

Reds In Cambodia Pounded Air Power Is Unleashed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes, including every available B52 bomber in Southeast Asia, gave Communist forces in Cambodia their heaviest pounding of the war during the night as part of the Nixon administration's campaign to force them into a cease-fire, reliable sources reported today.

The sources said they were unable to say just how many strikes U.S. pilots flew or how many tons of bombs they dropped. But they indicated about 120 B52s were used in the attack, and that could mean a total of 3,600 tons of bombs dropped.

The U.S. Pacific Command in Honolulu, the official source of information on American air operations in Indochina, made its usual uncommunicative announcement that U.S. B52s continued operations over Cambodia Monday for the 27th successive day.

Military sources said some of the big bombers, along with F111 fighter-bombers, supported Cambodian government troops advancing into the Kirrom plateau 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The government troops reportedly reached the plateau and found a deserted base camp of the Khmer Rouge Communists. But meanwhile other government forces south of Phnom Penh continued to retreat and abandoned the garrison town of Chambak, 30 miles south of the capital.

A number of U. S. congressmen contend that President Nixon no longer has constitutional authority to use American air power in Cambodia, but Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson in several recent appearances has contended that they are wrong.

He told a news conference in Washington Monday that the administration's objective in Cambodia "is to see the cease-fire come into being there." He added that Cambodia is a vulnerable flank to South Vietnam since "it would be a base to launch attacks."

The Vietnam cease-fire prohibits U.S. planes from hitting inside South Vietnam, but there have been reports they are still attacking concentrations of Communist troops and supplies in Cambodia that are destined for South Vietnam. U.S. and South Vietnamese intelligence reports tell of substantial movement of North Vietnamese troops, tanks and heavy weapons near the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border.

Hike Leaf Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today announced it has increased its crop loan program for tobacco in 1973 by 5.3 per cent.

The change is required by law to reflect higher prices of goods and services bought by farmers.

Loan levels, compared to the 1972 crops, in cents per pound:

Flue-cured, types 11-14, 76.7 cents compared to 72.7 cents in 1972; burley, type 31, 78.9 compared to 74.9; Virginia firecured, type 21, 53.5 compared to 58.8; Kentucky-Tennessee fire-cured, types 22-23, 53.5 compared with 50.8; dark air-cured, types 35-36, 47.6 compared with 45.2; Virginia uncured, type 37, 47.6, compared with 45.2; cigar binder, types 51-52, 54.6 compared with 51.9; cigar filler and binder, types 42-44, 53.55, 39.5 compared with 37.5; and Puerto Rican, type 46, 41.0 compared with 38.9. Eligible producers will be required to certify that they have not used restricted pesticides on their 1973 crop tobacco.

Project Requires Better Weather

Progress is being made in the Newtown Project area but favorable weather is needed to remain on schedule, according to the project site inspector.

Ralph Hall told Housing Authority commissioners Monday night that so far, contractors have been able to work ten full days in Newtown and four partial days. He noted that site preparations actually began about a week before schedule.

Hall, pointing out that "We've been about as far as we can go until we have some good weather," said that two parking areas in the site have been graded and engineers have staked out buildings in two sections.

The inspector said that the site is ready for compaction test on the soil as soon as weather permits.

Commissioners voted to reinstate three building alternatives, known in the contract as deductive alternates, as part of the Newtown unit construction plans.

The three alternates, deleted from the plans earlier in an effort to shave building costs, involve using conventional doors in lieu of bi-fold, pre-hung doors on closets, installation of ceramic tile rather than soft tile, and including entry door frames.

Joe Laney, executive director working with an "extremely limited contingency, one of about one per cent" on building costs. He noted that the commission has to look at priorities. With almost no leeway on building costs, he noted, "we still can't go over prototype figures."

Architect Cameron Dudley said that with the three alternates reinstated in the unit plans, costs should still be within the contingency limits.

Commissioners also voted to defer the painting of portions of the brick on each unit until a later date. Original plans had suggested that portions of the brick be painted on each unit but there has been some questions as to the type of brick best suited to painting and also weather the process would be durable.

Laney reported that the first Newtown contractors meeting was held March 7 and representatives from most parties concerned with the project, including the general contractor, plumbing, heating and electrical contractors, Utilities Commission director, Carolina Telephone engineer, and architect, were on hand.

The director, asserting that the meeting was very successful and informative, said that another is planned for Wednesday.

Laney told commissioners that the Southeastern Regional Council NAHRO annual meeting is scheduled for June 6-10 in Louisville, Ky. Commissioners agreed to authorize the attendance of one staff member at the session.

According to Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter, director of tenant affairs, all 65 units in N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook) were occupied during March and rent averaged $35.74. The 160 units in N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park) were occupied and average rent there was $37.86.

Mrs. Streeter said that there were three vacancies in N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood) during the month, leaving 185 units occupied, but they have now been filled with elderly tenants. Rent in Moyewood averaged $38.48. In N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood) rent averaged $33.50 and all 40 units were occupied.

The director said that the housing staff is continuing unit inspections and so far 120 units have been completed. The staff is also in the process of updating the application file, she said.

Commissioners voted to meet in May at 7:30 rather than at 8:15. They agreed that according to the bylaws, which will be amended to include the new meeting time, a motion will be passed at the next meeting concerning an official change in convening hours. The bylaws stipulate that each commissioner be notified at least seven days in advance of any change in the meeting schedule.

Plans For New N.C. Mansion Are Presented

RALEIGH (AP) — A study commission presented a legislative appropriations subcommittee today plans to build a new residence for North Carolina's governors at an estimated cost of $500,000.

At the same time, the Executive Residence Building Commission presented an estimate that it would cost $575,000 to completely renovate and modernize the present executive mansion.

The commission report suggested the possibility that a new home could be built for the governor with the present mansion being restored and used for entertaining and other public functions.

Charles W. Bradshaw, chairman of the study commission, told the committee that a number of states now have both an executive mansion and an executive residence.

Gov. Jim Holshouser, however, has made it plain that he has no desire to replace the present mansion with a new governor's residence.

After presenting plans for a new residence, complete with swimming pool and cabana, the study commission unanimously recommended that the present executive mansion "be retained with some modernization to make it more practical for state and public functions."

"This modernization would mean that the executive mansion would be used considerably more than it is used today by the people of North Carolina since its present use is restricted by the governor occupying the mansion," the report stated.

A five-page statistical report

POW Appetites Were 'Huge' At Base Hospital

The POWs ate a total of 852 pounds of steak and 1,556 pounds of beef in other forms such as roasts and hamburgers. They ate 478 pounds of chicken, 253 pounds of duckling and 138 pounds of turkey.

The demand for banana splits was so great the hospital at one stage ran out of bananas. The POWs went through 210 gallons of ice cream and 359 pounds of bananas. They also had 444 gallons of frozen strawberries and 60 pounds of salt.

According to the list only one bottle of white wine and one bottle of red wine were called for.

There was no mention of beer or liquor, but reports said the POWs enjoyed having a drink again. On shopping expeditions in the base exchange many carried bottles of iced beer.

Self-Interest Is Evident: Jenkins

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Speaking at a press conference this morning, East Carolina University chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins said it is unrealistic to expect the heads of the three four-year medical schools in the state to recommend anything for a fourth school — one at ECU.

Referring to a state Medical Society study published in the current issue of the North Carolina Medical Society Journal, Dr. Jenkins said, "You are all familiar with the report prepared by the heads of the other medical schools in this state.

"These men, naturally, represent the interests of their institutions, all of which receive money from the taxpayers.

"To expect these men to recommend anything for a fourth school would not be realistic," Jenkins said.

"It is like asking a gang of rabbits to watch a field of carrots.

"As a matter of fact, they are brazen enough to suggest that our modest effort here should be terminated. Surely they cannot be serious about this."

(The Medical Society study recommended expanded financial aid to private medical schools at Wake Forest and Duke University and an expansion in the student body at the University of North Carolina medical school and recommended abolishing the one-year program at ECU and not establishing another four-year, state-supported school.)

According to the chancellor, if the other medical school officials are serious about abolishing the ECU program, "What pride will they have in saying, 'we were able to stop progress, we were able to curtail the future supply of needed doctors?'"

"What a legacy to leave their grandchildren!"

Jenkins continued, "These men speak for the vested interest of their schools. But we raise the question, 'who is speaking for the people?'"

Saying most North Carolina residents have a great interest in the medical school question, Jenkins noted, "Not only are the people financing medical education but the people are the victims of insufficient medical care."

"While some of our newspapers are howling and wailing about our efforts to increase the supply of doctors, the people in our neighboring town of Winterville are entering their 12th year without a doctor.

"I could repeat this story in numerous communities throughout North Carolina." This is not a regional problem, he said.

Jenkins said the people of the state "had insufficient medical care when we rightfully addressed ourselves to this problem...and they still do not have sufficient medical care."

"Again, I raise the question, when are the people going to be heard?"

The ECU chancellor said East Carolina officials have done all they can possibly do toward finding a solution to the question, "and as long as we are permitted to do so, we will continue to address ourselves not only to the problem of the doctor shortage, but to other problems that affect our people."

S. Fla. Power Cutoff

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — More than 2 million customers of Florida Power & Light Co. in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties were without electricity today after four massive generators shut down at a power plant, a company spokesman said.

"Due to problems unknown at this point, the four generating units at our Port Everglades plant tripped out of service," spokesman Lory Snipes said. "Apparently, they were responding to signals from our automatic protective devices, which are designed to protect the generators when they sense a problem."

Snipes said the company began restoring service immediately and hoped to have full service restored within two hours. "We don't know exactly yet what the cause is," said Joseph Scott, commercial manager for FP&L in Fort Lauderdale.

Fred Shortell, an insurance salesman whose office is near FP&L's big generating plant at Port Everglades in Broward County said, "I heard this roar and the power went out."

Shortell said he looked toward the generating station and saw "steam shooting straight up in the air 40 feet" from a valve.

"I heard a roar like a jet engine," he said. "There was a cop standing out front, and I saw three guys holding their ears."

He 'Resents'

RALEIGH (AP) — Assistant Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, Dr. Arthur W. Cooper, defended environmentalists Monday against charges that they have delayed major projects unnecessarily.

"Although I appreciate the frustration that some must feel when their wishes or projects are held up by environmental concerns, I resent mightily efforts to pin the blame for such delays solely upon environmentalists," Cooper said.

Cooper spoke at an awards program for Keep North Carolina Beautiful Inc., an organization that has spearheaded a year-long effort to heighten citizen awareness of environmental concerns.

Martin County Board Accepts Bids For Addition To School

WILLIAMSTON—Bids totaling $411,000 for a new addition to the Robersonville Elementary School were accepted by the Martin County Board of Education at its April meeting Monday.

Eastern Construction Company of Goldsboro was the successful bidder as general contractor.

April 19 was set as the opening date for bids on the Jamesville Elementary School as action on a series of new school construction continues in Martin County.

The current chairman and vice-chairman of the Martin County Board of Education, George McRorie and Macon Holiday, were both reelected to new terms.

Board members also voted to accept a State Board of Education settlement amounting to $30,900 in connection with damages to the Robersonville Elementary School, which was razed by fire last fall.

In make up for lost school days, the board voted to use one the Easter holidays, Friday, April 20, and to extend the school year by one day, June 8, as the two make up days. Martin County schools will all have their final day of school on June 8.

For the coming school year, grading will be conducted on a nine week interval basis.

In the field of school property, the board voted to sell the old Hamilton Elementary School building, not used for several years, and to dispose of two cars, two trucks and a station wagon through the State surplus property program.

Former POW Says Inner Fiber Of U.S. Is Frail

COLUMBIA (AP)—A former POW has warned Americans that their country is getting soft and pulling away from the principles it was founded on.

"The inner fiber of America is tearing loose," said Lt. C.J. James Quincey Collins Jr. "The thing that has been the basis for our country, the family unit, is being torn apart."

Collins spoke to the Richland Sertoma Club in Columbia Monday. He said the return of the former prisoners has made Americans feel a twinge of conscience but, "The attitude of people that they should be given as much as possible and do as little as possible frightens me. That is an attitude that can only lead to destruction."

"I hope the American people will be aware of this and will wake up and get off their duffs and be proud to be Americans and keep America as it should be."

Collins is a native of Winnsboro. He grew up in Concord, N.C. and was graduated from the Citadel in 1953. His plane was shot down about 80 miles from Hanoi Sept. 2, 1965.

"If I could find a handful of as Americans dedicated to being Americans as a handful of communists are dedicated to being communists, I would have no fear for my nation," he said.

He called his treatment while a prisoner "harsh" and supported the validity of stories of torture other former POWs have told.

"I see some people coming forth saying these things are lies. Let me assure you they ain't."

He criticized anti-war activists whom, he said, "lengthened my stay in Vietnam. The groups cost you money and cost us lives. The communists are no different from anyone else. When they see a weakness in the system they go for it. They did quite well with our weakness."

Collins, 41, is stationed at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. He will attend the National War College, Washington, D.C., during the summer.

Greenville Retail Sales For '72 Saw Notable Gain

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville ended 1972 on a good note as gross retail sales reflected a 15 per cent increase in December over the same period in 1971, according to figures released by the N.C. Department of Revenue Statistics.

The city's year-end total amounted to $13,729,330, compared with $11,931,490 in December of 1971. The January through December period also saw an increase in retail sales as they amounted to $133,737,535, a jump of some 13.4 per cent over the $117,875,319 recorded during 1971. The $133,737,535 recorded during the 1972 inched Greenville ahead of Kinston's $133,196,954 and now places the city only behind Raleigh, Fayetteville, Wilmington, Rocky Mount and Goldsboro among eastern cities in retail sales.

December's total of over $13 million made it the top month of 1972 and culminated a year-long period of increases that saw the city's monthly figures climb from just over $9 million in January to the December $13 million mark.

Since 1965, when retail sales for Greenville were $65,189,049, the city has more than doubled the yearly figure. A glance at the 1965 through 1972 period shows that sales climbed steadily from over $65 million in 1965 to over $73 million in 1966, $77 million in 1967, $89 million in 1968, $99 million in 1969, $104 million in 1970, $117 million in 1971, and $133 million last year.

During the same 1965-1972 period, the $13,729,330 recorded last December represented the top monthly figure.

Sales for Pitt County during 1972 fell just short of the $200 million mark as they reached $199,890,343. December again, was the top month with sales of $20,335,292.

A sample of annual figures for Pitt County reveal: $79,581,067 in 1961; $92,521,116, 1963; $100,947,777, 1965; $127,415,372, 1967; $153,138,631, 1969; $166,244,326, 1970; and $181,579,021, 1971.

Other eastern cities, their December 1971 and 1972 figures and increases and their January-December totals and percentage increases, include: Elizabeth City; $6,247,667 (1971), $8,122,094 (1972), 30 percent, $60,349,961 (Jan.-Dec. 1971), $68,820,676, 14 per cent; Morehead City, $3,239,732, $4,039,432, 24.6 per cent, $32,839,177, $43,389,104, 32.1 per cent; Tarboro, $3,647,679, $4,391,956, 20.4 per cent, $37,536,012, $43,306,799, 15.3 per cent; Williamston, $3,077,917, $3,669,550, 19.2 per cent, $31,011,597, $33,116,196, 6.7 per cent; Washington, $6,020,266, $6,901,436, 14.6 per cent, $62,413,742, $72,180,343, 15.6 per cent; Jacksonville, $11,142,051, $12,393,905, 11.2 per cent, $108,630,669, $122,544,924, 12.8 per cent; Goldsboro, $15,747,136, $17,267,188, 9.6 per cent, $149,961,174, $170,599,403, 13.7 per cent; Rocky Mount, $17,234,175, $18,750,657, 8.7 per cent, $162,821,493, $183,941,717, 12.9 per cent; Wilson, $11,506,761, $12,297,027, 6.8 per cent, $112,719,945, $125,229,652, 11 per cent; New Bern, $9,631,155, $10,159,696, 5.4 per cent, $99,832,741, $111,205,783, 11.3 per cent; and Kinston $13,170,236, $13,444,191, two per cent, $124,365,066, $133,196,954, 7.1 per cent.

New Officers Elected By Greenville Moose

The Greenville Moose Lodge elected officers for the 1973-74 year.

Junior Governor Garland Beddard was advanced to Governor; Prelate Jack Morgan advanced to Junior Governor; James Fleming, who has served during the past year as Civic Affairs Chairman, was elected Prelate; Rodolph Manning was elected Treasurer; and George Fleming was elected to the Board of Trustees.

The installation of officers will be held on the evening of April 25, and the ceremony will be followed by a dance.

Governor-elect Beddard has been a member of the fraternity for ten years. A native of Pitt County (he was born in Littlefield) his background includes a period of service in the Jaycees. He was President of the Washington Jaycees in 1958, was a North Carolina JC vice president, and winner of the Distinguished Service Award (bestowed by the Jaycees) in 1965. He also served as president of the Beaufort County American Cancer Society unit, was the Beaufort ASC Crusade director, and chairman of the Beaufort ACS Board of Directors.

Beddard is the Assistant District Supervisor of the License and Theft Division of the Motor Vehicles Department for Northeastern N.C. His district covers 24 eastern counties. He is married to the former Mary Wainright, of Pitt County, and the couple has two sons.

Governor Harris reported the Greenville members of the ENOCA Legion degree staff placed 13th in the weekend international competition at Columbus, Ohio. Thirty teams competed. "The competition was intense," said Harris, "and individually, we fared very well. Team member Lloyd Wilson placed fourth in his role, and Carlton McCollom placed third. All of us enjoyed the hospitality extended to us in Columbus." The degree staff and their wives were accompanied by a number of Greenville lodge members to the Ohio capital in a chartered bus, returning to Greenville Sunday.

Boy Scout Activities

Lois Tripp McLawhorn, Pitt District scouting publicity chairman, announced a scheduled of scouting events for April. Tonight, at First Federal Savings and Loan on the 264 Bypass, the SME kickoff meeting will get underway. She urged all community chairmen, council representatives and SME chairmen to attend. This year's goal, she reported, is $4,750.

On April 8, the Council Explorer President's Association meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the Kinston Scout Hut, located at the airport. All post presidents, vice presidents and advisors are urged to attend, the chairman said. Emphasis will be put on the Explorer Road Rally.

The Pitt District committee meeting will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on April 10. The meeting begins at 7:45 p.m.

Jarvis Memorial is also the site for the Pitt District Roundtables, set for April 17 at 7:30 p.m. The following night, according to the chairman, the O.A. Executive Board meeting is scheduled.

The East Carolina Council Camporee will be held April 27 through the 29th.

Area Scouts At Camporee

The Sunrise District of the Boy Scouts of America held its annual Spring Camporee at the Ayden Elementary School. The camporee began Friday and ended Sunday. Rain began before the troop arrival time of 4:30 p.m. and lasted during the entire camporee.

The District Spring Camporee is held each year as a forerunner to the Council Camporee. The District Camporee is an opportunity for many new Scouts to become involved in their first camping experience and to familiarize the Scouts with the events held at the Council Camporee.

Troop 191 of Greenville (led by Scoutmaster Willie Joyner) dominated the activities, winning two ribbons and individual Scouts winning four Physical Fitness Awards. Other troops involved were Troop 289 of Farmville, Scoutmaster Herman Waters; and Troop 393 of Bethel, Scoutmaster Simon Hemby.

The Ayden grounds were made available by the Pitt County Board of Education through A. S. Alford, Superintendent and Stuart Tripp, principal of the Ayden Elementary School.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Unless very careful, you could become involved in an argument that would only leave scars. Avoid any discussions about money or material matters. Carefully study your expenses and assets, and devise a more suitable budget plan.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you plan your time wisely you are able to handle monetary affairs to your satisfaction. Forget a social matter if it's too expensive. Show that you have your feet squarely on the ground.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It would not be wise to find fault with a higher-up because you don't agree on a subject, so keep mum. Don't take any chances concerning a civic matter. Home is your best bet tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have some confidential matters to attend to and should do just that instead of going off on a tangent. Make intelligent plans for the future. Study plans most carefully. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better way for taking care of promises you have made. Try not to quarrel with an associate or you could find trouble. Call a friend tonight who can be helpful to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more pride in your work. Carry through with what higher-ups expect of you and gain their goodwill. Several duties are not to your liking but they have to be performed. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new ways to get ahead in the future, and then everything works to your advantage. Newcomers you have met recently could get you in trouble, so avoid concern yourself with old friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) With bills to pay and other duties to perform, an early start on getting them behind you is wise. Don't pry into the affairs of others and you get along better. Strive for good health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Tell associates what you desire of them in a quiet and positive way, and gain their cooperation. Don't argue for best results. Moot points can be studied carefully before taking action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give co-workers the benefit of any doubt and get along better with them. Try to understand their viewpoints better. The evening is particularly good for the social side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to have entertainment that you enjoy provided you don't spend too much money. Try to express special talents, but don't force them. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to lose your temper at home and you avoid unfortunate circumstances. Eliminate whatever is causing friction. Don't forget to pay important bills. Take health treatment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be particularly careful in travel and you can avoid accidents. Cut down on expenses instead of adding to them. You have to be more efficient in handling routines. Don't waste time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who will be aggressive and will require discipline early if the life is to be successful. Teach to think before talking or acting. A new type of individual here who will like to do the practical part of any new ventures. Give fine religious training. Sports can be missed. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Talking Eyes Tell What Women Are Thinking

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Talking eyes and a sexy mouth can bewitch a man, even if a woman has a big nose. So says Santiago Seijo of Rome, well known as Sergio, whose career has included being personal makeup artist to Sophia Loren.

"Eyes will make the first conquest, then he will look at your mouth," Sergio observed, adding:

"Eyes tell more about a woman than her lips, but it is her lips that will speak the story of love that the man may find in her eyes."

To meet this romantic emergency, lips should look full and expressive like those of Sophia or Jacqueline Onassis, whose mouths he admires. Faye Dunaway has an interesting mouth, too, "but not in the same way," he said.

"A cupid's bow mouth can never look sexy. To me there is something psychological about associating it with decadence... the roaring 20s... the depression..." says the makeup expert.

As for a big nose, you can solve it cleverly with makeup, emphasizing your good features, he says. It was he who "gave Sophia her assets," he explained, which included "making her large nose disappear." Her mouth was large, too, but in balancing it, it became an asset with "the fantastic eyes (which, he says, he taught her to slant) and heightened cheekbones with which she is blessed..."

Sergio met Sophia when he (and Givenchy) worked at the fashion house of Balenciaga, the Spanish dress designer. He had obtained a master's degree from the University of Madrid and a doctorate in romance languages from the Sorbonne. He soon decided he would rather be a face designer, applying his knowledge of color to faces, "designing a background."

In that capacity he worked with Italian films, but for the last seven years he has been associated with Eve of Roma on the Via Veneto where his impressive list of clients includes princesses, actresses, opera singers, society people and a queen... Queen Mother Frederica of Greece.

"A woman can do marvelous things with her face if she doesn't take it for granted," he advised. "Each feature should be analyzed for its beauty potential and she should learn how to enhance good features and play down poor ones."

For example, little tricks can enhance the eyes. Protruding eyebones should be darkened to make them appear to recede, never brightened with shimmering substances which would make them more important than the eyes. In addition, if eyes are deepset, light makeup should be applied to the lid to balance the entire eye area. Dark substances would make the eyes appear to recede even more.

Eye liner is totally out of fashion, he observed, but a thin line at the end of the eye might be smudged for shading. And eyebrows shouldn't be shaggy, "a washer woman look... like putting a heavy frame on a beautiful little painting..."

He laments client Ali McGraw's straggly eyebrows and tags the effect "the Joan Crawford of the 70s" look.

"Crawford would have called more attention to her beautiful eyes if she hadn't framed them with heavy brows," he explained.

Cheekbones are important considerations in achieving a balanced face with makeup because they help shape it, he observed. If the face is long, cheekbones should appear to be lowered; if the face is round, they should be brought closer to the nose. The trick is always to bring the face to an oval shape using dark makeup to make areas recede and light makeup to make them more prominent.

It is ridiculous, he says, to abandon one's own beauty style for a kooky fad — shaved eyebrows or whatever — because one has outgrown creative ideas and relies on striking effects for attention.

"To me a mature woman can be far more devastating than a younger woman," he remarked, "and what makes her fascinating is a willingness to change rather than accept herself as she is... but the change should be an improvement."

"Marlene Dietrich is the perfect example. Her charm is ageless because she makes the best of everything she has, whereas many older women concentrate on covering up lines with lots of makeup. Lines may be caused by the accumulation of dead skin cells and the failure to remove makeup."

To help remove hard, dry skin cells, a woman might massage her face every day with a rough bath towel, using a firm up and down motion, but not stretching the skin, he advised. The abrasive action should also tone face muscles. In his opinion men do not have such lines because they are constantly removing dead skin when they shave.

What 'Counseling' Is Hubby Giving?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 34 years old, and I am 35. We've been married for 12 years. I am a school teacher, and he does counseling. About six months ago he started to buy me some rather expensive presents. At the same time he himself came home with an expensive gold watch, some tailor-made suits, and finally a new expensive automobile.

I knew he couldn't afford all those things on what he made, so I had a long talk with him and he confessed that he has been getting large amounts of money from a woman. He described her as a high-priced call girl. He said he was helping her to work out her problems, that his interest in her was strictly professional and in appreciation for helping her get her head together she kept giving him large amounts of money.

He has been spending a lot of evenings away from home. Does this sound professional to you? SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Not very. An ethical counselor usually charges a set fee, and doesn't accept "large amounts of money." It's all right for him to help her get her head together as long as he doesn't take too many things apart.

DEAR ABBY: A former neighbor phoned me yesterday and the first thing she asked me was: "How much did you get for your old house?" I told her. Then she asked me what we paid for our new house. I was so shocked at her nerve, I told her.

I mentioned we were trying to adopt some children from Korea or Viet Nam. She said: "Can't you have any of your own?" I told her we felt the world should provide for the children that are here. Then she told me she thought we were out of our minds to "borrow trouble."

Abby, we lost a pair of twin boys when our home caught fire six months ago, and I told her we felt so guilty because we survived and they didn't. She said we were "ridiculous" to feel that way. I told her we had talked to our minister and a psychiatrist and they agreed our feelings of guilt were normal, and only time would erase them. She said all psychiatrists were crazy, and ministers are stupid, and we could get over it if we wanted to.

Then she said: "Bill and I want to see your new house. If you don't want to make a dinner, have us over for cocktails soon, will you?"

I said: "Yes, I will." After I hung up I was angry with myself for letting this nervy woman maneuver me into promising to have her over. Should I just "forget" to invite her over? Or am I committed now? SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: Don't "forget" to invite her. Remember to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago I fell in love with my first cousin. I was 17, and he was 19. Our parents [wisely?] broke it up.

I am 57 now, and he is 59 and both of us are free to marry. I'm recently widowed, and he's divorced. We would like to marry as we truly love each other. I am thru menopause which means there will be no children.

Can first cousins marry in the state of Arizona, where I live? If not, how about Illinois, where he lives?

WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: A clergyman or lawyer in your state can quickly give you the yea or the nay.

DEAR ABBY: To the correspondent who said wedding presents were out of style—that they just passed the tray and collected money instead:

Last summer we attended a wedding where the festive dinner was prepared by friends who were members of a gourmet cooking club. Their "gift" was preparing the dinner. Another friend donated his services by painting two rooms in the old house where the bride and groom were going to live.

Soliciting gifts of money would be considered bad form in our circles, and we are by no means the idle rich. Imaginative gifts suitable to the circumstances rate tops. BILL

SPICED STREUSEL PRUNE COFFEECAKE — Nice to serve for morning coffee or for a weekend brunch.

Coffecake Takes To Spice

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When friends come for morning coffee or for a weekend brunch, Spiced Streusel Prune Coffecake is an excellent offering. You can bake this coffee cake a few days ahead of serving because, according to our tasters, it even improves on storage.

The recipe calls for chopped cooked pitted prunes — which means you cook unpitted prunes, then pit and chop them. But if you use the prunes that come already pitted, there's no need to cook them. Just put 1 cup of them in small mixing bowl and cover with boiling water; let stand 15 minutes, then drain and cut up.

SPICED STREUSEL PRUNE COFFEECAKE

3 cups flour, stir to aerate before measuring ¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon

1½ teaspoons ground cloves
1 cup butter
½ cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1 cup chopped cooked pitted prunes
Grease a 9-inch angelfood cake pan.

In a large mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the flour, salt, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. With a pastry blender cut in butter until it is in fine particles. Take out 1 cup of this mixture and put it in a small mixing bowl; into it stir the walnuts and reserve for streusel filling and topping.

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs; gently beat in milk, baking powder, baking soda and vanilla; add to flour mixture in large bowl; stir just until moistened. Pour about 1-3rd of this batter into prepared pan; top with ½ of the prunes and 1-3rd of the streusel. Add 1-3rd more batter; top with remaining prunes and another third of the streusel. Add remaining batter and top with remaining streusel, gently patting streusel into batter with back of a spoon.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out free of batter — about 55 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes. With a small metal spatula loosen edges; turn out on wire rack; with another rack turn right side up. Cool completely. Store in a tightly covered tin box.

400 recipes are given in "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Try Planning For Better Eating

By PATRICIA Mc CORMACK
UPI Family News Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — No need to be a magician saving money and eating better. It can be done with planning. Some things that are good for you actually cost less than what you've been accustomed to buying—if your habit has been to buy expensive cuts of meat, for example.

This is based on what Lois L. Lindauer has to say. She is national director of the Diet Workshop, a group weight control program with over 600 units nationwide.

She says the best proteins, for example, are those low in the kind of fat implicated in clogged arteries setting the stage for cardiovascular disease.

Fortunately, chicken is a protein food that's low in fat and low in cost. Put chicken on your list.

Ms. Lindauer says one unexpected bargain at the meat counter is chicken gizzards, without a stitch of waste. Minced and simmered in a tomato broth with oregano and onion they are an unusual supper dish full of vital minerals and vitamins.

Ms. Lindauer says organ meats of all animals are passed up time and again by American shoppers. But organ meats, she maintains, are the best buys at the meat counter. There is no bone. What small amount of fat here is can be separated away from the flesh with ease.

Investigate Organs
She suggests you investigate hearts, kidneys, livers. You'll find bargains. Veal and lamb kidneys are tasty broiled with a little lemon and parsley. Chicken livers are a luxury item in high-priced restaurants. At the supermarket they usually are priced reasonably.

Another good, rather palatably-priced protein comes from fish. President Nixon has suggested that Americans eat fish one day a week as a consumer action aimed at protesting the high price of meat.

Ms. Lindauer said fish is the best sort of protein. Fish fat is polysaturated fat. Low cholesterol diets thrive on fish. Fish does happen to be a seasonal food, though. What's running determines the price of what's in the case. The least expensive way to buy fish is frozen or canned. Water-packed tuna fills many casserole voids, salad bowls and sandwiches.

Other money-saving tips:
—Buy the house brand frozen foods at your market or buy the plastic bags that contain 20 ounces and more of a particular vegetable.

—Salad greens can be expensive with lettuce costing so much. Substitute cabbage, romaine, chicory and escarole and have a more varied salad menu.

—In the dairy food department, the greatest bargain of all time is dried, non-fat skim milk. There is more and more agreement among pediatricians that after the age of 2½ most children should be drinking skim milk. Butterfat does nothing but make fat. The bodybuilding materials are in the skim portion of the milk.

—Skip the convenience of dehydrated soups that cost around 30 or 40 cents for a four-cup package. Make way for a 40-cent package of bouillon cubes that will produce 25 cups.

—Cottage cheese is a miracle food. It is protein-powered, has a satisfying bulk and is easy on the purse at checkout time.

And, Who Has All The Answers?

We have to admit that we do not have all the answers as to how far the courts should go in protecting rights in criminal actions.

That puts us in good company, however, because this is one of the most debated subjects in the nation today. There is a group—a growing one—which feels that the courts are coddling criminals; that they get off on technicalities. Certainly the records sometimes bear this out in that many who get cited to court for major crimes return to the courts time-after-time.

We can also be sympathetic with the argument that the victim's-of-crime rights have been violated more than the perpetrator's ever can be.

There is another side of the argument, however, and it involves the most cruel of all miscarriages of justice; that is when a person is cited to court and perhaps sent to jail in a case of mistaken identity.

The New York Times recently reported a case where a 30-year-old assistant district attorney had been picked from a police line up by a girl and accused of a sex crime.

The man, a bachelor who lives with his father, saw his world come to a stop. He was suspended from his position and faced an ordeal which could have ended his career.

Fortunately this story has a happy ending. Another man was arrested in another attack on a woman. Police noticed that he bore a resemblance to the assistant district attorney and the result was that the attorney was cleared of the charges.

There had been a similar case last November when a 17-year-old college freshman was arrested on rape charges. Subsequently police apprehended a 20-year-old look-alike and the student was freed.

Such cases as these happen often enough so it is essential that our society be constantly vigilant in protecting the rights of the innocent. Almost nothing is worse than being arrested or going to jail for a crime one did not commit.

Prettiest Of The Lawmakers

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH. — The willow-slim girl walking with long blond hair flying through the State Legislative Building has been mistaken for a page, the wife of a legislator, her own secretary.

BRYAN HAISLIP

"Give this to your boss," said a caller delivering a big envelope of papers to office 1020.

"I am the boss," said Rep. Margaret Keese of Guilford, the youngest and perhaps prettiest member of the 1973 General Assembly.

She is, too, to the sometimes dismay of Republican colleagues as well as the discomfiture of the caller.

With the verve of youth, the 28-year-old school teacher sets a course not locked in by party lines and open to ideas for change. She believes you can get elected without making deals and by being responsive to all groups. She thinks you can vote for legislation on its merits, regardless of partisan implications.

"I made up my mind I wasn't going to be told how to vote," said Rep. Keese, a House freshman.

Naive and Happy

"Maybe I'm politically naive. If I am, I like it. I'll stay that way until I get hurt, and then I hope I'll be strong enough to take it."

Practical politics, in her experience, doesn't demand compromise of ideals as some of the young suppose. "I'm not the way-out, revolutionary type. It's better not to set your goals so high. Unfortunately, change does come slowly," she explained.

The times are great to be young, Republican and in politics, she said.

The system is receptive to the in-puff of youth and needs its infusion of new blood and fresh viewpoints, she said. Age and sex have created no barriers, she reported, among her older and predominately male companions in the legislature.

"I don't feel like the youngest member. I don't feel any different from the others," she said.

Rep. Keese cuts her philosophy from more liberal cloth than fits most Republicans, but she looks on the party as the place where the action is for young people.

GOP Has Youth Room

The election of Gov. Jim Holshouser after a long line of Democrats reflected a mood for change that makes the GOP party on the move with room for young people, she said.

"If I'd been a Democrat, I would have had to wait in line to run," she observed.

As it was, she became a candidate because the party wanted a woman on the GOP slate for Guilford's seven House seats. She listened to persuasion that she try for a place on the ticket, then disregarded some of the advice on how to go about it.

For example, she was told it would be useless for a Republican to accept invitations for interviews with labor and black political groups. "I thought they were people like everybody else, and I could be open and responsive to their feelings," she said.

She did, and got support which brought her in seventh in the field of 14—all the rest men.

Voters Cross Lines

Issues and candidates rather than party dogma is the theme to which young voters and the general electorate respond, said Rep. Keese.

She may have been the only Republican candidate with a campaign poster in the local McGovern headquarters, placed there by a younger sister, registered Democratic and active for the presidential nominee.

Profession gives a natural bent to Rep. Keese's legislative interests. She'd like to see the state go in the direction of a greater voice for teachers, compared to administrators, in public education decisions. She favors increased spending for public schools, and an end to the "sacred cow" status of higher education in budget-making.

A commission on the status of women is another objective. She would have voted for ratification of the equal rights amendment for women, but didn't get the chance when the bill was killed in the Senate.

Maybe she was naive, as a young teacher with little money and no time to campaign except evenings and weekends away from the classroom, to run for the legislature. She was practical enough not to expect to win.

It's a good question, she admitted, whether she would have run if she could have

Mills Urged A Price Freeze

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The first clear sign that President Nixon's rigid economic theorists were truly alarmed by growing political pressure on food price controls came Friday, March 23, when George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury, paid a strictly private visit to the Capitol Hill office of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

Shultz, usually the essence of doctrinal self-confidence, was clearly shaken by runaway food prices. He asked Mills: What can we do? The reply from the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee was that the permissive Phase III control program has proved a disaster and everybody (except possibly Shultz) knows it. The answer, Mills went on is to freeze retail food prices.

Shultz said nothing not trotting out his old arguments about the ultimate success of the administration's policies. That same day, Shultz got an earful at the labor-management advisory Council meeting from president George Meany of the AFL-CIO. If the government wants to hold down wage hikes, Meany asserted it had better freeze farm-to-market prices.

If the demands from Mills and Meany were not enough Shultz got more of the same early the next week from Mr. Nixon's secretly commissioned polls: the public views Phase III with utter contempt considering it totally incapable of holding back inflation.

Therefore these highly confidential polls showed consumers have been on a buying spree to beat the next price increase. In long White House meetings last week, non-economic advisers forecast a political-economic disaster unless the President did something.

By Wednesday night, the economic theoreticians advising Shultz seemed ready to surrender. Insisting on their own economic rectitude, they nevertheless acknowledged that, under savage political pressure Mr. Nixon would have to be ready, as in 1971 to discard his economic game plan.

Vietnam Setback

Hanoi's flat refusal to extend the four-power Joint Military Commission beyond March 28 set in the Paris ceasefire, came in the face of strenuous U.S. efforts to keep it going and, thereby, maintain some American presence in Vietnam.

In fact the White House is bitterly disappointed by Hanoi's refusal. U.S. military and diplomatic officials had been somewhat encouraged by Hanoi to believe that the commission—the Vietnam, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the U.S.—could continue beyond the terminal date.

The refusal is just one more sign that the "ceasefire" may never have been intended by the Communists as more than a figleaf cover for withdrawal of all American troops. Even the four-power commission had been hamstrung by near total lack of Communist support in its efforts to make the ceasefire work. Now, without the U.S. and Hanoi, the two-power remnant (Saigon and the Vietcong) will probably turn out to be useless.

Furthermore, Communist representatives on the Joint Military Commission were largely restricted to sparsely populated battle areas. Under the new two-power arrangement, Vietcong operatives will be in the big cities to stir up political trouble.

A footnote: Refusal to extend the four-power commission exactly fits Hanoi's pattern since the ceasefire: illegal introduction of troops and supplies into South Vietnam; obstacles to international inspection; total refusal to remove Communist troops from Cambodia and Laos.

Gov. Dent?

A serious move to promote Secretary of Commerce Frederick Dent as Republican nominee for governor of South Carolina is underway with the full (but discreet) support of the state's top Republican operative: Harry S. Dent, late of the White House staff and now Republican National Committee counsel.

F. Dent, no relation to H. Dent, surprised politicians recently when in response to a reporter's question he declined to rule himself out as a possible gubernatorial nominee.

Although Gov. John C. West cannot succeed himself, any Republican—including textile executive Dent, a transplanted Northerner—would have a rough uphill fight in 1974.

Connally's Labor Backer

Strength For Today

THE MOTE AND THE BEAM

"Most men are fools," snorted the eminent English essayist, Thomas Carlyle; to which his friend, Lord Chesterton, made the rejoinder, "Yes, all men are fools, including Carlyle."

Don't attribute faults to others which you are not willing to confess as your own. Ralph Waldo Emerson once declared that there had never been a crime committed which might not, under certain circumstances, have been committed by him.

Jesus said, "Cast out first the beam out of thine own eye; and then thou shalt see clearly to cast out the mote that is in thy brother's eye."

Chesterton just reminded the world, using Carlyle as the victim of his sharp barb, that human nature being as fallible as it is, it constitutes poor taste for any man to speak contemptuously of any other. Who knows — a little turn of circumstances may make the critic as bad as the criminal.

The Change Is Apparent

These are dramatic times in Washington, full of intrigue, derring-do and swordplay. The White House and the Congress, locked in showy combat, dominate the daily news. No one has been paying much attention to the Supreme Court, but a perceptive historian, looking for the story that truly matters, will find it in the marble halls of First Street.

With every week that passes, it becomes more evident that Richard Nixon is succeeding in one of his great endeavors. With the nomination of Warren Earl Burger to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren, Nixon set out four years ago this spring, deliberately and purposefully, to change the direction of our fundamental law. As this term of court nears its halfway mark, with 60 opinions handed down, that change no longer can be doubted.

Nixon's four appointees—Burger, Blackmun, Powell and Rehnquist—have not formed an absolutely monolithic block. In cases of relatively less importance, they often have divided among themselves. But in the big cases, the cases that turn on the great pivot points of the Warren years, the four horsemen are holding firmly to the one concept that Nixon has sought to restore. That is the concept of judicial restraint.

We saw this most clearly on March 21, when the Court divided 5-4 on the issue of school finance. Like so many cases in the Warren years, the case presented a question arising out of the Fourteenth Amendment. That amendment says that no State may deny to persons within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Superficially, at least, the facts were not in doubt. One school district in San Antonio, poor in real estate values, was receiving $356 per pupil; a wealthy suburban district was receiving $594. Were the districts getting "equal protection"?

Such disparities, of course, are not confined to San Antonio or to Texas. In virtually every city and State across the nation, where real estate taxation is the principal support of public education, the same picture obtains. The test suits that culminated in the San Antonio case began in California, where plaintiff John A. Serrano gave his name to a legal doctrine holding that such inequalities violate the Fourteenth Amendment.

But on March 21, in a superbly reasoned opinion by Justice Lewis F. Powell, the four Nixon appointees (joined by Justice Potter Stewart) flatly rejected the Serrano doctrine. The Fourteenth Amendment in the majority's view, never was intended to guarantee a perfect equality in public services. The pupils in the poor district were not being denied an education; they were receiving the same twelve years of free schooling, with the same free textbooks and the same teacher-salary scale, provided throughout the State. The natural inequalities of wealth in our society, the majority concluded, are not to be nullified by court decree.

In a passionate dissent, Justice Thurgood Marshall denounced the majority opinion as "an abrupt departure from the mainstream of recent State and Federal court decision." Marshall, Douglas, Brennan and White were eager to pursue the old activist line; they wanted a judicial earthquake that would tear old institutions down and raise new landmarks up.

But when the dust had

To the editor:

I would like to protest the anti-gun article you printed. Do you have any idea how many people died last week because a drunkard was on the road? How many addicts died of an overdose of drugs? How many people were killed of knife wounds inflicted by nervous robbers? The true facts were left out.

The liberal pseudo-intellectuals of Washington are once again trying to shove socialism in our face.

A certain senator, Ted Kennedy, the same one that knows exactly what went on with Miss Mary Jo Koppeckni at Chapequinnick, is the leader of the whole mess. This "civil rights crusader" is trying to repeal the Bill of Rights, starting with Article II, which states the right of the people to keep and bear arms will not be infringed. He evidently doesn't believe in the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, or America.

You have heard our ex-POW's say that the "anti-war" people were the ones that prolonged the war. This ultra liberal was the head of it.

Mr. Kennedy supported the "$1,000" man, McGovern. He controls Mass. Don't let him control you!

If you are against this socialist bond being thrown around the necks of the taxpayers of America, write the newspapers and force them to stop printing socialist indoctrination articles in the form of anti-firearms ads and articles. Write your Congressmen, Jesse Helms or Sam Erwin and tell them to, instead of adding more to the Federal Firearms Act of 1968, repeal it and reenact the only sensible law we ever had, the Gun Control Act of 1938. Act now for tomorrow may be too late.

Words That Wound

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a newspaper columnist gets tired of hearing: "What else do you do for a living besides write a column?" "Can you help me get a couple of passes to the hockey game?"

"I'm much too busy myself to read what you write, but my wife says that now and then she likes your stuff."

HAL BOYLE

"I already have trouble enough justifying your salary to the business department. If you want a new swivel chair, you'd better buy it yourself."

"Where do you get most of your ideas, anyway — at clearance sales?"

"Do you call Nixon or does he call you?"

"I suppose whenever they get a big grocery ad, you get thrown out of the paper. Right?"

"I guess with a name like yours — C. Bascom Prunehup — there isn't much else you could do but write a column. But I think you're a long way from making it a household word."

"Hey, Bascom, look intelligent — the boss is on his way in."

"What makes you such an authority on everything? You never met a payroll in your life."

"When you go to lunch, do you ever pick up your own check?"

"Why do you guys always feel you have to find fault with something? If you were running it, the world would be in an even bigger mess."

"I read your column last night. What were you trying to say?"

"Yes, that's our famous columnist over there — the guy trying to cage a cigarette from the janitor. The janitor is the one in the clean shirt."

"It's much easier to understand Bascom's column if you simply hum 'Onward, Christian Soldiers' while you read it."

"I used to write a column for our high school newspaper. It isn't easy, is it?"

East Carolina Teachers College baseball team play its first game of the season with Campbell College here Wednesday on the college field. Bleachers are now being built for the observers.

Miss Mary Wall Bost has forged to the front as the champion jigsaw puzzle assembler of the community. She captured the honor in assembling a one-thousand-piece puzzle in four hours in the windows of Heber Forbes Store last Saturday. The puzzle was 4½ by 5½ feet large and when completed, advertised two pictures to be shown at the State Theatre this week, "King of the Jungle" and "Woman Accused."

Prayer Issue Is Taking Shape

By GENE BERNAHRT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new battle over the complex issue of prayer in public schools is shaping up in Congress.

Republican Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, Pa., and Howard H. Baker Jr., Tenn., have introduced legislation to amend the Constitution to permit "voluntary prayer" in public schools. "We decided to start the fight in the Senate this time because of the more flexible rules there," said Rep. Chalmers Wylie, of Ohio, who led a losing effort in 1971 to win House passage of a nearly identical amendment.

Under Senate rules, the Schweiker-Baker forces can tack their proposed amendment onto any convenient bill on the floor.

An amendment to the Constitution must be approved by a two-thirds vote in both the Senate and the House and then ratified by three-fourths of the state legislatures.

The Senate last voted on a prayer amendment Oct. 13, 1970—approving it by a 50-20 vote as part of the proposed constitutional amendment to give women equal rights. The prayer provision, however, was deleted by a House-Senate conference committee.

Some private groups, such as the Prayer Campaign Committee led by Mrs. Ben Ruhlin of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, are optimistic.

"If we had had more time to talk to members on the basis of voluntary prayer we would have won it" in 1971, said Mrs. Ruhlin. "Now we have the time and I'm confident of victory."

Her group and others, such as the Back to God Movement and Citizens for Public Prayer, have already started an intensive lobbying effort among senators.

The issue has been before Congress since the Supreme Court voted 8 to 1 in 1962 to outlaw a state-prescribed prayer used in New York public schools, and again in 1963 when the court said a state could not require bible reading or recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

"The vast majority of people want prayer returned to our public schools and they cannot understand why their elected officials remain unresponsive," said Schweiker when he introduced his amendment last Tuesday.

The measure was co-sponsored, in addition to Baker, by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, and Sens. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

The key portion of the two-paragraph Schweiker-Baker amendment reads: "Nothing contained in this Constitution shall prohibit the several states and the District constituting the seat of government of the United States from providing for voluntary prayer in the public schools of that jurisdiction, nor shall it abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled in any public building to participate in voluntary prayer."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices plummeted for the third session in a row today, and some analysts pinned the decline on investor concern over inflation.

Others called it a technical reaction to the market's four-day rally last week.
 At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had slipped 11.13 points to 925.05. Declines held almost a 3-to-1 lead over advances in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,400 common stocks had slipped .49 to 58.40 at 11 a.m., while the price-change index on the American Stock Exchange had dropped .04 points to 24.28.

The Dow has plunged nearly 24 points since Friday, triggered by investor disappointment over President Nixon's economic speech Thursday night.

Martin Marietta, steady at 18, topped the active issues on the Big Board. Atlantic Richfield, which took a beating Monday after the Supreme Court refused to overturn a lower court ban on the transatlantic pipeline, continued to decline and was down 1 1/2 to 72 1/2.

Auto industry stocks were lower, despite industry reports of a strong gain in March production.

Freight Train Stuck In Mud

OCILLA, Ga. (AP) — A Seaboard Coast Line freight train became stuck in the mud near here today.
 Heavy rains caused a mud slide over a portion of the tracks about two miles south of this south Georgia community, and the train became bogged down and unable to move.
 Track clearing crews moved in and began digging the train out and it was expected to continue on its way later in the day.

No Repayment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The families of five POWs once listed as dead will not have to repay insurance settlements of $10,000 each that they received on the lives of the servicemen.
 The Veterans Administration said Monday that it and the insurance companies that made the payments had decided not to attempt to recover the money paid to wives or parents of the men.
 Thomas Kiernan, VA director of insurance service, said most of the recipients probably had spent the money.

Try To Plug Secret Leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate investigations committee, acting to plug a flood of leaked information, said today it will hold no more secret sessions with convicted Watergate spy James W. McCord Jr.
 All further interviews with McCord will be conducted by the committee staff at undisclosed times and places with a view to beginning open hearings within 10 days to two weeks, a committee spokesman said.
 A secret session scheduled with McCord Wednesday before the full committee was canceled.
 Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said his panel does not expect to hold private formal sessions with any other witness.
 Ervin told a news conference there are "indications" that either McCord or his attorney, Bernard Fensterwald, may have been the sources of the leaks which triggered newspaper stories on what McCord told the committee in private last Wednesday.

Meat Boycott In Canada, Too

TORONTO (AP) — A boycott of meat is under way in Canada and cattleman Bill Wolf says already it is costing him money.
 The boycott sponsored by a group called Women Against Soaring Prices began Saturday.
 Wolf said Monday he telephoned Margaret Rouble, chairman of the group, to say the boycott may drive farmers out of business and send meat prices skyrocketing.
 "Since the boycott talks began the market price of beef has dropped two cents a pound," he said. "On my 300 head, that means $6,000."
 But Mrs. Rouble said her group still plans on boycotting stores all this week and every Tuesday and Thursday until prices drop.
 Farmers kept their cattle away from market Monday on a scale not seen in Ontario in more than 30 years.

Lentz Decided To Hire Hawke

RALEIGH (AP) — Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz said Monday he—not Gov. Jim Holshouser—decided to hire Jack Hawke as assistant secretary.
 Lentz said he has not yet determined Hawke's "specific requirements or assignment."
 Hawke, a Raleigh businessman, was narrowly defeated in November by Democrat Ike Andrews in the 4th Congressional District race.
 Lentz spoke at his first news conference since assuming the transportation post in January.
 In other matters, he said he had "been asked to input" into the governor's plans for highway department reorganization.
 Lentz said the governor's proposal would be introduced in the General Assembly soon.

Exempted From Meat Ceilings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council said today small grocery stores with annual sales or revenue of less than $100,000 are exempt from the meat price ceilings announced last week by President Nixon.
 A spokesman for the council acknowledged that the original announcement of the ceiling regulations might have been misleading on this point, as the exemption was not made clear.
 However, the spokesman said, the ceiling still will cover most neighborhood groceries, as well as supermarkets. The spokesman said all but the very smallest groceries have sales or revenue exceeding $100,000.

 Lease agreements were signed with the Harrison heirs on property located on the south side of Main Street, and on the Russell Griffin property, the former location of a tobacco warehouse. Both are for parking purposes.
 An ordinance to limit parking to two hours on Main, Washington and South Smithwick Street was approved; and another ordinance, Blue Law one, was set for a later public hearing.

 settled, Powell's coll restraint emerged as clearly the better and wiser course of law. "We are unwilling," he wrote, "to assume for ourselves a level of wisdom superior to that of legislators, scholars, and educational authorities in 49 States, especially where the alternatives proposed are only recently conceived and nowhere yet tested."
 The majority, applying old rules of constitutional construction, had no doubt of its position as a matter of law. But beyond this, as Powell observed in his final paragraph, the practical consequences that would have resulted from upholding the Serrano doctrine "serve to highlight the wisdom of the traditional limitations on this Court's function. The consideration and initiation of fundamental reforms with respect to State taxation and education are matters reserved for the legislative processes of the various States, and we do no violence to the values of federalism and separation of powers by staying our hand."

Varsity-Alumni Game Said Off

There will be no spring football game at East Carolina University, an informed source told The Daily Reflector late yesterday.

A disagreement over the time of the game led to the cancellation of the contest by the school's athletic director and athletic council, the source said.

Clarence Stasavich, athletic director, said he had no comment to make on the report.

Sonny Randle, head football coach, admitted that it appeared at this time as if there would be no game. "We wanted the game shifted from the night time (7:30 p.m.) to an afternoon time (2 p.m.) to allow three of our players who are also taking part in track to participate in an East Carolina meet against Furman and N.C. State in Raleigh that night. I made a request that the game be changed, and this morning I got a letter saying there would be no game played with the Alumni."

Randle became the first coach at East Carolina to play a varsity-alumni game when it was originated last season for the spring game, which had been played as an intersquad game in the past. A second varsity-alumni game had been scheduled for this year, and members of former teams had been contacted to play this spring. The game had been set for Saturday, April 14.

"But apparently we won't be playing," Randle said. "And we don't have the numbers to play an intersquad game this year because of the number of injuries we've had this spring. We have enough to play another team, but not ourselves."

The Pirates are currently three-fifths through their spring drills, and will wind up on April 14, whether the game is played or not.

Greene Central Takes Four-Way Track Meet

DEEP RUN — Greene Central High School outpointed three other schools in a quadrangular track meet held here yesterday. The Rams finished the meet with 107½ points.

Host South Lenoir was second with 60 points, while Richlands had 53½ and North Lenoir trailed with 29.

The Rams, although off to a slow start in the victory parade, came through with nine by the time the meet was over, including both relays. South Lenoir won three events, while North Lenoir and Richlands each took two.

There were only two double winners in the meet. Greene Central's Alvin Brown won the 220-yard dash and the long jump and shared first place in the low hurdles. Teammate Jerome Sheppard tied with him for that event, and also won the high jump. Fordham of North Lenoir was the other full-double winner, taking the 100-yard dash and the triple jump.

Greene Central's next outing will be Wednesday, when the Rams play host to North Pitt and Southern Nash.

Summary:
Triple jump: Fordham (NL) 41-0.
Mile: Hill (SL) 4:46.5; McMillan (GC) 5:03.7; Cox (R) 5:05.3; Carraway (GC) 5:07.3; Williams (GC) 5:18.3.

The Richmond Spiders took advantage of East Carolina University's mental mistakes and eased past them, 1-0, here yesterday afternoon.

The loss was the first in the Southern Conference for the Pirates, and knocked them from atop the league. It also snapped a six game winning streak, and left their overall mark at 7-2. They are 2-1 within the league.

The Pirates tumbled to third place in the conference because of the loss, as Appalachian, now 2-0, and Richmond, 1-0, moved past them. They'll next have a chance to redeem themselves on Sunday, when they travel to Boone to meet the Mountaineers.

The Bucs, apparently content that the game was in the bag, seemed to just go through the motions against the Spiders, as mistakes plagued them all afternoon. Baserunning mistakes cost them scoring opportunities, and a balk by pitcher Tommy Toms cost them the winning run.

Toms held Richmond in check for the first four innings, allowing only one baserunner, and then getting him in a double play. In the fifth, the Spiders began to get to him, getting two hits, the second with two away before Toms fanned the final batter.

It was in the sixth, however, that the mistake cost the Bucs a run. Steve Gordon led off with a single to right, and Don Trevillian, attempting to bunt, ended up on first with a single, as the Bucs got no one. Ken Francisco then sacrificed them up, putting men on second and third.

Toms was then called for a balk by plate umpire Malcom Sykes. Sykes called his for separating his hands after getting the signal, and that brought Gordon over with the lone run of the day. Toms went on to retire the side on a strikeout and a foul-fly, but the damage had been done.

The Spiders threatened again in the seventh and eighth. A walk, a sacrifice and an intentional walk put two on in the seventh, but two strikeouts ended that threat. And in the eighth, a two-out single and a stolen base moved Bob Mitchell into scoring position but no damage was done.

Toms, who got his first loss against three wins, didn't pitch badly, scattering six hits, walking two, one of them intentionally, and striking out 11.

His opposite, Roger Hatcher, was almost as effective. His shutout also had six hits, two walks, but only six strikeouts. But his teammates helped out in alert fielding as the Bucs staggered through the game.

East Carolina's first threat came in the third inning when Toms led off with a single. Courtesy runner Lin Spears was sacrificed to second but two straight fly balls ended the inning.

The Bucs got a chance again in the fifth when Jeff Beaton reached on an error and stole second, but died there.

Perhaps the best chance however, came in the sixth. Jimmy Paige led off with a walk and Ron Staggs singled him to third. Troy Eason hit back to second, however, and the Spiders got a double play on him and Staggs, while Paige made no effort to try and score. Another ground ball ended the inning.

Another chance went by the boards in the seventh. Mike Hogan singled and Ronnie Leggett was hit by a pitch, setting up another opportunity. But Hogan got himself picked off second base and a strikeout and a popup ended it.

Once more, in the eighth, the Bucs had the chance. Mike Bradshaw beat out an infield hit

Brown Unsure About Future

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
UNIONDALE, N. Y. (AP) — Young Larry Brown, the American Basketball Association's Coach of the Year for the 1972-73 season, isn't sure he will continue as head coach of the Carolina Cougars.

"I didn't want to be a pro coach," Brown explained Monday after receiving the honor in his first season on the job. "I don't know if I'm in the right area. I always wanted to be a college coach."

The 32-year-old Brown, the youngest coach in pro basketball and in the midst of a "multi-year" contract with the Cougars, said he would not make a decision on his future until after the ABA playoffs.

Currently, Carolina, the ABA Eastern Division regular-season champion with a 57-27 record, and the New York Nets, fourth-place finishers with a 30-54 mark including only three victories in 11 games against the Cougars, are tied 1-1 in their best-of-seven opening-round series. They play game No. 3 tonight at the Nassau Coliseum.

Brown, an overwhelming winner of the Coach of the Year award, receiving eight of 10 votes from his colleagues, said, "It was something I didn't think about at the beginning of the season and something I didn't expect."

Virginia's Al Bianchi and Denver's Alex Hannum got the other votes.

Brown is the second straight rookie coach to win the honor. Dallas' Tom Nissalke, who jumped the Chaparrals after the 1971-72 season for the head coaching job with Seattle of the National Basketball Association, then was fired by the SuperSonics midway through the season, won the ABA award last year.

Brown indicated that coaching always has been his goal—but on the college level.

He was a two-time all-Atlantic Coast Conference player during his collegiate days at the University of North Carolina. Then, after three years of AAU basketball with the Akron Goodyears and the 1964 U.S. Olympic team, he became an assistant at his alma mater in 1966.

The following year, the ABA was formed and Brown joined the New Orleans Buccaneers, playing with four other teams before retiring as a player after last season and succeeding in deposing Tom Meschery as Cougars' coach.

In his first season, he took a club that never had a winning record and finished 33 games behind first-place Kentucky in the East last season, to the division title. The surprising Cougars, employing a running offense and an unusual pressing trap defense introduced by Brown, bolted into the East lead at the outset and held off the Colonels, finishing one game ahead of Kentucky.

Brown said he felt he had a good relationship with the Cougars' top officials, and there would not be any complications if he decided to forego the remaining years of his contract and accept a college job. He declined to say whether he had received any collegiate offers as yet.

McRae's Shortened Swing Leads Kansas City To Win Over Cards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kansas City's Hal McRae tried to send the ball careening into the stands whenever he stepped up to the plate. Unfortunately, his lusty swings were missing the target. Then he shortened his swing.

"I hit a couple of balls deep earlier in the spring and I got carried away," McRae recalled. "I guess I lost my head for a while."

McRae was advised to work on regaining his short stroke and he found it in time to wallop three doubles and a single, driving in three runs Monday as the Royals registered a 7-2 exhibition baseball victory Monday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other games Monday, Montreal whipped Boston 5-1, the Chicago White Sox defeated Texas 8-4, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 6-4, Oakland battered California 8-3, the Chicago Cubs clobbered Cleveland 15-2 and San Diego upended Milwaukee 5-3.

Elsewhere, Baltimore beat Atlanta 7-3, the New York Mets blanked the New York Yankees 5-0, Detroit triumphed over Cincinnati 4-1, Minnesota beat Houston 3-0 and San Francisco edged Los Angeles 3-2.

The Cubs smothered the Indians under a 22-hit onslaught but may have lost third baseman Ron Santo who was struck in the wrist by a pitch. Santo was taken to a hospital for X-rays but the results were not immediately known.

Detroit right-hander Joe Coleman and southpaw John Hiller combined for a three hitter and Al Kaline and Bill Freehan provided the Tigers' offensive punch with two hits each.

Dave Hilton lashed a two-run homer in the first inning that started the Padres en route to victory.

The Orioles scored three runs in the third inning off Gary Gentry, ending the Atlanta's hurler's 19-inning scoreless streak.

Jon Hart hit a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth as the Giants nipped the Dodgers behind pitcher Tom Bradley, who went the distance for Los Angeles.

Joe Decker led a trio of Minnesota pitchers who limited Houston to three singles as the Twins scored in the first on Gary Terrell's double, an error and sacrifice by Dan Monzon and added runs in the seventh and ninth innings.

Dal Maxvill spearheaded an 11-hit Oakland barrage by hitting three consecutive singles and driving in two runs.

John Jeter drove in four runs for the White Sox with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Veteran Bob Bailey hit his first homer of the exhibition season and rookie Pepe Magual cracked his fourth as the Expos took an early lead with single runs in four of the first six innings.

The Pirates stunned rookie righthander Larry Christenson for six runs and seven hits in the first three innings and then survived a Philadelphia rally highlighted by Greg Luzinski's solo homer.

John Milner and Wayne Garrett hit home runs in support of John Matlack's five-hit pitching as the Mets closed a two-game sweep over the Yankees.

Gene Sarazen Feels Nicklaus Is Four Strokes Up Before The Start

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Old Gene Sarazen took a long, hard look at the Masters' today—his 34th, dating back 40 years—and all he could see was the awesome presence of Jack Nicklaus.

"How can you beat him?" asked the saucy, 71-year-old squire from Florida's Marco Island. "He's 16 up on the field before he starts. There are four par five holes and he's the only man who can depend on reaching them all in two."

"Besides that, he has a computer for a brain. Nicklaus not only outthinks but he out-thinks every other player in golf. He has to play lousy to lose. If he's just average, he wins. If he's on top of his game, he makes it a runaway."

Sarazen, who with Nicklaus, Ben Hogan and Gary Player makes up that elite club of players who have won every major championship, led the small early advance guard here for the 37th Masters Championship.

The heavily favored Nicklaus, who practiced Sunday, took the day off Monday. Most of the other top tour players—Lee Trevino, Bill Casper, Arnold Palmer—were held over an extra day at Greensboro, N.C., where Chi Chi Rodriguez won the rain-interrupted pre-Masters feature.

Old Gene, still wearing brown jacket and familiar knickers and as glib as ever, relaxed under Augusta National's spreading white oak, back of the Colonial Club House, and unburdened himself of opinions about his favorite game—past, present and future.

"It's a lot different these days," Sarazen said. "Once all the players gathered under this tree and talked. Now you can't get close to a player to make a deal. You have to talk to his lawyer, business agent and public relations man."

"Money is great, but I think it's made most of the fellows soft. Bill Casper used to never say more than two words. Now he is all smiles and good cheer. Julius Boros goes around grinning and talking about fishing."

"Where is that killer instinct? Nobody seems to have it any more—nobody except Nicklaus and a few others. When this tournament starts, he locks himself in an isolation booth. He won't talk to anybody—not even his wife."

Nicklaus, 33, already winner of four Masters, will be attempting to crack the late Bob Jones' record of 13 major titles. He is a 4-1 favorite in an international field of 85 that includes 60 top U.S. pros, seven amateurs and 18 foreign players, two of them amateurs.

make decisions. That's where Nicklaus excels. He makes decisions."

Like a grizzled old handicapper at a race track, Sarazen leaned against the trunk of the oak and gave his own private rundown on some of the main contenders in the 1973 field:

Lee Trevino—"I don't give him much chance. He kids himself if he thinks he hits the ball high enough for this course."

Tom Weiskopf—"The only man who can hit even with Nicklaus. But if the pin was in the trap, he'd go for it. Too bold and too temperamental."

Chi Chi Rodriguez—"Don't count that win at Greensboro. That was no real test, playing winter rules and all that. This is a different tournament."

Arnold Palmer—"He has more of a killer instinct than anybody, even Nicklaus. But his swing isn't natural. He has to work too hard for what he gets."

Sam Snead—"These greens are too nerve-wracking. They'll have Sam ready for a straight jacket."

Bill Casper—"Like Palmer, he's over 40 and has won a million dollars. Not tough and hungry enough."

Bruce Crampton—"Watch out for this Australian. He's having a good year. Like Nicklaus, he's always thinking."

Buddy Allin—"If a dark horse should win—and it's possible if Nicklaus has a bad tournament—this is the boy to watch. He's young and determined."

Vinnie Giles—"The best of the rookies. A lot of promise. I am disappointed in some of the other newcomers."

Sarazen said recent heavy rains should increase Nicklaus' built-in advantage over his rivals.

"The course is so soggy that there is practically no roll at all," the old squire added. "Shots will be all carry. This is a long hitter's course and Nicklaus is the longest hitter of them all."

Star Victory Proves Point

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars' Coach LaDell Andersen feels Monday night's first-round American Basketball Association victory over San Diego was more than a playoff triumph.

The 107-93 conquest was a confirmation of his long-held theory that a fast-breaking team is a winning team.

"Our win was just a case of a fast break and a good defense," the Stars' coach said following his team's first post-season game. "It's a ball-control game."

Veteran Zelmo Beaty did his share of controlling. The agile center pumped in 25 points and pulled down 14 rebounds, all on two of the weakest knees in pro basketball.

Teammate Ron Boone, a reserve guard through most of the season, hit 27 points for the game's scoring honors. Jimmy Jones added 19 for the Western Division champions.

Stew Johnson led the Conquistadors with 22 points and Chuck Williams had 20. Red Robbins dropped in 18 for San Diego.

The two teams play here again Wednesday night and then move to San Diego for games three and four on Saturday and Sunday.

The other ABA first-round playoffs swing back into action tonight. In the East Division, the Carolina Cougars face the Nets in New York and the Kentucky Colonels visit the Virginia Squires in Norfolk. In the West's other battle, the Denver Rockets host the defending ABA champion Indiana Pacers.

The National Basketball Association playoffs don't resume until Wednesday night when, in Eastern Conference play, the New York Knicks take their 2-0 lead into Baltimore against the Bullets and the Boston Celtics try to make it two in a row against the Hawks in Atlanta.

In the Western Conference, the Milwaukee Bucks and Golden State Warriors, tied 1-1, play game No. 3 Thursday night in Oakland and, on Friday, the Los Angeles Lakers try to increase their 2-0 lead over the Bulls in Chicago.

Chi Chi Says Jack Favored

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Little Chi Chi Rodriguez has no illusions about extending his winning streak to two with a victory in the famed Masters this weekend.

"Jack Nicklaus will be there," Chi Chi explained.

"When Jack takes a week off (as he did in the Greater Greensboro Open), it's anybody's tournament," Rodriguez said Monday after his one-stroke victory over Lou Graham and Ken Still.

"But Augusta National (the site of the Masters) was made for Jack Nicklaus and Jack Nicklaus was made for Augusta National."

The 37-year-old Rodriguez, down to a wiry 120 pounds because of a diet he "hopes will help me live to be 140 years old," came from two strokes off the pace with a five-under-par 66 in the rain-delayed final and picked up $42,000 for his seventh tour triumph in 14 years on the pro tour.

He had a 72 hole total of 267, 17 under par on the squishy, water-logged 7,021 yard Sedgewick Country Club course. Graham, who had a final 69, was one stroke away for the third week in a row. He tied at 268 with Ken Still, who bolted into contention with a last-round 64 that included 11 one-putt greens.

Rodriguez and the rest of the field that is eligible for the Masters were delayed one day in getting to Augusta, Ga.—where Nicklaus has been practicing for a week—by the rains that plagued the tournament, caused two postponements and left the course a soggy, gooey quagmire.

Saturday's round was washed out by a 1.5 inch rain. A double round of 36 holes was scheduled for Sunday, but only half of it could be played and the final round was held over until Monday.

Rodriguez started the final round two strokes back of co-leaders Graham and Billy Casper. Casper and Graham both encountered trouble on the front nine, despite rules that allowed all players to lift, clean and place the ball in the fairway and through the green, and Chi Chi stormed past them on a string of three consecutive birdies starting on the seventh hole.

Rodriguez came within two feet of making an ace on the seventh, chipped in for a birdie from 25-30 feet on the eighth and reached the par five ninth in two.

That gave the little man from Puerto Rico a one stroke margin after a scramble that once saw five players sharing the lead. He built the margin to two with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole and took a cautious but meaningless bogey on the final hole.

Behind Graham and Still came Casper and veteran Gay Brewer, tied at 270. Brewer, who has played extremely well this year and is a strong contender at Augusta, closed with a seven-under-par 64. Casper matched par 71.

Bobby Nichols was along at 271 with Doug Sanders, Rod Funseth and Lee Elder at 272. Elder needed to win to become the first black player to compete in the Masters. He once got within one stroke on the mild, windy final day, but finished with a 68 and so missed his chance at qualifying.

Sam Snead, who first won the Greensboro tournament in 1938, was among the leaders for the first three rounds but slipped back to par 71 and a tie for 12th at 274.

Still, the 60-year-old marvel beat Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino by two strokes. They tied at 276, Palmer with a closing 69 and Trevino 70.

Trevino, however, won $2,090 to become the first player to go past $100,000 in winnings this season. He goes into the Masters as the season's leading money winner with $100,635.

Rodriguez, who abandoned his role as the tour clown two years ago to concentrate more strongly on his game, said he would "dedicate this win to Roberto Clemente. I thought about him on every putt I hit."

Both are Puerto Ricans. Clemente, a Hall of Fame outfielder with Pittsburgh, was killed in a plane crash last Dec. 31 while taking supplies to victims of an earthquake in Nicaragua.

Jaguars Win, 4-2

WILLIAMSTON—Farmville Central downed Williamston 4-2, in a tennis match held last night.

The Jaguars won three of the five singles matches, and took the lone doubles match to win. The match was cut short because of a power failure, knocking out one of the singles and two of the doubles events.

Farmville Central is now 3-4 overall, and travels to Tarboro on Wednesday.

Summary:

Chuck Finklea (FC) defeated Stuart Spruill, 6-3, 6-3.

Benny Hopkins (W) defeated Mike Barnett, 6-1, 6-1.

Jeff Mangum (W) defeated Tommy Holloman, 6-3, 7-5.

Bill Johnston (FC) defeated Andy Jenkins, 6-4, 6-2.

David Patterson (FC) defeated Tim Griffin, 6-0, 6-0.

Finklea-Patterson (FC) defeated Hopkins-Spruill, 14-12.

and William and Mary the nightcap 3-0.

VMI and The Citadel wound up tied for seventh at 0-2.

A number of the rained-out weekend games will be made up only if they are essential to decide the conference championship.

Richmond's only run off Toms came on a balk in the sixth inning.

Steve Gordon opened the inning for the Spiders with a single, took second on Don Trevillian's bunt single, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on the balk.

Toms and the Spiders' Roger Hatcher each allowed six hits.

Hatcher got out of trouble in the sixth with runners on first and third by throwing a double play pitch and then getting an infield out.

With runners on first and second and none out in the seventh, he picked a runner off second, struck out the next hitter and got the third on a pop-up.

Richmond is now 4-2 over-all and Hatcher has not allowed a run in the 16 innings he's pitched.

Appalachian In Southern Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
East Carolina pitchers had given up just two runs in their last six games, all victories, and the Pirates had run up a 7-1 over-all record while winning the only two Southern Conference baseball games played—until Monday.

Pirate ace Tommy Toms allowed just one run Monday, but that one run was enough to give Richmond's defending champion Spiders a 1-0 victory as conference teams finally got untracked after a weekend that saw rain wash out seven scheduled games.

Appalachian State's Mountaineers took over the league lead at 2-0 with 8-2 and 4-1 victories over The Citadel's Bulldogs, while Richmond at 1-0 is the only other team unbeaten inside the circuit.

After being the victims of a pair of shutouts a week ago at the hands of East Carolina, Furman's Paladins bounced back into contention with a pair of whitewash jobs of their own over Virginia Military's Keydets, 3-0 and 7-0.

That left the Paladins, 2-2, tied for fourth behind East Carolina, 2-1, with William and Mary's Indians and Davidson's Wildcats, 1-1.

The Indians and Wildcats split a Monday doubleheader, Davidson taking the opener 4-1

Bowl Site To Be Set

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Selection of a site for Super Bowl IX occupied the National Football League club officials today, one day after the group decided to begin steps to expand the 26-member league.

New Orleans, Miami and Los Angeles were scheduled to make a pitch for the 1975 post-season spectacular between the two conference champions. Insiders indicated New Orleans, with a new stadium to open in 1974, had a slight edge in the selection.

Birmingham, Ala., and Jacksonville, Fla., were scheduled to make presentations for the 1975 Pro Bowl contest. But league officials said a decision on the site was not expected before Wednesday.

Pete Rozelle, league commissioner, who earlier Monday said expansion was being played down, announced later in the day he was forming a four-member committee to proceed "with deliberate speed."

Rozelle, establishing no specific timetable, said owners of the 26 clubs "generally were pro-expansion in a very healthy discussion."

He said the committee, to be named before the week-long meetings are completed, would develop criteria for a market research group and report to club owners at their meeting in New York in June.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Greensboro Coliseum, which will host the 1974 National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball finals, received more than 20,000 pieces of mail for ticket orders Monday.

The first day's mail—orders could not be accepted before April 1—assured a sell-out of coliseum's 15,400 seats.

The coliseum will hold a drawing to select approximately 2,200 orders which can be filled for 8,800 public seats. The remaining seats go to the four participating schools, the Basketball Coaches Association and the NCAA.

A "lottery" for the ticket orders is necessary because there is no timed postmark in the new U.S. Postal Service. Officials said they would make the drawing from all orders postmarked "April 1 A.M."

Officials said about 1,000 special delivery orders and 500 registered mail orders will be put into the lottery with all the others.

The 'Worry Clinic' Audibility One Of Key Assets

William Buckley is noted for his superb wit and debating skill, so I never miss hearing him if I am in his area. But the weak microphone left hundreds of his audience disappointed. So test your auditorium in advance!

He can cut his liberal opponents to size with deft verbal thrusts which they may not even comprehend till 24 hours later! So I managed to get my typing done that day in time to drive 35 miles for the Buckley address. It was scheduled at 8 p.m., so we arrived 30 minutes early. Even so, we couldn't get a seat or even see the podium because of the crowds that stood in the doors.

Ultimately, we did manage to peek over the shoulders of a group of women ahead of us and saw him at the podium. Alas, the microphone power was so reduced that none of us in the rear of the hall could hear! Even the seated audience laughed feebly at some of his superb humor, for they were literally straining their ears and meanwhile trying to lipread.

So I use this case today to impress upon all Speech Department, as well as the orators, that the FIRST virtue of any platform address is AUDIBILITY! Even a modern Demosthenes falls flat if he can't be heard!

A similar cardinal axiom of salesmanship states: "Unless the prospect UNDERSTANDS what you are saying, he will not buy." Bill Buckley normally speaks in a low key, conversational vein, as on TV and at roundtable seminars where 25 may be present.

So he expected the microphone and loud speaker system to magnify his voice till everybody in the auditorium (and even out in the lobby) should have been able to hear him clearly.

This Wabash College theater was a beautiful setting for Buckley and the college, plus townspeople, gave him a vociferous greeting. Billy Graham, Oral Roberts and other professional orators who speak loudly, could have handled 1,000 people even without an amplifying system. And in my many lectures around the country, I usually try to speak so the crowd can hear, even if the microphone isn't working. Thus, I prefer to let the engineer turn down the microphone, if need be, for I don't take a chance on inaudibility.

Mrs. Crane and I stood in the back for 15 minutes and never could distinguish a word that Buckley had uttered.

So we reluctantly joined many others who turned away and went home. Colleges, when you import high priced speakers, singers and other platform artists, be sure you test your halls beforehand! And send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Electronic Eyes For Coal Mine

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — To detect perilous conditions and prevent mine disaster, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine. The experimental system is designed to summon miners from their work places before dangerous conditions produce noticeable signs of crisis. Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building, where a computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger. Construction costs for the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel complex ran around $20 million.

Red China Has Own Mental Health System

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
PEKING, China (AP) — The Chinese have their own way of trying to nip some emotional or mental health problems in the bud, says an expert on Chinese medicine.

"Many tensions can be relaxed through 'life' meetings held by the street or other neighborhood units in rural communes or cities, to thrash out personal or emotional problems in a friendly way," says Dr. Ma Hai-tech, an American expatriate who has spent 40 years in China.

Born George Hatem in Buffalo, N.Y., he received his M.D. degree in the United States, specializing in dermatology before coming to China in 1933.

"Various hurts and animosities can be dealt with early," Ma said in an interview. "These 'life' meetings can involve personal affairs, discussions of family problems, or relationships with neighbors. You could voluntarily bring up some personal problems. But if you didn't introduce something that was really bothering you, others might because they had noticed your behavior or attitudes.

"It is all discussed in a congenial way with no moralizing or stigma," Ma said.

"The community approach is part of the process. It is taken for granted you are part of it, part of the family, and there is a harmonization of the individual with the society."

The "life" meetings appear like some of the so-called encounter groups in the United States or other types of group discussions, but with community solidarity begin a strong theme.

"There seems to be little mental illness in China," Ma said.

"There are only two institutions in Peking for mental illness, with only a couple of hundred beds each," he said.

Maybe, he says, a reason for the low incidence "is the way of life, the relationship between people, themselves, their families, and their work. This could contribute a lot toward being a more relaxed, friendly human being," he said.

Jobs are assured, he explained. So is medical care, the chance to go to school now, and there is far less emphasis on the concept of promotions and ambitions to get ahead of someone else.

Whether there might be higher mental or emotional stresses for Chinese who happened to be more individualistic was not explored.

When a group of 11 Americans visited the People's Republic of China recently, one late request made after arrival was to visit a mental hospital. It was one among numerous late suggestions from the visitors, but was not included in the itinerary, perhaps because all arrangements had been made for other appointments.

Mental hospitals in Peking and Shanghai were visited a year and a half ago by Dr. Victor Sidel, chief of the department of social medicine at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York, and his wife, Ruth, a social work supervisor with the comprehensive child care project at Albert Einstein.

The Sidel said patients are organized into divisions and are urged to take care of one another, with patients longest there helping the newcomers, with emphasis placed on self reliance "to struggle against their disease," and to try to understand themselves.

Drugs such as chlorpromazine, a calming agent, are used for the more severely ill, and a psychiatrist meets regularly with patients individually or in groups to discuss problems.

After discharge, the patient is supposed to receive help and emotional support from his neighbors. He may take medication at home.

The thoughts of Chairman Mao run through the whole mental health system, the Sidel said, with the purpose being to "arm the mind to fight disease," to cultivate the ability to recognize a fact, and distinguish between what is objective and what is subjective.

Chairmanned Tri-Sigma Day

Miss Wendy Willcox of Greenville was overall chairman of the Sigma Sigma Sigma Day held in Chapel Hill Saturday.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Tilton Willcox of Greenville.

A highlight of the program was the dedication of the pediatric intensive care unit at N.C. Memorial Hospital. Tri-Sigma's national philanthropy is a sustaining program for the care of children at this hospital.

It is named the Robbie Page Memorial fund in honor of the son of a former national president, Mrs. Mary Hastings Holloway Page. The child died at age five in 1951 of bulbar polio. Nationally, each member and pledge earns a minimum of $3 a year for the Robbie Page Memorial Fund.

DREDGING WILL BEGIN

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A contract for $854,064 to dredge 20 miles of the Matagorda Ship Channel has been awarded.

Col. Nolan C. Rhodes, district engineer of the Corps of Engineers, said work will restore the channel to authorized dimensions of 38 feet deep by 200 feet wide.

The bidding:
West North East South
4 ♦ Dble. Pass 4 ♥
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦
Altho North's double of West's preemptive four diamond bid is intended primarily for penalty, partner is permitted some latitude in leaving the double in.

South displayed good judgment in bidding four hearts for, with the favorable lie of the cards, West cannot be defeated on the deal. In fact, he can actually win 11 tricks, for North can do no more than cash out his two minor suit aces. If he does not take the ace of clubs promptly, West will be able to discard his two clubs eventually on his partner's long spades.

Against four hearts, West opened the king of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy. The ace of hearts was cashed and, when West showed out, discarding a diamond, East was revealed to hold a sure trump trick.

South's outlook was not very promising for, with two apparently inescapable losers in the red suits, he must hold his remaining loss to only one more trick.

A heart was led from dummy and when East played the nine, South covered with the jack to win the trick. The jack of clubs was put thru, West played the king and North the ace. Having overcome the first obstacle, South cashed his third high heart, the king, leaving the queen outstanding, and then proceeded to run the clubs. East followed for two more rounds; however, on the last club—the ten—he discarded a spade.

The moment of decision for South had arrived. He could lead a spade toward dummy's king, playing West for the ace. However, this prospect did not appear promising for, if West held that card in addition to the king of clubs and his diamond honors, he might have been expected to open the bidding with one diamond rather than make a preemptive call.

East's failure to ruff the fourth round of clubs provided further enlightenment to the declarer. It appeared to him that, if East had another diamond, it would have been routine for him to trump in and then return his partner's suit.

East's apparent reluctance to be on lead strongly suggested that he had no convenient exit once he was in. South, therefore, led a fourth round of hearts and awaited the result.

East won the trick with the queen of hearts and, having nothing left but spades, he could do no more than cash the ace of that suit, thereby establishing North's king for the fulfilling trick. South's losses on the deal consisted of one trick each in spades, hearts and diamonds.

Allot Sum To Publish Plans

The Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District has agreed to budget $600 of state funds to be used for the publication of the District Long Range Program.

Chairman Robert G. Little stated the publication will be pictorial review of the proposed conservation program for Pitt County for the next 10 years. In other business, the board prepared a budget request for the 1974 fiscal year to be presented to the Pitt County Commissioners. They also prepared a request for state matching funds to be presented to the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

The SCS has delivered 1,600 comic-type booklets on conservation, entitled "The Earth, Our Home in Space," to be used by sixth graders in the Greenville City Schools, Pitt County Schools, St. Raphael's School, St. Gabriel's School and Karl N. Pace Academy.

The board approved group application for the Markell Canal and the Cherry Canal.

The next board meeting will be held May 7.

Winterville Funds Go To Street Work

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Board of Aldermen last night agreed to spend their share of the Federal Revenue Sharing Fund for street improvement.

The town received approximately $14,000 from the fund during the 1972 year. The money will be paid quarterly this year and the amount will probably be based on the amount paid last year.

Board members approved Section A of the Northview Estates Subdivision, which includes the three lots facing Worthington Street. The property is located outside the town limits.

Approval was given to Bill Whitehurst, Winterville chief of police, to work with Board member Clinton Anderson on the county anti-drug program.

Approval was given to the junior English class at Conley High School to use the town facilities for a car wash on Saturday, April 14.

Lec Keeter and Mrs. Joyce Mills were appointed by Mayor Walter Dail to collect the names of interested citizens for appointment on the Winterville Recreation Commission. An entire new commission will be named.

Board members named a street within Jay's Trailer Court as Circle Drive. The street had not been named previously.

Babysitting Is Provided For Goers To Clinic

A babysitting service to allow parents of retarded children a free evening a week begins Friday at the ECU Developmental Evaluation Clinic, with hours from 6 to 10 p.m.

Sponsored by the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children, the service will be operated by ECU Special Education majors under the supervision of a specialist in the child development field. There will be one babysitter for every two children.

Besides the area for retarded children, there will be a room in which the brothers and sisters of these children may be cared for, Mrs. Carma Baggett of the ARC said.

Reservations must be made with Mrs. Baggett by Friday at 1 p.m., she said. She may be reached at either 758-6391 or 758-4361.

Robbers Stole Three TV Sets

Robbers stole three color television sets from Hudson Brothers Radio and TV Center at 2066 Greenville Blvd. early today.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a break-in was discovered at the building about 2:15 a.m. and three televisions were reported missing.

Entry to the building was gained by breaking through a glass front door.

Investigation of the theft is underway.

Names Linked To Pioneer Mills

ATLANTA (UPI) — Many pioneers in Atlanta built water-powered sawmills and gist mills along creeks and rivers. Roads leading to these mills took the names of the mill owners so Atlanta still has Moore's Mill Road, Tilly Mill Road, Henderson Mill Road, Howell Mill Road and Randall Mill Road.

REVIVAL SERVICES
AYDEN—The Rev. Timothy Worthington will conduct revival services Wednesday through Sunday at the Ayden Pentecostal Holiness Church.
Services will begin each night at 7:30 p.m.

International ECU Building Up Students Honored For Period

International students of E. C. U. were honored Sunday afternoon with a reception at Oakmont Baptist Church. Coming from 12 countries around the world, they mingled with the local church members in a global fellowship.

Guests were received at the door by the pastor of Oakmont, the Rev. Gordon E. Conklin, Mrs. Conklin, E. C. U. Vice-Chancellor and Dean Robert L. Holt and Mrs. Holt.

A massive arrangement of yellow rose of Texas and asparagus fern decorated the table in the foyer. From this focal point name tags were pinned on the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Herman G. Moeller and university students from Oakmont.

Guests were then invited by Dr. and Mrs. John Ball, teachers of the University Sunday School Class, into the church parlor for refreshments. At one end of the room the banquet table was spread. It was centered with a five-branch candelabrum with an epergne arrangement of variegated daffodils and yellow candles. Mrs. Tracy McLaurin poured punch here. Coffee was served from a side table by Mrs. James D. Hodge and Mrs. Bernard Vick. At the other end of the parlor and completing the spring motif was another large arrangement of mixed spring flowers flanked by two three-branch candelabra on the buffet.

Special guests in addition to the honored international students were E. C. U. Vice-Chancellor of External Affairs John A. Lang Jr. and Mrs. Lang, and E. C. U. Director of International Education Dr. Kermit

If you've been lying awake nights worrying about saving money, read this. It'll put you right to sleep.

Take this ad to bed tonight. It'll show you how to save. And where to save. And where to put your money so it'll give you the biggest return on your dollar. In short, Planters National Bank is offering a little peace of mind. Are you dreaming? Not yet, but wait.

Sav-o-matic. This is for people who have trouble saving, period. Just tell us how much you want to save. And when. We'll simply transfer funds automatically from your Planters checking account to your savings account. Then you don't have to worry about sticking away a little every month. We'll stick it away for you.

Regular Savings. This is the most popular and flexible of our savings plans. You can withdraw or add money in any amount. Anytime. Our Regular Savings earns 4-1/2% interest paid monthly. And because it's computed on a Daily Interest basis, you're assured of earning interest every day from deposit to withdrawal, so long as your balance is at least $10.

Golden Savings. This pays 5% compounded daily. You can open a Golden Savings account for $500 or more. Add to it anytime and in any amount you wish. Make withdrawals with 90 days prior written notice, or during the first 10 days of each calendar quarter if your money has been on deposit 90 days. Interest is paid quarterly.

Certificates of Deposit. We offer certificates from $1000 to $100,000 at 5-3/4%, 5-1/2%, 5% and 4-1/2%, depending on length and type of maturity. Certificates over $100,000 are offered at competitive and negotiated rates. Your interest is payable by check on each anniversary date, or deposited if you wish, to a PNB savings or checking account. If you prefer automatically renewable certificates, the interest may be left with the certificate and compounded every 3 months.

By now you should be ready to nod right off. But one last thing. In the morning when you awaken, it's going to seem like a lot of trouble to change banks and bring your money to Planters. But look at it this way. A lot of savings ads make you yawn. But when was the last time you read one that gave you a good night's sleep?
