Hairy Situation Is No Problem For Inductee

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young guy 20 years old and I will be inducted into the Army soon. This is fine with me as I always wanted to be a soldier, but I have a problem. All my hair fell out about a year ago and I wear a hairpiece. It is a really good one [I paid $580 for it and it is custom-made for me] and I almost never take it off. I go swimming in it, play football, and even hockey in it. I am worried about what the Army will do to me if I refuse to take it off. Abby, I don't need anyone to laugh at me. Maybe I am nuts for feeling that way about it, but I honestly don't have any hair on my head at all. Why it fell out, I don't know. It just did. My dad was bald at my age, too, so it could be hereditary. Anyway, I am not asking to be a longhaired guy because I know the Army doesn't go for that, but if they try to make me take it off they will need six guys to knock me out as it would destroy me emotionally to go around baldheaded.

Please hurry your answer, and thanks for your time.

UPTIGHT

DEAR UPTIGHT: You're lucky it's the Army because they allow men to wear hairpieces, cut to regulation length, even in training. The Marine Corps shaves all heads for the 12-week training period, so you'd be baldheaded for the first three months whether you liked it or not.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to meet a lady between 25 and 35 years old who is mentally okay but has some kind of physical handicap. I mean someone who maybe has one arm or leg. I wouldn't even mind a person who is deaf and can't talk, but I would like one who can see.

I am mentally and physically okay myself and could return as much love as she could give me, and I feel that a handicapped woman would appreciate a good, sober, hard-working bachelor more. I live alone on a ranch, but please don't publish my name. LONELY AND LOOKING

DEAR LOOKING: The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults [some agencies are known as the Easter Seal Society] have clubs where handicapped men and women socialize. Also, Goodwill Industries who employ the handicapped may be able to help you. I suggest that you apply in person and bring current character references along. You sound sincere, and I wish you luck, but I urge you to be very, very careful.

DEAR ABBY: About girls who wear glasses: When I was in college [Radcliffe, '40] we used to say:

If you have the chassiss."

A Modicum Of Hope For Brain-Damaged Children

(Editor's Note: Thousands of brain-damaged babies start life with nearly all the cards stacked against them. Now there is a beginning of hope for some of them. Following is the first of three articles.)

By EDWARD J. DOHERTY
NEW YORK (WNS) — Around three o'clock most any afternoon, on busy East 44th Street in Manhattan — within spitting distance of the United Nations — you can find a dozen or so small school buses. The drivers wait patiently as their passengers come out one by one, slouched in their wheel chairs.

They come in all sizes and shapes. They are drooling babies, heads helplessly bobbing. They are teenagers, convulsively jerking arms, shoulders, legs; some with glasses, some with hearing aids. They are adults, brown, white and black, men and women. All, obviously, are "different."

They are the cerebral palsy people, returning from their therapy, their play, their socializing at the New York headquarters building.

They are returning to a world that doesn't show many signs of wanting or loving them; a world designed for people who find no challenge in climbing a curb, opening a door, flushing a toilet, donning a sweater, or reading the daily newspaper.

15,000 A Year

Fifteen thousand new CP's are born every year, suffering from brain damage that few will overcome. At this headquarters, and at similar places throughout the nation, some can spend a few hours a day learning how to better take care of themselves.

In this building, for instance, there is a small apartment, much like thousands of other apartments in Manhattan, where CP adults who can manage it are taught to cook, sweep, make a bed.

There's a whole floor for children, and three rooms designed for boys and girls under five, for the outlook for brain-injured infants appears to be improving. Some think it's improving markedly.

"In this city alone at least 20,000 women every year walk in to have babies without ever seeing a doctor," said Leslie D. Park, executive director of United Cerebral Palsy of New York. "Among these births there is a high incidence of anomalies and brain injuries."

For the older attendants at Park's three-story building, the aim is rehabilitation — simply helping the handicapped move in the direction of something like normal lives. But for the multi-handicapped little kids there is medical care, therapy and "every resource," Mr. Park explained.

"Womblike"

The objective is to make the children eligible to attend school. In one room carpeted with astro turf, are all kinds of toys made from inflatable materials of varying textures.

Park describes the room as "almost womblike, surrounding the child who has little control of himself with safety; it actually invites kinesthetic movement."

A large two-way mirror gives the child "self-concept; one has to see himself as he really is." On the other side of the mirror teacher, therapist, parent can view the children — even converse with them through a microphone and amplifier.

In other rooms the very small receive therapy, take eye or speech exercises, learn to coordinate their movements, have home programs devised that can be carried out by the parents.

This is part of the growing realization by specialists in treating brain-injured children that improving their ability to lead normal lives is a partnership, involving many medical arts, the parents, and the educational systems.

To generalize at all about brain-injured children is hazardous. Each child is an individual with a different potential at birth. The nature of the damage to the brain, and its manifestations, varies from child to child, as does the severity of the injury.

use of hands, language ability, vision, hearing, and tactile appreciation or feeling sensitivity. The finding in each area is plotted against the development level of normal children at the patient's age.

For each point at which a child's ability lags behind his age, a program of home therapy is developed, to be carried out along with medical treatment required and possible changes in nutrition.

Breakthrough

After this there is a long and difficult road ahead for child and parent. There is no cure for brain damage, and rarely any rapid improvement. But several specialists have remarked that when a breakthrough occurs — a child first walks after perhaps years of therapy, for example — progress in that area may afterwards be speedy, and he may run within months.

It takes patience and dedication on the part of parents. It also takes money. And many brain-injured children come out of the ghetto, where lack of prenatal care, poor nutritional habits and other causes puts its residents at a disadvantage.

Mr. Parks, of United Cerebral Palsy of New York, remarked, "The frontier of our age is the rehabilitation of the handicapped," and he added, "In legislative and public opinion we have to examine the barriers that are preventing the disabled from living adequate lives."

Dr. Louis Z. Cooper, a pediatrician who heads the Rubella Project at New York University Medical Center — Bellevue Hospital, said, "And the shame of it is that in the long run it's a lot cheaper to treat multi-handicapped kids so they can live productive lives than to keep them forever as wards of society."

A Faster Tempo In Legislature

From some outward appearances the 1973 General Assembly is moving along at about the same pace as in previous biennial sessions, but there are also signs that the tempo of this legislature is considerably faster than those of past years.

There is little doubt that most legislators are thinking in terms of annual sessions after this year. They, along with the leadership in both legislative chambers and in the executive offices, are thinking in terms of a spring rather than a mid-summer adjournment date this year.

While the first month of the session has brought enactment of no major pieces of legislation, the tempo of committee hearings, the hammering out of legal tangles from various proposals now in committees, have gone on at an accelerated rate during the current session.

With the session only a month old, legislative leaders already have issued reminders that the final date for submitting proposals for major legislation is about a month away.

There are many major legislative problems to be resolved by the 1973 General Assembly and in spite of the desire for a much shorter-than-usual session this year, they will take time. But from the very outset of the session—when committees were named much earlier than most observers can remember—it has been evident that this is to be a fast-paced session. That is not to say that legislative proposals will receive less through attention than in the past. Neither is it to say that the problems facing the 1973 session will be less difficult to resolve than those of other years.

It is evident, however, that the 1973 legislative session is geared to a faster, more intensive pace than in previous years. In our judgment, it is a pace that will serve the best interest of the people of the state.

Complexity In Defining Death

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Modern man's skill in prolonging life has brought him face to face with the dilemma of defining death.

In the comfortable past, death was regarded as a certain visitor whose arrival was easily determined by the end to heartbeat and breath. Both law and custom assumed no great difficulty in fixing the time of dying.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Technology with the capacity to sustain vital functions and techniques for organ transplants did away with the old simplicity. The need became critical for some means to define death more precise than feeling the pulse or fogging a mirror.

Nor is it simply a theoretical problem to intrigue medical and legal scholars. It can confront the father whose child is mangled in an auto accident the family with a parent ravaged by age and disease.

Need Becomes Urgent

"The need for a precise legal definition of death has become urgent," said Todd D. Christofferson, writing in a recent issue of Popular Government, the publication of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill. A graduate of the Duke University Law School and former research assistant at the institute, Christofferson currently serves as law clerk to Chief Judge John J. Sirica of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

A concept gaining acceptance in medical circles and in the courts links death to the brain rather than primarily circulation or respiration.

"Simply stated, the brain-death concept means that death has occurred when the central nervous system function is gone," Christofferson explained.

"When the highly organized nerve cells of the cerebral cortex are so damaged, by whatever cause, that they are unable to resume normal functioning, the thinking or conscious element of the brain is dead. In that situation, the person is the victim of an irreversible coma and will not regain consciousness despite the continued functioning of other parts of his."

"Thus the person is dead; the reasoning, thinking human being with personality and uniqueness is lost beyond hope of restoration."

Kansas Adopted Definition

At least one state, Kansas, has adopted through legislation the brain-death concept as an alternative to the traditional definition for all civil or criminal purposes.

A landmark case in Richmond, Va., last May gave definite recognition for the first time in a court of law to the brain-death definition.

Involved was a wrongful-death action brought by the brother of a heart transplant donor against the transplant team. "The case turned squarely on the issue of how death is to be defined," Christofferson wrote.

"Under a strict traditional definition, the physicians would have been guilty of wrongful death and perhaps homicide for removing the heart while it was beating. Under the brain-death concept, they were free of any wrongdoing."

The verdict returned by the jury, after 47 minutes deliberation, established legal acceptance of the brain-death concept.

Dying Is A Process

The assumption that death is an event which can be timed with precision has created legal problems.

"Although the law requires that death be determined as having occurred at a precise moment in time, the medical reality is that death is a process," Christofferson noted. "It is the fact that different parts of the body perish at different rates and times that makes organ transplants and resuscitation possible."

Human organ transplantation using cadaver donors is the medical development which gives most urgency to the need for a precise legal definition of death. "Effective transplantation depends in large measure on the removal of organs immediately after death, and one must therefore, be able to define and determine the moment of death with some precision," Christofferson said.

Not only medical but legal reasons dictate precision, if doctors are to protect themselves from liability, including homicide charges.

"The fear of such liability on the part of medical personnel is not unfounded. The cessation of treatment for transplant purposes as well as for other reasons has sometimes resulted in criminal prosecutions," he added.

The brain-death definition, he said, "plots death at an earlier point in the transition from life to death and claims superiority in promoting the welfare of physicians, their patients, and the public generally."

Snow-Clearing Earns A Public 'Thank You'

Perhaps we should all say thanks to the municipal and State Highway Commission crews for a good job of clearing thoroughfare streets and main highways following last Saturday's snow storm.

It was one of the heavier snows for our area, but crews worked Saturday night and Sunday so that travel was possible Monday.

The snow clearing operation went better than that which followed the snow of a month ago. Perhaps the crews gained practice with that first snow fall. At any rate the crews deserve praise for a job well done last weekend.

New Pressures For President

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The worsening dollar and trade crisis between the United States and its major trading allies—Western Europe and Japan—is now producing unprecedented demands on President Nixon, from traditional free-traders in Congress and elsewhere, for long-range protection.

Congressional intimates of Democratic Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, are now letting it be known that he favors a whopping 15 per cent import surcharge for a minimum of one year on virtually all imports into the U. S.

Mills' plan, which may well be having decisive impact on the Nixon administration as it attempts to grapple with the mushrooming imbalance of payments and trade, would reduce the proposed surcharge to 10 per cent the second year and 5 per cent the third year.

Whether such imports as crude oil, now desperately needed at home, would be exempted from the Mills-proposed surcharge is not known. But the fact that Wilbur Mills, the most influential leader on foreign trade in Congress, is pushing the surcharge so hard is an obvious factor in its tentative acceptance by the White House.

For weeks, Mr. Nixon's economic czar, Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, and other Nixon foreign economic aides have been trying to reach a consensus on new trade legislation. The results are still inconclusive.

Thus, the President is described by intimates as determined to find some wholly new and unconventional means of dealing with the trade imbalance. That imbalance found the U. S. in 1972 buying nearly $7 billion a year more in foreign-made merchandise than it sold abroad, despite December 1971 currency changes which made foreign goods more expensive here and American goods cheaper abroad.

In typically Nixonian style, the President has said privately that he does not want "any of the old conventional answers" to this historic deficit in U. S. foreign trade—but as yet he has no clear idea what he means by "conventional."

The surcharge is hardly unconventional. It was used, in fact, by then Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally in August 1971, as one import-steering measure in the President's dramatic "new economic policy," but it was pegged at only 10 per cent and lasted only four months.

The fact that traditional free-trader Mills now wants the U. S. to impose so high a level of import surcharge tells much about rising protectionist sentiment in the Democratic Congress.

In truth, no conventional trade bill that Mr. Nixon might send to Congress would pass today. If the President paves the way with import surcharges, Congress might agree to give him selective power to reduce tariffs on a

One of the outstanding and amazing aspects of modern life arises from the way we can travel from one point to another with speeds that were incomprehensible a few decades ago. The explorer Magellan sailed around the world and it took him a long time to make the journey. Today we can spend the night some place in Asia and be in the United States relatively few hours. In the horse and buggy days it took an inconceivably long time to go a few hundred miles. Today we stretch out in an airplane in Paris and are in a United States airport a few hours later. All we need is the money to make the journey and the leisure to do so.

There are many things to criticize about our present world order, but we all like the speed with which we can get about. A woman was recently reported to have made it a practice to shuttle back and forth between Europe and America every few days and to keep up the schedule with continued regularity.

Most of us would think that this was too much of a good thing. We like to get where we are going and to get there fast, but it is another thing to make travel the chief end of life. We marvel over the speed with which we can get from one place to another, but life becomes rather pointless if we do nothing but flit about from one place to another.

Modern travel facilities are marvelous, but there is more to life than travel.

Impounding The Budget

WASHINGTON — While there has been some controversy about President Nixon's fight with Congress over, as he sees it, his constitutional right to impound funds, he has inspired many people in the country to take a tough stand against fiscal irresponsibility.

The other day when I came home from work, my wife angrily demanded, "Did you cancel the order for the juniper bushes for the front lawn?"

"That is correct. In line with the President's policy, I impounded the money and cut the juniper bushes out of our budget."

"You had no constitutional right to do that," my wife said. "I authorized the spending of $230 for juniper bushes. Those juniper bushes are absolutely necessary to the well-being of our house and I insist you release the money immediately."

"I refuse to do so until you can show me where we will get the money for the juniper bushes," I said.

My wife asked, "Haven't you ever heard of charge accounts?"

"What's the trouble around here. All we do is spend money, but no one asks where it's coming from. Do you realize we're going into debt at the rate of $14,000 a year? Someday our children will have to pay for all these wild economic policies."

My wife said, "We will hold hearings on this at dinner time."

A hostile family group faced me as I sat in the witness chair at dinner.

My wife started the questioning. "Sir, would you tell me by what authority you have impounded funds that have been voted by members of this household?"

"As the breadwinner and the father in this family, I believe I have the legal right not to spend money we do not have."

ART

My wife banged her gavel as the other members of the family booed. "You seem to have a different interpretation of the powers of a father than those prescribed by tradition in this country. Under our American system, the father makes the money and the family spends it."

"I admit," I said, trying not to lose my temper, "that this is the present attitude in this family, but I intend to change it. From now on, you will have to show me a definite need for a program before I will release the money. I am making cuts across the board. For example, no more tape players will be repaired until we get our house in order. No more new orders for tapes will be accepted, and I am cutting out all funds for tickets to the Grand Funk and other rock concerts."

"You have no right to do that," my 17-year-old daughter shouted. "Those concerts are an absolute must."

"And if you break your 10-speed bikes, you pay for repairs yourselves."

"This sounds like one-man rule," my 16-year-old daughter said. "You are trying to take away the balance of power in this family."

"Ask not," I said, "what your father can do for you but what you can do for yourselves."

My wife peered down at me. "Sir, are we to understand that after we vote funds for a garbage disposal unit, you can arbitrarily cancel the project?"

"I must insist on having the final authority for all fiscal matters," I replied. "Of course, there are certain defense items in the budget that I cannot touch."

"What are those?" my 17-year-old daughter demanded.

"My dues for my tennis club," I said, "and my lun-

How liberated are U.S. women really getting? Well, when it comes to liberating their figures, they are getting more liberated all the time. Today is Valentine's Day and people everywhere joined in paying tribute to the spirit of the occasion. In Greenville heart-shaped cards made their rounds and decorations reminiscent of the Valentine season made their appearance in downtown stores.

A favorable committee report today voted on the bill introduced in the lower House of the North Carolina Assembly to legalize light wines and beers in North Carolina if the Federal prohibition laws are changed.

Opposition to a sales tax was expressed today in a petition being circulated by businessmen of Greenville. The petition declared that merchants were finding it difficult to keep their doors open at this time, and that a general sales tax would bring ruin to this field of activity.

Back Home It's All Informality

By LAWRENCE L. KINTSON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. senator makes $42,500 a year and generally is welcomed at most Washington social affairs. But many still want the folks back home to think of them as just plain Bill or Pete or Jim. Some even insist on it.

At least four senators recently have sent out notices asking newsmen and others to use their shortened first names.

Thus, Wes Barthelme, administrative assistant to freshman Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., informed newsmen the senator would like them to refer to him in news stories as Joe.

"He ran as Joe Biden and he was elected as Joe Biden and he signs his name Joe Biden," Barthelme said.

The Senate Republican conference, meanwhile, has corrected official biographies of senators to stress the shortened first names.

As in Bill for Sen. William E. Brock III, R-Tenn.; Pete for Sen. Peter V. Domenici, R-N.M., and Bob, for Sen.

Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore. Some senators have it both ways. The junior Republican from Kansas uses the name Robert Dole in official Senate listings but Bob in press releases.

Others simply are known on Capitol Hill by nicknames, such as "Abe." for Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., or "Jake" or "Jack" for Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

And some senators have been around so long that people have forgotten when or if they were ever called by formal first names.

In his years in the Senate, very few ever have referred to Sen. Samuel J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., by his full first name. It has always been Sam.

It's also, of course, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, not Sen. Michael Mansfield.

Other Senators who stress informality include Dick—not Richard—Clark, an Iowa Democrat; Mike—not Michael—Gravel, an Alaska Democrat; Sam—not Samuel—Nunn, a Georgia Democrat, and Ted—not Theodore—Stevens, a Republican from Alaska.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days for thinking big and getting big by expanding your vision far beyond present boundaries and gaining the goodwill of those in powerful position for the most ambitious undertaking you can conceive of. If you want the goodwill of bigwigs in fullest measure, compliment them on their achievements.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you do those things that please others, you can have a delightful day and p.m. and you gain favors in return. Put your creative ideas to work and become more successful in the future. Avoid gossips, especially in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look at matters at home in the clear light of day and then you know how to please kin. More helpfulness toward them is important. Do some entertaining in p.m. that brings more goodwill your way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Showing partners that you appreciate their alliance can bring more cooperation in the future. Go out and shop for whatever is necessary to make operations more efficient. The evening is fine from the social standpoint.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can set wheels in motion now that will bring you an added income you need and want. Talk over business affairs with experts you trust. Some study in p.m. is good.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The planets are favorable and you can accomplish what means the most to you now. Out to social events that give you a chance to meet important personalities. Dress your best. Show you have excellent manners.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Quietly analyze what your finest aims are and how you can attain them, and then set wheels in right motion. Your evening for romantic pleasure. Take the initiative and all will be splendid.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to the ideas of a good friend so you are able to gain some aims that mean a good deal to you. Discussions with personal pals can bring advance for all concerned. Show you are practical minded.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact higher-up and see where you can use your finest capabilities to good advantage. You can get into civic work that really appeals to you. Much added prestige can come of this, so do your best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Conditions arise that result in your benefit if you act quickly, wisely. Making new contacts of a highly spiritual nature is good now. The evening can be charming from the social standpoint.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get an early start at those annoying responsibilities and improve your financial structure. Show more affection for mate and become a happier person. Avoid one who could get you into a good deal of trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A little more formality and you gain the goodwill of associates as well as their full cooperation now. Plan just how to handle that civic work so you get fine results and improve your reputation. Think logically, practically.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) First plan your work with fellow workers and then work with them harmoniously and efficiently. Take some time to buy the items to add to your wardrobe that bring out your charm. Avoid one who does not really appreciate you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is born with a feeling of importance, and if given the right training and education can indeed develop into such an individual, since there is much ability in this chart. Your youngster will want to venture early into unusual outlets, which is fine, since the greatest success will come from just one or more of these. Add foreign language to the educational curricula.

reciprocal basis, but nothing approaching the tariff-reduction authority Congress gave the White House for the "Kennedy Round" of the early 1960s.

Accordingly, the fact that Mills is pressing for a three-year program of import surcharges indicates that that is the rock-bottom minimum concession to rising protectionist sentiment now being zealously fanned by the AFL-CIO. The labor hierarchy backs the awesomely protectionist Burk-Hartke trade bill and its proposals for outright import quotas.

ches at the San Souci and tickets to the 'Last Tango in Paris.' Those are absolute necessities. But when it comes to the giveaway programs at home, I intend to be ruthless."

"I must warn you," my wife said, "you are inviting a confrontation in this house that will have far-reaching consequences."

"I am not intimidated," I replied. "The President of the United States is on my side."

Vicunas rely on speed to escape their enemies and even a minutes-old baby vicuna can outrun a man, says National Geographic.

Mr. Nixon's problem with Congress is serious enough. More serious in the long run is his problem with the European Common Market and Japan, which he quietly advised months ago to be ready for new tariff negotiations with the U. S. next fall.

When Edward Heath, the British prime minister, came here two weeks ago to learn just what the Nixon trade plans were, he not only learned next to nothing but was surprised to be asked what he thought the U. S. trade position should be. Likewise, when West German Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt was here last month, he was astonished by the lack of planning inside the administration.

The battle of the dollar now raging in Europe and Japan, plus the new pressure by Mills and other congressional grandees for immediate curbs on imports, can only widen the gap between the U. S. and its main trading allies. The gap is unpleasant today, but tomorrow it could be critical.

Failed Stop, Driver Shot

COLUMBIA (AP)—His refusal to stop for a traffic-regulating roadblock on snowbound I-95 near Florence has put a man in the Florence hospital with a chest wound.

Col. Frank Thompson, commander of the Highway Patrol, saying he didn't have names yet, gave this account of the Tuesday mishap:

A car ignored a blockade set up to regulate traffic on the interstate, and patrolmen in two cars put a running block on the vehicle, one behind and one in front.

When the cars halted, the man refused at first to unlock his car door, then jumped out and knocked one patrolman to the ground.

He then reached back in his car and came out with a sawed-off shotgun, whereupon another patrolman shot him in the chest.

Thompson said he has been advised the man is in good condition and expected to recover.

Humphrey Hits Impoundment

RALEIGH (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., described President Nixon's impoundment of Congressional approved funds as "nothing short of a violation of the Constitution of the United States."

Humphrey addressed a meeting here Tuesday of members of the rural electric membership corporations, and told the 300 men and women to "fight as you've never fought before—not just for REA (Rural Electrification), but for constitutional government."

The former vice president said the Nixon administration abolished the REA direct loan program to rural electric cooperatives merely by issuing a press release. He said Nixon did not consult with members of Congress.

"Today, the elected representatives of the people are being ignored and the programs they have enacted are being terminated by the President even though he has taken an oath to faithfully execute and administer the laws of the land," said Humphrey.

He has introduced a bill to reinstate the REA loan program. The bill, co-sponsored by about 70 senators including Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., was approved this week by the Senate Agriculture Committee with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., casting the only dissenting vote.

Grifton Man Take No Action On Among Grads Maternity Leaves

William G. George of Grifton is one of 38 new North Carolina State Highway Patrol troopers to graduate from the Patrol's 14-week training program at the Institute of Government on the campus of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill earlier this month.

George has been assigned duties at the Governor's office in Raleigh.

Included among the subject taught at the Patrol school are: the laws of arrest, laws of search and seizure, police pursuit driving, traffic control, investigation of traffic collisions and riot and crowd control.

W. G. GEORGE

The first U.S. gold coins were struck in 1795 and the last appeared in 1933.

WILLIAMSTON — No action is the present stand of the Martin County Board of Education on the new maternity leave policy adopted by the State Board of Education.

At the February meeting of the school board, members considered the policy without arriving at a decision. The new policy allows teachers up to six months leave for maternity and gives the option of requesting leave with the assurance of a job upon returning. This policy is opposed to the former necessity for a teacher to resign without future job assurance.

Approval was given the Farm Life community to dispose of the old teacherage on the school grounds there. Broken floors and structural weaknesses create a danger for children should they get into the building, unoccupied for a number of years. The school board also instructed the removal of two structures from the new Williamston High School site.

The board adopted a resolution supporting legislation that would provide a full kindergarten program as proposed by the State Department of Public Instruction, and heard a report from Superintendent of Schools Eugene Rogers on a developmental program county educators are engaged in.

Set Highway Site Hearing

RALEIGH (AP) — The state House Roads Committee agreed Tuesday to hold hearings to determine if there is any connection between gubernatorial campaign contributions and location of highway projects.

The committee is already holding hearings on road needs, and chairman James Green, D-Bladen, said their work "would not be greatly expanded" by the move.

A freshman legislator, Rep. Arthur W. Thomas, D-Cabarrus, suggested the expansion. He said the committee should look into "what influence this mass of money has in electing the governor" and on highway projects.

Green declined to say which previous administrations would be examined in the hearings, but said the committee would "not be on any witch hunt."

Thomas asked that major road contractors be invited to appear before the panel, which cannot subpoena witnesses.

New Hope Dam Work Blocked

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has been stopped from most further work on the New Hope dam and reservoir in Chatham County until the suit by environmentalists is heard again.

Judge Eugene A. Gordon entered the temporary restraining order in U.S. District Court Tuesday. It was in accordance with an appeal won by environmentalists last week in the U.S. 4th Circuit Court in Richmond, Va.

Group To Survey Coastal Damage

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser sent a group of state officials today to check damage from the weekend storm to coastal Dare County.

The group planned to take a helicopter from Raleigh to Manteo, and report later to Holshouser on possible state assistance to the battered area.

Natural and Economic Resources Secretary James G. Harrington, Assistant Secretary Arthur Cooper and Highway Commission Chief Engineer John Davis were among officials scheduled to take the trip.

For Some, Freedom Will Have Bittersweet Taste

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Mrs. Garland Kramer of Tulsa, Okla., disclosed Tuesday that she had obtained a divorce last June from her husband, an Air Force captain shot down in January 1967. The divorce was granted in Tulsa on the grounds of incompatibility.

"I knew I couldn't go back," she said. "We're grown apart."

Mrs. Kramer, who works for Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., said she had continued to write and send packages to Kramer while he was a prisoner of war. She explained the divorce in a special letter she sent the Air Force for delivery to Kramer after his release.

She said that, when he left for Vietnam, she had been "neat and docile" but, since then, has studied politics, religion and been active in school and with their two children, Todd, 9, and Cynthia, 8.

The divorce, sought on March 24, 1972, and granted on June 30, is being contested by Kramer's father, who lives in Denver, Colo. He asked the courts to set it aside until his son's return.

Also facing a divorce is Cmdr. Everett Alvarez of Santa Clara, Calif., who was shot down Aug. 5, 1964, the first American pilot captured in the Vietnam war.

Two years ago, Alvarez' wife, Tangee, obtained a divorce and remarried. "I just fell out of love with Everett," she said last October when the divorce was revealed.

She identified her husband only as "Andy" and refused to disclose where she, her new spouse and their daughter were living.

Alvarez' mother, Mrs. Soledad Alvarez of San Jose, Calif.,

sent the news of the divorce to her son shortly after it was granted. She said he wrote back: "I hope her present husband loves her as much as I did."

The wife of Navy Cmdr. Raymond Vohden started divorce proceedings last year. She halted the proceedings when the peace talks resumed and said Monday she'll try to resume the marriage.

Discussing a call from her husband, who was shot down on April 3, 1965, Bonnie Vohden said: "The phone rang and he said: 'What the hell's going on?' I told him: 'Golly, you sound just as mean as ever.'"

The Vohdens have two children, Raymond Jr., 11, and Conny, 10.

"I don't know what things will be two months from now," Mrs. Vohden said. "We'll work it out day by day. He's so excited and happy that I'm feeling that way too."

Nat'l Opera Company To Perform Here Saturday

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, February 14, 1973—9

The opera company founded 24 years ago by the man for whom the music building at East Carolina University is named, will be giving a performance on campus on Saturday.

At 8:15 p.m. Saturday, the National Opera Company, founded in 1948 by Raleigh attorney and businessman A.J. Fletcher, will present Mozart's Così fan Tutte in an English version. The performance will be in McGinnis Auditorium.

A dozen singers from the National Opera Company will be supported by the East Carolina Symphony Orchestra under Robert Hause's baton.

The Saturday performance is a donation on the part of Fletcher for the benefit of the ECU School of Music. The School of Music is assisting in the donation effort by furnishing the orchestra for the performance.

Recently, Fletcher has also made a contribution of $30,000 to the School of Music to be used for scholarship funds for music students at the university. This recent donation is in addition to earlier funds contributed to the School of Music by Fletcher. As a consequence of his support, the ECU music building bears the name of A.J. Fletcher.

The National Opera Company, dedicated to the presentation of opera in the language of the audience, follows the European custom where operas, no matter what the origin of the composer, are sung in the local tongue.

Since its founding in 1948, the National Opera Company singers have scored a number of successes in tours that have taken them to 36 states, many time to places where opera is seldom, if ever, presented in live performances.

Singers with the opera company have appeared in leading roles at the Metropolitan, the New York City Opera, the Chicago Lyric, San Francisco Opera Company and other American companies as well as with opera companies in Hamburg, Dusseldorf and Zurich.

Tickets for Così fan Tutte are now on sale at the ECU Central Ticket Office. The cost of admission is $2.00 per person.

Two Winners In Auditions

Two East Carolina University School of Music students, one a voice student, the other a composer, have been named winners in their categories in auditions for high school and college students.

In the auditions, held recently at Converse College, Converse, South Carolina, Miss Donna Stephenson, a voice student of Mrs. Gladys White, won top place in the college voice auditions.

Larry Bell, a student of Dr. Gregory Kosteck and Dr. Otto Henry at ECU, received the award for composition in the college level category.

The auditions were conducted at the Southern Division meeting of the National Music Teachers Association.

Air Bags In American Cars Unlikely This Decade

By EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN
UPI Auto Writer
DETROIT (UPI) — Smashing cars into walls at 25 miles per hour is one way of trying to show that air bags work. Putting a man and woman in the front seat is even more dramatic. It's doubtful many Americans will be in that same position before 1977. Unless the safety device can prove its effectiveness, it's doubtful the air bag will be used in American-built cars in this decade.

The government has retreated three times on the effective date for a passive restraint system in cars to replace the "active" system in which the driver must fasten a belt or perform some other task.

Air bags have been considered the best bet to meet the government's requirement that death or serious injury be prevented in a head-on crash at 30 miles per hour. But there's been much unfavorable publicity surrounding the air bag.

In two public tests, one in Phoenix and the other in Detroit, air bags failed and test dummies were either "killed" or severely injured.

Ford Motor Co., has equipped more than 500 cars for on-the-road "live" tests by Allstate Insurance Co., and Eaton Corp., employees. General Motors plans to equip a fleet of cars with the device and the General Services Administration also is testing the air bag.

Out of Sight

Few motorists have seen the air bag. Installed on a car, it remains in a compartment until it's needed.

The air bag is a balloon device that is either stored in the steering wheel for the driver or in the instrument panel to protect the front seat passenger. In prototype safety cars designed by Ford and GM, air bags also have been installed in the back of the front seat, leaving the rear seat compartment cramped.

One day late last December, professional stunt driver Hal Needham, 41, and Lada Edmunds, a 23-year-old Hollywood actress and dancer, climbed into a 1972 Mercury owned by Eaton Corp., a manufacturer of air bags, to prove the bags worked.

In one test, they drove the car into a 90-ton concrete barrier at 24.5 m.p.h. The next day, they slammed another similarly equipped Mercury into the barrier at 4 m.p.h.

"I've been slapped harder than that," Miss Edmunds commented without elaborating.

In both cases, the bags inflated to cushion the couple in the front seat. The crash was equivalent to a 50 m.p.h. car-to-car impact.

Their tests represented the fastest known barrier crashes of a passenger car using human occupants. Like dummies used in other tests, they pitched forward as the bags inflated and then rearward, their heads settling against head restraints.

Eaton officials admitted that the test to show the system works also was designed to counter much of the unfavorable publicity.

Much of that criticism has come from the American Automobile Association (AAA) which last year urged the government to drop the requirement for an air bag completely. A report issued by AAA claimed the air bag was being "irresponsibly and prematurely" sold to the public and hadn't been adequately tested.

Not AAA's Bag

AAA said the claim by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) that air bags in all cars could cut traffic fatality toll in half was exaggerated. AAA pushed for continued use of lap belts and shoulder harnesses as a more effective deterrent to highway deaths and injuries.

When the Transportation Department in late 1971 extended the 1973-model deadline to 1974 models, it ordered the installation of a system for 1974-model cars in which the lap belts and shoulder harnesses will have to be buckled before the car can be started.

For motorists who now feel inconvenienced by the buzzer warning system for belts on all cars built after Jan. 1, 1972, the standard for 1974-model cars ought to prove a headache. But it should increase the use of the belts dramatically—the shoulder harness is now used by less than 4 per cent of all drivers and passengers.

While the compulsory use of the air bag—or some other "passive" restraint — remains snagged in court rulings, some safety experts see other ways to meet government standards without using the controversial bag.

One is inflatable lap belts and shoulder harnesses, under development by Allied Chemical Corp. But using a semi-passive system, a lap belt with a built-in pillow that pops up under crash conditions, would need a revision of the safety standards.

The three government delays, along with the court order halting the implementation of the passive restraint standard on Aug. 15, 1975, may force a revision in those standards. That court-ordered delay last December was the first significant legal setback suffered by the U.S. government in the area of automotive safety.

The court agreed with Ford, Chrysler and American Motors that tests used to determine whether the restraint device is acceptable "will not produce consistent, reliable or repeatable test results."

According to the court, there was not much sense in making the automakers meet test standards which are not reliable.

Sugarcane was first brought to North America around 1725.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated rapidly today under the impetus of renewed concern about inflation and the international monetary situation.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 11.66 to 985.10 in active trading. Declining issues held sway over gainers, 904 to 289.

Today's sharp decline was in marked contrast to the upward burst with which the market initially greeted the dollar devaluation news Tuesday. The Dow Jones industrial average soared more than 21 points in the session's first 30 minutes, although it later backed off to a 5.19 gain for the day.

Oil issues dropped broadly, apparently because of the belief such companies will have to pay more for imported crude oil in the wake of the dollar devaluation. Gulf Oil, the Big Board's most-active issue, lost 3/4 to 25 1/2. Standard Oil of California fell 2 1/2 to 78 1/2. Texaco was off 1/2 to 37 1/2. Cities Service lost 1 3/4 to 49 and Phillips Petroleum declined 3/4 to 43 1/2.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,400 common stocks was down 0.58 to 62.34.

Wolfpack Rushes Past Pirates, 105-70

CURLING AROUND TO PASS — N. C. State's David Thompson (44) curls around the spread-eagle Dave Franklin (41) of East Carolina during last night's game to pass of a teammate during the game between the two in Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh. RALEIGH — Some years back there was a popular song out, "Two Different Worlds." A reprise might have been apropos last night during the playing of the North Carolina State University-East Carolina University basketball game.

The second-ranked unbeaten Wolfpack piled up its 20th straight victory of the season with a 105-70 victory over the Pirates, who were out of the game early in the contest.

For the Pirates, it was another evening when they seemed awed by the surroundings, which included All-American candidates Tommy Burleson and David Thompson, who put on a show of their own.

Only Al Faber of the Pirates seemed to take things in stride, playing one of the better games of his career.

But it was a night for Thompson and Burleson to shine. The 6-4 sophomore Thompson found a home in the corner of the court, and seemed content to pop in baskets from there all night. He hit on 13 of 15 shots, mostly from long range, and added seven of eight from the free throw line for a game-high 33 points.

Burleson, the 7-4 giant, who has matured remarkably since the last meeting of these two teams, hit on eight of 15 shots and three of six free throws for 19 points, runner-up for State to Thompson. He also plucked off 17 rebounds and was credited with blocking six shots.

The Pirates weren't able to keep up with the Wolfpack in the opening minutes, when the hot-shooting N. C. Staters opened up a 20-8 lead. That showed up on the scoreboard after 5:53. But for the next eight minutes, the Pirates played them basket-for-basket, and appeared less awed by the Wolfpack than at the first.

But then, in the closing minutes of the half, the 'Pack streaked away to build up a 54-36 lead and in the second half, they continued to pull away, moving out by as much as the margin they finally ended up with, 35 points.

State played 10 players, and all but one played at least 10 minutes. Steve Nuce, the tenth, played nine minutes. Burleson saw the most action, going 31 of the 40 minutes, while Thompson was in for 28 minutes, and State's Mighty Mouse, Monte Towe, played for 23 minutes.

Thompson got the Wolfpack on the board after only eight seconds, hitting from the corner. Burleson then stole the ball 30 seconds later, and raced downcourt alone to score a snowbird for a 4-0 lead.

Jerome Owens got the first Pirate basket after 59 seconds, but State then ran off eight straight for a 12-2 lead. Burleson hit from underneath, and then Thompson scored from under the nets. Towe hit a long jumper and Burleson followed a missed shot with 17:33 left to the 10-point spread.

East Carolina called a time out, and then, for the next few minutes paced the Wolfpack, until Thompson again hit from the corner to make it 20-8, a 12-point spread.

For the next eight minutes, both teams traded baskets as the score climbed up to 31-20. Then Tim Stoddard drove in and was fouled by Faber as he scored, making it 34-20 on the three-point play.

East Carolina came back with a jumper from the lane by Faber and two free throws by Roger Atkinson, but State matched that with two baskets to go back out by 14. Then, Thompson hit a jumper to run it to 42-26 with 3:35 left. The two traded shots again until Stoddard hit from underneath with 59 seconds left to make it 18, 50-32. For the final minute, they again traded shots for a 54-36 State lead at halftime.

After Dave Franklin hit the opening bucket of the second half, Thompson came back with a jumper and two free throws to open the lead to 20, 58-38. Then, after a jumper by Nicky White, Towe and Thompson both hit to make it 62-40.

Faber hit from the corner, but Stoddard and Thompson bombed once more and ran it to 24, 66-42. State continued to slowly pull away from the Pirates, finally gaining their 35-point edge at 83-48 when Burleson hit a free throw with 9:25 left.

During the remaining time, the Bucs were able to cut it back to as little as 30, but it was just a question of time.

Faber finished the game with 27 points, his high for the year, also adding eight rebounds, to lead the Pirates in that along with White, who also had eight.

The only other Pirate to hit double figures was Owens, who had 10.

Adding to Burleson and Thompson's total, was Towe with 11, and Stoddard with 13.

The Pirates, now 11-10 overall, travel to Williamsburg, Va., Saturday to meet William & Mary in a regionally televised game at 1:40 p.m.

Franklin Honored

Dave Franklin, East Carolina senior forward, put the whammy on the Southern Conference's leading scorer, Aron Stewart of Richmond, last week, and this helped to earn him Southern Conference Player of the Week honors yesterday.

Franklin is the first Pirate to receive the honors this year. He played in three games over the week, against St. Peter's, Richmond and Appalachian, helping the Bucs to two wins in those three.

His two top efforts were in the first two games. Against St. Peter's, he had a team high of 28 points, Franklin's high point of the season. Then, two nights later, he held Stewart to only one field goal during the time he was on him, although Stewart finally finished up with 21, well below his average. The Richmond forward also only got five rebounds, less than half his average.

Overall during the week, the 6-5 senior from Richmond hit 50 points, scoring 22 of 43 field goal attempts and six of eight from the line.

Baby Bucs Roll Past Wolflets

RALEIGH — East Carolina's Junior Varsity, having their troubles in the first half, got their fast break rolling late in the period and used it to streak to a 94-69 victory over the N. C. State Wolflets last night.

The victory marked the first time an East Carolina Baby Buc team has beaten an ACC team on its own home court. Twice this year, they had come close, losing to North Carolina in the opening game of the season, 64-63, and to Duke, 66-61. In both of those games, however, the slim-ranked Baby Bucs had finished the game with only four men on the court.

Against N. C. State, they fared better however, and although they trailed, 25-18 with about five minutes left in the half, they finally got going and slipped out into a 34-31 lead.

After that, in the second half, it was all the Pirates, as they smashed the State press and everything that went with it. The Bucs hit on 66.7 per cent of their shots to easily outscore the Wolflets, 60-38, and romp to the victory.

They outrebounded the taller Wolfpack, 36-31 and had little problems, quickly running their lead out to 20 points in the early minutes of the second half.

Five Pirates finished in double figures, with Al Edwards and Chuck Mohn leading the way with 18 each. William Hill had 16, Kenny Edmonds had 15 and Randy McCullen had 13.

For the Wolflets, Mike Dempsey had 21, and Leo Campbell and Jerry Hunt each had 14.

The Baby Bucs have one game remaining, against Old Dominion on the road next Tuesday.

Williamston leaped out into the lead in the first period and was never caught again. They outthit Plymouth, 12-2 in that frame, and then added 12 more in the second to Plymouth's 10. That made it 24-12 at halftime.

In the third quarter, the scoring slowed, but Williamston still outthit Plymouth, 6-4, to build its lead to 30-16. Plymouth was able to outthit them, 14-11, in the final period, but to no avail.

Sherry Roberson led Williamston with 12 points, while Plymouth's Hazel Browning led all scorers with 14.

Ayden-Grifton Wins Opening Contest

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — It was a big day as far as the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament was concerned, yesterday. A total of seven games were played to make up for lost days because of the recent snowfall.

In the afternoon, Farmville Central beat Southern Wayne, 58-35 and will move up to play Greene Central. The Farmville Central girls did not fare as well, however, as they were edged out by North Lenoir, 37-35. In the other boys' game of the afternoon, North Pitt surprised Southern Nash by 67-58. They will meet D.H. Conley tonight at 9 p.m. The Conley Valkyries were upset by the Greene Central Ewes as the Ewes won their second game of the year and their second over Conley this year to move up to face Ayden-Grifton Thursday. The game went into overtime before the Ewes won, 34-31.

Then in the evening three more games were played. In the girls' opener, C.B. Aycock held off a late rally by Eastern Wayne for a 34-29 win. The host team, Ayden-Grifton's Chargers rolled to a 56-49 win. And the last game saw the Southern Wayne Saintes hang on for a 46-36 decision over the Lady Friebirds of Southern Nash.

Eastern Waynes' girls, behind most of the way, rallied in the fourth quarter of the first game to go ahead by two with 2:57 left to play. The Lady Saints dumped in nine straight points moving back out to a comfortable lead which they held onto.

Marcilletta Best put the Squaws up first as she hit for a 2-0 lead. Aycock countered with a bucket by Annette Dickerson.

Each team added one more basket in the hectic first quarter.

Pat Smith scored on a drive down the lane putting the Squaws in front but only for a little while. Rhonda Lancaster scored for Aycock and Phylliss Parnell followed it with a jumper from outside to give the Lady Falcons an 8-6 advantage. Aycock kept its lead and added six more points in the period to lead at halftime, 14-11. Both teams chalked up six points in the third period. Then the Squaws started to heat things up as Best scored from the stripe and Gwen Scott canned a jumper from outside to cut the lead to one, 22-21. Smith put Southern ahead for the first time in the half as she banged one through from the corner, 23-22.

Treva Howell tied the game at 23-23 as she made a free shot with 4:50 left but a bucket on a drive by Betty Thompson put the Squaws back in front, 25-23. The Lady Falcons struck back with nine points to move out by 32-25. Parnell and Howell each sank a pair of charity shots. Jenny Kearney made a three-point play and Parnell added a basket for the seven-point margin.

Southern Wayne cut it down to four at 32-38 with less than a minute to go but could not get any closer.

Smith led the losers with 12 points. Parnell led all the scoring with 14.

The Lady Falcons will advance in the pairings to play the winner of the North Pitt-North Lenoir game on Thursday.

In the second game, the A-G Chargers had a tough battle with Aycock's boys all the way and only opened it up in the last quarter.

The Chargers broke into the lead on a tap in by Sam Stewart but a jumper from 20 feet by Thurman Hobbs tied it up. The lead was never controlled until the Chargers got with 1:50 to go in the frame when Jessie Brown tapped in a rebound to put the Chargers ahead, 10-8 and A-G never trailed after that. After the end of the period, it was 14-9.

Ayden-Grifton moved out to a seven point lead, 18-11 with 5:14 to go in the half but the Falcons fought back and narrowed it down to a point, 18-17 on baskets by Tommy Herndon and Hobbs and a pair of free shots by Arthur Stafford. Chargers Jeff Worthington and Milton Brown scored free throws and a basket respectively to slip A-G back to a five-point gap, 22-17. When the half ended, the Chargers still had that same margin at 24-19. A-G outscored the Falcons in the third period, 16-14 to increase their lead by two, 40-33.

In the fourth quarter, a bucket by Melvin Stewart with 4:13 to play in the game gave the Chargers their biggest lead, 14 points, of the game at 48-34. The Falcons had begun to tire by then and could not catch the Chargers.

Stafford and Hobbs each scored 14 for Aycock while Melvin Stewart and Travis Woods scored the same number of points for A-G. Sam Stewart added 12 for the Chargers.

Their next opponent will be the winner of the Farmville Central-Greene Central clash.

Southern Nash was never really in the ball game as the Saintes scored first as Fay Hollowell hit from the lane as the game opened only to see the Lady Firebirds tie it on a tap in by Gloria Pope. Southern Wayne quickly dumped in eight points to move out by 10-2 and Southern Nash never got to within less than two again.

At the end of the first period, it was 14-6.

as Pope went on a hot streak and put through eight points cutting the lead down to 34-32 from 34-23. That was as close as they could get as Jaxie Bryan sank a jumper and Beverly Cox a pair of free throws for a six-point spread, 38-32. A bucket by Alva Bass cut back to four but the Saintes eight points to increase their lead to 46-34. That was the way it ended after Juanita Hall scored for Southern Nash.

Greene Central Girls In Upset

HOLLYWOOD — Greene Central's girls picked up their second victory of the year, downing the Conley Valkyries, 34-31, in an overtime battle yesterday. The game was a preliminary to the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament. The Ewes now advance to face Ayden-Grifton, Thursday in the tournament.

Greene Central eased out into a 6-2 lead in the first period of the game, but Conley rallied with a 10-8 advantage in the second frame. That left the Ewes still ahead at the half, however, 14-12.

In the third period, Conley again outhit Greene Central, 8-7, trimming the lead to only 21-20. Then, in the final period, Annelle Worthington hit two free throws with 30 seconds left to tie it at 27-27 for Conley, forcing the overtime.

In that, Greene Central got going again, outhitting the Valkyries, 7-4, to take the win.

Jackie McLawhorn led the Ewes with 15 points, while Miss Worthington had 11 and Linda Loyd had 10 for Conley.

North Lenoir Girls In Win

WHEAT SWAMP — North Lenoir's Lady Hawks eased to a 37-35 victory over Farmville Central yesterday afternoon to gain a berth in this week's Eastern Carolina Conference basketball tournament.

North Lenoir, by winning, gained the dubious pleasure to meeting North Pitt in a game tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Ayden-Grifton High School, site of the tournament.

North Lenoir eased out into a 9-8 lead in the first period, then expanded that with an 8-4 margin in the second period. That ran the Lady Hawks' lead out to 17-12 at halftime. Farmville Central tried to get moving in the second period, outscoring the Hawks, 8-7, to cut the lead to 24-20. Then in the final period, the Lady Jaguars did it again, 15-13, but it just fell short.

Nedra Burney led North Lenoir with 13 points, while Linda Anderson had 14 and Cynthia Barrett had 10 for Farmville Central.

Carolina, Maryland In Clash For Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina and Maryland play tonight for second place in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race, a position that's important because its occupant gets an easier first-round game in the championship tournament. Since there are only seven teams in the league, the top team gets a bye and the second-place finisher gets to play the last place club in the first round at the Greensboro, N. C., Coliseum on March 8.

North Carolina will have the advantage of its home court in the regionally televised game which will begin at 9 o'clock.

But the Tar Heels will be without Ray Harrison, a sophomore hospitalized for tests to determine what has caused him to lose weight, and Donald Washington, who last week reinjured a foot that had been broken.

The North Carolina Tar Heels are 5-3 in the league, 18-4 in all games, and are No. 6 Nationally. Maryland is 4-3, 15-3, and No. 10.

North Carolina lost 94-88 at Maryland Jan. 27 in a well-played game. When the Tar Heels were forced out of pressing man-to-man defense because of fouling, and dropped into a zone, Maryland shooters, primarily Jim O'Brien, turned the game around. O'Brien scored a career-high 38 points.

The key this time may be whether Bobby Jones can neutralize Tom McMillen of Maryland again. He held him to 13 points.

Doubtless, Maryland won't use the zone either unless it positively has to. North Carolina missed only one shot in six minutes against such a tactic before, a tactic that Maryland Coach Left Driesell admitted was "stupid."

There is one other game tonight for ACC teams, Wake Forest at Clemson, with the winner getting out of the cellar. Each is 1-6 and 9-11.

Duke beat Virginia 90-66 and second-ranked North Carolina State beat East Carolina 105-70 Tuesday night.

"We had an atrocious shooting night, both from the field and from the foul line," said Virginia Coach Bill Gibson. "We just didn't have it tonight."

Virginia shot 34 per cent from the field and missed 11 of 31 free throws.

Duke's Bucky Waters said, "This was our best performance since early in the season. I was very pleased with our defense, as a team and individually on Parkhill. This makes six wins in our last eight games, and that has to be a good feeling."

However, Virginia star Barry Parkhill was the only Cavalier in double figures with 21 points, high for the game.

Duke had four men in double figures, shot 54 per cent in the game at home, and broke the game open with a 16-2 spurt in the first seven minutes of the second half. In that time, Virginia made only one of 14 shots from the floor.

Norm Sloan, coach of second-ranked North Carolina State, undefeated in its 20 games, said, "East Carolina just caught us on a good night. We ran well and we handled the ball well. Also, we got a high percentage of shots against their zone early in the game."

David Thompson scored 33 points for North Carolina State which went over the 100-point mark for the eighth time.

Thompson sank nine of 10 field goal attempts in the first half. East Carolina of the Southern Conference is 11-10.

Aycock In 69-59 Loss

NASHVILLE — Nash Central Junior High School gained a 69-59 victory over E. B. Aycock Junior High School last night.

The two teams swapped baskets through the first period of play, each scoring 14 points. In the second frame, however, Nash inched out 20-19 to grab a 34-33 lead at intermission.

In the third period, Nash padded its lead a little more, outscoring Aycock, 17-15. That ran it out to 51-48. They finished it off by outitting the Phantoms, 18-11, to wrap up the win.

Mike Brewington led Aycock with 17 points, while Donnie Shields had 16 and Dennis Walston had 10. Smith led Nash Central with 26, while Bryant had 12 and Wiggins had 12.

The Phantoms, now 5-7, plays host to Kinston on Friday.

Stewart Paces Richmond

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Every coach in the Southern Conference is well aware by now that Richmond's Spiders, though they may not finish high in the regular season standings, will be a threat in the championship basketball tournament if only because of Aron Stewart.

The 6-foot-5 junior college transfer became eligible to play for the Spiders after they had lost their first five games, and they've plugged along at a fairly respectable 6-8 pace since then.

Victory No. 6 came Tuesday night by a 78-75 margin at West Virginia, a team which whipped the Spiders 55-48 in Richmond before Stewart made his college debut.

And Stewart was the major contributor to the victory, scoring 33 points that boosted his 14-game total to 425 for a 30.4-point average and hauling down 17 rebounds.

"Stewart is a super player," said West Virginia Coach Sonny Moran. "He has made Richmond better in so many ways."

Spider Coach Lewis Mills agreed with the "super" designation and added that "we go to him when we're in trouble."

East Carolina's defending league champion Pirates, on the other hand, didn't have nearly enough people to turn to Tuesday night as they took a 105-70 drubbing at the hands of the nation's second-ranked team, unbeaten North Carolina State.

The two games were the only ones involving league teams, and all eight conference members are idle tonight.

It was a jumper by Stewart that gave Richmond a 21-20 lead en route to a 34-30 half-time advantage, and it was his jumper that tied it at 40-40 after the Mountaineers had taken a momentary lead after intermission.

The Spiders eventually built a 12-point lead with 5:55 left, only to see West Virginia—with Larry Carr getting many of his 22 points—rally and go ahead 70-68 before Carr fouled out with 2:26

Ray Amann hit two free throws to tie it for the Spiders, then Carlton Mack stole the ball and fed Bob Jacobs for the field goal that put Richmond in front for good at 72-70 with 2:18 left.

"We got good play inside by Jeff Snider (14 points, and 12 rebounds) and the boys played with a lot of enthusiasm," said Mills. "It was a good win for us, as any win is on the road."

N. C. State pulled out an early 10-point lead and never was threatened in posting its 20th victory of the season at the expense of East Carolina.

Sophomore David Thompson had 33 points for State, hitting nine of 10 shots from the floor in the first half, and Tom Burleson grabbed 17 rebounds. Al Faber led East Carolina with 27 points.

Immanuel Holds On

Immanuel held to the lead in the Church Basketball League over Oakmont lastnight, taking a forfeit victory over Piney Grove. Oakmont stayed a half-game back, beating Trinity, 49-23. In the other game, Grace downed St. Paul's, 62-55.

Immanuel now holds an 11-1 record in the league, while Oakmont is 10-1.

In the opening game, St. Paul's pushed out into a 29-22 lead in the first half of play. But Grace turned it on during the second half, coming back to take a 40-26 advantage, enough to pushed ahead and win.

Curtis Sutton led Grace with 21, while Lewis Hardee had 18 and Steve Wise had 10. For St. Paul's, Jack Wall had 20, Bill Tripp had 15 and Larry Land had 11.

Rounding it out, Oakmont and Trinity both tossed in 12 points in the first half of play. But in the second, Oakmont pulled away to gain a 37-11 advantage and win it handily.

Bob Hall led Oakmont with 16 points, while Doyle Daughtry had 10. Jim Adams paced Trinity with six.

Kansas State Rallies To Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas State's basketball team spent most of the evening chasing an elusive commodity called momentum. And they found it just in time.

Lon Kruger pumped in two free throws with 22 seconds left as 15th-ranked Kansas State clawed back from a 13-point deficit for a 67-66 victory over Kansas Tuesday night.

"Momentum sure is a strange thing and I'm glad we finally caught it," said Coach Jack Hartman. "We kept waiting for Kansas to stop hitting that outside jumper but we almost waited too long."

Kansas led 62-49 with 5:30 left before Steve Mitchell, who finished with 17 points, and Larry Williams sparked a comeback that whittled the disadvantage to 66-65 with 52 seconds remaining. Kansas then attempted a basket but Kruger grabbed it and was fouled. He then bucketed both shots.

In other games involving nationally ranked teams, No. 2 North Carolina State thumped East Carolina 105-70 and No. 5 Marquette whipped Northern Illinois 93-80.

North Carolina State grabbed an early 10-point lead and then rode David Thompson's 33 points to its 20th consecutive victory.

Substitutes played out the final eight minutes for North Carolina State, which registered over 100 points for the eighth time this season.

Larry McNeill and 6-foot-8 sophomore Maurice Lucas provided the offensive punch as Marquette weathered a late Northern Illinois surge for the victory. McNeill bucketed 22 points and Lucas 20.

"I think we've seen the first of Lucas," Marquette Coach Al McGuire said. "It looked like the first time Luke really wanted to go. He looked like the local guy who wanted to be the gunslinger."

Lucas also added four clutch free throws down the stretch and helped offset a 35-point effort by Northern Illinois' Jim Bradley.

Bradley hauled down 10 rebounds but had to contend with Lucas and McNeill, who each had 15 caroms in giving Marquette a 41-24 advantage under the boards.

Gary Melchionni tied a stadium record with 12 assists and Bob Fleischer scored 18 points as Duke barreled over Virginia 90-66.

Center Gene Armstead paced a balanced scoring attack with 20 points as Rutgers beat Army 86-61 and Mike Roberts scored 17 points and led Canisius to a 63-59 victory over Catholic.

Richmond, bolstered by Southern Conference scoring leader Aaron Stewart's 33 points, rallied for a 78-75 triumph over West Virginia.

Customs And Observances Of Birthdays Stem From Royalty

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In celebrating the February birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, Americans are helping to keep alive what was once a custom reserved only for royalty.

No records were kept in ancient days of the birth dates of the common people, so their only knowledge of such events was the annual celebration of the birthdays of royal personages, according to Hallmark Cards researchers.

But today children of the poor and the rich and adults in all walks of life the world over sing familiar birthday tunes, light candles on birthday cakes, make secret wishes, give presents and send greeting cards.

One of the first birthdays ever recorded was that of Pharoah, described in the Book of Genesis. The celebration included a great household feast to which all the servants as well as the family were invited. Prisoners also were released from jail on that day.

It took a special resolution by the Senate in the days of the Roman Empire to declare the emperor's birthday a day of national observance. During the reign of the Emperor Caligula, birthday announcements went out far ahead of time, through all government channels. All work ceased on the specified day, and everyone was expected to honor the emperor.

The Greeks were among the first to keep birth records for everyone, including women and children — for tax purposes and to record military service — but only important family heads celebrated their birthdays.

The crumbling of the Roman Empire led to a decline in the celebrating of birthdays and keeping of records, according to the Hallmark historians. During the Dark Ages, few records were kept and most people had no idea of their birth date. Few even knew how old they were.

The early Christian leaders associated the idea of a birthday celebration with the customs of the pagan Greeks and Romans, and thus discouraged any celebration of the natal day.

However, by the 12th century Christians were keeping birth records and baptizing their children with the name of a chosen patron saint — often the same saint who was honored on the date of the child's birth, the researchers said. The custom led to the celebration of the name's day rather than the birthday among early Christians.

The custom of recording birth dates spread quickly with the rise of western civilization. The common people adopted many of the ancient traditions, which are still followed today, for their celebrations of these personal holidays.

For example, birthday candles were once believed endowed with special magic for granting wishes — a theory started by the ancient Greeks, the study revealed. That's why even today children make a wish before blowing out their birthday candles.

Birthday cakes also had their start with the ancients. Records show that the Roman Emperor Hadrian sent his special messengers with cakes for all those who were invited to his birthday celebration but were unable to attend.

Birthday cards first appeared in England and America about 1850 — shortly after the first Christmas cards appeared.

Birthday parties for children are sometimes thought to be native to the American culture but they actually started with the German "kinderfeste" or "children's festival."

Today children's parties are replacing traditional family feasts in countries throughout the world, the study showed. Refreshments, games, decorations and gifts are basic to every party. But custom still dictates many aspects of the celebration.

In Holland children make up a "Verlanglijst," listing all the items they would like as presents. But it would be considered impolite for a Japanese child to request a special gift or even to indicate a preference.

The Russians have a birthday pie almost as often as a cake; Icelanders are treated to canned fruit at the celebration, and the Danes hang a flag out the window to indicate that someone in the family is celebrating a birthday that day.

The Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico was established in 1943 for the sole purpose of developing a nuclear fission weapon.

Infant Death Rate Being Sharply Cut

By JAMES M. EVANS
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The infant death rate here is declining nine times faster than the national rate and it may be because newborn babies are treated like patients.

"Many babies can be saved if they are looked upon, and treated, like what they are—patients," said Dr. George Cassidy, director of the nursery and professor of pediatrics at the University of Alabama-Birmingham School of Medicine.

"We do it," Cassidy said, "and it's working."

"Most people expect their own bed, own nurse and all hospital facilities to be at their disposal when they come into a hospital. But hospitals are set up for adults, not babies, and in most hospitals babies don't get first class treatment."

High Risk Nursery Care
He said those infants admitted to the high-risk nursery include premature babies, those weighing less than five and a half pounds at birth and those considered ill at birth.

Cassidy said a study in the early 1960s gave babies weighing less than three pounds a one per cent chance of survival with as many as three-fourths of the survivors likely to be impaired either physically or mentally.

At the facility here, he said, infants weighing less than two pounds—a pound less than the babies involved in the 1960s study—have a 20 per cent chance of survival while the impairment rate is below 10 per cent.

Cassidy said the nursery, presently being expanded with federal and private funds, attempts to provide total, first class care for the infant and fights the fatalistic attitude that sick babies always die.

He describes the nursery as a "Baby Hospital," and said means had been developed to feed underdeveloped babies in the same manner they are fed in the mothers womb, intravenously, for periods of several weeks. A special babysize respirator also has been developed.

Ongoing Nutritional Studies
In addition, he said, the department is studying the nutrition of babies, educating the nurses and others in the pediatric field and monitoring, constantly, the condition of high risk mothers to detect future problems.

"If problems are found... Cassidy said, "the physician and necessary equipment are standing by when the baby is born. Instant action at birth can save hours of critical work later."

Admittance Is Said Not Enough

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has released a directive which states that merely admitting minority students is not sufficient to qualify a school for tax-exempt status. The directive, aimed at private schools, requires a school to show that its admission policy "has been made known to all racial segments of the community served by the school."

Smoking Ban Is Soon Violated

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Senate decided by a 33-28 vote Monday to ban smoking in its chamber, effective immediately.

The rule was broken 19 minutes after it was adopted. Sen. Jerome Blatz lit up a cigarette and raised a conspicuous cloud over his front-row desk.

Painting Huge 'Welcome Home'

MASCOUTAH, Ill. (AP) — Work has started on a greeting card with "Welcome Home POWs" written in 15-foot-tall letters.

The dozen civic organizations that began painting the sign on a baseball field Monday night hope it will be read by released prisoners of war flying into Scott Air Force Base near here later this week.

The field is under the flight pattern which planes bringing POWs to the base will use.

Retiring In Poland Has Lower Costs

By HOWARD A. TYNER
WARSAW (UPI) — They came from the factories of Detroit and Chicago, the coal mines of Pennsylvania and West Virginia and the shops on New York's East Side.

They have in common a Polish heritage and U.S. citizenship—and the fact they came to Poland to retire.

Nearly 5,000 of these Polish-Americans now are living in this country and because of favorable conditions created by the Warsaw government, their numbers are swelling.

"I get half a dozen letters a month from stateside friends who want me to help line up an apartment for them here," says Casimir "Casey" Nowacki, a sprightly 69-year-old ex-New Yorker who moved to Warsaw four years ago.

Many left Poland as children, were raised in heavily Polish neighborhoods in the United States, still speak Polish better than English and through friends and relations, maintained close ties with the old country.

But what brought them back in old age was primarily one thing—money.

"Now I can do things I always wanted but couldn't afford," explained Eric Tomczak, a retired Life magazine photographer and president of Warsaw's Polish-American club. "My dollar goes a long way here."

That's where the Polish government comes in. Poland badly needs dollars and it required that all social security and pension checks sent from the United States be converted into local currency.

Sweetened With Zloties
To sweeten the deal, however, authorities pay 66 Polish zloties for each dollar instead of the official rate of 22, which can transform a modest U.S. pension into a bonanza in a country where the average salary is 2,500 zloties ($120) a month.

"My wife and I each get a social security check for about $150," said Nowacki, who was working in a Wall Street investment house when he retired. "After some deductions, that works out to 16,000 zloties each month."

Nowacki and his wife live in a comfortable three-room apartment in downtown Warsaw. He paid $4,310 for the place and since then has spent several thousand zloties installing an all-electric kitchen, custom made cupboards, a stereo and carpeting in the bathroom.

"If I were living in New York I'd have to spend $100 a month just on rent," he said. "That's one third of our income—and what would I get for $100 in New York these days?"

Living costs are low here, too. Food is cheap and so is clothing. Health services are socialized, which is important to older folks. An opera ticket costs 50 zloties (about $2), a streetcar ride one zloty (4 cents).

Another attractive factor is the lack of crime in Poland, where as many murders were committed in the whole country in 1971 as in New York City alone in six months.

"A person can have peace of mind here," said Stanley Miller, 65, retired director of public works from Hamtramck, Mich. "It's not an armed camp where 90 per cent of the people walk around afraid."

Polish Steamship Vacations
Few report problems in living here. Most speak Polish and fit into the community. They also can get dollars from friends in the United States if they want to go to the West.

Likewise there is never a question of losing one's citizenship or U.S. passport. "I can leave whenever I want to pack up and go," said Nowacki, who—like many of the Polish-Americans here—spends winter vacations aboard Polish steamships.

But affinities to the United States run deep. The Polish-American club has more than 100 active members and fellow "returnees" are close.

"Hell, America is still the greatest place in my book," Miller said. "But how could I pass up the chance to live here?"

WHY EAT?
NEW YORK (UPI) — Few think about the nutritive values of food. Many eat to satisfy a hunger and for the enjoyment of it. What is eaten is determined to some extent by the availability of foods, price and appeal.

The 'Worry Clinic' Years Ahead In Counselor Role

Gordon was in a clergymen's convention that I addressed 15 years ago. Notice his praise for the progressiveness of newspaper editors. They "jumped the gun" on Medical Schools as well as Theological Seminaries by an actual 25 years!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE W-526: Gordon T., aged 37, is a Church of God clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "American editors are often better diagnosticians than physicians, don't you think?" "For they pioneered your practical column on everyday problems in psychology and psychiatry."

And when Dr. Masters of St. Louis, accuses both the AMA and our theological schools of ignoring sexual counseling until 1960, I beg to differ with him. "For I heard you at our Church of God convention in Chicago some 15 years ago."

"You not only spoke for an hour at the official meeting. But then adjourned to a private ballroom where you gave us clergymen a chart talk on how to inform newlyweds on the many vital aspects of boudoir behavior that would prevent divorce."

"And your daily 'Worry Clinic' has explained far more things (and in a dignified scientific manner) than does the sex book recently released by Dr. Masters."

"So I salute the editors that had the vision to release your daily column as insurance against divorce and teen-age sexual delinquency."

Sex Clinics
Many theological seminaries have invited me to address their graduate students on Marriage Counseling.

And dozens of our largest churches have scheduled me for their all-day clinics on Marriage Problems.

Sometimes the local newspapers and YMCA have sponsored public lectures on this same vital matter of Family Relations, including the dilemmas of both the nursery, as well as the boudoir.

Back in 1936, I conducted a daily network radio program, entitled "The Worry Clinic" (from which this newspaper title evolved).

It was first released on the Mutual Broadcasting System; then later became part of a one-hour show on CBS, sponsored by General Mills.

And it maintained a dignified, moral and educational level. General Mills thus included a popular program called "Hymns of All Churches" as well as Betty Crocker's splendid culinary advice to accompany my "Worry Clinic" marital and child rearing advice.

Experienced editors doubtless consider it amusing to hear Johnny-come-lately advocates of Marriage Counseling try to claim priority in thus releasing medical and psychological counsel to prevent divorce.

Many editors, however, have cancelled this column because stodgy wives put pressure on them to do so, arguing that "Dr. Crane is too frank."

A gray haired Wisconsin publisher thus dropped this column because of my simple statement:

Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 NT
Pass 3 NT Pass Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠. A slight slip by South, the declarer at three no trump, provided his opponents with an opportunity which they capitalized upon with rare delicacy and finesse.

West opened the nine of clubs, the deuce was played from dummy and East won the trick with the king. There appeared to be no further pickings for the defense in clubs, so East—in an attempt to make a play for his partner—shifted to the eight of hearts. South put in the ten and West was in with the king. It was apparent from the spots played that East had led the top of nothing so, in order to continue the assault on declarer's heart holding and still maintain communications with his partner, West returned the seven of hearts. South won the trick with the jack and led the ten of spades. East played the ace and returned his last heart thru declarer's queen-four. West retained the ace-nine behind South and he scored two more tricks for the defense to register a well earned upset on the deal. Altho the opposition had functioned with flawless timing against him, South had only himself to blame for losing the hand. Taking the club finesse at trick one was a purely mechanical gesture on his part which served only to set up the defense.

Observe that when dummy is spread, declarer has five top tricks—four diamonds and one club. As soon as the ace of spades is disclosed, he will have four more to bring the total to nine. He should, therefore, waste no time in trying for overtricks, inasmuch as the club finesse is not essential to his success.

By playing the ace of clubs at the outset, he retains a second stopper in the suit but—what is more to the point—he assures himself of establishing the game fulfilling trick before his opponents have a chance to coordinate their attack.

After East gets in with the ace of spades, if he shifts to a heart, the defense can do no better than cash out two hearts and one club after which, South has the rest of the tricks.

$17,716 In ECU Grants

A total of $17,716 was granted to East Carolina University during January from federal and state government agencies and the Du Pont Foundation.

The largest grant was an award of $6,251 to the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions from the Albemarle Human Resources Development System.

An award of $5,475 was given to the Graduate School by the National Science Foundation as an institutional grant for the sciences at ECU.

Awards of $2,500 were given to the School of Medicine by the N. C. Heart Association and the Department of Chemistry by the Du Pont Foundation.

North Carolina United Community Services awarded $990 to the Department of Psychology for a research project on the effects of amphetamine drugs on the brain's amnesic syndrome.

BREAK THE ICE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next time a spat's in progress at your house, break the ice by saying: "If you don't stop that, I'm going to run down to the cellar and jump out the window."

You'll get a laugh—if the cellar window is at ground level.

"REEFER MADNESS"

Made in 1936

"Most divorces start in the bedrooms."

Nothing lewd or vulgar or off color had been mentioned in my discussion that day of a middle-aged couple who had broken up their home, after their children were reared and gone.

I had deplored this sad situation that too often occurs. And had tacked on, without any elaboration whatsoever, that final remark:

"Most divorces start in the bedroom."

In this 'Worry Clinic' I have faithfully mixed religion and a high moral treatment of marital problems, even using such euphemisms as "boudoir calories" to avoid employing more specific sex terminology.

Punishments To Fit The Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — The growing national concern for the environment is reflected in law enforcement officers taking a stricter approach to motorists who litter, reports Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national environmental organization.

Many communities are imposing "cleanup" penalties on convicted litterers rather than fines, says KAB. The person convicted may be sentenced to spend three days cleaning up litter along the highway where he was arrested.

BIG, BIG BIRDHOUSE

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — The Louisiana Memorial to Peace is the world's largest birdhouse, says the Louisiana Tourist Commission. The 120-foot tower, dedicated to Americans who served in the Vietnam conflict, is home for 5,280 purple martins.
