

Nixon Budget 'Kills' Spending Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon demanded death for dozens of federal spending programs today, called on Congress for a rigid 1974 budget ceiling of $268.7 billion, and cautioned that greater spending would mean "high taxes, higher interest rates, renewed inflation, or all three."

"I oppose these alternatives; with a firm rein on spending, none of them is necessary," Nixon said in his fiscal 1974 budget message.
The document lived up to advance billing as an ax job on many social, health, housing, education, and antipoverty programs of his Democratic predecessors—programs Nixon said had failed after a fair trial.

Despite the domestic cutbacks, the budget called for $81.1 billion of military outlays, the biggest defense budget in history even with the peace agreement in Vietnam. It provided no funds for reconstruction of South Vietnam.

Nixon called his budget a turning point in national policy though still written in the familiar red ink—a $24.8-billion deficit this year and a $12.7-billion deficit in fiscal 1974.

But the President pointed to 113 program cutbacks and terminations, worth $6.5 billion in savings in this fiscal year alone, and told the lawmakers: "The 1974 budget is the clear evidence of the kind of change in direction demanded by the great majority of the American people. 'No longer will power flow inexorably to Washington.'"

The figures—some of them leaked in advance by Nixon Friday evening were:

Viet Cong Refuse Present Credentials

Peace-Keeper Meet Diplomatic Snag

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong delegation refused at two sessions today to present its credentials to the four-party joint military commission, stalling the entire peace-keeping apparatus, a source close to the talks said.

Hundreds more cease-fire violations were reported across South Vietnam.

A third meeting was called for tonight in efforts to resolve the presentation of credentials and another diplomatic snag.

Nearly 150 additional North Vietnamese delegates flown from Hanoi to Saigon aboard two U.S. Air Force C130 transports staged a plane sit-in at Tan Son Nhut air base, apparently refusing to fill out customs and immigration forms.

It was learned that U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker had personally intervened for the second time in two days in efforts to resolve the haggling.

The four parties — the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong — met for a total of three hours in morning and afternoon sessions but accomplished "absolutely nothing," the source said.

The United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam presented their credentials at the first commission meeting attended by all parties in the morning, the source said, but the Viet Cong refused, without citing a reason.
The protocol on the joint commission makes no mention of credentials.

The stalled conference of the four parties marked the first time the United States, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong met face to face across a conference table in Saigon.
Two U.S. C130 transports landed shortly before noon at Hanoi's Gia Lam airport, which American jets bombed last month. They picked up about 150 North Vietnamese officers and men for the joint military commission and flew them to Saigon. It was the first time an American military plane had landed in Hanoi since before the Tonkin Gulf incident in August 1964.

On their arrival at the Saigon airport, however, the North Vietnamese refused to leave the plane, apparently because the Saigon government demanded that they fill out its customs and immigration forms. A group of Viet Cong delegates had balked similarly on Sunday, until the government waived the requirement, but another group of North Vietnamese who arrived Sunday had submitted to the formalities without objection.

Representing the United States at today's initial meeting was the deputy chief of the American delegation, Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham Jr., who formerly was the U.S. Command's deputy chief of staff for economic affairs.

Officials said the meeting of all four parties paved the way for the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision to send out men to begin policing the truce, probably Tuesday.

Rests Its Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government rested its case in the Watergate political espionage trial today.

The government rested after calling 51 witnesses including seven members of President Nixon's White House and campaign staffs and two officials of the Democratic party.

The case grew out of the break-in and alleged bugging of the Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building complex last June 17.

The defense was expected to complete its presentation briefly, and presiding U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica scheduled closing arguments for both sides in the afternoon.

The jury was expected to get the case either tonight or early Tuesday after receiving its instructions from Sirica.

The government wound up with only two witnesses today—White House lawyer Fred Fielding and Democratic official R. Spencer Oliver.

Oliver testified only briefly, but said his telephone at Democratic National Committee offices in the Watergate complex was tapped.

Oliver is executive director of the Association of State Democratic Chairmen.

Crash Victim

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—A 19-year-old Lenoir County man was killed Sunday when the small, single-engine plane he was soloing crashed in a wooded area about 10 miles east of Rocky Mount, police said.

The victim was identified as Rudolph Anthony Derosa Jr. of Rt. 1, LaGrange.

Derosa had taken off from the Rocky Mount Municipal Airport about 1:45 p.m. and the Federal Aviation Agency said it had one radio contact with him before there crash. There was no indication he was in trouble, the FAA said.

Witnesses said Derosa made several passes over the area where he crashed. On the final time about 2:45 p.m., the plane caught tree tops as it flew over at high speed and "virtually disintegrated," witnesses said.

The FAA is investigating the crash.

Accounting Of U.S. Missing In Laos May Swell POW List

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is pinning hopes on an expected accounting of Americans lost in Laos to swell the total of 555 U.S. fighting men known to be prisoners of the Communists in Indochina.

In providing lists of U.S. captives in North and South Vietnam, the Communists failed to furnish information on Americans taken prisoner in Laos.

The Pentagon also said there are no clues to the fate of 1,315 Americans still missing in action in Southeast Asia.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said Sunday that the Laotian problem is being discussed with the North Vietnamese through diplomatic channels in Paris.

"We do expect to receive a list," Friedheim said. "We hope to have it shortly."

If necessary, he said, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, chief U.S. representative to the temporary four-power joint military commission supervising the cease-fire, would raise the issue at the group's first meeting.

The question of the missing, Friedheim said, will be pursued in the coming months with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong by going over the list of missing, name by name, to obtain information on their whereabouts.

In identifying by name the 555 American POWs in North and South Vietnam to be released by the Communists within the 60-day period following the cease-fire, the Pentagon said North Vietnam also reported that 55 POWs died in captivity.

He said every effort will be made to learn the cause of death in each case.

The 555 Americans awaiting freedom include 76 Army, 135 Navy, 318 Air Force and 26 Marines.

Notification of relatives of the living, the dead and those still missing was completed by casualty-assistance officers Sunday within 24 hours after the POW list was received by the Pentagon from Paris.

The Defense Department previously listed 591 American servicemen held as prisoners. Few of the 1,334 previously carried as missing were on the list of living provided by North Vietnam.

This was a bitter disappointment to the Pentagon and families of the missing, many of whom waited for as long as eight years with the slim hope that their men would turn up as prisoners and some day return home.

The largest organization of POW-MIA families says it is "gravely concerned" that Hanoi has provided no list of those captured in Laos.

Phyllis Galanti, board chairman of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, told a news conference in Washington Sunday: "At this stage, we confidently expect that the list of names will be forthcoming soon."

Survey Indicates No Veto Yet For N.C. Governor

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina is the only state whose governor does not have the veto power. And it's going to stay that way a while longer.

This was clearly indicated by an Associated Press survey of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee. Interviews with 9 of the 16 committee members revealed none who were ready to vote for the veto power bill which is before the committee. A couple of committee members were undecided while the others said "No."

"I'm against it now or ever, Democrat or Republican," said Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash.

"Unless I change my mind

I would not vote to give the veto power," echoed Rep. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt.

One of those who indicated he would consider voting for a constitutional amendment to give the governor the veto was Rep. W. S. Harris Jr., D-

Alamance.

"I would like to hear the arguments before I make up my mind," said Harris, "but I'm leaning more toward it than I was previously." Harris said he had opposed veto legislation in the past when his fellow Democrats were governor, but now with a Republican governor and a Democratic legislature he could see some reason for arming the governor with veto power.

Rep. C. Dempsey McDaniel, R-Forsyth, said he would favor giving the governor the veto if a constitutional amendment allowing the governor to succeed himself is passed and if the General Assembly goes to annual sessions.

"I will consider the veto power for the governor when the governor gives up the tremendous appointive power he now has," said Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake.

"In my opinion the appointive power makes our chief executive one of the strongest in the nation since I know of no governor with the appointive powers of as tremendous a scope as the governor of North Carolina," Twigg added.

"I think our whole structure of government in North Carolina would have to be changed in order for me to vote to give the governor the veto power," said Rep. Roberts Jernigan.

Jernigan said North Carolina gives its governor more appointive power than other states and to also give him the veto "would give him too much power."

Discloses Bank Of Winterville Had A Good Growth Year

WINTERVILLE — Bank of Winterville president C. D. Langston told stockholders attending the bank's 67th annual meeting Friday night at 1972 was a year of significant growth.

Langston reported that total resources, as of Dec. 31, were $7,660,567.90, an increase of $1,578,371.71 over the previous year. He noted that the growth in resources is continuing and the total has now reached $9,162,345.53, a record high.

The president attributed the growth to the "bank's acceptance by the individuals and businesses in the Greenville area and the continued loyalty of customers in the Winterville and Ayden area.

Langston reported

"significant increases" in the bank's income as well as in the contribution to the community through interest paid to depositors and in salaries and employee benefits. Interest paid to depositors during the year, he continued, totaled $177,551.60 while salaries and employee benefits amounted to $125,778.88. Both are record amounts, he said.

Net earnings, per share, after taxes, were $7.55 in 1972, compared to $7.08 for the previous year.

Langston told stockholders. William C. Glidewell Jr., executive vice president, was elected to the bank's board of directors and will join eight

Extend Tax-Listing Deadline

The tax listing period for owners of real and personal property in Pitt County has been extended until February 7, by the Board of County Commissioners.

According to county tax supervisor R. S. Moye, the Commissioners extended the January 31 deadline to February 7, due to the heavy snow earlier this month.

Moye said only about 75 per cent of the expected number of tax payers have listed their property so far. He said persons owning real and or personal property and failing to list their property for tax purposes before the tax listing places close on February 7, will face a 10-per-cent penalty for late listing.

Moye said tax listers are operating in each of the townships in the county and he said property should be listed in the township in which it is located.

He noted that tax listers will not be working on Saturday. Property, he said, should be listed on week-days with the list-takers.

Moye said persons needing additional information concerning the listing of their property may call the Tax Supervisor's office at the Pitt County Court House.

Couple Exchanges Vows Reinmiller-Freeman Vows Solemnized On Sunday In Ceremony On Sunday

Miss Janet Kathryn Smith and James Cecil Clark II exchanged wedding vows Sunday in a candlelight ceremony at 4:00 p.m. at St. James United Methodist Church. The Rev. Roy L. Turnage officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter Smith of Greenville are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Cecil Clark also of Greenville.

The church was decorated with Woodwardia greenery, pyramidal candelabra with sweeping bouquets of white mums and pom poms. In the center was a matching massive arrangement flanked by single candleholders. A three branched candelabra was used during the ceremony, with the bride and groom lighting the two outside candles as they entered the chancel. After the bride and bridegroom had spoken their vows, they snuffed out the two outside candles after lighting the center one together. Pews were marked with ivory satin bows.

Mrs. Roy L. Turnage, organist, presented a program of wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a champagne gown of organza and lace medallions and pearls.

MRS. JAMES CECIL CLARK II

Ivory chantilly lace covered the bodice of the gown and also the sleeves. The flowing chapel length train had satin bows graduating down the back and was edged with lace medallions. Her elbow length veil was attached to a Camelot headpiece decorated with satin ribbon, lace, and seeded pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, pink miniature carnations, stephanotis, and a touch of purple statice tied with ivory and pink bows.

The bride's only ornament was a gold locket — a gift from her mother and a family heirloom.

Miss Anne Edwards McGerrigle of Charlotte was maid of honor, and Mrs. Susan Smith of Thomasville was matron of honor. They wore lavender gowns of polyester crepe fashioned with a high neckline and long straight sleeves with matching self ruffle at the neck and sleeves. A lavender satin ribbon accented the high gathered waistline and tied in a bow in the back with long streamers.

Their headpieces were a matching tailored bow. They carried classic bouquets of miniature lavender and purple carnations, fuchsia and white baby's breath tied with lavender

MRS. HAROLD R. REINMILLER, JR.

HENDERSONVILLE — The Fruitland Baptist Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Vicki Leona Freeman and Harold R. Reinmiller Jr.

Pastor L.C. Bumgardner of Winston-Salem performed the 2:00 p.m. ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Robert Marlowe, organist, and Mrs. Ann Pace and Mrs. Ken Fisher, vocalists.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. John A. Freeman of Hendersonville, and the late Mr. Freeman, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Reinmiller of Winston-Salem.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Franklin Freeman, of Hendersonville, wore a candlelight gown designed with a French Net bodice. The sleeves were embellished with re-embroidered alencon lace with scalloped cuffs. The gown featured a scalloped high neckline and peau de soie skirt with empire waistline and hem accented by a wide band of scalloped lace.

Her veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap trimmed in matching lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of orange, bronze and gold pom poms centered with yellow roses.

Mrs. Leon Lamb of Hendersonville sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length emerald green crepe gown designed with an open collar of ecru crepe edged in lace. The natural waistline was enhanced by a self-tie with long streamers. She carried a cascade of orange, bronze and gold pom poms.

Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Norman of Eden, Mrs. Ray Davis of Rutherfordton, Mrs. Ken Fisher of Milan, Tenn., Miss Linda Kiel of Greenville, and Mrs. Steve Barrow of Annapolis, Md.

Their gowns were designed as that of the honor attendant and they carried nosegays of orange gold and bronze pom poms.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Joel Martin of Columbia, S.C., Greg Petree, Steve Beamer and Kent Bullard, all of Winston-Salem, and Leon Lamb of Hendersonville, brother-in-law of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a sculptured apricot street length dress with a beaded neckline. The mother of the bridegroom chose an aqua street length dress.

For a wedding trip to New York, the bride changed into a Young Edwardian red plaid pants suit trimmed in black velvet with matching black accessories.

The couple will reside in Plattsburg, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University with a degree in social work and has been employed by the Pitt County Department of social services for the past 18 months as a caseworker.

The bridegroom is a graduate of ECU with a degree in business administration. He is presently a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church fellowship hall.

Assisting were Miss Kathy Perkins of Greenville, Mrs. Gary Case, Mrs. Randy Hart-sell, Mrs. Earl Honeycutte, Mrs. Randy Hampton and Mrs. Howard Sitton, all of Hendersonville. Mrs. Tommy Frant of Hendersonville presided at the bride's register.

Group Discussion Held By Club

The Bienvenue Book Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Gene D. Easterling. A group discussion on "Madame Bovary" by Gustave Flaubert was held.

Mrs. Tom Martin gave an account of the author's life, after which Mrs. Easterling led the discussion group. The novel's innovations and the author's techniques were analyzed and the universality of the problems dealt with in 1857 were brought up to 1973.

It was announced that the February program will concentrate on drama. Stuart Aronson from East Carolina University will be the guest speaker.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of J.H. Rose High School. She attended Hardbarger Business College, Raleigh, and is a secretary at Prepshirt Manufacturing. The bridegroom attended Lenoir Community College, Kinston, and is employed by Norman Funeral Service.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Luce of Raleigh, aunt and uncle of the bride, greeted guests and Mrs. Janet Davis of Raleigh, presided at the guest register.

The refreshment table was covered with a satin cloth garlanded with improved smilax and centered with an arrangement of white purple and pink spring flowers flanked by five branched silver candelabra.

The bride's table held a three tiered wedding cake and bouquets of mixed flowers. Green smilax was garlanded on the white satin cloth.

After the traditional first slice of cake had been cut Mrs. Pat Hendricks aunt of the bride served cake and Mrs. Donna Flake of Durham, poured punch. Ray and Randy Luce of Raleigh, cousins of the bride distributed lavender rice bags to the guests.

On Saturday evening following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. James Cecil Clark entertained members of the wedding party and out-of-town-guests at a dinner at the Candlewick Inn.

The bridesmaids were honored at a luncheon Saturday given by Mrs. Raymond E. Luce of Raleigh, aunt of the bride. The bride remembered her attendants with gifts.

Annual Sessions Anticipated

It seems almost a sure thing now that annual sessions will become a part of the operations of the General Assembly.

The State House voted 92-19 to approve a

Tax-Exempt In Line Of Fire

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — An accumulation of exemptions over the years has eroded the property tax base for North Carolina local governments, and shifted a heavier burden to individual property owners.

It's time to wipe the slate clean, said Sen. Wesley Webster of Rockingham, and assure more equitable treatment for all taxpayers.

Bills to accomplish the purpose, carrying out the recommendations of a study commission, will be introduced soon, he said.

Banks, churches, fraternal organizations and others who currently enjoy exemptions will be affected if the proposals are written into law. It's impossible to forecast what the impact will be for counties and cities, through increased property tax revenue or reduced rates, but Webster said it could run to hundreds of millions of dollars.

Webster, a banker who served 12 years as a county commissioner before coming to the legislature, served as chairman for the Commission for the Study of Property Tax Exemptions and Classification. It was created by the 1971 legislature, and spent some eight months digging into the subject. A series of hearings was held as part of the study.

Confusion Reigns

What the nine-member commission found, Webster related, was a welter of exemptions, often vaguely written and at variance with the standard set in the Constitution.

"Every exemption which we felt was not consistent with the Constitution, we recommended it be repealed," he said.

That would remove the exclusion for personal property owned by banks, church property not used for worship, clubs and an assortment of other exemptions.

The commission also has a recommendation to modify an exemption, adopted by the 1971 legislation, for the first $5,000 in appraised value of the residences of the elderly poor.

Blanket Listing Proposed

A major change suggested by the study group is a requirement that all property be listed, whether or not exempt.

The absence of such a requirement, Webster explained, makes it impossible to know how much property falls under exemptions. Studies made for the commission, he said, indicated it may be as high as 15 or 20 per cent of all property.

"If 15 per cent of property is not being taxed, that means the other 85 per cent has to bear just that much more of a load," he observed.

The recommendations may run into some rough going in the legislature, Webster conceded. "Nobody likes to be taxed," he agreed. "We've been just as fair as we could. We didn't exclude anybody. I believe the people will support what we are recommending."

Almost every action taken by the study commission was by a unanimous vote, he said, and its membership included a preacher, bankers, lawyers, and those with other business and farm interests.

The study commission's report now is at the printer. Legislation to implement its recommendations already are drawn. They will be introduced as soon as the printed report is in hand, Webster said.

Farmland Controversy Expected

Controversy may follow a recommendation the commission declined to make. It listened to pleas for classification of farmland near urban centers on the basis of value for agricultural purposes (committing its potential market value for development), but decided against it.

The North Carolina Farm Bureau is a principal proponent of the concept. It has pushed for legislation in the past several sessions, but without success although in 1969 the bill passed the House and failed in the Senate.

A renewed effort is in prospect for the current session. The argument offered is that farmers in the urban fringe find it hard to stay in farming because of the tax burden on their land, due to its rising value for development purposes.

Webster noted that preferential tax treatment for the farm at the city limits would mean adding to the tax bill for the farmer farther out in the country.

Henry W. Lewis, tax expert on the staff of the Institute of Government, told the commission in the course of its study that above 90 per cent of county and municipal tax revenue is derived from the locally administered property tax.

Exemptions reduce the tax base, and shift the tax burden. In the view of some, exemptions have the effect of providing governmental grants or subsidies to the owning organizations, business firms or agencies.

Another problem is the interpretation and application of exemption statutes, Lewis said. "Unhappily, most exemption statutes were written long ago when our society was substantially less sophisticated, and, worse, many of them have been amended in such sloppy fashion that interpretation strains the competence of the most skillful and experienced attorney. Yet our statutes place this responsibility on hundreds of untrained local administrators," he said.

resolution endorsing annual sessions. Since the General Assembly has the ultimate authority to decide on annual sessions the vote seems assured.

Rep. Sneed High argued that the main reason annual sessions should be considered is that North Carolina is becoming more industrialized and annual sessions are "just one of those 20th century devices we have to consider."

Well, annual sessions have long been viewed as something that was coming in this state one day. Many observers believe it will come suddenly this year because a Republican governor faces a Democratic Legislature. Be that as it may, the day of annual sessions is with us and it is going to mean some changes in the way things are done.

First there will be a few, a very few we hope, who will be eliminated from seeking legislative office because they just cannot afford to give up the time from their jobs or professions to go to Raleigh every year.

No doubt, cost of the Legislature will be more with annual sessions, and maybe at times there will be even more confusion in state government.

On the other hand, we are certain that the Legislature needs to look at the budget annually, particularly since state law requires balanced budgets. Two years is too far to look into the future to determine revenues and thus there is the possibility of running up huge surpluses as happened this year.

There will be some adjustments to be made by the legislators and the public, but annual sessions should be a good thing for North Carolina.

Every Effort For The Veteran Is Only Fair

With the Vietnam war ended President Nixon has ordered a renewed federal effort to provide returning veterans jobs.

Certainly every effort should be made to provide employment for these returning service personnel. We would hope that no military personnel upon leaving the service would find the doors of employment closed to him in civilian life..

Counterattack From Congress

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A venomous congressional counterattack against President Nixon's stringent budget hold-down and reorganization plans is now being launched from backroom power centers on Capitol Hill, carrying far more political clout than vague public threats issued by the Democratic party's hierarchy in both Senate and House.

This counterattack is still being waged more in private than public and nowhere with more force than from the congressional office of Rep. Julia Butler Hansen of Washington, 16th ranking Democrat on the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

What makes Hansen a potent threat to Mr. Nixon's determination to hold spending to $250 billion in fiscal 1973, ending subcommittee controlling money for the Interior Department and the Agriculture Department's Forestry Service.

That threat materialized in a private letter Jan. 9 from her to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, the President's newly powerful super cabinet member in charge of natural resources. Mrs. Hansen threatened to refuse to appropriate any money at all for fiscal year 1974, starting July 1, until all 1973 funds, previously appropriated by Congress but impounded by the President, have been released for spending.

"Needless to say," Mrs. Hansen wrote Butz, "I shall certainly hesitate to appropriate any funds for the 1974 budget with 1973's impounded."

What particularly infuriated the congresswoman was a letter she received from Butz Jan. 8 outlining an extra $4 million impounding of Forest Service funds earmarked for fire prevention (in addition to $17 million impounded from the Forest Service account last September).

Replying within 24 hours, Mrs. Hansen tartly informed Butz this reduction "can well mean the destruction of $12 million worth of timber or recreational lands, both public and private...This is damned poor business."

Mrs. Hansen's counterattack goes well beyond money. The new commissioner of national parks, former White House advance man Ron Walker, has tried several times to pay her a courtesy call—unsuccessfully.

Her refusal to see him is symptomatic of congressional anger, particularly in the Western states, over wholesale reorganization of the Interior Department—and quite apart from the administration's impounding of funds. Walker, a bright but very low-level young political operative, is the first head of the parks service in decades without any environmental experience or professional skills.

Both H.R. (Bob) Haldeman and John Enrichman, the major domos of the White House palace guard, attended Walker's swearing in at the Interior Department. That most unusual display of

Strength For Today

IT'S UP TO US

For some reason many people believe that they have to work hard to get the benefits of religion. If they are going to be saved they believe that they must work to be saved. In other words, they will be saved if they deserve to be saved.

All this is contrary to the teachings of the Bible. We do not work out our salvation. It is a gift from God, and it is given to us not because we deserve it but because we have enough faith to receive it.

Peace also is a gift. Jesus said, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." The treasures of heaven are poured into our hearts just as soon as we believe that there are such treasures and that God is eager to give them to us if we are willing to receive them.

The acceptance of God's gift, of course, carries with it solemn moral responsibilities. We are to behave ourselves thereafter as God's children, not as the carefree indulgent children of the world. If we accept God's gifts we must thereafter serve God. It is through this willingness that righteousness grows step by step through a process which theologians call "Sanctification," or increased holiness of life.

Let us never forget that all of heaven's blessings are gifts to be accepted. We can have them any time we will take them.

Let Passengers Work

WASHINGTON — The Long Island Railroad temporarily is back in operation. But it is predicted that once a labor settlement is reached fares will have to be raised. This will cause fewer people to take the train, which will drive up costs, and so on and so forth.

What can be done to make the Long Island and all commuter trains and buses profitable? How can the United States get people to give up their automobiles and use mass transportation?

A solution to the problem has been worked out by Xavier Greyhound, an economist with Rolling Stock magazine.

Greyhound says, "The trouble with mass transportation is that no one is taking advantage of the American work ethic. A majority of Americans feel very guilty when they aren't working."

"That's true," I said. "Where do you find the most idle people in this country?"

"On buses and trains," I said. "Correct. On a bus or a train there just doesn't seem to be enough work for a person to do." Greyhound said "Therefore, the United States is wasting one of its greatest sources of manpower. Millions of people are spending millions of hours on our transportation systems doing nothing."

"You have a plan for them?" I asked. "Yes. What we must do is put these passengers to work. Make them fill their time with useful work which will give them pride and satisfaction, as well as let them earn extra money to pay for fare increases."

"How can you do it?" "As each person boards a bus or train, he will be handed parts of a television or radio set. He will be expected to assemble the set by the time he reaches his destination."

"What a boon to the gross national product." "The train conductor or bus driver will act as foreman making sure the set is assembled correctly and passes inspection."

"What a blow to the Japanese electronics industry!" I said.

"Each passenger will be paid by piecework. Those who live far out on the Island could put together two or three sets before they hit Pennsylvania Station. Those who live closer will have to content themselves with assembling one, though they will be entitled to overtime in the event the train is late." "The Common Market is doomed," I said. "Once the passengers become more proficient we could have them put together cameras, tape recorders and pocket calculators. The Long Island Railroad could become the longest assembly line in the world."

"Fantastic," I said. "People would be fighting to take trains and buses. What about passengers who have to stand up?" "They would be in charge of installing the vertical hold on the television sets," Greyhound said. "To make sure that no one goofs off, each bus line and railroad would have a quota. They would be expected to produce so many sets a day. If they didn't, their bus or train service would be cut off until the passengers agreed to up their production figures."

"This would certainly put the railroads in the black," I said. "More importantly, it will give the people a pride in riding the rails again. For years the glamor and fun of trains has been missing. But as soon as you give a passenger some useful work to do with his hands, he'll become a decent member of society."

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Age scares more people than the weather.

They fear each upcoming year more than the outgoing one, and dread it will mark them more with the tattleale scars and wrinkles of time.

But age or youth really is determined by the attitude of others toward you and your own attitude toward life.

For example, you aren't getting too much older if —

At least half the teen-agers you know still call you by your first name — and you like for them to.

If you get a seat on the bus going to or from work, it's by an act of ingenuity on your own part and not a charity bestowed by someone else.

You are still two inches bigger around the chest than around the waist.

Enough of your high school geometry remains in your mind so that you remember how to prove that the sum of both square of the hypotenuse of a right angle triangle is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides.

In the back of your head there lurks the childish delusion that some stranger you befriended unknowingly will leave you a lot of money in his will.

You can hear someone whistle in the office without having a wild desire to throttle him or seal his lips with paper clips.

There are at least four girls you wouldn't mind taking out for a little fun — that is, if you weren't so happily married.

Some mornings you don't just kiss your wife absent-mindedly on the cheek before leaving. You bend her backward halfway to the floor in a mock-passionate embrace — and then give her a peck on the nose.

Your life insurance salesman is still trying to get you to buy more.

When you get a checkup, the doctor tells you that you are medically uninteresting.

You can throw a baseball hard enough to sting the hand of a 12-year-old boy through his fielder's glove.

Yep, young-timer, you don't have to worry yet about what the marching years are doing to you. You're still sitting tall in the saddle of life.

The Draft System Still Intact

By MIKE WATERS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The credit-card-size piece of paper that raised armies and led hundreds to flee their homes to avoid its reach has been retired.

But the draft system which monthly sent "Greeting" to thousands of young men is still intact and as alive as it was during the peak of the Vietnam war. Only the power to induct men into uniform has been retired.

Eighteen-year-old men will still have to register for the draft—and receive a draft card—and standby lotteries will be held annually.

The power to induct can be reinstated—through an act of Congress—and probably would be in a national emergency. But now, for the first time since 1948, men aged 18 through 35 will not face induction.

The farewell to the draft was spoken by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird who told newsmen Saturday: "With the signing of the peace agreement in Paris today, and after receiving a report from the secretary of the Army that he foresees no need for further inductions, I wish to inform you that the armed forces henceforth will depend exclusively on volunteer soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines."

The action puts the nation's military on an all-volunteer basis five months ahead of President Nixon's goal.

The decision also canceled induction orders for 5,000 men who were to be drafted before June 30, when legal authority to induct young men into the armed forces expires.

During the Vietnam war, the peak in inductions came in 1966 when 383,626 men were drafted. By last year, the number of inductions was down to 48,000. Nobody was drafted after early December.

With the end of the fighting comes a question whose answer was delayed pending peace in Vietnam: What about the draft resisters who fled the country to avoid induction? Nixon promised he would not consider amnesty while the war continued.

While there are no immediate figures on the number of young men who fled to avoid going to Vietnam, there are hundreds of them and the administration has yet to announce its conditions for their return to the United States.

'The New East' Publication Holds Great Promise

A Review

The first edition of The New East heralds a new dimension in communications for all the people of eastern North Carolina; and for the entire State as well.

A project in preparation for some time, Volume 1, Number 1 for January-February 1973, has now been issued and is available to the public.

In this inaugural issue of what will be a six time yearly publication, eight articles cover a wide range of interest.

On ecology, Dr. Tom Linton writes about the problem of shellfish pollution in the coastal waters of North Carolina. He stresses that dangers do exist, but that in some quarters unfounded signals of alarm have been sounded. As he points out, "the only state coastal waters closed by pollution involve clam and oyster areas." Fish, shrimp, octopus, crabs etc. remain on the safe eating list.

Dr. Linton suggests ways to eliminate the causes that have made necessary the closing of 57,211 acres of N.C. salty clam and oyster growing areas. This is a reasoned, factual presentation of a subject that has been a source of growing concern to the people of eastern North Carolina.

Art In The New East by Sam Ragan, offers a hopeful outlook on the state of the arts in eastern North Carolina. Ragan, until recently the first Secretary of the N.C. Department of Art, Culture and History, makes a brief survey of the general history of the arts in North Carolina; and then relates the influences at work and accomplishments achieved in the various art forms within the 42 county area of coastal North Carolina. "We sense a new spirit in Eastern Carolina," Ragan writes, "a greater awareness and appreciation of the arts and what they have to offer in bringing about the 'goodlife' for all the people."

Sports lovers will be happy about editor Franc White's Down Home With "Catfish" Hunter. White not only gives a picture of Jim Hunter the national big league baseball player, but shows Hunter as a man still close to his native Perquimans soil who shares with countless easterners a love for hunting.

Williamston and Martin County Grow, is the subject of Wendell Peele's article. The author covers the main facets of history and the recent growth of industry in Martin County. He reports also on exciting bits of information such as the ghost town of Dymond City and the existence of an old Indian village near Hamilton that could be restored.

In "Leo Jenkins Predicts" the Chancellor of East Carolina University looks ahead to possible changes, some traumatic, that he expects will take place. Among his prophetic utterances, he feels that commencement exercises are medieval processions which ultimately will be eliminated. Dr. Jenkins notes also that "professors share too many diversities." Other articles in this first issue deal with industry—boats and a look at the leisure-time industry; an account of how Wilmington weathered its racial turmoil; and in politics, a profile of North Carolina's Senator Jesse Helms. This first issue of The New East is an excellent beginning. Subscriptions are available at $4.00 per year, postpaid, for six issues. These are to be sent to The New East, 421-425 South Broad Street, Edenton, N.C. 27932.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are eager to get your life on a more solid and secure basis and it's all right to plan it thusly so long as you do not approach others to go along with your conclusions, as arguments and varied points of view could quickly follow. Use tact and diplomacy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Taking any risks where your reputation is concerned is not wise now, for others could be very critical, and pose big problems for you. Quickly get the credit matter taken care of. Avoid further expense.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine ideas that you want to put in operation too quickly, so take it easy and plan them better for good results. Those ideas which an overly glamorous individual has are not for you. Social fun in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You think you can run away from some promise, be it of a personal or business nature, but you would do better to keep it now, scrupulously. Then you make big headway. Avoid the social or recreational tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although you want to make a change where some associate is concerned, you are required to change your methods instead. Steer clear of the public and handle those personal matters wisely, too. Your attitude has not been right.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at that work you have to do although you would rather make radical changes that could be very bad for you. Take the time to improve your health through exercise. Do this intelligently.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You want to have fun and relieve worry you now feel, but make sure you stick to the tried and true, otherwise you compound your worries. Get creative plans worked out better. Take the bugs out of them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't go off half-cocked and get into trouble in the outside world because conditions at home do not suit you. Calm down and right them carefully, wisely. Then you can make big headway in business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Much care should be exercised in motion, otherwise thoughtlessness on your part or that of others could result in big trouble. Shop wisely and don't buy anything you are not sure of. Show that you have good common sense.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't think you can buy your way into what more ethical means could get you easily and properly. Learn to be more thrifty, wise. Get busy and improve surroundings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are all fired up to achieve some personal aim that is absolutely no good for you, so forget it and start something worthwhile. Improve your appearance. Show you are loyal to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't feel sorry for yourself because you have work to do — get it done and then you have time for pleasure you want, also. Use good judgment and forget that intuitive idea that is incorrect. Make this a constructive, happy day, p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't foist your worries upon others now since they have enough of their own. Get busy solving own problems objectively. Avoid group meetings that could lead to arguments. Fine evening for reading, writing.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those practical and businesslike young people who will also be most alert to whatever is of the New Age. So send to the right schools that will help to retain the best of the past, while teaching the best of the present and future, then there can be a most successful life here. Inventiveness is also a good part of the chart. Banking, property management, sound producing, are particularly fine.

Flood Nominated For PTA Office

CHICAGO — Dudley E. Flood, director, Division of Human Relations, North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, has been nominated for the office of second vice-president of the multi-million-member National PTA. If elected at the 1973 convention to be held in St. Louis, Missouri, Flood will assume office in mid-1973.

For many years, Flood has been active in the field of education and human relations. He has been a teacher and principal in elementary, junior high, and senior high schools. An educational consultant with the North Carolina Department of Public Education, Flood was also appointed director of its division of human relations in May 1971.

In the past, Flood, served as a member of the Governor's Commission on School Unrest and the North Carolina State Textbook Commission. He is a former member of the boards of directors of the TB Association, the American National Red Cross, the United Fund, and the Boys' Club of Greenville, Inc. He has served as president of the Hertford County Teachers Association, as co-chairman of the Hertford County Relations Council, and as chairman and vice-chairman of the Pitt County Human Relations Council.

Flood is the author of two pamphlets, "Discipline in the Desegregated School" and "The Principal and Public Relations." He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Delta Kappa Pi, education honor societies.

Freidan Claims A Vast 'Conspiracy'

RALEIGH (AP) — Women's rights activist Betty Freidan says a conspiracy financed by millions of dollars from unknown sources is fighting against ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment in North Carolina.

"My opinion is that this sudden, organized, vicious opposition is trying to manipulate women—to play off what they consider ignorance, passivity and emotion—to act against their own best interest," she told the second annual meeting of the North Carolina Women's Caucus Saturday.

Ms. Freidan, founder and first president of the National Organization of Women (NOW), urged North Carolina women to lobby in the General Assembly for ratification of the equal rights amendment.

She told them to use "all your southern manners but with some muscles of steel under the white fluff."

"You must tell legislators that anyone who votes not to ratify the equal rights amendment will go down in history as an enemy of women and will be retired from the legislature," she added. Later, during a panel discussion of the equal rights amendment, Rep. Marilyn Bissell, R-Mecklenburg, told the women she is "very worried" about the chances of the amendment for ratification in the North Carolina General Assembly.

She urged backers of the amendment to "make yourselves visible" in the state Legislative Building. She added that many women wearing "Stop ERA" buttons were campaigning against ratification last week in the Legislative Building.

N.C. Counts 16 Dead In Weekend Traffic Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Weekend traffic accidents left at least 16 persons dead in North Carolina, the state Highway Patrol reported today.

The fatalities brought the toll for 1973 to 99, which is 41 less than had died in the corresponding period of last year.

Edna Mae Crouch, 63, of McAdenville, died when the car she was riding in attempted to make a left turn across N.C. 73 and collided with a car in the oncoming lane about eight miles west of Albemarle.

Jimmy Ray Wall, 18, of Rt. 7, Asheboro, died when the car he was in ran off a rural road in Randolph County and hit a tree.

Doris Richardson Carter, 23, of Hollister, died in a two-car wreck on a rural road 16 miles south of Warrenton when her car collided with another vehicle which had skidded off, then back onto the road.

Two persons died in a two-car, head-on collision on U.S. 421 seven miles east of Sanford early Sunday. The victims were identified as Elizabeth Bordonhammer, 10, of Rt. 1, Broadway, and 19-year-old Lee Paul Stewart of Marners.

A Franklin County accident was fatal to Johnny Newell Creech, 26, of Rt. 1, Zebulon. The patrol said his car crossed the center line of a rural paved road and collided head-on with another car 1.8 miles east of Pilot.

Norman Edward Hudson, 17, of Rt. 1, Wake Forest, was killed when his car ran off N.C. 98 and hit a tree five miles west of Wake Forest.

George E. Britt Jr., 20, of Rt. 2, Newton Grove, died when a car traveling at high speed ran off N.C. 242 seven miles east of Benson and hit a utility pole, troopers said.

A Raleigh man, 31-year-old James Eddie Pettshaw, was found dead of injuries received when his car went out of control on a city street and hit a tree, Raleigh police said.

A 22-year-old Raleigh woman, Lindsay Paye Harris, was killed when her speeding car went out of control and overturned several times off a rural road near Fuquay-Varina, the patrol said.

Clarence Nixon, 24, of Hampstead, was killed when a car in which he was riding ran off

U.S. 117 in Pender County and hit a tree.

Vernon Scott, 64, of Rt. 2, Henderson, was killed in a single-car mishap about 2½ miles east of Henderson when, officers said, he fell out of a car after it ran off a rural road.

Mrs. Betty Perry, 49, of Rt. 3, Henderson, died when a car pulled into U.S. 158 and collided with the cab of a tractor-trailer truck, investigating officers said.

Marie Goode Heddings, 41, of Hendersonville, was killed near her home when her car ran off the road and struck a bridge.

A 36-year-old Belmont man, Joe W. Brock, died when his speeding car hit a bridge abutment on U.S. 29 about 12 miles south of Lexington.

Keith Clark, age unlisted, of Gastonia, died on Monroe Road in Charlotte when his speeding car crashed into a utility pole, Charlotte police said.

The Associated Press counts weekend traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Sunday.

Scott Is Going Back To Work

RALEIGH (AP) — After three weeks of taking it easy and getting accustomed again to civilian life, former Gov. Bob Scott is going back to work Thursday.

That's when the North Carolina Agribusiness Council Inc. opens its offices here.

Scott said there's plenty to do in his job as executive vice president of the council.

And, he said in an interview with Woodrow Price of the Raleigh News and Observer he's sure of two things:

—He won't be doing any lobbying, not in the sense of frequenting the state Legislative Building.

—And he won't be keeping regular office hours.

But it will be open, from 8 to 5 each day, Mondays through Fridays, with Betsy Hinton in charge.

Mrs. Hinton has worked for Scott since she became his secretary in 1962 when he was master of the State Grange. She has stayed with him through two political campaigns and service as lieutenant-governor and governor.

The Agribusiness Council, which was formed in 1969, has not been very active up to now but things are expected to change.

Wayne Corpening, a senior vice president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and the council's chief organizer, is its president. He said the council strives to represent agriculture, business and industrial group on matters of common interest, to coordinate the efforts of these groups and "to help increase each group's awareness that a common interest does exist."

At first, Scott said he will be working in three broad areas. "First," he said, there is the exporting of North Carolina products, manufactured as well as farm. Then there is the need to promote balanced economic growth in the state—I mean in harmony with protecting our environment. And third, there is the need to promote those industries and businesses which already are established in North Carolina, to help them expand.

The former governor said he plans to interest himself deeply in land use planning and environmental laws.

"We all recognize the public's attitude of trying to reduce pollution and everything that does harm to the environment. But we also recognize that there must be economic growth which creates jobs for people and provides income of families," Scott said. "This can be done, I am convinced, in a way that won't harm the environment."

"There are environmental laws and regulations being proposed now that would affect farmers as well as industry, and I mean laws at both the state and federal level, sometimes by those with little understanding of the costs involved."

Hanoi Lists 55 Americans Who Died In Captivity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Sunday night released a list of 55 American servicemen whom the North Vietnamese have reported died while held captive during the Vietnam war.

The Pentagon said some of the deaths have been disclosed before but could not immediately identify which ones. However, unless noted, the following names did appear on the latest Pentagon listing, issued Dec. 30, 1972, of military personnel held captive or missing in action.

The Pentagon provided only names, service and ranks of the men. Additional information such as hometown or date of capture or death comes from a variety of sources, including antiwar groups, Radio Hanoi broadcasts and POW wives.

Party Hunts Plane Wreck

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—A search party investigating a report that a light plane crashed resumes its search today in the Cades Cove area of the Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

Seven park rangers hiked into the rugged terrain Sunday after the Federal Aviation Administration's Knoxville Flight Service Station said the wreckage of a downed plane was spotted by a pilot of a passing plane.

An FAA official said it was not known whether a crash had occurred. A plane believed to be carrying four persons took off from Knoxville's Island Home Airport bound for Murphy, N.C., Saturday, the FAA said, and efforts to locate the plane were unsuccessful.

The FAA spokesman said officials were unsure whether the missing plane had been able to land safely before reaching its destination.

The mountainous area around Gatlinburg has been the site of numerous plane crashes, the spokesman said, and officials are unsure whether the wreckage seen Sunday is fresh.

Park officials said a two-inch blanket of snow in the area where the wreckage was seen hampered the search efforts.

Snow and darkness forced the search party to abandon the search for the night late Sunday.

Report Indicates Discrimination At U. Of Calif.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An unreleased federal report indicates the University of California has discriminated against women at its main campus at Berkeley near here, the San Francisco Chronicle reported.

The newspaper said the report, prepared by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, shows some evidence women are receiving less pay than men for the same non-academic positions.

As evidence of restricted access, the report cites the small proportion of women in the Berkeley Academic Senate, which includes all regular full-time faculty, the Chronicle said.

Berkeley Chancellor Albert Bowker has refused to release the report on grounds it was under "confidential study" by the administration, the newspaper reported.

Trustees Help Forestry Work

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP) — A portable facility now located near here is officially called the State Conservation Camp. But unofficially it's known as the "state honor camp."

"Hand-picked" trustees from the State Prison at Rawlins, Wyo., live at the camp and help pay their debt to society through a special program of the Wyoming State Forestry Division.

"The jobs they do are jobs that would never get done otherwise because we don't have the funds," said District Forester Bruce Barker.

Barker said few of the trustees go into forestry work after their release, but he says the program serves as a type of rehabilitation.

"It takes first offenders away from the 'hard' cases at the penitentiary," said Barker, "and at the same time teaches them to work with other people, something that many have never learned."

The camp was started in 1964 as a joint effort of the State Prison and the State Forestry Division. It has a 12-man capacity, although the present crew is composed of six workers and a cook.

Presently, the crew is expanding the Wyoming State Forestry office two miles north of here. Plumbing facilities are under construction and a quonset hut will be built for pine cone seed drying and shop projects. Plans also include a saw mill, parking lot and highway.

The camp is composed of four 5-ton, 6-wheel drive trucks with vans to pull an old-fashioned "out-house." There are several small camping trailers used as sleeping quarters and the men construct local work sites. Each small trailer accommodates two men and has its own television set.

The camp has no walls or locks and the security guard doesn't carry a gun.

"The men are truly on their honor," said Barker. He said that in eight years, only two trustees have fled the camp.

Nixon Budget...

A deep cut was proposed in special aid for schools in areas where federal installations add to education costs—the "federally impacted areas." The budget called for $131 million for the program, as against $467.5 million this year.

Welfare

In tacitly conceding defeat for Nixon's welfare-reform plans, the budget says Washington instead will help states remove ineligibles from the welfare rolls and eliminate inequities in the system.

A cutback of $1.2 billion in state-federal public-assistance programs is anticipated, for a total of $12.7 billion. Most of the decline will result from the transfer of aged, blind and disabled beneficiaries to a newly federalized program in the Social Security system next Jan. 1.

DEFENSE

Nixon said the budget "assures us of sufficient strength to preserve our security and to continue as a major force for peace," even without relying on a peacetime draft.

The $81.1-billion budget will permit continued development of the Trident sea-based ballistic-missile system and the B1 advanced manned strategic bomber, and begin development of a strategic submarine-launched cruise missile.

SPACE

Instead of the expected cuts, the space program won a $74-million increase in funds for 1974, to a total of $3.133 billion. The reusable space shuttle will get $475 million instead of the present $200 million.

SkyLab, a three-man experimental space station, also is being pushed forward. It will test man's ability to live and work in space for up to 56 days.

HEALTH

The President invited a tussle with Congress by calling for an end to federal hospital construction under the Hill-Burton program, but his budget calls for an over-all increase of 14 per cent in outlays for health programs, mostly on Medicare and Medicaid.

A $91-million increase in funds for cancer research and $28 million more for heart research—programs favored by Nixon—are requested. But other research programs of the National Institutes of Health would be decreased or left even.

Education

Nixon proposed a $1.7-billion special revenue-sharing program to combine a number of education programs, and called for a $1.3-billion cutback in funds under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Shakeup Not All Pleasant

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser says his administration's reshuffling of the mental health bureaucracy in Raleigh has "not all been pleasant, nor will it continue to be."

Holshouser spoke at the dedication of the Tideland Mental Health Center in This Beaufort County community Sunday afternoon.

He said the speech was delivered to emphasize "that I have dedicated my administration to helping solve the problems that beset our mental health system."

Holshouser said the administrative shakeup which began with the ouster of Dr. Eugene Hargrove as Commissioner of Mental Health is only one of the steps he is pushing.

The legislature, he said, has been asked to appropriate $30 million in new funds for mental health to improve staff salaries and training programs, as well as increased aid to local programs.

The legislature should also, he said, authorize a completely independent study of the system he will ask for, to be done by people from outside the state who will "call a spade a spade."

He said he has also asked the General Assembly to review state statutes governing admittance and discharge to mental hospitals, incompetency, and patients' rights.

But, as things stand now, Holshouser said, it is evident that "patients (are) still trapped in nightmarish environments."

Widespread Violation Of Ceasefire Charged

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government and its Communist opponents accused each other today of widespread violations of the cease-fire. Officials of the new international peacekeeping force expressed hope of getting teams of observers into the field by Tuesday.

An American soldier died today of wounds suffered Sunday, the first U.S. fatality since the cease-fire went into effect. In the four days prior to the truce, four American military men were killed, and 19 U.S. soldiers and 12 U.S. civilians were wounded.

The U.S. Command announced the withdrawal of another 400 troops today, the second contingent of 400 men to leave since the cease-fire agreement took effect Sunday.

The Command said the men were flown out of the country by commercial airliners. This dropped U.S. troop strength in Vietnam, to 22,700 men. The cease-fire agreement requires them to leave the country by March 28.

The South Vietnamese command reported nearly 500 violations of the cease-fire by Communist forces since it went into effect at 8 a.m. Sunday.

The Viet Cong in a broadcast accused the Saigon government of "unceasingly violating the cease-fire agreement by military actions . . . throughout South Vietnam."

It said its forces "throughout the entire area of South Vietnam have completely carried out the cease-fire."

From one end of the country to the other, reports flowed into Saigon of sharp fighting.

In Quang Tri Province below the demilitarized zone there were heavy artillery barrages just as before the truce. In many other areas, small but bloody battles were fought for control of villages and hamlets before the international observer teams are deployed.

South Vietnamese officials reported that total casualties on both sides since the cease-fire was announced five days ago approached the bloodiest weeks of last year's Communist offensive. They said 6,133 were killed, including 3,322 enemy and 575 government troops. Of these, 1,095 enemy and 168 government men died in the 24 hours beginning at 6 a.m. Sunday, two hours before the cease-fire began.

Again Show Old Cannons

HAMILTON — The contested cannon of Martin County are now on view again, according to Sheriff Raymond Rawls.

"We've got them on display in front of the police station in Hamilton," the sheriff said. "There's been lots of interest in these Civil War items."

A hearing on the disputed items in scheduled February 5 before District Judge Perry Martin in Plymouth. Ownership of the cannon, retrieved last summer from the Roanoke River near Hamilton at Fort Branch, a Civil War outpost, has been a subject of considerable dispute.

They were raised and salvaged by an out-of-state salvage group who were allegedly operating without the proper salvage permit from the state.

"We're glad to give the public another opportunity to view the cannons," Rawls commented. He noted, however, that a court order had directed he keep a guard posted day and night on the cannon. "And this is really creating a personnel problem for us," he noted.

Large Drug Cache Found

MOUNT LAUREL TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Two Greenville, S.C., men are among three persons held without bond on drug charges after the State Police uncovered more than a kilogram of eight per cent pure heroin worth an estimated $500,000.

The cache was discovered Sunday when police stopped a northbound car at the New Jersey Turnpike for erratic driving, a police spokesman said.

Ralph Sullivan, 35, and Tommie Robinson, 31, both of Greenville, and William M. Taylor, 22, of Decatur, Ga., were arrested by trooper James Boyland when he noticed their vehicle darting in and out of the lanes on the super highway.

Police said the three men had no registration documents for the car and were "acting suspiciously." A "quick search" uncovered the drugs, police said.

The police said they also found $11,000 in cash, 6.2 pounds of quinine, a heroin cutting agent, and related processing paraphernalia.

All three were charged with possession of heroin, intention to sell drugs and conspiracy. They were held at the Burlington County Jail in Mount Holly.

Fish Farming Like A Story Come True

NEW YORK (UPI) — This, marine biologists tell us, is the dawn of the age of aquaculture, when "farming" fish at the edge of the sea and harvesting marine stocks will create vast new food supplies. And when all this comes about, it will be like a fairy tale come true in more ways than one.

A while back, the fictional Dr. John Dolittle implied that the world would be a better place "if we could talk to the animals."

Now marine scientists are echoing Dr. Dolittle's refrain. Dr. John H. Todd of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts, for one, is specifically interested in "talking" to fish and crustaceans, such as the lobster.

"Once we learn the chemical and acoustic signals that are the key links in the life of these animals, we should be able to reproduce them," Todd reports in a forthcoming issue of The Lamp, published by the Exxon Corporation. "These signals could be used selectively to save threatened marine populations and to help harvest marine stocks."

Scientists already know that chemical signals cause migratory fish, such as the salmon and herring, to return to the streams of their birth for breeding. Once these chemicals can be identified, oceanic "farmers" will be able to create artificial hatching sites and even let their "livestock" return to the ocean to "graze" before returning periodically to

Tar Heels Fall From Grace With Two Loop Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No. 3 ranked North Carolina fell from grace in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball standings during the weekend after two conference losses to Virginia and Maryland.

A bad week for North Carolina fans began Thursday night when Dean Smith's Tar Heels were upset by the Virginia Cavaliers 84-78. Coach Smith said after that game "I'm not going to say we were looking ahead to Maryland, because that would take away from Virginia's great victory."

The week didn't get any better and the Tar Heels must have been looking ahead to N.C. State as Maryland defeated North Carolina 94-88 Saturday.

The fourth-ranked Terrapins got 38 points in that game from Jim O'Brien, whom coach Lefty Driesell had encouraged to shoot more after Maryland's single loss of the season.

O'Brien must have taken Driesell's advice to heart after attempting only four shots when Maryland lost to second-ranked N.C. State Jan. 14.

The victory—the fourth straight for the Terrapins—aided their campaign to regain the top rung in the ACC, which they surrendered with the loss to N.C. State. Maryland won't have to wait long for a chance to demonstrate whether it has come all the way back. The Terps get another shot at the Wolfpack Wednesday night in a 9 p.m. regionally televised game at Raleigh.

Unbeaten N.C. State, No. 2 nationally and leading the ACC standings, out-hustled and out-shot Furman of the Southern Conference 98-73 Saturday. Sophomore David Thompson's 27 points led the winners who broke a five-game Furman winning streak.

Clemson arose from the cellar to win its first game in five ACC starts over erratic Virginia 64-63. It was the same Virginia team that upset North Carolina Thursday in Chapel Hill. David Angel's 17 points and 21 rebounds led the Tigers. Barry Parkhill scored 21 points to lead Virginia.

Duke found Atlanta hospitality lacking on the basketball court Saturday as Georgia Tech handed the Blue Devils an 88-86 loss. The victory margin came on a short jumper from Tech's Andy McCain with 11 seconds to go. Duke's Chris Redding led all scorers with 23 points.

Davidson dropped Wake Forest to 9-7 by winning at Charlotte Saturday. Davidson never lost the lead, despite 26 points by Deacon Tony Byers.

This week's schedule: Wednesday-Maryland at N.C. State, 9 p.m. regional TV; Wake forest at North Carolina; West Virginia at Virginia.

Saturday-Maryland at Duke 1:30 and Virginia at N.C. State 3:30, both regional TV; Virginia Tech at Wake forest; Clemson at Georgia Tech.

GOING DOWN — Clemson University's Van Gregg (with ball) falls to the floor in Atlantic Coast Conference action against Virginia Saturday night. Virginia's Bob McKeag (24) and Clemson's Bud Martin (24) are also in on the play. Clemson won their first ACC game of the season by downing Virginia 64-63. (AP Wirephoto)

Someone Might Walk In The Back Door For NCAA Berth

By GORDON D.S. PETERSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament is still over a month away, but if the play in the ACC so far is any indication of things to come, someone is likely to walk in the back door and claim the title and an NCAA playoff berth.

The ACC remains the foremost proponent of championship-by-tournament play, throwing regular season records out the window.

While top-ranked UCLA was breaking records, ACC coaches agreed that the season that matters for them is the one from March 8-10 this year at Greensboro, N.C.

The ACC's North Carolina State, North Carolina and Maryland were ranked No. 2, 3 and 4, respectively, in last week's Associated Press poll. North Carolina's Tar Heels most certainly will skid after last week's results, which saw them fall to Maryland 94-88 on Saturday, after being ambushed by Virginia 84-78 Thursday night.

North Carolina State blasted Furman 98-73 in non-conference action and should keep its stranglehold on No. 2.

The headline story in college basketball over the weekend was the record-setting performance by UCLA in breaking San Francisco's consecutive victory streak with their 61st, 82-63 over Notre Dame.

In the dog-eat-dog ACC, North Carolina State plays Maryland on Wednesday and still must play North Carolina twice. Maryland, which as lost earlier to North Carolina State, has to travel to Chapel Hill next month for a rematch with North Carolina.

North Carolina State used a 27-point performance from super-sophomore David Thompson to bury Furman. The Wolfpack, the highest scoring team in the country, piled up a 51-29 halftime lead.

Maryland's Jim O'Brien, be-rated earlier in the week by Coach Lefty Driesell for not shooting, overcame his bashfulness and scored a career high 38 points in leading the Terrapins over North Carolina.

UCLA became the most powerful dynasty in college basketball history by defeating Notre Dame behind Bill Walton, of whom Coach Digger Phelps of the Irish said, "What can you say about him, he does everything well."

In other Saturday action involving teams in the Top Ten, No. 5 Long Beach State stopped Northern Illinois 101-86; sixth-ranked Indiana beat Michigan 79-73; seventh-ranked Missouri blasted Nebraska 78-65; No. 8 Minnesota clobbered Michigan State 93-77; ninth-ranked Alabama edged toward the Southeastern Conference crown by beating Tennessee 72-56 and No. 10 Marquette stomped Loyola of Chicago 73-54.

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — They called him "High Pockets," but George Kelly was more than just a colorful appellation.

To Frankie Frisch, he was one of the finest first basemen who ever lived. To Waite Hoyt, he was a dangerous man in the clutch.

And to the people who vote for such things, he is a perfect choice for the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Kelly, the power-armed infielder of the New York Giants in the 1920s, was elected to the Hall Sunday along with two others by the Oldtimers Committee.

Also selected were pitcher Mickey Welsh, a 300-game winner with the Giants prior to the turn of the century, and Billy Evans, a top-flight American League umpire in the 1920s.

The committee attempts to revive baseball names from the past and only considers those whose careers ended at least 20 years ago. The new selections will be immortalized in services this summer at Cooperstown, N.Y., along with pitcher Warren Spahn, a modern-day player who was picked last week by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Kelly, a sprightly 77-year-old who lives in Millbrae, Calif., is the only living member of the three chosen on Sunday.

Frisch, the Hall of Fame infielder who played on the Giants' World Series-winning teams with Kelly, recalled a teammate with one of the finest arms in the game.

Kelly was involved in a famous double play with Frisch that helped the Giants beat the New York Yankees in the 1921 World Series. A Yankee runner was on first base when Frank Baker hit a sharp ball in the hole between first and second.

Second baseman John Rawlings made a spectacular stop of the ball and threw to Kelly to get the runner coming down the line. Then Kelly uncorked a bullet throw to Frisch to nail the runner who was going from first to third to complete the double play that ended the Series.

Hoyt, the great Yankee pitcher who faced Kelly in that World Series, recalled "more than just a first baseman."

"He was," said Hoyt, "one of the greatest clutch hitters in the game."

Welsh compiled a 311-207 record in 12 years and was a 20-game-winner seven straight seasons. He pitched from 1880 to 1892 with the Giants, first in Troy, N.Y., and then in New York City.

His top season was in 1885, when he won 44 games and lost 11.

Evans, a long-time umpire, also was a general manager with the Cleveland Indians. He worked as a sports writer for many years with Newspaper Enterprise Association.

"He was one of the finest gentlemen from the position of refinement to ever grace the diamond," said Hoyt, one of the 12-man Oldtimers Committee.

Race Mixup Mars Meet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They'll never know who the best 1,000-yard man was in the Albuquerque Invitational Track and Field meet ... but give the 824-yard title to Kenya's Mike Boit.

Boit crossed the tape first in the confusing race that was scheduled for 1,000 yards but reduced to 824 Saturday night when the gun for the final lap was fired one lap too soon.

Meet officials huddled with the runners afterwards and decided not to stage the race again. Boit was declared the event winner, but no time and no other placings were disclosed.

In more conventional competition at Albuquerque, Wendy Koenig took the 600-yard run in 1:21.8, beating a field that included world record holder Kathy Hammond of the Sacramento Roadrunners, who finished third. Marilyn Neufville of the Los Angeles Track Club captured the 300-yard dash in 35.4 seconds.

Scratches from the meet included Chi Cheng, who pulled out of the 60-yard hurdles and pole vaulter Kjell Isaksson, out with a pulled muscle.

Isaksson's specialty provided the excitement at the start of the track weekend with California State's Steve Smith soaring 18 feet, 1/4 inch at the Wanamaker Millrose Games in New York for the first 18-foot indoor pole vault ever.

Another world record tumbled at the Oregon Invitational when Al Feuerbach hurled the shot 69 feet, 5 1/4 inches, adding 1 1/4 inches on to the mark he had established a week earlier.

Pirates In The Thick Of Southern Conf. Logjam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Furman's Paladins and Davidson's Wildcats may be waging a two-team race for first place in the Southern Conference standings, but there's a regular logjam for the next four spots in the standings.

A pair of conference games tonight could make it even more confusing as The Citadel's Bulldogs invade Virginia Military to meet the Keydets and Richmond's Spiders play host to Appalachian State's Mountaineers, holding down seventh at 2-5.

Furman is far out front with a 7-0 record, followed by Davidson at 4-1. Then come East Carolina's defending champions at 4-4, followed by Richmond at 3-4 and The Citadel and VMI at 2-3. By the end of tonight, there could be a three-way tie for third place.

The jam was brought about by a pair of Saturday night encounters in which Richmond edged The Citadel 65-63 on Bob Jacobs' basket at the final buzzer and East Carolina's 71-45 rout of VMI in which the Keydets shot only 27.9 per cent from the floor.

Only one of the other four league teams was successful against outside opposition, Davidson turning back Wake Forest's Deacons of the Atlantic Coast Conference 86-82.

Furman took a 98-73 whipping from unbeaten second-ranked North Carolina State of the ACC, Appalachian was handed a 96-74 licking by Lenoir Rhyne and William and Mary's Indians—who go to Virginia Tech for a nonleague tonight—were routed at Cincinnati 110-68.

Conference scoring leader Aron Stewart of Richmond and Steve Fishel of The Citadel scored 28 points each in the battle of the Bulldogs and Spiders, in which both teams squandered big leads.

Richmond led by eight late in the first half, but the Bulldogs tied it. Then The Citadel three times was in front by nine after intermission before Stewart gave Richmond a 57-55 lead with 5:17 left. The Citadel tied

"If there is ever kept a statistic on defense against the foul shot, we will rank right at the bottom," said Bulldog Coach George Hill. "I don't know what it is about us that brings out the best in everybody's foul shooting."

Richmond hit 15 of 19 free throws, the Bulldogs nine of 13.

A 12-point spree in the first half gave East Carolina a comfortable lead at VMI and the Keydets, bothered by the Pirates' tough defense, never got closer than seven points after that.

Earl Quash had 15 points and Dave Franklin 14 for the Pirates, who shot 52.3 per cent from the floor. Steve Chapin had 12 points for VMI, which hit on only 19 of 68 shots.

Davidson built a 46-38 halftime lead over Wake Forest and never let the Deacons get closer than a point. Larry Horowitz scored 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds and T. J. Pecorak had 15 points and another 11 retrieves for the Wildcats.

Sophomore Fessor Leonard had a game-high 28 points for Furman, but the league leaders were never in the game with N. C. State after the Wolfpack ran up a 51-29 halftime lead and stretched it to 30 later. Sophomore David Thompson led the Wolfpack with 27 points.

Lenoir Rhyne put five players in double figures in scoring and four in rebounding in overpowering Appalachian, whose Stan Davis was limited to 17 points. Buster Mann had 27 points and Andy Anderson 21 points and 13 rebounds for the winners.

Lloyd Batts scored 26 points and Derrek Dickey 25 for Cincinnati against William and Mary, which was led by senior Jeff Trammell with 16 points and freshman Mike Arizin with 12. An 11-point run early in the game started Cincinnati on its way to the rout.

Nicklaus Picks Up 'One More' Pro Basketball

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus lifted his eyes to the skies and murmured: "How in the world did I ever win this one?"

He's just picked up his 42nd tour triumph and his first of the young season in Bing Crosby's National Pro-Am Golf Tournament and he got it in a fashion that Nicklaus described as "one of the most unusual I've ever won."

He and Ray Floyd were given a second chance when Orville Moody three-putted for a bogey on the 72nd hole and set up a three-way playoff for the $36,000 first prize.

Nicklaus won it, just as he did in a playoff with young Johnny Miller for this title a year ago.

Moody and Floyd both had missed their birdie tries when the Golden Bear stepped up to a 12-foot putt for a three on the par four 15th hole, the first playoff hole.

Nicklaus surveyed the situation, then glared at the hole in characteristic fashion—as if daring the cup to refuse his putt. He stroked solidly and a smile broke out. He began walking after the before the ball got to the hole.

"As soon as I hit it, I knew the putt was going in," he said. It did and the Golden Bear was a winner again.

He and Floyd played the wind-whipped final round in one-under-par 71s and Moody, who held a four-stroke lead starting the day's play, blew to a 76 for a tie at 282.

Moody, who won only $13,000 last season, and Floyd each collected $16,650. So that putt, from some 18 inches, that Moody missed on the 72nd hole carried a value of over $1,000 an inch.

"I hit a good putt," the heart-broken Ol' Sarge said. "It was going right at the hole and it hit something and just squirted away. Just squirted away."

Dave Marr took fourth alone with a 72-285, three strokes back of the three-man race for the top spot. Rod Funseth, the surprise winner of the Los Angeles Open, had a fourth consecutive top 10 finish with the day's best round, 69. He tied for fifth with Lee Elder, 73-286.

Lanny Wadkins and Don Iverson, the young men tied for second starting the final round, fell back in the winds that reached 35 miles per hour in gusts. Each had one string of five consecutive bogeys, most on the ocean holes. Wadkins had an 82-292 and Iverson 77-287.

Billy Casper, the leader for the first two rounds, had a 76-287. Lee Trevino was 71-288, Arnold Palmer 76-297 with a four-putt on the 11th hole and Australian Bruce Crampton, the winner of the last two tour events, was well back at 77-294.

Shook Fist, Wins Race

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Defending world champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, shaking his fist at Scotland's Jack Stewart for blocking him, whipped ahead in the final laps Sunday to win the Argentine Grand Prix for Formula I cars.

The 199.5-mile race at the suburban Municipal Autodrome was the first of 14 international competitions for the 1973 Grand Prix championship.

The 26-year-old Fittipaldi, known among drivers as "The Quiet Brazilian," spent most of the two-hour, 96-lap race in third place, trying to push his Lotus John Player Special past Stewart's Tyrrel Ford.

"My car ran perfectly," Fittipaldi said. "I only had trouble overtaking Stewart and he was holding me back. I was waving my fist to show him I could overtake his car."

"I'm not angry at Jackie, but I was angry at the position I was in."

Fittipaldi finally got around Stewart on the 74th lap. Eleven laps later he overtook Francois Cevert of France, who had held the lead most of the race.

Cevert drove a Tyrrel Ford similar to Stewart's.

Fittipaldi's winning time was 1:56:18.22. He averaged 102.53 miles per hour. Cevert finished second Stewart held third.

BIRDIE PUTT WINS — Jack Nicklaus charges toward the cup after knocking a birdie putt into the hole to win the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Sunday in a sudden-death playoff with

Orville Moody and Ray Floyd at Pebble Beach. Moody three-putted the 18th green to set up the playoff. (AP Wirephoto)

Opine Nixon Budget 'Going In Right Direction'

By JOHN DORFMAN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's proposed budget for fiscal 1974 is headed in the right direction, though it does not go far enough, some economists say.

The budget calls for federal spending of $268.7 billion in fiscal 1974, with a deficit of about $12 billion. That compares with a projected $250 billion spending total in '73 and a deficit of about $12 billion for the current fiscal year.

Professional economists contacted by The Associated Press said the President's intention was apparently to reduce stimulation of the economy by cutting back the amount of money pumped into it through deficit spending. They indicated general approval of this intention.

However, four economists said Nixon had not gone far enough in the right direction. "We should really be running a surplus next year," said James O'Leary, executive vice-president and economist for U.S. Trust Co.

"Just to have a smaller deficit isn't enough."

O'Leary sees a booming economy ahead, with the danger of inflation fueled by consumer demands. Of the two major government weapons for controlling the economy — tax policy and monetary policy — the latter will be burdened with the entire task of fighting this inflation, O'Leary fears.

"All this budget represents is kind of a holding action," he said. "It puts a big pressure on the Federal Reserve to be restrictive in the credit area, and poses the danger of another credit crunch like that of 1969-70."

If the Fed doesn't tighten the money supply enough to cause a crunch, O'Leary and others worry that the pace of inflation will increase.

Albert T. Sommers, chief economist for the Conference Board, said a $12 billion deficit would not be much of an inflation factor, but added "if anybody says this budget means there will be no inflation, that's wrong."

Eliot Janeway, a syndicated investment columnist and author, said President Nixon is misinformed if he believes a $268.7 billion budget would create only a $12 billion deficit, and predicted "an inflationary crisis."

Others, however, believe Nixon had struck exactly the right balance.

"It is obvious the administration's determination to hold down the growth of government spending is very real," said William Wolman, chief economist for Argus Research.

"There is no doubt this will strike a blow against inflation," Richard W. Everett, domestic economist for the Chase Manhattan Bank, said the proposed fiscal '74 totals were "moving toward good budgetary policy."

Professor Paul Samuelson, a Nobel prize-winning economist usually regarded as a liberal in economic theory, described the proposal as "a strong attempt to fight inflation by fiscal contraction."

Except for Social Security, most areas in the fiscal '74 budget were receiving reduced allotments, Samuelson said. "Whether Congress can live with this, I don't know," he added.

One thing the Nixon budget proposal makes clear is that federal budget deficits have become routine for the United States. Fiscal 1974 would be the 13th year out of the last 14 in which the government has spent more than it takes in through taxes.

Can the government go on running deficits indefinitely without harm?

"One should keep in mind," said Francis Schott, vice-president and economist for Equitable Life Assurance Society, "that budget deficits of this order of magnitude are a very small influence on a $1.2 trillion economy."

Irwin Kellner, vice-president and economist at Manufacturers Hanover Trust, said the amount of federal debt in relation to the entire economy has been shrinking, and he termed a moderate addition to the debt "Not worrisome."

Still, Kellner and others believe that when full employment is reached, the budget should show a surplus to avoid overstimulating the economy and aggravating inflation which takes away the purchasing powers of consumers.

Others say chronic deficits are bad because they saddle with a large uncontrollable item in the form of annual interest on the national debt — an item which has been running at about 8 per cent of the budget total.

Such untouchable chunks deprive the government of ability to manipulate the budget as a tool of economic policy.

But while many economists felt President Nixon might have done even better, they were glad to see the tool he did bring into the fiscal arena in his budget message — pruning shears.

Culture Lag A POW Problem

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville psychiatrist, a former prisoner of war himself, has warned that returning swiftly POWs from Vietnam into today's American society may have dangerous consequences.

Dr. Joseph H. Fishbein, assistant professor of psychiatry at Vanderbilt University, said the returning POWs will be "subjected to a culture lag that will disorient and confuse them."

"Their wives and children have changed. Their families have aged, the moral and ethical value system has radically changed," Fishbein said.

Fishbein spent two years in a German prisoner of war camp after being captured during World War II while serving in the U.S. Army.

He said the Vietnam POWs should be returned to society "carefully."

"After years and months of indeterminable imprisonment, plagued by fears of the war never ending, and fearing eternal non-repatriation, to be suddenly whisked by jet to a strange and changed world may be the unkindest, albeit well-intentioned act that may be perpetrated on these abused people," he said.

"A unique situation exists in which the returning soldier is largely ignored or even derogated, and the POW is elevated to a strange and uncomfortable pedestal of honor," he said.

He said the prisoners, once "healthy, vigorous men" embraced by "powerful jets, cannons and armaments, now find themselves in a strangely helpless and inferior position, incapable of resistance...This frustrating and humiliating feeling of total impotence may haunt them for the remainder of their lives," he said.

Fishbein warned that celebrations and honors on the return of the POWs may accentuate his, underlying feelings of guilt at surviving while others died, or to his failure to escape or resist while in captivity.

"And when the celebrations do stop, he may construe this as an affirmation and an acknowledgement of his guilt," the psychiatrist said.

"These men have lived a moment-to-moment life, fearful to even plan or hope for the future. Suddenly, on their release, they will be catapulted back into an obsessive-compulsive culture, goal-oriented and future-minded...He will be dazed by this new and unaccustomed freedom."

Fishbein warned that some of the returning prisoners may find readjustment to society difficult or impossible.

THE LEBANESE CONNECTION

The lover-ly laundromat.

The heart-warming, not at all sinister tale of "The Lebanese Connection" concerns a lover-ly laundromat in Miami. The heroine is the pretty, 31-year-old Christine Bardakjy, mother of two, proprietress of Mary's Wash, which she and her husband, Eugene, built a year and a half ago. She's a "thoroughbred Lebanese" born in Detroit. The plot literally involves her customers, who tend to be young stewardesses, teachers, pilots, rookie executives and professional men. Often they have two things in common: they are single and interested in meeting someone of the opposite sex.

This is where Mrs. Bardakjy takes a hand with some match-making. She keeps, under lock and key, a list of singles, and when she spots a likely couple she diplomatically puts them in touch with one another. How does she decide who is right for whom? "Instinct. When you talk to somebody, look them in the eye and listen good . . . I'm seldom wrong." There's one engagement so far, others teetering on the brink and a whole bunch more said to be in love. Real soap opera style.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Adults Spoiled By Negativism

Did 3-year-old Mike possess "Cosmic TV?" Was the ancient prophet Elisha indulging in ESP when he divulged the Syrian king's secret plots to kill the king of Israel? Has our negative adult thinking ruined our early childish faith?

By GEORGE W. CRANE.
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE W-512: Mike Crowder, aged 3, had a breakfast discussion one morning with his mother, Patty.

It pertained to God and his whereabouts. "God is everywhere," his mother explained.

"You can't see him but he can see you."

"And you can talk to him, for he always hears you."

This seemed a bit confusing to Mike.

So Mike headed outside to play in the backyard.

Since the kitchen window was open, Patty could see and also overhear his remarks.

Casually Mike looked up at the sky.

"God, are you there?" he called out.

After a brief pause, Mike then called "Hi!"

And the rising inflection of Mike's "Hi" seemed to indicate that he had seen God and was saluting him in this friendly modern fashion.

Who can say Mike didn't? For Jesus said we adults must become as little children in order to enter the kingdom of heaven (Matthew 18:3).

Could that refer to the tremendous faith that kiddies have in their parents?

For a small child believes anything is possible, partly because he is surrounded by physical giants who are twice his height and 6 to 8 times his weight.

We adults have long since forgotten this viewpoint we held as toddlers.

But we can all regain it temporarily by a simple stretch of the imagination.

For example, suppose all the adults around you are thus 12 feet tall and weighing 1,080 pounds.

Then you'll experience the same relative viewpoint of a 30-pound toddler whose daddy is 6 feet tall and weighs 180 pounds.

"Oh, ye of little faith!" Jesus described his adult associates.

And he added that if we had the faith of a grain of mustard seed, we could move a mountain.

But we human adults have developed so many negative ideas and doubts from our personal failures, that we fail to view life with the positive mental outlook of a child.

Some reputable psychologists believe in ESP (Extra sensory perception).

For occasional gifted folks seem able to see through walls or into a deck of covered cards and predict the turn of a card repeatedly.

Most psychologists, however, are dubious about ESP.

But if "thought" is the magic medium of transportation to heaven, perhaps it just MIGHT be feasible to ride a thought beam via what we often describe as a "flash of insight," or a "blot out of the blue" and thus experience new solutions to problems (discoveries?).

Elisha's servant couldn't see in the sky the legions of horses and chariots that Elisha said were surrounding the city.

And Elisha read the distant

Syrian king's mind, exposing the secret plots of Israel's foes. (II Kings 6:12)

Is ESP a matter of Cosmic TV, where certain sensitive folks of faith can "tune in," though average folks see and hear, nothing?

Stolen Jacket Has His Number

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The person who took John B. Bayles' jacket from a city restaurant won't be wearing it much in public.

Bayles is a motorcycle policeman and the black leather jacket bears his badge No. 626. The jacket was taken from a coat rack while Bayles was on a supper break.

GAMBLING BACHELORS
TOKYO (UPI) — Gambling is the chief diversion of Japanese bachelors, according to a government survey. Bowling is a close second, the survey showed.

Eight Types Of Alcoholic

NEW YORK (UPI) — A psychiatrist who treats alcoholics says there are eight types.

Dr. C. Nelson Davis, psychiatrist in chief of the Malvern Institute for Psychiatric and Alcoholic Studies in Malvern, Pa., categorizes alcoholics as follows:

—The periodic alcoholic. This one drinks sometimes regularly, sometimes irregularly, always ending in a binge.

—The chronic alcoholic. This one drinks daily and liberally. —The quiet alcoholic. He or she drinks right into oblivion without bothering anyone.

—The eight-hour alcoholic. He tends to make family and friends and his own life unhappy. Drinking starts before dinner. The eight-hour victim of alcohol gets drunk on one drink, may sleep for a while but then gets up and is a nuisance.

—The binge drinker. He loses control of conduct.

—The regular alcoholic. This drunk understands his sensitivities to drink but continues to drink anyway. He or she knows eventually there will be a stay in a hospital—for revival purposes. Once released the regular alcoholic picks up drinking again.

—The station wagon alcoholic. He lives in suburbia. The drinking to the dissipation stage is protected by economic status.

—The drug dependent alcoholic. This one begins to take drugs to cushion the rigors of the hangover. In time, he or she becomes drug dependent. Suicide or accidental death usually marks the end for this type of alcoholic.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one spade and you hold:

AK174 ♠AQ95 ♠62 ♠J74

What is your response?

A.—A temporizing bid of two hearts is in order. The hand is just an eyelash short of a three spade bid, so you must arrange to make two constructive bids without committing the hand to game if partner signs off.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A3 ♠A107 ♠QJ4 ♠QJ972

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—When the promoted value of the diamond holding is taken into consideration your hand is better than an opening bid. Partner has shown that he, too, has better than an opening bid so that slam possibilities may be visualized. The suggested call is three spades—an ace showing bid—with the intention of showing the ace of hearts on the next round. This should leave it up to partner to decide the fate of the hand.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J973 ♠84 ♠AK8 ♠A1063

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Despite the fact that you have opened an absolute minimum, it is your duty to see that the hand is played in the contract best suited for your holding. A return to three spades is therefore in order for, with the worthless doubleton and four trumps, there is little doubt that the hand should play at least one trick better at the suit.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠62 ♠KQ76 ♠AK105 ♠84

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The hand is too good for a single raise to two spades, and double raise is not recommended with only three trumps. The suggested call is two diamonds. True enough, this bid of a new suit by opener is not forcing, but there is a good chance that partner will bid again, in which case a delayed spade raise may be given.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AKJ10 ♠Q9 ♠863 ♠K1093

The bidding has proceeded:

East South

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. This is one of those rare instances where we recommend an overall on a four card suit. This hand has both offensive and defensive possibilities so that an immediate bid has the dual advantage of getting your side into the auction at a convenient level and suggesting a good lead should you wind up as defenders.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠82 ♠743 ♠KJ95 ♠KQ102

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ Dbie. ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. We would regard this hand as just a shade below the essentials for a redouble, and the jump bid might have the merit of interfering with the adversaries connecting on a favorable major suit contract.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠1092 ♠963 ♠AK ♠KQ962

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Inasmuch as you have the equivalent of an opening bid, you must make some effort to get to game. The recommended call is a raise to three diamonds, since partner has rebid the suit. If North has a spade stopper and a suitable hand, he should then try three no trump.

Q. 8—As South you hold [both vulnerable]; you have part score of 60:

♠6 ♠KQ1074 ♠K1063 ♠Q76

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 1 ♠

Dbie. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—While your partner's intention to penalize the opposition is very clear, nevertheless, it seems better business to reach for what appears to be a sure rubber. Prospects for more than one or two trick set are not bright. The suggested bid is one no trump. If all means do not bid two hearts, a suit in which partner is very likely short.
