CIA Agent Released By Red China

WALK TO FREEDOM — Former CIA agent John Downey, wearing a blue Chinese suit and cap, walks through the passage way on the Hong Kong-China border today. (AP Wirephoto)

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — John T. Downey, the last American prisoner of the Korean War, was freed from China today and flew home to see his seriously ill mother in Connecicut.

Peking let the CIA operative go after an appeal from President Nixon that he be allowed to join his 75-year-old mother, Mary Downey of New Britain. His release had been expected as a result of the visits to Peking by Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger but not until later this year. The other two Americans known to be held in China, Air Force Maj. Philip E. Smith and Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, are scheduled to be freed on Thursday. Downey told Red Cross representatives that he was in the same cell block with them and both appeared to be in "excellent spirtis and health."

Both Smith and Flynn were shot down on missions in Vietnam where they strayed over China, who has spent nearly 21 of his 42 years in Chinese prisons, looked pale but smiled continiously when he arrived at Clark Air Base from Hong Kong. He told newsmen he was 'fine."

At Clark he found his brother William, a New York attorney, who arrived several hours earlier.

"I just want to say how greatful I am for being released," Downey told newsmen. "And I appreciate the Chinese government letting me go at this time, and Presdient Nixon for his efforts on my behalf, and Dr. Kissinger. I'm very pleased to be out; and at the same time, I'm very anxious to get home and see my mother."

William Downey said a doctor had examinded his brother on the flight from Hong Kong and "he checks out fine on a preliminary examination. He certainly feels and looks good."

The two brothers took off in a special C141 medical evacuation transport at 1:42 a.m. EST for Elmendorf Air Base in Alaska. From there, they were to fly to either Hartford, Conn., or Westover Air Base in Massachusetts.

Downey's mother, who visited him a number of times in Peking, suffered a stroke last Wednesday. She regained consciousness Sunday, but a spokesman at New Britain General Hospital said her condition still was critical.

Parleys Going On

TEL AVIV (AP) — A high-ranking member of Premier Golda Meir's Labor party says Israelis are holding regular secret talks with leaders of the Arab world.

The statement by Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, secretary-general of the giant Histadrut Labor Federation, followed earlier reports of meetings between Deputy Premier Yigal Allen and King Hussein of Jordan. The government has denied the reports.

Ben-Aharon was quoted today as saying: "There is no doubt that exploratory talks are going on all the time." He called on the government to clarify its "political path" regarding the talks.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban scoffed at Ben-Aharon's statement and said: "I wish he would show me a list of these meetings."

In Cairo, meanwhile, an official Egyptian spokesman described as "absolutely untrue" a statement by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers that Egypt, Israel and Jordan expressed the desire to negotiate a settlement. He accused Rogers of "attempting to plant suspicion between the Arab states."

Release Scheduled Wednesday

Hanoi Lists POWs To Be Freed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam today delivered a list of 108 American prisoners it will release in Hanoi on Wednesday; meanwhile, the United States again suspended the withdrawal of American troops to insure the Communists release all 286 Americans they still hold.

The Viet Cong promised a list on Tuesday of approximately 30 prisoners of war captured in South Vietnam who will be released in Hanoi on Thursday.

The U. S. delegation radioed the list from the North Vietnamese to Washington for notification of the prisoners' families. The list was to be made public by the Defense Department later today.

Bui Tin, the chief North Vietnamese spokeman in Saigon, said all those to be released on Wednesday were airmen shot down in late 1967 and 1968. He said they included Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, son of the former commander of U. S. forces in the Pacific.

Those to be released on Thursday are expected to include Maj. Floyd Thompson, the POW who has been held longest, and Philip Manhard, the highest-ranking civilain POW.

Those turnovers will constitute the third phase of the POW release, leaving one group of about 156 to be freed by March 28, two months after the Jan. 28 start of the cease-fire. March 28 also is the deadline for the withdrawal of all American and other foreign allied force.

A U. S. spokesman said troop withdrawals were suspended to "make damn sure we get all of the prisoners." He said he forsaw no problem and noted that both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have said they will comply with the agreement. But "we want to make absolutely certain," he added.

The spokesman said U. S. troop strength in Vietnam now totals 6,935 men, compared with 23,516 on Jan. 28. Foreign allied troops, primarily South Koreans, have dropped from 35,509 to 5,607.

"We've withdrawn our troops at a steady flow, and we haven't been getting a steady flow of prisoners," the spokesman added.

The Communists have released 299 Americans in three groups, on Feb. 12, Feb. 18 and March 4-5. This is a little more than half the 585 American prisoners they admitted holding.

The United States also suspended troop withdrawals on Feb. 28 when the Communists delayed release of American prisoners for five days in a dispute over other provisions of the cease-fire agreement.

Meanwhile, the Vietnamese-American Joint Military Commission sent to the International Commission of Control and Supervision of Control and Supervision a request today for an en-site investigation of Communist charges that South Vietnamese forces have been attacking Duc Pho.

Pitt Prisoner Of War Ends Hospital Care

FAYETTEVILLE — After six years' absence, Maj. William Hardy came home Friday.

His wife, Theola, has lived here during the time the Pitt County native was held in Vietnamese villages as a prisoner of the Viet Cong. He was an Army advisor at the time of his capture in the summer of 1967, and was in the first group of prisoners released by the Viet Cong after the ceasefire. He held the highest rank of any military man in the group. His wife and his mother, Mrs. Delphia Hardy of Rt. 1, Winterville met him at Fort Gordon, Ga. and he was hospitalized there until his homecoming Friday.

Mrs. Hardy said she and several other members of Maj. Hardy's family visited him and his wife Saturday. Among his greeters were his sister, Mrs. Virginia Bell Nobles; his niece, Mrs. Blonnie Barrett and her husband, James, and their daughter; and his nephew, Leroy Nobles and his wife, Mary and their children.

Maj. Hardy has a 90-day leave, his mother said, and she hopes he will be visiting his family home near Haddock's Crossroads in the near future.

Woman Cleared Of Charges She Killed Patrolman In S.C.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)— Officers have dropped murder changes against a Greenville County woman in the fatal shooting of South Carolina Highway Patrolman Fulton Howard Anthony.

Authorities said they dropped the charges against Virginia Dare Ogle, 33, of Cleveland, S.C., after completing an investigation in the Saturday slaying of Anthony.

Greenville County officers said initially they believed Mrs. Ogle had a concealed pistol used by her husband, Clyde Ogle, 53, in a shoot-out in a patrol car. But, they said later the investigation revealed that Ogle apparently had a .38 caliber pistol tucked in the combat-boots he was wearing.

Anthony, a 37-year-old native of Pickens and a veteran of 13 years on the patrol, was shot as he was bringing Mr. and Mrs. Ogle to the county jail on charges of public drunkenness and illegal brown-bagging.

Ogle was then shot and killed by Highway Patrolman R.E. Wallace, who was riding with Anthony in the patrol car.

Capt. L.O. Wiggins, Highway patrol division commander, said Wallace attempted to arrest Mr. and Mrs. Ogle when he spotted their car in a ditch and discovered they were drunk and drinking illegally. The officer radioed for assistance, Wiggins said, after encountering some trouble with the couple. Anthony arrived to help make the arrest.

Capt. Wiggins said Anthony and Wallace searched Ogle and then placed the couple in the back of the cruiser. They were driving near the Greenville city limits when Anthony was killed by four bullets that tore through the back of the front seat.

Wallace, who was driving the patrol car, was grazed on the hand by a bullet. Wallace said Ogle pointed the pistol at his head, but it clicked harmlessly. Wallace then killed Ogle with one shot.

Authorities said Mrs. Ogle was now charged with public drunkeness and illegal drinking and was placed under $1,000 bond at a material witness.

Blacks To Hold Majority Role

DETROIT (AP)—Blacks will assume majority control of the Detroit Board of Education later this month for the first time in the body's 131-year history.

The shift will go into force when Alonzo W. Bates replaces resigning member Rosemary J. Shirley and climaxes a gradual change that has touched the political climate as well as the racial composition of the board.

For example, observers say the board now is considered unlikely to support further appeal of a controversial and federal court order for cross-district integration of Detroit metropolitan area schools.

The board also is considered likely to approve a rule requiring Detroit residency for teachers.It is estimated 25 per cent of them currently live in the suburbs.

CONNOR DIES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Eugene "Bull" Connor, 75, who used police dogs and fire hoses to disperse civil rights demonstrators in the early 1960s, died Saturday following a stroke.

Koreans Clash On Border

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea and the United Nations Command accused each other today of violating the Korean armistice in the first bloody border clash reported in 19 months.

Two South Korean soldiers were reported killed and another wounded in a firefight that lasted more than six hours last Wednesday on the central front.

A U.N. Command spokesman said it was the first such clash since Sept. 17, 1971.

U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Fred E. Haynes told the Military Armistice Commission a five-man South Korean work detail came under an "unprovoked attack" from the North Koreans while replacing markers for the military demarcation line near Chorwon, about 75 miles northeast of Seoul.

He said the U.N. Command had notified the Communists in advance of the work.

Two members of the work detail were hit in the initial burst of Communist fire, coming from positions inside the northern half of the buffer strip, Haynes said. Attempts to save the two resulted in the death of a sergeant from continuous small arms fire from the Communist positions, he added.

After 6½ hours, when the South Koreans were able to reach the wounded men, they discovered that one of them had died, the general said.

Maj. Gen. Kim Poong-sup, the chief North Korean delegate, said this account was "nonsense." He charged that the South Koreans were armed with M16 automatic rifles and various espionage equipment banned inside the demilitarized zone and committed various espionage activities and hostile acts against the Communist side in the area.

Shooting Dampens Hope For Permanent Peace In Wounded Knee Talk

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — The shooting of an FBI agent and an Indian declaration that no federal officials will be permitted to enter Wounded Knee have dampened hopes for a permanent peace.

Interior Department officials said they would not comment on issues until midafternoon today, and there was no indication that talks were scheduled with Indian leaders.

Meanwhile, a grand jury was to convene today in Sioux Falls, S.D., to investigate the Feb. 27 takeover of the historic village by about 200 Indian militants. Warrants were issued Sunday by a U.S. magistrate in Rapid City for the arrest of five leaders of the occupation.

The Sunday gunplay came less than 24 hours after federal forces pulled down their roadblocks and withdrew from a perimeter a few miles from the center of the village.

The shooting involved a small truck the Indians smeared with mud and dubbed their "tank." Several FBI vehicles maintaining surveillance on roads into the village saw the truck about five miles west of Wounded Knee, officials said.

The FBI agents, who said they believed the vehicle was stolen, pursued the van, and there was an exchange of gunfire. Agent Curtis Fitzgerald of Chicago was struck in the right arm and was evacuated by helicopter.

The car in which Fitzgerald was riding had six bullet holes in the windshield—one on the passenger side and five on the driver's side, the latter apparently made by another agent firing from inside the car.

Indians said bullets smashed the rear windows of the van and flying glass cut an Indian's hand.

"The FBI is trying to provoke the situation," said Dennis Banks, a leader of the American Indian Movement, which led the takeover.

Each side said the other fired first.

It appeared briefly that the incident would detonate the explosive situation that has existed since the takeover —250 Indians, many of them armed, facing off against 300 federal lawmen armed with high-powered rifles and automatic weapons. Indian reinforcements have slipped into the village since the takeover.

Schools Trying Normal Schedule

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—All Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools were to operate a normal scheduled today for the first time since racial disruptions began more than a week ago.

Dr. Rolland Jones, superintendent of the state's largest school system, said police would again be stationed at all senior high schools but added that if calm prevails "the police will be phased out."

Meanwhile, Superior Court Judge Frank W. Snepp was to conduct a hearing today on a temporary order he issued last week prohibiting outsiders and weapons at any of the system's schools.

Attorneys for the school board issued subpoenas over the weekend requesting Charlotte television stations WBTV and WSOC to appear at the hearing with all of their aired film of the recent school disturbances. The stations said they would comply.

School board attorneys sought to have Snepp's order made permanent by proving that a "state of emergency" exists in the 80,000-pupil system. They said the film would substantiate their view.

Snepp issued his order last Tuesday, but it was challenged by two workers of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) as being unconstitutional.

Superintendent Jones, appearing for 15 minutes Sunday night on the local educational television station, called for "renewed trust" in the public schools.

He said the disruptions of the past six school days were "peeling away layer after layer of trust in the schools."

Jones said a "systematic survey" will be made in an attempt to analyze the causes of the disruptions.

He said there are no simple answers to the problems in the schools.

More than two dozen students, black and white, were arrested last week in disruptions at several of the city and county high schools and junior highs. About two dozen were injured seriously enough in the fighting to require hospital treatment. Windows and doors were broken out in some schools and students refused to attend classes at others.

Proposes Review Of Cuba Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., referring to changing relations with China and the Soviet Union, today called for a review of U.S. policy toward Cuba.

"The situation has changed markedly," he said, since diplomatic ties were broken on Jan. 3, 1961.

Byrd referred in a Senate speech to new initiatives in U.S. relations with China and the Soviet Union which he said "already have produced major changes in the international community."

He said a number of Latin American nations either never cut ties with Cuba or have reestablished diplomatic relations, increasing U.S. chances of isolation in the Western hemisphere.

Six Nations End Obligatory Dollar Support

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — Six of the Common Market nations agreed early today to a joint, partial float against the dollar, maintaining a schedule of exchange rates among each other but ending obligatory purchases of the dollar to support it.

The other three member nations—Britain, Ireland and Italy are already floating their currenceis against all others. They said they would join the joint float as soon as economic conditions permitted them to pet their currencies against the other Common Market monies.

West Germany also agreed to revalue the mark upward three per cent. There was speculation that the Japanese yen, the other strong currency, also would be revalued somewhat.

The decision by West Germany, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxenbourg and Denmark was easing the latest monetary crisis that closed foreign currency exchanges 10 days ago.

A communique after a meeting of finance ministers from the nine Common Market nations said the float would go into effect March 19, when the exchange markets reopen.

Four other nations with strong currency—Switzerland, Sweden, Norway and Austraia— reportedly were considering joining the float even though they are not members of the Common Market.

By floating, the currencies are free to find their natural levels in terms of the dollar through pressures of supply and demand. No longer will the central banks have to buy huge quantities of dollars from speculators and the money managers to keep the dollar from sinking below a fixed level. However, West Germany's finance minister, Helmut Schmidt, said a central bank may continue under the agreement to support the dollar to prevent its own currency rate from going higher than desired.

The agreement calls for a maximum fluctuation of 2.25 per cent among the values of the six floating currencies. It is considered a key step toward eventual creation of a single European currency.

Belgian Finance Minister Willy DeClercq said the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium will discuss possible revaluation of their currency later this week.

The German revaluation caused speculation in Japan that the value of the yen, which under present international monetary conditions has kept pace with the mark, also soon may be increased. The yen has been floating upward but not enough to suit American and European officials. But Japanese trade sources said a significant upward revaluation would strike a severe blow to Japanese exports.

Mid-Year Session Ends For N.C. Moose Ass'n

The N. C. Moose Association closed out its mid-year conference in Greenville at noon Sunday.

The closing session for the assembled Women of the Moose consisted of a question-and-answer period. For the men, it was a morning devoted to further reports by district presidents, consideration of future sites for mid-year conferences, a reminder by State Director Nandor Kozmo of the obligation to finance the new paving and sidewalks for Moosehaven, a wholly North Carolina project, and announcement of winners in the annual ritual competition.

A $5,000 check toward the Moosehaven project was presented to official visitor William Stanley, with pledges of more to come.

Past Supreme Governor Cecil Webster, surveying the crowded seats, smilingly remarked "We must be doing something right in the way we conduct these meetings". Over 600 delegates were in attendance at the conference in Greenville; regarded by some as an all-time record.

Irvin Trawick, of Kingsport, Tenn., announced winners of the ritual competition. The Burlington team placed first, followed by New Garden and Spencer. Trawick underlined the emphasis placed on ritual work by the fraternity, observing that "the ritualist has the first opportunity to capture the hearts of new members; after that, it's up to the lodges."

HHH Had Plans For Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says that if he had been elected president in 1968 he would have named Henry A. Kissinger his foreign policy adviser.

Talking with reporters Sunday after White House worship services, the Minnesota Democrat called President Nixon's national security adviser "a professional ... an extraordinary man."

In response to questions, Humphrey also said he has changed his mind and now supports Nixon's plan to give post-war aid to North Vietnam. He said he changed his view because of Nixon's assurances that such aid would not be deducted from the domestic side of the federal budget.

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) — Returned prisoner of war David Rehmann remembers the day Hanoi took his photograph for a propaganda demonstration in 1966.

"They told me the people of Hanoi were seething with anger —that if I didn't do exactly as I was told, I would be torn apart by the mob," he says.

Rehmann, a Navy pilot who is 30 but looks older, had been shot down for only 24 hours when the North Vietnamese took his photograph to show to the world a man they branded a "war criminal."

The photograph was reproduced on thousands of posters.

It shows Rehmann's face badly burned from the explosion of his jet fighter and his right arm bandaged and in a sling. He recalls that his eyes showed suffering and he had lost "more blood than I care to remember."

But he says he stood as erectly as he could, with a determined look on his face.

"I was not in very good shape. As a matter of fact, I was almost babbling," he said. "But I wanted the world to see what the North Vietnamese were trying to do—how they were trying to use me."

"It is not a scene I like to remember, but I think I got the point across," he says. He still suffers some disability in his right arm.

Rehmann, from Lancaster in Los Angeles County, recalled the episode Sunday on a visit to Garden Grove to see two brothers and an aunt.

Gold Teeth For One Of Twenty

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — One out of every 20 Americans will have gold added to his or her teeth in the form of dental inlays, crowns or bridges.

It is estimated that $40 million worth of gold annually goes into the mouths of Americans—or about 4 per cent of the world's total $1 billion output.

With the price of gold fluctuating, gold substitutes are being developed. H. L. Myers, president of Codesco, Inc., dental supply firm, predicts alloys will replace gold for fixed crowns and bridges in the next five to 10 years.

Kentucky gives public assistance to an estimated 40,000 persons.

Teen-Agers Plant Bomb

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A teen-age boy and girl planted two explosive charges that wrecked a downtown store today in another guerrilla bombing incident, police said.

The couple gave a 15-minute warning to employes and customers and the blast injured no one.

Police set up a manhunt for an internee who escaped during the night from an internment camp north of Belfast.

William Kelly, 23, escaped with two others, who were captured almost immediately. They had cut their way out through barbed wire entanglements surrounding the camp.

Eleven Protestants, arrested Sunday when nearly 100 men of the Ulster Defense Association tried to storm a Roman Catholic district of Belfast, were being arraigned in Belfast.

The British army had been tipped that 99 Protestants in a convoy of trucks was heading for a Catholic housing estate in north Belfast.

Troops halted the convoy and found many of the men were armed with cudgels, weighted with lead and fitted with steel spikes. Two had rifles.

Two Catholic vigilantes at the estate, armed with cudgels, also were arrested. In another development, officials reported that 294 persons have been arrested this year on serious criminal charges ranging from murder to armed robbery.

Fifteen ibex were placed in the mountains two years ago and have produced 10 offspring. The mountain environment is similar to the native habitat of the ibex in Iran.

House Rammed By Bulldozer

ARVADA, Colo. (AP) — A runaway bulldozer plowed into a house in this Denver suburb Sunday, moving the building a quarter of an inch off its foundation.

"It shook things up really good," said John Rangel, who was preparing for work when the bulldozer hit the corner of his house.

Police said Terry Wright of Denver was driving by when he saw the driverless bulldozer. He jumped on and finally stopped the machine after it began pushing into the living room.

No injuries were reported.

A group of youngsters was playing near a construction site, and police said they may have started the machine on its 700-foot route.

William Kowalczewki, a city building inspector, said the upper structure of the house "has been moved over about one-quarter inch."

Woman Broker To Be Honored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mimi Green, 26, on March 23 will become the youngest person ever honored by the Advertising Club of New York in the 33 years it has been hosting notables.

Miss Green, an attractive and very successful stockbroker with Edwards & Hanley, says: "I never could have done it without my parents. They are responsible for my being 26."

Fish Said To Be Wise Eaters

NEW YORK (UPI) — Game fish become good fighters by getting lots of exercise—swimming, naturally—and by proper diet, say researchers for Johnson Fishing Reels.

In a day, adult largemouth bass will eat up to 5 per cent of their own weight in fish. Young northern pike eat several times this amount. And fish feeding on less nutritious food consume even more.

Predators—most game fish are—require several pounds of fish flesh to gain a pound. Plant feeders need 30 to 40 pounds of vegetation to produce a pound of gain. Get to know the dietary preferences of your quarry and you'll catch more fish, the researchers advise.

Mood Memos From Their Boss Lady

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Mme. Pimprenelle, the couturiere, is not a faceless figurehead to her employees. She keeps sending them pictures of herself with her memos. When she's cross, she sends a photo of the Pimprenelle scowl. When she's pleased, she sends a smile. On the back of each picture is the explanation of her "mood memo." "Many employees find relations with the boss too impersonal," explained the Belgian lady. "This is one way to solve that problem. Personal contact is necessary, especially in big business."

Making Her An Offer She Ought To Refuse

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Greg and I have been married for six years [no children] and I thought we were getting along rather well when suddenly, after a trivial argument, he walked out and didn't come home that night. I was frantic.

The next day I called him at work and his receptionist said he was busy and would call me back. He never called. And he didn't come home that night either. I phoned his office again and got the same treatment.

Finally I went to his office and waited for him outside. He said he was fed up with married life and he was coming for his clothes that night, which he did.

All he said was he would stay married to me if I agreed to let him come and go with no questions asked. Also, if he felt like taking me somewhere he would, but I wasn't to ask HIM. Finally, he didn't want to see my face around his place of business.

I have seen a priest and a lawyer. They both said I should either accept Greg on his terms, or let him go. I am 35 but people say I look 25. He's 32, and looks 45. What do you think? BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: I think your husband's terms are absurd. If I were you I'd say, "bye bye" while I still "looked 25."

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine told me that her husband has a very coarse and heavy beard, so he shaves every night before he goes to bed so his stubble doesn't irritate her tender face when they cuddle during the night.

When I told my husband how sweet and considerate I thought that was, he said, "He sounds like a first-class jerk to me."

You see, I told my husband that story for a reason, but he didn't get the hint. Maybe if you print this, he'll catch on. TENDER FACE

DEAR FACE: Sometimes the best approach is the direct approach. Quit hinting, and tell your porcupine what's on your mind.

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher with a serious bronchial condition. The doctor told me I should not even be where others are smoking. Well, I put a sign up in my apartment reading "Thanks for not smoking."

Everyone who has come to visit me has respected that request, and I really appreciated it. Last week I had a few guests who had never visited me before. When one of them saw the sign, she said, "Don't think I am staying here and not smoking. Give me an ashtray!"

When I told her I didn't have any ashtrays she asked for a dish. I refused. I served coffee, and she and the others smoked and used their cups for ashtrays.

Abby, I couldn't believe it. I didn't want to hurt them, but I hurt myself. That night I couldn't sleep, and the next day I couldn't use my voice to speak to my students.

So what can I do about rude, inconsiderate people who smoke regardless? INSULTED IN SOUTHBRIDGE

DEAR INSULTED: You can tell THEM [not me] that you cannot tolerate smoke, so they will have to make a choice between your company and their cigarets. But say it like you mean it!

Assurance To Career Workers

Gov. Jim Holshouser did well to keep his distance from a letter written to state Republicans by Party Chairman Frank Rouse.

The letter had urged party members to be patient on patronage jobs in state government.

"Please be patient," Rouse reportedly wrote, "and encourage our party faithful to be patient. The Governor knows what he's doing and he's done an almost perfect job of it."

"As you are probably aware the Governor has had to walk the tight rope with patronage. If he moves too fast, obviously the legislators will strip him. Since he doesn't have the veto power ... he has had to maintain the proper image to continue to keep the media support to be good little boys. So far, it has worked.

"However, we need to be ready to appoint our people as jobs become available. The number one priority now is personnel experts. We need applications from qualified people now."

Gov. Holshouser moved quickly to legislators he said he "would naturally disagree with any implication of a position contrary to what I've stated." On a number of occasions, he said he had stated that natural turnover of jobs in state government comes fast enough to take care of 'patronage' demands.

He said non-political (or career) employees have nothing to fear if they are doing a good job. "That's plain and nothing to fear if they are doing a good job. "That's plain and it's simple."

Holshouser denied any knowledge of the letter until after it had been sent.

'To the extent this letter encourages the endorsement of qualified people for service in state government, I applaud it, as I'm sure you do. We will want good, solid people working for our state."

We feel the governor was wise to issue a statement because we are sure that the letter sent shock waves through the rank and file of state employees. It demonstrates that something must be done to protect the career employee who is doing his job from having to be concerned about being replaced each time the administration changes. The state needs something along the lines of the federal Civil Service to take career jobs out of politics.

There are a number of political appointments in state government which obviously the governor is going to fill with men of his own choosing. Career people, however, should not change with each new administration--and this has at times occured within factions of the Democratic party, so it is not unique to the two-party system alone.

We hope the governor will continue to re-assure career employees and also work toward a system which will better protect the career worker against losing his job because of politics.

Legislation To End Laughter

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Legislation to take the laughter out of North Carolina's farcial campaign expenses reporting law is in the final drafting stage.

As it is taking shape in a House subcommittee, the tough new law would require candidates to reveal money sources and detail how it is spent or risk having their names barred from the ballot.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Other features of the embryonic bill would call for advertising media reports as a cross-audit on those expense items and prohibit political contributions by corporations, labor unions and professional organizations.

"What we have on the books now is a joke," said Rep. A. Hartwell Campbell of Wilson, subcommittee chairman. "Nobdy takes it seriously. There is no case in memory, as far as I'm aware, of any effort to enforce it or prosecute any violation."

The so-called corrupt practices act provided for candidates to file a full accounting of receipts and expenses. It sets no limits on how much can be spent. It lacks procedure to check the accuracy of reports, or effective penalties to assure compliance.

A Law With Bite

There will be sharp teeth, Campbell promised, in the measure his group soon will present to the House election laws committee. For failure to comply or fraudulent reporting, it would exact the supreme penalty — disqualification to run.

It may be a larger bite, he granted, than many legislators are willing to swallow. Controversy and debate is certain, and modification of its provisions probable, before it reaches the House floor or approaches enactment.

If it does pass, in substantially the form envisioned, it will go a long way towards curbing the rising cost of running for office, Rep. Campbell predicted.

"The simple aim is to show the public where a candidate gets his money and how he spends it, then let the voters decide whether he is trying to buy the election," he explained.

Campaign costs as an issue for the current General Assembly emerged from the smoke of last year's races. Spending surpassed previous records and led both the winner and loser for governor to urge a try at solving the problem.

Support Is Bipartisan

Gov. Jim Houlshouser, a Republican, and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, a Democrat, have given priority to some kind of restraints on campaign spending.

Several bills on the subject have been introduced in both House and Senate, some of them fixing ceilings on what a candidate may legally spend from his own money as well as from contributions.

The House passed a resolution early in the session for the preparation of legislation, on a sound Constitutional basis, to deal with campaign expenses. Under this mandate, Campbell and his subcommittee have been at work for the past month.

Drastic remedies are needed to cure the ills of costly compaigns, Rep. Campbell agreed. As an angle of attack, he favors a stringent reporting law to give clear public scrutiny to contribution and expenditures rather than prescribed limits on spending.

"The two have to be considered separately. To tie them together would kill both," he said.

The two-phase strategy he has in mind would push for an effective reporting law now, and leave until 1974 the decision on spending limits. In the interim, futher study could be given to the how-to and how-much questions involved in imposing spending restrictions.

Some Oppose Delay

Those lawmakers adamant for limits who feel an urgency on the issue will be hard to sell on a delay. Rep. Lane Brown of Stanley said the matter is one of the legislature must settle at this sitting.

Next spring will bring primaries for legislative races, he reminded. "It wouldn't be fair to candidates, after they have filed, to enact legislation bearing on the campaign," he said.

Brown, a sponsor of one of the bills to limit campaign spending, said he feels the sentiment is there to tackle the problem and devise a solution.

Campbell has reservations about spending ceiling fixed by law. "I question seriously whether we can tell a man he can't spend his own money," he said.

One aspect of the reporting bill in preparation would put out of business political action groups such as PACE the organization of educators which took part in last year's campaigns. It would forbid direct or indirect contributions to candidates and political parties by professional and trade assiciations.

If the shoe fits, for corporations, said Campbell, it should also be worn by all special interest or pressure groups.

Warnings By Nixon Backers

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ST. LOUIS — Although middle-class Nixon voters still rank the President well above the Democratic-controlled Congress, they are so suspicious of one-man rule that they prefer congressional, not presidential control, over federal spending.

That conclusion, obtained from day-old interviewing here helped by Oliver Quayle's polling organization ought to temper White House confidence—often mixed with arrogance—that Mr. Nixon has cornered the people's loyalties. Indeed, suspicions here about an overpowerful executive are a warning in the night from the Nixon constituency.

Typical is a 35-year-old dental technician, nominally a Democrat, who voted for Mr. Nixon and is inclined to stay Republican in 1976. She thinks the President does a much better job than Congress and supports Nixon cutbacks in social services. Yet, she wants Congress to control the purse strings, not Mr. Nixon, because "it's putting too much responsibility on one man. It would be like a dictatorship."

Such concern was expressed repeatedly in two middle-in-come precincts—which have proved good Missouri voting barometers. The 53 registered voters interviewed by us and Quayle polltakers Lee Brandon and Helen Thomas mirrored last fall's outcome in the two precincts, with 31 for President Nixon, 18 for Sen. George McGovern and 4 not voting for President.

Although a majority consider themselves Democrats, they are not disaffected with their Republican President. They give Mr. Nixon a handsome 66 per cent job approval, compared with an anemic 37 per cent for Congress. Out of a maximum 100 on Quayle's scale measuring public trust, both the President (70) and Congress (66) ranked high above Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's 42.

Moreover, in trial heats, Kennedy runs behind both Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and John B. Connally by identical counts of 25 to 20 (with 8 undecided). Only four voters considered poverty an important issue, and most backed Mr. Nixon holding down spending for the poor. Crime and narcotics, not the most comfortable issue for Democrats, was considered the most important.

Such results from traditionally Democratic precincts would understandably feed White House euphoria and dishearten Democrats eyeing the long road back from McGovernism. But when Presidential power confronts congressional power, the picture curiously changes.

While nearly half the voters already believe the President has too much power, around half fear Mr. Nixon seeks still more power—which many say concerns them greatly. Most believe a spending ceiling should be set by Congress, not the President.

The critical question involves Mr. Nixon's impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress. We asked: should the President decide what programs the government will or will not spend money on, or should Congress decide? Ten said the decision should be joint, one was not sure. The surprising results of the rest:

TRUTH HARD TO FACE

The Bible is a realistic book, and it has a lot to say about the wrath of God. It pictures this wrath as a terrible and devastating thing, but entirely consistent with God's love. Once it is turned loose, the offender may hope that the hills can fall upon him and the great waters swallow him. It can be a harbinger of eternal disappointment sorrow. A soft hearted, easy going generation whose religion quickly degenerates into sentimental schemes for social betterment turns away with revulsion and amazement from the concept of God's wrath.

But the wrath of God is very real. Anyone contemplating an evil course of action should ponder this. Forgiveness bids the repentent sinner arise and face God with the realization that God has put away his sin and has restored him to the divine household. But for the unrepentent — the wilful sinner who keeps on his headstrong course of evil — the divinely attested doctrine of the wrath of God sould sould a solemn warning.

One of the groups most seriously affected by this winter's power crisis has been the Congress of the United States. While the rest of the country has managed to get by, Capitol Hill seems to be losing the energy battle, and experts predict that if President Nixon purchases his present policies, Congress will be completely out of power by 1974.

Standford F. Crunch, a Washington power broker, told me, "Congress has been wasting its power for years. It has always thought the Constitution would provide it with ample resources to use power in any way it wanted to. Well, they've discovered that there isn't that much power around and, because the White House has been using so much of it, there's very little left to pump up to The Hill."

"Then you believe that the power shortage in Congress has been caused by White House demands for more power in domestic and foreign affairs?"

"That is correct," Crunch said. "At one time, power was equally divided between the White House and Capitol Hill. No one was concerned because there was enough to go around for everybody. But since the November election, the White House was doubled its power needs and has been draining Congress on the little energy it had."

"What does this mean to the country?"

"It's obvious that without sufficient power resources Congress will be unable to function anywhere near its capacity. If the power crisis continues for another few months, you may have to close down the Senate and House of Representatives three or four days a week."

"That seens drastic," I said. "Couldn't the White House plug in Congress to some of its power until the crisis is over?"

"The White House has no intention of doing this. It maintains that the health and welfare of the United States depends on the power of the President. It is essential to the national interest of the country that the President be provided with all the power he can grab. If he shared any of the power with Congress his entire Administration would be weakened and the American people would suffer."

"Are there any new technological breakthroughs in power that could alleviate the congressional shortage?"

"None in the forseeable future. One of the reasons

Supply and demand together form a strict law in the world of economics. We are finding this out in the current oil situation. The Cost of Living Council thus has reimposed mandatory price regulations for major oil compaines "to assure the American consumer an adequate supply of oil at resonable prices."

The order marks the first time the government has reimposed mandatory controls under the special rules of the Phase 3 wage-price control program, and this may perhaps serve to point up the increasing seriousness in the oil situation.

From across the nation comes news stories of critical shortages in supplies of natural gas and petroleum.

For several years, authorities in both government and industry have warned that such shortages would come unless domestic production of these fuels was encouraged.

In the Jackson, Miss., area, it is reported 43 companpies shut down for lack of natural gas which they required for heating and industrial processes. As a result, more than 40,000 people were thrown out of work.

Not only in Mississippi, but in Louisiana, Arkansas, Georgia, Minnesota, Illinois and other states across the nation, communities large and small have experience the stark reality of what it is like when supplies of heating oils and natural gas are insufficient to meet their needs.

Under the new government pricing policy, oil companies' price increases will be limited to a weighted annual average of one per cent above the base price for the year beginning Jan. 11, 1973.

The controls apply to all of the oil products of 23 oil firms which derive more than $250 million in annual revenues from the sale of items subject to the council's rules. The controls include the wholesale price of gasoline. They do not apply to retail price, although controls on the wholesale price tend to hold down the retail cost.

While the present oil supply system is facing difficulties, it is not irremedial.

Estimates indicated hat 55 per cent of the discoverable oil and 66 per cent of the discoverable natural gas within the boundaries of the U.S. remain to be found.

A good share of these potential fuel resources lie in the relatively shallow offshore waters around the U.S.

Also, the North Slope of Alasks hold tremendous potential for gas reserves. But devemopment of both of these vital areas is held up by such things are delays in leasing of federal lands and the obstructiver tactics of enviornmental groups.

The nation requires a long-range national energy policy that encourages balanced and expeditious development, with due regard for the environment, of all available domestic energy resources — oil and natural gas included.

Unless the future of the entire nation is to be blighted by the kind of energy starvation that is already striking broad areas of the country, positive action must be taken to encourage development of U.S. energy supplies.

Work of cleaning the court house building from top to bottom was begun recently and was nearing completion today. A workshop has been set up in the boiler room of the basement and from that vantage point chairs and tables used in the various offices of the building are being refinished. No office has been omitted in the general clean up and brightening process and even the walls in the corriders and offices have been washed to keep step with the other improvements.

Institutional Ownership Rises

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Whenever you hear about what "the public" is doing in the stock market, you should take note of the latest figures on institutional ownership. The public is probably an insurance company or a pension fund.

Continuing a 25-year trend, the multibillion dollar institutions raised their percentage of ownership last year and now account for nearly 30 per cent of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

But that is only the official figure. Data doesn't exist for several institutional categories, such as bank-administered personal trusts and investment-counseling organizations; so they are not included in the figure.

Neither are holdings of mutual funds not registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, foreign institutions or private hedge funds and nonbank trusts.

"Undoubtedly, the inclusion of all these groups would raise the total of all institutional holdings to, perhaps, 45 per cent of the NYSE list," the exhange conceded in releasing the percentages.

And even then, the real story isn't complete. As they grew, the institutions became more vigorous traders; and on some days, they now accont for 60 or 70 per cent of all transactions. They dominate the Big Board.

The most amazing institutional growth of all has been by the corporate pension funds, which now own 180 times more stock than in 1949, when their holdings were $500 million. At $90 billion, their holdings have doubled in five years.

In second place are mutual funds, with NYSE assets of a bit more than $50 billion, followed by insurers with $40 billion and nonprofit institutions, mainly college endowments and foundations, with just under that figure.

One conclusion to be made is this: While there are 30 million shareholders today, millions of them in the past few years seemingly prefer to invest indirectly—through institutions rather than through brokers.

One of the more serious problems facing "The Street" in comingyears is the matter of liquidity, or the ability to match buy and sell orders without incurring sharp rises or falls in prices.

While there were many millions of small, active traders, there always was a random mix of orders, and the NYSE prided itself on its ability to match buy and sell requests with only fractional price changes.

With the rise of institutions, and the speed-up of portfolio turnover, price changes in some stocks have become sharper. It is more difficult to match the huge blocks of stocks that institutions deal in.

It is partly for this reason that some of the more far-sighted members of the investment community have been trying of late to be pleasanter to small investors.

Congressman Costs $188,000 Yearly

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It costs taxpayers an average of $188,000 a year to keep a representative in Washington and pay for his office staff. Senators come somewhat higher, about $30,000 each.

Those basic costs include the $42,500 annual salary of each of the 100 senators and 438 representatives and delegates, plus staff payrolls.

Each House member is allowed about $165,000 per year to pay up to 16 employes in his Washiington and district offices.

A senator's clerical allowance varies according to the size of his state, ranging from $327,000 to $586,000 per year, with no ceiling on the number of employes but a top on the salary of his No. 1 staffer. Currently the top is $35,900 for the Senate and about $32,600 for the House.

Not all members use their total allowance. The unused balance reverts to the Treasury.

Neither do all members use all of the allowances for fringe benefits, which are not included in the average cost of keeping up a congressional office.

Basic costs in the legislative appropriation bill enacted last year included $62 million for salaries of House members' office staffs and $20.4 million for the salaries and travel allowances of members. The appropriation for senators' office staffs was $34.2 million and $4.7 million for senators' salaries and mileage.

Fringe benefits which add to the over-all cost of running Congress include:

—Franked, or free, mail for official correspondence. The estimated cost for fiscal year 1973 was $21.2 million for both branches.

—Stationery allowances of $4,250 per year per member for the purchase of office supplies at reduced rates. Not all members use this allowance. Some draw it in cash.

—Telephone and telegraph allowances amounting to the equivalent of 40,000 minutes of long-distance talking or 160,000 words of telegrams for every two years, plus unlimited long-distance calls in evening hours and all day on weekends, on leased government lines for representatives. The long-distance allowance is the same for all members, whether they live in Virginia or California.

—Travel allowances of 18 round trips home per session for House members and 45 for senators. This is in addition to foreign travel available to most members for official business, and for trips to home states or districts for staffers.

—Members are allowed free office space in federal buildings in their home states or districts, or limited rental allowances and office expenses if free space is not available. Monthly district-office rental for House members may go as high as $350 in some cases.

Life insurance, health insurance and retirement annuities are available for any member desiring them and paying part of the cost, up to eight per cent of monthly pay for the retirement program. The pensions are generous, ranging up to $36,000 a year for members of Congress who have served 32 years or more.

Congress, 32; the President, 10.

Some Nixon supporters, to be sure, backed the President. "Congress don't know if there's enough money to spend," a young auto salesman told us, "but I heard Nixon talk about it on the radio." The 69-year-old wife of a retired machinist said she prefers Presidential control because Congressmen "haggle like a bunch of old women."

Far more significant were Nixon supporters who still like and trust him but, choosing remarkably similar language, reflect the nation's inbred hostility to centralized power.

"He's only one man," (wife of a retired telegrapher). "That power is too much for one man" (a young plant guard). "There are more heads in Congress to decide these things" (a grocery store manager). "Congress is closer to the people" (an elementary school teacher).

Remarkably, all of the above line up with Mr. Nixon's conservative philosophy rather than the liberal Democrats. That these ideological concerns could be outweighed by a reverence for checks and balances and fear of one-man rule is scarcely guessed at by Mr. Nixon's aides today.

Buchwald Col. .

Congress is suffering so is that it has the most antiquated power plant in the United States . The power came from ancient Senate and House Committees which have refused to modernize their methods for 100 years. As long as there was a surplus of power, Congress did nothing to improve the system. But now that their power has been drained away, every legislator is screaming for new ways of getting back the power they've lost."

"Will the cost of power go up because of the shortage?" I asked Crunch.

"The price of power has been riding steadily for many years. The President has already warned Congress that if it wants power next year, it will have to pay dearly for it."

What would it cost Congress?"

In return for getting back some of its power, Congress will have to go along with all the President's fiscal programs, as well as his foreign policies."

"That is expensive," I said. "Isn't there enough gas up on Capitol Hill to keep its plant going?"

"Yes, gas has been one of the main sources of congressional power. But because there is no concentration of power on the Hill, most of the gas is being wasted on home consumption. If Congress could figure out some way of harnessing the gas that is manufacutred at the Capitol every day, it would have enough power to light up the city of Chicago."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market could muster only a modest gain today on the news of six Common Market countries' plan for a joint float of their currencies.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.66 to 973.89. Gaining issues clung to a 681-to-436 edge on losers in New York Stock Exchange trading after holding about a 2-to-1 advantage earlier. The trading pace was relatively light.

Analysts said the plan for the joint float, seen as a positive step against international monetary troubles, appeared to have set off some early buying. However, they said, investors appeared to be remaining hesitant pending attempts to reach a broad monetary strategy among the major non-Communist nations.

The Big Board's most-active issue was Bath Industries, down ½ at 23⅞. A 158,800-share block of the issue was traded at 23.

The so-called glamour issues ran somewhat ahead of the blue chips reflected in the Dow industrial average. IBM moved up 3½ to 443, Xerox gained 2⅝ to 164¼, and Polaroid was up 2⅝ at 132.

Died In Futile Effort To Save Children In Fire

UNION, Ky. (AP) — "The children died in their sleep. They never knew there was a fire," said Union Volunteer Fire Chief Randall Setters.

"They were all dead before we got there. That smoke and the gases went up that trilevel staircase like a chimney."

Lawrence, Hegge, 33, and his daughters, Valarie, 12; Kimberly Sue, 10; Kelly, 8, and Marcella, 2, died in the Sunday morning fire.

"My son died trying to save his children," said Elmer Hegge. "He wouldn't leave them in a house filled with smoke."

Hegge's wife, Judy, 32, escaped by jumping out the bathroom window. His first wife, Linda, 31, mother of the children, was killed two years ago in an automobile accident.

The other girls were all dead in their beds.

No Irishman

NEW YORK (UPI) —St. Patrick, Ireland's patron saint not an Irishman but a Roman citizen? He was born in 387 A.D., says Hallmark Cards' researcher Sally Hopkins, in either Wales or England when both were Roman colonies.

Legends surrounding St. Patrick's name say he founded more than 300 churches, baptized 120,000 people, rid Ireland of snakes, wrote the first Irish laws, introduced the Roman alphabet into Ireland, planted the first shamrocks there and invented "uisequebaugh" — Irish whisky.

St. Pat lived to be either 68, 72 or 104 years old, says Miss Hopkins. One thing is sure, though: March 17 was the day St. Patrick died, and on that day Irishmen of all nationalities toast his memory.

Bullet Wound In Wrecked Driver

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP)—Donald Irvin Crowson, 32, of Graham, N.C., died Sunday night of a gunshot wound in the back, according to police.

A car which Crowson was driving ran off a residential street in Graham Sunday night and struck a light pole. When an ambulance arrived to take him to a hospital, attendants discovered he had been shot.

Graham police chief Ralph Sykes speculated that Crowson was shot earlier, tried to drive for help himself, and became unconscious while driving.

Groups Appeared In Benefit Show

Greenville troupers form the Flatland Family Band and the Green Grass Cloggers teamed up for another of their benefit shows Saturday with a performance for inmates in Raleigh's Central Prison.

Dr. Michael O'Connor, one of the leaders of the local entertainment groups, spoke briefly about their first performance in a prison on Saturday night.

"This is something we've been wanting to do," O'Connor said. "We investigated and found out from officials it was possible for us to give a show there. We really had lots of fun putting on this show. I believe the imnates enjoyed it as much as we did. They certainly gave us a good response."

Six members of the Flatland Family Band and two sets of dancer, eight men and eight women, of the Green Grass Cloppers made the trip to Central Prison.

Members of these two groups have made a number of benefit appearances in recent months — at Cherry Hospital, for the March of Dimes, and the New Bern television program for the Heart Fund. Last Thursday they gave an invitational performance for the N. C. Environmental Education Information Network in Washington, N. C.

Musicians and dancers in the two groups O'Connor said, "are university faculty and students, high school students and people from the Greenville community. The Cloggers dance old English dances long danced in Appalachian North Carolina.

BIKE BEEF

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Minibike enthusiasts and other operators off off-the-road vehicles are destroying conservation efforts along its power line rights of way, says the Duke Power Co., a major utility serving both Carolinas.

On future plans for benefit performances, O'Connor said "we hope to have an opportunity to perform for inmates of the Women's Prison."

Old Bailey Is Evacuated

LONDON (AP) — The Old Bailey central criminal court, hard hit by a bomb blast last Thursday, was evacuated today after police received a warning another bomb had been planted. After an hour's search nothing was found and the alert was canceled.

A spokesman for the semi-autonimous police of the City of London had said: "We have a bomb warning and we are taking no chances."

The warning came in a telephone message to police headquarters. It said a bomb was suspected to be hidden in a car parked on the Warwick Street side of Old Bailey.

Bomb experts were dispatched to the area, on the edge of London's financial district, to make a search.

Thursday's bomb was in a parked car in front of the modern wing of Old Bailey. Nearly every window was broken on the front of the 10-story building. Glaziers were still at work replacing the glass when the second alert came.

To Discuss Nixon Plans

RALEIGH (AP) — President Nixon's proposed domestic program for the next 18 months will be discussed at meetings in Raleigh Thursday.

Gov. Jim Holshouser announced Saturday several hundred state and local officials have been invited to attend the sessions and meet with regional director of eight federal agencies.

A session for state officials will begin at 9 a.m., and one for local officials will begin at 1:30 p.m. Both meetings will be held in the Highway Building auditorium.

The governor said special revenue sharing, phasing down of certain federal programs and new legislative programs will be the chief topics.

In his letter of invitation, Holshouser said the conference will provide officials "a forum...to become better informed and discuss any problems you foresee."

Wine Boom Is Sweeping Japan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A wine boom is sweeping Japan as the eating habits of its young people are becoming westernized.

Haryuo Matsubara, executive director of the Japan Trade Center here, said Japan offers fine potential market for California wines because the nation's major wine producers have been unable to keep pace with domestic demands.

Cavaliers Stave Off ECU Rallies To Win By 7-4

DIDN'T QUITE MAKE IT . . . East Carolina University's Ron Staggs plows into Virginia's catcher Dan Bernstein as he tries to make his way to home plate. Staggs was called out at the plate in a two run rally in the fourth by EC. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Virginia saw East Carolina twice rally from two-run deficits yesterday, but finally managed to hold off the Bucs long enough to capture a 7-4 win over the Pirates.

The loss was the first of the young season for East Carolina, which downed Virginia, 5-2, in their opener on Saturday.

The Bucs made too many mistakes in this one, however. Twice they were thrown out at the plate, trying to score. And in the first inning, the choice of throwing to the wrong base eventually cost them another run.

The Bucs did hit the ball well, however, banging out 11 hits. Virginia however, came up with 14, and their more alert play enabled them to come up with the victory.

Mike Hogan was the leading hitter of the day, banging out three hits in four official trips for the Pirates, one of them a double. He was the only Pirate to have more than one hit.

Virginia, meanwhile, had three hitters to come up with a pair, Duval White, Steve Sroba and Dave Bratt.

The Pirates also got a continuing look at their pitching staff, using four during the afternoon. Glenn Forbes, who came on in relief in the ninth, was tagged with the loss, after being credited with a save on Saturday.

Harry Thomas, the third of four Virginia pitchers not the victory.

Virginia started it off with a run in the top of the first off starter Bill Godwin. With one down, Dan Bernstein got a single and moved up on Sroba's infield hit to second. Both advanced on a passed ball, but it looked like the Pirates still have a chance to get out without damage. Dave Bratt hit an easy grounder back to Godwin, who faked Bernstein back to third, but then tried to pick Sroba off second instead of going for the sure out at first. Everyone ended up safe, and John Williams followed with a fly to left, which could have been the third out, but instead was a sacrifice, scoring Bernstein.

The Cavaliers struck again in the third. Duval White led off with a sharp grounder to third that Ron Leggett made a fine play of, going to his right to backhand the ball over the bag and make a fine throw to get the runner at first. Then, with two down, Sroba singled to right and stole second. Bratt followed with a single to left scoring Sroba for a 2-0 lead.

East Carolina, after failing to threaten for the first three innings, came up with two to tie it up in the fourth. Larry Walters led off with a single to right center and Ron Staggs was cut down trying to make it all the way from first. Leggett followed with a single to right, scoring Hogan to tie it up.

Virginia loaded the bases against reliefer Russ Smith in fifth, but did no real damage, while the Bucs also had a mild threat in their half of the fame.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Bucs lost another opportunity to score. With two down and Hogan on with a hit, Jeff Beaston walked. Smith hit a grounder that the first baseman knocked down, but was unable to make a play in time to get Smith. Hogan, however, tried to come all the way, and became the second Bucs to die trying to score.

Virginia finally broke the tie in the top of the eighth. Gene Pallotta and Peter Anderson both led off with walks and Craig Wagner singled to load up. Harry Thomas hit back to short and Palotta was cut down at the plate. But White followed with a single, scoring both Anderson and Wagner for a 4-2 lead.

The Pirates bounced right back, however, tieing it with two in their half of the frame. Greg Fulghum led off with a single and moved up on a passed ball. With one down, Hogan also walked, and both advanced on a passed ball. Lyn Spears came on as a courtesy runner for Fulghum after the second out, and pinchhitter Troy Eason singled to right to score Spears. Jack Elkins got a single to deep short, scoring Hogan, but Virginia choked the rally off there at a 4-4 tie.

The Cavs then came up with three in the top of the ninth to win it. Sroba was hit by pitcher Forbes, and with one down, John Williams singled. Pallotta followed with a single to center scoring Sroba, and a hit by Anderson brought in both Williams and Pallotta, who had moved on to second on the play at the plate on Sroba.

But that put Virginia out by three, 7-4, and despite putting two on in the bottom of the ninth, the Bucs couldn't rally again.

East Carolina, hoping to beat the rain this time, goes on the road Tuesday, traveling to Durham to meet Duke in a postponed game originally set last Monday.

They return home on Saturday to open the Southern Conference season against Furman in a doubleheader.

Frische Dies At Hospital

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Frankie Frisch, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, died today of cardiac arrest at the Wilmington Medical Center.

Frisch, 74, was injured in an automobile accident Feb. 8 near Elkton, Md.

Frisch, who managed the St. Louis Cardinals' Gas House Gang of the 1930s had been in critical condition since the accident.

Frisch ended his 33-year association with the major leagues in 1951 when he resigned as manager of the Chicago Cubs. He worked several more seasons as a baseball broadcaster.

The "Fordham Flash" nickname was born when Frankie stepped off the Fordham University campus into the Giants' line-up in 1919. He never played a day in the minor leagues.

Frisch hit .316 for his career, including eight years as a New York Giant and 11 with the Cardinals. He set two major league records for second basemen, piling up 641 assists and 1,037 chances in 1927, his first year at St. Louis.

Frankie had hit no worse than .327 for five years when the Giants sent him to St. Louis in a trade of superstar second basemen. The Cardinals gave up the great Rogers Hornsby, also to become a Hall of Famer, for Frisch and a pitcher named Jimmy Ring.

Despite his brilliance as a player, Frisch gained even steeper fame as manager of St. Louis' dashing "Gas House Gang" that won the 1934 World Series in Frankie's first full season.

Frisch learned his managerial stuff under the great John McGraw with the Giants and, under his leadership, the Gas Housers became one of the most colorful teams in baseball history.

'Aged 10 Years' Groans Trevino Of Doral Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Lee Trevino sighed wearily.

"I aged 10 years on this one. So many guys got so close. I could have finished third or fourth," he said.

But, the man with the pressure-proof nerves didn't. He won, responding to a stretch challenge with a pair of birdies, and a crucial putt on the final hole.

Trevino, now winner of two tournaments in three weeks, blew a four-stroke lead before staging a dramatic rally for a one-stroke victory over Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf in the Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

The $30,000 first prize boosted Trevino's money winnings to $98,543 and vaulted him into the No. 1 money-winning spot this year, ahead of Crampton, the leader since he took consecutive titles at Phoenix and Tucson early this season.

"Yeah, I'm the leading money winner," Trevino agreed, "But I'm taking two weeks off, and I won't be when I get back."

Crampton, an Australian veteran enjoying the best season of his 17-year career on the American tour, agreed. "I'm confident I'll get it back," he said.

He came very close to retaining it. Trevino finished with a 276 total, 12-under-par on the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Crampton bolted out of the pack with a seven-under-par 65 on the final round—his card included nine threes—and tied with Weiskopf for second at 277, one stroke behind Trevino. Weiskopf holed a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a 67.

Ralph Johnston and Rod Curl, a pair of non-winning tour regulars, tied for fourth at 280, with Jerry Heard and Dave Hill another shot back at 281. Hill and Heard each got to within one stroke of Trevino at one stage of the final round before folding.

Jack Nicklaus, the 1972 champion and the pre-tourney favorite, never was in contention. He had a final round 69 for 285 and a tie and 16th place—his poorest finish of the year.

Driesell Preparing Terps To Win NCAA Regional

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Coach Lefty Driesell is preparing his Maryland basketball team for the NCAA Eastern Regional tournament convinced that the Terps' loss to unbeaten North Carolina State in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship game should not shake their confidence.

Maryland went down with colors flying, 76-74 after a tremendous struggle that belied the fact that little more than team pride was involved in the ACC title contest Saturday night.

Maryland had clinched the NCAA assignment against Syracuse Thursday night at Charlotte, N.C., simply by reaching the ACC finals. The NCAA spot normally goes to the conference champion.

However, N.C. State is ineligible because of one-year probation imposed by the NCAA for alleged basketball recruiting irregularities.

Thus, the State season ends with a 27-0 record and No. 2 national ranking. Maryland, 22-6, ranks 10th.

Providence and Penn, first round NCAA winners last Saturday, meet at 7:10 p.m. Thursday at Charlotte, with Maryland and Syracuse following two hours later. Friday is an off day. The playoffs resume with a consolation game at noon Saturday, with the regional finals at 2:10 p.m. The winner goes on to the national semifinals at St. Louis March 24.

Driesell praised the State team that has beaten his club three times this season, commenting, "State has a fine basketball team, but we came awfully close to winning the whole thing.

"This loss shouldn't hurt us a bit. In fact, it should help the players and I told them they had nothing to feel down about."

He decided to rest leaping Len Elmore, his 6-foot-9 rebounder and shot blocker, who broke a bone in his right foot two weeks earlier and kept him out of Saturday's night's game.

Driesell explained, "I would rather have Elmore ready for the NCAA tournament."

Elmore, idle for two weeks, played 27 minutes in the semifinal victory over Wake Forest Friday night, scoring 12 points and grabbing 12 rebounds.

In his absence, 6-foot-9 soph Tom Roy started and played 36 minutes, more than any other Maryland player. He scored 11 points and collected 12 rebounds.

Maryland's scoring leaders were Tom McMillen, 24 points, and freshman John Lucas, 21.

Olympian Tommy Burleson, State's 7-foot-4 junior, emerged as the choice of ACC coaches for the outstanding tournament player award. He scored 14 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, most of this work in the first half when sophomore star David Thompson went scoreless and played only 10 minutes because of three personals.

The teams were tied 32-all after a first half in which both shot below 40 per cent, but both hit over 50 per cent in the stirring last half that had the sellout crowd of 15,000 roaring.

Thompson who wound up with 10 points, his season's low, touched off a State surge that carried the Wolfpack from four points down to a 10-point lead in six minutes. He scored four baskets in that span and collected most of his 10 rebounds.

Maryland never caught up, but was always a threat. Two Thompson freethrows with nine seconds left provided insurance against a final Lucas basket.

Coach Norman Sloan of State, relieved when it was over, praised his team's season-long performance under pressure.

He noted, "It's tremendous pressure and don't let anybody tell you otherwise. I never mentioned it to the players, but I'm sure they were under pressure, too, although they never acted like they were. All season long, when we needed some pressure points, somebody came in and good them."

His season is over and Sloan can point his thoughts to next year, when the NCAA Eastern Regionals will be on the State court in Raleigh and the national finals in Greensboro.

Seniors Joe Cafferky and Rick Holdt, who played vital roles in the victory over Maryland, are the only players from the talent rich squad who won't be back.

It was the second time an N.C. State team on probation won the ACC title and the runnerup got the NCAA spot. It happened before when Duke lost to the Wolfpack in the finals, then lost by one point to Villanova in first round NCAA play in 1955.

Maryland defeated Syracuse in the Terps' December tournament finals 90-76 and last March edged the Orange 71-65 in the second round of the National Invitation Tournament at New York, won by Maryland.

Burleson Was Unanimous All-ACC Choice

GREENSBORO (AP) — N.C. State's Tommy Burleson was named most valuable player in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, winning the Everett Case Award.

The 7-foot-4 junior center also was the only unanimous choice to the all-ACC tournament team, chosen by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

The rest of the team included the championship Wolfpack's David Thompson, Maryland's Tom McMillen and John Lucas and Wake Forest's Eddie Payne.

The seoncd all-tournament team was made up of Bobby Jones of North Carolina, Jim O'Brien of Maryland, Gus Gerard and Barry Parkhill of Virginia, and Tony Byers of Wake Forest.

Norwegian Skier Wins World Cup

NAEBA, Japan (AP) — Erik Haker of Norway won the Naeba men's giant salom of the World Cup Ski series in 3 minutes 33.10 seconds Monday, 2.5 seconds ahead of Austria's Hans Hinterseer, according to unofficial times.

Italy's Gustavo Thoeni, leader in the over-all World Cup standings with 154 points, missed a gate in the first run and was out of the race.

First Fine Is Imposed On AWOL Willie Mays

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Not to be outdone by the marital headlines of New York Yankee pitchers Fritz Peterson and Mike Kekich and their respective spouses last week, one of the New York Met wives made a little news over the weekend.

Mrs. Mae Mays received an expensive visit from husband Willie while the Mets, who are looking for a center fielder anyway, put out baseball's version of an APB for the AWOL Willie.

The Yankees' official policy was hands off the Peterson-Kekich hi-jinks. Mays wasn't so lucky, and Manager Yogi Berra slapped him with a fine estimated from $500 to $1,000 after the 41-year-old superstar missed connections on a flight back from his Atherton, Calif., home to the Mets' St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp and failed to show up for a Saturday workout.

"I made a mistake," Mays admitted after Berra socked him with the first major fine of his long career at a Sunday meeting. "He made his point and he was right. When I'm wrong, I'm wrong. I should have told him."

At first, Mays said his wife wasn't feeling well. Later, he amended his story, saying, "Mostly my wife's lonesome, but she'll join me next week."

At any rate, Mays' absence Saturday had the Mets sending a search party to his apartment a few miles from St. Petersburg. Asked why he hadn't phoned when his original flight back from California was canceled, Mays shrugged:

"I should have. It sounds silly, but I didn't know the number. I could have found it out, I agree, but I thought I could be back before anybody knew I was gone."

The Mets also had their problems on the field Sunday, bowing to the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 on an 11th-inning single by Luis Melendez after they wiped out a 4-0 deficit. Three of the Cards' runs came on a homer by rookie Ray Busse.

Elsewhere, the pitchers suddenly no longer were ahead of the hitters.

Mike Schmidt drove in six runs with a triple and grand slam homer, powering the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates 'B' squad. Bill Robinson socked a two-run homer after Schmidt's grand slam in the sixth inning.

Milwaukee's George Scott also had a six-RBI game with a pair of three-run homers in the Brewers' 12-2 rout of the San Diego Padres. The Brewers also got home runs from Darrell Porter and John Vukovich.

Cliff Johnson's grand slam capped a tie-breaking five-run uprising in the ninth inning as the Houston Astros outslugged the Minnesota Twins 10-5. Doug Rader also connected for the Astros while the losers got consecutive homers in the seventh inning from Bobby Darwin and Danny Walton. In other games it was Montreal 11, Texas Rangers 2; Baltimore 10, New York Yankees 0; Detroit 13, Cincinnati 8; Los Angeles 6, Atlanta 3; Boston 6, Pittsburgh 'A' squad 1; Kansas City 4, Chicago White Sox 3; Sans Francisco 9, Cleveland 5; Cleveland 'B' team 5, Oakland 4; California Angels 8, Chicago Cubs 7.

Davenport 7th In Triple Jump At NCAA Meet

DETROIT, Mich. — Walter Davenport of East Carolina University, placed seventh in the NCAA Indoor Track Meet's triple jump competition held here over the weekend.

Davenport leaped to a new ECU school record in the competition of 51 feet, 5½ inches. Going into the final jumps, Davenport was in fifth place in the meet, but was twice passed on the final jumps.

"He did a very good job," Coach Bill Carson said. "But the competition was something else. His distance this year would have been outstanding last year, but this year had the best triple jump competition ever."

One other member of the Pirate team made the trip, Les Strayhorn, who competed in the 60-yard dash, but failed to place.

Referee Injured By Hockey Puck

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Referee Bob Sloan was struck in the eye by a puck Sunday night during a World Hockey Association game between the Houston Aeros and the Philadelphia Blazers.

He was taken to Wills Eye Hospital here where his condition was listed as serious.

The mishap occurred 1:58 into the second period.

Sets Record In Women's Jump

ROTTERDAM (AP) — Yordanka Blagueva of Bulgaria set a world record in the women's high jump Sunday with a leap of 6 feet 3⅝ inches and teamate Yordanka Yordanova established a world mark in the women's 800-meter run with a time of 2 minutes 2.65 seconds at the European Indoor Athletics Championships.

Cale Yarbrough Will Lead Pack

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP)—When the Southeastern 500 Grand National stock car race resumes here March 25, Cale Yarbrough of Timmonsville, S. C., will be right where he started the first time—out in front of the pack.

Yarborough, driving a 1973 Junior Johnson Chevrolet, was three-quarters of a lap ahead of Coo Coo Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., driving a 1972 Chevrolet, when the race was halted in the 52nd lap Sunday because of heavy rain.

Officials at Bristol International Speedway said all drivers will pick up in two weeks where they left off Sunday in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing event.

Yarborough set a qualifying record for the .533-mile track last Friday with a speed of 107.608 miles per hour, and he was averaging 104.578 mph Sunday when the race was stopped.

The caution flag went out in the 39th lap because of rain with the race only 20 minutes old, and the event was stopped 13 laps later.

Rounding out the top five when action stopped were Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N. C., in a 1973 Ford; Richard Petty of Randleman, N. C., in a 1973 Dodge; and Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., in a 1973 Chevrolet.

Cecil Gordon of Horseshoe, N. C., who won the outside pole spot Friday with a qualifying speed of 105.896 mph in a 1972 Chevrolet, had dropped back to seventh place with Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N. C., in the sixth spot in a 1973 Dodge.

Others in the top 10 when the race was postponed were Donny Allison of Hueytown, Ala., in a 1973 Chevrolet; Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., in a 1972 Chevrolet; and Lennie Pond of Petersburg, Va., in a 1973 Chevrolet.

Kathy Sharp In S&H Win

HOUSTON (AP) — S&H Green Stamps Ladies Golf Classic champion Kathy Whitworth has slammed into the 1973 LPGA tour with a finely honed racer's edge—but she doesn't expect to keep it.

"Anybody would have to be inhuman to keep this edge all year," Miss Whitworth said Sunday after picking up $20,000, the biggest paycheck of her career.

Miss Whitworth ran in three birdies on the front side for a two-under par 70 to defeat Mary Mills by two shots and capture her second tournament victory in four outings this year.

It is the fastest start ever for Miss Whitworth, who is second only to Mickey Wright for the most tournaments won on the ladies tour. And there is definite purpose behind her quick start.

"In the next month or so, we'll be playing for more than $350,000," Miss Whitworth said. "So I decided I'd better get out and shoot in a hurry."

Batted .317

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When the 1973 National League Green Book of records comes out it will show that Roberto Clemente led baseball's active hitters at the end of last season with a .317 batting average for 2,433 games. The late right fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates made 3,000 hits in 9,454 official at bats in NL games going back to 1955. In 1971, Clemente led baseball's active career hitters with .318.

Clemente lost his life New Year's Eve when a plane he chartered crashed one mile off San Juan. The plane was loaded with food and supplies for victims of the Managua, Nicaragua, earthquake. Clemente had visited Nicaragua during their amateur baseball series and in an earlier time in his career he played there in the Caribbean World Series. He was heading a Puerto Rican committee to aid the poor and homeless left behind from a quake that took about 5,000 lives.

Ruled Winner In 'Ski Flying'

Aschenbach led after Saturday's opening round with 418.5 points on leaps of 157 and 152 meters.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Dieter Victim Of Hospitality

Rev. Paul dared his plump parishioners to join him in a diet prior to Easter. He lost 20 pounds and his blood pressure dropped from 190 to 168. Knowing he was dieting, his parishioners were then not offended when he declined their pie and cake!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE W-549: Rev. Paul, aged 39, is head of a thriving parish.

"But, Dr. Crane," he began. "I am a victim of hospitality!

"For when I call on my parishioners, they invariably ask me to have a cup of coffee and a piece of pie or cake.

"And I can't resist their gracious offer, for I not only like such delicacies.

"But I also feel it might affront the housewife's culinary skill if I refused her proffered food.

"As a result, I am 40 pounds too heavy. And my blood pressure is 190.

"It is slowing me down in my coverage of the parish.

"And I am rapidly losing my erotic verve, too, so how can I diet under the circumstances?"

Dieting Challenge

Every 5 pounds of extra fat causes 3 miles of extra blood vessels to sprout.

Your heart thus must force your blood through those additional miles of "pipes" at every beat.

Since Rev. Paul is 40 pounds too fat, his faithful heart is thus compelled to move his 6 quarts of blood through 24 miles of extra blood vessels!

That's why obesity alone can raise your blood pressure, even without hardening of the arteries or cigarettes to further tax your heart!

And this additional blubber makes you more tired, so you thus drop down into a chair (often at the dining room table) to perk up via a soft drink!

A vicious circle then ensues, for the more you drink, the fatter you become.

And the fatter you become, the more often you sit down to prod your weary muscles with drinks or a snack.

Furthermore, obesity has a de-sexing effect!

You are aware that surgical castration tends to produce fat barrows, steers and capons.

But excessive fat itself likewise tends to reduce erotic urges and produce platonic marriage!

Wives, if you wish to serve far more enticing cheesecake in the boudoir, lop off the extra blubber you have accumulated around your equator since your wedding day!

Remember, too, that boudoir cheesecake doesn't add any extra calories to your own or your husband's daily quota!

So reduce your attention to fancy recipes for the dining room and learn how to improve your bedroom cheesecake!

Rev. Paul decided to go on my dehydration diet during the 6 weeks til Easter.

He lost 11 pounds the first 10 days and 9 pounds the following few weeks, making a 20-pound reduction.

Soon he perked up in his physical vigor, as well as his eroticism.

This dehydration diet requires a low fluid intake the first 10 days, coupled with special stress on protein foods, like lean meat and cottage cheese.

Your stomach shrinks within a few days so you thus feel fairly full on your 800 to 1,2000 calories per day.

And your craving shifts from food to a desire for ice water!

So send for the booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Rev. Paul challenged his plump parishioners to join him on the diet and 37 did so, contributing $2.50 to the church for every pound they shed!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K96 ♡Q9653 ◇Q972 ♣8
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	1 NT	?

What do you bid?

A.—Two spades. If you don't speak now it may become inexpedient to do so later. Partner should not play you for substantial values since you failed to double one no trump.

Q. 2 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10 ♡Q1072 ◇KJ8642 ♣75
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner's jump rebid in spades is not forcing and you have about the least that the law will tolerate for a one no trump response. If this hand will produce a game, partner would probably have been able to bid it himself.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South, the dealer, you hold:
♠9843 ♡QJ103 ◇A7 ♣AQ4
What is your opening bid?

A. — One club, a mandatory opening with 14 points. This is a prepared bid to avoid future bidding difficulties. If you open one heart and partner responds two diamonds, you will find the rebid definitely not to your taste.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ3 ♡874 ◇KJ3 ♣J1094
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—You had a substantial one no trump response and we are inclined to take one further step. However, our choice is for three hearts rather than two no trump, as partner's rebid shows an unbalanced hand probably not suited for no trump play.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1074 3 ♡Q103 ◇62 ♣52
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner was strong enough to first bid his own suit and subsequently raise yours, hope for slam should not be abandoned. Your main concern is the heart situation and overbidding the game in spades after the other suits have been mentioned will clearly ask partner to go on if he has no more than one loser in hearts.

Q. 6. — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10976 3 ♡KJ105 ◇62 ♣7
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Dble.	4 ♠	5 ♡
5 ♠	5 NT	Pass	6 ♣
Pass	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six spades. Your spade holding strongly suggests that no tricks can be taken in that suit against six clubs and partner's failure to double indicates that he has few defensive values on the side. The save should not prove too expensive.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQJ103 ♡864 ◇KQ3 ♣AQ
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. Since partner was strong enough to first bid his own suit and subsequently raise yours, hope for slam should not be abandoned. Your main concern is the heart situation and overbidding the game in spades after the other suits have been mentioned will clearly ask partner to go on if he has no more than one loser in hearts.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♡J8643 ◇AK43 ♣J1087
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—One no trump. This hand is not strong enough to bid at the two level, yet some action must be taken. The only bid available is one no trump which designates a hand ranging from 6 to 10 points in high cards. When this bid is used as response it does not necessarily promise a balanced hand.

Education Is Study Topic

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters will continue its study of public education with unit meetings on teacher certification and tenure to be held this Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles Cain will discuss the new state policy regarding certification and teacher training.

Mrs. Cecil Rand will discuss policies relating to retaining teachers.

Tuesday's meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Tacker, and Wednesday's meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Oral Parks.

These unit meetings are the second in a series of LWV programs on public education. The first, presented in February by Mrs. Guy McClanahan, dealt with financing public schools and compared Greenville and Pitt County schools with other areas in North Carolina and the nation.

Additional LWV programs on education are scheduled for April.

All interested citizens are invited to these meetings.

Scotland Yard Joins Bermuda Murder Probe

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — More Scotland Yard detectives were due in Bermuda today to join the investigation of the murder of the island's British governor and his aide-de-camp. Police said they were questioning a number of persons but had made no arrests.

Gov. Sir Richard Sharples, 57, and Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were shot shortly before midnight Saturday. Their bodies were found outside the front door of Government House, the governor's residence.

Police said they did not know how many gunmen were involved in the slayings, which occurred after a small dinner party while the men were walking Sharples' pet great Dane, Horsa. The dog also was killed.

There were no security measures in effect at the time for the 15 acre park that surrounds the residence about a mile from Hamilton. Only the usual unarmed guard was on duty at the mansion.

A state of emergency was declared immediately, giving police the power to keep suspects from leaving the island. It appeared to have virtually no effect on the thousands of tourists jamming hotels.

Nearly all sporting events were cancelled Sunday; but other activities were normal, though many persons expressed grief or shock over the killings.

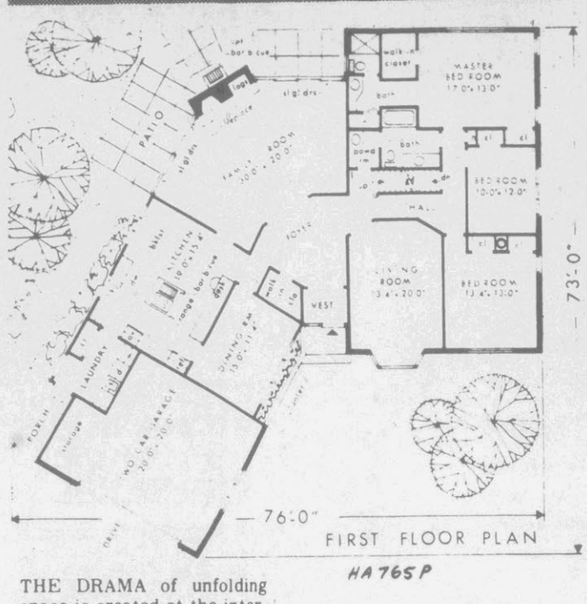

Sir Edward Richards, the government leader in the island's legislature, told a news conference he could not say if the murders were politically motivated.

Two Scotland Yard men who had investigated the murder of Bermuda's police commissioner last fall returned to the island Sunday. Det. Chief Supt. Bill Wright and Inspector Basil Hadrell had returned to Britain two weeks ago, and there has been no word of the results of their investigation into the killing of Commissioner George Duckett and the wounding of his 17-year-old daughter. They were shot during the evening outside their home six months to the day before the killing of the governor.

Officials said they had not established any link between the two incidents.

Senate Committee Nears End Of Hearings On FBI Director

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today expects to complete its hearing of public witnesses on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be FBI director. Then will come an attempt to get testimony from White House counsel John Dean.

Scheduled witnesses include Edward Scheidt of Reston, Va., an FBI agent for 22 years before his retirement in 1953; Stephen I. Schlossberg, general counsel of the United Auto Workers, and Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

The committee is expected to meet in executive session Tuesday to vote on a motion by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., to ask Dean to testify about his role in the FBI's investigation of the break-in and bugging of Democratic offices in Washington's Watergate complex.

Tunney says he believes he has the votes to invite Dean. But President Nixon has said he will not permit Dean to testify, on grounds that any discussions Dean had in the capacity of heading a White House investigation of the Watergate affair or as the President's attorney should remain confidential.

John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President for domestic affairs, said Sunday that the White House has not wavered on the Gray nomination and called Tunney's actions political.

"The same kind of John Tunney politics is being played as he played in the ITT case and I think the outcome is going to be the same," Ehrlichman said on ABC's "Issues and Answers." "Senator Tunney is going to be repudiated by the Senate the same way he was in the ITT case."

Tunney was one of the Democrats on the Judiciary Committee last year who fought for the appearance of White House adviser Peter M. Flanigan during the confirmation hearings of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general. The hearings centered on the Justice Department's actions in antitrust cases involving the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The Senate confirmed Kleindienst after Flanigan gave limited testimony.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Democratic presidential candidate last fall, said Sunday he would support efforts to subpoena Dean to testify on the Gray nomination if it should reach the floor.

"I think, if he can shed important light on the nomination, he should be subpoenaed," McGovern said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

McGovern said there is serious question about the Gray nomination.

"I think a man appointed to head the FBI ought to be totally free of political involvement," he said. "I don't see his qualifications over the years to head up this important agency, but I do want to wait until the committee has a chance to go into all the facts and then we'll make a judgment."

Navy Adds New Formula For Selecting Recruits

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — To get into the Navy these days, a recruit has to beat the odds.

The Navy recently began requiring its recruiters to use something called "Odds For Effectiveness" (OFE) tables to help judge whether a young man would make a good sailor.

Passing score is at least 69 on a scale of 100, computed from such factors as the candidate's school background, mental-test results, and police record, if any.

This approach is part of the Navy's efforts to upgrade the quality of men in its ranks, and has been spurred by a series of shipboard disorders and by congressional allegations that the Navy has been lax in discipline.

Meanwhile, the Navy has extended indefinitely a special program under which it already has weeded out nearly 3,500 troublemakers and "marginal or nonproductive performers."

The "Odds For Effectiveness" scoring is based on six years of research with about 11,000 enlistees.

"The OFE scores are the chances in 100 that an applicant, if enlisted, will render effective service—that is, complete enlistment and be recommended for re-enlistment," the Navy said.

The formula for calculating a man's score weighs (1) the number of school years he has finished, (2) any suspensions or expulsions from school, (3) his marks in the Navy's standard mental test, and (4) any non-traffic arrests.

For example, if a man reaches 155 out of a possible 220 on his entrance exam, has graduated from high school, was never suspended or expelled from class and had a clean police record, he would be graded as having 90 chances in 100 of becoming an effective sailor.

But if this man, with his entrance-test score of 155, had been suspended from school twice and arrested once, his OFE score would be 71, barely passing. And if he had been arrested twice, his score would be reduced to a below-acceptable 63.

Navy officials said a man who scores lower than the minimum 69 can still be accepted into the Navy, but only if the recruiter's commanding officer or some higher authority grants a written waiver after a re-evaluation.

While the OFE scoring is a critical hurdle, it is not the only one. A would-be sailor also must pass the personal assessment of the recruiter who considers what the Navy refers to as the "whole man."

And after the recruit reaches boot camp, the Navy puts him through additional screening, testing and a possible check for security clearances.

Snow Queen Event Ended

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — The "Queen of the Snows" beauty contest, a highlight of Dartmouth College's annual Winter Carnival, is dead at age 43.

A changing attitude toward the role of women in contemporary society and the growing lack of interest in support for such contests at the formerly all-male Ivy League school were blamed for the end of the competions.

George D. Ritcheske, chairman of the Winter Carnival Council that staged the 63rd edition this year, said prevailing attitudes, both at Dartmouth and throughout the country, indicate that contests which stress beauty as the primary or only criterion no longer have the widespread popularity or support they once enjoyed."

The Carnival Council polled leading representatives of student and social groups on campus before making its decision.

"The consensus among these groups was that the contest as it is presently set up and operated has outlived its usefulness," Ritcheske explained.

The carnival chairman added that the passing of the "Queen of Snows" beauty pageant now opens the door to some newer and more meaningful contest in the coming years.

Sponsoring 2-Day Cancer Sympposium

RALEIGH — The N.C. State Board of Health will sponsor a two-day Cancer Registry Symposium beginning March 14 at the Plantation Inn in Raleigh. Over 70 physicians and cancer registrars, hospital medical records personnel who collect and maintain data on cancer patients, are expected to attend.

The N.C. Cancer Registry is a collection of information about cancer patients — age, sex, type of cancer, location, treatment, and response to treatment. According to James S. McCormick Jr., manager of the State Board of Health cancer program, the purpose of gathering such information is to maintain a lifelong follow-up of cancer patients and to provide reports concerning diagnosis, treatment and survival of cancer patients to doctors who use the information to upgrade cancer care.

Mrs. Trula Bennett, Mrs. Pattye Brown, & Dr. Howard Gradis will represent Pitt County Memorial Hospital, one of 23 hospitals across the state which participate in the State Board of Health Cancer Registry Program. The symposium will provide cancer registrars with broader knowledge of the disease which will enable them to better translate information from patient records onto the cancer reporting form.

JAKARTA (AP) — President Suharto has dedicated a 17-story building in honor of veterans of Indonesia's 1945-49 struggle for independence from Dutch rule. The $3.6 million building was opened Sunday.

Investigating Hope Mills Fire

HOPE MILLS, N.C. (AP)— Investigation continued today into the cause of a fire which destroyed a large manufacturing plant at Hope Mills late Saturday night.

The building, constructed near the turn of the century as a textile mill, housed the Pioneer Construction Co., manufacturers of prefabricated houses, and contained some 100,000 square feet of floor space.

Cumberland County sheriff's officers said they were investigating the possibility of arson after witnesses said flames engulfed the entire building in a matter of seconds.

$48,000 Grant To Cancer Study

DETROIT (AP) — The American Cancer Society has given a $48,000 research grant to a Detroit doctor studying why the human body rejects transplants but not malignancies such as cancer.

Dr. James J. Lightbody Jr. of Children's Hospital and Wayne State University said early research indicates the body tries to attack malignancies but is stopped by an internal "blocking factor." This factor apparently does not work with transplants, thus allowing the body to reject them, he said.

Lightbody is trying to discover the "blocking factor," which he theorizes is located outside the blood system and can be turned off and on as needed.

Mid-Decade Census Set

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau is ready to push ahead in 1975 with the nation's first mid-decade sample survey of the population if Congress votes the money to pay for it.

Census officials said plans call for surveying about one million households, or about 1.5 per cent of the population, to find out how the nation changed socially and economically since the 1970 census.

The Nixon administration's fiscal 1974 budget seeks $6 million to get the process going, but the total cost of the sample survey is estimated at $45 million. The 1970 census cost $220 million.

If it comes off as expected, it will be a much-needed updating of economic and social statistics used by governments at all levels, businesses, labor unions and other segments of the population, Census officials said.

But it would be different from a full-scale census. The bureau said an estimated 15,000 representatives would seek in-depth social and economic information from each family questioned. During a complete census, most people fill out a short form seeking only basic data.

In addition, said Deputy Director Robert Hagan, "We would not contemplate making it a mandatory sample survey." During a full population count, persons who refuse to provide the information to the bureau risk prosecution.

More Charges Set In Club ABC Raids

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP)— Warrants were expected to be served on at least four persons today as a result of midnight raids Sunday on two plush clubs atop Beech Mountain.

Watauga County Sheriff Ward Carroll said an estimated $10,000 in liquor and beer was confiscated in raids on Beech Tree Inn and Valley Inn. The raids were staged simultaneously at 12:02 a.m. Sunday, he said.

The resort facilities both have bars claimed to be privately operated and open to members and guests.

Carroll said the raids came after a two-week investigation which climaxed Saturday night when two of his deputies purchased alcoholic beverages at each establishment.

The sheriff said 118 cases of beer and 1,470 bottles of liquor were siezed in searches at the two inns.

Eight warrants charging at least four persons--two from each inn-with possession for sale and with sale of intoxicating liquors were drawn Sunday in Boone. Carroll said the warrants would probably be served today.

The crackdown came after the sheriff's department learned that bars at the two inns allegedly were being operated in violation of North Carolina laws governing the possession and sale of intoxicating liquors, Carroll said.

The raids at Beech Tree and Village inns were staged at midnight to save unwitting customers at the two bars from embarassment, the sheriff said. There were few customers at the two facilities when deputies barged in, and no arrests were made on the premises at either inn, he said.

One Injured In Sunday Collision

STOKES — One person was reported injured when two cars collided here Sunday morning at the intersection of N.C. 33 and N.C. 903.

Highway Patrolman D. R. Taylor identified the drivers of the vehicles involved as Carol Ann Russell, 27, of Kinston and Samuel Hodges, 60 of Morehead City.

Trooper Taylor, who reported a passenger in the Hodges car was injured, charged Hodges with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Damage in the 10:45 a.m. collision was set at $3,000 to the Russell vehicle and $1,400 to the Hodges car.

Tuscaroras Ponder Next Demonstration Strategy

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Demonstrations by North Carolina's Tuscarora Indians paused today while leaders took time to plan their moves.

Howard Brooks of Pembroke, chief of the group seeking tribal identity as the Hatteras Tuscaroras, said Sunday afternoon, "It's difficult to get help in planning what to do here." Brooks later said he had no plans for caravans or demonstrations before Wednesday but he told his followers, "These caravans will continue, but we're going through the country into the communities, not the cities."

The Tuscaroras have staged motorized demonstrations in all incorporated towns in Robeson County since Tuesday night in a movement Brooks said is designed to accentuate their demands for a return to "the Indian way of life," including regaining controls of schools once operated by the Indians and in support of militant Sioux who took over Wounded Knee, S.D.

Brooks' Tuscaroras demonstrated peacefully Sunday in a car caravan that took them through Pembroke to St. Pauls, a demonstration in sharp contrast to caravans Thursday and Friday.

Twenty to 25 young Indians harrassed motorists on a major highway after Thursday night's demonstration, and a caravan to Rowland Friday night ended in a confrontation with law enforcement officers after six Indians were arrested for throwing fireworks at a police car.

Brooks had blamed the trouble associated with the demonstrations on drunkenness.

Sunday afternoon, while the caravan to St. Pauls was breaking up, the Highway Patrol arrested Bob Garvey, eastern executive director of the American Indian Movement (AIM), on a charge of public intoxication. Garvey was held at the Maxton jail for about six hours before his $25 bond was posted.

Maxton Police Chief R.W. Fisher said an anonymous telephone caller said, "There was a big fight going on at the Lumber River bridge involving men and women" among Indians.

Fisher said he called the Highway Patrol because the bridge was outside his jurisdiction.

Highway Patrol Sgt. G.D. Dodson declined to talk about the arrest of Garvey. When asked about the fight, he said, "No comment."

Brooks, a 45-year-old Robeson County native, said he is trained as an iron worker but has "done very little work since December." The Indian chief has had little in the way of formal education. When asked about his education, he said in an interview, "I may have stood in the door of the school once or twice."

Brooks said this was one reason why he feels so strongly that Indians in Robeson County should regain control of the Indian schools, which were lost to the public school system through integration in the last decade.

"When they took the schools, that left nothing for my people," Brooks said. "I'd rather have mother's wit than all your education."

Brooks worked for some time in Detroit with General Motors Corp., but returned to Robeson County "after I heard my people had lost their schools." In calling for the continuation of demonstrations, Brooks told his followers after Sunday's demonstration:

"The worst headache a white man can have is when he gets to the place where he can't figure out an Indian.

"This is another thing we need to work on. We need to do things secretly, in confidence, the Indian way."

He told his followers that politics could not be used under existing circumstances in Robeson County.

"We want to get big enough to put anybody in office we want, but it's much too early. We don't want to get involved in politics yet," Brooks said.

Sunday's caravan grew in size after leaving the Tuscaroras' headquarters five miles west of Pembroke.

Later, Brooks said 25 persons signed membership cards with his organization, pushing the announced membership to more than 1,000. He has set a membership goal of 4,000 by August, but the current demonstrations have involved 75 to 200 persons.

Eight Killed On Carolina Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weekend traffic accidents killed at least eight persons in North Carolina, including four pedestrians, the state Highway Patrol said today.

The fatalities raised the total roads deaths in the state this year to 271, compared with 338 during the same period last year.

Catherine Jenkins Clark, 30, of Rt. 1, Rowland, was killed Sunday when the car she was a passenger in overturned on N.C. 710 six miles north of Rowland. The patrol said the vehicle was traveling at high speed when the mishap occurred.

Daisy Bolton Lowe, 67, of Greensboro, died when she was thrown from one car under the wheels of another in a two-car collision on U.S 29 two miles north of Greensboro. The patrol said she was a passenger.

Maggie Dyer Barker, 54, of Rt. 3, Chandler, a pedestrian, was killed when she was struck by a car while walking in U.S. 19 about seven miles west of Asheville in Buncombe County.

Pearl Gainey Blackman of High Point was killed early Sunday when her car went out of control on U.S. 29 just south of Greensboro and hit construction equipment, troopers said.

Veral Thomas, 37, of Rt. 5, Morganton, died when he was struck by an unknown vehicle late Saturday as he lie in Interstate 40 about eight miles west of Morganton.

Another pedestrian, Samuel Horrell, 49, of Wilmington, was struck and killed when he walked into the path of an oncoming vehicle on U.S. 76 just east of Wilmington, the patrol said.

Dock Griffin Hoyle, 61, of Alexander Mills, was killed when he was hit by a vehicle near his home in Rutherford County.

Mattie Robertson Tilley, 27, of Walnut Cove, died when her car ran off N.C. 65 a mile east of Germantown in Stokes County and hit a tree.

The Associated Press counts weekend traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Hog farmers don't have to take anyone's word on the worth of a production practice or whether or not a specific building design is functional. They can see for themselves at the N. C. Swine Development Center near Rocky Mount.

"This is where we practice what we preach," commented Dr. Charles Stanislaw, North Carolina State University area swine specialist.

Or to use a popular phrase, this is where they "put it all together" — all the practical know-how and scientific information that's available to mass a produce pork on a profitable basis.

"Although this is a demonstrational unit, we operate it as if it were a commercial enterprise," Dr. Stanislaw said. "We have no secrets. We want farmers to come, visit the facilities, study our management program and look at our records."

The Development Center opened on the Upper Coastal Plain Research Station in 1965 as a 48-sow farrow-to-finish unit. It recently was designed and modernized and now is a 90-sow unit.

The new facilities include an air-conditioned farrowing house with crates over slats, a partially slatted air-conditioned breeding facility, a totally slatted finishing floor and a third lagoon.

Two partially slatted sow gestation houses and a second lagoon were added in 1968. The original layout included a solid-floor farrowing house and a partially slatted farrow-to-finish building, feeding floor, boar lots and breeding pens, a manure lagoon and an automated feeding system.

Referring to the most recent changes, Dr. Stanislaw commented that the new buildings were needed "to catch up with developments on individual farms around here."

He added that rapid changes have taken place in housing, particularly in the areas of environmental control and waste disposal, as the state has grown in pork production.

Hundreds of farmers tour the Rocky Mount facility annually, "shopping" for ideas to apply to their own hog operation.

The purpose of the demonstrational unit is to show a total program of recommended facilities, practices and management. To make it complete, the operation is on the NCSU electronic records program, which provides a complete set of cost and return data. This information is also made available to farmers.

Individual producers may subscribe to the same computer records program for their own hog or total farm operation.

Warren Bailey, superintendent of the Upper Coastal Plain Research Station, said farmers are welcome at the Swine Development Center any weekday. Wednesday visits are preferred, however, as that is the day Dr. Stanislaw is present to conduct tours and answer questions.

Farm Scene

Well, its time to start planting a few things in the gardens. The cabbage, tomato and pepper plant beds should be sown so that you can have the plants when you want them.

In choosing varieties of vegetables to plant, be sure to choose ones that are easy to can and freeze.

Be sure not to use too much fetilizer. Any ratio such as 5-10-10, 8-8-8, or 10-10-10 is okay to use. Approximately 50-75 lbs. of fertilizer per 1000 sq. ft. should be sufficient to produce a good garden. You may have to add a little more later on if you want to get additional pickings of beans, etc.

We have bulletins here at the office that can help you answer any questions, so please come by and get them, or call 758-1196.

TOBACCO TALK

By RAYMOND D. COLTRAIN

The tobacco beds are finally sown after all the wet weather. It's time to start looking at them everyday to check for diseases and to see if there is any scalding or fertilizer salt injury. If you see any salt injury, start throwing a little water on the bed to move some of that fertilizer on down away from the roots. The best thing to do for scald is to get some air under that cover any way you can. In case you don't think your methyl bromide isn't going to give you the weed control you want due to the wetness and cool temperatures of the soil you could use some Enide 50W. If you use this, apply it immediately after you seed the bed. This plus the methyl bromide should give you control under any conditions. You may not need to use the Enide unless the bed site is especially wet.

If you have any questions, please call me at 758-1196.

Student Donates 2 Scholarships

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A student at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock has given $500 to the school to provide two $250 scholarships for the fall semester.

Barry H. Haas—who is 25, single and a sophomore journalism major—said he saved the money from the $75 he earns each week as a waiter and his $220 a month GI Bill educational benefits.

School officials say it is the first time in their memory that a student has established a scholarship while in school.

Haas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Haas of Annandale, Va., served four years in the Air Force before enrolling at UALR in 1971. He said he hopes to continue the scholarships until he graduates.

Actor Will Make Fiji His Home

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Actor Raymond Burr says he plans to make Fiji his permanant residence in 1975. He has lived in Fiji part-time since 1966 and owns Naitauba Island about 150 miles northeast of here.

Burr, who starred in the long-running "Perry Mason" television series, told of his plans Sunday before leaving for a brief visit to the United States to prepare for a TV series he plans to film here next year.

'Living Buddha' Gains Converts

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Dalai Lama, exiled god-king of Tibet who rarely appears in public, has converted 2,000 Hindu untouchables to Buddhism.

The Indian government gave the 38-year-old living Buddha, as he is known to his followers, special permission to come here Sunday from his exile headquarters in northern India for a mass baptismal.
