operating cost (not including purchase of sites) of landfills in use amounts to about $55,400 per year. The estimated percentages of waste generated includes: 46 per cent by residential users, 26 per cent by commercial users and 28 per cent by industrial users, the planner reported.

Most counties, Michaels said, have only one landfill to serve the entire county. "This centralization," Michaels emphasized, "results in savings."

Michaels noted that a recent survey of 222 counties in six southern states indicates that Pitt residents may "generate the highest pounds or residential garbage per person per day—3.53 pounds per person per day."

He listed the makeup of Pitt's solid waste as 22 per cent paper, 23 per cent glass, 16 per cent metal and 16 per cent organic.

He noted too, that only 40 percent of all wastes going into the Greenville landfill is collected by city trucks. The rest, he said, is hauled by private individuals. However, only 10 per cent of the volume coming into the Greenville landfill came in vehicles reported to originate outside the city limits.

At the present time, Michaels pointed out, research has shown 160 roadside dumps scattered throughout Pitt County. He said they range in size from "a few bags of garbage to a couple of acres in size."

Michaels said indications are that "the people using these roadside dumps do not indiscriminately throw garbage out on the road. Instead they pick areas that are of little use to anyone, away from homes, away from the more travelled byways, and away from cultivatable land."

Michaels told the planning board that certain legal, political and economic questions must govern any disposal system established.

He said these considerations include: equal service to all county citizens; all local governments must work together; equalization of distance from landfill site; the proportion of use equal to the proportion of costs; both urban and rural citizens being treated fairly; and centralization in order to take advantage of economies of scale.

The plan presented to the planning board for study involves several elements, including a partial franchise method, a fee supported method, and a county administered operation with one centrally located landfill.

Michaels said under this system, "there would be three sources of revenue supporting the centralized system." He explained that after the system was established, "the county, the municipalities and the industrial franchise holder would pay a fee for the tons of solid waste that each brings into the landfill."

WITN-TV Off The Air Due To Line Failure

Television station WITN, Channel 7 has been off the air since about 7 o'clock last night due to a transmission line failure.

A spokesman for the station said this morning that a "undetermined problem developed in the main transmission line to the tower. The work was complicated by the fact that the trouble seemed to be at the 1,500-foot level of the 1,600-foot tower. Station engineers were hopeful that they could make the necessary repairs by early evening, the spokesman said. However due to the location and the problem involved the exact time that service would be restored could not be pinned down this morning.

Phone Work Begins Soon

Improvement and expansion of Greenville's telephone system is soon to begin.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company's manager, Don A. Collier, said today a $158,318 program has been engineered and scheduled.

Included in the project will be placing of additional feeder cable facilities along U.S. Highway 264 West in the Hooker Road Central Office area of Greenville. The existing underground facility was placed in 1965 in conjunction with the establishment of the Hooker Road Office. Presently there are 1,588 lines working in this cable.

It is planned to begin construction of the proposed facilities in July, 1973, and cutover is scheduled for November, 1973, with 1,894 lines. This is expected to increase to 6,332 lines by November, 1983.

Collier said that the rapid growth of the Hooker Road area in recent years has brought about a tremendous demand for telephone service and has taxed the capacity of present equipment.

Faber's Tap Nips George Washington

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Strategy played a big role in a slim 59-58 victory by the East Carolina University Pirates over tough George Washington last night in Mingos Coliseum.

The Pirates had run out to a 15-point spread after a minute of the second half, but they choose then to sit on the ball waiting for the good shots. George Washington, with their superior speed and quickness, however, didn't let the Bucs get into the position for those shots and trimmed the lead down, finally pushing ahead, 57-55 with 4:31 left. But the game continued cautious and was finally tied at 57-57 on baseline jumper by Nicky White with 2:27 left. The Colonials then did a little sitting of their own, controlling the ball for the next two minutes. Their leading scorer, Pat Tallent, the last of three brothers who have been superstars for the Colonials, then drove the baseline and was fouled by Earl Quash.

Tallent hit the first of the one-and-one, and then, strangely the Colonials called time out to set up their defenses. When they returned to the floor, the Pirates called a second time out, allowing the grinning Tallent to think about it some more.

And this time, the Buc strategy worked. Tallent missed on the shot and Roger Atkinson pulled down the rebound. The Bucs after another time out to set up their plans, worked the ball to Atkinson in the middle and he drove the lane, but his shot rolled off the rim.

Al Faber was there, however, and tapped it through with eight seconds left on the clock. The Colonials, after a timeout with six seconds left, just couldn't get the ball into position for a good shot, and a long desperation shot by Tallent bounced wide and the Bucs had their victory.

The win was the sixth in 12 games for the Bucs and their fourth in a row at home this year. For George Washington, it was only their fourth loss in 14 games.

The Bucs outthit the Colonials, despite their second half problems in getting the ball to the basket. They hit on 12 of 24 shots in the half and finished the game with 47.3 per cent from the floor. George Washington, which made 56.8 per cent of their shots in the last half, made only 44.4 per cent for the night.

The Colonials took the lead on a rebound by Tallent after 30 seconds, and Mike Battle hit to give them a four-point edge. But shots by Dave Franklin and Jerome Owens tied it up a 4-4. It was tied again at 6-6 and 8-8 before Quash hit a free throw to round out a three-point play to give the Pirates their first lead, 9-8 with 14:38 left. He followed with another basket from underneath to put the Bucs up by three, 11-8 before the Colonials regained the lead on shots by Keith Morris and Tallent.

The Colonial star hit again for a three-point edge, but again the Bucs came back to take the lead, 15-14 on a drive by Owens. He hit again and Al Faber hit a jumper to run the lead out to five, 19-14. The Colonials fought back again, however, finally tying it at 21-21 and then taking the lead at 23-21 on a jumper by Tallent with 5:33 left. But the Colonials were to get only one more point the rest of the half, while the Pirates poured in 12.

White tied it on a drive and Owens hit from the baseline to put the Bucs back up, 25-23.

Owens then hit two more shots and a pair of free throws, while Quash finished it up for a 33-24 lead at intermission.

White opened the second half with a basket, and after Morris hit for the Colonials, Quash hit two in a row and White tapped in a missed shot for a 41-26 lead with 18:19 left in the game.

But right there, the tempo swung away from the Pirates to the Colonials. Their trapping defense forced turnovers and poor shots, and in the next 13 minutes, the Colonials outthit the Pirates, 27-12, and that brought the game to a deadlock, 53-53.

Tallent and Mike Battle led the charge back, along with Tom Rosepink. A three-point play by Tallent cut the lead to 10 at 41-31 with 17:28 left, and another by Battle trimmed it to seven, 43-36 with 16:12 to go.

But with 11:13 left, the Pirates still held an eight-point bulge, 49-41. During the next two and a half minutes, each team managed only one basket, making it 51-43. But then, Tallent and Battle each hit, cutting the lead to four. Rosepink followed with a drive to trim it to two before the Bucs cut a two-minute drought to get a basket by Faber. Clyde Burwell hit two free throws, and then with 5:39 left, Battle hit from underneath to tie it at 53-53.

The Bucs went back out on two free throws by Atkinson, but Morris tied it up again. Tallent then stole the ball with 4:31 left and put in it to give the Colonials the lead, 57-55.

East Carolina got the ball back, however, and with 2:27 left, White hit from the line to tie it.

That brought on Tallent's one-and-one and the tap by Faber that wrapped it up for the Bucs. Tallent finished with 19 points to lead the game's scorers. Battle ended up with 14.

For the Pirates, Owens was high with 16, while Quash had 13 and Faber and White each had 12.

The Pirates, seeking to improve their 2-4 Southern Conference record, will play host to improving William & Mary and their freshmen hotshots here Saturday night at 8 p.m.

Tar Heels Clobber Deacons In 2nd Half

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest's basketball team rode two streaks into Wednesday night's Atlantic Coast Conference showdown against North Carolina. And when the smoke had cleared in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum, the wrong one was still intact.

Unfortunately for the Demon Deacons, it wasn't their give-game winning streak. The fourth-ranked Tar Heels took care of that as they breezed to a 99-80 victory, their 14th of the season against a single loss.

What was intact was a series of second-half letdowns which has Deacon Coach Carl Tacy mystified. Wake Forest was within striking distance at intermission, trailing only 42-36, but the taller Tar Heels took control of the backboards and scored 57 points in the last 20 minutes.

Tacy had commented earlier in the week on his team's tendency to finish slow. The Deacs nearly blew a 13-point halftime lead over Niagara before putting the game away. And Duke had cut a 14-point margin to one before finally succumbing.

Wake Forest kept it close in the first half mainly on the strength of some sharp shooting by junior Tony Byers, who scored a game-high 30 points. But North Carolina got strong second-half performances from front-liners Mitch Kupchak, Bobby Jones and Ed Stahl, who dominated both the scoring and the rebounding.

Kupchak, a freshman, tallied 24 points and pulled down 12 rebounds. Jones had 16 points and 13 rebounds and Stahl chipped in 15 points.

The win left North Carolina with a perfect 2-0 conference record, second only to nationally second-ranked North Carolina State's 3-0. Wake Forest dropped to 1-2 in conference play and 8-5 overall.

Duke, meeting Southern Conference power Davidson, evened its ledger at 7-7 with the aid of some last-second heroics by guard Gary Melchioni.

With nine seconds left and the Blue Devils leading 76-75, Davidson's Greg Dunn missed on a one-and-one opportunity at the free throw line. Melchioni, fouled on a jump ball situation after the shot, walked to the other end of the court and, with four seconds showing on the clock, sank both foul shots to put the game away, 78-75.

Big Chris Redding led the Duke attack with 28 points, followed by Melchioni with 18 and Kevin Billerman with 17.

Clemson also ventured outside the conference, traveling to New York to take on 17th-ranked St. John's. The Tigers trailed by only one, 29-28 at intermission, but got caught in a second-half blitz as the Redmen coasted home, 87-59.

Rick Hunt, with 10 points, was the only Tiger in double figures. The loss was Clemson's eighth of the season against five wins.

ACC teams will be idle until Saturday, when Duke plays at North Carolina, Maryland meets Navy at Norfolk, Va., and N.C. State visits Clemson.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The flying wedge was outlawed in football when President Theodore Roosevelt threatened to ban the game by executive edict unless players quit playing so roughly.

Cancer Soc. Cites Early Care Value

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK
UPI Family News Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Deaths from colon and rectum cancer now total around 46,000 a year in the United States. If more men and women with this kind of cancer got to the doctor sooner, the toll wouldn't be so high.

The life-saving operation in many cases is a colostomy—which results in an artificial opening for the elimination of solid wastes. The operation is not a pleasant topic. People who have it until recently, tended to keep it a secret. Only their closest friends and family knew.

The American Cancer Society says patients with cancer of the colon and rectum can be saved in almost 75 per cent of cases when the disease is found early and treated promptly and properly. Some 73,000 men and women will be diagnosed with cancer of the colon and rectum during 1973. For many, the delay between symptoms and treatment will be long enough to be lethal.

Just going to a doctor isn't a guarantee the cancer will be found. The American Cancer Society says not enough persons have regular health checkups that include a proctoscopic examination (visual examination of the lower colon and rectum through a lighted tube). By such examination doctors can detect very early cancers when they are most curable. Most colon cancers occur within the last segment of the bowel, a part that can be examined visually by the proctoscope.

The usual symptoms of colon or rectum cancer are:

—Bleeding, seen as blood in the stool (streaks or actual blood in the toilet bowl); or disclosed through blood tests.

—A persistent (for more than two weeks) change in bowel habits (either constipation, or diarrhea or both alternately).

—Increase in intestinal gas, causing varying degrees of abdominal discomfort.

"None of these symptoms should be ignored," says the American Cancer Society. "Even more important, all adult men and women should have rectal examinations (including a proctoscopy) as part of a regular health checkup."

If there is an ostomy in your future—or that of a friend or relative, the fear factor can be lowered by writing for the free brochure published by the United Ostomy Association, 1111 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. The brochure also is distributed through the Ostomy Rehabilitation Program of the American Cancer Society.

The title is—"So You Have—Or Will Have An Ostomy."

'Memorandum Of Cooperation' By Two Agencies

RALEIGH — A joint "memorandum of cooperation" designed to improve the effectiveness of programs and better serve the public was signed today by James T. Johnson, state director of Farmers Home Administration, and Jesse L. Hicks, state conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service.

The memorandum between the two U.S. Department of Agriculture agencies spells out areas of mutual interest and provides for joint efforts on both the local and state level.

Each agency will advise people of services available from the cooperating agency.

Heart Grant To Medical School

The East Carolina University School of Medicine has received a $2,500 research grant from the N.C. Heart Association to study the effect of exhaustive exercise on the heart.

Dr. Lynis Dohm, of the ECU Med School faculty says that his study has shown that when rats are subjected to excessive exercise, their hearts undergo a structural swelling.

"With the aid of the Heart Association grant we will study the effects of this swelling on the mitochondrial lipids which enable the heart muscles to contract," he said.

Waste Study For Ayden Board

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners Monday night appointed a committee to study the Lutz and Schramm pickle plant waste disposal problems.

The committee consists of: Don Russell, town manager; J.J. Brown, town commissioner; Bill Manning, chamber of commerce; J.W. Stancill, David Smith, Ayden Economic Council; Dr. J.E. Dixon, Ross Persinger, Bill McLawhorn, Jim Horne and J.R. Lowry.

The committee will try to find a solution to the pickle plant's waste disposal problems so that the industry can continue to operate in Ayden.

A lagoon was constructed a few years ago to be used by the plant for its waste disposal. The lagoon cost a total of $114,000 with $7,000 of that amount paid by the town.

Bob Malson, manager of technical services at Lutz and Schramm, discussed a pilot study on waste disposal that is being conducted at the plant. He stated the pilot study simulated the operation of the lagoon, and was being done to show the Water and Air Resources Commission that the lagoon could be used successfully for waste treatment. He said the lagoon would be acceptable to federal and state standards.

The committee will report its to the town board as soon as possible.

The board appointed Burt Tripp to the Planning Board. He replaces Charles Langley who has moved from the town.

Town Manager Don Russell reported that $115,000 of the 1972 taxes have been collected. A total of $27,992.79 is still owed to the town.

The board was told that the N.C. Fire Rating Bureau has said the town must replace its 1950 model pumper that is used by the fire department. A committee was appointed to study the cemetery located near the old town land fill and asked to make recommendations for upgrading it.

Geothermal Energy-Use Seen Of Future Value

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — The heat of molten rock deep within the earth is being harnessed to help meet the energy needs of 18 nations. This source is called geothermal energy, from Greek words meaning earth-heat power. "I believe that we are witnessing the birth of a vast new source of energy," says Joseph Barnea, U.N. director of resources and transport.

He addressed a seminar here on the development and use of geothermal energy, attended by 250 people from a dozen countries.

Barnea told newsmen that this type of energy was making a breakthrough and was widespread, clean and cheap.

Nobody really knows what keeps the rock molten. Scientists theorize that it is friction in the broken crust of the earth and the radioactive decay of materials underneath.

In most places the molten rock, or magma, is 15 to 25 miles underground. In some places, where there are fissures in the earth, it pushes closer to the surface.

The magma heats other rocks and these turn underground water into hot reservoirs, six miles or less from daylight.

If the hot water can find a way, it comes out in hot springs or geysers. If not, it can be tapped by a well drilled down to where it is.

The wells bring up steam or hot water, or both. The steam can be fed straight through a turbine to run an electric generator. The hot water can be used to boil some volatile liquid, like isobutane, into vapor, and the vapor will spin the turbine that runs the generator.

Tsvi Meidav of the U.N. Resources and Transport Division speculated that eventually hot underground rocks could be tapped for more than double the energy in all the world's estimated coal, oil and gas deposits.

Meidav listed 18 countries where geothermal energy is now being used or developed — the United States, Mexico, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Chile, Iceland, France, Italy, Bulgaria, Hungary, Turkey, the Soviet Union, China, Japan, the Philippines, Indonesia, New Zealand and Kenya.

Barnea said U.N. studies showed Ethiopia had enough geothermal energy potential to provide all Africa with electricity. Italy has been producing electricity from underground heat since 1904 at the Larderello steam field, which helps light Rome.

San Francisco gets electricity from the Geysers, a 12-year-old steam field 85 miles north of there run by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Near Niland in Southern California's Imperial Valley, the San Diego Gas and Electric Co. is building a hot-water electric plant, after investigations by the Bureau of Reclamation, a design developed by the Magma Power Co. of Los Angeles.

Geothermal energy has other uses.

In the Imperial Valley, the hot water used to generate power will afterward be flashed into steam in low-pressure chambers and the steam will be condensed to fresh water.

This fresh water will be dumped into the Colorado River to lower its salinity and help the United States keep a treaty pledge to Mexico to limit the salt content of the river.

Generation of electricity doesn't amount to a great deal yet. The installed geothermal electric generating capacity of the whole world is only about a million kilowatts.

But it is building up. Under a 1970 act of Congress, the U.S. government is about to issue leases for development on 58 million acres of federal land in 13 states.

An Interior Department panel estimated last year that geothermal energy in the United States could, by the year 2000, be supplying 395 million kilowatts, more than all the U.S. electric generating capacity today.

Barnea says it requires less capital investment than other power sources: $100 to $150 a kilowatt now, against estimates of $200 to $300 for a coal or oil-burning power station and $500 for a nuclear power station in 1975.

A geothermal electric plant takes only two years to build.

Charles Baldwin, consultant to the California Senate, listed some problems: Geothermal wells cause land to subside. They throw off some pollution in noise, heat, bad smells and harsh chemicals. Geothermal electricity cannot be built up to peak loads to meet varying needs through the day.

Mississippi became a state in 1817 and was readmitted to the Union in 1870 following the Civil War.

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —
"Within a month's time, without some direction, this family will be right back in the situation we found them," said Jerry Whitlock, Shelby County jail chaplain.

Whitlock and several other sheriff's office employees have been sorting, boxing and labeling boxes of clothes, food and household items arriving daily at the jail for an impoverished rural family of 15.

The family was discovered Jan. 11 when deputies answered "a routine death call" in northwest Shelby County subfreezing weather and found an 18-month old boy dead of pneumonia and pinworms. The rest of the family of 12 children and two adults had passed the infant among themselves to keep him warm.

Whitlock said Wednesday the response to the family's situation had been "overwhelming," but it's not enough. "Your first reaction is 'how in the name of God can an adult live in a situation like this. But then you look around you, and there's all those little kids. You can't be mad at them," he said.

"This is where we're failing in our efforts to alleviate poverty. There's no followup."

"The people in our agencies are bogged down with paperwork. They can't get their hands dirty with the people. People like the Lees were raised in this environment ... with the bugs, the rats, the mice, the dirt, the filth, the snot. They'll never change until somebody shows them. And the real victims are the children."

"This tells us more than there's just one family caught in the grip of poverty. This is an outcrop of ignorance, of people without dignity. And without dignity, we're not far removed from a jungle type of thing."

"We often expiate our sins in the initial finding and doing. The real benefit to a family like the Lees would be for someone to become involved with them, to lead them out."

"You can't work with people like this unless you get your hands dirty. Mrs. Lee is a country woman and she would respond to this. She would respond to someone showing her how, instead of taking clothes off and throwing them in a corner, we take clothes off and wash them and get them ready to wear again."

"We can pretty well outfit them with everything now ... a new stove, refrigerator, clothes, a new house. But unless someone shows them what to do with it, how to live with it, they'll destroy the stuff. And within a month's time, without some direction, they'll be right back in the situation we found them," said Whitlock, who is pastor of Big Creek Baptist Church in Millington.

"The family consisted of two adults, Robert and Mary Lee, their nine children and four of their grandchildren.

Deputies found the family huddled without blankets in a sharecroppers shack. The family had pulled boards from the walls to burn for heat. Deputies said the windows were out of the house and roaches and mice were crawling up the walls.

One officer described two rats, saying he shot at one that weighed "at least five pounds."

"The real benefit to a family like the Lees would be for someone to lead them out of their poverty," said Whitlock, saying he wasn't certain relief efforts would be entirely sufficient.

"I was a depression child, and I remember my mother saying to me, 'we may be poor, but we won't be dirty.' Well, there's no one to say this to the Lees. They don't know any different."

"We've just located the sore spot in this disease. Now, we've got to work on healing it."

End Oil Import Limits To Beat Fuel Shortage

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting to alleviate a winter fuel shortage, the Nixon administration has ended import limits on heating oil and boosted total oil-import quotas east of the Rocky Mountains by more than half.

George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, Wednesday announced the decision to suspend controls on imports of widely used No. 2 heating oil through the first four months of this year, but said fuel-oil supplies will remain tight all winter.

Oil industry sources said, however, the move should head off any serious shortage through the rest of the cold season.

Lincoln said the moves might encourage importers who were saving their allocations to release them now.

Under the present system, importers are allocated shares of the total quota by a formula based mainly on their past imports.

Mansfield Sees Continuing Rift

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield foresees better relations and more understanding between President Nixon and the Democratic Congress when peace comes in Vietnam—but adds that other issues dividing them will remain.

He rejected the contention of Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, that congressional threats to cut off war spending have lengthened the Vietnam conflict.

"My reaction would be just the contrary," he said, "because the Congress provides the money and the Congress has a constitutional duty to engage."

The Democratic leader said in an interview that a Vietnam settlement "will in my opinion react to the President's favor and bring about a better and more understanding feeling between the executive and legislative branches."

"But the other issues will remain because their effects run through the Congress, the impounding of funds and other great constitutional questions," Mansfield said.

Nixon is withholding some $8 billion in appropriations voted by Congress, in an administration drive to hold down the federal budget.

Mansfield said he believes "Congress will face up to its responsibilities" and invoke its own ceiling on federal spending.

"In effect, it has been forced to by the action which the President initiated last year to give him the right to set a spending ceiling," he said. "That would be clearly unconstitutional because the Constitution gives Congress the power of the purse. That would be a further dereliction of our responsibilities."

The Montana Democrat said "Congress is in very large part responsible for" the growth in executive powers over the past 40 years.

"We have no one to blame but ourselves," he said. "What we're trying to do now is to assert the equality of Congress as laid down in the Constitution."

Mansfield said Nixon's overhaul of the executive branch, with his creation of a so-called super-cabinet, raises serious questions about congressional authority. He said the Senate Government Operations Committee will look into that.

He also said a problem is building up over a lack of consultation with Congress by top officials of the executive branch, citing the recent refusal of Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Kind Words For Farmers

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt and Ambassador Harold Malmgren had kind words for farmers Wednesday at the state convention of the North Carolina Farmers Cooperative Council in Raleigh.

Holshouser told the evening banquet session that he would soon propose legislation to alleviate the health care problem in rural areas.

He said the program, which would be ready "very soon," would have "an almost immediate impact" on rural communities.

Hunt and Malmgren, at afternoon sessions, gave varying portraits of the Nixon administration's benevolence to farmers.

Malmgren, the President's deputy special representative for trade negotiations, said the administration was preparing trade legislation that would help protect farmers against foreign competition.

He challenged the audience, representing more than 90 cooperatives and rural organizations, to "get out there and work to protect your own interests."

Hunt criticized the Nixon administration for its recent decisions to eliminate several grant and loan programs for farmers.

Counseling Is At Fingertips

Note what Mrs. Anonymous says! For when you read this scientific column, you may not realize how many divorcees, suicides, school dropouts and other crises this daily newspaper prevents! Newspapers really offer you "Happiness Insurance" herewith!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE W-502: Mrs. Anonymous recently sent me an unsigned letter.

"Dear Dr. Crane," she began, "enclosed is 96 cents in stamps. 'Two years ago I was so desperate I didn't know where to turn for help in saving my marriage.

"You sent me a letter and several of your booklets on Marriage Problems! 'I followed them to the letter and kept my home intact. 'We are now quite happy and have a new baby to cement our love even more.

"But I was so distraught at the time I wrote to you, I didn't even include a stamped, return envelope, let alone the cost of the booklets!

"So please accept the 96 cents in stamps, with my deepest gratitude."

NEWSPAPER COUNSELING

This newspaper (along with several hundred others) has pioneered scientific marriage counseling via this daily "Worry Clinic" column.

Many churches have since joined the ranks of those who also stress such worthy goals.

And the splendid Mental Health Associations have likewise begun to sprout up nationwide to do the same thing.

But I launched this scientific advisory column back in 1935, with the definite aim of bringing practical psychiatry and psychology to you readers.

For you are intelligent citizens and able to avoid divorce, delinquency, promiscuity and drug addiction if you understand how to do so.

And that "how to do so" has been contained in this column for the past 2 generations.

"Dr. Crane," a high school sophomore recently argued, "you have even helped rear 3 generations in my family!"

Then she mentioned that her grandparents, while college students, had rated each other on the "Tests for Sweethearts" offered below.

They soon married and had several children.

"My mother," this teen-ager continued, "then started following your daily column when she was in Junior High. 'She married when she was 19.

"And urges us to read the column every day!

"So this really makes 3 generations you have helped in my own family!"

Newspapers thus deserve a "Freedoms Foundation Award" for having pioneered this modern idea of "Family and Marriage Counseling."

Several million copies of the various booklets offered via the "Worry Clinic" are circulating in America and many foreign countries.

For this mail service is an added "fringe benefit" for millions of readers who face crises that sometimes drive

Report Increase In Bank Debts

RICHMOND, VA. (AP)—Bank debts in all but two of North Carolina's major reporting business centers showed an increase for the month of December as compared to the same month last year.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond released figures today showing that debts in the Raleigh area climbed 27 per cent to more than $2 billion, the largest gain.

Debts in Charlotte gained 24 per cent to $3.2 billion, in Asheville 19 per cent to $406 million, and in Fayetteville 13 per cent to $263.2 million.

Bank debts, representing primarily the value of checks drawn on demand deposit accounts, are used as an index of business activity.

Late-Hour Calls

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — The Salvation Army suicide prevention and emergency counseling bureau handles about 100 telephone calls a month, with most of the calls coming after 11 p.m.

Capt. Noel Sorley says people prefer to talk over the telephone rather than across a desk because there are no barriers between the caller and the listener and callers can remain anonymous.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Trumps were drawn with two more pulls. Three rounds of clubs were cashed followed by the ace of spades. Having completed his stripping operations in the black suits, South exited with a spade. West was in with the king and the forced return of a diamond into declarer's ace-queen eliminated the latter's remaining concern and South claimed his contract—having lost but one spade trick.

At the other table, declarer began by drawing three rounds of trump on which East discarded the deuce and four of diamonds to indicate a lack of interest in that suit. Next came the three top clubs ending up in the closed hand. When South finally got around to leading a spade, West was fully tuned in on his opponent's intentions.

It was clear to West that if he adopted a passive course, South would take the spade finesse and then throw him in on the third round. East's discouraging discards in diamonds provided a clear-cut indication the declarer held both the ace and queen of that suit. Desperate measures were in order therefore if West was to avoid a fatal endplay.

When the deuce of spades was led, West played the jack. North covered with the queen which won the trick. The ace was cashed next and West completed his unblocking maneuver by dropping the king. On the next lead, East put up the ten of spades and his partner was able to underplay with the eight, which he had carefully preserved. A diamond return by East assured West of scoring the setting trick with the king.

In order to put something over on the defense, a declarer must make his move early in the play—before his opponents have an opportunity to anticipate the course of events. An apt illustration of this principle is provided in today's offering, taken from a recent team-of-four match.

A contract of six hearts was reached at both tables on the sequence of bids given in the diagram. Altho the respective declarers, seated South, adopted the same basic plan of campaign, their psychology and timing were poles apart.

West feared that a lead away from one of his tenaces might cost him a trick. He therefore adopted a passive course by opening a trump. At one table, South won the lead in his hand and promptly led a small spade. West followed with the eight and the queen was successfully finessed.

Majority Blame Drugs, Courts For Crime Plague

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON N.J. — Evidence that fear of crime has pervaded all levels of U.S. society is found in the latest Gallup survey which shows crime—and the crime-related problem of drugs—topping the list of concerns of residents of cities and communities of all sizes across the nation.

In addition, half of all persons interviewed (51 percent) think there is more crime in the areas where they live than there was a year ago, while only 10 percent say less. Twenty-seven per cent see little change and 12 percent do not express an opinion.

A comparison of current survey findings with those recorded in a survey taken a year ago, in early 1972, shows increasing pessimism. At that time, a considerably smaller proportion of citizens (35 percent) than today said crime was on the increase.

In the current survey, six persons in 10 living in center-city areas of the nation think there is more crime where they live than there was a year ago. Even in the suburbs and in smaller communities and rural areas the weight of opinion is that crime has increased.

About equal proportions of blacks and whites hold the view that there is more crime in their communities than there was a year ago.

DRUGS, COURTS BLAMED BY MANY

Increased use of drugs and leniency on the part of courts are named most often as reasons explaining the increase in crime. Other reasons named relatively often are that there are too few police to handle the situation, population growth and the high mobility of people today. Mentioned somewhat less frequently are poor parental guidance, lack of recreational opportunities and unemployment.

COURTS 'TOO LENIENT' SAY THREE IN FOUR

Fear of crime has become so widespread that a large number of Americans adopt a "hard line" attitude on ways to deal with crime.

When persons in the current survey were asked whether they think the courts in their area deal too harshly with criminals or not harshly enough, three in four (74 percent) say not harshly enough. A majority of blacks interviewed (64 percent) share this view.

The proportion of citizens who hold the view that the courts do not deal harshly enough with criminals has climbed 26 points since a 1965 survey.

QUICKIE DIVORCE SANTO DOMINGO (AP)

Actress Jane Fonda has obtained a quickie Dominican divorce from French movie director Roger Vadim, court-sources report.

SUPPORT FOR DEATH PENALTY HAS GROWN

Despite the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling of last year which, in effect, struck down the death penalty, public support for capital punishment is currently at the highest point in nearly two decades.

In a survey conducted in December, a majority of 57 percent of adults, 18 and older, said they favor the death penalty for persons convicted of murder. This percentage represents an increase in support since March 1972, when 50 percent favored the death penalty.

42 PERCENT FEAR OWN NEIGHBORHOOD

In the first of the current two-part series on "Fear of Crime"—a new high was recorded in the percentage of Americans who express fear of venturing out of their homes after dark (42 percent nationwide and 61 percent of women). In addition, the survey showed that 17 percent of persons nationwide do not feel safe and secure even within the confines of their own homes.

Blacks are, if anything, more fearful than whites of walking alone at night in their neighborhoods (48 percent compared with 41 percent) and feel less safe in their homes (26 percent as compared with 18 percent whites).

The current survey also shows that 21 percent of Americans, 18 and older, have suffered one or more of the following crimes during the last seven months: breaking and entering, mugging or assault, robbery or burglary, vandalism or auto theft.

In the case of some of these crimes, however, as many as half of the victims did not report the incident.

DETAILS OF SURVEY

The current survey is based on personal interviews with 1,504 adults, 18 and older, in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation, interviewed during the period Dec. 8-11.

Following are the questions and results:

"What do you regard as your community's (your city's) worst problem?"

Here are the results, based on the views of residents of cities of 500,000 or more in population:

WORST PROBLEM FACING CITY?

(Views of residents of cities of 500,000 and over)
Crime	21 Percent
Transportation
Traffic	11 Percent
Drugs	10 Percent
Juvenile Delinquency	6 Percent
High taxes	6 Percent
Community services	5 Percent
Pollution: air-water	4 Percent
Poor housing-slums	4 Percent
Education and related
Needs	4 Percent
Sanitation	3 Percent
Racial problems	3 Percent
Unemployment	3 Percent
Other problems	23 Percent
No opinion	14 Percent
	117 Percent

Total adds to more than 100 percent since some persons named more than one problem.

"Is there more crime in this area than there was a year ago, or less?"

Here are the results nationwide and by key groups:

	MORE	LESS	SAME	NO OPIN.
NATIONAL	51	10	27	12
Men	47	11	31	11
Women	54	9	24	13
Whites	51	9	28	12

Midwest	48	11	31	10
South	54	11	23	12
West	55	8	26	11
Center city areas	60	9	19	12
Suburban areas	50	9	28	12
Smaller communities-rural	45	10	32	12

All persons in the survey who said there is more crime in their communities now than a year ago (51 percent) were then asked this question:

"How do you account for this?"

Following are the reasons they give:

Increased use of drugs	13 Percent
Courts too lenient	11 Percent
Not enough police	7 Percent
Population growth-mobility	7 Percent
Poor parental influence	5 Percent
Unemployment	3 Percent
Lack of recreational facilities	3 Percent
Other reasons	15 Percent
	64 Percent

Total exceeds 51 percent (total who said crime has increased) since some persons gave more than one reason.

To determine attitudes toward the courts, this question was asked:

"In general, do you think the courts in this area deal too harshly or not harshly enough with criminals?"

Not harshly enough	74 Percent
About right	13 Percent
Too harshly	5 Percent

No opinion

Here are the results by groups showing the percentages saying "not harsh enough":

National	74 Percent
Men	75 Percent
Women	73 Percent
Whites	75 Percent
Non-whites	64 Percent
Under 30 years	61 Percent
30-49 years	78 Percent
50 and older	81 Percent

Filmed Tour Of Africa Scheduled

Exploring African Wonders, the third of six films in the 1972-73 Travel-Adventure Series sponsored by East Carolina University Student Union, is coming to Wright Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Monday.

John M. Goddard, noted filmmaker and lecturer, will be on hand to show and narrate his exciting travels that took him from the East Africa country of Kenya north to the mountains of the continent's oldest nation, Ethiopia.

On the long journey, Goddard records colorful scenic spots in cities, plains, mountains, lakes and rivers. Tribesmen in traditional African costumes and city people in western dress, animals and architectural marvels are a few of the subjects of the film.

Goddard takes the viewer to modern Nairobi, Kenya's booming capital; to 17,000 foot Mt. Kenya; and to the highest point in Africa, Mr. Kilimanjaro. He has filmed Victoria Falls; Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's capital nestling 8,000 feet in the mountains; and Gondar, the ancient capital. One of the points of fascination is Harar, an old walled Moslem city with its busy marketplace noted for skilled basket-weavers.

Lake lovers will see Lake Shala, with its hot springs and flamingoes; and Lake Tan...

principal source of the Nile River.

Lake Tana is also famous for two island monasteries, where Coptic monks are caretakers of the precious crowns of past emperors and of the beautiful ancient frescoes depicting Biblical events.

Admission for the public to Exploring African Wonders is $1.00 per person or by buying season tickets. Tickets are available at the ECU Central Ticket office or can be purchased at the door prior to the hour of showing the films.

JOHN GODDARD

Contributions

A total of $13,529.04 has been donated by the East Carolina University community to the 1972 Pitt County United Fund.

Joe Tripp, executive director of the Pitt County campaign, congratulated John Bell, campus campaign director, on exceeding ECU's contribution goal by more than $500.

Bell is director of the Purchasing Office at ECU.

Tripp also noted that the Pitt County United Fund had allocated $500 to the Research Fund of North Carolina United Community Services, which in turn gives support to the state's medical schools.

In December, the Research Fund gave $990 to the ECU Department of Psychology for the support of research by Dr. Larry W. Means on the effects of amphetamine on the amnesic syndrome.
