

Court Upholds Property Tax For Schools

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today approved local property taxes for financing public schools, holding in a 5 to 4 decision that education is not among the rights afforded explicit protection under the Constitution.

The majority reversed a lower court decision which had held the Texas system of financing schools unconstitutional. The lower court said the system made the quality of education dependent on local, rather than state wealth.

“Education, of course, is not among the rights afforded explicit protection under our Constitution,” wrote Powell. “Nor do we find any basis for saying it is implicitly so protected.”

The lower court said the local property tax system used in Texas for schools violates the 14th Amendment’s guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

“The need is apparent for reform in tax systems which may well have relied too long and too heavily on the local property tax,” Powell wrote. “But the ultimate solution must come from the lawmakers and from the democratic pressures of those who elect them.”

Also in the majority were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, and Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist.

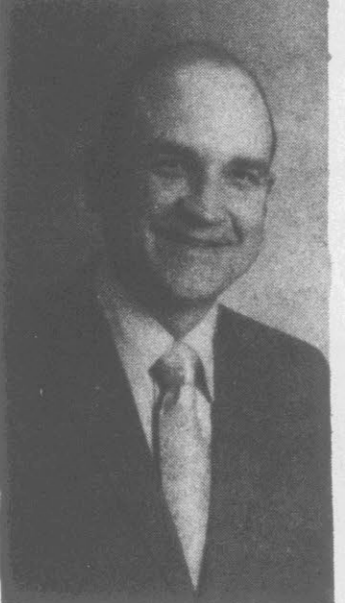

The property tax upheld by the court in school financing is levied on the value of property which varies from district to district, producing disparities in the amount of money that can be raised for education.

Releasing Last POWs

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong delegation announced tonight that the last group of American prisoners held by the Communist side will be released Saturday and Sunday at Hanoi’s Gia Lam airport.

The U.S. Command said that according to its records, the Communists still hold 147 American prisoners, including 140 military men and seven civilians.

But it was unclear whether the actual number released might be a few higher. The Pentagon had disclosed earlier that two U.S. Navy fliers formerly listed as missing in action are now carried as POWs. They were shot down over the northern quarter of South Vietnam a few days before the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 27.

The Viet Cong spokesman said that at least one of the POWs being released by the Viet Cong was captured on Jan. 26, the day before the signing of the peace agreement in Paris. But he gave no other details. The Viet Cong spokesman said a list of 31 American prisoners captured in South Vietnam to be released at Gia Lam airport in Hanoi on Saturday would be turned over to the United States on Thursday.

North Vietnam will release the last group of Americans it holds, also at Gia Lam, on Sunday, thus completing the American repatriation three days ahead of the March 28 deadline set by the Paris peace agreement.

The Communist side previously had released 439 American prisoners, both military and civilian.

One reason the United States is seeking the last official lists from both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong is to ascertain if there have been any additions or deletions from the original list of 585 presented to the United States on the day the agreement was signed.

Crime Plans To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon’s proposal to revive the death penalty, billed as “a measure of protection against incorrigible, dangerous crimnals,” went to Congress today. The proposal calls for the death penalty for most federal crimes of murder involving kidnapping or aircraft hijacking, killing of a law enforcement officer or prison guard, murder committed by a repeater in a capital crime, and murder for hire.

The Justice Department said the proposed legislation would satisfy the Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty is unconstitutional when its imposition is up to individual courts. “Imposition of the death penalty by the judge will be mandatory if there is a special verdict finding the existence of one or more aggravating factors and the absence of any mitigating factor,” the department said in a covering letter. “The death sentence is prohibited if the existence of one of more mitigating factors is found.”

Such mitigating circumstances would include a defendant who is under 18; one who didn’t have the capacity to appreciate the wrongfulness of his act; a defendant under unusual duress; or one who was unable to foresee he would cause death to another person.

President Nixon asked Congress for such legislation in his recent message on law enforcement and drug-abuse prevention.

Disposable Kidney Machine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Researchers have developed a still-experimental, but cheaper and faster-working disposable artificial kidney machine for use primarily in homes, according to a joint announcement by the Atomic Energy Commission and the University of Chicago.

The device has been successfully tested in more than 70 cases at the university since last October, the announcement said, but the unit is not yet available commercially.

Word of the breakthrough came Tuesday. An AEC spokesman said the device, similar to other disposable units already being sold, would be cheaper to purchase and operate than the larger kidney machines that generally are used in hospitals.

The Unionist party which ruled Northern Ireland for 50 years said it would press London for urgent talks to change “unacceptable” aspects of the plan. It did not detail its objections, however, and former Prime Minister Brian Faulkner, the leader of the party, said earlier that he generally welcomed the proposals.

Consumer Prices Continuing Surge

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by a record one-month increase in grocery prices, consumer prices went up in February at the steepest rate since the Korean War, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the Consumer Price Index surged by eight-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis last month, marking the biggest monthly increase in the cost of living since February 1951.

Food prices over-all went up by 2.2 per cent seasonally adjusted, the biggest rise since February 1951. But food purchased in grocery stores jumped by 2.4 per cent, the steepest on record.

The bureau added that the increase in meats, poultry and fish bought at grocery stores accelerated, rising by 5 per cent in one month.

The price report was a stunning blow to President Nixon’s inflation fighters, and reflected the sharp increases in food at the wholesale level in recent months.

But even without the big increase in food prices, the consumer price report was bad. There were sizable increases also in non-food commodities and services.

On an unadjusted basis, consumer prices surged by seven-tenths of one per cent, the highest monthly increase since March 1969. Food prices, on the same basis, increased by a sharp 1.9 per cent, the biggest since January’s 2.1 per cent.

The January unadjusted increase was the biggest in more than 20 years.

The BLS said that with the exception of eggs, prices of most kinds of food rose substantially in February. Meat, poultry, cereal and bakery products rose more than usual. There were also sharp increases in dairy products and fresh vegetables.

The prices of non-food commodities increased by three-tenths of one per cent after a decline in January. On an adjusted basis, the bureau said, the increase was even sharper—five-tenths of one per cent.

Prices of services also accelerated, increasing at a four-tenths of one per cent rate, double the previous month.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Greenville Moose Lodge Thursday, from 10:30 a.m. to 5:00, and on Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00.

This visit’s goal has been set at 550 pints, to meet the established quota set for the two-day drive and to make up for shortages in previous visits for the year.

The first pint of blood contributed in the current drive was made this morning by James Harris, Sr., before the cameras of WNCN-TV. Harris is Governor of the sponsoring organization, the Moose Lodge.

Patient Rights

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina House plans to act today on final approval of a bill to guarantee basic civil rights and the right to medical treatment to patients at state mental hospitals.

The House tentatively approved the measure Tuesday.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, would insure patients in mental institutions the right to dignity, privacy and humane care.

The measure would also require the hospital to prepare a medical treatment plan and would give patients the right to refuse electric shock therapy, experimental surgery and experimental drug treatment.

Patients would be allowed to make contracts, marry and divorce, send and receive mail, and confer with a private doctor and lawyer.

Mid-Air Crash Ends Career In Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — William B. Camp has resigned as comptroller of the currency and ended a long career in government.

The White House announced the resignation of the 59-year-old Camp on Tuesday, saying it was for health reasons. Camp joined the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency in 1937 and rose through the ranks to be named comptroller in 1966.

Retiring Jack Spain Honored By Lawmakers

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Jack Spain of Greenville, was honored last week when Sen. Sam J. Ervin announced the retirement of his administrative assistant.

The senator’s announcement of Spain’s retirement—effective February 28—was made on the floor of the U.S. Senate March 15.

A Pitt County native, Spain, 69, served in Washington for 32 years—first as secretary to the last Congressman Herbert C. Bonner from 1940 to 1945, then as administrative assistant to the late Sen. Clyde Hoey from 1945 until May 1954. Sen. Ervin, appointed to fill Hoey’s unexpired term, immediately appointed Spain as his aid.

Sen. Ervin told the Senate last week, “my administrative assistant...ably filled important positions on Capitol Hill for more than 32 years.”

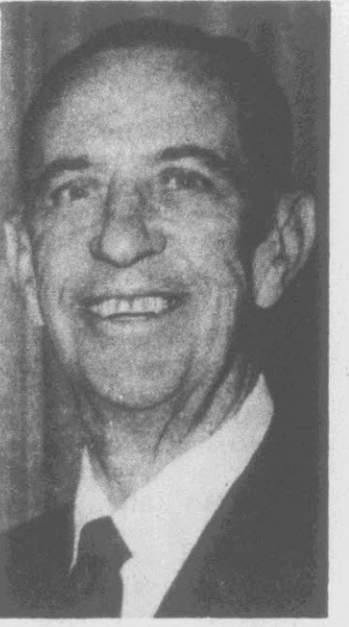

“When I took the oath of office as a U.S. Senator from North Carolina on June 11, 1954, I appointed Jack Spain my administrative assistant, and he served in this capacity with rare diligence and ability until he elected to retire for reasons of health.

“It is impossible,” Sen. Ervin said, “for me to overmagnify the services which Jack Spain has rendered me in the capacity of administrative assistant.” And according to the senator “he has done literally thousands of things for multitudes of people throughout North Carolina, and has thereby endeared himself to persons past numbering in his home state.

“The genial companionship which he has extended to all others who have labored on the Washington scene during his years here have made him one of the most loved figures on Capitol Hill,” Sen. Ervin continued.

“If I have been able to accomplish anything worthwhile in the office of Senator, it has been due in large measure to Jack Spain’s devotion to duty, and untiring zeal in my service and in that of the people of North Carolina,” the senator emphasized.

“I deeply regretted Jack’s decision to retire.”

JACK SPAIN

North Carolina’s junior Senator — and the first Republican member of the Senate from this state this century—Jesse Helms, told the Senate, “I certainly share Senator Ervin’s regrets in seeing Jack depart from Washington. To say that he will be missed by his friends and associates is an understatement.

“I can think of no man who has meant more to the people of North Carolina than has Jack Spain during his long tenure in Washington. He is an efficient man; an always cheerful man; a man always willing to help others in need; and a citizen completely dedicated to the principles that made America great.”

Sen. Robert C. Byrd also took the Senate floor to praise Spain. “According to the West Virginian, “one positive aspect of the retirement is the fact that Senators are afforded the opportunity to spotlight the individual staff members and give credit to their valuable service which they perform in helping us to carry out our multitudinous duties. Without their long hours, selfless devotion to duty and personal sacrifices, a Senator’s role would indeed be difficult, if not impossible.

“Jack Spain,” Sen. Byrd said, “is a prime example of the caliber of our valued staff aids. Jack’s background of service as an aide in the other body (the U.S. House of Representatives)

Potential Savings For EPIC Members Cited In Own Power Facilities

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

Construction of their own generating facilities by municipally-owned utilities and Electric Power in Carolina (EPIC) could result in savings of $150 million annually, Gary Tabak, executive vice president of Electric Power in Carolina (EPIC) told an EPIC district meeting last night.

To realize this savings, the municipally owned electric systems and EMCs would see in an investment of $3.25 billion by the end of the century. The funds would build four power plants—two of them nuclear—and transmission lines across the state.

The savings over the present method of purchasing power from the private companies would result because EPIC would be a non-profit operation and anticipates tax-exempt financing for the bonds which must be issued to finance the projects.

It was pointed out that the non-profit operation aspect accounts for 73 percent of the savings and tax-exempt financing accounts for 27 percent.

Tabak told the representatives present at last night’s meeting held in the Moose Lodge that one rate schedule would be applied to all members of EPIC, although there will be incorporated within the schedule provisions for differentials for load factor and peak demand off the total system peak. Thus systems with better than average load factor and system peaks different from the total system peak demand would benefit from these differentials.

Legal title for the property will be with N. C. Consumer Power, Inc., a subsidiary of EPIC, Inc.; however upon final retirement of outstanding obligations legal title to the properties would vest in the participating municipalities.

“This will probably be your last chance to develop your own generating system,” Tabak said. “The effort must be a joint one.”

The representatives were told that suits have been filed to place legal questions about the vast project before the courts.

Greenville Utilities Director Charles Horne presided over last night’s meeting.

Others on the program included: Robert E. Bathen, project manager, Beck-Southern Engineers; Lon Bouknight, Esquire, Tally-Crisp; George Ragdsdale, business manager, Lehman Brothers, Inc.

Participating municipalities in EPIC include: Albermarle, Apex, Ayden, Belhaven, Cherryville, Clayton, Cornelius, Drexel, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Farmville, Fayetteville, Fountain, Granite Falls, Greenville, Hertford, High Point, Hobgood, Hookerton, Huntersville, Kings Mountain, Kinston, La Grange, Landis, Lauringburg, Lexington, Lincolnton, Lumberton, Monroe, New Bern, Oak City, Pikeville, Pinetops, Red Springs, Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Scotland Neck, Sharpburg, Shelby, Smithfield, Statonsburg, Tarboro, Washington, Winterville.

Britain's Ulster Plans See Prompt Opposition

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant leaders today criticized the British government’s White Paper calling for Northern Ireland’s warring religious communities to cooperate for a limited resumption of home rule. Roman Catholic leaders withheld their comment on the plan.

The White Paper released Tuesday promised that Northern Ireland would remain British as long as the province’s Protestant majority wanted that. It said limited self-rule would resume if the Roman Catholics and Protestants agreed to work together in a new 80-member assembly elected on the basis of proportional representation to increase the Catholic membership. But the British government would retain control of the police and other security forces indefinitely.

William Craig, leader of the militant Protestant Vanguard movement said the proposals were the “worst of all worlds.” He vowed that his supporters would make the plan unworkable.

Craig did not spell out how they would sabotage the plan, but he indicated he preferred political action to violence. A Vanguard statement said the White Paper’s proposals constituted “a weakening of Northern Ireland’s constitutional position within the United Kingdom.”

The Unionist party which ruled Northern Ireland for 50 years said it would press London for urgent talks to change “unacceptable” aspects of the plan. It did not detail its objections, however, and former Prime Minister Brian Faulkner, the leader of the party, said earlier that he generally welcomed the proposals.

The Nursing Role Is Changing For The Better

By HAROLD Y. JONES
SAN FRANCISCO (WNS) — Registered nurses are demanding—and getting—more of the responsibility in caring for patients.

They are taking specialized courses that upgrade their skills and earn them more money—as well as new titles like nurse-practitioner or nurse-midwife.

Nurse-practitioners have made most progress in pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology — fields in which women are said to have a “natural interest”—but they are gradually moving into other fields, like ophthalmology, urology and public health.

The American Nurses Association says there are at least 47 specialized nursing courses in progress in 30 states and the District of Columbia today. Courses range in duration from a few weeks to two years.

Nurse-practitioners treat patients with problems that don't require the special skills of a physician. They can care for normal babies, expectant mothers, handle most of the procedures in giving physical examinations, and, in theory, give doctors more time for more urgent matters.

Not Women's Lib
 Nurse-practitioners see their efforts more as a trend within the medical profession than as part of the women's liberation movement.

“There's no doubt the women's lib thing helps,” said Betty L. Highley, professor of nursing at the University of California, San Francisco, in an interview. “But nurses have been making progress on their own for decades.”

This progress, Miss Highley added quickly, appears to be headed for a drastic slow-down now that the Nixon Administration is cutting back Federal social development funds.

“It looks bad,” she said.

“Unless we get more support from private institutions or state governments, we will have to abandon these programs.”

Such specialized training (on top of vastly improved general nurses' training) has raised nursing to a high professional level. And nurses don't want to lose ground.

Nurses, after all, began as little more than servants who seldom did more than carry bedpans, make beds, mop floors and offer patients Tender Loving Care, in the tradition of Florence Nightingale in 19th century England.

More Advanced Degrees
 Nurses today have solid professional educations.

Most who practice today studied three years, usually with some hospital-affiliated school. Emphasis was on the physical sciences and practical work in hospital wards.

To this approach in recent years have been added courses in the behavioral sciences, and more women are extending their studies to four years to earn bachelor's degrees, in liberal arts.

NCHEA Spring Meet Announced

The East Central Region of the N.C. Home Economics Association (NCHEA) will hold its spring meeting Saturday, March 31, at 10 a.m. at the Colonial Inn, Hillsborough.

The meeting will be in the form of a workshop which will be led by Mrs. Hazel Tripp.

Members and other home economics and related majors are urged to attend this meeting.

Reservations for the meeting and luncheon, $3.00, should be sent to Mrs. Ruth Couch, Rt. 1, Page Road Morrisville, 27650, by Saturday, March 24.

Dr. Vila Rosenfeld of Greenville is chairman of the EC Region.

(Others are staying on for Master's degrees, and those who plan to teach nursing later on—or those who like to do research—are staying on for doctorates in nursing.)

There's sophistication in nursing today that was absent—indeed, almost frowned on—earlier in this country.

Nurses are holding their chins up, confident in their professional ability to care for the sick.

They leave bedpans to unskilled assistants or orderlies. The nurse you see today more likely carries a stethoscope—once the MD's badge.

“When I was a student, we were taught that the doctor was God,” said Miss Highley. “Today nurses work with doctors on a more even footing.”

Slow Change

The change came slowly. The doctors who were not openly hostile to what they regarded as encroachment on their prerogatives offered little assistance. Many preferred to give additional training to their own office nurses—and continue paying them at basic nurse salaries.

But nursing schools, grasping the expanded role concept, set up specialized courses, to formalize the training and put nurses in a better earning position.

At the end of this academic year, the UC nursing school here will graduate about 60 such practitioner, in pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology.

They will be qualified to give general physical and gynecological examinations, do Pap smears, and give breast examinations. They will provide family planning information and fit birth-control devices (through prescriptions for the Pill still must come from doctors).

Nurses see their expanded roles as the “logical solution” to the shortage of doctors in the U. S.

It costs much less to upgrade the skills of a nurse than it does to train a doctor from scratch.

Someone Should Down The Chiropractor

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have always had a great deal of faith in chiropractic treatment, so naturally when my 15-year-old daughter suffered a bad whiplash in an auto accident I took her to a local chiropractic clinic where I paid in advance for a series of treatments. [She still has six to go.] She was an hour late getting home from her last treatment and I was worried sick. When she got home I asked her some questions and she started to cry. Then she told me everything [I hope].

She said the chiropractor insisted on showing her his new apartment near the clinic. She said all the walls were covered with pictures of nudes from Playboy magazine. She told me he showed her his bedroom in which he had a huge waterbed, and he asked her to bounce on it a few times just to get the feel of it. She said he kept touching her and she could tell he was getting aroused, so she ran out, saying she had to get home.

If my husband were alive he'd know what to do about this nut. I can't let her go back there. What should I do? I trust you.

HEARTSICK IN FLORIDA

DEAR HEARTSICK: This “nut” is accountable to the state Chiropractic Association. Report him. And for good measure, report him to the American Chiropractic Association, 2200 Grand Av., Des Moines, Ia. 50312. There are a few kooks in every profession and the ethical ones will appreciate your reporting the clinkers.

DEAR ABBY: Last year I was a volunteer for the American Cancer Society Crusade. While working on the campaign I learned more about the “danger signals” and made an appointment for my husband to see a doctor. Immediately following the examination he was operated on for cancer. Thank God they caught it in the early stages. And thank God I volunteered. Believe me, when they called me again this year I said yes! GOT MORE THAN I GAVE

DEAR ABBY: If you had friends who used your expensive cocktail table for a footstool, what would you say or do?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: First, I would say, “Please don't.” If that failed, I'd “86” ‘em.

DEAR ABBY: I am a graduate student. I'm bald-headed but I've been wearing a hairpiece for nearly a year. It is so natural-looking that when people who knew me before see me for the first time with the hairpiece on, they think I have new eyeglasses or something—they don't realize it's my hair.

The problem is how (and when) to let a girl know that I wear a hairpiece.

I don't think it's necessary to tell every girl I date about it, but when I start going seriously with a girl, she has to be told. But how? And when?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: At the point of getting serious, why not suggest that you both disassemble yourselves for full inspection so that there'll be no trauma on the wedding night?

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor
A delightful pastry shop in New York City's Greenwich Village is called Joe Vie. And one of the shop's most popular offerings is a Pecan Brownie — very chocolaty and moist. Joe Vie kindly gave us the recipe for this sweet and here it is, adapted for home use. If you try this rule, we wager you'll never regret it. And it makes plenty for a party.

PECAN BROWNIES
2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2-3rd cup light corn syrup
1 cup butter, soft
6 eggs
6 squares (6 ounces) unsweetened chocolate
2 cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2 cups pecan halves

In a large mixing bowl with a wooden spoon mix together the sugars, corn syrup and butter. Stir in eggs, one at a time, until absorbed.

Melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water and stir into sugar mixture until combined. Stir in flour until combined. Stir in pecans, reserving 1/2 cup to sprinkle on top.

Turn into a jelly-roll pan (about 15 1/2 by 10 1/2 by 1 inch) and spread evenly. Sprinkle with reserved pecans.

100 Calls A Day For Jilted Girl

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS) — Ursula Nassen, 21, imagined that she could never face the world again after the news was printed that she had been jilted at the altar. Then her telephone began to ring. "I had 17 calls from men wanting to date me the first day," she reported. "By the end of the week, the number was almost one hundred. The calls have all been sympathetic, not insulting. I'm not ready for another romance yet, but my faith in men is restored."

Homemakers are advised to store spices away from light to avoid discoloration or loss of color.

Can Our Pattern Be Changed?

Richard Nixon's America is a country where people take care of their own, and bureaucracy keeps its nose out.

It is a land of a people guided by a strong sense of self-discipline and not by a paternalistic government.

Is there a place for that kind of society today? There once was...it was the America of the past, The New World. But even then, some people "had it," and others didn't.

The American society has been building toward "something better" for well over 200 years. No everybody is satisfied today; not everybody will be satisfied tomorrow. And we are sure, too, that there never has been a time when everybody was pleased by the status quo.

We are taught to admire the virtues of our forefathers. The flaws are forgotten. For every paragon there were many who failed to measure up.

In the building of today's society we should remember the structuring was designed to cope with the needs and aspirations of those who "failed to measure up" to disciplines required in a Utopian world. Thus was built the bureaucracy which is both blessing and curse to purists. Whether a social pattern can be changed by Mr. Nixon and his successors is a dubious question.

It's easy to forget that the cumulative pattern of American society and government is the result of an aspiration or need. Reducing the structure to a more simplistic pattern may seem desirable at first glance. Second thoughts are bound to bring some reservations.

A stranger surveying the American scene might well wonder "How in the world does the thing work?" Sometimes we do too. All we know is that up to now it has worked out better than reason dictates.

Sorry Chief, but we fear you're tilting with windmills.

Tuscarora Anger Can Be Easily Understood

We can understand the anger of the Tuscarora Indians over the burning of Old Main building at Pembroke State University.

The building has been a symbol of achievement on the formerly all-Indian campus and Indian leaders fought to save it when it was due for demolition.

They were successful in that effort, only to see it burned out apparently by a fire bug.

Certainly every effort should be made to bring to justice those who caused this unfortunate blaze.

Israel Risking U.S. Relations

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Israel's backstage support of the Jackson amendment aimed at forcing the Soviet Union to liberalize its Jewish emigration policy has suddenly endangered the special relationship between President Nixon's administration and Prime Minister Golda Meir's government.

The Jackson amendment, denying equal trade treatment to the Soviet Union unless the Kremlin halts punitive emigration fees charged Soviet Jewish intellectuals, is gaining support in Congress with a velocity that has shocked the White House. It directly threatens congressional passage of most-favored-nation treatment for the Soviet Union which Mr. Nixon promised Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev—and that promise is viewed by the President as absolutely essential to his four-year policy of detente with Moscow.

"If the President's personal pledge to Brezhnev fails because of Israel and American Jews, we will take them on," one top presidential assistant told us. Just what that means is left unspecified, but Mr. Nixon's concern has been conveyed—in much more diplomatic terms—to the Israeli government.

Accordingly, one Nixon political adviser has received private assurances that Israel (in his terms) "will cool it" on the question of the Jackson amendment. But there is great doubt that Mrs.

Meir's government will dare openly oppose it in the vigorous and unequivocal way desired at the White House. Thus, a serious break threatens.

When Golda Meir was here three weeks ago, Mr. Nixon politely but firmly warned her that he would risk wrecking U.S.-Soviet detente on the extraneous issue of Soviet Jewish emigration.

Mrs. Meir was politely but firmly noncommittal, holding that this was a purely U.S. domestic issue. There the matter was dropped.

Since then, presidential emissaries have let the Israeli government understand the following in no uncertain terms: Israel, through the powerful lobby of the American-Jewish community, must share major responsibility if the Jackson amendment passes. Then, Israel would have to answer to Richard M. Nixon himself.

The amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, an anti-Soviet hard-liner, quickly attracted some 70 Senate sponsors when introduced last fall. But the Israeli ambassador here, Gen. Itzhak Rabin, wisely argued that U.S. interference in Soviet internal affairs—no matter how warranted by the injustice of the exorbitant emigration fees—would be counterproductive. He was overruled by the Israeli government.

Thus, during the presidential campaign last fall, with Mr. Nixon courting the normally Democratic Jewish vote, American-Jewish community leaders with intimate ties to the

THE CHRISTIAN AS OPTIMIST

The Bible is a book of glorified optimism. Although it chronicles much evil, nevertheless it continually declares that God is in control of this world, and that no matter how bad things may become, righteousness will conquer in the end.

The Bible starts out with the declaration that God created the heavens and the earth, and it ends with a heavenly chorus praising him because of the triumph of his creation. Never in a single syllable does the Bible suggest that God and his purposes will ever go down to defeat. We need to keep this in mind in these days when it is very hard for us to be optimistic about the future of the world in a period of declining religious influence there are evil powers which may bring war, suffering, and more curtailment of human freedom. Every Christian has a duty to oppose these evil powers, and he should do so not in a spirit of hopelessness but in the conviction that God will bring righteousness to final triumph even though victory may be delayed much beyond our lifetime.

THE BLOOD BANK STORY

By ART BUCHWALD

Running Out Of POWs

WASHINGTON — No one has mentioned it, but President Nixon is running out of POWs. By the end of the month, if everything goes well, all our POWs will be home. While every American will breathe a sigh of relief, the shortage of POWs will play havoc with the President's plans to bring us all together.

Ramsey Thinwhistle, an expert on the POW shortage, told me there is a great concern in Washington that without the POW issue the President will find it much more difficult to get the American people to back him in his foreign and domestic plans.

"The President has been riding high with the Americans since the POWs have been released," Thinwhistle told me. "Most people consider this his greatest triumph in ending the war and the real reason we have 'peace with honor' in Vietnam. But by April there will be no POWs to display and Americans will start looking at the peace again and wondering what we really got out of it. It's very tough to sell the American people that we did a good thing in Vietnam when you have no more POWs coming home."

"What did you do wrong?" "I think the big mistake," Thinwhistle replied "is that we shouldn't have let all the POWs appear on television at the same time. We should have brought all of them back to the United States, but allowed only two or three of them to be exposed to the media every week. In that way we could have kept the POW issue alive for three years."

"That would have made more sense," I agreed. "The truth of the matter is that the President needs the POWs now more than they need him. By rationing them to the public over a long period of time, Mr. Nixon could keep the amnesty issue alive, he could appeal to the patriotism of the American people and he could use the POWs to attack all the people who don't agree with him. They are a natural Administration resource and it's a pity we used them up so fast."

"You should have thought of that when they first started arriving at Clark Field," I said.

"I agree," Thinwhistle said, "but we were caught up in the emotional excitement of the moment. In other wars we have had thousands of POWs but we never made any use of them for political purposes. In fact, this is the first war in American history where POWs have been used to prove we won."

"Frankly the POW release would have. We brought 500,000 men back from Vietnam and the American people didn't give a tinker's damn about any of them. But the 562 POWs were something else again. The people identified with them and their families. They were the only heroes to come out of this war. If we had known what they really meant to the American people, I assure you we wouldn't have given them to TV all at the same time."

"It's too late to do anything about it," I said.

"It's too late to do anything about these POWs, but if you recall at last week's press conference the President hinted that if Hanoi kept violating the truce agreement he might be forced to start bombing again."

"But if he starts bombing again, won't that mean that the President will be making more POWs?" I asked.

"Exactly. The more bombing you do in the north, the more POWs you give to Hanoi. If North Vietnam doesn't see the light, we could have 562 POWs in their camps by Christmas."

"Then that would take care of the POW shortage?"

"We don't want it, and we're not provoking it. But bombing does mean POWs, and we're going to bring them home if it takes us four more years."

Willie Circles Around

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Little Willy Undermeyer may not have been much good at sandlot baseball. He may not have been able to balance his bike without training wheels. But he played one hell of a game of cowboys.

HAL BOYLE

Not that his style was particularly flashy. No, Willy was not the white stallion kind of cowboy. Nor was he especially good at outdrawing the other preschool gunslingers in the neighborhood. Willy's special was "circling around" and there wasn't a 6-year-old in town who was better.

Maybe Willy was the best because he had the most patience. It took awhile for circling around to pay off. A kid's less durability might make mad rush up the hill at the enemy. Maybe the kid would end up getting everybody with flurry of verbalized gunshots. Maybe not. Jackie Sheehy was such a rash player.

"Dah! Dah! I got you! Jackie, playing a fierce Gernimo, would shout as he bounded for a fortress of empty mill crates held by Terry Mahe and four fellow members of the U.S. Cavalry, Toddler Division. "Yah did not!," came Terry's inevitable retort. "You weren't pointing your gun at me."

"Was so."

"Was not."

Then Pee Wee Ruggles, a 5 year-old who sucked his trigger finger, would whinnying interject: "You're wrong, Jackie Sheehy, you're wrong. You're supposed to say 'bang, bang, not 'dah, dah.' Who ever heard a gun go 'dah, dah' anyhow?"

While the others argued the pros and cons of "dah, dah" and "bang, bang," Willy would begin circling around. He would

To the Editor:

As the past chairman of the Pitt County Blood Program sponsored by the American Red Cross, I would like to encourage all citizens of Pitt County to respond positively to the Bloodmobile visit on Thursday and Friday, March 22 and 23.

The need was well pointed out by Mr. Ross and Mrs. Taylor in the March 18 edition of The Daily Reflector, in the story announcing Mr. Ross as the new chairman of the Pitt County Blood Program. This need is not restricted to particular groups but to every person in this county. The quota of almost 3,000 units of blood seems quite insignificant when you are a county with a base population of over 75,000. If anyone doubts the need, they should just ask their doctor on the next visit. He knows the need.

Again, let me urge everyone who is eligible to donate to be at the Moose Lodge on the dates mentioned above.

No Certainties For The Future

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — These are anxious days for those businessmen who like to conduct their affairs with an exactness and certainty that can be laid out before them clear as a ledger.

Whatever mathematical preciseness there may have been in the business world seems suspended; currencies are afloat, the stock markets are being restructured, government is undecided on its market place role.

Nobody knows how any of these factors will evolve.

A whole new set of ground rules is being developed to tell business how and what it can advertise, where and what it can build, what and to whom are its responsibilities in regard to product and environmental safety.

A multidimensional role in society is being created for the businessman who just a decade ago could say with moral certainty that "My sole responsibility is to my stockholders, my main goal is to make money."

And while this transitional stage evolves, that thing he understands best—money—is one thing today, another tomorrow. As one economist puts it, there is an increasing likelihood ahead of jogging rather than creeping inflation.

Those who construct the mathematical models of the economy have been seen inking in an inflation rate of 3.75 per cent—that's jogging—instead of the old assumption of 1.5 per cent. That means a 50-cent dollar by 1990.

Recognition of this possibility has already forced some businessmen to forsake tradition. The insurance industry, for example, is preparing to sell life policies whose face value will float with inflation.

This relaxation of a once rigid adherence to the guaranteed fixed rate of return is one of the most momentous marketing changes in business history. It was considered the keystone of this multibillion dollar industry.

So too was the concept of a free market place a tenet of traditional Republican thinking. But that peg in the platform was pulled and tossed away on Aug. 15, 1971.

It was on that date that President Nixon reversed his earlier stance and jumped into the market place, imposing a price freeze that was followed by two phases of price and wage restraints.

Phase 3 is the present name of the game, but a large number of businessmen are uncertain as to how it should be played. Are wage increases limited to 5.5 per cent—or nearly double that, as in the rail worker agreement?

While businessmen can only surmise what future role government will play in business, it is even less certain about the future values of currencies, now that rigid exchange rates have been suspended.

In the stock markets, which supposedly are in the process of meshing into one central market, uncertainty is to be expected. Some companies, however, seem certain of one thing: The value of their own stock.

Since the first of the year some of the biggest, strongest companies in the world have been eagerly buying up their own shares. That would indicate they seem certain for one thing in the future: their profits.

And that is still the measure by which most companies are rated in this business world in transition.

 as a mayor (of Greenville in 1939 and 1940), as solicitor and as an attorney at law in his hometown of Greenville, N. C., uniquely qualified him to discharge his responsibilities in such an effective manner over the years.
 "The name of Jack, Spain is known throughout Washington by the many people he has helped and worked with during his career."
 What are the duties of an administrative assistant to a Senator?

Spain explained, "...to fill in and be responsible for the administration of the office and to represent the Senator and do everything possible in the Senator's behalf with the ex-

 Israeli government lobbied furiously for White House backing of the amendment.
 At an October meeting between Jewish leaders and White House aide Leonard Garment, Garment was attacked for allegedly not pushing Mr. Nixon hard enough to get behind the amendment. On another occasion, John N. Mitchell, Mr. Nixon's former campaign director, warned the President that American Jews were "totally worked up" over Soviet bars to Jewish emigration. To capitalize his gains among American Jewish voters, Mitchell said, Mr. Nixon must publicly demand a change in Moscow.
 None of this had the slightest impact on the President. To the contrary, Mr. Nixon did not believe that the Jackson amendment stood a chance. It was not until Mrs. Meir's visit, after powerful Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas co-sponsored the amendment, that Mr. Nixon suddenly realized how much ground he had lost.
 The tide is overpowering, barring an unexpected disavowal by Mrs. Meir. In the words of Democratic Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona: "The Jewish lobby is such that the Jackson amendment is going to go through like greased lightning."
 Mills, whose House Ways and Means Committee will handle the trade bill, hopes to work out a compromise. He knows the Soviets cannot knuckle under to demands of a foreign parliament. Unlike Jackson, Mills foresees rich two-way trade between the U.S. and the Russians. His hope: Moscow will quietly modify its emigration policy long before Congress votes on the most-favored-nation issue.
 With positions hardening, Mr. Nixon's own role in breaking the deadlock is delicately clear: convince the government of Israel how much precious influence it stands to lose inside the Nixon administration if the Jackson amendment passes.

 Regional councils of government aid local units in discharging their responsibilities, through resources of planning and coordinated services, and as a vehicle for federal and state grants.  There had been disasters. Once he emerged triumphantly from the underbrush, reached for his trusty repeater and found he had lost it while circling. Another time, just as he was about to capture some ferocious, three-foot dangerous desperadoes near Harry Billips' sandbox, his mother called him for dinner. Willy obediently answered "Coming, mother," blew his cover and took three slugs from Terry Maher.
 But on this particular day, everything was working perfectly.
 Willy's forearms were scraped raw by the brambles he had crawled through. His face was covered with dirt and his nose was running. He had torn his new corduroys at one knee.
 "Dah! Dah! Bang! Bang!" he screamed. "Got you, got you all!"
 It was a masterful job of circling around. Four outlaws had bit the dust.

ception of voting. . . in the Senator's absence."

This, he apparently has done well.

And Spain was the senior administrative assistant on the Senate side of Capitol Hill at his retirement.

"It's right noticeable," he reflected this week, "that there are only four senators still in the Senate now that were there when I went over there." They include Senators George Aiken of Vermont, the "senior man", John McClellan of Arkansas; James Eastland of Mississippi; and Warren Magnuson of Washington.

"And there are only five Congressmen in Congress that were there when I went there with Herbert Bonner in 1940," he notes.

"When I went to Washington, Herbert Bonner had one secretary and two stenographers in 1940," Spain explained. "When I left Bonner and went to Sen. Hoey in January 1945, he had one administrative assistant and four secretaries.

"At the present time, Sen. Ervin has in his own office one administrative assistant, one executive secretary, one public relations man and 10 secretaries. . . plus three employees on the Codification subcommittee, 12 employees on the Constitutional Rights subcommittee, eight employees on the Separation of Powers subcommittee; and since he is chairman for Government Operations, when the staff is completed, it will consist of about 12 staff members."

And, Spain noted, "The so-called Watergate Investigation Subcommittee has a counsel, and when the staff is completed will have about 12 or more people."

Spain emphasized, "What success if any that I have had is in large measure due to the efficient staff that worked with me."

And Spain voiced praise for his former boss.

Sen. Ervin has always been recognized as a great constitutional lawyer, ever since he has been in the Congress. In fact, the late Sen. Russell has said that Sam Ervin was the leading constitutional lawyer in the Senate. . . and events within the last four or five years. . . with his committee chairmanships. . . has caused the news media to learn of his outstanding ability.

"Sen. Ervin," Spain explained, "has always stood for separation of power according to the constitution and the hearings by his several committees at the present time will show that it's the procedures that Sen. Ervin is

Suspect Soviet Attempt To Orbit Space Station

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians may try to overshadow the launching of the first U.S. Skylab by orbiting a space station of their own a month or so earlier, some Pentagon specialists say. They make their assessment on the basis of two Soviet instrument ships deploying into the Atlantic recently. The Gagarin and the Komarov, described by U.S. experts as Russian space-support ships, were sighted sailing from the Black Sea and were tracked by U.S. patrol planes as they steamed through the Mediterranean. Dish-type antennae and other special electronic gear topside made them easy to identify. Reports said the ships traveled at high speed, suggesting they were on an urgent mission. Pentagon specialists noted the Gagarin and Komarov have performed monitoring and command roles during past Soviet man-in-space missions.

This could indicate that the Soviets are planning a space voyage soon, perhaps in April, to claim the world's interest before the first Skylab is fired into earth orbit in mid-May. That Skylab is planned to stay in orbit for 28 days while American astronauts perform various scientific projects in a shirt-sleeve environment. Two Skylab voyages of 56 days each are to be flown later, if all goes well. An atmosphere of U.S.-Soviet competition prevailed in the early years of space exploration, but in recent years the trend seems to have moved toward U.S.-Soviet cooperation in civilian space research. The two countries have scheduled a joint U.S.-Soviet space mission for 1975.

Today's hand produced considerable discussion when it was dealt in a National Team-of-Four Championship. Altho North-South can take all 13 tricks at a club contract, neither of the pairs who played the deal ever bid the suit.

South chose to overcall with three diamonds for, though he had enough for a takeout double, the singleton heart deterred him from inviting partner to name a suit of his own. West raised East to three spades; however, this mild competition did not inhibit North in the slightest and he proceeded directly to six diamonds. He reasoned that his trump fit, the wealth of controls and a good six card side suit should provide sufficient playing strength to make the slam contract a reasonable undertaking. West thought otherwise and doubled the final bid.

Nixon Relaxes To Late Music

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has recently begun to play the piano late at night in the family quarters of the White House. In addition, he likes to turn up the volume on his hi-fi, his wife disclosed Tuesday.

At one table the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. North chose to pass his hand altho he had 13 points and two defensive tricks. It has been our experience that, with a distributional holding where a convenient rebid is available, strategic considerations dictate a quick entry into the auction before the level of bidding becomes too advanced.

The king of hearts was opened and South won with the ace. If diamonds are divided three-two, declarer has 12 top tricks. However, West's double clearly indicated that the trumps were stacked. As a safety play to retain control of the hand, South led the nine of diamonds and, when West covered with the ten, the latter was permitted to hold the trick. He returned the queen of hearts which declarer ruffed.

Mrs. Nixon said her husband plays the hi-fi so loud that "it blasts through the house. He thinks that's the only way to listen—when it's real loud and you can hear everything."

The President has taken to midnight piano playing because "it relaxes him," the First Lady said.

The musical discussion came at a White House reception where Mrs. Nixon accepted a collection of nearly 2,000 recordings to establish a White House record library.

East's opening bid of two spades is a preemptive call employed by some tournament players to designate a holding that includes a good six card suit with little outside values and less than opening bid strength. It is similar in principle to an opening three bid; however, the latter is usually based on a seven card suit.

Fewer Bad Income Tax Returns Seen In Southeast

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
CHAMBLEE, Ga. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says fewer bad income tax returns have been received this year from the Southeast where a crackdown began last year on fraudulently prepared returns. Intelligence officials in the regional office here said 90 percent of the returns selected for auditing last year contained false information, whether through accident or design. This year the figure is 25 percent, they say.

"I think the corner has been turned," said E. J. Vitkus, assistant regional commissioner for intelligence. "We hit the fraudulent preparers awfully hard ... and many have gone out of business." The IRS has made 24 fraud arrests in the South this year, compared with 39 during the corresponding period a year ago. The filing deadline is April 15 for individual income tax returns. The IRS said the 1972 arrests, first of that scope ever made by the government, have yielded 27 convictions. Eight other cases are pending and the four others were settled by acquittal or hung juries. One Mississippi man arrested last year was arrested again recently. His first trial ended in mistrial. Conviction of preparing a false return carries a maximum federal penalty of $5,000 fine and five years imprisonment. A Tampa, Fla., man was recently sentenced to 4½ years in federal prison for claiming 80 phony exemptions on 27 returns. The IRS says it spotted more than 50,000 bad returns last year and has recovered more than $8 million in taxes. The regional processing center at Chamblee processes between nine and 10 million returns each year. Georgia, Alabama and Florida have led the region this year in tax fraud arrests with six apiece. Mississippi, South Carolina and North Carolina each have had two. The IRS has made no criminal cases against taxpayers, even though some could have willingly cooperated with a person paid to prepare a fraudulent return. The agency has in the main directed its efforts at recovering such taxes and prosecuting preparers. "We certainly would consider the need to prosecute the taxpayers themselves," said Vitkus. "But we haven't done it. It would jam the courts to prosecute all of them." He said that many persons whose returns are fraudulently prepared are "innocent victims" who sign blank returns which are then prepared for a fee ranging from $5 to $35. But, he said, "in many instances the taxpayer is aware the return is improper. A man should know how many kids he has or whether he owns a home."

The IRS says few persons arrested for tax fraud employed sophisticated means of falsifying returns. Officials say most resorted to such easily detectible things as claiming nonexistent dependents for a taxpayer or entering exemptions for property tax and mortgage interest for a taxpayer who owns no home. "In some instances," said Vitkus, "the preparer discounts the refund with the taxpayer—that is, they share the money. This is an exception, rather than the rule. The main motivation is to generate business.

Word gets around that the preparer can get you a refund." He said the fraudulent tax preparers arrested thus far have been free-lance operators who do business out of rented storefronts or their homes. "They are by no means all fly-by-night operators," said Vitkus. "Many have been in business years." The investigation of such fraud began in the regional office last year after the IRS began to notice the unusually large flow of bad turns coming through the service center. IRS intelligence agents and other employees then went "shopping" among suspected preparers, having them fill out returns. Such undercover work then became national in scale. Sixty-two arrests were made in the West, including California, while 51 were made in the Southwest. ART THIEF? BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgian police today announced the arrest of a 29-year-old Sicilian, Calogero Migliore, in the theft of six paintings believed to have been smuggled to the United States.

No Standard For Coffee

WHIPPANY, N.J. (AP) — Varying coffee-drinking habits around the world dictate variations in automatic vending machines which dispense the drink, according to Earl C. Ramsey, president of Rowe International, which manufactures such machines. Those made for the Japanese market, for example, have to produce coffee that is two and a half times sweeter than the accepted American standard. For the Swedish market, the coffee machine must turn out a cup twice as strong as ours. Machines made for some South American countries must have coin slots that are easily adjusted for frequent inflationary price changes. And there are problems right in the United States. Women, more and more of whom are being hired to service machines, don't like to bend over, says Ramsey, so the company has designed its new machines to make it unnecessary to bend over to service them.

Tapioca Is Fed To Livestock

LONDON (AP) — Cereal foods for beef and dairy cattle are becoming so expensive that British farmers are looking around for cheaper substitutes. Tapioca, or cassava, the raw material from which it is made, is high on the list. Dutch and Belgian farmers have been using the product for some time. Mike Stranks, an animal nutrition expert with the Agricultural Development and Advisory Services, says: "In Holland and Belgium relatively small quantities of cereals are used for livestock feeding because they import a lot of cassava and citrus pulp which are used in preference to cereals as a cheaper source of energy."

Cleanup Costs Will Run High

TORONTO (AP) — Pollution control in Canada will cost the federal government and private industry between $1.5 billion and $2 billion annually, said Ontario Marketing Productions Ltd., in a recent report. The growth of the manufacturing of pollution abatement equipment is the result of a combination of growing public pressure, government legislation and industrial awareness, the report said.

90th Birthday Spent Working

By L. J. HORTIN
MURRAY, Ky. (AP) — Marvin L. Whitnell observed his 90th birthday recently by working a regular eight-hour shift at his fulltime job as a hotel night clerk.

"I always try to have something to do," explained the sprightly, dignified man who served as postmaster under three Presidents — Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

At the Murray National Hotel, where he also lives, Whitnell handles the desk, assigns rooms to guests, takes care of rentals and makes out daily reports.

"Mr. Marvin," as he is called, remembers five wars: Spanish-American, World War I, World War II, Korean War and Vietnam. A highly respected Republican living in a predominantly Democratic community, he says he believes in "law and order" and is proud of the fact that Calloway is "a dry county."

His great grandfather, the Rev. Robert Whitnell, was one of the early settlers of Calloway County and was one of the 13 founders of the Murray Methodist Church in 1839. Whitnell, who admits to being "staunchly religious, patriotic and loyal," has been a member of that church for 80 years — longer than any other living member.

The Whitnells, of Scotch-Irish ancestry and one of the oldest families in West Kentucky, came across the mountains from North Carolina to Kentucky in the early 1800s.

Murray State University is celebrating its 50th anniversary and Whitnell is modestly proud of the fact that he and his father were among the large contributors to the fund that established the university. Known at first as the Murray State Normal School, it opened its doors Sept. 24, 1923.

"My earliest recollection of my childhood was watching them build the first railroad into Murray," Whitnell reminisced. "It was called the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama Railroad."

As a boy, young Marvin worked hard on the farm and recalls that "circuit preachers" would often stay at the family home. "It was my job to take care of the preacher's horse," he added. "I, of course, had to eat at the second table and ate the left-over pieces of chicken."

He has worked with tobacco companies in Kentucky, with a coal and ice company in Georgia and helped drill for oil in Texas. He also lived for a short time in California but has always considered his real home to be Murray, where he served as postmaster from 1921 to 1933.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Now they operate used car lots instead of palmistry parlors, and many of the adults and children attend school.

A legendary Gypsy caravan has rolled to rest in Tacoma.

Historically, the Gypsies have eluded the census takers by teaching their children false names, and evaded truant officers by their spontaneous mobility and their ancestral Romany language. Most are illiterate and see scant need to learn to read or write.

But now, the only Gypsy school in the nation has been started here. It is sponsored by the State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation and funded by a $155,000 three-year grant.

Phonics, reading, spelling and math are taught adult men for two hours two nights a week in a grade school. Gypsy men come from as far away as Portland and Seattle to learn.

The Gypsies are suspicious of the Gadjó, or outsider, meaning anyone who is not a Gypsy.

Yet about 20 youngsters from approximately 60 Gypsy families attend regular elementary school here, a practice which is also unique nationally. The children often have trouble with English, their second language, but are exceptionally quick in arithmetic.

The adult school includes an hour on the fundamentals of the used car business. Four years ago, a dynamic Gypsy leader named Miller Stevens convinced a group of men to enter vocational training in managing used car lots. Now five of them own their own lots here, with some Small Business Administration help.

Stevens, the national leader of the American Gypsies, was the first Tacoma Gypsy to own a used car lot.

"Now I have my own license to sell cars, but today insurance companies still demand co-signers before they will bond Gypsies," he said.

Running a used car lot when you can't read or write can raise problems, and officials of the State Department of Motor Vehicle Dealer Licensing Office have been working with the Gypsy dealers to help them keep appropriate records.

The licensed Gypsy dealers are refuting the beliefs of many that a Gypsy is a fly-by-night, fast-buck operator. Adminis-

Few Violated Prison Holiday

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian penitentiary service's program of holiday leave for prisoners was 99.6 per cent successful during the last season. Of 1,368 prisoners granted leaves from federal penal institutions across the country, only five did not return, a report said.

Majority Would Grade Teachers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Should teachers be graded? Yes, according to a survey of 400 instructors and their classes at five colleges.

Students participating in the survey conducted by Educational Testing Service complained that some teachers weren't concerned enough with student learning. Other gripes: some teachers aren't open enough to other viewpoints; some aren't clear enough in telling how students will be evaluated.

The South Pitt County Sewer District—a project to tie Winterville, Ayden and Grifton into one waste treatment facility—was given approval by the Mid-East Commission's executive committee acting as the regional clearing house last night. In addition to the sewer project, the clearinghouse committee reviewed two other Pitt projects—one a State Highway Commission proposal for a new bridge at Grifton and the Swift Creek Watershed project—and a proposal to renovate the Washington Police Department. In approving the project, the Mid-East executive committee directed that emphasis be placed on the regional nature of the Pitt sewer project when preparing the comments for submission with the formal application for funds. The committee also gave favorable comments for the bridge at Grifton and Washington's police department renovation, but tabled final comments on the Swift Creek Watershed project until an Environmental Impact Statement is submitted. Morton Congleton, Director of Regional Planning for Mid-East told the committee that the South Pitt County Sewer is "one of the best and most significant regional projects that have been developed in the Mid-East Region, especially in the area of water and sewer service." He explained that the project is a joint effort between the towns of Ayden, Grifton and Winterville, emphasizes cooperation between municipalities. The project, he said, which has been spearheaded by the town manager of Ayden, Don Russell, Elected to the auditing committee were S.M. Edwards, Glenn Hardee, Kenneth Dews, and Eugene James. The Building and Grounds committee is composed of Edward Switzer, Otis Stokes, Roscoe Bell, and Leroy James. Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson reported that the Joint Committee on Accreditation will be inspecting here April 12 and 13. They will want to meet with the Board some time during these two days he said. He reported that the hospital has contracted with East Carolina University for in-service education and is satisfied with the programs held so far. The hospital is pursuing getting an Associate Degree nursing program started at Pitt Technical Institute, he said. Such a local program would alleviate the constant RN shortage Pitt Memorial has, it is believed. New ministers were approved for the visiting list. A letter to the editor published in the Daily Reflector praising Dr. Stephen White and all Pitt County doctors was read. Certificates of appreciation were presented to G.R. Gurganus of Bell Arthur and Keith Brunson of Chicod. Each of these men has served 14 years on the Board, two full terms and two year of unexpired terms previously. Richardson explained that the $2 million loan approved by the N.C. Medical Care Commission last Friday was actually only the go-ahead to apply to the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the loan from Hill-Burton funds for the construction. A grant of $200,000 was given final approval. This money is being given for use in construction of the acute short-term care facility because of

The South Pitt County Sewer District—a project to tie Winterville, Ayden and Grifton into one waste treatment facility—was given approval by the Mid-East Commission's executive committee acting as the regional clearing house last night. In addition to the sewer project, the clearinghouse committee reviewed two other Pitt projects—one a State Highway Commission proposal for a new bridge at Grifton and the Swift Creek Watershed project—and a proposal to renovate the Washington Police Department. In approving the project, the Mid-East executive committee directed that emphasis be placed on the regional nature of the Pitt sewer project when preparing the comments for submission with the formal application for funds. HATES TO BAT NINTH LEVITTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — New York Met shortstop Bud Harrelson told 700 Levittown Youth Council members at their annual sports day that he would hate "to bat ninth and that's where I'd bat if the National League used the designated hitter rule."

This season in the American League teams will use the new "designated hitter" rule, permitting a batter to hit for the pitcher. The pitcher will be allowed to remain in the game.

NEW BERN — Rose High School got the jump on the rest of Division II yesterday, as the Rampants won their opening league game, 2-0 over the New Bern Bears.

But it took a couple of mistakes by the Bears to allow Rose to push over both of the runs in the top of the sixth inning.

The rest of the game boiled down to a hard pitching duel between Rose's Lee Cherry and New Bern's Dennis Stillely, who both pitched three-hit gems.

Rose, however, came out on the winning end, as New Bern failed to score against him, despite two strong threats, in the first and fifth innings. Those two frames were the only ones in which the Bears managed to put runners on base. Cherry held them off the sacks completely in the second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh. In fact, only two balls were hit out of the infield during those frames.

Greenville meanwhile, hit the ball hard off Stillely, but always where someone was waiting. In four frames, the second, third, fifth and seventh, not one Rampant advanced to first.

Rose got off a slight threat in the top of the first, when Robert Brinkley, who got all three of the thrown out easily, as Smith made no move to the plate. Jerry Gathercole walked, but the next man popped up to end the threat.

Rose offered the next threat, in the fourth. Brinkley got his second hit, this time a double to right, but the next three batters went down without offering, leaving Brinkley stranded.

In the fifth, New Bern put Cherry in a heap of trouble, but again, he pitched his way out of it. With two away, Wade Lamb singled to right and Steve Bengel followed with a walk. Smith also pulled a walk, loading the bases.

Cherry then worked up a full count to Stillely, but struck him out with a fast ball to end the inning and the threat.

Rose followed that up by scoring their two runs in the top of the sixth, and New Bern never got another man on base.

The runs came with two away. Brinkley opened the action by getting his third straight hit, a single to right. John Barwick then hit a chopper in front of the mound that Stillely fielded with no trouble, but threw away in the attempt to get Barwick at first. Brinkley sped around the bases as the ball was being chased down between first and right field, and easily crossed home ahead of the relay. Barwick pulled into third as the ball, relayed by the first baseman, bounced over the catcher and through the screen behind home.

That allowed Barwick to walk on home with an automatic base, and the second run for the Rampants.

The victory boosted the Rampant record to 2-1 overall, and they are now 1-0 in Division II play. They play host to non-conference Williamston on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Panthers Slip By South Wayne

DUDLEY — North Pitt High School gained a 2-0 victory over Southern Wayne High School here yesterday, for its first victory of the season.

The win leveled off the Panther record at 1-1 both in Eastern Carolina Conference play and overall.

Steve Fuchs and Rich Harrell combined to toss a three-hitter at the Saints. Fuchs who got the win, went the first four innings, while Harrell came to hurl the final three. Fuchs fanned six and walked five, allowing two hits in his turn on the mound, while Harrell walked two, struck out one and gave up one hit in the three innings he worked.

The game was a scoreless standoff until the fifth inning, when the Panthers pushed over both of their runs. Linwood Brown led off with a single and moved to second on a wild pitch. Ken Terterton brought him around with a single for the first run. Ben Johnson singled and Fuchs walked, loading the bases. Harrell then drew a walk, and that forced in Terterton for the 2-0 margin.

Brown and Johnson each picked up two hits for the Panthers, while Vickery had two for Southern Wayne.

The Panthers travel to Ayden-Grifton on Thursday, seeking to move above the .500 mark.

Novak Named To Buc Grid Staff

Sonny Randle, head football coach at East Carolina University, today named Frank Novak to his football staff.

Novak will be the offensive coordinator on the Randle staff, succeeding Vito Ragazzo, who resigned recently to accept a coaching position at the University of North Carolina.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Novak comes to East Carolina from Northern Michigan University where he served as offensive coordinator since 1966.

Novak played collegiately at Northern Michigan and was named honorable mention All-American as a quarterback. He later played professionally with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

Novak graduated from Northern Michigan with degrees in both History and English in 1962 and later received his MA degree from Northern Michigan in 1967. He has done extensive study in remedial reading and has attended institutes at Hartford and the University of Connecticut.

He will also serve as academic counselor on the staff because of background in study skills.

Novak is married to the former Pearl Hatch and they are the parents of four children.

Vikings Edge Greene Central

SNOW HILL—D. H. Conley High School gained a 2-0 victory over previously unbeaten Greene Central yesterday and propelled itself into one of the favorites' role in the Eastern Carolina Conference standings.

Bobby Bryant tossed a non-hitter at the Rams, fanning nine and walking one. The lone Greene Central hit came in the bottom of the seventh when Tim Butts got a single.

Only one other batter reached, on a passed ball after striking out.

The Vikings, meanwhile, had gotten all they needed in the first inning. Clennell Streeter walked and Randy Adams reached on an error. A pickoff attempt resulted in an error, and Streeter raced in with the first run. Cleve Averett then walked and Bryant helped his own cause with a single, scoring Adams with the second run.

The only other hit of the day for the Vikings came in the third when Averett singled.

The win boosted the Conley record to 2-0 in league play. Greene Central falls to 3-1 overall and 1-1 in the league.

The Rams travel to Southern Wayne on Friday, while Conley plays host to Eastern Wayne.

As UCLA has for years, East Carolina University's women's basketball team takes a perfect record into this weekend's Nationals.

But unlike at UCLA, the program here has always been near the top.

In four years of women's intercollegiate basketball at ECU, the girls have never had a losing season. In fact, no team has ever lost more than two games in one year.

This year's squad, considered by coach Catherine Bolton the "best ever", will go into the big tournament beginning Thursday in New York with an 18-0 record.

East Carolina recently won the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Region Two championship in competition with teams from North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia.

Miss Bolton notes that the girls have come a long way with their "teamwork, spirit and pride." "I don't know what magic does it," she says, "but the girls believe in themselves and feel that they can and will beat anyone."

The amazing thing about this team is that there is no particular "starting five." The coach has started different units in different games, depending upon the team she was facing.

"The state tournament was fine example of this," the coach is quick to point out. "In the first game, we came from behind with one unit. And when we were behind in the second game we did it with another. "It differs from game to game. One game, a certain group of a certain girl may make the difference."

In the state championships, teamwork made the difference as the girls won the title after falling behind at halftime of all three games. Miss Bolton actually uses three different units as some 19 girls are listed on the roster.

However important teamwork has been for the team, several names stand out, notably Susan James and Sheila Cotten.

Miss James, a freshman, has shown surprising consistency and, according to her coach, "has been a steady influence on the team."

"Susan is good for rebounding and defense and her ability to score when we need it," Miss Bolton notes. A leaper at 5-8, Miss James starts in the pivot.

Miss Cotten has been the team's leading scorer and she already has games of 30 and 31 points, the latter coming in the regional title game at Kentucky.

"She just has amazing body control with moves that make her effective against almost any defensive player," Miss Bolton says. "Much of our success has come from the ability of Susan and Sheila to play well together."

The squad is young, boasting only four seniors and twice as many freshmen. The last-year performers are Peggy Taylor, Jean Mobley, Lorraine Rollins and Becky Atwood. Other regulars have been Terry Ward, Laura Kilpatrick, Terry Jones and Lollie Edwards, and each one has contributed to the perfect record.

But whoever it has been, or whoever it will be, it has been truly a fine situation for a coach as she prepares her team to seek the highest prize available.

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central High School gained its first victory of the season, rolling to a 13-8 win over Eastern Wayne yesterday.

Eastern Wayne opened the game with three runs in the top of the first. Rhodes walked and Cruely reached on a fielder's choice. Chadwick singled to drive in Rhodes, and an error on the play, let both Cruely and Chadwick come the rest of the way for a 3-0 lead.

But Farmville Central came right back with four in their half of the first to take the lead. Ed Wells walked and Tony Oakley singled. Barry Johnson walked and Tommy Cobb reached on an error, scoring both Wells and Oakley. Bobby Daniels then doubled to driv in both Johnson and Cobb.

Eastern scored a run in the top of the second to tie it up, but Farmville came back with two in the bottom of the frame to take a 6-4 lead. Phil Lewis led off for the Jaguars, walking, and moved up on a fielder's choice. Wells also reached on a fielder's choice, moving Lewis to third. A passed ball then scored Wells, and Oakley reached on an error, scoring Wells.

Eastern again came back with two, tying it at 6-6, but four more by Farmville in the bottom of the third put it out of reach, 10-6. Johnson led off with a singled and Cobb got a hit. Daniels walked to load them up and Lewis hit a sacrifice fly to score Johnson. A passed ball let Cobb in and Gary Cowan drew a walk. Wells walked to load them again, and another walk to Oakley brought in Daniels. Cowan then scored when Bobby Wooten reached on an error.

Farmville added another run in the fourth as Cobb walked and was wild pitched to second. Daniels singled him in.

The final two Jaguar runs came in the sixth. Cobb singled and Daniels reached on a fielder's choice. Lewis singled in Cobb and an error on the relay let Daniels score.

Eastern came up with one each in the sixth and seventh, but it was out of reach.

William Stallings and Cole each had two hits for Eastern, while Johnson, Cobb and Daniels each had a pair for the Jaguars.

Williamston Stops String

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School opened its 1973 baseball season with a 7-2 victory over defending State Class A baseball champ Robersonville yesterday. The loss snapped a 21-game winning streak for the Golden Eagles, and a personal win streak of 13 games for hurler Mike Weaver scattered three hits to the Eagles, who led 2-0 at one point in the game.

The Eagles got their two runs in the second inning. Jimmy Stalls led off with a single and Doug Warren walked. A passed ball let both runners advance, and another scored Stalls. Jeff Warren then sacrificed Doug Warren home for the 1-0 advantage.

That held up for one inning, as Williamston came back with five runs in the bottom of the third. Tim Jackson reached on an error and Ken Speller came on to

Chocowinity Tops Bear Grass

BEAR GRASS—Chocowinity High School handed Bear Grass its second loss of the young baseball season here yesterday, 9-6. It was the second straight win by Chocowinity over the Bears, who also play Bear Grass again on Friday on the Bear field.

The game was a scoreless deadlock until the fifth inning, when Chocowinity got its first run. David Brand singled and stole second, scoring in Billy O'Carroll's hit.

Bear Grass came right back with one to tie it up. Keith Williams singled and also stole second. He scored on Mark Gardner's single.

But Chocowinity came up with six in the sixth to take the lead for good. Glenn Page reached on an error and Turnage singled him in. Manning's hit brought in Turanage and M. Jones singled. Greg Jones got a hit, scoring Manning, and Allgood and Brand were both hit by pitches, forcing in M. Jones. Donnie Haddock's walk brought in Greg Jones, and Allgood scored on Page's sacrifice fly. That made it 7-1.

They added two more in the top of the seventh for a 9-1 lead. Bear Grass tried to rally, scoring five in their half of the seventh, but it fell short. Keith Wynne singled and David Hodges got a hit. Jimmy Peaks singled in Wynne and Williams singled to score both Hodges and Peaks. Williams, however, was out, trying to make it to third on a steal. Gardner walked and both James and Richard Harrison were hit by pitches, loading the bases. Danny Peaks then singled, scoring Gardner and James Harrison.

Williams led the Bear hitting with two, while Brand, O'Carroll and Greg Jones each had two for Chocowinity.

Pirates Still National Choice

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Despite the tragic death of Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates should repeat as champions in the National League East.

The Pirates took the title by 11 games last season. It could be easier this season for a team that has first-rate pitching, consistent power, adequate defense and tremendous depth.

Manager Bill Virdon admits, "There is just no way to replace a Clemente." But the team has enough talent to overcome the loss of its great outfielder who died in a plane crash last New Year's Eve.

Pittsburgh won 96 games last season, the most in baseball, and led the major leagues with a .274 batting average. Pirates' hitters were the best in almost every hitting category in the National League. It's a team that averages 26 years and is in its prime. The attack is complemented by a pitching staff that allowed fewer runs than any team in the league and was second in earned run average with a 2.81 mark.

Virdon has such depth that he is experimenting with Manny Sanguillen, one of the league's best catchers, as the replacement for Clemente in right field. Sanguillen's job behind the plate falls to Milt May, a strong-armed youngster, capable receiver and a 2.18 hitter last season.

Al Oliver, a supremely confident, brash young star who could be the heir to Clemente's leadership role, is the center fielder. He hit .312 with 89 RBI

Dartmouth College rolled to a 21-3 victory over the East Carolina University lacrosse team here yesterday.

Dartmouth jumped off to a 5-0 lead in the first quarter of play and upped that to 9-1 by halftime. They outscored the Pirates in the second half by 12-2 to finish the romp.

East Carolina's goals were scored by Larry Hayes, Bill Harrington and Andy Stanick, while Jeff Hansen recorded two assists.

Scoring for Dartmouth included Himman with four, Anderson, Sheppe and Lyons with three each, Venan with two, and Cranshaw, Gilchrist, Dwyer, O'Brien and Craig with one each.

The loss evened the Pirate record off a 1-1. They play host to the University of North Carolina in their next match on April 1.

Carolina, Notre Dame Advance In NIT

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, Virginia Tech, Notre Dame does belong in this year's National Invitation Tournament.

The Fighting Irish, scorned by some for their 11 losses during the regular season, continued to make believers of the cynics with their second straight victory in the 36th annual basketball classic Tuesday night.

"We're as good as any team in the field," said Notre Dame center John Shumate after scoring 19 points in a 79-71 triumph over Louisville in the quarterfinals Tuesday night.

"I think that Notre Dame can handle North Carolina in the semifinals," offered Louisville forward Ken Bradley, adding a voice in Notre Dame's behalf.

If there was a voice boosting the Fighting Irish when they were first invited to the nation's oldest post-season tournament, it wasn't very loud.

The NIT selection committee was rapped in some quarters for picking a school with a 15-11 record. Now the record is 17-11 with a distinct possibility of getting healthier.

"There are no selfish players on this team," said Shumate. "We all give 100 percent."

Actually, they have to—Coach Digger Phelps only plays five iron men unless he's forced by foul trouble to do otherwise.

Wooden Edges Sloan For Honor

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Taciturn John Wooden, who keeps winning at UCLA despite the odds and the pressure, was named today the Associated Press' college basketball Coach of the Year for 1972-73.

The highly-successful Wooden won the award for the sixth time in a relatively close battle with Norm Sloan of North Carolina State.

Previously, the UCLA coach took the honor in 1964, 1967, 1969, 1970 and 1972.

Wooden's fiercest rivals conceded him the award.

"He's unique," said Coach Jerry Tarkanian of Long Beach State, one of UCLA's closest rivals, "His theories wouldn't work for everyone, but he does a tremendous job of organizing and getting teams ready to play."

"Sure, he's had the players," said Coach Bob Boyd of cross-town rival Southern California, "but coaches often cite players as a crutch for something they haven't done themselves."

"It's a helluva lot easier sometimes to surprise and do what is NOT expected. Even with the players UCLA has had, a lesser coach could have fouled it up. John hasn't overreacted to changing attitudes, lifestyles and times."

Wooden's Bruins, who have won the NCAA championship six straight seasons, are in the playoffs for the seventh year in a row. Enroute to his seventh straight Pacific-8 Conference title, Wooden's Bruins eclipsed San Francisco's all-time winning streak.

At the end of the regular season, the Bruins had won 71 in a row—11 more than the Dons did in the fabled years of Bill Russell during the 1950s. And with two NCAA tourney victories their streak has reached 73.

Sloan gave Wooden a battle in the voting by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters, pulling far in front of the rest of the field. Wooden had 276 votes and Sloan 204.

Among the other coaches receiving support from the nation's press were Bob Knight of Indiana; Dick Phelps of Notre Dame; Dean Smith of North Carolina; Al McGuire of Marquette; Minnesota's Bill Musselman, and Dave Gavitt of Providence.

Notre Dame's triumph before an unusually apathetic crowd at Madison Square Garden moved the Fighting Irish into Saturday's semis against North Carolina, an earlier 73-63 victory over Massachusetts.

The other semifinalists will be determined in a double-header Thursday night pitting Minnesota against Alabama and Fairfield with Virginia Tech, a team that pulled off one of the tourney's upsets with an opening-round victory over New Mexico.

Notre Dame, a sentimental favorite when opening the tourney with a victory over Southern California on St. Patrick's Day last Saturday, was astoundingly greeted with some boos Tuesday night.

The Fighting Irish, playing with only five men until the last second when Gary Brokaw fouled out, had a tenuous 33-31 lead at the half at their hands full with the Cardinals.

Despite the lack of crowd support, it didn't take the Fighting Irish long to inspire themselves in the second half.

With 10 minutes gone, Notre Dame ripped off 10 straight points while shutting out Louisville for six minutes and gained a 60-51 advantage. It was all over for the Missouri Valley Conference visitors at that point.

"We had to give it all we had," said Phelps, whose well-conditioned starters include Shumate, Brokaw, Gary Novak, Pete Crotty and Dwight Clay.

Shumate's scoring led the Irish while Clay, who had three straight field goals in the 10-point streak, contributed 18 points. Novak connected for 16 in the balanced Notre Dame attack.

Junior Bridgeman and Bill Butler had 17 points apiece for Louisville, which goes home to Kentucky with a 23-7 season's record.

While Notre Dame never went to its bench strength, North Carolina made 52 substitutions while beating shorter Massachusetts. After a while, the waves of reserve strength just wore out the Yankee Conference champs.

"We were not in awe of them as we were the last time we faced the Tar Heels here," said Massachusetts Coach Jack Lehman. "We're a better team now than two years ago."

Lehman referred to a first-round NIT game in 1971 when

North Carolina crushed Massachusetts by 41 points enroute to the tourney title.

North Carolina eventually ran away from the stubborn Minutemen, but not until after a tough early battle.

The teams were tied 30-30 at the half and the Tar Heels needed a 15-6 spurt in the second half to beat back their upset-gear opponents. The scoring tear moved North Carolina from a 36-35 lead to 51-41, their widest lead of the game to that point. The Minutemen never could get closer than six points.

A Massachusetts' press caught North Carolina off guard for a moment.

"That's the first press to hurt us in a long time," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith whose team should be used to such things in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "We've played better this year—but Massachusetts, of course, had something to do with that."

Proud Describes Mrs. Clemente

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Roberto Clemente wasn't sure just how she would react to the overwhelming election of her late husband to baseball's Hall of Fame.

The dark-haired beauty from Puerto Rico groped for the right words after she was informed Tuesday that the Baseball Writers Association of America had approved the election of Roberto Clemente to the Hall with 93 per cent of the largest return in the history of the balloting.

"I don't know if I can say I'm happy," said Mrs. Clemente in a low voice, carefully enunciating her words. "Make it proud," she decided after a moment of thought.

Association President Joe Heiling of the Houston Post made the announcement that of 424 ballots cast by veteran writers Clemente got 393. He needed only 75 per cent, or 318.

In addition to Mrs. Clemente, the announcement was attended by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Joe L. Brown, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for whom Clemente starred through 18 seasons. The commissioner congratulated the young widow on the honor bestowed upon her husband.

Clemente died last New Year's Eve in a plane crash off the coast of his native Puerto Rico. He had gathered supplies for the earthquake stricken people of Managua, Nicaragua, and with three others had just taken off on a mercy mission when the plane crashed into the churning waters. All were killed.

The baseball writers felt that because of the humanitarian nature of Clemente's death that it should wave a rule requiring a player to wait five years after his last major league game to become eligible for the Hall of Fame. The Hall officials at Cooperstown, N.Y., agreed and the ballots were sent out.

Clemente, who compiled a lifetime batting average of .317 and won four National League batting titles, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame in August.

Holshouser Says Demo Bill Aimed Directly At Him

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser told a legislative public hearing Tuesday that Democrat-sponsored bill to take away his appointive power over the state and county election boards "is working against me—not just an abstract office, but against me personally."

In a rare appearance before a committee, Holshouser characterized the bill as "divisive" legislation that "drives a wedge between us."

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Gerald Arnold, D-Harnett, would require a majority of members of the state and county boards to be members of the political party with the largest number of registered voters, which would insure continued Democratic domination of the state elections system.

"I do not believe a better legislature is built by chipping away, bit by bit, at the authority of the Executive Branch. I believe it will serve this state poorly," Holshouser said. "Neither do I believe this legislation is worthy of the traditions of the Democratic party. I do not recall that it was an issue in the campaign of last year, nor that it was a pledge of any person in this General Assembly. It is not something your constituents have asked you to do. If it is the people's will, I have yet to hear their voice in support of this," the governor continued.

Nine other people testified against passage of the bill, while only three urged its passage. They were Arnold, Sen. I. C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, and Rep. Jimmy Green, D-Bladen.

Green told the committee he agreed "there is some poor timing" in the introduction of the bill. "But it is a fair bill that should have been conceived 10 years ago ... I believe that should we fail to enact this bill, it would be disruptive to the election process."

He said he did not agree that the bill "is a personal affront to Gov. Holshouser and his office."

Floyd McKissick, founder of Soul City in Warren County and national chairman of the Two-Party System, was among those opposing the bill. He said, "This bill is actually out to emasculate the executive branch of government. This bill attempts to punish the winner."

Joe Brown, state chairman of North Carolina Wallaceites, told the legislators the measure would not only strip the governor of his power, but also the people who voted for him.

Others who voiced opposition to the bill included C. J. Hyatt of Winston-Salem, state vice-chairman of the Democratic party; Franklin Randolph of Bolivia, a member of the state Democratic Executive Committee; and Dr. Frances Dawson of Burlington, state president of the North Carolina League of Women Voters.

Also speaking against the bill were Edward L. Rankin Jr., of Kannapolis, former private secretary to two North Carolina governors; Mrs. Janie Locklear of Pembroke, leader in the movement to save old Main Building at Pembroke State University; Rex Harris of Fayetteville, state vice chairman of the North Carolina Black Caucus; and Rep. Joe Hege, R-Davidson.

North Pitt School News

By KITTINELSON
North Pitt High School is proud to have a John Motley Morehead Scholarship winner among its student body.

Jimmy Nelson, winner of the scholarship, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Nelson of Bethel. The scholarship was awarded on the basis of academic and athletic ability. He plans to study psychiatry at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

North Pitt, North Lenoir, and Southern Wayne competed in a track meet at North Lenoir Wednesday.

North Lenoir won the meet with North Pitt coming in second.

The North Pitt baseball team lost its first game to North Lenoir, 4-3. Kathy Taylor placed seventh in the six mile race at Virginia Beach.

Dudley Flood of the North Carolina Department of Education, Raleigh, visited North Pitt last week. He talked to the freshman class during second period and to the seniors during third period.

Flood is a former principal of Bethel Union High School.

Proposed Road To Corolla Is Ruled Out

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The tiny village of Corolla on North Carolina's Outer Banks has often baffled tourists in the coastal area.

Their official State Highway Department maps showed Corolla connected to the rest of the world by a broken blue line, but when they tried the trip from the Dare-Currituck county line, the road suddenly ended.

Jim Holshouser as the honored guests.

Other speakers present were Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Dr. Craig Phillips, Sen. Ralph Scott, Charles Dunn, and Mrs. Grace Rohrer.

The program included luncheons, a banquet and an informal dance.

That's because the road to Corolla was only a proposal, and now a State Highway Department official says the proposal is dead.

Billy Rose, in an interview, said a $24,000 study conducted by the Highway Department showed that the proposed road could not be justified in view of other state needs.

The decision means that Corolla, with a population of 36, will continue to be accessible only to those with boats or dune buggies.

The road was rejected partly because of environmental considerations. The road would have to be built over one of the narrowest sections of the Banks, and one of the last to remain undeveloped.

Hexachlorophene Associated With Fifteen Deaths

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The deaths of 15 persons in the United States have been associated with the external use of cleansing agents containing the germ killer hexachlorophene, according to federal records.

In most instances, the cleansing agent was pHisoHex which contains 3 per cent hexachlorophene, the records show. The manufacturer said the deaths were "not pHisoHex deaths."

The Food and Drug Administration in September banned hexachlorophene (HCP) from all but prescription products, but did not tell newsmen of HCP's association with the 15 U.S. deaths although it was aware of them.

The FDA did cite the deaths of 39 French infants and a university study correlating frequent bathings with HCP solutions and brain lesions. The ban covered over-the-counter sale of popular deodorant products containing HCP.

Asked why the FDA did not cite the 15 U.S. deaths, an agency spokesman said the French and university reports formed "the important data."

"Our action was fully responsive on the basis of the data as it was being developed," the spokesman said.

At no point do FDA records list the germ killer as cause of the 15 deaths which occurred between 1954-71. They are reported in a September 1972 FDA summary under a category entitled, "Fatal Reactions Associated With Topical Use" of HCP.

The summary also lists several nonfatal reactions and other deaths associated with accidental swallowing of products containing HCP.

Many of the 15 deaths occurred during a period when Winthrop Laboratories, manufacturer of pHisoHex, was not reporting to the FDA any adverse reactions to the product.

Asked about the deaths, an official of Sterling Drug, Inc., which owns Winthrop Laboratories, said in a telephone interview that the deaths noted in the FDA report "are not pHisoHex deaths."

"Just because someone happens to be bathing with hexachlorophene at the time he dies doesn't mean he dies from hexachlorophene," said Dr. Monroe Trout, Sterling's medical director.

The FDA records on fatal reactions associated with HCP cite instances in hospitals of the use of pHisoHex on burns and in enemas and vaginal packs.

In taking action against HCP in September, the FDA noted reports that said the French infants died as a result of baby powder accidentally containing 6 per cent HCP, double the intended dose.

The FDA also cited a University of Washington report which showed "a positive correlation between three or more exposures to hexachlorophene bathing with 3 per cent hexachlorophene emulsion and lesions found in the brain stem in premature infants who died of unrelated causes."

Widely used in hospitals for more than 20 years, HCP increasingly in recent years came into use in a variety of deodorant cosmetics and soaps.

In December 1971 the FDA sent a drug bulletin to 600,000 doctors and other health professionals, warning them to discontinue use of products such as pHisoHex in routine bathing of infants and adults.

Tomatoes were not eaten in the United States until about 1825 because they were thought to be poisonous.

The bulletin cited studies by Winthrop which showed that monkeys bathed in a 3 per cent HCP solution for 90 days had developed brain lesions.

In January 1972, the FDA announced in a press release that all skin cleansing products containing more than .75 per cent HCP would be restricted to prescription use only.

That news release, dated Jan. 6, 1972, said:

"In announcing today's decisions, Charles C. Edwards, M.D., the commissioner of Food and Drugs, emphasized: 'The FDA is not aware of any harm to humans from the use of HCP under recommended or normal conditions of use.'"

Asked for clarification of this statement in light of the deaths, FDA spokesman Donald A. Berreth said Edwards was "talking of home use." Berreth said also that the FDA didn't have the death records at that time.

Ten deaths associated with the antibacterial chemical were reported by Winthrop in January 1972 and others came to light as a result of FDA research, he said.

The Associated Press asked the FDA for records on the 15 U.S. deaths more than a month ago but was denied access to them until the records were obtained through other sources.

The AP's request was denied pending an investigation initiated by the request, according to James Morrison, assistant to the director of the FDA's Division of Regulatory Operations in the Bureau of Drugs.

He said the investigation was to determine whether Winthrop acted legally when it did not make periodic reports of adverse reactions to HCP over several years.

Africa Sees Problems Of Urban Life

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — A rush to the cities is on across the African continent.

Urbanization has become a major problem in the last few years and will become more acute until the turn of the century, according to U.N. and local officials.

An estimated 17 per cent of Africa's population now lives in cities, but as one U.N. report said: "Although Africa is the least urbanized of continents, its growth in this area will continue to be the most rapid in the world."

Officials estimate Africa's city population in 1980 will be more than double its 1965 size and increase to 28 per cent by the year 2000. The continent now has three cities of more than one million persons, but this figure will rise to 19 within 12 years.

The problem is worse in Africa than other areas of the world because it is increasing more rapidly and most countries don't have the financial reserves to meet the challenge.

In Addis Ababa, for instance, peasants from the countryside have so overwhelmed the local economy that at least 10,000 girls have been forced into prostitution and some 6,000 youngsters, abandoned by parents, roam the streets as beggars, according to local officials.

Nairobi, Kenya's capital, has doubled in size in 10 years. School authorities report for the first time the use of drugs among some students as delinquency mounts steadily.

Officials at the Economic Commission of Africa (ECA) said some countries that traditionally have been self-supporting in agriculture now are forced to import foodstuffs as peasants abandon the land and move into the cities.

Social workers are concerned with the breakdown of family life. Male heads of the family move to the city to earn a living and eventually may abandon the family back home.

Socialist Tanzania has taken perhaps the sternest measures to combat the problem.

Any Tanzanian caught in urban areas without work is shipped to an ujamaa village—similar to an Israeli kibbutz—where he has to work on the land. He could be sent to prison if caught a second time without employment.

Neighboring Kenya's constitution forbids such measures. Nairobi officials have relied on periodic pleas for people to return home—generally without much effect.

Zambia and Ghana tackled the problem by providing shanty dwellers with small sums of money to build homes on plots of land cleared by the government.

Annual Revival Begins Sunday

FARMVILLE — The annual revival meeting at Wesley Methodist Church will begin Sunday morning, March 25, and will conclude Friday night, March 30.

On Sunday at 11 a.m., the "Now Generation Singers," a youth choir based in Rocky Mount, will give a religious music concert. At 7:30 p.m. Ray Webb of the Bell Arthur Christian Church, will be the speaker.

DeWayne Eakes, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church, Lucama, will be the speaker for the weekly services.

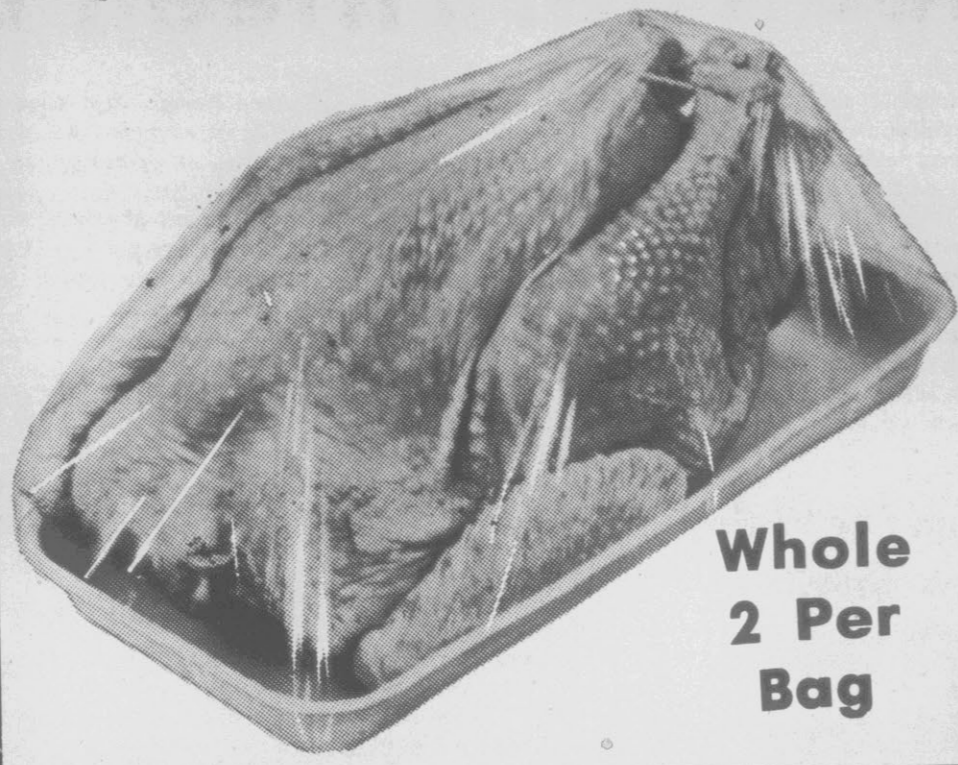

The revival will have an "accent on youth."

Small Battery Warms Boots

MOSCOW (UPI) — Boots warmed by a small battery are being produced by a footwear factory in Kimry, near Moscow, for persons working in the Soviet Union's extreme north, the Tass news agency said.

It said the boots keep feet warm even at temperatures as low as minus 58 degrees Fahrenheit. Tractor drivers and excavator operators have the option of attaching the boots to the 12-volt power plant of their vehicle.

The United States sent its first official exploring party into Oklahoma in 1806 under the leadership of Lt. James B. Wilkinson.

Says Broad Changes Due In Housing

BOSTON (AP) — The innovative homes produced by Western U.S. builders during the early '70s will appear conservative when compared with the styles of the next century, predicts the head of a mortgage insurance firm here.

"Architectural styles will be more appealing, more individualized, as builders and developers learn to work with a greater variety of preformed concrete, plastic, metal and glass products," declares Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co.

Apartments, too, will change, he says. Multifamily developments — mostly in "new towns" — will offer greater privacy, more spaciousness, condominium ownership on a wide scale, group recreational facilities and proximity to a myriad of services.

Goss points out that there will be more families by the end of the century — roughly 90 million against today's 55 million. "But the average family will be smaller and houses will be smaller, too," he notes. "They will likely average 900 to 1,000 square feet, compared with more than 1,400 square feet today."

"Interiors will appear more spacious, however. They will tend toward one large room, divided by semi-transparent movable partitions that will enable homeowners to select their own interior of changing 'room' shape and size when they wish."

Goss believes technical advances, including many civilian "spinoffs" from the space program, will make a significant impact on housing by 2000. These will include:

— A small, self-contained fuel cell, solar or nuclear power plant in each home that will provide heat, electricity and air conditioning. Apartments and offices will have similar, larger units. Power packages will aid in urban decentralization, since homes will not have to rely on municipal utility systems.

— Better lighting. By use of skylights, glowing luminescent wall panels and fiber optics, both daylight and artificial light will be transmitted to every room.

— More use of components in building — plumbing cores, fiberglass room modules, steel and aluminum framing systems, as well as more glues and resins instead of nails for construction.

— Better home security and communications systems, including two-way color cable television, long-distance laser picture telephone service, small computers to make offices in the home possible, self-contained fire warning and extinguishing systems, magnetically coded door locks and wireless room-to-room intercoms.

— More advanced appliances — radar ovens in wide use, ultrasonic washers for clothes and dishes, computer-selected menus and automatically-controlled kitchens.

"And homes will be easier to buy," Goss says. "We are not far from the 100 per cent mortgage that will enable buyers — particularly young couples — to purchase a home with no money down. This should be in wide use by 2000."

Foreigners Buy Land In Ireland

DUBLIN (AP) — Despite heavy government taxes, nearly 100,000 acres of Irish land have been bought by foreigners in the last decade. Germans are reported to be the principal buyers.

Minister of Lands Sean Flanagan says there is no likelihood of a takeover by Common Market millionaires, despite the fact that any citizen of an EEC country who lives or works in Ireland for two years would be free to buy Irish land.

Suspects Blood Has To Climb

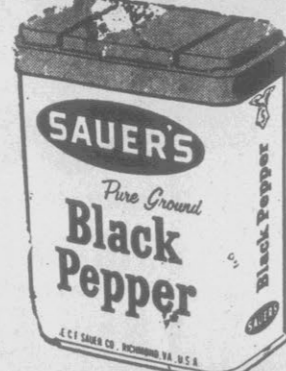

LONDON (AP) — Tall men tend to lose their hair sooner than shorties, and if they're chubby as well the chances of baldness increase.

That's the finding of Mrs. Betty Roney, who runs a London hair clinic. She believes that the bigger you are the greater the task of your blood supply to give nourishment to the roots of your hair.

The 'Worry Clinic'

The Ego Needs Appreciation

Tad's dramatic renege shows, why the "Compliment Club" technique is vital in all walks of life. Salary alone doesn't suffice, for Jesus also stated that "Man does not live by bread alone." We have ego hangers, so we crave love for our soul!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE W-557: Tad Z., aged 28, is a former newspaperman. "Dad," my son Philip, the U. S. Congressman, told me, "Tad was hired as ghost writer for a Senator."

speeches, which the Senator always read, verbatim. "But the Senator figured he had paid Tad a good salary for those speeches, so he accepted all the credit for them."

"As the campaign approached the November 7th deadline, the Senator was scheduled for a statewide TV final address on the night of November 6th. "Tad was told to write a speech which would be certain to swing the election in favor of the Senator."

"The latter wasn't naturally too articulate, but now he would astound his constituents with his superb orations. "And he soon began to win praise from the newspaper and TV back home. "Although Tad enjoyed seeing his boss become so popular as a speaker, he wished the Senator would occasionally give him a word of praise. "Or even a little pat on the back, just to show appreciation for Tad's splendid ghost written down to the nitty gritty and offer specific solutions to American's major problems. "Thus, he promised he would show exactly how the terrific tax rate could be cut in half! "And also how to end the Vietnam War as well as get all the POW back home again. "He vowed, too, that he'd offer the only surefire method of handling the welfare problem of our large cities. "By now he had reached the bottom of Page One, so he quickly turned to the 2nd page of his oration. "Then he stuttered, stammered and suddenly wiped beads of sweat from his brow. "For in bold type, clear across the middle of the otherwise empty page, Tad had written: 'Now, Senator, you are on your own.' "Frantically the Senator sifted through the remaining pages, only to find all of them blank! "In desperation, he tried to recall his previous 4th of July address, which he stumbled through. "But when he got back to Washington, to fire Tad, he found Tad's resignation already on his desk! "So Tad beat him to the draw! "But if the Senator had used your 'Compliment Club' technique, he'd have avoided this calamity."

Van Gogh Art Is Found In Attic

LONDON (AP) — A drawing by Vincent Van Gogh was found in the attic of a house in the Devonshire village of Stoke Gabriel.

The drawing is of a house in Brixton, London, where the Dutch artist stayed in 1872 when he was about 20. There he fell in love with Eugenie Loyer, his landlady's daughter, but she spurned him as she was already engaged.

Her granddaughter, Mrs. Katherine Eugenie Maynard, took the drawing with her when the family moved to Devonshire. She was going to throw it away, but "then I noticed the work that had gone into it and decided to put it aside in the attic," she said.

Mrs. Maynard has no intention of selling the picture right now. "I have presented it on loan to the new Van Gogh museum which is opening in Amsterdam in June," she said.

MORMON DISTRICTS
