Hanoi Releases 20 Prisoners; One Is Rushing To Father

By LEONARD PRATT
Associated Press Writer
CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Another American prisoner of war flew home today to be with his ailing father, while 19 others released with him Sunday in Hanoi made preparations for a speedy departure.

Officials said they expected the rest to leave for the United States by Wednesday morning at the latest.

Another Navy lieutenant, Robert E. Wideman, 29, of Bay Village, Ohio, stayed behind so that Bailey could leave.

Bailey's four-engine jet transport was due in Memphis, Tenn., at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday, a spokesman said. He is to finish medical processing at the U.S. Navy Hospital there.

Operation Homecoming spokesmen said that all 20 men released Sunday were in good condition.

"Their health is so good that in some cases we have had to assign two escorts per returnee," a spokesman said. "The returnees were going through their processing faster than one escort could keep up with."

Most of them completed telephone calls to their families. But like the first 142 men who arrived at Clark a week ago, those released Sunday got little sleep during their first night in freedom.

"One man was up all night, one only got one hour's sleep," a spokesman said.

"They were talking all night, elated," he said.

Informed sources at Clark said the POWs, when told by the North Vietnamese Saturday of their impending release, thought it was a trick and said they would not leave the prison. "Their understanding was the release would come in four equal groups as stated in the protocols," the source said.

But North Vietnam advanced the release date for the 20 as an expression of appreciation for U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger's recent visit.

Not until Sunday morning, when a member of the International Commission for Control and Supervision convinced them it was not a hoax, did they agree to board the buses for Gia Lam airport, the source said.

Ceasefire Unsatisfactory To Vietnam Peacekeepers

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The chairman of the international peacekeeping group for Vietnam declared today the cease-fire is unsatisfactory. He blamed the warring Vietnamese sides for failing to abide by the Paris agreement.

Canadian Ambassador Michel Gauvin, chairman of the International Commission of Control and Supervision, said the peacekeeping organization will begin deploying its teams to subregional sites across Vietnam Wednesday and will complete the move by the Feb. 26 deadline stipulated in the peace agreement signed Jan. 27.

Gauvin said in a statement released at a news conference that "the failure of the parties to the agreement to effect a cease-fire" as well as the delay of the four-party Joint Military Commission in becoming fully operative "has presented the ICCS with serious problems in meeting its obligations."

"In spite of the unsatisfactory conditions which exist as a result of the parties to the Paris agreement having failed up to now to abide by the agreement, the ICCS, in the spirit of cooperation and unanimity which has characterized its activities up to now, and in the performance of its duties, and obligations under the protocol covering the ICCS, has decided to proceed to the deployment of its teams at the subregional level, to the points of entry and to the demilitarized zone."

Gauvin said mobile commission teams have already witnessed cease-fire violators but were in no position to investigate "because of the continued fighting."

The Saigon command reported another 194 Communist cease-fire violations in the past 24 hours.

The peacekeeping commission is made up of representatives of Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia. The four-party Joint Military Commission, whose job is to support the international peacekeeping group and help police the cease-fire, is made up of delegations from the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Farmville People Give $6,200 As New Rescue Building Opens

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville area people donated some $6,200 Saturday to the Farmville Rescue Squad, which dedicated its new building the same day.

The large one-day fund-raising was done mostly by a radiothon put on by WFAG radio here, but a barbecue dinner sale and coins dropped in canisters in stores helped.

The money, along with some $6,000 raised previously, will be applied to the cost of the building—$20,000. Rescue Squad Captain J. L. Baker emphasized that the building is worth much more. He explained that local contractors Farrior and Sons let the Squad have the building cost. Also several of their workers donated their time to erect the steel framework and the roof. Buster Nanney, an electrician, did all the wiring free of charge, and J. B. Allen and Buck Cox both local men, finished the interior woodwork. Squad members did odd jobs to assist the construction workers.

The building, which was opened to the public after it was dedicated Saturday by Mayor Will Joyner and Congressman Walter B. Jones, contains a meeting room, a kitchen, a storage room for first aid supplies, an office, two restrooms, and a spacious garage.

Capt. Baker said, for the present, the second-line rescue truck will be kept at the Rescue Squad building, while the first-line one is kept at the home of one of the two men who are on duty at any given time. A boat and trailer with floodlights will also be kept at the building.

The Squad, composed of 21 members, has two meetings a month, one a practice session and one to discuss business. Besides Capt. Baker, the officers are Lieutenants Bill Oakes, Fred Stancil, and Ronald Smith; Secretary-Treasurer Raymond Webb, Training Officer Carl Massey, Member-at-Large Gene Allen, and Chaplain Bobby Skinner.

The squad answers about 300-350 calls a year throughout the Farmville area, Capt. Baker said.

Support Medical School

Members of the North Carolina Bankers Association from 16 Northeastern counties, attending their Group I meeting here Saturday, passed a resolution supporting a four-year medical school at East Carolina University.

About 500 persons attended the session at which N.C. Attorney General Robert Morgan — chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees — was the principal speaker.

The resolution approved by the bankers said, in part, "...the need for additional medical manpower in North Carolina is so acute...the need for more medical manpower and more health services is greater in Eastern North Carolina than any other area of our state, and...all other attempts to provide such service and manpower have failed..."

The resolution concluded, "...that Group I of the North Carolina Bankers Association places itself on record as being in complete support of the expansion of the present program in medical education at East Carolina University to a complete degree-granting School of Medicine."

Tokyo Leaders Get Briefing By Kissinger

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger briefed Japan's leaders today on his visits to Hanoi and Peking and heard them express hope the reconstruction of Vietnam can begin soon.

men little more than that the talks revolved around a wide spectrum of subjects, including Vietnam reconstruction, the international monetary situation and China's relations with the United States and Japan.

Kissinger confided to the Japanese the gist of his talks with Mao, but Ohira said he had been asked not to disclose it. Nixon's director of communications, Herbert Klein, indicated an announcement will be made on Kissinger's return to the United States.

On Vietnam reconstruction, in which the Japanese are eager to participate, nothing was said about definite future plans, Ohira said.

Arriving from the Chinese mainland, where on Saturday he had an unexpected two-hour meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung, President Nixon's national security adviser went directly into a one-hour and 40-minute conference with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira.

Afterward, Ohira told news-

'About 50' Die In Plane Crash

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A Soviet airliner, trailing smoke and flames, crashed on landing at Prague airport today and unofficial reports placed the death toll at "about 50."

There was a low overcast, but no rain. Immediately after the crash, the airport was closed.

First unofficial reports said as many as 300 persons might have been killed in the crash.

Airport sources said the Aeroflot TU154, a three-jet craft on a regularly scheduled flight from Moscow, carried 84 persons and 15-30 of them survived.

The entire crew, except for one stewardess, was among the survivors, sources said.

Without giving details, the official Czechoslovak news agency CTK confirmed the plane crashed "during a landing maneuver" and "some of the crew and passengers survived." The crash was the second air disaster to strike Soviet aviation in the last four months. Last Oct. 13, 176 persons died when a Soviet airliner crashed near Moscow in the worst recorded civil air disaster to date.

An Austrian Airlines employe at Prague's Ruzyně Airport said persons who had witnessed today's crash told her the plane caught fire as it was approaching touchdown at about 10:15 a.m. No explosion was heard.

"The plane hit the ground with one wing and then crashed, disintegrating," she said.

Now But 14,180 Men In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the withdrawal of 1,564 more American troops from Vietnam, reducing the total U. S. force to 14,180 men, the lowest in a decade.

A total of 9,320 American servicemen from Vietnam have now been reassigned to other bases in Southeast Asia or elsewhere in the world or sent back to the United States since the cease-fire Jan. 28.

The rest are to be out of the country by March 28.

AWARD RECIPIENT
RALEIGH (AP) — President William C. Friday of the University of North Carolina System received the "Distinguished Educator Award" from St. Augustine's College Saturday night.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was greeted by a handshake from AFL-CIO President George Meany today as he arrived at a hotel to discuss wage controls, rising prices and foreign trade with the nation's most powerful group of labor leaders.

Nixon traveled the few miles from his Key Biscayne home to the AFL-CIO's headquarters on Miami Beach by helicopter.

Some 50 people, including Meany, were waiting when Nixon arrived at the hotel ramp. With the President, was his newly appointed Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan, a former New York trades union president.

"Obviously, they will be talking about trade and the recent international monetary steps the President has taken," said White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler after Nixon entered a closed meeting with Meany and Brennan.

Nixon, Brennan and Meany spent a few moments alone in the conference room before the full meeting with the 35 AFL-CIO executive council members began.

Shadowy Rackets Boss Frank Costello Is Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — For millions of Americans, Frank Costello was the shadowy underworld kingpin with the raspy voice and fidgeting hands who testified in 1951 that he was a reformed bootlegger and gambler.

The government lost a number of cases against Costello, but his refusal to describe his monetary worth to the Senate committee got him an 18-month sentence in 1952. And in 1958 he began serving 3½ years of a five year sentence for income tax evasion.

Costello opted for obscurity in the latter years of his life, becoming a benefactor of charities and a daily fixture at the men's bar of the Waldorf-Astoria and the steam room at the Biltmore Hotel.

Costello's hands betrayed his nervousness, but his televised testimony before Sen. Estes Kefauver's crime-investigating committee contributed little to the knowledge about the "prime minister of the underworld."

The racketeer who survived a gangland assassination attempt and won a 14-year battle against deportation died Sunday in Doctors Hospital at 82. He had suffered a heart attack 11 days earlier.

He was reported to have amassed a fortune in prohibition bootlegging, slot machines and real estate.

Born Francesco Castiglia, he came to the United States from Naples at the age of four and grew up in East Harlem and Greenwich Village. From card games and punchboards, he parlayed his operations into slot machines, gambling joints and legitimate investments.

Body Is Stolen

LA ROCHE SUR YON, France (AP) — The body of Marshal Philippe Petain, the French World War I military hero who collaborated with the Nazis in World War II, was stolen from its grave on the Ile d'Yeu Sunday night, official sources said today.

Jean Tarraud, keeper of the cemetery on the island in the Bay of Biscay, said unknown persons had forced the 1,760-pound concrete top off the tomb during the night.

Official sources at the local administrative headquarters here confirmed the body had been removed.

Controversy has been going on concerning Petain's tomb since he died here in prison in 1951. He had been condemned to death in 1945 for treason because of his cooperation with the German army, but the sentence was commuted by Gen. Charles de Gaulle and he died at the age of 95.

Main Gripe: Scarcity Of Blacks In High Places

By WILLIAM W. DOSTER
Associated Press Writer
Black leaders in North Carolina say their main gripe with the newly elected Republican administration headed by Gov. Jim Holshouser is the scarcity of "black faces in high places."

Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee said, "Holshouser has taken some courageous steps in appointing two blacks to his administration (Dr. Larnie Horton, director of minority affairs; Dr. Renee Westcott, commissioner of social services.) This is more than has been done in the past, but I don't feel it's unique. I would have preferred to see a black in a cabinet level post as secretary of a department."

Reginald Lee Frazier of New Bern a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor last year, said he wanted Holshouser "to bring more blacks into meaningful positions where the day-to-day decisions are made. When people look at government, they should see all the people." Most of the blacks contacted said they are "disappointed" in the change from the Democratic to Republican administration, but they can see a silver lining in the cloud. "It looks as though we now have the semblance of two-party politics in North Carolina," said three-term state Rep. Henry Frye of Greensboro.

Former gubernatorial candidate Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte said this situation may be advantageous to blacks. "The greatest potential for black leverage now exists with a Republican governor and a Democratic legislature. They both need us. Holshouser has to make sure black appointments because Republicans won't have Nixon to run with next election."

But Owusu Sadaukai, formerly Howard Fuller, of the Malcolm Liberation University in Greensboro cautioned against judging the administration by its appointees. "The appointment of a black person to a governmental position doesn't mean there will automatically be a change in the lives of all black people. If you put all your apples in the appointment of blacks, things are going to fall short of expectations."

None of the leaders, all but one a registered Democrat, foresaw any wholesale desertion of blacks from the Democratic to Republican party, but, said Frazier, "you'll find as many black opportunists as you will white."

Lee said he is "pleased" to see blacks joining and becoming active in the N.C. Republican party. "Blacks have become almost locked into the Democratic party. We traditionally view it as more progressive than the Republican party, but it hasn't always delivered."

Hawkins said he supported Holshouser in the November election despite his Democratic registration (Continued On Page 8)

Curriculum Study Will Be Presented

The curriculum study to be presented by Central Office staff members will highlight the meeting of the Greenville City School Board tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium of Eastern Elementary School.

A large number of other agenda items are also on tap for the meeting to include, under personnel — retirement policy consideration, resignation and election of teachers; under budget — monthly budget report, a progress report on budget planning for 1973-74, school fee collection report, and audit contract approval; under school facilities — track paving and fencing progress report, report from Athletics - Study Committee; school site status, architectural services decision on the new middle-junior high school, and disposal of surplus property.

Additional agenda items to be considered are policy on use of lighted candles in school programs; school calendar adjustment to make up for lost days, guidelines for pupil assignment, change in residence during the year; a report from the School Board Attorney's conference; a report from the Citizens Advisory Committee; a call for non-agenda public expressions; and miscellaneous items.

Miss Brenda Currin Weds Gentry Earl Elks Jr.

BETHEL.— In a double ring ceremony at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, Miss Brenda Kay Currin became the bride of Gentry Earl Elks Jr. The Rev. Robert McKee officiated at the ceremony at the Bethel United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Currin of Bethel. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gentry Earl Elks, of Washington.

Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt was organist and Miss Debra Manning was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk sateen over peau de soie. The bodice was fashioned with a high round neck bordered with a standup collar of scallop peau d'ange lace and the Juliette sleeves enhanced with insert of wide lace ended in deep cuffs overlaid with lace. Bands of scallop lace centered with buttons highlighted the bodice and circled the lifted waist. The semi-control skirt with soft back fullness was adorned with double inner frames and border of wide scallop lace.

An open crown held her double mantilla of French silk illusion bordered with wide scallop lace which extended into a full cathedral length. She carried a lace covered Bible centered with a white cattleya orchid showered with white stephanotis.

Mrs. Janice Smith, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Whichard of Bethel, Miss Christa Price of Robersonville, and Miss Gaynell Baker of Greenville. They wore formal gowns of blue polyester crepe. The empiere waisted dresses were circled with tiny pearls on silver trim. They carried cascades of miniature pink carnations.

Miss Christy Smith, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a gown of blue polyester crepe which featured white trim and velvet ribbon. She carried a small basket filled with pink and white miniature carnations.

Gentry E. Elks Sr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Craig Smith, brother-in-law of the bride, of Greenville, Gene Godley of Washington, and Billy Elks of Washington.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride graduated from North Pitt High School and attended Atlantic Christian College. The bridegroom graduated from Washington High School and attended East Carolina University.

The bride is employed at Coastal Chemical Corp. Greenville, and the bride groom is employed at Flander Filters of Washington.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the church. The refreshment table was decorated with pink and white snapdragons and green magnolia leaves.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. David Bryant of Bethel, aunt and uncle of the bride. The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. W. C. Moore. Punch was poured by Mrs. Cobby Deans.

Presiding at the guest register were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stancille, aunt and uncle of the bride. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. James A. Manning of Bethel.

The couple was entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Bethel Squire on Saturday. Hosts and Hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Roy James, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. House, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dewar, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. James, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keel.

Following the rehearsal, the wedding party, out-of-town guests and friends of the couple were entertained at an after-rehearsal party given by the bridegroom's parents. It was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Ear-Piercer Refuses If Children Show Their Unwillingness

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those "ear-piercers" at a department store, so naturally I was interested in the letter from the shopper who was appalled by the screams of a terrified child whose mother held her down while her ears were being pierced. I, too, am firmly opposed to piercing the ears of a frightened, unwilling child.

My only screamer was a two-year-old whose father told me that if I didn't pierce his daughter's ears, HE would do it himself with a pair of pliers! Visualizing the possibility of infection and a ragged, uneven job, I foolishly pierced the child's ears, and her screams could be heard all over the store.

Since then, I always tell the child it will "pinch" a little, and unless the child herself submits willingly, I refuse to do it.

I also tell the mother that if there is any fuss after the first ear is pierced, the child will go home with one earring in her ear, and the other one in Mommy's hand. This is usually enough to discourage the most enthusiastic mothers.

MRS. E. W. B. DEAR MRS. B.: I received many letters protesting the practice of piercing little girls' ears, but a Maryland physician wrote: "What's all this fuss about piercing a little girl's ear lobe? It's nothing compared to the barbaric practice of routinely circumcising little boys. The claim that it is necessary for hygienic reasons is absurd. I was a victim of this ancient, savage rite and I resent it to this day. If my parents were alive, I would sue them!" Well, doctor, they're lucky they're no longer here. It might KILL them.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a cigar smoker from way back, and for years I have been trying to find a source for a quality cigar, but so far I've been unsuccessful. I am looking for one that would sell for 50 cents to $2. The cigar George Burns smokes on TV appears to be the kind for which I am looking. You are my last hope. How can I find out what brand it is, and where to get it? D. W. H.

DEAR D. W. H.: Let's let George do it. Confidential to George: Please write to me [care of L. A. Times] and tell me what George Burns smokes. And who's your pusher?

DEAR ABBY: I met a fellow who wants to marry me, but one thing turns me off: He has neglected his teeth something awful. How can I get him to a dentist without hurting his feelings? TURNED OFF

DEAR TURNED: Don't pussyfoot. Say: "Darling, I love you, but before we see a preacher, you MUST see a dentist!" And keep after him until he does. [P. S. Don't worry about his feelings. His health is more important.]

DEAR ABBY: Maybe this is kind of childish, but I still like to be surprised on Christmas morning.

I've been married for three years, and every year my husband and I have the same argument. He asks me what I want for Christmas, and I always say, "Surprise me!" Then he says he would rather get me something he is sure I want, and we have this same hassle all over again.

I do a lot of "hinting" during the year, but he never seems to catch on. If you tell me I'm wrong, I'll come right out and tell him what I want, but if you say he's wrong, I'll pin your answer to his nose next year.

LIKES SURPRISES

DEAR LIKES: How's your husband's batting average? If you are pleased with his gifts, continue to let him surprise you. But if his taste is from hunger, either throw broader hints, or tell him what you want.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Woman Not 'Hung Up'

By JOY KRAUSE Milwaukee Journal Writer MADISON, Wis. (AP) —

"When a woman marries, she doesn't have to become a 'Mrs. Him,'" said a happily married Madison woman who legally resumed use of her maiden name.

Stephanie Twin was Mrs. Richard Smuckler for three years before she appealed to Dane County Circuit Judge Norris Maloney to restore her original name. She had the full support of her husband.

She now uses the title "Ms." because she feels that women should not be labeled by their marital status. "Ms." denotes only that the bearer is female. "If people have to use a title, that's it," she said. "But I'm not hung up on titles. I'd rather be called, Stevie."

With assistance from University of Wisconsin law student Linda Roberson and lawyer Alan Koritzinsky, Ms. Twin obtained the legal name change and at the same time learned of two Wisconsin state attorney general rulings of 1902 and 1931 which specify that a person can use any name as long as there is no attempt to defraud.

Judge Maloney ordered the change because he said he had never heard of any law requiring a married woman to take her husband's name.

Richard Smuckler not only agreed with his wife's determination to resume use of her maiden name, but he had encouraged her to make the change a year ago.

"My husband wanted this — he didn't like making me become a little Mrs. Richard Smuckler," she said. "And he's happy to have his name back too."

"On principal, I'm personally opposed to having a 'Mrs.' attached to my name, just as a woman might be opposed to a 'Mr.' being attached to hers," Smuckler said.

"My husband and I have the same goals in life," Ms. Twin said. "We share life together as two human beings — not as homemaker and breadwinner."

The couple agreed that the custom of a woman assuming her husband's name was a remnant of a bygone era when a wife was viewed as part of a man's property.

"Your name is symbolic of your own identity," Smuckler said. "People want their personal identity. It's something that both men and women are going to have to think about. We're happy with the way we're living our life. We're just acting out what we believe in."

Both are American History graduate students at the University of Wisconsin. Smuckler is working on his doctorate and his wife is completing her master's degree.

The university refused to change its policy on the use of married women's names on school records until it was threatened recently with a class action law suit. Ms. Twin said. A married woman student asked the university to change its records from her married name to her maiden name. Her request was initially denied. The change was made after a lawyer said he would file a lawsuit.

Her name change is a legal and social symbol of her values and convictions, Ms. Twin said. For most married women, she said, barriers to resuming use of their maiden names are psychological rather than legal. "It's not the ordinary thing to do, but I'd encourage other women to do it. You are known by your name for 20 years and it means something," she said.

Although she was apprehensive about reaction to her name change Ms. Twin said that many people were sympathetic. "I was kind of afraid to tell people at first. I thought most people would feel I was silly." When she is asked why she switched back to her maiden name, she answers with a question. "Why change your name in the first place?"

Some people try to stereotype her as a woman activist, she said. "I'm in the movement," she said. "I've marched. I'm not masculine or ugly. But, people like stereotypes. If you don't fit the stereotype they write you off," she said.

The couple has decided to hyphenate the last name of their children, Twin-Smuckler. "When they come of age they can choose either or neither," Ms. Twin said.

She is specializing in women's history and will begin work for a doctorate in the subject at Rutgers University. Her husband will complete his doctoral dissertation there.

"Most of history is men's history — politics and wars," Ms. Twin said. "I'm asking, 'Where were the women? What did they think?'"

Her research has not been complicated by a lack of information about historical women, she said. "The material is there. The problem is that no one asks the questions."

The Rev. Smith Gives Program At Tuesday Meet

The Rev. Charles M. Smith presented the program at the meeting of the Arts Department of the Woman's Club held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. E. Roseveare.

Associate minister of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, the Rev. Smith sang several musical comedy selections accompanied by his wife, pianist. He was introduced by Mrs. R. P. Rogers.

It was announced that the Arts Festival will be held March 3 with Mrs. George A. Snyder, in charge of the scholarship division and Mrs. W. A. Pollard, music.

Mrs. George Clapp, chairman, asked that all entries for the festival be carried to the Woman's Club on March 1 by 4:30 p.m. She said that Mrs. W. B. Gray will be in charge of the judges on Saturday morning at 9:30 on March 3.

The District Arts Festival will be held in Farmville on March 10. Mrs. J. C. Lanier reported that she delivered various items to the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center.

Mrs. Clapp welcomed the following guests, Mrs. Eleanor Kinnon, Mrs. A. C. Downs and Mrs. James C. Smith as a new member.

Mrs. Ernest Holt poured tea from the dining room table and was assisted by hostesses, Mrs. Sylvester Green, Mrs. Frank P. Pollard, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Charles F. Blanchard and Mrs. Roy Batchelor.

The next department meeting will be held March 13 at the Woman's Club.

Miss Vickie Tetterton Weds Sunday Afternoon

Miss Vickie Marie Tetterton became the bride of David Lester House in a candlelight ceremony at Parker's Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 3:00 p.m. The Rev. Harley Brown, pastor of the couple, assisted by the Rev. Philip Jones, officiated the double-ring, three candle ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orlander B. Tetterton of Rt. 1, Bethel and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. D.R. House Jr. of Rt. 5, Greenville.

A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Jim Cowart and the Rev. Philip Cooper, who sang "More," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer" as a benediction.

The wedding scene was centered with a fifteen branch semi-circle candelabrum with a bridal palm of jade greenery attached. On either side were large fifteen branch spiral candelabra joined to the semi-circle to create an illusion of one large candelabrum of 45 candles. On either side of the candelabrum were large palms of jade greenery. Arrangements of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and red chrysanthemum pompons in a nine branch brass candelabrum stood on either side of the centered candelabrum. Palms of jade greenery were interspersed throughout the wedding scene. The couple knelt for prayer on a profile kneeling bench which was centered with a cluster of white wedding bells and white satin ribbons.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, wore a Priscilla of Boston original gown of ivory imported silk and rosepoint chantilly lace. The bodice was styled with a colonial neckline and Juliet sleeves of rosepoint chantilly lace closed with traditional bridal buttons. The natural waistline was accented with an ivory satin ribbon encircling the gown. The full skirt of imported silk was designed with three rows of rosepoint chantilly lace appliques centered with seed pearls. The chapel length imported silk detachable train was bordered with re-embroidered rosepoint chantilly lace that flowed from the waistline.

For her headpiece, three tiers of shoulder length ivory silk illusion were attached to a profile of re-embroidered rosepoint chantilly lace appliques. She wore opal earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. The bride's formal cascade bouquet of red roses and white pompons was showered with red streamers tied in love knots.

Miss Ann Edwards of Greenville attended the bride as maid of honor. Mrs. Randy Sutton of Greenville was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Janice House of Durham, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Sheryl Buck and Miss Gwynn Glisson, both of Greenville.

Child attendants were Rhonda Eastwood and Lynn Sutton of Greenville.

The attendants wore identical formal gowns with full skirts of cerise velvet falling from an empire bodice of white crepe accented with tiny cerise buttons and cerise mandarin collar. The long bishop white sleeves had broad cerise velvet cuffs fastened with white covered buttons. Their headpieces were broad double bows of cerise velvet. The attendants wore engraved gold lockets, gifts from the bride.

The honor attendants carried arm bouquets of longstemmed American beauty roses with matching streamers. The bridesmaids' colonial bouquets were of white chrysanthemums and red carnations, accented with red hearts and ribbons. The child attendants carried miniature bouquets like those of the bridesmaids.

Mr. House served his son as best man. Ushers were Kenneth Tetterton and William Tetterton, brothers of the bride, Ralph Wynn and Bennie Harris, cousins of the bridegroom, Randy Sutton and Tommy Landon, all of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tetterton chose a street length dress of Copenhagen blue angel cloth. The long sleeves and neck were pearl-trimmed. She used matching accessories and her flowers were white cymbidium orchids with matching ribbons.

Mrs. House, mother of the Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Sunday

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, Miss Pattie Ann Boyd became the bride of James E. Allen in a double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Boyd of Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Paul J. Allen Jr. of Farmville, and the late Mr. Allen.

The Rev. Paul J. Allen of Scarsdale, N.Y., brother of the bridegroom, performed the service in the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

A program of wedding music was performed by Miss Susan Smith, vocalist, and Randy Buck, organist. Miss Smith sang "Precious and Few," "Colour My World" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with traditional green and white.

Vows were spoken before an altar enhanced with a fifteen branched arched candelabra on each side and nine branch tree candelabra were used. Arrangements of white gladioli, carnations and pompon chrysanthemums completed the scene. The couple knelt before a prie-dieu for prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white satepeau gown styled with a high neckline encircled with Venise lace. Scroll applique beading and Venise lace medallions were featured on the empire bodice and the A-line skirt and on the full bishop sleeves and detachable train.

She wore an elbow length illusion veil attached to a headpiece of white Venise lace petals. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses and orchids.

Miss Charlotte Tripp of Greenville, was maid of honor, Mrs. Faye Linton of Chocowinity, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lora Buck of Greenville, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore formal length cotillion blue crepe dresses designed with an open collar of white crepe edged in white crocheted lace. The cuffs of the long sleeves were also of white crepe edged in lace. The natural waistline was enhanced by a self-tie with long streamers.

They wore white picture hats trimmed in blue satin ribbon with long streamers. The attendants carried colonial nosegays of mixed flowers tied with long streamers.

Miss Wendy Worthington of Greenville, was flower girl. She wore a formal length gown in cotillion blue edged in white Venise lace flowers with a headpiece of blue flowers with long streamers. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

The bridegroom's best man was Billy Woolfolk of Greenville. Ushers were Travis Russ and Ray Moore, both of Greenville. Mrs. Paul Allen, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, presided at the register. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Hilda Smith of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a street length blue knit dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a blue polyester crepe dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsage.

The maternal grandmother of the bride wore a street length navy blue dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride graduated from J.S. Rose High School and is a junior at East Carolina University. The bridegroom graduated from Farmville High School and is presently a member of the Greenville Police Department. After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 8, Greenville. The bride changed into a green, black and white pants suit with matching accessories, for traveling. She wore an orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet.

Reception
Mr. and Mrs. George Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Zeb Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H.T. Savage and the parents of the bride honored the couple at a reception immediately following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth. An arrangement of red and white mixed flowers was used as a centerpiece flanked by candles.

Mrs. Alice Cannon, aunt of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Zeb Smith cut the two tiered wedding cake after the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice.

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Allen III, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Paul Allen Jr., mother of the bridegroom, honored the couple at an after-rehearsal party Saturday night at the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth. Antique brass candelabra and blue mixed flowers were used as a centerpiece.

Guests included members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends.

Winter's The Time For Hearty Soups

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer
There is an old saying that a cook can be judged by his ability to make soup. The adage goes on to state that a soup must be substantial enough to satisfy the inner man, but sufficiently light so as not to detract from the rest of the meal.

This is only partly true, however. For country folk in many parts of the world, soup constitutes the entire meal. It is a rib-sticking dish designed to satisfy someone who has worked in the fields all day.

The owners of a unique restaurant in midtown New York called La Potagerie have built their menu around 14 robust soup recipes that are available three at a time, with the selection changing daily. These are hearty brews that leave little room for anything else, except perhaps a piece of French bread and an apple with a slice of cheese.

The importance of soup as a prelude to a meal or a meal in itself has moved writer and literary agent Nina Froud to bring out a cookbook devoted to soups alone.

Entitled "The World Book of Soups," it takes the reader from country to country describing for him the hearty bouillabaisse of France, the minestrone of Italy, the borscht of the Soviet Union, the delightful fruit soups of Scandinavia and the soups of Malaysia with a coconut milk base.

If you live in the country where winters are cold and raw, there is nothing like a big bowl of soup to start off the meal. One New England family I know keeps a stock pot simmering on the back of the stove during the cold months, as our forefathers did. The pot is replenished each day with vegetables, grated cheese and some noodles or macaroni so that the rich brew that is simmering on Friday bears little resemblance to the soup that was begun on Monday.

Many countries have soup that can stand as a meal in itself. As Nina Froud notes, there is the French pot-au-feu, the Polish Krupnik, Scotch Broth, Florida Seafood Bisque, Caribbean Crab Gumbo and Spanish Cocido to name a few.

One of the all time classics is French onion soup, although some gourmets — the late Michael Field for one — have expressed a preference for leek and potato soup. This same soup, laced with heavy cream, garnished with chives and served cold becomes the famous vichyssoise.

The Scotch have their own version of leek soup which goes by the quaint name of cockaleekie. It consists of an old fowl blanketed in layers of thinly sliced leeks and simmered for hours in water. Barley may be added to make it heartier.

La Potagerie has a delicious soup based on a broth made from a small hen simmered with onion, thyme, bay leaf, peppercorns, parsley and salt. It is known as Saint Gingolph's Savoy Alp Soup, and here is the recipe:

SAVOY ALP SOUP

Broth: 1 small hen, 1 small onion, thyme, bay leaf, whole pepper, salt, sprigs of parsley, about 2 quarts water. Simmer 90 minutes. Should yield 1 1/2 quarts of broth.

1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup sweet butter, 3/4 cup heavy cream, salt and pepper to taste.

Melt butter, mix in flour and cook 3 or 4 minutes, slowly, without allowing mixture to take too much color. Add strained broth and whisk carefully. Bring to a boil and simmer about 10 minutes. Add salt and pepper, if needed. Add cream and bring to a boil again.

To garnish, take one carrot, the white part of one leek, four to five mushrooms and the chicken meat and cut them into strips. Cook carrot and leek with 1/2 cup of broth for 10 minutes. Add this to the soup along with the chicken meat. Keep covered in a double boiler. Serves 6 to 8.

Snorer Goes Home To Her Mother

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (WNS) — Anna Moeller, 40, goes home to mother to sleep at night and leaves husband Arne to take care of their three children in her own house. "Since turning 40, I've developed a loud snoring habit," she explained. "My husband almost lost his job from lack of sleep until I made the move." And mother? "She's a little deaf," reported Mrs. Moeller.

bridegroom, selected a true pink ensemble of silk shantung with a waist coat trimmed with jeweled buttons and matching accessories. Her corsage of white cymbidium orchids was tied with matching ribbons.

Mrs. Margaret Tetterton of Greenville, grandmother of the bride, wore a light blue bonded crepe dress with navy accessories, accented with a corsage of white chrysanthemums and white ribbons.

Mrs. W.A. Lee of Greenville, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a navy waist coat ensemble with matching accessories and a white pompon corsage.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Dewitt Landon of Greenville.

Residing at the registra was Miss Janet Jones. After the exchange of vows and before leaving the church, the bride and bridegroom presented a single red rose from the bride's bouquet to their mothers.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School. Since attending Pitt Technical Institute, she has been employed at East Carolina University. Her husband is also a graduate of North Pitt High School and attended Pitt Technical Institute and is employed by Carolina Sales, Greenville.

The couple will reside at Rt. 5,

Greenville. For a wedding trip, the bride wore a navy and copper plaid pants outfit with a matching blazer. She wore her mother's corsage.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained the wedding party and guest at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table, with the registry, held a traditional burning bridal candle and her portrait.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. James Buck, Mrs. Jimmy Jones, Mrs. Clifton Williams, Mrs. Ernest Jones, Mrs. Curtis Roebuck, Mrs. Gorman Dickerson, and Mrs. Garland Johnston, aunt of the bride. Also assisting were Miss Joyce Jones, Miss Faye Albritton, Miss Terry Briley, Miss Shirley Jones and Miss Sue Johnston, all of Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harris said good-byes.

Mr. and Mrs. House entertained the couple and members of the wedding party at an after-rehearsal party on Friday evening at the fellowship hall of the church.

Mrs. James Buck and Mrs. George Tetterton Sr. gave a bridesmaids luncheon at the home of Mrs. Buck in Greenville. The mothers of the bride and bridegroom were invited guests.

Follow-Up Action Is In Order

Sen. Vernon White of Pitt County raised some pertinent, and no doubt discomforting, points at a joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee hearing last week.

University President William Friday was defending a decision to await more study prior to acting on the ECU medical school matter.

Sen. White recalled that six or seven previous studies on the ECU medical school question had been made. "Now we are studying it again."

"Is this going to be the final study before we get a recommendation from the board of governors or are we going to follow that procedure on down the line through studies eight, nine and ten?" Sen. White asked.

President Friday was quoted by United Press International as replying that the study was "the first that has seriously raised the possibility of another state-supported four-year school."

"The rest have turned it down flat," the president was quoted as saying.

That sure conflicts with our recollections of the studies which have been made of the ECU medical school question. The first study by a group of medical consultants recommended that the School of Allied Health be established as a base for a medical school. This was done at East Carolina University. A second study by a medical accrediting team saw the interim facilities and faculty for a two-year school of medicine at ECU as generally adequate. That recommendation, coming in 1971, said only that the program should not begin that fall; and, as a matter of fact, it was quite explicit as to how the school development should be implemented. Recommendations of this report were carefully followed and, as is well known by now, the ECU one-year program opened in the fall of 1972.

We do not know what course our legislative representatives will follow in the fight to obtain better medical care for the east, but if a bill is approved to implement previous General Assembly action establishing the ECU medical school it would certainly be in order.

The ECU School of Medicine exists today because of the tremendous need which was seen by the legislature, and because those who planned and advanced the school have so carefully followed the advice of the experts in medical education. Should we stop now until somebody can be found to say our medical problems can be solved in some other way?

There has been too much said of "Legislative end runs" in this matter and not enough said about the populace meeting its needs through duly elected representatives. Nearly always, it seems, the people must turn to those they elect if they want their needs met.

N.C. Is Racing Against Time

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina is in a race with time and the bulldozers to acquire and preserve areas of natural beauty for the future.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Unless the 1973 General Assembly acts with boldness and commitment, state parks officials are saying, unborn generations could be the losers. They advocate an ambitious $16 million program for land purchase and park development.

"Our grandchildren may never see some of the scenic heritage we take for granted," said Tom Hampton, Durham businessman and parks committee chairman for the state board of conservation and development. "Once a natural area is spoiled, it can't be restored."

"Now or never is the deadline for acquiring the land we ought to save for the years to come."

A preliminary indication that lawmakers may choose to act now lifted hopes last week for Hampton and state Parks Supt. Tom Ellis. The Senate Conservation and Development Committee unanimously approved the package for expanding the parks system, and sent it on to the appropriations committee.

Prospects Look Favorable
It has friends there, Sen. William W. Staton of Lee, the C&D chairman, also is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which will consider the request. Co-sponsors of the bill include leaders in the Democratic legislative majority.

Gov. Jim Holshouser also has endorsed the goal, assuring bipartisan support from the Republican administration.

Still, Sen. Staton cautioned, the degree of ultimate success will depend upon the show of public support. "We feel that if the appropriation is to be granted, in whole or in part, the people will have to know about it and respond favorably," he said.

Public demand is high and rising for the recreation opportunities offered by state parks, Supt. Ellis confirmed. "The general public is just awakening to the need," he said. Concern for the environment and conservation is a factor in the trend, he added.

North Carolina's population over the past decade increased 8 per cent, while park attendance rose 50 per cent, he noted.

New Parks Needed
New parks are needed to give convenient access to all citizens, he said, and to relieve the wear and tear from overuse on present facilities.

The system presently includes some 18 areas with a combined total of approximately 50,000 acres of land and water. Of that, state funds purchased only about 4,000 acres and the rest came from private gifts, local sources, and federal grants.

The proposal before the legislature would make available about $11½ million for acquiring nine new parks and rounding out boundaries at existing parks. The other $4 million or so would go for park development.

The projected new parks and approximate acreage contemplated for initial acquisition are:

Black Lake, Bladen County, 600 acres; Crowders Mountain, Gaston, 1,000 acres; Dismal Swamp, Camden, 800 acres; Eno River, Orange, 300 acres; Goose Creek, Beaufort, 1,200 acres; Merchants Millpond, Gates, 1,400 acres; Medoc Mountain, Halifax, 3,000 acres; Sandhills (Deep River), Moore-Chatham, 1,000 acres; South Mountains, Cleveland-Rutherford, 5,000 acres.

Ways To Catch Up
North Carolina has lagged other states in acquiring unspoiled acreage for park use and in custody for the future, Hampton said. He saw what has been accomplished elsewhere on a tour of 11 states.

"In quality, I wouldn't swap anything we have. In quantity, we have a long ways to go," he observed.

While past legislatures have recognized the need, they have been slow to respond with the purse strings. From the initial purchase of Mount Mitchell in 1915 until a 1969 appropriation for Raven Rock State Park, not one dime in state money was spent to buy park land.

At the 1971 session, park officials asked for $18 million to move towards the goal set out by a study commission created by the 1967 legislature. Only one million was provided.

The study recommended that the state invest some $40 million by 1980 to bring park facilities to an acceptable level. That included some $29 million for land purchase, and $10½ million for development.

Though a late start, the $16 million package would put the state on the road to meeting that objective, Hampton and Ellis said.

State parks are not a luxury, but an investment yielding real economic benefits, Hampton argued. "When industry prospects for a site, the first three things they ask about are education, labor force, and recreation," he explained.

Liberals Fear Supercop's Bid

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
NEW YORK — Law-and-order Rep. Mario Biaggi's accelerating campaign for mayor of New York has now begun to panic the liberal establishment because of meetings such as one held in the Bronx Congressman's cramped midtown Manhattan office the other day.

A Biaggi aide, wearing a Jewish prayer cap, ushered in an orthodox rabbi from Flatbush. The rabbi mournfully explained that "they" were planning a new school near his synagogue with black students bused in to attend it. That, said the rabbi, would break up the Jewish community. But when he left the Congressman, he was smiling, telling everyone that Biaggi understood the problem and would have heavy, heavy support from his congregation.

Such incidents have erased the certainty of the liberals, reported by us six weeks ago, that the humanitarian tradition of the city's Jewish voters would reject ex-police lieutenant Biaggi. Biaggi is making so much headway among lower middle-class Jewish voters that he has become the early favorite for the May Democratic primary.

"It's really terrifying," one highly placed New York Democrat told us. "I mean Biaggi could actually win." His terror stems not only from Biaggi's ideological positions (pro-police and anti-busing) but also Biaggi's threat to forces politically dominant in this city for generations.

Biaggi, a much-decorated, 23-year police veteran who entered politics in 1968, is the much-feared Enemy No. 1 to the various establishments who share power here: reformers, Democratic machines, city hall, civil rights and peace activists.

His basic support comes from lower-income white ethnics, mostly Italians and Irish alienated from the eight-year liberal administration of Mayor John V. Lindsay. One wide-eyed liberal politician who recently watched Biaggi address a rally of such ethnics told us: "It was like Eleanor Roosevelt in a synagogue." The genuine enthusiasm at a $10-a-head fund-raiser (3,500 attending) in the New York Coliseum Feb. 9 impressed professional politicians.

But opposition from white ethnics was not enough in 1969 to stop the reelection of Lindsay, who ended with grudging Jewish support. This time, however, the overriding issue of street crime poisons a campaign by Lindsay or any other liberal.

Indeed, Biaggi's principal opponent (now ahead slightly in the polls) is not one of the half-dozen liberal hopefuls but an old-line Democratic regular: city controller Abraham D. Beame, who is promising not safe streets but unaccustomed frugality at city hall. Whether that is

Strength For Today

HAIL, SENIOR CITIZEN
The senior citizen is coming to occupy today a place of real importance in life. There have been ages when he was tolerated — and grudgingly so. There have been ages when loving hands did the best they could for him. But today he has become a person in his own right. He can hide his feeble condition by a skillful use of the cane. Now he serves on boards, in many instances as the chairman of the board. In one instance a certain senior citizen was affectionately referred to as "The Old Man." His business was the sale of aluminum foil, and it was his proud boast that every year the aluminum foil he sold was equal to the area of North America.

Age did not tarnish his career. He worked to the last with the respect of his associates and with the quiet realization that he had made a success of his life and had the respect of all who knew him.

The retirement system is good if people use it in the proper fashion. This does not mean travel for everybody, but it does mean travel for some. It means visiting, jolly get-togethers with old cronies, having children and grandchildren drop in to see the oldsters for a few days or a few weeks.

The day is past — or at least passing — when old people are a nuisance. They are as much a part of the family now as the teenage kid or grandkid.

Hail, Senior-Citizen! You're wonderful.

The New SST Is Born

WASHINGTON — The fate of the Anglo-French Concorde SST appears very grim. Most airlines, with the exception of BOAC and Air France, have dropped their options on the supersonic plane, and this could strain relations between the French and British who have poured billions of dollars into the project.

A summit meeting between the two countries was held in London last week to discuss the problem.

Pierre LaFrance, speaking for the French, said, "Messieurs, we are in serious trouble. No one will buy the Concorde."

Sir Reginald Bottomly, spokesman for the British, said, "Well, let's all have a cup of tea."

"Zut alors," said LaFrance, "this is no time to drink tea. The situation is desperate. I propose we have a glass of cognac."

"Tea," said Bottomly.

"Cognac," said LaFrance.

One of the British delegates said, "Gentlemen, let us get on with the meeting. I think we should look on the brighter side of things. After all, BOAC and Air France have ordered the Concorde."

"That is correct," said another French delegate.

"And now it will take only three minutes for an Air France plane to fly from Paris to London."

"Now wait a minute," Bottomly said. "I might remind you that it will take only three minutes for a BOAC plane to fly from London to Paris. If we're going to prove that this plane is profitable we should have only one airline fly the London-Paris and Paris-London routes."

"Exactement," said LaFrance. "Therefore, it should be Air France."

"BOAC," said Bottomly. "Air France is noted for its food. We can serve a better dinner."

"In three minutes?" Bottomly asked.

"Gentlemen," said one of the British delegates, "I don't believe getting from London to Paris in three minutes will impress the other airlines. We must do something more dramatic. It seems to me that the main issues, besides the unprofitable load factor are the noise as well as the breaking of the sound barrier. These are ecological problems that must be overcome before we can sell the Concorde. If we solve these, we will sell your plane to every airline in the world."

"That is brilliant!" LaFrance said. "We need English partners to tell us this?"

"Wait. I did not raise the issues without a solution" the British delegate said. "What I suggest we do is make a much larger airplane, twice the size of the Concorde."

"It's impossible," LaFrance said. "You cannot have a supersonic plane twice as large as the Concorde."

"You can," said Bottomly, "if you cut down the speed of the plane to 600 miles per hour."

"But that is not supersonic" a French delegate protested.

"Quite," said Bottomly. "Therefore there won't be any complaints about the

March Of The Years

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — To all the people in the world who will be 62 years old this month, greetings!

Congratulations, fellow survivors. How are you doing? To all the people in the world who will be born this month, greetings, too! Welcome to the universe, kiddies. Let's see what you can do to it.

At 62, another birthday doesn't have the ring of doom that it does at 40 to a man and at 30 to a woman. One has become accustomed to the passage of time, accepts it, and in a way is even a bit proud of reaching another niche in it.

HAL BOYLE

After all, the whole human race considered, there are still probably more people who don't reach 62 than do. That makes you more durable than a majority of the people who have ever drawn breath and known the agony and loveliness of earth.

What does it feel like to be 62? Well, there is still plenty to do at 62 but, in this man's case at least, there is also something of an inclination to let the other fellow start doing more of it.

At 62, do you feel dramatically different? Does something especially bad happen to you? Do you hate life because you cannot escape the realization that there is a smaller store of it left than you have already used up? Does zest vanish? No, indeed!

Well, then, at 62 does something remarkably good happen to you? Do you suddenly see all the errors of your ways, and reform and become saint? No, indeedly, indeedly!

The truth is that on your 62nd birthday you wake up pretty much the same fellow you put to bed just a few hours before. If you're the grateful kind, however, you may say a small prayer of thanksgiving in your heart and that you have reached another milestone of living. Then you scotch yourself, paw the clabber out of your eyes, and get up and face the world as usual.

I've noticed one thing: people who get mad at life and the world in their early 60s often don't live long enough for Uncle Sam to hand them their pension meal ticket.

I've noticed another thing: people who develop a philosophical attitude toward life are more likely to last a long, long time. They drain the last drop of goodness that lies in the cup, and overlook the slight taste of dregs it has. The tremendous pageantry of the seasons remains to them a mighty catharsis of the soul.

So, for those of us reaching 62 this month — or any month — let bells ring, trees bud, birds sing, flowers bloom, and people smile because we've reached this mile!

(Editor's note: Boyle won't be 62 until Wednesday, so don't expect a column from him that day. By then he'll probably be deep in mourning.)

Consumer Protection Rerouted

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The struggle over consumer safeguards is starting the second four years under President Nixon with a gallery of fresh faces in the administration and a hoppel of battered bills in Congress.

Nixon's consumer adviser remains, but now is responsible to one of the President's superCabinet officials. Her staff's budget money has been rerouted.

A former White House staff assistant is the new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, which has innovatively and persistently attacked misleading advertising and concentrated industries. Two more appointments to the five-member commission are due this year.

Nixon is to appoint a new product Safety Commission.

The Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration is due to move up and make room for a new boss.

What does all of this mean for consumer protection?

"There's nothing left," said Ralph Nader in an interview. "There was lip service, but now there's only a grimace."

Nader pointed to the fate of Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer adviser, as evidence.

Mrs. Knauer, however, contends she can be even more effective now, probably adding to her staff after it transfers to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Knauer will report to HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who will coordinate consumer affairs as part of his function as counselor for domestic affairs.

Weinberger came to Washington as Nixon's choice to whip the FTC into shape after a critical report from the American Bar Association.

Weinberger was succeeded by Miles W. Kirkpatrick, who continued his predecessor's programs and launched new ones. The advertising industry, in particular, howled and gained public support from some White House staffers who felt the agency had gone too far.

Kirkpatrick has been replaced by Lewis A. Engman, a speechwriter and legislative aide to Mrs. Knauer before going to the White House.

The administration's consumer legislation, which should clarify in which direction the White House is moving on consumer affairs, has yet to be compiled, according to Mrs. Knauer. Nader, however, said, the major consumer issues will be unavoidable. Energy rates will be the major one to be wrestled with administratively. In Congress, Nader sees the major struggles repeating those of the last two sessions: Creation of an independent consumer-protection agency; a law enabling consumers to file suits as a group, or as class actions, and a law giving the Federal Trade Commission power to file suit against abuses it discovers.

Congress again will consider bills to establish a federal system of no-fault auto insurance. When the administration initially opposed federal no-fault, it said the principle of paying auto-accident claims without regard to who was at fault was a desirable way to cut down on court delays and insurance premiums. But it wanted to see if the states would act.

Young Millionaire Says Money Is His Measure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I would rather play the game of money than do anything else. I've tasted blood and I want more, but I am not a man living a life of quiet desperation," says 34-year-old millionaire Peter Traynor.

In four years he has put together a $20 million business that invests money for physicians. The company, Leverage Funding Systems, showed a $200,000 profit the first year and a $2 million profit last part-time landscape business by his junior year.

He came to California 10 years ago and started selling insurance. His first year total was $3 million, second year $8.5 million and third year $12 million.

"I came to California to be successful," he recalled in an interview. "I observed successful men and emulated their style, their techniques, their disciplines. Everything I do is geared to success, every step I take is calculated to take me closer to where I want to go."

Traynor quit his insurance job, built his investment business and is now branching out into the movie business. Hoping to attract the thrill show fans, he has filmed "Steel Arena," about a daredevil stunt driver.

Traynor, who is married and has four children, rises each working day at 6:30 a.m., slips into a sweat suit, drives his $20,000 Mercedes from Beverly Hills to UCLA and jogs seven miles.

Where does the money game end?

"By the time you reach the goal you set out to reach, there's another one ahead of you," Traynor says. "So the game goes on."

ESC Office Here Adds Two Employees

The Employment Security Commission has recently hired two new employees to work in the Greenville office.

Dorothy Jean Brown of Kelford was one of the two new members hired. A graduate of Elizabeth City State University in 1969, she then taught special education classes on the fifth grade level in the Northampton County Schools for three years. Miss Brown later taught social studies on the junior level with the Yonkers, N. Y., board of education until December, 1972.

Miss Brown works with the ESC office as an employment aide. She has been assigned primarily in unemployment insurance claims. Her position was made possible by funds from the Work Incentive Program.

Judy K. Long, the other new member of the local office, graduated from Campbell College in 1969, where she majoring in sociology.

She began working with the ESC in July, 1969, in the Jacksonville office. She was transferred to the Greenville office in November where she now works as a placement interviewer in the Employer Relations Department.

Miss Long plans to begin work on her masters degree at East Carolina University in March.

potent enough to hold the Jewish vote is increasingly doubtful. "Beame's a bookkeeper," said Biaggi. "I can hire my own bookkeeper."

Although Beame has Brooklyn regular Democratic leader Meade Esposito and may end up with Bronx leader Pat Cunningham, the party machines are shows of their former selves and notoriously unsuccessful in recent Democratic primaries. Beame's closest advisers know they cannot rely on the regulars; they only hope Jewish voters prefer the Jewish bookkeeper to the Italian supercop.

Lacking confidence in their choice, entrenched Democratic powers are grasping at straws. There was briefly talk—never grounded in reality—about liberal Republican Sen. Jacob Javits becoming the fusion candidate for mayor. Republican Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who really wants only to block a third team for his arch-enemy Lindsay, is eagerly eyed as a sponsor of somebody—maybe Beame—to stop Biaggi. Dark horses, all to Biaggi's left, are trotted out daily.

In despair, liberals continue to drop ugly hints about blots in Biaggi's police record but without offering proof. Experienced politicians believe their never-proven charges will actually solidify Biaggi's constituency without multiplying his enemies.

Moreover, Biaggi is no right-wing ideologue innately offensive to New York's working class. He knows the tough talk by that other cop-turned-politician, Mayor Frank Rizzo of Philadelphia, would boomerang in New York. He votes with the left in Congress on the Vietnam war, the supersonic transport (SST) and child day-care centers (infuriating the state Conservative party, which endorsed him for Congress).

But the primordial issue in the great cities is street crime, and on this Biaggi has mass support against the establishment. Whereas dominant liberals privately bemoan police commissioner Patrick Murphy's decision permitting riot guns in patrol cars, Biaggi publicly berates Murphy for losing the patrolmen's confidence. Taking that line, Biaggi may well add Jewish voters to his white ethnic base in sufficient numbers to topple the old establishment and thereby stun the nation.

Begin Purge Of 'Elite' In Soviet

By ROGER LEDDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Millions of comrades are being investigated to determine their fitness to carry the little red card that labels them among the elite—members of the Soviet Communist party.

It's the first party purge in 19 years.

Every one of the nation's 14,455,321 card holders is subject to the purge. It will take two years to complete, and no one knows how many will be expelled from the party.

A tame version of Mao Tse-tung's Cultural Revolution, the "card exchange" was devised by party chieftain Leonid Brezhnev two years ago to "cleanse" the party of "passive and indifferent" comrades.

Special investigative committees have been set up at every level of society—from the small state farm to government ministries—to study members' "everyday behavior, and ideological, political and professional standards."

Behind the ideological rhetoric is a determined Kremlin effort to boost the stagnant economy, revitalize party ranks, crush growing corruption and strengthen the party's influence in Soviet society.

Members have had to turn in their cards for renewal. Only those whose records meet the required standards will get them back with the stamp of approval as the "finest, worthiest representatives of the Soviet people."

Party members control virtually every aspect of political, military and economic life in this country.

Numbering only 6 per cent of the population, they yield at least 95 per cent of the power.

The main targets of the purge are those who have contributed to the failure of many of the party's national economic plans.

A few party officials are immune. They include Brezhnev, his 14 colleagues on the Politburo, the military leadership and scientific elite.

The purge, which began last fall, is the sixth in Soviet history. The worst was one of Stalin's in the 1930s, when nearly a million party members were shot. But Brezhnev has assured the people that "under current conditions, the party can keep its ranks pure without resorting to such measures."

Trend Toward A Large Mattress

SHELTON, Conn. (UPI) — If you're waking up cranky these days, it could be because you've been sleeping like a baby.

Full-size mattresses for double beds provide each of the two occupants no more sleeping width than a crib mattress, according to William P. Daley, of B. F. Goodrich General Products Co. As a result, three of the wider "queen-size" mattresses are being sold for every four of the conventional units, he said, adding that there is a trend also toward latex foam as a mattress core.

Okapi Is Among More Colorful

CHICAGO (UPI) — One of the world's "newest" animals is among the most colorful.

The okapi, which inhabits the Semliki forest of the Congo, was unknown to science until 1900, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, although the animals range to more than five feet tall at the shoulder.

The okapi has a plum colored body. The upper parts of the legs are irregularly striped black and white. The sides of the face are reddish. The shanks are white with black fetlock rings.

"And a piano in the tourist lounge."

The British delegation unrolled a large blueprint. "By slowing down the plane to 600 miles per hour and doubling the passenger capacity, your fuel costs can be cut in half."

The French delegation studied the plans. LaFrance said, "I think we have solved our problem. We shall give orders to build a prototype immediately. What shall we call the plane?"

Bottomly said, "We need something that will fire up the public's imagination. Our people suggest we call it the Concorde 747½."

LaFrance jumped with joy. "We have made aviation history!"

Growing Response To University College Program

By SANDY PENFIELD
East Carolina University

A young woman sits in a classroom with a bottle of aspirin on her desk. People around her tap their feet. Some shift nervously in their seats while two or three drum their fingers on their desks.

This is the scene in a public speaking class that meets Thursday evening in Rawl Building on the East Carolina University campus. The class is one of approximately 20 involved in the adult education program titled the University College (UC).

The UC is part of the ECU Division of Continuing Education. The general college curriculum is offered to adults, typified by the public speaking class. These people, busy in the work-a-day world, are thus unable to take part in the day program of East Carolina University. The program began in 1964 as the Undergraduate Evening College but was retitled as University College in 1971 when the credit status was changed from extension to resident. The program is directed by Dr. L. Douglas Strickland.

Strickland explained that the courses offered through the University College are comparable to the freshman and sophomore program. They include English composition, math, biology, speech, health, American literature, sociology, psychology and others totaling 28.

Strickland explained that because of a lack of qualified teachers, junior and senior level courses are not offered. However, an upper-level program is being worked out for the future.

The public speaking class typifies the many different types of people of all ages enrolled in the University College. They range from 18 to almost 60 years of age, with the average age being 29.

Most UC students are commuters with the average distance about 17 miles. However, 34 percent of the students travel from 20-39 miles and nine percent travel over 40 miles to attend classes.

People filing through the door on second floor Rawl on Tuesday night include young businessmen, housewives and a few young people not enrolled in the day program.

One mechanic attends sometimes in his working "uniform."

Their reasons for enrolling are also quite varied. For some it is a step toward a college diploma. For others, taking a course in the University College is a way of self-improvement.

"The self-interest motive is clearly demonstrated by the fact that adults already holding the baccalaureate degree enroll in the program," said Dr. Strickland.

Because of their extreme self-motivation and interest, UC students' grades are high. A study by Dr. Strickland and members of the Continuing Education staff showed that the grade point average rose from a low "C" for the fall term of 1971 to a low "B" for the spring term. Strickland feels that this indicates that UC students "are able to perform adequately in regular University classes, at least on a part-time basis."

Teachers in the UC are also unique. As do the students, the teachers also lead other lives. Some are housewives, stock brokers and doctors.

Stuart Aronson, teacher of public speaking, has been a professional actor and singer. He, like the other teachers, has worked with educational programs similar to UC. "I like to keep the class informal," he said. "It's important for them to feel at ease."

In the regular day program at ECU, students of the University College are sometimes permitted to take junior and senior courses not available to them at night. Students arrange their schedules with the Division of Continuing Education. Then it is up to them to go through the regular university procedure of picking up cards for courses. UC students can enroll in the day program if there is room, thus broadening their course selection.

To be admitted into UC an applicant must have a high school diploma. If an applicant is transferring from another institution, he must have a "C" average. Former ECU students must be eligible to return.

Response to the UC has been increasing ever since the program began. Enrollment figures have jumped from 514 in 1969-70 to nearly 900 for this academic year. Strickland anticipates continued growth as more courses are being offered.

The UC is a remarkable and rewarding program, rewarding for students and essential to the goals of the Division of Continuing Education. Dr. Strickland sums it up this way: "Students recognize the inherent value of learning the functions of the educational process, and demand quality instruction. It is a pleasure for the division to work with these self-motivated adults."

Introduction Of Bills Is Continuing At Fast Pace

By SAM D. BUNDY

Bills are continuing to be introduced at a fast clip and, as of this date, 450 pieces of legislation have found their way to the hopper of the House of Representatives. Many of them are local in nature while a larger number of statewide bills are being introduced. Perhaps the bill of a statewide nature of the interest discussed this week was House Bill 95. This piece of legislation, if passed, would authorize the expenditure of Powell Bill Funds by municipalities for mass transit systems. It is designed for the larger cities and, in my opinion, is a dangerous bill. It would permit such cities to spend their portion of the Powell Bill Funds on mass transit. The danger is that they would then come back at a future date for the General Assembly to bail them out on their streets and thus make further inroads on the gasoline tax funds to the extent that less money would be available for roads or call for an increase in the gasoline tax or both. Since I do not favor either of these items nor any such foolishness until we get some good roads in the East, I shall vote against this legislation.

Another main item of interest this week was the conclusion of the hearing by the Joint Appropriations Committee on the requests of the state agencies for supplementary funds over and above those approved by the Advisory Budget Committee. Would you believe it if I told you that these supplementary requests amounted to $700,000,000. Well, they did. The Appropriations Committee has now divided into five subcommittees to study these requests for the next month and report their recommendations to the full committee. It is needless for me to say that all of those requests will not and cannot be granted because the requests are over twice the amount of the projected credit balance or surplus. A lot of cutting will be done.

Well, it now appears that annual sessions will be in order on a trial basis. Both the House and Senate have approved the adoption of an annual budget for 1973-74. This means we will have to return in 1974. The date May 10 has been set for possible adjournment to return next January. Personally, I doubt that we will make the deadline of May 10, and my guess is June 1st. At any rate, it now looks like we will slide into annual sessions on an experimental basis.

On Wednesday night Vernon and Louise White, along with Bettie and myself, attended the banquet meeting of the North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation and had the good fortune to sit at the same table to eat and talk with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Whitley of Farmville, Mrs. Ruel Dilda, Gordon Owens and Lloyd Gay of Fountain and Noel Lee of Pactolus. On Thursday night we attended a reception given by the North Carolina National Bank and conversed with Curtis Hendrix and later the same evening we were at a banquet sponsored by the North Carolina Savings and Loan League and were greeted by Herb Lee.

Charge Man Pulled Gun

Kenneth Ray Johnson, 22, of 118 Center St., Williamston, was charged last night by Greenville police with carrying a concealed weapon, assault by pointing a gun and assault on a police officer with a gun following an incident at a local night spot.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Johnson allegedly pulled a .25 caliber automatic pistol on two Greenville police officers along Cotanche Street as they approached the subject while investigating an incident a short time earlier at the Buccaneer Club at 103 East Fourth St.

According to the chief, employees of the Buccaneer Club reported that a man pulled a gun on employees there after he was refused admittance to the club.

Johnson was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, assaulting the officers and assaulting a Buccaneer employee.

The incidents, investigators reported, occurred between 10:15 and 11:15 p.m.

Will Speak At Revival

REV. CLAUDE HURLEY

Revival services will begin tonight and continue through Sunday night, Feb. 25, at the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church, Rt. 3, Greenville.

The guest minister for these services will be the Rev. Claude E. Hurley, of Florence, S.C. Rev. Hurley is a well-known evangelist and has preached in this area and over the state in the past. He is a graduate of Holmes Theological Seminary, Greenville, S.C.

Special singing by the church choir and other groups will be featured each night. The nursery will be open each night under the supervision of competent personnel for the convenience of those with small children.

Psychologist To Be Speaker

Dr. Larry Means of the East Carolina University Department of Psychology will address the meeting of the ECU Society of Sigma Xi Wednesday, Feb. 21.

His topic, "Amnesic Syndrome and Brain Structure," concerns a current research project for which he has received supporting funds from North Carolina United Community Services.

The meeting will be held in the Biology Auditorium.

All members are urged to bring guests, and all interested persons may attend.

Air-Minded Boy Is Full Of Plane Facts; Builds Career In Aviation

By WILLIAM TOW

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Loaded down with three radios, an airport map and pages from the domestic international airline guides, 15-year-old David Lake is a walking information booth at Kennedy International Airport.

He can be found almost any afternoon at the International Arrivals building, answering questions from persons waiting for flights to arrive, telling them where the planes are in the holding pattern, the type of aircraft and similar facts.

Aviation is David's hobby and he makes the most of the closeness of his home to the sprawling Kennedy complex. He hopes someday to be an Air Traffic Controller there.

Lake has been coming to JFK daily since September. A freshman at Aviation High School, he first became interested in aviation at age 11, "when I received a pair of binoculars for a birthday present."

"We were living in Canarsie, on the approach to runways 13 Right and Left at Kennedy," he said. "At first, I watched people and cars, but then the colors of planes and the different types interested me, and from then on I really began to develop a deep interest in aviation," he said.

At age 12, he received a radio with aircraft frequencies from his mother and he was sent to a boarding school in Kearney, N.J., which at first he didn't like.

"I noticed we were on the approach to Runway 29 at Newark as well as the flight pattern for Teterboro," he said. "In 1971 and 1972, things were different, I was able to get the school interested in aviation and we set up the Observers Club of Aircraft," he said. His grades also became better.

Lake feels his interest in aviation has "helped me as a person. Most people my age don't know what they're doing. It keeps me from hanging around the streets and gives me something to do. If not, I'd probably be in trouble."

At home, he practices air traffic control with his cousins, giving them landing and take-off instructions, and then will add a little excitement by creating a mechanical or other problem with the plane or planes his cousins are "flying."

Lake has been in the tower at LaGuardia Airport and has a friend in Capt. Frank Quinn of United Airlines, who flies out of that airport and has shown him the interior of several jets.

At school, he is forming the FAT CAMS, an acronym for Future Air Traffic Controllers of August Martin.

Martin was a black pilot who flew for Seaboard World Airlines and died when he landed on an unlighted highway in Biafra while delivering supplies during the war in that African nation.

Push Claim As A 'Lost Tribe'

By THOMAS ACKERMAN

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Twenty thousand descendants of an ancient East African hill people have won a quarter-century battle to make Israel's religious establishment recognize them as a long-lost branch of Judaism.

According to those who have championed their cause, the Falashas of Ethiopia, home of the Queen of Sheba, may well be one of the 10 lost tribes of Israel.

Even Israel's two chief rabbis have lent their support. Demanding a minimum of religious instruction for the Falashas. The rabbis have converted almost half of the 250 Falashas living in Israel, and plan to do the same for dozens more.

Visitors recently returned from Ethiopia say the Falashas' rich Hebrew vocabulary, Jewish-like prayer rituals and decorative Stars of David can derive from only one source, the Holy Land.

Since the Falashas first became known to the outside world about a century ago, dozens of curious Jews have set out in quest of their fabled land. Jewish mystics passed on tales of forbidden cities in the land below the Nile.

Some said the Falashas inhabited the true site of the Garden of Eden at the source of the River Sambatian, said to cast its stones into the air all week long and to stop flowing each Sabbath.

"I did find a river that kicked up a few pebbles," said Heizi Ovadiah, a soon-to-retire army sergeant major who last visited the Lake Tana region north of Addis Ababa a year ago.

"When I told an audience of Hassidic (ultra-orthodox) Jews in Jerusalem about it, 'they listened as though I were talking about the coming of the Messiah.'"

Ovadiah is an olive-skinned native of Eritrea whose father was the chief rabbi in Ethiopia before the family came to Palestine in the 1930s. He has led the fight for the Falashas' right to their Jewishness.

His foot-long handlebar mustache bristling, Ovadiah said the African tribe is the target of systematic persecution and missionary activity that will make it extinct within the next generation, unless...

"They have only one hope," he said, "and that is to come to Israel."

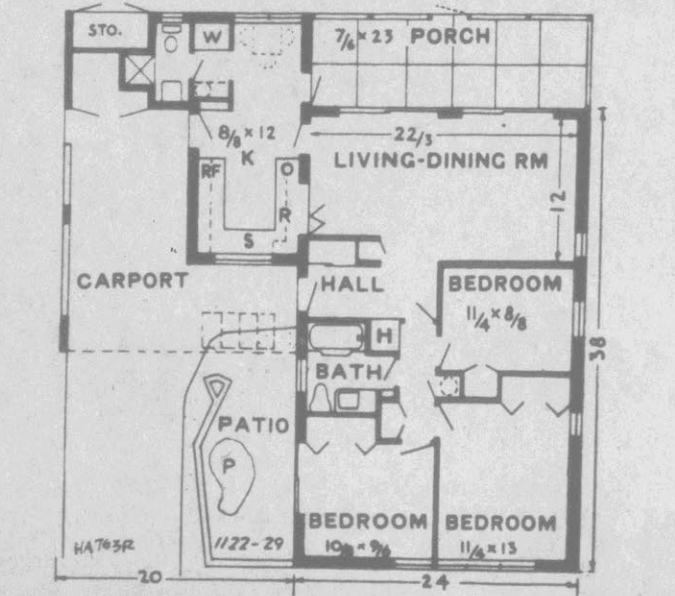

Ovadiah said the Ethiopian government refuses to allow the Falashas to leave the country, part of its policy toward those who can provide manpower for its army.

Since 1949, a small but steady stream of Africans have reached the shores of Israel by various clandestine means. But because the rabbinate refused to recognize them as Jews at first, few obtained citizenship.

According to Ovadiah, some went back to Ethiopia permanently embittered by Zionism.

The religious establishment had based its opposition to their being Jewish on the fact that the Falashas knew nothing of Judaism's vast body of ritual law, the Talmud, compiled during the past 1,900 years as an appendix to the Old Testament.

Majority Of Women Dislike Use Of The Term 'Ms.'

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N.J., Feb. 18 — The term "Ms." as an alternative to "Miss" or "Mrs." has a long way to go to win acceptance with American women.

In the latest survey, disapproval of the use of "Ms." outweighs approval by a 5-to-3 ratio among women who have heard or read about the term.

However, the title has considerably more acceptance with certain segments of the female population — for example, the college educated and younger women.

Only 6 Per Cent Of Married Women Want To Be Called 'Ms.'
When it comes to applying the term to themselves, only 6 per cent of married women say they like the idea. On the other hand, the percentage is three times as high among single women, 19 per cent.

But Popularity Could Grow With Increasing Awareness
While relatively few women at this point in time appear to be willing to use the term "Ms." for themselves, its popularity could grow as more women become aware of the term. At present, a third of all women interviewed (32 percent) have not heard or read about "Ms." as an alternative form of address to "Miss" or "Mrs."

Only 2 Per Cent Of Men Want Wives Called 'Ms.'
Rather surprisingly, men express somewhat less disapproval of the use of the term than do women. However, only 2 per cent of married men would like to have their wives addressed as "Ms."

Advocates of the term "Ms." — many of them in the women's liberation movement — favor adoption of "Ms." as a standard form of address by women who want to be recognized as individuals, rather than being identified by their relationship to a man. They argue that, if "Mr." is enough to indicate "male," then "Ms." should be enough to indicate "female."

Furthermore, they express objection to the fact that women are forced to disclose marital status on occasions when men are not — for example, when registering to vote, or when getting a passport or other legal documents.

The term "Ms." gained additional status recently when the newest edition of the Government Printing Office's style book said that it is acceptable for government publications to use the term "Ms."

Opinions Run Gamut From Outrage To Boredom

The range of reactions to the issue reported on today run the gamut from outrage to boredom. Here are some typical verbatim comments:

From a 46-year-old mother of four: "I don't know why women today insist on a camouflaged identity. I'm proud to call myself 'Mrs.'"

A 30-year-old secretary: "I like the idea. I'm married and have two children, but I don't see why my title in life has to be listed as 'Mrs.' Men don't have to indicate whether or not they are married. It's just another case of how it's a man's world."

Good Prospects For Engineering

NEW YORK (UPI) — Regarding specific occupations during the next 10 years, the prospects for engineering graduates are good, including even aerospace engineers in the long run, according to Herbert Bienstock, regional director of the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Political science and sociology Ph.D. holders also can look forward to good prospects, but those with master's degrees in the same field face more limited opportunities during this decade. Bienstock cautions students considering careers in elementary and secondary school teaching to "think twice." The job opportunities are limited relative to the number of persons seeking them.

CALORIES COUNTER

ST. PAUL Minn. (AP)—Market researchers for Burlington Northern, the nation's largest grain hauler, figure the 8.5 million tons of wheat carried by the railroad last year would make almost 18.7 billion loaves of bread, or more than 20 trillion calories worth.

"Why not a change? Besides I think the term sounds sexy." A 36-year-old housewife: "As far as I can see, only an insecure person would use such a term."

More Women Than Men Familiar With Term
The following question was asked to measure awareness of the term "Ms." The results show that a considerably higher percentage of women than men have heard or read about it: "Have you heard or read about the term 'Ms.' pronounced 'miz' as an alternative form of address to 'Miss' or 'Mrs.'?"

All persons answering in the affirmative were then asked:

Mayor Proclaims Engineer's Week

The week of Feb. 18-24 has been designated as Engineers' Week in Greenville by Mayor S. Eugene West.

The mayor, in proclaiming the local observance as part of the overall National Engineers' Week, pointed out that "the nation looks to engineers for application of science, skill, training and experience in meeting serious national problems..."

He asserted, "We are indebted to professional engineers for technology, prosperity, high health and living standards in providing for human needs." "We said that 'we owe much to members of the engineering profession who have pioneered, developed and brought to fruition, many of the benefits in our economic, industrial, and social well being...'"

Engineers' Week is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers. Robert E. Pittman of Rivers and Associates, Greenville, is president of the Eastern North Carolina Chapter of the Professional Engineers of North Carolina.

The eastern chapter, it was pointed out, is one of several in the state and is made up of 54 professional engineers. The area covered by the chapter includes Farmville, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro, New Bern, Tarboro, Washington, Greenville, Jacksonville, Kinston, Elizabeth City, Roanoke Rapids, Fremont, and Aurora.

Pitt County members of the eastern chapter include nine from Greenville and one from Farmville. Greenville members are Michael P. Bell, Thomas W. Harwell, Charles Holliday, Charles Horne; Roger L. Mann, Robert E. Pittman, Thomas W. Rivers, Thomas M. Shea and John T. Weaver. The Farmville member is Jack J. McDavid.

last election. This may mean that blacks won't get what they deserve, because a politician has to be aware of his constituents."

Alexander, like the rest of the leaders, was hopeful that blacks, who mainly supported Democratic candidates, could turn their defeat into something of a victory. "We both need each other," he said. "The governor needs our support, and blacks have such a long way to go. We have only touched the edge of state government yet."

Mushrooms Contaminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says a recall order has prevented distribution of most of 30,000 cans of mushrooms feared contaminated with botulism toxin.

In statements on Saturday and Sunday, the agency said two lots of canned mushrooms processed in late January by the United Canning Co. of East Palestine, Ohio, had been recalled.

Long

Mr. Johnnie Lee Long of Greenville died Sunday in Hoke County. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Phillips Brothers Mortuary here.

Stroud

AYDEN — Mrs. Annie J. Stroud, 80, widow of O. C. Stroud Sr., died at her home in Ayden Saturday afternoon.

A member of the Ayden United Methodist Church, she was a leader of the MFY for several years. She taught the Beginners' Sunday School Class for about 43 years. She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star Chapter No. 52.

Funeral services were conducted today at 2:30 p.m. at the Ayden United Methodist Church by the Rev. L. T. Wilson and the Rev. I. J. Wall. Burial will be in the Ayden Cemetery.

Surviving her are three sons, O. C. Stroud Jr., Walter L., and William R. Stroud, all of Ayden; three sisters, Mrs. Roxie J. Sasser of Ayden, Mrs. L. G. Hollingsworth and Mrs. J. B. Hopkins both of Greensboro; 12 grandchildren; and six great grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, those who wish may make contributions to the Annie J. Stroud Memorial Fund of the Ayden United Methodist Church.

Charge 2 With Drug Violation

Greenville Police yesterday arrested two men here on drug-law violation charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon reported Alan James Leonard, 20, of Pittman, N. J. was charged with possession of marijuana about 5:43 p.m.

Leonardi, Cannon noted, has been taken into custody originally on a charge of soliciting a ride along East Tenth Street.

Steve Allen Brown, 21, of Rt. 6, Greenville was charged with possession of narcotic drugs and possession of marijuana after police arrested him on a worthless check charge.

Chief Cannon said marijuana cigarettes and 22 tablets containing codine were found in his possession.

Man Dies As House Burns

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP)—An elderly Cherokee County man died early today when a fire swept through his rural home. He was identified as 76-year-old J.M. Frances.

His son, John Frances, said he was watching TV around 1:00 a.m. today when he heard a noise and discovered the house was on fire. The younger Frances said the house was engulfed in flames.

He said he was able to remove his wife and his mother, but could not reach his father because of the intense heat.

Ran Over Mink; Fur Is For Wife

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—State trooper Lee Wilson found a mink Sunday night which had been run over and killed by another car on a road in Mecklenburg County just east of Charlotte.

Wilson said he was unable to determine where the mink came from, whether it was wild or had belonged to someone. The animal's fur coat was in perfect condition, he said.

"I'm going to get the carcass and take it to a furrier to get a pair of gloves made for my wife," Wilson said. "It may be the only time in her life she'll get mink."

Accountant Unit Feels He Is Resurrected

The Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will receive its charter Wednesday night at a dinner meeting at the Candlewick Inn.

Presenting the charter, it was announced, will be the managing director of NAA, John E. Vavasour and the association vice president, Charles T. Smith.

The chapter reported that a social hour will precede the 7 p.m. dinner and persons interested in accounting are invited to attend. Some 80 area accountants have already become charter members.

Tickets for the session are available through Fred Wagner at 756-2171, according to the eastern chapter.

Vavasour joined the national staff of NAA in 1970 in the position of managing director.

The position involves responsibility in several areas of staff operations, including the general management of the national office and staff planning. He holds a B. A. degree from Siena College in Loudonville, N. Y.

Currently, it was announced, there are more than 70,000 members of 258 NAA chapters in 80 countries.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — "I feel that I have spent six years in hell," said Maj. Jay R. Jensen, one of 20 U.S. prisoners of war released Sunday.

"I feel I have been resurrected, and I'm going to start a new life," the 41-year-old Air Force officer from Sandy, Utah, said.

He said the first things he wanted to do were go skiing and take a vacation with his children. "I want to see my family — my mother and father, brother and sisters and my three children."

Jensen, who was a POW six years, said his wife divorced him three years ago.

Air Force Capt. Herbert B. Ringsdorf of Elba, Ala., said the most exciting part of his return was rediscovering commonplace things he had entirely forgotten.

"The smell of perfume," he said with a grin. "And especially the taste of food I hadn't had for six years."

But what really told the 33-year-old bachelor he was home was "seeing the nurses in miniskirts."

World Synod

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has summoned the fourth world synod of Roman Catholic bishops for October, 1974, the Vatican announced today.

The pontiff has assigned the synod to debate the "evangelization of the contemporary world," or the ways and means of updating the Christian religion in order to respond more closely to the expectation and needs of modern man.

The previous synods were held at two-year intervals, in 1967, 1969 and 1971. But during the 1971 synod many bishops complained that they had not had enough time for thorough study and research beforehand of the two momentous subjects then under discussion: priesthood and justice.

The synod acts as a kind of senate, discussing and voting on recommendations to submit to the pontiff. The recommendations are not binding on the Pope, but he put into practice most decisions of the past three synods.

Report Theft At Restaurant

Greenville police today are continuing their investigation into the theft of more than $1,100 from a restaurant on Memorial Drive here early Sunday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon reported $1,138.13 was taken from a cash register at the Three Steers restaurant by robbers who gained entrance to the building through a south-side window.

More than $100 in change was left in the building, Cannon noted. The robbery was reported about 8 a.m. Sunday.

"because I felt there was a need for change in the type of thinking that predominated in the Democratic party. I helped Bob Scott get elected in 1968 and I believe blacks were instrumental in putting him in office. But he completely turned his back on us. We were given only token positions in the last administration. Now is the time to set the record straight and I'm not satisfied with the number of black appointments made so far."

Looking into the future, the leaders say they hope for a fair shake from the Holshouser administration. Dr. Helen Edmunds, distinguished professor of history at North Carolina Central University, said she looks for "a progressive, liberal administration. I've been impressed with his rapport with the rest of the state. I think he will be able to put his programs into practice."

Lee agreed with this forecast, because "as a legislator he pushed for some rather progressive legislation in the area of fair employment practices and voting rights."

Frye said the first thing he wanted the administration to accomplish is "to see that the governor's policies are carried down through all levels of state government. Blacks are still employed in state government at the bottom of the ladder."

Frazier said he believes blacks will get fair treatment from Holshouser, "but they won't get any handouts from his administration. Blacks will get no more from a Republican administration than they demand."

However, Kelly Alexander, president of the N.C. National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, sounded a note of warning. "Holshouser received a large bloc of Wallace votes in the

Bob Dickson Fulfills His Bright Hope

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer SAN DIEGO (AP) — For several years Bob Dickson had been an object of pity, of concern, of puzzled looks and occasional head-shaking.

The bright promise of certain stardom had not been fulfilled. One-third of the time last season he couldn't even get into a tournament.

He'd even thought of quitting the pro golf tour.

It all ended Sunday when Dickson reached in the cup on the 72nd hole to pluck out the ball that made him a winner for the first time since 1968.

"It was, well, it was a kind of animal joy," said the soft-spoken 29-year-old from Tulsa, Okla., a three-stroke winner in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"It's just the way it was meant to be," said Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, who opened the gates for Dickson with a fantastic collapse on the final five holes.

Dickson won it with a par 72 for the final round on the sunny Torrey Pines Golf Course, a 7,047-yard layout stretching along rugged cliffs facing the Pacific Ocean. He finished with a 278 total—10 under par.

Crampton, a 37-year-old who won both Arizona tournaments this year and was threatening to make the tour his personal toy, lost one stroke on each of four consecutive holes down the stretch and could do no better than a fat 76.

That dropped Crampton back into a four-way tie for second at 281. Also at that figure were Phil Rodgers, veteran Billy Casper and Grier Jones. Casper had a 71, Rodgers closed with a 66 and Jones a 75.

Tied at 282 were Tommy Jacobs, Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger and Hale Irwin. Jacobs had the day's best round, a 65. Barber took a 66, Eichelberger 73 and Irwin 72.

British Open champ Lee Trevino really never was in it. He had a final 74 for 291. Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer did not compete.

The victory was particularly sweet for the usually articulate Dickson, who could only murmur: "I'm still semi-numb."

He came on the tour with some of the most impressive amateur credentials ever put together. He swept the amateur championships of America and Britain in 1967 and was the first man to take them both in the same year since the immortal Bobby Jones. He won the Haig Open as a rookie pro and was tagged with a "can't miss" label.

Then it all went wrong. He slumped in 1969. By 1970 he was back among the rabbit ranks as a Monday morning qualifier. His game was shot, his length off the tee was gone. He had troubles with his grip, with his swing.

His fellow pros spoke in locker room whispers of his problems. Dickson never complained. Never once. But he did, at one time, think of giving up the tour. Last year he entered 36 tournaments. In 12 of them he didn't qualify.

This time it all turned around. "For the first time in 4½ years I finally played four rounds of good to better than good golf," he said.

The victory was worth $34,000 to Dickson, more than he has won in any of the three previous seasons. Crampton picked up $11,692.

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It was the 149th victory of his career, his money total since 1958 had increased to $1,399,248 and he had just won his fourth Daytona 500-mile stock car race.

But Richard Petty, king of the Southern tracks, left it to car owner Andy Granatelli to quaff the champagne, kiss the beauty queens and ham it up for press and photo crews.

Petty, at 35 a brawny figure of steel nerves and black hair, a Fu Manchu mustache now crowning his piano-key smile, had done the job for which he had spent two weeks in Daytona Beach preparing.

He had accepted a check for $34,100, had helped provide entertainment for a crowd of 103,000—a record for the sprawling Daytona International Speedway—and had taken the measure of strapping Buddy Baker, his teammate until the two split up last September. "Hard work did the job," the 6-foot-3, 210-pounder said as he wiped grime and grease from his forehead. "Coming from behind like that shows that when you hang in, don't quit and have faith, you can win."

It was hard work. In winning the biggest stock car race in the country for the fourth time, Petty most certainly might have lost the prize he wanted so badly had it not been for the misfortune of Baker, a 225-pounder who almost certainly won in his cockpit.

Baker's Dodge had led 157 of the first 194 laps of the 200-lap race and appeared to have victory in his grasp with 100 miles to go. He had been unbeatable to that point.

But old pro Petty and his veteran crew pulled some of their magic during the middle part of the race, when their Dodge trailed the leaders by 2½ miles, to get back into position to challenge as the chase neared the wire.

With early challenger Cale Yarborough sidelined with a broken engine, Petty and Baker made their final pit stops with about a dozen laps remaining. Petty was in first, took on a quick gulp of fuel and was out in 8.4 seconds. Baker required 10 seconds for the same chore, but he trailed Petty by less than 100 yards when they got back into action.

Baker was cutting the margin rapidly—and Petty knew it—until, with five laps to go, Baker's fire-engine red Dodge suddenly faltered on the long backstretch. A broken engine had put him out of it.

Petty cruised the rest of the way without challenge to complete the 200 laps in 3 hours, 10 minutes, 50 seconds. His speed was 157.205 miles an hour.

It was a hotly contested race from the time the 40 starters were waved off until Baker's exit. There were 20 lead changes among five drivers.

Petty had led only once before he moved in front for good, and his final total was only 16 laps. Yarborough, managing to outwit Baker on several occasions, led for 25.

Bobby Isaac, manning a Ford that had the smallest engine in the field, finished second. Third place went to Dick Brooks in a Dodge, fourth to defending Daytona 500 champion A.J. Foyt in a Chevrolet and fifth to Hershel McGriff, a West Coast veteran.

"Baker really had the stronger car," Petty said, "but there was no way he could break the draft (a tail-gating technique). Had he not broken, I would have had to sling-shot him somewhere down the stretch to get by."

Granatelli was happy. It was his biggest victory as a car owner since Mario Andretti won the Indianapolis 500 in 1969.

"Yee-owee!" Granatelli shouted. "This makes up for the bad years!"

Petty smiled, and will spend the next few days counting his money.

Ten Players Each Make All-Tournament Teams

Four girls teams and two boys teams placed two players each on the Eastern Carolina Tournament All-Tournament team. Ayden-Grifton, C.B. Aycock, North Pitt, and Southern Wayne had two girls from each squad make the ten-player team while A-G and Conley had two each on the boys'.

Tournament Champions, North Pitt, placed Minnie Hollis and Joy James on the team along with runner-up, Ayden-Grifton's Decia Little and Terry Wooten. Hollis led the girls' division in total points scored with 48 points for a three-game average of 16. James dumped in 30. Little and Wooten finished three games with respective totals of 32 and 40.

C.B. Aycock's Phyllis Parnell and Treva Howell made the team along with Jaxie Bryan and Faye Hollowell of Southern Wayne. In the two games the Lady Saints played, Bryan scored 38 points.

Patricia Smith, of Eastern Wayne, and Gloria Pope, of Southern Nash, round out the girls' team.

The tourney's high scorer McCoy Williams was the only Farmville Central Jaguar to make the boys' team. Williams dumped in 36 points despite the rude thrashing by Greene Central in the Jaguars' second game.

Milton Brown and Melvin Stewart, both of Ayden-Grifton gave the Chargers two places on the team and the Champion Vikings of Conley placed Larry Daniels and Kerwin Hawkins on the team of ten players.

Arthur Stafford of Aycock and Ervin Spivey of Greene Central represent those two teams and North Pitt's Billy Perkins and Mike Miller of Northern Nash gave the Panthers and Hawks back a place.

Bobby Body, who had the highest single game output, 28 points made the team for Eastern Wayne.

The tournament was won by Conley as they beat A-G in the final game Saturday night. The Vikings beat the Panthers of North Pitt in the first round and then eliminated the Hawks of North Lenoir in their second game. A-G made it by Aycock in the Chargers' first game and got rid of Greene Central last Friday night setting up the repeat of last year's championship game which the Chargers won. This time Conley took it.

Road Atlanta To Handle Events

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — The Sports Car Club of America has signed contracts with Road Atlanta to conduct the racing club's three professional driving events.

Road Atlanta will handle the 500-kilometer Trans-Am, the Can-Am and the L&M Grand Prix for the next five years in addition to the American Road Race of Champions, a national championship event, through 1977.

Also negotiated was assurance that the Sports Car Club would conduct the World Championship of Manufacturers near Gainesville. The race was formerly held in Sebring, Fla.

The A-G girls had a rougher time of it than did either of the two boys teams. They were able to outlast Greene Central, 39-30, but in the Lady Chargers' second contest, they were almost upset by Southern Wayne. A-G finally took it in double overtime.

North Pitt dumped North Lenoir's girls by the wayside but had a little trouble getting past Aycock, 52-42. The final game was just another game for the Pant-HERS as they won their second crown in as many years.

Swiss Thunder To Bobsled Win

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The West Germans were slated to take it, the Austrians stiffed the competition in the early runs, but Switzerland's Rene Stadler thundered his way to victory in the 1973 four-man World Bobsledding Championships this weekend at the nearby Mt. Van Hoevenberg run.

Stadler, 32, began the first of four heats in the championships Saturday with a mediocre time of one minute, 7.09 seconds. But it was a different story Sunday as the Swiss ace, with Peter Scharer on the brakes, hurdled down the one-mile, 16-curve track with a single-heat record of 1:04.37.

One Question Left: Perfect Season By Wolfpack?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There is only one serious question remaining about the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball season. Can North Carolina State finish out so far perfect?

The second-ranked Wolfpack showed little sign of weakness in crushing Wake Forest, 81-59, Saturday night its 21st victory of the season. The victory assured State of at least a tie for the ACC regular season championship.

Losing coach Carl Tacy said:

"State has everything a good team has to have—size, ball-handling and depth."

Coach Norman Sloan was humble in victory. "They played a fine game in the first half and I don't know what happened in the second half. I suspect their problem may have been depth."

State held only a four-point edge at halftime, 38-34. But the Wolfpack came back and hit 75 per cent of its shots from the floor after intermission. Sophomore David Thompson hit four quickies to open the half as State outscored Wake Forest 18-3 in the first four minutes.

State, which can clinch the regular season crown with a victory over Duke at Durham on Wednesday, is now 9-0 in the conference with three games left to play. One of those remaining games is against sixth ranked North Carolina, runner-up at 6-3 and the only team with a chance to tie for first.

In the weekend's only other intraconference game, 10th-ranked Maryland outscored Clemson 7-1 in the first 23 seconds of the final half and then held on for a 69-66 victory in a regionally-televized game that was marred by fighting.

The ACC's other three teams also were in action, but against teams outside the conference. Duke beat Notre Dame, 86-74, for its fourth straight victory, all at home. Second-ranked North Carolina whipped Florida State, 91-79, in a televised game at New York's Madison Square Garden. And, Virginia whipped Penn State, 85-74, in Charlottesville.

Tonight's only game has Clemson at Virginia in a conference tilt.

The three victories by ACC teams over non-conference teams over the weekend raised the league's record to 65-14 against outsiders this season.

Maryland led Clemson, 37-33, at the half and expanded the lead in the opening minutes of the second half. Clemson cut the lead to 65-62 with less than a minute to play before the Terps' shut off the threat. Tom McMullen scored 24 points and made 13 rebounds while Jim O'Brien added another 18 for Maryland.

Clemson's Rick Hunt, who didn't play in the first half, traded punches with husky Len Elmore of Maryland shortly after the final half began and both were ejected after the fight was stopped.

The Tar Heels' victory over Florida State had some special satisfaction as it was the Seminoles who eliminated North Carolina in the semifinals of last year's NCAA Tournament.

Ed Stahl led the Tar Heels with 26 points, followed by George Karl with 25. The Tar Heels are now 20-4 for the year. Duke's Gary Melchionni scored 19 points against the Irish as the Blue Devils kept their home court momentum going for the game with N.C. State. The victory raised Duke to 12-9.

Freshman Wally Walker put in 16 points and four other Virginia players also scored in double figures as the Cavaliers put down Penn State.

This week's schedule:
Tonight—Clemson at Virginia.
Wednesday—N.C. State at Duke, Maryland at Duquesne, Virginia at Pittsburgh, Miami, Ohio, at North Carolina.
Saturday—North Carolina at Virginia, 130 p.m., regional TV; Duke at Maryland, 3:30 p.m., abbreviated TV network; Clemson at Wake Forest; North Carolina-Charlotte at N.C. State.

Battle For Last Seeded Berths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Southern Conference basketball race goes into the final week of the regular season tonight with East Carolina's defending champion Pirates, The Citadel's Bulldogs and William and Mary's Indians battling for the championship tournament's last two seeded berths.

Davidson's Wildcats have completed their league season at 8-1 for the No. 1 spot and Furman's Paladins, 11-2 with one league game left, have nailed down the second spot.

But the No. 3 and No. 4 berths are wide open among East Carolina, 6-7; The Citadel, 5-6; and William and Mary, 4-5, as a result of two Saturday games in which the Indians whipped the Pirates 80-69 and Furman knocked off the Bulldogs 79-69.

Out of the running for the first division in the tourney opening March 1 in Richmond, Va., are Richmond's Spiders at 4-8, Appalachian State's Mountaineers are 3-7 and Virginia Military's Keydets at 2-8.

The firing for the third and fourth spots begins tonight with

The Citadel playing host to Appalachian and continues Tuesday night with William and Mary visiting VMI. Three other league games later in the week will tell the story.

Two conference teams were felled by small college foes Saturday night, Appalachian dropping an 84-78 decision to Lenoir Rhyne and VMI going down to Old Dominion's Monarchs 72-56.

Tonight's only game aside from the Appalachian-Citadel tangle has Richmond, 6-14 overall, playing host to Virginia Tech's Gobblers, 15-3 and ranked No. 19 nationally.

A pair of freshmen, Mike Arizin and Rod Musselman, were the heroes of William and Mary's regionally televised victory over East Carolina that boosted the Indians—who once were in the league basement—into the fight for the first division.

After the Indians took the lead for good at 23-21 with 4½ minutes left in the first half, Musselman scored nine of their 11 points that built the margin to 38-33.

Arizin, who had just six points in the first half, scored seven in the first four minutes of the second half as the Indians streaked to a 51-36 advantage, then came through with a big three-point play after East Carolina narrowed the gap to 68-65 with 4:10 remaining.

East Carolina Coach Tom Quinn observed that "they went after us the whole game—40 minutes—and we went after them only 15. That 15 minutes made the difference."

"If there was one player I had to point to as doing the job, being most valuable, it would be that little freshman Musselman," said William and Mary Coach Ed Ashnault. Musselman finished with 13 points behind Arizin's game-high 25, 19 in the second half.

Jerome Owens had 17 points and Nicky White 16 for East Carolina, and they were the two players who led the Pirate rally that fell short.

Furman sophomore Clyde Mayes scored 18 of his 29 points in the first half as the Paladins took a 34-30 lead over The Citadel. After the Bulldogs cut the gap to 41-39 early in the second half, Furman ran off nine straight points to put the game away.

Seniors Roy Simpson with 16 points and 15 rebounds and Russ Hunt with 14 points gave aid to Mayes as Furman, shooting 54 per cent from the floor, at one stage built a 19-point lead. The Bulldogs were led by Steve Fishel with 26 points and Chuck Cordell with 17.

After trailing by five points at intermission, VMI went ahead of Old Dominion 38-37 early in the second half, but Joel Copeland—who had 22 points and 10 rebounds—put the Monarchs ahead to stay with a jumper. Oliver Purnell had 13 points for ODU, David Lester 16 for VMI.

Appalachian lost to Lenoir Rhyne at the foul line, the winners converting 22 of 28 chances while the Mountaineers were getting just six tries and hitting four. Buster Mann had 21 points for Lenoir Rhyne, Erwin Hill 23 and Stan Davis 20 for Appalachian.

CIAA Tourney Opens Thursday

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Top-seeded Norfolk State plays St. Augustine's Thursday night in the opening round of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament at Greensboro.

The defending champion Virginians, 15-2 in the league and 17-9 in all games, play a team which has a 5-12 conference mark and a 7-18 overall record at 7 p.m. Later that night Winston-Salem State, tops in the CIAA Southern Division, 14-3 and 19-6, goes against Virginia State, 9-7 and 15-9.

In afternoon games Fayetteville State, 10-7 and 16-10, faces Elizabeth City State, 12-6, 16-10; and Johnson C. Smith, 11-5, 16-8, goes against Virginia Union, 10-6, 14-9.

Semifinals will be Friday night and the consolation and championship games Saturday night.

A change from previous years will have the consolation game played under international rules, at the request of the league's coaches to give players experience in that format.

Benefit Game Set Tuesday

A benefit basketball game is being sponsored by Farmville Junior High School for Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in Farmville.

The Farmville team will be host to the Boys Club of Greenville and Pitt County, with all proceeds from the game to go to the Boys Club and the Farmville Junior High Athletic program.

Admission to the game is 25 cents for elementary and junior high school students and 50 cents for high school students and adults.

The Boys Club of Greenville and Pitt County is currently making efforts to expand its facilities to all townships in the county in order to give county boys an opportunity to have a club of its own.

Finally Wins Via Playoffs

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sandra Palmer says she was beginning to think she could never win a playoff. Then she sank a birdie putt on the first hole of sudden death and won the $35,000 Pompano Beach Ladies Professional Golf Association Classic.

"I was 0-for-2 in playoffs and beginning to think I couldn't win one," Miss Palmer said Sunday after her narrow victory over Betty Burfeindt. Both finished regulation play at one-under 215.

Miss Palmer, of Fort Worth, Tex., won the $5,250 first prize money in near darkness, sinking her three-foot birdie after Miss Burfeindt, of Palm Springs, Calif., rimmed the cup on her try for par with a five-footer.

"That made my putt a lot easier," admitted Miss Palmer, who earlier had said she hoped to avoid a playoff. She was in two last year, losing both.

"You don't know how awful it is to walk down that first hole in a playoff," she said.

Miss Burfeindt, who won $3,900, said she came away from the playoff a smarter player.

"This was my first playoff and I learned something," she said. "You can't get too emotional. You've got to be in the right frame of mind."

Finishing behind the playoff contenders was JoAnee Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., who shot a final-round 73 to earn $2,950.

Mrs. Carner, Jane Blalock of Highland Beach, Fla., and Barbara Romack of Atlantis, Fla., all shared the lead going into the final of the 54-hole tournament on the 6,130-yard Pompano Beach Country Club course.

Miss Palmer nearly put herself out of contention with a bogey 6 on the 18th hole but came back with eight-foot birdies on the next two. Miss Burfeindt forced the playoff with a 10-footer on the final regulation hole.

There will be 36 holes at Pebble Beach. On March 22 the group moves to Al Besselink's Dunes course in Las Vegas. The field will include 20 pro golfers and 60 amateurs.

EARNINGS UP

United Telecommunications Inc. had 1972 earnings from operations of $1.50 per average share, according to Paul H. Henson, president. He said that the figure was up ten per cent from the $1.36 earned in 1971, even though the average number of shares increased five per cent in the year to year comparison. Net earnings per share amounted to $1.49, Henson reported, compared to $1.36 a year ago. Net earnings in 1972 were $50,905,000, up 15 per cent from $44,367,000 in 1971. Consolidated revenues and sales increased 12 per cent to $634,216,000 from $556,259,000 a year earlier.

JOINS BELTONE

Linwood Kilpatrick has joined the staff of Beltone Hearing Aid Center here as a consultant for the Greenville area, according to an announcement by C. Alan Baldwin, authorized Beltone dealer for Beltone Electronics Corp.

Kilpatrick was with the Pitt County Health Department for 19 years and also served with the U.S. Public Health Service for three years. He is a resident of Winterville and is a graduate of East Carolina University.

REGULAR DIVIDEND

The board of directors of Branch Banking and Trust Co., meeting in Wilson, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share payable on March 15 to stockholders of record March 1.

Branch Banking and Trust operates 60 offices in 35 North Carolina cities and towns.

AGENCY MANAGER

William R. Stroud, C.L.U. of Ayden, has been appointed an agency manager for the Equitable Life Assurance Society in the Raleigh area, according to an announcement by John N. Sullivan Jr., Southern Divisional vice president.

Stroud joined Equitable in 1956 as an agent, and was appointed district manager of the Proctor agency in 1965. He previously served as secretary-treasurer for Tyndall-Boyd Stroud Co. Inc. The new manager, who holds the Chartered Life Underwriter's Designation, is a director of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of CLU's.

A graduate of Ayden High School, Stroud also attended Randolph Macon Military Academy and East Carolina University. He is married to the former Joyce Whitehurst of Ayden and they have four children.

W.R. Stroud

Stroud's new office is located on the seventh floor of the 710 Branch Bank Building in Raleigh.

MERGER APPROVED

The U.S. Comptroller of the Currency has approved a merger between North Carolina National Bank and the $33.2 million-deposit Citizens Bank and Trust Co. of Henderson.

The merger is scheduled to take place at the close of business March 9, according to a joint announcement by Marshall Y. Cooper, president of Citizens Bank and Trust, and NCNB president Thomas I. Storrs.

NCNB had total deposits of $2.176 billion at Dec. 31. The bank has 134 offices in 44 North Carolina communities and the merger with Citizens Bank gives NCNB its first offices in Vance County.

PLANT EXPANSION

Fieldcrest Mills Inc. announced plans for a $3.5 million expansion at its semi-worsted spinning plant at Laurel Hill.

William C. Battle, president, said an 89,000 square foot addition will be built onto the present Laurelcrest Yarn Mill which will double the capacity of the present operation. Approximately 100 additional persons will be given employment at the enlarged plant, he said.

Battle said that construction is expected to begin about March 1 and be completed around Sept. 1.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE

Pitt County native Charles E. Worthington, a pharmacist registered in Virginia, has joined Eli Lilly and Co. as a sales representative in Lake Worth, Fla. It was announced by Roy C. Waggoner Jr., manager of the firm's Miami district.

Worthington graduated from Winterville High School in 1965 and earned his Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy in 1970 from the University of North Carolina. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Worthington of Winterville.

C.L.U. COURSE

James E. Wiley, C.L.U. of New Bern, announced that a 15-week C.L.U. course on pensions began Friday at Craven Technical Institute. The course, he said, is open to life underwriters in the area who are interested in achieving the Charter Life Underwriter Designation.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1973

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day and evening to get in touch with long-time friends who have fine minds and who are very resourceful. Let it be known you are very fond of them by inviting them to a recreation or amusement that you mutually enjoy.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr. 19) Try to understand associates better and your operations can be more successful in the future. Engage in civic work that can add to your prestige. Avoid a hypocrite who could cause much harm.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to do your regular work with a greater flair. Be more cooperative with co-workers and you add to present benefits. Add the right clothing articles to your wardrobe. Avoid a moocher.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day when you can have a delightful time with congenials, so contact them early. Develop those fine talents you have. Don't take risks of any kind at this time. Relax at home tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do whatever will make conditions at home better in the future and insure harmony there. Plan a new uptrend so that you become more successful in the days ahead. Avoid an argument.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you compliment good associates now, you gain further support for the future. Do a good day's work and then engage in recreations that you enjoy. Spend some time on hobbies with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are thinking in a most businesslike manner now and can accomplish a great deal along financial lines. Be sure to show appreciation for help received. Stay within your budget.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get dressed in finest garb and make those business and social calls that will get you the results you desire. Let others know you are willing to help them and add to present happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after the true facts and you solve the puzzle of a situation that is bothering you. Evening is fine for the romantic but you have to take the initiative. Show that you have finesse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Join others in group affairs now and get out of that rut you are in. Renew old acquaintances that are worthwhile. Making plans for the future now is wise. Avoid one who gossips too much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact higher-up and show your finest ability for a particular job you want to do, and improve your position in life considerably. The evening can be a very happy time for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 29) Your sphere of influence can be extended considerably now if you try to understand the aims of others and help them. Correspond with out-of-towners and get the support you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your hunches are fine at this time and can help you to get others to put their stamp of approval on whatever it is you have in mind. Don't use a negative attitude with mate. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those attractive young people whom others may want to spoil. Teach to stand on own two feet, particularly since the quality of cooperation is strong in this nature. A profession that requires precision and neatness will be fine as a main outlet for life. Make sure the training is of academic stature for best results. Sports are a must here.

Count 12 Dead In N.C. Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A flurry of fatal traffic accidents Sunday evening pushed North Carolina's weekend highway death toll to at least 12, the state Highway Patrol reported.

The weekend fatalities raised the 1973 death toll on the state's highways to 198, compared with 233 people killed during the corresponding period of last year, the patrol said.

A pedestrian, 7-year-old Valerie Owens of Rt. 5, Elizabeth City, died when she was struck by a car after running from behind a parked vehicle into oncoming traffic Sunday afternoon. The mishap occurred on a rural paved road about 13 miles west of Elizabeth City.

Adrian Mauney, 25, of Rt. 2, Catawba, was killed Sunday and three other persons injured in a two-car, head-on collision on U.S. 64-70 about four miles north of Catawba, the patrol said.

A Shelby man, 20-year-old Mitchell Foy Ruppe, was killed in the city of Shelby when the motorcycle he was riding ran off a road, hit an embankment and crashed into a pole Sunday night.

Ray Suttle, 47, of North Miami, Fla., was killed when the tractor trailer truck he was driving ran off Interstate 85 south of Lexington in Davidson County. Eyewitnesses said the truck crashed through a guard-rail and overturned for no apparent reason.

Freddie Junior Stone, 27, believed from Dunn, was killed late Sunday night when the car he was driving at high speed crossed the center line of N.C. 87 west of Sanford and crashed head-on into a large camper vehicle, troopers said.

Other weekend traffic victims included:

—Two Burke County men who died when their car turned into the path of an oncoming tractor-trailer truck on N.C. 16 southeast of Newton. The dead were identified as Edward Lynn Annas and Charles Ernest Bleynat, 42, both of Rt. 2, Connellys Springs.

—Michael Wayne Silverthorn, 23, of Rt. 2, Merritt, who was killed when a car in which he was a passenger ran off a road in Pamlico County and overturned.

—Waverly Lassiter, 35, of George, a pedestrian who died when he was struck by a hit-and-run vehicle as he walked along the side of U.S. 258 south of Woodland in Northampton County.

—Elzie Hunt Locklear, 42, of Rt. 3, Rowland, who was killed when a blowout caused her car to leave N.C. 710 and crash five miles north of Rowland.

—Elizabeth T. Smith, 35, of Old Fort, who died when the car in which she was riding swerved off Interstate 40 on a curve near Old Fort and hit a bridge abutment.

—Nettie Jane Catlin, 74, of Buffalo, N.Y., who was killed when she was hit by a car while walking across U.S. 1 just south of Southern Pines.

The Associated Press counts weekend traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

Waldheim Home Following Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has returned from a 2½-week trip to Asia. He said the highlight of his trip was a discussion of the India-Pakistan situation, which he termed "open-ended."

Waldheim arrived on Sunday via San Francisco from his final stop abroad, a conference in Tokyo with Japanese officials. He visited heads of state and other officials in six countries.

Waldheim said he was "cautiously optimistic" about a resolution of the problems between India and Pakistan and added, "I'm sure my visit has helped to improve the political atmosphere, and this is very important."

MILKMEN

TO THE RESCUE

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Manchester milkmen are getting together to aid old folks who are ill and alone in their homes.

Their assignment is to spot the telltale distress signals of unopened milk bottles piling up on the porch. In an emergency they will use a special telephone link to call the social services department.

Organizers hope the scheme will spread to other parts of Britain.

Industry Plans Spend $1 Billion

NEW YORK (UPI) — American industry will spend $1 billion on pollution abatement in 1973, the research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc. estimates. Total expenditures for capital goods by U.S. business should total $10 billion this year, the firm said.

Hoyt M Haddock of Rt. 5, Greenville has been appointed to work with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture as pesticide inspector for eastern North Carolina.

The Department of Agriculture, announcing that the appointment was effective in January, reported that Haddock's area will include 24 counties in North Carolina and he will be upholding the North Carolina Pesticide Law of 1971.

Haddock is a 1972 graduate of Pitt Technical Institute with an A.A.S. degree in agriculture chemicals. He resides with his wife, the former Cherry Ann Lewis and their daughter at Rt. 5, Greenville.

From Dock Managers to Docking Maneuvers

Press Credibility on the waterfront? In space? Yes, it's our vital concern every day, in a thousand places. News events ranging from dock strikes to peace strikes...women's lib to menswear...stock market to supermarket.

Facts, figures, faces...undistorted, unretouched...deeply investigated and cross-checked before we relay them to you.

This newspaper's job is to cover the news for you, our readers, and the credibility of the information we give you is a vital, continuing concern for us.

Covering the world like this is a big job so we rely in part on the world's largest news-gathering organization, The Associated Press.

The AP is a cooperative and because we're a member, our staff includes thousands of The AP's trained reporters and editors.

You want the straight story and we thought you'd like to know AP reporters—members of our staff—are on the job for you, right now, in Singapore and Seattle and all points between.

LUCKY SWEEPS

The sight of traditional sweep on his bicycle is held to bring good luck in Germany: here, on a West Berlin street.

German chimney sweep—with silk hat topping his sooty face!

It's a job calling for cat-like agility.

He's something of a folk hero, the chimney sweep, in Germany. It's believed to be a sign of good luck when you see one in the street making his rounds, traditionally on a bicycle and wearing a silk top hat. Girls often beg a hair from the brush he uses to clean his top hat as well as the skull cap he wears inside chimneys: if you tuck a brush hair in your pocketbook it's supposed to insure the money never runs out. Another charming superstition is that it brings good luck for a lady to stroke the chimney sweep's cheek, wiping off a little soot as she does so.

Legends apart, the chimney sweep is more than just a romantic folklore figure. By law, every German chimney must have its sweep. There are about 10,000 sweeps in West Germany and their job is of great practical importance. For one thing, it includes keeping chimneys in good order—thus lessening the risk of fire and making sure that repairs get done when necessary. For another, the chimney sweep helps to keep the cities' air clean in an age when every measure against pollution is worth taking.

Dirty work it undoubtedly is, at least until the on-the-job shower that concludes each day's rounds. It calls for cat-like agility and a good head for heights. But, to compensate for the soot and the wet roof tiles, there's that pleasant aura of good luck, the pats on the cheek from the ladies, and even a patron saint, St. Florian, guardian against the dangers of fire and consoler of hard bumps in the dark flues.

AP Newsfeatures.

Sweep has to have a good head for heights.

Brooms, brushes, shovels, ropes are part of gear needed for chimneys of all shapes and sizes.

Clean faced sweep starts day's work.

The 'Worry Clinic' Prayer Not For Selfish Desire

Thelma's atheism is an example of mere buck-passing. Lazily, she wanted God to do her work.

work. Asking favors of Deity is like wanting a bank to cash your checks. You must first have deposited some money or your checks will "bounce." So do selfish prayers! Get hep!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE W529: Thelma D. aged 19, is an angry coed. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I am an atheist, for I know there is no God.

"So why do you keep talking about God and why do you go to church every Sunday?"

"God is a myth and religion is just an opiate to keep the masses quiet!"

Cherchez la Femme When I quizzed Thelma further, I found that she had earlier been a very religious girl.

"But I prayed every night for 4 years," she confessed. "And I begged God to give me a husband. But he didn't!"

"So I know that there is no God and religion is just bunk."

But I reminded her that God helps those who help themselves.

Then I chided her for being 25 pounds too fat.

"Why didn't you send for my Diet Chart, offered in your local newspaper?"

"Then you could have streamlined your figure and become far more alluring to the usual college man."

For romance is usually associated with slender female figures.

The "Fat Woman of the Circus" attracts curious glances but doesn't stimulate requests for dates!

You plump married women also know that when you husbands start chasing around with other females, the latter are not baby hippos or 2-legged elephants!

Again, I remonstrated with Thelma for not having ordered the "Compliment Club" booklet, where she could have learned the art of winning friends easily.

Even a fat girl can acquire friends and occasional dates if she will daily employ the "5 Laws for Complimenting."

Thus, if Thelma had utilized both those booklets, costing only 50 cents since they are strictly a non-profit educational fringe benefit of this newspaper, she could doubtless now have an engagement ring or frat pin.

Alas, too many people pray to God and then expect him to do all the work in producing the results they crave.

Maybe that's typical of our modern age, where people now wait for Uncle Sam to solve their medical, food, housing and other problems, while they sit on their fanny, guzzling beer and watching TV, paid for by the hard working taxpayers of the land.

Anyway, it is illogical and an evidence of mere buck-passing when you ask God for something you can do for yourself.

In fact, it is a disgrace and insult to the Almighty!

So learn how to pray! Prayer is not an "Open Sesame" formula for gaining the answer to selfish desires.

To be most effective, you should ask yourself

To be most effective, you should indulge in a "do it yourself" policy till you have exhausted human agencies.

Then, if you are still lacking a complete solution, you may ask God to make up the difference.

But you better have previously built up some "asking favor" with the Almighty.

Praying to God for favors is like expecting the bank to cash your checks.

You must first have deposited money in that bank or your checks will "bounce."

Maybe that's why many prayers also "bounce."

If you want favors from the Almighty, you better start playing ball on God's team!

Start by sending for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
© 1973, The Chicago Tribune
BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable,
you hold:
♠63 ♥Q962 ♠AKQ ♣742

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Three hearts. An approach bid of two diamonds, while it might work out as well, is not our choice. The three heart bid describes a hand with four trumps and at least 13 supporting points. Having made this call we are relieved of obligation to take any further drastic step.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠8 ♥K986 ♦K1053 ♣J873

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ Dble. ?

What do you bid?
A.—Three hearts. On hands of only moderate strength where a takeout double has been made and you possess a good fit with partner's opening, best results are usually obtained by offering an immediate jump raise. This serves to disrupt enemy communications, but at the same time does not prevent partner from proceeding to game if he has a really good hand.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K2 ♥A632 ♦86542 ♣K2

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♦ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?
A.—Two spades. A doubtoner honor is deemed to be normal support for an overall. Nothing is to be gained by a bid of one no trump, for your hand is not exactly balanced and none of your strength is in the adverse bid suit.

Q. 4 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ7 ♥AJ1063 ♦J6 ♣K87

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid?
A.—Three no trump. You have 14 high card points facing a partner who was able to make an overall at the "two" level. This should be enough to produce a game and in light of your spade holding, a nine trick contract should prove the easiest to fulfill.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠QJ32 ♥1053 ♦73 ♣Q753
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Dble.
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ 3 ♠
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. What appears to be a very indifferent holding to you should prove very welcome to a partner who could first double and then contract for nine tricks entirely on his own. Your trump holding plus the doubtoner diamond should bring that total to 10.

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ63 ♥865 ♦KJ4 ♣KQ9

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. At the outset your hand appeared to be the veriest of minimums, but in the light of bidding developments you have a very representative holding and it is suggested that you contract for game. Had partner's second bid been in hearts, no such action could be contemplated.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J93 ♦K1065 ♣KJ10873

Partner opens one no trump. What is your response?
A.—Three clubs. This is perhaps somewhat abnormal, but we can think of no better call. If partner rebids three hearts, a return to three no trump is indicated. If he bids anything other than three no trump, then you should plan to play at a minor suit contract.

Q. 8 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ98542 ♥KQ8 ♦KQ2

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Three clubs. This hand possesses tremendous offensive possibilities despite partner's failure to take positive action. A jump rebid in spades is acceptable, but the cue bid is preferred because of your tolerance for a red suit contract should partner have great length in either of those suits. A reopening double is not recommended because of your lack of preparation for a "leave in."

TOBACCO TALK

By RAYMOND D. COLTRAIN

The snow and rainy weather has really hampered everyone's schedule for sowing their tobacco beds. It is not too late and there is not need to punch the panic button yet. Many fellows are finding that in fumigating their beds under extreme wet conditions they can still smell the gas when they take the covers off. The reason for this is that the water chemical ties up with methyl bromine and prevents it from eventually evaporating out of the soil. In these cases you should leave the covers off the bed and wait 24-48 hours or longer if you can still smell the gas, before sowing your beds. Be sure and rake them so as to break the crust on top of the ground in order that the gas can get out. If you sow your bed before doing this, the methyl bromide will kill your tobacco seed the same way it killed the weed seed.

The later you sow your bed the more chance of your getting a hot day with solid plastic this could mean trouble. I would still use the perforated plastic in late seedings. Don't forget to cut back on the rate of 12-6-6 you use

PROJECT SAFEGUARD

Pesticides are necessary for efficient agricultural production. Most pesticides are dangerous chemicals. Pesticides can be used safely. These are statements of facts that provide the basis for "Project Safeguard." The project will be a short term intensive education program, for the 1973 crop season, aimed at proper use of the more dangerous pesticides. It is sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. County programs will be carried out by the Agricultural Extension Service.

Project safety aides will visit each farmer in Pitt County to to approximately 35-40 pounds per 100 yards of bed when the perforated plastic is used.

The annual meeting of District 6 of the Flue-Cures Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation will be held on Monday, February 26, 1973 from 3-4 p.m. in the Allied Health Building. This building is located across from Pitt Plaza at the intersection of US 264 and NC 43.

Be sure to plan to attend if you can because the Corporation needs you to tell it what it can do for you.

If you have any questions, please call me at 758-1196.

carry the message of safe pesticide practices. They will be making the visits between late March and mid-July. Each farmer will be given safety handouts at the time of the visit. Information passed out will cover an individual's responsibility, safe transport and storage of pesticides, protective equipment, mixing procedures, application of chemicals, special precautions, clean up, and disposal. Special information on pesticide poisoning signs and what to do about it will be covered as well as emergency procedures for spills and fires. Every farmer is encouraged to give careful attention to the project safety aide and to the handout information he leaves. Questions about specific chemicals to use and rates of application should be directed to a qualified dealer or the County Agricultural Extension Agents.

Water Quality Hearing

The North Carolina Board of Water and Air Resources will hold a public hearing on proposed re-classification of certain waters in the Neuse and Tar River Basins. The hearing is scheduled for Thursday, March 1, at 1 p.m., in the auditorium of the Main Building at Lenoir Community College, two miles east of Kinston on US 70 by-pass east.

Stream Classification is important to you because best-use categories are established for water. Also, the classification will set the limits for the kinds of discharges which can be made into a stream.

Agriculture is this Nation's biggest consumer of water. Rural areas consume six gallons for every one consumed in urban areas. Water is important to you.

For more information about stream classification, contact the N. C. Water and Air Resources Department, or the Agricultural Extension Service.

Electricity Ceiling Goal

By Dr. J. W. Pou

Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Electricity Ceiling Goal

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—An environmental group called ECOS, Inc., proposes calling a halt to increasing use of electricity. In a statement issued late last week ECOS said there should be a "zero growth rate in power generation."

In addition, the organization criticized plans by Carolina Power and Light Co. to build a nuclear generating facility in Wake County.

There was no immediate response from CP&L. Nor has Duke Power Co., the other large private utility in the state, replied to the statement.

ECOS director Wayne Morris said no adequate safeguards exist for the nuclear plant. There have never been tests of emergency cooling devices in nuclear reactors, he said, adding the utilities are going ahead with construction plans anyway. "I think this is grossly irresponsible," he continued.

Morris suggested steps be taken to conserve power instead of increasing it. He specified new types of building and more efficient air conditioners, freezers, water heaters and refrigerators.

ECOS is a party to suits opposing the New Hope dam project in Chatham County and the East-West Expressway in Durham.

Neighbor's Ruse Worked

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A neighbor of retired Army Col. and Mrs. Philip Galanti of Gastonia, N.C., used a trick to get a basket of fruit to the couple, whose son has just returned to the United States after being a prisoner of war.

Portsmouth Mayor Jack P. Barnes received a telephone call from "the governor of North Carolina" last week. The mayor said he didn't think it was Gov. Jim Holshouser. And it wasn't.

The caller was Paul Quinn of Gastonia, who lives near the parents of Lt. Cmdr. Paul E. Galanti.

The younger Galanti is at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital Thursday after spending nearly seven years in a North Vietnamese prison. His parents and his wife, Mrs. Phyllis Galanti of Richmond, are staying at a motel in the Portsmouth area while Galanti is getting a hospital checkup.

"I got to thinking about what I could do for them," Quinn told Barnes, "and I decided to call you."

The ruse worked. The next day, Barnes called on the Galantis on behalf of the city with fruit, a commemorative tie clasp for the colonel and a pin for Mrs. Galanti.

Barnes said he told the Galantis how Quinn got through to him.

"That's Paul," Barnes quoted the colonel. "That's his way. They have been the finest neighbors anyone could have."

Widespread use of plastic plant bed covers has prompted North Carolina State University tobacco specialists to issue a warning to growers of potential hazards during periods of unseasonably warm temperatures.

Temperatures can build up rapidly under the plastic during late-winter warm spells and cause burn damage to young plants, NCSU Specialist Ben Kittrell explained.

Fertilizer injury is another risk where plastic is used. This is particularly true in cases of overfertilization.

"The early warm weather can also bring the plants along faster than the grower needs them for transplanting," Kittrell added.

This happened in a number of cases last year. The relatively mild winter temperatures caused beds under plastic to produce plants much too rapidly. In a few cases, farmers found it necessary to disk up their beds and seed again.

Kittrell observed that there has been a strong shift away from cheese cloth covers and toward plastic covers. This means we have a lot of growers using the plastic this year. These farmers should be aware that plastic-covered beds require much more attention than the cloth-covered beds.

Kittrell said the rule of thumb is to pull back the plastic during the daytime, or punch small holes in the plastic when there are three consecutive days of 75-degree or above temperatures.

Another hazard to watch for under plastic is fertilizer damage. Kittrell explained that fertilizer leaching doesn't occur while the bed is covered, therefore smaller amounts of fertilizer are needed.

"Growers who fertilized as they would have on cloth-covered beds should watch carefully for fertilizer damage," he warned. "The danger of over-fertilizing has increased with the more widespread use of high analysis fertilizers, such as 12-6-6." Fewer pounds of these materials are needed than the low analysis fertilizers used in the past.

He suggested that where there is a chance that too much fertilizer was used, beds might be uncovered and irrigated to move some of the fertilizer down into the soil.

The extension specialist pointed out that plant growth can be controlled to a certain degree by uncovering plants for slow growth or keeping them covered longer for faster growth.

For farmers who have been prevented from seeding their beds by wet weather or other reasons, Kittrell had this comment: "There is still time to seed. With plastic covers, transplants can be grown in 60 days — plenty of time for early season planting."

Soybeans Need Weed Controls

Leroy James, Agricultural Extension Agent

In last week's article on weed control in soybeans, I listed only one herbicide. As a continuation of the same article, this week's article covers several other herbicides that will do a good job in controlling weeds and grasses in your soybean field.

Chemicals available for preplant in soybeans are Planavin, Treflan, Vernam and Vernam 10 G. If you plan to use Planavin, incorporate 1 to 1½ inches deep within two days of application. If you plan to use Treflan, incorporate 2 to 3 inches deep within 8 hours after application. If you plan to use Vernam or Vernam 10 G, incorporate 2 to 3 inches deep immediately after application. Some early season stunting may occur but this is not a serious problem.

For preemergence application, chemicals that are available are Lasso, Lasso-10 G, Amiben, Lorox 50 WP, Bromox 50 WP, Maloran 50 WP, Cyanap, Anecrack and Chloro-IPC.

Apply Lasso and Lasso 10 G anytime from planting up through cracking stage. It can be applied with dinoseb at cracking for contact broadleaf weed control. Amiben use is more applicable in high organic soils than in mineral soils. Performance is related to rainfall. Do not use Lorox 50 WP on soils with less than 1 percent organic matter. Have soil test for organic matter and follow label instructions for rate. Performance of Dyanap and Anecrack are dependent on rainfall after application. Some injury may occur with heavy rain after application.

For soybeans preemergence (No-till planted), use Ortho, Paraquat CL plus Lorox 50 W, a tank mix. Apply before soybeans emerge. Use 1 to 3 lbs. Lorox on sandy loam, 1¼ to 4 lbs. on silt loam, and 1 and one-third to 5 lbs. per acre on clay loam soils. Do not use Lorox on soils of less than 1 percent organic matter. Paraquat gives contact kill of existing annual vegetation and Lorox gives residual control of annual grasses and most broadleaf weeds.

At cracking stage, chemicals that are available are Lasso, Basanite, (pre merge) and Sinox PE. Make sure the first true leaves of the soybeans have not unfolded. Do not use if soil is wet. Injury may result if relative humidity is very high.

In early post-emergence, chemicals available are Tenoram 50 WP and Norex 50 WP. Spray over top of the beans after first trifoliate leaf appears. Weeds should be 2 inches tall or less for best results. Some leaf burn will occur but no permanent injury will result.

In postemergence directed weed control, chemicals available are Lorox 50 WP, Basanite (pre merge), Sinox PE, Butyrac, and Butoxone. Be sure if you use Basanite pre merge or Sinox that the beans are 6 inches tall. Do not use when soil is wet. If you plan to use Butyrac or Butoxone, let the beans grow to at least 8-12 inches tall. These chemicals may be used overtop when soybeans begin to bloom up to mid-bloom as a clean-up procedure for harvest ease.

Few Commuters Launched First Using Bicycles Mobile Library

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Although sale of bicycles in the United States in 1971 exceeded factory sales of cars by more than 2¼ million (8.9 million bikes versus 6.5 million cars), the bicycle has had negligible impact on commuter traffic, Arthur D. Little Inc., reports. The automobile still accounts for 82 per cent of trips to and from work, while public transport and walking accounts for most of the remainder.

But, adds the research firm, for trips in city traffic, the bicycle may be the fastest mode of travel. In one recent study with 25 bike-car commuter time trials over different routes averaging five miles, bicycles won 21, cars 3 and there was one tie.

MANILA (UPI)—The Philippines' first mobile library is serving public high school students and elementary school pupils in the provinces.

Book Mobile, the free-lending library, is a civic project to supplement with up-to-date reference books public elementary school and high school libraries.

NATURAL RESOURCES MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—The natural resources of Alabama are estimated to be 10 per cent of the nation's total. They include coal, iron ore, limestone, marble, building stone and oil.

Personal Reply From Lady Bird

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—An 11-year-old Elizabeth City pupil has received a personal reply from Lady Bird Johnson because he wrote a sympathy note to her when former president Lyndon Johnson died.

Kevin Mock, son of Coast Guard CWO and Mrs. J.A. Mock, said he decided to send the letter in addition to individual sympathy cards his class mailed to the LBJ Ranch. The reply came Friday, and the youth says he will "put it in a gold frame on the wall."

Mrs. Johnson thanked him for his concern and interest and said she appreciated his thoughts.

Kevin said he had expressed sorrow and that he thought the former chief executive was a fine president who would always be remembered in history.

Order Of Lenin For Podgorny

MOSCOW (AP)—President Nikolai V. Podgorny has been awarded the Order of Lenin, the Soviet Union's highest civilian honor, on the occasion of his 70th birthday, the official news agency Tass has announced.

Tass said Sunday the award was made for Podgorny's "great service to the Communist party and the Soviet state." Podgorny has been a member of the party's ruling Politburo since 1960 and president since 1965.

It was at least the third time Podgorny has received the honor, a standard way of marking birthday anniversaries of Soviet leaders.

Princess Taken Ill In Ethiopia

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne has been taken ill during her visit to Ethiopia and is suffering from "tiredness and a stomach upset," according to a message received at Buckingham Palace from the royal party.

The condition of the 22-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II is causing no concern, the palace said Sunday.

The princess was understood to have canceled her Sunday program—a tour of the walled city of Harar in eastern Ethiopia.
