ONCE THERE WAS A ROAD—Spectators peer over the edge of a new chasm where U. S. 321 once climbed toward Boone from Lenoir. A 300-foot section of the highway tumbled down the hillside during the weekend, and highway officials blame heavy rains. It will take an estimated two months and $115,000 to repair the section. U.S. Considers Extending Cease-Fire Commission

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The United States may ask that the four-party Joint Military Commission be extended in an effort to improve chances for a true cease-fire, U.S. sources disclosed today.

The commission, set up by the Jan. 27 cease-fire agreement, is due to be dissolved March 28. The sources said the United States is considering proposing an extension of the body which includes North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, as well as the United States. The South Vietnamese delegation to the military peace-keeping commission has been filled in on the American considerations.

Queries to U.S. delegation spokesmen in Saigon have brought official denials, but other informants in a position to know confirmed that the United States is considering proposing such an extension.

The proposal is expected to be put before the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations soon, the informants said.

The proposal would come at a time when President Nixon has expressed concern over reports of North Vietnamese infiltration of troops and war materials.

"The extension of the four-party commission is under consideration," said one U.S. source, "but it's really in the elementary stage. There is nothing firm. There has been some talk within our circle, but it may never come to pass."

The source said the United States feels it is possible for the four-party commission to accomplish more than it has in its peacekeeping role if given more time.

"It might be able to create a more fruitful environment for the two-party commission," said one source.

The cease-fire agreement stipulated that the four-party commission would be dissolved within 60 days after the signing of the agreement on Jan. 27. North Vietnam and the United States would pull out and a two-party commission made up of representatives of the Saigon government and the Viet Cong would take over.

Earlier a Viet Cong spokesman said efforts will be made to release the last 147 American prisoners of war by next Sunday, three days ahead of the March 28 deadline.

City Ordinance For Legal Aid Directed

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The City Council last night instructed Bill Carstarphen, City Manager, to prepare an ordinance that would provide for legal counsel, when needed, for city employees and officers.

Meeting in a special call session that was attended by only three of the six councilmen, the board authorized Carstarphen to draft the ordinance using a section of a general state statute as a guideline but wording it to apply to local needs.

Carstarphen read Section 160A-167 of the general statute which stipulates that, "Upon request made by or in behalf of any employee or officer, or former employee or officer, any city may provide for the defense of any civil or criminal action or proceeding brought against him either in his official or in his individual capacity, or both, on account of any act done or omission made, or any act allegedly done or omission allegedly made in the scope and course of his employment or duty as an employee or officer of the city..."

The section further stated, "The defense may be provided by the city by its own counsel, or by employing other counsel, or by purchasing insurance which requires that the insurer provide the defense..."

The city manager asserted that the statute "makes it permissible" for the city to provide counsel, adding that he feels it applies adequately to Greenville's situation. "In my estimation, it clearly makes it legal a city's action to provide defense upon request."

The draft to be prepared by Carstarphen will be presented during the April meeting of the council for adoptive consideration.

Councilmen also instructed Carstarphen to look into the matter of purchasing insurance, as mentioned in the statute, to cover the legal expenses.

Discussing the proposed ordinance, Councilman William Dansey said that, "I don't think there is any question of defending our employees. This (ordinance) just puts it in writing."

The question of legal authority to pay for defense attorneys arose during the March council meeting when a recommendation was made for the council to engage attorneys Louis W. Gaylord Jr. and M. E. Cavendish as counsel for defendants in the suit filed by Mrs. Mary Moore on behalf of the estate of the late Mr. Connie James. That recommendation ended in a tie-vote, pending the furnishing of a statute guideline as a definitive tool.

With the absence of councilmen Dr. Frank Fuller, Clarence Gray and John Taylor, the second agenda item concerning a possible change in the method of conducting municipal elections here was tabled until the April meeting.

The council asked Mrs. Myra Cain, chairman of the Greenville Board of Elections, to contact state elections secretary Alex Brock to find out if the time limit for adopting a new method can be extended until the 15th of April and also if the city, after adopting a method whereby the county would handle the entire elections matter, could rescind after the election and regain control.

Councilmen discussed with Mrs. Cain the options open to the city. Under one method the city would conduct its own election but use the county's registration books. Under another solution, the county could conduct the whole election and handle registration for the city at the city's expense.

Mayor Eugene West said that he favored the county handling the registration and running the municipal elections, contending that the method would result in savings to the city.

Under new state laws, the city is obligated to hire a full time registrar and to provide space for a registrar office.

Proposed Budget For City School System Presented

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A 72-page proposed draft for the 1973-74 Greenville City School budget was presented by Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood to members of the Greenville City School Board Monday night.

In this annual rite of unveiling the first round of shaping up the school budget, the proposal is set forth in two phases. The first is labeled "continuation budget" which is a hold the line estimate; the second phase is called "change budget" and includes budgeting to cover recommended extensions of current programs and new programs in school operations and capital outlay improvements.

Figures for the proposed 1973-74 budget choices show: Under the "continuation budget" $1,377,409 for current operation expense and $373,500 in capital outlay; under the "change budget" $1,568,439 in current operating expenses and $719,500 for capital outlay.

This gives a grand total under the lower of the two proposed phases a budget of $1,750,909; and under the higher of the two phases, $2,287,939.

For comparative purposes, total approved budget for the 1971-72 school year was $1,121,986.43; and for the current school year, 1972-73, the figure is $1,262,755.

Presentation of the detailed proposed budget at the March meeting does not involve any board action at this time. This initial proposal will now be studied by school board members individually, and will also be the subject of workshop meetings for the board with the first workshop scheduled for next Monday. Target date for approval of a final budget by school board members is May 1.

J. Edward Waldrop, chairman of the Athletics Study Committee for the Greenville City Schools presented a list of "firm recommendations" for consideration by the school board.

New Teachers?

RALEIGH (AP) — A legislative appropriations subcommittee gave tentative approval today to an allocation of $26 million to hire 2,079 new teachers in North Carolina to reduce the size of classes.

If approved by the full appropriations committee and the General Assembly, the program would reduce classroom size in the first three grades to not more than 26. In grades four through eight, the limit would be 33 and the high school maximum would be 35 per class.

Under the plan, high school teachers would not be allowed to teach more than 150 students a day. The subcommittee also gave tentative endorsement to the concept of teachers working 10 calendar months instead of the present 9½ months.

The classroom size agreement was outlined by Sen. Vernon White, D-Pitt. He said the classroom limits would be statutory and thus unlawful to violate. However, he said the agreement is flexible enough to provide for emergencies when a class size goes over the limit.

White said 2,079 teachers would be needed to meet the class limits. This would cost $21.5 million. He said another $4.5 million was being added to the total for contingency purposes.

School Supt. Craig Phillips, in response to questions by committee members, gave assurances that there is space enough in the public school system to accommodate the new teachers.

However, Phillips was not in complete agreement with the committee's proposal, saying he favored allowing local school systems to have more flexibility about how they would spend the $26 million.

Dr. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Educators, said he was in full agreement with the proposal.

Fuel Rationing Authority For President Has Senate's Okay

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting President Nixon standby authority to ration fuels, the Senate is considering amendments for federal rent controls and prior government approval of major wage settlements.

The provisions are part of a series offered to a bill to extend presidential wage-price-control authority for another year. Several amendments would toughen Nixon's approach to fighting inflation.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., held off floor action Monday on restoring federal rent controls in certain metropolitan areas and federal approval of large wage settlements and big corporation price hikes.

The reason was that several senators were absent and Proxmire and other advocates of tighter controls considered the absentees' votes crucial to the outcome.

Rent controls expired with Nixon's Phase 2 program in January. Only the food, health and construction industries still must win federal approval of major union-management contracts.

Meanwhile, senators were still tossing more amendments into the hopper, aiming at everything from starting work on the Alaska pipeline to freezing food prices.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., sought to eliminate from the bill Monday two amendments approved by the Banking Committee and another to override the White House's Cost of Living Council decision on bread prices.

Tower won 43 to 35 on stripping from the bill a committee amendment by Sen. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, which would have required public disclosure of big-business price information submitted to justify a price-hike request.

Hathaway said publicity would help hold down prices. Tower said publicity would give away trade secrets and harm corporate competitive positions.

Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., had secured committee approval of presidential authority to ration any fuel if shortages were found.

Some senators considered this as working against big oil companies and in favor of independent producers and dealers. Tower's amendment to strip McIntyre's provision from the bill failed 50 to 30.

In a third amendment Tower moved to allow bakers to pass on the skyrocketing price of wheat to consumers, a move rejected by the Cost of Living Council, which said the proposal would hike the price of a loaf 10 per cent.

Since food-processing is still regulated under Phase 3, small bakers have had to absorb the cost and some 200 companies are running in the red, Tower said.

Sens. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said the big baking companies are absorbing the higher farm costs of wheat to put pressure on the small companies.

However, they said, there was no assurance Tower's amendment would require the big companies to pass on the higher costs to bread-buyers, so the small companies would still be squeezed.

Tower's amendment was tabled on a motion by Weicker, 53 to 26.

It's Too Early

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina University chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins said today that it is too early to decide whether or not to enter the race for North Carolina Governor in 1976.

Jenkins' statement followed comments from former speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives Clifton Blue—an Aberdeen newspaper publisher and editor—who said Jenkins "is being talked about as a possible candidate."

Jenkins said this morning, "I am flattered that...Blue regards me as a worthy candidate for governor of this state."

"Coming from a man who has long served North Carolina, the comment is doubly appreciated. Coming from a man who is certainly qualified for the job himself, the suggestion will not be taken lightly by me."

"But," the ECU official emphasized, "today is not the time for me to make a yes or no response. It is too early for any person to make final decisions about actions to be taken in the next three to four years."

According to Jenkins, "it is time, however, for every American to declare that he will do his best to serve if he is called upon by his fellow man..."

And, he noted, "I will most certainly continue to think about this suggestion in the months to come."

Blue hinted that the outcome of the bid by East Carolina University to gain a four-year medical school could influence Jenkins' decision.

At Least Three Bodies Found Off N.C. Coast

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Coast Guard investigators were continuing their probe today of the discovery of at least three bodies off the North Carolina coast some 60 miles southeast of Cape Henry, Va.

The bodies were pulled up by fishing trawlers last Thursday.

Capt. Robert Mercer, operator of the God's Mercy of Hampton, Va., said Monday his vessel briefly recovered the body of a man in its flounder fishing nets.

Mercer said the decomposed man's body was in the "wing of a net" being used to bottom fish for flounder but that it fell out before it could be taken aboard.

"I looked right at him," Mercer said. "He had on a white shirt and a pair of tan looking pants, but no shoes."

Another trawler, the Nancy of Belle Haven, N.C., took an unclad man's body onto its deck, Mercer said, but that it had to dump the body. He said another trawler also recovered a body last Thursday and that there were reports of trawlers retrieving "limbs" of bodies in the same general area.

The Coast Guard said the bodies were probably dumped because of sanitation reasons.

Coast Guard Capt. William G. Roden, who is heading the investigation, said his office was "trying to tie it (the bodies) in with cases in the past."

"Right off hand, I don't know of any vessel missing that could account for the bodies," he said.

"It is not usual to find so many bodies in one place and it certainly is indicative of the loss of a vessel somewhere in the area," Roden added.

Mercer, whose vessel berthed at a pier in Hampton Monday, said he had tried to reach the Coast Guard by radio immediately after the discovery, but was not able to get through until Sunday.

Investigators, after talking to trawlermen, said one body was pulled up from water "one mile deep."

Morehead Scholarship For North Pitt Senior

James A. Nelson Jr., a senior at North Pitt High School, has been awarded a John Motley Morehead Scholarship to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Nelson, ranking sixth in a class of 210 at North Pitt, was selected on the basis of his scholastic ability and attainments, evidence of moral force of character and of capacities to lead and to take interest in his school mates, and his physical vigor, as shown by participation in competitive sports or in other ways.

His extracurricular activities include: membership in the National Honor Society, Monogram Club, past president of the Teen Democrats Club, and is presently serving as district chairman of the State Democratic Club.

He also participates in such sports as varsity baseball, cross-country, football and wrestling. He was selected for all-county and all-conference honors in track.

His hobbies include running, swimming and tennis. Active in community services, Nelson has worked with the Heart Fund, United Fund and Boy Scouts. He is very active in his church where he serves as a Sunday School teacher and is a member of the church advisory board.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Nelson Sr., Nelson plans to major in psychiatry at UNC-CH. The grant for each college year is valued at $2,250 which includes tuition, board, room, laundry, books, all student fees and approximately $450 for incidentals. The grant may be renewable for four years of study but all grants are made in advance for one semester only and may be renewed from semester to semester.

Financial need is not considered in the selection of Morehead Scholars. A scholarship may be cancelled immediately upon marriage of conduct that is contrary to the standards of the Morehead Program.

"I feel the encouragement of my family, friends and faith, combined with a stimulating environment and proper tools, helped me qualify for the award," Nelson said. "My family life provides a spirit of honest competition and the knowledge that traveling to 38 states and two foreign countries can offer."

Nelson said the hope of becoming a Morehead Scholar was originated by several teachers and counselors at North Pitt.

"They instilled in my a desire to compete and the realization

Anti-Cigarette Action Spreads

LONDON (AP) — Medical criticism of cigarette smoking has led several nations in the last two years to join the United States in requiring health-hazard warnings for tobacco products.

An AP survey shows that Great Britain, Canada, Japan, Mexico and Australia have adopted warnings similar to the one carried on U.S. cigarette packages:

"Warning: The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health." The surgeon general's report was issued in 1964. A warning on cigarette packages became mandatory Jan. 1, 1966.

Norway has banned all advertising of tobacco products. Less restrictive measures on tobacco advertising have been taken elsewhere.

But as in the United States where smokers purchased a record 547.2 billion cigarettes in 1971, the regulations do not seem to be changing many minds.

Cigarette smoking is increasing in Britain, where the warnings became effective two years ago, and in Canada and Japan where the warnings were adopted last year.

Mexico, Norway and Australia only recently have taken anti-smoking measures.

Pending legislation in Israel, which collects $50 million annually in cigarette taxes, would require warnings on cigarette packs. But the government has not indicated if it will support the bill.

The government decrees in Japan and Mexico could be costly if the warnings prove convincing. Both countries have direct roles in the marketing of cigarettes.

In Japan, the warning is: "For health's sake, be careful about over-smoking."

The message appears on packs of all cigarettes from the Japan Monopoly Bureau, a government corporation which controls cigarette production and marketing except for retail sales.

In Mexico, a new health code requires that packs carry this message: "Can be damaging to the health."

The Mexican government participates in the tobacco industry through Tabames, a state-controlled company formed last year to plan and finance production and other areas of the tobacco business.

Britain, which gets a big chunk in taxes from cigarette sales, spends about $600,000 a year for anti-smoking advertising.

A recent television ad shows a dinner party and depicts the girls there as disgusted by a man "whose breath smells like an ashtray."

The British warning on cigarette packs is: "Warning by H.M. government: Smoking can damage your health."

"H.M." means "Her Majesty's."

Canada, which collects more than $600 million a year in excise and wholesale taxes on tobacco, has budgeted $386,000 for anti-smoking efforts.

The message on packs of Canadian cigarettes says: "The Department of National Health and Welfare advises that danger to health increases with amount smoked."

POW Returnee Is In A Hurry

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. Dennis Moore says he feels "like the guy who said he was a 33 (r.p.m.) record trying to go at 78 speed—there's so much catching up to do."

The 34-year-old bachelor, back from 7½ years as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam, has been busy—flying a friend's Cessna 180 ... dancing in a high-rise cocktail lounge ... eating orange duck in a French restaurant.

And reading—Alvin Toffler's 1970 novel, "Future Shock," in which the words "overwhelmed by change" stood out vividly in the 561-page paperback that Moore chose for his first literature since being freed.

Life has become increasingly crowded since Moore returned Feb. 15.

When his F7 Crusader was shot down Oct. 27, 1965, he was flying at 20,000 feet northwest of Hanoi on his 15th mission over North Vietnam.

He recalls that while parachuting to earth he looked at his watch. It was 1:12 p.m. Moore landed in 10 feet of water in an irrigation ditch.

North Vietnamese villagers surrounded him. They stared at each other until "someone dragged me out, tied my hands rather loosely and took me to a military detachment at the village."

A tape recorder left by the debriefing officer assigned to Moore sits by his bed in San Diego Naval Hospital. A map of Hanoi is tucked behind it.

There have been 15 sessions, lasting up to two hours each.

"There are times during the debriefings when I have a blank spot," Moore said in an interview Monday. "I can't remember certain exact details of what happened in North Vietnam. But when it's all pieced together and everybody has had a chance to tell what they know, a pretty good picture of those years should emerge."

The son of a retired Navy aviator now living in Scottsdale, Ariz., Moore lists Littleton, Colo., as his home of record.

After his release, he received a telegram saying, "Since I was the last girl you went out with before you were shot down, I'd like to be the first to go out with you now that you're back."

Moore says he took Bobbie Ensign out, but he says neither was sure what to talk about.

"I'm still trying to find out what I am, trying to adjust to this lifestyle—and I don't even know what lifestyle this is," Moore said.

Air Fares To See Increase

LONDON (AP) — Transatlantic air travelers not only won't get the greatly reduced fares some airlines tried to offer them this summer, they're going to have to pay more to compensate the lines for the devaluation of the dollar.

The airlines' price-fixing cartel, the International Air Transport Association, agreed Monday that, starting April 15, fares on the North Atlantic run will rise an average of six per cent in the United States and Canada, eight per cent in Britain, and 10 per cent in the rest of Europe. Subject to currency adjustments, they will be maintained until the end of the year.

This means the cheapest scheduled round-trip fare from New York to London — the 22- to 45-day excursion rate — will rise from $313 to $332 in peak summer months and from $240 to $255 in the off season.

The association met for a week, and European members urged agreement on a new schedule of reduced fares to lure back travelers from low-cost charter operators. The plan, called Advanced Purchase Excursion rate, failed because of U.S. opposition, sources said.

Tony Boyle Under Guard

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Ousted United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle was under heavy guard at a local hotel today before his scheduled appearance as the first defense witness in the trial of William Prater, charged in the Yablonski murders.

Boyle flew here from Washington, D.C., Monday night and was whisked from the Erie International Airport in a car driven by a sheriff's deputy.

The prosecution was expected to rest its case today, the ninth day of testimony.

Prater is among seven persons who were charged in the 1969 killings of UMW insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

The killings occurred three weeks after Boyle defeated Yablonski in a bitter election for the union presidency. The government claims Boyle personally approved transfer of $20,000 to a special UMW fund which allegedly financed the killings.

However, the prosecution never has contended publicly that Boyle was linked directly to the killings, and Boyle steadfastly has denied any connection.

Boyle was ousted by Arnold Miller in a recent court-ordered rerun of the 1969 election. A suit brought initially by Yablonski ultimately resulted in the overthrow.

Dollar Falls Back Again In World Money Markets

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar fell in major world money markets today, erasing most of the gains it scored Monday in the first test of the new floating system of international exchange rates.

The dollar closed in Tokyo at 263 yen, down from 264.90 at Monday's closing. This was well above the rate of 260.50 yen in bank-to-bank trading on Friday.

In Frankfurt, however, the dollar dropped to 2.816 marks at the opening of the market, below both Monday's closing of 2.8275 and Friday's 2.82.

The U.S. currency also was down in early trading in London, Paris and Brussels. The drop in the dollar surprised dealers, who had expected the dollar to be helped on foreign markets by the announcement Monday that several major U.S. banks were raising their prime lending rate.

Trading was active in Frankfurt at the opening of the market but quiet in other European markets.

The Milan foreign exchange market reopened today for the first time in more than two weeks and followed the pattern of the money markets that opened Monday. The dollar rose at the outset, climbing to 567 lire from 562 lire on March 1, before the market closed.

But in Madrid, where the market reopened for the first time since March 5, the rate was unchanged at 58.02 pesetas.

Dealers in Paris attributed the dollar's general slide to market forces bringing the dollar to its "correct" value based on supply and demand. They said the U.S. currency rose Monday at the outset because the markets, by being closed for two weeks, had created an artificial demand. Once that was satisfied, more normal trading returned.

Institute Explores The Effects Of Environmental Learning In Children

By DAVID A. LAWSKY
SEATTLE, Wash (UPI) — Some children who don't listen in school may have spent their infancy falling asleep to soap operas, the six o'clock news and Johnny Carson.

But it wasn't sad stories, bad news or tired jokes that turned them off. What happened, theorizes Dr. Kathryn Barnard, was that as infants they learned to block out a bombardment of sound so they could fall asleep. As children, they never quite tuned back in.

The process is only one of dozens Dr. Barnard is exploring for the National Institute of Health's Division of Nursing, to find out how environmental differences affect learning.

So far, preliminary work shows environmental differences are so important in learning that children from some environments do worse in school than even brain-damaged children.

Nonetheless, although scales exist for measuring what babies can do, there is no standardized measure for infant environment.

So Dr. Barnard set out to develop one. She knew that the children of poorly educated parents usually did poorly in school, while children of highly educated parents usually did well there. And highly educated parents were generally also the ones with the money.

Such broad indicators told her little about how parents raised their babies. To find out more about the specifics of baby learning, she decided to videotape mothers with their babies.

Videotaping Teaching

Borrowing her approach from research done over the last 10 years, Dr. Barnard asked mothers to teach their babies tasks just beyond the children's achievement levels. Each lesson was recorded behind a one-way mirror.

The mothers knew they were being taped, but the mirror prevented intrusions by technicians and equipment on mothers and children.

The researchers studied the tapes with great care, sometimes spending up to eight hours viewing and re-viewing a single segment.

But all work since the study started in July, 1971, has been preliminary to the major understanding that begins this spring. Dr. Barnard and her associates will follow 200 children from birth until at least the age of six.

Dr. Barnard will attempt to predict how each of the 200 infants will do as school children.

Dr. Barnard believes from her work so far that "we can find out more from listening to parents than by examining a child. Parents know if their children have a problem."

Listening to parents is exactly what Dr. Barnard's team plans to do, but as a control the babies will also be given development tests and be examined by a pediatrician. Dr. Barnard believes she'll be able to catch problems like mental retardation long before the pediatrician finds them.

Parents Notice Babies

For example, it would not be a doctor but a parent who notices that a baby prefers to learn by tasting and touching instead of by seeing and hearing. If questions catch that tendency, parents can be warned that trouble may lie ahead, because school learning of course depends on what a child sees and hears.

It's important to catch such tendencies young because, according to French child specialist Jean Piaget, a child learns the process of taking in information by the age of two.

If the study confirms Dr. Barnard's work so far, she'll compile her questions into a scale for parents. The parenting scale will reveal any problems the baby might have and pinpoint environmental problems.

Someone has to interpret the scale to parents once it's given, and Dr. Barnard believes that someone should be a nurse.

"Nurses are concerned with the nitty gritty problems," said Dr. Barnard, herself a professor of nursing at the University of Washington. "What other professional is concerned with teaching a mother how to bathe her baby?"

Should nurses be chosen to explain the parenting scale, they can expect an expanding role. Dr. Barnard believes the scale will become more and more important as the emphasis on health care continues to shift from treating illness to health maintenance and preventive care.

Couple Should Make Wedding Decision

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 years old and have a 4-month-old baby. My baby's father and I love each other and now we want to get married.

My mother says we should go to the courthouse and get married and then have a small reception for just our closest friends afterward. She says with all the talk already, she would just as soon not have to see any of her relatives.

My boy friend's mother says she wants a nice church wedding with friends and relatives. She says people are going to talk anyway.

I really don't know what to do Abby. I hate to hurt my mother's feelings. And I don't want to disappoint my boy friend's mother either. So will you please tell me what to do? UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: You've told me what your mother wants. And also what your fiancé's mother wants. But it's your wedding, and your fiancé's. What do YOU TWO want? When you agree on that, you'll have your answer.

DEAR ABBY: After 18 years of wedded bliss, my wife and I agree that youth is wasted on the young. When it comes to romance, the young lovers could learn a lot from us old lovers in our 40s and 50s.

However, we do have one problem. Timing. My wife doesn't care for romance in the morning because she has to get up and get three school-age kids breakfast and consequently she keeps one eye on the clock.

On the other hand, I am a commercial pilot, and after a day's work I'm pretty well exhausted and I don't care for romance at night.

My flying schedule permits me to be home during lunch time occasionally, but that's no help because two of the kids come home for lunch.

Any suggestions? EL CAPITAN

DEAR CAP: Compromise and set your alarm for 3 a. m. Or else when you're home for lunch, treat the kids to lunch out, and treat yourself to lunch at home.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "ONE IN SEVEN" attempted to justify large families for those who can "afford" them. I offer some economic facts.

It costs approximately $800 per year to educate one child, which adds up to $67,200 for seven children. If the parents actually paid this sum over a 24-year period, and if they lived in this area, they should be living in a $203,600 house and pay $5,600 in property taxes, half of which would be school taxes. They should have a minimum annual income of $50,900!

How many seven-children families do you know in this bracket? So who is paying for them? The childless, single, and retired people are—thru their taxes! And I for one am fed up with unfair taxes. MRS. A. P. IN BREA, CAL.

ROAST CAPON WITH CORNBREAD STUFFING — Some of the dressing is used in the bird, the rest is baked in a casserole.

Stuff Capon With Cornbread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you want an unusually good cornbread stuffing for a capon, we heartily recommend the following recipe. Some of the dressing is stuffed into the body and neck cavities of the bird and the rest is baked in a casserole. Lots of stuffing for everybody! And the casserole stuffing tastes just as good as that in the bird.

STUFFED CAPON

1 pan corn bread, crumbled (see below)

2 cups herb-seasoned croutons, from a 7-ounce package

2 cups chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
1-3rd cup butter
2 cups diced pared apples
1/2 cup raisins
1 1/2 cups clear chicken broth, from a 13 3/4-ounce can
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 teaspoon sage
1/4 teaspoon pepper
5 to 8 pound capon, thawed if frozen

In a large mixing bowl mix corn bread and croutons. Sauté celery and onion in butter; add to breads along with remaining ingredients for stuffing, tossing lightly to combine. Lightly stuff some of the stuffing into body and neck cavities of capon. Skewer cavities closed. Tie legs together or slip into band of skin. Bake breast side up on rack in shallow roasting pan in a preheated 325-degree oven to an internal temperature of 185 degrees, basting occasionally with drippings in pan or with melted butter — 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours for a 5 to 6 1/2 pound bird or 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 hours for a 6 1/2 to 8 pound bird. Bake remaining stuffing in covered 1 1/2-quart casserole in preheated 325-degree oven about 35 minutes. Uncover and bake an additional 10 minutes. Time the baking of this casserole so it is ready when the capon is done.

CORNBREAD

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together 1 cup enriched cornmeal, 1/2 cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add 1 cup milk, 1 slightly beaten egg and 2 tablespoons butter (melted), stirring to combine. Pour into greased 8-inch square cake pan. Bake in preheated 400-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes; cool.

What Information Should Be Printed On Food Labels?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family News Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — What kind of information should appear on the labels of products bought in food stores? The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has proposed telling the consumer the percentage of the recommended daily allowance (RDA) for an adult contained in the various constituents of the food product. Also listed would be nutrition information about the amounts of calories, protein, fat and carbohydrates.

However, Dr. Paul Lachance, professor of nutritional physiology at Rutgers University, contends that the average consumer cannot understand what this information means when she or he shops for food.

He made that point to the editors of the Sciences, journal of the New York Academy of Sciences.

In the article titled "Food for Thought," he said if the information on the label were related to individual meals rather than food intake per day, it might be useful to the housewife—or househusband or houseperson, as the Women's Movement likes to designate the keeper of the homefront.

Another point about all the information proposed for labels: a shopper will have to take a magnifying glass on food-fetching excursions. To get all the information on the teeny-tiniest print will need to be used. Not too many adults can read that without help via magnification.

Putting so much information on a label may further clog aisles of supermarkets with parked carts—as shoppers take time to read and digest the consumer information on the bottle or can or plastic tube or box.

There's another problem: how, oh, how will nutritional information be fixed to apples, bananas, tomatoes, potatoes, peaches, radishes, celery and such?

What about fixing same to meat packages?

As for the professor's contention that we're slightly incapable of understanding nutritional information, give yourself a test. Define vitamin. Tell the meaning of calorie. Then look meanings up in a dictionary.

If you were wrong, you're a nutritional dunce.

Mrs. Davenport Gives Program

Mrs. Paul Davenport was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Grass Roots Garden Club held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Amos Evans.

Mrs. Davenport did several arrangements with spring flowers. She explained balance, unity and form in floral displays. She also explained how to condition cut flowers before arranging them and to select containers to be used in individual homes. "You should always choose an arrangement that will go with the decor of your home," she said.

Mrs. Barbara Zickerman was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Ellen Clark, Mrs. Christine Beatty, Mrs. Iva Gardner, and Mrs. Pat Evans were guests. In April, club members will have a spring garden tour at the Coastal Growers Nursery, followed by a luncheon and the installation of new officers.

Not Everybody Can Give Blood

The concience and value of the Red Cross Blood Bank really begins to be appreciated if you've ever tried to line up just five donor pledges for a forthcoming visit.

The number of people who have had malaria, or hepatitis, or are taking an antibiotic, or have a bad cold (they're discouraged from giving blood), is dismaying. Then one encounters people who gave the last time the blood bank was here.

Some just don't want to make any kind of promise in advance, because they never know what could happen in the intervening time. You are apt to find one or two who apparently need more blood that they have at present; and somewhere in the crowd you may find one who had an unpleasant aftereffect, and doesn't want to take any chance on its happening again.

It makes you wonder: What if there was no blood bank, and your wife or son needed a half-gallon of blood right now...or probably die? Where would you turn? Who among your family and friends can give blood? Who has the right type? It makes you think.

The bloodmobile will be in Greenville March 22 and 23.

Politics Enters A Celebration

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Politicizing the American Revolution Bicentennial in North Carolina has begun with the dismissal of the executive director of the commission planning the observance.

Richard F. Gibbs, who led the Tar Heel group to wide acclaim among the states for its concept of celebration for the nation's founding, has been removed by Gov. Jim Holshouser.

As his replacement, Holshouser has named Mrs. Dabney Enderle of Raleigh, who was scheduling secretary in his campaign for governor.

Gibbs' departure satisfied the national bicentennial commission in Washington, which wished to still the voice of a persistent critic of President Nixon's administration in the field of bicentennial planning.

It raises the possibility that politics may take precedence over patriotism as the bicentennial theme.

Political intrusion in the commission's operation, Gibbs said, "would be the most unfortunate thing in the world. It could scuttle the work of four years."

The state bicentennial commission, formed by the 1967 legislature, is composed of 13 ex-officio members and 10 appointed by the governor. Historians from public and private universities and state officials in education and history are among the ex-officio membership.

Commission Not Consulted

Gov. Holshouser bypassed the commission and its chairman, Hector McLean of Lumberton, in replacing Gibbs. The word was passed by Secretary Grace Rohrer of the Art, Culture and History department. Efforts by McLean, a banker and former Democratic state senator, to consult the governor were futile. An aide confirmed the decision was irreversible.

The commission is a small potato in the patronage field. Its annual budget of around $50,000 comes from the contingency and emergency fund, controlled by the governor and Council of State. Gibbs received a salary in the $15,000 range.

Still, the staff position is the key role in setting the tone for bicentennial events.

The quality of his work and that of the bicentennial program was not questioned. Gibbs said in answer to an inquiry, "I was informed that the National Bicentennial Commission had requested my replacement by the governor," he replied.

"They felt the North Carolina bicentennial would be better off without one of the foremost critics of the national program — or lack of program."

Critical Chorus

Gibbs' voice has been one in a chorus, frequently echoed in the halls of Congress, that the national commission is inefficient, uncooperative with the states, and lacking in a meaningful approach to the bicentennial.

The barrage has been non-partisan. In fact, a leader in firing at federal involvement has been U. S. Sen. Charles Mathias, Maryland Republican and sponsor of the 1966 legislation creating the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. The bicentennial, Mathias insisted, "is not just a time for a party. It's a time for national assessment of where we are and where we want to go."

Critics have charged that the federal staff has become a haven for political types from Nixon campaigns and that it has in mind nothing more than an ego trip for the President in the celebration which climaxes in 1976 during his term of office.

Gibbs, a Charlotte native, interrupted studies towards a doctorate in history at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill to become executive director of the state commission.

Recovering Founding Fervor

He has been the architect for "American Revolution II," the format developed to call Tar Heels to rekindle the spirit of early patriots as they move to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. It views the observance in time phases, taking in the whole founding experience, rather than a single historic event.

The salient feature is the setting and accomplishment of goals at the state and local level. The Council on State Goals and Policy has approved the approach as an adjunct to its own role. Several cities have initiated the formulation of community goals, Gibbs reported.

The Tar Heel plan has been widely praised and cited, in Congress and elsewhere, as a model for other states to follow. The American Bicentennial Newsletter, a private publication, described it as "conceptually...the most advanced in the nation up to now."

The first major event on the bicentennial calendar is the

An Overdue Stop For Helping Handicapped

It must be a source of joy to those who are handicapped that some effort is at long last being exerted to make buildings more accessible to them.

The N. C. Building Code Council has adopted new rules which will see that public buildings are designed to accommodate the handicapped.

The rules will apply to stores, jails, hospitals, schools, theaters, airports, motels, stadiums and apartment complexes.

Many such buildings are already being designed with the handicapped in mind and no doubt these new rules will accelerate the process. It will be a blessing to the handicapped.

Seventh Fleet Back To Scene?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Despite caution in the State Department, President Nixon is now preparing secret order for a return to North Vietnamese waters of the full Seventh Fleet complement of aircraft carriers as a hard warning to Hanoi to stop infiltration of the South.

That is the most dramatic step now under top-level consideration here to impress on Hanoi the gravit with which President Nixon views continuing movement of troops and arms from North Vietnam in direct violation of the Jan. 27 peace agreement.

Some experts in the State Department worry that U. S. threats of new bombing attacks on North Vietnam before all American prisoners of war have been released risks reprisal from Hanoi. The reprisal: holding up the release of the last batch of POWs (all of whom must be freed, under terms of the Jan. 27 agreement, by March 29). The U. S. military disagrees with the State Department, believing that bombing retaliation before all the POWs are released would be effective in demonstrating to Hanoi the President's determination.

Returning a full complement of carriers to the Gulf of Tonkin would be the President's unmistakable warning that, if infiltration does not stop, bombing of North Vietnam will almost certainly resume—and, as now being pressed Pentagon strategists, resumed with far more ferocity than even last December's B-52 raids.

In January, the U. S. had four carriers on regular duty in waters off North Vietnam. Today, there is only one with aircraft flying occasional reconnaissance missions. The second carrier is helping clear Haiphong harbor of American mines. The third and fourth carriers are in Japan and the Philippines respectively, days away from possible action over North Vietnam.

The fact that Republican national chairman George Bush named White House-favored political operative Ken Rietz to a key staff job for the 1974 campaign after a conversation with H. R. (Bob) Haldeman, major domo of the White House palace guard, has deeply disturbed many Republican leaders.

Bush did not deny the talk with Haldeman but told us that naming Rietz as director of the New Majority Campaign for 1974 was his own idea, concurred in at the White House. Throughout the party, however, leaders believe that Bush was instructed by Haldeman to make the appointment.

The appointment March 5 of Rietz, a 31-year-old protege of Sen. William Brock of Tennessee who ran the Youth-for-Nixon campaign last year, did not go over well originally with state chairmen who view him as an agent promoting Brock's presidential ambitions. But when they learned of the Haldeman-Bush conversation, they were even less happy—contending the White House staff should not run the Republican party.

Clarke Reed of Mississippi, one of the most senior and most influential of that state chairmen, who defended both Bush and the Rietz appointment in conversations with his colleagues. Reed does not deny White House influence in Rietz's appointment but argues Mr. Nixon has every right to participate in his party's affairs.

CDM's Troubles

The new Coalition for a Democratic Majority (CDM), trying to drive the Democratic party back toward the center, has suffered two quiet setbacks.

Setback No. 1 is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's refusal to become national honorary co-chairman (with Sen. Henry M. Jackson) of CDM. In a meeting with CDM leaders, Humphrey delayed a decision. However, although he supports the CDM and offered to participate in a scheduled issues conference, friends say Humphrey feels it would be inappropriate for the party's 1968 presidential nominee to chairman of such a group.

Setback No. 2, while involving a less prestigious name, is more damaging to

Prediction Is Foolish

WASHINGTON — Those who suggest that either Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or John Connally of Texas has the Republican presidential nomination for 1976 locked up have conveniently short memories.

They seem to have forgotten, for instance, that it was the conventional wisdom from late 1968 until early 1972 that the front-runner for the 1972 Democratic nomination was Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota given an outside chance to head him off at the pass.

It can be argued that a special set of circumstances

— Muskie tears in New Hampshire, the quota-mad rigging of the Democratic National Convention, the failure of Humphrey to project a new and credible image — made possible Sen. George McGovern's short-lived victory at Miami Beach. But the circumstances surrounding the race for a presidential nomination always are special, at least in the sense that they cannot be predicted much before they arise. No one can say, for instance, what the state of the world or the mood of the nation will be in 1976.

The zeitgeist, the spirit of the times, may call for a conservative like Connally, for a more moderate conservative like Agnew or for a moderate like Sen. Charles H. Percy. And even though conditions specify the likely political coloration of the successful candidate, hard work and good luck may bring the nomination to someone other than the leading contender within that bracket.

As one wit quipped recently, the nomination "may go to someone at present totally faceless and anonymous, like a member of the Cabinet."

Having said all this, it is true that at this point in time, Agnew and Connally appear to be the leading contenders for the Republican nomination in 1976. Yet both suffer from disabilities which, if not crippling, are at least serious.

Agnew's deficiency is primarily one of the lack of a large electoral base, coupled with an image problem. He comes from a small state (Maryland), the governorship of which he won only because his Democratic opponent was crypto-racist with an unmatched record for losing elections.

His assigned role as the cutting-edge of the first Nixon administration has earned Agnew the enmity of much of the press, which has portrayed him alternately (and equally inaccurately) as a neo-fascist or a boob. While this has won him the admiration of the right wing of the Republican party, it has alienated many moderate Republicans and independents.

Castle Of The Mind

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the mind's castle.

If each remembrance a person has counts as a room, then memory has ten times more rooms than any palace ever built by human hands. It dwarfs Versailles, the Louvre, the Vatican. It is more complex and holds greater treasures than all of them together.

Yet each man that lives has one of these castles in his head, and the memories therein he visits and revisits as long as he has breath. No other place refreshes him more or is so important to his well-being.

Your own castle of memory is pretty thronged if you can look back and remember when:

Bar patrons complained if the head of foam on their nickel glass of beer was too big. After all, they wanted to get their money's worth.

The height of pornography in a small town was to get a new year's calendar with a nude girl on the cover. If his wife didn't intercept and burn it, a fellow immediately rushed to the barbershop with it so all his pals could see it.

It didn't take the barber half as long to cut a high school boy's hair as it did to cut a girl's.

A sharpie was any guy who hung around the pool hall and always carried a pair of dice or a deck of cards in his pockets.

Fathers thought they had spawned sissies when their sons started saying they'd rather have a wrist watch than a pocket watch for a graduation present.

If your phone rang more than twice in a day, you wondered if you weren't letting your life get too terribly busy.

Anybody who'd been for an airplane ride could hold his neighbors spellbound by describing what it was like.

Even the kids knew the country must be in for a bad inflation when they cut the size of the five-cent candy bar.

Neighborhood mothers rated a girl's marital chances by the quality of the fudge she brought

ANSWERS TO PRAYER

God answers prayers in three ways — by saying "yes," or by saying "no," or by saying "wait."

Some people feel that a prayer is not answered unless God responds in the affirmative. But this is not true. Sometimes when God says "no" to a prayer he really gives us much more than we ask for. Perhaps he is refusing the smaller gift in order to give us a larger one. Or often when he gives no gift at all he is in reality imparting wisdom and guidance. We think that we must be granted certain definite requests if prayer is to be answered, but God's answer is always more glorious than our request when his love rather than our desire has been the chief factor.

And often God in his wisdom delays the giving of some gift until such time as will benefit us most. Let us not be discouraged then if the answer to our prayers is not always "yes." God sometimes gives us the fullest gift of his love when he says "no" or "wait."

Firms Collecting Own Shares

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Collecting has become the American avocation, as you probably have observed in the homes of your stamp-coin-antique-plate-gold-silver-art-collecting friends and neighbors.

Psychologists and economists agree that one of the basic impulses of the collector is the need for something of substance and value in an age made insecure by monetary and political upheavals.

But does this explain the latest behavioral oddity on Wall Street, the collecting by companies of their own shares? Some of the biggest, most prosperous blue chips are seeking millions of dollars of their own shares.

Gulf Oil has announced a reacquisition goal of 10 million shares. United Aircraft wants 1 million. So does Bethlehem Steel. Sperry & Hutchinson, the Green Stamp company and an authority on collecting, wants 500,000.

So far this year the dollar value of repurchase plans appears to be well over $1 billion, a sum far greater than for the entire year 1972, and there is little evidence that the value is fading.

Customarily, companies seek their own stock in order to service their stock options and employ purchase plans and to have a supply available for possible acquisitions.

But there appears to be something additional at work this year, and that is low price. Many companies believe their stock is selling at bargain rates, in some instances near or below book value.

In other words, they believe at the moment that they themselves are the best buy in the market—and they should know, because it is they who keep the books. If other investors don't agree—well, too bad for them.

It is easy to spot a company whose stock is trading below book value, it being a simple matter of deducting liabilities from assets, dividing by the number of shares outstanding and then comparing that figure with the selling price.

It is another matter to project current statistics into the future. Clearly many investors are not as enthusiastic about the immediate outlook as are some corporate treasurers who see big profit gains in the next year.

Argus Research Corp., which supplies much of the basic research used by many brokers, comments that there is "literally tremendous room for profits growth over the next several years."

Despite this outlook, many stocks are selling at their lowest price-earnings ratios in many months. The current Dow Jones industrial average is about 14 times last year's earnings, one of the lowest ratios in a decade.

One reason for this is believed to be the absence of enthusiasm by individual investors, many of whom have declined to return to the market after the debacles of the late 1960s and the price collapse of 1970.

Bucs Notch 4th Shutout As Duke Falls

Last Shot Is 'Bama Winner

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "There wasn't any time to call a time out," said Glenn Garrett.

So Garrett instead took a desperation shot—and it turned out to be the best thing that Alabama's Crimson Tide could do.

Garrett's 20-foot shot with one second left in the game provided Alabama with a dramatic 87-86 basketball victory over Manhattan Monday night in the National Invitation Tournament.

The ball dropped through the basket without touching the rim as the buzzer went off and deflated a highly partisan crowd of 17,319 at Madison Square Garden.

That field goal sent Alabama into Thursday's quarter-finals against Minnesota, which earlier defeated Rutgers 68-59. The other quarter-final pairing Thursday matches Virginia Tech against Fairfield, winners of first-round games Sunday.

The quarter-finals begin tonight with North Carolina meeting Massachusetts and Notre Dame against Louisville, all first-round winners over the weekend.

The remaining games, however, may not come close in excitement to Monday night's affair between Manhattan and Alabama. It was tense and torrid all the way—and had the rowdy crowd roaring at each new turn.

Henry Seawright, Manhattan's No. 6 man playing his best half this year, kept the underdog Jaspers in it with 16 second-half points, many of them from long range. Seawright delivered one of his clutch field goals with two minutes remaining to give Manhattan an 84-83 lead.

But Leon Douglas, one of two Alabama players saddled with four fouls, stole the ball on a Manhattan inbound pass and dribbled the length of the court for a lay-up that moved the Crimson Tide into an 85-84 lead with 1:15 left.

George Buccini then bulled in for a tough lay-up under a crowded basket to make it 86-85 Manhattan with 57 seconds remaining and the cheering, flag-waving Jasper faithful exploded with noise.

The 6-8 Garrett didn't hesitate once getting the ball. He launched the game-winning shot in a hurry, setting off a wild Alabama celebration on the court.

Garrett scored 12 points overall for the Crimson Tide, now 21-6. Wendell Hudson, who played much of the game with four fouls, finished with 20 points to lead the winners. Charlie Mahoney had 23 points and Seawright 20 as Manhattan closed out its season with a 16-10 record.

The opener was dull compared to the feverish nightcap. Minnesota, although only winning by nine points, dispatched Rutgers with clinical ease.

The muscular Gophers, with four players in the starting line-up at 6-foot-6 and over, simply had too much of everything for the outgunned New Jersey independents. That the Scarlet Knights finished within sight of Minnesota at all was a surprise.

Clyde Turner scored 18 points for Minnesota, which improved its season's record to 21-4.

Lockman May Get Flag For Cubs

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Whitey Lockman, who stepped in when his old boss Leo Durocher stepped out, just may direct the Chicago Cubs to the National League East pennant in his first full big league managerial season.

Lockman, one-time New York Giant star under Durocher, was drafted as Cub assistant to the vice president to replace Durocher July 24 when the aging Lip resigned after a seven season roller-coaster Cub regime.

Playing at a languid .500 pace under media-heckled Durocher, the Cubs perked under the no-nonsense, no-wise-cracking Lockman for a 39-26 record and a .600 percentage over their last 65 games.

That still left the Cubs a second-place finish in the NL East race, 11 games behind the champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

But just when it looks like the talented Cubs may capture the pennant they've been reaching for since 1969, they may prove to have become the over-the-hill gang.

No fewer than nine key Cubs are 30 years old or over, including major league batting champion Billy Williams (34); wheel-horse third baseman Ron Santo (33); first-sackers Jim Hickman (35) and Joe Pepitone (32); All-Star second baseman Glenn Beckert (32), and slick shortstop Don Kessinger (30).

Pitching mainstay Milt Pappas is 33. Veteran lefty Juan Pizarro is 36, while one of Lockman's biggest problems—behind the plate—involves 30-year-old Randy Hundley, still trying to regain his former iron-man status.

Still, the Cubs appear solid, and Lockman's acquisition of Dave LaRoche from the Minnesota Twins and Bob Locker from the Oakland A's should plug a big gap in the bullpen. The ace of the staff, of course, is towering Fergy Jenkins, who is seeking a seventh successive 20-victory season—last year finishing with 20-12, but with his fewest strikeouts, 184, in his notable six-season Cub stretch.

Behind Jenkins and Pappas (17-7), who won his last 11 games including a near-perfect no-hitter against San Diego, are a pair of able youngsters. They are Burt Hooton (11-14), who also pitched a no-hitter last season, and Rick Reuschel, arriving in midseason and posting 10-8 and a 2.93 ERA.

The Cub infield may be the big league's best balanced with Santo-Kessinger-Beckert joined at first by either Joe Pepitone, back after a brief 1972 "retirement" and a threatened jump to Japan, and Jim Hickman, the club's most under-rated player.

Hickman and Pepitone also can be platooned in a first-rate outfield including matchless Williams, who batted .333 last season; Rick Monday in center and revived Jose Cardenal in right.

Catching is Lockman's big worry, with only Ken Rudolph, a .236 hitter last season, available if Hundley's comeback try after two seasons of serious knee injury doesn't improve over last year.

Randy worked 114 games and had a feeble .218 average, while NL rivals were taking liberties with his once deadly throwing arm.

Dave LaRussa knotted his second straight victory over Duke University yesterday, a four-hit shutout as the Pirates rolled to a 6-0 win over the Blue Devils.

For East Carolina, it was their fourth straight shutout, running their string to 34 scoreless innings. They have allowed only 13 hits during the same span. The win also boosted their record to 5-1 for the year.

LaRussa, who came on in relief of Tommy Toms in the first game with Duke, going the last two innings of that 11 inning affair, continued his mastery of the Blue Devils yesterday. He struck out seven and walked only two in going the distance. Only three Duke players got as far as second base, and none advanced further than that.

Their first chance came in the second inning, when Bill Furbush led off by reaching on an error. A two out walk moved Furbush down, but he died there. In the fourth, a freak play put John Poff on second after he had singled. Furbush hit a foul fly that Ron Staggs went over and caught at the fence. Staggs' foot caught in the fence, however, and he fell down, calling time as he fell. The umpire didn't acknowledge him, however, and Poff raced down to second before someone could aid Staggs.

The only other runner for Duke to reach second was Poff, who doubled to lead off the ninth, but two strikeouts and an infield out left him stranded.

East Carolina, meanwhile, led by the batting of Mike Bradshaw who cracked out three hits, were unlimbering on the Duke hurlers. By the time they finished, they had ripped off 11 hits, including two each by Staggs and Jeff Beaton.

Beaton, in getting on base every time he was up, scored four of the six runs, and was three times driven in by Bradshaw.

East Carolina threatened in the second, when Mike Hogan walked and Ron Leggett singled, but a double play, the second for Duke, erased that hope.

But in the third, the Bucs pushed over the only run they were to need. Beaton led off with a double to left center. Bradshaw then hit a fly down the right field line that just fell in fair, and Beaton streaked home for a 1-0 lead. Another hit moved Bradshaw to third, but the Bucs couldn't get him in.

In the fifth, Beaton led off again, walking this time. LaRussa moved him up with a sacrifice, and a single by Bradshaw brought him home, upping the lead to 2-0.

Two more crossed in the seventh. Beaton reached on an error, scoring Beaton with the final run of the game. East Carolina now takes two days off before resuming action with a two-day stand against visiting Dartmouth, here Thursday and Friday for 3 p.m. games at Harrington Field.

Women's Gym Team Second

East Carolina University's women's gymnastics team grabbed a bit of glory at Memphis State University last weekend as the girls finished second in the Regional Meet.

Only host Memphis State finished higher as ECU turned in its best performance of the season. Teams from North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia were involved.

All four ECU girls who made the trip finished among the top ten in at least one event. They were led by Sandy Hart, who placed in each event and finished fifth best all-around.

Hart was sixth in vaulting (6.2 points), seventh in the uneven bars (5.1), fifth in the balance beam (5.9) and fifth in the floor exercises (7.2)

Joan Fulp was fourth in the region on the bars (6.65). This marked the highest individual finish for any of the EC girls. She also finished eighth (4.7) on the beam.

Jane Smith was eighth in vaulting (6.1) and 10th on the beam (4.45).

Gail Phillips was 10th on the bars (4.3) and ninth on the floor (5.33).

Although the girls scored their highest total this year (65.71), it was not enough for the school to send a team to the Nationals.

The girls had earlier completed the season unbeaten in dual competition.

Lady Pirates Head For N.Y.

State champion East Carolina University and defending national champion Immaculata College will be in the same bracket of the national women's basketball tournament this weekend in New York.

Pairings for the 16-team field were announced recently. The tournament, hosted by Queens College, will get underway with ceremonies Thursday afternoon and end with the championship game Saturday at 4 p.m.

East Carolina, seeded eighth, will see its first action against Western Washington State College at 3 p.m. Thursday. The game will be played in Queens' new gym.

Little is known about top-seeded Immaculata of Pennsylvania or many of the other teams. But East Carolina, the Region Two champion, is 18-0.

Other teams in East Carolina's bracket are fourth-seeded Mercer, fifth-seeded Southern Connecticut State, Indiana State, Kansas State and Long Beach State.

Region Two runner-up South Carolina is in the opposite bracket along with second-seeded East Stroudsburg, third-seeded UC-Riverside, S.F. Austin State, host Queens College, Utah State, Indiana and Lehman College.

The East Carolina girls are scheduled to depart tonight at midnight by chartered bus from in front of Fletcher Dorm.

Teams Are Entertained

Dr. and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, entertained two groups of student-athletes last night at a dinner in their honor.

Those attending included the wrestling and swimming teams from East Carolina University, both recently crowned as Southern Conference champions. Some 70 people altogether attended.

Walton Leads All-American Balloting

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton, the superman of UCLA's super team, was named today the Associated Press' college basketball Player of the Year for the second straight season.

The 6-foot-11 center known as the "Big Red Machine" and ringleader of the "Walton Gang" won in a breeze over a rich field of the nation's best. Despite damaged knees, the bony redhead played the game with wild abandon this season and coaxed raves from just about everybody.

"He is the best ... better than Bill Russell," said one opposing coach. "He is the best pivotman ever to play college ball," said another. "He is the most dominating center ever ... the next pro super star," added a professional scout.

He was at least the most dominating force on the nation's most dominating team. Walton figured in every one of UCLA's 26 victories during the regular season, continuing a personal streak of playing with undefeated teams.

By the end of the regular season, Walton's streak from high school reached an astronomical 120 games. The graceful 220-pound junior averaged just above 20 points and 17 rebounds a game, but that was only part of his contribution to the country's top-ranked team his year. His true worth was measured in shot-blocking, intimidation and as triggerman in UCLA's superlative fast break.

He says he learned the maneuver to help offset a physical handicap—a twisted knee that underwent surgery during his sophomore year at Helix High School near San Diego. "I couldn't run very well—even after the operation," recalls the shy, complex 20-year-old. "So there was no way I could stay with everybody in our fast break. So, all I did was get the rebound, make the quick pass and watch everyone go."

Just like Walton made it no contest with UCLA's opponents, he won 1973 Player of the Year honors handily. Among those receiving support from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters were David Thompson of North Carolina State; Ed Ratleff of Long Beach; Kermit Washington of American University; Providence's Ernie DiGregorio; Doug Collins of Illinois State; Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana and Minnesota's Jim Brewer.

Walton, of course, was also selected to the AP's 1973 All-America team. Joining the talented giant on the first team were Thompson, Ratleff, Washington and DiGregorio. This year's second team All-America selections consist of Collins, Lamar, Brewer, Keith Wilkes of UCLA and Kevin Joyce of South Carolina.

Thomas Rips Pair Of Homers

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Arizona's map is dotted with towns like Scottsdale and Sun City where major league baseball teams are shaking off their winter cobwebs. The locations are close enough so that if you're ambitious, and fast enough, you can see...or play in...more than one game in the same day.

There are two Dave Roberts in the majors and one of them had a very good day and the other a very bad one. Houston's Roberts, hurled seven scoreless innings as the Astros edged Atlanta 2-1. He allowed just two hits and made Manager Leo Durocher forget all about Marvin Miller.

The other Roberts, San Diego's young third baseman, got his left eye in the way of Carmen Fanzone's bad-hop single and suffered a cut that will sideline him for four days. What's more, Fanzone's bouncer drove in the winning run for the Chicago Cubs in a 3-2 decision over the Padres.

Jose Cardenal doubled home the first two Cubs' runs. Cincinnati's Johnny Bench cracked his first homer of the spring and the Reds celebrated with a 7-3 victory over Boston. Bernie Carbo was in the middle of most of the action as St. Louis trimmed Philadelphia 9-4. He collected four hits including a double and triple and drove in two runs. But he also committed two errors in the outfield that helped the Phillies to three runs.

Richie Hebner had a single and a home run, driving in three runs in Pittsburgh's 8-3 victory over Kansas City. Manny Sanguillen had a double and two singles for the Pirates. Eddie Leon's two-run single in the ninth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over Minnesota. Steve Stone picked up the victory with four innings of shutout relief.

In other games, Montreal whipped Baltimore 4-1, Detroit beat the New York Yankees 7-5, San Francisco defeated Cleveland 7-4, and California edged the University of Southern California 2-1.

Thomas slammed a long home run off San Francisco's McDowell in a morning B squad game at Scottsdale, then hopped aboard a bus for the 20-mile ride to Sun City and ripped another homer and a two-run single against Oakland's Holtzman in the afternoon varsity game. Milwaukee won both ends of the geographically separated doubleheader, beating the Giants 10-3 and then topping Oakland 5-4.

Hitting homers is nothing new for Thomas, who led the Texas League with 26 at San Antonio last year and tagged 31 at Danville to set a Midwest League record the year before. He is shooting for the Brewers' right field job and Monday's homers gave him three this spring. Manager Del Crandall has been suitably impressed. "Each day he's getting better, but today we saw his real potential," said Crandall. "Today we saw a big change in him. He's starting to swing with the shorter stroke. Of course, we know he's not going to hit the home run every day, but we're more confident about him now."

Milwaukee's Gorman Thomas is ambitious and a couple of quality lefthanders—Sam McDowell and Ken Holtzman—weren't fast enough to stop the slugging young outfielder Monday.

His most eye-catching maneuver is the outlet pass. Walton literally smothered the ball leaping for a rebound and almost in one motion while airborne, feeds it to a teammate and away the Bruins go on a fast break.

They were ineligible for further competition because of an NCAA ruling that the Wolfpack had violated recruiting rules in its courtship of Thompson.

That probation will be over next year, allowing Thompson and State to go as far as their ability will allow them.

Thompson said Monday after learning of his selection to the team that he had far exceeded the goals he set for himself at the season's start.

"My goal before the season was to make the all conference team and help the team in any way I could. I'm surprised," he commented.

Larry Hollyfield, UCLA; Phil Smith, San Francisco; Nick Weatherspoon, Illinois; Mike Robinson, Michigan State; Tom

Probe Of ITT's Role In Chile

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — High-ranking officials of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. were called for testimony today at the opening of a Senate investigation into influence exerted on American foreign policy by U.S. corporations abroad.

Allegations of efforts by ITT to prevent Chile's Salvador Allende from taking office as president in 1970 were the first subject of inquiry by a special Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the five-member body will "explore in depth" ITT internal communications discussing contacts with the Central Intelligence Agency, the State Department, and the White House concerning plans to foment economic troubles to encourage a military coup against Allende.

Allende, a Marxist Socialist, was frontrunner in the presidential election of Sept. 4, 1970, but failed to get the majority necessary for election. A wave of terrorism hit Santiago, the Chilean capital, in the two months before the Congress elects Allende in a runoff Nov. 3.

The ITT documents that touched off the Senate probe were made public nearly a year ago by columnist Jack Anderson. They were later published in booklet form by the government of Chile with a foreword calling on all citizens to ponder "the extreme gravity that the events described in said documents represent to the independence, sovereignty and self-determination of our country."

ITT denied at the time that it had participated in any plot against Allende, and contends that its concern at all times was for its employees and corporate property in Chile.

ITT had acquired control of the Chile Telephone Co. from an English firm in 1927. At the time of Allende's election, ITT was expanding the company and progressively selling up to 49 per cent of its stock to Chilean interests under a 1967 agreement with the Chilean government.

ITT claimed a 70-per-cent interest in Chile Telephone, worth $153 million, when it was expropriated by the government in September 1971. ITT still operates two hotels in Santiago as part of the Sheraton chain.

The open hearings are scheduled initially for three days this week and three days next week.

On another matter affecting ITT, a summary of papers subpoenaed by the Securities and Exchange Commission in a probe of the conglomerate was released Monday by the special-investigations subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee. Several top present and past Nixon administration officials, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, are named.

Throughout the summary there are indications that ITT officials sought administration help in a bid to persuade then-Ass. Atty. Gen. Richard McLaren to accept their views on antitrust issues. An eventual agreement allowed ITT to keep Hartford Fire Insurance in exchange for other divestitures in 1971.

A spokesman for Agnew said the vice president never had any kind of conversation about any antitrust matter with the Justice Department.

Advisory Group Adopts Actions

FARMVILLE — Members of the Farmville area advisory council, at its meeting last week, agreed to send a letter to the Farmville Board of Commissioners outlining the athletic budget requests from each of the schools.

The board also agreed to write to the Farmville Rescue Squad explaining the county and local policy on the use of school facilities for various activities.

The board agreed to inform local legislators of their support of current bills being introduced which will benefit the schools financially.

It was reported that Lewis Lawrence and four of his students went to New York recently to attend a workshop designed for the yearbook staff. A school program for the coming months was announced.

Activities include: Faculty-Key Club basketball game, Tuesday night; representatives of the National Assessment of Educational Progress will take a random sample of the 17-year-old students, March 21; Parent Night Deca Club, March 29; social studies department will tour the State Legislature and N.C. CHARLOTTE (AP)—Private schools in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County are getting many inquiries from prospective new pupils following racial fighting in the public schools two weeks ago. Another reason is recommendations for new pupil-assignments that could result in additional busing.

Northside Christian School reports that seven or eight completed applications with the $35 registration fee were received Monday. Principal Paul Montgomery said there also had been a surge of telephone inquiries. The school, from kindergarten through grade 12, charges $550 a year, with $100 deducted for members of the sponsoring Northside Baptist Church.

Other more expensive schools reported increased requests for information. But they said they don't count applications until they come back with registration fees attached.

Discuss Revising District Program

A special committee consisting of representatives from the City of Greenville, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, East Carolina University Regional Development Institute, the State Board of Air and Water Resources, North Carolina Division of Forestry, Pitt County Health Department, the Pitt County Planning Board and the Soil Conservation Service, met Monday to discuss revision of the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation district's long range program.

Robert G. Little, district chairman, suggested that each representative present prepare draft objectives in their fields to be incorporated into the long range program. The district office will prepare a draft to be circulated among local, state and federal agencies and private citizens by May 11. The draft will be circulated for review and comments.

Publication of the final program will be released in July.

According to Little, the long range program is the basic tool used by the SCS district in conducting its operation.

Moose Map Final Push For Blood Bank Drive

The Greenville Moose Lodge last night set up its final effort for donor-support of the bloodmobile visit Thursday and Friday. Visitations and pleas for support of the campaign by the business firms were organized.

Leon Smith, a perennial blood bank campaigner, tapped the familiar, white, 50-gallon drum (capacity, 400 pints), and reminded the goal of 550 pints was more than had ever been attempted by the lodge.

Special Project Chairman Ed Campbell later observed that "to catch up with past obligations and this visit's quota we'll have to have all the support we can get from past donors and the help of all the first-timers we can reach.

"Giving a pint of blood is no big deal," he said; "but when the need becomes so pressing, as it is now, every pint assumes a tremendous importance."

The bloodmobile will be at the Moose lodge Thursday (from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.) and on Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

In other business, Gov. Harris read the report of the nominating committee; and reminded election of officers for 1973-74 year would be held April 2. The slate of candidates will be formalized March 26, by which time any entries by petition may be entered.

Man Held For Two Break-Ins

A Rt. 1, Greenville man is in Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond following his arrest Sunday on charges of first degree burglary and breaking and entering.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Clifton Earl Holden, 22, is charged with breaking into the occupied residence of Zack Phillips of Rt. 1, Box 574, around 1:30 a.m. Sunday and also breaking into the unoccupied home of Zack Barrow, Rt. 1, Box 580, around 4 a.m.

Sheriff Tyson said that Phillips told deputies he awakened, spotted a man in his living room and fired a shotgun blast at the intruder as he fled from the house. Phillips reported that the telephone wires at his house had been cut, the sheriff said.

Phillips' family was asleep in the house at the time of the break in, Sheriff Tyson said.

Barrow told officers that he and his wife returned to their home around 4 a.m. Sunday and discovered that someone had broken into the dwelling.

Sheriff Tyson said that neither Phillips or Barrow reported anything missing from their homes following the incidents.

Holden, who has arrested by Deputies Billy Braswell and Edgar Latham around 8:55 Sunday morning, is scheduled for a hearing in District Court on April 2.

He was not hit by the shotgun blast, the sheriff said.

Adjustments Board Meeting Is Tonight

Four items are listed for the proposed agenda of the Greenville Board of Adjustments for the March meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

All four are public hearings that have been advertised on earlier dates.

The first item deals with a request for special use permit by Mobile Home Brokers to use a mobile home as a residence for the Resident Manager on U. S. 264 bypass next to the Azalea Mobile Home sale lot.

The second item, a request for variance by Steve Coggins, is one being sought by Coggins to construct an Auto Service Center at the corner of 264 Bypass and Brimley Street. The property is zoned highway commercial.

A request for variance sought by J. C. Paker is the subject of third public hearing. Parker seeks to erect a sign in front of Parker's Barbeque located on Memorial Boulevard.

The final request is for a special use permit, requested by R. R. Forrest to allow installation of games machines for recreational purposes in a building located at 2715 East Tenth Street. The property is zoned shopping center.

Garbage Will Be Shipped By Rail

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Atlanta will begin shipping much of its garbage out of town by railroad next year.

Mayor Sam Massell said Monday the city has contracted with Southern Railway to haul 40 per cent of the city's garbage to Twiggs County in central Georgia, beginning in mid-1974.

Massell said Atlanta is the first city in the United States to sign such a contract.

The garbage will be compacted by a $1.25 million shredding and baling facility and will be dumped in mining pits leased to the railroad, Massell said.

The Neshoba County Fair near Philadelphia, Miss., is the only remaining camp ground fair in America.

The foundation is being laid for major additions to the Fred Webb Elevator grain operation on N. Greene Street.

According to owner Fred Webb, ten new concrete storage tanks, capable of collectively handling some 280,000 bushels of grain or beans, are being constructed along the railroad.

Webb said that the company is doubling the rail loading and unloading capacity and with the completion of the expansion program the firm will be able to load or unload about 25 train storage cars per day.

The owner noted that the new storage tanks will be equipped with hot-spot detection systems for checking the temperature of grain to insure proper storage conditions as well as aeration equipment for cooling. Belt conveyors on the top of each facility will be installed for loading and conveyor tunnels underneath will be included for unloading.

With the completion of the new tanks and equipment, Webb said, the plant's total handling capacity will be approximately 1.5 million bushels. The ten additional tanks will bring the total at the operation to 47. Each tank is some 140 feet high, it was pointed out.

The construction, expected to be complete by July 15, is being done by the Mel Jarvis Construction Co. of Salina, Kan. The Company, which specializes in elevators, sent a ten-man crew to Greenville from Kansas and some local labor is also being used, the owner reported.

Commenting on the new additions, Webb said that, "I feel that this will put us in a position to serve Pitt and adjacent county producers, without any delays or waiting, this fall." He added that the increased capability of the plant should "tend to offset the shortage of rail equipment" that has hindered the movement of grain.

The county, he noted, is expecting an eight per cent increase in corn acreage this season, as well as a 13 per cent rise in bean acreage.

Webb said that the operation, when complete, should be the largest independent grain system on the eastern seaboard. The firm has been in operation here since 1952 when Webb moved here from Elizabeth City. Currently there are ten employees at the plant.

Indictment For Another Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brother of the convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of making a threat against the life of Israeli Premier Golda Meir.

Sharif Bishara Sirhan, 39, was held Monday under $50,000 bond after his indictment. He was arrested by the FBI at his residence in nearby Pasadena without incident.

The population of Utah is estimated as 1,128,000.

Governor's Wife Plants Garden

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The wife of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace has planted a vegetable garden at the executive mansion in a protest to rising food costs.

Cornelia Wallace also wants to encourage junior high and high school students to plant gardens at their schools as a way of combating high food prices.

CDM. Patricia Roberts Harris, chairman of the 1972 Democratic credentials committee, has "quietly withdrawn" (her wording) from the new organization. She suggested to us she disagrees with CDM's challenge to some party reforms and fears the organization could be a polarizing influence.

Without nationally prestigious figures such as Humphrey and prominent liberals and blacks such as Mr. Harris, CDM could become a politically powerless collection of intellectual moderates located to the right of the party's center.

A footnote: Some CDM founders privately concede that the organization's reason for being was undercut when Robert Strauss, a moderate, was elected Democratic national chairman.

HANOI (AP) — After nearly 30 years of war or preparations for it, there is an air of quiet optimism and hope that things may finally get better in Hanoi.

Large billboards and posters tell the people that the Paris cease-fire agreement is a great achievement but that lasting peace can come only when the agreement is put into effect.

There are tell-tale signs that the people of Hanoi—and possibly even their government—expect that peace will last despite the daily official blasts about South Vietnamese cease-fire violations with American complicity and the continuation of bloodshed and violence in the South.

When American prisoners go home, they ride through the

Events Planned In Charlotte

Two events of interest are scheduled in Charlotte this week. On Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. and again at 8:00 p.m. the Mint Museum of Art is featuring a premiere engagement showing of Andre De La Varre's file, "The Rhine-Alpine Tour." Both showings will be at the Park Terrace Theater.

Admission is $2.50. Tickets for children are $1.00, and tickets for Mint Museum members are $1.75.

On Thursday, at 8:15 p.m. at Ovens Auditorium, the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Jacques Brouman, will present Gloria Davy, soprano, in the seventh concert of the 1972-73 season. Miss Davy will sing works by Benjamin Britten and operatic arias by Boito, Puccini and Verdi.

city in open buses but cause almost casual curiosity. There are no last-minute insults, open anger at, or humiliation of, the POWs. To the man in the street, the fact that the Americans are finally going home shows that his government means serious business with peace and the Paris agreements, and he hopes that the American government feels the same.

Most huge anti-American posters and banners have been taken down. Only a few wall graffiti remain. But in the most heavily bombed residential area along Kham Thien Street, a big billboard reminds the public that it was the Americans who dropped the bombs.

"The anti-American spirit has been much reduced; we want it to disappear completely," said Mayor Tran Duy Hung.

People in the street are shy when it comes to talking to Americans about the problems of their daily life. Usually a conversation runs out with a flurry of propaganda phrases. But they let Americans feel that they don't mind having them in Hanoi.

Wreckage of downed American planes, especially parts of B52 bombers, now clutter the park of the people's Army Museum but no longer cause any curiosity. They were shot down only three months ago.

Snapshots glimpses of Hanoi today are in marked contrast to the grim days last December.

In the park around romantic Hoan Kiem Lake downtown, schoolboys play soccer between and across the entrances and mounds of air raid shelters. They don't have to be afraid that the ball will disappear inside; the shelters are closed and locked. One couple chose a shelter's entrance for a rendezvous.

During the war, thousands of manholes cast in circular concrete with covers were planted in all Hanoi sidewalks. Pedestrians could jump into them in case of a sudden air raid.

These manholes were an ingenious idea that kept casualties down. Today, many of the manholes are broken, others are filled with sand or garbage.

The mayor is not concerned. "If need be, we can clean out the manhole shelters in two hours," he said. "Hanoi people have gotten into the practice of being ready for all eventualities. But besides that, don't we all hope that peace will last a long time?"

Meat-Eaters In Zoo 'Bear Up'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Most of the Cincinnati Zoo's 2,500 meat-eating residents are bearing up under substitutes forced by the inflated price of meat.

Horsemeat has gone up from 28.5 cents a pound a year ago to 50.5 cents and zoologist Barry Wakeman says the zoo can't afford it.

The animals eat about 2,500 pounds a week for an annual meat bill of $65,000, up from $33,800.

Wakeman said 95 per cent of the animals are eating a prepared product made up of horsemeat, eggs, yeast, kidneys, corn oil and additives. The remaining 5 per cent won't eat it, however.

"They're the older animals," Wakeman said, "and set in their ways."

The 'Worry Clinic' Good Parents Are Not Ogres

Clint was terrified. For he feared an "ogre." So he begged his college roommate to meet this "ogre" and bring him to their dormitory. Alas the "ogre" shed tears and hugged his victim, though belatedly! Use the "Parents' Test" below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE W-556: Clint J., aged 20, enrolled at Yale.

"Dr. Crane," his roommate informed me, "I wish his dad had used your 'Compliment Club' technique more often.

"Instead, he was a hard driving Chicago executive, who kept pushing Clint to get on the honor roll and also win a letter in sport.

"But Clint was a happy-go-lucky type who won friends but not top grades.

"And he wasn't athletically good enough to make a varsity team.

"Last term his grades were actually so low he was put on probation.

"When his dad was informed of this fact by the Dean, Clint got a wire saying his father would be arriving on Friday via plane.

"This upset Clint, for he always admired his successful dad and I think he really wanted to make his dad proud of him.

"On Thursday night, Clint paced the floor till 2 a.m.

"He told me he was worried about an exam, but now I am positive he was trying to figure out what to do when his dad arrived on Friday.

"When it was time to meet his father, Clint begged me to drive out to pick up, for Clint said he had to see his faculty advisor.

"Well, Dr. Crane, when his dad and I walked into our dormitory room, we were shocked.

"For there lay Clint with a bullet hole through his temple.

"He had shot himself rather than face his irate father!"

Death Penalty Vote In House Was A 'Big One'

By SAM D. BUNDY

The big one last week was on Wednesday when the House discussed and debated a bill to abolish the death penalty in North Carolina. The Supreme Court of the United States by a 5 to 4 vote had ruled unconstitutional the death penalty only because of the way it was administered, which is to say that juries in some cases were recommending mercy in capital cases. In this case judges were then sentencing for life. In cases where the juries did not recommend mercy, judges were handing out the death penalty. The court did not rule the death penalty unconstitutional per se. The North Carolina Supreme Court by a 4 to 3 vote ruled that when the death penalty was made automatic in all cases, the North Carolina law was thereby constitutional. In effect this restored the death penalty in North Carolina.

Representative Herbert Hyde of Asheville had introduced a bill to remove the death penalty and persons found guilty of capital crimes would be sentenced for life and must serve at least 25 years before they could be paroled. An amendment to extend this to 45 years was defeated. The debate on the bill lasted for almost two hours. I must say that the debate was calm and deliberate and not the emotional affair it was two years

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♣

A simple holdup play would have provided South, the declarer at three no trump, with the means to overcome an alert defender in today's hand.

West opened the six of clubs, a small club was played from dummy, East put up the ten and South won the trick with the jack. The dummy was entered with the king of hearts to lead the ten of spades, East rose with the ace to return the five of clubs. South played the queen and, when West covered with the king, he was permitted to hold the trick. A third round of clubs cleared the suit as East discarded a heart.

South could count only eight tricks at this point— one spade, three hearts, two diamonds and two clubs. In order to establish a ninth, he led a spade to the king

Now when the ten of spades is led, if East plays the ace, he has no club left with which to clear the suit. If he ducks permitting West to win the trick with the queen, the latter is left entryless and cannot run the clubs once they become established.

In the event that East does have a third club, declarer is safe, for with the suit dividing four-three, the defenders can take a maximum of two spades and two clubs on the deal.

A crying 10-year-old boy came to me recently exclaiming: "Dad bawled me out for being tardy just once the whole term. "But he never praises me for being on time the other 99 school days!"

Alas, that is all to prevalent a reaction.

For parents take success for granted and then chew out their kiddies for just one or two failures.

Correction and criticism are often needed, and kiddies don't object to such, IF.

But that big "IF" means, IF the parents will meanwhile praise them for their good deeds and high grades.

Suicides are now the most prevalent type of death among our 8 million college youth!

For those unhappy victims are trying to escape from a cold, cruel or loveless external reality.

So PLEASE slip in a daily compliment to your children, as well as to your mate!

Give them a verbal bit of praise on some deserved action. Smile at them when you tense fathers barge in from the office at night.

Place your arm around them momentarily, for this often speaks more than a dozen words, since most parents are losing "touch" with their kiddies.

And that tragedy begins with failing to pat their head or stroke their hair or drape an arm across their fearful shoulders.

may be quietly checking up on air pollution as it goes.

Under a National Aeronautics and Space Administration project titled GASP (Global Air Sampling Program), a 747 will be fitted with instruments to monitor air pollution in the upper atmosphere.

Ultimately, according to NASA officials at the Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, 10 to 15 foreign and domestic commercial planes will carry similar equipment, maintaining global surveillance of pollution in the airlines.

NASA announced this weekend that airlines, airframe manufacturers and avionics system companies have until April 2 to submit bids on the equipment itself, installation and flight testing.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Spring is here and with it most everyone commences to think about getting out from dormant conditions. Poor judgment and difficult conditions prevail early in the day but after mid-afternoon it is fine for tackling new opportunities.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) You think you have too many obligations but if you keep working you will be more inspired by early afternoon. The evening is fine for entertaining friends. Show more devotion to mate.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Avoid one who opposes you during the morning and then all goes smoothly for you. Your hunches are not good until after the sun sets, so don't rely on them earlier. Relax at home tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to argue with fellow workers in the morning and then production can be increased to your satisfaction. Don't engage in any harmful activities. Take periods of rest when needed.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you handle those important duties during the day and then you can go out for the amusement you desire. Instead of criticizing a higher-up, give this person more support.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) If you use tact at home you can have fun entertaining those persons you like. Take the time for cleaning your abode and improving your surroundings. Avoid one who is saturated with liquor.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Make sure you keep every promise you have made, particularly whatever is of a monetary nature. Later take time to shop. The evening is fine for enjoying good entertainment with friends.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Morning finds an associate not acting right but if you don't pay too much attention all changes in the afternoon. Spend more time on money and property affairs in the evening. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You want to go out socially and forget the important work you have to do, but this could be a wrong and expensive course of action. Do something to make your appearance more charming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) First be sure to take care of any problematical affairs before you go out for the pleasure you want. The morning could be frustrating, but all goes smoothly after lunch.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Show that you're a devoted family member despite little worries that are common in most families. You have a plan that is better understood by a friend. Get together with this person.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Attend to those duties that will keep you in a secure position, and then talk over new ideas with associates. A civic matter can be handled with ease. Take care of correspondence.

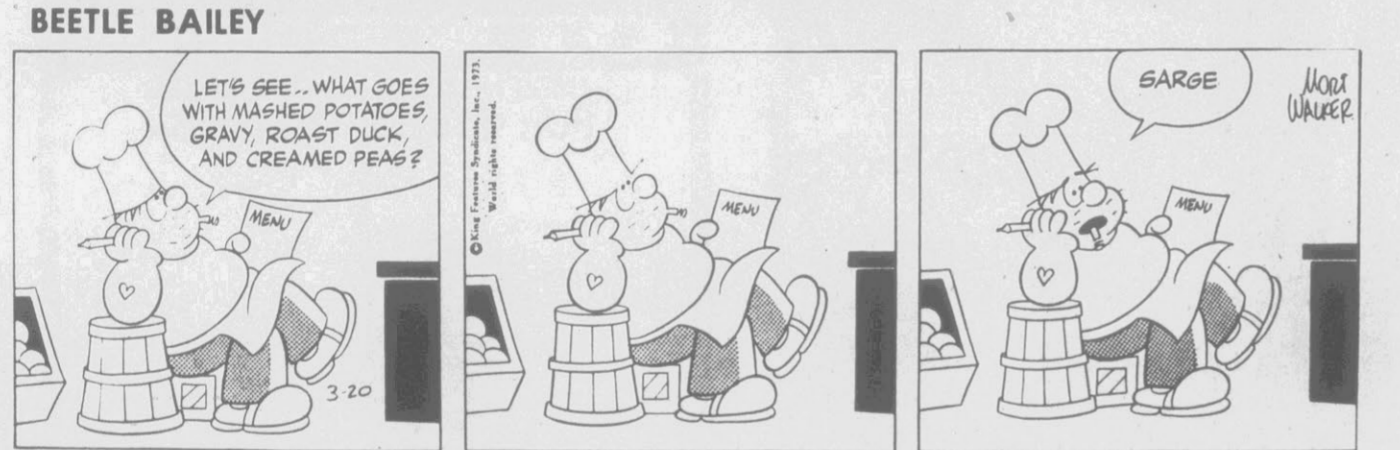

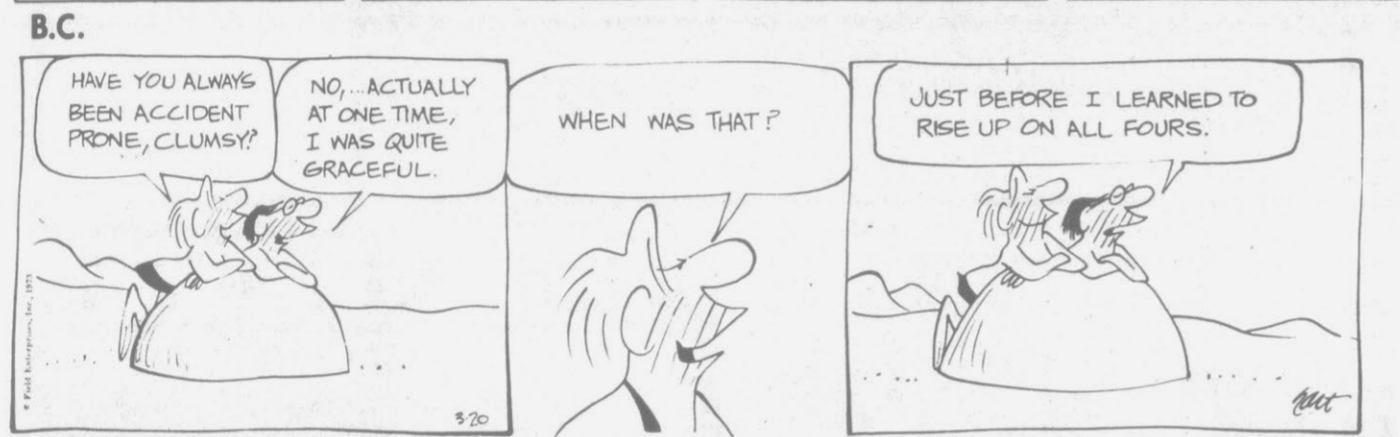

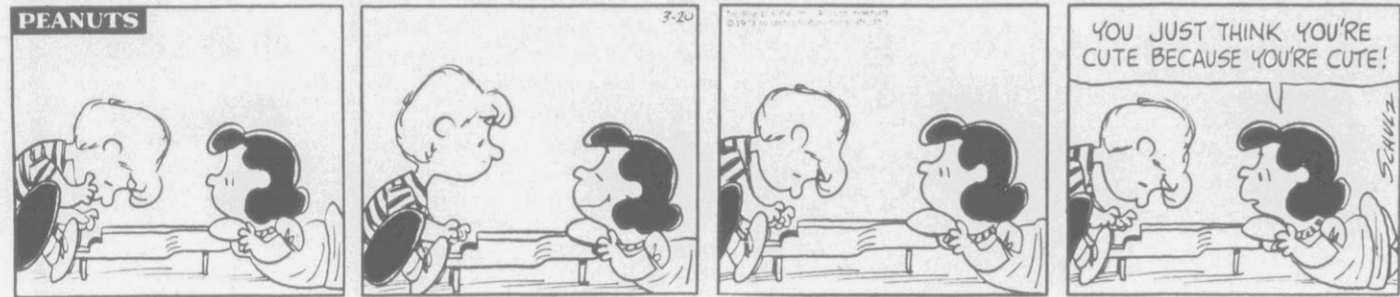

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You may be temporarily in a financial bind, but keep your head and look into practical ways of remedying the situation. You've made new contacts recently who have the right ideas for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those strong-willed young people who will not brook any interference when going after aims. Teach to listen to reason and give right ethical training so that this dynamic force will be used in constructive channels. Ideal chart of the politician, the policeman, the investigator, the doctor or the lawyer.

Householders Get Tax Break

Gary Cooke, district manager for H&R Block, reported that the largest tax break for people living in North Carolina this year is the head of household deduction.

Cooke said that in the past, only the husband could claim this if he earned or received income taxable and non-taxable of $2,000 or more, even though his wife may have earned more income.

He noted that the situation may apply in the case of a student husband working part time or a husband receiving disabled pay. In these cases the wife may file as head of the household provided her husband does not. Dependents must be claimed by the head of the household unless by previous marriage, he said.

This year, for the first time, Cooke noted, retired military personnel receive a $1,250 exclusion on their state income tax.

The manager reminded taxpayers that child care is now being allowed for working parents with a maximum of $4,400 for in-home care and $2,400 for out-of-home care, if the parents have adjusted gross income of $18,000 or less. If income exceeds $18,000 they can still deduct a prorated portion up to adjusted gross income of $22,000 in some cases, Cooke noted.

Foster children may be claimed as if they were a dependent if they live at home the entire year and under 19 years old or a student.

Cooke reminded that April 16 is the deadline for filing. Over the years a slack period in filing occurs around the second weeks in March until April 1, he asserted. He urged people who have not filed and wish to avoid a delay in receiving refunds to file during this period.

Will Sponsor Conference

A conference on physical education and recreation for the emotionally handicapped will be held at East Carolina University April 5.

The conference, sponsored by the ECU Division of Continuing Education and ECU Department of Health and Physical Education, is structured for physical education instructors, special education teachers and administrative personnel.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Leon Johnson, director of graduate studies in adapted physical education at the University of Missouri. Program director is Dr. Ernest Schwartz, assistant professor of physical education at ECU.

Conference lectures and discussions will be illustrated by demonstration sessions at the ECU Developmental Evaluation Clinic.

Further information about the conference and registration materials are available from the Office of Non-credit Programs at the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville.

Carson's Son To Have Jury Trial

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The son of television talk show personality Johnny Carson has pleaded innocent to three charges stemming from a traffic accident and will be given a jury trial.

A Circuit Court spokesman said here Monday that Richard W. Carson, 20, of Queens, New York, has pleaded innocent to charges of driving without an operator's license, driving while under the influence of a drug and possession of a drug. The charges stem from a Jan. 30 traffic accident.

No trial date has been set.

Budget . . .

(Continued from page 1) Waldrop, Lester Turnage, Mrs. Lucille Gorham and Mrs. Teresa Shank are school board members of this committee which also has eight advisory members drawn from the community.

His recommendations were: equipment for the track at Aycock Junior high school, $5,000; field house with dressing rooms, $25,000; bleachers to seat 1,000 spectators, $6,500; construction of four tennis courts at Elmhurst Elementary School, $18,000; for a total proposal amounting to $54,500.

The recommendation for tennis courts at Elmhurst, Waldrop said, would be primarily to give students at Rose High a place to use for practice and play in tennis events. Courts at Elm Street Park, Waldrop mentioned, are available to Rose students only under limited circumstances. Councilman John Taylor, City Council representative to the school board, commented "I feel this joint planning program between the school board and the Recreation Department good move. I know that Boyd Lee (director of Greenville Recreation Department) is anxious to go on with it."

Boycott Hurts Meat Cutters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jobs of about 90 members of Meat Cutters Local 593 have been affected in area supermarkets by a decline in beef sales attributed to rising prices and a consequent consumer boycott, local president William Sellars said Monday.

"We don't think it's fair," said Sellars. "If they boycott, they should boycott everything, not just meat." Spokesmen for Safeway, Giant and Grand Union, three supermarket chains, confirmed that meat employes have been laid off or reassigned to lower-paying jobs as a result of declining beef demand. Sellars said his union has 3,800 members in the area.

LONDON (AP) — The British government announced today official proposals for the future of Northern Ireland in which the province will remain part of the United Kingdom and the Roman Catholic minority will be guaranteed full civil rights.

Gray Returns To Face More Senate Questions

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Patrick Gray III, his nomination to be FBI director caught up in a legislative-executive power battle, returns today for a renewed round of questioning before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

One question will be whether, on instructions from Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, Gray has withdrawn his offer to give all senators access to FBI files on the bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a committee member, said Monday that an aide to Kleindienst had told him the attorney general ordered withdrawal of the offer.

From now on, Bayh said he was told, access to the files will be restricted to the chairman of the committee, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and the ranking minority member, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb. Bayh said he assumes Kleindienst's action "must have been a result of the President's determination" since it was in line with the policy President Nixon outlined at a news conference last Thursday for handling raw FBI files.

Nixon said raw FBI files contain gossip, hearsay and other unsubstantiated statements and could do great damage to innocent people if leaked to the press.

While J. Edgar Hoover was FBI director, the President said, such files were made available only to the chairmen and ranking minority members of congressional committees. Nixon said the practice of furnishing them to all senators must stop.

Gray, who became acting FBI director last May 3 after Hoover's death, testified on Feb. 28 at the start of the hearings on his nomination that his offer of raw files was not intended to set a precedent.

But he told the Judiciary Committee he is proud of the FBI investigation of the bugging of Democratic headquarters last June. He said he wanted senators to be able to inspect the files so they could see that the FBI, as he put it, had

Set Newcomers Dinner Date

GRIFTON — The semi-annual Newcomers Dinner, sponsored by the Grifton Chamber of Commerce, will be held Wednesday, March 28, at 7 p.m. at the Country Kitchen Restaurant.

All newcomers to Grifton within the past six months will be guests of the Chamber. Others who wish to attend may contact Mrs. Catherine Condon to purchase tickets.

Chess Meeting

A meeting for people interested in playing chess will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Elm St. Recreation Center. The meeting is to bring people together to play chess. It will also serve as a basis for a city wide chess tournament sponsored by the Recreation Department.

MASONIC NOTICE

There will be an emergent communication at Grimesland Lodge No. 475 A.F. & A.M. Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Work in the Fellow Craft Degree. All Master Masons are invited.

The proposals, contained in a White Paper, also maintain Britain's right to legislate in Northern Ireland affairs.

The province's link with Britain will be retained as long as the majority of its 1 1/2 million population wishes, the paper said.

British troops moved into Northern Ireland in 1969 under intense security precautions in London.

There was no advance notice of the publication date. This was to foil any attempt at terrorist bomb attacks like those 12 days ago when explosions in central London cost one life and left 243 persons injured. The blasts were blamed on Irish extremists.

Every legislator was searched personally and had his car screened at the House of Commons. There were special guards on all public buildings and at air and sea ports.

The British proposals are designed to provide a basis for ending 3 1/2 years of sectarian and nationalist violence which has cost 754 lives and pitted Catholic against Protestant.

Britain has more than 17,000 troops in Northern Ireland battling guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army which is dedicated to uniting the province with the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish republic.

The White Paper said the proposals provided an opportunity for all law-abiding people to "stand together against those small, but dangerous minorities which would seek to impose their views by violence or coercion and which cannot, therefore, be allowed to participate in wrecking institutions they wish to destroy."

The paper said that after the election of the new provincial assembly a conference would be held bringing together leaders of Britain, Northern Ireland, and the Irish republic.

It would have the following objectives: —Acceptance of Northern Ireland's present status and the possibility of subsequent change, with consent.

—Consultation and cooperation for the benefit of North and South.

—Concerted action against terrorism.

Discrimination against any section of the community by central and local government and other public bodies — one of the deep-rooted Catholic grievances — will be forbidden.

Direct rule from London is to continue but the London government will introduce a law setting forth a new constitution for Northern Ireland before March 24, 1974.

Britain will remain responsible for security in the province despite the urgings of Protestant leaders in Belfast that control of security forces should be returned to any new provincial Parliament.
