WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to increase consumer food supplies and meet rising export commitments, the Nixon administration has opened the way for farmers to produce record corn and soybean crops this year.

The Agriculture Department Wednesday added more land to potential crop production this year by lowering the acreage that farmers must take out of production in order to qualify for government payments.

One result could be a record six-billion-bushel corn crop and soybean production of 1.5 billion bushels.

Prices of wheat, soybean and feed grain have climbed since last summer as a result of heavy exports and growing demands by domestic producers of livestock, poultry and dairy products.

"Our aim is to see that prices get no stronger than they are," said Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Under the new strategy, producers of corn, sorghum, and barley will have to idle 25 per cent of their acreage base in 1973 to qualify for full government benefits. When announced last Dec. 11, this set-aside requirement would have been 30 per cent.

In all, according to the department, feed-grain producers are expected to wind up with about 16.5 million acres taken from production this year, compared with 37 million diverted in 1972. Until revised Wednesday, the 1973 plan called for more than 25 million acres to be set aside. The new version, therefore, is aimed at putting about nine million acres back to work.

More feed and soybeans are needed, officials said. The expansion could mean that farmers will plant 74 million acres of corn this year, a boost of two million from what USDA experts expected in December.

Last year's corn harvest produced about 5.47 billion bushels, according to the latest estimate. The record was 5.6 billion in 1971.

Picked Up In Jungle By Copters

VC General Joins Commission

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. helicopters flew to a jungle rendezvous today, picked up the Viet Cong general who directed the 1968 Tet offensive against Saigon and flew him back to join a peacekeeping commission.

Five years almost to the day since the start of the 1968 attack on Saigon, the U.S. helicopter crews brought Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra and 28 other Viet Cong men to Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

Tra is the 55-year-old deputy military commander of the elusive COSVN, the Communists' Central Office for South Vietnam. As chief Viet Cong member of the four-party joint military commission, he likely holds the key to the release of American prisoners of war held in South Vietnam.

Seven U.S. helicopters marked with white stripes picked up Tra and his men at Loc Ninh, a rubber plantation town 75 miles north of Saigon which Tra's forces captured last year.

They were taken to Camp Davis, a former U.S. Signal Corps installation at Tan Son Nhut, where the other Communist cease-fire delegates are housed.

Because of Tra's absence, the peacekeeping group made up of the four belligerents has been unable to start arranging the exchange of prisoners or the security safeguards that must be set up before the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision can send out its teams of observers to police the cease-fire.

Tentative plans were made for the senior members of the joint military commission to hold their first meeting Friday.

Annexes to the peace agreement signed in Paris last Saturday say prisoners shall be returned and received at places agreed to by the four signatories — the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. These four also must guarantee the safety of personnel engaged in the return and reception of the POWs.

Meanwhile, the total of cease-fire violations reported continued to fall off despite continued heavy fighting in the northern provinces and despite the inability of the truce observer teams to get into the field.

The Saigon command claimed there were 188 Communist attacks during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, compared with 209 in the previous 24 hours, 311 in the 24 hours before that and 426 in the first 22 hours after the cease-fire went into effect Sunday.

The U.S. Command announced that another American adviser was slightly wounded Wednesday in coastal Binh Dinh province. He was hit by a terrorist explosive, the Command said. He was the sixth American wounded since the cease-fire went into effect.

Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam of South Vietnam returned from Paris and Washington and said he believed the fighting will stop once the international truce teams are in place.

He said if there is a large North Vietnamese invasion, "the countries in the agreement are committed to act but it is up to them to decide what to do."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew flew to Phnom Penh and then to Bangkok after two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu and other South Vietnamese officials on postwar U.S.-Vietnamese relations and aid to the Saigon government.

In a departure statement, Agnew said his discussions had been "candid and comprehensive" and that he had "assured President Thieu and his advisers of the strong and abiding interest of the United States in the security and well-being of South Vietnam."

Bd. Of Education Keeps Standards

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Education refused today to rescind its controversial teacher certification standards but voted 8-5 for more study by a team of professional educators. The motion by board member Barton Hayes to rescind the standards adopted in December failed 7-6 after an amendment offered by board member G. D. Aitken requiring reinstatement of the National Teacher Examination as the sole criterion was tacked on. Aitken then voted against the motion to rescind.

Hayes was chairman of a special board committee that studied the certification issue last month. The committee deadlocked in its effort to recommend any change in the procedure.

Under existing standards, public school teachers are certified solely on the basis of their score on the NTE. A 950 score is required for consideration.

The standards adopted Dec. 7, to become effective July 1, eliminate the NTE minimum and drastically reduce the test's over-all value. Personal and professional qualifications were included in the certification formula.

The board's vote today directs the state evaluation committee on teacher education to consult teacher training institutions on their standards and to report back to the board with any new recommendations for change.

The vote on the Hayes resolution came after an unsuccessful attempt by board member J. M. Reynolds to delay any reconsideration of the certification issue until at least March. Reynolds' motion to delay failed in a 6-6 deadlock, with board member H. L. Trigg of Greensboro abstaining.

Trigg repeatedly questioned Reynolds and Hayes about the meanings of their motions, saying: "I'm not going to vote until I know the graduates of 1973 will know what is happening."

When the vote came up on the motion to rescind the Dec. 7 standards and reinstate the NTE as the sole criterion for certification, Trigg voted in the negative.

"If this makes it possible for the graduates of 1973 to go by the new policy we are going to formalize, then I'm for it. I vote against it," Trigg said.

Report Stennis Condition Still 'Very Serious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, shot twice in a holdup, remained in very serious condition today, but a hospital spokesman said the 71-year-old chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee showed slight improvement after spending a comfortable night.

The spokesman said at 6 a.m. EST briefing that the prospects for Stennis' recovery were still "guarded." But he said the senator was awake and his vital signs were good. The next briefing was scheduled for 3 p.m.

Stennis' administrative assistant, William Cresswell, said Stennis was "very alert" when visited Wednesday night by his wife, Coy, and son, John Hampton Stennis. He said John visited briefly again today about 5:30 a.m.

Police and FBI agents, meanwhile, checked police files and visited several high schools in an effort to learn the identity of two teen-agers who are believed responsible for shooting Stennis outside his northwest Washington home Tuesday night.

Stennis underwent 6½ hours of surgery for the wounds—one in the thigh and one which entered the chest and passed through the stomach and the pancreas. He has been fed intravenously and received multiple blood transfusions.

The spokesman at Walter Reed Army Medical Center,

Maj. Gen. Frank Garland, said Stennis' condition was "still very serious and the prognosis is guarded."

But he said the Mississippi Democrat was "doing well in view of his extensive wounds and the subsequent surgery."

Garland said Stennis had been in excellent health, which "is one of the prime factors to his benefit."

Asked if the senator's life was in danger, Garland said, "Any person who is very seriously ill faces this danger. This is certainly true in the senator's case."

The senator's attackers reportedly took his wallet containing credit cards, a gold pocket watch, his Phi Beta Kappa key and a 25-cent piece. Police and FBI spokesmen refused to comment on their investigation.

The Washington Post, however, said authorities have focused their efforts on known gun-carrying offenders and youths arrested in the past in the Northwest Washington neighborhood where Stennis has lived for more than 20 years.

National leaders, including President Nixon, have expressed their shock and concern for Stennis, a 25-year Senate veteran and a key backer of a strong U.S. military.

Many senators denounced the attack on Stennis as an example of the crime problem in the nation's cities.

Confirm 5 More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed five of President Nixon's six new Cabinet choices and the sixth, Caspar W. Weinberger, is likely to get the nod next week.

Peter J. Brennan, New York labor leader, was approved by a 81-3 vote Wednesday to be Secretary of Labor.

James T. Lynn, Cleveland, Ohio, attorney, was confirmed by voice vote to head the Housing and Urban Development Department.

Lynn also has been designated by the President as one of three super-cabinet officials to coordinate policy in the field of community development.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he expected the Senate could vote on Weinberger as head of the Health, Education and Welfare Department before it begins the traditional Lincoln Day recess next Thursday.

Weinberger has agreed to testify Friday before the Labor and Public Welfare Committee regarding budget cuts in HEW programs.

The remaining term was cut to five years.

The matter came up when a reporter asked Nixon about Americans held by the Chinese. He answered that "we have every reason to believe" that two military pilots shot down during the 1960s will be released "as the POW situation is worked out in Vietnam."

The pilots, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert Flynn and Air Force Maj. Philip Smith, were shot down in separate missions involving Vietnam reconnaissance missions.

"Downey," Nixon said, "is a different case, as you know. Downey involves a CIA agent."

White House and State Department sources say Nixon was only stating fact, not attempting to trade the admission for Downey's release.

In fact, the President told reporters, "we have no assurance that any change of action, other than the commutation of the sentence, will take place."

Nixon Concedes CIA Agent Held

By KENNETH J. FREED

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has publicly admitted that an American captured in China 20 years ago was a CIA agent, but administration officials say it was not an effort to trade for the man's early release.

Other government sources had acknowledged the espionage role of John Thomas Downey and Richard Fecteau when their plane was shot down, but Nixon was the first U.S. official to put it on the record during his Wednesday news conference.

The old official line had been that Downey and Fecteau were civilian employees of the Army whose plane was downed when it strayed off course on a flight from Korea to Japan.

In the period leading to Nixon's China trip last year Fecteau was released after serving 19 years of a 20-year sentence. Downey's original sentence was 30 years, but in December 1971

Claims Governor's Office Curtails Information

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A high-ranking Democratic legislator charged Wednesday that Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser and his administration have muzzled state department employees and curtailed the flow of information to the General Assembly.

Holshouser refrained from public comment, but Senate Minority Leader Charles

Taylor, R-Transylvania, said of the allegation:

"It was either a misunderstanding, or perhaps some individual felt they needed something for the purpose of creating a conflict."

The allegation was made by House Majority Leader Billy Watkins, D-Granville, who said a memorandum issued by Holshouser Jan. 10 seemed to violate Holshouser's appeal to the legislature for cooperation and "the spirit, if not the letter" of state law guaranteeing legislators access to information from state departments.

A copy of the memorandum issued by Holshouser's office Wednesday read:

"A copy of all proposed legislation to be presented to the 1973 General Assembly originating in the departments of state government headed by officials appointed by the governor should be submitted to the governor's office with a copy to the Department of Administration. This proposed legislation will be reviewed by my office and technically by the Department of Administration.

"No proposed bills are to be carried directly to the General Assembly until they are received and final approval obtained from the governor's office."

Watkins said his allegations were prompted by the refusal Wednesday morning of two members of the state Utilities Commission to discuss their proposed programs with a legislative committee.

Watkins said four other similar cases had been reported to him by House committees. In each case, he said, the department officials involved had cited the Holshouser memo or notes issued by Human Resources

Secretary David Flaherty. Flaherty's office said he had notified agencies in his department to submit three copies of their legislative proposals. That directive went out in a cover letter for Holshouser's memo.

On Monday Flaherty issued a second memo urging the agencies "to cooperate with anyone seeking information concerning their area of responsibility and especially to

Third Teen-Ager Slain By Ulster Killer Gang

BELFAST (AP) — Gabriel Savage, 17, was kissing his 16-year-old girl friend goodnight when his killers arrived. The men dragged him from her arms and bundled him into a car as she screamed in terror. They drove away, shot him through the head and left his corpse in a ditch.

Savage was the third Roman Catholic teen-ager slain in Northern Ireland this week, presumably by Protestant terrorists. Two others were badly wounded.

"This, I fear, is a campaign to terrorize and intimidate families," said Gerry Fitt, a prominent Catholic politician.

"They probably died just because they were baptised into a faith other than that of the gunmen," said one high-ranking policeman.

Peter Watterson, 15, was the first to die. He was standing with another 15-year-old Monday in the doorway of his widowed mother's store in the Falls Road district. A spray of bullets from a speeding car cut the two boys down. Watterson died on the spot. His friend survived, badly wounded.

Philip Rafferty, 14, left his home in the Andersonstown district Tuesday night for band practice. His mother said she encouraged the boy to join the band because he had asthma and blowing the trumpet might help expand his lungs. His body was found several hours later at the Giant's Ring, a circle of prehistoric stones outside Belfast. Police said he had been made to lie on the ground, the hood from his coat was pulled over his head, and two bullets were fired into his brain.

"I hope the men who hooded my boy, my pale and sickly boy, and then murdered him will live with the sight of his thin little face forever," said Rafferty's mother.

Savage was snatched late Tuesday night. His girl friend, identified for her safety only as Elizabeth, struggled with the assassins but they pulled a gun and threatened to shoot her, too.

"She ran off crying and the car drove away," a relative said.

Another 17-year-old Catholic youth was walking home Wednesday night when a man behind him shouted: "Hey, you!" The youth turned around, and the man fired four shots at almost point-blank range. Two bullets hit the boy, one penetrating his abdomen. Doctors said his condition was serious, but they believed he would survive.

Robert Ades Continued Painting In Foreign Service

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Born on an old French fort in the far West town of Couer d'Alene, Idaho, Robert Ades, artist and retired Foreign Service Officer, gives his wife credit for the impetus that paved the way for his career in the Latin sphere of things.
In Greenville on Tuesday, Ades visited Washington, N. C. on Wednesday to tape a televised show to be shown on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" over WITN-TV Sunday from noon til one p.m.

"Most of my early training was in Oregon," Ades said. "I majored in art at the University of Oregon and later studied in Los Angeles."
As a young man in the depression years, Ades had a yearning to see the East Coast. "A young friend of mine, a poet-writer who was also a fraternity brother, teamed up with me to work our way to the East coast. My friend had a car, but after we left Eugene, Oregon and reached Seattle, he got cold feet."

Working his way alone, making sketches in color at $1.00 per sketch, Ades reached Washington, D. C.

"I was fortunate," he said, "in receiving a teaching fellowship at the art school which was then in existence at the Phillips Art Gallery. Later I taught art at Hood College in Frederick, Maryland."
At Hood, one of his students was a young Bolivian girl, Christina Villanueva of La Paz. "A year and a half later we married, and made a honeymoon trip to La Paz to visit her parents."

The Bolivian visit to meet her family, coupled with a historic moment in American history led to his career in the Foreign Service. "Pearl Harbor occurred right after we got to Bolivia," Ades stated. "Because of my background in art and teaching, I was asked to go to work in La Paz as director of a motion picture and radio program. Nelson Rockefeller, coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, was my boss."
In 1947 Ade was assigned to Spain, first with an assignment in Barcelona and then for two and a half years in Seville. "I was public affairs officer at both places," he noted.
Later, he served in Washington on an assignment with Voice of America on an Iberian program that beamed programs to Spain and Portugal. This was in the mid-50s.

He mentioned that his Latin connection had strengthened through the spouses his children chose to marry. "My oldest daughter is now Josephine Sanchez. Her husband is with VOA, where he broadcasts in the Spanish language. My oldest son, Richard, married a Bolivian girl." He said their son Christopher, was now attending college and was still single.
Among other assignments in his 30 year career from which he retired in 1971, Ades has been stationed in Guadalajara, Mexico, as Consul and Public Affairs officer in the USIS program. That was from 1956 to 1960.
"I was next Attache and Director of USIS in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, until 1963. Then I was back in New York City where I spent five years with the Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs.
"That was a very interesting assignment. We set up exchange programs for students and for leaders in both cultural and academic programs. My particular capacity in this program," Ades said, "was as Chief of the West Coast division of Latin America, which included the countries of Columbia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile and Bolivia."

He said it was with pleasure that his last major assignment was back where it all first started. "From 1968 until 1970 I was Cultural Attache to our embassy in Bolivia," Ades remarked. From there I came back to Washington to complete my last year of Foreign Service before retiring.
"In all the years Ades was on foreign Service duty, he never stopped painting. "It was mostly a matter of painting portraits," he said. "Many of them were of my own family, some of other children. I also had occasion to paint portraits of various leaders and statesmen." Among those he named were the president of Honduras, various other noted South American political figures, "and sometimes the wives of these people. One of my latest was a portrait of Galo Plaza, Secretary-General of the Organization of the American States."
He has had one-man shows in Buenos Aires, La Paz, Spain and Mexico. In 1946 Newsweek magazine featured him in an article pointing out how he combined consular duties and art.

"One of the real advantages of being an artist during my career," Ades said, "is often people responded more easily to me as an artist than as a diplomat. It was a wonderful entree to get to know more people."
Now living in Washington, Ades says he's happy to have more time for art. "And I'm enjoying getting into fields like lithography and ceramics, something I never had time for before."

Wants Prompt Action To Drop N.C. Primary

RALEIGH (AP)—The chairman of the House Election Laws Committee wants the committee to make a prompt decision on legislation to junk North Carolina's presidential primary which was used for the first time last year.
Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, told the committee Wednesday a decision is needed on the presidential primary so that the committee will know what to do on other election proposals such as shifting the date for primary elections later in the year, allowing absentee ballots in primary elections and placing limitations on campaign spending.

Messer said he had talked with Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the Senate Elections Committee and "we agreed the time has come to decide whether to repeal it or keep it (the presidential primary)."

Messer told his committee he plans to introduce a bill to junk the presidential primary so that the committee can consider the issue jointly with the Senate which already has a primary repeal bill.
"It's something of a stumbling block to some other things," Messer said. He explained that if the presidential primary is retained then the state's primary elections cannot be shifted to a date later than the national party conventions.
Messer later exhibited his bill to repeal the presidential primary law. It bore the name of eight other legislators and, he said, "I'm sure several others want to sign it."
Messer said he has several reasons for wanting to do away with the presidential primary.
"One reason is that we're a small state and the presidential candidates are not going to be paying much attention to us," he said. "We've found that out already."
"Another thing is we completely lose our bargaining position when we send our people to the convention" under instructions to vote for a particular candidate as the result of a presidential primary.
"I think we lose a lot more than we gain by not being in a bargaining position," Messer said.

Sees No Choice In Power Needs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The nation has no choice but to turn increasingly to nuclear fission reactors for energy, the Tennessee Valley Authority chairman has said in a civic club speech.
Aubrey J. Wagner said, however, that for the next decade fossil fuels will have to be the main source of energy supply.
"We simply have no workable alternatives yet available," Wagner declared.
"There will be problems of supply, of price, of air and water pollution—all severe and interrelated. We will have to solve them as best we can. But we can't continue indefinitely because we will run out," he said.
If Americans want to maintain "anything approaching our present living standards, we must find ways to provide increasing amounts of energy,"

Wagner said.
The United States, he said, has enough oil left for 15 to 20 years, enough gas for 30 to 40 more years and enough coal for 200-300 years.
He said the breeder nuclear reactor such as the one to be built by TVA and Commonwealth Edison Co. near Oak Ridge to be the best energy hope for the near future.
But he added that nuclear fission reactors such as the plants under construction at Browns Ferry, Ala., and near Chattanooga, seem to be the answer to energy needs into the next century.

Police Chief Is Using Own Car

RONDA, N.C. (AP)—The northwestern North Carolina town of Ronda, population 2,000, has an unmarked police car, but the chief is not trying to catch anyone with it.
For some reason, the town has been unable to get insurance for its only regular police car. Until it does, the chief, Joseph Morris Brown, is using his own 1959 Cadillac.
There might be trouble if he tried to stop anyone who didn't know his vehicle. So he says that for the time being what he is doing is just observing.
Bit Brown, a former truck driver, says that when he gets the regular police car, he is going to make trucks of certain companies obey the speed limits just like everyone else.

Deficit Spending Not Wanted

No doubt some of the programs which President Nixon has recommended dropping from the federal budget will get a close second look from Congress. We are sure that in some cases certain programs will be restored, fully or partially, and perhaps justifiably so.

Whatever Congress does, however, it should keep in mind that this 1974 fiscal year budget, though it is billed as a lean one, still calls for spending an incomprehensible $268.7 billion, setting as always a new record. More important, it should be remembered that the budget, even at this point, contains a $12.7 billion deficit which must be made up by government borrowing. It is almost a sure bet that by the end of the fiscal year which the budget will cover, that deficit will run even larger. There will be other spending programs proposed and the budget does not include funds for aiding in the rebuilding of Vietnam.

So if Congress expects to add anything to this budget it should also be looking for places to make cuts. We do not know where that will be. Perhaps Congress will find that it will, after all be possible to make some cuts in the defense budget with Vietnam drawing to a close. Whatever is decided the deficit should not exceed what is presently estimated and if possible the deficit should be even less.

That nation's economy is rolling along well now and additional federal deficit spending is going to add to the fires of inflation. If there is anything the wage earners do not need now, it is more inflation, eating away at their earnings and savings.

We regret to see such programs as the Hill-Burton hospital construction grants go by the board and if there is anyway to see these funds restored without exceeding the over-all spending limit that would be fine with us.

Above all though, we would caution Congress against spending which would increase the deficit and bring on more inflation for our nation.

Learning Gap In Sixth Grade

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The majority of sixth grade students in North Carolina are happy in school, like their teachers, and have a positive attitude towards themselves and education.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Yet when it comes to academic ability and achievement the Tar Heel sixth graders lag behind the average for their peers in the southeast and the nation.

The learning gap, as much as a full nine-month school term in some areas, is the significant and disturbing finding from the state's first attempt to assess what takes place in its classrooms.

Results of the year-long study, in which a battery of tests and questionnaires were given to 11,283 students randomly selected from the 101,549 pupils making up the sixth grade, have just been released by the state Department of Public Instruction. The project was financed with $220,000 from state, federal and local funds.

Its value lies in providing an objective and valid measure of academic performance by Tar Heel students, said Dr. Craig Phillips, state school superintendent. The sixth grade survey, he noted, is the initial stage of an eventually broader assessment program which will take in their grade levels.

Aid To Accountability
Identification of school needs and public accountability can be served by the assessment, Dr. Phillips said. "Information obtained through the statewide assessment program will help us document budget requests as well as be accountable to the general public for the quality of elementary and secondary education," he explained.

The fat report from the public instruction department's division of research will provide new material for debate on public education, its shortcomings, problems and needs.

Advocates of greater emphasis upon academic achievement in the educational process, including the training of teachers, may well cite the findings in support of their position.

According to the assessment, the academic ability of North Carolina sixth graders measured an average of 9 percent behind the nation. The range of difference went from 2 percent at some points to 12 percent at others.

Behind In Achievement
The report said that in reading comprehension skills, the Tar Heel students are 7-to-15 percent behind the national average. "It is difficult to translate this wide range into a single number which is educationally meaningful," said Dr. H. T. Connor, assistant superintendent for research and development. "For those who need a generalized result our best professional estimate is that sixth graders throughout the nation are about seven months ahead of North Carolina's sixth graders in basic comprehension skills."

In vocabulary skills, the nation leads the state by 9-to-20 percent, or in a single term, about nine months; in basic language skills, the margin is 11-to-16 percent, or 7-to-10 months; in basic mathematics skills, 14-to-20 percent, or 7-to-9 months.

While the state as a whole is behind both the southeast region and the nation, there also are variances within its borders. Mountain students scored higher than those in the piedmont or eastern coastal plains; the eastern students scored significantly lower than the mountain and piedmont groups.

"Many individuals in the Coastal Plains scored higher than the group average for Mountain students," the report noted. "Indeed, the difference in the group averages is caused by the greater proportion of higher scoring students in the mountain group."

Some Expected Differences
Other comparisons showed results similar to other studies. City students averaged better than those in small town and rural schools. White students surpassed non-whites. Girls averaged higher than boys. Students enrolled in Title I programs for educationally and economically deprived students scored lower than those not in Title I programs.

The assessment included a survey of student attitudes towards school, home and community. "Basically, the students reported that they are happy and satisfied with the world they live in," the report said.

Caution in interpreting the assessment was urged by education officials. The analysis is not complete and student achievement is related to many school and non-school factors, Dr. Connor reminded.

"This assessment program presents the current status of how sixth grade students in the state perform rather than the progress they have made over a period of time," he said. The purpose of assessment is improved performance. "Improvement can only come about when you have the capacity to analyze strengths and weaknesses of students and the sociological, economical, and educational forces that effect them," Dr. Connor said.

Unpleasant To Think Of A Promotional Use

The limousine in which President John F. Kennedy was riding when he was killed in Dallas is to be retired and the Ford Motor Co. is right in being determined that it not fall in hands of those who will exploit it.

If the auto can be placed in a reputable museum, that would be proper. We would, however, regret to see it sold to private interests, with the prospect of it eventually being used in a promotional way.

Life Sentences Draw Fire, Too

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — A bill introduced in the North Carolina House to abolish the death penalty and take away the possibility of parole in capital cases is already drawing fire.

Some legislators believe the bill introduced by Rep. David Jordan, Republican of Mecklenburg, would do more harm than good.

One such view is held, at least in part, by Martin Peterson, a chief aide to Prisons Director Lee Bounds. Peterson joined with the late George Randall to help defeat a similar piece of legislation several years ago.

"You're creating all kinds of problems with a bill like this," Peterson told me. "A man gets into prison for life, with nothing to look forward to, he turns into a desperate individual."

"He'll do anything. He'll attack anybody, do just about anything to relieve the tension."

Jordan's bill would abolish the death penalty in North Carolina, but would make life sentences mandatory in capital cases. People convicted of such crimes would not be eligible for parole.

"You have to start someplace," Jordan told me. "The chief purpose of my bill was to abolish the death penalty."

Jordan said he didn't think his bill would have a chance if he had not included the provision calling for no parole for persons convicted of capital crimes.

"The important thing is to keep these people (death row inmates) alive," Jordan said. "The current sentiment seems to be against doing away with capital punishment. I thought my bill might have a chance if I included the part against parole."

Jordan said he has talked with several legislators who say they will support his bill, even though they don't like the part which prohibits parole and makes life sentences mandatory.

"These people feel as I do that the bill isn't perfect," Jordan said, "but we think it's important to abolish the death penalty."

Jordan has done some politicking for his bill. He has two co-signers and an undetermined number of others who have pledged to support it in the House.

"I don't have a majority of the House with me on the bill," Jordan said, "but I'm working on it."

Jordan has made several trips to Central Prison in Raleigh and he has interviewed people on death row. He says he finds that these people don't want to die.

"My bill doesn't take away the Governor's right to executive clemency or pardon," Jordan said. "When you execute a man you take

Strength For Today

VERY IMPORTANT

The word "relationship" is almost synonymous with the word "life," for life is indeed a series of relationships. We live in a certain neighborhood. We go to a certain school or college. Married people settle down in communities and the neighborhood becomes a big family. All this is indicative of the fact that relationships had better be right if we want to get out of life what God evidently intended we should get. He might have made us all the same in appearance, color, tastes, abilities. But He did nothing of the sort. Just as there are no two people in the world with the same fingerprints, so there are two people in the world exactly alike. Children may resemble parents and take after them—as the expression goes—but they are different from those parents.

The thing that makes home a delightful place for some and a turbulent place for others is the fact that people do not get their relationships straightened out. They may achieve no end of distinguished things, yet if their relationships are neither right nor happy — therefore failure all around. Firms are held together by the mutual understanding among the people who make up the firm. Successful schools and colleges are those which among other things promote satisfactory relationships. There is a time in every life and in every area of life for dissent. The world advances through protest just as it does through agreement. But standing out amid all this is that circumstance which we have come to call relationship.

It's important.

Newsmen Get 2 Rulings

Two cases have come along in recent weeks involving the continuing struggle of American journalists to preserve their rights of free speech and free press. One of them, for the time being, is a victory; the other, for the time being, a defeat. Neither of them has received enough attention.

The victory was recorded in New York on January 23, when U.S. District Judge Charles L. Brieant ruled that news analysts and commentators, engaged in the deliberate expression of opinion on public affairs, cannot be compelled to become members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, AFL-CIO.

The suit was brought by William F. Buckley Jr., editor of National Review, and M. Stanton Evans editor of the Indianapolis News. Both of them work extensively in radio and TV commentary; both are conservatives; both were dragged into AFTRA over their protests.

Judge Brieant took note of the AFTRA constitution, which permits the union to fine, suspend, or expel any member who commits an act "which in the opinion of the (AFTRA) Board is prejudicial to the welfare of the Association." It became evident six years ago, when the union sought to punish Chet Huntley, that such acts include the crossing of a picket line. For any union to have power thus to stifle the expression of opinion on radio or TV, said the court, is a violation of the First Amendment.

If Brieant's ruling stands up — the union is appealing — it will mean that those of us who deliver opinion, labeled as such, will be freed of the chilling intimidation of AFTRA's union shop. The ruling does not apply to TV newsmen and anchormen who deliver opinion, unlabeled as such, but the whole process of editorial selection is a process based on opinion, and Brieant's reasoning would appear to apply across the board. Here the cause of freedom gained.

The picture is quite different in Baton Rouge, La. Here freedom has taken an incredible licking. The case goes back to November of 1971, when U.S. District Judge E. Gordon West conducted a hearing to determine whether an injunction should issue to halt further criminal proceedings against Frank Stewart. It appears that Stewart, a civil rights worker, had been charged with conspiracy to murder the mayor of Baton Rouge; his defense rested upon his own charge that he was the victim of a conspiracy by law enforcement officers to deny him his constitutional rights.

On November 1, Stewart himself was not on trial. The question was whether he should be tried. Nevertheless, Judge West delivered himself of an unbelievable order that "no report of the testimony in this case today shall be made by any newspaper or by radio or television, or by any other news media." His purpose was to prevent prejudicial publicity, but the order was an example — far more

Other Editors Say Saving In Raises

(Raleigh Times)

Pay raises cost money — but a constant loss of trained employees to higher-paying jobs elsewhere is even more expensive.

That's the basic reason why Mayor Tom Bradshaw has recommended pay raises of 10 per cent for policemen and firemen and five per cent for all other city employees. The raises would bring Raleigh city pay more in line with that of five other major Tar Heel cities, and more in line with state government salaries.

The raises suggested by Mayor Bradshaw would cost about $791,000 on a yearly basis. There have been suggestions of an immediate raise, retroactive to January 1, which would give the employees the benefit of higher pay for the last half of this fiscal year.

Raleigh's employees need pay raises, and deserve them. A survey of 63 job classifications showed that the minimum monthly salaries paid to Raleigh employees were lower than the average minimum monthly pay of five other major cities and in state government. This lower pay held true in all but six classifications.

An example of employee turnover can be found in the Police Department, where it is 19.5 per cent for police officers. This is high, and it is usually expensive since policemen are given intensive training before they actually go to work. Often, they leave for better-paying jobs in other police organizations, taking with them the training and experience the city has paid for. A first-year police officer here would be paid $610 a month. In Charlotte, the figure would be $690, and the average monthly minimum in the cities surveyed is $646.

The survey of the five cities showed that the Raleigh minimum monthly wages ranged from 9 per cent down to 33.2 per cent below the average minimum. These figures explain why the turnover is high here.

Economic Restraint Indicated

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You can detect in President Nixon's economic report to Congress the satisfaction of a man who feels he has wrestled some very big economic problems and now has them nearly tamed and responsive to his will.

While the general prediction is that it will be another "very good" year, he said, "I believe it can be a great year." And in the spirit of things he has set some goals that critics might think quite optimistic.

But it is clear too that he is extremely wary that these very same problems, inflation especially, might challenge his leadership. It can be a great year, he said, only if we are prudent. By implication: more restraint, less self-indulgence.

These are some of the pocketbook goals the President has set:

—A continued reduction in the inflation rate to around 3 per cent, averaged out for the year, and a rate of even less than that during the final months of 1973.

This is a critical goal and one to watch all year long. Many private economists feel the rate will be 3.5 per cent or above. Moreover, they fear it might be rising rather than falling as the year progresses.

It also is a goal that can be reached only by a bumpy road. Food is expected to make headlines in the next few weeks as record-high farm prices arrive at the checkout counter. It won't seem like inflation is receding.

The administration concedes it has set its sights high, and it appears to be relying both on the self-discipline of producers and consumers in exercising restraint, and the discipline of the big stick it hasn't used so far.

—Less optimism is shown, in regard to employment. It is even suggested that the level of idleness that must be tolerated has been raised from 4 per cent of the work force to 4.5 per cent, at least, for 1973.

The job goal is for a jobless rate of about 4.5 per cent by late in the year, compared with 5.6 per cent last year and 5.9 per cent in 1971. The rate last year fell through the months to a 5.1 per cent level in December.

While an earlier figure of 4 per cent had been set as the goal, without a specific date for achieving it, the administration is seemingly wary that to seek that level too quickly might force prices higher.

Economically, full employment is not full employment. It is the rate of joblessness that can be supported without producing shortages of skill that, in turn, push up labor costs and then prices.

Millions of Americans will generally be out of work at any one time: unable to work, between jobs, laid off and looking, unskilled and

Watergate Trial Didn't Resolve All The Queries

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever happened to all the sensational disclosures the Watergate trial promised? They certainly didn't blaze forth in the courtroom where G. Gordon Liddy and James W. McCord Jr. were convicted Tuesday of what one defense lawyer characterized as "an ordinary burglary."

It will take another forum in another place—perhaps the forthcoming Senate investigation into an allegedly broader campaign of political espionage and sabotage against Democrats—to answer a raft of unanswered questions.

The major fact officially established for the first time is that Republicans were spying on the Democrats at the highest levels. The lingering question is: WHY?

Government prosecutors volunteered their idea in the opening statement to the jury: "They (campaign officials) were concerned about demonstrations by extremist groups on either the left or the right."

But at the close of the trial, Asst. U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert seemed to be debunking his own theory when he ridiculed the defense argument that this was why the Democratic telephones were tapped.

"Isn't the only conclusion that that had nothing to do with it?" he asked. "They were looking for political strategy and things of a personal nature."

Had there been such knowledge in Democratic party headquarters about possible violence, Silbert said, the Democrats would have called authorities themselves.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who had said the jury would want to know whether political espionage was involved in the break-in last June, took a hand himself when he thought lawyers for either side were ducking questions.

One witness was Hugh W. Sloan, treasurer of the campaign finance committee. The judge sent the jury out of the room and asked some pointed questions:

Q. You said, I think and correct me if I am in error, that you turned over a total of about $199,000 in cash (to Liddy)... Where did you get that money from?

A. Cash fund contributions to the President's campaign.

Q. What was the purpose of turning over $199,000 to Liddy?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Who authorized you to turn the $199,000 over to Mr. Liddy in cash?

A. Jeb Magruder (deputy director of the re-election committee).

Q. For what purpose?

A. I have no idea.

Q. You didn't question Mr. Magruder about the purpose of the $199,000?

A. No, sir. I verified with Mr. Stans and Mr. Mitchell he was authorized to make those.

Maurice H. Stans, the former secretary of Commerce, was finance chairman of the Nixon campaign. Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was campaign chairman. Neither was called to testify, although some of the money provided Liddy wound up with the Watergate burglars.

There were other questions left open.

Sloan said that later in the morning of the Watergate arrests he saw Liddy in campaign committee headquarters, adding:

"To the best of my recollection what he indicated was: 'My boys were caught last night; I made a mistake by using somebody from there which I told them I would never do. I'm afraid I'm going to lose my job.'"

Who was 'them'? It was never explained.

Another witness said Liddy had a stack of papers—indicating with his hands a pile of eight inches or more—and was looking for a paper shredder. No testimony was elicited about what was in those papers, but Liddy's lawyer, Peter Maroulis, said Liddy destroyed them because "he didn't want to cause embarrassment to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. He knew he had made a monumental error."

One of the government's chief witnesses was Alfred C. Baldwin III, a round former FBI agent, who testified McCord hired him to be on the receiving end of the wiretapped conversations.

In a pre-trial interview with the Los Angeles Times, Baldwin said McCord issued him a loaded .38-caliber revolver and said "You'll wear this." Baldwin told the Times he questioned McCord about a permit and added:

"He handed me a card bearing his name and the name of the re-election committee and said: 'You're working for the former attorney general and there's no way a policeman or any other law-enforcement officer is going to question your right to carry that weapon." Baldwin was not asked about the gun at the trial.

A former White House secretary said Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, one of five defendants who pleaded guilty, used an Executive Office Building telephone that was billed to her home in Virginia. The testimony went unchallenged.

Larry Dickinson and Gibbs Adams, reporters for the Morning Advocate and State Times, of course reported the details of the hearing. They are newspaper men. Their business is to serve the people's right to know — in this case, the right to know what was said in open court relating to the possible malfeasance of their own law enforcement officials. For violation of an order they knew to be invalid, the reporters were fined $300 each for contempt of court.

On appeal, the Fifth Circuit agreed that Judge West's order was clearly invalid. Indeed, the order was "infirm," "illegal," and "constitutionally unacceptable." It was so patently wrong that it could not withstand even "the mildest breeze emanating from the Constitution."

Then came the incredible afterword: The Fifth Circuit held that, even so, out of respect for the court the contempt convictions must stand. The effect is to permit newsmen to be fined or imprisoned for violation of illegal injunctions. The effect is to sanction judicial prior censorship while appearing to disapprove it. Thankfully, the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press is pursuing this despotic and ominous judgment that cannot be permitted to stand if press freedom is to survive.

Guns, Other Weapons, Being Taken Into Schools

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

Public school officials in cities across the country report a surge in cases of pupils carrying and using guns in classrooms, corridors and school yards during the past year.

Most incidents occur at inner-city high schools. The weapons are usually cheap, small-caliber hand guns. Officials relate the increase to the revival of juvenile gangs in some cities and the persistence of racial tension.

An Associated Press survey around the country indicated the scope of the problem:—There have been 60 gun episodes in Los Angeles schools since September. Shots from a passing car killed a 16-year-old pupil near Locke High School. Three pupils later were arrested.

—Fifteen handguns were confiscated last year in Atlanta schools. A 12-year-old boy, angered when schoolmates chided him for disobeying a traffic signal, got a pistol from home and opened fire on the school playground. He hit no one.

—Four high school pupils, three of them girls, were expelled this month in San Francisco for carrying guns.

—School officials in Topeka, Kan., took a gun from a girl who said she needed it for protection.

—There were 15 school gun cases in Detroit and four in Seattle during the last year. Since September, 15 incidents were reported in New York and 16 in Kansas City.

“We have a problem and it is increasing,” said Everett Copeland, security manager for Kansas City schools. “Kids carry guns for different reasons. Some say they have been threatened. Some involve extortion attempts. Some kids just say it’s a status symbol.”

DEADLY WEAPONS — Baltimore School security officers arrange as a display of weapons taken during the past year from students throughout the school system. The display was made for a school board meeting. (AP Wirephoto)

The problem has escalated so rapidly that national statistics are lacking. A few schools now keep records on gun incidents, but comparative figures from past years do not exist. The International Association of School Security Directors last year began pushing for uniform reporting procedures that would include such figures.

School administrators and security officers have responded to the problem in several ways. Officials in Atlanta are convinced the only real solution is to convince pupils they do not need guns. “We try to sell the idea that one does not need to come to school armed,” said Asst. Supt. Ed Cook Jr.

Many school districts have doubled or tripled the size of their guard forces. At some Los Angeles schools, only one entrance is opened and a security officer is stationed there. Guards at some New York schools make occasional “pat down” searches to see if pupils are carrying weapons.

School officials agreed the situation they face reflects the larger problem of guns in society.

“You have kids who see guns at home, who see people carrying guns all the time, and those kids are going to carry guns too,” said Van Turner, deputy administrator for school safety in New York.

Navy Confirms Racial Violence On Intrepid

DENNISPORT, Mass. (AP) — The Navy has confirmed a report of racial trouble aboard the carrier U.S.S. Intrepid but terms "a little harsh" the charge of an officer that "what is going on at present is plain mutiny."

Lt. Fred E. O'Brien, 42, of Dennisport made the charge in letters to Sens. Edward W. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts. They were sent to his wife, Jane, and forwarded Wednesday.

Written Jan. 21 while the carrier was in the Mediterranean, the letters said, "Blood has been spilled on the vessel between the whites and blacks...What is going on at present is plain mutiny...."

"As I write this letter, groups of blacks are roaming this ship, beating and threatening others with bodily harm."

"Threats have been made against the ship itself. Eight black sailors have been transported off the ship today because of threats they had made while meeting with senior officers of this command."

"Four other blacks are in the brig for beating fellow sailors for no reason except they were white. The remaining blacks are demanding that the commanding officer return all or some of them back to the ship and have threatened more violence if he does not meet their demands.

"The threats are being carried out at present by gangs of blacks roaming around with wrenches and pipes." A Navy spokesman in Washington said there were three outbreaks of racial violence on the ship during the week of Jan. 21. Four blacks and one white were punished, he said, and the incidents are under investigation.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said, "There were incidents on the ship, but I think 'mutiny' is a little harsh."

Boy Held In Knife Death

SNOW HILL — A Rt. 1, Snow Hill youth, 17-year-old Jasper Earl Forbes, has been charged with murder in the death of David Earl Rasberry, 18.

The injured youth reportedly was taken to the Greene County Courthouse to meet the Snow Hill Rescue Squad by Forbes' parents. He died en route to Lenoir Memorial Hospital in Kinston.

Forbes is in the Greene County Jail being held without bond. A preliminary hearing is set for Friday.

Rasberry, who grew up in Elizabeth, N. J., reportedly was visiting an aunt at the time of his death.

Davidson Rides Foul Line To Victory

TIGHT SQUEEZE — East Carolina's Jerome Owens tries to squeeze through a tight hole during last night's game against Davidson. Guarding him are John Pecorak and Mike Sorrentino (13). State Tumbles Terps For Second Time, 89-78

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina State will not be going to a postseason basketball tournament this year, so the Wolfpack and its fans have to celebrate when they may.

They made the most of the second-ranked Pack's 89-78 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over No. 3 Maryland in Raleigh Wednesday night.

As the final seconds ticked away, the screaming crowd of 12,400, which included North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser, serenaded Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell with a few mocking choruses of "Amen, Amen."

Two Bucs Are Picked

Two members of the East Carolina University football team were among those picked during the final rounds of the National Football League draft.

Tim Dameron, wide receiver for the Pirates, who set new records in nearly every passing category, was taken by the Houston Oilers in their 16th round.

Les Strayhorn, a running back who also stood out as a blocker was picked on the 17th round by the Dallas Cowboys.

That's the song Driesell hears from his own fans when Maryland wins at home.

And when the game was over, the State fans piled over the barricades and onto the court, where they joyfully cut the nets down.

That's a scene usually reserved for the final games of postseason tournaments.

There will be no postseason play for State after the ACC finishes its tournament. The Wolfpack is on a year's probation from the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations in the high-pressure wooing of sophomore star David Thompson.

Thompson has been the sharpest thorn in Maryland's side in both defeats State has handed the Terrapins. Wednesday night, he pumped in 24 points, had four assists and grabbed 11 rebounds. Afterwards, he was asked if he didn't dry-dream occasionally about new worlds to conquer-like UCLA in the NCAA finals.

"No, I try not to think about it," he said. "We'd just like to go undefeated this year. That would be as good as winning the national title."

The Wolfpack is 15-0.

A bitterly disappointed Driesell gave full credit to N.C. State. "They gave us a good licking in the second half," he said. "They had more desire and more hustle."

"If we are going to beat them in the ACC tournament, we have a lot, lot, lot of work to do." Then he ducked into the locker room and slammed the door shut.

Maryland is 14-2 and has been beaten only by N.C. State. They played at Maryland two weeks ago, and State won 87-85 on a tip-in by Thompson in the last three seconds.

In the ACC, State is 5-0 and Maryland is 4-2.

ACC teams played in two other games Wednesday night.

North Carolina, No. 8 nationally, got strong outside shooting from its guards against Wake Forest's tight zone defense, and defeated the Deacons 69-51.

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Davidson's Wildcats hit only two field goals in the final 11 minutes of play, but their lead didn't change a bit as they rode a some fine foul shooting through those fateful minutes for a 73-62 victory over East Carolina last night.

The Pirates lost the game at the line, missing too many of their own, and seeing Davidson make too many of theirs. The Bucs were also cold from the floor, while the Wildcats hit when they had to.

During those final 11 minutes, the Wildcats pushed through 16 free throws, missing only twice during that period. Much of the time, the Pirates were forced to foul to try and get a chance at the ball as Davidson went into a semistall, looking for the sure basket.

Despite this, the Bucs did manage to cut the lead from as much as 12 to a little as five late in the game. But they never could get the key baskets they needed.

Davidson finished the game with only 41.7 per cent of their shots, but they made 52.2 per cent in the second half. They hit on 23 of 28 foul tries.

East Carolina meanwhile made good on 41.9 per cent, and had four more points from the floor than did the Wildcats. But they made just 10 of 20 free throws, and that killed them. Five times they missed on the first shot of one-and-one opportunities, costing them five more potential shots. Davidson missed only twice on the first of a bonus opportunity.

The rebounding was even, each team getting 43, and the Bucs had only three more turnovers, 16-13.

The loss also dropped the Pirates out of a three-way tie for third in the Southern Conference. The Bucs are now 4-5 in the league.

The first half was almost an even battle, but the Bucs never seemed to be able to hit the pull-away shots. East Carolina took the lead on a free throw by Jerome Owens, and a shot from underneath ran it out to 3-0 before T. J. Pecorak hit for the Wildcats.

Davidson pushed into its first lead on a followup shot by John Pecorak at 6-5, and Larry Horowitz followed that with two shots, running the Cats out by five, 10-5. The Bucs came back, however, getting shots by Ernie Pope and Dave Franklin, to trim it to 14-13.

But a drive by Paul Wagner, and a three-point play by Mike Sorrentino broke the Buc drive again. Horowitz finished it up with another basket for the biggest Cat lead of the half, 21-13.

East Carolina got three straight baskets from Earl Quash, and then a jumper by Al Faber tied it up. Faber hit from the line with 5:26 left to put the Bucs ahead again, but it didn't last.

Davidson stormed back, and this time for good. Wagner hit two free throws with 5:15 left to put the Wildcats ahead again, 23-22, and John Falconi followed with a baseline jumper. He drove in for another and Jay Powell made two free throws to make it 29-22 with 4:04 left. But they got only one more basket the rest of the way and nearly blew their lead again.

Franklin hit on a fast break and Owens hit two buckets to trim it to just one, 29-28, and they had the chance to go ahead, only to lose the ball on a turnover. Greg Dunn then hit with two seconds left to give the 'Cats a 31-28 halftime lead.

Davidson came back out and outhit the Pirates, 9-2 in the first 3:14 to run out by 10 points. Falconi and T. J. Pecorak hit and after Owens hit for the Pirates, Dunn got two baskets and a free throw for a 40-30 lead.

Baskets by Franklin and Pope cut it back to six, but Davidson edged out again, this time by 11, 49-38. They held this margin at 53-42 on jumper from the lane with 11:23 left by Dunn.

Owens hit three points on a basket and a foul shot, and Falconi hit with 7:57 to go to make it 55-45. From there until only 50 seconds left, the Wildcats depended entirely on the foul line.

The Bucs couldn't dent the lead until Owens scored with 1:42 left to make it 64-56. Franklin followed with two free throws to trim it to six, and after a Davidson charity shot, Franklin tossed in a rebound to make it 65-60 with 1:13 to play.

Prepshirt Gets Win

Prepshirt downed Empire Brush last night, 66-53, in the Industrial Basketball League. The victory moved Prepshirt into a tie for third with Empire Brush, both with 5-3 records.

Prepshirt used the first half to good advantage, building up a 29-19 lead. They came back with a 37-34 advantage in the final half over Empire Brush to win it.

William Johnson led Prepshirt with 22, while Clifton Grey had 20, and Alton Ellis and Richard Davis each had 10. For Empire Brush, both with 5-3 records, and Edward Coburn had 10.

Ragazzo To UNC

Vito Ragazzo, offensive coordinator at East Carolina University for football, confirmed last night that he is accepting a position on the University of North Carolina football squad.

A William & Mary graduate, Ragazzo spent several years on the staff of the Tar Heels prior to becoming head football coach at Virginia Military Institute seven years ago. He left that position two years ago and became an assistant to ECU head Coach Sonny Randle, helping to mold this year's Southern Conference championship team.

Ragazzo said that he would be leaving the East Carolina staff immediately, since spring football drills at Carolina begin Saturday. At Carolina, he will be offensive backfield coach.

Ragazzo added that his family will be moving to Chapel Hill as soon as possible.

He is the second coach to leave the Pirate staff this week. Defensive line coach John Matlock resigned earlier in the week to accept a post at the University of Louisville, also as defensive line coach.

Conley Rally Tops Panthers

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley High School's wrestlers had to battle for their lives to remain unbeaten last night, finally downing the Panthers of North Pitt, 38-21.

North Pitt grabbed the lead early and ran up an 18-3 lead. Conley fought back and took the lead midway through the program, but had to win the final three matches to insure the victory, their 14th against no defeats.

The win also gave Conley the regular season championship of the Eastern Carolina Conference. The Vikings will play host to the league's tournament, to be held Thursday, February 8.

Overall, Conley won nine of the 13 matches, but only three of them came on pins. Three of the four Panther victories were by pins.

Baby Pirates, Less One, Get 104-90 Victory Over Davidson

East Carolina University's Junior Varsity Pirates played the last 2:30 of the game with only four men on the court and still pulled off a 104-90 victory over the Davidson JV's last night.

The Baby Bucs had taken the lead for good late in the first half at 38-36, and they worked up as much as an 11-point spread during the half, leading 49-38 at halftime.

In the second half, Davidson cut the lead back to only two, 69-67, but the Bucs, with three men already in foul trouble out of a total of seven, pulled away again and moved out by 14 at 88-74. They rode that cushion home, doing some fine ballhandling when it was needed.

They were red hot from the floor, hitting 50 per cent in the first half, and 56.8 per cent in the second. They also outrebounced the taller Wildkittens, 45-32. Davidson got the initial lead, but couldn't hold to it. During the first half, however, the lead bounced back and forth. Davidson led by as much as four points on several occasions, while East Carolina held an equal one prior to going ahead for good.

Davidson last went ahead on a shot from the corner by Joe Duncan at 34-32. But Lenny Kendall stole the ball to tie it up at 36-36, and William Hill hit on a fast break to put the Bucs up, 38-36. They never trailed again.

In the second half, Davidson put on a rally, led by Duncan and pulled back to within two points. But then, the Bucs put through 11 straight points to run their lead back to 13 at 84-71. Davidson couldn't get going again, despite having a man advantage the last two and a half minutes.

Fred Stone led the Bucs with 24 points, while Chuck Mohr had 20, Randy McCullen had 17, Kendall had 16, Hill had 13 and Al Edwards had 10. Davidson was led by Duncan with 25, while Tom Verlin had 23, and Jeff Plowman, Eppa Rixey and Ed Yeaton each had 10.

Mohr led the rebounding with 12, while Kendall had 11 and Stone had 10.

Furman Out To Boost Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Furman's Paladins invade Richmond tonight to meet the Spiders in one of two games this week. Coach Joe Williams hopes will firmly establish his team as the Southern Conference basketball front-runner.

The Paladins already are out front with a 7-0 record, followed by Davidson's Wildcats, who upped their slate to 5-1 Wednesday night with a 77-59 victory over East Carolina's defending champion Pirates.

After tonight's engagement in Richmond, the Paladins go to East Carolina for a regionally televised game Saturday afternoon.

"The regular season Southern Conference championship (the title is decided in a season-ending tournament) has been our goal since the beginning of the season," says Williams. "These two games will go a long way in determining whether or not we achieve that goal."

Williams adds that "we have a lot of respect for Richmond and East Carolina. Richmond has come very close to several big upsets and is going to get somebody before the season is over. We have got to be ready to play so that it will not be us."

After losing their first five games, the Spiders have split even in the last 10 behind the 30.6-point scoring of junior college transfer Aron Stewart. Richmond is 4-4 in league play and tied with The Citadel's Bulldogs for third place. Furman is 12-5 overall.

The Wednesday night defeat at the hands of Davidson dropped East Carolina to 4-5 in the conference and out of a three-way deadlock with Richmond and The Citadel for the No. 3 spot.

William and Mary's Indians, meanwhile climbed out of the league basement with a 77-59 decision over Virginia Military's Keydets. The result left both William and Mary and VMI at 2-5 ahead of Appalachian State, which dropped to last at 2-6.

Greg Dunn and T. J. Pecorak had 14 points each for Davidson as the Wildcats went ahead of East Carolina at 6-5 early in the game and remained there. A nine-point spree early in the second half gave Davidson a 10-point lead that wasn't threatened.

The Pirates, led by Earl Quash with 20 points, had one more field goal than Davidson, but the Wildcats cashed in on 23 of 28 free throw tries to 10 of 20 for East Carolina.

Robersonville Defeats Bullets

ROBERSONVILLE — The Robersonville Golden Eagles moved into a tie for second place in the Martin County Conference with a 67-48 victory over Jamesville last night. The Robersonville girls moved closer to winning the girls' title with a 44-28 romp.

In the girls' game, the Robersonville Lassies, now 5-1 in the league, moved out into a 14-6 lead in the first period of play. They came back with an 18-4 second period to boost the lead to 32-10, all they would need to win it.

Jamesville came back to outthit the Eagles with an 8-4 advantage in the third period, trimming the lead to 36-18. They outscored Robersonville again, 10-8, in the last period, but it was not enough.

Beth Green led Robersonville with 16 points, while Cindy Daniels had 14. Lynnette Ghee led Jamesville with eight.

In the boys' game, the Robersonville five shot out to a 10-point lead by the end of the first quarter, 19-9. Jamesville came roaring back to push ahead at halftime, however, outshooting Robersonville, 23-9. That left the Bullets ahead, 32-28.

But the Eagles didn't give up and fought back with a 12-9 third period, and trailed only 41-40 as the last quarter opened. The Eagles then burned the nets for 27 points, while limiting Jamesville to only seven to break the game wide open.

Ernest Crandall led the Robersonville victory with 18 points, while Masonic Stokes had 16 and Clarence Wilson had 12. Horace Hall led Jamesville with 23.

Both teams now have a 4-2

KINSTON — Last night was the second consecutive night the Rose High Rampants suffered a humiliating defeat. Tuesday night, it was the Gryphons of Rocky Mount who bombed Rose, 80-40. Last night, the Vikings of Kinston dumped the Rampants by 67-55.

The Vikings took the lead on the opening basket and never trailed. Turnovers played a minor role in the game; it was just Kinston's better rebounding and better shooters that made the difference. Several times the Rampants had two or three chances for a basket at one time but failed to put the ball through the hoop.

Frederick Maxwell got things started, scoring the first Kinston bucket with 21 seconds gone. Al Hunter put up the first Rampant points sinking a free throw to get Rose as close as they could come all night, 2-1.

Maxwell hit again from the lane and Chris Thompson followed with a jumper from 20 feet out for a 6-1 lead. Ted Pattison canned a jumper from the corner and Maxwell added a free throw before Herb Bynum dumped through the first Rampant field goal. Kinston led, 9-3 with 3:38 to go in the first quarter.

Reginald Jones scored his first basket for the Vikings but it was matched by a lay-up from Hunter. Phil Ragazzo scored for Rose cutting the lead to four, 11-7 at 2:21. That margin held as the teams swapped the next four points each. Jones put the Vikings back out by seven, 18-11, on a three point play as the quarter drew to a close.

Kinston kept up the pressure in the second period. Jones got the Vikings a fast two-points, 20-11, although Hunter scored for Rose putting the lead back at seven. A pair of free shots by Thompson and a swish by Maxwell gave Kinston their biggest lead yet, 11 points, at 24-13.

Rose fought back to cut it to seven on baskets by Mike Harris, Dennis Taylor, and Hunter, sandwiched around a bucket by Kinston's Demetrius Belmont. Kinston had let the Rampants have a little fun and cooled the Rose comeback as they struck for six points on a pair of field goals by Maxwell and as many charity shots by Thompson. Taylor blasted two long jumpers from the top of the key in the last minute but they did little to affect the 13-point Kinston lead.

The third quarter was almost a repeat of the first two periods. Kinston doubled the Rampant's ten-point output in the period, getting 20 for a 54-33 spread. Rose outscored Kinston in the last frame, 22-13, however, but could not put up a rally and threaten the Vikings' lead.

Bynum was high scorer for the game with 24. Taylor had 10. For the Vikings, Thompson had 16 and Maxwell and Jones each put through 15.

The Vikings took the preliminary J.V. game also as they recorded a 58-47 win. It was the same story as was the varsity affair with Kinston jumping out to an 18-9 margin in the first period. The Rampant Cubs cut it by two with a 14-12 second quarter but Kinston still lead, 30-21.

Taylor took the third and fourth quarters, 12-10 and 16-14 respectively to get the win.

Taylor led the Cubs with 12. Kinston was paced by Alvin Nobles with 12 and Mark Cale and Bruce Reese with 10 each. Kinston's Duffy Johnson was high for the game with 18.

Oak City Takes Two From Bears

OAK CITY — Oak City High School ran past Bear Grass last night, 72-49, and moved into first place in the Martin County Conference race. The Oak City girls also won, 30-20.

The Trojans now have a 4-1 record, while Robersonville and Jamesville are tied for second with 4-2 marks.

In the girls' game, Oak City moved into a 6-2 lead in the first quarter. Bear Grass duplicated its first quarter scoring in the second frame, while Oak City increased its to 10. That made it 16-4 at halftime.

In the third period, both teams tossed in eight points in the frame, running it out to 24-12. Bear Grass outscored Oak City, 8-6, in the final period, but it did no good.

No one hit double figures for either team.

In the boys' contest, Oak City inched into a 12-11 lead after the first frame, then shot away in the second. The Trojans socked through 26 points, while the Bears could get only five. That upped the Oak City lead to 38-16 at intermission.

The Trojans continued to ease away in the third period, hitting 16 while the Bears got 14. That ran it to 52-30. Bear Grass clipped a point off that, 19-18, in the final period.

Ronald Duggins led Oak City with 20, while Billy Green and Billy Ross each had 12. For the Bears, Hilton Armstrong had 14 and Nathaniel Armstrong had 12.

Bear Grass hosts Robersonville on Friday, while Oak City travels to Jamesville.

Aycock Loses Pair Of Points

WILSON — Two points disappeared Tuesday night from the E.B. Aycock side of the scoreboard, and it ended up with the Phantoms coming out on the short end of a 46-45 score.

"I just can't understand it," Coach Wilson McDowell said.

"At the end of the third period, the scoreboard had us leading 43-37, but the Wilson (home team) scorer had us with only 41 points. The officials checked and found that besides those two being on the scoreboard, they were in our scorebook, on our stat sheet and on the Wilson stat sheet. But they went with the scorekeeper and reduced us to 41 points."

Apparently, the Phantoms were so shook up by that, that it cost them the game.

Aycock had taken the lead, 16-12, in the first period, and had outhit Wilson, 12-11, in the second to lead by 28-23 at halftime. Then, during the third frame, the Phantoms caught up, they had outscored Wilson again, 15-13, but the resulting loss of two points made it 13-13. Wilson then came on to outscore Aycock, 10-4, in the final period and win it.

Donnie Shields led Aycock with 14 points, while Mike Brewington had 13. Parks led Wilson with 10.

Aycock is now 3-5 and entertains the Rocky Mount Thunderbird team on Friday. Aycock 16 12 13 4-45 Wilson 12 11 13 10-46

Lentz To Move Ahead Despite Legality Questions

By GRACE KUTKUS
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz says he will proceed with his plans of operation for the state Highway Commission despite legal questions about his right to head the roads body.

"They haven't changed anything," Lentz said in an interview.
Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, in an earlier interview with The Associated Press, expressed doubts as to the legality of Lentz' appointment as acting chairman of the Highway Commission, since he already holds the full-time position of department secretary.

Commission members named Lentz acting chairman at the request of Gov. Jim Holshouser, who said he wanted to avoid a "tag of war" between the secretary and chairman.

Morgan also questioned the commission's ability to delegate its power and authority to Lentz when it was not in session, on action also taken at the first meeting of the new commission on Jan. 11.
"The governor acted on advice from his legal advisers," said Lentz. "I'm not a lawyer, and I'm continuing to do the job the way it's been outlined."

"Lentz has told the professional highway engineers that individual commissioners no longer have any authority over them, and they should only take orders from 'the chain of command' — Chief Engineer John Davis and himself.
He said he will use the commissioners primarily to provide "citizen input" on projects being considered by the highway department.

But their role will be largely advisory, as seen by Lentz saying, "The commission has a lot of business to perform. There are a lot of matters I don't intend to make decisions on without knowing what they think."
He promised the "commission will meet regularly," and said, "actions speak louder than words." Lentz said Thursday's Highway Commission meeting would "set the tenor for how things are going to be done in this administration."
"My objective is to encourage and support a professional approach by the highway department," said Lentz. "I'm most interested in eliminating waste, in spending the taxpayer's money in the most effective ways—more effective than in the past."
Lentz, who observed that "three weeks before Christmas I hadn't even heard of the job" of secretary of transportation, said his main goal is to "create a more effective, responsive department." Lentz was a furniture executive before joining state government.

"I will want engineer input and Highway Commission input" on projects across the state, said Lentz. "Citizen input is very important to the operations of this outfit, because a project might be technically sound, but might not be the desire of the people."
The secretary said he was "only interested in those projects which are necessary and needed from a professional and people point of view."

Lentz shied away from using the word "priorities" in speaking about proposed projects. He emphasized, however, the need for a "type of plan, a schedule of importance of various projects across the state."
"We want to stick to the plan," said Lentz. "We want to establish what we want to do and then do it."
Lentz said he felt "very positive" about his future relationship with the General Assembly. He was questioned sharply Tuesday by members of the House and Senate Public Roads committees about his powers over the Highway Commission.
"I feel the legislature is interested in the same thing I am," said Lentz, "the desire to take the money allotted the Highway Commission and spend it wisely." He would not comment, however, about whether their approaches to the goal might differ.

New State Park Being Pondered

RALEIGH (AP) — The chances that a nine-mile sliver of beach and marsh called Masonboro Island will become a state park have improved in the North Carolina Senate.

A bill authorizing the creation of Masonboro State Park was approved in concept by the Senate Conservation and Development Committee Wednesday and passed on to the Senate Appropriations Committee, which will decide whether the concept is worth the estimated $1.5 million in state funds needed to implement it.

The bill is sponsored in the Senate by Sen. George Rountree, R-New Hanover, and in the House by the three-member New Hanover delegation.

It would stipulate that Masonboro—which Rountree says is the last remaining stretch of undeveloped beach in New Hanover County, would be preserved as it is, with the exception of a few picnic areas and bathing areas.
Rountree's bill would prevent the building of roads or bridges and mean that access would be restricted to those who could cross Masonboro Inlet or the Intracoastal Waterway to get there.

The island is located between Wrightsville Beach and Carolina Beach, two of the state's most popular and crowded beach resorts. It has never been developed, Rountree said, because it has little high land and because the title to the island is being disputed by several groups of heirs.

ANNUAL AUCTION SALE — The Winterville Kiwanis Club will sponsor its 12th annual auction sale Friday, beginning at 9 a.m. On sale will be such items as tractors, cultivators, combines, plows, household items, and other articles. Ray Oglesby will be auctioneer for the sale, to take place on the May Farm, located one mile north of Winterville on N.C. 11. Barbecue dinners will also be sold on the site.

Pan-Am And TWA Say No To SST Concorde

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Decisions of the nation's two largest international airlines not to exercise options to buy the controversial Concorde has probably ended the possibility of American carriers using supersonic planes in the next few years.

Pan American World Airways announced Wednesday it would not exercise its options to buy seven of the British-French planes because studies showed the aircraft "has significantly less range, less payload and higher operating costs" than present wide-bodied jets. Besides, the carrier added, the Concorde would require "substantially higher fares."

Trans World Airlines said it would recommend that its board of directors not exercise its options on six Concorde because "first priority must be given to the improvement and expansion of our present subsonic fleet." The airline also said it had "some serious question as to the economic viability of the Concorde on TWA's system."

Pan Am and TWA are regarded as industry leaders, particularly in overseas routes where the Concorde would be useful, and their decision to scrap the options is expected to affect the thinking of other airlines.

Four other U.S. carriers hold options on the $50-60 million plane, which is scheduled for delivery sometime in 1974. American and Eastern have options to buy six planes each; Braniff and Continental have options on three planes each.

Braniff is the only one of the four that has displayed much enthusiasm for the Concorde. It says the plane would be ideal for its Latin American flights, but Braniff doesn't want to be the first carrier to try out the new aircraft.

The major attraction of the plane is its speed — more than twice the speed of sound. It can whisk a maximum of 128 passengers from New York to Paris in about three hours.

Its major drawbacks are its price, four times higher than originally quoted; its passenger capacity, less than half that of many planes now in use; and the noise it generates. A Wall Street analyst characterized it Wednesday as "a small plane that has sacrificed size for speed." He said the aircraft was "not economically efficient."

"What passenger is going to pay three or four times the standard fare just to get some-

Lady Wrestler Routs Burglar

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Ann Marie Lynch quit professional wrestling seven years ago, but she came out of retirement to hand a burly burglar "a beating he'll never forget."

Mrs. Lynch, 36, and her husband, Patrick, surprised the thief in their living room after returning home late.

"The first time I can't beat a woman, I'll quit," Mrs. Lynch quoted the 6-foot-2 intruder as shouting when she grabbed for him after he knocked her husband to the floor.

Quarterly meeting will be held this weekend at Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Friday at 7:30 p.m. is time for quarterly conference and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Holy Communion will be served.

The Rev. Hedgepeth of Greenville will be guest speaker Sunday at 11 a.m. He will be accompanied by the Senior Choirs of Warren Chapel and Holly Grove Churches. The Senior Usher Board will serve.

At 1:30 p.m., a barbecue dinner will be served.

At 3 p.m., Dr. W.L. Jones will be the guest speaker. He will be accompanied by Choir No. 5 and Rose Bud Ushers, the congregation of Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

The public is invited to each of these services, according to the pastor, Elder A.L. Miller.

place a few hours earlier?" he asked.

The only two supersonic transports now being manufactured are the Tupolev TU144 in the Soviet Union and the Concorde, built by the British Aircraft Corp. and Aerospatiale of France.

"Boy, was he surprised!" recalled the 5-foot-6 Mrs. Lynch. "Patrick was hit in the stomach. He has a Pacemaker and that guy could have killed him. It made me good and mad."

"I pinned the guy and knocked him good. His head hit the coffee table when I pinned him and there was blood all over my white living room carpet. He finally got away, but the police ought to be able to spot him. His face was tore up real good."

Mrs. Lynch, who weighs about 155 pounds, said her confrontation with the burglar Tuesday night wasn't the first time she foiled a would-be criminal.

"I was in a bank in Chicago one time when some guy tried to hold it up," she said. "He had this gun but I saw it was only a water pistol and I jumped him and held him until the guards came."

"I ain't afraid of no man." A certified public accountant like her husband, Mrs. Lynch said it has been a busy week.

On Monday night she pulled a man from a burning car.

"It's kind of funny," she said. "But, then, I like to be active."

Mrs. Lynch, who wrestled as Ann Marie Antonelli, said she doesn't remember the record she compiled in her 10 years as a wrestler in Chicago and New York, but "I won more than I lost."

"I wasn't ever famous or anything, but I was pretty tough. I still am."

The Social Security Act went into effect Jan. 1, 1937.

Program Is In Survey

The program of Spanish Culture classes at North Pitt High School has been selected by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages and the Far West Laboratory for Educational Research and Development in Berkeley, Calif., for consideration in a USOE survey of innovative and significant elementary and secondary foreign language programs in the United States.

More than 100 innovative programs, ranging in size from district and county-wide to one or two classes in a single school, have been identified through correspondence with supervisors and other people in the profession as well as research in the professional literature and the "Britannica Review of Foreign Language Education."

The final report of the survey will include individual descriptions of some 30 to 50 of these programs as well as guidelines for developing similar programs.

It will be published by ACTFL in booklet form and distributed through national meetings and the Educational Resources Information Clearinghouse of the United States Office of Education for use as a source book by teachers and administrators interested in revising their foreign language programs in the next several years.

Hilton E. Boyd, supervisor of the local Internal Revenue Service office, says that his office will be open on Saturday, February 3 and 10, from 8 a.m. until 12 Noon to provide assistance to taxpayers filing their 1972 federal income tax returns.

Boyd stated that taxpayers needing assistance should bring their Forms W-2 and other pertinent receipts and records necessary to compute the tax. Information should be organized and concise.

The local office is located at 211 Evans Street, Greenville.

The first post office in the United States opened in New York City Nov. 28, 1783.

N.C. Sixth Graders Reported Lagging In Performance Levels

DURHAM (AP) — An assessment study of North Carolina's sixth graders indicates they are running up to 10 months behind performance levels posted by pupils of the same age across the nation.

The state Department of Public Instruction, in a report released Wednesday, said the $220,000 study should be used only as a guideline and not as a final word on the pupils' level of achievement.

"Extreme care must be taken in interpreting results obtained from the assessment," said H. T. Conner, assistant state school superintendent for research and development.

Conner said the assessment was based on testing of 11,283 students selected from 101,549 sixth graders in the state's public school system. Results of the study were released at a meeting of school principals and some members of the state Board of Education.

North Carolina pupils ranked 9 per cent below the average performance nationally in tests for academic ability. In reading comprehension, North Carolina trailed the nation by 7 to 15 per cent and the Southeast by 4 to 7 per cent.

Conner said "our best professional estimate is that sixth graders throughout the nation are about seven months ahead of North Carolina's sixth graders in basic reading comprehension skills."

A study of vocabulary skills widened the gap even more, with the nation leading the Southeast as a whole by 6 to 10 per cent and North Carolina by 9 to 20 per cent—or nine months in a single term.

In language skills, the national average was 4 to 10 per cent above the Southeast and 11 to 16 per cent over that in North Carolina—a difference of seven to 10 months.

A difference of seven to nine months was indicated in math with the nation leading the Southeast by 6 to 12 per cent and North Carolina by 14 to 20 per cent.

The study also pinpointed differences within North Carolina, Conner said, with pupils in the mountain area and the Piedmont posting higher averages than those in the Coastal Plains.

"The educational difference in Piedmont and mountain groups is probably not significant, while that between these two groups and the Coastal Plain is," Conner said.

Conner said an analysis would continue of the study, which may be used in the future as a basis for assessing progress in the North Carolina system.

N.C. Committee Maps Plans For Aiding POWs

RALEIGH (AP) — A committee formed seven months ago to keep North Carolinians aware that prisoners of war were being held in Vietnam is shifting its attention to ways of helping POWs who come home.

Bob Harper of Tarboro, chairman of the Committee of Concern for North Carolina POWs and MIAs, said in an interview his group is considering proposed legislation to help former POWs financially.

Harper said the idea of tax credits and scholarships for children has been discussed by the committee, which was appointed last June by former Gov. Bob Scott.

"It would not amount to a great deal in dollars and cents from the state treasury. It would just be a token recognition of what these people have done," Harper said.

The committee also plans to meet soon with Gov. Jim Holshouser to decide on a welcome for returning servicemen. Tentative plans include a general celebration in Raleigh, Harper said.

Other agencies also have begun considering celebrations for returning servicemen, especially the POWs.

Hazel Gaddis of Winston-Salem, state coordinator of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, said the prime difficulty was planning something that would be acceptable by the servicemen.

"Some former prisoners said being thrust into public life was too much to take at first," she said. "It will depend on the individual man."

The American Legion has been providing assistance to returning servicemen since 1969 and state adjutant J. Carroll Wilson said the program will be

Last week 446 doctors sent for the booklet below. So analyze my answer to Hilda's query. For we need far more logical analysis to steer medical research in the right direction. Note the analogy between goiter and leukemia.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D. M.D.

CASE W-515: Hilda G., aged 27, developed a greatly enlarged thyroid.

Before 1924 (when iodized salt made simple goiters almost extinct) men were often seen with goiters that bulged on the front of their necks as large as an orange.

And women were often such victims. But when salt was iodized in 1924 such goiters became rare. "Dr. Crane," Hilda asked, "why does such a goiter ever develop?"

Well, the thyroid acts much like the accelerator of an automobile. But, like all glands and tissue cells, it requires certain trace chemicals to use as the raw materials for its thyroxine secretion.

Iodine is now known to be one of these vital trace chemicals. But until medical research discovered this fact, people in the Midwest and many other areas where iodine has washed out of the soil, often developed big goiters.

For the rest of the body somehow sent a message to the thyroid gland that more thyroxine was needed. "You aren't manufacturing enough!" was this unique internal demand.

"They we'll double our work force," responded the thyroid gland, "and thus increase the output."

But the thyroid didn't realize it wasn't more employees (cells) but just more raw materials (iodine) that was needed.

If a steel mill likewise was to produce 10,000 tons of finished steel per month, but received only 5,000 tons of pig iron, it still couldn't turn out 10,000 tons, even if it doubled or tripled its work force!

So the enlargement of the thyroid (goiter) wasn't the answer.

But a tiny trace of iodine in table salt solved the crisis.

Maybe the same situation occurs in cancer, especially in leukemia!

When the bone marrow (source of white blood cells) isn't producing enough of some vital secretion, it also may receive an "order" from other parts of the body. "Send us more hormone 'X'" the body may thus signal the bone marrow.

So the bone marrow (much as the thyroid did) decides to increase its work force.

Where the normal white blood cell count is less than 10,000 in leukemia it may run to 100,000, then 200,000 and upward.

Yet the victim's health still grows worse for it apparently isn't the "number" of extra white corpuscles that are needed but some vital trace chemical to be used as raw material for hormone "X".

Lacking that vital tract chemical which they require as raw materials to manufacture a normal supply of that special hormone, enlargement of the white blood corpuscle population does no more good than the goiter's bulging increase in size! Alas, most pharmaceutical researchers concentrate on developing some NEW drug to combat cancer and other fatal ailments.

The Almighty equipped our bodies to handle successfully most of the ailments that we might face on this planet Earth, IF.

And that big "IF" means, if we furnish our internal chemical factories (glands) and tissue cells the proper raw materials from which they can produce their own healthful secretions (hormones).

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, February 1, 1973—13

So when modern medics send you home as hopeless terminal patients, why not try the water soluble 44 trace chemicals in the oceans? You've got nothing to lose!

Send for my booklet "The Ocean's 44 Trace Chemicals," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs)

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠ 5 ♠
Pass 6 ♣ Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠ South, the declarer at six clubs, lost the fruit's of his labors when he failed to make adequate provision for adverse distribution in a side suit.

North lacked, perhaps by an eyelash, the prescribed requirements for a cue bid in the opening bidder's suit. However, he needed ever so little from partner to make a game and he did not want to be dropped short of the mark. When South designated a good suit of his own by jumping in clubs, North carried on to a slam.

West opened the king of spades which was ruffed in dummy with the five of clubs. It appeared to South the dummy's diamond suit was readily establishable by ruffing out the opponents' high cards, and after his washing was completed and trumps were drawn, he could enter the North hand with a heart to cash the high diamonds and discard his spades.

South began to work on the diamonds immediately by cashing the ace at trick two, however, he was in for a rude jolt. West ruffed the trick and returned a trump, and the hand collapsed. Declarer was unable to ruff out all of East's diamonds, and he ended up with a two trick deficit on the deal.

A simple safety play would have preserved South's control of the proceedings despite the extremely adverse division in the diamond suit. Inasmuch as he can afford to give up one trick, it is suggested that declarer lead a small diamond from the dummy at trick two. Although this play may cost him 30 points, it assures establishment of the diamond suit.

East will presumably play the ten which holds the trick as West shows out. South wins whatever is returned and gains access to the dummy three times—with the ace, nine of clubs and the king of hearts to ruff out East's diamonds with high trumps. The king of clubs pulls the remaining trump as dummy discards the eight of hearts.

A heart is led to the ace and North's ace of diamonds, which has been carefully preserved, drops the king and establishes the queen and eight for the fulfilling tricks.

Interview LBJ And Kissinger

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS Television network plans to broadcast two journalistic coups tonight — separate interviews with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam and presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger.

The Kissinger interview, which CBS says is being taped today at the White House, will be shown from 9 to 10 p.m. EST and the Thieu interview from 11:30 p.m. to midnight EST.

CBS says the Kissinger interview is expected to cover both U.S. foreign policy and all aspects of the recent Vietnam peace agreement. It will be exclusive unless other news organizations are allowed to join the proceedings.

The interview comes a day after President Nixon's announcement that he's sending Kissinger to Hanoi next week to discuss postwar financial aid for North Vietnam. CBS said Wednesday it didn't know if Kissinger would discuss that topic.

CBS diplomatic correspondent Marvin Kalb will be the interviewer. His brother, Bernard, conducted the Thieu interview Tuesday at the presidential palace in Saigon.

The network says that dialogue covers events in South Vietnam since Saturday's cease-fire and Thieu's thoughts on political prospects in his country in the months ahead.

Both programs come on the same night of yet another CBS news exclusive — the final talk any reporter had with former President Lyndon B. Johnson prior to Johnson's death last month.

That special, which already was scheduled, is being broadcast after the Kissinger interview. It covers what Johnson considered his greatest accomplishment — progress in equal rights for all Americans.

Entitled "LBJ: The Last Interview," the program was filmed at the LBJ ranch in Texas 10 days before the former president died of a heart attack.

His interview with Walter Cronkite was conducted in guest quarters called the Cedar House. The whole thing took less than two hours, interrupted only when Johnson suffered an attack of angina pectoris. He stepped outside briefly to take a nitroglycerine tablet that eased the pain, then returned and insisted on continuing the interview, according to the show's producer, Burton Benjamin.

The completed program contains film clips of Johnson's major civil rights addresses, among them his famous 1965 speech to Congress that included the black rallying cry: "We shall overcome!"

Cronkite noted that many say Johnson, in his zeal to do something for the blacks and underprivileged of this country, "promised so much and the delivery was difficult."

"Do you think that you overpromised?" he asked. Johnson's stubborn pride showed in his first answer: "No, I don't know what we promised. We had certain goals and we made certain recommendations... but I'm unaware of a lot of promises we had made that weren't fulfilled."

Cronkite rephrased the question, putting it in the context of "the promise of a better life." Johnson backed into the answer. He first credited his administration's accomplishments in civil rights, medical care and education to the ground-work laid 20 years earlier by President Harry S. Truman.

"I just happened to be the catalyst," he said in part. He finally acknowledged that "a great many people did say we went too far and we went too fast. And we might have, but the country was long overdue."

The hour with Johnson contains much more, but its primary virtue is that it gives us a long impression of a proud, complex man in the twilight of major accomplishments and defeats.

Dinosaurs Came In Varied Sizes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Practically everyone thinks of dinosaurs as only being huge prehistoric creatures, but, fossil finds demonstrate they ranged in size from as small as a chicken to as large as a three-story building, according to the Time-Life Books "Emergence of Man" series.

THANK YOU. Perhaps you sang a lovely song, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers. If so, we saw them there. Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words. As any friend could say: Perhaps you were not there at all. Just thought of us that day. Perhaps you prepared some tasty food, or maybe furnished a car. Perhaps you rendered a service unseen. Near at hand or from afar. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much, whatever the part. The family of the late Carrie Hemby.

Life Term For Pushers Pushed

RALEIGH (AP) — Life terms for pushers of heroin and other hard drugs are proposed in legislation now before the North Carolina General Assembly.

"I feel it is time for us to take a tough attitude on this subject," said Rep. E. M. McKnight, R-Forsyth, shortly after he introduced the bill in the House Wednesday.

"I feel that the person who pushes these drugs is more dangerous to society than a loaded gun," McKnight said as he pointed to FBI statistics he said showed that the number of heroin addicts in the U.S. had increased from 50,000 to more than 600,000 in 10 years.

The Senate, meanwhile, was receiving two other measures dealing with narcotics. Sen. Michael Mullings, R-Mecklenburg, sponsored a measure that would increase punishment for pushers and grant immunity from prosecution for minors who revealed the names of persons from whom they obtained drugs.

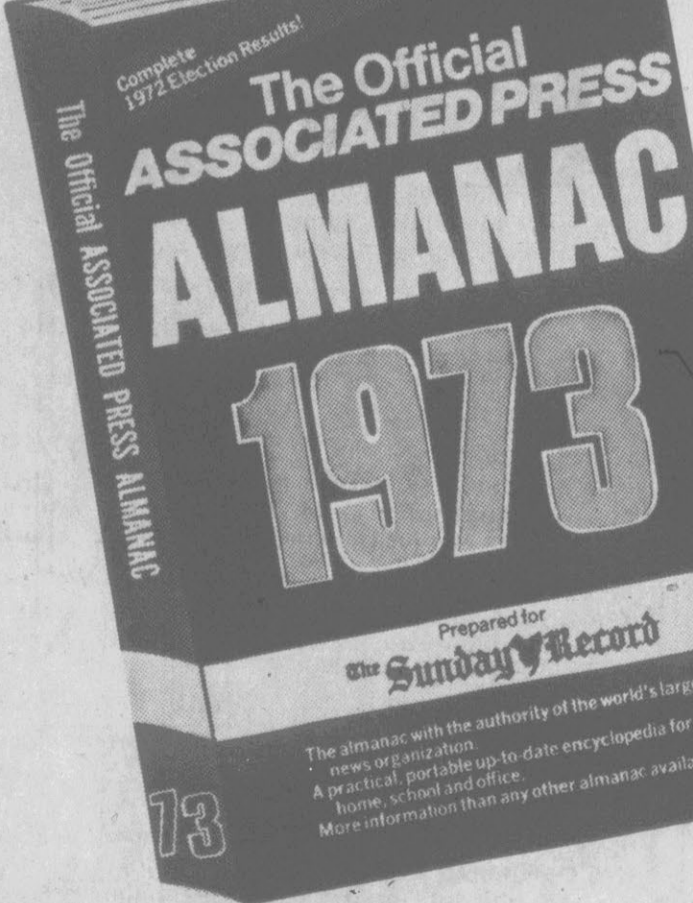

Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Runcombe, sponsored the other Senate measure dealing with drugs. He said the measure was inspired by his work on the state Bar Association's Penal Study Committee. Gudger's bill would increase first offense penalties for sale of heroin and other hard drugs from five to 10 years and would give judges more flexibility in sentencing minor drug offenders by allowing them to combine short jail terms and probation.

"Right now, the judge can give a boy either a jail sentence or probation, but not both," Gudger said. "This way, he could give an offender a short taste of jail to impress him with the law's fury and then put him on probation."

Gudger said McKnight's life sentence measure for drug pushers "may have emotional appeal but it's not sensible."

"It would probably result in injuries less likely to convict dealers because of the severity of the penalty they would be inflicting," he said.
