

Thumbs-Down On Bid To Close Charles Street

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

City Council members Thursday night gave a thumbs-down vote on a State Highway Commission request to close Charles Street to the public from May through September.

Highway officials noted that unusual engineering difficulties were involved due to the close proximity of the piers of the railroad trestle; the fact that the present culvert needs to be removed in its entirety at one time; and the necessity for extensive land fill in the area if a detour is required.

Louis Gaylord, spokesman for opposition on the requested closure, cited several factors that would, in his words, impose hardships on individuals. Primary among these were the cost to individuals for extra miles to be driven; the possibility the Foodland store on Charles would suffer severe economic loss; and that with Charles Street closed, a heavy additional load of traffic would be diverted through residential and school areas on Elm and Evans Street.

Individuals present also cited difficulties that could arise relative to fire trucks, ambulances, or rescue vehicles getting into the area. These individuals claim that with Charles Street closed, and the frequent occurrences of Elm or Evans being blocked by trains, a situation could arise where certain areas would be subjected to delays in getting vitally needed services.

Dr. Edgar Hooks of the Physical Education Department of East Carolina University cited the hardship a closure would impose on faculty and students commuting between the main campus and the Minges Coliseum complex, as well as to the Allied Health Building.

On a second public hearing, City Council members approved a resolution and a cooperation agreement between the city and the Redevelopment Commission covering the proposed redevelopment plan for the Southside Urban Renewal Project.

With this approval, the way is officially paved for work to begin on the 180 acre site which lies in an area generally bounded on the north by the Norfolk-Southern Railroad, on the east by Evans Street with one small area extending to Cotanche, south to Deck Street, west to the Seaboard Coastline Railroad, on to Ames, Harris and Perkins Street, northwest to Cozart street (excluding Fieldcrest Mills) and back to the beginning point of the Norfolk-Southern Railroad.

Project plans were presented by Redevelopment Commission Executive Director Joe Laney and by Ray Green, a representative of the City Planning Commission as planner for projects in Greenville.

Based on initial surveys within the basically R-6 residential area, there are 136 structures that can be renovated and 138 considered beyond repair.

The Southside Project emphasizes improvement and upgrading of salvagable residences and is thus in the category of a rehabilitation project rather than a complete leveling project.

The net cost of the project is estimated to run about $3,125,000 with the city expected to provide about one fourth, or around $781,000. The city's cost will be primarily in the form of work credits through street improvements and similar city services.

A request from Sheppard Memorial Library for an additional appropriation of $2,135.00 was approved. The request is to cover replacing two inoperative coil-blower units at $1,080; and to remove and reinstall fluorescent lighting fixtures in the south and west wings at a cost of $1,055. The city earlier received reimbursement from constructors for faulty ceiling construction in the amount of about $7,000.

In other action at Thursday night's meeting, public hearings were scheduled in March for requests for mobile home permits for Mobile Home Brokers and for Samuel Brown; a certificate convenience request by Otis Lee Tucker; an annexation request; four requests for rezoning; and proposed amendments to Chapter 32 of the City Code pertaining to zoning.

Agenda items considered and approved were those on proposed amendments to the city code concerning taxicab operations; request for renewal of mobile home permits for Tarheel Toyota and Mrs. Genevieve Nobles Moseley; and taxicab permits for George Bowkley and Mrs. Brenda Taft Lyons.

No Telling How Many Cremated

By TIM REITERMAN

Associated Press Writer
ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — "God knows how many were cremated," Alameda Fire Chief Ernest Servente said, surveying the ruins of an apartment house transformed into an inferno in the crash of a Navy jet fighter. As many as 20 may have died, he estimated.

Searchers recovered eight bodies, including that which may be the plane's pilot, and part of a ninth by late Thursday from the still-smoking rubble of the four-story, 27-unit frame Tahoe Apartments here, across the bay from San Francisco. None of the bodies have been positively identified.

"There's a good chance that many people were incinerated in certain areas by the intense fire" in the disaster Wednesday night, said Roland W. Prahl, Alameda County chief deputy coroner.

Frank Reynolds, owner of the 45-year-old apartment house, said 26 units were occupied and that 37 persons might have been living there at the time of the crash. The building manager, Edward Motta, who escaped with his wife when the plane hit, said he believed up to 25 persons were in the building.

Eyewitnesses reported seeing only a few persons escape the building before it exploded, sending flames high into the sky.

Flaming debris set fire to adjoining apartment buildings after the 20-ton A7 Corsair from Lemoore Naval Air Station crashed.

At least 24 persons were hurt. Searchers, many of them volunteers, worked through the night and Thursday in an eight-foot-high plateau of smelly, charred rubble. Some of them collapsed from fatigue.

Marines from nearby Alameda Naval Air Station searched for parts of the plane. The Navy ordered a board of investigation to convene shortly.

Some reports said the plane was on fire before it crashed, but the Navy could not confirm it.

The jet's pilot and only occupant, Lt. Robert Lee Ward, 28, of Cary, N.C., was on a training flight at the time. Investigators said the eighth charred body found was possibly that of Ward.

Navy Cmdr. William D. Collins said military investigators were certain Ward did not eject from the plane because they found his ejector seat handle and a water-rescue dyemarker in the ruins.

First Prisoner Of War Exchange Slated Sunday

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam will release about 115 American prisoners of war Sunday night Washington time while Communists in South Vietnam release 27 other U.S. prisoners, the Pentagon announced today.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said the North Vietnamese agreed to this and also approved entry of a team of officials from the International Commission of Control and Supervision to observe the release.

Some sick and wounded will be included in the first group, he said.

Of the 562 American POWs in Southeast Asia, 456 are held in the north, 99 in the south and 7 in Laos.

Friedheim said Hanoi gave no specific number for those to be released in the first increment, but noted that one-fourth the total would be about 115.

Three hours before the scheduled release, an 18-man team of U.S. officials will be flown to Hanoi to assist in the long-awaited prisoner release.

Friedheim said the North Vietnamese agreed to this and also approved entry of a team of officials from the International Commission of Control and Supervision to observe the release.

Earlier, ICCS officials in Saigon announced the planned release of 27 U.S. POWs held by the Viet Cong in jungle camps near the Cambodian border. That will take place at Quan

Loi, a small airfield near the provincial capital of An Loc, about 60 miles north of Saigon.

Release of the Americans Sunday night or Monday Hanoi time will come on the 15th day following the signing of the peace agreement in Paris. Under terms of the pact, the first of the POWs were to have been set free within 15 days, with the remainder to follow in three additional increments in roughly equal installments about every two weeks.

Friedheim said the exact timing and other specifics of the release will be worked out at a meeting Saturday of U.S. and North Vietnamese officials in Saigon.

Standing by at Clark Field in the Philippines, three hours flying time from Hanoi, a fleet of U.S. medical evacuation jet aircraft awaiting only a signal to pick up the men, some of whom have been waiting nearly nine years for their freedom.

Aboard each plane will be a five-man team of medical personnel, military escort officers and a public affairs representative from the Defense Department. Each returnee will have either a seat or stretcher, depending on his individual condition, to ride in.

The men set free by the Viet Cong in the South will either be picked up by helicopter at Quan Loi and flown to Saigon and transferred to the Medevac planes for the trip to Clark or will be picked up by these specially equipped planes at the release site and flown directly to Clark. This apparently has not yet been worked out.

The longest-held American prisoner of the Vietnam war is Army Maj. Floyd Thompson, who was captured in South Vietnam March 26, 1964. Longest held in the North is Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, a Navy pilot shot down in August 1964 on his first mission.

At Clark, the returnees will be given medical examinations, and intelligence debriefings in hopes of learning the fate of 1,328 other Americans still missing.

Penn Central's Trains Rolling

By LEE LINDER

Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn Central passenger and freight trains were rolling today after President Nixon signed a quickly enacted congressional resolution that halted a trainmen's strike for at least 90 days.

The walkout by 28,000 conductors and brakemen, called to protest the bankrupt railroad's phase-out of 5,700 jobs, began at 12:01 a.m. Thursday. It lasted a little more than 24 hours, with the first train back in operation at 12:37 a.m. today.

"System-wide everything is running smoothly at this point," a spokesman for Penn Central, the nation's largest railroad, said shortly after day-break.

He said morning commuter trains in major metropolitan centers of the East and Midwest were on schedule and freight service was being restored as fast as crews reported for work.

Commuters, who make up the majority of the line's 300,000 daily riders, took the brunt of the walkout's impact. They were forced to use hastily arranged bus service or carpools to get to and from work.

Nixon signed the resolution, which gives his administration and Congress 45 days to resolve the job reduction dispute, shortly after 6 a.m. at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. He had left Washington Thursday afternoon before Congress approved the measure, which was drafted by the Senate Labor Committee. The resolution was dispatched to Nixon by courier.

In Syracuse, N.Y., a United Transportation Union official was asked if the strike had left bad feelings between union members and Penn Central management. "Not any more than was evident before the strike," he replied.

New Assistant Coach At ECU

Warren Klawiter, defensive line coach and junior varsity coach at Southern Illinois, confirmed Thursday that he had accepted a job as an assistant football coach at East Carolina University.

Klawiter, who succeeds John Matlock at East Carolina, will serve as defensive line coach, the same position Matlock held. He is the second Southern Illinois coach to join the staff of East Carolina. Carl Reese, defensive coordinator, was also a member of the SIU staff before coming to East Carolina.

A graduate of Kansas State University, Klawiter served for three years on the Southern Illinois staff. He was the captain of his freshman team at Kansas State, and for three years was a starting offensive lineman for the Wildcats.

Following a tour of duty with the Army, including a year in Vietnam, Klawiter came to Southern for his master's study, completing that in 1971. During the 1969 season, he served as a graduate assistant for the football team.

A native of St. Louis, the 29-year-old coach, played for Cleveland High School and earned All-District and Most Valuable Lineman awards.

He and his wife Lynda have one child. Officials at the University said that Klawiter's appointment was not yet official, and they could make no comment on the story at this time.

WARREN KLAWITER

Offer Bills Protecting The Enforcement Officer

RALEIGH (AP) — Two North Carolina legislators are seeking to do something about the increasing number of law enforcement officers shot to death in line of duty or killed in high-speed chases.

Sen. Harold W. Hardison, D-Lenoir, introduced a bill Thursday which would require that a motorist get out of his car when requested to do so by an officer.

Hardison said the driver would have to have both hands "clearly visible" when he got out.

"Ten law enforcement officers in the state were killed last year," Hardison said in an interview. "Not all could have been prevented under my bill, but this would give the officer added protection."

Hardison cited specifically the death of state trooper Joe Wright, who was killed last fall in Person County when he approached a car he had stopped on a rural road.

Meanwhile, Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, introduced a bill designed to curtail high-speed chases when violators attempt to outrun an officer.

Under the measure, a driver speeding to escape apprehension in excess of 25 miles per hour over the prevailing speed limit would be guilty of a felony.

Miller, chairman of the House Highway Safety Committee, said in a statement, "It would further provide that a presumption exist that the registered owner of the vehicle was actually operating the vehicle at the time the violation was committed."

Miller noted that since 1967 there have been 438 accidents resulting from high-speed chases in which three patrolmen were killed and 93 others injured.

In other legislative developments Thursday:

—Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe, introduced a bill to provide for life imprisonment sentences in capital cases in event the U.S. Supreme Court should hold the death penalty in North Carolina unconstitutional.

—Sen. Jack Rhyne, D-Gaston, sponsored legislation to provide a $2,000 income tax exemption for a parent or guardian of a severely retarded child.

—The House received a bill to permit officers to have motion pictures made of persons accused of drunken driving and permit the admission of the motion pictures in court as evidence. The measure was sponsored by Rep. Lane Brown, D-Stanly.

City Modifies Landfill Order

City Council members last night voted to modify the current closure of Greenville's sanitary landfill to permit industries located near Greenville to continue using the facility on an interview basis until other arrangements can be worked out.

Public Works Supervisor Mayo Allen and City Manager William Carstarphen gave a run down of reasons behind last Friday's decision to close the landfill to all but users within the city limits.

Allen stated that basically the problem had developed within the past few weeks following the closure of Farmville's and Joyner's Cross Roads landfills, which had thrown a sudden influx of waste materials to be handled. This, according to Allen, coupled with lack of personnel, equipment, and cover material to deal with the increase loads, had made the situation critical, necessitating the closure decision.

Carstarphen also pointed out that such a situation can create an unsanitary condition that would not meet state standards.

Wiley Corbett of National Boats Works and James Hecker of Empire Brushes both expressed opposition to industries near Greenville being cut off from using the Greenville land fill.

In approving Percy Cox's motion, councilmen modified the closure to permit near-Greenville industries to continue using the facility, and have committed the council to come up with a formula that will spell out permitted usages of the Greenville sanitary land fill.

"We have been handling a lot of county waste in the past," Cox remarked. "I don't think this is Greenville's obligation."

County Schools Have Lost 27 Positions

A total of 27 positions have been lost by the Pitt County Schools System because the Emergency School Assistance Program funding ended Wednesday.

According to Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, he has been told by the Commission of Education Office in Washington, D.C., that the local school system will not receive any money from the Emergency School Assistance Act and that another application should be filed seeking funds through June 30, 1974.

Positions lost by the county school system included six high school teachers, two elementary guidance counselors, three music teachers, six nonprofessional personnel, the film mobile driver position and the television coordinator position, and eight library aides.

"However," Alford said, "with help from the Pitt County Commissioners, we will be able to maintain library aides in four elementary schools we thought would have to close their libraries due to lack of funding."

The four schools are Pactolus Elementary, Belvoir Primary, Belvoir Grammar and Falkland Elementary.

The ESAP funding was previously scheduled to expire Jan. 31 but because of five days lost due to weather conditions, the program was extended an additional five days. "We will file another application with HEW," Alford said, "but I am not optimistic about receiving any funds. I'm not optimistic at all."

Alford said since President Richard Nixon had seen fit to release only a very small amount of funds which were appropriated by Congress, that the local school system would probably not receive any additional funding.

Equal Rights Bill Appears Assured Of Floor Test

Three Promotions At Fieldcrest Plant Here

LUBY M. SKINNER

EDWARD W. GREENE

JANS VINCENT

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A survey of members of the committees on constitutional amendments in the North Carolina House and Senate indicates that the Equal Rights Amendment will at least reach the floor in both houses.

Of the 15 voting committee members in the House, at least ten have told The Associated Press they will not vote to kill the amendment in committee.

In the Senate, eight of the 13 voting members said they would vote to send the bill to the floor.

Several legislators aid, however, that they might oppose the bill once it reaches the floor. They indicated they did not feel that a clear-cut, constitutional matter such as the ERA should die in committee.

The committees will take up consideration of the amendment next week. They held their second joint committee meeting—a public hearing—Thursday.

The House committee chairman, Rep. Kitchin Josey, D-Halifax, said his committee will most likely consider first a bill to put the ERA on a statewide advisory referendum. The Senate committee will turn directly to the amendment, and may vote on it late next week.

Few legislators contacted after Thursday's hearing indicated that the speeches for or against had swayed their decision. Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth, said he thought everyone had previously heard as much as they needed to know about the amendment to make up their minds.

Eight speakers for each side presented arguments most of the legislators had heard before Thursday. Several of them appeared bored, closing their eyes and nodding or leaving the hearing early.

Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, Ill., the national chairman of the Stop ERA movement, was the main speaker for the opponents. She said the amendment would take away benefits that most women do not want to lose, such as draft exemptions and a legal right to marital support.

She said the things the amendment would accomplish are already covered by existing law.

Proponents, including former U.S. Labor Department official Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan Koontz of Slisbury said women deserved full, participating citizenship instead of paternalism.

The arguments presented were nothing new to the members of both committees, who have been inundated by lobbyists and reading material on the amendment since the session started.

And though many of them are still publicly uncommitted on the question, they told The Associated Press privately that their minds were for all practical purposes made up.

The senators who are publicly committed to vote for letting the ERA onto the floor or who are leaning heavily in that direction are Robert J. Barker, R-Wake; A. B. Coleman, D-Orange; Charles Deane, D-Richmond; Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe; Michael Mullins, R-Mecklenburg; Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston; McNeill Smith, D-Guilford; and Livingstone Stallings, D-Craven. Publicly opposed to the amendment or leaning against it are Sens. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth; Jack Rhyne, D-Gaston; Robert Somers, R-Rowan; and Bette Wilkie, R-Hderson.

Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, is publicly uncommitted. In the House committee, more members are publicly uncommitted. They include Reps. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt; Norwood Bryan, D-Cumberland; Larry Cobb, R-Mecklenburg; Roberts Jernigan, D-Herford; Robert Jones, D-Rutherford; Conrad Warlick, R-Catawba; and Stanford White, D-Dare.

Six of those seven, however, told The Associated Press privately that they were either leaning toward the bill or would vote to send it to the floor no matter what their ultimate decision on the bill.

Publicly committed to voting for the bill or leaning heavily toward it are Reps. C. Dempsey McDaniel, R-Forsyth; W. S. Harris, D-Alamance; Carolyn Mathis, R-Mecklenburg; H. M. Michaux, D-Durham, and Howard Twigg, D-Wake.

Committed or leaning against the bill are Reps. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell; and John Ed Davenport, D-Nash; Josey, the committee chairman, says he has major reservations about the amendment, but he would not have a vote except in case of a tie.

Rep. Robert Q. Beard, R-Catawba, said he was undecided but leaning slightly in favor of the bill. The question might become moot, however, if the House accepts the amendment putting the vote to a referendum, a move that could draw support from many of the uncommitted members.

In addition, Mrs. Schlafly told the hearing Thursday that 11 states have already decided against the amendment. If 13 have turned it down before the North Carolina legislature votes, the chances of 38 states passing the amendment would depend on the remote possibility of a legislature changing its mind.

The Constitution requires three-fourths of the states, or 38, to ratify an amendment. Thus far, 26 have done so.

Fieldcrest Mills Inc. announced the promotion of two officials at the Greenville plants and the promotion and transfer of another executive to the company's semi-worsted spinning mill at Laurel Hill.

The company said that Jan S. Vincent, formerly general foreman, was promoted to plant manager of the Karastan Spinning Mill here, replacing Luby M. Skinner who was appointed manager of the Laurelcrest Yarn Mill and will move his residence to Laurel Hill.

In another change here, Edward Wayne Greene was promoted to superintendent of the Karastan Worsted Mill. He was previously general foreman at the local mill.

All three men, it was noted, report to J. Melvin Moore of Greenville, division vice president-carpet yarn manufacturing for Fieldcrest.

Vincent, a Greenville native, attended local public schools and East Carolina University. He joined Fieldcrest as a quality control technician in 1965 at the Karastan Spinning Mill.

The new manager served as assistant foreman in the Spinning Department and the Twisting and Winding Department. Vincent was foreman of the latter department until his promotion to general foreman in August of 1970.

Skinner, an Ayden native, first joins the Greenville plant in 1954. Before becoming plant manager he had been superintendent and had served in a number of supervisory positions. He was foreman of the Carding, Spinning and the Twisting and Winding Departments.

Greene, who was born at Buchanan, Va., has been with the company in Greenville since 1961. He was a laboratory technician at the Karastan Spinning Mill before becoming assistant foreman of the Wool Picking Department in 1963. At the new Karastan Worsted Mill, he became shift foreman in 1970 and had served as general foreman since April of 1972.

One Injured In Collision

One person was reported injured and an estimated $475 property damage reported in two collisions here yesterday.

Police said a pedestrian, Donna Leigh Riddle, 22, of 3009 Pinecrest Dr., was injured when she allegedly ran into the path of an oncoming car on Greenville Boulevard east of the Plaza Drive intersection about 9:05 p.m. yesterday.

No charges were made by police who identified the driver of the car involved in the mishap as Howard Woodrow Nobles, 58, of Route 1, Winterville, and set damage to his car at $25.

Teresa Ann Owens, 20, of Garner was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth Street and Rocksprings Road.

Officers said the Owens car collided with a vehicle driven by Jennifer Lynn Smith, 22, of Route 1, Spring Lake, causing an estimated $275 damage to the Smith vehicle and about $175 damage to the Owens vehicle.

Arrest 4 In Early Hours

Four East Carolina University students, all of them freshmen were arrested early this morning by Greenville police on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the four were taken into custody by uniformed officers after two bags of marijuana were seen thrown from the vehicle in which the four students were traveling.

The four 18-year-olds charged included: Richard Deberry Green, Charlotte; Geoffrey Scott Campbell, Jacksonville; Donald Evan Webb, Burlington; and Aubrey Karl Barbee, Raleigh.

Bond for each of the men was set at $5,000. The incident occurred on East Fifth Street near the ECU campus, about 4:20 a.m. Cannon said.

Davis, Padgett Address Meet

Dr. Trenton G. Davis and Richard Padgett of the ECU Department of Environmental Health addressed the quarterly meeting of the Northeastern Regional Sanitarians Association in Williamston last week.

Their presentation was a response to requests for information regarding ECU's newly developed degree program in environmental health, one of several new programs offered by the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Environmental Health Divisions of county Public Health Departments in northeastern North Carolina.

Leaf Program Being Retained

The discount variety program for flue-cured tobacco is being continued for the 1973 crop. "Under the program farmers will certify to the county ASCS office whether or not they planted a discount variety of tobacco on their farm during the current year," stated Stacy Evans, manager of the local ASCS office prior to issuing a market card for the farm.

"Discounted" varieties are Coker 139, Coker 440, Coker 316, Dixie Bright 244, Reams 64, 187-Golden Wilt, and any other breeding line having the characteristics of the discount varieties.

"Tobacco produced from these varieties will be supported at one-half the loan rate for comparable grades of other varieties," Evans said. "Discount varieties are named in accordance with recommendations by the tobacco industry and federal and state research agencies."

Farmers are urged to get seeds and plants from reputable suppliers as a protection against the planting of mixed or inferior varieties of tobacco.

'Best All Around' Winner Named In Arts Festival Wednesday

A wood sculpture by Rose High School student Helen Waldrop was judged "best all around" in the local Arts Festival, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville.

The festival was held during the club's dinner meeting Wednesday at the Woman's Club building.

Miss Waldrop will participate in the District Festival set for March 10 in Farmville.

Other winners named in the event included senior high school, blue ribbon; Betty Moseley, architectural model;

Club members receiving blue ribbons in the festival were: Gwen Sutton, decoupage, bridge tallies and flowers; Sue Vincent, Christmas ornaments; Libby Swinson, picture; Ann Hunsucker, wreath;

Melinda Behr, crewel pillow;

Nancy Gustafson, photography, color, sewing (dress), rag dolls; Nancy Hathaway, photography, color; Hsia-Fen Tien, crocheted bedspread and vest; Kay Cavendish, crewel door stop; Nancy Whitlow, macrame.

Miss Gail Jones, a senior at Rose High School, was winner in the speaking category. Her topic was "Electoral College — Abolished or Reformed?"

Special guests for the meeting were welcomed by Mrs. Bobby Swinson, president, and included: Mrs. Robert Dean, a past club president; Kay Joyner; Linda Keel; Rosemarie Donahue; Nancy Darlington; Nancy Avery; Pat Reynolds; Genny Gibbs; Frances Mann; Sue Turcotte; Maureen Garrison; Joanne Smith; and Pat Porter.

During the department reports, Mrs. Richard Hunsucker, Home Life, announced that a Valentine party will be held at Caswell Center, Kinston, Sunday. She also said that the five divisions of the Home Life Department will be discussed during this year.

Mrs. Matt Gustafson, Education, told of a fund raising project for the National Association for the Mentally Retarded. Mrs. Samuel Cox called a meeting of the Conservation Department following the club's general meeting. Mrs. Skip Collier, Public Affairs, announced that the two divisions for this year were safety and rehabilitation. Mrs. W.W. Bruner briefly discussed the club's forthcoming fund-raising project.

A WOOD SCULPTURE . . . by Miss Helen Waldrop Wednesday night was overall winner in the local Arts Festival staged

Daughter's Wedding Plans Upset Mother

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is a terribly upsetting problem. My husband and I were divorced a few years ago, and he has since remarried. It was an ugly, bitter-filled divorce.

Our 23-year-old daughter is being married, and she wants her Dad at the wedding. My utter contempt for him is so overwhelming that I cannot bear to be anywhere near where he is, and I do not wish to be a part of the ceremony if he is in it. I fear that my hatred for him will throw a pall over an occasion that should be happy and hate-free.

I wish I could control this feeling, but I can't. My daughter is unhappy as she wants us both there, but Abby, there is just no way I can look at that man with anything but contempt. And yet, I feel I MUST make myself go for my daughter's sake. Please, what should I do?

HATING MYSELF

DEAR HATING: That's your problem. You "hate" yourself for being unable to handle your feelings about him. Get yourself together as strikingly beautiful as you can, and yes, line yourself up an attractive escort, put a smile on your face, and go, lady. You might just surprise the daylight out of yourself and have a wonderful time.

DEAR ABBY: We have just moved to Twin Falls, Idaho, and I am eight months pregnant, but I am unable to find a doctor who will see me unless I have my bill paid IN FULL in advance.

My husband filed bankruptcy last year, and we can't get a loan to take care of this, so what am I supposed to do? We aren't deadbeats, we are honest people who ran into a lot of hard luck. My husband is working now, and I know we could get this paid on time, but not all at once in advance.

I called the mayor but couldn't get past his secretary. By coincidence, the only neighbor I know is also pregnant and is due about the same time I am. Yesterday she told me she had just seen her doctor who had been taking care of her from the beginning, and HE told her he wanted HIS bill paid in full in advance or he wouldn't deliver her baby!

My husband and I even considered having our baby born at home to save hospital expenses, but if something went wrong, we'd never forgive ourselves. Abby, right now we don't know which way to turn. Can you save us with a miracle?

DESPERATE IN TWIN FALLS

DEAR DESPERATE: Call your County Welfare Department and tell them DEAR ABBY told you to call. Then tell them what you've told me. I cannot believe that ALL the doctors in that city demand cash in advance or no delivery. [And if you have twins in Twin Falls, are you charged double?]

Need Safeguard For Parklands

A proposed amendment which was presented at the Farmville board meeting Tuesday night was intriguing to us.

The proposed amendment was drawn by Town Attorney Jack Lewis upon request by the board. It provided that the leasing, selling, or giving away of parkland by the city would require a two-thirds vote of the citizenry. Park land was defined as "any real property owned by the Town of Farmville which has been in the last five years or is now used or has been dedicated to the recreation, relaxation or enjoyment of the people of the Town of Farmville as a park." Three months notice would have been required prior to the election and full particulars would have had to be published.

The proposed amendment was tabled by the Board and we do not know if any further action will be taken.

The fact that the matter was considered by the Farmville board set us to thinking, though. There should be a better way, under the law, to protect public park and recreation land from being converted to other uses. It is often difficult for municipalities to obtain the land they need for park purposes. Then as the cities grow, there is a great demand to use such land for other purposes. Say a municipal building is needed and there is a park in the middle of town, it is considerably cheaper and easier to use the park land than to purchase additional land.

In Greenville, we remember with horror that once there was actually a plan proposed to develop public parking on each side of Sheppard Memorial Library. The addition to the building had not been constructed at that time and there was great pressure for downtown parking. Fortunately some more thought was given to the matter and the asphalt never went down.

Perhaps it should be a state law that no land designated for park or recreation purposes—whether owned by the state, county or municipal governments—could be converted to other uses without a public hearing and a vote of the people.

We do not have enough recreational land on any level of government. What we do have will be needed even more in the future as population and recreational needs grow. We should do everything we can to protect the park lands we have.

A New Era For Mentally Ill

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina is at the dawning of a new era in the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

An awakened public conscience and political support across party lines give promise that the state is ready to fully assume and fairly discharge its responsibility in the mental field, said Rep. Howard Twigg of Wake.

"There is no question that a new day is here," said Twigg. "The feedback I get, among legislators and from the public, all is very favorable."

BRYAN HAISLIP

It may well be, he speculated, that the 1973 General Assembly will enact legislation which will make North Carolina a model to copy in assuring the rights of citizens, young and old, who have the misfortune to be retarded, mentally or emotionally disturbed.

If that comes to pass, it will be the happy culmination to a sequence of events started by revelations over the past two years of serious shortcomings in the system. Investigations into reports of patient abuse and inadequate levels of care at some institutions sparked public indignation, and echoed in both Democratic and Republican campaigns for governor with promises for corrective steps.

Non-Partisan Teamwork Gov. Jim Holshouser, a Republican, made mental health a priority in his program. Twigg, a Democrat, has worked closely with the administration in the preparation of bills to be introduced.

The aim, he said, is to lift the issue as far as possible above partisan considerations. "If we can have a meeting of minds before the bills are presented," he explained, "we can save valuable time in the process."

The four-term Representative will have a key role in steering the course of mental health.

Court Spurs Action A spur for legislative action is the recent trend to the federal courts as an avenue for relief. The outcome of an Alabama suit served notice that a state can be impelled by the judiciary to meet needs neglected by its legislature.

Close at home, a suit on behalf of Tar Heel mental patients now is pending in the middle district federal court at Greensboro.

"If the recommendations are implemented, in my opinion, the suit against the state's mental health system will become almost a moot issue," said Twigg, an attorney. Enactment of a broad program, he explained, would show legislative intent to provide minimum facilities and services.

Twigg said he hopes the General Assembly will deal with the cause on its merits, not under a sense of pressure because of the court action.

"I don't want the matter considered under the gun. The tendency to react adversely to pressure could have tremendous impact on the future of the program," he said. Anyway, he added, the need is sufficient and clearly seen to deserve support.

At the same time, he noted, if the legislature fails to act the recourse to the courts is proper. "In the absence of action, I would hope the mental health association would consider joining in the law suit," he said.

Three-Part Package Twigg listed three components to the legislative package for mental health: requests for funding for staff expansion and upgrading; a "bill of rights" for mental patients; and an outside study to chart the future for mental health programs.

The Advisory Budget Commission and Gov. Holshouser have recommended some $30 million new spending for mental health. In the nature of things, money takes a top priority, Twigg said.

Second in importance is the definition of rights for citizens confined for care, including their rights as individuals and their right to adequate treatment, he said. The statute drafted is comprehensive, based on the best features of the Alabama court decision and acts in other states, he observed. "If adopted, ours could become a model code for the nation on the rights of mental patients," he noted.

Finally, Rep. Twigg said, the study is needed to show "how we can best move to quality care in the future." The goal would be to have a report in hand by late this year making it possible for recommendations to be considered early in 1974 if the legislature makes its expected move to annual sessions.

No capital expenditures should be authorized until the study is concluded, Twigg said, in order to assure the best use of all facilities.

Fearing Worst In New Orleans

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
NEW ORLEANS —

Corrosive fear in this Mardi Gras city that new violence might break out during the annual celebration the end of this month is certainly not substantiated by facts and obviously alarmist, but it is the inevitable fallout from the Howard Johnson massacre.

Reassurances from city officials are indisputable; the Jan. 7 slaughter by a black sniper at the Howard Johnson was no signal for planned revolution and ought not to cause alarm about the Mardi Gras. Nevertheless, white citizens of New Orleans tell both themselves and visitors they fear the worst—a fear with clear racial overtones.

Quite apart from the Mardi Gras, racial tensions here are clearly aggravated by the shoot-out. What makes this particularly regrettable is that this Deep South port city, superficially at least, had been making a peaceful transition from white domination to black-white partnership under the leadership of liberal Democratic Mayor Moon Landrieu. But the Howard Johnson fallout shows the frailty of racial harmony in any big city, North or South.

The harmony here has been heavily attributable to Landrieu's skill. Elected in 1969 with 90 per cent of black voters (constituting one-third of all voters) and a minority of the White vote, Landrieu has avoided the racial polarization that has critically wounded Mayor John V. Lindsay in New York.

While tossing party hacks out of city hall and replacing them with blacks, Landrieu has won over substantial elements of the business community (especially downtown merchants cheered by his aggressive sponsorship of the Superdome sports arena next to city hall). Even old organization Democrats are coming into line for Landrieu.

One example is a leader of the Italian bloc here who opposed Landrieu in the 1969 Democratic primary but told us he supports his reelection this year. "I think Moon would be an absolute cinch this year—if it weren't for this new situation," he added. What new situation? The Howard Johnson shoot-out.

The possibility that heightened racial tensions could polarize to the point of defeating Landrieu is actually most unlikely. Nevertheless, the black-white political leadership here, contrasting sharply with increasing racial polarization in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other Northern cities, now gives signs of being more apparent than real.

Law enforcement officials here privately complain that responsible black leaders refused to publicly and unequivocally condemn the slain sniper, 23-year-old Mark Essex. What offends many whites is the attitude of one black politician who told us: "I'm not going to condone or condemn what happened. There's a little of Mark Essex in all of us." Admittedly, Essex is a heroic figure to jobless young blacks in New Orleans.

For their part, black leaders fume over the delay of city officials to say once and for all that Essex was a loner without help. Since that delay encourages white apprehensions that one or two other black revolutionary triggermen are still at large, it is believed Mayor Landrieu himself wants the conspiracy theory spiked by police and fire authorities. But those authorities, while keeping public silence, still credit contrary reports by some of their men that Essex was not alone.

The upshot: unreasoning fears that young blacks may use the excitement and confusion of Mardi Gras to imitate Mark Essex. Police Superintendent Clarence Giarrusso has made repeated assurances that trouble does not lie ahead and that careful preparations have been made against the unexpected, but Giarrusso cannot stop the rumor mill (including a

GOD'S MESSENGERS

Angels are real. The word angel is derived from a Greek word which means "a messenger." Angels are God's messengers—beings that carry out his will. Scripture does not present them as having wings. It was the seraphim and cherubim that had wings. Angels are always presented in Scripture as resplendent figures, such as the two men "in white apparel" who assured the disciple that Jesus who has been taken up into heaven would come in like manner again.

But we can be sure that there are angels in the world today for God still has messages to give us. The fact that we cannot see angels is no reason for believing that they do not exist. As long as God has messages for us He will have messengers to bring them. This is not the only way God sends his messages to us but it is one of his ways and a very important one. If we are willing to believe only what we can see, then most of life's realities would be hidden from us.

Angels comforted Jesus after his temptation. He spoke of them frequently. He even declared that God could send more than twelve legions of angels to rescue him from those who were about to crucify him (Matthew 26:53). The word "angel" appears about eighty times in the Book of Revelation.

NOT WITHOUT A STRUGGLE!

Nixon's Major Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — In President Nixon's budget battle with Congress, one simple word—taxes—is the key weapon. It is a formidable one. For while Congress argues about impoundment of funds, division of powers, and defense of Democratic programs, the President stresses the simplest of themes:

Accept the administration's blueprint for a budget with a tight $268.7-billion lid, or risk a tax increase and take the political blame.

In every public statement on the budget and the economy, and in his this year's initial State of the Union message, the Republican President has put the argument in those terms.

Essentially what Nixon and his spokesmen argue is that if the Democratic Congress doesn't follow his budget the Democratic Congress will be responsible for higher taxes and the voters will be watching.

Defending his refusal to spend some money appropriated by Congress during its last session, Nixon said flatly that he will keep impounding funds if he do otherwise would lead to an increase in taxes.

Presidential impoundment of congressional appropriations is, to most Americans, an abstract concept. Taxes are not. And that is Nixon's advantage as he makes his case with the nation.

He said in his budget message: "I do not believe the American people want higher taxes any more than they want inflation."

Few can argue with that, and Nixon has said that if Congress doesn't accept his spending limits it will have to take the blame for one or both of those outcomes.

He has described himself as representative of the general interest that demands holding the line on taxes and prices. Nixon contrasted that with what he described as special interests competing in Congress for more spending on favored programs.

The theme was similar to the first of at least six serial State of the Union messages. The critical choice, the President said, is between his budget and expensive programs "which will surely force up taxes and fuel inflation." In the messages to come, the thrust is sure to be (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Not For Everybody

(Richmond Times Dispatch)

Three years ago, the City University of New York (CUNY) instituted an Open Admissions policy which guaranteed every city high school graduate a place in the university.

Intended to be a humanitarian concept, Open Admissions actually has hurt the students it was supposed to help and has debased the university.

Those are the conclusions not of a conservative who doubted from the start the wisdom of baccalaureates for the masses, but of Martin Mayer, an esteemed education analyst, writing in the February issue of Commentary magazine, a liberal journal. Mayer observes that even though no Open Admissions students were flunked out the first two years, half of them left. Additionally, he says, "there is no question among either supporters or opponents of Open Admissions that a considerable majority of the survivors are doing badly."

Attempting to cushion the road to a four-year degree for poor students, the university has begun granting credit for courses that are far below college level and has removed prerequisites for all courses at City College.

Special remedial courses in English and mathematics were originally set up to correct deficiencies of Open Admissions students without college credit being given.

Now, the university routinely awards credits for learning those grade-school skills, Mayer reports. As an added example of CUNY's lowering of academic standards, Mayer cites a freshman chemistry course, designed to last two semesters, which has had to be spread out over the three semesters, with full academic credit given for all three semesters.

Despite this intended padding for the students, only 17 of the 120 who originally enrolled remained in the course's third semester.

Faculty morale has suffered, understandably, because many professors believe the value of a CUNY degree has been woefully devalued by giving it to students who have not earned it.

Teachers are also depressed by having to "teach down" to students so far below their intellectual level. But perhaps the most pitiable victims of Open Admissions are the Open Admissions students themselves. "They are in overwhelming proportion," Mayer writes, "grave, earnest, desperately hardworking, and insecure."

Dollar Crisis Isn't Domestic

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With international currency traders trying to carried U.S. dollars as if they carried the London flu, some Americans are wondering if they too should be concerned about contamination or something worse.

The reasoning is like this: "Those people are getting rid of millions of dollars. They must know something. Here I am with a walletful of the things and I'm just sitting on it. Maybe I should be worrying."

But there really isn't any dollar crisis domestically. In fact, if inflation continues to abate, the buying power of the dollar will decline more slowly than in the previous two years. It will, in effect, become healthier.

If you're going abroad it might be different. Then you could find that your dollars won't buy as much because other currencies are preferred. You would be in the same situation as any other international dealer.

There are a lot of these dealers of one sort or another: speculators.

bankers, wealthy individuals, multinational corporations. Since they deal in vast amounts of money they could get hurt badly by holding a weak currency.

Always on the lookout for changes in currency values or even in sentiment, they tend to accelerate the problems they fear. In fleeing what is alleged to be a weak currency they make it weaker. They create a run.

There are a lot of dollars to run from overseas. This country has had a balance of payments deficit for two decades now, meaning we have been importing and spending heavily abroad, and leaving dollars there in payment.

These dollars continue to circulate as currency, just as German or French or Italian and other currencies are used interchangeably because of an agreement fixing their relative values.

The agreement states that currencies used in international trade shall be maintained close to their agreed value by the action of central banks, which are pledged to buy currencies at these prices.

This sometimes is more easily agreed upon than accomplished, because there might come a time when a country imports more than it exports, which means that it is diluting the value of its currency internationally.

In contrast, currencies might become stronger too. This is the case with the Japanese yen and the German mark. Both countries have payments surpluses. Their currencies are strong, and therefore are desirable as safe havens for capital. Interest rates are high in Germany.

However, the current flight into marks is probably more than the German central bank can handle. In buying up those dollars it must print more marks, and that quickly translates itself into inflation.

U.S. officials believe the dollar fear is highly exaggerated. The problem, as seen from here, is that the dollar is correctly valued but the yen and mark aren't. Rather than a dollar devaluation, perhaps a yen and mark revaluation is needed — thus making these currencies more expensive to buy. But revaluations are

Each Age Is Marked

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Each age of life is markedly different. The differences show up in looks, thoughts and ways of conduct. You can tell at a glance a boy from a young man, a young man from a middle-aged man, and a middle-aged man from a really old man. It is no trouble at all.

HAL BOYLE

One would think, then, that the greatest differences would be between a child and an old man, since they are separated by the greatest number of years. This may be partly true, but in certain respects it isn't.

For the fact of the matter is that in many ways a young boy — say one about kindergarten age or slightly beyond — and an old man are quite a bit alike. The child does indeed forecast the shadow of the coming grandfather or great-grandfather that he in time will be. He is truly the seed of his later self.

How do an old man and a child resemble each other? Well, let us look at a few of their similarities:

The women in their lives keep asking them both when they'll ever grow up and quit acting like a spoiled baby.

Neither wants to go to school very much.

Each likes to talk to himself. Each feels the world doesn't really appreciate him.

Both have invisible companions with whom they sometimes hold long conversations. With the old man, the companion is a memory; with the child, it is an imaginary friend.

Each likes to experiment secretly with medicine.

Neither minds wearing old clothes.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
February 9, 1933

For the second time this week a cold wave swept over this section today sending the mercury hurtling to the lowest stage of the winter. The new attack of the elements was felt more keenly than any other because it followed temperatures which would have been considered proper for summer months.

J.H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, said this morning he had discovered the "meanest man" in the world. Last night a thief entered the soup kitchen at Third Street School, stole half of the food supply in the pantry and then escaped. The food was being used in the feeding of children of the poor and consisted of meats and a large quantity of canned goods.

nasty within a country because they make its exports more expensive.

A generally held American position is that the dollar is becoming sounder as inflation recedes. The cease-fire in Vietnam means less waste. Business is strong. American exports, though lagging, are expected to rise.

But many currency holders don't believe the U.S. economy is that stable. They worry that Phase 3 will mean more inflation. They note the United States imports more than it exports. They fear the current business expansion will get out of control and lead to the old boom-bust cycle.

The hope of all the world's trading nations is that this flurry, as have others, will blow over and that by this fall they can join in a more stable exchange system.

If that effort fails then the ordinary American will be hit — and hit hard. The United States and most other industrialized nations rely heavily on trade. If they are incapable of doing their thing because they lack a currency exchange system then all economies will be in trouble.

clergyman telling his white congregation to beware of Mardi Gras violence, according to one city official). Beyond immediate effects, however, the Howard Johnson shoot-out and vague fears of possible Mardi Gras violence may hasten the inevitable racial course which here, as elsewhere, transcends moments of terrible violence: the flight of the white and future political power of the black.

That is the real reason why regular politicians do not believe a law-and-order Democrat—such as former Mayor Victor Schiro or former Police Chief Joseph Giarrusso (brother of the present chief)—can beat Landrieu. White working-class voters are fleeing the city to bedroom suburbs, making New Orleans more and more a black city surrounded by white suburbs.

"Moon Landrieu has gone overboard for the blacks," says a white businessman, who describes himself as a liberal and a Landrieu supporter, "but Moon can never satisfy them." Eventually, perhaps by 1977, the blacks will demand and elect a black man for mayor, enlarging the hemorrhage of whites.

So, the present biracial partnership may merely be a way station between white supremacy and black monopoly. Acceptance of such a grim to-morrow may be the worst political by-product of the Howard Johnson massacre.

The issues looming between the Republican administration and the Democratic-controlled congress are not as simple as the question whether taxes stay as they are or go up. For what the President is proposing is a turning away from Democratic programs shaped from the New Deal to the Great Society.

But for political shorthand, it's hard to beat taxes. Nixon's re-election campaign included a pledge to hold the line against new taxes. He said his budget fulfills that pledge.

Now his task is to get a Democratic Congress to go along, and one way to apply pressure is to put the issue to the country. Hence, Nixon's radio address to the nation discussing his budget plans a day before they were formally sent to Capitol Hill.

Scouting. It Knows No Limits

There is no city or county lines in Scouting. A boy is a boy, whether he comes from a big metropolis or a farming community. His interest may differ, but his high goals never vary—working to better the community or working at developing a personal skill. He will give his all to achieve good sportsmanship as well as to conservation. He is a realist who deals honestly with himself on all counts. Bright, alert, and proud of what he stands for, the only limit he might strive for is the sky. We think he'll make it.

Learning The Skills Of Living

In order to progress as a Scout, a boy is required to learn new skills—all of which help him to become a more competent human being as well as a better neighbor. A Scout must be tested on several new skills each time he moves up in rank. His options include exercises in Community Living and Conservation, Camping, Hiking, Citizenship, Swimming, First Aid, Family Living, Cooking, Communications, Physical Fitness and Environment. Distinct from merit badges, Skill Awards demand completion of several different projects in the particular field. Result: achievement!

Stood In Line For A Chance To Talk

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser opened the doors of his office to the people today.

His first visitor was a Cary housewife who presented him a 105-year-old German Bible.

"I felt that, with all those people waiting out there, you would need a Bible," Kitty Smaller told the governor.

Mrs. Smaller, a weekly guest on a Raleigh television show, was given the No. 1 ticket after she agreed to let newsmen and cameramen to watch her session with Holshouser.

Outside, in the lobby of the Capitol, 43 other individuals or groups were waiting to talk with the governor when the first "People's Days" session started at 10 a.m.

Holshouser has indicated he will hold the public sessions at least once a month to hear problems from citizens.

Clower, who said it was "not a commercial venture," tried to get the governor's help in changing North Carolina's traffic control system.

A life insurance salesman, Bobby Simpson of Newton Grove, was No. 5. Simpson put a plug for medical education at East Carolina University.

"We need a medical school at East Carolina, or an expansion of the one already there," Simpson said. "I think this is a golden opportunity for the Republican Party."

Hattie Dunston of Raleigh, who lives only a few blocks from the Capitol, asked Holshouser to help win freedom for her grandson. The grandson is an inmate of the state penal system.

C. D. Maxwell of Fayetteville, an auctioneer and real estate salesman, had a request to eliminate "discrimination in the highways." Maxwell said a proposed highway project would block access to some of his property.

Marvin Ira Dayault of Concord was on hand as a representative of the American Legion and Disabled American Veterans. He proposed a package of legislation improving benefits for veterans, including college tuition cutbacks and tax relief.

Clyde Nelson Dixon was sentenced Thursday by Iredell County Superior Judge Julius A. Rousseau.

Prison For Ax Killings

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A 42-year-old Statesville man has been sentenced to two life prison terms following his conviction murder in two ax killings.

Dixon was convicted Wednesday of the ax slayings of Edward Simpson, 47, and Maceo Barnhardt, 42, in Statesville last November. Dixon's attorney has filed notice of appeal.

Dixon testified that the two men had attacked him the night of the slayings at Barnhardt's residence. Dixon said he was knocked out and when he regained consciousness, he was lying beside a stove and an ax was nearby.

He said he took the ax and struck Simpson, who was sleeping, and then went into another room and struck Barnhardt, who also was sleeping.

Under cross examination, Dixon said he "guessed" he was mad at the time of the murders.

President Of Uruguay Defies Military Threat

By ANIBAL ARGUELLO Associated Press Writer MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — President Juan M. Bordaberry today defied army and air force generals who threatened to overthrow an elected Uruguayan government for the first time in 40 years.

The 3,000-man navy did not join the other services in the threat to the president. A communique issued by admirals in the palace with Bordaberry vowed "to maintain until the ultimate extremes the defense ... of the constitution and the laws of the republic."

Soldiers blocked access to the headquarters of the 1st Military Region several blocks from the palace, but there was no unusual troop movement during the early morning.

Some army sources said the generals did not want to overthrow Bordaberry but were demanding a free hand to investigate charges of corruption by politicians, congressmen and business.

Army patrols seized the government radio and television station Thursday night and broadcast a communique saying the army and air force would not accept orders from the new defense minister, retired Gen. Antonio Francese. His dismissal was demanded.

Several Injured In School Fight

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — The Brunswick County sheriff's department reported that approximately 20 students were injured when racial fighting broke out Thursday afternoon at South Brunswick High School.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Melvin McCumbee said he and five other deputies were called in to restore order when the fight started shortly after 1 p.m.

According to McCumbee, the fight was fueled by tensions that started Wednesday when a black girl and a white girl got in a fight.

McCumbee said he saw 15 people injured in the face, neck and back from long, stiff combs which were used as weapons.

Sheriff Harold Willetts said he would send deputies to the school today to maintain order.

Conley Nips Farmville For Mat Title

HEAD OVER HEELS — Farmville Central's Ricky Bundy finds himself in a poor position during the 112-pound finals of the Eastern Carolina Conference wrestling tournament, held at Conley last night. Holding him down is

HOLLYWOOD — D. H. Conley won its second straight Eastern Carolina Conference wrestling championship last night, nipping Farmville Central in a controversial decision.

The Vikings finished the meet with 93 points, just a hair ahead of Farmville Central's 91½. Farmville went into the next to last match needing only a victory to pull off the upset of the Vikings, but the match ended after an overtime in a decision that gave Conley, a nonparticipant in that weight class, the title.

North Pitt finished third in the tournament, picking up 73½ points. Southern Wayne was fourth with 61, while Ayden-Grifton finished with 12.

Overall, Conley took three individual titles, as did North Pitt and Southern Wayne. Farmville Central, however, won four to lead in that category.

Both the Vikings and Farmville had advanced eight wrestlers to the finals, while North Pitt and Southern each got five.

After 11 of the 13 matches, Farmville had pulled to within a point and a half of Conley, and needed a victory with their last man, Billy Bullock, at the 195-pound level.

The match was one of the hardest fought of the evening, going into an overtime that saw neither battler gain an edge.

Southern Wayne's Carl Parks, the eventual winner, picked up two points in the first period with a takedown. Then, in the second, Bullock got two for a reversal, but fell even again when Parks escaped. Another takedown gave Bullock two more. In the final period, Parks escaped again, and neither wrestler got an advantage the rest of the way.

In the first overtime period, neither gained, and in the second, Bullock got the superior position and rode Parks for all but the final seconds of the round. In the third, Bullock quickly escaped to tie it up, and the two grappled without advantage the rest of the match.

The umpires then gave the match to Parks, and with it, the title to Conley.

"It was a bad decision," Farmville Coach Ronald Vincent said. "Bullock rode him all of the second period, and then quickly got away from Parks in the third. That's a tough way for our kids to lose the championship."

Southern Wayne's other two titles came in the 167-pound match and the heavyweight. Sterling Moore took a pin over North Pitt's James Boone in 4:47 in the former, while Danny Bass outpointed Eddie McGowan of Conley in the latter, 7-6.

Farmville Central's wins included 98-pounder Ronald House pinning Eric Moore of Conley in 1:42; Bobby Locust deciding Conley's Kyle Edwards, 2-1, at 126; James Gorham upsetting Wayne Maness of Conley, 10-8, at 132; and Robert Bullock's pin in 2:45 of Conley's Barry Purser in the 185-pound class.

Wesley Manning of North Pitt, named the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler, pinned Tony Jordan in 1:40 at 105. He joined teammates David Brown at 112 who pinned Ricky Bundy of Farmville in 6:00, and Linwood Brown, who pinned Southern's Steve Lewis at 119 in 1:19 in the three Panther victories.

Champion Conley swept the three Panther victories.

Champion Conley swept the three middle classes, the 138, 145, and 155. In the first, Jimmy Swinson pinned Gary Locust of Farmville in 5:20. Alton Nicholson beat Johnny Dixon of North Pitt in 2:41, and Billy Justice took the last in 5:16 over Southern's Skipper Kemp.

Manning, in winning the Outstanding Wrestler trophy, gained his title by having a bye in the first round, then deciding Jeff Wagstaff of Ayden-Grifton, 9-2 before getting the pin in the title match.

The toughest match of the night was the 132-pound battle between Maness and Gorham. Neither got a point in the first period, but Gorham got started in the second with an escape. Maness got two for a takedown and a near fall, while Gorham came back with two for a reversal and two more for another near fall. Then, in the final period, Maness got one with an escape, but lost two when Gorham took him down again. Maness reversed him, but saw Gorham get three for an escape and a takedown for a 10-7 lead. Maness escaped, but couldn't do anything more in the time remaining.

Wrestlers from all of the teams will enter sectional competition next week, most going to the one at Rose.

Defending champion Calvert Hall College High School of Towson, Md., will be out to make it four championships in a row, but they are expected to get tough opposition from several quarters.

The teams meeting in the event will come from eight different states, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, South Carolina, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and Kentucky.

The diving preliminaries will get underway at 10 a. m. Saturday with the swimming trials starting at 12:30 p. m. The finals will start at 7 p. m. Points in the meet will be awarded through the first 16 places, including the championships and the consolations.

Meet director Ray Scharf, swimming coach at East Carolina, said he expects Calvert Hall's toughest competition to come from Bishop Ireton High School of Alexandria, Va.; Walt Whitman of Bethesda, Md.; Grimsley of Greensboro; McDonough of McDonough, Md.; Hampton of Hampton, Va.; and Gaithersburg, Md.

Scharf listed the top teams and candidates in each of the 11 events to be held:

Calvert Hall, with an entered time of 1:41.8, is the team to beat in the 200-yard medley relay. Top competition will come from Bishop Ireton, 1:45.0, and Walt Whitman, 1:45.3.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Scott Creighton of Calvert Hall has the best time, 1:50.1. Right behind him is Steve Everett of McDonough, 1:50.6.

Doug Tuero of Calvert Hall, with a time of 2:04.0, is the favorite in the 200-yard individual medley. John McMahon of Gaithersburg, with an entered time of 2:06.0, should be his top competition.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Tim Carrington of Bishop Ireton, leads the field with a time of :22.1. Dog Grant of Kecoughtan in Hampton, Va., is right behind at :22.9.

Tom Faulkenberry of Gaithersburg is favored in the diving, followed by James Weir of Freedom High School in Bethlehem, Pa.

In the 100-yard butterfly, Grant moves into the favorite's role with a time of :55.0. Matt Hennessy of Yorktown in Arlington, Va., is next with :55.6.

Mike McGee of Calvert Hall leads the 100-yard breaststroke field with a time of :51.3, with top competition coming from John McCauley of East Mecklenburg, :51.7.

Everett tops the 400-yard freestyle group in 3:50.9. His closest competition should come from Bruce Beckert of Gaithersburg, who had a time of 3:57.8.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Richard Greenstreet of Calvert Hall has the top time of :56.6, while Dickie Kline of Walt Whitman is next at :59.3.

Tuero will be after another title in the 100-yard breast-

Oakmont Takes Win

Oakmont rolled to a 73-46 victory over St. Paul's last night in the Church Basketball League.

The victory upped the Oakmont record to 9-1 and retied them with Immanuel for the lead. The loss, St. Paul's eighth in 10 starts, eliminated them from any chance at the title.

Oakmont rode out into the lead early, building up a 32-18 half-time advantage. In the second half, they outshot St. Paul's 41-28, to win it handily.

Ned Cheely led Oakmont with 16 points, while Doyle Daughtry had 13, and Bob Hall and Bob Tunstall each had 10. St. Paul's was led by Jeff Daniel with 16, while Jack Wall had 15.

The San Diego Padres will be the last team to make its 1973 bow against the Mets in Shea Stadium. The Padres visit New York June 15 for a three-game series.

Rampants Enter Mat Tournament

Rose High School's young wrestling Rampants chase the Division II title Saturday in Goldsboro.

The Rampants, who won only twice during the regular season, will have their work cut out for them, but Coach Jim Brewington is hopeful that they can bring back several individual championships.

Weigh-ins will be held from 9 to 10 a. m. Saturday, with the preliminaries getting underway at 11 a. m. The semifinals will start at 2:30 p. m., and the consolations at 6 p. m., and the finals at 7:30.

"We're a very young team," Brewington said, "but we're hopeful that we can get several wrestlers into the finals."

Although Brewington said he didn't want to put the pressure on any one of his wrestlers, he did single out a few he thought had the potential to make it to the finals. These include Alton Hansley at 107 and Tommy Manning at 101. "They've been coming on strong and could surprise everyone," Brewington said.

He also said that either Ronald or Harold Randolph could come up with victories too. "A lot is going to depend on the breaks," Brewington is taking only 12 to the tournament, so he doesn't plan to enter all classes. "We're really pointint to the sectionals, which we'll host next weekend," he said.

Now the first RADIAL that guarantees you 40,000 miles and 7 days to test its smooth ride!

You've probably heard that radial tires give you better handling, cornering, steering, traction, and wear than other tires. You've probably also heard you pay for this performance with a little rougher ride. What Firestone wants you to know is this: we didn't rush out with just another radial—we designed a new radial with an American ride. And we're so sure you'll like the way it feels, we'll tell you something no other tire maker is saying. Trade in your old tires on a set of Firestone Radial V-1's. Drive on them for seven days. If you don't like the way they handle—or ride—promptly return them to your Firestone Store or participating Dealer and we'll put your old tires on again and refund your money. In Full.

40,000 MILE GUARANTEE

Firestone's Radial V-1 tire is guaranteed to give you at least 40,000 miles of treadwear in normal passenger use on the car on which first installed. If you don't get 40,000 miles, take your guarantee to any Firestone Store or participating Dealer in the U.S. or Canada. They'll replace the worn-out tire with a new Radial V-1. You get credit on the current exchange price and Federal excise tax prorated for every mile of the 40,000 you did not receive. A small service charge may be added. To be sure you get maximum mileage, your car should be properly maintained. Your tires must be inspected and rotated by us every 5,000 miles. Firestone or any of its participating Dealers will gladly do this for you FREE.

The 'Worry Clinic' Abnormal Fear Called Phobia

Loretta worried lest she lose her mind. For she was attacked at the age of 12 by a sex fiend. Now she suffers from claustrophobia. But millions of people have phobias, so study this case with care. And use the booklet below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE W-522: Loretta R., aged 16, has a phobia.

"Dr. Crane," she confessed, "when I was 12, a man grabbed me by the throat and choked me till I lost consciousness.

"Some neighbors happened to pass by at that moment, so this fiend didn't attack me sexually but ran away.

"Yet I still remember my terrible desire for oxygen.

"Now I get panicky at entering a closed room or an elevator.

"Why, I can't even put a dress on a hanger in my bedroom clothes closet unless the door is wide open.

"And I often waken in terror at night, thinking about being buried in a sealed casket, under so much earth that I couldn't lift the lid.

"Dr. Crane, I argue with my parents that when I die, I must be cremated!

"For I couldn't stand to be shut inside a stifling coffin!"

Claustrophobia

Millions of human beings are victims of some type of phobia. And a phobia is merely an abnormal fear that persists.

Loretta's dread of being in a closed space, is named claustrophobia.

so you thus have a lot of company, as it were.

(3) Divert your mind by focussing on some mental process when the terror starts to overwhelm you.

Thus, look at your watch and count your pulse or count the number of times you breathe per minute.

For anything that makes your brain assert its dominance, will thus dispel the rising emotional tide that otherwise can overwhelm you.

A phobia is no reflection on your intelligence or high I.Q., but merely means you are surrendering your brain to your unruly emotions, so force that brain to operate immediately.

And send for my booklet "How to Prevent Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

It also explains more fully neurosis vs. psychosis and phobias.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Anonymous Gift Of $500 Is For Woman

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. Jaunita Lineberger, a Gastonia medical secretary, said she just could not believe there wasn't a catch somewhere when she opened an envelope addressed to her and bearing a High Point postmark.

Inside she found a bank check for $500.

She said she called the bank and was told the check was real but that the identity of the person who sent it could not be revealed.

A note from B. A. Heeke, vice president and trust officer of the North Carolina National Bank in High Point, said Mrs. Lineberger informed that the $500 was a gift from an anonymous donor "who has had recent good fortune and wants to share same with you."

She said the note added that the donor's identity must remain secret. But she wrote back, she said, asking the bank official to tell her "dear anonymous donor" that her

"cup runneth over." Mrs. Lineberger, who helped organize the Gaston Suicide Prevention Bureau, said she had no idea who sent her the money which arrived in last week's mail.

"But I'll try to do something good with it," she said.

South suffered a devastating loss at three spades doubled that was out of proportion to the action he took during the auction. His vulnerable overall of three spades after East's three heart opening bid, does not actually merit severe criticism. It is in the nature of a calculated risk, and the losses that are sometimes incurred when the strength is banked behind the overcall represent the price that must be paid to a well chosen preemptive bid.

West opened the ten of hearts against three spades doubled. East overtook with the jack and declarer played the ace. In an attempt to steal a trick, South led his

Nixon Back In San Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon was back at the Western White House today for the first time since his November re-election, planning to keep mostly in seclusion.
Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the President might stay as long as Feb. 19 so he could be here for the return of Henry A. Kissinger from his round of talks in Hanoi and Peking. Kissinger is the President's adviser on national security.
But the plans were far from firm. Ziegler even left open the possibility that Nixon might return to Washington in the middle of next week. No reason for such an early return was indicated, however.
Meanwhile, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was winding up his presidential mission to seven Indochina nations and Nixon summoned him to a Saturday meeting here for a first-hand report on Agnew's talks with

Stennis Is 'Improving'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The condition of Sen. John Stennis, although still very serious, continues to show gradual improvement from gunshot wounds, it was announced today at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.
A spokesman said the 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat's temperature is maintaining the "same lower level reported yesterday." He added, however, that the prognosis remains guarded.
The next report on the senator's condition will be issued at 3 p.m., EST, today.
Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was wounded in the chest and thigh Jan. 30 during a holdup in front of his home. Police are seeking a number of youths in the case.
The hospital spokesman added: "The physicians are satisfied with his progress. He has been moved from the surgical intensive care unit and is receiving intensive care in a private room."
Because the moon is so much closer to the earth than is the sun, the lunar body exerts about twice the gravitational pull, thus dominating the tidal cycle.

Golf Club Said Open To Guests

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
"It was the only time I had not been allowed to play," Al Day, an East Carolina University junior from Fayetteville commented.
Al was explaining that on Wednesday he had gone to the Ayden Golf and Country Club to play golf, taking along a friend and fellow student, junior Larry Hurst, also of Fayetteville. Larry is a Negro.
"When I got to the course, Mr. Clarence Alexander, the pro there, asked us if he could help us. I told him we wanted to play golf," Al said. "Mr. Alexander said we could not play unless we were a member, or the guest of a member."
Al stated he had several times before been permitted to play simply by paying the green fee, "I understand the club gives university students a special cut-rate fee during week-days," Al added.
Larry said that Wednesday, when he went with Al, was the first time he had gone to the Ayden Golf Course. "Another friend of ours," Larry remarked, "James Carter who is also a student at ECU and is black, was not allowed to play on the Ayden Course." Like Al and

Set Solid Waste Relief Loan To Nicaragua

A solid waste management workshop will be held at Pitt Technical Institute Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:10 p.m.
Featured speakers for the workshop include several experts in the area of solid waste management.
The workshop is designed especially for city, county and regional planners, city council members, county commissioners, solid waste operational personnel at city and county levels and civic-minded citizens.
For further details, interested persons may contact Dean Painter, chairman of the Air and Water Resources curriculum at Pitt Tech. Persons should call 756-3130, ext. 22.

Beehive

Tier upon tier, window by window, modern apartment and office buildings are like human beehives. The people who live and work in them are often as busy as bees, too. Each day rushes by, each hour is filled, and when morning comes, it starts all over again.
Monotonous? Well, sometimes it is both monotonous and discouraging to live and work in a beehive. It seems as if you're just a drone, as if individuality has flown out the window. But is this true?
Whether you live in a palace or a penthouse, a hut or a one-room efficiency, you are you. Your uniqueness is your God-given gift. Your potential to be different, your capacity for accomplishment, is infinite.
If you've lost sight of that fact, you've been forgetting something — like going to church, maybe?

Governor Holds 'People's Day'

RALEIGH (AP) — Today is the first of Gov. Jim Holshouser's "People's Days" at the State Capitol.
Holshouser has announced that he will meet with members of the public from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. in his Capitol office.
The governor's office said the meetings will be restricted to five minutes and will be on a first-come, first-served basis. People wishing to see the governor will receive a number when they arrive at the Capitol. They will be called in numerical order.
Each meeting will be private, the governor's office said, and coffee will be available to help while away the waiting time.
