

Viet Cong Free Their Last POWs Today

By ROBERT LIU
Associated Press Writer
CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The last 32 American prisoners of the Viet Cong were freed in Hanoi today and flown to Clark Air Base.

The release of the 27 military men and five civilians launched the final phase of the repatriation of Americans captured by the Communists in Vietnam and Laos.

The 32 Americans landed at Clark at 6:52 p.m., or 5:52 a.m. EST.

The departure of their C141

from Hanoi was held up more than an hour by a rainstorm that delayed the arrival from downtown Hanoi of members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision to observe the transfer.

Another 49 Americans and a Canadian are to be handed over Wednesday in Hanoi, including 40 Americans captured by the North Vietnamese and nine captured in Laos.

The last 67 Americans held by the North Vietnamese are to be released on Thursday, bringing to 587 the number of American military and civilian prisoners freed by the Communists since Feb. 12.

"Man's most precious possession, second only to life itself, is freedom," said the senior officer of the group released today, Col. Benjamin H. Purcell, 45, of Columbus, Ga., to a cheering crowd of base personnel who greeted the freed prisoners.

"Today, 32 of us have regained our freedom and a chance to start again our life. In the years, our faith in our country, in our way of life and in our President has been unwavering. And we wish at this time to express our thanks to our President Nixon and to the American people for keeping faith with us."

Purcell was captured on Feb. 8, 1968, when his helicopter crashed in Quang Tri Province.

Also in the group was the last American pilot downed before the cease-fire, Lt. Cmdr. Phillip A. Kientzler, 32, of Poway, Calif., who was shot down on Jan. 27, the day the cease-fire agreement was signed in Paris.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong had offered to free the last of their prisoners last weekend, but the United States insisted on knowing when the nine Americans captured in Laos would be freed. To pressure the Communists, the United States suspended withdrawal of its last troops in Vietnam.

Monday night, after five days of wrangling, the Pathet Lao announced it would free the nine in Hanoi Wednesday. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong issued a new schedule of release dates, the United States agreed to complete its troop withdrawal Thursday, and President Nixon said he was "particularly gratified."

Radio Hanoi has attributed antiwar statements to four of the POWs freed today.

A broadcast June 8, 1972, said Army Capt. Richard C. Anshus, 25, of Minneapolis, Miss., Marine Sgt. Jose Jesus Anzaldúa Jr., 22 of Refugio, Tex., and Army Sgt. Jon R.

Cavani, 29, of Merced, Calif., were among 16 signers of a letter urging Congress to end the war and negotiate the release of the POWs.

Radio Hanoi attributed other antiwar messages to Anzaldúa on Aug. 27, 1971, on Christmas Day 1961 and on Oct. 4, 1972.

The fourth man was Army Capt. John W. Parsels, 27.

Radio Hanoi on June 2, 1972, said he addressed a message to the "concerned officers' movement and concerned academy graduates" in which he said such acts of war as indiscriminate bombing made him "ashamed to be a member of our armed forces." The message also supported Viet Cong peace proposals.

Liddy Refuses To Answer Questions On Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide convicted in the Watergate conspiracy, has refused to tell a federal grand jury if anyone else was involved in the break-in and bugging at Democratic headquarters.

He declined to answer more than 30 questions on grounds of self-incrimination Monday and asked that he be returned to the federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

The government then asked that he be granted immunity for anything he says before the grand jury. Chief U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica, who asked the conspirators to tell what they know about the case, deferred a ruling on the recommendation until Friday.

The jury, continuing its investigation surrounding the Watergate affair, arranged to meet again today to hear other witnesses.

Liddy is the only one of seven convicted conspirators to receive a final sentence from Sirica—from six years and eight months to 20 years.

Meanwhile, the White House denied that presidential lawyer John W. Dean III had prior knowledge of the break-in and wiretapping last June.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen at Key Biscayne, Fla., that President Nixon has "absolute and total confidence" in Dean.

Ziegler's remarks followed publication of a story in Monday's Los Angeles Times which said James W. McCord Jr., another convicted Watergate defendant, had told Senate investigators that Dean and Jeb Stuart Magruder, a former White House aide, had prior knowledge of the break-in.

Ziegler said the President telephoned Dean Monday morning because of the Times story. Based on Nixon's conversation, Ziegler added, "I will again deny any prior knowledge on the part of Mr. Dean."

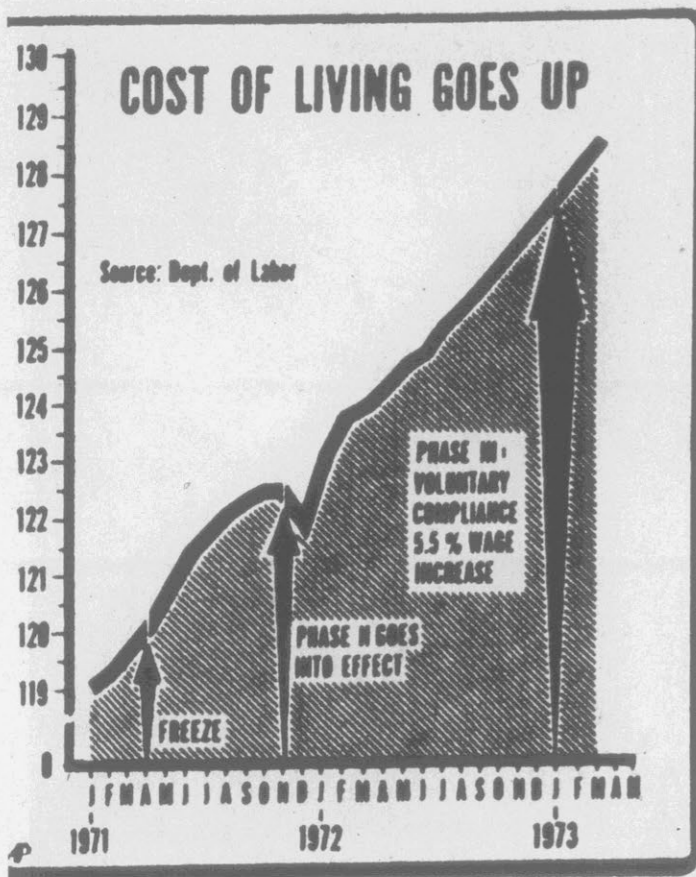

Magruder denied any role in the bugging.

McCord, in a letter last week, told Judge Sirica that political pressure had been applied to keep the seven defendants silent; that perjury was committed during the trial, and that others were involved in the wiretapping operation.

Sirica delayed McCord's sentencing for one week and told him and five other defendants that "should you decide to speak freely, I would have to weigh that factor in appraising what sentence will be finally imposed in each case."

McCord, who is free under $100,000 bail, began telling his story to the counsel for a special Senate investigating committee last Friday. The committee counsel, Samuel Dash, told reporters that McCord had named others involved in the wiretapping, but Dash refused to identify them.

Emphasis On Rising Rents

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The rent squeeze is on from Milwaukee to Miami, catching the old and the poor in the crunch, witnesses have told a House committee considering rent-control legislation.

A Milwaukee woman is paying $125 a month for an apartment that cost $75 a few weeks ago. Despite the 66-per-cent increase, the floor still is rotten and the plaster is falling off.

Wisconsin Lt. Gov. Martin J. Schreiber cited that example to the House Commerce Committee Monday, and representatives of tenants organizations in other cities told of similar cases.

But landlords say they, too, have been caught in a crush of rising prices for painting, plumbing and fuel oil.

Tenants urged Congress to impose federal rent controls. The landlords said controls would only force more and more of them to walk away from unprofitable buildings, aggravate a housing shortage, and lead in the end to still higher rents because of a demand far outstripping supply.

Nevertheless, Chairman Wright Patman reasserted that the administration relaxed economic controls prematurely, producing an economic crisis warranting congressional imposition of new and tighter restrictions.

The rent plight dominated the opening day of committee hearings on extending and perhaps strengthening the Economic Stabilization Act, which authorizes the president to impose wage-price controls.

The hearings continue today with testimony from economists.

UMW Official Found Guilty Of 3 Slayings

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — William J. Prater's attorney says the former United Mine Workers organizer found guilty of murder in the Yablonski slayings hopes he will win a new trial and reversal of his conviction.

Prater, accused of helping to plot and finance the 1969 slayings of UMW reformist Joseph A. Yablonski and Yablonski's wife and daughter, was convicted Monday night on three counts of first-degree murder—one for each of the victims.

Richard Sprague, special state prosecutor in the case, had asserted in court earlier that the murders grew out of a chain of events set in motion by former UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, Yablonski's union archrival.

Boyle has not been charged in the killings. He has steadfastly maintained that he knows nothing about them.

An Erie County Court jury of seven men and five women returned its verdict against Prater after 6½ hours of deliberation, climaxing a three-week trial.

Under Pennsylvania law, Prater will face a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Prater, of LaFollette, Tenn., remained tight-faced and rigid as the verdict was read, displaying only tenseness.

His wife Maxine, red-eyed but not crying, cradled the couple's 12-year-old daughter Ann in her arms as the verdict was announced. The youngest, one of seven Prater children, had begun weeping even before the verdict was read.

"There were no surprises, just disappointment," H. David Rothman, Prater's attorney, said after the verdict was announced.

Okay Atlantic Union Concept

WASHINGTON (AP) — A procedural step toward possible federation of North America and Europe under a single Atlantic Union has passed the Senate without dissent.

The resolution for American-European consideration of such a federation, supported by President Nixon "as a goal and a concept," was approved and sent to the House Monday.

But Rothman added that he believed sufficient grounds existed for a retrial, "and hopefully a reversal."

Sprague, smiling and visibly pleased with the verdict, declined to talk with newsmen Monday night. An aide said he returned directly to his motel room and went to bed.

Sprague had said in his closing argument that the state "is on the move in this case and we're getting there."

Stamps To Add Value

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the value of food stamps is in store for some needy families, but others will derive little or no benefit from new stamp allowances.

Changes in the food stamp program go into effect July 1 and will allow a family of four at the low end of the poverty scale to buy $4 more worth of stamps a month.

Figures released by the Agriculture Department, which announced the food-stamp raises Monday, put the current monthly stamp allowance for a family of four at $112. This will rise to $116, but the cost of purchasing the stamps will remain the same.

The Agriculture Department said the increased benefits were being made in accordance with federal law, which requires an annual adjustment to reflect changes in food prices. With these adjustments, the cost of the program will rise to $2.1 billion in the next fiscal year, up about $140 million.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Joseph Kennedy III, eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has been discharged from a hospital here following observation for a "slight concussion" suffered in an automobile accident.

Federal Marshal Gun Victim At Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — A federal marshal wounded in a major flareup of gunfire at the besieged village of Wounded Knee was reported in serious condition today.

Federal negotiators, meanwhile, said they were willing to talk with militant Indians in the village despite the shooting incident.

U.S. Marshal Lloyd Grimm was hit by a single burst of gunfire from within the village late Monday afternoon, according to Wayne Colburn, chief of the U.S. Marshals Service. Grimm, 56, is from Omaha, Neb.

Colburn said Grimm, who usually works in a command post area in nearby Pine Ridge, was at a roadblock manned by marshals to obtain firsthand knowledge of the activities of American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders who have occupied the tiny hamlet for 28 days.

The wounded marshal was taken to Fitzsimmons Army Medical Center in Aurora, Colo., after receiving a transfusion at Pine Ridge.

"His condition was reported serious, but not critical," Colburn said, adding that x-rays indicated the bullet missed the spinal cord and vital organs. The bullet which entered his chest left through his back.

Grimm underwent a five-hour operation at the hospital to relieve pressure on his spine and was reported in stable condition following the operation. Colburn said the marshals and Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agents manning per-

YABLONSKIS LEAVE COURT — Ed Yablonski, left, and his nephew, Ken Yablonski, son of slain UMW dissident Joseph Yablonski, leave the Erie County courthouse late Monday night after the conviction of William Prater, 52, of LaFollette, Tenn., was convicted of three counts of murder in the first degree in the Yablonski family slayings. Joseph Yablonski and his wife and daughter were gunned down in their Clarksville, Pa. home in December 1969. Prater was accused of using UMW funds to hire the gunmen. Plant Slated For Jamesville

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Branch Banking and Trust Co. reported today it and two other financial institutions have loaned $2 million to Coats and Clark Inc. of New York for construction of a zipper plant at Jamesville.

The plant is expected to employ 250 persons with an annual payroll of $1.3 million when full operations are reached.

Lower Out-Of-State Tuitions Rate Bill Offered In Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation to lower out-of-state tuition rates, changed the state's juvenile correction laws and clarify the welfare laws as introduced in the General Assembly Monday night.

Sen. A. B. Coleman, D-Orange, said he sponsored the tuition bill "to start a discussion" on whether the high tuition rate were hurting the quality of students the university is able to attract. His bill would return out-of-state tuition to the 1971 rates of $1,300 per year for undergraduate students. The current rate is $1,800 per year.

Rep. Bob Wynne, D-Wake, introduced a package of juvenile correction bills in the House which he said resulted from the work of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Youth Development.

"The most far reaching aspect of one of these bills would allow a judge to excuse a child from compliance with the compulsory school attendance law," Wynne said.

He explained "an alternate plan" of study could be arranged, including vocational education or special education.

Sen. Harry Bagnal, R-Forsyth, said the three welfare bills he introduced were "housecleaning" measures requested by Secretary of Human Resources David Flaherty.

The bills appeared to be aimed at bringing the state welfare code in compliance with recent federal programs, not changing the basic welfare system.

PTI Dedicating New Humber Building On May 8

Dedication of the Robert Lee Humber Classroom Building at Pitt Technical Institute will be held Sunday, May 6, at 2:30 p.m.

According to R. E. Davenport Jr., chairman of the dedication committee, Lt. Governor Jim Hunt will give the dedicatory address during the dedication ceremonies.

Davenport, a member of the PTI Trustees, also said, the ceremonies will be followed by an "open house" at Pitt Tech. The citizens of Pitt County and surrounding area are invited to attend.

This information was made available last night during the regular meeting of the Pitt Tech Board of Trustees. Vice-chairman, Clifton W. Everett, Sr., presided at the Trustee meeting.

The foundations committee of the board recommended to the board that a Pitt Tech Foundation be established. The Articles of Incorporation of the Foundation was approved by the Trustees, along with a list of the board of directors for the Foundation.

The purpose of the Foundation, remarked Davenport, committee chairman, is to:

- (1) give Pitt Tech the legal mechanism for soliciting, managing, and disposing of funds and other assets from foundations, businesses, and local citizens;
- (2) provide PTI with an accumulation of resources necessary to receive federal and private grants which require local matching funds;
- (3) foster a growing source of revenue for buildings, program expansion, and other objectives consistent with the overall goals of PTI.

In other actions last night, the Board approved the paving of certain areas of the campus. Clifton Everett pointed out that there were more cars on the campus than there was space available for parking.

A resolution relating to student activity fees was also approved, along with certain budget transfers.

Reporting for the personnel committee, James Brewer, chairman, recommended that three members of the PTI faculty be granted summer educational leave. Leaves were granted to Kelly Adams (Commercial Art), James Hoover (Electronics Technology), and Robert Turner (Mechanical Drafting).

PTI President William E. Fulford Jr. reported that the following gifts had been received and acknowledged. The gifts include: $100 from the Greenville Pilot Club; a used Corvair car, valued at $150.00 from Dr. Bill Durham; $20 from John Childers, and from Carolina Sales, Inc., a heat pump and two electric duct heaters, valued at $135.

Dr. Fulford reported to the board that the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools visiting committee will be at Pitt Tech April 24-27, 1973. Board members were invited to attend several meetings with the visiting committee members.

Each board member received a copy of the Pitt Tech Self-Study and were encouraged by Dr. Fulford to review its contents.

Commissioner Says 'Crisis' Is Opportunity Time

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
"Everyone tells me I came into office at a time of crisis in Social Services," said Mrs. Renee of Social Services for North Carolina visiting Pitt County today.

"I like to remember what Saul Alinsky said about crisis. He said the Chinese character for the word has two meanings—crisis and opportunity.

"If we are in crisis now, with the demand for services increasing and the taxpayers protesting, I see it as an opportunity to work out solutions to the problems that create the demand and at the same time to save the taxpayers' money, indeed, to increase the number of taxpayers."

One of the first problems Mrs. Westcott is tackling is "the inordinate amount of paperwork" involved in administering services. The county Social Service committees are concerned about this problem," she said. "At a recent meeting, they displayed 91 forms used concerning an AFDC recipient with seven children and 29 forms for a lady disabled because of advanced age. The county committee persons have also said they wish to talk to people on the federal level about paperwork. Virginia Smith of the HEW office in Atlanta has agreed to meet with them. I'm behind them all the way. We just have to stop this waste of precious time and money."

"We soon will have regional offices," she said, "not to create another bureaucratic stage, but to provide expertise at a level closer to the workers in the counties, so they can help their clients faster and better.

"Also, we'll institute more clear and concise guidelines for our social workers.

"One thing every agency in the Department of Human Resources is seeking to end is duplication of services. This should be eliminated because it will save money and also because the quality of services will be made better.

"While all these administrative problems are being solved, however, we will be working on the most pressing need of all—the actual problems of the people. My background is in education, and I still feel that education is the best solution to most of our needs. I don't mind going into the churches, the schools, industry, anywhere I need to, to work out programs that would get more Social Services recipients into training for meaningful jobs. For instance, I would go into a hospital and ask, 'How many additional nurse's aides will you need six months from now?' If they answer 20, I would ask for 10 spaces to be filled by persons chosen through a county department and I would guarantee that these persons would be available in the allotted time.

"Poverty programs do not work. They don't work because they always end and when they do the people involved are worse off than before. They're left with nothing but debts they accumulated because they dared to trust in the future."

Dr. Westcott spoke here last night to Social Services personnel, county commissioners, and other interested persons from five Eastern counties. She met today with the Pitt County Social Services staff and then went on to Washington to visit the Beaufort County Department.

The Goldsboro native holds a Ph.D. in administration from Duke University with a B.S. degree from Fayetteville State University, and an M.A. degree from N.C. Central University, and also has studied at Julliard School of Music, Caputo Conservatory at Carnegie Hall, and Johns Hopkins University.

From July, 1970 until her appointment as Commissioner, she was coordinator for instruction at the National Laboratory for Higher Education in Durham.

"I've always worked hard," the mother of three teenaged daughters said, "but now I'm going at a faster pace than ever before. I just have to get around the state and meet and listen to all the people involved in improving the social services situation here. I get to work at 8:10 or so each morning and leave at 5:30, but then I often speak to concerned groups at nights and I must stay up into the night writing of future speeches. Once this initial getting acquainted period is over, the speech-making will slow down some, I know, but the time will still be filled. There's just so much to do. I wake up in the middle of the night with more ideas that can be applied. It's a challenging job and I'm loving every minute of it," she said.

Will Screen Work Of New Craftsmen

New craftsmen who want to participate in the annual Albemarle Craftsman's Fair must submit by April 1, three samples of their best work to be screened. This screening is necessary to participate in the fair or to become a member in the Albemarle Craftsman's Guild. The quality of the product will be judged by a standards committee.

All present guild members and persons, who have participated in the fair for the past two years, will automatically be invited to return to the 1973 event.

The 1973 fair will be a five-day event and is scheduled for Sept. 26-30. Four-H members and other youths are invited to participate. Youth participants however, must submit samples of their work to the standards committee each year if they wish to exhibit. The 1972 Albermarle Craftsman's Fair consisted of 41 booths manned by approximately 50 approved adult craftsmen and 50 4-H members and other youths.

Mrs. Lydia Hale of Belcross will chair the 1973 fair and Mrs. H. T. Lewis of Elizabeth City will serve as vice chairman. The purpose of the fair is to encourage creativity in both design and in use of materials, to preserve traditional crafts, to promote new crafts and to improve the quality of crafts to be marketed in the area.

Anyone interested is asked to contact their county home extension agent's office or write Area Home Economics Extension Agent, Post Office Box 302, Edenton, N. C., 27932.

Pitt Sales Tax Nets $102,476

G. A. Jones, State Department of Revenue commissioner, reported that one per cent sales tax collections in Pitt County for February amounted to $102,476. Neighboring county totals, the commissioner said, included: Martin, $28,872; Greene, $8,783; Lenoir, $87,270; Beaufort, $48,874; and Craven, $77,387. Jones noted that the 80 participating counties had total collections of $5,876,668.

Will Serve As ACC Marshal

WILSON—Gary Neil Duncan of Grimesland has been named to serve as a marshal at Atlantic Christian College for the 1972-73 academic year.

College marshals serve at spring and summer commencements and at appropriate events during the academic year.

Duncan is the husband of Mrs. Jeanette Duncan of Grimesland.

Pitt YDC To Be Rally Hosts

Members of Pitt County Young Democrats are to be the sponsors of the 1973 spring Statewide Democratic Unification Rally this year.

Plans for the forthcoming event were discussed at the county wide meeting held Monday night.

The statewide meeting will take place at Wrightsville Beach on the weekend of May 19.

At Monday's meeting, prospective key note speakers were also considered. Among those suggested and who will be contacted for possible appearances are Mayor John Lindsay of New York, Sargent Shriver; Robert Strauss, and Rep. Shirley Chisholm.

Carl Darden, president of the Pitt County Young Democrats, expressed a hope to have confirmation on at least one of the suggested speakers by the date of the April meeting.

Committee chairmen named at Monday night's meeting are: Banquet and Dance, Susan Walton and Tom Eamon; Registration, Cynthia Whisman, Tom Eamon and Rev. Bill Moore; Social Coordination, Jane Forbes and Barbara Littleton; and Program Committee, Judy Deboard.

Persons interested in the possibility of attending the statewide rally on the weekend of May 19 are invited to attend the April meeting to be held April 30 at 7:45 p.m. at Baptist Student Union on Tenth Street, or to contact Carl Darden at 752-7194 or 758-1983.

Who Needs It?

What would anybody do with a large sign bearing "Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center" lettering?

That's what Bill Green, building and grounds supervisor at the Center located on the Falkland highway, wants to know.

Green said that the sign, measuring about eight feet by five feet, was removed from the front lawn of the Center sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and Monday morning. He said he discovered it missing when he reported for work early Monday.

The supervisor asked that anyone with information concerning the missing item contact him at the center, 758-3151, extension 248. The sign has a white background and large green lettering, he said.

Another Sellout For Horsemeat

By KEN DONEY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "We've done it again!" Ed Carroll exclaimed after selling his 3,600-pound supply of horsemeat in six hours.

He said about 100 price-conscious customers were still waiting in line outside his little horsemeat market when he had to close his door early Monday afternoon.

Carroll, 31, said it was a day of record sales for him. His market is closed today because his supplier can't prepare the meat fast enough to meet the booming demand. But he plans to reopen Wednesday.

His business is soaring with soaring beef prices. Horsemeat, high in protein and with no fat, is an easy winner at the cash register.

Tenderloin beef is selling for $2.98 per pound at one chain supermarket here Monday.

Tenderloin horsemeat steak, Carroll's most expensive item, was going for 95 cents a pound.

Joyce Becker of Portland was among a half dozen customers standing outside the store at 7:30 a.m., a half-hour before Carroll opened his doors. Like so many others looking for alternatives to high-cost beef, she said she switched to horsemeat because of the price.

"I've been buying it for one year now and I like it, better than beef," she said.

"I have a little boy, 1½, who won't eat beef," she said. "I only buy it when I run out of horsemeat."

Horse meat is darker than beef, is prepared similarly and generally is as much a family meal to Carroll's customers as beef is to supermarket shoppers.

Carroll's J&H Market has experienced a tremendous boost in sales since a Portland newspaper, The Oregonian, published a front page story March 8 in which a housewife revealed she had been serving her husband horsemeat for three years without his knowledge.

Sales in 1973 have been averaging about 8,000 pounds a week, but this would be higher if Carroll could meet the high demands of his customers.

Board To Study Fund Challenge

RALEIGH — Charles E. Russell of Greenville, a member of the North Carolina State University's Education Foundation, will meet Thursday with the full board to consider a fundraising challenge for the NCSU School of Education.

A report will be made to the board of directors on the needs of the School of Education.

The Foundation was incorporated last fall to raise funds exclusively for the NCSU School of Education. That school is oriented toward teaching, research and extension work in the scientific and technological fields of education.

Suspect Arson In Barn Fires

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—A spokesman for the Robeson County Sheriff's Department said Monday the department was investigating the possibility of arson in connection with two tobacco barn fires.

The fires occurred Sunday night between Red Springs and Maxton, near the Prospect community.

The barns were destroyed, but no injuries were reported. They were the latest in a series of fires in the county since the burning of the Old Main building at Pembroke State University a week ago.

The elephant's brain is more than three times as large as man's, says National Geographic.

Barnes To Be Guest Speaker

M.L. Barnes, president of the North Carolina Association of Educators, will be the guests speaker at a special called meeting of the Pitt County Unit of NCAE.

The topic for discussion will be unification. The meeting will be held at the Robinson School in Winterville at 4 p.m.

DOCTOR SHOWS HOW TO

Bathe Away Aches and Pains

IN YOUR OWN BATHTUB

By Richard Estrin

NEW YORK, N. Y. — New York Physician has discovered a way to turn an ordinary tub of hot water into a relaxing, soothing, satisfying Mineral Bath. Imagine what this means to those who suffer the disturbing aches and pains that are so often associated with over-exertion fatigue.

Many who have tried this new discovery give glowing reports of how they now "soak away" much of the pains of sore muscles and stiffness right in their own bathtubs — just as though they were bathing at one of the world's famous Mineral Springs. In fact, millions of people who have been traveling to distant Health Spas for pain relief — on the advice of their physicians — may soon be saved this bother and expense.

Thanks to this new triumph in medical chemistry, they may find that they can enjoy the often comforting benefits of true mineral bathing in the snug convenience of their own homes.

Here's how it all came about

A curious doctor was puzzled by the fact that Medical Science has never been able to tell why certain Natural Springs so often gave blessed relief from aches and pains. He decided to analyze the water of these Springs and find out what Nature put in them to make them different. He discovered that they were rich in certain carbonates, sulphates, iodides and chlorides of Lithium, Potassium, Magnesium, Iron and other medicinal minerals. Could it be, he asked himself, that the secret lies in these minerals?

In order to find the answer, he had a chemist compound them into a water-soluble concentrate which patients suffering from minor aches and pains could use in their baths.

I was one of the many who tried it. For months I had been annayed by distressing muscular aches and pains in my elbow. Even though skeptical, I was eager to test this doctor's new formula. I would have tried anything that offered any hope at all of easing my discomfort.

"It is called BATHERAPY," he told me. "You simply add a handful or two of green crystals to a tub of moderately hot water, then let yourself soak in it for about 20 minutes. Mind you, this won't cure aches or pains — but it may give you welcome temporary relief from pain."

I'll always remember that first BATHERAPY bath! I had hardly let myself sink into the tub when something wonderful began to happen. A deep, penetrating warmth seemed to course through my body. It was as though the liquid mineral heat were actually massaging my frayed and tortured nerves. In a few minutes an indescribable feeling of relaxation crept over me. I felt as though my whole body were being caressed by the soaking sunshine of Spring. It was an experience I'll never forget — and one that I often repeat!

To share my good fortune, I sent a package of BATHERAPY to a friend. He wrote me:

"Now, when my aches and pains become disturbing, I simply get in my tub and let a BATHERAPY bath soak them away! It's like taking a Mineral Bath at one of those European Spas you read about, but I bet even they can't match the blessed relief my own tub now gives me."

Available to Hospitals and the Public

As this is being written, BATHERAPY is being made available to hospitals everywhere — and to the public through this announcement. Already thousands are enjoying its benefits. Yet BATHERAPY does not help everyone. Unfortunately, there are some people who are constitutionally unable to respond even to Nature's own Mineral Baths.

If you, however, are among the millions who suffer from minor aches and pains — or from the tensions and fatigues of modern living — ask your doctor about BATHERAPY. If he thinks it might help you, by all means try it. The chances are you'll find its soothing, cushioning, pain-softening action will give you surprising relief from minor discomforts and a feeling of well-being that may last for quite a time.

Nothing Else Like It!

Even if you are fortunately free of any bodily discomforts, you'll find a bath with BATHERAPY is a delightful and rewarding experience... A wonderful sensation of physical freedom envelops you. Tensions unwind. Nerves are soothed. And you relax so blissfully, you sleep as though you hadn't a care in the world.

Critical View Of American Women

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a foreign-born woman, but I enjoy reading your column to study the strange, insecure ways of the American people.

Most American men are henpecked by bossy wives who in turn shout for their own liberation. It makes me laugh. Since I have come to this country I can now understand why so many American men prefer to marry foreign women. We are not so different from American women, only we actually enjoy our womanhood and do not try to be something else. We are truly liberated, and it is a lot of nonsense that we walk three steps behind our husbands and refrain from speaking our minds.

The boldness and lack of grace I have observed in many American women make it quite obvious why there are so many divorces in your country. In my country, we say: "A strong wife and mother is the source of a strong husband, children, and country."

What could be more complimentary to women?

S. M. G.: LONG BEACH

[P.S. I am married to a wonderful American man.]

DEAR S.M.G.: I presume your "wonderful American man" was raised by an American mother who must have done something right.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old, college educated, fairly good-looking woman. I am single. To get right to the point, I have dated many men, but not one of them has ever turned me on. I feel absolutely nothing when a man kisses me. But that is not the case with women. I would like to be the "man" to another woman. I have never done anything with either sex. How would you define a homosexual?

NO NAME, NO CITY

DEAR NO: A homosexual is one who has erotic feelings about members of his [or her] own sex.

No Room For Humor Is Allowed

In reading the Raleigh News and Observer's Under the Dome last week we were surprised to see the following statement:

"Many people assume that Dr. Leo Jenkins has been pushing for a four-year medical school at East Carolina University in order to build up support in a bid for the governorship in 1976."

We could not believe anybody would assign such motives in a fight for better medical care which has been going on for ten years, and had continuously brought down the wrath of some of the Piedmont press upon the east for all those years.

We have to allow, though, that perhaps the News and Observer knows people who feel that way.

So we read on. Another paragraph astounded us.

It attributed a statement to Jenkins in welcoming visitors to the first Tobacco History Symposium held on the ECU campus last week.

Under the Dome reported, "A few minutes later, in welcoming the 60-70 persons to the symposium, the ECU chancellor said he would like to see the institution develop not only a medical school, but also a law school, a school of veterinary medicine, and other schools."

School of veterinary medicine? That was a new one on us so we got hold of a verbatim transcript of Dr. Jenkins remarks. Here is how it went:

"We want you to feel free at all times to give us suggestions of things that we ought to do. Now I can't keep up with them all. I've got men nagging me to start a law school. And I'm just afraid to start it. . . I'm afraid that Mr. Humphries' (Bill Humphries, News and Observer, Farm editor) paper will kill me if I start something else up there. (Laughter) And people are nagging us to start a veterinarian school and I don't want to do that or John Caldwell (chancellor of N. C. State) will kill me. So we are trying to respond to all of your demands and we'll do the best we can. And I am glad this is the beginning of something very worthwhile. . . the first (Tobacco) Institute and you are indeed very welcome."

Obviously a humorous welcome on the part of Chancellor Jenkins, but apparently to some who publish in the Piedmont there is little room for humor in Easterners wanting a fair shake from state government in improving their lot.

Ex-Governors Echoed Hodges

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N. C. — North Carolinians have kept their governor on a short leash since the days of rule under the British crown.

They turn him out of office at the end of four years. They deny him the right of veto over acts of the legislature.

Whether 200 years has eroded the old colonial distrust of the executive is being tested again in the current General Assembly, considering bills to allow succession and to bestow veto authority.

The changes are overdue, in the interest of a progressive state in step with the times. Luther H. Hodges told a House committee last week.

"I feel very stongly on the basis of experience and study that this good and great state ought to be able to elect its governor for two terms," Hodges said. He described the proposed amendments to the state constitution to accomplish the purpose as "one of the more important matters before you."

Hodges' elder statesman status as a former governor and U. S. Commerce Secretary gave him respectful attention as the solo witness at a public hearing on the bills introduced by Rep. Tom Gilmore of Guilford, Democratic freshman.

Past Governors Unanimous
His views were echoed by the state's three other living past governors — Terry Sanford, Dan K. Moore and Bobb Scott — in letters distributed by Gilmore to committee members.

"I am convinced that the public favors these changes and would approve them if you give them the opportunity to do so," Gilmore told the House Constitution Committee.

Before the people vote, the people's representatives must do so. The first step in legislative decision may come this week. Rep. C. Kitchin Josey of Halifax, committee chairman, said he expects to bring the bills up for a vote.

If they survive the committee, they must win a three-fifths majority in the House and then go to the Senate. Once passed by the General Assembly, the amendments would be placed on the ballot in a general election and go into force only after approval.

Enhancing executive power is a recurring issue, popular with political scientists and those who fill the office but finding little favor in the past among legislators.

Climate More Cordial
While the climate seems more cordial this session, no groundswell of support is apparent. Questions in the committee indicated reservations about the political implications of a governor able to seek a second term, and to wield the veto power over legislation.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Gilmore said he is optimistic for the succession bill, although less so for the veto power.

As he drew the measures, they would allow the governor and lieutenant governor to serve two consecutive, four-year terms. An effective date of 1977 would prevent it from applying to present incumbents.

The governor's exercise of the veto would be subject to the will of two-thirds of the legislature; a veto could be overridden by that margin.

As a footnote from history, Gilmore recalled that the 1933 legislature passed a bill to give the governor veto power. A legal technicality prevented it from being submitted to the people.

Comparison Among States
North Carolina alone among the 50 states does not grant its chief executive the veto authority.

Twenty-four set no limit on the number of terms he may serve. Fifteen restrict him to two consecutive terms. Two allow only two terms, whether consecutive or with an interval between.

North Carolina is one of only nine states with a one-term limit, but the opportunity to serve again after an interval. As it happens, its near neighbors are in the group: Virginia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, and two distant states, Indiana and New Mexico.

The case for succession was summarized by Moore, now an associate justice of the State Supreme Court, in a letter to Rep. Gilmore.

"Under our present system, by the time a governor has become thoroughly familiar with the problems facing the state and the various duties of his office, he is to some extent a 'lame duck' without sufficient time to accomplish many of the things he then realizes are

Hope Dies For FBI Nominee

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The White House has privately—and not at all tearfully—given up hopes that the Senate will confirm L. Patrick Gray as the second director of the FBI, believing that Gray buried himself with his own blundering.

A serious search for Gray's successor has not yet begun, contrary to published reports that President Nixon has decided on Chief Jerry Wilson of the Washington, D.C., metropolitan police. Indeed, high presidential aides say flatly there is no chance of Wilson being named.

An experienced police officer such as Wilson is not being sought as the ultimate successor to J. Edgar Hoover. Rather, the job description talked about is a middle-level administration official (preferably with Justice Department experience), who, unlike Gray, has no connections with either the Watergate scandal or the Nixon political apparatus.

While some Republican Senators complain Mr. Nixon cruelly undercut Gray by restricting his testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee, the White House feels he undercut himself by talking too much—believing Gray blundered by not seeking counsel from his superior, Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst, prior to the confirmation hearings.

What's more, the White House worries that Gray's deteriorating condition will get even worse if the Judiciary Committee begins to probe his record as acting FBI director. He could suffer from prospective testimony by recently resigned assistant FBI director Thomas Bishop, a Hoover protege and Gray's bitter critic (so far in private).

Under sharp questioning, Bishop's famed temper could explode against Gray's record.

In sum, Mr. Nixon has no hopes of Gray being confirmed but prefers to have the Senate kill him off rather than withdraw his nomination. The White House counts on chairman James O. Eastland of Mississippi to force a Judiciary Committee vote that, barring startling changes, would reject Gray. As for Washington police chief Wilson, the rumor of Mr. Nixon offering him the FBI directorship during their recent chat is pure fiction. In truth, the President regards Wilson as a superb police chief with an excellent crime battling record but unqualified for the FBI hot seat.

The Great Veto Fight
With no fewer than 35 organizations present, backstage plotting to overturn President Nixon's certain veto of the $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation bill started Wednesday behind closed doors in the Rayburn House Office Building—plotting that could profoundly influence the battle of the budget.

The fate of the three-year authorization bill is perceived both by White House strategists and leaders of the Democratic-controlled Congress as pivotal, with psychological side effects on the President's veto strategy to reduce federal spending. If the Democrats overturn this first veto, the President's veto psychology will suffer, strengthening the Democrats' anti-veto position on a dozen other bills.

With a two-thirds majority required to override a veto, House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan needs only 146 votes to sustain the President. At this writing, that total is easily within reach if an expected 25 to 30 conservative Democrats vote for Mr. Nixon.

But over the next ten days, those odds could shift, depending on the success of the lobbying effort. This 35 organizations which met Wednesday included the AFL-CIO (represented by its potent lobbyist, Andrew Biemiller), the United Auto Workers, a dozen national organizations (including Easter Seal) and state mental health departments.

Their basic pitch was worked out by Rep. John Brademas of Indiana, chairman of the Education subcommittee that drafted the bill at a level almost one billion dollars less than the rehabilitation bill vetoed by the President last fall.

The pitch, rehabilitation, including vocational training, is a 50-year-old program with strong voter support. The hope: lobbying organizations can get a massive mail campaign going to minimize Democratic defections and maximize Republican support for overriding Mr. Nixon.

Strength For Today

Recently I saw a setter pup barking viciously at the image of himself in a mirror apparently in the conviction that the image represented another dog. We smile at instances of this kind, but how often do we snarl and growl at things we do not like in others when we have precisely the same weaknesses ourselves.

Check up sometime on the things you do not like in other people and you may be surprised to find that the reason for your dislike is that you have to live with the same characteristics in your own nature every day. Then will we see that, like the setter pup, we are getting terribly excited over what we profess to despise in others, but the root of our restlessness and lack of peace. Our recrimination of others, therefore, is often an attempt to punish the offense in them instead of in ourselves.

NOT MUCH HELP TO HIM!

By J.J. KILPATRICK

A Grandfather's Death

My dear Heather,
My summer letters to you, marking your birthdays, are happy letters, and I promise you another happy letter in July. But this is a sad letter today, written not only for you but for all those who knew your grandfather, Walker Stone. He died of massive heart attack on the afternoon of Sunday, March 19.

At two years and eight months, you cannot have formed much of a lasting memory of him. This is a pity, for your Grandfather Stone was a man for remembering. He was one of the country's great newspapermen in his day — for seventeen years editor-in-chief of the Scripps-Howard papers — but he was much more than a great newspaperman. He was a great person.

Perhaps if you squint your eyes, and try very hard, one of these years you will recapture a recollection of a big man, not especially tall, but big-shouldered, big-boned, well-girthed. He sometimes seemed to bring his mountains right inside the house. He had iron-gray hair and bright blue eyes and a strong face, and because he spent so much time outdoors, his face was often burned by sun or wind. He was sportsman, hunter, and in his last years, country gentleman, squire of Hawthorne.

Your Grandfather Stone was born in Okemah, Oklahoma, in 1904, three years before statehood. He never forgot his Oklahoma roots. Just this past year, browsing around an auction in northern Virginia, he came across a portrait of Alfalfa Bill Murray, the Sage of Tishomingo, one-time governor and congressman. The portrait didn't exactly match the elegant decor of the living room, but he had to have it, so something else came down and the portrait went up, right above the fireplace. The artist had done something to the eyes, so that Alfalfa Bill was always looking at you, skeptical, and bold, and curious, no matter where you sat in the room. Alfalfa Bill was your grandfather's kind of man.

Newspapering was his first, greatest, and most abiding love. He started as a copy editor on the Washington Daily News, worked through the ranks, and became editor-in-chief for Scripps-Howard in 1952. His editorials were not especially noted for style or erudition; they were noted for punch. He had been in the editor's chair for only a few months when Eisenhower ran for President against Stevenson. He liked Ike, but he became increasingly dismayed as September ran into October and the general was still just coasting along. "Ike is running like a dry creek," he wrote. Coming from Walker Stone, the comment carried a special wallop that jarred the Republican nominee into action. For the next fifteen years, whenever they met, Eisenhower kidded him about the line.

After 42 years on the Daily News, your grandfather retired to Rappahannock County. He purchased Hawthorne, a 700-acre farm with a magnificent view of the Blue Ridge Mountains and the Francis Thornton Valley. He raised a flagpole you could see for miles

Other Editors Say Jack Spain Retires

(Goldsboro News Argus)

The retirement of Jack Spain was announced the other day on the floor of the United States Senate.

Spain until the end of last month, was the administrative assistant to Senator Sam Ervin, Jr.

He served as secretary to Congressman Herbert C. Bonner from 1940 until 1945 and then was administrative assistant to Senator Clyde Hoey until 1954. Spain became Senator Ervin's assistant when Ervin was appointed to succeed Mr. Hoey.

But his 32 years of service in Washington is not so remarkable in its tenure as it is in the quality of service Jack Spain gave the people of North Carolina and the nation.

He knew how to get things done in Washington — right now. A great number of people to our knowledge over the years and from across the state have attempted to get some service in Washington through other sources only to be told it couldn't be done.

Desperately they turned to Jack Spain.

He could accomplish the "impossible" with routine dispatch. Jack Spain without question has been one of the most capable and most influential administrative assistants in the nation's capital.

But he has never let his influence and his personal accomplishments go to his head.

There is none of the loftiness so many acquire with service in Washington.

Jack Spain has remained engaging, warm and genuine. Perhaps a real key to his great service has been his sincere love for his fellowmen and his desire to help them with their problems.

From the janitors to the best known senators and congressmen, Jack Spain will be missed in Washington. We welcome him back to North Carolina and his native Pitt County. We wish him good health and full recovery from his heart attack of a few months ago.

And we look forward to enjoying his friendship and presence in the years ahead.

Self-Medication By Chinese

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
SHANGHAI, China (AP) — To relieve your headache or toothache, you might try this Chinese remedy:

On the back of your hand, massage the spot located about one inch behind the webbing between thumb and forefinger. Rub it with fair pressure for five or ten minutes.

"For a toothache, it is very effective to relieve pain for several hours or even a whole day," says Dr. Hsu Chia-Yu, a doctor of internal medicine who visited the United States last October.

The Chinese people trot off to drugstores or go see their doctors for treatment of various ailments just as Americans do, Dr. Hsu said, but there are differences, some rather exotic. Like a pill containing antelope horn for the common cold. Some herbs soaked in wine are one preparation for arthritis. Turtle shell is the main ingredient of one general tonic. Six herbs are concocted in a syrup to treat insomnia. Seeds from a particular kind of bush are said to combat spells of dizziness.

Massaging the spot at the base of the thumb—called the "snuff box" because people used to put snuff there to lift it to their noses—is being used as a new way of inducing anesthesia for head and neck surgery without any other treatment, including acupuncture needles.

Dr. Hsu says he shows some patients how to do the massage themselves. And Mao Kuo-Hua, the genial chief interpreter for a group of visiting American doctors, says he does it to relieve a sore throat and that it usually works, at least temporarily.

Mao added that he sometimes does his own acupuncture, administering a needle into a spot on the outside of the leg, just below the knee, for relief from an upset stomach.

When the sniffles of a common cold strike, some Chinese wear face masks, like a surgeon's mask, in order, we were informed, not to pass the cold on to someone else.

Many Japanese follow the same custom.

Drugstores sell "detoxifying tablets," a kind of tonic called Yuing Hwang, with many ingredients.

Animal Burying Ground

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer
HINSDALE, Ill. (AP) —

"The day they bring in a snake is the day I leave," said the caretaker at the Hinsdale Animal Cemetery in southwest suburban Chicago.

"We've got everything buried here," he said. "Dogs, cats, parakeets, a few horses, monkeys, chickens, ducks, turtles, chipmunks and skunks."

He looked across seven acres of grave plots, each blooming with artificial plants and flowers, row upon neat row interspersed with evergreens and ferns that shaded the granite markers and several white stone pathways.

"Sometimes in the summer when it's warm, there's so many people, it looks like a picnic ground," he added. "Often, they cry."

Stokes Wylie has been caretaker for 21 years, ever since George Remkus bought the pet cemetery as a going business from one of his regular customers at the grocery store he used to run.

Remkus, 52, is the third owner. The first animal was buried in 1925. The cemetery now has about 9,000 graves.

"I bought it primarily as an investment, but I do like animals," Remkus said. "The family has two dogs and we have a dog, a parakeet and a bunch of guinea pigs buried out there."

The cemetery, though neat, is modest and Remkus said rates are reasonable.

"A parakeet can be buried for $12 and an average-sized dog, using a wooden box, is about $75," he said.

"Of course, you could place the carcass in a concrete vault and have it lined with satin. If it's a larger animal, like a German shepherd, let's say, you're talking about a larger grave and I guess the cost could run to a couple hundred dollars," he added.

In addition to the basic burial expense there is a $2 annual payment for maintenance of the grave, a $5 charge if the carcass is picked up by Remkus, cost of a gravemarker and engraving at 70 cents a letter.

Remkus said he makes about 300 burials a year. Virtually all of them are attended only by the family.

"There have only been three who had a minister conduct a short service with about 15 or 20 friends attending," he said, adding he was at a loss to explain why persons pay to bury pets.

Brando May Not Attend Oscar Awards

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For the second time in two years, the Oscar spotlight may be on the man who is not there.

Marlon Brando, heavily favored to be named best actor tonight for "The Godfather," has not responded to his in-invitation from the Motion Picture Academy nor to a letter or telephone calls. He has not designated anyone to accept on his behalf should he win.

Brando's absence could be a repeat performance of George C. Scott's refusal to accept an Academy Award for his title performance in "Patton" in 1971. Scott, however, announced in advance he would not accept.

The Academy will present the Oscars tonight in ceremonies to be telecast from the Los Angeles Music Center.

Besides an award for Brando, "The Godfather" is favored to collect a number of other awards, including best picture and best director.

Brando reportedly is in Los Angeles, but he has not answered the Academy invitation nor a letter from its president Daniel Taradash. An academy spokesman said it was unlikely that he would appear at the ceremonies without answering the invitation.

Howard W. Hoch, who is producing the telecast, has been unable to reach him by telephone.

Brando previously won an Academy Award as best actor for "On the Waterfront" in 1954 and altogether has received six nominations in this category.

Besides the Oscars, the Academy's board of governors voted honorary awards to the late Edward G. Robinson, who celebrated 50 years in motion pictures before his death Feb. 26, and to Charles Boren, long-time chief executive of the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers.

Here are the nominees for the major awards:

Best picture — "Cabaret," "Deliverance," "The Emigrants," "The Godfather," and "The Sounder."

Best actor — Marlon Brando in "The Godfather," Michael Caine and Laurence Olivier in "Sluth," Peter O'Toole in "The Ruling Class" and Paul Winfield in "Sounder."

Best actress — Liza Minnelli in "Cabaret," Diana Ross in "Lady Sings the Blues," Maggie Smith in "Travels with my Aunt," Cicely Tyson in "Sounder" and Liv Ullmann in "The Emigrants."

Best supporting actor — Eddie Albert in "The Heartbreak Kid," James Caan, Robert Duval and Al Pacino in "The Godfather" and Joel Grey in "Cabaret."

Best supporting actress — Jeannie Berlin in "The Heartbreak Kid," Eileen Heckart in "Butterflies Are Free," Geraldine Page in "Pete 'n' Tillie," Susan Tyrrell in "Fat City" and Shelley Winters in "The Poseidon Adventure."

Best director — Bob Fosse for "Cabaret," John Boorman for "Deliverance," Jan Troell for "The Emigrants," Francis Ford Coppola for "The Godfather" and Joseph L. Mankiewicz for "Sluth."

Diplomats Will Be Lecturing

Two noted British diplomats will be among the speakers at East Carolina University's European Area Studies Symposium March 28-29.

They are Carroll Floyd, United Kingdom Desk Officer of the U.S. Department of State, and J. W. Thorp, First Secretary, Financial, with the British Embassy in Washington, D. C.

Floyd will speak on "The United Kingdom's Queasy Approachment to the European Community," at 11 a.m. Wednesday, March 28, and Thorp, on "The United Kingdom and the Enlarged European Community as an Economic Force," at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Both lectures will be held in room B-102 of the ECU Social Sciences Building and are free and open to the public.

The Symposium includes two days of lectures, discussions and film and musical presentations on Anglo-American relations. It is sponsored by the ECU European Area Studies Committee.

Mid-Week Lenten Service Wednesday

The fourth in a series of mid-week Lenten services at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church will be held tomorrow from 12 to 12:30.

Immediately following the worship service, a light luncheon of soup and sandwiches will be served at a cost of $1.00. The services are designed to serve those working in the downtown part of Greenville.

The rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, the Rev. Lawrence P. Houston Jr., will lead the half hour of worship and preach on "If Christ Died for Me, Why Don't I Know It?"

Houston arrived in Greenville in 1965 as the Episcopal chaplain to East Carolina University and accepted the call of St. Paul's in 1968.

Beyond his parish responsibilities, Houston has been interested in pre-school education particularly in the weekday-nursery and kindergarten fields and the day care with Bonner's Lane Day Care Center.

In responsibilities outside Greenville, he has been mainly concerned with the life and care of ministers, in their continuing education, serving on the East Carolina Commission on Ministry and chairing the committee on "The Minister - His Life and Work." He is also serving a three-year elected term to the highest executive board of the Diocese of East Carolina.

Will Ask Outer Banks Be Ruled A Disaster Area

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has announced plans to ask President Nixon to declare storm-battered portions of North Carolina's Outer Banks disaster areas.

Disaster-area designation would entitle state and local governments to be reimbursed with federal funds for money spent on repairs, and would make low interest loans available to private property owners.

The governor said Monday he would submit the application as soon as the accounting of damages is complete.

State officials are surveying damage along the coast from last week's storm. The National Weather Service reported the worst erosion occurred from one-half to two miles north of Cape Hatteras Lighthouse, and that at least five motel units and two beach cottages were destroyed.

Two Injured In Collision

Two persons were injured and an estimated $2,100 property damage caused in a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt Streets about 1:59 p.m. yesterday.

According to investigators, drivers involved in the mishap included William Earl Roseveare, 69, of 200 Pineview Dr.; Danny Steve Brantley, 25 of Rocky Mount, and Elaine Winstead Hancock, 23 of Route 2, Scotland Neck.

Officers reported the Hancock auto apparently failed to stop for a stop light and collided with a truck driven by Brantley which, in turn, collided with the Roseveare auto, then overturned. Both Roseveare and Brantley received minor injuries.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Roseveare car, $1,300 to the Hancock car and $300 to the truck driven by Brantley.

Miss Hancock was charged with failing to stop for a red light.

Plan Film At Meeting

A film, "A King's Story," will be shown at the next meeting of the Pitt County Historical Society Thursday evening, March 29, at 7:30 p.m.

According to Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, program chairman, the meeting will be held at the Parish House of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. This will not be a dinner meeting, Dr. Rives said. Ladies of St. Paul's Church will serve refreshments.

Members planning to attend are asked to get in touch with Miss Annie Turner, the Society's corresponding secretary, by noon Wednesday.

The film, Dr. Rives notes, is by Jack LeVien and is based on the life of King Edward VIII, who later became the Duke of Windsor. Made available by the English-Speaking Union of the United States, the movie provides a moving documentary of royal family life, English ceremony and personages in the public eye covering a period of some 40 years.

John B. (Jack) Lewis Jr. of Farmville is president of the Society.

Blacks Stop Police Test

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Black policemen have stopped the Charlotte Police Department from giving a written test for sergeant before next month's trial of their suit alleging discrimination.

The test was to have been taken today by 183 policemen. There are three openings for sergeant.

The North State Law Enforcement Officers Association, all of whose active members are black, has won from U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan an injunction against the examination.

James Ferguson, attorney for the association, said, "What we are concerned about is the discriminating impact of the exam. The exam is operated in fact to keep blacks from being promoted."

The association's suit alleging discriminating in the hiring and promotion of blacks in the Charlotte Police Department is to be heard by McMillan on April 24th. Ferguson said black policemen did not want the examination to be given this close to the trial.

Police attorneys said a lot of policemen had been studying a long time for the tests. The attorneys had asked that the tests be given today, even if the results had to be held up pending the trial. A police spokesman said the examination would have been graded by a civilian testing firm.

FPC Delays New Duke Rate

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Federal Power Commission has delayed for one month a request by Duke Power Co. to increase its charges to municipalities and cooperative customers by 18.5 per cent.

Duke officials said Monday that the FPC has delayed the increase for 30 days. The company had wanted the new rate to go into effect Monday.

The utility had asked for the hike on Jan. 23. It said the increase would bring in extra funds totaling $8.5 million in a year's time.

Approve College Radio Station

The commission also has announced that Gardner-Webb College of Boiling Springs near Shelby, N.C., has applied for a construction permit for an educational FM station.

Gasoline Spills In Lake Norman

MOORESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A tanker overturned early today and spilled gasoline into Lake Norman.

The driver was taken to Lowrance Hospital in Mooresville.

Authorities tried to get the tanker upright or otherwise stop the flow into the big fishing, boating and residential lake. They said 50 gallons of gasoline a minute was flowing into it.

The tanker wrecked about 4 a.m. on Interstate 77 a mile and one-half north of the North Carolina 150 intersection in the Mooresville area.

Mrs. Baggett Talks On Pitt's Retarded

Mrs. Carma Baggett, speaking for the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children, told the Greenville Moose last night that most people were unaware of the number of people, particularly in the county, who are so afflicted.

She said roughly 3 per cent of the national population can be categorized as retarded children or adults, and approximately 2,400 of these are in Pitt County.

Calling attention to the designation of March as "membership month" for the Association, Mrs. Baggett said their work included promoting the welfare of the retarded, their health, training and job opportunities. She urged her listeners to manifest their concern by deeds as well as words.

Lodge Governor James Harris reminded the election of officers for the 1973-74 term would be held next Monday night. Posts to be filled include that of Governor, Junior Governor, Prelate, Trustee and Treasurer.

Harris and Project Chairman Ed Campbell expressed their appreciation to members of the Lodge, the Women of the Moose, and others who assisted in making the recent bloodmobile visit a quota-topping collection for the Red Cross.

Walker always had a project going. He embarked on a venture in raising quail and pheasant, with a view toward marking Hawthorne a game preserve, and spent hours puttering around his pens and hatchery. He decided that Hawthorne needed an outdoor sitting area, overlooking the ponds, and before the project was finished he had stone terraces as massive as the courtyards of Knossos. He had another idea for raising pine trees to be harvested as his grandchildren grew to college age, and he dragged one father and your Uncle Allan into planting seedlings by the thousands.

You may remember him, if you try, in the library at Hawthorne, just across the hall from the Alfalfa Bill room. He had hunted big game with Robert Ruark in Africa, and some of the trophies hung from the walls. The shelves were jammed with a newsman's books — an undisciplined collection of biography, poetry, history, politics, law. Not long before his death, he had acquired the Annals of America, a 20-volume set. He was reading through it with pure delight.

His death came quickly, all in an instant, just as he had hoped it would. Remember him, Heather, for a full life, a good life, a happy life. You are Walker Stone's granddaughter, and that's something very special to hold in your heart.

"I guess they just don't want to see it thrown in the garbage," Remkus said. "We buried two dogs of a good friend of mine recently, who's a veterinarian. He and his wife cried like babies and afterwards he said to me: 'I can't understand it. I put dozens to sleep every month. But I guess when it's your own, it's different.'"

A gravemarker carried a similar explanation. "Our little Stinky," it said, "heaven reward you for the love and joy you gave to us."

"...Continuity is lost, and in many instances the state is the loser."

On the national level, Moore added, one-term governors "are definitely handicapped in competing with governors from other states for positions on national and regional committees or in seeking other positions of national influence."

Advices Museum Be Downtown

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The president of the American Institute of Architects says North Carolina's proposed new Museum of Art be located near downtown Raleigh.

S. Scott Ferebee Jr., a Charlotte resident, has sent telegrams to several legislators notifying them of his position.

"This facility should serve the people of North Carolina and should be conveniently located for all visitors to the Capitol to enjoy its benefits," Ferebee said.

A vote is scheduled in the House of Representatives on whether to place the structure on the outskirts of Raleigh or in the governmental complex in the heart of the city.

Preventive For Bank Robberies

CHARLOTTE (AP)—William Altman, an inventor, has an idea to help prevent bank robberies. He would put tellers in bullet-proof booths that look like telephone booths.

They would be made of plexiglass or some similar material. All transactions would go into a tray similar to those used at drive-in windows.

And executive areas could be sealed in bullet-proof material. Metal detectors would lock doors in front of and behind someone setting off the detector.

Altman has discussed his ideas with several Charlotte banks. "They want to see the drawings," he said.

SCREENWRITER DIES

No Refunds Seen Likely

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Chances that subscribers to any of Glenn Turner's get-rich-quick programs will get their money back are "just about gone," says a Michigan assistant attorney general.

Tom Giachino said Monday a court settlement of all suits against Turner tentatively accepted last week by a U.S. District Court judge in Pittsburgh eliminates the possibility that some 2,000 Michigan residents will get any money back.

The estimated $3 million given to Turner by the Michigan residents will be used for the growth of new or expanded Turner Enterprises, Giachino said.

Giachino is handling a Michigan case against Turner, Turner Enterprises Inc. and Dare to Be Great Inc. alleging they committed "fraud and deceit upon the Michigan public."

But the assistant attorney general said the suit became one of numerous actions for which settlement has been proposed by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Gerald Weber.

Under the judge's plan, some 75,000 dissatisfied Turner subscribers will be given 1.8 million shares of stock in Candida Holdings, a West Indies real estate firm owned by Turner.

All Turner's other businesses would be liquidated and their assets transferred to Candida.

Locate HQ At New Bern

NEW BERN—Weyerhaeuser announce Monday that it plans to locate its newly created regional headquarters for North Carolina here.

According to Keith L. Lamb, vice president of the company's North Carolina region, some 20 to 40 persons will relocate to New Bern to staff the new office.

Lamb, who will be in charge of the office, said that the new headquarters will be located on the present Weyerhaeuser plant site at New Bern and either an addition will be made to the existing office or a separate facility will be constructed.

The official said the company feels New Bern will be the central point for its North Carolina operations in the future and also, in deciding to locate the new office here, recognizes the location's access to facilities, access to communities, and location of present facilities.

The new regional corporate headquarters concept is the result of a reorganization nationally by Weyerhaeuser, Lamb said.

William F. Ruffin, currently manager of Weyerhaeuser's paperboard operations at Springfield, Oregon, has been named to replace Dr. S. C. McKee as manager of the New Bern plant, it was noted. McKee is leaving to assume the post of manager of secondary fiber in Tacoma, Wash.

RED CROSS CERTIFICATE OF Appreciation is presented bloodmobile Project Chairman Ed Campbell (center) and Moose Lodge Governor James Harris by Pitt County Red Cross Bloodmobile Chairman W.A. Ross (left). Ross said the presentation was in recognition of the "extraordinary" support given the bloodmobile by the Greenville Moose Lodge.

U.S. Tightens Security For Diplomats Abroad

By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up the arms and manpower used to protect its diplomats abroad, with little confidence that the current "epidemic" is finally subsiding.

"We don't see the end as of now," said one official of the State Department, "but the wave of threats and violence to U.S. ambassadors and their staffs in foreign capitals."

But, another official said, "we're working to make it as tough as possible for the terrorist. In some places he knows he's likely to run into quite a lot of lead."

In the last five years 12 Americans have been murdered and another 12 wounded in 21 incidents. "This is not just a problem with the Black September," a Palestinian terrorist organization, the official added. "It's a tactic adopted and used in many places of the world by dissident groups."

The new precautions, taken after consultation with the Central Intelligence Agency, the Secret Service and the FBI, include more bodyguards, bullet-proof vehicles and security locks, although officials are reluctant to discuss explicit details that could alert terrorists. Until recently, the objective was to assign top priority to protecting the top man, the ambassador himself, and especially in countries the State Department considers "high-risk areas."

Now, security is being stepped up in "lower-risk" countries. The kidnaping in Haiti in January of Ambassador Clinton Knox and Ward Christensen, his consul, points up the need for this expansion, one official said.

Officials believe it is too early to tell whether the additional measures will pay off.

Specialists who have been meeting weekly since October are taken with the psychological theory that one act of terrorism tends to touch off another, that even public discussion of the problem could spark an irrational assassin into action.

And yet, at the same time, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and other officials have called openly for stronger deterrent measures, hoping thereby to block attacks by terrorists rational enough to be aware of the possible consequences.

Panthers Trim Aycock Runners

PIKEVILLE — North Pitt High School rolled to a 93-35 victory over Charles B. Aycock High School here yesterday.

The Panthers had little trouble in capturing the victory, winning 12 of the 15 events, including both of the relays.

Billy Perkins of North Pitt was the only double winner for the Panthers, taking both the shot put and the discus. Cox of Charles B. Aycock won both the long jump and the 100-yard dash.

Another highlight of the meet came when the Panthers' lone girl member of the track team, Kathy Taylor, won the two mile run in 11:34.5, the fourth best time recorded in the Pitt-Martins-Greene area so far this year.

North Pitt joins Eastern Wayne in a tri-meet at Southern Nash on Wednesday.

Summary:

Shot put: Billy Perkins (NP) 43-1; Jay Barrett (CBA) 36-11; Best (CBA) 36-6.

Discus: Billy Perkins (NP) 113-7; G. Yelverton (CBA) 106-4; Best (CBA) 105-2.

INJURED WALTON AIDED BY OPPONENT — Big Bill Walton, UCLA's hustling center, is aided by Memphis State University's Larry Finch as he walks off the basketball court after he was injured just before the end of the final game of the NCAA Tournament in St. Louis Monday night. Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Death and taxes...and UCLA.

The Memphis State Tigers and their personable coach, Gene Bartow, should be pretty well convinced today that they're all alike. You can't beat 'em.

The Tigers, perhaps with the highest hopes of any basketball team in a long while, set out to conquer the mighty Bruins Monday night and failed, losing 87-66.

The victory gave the big, bad Bruins their seventh consecutive National Collegiate Athletic Association championship and their 75th straight triumph over a three-year span.

Indiana, led by John Ritter and Steve Downing, turned back Providence 97-79 for third place despite a 29-point performance by the Friars' Kevin Stacom. Ritter and Downing had 21 points each, and Downing topped all rebounders with 14.

The Bruin who did most to annihilate the Tigers was Bill Walton, a 6-foot-11 junior, who poured in 21-of-22 shots from the floor, many on tip-ins preceded by fantastic moves, and wound up with 44 points, a record for the championship game.

Gail Goodrich, a UCLA star of yesterday, held the old record of 42 for eight years.

Bartow, after it was all over, could do little more than mumble, "Walton...Walton...Walton." He knew first hand why the pros would like to get Walton today, tomorrow, just as quickly as possible.

"We couldn't contain Walton," Bartow said grimly. "I've never seen a player so dominating as Walton. He is big and strong and wiry."

John Wooden, the UCLA coach for 25 years, seemed almost as proud as if this was the first championship the Bruins ever won. He was filled with praise, like Bartow, of Walton.

"For Bill," Wooden said, "I believe this was the only time this season I've seen him so emotionally ready to play. I'm very proud of this team. Perhaps, I've never had a better team when you consider both offense and defense."

Walton was hot from the start. He made six of the Bruins' first 10 points and 14 of their first 23, and the overflow St. Louis Arena crowd of 19,301 seemed to sense that Walton was giving a pretty fair signal of the way things were going to go.

For awhile, it appeared that Larry Kenon, the Tigers' brilliant 6-9 forward, might be able to match Walton. He poked in Memphis State's first three baskets and four of its first five.

Larry Finch, Kenon and Ronnie Robinson hit with regularity near the close of the first half after Walton went to the bench with three personal fouls to give the Tigers a 39-39 tie at the intermission.

Finch fired two free throws a the second half got under way, and the Bengals led for the last time. Walton promptly answered the challenge by dumping in three straight baskets.

Besides his 44 points, Walton snared 13 rebounds, high for the game. Keith Wilkes was the only other UCLA player to hit in double figures. He had 16. Finch collected 29 points and Kenon 20.

Walton headed the all-tournament team. The others on the honor club were Finch and Kenon, Downing and Ernie Digregerie Providence.

Death Claim George Sisler

RICHMOND HEIGHTS, Mo. (AP) — George Sisler, who overcame the threat of blindness to gain a place in baseball's Hall of Fame, died Monday, just two days after his 80th birthday.

Sisler, who had been hospitalized for more than a week in what was described as a generally run-down condition, succumbed at St. Mary's Health Center in this suburb of St. Louis, the city where he enjoyed some of the greatest seasons of any baseball player. The exact cause of death was not immediately determined.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

The man whom Branch Rickey, termed "the greatest player I've ever seen" went straight from the University of Michigan to the major leagues, breaking in with Rickey's St. Louis Browns as a pitcher in the summer of 1915.

It was not long, however, before the man known as "Gorgeous George" because of his grace and the way he made everything look easy on the diamond moved from the mound to first base where his outstanding play enabled him to become the first first baseman named to the Hall of Fame.

After 12 seasons with the Browns, Sisler was sold to Washington in 1928 and then was sent to the Boston Braves. His last season in the majors was 1930 when he batted .309 for Boston.

During his 15 seasons in the majors, Sisler compiled a lifetime batting average of .340, including the 1922 mark of .420, still the American League record. He pounded out 200 or more hits in six seasons and finished his career with 2,812.

The 1922 season, in which he was named the American League's Most Valuable Player, was his greatest with a .420 batting average, a 41-game hitting streak and 51 stolen bases. But a lingering eye infection became so severe following that year that Sisler was forced to sit out the next season.

Sisler bounced back, however, to hit .305 in 1924 and .345 with 224 hits in 1925.

Rams Ease By Southern Wayne

SARATOGA — Greene Central edged out Southern Wayne in a three-way track meet held at Saratoga Central High School yesterday. The host team finished a distant third.

The Rams collected 78 points in winning the meet, while Southern Wayne had 62½. Saratoga finished with 18½.

The Saints won both relays and took three other firsts. Greene Central won eight events, and tied with Saratoga for first place in another.

The Rams next outing will be Wednesday, when they play host to North Lenoir and Conley.

Pitching, Catching Keys To Astro Hopes

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Houston Astros' Manager Leo Durocher is almost like a man watching a tennis match at the Astros spring training.

He'll gaze hopefully at the catcher's position and then look back to the mound. Back and forth, back and forth. These are the focal points for the Astros in spring training this year and success at these two positions could be the story of the 1973 race.

Durocher's big experiment is moving left fielder Bob Watson to his original position of catcher and putting Tommie Agee, acquired from the New York Mets in the off-season, in left.

Going into the latter stages of spring training, Watson has not been a resounding success although there is hope he will come around.

"Up to this point he's done all right," is the best Leo can say about Watson. "I think he's improving a little bit. I just hope he can make it. It would mean so much to this ball club."

Watson is getting a good shot at taking the catching job away from John Edwards. Watson has been behind the plate about 75 per cent of the time this spring. His main problem has been developing a quicker release on pickoff throws.

Durocher's other area of concern is his pitching staff, which slumped last season.

"I've got power, I've got speed and I've got a good defense," Durocher said. "What I'm looking for is pitching. That's what we're looking for this spring more than anything else. The arms are there. It's just a question of finding the best ones."

Don Wilson, a 15-game winner last year, Dave Roberts, a 12-game winner, Jerry Reuss, Ken Forsch, Tom Griffin, and James Rodney Richard are the top candidates to fit Durocher's four-man rotation but rookie Jim Crawford can't be counted out.

After he gets through talking about pitching and catching, Durocher has no problems. The other seven positions are set, he says.

Durocher's outfield includes Agee or Watson in left, Cesar Cedeno in center and Jim Wynn in right. The outfield is led by Cedeno, who led the team in hitting with a .320 average and won the NL's Golden Glove award for his field skills. Watson hit .312 and Wynn .273 last season.

Houston's infield is just as solid with Lee May at first, Tommy Helms at second, Doug Rader at third base and Roger Metzger at shortstop.

The Astros not only were able to hit last season but they hit with power. May hit 29 home runs followed by Wynn with 24 and Cedeno and Rader with 22 each. Watson had 16.

Girls Net Team Wins

WILSON — The East Carolina Women's tennis team downed Atlantic Christian College here Saturday by a 7-2 score.

The Lady Pirates took five of the six singles matches to sew up the victory, they added two of the three doubles events.

Summary:

Susan Bussey (EC) defeated Fon Faulkner, 6-0, 6-2.

Tricia Cloyd (AC) defeated Ellen Warren, 3-6 6-4, 6-3.

Cynthia Averett (EC) defeated Beverly Lewis, 6-2, 6-2.

Janet Ennis (EC) defeated Gay Robertson, 6-3, 6-2.

Joan Rupert (EC) defeated Denise Green, 6-2, 6-2.

Ann Archer (EC) defeated Kathy Logan, 6-1, 6-3.

Bussy-Warren (EC) defeated Faulkner-Cloyd, 8-1.

Rupert-Gwen Waller (EC) defeated Robertson-Lewis, 9-7.

Green-Logan (AC) defeated Barbara Hall-Cathy Bowker, 8-6.

Suns Rally To Down Warriors

OAKLAND (AP) — Following a 120-113 loss to Phoenix, the Golden State Warriors will close out their regular National Basketball Association schedule Wednesday against the Los Angeles Lakers. But it may not be the last time the Lakers and Warriors duel this year.

The Warriors, in second place behind the Lakers, are scheduled to meet either Los Angeles or the Milwaukee Bucks in the first round of playoffs, depending on which team has the best won-lost percentage. The Lakers currently are .010 percentage points ahead of the Bucks but that could change if the Lakers lose and Bucks win Wednesday.

In Monday's loss to Phoenix, the Suns trailed by 15 points in the second half before overtaking the Warriors permanently in the last 1:35 of the game. Dick Van Arsdale sank a pair of free throws to put Phoenix ahead and Connie Hawkins added a field goal before the Suns went into a stall for the remaining 1:18.

Hawkins finished the game with 29 points, including 17 in the second half and nine in the final period. Teammate Clem Haskins had 24 and Van Arsdale 21.

In the night's only other NBA game, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Portland Trail Blazers 118-99 and in the lone American Basketball Association game, the Dallas Chaparrals downed the Carolina Cougars 112-110.

The Milwaukee Bucks outscored Portland 21-4 in the last six minutes of the third quarter and rolled to their 13th straight NBA victory.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Milwaukee with 31 points and 12 rebounds while Oscar Robertson added 24 points and 14 assists. The Blazers played without Sidney Wicks, who has an injured heel.

Collis Jones and Eugene Kennedy combined for 49 points to pace Dallas past Carolina. It was the Chaps' final ABA game in Dallas.

Kennedy scored 24 points, including a crucial layup with 22 seconds left, and Jones had 25 points to pace the Chaps, who played before only 578 fans. Billy Cunningham led Carolina with 19 points.

NCAA Action Said Denny McLain's Playing Days May Be Finished

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association is violating the 14th Amendment when it threatens athletes and their schools with economic sanctions, a federal court will be told April 17 when it resumes hearing a suit filed by two athletes.

The Associated Press learned today that the Amateur Athletic Union will make the charge in the suit filed by pentathlon competitor Fred Samara of Pennsylvania and middle distance runner Dennis Walker of Adelpia.

The two sought and received a temporary injunction from U.S. Dist. Court Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. on March 16. The action allowed Samara and Walker to participate in a track and field meet between the United States and the Soviet Union at Richmond, Va.

The meet was sanctioned by the AAU but not the NCAA. The NCAA, which governs the sports programs of about 659 colleges and universities, refuses to allow its athletes to compete in AAU events until the AAU applies for NCAA certification and receives it.

The AAU argues it doesn't have to ask for NCAA sanction for international events because of an arbitration agreement handled down by the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1963 and again five years later by a special five-man committee named by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and headed by Theodore Kheel.

A source close to both sports organizations said the AAU will contend that since the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, which represents about 700 schools, allows its member athletes to take part in AAU events without sanctioning, the athlete at a NCAA school is being discriminated against.

A.O. Duer, executive secretary-treasurer of the NAIA, told a House special education subcommittee on Monday his organization advises its members, but imposes no penalties on schools or athletes who compete in activities sponsored by another organization.

Any sanctions against an athlete, if there are any, Duer said, are levied by the individual school. Duer admitted there are problems among amateur athletic organizations.

"I am firmly convinced," he said, "that we have reached a point where we have to admit the organizations themselves have not done the job."

The subcommittee is considering two bills designed to end the power struggle between the AAU and the NCAA.

ATLANTA (AP) — Denny McLain, who was baseball's premier pitcher and a 31-game winner just five years ago, speaks quietly about his latest setback—placement on waivers by the Atlanta Braves—and hints his playing days may be nearing an end.

McLain, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1968 when he won 31 games with the Detroit Tigers and capped the season with the Cy Young Award, flew home to Atlanta Monday night to ponder his future.

The Braves had announced earlier in the day they were placing McLain on waivers for the purpose of giving the right-hander his unconditional release.

"I don't know what to say," McLain mused. "It comes as a shock."

"A couple of clubs are supposed to get in touch, but I don't know who they are or even if I'll stay in baseball. If I don't, I'd like to have a radio-TV job. I had my own show in Washington for a couple of years and like it very much."

McLain added, "If I stay in baseball as something other than a player, I'd like to be a pitching coach in AA or AAA."

Another Atlanta pitcher, rookie Jimmy Freeman, also had problems Monday as the Braves dropped a 5-2 exhibition baseball game to the New York

Mets. Willie Mays tagged Freeman for his third home run of the spring to help the Mets end a six-game losing streak.

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's buried the San Diego Padres 10-1, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Philadelphia Phillies 8-4, the Chicago White Sox trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3, the Houston Astros outslugged the Detroit Tigers 15-9, the New York Yankees edged the Kansas City Royals 4-3, the Texas Rangers beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-4, the Chicago Cubs whipped the California Angels 7-1, the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Boston Red Sox 3-2, the Montreal Expos shaded the Minnesota Twins 9-8 in 10 innings and the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-1.

Sal Bando drove in five runs with two singles and a homer and Angel Mangual also homered as the A's crushed the Padres 10-1 but the big news for the world champions was the signing of their last holdout, southpaw Vida Blue.

Cesar Geronimo singled four times and Joe Morgan homered to lead the Reds over Philadelphia despite Phillie homers by Willie Montanez, Mike Anderson and Bill Robinson.

Home runs by Mike Andrews, Jorge Orta and Rick Reichardt and eight hitless innings by pitchers Terry Forster and Dennis O'Toole helped the White Sox rip the Pirates.

John Edwards' grand-slam home run highlighted a 12-run second inning as the Astros swatted the Tigers. Edwards finished with four hits and five runs batted in. The Astros got 16 hits in the big second inning. Bob Watson also homered for Houston and Rich Reese connected for Detroit.

Roy White's tie-breaking home run gave the Yankees their victory over the Royals. Jim Mason's two-run double and Rico Carty's third single sparked a three-run rally that enabled the Rangers to turn back the Orioles.

The Cubs used consecutive singles by Ron Santo, Glenn Beckert, Randy Hundley, Dave Rosello and Bill Bonham to highlight a four-run sixth-inning rally and defeat the Angels. Rick Wise pitched seven impressive innings and helped himself with a key double off Luis Tiant in leading the Cardinals over the Red Sox.

Bob Darwin dropped Ron Fairly's two-out fly ball in the 10th inning, allowing the winning run to score from third, as the Expos edged the Twins.

Ask A Silly Question; You Can Guess Answer

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

Jay Crampton is the 5-year-old son of veteran Bruce Crampton, the Australian winner of two tour titles already this season. Young Jay is a very busy little blond who brings out the maternal instinct in women.

He was standing by the big scoreboard at a recent tournament when a lady volunteer scorer began obing and ahing over him.

"And whose little boy are you?" asked the lady scorer. Jay considered the question for a moment.

"Arnold Palmer's," he said. "And who is your favorite golfer?" the lady asked.

"Jack Nicklaus," came the reply.

Tour sophomore Steve Melnyk has signed with impresario Mark McCormack to handle his business affairs. He's in good company. McCormack usually takes only the very best. Jack Nicklaus is a former client. Others include Arnold Palmer, Tony Jacklin and Gary Player.

A local newspaper polled the ladies at a recent tournament. It wanted to know their choice as the "cutest player."

Jack Nicklaus was a runaway winner.

Forrest Fezler was next. Angelo Argea also got a lot of votes. He's Nicklaus' caddy.

Young Forrest Fezler, who got a lot of national television exposure in his down-to-the-wire struggle with Lee Trevino in the final round of the Jackie Gleason Classic, has shaved off that little wisp of blond moustache.

"Doug Sanders finally convinced me that I'd look better without it," Fezler said. "He said I didn't need it."

Fezler, incidentally, is nicknamed Fuzzy. His parents are Fred and Fern. He has a brother named Phil and sisters named Phyllis and Flora.

Former U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt has signed to be director of golf at the New Kimberly Club at Boca Raton, Fla.

Blue Bell Corp., which handles the manufacture of the Lee Trevino line of golf clothes, is offering a total of $10,000 for low round of the ay at the Greensboro Open.

There's to be a $2,000 prize each day for the low round Thursday and Friday, and $3,000 daily for each of the last two rounds. If two or more players tie, they'll split it.

The daily prize money format was instituted last year when Newsweek offered $1,500 daily for a series of seven tournaments.

Orville Moody, who attracted some considerable attention when he wore a mask, to cut down on pollen in the air, in the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach last year is considering the same thing for the Masters at Augusta.

The three changes on the Augusta National Golf Course—a slight shift in the locations of the tees on holes Nos. 1, 10 and 14—has caused a little work for Bert Yancey.

Yancey, who admits to an obsession with the Masters, has a scale model of the course in his home and dutifully makes all changes as they occur.

Greenville Swimmers Defeat Wilson Team

Olga, Friends End Their Tour

By MARY GANZ
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Olga Korbut and the Russian women's gymnastics team ended their U.S. tour Monday night, melting thousands of lingering Cold War icicles.

The tiny Miss Korbut and her teammates displayed their Olympic form to a near-capacity crowd of some 16,000 gymnastics enthusiasts in Chicago Stadium.

The size of the crowd was all the more remarkable because fans had only four days notice of the appearance of the gymnasts. No Chicago stop was scheduled on the original seven-city tour. It was arranged after Mayor Richard J. Daley cabled a personal plea to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Miss Korbut sent hearts flipping with her innovative backward somersault from the uneven parallel bars. The crowd cheered wildly at every move from the 4-foot-10, 85-pound Olympic star.

By order of Mayor Daley, Monday was "Olga Korbut

Day" in Chicago. Nobody could steal her show, but partisan fans of Ludmila Turishcheva threatened to shout down the Olga Korbut crowd.

Miss Turishcheva, 20, won the gold medal for the "all-around" gymnastic performance at the 1972 Munich Olympics. She won the crowd's enthusiastic approval with her graceful performances in each event.

Miss Korbut, however, won the crowd's adoration with her pigtailed, her constant smile, and her youth. Though she is 17, she looks more like 12.

At Munich, she won gold medals for her performances on the balance beam and in floor exercises. She won a silver medal in the uneven parallel bars, in spite of a tumble which brought her to tears and won the hearts of television viewers all over the world.

The 'Worry Clinic' Senility Traits Among Aged

Martha, in pioneer days, could have hobbled around outdoors with reasonable safety. Urban like now precludes that. Remember couples vow to "forsake ALL others," if necessary, to preserve a happy home for their children!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.
 CASE W-562: Martha W., aged 78, is typical of probably 1,000,000 Americans. "Dr. Crane," her 40-year-old married daughter protested, "Mother is driving us crazy. "Yet she hasn't been here but 10 days. "She is worse than a little child, for she gets into all my cupboards.

"She is also like a pack rat, for she has a bag into which she slips any small object that attracts her attention.

"And she wraps up her false teeth; then hides them, so the last few days she hasn't been able to eat any solid food. "For she can't recall where she put them and neither I nor my 3 children can locate them. "Same is true of her eye glasses, for she sticks them away in the cupboard or under her bed or even at the bottom of the wastebasket.

"It was 4 days before we found them the last time she placed them in some secret place. "And she gets up about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, after which she snoops around until she wakens me, too. "We give her a sleeping pill at bedtime and keep her off of coffee at night to help make her sleep.

"But the pills wear off in 3 or 4 hours. "And she is obsessed with the idea she must be taking medicine several times a day. "My sister and I have wanted to alternate taking care of her, but I doubt if we can stand the strain very long. "So we are debating placing her in a Nursing Home, yet we hesitate to do that to our Mother."

Geriatric Psychology
 All of you readers under the age of 60, should re-read Martha's symptoms!

For most of us will ultimately sprout many of these same senile habits, if we live into the 80 to 90 age brackets.

We'll become pack rats! And hide our money under the rug, inside of books, in teapots and also other most unexpected places, after which we won't even remember where we put it.

Thereupon, we'll accuse even our own middle-aged children of stealing it!

Alas, we'll also keep asking the same questions over and over, yet never remember the fact our companions answered us not 2 minutes before.

And we'll even forget the names of those who are kinfolk, including our own aged mates or elderly children.

Recently a woman named Pearl, aged 82, was taken by her daughter to visit Pearl's twin sister.

They visited all afternoon; then the two sisters went to bed. Suddenly Pearl exclaimed, "Who are you? And what are you doing in my bed?"

Actually, it wasn't Pearl's bed at all and a few hours earlier she had seemed fairly rational while discussing childhood events with her sister.

Alas, we medics can't guarantee cures for this senile deterioration of thinking that affects all older people to a greater or lesser degree.

Hyperbaric (Oxygen) therapy may temporarily alert the older's brain, as does banishing the usual anemia of the aged.

Caffeine drinks (coffee) and emotional tonic (discussing past childhood events) will also help for brief periods of time.

But when the happiness of a younger family is seriously jeopardized, Nursing Homes are a great boon.

Very Disturbing Show Thursday

By JAY SHARBUTT
 AP Television Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — "Powerful" and "moving" are two descriptions that critics use far too often. Still, they're good enough start for characterizing "Pueblo," which the ABC Television network plans to broadcast Thursday night.

We should add "terrifying," "brutal" and "uncompromising" to the list and cap it with "brilliant." Because the two-hour show is all this and more.

It's a dramatization, using real names and basic facts, of the seizure of the Navy spy ship, Pueblo, by North Korean PT boats off the coast of North Korea on Jan. 23, 1968.

It encompasses, among other things, the Navy and House inquiries into how the Pueblo became the first U.S. naval vessel to surrender to a foreign power in peacetime since 1807.

It also covers, in brutally realistic detail, the mental and physical anguish of the Pueblo's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, when he had to make the decision under fire to surrender his slow, lightly armed ship and its crew to the North Koreans.

It doesn't hedge in graphically portraying the beatings and torture Bucher and his men endured in their 11 months of captivity.

The show undoubtedly will arouse its share of controversy it calls the "true facts" of the Pueblo affair.

Its chilling realism in portraying prison-camp brutality also may well cause an uproar from well-meaning people who think the grimmer facts of life should be watered down for television.

I'd advise them to find another channel Thursday night if they feel "Pueblo" will prove too disturbing. Because it is disturbing, very disturbing, as well it should be.

For those who intend to watch it, just hope it's broadcast without any last-minute cuts and in the same form it appeared during an advance screening for reviewers last Friday. It is powerful as hell, and that is understating the case.

Catch Inmates After Escape

BUTNER, N.C. (AP)—The superintendent of Umstead Youth Center said Monday night that three honor grade inmates were captured within three hours after they escaped from the minimum security facility.

Superintendent Joe Wheeler said the three walked away from the center about 8 p.m. He identified the three as Clifton Edwards, 19, of Mebane,

Coastal Zoning Plan Launched 'Magic Circus' Here On Thursday For Children

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Legislation to give North Carolina firm control over development in environmentally sensitive areas of its coastal region was scheduled for introduction in the General Assembly today.

The bill, which has strong backing from the Holshouser administration, was to be sponsored by a bi-partisan group of influential legislators.

Called the Coastal Area Management Act of 1973, the bill is the product of four years of study initiated by the 1969 legislature.

It would create a nine-member Coastal Resources Commission, charged with designating "areas of environmental concern" on the coast—defined as beaches, marshlands, dunes, estuarine waters, and other natural fragile ecosystems.

Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources James Harrington said in a background briefing Monday that the bill's guidelines would mean that virtually the entire Outer Banks, as well as many inland areas in coastal counties, would be included in the high-priority list of areas of environmental concern.

Any development in those designated areas, under the bill, would have to be approved by the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, with the commission having review power.

Permit applications could be denied if the department or the commission decided that the proposal would infringe on the legal rights of the public; exceed the capacity of the area to absorb development without changing its essential character; likely result in a need to expend public funds; would have a significant adverse effect on wildlife or natural ecosystems; or is in an area where transportation, water supply or waste control facilities are inadequate.

Harrington said the bill, if enacted, "would give us control over our growth instead of letting growth control us."

One of the sponsors, Senate

Minority Leader Charles Taylor, R Transylvania, said Gov. Jim Holshouser was enthusiastic about the bill when he met with its prospective sponsors last week at the Executive Mansion.

Holshouser has inherited the bill from the Scott administration; staff members in the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, led by Dr. Thomas Linton, had been working on it for several years and had a final draft ready in November.

The changes made in the bill by the new administration since that time are designed to put more control in the hands of the governor and his appointees and to increase the input that local governments will have in planning and administering the act.

The administration did not, however, alter the most important features of the bill—the designation of areas of environmental concern and the powers of the commission to regulate development within them.

It did change, for example, the Coastal Resources Advisory Council, which is supposed to assist in formulation of an overall land-use plan for the coastal counties which will supplement the designation of areas of environmental concern.

That council was originally intended to be a six-member group drawn from within state government agencies. The bill now calls for a 47 member group consisting largely of local officials.

The land use plan will be drawn up by the Department of Administration, rather than the commission, and will be subject to approval by the governor.

Harrington, in his briefing, held out two promises to local governments and land developers.

He said local governments would be allowed to exercise the state's zoning functions as long as they followed the guidelines. But the state would keep, as a "stick in our pockets" control over federal and state environmental monies, to be doled out to counties which complied with the new requirements.

And he promised that his department would make an effort to streamline the present permit procedure for developers so they would have only one agency to deal with in getting the necessary clearances.

The bill's chances for passage appear bolstered by the list of sponsors, which include members of both parties and the chairmen of the environmental committees in both houses of the legislature.

In the Senate, the sponsors include Sens. William Staton, D-Lee, chairman of the Conservation and Development Committee; Taylor; Gordon Allen, D-Person, the Senate Majority Leader; Phil Godwin, D-Gates an influential coastal legislator; and Sen. George Rountree, R New Hanover.

In the House, the sponsors include Reps. Willis Whichard, D-Durham, chairman of the Air and Water Resources Committee; Norwood Bryan, D-Cumberland; Sam Johnson, D-Wake; coastal Republicans Tom Harrelson of Brunswick and Thomas Rhodes of New Hanover; and coastal Democrats Ronald Mason of Carteret, Bill Roberson of Beaufort, and Stanford White of Dare.

'Magic Circus' Here On Thursday For Children

PROFESSOR TANDY... and his Jaycee-sponsored Children's Magic performing poolies will be in the Circus Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

"Action-packed family fun" is the theme of this year's Children's Magic Circus to be presented at the Moose Lodge Auditorium Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The Circus is being sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees, who will share in the proceeds.

The purpose of the show, according to Jim Smith, Jaycee project chairman, is "to bring good quality live entertainment to local communities." The show is designed to appeal to children who have not had the opportunity to see circus and magic acts live on the stage. The clowns and magicians seek to enlist the boys and girls in the performance so they can experience the joy of participation, he said.

Featured in the 90-minute show will be clowns, acrobats, Wild West rodeo artists, performing poolies, jugglers, a trained leopard, Houdini-like escape artist, and an "almost human" gorilla, Smith said.

Admission is $1, regardless of age. Tickets may be bought at the door.

EAGLE AWARDS... were presented to Gregory Guthrie (L) and Cedric Joyner during recent services at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

Two Scouts Earn Their Eagle Badges

Two local scouts of Troop 191 received the Eagle Award during recent candlelight services at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

Receiving the scouting honors were Cedric Joyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Joyner, and Gregory Guthrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Guthrie.

Joyner's project in qualifying for the Eagle Award was to help the older people in the community while Guthrie chose to help new scouts and teach them about scouting.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1973

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You find there is a great deal of energy released today; unless it is properly directed by almost everyone there can be a considerable amount of recklessness and uncontrolled arguments and potential accidental conditions. But the evening finds nearly everyone interested in humanitarian projects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Whatever is concerned with civic or career matters is favored in a.m. Reserve the p.m. for personal matters. Meeting with bigwigs and solving problems wisely is good. Pals are charming in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have new ideas that can fit right into your present activities for greater success. Talk over the future with new associates and with prominent persons in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) There are business responsibilities to handle during day hours, but evening is best for personal matters. Seek advice from key persons and follow the best of this. Mate can be very helpful, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Sit down with associates and work out ideas and mode of operation for the future; then get busy with work necessary. Come to a better understanding with one who opposes you. Rely on a good associate in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Cement better relations with fellow workers and get more accomplished during day. Build up your energy via intelligent methods in p.m. Wardrobe should be rearranged in the evening to suit your better.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get busy at whatever you most like to do during the day, but take it easy tonight and plan how to advance more quickly. Put your finest talents to work and you can become a more successful person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle home affairs most carefully in p.m., for trouble could ensue otherwise at that time. All of your basic affairs require attention so they are better organized. Evening fine for entertainment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show you can operate in a most constructive and effective way, and don't get into any trouble during day. Evening is best spent with kin. Don't forget to shop and do important errands for yourself or others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle monetary matters during day hours and then you can join with congenials in p.m., once all is in order. A consultation with an expert could be most helpful to you now. Ply that hobby you enjoy so much tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into the activities you like during day and postpone the financial to the evening hours. Then use good judgment. Make sure that someone isn't trying to fool you. A good night's rest is important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Delve into whatever appeals to you the most during the day confidentially, then go out socially in p.m. to improve your position in life. Assist one who is having some kind of difficulty. A happy day, p.m. for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what a good pal has to suggest concerning your long-time aims, and then get busy doing the work this necessitates. Forget the social side of life for now and do what is of a constructive nature. Read some, too.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those interesting young people who will show much ability at organizational work early in life and can become very successful along such lines. Later in life there will be the desire to help others with their plans and this can be successful, making the whole life very constructive and worthwhile. Send to the right schools and be sure to give sports and cultural privileges early. Religion a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Bars Use Of State Cars

RALEIGH (AP)—Acting on a complaint he often voiced as a state legislator, Gov. Jim Holshouser has instituted procedures aimed at stopping state employees from using state-owned cars for personal business.

Holshouser, in a Monday directive to agency heads, told them to submit the license plate numbers of each car to the Department of Administration and to assign each car a designated parking space.

Holshouser said the spaces would be checked on weekends by the Department of Administration to see that each car was where it was supposed to be. Exceptions would be made, he said, for law enforcement vehicles, and in cases where the Secretary of Administration approves a written request from a cabinet member.

The policing will start, Holshouser said, on April 7.

Holshouser often complained, while a state legislator, that the Democratic Scott and Moore administrations were allowing state employees to use their cars for other than state business.

Man Arraigned On Gun-Running Count

NEW YORK (AP)—A man identified as a former Charlotte, N.C., policeman was ordered held under $100,000 bond Monday following arraignment on charges of sale and possession of two M-16 rifles.

Police said Thomas McNeil Wallace, 47, of Charlotte, allegedly had 15 handguns, six grenades, two machine guns and a quantity of ammunition in his possession when he was arrested.

Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell and Michael LaPerch of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said Wallace was picked up in his car in Bayside, Queens, when he allegedly attempted to sell the weapons for "something over $7,000" to a federal undercover agent.

The offense for which Wallace was arraigned was alleged to have occurred Feb. 15, and the weapons confiscated Monday were not mentioned in the charges. If convicted, he could face 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

LaPerch said Wallace had been under investigation for alleged gunrunning since last May. He said undercover agents made the alleged Feb. 15 purchase in Queens and set up Monday's attempted sale.

Opening lead: Six of ♠
Beset by adverse distribution and communication problems, South nevertheless managed to salvage his six spade contract by catching his opponent in an unusual squeeze.

North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with one spade. When North raised to three spades—his holding revaluing to 18 points in support—South tested for slam by bidding four clubs.

Altho North's holding did not include many controls—he had only one ace and two kings—his values appeared to fit well, and he felt warranted in giving one push, particularly since his try could be made below the game level. He cue bid the ace of hearts, which was all that South needed to hear. He proceeded forthwith to six spades.

West opened his singleton diamond in the hope of obtaining a ruff, North played the jack and East won the trick with the queen. In order to retain control of the suit, East returned a small diamond. Declarer ruffed with the jack of spades and West discarded a heart.

South played the ace of spades and led a small one to the queen in an attempt to split the trump suit. If the spades had divided two-two, declarer would have been able to ruff out both of his losing hearts. When East showed out on the second round, complications set in.

There was not sufficient communications between his own hand and the dummy for South to ruff out both of his losing hearts, so he sought for an alternative plan. Presently he observed a way to exert pressure on East if the latter held the king of hearts in addition to the high diamonds. Trumps were temporarily abandoned and declarer proceeded to cash out his clubs. Fortunately for him, West followed to all four rounds. A heart was led to the ace and this was the position:

♠ 10 7

The ten of spades was led and East had to make a discard. He was reluctant to part with the ten of diamonds, for that would leave South in position to ruff out the ace of diamonds next and establish dummy's king. East chose to discard the jack of hearts. Declarer proceeded to overtake the ten of spades with his king and ruffed a heart in dummy as East followed with the king. The closed hand was reentered by trumping a diamond and the queen of hearts took the fulfilling trick.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF RE-SALE
North Carolina
Pitt County
TAKE NOTICE that in accordance with Section 115-126 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, the Board of Education of Pitt County has decided that the school property described herein has become unnecessary for public school purposes and said property has been offered for sale, after which within the time allowed by law an advanced bid was filed on said property:

FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 1973
The following described lot or parcel of land in Fountain, Pitt County, North Carolina:

"BEGINNING at an iron stake in the western right-of-way of the property of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad; said stake being the common corner of Carolina White Heirs; thence from said point of beginning and with the western right-of-way of said railroad South 16 degrees 05 minutes East, 380.0 feet to a point, a common corner of tracts 1 and 2 of the said division of lands; thence with the dividing line of tracts 1 and 2 South 72 degrees 11 minutes West, 203.0 feet to a point, a corner; thence across the lands of Tract 1 and with the line of the property of Lazina Moore North 16 degrees 05 minutes West, 20.0 feet; thence North 42 degrees 31 minutes West, 394.12 feet to an iron stake; a corner in the southern line of the property of M. W. Owens; thence with the southern line of the property of M. W. Owens and the dividing line of Tracts 2 and 3 of the said division of lands North 72 degrees 11 minutes East 469.50 feet to the point of BEGINNING, containing 3.28 acres, including a portion of the roadway and the right-of-way, according to a Map prepared by Rivers and Associates, Inc. of record in Map Book 21, at page 198, in the Pitt County Registry, to which Map reference is hereby made for an accurate and complete description."

There is excepted from this description the portion of State Road 1237 and the right-of-way of said Road that encroaches on the land described above.

The opening bid will be $9,570.00. This property will be sold for CASH and the sale shall remain open for ten (10) days to permit the making of an upset bid. A ten percent (10%) cash deposit will be required of the highest bidder on the date of the sale.

Additional information, if desired, may be obtained from the office of the Associate Superintendent of Schools, Thomas L. Craft, Jr., in the Pitt County Courthouse, Greenville, North Carolina.

The Pitt County Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids on said property.

This is the 23rd day of March, 1973.

Help Is Sought To Save 'Treasures'

By ALINE MOSBY
 PARIS (UPI) — The world's largest Buddhist temple is tilting, Venice is sinking, Peru's ruins must be tidied up for tourists.

Three-alarm appeals for help are pouring into the offices of the new rescue operation for saving mankind's monuments, the World Heritage Foundation started by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The foundation was approved at the UNESCO general conference in October after six years of passionate debate. But without waiting for the approval and the forthcoming ratification by member nations, rescue work has been forging onward for monuments dying from such ailments as earthquakes and water, pollution and dams.

Gerard Bolla of Switzerland, director of UNESCO's Department of Cultural Heritage, said 10 of the most threatened monuments UNESCO is working on now are the Egyptian temples of Philae, the cities of Venice and Carthage, the Borobudur Buddhist temples in Java (Indonesia), the giant Buddha statue at Bamiyan in Afghanistan, the Bronze Age city of Mohenjo-Daro in Pakistan, the Hanoman Dhoka church and temples in Nepal, the rock cathedrals of Lalibela in Ethiopia, Inca ruins in Peru and Mongol ruins and ancient churches and mosques in Iran.

"At the request of a country we start a technical study of what has to be done to restore a monument," Bolla said, surrounded in his office by stacks of blueprints and reports.

Three Stages
 "This is done with UNESCO or U.N. funds as our constitution calls for us to preserve the world's cultural heritage. Or sometimes private funds—the Borobudur studies were paid for by the Netherlands."

"The second stage is to find money to pay for the protection project—the United Nations, or other countries, foundations, institutions. The restoration of the 7th alibela cathedrals carved out of rock in Ethiopia is being done by the American National Monument Fund."

"The third stage is the actual work. We can send experts such as civil engineers or chemists who specialize in stone preservation, or architects."

UNESCO is waiting for the Italian store Venice with its own funds before it steps in to help make the city a culture center.

Meantime engineers in the Nile Valley of Egypt are land so they can transfer to it the Philae temples, submerged under water nine months out of 12 since the Aswan dam was built. This project, a UNESCO's first rescue job of saving the nearby Abu Simbel temples in the early '60s, will be partly paid for by Egypt. UNESCO has half—the proceeds of an exhibition of Egypt's King Tut treasures in London.

Bolla and his colleagues also are trying to dig up $5 million a colossal 8th Century Borobudur temples in Java, called the largest and most significant monument in the southern hemisphere. Its collapse is from old age and water seepage.

Bolla said many developing nations have suddenly realized their monuments mean big business—tourism. became the first country to sign an agreement to launch a large-scale tourist program with UNESCO aid, and Peru also has asked for help in restoration.

French and Italian architects have drawn up a program for Afghanistan that would preserve the 173-foot Buddha (said to be the world's largest statue) and temples at Bamiyan—and organize the entire area into a tourist site. Wind and rain have seriously eroded the cliff out of which the Buddha and smaller statues round the second century A.D.

"We have sent advisory missions to more than 30 countries," Bolla said.

If you've been lying awake nights worrying about saving money, read this. It'll put you right to sleep.

Take this ad to bed tonight. It'll show you how to save. And where to save. And where to put your money so it'll give you the biggest return on your dollar. In short, Planters National Bank is offering a little peace of mind. Are you dreaming? Not yet, but wait.

Sav-o-matic. This is for people who have trouble saving, period. Just tell us how much you want to save. And when. We'll simply transfer funds automatically from your Planters checking account to your savings account. Then you don't have to worry about sticking away a little every month. We'll stick it away for you.

Regular Savings. This is the most popular and flexible of our savings plans. You can withdraw or add money in any amount. Anytime. Our Regular Savings earns 4-1/2% interest paid monthly. And because it's computed on a Daily Interest basis, you're assured of earning interest every day from deposit to withdrawal, so long as your balance is at least $10.

Golden Savings. This pays 5% compounded daily. You can open a Golden Savings account for $500 or more. Add to it anytime and in any amount you wish. Make withdrawals with 90 days prior written notice, or during the first 10 days of each calendar quarter if your money has been on deposit 90 days. Interest is paid quarterly.

Certificates of Deposit. We offer certificates from $1000 to $100,000 at 5-3/4%, 5-1/2%, 5% and 4-1/2%, depending on length and type of maturity. Certificates over $100,000 are offered at competitive and negotiated rates. Your interest is payable by check on each anniversary date, or deposited if you wish, to a PNB savings or checking account. If you prefer automatically renewable certificates, the interest may be left with the certificate and compounded every 3 months.

By now you should be ready to nod right off. But one last thing. In the morning when you awaken, it's going to seem like a lot of trouble to change banks and bring your money to Planters. But look at it this way. A lot of savings ads make you yawn. But when was the last time you read one that gave you a good night's sleep?
