

Pitt's Title 1 Funds Run Low

By BLANCH HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education, meeting in a special session last night, heard a report on the current status of the Title I program.

J. L. Keeter, assistant superintendent with the Pitt County Schools, told board members that the Title I Project is running short of funds due to a cut in payments from the federal government.

According to Keeter, he was told to plan on receiving 95 percent of the funds allotted to the program at the beginning of this school year, which would be $1,339,484, or $334,871 quarterly.

For the first and second quarters, the local project received $324,358 but for the third payment, only $309,000 was paid, $15,000 less than the first two quarters.

Keeter said at that time he stopped all purchasing that could be stopped.

"Now, as I project for the future, the total project would amount to $1,297,432, if we receive $324,358 for the fourth quarter," Keeter explained.

"I still do not know the amount of money we will receive from Title I for the rest of this school year."

"If $309,000 is paid us for the fourth quarter, we will be about $30,000 short of what was anticipated at the first of February," Keeter emphasized. "It is impossible for me to project what to do at this time."

Keeter said the project would need at least an additional $18,000 at the present time to complete the project for this year. More funds will be needed if less money than is anticipated is received from the Title I project.

"There are three more months left of this school year," Keeter said. "We have enough money for the payroll for February and March. After that, I just don't know what we will do."

Keeter explained that some carry over funds from Title I last year were helpful in absorbing the first adjustment that had to be made.

"If I don't get assurance on the amount of money from the state office, we will probably run about $18,000 short, based on the fact that we have received about 75 percent of what was anticipated at the first of the year," Keeter said.

Employees hired under the Title I program include a number of janitors, aides and teachers.

Keeter was told by the board to look at the non-professional personnel and put the ones who are less expendable on notice.

Keeter said he had been told that next year's project would be cut about 30 percent in services over this year's budget figure.

Keeter reported that the county had been told to stop operating a dual kindergarten system (that is,

Homecomings Are Still Joyous Event

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The first two repatriated American prisoners of war to be granted 30-day leaves have been released so they can "pick up the threads of their family life again."

Another 19 former POWs returned to the mainland here Tuesday, including Air Force Capt. James R. Shively, who declared:

"We want to let the sweet molecules of life flow over our bodies."

Two men repatriated last week already have been granted 30-day leaves, and others were being handed passes for brief forays with their families to restaurants and stores near military hospitals where they are assigned.

Released on leave were Air Force officers Capt. Terry M. Geloneck, 28, of Beale AFB, Calif., and Lt. William Arcuri, 25, of nearby Yuba City, Calif.

Both were captured last Dec. 22 when their B52 was shot down over North Vietnam.

Lt. Col. William Reslie, a Department of Defense information officer, said: "One of the things they have asked is that they be permitted to pick up the threads of their family life again."

The return of Shively, 30, of Spokane, Wash., and his 17 flightmates brought to 162 the number of former prisoners who have come home after stops at Clark Air Base in the Philippines. Another 432 remain in Vietnam prison camps awaiting freedom.

The last of 20 men freed by Hanoi Sunday, Air Force Capt. Joseph Crecca Jr., 32, of East Orange, N.J., remained at Clark for treatment of malaria, but doctors said his condition was not serious and he would fly home later this week.

The homecoming at Travis on Tuesday was similar to the seven earlier mass flights of ex-POWs — military order punctuated by joyous reunions for men with families nearby.

Air Force Capt. Hubert K. Flesher shouted "Hello baby!" as he and his wife rushed toward each other after Flesher exited the C141 StarLifter that ferried them 8,010 miles across the Pacific.

Mrs. Flesher leaped a full foot off the ground and into the arms of her husband, captive for seven years in North Vietnam.

Air Force Capt. John H. Nasmyth Jr., 32, of San Gabriel, Calif., strolled over to the waiting crowd, sipping a can of beer.

Nixon Defends Economies As Budget-Saver

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon defended his budget cuts today as the way to make the family dollar go further and predicted that food prices, while continuing to rise for several months, should come down in the second half of the year.

In a nationwide radio broadcast, Nixon said doing away with many social programs under the budget had been unfairly criticized. But he said that unless his administration cuts back on programs that have failed, "we will soon run out of money for the programs that can succeed."

Nixon, noting that wholesale food prices went up sharply in recent months, said that figures for retail prices for food in January and February will "inevitably show sharp increases. In fact, we will probably see increases in food prices for some months to come."

But Nixon said his administration's effort to expand food supplies "will have a powerful effect in the second half of the year. They will bring relief to the American housewife without damaging the prosperity of our farmers."

Defending his decision to abandon most mandatory wage and price controls, Nixon said, "The idea that controls have virtually been ended is totally wrong. We are still enforcing them firmly. All that is changed is our method of enforcing them."

Turning to the federal budget, he said the nation has the best chance in years to curb its growth and added, "that will do more than anything else to protect your family budget."

Nixon disclosed that he will send to Congress the economic section of his State of the Union report on Thursday.

Defending his decision to trim the number of social programs from the budget, Nixon said, "These old programs may have appealing names, they may sound like good causes, but behind the fancy label often lies a dismal failure."

He said his administration is budgeting 66 per cent more to help the poor next year than was the case four years ago, 67 per cent more for the sick, 71 per cent more for older Americans and 242 per cent more for the hungry and malnourished.

Nixon's radio message contained no new major announcements on the economy, but the President outlined the decisions his administration has made in recent months.

He said the devaluation of the dollar was taken to turn around a serious trade imbalance which he said "could threaten your prosperity."

But the devaluation is only a step toward more basic reforms, including a more flexible international monetary system, he said. The U.S. has made far-reaching proposals for monetary reform, Nixon said. "It is time for other nations to join with us in getting action on these proposals."

The message was taped over the weekend at the Florida White House at Key Biscayne.

Can Deviate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today granted the states considerable leeway from the one-man, one-vote standard in apportioning their legislatures.

Without fixing a precise mathematical formula, the justices ruled 5 to 3 that the deviations from perfect equality can be greater than in the drawing of U.S. congressional districts.

Rope's End

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — "It's final, but I still love her," said Howard Thomas after he divorced his wife of 32 years so the critically ill woman could get welfare benefits to pay her mounting medical bills.

His 45-year-old wife, Ruth, lay in a nursing home unaware of the 10-minute divorce hearing Tuesday dissolving a marriage which had given the couple six children.

She is in the advanced stages of incurable multiple sclerosis. "I was shook, and the judge was shook, too," said Thomas, a 49-year-old steelworker. "He knew it was something that had to be done... Just like me, he wished he didn't have to do it."

Thomas dissolved his marriage under Florida's year-old no-fault divorce law, which does not require an adversary proceeding.

After Circuit Court Judge C. Richard Leavengood granted the decree, Thomas applied in his wife's behalf for the state welfare assistance needed to insure continued medical treatment.

Jack Youngblood of the Florida Division of Family Services said Tuesday night the application would be processed with "due haste." The division administers the state-supported Medicaid program.

Leavengood gave Thomas custody of his two youngest children, ages 5 and 11. The others are adults.

"We're behind our father 100 per cent," said daughter Brenda Pivinski. "If my mother were aware of the situation, I know she would understand."

Last November, state officials said they had made a mistake in granting Thomas Medicaid benefits to help pay for his wife's costs at a nursing home—he earned $79 more than the maximum to qualify.

The $117 monthly payment he had been receiving for 17 months was halted, but the $500 monthly nursing home cost continued.

It was then that Thomas said he decided to sue for divorce, explaining then, "I'm at end of my rope..."

Patients May Pay More For Hospital Debt

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Thanks to Pres. Nixon's withholding of Hill-Burton hospital funds, each patient at the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital may be paying $3 more per patient-day to pay back a $2 million debt, hospital trustees were told last night.

When the withdrawal of funds was announced, hospital administrators were faced with the choice of discontinuing plans for the new hospital or applying for a loan to continue, Administrator Jack Richardson said, several representatives of the hospital and the County Commission went to Raleigh to discuss the matter with the N. C. Medical Care Commission. Their suggestion was to apply for a $2 million guaranteed interest loan from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to be paid back in 25 years. A financial feasibility study is now underway, but increased patient-day cost to cover the debt appears to be the only answer, Richardson said.

The rehabilitation part of the hospital is already paid for, in effect. The total projected cost is $2,051,649. Some $350,000 will come from a state rehab grant and $1,143,000 from a federal rehab grant, with Burroughs-Wellcome's gift of $30,000, specified for use for a hemodialysis unit, going into project, also, since the unit will be part of the rehab area. Local matching money of $528,649 will be needed, it appears.

Of the $9 million to come from the local bond issue approved by County voters in Nov., 1971, $390,000 has already been used for land purchasing and the $528,649 has been designated as the rehab match. An estimated $50,000 will have to be used for utilities.

The estimated cost of the hospital plant itself, not counting the rehab area is $10,960,203. With $8,031,351 left of the $9 million after the above-mentioned costs are deducted, the deficit would be $2,928,852. A

Laotian 'Peace' Signed

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The warring Laotian factions today signed a cease-fire agreement scheduled to take effect at noon Thursday, or midnight EST tonight.

The terms are similar to those of the 1962 Geneva Accord, which stopped the fighting in Laos for a time but brought no lasting peace.

In addition to the cease-fire, Interior Minister Pheng Phongsavan said the agreement calls for:

- Formation of a provisional government of national union, with half the cabinet posts going to rightist and neutralist non-Communists and half to the Communist Pathet Lao. Prince Souvanna Phouma, the 72-year-old neutralist premier who has headed the government since 1962, is expected to retain the post.
- Formation of a mixed political council to organize elections.
- Release of all prisoners and withdrawal of all foreign troops within 90 days. Some 300 U.S. airmen are listed as missing after being shot down in Laos, but the North Vietnamese have given the U.S. government the names of only seven American servicemen and two civilians held prisoner in Laos.
- Supervision of the agreement by the same three-nation International Control Commission that was unable to supervise the 1962 agreement. It is made up of Canada, neutralist India and Communist Poland.

$13,440 WORTH... Chief of Police E. G. Cannon and officer C. W. Weathington look over some of the 42 pounds of marijuana officers confiscated in a raid here last night. The illegal "grass" would sell for about $13,440 on the street, officers said. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage)

Big Marijuana Supply Found In Local Raids

About 42 pounds of marijuana was found during one of two raids here last night by police that resulted in three persons being charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

Chief Glenn Cannon reported Peter Drew Boas of Alexandria, Va., was arrested about 10:10 p.m. following a raid on his motel room here. Some 42 pounds of marijuana were found. Street value of the marijuana, according to officers, was set about $13,440.

Bond for Boas, a former East Carolina University student, was set at $25,000.

Two other persons were charged following a 1:15 a.m. raid on a second floor Fleming dorm room on the ECU campus.

According to Cannon, Sandra Ann Neubenne, 19, of Kinston and Douglas Foy, 23, also of Kinston were charged when a quantity of marijuana was found in the room.

Bond for both Miss Neubenne and Foy was placed at $5,000 each.

In addition to the marijuana charge, Foy was charged with trespassing after being found in the woman's residence hall room.

Flaherty Promises An Open Policy Ahead For State Government

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

David T. Flaherty, new secretary of the N. C. Department of Human Resources promised an open policy in state government for the next four years.

Flaherty spoke at a Chamber of Commerce-Merchants Association-sponsored meeting at Parker's Restaurant last night. This morning he appeared on WNCT's Carolina Tday program.

The governor and administrations are "committed to an open policy," Flaherty declared. "We will have no more closed meetings in any area we are responsible for."

He said an open door policy will be maintained so the public can come in with questions and he also said the various officials would keep open minds on public issues.

"When people come to us with questions we want to respond," he declared. "We want to be responsive and we will be responsive."

To implement this policy a WATS telephone line is being considered so the public can call with questions without paying toll charges. Meetings are planned throughout the state so people can come in with their problems.

Finally, he said, a policy is being attempted in his department of answering all letters within 24 hours.

The most important thing in delivering services, he said, is the employees. "The people working for us are the ones who will determine whether we are going to do a good job."

His department, he continued, is instituting a promotion-from-within policy and it has "already started."

In the reorganization process, Flaherty said the aim would be to establish management by objectives. Seminars are being planned to establish objectives and to show how to attain them and set up the actual programs.

"The best management is that management that gets involved," he declared. "Management will be out visiting the agencies to find out what kind of service is being delivered."

The visits will also "let people know we are interested in the job they are doing."

Accountability will be required of employees and a report is expected every Monday morning "with a digest on my desk and on the governor's desk."

Flaherty continued, "There's no question the taxpayers in North Carolina and in the nation are not going to stand for a tax increase. At the same time we must deliver more and better service."

The only answer is to streamline the operations of the various state agencies, he said.

He cited the fact that a $400,000 public relations payroll has been paired to $200,000 as a result of streamlining. He contended that a better job of informing the public can be done with the new public relations budget.

He said it was hoped that the cost of administration in Human Resources can be reduced by $3 to $5 million. "Multiply this by 15 departments and you have quite a savings," he stated.

Flaherty cited the red tape involved in obtaining a job with the state. "It is ridiculous to go through four personnel men" to get a job, he declared. He said it had also been found that few personnel men had actually done any recruiting of promising applicants for state jobs. This would be changed, he indicated.

Chamber Manager Harold Creech opened last night's meeting and President Bill McDonald presided. The speaker was introduced by Howard Dawkins, director of the Sheltered Workshop.

The agencies which come under the Department of Human Resources include: State Boards of Health, Mental Health, Social Services, Alcoholic Rehabilitation, Vocational Rehabilitation and the Commissions for the Blind, Deaf and Aging.

Wife Envy TV Widows

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How I envy those women who complain because their husbands are glued to the TV, watching football. Mine is glued to the bottle. Alcoholics Anonymous is wonderful for some people, but it is mud to him. He tried it a few times and never went back.

I could write a book about my life, which has been nothing but unhappiness for 19 years. We have three school-age children. I work five days a week away from home and have to do all the grocery shopping and errands. When I prepare a meal that doesn't suit my husband, it lands on the floor, on the wall, or, on several occasions, thru the window.

I can't even trust him to pay a utility bill. We've had the electricity and water turned off because the bill wasn't paid.

I just have to write this, Abby. I have no relatives to talk to. We have no friends. Who wants to associate with people like us? He still holds on to his job. It's a miracle how he can drink all weekend and make it to work on Monday morning. He says a man who works can do what he wants to do with his time off. And that's what he does. Drinks! Please help me. BLUE MONDAY

DEAR BLUE: You can't force a man to go to A. A., but you can learn how to cope with an alcoholic mate by attending ALANON. [They're listed in your phone book.] I urge you to go, Dear. They have accomplished wonders. Also, there is Alateen for teen-agers of alcoholic parents. And please give me a progress report.

DEAR ABBY: To all those horticulturists who talk to plants, forget it. My wife and I had our first plant in December 1964; we not only put little Fern's flower-bed by the phone, we gave her a room of her own. Everything was just vine at first, but now all of our problems seem to stem from her. Honestly, she had us eating out of her palm. Right after she blossomed—too young to be thinking about roots—she started going out with dates; they wouldn't leaf her alone. Then some nut got her in trouble. We'd force them to get married, but they would make a terrible pear. Now her reputation has been soiled and she can no longer rest on her laurels.

Fern has grown older and doesn't care to get spruced up anymore. She refuses to go out until we give her a vaselift.

I may be out on a limb, but my advice is not to talk to plants. BLUE-FORGET-ME-NOT

DEAR BLUE: Lettuce face it. Your bloomin' pun-ishment is beyond be-leaf. But I dig it. Oak, Bud?

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine told me a long time ago that someone wrote to you and asked: "If a non-Catholic attends the funeral of a Catholic, does he have to kneel and make the sign of the cross like the Catholics do? And you said no, it wasn't necessary. Well, Abby, you are soaking wet!

Whenever a person goes into a church other than his own, he should kneel, cross himself, stand up and sit down and read the prayers just like everybody else. And not to do so is to show contempt. SMARTER THAN YOU

DEAR SMARTER: For a non-Catholic to kneel and make the sign of the cross without sincerity is not a mark of "respect"—it's hypocritical. Furthermore, Catholics neither demand nor expect it. Ask a Catholic priest. [I asked several, and they all agreed.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HURT" IN ATLANTA: Get off his back: A man is not responsible for the kind of valentines he receives. If he had something to hide, he never would have brought it home.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Teaching Can Be Hazardous Or Healthy To Your Marriage

By DARRELL E. WILLIAMS

Married teaching couples are fairly common-place on the East Carolina University campus. There are 41 married couples teaching this term, in almost every department of the university.

There are no special requirements or regulations for married teaching couples and ECU has always permitted them, unlike some universities.

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Wang—she too has a doctorate—associate professors of the English Department, have taught at ECU for six years.

Native of China, they met in North Carolina where he was attending Davidson College and she was enrolled at Queens College, Charlotte. After graduation, they were married and went to Tulane University to pursue graduate degrees. During the two and one-half years they were in New Orleans, they taught at Southern University.

When the Wangs finished at Tulane, they sought teaching jobs at universities in several states, hoping to teach as a married couple. They found that the husband could easily get a job according to his qualifications, but his wife had more difficulty.

Dr. Wang recalled, "We applied to large universities in California, Texas, and Hawaii for teaching jobs together. They were always receptive to me and I was always offered good positions, but things were different for my wife. She, too, was offered jobs by these universities, but they were never on the same level as her abilities and qualifications—they were always secretarial jobs or something similar. I decided that taking the jobs on these terms would not be fair to my wife. Then, we heard about East Carolina University. It had just become a university and was recruiting instructors with doctorate degrees. My wife and I decided to turn down my offers for a position with the larger schools and come to Greenville to teach."

The Wangs now share a book-lined office together in the English Department with books of the Victorian Age on her side and books of the Romantic Period on his. They enjoy teaching together and share many common professional interest. While sharing so many things in common, they still have their individual interests and hobbies, even though some of their colleagues tend not to think so at time.

"Sometime we seem to lose a little of our individuality because people regard us so much as a husband and wife team," Mrs. Wang says. "This is especially true among our colleagues, more so than our students. At club meetings and other activities that my husband and I attend together, people seem to recognize us too much as a married couple rather than as individual people."

Dr. and Mrs. James R. Wright are another married teaching couple, but their ideas are on contrast to Dr. and Mrs. Wang. Dr. Wright teaches linguistics in the English Department. Mrs. Wright teaches Spanish and Italian in the Romance Language Department.

The Wrights first met as students at the University of Madrid in Spain. Marriage followed completion of Masters degrees at both Middlebury College and Indiana University. Joining the Peace Corps later, they taught and attended classes together at the University of the Andes and the University of Narino, in Colombia.

"This is when I decided that we were too close together all the time," Dr. Wright smiled. "We would study together six or seven hours a day, then teach near each other for or five hours, and then live with each other the rest of the time. At this time, we were both studying Spanish. I decided it would be best if I would change my field of study to linguistics to make our relationship more versatile and interesting, and it has!"

In job searching, the Wrights' problems were similar to the Wangs. They blamed these problems mainly on the nepotism laws in the various states where they applied for jobs. (Nepotism laws forbid state institutions, in some cases, to hire more than one person in the same family.)

The Wrights express contentment with their teaching jobs at ECU and enjoy having separate offices in different departments because it provides a "healthier" relationship for them. They feel that teaching as a married couple is very fulfilling; Mrs. Wright says: "My husband and I have many things in common. The learning experience that we have gone through has especially enriched us. Subjects we teach are related and we both enjoy the cultural knowledge obtained through traveling, which we enjoy. The great advantage of being a married couple is that we have the opportunity, together, to share our knowledge with our students and friends."

There are also "fringe benefits" of being a married teaching couple according to the Wangs and the Wrights: They only have to drive one car and they can always eat lunch together! They agree that this is what being a married teaching couple is all about.

Open Sandwiches Feature Tuna Olives

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We hope you like broiled open sandwiches as much as we do, for today we have a new recipe for these for you to consider trying.

One of the features of these sandwiches is that you can keep the main ingredients — tuna and ripe olives — for them on your pantry shelf. And this sandwich topping makes use of a couple of extra egg whites. By the way, these can be at hand in your freezer. We put extra egg whites in empty baby-food jars, in differing amounts, in our freezer and then they are on hand when needed. They thaw in a short time.

TUNA AND RIPE OLIVE PUFF SANDWICHES

1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna
½ cup coarsely chopped canned ripe olives
1-3rd cup mayonnaise
¼ cup finely chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced scallion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon dried crushed savory

3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 egg whites
6 slices rye bread
Butter

Whole pitted ripe olives, Radish roses and celery for garnish.
Drain and flake tuna; mix in the chopped olives, mayonnaise, celery, scallion, parsley, savory and 1 tablespoon of the cheese.

In a small mixing bowl beat the egg whites until they hold stiff peaks. Gently fold into tuna mixture.

Toast bread on one side under broiler. Spread untoasted sides with butter. Spread tuna mixture generously over buttered side of each slice; sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons cheese.

Broil about 4 inches from high heat until topping is heated through and lightly browned.

Serve 2 slices, open-face style, for each portion. Or, if you like, stack 2 slices together to make a double open-face sandwich. Garnish with whole olives, radishes and celery.

Makes 3 servings.

Four hundred recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in car of AP Cookbook, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Women 'Resort' To Classics

FORGOTTEN — Fashion for the woman who isn't attracted to fads updates the classic look for the full, womanly figure. Understated but chic is the theme for clothing manufactured in Europe but designed in the United States. For resort wear — and into spring and summer — the packable polyester knit skirt in greens touched with purple on a black ground shows Oriental influence. The softly draped top, left, is color-keyed in green. Looking neat without being contrived starts with cuffed polyester doubleknit slacks, worn with a long-sleeved turtleneck topped by a navy and white check man-tailored shirt jacket, second from left. Shipboard evenings are brighter in a Delft blue evening skirt with a blue and white long sleeved uneven-dot print, second from right. A dressed-up look for the busy woman is classic and casual in pleated polyester knit skirt topped by a white turtleneck and sea-going blazer to match the skirt. All fashions are from Hooper Associates.

Sloppy Shoppers Add To Losses

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Count thoughtless consumers among the hidden costs of grocery shopping.

You'll find them at any hour any day in any supermarket.

One is the mother who pacifies her crying child with a banana to eat while she shops. Another is the shopper who opens a package of cookies for the same purpose, then returns the opened package to the shelf.

Without realizing it, both pay for their thoughtless and irresponsible acts in price increases levied to cover the losses. The rest of us pay, too.

Food losses from shoplifting, pilfering or stealing alone range from one half to two per cent of total sales annually in retail food stores, says the cooperative extension service of Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge.

In a pamphlet, the service described some of the shoppers responsible for these losses. Maybe you know some of them. Maybe you've even been guilty yourself of behavior that helps elevate food prices.

Some Examples
Like the time you left an unwanted can of tuna on the bread rack or a bag of fruit with the canned goods. Or worse still, left meat, frozen food or other perishables on an open shelf where spoilage began before a store employee found the products and could return them to the proper case.

An unopened can of tuna won't spoil, of course, nor is the fresh fruit liable to suffer. But this problem is so prevalent that some stores hire extra help to pick up after sloppy shoppers.

You may say the loss represented by the one small bag holding the fruit isn't much. True. But it adds up, if as many as 100 customers a day pull the same trick. That may well happen in some large stores which serve several thousand customers daily.

The produce department is a high risk area in this respect. Some shoppers can't resist squeezing and pinching fruit to test it for ripeness. Some snap the ends off green beans, apparently trying to determine their freshness or crispness. Bruised and damaged fruits and vegetables are either thrown away or reduced in price. Either action contributes to price increases to make up the loss.

Extra Helpers Hired
The extension service said produce managers make a new bed for apples, bananas and other fruit on the average of once every 40 minutes during a shopping day. In some stores, one or two extra helpers are hired to keep displays in order, if shoppers frequently make a shambles of them by pulling one piece of fruit from the bottom layer.

Meat costs spiral when packages have to be rewrapped because a shopper ripped, tore or punched holes in the original wrapping. The extra costs stem not just from packaging materials but also from the time needed to clear cases of damaged packages and rewrap them.

Chances are you think of the place-holder at a checkout line largely as a nuisance who uses a childish ploy to get ahead of others. He or she expects to hold his position while he dashes off to cash a check, search for a forgotten item or have another weighed.

Several such traffic jams, especially at rush hour, may lead a store manager to create extra work at extra pay by taking an employe temporarily off his regular job to open another checkout line.

So the time you're tempted to adopt any of these shopping habits, resist it.

New Rescue Building An Asset

Farmville has dedicated a new building for the Farmville Rescue Squad and the people of the area donated $6,200 on the same day to help finance the structure.

A radiothon on WFAG radio and other events raised the funds on Saturday. Some $6,000 was raised previously and the total funds will be applied to the $20,000 cost of the structure.

The building contains a meeting room, kitchen, storage room for first aid supplies, office restrooms and garage.

The new structure will make a fine home for the Farmville Rescue Squad which now numbers 21 members. It is another step in building the kind of rescue service which our county needs.

Most of our rescue squads are composed of volunteer members and often equipment and buildings have been financed through community efforts.

It is good to know that trained rescue squads are available throughout the county for emergencies. The efforts to obtain the building at Farmville are characteristic of how rescue squad service has been expanded in Pitt County.

Kindergartens For Every Child

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The North Carolina Constitution mandates the General Assembly to provide a uniform system of free public schools "wherein equal opportunities shall be provided for all students."

Tax-supported kindergartens now are available to only some 3,500 of the state's five-year-old population of approximately 87,500. Proposals before the legislature call for serving an additional 18,814 by 1975.

with the Constitution in the kindergarten bill.

Operating all-day kindergartens will involve hardships for schools and families, particularly in rural units, Campbell predicted. "Is it in the best interest of a five-year-old to put him on a bus with students up to the 12th grade to ride long distances every day?" he asked. "If I were a parent, I'd debate very seriously whether to let my child go."

Voluntary Participation
The kindergarten program structure is voluntary, not compulsory as with other grades. School units may choose whether to put it in; if they decide against it, funds then can go to other units.

The result can be a concentration in city systems, with a further imbalance in opportunities between rural and urban children, Rep. Campbell contended.

If a stairway is to be constructed to a statewide system, he said, the steps should be built into the program rather than leaving some children behind at each stage. The precedent of history favors that route, he noted.

"That's how we increased the length of the school term to nine months, and added the twelfth grade," he explained. His plan, if adopted, could be expanded until it reached the equivalent of a statewide kindergarten program, Campbell said. He evolved it himself, but he has talked with educators who see merit in the approach, he said.

Head Start Model
Although he doesn't use the term, the Campbell proposal owes something to the model of Head Start programs for disadvantaged youngsters, familiar in many Tar Heel communities. In effect, it would be a statewide Head Start to prepare all Tar Heel children for school experience.

The distinctive feature, Campbell said, would be a thorough examination to determine the child's physical and mental readiness for the rigors of the classroom. "Many students have been labeled dull in early grades because they could not hear or see well enough to stay up," he said. Saving money isn't his primary objective, but his bill would serve that purpose, the Wilson legislator said. Preliminary research indicates a cost of some $19 million per year.

In comparison, the next stage of kindergarten development proposed by education officials would require $22 million. A fully implemented public kindergarten, reaching all five-year-olds, would cost $61.7 million per year.

"A summer program would use building we already have and teachers now on the payroll," Campbell explained.

Deserving Honor For Senator Sam Ervin, Jr.

North Carolina's Senator Sam Ervin was winner of the first annual Thomas Jefferson award. He was cited as the one who best defends freedom of the press.

Certainly this award to Sen. Ervin was most deserving. He is a fierce supporter of the basic freedoms guarantees as provided in the Constitution. No doubt the senator long ago recognized that without press freedom our other liberties would soon be vulnerable.

We hope that Sen. Ervin will keep up his staunch defense of our individual liberties.

Trip To Peking Involves Risks

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The strong probability that Dr. Henry Kissinger's latest visit to Communist China will sweeten relations between Washington and Peking carries with it an ominous risk: always-suspicious Moscow may read far too much into the new U. S.—Chinese talks.

As one top expert says privately, "The Soviets are climbing the wall" over Kissinger's Peking journey. The result, although still regarded as unlikely, could be a sudden Soviet decision to use force against its mortal enemy, Communist China, in a resumption of fighting in eastern Siberia.

It could — again, not likely but possible — a swift nuclear strike against the growing Chinese nuclear capability which, experts here estimate, will be beyond a sudden knockout punch from the Soviet Union or anywhere else by 1975.

Soviet leaders scoff at all such Western talk as abhorrent nonsense. Further, they read it as deliberately inspired anti-Soviet propaganda designed to pit super-power Russia against giant-power China, with Uncle Sam watching from the mountaintop and waiting to pick up the pieces.

In fact, however, that Soviet line grossly underestimates the Nixon-Kissinger team's own acute awareness that the game of triangular would politics now being played with Moscow and Peking is extremely dangerous to all three parties.

Sitting in the catbird seat rapidly warming its relations with both Moscow and Peking, the U. S. is in a position to play one off against the other — "to diddle the commies," as one high official puts it, to Washington's own advantage. Thus, any sudden indication that Mr. Nixon is playing games with one of the Communist powers at the expense of the other could act immediately to "destabilize" — to use the vernacular of Nixon aides — U. S. relations with the suspicious power.

It is precisely such "destabilization" — a possible by-product of Kissinger's wending visit to Peking with no parallel visit to Moscow — that now worries top policymakers here. Even with "de-stabilizing" the new harmony between Washington and Moscow, some experts here have been saying privately for months that the odds are at least 50-50 in favor of a Soviet strike against the growing Chinese nuclear arsenal.

If the Kremlin has actually pondered such a military strike, any hint that Washington and Peking were coming closer together, at Moscow's expense, would obviously make it more likely.

The analogy used here takes the form of a question: How would Washington policymakers react if Mexico were about to reach a second-strike nuclear capability against the U. S. ? That is precisely the chilling prospect in China which now confronts Moscow.

It is certainly not the administration's purpose to wage psychological warfare against Moscow by seeming to threaten intimacy with Peking at Moscow's expense. To the contrary, "de-stabilization" of relations with the Soviet Union is regarded with horror.

Thus, Kissinger's agenda in Peking is actually loaded with mundane items: admitting American newsmen routinely, more cultural exchanges, more trade and, most important, a U. S. Chinese deal to help keep the peace in South East Asia. (Continued on page 6)

All About Devaluation

WASHINGTON — "All right, students, let's have a little quite in the classroom. Today we will discuss the American dollar and what has happened to it within the last week. Are there any questions?"

"What caused people abroad to lose faith in the American dollar?"

"There are many theories. One is that the Italian lira was in trouble so Italians sold their lira and bought dollars with them. Then they took the dollars to Switzerland and sold them for Swiss francs. The Swiss bankers were very perplexed about this, so they notified their Arab sheik oil clients that the Italians thought the dollar was in trouble.

"The Arab sheiks sold their dollars for German marks. Israeli intelligence picked this up and Israel started buying gold.

"Multinational companies such as ITT, General Motors and General Electric got wind of what the Israelis were up to and started dumping their dollars on the market in exchange for British pounds.

"The British, who couldn't understand why anyone would want British pounds, sold their dollars for French francs. The French, suspecting a trick, started buying Japanese yen.

"In order to keep their own money from being raised the Germans and the Japanese had to keep buying American dollars.

"The situation got so serious that Germany and Japan told the United States that unless it did something about the dollar, they would both go to war with America again—and lose.

"This would be too much for the United States to take, so the President decided on a 10 per cent devaluation of the dollar. Are there any other questions?"

"What is the advantage of devaluing the dollar?"

"We can sell our goods abroad which will cut down our balance-of-payments deficit. Our things are 10 per cent cheaper, foreign people will buy them. At the same time, it will cost 10 per cent more to buy things from abroad which will discourage Americans from purchasing imported items."

"But if we stop buying things from countries abroad, why will they buy anything from us?"

"That's a good question. Next?"

"Will the lack of confidence in the dollar have any effect on the American tourist?"

"Quite a bit. One day, if the dollar is doing well, you may be able to buy a bowl of soup. But if the dollar is doing badly, it's quite possible you may starve to death. I'd advise all tourists to carry a bag of diamonds with them, just in case no one abroad will (Continued on page 6)

Other Editors Say Not Just Retailer

(Washington Daily News)
We talk about the rising costs of merchandise in all fields of endeavor, and so often it seems that we, the ultimate consumers tend to blame the retailers for what is happening.

The determination of what a given item will sell for is made all the way from the beginning to the ultimate sale to the consumer. Yet, a housewife will go to the grocery store and whereas last week she could buy three cans of tomatoes for 69 cents, she finds this week that the same three cans are selling for 71 cents. Immediately, she tells the retailer that he is unreasonable and that he ought to know better. But it so happens that the retailer had to pay the wholesaler 10 cents more per case. The wholesaler had to pay the processor more this week. The processor had to pay more for the tomatoes he bought this week on the open market. And all along the line a price increase is felt.

It even happens on given situations that the butcher in a super market is blamed for the increase in meat prices. Yet, if we go right down the line we find that step by step each one who had a part in the growing, processing, wholesale selling, and retailing had a part in the price increases.

We look at the prices of automobiles today and we know that the prices have gone up considerably in recent times. We are told that the costs of installing anti-pollution devices on autos have caused prices to go up. And not only those devices are involved, but then we learn that cars today, because of the devices, use more gasoline than was the case a few years ago.

Then we read reports that by 1976 the anti-pollution devices on cars will mean a general increase of up to $60 on some models. Well, some devices are already in use, and already car buyers are feeling the price increases.

Yet, go to a car dealer today and it seems common tendency in so many cases to blame him along for the current price increase. In all truth, the car dealer might be as upset by the price increase as is the buyer. He may not be making any more profit on a given car now than he did four years ago.

What we are saying is that in all lines of endeavor the rise in the prices is a fault of the handlers involved and not just the retailer. Whenever the retailer has to pay more for a given item, it simply means that he must sell it for more to the consumer or customer.

The profit motive is such that all along the line, the established profit margin must be maintained or else some cannot stay in business.

The producer, the middlemen, and the retailer are all a part of the story. But to blame only the retailer is totally unfair and unwarranted.

We saw tobacco in 1972 sell for more than ever before. Did it really occur to us that when we go to the store to buy tobacco products, that we shall have to pay more?

When the costs of raw materials go up, then we can be sure that the finished products will cost more at the market place. Add to the prices the rising costs of labor, increased taxes, and other increasing costs, and we begin to understand better.

Offer Voluntary Meatless Day

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, disclosing that food prices last month took the biggest jump in a generation, says consumers might consider going meatless one day a week, or maybe switching from hamburger to cheese.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Tuesday that retail food prices in January rose the most in 20 to 25 years. The increase, he told a farm meeting, will be announced later this week by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

On Capitol Hill, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said consumers worried about the high cost of meat, might try cheese until President Nixon's actions to curb food costs become effective.

"I have nothing to suggest in the meantime except possibly that the American public will be just as well off if it spent less on meat and more on cheese," Burns told a congressional committee.

"On a purely voluntary basis, I think we would be just as well off if we had one meatless day a week," Burns said.

C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said Burns' proposal was more jawbone than cheese.

"It's part of the jawboning that's associated with the administration trying to get beef prices down," McMillan told a reporter.

Butz, speaking to the opening session of an annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference, said the Consumer Price Index to be announced later this week will show retail food prices went up last month "2 to 3 per cent or something like that."

Further, Butz said, some big-city reporters will interpret the rise as even larger, at an annual rate of 24 to 36 per cent, which would be "grossly unfair" because such a projection does not explain seasonal variations and volatility of farm prices. "During the last two

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Five American and Danish psychiatrists say a study of adopted children who became alcoholics as adults suggests a tendency that the disease may be biologically inherited.

They studied 55 Danish men who had been separated from their biological parents during early infancy, and one parent had been diagnosed as alcoholic.

These were compared with 78 other adopted men whose biological parents had no known history of alcoholism.

The study found that "significantly more" of the first group had a history of drinking problems and psychiatric treatment.

And the offspring of alcoholics also had a divorce rate three times that of the second group.

The study was outlined in the February issue of the Archives of General Psychiatry, published by the American Medical Association.

It was done by Drs. Donald W. Goodwin and Samuel B. Guze of Washington University, St. Louis; Fini Schulsinger and Leif Hermansen of Kommunehospitalet, Copenhagen; and George Winokur of the University of Iowa.

They attempted to separate biological from environmental factors in the development of alcoholism.

The American researchers collaborated with the Danes because Denmark is a closely knit society with centralized national records of adoptions, psychiatric hospitalizations and criminal activities.

The men studied had an average age of 30, ranging in age from 23 to 45. All had been adopted before they were six weeks old.

Ten of the 55 offspring of an alcoholic parent were found to be alcoholic, compared with four of the 78 whose parents were not alcoholic.

Twenty-two of the first group had received psychiatric treatment, including nine alcoholics, while 19 of the control group had such treatment and two were alcoholic.

Twenty-seven of the offspring of alcoholics were divorced, while nine of the others were divorced.

Strength For Today

The age in which we live is the most pleasant and comfortable that humanity has known in its history. But it is also a dangerous age. If there was ever a time when wars should cease upon the earth that time is right now, yet there are wars and rumors of war. The world has become a neighborhood. It should be a happy and satisfying assemblage of good neighbors. It is far from that today. Nations are lunging at one another's throats precisely as they did centuries ago.

The most appalling vice that has descended on our present generation is the use of habit-forming drugs. They literally tear the personalities of addicts into shreds. Fighting the desire for drugs, paying for them with the last cent one has, experiencing the family disruption that usually follows addiction — these are the prices people pay when they fall victim to this evil.

Many courses of action are necessary as we confront the evil of drug addiction. One of these is heavy penalties for the pusher — especially those who push their wares among young people.

The drug pusher is even worse than a murderer, should be recognized for what he is and punished accordingly. He brings a veritable hell into many houses. He tears lives apart and tramples on them. Happy the person who never gives in to the temptation to try the stuff. One such experience may lead to lifelong bondage. By Earl Douglas

Evans-Novak... Carry Guns

That means seeking an agreement not to feed Hanoi weapons in the highly critical phase when the 60-day period covering the exit of all U. S. troops expires.

Kissinger was sent to Peking to make one other major point: contrary to critics convinced that Mr. Nixon's only purpose in the long Vietnam negotiations was to cover an "honorable" U. S. withdrawal, the President genuinely believes political stability can be established there — if China helps. What he dimly perceives is postwar reconstruction for all Vietnam in which Peking will have a significant role along with Washington.

But none of that is likely to convince Moscow the U. S. and China are not conspiring against her, just as nothing could have convinced China the U. S. was not conspiring against her if Mr. Nixon had sided with Soviet-allied India instead of China's ally, Pakistan, in their 1971 war.

Thus, while the Washington role of top-dog in the triangular world politics carries powerful assets, it also carries risks that cannot be mathematically calculated. If Moscow should one day decide Peking is getting too much out of Washington, the Kremlin won't stop in at the White House before acting.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Some drivers of Charlotte city buses, especially those working night shifts, are carrying guns, despite company rules against this. They cite racial tension, the fear of robberies, and abuse by drunks and persons who may be taking drugs.

Drivers have not been carrying money since an exactchange system for passengers went into effect two and onehalf years ago after a driver was shot and wounded in a robbery. There have been no robberies since.

"Why do Administration officials say that the devaluation of the dollar is a good thing?"

"What would you say if you had to break the news to the American people?"

"Is the American dollar the weakest currency in the world?"

"No. It is still stronger than the Alabian lek, the Ceylonese rupee, the Burmese kyat, the Cambodian riel, the Tibetan sang, the Honduran lempira, the Iraqi dinar and the Laotian kip."

"When will the American dollar become strong again?"

"As soon as Germany and Japan win a war."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1973

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The decisions you made in joint conversations with others can now be put in effect, at least so far as your part of any such arrangements are involved. Become more active and show that you have the capacity to produce fine results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take time in the morning to go over your important papers, accounts, taxes and see to it that all is well. You can have a delightful time with mate tonight by attending a civic affair.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) See what changes should be made in contracts you have made with others, and be willing to compromise. Forget that resentment you feel toward another. Avoid a troublesome situation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you pay an associate a compliment, you can get fine cooperation for all that work that faces you. Use a new system for best results. Forget the social this evening and get a good rest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A find day for recreation and conviviality, but be sure you are with congenial and avoid arguments. Don't forget to take a good friend along with you. Help one in distress.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you keep promises you have made to kin, this can prove to be a most enjoyable day for you. Take steps to eliminate whatever is causing friction in the home. Show loyalty to mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) There are routine affairs that need to be handled in a clever way for best results. You are capable of analyzing things very well now and can easily impress others. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget all that jumping around socially and pay more attention to important financial affairs that need handling right now. Find a new outlet that can add to income. Show your true ability.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 Nov. 21) Use that magnetism being generated by the planets so that you gain your finest personal aims. It is wise to attend group affairs. Bigwigs can now be most helpful to your interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Arrange a meeting with advisers in the morning and get the ideas you need. Forget anything of a lighter vein. The evening is particularly fine for the romantic side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look to a dynamic friend for the support you need to have greater success and happiness in the future. You can benefit by joining a group affair. Handle correspondence wisely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get the backing you need from an outsider and align yourself with higher-ups for a new project that appeals to you. A civic matter can be extremely helpful. Show that you have expertise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Before you start on a new project, be sure you study every factor concerning it carefully. Make yourself easily available to others. Taking a trip will make everything easier for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people with great determination and willpower that can be felt early in life. Be sure to provide for a good education along right lines so that this life will be a successful and meaningful one. Anything in the field of investigative work and laboratory research is fine here. Give spiritual training at an early age.

Mentally Ill Said Deprived Of Rights

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan says mentally ill persons are sometimes put in institutions without getting the same rights in court that criminals do.

"We have been denying too many persons their constitutional rights by using our civil courts to put people away...under the guise of giving them treatment for mental conditions, treatment which we then never provide," he said.

"We have, in effect, been sentencing people who have committed no crimes to life in prison without the benefits of parole, and without giving them the due process of law that each and every one deserves," he told Tuesday's opening session of a workshop for health administrators from five states.

Health workers from North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Florida are attending the four-day meeting.

Morgan called for support of a bill before the North Carolina legislature which give patients in mental hospitals the right to consult a lawyer and to get adequate treatment.

ROSETTI EXHIBITED
LONDON (AP) — The first large scale 20th century exhibition devoted to Dante Gabriel Rossetti, the painter and poet who was a founder-member of the 19th century Pre-Raphaelites, was staged at the Royal Academy in London starting Jan. 13, to March 11.

Memphis Song-Writing Workshop Draws Many

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — They came from all walks of life and in all shapes and sizes. Some said the reason was money. Some said it was just fun. But for all, the aim was making music.

The event was the first Memphis song-writers workshop, a series of weekly sessions being conducted at Memphis State University by those already recognized in the business. More than 100 would-be songwriters turned up for the first session.

"I'm amazed at the turnout," said course moderator Joe Elmore. "We were expecting maybe 40 or 50. We were going to hold it in the music building on central, but we had to move it to the psychology building auditorium. We needed more room."

Jim Eikner, Linda Edwards and Jerry Williams of Transmaximus Studios were the panel for the first session. Speakers for later sessions are to include Steve Cropper, co-author of "Dock of the Bay" and guitarist, writer and producer for Booker T and the MGS, artist Al Green; songwriter Mark James; and writer and arranger Willie Mitchell.

"Just for the fun of it," was the reason Mrs. Mimmye Goode enrolled in the class. She's a teacher in elementary school.

Mrs. Goode, who majored in music in college, said she frequently helps songwriters with rough drafts of their work.

"I figured I'd pick up a lot of information about copywriting and such that people I work for ask me about," she said.

Other students included a woman model and dance instructor who said she has been writing songs for 10 years and hopes the course will help her make a successful breakthrough.

There is a Memphis State student majoring in music who said he is taking the course to get a feeling on the practical world rather than the academic. There are a few professional songwriters just trying to keep sharp, and one salesman who said he just likes being around music people.

Mrs. Ann Cummings, a secretary, said she'd just like to know how to put lyrics together.

Robert Drewery, a lawyer, said he's got a double interest, since he represents a well-known singer.

But, Drewery says he can see something in the course beyond the familiarity with his client's work.

"Did you hear them talking about all those pennies you can make every time one of your songs is played?" he said. "Yeah, I'm interested in writing. I'm counting my money already."

"Music leaders haven't really had sufficient time or the right opportunity to offer guidance to potential writers," commented Elmore.

The current workshop sessions end in mid-March, and Elmore said there will be experimentation "to determine how we can best work together in future workshops."

He added that the school, working with Memphis Music Inc., a local foundation, hopes to explore other areas of the music business in future workshops.

Hints Marriage To Flip Wilson

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — "It's supposed to be a big secret," said Rosilyn "Roz" Taylor in confirming a report she and comedian Flip Wilson probably will marry.

Miss Taylor, 26, made the comment Tuesday after being contacted by a reporter. "How did you know?" she asked when reached at the home of her parents here. "No wedding is planned immediately. We probably will be getting married in six months. I guess that's soon enough," she said.

Wilson, 38, declined comment except to say, "There's nothing to say about anything.... All we're here for is to breathe fresh air and drink clear water."

Predicts Shift To Southwest

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Dallas-Fort Worth Southwest Metroplex will witness a major business boom during the next two decades, according to Leslie O. Barnes, president of Allegeny Airlines.

"We see a major shift to this part of the country because air transportation in the Eastern and Midwestern centers has become saturated with little hope of relief," Barnes said.

Honor 'Father' Of Conservation

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bird Grinnell has been placed in the National Wildlife Federation's Hall of Fame for conservation.

Known as the founder of the Audubon Society, he was influenced as a youth in New York by the widow of John James Audubon. A trained scientist, he took over the weekly Forest and Stream magazine and made it a national force for conservation. He campaigned for enforcement of game laws, for proper forest management and for protecting park land. When he died in 1938 he was eulogized as the father of American conservation.

Mildew flourishes in damp, warm, poorly aired and poorly lighted areas.

Cleetwood Says Legislation's Effect Would Be To Tie Hands

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"I see it is an ominous bill," Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, remarked about legislation proposed on February 9.

Introduced by Rep. Herschel Harkins of Buncombe County, House Bill, Number 339 would entitle county commissioners in North Carolina to receive ownership to any real school property not actively used for school purposes for a consecutive period of five years or more.

"This bill does not at all bode well for our school systems," Dr.

Cleetwood commented. "It will tie our hands completely in being able to acquire property for future long-range planning." An amendment to the bill reads—"Any real property that has been held by a board of education for at least five years or more and has not been used for school purposes for five consecutive years or more is presumed to be unnecessary or undesirable for school purposes..."

In the same section, the bill provides for legal means for county commissioners to adopt a resolution that would serve as an "instrument of conveyance." Once recorded, the document would remove the property from the ownership of the schools and vest ownership to the county. Three separate properties currently owned by the Greenville School Board would immediately be subject to such transfer action if the bill is passed.

"The oldest in terms of years the school system has owned the property is the land north of the river," Dr. Cleetwood commented. "This is a 12 acre tract north of Mumford Road in East Meadowbrook." The superintendent pointed out that although there are no immediate plans for this tract of land, the thinking all along has been that eventually an elementary school might be needed in that area.

The second tract that would be immediately eligible for transfer under the amended bill is the Lynndale property. This land, which the school board has held for six years, Dr. Cleetwood says, "figures in long range plans for our school system, although there are no immediate plans for its use."

The final of the three Greenville sites is the old Eppes school site. This property of nine acres, Dr. Cleetwood said "contains a gymnasium and lighted fields." It is also, he pointed out, "being leased at the Hospital . . .

$200,000 grant has been promised from the state to go toward the cost of the hospital proper to pay for facilities to provide services that will render rehab patients out of the other part of the hospital. This brings the deficit to $2,728,852, so if the $2 million loan is obtained, time to the Greenville Recreation Department and is being put to good use although not being used for school purposes."

On his thoughts about chances of the bill passing, Dr. Cleetwood said "I feel there is a very strong possibility it will pass. It's my understanding it has widespread county support. "If it passes, I can see it as a detriment to school systems not only here, but throughout the state."

the amount needed will be $728,852. Hopefully this amount can be supplied by Duke Endowment, gifts to the building fund, and possibly from local revenue sharing funds, Richardson said.

He emphasized that these figures are based on estimates and that firm figures will be available only at bid time which is slated for early summer.

In other business, the receipt of a Duke Endowment check for $12,516 was announced. This gift is based on a formula of $1 per patient-day of free services rendered. As of Feb. 1, bills from the hospital for x-ray services do not include the charges by Dr. Allen Taylor and Dr. William McConnell, radiologists. They have begun billing for their professional services separately, as do the other physicians.

A plan to change the present medical staff lounge and library into outpatient surgical unit was explained. The doctors have agreed to have their lounge and library moved to the hospital education building, in order to free the room near the emergency area for such a unit.

The hospital maintenance department will do most of the work necessary for the changes and hopefully the outpatient surgical unit will be ready to accept patients within 60 days, Richardson said. At present, some surgery simple enough for the patient to go home the same day is being done in the emergency area, but the area is extremely crowded and not more than four operations can be done each day. Use of the new unit will free the emergency area and will allow at least six operations a day to be done.

The Board commended the entire hospital staff for their devotion to duty during the most recent snow storm. The latest ministers' registration list was approved.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed prices characterized the stock market today in slow, dull trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 3.83 at 979.76, and declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange erased a narrow lead held by gaining stocks.

Among active issues on the Big Board, most price changes were fractional. AT&T, the volume leader, was unchanged at 50%. A block of 75,000 shares sold at 50%.

Marcor, Inc., was the second most-active stock, off 1/4 at 24%. A block of 102,700 shares changed hands at 24%.

Pacific Petroleum continued weak down 1 1/2 to 37%, reflecting a downtrend in Canadian oils.

On the American Stock Exchange, the active issues also were making only fractional changes, except Hi-G, Inc., which reported a profitable December quarter, against a loss last year. The issue was up 1/4 to 10%.

The volume leader, Warner Communications preferred C, was unchanged at 9%.

At 11 a.m. the New York Stock Exchange index was up .02 at 62.12.

The Amex's price-change index was off .01 to 25.36.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — Charlotte spot cotton report for Tuesday for staple lengths of 1, 1-1/2 and 1-1/4 inches, respectively:

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market tone strong and supplies barely adequate to short of good demand. Weights tending light at some points.

North Carolina hens: Market steady supplies remain short on heavy types and demand good. Light type adequate and demand fair. Heavies too few to report prices. Light type, at farm, six.

FORCED DOWN

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel air force planes forced a Libyan passenger airliner to crash-land in the occupied Sinai Desert today, a military spokesman said. About 70 persons were killed and 13 survivors were taken to a hospital, he added.

The spokesman said rescue workers were at the scene of the crash attempting to pull survivors out of the wreckage.

Opening lead: Six of ♠
East found himself placed under considerable pressure in discarding against South's three no trump contract, and while he did succeed in putting the latter to a guess at the key moment—declarer came up with the right answer.

East opened the bidding in third position with one spade and South overcalled with one no trump—preferring that call to making a take-out double inasmuch as he had 16 well distributed points and an evenly balanced hand. Altho North did not have the 10 points usually associated with a direct raise to game, his semi-solid five card suit provided a measure of justification for his enterprise.

West opened the six of spades. East played the king and ace and when the jack appeared from South, East continued with a third round to clear the suit. Declarer led a small club to dummy to take the diamond finesse. When the jack held, he had eight tricks—five clubs, two diamonds and one spade. A potential ninth trick was available in hearts, however, South was reluctant to make a heart play immediately, for fear that East would get in to cash the setting tricks.

Declarer chose to run the clubs first by cashing the ace and then leading over to dummy. East observed that he would be obliged to make two discards, and in order to protect his holdings in the red suits, he elected to give up both of the established spades. [Keeping one spade and parting with either a small heart or a diamond is tantamount to surrender.]

A heart was led from dummy and East played the three, subjecting declarer to a guess in that suit. Observe that, if South finesses the ten, West will win with the queen. Now if the latter returns the ten of diamonds, he can establish his partner's king to score the setting trick when the latter gets in with the ace of hearts.

South, however, decided to play the opening bidder for the ace of hearts, and when East followed with the three, declarer put up the king to score his ninth trick.

holding classes for one group of students in the morning, and classes for another group during the afternoon). The board agreed that this issue should be debated with the state department.

J. W. Edwards and John McDonald, representatives of Cancer Care Insurance, appeared before the board seeking permission to offer their insurance program to county employees.

Cancer Care, offered by American Family Life Assurance Co. of Columbus, would be offered to school employees on an optional basis. The individuals would be billed directly but would be offered group rates.

Cost of the insurance per family (regardless of number of children) would be $45 yearly and for a single person would cost $30 annually.

The family plan would cover spouse and dependent, unmarried children to age 21, or to age 23 if a full-time student.

School employees would save 25 percent of the cost of the insurance by purchasing it through group rates.

The representatives were given authorization to approach the school employees, as long as they do not interrupt the classroom work and have permission of the school principals.

Brian VanDercook, head of public relations for the county schools, presented to the board some material on drugs he plans to print in "Prospectus", a bimonthly magazine published by the Pitt County Schools Information Service.

VanDercook said the entire issue will be devoted to drugs, including the different kinds, how to tell if one's child is taking drugs, and how to recognize the various types of drugs.

VanDercook told the board this would probably be the last issue of "Prospectus" since the Emergency School Assistance Program, under which he was employed, has not been renewed for the remainder of the year.

Board members approved a resolution of appreciation to the Ayden Auxiliary Police Force which has contributed time to assist in supervising athletic events at Ayden-Grifton High School.

The board agreed to give their support to a capital improvement bill that has been introduced in the General Assembly which would provide Pitt County Schools with $1,021,267.50.

If approved, the money would be presented to schools in form of grants and could be used for capital improvements and renovations, reconstruction, or for purchasing of equipment.

Nelson Baldrree, principal of Grifton Elementary, and Stuart Tripp, principal of Ayden Primary, were given permission to release their teachers at 2 p.m. on March 8 and March 15 in order that they might attend a workshop at the school dealing with the preparation of teaching materials needed to strengthen the school program of instruction.

Parents and aides would be responsible for the students for the remainder of the school day.

Approval for early dismissal was given. Board members also granted maternity leave to three county teachers and approved a substitute teachers list.

A resolution of commendation to Russ Cotton, principal of Farmville Central High School who was named North Carolina's Outstanding Educator, was adopted.

Cotton, nominated by the Farmville Jaycees, is now eligible for national competition, scheduled to take place in Minnesota in June.

A graduate of Davidson College and East Carolina University, Cotton is currently serving as principal of Farmville Central for the fourth year.

Arthur Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, requested the board's permission to withdraw the application made recently to the Emergency School Assistance Association. Alford said the county school's application had been turned down one time already and that reapplying and going through the process again was not worth what the county would probably receive from ESAA, if anything.

The board declined a request from the Warren County Board of Education to join them in asking the state department of education to excuse the school days lost due to snow.

Obituaries

Baker

Mr. Linwood F. Baker, 56, died at his home, 208 Arlington Circle, early Wednesday morning. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mr. Baker had lived in Greenville most of his life and was a painter. A veteran of World War II, he served with the U. S. Army during World War II and was in Italy and Germany. He was a member of the VFW and the Pitt County Post No. 39, American Legion.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mavis Coward Baker; two sons, Robert L. Baker of Bell Arthur and Steve Baker of the home; his mother, Mrs. Emma Lee Baker of Winter Garden, Fla.; two brothers, Allen Baker of Canada and William Baker of Winter Garden, Fla.; and two sisters, Mrs. William Fussel of Greenville and Mrs. Linwood Ray Wainwright of Farmville.

Funeral services for Mr. Johnny Lee (Jimmy) Long, will be held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Phillips Brothers Mortuary Chapel. The Rev. Dave Hammond will officiate and burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Blanche Long of Greenville; one foster son, Shelton Sutton, also of Greenville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Long of Pitt County; five sisters, Mrs. Virginia White of Fayetteville, Mrs. Mattie Suggs of Winterville, Mrs. Frances Wooten of Greenville, Mrs. Shirley Crandall of Winterville, and Mrs. Valentine Perkins of Pitt County; four brothers, Charlie Long, Leon Long, both of Pitt County, Raymond Earl Edwards of Kinston, Eugene Long of Pitt County.

The family will receive friends at Phillips Brothers Mortuary Thursday from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Stallings

Mr. James W. Stallings, 53 died in the Veteran's Hospital in Durham Tuesday afternoon.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Al Davis, pastor of Trinity Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Stallings spent most of his life in Pitt County and resided at 121 E. Eighth Street. He was engaged in farming and was employed at Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company. A veteran of World War II, he was a prisoner of war in Germany for

Monarchs Hand Bucs 4th Straight Loss

NORFOLK, Va. — East Carolina University fell for the fourth straight time last night, as Old Dominion University whipped them, 67-53. The Pirates, who haven't won now since beating Furman, St. Peter's and Richmond in a row the first week of February, have no chance of a winning regular season. They are 11-12 on the year, and have only an important Southern Conference game with The Citadel left. The winner of the game will finish in third place in the Southern Conference. For Old Dominion, it was the continuation of a string against the Pirates, who haven't beaten them since the 1969-70 season. Since then, counting last night, the Monarchs have won four in a row. Overall, Old Dominion is 6-2 against the Pirates.

Al Faber hit a jumper with 50 seconds left. But Old Dominion got another basket for a 30-23 lead at the half.

East Carolina switched to a triangle and two defense in the second half to try and stop Copeland and Nau, but they were only half successful, holding Copeland to just two more baskets, but Nau scored 10 of his 16 points in the period.

The Bucs, from their seven-point half-time deficit, were able to cut it only once to five, 38-33 on a tap by Dave Franklin with 14-55 to play. But later in the period, Old Dominion streaked away with 6-0 sprint and Nau hit to give them their biggest lead of the game, 54-39 with 7:45 to go.

North Pitt Romps In Opening Round; Ayden-Grifton Is Beaten

DUDLEY — North Pitt High School's unbeaten Pant-HERS rolled to victory number 78 last night with a 67-28 romp over Clement in the first round of the District II Girls Tournament.

Ayden-Grifton's Chagarettes were not quite as lucky, bowing to Roseboro-Salemburg, 50-38, eliminating them from the field.

North Pitt will now meet the winner of the Southern Wayne-East Duplin game, played tonight, in Thursday's semi-finals. C. B. Aycock plays South Lenoir for the other semi-final berth against Roseboro-Salemburg.

scoring with 22 points, while Phyllis Jenkins had 15 and Joy James had 12. Scoring for Clement was unavailable.

In the opening game of the tournament, Roseboro-Salemburg shot out into a 14-6 lead in the first period of play. They were never caught after that. They were out in the second period by Ayden-Grifton, but only by 9-8 and still held a 22-15 halftime edge.

In the third quarter, R-S continued to pull away, outscoring the Chagarettes, 16-14, to up their lead to 38-29. They finished A-G off with a 12-9 final period.

In the third period, the Big Orange really got going, pushing through 18 points while holding Clement to just four. That ran the lead out to 46-24. They polished off the final period with another romp, 21-4, to brush aside Clement.

Keydets Shock Indians, 66-64

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Virginia Military may yet finish last in the Southern Conference basketball standings, but the Keydets have thrown a monkey wrench into easy speculation on who'll wind up third through sixth.

Steve Chapin hit from underneath with seven seconds left, then converted a free throw as the Keydets shocked William and Mary 66-64 Tuesday night, perhaps knocking the Indians out of a first division berth.

Williamston High School gained the semi-finals of the Albermarle Conference Basketball Tournament, which is also serving as the District I, 2-A tourney, with a 57-42 victory over Murfreesboro last night.

The victory pulled VMI up to 3-8 and a tie for seventh with Appalachian State, but the Keydets still have to play at Richmond Thursday night while the Mountaineers have ended their league season.

In Tuesday night's only other action, East Carolina took a 67-53 whipping at the hands of small college power Old Dominion, which upped its record to 16-8 while dropping the Pirates to 11-12.

The Tigers will meet the winner of tonight's Plymouth-Northampton game in Thursday's semi-finals. The tournament winner advances to the State 2-A playoffs next week.

Dwight Ange led Williamston with 19 points, while Henry Wiggins added 16. For Murfreesboro, Jackie Vaughn and Willie Gibbons each hit 12 points.

William and Mary dropped to 4-6 in the conference with a game Saturday night at Richmond, 4-8 but now a threat to move up at least a couple of notches.

All conference teams are idle tonight. "I think we deserved this one," said VMI Coach Bill Blair of the Keydets' triumph. "We've had our share of bad luck and it helps take some of the sting out of the season."

Prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams. Members may make up their own foursomes without a pro or team player if they desire.

Members of the golf team will accept no prizes, nor will any of the participating pros. All proceeds from the tournament will go to the ECU golf program.

Foreman Honored

HOUSTON (AP) — World heavyweight champion George Foreman has single-handedly brought something here that fans have been eagerly awaiting for years—a professional sports championship.

William and Mary suffered 13 turnovers, the most costly one with 33 seconds left and a 64-63 lead. VMI worked the ball to Chapin, who hit the winning basket and got the insurance free throw.

As an added attraction, equipment salesmen from the major golf companies will be on hand to display their 1973 line on the terrace in front of the pro shop.

An entry fee of $20 is charged, and those who wish to participate should contact pro Gordon Fulp at the pro shop as soon as possible.

And when Foreman returned to his hometown Tuesday for the first time since knocking out Joe Frazier to win the title in Jamaica last month, the city gave him the red carpet treatment with a parade and ceremonies honoring George Foreman Day in Houston.

"Foul shooting has cost us about five games this season," said Blair. "Chapin made a big one for us this time."

It was a memorable homecoming for the modest, patriotic Foreman, who grew up in the rugged Fifth Ward as a street fighter before he got his high school diploma through the Job Corps and became the 1968 Olympic heavyweight champion.

North Lenoir Surprises Conley, 57-46

WHEAT SWAMP — North Lenoir High School, remembering its good fortune of last year, is on the loose again. The upstarts who made their way into the finals of the District II, 3-A Tournament in 1972, knocked off top-seeded D. H. Conley, 57-46, last night to gain a semi-final berth.

But their victory was one of two upsets during the night's play. Eastern Wayne, the fourth seed from the Eastern Carolina Conference, knocked off West Carteret, 67-43, the top-seeded team from the Coastal Conference. West Carteret had twice handed Division II 4-A winner Kinston losses.

North Lenoir now advances into Thursday night's semi-finals against the Ayden-Gritton-West Craven winner. Eastern Wayne will meet the winner of the Greene Central-Havelock game, also on Thursday. The finals will be Friday night.

Conley fell behind for good late in the third period, and in the final frame, their turnovers as they hurried to erase a simple deficit helped to get them further behind. North Lenoir didn't help themselves either, going for the basket on poor shots when they should have been controlling the ball, which they finally did, moving from a three-point lead to an 11-point one with free throws.

The Hawks, playing on their home court, knew where the basket was, hitting 21 of 43 shots from the floor. Conley got off 10 more attempts, 53, but hit on two less, 19, and that was the big difference until the late free throw binge by the Hawks.

In the final period, Conley didn't get off a shot for the first 2½ minutes, and then only had four in the first four minutes. They ended up with just one of 11 shots in the period.

Conley pushed through the first two baskets of the game to take the lead as Larry Daniels hit from underneath and Mike Sutton hit from the corner. But Mike Miller, who proved to be a decisive factor, grabbing off defensive rebounds and putting offensive ones back in, put the Hawks on the board.

Conley and North Lenoir matched baskets for the next couple of minutes, until a free throw by Daniels put Conley out by five, 9-4 with 4:46 left.

North Lenoir then came back to take the lead. Miller tapped in a missed shot and Roy Jones hit from the top of the key. Gary Battle scored off a rebound and with 3:07 left, the Hawks had taken a 10-9 lead. Miller hit from underneath to push it out to three, before Conley finally got point again. They tied it up at 12-12 on free throws by Daniels, but couldn't take the lead. North Lenoir went back out, and Conley tied it again at 14-14 before a basket by Jones left the Hawks on top, 16-14, as the period ended.

David Hardy hit on a drive to open the second period and after an exchange of baskets, he hit from the lane to run the lead out to six. But Conley fought back and tied it again. Daniels and Kervin Hawkins each hit and Rick Mobley scored on a follow-up to tie it at 22-22. They tied it again at 24-24 after the Hawks hit again, but North Lenoir still denied them the lead. Miller tossed in a rebound to go back out, 26-24, and then added a free throw. Battle hit a jumper with 2:47 left to make it 29-24, but that was the last points of the half for the Hawks.

Mobley tossed in a rebound and Milton Tucker hit from underneath to pull them within one. Then, with 44 seconds left, Tucker hit a jumper to put Conley on top at the half, 30-29.

The two teams opened the second half with a scoring binge that saw the lead change hands seven times. Conley went out by as much as three during it, 36-33, but with Johnny Atkinson leading the way, North Lenoir fought back and finally pushed ahead on his shot from underneath, 39-38 with 3:38 left. It was the last time they were to have to pass Conley.

Atkinson hit again from the lane to give North Lenoir a three-point edge, but they had to settle for a 43-42 margin as the horn sounded.

Conley then went ice cold, getting only one basket the final period and that came with just 1:56 left to go.

Hardy opened the period with a free throw to up the lead to two, and a basket by Miller made it four. Hardy added two free throws to move it to six, 48-42, and it looked like it might be all over then.

But Conley made on last effort. They managed to steal the ball and Buddy Phillips made two free throws to trim it to five. Then, after North Lenoir controlled the ball from 3:58 to about two minutes, Conley got another steal and Phillips scored the lone basket of the half. And as it turned out, the final Conley points. It cut the lead to three, but the Viking rally ended there.

North Lenoir then forced Conley to foul the rest of the way, as they hit eight straight free throws. Atkinson started it with two, and Hardy made four in a row, while Miller closed it out. Oddly enough all eight points came in the final 40 seconds of play.

Miller led the Hawk scoring with 20 points, while Hardy had 13 and Atkinson had 12, 10 in the third period.

Phillips, with 11 was the only Viking to crack double figures. Conley closed out the year with a 19-5 record.

East Carolina Swimmers Prepared To Roll To Another Southern Title

East Carolina University begins its chase for a "real" championship this year in swimming on Thursday after being denied all but a "self-proclaimed" one last season.

The southern Conference did not have a championship meet last year, thus denying the Pirates their seventh straight title since joining the conference. "We are the self-proclaimed champions from last year," Coach Ray Scharf says. "We beat everyone we swam by a wide margin in the conference, so in our minds we're going after our eighth, not our seventh straight."

And Scharf makes no bones about the outcome. "We're going to win. If we don't it will be due to some natural catastrophe or sabotage."

Chief competition for the Bucs should come from William &

Mary, and Scharf feels that VMI, Richmond, Appalachian and Davidson will follow in that order. "I'm not sure whether Furman will be represented or not. They have resumed swimming on a club basis this year, I believe, and The Citadel is due to resume with a team in one or two more years. Swimming is on the upswing in the league, and this is going to make it much tougher on us in a short time."

The Pirates have set as their goal winning every event. Scharf says it is a possibility, but that number of things will have to go right for the Bucs to do it. "We could lose in the 100 yard butterfly, backstroke, and breaststroke, and the 200 backstroke. I don't think we're going to be challenged in the freestyle events and the diving as much as we have been in the past. The medley relay could also be up for grabs."

But aside from that, barring that natural catastrophe and sabotage, the Bucs should be rolling along as usual.

Thursday, five events will be held, and there is good possibility that the Bucs will win them all.

Leading it off is the 500-yard freestyle, and Scharf feels the Bucs could go one-two-three. "I'm not sure about the strength of William & Mary, since we haven't met them," he said. Leading the Bucs should be Larry Green, whose best time of 4:54.8 is better by several seconds than the league record. Paul Schiffel, Tom Falk and Ricky Prince could place high for the Bucs also.

In the 200-yard individual medley, Wayne Norris is the defending champion and should be favored again. Other top Pirates are Greg Hinchman and Charlie Kemp.

Paul Trevisan, who has yet to win a title in the league, is far and away the leading man in the 50-yard freestyle. Several other Bucs could also shine, including Jim Hadley, Kevin O'Shea, and John Manning.

In the 400-yard relay, Scharf is unsure about who'll be swimming some of the legs. In the backstroke, it could be Ron Hughes, Hadley, Hinchman or Prince. David Kohler or Kemp may handle the breaststroke, with Norris in the butterfly and Trevisan in the freestyle.

Rounding out the first day's activity is the one-meter diving, with defending champ Jack Morrow leading the field. Tim Winslow should add extra points for the Pirates. East Carolina had never lost a diving event in the conference meet.

Friday, action opens with the 400-yard individual medley, with Norris again the favorite. Schiffel and Green could also score.

In the 200 freestyle, Tom Falk will lead the Bucs, followed by Tervisan, who may be the man to beat. Bobby Vail could add more.

Kemp is the leading Buc in the 100 butterfly, followed by Prince and Chris Vandenoever.

In the 100 backstroke, Hinchman is the leader, with Hughes and Hadley backing him up.

Kohler is the Bucs' best in the 100 breaststroke. Don House and Cliff Bristow should offer additional points for the Pirates.

Saturday's competition opens with the 1,650-yard freestyle, and Green is the top man here. Prince and Falk will also score well, the coach believes.

Trevisan, Vandenoever, Manning, Hadley and Vail could all score well, and might sweep the 100 freestyle.

Schiffel leads the 200-backstroke field, followed by Hughes and Hinchman.

In the 200 breaststroke group, Kohler again is the leader for the Bucs, with House and Bristow behind him.

In the 400 freestyle relay, Norris and Trevisan are definite, with either Hadley, Manning, Vandenoever, Hinchman or Vail adding the other two spots. The Bucs also have an 800-yarder on Friday, and that will probably see Green, Falk, Norris and Trevisan.

In the 3-meter diving, in for the first time this year, Morrow and Winslow should dominate.

State, Duke In Key ACC Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Norman Sloan, coach of the unbeaten, No. 2-ranked North Carolina State basketball team, sends his troops into the smoky cavern of Duke's gymnasium tonight in an Atlantic Coast Conference version of the irrefutable force meeting the immovable object.

With 21 games without a loss behind him, Sloan presses constantly asked about the pressure of winning. "It hasn't caused any pressure at all, on me or the team," he says.

Following a win over Wake Forest Saturday on the Deacons' home court, Sloan commented, "If this is pressure, I thrive on it. If we had lost this game, the pressure on us would have been a lot greater."

The game at Durham will test both squads. Duke has won 17 in a row there, has a fourgame win string going and has taken seven of its last nine. "We want State," Blue Devil fans chanted near the end of Saturday's 86-74 triumph over Notre Dame.

In an earlier meeting, the Wolfpack slipped by Duke, 94-87. "I think we have improved since that time," Duke Coach Bucky Waters says. "We know

State has a great team, but we believe we have a good chance to win."

With victories at Duke and at home Saturday against North Carolina Charlotte, State will equal its all-time win streak. In 1955 the Wolfpack won 12 in a row at the end of one season and the first 11 the following year.

Three other games are scheduled tonight for ACC teams: No. 8 Maryland is at Duquesne, Virginia is at Pitt, and Miami, Ohio, is at No. 6 North Carolina. No teams played Tuesday night. In Monday's only action, Clemson upset Virginia, 56-54 in overtime.

Players on the State and Duke teams are well aware of the importance of their clash. Gary Melchionni, the Blue Devil star in the last few games, said he sees his team's biggest problem as "the fact that State is unbeaten...They don't want to lose or intend to lose, and they have the talent to find different ways of winning."

"Sure, the pressure will be on them, but that merely gives them more incentive and energy and pep to pull out the close games."

The Wolfpack's senior forward Rick Holdt—the only one on the team who remembers a victory in Durham—says, "We'll have to get way up. It seems that whenever we play Duke, they have rebuilt their team and are real strong."

The starting fives are roughly equal in size. Duke has a front line of 6-8 Chris Redding, 6-9 Bob Fleischer and 6-10 Alan Shaw to go against 6-4 David Thompson, 7-4 Tommy Burleson and 6-6 Holdt. In the Blue Devil backcourt are 6-3 Melchionni and 6-2 Kevin Billman, while State has 5-7 Monty Towe and 6-1 Joe Cafferky.

Both have adequate depth for a sustained attack.

The other games for league teams are not expected to be as close. Maryland, 17-4, faces independent Duquesne with a 12-6 record; Virginia, 11-8, meets nonaligned Pitt which has an 11-12 record; and North Carolina puts its 20-4 record on the line against 13-9 Miami of the Mid-American Conference.

Hits 60 In Game

BARIUM SPRINGS, N.C. (AP)—Ann-Ellis of South Iredell High School closed her regular season basketball play in the North Piedmont Conference with a school record 60 points Tuesday night.

She hit 24 of 36 shots from the floor and 12 of 18 freethrows as South Iredell trimmed North Rowan 81-20.

In four years of play she has totaled 1,979 points. The boys' record at the school is 51 points and the co-holder is Bill Ellis, brother of Ann. He now is a sophomore starter with the Gardner-Webb College team.

Immanuel Ups Church Lead

Immanuel Baptist took a giant step toward the Church Basketball League title last night with a 47-41 win over arch-rival Oakmont. In the other games, Black Jack beat Grace, 74-62, and St. James held off Trinity, 44-39.

Immanuel is not 13-1 in the league, while Oakmont, the only team that can catch them is 11-2. The magic number for Immanuel is now two.

In the opening game, Black Jack and Grace struggled through the first half with Black Jack holding a 36-35 lead at halftime. In the second half, however, Black Jack out Grace, 38-27, to gain the victory.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 20, while Ephigm Smith had 18, and Danny Edwards and Ray Hardee each had 14. Grace was led by D.R. Daniels with 22, while Lewis Hardee had 16, Curtis Sutton had 14 and Steve Wise had 10.

Immanuel and Oakmont fought a close first half, with Immanuel gaining a 25-22 halftime edge. Immanuel then held a 22-19 edge in scoring in the second half to take the win.

Dick Evans led Immanuel with 15, while Drew Rumbley and David Hahn each had 10. Hen Cheely led Oakmont with 18, while Bob Hall had 14.

In the final game, Trinity gained a 23-20 halftime lead, but St. James rallied in the second half. They outbit Trinity, 24-16, to push ahead and gain the victory.

Mike Board led St. James with 20, and Guy Howell had 12. Jim Adams' 20 was high for Trinity.

Industrial Ends Regular Season

Union Carbide downed the Post Office, 70-46, and Wachovia Bank beat Preps, 36-27, to create a three-way tie for fourth place in the Industrial Basketball League's final standings.

Union Carbide, Preps and Greenville Utilities all finished the year with 7-7 records. A coin flip will be necessary to decide the order of finish before tournament play gets underway.

In the opening game, Wachovia rolled up a 24-4 lead in the first period, but nearly fell asleep doing it. Preps came roaring back with a 23-12 second half and closed the gap considerably. But it was not quite enough.

Bert Stephenson led Wachovia with 12 points, while Clyde Murchison had nine to pace Preps.

In the second game, Union Carbide rolled up a 34-22 lead in the first half. They outshot Post Office, 36-24 in the second half to win easily.

T. Roach led Union Carbide with 26 points, while Larry Daniels had 20. Sam Daniels had 12 and Lewis Boyd had 11. For Post Office, Wayne Hardee and Donnie Taylor each had 12.

New Bern Rips Rose In Final Contest

Seagren Picks Up Loot In Superstar Contest

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ROTONDA WEST, Fla. (AP) — "It's a lot more scary to compete for money," said Bob Seagren's blonde wife Pam. "I've never seen him so nervous, so edgy, so hungry to win."

And how he won. After many years as a great amateur pole vaulter, the 26-year-old Californian became a pro and outclassed nine of the most honored athletes in the world.

Seagren won four of 10 events in a unique two-day sports competition known as the Superstars, featuring athletic heroes competing in events other than those for which they are famous.

His first check as a pro: $39,700.

"We've got a dream house in the Westwood section of Los Angeles, near the UCLA campus," 22-year-old Pam said when it ended Tuesday.

"When Bob was running first in the half-mile race, I could see our house riding on his back."

Eight of his competitors are $100,000-a-year athletes or better, including heavyweight boxer Joe Frazier, football quarterback John Unitas, skier Jean-Claude Killy, tennis ace Rod Laver, basketball's Elvin Hayes, hockey's Rod Gilbert, race driver Peter Revson and baseball star Johnny Bench.

Bowler Jim Stefanich averages $50,000 annually.

Seagren won weightlifting, baseball hitting, the half-mile run and a one-mile bicycle race, taking $14,700 in point money and a $25,000 bonus guaranteed to the No. 1 man overall.

Killy rallied with a second to Hayes in the 100-yard dash, a second to the heavily-favored Laver in table tennis, a fourth in the half-mile and third in the bike race. The Frenchman earned $23,400 for second place overall despite not winning an event.

Laver also came on strong, taking first place in table tennis and second in the bike event, deadlocking first-day leader Revson for No. 3 overall. They made $13,100 apiece.

Seagren's total of 49 points was followed by Killy at 28, Revson and Laver with 27, Bench 26, Hayes 24, Gilbert and Stefanich 17½ apiece and Frazier and Unitas 12 apiece.

By TOM FOREMAN, JR.
NEW BERN — New Bern's Bears advanced into further tournament play in Division II, 4-A by defeating Rose High's Rampants, 80-64, last night.

For both teams, it was the second time they had met in six days. And for the second time, it was the Bears' outstanding height that prevailed over the Rampants.

Many times, the Rampants were forced to settle for one shot at their own basket, while New Bern afforded miss after miss, but reclaimed rebound after rebound to get more shots off.

Just like the earlier meeting of these two teams, New Bern raced out to an early lead and slowly began to increase that lead as the game progressed.

Before long, any hopes Rose High had of going further were diminished. The Bears took the lead to stay after controlling the opening jump ball. Van Smith and Ronnie Gray hit successive jumpers before Rose could issue a reply. Jackie Savage dropped a lay-up to make the score 4-2 after 1:30 had elapsed.

New Bern then reeled off five more points before Rose could score on another Savage basket. Billy Moore's lay-up gave New Bern an 11-4 lead with 4:05 left to play in the first period.

The lead increased to 13-4 before Herb Bynum's bucket broke a scoring drought. Two free throws and a jumper by Ronnie Gray advanced the lead to 17-6.

Robert Brinkley hit one of two free throws to make it 17-7, but New Bern hit eight unanswered points before Jackie Savage broke another drought to make the score 25-9. Gray dropped a shot at the buzzer ending the first quarter at 27-9. Through the Rampants outscored the Bears, 16-14, in the second quarter, the first period was the Bears' death blow.

Robert McClellan led off with a basket to increase the margin to 29-9. Savage and Taylor connected to close the deficit to 29-13. Ronald Scott also connected, but Herb Bynum and Savage combined for three points and a 31-15 tally.

After trading baskets, David Howard and Ronald Scott stretched the Bear lead to 20 at 37-17. Rose then answered with six points, four of which were hit by Al Hunter, the other bucket by Phil Ragazzo. Mike Harris' free throws, against Gray's basket, left the halftime score at 41-25.

Gray and his teammate, Gary Mattocks, knocked home the first four points of the third quarter before Robert Brinkley's basket put Rose on the scoreboard. Smith and Earlest Dove hit four more points until Brinkley could hit again, making the score 49-29 with 3:49 remaining.

New Bern's lead reached twenty points on four different occasions in the third period, and Dove's lay-up with six seconds left put the lead at twenty at the end of the period, 57-37.

The Rampants outscored New Bern 27-23 in the fourth period, but their previous deficits made the efforts to close the gap useless. Smith's basket with 4:49 remaining gave the Bears their biggest lead of the night at 25 points, 71-46. Rose then fought to bring the lead down, coming back with buckets by Savage and Harvey Tucker. Tucker helped erase two more points off the lead with a bucket at the 1:45 mark. The score at this point was 72-54.

The lead floundered between 20 and 18 until the end of the game, when Brinkley's two free throws brought the final deficit to 16 points.

Gray led all scorers in the game with 20, while Smith and Moore added 16 and 10 respectively. Savage led the Rampant attack with 15, while Hunter helped with 14, and Brinkley hit 11.

Cougars Paste Nets By 123-106

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virginia Coach Al Bianchi was happy—not because his Squires had lost, but because they hadn't gotten clobbered.

"I thought that, early in the game, they had a chance to blow us out," he said of the Memphis Tams. "I was happy to see us hang in there, because we've been blown out a lot lately."

"But when we made our run at them, they had the poise they needed and they got the big hoop when they needed it."

The Squires, trailing virtually the entire way Tuesday night, sliced the Memphis lead to 103-102 with 40 seconds to play as Virginia rookie George Gervin popped in five quick points. But George Thompson responded with a field goal and George Lehmann added a pair of free throws to sew up the Tams' 107-103 victory.

"This was a good win for us," said Memphis Coach Bob Bass. "We knew we had to win tonight no matter what New York did."

What the Nets did was lose 123-106 to the Carolina. What that did was allow the Cougars to widen their lead over idle second-place Kentucky to 4½ games in the American Basketball Association East. And, equally important, it enabled the Tams to edge within 2½ games of fourth-place New York in the scramble for the division's final playoff berth.

In the only other ABA game, Dallas defeated Indiana 119-112.

In the National Basketball Association, Boston beat Phoenix 107-97, Buffalo clipped Kansas City-Omaha 113-106, Milwaukee mauled Cleveland 118-100, New York nipped Portland 110-106, Chicago clubbed Los Angeles 103-89 and Golden State stopped Atlanta 118-115.

"Our team defense was real good and we stopped their fast break real well," Bass said of his Tams' performance against the Squires. And he had some special praise for an individual's defense, too. "Will Jones played a super game against Julius Erving," he said.

Erving, the ABA's No. 1 scorer with a 31-point average, was held to 20 against the Tams, who were paced by Randy Denton's 23 points.

Miller Changing View Of Sports

By RAY FITZGERALD
Boston Globe Columnist
(For The Associated Press)

BOSTON (AP) — Why should adults get into a dither because Marvin Miller is muddying up the waters of content in The Summer Game? Miller, after all, is only doing his job. He's pursuing a legitimate course in an attempt to better conditions for those who employ him—the major league baseball players.

He gets about $80,000 a year to perform this function, so why should we get all excited when the net result is confusion and name-calling?

And I came to the conclusion the other day, as I sat steaming in an expressway tie-up, that the reason people of my age group get into a stew over Miller is that we want sports to be the way it was a generation ago.

We want baseball—and all sports—to be the way we remembered them when the men in action were larger-than-life heroes and not just worried guys trying to make an extra buck.

There is nothing wrong with the extra buck, of course. You like it and so do I. It pays the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, and you know how hard it is to get a candlestick maker for a house call these days.

Money isn't evil, but when it gets tossed around in million dollar lots, it creates problems. More hands get into the grab bag. Men fight over the dollar sign. Lawsuits arise.

The battle for money is chewing-up sports and it's also chewing up the fan, because he has a nostalgic view of a world that no longer exists.

Derek Sanderson, for example, leaves the Bruins and signs in another league for an amount that is beyond our comprehension.

Sanderson plays badly for his new team and has some intramural difficulties, so his lawyer works a deal. He gets a financially rewarding settlement. Derek, who is paid off by one team and gets a new and lucrative contract with the Bruins, where he is welcomed back with open arms. There is nothing illegal in the situation, understand, but somehow the entire process offends the fan's sense of righteousness.

Or consider Jim McDaniels, a pro basketball player. He left his American Basketball Association team in the middle of a fight for a playoff spot because Seattle of the NBA offered him a million dollars.

A middle-aged fan brought up on words like loyalty and doesn't understand what McDaniels did, but then the fan has never been offered a million dollars.

Seattle has since discovered that McDaniels is not a very good player, so there he is, sitting on the bench making more money than the President or a brain surgeon, and it's all very legitimate, but a fan doesn't understand it.

Baseball ended in October and football didn't start until then. You would have laughed yourself silly if someone said there would be hockey in Atlanta and laughed even more if it was suggested that the Stanley Cup would be decided in May.

Times have changed and that includes sports, and many of us haven't kept in step, nor do we want to. We want it the way it used to be, but we know that's impossible and that's what bothers us the most about Marvin Miller.

MISSES THE BIG ONES
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Owner Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers not only missed the unusual play that led to his team's last-gasp victory over Oakland, but he missed the Super Bowl game in Los Angeles. And Rooney was on or near the scene each time.

In the play-off game against Oakland, Rooney was in the Park elevator when the winning touchdown was scored. He thought his team had lost at the time. And for the Super Bowl, Rooney gave away his ticket to a Philadelphia man he had befriended. The Steeler owner saw that game — Miami 14, Washington 7 — on TV.

VIVA Reminds MIA Fate Not Yet Been Determined

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Inside the newspaper graced with the happy front-page headlines that more prisoners of war had been released was an advertisement.

"WHERE ARE OUR MIAS?" it asked.

The full-page ad is one of those being taken out in 150-200 newspapers across the nation by POW-MIA organizations. An MIA is one of 1,363 military men and 30-45 civilians listed by the organizations as missing in action in Indochina.

The ad pictures Lt. Ron Dodge, a Navy pilot shot down May 17, 1967. A photograph by a Dutch photographer showing Dodge being paraded through the streets of Hanoi appeared in Paris Match magazine in September 1967, the ad says.

Dodge's name did not appear on Hanoi's list of POWs held in North Vietnam, South Vietnam or Laos.

The Pentagon says there are 1,328 U.S. military men missing in action or unaccounted for in Indochina, while the State Department lists an additional 24 civilian MIAs.

Voices in Vital America (VIVA) best-known for its worldwide distribution of five million bracelets bearing the names of POWs and MIAs, says it is coordinating the ads. It calls on its bracelet-wearers and other Americans to protest the Communists' alleged failure to account for all Americans they captured.

It says one way to do this is to demand of Congress that not one penny be spent on rebuilding North Vietnam until all MIAs are accounted for.

VIVA is also asking all bracelet wearers to continue wearing them at least until all American POWs are released.

"We are urging people to continue wearing their bracelets to help alert others that the issue has not yet been resolved satisfactorily," said Mrs. Douglas Coppin, chairman of VIVA's National Advisory Board.

The MIA families are particularly disappointed about the accounting of POWs in Laos. Of 317 men carried as MIAs in Laos, only seven were listed by Hanoi as prisoners.

"We know with modern ejection methods there is a great chance of pilot and crew survival when a plane goes down. This figure of seven men is ludicrous," Mrs. Coppin said.

She said 56 men previously believed by the U.S. government to be POWs were not accounted for by Hanoi. She said another 11 MIAs were reported dead, while 46 MIAs were named on the POW list.

Six Victims Identified

JACKSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Five Marines and a sailor were killed in the head-on collision of two cars near Jacksonville Monday night. Two were from Texas, and the others from Michigan, Ohio, Massachusetts and Oklahoma.

The only survivors were a mother and son from Kinston, N. C., Mrs. Mary Wiggins, 47, and Robert Wiggins, 16, who were riding with Cpl. Thomas Gajewski, 20, of St. Clair Shores, Mich. Gajewski was stationed at nearby Camp Lejeune.

The five servicemen in the other car were from the New River Air Station across the New River from Camp Lejeune.

They were Navy Dental Tech. Patrick M. Swindle, 21, of Odessa, Tex.; Lance Cpl. Danny L. Willis, 26, of Winnie, Tex.; Pfc. James K. Zearbaugh, 20, of Oklahoma

March Of Dimes Is Nearing Goal

The 1973 March of Dimes campaign is edging closer to the $10,000 goal set for this year, according to a report from Captain Gerald Fabisch, campaign chairman.

As of Tuesday, Fabisch reports that some $9,300 has been banked from efforts of various projects to raise funds. "This does not include approximately $250 we expect to realize from the Dance-A-Thon, nor the collections that will come in from canisters," Fabisch said.

The Dance-A-Thon, held at Wright Auditorium last Saturday night, is a new fund raising device introduced for the first time this year.

"It was quite successful, Fabisch stated, "and plans already are being made to conduct one next year."

The AFOTC Air Force instructor said it "was the most spirited thing I've seen around for a long time. People really enjoyed it. About 100 dancers participated."

Fabisch said that he was pleasantly surprised that 12 dancers managed to continue dancing for the entire 12 hour period. The Dance-A-Thon was based on dance marathons that were popular in this country in the 1930s.

Trophies were given to the best dancer and to groups for best participation.

Morgan Asks For Copter

RALEIGH (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan wrote a letter Tuesday to Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt and House Speaker Jim Ramsey requesting the legislature to transfer one of the state's two helicopters to the Justice Department for exclusive use in law enforcement.

"... The Department of Administration has increasingly allowed helicopters to be used for non-law enforcement purposes so that it has become almost impossible for law enforcement agencies within the state, including the State Bureau of Investigation, to obtain their use," Morgan wrote.

He claimed the SBI tried to get a helicopter for use in the search last week for escaped prison inmate Henry Jarrette, but said "the Department of Administration failed to provide a helicopter for the search" until the next day.

Charles W. Williams, state

general services officer who schedules use of the two helicopters, told a report both were being used in eastern North Carolina on the day in question with the State Highway Patrol's Operation Snowbound.

Forced Landing Near Farmville

FARMVILLE — A Pink Hill man, flying a light plane rented at the Kinston airport, made a forced landing in a field about three miles from here early yesterday afternoon.

Richard Christy told investigators he was forced to land in the field when he ran out of gas on a flight from Washington, N. C. to Kinston.

Minor damage resulted to the aircraft in the 1 p.m. forced landing.

Officers said the plane, a Cessna 150, was practically new, with only 179 flight hours.

South Carolinians Speak Kindly Of The President

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — When the words were finished and the cheering had stopped and President Nixon had left South Carolina, an old woman leaned up against a tree on the State House lawn and said: "He's a wonderful man."
The view was one apparently shared by many other South Carolina residents who lined Columbia's streets Tuesday.
The 20,000 or more who came out in this historic capital city to see Nixon included whites and blacks, the well-to-do and the poor, the businessmen and the workers, the young and the old. "Thank you for our POWs," was scrawled across one sign. "We love you, Mr. Nixon."
But it was the President who had come to South Carolina to thank its people and he spoke kindly of them. And, when he had gone, South Carolina, like the old woman at the State House, spoke kindly of him.

Words of praise came from the predominantly Democrat General Assembly which Nixon thanked as the first legislature to endorse his Vietnam peace plan.
House Speaker Solomon Blatt, D-Barnwell, who Nixon noted has held that position longer than any other person in the nation's history, said Nixon made a "wonderful" speech.
"Today was a great day for South Carolina," said Blatt. "He's a great President and I'm proud he's my President."
Gov. John West, a Democrat, said in his introduction of the President to the legislature: "There is no greater tribute which can be paid an individual than to identify him simply as 'A man of peace.'
"Mr. President," West said, "this is a designation which fully and properly belongs to you, and one for which you shall richly earn your place in history."

As Nixon spoke of the Vietnam peace to a joint legislature session, a crowd of thousands packed tightly around the historic old State House, cheered the words from loudspeakers. They waved flags. They smiled.
After his address, Nixon smiling and waving, strode down the steps of the State House toward the presidential limousine and an applauding crowd of about 5,000 that had waited throughout the 22-minute speech to catch a glimpse of the man.
Apparently attracted by the American flag held by 6-year-old Lisa Lovett near the ropes which cordoned off the crowd, President Nixon moved into the crowd to shake hands with the tiny blonde, carrying with him a swarm of Secret Service agents.
Mrs. H. A. Lovett of Columbia, Lisa's mother, said her daughter was a great admirer of the President and had been waiting for more than two hours to see him.

There were only a handful of unadmiring spectators, but there was no organized demonstration. They peacefully passed out leaflets or held up signs protesting cutbacks in welfare programs, higher food costs and the Watergate case.
There were no antiwar signs evident at the State House, or along the 12-mile motorcade route which the President followed from the airport into downtown Columbia.
The governor had urged a big turnout and Nixon's noon motorcade produced one. Crowds lined the entire motorcade route and were thickest near the airport and downtown. Onlookers waved flags and signs hailing the Vietnam settlement and the return of the prisoners of war.
From the moment he touched down at the airport, the President was guarded by a phalanx of Secret Service agents, highway patrolmen and other officers. John Rowland, the capitol's chief security officer, said he had never seen such tight security precautions.

A helicopter circled overhead as the motorcade moved ahead at a moderate pace. From time to time, Nixon stood through the open top of his car and waved his hands in the familiar "V" pattern.
Armed highway patrolmen and sharpshooters looked down on the State House plaza from the 11-story Wade Hampton Hotel. Other officers watched the crowd through high powered binoculars.
In the limousine with the President were Gov. and Mrs. West. Nixon was greeted outside the State House by Rep. Marshall Cain of Aiken, a Republican, and Sen. Marion Gressette of Calhoun, a Democrat.

Earlier, at the airport where approximately 3,000 persons greeted the nation's chief executive, Nixon was presented a gold recording by Mrs. Sandy Bagley of Sumter, whose husband, Air Force Maj. Robert Bagley, has not yet been released by the North Vietnamese. The song is about POWs and MIAs and was written and recorded by Mrs. Bagley. Maj. Bagley, a native of Cummings, Ga., was stationed at Shaw AFB near Sumter before going to Vietnam.
Among those who greeted the President at the airport was Mrs. James F. Byrnes, in a wheelchair. The last time Nixon came to South Carolina was shortly after his first inauguration in 1969 when he visited Maude and Jimmy Byrnes at their Columbia house. The occasion was the 90th birthday of Byrnes, former U. S. Secretary of State, and the couple's 63rd wedding anniversary. Byrnes died about one year ago.
Nixon, in his legislative address, paid tribute to Mrs. Byrnes as "one of the truly great first ladies of America."

Now Exchanging Taped Messages
YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) — Students in an Eastern Michigan University German class are adding a new twist to traditional pen pal relationships by exchanging tape recordings instead of letters with students in West Germany.
Each student prepares his message, in both English and German, by using the language laboratory facilities. The tapes are then sent to a class in Germany where students respond on tape.

Liza Minelli Is Harvard Choice
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Chauffered in a 1940 Lincoln convertible, Liza Minelli rode through the Harvard University campus, trailed by antique fire engines.
It was all part of a campus carnival Tuesday sponsored by the Hasty Pudding Theatricals, who had earlier named the star of "Cabaret" as their "Woman of the Year."
Miss Minelli was the star of the carnival, which featured costumed players from the Theatricals' upcoming play, "Betwixt and Bayou."
Miss Minelli, who has been nominated for an Oscar for her performance in "Cabaret," sang the movie's lead song and said: "This is the greatest party I've ever been to."

Your Home Tells Much About You

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) —Have you ever noticed how much you can tell about a person from his surroundings—the way in which he decorates his home?

Have you ever wondered what your home says about you?

The furnishings expert at B.F. Goodrich, taking a tip from psychologists who say the "environment" you create for yourself tells a lot about you, have come up with a fun quiz to determine if you are happy, sexy or lonely.

Grab a pencil and check off your answers to the following:

1. Do you prefer (a) bright, (b) pale neutral colors, or (c) busy patterns for walls and furnishings?

2. Do you choose colors that (a) provide a neutral background for paintings, (b) are in vogue, or (c) flatter your hair?

3. Do you (a) have a flair for decorating, (b) act like a copycat and duplicate the ideas of a best friend, or (c) do you hire a decorator?

4. Which is more important in your decorating scheme (a) kitchen, (b) living room, or (c) bedroom and bath?

5. Are you (a) the fresh-air type who flings windows open wide, (b) the realist who prefers an electronic air cleaner, or (c) the dramatic type who burns incense?

6. Is your taste (a) modern, (b) traditional, or (c) a combination of both?

7. Do you like walls covered with (a) art, (b) books, or (c) mirrors?

8. Do you prefer (a) soft lights, (b) spotlights you can play up or down, or (c) candlelight?

9. What size mattress do you prefer (a) large, full size, (b) twin, or (c) queen to king?

10. Do you use (a) an old-fashioned hair mattress, (b) coil-spring, or (c) latex foam?

11. Do you like (a) sophisticated touches in accessories such as fur pillows, coverlets or rugs, (b) earthy cotton accents, old-fashioned quilts and embroidered pillows, or (c) very fussy ruffles and lacetrimsed bedspreads, curtains and scented pillows?

12. Do you favor (a) "mobile-like" home furnishings such as stackable chairs and tables, foam mattresses that roll up and move easily, (b) built-in furnishings, beds, seating arrangements and bookcases, or (c) heirloom pieces, big round tables, pianos and large cupboards?

13. Can you say your books (a) all have been read, (b) are for a decorative note, or (c) are few and borrowed?

14. Do you like (a) carpet that you "sink into", (b) bare floors, or (c) area and scatter rugs?

15. Do you have a system for house cleaning (a) regularly, (b) occasionally, or (c) only when guests are expected?

16. Do you favor (a) a formal dining room arrangement, (b) informal dinette, or (c) buffet serving when you entertain?

17. Do you prefer (a) plain, (b) ethnic, or (c) exotic foods?

18. Do you prefer to (a) cook for him, (b) let him cook for you, or (c) dine out?

19. Do you (a) prefer to fix things around the house yourself, (b) ask friends and family to help, or (c) seek professional help?

20. Do you like your music (a) soft, (b) chamber type, or (c) loud and rock?

HOW TO SCORE

Give yourself for each (a) 4 points; (b) 2 points; (c) 5 points.

If your total falls between 81 and 100, the Goodrich folks say, you're sexy. A score from 65 to 80 indicates a happy person. From 40 to 64 you're likely to be lonely.

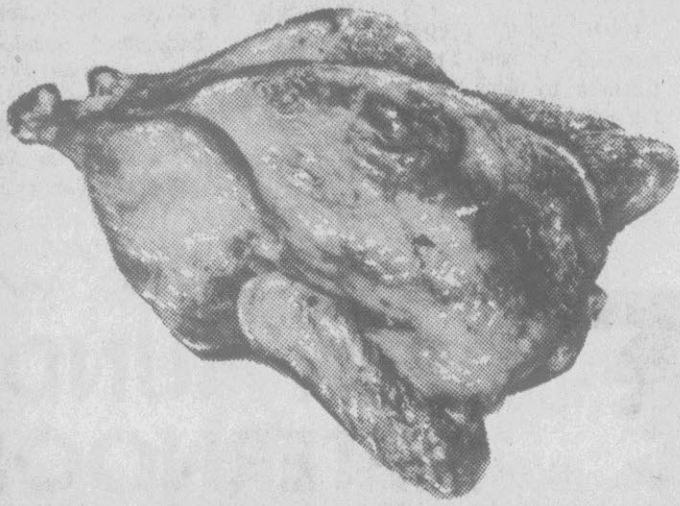

And, if you score under 50, they suggest, it's time to create a new environment for yourself.

Simple Paste For Wallpaper

NEW YORK (UPI) — To make an economical wallpaper paste, use a thick heavy hot starch mixture, let it cool and apply.

Wallpaper also can be removed quickly and easily by spreading a thick hot starch solution over it with a wallpaper paste brush, according to the Faultless Consumer Information Bureau. The starch will hold water in contact with the paper long enough to soften the old paste and its stiffness. Lift off the soaked wallpaper with a broad putty knife.

Popularity Of Hawaiian Music Rises

By RON STATON
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Almost two years ago, Dr. George Kanahele wrote that Hawaiian music was in its "death throes."

Today, he says Hawaiian music is in "a healthy situation."
Kanahele's earlier remark helped bring about a resurgence in Hawaiian music in the intervening two years, and he admits the comment was made partly for its public relations effect.

But it also was meant seriously. To back up his claim, Kanahele noted that there were few Hawaiian shows in the Waikiki hotels, only one Honolulu radio station had a Hawaiian music format, and young musical groups were playing rock.

Shortly after Kanahele's comments appeared in a Honolulu newspaper, he and several others got together and formed the nonprofit Hawaiian Music Foundation to preserve the traditional, ethnic folk music of the islands.

Kanahele, a Honolulu corporate executive of part-Hawaiian ancestry, was elected president.

"We believed that we could no more let our music disappear than the aloha spirit," he said.

To accomplish its goal, the foundation sponsors annual conferences, concerts and financial grants to study Hawaiian music. It depends on contributions from the public and a few fundraising events.

A recent concert featured slack-key artists, and programs featuring steel guitar artists and Hawaiian religious music are planned.

Kanahele envisions development of a slack-key tradition similar to that of the Spanish flamenco, with its own solo artists, costumes, books and gitarmakers. Slack-key is a loosening of the guitar strings, with the thumb playing the bass strings and the other fingers plucking the melody on the upper strings. The tradition originated and was developed in Hawaii.

The foundation also is considering establishment of a Hawaiian music academy for research, study and improvement of Hawaiian music. It would begin as a program to find and train young Hawaiian musicians, with long-range plans for a building to house a formal academy with a trained staff.

Kanahele cited a recent slack-key concert as evidence of popular interest in Hawaiian music. "The concert was sold out a week after the first announcement was made," he said.

As further evidence, he said a number of young musical groups are switching from rock to Hawaiian music, and most of the Waikiki hotels are now featuring Hawaiian entertainment.
He also said many people have asked to join the foundation, which presently is limited to an all-volunteer 31-member board of directors.

But it is more than a matter of popularity, Kanahele said.

"Hawaiian culture can and should be the ideological cement to hold our multi-ethnic people together. In that sense, we are all Hawaiians and Hawaiian music brings us together. It is a common cultural denominator without subverting other cultures."

Says Trucking To Ride Higher

SECAUCUS, N.J. (UPI) —
With new and larger equipment, completion of interstate highway systems, utilization of anti-hijacking devices and improved labor supervision, the trucking industry should be riding higher than ever in 1973, according to the head of a major U.S. transportation company here.

But to meet the expanding market, warns William A.
Nelson Jr. of the Nelson Resource Corporation, and to supply the goods and services required by the great urban complexes throughout the country, the industry must look even farther ahead.

"Methods of cargo handling, containerization, location and configuration of truck terminals all must be viewed with an eye to the long-range future," says
Nelson.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Temptation Is Rough On Diets

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE W-533: Harvey J., aged 38, is worrying his devoted wife. "Dr. Crane," she began, "Harvey's blood pressure is now 190.

"And the doctor says he simply MUST shed at least 40 pounds.

"For he weighs 210 and is only 5'9" tall.

"But I am also about 20 pounds overweight, so I'd be glad to go on a diet with him.

"However, we have both tried to diet in the past, but with no success.

"So what can I do to help him get down to 170 pounds?"

Dieting Strategy

Your body sprouts 3 miles of additional blood vessels for every 5 pounds of surplus fat that you carry!

So Harvey's faithful heart must move his blood through 24 extra miles of blood vessels at every beat!

Obviously, that requires more pressure, which is why obesity wears out your heart faster. Most of the highly publicized dieting plans are excellent, IF you follow them precisely.

But in cool weather, I think you'll prefer my 10-day dehydration diet, for it reduces your weight 10 pounds in the first 10 days.

And Harvey will need a quick tonic to his morale in order to lose 40 pounds for that's a 6-month task.

Here are some medicop-sychological hints for losing weight most easily:

(1) Don't drink with your meals.

Caffeine beverages acid secretion of the stomach and thus stimulate more hunger pains.

(2) Ladle out your quota of calories in the kitchen; then bring your plate to the dinner table.

But do NOT have any other edibles on the table to tempt you, such as family style platters of food or even crackers, cookies or jelly.

(3) Stress protein foods, such as cottage cheese (which gives you the equivalent protein of T-bone steak).

Protein also loses 15 percent of its calories in the process of digestion, which makes it unique, for no other type of food does this!

Besides, your muscles (including the heart) MUST get a fresh supply of protein every day or they will shrink and grow weak.

Save some of your day's quota of calories for in-between meal snacks, to allay hunger.

A banana counts about 100 calories, so eat half a banana about 10 a.m. and again at 3 p.m.

(5) Women should limit their intake to about 800 calories per day and men to 1,200 for the first 10 days, with 400 calories in protein.

(6) On the 1st day, limit your total fluid intake to one full glass (8 oz.).

Raise this to 2 glasses the 2nd day and 3 from the 3rd day through the 10th.

This low fluid input dries up your saliva and gastric juice so you crave less food but focus on water!

Pour that glass of water in the ice tray of your refrigerator and then suck on a thin water when thirsty, for the ice water satisfies you better than similar amount of tap water.

Remember, too, that every time you melt away a half pound of fat, your body creates 8 ounces of extra water internally, much as the camel's fatty hump produces 12 gallons of internal water for the camel.

(7) Don't discuss menus or even look at them! For the sight of menu items helps resurrect more hunger! Get away from the table FAST!

Send for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It also contains a calorie chart.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)
