Perhaps 40 Died As Navy Plane Struck Apartment

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer
ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — Rescue crews searched today for more victims believed buried in charred debris after a Navy fighter jet crashed into an apartment house and exploded, touching off an inferno that spread to two adjoining apartment buildings. The local fire chief said as many as 40 persons may have perished. Four persons were known dead and at least 17 were injured, with an unknown number of missing, including the plane's pilot. Many residents of the apartments were families of Navy men assigned to the nearby base where the plane was headed when it crashed Wednesday night. Fire Chief Ernest Servente estimated that 42 to 45 tenants were inside when the jet slammed into the four-story, 27-unit stucco apartment building. The building exploded in flames and witnesses said they saw only a very few people escape. Servente said that "it probably will take all day" for firemen, Marines, coroner's officials and rescue squad members to sift through the heap of steaming rubble that remained of the apartments. Authorities said that in all, more than 200 persons were believed living in the buildings affected by the crash and fire in the San Francisco Bay area community. "There's no question they're going to be pulling bodies out of there. There's no knowing how many are dead," said city councilman Malcolm Longaker. Intense heat prevented workers from entering the rubble for several hours after the 8:25 p.m. PST crash. Workers wearing asbestos clothing and firemen protected by a stream of water finally were able to start a search of the smoldering, charred debris. Military investigators prowled the area in a hunt for pieces of the aircraft. The building struck by the A7 Corsair was a wooden, four-story, open-courtyard type. One of the adjoining apartment buildings was leveled, another damaged. Witnesses in the residential area said they heard a "whining" noise just before the crash. Then there was an explosion that sent flames and smoke several hundred feet into the air, they said. James Haverberg, who lives across the street from the building hit by the plane, estimated that 75 persons were inside. "As soon as it happened ... I was there in about 30 or 40 seconds and some guy helped me crawl in there and get this woman out and by that time it was really getting hot," he said. "I didn't see anybody else get out. I didn't see anyone leave on their own. The entire thing was too hot. There was no warning at all."

"It felt like an earthquake," said Lupie Perez, who lived in the rear of the four-story building. "We tried to get out, but the doors were jammed. Someone told us to get out in a hurry and kicked out the door, and we managed to get out," she said.

Missing Pitt Soldier Is Among POWs; To Return

By CAROL TYER

"William's my baby boy," Mrs. Delphia Hardy said as she motioned to the picture of a uniformed young man on the wall of her sitting room. "I've prayed a long time and now they tell me he's coming home." Mrs. Hardy, who lives near Haddock's Crossroads on Rt. 1, Winterville, had U.S. Army visitors Saturday before last who told her the name of her son, Maj. William Henry Hardy, has appeared for the first time on a list of prisoners of war in North Vietnam. The next day she received a confirming telegram from the Pentagon. Maj. Hardy was an advisor in Vietnam when he and his interpreter were captured during the summer of 1967, his mother said. She said she and his wife, Theola, a South Carolina native who lives in Fayetteville, always had reason to believe he was a prisoner, although they never received any communication from him and his name was never included on the lists released from time to time. "It's been such a long five and a half years," his mother said, "with nothing to go on but faith. Poor Theola—they've been married 12 years and for about half that time William's been in prison over there. They don't have any children, but she's worked to keep herself occupied."

William, the youngest son in a family of six living children of Mrs. Hardy and the late Noah Hardy, went into the Army in 1954, after having graduated from A&T college in Greensboro, where he majored in French. His high school English and French teacher, Mrs. J.W. Maye, remembers the 1950 graduate of Robinson Union High School in Winterville as "one of the top graduates in a class of 69 students."

"William was a fine young man, very conscientious in his work and extremely dependable and honest in everything he undertook," she said. "I'm sure all his worthy attributes are what have brought him through this prisoner-of-war experience. Bless the Lord—he's coming home, you say?"

Arranging For POW Release

SAIGON (AP) —The four parties to the Vietnam cease-fire agreement held a series of meetings today, making arrangements for the release of the first group of American prisoners held in south Vietnam this weekend, U.S. officials said. A senior American official in Saigon said Wednesday that the first group would be freed Saturday, but later reports from Defense Department sources in Washington said 27 prisoners of war would be handed over on Sunday. U.S. officials said representatives of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong were ironing out the final details today. They would not elaborate. The Pentagon sources said the Viet Cong plans to make the first transfer near An Loc, a provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. There was still no firm word on release of the first American prisoners by North Vietnam, but indications were that it would come in Hanoi early next week during the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger. The Viet Cong, meanwhile, accused the Saigon government of violating the cease-fire agreement by releasing some 10,600 POWs who Saigon said changed their allegiance after political indoctrination. A Viet Cong broadcast said the release violated Articles 1 and 5 of the prisoner protocol. Article 1 says all captured Vietnamese military personnel shall be returned to the South Vietnamese party under whose command they served.

More Killed In Violent Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — Five more persons were killed in Belfast as gun battles, bombing, rioting and arson raged across the capital of Northern Ireland. The victims Wednesday night included a fireman shot by a sniper, a youngster murdered by an assassination squad and three Protestant guerrillas killed in a shootout with the British army. The confirmed death toll in 3½ years of religious warfare rose to 717. Rioting was widespread; at one time every available fire engine in Belfast was at work; and the army was under fire from both sides. "We have lost count of the number of homes and shops bombed and burned," a police spokesman said during the evening.

Roman Catholic homes also were burned in at least three other towns.

Other Tartans set fire to another Catholic church and besieged a convent school for mentally handicapped children. The 25 children were getting ready for bed when a hail of rocks and bottles smashed the dormitory windows. One of the nuns took the children downstairs and led them in a round of songs to take their minds off the rioting.

"We have lost count of the

Now Juveniles

Greenville police yesterday arrested two juveniles at Aycock Junior High School here on drug law violation charges.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, a 15-year-old Aycock student was charged with distribution of marijuana while a 13-year-old boy was arrested on a charge of simple possession of marijuana.

The two juveniles were arrested between 1 p.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The remainder of the agenda items listed are for rezoning requests. These are:

—North River Estates, three tracts, from RA-20 to R-9 and R-6;

—J. Leo Hawkins Subdivision, north of Pactolus Highway and adjacent to North River Estates, two tracts, from RA-20 to R-6 and Shopping Center;

Many Changes In N.C. Income Tax Law Being

RALEIGH (AP) — Two legislators are proposing many changes in North Carolina's state income tax returns, one of which would permit husbands and wives to file jointly.

Sen. McNeil Smith, D-Guilford, introduced the bill Wednesday in the Senate while Rep. Lawrence Davis, D-Forsyth, sponsored it in the House. They said in a prepared statement the legislation would simplify state income tax returns "by using the federal definition of taxable income and applying the state rates there-to."

Smith told newsmen the state would lose an estimated $8 million to $10 million per biennium under the changes. He said, "A precise estimate of the revenue loss and a computation of the adjustment of rates necessary to compensate for the loss are in the process of being prepared."

Davis said he would not object to amendments to the tax rates that prevent any loss of revenue.

He added, "The purpose of this bill is to get like the federal income tax system and not to give a tax cut."

He and Smith pointed out that "30 of 42 states with income taxes start with taxable income as calculated for the federal return."

Under the bill, state exemptions per dependent would be upped from $600 to $750 to conform with federal standards. Deductions under federal returns would also apply on state returns.

Smith said one of the main features would be the provision allowing husbands and wives to file joint returns. At present they must file separately.

He and Davis said there are more than 60 variations in the terms and provisions between federal and state income tax laws "which cause much inconvenience and expense to the people, but do not offer any real advantages to justify such inconvenience and expense."

The simpler state income tax form, they said, would be more convenient to the taxpayer and "would also permit a ready exchange of information between the federal and state revenue service."

Major changes proposed in the bill "are the taxation of the dividends of North Carolina corporations and taxation of only one half the amount of capital gains."

Sixteen Items On City Council Agenda Tonight

Sixteen is the number of items on the agenda of the February meeting for the City Council tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Four are items of old business, including two public hearings. Proceedings get underway with a public hearing on Southside Project, which will involve a cooperation agreement between the City and the Redevelopment Commission.

The second public hearing is on the temporary closing of Charles Street from May through September.

Two other old business items are proposed amendments to the city code concerning taxicab operations; and two requests for renewal of mobile home permits—Tarheel Toyota, Inc. at Trade and Bismark Streets; and Mrs. Glennie Moseley, 804 Myrtle Avenue.

Under new business items to be considered include two requests for mobile home permits—Mobile Home Brokers, U.S. 264 bypass west and Samuel Brown, 1607 Garland Street; application of convenience and necessity requested by Otis Lee Tucker; application for taxicab permits, made by George Bowkley and Mrs. Brenda Lyons; request for an additional appropriation in the amount of $2,135 for Sheppard Memorial Library; proposed amendments to Chapter 32, the Zoning Chapter of the city code; refund of paving assessment to Mrs. Margaret Simmons; and request for annexation of two tracts of North River Estates.

Another matter to be considered is a request by taxicab operators to increase the current taxicab rates. The requests range from an increase of 60 to 75 cents for zone one to an increase from $1.50 to $1.75 for an across town trip.

The remainder of the agenda items listed are for rezoning requests. These are:

—North River Estates, three tracts, from RA-20 to R-9 and R-6;

—J. Leo Hawkins Subdivision, north of Pactolus Highway and adjacent to North River Estates, two tracts, from RA-20 to R-6 and Shopping Center;

—Nelson Hopkins property, north of city limits, from RA-20 to industrial; and —E.L. Harrington, Jr. property, Hooker Road and Arlington Blvd. from RA-20 to neighborhood commercial.

Local Funds To Provide Teacher Aides

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, today said "we have not had to give up any of the 12 teaching aide positions because of the termination of the Emergency School Assistance program." Federal funds under this authority were terminated for the Greenville City Schools effective January 31. "The main reason we are able, at least for the present, to employ the 12 teacher aides," Dr. Cleetwood said, "is because the School Board fortunately held in reserve some money in the Teacher Aide Budget Code." The superintendent said because of this action, it was "possible to switch the names from the federally funded payrolls to locally funded payrolls."

Dr. Cleetwood explained that on January 31 officials of the Emergency School Assistance Act program called and informed that final notification on funding would be made a week after that date. "In effect," he said, "they were saying they had rejected the continuation of the project."

"I received another call yesterday, (Wednesday) informing me that our application had not been approved."

Dr. Cleetwood said funds under this program had been received for two years, and this year's funds had been only for the continuation of funds to employ the 12 teacher aides, with an expiration date of January 31.

He also stated that there would be no loss of the five counseling personnel, which was mentioned in a January 30 story, as a possibility due to loss of the federal funds.

"We are really fortunate," he concluded, "in that we can continue employing people in these positions by use of local funds that were reserved with the idea that the federal funds might be discontinued."

Lawyers Marshal Forces To Block 'No-Fault' Law

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lawyers from across the nation are marshaling forces to block a federal no-fault automobile insurance law as the American Bar Association convenes today for its midyear meeting.

The coordinating committee of state bar presidents scheduled a meeting this evening on the no-fault issue, and the panel's decision could be decisive says Ernest H. Fremont Jr., the Kansas City, Mo., lawyer who heads it.

A successful effort to put ABA on record opposing federal action on no-fault was led by the bar presidents last summer.

At the same time, a bill to create a federal no-fault program, sponsored by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., failed by a 49-47 vote.

"We turned their thinking around," Fremont said, "and I think we'll turn it around again."

Hart and Magnuson have reintroduced the measure this year and say its chances are "much improved."

No-fault insurance limits—and in its "purest" form, eliminates—law suits to recover damages in auto accidents since it is not necessary to determine who was at fault. Instead, each victim's insurance company pays its client's losses and medical bills.

Fremont favors state-by-state action on no-fault. "Congress doesn't have any business in insurance law," he said. "I don't believe you can standardize the law. It can't be applied universally."

In addition to favoring the state-only approach, the ABA's policymaking House of Delegates also went on record last summer as favoring continuation of "pain-and-suffering" suits, a big-money area of auto-accident litigation.

However, the House of Delegates is due next week to receive a recommendation on a law that its authors call the "boldest effort yet" in the field of auto-accident litigation.

The recommendation, from the National Conference on Commissioners of Uniform State Laws, would eliminate nearly all accident suits. The independently acting conference was set up by the ABA before the turn of the century to promote statutory reform.

Work Is Shown By Art Seniors

Three senior students in the East Carolina University School of Art are showing examples of their work this week in special campus exhibitions.

They are William Warren Donnan of Chapel Hill, Teresa Gufford of Goldsboro and Jack Girard of Columbia, S.C.

Girard, a candidate for the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree, is displaying his work in the hallway gallery of third floor Rawl Building.

The show consists of a ten-panel view of supermarket life entitled "Overton's Express." He is the son of Mrs. Charles J. Girard of 1936 Shady Lane, Columbia, S.C.

Miss Gufford, a candidate for the BS degree, includes in her Baptist Student Union gallery display a number of two dimensional works in the commercial art field.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Gufford of Route 5, Goldsboro.

Donnan, whose work is sculpture is featured at the Mushroom Gallery, is a candidate for the BFA degree. Under the University of Georgia's Study Abroad program, he studied bronze casting in Italy last summer.

He plans to continue his studies at the graduate level. Donnan is the son of R.F. Donnan of 301 Hillsborough St., Chapel Hill.

Seeking Agreement On Program Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Henry Loomis says the Public Broadcasting Corporation hopes for quick agreement with station management in the row over who controls programming.

"Our board met with them last night and started a series of conversations which are continuing," Loomis said after a directors' meeting Wednesday. "We hope that shortly—in a matter of days, not months—we will be able to give you a joint statement of procedures."

Loomis, who took office last October, irked many local-station managers by announcing he intended to assume more control over programming, which previously had been determined by the Public Broadcasting Service. The service is dominated by station managers.

Following a corporation directors' meeting on Jan. 11, Chairman Thomas B. Curtis announced the corporation would indeed take firmer control of programming.

Since then a number of directors and other officials of local stations—many of them community leaders—have formed a committee to search for a compromise.

Loomis announced also that the corporation allocated about $10 million for national programs next season. He said this is based on what he termed the pessimistic assumption that the same $35-million level would be available that the corporation is now operating on under temporary legislation. Many programs are locally produced.

Winner Of Scholarship

RALEIGH — Brenda Bullock, who will enter Peace College next fall, has been awarded a competitive honors scholarship by Peace College. Announcement of the Honors Scholars is made by Dr. S. David Frazier, president of the Raleigh junior college for women.

Miss Bullock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bullock of Rt. 1, Stokes, is one of 14 girls who have been awarded Honors Scholarships for the 1973-74 academic year.

A senior at North Pitt High School, Miss Bullock was awarded the scholarship based on high school academic record, College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test results and citizenship.

Miss Bullock is active in her high school as a member of the Honor Society, annual staff and Student Council. She also serves as a Marshal and works on the annual staff.

Predicts State Financing For Schools

GREENSBORO (AP) — The associate director of the Institute of Government, William

I. Campbell, predicts the state will take over all financing of public schools in North Carolina. He says this will cost an additional $800 million a year, and he expects the money to come from an increase in the income and sales taxes.

He told a meeting in Greensboro of 360 school board members Wednesday to get ready for a state takeover of financing, which is now by the state and local supplements.

The U.S. Supreme Court is considering several cases which seek to forbid further use of local property taxes to finance schools, on the ground that inequality in education results because of inequality in the amount raised.

State Rep. Herbert L. Hyde of Asheville has introduced legislation for a state takeover of public school financing.

Campbell expressed hope for a "leveling up, not a leveling down, of expenditures per pupil." He said the state is now planning to freeze per pupil expenditures in the top 90 per cent of the state's school systems.

He said laws compensating for the loss of property taxes to support schools must take into account "differences in needs and costs in different school systems."

Campbell said the state will have to develop a cost index. He noted that school costs in such large cities as Charlotte and Greensboro vary widely from those in counties in the mountains or along the coast. Other factors to be taken into consideration include special educational needs, such as providing for the handicapped and disadvantaged, which may vary widely in different school systems.

The meeting was of District 10 of the North Carolina School Boards Association. It was attended by school board members from Davidson, Guilford, Randolph, Stokes and the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County school systems. And from Asheville, Lexington, Greensboro, High Point, Eden, Madison-Mayodan, Reidsville and Thomasville city school systems.

The Institute of Government is at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. It is a quasi-governmental organization which makes studies of governmental problems, and trains governmental personnel.

Penn Central Railroad Idled By Labor Dispute

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All passenger and freight service on the Penn Central railroad was halted today by a strike of 28,000 conductors and brakemen trying to stop the nation's largest rail line from reducing train crews by a third.

"We have the right to negotiate cutbacks in our contract," said the United Transportation Union, AFL-CIO, as it set up picket lines at Penn Central depots in 16 states, two Canadian provinces and the District of Columbia.

"We're out of business," a railroad spokesman said, acknowledging that the remaining 67,000 operating employees — represented by other unions — would honor the picket lines.

There was no indication whether the Nixon administration, which had delayed the new efforts now to end it.

Negotiations between the railroad and the union broke off last Friday.

It would take a special act of Congress to end the strike if there is no negotiated settlement. All other legal remedies under the Railway Labor Act have been exhausted.

Trustees of the Penn Central, now undergoing reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, said the hardships facing shippers and passenger who use the 1,300 freight and 1,412 passenger trains the line operates daily were "unfortunate and unnecessary."

They estimated the walkout could result in lost revenues of $20 million if it lasts five days and around $55 million if it continues a month. They explained that the heaviest impact would come in the first week.

There are more than 200,000

daily passengers, most of them commuters in the New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and Chicago areas. Many are expected to shift to auto transportation.

The key to the dispute, unresolved after more than 18 months of negotiations, is new work rules authorized by U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullman, who is supervising the reorganization.

Penn Central trustees said the rules became "effective today" — touching off the UTU strike.

"They reduce the size of train crews from three to two and eliminate over-manning, but only as jobs are vacated because of retirement, death, etc.," said the trustees of the new work rules.

The Penn Central goal is to eliminate 5,700 jobs by 1980 and, thus, save about $100 million annually.

The walkout, if not swiftly settled, could deal a death blow to the giant system. The railroad says it is now losing $600,000 daily and will need around $800 million in fresh federal money to become solvent again by 1976 — and only then if at least 3,000 of its 20,000 miles of track are discontinued.

Mailing Procedure Is Told To Public

In an effort to aid the public in understanding the mail 270, 275, 278, 280, 283, 285, and 297.

Mills wants everyone to be aware, also, that all local mail should have the full Greenville, N.C. address and zip code. "Do not use the word city," he says. When mail addressed with the word "city" reaches a mail processing center without a return address it becomes an undeliverable piece of mail.

Creativity Has Its Own Pitfall

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Burrows, veteran Broadway writer-director, is in the Hospital for Special Surgery with multiple contusions, wrenched shoulder and possible hip fracture as a result of creative concentration.

A spokesman said that, while Burrows was rehearsing a scene Wednesday for a new play, "he apparently forgot the orchestra pit in the theater wasn't covered and walked right off the edge of the stage, falling 10 feet."

The production, which stars Nanette Fabray and Eddie Albert, is scheduled to open on schedule March 20 despite the mishap. The play's title? "No Hard Feelings."

Tax Suit For Orson Welles

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Actor Orson Welles and his wife owe the State of California $30,681 in back income taxes and interest, the state has contended in a lawsuit filed here.

The taxes are owed for the years 1956 and 1957, and the amount sought also includes interest through December 1972, the suit filed Wednesday said.

Arrested With Marijuana

William Ray Bryan, 19, of Route 3, Greenville was arrested by Greenville Police officers Monday on charges of possession of marijuana.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Bryan was taken into custody after a quantity of marijuana was found in his possession at the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Streets, about 8 p.m. Bond for Bryan was set at $2,500.

CP&L To Build Another Plant

RALEIGH (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. has announced plans to build a $78 million generating plant near its H. B. Robinson Nuclear Plant at Hartsville, S.C.

The new plant, to consist of 11 oil-fired internal combustion turbine generators, is scheduled for completion during the summer of 1974.

CP&L said the new plant was made necessary by the slow progress of construction on a nuclear power plant near Southport.

If You Can't Afford—Don't Buy On Credit

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I teach a course here in Dalton Junior College in consumer self protection, so I was especially interested in that letter from "Broke and Disgusted," whose wife insisted on an expensive wedding for their daughter even tho they were in hock up to their ears. May I offer some practical suggestions?

Throw away your credit cards, and don't buy ANYTHING you don't have the cash for. If you can't keep up with the Joneses, stay away from them. When it comes to buying groceries, check the newspaper ads carefully and compare prices. You can save a small fortune and eat a lot better if you buy house brands. Develop some self control! Don't buy anything on impulse. Go to two or three other stores and see what's available there, then wait a day or two and think it over. You'll be surprised how much you DON'T want what you thought you couldn't live without yesterday. RAYMOND L. CHAMBERS, DALTON, GA.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Gee, I wish I were in Dixie. I'd sign up for your course. You make a lot of sense.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this from the hospital after having given birth to our first child. He is a healthy, beautiful baby boy and we are so thrilled because my husband is an only son, and now we are assured of having someone to carry on the family name.

My husband and I decided to name our son . . . Please don't mention the name if you use this letter. It's an unusual name, but my husband and I both like it. Well, last evening his mother called and begged me to please change the baby's name. She said that nobody in the family liked the name we selected and she thought out of respect to my father in law, we should have named the baby after HIM. [My father in law is still living.]

I didn't know what else to say, so I just said, "I will talk to my husband about it."

I spoke to my husband, and he said he will leave it up to me. Abby, now I am on the spot. I don't want his family against me, but I don't want to change the baby's name. Can you help me? NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your husband that you don't want the responsibility of making that decision alone. Discuss it—and let it be known that the decision was jointly made. And since you wrote to me, I'm all for naming the boy exactly what you prefer!

DEAR ABBY: I am 83 and live alone; my principal activities since my retirement from the teaching staff at Purdue University are "relative hunting" and working crossword puzzles. I take time out every morning to read the headlines, editorials, and Dear Abby.

I am moved to comment about the Dad who took his 14-year-old son to a football game, left at halftime to take some pills for his asthma, and had not returned by the time the game had ended. The frightened lad waited by his Dad's parked car until the stadium lights were turned off, then made his way to a phone and called his sister to come and get him. Together they drove to the nearest police station to report the "missing" Dad, and there they learned that he had been locked up by a policeman for "drunkenness."

That reminded me of a similar incident which occurred near Corning, N. Y., where I was raised. A local workman on his way home from work tied his horse and wagon at the watering trough and went into a bar for a drink. Later that evening the local constable found him leaning against a tree and locked him up for drunkenness. The next morning the horse was still at the trough, but its owner was dead—in jail. He had been sick, not drunk.

A Sense Of Humor Required To Wear Clothes From This Smart London Shop

By ALISON LERRICK LONDON (AP) — A French client once said to Thea Porter: "You are as expensive as Dior, but much funnier."

Mrs. Marietta Tree, with no comment, chose a crepe georgette dress with antique embroidery. Married to a designer herself, Mrs. Emilio Pucci couldn't resist "the open things."

And, whether they have to cross the Channel — like the Baronne Marie-Helene de Rothschild — the Atlantic or the street, actresses, socialites and just plain women with money and a sense of humor head for the little shop on Greek Street.

"Ideally, one should cultivate one's mind instead of one's body," says the small, dynamic Miss Porter, who talks like a humanist instead of a designer. "Clothes are for women with bad figures. If you are under 23 you don't need any," she says. "Personally, I like to cover myself up like a nun, especially in the evening."

Even during the day, she stays well-protected in a long black satin skirt, with godets galore. The fuchsia shirt, perfect with her short red hair and brown fingernails, is in fact an elderly mini-dress "because I couldn't find any shirts this morning," she explains.

"I had always wanted to be a designer," says Miss Porter, whose missionary parents permitted no such thing. Of French and Italian extraction she grew up in Damascus and spent 10 years in Beirut with her diplomat ex-husband.

"I am only trilingual," she says modestly. "I speak French and English and I could pass for an Arab."

Back in London and "accustomed to all the privileges, like servants and nannies, I pretended to be an interior designer. I was just beginning to be successful when I drifted into clothes," she says ruefully.

Naturally, enough, she drifted into fashion via caftans. Five years ago, this designer, who never sits when she can stand, began with a staff of one and has since graduated to a factory which produces her own fabric designs.

Her shop, whose neighbors are mostly burlesque shows, mixes mother-of-pearl inlaid chests, Oriental embroideries and heaps of cushions with Art Deco statues and a life-size silver tree sprouting golden fruit.

"People come to me when they have a grand party to go to and they can't think what to wear. They think they are getting a one-of-a-kind dress, but I really make 50 or so. They don't find out until they get to the premiere," says Miss Porter with candor. Her clothes also go to stores in New York, Los Angeles, Dallas and Philadelphia.

What they get may not be unique, but it definitely looks old. Except for the absence of holes, most of the dresses could have walked straight out of a Marlene Dietrich movie, unless you fancy a Marilyn Monroe.

"The little black dress doesn't exist," says Miss Porter.

From the 1950s come dresses in tiers of chiffon ruffles, off one shoulder and printed in pink and green roses. "But in black, an ambassadress could wear one to a formal dinner party," says Miss Porter, who still thinks diplomatically.

On any of these things, in unexpected places, she sews a piece of 18th century French brocade, antique Turkish or FINISHING TOUCH — Thea Porter, seated, discusses finishing a handsomocked printed silk dress with 'Jose', one of her assistants.

Persian embroidery or genuine Flea Market crepe. "It's wonderful for using up bits of old fabric," says Miss Porter, whose new Victorian jacket is in pink roses, with a peplum and strips of old lace.

What reaction to old rags? "Americans especially are horrified. They like spanking new things . . . a lame suit, gold buckles on their shoes, rings on every finger and their hair all shining and sticking out. However, they are very eager to understand. They go to all the latest exhibits," she adds apologetically.

And even the English are taken aback on occasion, as happened this spring during the final fitting of a "Society" wedding dress in white butterflies and old lace.

"I promised the bride's mother, don't worry, it won't look like this. It will look old," laughs Miss Porter. "She was terrified. She nearly walked out."

Jack Richardson Gives Program

Jack Richardson, Pitt County Memorial Hospital administrator, spoke to members of the Bonae Artes Book Club Tuesday.

Speaking on the construction of the new hospital, he showed slides of the scale model and the architect's illustrations explaining the designs of the hospital.

Richardson emphasized how the plans considered the convenience of one area of hospital activity to another, the elimination of congested halls and future expansion.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Woodrow Wooten in Falkland.

Mrs. Ralph Brimley assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

These Women Prospectors Study Mining

VANCOUVER (AP) — Women are not exactly threatening to elbow out the traditional grizzled prospector but their interest in mineral-hunting is growing.

A third of the more than 150 students who registered for the current prospecting and mining school sponsored by the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines are women, says Thomas Elliot, the chamber's manager.

"We get a lot of women, but this year there seem to be more than usual," Mr. Elliot said. "We're happy to have them all."

Some of the women enroll because they think prospecting is romantic. Others enter because their husbands are enrolled. Another group is taking the course for business reasons and some plan to take up prospecting on a full-time basis.

Mrs. Penny Baughn, a research analyst for a stockbroker, said she is taking the course because it will help her understand mining reports.

Another Vancouver woman who said she didn't want to be identified said she is taking the course because she would like to "go out and stake claims."

The lure of the one big find hasn't entered her mind, but she said with enthusiasm: "I'd really like to go gold panning."

Street-Closing Is A Hardship

What began as an apparently routine matter has become a matter of major concern to many citizens.

The City Council was requested by the State Highway Commission to approve closing of Charles Street while the bridge across Greene Mill Run was reconstructed in preparation for widening the street to five lanes and relocating a portion of it.

A Crossroads In Government

By BRYAN HALSLIP
RALEIGH — Two-party government has brought North Carolina to a political crossroads which could lead to significant changes in practices and institutions.

The election of a Republican governor threw a new light on the old way of doing business and turned the thoughts of politicians to the future. They must grapple with the challenge of how to regards as essential to put more power into the party system.

Shorter campaigns — "The primary elections should be moved later in the year. . . In these days of mass communications, we exhaust candidates and voters with these long campaigns. Believe me, I know."

Restriction on second primaries — Inter-party bitterness out of run-off primaries must be reduced, Bowles said. "I am not wedded to any figure, but the law should read that a candidate who gets, say, 40 per cent of the first primary vote is the winner."

Campaign spending limits — "We need limits on spending. We need more access to the media for those candidates who can't afford the high cost of campaigning. We need to make sure that incumbents don't have an unfair advantage with the media."

Long range, Bowles said, "North Carolina should think about moving the state elections to the so-called off-year, separating national and state political campaigns."

Six-Year Term For Governor
One day to do it, he suggested, would be to lengthen the term of the governor from four to six years and retaining the single term for a governor. That would coincide with the off-year at least for two out of three elections, he said.

"These reforms, linked together, could give a governor time to really carry out his program, yet stop the building of political machines," Bowles explained. "They could allow a governor time to really become a leader in national affairs if he wanted to. They could also help give voters a clear-cut choice on state and local issues, and not mix them with national issues during a single campaign year."

There's little indication the legislature will be prepared to go quite as far as the Bowles proposals in overhauling the framework for political campaigns.

While a later primary date and campaign spending limits are certain to be debated some good chances for some favorable action, tampering with the run-off system and lengthening the governor's term are definite long-shot possibilities.

Another means of untangling state and national politics in on the agenda. That is the repeal of the presidential primary, initiated in North Carolina last year.

Some Democratic politicians thought it had a negative impact on the state campaign. Bowles said revisions are in order if the presidential primary is retained. Down the road, he added, a national primary system would be preferable.

Charles Street needs the improvements; in fact it is one of the more used thoroughfares in the city. But if the street is closed traffic will have to go east to Elm Street or west to Evans in order to travel north of Greenville Boulevard. The closing will mean that university traffic going to Minges or the Allied Health Building will have to come around by Elm.

A group which called itself "Interested Citizens of Greenville" soon swung into action. They placed newspaper ads asking, "Can you imagine one of the busiest streets in Greenville to be closed from May to September to build a bridge. We say no. Give us a temporary bridge so we can still get through Charles Street."

We are inclined to agree. Charles is, indeed, a vital street for moving traffic in the southeast area of the city. If it is closed completely, the heavy traffic which uses it every day is going to be detoured on other streets which are already crowded.

The City Council is considering the matter tonight at a public hearing and we hope that the council will make an effort to get a temporary bridge installed while the work is underway. Consideration should also be given to constructing half of the bridge at the time, such as was done on Tenth Street when the bridge there was constructed. Traffic was kept moving through out that project.

Street construction is inconvenient for the motorist, although it is a necessary inconvenience if we are to have the thoroughfares we need. However closing entirely a street like Charles creates a major hardship for our populace. Surely something can be worked out to keep traffic moving while this construction is going on.

All The Losers Favor Control

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Reform legislation which would reduce the length and cost of statewide campaigns seems to have the unanimous support of candidates who were defeated last year.

It also is being pushed by a winner, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, who made campaign promises all over the state to strive for a bill that would limit campaign spending.

The legislation being debated has the support of people who, it would appear from past performances, have little else in common.

Skipper Bowles, who spent more than 1 million in his quest for Governor, wants a top put on spending.

Pat Taylor, the man Bowles defeated in the Democratic primary, wants to see the primaries and general election moved closer together, and a limit put on spending.

And Hugh Morton, who ran for Governor for several months, says: "My number one civic project is to help get legislation that would cut the cost of a campaign and shorten it considerably."

There is widespread support in the General Assembly to pass reform legislation in this area.

It won't however, be a cakewalk, because a constitutional, enforceable bill must be the product of this discussion, or the effort will be lost.

One veteran House member tells me: "Some people are just trying to grab headlines. Some proposals that have been made couldn't be enforced and they know it. We need legislation to control campaign spending but if we pass just anything, it'll do more harm than good."

Morton agrees.

"We need a limit on media advertising," Morton said. "You can audit how much money a candidate spends for radio, TV, newspapers and billboards, but you can't audit how much money he shells out to haul people to the polls."

A two-pronged attack might well come out of this legislative session. One would limit media spending, based on the number of voters who voted in the last gubernatorial election in the state. The other would shorten the campaigns, by moving the primary to September, with the general election following in November.

The cold reality of politics enters into the latter part of this discussion. Long, drawn-out primaries split political parties wide open and make it doubly hard to unite for the general election.

For instance, Bowles and Taylor people never did smooth out the differences created in their fight in the Democratic primary. Each side blamed the other, which is natural, but the fact is a lot of people who worked hard for Taylor sat on their hands in the general election.

Political leaders feel their parties would be hurt less with shorter primaries. This would also mean some kind of a starting date to begin actual campaigning.

Bowles and Hunt started highly visible campaigns a full year before the general elections.

The mood in the General Assembly seems to be in favor of legislation that would limit campaign spending in statewide races. There's also strong support to change the primary date.

What kind of bill will emerge is still anybody's guess. A lot of politicians want to be leaders in this area, because they feel sure the public is watching.

Strength For Today

OUR COUNTRY

Anybody who does not know that America the latter half of the twentieth century is the best place in the world to live should be given a one-way ticket to some other "better place" and told never to come back again. Problems? We have lots of them. Mistakes? We make them every day. You can't expect imperfect people to have a perfect nation, but this country of ours has a combination of advantages that we should all prize, cherish and protect.

Patriotism is not just an emotional outburst when the flag is unfurled and carried past us. Patriotism is a living matter of everyday dedication. We do not look down on any country. They all have their advantages and disadvantages. We have good leaders, a few bad leaders, and most of them average, like ourselves.

Would you like to have lived a thousand years ago in any part of the world? That would be about the time of the Norman invasion of England. George Washington believed in blood-letting, and he insisted that they take about ninety ounces of blood out of him during his last illness. He died of course as a result. One of the four doctors attending him declared that the time would come when instead of taking blood out of a sick man they would put blood into him. This was a hundred and fifty years before the first blood transfusion.

It is great to live in a day of progress, and in most matters with all our problems we are progressing.

Balderdash And Insight

WASHINGTON — A text is at hand of George McGovern's speech at Oxford on Jan. 21. It ranks among the most remarkable public documents of our time, a curious blend of balderdash and basic insights, strong wine pressed from sour grapes.

Years hence, in tranquility, the Senator from South Dakota will reread this speech. He may then discover in his own messianic attitudes a few of the reasons why Richard Nixon whipped him so soundly in November. For the moment, this "remains something of a mystery to me." He cannot understand why the people declined to follow him. It is as if Peter and Andrew had said they would rather catch fish.

Clearly, the Democratic nominee has failed to comprehend one important characteristic of the American people, especially as the people view the electoral process. This is the element of gamesmanship. The vocabulary of politics is in large part the vocabulary of sports. We live in a world of front-runners and dark horses, of teams and managers engaged in contests. The metaphor demands, among other things, the image of the good loser.

The embittered McGovern has yet to grasp this. By huffing off to England on the inaugural weekend, there to deliver this querulous address, McGovern insulted not only his victorious opponent, and not only the office of the presidency; he also insulted the concept of good sportsmanship. It was a mean-spirited act, graceless and ugly. It lacked style; it lacked class.

Yet the speech contained elements of sober truth, and these merit reflection. McGovern's theme was the exhaustion of American institutions, notably the Congress and the two major parties.

"Among the rights clearly assigned to the Congress," he said, "are the powers of war and peace and the power of the purse. The power to make or unmake war...has been stripped almost completely from the Senate and House. And now, for the first time, the Executive has mounted serious challenge to the congressional of appropriations."

The exhaustion of Congress, McGovern went on to say, is matched by the exhaustion of the political parties. The Republicans, in his view, offer little more than an administrative program. The Democrats are in peril of comprising "a party with no principles, no programs, living only from day to day, caring only for the prerequisites of office, doing nothing, and worse, not caring that nothing is done."

McGovern had little to suggest by way of revitalizing the parties. Here he diagnosed without prescribing. But he spoke with great candor and conviction in saying that "American liberals must reverse the 40-year trend toward a stronger president and return to the 200-year-old tradition of shared power." The Congress must regain its constitutional stature as a co-equal branch; and toward this end, Congress must reclaim its lost power of the purse.

Rituals are the little habits of conduct by which we meet the common occurrences of our existence. They govern us from dawn to dawn, from Monday through Sunday. They are helpful because they tell us what to do in most situations, but sometimes they also bore us half to death.

They become too patterned, too chorelike, and at times we yearn to break out of the confinement of rituals and do something wild, free and mildly insane. And, of course, at times most of us do.

Here are a few commonplace rituals:

Shaving, the most irksome task of any man's life.
Brushing your teeth.

Spraying something in your armpits so you won't smell like nature meant you to.

Telling a hospital patient he looks swell when he looks like hell.

Saying something nice about the hero of the occasion at a funeral, when your private opinion is that the world would have been better off if he had died ten years before.

Picking up bar and restaurant checks for liberated women.

Laughing at the right time when the boss tells a joke, no matter whether you memorized the joke yourself when you were in high school.

Congratulating the pastor of your church on Sunday on the powerful sermon he preached that you never really listened to.

Going to functions where they have after dinner speeches.

Going to cocktail parties where everybody is either too clever or too pontifical.

Telling our innocent little children how they must behave

The Carolina-Virginia Tobacco Company's $80,000 re-drying plant and stemmery with the contents of 100,000 pounds of tobacco and 7,000 bags of peanuts were destroyed by fire in Tarboro last night. Origin of the blaze, the most destructive that has visited the city in many years, was undetermined.

Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina, said today he had received an invitation to attend the conference in Washington, D.C., March with President-Elect Roosevelt and the governors of all the forty-eight states. The governor will attend the Roosevelt inauguration while there.

Fuel Oil Promotion Mistimed

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — While alarm is expressed over the threat of a serious oil shortage, the National Oil Fuel Institute has produced for distributors a little folded advertisement designed for "stuffing" in mail to customers.

It is a classic of mistiming. Simulated on the first page are headlines such as "Electric Customers Suffer 8-Hour Blackout" and "Gas Company Cuts Service" followed by the question, "Aren't you glad you have oil heat?"

More accurately stated, it would read, "Aren't you glad when you have oil heat?" The possibility of shortages seemingly never occurred to the institute, which continues:

"As an oil heat customer, you don't have to worry about being left out in the cold next winter — or for many, many winters.... That's because there's plenty of heating oil around for everyone, and more is being discovered all the time."

Could the industry really have been so shortsighted? Could it have failed to foresee a shortage that was only weeks away?

The answer is complex. Some did see it but, like retirement to a 45-year-old worker, it didn't seem real. Some knew that energy demands were rising, but they didn't foresee the political, economic and environmental obstacles to supply.

A large part of the industry foresaw many of the problems but felt stymied in doing much about them because of the absence of a national energy policy in which government and private efforts were coordinated.

If today's shortages had been foreseen 10 to 15 years ago and effective action taken, we would be nearly self-sufficient today. John McLean, head of Continental Oil Co., said at a media reception to announce 1972 earnings of $170 million.

Instead, the country is highly dependent upon foreign imports while domestic and continental energy supplies remain untapped or underutilized. Only 30 per cent of oil is taken from wells today, for example, before they become uneconomic.

This provokes some questions:

—Why should the nation be so vulnerable to foreign governments?

—Why should it continue to add to its huge payments deficit?

—Why shouldn't the United States develop its resources for the benefit of its residents?

Many of the political, governmental, economic and environmental restraints on the industry will continue over the next decade, while demand is expected to nearly double. If it's bad now, it can get much worse.

Mine-Sweepers Are In Training

By LEONARD PRATT
Associated Press Writer

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — U.S. helicopters could begin sweeping mines from North Vietnamese harbors and rivers by the end of the month, a task group commander of Operation End Sweep indicated today. U.S. minesweeping ships may start the job sooner.

Marine and Navy helicopter crewmen have been training for a week at the Navy's mountain-ringed base here at Subic Bay, and Capt. Felix S. Vecchione told a news conference today the training takes about a month.

Rear Adm. Brian McCauley, the commander of Operation End Sweep, is now in Haiphong working out plans for sweeping the mines U.S. planes planted in North Vietnam's rivers and harbors last year. A protocol to the Vietnam peace agreement calls for the United States to render the mines harmless.

Seven minesweeping ships also will be used. Four are already in waters off North Vietnam making sure that an ocean anchorage is clear for the task force's command and supply ships. They could begin clearing the coastal waters as soon as McCauley completes his talks with the North Vietnamese, officers said.

But much of the sweeping will be done by the helicopters, and most of the mines are to be blown up. Vecchione said he hopes the operation can be concluded without casualties.

Vecchione would not say how many mines had been dropped into North Vietnam's waters although this information is being supplied to Hanoi in accordance with the cease-fire agreement. But he said the sweeping probably would take "a long time."

Says U.S. Will Honor Pledges

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has told Malaysian officials the United States will continue its presence and honor all commitments in Southeast Asia, informed sources said today.

The sources said Agnew told this to Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak during talks he held with the Malaysian leader. They said the two also talked about the extent and role of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia and Thailand and about Chinese and Russian influence in the region.

Agnew arrived here Wednesday as part of a tour of the region to explain the U.S. position now that a cease-fire has taken effect in Vietnam.

DON'T OVERDO IT — T. Reese Harrison, who spent 28 months in a Chinese prison camp during the Korean War, advises against overdoing the welcome for the returning Vietnam POWs. Harrison, an oil delivery driver, says people tried to be too nice to him when he got home, when all he wanted was to be left alone. (AP Wirephoto)

Lawmakers 'Zero In' On Drug Pushers

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The North

Carolina General Assembly is zeroing in on the drug pusher. Thirteen bills have been introduced so far in the House and Senate to stiffen the penalties on drug pushers and strengthen North Carolina's drug control laws. Sen. Phil Godwin, D-Gates, former House speaker, said in an interview, "The man I'm after is the drug pusher. I say throw the book at him. Seventy-five per cent of the pushers are in organized crime."

One legislator said he had never seen such a determined effort to "nail" the drug pushers as is being shown in this legislative session. Godwin explained the campaign by saying, "The public is demanding that something be done."

The strongest weapon apparently lies in one of five bills recommended by the North Caroloma Solicitors Association. It would authorize district solicitors to require witnesses to testify in drug cases and in return witnesses would be granted immunity from self-incrimination.

During his campaign last year, Gov. Jim Holshouser advocated severe punishment for drug peddlers. He termed them "poison peddlers who are spreading the cancer of narcotics throughout our state." He said increased drug abuse and drug addiction is a "growing tragedy." Sen. Luther Britt, D-Robeson, introduced legislation earlier this week to increase the penalties for persons who manufacture and sell hard drugs, including heroin. Conviction on a first offense would carry a sentence of 20 years in prison or $5,000 fine, or both, in the discretion of the court. The present law provides a maximum of five years or a $5,000 fine, or both.

Rep. J. F. Mohn, D-Onslow, has sponsored a bill the House ti increase the punishment on drug peddlers. He said, "Much of the crime in North Carolina is caused by drug users who will rob to get money to buy more drugs. The drug pusher, in my opinion, does nothing more than peddle poison to human beings."

Five Earned Dean's List

RALEIGH — Five Pitt County students were named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Meredith College here.

Local students include: Marjorie Anne Barnette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton D. Barnette of Farmville; Mary Blanche Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Regan Jones of Rt. 7, Greenville; Judy Brenda Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Little of Rt. 2, Greenville; Debra Sugg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Sugg of Ayden; Marla Gail Tugwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.S. Tugwell of Farmville.

For a student to be named to the dean's list at Meredith, she must have a grade average higher than "B" and must have completed a minimum of 12 semested hours and passed all courses taken at Meredith.

Speech-Hearing Clinic To Be Held Feb. 15

A clinic for parents of children with speech and hearing problems will be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 15 at the School of Allied Health, according to Robert Muzzarelli of the ECU Speech and Hearing Department.

"The purpose of the clinic is to inform parents of children with possible hearing and speech defects of the corrective measures available and the approaches to correcting the problems," Muzzarelli said. "Topics to be discussed are stuttering, hearing disorders, voice disorders, and articulation and language disorders. Guest speakers are Dr. W.G. Hume, Dr. Hal J. Danile, and Dr. F. C. Lewis, all specialists in these fields. Questions from the parents will be talked about following the speakers' presentations."

The clinic is free and babysitting service is provided. No registration is necessary.

Tug Struck By A Waterspout DeGaulle's Son Arrange Tests

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Coast Guard says no injuries were reported when its tug Chilula was struck by a waterspout in the Atlantic about 200 miles east of here.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the 205-foot ocean-going Chilula, operating out of Morehead City, N. C., reported seeing 10 of the oceanic tornadoes Tuesday and was unable to avoid one, which struck the ship with 80-knot winds.

PARIS (AP) — Rear Adm. Philippe de Gaulle has been named commander of a navy group which is charged with making technical arrangements for missile tests in the Atlantic off southwestern France.

The son of former President Charles de Gaulle is assigned to the French Defense Ministry, which made the announcement Wednesday.

Who, Where, What, When...Why ?

Who comes to mind in discussions of press credibility? You, our readers, that's who. Where is credibility mandatory? In these pages, that's where. When? Every day. Why? Because this newspaper's mission is to help you open a window to the world with factual, balanced and meaningful information you can depend on.

"Press credibility" is nothing new. It's been our business for a very long time... and it's been the business of our news cooperative, The Associated Press, for 125 years.

We're a member of The AP, world's largest news-gathering organization, and AP newsmen and newswomen go far for factual, on-the-scene reports.

One AP man, Mark Kellogg, went all the way to the Little Big Horn River, in 1876, with Gen. George Armstrong Custer—and Kellogg didn't come back, either.

That's just one indication of how long "press credibility" has been important to newspapermen.

Worth Of N.C. Presidential Primary Is Debated

By GRACE KUTKUS
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A public hearing Wednesday on a bill to abolish North Carolina's presidential primary brought out widely different opinions as to the worth of the primary.

Sen. I. C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, introduced a bill to repeal the state's preferential presidential primary law, which passed in 1971.

Crawford spoke in favor of repealing the law at the hearing before a joint meeting of the House and Senate committees on election laws.

He was supported by a statement from state Democratic party Chairman James Sugg, and Evelyn Renfro, chairman of the Mecklenburg County Board of Elections.

Sen. Thomas E. Strickland, D-Wayne, strongly urged the retention of the presidential primary law, which he had introduced in 1971.

A leader in the campaign of Alabama Gov. George Wallace also spoke in favor of the presidential primary, although he advocated a different way of choosing delegates to the national convention.

Arthur B. Johnsey, executive director of the state Democratic party, spoke on behalf of party chairman James Sugg. He emphasized that Sugg's suggestion to repeal the law "comes as a personal recommendation ... not as a declaration of party policy."

Johnsey cited "the need to shorten our political campaign periods and to reduce the drain upon political campaign funds" as reasons to abolish the primary.

Bills to move the date of state primary elections closer to the general election, and to limit campaign spending have been set aside until the legislature decides on whether to eliminate the presidential primary.

Sen. Crawford called the primary "about the worst thing I've ever seen happen politically to either the Democrat or Republican party," adding "it brought no money, but cost money and gave us bad publicity."

Evelyn Renfro argued that the presidential primary was "not a true representative vote due to the limited number of candidates. The voter was given a false sense of choice."

Strickland responded that all candidates' names were placed on the ballot, "but they removed their names by not coming in to qualify."

"Of course McGovern (Sen. George McGovern, the eventual Democratic nominee) didn't place his name on the ballot," said Strickland. "He knew he had no support here, but that's not the fault of the presidential primary."

"I didn't want to run with McGovern, and I don't want to run with Ted Kennedy (Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.) next time," Strickland added. "I'll take my stand to let the people express their opinion."

"If we repeal the primary, it will tell the people that we think candidates are better chosen in back rooms," said Strickland.

He urged members of the committees not to make the presidential primary "a scapegoat because some people are unhappy" with the way the election turned out.

Joe Brown, a leader of the state's Wallace forces, urged that the primary be kept, saying "the 1972 primary brought a great deal of interest and enthusiasm into our state."

Wallace polled 413,000 votes in the primary, more than 100,000 more than his closest rival, former Gov. Terry Sanford.

Brown said a candidate should be able to choose his own delegates and control them through all ballots at the national convention. The law now requires a delegate to vote for the candidate only on the first ballot.

Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the Senate committee, and Rep. Ernest B. Messer, D-Haywood, head of the House committee, announced their committees will vote on the bill to abolish the presidential primary Wednesday Feb. 14.

News Of 1812 Told In Copy Of Old Register

By H.G.Jones, Administrator
Archives and History
RALEIGH (AP) — The yellowed copy of the "Raleigh Register, and North-Carolina Gazette" for Feb. 28, 1812, had lain around Shell Castle near Enfield for a century and a half before Charles Whitaker, the current resident of the palatial plantation home, sent it to the State Archives.

The single sheet folded into four pages with the masthead slogan, "Ours are the plans of fair, delightful peace, Unwarped by party rage, to life like Brothers," brings alive the history of one week in our history.

Like most newspapers of the day, the first page was devoted to a long congressional speech—one from the debates over military expenditures. Page two carried further debates on arming the militia, as well as a report of the Ways and Means Committee showing total estimated expenditure for the entire federal government to be less than $10 million for the year—more than half of which was for military purposes.

Not until page three did the really exciting stuff appear. Included were the following "intelligence":

—The Winebago Indians had done "much mischief" at Fort Madison in the West.

—Joseph Chambers announced that the "celebrated imported horse Dion, Will stand, the ensuing Season, at my stable in Salisbury. He is 15 hands and a half high, a beautiful bay and one of the most powerful and compact horses ever imported." The price for service was $20 for $40 if guaranteed.

—John Mayfield of Meritville Post Office, Granville County, offered a $15 reward for the return of two runaway apprentice boys who had "absconded" from his service: Stephen Bryant, white, 16, and Absolem Anderson, mulatto, 16, with "downcast look." Mayfield seemed quite concerned also about the pregnant mare, saddle, and bridle that they had taken with them.

—In the Wake County Court a Negro named Brister had been sentenced to death and his body to be "publicly burnt" for the slaying of his master, Christopher Robertson. According to the papers, the governor had remitted the portion of his sentence requiring that he be burned in public.

—The paper was upset to learn that recently published letters under the signature of John C. Edwards "are destitute of truth, and that the name is an assumed one. We regret that the writer of those articles, whoever he may be, should devote his talents to the fabrication of falsehoods. His labors may acquire for him the reputation of a wit, but he will forfeit a character of much more value."

—There are references to "thousands (of) Americans who are the victims of impressment, which Britain has for years exercised, violating in the tenderest point the most sacred of national rights, and fixing on the American character the foulest and most indelible mark of ignominy and disgrace."

—Deaths included Dr. Henry Hawood, "an eminent physician and highly esteemed citizen," at Tarboro; Wright W. Batchelor, editor of the "North Carolina Journal," Halifax; and Mrs. Mary Wallace, Portsmouth.

mouth, "of a cancer in the breast, which has preyed upon her for six years."

—The U.S.S. "Constitution" had just docked at Norfolk after returning from France with the latest international news.

On page four:

—Robert M. McBride of Six Mile Creek, Mecklenburg County, served notice that "some roguish person fraudulently broke open the house of the subscriber . . . and stole a small pocket book containing a five shilling bill, currency, and the following notes. . . ." All persons were warned against "trading for any of the above notes." A generous reward was offered.

—A $25 reward was offered by Temperance Wellborn and William Horton of Flat River, Orange County, for the return of a runaway Negro man, Peter, about 35 years old and "somewhat yellow," and a Negro woman, Polly, 24 or 25, "of a darker complexion."

—Price and Strother's map of North Carolina on canvas and rollers was on sale for $7 at Joseph Gale's store in Raleigh.

—It was announced that 1,000 tickets remained for sale in the Cape Fear lottery with prizes totaling $5,302 and ranging from $6 to $1,000.

—Bryant Bramble, Esq., announced plans to begin a new weekly paper at Murfreesboro. To be named "The Hornet's Nest," the paper's purposes were "To defend the principles of our Republican Constitution from the base aspersions of its domestic foes; to promote the general policy of our present administration; to promote the interests of a pure democracy; to cultivate unanimity of sentiment among the friends of union, order, and our country's rights. . . . to oppose the enemies of a government founded on the mangled bodies of our Fathers, and cemented with the richest blood of patriotic heroes; to 'heap coals of fire on the heads' of anti-Republicans, aristocrats and unprincipled demagogues, who advocate a division of the states; and to direct the lash of sarcasm and the sting of satire against all enemies of the Nest, without discrimination. . . ." The paper was to have a subscription price of $3 per year plus postage.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slumped today as the Penn Central Railroad strike added to the problems the financial community was already facing—the troubled dollar abroad and economic problems at home.

At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.46 at 964.86. Earlier it had been off more than 8. Declining issues were running far ahead of gainers, 866 to 264.

Chrysler, off ¼ at 36¾, said the strike would force a shutdown of all Chrysler assembly plants by Monday. Ford Chairman Henry Ford II urged President Nixon to seek emergency legislation to assure continued freight service by the railroad.

The Central Bank of West Germany was forced to absorb over $1 billion as the dollar continued to fare badly in the foreign-exchange market.

Magic Chef was the most-active on the Big Board, down 1¼ to 16¼, after a block of 188,800 sold at that price. American Telephone was second-most-active, down ¾ to 50½, and First National City Bank Corp. was down 1½ at 68½ in third place.

First National City, the nation's second-largest bank, is scheduled to review its basic lending-charge to corporations on Friday, and specialists say that might well call for the bank to boost its prime rate from 6 per cent to 6¼.

At 11 a.m., the New York Stock Exchange index was down 0.53 at 60.84.

The American Stock Exchange index was down 0.06 at 25.41.

Ask Funds For 129 Employees

RALEIGH (AP) — Natural and Economic Resources Secretary James E. Harrington requested funding Wednesday for 129 more employees over the next two years.

Harrington told the legislative Joint Appropriations Committee "the walls are going to cave in on our water and air resources program in North Carolina" unless the additional manpower is provided.

The Advisory Budget Commission only recommended 27 new employees for the next biennium. The water and air resources staff has asked for 232 more people, but Harrington said "we couldn't house that many people."

"Even if you gave us the positions (232) they are asking for, we couldn't find the trained people to fill them," Harrington said.

He requested a total of $5.4 million for operations and $8.8 million for capital improvements above the amount recommended by the budget commission.

"If we eventually pull ourselves out of the rubble," said Harrington, "I don't believe we will like what we see around us."

Say Stennis Progresses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis was making satisfactory progress today, but his condition was still very serious and "the prognosis remains grave," hospital officials said.

Stennis, who was shot twice in a holdup last week, slept intermittently during the night, said a 7 a.m. EST statement from Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Surgeons at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said they are concerned now about infection and the condition of the senator's pancreas and small intestine.

Stennis, 71, was shot in the stomach and left thigh during a holdup in front of his Washington home on Jan. 30. The bullet that struck him in the stomach penetrated his pancreas and intestine.

Members of Stennis' family and President Nixon visited Stennis Wednesday. The President said afterward, "I think he's going to make it."

A bill was introduced in the Mississippi Senate Wednesday to authorize a $50,000 reward for information leading to conviction of Stennis' assailants. Police have said they are looking for three male teen-agers in connection with the shooting.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Dollar Gets A Pounding

LONDON (AP) — The attack on the U.S. dollar continued unabated in foreign exchanges today as threats loomed of a trade war between the United States and its major trading partners.

William Eberle, President Nixon's special trade negotiator, underscored the gravity of the crisis when he warned Japanese ministers in Tokyo of a growing demand in the United States for strong curbs on foreign imports pouring into the country.

Indications were growing that West Germany was weakening in its opposition to a two-tier money market for the nine nations of the Common Market.

Washington has warned Bonn it strongly opposes such a system because it would mean maintaining the dollar at what many consider its present overvalued level, a level that makes American merchandise uncompetitive in world markets.

The dollar opened at or near its floor level in foreign exchanges, and the state banks of Japan, West Germany and the Netherlands had to come to its support. Under present international regulations, central banks are obliged to buy a currency when it reaches a certain low point to prevent its falling further.

Clean-Up Drive Begins Mar. 24

GRIFTON — The annual clean-up campaign for the Grifton Community will be held March 24, March 31, and April 7.

According to Raymond Battle, president of the Grifton Resources Improvement Program, the program has been expanded to three Saturdays instead of one to allow for more areas to be cleaned. The group will attempt to clean up side streets, residential areas, rural roads, and downtown Grifton.

Anyone who can help with the campaign is asked to contact Battle or Alex Warren.

Big Marijuana Supply Seized

FRANKLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Director Charles Dunn of the State Bureau of Investigation says a raid Wednesday in Franklin County resulted in the seizure of 200 pounds of marijuana worth $20,000.

Bobby Lee Mills was arrested on a charge of felonious possession of marijuana after the raid on a farm home near Franklinton.

Wake County Deputy Lonnie Covert who participated in the raid said officers found two pillow cases and nine large feed bags full of marijuana. He said marijuana sells for $100 a pound on the retail market.

Cover said 26 small bags of pills were found under the front seat of a car at Mills' home.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers told Congress today that developments in Vietnam since the peace agreement was signed "certainly support our expectations that the agreement will work."

Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that "over the past two weeks we can already see that the Vietnamese parties as well as others involved are working together to carry out the agreement."

However, Rogers in his prepared remarks said that the positive developments since the Jan. 27 signing "constitute only the first steps toward building peace in Indochina."

He added that massive and complex economic and political problems still must be resolved in Vietnam and he acknowledged that the conflicts in Laos and Cambodia have not been settled.

According to the secretary, the key to lasting peace involves the will of the Vietnamese parties and restraint on the part of "Hanoi's principal allies and suppliers."

He indicated that the Soviet Union and China's participation in an international conference later this month to underwrite a Vietnam settlement constitutes "a significant first step ... to help make it endure, and to promote the transition to lasting peace."

The secretary's statement to the committee was basically a restatement of the broad terms of the peace settlement and its supporting papers.

He said the four-party joint military commission, consisting of the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) of the Viet Cong, has begun to function and is now sending personnel to various checkpoints in South Vietnam.

Rogers noted a two-part military commission composed only of the Saigon and Viet Cong representatives will not go into operation until after the withdrawal of American forces. But he said the two South Vietnamese parties are beginning preliminary work.

Rogers said that the situation is so complex no one should have expected total and immediate peace. "However, the international commission constitutes an important assurance that violations that occur do not, through tolerance become larger violations."

Rogers' statements on Laos and Cambodia dealt primarily with the same points covered in previous statements by presidential advisor Henry Kissinger and President Nixon. The secretary said it is the firm expectation of the United States that a cease-fire will go into effect in Laos "within a short period of time."

However, he said, "until a cease-fire is reached we, for our part will continue to give support to the Royal Lao government in response to its requests."

The United States will continue economic and military assistance to Cambodia, Roger said, but the level will continue at what he called its current modest rate.

Rescued When Trawler Swamps

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A converted subchaser out of Norfolk swamped in the Atlantic 60 miles off Virginia Eastern Shore Wednesday, but five crewmen were rescued unharmed.

The Coast Guard said the Chris F. II, a 110-foot fishing trawler, swamped early in the afternoon and that her crewmen were taken aboard the fishing boat Captain Rose.

River Level Still Rising

The Tar River rose almost a foot during the past 24 hours as upstream rains from a few days ago drained into the body of water.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station, the river level was reported at 12.5 feet and rising this morning at 8 a.m. Yesterday's level was recorded at 11.7 feet.

According to the weather station, the average level for Tar River is about three and one-half feet.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 a.m. was 55 degrees while the low for that same period was 36 degrees. The temperature this morning at 8 a.m. was reported as 38 degrees and by 11 a.m. had risen to 47 degrees.

Only a trace of rain was recorded by the weather station during the 24-hour period ending today at 8 a.m.

Pirates Halt Stewart, Spiders, 69-64

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor

Aron Stewart, the Southern Conference's leading scorer, came into Minges Coliseum last night wearing No. 30 for the Richmond Spiders.

But by the time he left the court at the end of the game, he must have thought he was wearing No. 42.

That's the number of East Carolina's Dave Franklin, who put the defensive shammy on Stewart, doing the best job on him that anyone has done.

And it helped the Pirates to fashion a 69-64 victory and move into sole possession of third place in the conference.

The win was the third straight for the Bucs, now 11-8. They are 6-5 in the conference. Richmond fell off to 4-7 in the league.

Franklin, assigned to Stewart from the start in a box-and-one defense, allowed him only one basket the entire night. He came on to score eight more and a total of 21 points, but most of that came when Franklin was on the bench for 10:06 of the first half in foul trouble.

Overall, however, the Pirates seemed to play just good enough to win it. They powered out by as much as eight points during the early going, but failed to hold it. Then, when the going got tough, they had the opportunity to open a lead on a number of occasions, but failed.

Richmond at the same time, also had a number of chances to either tie it up or go ahead, but each time they missed, and the Bucs would come up with the ball.

The Pirates won the battle of the boards, 40-26.

Al Faber, playing one of his better games, pulled 10 of those rebound down, and hit 17 points. Nicky White led the rebounding with 14.

East Carolina led nearly all the way and never trailed. White hit a turnaround jumper with just 13 seconds gone, but neither team scored for a while until Stewart stole the ball and got an uncontested snowbird. He wasn't to score again until 11:01 was left, and it was the only basket he got off Franklin.

Earl Quash hit a jumper with 17:39 left to put the Bucs back up and Jerome Owens and Franklin each hit to run the lead out to six.

After the teams twice exchanged baskets, White hit a jumper with 14:25 showing to run the margin to eight, 14-6.

Then, after holding that margin through two more baskets, it began to fall away. Steve Catlett hit from the key and Ray Amann scored from underneath to trim the lead to 18-14. The Bucs then held onto that lead until a technical foul was called on the Pirate bench, and Stewart hit the technical with 7:41 left.

Gus Collier followed that up with a shot from underneath 20 seconds later to trim the lead to 24-23. Faber made a free-throw to put it back out to three and the Bucs continued to hold that margin until just before the end of the half.

Then, with the Bucs leading, 34-33, Faber made a free-throw. Dave McNeill stole the ball seconds later for a layup, and the Bucs were out by four. They held that through the final minute of play for a 39-35 lead.

Owens got a steal early in the second half to run the Bucs out by six, 41-35, but again, Richmond came back on them.

Catlett drove in for two points, and then Carlton Mack hit after a steal to cut it to two. After a free throw by Quash, Stewart got two charity shots and the lead was cut to 44-43, but still the Spiders just couldn't find the range when they had the chance.

East Carolina then moved away again. White tapped in a missed shot and Faber knocked in another. Quash then hit a jumper with 10:44 left to up the lead to seven, 52-45.

But again, Richmond came back. A three point play by Bob Jacobs cut it to 54-50, and then Jeff Snider got a turnaround jumper to trim it to 56-54 with 7:41 left. Richmond didn't get another field goal, however, until just 23 seconds remained and the Pirates had opened up a 10-point lead.

They stayed close for the next few minutes, however, hitting four in a row from the foul line. But Franklin hit two free throws with 2:22 left and then White tapped in another basket with 1:45 showing. Another tap, this one by Owens ran it to eight, and he followed with two free throws to up it to 10, 68-58 with only 32 seconds left.

Richmond got six points in the time remaining, while the Pirates got one, and it was over.

Besides Faber's 17 points, Owens and Quash each had 13, while Franklin and White hit 10 each. For Richmond, Stewart was high with 21 and Catlett had 10.

The Pirates, with only one home game remaining, against The Citadel on Feb. 24, take to the road for four games, starting Saturday at Boone against Appalachian.

East Carolina Swimmers Whip Catholic; Set Several Records

East Carolina University rolled to a 72-41 victory over Catholic University in a swimming meet held here yesterday.

The Bucs spotted Catholic both relays, but took eight of the 11 individuals events, outpointing Catholic here, 72-27.

Larry Green, Jack Morrow and Paul Trevisan were all double winners in the meet. Green won the 1,000-yard freestyle in a varsity record of 10:15.75, and also took the 500-yard freestyle. Morrow won both diving events in record totals while Trevisan won the 50 and 100 yard freestyles, setting a new pool, varsity and meet record in both, :21.55, and :47.67 respectively.

The Pirates, in winning, raised their dual meet record to 10-2. They travel to meet Maryland on February 17 in their next action.

Dietzel Making More Than Gov.

COLUMBIA (AP)—The head football coach and athletic director of the University of South Carolina is paid a salary higher than that of the state's governor.

According to the terms of his contract with USC, released Wednesday by the trustee board, Paul Dietzel is paid $36,112 annually, plus benefits. The governor and University President Thomas F. Jones make $35,000 and $36,172 respectively.

USC is bound by the contract until 1982, but if negotiations, held at two year intervals, are not satisfactory, Dietzel may withdraw.

The contract release ends a controversy that began in November when the school trustee board rejected a request by a Columbia newspaper for access to the document.

Chairman T. Eston Marchant conducted a survey of the board after State Attorney General Daniel McLeod issued an opinion saying withholding the contract was a breach of the Freedom of Information law passed last year.

The contract release was accompanied by a statement from Marchant which said, "This action is taken after a majority of the board gave their approval. This was accomplished by a telephone polling on Tuesday and Wednesday, and after a majority of the executive committee of the board so recommended at a meeting Monday."

Also accompanying the document was a statement from USC treasurer Howard Rhodes which said no payments have been made to Dietzel from blazer or program sales, program advertising, Gamecocks emblems, Gamecock decals or concessions.

Dietzel's original contract with the school called for a salary of $31,500 to extend through 1979.

Additional benefits are —an expense account of six per cent of his annual salary or $2,166.

—a bonus of 10 per cent of salary for participation in bowl games. This is to be paid in a lump sum from non-approved funds.

—second priority for use of the university airplane after the president.

—permission to negotiate separate agreements outside the university for television and radio productions relating to USC football.

—permission for Mrs. Dietzel to accompany him on all trips. The agreement holds Dietzel "completely responsible to and only to the chief administrative officer of the University," President Jones.

Other highly paid state officials include Medical University of South Carolina President Dr. William M. McCord, $43,706; State Development Board Director J. Bonner Manly, $36,365; State Commissioner of Mental Health Dr. William S. Hall, $35,742; and State Supreme Court Chief Justice Joseph R. Moss, $35,000.

USOC Director To Be Replaced

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Arthur Lentz, $30,000-a-year executive director, is slated to be the main victim of a shakeup this weekend in the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The former University of Wisconsin publicist, administrative head of the USOC since 1966, will be replaced by his present assistant director, Col. Don Miller, a source close to the situation told the Associated Press today.

Philip O. Krumm, the incoming president, declined to discuss the report other than to say: "There will be some important changes in our organization—yes, they will affect Olympic House. But I can't reveal them for a couple of days."

Krumm is a 66-year-old former sales representative from Kenosha, Wis., who succeeds Clifford Buck of Denver, a retired sporting goods executive, as USOC president in the organization's darkest hour.

Around 150 delegates poured into this fashionable winter resort today to attempt to regrid America's greatest amateur sports body, already deserted by major colleges and under heavy fire from Congress and a militant, college-backed group known as The Committee for a Better Olympics.

Missing were delegates from the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association and 37 individual conferences, making a total absentee list of about 125. The NCAA withdrew its support shortly before the ill-starred Munich Olympics, calling for a complete overhaul of the USOC structure.

Lentz, who could not be reached immediately for comment, reportedly had hoped for a four-year renewal of his contract, which has another year to run.

If Lentz goes, so may other top administrative officials, excepting Col. Miller.

Prior to today's meeting, at which he will officially take office, Krumm made it plain that he planned broad and decisive measures intended to restore the USOC's tattered image.

"We will study all the criticisms and examine them one by one," he added. "We will bring outstanding athletes—old stars and present ones—into our policy making. We intend to rectify whatever mistakes we have made in the past."

Gals Walk On; Guys Walk Out

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — San Bernardino Valley College inserted a girl into Wednesday night's basketball game with San Diego City College and the visitors immediately walked off the court.

Valley was leading in the Mission Conference game 114-85 with 3:12 to play when Coach Ray Blake ordered Sue Palmer, an attractive blonde, into the game. San Diego Coach Bill Standley said he let his players vote and "they voted 100 per cent to walk off."

Two girls—the 18-year-old Miss Palmer and Renee Ferguson, 19—had worked out with the Valley team on Tuesday after Blake's squad had compiled a 5-15 season record and were 2-7 in conference play.

"We had lost five straight games," Blake said. He said the players were upset when the gals worked out with the team Tuesday but "they urged me to put them into the game at halftime. We've never played so well."

One player said the guys

Washington's Mark Gray, limited to only ten points in a previous game, exploded for 28 points to spoil the Rose High Rampants home finale, 71-54.

Gray equaled his first Pam-Pack-Rose total in the first half. With the beginning of the second half, Gray hit everything he put to the hoop, dropping nine field goals to put more space between his team and the Rampants.

The Pam-Pack, as a whole kept the Rampants at bay in the early going. As time passed, however, Gray and company began to find the range to the hoop. Rose High, on the other hand, put up many shots, just to find them fall off the basket or fall in the basket and fall out again.

Though the Rampants shot well in the first half, their luck ran out as a six-point half time deficit bulged to 13 at the end of the third quarter.

An example of the early closeness was the fact the game was tied six times, five times in the second quarter.

Dennis Taylor opened the scoring for Rose. The senior, playing in his final home game, dropped in a jumper for a quick 2-0 lead. Paul Whitley connected on a three-point play to give the lead to the Pam-Pack. Gray spaced it to 5-2 before consecutive baskets by Al Hunter gave Rose the lead back at 6-5 with 4:08 remaining. Cleve Smallwood and Gray hit shots to put the score at 9-6. Another tally by Hunter left Rose within a digit, 9-8. Eddie Wilder and Melvin Lodge combined for three points to end the quarter at 12-8, Pam-Pack favor.

Herb Bynum and Harvey Tucker hit baskets to tie the score at 12-12 with one minute gone in the second quarter. Washington pushed out to a three point lead, only to see Rose gain it back on George Price's jumper and free throw, 17-15.

Lodge's free throws re-knotted the game at 17. It was tied three more times in the period before Washington could take the lead for good. Gray's jumper made it 25-23. After another Pam-Pack score, Herb Bynum sliced into the lead with a pair of free throws, but his teammates went cold and the Pam-Pack took advantage. Eddie Wilder hit a basket at the buzzer to leave the halftime spread at 31-25.

Washington hit their first two shots of the second half before the Rose squad could respond. But this was the quarter in which Gray would go berserk. His third quarter individual performance of 14 points equaled the output of the entire Rampant team. Though the Rampants brought the lead down to eight points, Gray's shooting expanded the lead to 13 points at 52-39 at the end of the third period.

Gray took up where he left off in the third quarter, hitting a jumper to make the score 54-39 with 7:18 left to play. Jackie Savage and Hunter returned with three free throws to cut it to 54-42. The lead reached 17 with just 1:16 left in the game. The two teams traded baskets, with Ronnie Staton's last free throws holding the lead at 17.

Complementing Gray's game-high effort was Wilder's 11 and Paul Whitley's 14 points. Bynum paced the Rose attack with 16, while Hunter added 10. Hunter fouled out late in the fourth period.

In the junior varsity preliminary, the Rampant Cubs disposed of the Pam-Pack JVs, 69-47.

The Cubs left little doubt as to who was to take command of the game. They jumped out into a 14-6 first quarter margin. The Cubs outthrew the Baby Pack 19-14 in the second quarter to lead 33-20 at the half.

Though the Cubs only outscored Washington by two, 18-16, the third quarter ended with a lead of 51-36. In outscoring the Pack 18-11, in the fourth quarter they established the final margin.

Ronnie Barrett led the winners with 16 points, while Macon Moye and Lindbergh Morris followed with 14 and 11, respectively. Steve Modlin led Washington with 10 points.

Brushmen, Carbide Win

Empire Brush and Union Carbide picked up victories in close games in the Industrial Basketball League last night. Union Carbide nipped Vermont American, 63-61, while Empire Brush outlasted Prepsmith, 47-46.

In the opening game, Union Carbide built up a slim 32-28 lead in the first half, then had to fight to hold on for the win. Vermont American, trying to snap its losing streak, came back with a 33-31 advantage, but it just fell short.

Lewis Boyd and Larry Daniels each had 18 points, while Sam Daniels had 13 and T. Roach had 10 for Union Carbide. Vermont American was led by Richard Hill with 15, while Julius Wright had 12 and Walter Hill added 10.

In the second game, Prepsmith eased into a 20-18 lead in the first half, but was unable to hold onto it. Empire Brush came back to outscore them, 29-26, the rest of the way, and it was just enough to win it.

Curtis Barrett led the Brushmen with 23 points, while James Parker had 16, William Johnson led Prepsmith with 14, with Clyde Murchison adding 10.

Plans Worked Out For Tourney; To Urge NCAA Reorganization

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship tournament could be forced to take a back seat to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament next month at the Greensboro Coliseum.

It all depends on what North Carolina State and Duke do in the early rounds of the ACC tournament March 8-10.

Both are one-year NCAA probation for basketball recruiting irregularities and are not eligible for the NCAA tournament berth that annually goes to the conference tournament winner. Both end their season with the ACC tournament.

Should one of the two gain the finals, the other finalist, regardless of the outcome of the conference title game, would get the NCAA berth.

However, should both N. C. State and Duke gain the finals, the losing semifinalists would be paired in a "preliminary" game with the winner getting the national tournament bid.

Conference officials came up with this solution Wednesday, the final day of their three-day annual winter meeting.

If this come out, the "preliminary" would be played at 6 p.m. and the conference title game would go on as scheduled at 8:30 over regional television.

The semifinal games also will be televised regionally. The three-game opening round of the seven-team event will not be carried on regional TV, but the conference voted to allow individual schools to arrange closed circuit television if they wish.

N. C. State, unbeaten and ranked No. 2 nationally, is one of three ACC teams in the national top 10. North Carolina is No. 6 and Maryland ranks ninth.

The conference instructed Commissioner Bob James to work for reorganizing the NCAA at a special meeting in Chicago Feb. 17 of major college conferences. The big schools were unsuccessful at last month's national meeting in their efforts to have the NCAA broken into two or three divisions and are meeting next week to discuss strategy for a special national convention on the subject, scheduled in August.

James said the large schools cannot continue being subject to "a vote of people (smaller schools) who do not conduct programs similar to ours."

The conference, while going along with the NEW NCAA requirement of a 2.0 grade point average, amounting to a "C" for prospective student-athletes, retained its 1.6 prediction rule, which was scrapped by the NCAA last month. It remains in effect for the ACC, pending "technical differences which remain to be resolved."

The differences may come up May 21-23 at the ACC spring meeting at Myrtle Beach, S.C.

The conference, by deleting the word "male" in referring to student athletes, made it possible for women to compete, going along with a similar change the NCAA made last month.

Commissioner James explained this means that it is left to the individual institutions to determine whether athletes, male or female, are certified as to eligibility in accordance with their standards.

No great rush to try out for football or similar "heavy" activity is expected, but, as of now, the girls, if qualified, may compete in conference events. Swimming, tennis, golf and track are considered the most likely.

Meanwhile, the change removes the possibility of charges that the ACC is discriminating against women.

The conference, also following the NCAA lead, ruled that 14 players may dress for basketball tournament action. Previously, it was held at 12. James said that a survey of five of the seven ACC schools who had statistics, revealed that 15 freshmen who played varsity football last season had fared better academically than their predicted grade point average. James commented their performance showed that early varsity football "did not detract from their academic pursuit."

CLEMENTE 'GREATEST'
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Manager Dick Williams of the world champion Oakland A's says "in 1971 Roberto Clemente was the greatest baseball player I ever watched." Williams says he never saw any other player do all the things the late Clemente did in the 1971 World Series for the Pittsburgh Pirates. "He could do it all and he did it all in that World Series."

When Williams took over the A's in 1971, he says outfielder Angel Mangual told him: "I am copying Roberto Clemente. I want to play like him."

Williams replied: "If you can be one-third the player Clemente is you will make me very happy."

Newfoundland Coal Dealers Feel Pinch

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP) — Coal dealers in Newfoundland are going out of business.

And the smoke signals are beginning to disappear. In the old days, people in the outports peeped out their windows each morning to see the smoke from their neighbors' chimneys, signifying it was life as usual.

Like the old kerosene lamp in the window at dusk, the morning smoke from burning coal was a signal that all was well in the home of a widow or other lone dweller.

But the kerosene lamp and the cast-iron wood and coal stove now are in disfavor among most Newfoundland homeowners who are opting for electricity, oil and gas.

Newfoundland was once a big customer for coal mined in Cape Breton and thousands of tons were shipped to the province each fall from North Sydney, N.S.

Harvey and Co. of St. John's, which recently discontinued the business after importing coal for 110 years, bought up to 70,000 tons annually. By 1971 their imports had dropped to 2,000 tons. Another major importer, Rorke Salt and Coal Co. of Carbonear, quit importing coal in 1972 after being in business since 1838. Increasing use of electricity, oil and gas for heating and cooking led to the move.

In the days of the old sailing schooner when seamen were willing to work for low wages, coal sold on the Burin Peninsula for as little as $6 a ton. Today it retails in St. John's for $55 a ton loose and $65 a ton bagged and the buyer must pay the trucking costs.

Despite the high prices, dealer profits are not exorbitant. Coal loaded on board ship at Sydney costs about $22 a ton. Freight to Newfoundland is about $10 a ton and then there are handling and distribution costs.

One importing company, Avalon Coal and Salt Ltd. of Bay Roberts, has decided to keep on buying and distributing coal and will also supply smaller dealers in St. John's who find it uneconomical to import themselves.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S
horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is your day not to expand, but to reduce your ideas and desires to a workable plan that is practical. Make certain the financial aspects are on a solid and secure structure. Look about your house and see that all is right. Stick within your budget. Your mind is working well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go ahead with plans to pay bills, get reports out of the way and come to good terms with those you deal with in business. Use your good hunches. Show mate you have a sense of humor.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the health treatments that will have you at your best for social affairs this evening. Make the acquaintance of fascinating people. Others will now respect and appreciate you more.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take the time to work out the details of a fine plan you have that is important. Later see what it is that close ties expect of you. Do your utmost to please them. Show that you have wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Analyze those friends you want to cultivate more in the future for your greater happiness and success. State your aims to those who will understand them and give you a helping hand.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It is wise to get busy and handle all those responsibilities that are yours. Show you are a fine citizen. Stop procrastinating or you get into trouble. Assist those who need your help.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have the chance now to obtain the data you need, get out of the rut you have been in and make something out of yourself. Ally yourself with those whose experience has been wider than yours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are wide awake to the most intelligent means through which to get your obligations behind you. Don't delay any longer. Show more affection to mate and put your existence on an even keel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study the contracts you have made and be sure you keep your end of the bargain. Strive for more harmony with everyone, whether in business or personal life. Think logically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) With all the duties ahead of you, it is well you persevere in a most intelligent fashion today. Make those changes to wardrobe that will make you look more attractive. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take the time to get your paraphernalia for your hobbies in order so you can go full speed ahead in the near future. Don't neglect your routine work. More affection for mate is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Every detail connected with your home is important now so give as much attention to this as possible. Bring friends into your home tonight and have a good time. Show that you have poise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to make notations, lists and reports, so that you can function more efficiently next week at work. Do your shopping early so that you have more free time for a happy weekend.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can converse intelligently but is likely to shy away from making definite decisions. Teach to take the initiative. Give discipline kindly and start your youngster on a course of action that will last throughout life and bring considerable success. A good entertainer here. Give spiritual training early in life.

Collection Depot Ready

The collection depot for Church World Service in Greenville is at St. James United Methodist Church, 2000 E. Sixth St.

North Carolina churches are now engaged in the first of two semi-annual drives for clothing and blankets for disaster relief.

A truck from the Church World Service Center in New Windsor, Md., will visit the 36 clothing collection depots in North Carolina during the week of February 19 and will return during the week of Sept. 4.

CWS responds to disaster areas in the United States as well as overseas.

Donors of clothing or blankets are asked to contribute 10 cents per pound to cover the cost of processing for shipment.

Persons wishing to contribute in the drive are asked to pack the articles in stout cardboard boxes, securely tied and deliver them to the collection depot prior to Feb. 19.

There is a special need for men's, infant's, and children's clothing, and for blankets.

Mrs. Joe Clark is in charge of the CWS collection for the Greenville area. The phone number is 752-6154.

Square-Rigger To Sail Again

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The old square-rigger Star of India may put to sea again briefly in June — under full sail for the first time in 50 years.

The remodeled 110-year-old sailing ship will make a short trip off the Southern California coast in order to be photographed, said Capt. Kenneth T. Reynard, the vessel's skipper.

The Star of India was launched in 1863 under the British flag at the Isle of Man. The merchantman was retired in 1923 and turned into a dockside museum.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Ego-Deflation Wrecks Homes

Donna's marital tragedy faces probably 1,000,000 young wives who work to help their husbands get through college or established in business in business. Beware that you faithful wives aren't then cast aside for some gushing society debutante!

By GEORGE W. CRANE.

Ph. D., M.D.
CASE W-521: Donna K., aged 27, came to me in tears.
"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "what has come over my husband?"

"We married when he was in his second year at medical school.

"And I had to work as a secretary to help pay his way along.

"But I didn't mind, for I knew he'd make a success as a doctor.

"Because of his heavy studying and my trying to earn a living, as well as keep house, our first years were pretty hectic.

"We were often irritable and quarreled, but not because of any serious differences, only over petty matters due to our tension and heavy schedules.

"Now my husband is in private practice and doing quite well.

"But he has fallen in love with a society belle, whose wealthy parents are showering him with attention.

"And it isn't because I lack in feminine charm for my 'measurements' would equal or even exceed those of this other girl.

"Several other wives of physicians and dental surgeons also helped work their husbands' way through professional school.

"And I find many of the wives are also threatened with divorce, so what makes men discard their faithful early partners and fall for glamour gals after the men have gained three clubs. If the diamonds divide favorably, or if the jack drops, South will have two more tricks. If East holds a well-guarded jack, however, he may gain the lead in time to deliver a fatal salvo in spades thru declarer's king.

As a safety play, South led a small diamond from dummy at trick two and finessed the ten in his hand. He was quite willing to concede a diamond trick to West, for the latter was not in position to attack spades without establishing another stopper for declarer.

When the ten of diamonds held, South cashed out all his winners to score an over-trick. His play of the queen of spades at trick one was the key to success on the deal, no matter which defender held the ace of that suit.

Suppose, for example, that East can top dummy's queen of spades with the ace and continues the suit. Declarer ducks one round and wins the third spade with the king. He cashes the ace of diamonds and then leads the ten for a finesse thru West.

If East wins with the jack and returns a spade, then that suit will have divided four-four and the defense is limited to three spades and one diamond. If East has no more spades, then the diamond finesse thru West has served to keep the dangerous hand out of the lead until declarer has established his ninth trick.

West opened the six of spades and declarer put up the queen from dummy which held the trick. Observe that, if North plays the five, East will dislodge South's king and then the queen is subject to easy capture subsequently, no matter which defender gets in.

Declarer had eight top tricks now—one spade, one heart, three diamonds and success?"

Christ's Diagnosis

Jesus aptly diagnosed this dilemma in reverse when he stated:

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

Which merely indicates that Donna's husband feels she knew him "way back when" he was a struggling student and without funds except for her weekly paycheck.

So such a man tends to fear that his wife doesn't look up to him with the awe and admiration and respect that his ego demands.

At Nazareth, Jesus thus couldn't perform his usual miracles of healing, for his fellow townsmen refused to admit his greatness.

Instead, they derided him as being the carpenter's son, and said Christ's brothers and sisters were still living in the village with them; hence, Jesus certainly couldn't be a "big shot" in their eyes!

Another danger which you working wives of male students must guard against, is their secret ego deflation at feeling under obligation to you for their support.

Sometimes, too, in an angry quarrel, such a wife may even "throw this up to her mate."

That's anathema to a young husband who wants to feel like a king!

So the doctor or lawyer or other talented professional man is often ensnared by the flattery of society belles who know to these men as if they are movie stars.

This tickles the ego of such new doctors, lawyers or dental surgeons until they lose perspective.

Tragically, they may thus divorce a faithful wife and become enamored of a "Jill-come-lately."

"Familiarity breeds contempt," runs an old adage that helps explain why they divorce the woman who helped them in those lean years.

So you working wives should join my "Compliment Club" and feed your mate's ego deserved verbal praise, supplemented with A-1 boudoir "cheesecake!"

Send for that "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It is ideal divorce insurance!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

About-To-Retire Firemen, Cops Train To Assume Nursing Role

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — They are far from what Florence Nightingale had in mind for the nursing profession — homicide detectives, firefighters, radio-car cops and policewomen.

But they just may be the best class of nurses turned out by Bellevue Hospital in its 100 years.

"I'm convinced of it," says Dr. Joseph A. Cimino, New York City Health Commissioner and originator of the idea of taking about-to-retire cops and firemen and using their experience, skill and compassion to train them to be badly needed nurses.

Eighty-seven, out of an original 100, stuck it out through a long, hard 2½ years, while doing their regular jobs, and will graduate from the only such program in the nation Thursday night.

Long ago, they got used to the stationhouse and firehouse ribbing about becoming nurses, once thought of as strictly a woman's occupation.

Fireman Mike Wolf, built like a halfback and the veteran of thousands of alarms, said, "The guys back at the house can't wait for me to graduate so they can buy me my first pair of white pantyhose."

Patrolman Harold McCarthy, of the Traffic Education Unit, already has the professional mustache and demeanor of a Park Avenue specialist. He claims to be the first to enroll in the program and will present the class to Mayor John Lindsay and others at the graduation night ceremonies.

Then he wants to go further on in the Hunter College-Bellevue School of Nursing, as it's formally known, to get his B.S. in nursing.

"I'm hoping the feds will pick up the tab for that, too," he says. The Health, Education and Welfare Department's Division of Nursing funded the program for two classes of cops and firemen to the tune of $500,000 and the second class graduates next February.

Most of the would-be nurses have families with children — who miss them often during the 40 hours they spend in class, clinic and homework.

The gruff humor common to policemen and firemen also makes for a bedside manner that the school's founder, Anglican Sister Helen Bowdin never dreamed of, say doctors at Bellevue and the nearby Veterans Administration and New York University hospitals, where the men do ward practice.

One doctor said, "When she gets a scared patient, a female professional nurse puts on her best reassuring smile and says, 'Mr. Zilch, if we follow doctor's orders and watch ourselves, I think we'll come out all right.'"

"But a cop or fireman nurse is more likely to tell the guy: 'Aw, hell, Mac. I had the same thing myself a couple years back. A month later I could lick my weight in wildcats and drink my weight in beer.'"

Dr. Joseph T. English, president of the Health and Hospitals Corporation, hopes the grads will come back to the city's 19-hospital system. So does the dean of Hunter-Bellevue, Dr. Marguerite Holmes, who feels the policeman and firemen are most interested in "the emergency ward, intensive care, psychiatry, and don't be surprised, pediatrics."

Dean Holmes speaks affectionately of her unusual charges as the sirens scream past to the Bellevue emergency ward outside her window.

"I think if I had it to do over, I wouldn't take anybody under 30 to be a nurse."

Then she adds: "If seriousness and dedication mean anything, our class of firemen

Stan Kenton Concert Set

Stan Kenton and his 19 piece orchestra will be appearing at Wright Auditorium on the East Carolina University campus Wednesday, March 7. The concert, given in conjunction with an afternoon clinic, is part of a program to develop jazz studies in Eastern Carolina schools which is being financed by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Kenton — through his work with the National Stage Band Camps and his own organization, The Creative World of Stan Kenton and his Orchestra — has been one of the major motivators of the school stage band movement, as well as an internationally known Jazz Artist. His concerts of the Jazz Band in Residence and the use of the entire orchestra in clinics have proven to be useful tools in the building of Jazz Programs throughout the nation.

A limited number of tickets for the concert, which will also feature the East Carolina Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Tom Smith and George Broussard, will be offered to the general public at a later date.

See Good Year For Albacore

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — West coast commercial fishermen landed a near-record catch of 34,000 tons of albacore, or white meat tuna, in 1972, according to the National Marine Fisheries Service Center here. There was a 91 per cent increase in the catch off British Columbia for a total of 22,200 tons there.

The center, which scouts conditions in advance and sends out fishing advisories by radio during the season, had predicted a good year.

Poland's Birth Rate Steadily Dropping Classified

By HOWARD A. TYNER
WARSAW (UPI) — For a thousand years, foreign invaders tried without success to do away with the Polish people. Now the Poles are threatening to do the job themselves.

It's not as dramatic as it sounds. This country has 33 million inhabitants and Poles are a long way from becoming a vanishing species.

But the birth rate in underpopulated Poland has shown a steady decline since the early 1950s and experts fear if this trend continues, the population soon may actually start to shrink.

"Unless there is a change, we could be down to just 18 million by the year 2040," one health official said.

To halve their population within 70 years would be a blessing in nations like India or China. But it's the opposite here.

Poland lost more than six million people in World War II and today, 27 years later, it still has not achieved its pre-war population of 35 million.

A Lack of Bodies
What that means in economic terms is that 100,000 jobs are standing empty for want of bodies to fill them. And the figure could well increase as industrialization continues.

Demographers say Poland's geographical size, agricultural potential and industrial development suggest an ideal population of 45 million—slightly less than major West European nations such as Britain, France or West Germany.

"But how to reach that point?" asks sociologist Jerzy Piotrowski. "Everyone wants to increase the birth rate, but no one knows how to do it."

Statistics tell the story. In 1950, Poland had a population of 24.8 million and 736,000 births. By 1960, population was up to 29 million, but births had dropped to 669,000. And in 1969, with the population at 32.5 million, births hit a postwar low of 531,000.

Fractional increases occurred in 1970 and 1971 and the projected figure for 1972 is 575,000 births. Yet the average family in Poland still has only two children, so the population remains virtually unchanged.

CHILDREN — there aren't enough of them in Poland, which needs more people but has a decreasing birth rate.

Economics primarily is responsible for the decline. (UPI Telephoto)

No Time for Babies
With average monthly salaries low, 70 per cent of all Polish married women hold jobs. Like Mrs. Stapinska, few can afford to take time off to have a baby.

Also, Poland has nurseries to care for only 15 per cent of the nation's babies, which means most mothers cannot leave their child while at work.

Other factors are a shortage of adequate housing and a consumer miniboom in Poland. Warsaw's government is stressing more consumer products and many people prefer to spend for a new house or new car than for a second child.

Dr. Danuta Graniewska, a sociologist, thinks the state should bear more of the financial burden of having children.

"As it is now, the parents take the brunt almost entirely," she said. "That does not encourage an increase in the birth rate."

State officials have taken some steps. Maternity leaves for women recently have been extended from 16 to 18 weeks and "child money" allowances were increased. Newspaper campaigns trumpet the virtues of "the third child" and rumors speak of a tightening of Poland's liberal abortion law.

Skyscraper Has Pieces Falling

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Wire
BOSTON (AP) — Plywood patches cover sections of New England's tallest building. When the wind blows hard, some of the glass panels of the skyscraper's exterior walls crack and fall, shattering on the streets below.

After spending $95 million and waiting through four years of construction, the owner, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., cannot move in.

The firm's new corporate headquarters — a 60-story, mirror-like high-rise angled into a corner of Boston's Copley Square — is too dangerous to walk near when stiff winds gust in off the harbor.

Engineers don't know why the glass breaks or how to stop it.

The insurance company wanted to move in at the end of February but now will have to wait six months or more while engineers try to find a way to keep the glass from falling.

Solutions range from replacing the window gaskets to changing the glass that covers 90 per cent of the building — the latter a job that could cost up to $8 million. The 16 acres of exterior walls are covered by 10,348 huge glass panes.

At last count, 340 of the panes had been broken. Officials are not sure how many were popped by the wind and how many were smashed by falling shards of glass. The company says up to 660 others have been nicked or scratched and most will have to be replaced.

When winds at the top of the tower hit 45 miles an hour, police block off streets around the building to protect pedestrians from flying glass. This happens about twice a month. And when the winds reach 50 m.p.h., the panes begin to crack and smash.

On Jan. 20, winds to 75 m.p.h. smashed 15 to 20 of the $750 panes, and flying glass broke another 40 to 50. Hundreds of others were scratched.

Thus far, there have been no reported injuries.

Big Loser In Relocation

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A man forced to move his men's clothing store to make way for a skyscraper in downtown Charlotte says relocation three blocks away in a sea of women's wear stores ruined his business. He filed suit for 50,000 damages Wednesday, naming as defendants, the city of Charlotte, its Redevelopment Commission, and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The plaintiff, R.C. "Pat" Stewart, said in his suit in U.S. District Court that he did not block the attempt to move him to make way for the 40-story North Carolina National Bank Building because he didn't want to stand in the way of the progress of Charlotte. He said steadily declining business forced him to close last October after 18 months in the new location, and he is now in the real estate business.

The bank building is under construction on Charlotte's main square.

Power Shortage Answer May Be In City's Dump

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Part of the answer to America's power shortage may be found at the St. Louis city dump.

Wayne Sutterfield, St. Louis refuse commissioner for the past six years, is overseeing a new facility which converts trash into fuel for a power generating plant.

The process, the only one of its kind in the nation, went into operation last May. While all of the bugs aren't worked out yet, Sutterfield thinks it is a key to at least part of the fuel shortage threatening to curtail power in the future.

The process works like this: The trash is brought by trucks to the plant, where it is pushed in raw form onto a conveyor belt. It is carried to a hammermill where 200-pound hammers shred the material.

From there it is moved by conveyor to a magnetic metal-detecting device which removes ferrous metals. The shredded remains, called confetti, are loaded into 25-ton trucks and taken to the Union Electric Co. plant outside the city.

Sutterfield said the modified boilers at the power plant normally operate on 60 tons of coal. Under this project 10 per cent of the coal is replaced by the converted trash. Since the confetti has only half the heat value of coal it takes 12 tons of the shredded material to replace six tons of coal.

During the first full year of operation the project is budgeted at a cost of $2.8 million, including construction. The federal government and the city are sharing the costs on a two-thirds, one-third basis. In addition, Union Electric says it spent $550,000 to modify its boilers to receive the shredded trash.

Sutterfield said that after the first year operating costs are expected to be $600,000 yearly.

Processes 30 Per Cent

The system is designed to process 30 per cent of the city's trash, but during its first months in operation it has not always run at full capacity. Only one major problem has cropped up, Sutterfield said.

"Our greatest problem so far is that we're only removing ferrous metal with our magnetic detector," he explained. "Some non-ferrous metals and glass are getting into the mix and creating problems in the pneumatic system at the boiler."

To solve these problems, he said, an air classifier is to be installed this year. This phase of the process also will separate any plastic from other items in the trash by means of their weights to allow a more finely sifted confetti to be burned in the suspension boiler system at the electrical plant.

"We think that with the proper preparation we can burn more than 10 per cent confetti in the boilers. We really don't know what we can burn eventually. That's one of the things we'll try to determine."

Sutterfield said trash may be the fuel of the future and St. Louis trash could lead the way. Such a project has never before been tried on such a large scale, he said.

"Everyone is pretty well waiting to see what happens here before they decide whether they'll go any further."

Collector Just Couldn't Stop

NORTH WOODMERE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Meta Bleier started looking some time ago for a dozen silver plated, figural napkin rings, to dress up her table for dinner parties. These rings with their miniature sculptures enjoyed a vogue in the 1870s. After she had acquired the dozen, however, she found others too good to pass up. So now she has 304 of them.
