

Watergate Mastermind Given Prison Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge sentenced one of the seven Watergate conspirators up to 20 years in prison today, gave "provisional" sentences to five others and postponed sentence for one of the men who said political pressure had been applied to keep the principals silent.

G. Gordon Liddy, 42, described as the mastermind of the burglary and bugging of the Democratic headquarters last June, was fined $40,000 in addition to a sentence that ranged from a minimum of six years eight months to 20 years.

Defendant James W. McCord Jr., 53, a longtime CIA man who was security chief of the Committee to the Re-Elect the President, said his family has expressed fear for his life if he tells what he knows about the case.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica postponed McCord's sentencing for one week after the man asked to speak with the judge privately. Judge Sirica said he would listen to McCord, but on the record and in court.

Liddy and McCord were convicted after trial; the others pleaded guilty.

"There was political pressure applied to the defendants to plead guilty and remain silent," McCord had written to the judge last Monday. "Perjury occurred during the trial in matters highly material to the very structure, orientation and impact of the government's case and to the motivation and intent of the defendants."

The judge read the letter before beginning the sentencing procedure.

Liddy, convicted on six counts of conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping, stood with arms folded as the prosecutor told the judge that "Of the seven, he was the one of background and position and it made his conduct the most blameworthy."

Liddy had been an FBI man for five years, was a former prosecutor in Dutchess County, N.Y., was a White House aide and served as counsel for both the re-election committee and its finance arm.

The judge left open the final sentence for five who pleaded guilty pending a further study by the Bureau of Prisons. The five are E. Howard Hunt Jr., 54, who helped Liddy recruit the other four—Bernard L. Barker, 55; Eugenio R. Martinez, 49; Frank A. Sturgis, 37, and Virgilio R. Gonzalez.

The judge said "each of you are provisionally committed to a maximum sentence" and then added that after a three-months study he will uphold, reduce the sentences or place the men on probation.

The maximum sentence would be 50 years and $40,000 for Hunt and 55 years and $50,000 for the others.

Hunt, a highly-decorated former CIA operative and former White House consultant, made an emotional plea that "because of what I did I have lost everything I valued in life, my wife, my job, my reputation." Hunt's wife died in an airplane crash shortly before the trial began in January.

McCord in his letter said he cannot feel confident in talking with an FBI agent or testifying before a grand jury or with other government representatives and therefore asked to speak with Sirica privately.

The judge said he would do so only with the understanding that he will be free to discuss McCord's statement with a Senate committee or publicly.

Big Welcome For Returning POW Planned Saturday

Saturday has been declared Maj. William H. Hardy Day in Pitt County by County Commissioners chairman, B. Alton Gardner.

Mayor S. Eugene West also has designated Saturday as Maj. William H. Hardy Day for the City of Greenville, urging "all citizens of the community to pay tribute to Maj. Hardy and all other returning Armed Forces personnel."

The only native Pitt Countian to become a prisoner of war in Vietnam will be given a hero's welcome in Greenville. The son of Mrs. Delphia Hardy of Rt. 1, Winterville and the late Noah Hardy, he will be greeted by family, friends, and dignitaries in the Pitt Plaza area Saturday about 2:30 p.m. and a motorcade will then proceed to the National Guard Armory on Highway 11 North of Greenville.

In the 3 p.m. program at the Armory is an ROTC drill, speeches, patriotic songs, and other displays of honor for Maj. Hardy.

Hardy is a 1959 honor graduate of the now defunct W.H. Robinson Union School in Winterville. He graduated with honors from North Carolina A&T University in Greensboro in 1964. Having participated in the ROTC program at the university, he was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation.

Hardy was captured June 30, 1967 when the enemy ambushed his company on a road leading to Saigon. He was a prisoner of the Viet Cong from that day until his release in early February of this year. He and his wife, Theola, live in Fayetteville, but he has many relatives here.

"All the citizens of Pitt County can be proud of Maj. Hardy for the manner in which he has conducted himself under most adverse conditions and the sacrifice and suffering he has undergone while maintaining his faith in God and Country," Gardner said.

All Pitt countians and other well-wishers are invited to this celebration of Maj. Hardy's being home Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Greenville Armory, the planners of the event say.

Cannot Begin Saturday As Planned Deadlock Over POW Release

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam failed today to resolve the deadlock delaying the release of 138 American prisoners captured in Vietnam. Both said the POW transfer could not start Saturday as planned earlier.

The United States delegation also told the Communists at a 3½-hour meeting of the Joint Military Commission that it had evidence confirming that North Vietnam had re-established an anti-aircraft missile site near Khe Sanh, in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. It threatened retaliatory action.

The South Vietnamese government charged that Communist forces fired a rocket into a refugee camp in the Mekong Delta 95 miles southwest of Saigon, killing 24 refugees and wounding 40 others.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had proposed releasing the last 138 prisoners they admit to holding on Saturday and Sunday in Hanoi provided the United States withdrew the last of its troops by Sunday instead of waiting until next Wednesday, the deadline set by the Paris cease-fire agreement for the release of American prisoners and the withdrawal of American troops.

The United States at first accepted the proposal, but on Thursday announced troop withdrawals had been suspended until Hanoi also gave it official notice when seven American military men and two civilians captured in Laos would be released.

The North Vietnamese said release of the nine men captured in Laos was up to the Pathet Lao and not Hanoi's responsibility. They refused to hand over the list of 138 American POWs awaiting release but said they were ready to go ahead with their original proposal if the United States carried out the troop withdrawal part of the bargain.

Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham Jr. of the U. S. delegation told the Communists at the meeting today that the letter he gave them Wednesday accepting their proposal "merely was a response to the (North Vietnamese) proposal and did not constitute a definite agreement."

Wickham also contended that there had been an "understanding" between the U. S. and North Vietnamese governments at the cease-fire negotiations in Paris that "the U. S. POWs held in Laos would be released in Hanoi and coincident with the implementation of the Vietnam agreement."

A U. S. spokesman commented after the meeting, "It seems unlikely that the release of the American prisoners will come in advance of the end of the 60-day period." But he remains confident that the POWs will be released in the 60-day period. In exchange we are committed to withdraw our forces."

In his missile charge, Wickham said the new site was 800 yards east of another missile battery U. S. reconnaissance pilots photographed in February. The U. S. Command announced March 12 that this missile equipment had been removed but said it did not know where it had been taken.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong agreed to a two-hour cease-fire today around Saigon's besieged Tong Le Chan base camp 50 miles north of Saigon to allow for the evacuation of 58 wounded government rangers.

197 Pints

Some 197 pints of blood were given at the Red Cross Bloodmobile, collecting at the Moose Lodge here, yesterday.

Red Cross Executive director, Mrs. Ruth Taylor, said 20 other volunteers were rejected for health reasons and several others were turned away because it had not been eight weeks since they last gave blood.

"It's a long way from our goal, but it's still a good turnout and we thank the donors themselves, the Moose Lodge who so enthusiastically sponsored this drive, and everyone else concerned," Red Cross Blood Drive chairman Billy Ross said.

The drive is continuing until 4 p.m. today.

Rejected By IRA

BELFAST (AP) — The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army rejected the British government's new political blueprint for Northern Ireland today and vowed to keep up "armed resistance" to British rule.

A statement in Dublin from the Provisionals' command said the promised reforms, which in effect would continue the division of Ireland for the foreseeable future, left the Roman Catholic guerrillas "no choice but to fight on."

The Provos had observed a virtual cease-fire since the announcement Tuesday of the British White Paper promising the Catholics strong representation for the first time in both the legislature and the government of Northern Ireland.

Security forces now expect a new IRA offensive. The British proposals were rejected Thursday night by the IRA's political arm, as they had been earlier by militant Protestant leaders.

Sinn Fein, the IRA's political backers in Dublin, accused the British of doing "too little too late" and said the White Paper was based on "dismemberment of the Irish nation."

The British government says its plan represents the "last chance" for peace in the province where at least 755 persons have been killed in nearly four years of warfare between Catholics, Protestants and British soldiers.

Approve Demand Train Hit Bus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent to President Nixon a demand he spend the money appropriated last year for rural water and sewer projects.

Seventeen Republicans joined the Democratic majority in the 66-22 roll call, which came after GOP leaders had called on their colleagues to rally around the Nixon administration principles of "fiscal prudence."

The bill earlier had been passed by the House, also by a majority large enough to sustain a possible presidential veto.

The program was abruptly terminated last Jan. 10 in a press release issued by the Department of Agriculture.

The measure calls on the White House to spend all the $150 million appropriated last year.

The Agriculture Department said the money would not be spent in order to hold budget outlays this year to the $250 billion ceiling set by Nixon.

When the announcement was made, 1,685 communities had applications pending for $252.7 million in grants.

WILSON, N.C.—Eight persons were injured, one critically, this morning when a northbound Amtrak auto-train collided with a Seashore Transportation Co. bus within a block of the Wilson bus terminal, according to rescue workers.

The bus, which had made a stop at Wilson enroute from New Bern to Washington, D.C., was carrying about 12-15 passengers at the time of the accident. It's capacity was given as 46.

A rescue squad spokesman said all the injured were on the bus. None of the train passengers were injured, he said.

The spokesman said the bus pulled onto the tracks and then tried to back off them. He said the passengers tried to get off when they saw the train approaching but did not have time.

The bus driver was identified as Lesley Whorton of Oriental, N.J.

Luther Hodges Says Legislators Hobble Governor

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Luther Hodges told a legislative committee today "you're hobbling" Tar Heel governors by not allowing them to run for two consecutive terms.

Hodges strongly endorsed legislation to amend the state constitution to give the North Carolina governor veto power and to allow the governor and lieutenant governor to succeed themselves. He has said on several occasions he favors the two proposals.

Hodges also spoke out strongly before the House Constitutional Amendments Committee on the excessive spending by candidates for governor in North Carolina during the 1972 campaign.

"It's simply crazy. It's preposterous," said Hodges. "You're going to have to have federal and state legislation to limit it. You must do something about it."

The veto power and succession bills were introduced by freshman Rep. Tom Gilmore, D-Guilford. If approved by the legislature, they would have to be submitted to a vote of the people and would not apply to the present governor and lieutenant governor.

The committee took no action on the bills. Gilmore said later, "The second term bill has an excellent chance of passing, but I'm afraid we don't have the votes for the veto power bill."

"I feel quite strongly for experience and study that North Carolina should establish two terms for governor," Hodges said. "You could do it with one term of six years, but I doubt if you could get it passed."

Tar Heel governors now serve four years. "Two four-year terms," Hodges said, "would be the ideal situation. You can't get many things done in a four-year term. More and more states are going to a second term."

Hodges served six years and two months as governor in the mid-50's. He was lieutenant governor and fell heir to the governorship when William B. Umstead died.

Hodges told the committee that if the people didn't like the governor they could get him out if he ran for a second term.

He said he feels very strongly that the governor should have the veto power.

"There is that check and balance that you get with the veto power," Hodges explained. "The lack of veto power has made the General Assembly a little more responsible in handling legislation."

Rep. Robert Jernigan, D-Hertford, raised the question that if a governor were able to succeed himself he would be working hard to get in for a second term.

"You've got a point," said Hodges, "but you're hobbling the governor by limiting him to one term."

White House Denies Nixon Lawyer 'Probably Lied' To FBI

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has denied a statement by acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, who said President Nixon's official lawyer probably lied to an agent probing the Watergate wiretapping.

Without mentioning Gray's testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee, the White House issued a statement Thursday saying that Counsel John W. Dean III "flatly denies that he ever misled, or as Sen. Byrd of West Virginia suggests, lied to an agent of the FBI."

The statement said the reference to Dean, made earlier in the day at the Judiciary hearing on Gray's nomination to be permanent FBI director, was "reprehensible, unfortunate, unfair and incorrect."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-

W.Va., an opponent of Gray's confirmation, said in questioning the nominee that last June, Dean had told an FBI agent he would have to check whether E. Howard Hunt had a room in the White House executive offices.

Byrd said this was only three days after Dean had the safe in Hunt's office in the Executive Office Building opened and the contents removed.

"He lied to the agent, didn't he?" Byrd asked Gray.

"After looking back and making a minute examination of the record, I would have to conclude that that's probably correct," Gray responded.

The White House statement said:

"Mr. Dean recalls that in June of 1972, as FBI agents were departing his office, he was asked whether or not they could visit Mr. Hunt's office.

"He said he would check—the question as Mr. Dean recalls did not relate to whether Mr. Hunt ever had an office in the Executive Office Building."

Hunt is one of seven persons to be sentenced today in connection with the break-in and wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building last June. He had been security chief for Nixon's re-election effort.

The Judiciary Committee, in considering Gray's nomination, earlier voted unanimously to invite Dean to testify. But Nixon said he would not allow any White House aide to testify, on grounds no conversation between a president and his advisers is subject to question by Congress. Dean has offered to answer selected questions in writing.

The committee is anxious to hear from Dean because Gray testified he turned over to the White House counsel various FBI papers relating to the Watergate investigation.

Shortly before the White House statement was issued, the Judiciary Committee completed its questioning of Gray amid signs of increasing confidence by opponents that his nomination can be defeated. No date for resuming the hearings was set.

Several opponents are now calling for an early yes-or-no vote in contrast to earlier reluctance to force a showdown.

However, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he still thinks Gray is going to be confirmed by the Senate. He has backed the nomination all the way.

Short-Haired Freak Should Try Again

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I applied for a job as a busboy, and when the man looked at me, the first thing he said was, "If you want this job you'll have to cut your hair and shave off your beard."

Well, I really wanted the job, so I shaved off my beard and got one of those really square haircuts like my dad had when he was a Marine 30 years ago.

I got the job and worked exactly one week when they laid me off because their old busboy came back. Now I look like a freak and I'm unemployed again. What should I do?

OUT OF LUCK

DEAR OUT: Beardless, short-haired men are hardly considered "freaks" by prospective employers. Keep looking. [P. S. If you strike out, join the Marines.]

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years. This is the second marriage for both of us. I am 46 and he is 51. With this marriage we both found happiness we had never thought possible.

Sexual relations had been an almost nightly affair with us. About eight months ago my husband became interested in a religious cult and his entire personality began to change. He said he could no longer kiss me, or touch me, or sleep in the same bed with me because if he did he could not enter the kingdom of heaven because he would be committing adultery since we had both been married before! Neither one of us was Catholic before, so I don't know where he got the idea that we were committing adultery.

He used to attend church with me on Sunday [Methodist], but now he refuses to go, saying that his Sabbath is SATURDAY. He works all day Sunday bothering his clients as though Sunday was a workday for THEM, too. He owns his own business which has been going downhill rapidly due to his peculiar behavior.

He doesn't care to see any of our old friends—only people who are members of this new religion of his. He will not speak to our Methodist minister as he says the only religion that is the true word of God is this new one—everyone else is doomed.

Please, tell me how to cope with him. LOST

DEAR LOST: Your husband has lost touch with reality and needs to see a doctor. Talk to your own physician [and minister, too] about some way to get your husband to submit to a physical checkup. He desperately needs to be gone over from top to bottom. With emphasis on the top.

DEAR ABBY: One more addition to the hunting controversy: Agreed, it is cruel to only wound an animal, and no conscientious hunter would leave a wounded deer to suffer and die.

A few deer seasons back, a lady hunter in Pennsylvania managed to wound a deer, but being a truly compassionate animal lover, she battered the stricken animal's skull to bits so enthusiastically that she smashed the stock of her rifle.

New In Handbags: Live Pythons

MILAN, Italy (WNS) — Paola Pierino, 27, is introducing something new in ladies' handbags: one that contains a live python named Zarathustra. "Zarathustra is an excellent pet who protects me against men who bother me," she explained.

"He is very clean, seldom needs to be fed and is quieter than even a cat." The only problem: "I have to keep him well hidden in taxis. Cabdrivers tend to drive badly when Zarathustra sits in my lap."

Video Tape Recorder Is New Police Dept. Tool

The Greenville Police Department now has a new tool in its arsenal with which to fight crime and promote crime prevention — a portable video tape recorder.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the $2,100 worth of video recording equipment arrived this week and will be available for such diverse functions as surveillance recording, training programs, civil disturbances and crowd control situations and other uses.

Included among the equipment is a light-weight portable video camera with zoom lens; a portable video tape recording unit, and a 19-inch screen television play-back unit.

"The portable outfit is self-contained, operating on its own rechargeable batteries," Cannon noted, "or can be plugged into a car cigarette lighter or used with an adapter plugged into regular electric outlets."

The camera can be hand held or tripod mounted, Cannon explained.

"Continuous operation of the recorder," Cannon said, "can record 30 minutes of activities, complete with sound. (He explained that a microphone is mounted atop the video camera for audio pickup.)

Recorded scenes can be previewed through the camera itself, without sound, or can be viewed — and any recorded conversation or sound heard — by using the large video-tape recorder monitor.

The chief emphasized that the unit has a low-light capability, making it useful for night-time surveillance as well as for daytime use.

The camera and recorder unit, which can be carried over the user's shoulder, weighs about 30 pounds.

Set Extradition Hearing Today

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An extradition hearing was scheduled today for a 35-year-old Illinois man who planned to marry a 12-year-old girl he had allegedly bought for $30,000.

Authorities said the man, Harold Miller, 35, of Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, was on his way to South Carolina with Rila Jackie Flynn to be married when they were arrested at a motel in Asheville Tuesday.

Miller, a graduate student in art and a teaching assistant at the Chicago Circle branch of the University of Illinois, was quoted by authorities in Illinois as saying he had been married to a 13-year-old girl who died of a kidney disease seven years after the marriage.

The minimum age for marriage in South Carolina is 14 but police in Rita's home town of Bolingbrook, another suburb of Chicago, said they believed her age was to be falsified.

Illinois authorities were expected here today to take her back. A North Carolina judge refused to let her fly to Illinois unescorted. Meanwhile, she was put in custody of a family in Asheville.

Authorities here said she had been examined and no evidence was found that she had been sexually molested.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Flynn, are charged with conspiracy and abandonment in the alleged sale. They were quoted as saying they had spent all but $200 of the $30,000 to pay debts, and to buy new furniture and a new car. Authorities said Miller told them he had given Rita's parents $30,000 in negotiable bonds he inherited from his father.

At Joliet, Ill., Will County officials petitioned Thursday to take Rita and two other children, a 13-year-old boy and a 10-year-old girl, away from the Flynn's. A hearing is scheduled for Monday in Circuit Court to determine whether the children should be turned over to the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

Police said that Flynn, a salesman and parttime taxi driver, met Miller when he picked him up as a fare.

N.C. Repertory Group Disbands

RALEIGH (AP) — The Carolina Repertory Company, the state's only traveling drama group, has disbanded after 14,000 miles and 130 performances.

Executive producer Jed Dietz said Thursday that lack of financial support killed the company after two years. He said foundations which had helped the group get started had decided against funding the company's deficits on an annual basis.

"We never reached the professional level we think was possible, and we think the key obstacle to that was money," Dietz said.

The group had turned to state support, but that had dwindled, he added.

Returned POWs Will Be Heard

Once the last of the prisoners of war are home, expect the other shoe to drop.

The returnees are going to have some things to say about their treatment in POW camps...about their tortures, their feelings about the peace activists, and quite probably something about the handful of POWs who ignored orders by their superiors and sang Hanoi's political tunes.

Some among them have told part of their stories...and they've been pretty grim.

On one point, most of the returnees seem to agree: resumption of bombings in the North did impress the Communists that after all, peace might be the best way out.

On another point, as Senator Hugh Scott called attention to in Congress, there were no "thank-yous" to Jane Fonda and her cohorts, no "thank-yous" to the peace-at-any-price clique; and there was an ear-shattering silence about the strange congressional voices who condemned each application of force against the enemy.

(There has been voiced a strong suspicion that there were powerful elements in America who wanted a U. S. defeat in the field, if only to prove themselves "right".)

Be that as it may, they are largely silent now...perhaps impressed by popular acclaim heaped on the returning POWs, perhaps impressed by the success of President Nixon's peace strategy, perhaps wondering if public attention will be diverted to their questionable preachments that came close to undermining the national goals.

The words and thoughts of the freed men may be limited in width and depth by virtue of long absence from the domestic scene; but they will be heard because they come from the heart and formed during bitter years of captivity. Too, they will carry weight; because they, better than anyone else, know the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

It is not out of bounds to speculate the activists may find themselves increasingly unpopular; and for elected officials, that's tantamount to a death warrant.

Qualifications To Be Speaker

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The North Carolina Representative who aspires to be House Speaker needs the political savvy to keep getting elected, lawmaking skill to pick up hot issues without getting burned, and a host of friends.

stakes for the contenders are the prestige of presiding over the chamber and the power to appoint committees and route bills for consideration.

Green, 52, began gathering commitments last session. He wrapped up the prize recently when Rep. Carl Stewart of Gaston conceded he didn't have the votes in sight to stay in the race.

Stewart's withdrawal was tactical. He immediately let it be known he would try again for 1977, bidding for support among Green's followers.

He doesn't have a clear field, even that far ahead. Friends of Rep. John S. (Jack) Stevens of Buncombe are laying the groundwork for him to be in the race.

Regional considerations figured in building up Green's lead. Tradition dictates that the Speakership alternate between east and west, and 1975 would be the east's turn. Speaker Jim Ramsey of Person is identified as west. His county lies north and only slightly west of Raleigh.

Geography And Politics
The peculiarity of political geography is such that Person in this session is both west and east, depending on whether the House or Senate is in question. While Ramsey as Speaker is regarded as west, Sen. Gordon Allen of Person is Senate President Pro Tem under a rotation understanding that places him in the east.

Maps aside, small counties and the broad eastern area of the state historically have been well represented in legislative leadership.

Among House Speakers of recent time only one, Pat Taylor of Wadesboro came from as far west as Anson County. Only one, Joe Hunt of Greensboro, represented a Piedmont urban center.

Green took note that he will be the first Speaker in history from little eastern Bladen. He will preside without regional chauvinism, he promised. "I won't look at east or west, but all North Carolina. That's where our responsibility lies," he said.

He expects to continue and extend, though with refinements, changes in legislative structure initiated under Ramsey such as annual sessions and standing committees.

Allowing a Speaker to succeed himself, an idea lofted on Ramsey's behalf and quickly shot down, does not appeal to Green. "There are too many good people available to serve to say that would be necessary," Green commented. "I do not consider it a matter to be reckoned with."

House members like to play the game for the satisfaction of being with the in-group if they pick the winner, and any fringe benefits that might thereby accrue to their own goals for legislation. The

Nixon Raising Added Doubts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Within a week of the unprecedented refusal to allow his White House aides, past or present, to appear before any "formal" congressional committee, President Nixon is under heavy—but still private—criticism from leading legal scholars and politicians in his own party.

Indeed, Mr. Nixon's extraordinary claim of an "executive privilege" that covers White House aides who left his employ years ago has engendered deep unease and anger among some of those very ex-staffers.

Some feel Mr. Nixon has badly stretched and thereby endangered the fuzzy but invaluable doctrine that permits a President to conduct the nation's business without congressional harassment of intimate presidential business. That doctrine functions best by tacit mutual consent of the executive and legislative branches. But other Republican lawyers—who feel the courts ultimately would uphold the Nixon interpretation—fear its political impact is giving the nation the strong impression Mr. Nixon has much to conceal in the Watergate case.

Present presidential aides as well as Nixon allies looking into the White House from the outside concentrate their anger against White House counsel John W. Dean III, whom they hold responsible for the spectacularly broad Nixon policy based on the separation of powers.

When the executive privilege issue heated up during confirmation hearings of L. Patrick Gray to be FBI director, Dean did a study for the President. Dean consulted with lawyers from New York and elsewhere, many of whom strongly urged a limited interpretation of executive privilege.

Nevertheless, the 34-year-old former counsel for the House Judiciary Committee wrote a legal brief ("competent, but not outstanding," according to one Nixon aide) suggesting that the President had legal powers to claim about as much "executive privilege" as he wanted.

But some Republicans close to the White House doubt that Dean's brief counted for much. Rather, they believe Mr. Nixon had already decided to claim the outer limits of executive privilege—but that there was no one in the White House to say no to him.

Two strong figures of the first Nixon administration, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former presidential counselor Bryce Harlow, are both back in their old jobs far from the Oval Office. Thus, the White House no longer has "Mr. No" to perform the distasteful chore of telling the President he may be very wrong.

Certainly, young Dean is not "Mr. No." Moreover, the two foremost powers on the President's staff, H.R. (Bob) Haldean and John Erlichman, have played little part in the debilitating struggle over executive privilege.

The reason it apparently has been handled not as a lethal political issue, but as a technical legal question. Yet, for Mr. Nixon the danger of overplaying his hand lies not in narrow details of constitutional law but in the political danger of appearing to use executive privilege to conceal dirty facts in the Watergate and attendant scandals. As one presidential adviser told us: "The thing that is giving this whole subject such a long pair of legs is the mystery that keeps clinging to Watergate."

Other President have had similar problems, but none has taken so uncompromising a stand. Dwight Eisenhower's Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks wanted to claim executive privilege in a case involving a new airline route. The President's counsel decided against for one reason: never claim it unless it is vital "because if we do we'll dig up mores snakes than we can kill."

This historical presidential reaction to executive privilege has been rejected by Mr. Nixon, confident of his popularity in the country and eager for combat with

He's got to be a Democrat. It helps if he's from a small county, preferably in the eastern half of the state.

Rep. James C. (Jimmy) Green of Bladen has the qualifications. The combination explains why he can claim with confidence, two years ahead of the event, that he'll be chosen Speaker in the 1975 General Assembly.

When he wields the gavel, in the final half of the Republican administration of Gov. Jim Holsouser, it will be the aim of further asserting legislation independence from the executive branch.

The motivation is philosophical and not partisan, said Green, a veteran in his seventh legislative term (one in the Senate). The idea is not to take power from the governor, he insisted, but to exercise that placed by the people in the legislature.

Close To People
"Over the years, the General Assembly has been more or less a tool of the governor. I don't believe that's the way it should be," he said. "We stay close to the people through election every two years. We are truly their contact with state government."

Green, known among colleagues for bonhomie and dapper dress, said he looks to the prospect of serving as Speaker with a feeling of humility. "It just makes you grateful for the confidence of your friends," he said.

Speakership politicking is a floating House game from session to session, tricky with maneuvering and alignments. Ostensibly, the Speaker is elected at the convening of each General Assembly. In practice, the choice is made by the Democratic majority caucus. Lining up votes begins several years in advance.

Often the candidate who seems to be anointed in the early stages gets shoved to the sidelines in the competition for commitments.

Any Number Can Play

The Mafia Incorporates

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — The Mafia is becoming one of the major industries in the United States. Every book on the Mafia sells like hot cakes. "The Godfather" is expected to gross more than $100 million. Even a lousy film like "The Valachi Papers" is cleaning up at the box office. The American people seem to have an insatiable appetite for any book, film, TV show or newspaper article on the mob.

The only one that has not cashed in on this Mafia mania is the mob itself and this has caused a great deal of consternation among the members of the "families" throughout the United States. A meeting was called last month at the Loew's Cosa Nostra in upstate New York to see if something could be done.

Salvatore Mastrella of the New England family said; "All the book publishers, newspaper and movie companies have been making a fortune out of us. We're supposed to be smart guys and we're getting ripped off by everyone. This is 'our thing' and we haven't made a dime on it."

Joseph Fanatelli, the don of the California Mafia, said, "You can say that again. They're exploiting us. We risk our necks in numbers, dope and prostitution and some straight guy sells our story to a publisher for $500,000. And they don't even send us a free book."

Mastrella said "It's about time the syndicate started to cash in on the Mafia craze in the country. Now this is my plan. We have our own literary department."

"That's a great idea," said Joey (Cement Feet) Magino of Buffalo. "How do we do it?"

"First," said Mastrella, "we set up a corporation called 'Mafia Enterprises.' We copyright the name so no one can use it without our permission. Then we start offering books written by our own people to the publishers. We tell them, 'You want a book on the Mafia, we'll give you a book on the Mafia.' It will be straight from the horse's mouth. Then they give us a contract."

"A contract?" Flat Nose Gambolito of the Bronx family said. "We going to put a contract out on the publisher?"

"No you stupid jerk," Mastrella said. "A contract is a signed piece of paper saying the publisher will pay us for the book."

"I never heard of a contract like that," Gambolito said.

Mastrella ignored him. "Now we keep the movie rights, the pocketbook rights, the TV rights and the sweat-shirt rights. If they want to make a movie of the book they have to come to us. We sell the movie rights for $1 million and provide technical advisers for $1000 a day."

"I gotta question," said Don Fanatelli. "Suppose we gotta book about the Mafia and the Bronx family sells their book to the movies first. How we gonna work that out?"

Mastrella said. "That's a good question. We divide the country up. The New York family deals with Paramount, the Detroit family deals with MGM, the New England family can sell their story only to Columbia Pictures, the California family works with 20th-Century Fox and the New Orleans family sells their movie rights to Walt Disney."

"Hey!" Carlo Longo of New Orleans said, "Walt

Dear They:
Now that something alleged to resemble peace has broken out, there are a lot of things that need attention, but since you obviously are in charge of everything, the outlook is dismal.

From what we've been hearing, either you are the victim of the gravest injustice, or you are the world's greatest slob.

There's hardly a thing wrong with the United States that you don't get blamed for. There's hardly a thing wrong that you couldn't fix, if you had the will and the gumption. The bad opinions about you seem to be just about unanimous.

The following are a few samples of the typical complaints about you:

—You're a crook.
"They've always got their hands in the taxpayer's pockets."

"They're stealing us blind in Washington."

"All they want is to be on welfare or unemployment insurance and collect money for nothing"

—You're a snivelling, pusillanimous coward.

"They pass laws about crime and are afraid to enforce them."

"They never go after the big criminals, just the little ones."

"They ought to take the bull by the horns and throw some crooked politicians in jail, but they never will."

—You're a criminal bungler.

"They're making a mess of our cities."

"They're ruining our schools."

"They're alienating our youth."

—You're a dangerous procrastinator.

"They talk about controlling pollution and all that, but they never do anything about it."

"Why don't they do something to save our railroads?"

"Why do they always think first of taxing the rich?"

To the Editor:

As a student of Rose High School, I feel the need to present a side of the school that many taxpayers of Greenville may not be aware of. It seems as though the recent articles and views concerning Rose High have presented it as a place where racial dissent and student dissatisfaction are at an all-time high. This is very untrue. The few fights seem to center around specific incidents, not differences of a racial origin. The students who are dissatisfied with the situation are in such a state because they have not tried to work to improve Rose or are persons who are generally pessimistic about life in general.

Rose High School is becoming better each year, its progress generally hindered only by a lack of finances and a lack of local interest. New courses and opportunities allow students to educate themselves in their chosen fields of interest and in those areas from which their later lives can benefit more. Clubs and extracurricular activities represent every aspect of individual interest and the students who remain actively involved in these organs of the schools are the backbone of Rose High School.

So, taxpayers and citizens of Greenville, before you make a decision concerning your stand on the educational system of Greenville, talk to people on both sides of the fence, visit the schools to get a first-hand view of the situation, and weigh your findings and I believe that you will envy the opportunities that your children have today.

Beautification projects at East Carolina Teachers College continued to go forward rapidly and considerable improvement has been made in the grounds during the last several months. The latest development is taking place behind the Science Building near the Campus Building. This section of the campus was marred by a depression of the ground, but landscape experts at the college have found a way to convert it into a thing of beauty. It is now being transformed into a flower bowl and hundreds of plants in years to come will be found blooming in profusion in this area. The edges of the depression have been rock bordered and in the center of the bowl plants are under way for a sun dial.

What is now needed, says Wright, is a clear and decisive statement by Burns "which will tell it like it is and kill the growing psychology of recessionary expectations which could abort our hard-won economic recovery..." And what should be done about the speculation—if that is what it is to be called—by American corporations? Wright didn't offer any advice on that issue, but it too seems certain to attract the Fed's attention.

Strength For Today

A VISION OF CHRIST

Some years ago an artist of fair ability was asked to produce a series of posters to be used in a religious campaign. As he got on with his work his technique improved, but even more important, his whole outlook on life changed. He was particularly influenced by a figure of Jesus which he painted on a poster.

Speaking to a friend some time later the artist said: From the day I painted that picture of Jesus I have seen art in a new light. I feel more alive and creative. A new spirit has dominated my life and turned my energy into new channels.

This experience happens again and again in the life of many diverse types of people. They get a vision of Christ, and their lives are never quite the same again. Not only are they more effective at whatever their tasks in life may be, but they are happier and feel a new sense of purpose. Such a vision may come to you someday if you pray and wait with eager expectation.

Banks Busy In Monetary Crisis

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A significant role in the flight of dollars into German marks and Japanese yen during the recent monetary crisis appears to have been played by loans and withdrawals from banks here.

But perhaps of even greater significance, in the opinion of a respected investment and economic adviser, is that a misinterpretation of the activity might lead to a restrictive monetary policy that could end domestic economic expansion.

John Wright believes this is the inescapable conclusion of a review of surging bank loan figures for New York during the period of mounting pressure on the dollar and frantic efforts to convert them to marks and yen.

His interpretation suggests that large corporations, particularly those with multinational operations, were heavily involved in the crisis, along with the more commonly but anonymously mentioned "speculators" and "Middle East oil men."

But Wright, whose Wright Advisory Service counsels many banks and institutions, says all that is in the past. The international aspect of the situation is under control.

Nevertheless, he continues, the domestic consequences of a misunderstanding could be recessionary if an immediate statement of confidence is not forthcoming from Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

His explanation: "A significant portion of the dollar outflow into Germany and Japan almost certainly included bank loans by, as well as deposits withdrawn from, major U.S. banks.

This is self-evident in the fact that the recent surge in bank lending to a new record-breaking level was concentrated almost exclusively in the major New York City banks..."

He claims heavy borrowing did not spread throughout the country until after the international crisis was well under way. And he feels it was triggered by company treasurers viewing the New York figures and interpreting them to mean a borrowing crisis would soon be upon them.

Thus, Wright says, the Federal Reserve "is now confronted with a crisis of international rather than domestic origin, the causes of which have already been laid to rest."

Moreover, "it is almost universally misunderstood to be a result of excessively rapid economic domestic growth, justifying high interest rates and restrictive monetary policy."

What is now needed, says Wright, is a clear and decisive statement by Burns "which will tell it like it is and kill the growing psychology of recessionary expectations which could abort our hard-won economic recovery..."

And what should be done about the speculation—if that is what it is to be called—by American corporations? Wright didn't offer any advice on that issue, but it too seems certain to attract the Fed's attention.

Collisions Fail To Stop F-111

By MIKE SHANAHAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The troubled F111 fighter plane is still flying while the Air Force investigates the collision of two of the swing-wing jets over muddy Arizona flatlands.

Officials say none of the planes will be grounded or limited in any way pending the investigation of the crash during a Tuesday night training mission near Holbrook.

That includes their continued use in bombing missions over Cambodia from bases in Thailand, they say.

Until last fall F111s were barred from Indochina combat because of earlier mechanical problems, especially with the revolutionary swing-wing. Since September, six planes have disappeared mysteriously without word from their two-man crews on whether they were shot down by the North Vietnamese or suffered more mechanical difficulties.

Another F111 crashed on takeoff from a base in Thailand early this year.

The planes cost $15.1 million each. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has called for the planes to be grounded and a new investigation into structural weaknesses he believes may be present in all 507 F111s either in use or under construction for the Air Force.

Pentagon officials say the loss of 36 fighters since 1962, while regrettable, runs at about the same percentage as losses among other jets. They say the F111 was used effectively in bad weather, day and night, during the bombing campaign in Indochina last December.

All revenue from the duck stamps issued each year by the U.S. Postal Service is used for acquisition of wetlands for waterfowl.

Would Raise The Penalty

RALEIGH (AP)—A House committee has approved legislation to stiffen the penalties against drunk driving.

The Highway Safety Committee voted unanimously Thursday to give a favorable report to a bill which would revoke for six months the driver's license of a person who willfully refused to take a breathalyzer test. The breathalyzer analyzes the alcohol content in the blood, using a sample of an individual's breath.

Current law provides that the driver's license of a person who refuses to take the breathalyzer test may be revoked for 60 days, but if the person is later acquitted of the charges filed against him, his license is never taken.

The bill, sponsored by Sens. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, and

A.B. Coleman, D-Orange, would make refusal to submit to the test cause for a six-month license revocation. Provisions are included in the bill for hearings to determine if the revocation was proper.

The bill has already passed the Senate.

Any guy who gets caught swiping another mob's anecdotes is automatically a candidate for the 'Corpse of the Month Club.'"

Evans-Novak . .

What makes Mr. Nixon's position even more tenuous is his permission for aide Peter Flanigan to testify in the earlier Senate ITT investigation. So, prominent Republicans in this city are asking this: with the Watergate probe at hand, how could testimony by ex-White House aide Dwight Chapin (now a United Airlines executive) on charges he gave $30,000 to Donald H. Segretti for political espionage in any way affect confidentiality between Chapin and the President?

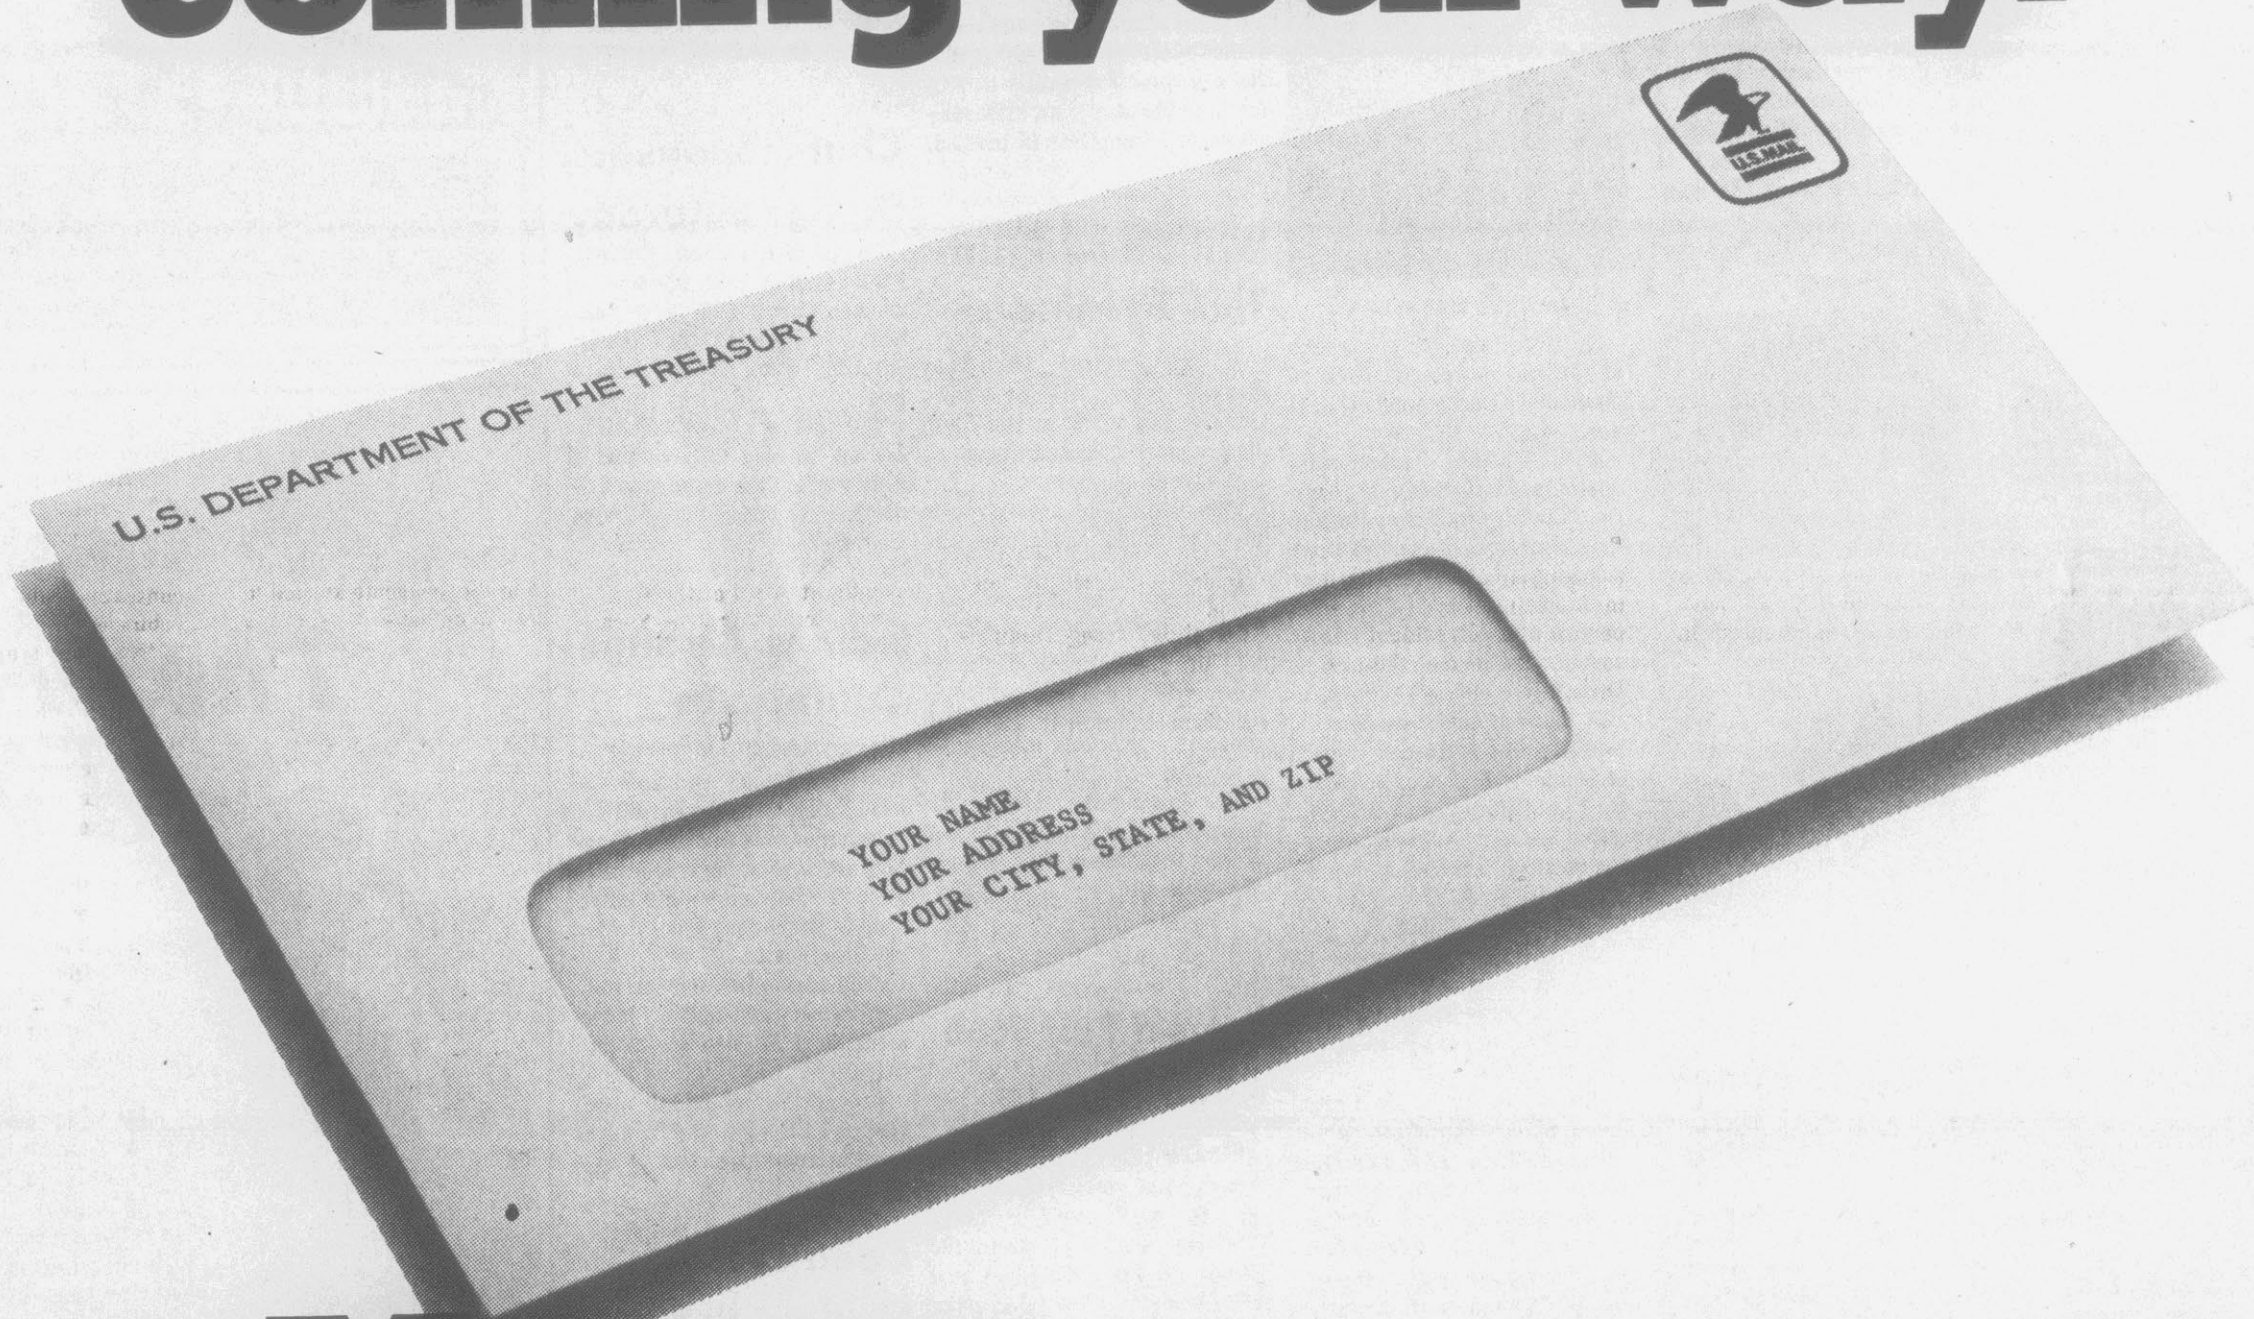

The President's refusal to let Chapin testify is bound to increase speculation about White House Watergate involvement. Even Republican politicians; therefore, are wondering whether the President is really covering up White House involvement in political espionage. Such is the depressing effect among his own political allies of the President's Constitution-stretching.

New Bishop Will Visit St. Paul's

At the 90th annual convention of the diocese of East Carolina in February, the Rt. Rev. Hunley Agee Elebash was instituted as the sixth bishop of the Diocese.
His visit to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Greenville, Sunday, will be his first visitation and will confirm the largest class of confirmations in the history of St. Paul's.
The usual services at 9:30 and 11:15 have been combined into one at 10 a.m. where Bishop Elebash will confirm a class of 41 baptized members and will also receive the Spring Ingathering of the United Thank Offering of the Churchwomen of St. Paul's.
Following the combined 10 o'clock service, the adult members of the congregation will be joined by the students in Sunday School for a party, sponsored by the Young Churchmen of the Parish, honoring the Bishop and the newly confirmed. With the conclusion of the festivities, the Bishop will have a luncheon meeting with the Vestry and Rector.
The Rector, Lawrence P. Houston Jr., reminds all fifth graders and younger students that they are to go directly to their classes for this one Sunday. He also reminds the congregation that a special offering is received for theological education.

During his 40 years in the ministry in Virginia, North and South Carolina, he has focused on the home and family. He says he also believes the quality of the home is determined primarily by the relationship between husband and wife.
He will speak at both the 9 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday and will speak informally at 7:30 Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday evenings. The public is invited.

Armed Pair Rob Aged Couple

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—Two armed men forced their way into an aged couple's home Thursday, held a pistol to the 84-year-old husband's head, and made him tell them where the safe was.
They opened it with a sledgehammer and crowbar, police said, and took jewelry and several hundred dollars from it, plus $400 from his wallet.
They escaped in his car, abandoning it a mile away from the home in Shelby. The couple, George Johnson and his 83-year-old wife, and their maid, were bound with tape. Mrs. Johnson's partially paralyzed sister, 79-year-old Annie Snell, who was at the house, was not tied.

MATERNAL HEALTH
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The maternal death rate in California since 1958 has remained at less than 3 per 10,000 live births, a figure below the national average.

Interreligious Board Honoring Two Films For 'Human Values'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—When the nation's major religious organizations, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, pick their choice movie fare, it usually is not overtly religious.
In fact, they generally find that the Hollywood films intended to be explicitly religious are actually less so, basically, that some others.
"What we're looking for are films that from the standpoint of the Judeo-Christian perspective, illuminate the human condition," says the Rev. Dr. William Fore, head of an inter-denominational film commission.
"It is through man's response to other men that we see God's action in life."
By such criteria, the three branches of faith join next week in making their 1972 Interreligious Film Awards to two motion pictures, "The Emigrants," a story of a family newly come to the United States, and "Sounder," a portrayal of a poor black youngster's achievement of dignity through his parent's love.
As generally has been the case with previous films singled out by the religious groups as the year's best, neither of those honored this time are specifically religious.
"Our primary concern is not for consciously religious films, but for those that bring out authentic human values," says Richard Hirsch, associate director of the Film and Broadcasting Division of the U.S. Catholic Conference.
"From a religious viewpoint, however, one can see in them, larger values that are essentially spiritual."
In regard to the movie industry's efforts at ostensibly religious movies, Hirsch said they ordinarily distort the point.
"The core of the problem is that they try to visualize profound qualities that are not easily visualized, and the effect usually ends up in the disaster area," Hirsch says.
This is the second year in which all three religious groups, including the Catholic agency, the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches, and the Synagogue Council of America, have acted jointly in making the awards.
However, Catholicism and the major Protestant and Orthodox denominations of the National Council have jointly picked winners since 1966. The Synagogue

The Dreams of Spring

In a way it is too bad Tennyson gave the world his classic verse about a young man's fancy. The dreams of Spring are not only for young men... and they're not only thoughts of love.

In many ways Spring awakens new hopes in every heart. The surge of life is renewed. Old frustrations are forgotten. The targets of happiness seem nearer. This is particularly true during Lent.

It's a good time to think. And from our thinking to plan how best to pursue the goals we really cherish.

Spring, and Lent, is a good time to go to church... or to go back to church if you've been away awhile...

Spring is a good time to seek the Source of resurgent living.

Support For Week-Long Meat Boycott Is Mounting

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

Support for a week-long meat boycott starting the first of April appears to be growing daily just a month after two Los Angeles housewives concerned about high prices suggested the resistance.

Anger over high prices or simple financial necessity apparently is prompting many housewives to sharply reduce their meat buying. And contrary to President Nixon's opinion that a boycott would not be "an effective use of what we call 'people power,'" a buying cutback appears to be under way.

The American Meat Institute reports from Chicago that there was a drop in wholesale meat prices during the past week. Noting this, Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told Washington newsmen Thursday:

"Something seems to be working back from the demand side. Consumer resistance may be having an effect."

The National Association of Food Chains said that in a recent telephone survey of 16 food chains, 15 reported they were ordering less beef than before. The Western States Meat Packers Association says West Coast meat wholesalers have cut their prices 2 to 3 cents a pound in response to pressure from consumers and the government.

Organizers of the boycott promise they'll have an even greater effect in April. Women are showing up at supermarkets across the nation to hand out boycott leaflets and circulate recipes for meatless meals.

In many stores shoppers already are boycotting the meat department on certain days of the week. If the one-week April boycott doesn't bring lower prices, supporters vow to extend it one, two or even three weeks.

"I think it's the phenomenon of the decade," says June Donovan of the boycott which she and her friend, Arline Mathews, conceived in a telephone conversation in late February. The two women estimate they've received more than 20,000 letters and hundreds of phone calls expressing support and seeking more information about forming Fight Inflation Together (FIT) clubs.

An Associated Press survey showed similar sentiments elsewhere.

"I think it's a chance for consumers to grab on to something and fight back," says

Eva Sartwell of Concord, N.H. "We, the consumers, are the ones keeping the costs of meat high because meat is not in short supply."

"If we don't buy the meat, the grocery stores can't sell the meat," says Dreama Thomas of Grove City, Ohio. "They will just have to order less until they bring the prices down or Nixon puts on a freeze."

"This type of boycott where it is announced ahead of time and the butcher can adjust his order, this can only have a good effect," says Nell Weekly, director of the Mayor's Office of Consumer Affairs in New Orleans.

of Greater New York and many other organizations.

Nature Trail Work Ready

With the promise of sunshine forecast for Saturday, Dr. Michael O'Connor "hopes enough volunteers will turn out to complete laying the sawdust on the trail."

O'Connor, who is supervising work on Greenville's first Nature Trail in the wooded area behind Wahl-Coates Elementary School, has invited volunteers to give a helping hand tomorrow between the hours of nine in the morning and noon.

"What's needed most are people who can bring lawn carts and shovels," O'Connor stated. "With a little luck, it should be possible to finish putting sawdust on the trail tomorrow morning."

He mentioned too that the foot bridges are constructed and ready to be anchored across the stream that runs through the woods.

Volunteers are asked to meet in the west parking lot of Wahl-Coates by 9:00 a.m. If there are those who can contribute work but cannot be on hand at that hour, they are asked to report to the trail site behind the school when they arrive.

Women should plan to wear loose comfortable clothing.

The class will meet two hours each night, twice weekly, for a total of five weeks.

Not Soliciting, But Seek Awareness Of 'Tremendous Need'

"We're not soliciting funds. We just want people to become members of the Association for Retarded Children, so they can be aware of the tremendous needs of these children," Clarence Stasavich said.

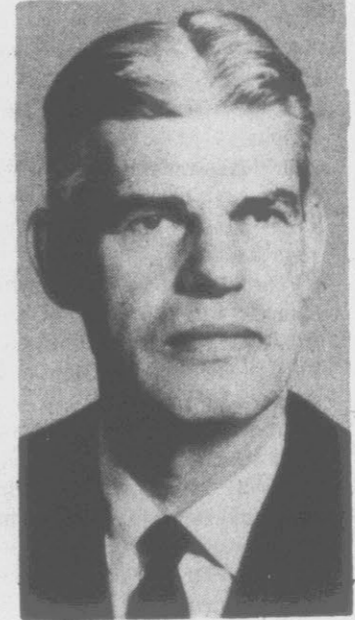

Stasavich is the 1973 membership chairman for the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children. March 25-31 is the Association's special week to seek new members.

"The general public needs to know more about what is being done for retarded children, and what needs to be done yet," Stasavich said. Anyone who becomes a member of the Association will receive a monthly bulletin to keep him up on the latest developments," he said.

"Did you know that three out of every children need some form of special education? If they get it, 75 per cent of these can become persons capable of gainful employment and a satisfying life. What a great challenge to us it is to see that they realize their potential."

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's pitching staff continued to spin its mastery of opposing batters yesterday as the Bucs recorded their fifth straight shutout victory, 6-0, over Dartmouth College.

Russ Smith tossed the win, a three-hitter. Only once during the cold afternoon did the Big Green threaten to push over a run and snap the Pirates string, which now had gone to 43 consecutive scoreless innings.

Over that same period of innings, the Pirates have allowed only 16 hits. And only three men during that stretch have advanced as far as third base.

The Bucs played flawless ball in downing the visiting Dartmouth squad, and ran its record to 6-1 on the year. Their only loss came at the hands of Virginia, the defending Atlantic Coast Conference champion.

Dartmouth got a good pitching performance from Jim Metzler, who handcuffed the Pirates without a baserunner for the first three innings. But when the Pirates began to get their hits to drop it, it was more than he and the rest of the Big Green could handle.

Smith, in recording his first victory of the season, walked just two batters and struck out five. One of the three hits off him was a misjudged fly ball that fell in for a double and set up the only threat Dartmouth was to have.

The Big Green had

baserunners to reach first in the opening inning, the fourth and fifth without advancing. Only in the sixth did they present a real threat.

That came with one out when Rick Klupchak walked and with two away, Tom Snickenberger lined a ball into right, where the ball was misjudged and then just barely missed, bouncing in for a double. Kulphak, however, held up at third, and Smith got the next man on a grounder back through the middle that Jeff Beaton gobbled up and fired to first to end the inning.

No one else reached base the rest of the way for the Big Green.

East Carolin, meanwhile, had found it had problems through the first three innings, despite getting a lot of wood on the ball. But in the bottom of the fourth, the bubble burst for Dartmouth, as the Bucs stormed into the lead.

Mike Bradshaw led off with a single to left, and Jimmy Paige drew a walk. Ron Staggs grounded into the infield, but the attempt to go to second was errored, leaving all three safe and the bases loaded. Metzler got one out with a popup, but Larry Walters followed with a double up the power alley in right center, scoring Bradshaw and Paige.

After the relay home, the catcher tried to pick Staggs off third, and overthrew third, allowing him to come home and Walters to come on to third.

Lin Spears replaced Walters

there as a courtesy runner, and scored when John Narron doubled to right. Ron Leggett followed with the third straight double, into left center, bringing in Narron. Jeff Beaton followed with a hit to deep short, but Leggett was caught off second, and the rally was over for that inning.

The Bucs got off a minor threat in the sixth, when Narron got a two-out single and Leggett walked, but Beaton grounded out to end the frame.

But in the seventh, they added one more run. Smith beat out a slow roller between the mound and first, and Spears came on as a runner. Bradshaw sacrificed him up, and with two down, Staggs doubled to right, scoring Spears for the final 6-0 margin. East Carolina and Dartmouth were scheduled to play again today at 3 p.m. at Harrington Field, and then the Bucs have eight days off before playing host to VMI for a doubleheader here on Saturday, March 31.

Lady Pirates Lose Opener

NEW YORK, N.Y.—The East Carolina University women's basketball team was knocked out of the championship bracket of the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament yesterday by a 55-51 loss to Western Washington State University.

East Carolina led most of the way, but got into foul trouble near the end when Western Washington hit six straight to put the game away. The Bucs were also bothered by poor field goal shooting, hitting only 36 percent.

East Carolina led, 16-10 at the end of the first period, but were tied at 27-27 at the end of the first half. They pulled back ahead, 45-42, as the final period began, but couldn't hold on to the lead.

Sheliah Cotton led the scoring with 26 points, while Peggy Taylor added eight.

This morning, in the opening round of the consolation bracket, the Bucs defeated Indiana State, 60-49, playing one of their better defensive games of the year.

They led, 16-13, at the end of the first period and 27-25 at halftime. They were tied at 41-41 as the final quarter got underway, but pulled away in the final four minutes, despite Miss Cotton fouling out with about two minutes left.

She finished with 22 points, while Jean Mobley had 11 and Susan James hit a similar number.

The Lady Pirates play the winner of the Kansas State-California State game tonight at 6 p.m. in the consolation semifinals. The winner advances to the consolation championship (fifth place) at noon Saturday.

Elder's Not Looking Ahead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Elder says he won't be worried about Augusta, Ga. during today's second round of the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

"I won't let it put extra pressure on me," Elder said.

But if he does—if he lets the pressure develop, he has a very good excuse. He's gunning to become the first black player ever to compete in the staid, tradition-bound Masters. And he needs a victory here to become eligible.

"Hmmm," mused Jack Nicklaus as he surveyed the big scoreboard after Thursday's opening round, when Elder bolted in front with a brilliant 65, "Lee might just settle the whole question."

Elder has been the innocent center of a racial controversy involving the masters, it's all-white history and its rules of eligibility for several days.

"I would like to go to the Masters," said the 38-year-old Elder, a non-winning regular on the tour since 1968. "But I won't let it make me change my game plan."

The controversy arose when Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., and 17 other U.S. congressmen petitioned Masters Tournament Chairman Clifford Roberts to issue a special invitation to Elder. Roberts declined, saying that to do so would be "practicing discrimination in reverse."

Elder agreed. "If I was offered a special invitation I wouldn't accept it," he said. "I'll make it on my own."

A victory here would do it. It would make him eligible.

He missed only one fairway and one green and didn't make a bogey as he established a two stroke lead over Bert Yancey and young Tom Watson, tied at 67.

Nicklaus solved some of his recent problems, shot a 68 and was tied with Babe Hiskey. The group at 69 included Lou Graham, Tommy Aaron, Larry and Jim Ahern.

Virginia Tech, Alabama Advance

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was Minnesota's power against Alabama's finesse, the hammer vs. the scalpel.

But the handle fell off the hammer and Minnesota got the axe.

"I never thought we could do it," said Alabama Coach C. M. Newtown after his poised Crimson Tide stunned 10th-ranked Minnesota 69-65 in the National Invitation Tournament Thursday night.

No one else thought that Alabama could do it, either. The Crimson Tide was a five-point underdog before the game, but looked like a world-beater afterward.

"Alabama never quit," said Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman. "They're a very consistent team and they put a lot of pressure on us in the second half."

The victory moved Alabama into Saturday's semifinals at Madison Square Garden against Virginia Tech, a 77-76 victor over Fairfield in the second quarter-final game Thursday night.

The other semifinal game Saturday matches Notre Dame and North Carolina, teams that won quarter-final games earlier in the week.

Minnesota had controlled the game at the start, working like precision mechanics around the basket in the first half. However, Ron Behagen's early foul trouble was an omen of things to come.

Behagen, Minnesota's leading scorer and one of its top defensive players, had four fouls by the half and was virtually ineffective the rest of the way. He sat out 13 minutes of the second half and came in only when Alabama had cut into the Gopher lead.

When Behagen came back into the game, Minnesota had a 59-51 lead. Then Paul Ellis took charge. The 5-foot-10 backcourt reserve scored six points and directed a fast-breaking offense that buried the Gophers under the 16-0 spree.

The runoff gave the Crimson Tide a 67-59 lead with one minute remaining in the game.

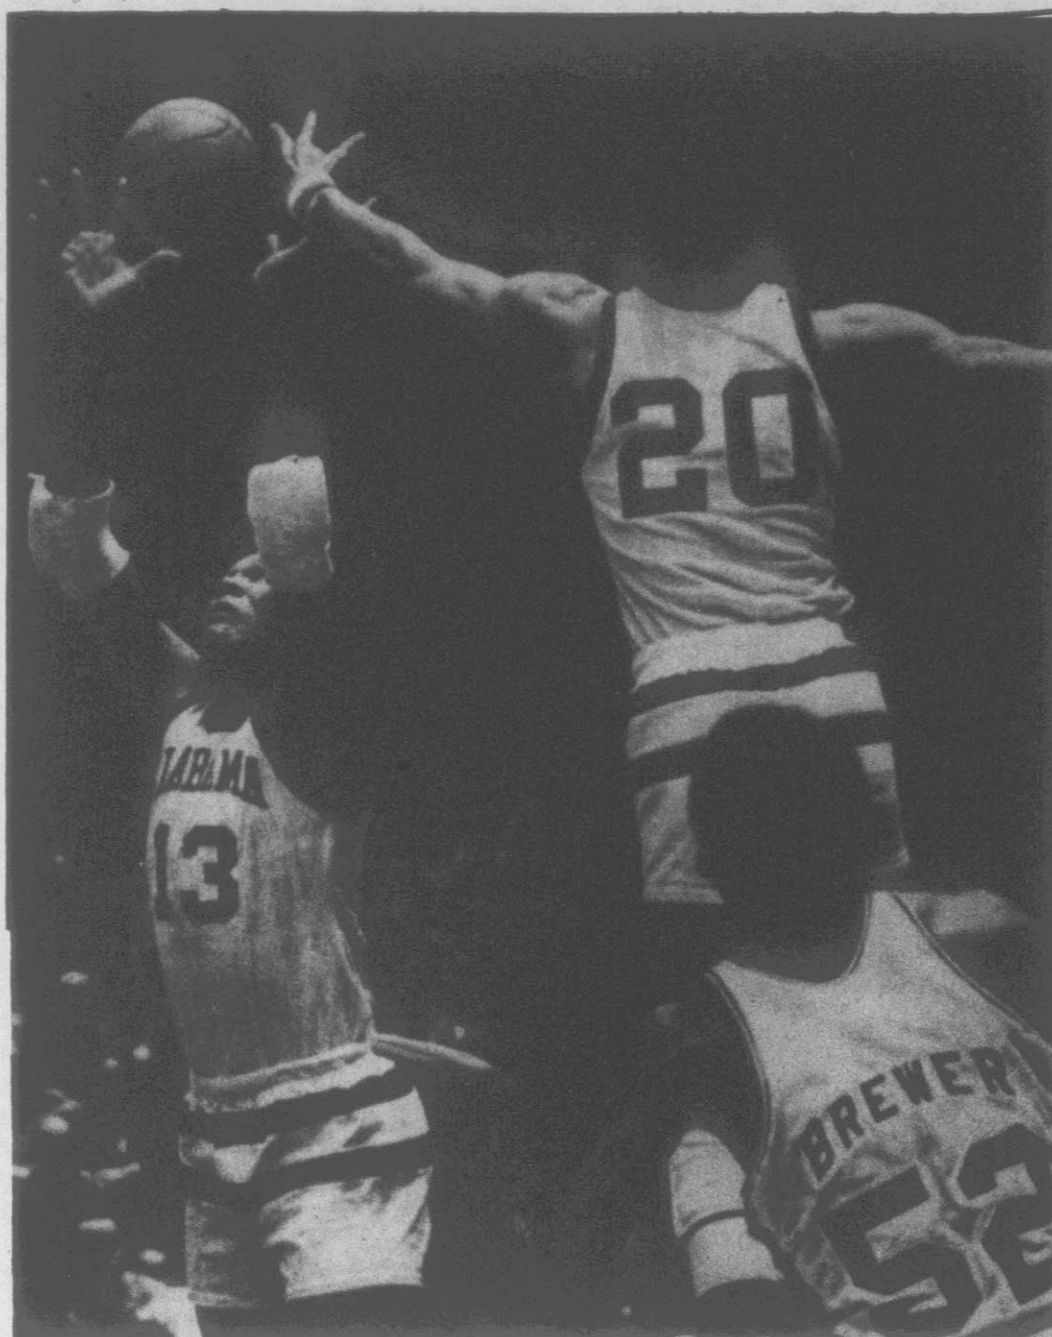

Clyde Turner, who had scored 15 before intermission, wound up with 21 overall. His total led the losers, who went home to Minnesota with a 21-5 record. Hudson had 20 for Alabama, 22-6.

The second game was just as exciting—and noisier—than the first. A crowd of 17,640 rocked the Garden with cheers for Fairfield.

Virginia Tech, another five-point favorite, had its hands full with the team from Connecticut. The Gobblers needed two foul shots apiece by Craig Lieder and Bobby Stevens in the last two minutes to nail it down.

Fairfield, charged high by their highly partisan crowd, gave the Gobblers a battle all the way. Phil Rogers scored 29 points, 19 in the first half when the Stags took a 43-34 lead.

Then Charlie Thomas and Lieder took charge for Virginia in the second half. Lieder scored 16 points and Thomas had 13 as the Gobblers wiped out Fairfield's halftime advantage and set the stage for the crucial foul-shooting at the end.

HEAVY ON THE COMPETITION — Alabama's Leon Douglas (13) and Wendell Hudson (20) go up for a loose ball as Minnesota's Jim Brewer (52) looks on during first half action in the

NIT quarterfinals at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night. Alabama won the game to advance in the field. (AP Wirephoto)

Injured Giants Get Good News; Mays Out

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sudden Sam, Stretch and the Say Hey Kid. The names sound like they might be about to look down each other's gun barrels on some dusty street in the old West. Instead, they're two members of the San Francisco Giants and one ex-Giant...the stars in baseball's continuing saga of General Hospital.

The news was encouraging Thursday for San Francisco's Sudden Sam McDowell and Willie "Stretch" McCovey but not so good for Willie "Say Hey" Mays, now plying his trade—or trying to—for the New York Mets.

McDowell, a tall left-handed pitcher who earlier in the week had considered retiring because of back pains and arm troubles, worked four innings in bad weather for the Giants' 'B' squad against the Milwaukee Brewers' 'B' unit and said, "There was no pain in the arm or back...I felt good."

The game went seven innings to a 5-5 tie. "He definitely showed improvement," said Manager Charlie Fox after McDowell permitted three third-inning runs of a scratchy variety. Only one ball was hit hard in the rally.

McCovey returned to the Giants' lineup after suffering an injury to his knee and collected a triple and single in an 8-5 loss to the California Angels. Bob Oliver, the Angels' first baseman, had three singles to pace the winners.

But Mays, the Mets' 41-year-old question mark, developed trouble with his fragile knees and did not suit up for the Mets' game with the Philadelphia Phillies, won in 10 innings by the Phils 4-3. Instead, he had fluid drained from his bothersome right knee.

The breakdown threw a blanket of doubt over Mays' prospects of opening the season in center field for the Mets and seeing much service during the 1973 campaign. Mays has played in only five exhibition games this spring but is hitting .429, with two home runs and a double.

Neither Mays nor Manager Yogi Berra would comment immediately on the latest development. Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning and a key single in the 10th to pace the Phillies' victory. The Phils tied the game in the ninth on a pinch single by Del Unser and won it in the 10th when Tom Hutton walked, went to third on Luzinski's single and scored on an infield out.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees, who pounded former teammate Stan Bahnsen several times last season, did it again Thursday. They lashed out 18 hits, including homers by Otto Velez and Ron Swoboda, and routed the Chicago White Sox 12-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for five runs in the eighth inning and then came from behind again with three in the bottom of the 10th for an 8-7

Giants' Owner Sure Team Will Be Better

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The young Giants of San Francisco and the team's long-time owner, Horace Stoneham, the younger players made," says Dave Kingman, the young power hitter who struck out 140 times in 1972 but also hit 29 home runs.

"I am very optimistic that the 1973 Giants will be a team to be reckoned with in the National League race," Stoneham said in his recent report to stockholders, after passing on the bad news that there would be no dividend.

The team drew only 639,425 baseball fans last year at Candlestick Park—less than the Giants attracted their last year in New York in 1957—and lost $621,000.

The Giants won the National League West in 1971 but fell to fifth last year, when they were struck with several injuries, had the worst fielding percentage in the league and one of the worst pitching staffs.

"I think we've improved ourselves more than any other team in our division since last year," says Manager Charlie Fox, citing the trade which brought 15-game winner Tom Bradley from the Chicago White Sox.

Ron Bryant, 14-7, and Jim Willoughby, 6-4; both were strong last year and appear to be certain help along with Bradley. "The men I'm concentrating on most this spring are Sam McDowell and Juan Marichal," says Fox. The two veteran pitchers both had sore arms in 1972 and combined for only 16 victories.

A comeback by Willie McCovey wouldn't hurt, either. The 34-year-old first baseman missed part of 1972 after breaking an arm in the opening week of the season and finished with 14 home runs 25 under his total in 1970, his last injury-free season.

Kingman, who plays first or third base and the outfield, led the team with his 29 homers. Right fielder Bobby Bonds added 26 to the team total of 150, tops in the majors.

Shortstop Chris Speier and center fielder Garry Maddox hit 15 and 12 homers, respectively, last year. Tito Fuentes, an eight-year veteran, returns to handle second base. Catcher Dave Rader became a starter as a rookie last year and hit .259.

Kingman will be starting somewhere and nothing more definite has been decided about who will start at third base in left field when Kingman is at first base. Veteran Jim Ray Hart can play both third and left.

Ed Goodson, who hit .280 in 58 games last year, and veteran Al Gallagher are among other third base candidates.

Gary Matthews, a rookie who had a good 1972 season at Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, is a left field possibility and the only rookie with a chance of breaking into the starting lineup.

The Giants' relief pitching, probably the team's weakest point last year, should improve if Fox can afford to leave Jim Barr in the bullpen. Barr was 8-10 with a 2.79 earned run average last year when he started 18 games.

Indiana: We're No 'David' Team

By PAUL LEBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Indiana's young Hoosiers tackle poised and confident UCLA in national collegiate basketball semifinals Saturday, but the coach of the challenger feels it's no David vs. Goliath.

"We've been in tough assignments before and the pressure hasn't gotten to us," said Bob Knight, whose team surprised by winning the Big Ten Conference and then the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Midwest regional at Nashville.

"We think UCLA is, without question, a tremendous basketball team—possibly one of the best ever," the 32-year-old Knight added, "but I don't think our kids will fold."

Indiana, 21-5, will take a string of six victories into a 4:10 p.m. (EST) game against the mighty Bruins, 28-0, following a 2:10 p.m. (EST) opener pitting Providence, 27-2, against Memphis State, 23-5.

Finals of the test, in which UCLA will seek a seventh straight title, will be at 6:35 p.m. (EST) and 9:10 p.m. (EST) Monday.

Able to withstand many forms of delay while amassing 73 wins in a row, UCLA expects Indiana—which will start two freshmen—to strive for ball control.

"We expect a well-executed, delayed type of game because that is their usual style," the Bruins' 62-year-old coach, John Wooden, said.

"We expect the delay, however, to be a bit more exaggerated than usual," Wooden added, "...but, really, style or systems do not matter. It is the execution and the ability of the performers that make the difference."

Quinn Buckner and Jim Crews, a pair of guards, are the freshmen who will draw starting roles for Indiana.

In a challenge of superior UCLA height, Knight has promised to assign 6-foot-8, 231-pound Steve Downing the task of shadowing Bruin Player of the Year Bill Walton, who is 6-foot-11 and weighs 220.

Walton, forwards Larry Farmer and Keith Wilkes and guards Larry Hollyfield, Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis were all participants in UCLA's 81-76 title victory over Florida State a year ago.

While Indiana and UCLA stick to defense, tiny Providence and freewheeling Memphis State are expected to engage in a shootout.

N.C. Draft Boards Aren't Going Out Of Business

By WILLIAM W. DOSTER
Associated Press Writer
With the all-volunteer, no-draft military service concept in operation, the recruiting business is booming in North Carolina while selective service operations have been slashed. However, N. C. Selective Service Director W. H. McCachren says the state's draft boards aren't about to go out of business. "Ninety-nine per cent of what we're doing now, is what we were doing before the all-volunteer army," he said. "The only difference is we haven't inducted anyone other than draft violators since Dec. 27." All 18-year-olds in the United States and its possessions still have to register with local Selective Service boards within 30 days prior to or after their 18th birthday. The Selective Service headquarters in Washington still holds lotteries to determine the order in which youths will be called into service in the event more military manpower becomes necessary.

However, McCachren said the Selective Service budget has been cut 34 per cent from the last fiscal year. This means that the system in North Carolina will slim down from 91 sites to 21 sites by December, 1973. Manpower will be cut from 183 to 102.

So as not to inconvenience youths in rural areas where sites have been closed, McCachren said the Selective Service system may designate teachers or counselors at high schools, colleges and trade schools as registrars, an uncompensated position.

Meanwhile, the four military services report that they have been able to meet or exceed their manpower quotas for North Carolina.

"We're going very well," said Maj. James Carter of the Army's recruiting station at Raleigh. "As a matter of fact, our standards for recruits have gone up. It's extremely difficult for a young man to get into service now without a high school diploma."

Carter said the Army more than doubled the number of recruiting stations in the state in July, 1971, in preparation for the changeover to the all-volunteer army. The number of recruiting stations in his western North Carolina district shot from 20 to 46.

Carter said that after several pay raises, a recruit now receives in all four services $307.20 per month, plus a uniform allowance, free meals, housing and medical care. After four months of active duty spent in basic training, he receives $342.00 monthly.

The Army, largest of the services, has decreed 70 per cent of all new recruits must be high school graduates.

The commander of the Raleigh Navy Recruiting District, which includes eastern North Carolina, said he is meeting his quotas for all categories but officers. "With the advent of the all volunteer service, we thought we would have a hard time meeting our quotas," said Cmdr. James D. Barlow. "But our quotas are lower than anticipated and we haven't had any trouble."

Barlow said the 70 recruiters under his command will likely be reduced to 65 by the end of the year because of "fiscal constraints."

A Marine Corps spokesman said the North Carolina Recruiting District headquartered at Raleigh led the other four recruiting districts in the Southeast with 115.1 per cent of its quota. "This area is more conservative than most and our recruiters are readily accepted in communities and on campus—vertising and promotion has enabled North Carolina Air Force recruiters to meet their demand also.

Art Museum Minority Report Given Approval

RALEIGH (AP)—In an unusual action Thursday, the House adopted a minority committee report which approved a bill to require that the proposed state Art Museum be built in the downtown state government complex.

The House State Government Committee had voted 11-9 earlier to give the bill, sponsored by Rep. Ward Purrington, R-Wake, an unfavorable report. The committee vote supported the decision of the museum building committee that the new $23 million art museum be located on the Camp Polk Youth Center property on the western outskirts of Raleigh.

Adoption of the minority report means the site of the museum can be fully debated on the House floor.

Purrington argued in committee and on the floor that it has been a state policy to concentrate governmental structures in the downtown area.

Another Wake County legislator, Rep. Howard Twiggs, D-Wake, said a "decision of this magnitude" should be made on the floor of the General Assembly.

Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, asked if the speedy approval was not a "positive factor incombe, argued, however, that the decision of the committee majority should be respected.

"We operate under a committee system, whether we like it or not, and we have to leave it to the committees to find the facts," Hyde said.

"The study committee report was reached after exhaustive study," agreed Rep. Bob Jones, D-Rutherford. "The ones interested in art can go out there (to the Polk site). We will need the downtown space for other things."

An effort to table Purrington's motion to adopt the minority report was defeated on a 62-47 vote, and the House then decided to accept the minority report for consideration.

At the committee meeting, Purrington noted that the governor, Council of State and planning commission had approved the site within a week's time. He said this raised the question whether "the spirit of the law" which required approval of the site had been complied with.

Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, asked if the speedy approval was not a "positive factor instead of a negative one."

Former state Sen. Tom White, chairman of the museum building committee, told the legislators that if the selection of the Camp Polk site stands, construction could be started in about 18 months.

Fish Killed By Oil Spill

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Dead fish were seen floating in Sugar Creek after an estimated 2,700-gallon oil spill Thursday.

The creek runs 35 miles from Charlotte south to Lancaster, S.C. Oil spilled into it after a break in a pipe between the main storage tank and the boiler at the Consolidated Engravers Corp. in Charlotte.

A cleanup crew spread straw along the banks in Charlotte to absorb oil.

The Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta and the North Carolina Department of Air and Water Resources were notified.

Two workers at the Charlotte Nature Museum found a wild pintail duck covered with oil, and washed him with detergent. Another oil-smeared duck got away, and Russ Peithman, director of the museum, said that if it isn't cleaned off it will smother.

The 'Worry Clinic' Charm Doesn't Fade With Age

Pamela had a sex complex because she was a "plain Jane" But her Guidance Counselor opened her eyes to the magic formula for winning dates and avoiding divorce! Charm involves smart head work, but that beats mere anatomical "measurements." Charm also prevents divorce!

"Dr. Crane," she began, "When I was a sophomore at high school, I realized I was never going to be a Miss America. "For I was only mediocre in looks. "My legs were a little knockkneed and I had freckles. "And I didn't have the full breast that seem to be inevitable characteristic of girls who work as models or in the movies. "About my only physical asset was the fact I had even teeth, which I kept white by much tooth brushing.

"One day I was so blue, I felt like taking an overdose of sleeping pills. "My Guidance Counselor found me crying and wormed out of me my confession that I felt I'd never have any dates or win a husband.

"But she pulled one of your former columns out of her purse and read part of it to me. "For you had said that what really wins a man and holds a husband's devotion throughout their Golden Wedding Day is a girl's gay smile, and lavish use of compliments.

The bidding:
East South West North
1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ♠
Fear of an impending ruff induced a state of mental panic in South, the declarer at four hearts, and he failed to take the necessary measures to safeguard his contract.
East opened the bidding with one spade and South took advantage of the favorable vulnerability to overcall with two hearts. North held the equivalent of an opening bid himself and with an ample fit for his partner, he proceeded without further ado to game in hearts.
West opened the eight of spades and East put up the king felling declarer's queen. East shifted to the singleton eight of diamonds and the trick was won in dummy by the jack. The jack of hearts was led, East followed unhesitatingly with the three and South put up the ace. He feared that, if he took a finesse and it lost, West would give his partner a diamond ruff inasmuch as East's shift into dummy's strength obviously marked him with a singleton in that suit.

Declarer continued with a small heart in the hope that both missing honors would fall together. West showed out, however, and East was in with the queen of hearts. The latter shifted to the five of clubs, South put in the ten and West covered with the jack to dislodge dummy's ace.

Declarer proceeded to lead diamonds now in a desperate effort to dispose of his remaining two clubs; however, East ruffed in immediately with the king of hearts and led another club so that West could cash the setting trick in that suit.
Despite the threat of an impending diamond ruff, declarer should nevertheless have let the jack of hearts ride at trick three. Even if the finesse loses to an honor in West's hand and the latter returns a diamond for his partner to trump, South will have lost only three tricks—and he now has full control over the proceedings. He can win a club return by East with the ace, draw the one outstanding trump and then run the dummy's diamonds and discard his remaining clubs.

The only holding he actually had to protect himself against was East's having the king-queen and a small heart. The heart finesse was merely a safety play to cover that possibility.

"You said it is charm, not physical 'measurements,' that really cause true love to develop. "Well, my Counselor told me she had been in the same boat with me when she was in high school. "But that column had changed her until she now has a wonderful husband. "So she urged me to memorize your H-E-L-P formula for maintaining an easy flow of conversation. "And she exacted my promise to pay 3 sincere compliments every day, mostly to the boys in class with me. "Well, I did so. "And a miracle happened! "Within a week I was asked for a date, not just by one boy but by 3 classmates. "I had to pinch myself to be sure I wasn't dreaming but it was real. "And though I obviously didn't rate the 'Beauty Queen' honor in my senior year, I was elected 'Popularity Queen.' "So tell your millions of readers to use the Applied Psychology that you stress, for it certainly works wonders!"

CHARM STOPS DIVORCE
Girls, you may win state or national beauty prizes on your "Perfect measurements" but still end in divorce. For your anatomy may change in a few years! You may get flat and wrinkles, gray haired and needing false teeth.
Thus, our anatomical appeal wanes greatly. But charm doesn't get fat! Nor does it develop wrinkles. Charm doesn't grow gray or stoop shouldered, hard-of-hearing or toothless! And charm depends mostly on what is ABOVE your neck; not below it!

A "plain Jane" can win boy friends easily if she will simply remember that every man has this tattoo on his chest. "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."
So pay him deft compliments, starting with a cherry smile.

Profanity Law Is Ruled Out

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's law against profanity has been held unconstitutional.
Circuit Judge Major B. Harding ruled Wednesday that the law violated the 1st, 5th and 14th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, and that under a dictionary definition of profane, the statement "God is dead" might be considered a violation of the Florida law.
His ruling came in a case filed against Neil Emerson Mayhew, 25, of Gainesville, arrested on charges of using profane language and resisting arrest.

Of 2.9 million school children in Texas, 2.3 million have been immunized against diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella and tetanus.

LWV Sponsors Legislative Day

The League of Women Voters of North Carolina sponsored the annual Legislative Day in Raleigh on Wednesday. Designed to provide League members across the state the opportunity to see their state government in action, the day's schedule included sessions with both House and Senate committee hearings in the morning, followed by a luncheon with Lt. Governor James D. Hunt as guest speaker, and attendance of floor debates in both Houses of the Assembly in the afternoon.

Among the committee hearings attended by local League members were those dealing with no-fault auto insurance bills; the bill to repeal the sales tax on food; and bills to formalize the practice of community college education in correctional institutions.

At the luncheon, Lt. Governor Hunt presided LWV for being "The most vital organization concerned with issues that affect the lives of the people of North Carolina."

In referring to League's traditional nonpartisan position, Hunt emphasized that many state programs now being considered do deal with issues which are not associated with any party.

Programs cited are the current effort to establish public kindergarten education for every five year old child in North Carolina, an expanded state park system, and governmental reorganization. In closing he asked that people support programs on the basis of "not what party but how good; not what person but what is fair."

At last year's Legislative Day, the Assembly paid tribute to LWV by ratifying the 19th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, which gives women the right to vote. A part of the Constitution since 1920, this amendment was partly the result of a 72 year effort by the National American Women Suffrage Association, the forerunner of League of Women Voters.

Participating in Legislative Day from the Greenville-Pitt County LWV were Mrs. James Bryne, Mrs. William Collins, Mrs. Theodore Ellis, Mrs. Paul Farr, Mrs. Brame Resnik, Mrs. Tinsley Yarbrough, and Mr. Clark.

Mrs. Clark, current President of this League has led the organization from the time of its inception as a Provisional League in 1969. A full-fledged League since 1971, the local LWV now has 115 voting members and five associate members.

Dr. Westcott To Be Visitor

North Carolina's new Social Services Commissioner Dr. Renee Westcott will visit the Pitt and Beaufort County Department of Social Services Tuesday.

She will appear on the 7:30 a.m. WNCT-TV "Carolina Today" the next morning.

She will meet with the Pitt County Social Services Department at noon.

Soon after she was sworn in as Commissioner, Dr. Westcott met with directors of the county social services program and told them she wanted to visit their agencies to learn firsthand what problems they were facing and what the state could do to streamline the administration of the welfare program.

Dr. Westcott holds a Ph. D. in administration and supervision and a minor in sociology from Duke University. Prior to her appointment as Commissioner, she served for nearly three years as coordinator for instruction at the National Laboratory for Higher Education in Durham.
