

Governor's Office Is Changing With The Times: Scott

FORMER GOVERNOR Scott tells how just one flight to Washington, D. C., in the state airplane can wipe out a full month's travel allowance, and how the governor must get the funds that are necessary for additional travel. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB SCOTT
As Told to Associated Press RALEIGH (AP) — The office of governor is changing, as indeed it should change, because government itself is changing and the times in which we live are changing.

I think it is well that re-evaluate the office from time to time from the standpoint of two or three factors. One, is the office structured in such a way that it enables the governor to fulfill the duties and responsibilities that he assumes when he takes the oath? By this, I mean is the staffing correctly set up, are there enough funds appropriated to provide him an adequate staff, are the transportation and communication facilities adequate for the governor in a fast-moving world in which he is expected to be in many places, both in and out of the state and, indeed, out of the country?

Secondly, are the duties and the powers adequate today in light of the governor's relationship with the legislature, which is slowly but definitely changing; in light with the governor's relationships with other governors across the country and the national administration?

From the point of view of my four years and, obviously, that's the only way I can objectively look at it now, I think there are some changes that can be made to let the governor perform more effectively.

Number one, I do believe that, perhaps, an additional allocation should be made to the governor's office for more staff. What happens now is that the governor is able to draw upon many resources to assist him. He borrows from other departments and many of the manpower expenses are charged to other departments when, actually, this function is really being conducted for the governor's office. This is true particularly for transportation.

As a for instance, the governor is allocated a flat expense allowance. He is paid a little over $400 a month for all his travel expenses, regardless of how much he is required to travel. If he never makes a trip out of town, he gets the $400. If he has to be out of town for two weeks or make any number of trips, he still gets only the $400. That's totally inadequate this day and time.

If the governor uses the state airplane to fly to Washington for a conference, he pays out of his allowance the cost of that plane, two hundred and some dollars an hour. One round trip to Washington and his expenses allocated to him are wiped out. So what happens in this case is that the governor, through the Department of Administration, (Continued on Page 10)

Canada Threatens To Pull Out Of Peacekeeping Role

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers called on Vietnam today to set up simple machinery to make certain peace there does not fall into jeopardy. Canada expressed its displeasure at the present system and threatened to pull out of the peacekeeping commission in South Vietnam.

Rogers suggested to the opening session of the conference that it should establish a simple link with the peacekeepers in the field and that if six or more of the parties meeting here find that peace is in danger then the conference "had the right and responsibility to reconvene."

Canada officially informed the conference that it will quit the four-nation peace supervisory commission in Vietnam by April 30 unless an international authority is established to deal with cease-fire violations.

This stand put forth by Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp was supported in principle at least by Rogers during the 2 1/2-hour session.

U.S. officials said the method for setting up an authority to deal with peace violations is open to negotiation.

"However," Rogers said, "a simple mechanism for reconvening must exist."

It seems obvious, the secretary continued, that the parties have a responsibility in the event of violations which threaten the peace, independence or right of self-determination of the Vietnamese people.

This is both a joint and individual responsibility, he said, which means all participants should consult with each other on a regular basis concerning the agreement. Rogers said there should be some link between the conference members and the four parties manning the International Commission of Control and Supervision —

Poland, Hungary, Indonesia and Canada.

Such a relationship would permit the conference to keep track of important developments, Rogers added.

Sharp proposed that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is attending the conference, be empowered to receive reports of cease-fire violations and reconvene the conference if he thought this necessary.

He stressed that the individual members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision—Indonesia, Poland and Hungary are the others—should be allowed to report violations, and not just the commission as a whole, where unanimity would be required.

Sharp added that Canada may pull out of the commission if it is unable to function effectively.

"My government is well aware of the problems that a vacancy in the commission could create, and would, in practice, do whatever it could to avoid that situation arising."

Sharp told the other 11 foreign ministers and Waldheim.

"But we should not be asked to watch in silence a resumption of hostilities, nor to accept direct responsibility for all the consequences that could ensue if we felt duty-bound to report to the world that the agreement had been seriously breached."

Chicago Manufacturing Operation To Move Here

Plans have been announced today for the relocation of Cooper, U. S. A., Inc., manufacturers of animal health and pet care products from Chicago to Greenville.

The announcement of the decision to relocate the entire operations of the manufacturing company to Greenville was made by Nathan B. (Nat) Carson, president of the company.

Cooper, U.S.A. Inc. since 1959 has been affiliated with the Wellcome Foundation Ltd. of London, England. It is the United States unit of Cooper, McDougall and Robertson, Ltd. Burroughs Wellcome Company, with its manufacturing plant located in Greenville, is also a Wellcome affiliated company.

"The manufacturing plant will consist of 66,000 square feet of space specially engineered to provide all environmental safeguards necessary to the pollution-free production of our lines of Pulvex Pet Care Products and Cooper large animal health products," Carson said.

Carson also pointed out that this significant capital investment in Cooper's future will "permit continued research and expansion in the animal health acre field to better serve our customers."

The new plant, Carson said, should be in production in late 1973 or early 1974. The relocation from Chicago will involve the relocation of approximately eight families into the Greenville community and will provide about 50 new jobs overall.

Thack Brown, public relations director for Burroughs Wellcome at Research Triangle Park, said the plant would be located on the Burroughs-Wellcome site in Greenville.

At the Research Triangle, total employment as a result of the relocation of Cooper, U. S. A., Inc. is expected to be 21 with the majority moving in with the company.

Cooper started in the U. S. in 1895 at Galveston, Texas and moved to Chicago in 1903 where it has been operating for the past 70 years.

"Cooper prides itself," Carson said, "in having made major contributions to large animal and pet health care over the years. During the 1940's we provided more cattle dip than all other producers combined through our Coppertox — the first modern dips and sprays."

"In the 50's Piperazine and Loxon were created and marketed for use in animal pet worming. These have been followed in the past ten years with such ethical drugs as Canovar and Scolaban for use against worms and tapeworms by veterinarians."

"The prospects for our business as a result of our move to North Carolina are both promising and exciting", Carson said.

Child Kidnap Victim Safe

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Local and state law enforcement agencies are conducting an intensive investigation into the abduction of a young girl from her Berkshire Road home here early Sunday morning, the second such incident here in five months.

According to Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon, a robber entered a Berkshire Road home sometime after midnight Saturday, took an estimated $54 in cash from the dwelling and carried away sleeping five-year-old girl in his car.

The child, according to Cannon, was released, unharmed, on a rural road in the Portertown area of the county East of Greenville, and walked to a home where residents contacted Greenville police, about 4:24 a.m.

The police officials said the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Hardee Jr. were unaware the child had been abducted until contacted by officers.

In a similar incident 11-year-old girl was abducted from her home sometime after 2 a.m. September 26, 1972.

Investigation of that case has been under-way since that time.

Cannon said the abductor of the girl Sunday morning entered through a door and took a wallet containing about $54 off a dresser in the child's parents bedroom. The bill-fold, minus the cash, was found outside the home.

The child, according to Cannon, told investigators she awoke in the arms of the man as he placed her into his car. She told investigators she rode with her abductor for about two hours before he let her out of the car.

She then walked about a mile before finding help at the Route 9, Greenville home of Myrl Paramore.

Cooperating in the investigation of both of the abduction cases are officers of the Greenville Police Department, the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and the State Bureau of Investigation.

Crowd Screams For Vengeance

BEIRUT (AP) — "Kadafi! Kadafi! We want revenge!" thousands cried in Benghazi's Salmayya Square at the funeral of 47 Libyans killed in the airliner that Israeli fighters shot down last week.

Col. Muammar Kadafi did not attend the mass funeral at which the crowd screamed for vengeance and denounced the leaders of Egypt and other Arab nations as cowards.

Radio Tripoli broadcast the Moslem service. The broadcast said it was held in the open because Libya had no mosque big enough to accommodate so many coffins.

Jet Hit Building

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Six persons were killed today when an executive jet brushed the top of an apartment building and crashed into nearby woods shortly after the pilot told the control tower he had struck some birds "and I don't think I can make it."

The plane, in route to Miami was registered to Triton Development Co., Houston, Tex., and its flight plan said five persons were aboard. However, firemen at the scene said six bodies were removed from the wreckage.

There were no reports of injuries in the apartment building.

The crash happened seconds after the pilot had told the control tower at Peachtree-DeKalb airport in neighboring DeKalb County that the plane had struck some birds.

"I've hit some birds, and I don't think I can make it," the pilot said, according to a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration.

One witness said he looked up at the time of the crash and saw one motor on the two-engine Lear jet burning. The witness said the plane flew right over the top of his car.

North Vietnam To Release No POWs Tuesday

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said today that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday," the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered today. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second increment."

"That's what happened the first time," he said. "We're ready to go into action within short notice as soon as we get the specifics of when and where."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong handed over 143 American prisoners on Feb. 12, 15 days after the signing of the cease-fire agreement in Paris, and the United States expected the release of another group of the same size on Tuesday, 15 days after the first transfer. Twenty more U.S. POWs were handed over in Hanoi on Feb. 18, but this was billed as a gesture of appreciation for the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Communists still hold 407 servicemen and 15 civilians in North and South Vietnam and Laos, according to Hanoi.

Tin tied the release of the Americans to the issue of Vietnamese civilians held by the Saigon government, saying, "we would like very much to see the U.S. POWs return to their families, but there are also 100,000 Vietnamese families who do not know about their missing members."

Claims Guerrillas Told To Get Out Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A peaceful settlement is coming in the Middle East and Palestinian guerrillas have been told to "pack and go" from Lebanon, one of their leaders has charged.

Arab governments are desperately seeking a new U.S. peace initiative in the area and "are offering even to sacrifice the guerrilla movement in return," said Nayef Hawatmeh, leader of the Maoist Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Referring to the Israeli downing of a Libyan airliner and the nearly simultaneous visit to the United States by a top aide of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, Hawatmeh declared: "He who really wants vengeance does not go about it by kneeling at Nixon's feet. If Sadat really wants to pull Nixon's ear, he must strike at U.S. oil interests. So must Kadafi."

Col. Muammar Kadafi is the leader of oil-rich Libya. Though a fierce opponent of Israel, he has made no personal public statements since the Libyan airliner was downed with the loss of 106 lives.

Vows Age Discrimination To Be Ended

By MELVIN LANG Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram vowed today "to ream out age discrimination" from North Carolina's automobile insurance rate classifications.

Ingram, who took office last month, told a news conference: "North Carolina will be the first to abolish the assigned risk. First to abolish age discrimination. North Carolina will be first with fairness."

Ingram, who earlier ordered the assigned risk auto liability program abolished on May 17, said he was calling a hearing March 9 to review the over-all rate classification and point system.

He said the hearing specifically would be aimed at a review of "the discriminatory rating classification" system which permits a drunk to drive cheaper than a safe driving youth.

Ingram indicated he would order similar rate classification for all safe drivers, regardless of age.

"Under the present system," Ingram said, "the youthful driver's basic rate with a perfect driving record is approximately $220 (annually). And yet, a male driver over 25 in the personal use category pays $160, $185 or $170 with a drunk driving conviction."

"The problem is that the basic classification for the over 25 is so low that when the over 25 gets his 250 per cent increase under the point system he still isn't close to what the young man is paying with a safe driving record."

Ingram said the "youthful driver with a safe driving record should be treated the same as any other safe driver."

"It is repugnant to American philosophy to discriminate because of age, and I intend to

Agenda Set For Meet Of Zoning Commission

Four and seven respectively are the number of agenda items on list for the two zoning commissions, the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission and the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission to meet at city hall Wednesday night.

"A consideration of proposed thoroughfare plan and three requests for rezoning constitute the joint commission agenda. The requests are: for a portion of Oakmont Plaza located on the west side of N. C. 43 from shopping center to office and institutional; for RA-20 to office and institutional; the C. A.

Langley Heirs property north of S. R. 1529 from RA-20 to industrial and from unoffensive industry to industrial; and the Simon Moye property, across N. C. 11 from Pitt Technical Institute, from RA-20 to highway commercial.

The seven items on the Greenville commission agenda are: a preliminary plot for Oakmont Professional Plaza, located on the west side of N. C. 43, opposite Carriage House apartments; a preliminary plot for Staton Acres Subdivision, located adjacent to Oakgrove Estates; and a final plat for Arlington Plaza, Section II. Also, a request for rezoning by Dallas McPjerson for property located adjacent to Minges property on Tenth street from office and institutional to shopping center; consideration of compliance of developers with the subdivision regulations; consideration of a request by Pitt County Health Department that subdivision plats of areas not served by municipal sanitary systems be submitted to them for environmental health evaluation where on-site sewage disposal systems are not to be installed; and a report on progress of aerial photography and mapping of Green Mill Run in order to establish flood plan areas.

Scout District Banquet Held

The Sunrise District of the Boy Scouts of America held its annual "Pot Luck" recognition banquet Saturday at the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church in Greenville. The Rev. John H. Taylor, past chairman for 1972, presided over the ceremonies and also delivered the message for the evening.

Officers for the 1973 new year were installed by Greg Guthrie and Cedric Joyner, two Scouts of Troop 191 who have completed the requirements for the rank of Eagle Scout, which will be presented to them next month. The officers installed were Walter C. Fields, District Chairman, and J. W. Grimes, District Commissioner. Award recipients were as follows: the Compass Award—

The next district committee meeting will be held March 1 at Cornerstone Church at 7 p.m.

Would Exclude Petro Complexes

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Wildlife Federation wants Gov. Jim Holshouser and the General Assembly to "move as quickly as possible" to exclude huge petro-chemical complexes from the Tar Heel coast.

The federation also approved a resolution asking the General Assembly to authorize the Wildlife Resources Commission to set all regulations for fox hunting in the state. At present, the hunting of red and grey foxes is controlled by local ordinances.

A resolution requesting this was approved Saturday at the closing session of the federation's convention. The federation is a private organization of conservationists and sportsmen.

The resolution said private interests are now looking for a suitable location for an oil refinery on the East Coast, possibly at Morehead City or Beaufort.

It added, "Inevitable spills and similar actions would result in the early destruction of the shellfish industry and the diminution...of the finfish industry."

Clyde Patton, executive director of the state Wildlife Resources Commission told the federation members water reservoir projects are crowding wildlife out of their natural habitats.

Wildlife and its habitat "will lose and lose—until there's nothing left except duck ponds and water skiers," Patton said.

He told the group the New Hope Dam project in Chatham and Durham counties will destroy thousands of acres of prime habitat in contrast to a few acres set aside for waterfowl.

Dedication Service Held Sunday By University Church Of Christ

DEDICATION SERVICE...for the newly completed University Church of Christ was held Sunday afternoon.

The University Church of Christ held its dedication service Sunday afternoon with 260 attending the special service. The minister, Lawrence Kepler, led the congregation in the act of dedication.

An American and a Christian flag were presented to the congregation by J. B. Newman, representative of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society.

Special music was brought by the Philippi Church of Christ quartet of Creswell, who sang, "Had It Not Been", a solo, "Sweet, Sweet Spirit" by Mrs. Dolan Baker of Macedonia Christian Church, Williamston, and Maple Grove Christian Church quartet of Williamston, who sang, "I'm a Child of the King" and "The Lighthouse."

The Scripture lesson was read by Hugh Jarrett, minister, Mt. Pleasant Christian Church, Greenville. The prayer of dedication was offered by Paul Duckett, minister, Kinston Christian Church.

The message was brought by Ray Giles, missionary to Ethiopia. His text was taken from Jeremiah chapter 32. He told of Jeremiah's hope and ministry was based in God and not on the ability of man. Giles related how many today dim the hopes of man's future because of the pollution and the corruption that is so prominent in our time. He said that he had no hope in the future but his hope, like Jeremiah, was in God, who holds the future.

The benediction was pronounced by Ted Walton, minister of the Church of Christ, Manteo.

Indignation Ends Debate

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — In the legislative debate over a Minnesota state animal, the howl of the timber wolf and those speaking for the white-tailed deer and gopher may have been shouted down by the cry of public indignation.

"There may not be any state animal this session," says Sen. Ed Schrom, Albany, chairman of the Senate game and fish subcommittee that has held two public hearings on the issue. "We've got more important things to do," Schrom says, noting that members of legislature have been getting "a lot of heat about wasting so much time on such an issue."

The House voted for the white-tailed deer as a state animal earlier this month, although supporters of the wolf exhibited a lot of strength in public hearings. Strom gave advocates of both animals time at hearings of his Senate subcommittee, before the decision to postpone the issue indefinitely.

"If we have time and there are no more pressing matters, we may take it up again at the end of the session," he added.

Food Poisoning Felled Seventy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Most of about 70 persons taken ill with an apparent dose of food poisoning Sunday night were released from six city hospitals early today.

Two children were admitted and a few others were kept under observation, but none were considered seriously ill.

A city health official said today that those affected were part of a crowd of 200 that ate a buffet luncheon at the dedication of the Bethel African Methodist Church of God in the Germantown section of Philadelphia.

Lawrence Devlin, deputy health commissioner, said the cause of the problem won't be known until later today, but "It appears to be food poisoning."

He said tests were being conducted on food served at the church—a three-item menu of bone turkey, ham and macaroni and cheese prepared "by the ladies of the church in the church kitchen."

Those attending the dedication affair came from various points on the East Coast, from New York City to Atlanta, Ga., and Devlin said most of them were on their way home by early this morning. Devlin said a busload left for Norfolk, Va. shortly after midnight.

The two children, Walter Gary, 6, of New York City, and Samuel Harris III, 4, of Philadelphia, were admitted to the Einstein Medical Center, where they were listed in fair condition.

A few others at Einstein were held for observation, but most had been released from there and from five other hospitals by 1 a.m.

Victims suffered from violent nausea, stomach cramps and headaches, said a spokesman at one hospital. "They were treated with anti-emetics, which stops vomiting and some cases of diarrhea and stomach cramps," said a spokesman at another.

Dr. Lewis Polk, city health commissioner, said early indications were that the problem was caused by food not being kept cold. A spokesman at the Chestnut Hill Hospital said it was apparently a "staph" poisoning from mayonnaise.

Regarding the mayonnaise, Devlin said "I heard that rumor too." He said the cause would not be known until tests are completed late today.

Paid For All Jurors' Quirks

CHICAGO (AP) — One woman worried that her pet parrot might catch pneumonia. One man craved sardines; another wanted chunky peanut butter.

By day, they were jurors in the bribery trial of federal Judge Otto Kerner and his longtime associate, Theodore J. Isaacs. At night and on weekends, the seven women and five men were the concern of General Manager David H. Salene of the Sheraton Inn-O'Hare South, where they were sequestered more than a month.

Salene, 31, a 12-year veteran of the hotel business, found that his tenants posed problems not normally caused by overnight guests.

One woman realized she had left her chill-prone parrot at home. A federal marshal drove her back to get it, but she was not satisfied.

"He's catching cold," she told Salene. "That room is full of chills. I know he's cold because he told me."

To combat boredom, jurors were treated to meals in different hotel dining rooms and, on occasion, were taken out for a meal, Salene said. Despite the varied cuisine, jurors made special requests.

"One man had a thing for sardine sandwiches," Salene said. "And would you believe I didn't have one can of sardines in the hotel?"

A shopping trip by a U.S. marshal remedied that, he said. But another marshal's purchase was not as helpful, Salene recalled. When a jar of peanut butter was taken to the juror who wanted it, the man said: "This is creamy peanut butter. I don't eat that. All I eat is chunky peanut butter."

Kerner and Isaacs were convicted Feb. 19 in U.S. District Court of conspiracy, bribery, fraud and income tax evasion in connection with a race-track stock transaction while Kerner was governor of Illinois from 1961 to 1968. Kerner also was convicted of perjury.

Salene said he was not sure what the bill was for the jurors' stay but the government paid for it all—including the sardines and peanut butter.

Simply Decline Party Invites

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a law against what you can put in a person's casket when you bury him?

I have a good friend who made me promise that if he died before I did, I would get a fifth of the best bourbon money can buy, take a real big swig, replace the cap, and put the bottle beside him in the casket.

I told him I would gladly do this, but I need to know if there is a law against it in Michigan.

DETROIT NEWS READER

DEAR READER: Any undertaker can tell you. And so can a Michigan lawyer. [I wonder what your friend has in mind? Spirits for the spirits, maybe?]

DEAR ABBY: Please do the country a big service by saying something about women who invite their friends to their homes and then try to sell them everything from jewelry to kitchenware to clothing. I attended four such parties in the last two weeks, all of which I tried to decline, but my friends would not take no for an answer. They all said, "You don't have to BUY anything. Just come!" Once there, I am bombarded with the worst kind of high-pressure salesmanship, and I always end up buying something so as not to look cheap.

I hate to say I will come and then not show up. Will you please tell women how some of their friends feel about being taken advantage of in this manner?

ALL PARTIED OUT

DEAR PARTIED: Your problem is your inability to say NO. Some women appreciate being introduced to new products this way, and they enjoy the parties, too. If you don't, simply decline.

DEAR ABBY: Two girls I consider my closest friends have steady boy friends. [I don't have anyone special right now.]

Both of these girls have told me that they have had dreams about me in which I am the central character. They also say their boy friends are in these dreams, but they won't tell me how the dreams come out. I have asked them whether I am the hero or the villain, and they both reply, "It depends on how you look at it."

Do you think they consider me a friend or an enemy?

DREAMED ABOUT

DEAR DREAMED: That depends on how the dreams came out. You can be certain of one thing. They consider you a threat!

DEAR ABBY: I am so tired of hearing husbands and wives complain that their marriages fell apart because one or the other got fat. How ridiculous can some people get?

Louie and I have been married 13 years. I went from 110 to 186, and Louie went from 165 to 230, and it didn't harm our love life one bit. In fact, it's better than ever. One thing it did was to get rid of all the jealousy. Our marriage will last forever. Who'd want either one of us?

ANGIE

DEAR ABBY: With all the letters in your column lately about dental care, I have something to ask you related to that subject.

What do you think about a woman who always carries a toothbrush and toothpaste in her purse so she can brush her teeth right after she eats, no matter where she is? This can be in a restaurant or in somebody's house.

When she's thru eating, out comes the toothbrush and paste, even if some of us are still eating, and she makes a big thing out of excusing herself to go brush her teeth.

NAUSEATED

DEAR NAUSEATED: It's good for her teeth, but not for your stomachs. I hope this fastidious lady also carries a good strong disinfectant with which to clean the sink afterwards.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that poor woman who claims that she felt like a "castrated animal" after her hysterectomy to get help fast. I am 64 and had a hysterectomy for cancer five months ago, and I can tell you it didn't "castrate" me by any means. I have never felt better, nor more like a woman. Tell that lady to get back with the program before her husband begins to program someone else's computer.

STILL OPERATING IN WALLA WALLA

DEAR ABBY: Like all other human beings, you are entitled to your opinion. However, I think there must be some underlying motive in your statement that "women can't bathe enough."

Are you a secret agent for Proctor and Gamble? Or are you just weird?

DEAR GERTIE: Neither. I just have a love affair going with soap. And that's no lie!

Building A More Stable World

Another major move in creating a more stable world was made last week when the United States and China announced the establishment of official government liaison offices in Washington and Peking.

The offices will be the principal points on expansion of trade and other matters.

The announcement said there was agreement that "the time was appropriate for accelerating the normalization of relations.

"To this end, the (negotiators) undertook to broaden their contacts in all fields. The agreed on a concrete program of expanding trade as well as scientific, cultural and other exchanges."

As part of the pact, the Chinese agreed to release two U. S. airmen and review the sentence of a CIA agent serving a life sentence. Discussion of financial claims for each country will be negotiated.

Finally there was agreement for cultural, sports, scientific medical and teaching groups to visit each country.

Many of the major issues which have resulted from the gulf between the two countries for the past decade were not discussed in the announcement; however, we do see a strong start in the resumption of normal relations between the United States and China. It is something that had to come, and it is proper that we are now proceeding in this direction.

Map Rebuilding From Ground Up

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH — From the ground up is the direction rebuilding must take for the North Carolina Democratic party, shaken by the loss of the governorship and a U. S. Senate seat in the last general election.

Key leaders are convinced that a comeback depends upon closer rapport with the rank and file in the precincts and counties, drawing into working roles those who reflect majority thinking.

A major thrust of the effort is to awaken the traditional conservative element, which has been turned off by the influx of activist groups, and move the philosophical base more to the middle-of-the-road.

Cultivating the grassroots is the aim of Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr., titular head as the party's defeated candidate for governor, when he sets out Wednesday (Feb. 28) on a six-day swing through 50 western counties.

As planned by Bowles and State Chairman Jim Sugg, the trip will make contacts with local leaders in small groups for in-depth discussions of the party's problems and prospects for the future.

"I feel a come back strong in 1974 and 1976, but the Republicans now have tasted blood and Democrats can no longer sit back in the fall. We've got to work, and work hard."

The tenor of the talks, Bowles said, will not be to tell the locals how state headquarters wants things run but to ask: "What can the crown in Raleigh do to help you win?" That will involve listening with a receptive ear for ideas to strengthen the party, he said.

One message he will take is that county chairmen should stand clear when Democrats choose sides for primary fights. Impartiality for party officials is the rule to follow, he said, to promote unity in the aftermath.

The same hands-off role also will fit the state chairman and party headquarters, Bowles promised.

Getting back together plagued Democrats last year after Bowles won the nomination over former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor in a hard-fought second primary. Many regarded it as a factor in the fall defeat.

Party Gathering Scheduled
After the western tour, Bowles will rest briefly before traveling the eastern half of the state. His visits with local party leaders will set the stage for the Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner in Raleigh on March 24, the first big Democratic outing since the election. Gov. Dale Bumpers of Alabama is scheduled as the speaker. The fact that he beat Wintrop Rockefeller, a Republican who had turned out a Democrat, makes him a timely choice.

By hitting the road, Bowles answers in the affirmative the question whether he will stay active in politics and exercise his role as titular head of the party. It leaves to speculation his own ambitions.

Sugg said it was his impression Bowles could be available as a candidate for some office at some future time. "He's not going to roll over and play dead," the chairman remarked.

"It's too early to even think about that," Bowles insisted. "I want to help the party, not get myself involved in conjecture."

People have suggested he run for the U. S. Senate next year in the event Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. does not seek another term. Others have urged that he run again for governor.

While he acknowledged the pressures, Bowles said he has put them aside. It would be unfair to him and to the party, he added, to suppose that the trip has the purpose of keeping him alive politically.

Brassroot In-Put Overdue
Soliciting in-put from the precinct and county level "is something the party should have been doing a long time ago," said Sugg, a New Bern lawyer who served with Bowles in the legislature and was picked by him as state chairman.

Democrats must move to the middle ground to get back on the victory road, said Sugg. The failure of Democratic regulars to participate, he said, has resulted in the party going in directions not representative of the people.

Disregard and neglect of local organization has weakened the party, confirmed Rep. Gerald Arnold of Harnett. He served as county chairman, he said, and was called on to raise money but never to contribute to decisions in party affairs. "That sort of thing has got to be changed," he said.

Arnold, a Bowles lieutenant in the last campaign and named a liaison between the party and the Democratic legislative majority, said a coalition of activist groups have set party policies which turned off the majority.

"The Young Democratic Clubs have hurt our party when they have taken positions such as calling for the legalization of marijuana," he said. "Some way has to be found to draw people into working positions in the party who reflect majority thinking."

Detour Will Keep Open A Major Thoroughfare

It is to the public's advantage that something has been working out to provide a detour on Charles Street while the Green Mill Run bridge is replaced. The State Highway Commission had originally proposed closing the street while the bridge was taken out and a new one built to widen the street.

Considerable protest was heard and Mayor Eugene West announced during the weekend that construction of a detour around the project had been approved by the Highway Commission.

This will mean that the major thoroughfare will be kept open during construction. We are grateful to all the public officials who worked to solve this problem

The Marriage Of Convenience

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
MIAMI BEACH—Despite AFL-CIO president George Meany's pious declarations of a new political neutrality heavily scented with Nixonism, his romance with Richard M. Nixon is strictly a marriage of convenience, not a flirtation of love.

"Just watch George," confided an intimate shortly after Mr. Nixon became the first President ever to grace a midwinter AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting here. "He'll milk this for everything he can get out of it."

While Meany was basking in the klieglights surrounding Mr. Nixon on Monday, his top political lieutenants were quietly putting finishing touches on their design to place eight representatives of organized labor among the 25 new members of the Democratic National Committee to be named shortly by party chairman Robert Strauss.

More important, while Meany was protesting his neutrality as between the Democratic and Republican parties, Strauss was cultivating hard-core Meanyites, led by labor's top political operative, Al Barkan. It was Barkan, aided by Meany himself, who played such a major role in getting Strauss elevated to Democratic chairman after the McCovern presidential debacle. Meany, for just one example, personally persuaded Bronx Democratic leader Pat Cunningham to back Strauss for party chairman.

The distinction between Mr. Nixon's dramatic courtship of Meany and the AFL-CIO Executive Council on Monday and Strauss's own courtship one day later was vivid. Meany formally introduced Mr. Nixon to the Council, listened silently while the President spoke, the escorted him back to his limousine.

But the meeting with

Strauss was, in the words of a Meany lieutenant, "like a warm family gathering"—a cocktail party which Strauss, invited six weeks ago to come to the labor parley here, tossed Meany, the Council and a hundred other AFL-CIO satraps.

Publicly, Meany clings tenaciously to the line that he has no more connection with the Democratic party than with the Republican party. Privately, he told top aides that his ardent suitors from both parties just proved the wisdom of the 1972 presidential campaign neutrality he imposed on the AFL-CIO after McGovern's nomination. "It proved," he said, "that no politicians have us in their pocket."

Yet, with Meany's obvious encouragement, Barkan and the AFL-CIO's political apparatus—perhaps the best organization of its size in the country—is rapidly enlarging its influence within the Democratic party. The objective is clear: to gain a strong foothold and avoid being caught off guard by some future George McGovern who lost not only the endorsement of the AFL-CIO high command but also more than half the votes of rank-and-file union members in last November's election.

Some of the President's political aides genuinely believe that Meany's neutrality last year, plus Mr. Nixon's endorsement by the huge Teamsters Union and by half a dozen lesser union presidents, marked a major turning point. Not soon if ever again, they have advised Mr. Nixon, will a Democratic presidential ticket have anything like monolithic backing of organized labor.

It was precisely to advance that hopeful Republican prospect that Mr. Nixon named Peter Brennan, an old-line New York labor leader, Secretary of Labor and gave him unusual authority at the Labor

Strength For Today

THE FALLING GIANT
"Timber!" We hear the cry in beautiful technicolor productions showing the rugged life of the logging camp. As the great tree starts to fall there is the resounding snap as the last fibers of the trunk break and the tree starts its downward course. As it hits the ground there is a noise like the crashing of a dozen thunderbolts. A giant of the forest has fallen.

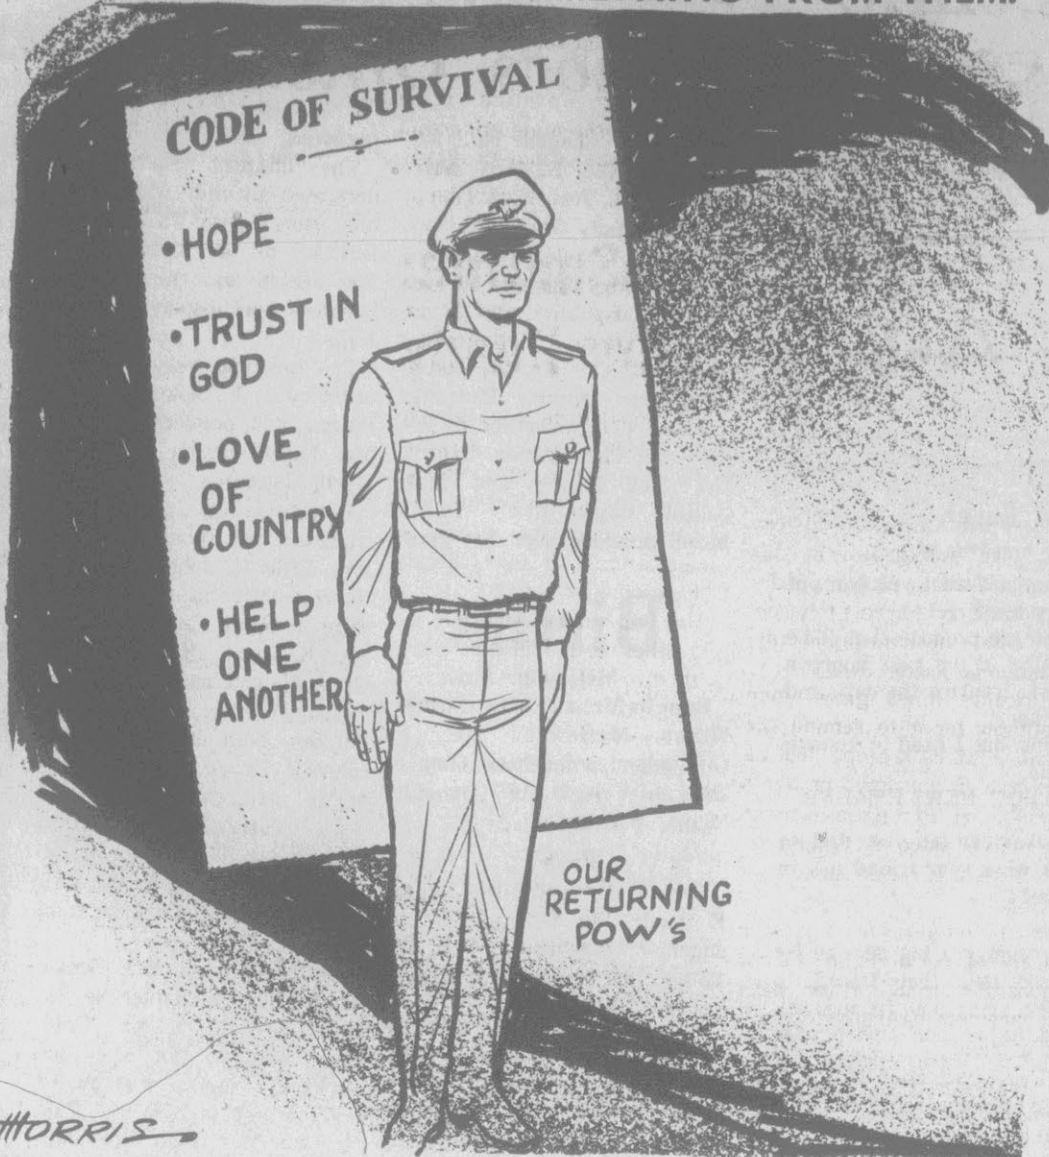

But in its fall the giant has taken down many other trees. It has crushed all the shrubbery over a wide area. Little trees that a short time before were hopefully pushing their tiny crowns up toward the sun are now broken and will be utterly decayed within a few months.

Everytime we do evil we not only hurt ourselves but others also. When a great man, the incumbent of some high position, plunges down from the pinnacle of influence he crushes many others in his fall. The father who brings disgrace upon his children is a case in point. The son who dashes his parents' pride in the dust and tramples upon it is so pathetic as he sits amid the ashes of his disgrace that the whole world weeps at the sorry sight of him.

We should remember these things as we confront temptation. We should remember that no man falls into disgrace without dragging others with him. The falling tree spreads devastation in its downward plunge.

Price Of Food By 1974

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 1, 1974 — The government announced this afternoon that wholesale food prices have risen again for the month of November. Hartley Rasher of the President's Council of Economic Advisers told reporters:

"While the wholesale price of leg o'lamb reached $93.50 per pound, we are very encouraged to see that turnip greens and watermelon rinds have actually gone down 2 cents a bushel. If the downward trend in these two commodities continues for another month, we believe we can reach our anti-inflation goals by 1975. Are there any questions?"

"Mr. Rasher, wouldn't you consider the price of lamb exceptionally high for this time of year?"

"As you recall, in late 1973

we predicted a rise in the price of lamb due to a sheep blight in North Dakota. While $93.50 for a leg of lamb may be slightly higher than we would prefer, it comes to only $7.79 a month or approximately $1.80 a week, which is certainly within the cost-of-living guidelines. According to our calculations most families in this country can still eat leg o' lamb once a year."

"Mr. Rasher, eggs are now selling for $23 a dozen. Does the economic council consider this inflationary?"

"Back in January, 1974, we warned the American people that the price of eggs was going up. The reason for this is that more people are buying eggs because they can't afford to eat lamb. The only way for the price of eggs to go down is for housewives to stop buying them."

"Sir, the food price index shows that butters is selling for $19 a pound. Do believe this is out of line?"

"No. Actually we're very encouraged by butter holding at $19. In February, if you recall, the Department of Agriculture predicted that butter would be selling at $25 a pound. But thanks to milk surplus this summer production reached an all-time high. The President has sent the Dairy Farmers of America a congratulatory telegram for their cooperation in making butter a bargain item."

"Mr. Rasher, my wife went to the supermarket the other day and she paid $15.90 for a loaf of bread. That was $4.50 more than she paid for the same loaf last month. How do you explain this?"

"We believe this is just a temporary thing and we're dealing lower prices for next month. What you're dealing with here is a crust shortage. The bakers had to pay more for crust last month because of strikes in the Midwest crust factories. The President expects the strikes to be settled and bread prices should come down to $15 a loaf, providing yeast prices don't rise. This is something that nobody can predict. But we must remember bread is a luxury item, and there is no reason to have it on the table every night."

"According to your latest figures milk is now selling for $10 a quart. Does the government intend to do anything about this?"

"If you will recall, the government reluctantly gave dairymen a $2 milk raise in 1973. Unfortunately this turned out to be insufficient. Now I know some of you have written that the $2 raise we

Today's Goal: Job Enrichment

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The search for efficiency has brought American industry through many phases since the era of time and motion studies during the late 1930s and 1940s to the latest product, job enrichment.

Experimentation with human engineering, or the designing of products to better suit and serve humans, became popular late in the 1940s. Machine controls were placed at eye level, lathes were made safer, lighting was improved.

Following in the efficiency continuum came automation, the advent of electronic controls and other devices aimed at improving productivity by reducing the human component of routine activities.

And now in the 1970s there is a reaction to some of the techniques of the past. Workers are rebelling against piece work, lack of personal responsibility, repetition and inability to use skills. What was once accepted for the sake of efficiency, is now producing inefficiency.

Absenteeism, tardiness, lack of ambition, employ turnover and poor product quality are some of the manifestations. And so the latest goal of efficiency seekers is job enrichment.

Dr. John Drake, an adviser to many blue chip corporations on job enrichment, believes that the rebellion against the emptiness of the work day is an understandable consequence of two developments.

First, said Drake, who heads Drake-Beam & Associates, as a nation becomes more industrial its workers earn more. They satisfy immediate needs and have discretionary income. But they want more than money. They may seek meaning in their work.

Second, cultural pressures also develop. The individual views himself differently. He sees himself as a person of dignity. "I am good," he says in effect, an attitude which logically leads to "I should be treated as such."

The technique of efficiency in this decade, he said, will be to make work more meaningful, and thus encourage the worker toward higher production and better quality.

To be successful, Drake believes, any enrichment program must have these characteristics: it is a complete piece of work; it must provide the worker with decision-making control; it must offer feedback on performance.

Many routine jobs already have been enriched. In a television factory, groups of workers who once did simple, repetitive jobs on an assembly line now take full responsibility for the assembly and quality of entire units.

Job enrichment, said Drake, is now in its second generation, with its sights set on restructuring entire units and redistributing the pieces of work so that each worker has a piece of work to call his own.

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK

Corn is a major cash crop in North Carolina and in Pitt County. It is our number two cash crop both in North Carolina and Pitt County exceeded only by tobacco.

The Agricultural Extension Service estimates that Pitt County harvested around 64,000 acres of corn in 1972. On this acreage, we produced a record yield for the county, averaging 90 bushels or better of corn per acre. The cash receipts from corn added over five and one-half million dollars to the economy of Pitt County.

The 1970-71 farm income data places Pitt County third in the state in total production of corn, with Wayne and Robeson leading the state.

As Pitt County increases its leadership in the state's animal industry, corn will remain the backbone of this vital enterprise in the county.

There was a period of history that corn was grown in this county to feed the mules in order to produce and harvest tobacco, but with mechanization this situation no longer exists.

Farmers must grow corn profitably for it to remain the number two cash crop. Just as the cost of consumer products are climbing for the housewife at the market place, so is the cost of raising corn increasing. It is impossible to write a prescription to insure a farmer 200 bushels per acre, but it's not impossible through proper corn management to raise our level of production.

Proper selection of soil type, soil testing, selection of high yielding varieties, proper planting date, population and weed control, are some of the many things that a farmer has to consider in producing corn at a level to insure himself of a high level of profit after harvest.

For more information on corn management, contact the Agricultural Extension Service in Greenville.

Peanut farmers are urged to mark March 22 on their calendars for the annual Pitt County Peanut Growers Meeting. We have planned a very interesting program with several specialists from North Carolina State University presenting important aspects of the peanut program.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do not try to force anything today or tonight for it is essential if you now wish to get ahead that you build a firm and secure foundation to your life and take no chances. Most everyone is in an argumentative frame of mind and will resent discussing their aims or being blocked in gaining them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to use tact if you want to get the backing you need from a bigwig now. Do nothing that could impair the reputation you have carefully built up. Take the right steps for advancement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You want to get into some new outlet, but you had better let an expert pick it out for you. You have new associates who are fascinating but are not exactly what you wanted. Give them a little more time to catch on to the ropes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have made promises that need to be kept scrupulously now, so get an early start on such. Closest ties are very cooperative early, but later the mood changes. So make hay while the sun shines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A partner can give fine advice that should be followed if you are to get the benefits therefrom that you want. Stop deliberating so much as is your habit and all works out fine. Think constructively, wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get the okay from partners for handling all those business problems ahead of you and they are soon behind you. Evening is good for resting and rebuilding energies. If yours is a sedentary job, exercise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can have a fine time today provided you stay within your budget. A complimentary or cheerful word to closest ties can bring excellent results. Avoid that talkative person who gets on your nerves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use tact at home, you can improve the situation there considerably. Show more thoughtfulness for kin. Don't discard something that a family treasure. Make sure that you are efficient at your regular job.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep appointments with those who have the knowledge you need and get it from them. Better self-organization can bring excellent results in the future. Avoid some situation that looks dangerous to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting into new outlets that will bring you added income is wise right now. Try to save more money also instead of spending so lavishly. A wide-awake attitude is important just at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Strengthen your position in your community in a.m.; adopt that new attitude early. Handle correspondence, shop wisely, make plans for trips. Entertain in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study prices well before you shop and be more concerned before you handle other financial affairs as well. Use intuitive faculties more. Study private goals intelligently and get advice confidentially from expert also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try not to force a good friend into doing something that is important only to you, and get busy at it yourself. Avoid group meetings that could bring on real trouble. Arguments are best kept out of right now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those delightful young children who feels that a fight has to be put up for whatever is wanted, so teach early to have a more cooperative attitude toward others; show that a kind word accomplishes much more and with less trouble. Teach to be compassionate also, or the world will be cold toward your offspring. A very hard worker in this chart, one who will persevere until aims are attained. Send to right schools.

TOBACCO TALK

By RAYMOND D. COLTRAIN

There is a good chance that there will be a short supply of nitrate nitrogen this year so you need to plan your fertilizer program now and get your fertilizer in the "pack house." There are several guidelines that you can use to plan a sound fertility program. First, you want to use plenty of the different nutrients to make maximum yields of high quality tobacco, but not an excessive amount of these nutrients. There is no need of putting more than you need because this can get expensive. Secondly, you should supply these nutrients at the lowest possible cost.

The first step one should take is to take a soil test of his field. It can give you the information needed to base your fertilizer requirements on. The pH will tell you if you should lime your fields and if so, how much you should use. It will show if your field is low in phosphorus and potassium which could effect your fertilizer bill. Some factors you need to consider when you decide how much fertilizer to use are soil texture, sandy or light versus heavy, depth of topsoil, previous crop and fertilizer programs.

Quite a few farmers are finding that when they use a 1:2:3 ratio of fertilizer, such as 4-8-12, 6-12-81, or 8-16-24, they get the same results as they did with a 1:3:3 ration such as 3-9-9. They find that handling costs are less with 1:2:3 ration and you don't have to use as much fertilizer to get the same number of pounds of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium per acre.

gave last month coincided with a political campaign contribution to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. I would like to state categorically that the increase in milk had nothing to do with the campaign contribution.

"When the milk producers went to see the President to present their check, they made no mention of their milk problems. As a matter of fact, the President was as surprised as anyone when they were granted the $2-a-quart increase the next day. But nobody bothered to check this out, which is only another example of irresponsible journalism."

"Mr. Rasher, how do you read the next six months as far as food prices are concerned?"

"We may see a slight rise in coffee, no more than $5 a pound, bacon may go up $1 or $2 a strip and tomatoes may sell for $3.50 each. But since we've made allowances for this in our food index, we can see no unwelcome surprises for the housewife."

"If she shops wisely and seeks out the bargains, she can still feed a family of four for $300 a week. But if she insists on giving her family chicken gizzards and flounder every week, then, of course, we can't be responsible for what her food bills will be. Taking everything into consideration we feel that November, for the consumer, has been a very good month."

Peanut Trade Show To Begin March 14

"Something for everybody" will be found at the 1973 Virginia-North Carolina Peanut Trade Show to be held March 14 and 15 at the General Vaughan Armory at Franklin, Virginia.

Cooking displays and a peanut cooking contest, commercial and educational exhibits and door prizes will all be a part of this third show.

The first day of the event, March 14, will be marked by special opening ceremonies at 10 a.m. Included in the days festivities will be three peanut cookery demonstrations conducted by Faye Taylor, VEPCO home economist and Susan Phelps, Peanut Growers promotional director. On March 15, entrants in a Cook-A-Peanut Contest will have a chance to display their versatility in producing dishes whose basic ingredient is peanuts.

The entire show is geared not only to the peanut farmer and his family but to all consumers of peanuts. Displays will show the versatility of the "goober" and its many uses. A special exhibit will depict the contributions made to the peanut industry by George Washington Carver, the noted Negro scientist who developed many new uses for the peanut during his lifetime.

In addition to these special displays and events, over 100 agribusiness companies, who provide goods and services to the peanut farmers will have exhibits. The armory and a special tent will contain many exhibits, but the larger equipment will be on display outside.

Over 30,000 persons were in attendance during the two-day stand of the show in 1970, the last time it was held.

It Took 6 Keys To Rescue Cat

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Mrs. Gladys Hanbury, woman janitor, knew just what to do when she heard piteous cries for help in the darkened building.

She went to the telephone and called six numbers in quick succession. Soon six men were speeding to the headquarters of the Coventry Provident Building society.

They met outside the strongroom and each man produced a key.

The strongroom door swung open — and out shot George, the office cat.

Mrs. Hanbury explained: "I was afraid he might suffocate. I raised the alarm after I heard him over the loudspeaker system. I can't think how he got into the strongroom."

Explosion Interrupted Downtown Electricity

UNDERGROUND WIRES SHORT ... Utilities Commission crews pump water from a manhole housing underground power lines after a short circuit and explosion before Noon Sunday, that caused an interruption of electric service to downtown businesses and churches.

A short-circuit in underground secondary circuits along Cotanche Street, and a resulting explosion, interrupted electric service to downtown area businesses and churches late Sunday morning.

According to Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, underground secondary circuits serving the area short circuited about 11:15 a.m., setting insulation on the conductors on fire.

Horne said fumes from the burning insulation apparently caused an underground explosion a short time later.

Horne noted that the blast caused several windows in an alley-way near the short circuit — South of the Fifth Street intersection — to break, but no other damage was caused.

The utilities director said crews checked but could find no natural gas involved in the blast. Greenville firemen extinguished the burning insulation after power was cut off and, according to Horne, crews had restored power to all customers in the area — with the exception of Belk Tyler Co. — within an hour.

Electric service to Belk Tyler's was restored about 6 p.m. yesterday, Horne explained, after the damaged underground conductors were replaced.

The utilities commission official said the damage was confined to the underground wiring and said no transformers were damaged.

Television Sets And Stereo Are Stolen In Night

Eight television set and one stereo unit were reported taken in two separate break-ins here early Sunday morning, according to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon.

The official said one television valued at $340 and one stereo valued at $250 were reported stolen from Music Arts at Pitt Plaza by robbers who broke a plate glass window to gain entrance to the building.

That break-in was discovered about 2:22 a.m., Cannon noted. Seven television sets were reported taken from Hudson Brothers Television at 200 Greenville Blvd. in a break-in reported at 4 p.m. Sunday.

According to Cannon, the sets taken were valued at about $2,400.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking glass from a door.

Investigation of the thefts is continuing.

Two Wrecks Med School Backed In Same Area In Surveying Wayne

The area around the N. C. 11-N.C. 903 intersection North of Greenville has been bad for cars for the past two nights.

According to the North Carolina Highway Patrol, two wrecks have occurred in the early-morning hours there — one today and one Sunday.

Trooper Fred Davis reported a car driven by Donald Wayne Lassiter of Route 1, Bethel went out of control on the curve about 2:10 a.m. Sunday and collided with a tree.

Damage to the Lassiter vehicle was set at $500 and Lassiter was charged with exceeding a safe speed.

About 12:10 a.m. today, a vehicle operated by Michael Conners of Goldsboro went out of control, struck a tree and a railroad crossing sign, overturned and traveled about 45 feet on its top before coming to a halt, Trooper J. W. Brooks reported.

Damage to the car driven by Conners was set at $2,000. No charges were made.

Both Conners and Lassiter were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries they received in the collisions.

GOLDSBORO — A survey conducted among his constituents by State Rep. William P. Kemp of Wayne County shows that most of his respondents feel a new medical school should be located at East Carolina University.

Some 1,495 (87.9 per cent) of those who filled out questionnaires said they favor a medical school at ECU, while 205 (12.1) said they are against it.

Kemp said he conducted the survey at his own expense and included such questions as whether soft drink and tobacco taxes should be revealed and whether there should be a code of ethics for General Assembly members.

Figures on these questions are as follows with percentages in parentheses: repeal soft drink tax—585 (32.1) for and 1,239 (67.9) against; repeal tobacco tax—447 (24.6) for and 1,367 (75.4) against; and code of ethics for legislators—1,658 (95.9) for and 70 (4.1) against.

Kemp said future survey will be conducted in the Goldsboro and Mount Olive newspapers with respondents answering at the cost to themselves of an eight-cent stamp.

Spring Training Go-Ahead As Baseball Agreement Is Signed

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball's training camps prepared today to sweep out the off-season cobwebs and finally make way for the bats ... and balls and players and, believe it or not, spring training. The go-ahead to open shut-down camps from Florida to

Arizona to California was given in New York Sunday following a three-year agreement reached at another in a series of meetings between representatives of the Major League Baseball Players Association and club owners.

Arizona to California was given in New York Sunday following a three-year agreement reached at another in a series of meetings between representatives of the Major League Baseball Players Association and club owners.

Among those teams which announced plans to begin work-outs today were the Chicago Cubs, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

In a joint statement, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, and John Gaherin, representing the 24 club owners, said they had "reached complete agreement for a three-year term subject to ratification by the clubs and players." However, ratification appeared to be a mere formality.

The settlement covers the so-called Basic Agreement, which governs active player-owner relations and the pension-benefit plan. It reportedly permits arbitration of salary disputes for players who have been in the major leagues for at least two consecutive seasons or a total of three years.

John Holland, vice president and general manager of the Cubs, termed the arbitration clause "a milestone in baseball." He called the accord "a very good settlement with give and take on both sides."

Holland said he didn't think the arbitration clause would lead to management problems. "Hockey" had arbitration for several years, and it's worked very well for them," he said.

Chub Feeny, president of the National League, said players may "report to camp as soon as they can." He and his American League counterpart, Joe Cronin, then notified the 24 clubs that they could open their camps.

open the training camps pending a settlement. They were fearful of a player strike similar to last year's two-week April walkout over the pension-benefit package which first delayed and then shortened the 1972 season.

The reaction from management and players alike was one of relief that they finally could get down to the business at hand ... namely, preparing for the 1973 pennant races. Both sides realized that fans were getting tired of talk and ready for runs, hits and errors.

"The publicity surrounding it (the negotiations) turns fans off, and judging by phone calls and letters I received during the negotiation period that very definitely happened this year," said Frank Cashen, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I think all the ballplayers, including myself, are very happy they have reached the settlement," said Jim Palmer, a Baltimore pitcher.

Countdown Begins For NCAA Tourney Bids

By GORDON D.S. PETERSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The countdown will begin this week to determine which four teams will meet each other in St. Louis.

On Thursday, the National Collegiate Athletic Association will issue bids for the nine at-large berths in the University Division tournament. Conference champions go to the tournament automatically. Two conferences, the Atlantic Coast and Southern, have post-season tournaments to decide their NCAA representative. The NCAA finals will be held in St. Louis this year.

The National Invitational Tournament will begin extending bids Thursday for its tournament to be held at Madison Square Garden in New York. The NIT usually invites the Conference runners-up and the at-large teams that the NCAA passes up.

Long Beach State, Memphis State, Miami of Ohio and Weber State qualified for the NCAA tournament over the weekend winning the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference, the Missouri Valley Conference and the Mid-American Conference, respectively. Weber State had won a berth earlier by taking the Big Sky Conference Crown.

UCLA, the defending national champion and possessor of a 68 game winning streak, clinched at least a tie in the Pacific-8 and is expected to win the conference for the seventh straight year against California and Stanford this weekend. If the last six years are any indication, the Bruins will be in St. Louis on March 24.

The leading candidates for the nine at-large berths are Marquette (22-2), Providence (21-2), Syracuse (19-4), Houston (20-3), South Carolina (18-5), Jacksonville (16-4), Oklahoma City (18-5), Oral Roberts (20-5), Virginia Tech (16-5) and Southwestern Louisiana (22-2).

This is the situation at a glance in some of the still undecided conferences for NCAA berths:

Ivy League—Penn beat Yale 78-69, taking over sole possession of first place from Princeton, a 68-62 upset victim by Brown. The Quakers can wrap up their fourth consecutive Ivy League title by beating Harvard and Dartmouth next weekend. Ohio Valley—Austin Peay leads Murray State by one game with two to play. The title will be decided Saturday when Austin Peay visits Murray State.

Big Ten—Minnesota has an 8-2 record with four games left to play. The Gophers beat Michigan over the weekend 98-90 to remain one percentage point over 9-3 Indiana and 8-3 Purdue. The second and third place finishers will probably go to the NIT.

Big Eight—Kansas State took a 1½ game lead over Colorado by defeating Oklahoma 82-78, with three games to play against Nebraska, Oklahoma State and Colorado. Third place Missouri (18-4) will probably go to the NIT for the second straight year.

SEC—Tennessee leads Kentucky with a record of 12-2 to 11-4 with four games left, including road games at Vanderbilt and Kentucky. Alabama, 10-4 in the conference and 17-4 overall, may go to the overall, may go to the NIT.

SWC—Texas Tech still favored, despite an upset defeat at the hands of Texas & M. Tech can wrap up the title with a win over Arkansas Tuesday.

PORTRAIT OF A MISSED PUTT — Forrest Fezler, looks as if the world has just crashed around him — and his golf world had. He had just missed a

Trevino Warns Fezler He'll Be Nervous Again

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a word of warning for Forrest Fezler, the heart-broken young man whose collapse let Trevino take the title and the $52,000 first prize in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary-National Airlines Golf Classic.

"He'll be nervous again," a sober and subdued Trevino said.

"I know. I've been there a lot more times than he has."

"There was a tremendous amount of pressure on him," Trevino continued. "But there was a lot of pressure on me, too."

"You know, you go for a while and you don't win—you're supposed to be one of the best players out here and you haven't won for a while and everybody starts wondering 'what's wrong with him?' Well, that puts pressure on you, too." Trevino, the current British Open champion but a non-winner since last September, benefited from Fezler's shaky putting on the last two holes Sunday and won the tournament while in the clubhouse.

"It's the first time I've ever won like that," Trevino said. "I've never before been in a position where a miss by someone else meant a win for me."

Trevino, who had been struggling and had broken 70 only once in the first seven weeks of the season, chased the front-running Fezler for 70 holes before finally acquiring his 14th American tour triumph with a par 72 final round on the 7,128-yard Inverrary Golf Club course.

He had a 279 total, nine under par and one in front of Fezler, a 23-year-old tour sophomore who was seeking his first victory. Fezler, the leader through the first three rounds, blew to a fat 76 in the occasional drizzle that fell from gray skies in the last round. Bob Murphy was third with a 71-281—but only Trevino really challenged the front-running, but stumbling, Fezler. Australian Bruce Devlin and incredible Sam Snead, a 60-year-old marvel from another golfing era, followed at 282. Devlin had a 72 and Snead 71.

Jack Nicklaus, the man most people expected to win this event that offered $260,000 in total prize money, never really got it going but finished with a 71-283. Arnold Palmer, a winner in his last previous start, wasn't a factor. He finished with a 73 and was far back in the field at 292.

Pick Housewife Golfer Of Year

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—the 1972 Carolinas Golf Writers Association golfer of the year award will go to Carolyn Cudone, who has captured the USGA Senior Women's championship the last five years.

The Myrtle Beach, S.C., housewife is the first woman ever to win the award.

Association president Smith Barrier said she will be honored at the group's annual banquet in Greensboro March 29, following the opening round of the Greater Greensboro Open.

Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles has played a record 2,334 games at third base.

Bobsled Victory For Canadians

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Canadian Hans Gehrig drove his way to the North American four-man bobsled championship at nearby Mt. Van Hoevenburg Sunday, finishing ahead of Air Force Tech. Sgt. Jim Hicke of Keene Valley, N.Y., and third place finisher Paul Lamey, driver of the winning two-man competition held a day earlier.

The four-man competition Sunday wound up a full weekend of bobsledding here with the North American two-man championships completed Saturday.

Steelers Sign J.T. Thomas

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers said Sunday they have signed defensive back James "J.T." Thomas, the National Football League club's top draft choice from Florida State.

The announcement was made by the Steeler's management at a hastily called news conference at Three Rivers Stadium. The club declined to reveal details of the pact except to say it was a multi-year agreement.

Southern Conference Cagers Eye Tourney Opening

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — If momentum is the magic word a lot of people seem to think, only Davidson's top-seeded Wildcats can claim they have it coming into the opening round here Thursday of the Southern Conference basketball championship tournament.

The Wildcats ran their winning streak to five—four more than any other league team can boast—with an 84-67 nonconference victory Saturday night at Dayton.

While Davidson was thus occupied, the last two pairings for the tournament emerged as William and Mary's Indians upset Richmond's Spiders 66-64 and East Carolina's defending champion Pirates knocked off The Citadel's Bulldogs 80-72.

Thus it will be Davidson, 8-1 in the league and 16-8 over-all, against last-place Virginia Military Institute, 3-9 and 6-19, at 2 o'clock and fourth-ranked The Citadel, 6-7 and 11-14, against William and Mary, 5-6 and 9-16, at 4 in Thursday afternoon's games.

Furman's second-seeded Paladins, 11-2 and 17-8, take on Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 3-8 and 6-19, and third-ranked East Carolina, 17-7 and 12-12, goes against Richmond, 5-9 and 8-15, at 9 p.m. to wind up the opening round.

The afternoon winners will play the 7 p.m. semifinals game Friday with the night winners tangling at 9 p.m. The championship will be decided at 8 p.m. Saturday between the two survivors.

Furman showed Saturday it will be no pushover by overpowering St. Peter's 116-76 in Madison Square Garden, but Appalachian State closed out with a 77-74 defeat at the hands of Western Carolina. VMI's Keydets had finished their regular season earlier in the week.

"All it was, we kept fighting," said William and Mary Coach Ed Ashnault of the Indians' victory over Richmond, in which the Spiders led by 15 points after 7 1/2 minutes and by 10 just after the start of the second half.

"We could have died several times and probably should have," said Ashnault, "but the kids just wouldn't quit."

Coach Lewis Mills of Richmond said "We went real bad the second half... They went to their trap-zone defense and we just put the ball up over our heads and lobbed it right into their hands."

Richmond never led after Jeff Trammell put William and Mary ahead 58-56 with 9:24 left. The Spiders tied it three times, the last one at 64. But Mike Anastasio missed a free throw with 18 seconds left, and Tom Pfingst hit a jump shot at the buzzer to win it for W&M.

Pfingst finished with 16 points and Trammell with 11. Richmond's Aron Stewart, the league's leading scorer, had 27 points and 16 rebounds and Bob Jacobs added 16 points.

East Carolina put The Citadel out of commission with a 49-29 lead at the half, then almost came unglued with 26.9 per cent shooting in the second half. Despite that and a total of 21 Pirate turnovers, the Bulldogs never got closer than four points.

Earl Quash and Jerome Owens had 17 points each for East Carolina and Al Faber hauled down 19 rebounds. Steve Fishel had 20 points and Chuck Cordell 14 for The Citadel.

Down by 46-41 early in the second half, Davidson went on a 15-point binge to whip Dayton. John Falconi had 18 points and Larry Horowitz 17 points and 18 rebounds for the Wildcats.

Roy Simpson scored 29 points, Craig Lynch 25 and Fessor Leonard 24 for Furman, which broke a 32 tie by outscoring St. Peter's 15-4 over the last 5:26 of the first half. Appalachian got 12 points from Erwin Hill and 16 each from Stan Davis and David Milosovich in its loss to Western Carolina that closed out the first regular season under Coach Pres Maravich.

Richard Petty Explains Early Collision

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., the biggest winner on the

about mistakes because he doesn't make very many. That's why he anticipated the question Sunday even before it was asked after he had driven his 1973 Dodge to a half-lap victory over Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., in the Richmond 500 for his sixth consecutive victory at the Richmond Raceway.

Petty was talking about an early collision in the No. 1 and No. 2 turns in which he ripped the right front fender of his car.

"I just plumb ran over him," he said of his collision with a car driven by Neil Castles, known by most of the drivers as "Soap."

Petty added that "I was just real lucky that that caution flag came out when it did, or I could've been in a heap of trouble."

The caution flag, one of eight brought out for a total of 76 laps, was brought about by engine trouble on J. D. McDuffie's Dodge.

"I just didn't see Soap at all," said Petty. "I was just running (Bobby) Isaac there early in the race, and I wasn't watching the slower cars. I just run up all over him."

It made no difference in the end to Petty, who dueled with Baker—also driving a 1973 Dodge—for most of the last half of the race, in which there were 22 lead changes with seven drivers in front at one time or another.

Petty went ahead for good on the 437th lap and finished with an average speed of 74.500 miles per hour on the .542-mile track.

Three laps behind the two leaders was Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., in a 1973 Chevrolet. Isaac drove his 1972 Ford to fourth place, and Dave Marcis of Skyland, N.C., finished fifth in a 1971 Dodge.

Pole-winner Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., and his brother Donnie, both driving Chevilles, were in contention the early part of the race, but Bobby wound up 15th, 49 laps off the pace, and Donnie went out after 162 laps with engine failure.

The fact it was his 150th career victory seemed to have special significance for Petty—"I don't know if it means all that much, but it sure does to me."

He was especially pleased it came before he entered his 600th race—this one was No. 599.

"That means I'm winning 25 per cent," said Petty. "That really means something when you think about it, one out of every four."

Winless Since 1970, McCune Hits Jackpot

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Don McCune of Munster, Ind., winless on the professional bowling tour since 1970, found himself $10,000 richer at the conclusion of the Winston-Salem Bowling Classic Saturday.

McCune defeated Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., 222-204 to take the championship of the $90,000 classic. The 36-year-old McCune had averaged 231 for 42 games to lead the way into the windup of the four day affair at Major League Lanes.

The win was McCune's first in Professional Bowlers Association competition since he captured the Houston, Tex., tournament in 1970, and was the third of his career.

Anthony received $6,000 for his second-place finish. Third place bowler Don Johnson of Akron, Ohio, took home $4,000, while finalists Mike McGrath of El Cerrito, Calif., and Don Helling of St. Louis won $3,500 and $3,000 respectively.

The Nets handed the Pacers their worst defeat of the season behind a 25-point, 21-rebound performance by Billy Paultz.

The New York thoroughbred racing season will open March 1 at Aqueduct.

Cougars Picked Up Another One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Carolina Cougars have already made the American Basketball Association playoffs. They are trying to gain the home-court advantage in them by having the most victories. The Memphis Tams are trying desperately to make the playoffs.

who also blocked six Pacer shots.

The game marked the return to action of Bill Melchioni, who has been sidelined with an ankle injury. "He makes the difference. He knows how to move the club," said Coach Lou Carnesecca.

Sunday night, the Cougars got another victory and the Tams fell further away from the fourth playoff spot in the East Division.

Three pressure free throws by Dave Robisch and Claude Terry in the waning seconds gave the Rockets their victory over Kentucky.

Robisch sank his free throw to pull Denver to within one point at 86-85. Terry then took a pass from Al Smith and headed for a wide-open layup before Artis Gilmore fouled him from behind. The rookie missed the first try, but calmly sank the next two to give the Rockets the victory.

The Cougars were paced by Steve Jones who scored 25 points as they squeaked out a 128-127 victory over Memphis. The victory came despite a furious fourth-quarter rally when the Tams, down by 12 points, closed to within one point. Unfortunately, there was only one second left on the clock when they got that close. Johnny Neumann paced the Tams with 27 points.

Stew Johnson hit 28 points, 17 in the second half, to lead San Diego past the Chaps and move the Conquistadors within 1 1/2 games of Dallas in the battle for the remaining playoff berth in the West.

The triumph gave the Cougars a 4 1/2-game lead over the second-place Kentucky Colonels in the East Division while the loss dropped the Tams 3 1/2 games behind the Nets.

In other ABA action Sunday, New York bombed the Indiana Pacers 128-127, the Denver Rockets edged Kentucky 87-86 and the San Diego Conquistadors conquered Dallas 102-94.

In the National Basketball Association Sunday, Boston defeated Cleveland 105-92, Phoenix edged Kansas City-Omaha 111-109, Philadelphia squeaked past Portland 115-111, Detroit beat Houston 129-112 and Chicago edged Seattle 88-85.

Brown, 29, made his National Hockey League debut last season with the farms and back up twice since then.

Giants sign catcher Rader

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants have signed starting catcher Dave Rader for the coming baseball season and picked up veteran pitcher Les Cain on a provisional basis.

Rader batted .259 last season as a rookie. Cain, 25, is Detroit Tigers' property. He will train with the Giants in Arizona and they will be able to buy him if he impresses Manager Charlie Fox.

The 'Worry Clinic' Dentistry Sees New Miracles

Daniel used me as a dental "guinea pig" 7 years ago. But he warned me of the danger to my public speaking! Despite his joking, dental surgeons now perform miracles in transplanting teeth and maintaining "tooth banks."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE W-537: One of my sons is a dental surgeon.

Since one of my teeth required removal, he asked me if I'd like to be a dental "guinea pig." "What do you mean?" I inquired.

"Well, we now are able to transplant teeth with a fair degree of success, especially if they are your own."

"But we can also implant the extracted tooth of one patient into the mouth of another."

"Since I have a number of teeth that I have preserved from former patients, how'd you like to have me implant one of them in your empty socket?"

That sounded intriguing, so I consented.

And he inserted a tooth that he had extracted several weeks earlier from a teen-age coed.

"Sometimes the strange tooth is rejected after a few months," he warned, "but we'll wait and see what happens."

"Occasionally, it gains a fresh blood supply and becomes permanent."

"How come you implanted a young woman's tooth into my jaw?" I inquired.

He grinned and facetiously replied: "Maybe it will rejuvenate you. But you must be more careful hereafter when you are out on the lecture platform.

"For you may find you lack proper terminal facilities, since women are noted for not being able to stop talking!"

Despite his joking, the tooth served me well for almost 18 months, after which it became so loose I had to have it removed.

But nowadays the modern D.D.S. is rivaling the medical surgeon in transplants.

The latter have gained front page acclaim for heart and kidney exchanges.

But dental surgeons not only replant your own teeth which have been knocked out in athletic contests or auto accidents.

But they also are now taking the unusable teeth from your mouth and putting them back at more strategic spots.

For example, suppose you have an impacted wisdom tooth, which needs to be pulled.

And somewhere else in your jaws a molar is missing.

The dental surgeon can then extract that impacted tooth and then insert it in the vacant space!

In July, 1972, 3 Swedish dental surgeons not only reported the 1971 removal of a woman's impacted molar.

But then they placed it in a test tube, where it was cultured and kept alive for 3 weeks, before being transplanted to a new socket in her jaw.

It was alive and functioning perfectly after a year in the new socket.

Dental surgeons now can maintain "tooth banks," like the "eye banks" in medicine.

Orthodontists often remove a tooth to improve a teen-ager's looks, and it can now be kept for later use by the same patient or for implantation in another patient!

And they now warn us that dental floss, if used after each meal, is even superior to toothbrushing, though both are excellent ways to insure your natural teeth until a ripe old age!

POW Favors 'Hard Line'

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, MD. (AP)—Maj. Norman McDaniel of Greensboro, N.C., who was a prisoner of war of the North Vietnamese until Feb. 12, says he "fully supports" President Nixon's hard line on amnesty for draft evaders.

President Nixon has said there will be no amnesty.

McDaniel, undergoing medical checks and debriefing at the Malcolm Grow Medical Center at Andrews Air Force Base, said Saturday he believes "that if an individual is a citizen of a country and he enjoys the privileges and the rights of a country, then he should be willing to share in the responsibilities."

He was critical of antiwar protesters in the United States, saying that he believes they prolonged his stay in North Vietnam, but made exception for fellow prisoners who made antiwar statements. "I must remind you that the circumstances were quite different between the civilians and the captive American prisoners of war," McDaniel told newsmen.

The 35-year-old electronics warfare officer, shot down by an enemy missile July 20, 1966, said he is pleased with the way Nixon conducted the war. "I was very happy to see the bombing resumed," he said. "I feel it was by far one of the major steps to be taken in order to secure the release of myself and my fellow prisoners. That's why we praise President Nixon so much, because we feel that he was instrumental in putting enough pressure on the enemy to gain our release."

Shot One In Holdup Try

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A Wilmington grocer shot one man to death and wounded another Sunday morning in what police described as an attempted robbery.

Grocer Jimmy A. Jones told police he was in the office of his store when the pair entered, brandishing revolvers. They demanded money from Jones' wife Linda who was behind the counter.

Jones said he stepped from the office with his own pistol. There was an exchange of gunfire, although neither Jones nor his wife were injured.

The dead man was identified as Jerry McGill, 25. The wounded man, James Newkirk, 24, was in critical condition at New Hanover County Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Jones said his store had been held up several times in past months.

Police said both McGill and Newkirk were Wilmington residents.

Responding To Emergency Care

LIMA (AP) — Peruvian President Juan Velasco has responded well to treatment following emergency surgery for a ruptured aneurysm on an abdominal aorta, hospital spokesmen said Sunday.

The 62-year-old president was operated on Friday for the aneurysm, a blood vessel enlargement which sometimes forms a tumor. He also underwent a minor operation Friday night for removal of a blood clot in his right leg, the hospital said. He was attended by heart and arterial specialists from Argentina, Peru, the United States and Cuba.

Government officials emphasized that Gen. Velasco's illness will not result in any change in Peru's military regime.

No Flamboyance In Ireland's Politics

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
DUBLIN (AP) — If Jack Lynch, a mild-mannered and retiring lawyer, loses Wednesday's general election, his job as prime minister of the Irish Republic will go to Liam Cosgrave, another mild-mannered and retiring lawyer.

right credentials for an Irish political leader.
His biggest personal interest, and that of his wife, is horses. They live at Naas in County Kildare, the heartland of the Irish bloodstock industry. They met on the rails at the races and are most often pictured at the hunt.

Cosgrave's big moment politically came in 1970 when he stood up in the Dail, Ireland's parliament, to accuse members of Lynch's cabinet of involvement in a gun-running plot. The guns were intended for Northern Ireland, where the outlawed Irish Republican Army is fighting to unite the province with the republic.

Lynch had to fire some of his most powerful aides, and his party still has not fully recovered from the dissension that resulted.

Twice last year, however, Cosgrave had his own party problems. A rebel faction looked likely to oppose Irish entry into the European Common Market, a cause which Cosgrave passionately supported. And he was close to splitting the party in December over Lynch's bill to toughen the law against the IRA. Many of the 50

Laborites in the Dail charged that the bill gave too much power to the police and the government.

Cosgrave had been demanding action against the IRA and felt he could not oppose the legislation. In the end he held the party together and got it to abstain from the vote.

Plan Workshop On Stroke Treatment

Physicians, nurses, physical therapists and occupational therapists who are involved with victims of strokes (cerebrovascular accidents) are invited to participate in a special workshop at East Carolina University March 16-18.

The workshop is sponsored by the North Carolina Regional Medical Program Continuing Education Project for Eastern North Carolina and the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

One of the most effective rehabilitation techniques for stroke patients, Brunstrom's neurophysiological approach to movement therapy of hemiplegia, will be explored at the ECU workshop.

Workshop instructors will include Stuart MacRoberts, assistant chief physical therapist at Asheville's Mission Memorial Hospital; Kristine MacRoberts, privately practicing physical therapist of Asheville; Barbara Bridges, chief physical therapist at Sampson County Memorial Hospital;

Dr. Evelyn McNeill, ECU associate professor of physical therapy; and Mary Susan Templeton, ECU assistant professor of physical therapy.

Further information is available from May Susan Templeton, workshop coordinator, at the Department of Physical Therapy, ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, Greenville.

Wednesday Deadline In Senate For Extensions

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is facing a Wednesday deadline for extending stopgap funding for foreign aid and the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday. A vote was scheduled today.

The House has voted a continuing resolution to extend both appropriations until June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the four-month extension for Labor-

HEW, but only two months for foreign aid.

President Nixon vetoed the annual Labor-HEW appropriation bill twice last year, saying it was too big.

The foreign aid appropriation for the current fiscal year was abandoned in Congress last year because of a House-Senate deadlock on a new authorization for military aid programs.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled a voting session today on a new military aid authorization.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright asked for only a one-month extension of foreign aid funding pending action on the new authorization bill.

In raising it two months, Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said the Appropriations Committee concluded that one month was not enough time to get both an authorization and an appropriation through both branches of Congress.

Foreign aid bills have been encumbered for years with end-the-war and other extraneous amendments and bogged down last year over an amendment to require that all executive agreements for U.S. military bases on foreign soil be submitted for Senate ratification as treaties.

The continuing resolution would extend appropriations for Labor-HEW at an annual rate of $29.9 billion, $1.8 billion more than Nixon's budget, and for foreign aid at a $3.6-billion annual rate, $1.5 billion less than budget requests.

Governor's Office ...

has these expenses charged to other departments of government.

This is, you might say, a hidden expense. I guess over the years the reason this has come about is that no governor wants to look like he's pyramiding expenses in his own office so he takes care of these legitimate expenses in a way that you can't see immediately by just a casual glance at expenditures of funds.

The governor's salary, I think, in itself is adequate but his expense allowances are woefully inadequate.

I think, too, that the First Lady ought to be given some travel allowance because she is expected to make quite a number of trips. She can or not, as she wishes, but nevertheless she's called upon quite a bit. And, of course, quite often she travels with the governor to the national governors' conference and other meetings. It's kind of expected that they be there to represent the state. All of this comes out of the governor's pocket.

I don't think you could expect any incumbent governor to say, "Yes, we need more." That's just not political practice. But someone needs to take the lead in this thing and I have hit rather strongly on several of these aspects, hoping to improve the lot of future governors and, so far as I am concerned, incumbent governors ought to be given some considerations.

The state law requires the governor to have an official portrait painted while in office, and the state law also puts a limit on how much can be spent. That limitation, which is $4,000, was put on when the law was written a number of years ago and it has never been changed.

The truth of the matter is that, if you have a portrait in keeping with what we expect, then it's going to cost more than that. They run as high as $20,000 now. Well, my portrait is going to run half that amount. I didn't get the most expensive one by any means but, yet, when it is unveiled I think it will be in keeping with what the state had in the past.

The governor has to get out and raise these funds privately to make up that difference. Yet, he is required by law to have it done.

I never have liked to raise money. I don't even like to go out and raise my share of the church budget. I just dislike that to begin with. I feel some degradation about it because it's just demeaning to me to have to call all the people to assist in things of this sort.

Like in providing food—it sounds like you're begging for food when you call in people in the egg business or the hog business and say you've got a big day coming up, can you send us so many hams. This does two things. Not only is it demeaning, but it puts the governor in an uncomfortable position because he's obligated to these people.

In my case, that I know of, they weren't the type of people who would say, "Okay, I'll send you so forth but I sure would like to get this road paved," or something like that. They didn't do that sort of thing but, nevertheless, you were in that position, and that's just not good. This state can afford to do that.

I know the average person goes to the executive mansion and he's somewhat overawed by the splendor of the place. It's true. It is a great atmosphere to be in, but these things that are not common knowledge ought to be corrected. The average person doesn't see it because he thinks, well, the governor is really fixed.

A $35,000 annual salary is nothing to sneeze at, but it's not really income, I'll tell you that. I had six dependents, so with state and federal taxes and all the other deductions you have, my take home pay was about $1,700 a month which is nothing to sneeze at either. But then, out of this, you had to pay for a lot of other things, travel expenses mainly, so it's not all it would appear to be.

I don't mean to just give the governor a blank sum. As a matter of fact, I think they ought to be able to charge actual costs—you don't get any more than it actually costs, you don't get any less—and to have somebody to review this. Maybe a legislative review, or something like that, somebody other than the governor's appointees in the Department of Administration.

I'm not poor-mouthing it at all. I'm just simply trying to point out it's not all it would appear to be.

Denies Any Impropriety

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New Mexico congressman says there wasn't anything improper in his purchase for $2,000 of information on Pentagon weapons projects.

Rep. Harold L. Runnels said that to the best of his knowledge the men he bought the information from did not work for the Pentagon.

And, he added, "they did not sell me nor did I buy classified information."

Runnels, a Democrat and a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said press accounts have made his purchase of the information appear to be a "cloak and dagger operation."

The Detroit News, in a story Sunday by Seth Kantor, quoted Runnels as saying "that he bought classified documents from three men last summer."

Runnels said he purchased information on procurement of tanks and Cheyenne helicopters, indicating he wanted the information as part of his own investigation into cost overruns on Pentagon weapons contracts.

The oldest capitol in the United States, the Palace of Governors built in Santa Fe, N.M., in 1610, is still in use.

Nixon Joins Appeal For Ratification Of ERA

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of 10 more states needed, President Nixon and the chairmen of the two major political parties have called for ratification of the equal rights amendment to elevate the status of women.

Nixon's appeal was made last week in an economic message to Congress. Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss and his Republican counterpart, George Bush, have been writing state legislators to urge approval.

Backers of the constitutional amendment had hoped it might win ratification before Aug. 26, the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage. But in the past month the amendment has run into opposition from some conservatives, and there are predictions it might take another year or more to push it through.

Twenty-eight of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment, which would bar the abridgement of civil rights on the basis of sex.

Opponents contend ratification of the amendment would play havoc with the nation's laws, destroy the family system and require that women register for the military draft.

Bush intervened unsuccessfully when the amendment was up for a vote in the North Dakota House of Representatives last Thursday. The House killed the proposal for the year. The GOP chairman also sent telegrams to Republican officials in Maine, whose legislature votes on the amendment Tuesday.

Anne Armstrong, former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and now a counselor to Nixon, has written letters and occasionally spoken since it cleared Congress nearly a year ago.

Strauss last week wrote Democratic governors and legislators in each of the 32 states that have not ratified the amendment, saying "it would be a dangerous move to step away from our commitment to the women of America at this point in our party's and our nation's history."

At Least 6 Lives Lost To Traffic

By The Associated Press
North Carolina traffic accidents claimed at least six lives during the weekend including one in a hit-and-run accident, according to the Highway Patrol.

The six weekend fatalities, plus the death of another from injuries suffered in an earlier accident, pushed the state's toll for the year to 222. During the same period of last year, 252 persons were killed on the state's roads.

Marion resident James F. Twitty, 17, a pedestrian, was killed by a hit-and-run driver on a rural paved road a mile south of Marion in McDowell County.

Roland R. Fowler, 46, of Mocksville, died in a head-on crash on a rural paved road a mile north of Winston-Salem. Troopers said a car traveling at high speed crossed the center line and collided with the vehicle in which Fowler was riding.

Twenty-five-year-old Mary Helen West of Wilmington was fatally injured when she walked into the path of a vehicle on a Wilmington street.

A two-vehicle crash on U.S. 158 in Dare County near Kill Devil Hill took the life of Cleon Cirtiss Pillett, 69, of Manteo.

Hubert M. Holloway, 42, of Winston-Salem was killed when he apparently lost control of his car on Interstate 40 10 miles east of Marion in McDowell County.

Wanda Funderburk, 22, died of injuries she received in a February 15 accident two miles north of Bostic in Rutherford County.

A New Hampshire resident, Robert Scannell, 34, was killed in a two vehicle crash on Interstate 95 five miles east of Gaf-ton in Northampton County.

New Signs For The Smokers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Smokers who try to light up in University of Wisconsin Madison classrooms soon will be admonished by signs warning that they are contributing to pollution.

UW Safety Director Earl V. Rupp said the signs are part of a new campaign to embarrass students into heeding fire department rules on smoking in classrooms. Rupp said the old "no smoking" signs have failed.

The new signs read: "Smoking is pollution. We'd like to breathe! Do you have to smoke?"
