

Later Rally Helps Devalued Dollar Plunges In Exchange Panic-Selling

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar, devalued less than two weeks ago, plunged to its floor in hectic trading on European exchanges early today, but prompt support by a number of state banks brought a partial recovery. The price of free gold soared to new peaks.

The dollar slump came amid widespread rumors that the nine European Common Market countries were preparing to free their currencies for a joint float in relation to the American money.

Such a move would end government support of the dollar in most of West Europe and the floating currencies would most likely rise further.

Switzerland's big three banks halted trading in gold at one point during the morning, in an effort to calm the market. When dealings resumed two hours later, they were held to a "limited scale."

Some Swiss exchange offices reported scattered protests from U.S. tourists being given nearly 25 per cent less Swiss francs for their dollars than they obtained two weeks ago.

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, Anthony Barber, hinted at an early floating of all Common Market currencies during House of Commons debate late Thursday on the international money situation.

Exchange dealers emphasized that trading was hectic but not heavy. Dollar selling was persistent but relatively small.

Dealers in some markets were too busy to give reasons for the wild selling of dollars and the continuing boom in gold, but it looked like a loss of confidence in paper money.

The dollar was steady in Tokyo, where the market opens earlier than elsewhere. It managed to gain half a yen to close at 265.50.

But in Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam and Frankfurt, the dollar plunged to its lowest permitted level before the state banks of Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany started buying to support the rate.

The Swiss national bank was also reported supporting the dollar even though the Swiss franc has been floating for more than a month. In Zurich, one of Europe's most volatile currency markets, the dollar plunged to a record low of 3.21 Swiss francs, but by noon it had snapped back to 3.1650, still far below Thursday's closing 3.2475.

The dollar also fell in London, with the pound commanding almost $2.50 at the opening, after closing Thursday at $2.4610. Then the pound fell back to $2.4720.

Gold opened in London at a staggering $94 an ounce, repeating Thursday's record jump of $7. But by the time of the price fixing by the five main London dealers half an hour later, the price had dropped back to $89. This was still a rise of $2 from Thursday's close.

The opening jump was considerably less in Zurich — from $87.25 to $89.25 an ounce. In Frankfurt, the opening price was $91, a leap $2.75.

Some London dealers ascribed part of the panic in foreign exchanges to a statement in the House of Commons Thursday by the chancellor of the exchequer, Anthony Barber.

He said the nine Common Market countries were studying the technical possibilities of jointly floating their currencies in relation to the dollar "in certain circumstances" which he did not define.

Barber was speaking during a debate demanded by the Laborite opposition on the international monetary situation following the Feb. 12 devaluation of the dollar. That move was aimed at ending a monetary crisis that had sent almost six billion unwanted dollars flooding into the West German exchange.

The dollar hit its floor level of 2.8350 marks within the first half hour of trading in Frankfurt. The Central Bank was said to have been forced to buy small amounts of dollars and the rate jumped back to 2.8625 marks.

Morgan Would Go To The Legislature For Med School

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Attorney General Robert Morgan—chairman of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina University—said here this morning that supporters of a four-year medical school at ECU must go to the legislature for help in establishing the program.

Morgan's comment came at a coffee and do-nut session here to which some 250 guests were invited.

The get-together was sponsored by Dr. and Mrs. Ray Minges of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis of Farmville and Mr. and Mrs. David Spier of Bethel, and was designed to express appreciation to local supporters of the attorney general in the past election.

Lewis said, "We were very pleased and proud support this capable and honest attorney general."

Morgan, commenting on a report yesterday by a Charlotte newspaper that eastern legislators are preparing a bill that would establish a four-year medical school at ECU and a the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, said "I don't know much about it, but if they want one in Charlotte, the need is in North Carolina and we can afford both of them."

The state official said, "We have a half-billion dollars in surplus..." and indicated at least part of the surplus could be used to finance the establishment of a four-year program at both ECU and in Charlotte.

Morgan said, "I'm not sure..." that such a proposal is the way to go to secure a degree-granting medical program at ECU, "but it will put them (opponents of the ECU proposal) on the spot."

The ECU board chairman emphasized, "We've got to go to the legislature. If we don't, they (the ECU opponents) will think we will lay down and play dead."

A guest at the Morgan breakfast, ECU Vice-chancellor for Health Affairs, Dr. Ed Monroe, when asked about the possibility of legislation creating two medical schools, said "I have not seen and am not aware, as far as East Carolina is concerned of any bill of any description."

"But," Dr. Monroe emphasized, "I am aware of a lot of frustration and disappointment within the legislature over the rather weak recommendation that the Board of Governors and President Friday (William Friday, president of the UNC system) presented for solving the doctor shortage across the state."

The Charlotte newspaper article quoted an unnamed eastern legislator as saying, "The bill is just in the talking stages right now, but some people are definitely wanting to go with a medical school bill for East Carolina."

The newspaper speculated the move to provide a medical school at UNC-Charlotte is an attempt by eastern legislators to gain votes for expanding the one-year medical program at ECU.

Argue Compulsory Breathalyzer Test

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Senate was scheduled today to consider final passage of bills to force drivers to take breathalyzer tests at the roadside or in the police station, or lose their licenses.

Both the bill authorizing the roadside tests and the bill to remove licenses from drivers who refuse to take them won tentative approval after lengthy debate Thursday.

Several senators, however, objected to a final reading, and it was postponed.

As amended from the floor, the bills would authorize policemen to give roadside tests using a portable breathalyzer containing a balloon. The driver blows into the balloon, and his breath is then passed through a tube containing chemicals.

The chemicals are discolored to a degree dependent upon the amount of alcohol in the driver's bloodstream. A level of one-tenth of one per cent is grounds for arrest for drunken driving.

By a vote of 45-1, the Senate decided to suspend the licenses of drivers who refuse to take such a test for 90 days.

The original bill, introduced by Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, would have created a one-year suspension, but an amendment to lower the suspension was introduced by Sen. Michael Mullins, R-Mecklenburg, and passed.

The second bill would close a "loophole in the present law," according to Smith.

Under current law, if a driver refuses to take the test, his license is suspended for 60 days. But if he appeals and is acquitted of the drunk driving charge, the suspension is waived.

Smith's bill would have made a mandatory one-year suspension for refusing to take the breathalyzer test after arrest. It was amended to six months by Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne.

The second bill passed, 38-6. Smith argued during the debate that "there has been a groundswell of opinion to get drunk drivers off the highways."

Thieu Hopeful Elections Can Be Held Soon

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today called for immediate elections in South Vietnam to prevent the Communists from bringing in "millions of people from the North in order to obtain votes."

He also told newsmen his government would like to open talks at once with North Vietnam to make a start toward normalization of relations between the two Vietnams and eventual reunification. A government spokesman cited mail service and travel between the North and South as two things that might be arranged first.

Thieu said he hopes Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Nguyen Duy Trinh, can arrange such "official private talks" between their two governments while they are in Paris for the international conference on Vietnam opening Monday.

Taking Bodies To Egypt

TEL AVIV (AP) — The bodies of passengers and crew members who died in the Libyan airliner shot down in the Sinai wastes by Israeli jets were taken across the desert today to be delivered to the Egyptians at the Suez Canal. The International Red Cross was to supervise the transfer at the canal.

The Israelis carried 104 coffins across the sand, and seven survivors were still in an Israeli hospital, two of them in critical condition. Libya said 113 persons were aboard the Boeing 727 jet, and it was believed the two missing bodies were consumed in the fire that followed the crash on Wednesday.

Israel said the airliner's French pilot trespassed over Israeli installations along the Suez Canal, refused to heed repeated orders from intercepting Israeli fighters to land, and instead tried to escape back to Egypt. The plane was bound for Cairo.

The Arab world has insisted the airliner harmlessly strayed off course and was calculatedly shot down. The Arabs have called for reprisals, and Libya warned the world not to be surprised if Israeli airliners are attacked in retaliation. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, seeking to protect Israel's international stance, said the incident had no "political significance." It was just a crash, a tragedy. But the belief was widespread that the incident would cast a heavy chill over Premier Golda Meir's reception when she visits Washington next week.

Souvanna Phouma Threatens To Ask Bombings Resume

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma said today he will ask the United States to resume air attacks in Laos if the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao continue to violate the two-day-old cease-fire.

"If the other side does not keep their words, we are not obliged to keep ours," he told a news conference at his office. Asked if he thought Washington would agree to resume the bombing, he replied, "Certainly."

U.S. air attacks on the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao stopped several hours before the cease-fire went into effect at noon Wednesday. It was the third cease-fire in Laos in more than two decades of war.

Prince Souvanna said the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao launched a general offensive in northern and southern Laos Wednesday and committed at least 29 major violations of the truce. The premier said he would protest to the International Control Commission, although it is not yet operational.

"Ninety per cent of the violations are being done by foreign troops," he said, referring to the 65,000 North Vietnamese troops estimated to be in Laos. Souvanna confirmed that government forces had been forced to give up the important southern town of Paksong after the cease-fire.

He said the most serious attacks were in the southernmost 4th Military Region, where the Communists attacked in force. This is the area of the Ho Chi Minh Trail, North Vietnam's supply line to Communist forces in South Vietnam. It is also the traditional stronghold of the Laotian right-wingers who are the chief foes of the Pathet Lao.

Reliable sources said the North Vietnamese continued their offensive Thursday night, shelling towns and government positions in both northern and southern Laos.

Cash-Dispenser Is Introduced At Local Bank

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
A new cash dispenser system that will make funds available to North Carolina National Bank BankAmericard holders at any time of day or night was introduced here this morning.

Curtis Hendrix, NCNB vice president and city executive, explained that the newly installed service at the bank's East End Office on E. Greenville Boulevard is equipped to dispense to NCNB customers cash in amounts of $25 or $50.

The system, designated NCNB 24, involves the use by customers of a BankAmericard with a special coded magnetic stripe on the back, Hendrix said. He noted that the card is inserted into the machine and the customer uses a keyboard to punch in his personal identification code, selects the amount of cash he needs, and the money is dispensed electronically.

Paula Bennett of the bank's marketing division demonstrated the system to newsmen and explained that the amount of cash dispensed is either deducted from his NCNB checking account as if a check had been written or added to his BankAmericard account the same as a cash advance.

Customers may use the system twice a day, she said, and obtain a day's total of up to $100. She noted that if a customer chooses to receive $100 at one time, the card can not be used again on that day and a coded system on the card prohibits repeated uses of the card in excess of the twice-a-day of $100 limits.

Only NCNB BankAmericard holders with their six-digit personal identification code can operate an NCNB 24 dispenser, the representative said. If an invalid ID code is punched into the machine three consecutive times, the machine will keep the card.

Hendrix pointed out that the service will be come available at the office on March 25th although customers and prospective customers are invited to go by the branch and use the system on a demonstration basis during the get-acquainted period.

The executive, asserting that NCNB is the "first to bring automated banking to Greenville," said that other new locations of NCNB 24 in eastern North Carolina will be in offices in Fayetteville, Wilmington, Jacksonville, Wilson, and the Goldsboro office when it opens this summer.

By mid-summer of this year, he continued, the bank will have 27 cash dispensers in operation throughout the state. The system was introduced in North Carolina in Charlotte a little over a year ago, it was noted.

Minibike Bill Is Quietly Killed

RALEIGH (AP) — The House Highway Safety Committee put the minibike bill quietly to sleep Thursday.

The committee voted 13-11 for a motion by Rep. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, to kill the bill which would have made parents responsible when their children illegally operated minibikes.

The bill had the backing of the State Highway Patrol and other law enforcement officers.

Young Educator Award For Reading Specialist

OYE AWARD . . . Toby Sklar (C) receives the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Educator plaque from Clarence Stasavich, athletic director at East Carolina University. On the right is project chairman, Stan Morgan.

Toby Sklar, a reading specialist at E. B. Aycock Junior High here, received the Greenville Jaycees' Outstanding Young Educator Award last night.

Sklar, in receiving the chapter's annual OYE honor, was presented a plaque in recognition of his educational service and achievements from the guest speaker for the evening, Clarence Stasavich, athletic director at East Carolina University.

laught at C. M. Eppes for one year.

He is married to the former Joanne Tofani and they have one son, Mark.

Sklar was selected from a group of local nominees by a panel of judges. Nominees considered for the award were between the ages of 21 and 35 and engaged in public education in Greenville.

According to Stan Morgan, project chairman, the purpose of the annual OYE award is to "foster better relations through Jaycee-educator contacts and by creating greater public interest in and understanding of today's educators and their problems."

Pipeline Explosions Kill Four On Nearby Highway

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A series of thundering explosions erupted along a liquid petroleum pipeline early today, killing four people passing in vehicles on a nearby roadway, authorities said.

They said four other persons were injured in the blast, which hurled flames hundreds of feet into the air.

As dawn broke, a search was begun for possible additional victims.

roadway were destroyed by the blast 10 miles southeast of here.

Four persons were brought to Brackenridge Hospital here with burns. Two of the injured with the most severe burns were to be moved by helicopter to the burns treatment center at Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio.

An injured survivor, Michael Grant, 26, of Long Island, N.Y., said at the hospital he was driving a panel truck with several companions near a Phillips Petroleum Co. booster station when his motor died.

Grant said when he turned on the ignition again there was a tremendous explosion and that's all he remembered.

G. E. Wright, a Phillips official at the scene, said, "The booster station just went up." He confirmed the pipeline contained liquid petroleum.

Flames broke out after the explosions in a sparsely settled area of mostly pasture land just south of Bergstrom Air Force Base.

Early today sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen searched the area with floodlights looking for possible additional dead and injured.

Others injured at the Austin hospital included Peter Simons, Salinas Simons, about six months old, and Kathy Grant, 19. Their home towns were not immediately available.

Fires touched off by the explosions were still burning early today but authorities said the flow of volatile fuel had been cut off.

The recipient, a native of New Jersey, received his B. S. degree in education from ECU and earned his Masters of Administration and Education degree from the university in 1972.

He has served as a reading specialist at Aycock for three years and prior to that time

Don't Try Harder—Give Up On Him

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a divorced man for two years now. He has a child by his ex-wife, and my problem is that he keeps reminding me in no uncertain terms that his child will always come first!

I just can't accept this. I don't think any woman could. We have had several very serious arguments over this. He tells me he loves me, then he quickly reminds me that his child will always come first. [This child lives with his ex-wife, but he has generous visitation rights.]

After he's had a few drinks he talks about marriage, and I think he really means it, but when it comes to setting a date, he has so many reasons why he has to wait.

There's only one big problem, Abby. I really love this man in spite of everything. So what should I do?

FOOLISH

DEAR FOOLISH: Tell him your name isn't "Avis," and you don't intend to try harder because you're Number Two. I respect a divorced parent who considers his child, but the closest, most enduring relationship of all is the husband-wife relationship. Kiss the man goodbye before he beats you to it. He's trying to discourage you.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about hunting prompts this letter. Hunting is a sport to which I am morally opposed. My husband knows my objections, but, since he is an adult, I realize that his decisions are his own, and it is with his own conscience he must wrestle. I don't participate in his hunting trips, and have no intentions of doing so.

The problem centers around our 12-year-old son. My husband wants to buy him a gun and introduce him to the sport. Our son, eager to participate in activities with his father, is excited by the prospect.

I don't feel that humans have the right to kill animals unless their lives are directly endangered, or unless they need the meat for survival. We are an upper-middle-class urban family, and neither of these situations is likely to occur.

My husband says that he wants our son to know the joy of our rapidly vanishing wilderness areas. I say, "Fine, take him camping and teach him the craft of the woodsman."

He claims he wants our son to know the challenge of stalking elusive game.

I say, "Fine... let him stalk with a camera. And if he needs to have a trophy... bring home some pictures."

He says he wants our son to be skillful with a rifle. I don't mind that. We have access to an excellent skeet-shooting range and instructors.

Finally, and worst in my opinion, my husband says he wants our son to be a man, and that my refusal to sanction the hunting will turn him into a sissy.

Abby, to me a true man [or woman] is one who rejoices in the beauty of life, who works hard to preserve all of that beauty, who respects mankind and all animals, and who kills only as a necessity and never for pleasure or sport.

Many of our traditional and superficial concepts of manhood and womanhood are being questioned these days, and I think that the question of hunting as a means of developing masculinity deserves being considered by more Americans.

ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR ANIMAL LOVER: Well said. But let's hear it from another animal lover:

DEAR ABBY: Those meat-eaters who throw a fit about harvesting wildlife have got to be some of the biggest hypocrites of all time.

Just where do they think beef, pork and mutton come from? Anybody who's raised a 4-H calf, or nursed along a runt pig or an orphan lamb knows that these animals are every bit as lovable as the majestic buck or graceful doe.

How much kinder is death from a hit on the head with a sledge hammer than from a bullet? All meat eaters are guilty.

In case you're wondering—yes, I eat meat. And no, I don't hunt. And yes, I love animals [present population, one dog, four cats, six horses, and one pig].

Repair Lady Helps Children Build Their Own Bicycles

SHE KEEPS 'EM ROLLING — Gwendolyn Pickett of Cleveland, Ohio, checks stock for her mobile bicycle repair service, which grew out of the needs of neighborhood children and a desire to cut the bike theft rate.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "Kids are my main business; bikes are secondary," says Gwendolyn Pickett, the woman who helped 100 boys and girls build new bicycles for themselves.

At first she was just helping the 12- and 13-year-olds who had turned her home into something of a community center. It became a mobile business in which repairs "cost the kids about half the usual amount," she says.

When she first bought the panel truck in which she carries parts and tools, she says, she didn't know what to expect. Now she hopes to buy two more and to hire other women who like young people.

The divorced mother of five says the steps leading her into her business began when she took her four sons to register for neighborhood baseball teams. She got that done, but she also became a coach. Kids wanting to practice soon were overrunning her home.

"Their bikes would be falling apart, if they had one to fall apart," she says. "Many had lost bikes to thieves. Others never had bikes but wanted one."

"Unfortunately," she adds, "too many youngsters believed stealing was the answer."

But her answer was to buy 25 beat-up, out-of-style bicycles from a second-hand store for $25. Then she taught youngsters to strip them for parts and for building new ones. "We got 10 good bikes out of the 25," she says.

When the children began wanting smaller, modern ones, she told them that if each could get up $20, she would buy the parts and they could learn to build their own and to service them.

That was two years ago. Since then she and her trained teen-aged helpers have supervised construction by more than 100 boys and girls.

"I'm just mechanically inclined," she says.

She grew up working on cars with her father, who cared for his own automobile in spare time from his interior-exterior decorator's job. Her great uncle, Garrett Morgan of Cleveland, invented the first automatic traffic signal in 1923. He also invented the gas masks he and others used in rescue work in the 1916 waterworks explosion in Cleveland.

Mrs. Pickett's garage repair-shop had to close due to zoning laws, but rolling neighborhood ice cream vendors gave her the idea as to how to go on.

"I was kidding a telephone repairman about buying his truck," she says. "The next day he stopped back and me they were going to sell some old trucks. I went to four auctions before I got one."

Putting her automotive experience to work, she overhauled it, painted it and equipped the inside with work space, shelves and drawers.

Then, she says, "I hired a couple of kids to help — all it takes is one kid to attract others — and started touring the streets."

"There was so much work," she remembers, "it took two months of daily tours with tools to cover 10 streets."

Her 15- and 16-year-old sons, Lawrence and Anderson, don't help any more; but her daughter Karen, 10, and the other boys — Lamont, 12, and Theodore, 13 — still do. Their wages go for bikes of their own and to help buy school clothes.

Besides being pleased with her business, Mrs. Pickett says she also is happy about the stolen bike recovery rate in her area.

"At the end of our second year," she says, "we had 12 expensive bikes stolen, but all were recovered. These kids always get them back, and they often get them back for other people, too."

Dr. Scott Is AAUW Speaker Monday Night

A program on ways to cut food costs was presented Monday evening at the AAUW meeting by Dr. Alice Smith Scott, chairman of the department of foods, nutrition and institution management at E. C. Ux.

Dr. Scott stated a smaller percentage of an individual's total expendable income was spent on food presently than in the past.

In the 1959-69 decade the average total expendable income increased 128.7 percent while that of food increased 33.5 percent. However, paper products, dog food, cleaners and detergents are not considered food items and are not reflected in food prices she said.

Among ways she mentioned to economize on food were to compare costs, take advantage of specials, consider using the same food in a different form, note price per serving or price per ounce before purchasing, prepare menus and shopping lists before going to the store and to learn the desirable characteristics of meats and vegetables so that one can judge quality.

Finally, the time element in food preparation plays a big factor in price she said. Generally, the less time it takes to prepare a food, the more expensive it is.

Mrs. W. B. Gray, president, welcomed Miss Valerie Pfeiffer and Miss Mary Boone as new members and Miss Lois Grisby and Mrs. Barbara Granger as guests.

Hostesses were Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. W. A. Pollard and Mrs. Lloyd Benjamin.

For the teen-age girl who wants a new pants look for spring, here's a suggestion: Tie a shirt jacket to just above the waist level and push up the sleeves to show the shirt underneath.

Bankers' Support Is Invaluable

The support of Group I, N. C. Bankers Association for expansion of the ECU medical school to a full four years will be important in bringing this cherished project about.

The bankers, from 16 northeastern counties, approved a resolution supporting the medical school at a meeting last weekend. The resolution said "...that Group I of the North Carolina Bankers Association places itself on record as being in complete support of the expansion of the present program in medical education at East Carolina University to a complete degree-granting School of Medicine."

The Bankers Association joins a long list of organizations, governmental bodies and countless individuals who have expressed their support of expanding the ECU School of Medicine.

This support is going to be highly important perhaps crucial — in getting this long fought-for project moving again.

Group I of the N.C. Bankers Association is to be commended for taking its stand on this matter.

GOP Looking To The Future

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Time and tide brought the prize to North Carolina Republicans in the 1972 general election. Can the momentum be sustained for future victories?

The prospects are bright, as seen in a sampling of GOP legislators, but performance is what will count in the long run.

How the party fares in 1974 when another General Assembly is elected and in 1976 when voters choose the next governor depends upon accomplishments out of the current session and in the administration of Gov. Jim Holshouser.

"The people are looking for constructive and responsive government, for original thought to solve old and new problems. If we give them that, as I think we can, we will build on the gains we have achieved," said Sen. George Rountree III of New Hanover.

The challenge to Republicans in the executive and legislative branches, is to perform in a manner reflecting credit on the party, said Rep. William E. Stevens of Caldwell. "We must establish it as a party of responsibility, action and results," he said. "If we can do it, I think we will capture the support of voters and create more of a two-party factor in the state."

Looking Ahead
While the record to run on is being written, thoughts are turning to the next campaign. Republicans can be expected to make a big push next year to improve their 50-120 ratio in state legislative ranks. They also will be out to field a strong candidate for the U.S. Senate, with the aim of sending a seat mate to Washington for Sen. Jesse Helms who carried the GOP banner to victory last fall.

Looking to 1976, names are floating in tentative speculation for prospects to become the second Republican governor in the 20th century. Among them are Sen. Rountree and Rep. Stevens, as well as Sen. Charles Taylor of Transylvania, minority delegation leader, and Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty. The list is certain to lengthen.

Finding candidates, a party problem in the past, will be easier against a background of victory, agreed Rep. Marilyn Bissell of Mecklenburg. "We may even have a hot primary for governor next time," she said.

Momentum Gaining
In any event, she sees the GOP momentum gaining ground. Democrats switching registration is evident in her county, she said. "We've got a great thing going. It's very healthy for the state," she added.

"You think I'm kidding. We're going to take control of the General Assembly in 1974."

Legislative gains also were predicted by Rep. Thomas Harrelson of Brunswick. "There were seats we could have won last time if we had run candidates," he said.

Two men stand in pivotal positions for GOP fortunes, in the view of Republican legislators. First is Gov. Holshouser, whose election broke the chain of Democratic governors back to the turn of the century. He showed a Republican can win state office, and now must lead the party in demonstrating it can govern.

The second is Frank Rouse, Kinston businessman and tireless party hustler as state chairman. His is the nuts and bolts job of building the machinery, in recruiting registration and raising funds, for campaigns ahead.

Leaders With Contrasts
The two have differences in background and temperament, and a past of personal conflict. Holshouser is from the mountains, in the Old Guard stream of the party, and experienced performer in public office who has never lost an election. Rouse is from the East, a skilled political strategist who has never run himself and says he has no desire to do so.

Rouse actively opposed Holshouser for the nomination, but returned to the chairmanship after the primary. Victory gave a gloss of harmony, but some sensitivity remains among their followers. If it should surface in factional strife when another primary approaches, it could cloud GOP chances.

Rouse's tenure as chairman is a factor for further GOP success, said Sen. Rountree. "He has been the catalyst for most Republican gains. No one deserves all the credit, of course. In Frank Rouse we had for the first time a chairman totally devoted to the party," Rountree added.

President Nixon's popularity played a part in the '72 victories, and national politics will be a factor in '76, Rep. Stevens acknowledged. "Republicans should not simply look to President Nixon to pass on the mantle of leadership," he cautioned. "The party must find the most capable man we can get behind solidly."

The same principle applies on the state level, he observed. While avoiding a destructive primary, candidates must emerge with a broad appeal and without the aura of being hand-picked to run, he said.

Ruling Helpful When Reapportioning Is Due

North Carolina reaction to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling on legislative reapportionment might well be: Now they tell us.

Some strange districts have resulted from past reapportionments which had to follow almost exact mathematical population formulas. If the lawmakers had had more leeway when reapportionment was being done, often more compatible districts would have resulted.

It is well to recognize, however, that the ruling will be helpful when reapportionment comes up in the future.

Priority Given Foreign Trade

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While President Nixon last week was making an offhand—but unmistakable—promise that a tax reform program would be submitted to Congress "sooner than you think," the Treasury was working behind the scenes to sidetrack all tax reform and compel Congress to work on foreign trade legislation.

Contrary to Mr. Nixon's curious promise to newsmen during his Valentine's Eve stroll from the White House to Trader Vic's, the Treasury is nowhere near ready with a tax program. That's because new tariff-cutting-and-raising authority is the President's top legislative priority while tax reform rates dead last. Consequently, when the House Ways and Means Committee finishes tax reform hearings (probably around May 1), Mr. Nixon hopes it will not immediately start drafting actual legislation but will set taxes aside and begin trade hearings.

He may get his wish. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, Ways and Means chairman, has emphatically informed the President he will not tolerate tax reform burial. But the administration hopes he will postpone drafting the tax bill in order to take up trade legislation. And on that point, Mills has an open mind.

If Mills kept the committee's nose to the tax reform grindstone, he might not get to trade legislation before Sept. 1. So, considering the potentially catastrophic U. S. trade deficit, White House strategists late last year decided to put trade first on the 1973 docket. Besides, they felt the McGovern debacle exposed tax reform as a politically toothless issue.

Thus, administration officials leaked that tax reform was being put aside. But nobody checked out Mills. Not until economics czar George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury, visited Mills in Little Rock in December did he learn the dept of Mills's commitment to handling tax reform first.

Even that did not regenerate administration interest in reform. Under Secretary Edward Cohen, the Treasury's top tax reform expert, was permitted to resign. At Mills's tax hearings, Treasury observers have displayed little interest and less enthusiasm. Treasury files are filled with tax reform studies, but no bill has been prepared.

There was, then, stark conflict between Mills and the President when they met secretly at the White House Feb. 7 with Shultz alone sitting in. None of the three talks about confidential meetings, but we have pieced together an accurate account of what happened:

Mr. Nixon made clear he was interested in no tax reform bill of any kind. Mills replied he was going to have one passed, like it or not. Mills then switched adroitly to possible tax "simplification"—excusing from all federal income taxes any family of four earning less than $5,000 and lowering the maximum effective rate (on adjusted gross income) to 50 per cent.

These proposals suddenly kindled Mr. Nixon's interest in tax reform proposals "sooner than you think" the promise comes without the Treasury ready.

Indeed, Mr. Nixon's offhand remarks were sloughed off at the Treasury. Amazed at the President's promise, one official pointed it out to a Treasury policymaker. "Oh, no," he replied, quite correctly. "You've got it wrong. The President was talking about trade legislation."

Treasury officials are aware the tax "simplification" that fascinated the President could permit Mills to pursue his old dream of major capital gains reform (including a graduated capital gains tax geared to the length of the holding period) certain to be fiercely

Strength For Today

The word "luxury" is derived from a Latin word which means "to shine." Luxury is anything which pleases the senses, which is costly and difficult to obtain. A great deal of human energy is put into the project of establishing luxury in one's life. Certainly that person would be abnormal who cared for none of the luxuries of life, but it must be confessed that most people go the limit in a quite opposite direction. They like heaping tablespoons of luxury sprinkled over their lives. The people who have these longings for luxury are not necessarily evil people. In fact, most of them are just normal people who like their lives to be as pleasant as circumstances can make them and who are willing to pay a pretty big price to arrange things that way.

Yet all history testifies to the fact that when individuals and nations set out to make luxury the first thing in their lives they experience a decline that goes from bad to worse as the years pass. The love of luxury is normal if we do not put it first and keep it first in our lives. The people who have no desire for luxury are not only lugubrious but in many instances hypocritical. They claim not to care for luxury largely because they have very little luxury in their lives and like to pretend that luxury means nothing to them. Nevertheless it does. And luxury in normal doses is not going to hurt any of us. But let us see that we keep it within normal limits.

MORE HELP THAN NEEDED!

Who's To Heal Wounds?

WASHINGTON—After every war you must have someone to bind the country's wounds. The man in the Nixon Administration in charge of binding wounds is Dr. Friedrich Feldkamp who has his offices and operating room in the basement of the White House.

Dr. Feldkamp was gracious enough to see me between operations.

"How are you doing, Doctor?" "It's very difficult," he said. "I would have no trouble binding the wounds if it weren't for 'Them.'"

"Who are 'They'?" "You know very well who 'They' are," Dr. Feldkamp said. "The ones who wanted us to bug out in Vietnam. The ones who refuse to give the President credit for achieving a peace with honor. The ones who are demanding amnesty for the draft-dodgers and deserters. How can I bind the wounds of the country when 'They' keep attacking us?"

"You're a doctor," I said. "Surely you can figure out some way of binding the wounds of the country in spite of the differences of opinion."

"It takes two parties to heal wounds. Why should we bind the wounds if 'They' won't?" Dr. Feldkamp replied angrily. "Frankly, everyone in the White House is sick and tired of 'Them' saying the President should bind the wounds of the country. If 'They' want to say they're sorry, and are are willing to be punished for their mistakes, then we'll be happy to bind their wounds.

"But we see no reason to waste bandages and Mercurchrome on those who are always complaining about what's wrong with this country, and never standing up for the Flag."

"I am very sympathetic with your position," I said, "but it seems to me the binding of wounds after a war has to come from the top. If you people refuse to bind the wounds, they will still be there."

"I would like to remind you," Dr. Feldkamp said, "that we didn't make those wounds. If 'They' had kept their mouths shut, the war would have been over four years ago. 'They' opened the wounds so, by gosh, let them suffer for a while."

"If you're not willing to bind those wounds, what wounds are you willing to bind?"

"We'll bind any wounds in the country providing 'They' say we were right in what we were doing; that there was no other way of doing it and if we had to do it again, those who disagreed with us would support us. That's what the President calls 'going the extra mile.'"

The door opened and the nurse rushed in. "Doctor, we have a bad wound outside. It has to do with reparations for North Vietnam. The people want to know why we're sending blood to Vietnam when so many people are bleeding at home."

"I can't bind that one," the doctor said, "unless we raise taxes, and we're not about to do that."

The nurse walked out and Dr. Feldkamp said to me, "Everyone expects miracles."

"Doctor, there are some people who feel that rather than bind wounds, the White House is opening a lot of them to keep the country divided. Is there any truth to that?" The doctor slammed his fist on the table. "That's typical of what defeatist, an-

Annie Has It Made

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — If anyone had told me as a boy when I used to get my hair cut in a Broken Arrow, Okla., barbershop — where farmers took showers in the back — that Annie Oakley would someday cut my hair, I wouldn't have believed it.

Now I believe it. Annie, who works in the Star-mount Barbershop in a Charlotte shopping center, and a lot of other women are cutting men's hair these days.

No more than one per cent of the nation's barbers are women, according to Nelson Snyder, secretary-treasurer of Associated Master Barbers and Beauticians, a national group of mostly shop owners with headquarters in Charlotte.

Women have recently begun to attend barbering schools in greater numbers, Snyder said.

The result? Well, men, barbershops aren't going to be what they used to be.

Saturday afternoon at the barbershop used to be a time for trading hunting and fishing stories, football and baseball opinions and off-color jokes.

I thought about that as I browsed through the barbershop's reading material before plopping myself down in Annie's leatherette barber chair.

How can you casually open up to the centerfold of Playboy while a brunette peers over your shoulder? I took a copy of Sports Illustrated.

I tried to start a conversation with Annie. "I don't keep up with sports," she said in a soft Southern accent without breaking rhythm with the scissors.

We ended up talking about how much nicer it was to cut men's hair than to work in a beauty shop and about Annie's background.

A native of Albamarle, N.C., she found barbering schools in North Carolina closed to her in 1964. She moved to Houston, Tex., where she got her diploma and worked for awhile.

One thing about Annie, she may not know much about football, but she has soft hands and doesn't pop your head around like she was changing a tire, as some men barbers do.

40 Years Ago Today

Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists in the South are girding for the conflict over the proposed repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Militant dry organizations have been formed on a statewide basis in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina and plans are being made to organize other states many of which have been bone-dry for years. Meanwhile the legislatures in other states have been taking steps toward putting into effect the Congressional provision for conventions to ratify or reject the repeal.

Rising Costs Can't Be Ignored

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The public has become accustomed during the past few years to receiving some very distasteful cost-of-living figures sauced over with official comment that things were better than they seemed.

If the news looks bad, it is often so only because of the interpretation given the facts by newsmen without educated tastes. If it is good, well then it is proof that the pudding is delectable.

Thus it was that, last July, newsmen were admonished for using raw cost-of-living figures—figures which do not take into consideration expected, seasonal variations in conditions.

To look at these figures in an unadjusted way is like looking out the window at night and saying there is an eclipse," said Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic advisers.

On the same day, Stein was pleased to interpret and extol a sharp increase in economic growth and a fall in the inflation rate as "the best combination of economic news to be released in one day this decade."

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has now done something of the sort again—not that the performance hasn't been repeated before. What makes Butz' commentary unique is that he has served the sauce before the pudding.

Some bad news is due this week. The Cost of Living Index, prepared by the Labor Department, will be released and will show, Butz says, a rise of "2 to 3 per cent or something like that."

That would be, by his own calculation, the biggest monthly rise in 20 or 25 years. It is a rate that by any intelligent interpretation is a cause for serious concern in a nation fighting for its economic stability.

But the news media have been preblamed. The public already has been told by the secretary that the figures may be interpreted by the big city and urban press in a grossly unfair manner.

"During the last two months, we had seasonal wintertime rises in farm prices, largely due to weather and transportation shortages," he said. The increase therefore shouldn't be interpreted on an annual basis.

On such a basis, which the government uses for inflation, jobs, housing starts, balance of payments, budget surpluses and deficits and the like, food prices in January rose at a 24 to 36 per cent annual rate.

But, said Butz, "that use of statistics is like saying if you have a cold this week it is as an annual rate of 52 colds a year. That kind of arithmetic is preposterous, and the urban papers ought to know better."

Yes, preposterous. So also is the rate on a monthly basis. And so is the insinuation that it is acceptable or that the problem is not only with the rate but with incorrect interpretations or lack of understanding.

And who can say the nation doesn't have a very bad cold? For two straight months, farm prices have risen 5 per cent, and that's a mighty fever.

Battle Brews On Vets' Benefits

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Nixon administration has its way, many of the nation's veterans will experience sharp reductions in pension benefits and wide-ranging cutbacks in education and medical programs.

The VA budget predicts savings of $223 million if Congress approves the administration proposal to change the way pension benefits are computed.

Under present law, the monthly disability pension for a veteran with only his wife as a dependent ranges from $33 to $140. To qualify for the minimum, the veteran must earn no more than $300 a year. But his wife's income isn't counted.

The administration wants to count the wife's income, and if the count hits more than $3,800 a year, the pension would be withdrawn.

REAP Accomplishments In '72 Reported By Program Official

Eight hundred seventy nine Pitt County farmers matched funds with the Federal Government to install needed conservation and pollution-control measures last year, according to local farm program official, W.F. Tyson.

$37,330.00. Under REAP, the farmers were able to drain 1,389 acres of land by underground or surface drainage. Cost-shares of $43,473.00 plus technical assistance were furnished to 168 farms.

Practice to prevent erosion and pollution of water or land from sediment and chemically contaminated runoff were carried out on 11 farms. The participants received $2,484.00 for these conservation measures which served 45 acres.

around for the generations to come," Tyson said. "Over the last five-year period, some 1,719 farms in Pitt County, and 131,601 in the State have installed and carried out needed conservation and pollution control measures in the National interest," Tyson said.

But key members of Congress are lining up with the politically weighty veterans' organizations to fight it.

The brewing battle threatens the government career of Donald E. Johnson, the Iowa Republican who runs the Veterans Administration.

A White House source says that while Johnson has fallen into some disfavor, he knows of no decision to fire him. But another source says "...he's going to go."

In the administration's 1974 plans for veterans' programs, these are cuts are most criticized by Democrats and some Republicans on the House and Senate Veterans Affairs committees and by the veterans' organizations.

—An $81-million reduction in funds for VA hospital construction.

—No budget money for a new program to encourage colleges to recruit veterans, tutor and counsel them. (Congress appropriated $25 million when it passed the bill last year, and the National Association of Collegiate Veterans, with 25,000 members, filed suit in U.S. District Court Thursday in an effort to force the administration to finance the program.)

—A $5.8-million reduction in medical-research funds, primarily covering experiments to find more efficient artificial limbs.

—A $6.6-million saving in VA payroll costs and elimination of 1,400 agency jobs. Administration critics fear the item means that the VA intends to merge 57 regional offices into 10, making it harder for a veteran to slash red tape and get benefits due him.

The VA says the work of the regional offices is under study, but "we would not in any way change the number" of them.

The administration is moving on the legislative front to accomplish reductions in programs it can't cut otherwise.

He said the measures, which included practices to protect and conserve soil, retain and control water runoff, retard or eliminate pollution conditions and enhance wildlife, were carried out through the 1972 Rural Environment Assistance Program (REAP). "Cost-share and technical assistance furnished to county farmers in 1972 amounted to $104,022.68," W. F. Tyson, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said. "This represents an estimated total conservation investment in the county of about $315,000.00 when the farmer's share of the cost and labor is considered," he pointed out.

Commenting on the 1972 accomplishments, Tyson stated, "The most significant progress was made in the area of Pollution Abatement. Some $3410.00 was cost-shared with producers on 10 farms to plant or improve 313 acres of trees. Vegetative cover, permanent and interim, was planted on 17,253 acres. Costsharing with 795 farmers amounted to Program participants included five low-income farmers who received $3163.55 to carry out needed conservation measures on their land. An animal waste disposal facility was installed on one farm.

"Statewide, 63,354 farmers carried out needed conservation and environmental improvement practices, valued at an estimated $17 million in connection with the 1972 REAP. Cost-sharing and technical assistance amounted to about $6.1 million. This helps assure that our present natural resources such as soil, water, wildlife, air, and beauty will be

British Are Bomb Target

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrillas tossed a bomb into a British army post in Londonderry late Thursday night, seriously wounding a soldier who tried to throw it back before it exploded.

British troops also found two milk cans stuffed with explosives in a telephone service manhole in nearby Ballyronan and incendiary devices inside books in a Londonderry library.

The Irish Republican Army had said Thursday that it was responsible for the death of three soldiers shot earlier this week. It said this was in reprisal for the death of six Roman Catholics earlier this month.

The army also announced that a soldier struck by a brick during a demonstration by Protestant militants last October died in a London hospital. The army said he was the first British soldier known to have been killed by a Protestant.

Another 154 soldiers have been killed in the three and a half years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland, but all the others were attributed to the IRA and its Catholic supporters.

Chapter Marks Founder's Day

Founder's day was observed Sunday by Iota Kappa Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority and East Carolina members. The sorority worshipped together at Cornerstone Baptist Church.

Then a Rededication tea and dinner was given by the undergraduate members of the sorority.

The date marks the 65th year of the sorority's services. Miss Helen Johnson is the basileus of the Greenville chapter.

Mills is likely to agree to the Treasury's plea for trade hearings before drafting the tax bill. The big confrontation would then come once the trade hearings were finished. Mills would be inclined to return to the tax bill; the Treasury would beg him to turn immediately to drafting a trade bill.

In other words, the Treasury's interest in tax reform remains constant: just about zero. But with Mr. Nixon it could be another matter. He has departed from normal procedure in two important respects: meeting Mills without notetaking aides or other Congressmen present, and talking off-the cuff with reporters. Straying that far from his usual rigid isolation, the President might now even stray a bit from his own priorities.

Voice Doubts On Effect Of 'Jesus Movement'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Church authorities are taking a harder look at the youthful Jesus movement and find some of its methods shallow, devious and potentially harmful. Its energies also seem to be running out in some areas.

"The danger is that many people may be so scarred by their experience that they will be 'burnt out' as far as future religious experience goes," concluded the Rev. Laurence Murphy, a Roman Catholic, after a special study of the movement.

Another critique came from a Protestant theologian, the Rev. Walter R. Beach, of Washington, D.C., who pointed out that the "Jesus people," in shunning the organized church, are ignoring a key teaching of Jesus himself. Jesus stressed the importance of the church, Dr. Beach said, adding: "Apart from his intention to form a church, the events recorded in the Biblical Book of Acts are unintelligible." That book describes formation of the church.

Father Murphy, director of the U.S. Catholic Conference's division of higher education in Washington, said the movement is "frequently antirational," frequently very manipulative, and "often utterly naive."

A "very simplistic mentality" is found throughout much of the movement, he said, suggesting that it is "easy to be saved if you love Jesus, clap your hands or honk your horn." The focus is on "feelings, emotions, experiences." Some "charismatic" leaders use techniques to persuade and even to coerce young people," he added. "They manipulate their emotional needs...and at times quite knowingly use the Bible dishonestly."

Dr. Beach, field secretary of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, pointed out that while Jesus emphasized the "centrality of the church," the Jesus movement brushes this aside and largely rejects the organized churches. Jesus, in voicing his objective of founding "my church," said: "The powers of death will not prevail against it."

Nevertheless, Dr. Beach said, organized Christianity might well follow one example of the Jesus people in going "into the market place, into the arena of the world's activity, where people are."

Bible Study Slated At Church Sunday

The Rev. Donald G. Miller, pastor of the Laurinburg Presbyterian Church, will conduct a Bible study at the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville Sunday afternoon and evening, beginning at 4:30 from 6:45 to 8:15 p.m. A 45 minute break is being allowed for a light supper. Participants are urged to bring their own Bibles.

A nursery will be provided for small children.

A native of Pennsylvania, Dr. Miller began his work as a teacher of Bible and English at the Pyongyang Foreign School, Pyongyang, Korea, and has taught at Biblical Seminary, New York; The Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa.; and Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., where from 1943 to 1962 he was professor of New Testament.

He served from 1962 to 1970 as president of Pittsburg Theological Seminary from which post he went to the Laurinburg Church.

Among 13 books written by Dr. Miller are: The Nature and Mission of the Church, Fire in Thy Mouth, The Way to Biblical Preaching and The Gospel According to Luke (The Layman's Bible Commentary).

REV. DONALD MILLER

The Gospel according to Luke will be the subject of the special study program.

According to Richard Gammon, pastor of the local church, anyone interested is invited to hear Dr. Miller and participate in the study of Luke, one of the Bible portions being emphasized in Key '73.

The study time will be divided into two segments, the first from 4:30 to 6 p.m. and the second

POWs Played Duplicate Bridge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Porcelain plates, paper clips and a few decks of cards were used by a POW Air Force officer to set up a duplicate contract bridge game at the "Hanoi Hilton," the American Contract Bridge League said Thursday.

Lt. Col. William H. Means of Sumter, S.C., had no previous experience in the game, but managed to work out movements and a scoring system surprisingly close to the methods used in tournament play by the league.

Means is now at Maxwell Air Force Base near Montgomery, Ala., for medical treatment.

The league, headquartered in Memphis, said Means was entertainment chairman for his cell block, and got the idea for setting up duplicate bridge play when he learned that many of the men played social bridge back in the states.

His wife, Genie, meanwhile, took up duplicate bridge while her husband was a POW for six years. She is now rated as a life master, the highest rank in American tournament play. The couple has two sons, Rick, 16, and Tommy, 11.

The porcelain plates were used both as the duplicate tray and the traveling score slip. The deal number, vulnerability and dealer were inscribed on the front of the plate with the scores compiled on the back. The cards were kept separated into hands by paper clips and were passed from table to table on the plates.

Wrong Flag For Goodwill Visit

KHARTOUM (AP) — Princess Anne's two-day goodwill visit to Sudan has gotten off to an embarrassing start. On its arrival Thursday night from Ethiopia, the princess' plane was flying the wrong Sudanese flag — a three-color one discarded after the revolution of May 1969.

California became the most populous state in 1963.

Fund Drive Set For Communists

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda is forming a "people to people program" to provide medical aid to Indochina, including the reconstruction of Hanoi's Bach Mai Hospital which she said was "extremely damaged" by U.S. bombs last December.

The antiwar activist told a news conference Thursday her group will offer relief "to North Vietnam, to the areas of South Vietnam under the control of the Provisional Revolutionary Government, to the Khmer in Cambodia and to the Pathet Lao in Laos."

Miss Fonda said her program would work with the North Vietnamese Red Cross in bringing medical supplies into areas which had been bombed. The supplies would be carried by Swedish aircraft, she said.

The actress said she plans fund-raising events in the Los Angeles area.

Mrs. Percy Boyd outlined the projects and gifts, which help community centers, mission renewal and property improvement in the USA and leadership training and support for national women overseas.

The Rev. Sponenbert gave the benediction. Mrs. Henry Pollock, of Edwards Chapel Church, Mrs. Waller and Mrs. Billy Cuthrell of the Woodington-Webb Charge in Lenoir County represented their churches.

Pieced-Together Story Of Flight 114's Tragedy

By HAL McCLURE
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Flight 114 was lost.

The three-jet Boeing 727 of Libyan Arab Airlines had taken off from Tripoli, made a brief stop at Benghazi in eastern Libya and was now in the vicinity of Cairo.

Where, exactly, the French pilot, Capt. Jacques Bourges, 42, was not sure.

Aboard Bourges' plane were 94 passengers — all Arabs except for two Germans — and a crew of nine, including five French nationals.

The passengers included the 26-year-old sister of the Libyan ambassador in London and a former Libyan foreign minister, an Egyptian waiter flying to Cairo to meet his fiancée, plus women and children.

Bourges and the four other French crewmen were on contract to the Libyan airline from Air France. One of the two stewards was Jean-Pierre Burdiat, 42, of Paris. In all, 20 Air France crewmen fly with the Libyan airline.

It was 1:45 p.m. in Cairo. Cairo traffic control had watched Flight 114 as it approached the sprawling city from the west. So far, the flight had been routine except that blowing sand that restricted visibility.

Bourges reported Flight 114 over Fayoum, about 12 miles southwest of Cairo.

Cairo gave him permission to descend and to prepare for a landing on runway 2e heading southwest.

Time 1:50 p.m.: Control was surprised to see Flight 114 fly eastward toward the Suez Canal and the Israeli-occupied Sinai Desert. Cairo momentarily lost contact.

Time 1:55 p.m.: The Israelis in the Sinai suddenly spotted an unidentified aircraft entering their airspace just south and east of Suez City at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Israel's air force boss, Maj. Gen. Mordechai Hod, would later recall to newsmen: "It was quite strange to see this track on radar."

The Israelis quickly scrambled a flight of Phantom F4 jet fighter-interceptors.

Despite the sand-haze at lower altitudes the Israelis had no trouble locating the green-colored airliner several miles east of Suez.

Inside the jetliner all was calm. The passengers, who had been preparing for the landing at Cairo, were unaware there was trouble on the flight deck. Steward Burdiat, in the rear of the plane, had been busy taking care of passenger needs.

The Libyan airline boasts in magazine ads "that it pursues 24 carat standards of comfort, efficiency and punctuality."

Bourges looked out the port window and saw the Israeli jets. The airliner had now succeeded in re-establishing radio contact with Cairo and Bourges forces in the Sinai. Shortly after midnight an Israeli strike force landed in northern Lebanon and attacked seven guerrilla encampments inflicting a heavy loss of Arab life.

The Israelis were on the alert for retaliation — from any quarter.

Bourges looked out the port window and saw the Israeli jets. The airliner had now succeeded in re-establishing radio contact with Cairo and Bourges

"We are being followed by four MIGs." The Soviet-built MIG is Egypt's frontline fighter.

Steward Burdiat also saw the jets. "They were chasing us and then we passed them."

One of the passengers, Feisel Mohammed-Sharaya, the Egyptian waiter, said he saw the Israeli planes just as Captain Bourges was walking down the plane's aisle.

"What's happening?" he asked.

"Don't be afraid," Bourges replied. "They are ours."

"I thought it was a joke," said A-Sharaya. "An Egyptian plane with Israeli markings."

The two Israeli Phantoms closed in on the Boeing as the jetliner flew deeper into the Sinai. One of the Israeli pilots said at one time he was only 10 to 15 feet away "close enough to see the pilot's face."

The Israelis used hand signals and wagged their wings to signify "follow me and land."

Flight 114 continued on at a speed of 325 mph.

Hod said later the Israelis at first could not believe the airliner was over the Sinai by accident — flying above one of Israel's most sensitive military areas.

The Boeing flew within sight of Israel's sprawling base at Bir Gafaga, about 50 miles east of the Suez canal.

Suddenly, it veered westward, back toward Egypt. About then, Bourges radioed

Cairo, "I guess we have serious trouble with the headings and the compass."

One of the Israeli pilots continued the narrative: "We had orders to bring him to an air base. With my thumb I pointed back toward Bir Gafaga. Then I turned back ... but he kept going straight."

"He lowered his wheels, indicating he wanted to land, but he still continued westward. Then I came close and fired a burst of cannon fire in front of his nose."

The Israeli said he closed in again and loosed another cannon shot straight ahead "parallel to the plane" so the pilot could see it.

The Boeing then retracted its wheels and picked up speed and continued toward Egypt at 1,500 feet.

Then, the Israeli pilot said, they "fired more warning shots into his right wingtip, not to disable him but to show him we meant business."

As the Boeing neared the canal the Israelis decided to hit the airliner where the wing joins the fuselage "to cause more serious damage." A pilot continued:

"I saw a red flame and black smoke come out of the wing and I assume we hit fuel."

"We are now shot," Bourges calmly told Cairo. "We are shot by a fighter. We are shot by a fighter."

These words — recorded on tape in Cairo — were the last from Flight 114.

Steward Burdiat said he heard two "rocket" shots and one shell penetrated the rear of the airliner.

The waiter, A-Sharaya, contradicts this. He said he heard warning "boom-boom" shots but felt nothing. Then, he said, "Firing began again and we were hit."

We started to go down," said Burdiat, "and we tried an emergency landing. The plane hit the ground and everything broke up."

The Boeing had come in low over a rocky stretch of sand, broken only by waves of long, low dunes, about 12 miles east of the north shore of the Great Bitter Lake on the Suez Canal.

Flight 114 smashed into the top of one of the dunes, bounced hard and tore off a section of wing before it slid down a gentle slope, spewing flaming wreckage and bodies.

The time: about 2:10 p.m., only about 15 minutes after Flight 114 had entered Israeli air space.

"I found myself about 50 yards from the plane with a broken thigh," Burdiat recalled. "The plane was enveloped in flames and I started to crawl away from the debris ... flames all around us."

A-Sharaya said he blacked out when the plane struck. He came to hours later in an Israeli hospital.

Thirteen persons were still alive in the flaming wreckage when Israeli soldiers arrived at the crash scene.

Two days later only seven still lived. They included the gravely injured Libyan copilot. Of the French crew, only Burdiat survived. The former Libyan foreign minister and the ambassador's sister died.

Reports indicate Bourges obviously first thought he was over Egypt not the Sinai and incorrectly identified the Israeli interceptors.

These questions remain to be answered in explaining the end of Flight 114:

—Why did the Israelis insist on bringing the unarmed civilian airliner down even if they had to shoot into it?

—Why didn't the French captain — a veteran airline pilot with 17 years experience — follow Israeli orders and land his plane?

These Are Good Times To Debugging Experts

ANYTHING BUGGIN YOU? — Ed Bray and Joe Paoella (right) examine a box-like instrument used to locate listening devices. (AP Wirephoto)

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The spotlight on electronic eavesdropping in the Watergate case has meant a bonanza for a firm that specializes in debugging.

"Business always has been good," says Ed Bray, a partner of American Security Agents, Inc. But since political spies bugged the Democratic National Headquarters last summer in Washington's Watergate complex "we've gotten about 25 per cent more jobs and the inquiries have gone up 50 per cent," he adds.

The 48-year-old former Chicago policeman and Joe Paoella, 44, a former Secret Service agent who had been attached to the White House detail, started the company two years ago and made detecting and detaching wiretaps and electronic bugs the big part of it.

The two charge $100 to survey a room and can complete a "sweep" in 10 to 15 minutes.

They use a "surveillance transmitter locator," about the size of a bowling ball, and a "hummer," a cube measuring about a foot on each side. The hummer emits a sound of a specific frequency that is tuned in on the locator and traced to the hidden bug.

The bugs have been pulled out of lamps, furniture, law books, wall sockets, desks, file cabinets and, of course, telephones and telephone lines.

The partners say most of their jobs are in the offices of corporation executives and lawyers. Domestic strife is the next biggest source of business.

"We get a lot of calls from wives or husbands who are planning divorces and think their bedrooms are bugged," Bray said. "Sometimes they are, too, but actually we find taps or bugs in about only 25 per cent of our jobs."

"The rest are just spy-jitters or have big imaginations. In this business, you need a lot of nuts."

Rescued After 2 Days Adrift

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
Associated Press Writer
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — After two days of drifting on the Atlantic Ocean in a disabled boat, the McCrary clan wants nothing more than "to feel those Tennessee hills under our feet again."

Larry McCrary, 32, and his wife, mother, uncle and four children, all of Kingsport, Tenn., were rescued by the Coast Guard Thursday after their 19-foot open boat was swept 75 miles into the ocean by a wind-churned Gulf Stream.

"We put our faith in God and the Coast Guard," said a haggard McCrary after arriving here at sunset aboard the cutter Cape York.

"It was a miracle they survived all packed in that little boat," said Gunners Mate Paul Conway, a member of the Cape York crew. "We had basically given up hope. It was rough as hell out there. We thought they had capsized, but we just kept thinking about those kids."

McCrary took his family, a jug of water and a picnic lunch for what was supposed to be an afternoon-long fishing trip Tuesday despite small-craft warnings. On his return, he was given a Coast Guard citation for negligent operation of a boat and overloading.

"I knew there were small craft warnings out," McCrary said. "But I didn't plan to go far."

The craft's motor died and the clan balled and shivering in the chill night on the family outing gone sour.

But, said Mrs. Bruce McCrary, 52, the grandmother, "What bothered me was that we didn't catch any fish."

Industry-Lack Is Big Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bankers say the most serious problem facing smaller communities is a lack of industry, according to a survey of 12,500 community banks by the American Bankers Association.

Nearly 75 per cent of those responding cited lack of new industry as the biggest problem facing their communities, and 80 per cent of the bankers are involved in seeking new businesses for their towns.

RESEARCH EXPENDITURE
ROME (UPI) — Italy's private industries spent an estimated 274 billion lire ($470 million) on scientific research in 1972, the Industrialists' Confederation reports.

Law Enforcers Receive Plaques For Their Outstanding Service

The Greenville Civitan Club Thursday night presented plaques to two law enforcement officers in honor of their outstanding service over the past year.

Civitan president Ben Gibbs said Matthew E. Cleary of the Greenville Police Department and Deputy Dalton Respass were honored as the outstanding officers in their departments over the past year.

Both men received plaques for their "outstanding and meritorious service."

Gibbs said the program began last year when the Civitan Club honored the local law enforcement agencies as a whole as part of the Civitan "Action Taken Against Crime" program.

Gibbs noted that the selection of the officers to receive the award is made by their department heads and is based on overall performance rather than a specific outstanding deed. Cleary, a native of Chester County, Pennsylvania, has been a police officer in Greenville since 1967. He joined the force here after serving with the U.S. Marine Corps — including duty at Camp Lejeune, N.C. and Vietnam.

He is married to the former May Lou O'Quinn of Farmville. Respass, a Bethel area native, began his law-enforcement career with the Greenville

Police Department in 1963 and joined the Pitt County Sheriff's Department in 1965 — where he has been employed since with the exception of a six-month period he served as an inspector with the State ABC Board.

He is married to the former Joan Baker of fountain and is currently enrolled in the Police Science course at Pitt Technical Institute.

Amplifier for KT-7001

"The variety of control functions provided on its front panel makes the KA-7002 one of the most versatile two-channel amplifiers available, and its performance is equally noteworthy." Such were the conclusions of an independent laboratory report by Hirsch-Houck Labs recently published in STEREO REVIEW. With provision for two Tape Decks, two Phonos, Tuner, two Aux, and three sets of Stereo Speakers, the KA-7002 indeed functions as a masterful control center for the ultimate sound system.

The KT-6005, with its excellent performance and handsome new styling, makes a welcome addition to any stereo system. The meticulously-engineered front end with dual-gate FET and high quality silicon transistors delivers high sensitivity and low-noise performance. A 2-element mechanical filter in the IF stage provides high selectivity and wide band pass; and KENWOOD's exclusive Double-Switching Demodulator and newly-designed block filter in the MPX circuit add appreciably to your FM-Stereo enjoyment with improved stereo separation.

KT-7001 4-IC • 3-FET • Xtal Filter

"We are unreservedly enthusiastic about Kenwood KT-7001. There are a number of very fine tuners on the market, but if there is a better one than the KT-7001, we haven't seen it." So concludes a Hirsch-Houck Lab Report recently published in STEREO REVIEW. KENWOOD has incorporated a host of professional features that make it, indeed, a stereo tuner par excellence. A touch of a switch converts the signal strength meter to a multipath indicator. A newly-developed MPX circuit provides extremely high stereo separation; and an effective muting circuit in the IF section insures positive interstation silence.

Rams, Chargers Win Way Into Finals

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

WHEAT SWAMP — Ayden-Grifton and Greene Central held off rallies to gain the finals of the District II, 3-A Basketball Tournament last night. The Rams downed Eastern Wayne, 67-57, in the opening semi-final game, while Ayden-Grifton took North Lenoir, 54-48 in the second.

The two will battle tonight at 8 p.m. in the North Lenoir High School gym for the right to represent the district in the state playoffs next week.

Both winning teams were bothered by pressing defenses of the losers, and had more turnovers than did their victims. But poor shooting by the two defeated teams were the made causes for the loss.

Eastern Wayne, for instance, hit on only 26 of 70 shots, a poor 37.1 per cent. Greene Central made 25 of 57, 43.9 per cent, but got more help at the line, pushing through 17 free throws in 25 attempts. The Warriors, in the meantime, got only five of eight from the line, as they committed 20 personals and had two technicals called on them. Greene Central had only 12 fouls charged on them.

In the second game, Ayden-Grifton's victory could only be based on their shooting percentage, as they made 21 of 40 shots, a fine 52.2 per cent. North Lenoir, which made a fine comeback at them, hit only 21 of 61 shots, 34.4 percent.

Turnovers and rebounding kept the Hawks in the game all the way, as their press forced the Chargers into 18 turnovers, twice as many as the Hawks had.

Greene Central led the entire game in claiming its win. Jackie Sherrill hit after 28 seconds from the baseline to put the Rams ahead, and they went on to hit three more baskets, by Stevie Williamson, Ervin Spivey and Sherrill for a 8-0 lead before Eastern Wayne finally scored their first basket.

After an exchange of buckets, making it 10-4, Williamson went on a spree, hitting two free throws, then adding another on the first technical. He then hit a jumper and another free throw before Curtis Bryant and Moses Barron both hit baskets to run the Rams out to a 24-6 lead, with 2:00 left in the first period. At that point, it looked like the Warriors were completely out of the game.

But they didn't believe it, and began to fight back. After trailing, 27-8, with 1:17 left, they put on a comeback to cut the lead to as little as 13 before the period was over. Lynn Best opened with two free throws, and Bobby Body and Ron Coley both scored baskets to trim the lead to 27-14 as the period ended.

Kenny Williams and Sherrill hit opening baskets and Barron made two free throws to run the Rams out to a 34-14 lead as the second period opened, but again Eastern came back on them. With Best hitting three baskets during the run, they cut the lead back, finally to 12, at 38-26 on a basket by Henry Reid, only to see Greene Central pull away again.

Bryant made two free throws, and Williamson and Barron both hit baskets to run it back to 18. Baskets by Reid and Anthony Holmes cut it back to 46-32 at halftime, however.

The third period turned into a swap-shop between the two teams. Greene Central couldn't get away from the Warriors, and they couldn't gain on the Rams—at least not much. They finally cut it to 12, 52-40 on a basket by Body, but it was back to 14, 58-46, as the period ended.

The Warriors made one last effort, early in the final period.

D'Agata Durham hit at the start to trim the lead to 10, and Reid and Durham followed with two more baskets. Best then made a free throw with 5:18 left to make it 58-53 as the Rams missed their first seven shots of the period.

But Spivey finally broke the string, hitting three straight, as that was just enough to hold off the rally, as Eastern got only two more baskets in the final five minutes of play.

Williamson led the Rams with 23 points, while Spivey had 17 and Sherrill had 10. For Eastern, Body had 16, Reid had 14, Best had 11 and Durham had 10.

The going was tight during the first half of play in the second game, and never really got off loose. North Lenoir scored first on a free throw by Mike Miller, but Jesse Brown hit from underneath to give Ayden-Grifton its first lead. Johnny Atkinson returned the lead to the Hawks, but baskets by Travis Woods and Melvin Stewart ran the Chargers out to a 6-3 margin.

That was erased, however on a three-point play by Miller, with 4:56 left, but it was the last time the Hawks were to be as close.

Brown came back with a shot from underneath, and Milton Brown stole the ball for a 10-6 advantage. After an exchange of points, North Lenoir cut it to three on a free throw Gary Battle, and Milton Brown responded with a basket to raise the lead to five, 14-9. But the Chargers couldn't pull away, and had to settle for a 16-13 lead as Miller tapped in a basket with four seconds left in the period. In the second frame, North Lenoir had its troubles. They hit only two of 11 shots from the floor, missing their first six before finally getting one. Then, in the rest of the period, they hit on only one of four, helping the Chargers along.

The Chargers, however, got only 13 shots, hitting on 12, and really didn't open up that much of a lead. They did hit the first four baskets of the period, however, running their lead out to 11. Willie Stewart hit his first after 2:12 had passed, and Woods followed that. Melvin Stewart hit on a fast break, and Jesse Brown tapped in a rebound to make it 24-13 before North Lenoir finally found the range. They got baskets from Battle and Miller to cut it back to seven, but Ayden-Grifton went back out by nine, and held it, 28-19 at halftime.

In the third period, Milton Brown hit first to raise it to 11, but North Lenoir began to creep back after that. They got three in a row, as Atkinson, Battle and Miller each hit to cut it to 30-26 with 4:22 showing. But neither team could do anything after that except swap points, as the score climbed to 38-31.

Ayden-Grifton eased out by nine in the early minutes of the last period as Woods hit two free throws to make it 42-33, but again the Hawks came back, as Miller and Roy Jones hit to trim it to five again. But each time after that, they were never able to hit when they needed to, and Ayden-Grifton clung to its precarious lead until the horn finally ended it.

Milton Brown led A-G with 14 points, while Willie Stewart had 11 and Melvin Stewart and Woods each had 10. For North Lenoir, Miller had 20 and Battle had 15.

Borzov Out To Restore Luster To His Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Russia's Valery Borzov, dubbed the "world's fastest human" after streaking to victories in the Olympic 100 and 200-meter dashes at the 1972 Olympics in Munich, Germany, will try and restore some of his tarnished prestige tonight at the National AAU Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden.

Borzov's Olympic triumphs climaxed a two-year period in which he was unbeaten outdoors. Since then, he admittedly has been "taking it easy," and has not performed up to par in two appearances on the U.S. indoor circuit.

He failed to qualify for the 60-yard final at Los Angeles Feb. 9, then placed third at 60 yards last Saturday at San Diego.

Tonight, he will face a powerful field, including U.S. Olympic relay gold medal winner Robert Taylor, defending champion Dr. Delano Meriwether, Big Ten Conference indoor and outdoor sprint champion Herb Washington, Olympian Hasley Crawford of Trinidad-Tobago, Ivory Crockett, Willie Deckard, Willie McGee and Chuck Smith. Borzov, who claims he never has said he is the world's fastest human—"it's up to the people who come to the meets to decide that"—is one of four Russians entered in the National AAU meet that will help decide the makeup of the U.S. team for its competition against the Soviet Union March 16 at Richmond, Va.

The others are Yevgeny Arzhanov, runner to Dave Wottle of the U.S. in the Olympic 800 meter race; Vladimir Abramov, a substitute for ailing Olympic high jump champion Yuri Tarmak who has cleared seven feet 3 3/4 inches outdoors and won at seven feet at San Diego last week, and Ludmila Bragina, women's 1,500-meter Olympic champion and world record holder.

Abramov's high jump opposition will include Pat Matzdorf, holder of the world outdoor record, defending champion Gene White, Reynaldo Brown, Dwight Stones, Chris Dunn and Tom Woods.

Three other Olympic champions are entered, including hurdler Rod Milburn of Southern University, long jumper Randy Williams of the University of Southern California and shot putter Wladyslaw Komar of Poland.

In addition, there will be Steve Smith of Long Beach State, the only pole vaulter to clear 18 feet indoors and winner of 12 straight meets this season; Marty Liquori, the world's top miler in 1969 and 1971 who is making a comeback after a foot injury sidelined him last season; Bob Beamon, 1968 Olympic long jump champion and world record holder; Sweden's Kjell Isaksson, former indoor pole vaulter record holder, and Willie Davenport, 1968 Olympic hurdles champion.

Virginia To Catch Heels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Virginia will be catching sixth-ranked North Carolina on the rebound in their televised basketball game Saturday afternoon.

However, the Virginia Cavaliers will have the advantage of playing on their home court.

The game, beginning at 1:30 p. m., will be followed by another televised Atlantic Coast Conference game, Duke at Maryland at 3:30 p. m. The Blue Devils and Terrapins game will be on limited TV, not the regular ACC network.

On Saturday night, Clemson will be at Wake Forest and undefeated North Carolina State, No. 2 nationally, will go after victory 23 in a home game against the Charlotte branch of the University of North Carolina.

North Carolina was upset 102-

92 by Miami of Ohio Wednesday night. The Tar Heels played run and shoot basketball, but Miami-Ohio's Redskins picked up the tempo and beat North Carolina at its own game.

The same night, Virginia defeated Pitt 89-66.

North Carolina is 6-3 in the ACC and 20-5 in all games. Virginia is 4-6 and 12-8.

ACC teams were idle Thursday and will be idle tonight.

Maryland won and Duke lost Wednesday night.

Maryland, No. 8 nationally, ran its record to 18-4 by beating Duquesne 81-71. Duke, 12-10, was battered 74-50 by N. C. State, the worst loss at home for the Blue Devils since North Carolina won 75-50. It was the first loss at home for Duke in 18 games, and clinched the ACC regular-season title for the Wolfpack.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball contract talks took a respite today while Marvin Miller held the first in a series of sectional briefings with major leaguers in a move to sample the mood of ballplayers.

Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said he would give West Coast players "an optimistic view" of the meetings with team owners before returning to New York tonight to meet with management again Saturday.

Miller flew to Los Angeles Thursday after spending two hours with the owners' top negotiator, John Gaherin. According to a source close to the talks, Miller hopes to get a picture of the players' feelings at the gathering before heading east for the seventh set of negotiations in eight days.

The briefing is the first of seven, the next set for Monday in Chicago.

If no agreement is reached before March 9 the meetings with players will continue. It was reported that if the statement continues after that date, players will be polled to see if they will strike for the second time in as many seasons.

The players association executive board last Friday called for a resumption of negotiations on three-year contracts on the so-called Basic Agreement over active player-owner relations and the pension and benefit plans.

Arbitration of individual contracts and the reserve clause remained the stickiest issues.

Under player contracts, spring training officially opens March 1 and the association said it would consider it a lock-out if training camps do not open then.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' player representative, pitcher Don Sutton, said "the players feel we have made two very big concessions and in exchange we have asked that spring training be opened and that confidential and regular negotiations be continued."

Sutton said "one of the big items is that we do not feel it is necessary to have a spring training lockout." The training camps are closed except for some non-roster players. Meanwhile, Manager Sparky Anderson of the defending National League champion Cincinnati Reds, said that "To be truthful, I never thought I'd see the day when sports would come to this."

MAZDA AGAIN.

Road Test Magazine has named the rotary-engine Mazda "Import Car of the Year."... Again.

This year's award went to a model that didn't exist last year: the RX-3 Station Wagon with Mazda's new automatic transmission. Why? Read Road Test's own words:

"The trouble with some small wagons—domestic or import—is that their four-cylinder powerplants can barely pull them along at a respectable rate unloaded, let alone loaded. The Mazda rotary automatic has plenty of power by contrast—zipping through the quarter-mile in 18.5 seconds."

"Even at 100 mph, the Mazda rotary just hums along with uncanny smoothness where many cars sound like they're coming apart at the seams."

"The '73 RX-3 wagon pioneers in two significant new areas—in the mating of a rotary to an automatic and the use of the rotary engine in a more family-oriented vehicle."

"There is no skimping on materials. Much of the engine, and the radiator, is aluminum. The oil lines are braided, like aircraft lines. An oil cooler and an electric fuel pump are standard—usually, you're lucky to get these features on $8000 sports cars."

Finally, says Road Test, Mazda is "covered by a transferable parts and service warranty on the rotary engine lasting two years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first."

In summary, Road Test says, "If any one car represents the direction the auto industry can aim toward, it's Mazda." See it and drive it soon.

* 2-year, 24,000-mile warranty covers engine block and internal parts to be free of defects, with normal use and maintenance, or Mazda will fix it free.

House Votes To Reinstate Disaster-Relief Program

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A multimillion-dollar bill reviving a disaster-relief program ended by the Nixon administration has passed the House in a show of voting strength that would be large enough to override a presidential veto.

Rural Republicans joined Farm Belt Democrats Thursday as the House voted 269 to 95 to reinstate the emergency loans to farmers whose crops and livestock suffer heavy losses from bad weather.

A two-thirds majority, 243 votes, is required in the House to override a presidential veto. which House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford indicated might be forthcoming if the bill passes the Senate as is.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted unanimously Thursday to approve a two-month emergency extension of foreign-aid funding while accepting a four-month continuation of money for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The House voted Wednesday to grant a funding extension for both programs to June 30.

And Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he is preparing legislation to keep President Nixon from beginning Indochina reconstruction-aid programs without congressional approval. He added this could be a separate bill or an amendment to the foreign-military-aid authorization measure.

The actions marked the latest developments in the battle between Congress and the White House over who determines spending levels. Many in Congress have said Nixon's refusal to spend money appropriated for specific programs usurps the constitutional duty of the lawmaking branch.

House passage of the disaster-relief bill, cut off by Nixon last Dec. 27 in an effort to hold down spending, marked the first time in the new session, that congressmen mustered the votes required to overpower any presidential veto.

The bill was sent to the Senate after the 196-160 approval of a key amendment that Ford said "invites a veto".

Miss Corbett Is On Dean's List

Miss Marilyn Corbett of 1403 W. Sixth Street, Greenville has been named to the Dean's List for the first semester at North Carolina Central University in Durham.

A freshman majoring in business administration, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ceasar Corbett and is a 1972 graduate of Rose High School.

Originally, the administration endorsed the version of the bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee because it would have wiped out a so-called "forgiveness feature" on loans granted rural residents under last year's flood-emergency law, approved after Hurricane Agnes and the Rapid City, S. D., flood.

But what caused the Nixon forces to urge rejection of the bill was the House-approved amendment offered by Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn. It authorizes $5,000 to cover actual losses and one-per-cent interest on loans to eligible applicants in areas where the program started last summer and fall and had been cut off Dec. 27.

Nixon's supporters claimed this would add $300 million to the cost of legislation that had carried a $50-million pricetag when it emerged from committee. When the administration quit providing such loans to farmers last December, officials estimated its cost might reach $1 billion by July.

As finally approved, the bill would call for emergency farm loans at five per cent interest for those unable to get credit from regular commercial sources.

Experiments On Humans Cited

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Probing the ethics of human medical experiments, a Senate panel has been told of children subjected to asthma attacks, men paid to take LSD, and experimental pregnancies.

Such experiments are widespread, not rare, and subject to no standards aimed at protecting the rights of the human subjects involved, the health panel was told Thursday.

The testimony before the subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., came as a prelude to an examination of research into psycho-surgery, electric stimulation of the human brain and the behavioral research of Harvard University scientist B. F. Skinner.

Dr. Robert M. Veatch gave details of case studies on "questionable" human research projects compiled by the Institute of Society, Ethics and the Life Sciences, Hastings-On-Hudson, N.Y.

He declined to provide the researchers' names or where the research was conducted.

Veatch said these included hundreds and perhaps thousands of "experimental pregnancies" produced in tests on the effectiveness of various birth control methods.

In one such test, he said, a long-term contraceptive implant was imbedded under the skin of the forearm. Forty-eight of the women became pregnant.

These were other experiments detailed by Veatch:

—Researchers gave 41,119 patients enrolled in a major group health plan a pain-tolerance test as part of a regular checkup. The subjects were told the test measured pressure.

"Each subject placed his heel in a vise-like machine and was instructed to stand the pressure as long as he could. Researchers then compared age, sex and racial differences in pain tolerance."

—Nine children aged 11 to 16, all suffering from asthma, were subjected intentionally to 55 so-called "challenge" doses of an asthma-producing drug to test the effectiveness of another drug in blocking the attacks.

"Every child experienced at least one reaction described by the researcher as repeated in five of the nine children ... followed by increased and repeated asthma for a further day or two."

—Twenty-four men answering an advertisement were paid $2-an-hour to undergo experimentation in the use of LSD to study long-range change in personality, performance and attitude.

Know The Policy About Layaways

NEW YORK, N.Y. (UPI) — If you're buying something on the layaway plan, you should find out what the store's policy is before you "lay down" even one dollar on the merchandise, says the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York.

Can you get your money back if you don't complete all the payments? If not, can the money be applied to other goods? In some extreme cases, the answers to both questions are no. The layaway plan is a form of selling in which the customer does not take possession of the goods until he has completed the payments on them. Meanwhile, the store puts the merchandise away for the customer.

The 'Worry Clinic' Spontaneous, Brief Prayers

Constance shows one of the mistakes most of us make when we pray! Discuss this case in Sunday School! Distinguish between "extrovertive" vs. "introvertive" prayer. Jesus also said, "When ye pray, use not vain repetitions." Be brief and spontaneous!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
 Ph.D., M.D.

Case W-535: Constance K., aged 19, is a college coed. "Dr. Crane," she began, my roommate had an eye operation last week so I would read aloud to her to help her keep up with our textbook assignments.

"And I noticed a strange thing! "For I might cover several pages, yet never remember having spoken a word!"

"My mind would be on a date I planned for the next night!"

"So now I wonder how God must feel when he mechanically recite memorized prayers in church, yet have our minds on other things."

Proper Prayers
 If we refrain from praying at all, that means we ignore God.

But if we parrot memorized phrases, while our mind is far away on other things, that's a worse sin for then we actually insult the Almighty!

Yet many clergymen (and laymen) will utter lengthy prayers that are to impress the congregation!

Long pulpit prayers of that nature certainly don't create much favor with Deity.

If we are to visualize God as an extension of the best modern Dad here on this Earth, then here are some suggestions for more efficient communication with Him:

(1) Don't employ "gimme" supplications wherein you ask for selfish favors!

Many people thus beg for an "A" grade or an unmerited wage increase, or a sweetheart or avoidance of a divorce or a slender waistline without doing their part to accomplish these goals.

Prayer is supposed to be a partnership affair.

You must perform your share if you expect God to cooperate.

(2) Extrovertive prayers usually get better results than introvertive supplications.

Which means if you pray for somebody else, you are being unselfish and God apparently then listens more attentively.

Thus, King Hezekiah was told to put his house in order for he was soon to die.

But Hazekiah pleaded with God and cited the logical argument that he had diverted the ancient Hebrews from worshipping idols and had turned them back to the true worship of Jehovah.

God listened to his prayer, the Bible tells us, and sent his prophet back to inform Hezekiah that he would thus be granted a 15-year life extension.

When Jesus prayed, He usually asked for the healing of others, as well as the resurrection of Lazarus.

In Gethsemane, the night of His arrest, Jesus slipped back into an introvertive prayer at the start; then shifted over to the extrovertive type before he said "Amen."

(3) To help focus your attention on God, try to visualize Him as you pray.

And when you ask for blessings on others, also conjure up their faces in your mind, for this increases your concentration and avoids the daydreaming that Constance demonstrated while reading aloud.

(4) Make your prayers short, for Jesus said God knows what we have need of before we even ask Him.

Jesus also lauded the publican's prayer, which contained only 7 words.

"God be merciful to me a sinner."

Christ criticized the long-winded prayers of the Pharisees, which were made to impress the crowd.

And he urged His followers to create spontaneous prayers, though He reluctantly gave His 12 Apostles the 58-word "Lord's Prayer," (Luke, Chapter 11).

Count 214 Train Mishaps Caused

LONDON (UPI) — A British railway official says 214 railway accidents in Britain during 1972 were deliberately and "maliciously" caused.

Col. J. R. H. Robertson, chief inspecting officer of the railways, blamed "young hooligans" for most of the accidents, of which there were four times as many as in 1963.

Another 'Magazine' TV Show Will Debut

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A new half-hour show is making its debut this weekend on ABC Television. It's called "The Reasoner Report" and will contain investigative, feature and headline news stories.

Alas, it will commence each Saturday at a terrible hour — 6:30 p.m. EST. That isn't the best of all possible times to draw a big audience.

But at least it's the start of another badly needed network news program to augment the regular half-hour news diet offered by the three networks each weeknight.

The anchorman of the new show is Harry Reasoner, who joined ABC in 1970 after 14 years of gently humorous essays and hard-news reporting for CBS. He currently is co-anchorman of the ABC Evening News with Howard K. Smith.

What brought on the new program?

"Well, I think it's a logical step in an upgrading process that has been going on at ABC news for the past eight or nine years," Reasoner said. "It's been a very slow, hard, expensive process."

"But now we're at the point where the (ABC) Evening News is fully competitive with the other network news programs. And the next step is to expand into what you might loosely call documentary programming."

He said his new show generally will have one investigative or documentary story that runs 12-14 minutes, plus two or three shorter pieces on various subjects.

How does he find time for the new show, along with his regular evening news chores?

"In a very real way, I don't," Reasoner said. "Obviously, most of the work on it is being done by Ernie Leiser (the show's executive producer) and his staff."

He noted that a similar weekend news show with a magazine-type format — CBS' "60 Minutes" — has two anchormen who do virtually all the reporting on that program.

"Unlike '60 Minutes,' we'll use a good many complete stories from ABC correspondents, which in effect means all I'll do is introduce them," Reasoner said. "But I will do as many as I can."

He didn't know what stories would be in the premier show.

"We're trying to keep it as timely as possible," Leiser said. "We probably won't know what we'll go with until this Thursday, and that may be the way things happen each week."

Children Are Taught 3 Rs In Their Native Tongue

NO LANGUAGE BARRIER — Teacher aide Pavel Egoroff teaches first graders at Washington Elementary School in Woodburn, Ore., the basics in their native tongue, Russian — the only language they speak. More than half of the incoming students speak no English and the school, with federal help, is using special methods to instruct the children, allowing them to learn English at their own pace.

WOODBURN, Ore. (AP) — More than half the first graders entering Washington Elementary School in this Willamette Valley farm town speak little or no English.

And school officials have found success in teaching them the basic three Rs in their native tongues rather than fighting what they've found to be a losing battle with the language barrier.

Woodburn has, for a variety of reasons, become a resting place for families of Spanish and Russian descent.

Members of the Old Believers, a Russian Orthodox sect that fled the Soviet Union 50 years ago amid a fight over church reform, have settled here to till the land. They cling tightly to the Russian language and their children speak little else until they reach public school.

For Chicano migrant workers, Woodburn has long been a yearly stop on the circuitous quest for farm work. Today, weary of following the crops and faced with increasing farm mechanization, many have chosen this lush farm country to put down roots.

They, too, adhere to their native tongue and their children speaks little but Spanish.

School officials say more than half the children entering public school speak only Russian or Spanish.

Two years ago, faced with high dropout rates among Spanish and Russian children, as well as pressure from the two language groups for more respect for their native beliefs and customs, the school district began offering first grade classes taught primarily in Russian and Spanish.

This year, the program offers Russian and Spanish speaking classes in the first three grades.

The U.S. Office of Education has helped with more than $365,000 from a $90 million budget in a four-year program that has also reached into another 212 school districts in the United States.

Woodburn has the only such program in Oregon.

The Old Believers present special problems.

They are uncompromising. To find a place to practice their religion as they believe it should be practiced, they went from Russia to China, Turkey, Iran and Brazil before they began settling in Woodburn.

The only source the district has found for Russian textbooks is the Soviet Union, but the Old Believers want nothing to do with communism and refuse to believe man has been on the moon.

So politics and space flight, favorite Soviet subjects, have to be deleted from the books their children use.

School officials say they will maintain Russian and Spanish programs even though federal aid will eventually end. In the meantime, to get money to build their program, they must convince the Office of Education it is working.

"Because there's a cultural bias in every standardized test, the results were practically meaningless for the ethnic children," said Jens Robinson, Woodburn's assistant superintendent.

A solution may be near. Robinson said a bilingual project in Stockton, Calif., has developed "as culture-free a test as you can get your hands on" and it will be introduced in Woodburn within the next few months.

Compensating for cultural differences is one of the objectives of Woodburn's special classes, project director Miguel Salinas said.

Children who are learning they are different need "some self-worth," Salinas said.

"If it doesn't happen in the lower grades, it's probably not going to happen in the middle grades and it's most likely not going to happen in high school," he said.

The U.S. Office of Education says the Woodburn program is one of several in the Northwest, including Spanish programs in Ephrata Ore., Yakima, Wash., and Caldwell, Idaho, Indian programs in Montana, and Eskimo programs in Alaska.

Students Defy Greek Govm't

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS (AP) — Striking university students are posing the first serious challenge to the Greek military government since the colonels seized power six years ago.

About 40 per cent of the 25,000 students in Athens are boycotting classes, and bloody clashes between students and police have become commonplace in the Greek capital.

Some 3,000 students ended a sit-in at the Athens Law School Thursday night after 30 hours; but, an hour later, police battled thousands of protesting students at Omonia Square.

The unrest, now in its fourth week, began with a demand that the military government repeal its 1969 decree abolishing university autonomy and empowering the government to appoint university senates and professors.

The students now also demand the dismissal of four retired army generals who, as commissioners to the universities, represent the government on the campuses. The generals have rejected all liberal measures proposed by the university senates.

As students demonstrations intensified, the government authorized the defense minister to draft into the army all students cited by university officials for infractions of rules. So far, nearly 100 students have been drafted.

"Students are not being drafted," declared Deputy Premier Stylianos Patakos, "only nonstudents, only those who no longer attend classes."

Some student leaders say that, if the draft order is not repealed, most of the remaining 15,000 students in Athens — and many of the 15,000 outside the capital — will join the strike.

Patakos, on Thursday told newspaper editors they would not be permitted to print stories or picture about student rioting.

So far, the general public has failed to show outward support for the students, apparently afraid of how the government might react since martial law is still in force in the Athens area.

Judge Asks 'Restraint'

GREENSBORO (AP) — Federal District Judge Eugene Gordon has advised conservationists to use restraint in discussing with newspapermen and broadcasters their suit to stop or alter the multimillion-dollar New Hope Dam in Chatham County.

He pointed out Thursday that the case is not headed for trial by jury, and that he does not read newspaper accounts of actions in which he is involved. At any rate, he said, he would not be swayed by what he read.

A hearing is to be held March 8 on whether a court order should be amended to allow resumption of some work on the dam and reservoir project that was halted by an order issued this month.

The hearing date was set Thursday during what had been scheduled to be a pretrial conference in suit of conservationists against the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Judge Gordon also continued the pretrial conference to March 8.

Taiwanese 'Stunned' By New U.S.-China Accord

By LEONARD PRATT

TAIPEI (AP) — Despite ample advance warning from news reports, the Nationalist Chinese government was shocked by the Washington-Peking agreement to set up liaison offices as a step toward

Peace Prize Candidates

OSLO (AP) — Thirty-eight persons and nine organizations have been accepted as official candidates for the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize, Director August Schou of the Norwegian Nobel Institute announced Thursday.

As usual, Schou refused to disclose any names.

Earlier this month Schou confirmed press reports that President Nixon had been nominated, but he refused to say whether he had been accepted as a candidate. Schou said Thursday the institute had received "several letters expressing both support for and protests against Nixon's candidature."

It is also known that the controversial liberal Brazilian Roman Catholic bishop, Dom Helder Camara, has been nominated again. He has been mentioned as a candidate for several years.

The Nobel winners are announced in the fall.
