

Food Prices Again Pace Wholesale Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices soared 1.9 per cent last month for the biggest rise since the early Korean War inflationary surge in 1951, the government said today.

The rise in February included another sharp increase of 3.9 per cent for farm products and processed foods, the third big monthly jump in a row that added up to an annual rate of 56 per cent.

Prices of a broad range of industrial raw materials rose 1.1 per cent, the largest monthly increase in 22 years, said the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The report appeared certain to raise new criticism of President Nixon's loosened Phase 3 economic controls, particularly from organized labor which has charged that wage hikes are virtually frozen at 5.5 per cent while food prices continue to soar.

The over-all rise in the bureau's wholesale price index was a little less—1.6 per cent—on a seasonally adjusted basis. Farm products and processed foods were up 3.2 per cent seasonally and industrial raw materials one per cent on that basis.

The report said the index rose at an annual rate of 11 per cent over the past six months, which included five months of the more stringent Phase 2 controls and one month of Phase 3.

"Prices in the last three months of the period advanced more rapidly than in the first three months, reflecting an unusual climb in prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds in December, January and February, together with a faster pace for industrial commodities toward the end of the period," it said.

The February increase pushed the wholesale price index up to 126.9, meaning that it cost wholesalers on the average $126.90 for goods worth $100 in the 1967 base period.

This was 8.2 per cent above a year ago.

In farm prices, livestock rose 11.5 per cent in February, 27.4 per cent above a year ago; poultry was up 7.1 per cent for the month and 30 per cent for the year; milk up 1.4 and 6.6. Fruits and vegetables declined 2.8 per cent in February but were still up 15.2 per cent over the year. Grains declined 5.5 per cent in February but were 37.8 per cent above a year ago. Eggs dropped 17.8 per cent last month but were 41.6 per cent above a year ago.

In processed foods, meats, poultry and fish averaged 5.4 per cent higher in February and were up 17.3 per cent over the year. Dairy products rose two-tenths of one per cent for the month and 5.5 per cent for the year. Fruits and vegetables were up five-tenths in February and 8.4 per cent for the year. Sugar and confectionary goods rose 2.4 per cent for the month and were 2.7 per cent above a year ago.

Prices increases for manufactured goods and industrial materials included a rise of sevenths of one per cent in February and 4.8 per cent over the year for textiles and clothing.

No Survivors Found In Plane Crash

SILK HOPE, N.C. (AP)—At least 16 U.S. Army personnel died this morning when a C-47 transport plane used by the Army's Golden Knights stunt parachute team crashed in a muddy cornfield two miles north of this central North Carolina farming community, authorities said.

There were no survivors.

Insignia on the victims' clothing, decals, pieces of paper and writing on the plane's torn fuselage indicated that those who perished were members of the Golden Knights from Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Ft. Bragg authorities confirmed that the plane was the aircraft used by the team, and Army spokesmen said the plane was en route from Ft. Bragg to Kansas on a recruiting mission.

A Chatham County sheriff's deputy said 16 bodies had been found. The bodies were covered with white sheets where they lay, scattered for several hundred yards around the wreckage of the plane.

The plane's white body was torn with gaping holes, its wings had been shorn off and its engines were scattered among cornstalks and trees in the wreckage area.

The crash occurred, according to residents of the area, shortly before 9 a.m. The plane came to rest only a few yards from a clump of trees but none of the trees were damaged, indicating that it crashed at a sharp angle.

One of the rescue workers said it looked to him as if the men inside had tried to jump out as the plane crashed, but they had used no parachutes.

L.M. Petty Jr., a resident of the area, said he heard the plane's motor "come on and go off" and then heard what sounded like an explosion.

Mrs. Alfred Newlin of Silk Hope told The Associated Press she saw the plane as it flew over her house before it crashed.

"It came over our house from the south, and it sounded like a plane going down. I went out and looked up in the air. There was a lot of fog, and visibility was very poor. I saw it whirling with its nose down. A few seconds later I heard it crash," she said.

Annual Session Resolutions In Senate, House

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Resolutions calling for annual sessions of the North Carolina General Assembly were introduced in both the House and Senate Wednesday. In the past the General Assembly has met every other year.

The resolutions, which direct legislative appropriations committees to draw up an annual budget instead of a biennial budget this year and next year, are assured of passage since they have the support of legislative leaders and the endorsement of the House and Senate Democratic caucuses.

Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, the House Speaker pro tem, who introduced the annual session measure in the House said it was presented in a resolution instead of a bill which could be enacted into law because "we did not want to nail down annual sessions now."

He said the resolution will serve a dual purpose in that "we can try annual sessions" first and "we can write an annual sessions bill much better if we have had the experience."

In other legislative developments Wednesday:

—The House debated again and then voted 83 to 30 to pass and send to the Senate a bill that would boost the state income tax exemption allowed retired military personnel on their retirement pay from $1,250 to $3,000.

—Both House and Senate received bills aimed at lowering the taxes paid on farm land as contrasted with land held for urban development. —Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, introduced a bill that would provide summer kindergarten sessions to all North Carolina's five-year-old children.

Before passing the bill to boost the income tax exemption of retired military personnel, the House voted 53 to 50 to defeat an amendment by Rep. Sandy Harris, D-Alamance that would have given a $3,000 exemption to all retired persons.

"I feel that all our citizens ought to be treated alike," Harris told the House.

Rep. Lane Brown, D-Stanly, was joined by 44 other House members and Sen. Vernon White, D-Pitt, was joined by 23 senators in sponsoring the land taxation measure.

Brown said the measure has the backing of the North Carolina State Grange and the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation as well as many of North Carolina's county boards of commissioner.

RESTRAINED

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Charlotte City Council has been permanently restrained from further violations of North Carolina's open meeting law, in a ruling handed down by Superior Court Judge Frank W. Snapp.

Transportation Safety Office Formed By Lentz

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz announced today the formation of the Office of Transportation Safety within his department and said it will be headed by Boyd Miller.

Lentz said the new office will replace the position of assistant secretary for transportation safety. Miller, a Salisbury native recently hired as an engineering consultant, will be administrator.

"The importance of transportation safety is increasing daily," Lentz said. "Our expanding safety programs require an operational agency that will coordinate all state government safety programs. This can only be accomplished at the divisional level."

Under the new office are the Governor's Highway Safety Program, headed by Elbert L. Peters; the Internal Safety and Emergency Planning Division, under Gerald Fleming; and a Division of Aeronautics, directed by Robert N. Flournoy.

Lentz outlined six goals for the newly-created office: reduce traffic fatalities; remove the drinking driver from the roads; educate people on highway safety; pinpoint and correct hazardous driving situations; establish the Department of Transportation program in compliance with the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act; give guidance and continuing development of a state program in aeronautics to require airports to meet minimum safety standards, encourage improved airport facilities and assist in development of a statewide airport plan.

EST, after which any of the Indian invaders will be subject to immediate arrest.

Departure of seven men and women held captive for a time last week would leave only one former hostage, a Roman Catholic priest, still in the besieged community. Two elderly men and a 12-year-old girl left previously.

Father Paul Manhart, whose tiny church has been used by the Indians as a headquarters, said he intended to remain. "This is my reservation and I'll stay here to administer to my people," he said.

Carter Camp, a spokesman for the American Indian Movement said today that reinforcements were on the way to the village, but did not elaborate. Another AIM protester said, however, that 32 more militant's slipped through the federal lines this morning.

There was no confirmation from authorities.

Officials said the night passed peacefully, although occasional gunshots could be heard. The shots appeared to have been from small rifles or shotguns.

Federal authorities also declared that negotiations could not continue with militant Indians who took over the village on Feb. 27. They urged all women and children to leave.

Leaders of the American Indian Movement said the federal position was a threat that the estimated 300 marshals and FBI agents maintaining a perimeter around the village would mount an attack. The militants said they were "prepared to die" in Wounded Knee, site of the last major battle of the Indian wars.

Four women and 38 children who are among the 200 permanent residents of the Sioux village left the encampment Wednesday. Two elderly men who were among the 11 persons held hostage nearly two days last week also left the village.

Many of the children, bundled in a van and several cars, appeared to be suffering from respiratory problems. Federal officers carrying high-powered rifles and automatic weapons surveyed the vehicles carefully before allowing the caravan to depart.

Ralph Erickson, special assistant to the U.S. attorney general, said Wednesday the leaders of the more than 200 Indians involved in the takeover are "bent on one of two courses—total capitulation by the U.S. government to their illegal demands or violence."

He said the demands of the AIM leaders "amounts to nothing more than intolerable blackmail."

Federal authorities are caught in the middle of an intractable political battle among the Oglala Sioux, most of whose 13,000 members live on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

The AIM leaders are demanding that tribal president Richard Wilson be dismissed and that new elections be held.

They also want the release of three Indians arrested Tuesday at a federal roadblock after marshals said they found gasoline fire bombs in the Indians' car.

Two Powerful Bombs Explode In London; Scores Of Injured

LONDON (AP) — Two powerful bombs, apparently planted in cars, went off outside the Old Bailey courthouse and government offices in Whitehall today.

At Old Bailey, a police spokesman said: "There are in excess of 150 casualties."

Bombs were found and defused at Scotland Yard and near the headquarters of the Conservative and Labor parties near Westminster.

At Old Bailey, children wrapped in blankets were seen being carried into ambulances. Police said they did not believe there were any deaths.

Police sources said the bombings appeared to be the work of the nationalistic Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army in connection with a referendum today in Northern Ireland on uniting with the Irish republic or remaining part of Britain.

Standby Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first standby draft lottery for men not expected to be drafted began today. Acting Selective Service Director Byron V. Pepitone announced that those drawing number 95 and lower will be classified.

He said they will not be processed, but will be available for immediate induction if there is an emergency next year requiring Congress to renew the president's draft authority. It expires July 1.

Those with numbers above 95, Pepitone said, will be kept in the "H" holding classification that they were put in after they registered last year. Most will have no more contact with their draft boards.

Today's drawing involved the two million men who turned 19 this year and who would be subject to the draft next year if there should be one.

If they are not needed during 1974, Pepitone said in prepared remarks, their place will be taken by men one year younger who also will be primarily vulnerable for the calendar year of their 20th birthday, or in 1975. Although men can be inducted after the year of their 20th birthday, the possibility of this occurring are extremely remote.

Whitehall is more than mile up the Thames River from Old Bailey.

Newsman at Old Bailey reported utter confusion.

"It seemed all the windows and showers of debris crashed in," one said.

Cars were blown over on their sides.

The Whitehall blast appeared to have come directly outside an army recruiting office. Britain has more than 17,000 troops in Northern Ireland.

St. Bartholomew's, a major London hospital, reported it had taken in 30 casualties.

London's hospitals were working under the strain of a strike by the people who do laundry, cook meals, clean up.

One Old Bailey witness said: "It's like the blitz all over again."

The London Times said it received a telephone call at about 2 p.m.—roughly an hour before the blasts at the Old Bailey and Whitehall—from a man with an Irish accent who warned of car bomb explosions to come.

A 150-pound bomb was found in a car outside Scotland Yard earlier in the day.

Shortly after the twin blasts, police reported a fourth bomb had been discovered—in Dean Stanley Street, Westminster.

APPOINTED

RALEIGH (AP) — State Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz said today he has appointed Ballard Everett as his administrative assistant.

near the headquarters of the Conservative party and the opposition Labor party.

Police said it was defused.

A telephone warning that there was another bomb, in the office of The Times, caused a complete evacuation and a search.

A number of government offices were cleared of staff, including the Foreign Office. Evacuees included Foreign Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

The worst blast appeared to be the one at the Old Bailey.

In the hallway of the old courthouse, women and men rushed about with blood gushing from their faces. Injuries appeared mainly to have been caused by flying glass.

Governor Regrets Tone Of Letter From Rouse

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser said today he regrets "the tone" of a letter sent by state Republican Chairman Frank Rouse urging party members to be patient on patronage jobs in state government.

Rouse said in the letter that there are more than enough jobs to go around.

Holshouser issued a memorandum to members of the General Assembly in which he said he "would naturally disagree with any implication of a position contrary to what I've stated."

The governor said he had stated on "a number of occasions that natural turnover of jobs in state government comes fast enough to take care of 'patronage' demands, and I still believe this to be the case."

Holshouser reiterated that he has said "I would put my own

'team' in the policy-making positions, and I've indicated that the Highway Commission needed a special effort, to remove political influence.

"But non-political (or career) employes have nothing to fear if they are doing a good job. That's plain and it's simple."

Holshouser said that "because a misunderstanding could easily develop, I feel" the letter deserves some comment from me to you.

"First, I think all of you who have served with me know that I fight hard, but I play fair and stand behind my commitments. 'Second, I knew' nothing about the contents of this letter until I heard a rumor about it Wednesday morning. I finally got a copy in the afternoon.

"To the extent this letter encourages the endorsement of qualified people for service in state government, I applaud it, as I'm sure you do. We will want good, solid people working for our state."

'Theme Weddings' Are Gaining In Popularity

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family News Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — When it came time for the recession at the wedding of Neal Love and his bride Carole one Valentine Day past, the organist swung out with—"There's No Business Like Show Business."

It happened in an old Episcopal church in Fairfield, Conn. The bride and bridegroom wore shoes and all the formal trappings. This was no wedding with mod overtones.

The Loves—and shouldn't they have been married on Valentine Day with a name like that?—had throughout their wedding music from hit musicals, including "The Sound of Music." Love himself, a composer who has a musical opening in London next fall, wrote one of the pieces.

The wedding cake wasn't usual either. It was white-iced fruitcake. And no bride and bridegroom statues atop it. Instead, there was a toy piano with a toy musician playing it. A coy, toy gal, with her knees crossed, sat on the piano and flirted with the musician.

The Loves had what is becoming increasingly popular—a theme wedding. "Our theme," Mrs. Love said in an interview, "was composing—which is what my husband does and wants to do more than anything."

They live in Crownpoint, Md., now but are on the road a lot as is demanded by their company, Wedgewood Productions, designers and producers of conventions. In between, he composes.

Mrs. Love, a native of Hampton, Iowa, said she and her husband of Goshen, Conn., in the last year staged conventions in Hawaii, Bermuda, Dallas, New York, Las Vegas, Houston, San Francisco and many other places. She said they used some of that convention know-how to stage their theme wedding—and also to do it on what today is a shoe-string budget—$2,000, including reception for 150 persons, dresses and suit rentals, and plane fare to Connecticut for members of Mrs. Love's family.

Love Song

The song Love wrote for the wedding is called "The Moment of Love." It starts: "You hear a voice, you see a smile, you try to speak as though you're versatile, but you wind up acting juvenile, but it's real." (Copyright 1970 by C. R. Love III).

Between convention plannings he called from Washington, where his office is, and sang it to me. It sounded nice and romantic. At the same time, Love told me Robert Rounseville is going to play the lead in his musical, "A Magnificent Thing To Be," when it opens in London in November.

How to stretch the wedding dollar is what Mrs. Love talked about. The "theme" helped. So did friends. And relatives. The wedding hall for the reception came free. It was in a remodeled barn, the home of a Love relative in Fairfield. It was decorated with simple touches—woodsy boughs and inexpensive ribbons. Mrs. Love made her own gown; bride-maids made theirs, too.

A friend who is a photographer donated the pictures, cutting a lot off the wedding bill. There was a three-piece band. More friends. Low cost.

From their convention experience the Loves knew they could shave a lot off expenses by having a buffet party instead of a formally served sitdown feast at the reception. People helped themselves and that saved a bundle, according to Mrs. Love. "Besides," she said, "I think a better time was had by all who attended. They were participating more in the reception since they had no one to wait on them.

"It really turned into a fun party."

Their going away car was decorated with pine boughs, keeping with the tone of simplicity and naturalness that blended events of the day.

How did Mrs. Love feel about the way everything worked out? Spoken in response to that question were the words most any bride would use in answer: "To tell you the truth," she said, "it's all one big blur. The whole day."

Mrs. Sue May Recognized For Years Of Service

WILMINGTON — Pitt County Home Economics Extension Agent Sue May was recognized here Wednesday night for 20 years of service with the Agricultural Extension Service of N.C. State University.

Her recognition came during the 1973 annual conference of the Extension Service.

Mrs. May began her extension career in Lenoir County. She first joined the Pitt staff in 1950. She worked until 1954, and then returned to extension work in 1958.

She is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Rose High School seniors, who received blue ribbons for art were: John Harvey, sculpture; John Leggett, water color; and Karen Buck, charcoal drawing.

Eleventh grade high school students receiving blue ribbons were: Laura Lang, mixed media; Vallie Stephenson, oil painting and mixed stitchery.

Jerry Williams, a 10th grade student, received a blue ribbon for an ink drawing.

Aycock Junior High School students who received blue ribbons for art work were as follows: ninth grade, Rosie Cox, charcoal drawing; Karen Smith, water color; and Robert McGlohon, print.

Vera Renee Mills, a seventh grade student, received first place for pan-tempera.

Other division winners included: public speaking, Jennifer Schall, a senior student at Rose High School, who spoke on "Juvenile Training Schools in North Carolina."

Mary Bryan Matney, Rose High senior, won first prize for piano playing and singing. Her piano selection was "To Spring," by Edward Grieg and the vocal selection was "O Del Mio Dolce Ardor."

Mrs. George Clapp was in charge of the Arts Festival.

Adoption Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Ray Mills, of Washington, announce the adoption of a son, Eric Moran, on Feb. 28, 1973.

Women students at Goucher College in Baltimore are learning how to plumb, plus other handy things. The course is called "Nuts and Bolts in Contemporary Society." Men are not allowed to take the course.

Kindergarten For "Brussels Sprouts"

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Now that England, Ireland and Denmark have joined the European Common Market, the common language of that international organization is definitely English. British mothers who have moved to this Common Market capital wondered if they would find English schools for their children. No problem: an English kindergarten here is named the Brussels Sprouts Nursery.

Watchdog Scared Fiances Away

FRANKFURT, West Germany (WNS) — Christine Hauser, 24, lost seven different fiances because her watchdog Bridgitte scared them off. "Bridgitte bit them whenever they came near me," explained the German dress designer. "I imagined that I would never marry because of my dog." But then veterinarian Rudi Rehm came into her life and knew enough to kiss the dog before he kissed Christiane. "It was love at first sight all around," reported the future Mrs. Rehm. "Bridgitte is even coming on our honeymoon."

payment varied from place to place. By today's standards, the purchase price for a wife was not terribly flattering.

One popular form of payment was a cow.

Marriage at one time exempted men from military service. Among the ancient Hebrews when a man took a bride he was spared going to war for one year. The reason?

"He should be free at least one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

It was either that or the rulers of the time figured a man could handle only one battle at a time—marriage or war.

Some Wedding Customs Started Out Of Necessity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some wedding rituals handed down through the centuries started out of necessity—and self-preservation. They're a matter of historical record and have nothing to do with hysteria.

Consider the matter of "standing up" for the bridegroom. This now traditional practice had its beginnings at a time when primitive man used to select his wife by capturing her in a raid on an enemy tribe.

Following the lover's return—wife-to-be dragged behind him—his friends would "stand up" around him. The aim: to ward off attack from rescue parties, the girl's kinfolk or tribe.

These wedding facts from Encyclopaedia Americana also contain some words about wedding bands. The original one was a large band used to tie up the restive damsel after she had been captured.

To insure her continued presence, the girl's spouse placed a restraining band around her ankle, above her knee, round her neck or through her nose, depending on tribal custom.

The giving away of the bride in ancient times took place after the prospective bridegroom agreed to pay a particular price to his father-in-law-to-be.

This was during a time in history when acquisition of a bride was an undisguised commercial transaction.

Memory Loss Is Convenient Ailment

ATHENS, Greece (WNS) — Tourist Rita Smith, 27, woke up in her hotel bedroom here and did not recognize her husband Anthony. He called for a doctor, who reported that Mrs. Smith had picked up a virus that led to memory loss and inflammation of the brain. After a week of hospital test, he permitted Mrs. Smith to return home to England. "My memory is returning slowly, but I've even forgotten how to cook," said the British mother of two young children. "I can't do much cleaning around the house because I keep forgetting where I've put things."

Basketball Star
AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS) — Coed Betsy Akkerman, 20, imagined that romance was blooming when basketball star Joop Metz, 24, came to dine at her apartment. "I was wrong, wrong, wrong," she cried later. "He was only interested in my wigs and stole four of them for himself."

Bachelor Finds It Pays To Advertise

BEAMINSTER, England (WNS) — At 67, bachelor Leonard Batstone retired as a TV engineer and decided to marry. He put notices (complete with his color picture) in shops all over Dorset and hoped for one reply. Poor man, he received more than 400. "It's a terrible position to be in, quite embarrassing," he said. "I shall make hundred of lonely women — rich, poor, young and old — very unhappy unless I can find 399 men to help me out of this predicament."

Moustaches Dyed To Match Your Tie

COLOGNE, West Germany (WNS) — Lady barber Ursula Boehm, 28, has increased business 20 per cent with dye jobs for male moustaches and beards so that they will match the wearer's necktie. "The color can be changed daily in a matter of moments," she reported. "My sister has designed a line of ties that goes perfectly with each dye. You would be amazed at the number of lonely bachelors who are now dating steadily after adopting this fad."

Secretary Should Follow Orders Or Resign Job

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a private secretary to a gentleman who owns a successful business. I like my job and have been with him for some time.

Recently a young woman has been calling my boss at least six times a day. He seems eager to talk to her as he has instructed me to put her thru immediately no matter what. [His wife is told he will return her call when he is available.]

Sometimes this young woman telephones and leaves an involved message which I must relay to my boss promptly. ["Call me at 5 p. m. at home and if I am not there, don't call again, but leave a message on your answering service where you can be reached after 8 p. m."]

I have other things to do, Abby, without handling this "affair," and I also find it embarrassing as well as annoying to be in the middle of it. I am instructed to tell his wife that he is "tied up" in a conference when I know he is having a long lunch with this new girl friend. This rubs me the wrong way.

How do I get out of this bothersome and embarrassing bind? I like my job and have built up seniority and many benefits, and don't want to quit.

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: You are paid to handle your boss' telephone calls, messages and follow his instructions, so do just that without sitting in judgment on his personal affairs. If you can't fulfill your secretarial duties without feeling that you are a "party" to something which rubs you the wrong way, the only alternative is to quit. You certainly can't tell your boss to choose between you and HER!

DEAR ABBY: May I add my two cents to the hassle about doctors and nurses calling their elderly patients by their first names?

You will notice that a nurse's badge reads, "Miss Jones or Mrs. Smith"—never "Mary" or "Anne." And a doctor expects to be addressed as "DOCTOR"—never by his first name; therefore an adult patient should be given the same courtesy.

I solved that problem recently when I went to see a doctor I had not seen before. He came bouncing into the examination room all pep and vinegar, and after glancing at my card, he said, "And what is bothering FRANCES this morning?"

I replied, "Nothing very serious, JIMMY!"
After that, I was "MRS." to him and his staff.

GRANDMA [VAN BUREN]

DEAR GRANDMA: That's what I call giving a doctor a taste of his own medicine. Hooray for you!

Awards Presented To Local Sorority At Meet

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — On Friday, the 20th Mid-Atlantic Regional Conference for Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. convened at The Williamsburg Conference Center here.

Of the more than 350 members present, in attendance for the three-day conference were seven area Sorors.

Representing the Greenville area Chapter, Iota Kappa Omega, were Sorors Ella Harris, Addie Gore, Helen Johnson and Gracie L. Mebane. Sorors Annie Morris, Cynthia Newby, and Djuana Ballentine represented the undergraduate members at East Carolina University.

Since its inception in 1908, the central theme of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority has been "Service to All Mankind." This year's regional theme, "Greater Involvement: Alpha Kappa Alpha's Responsibility," continues the idea of "Personal Involvement Now" through the development and implementation of area service projects.

During the second day of the conference, Soror Mebane, chairwoman of Iota Kappa Omega's Exhibit Committee, accepted the certificate of merit for graphic depiction of community service projects in 1972. Soror Addie Gore and Basileus Helen Johnson accepted the engraved silver tray Alumni Achievement Award for the local chapter.

Following the awards presentation and ball, the local Sorors and invited guests held a social hour at the Williamsburg Motor House.

On Monday evening, at the home of Basileus Helen Johnson, the seven Sorors in attendance at the conference hosted a surprise party for all area Sorors to share the news of their Chapters achievement during 1972.

Popcorn Makes Confection

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There are all kinds of recipes for using popcorn in a crunch sweet, but the one that follows is spanking new and devastatingly good. We say devastating because once you start eating it you can't stop. Never mind, let your family and friends go on a binge!

HONEY CRACKLE

3 quarts freshly popped corn, see below

1 cup balanced slivered almonds

1/2 cup butter

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1/4 cup honey

1 teaspoon vanilla

Into a large shallow roasting pan, turn the popped corn. Sprinkle the almonds over the corn.

In a 1-quart saucepan over low heat melt the butter; stir in brown sugar and honey. Over medium heat, stirring constantly, bring to a boil. Boil gently without stirring for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in the vanilla. Pour mixture over popped corn and almonds; stir until well mixed.

Bake in a preheated 250-degree oven, stirring every 15 minutes, for 1 hour. Cool completely. Break apart and store in a tightly covered container.

Makes about 3 quarts.

HOW TO POP CORN

To pop corn in an electric popper follow manufacturer's directions but for the Honey Crackle (recipe above) do not add salt or butter. To pop corn without an electric popper, measure 3 tablespoons salad (not olive) oil into a deep heavy 5-to 6-quart saucepot.

Should Heed Bowles' Warning

Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, who was defeated as the Democratic candidate for governor last November, last week sounded a warning that should be heeded by the Democratic Party.

"I'm afraid there is a very real danger of our losing control of the General Assembly," Bowles told his fellow Democrats. The comment came in Greensboro as Bowles prepared to leave on a trip through the western counties. The trip was billed as a "party-building" one. It is to be followed by an eastern swing.

Bowles saw real grass roots work ahead. That includes three or four meetings of county chairmen each year and he suggested that county chairmen should not participate in primary elections.

"North Carolina citizens have shown they want a moderate candidate," he contended. He called for work on registration and bringing in young people, women and blacks.

Bowles said he was not campaigning for himself. "It's too soon for me to even start thinking about it," he declared.

Skipper Bowles is correct to express concern for the Democratic Party in future elections. It was obvious that the public was disenchanted with the party in last year's election and Bowles as gubernatorial candidate took the brunt of it.

In the next two years the Democratic Party must find out what is concerning the people of North Carolina and how it can best serve the people. While the Democrats have lost the governorship the party still controls the Legislature and the Council of State. Democratic control is still prevalent on many boards and commissions.

The Democrats who are in office, both elective and appointive must be made to understand that they need to get closer to the people, understand their needs and wherever possible meet those needs.

Those who are more interested in building their own little spheres of power rather than putting public need first should be moved out of their positions. The Democratic Party cannot afford them, with the mood of the people being what it is today.

The Democrats have a lot of grass roots work to do. Skipper Bowles seems to be getting on with it.

Innovations In Penal System

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Time can heal or corrode, depending on whether it is turned to constructive activity or spent in enforced idleness.

Time is all a prisoner has plenty of. Unless it is used to prepare him for release with employment capability, said David L. Jones, "all you have ployment upon release, rather than simply make-work with little practical value, he explained.

Industry Talks Planned

While the concept is not yet defined, Jones said he expects to talk with business representatives to explore the possibilities.

He is not thinking about prison industry to compete with private enterprise.

"When a tax-supported agency like the prison system starts messing in private enterprise, you get tremendous flak and justifiably so," he said.

"We want to get private industry involved in the penal system, not put the penal system into private enterprise."

As the Republican administrator in a field of state government where the political factor has been strong, Jones has stirred some rumblings since he came on the scene.

Political Flak Falling

State Democratic Chairman James R. Sugg last week asserted that Jones had taken a threatening attitude in a talk to paroles and probation workers. "I do not believe the General Assembly is called upon to permit the kind of personnel practices that build up an atmosphere of terror in this or any other department of state government," Sugg said.

The General Assembly remains a Democratic majority, while Republicans took over the executive with Holshouser's election.

There is no intimidation of workers, but they can expect to measure up in performance, Jones insisted.

His plans do not envision changes in the structure so much as getting the best out of the present system, he said. "We'll never have all the money we need or think we need. The lack of money can become an excuse. We're not going to accept excuses for not doing the job," he said.

His regard for career personnel was demonstrated, Jones noted, by his selection of Ralph Edwards, a 25-year veteran, as undersecretary.

So far as penal philosophy is concerned, Jones said his thinking parallels that of Corrections Commissioner V.L. Bounds, the architect of the rehabilitative emphasis given in recent years to the Tar Heel system. Recommendations from Bounds naturally will carry weight in setting policy, Jones added.

Crime within the system and protection of prisoners are constant concerns, the Secretary observed. He said studies will be made to give guidance for policies to limit and control the problems of violence.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for publication must be limited to 300 words, and signed.

To the editor:

I have heard much conversation and I have read several letters to the editor directed toward chastising WNCT for its decision not to show "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" It seems that literally everyone feels WNCT has unjustly assumed the role of censor and child protector from the evils of this film.

Personally, I do not care for this type of entertainment and would have been one of those who would have switched to another channel had it been shown. However, I would strongly defend the rights of those who choose to compound their frustrations of everyday living by viewing this if they so desire. It's their TV set...it's their own private residence.

But wait a minute...have we the right to assume the role of program director for the television station? Is it our prerogative to decide what should and should not be shown...or should this discretion be left to the television station itself? It would seem to me that we are forgetting the fact that TV viewing pleasures are "for free". Sure, we purchase the products from the manufacturers who pay the money to air the programs, but I cannot see that this gives us the "right" to tell the TV station it can or cannot show any given program. We are sometimes so busy protecting our own rights that we fail to take into consideration the rights of others.

What I am really trying to say is simply that the TV station and its program director certainly has the privilege to show or not to show any given program it so desires. If it happens to be something I particularly want to see, I would be unhappy. Even so, I would realize this is a "free" service to me and I have no justification for demanding that they do or do not present any program.

M. W. ALDRIDGE, DDS
Greenville

To the editor:

I am indeed concerned about the deceitful techniques utilized by local so-called "leaders" in maintaining the present status quo in the immediate society. More specifically, the recent change in the "Together Show" on Channel 9, WNCT-TV, apparently reflects a very serious problem whereby black leaders have taken the liberty of using others' names to justify the change that they personally desire to affect. Such underhanded, cheap and unprofessional dealing amplifies the desperate need for the majority of decent citizens in this community to eliminate those individuals who are constantly manipulating to undermine truth and human decency in Greenville.

In essence, the "Together Show" has never meant anything to the black community because it fails to succumb to the real issues affecting the black people in Pitt County or any other area, for that matter. This fact has no direct bearing on the three individuals that have served as moderators. This problem can only be attributed to the vocal minority in this city, both black and white, who consistently work to foster and perpetuate the antiquated "class system" which has stagnated the growth of this city and thereby adversely affected every institution therein.

Mr. Ben Dudley represented a breakthrough in an area that blacks have obviously been denied opportunities and he showed promise as an upcoming tv personality. However, he apparently alienated the power structure, both black and white, when he provided shows, for primarily a black audience, that were entertaining, controversial, and thought provocative.

I am well aware of the lukewarm excuse that Mr. Dudley needed more time to devote to straight news, but I'm really wondering if people like Attorney Jerry Paul, an ACLU lawyer who appeared on his show, didn't really help to influence this change.

No, Greenville, you have crossed the bay as far as basic decency and human relations are concerned, but the ocean lies before you.

Edward Carter
Greenville

To the editor:

I don't know if it comforts you or not that WNCT-TV is protecting us from trash movies, but as a Christian mother and Sunday School teacher, I say "bravo" to whoever stopped the showing of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf." (sic)

I have a young daughter who likes to look at TV and I certainly wouldn't want her to see such a movie. Oh, I know that my TV set has an off button, but I know, too, if there are people who want to see such movies they can see them elsewhere without subjecting other people to them. Personally, I think such movies should be banned from the movie screen.

Another thing—if a person can't afford a theater ticket, how can they afford a television set?

'Sordid, Sorry Racket'

WASHINGTON — Now and then a letter comes across this desk, ringing with what someone has called "the bell-like ring of authority."

Such a letter came the other day from a woman who spent 40 years teaching in a small town in Kansas, and now lives in retirement in Missouri. She will not let me use her name — she understandably does not want her peace and quiet disturbed — but she has some things to say about the public schools that need to be said. Let me yield the floor:

"Nationwide in the last two decades," she writes, "any teacher with a conservative viewpoint and a regard for the basics of an education — spelling, grammar, a knowledge of our English heritage — has been considered an old fogey, a drag on the 'creativity' of children, and one who should be eased out of the classroom or thwarted in her efforts to achieve from pupils a degree of perfection in basic skills.

"Schools of education have insisted for years that learning must be a 'pleasurable' experience. Some learning, as you know, required application, repetition, and sheer hard work. Small wonder, with the current educational philosophy, that people are no longer perfectionists in their work and skills, and that young people find the adjustment to life situations which are not 'pleasurable' intolerable.

"The present generation of teachers is inculcated with the belief that the child should be exposed to only pleasurable experiences. Along with this is their philosophy that the child should make all decisions. Children lack the base of knowledge and experience for decision making, and here I would include in the word 'children' people well into the college age. It is way past time for conservative, responsible adults to set standards and make decisions."

My correspondent is disgusted with what she describes as "the new breed of school superintendents." These young administrators, turned out with doctoral degrees in education, are mostly skilled in empire building. Their first purpose is to dominate the local school board. She suggests what comes next:

"Then you persuade the board to hire you an assistant superintendent, a business manager, a curriculum coordinator, a media specialist (they all have fancy titles), a head librarian. These will require a number of subordinates and secretaries and probably an

Strength For Today

WE WONDER WHY

The age in which we live is a disconcerting one. Sometimes the leaders of nations play ping pong with the leaders of other nations. Chess has become a matter of international interest. What are we to say about a generation that goes all out for ping pong and chess?

Well, such a generation leaves us shaking our heads in wonder. Of course people might be doing worse than playing ping pong and chess. But certainly we must admit that the phenomenon is amazing. Ping pong and chess are better than war and international bickering. In fact, there is nothing the matter with either ping pong or chess, but we wonder indeed why people are giving themselves to such diversions.

We are part of a generation that does a great deal of traveling—and that is good. The congestion on our highways is appalling—and that, to say the least, is disconcerting. Crime is on the increase. Drug addiction has come in to tear the lives of old and young alike to shreds. We have our problems and plenty of them.

Certainly we could do worse than play ping pong and chess. There is nothing wrong about such activities, but in a world stirred up as our world is, such activities are amazing, to say the least. Some people can make out a good case for ping pong and chess. Most of us can only shake our heads and wonder why.

Bonds Are Once Again Popular

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Bonds are back. Partly in reaction to the excesses of the performance race, billions of dollars of these traditionally conservative securities are being snapped up by individuals and pension funds.

The turn, which gradually has been gaining momentum since 1969, is in marked contrast to the heady days of the 1950s and 1960s, when anyone who sat on bonds when he could ride with stocks was considered a laggard.

Ironically, the turn came at about the same time that message was being relayed to colleges and other nonprofit institutions by the Ford Foundation, which said they could protect themselves by becoming more aggressive, performance minded investors.

In effect, these institutions were told to get off their assets and to seek the bigger returns available in stocks. Backing this advice was a University of Chicago study showing equity investments averaged 9 per cent between 1926-1964.

Then came the 1969-70 market debacle in which many high flyers dived to earth, some so hard they haven't yet dug themselves out. The trend to bonds might already have begun, but the collapse of stocks added momentum.

From 1946 to 1965, according to figures supplied by Channing Management Corp., the investing public added almost no bonds to their savings. But purchases in 1969 exceeded sales by $5 million.

Martin E. Segal, president of Wertheim Asset Management Service and an authority on pensions, notes that bonds in pension portfolios fell from 45 per cent in 1955 to 27 per cent in 1970, while stock holdings jumped from 30 per cent to 59 per cent.

Not only has the trend been arrested, but Segal now maintains that bonds yield as much as stocks. "A good bond portfolio under the care of a competent bond manager could come close to or equal the 50-year average yield of the stock market," he states flatly.

Pension funds are for the long term, he explains. A sustainable yield is more important than a fluctuating yield, especially since annual costs are based on yield for the year. "If the return is volatile, your costs are volatile."

One aspect of the revaluation of bonds is the development of bond funds — mutual funds with bond rather than stock portfolios. Last year investors bought more than $1 billion worth of them, a figure likely to be topped in 1973.

As an example of the trend, Channing began a bond fund a little more than a year ago and it already is larger at $36 million than its 25-year-old common stock fund.

The impetus is provided by recent studies of bond versus

Talk Is Not Cheap

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Silence is golden, they say, and talk is cheap.

Well, if you put those two adages side by side, one may be right — but the other couldn't be wronger.

Silence, it is true, may often be more valuable than gold. But whoever said that talk is cheap must never have had to pay the price for shooting off his mouth.

It is the unnecessary remark that often costs us the most.

Here, for example, are a few typical offhand remarks which, once made, may cause the speaker to wish later that he had maintained his golden silence:

"I do!"

"If you think you have such a tough time, why don't you come to the office some day and do my work — and I'll stay home and take care of the kids?"

"Anything you can do I can do better."

"You stay here in the car, and I'll walk to the nearest gas station and get a can. It probably isn't very far, and the fresh air will do me good."

"Auntie, I'm the only nephew you have left. You're not the kind of weird, rich, old lady who dies and leaves everything to her cat, are you?"

"Why do you always serve roast beef hash for dinner the same day I already had it at the office for lunch?"

"I know you are one of the world's living authorities on Proust, professor. But I hope I can get through your course in French literature without reading anything by or about him. To me, Proust sounds like nothing but a homosexual pincushion."

"It sure has been a nice party. Can we give anyone a lift home?"

5 Returnees Voice Thanks

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Five men return from six years in Communist prison camps and each has the word "thanks" on his lips.

The five, all Air Force pilots who returned to Maxwell Air Force Base here Wednesday night, thanked God, President Nixon, their families and the families of those who will not return from Vietnam.

But most of all, they thanked the American people for their "concern, support and prayers on our behalf," in the words of Maj. Michael K. McCuiston of Montgomery.

McCuiston, the only prisoner of war from Montgomery, was the last to descend from the huge C-9 hospital jet. The first was Lt. Col. Dewey W. Waddell, 37, of Atlanta, Ga., the ranking officer in the group. He was followed by the others in the order in which they were shot down: Capt. Thomas M. McNish, 30, of Franklin, N.C., Maj. Kenneth W. Cordier, 35, and Capt. David F. Gray Jr., 31, both of Tampa, Fla., and McCuiston, 36.

Their periods of internment ranged from 78 months for McNish, to 68 months for Waddell.

As they stepped from the plane they were greeted with handshakes from base officers and with cheers from a noisy, flag-waving crowd estimated by base officials at more than 500. The crowd cheered again and again as each of the men stepped up to the microphone to make a brief statement. They all looked healthy and very happy and sported Hawaiian leis given to them in Honolulu en route back to the mainland.

But as each man spoke, his voice thickened with emotion, especially when speaking of those left behind in Vietnam.

Waddell spoke first, thanking the American people for making "a dream come true."

"However our joy will not be final," he said, "until the men we left behind return to share in this dream with us. We're back to where they ya'all and it's great to be here."

Waddell then got into a waiting car and was met by his mother. His wife, who divorced him last September, was at Maxwell but did not meet him at the flight line, officials said.

When McCuiston stepped to the microphone and said, "It's good to have you home," sparking another cheer from the crowd.

He too, spoke of the remaining prisoners in Vietnam and asked for "continued concern, support and prayer that they may return soon to their families and to the good old U.S.A."

Speaking from notes, Gray made the following statement:

"A loving God made me an American and to America I return. A living president preserved my honor and with honor I return. A loving wife waited with strong heart and to her I return. Thank you Heavenly Father, thank you President Nixon, thank you Linda, thank you America."

McNish said that for six-and-a-half years the prisoners "talked and dreamed in terms of some day."

"Our undying faith that some day would come kept us going," he said. "For me today is some day."

"But," he continued, "There are many families for whom some day will never come. To them all of us owe a deep debt of gratitude."

He brought a cheer from the crowd as he concluded on a lighter note, saying: "I'm a 30-year-old bachelor with a lot of living to catch up on."

Cordier, too, said thanks, particularly to those who greeted the prisoners on their trip home via Clark Air Base in the Philippines and Honolulu. He said his feelings were best expressed by a poster in the hospital at Clark. It was drawn, he said, by an eighth-grader named Cathy Jack and said: "Today is the beginning of the rest of your life."

"That's how I feel," he said.

office building. Now you have a real bureaucracy of your own going, and you can sit back in your private office and dream your dreams of a bigger town and a bigger job."

Meanwhile, she says, school administrators can amuse themselves with gadgets, gimmicks, and textbooks, often without consulting the teachers.

"Not one teacher in ten was sold on all the expensive gadgetry that they have been forced to use in the classroom in recent years. Its greatest appeal was to those who would rather stall around than teach. Millions of teacher hours have been spent learning to operate all manner of equipment which has little educational value. But superintendents love to buy, and offices are overrun with eager-beaver salesmen."

"The sale of textbooks is a big business, too. Changing textbooks is just like a broker 'churning' an account. Makes money for the broker if for no one else. In order to sell new textbooks, the approach, the system, or something has to be changed. Teachers have to adjust and adapt to any hare-brained scheme that publishers dream up to sell a new series of textbooks. While they struggle, the publishers, the salesmen and the superintendents sit back and count their dollars. If the true story of education is examined, it's a sordid, sorry, commercialized racket."

The answer, my correspondent goes on to say, lies in a tuition grant system that would permit private schools to compete with public schools. Such a system is far off. Meanwhile, my friend is living peacefully in retirement with her birds, a horse, and a fat white dog. She sent me pictures. She likes the dog better than she likes her former superintendent, but doubtless there's nothing novel in that.

"What good are judo tricks to a 120-pound girl like you? I'd like to see you try a few of them on a man my size."

Records Of FBI Probe In Watergate Caper Studied

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI documents indicate that President Nixon's appointments secretary and personal lawyer hired Donald H. Segretti, who has been identified in news stories as a political spy against the Democratic party.

The records were turned over to the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday by acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III. The committee is hearing testimony on Nixon's nomination of Gray to be permanent director. Gray returns to the witness stand today.

Gray's statement about Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's lawyer and fund-raiser, and Dwight Chapin, the presidential appointments secretary, said in part:

"Mr. Kalmbach said that in either August or September 1971 he was contacted by Mr. Dwight Chapin and was informed that Capt. Donald H. Segretti was about to get out of the military service and that he may be of service to the Republican party"

At Chapin's request, Gray said, Kalmbach "did contact Segretti and agreed that Segretti would be paid $16,000 per year plus expenses, and he paid Segretti somewhere between $30,000 and $40,000 between Sept. 1, 1971, and March 15, 1972." Segretti's pay came from campaign contributions, Kalmbach said.

Gray said Kalmbach, a lawyer with offices in Newport Beach, Calif., told FBI agents that "he merely acted as a disbursing agent for Segretti's salary and expenses, and he has no idea how Segretti received his instructions or whom he reported to He said he had no knowledge of what Segretti was doing to justify these expenses or to earn his salary."

The acting director told senators also that an FBI check of telephone records showed that, between August 1971 and June 1972, Segretti was in telephone contact with the White House, Chapin's home and the home and office of E. Howard Hunt Jr., then a White House consultant.

Hunt was one of seven persons who pleaded guilty or were convicted of federal charges of breaking into and wiretapping Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate in Washington.

The Washington Post and other newspapers have written that Segretti and several other agents conducted a spying and sabotage campaign against Democratic presidential candi-

Meanwhile, Sen. John V. Tunney said Wednesday he's concerned about White House influence over Gray and the FBI, especially in the agency's investigation of the Watergate bugging.

"I'm trying to ascertain the degree of independence you had from White House counselors," Tunney, a California Democrat, said Wednesday after spending much of the afternoon probing the relationship between Gray and White House counsel John W. Dean III in the Watergate affair.

"I made it very clear from the beginning," Gray replied. "I told them I don't care how high this (investigation) reaches.

"I have turned down requests from the White House," he continued. "And, when I can't do it, I'm going to leave. I came to this town with a good reputation and integrity, and I'm going to take it with me, so help me God."

New Kind Of Student Activism Has Taken Root

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

A new kind of student activism, involving hundreds of thousands of young people, has quietly taken root in many U.S. high school and college campuses.

Students say they're out to improve society and themselves, not by protesting or confrontation, but by volunteering their time and talents to social service agencies and community groups.

"Volunteering is the 'in' thing to do now at school," says Marla White, a Boston University sophomore who works with retarded children.

Examples of the surge of student volunteerism are:

—The number of students — elementary through college — involved in Red Cross volunteer activities has increased by 600,000 in the last two years.

—At Furman University in Greenville, S.C., more than half the 2,000 students participate in 55 volunteer projects. In one, students teach college janitors and maintenance men how to read and write.

—At Boston University, the number of students volunteering for community programs has more than doubled in the past two years. "We've been flooded by students," says Carol Moore, director of student volunteer services.

—At Franklin High School in Livonia, Mich., 300 students put in thousands of hours each week on several projects, including the presentation of anti-drug seminars to parents and the tutoring of elementary school pupils. When the program started five years ago, only 18 students were involved.

In the last 10 years, the number of college student volunteers has skyrocketed from 5,000 on about 30 campuses to about 400,000 at more than 80 per cent of the nation's colleges and universities, according to figures compiled by the federal National Student Volunteer Program (NSVP).

About 600 schools have organized volunteer programs. About 200 offer credit for volunteer work, NSVP officials say. They say the number is growing steadily.

No figures are available for high school pupils, but there seems to be a similar explosion of interest in volunteering, says

Jeanne Carney, NSVP director. She says more than 500 high schools have organized volunteer programs, with many giving credit.

Students say they're volunteering to help people as well as meet their own needs for relevance, personal involvement and career testing.

"Young people are turning inward in this country. They're developing a greater interest in other people. And they're more concerned about the quality of life in the United States," says Nicholas W. Crow, head of recruiting for ACTION, the government volunteer agency.

ACTION is in charge of the Peace Corps and VISTA programs. Crow says applications for both, declining in recent years, are now shooting up dramatically.

Peace Corps applications, he says, are running 37 per cent higher than last year, and VISTA applications are up 46 per cent. Most are from persons under 25.

Several students, school administrators and government officials said they thought a number of young people who were involved in social protests, particularly those against the Vietnam war, have turned to volunteering.

"The young people who lived through demonstrations wanted to do something concrete, something they could see and feel, as opposed to abstract protests," says Bob Cooney, an ACTION spokesman. "They wanted to feel they could make a difference."

Jeff Warren, an official of the private National Center for Voluntary Action in Washington, D.C., sees another stimulus for volunteering. "Some of the other movements of the '60s — civil rights, consumer, women's lib — showed students that individuals could indeed change things. They didn't need to feel helpless."

Students To Symposium

RALEIGH—North Carolina State University will host the annual Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, March 11-13, for 160 high school students and 40 science teachers from across the state.

Conducted as a continuing education program under the direction of Dr. Charles Lytle, professor of biological sciences at NCSU, the symposium is co-sponsored by NCSU, the U.S. Army Research Office in Durham, UNC-Chapel Hill, Duke University, and the North Carolina Academy of Science.

Pitt County students attending the Symposium, and their home addresses are as follows:

Billy Pritchard, 1012 E. Wright Rd., Greenville; Marc Walter, 112 Avon Lane, Greenville; Robert Brinkley, 1913 E. 9th, Greenville; Greg Alexander, 102 Alexander Circle, Greenville; Debbie Smith, Rt. 1, Ayden; Darlene Smith, Rt. 2, Ayden; Linus Bosley, Grifton; Stanley Little, Rt. 3, Ayden.

Pitt Democrats Given Quota Of 24 Tickets

Henry Oglesby, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, reminded area Democrats that the annual North Carolina Jackson-Jefferson Day Dinner will be held in Raleigh on March 24.

Oglesby said that this year Pitt County's quota is 24 tickets at $50 each or $1,200 as a block.

The chairman urged precinct chairmen and vice chairmen to call a meeting of the precinct committees and notify him or executive committee treasurer Charles McLawhorn of the number of tickets needed.

"We believe that the only way the North Carolina Democratic Party can make a real comeback is for Democrats at the precinct and grassroots level to really become concerned," Oglesby commented.

According to "The Liberated Woman's Appointment Calendar for 1973" (A Universe Calendar), Mary Venker, 9, made her mark on Aug. 13, 1971. She got a hole-in-one at a country club. She became the youngest girl to do so.

Pay-Setting Role Studied

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office, watchdog agency for Congress, is investigating the government's pay-setting machinery to determine if it is biased in favor of federal employees.

Specifically, the GAO wants to know if federal workers are getting paid more on the average than employees holding comparable jobs in private industry.

Although it may take two years to finish the study, the GAO hopes to have ready its first set of recommendations this spring. A spokesman said those recommendations could lead to either executive or congressional action.

The GAO investigation was triggered by allegations that the pay-setting system gives federal white-collar workers a break and leads to overcompensation in comparison to private jobs.

It is hard to prove the case either way. Federal statistics show that government employees in some parts of the country earn more on the average than do workers in comparable jobs. But in other areas they earn less.

The pay-setting process covers 1.3 million federal white-collar workers directly, but federal and military jobs are linked to the federal salary scale so that actually more than four million are affected.

Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said differences in pay rates for federal and private employees "can have far-reaching effects on working relationships and the costs for salaries and wages throughout the entire economy."

The pay-setting process is called comparability. The aim is to make sure that federal workers almost automatically get salary adjustments each year so that they receive roughly the same pay for the same kind of work as their private-industry counterparts.

The system is a complex one based on government efforts to match federal and private job classifications—no easy task—and then compare pay rates.

Annually, on the basis of the salary surveys, the Office of Management and Budget decides whether federal workers should be getting more money, and sends its recommendation to the White House.

The president can then increase federal salaries by executive order, in line with the survey results, or recommend to Congress that something else be done.

The last federal pay raise, 5.1 per cent, took effect Jan. 1.

The GAO also is looking into executive-level pay in the government, those jobs that generally pay $30,000 and up. There is a $36,000 ceiling on those salaries, primarily because administration appointees in policymaking positions start at that rate.

But the ceiling probably will be lifted next year, and the pay of federal executives covered by the civil-service system will drift upward, too.

Some sample federal salaries:

—The GS-3 level, covering clerks, draftsmen, stenographers and the like, pays an average of $6,740 a year. In private industry, the surveys indicate, the average is $6,501.

—At GS-7, the average federal pay is $10,471. Among the jobs in that grade are auditors, accountants, and engineering technicians.

—Federal employees at the GS-9 level, among them some junior attorneys, chemists and engineers, make an average of $12,775.

—Government public-relations officers average between $15,394 and $29,589.

—The federal management level begins at the GS-14 rating, and an official at this level earns $25,398 on the average.

"On the average, I think we're roughly comparable to private industry," a civil-service official said.

Staats said much of the criticism about federal pay emanates from the fact the scale applies to all parts of the country, with varying cost-of-living figures.

California's Coachella Valley produces almost the entire date crop in the United States.

Night Club's Fire Called Mass Murder

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Police say they have found no evidence to support reports that protection racketeers set a night club fire that killed 15 persons early today.

Authorities said the fire at the club named Whisky-A-Go-Go the worse mass murder in Australian history. They reported finding two four-gallon cans that had contained flammable liquids which were splashed in the lobby of the building and then set afire.

Police Commissioner Raymond Whitrod said he could give no reason for the arson. But he said he had no evidence to link it with extortionists alleged to be operating a protection racket among Brisbane night clubs.

The manager of the Whisky-A-Go-Go said he had received no threats.

About 100 persons were in the second-floor club when the fire flared up at the foot of the stairs. Many persons escaped through a side exit or jumped through windows onto the roof of an adjoining building. Two survivors broke through windows that had been ordered sealed by city officials to reduce the noise.

"All of the dead were found in an area between the stage and rear fire door," fire officer Edward Kropp said. "Some lay among musical instruments. One young fellow was just inside the fire door. He had tried to get out, but apparently the latch had dropped and locked it."

N.C. Moose Gather Here Friday In Mid-Year Meet

Registration begins Friday morning for N.C. Moose Association members gathering here for a weekend of work and social activities.

William G. Stanley, Chief Deputy Supreme Secretary, will represent the Supreme Lodge at the conference. Marie Holden, Director of Chapter Activities, will serve as the official visitor to the Women of the Moose conference.

Ritual competition for representatives of the many lodges seeking honors in that field will be held at the Greenville Elks Lodge, beginning at 1:00 p.m. Friday and extend into Saturday.

A social hour and dinner for officers and wives will be followed by a business meeting at 7:00 p.m. The schedule of events lists an enrollment of new members into the fraternity at 8:15 p.m., to be followed by a dance.

Saturday's program opens with a breakfast for conference-goers, a series of panel discussions starting at 9:30 a.m., and the formal opening of the conference will be at 2:30 p.m. with State President Douglas Coward, of Fayetteville, presiding. The day's social activities resume at 6:00 p.m.

On Sunday, the conference resumes its business sessions at 10:30 a.m. with adjournment at 12:30.

The Women of the Moose will hold a ritual session beginning at 10:00 a.m. Saturday and hold their final meeting Sunday, beginning at 10:00 a.m.

The Greenville Moose Lodge is hosting the mid-year meeting which is expected to bring several hundred visitors to Greenville.

William Stanley, representing the Supreme Lodge at the conference, is a native of Goldsboro. When his father died in 1923, the family became residents of Mooseheart where he graduated in 1938.

He joined the Goldsboro Moose in 1939 and is a past governor of the Lodge. He served for two years as lodge secretary before accepting the position of Supreme Lodge auditor, from which post he was subsequently promoted to Deputy Supreme Secretary and to Chief Deputy. Mrs. Marie E. Holden, the official visitor to the Women of the Moose meeting, is the director of chapter activities for the WOTM.

A native of Maryland, she served as senior regent of the Hagerstown Chapter and as Deputy Grand Regent of Maryland. In 1957 she was elevated to the Grand Council of the Women of the Moose, then served as Grand Regent.

Missionary Will Speak

The Rev. Frank Arnold, missionary in Brazil, will speak to the congregation and friends of the Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church on Saturday night at 6:30 p.m. Rev. Arnold is a missionary under the auspices of the Board of World Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

His current work consists of developing witnessing missions along the highways of Brazil that connect the federal capital of Brasilia with the various provinces.

He is an accomplished guitarist and a trained metallurgist and has used both talents in translating the message of Christ into a various field of activity. Currently Rev. Arnold and his wife and family are on furlough residing in Richmond, Virginia.

A family night supper will be served and everyone is invited. The Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church, pastored by the Rev. Russell R. Davis, is located on the Falkland Highway.

Cars Collided At Intersection

Samir Ali Awar of Kinston was charged with following too closely following investigation of an 8 a.m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Arlington Drive.

Investigators reported that Awar auto collided with a vehicle driven by Rosina Chia Lao of 201 Greenbriar Rd., causing an estimated $175 damage to the Lao vehicle and about $250 damage to the Awar car.

No injuries were reported.

States Sued By Williams

DETROIT (AP)—Robert F. Williams, black militant fighting return to North Carolina to be tried on a kidnaping charge, has filed a suit seeking $1 million damages from North Carolina and Michigan.

He claims in the papers filed in U.S. District Court in Detroit Wednesday that former Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina and Gov. William Milliken of Michigan conspired to deprive him of his constitutional rights.

Scott sought Williams' return to face a charge of kidnaping a white couple during racial violence in Monroe, N.C., 13 years ago. Milliken, after a hearing for Williams, refused to intervene against extradition, and Williams still is appealing to courts in Michigan.

Williams insists he did not kidnap anyone; that the man and wife were detained for their protection. He has charged in the damage suit that he was singled out for extradition because of his political activities.

Festival Week In 3 Cities

WINSTON-SALEM—The mayors of Winston-Salem, High Point and Greensboro issued simultaneous proclamations today naming the week of March 4-10 as Summer Festival Week.

Robert Ward, general artistic director of the North Carolina Summer Festival, announced at a press reception at his home, that season passes for the country's newest festival of the arts will go on sale Monday, March 5.

Opening on June 27 with the Broadway hit My Fair Lady the Festival will offer music theatre, dance, music and film events over a six-week period.

Other musicals, all of which will be in Reynolds Auditorium, are 1776, Man of La Mancha and the nostalgic operetta The Merry Widow.

Orchestra concerts, dance programs, chamber music and a series of modern, classic and foreign films are scheduled for the newly renovated and air conditioned Crawford Hall on the School of the Arts campus.

Lumberton Sees Motorized Indian Demonstration

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP) — A splinter band of Indians trying to reclaim the historic Tuscarora tribal name staged a motorized demonstration Wednesday night in support of their own search for identity and of Indians holding Wounded Knee, S. C. A caravan of about 75 cars moved noisily through Lumberton and the Robeson county towns of Pembroke and Fairmont in what was described as an "advertisement of concern." The 60-mile round trip took more than two hours. Men, women and children joined in war whoops from the car windows.

Police watched from parked cars as the caravan ignored traffic lights and one-way streets, but made no effort to interfere. A smaller demonstration in Lumberton Tuesday night ended with 29 store windows smashed by thrown objects. Seven persons were charged with malicious damage to property. Two spokesmen for the Indians, Howard Brookes of Pembroke, and Bill Seargent, regional director of the American Indians Movement, said Wednesday that they were unaware of the smashed windows until they were told by police. Seargent is a Minnesota Chippewa who has been at work in Robeson County of southeastern North Carolina for four months. Brookes, a leader in local Indian projects for several years, describes himself as chief of the Tuscarora Organization in this area. Seargent said in an interview that, "We don't want this thing to turn into violence, but these people are ready to meet violence with violence." An Indian woman standing nearby shouted "Keep your feathers up." Then she gave a war whoop. The Robeson County Indians are a loosely knit group whose original identity has never been established. They were designated "Lumbee Indians" in 1953 by the North Carolina General Assembly. Bennie Locklear of Pembroke, who said he was historian and president of the Tuscaroras, disclaimed any connection with the Lumbees. "They're not culturally and constitutionally constituted," he said Wednesday. He said incorporation papers have been prepared as a preliminary for formal application for the Tuscarora tribal name. "But we are teaching our people the U. S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence before we do that," Locklear said. The Tuscaroras, who lived near the Neuse and Tar rivers in eastern North Carolina, were conquered by the English in 1713, and the remnants became part of the Six Nation Iroquois Confederacy. Tuscaroras now live in New York state and Ontario, Canada.

Horror Stories' Told By Postmaster General

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen has his own horror stories about bad mail service. He swapped some Wednesday with members of the Senate Post Office Committee, and returns today for more. "Poor service is intolerable to us—to me personally," Klassen said at the start of an investigation of the performance of the 20-month-old Postal Service. Chairman Gale McGee, D-

Wyo., said his Christmas cards were delivered after New Year's Day. Worse still, Klassen said, he knew of a woman who received her opera tickets three days after the performance. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said some postal reports provide an index to measure utter failures. During the Vietnam war, he said, people were saying: "Let's turn the war over to the Postal Corporation; they may not end it, but they'll sure slow it down. 'Now the line is: 'Smash the Mafia—mail it Parcel Post.'" Klassen conceded that "for some stupid reason," it takes six or seven days to get a letter across New York City from the Bronx to Brooklyn. He said he had seen postal employees "pitch" a package marked FRAGILE across a room. Parcel damage is "unacceptable, inexcusable and intolerable," he said, and helps to explain why the privately-owned United Parcel Service has taken over 55 per cent of the nation's package delivery service. Klassen promised that the Postal Service can and will do better, but "we need more time" to replace facilities antiquated by years of neglect and install new mail-processing equipment. The postmaster general conceded that he was "so hell bent" on reducing costs to avoid an already scheduled $900 million increase in postal rates in January, that "we perhaps lost track of service."

A freeze on employment that reduced the service by 64,000 jobs and left some post offices overstaffed and others short of help was "just a piece of damned poor management," he asserted. Savings and loan associations provide about 45 per cent of all home lending in the United States.

Classroom Limits Endorsed By Board

The Pitt County Board of Education Tuesday afternoon approved a resolution supporting, in principal, a bill introduced in the North Carolina Senate last week by Pitt Legislator Vernon White, limiting the number of students in classrooms in the state. The board also approved the utilization of mental health associate degree students of Pitt Technical Institute and psychologist students from East Carolina University. The PTI program is designed to train personnel to function as mental health workers in North Carolina.

The students will work for at least eight-hours a week, under the supervision of Jay R. Steinberg, Pitt County Schools psychologist. ECU students participating in the program must be in their senior year of college work with psychology as a major. The course will be taken as a reading course of no less than two hours nor more than three hours. The ECU students will also work under the supervision of Steinberg and will be required to write a paper on the progress of the therapy sessions for a grade.

Rate Boost Disallowed

The State Utilities Commission yesterday disallowed a rate increase for natural gas requested by North Carolina Natural Gas.

Greenville Utilities Director Charles Horne said the increase would have upped Greenville Utilities costs by 12 per cent which would have been passed on to the retail customer. Gas purchased on a wholesale basis by GUCO would have cost an additional $75,000 per year if the increase had been allowed.

Greenville and other municipal customers were represented by an attorney in the proceedings and Horne said points raised by the attorney were cited in the ruling.

North Carolina Natural delivers gas which comes from Transcontinental's pipe lines.

Horne said some increases are expected in coming months because Transcontinental has rate increases pending. If these increases are granted the cost would be passed on to N.C. Natural Gas and in turn to Greenville Utilities and the retail customer.

Set Bible Study At BSU Sunday

The group will be led by Bob Clyde, Baptist campus minister at ECU. The group will be studying the Book of Romans and a study guide "What Men Are Like."

The Baptist Student Center is located on the corner of Lawrence and E. 10th Streets.

Record Set At Shad Festival

GRIFTON — The state record for the largest hickory shad caught on hook and line has been set in Grifton for the second time.

Sam C. Sugg of LaGrange caught a 2 lb. 11 1/4 oz. hickory shad in Pitchkettle Creek a few miles southeast of Grifton March 1.

Two years ago, Dick Campbell set the state record by catching a 2 lb. 9 oz. shad in Grifton. The new record will have to be entered in state records before it can be declared official.

According to George Sugg of the Grifton Sport Shop, most of the fish entered in this year's Shad Festival are larger than those recorded for the contest last year. The shad must be weighed at the Sport Shop to be eligible for the annual shad contest.

Other events slated for the Shad Festival include: Queen's Ball, Friday night; a parade, speakers, fish fry and games, square dance demonstrations, pancake dinner, street dance, arts and crafts display and a golf tournament. Sunday events include a horse show, golf and arts and crafts.

Microwave Ovens Termed Hazardous

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Consumers Union says the public should not buy microwave ovens because potential radiation leakage under "reasonable conditions of use" can far exceed federal safety standards.

"The potential radiation of these ovens gives us sufficient reason to doubt the safety of these products, and the consumer should be cautious and stay away," a spokesman for the independent, nonprofit testing organization said Wednesday.

The head of the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers said that "no known injury" had been caused by any microwave oven and that all American-made microwave ovens were well within federal radiation limits.

A Senate Commerce Committee hearing was scheduled today to review the effect of the Radiation Control for Health and Safety Act of 1967.

Appropriate For A Fisherman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manolo Sanchez, President Nixon's personal valet and an ardent fisherman, has a birthday this month and got an appropriate gift from the President.

Sanchez is displaying a fishing rod carrying the notation: "Handmade Especially for Richard M. Nixon."

Visitors' Day

A chance to see Pharmaceutical products produced will be offered to the people of eastern North Carolina on April 7 according to G. Henry Leslie, Plant Manager for Burroughs Wellcome Co.

In making the announcement Leslie said, "many of our friends in Greenville and throughout the eastern part of the State have expressed a desire to see our plant in actual operation. This would be impossible to do with so large a number of people on a normal work day so we have chosen Saturday, April 7 from 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., to showcase our facilities."

He pointed out that every department on the walk-through tour would have "sufficient personnel and equipment functioning to clearly show how modern medicines are made."

"Our plant has approximately 14 acres under roof," Leslie said "and represents one of the most up-to-date operations of its kind. More importantly, though, are the more than 750 people whose skills and know-how keep Burroughs Wellcome's quality a byword in medical circles."

He noted that it has been two and one-half years since the facility on U.S. 13 north of Greenville was dedicated "and many new and exciting innovations have taken place since that time."

"We hope", Leslie said, "that everyone will come see why we are so proud to be a part of eastern North Carolina."

RABIES CONTROL

DOG VACCINATION CLINICS SCHEDULE

The General Statutes of North Carolina were amended in 1957 to allow dogs over 6 months old to be vaccinated every three years with "Chick Tissue Culture Vaccine." In keeping with modern advancements, the Pitt County Rabies Control Department will continue this program. All dogs 4 months old or older are to be vaccinated.

Dogs between 4 and 6 months old are to be vaccinated now in 1973 and in 1 year in 1974.

Dogs over 6 months old which have never been vaccinated before or which have never been vaccinated with the "Chick Tissue Culture Vaccine" are to be vaccinated now in 1973 and then in 1976.

Place the vaccination tag on your dog's collar to identify your dog if lost or strayed. This is required by State Law. Please note the time of the clinic nearest your home.

Rampants Set To Open Baseball Season

Rose High School's Rampants, without much benefit of practice, are set to kick off the 1973 baseball season Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

The Rampants will be entertaining the Vikings of Tarboro High School in a non-conference meeting.

"The weather has hurt us," Coach Dave Holton, entering his second year as head baseball coach, said. "But, when we've had them they've been spirited.

These young men love to play baseball and they've really shown a lot of hustle."

In those last words, Holton was not quite accurate. For this year, the Rampants have a different look to them. That new look is the first girl out for the team, Kim Withers. "She's not trying to sart a Women's Lib movement," Holton said. "She just came out like anyone and didn't ask for any special favors. She can play first or second base, and she's a lot for team morale. She hustles, and the players are enjoying having her around."

Overall, the Rampants present a young look. There are only eight lettermen back and just three starters from last year's team. "Those back are all top-caliber," Holton added, "and they should provide the leadership we need for the younger players." Holton added he wasn't calling this "a rebuilding year. "That's for the future," he said. "We've ready to play now."

He credited the fine youth baseball programs in Greenville in helping to prepare boys for high school call.

"In our first game, we'll start four or five non-lettermen. They must mature quickly for us to be in any contention for post-season play," the coach said.

Hitting right now is a question mark because of the lack of practice. "We know we've got some hitters," Holton said. "It's just a question of getting some work in." Among those back this year is Stanley Cobb, who was the leading hitter in Division II last year. He, along with Robert Brinkley and John Barwick are looked to for leadership in this department.

Defensively, the Rampants are looking good. "The outfield has good speed and the infield just needs to be a little more consistent, but we expect this with the inexperience and the fact that it's still so early."

Pitching may be the team's strong point. Last year, it was one of Holton's biggest worries and it came through, and this year, both of the top pitchers are back, Cobb, a lefty, and righthander Lee Cherry. "Both of these are fine pitchers," Holton said. Senior Fred Lemmond, junior Bobby Dough, and sophomores Chris Manning and Wesley Deal give backup pitching, and the two sophs are looking very good. "Manning could become our number three pitcher and give us real good depth."

Catching is also a strong point. Harding Sugg, last year's starter is back, and Holton is pleased with his work. Jerry Griffin the backup man last year, also returns, and is challenging for a starting role. Also out here is Dickie Johnson, and only inexperience is holding him back.

At first, Brinkley returns and is looking good. Backing him up is Griff Garner, who is expected to see right much action.

There are no veterans at second, since Barwick has been shifted from here to short. Al Heath, a junior, has a slight edge over his brother, Kelly, for this position, mainly due to quickness. Also here are Wayne Miller and Kim Withers.

Third is now a tossup between senior letterman Greg Chapman and juniors Gil Whitford and Johnny Causey. None has outshown the others at this point. The bat may end up as the deciding factor.

At shortstop, Barwick moves in from second. Dough and Macon Moye are his backup men.

In the outfield, only one letterman returns, Herb Wilkerson, but Mike Wallace and Fred Lemmond should also see action. Cobb and Cherry will probably also see outfield duty when not on the mound. Also in the running for outfield posts are Ronnie Rasberry, Tommy Joe Payne and Ron Hunt.

In the league, Holton notes that everyone is looking for a good year. "Rocky Mount looks strongest, but Wilson and Goldsboro both feel that they have the teams to win it all. With luck, we could be right in the thick of it again this year."

The coach added that the Rampants are very well balanced, and that a lot of people are going to be tested at different positions to find the right combination. "The team has a good attitude, and they are willing to work to insure the success of the season."

Leg Problems Cause Giants To Miss Willie

By GORDON D.S. PETERSON Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie? No, he won't. The San Francisco Giants have lost the services of their slugging, injury-plagued first baseman Willie McCovey for several exhibition baseball games due to persistent foot and knee ailments.

McCovey, who missed the majority of last season with a broken arm, has been hampered by leg problems throughout his career. He received an injection of cortisone Wednesday, a drug usually used to treat arthritis and other diseases of the connective tissue.

McCovey has worked out lightly this spring although troubled by a foot arch. The cortisone was ordered after he reported some pain in his knee, which he apparently favored because of the foot trouble.

The other Willie, New York Mets' Mays, reported his knee felt better and stated he would wait until the end of spring training to decide if he will retire from baseball.

In exhibition games Wednesday, the New York Yankees clobbered the Minnesota Twins 11-4, and the Detroit Tigers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3.

Frank Tepedino, New York's designated hitter, collected four hits in six trips, with three doubles and one run batted in to power the Yankees over the Twins in the opener of their spring training schedule. Celero Sanches, Fred Frazier and Ken Bennett smashed home runs for the Yankees.

There was no progress reported in efforts to sign Minnesota's three big holdouts—Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew and Jim Kaat. The Twins said they signed Carew, but the infielder denied it.

The Tigers, the American League East defending champions, hammered 16 hits including three by third baseman Tony Taylor, to defeat the Pirates.

Noise Coming From Greensboro

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

Modern technology has produced a lot but still hasn't come up a sound-proof basketball auditorium. They'll need one today in Greensboro, N.C. It's the start of the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs.

Usually unpredictable, but always noisy, the ACC holds its annual mad bash to determine a league winner and representative to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's playoffs.

The Wolfpack, who've drawn a first-round bye as regular-season champs, won't jump into the pool until Friday. The 15,000-plus fans at the Charlotte Coliseum will predictably roar through three day-night games—North Carolina-Wake Forest, Maryland-Clemson and Duke-Virginia.

The noisemakers will also be in good voice in Lexington, Ky., where the Kentucky Wildcats and Tennessee Volunteers meet to determine the Southeastern Conference championship.

The teams are tied for the SEC lead with 13-4 records and have come down to the last day of the regular season to settle matters in one of the wildest finishes in recent history.

South Carolina, one of the teams already headed for the NCAA's post-season party, finished its regular season Wednesday night with a 90-79 victory over Dukes.

South Carolina State defeated North Carolina-Asheville 87-78 to win the District 6 championship in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' playoffs.

Several other NAIA district playoffs were held Wednesday night as teams advanced to the national tournament.

Marymount College (Kan.) whipped Bethel 82-60 in District 10; Slippery Rock tripped Mercyhurst 70-68 in District 18; Augustana breezed past McKendree 109-61 in District 20; Hanover beat Franklin 69-57 in District 21; Ferris State topped Hillsdale 69-66 in District 23; Valdosta turned back LaGrange 95-85 in District 25; Guilford defeated Winston-Salem 74-69 in District 26 and Pembroke State topped Norfolk State 90-84.

Three of the teams in the ACC playoffs are nationally-ranked—No. 2 North Carolina State, No. 8 North Carolina and 10th-rated Maryland.

Guilford And Pembroke Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guilford, Pembroke State and South Carolina State have won berths in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament, which will have district champions from around the country competing in Kansas City next week for the national title.

Three district events were reeled off in North Carolina Wednesday night with these results: District 6, South Carolina State 87, North Carolina-Asheville 78; District 26, Guilford 74, Winston-Salem State 69; and District 29, Pembroke State 90, Norfolk State 84.

Al McRae scored 30 points in leading the Pembroke State Braves to their victory and they will carry a 20-7 record to the Kansas City tournament starting Monday.

Peter Mitchell, with 19 points, led the Norfolk State Spartans, whose loss left them with a 19-10 mark. Guilford came from behind for its victory, which left it with a 24-5 record against Winston-Salem State's 18-4 mark.

Lloyd Free led Guilford with 24 points and Bob Garner was high for Winston-Salem State with 18 points.

South Carolina State had five players in double figures, led by Tom Boswell's 25, while Frank Rhyme had a game-high 26 points for North Carolina-Asheville.

South Carolina State moved to a 15-12 record while leaving North Carolina-Asheville at 15-17.

Pirates Rained On

East Carolina University's baseball team had its opening game rained out for the third straight time yesterday.

The Bucs had been scheduled to play N. C. State in Raleigh yesterday, but the poor weather conditions that had already washed out games with Duke and North Carolina continued, forcing another postponement. The two teams were scheduled to try again this afternoon at 2 p.m. in Raleigh. Only one game was to be played, however, and no new date has been set for the delayed one.

The Pirates are scheduled to play host to Virginia in a pair of games on Saturday and Sunday at Harrington Field.

Albatross was voted 1972 harness horse of the year.

St. James Is 1st Eliminated

St. James Methodist became the first to be eliminated in the Church Basketball League's double elimination tournament last night, falling to Black Jack, 74-57.

In the winners' bracket, Presbyterian downed Oakmont, 52-44, and Immanuel routed Grace, 114-39.

Black Jack advances in the loser's bracket to meet Trinity, while Oakmont will meet the winner of that game. Grace takes on St. Paul's in another losers' game.

Immanuel will meet Piney Grove, with the winner taking on Presbyterian. Two games are set for tonight, Immanuel-Piney Grove and St. Paul's-Grace.

In the opening game, Black Jack built up a 37-28 lead at halftime. They came on in the final half to oust St. James, 37-29, to win easily.

Danny Edwards led Black Jack with 19, while Tai Adams had 17, Ephriam Smith had 16 and William Kittrel had 13. St. James was led by Mike Board with 23, while Buddy Leggett had 14 and Guy Howell had 12.

Presbyterian edged out into the lead in the first half of play, gaining a 26-20 advantage. In the second half, Presbyterian held off Oakmont, 26-24, to gain the win.

Larry Graham led Presbyterian with 14, while Frank Freular added 12. Doyle Daughtry and Robert Carraway each had 11, and Bobby Hall had 10 for Oakmont.

Immanuel wasted no time in proving its superiority over Grace, ripping of a 51-18 lead in the first half. They continued the slaughter with a 63-21 advantage over Grace in the second.

Lindsey Hardee led Immanuel with 35, while Drew Rumbley had 24, David Hahn had 18 and Dick Evans had 11. For Grace, D. R. Daniels was high with 16, while Curtis Sutton added 13.

Fresh Start Is Daniels' Forte

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — An inscription on the base of the Statue of Liberty. "Give me your poor, your tired, your huddled masses..." could well be emblazoned on the desk of Bill Daniels, enterprising Colorado sports entrepreneur.
But it would be rephrased to read, "Give me your murderers, your addicts, your disadvantaged miserable..."
Ron Lyle, a heavyweight boxer who served 7 1-2 years for second degree murder, will attest to that. So will South Carolina's well-known Bobby Lee Hunter, Olympic flyweight contender serving a term for manslaughter; Earl Manigault, a former Harlem drug addict and ex-convict with pro basketball aspirations, and D. C. Barker, a light heavyweight fighter who learned his skills in Colorado State Prison.

They are just a few of the better known unfortunates who have found a fresh start through Daniels' helping hand.
"The prisons are full of good athletes, men asking for a break in life," Daniels said, relaxing in the skyscraper headquarters of the American Basketball Association. "All the federal money in the world can't help them. They need love and understanding—someone to care."
Daniels, 50, a dapper onetime Navy pilot who made good in cable television, doesn't have to scrounge around jail cells to fill the roster of his Utah Stars of the ABA or satisfy his desire to back a boxing champion.
He is president of the Denver-based firm, Daniels and Associates, which operates cable TV systems in California, Texas, Colorado and Wyoming. He can scribble a million dollar tournament to decide the league champion and NCAA tournament representative got under way today with three games.

But the team that wasn't check for a 6-foot-11 college basketball ace without batting an eyelash. He is president of the six-year-old American Basketball Association.
Long active in the rehabilitation of convicts, addicts and alcoholics, Daniels got Lyle out of the Colorado State Penitentiary on parole after the latter had served 7 1-2 years of a 15-to-20 year sentence and gave him a chance to go after the heavyweight boxing crown.
Lyle was unbeaten and was named 1972 "Fighter of the Year" before suffering his first defeat last month at the hands of Jerry Quarry.
Bobby Lee Hunter, a sensation at the 1971 Pan-American Games in Cali, Colombia, was let out of the South Carolina Penitentiary to attend the Lyle-Quarry fight at Madison Square Garden—as guest of Daniels.
"Bobby Lee is scheduled to get out on parole this summer," Daniels said. "He is coming to Denver. We are going to see that he gets a good start in pro boxing, if that's what he wants, or anything else he chooses to do."
Daniels became involved in sports four years ago when he was awarded the Denver franchise in the International Boxing League, an amateur body that later folded. His interest in boxing remained, as in basketball and other sports. He sponsors two race car drivers, Lloyd Ruby and Cale Yarborough.
His main concern, however, he admits, lies with the disadvantaged.
"These guys all have been knocked on their behinds," he said. "They are forgotten, spurned by society. They need help, love and understanding. I think of how fortunate I've been and figure this is the least I can do to balance the books."

There's a change in Johnny Bench this year, and, as far as Manager Sparky Anderson is concerned, it's a change for the better.
"I've never seen John work as hard as he's been working here," Anderson said Wednesday after the Reds went through a four-hour drill.
"He's matured. He's come out here and completely taken charge."
Bench, the 25-year-old catcher who last season won the National League's most valuable player award after leading the league in home runs and runs batted in, has come to camp with something to prove.
During the winter he received a scare. A spot was discovered on his right lung. Surgery was performed in December, and a benign lesion, caused by a fungus, was removed.

"I believe the scare he got pushed his maturity along faster," said Anderson.
Observers say the surgery changed Bench's outlook on life and on the game of baseball. This became noticeable when Bench did a television promotion for baseball Tuesday.
At Bench's request, the film makers edited into the script: "a baseball career doesn't last forever."
"I realize now that anything can happen," explained Bench, who hit 40 home runs and drove in 125 runs while hitting .270 last season.
"He's more businesslike than he's ever been," added Anderson. "There's no messing around at all. And, you can see a change in his attitude toward people asking for autographs."
"There were times," said Anderson, "when it used to bother him. Now he's happy to sign for everyone."
Bench explained it differently.
"This is my seventh camp," he said. "I just know what to do. I guess through the early days of this camp with Tony Perez, Joe Morgan and Pete Rose not here, the guys were looking to me."
Even when the other stars showed up, Bench found himself running the show. He prodded Rose Wednesday when the Cincinnati left fielder, about to take part in his first workout after holding out for six days, was stopped for a television interview.
"We've got a job to do, let's go," hollered Bench, finally getting Rose to cut the interview short and join the Reds' exercises.

Anderson Says Bench Improved

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Coach Norman Sloan's N. C. State team and Duke have drawn a year's probation from the NCAA for alleged basketball recruiting irregularities. This means neither can play in a post-season tournament.
Should either get to the finals, the other finalist would get the NCAA bid, regardless of the outcome of the Saturday night game.

The National Invitation Tournament in New York, which opens March 17, is expected to invite at least one ACC team, depending upon their availability after the conference play ends. Maryland won the NIT last year and North Carolina took it the year before. The NIT would like either, possibly both, if they are available.
Two ACC teams played in the NIT in each of the last three years.
The ACC representative in the NCAA Eastern Regionals, March 15 and 17 at Charlotte, N.C., will meet the winner of Saturday's first round game at Philadelphia between Southern Conference champion Furman and Syracuse.
Sloan and his staff were on hand viewing today's three games, but his team, which will practice Friday morning at Greensboro, was on its home campus.

NBA Faces TV Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System must show cause March 13 why the National Basketball Association should not be compelled to enter into good faith negotiations with American Broadcasting Company Sports, Inc.
State Supreme Court Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade signed a show-cause order Wednesday.
ABC filed a suit earlier in the day asking that the NBA's 1973-74 contract with CBS be declared null and void. No formal contract has been signed but ABC charged that an agreement has been made with CBS pending a turnaround by ABC of a contract that is unacceptable and offered "not in good faith."
The defendants were also directed to explain why they, pending trial and determination, should not be barred from entering into or performing any agreement between the NBA and CBS for the telecasting of NBA games during the 1973-74, 1974-75 and 1975-76 basketball seasons.

Nets Rally To Win; Cougs Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
How does a basketball team come back from a 23-point deficit? Garbage shots, defense and hustle.
That is the way the New York Nets described their 91-89 comeback American Basketball Association victory over the Kentucky Colonels Wednesday night.
Coach Joe Mullaney of the Colonels had some other ideas. "The Nets were atrocious, and we kept up with them," Kentucky won the turnover battle 28-21.
"We have never become the defensive team we should be," Mullaney said. "We are constantly doing things to give up the ball."
Mullaney, in a rage after the loss, chided Artis Gilmore for not playing defense and allowing the other teams center to get the ball without any resistance.
In other ABA action, Indiana stopped Memphis 122-114, Utah eased past Carolina 128-112 and Denver edged Dallas 116-111.
In the National Basketball Association, New York crushed Philadelphia 120-94 and Cleveland beat Houston 118-100.
"When you are ahead by 20 points at the half, I guess you aren't supposed to say anything," Mullaney said.
Losing 51-28 at one point in the second half, the Nets staged an amazing comeback and finally tied it at 85 with 4:07 to go on a jump shot by Billy Paultz.
George Carter's field goal gave the Nets the lead 89-87 with 28 seconds to go and Gary Gregor's two free throws with eight seconds left iced the victory. Dan Issel scored at the buzzer for the Colonels.

Carter and Lackey each had 20 points for the Nets while Paultz added 19. Issel scored 25 for Kentucky while Louie Dampier added 24.
The Indiana Pacers scored its fifth straight ABA victory at the expense of the sagging Memphis Tams.
Freddie Lewis scored 22 points for the Pacers who defeated the Tams for the seventh time in eight meetings.
Ron Boone scored 34 points and led the Utah Stars over the Carolina Cougars.
Boone, Willie Wise and James Jones combined for 82 points for the Stars in the battle of division leaders.
The Denver Rockets stole the ball twice in succession late in the game and enabled them to defeat the Dallas Chaparrals.
Marv Roberts stole the ball on successive plays and fed Ralph Simpson for layups.
Walt Frazier scored 28 points and Bill Bradley added 22 to lead the New York Knicks over the Philadelphia 76ers in an NBA contest.
The game was close just before halftime, but the Knicks scored eight straight points and then Frazier sunk 10 of his points in the second half to make the game a rout.
The Cleveland Cavaliers ripped off 12 straight points at the end of the first quarter to take a 28-24 lead and went on to trounce the Houston Rockets.

tournament team. I think we're ready. We're not over-confident and we're not tight."
In addition to N. C. State, the ACC field includes two other nationally ranked top 10 teams. North Carolina, 22-6, is No. 8 and Maryland, 20-5, is 10th.
North Carolina, 8-4, finished second in the ACC race and Maryland was third at 7-5. Their combined overall mark of 42-11 is noteworthy in that it includes only one loss to a non-conference team. North Carolina was beaten last month by Miami of Ohio, a team in the NCAA field.

North Carolina has made the Greensboro Coliseum a second home since it was opened a dozen years ago. The Tar Heels have a 27-4 record here, a statistic that bothers some observers who say the Greensboro court is not strictly a neutral arena for the Tar Heels.
In opening against Wake Forest this afternoon, North Carolina was up against a team it trounced by 19 and 18 points earlier. Superior height and balance make North Carolina a decided favorite. Wake Forest's chief weapon is the shooting of guards Tony Byers and Eddie Payne. Their combined average of 37 points a game is over half of the Deacons' scoring.
If there is to be a so-called upset in the first round it may well be in the Maryland-Clemson game.
Maryland has been staving off defeat repeatedly in recent meetings of the teams. It took two Jim O'Brien freethrows with 10 seconds left for Maryland to squeeze out a 54-52 in the first round last March.

Maryland won at Clemson 79-75 two months ago on four freethrows in the closing seconds and last month, at home, the Terps escaped 69-66. This game was marked by a fistic exchange at the start of the second half that led to the banishment of Maryland's rebounding machine, Len Elmore, and Clemson reserve Ricky Hunt.
Since then, Elmore suffered a broken bone in his right foot and was not expected to play in the tournament, although a final decision was not expected until shortly before game time.
Clemson finished strong to tie Duke and Virginia at 4-8 for fourth place, a game ahead of Wake Forest.
A draw gave Duke the No. 4 seeding, with Virginia No. 5 and Clemson No. 6.
Duke, 12-13 and on the verge of its first losing season since 1939, lost at Virginia in overtime two months ago, then smashed the Cavaliers six weeks later 90-66.
Play the last two nights will be televised regionally.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams will return to Fullerton State College for their pre-season training camp, the club announced Wednesday.
For five years prior to 1972, the Rams had done the summer drilling at Fullerton but last season moved to Long Beach State because of a housing problem at Fullerton. This has been solved by rental of a privately-owned dormitory.
OTTAWA (AP) — Frank DiMaggio, a quarterback for Hartford in the U.S. Continental League, and Donn Smith, an offensive tackle at Purdue, signed contracts with the Ottawa Rough Riders Wednesday, the Canadian Football League club announced.
COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Ken Rosemond, head basketball coach at the University of Georgia for the past eight years, will be dismissed following tonight's season-ending game against Alabama, the Columbus Enquirer reported in today's editions.
The newspaper quoted informed sources as saying that an official announcement of Rosemond's dismissal is expected this weekend.
Rosemond currently has a 92-110 coaching record at Georgia. This year's team is 10-15 and heads into the Alabama game with an eight-game losing streak.

DALLAS (AP) — Chris Evert, the No. 1 seed, took just 39 minutes Wednesday to give a tennis lesson to the 15-year-old daughter of the namesake of the Maureen Connolly Brinker women's tennis tournament.
Local favorite Cindy Brinker, a surprise qualifier for the $37,000 event, tried to match 18-year-old Miss Evert's flawless baseline play but failed to win a game and was defeated 6-0, 6-0.
"It was a great experience," said the loser who has almost no experience in women's tournaments. "It's good to play the best, and Chris is a beautiful player, a great player."
Second round singles were scheduled today with Chris Evert meeting Lesley Charles of England.
LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy died Wednesday while playing intramural basketball in the Laurinburg Junior High School gym.
Authorities said the youth, Kish Aaron Johnson, a ninth grader, became dizzy and went to the sidelines. Coach Bill McCracken reported Johnson seemed stiff, but appeared to relax when he was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and a heart message. He was taken to a hospital a few minutes later, but was dead on arrival.
The New York thoroughbred season opens March 1 at Aqueduct and will run 249 days through Dec. 15.

Another Car Insurance Plan Before Committee

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Senate Insurance Committee has scheduled a vote next week on a bill that would replace the assigned risk auto liability insurance plan with a reinsurance pool similar to the Canadian system.

The bill, product of a study commission appointed by former Gov. Bob Scott, was explained to the committee Wednesday by Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, who is sponsoring it.

Allen, an insurance agent from Roxboro, seemed to find a receptive audience for the plan, which is strongly backed by insurance agents' groups.

Under current law, he said 27 per cent of the state's drivers are assigned risks, the highest percentage in the nation. Under the reinsurance pool, any motorist could buy the legally required coverage from the agent and-or company of his choice.

Allen said the chief benefit to assigned risk drivers would be that they would not longer have to shop in the "substandard market" for collision and other coverage not required by the state but often required by banks and other institutions which finance auto purchases.

He said that substandard market companies are entitled to charge up to three times the rates for collision coverage that standard companies charge.

The regular insurance companies, under the reinsurance bill, would be required to provide collision. They would then be able to spread up to 90 per cent of their liability in a pool in which all insurance companies operating in the state must participate.

Allen said the bill would establish a Board of Governors composed primarily of insurance industry representatives, to run the pool.

He cautioned, however, that the bill does not affect the rate-making process and would not necessarily reduce the price of auto insurance for drivers currently under assigned risk.

What it would do, he said, was prevent cancellations and entitle the driver to buy from the company of his choice rather than being assigned to one.

A similar proposal has been scheduled for implementation in May by Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, but Allen said he doubted that Ingram had the legal authority to do that.

Claim Neglect In VA Hospitals

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators say there is a pattern of neglect in the nation's veterans hospitals that endangers the well-being of hundreds of thousands of patients.

They allege that an ailing veteran must wait weeks or months for admission to one of the 168 Veterans Administration hospitals. Once there, they claim, he is likely to suffer from cramped quarters and may seldom see a nurse. Conditions at some hospitals were reported so bad that a patient may leave in worse shape than when he was admitted.

Those were the conclusions of a confidential report prepared for the House Appropriations Committee by its staff investigators. A copy of the report was obtained Wednesday by The Associated Press.

The investigators said their conclusions were based on interviews with VA officials in Washington and at 14 VA hospitals across the country and examinations of VA records.

VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson promised a detailed response to the Appropriations subcommittee currently conducting hearings on the VA budget.

Replying to questions about parts of the report, he denied the allegations of neglect and maintained that VA hospitals are treating more patients better, primarily because of increased reliance on outpatient care.

Ultimately, the report said, the blame falls on the White House Office of Management and Budget for refusing to allow VA hospitals to hire enough employees to meet patient needs and for blocking expansion of hospital facilities.

The OMB, in the interest of saving money, may even force 29 VA hospitals to close by 1975 and may intend to force the VA out of the hospital business entirely, the report suggested.

Describing staff shortages, the report said "nursing personnel are working at an abnormally high pace because of understaffing" and "many essential nursing procedures either are not performed or are not done properly."

One nursing supervisor, who was not identified, was quoted as saying "she had seen a patient permanently disabled because this nursing care was not provided and wondered how many such patients in VA hospitals were crippled or died because of the lack of nursing attention."

The report noted that the VA claimed to have 98,297 operating beds as of last Dec. 31, but the investigators said the figure may be padded by as many as 2,000.

Noted Authorities Will Join African Symposium

Two noted authorities on African culture will be featured speakers at East Carolina University's annual African Studies Symposium March 14-15.

Dr. Daniel P. Biebuyck, professor of anthropology at the University of Delaware, will speak on "The Balega of Central Africa and Their Secret Societies," and Dr. Blyden Jackson, professor of English at UNC-Chapel Hill, "Black English in the Schools."

Dr. Jackson's lecture is scheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday and Dr. Biebuyck's, 11 a.m. Thursday. Both events will be held in McGinnis Auditorium, and are free and open to the public.

Dr. Blanche Watrous of the ECU anthropology faculty, symposium director, said an exhibit of African artifacts will be on display in B-103 of the Social Sciences Building March 12-16. Interested persons are invited to visit the exhibition during the day from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Dr. Biebuyck is a native Belgian with more than 10 years of anthropological fieldwork in Zaire, formerly the Belgian Congo, among the various ethnic groups of the region. He has cited Nyanga epics and is author of the book "Lega Culture."

Dr. Jackson, formerly dean of graduate studies at Southern University, is a past president of the College Language Association, and has held editorial positions on the CLA Journal and Phylon.

The African Studies Symposium is regularly held in the spring at ECU and is sponsored by the African Studies Committee, an interdisciplinary group composed of members from the anthropology, English, geography, political science, economics and music faculties.

Merit Plan Is Advocated Former Greenville Lawyer Files Suit

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina legislators were urged Wednesday to approve a merit plan of selecting the state's judges because it would improve the quality of the judiciary.

The merit plan would "give us the capstone to our system" of justice, Ruffin Bailey of Raleigh, chairman of the North Carolina Courts Commission, told a joint subcommittee of the House and Senate Committees on Courts and Judicial districts.

Bailey urged the legislators to pass a constitutional amendment to provide a merit plan of choosing judges and a bill to implement the constitutional amendment if it is approved.

The bill would set up a commission which would recommend a list of persons to the governor when a judicial vacancy occurred. The governor would be required to appoint judges from this list.

Also approving the merit plan were James Hamner of Raleigh, courts chairman of the North Carolina League of Women Voters, and Herbert Taylor of Tarboro, chairman of the court Study Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association.

Taylor said the merit plan proposal bore the endorsement of directors of the bar association.

"We are convinced that the merit selection plan as contained in the bills under consideration is the plan which most closely approaches excellent in judicial selection," said Mrs. Haner.

Illinois Chemist To Speak Friday

Dr. Kenneth E. Smith of the Eastern Illinois University chemistry faculty will address the regular Friday afternoon seminar of the East Carolina University Department of Chemistry this week.

He will speak on "Some Analytical Aspects of Low Temperature Plasmas" at 3 p.m. in Flanagan Building. All interested persons may attend the seminar.

NEW BERN — A former Greenville attorney, Joseph C. Hooper Jr., has filed a civil rights suit in U. S. Eastern District Court here seeking $100,000 in damages from a Highway Patrolman, Craven County Sheriff C.B. Berry, and a New Bern magistrate.

The complaint, filed yesterday, alleges that Sheriff Berry, Trooper B. E. Edwards, and Magistrate John D. Provost acted illegally to deprive him of his rights after being arrested February 29, 1972 on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Hooper was convicted of the driving charge in Craven County courts.

The attorney's suit claims Ptl. Edwards was prosecuting him because of the officer's belief that drinking is immoral and that the officer used unnecessary force to get him to jail.

The complaint also alleges that Provost illegally refused to accept bail from a licensed bondsman and that Sheriff Berry — through a deputy — also refused to release him on bond and held him in jail illegally.

The suit also asks that the conviction on the drunken driving charge be set aside.

Hooper has been engaged in the practice of law in Florida for the past several months.

NOTICE OF SALE

NORTH CAROLINA

Nixon Popularity Remains High Since Peace Accord

By GEORGE GALLUP

Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N.J., March 7 — President Nixon's popularity remains at a high level, as determined by the latest nationwide Gallup survey—the second taken since the Vietnam peace settlement in late January.

Two persons in three (65 per cent) currently approve of the way Nixon is handling his job as President, while 25 per cent say they disapprove and 10 per cent have no opinion.

The previous survey, conducted immediately following the announcement of the peace settlement, showed 68 per cent approving, 25 per cent saying they disapprove and 7 per cent with no opinion.

But Opinion Among Blacks Is On Disapproval Side

The President continued to have popularity troubles among blacks, although the two surveys conducted since the peace settlement show an increase in the approval vote among this group as well as among the population as a whole.

In the latest two surveys combined, 38 per cent of blacks say they approve of President Nixon's performance in office, but a considerably higher proportion, 48 per cent, indicate disapproval.

However, as recently as December, opinion among blacks was 2-to-1 on the disapproval side as it had been consistently in earlier surveys.

Has Not Dipped Below 50 Percent Since January '72

President Nixon's popularity has not slipped below the 50 per cent mark since January of last year when 49 per cent expressed approval. Since that time his popularity was given a boost by his trips to China and Russia and finally by the Vietnam peace settlement in January.

The President's high point in popularity, 68 per cent approval, was recorded this January following the peace settlement, as well as in November 1969, just after he had announced his plan for withdrawing U.S. troops from Vietnam and training the South Vietnamese to take over the fighting.

His low point to date, 48 per cent, was recorded in June 1971, and reflected the public's growing concern over the flagging economy and the continuing war in Vietnam.

Here is the question asked in the survey, as in all previous surveys on the subject since the late 1930s:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Nixon is handling his job as President?"

Following it the trend since the beginning of the year:

	Approve	Disapprove	No Opinion
Feb. 16-19	65%	25%	10%
Jan. 26-29	68	25	7
Jan. 12-15	51	37	12

Wins Approval In All Major Regions

President Nixon wins approval for his performance in office from a majority of Americans in each of the four major regions of the nation, with his percentage highest (71 per cent approve) in the South and lowest (59 per cent) in the West.

The following table shows the results nationally and by the four major regions of the nation:

	Approve	Disapprove	No Opinion
NATIONAL	65%	25%	10%
East	64	28	8
Midwest	65	25	10
South	71	19	10
West	59	31	10

The findings reported today are based on interviews with a total of 1,517 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period Feb. 16-19.

NIXON POPULARITY INDEX Per Cent Who Approve

Current	65%
Average in current	61
Average since taking office	57
High since taking office (recorded—Nov. '69 and Jan. '73)	68
Low since taking office (recorded June '71)	48

OTHER PRESIDENTS Per Cent Who Approve

	High	Low	Average
President Johnson	80%	35%	54%
President Kennedy	83	57	70
President Eisenhower	79	49	66
President Truman	87	23	46

QUESTION: Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?

Dunn To Be Speaker At Church Services

Charles J. Dunn, Director of the State Bureau of Investigation for North Carolina, will be guest speaker at a church service near Greenville on Sunday morning.

At 11:00 a.m., Dunn will speak at the morning worship service at Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Route 1, Greenville.

Environmental Bill Amendment Said To Ruin Effect

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An amendment that Sen. Gordon

Allen, D-Person, says was prepared for him by "utilities representatives" has been added to a key environmental bill by the Senate Conservation and Development Committee. Allen's amendment, plus three others the committee did not act on Wednesday, would, according to environmentalists—"tear the heart out of the bill."

The bill in question is a Legislative Research Commission effort which would supplement and replace a key section of the Environmental Policy Act of 1971.

The section deals with requirements for environmental impact statements. As written in 1971, the bill required impact statements only for projects financed by state government.

The LRC bill would add the impact statement requirement for private projects and programs which require state licensing. This would include utility development programs and industries which need state licenses to discharge pollutants.

Allen's amendment would delete that provision of the LRC bill, which is sponsored in the Senate by Sen. William Staton, D-Lee. The Allen amendment was adopted by the committee on a voice vote.

Allen confirmed later, but did not tell the committee, that the amendment was suggested and prepared by "representatives of utilities" whom he declined to identify in "essentially" the same form as he introduced it.

Allen said the original intent of the Environmental Policy Act was to require impact statements on "government projects, and government projects only."

He said "some bureaucrat would make up all kinds of rules requiring all kinds of reports" from private industry if the bill is passed.

Allen's other amendments would accomplish two things. One would delete a section of the 1971 act which allows cities and counties to require impact statements on local projects.

The other would set a new expiration date for the Environmental Policy Act of September 1975. The 1971 act was written with automatic expiration in September of this year, unless the General Assembly extended it in this session.

Legislation to make the 1971 act permanent has been introduced by Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth, and has passed the Senate; but if Allen's amendment were to become law, it would negate all previous action.

Charge Man In Lumber Theft

FARMVILLE — Farmville Police have charged George Green of 709 S. George Street here with larceny of a load of lumber.

Chief Tanner said the lumber, $600 worth, was taken from the site of the Davis Hotel now being demolished. He said Green is also charged with temporary larceny of a truck belonging to Alex Allen. He said the man was believed to have taken the truck, carried the lumber to his home and dumped it, and returned the truck.

A 15-year-old boy has been charged with stealing a pocketbook from Mrs. W. A. Martin, Chief Tanner reported.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have a considerable amount of energy as well as clever thoughts that can bring you closer to the things that mean the most to you. There's a spirit of organizational ability in the air so approach vital issues in this manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look over your possessions and see what can be done with them so that you become more successful in the future. Strive for efficiency and please higher-ups. More benefits can be yours.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan how to advance in both business and personal lines, and then put your ideas in operation. Contact experts who can be helpful to you. Meet the right people and be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to organize your life so that you can have more success and happiness in the days ahead. Contact an expert who can be most helpful to you. Follow your good hunches for best results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An ideal day for sociability, so plan your time and activities wisely. A cherished aim is closer than you realize and is yours for the taking. Show that you have wisdom.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to make real progress toward your finest ambitions with few stumbling blocks in the path of your progress. Bring your talents to the attention of higher-ups. Be poised.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't spend all day mulling over those new ideas but put the best in operation as quickly as possible. An expert can give ideas and information you need for success. Think logically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making new contacts with those whose views differ from yours can help you become more successful. Keep active and get the data you need. Take a sudden emergency in your stride.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An ideal day to come to a perfect understanding with an associate who has been stubborn in the past. Make hay while the sun shines. Show your finest ability. Express happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep busy and finish those duties that are yours so you can have a carefree weekend. Take time to come to a fine understanding with associates. Shop for clothing articles you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can have a wonderful day at fascinating outlets that strengthen your ego, so get involved in such. Engage in amusements you enjoy. Maintain a good reputation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Establish more harmony at home and compromise where you feel it is necessary to do so. Straighten out disputed points in an intelligent fashion. Do some entertaining at home tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A new attitude toward problems will see them solved ideally in a short time. Make the changes required. One who has been stubborn in the past will listen now and do what is right.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a fixed nature and should be taught the finest principles at an early age so that the best side of the nature will assert itself and life can then be successful. There will be much ability at taking imaginative ideas and reducing them to a practical function, as well as at comprehending the spiritual theories. There could be real fame here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Frank Savoie and his 1937 "coffin-nosed" Cord.

Graceful fenders frame wheels with their immaculate white wall tires.

CORD CLASSIC

It's taken three years of restoring for this 1937 Cord convertible to acquire its present shining beauty. Frank Savoie of Meriden, Conn., who owns it, put in that three years' work — and now has the satisfaction of seeing the vintage vehicle once more in showroom condition.

In 1937, the car sold for around $3,200. Savoie bought it for $3,500 and today it's worth about $15,000.

The Cord was quite an innovation in its day. It had a V-8 engine, when most cars of that time had "straight eights." It also had front-wheel drive, four-speed transmission with electric shifter, and flip-up headlights operated by separate cranks on either side of the dashboard.

Among the details: a locking gas cap, an aristocratic insignia.

The Cord was manufactured by the Auburn Automobile Co., of Auburn, Ind., its engine a Lycoming 90-degree V-8 with 288.6-cubic-inch displacement. This model was equipped with a supercharger and was rated at 175 horsepower, with a low compression ratio so that it could run on regular gasoline.

The car's appearance was dashing and elegant. Black leather upholstery and black carpeting graced the interior. Wide and stylish spring-steel bumpers took care of minor bumps. And with the streamlined flow of those curving lines, you can imagine it breaking quite a few speed limits in its day.

Hosted Area Announce Activities Workshop Planned At Center

The Pitt County Association for Retarded Children hosted an Eastern Area Membership Workshop Saturday at the ECU Developmental Evaluation Clinic.

The participants from nine counties were welcomed by J. Brad Wiggins, president of the North Carolina ARC. The remainder of the program, which involved panel discussions, was led by Bruce Thorburn, state membership chairman. Panel members were Keith Marriner, regional vice president; Fred Judge, NCARC resource development representative; Walter Johnson, regional vice president; Jimmy Weeks, director; Henry Dunn, past president of the Pitt County ARC; and "Skeet" Creekmore, also a past president of the Pitt ARC.

The purpose of the meeting was to expose all innovative ideas that would help the March membership drives across the state reach their perspective goals.

Moyewood Social Services Center director, Mrs. Brenda Teel, has announced the following activities for the remainder of the month at the Center:

Consumer education—Monday from 2 to 4 p.m.; sewing—Mondays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.; typing—Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.; basic education and high school equivalency—Tuesdays and every Thursday except the fifth one, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.; piano—Tuesday and every Thursday except the fifth one from 5 to 7 p.m.; creative crafts for senior citizens—Tuesdays from 2:30 to 5 p.m.; individual counseling—Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; occupational therapy—Wednesdays and the first four Thursdays from 3:30 to 5:50 p.m.; furniture upholstery—Wednesdays from 9 to 11 a.m.; expanded nutrition, a program for senior citizens—

Wednesdays from 4 to 5 p.m.; arts and crafts for young adults—Thursday the 8th and the 22nd; chef and gourmet club—the first, third, and fifth Thursdays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.; upholstery—every Friday except the fifth one from 9 to 11 a.m.; tutoring in modern math—the first four Fridays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Special meetings include a Diabetic Association meeting Thursday, March 15 and an in-service training workshop sponsored by the State Board of Health Friday, March 30 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Organizational meetings for the following new courses will be held Wednesday, March 14 at 7:30 p.m.; adult driver training, cake decorating, crochet, egg shell crafts, and rug hooking.

Any person wishing to register or attend any class may call 758-5010 or contact Mrs. Brenda H. Teel at the Moyewood Center.
