President Asks Congress For New Tariff Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon formally asked Congress today to give him broad new powers to raise, reduce or remove tariff barriers as a lever in upcoming world trade negotiations.

Nixon also asked for expanded authority to retaliate against unfair trade practices, including authority for the government to ban completely some imports.

In a major message to Congress, Nixon sought authority to extend most-favored-nation (MFN) treatment without advance congressional approval. He made it clear he wanted to grant MFN status to the Soviet Union.

Contending that the need for trade reform is urgent, Nixon urged prompt congressional action "so that we can move our country and our world away from trade confrontation and toward trade negotiation..."

Trade laws have not been overhauled for more than a decade, he said in petitioning Congress to "delegate significant new negotiating authorities to the executive branch."

Without the broad new powers, Nixon said, U.S. negotiators "will be badly hampered" in negotiations beginning in September with European countries, Japan and other trading partners.

Although he asked that his authority be granted for a period of five years, Nixon said he expected that major trade agreements can be concluded in a much shorter time, perhaps by 1975.

Nixon asked for authority to raise or lower temporarily import restrictions to "help correct deficits or surpluses" in the balance of payments between trading partners.

This section could apply, for example, to Japan which sells far more to the United States than it buys. "Such restraints," Nixon said, "could be applied to imports from all countries across the board or only to those countries which fail to correct a persistent and excessive surplus in their global payments position."

He proposed that a new procedure be created which would allow him to make trade agreements requiring changes in domestic law without congressional approval.

Under the proposed arrangement the President would notify Congress at least 90 days in advance of concluding an agreement and if neither the House nor Senate moved to block it, the agreement would go into effect.

The proposed procedure would apply to agreements on non-tariff barriers, such as import quotas or restrictions on government procurement.

Nixon asked for changes in the law to make it easier for the government to curb "import surges" which damage U.S. industries and throw its workers out of jobs.

He asked that present law, designed to cope with unfair trade practices, be revised to allow the government to act more quickly.

Grand Jury Returns 13 Bills Of Indictment Against Derral Johnson

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Grand Jury yesterday returned 13 true bills of indictment against a 27-year-old Greenville, and Corpus Christi, Texas, man—including charges of rape, kidnapping, housebreaking and burglary—in connection with a series of break-ins which began here about eight months ago. The 13 true bills against Derral Dean Johnson included 10 for burglary; one for rape and one for kidnapping resulting from a September 25, 1972 break-in; and one for housebreaking.

Johnson is being held in jail in Palm Beach, Florida, in connection with a series of break-ins there. He was taken into custody in Lake Park, near Palm Beach, March 23, on the Florida charges and on a warrant by Greenville Police and the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation in connection with a local break-in.

Subsequent investigation by local police and the SBI led to the additional indictments.

True bills of indictment on burglary charges were brought in the following cases yesterday (including date of offense, resident victimized and address): Sept. 1, 1972, Mary Jaboni, 2606 South Wright Rd.; Sept. 5, Cecil Butler, 2803 Corckett Dr. and Dick Haut, 2701 Jefferson Dr.; Sept. 15, Elmer Britt, 1203 Franklin Dr.; Sept. 19, Kelly Barnhill, 108 Azelea Dr.; Sept. 25, T.R. Ellis, 1718 Forest Hill Dr. and J.C. Whitehurst Jr., 1712 Forest Hill Dr.; Nov. 26, Dr. S.R. Bartlett, Jr., 208 North Longmeadow Rd.; Feb. 1, 1973, Edward Joseph Seycora, 2002 East Fourth St.; and Feb. 25, Frankie Lynn Hardee, 101 Berkshire Rd.

A true bill was also returned on a housebreaking charge in connection with the theft of about $2,400 worth of household goods from the home of H.L. Andrews, 2049 East Fifth St. on January 4.

The kidnapping and rape charges stemmed from the abduction of an 11-year-old girl from a home allegedly burglarized by Johnson.

Israeli Raid In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli commandos invaded the heart of the Lebanese capital early today, killing three Palestinian guerrilla leaders in their apartments and attacking refugee camps.

It was thought at first that the raid was in retaliation for Arab attacks Monday in Cyprus on the residence of the Israeli ambassador and an Israeli airliner. But an authoritative Lebanese source said there were indications that preparations had been made by an advance party that came to Beirut several days ago.

Al Fatah, the biggest Palestinian guerrilla organization, said the victims included its No. 2 man, Mohammed Yussef Najjar, known as Abu Yussef. He was one of the founders of Al Fatah.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said 11 persons were killed and more than a dozen wounded in the strike that began shortly after midnight. The statement indicated the casualty total might rise.

The Israeli military command said the raiders' only casualties were four wounded. Another group of Israeli commandos blew up a garage in Sidon, on the coast 24 miles south of Beirut, but there were no casualties there. The Israelis said the garage was used by guerrillas.

President Suleiman Franjeh held an emergency session of the Lebanese Cabinet, and a protest to the U.N. Security Council was believed imminent.

The Israelis, some dressed in civilian clothes and some in fatigue uniforms, apparently landed by helicopter at Ouzai, a village three miles south of Beirut, and split into two groups.

Land Acquisition Plans For CBD Are Modified

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Several modifications in the land acquisition plan for the Central Business District project were approved Monday night by the Redevelopment Commission.

Assistant CBD project manager Jim Bishop explained to commissioners that the series of changes or modifications in the acquisition plans have actually occurred over a period of time due to project updating and needs.

Bishop, in pointing out each modification on project maps, said that in some cases land that was formerly designated for acquisition is not needed now and therefore not-to-be-acquired agreements are in order. In other situations, he explained, severances rather than total parcel acquisition, as originally designated, are needed. In at least one instance, plans that called for only a severance to be taken from a parcel were changed due to engineering requirements and it was found that total acquisition was necessary.

Bishop noted that several owners improved their property and acquisition was no longer necessary. The project official pointed out that the modifications have been included on property maps and site plans and the incorporation of the changes serves to update existing maps. For instance, the revised maps now show Reade Circle, he said.

Commissioners passed a resolution approving the modifications, which have HUD concurrence, effective May 1. Copies of the revised documents will be forwarded to the city officials for their review and files, it was noted.

In other business, commissioners voted to award a contract for second acquisition appraisals in Southside to Calvin Reynolds of Winston-Salem.

Real estate officer Kirby Boyd noted that the second appraisals, which have the approval of HUD, would involve 75 acquisition parcels and 45 severances. The contract calls for the services to be completed within 100 working days.

Joe Laney, executive director, told commissioners that when project plans were modified here to incorporate changes stipulated by passage of the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Land Acquisition Policies Act of 1970 the status of the Southside Project planning at that time evidently caused the staff to omit the changes from the project.

When the act went into effect in January of 1971, Laney reported, the city was then required to share in the cost of relocations in the amount of one-fourth of the total cost, as well as in land acquisition purchases.

Approval was given to separate resolutions "assuring the commission's compliance" with the federal guidelines concerning both relocation and acquisitions in Southside. Laney said that he visited the HUD office in Greensboro Monday and discussed the matter with officials there.

Officials in Greensboro said that they would send the Southside documents to Washington for final action as soon as they receive the resolutions from the commission.

The attendance of one staff member at a Southeast Regional Council meeting of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Louisville, Ky. June 6-10 was approved.

Commissioners approved the financial statements for this quarter.

Will Meet On Exchange Plan

East Carolina University chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins, chairman of the North Carolina Commission on International Cooperation, announced Monday that he will meet May 7 with the Japanese Ambassador to the U.S. to discuss a possible educational-cultural exchange program between Japan and North Carolina.

The Japanese government, it was announced, has indicated that it may earmark some of its U.S. dollar surplus to fund the travel of United States students, teachers and researchers to Japan to study at Japanese institutions of higher learning and to send Japanese representatives to U.S. universities.

Jenkins also announced grants totaling $5,580 to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and North Carolina Central University.

A grant $3,180 grant went to UNC to plan a series of conferences on "The United States and the International Community: Problems and Policy Formulation," to be held in Durham, Chapel Hill and Raleigh during October.

The participants in the conferences would be approximately 25 government and business officials, including ten from foreign countries.

North Carolina Central received a $1,200 grant to help fund an "Afro-Asian World In Transition" seminar it is planning. The money supplements an earlier $3,150 grant from the commission for the seminar.

UNC-Chapel Hill also received a $1,200 grant for an inter-annual seminar it is planning on "The Emerging International Order." The money supplements and earlier $5,140 grant.

needed in the foreseeable future."

According to the Greenville physician, "This finding is consistent with the findings of Dr. John Gamble (a surgeon and member of the N. C. House of Representatives from Lincoln County who says additional facilities are needed to train more doctors (and certainly opposed to the conclusion of the committee for the N. C. Medical Society (which says the one-year medical school at East Carolina University should be abolished and no new medical school be established.)"

Dr. Best said the value of the consultants' study "will be to hopefully take an objective look at the facts and to give us some expert opinions on the feasibility of another four-year school and how best to go about developing this program in keeping with our economic resources, and how best to meet the accreditation requirements. This is a service that this panel can render us, I think," he emphasized.

"I would hope that the political cross-winds come to rest for a while," Dr. Best said, "...until the board of Governors and the study panel can reach some conclusions. The political activity at this point serves only to muddy the water...in my opinion...and to make the whole situation much more complex."

Denies McCord Has Direct Knowledge Higher-Ups Linked

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

James W. McCord's lawyer says the convicted Watergate conspirator has no direct knowledge that any high-level official in President Nixon's re-election effort knew of plans to bug Democratic headquarters.

Talking to newsmen Monday, attorney Bernard W. Fensterwald indicated that most of McCord's second-hand information about planning the Watergate bugging operation came from G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to the Committee for Re-election of the President. Liddy was convicted with McCord, former security chief for the campaign, as a result of the wiretapping. But, unlike McCord, Liddy has refused to talk about Watergate with a federal grand jury.

Several stories based on news leaks have said McCord told a Senate committee investigating Watergate that various high-level officials in the Nixon campaign and in the White House were at least aware of plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building last June.

documented." He said the reason it should be located at ECU "is so simple and obvious that I continue to be amazed when anyone raises the question."

"What other institution has repeatedly moved to develop a medical school?" he asked. "Who else has continually pushed for expanded opportunities for North Carolina students?"

Morgan also told the UNC faculty member that costs of a four-year medical school at ECU would be lower than expansion of the UNC medical school and by 1980 the ECU school "could begin producing at least twice the number of North Carolina graduates proposed by the UNC expansion."

Morgan Says Board Of Governors Won't Give ECU Fair Deal

RALEIGH (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan declared today that East Carolina University "has not received and cannot receive fair, open and objective treatment" from the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina system and its senior staff members on the question of a four-year medical school at ECU.

Morgan, who is chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees, said in a prepared talk to the UNC Faculty Club that recent news articles have quoted UNC President William C. Friday and William Dees of Goldsboro, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors, with saying that a special study group which is to decide whether the state needs a second state-supported four-year medical school is also expected to advise "where the school may be located."

"Fayetteville and Charlotte were mentioned in these articles, and, almost as an afterthought, Greenville is remembered," Morgan stated. "This kind of maneuvering is irresponsible in my opinion.

"There is now a medical school in Greenville (at ECU) created by the Board of Higher Education and the General Assembly with plenty of blood, sweat and tears," he added. "How a few members and the staff of the board of governors can conveniently ignore this fact defies belief."

Morgan also told the UNC faculty member that costs of a four-year medical school at ECU would be lower than expansion of the UNC medical school and by 1980 the ECU school "could begin producing at least twice the number of North Carolina graduates proposed by the UNC expansion."

New Research Center Is Dedicated Monday

CENTER DEDICATED... Ceremonies marking the dedication of Becton, Dickinson and Company's new corporate research center were held Monday at Research Triangle Park.

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK—Becton, Dickinson and Co., a leading manufacturer of medical instruments and health care products, dedicated its new $4 million corporate research center here Monday.

The new two-story structure houses the company's main research laboratories and support facilities as well as executive offices for research planning and administration.

The company's chairman of the board and chief executive officer, Fairleigh S. Dickinson Jr., said at the dedication ceremony that the 68,000 square-foot research center "provides advanced laboratory equipment that will further Becton, Dickinson's effort of bringing scientific medicine to bear on human illness."

Over 200 visitors attended the ceremonies and guest speaker, Dr. Charles A. Berry, director for Life Sciences, Office of Manned Space Flight of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told them that the new center would become a national focal point for the development of medical instrumentation and related scientific, health care products.

The new corporate facility is located on a wooded 37-acre site in the Research Triangle Park, a 6,000-acre area lying at the midpoint of a triangle formed by Durham, Chapel Hill and Raleigh.

Research laboratories, as well as animal and research support facilities, are located on the first floor of the center, which was completed last October. Executive offices and conference rooms occupy the second story level.

The basic and applied research programs conducted by the company, it was explained, emphasize product safety, immunology, lung cancer detection, artificial kidney and lung development as well as automated microbiology. The center is near several major university medical centers, other colleges, government scientific efforts, and operates "in the general atmosphere of research-oriented institutions."

Officials pointed out that in the past several years, company research activities have led to significant new advances in medical instrumentation activities have led to significant new advances in medical instrumentation and health care. The improved kidney dialysis system, used in homes and hospitals, was developed in the company's research laboratories.

Additional Money Available For FHA

Willard R. Dean Jr., Pitt County supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, announced this week that funds for FHA real estate and farm operation loans were recently increased and will be available for the remainder of this fiscal year which ends June 30.

Dean said $170 million has been made available nationwide for loans to farmers for operating expenses, and for financing purchases of farm equipment, livestock and other capital needs on terms up to seven years.

"These funds were made available to help fill the need for operating money arising from the termination of the emergency loan program," Dean said. "As a result of the heavy rains and flooding, both this year and last year, North Carolina has about half of its counties eligible for emergency loans and will receive a greater proportion of the available operating funds."

He added that farmers who plan to purchase farm equipment or livestock in the near future would be wise to consider these purchases before June 30, while funds are in adequate supply.

Dean reported that funds for long term real estate loans for land purchase, farm development, refinancing and other similar purposes were also adequate for the remainder of the fiscal year. These loans are at five percent up to 40 years term and have a maximum amount of $100,000.

Farmers interested in these loans may contact Dean in the Federal Building, located at the corner of Evans and Third Streets in Greenville.

Would Cut U.S. Spying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today the U.S. intelligence community employs about 148,000 persons and spends about $6.2 billion each year.

Renewing his call for drastic cuts in the cost of American spying and covert activities overseas, Proxmire urged James Schlesinger, new Central Intelligence Agency director, to make public the government's entire intelligence budget, which always has been secret.

Proxmire said he is not opposed to a first-rate American intelligence operation but does believe the intelligence establishment has swollen out of proportion to national defense needs and that congressional controls and restraints on it have eroded.

He said his cost and manpower estimates are not based on classified or official sources and noted that they depict the CIA as smaller in both personnel and budget than at least three other U.S. intelligence groups.

Proxmire's estimates show the CIA with a work force of 15,000 and an annual budget of $750 million. These are his other estimates:

The National Security Agency, 20,000 and $1 billion; the Defense Intelligence Agency, 5,016 and $100 million; Army Intelligence, 38,500 and $775 million; Navy Intelligence, 10,000 and $775 million; Air Force Intelligence, 60,000 and $2.8 billion; and State Department Intelligence, 335 and $8 million.

Barnacles Have A Dental Secret

DETROIT (AP) — Dental researchers hope studies of barnacles, the marine animals that attach themselves to the hulls of boats, will help repair teeth.

Scientists at the Michigan Dental Association convention being held here this week say the barnacle, whose hard shell resembles the calcium makeup of teeth, excretes a very strong glue that may provide a clue about manufacturing a similar substance for dental work.

However, one dentist said the researchers still have a way to go because "nobody wants a mouth full of barnacles."

ICCS Grounds Its Helicopters

By LYNN C. NEWLAND
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The International Commission of Control and Supervision temporarily has grounded all helicopter flights for its representatives, curtailing observation of cease-fire violations in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for the commission said all four members—Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland—agreed to the ban. It was ordered because of the deaths Saturday of four members of the commission in a chartered helicopter downed in Communist territory in northwestern Quang Tri Province.

The Viet Cong claimed the helicopter crashed accidentally, but the Canadian delegation said it was hit by a missile. The two American pilots, a Filipino crewman and two Viet Cong liaison officers also died in the crash. Ground fire forced an accompanying helicopter to land, but there were no casualties aboard it.

An investigating team from the commission set off today for the crash site in mountainous jungles near the Laotian border.

The fighting in Vietnam continued. The Saigon command claimed its forces killed 47 Communist soldiers who attacked a government outpost 10 miles southwest of Kontum, in the central highlands, Monday. It said one of the defenders was killed and 15 were wounded.

The Tong le Chan ranger base 50 miles north of Saigon, under siege for six weeks, was reported hit by more than 100 mortar rounds, but no casualties were reported.

The Viet Cong, without prior announcement, released 23 South Vietnamese prisoners of war southwest of Kontum, and South Vietnamese spokesmen had no explanation for the move.

President Nixon's special emissary, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., arrived in Phnom Penh to discuss the war situation in Cambodia with President Lon Nol and U.S. Ambassador Emory C. Swank. Haig came from Vientiane and Bangkok and also will visit Saigon during his four-day assessment of the situation in Indochina.

The gasoline shortage in Phnom Penh was eased with the arrival of the second river convoy from Saigon this week, and the government also reported that the highway to the south coast port of Kompong Som had been reopened again.

The U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh announced that Washington has authorized an airlift of petroleum products to overcome the shortage. An official said the airlift would be carried out by U.S. Air Force C130 tankers, but he refused to say when deliveries would begin or how frequent they would be.

Because of the shortage, the government has rationed gasoline buyers to three gallons per purchase and has restricted sales of kerosene.

Cites Year Of CAC Activities

Sam Sewall, past chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee (CAC), recently cited several activities and concerns of the committee during the first year of operation. The CAC was organized in January 1972 with 36 members—30 being elected from residential areas in Greenville, and six being at-large members. Meetings have been held monthly since February 1972.

In the spring of 1972, a citywide survey was conducted to assess public opinion about the school system. Over 300 replies were received. Major concerns expressed by the citizens were desire for more vocational programs, need to improve school maintenance, reduction of overcrowding in the junior high school, concern over bus policies, a need for more discipline in the schools, and concern for better teacher qualifications.

In response to one specific question, 205 people expressed a desire to spend a greater share of their tax dollars on education. In addition, over 400 favorable comments of one sort or another were received on all phases of school operation.

The CAC spent considerable time reviewing the proposed 1972-1973 Greenville City School budget. Recommendations concerning instructional service and capital improvement (particularly air-conditioning) priorities were forwarded to the Board of Education and the County Commissioners. The CAC was partially responsible in urging the first public hearing to be held on the school budget. Full support was also given to the Board of Education to take whatever steps necessary to forge ahead in acquiring property for the new junior high school.

Other areas of concern taken up at meetings during the year included a meeting at Aycock for parents of seventh grade students to discuss questions concerning the school; a meeting with railroad officials on rescheduling trains to avoid traffic tie-ups at school opening and closing hours; discussion of a proposed middle-junior high school site with County Commissioners; and a study of overall curriculum in city schools and policies on evaluation of teachers and professional staff.

Sewall cited as a disappointment during the commission's first year of operation poor attendance by some members of the commission. Attendance average was 21 members, or about 60 per cent. Since the purpose of the commission is to represent all Greenville communities, those communities whose representatives did not attend were without input into CAC discussions and policies.

Commission Is Received

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Former prisoner of war William Andrew Robinson was commissioned a second lieutenant in ceremonies here yesterday.

The Air Force gave the Robersonville native regular promotions to the rank of Master Sergeant during his seven-year confinement in a North Vietnamese prison. But Col. John Flynn let it be known after his release that he had given Robinson and two other non-commissioned officers "battlefield commissions" while setting up military discipline within the prison camp. The commissions were reviewed and have been honored.

Flynn, now promoted to General was present for Lt. Robinson's commission, conferred by Co. Fred Cherry. His mother, Mrs. William J. Robinson and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. E. W. Robinson pinned on his lieutenant's bars.

How To Refuse Date: Be Truthful

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old, reasonably attractive girl. I live at home and work in a large office.

How can I refuse a date without hurting the man's feelings, and at the same time keep him from asking me again? If I say I am busy, he asks me again, or worse yet he'll ask for my first free evening, then I am really stuck.

You see, I don't want to date anyone outside my own religion. I'm not that hung up on religion, but my parents are so much against it, I decided it would eliminate lots of arguments at home if I just dated men of my own faith. My parents have been wonderful to me and I don't consider it too big a sacrifice for me if it will make them happy.

So, how can I politely turn down a date without appearing rude, and at the same time discourage that fellow from asking me again?

THERESA

DEAR THERESA: What's wrong with telling him the truth?

DEAR ABBY: I'm married only four months to a fellow I'll call Mac and I've never been so miserable in my life.

Before we were married Mac was so sweet and kind, but he's changed now. Mac has beaten me on three different occasions, and I don't mean just a slap. He's knocked me around until I looked so bad I'm ashamed to go to classes. [We're both in college.]

The first time he beat me because I insisted we leave a party where he was drinking too much. He beat me again because while I was trying to study he had both the television and radio blaring away so he could listen to two games at once and I turned off the TV.

Yesterday Mac gave me the worst beating of all when I refused to give him the car keys because he always takes off and leaves me all day and half the night. [The car belongs to me. My parents gave it to me so I'd have transportation to and from school.]

What am I going to do, Abby? I'm all black and blue again and I can't go to school like this. My parents live near here but I can't go home to them because they were against my marrying Mac in the first place. When I begged Mac to go to a counselor with me to try to save our marriage he laughed in my face. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP AT 20

DEAR ALL: Go home to your parents and admit that either you weren't ready for marriage, or you chose the wrong fellow. There is little hope of saving your marriage unless Mac cooperates, and he appears unwilling. A man who beats a woman is sick. And a woman who sticks around for repeated beatings is sicker.

DEAR ABBY: Recently when my sisters and I were faced with closing the house in which our parents had lived for many years, we came upon several boxes of old pictures and snapshots. Many were of friends our parents had known over the years, but whom we barely knew. We hated to destroy them, even tho they meant nothing to us, so we hit upon the idea of sending them to the families of those involved. In this way we contributed richly to the picture collections of many families. The letters of gratitude we received more than compensated for our efforts.

Responsibility Is Lawmakers'

North Carolina's liquor-by-the-drink exercise may in time become known as liquor-by-the-vote, by-the-vote, by-the-vote, etc.

A measure approved by the House Alcoholic Beverage Control committee would require not just one, but possibly 101 referenda on the question of liquor-by-the-drink in North Carolina. From the standpoint of the politician such a measure may have some vote-getting merit, but from the standpoint of a practical approach to a problem, there appears little merit in requiring all that voting.

Under the measure given a favorable report by the House committee, a state-wide referendum would first be required on whether individual counties would be allowed to hold votes on the question of liquor-by-the-drink for themselves.

If there were a favorable vote in the state-wide referendum, then the individual counties could hold their local option votes if they desired, on the question of whether liquor could be sold in class A restaurants.

Obviously some legislators are looking for a way around this touchy political question. During the last session the legislature passed a measure which permitted two of the state's 100 counties to hold referenda on the question of liquor-by-the-drink. Voters of one county approved liquor-by-the-drink and voters of the other county rejected the idea. Then along came the state's Supreme Court and said in effect the legislature's action in authorizing the vote in only two counties was unconstitutional.

In our judgment the question of liquor-by-the-drink in North Carolina should be decided either in a state-wide referendum or by votes in individual counties on the local option basis. The legislature, we believe, is competent to decide which approach the state should take, and further, we feel the legislature has the responsibility to make that decision.

There is little reason trying to go both routes as proposed in the committee-approved measure which now goes to the House floor. Such an approach may serve the interest of the politician who wants to take a public stance on both sides of the hot political question, but it is not likely to serve the interest of the state or its people.

Price Tag For Annual Session

RALEIGH — The General Assembly's move to annual sessions may carry a million dollar price tag for Tar Heel taxpayers.

That's the amount it looks like it will cost to bring the legislators back to Raleigh in 1974 for a four-month stay. Expenses would amount at the rate of roughly $14,000 for every day they exceed that period.

complexities of the job, he said.

More Secretaries Hired

A response to that was an increase of 32 in the secretarial force this session. Every member who has served one previous term or is a committee chairman has a secretary; freshmen share a secretary, two to one.

The total of 145 secretaries and clerks is among the approximately 250 employees who come to work at the Legislative Building each day the 170-member body is in session.

About three-fourths of the states now follow a pattern of annual session. North Carolina is in the process of taking the step, at least on a trial basis. It is the plan of the leadership to recess in mid-May and return early next January.

Necessarily, annual sessions will raise costs, Ball granted. Seven months work, divided into two equal yearly terms, will be more expensive than a single sitting because of gearing-up and gearing-down twice instead of once, he said.

Operation of standing committees between sessions will add another expense factor, through subsistence and travel payments to legislators and the employment of staff.

Future Impact Seen

What causes some concern is not so much the initial cost of the transition to annual sessions as the impact for the future. Inevitably, it will bring pressure for higher legislative salaries and a larger professional staff.

Rep. Dwight L. Quinn of Cabrus, a veteran legislator opposed to the idea, predicted annual sessions would increase legislative costs five-fold.

Proponents argue that benefits gained will come cheap at the price. Closer scrutiny to total state spending, through an annual budget, could realize savings to more than cover the increase in cost, they contend.

Major items in this year's General Assembly budget include: Senate $667,318; House $1,350,447; expenses in common $645,086; legislative services $137,872; fiscal research $254,576; reserve $257,399.

Each chamber's expenses include its members salaries ($2,500 plus $500 expenses), their subsistence and travel while in session at the rate of $25 per day and one weekly round-trip home at 10 cents per mile, plus clerical staff.

In common expenses cover printing, supplies, computer services and other operational costs. It also includes some $80,000 for a legislative retirement fund. The State Legislative Building has a budget of some $250,000 for staff and up-keep.

BRYAN HAISLIP

In-session expenditures are only a part of the total legislative bill, budgeted at some $3,370,000 in the current fiscal year. Continuing cost, whether or not the lawmakers are meeting, include their salaries and expenses, staff and operation of the Legislative Services Commission and Fiscal Research Division, and up-keep of the State Legislative Building.

What it costs to run the legislature today is three times what it was just ten years ago when annual expenses passed the one million mark for the first time. Twenty years ago, the General Assembly operated on less than half-a-million.

If the increase seems steep, said Clyde Ball, it must be remembered that services to the legislature in recent years have gone from virtually zero to a substantial level.

Ball keeps track of spending as legislative services officer. He signs his name 100 times or more a day to vouchers going over his desk.

N. C. Cost Low
In comparison with the state's total budget expansion and what other states spend for their legislatures, the North Carolina cost remains modest, indeed, he said.

Less than one-tenth of one percent of state spending goes for the legislative function, Ball observed. The average for the 50 states is between one and two per cent, he added.

"Some states such as Florida and Ohio spend 10 to 15 times what we do. Goodness knows about California. By any measure, we rank far down the list in the relation of legislative spending to total revenues," Ball said.

"The General Assembly is actually penurious when it comes to its own needs. Members are politically sensitive to spending for themselves," he said.

There is a changing mood, particularly among newcomers, and a rising demand for the tools and staff assistance to cope with

Trade Picture Is 'Very Dark'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

TOKYO—Behind Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's official pledge to Washington of lowered trade barriers, there is private resignation here by U. S. and Japanese officials alike that American imports to Japan will not be increased significantly—now or ever.

Excruciatingly difficult negotiations over import of American citrus fruits and computers promise little in actual new imports. Beyond that, political and business factors doom American products in the rich Japanese market.

Indeed, many influential Japanese now feel the only way to reduce Japan's corrosive $4 billion surplus in its trade balance with the United States is to cut down Japanese exports—in other words, less not more trade between the two countries. That remedy suggests profound repercussions: a Japan more inward-looking and nationalistic, far less entwined with the U. S.

On the surface, however, both sides are working furiously to lower the Japanese trade surplus through higher U. S. imports. Sunkist orange is near a compromise with Japanese agricultural cooperatives to import American oranges mixed with less flavorsome Japanese oranges in a frozen juice. Although talks over breaking down quotas on American computers are stalled by Japanese demands that liberation be delayed until 1976, U. S. officials hope for an earlier date.

But in truth, the Japanese seem to be going through the motions to humor the Americans and prevent retaliation against their exports by the U. S. Congress. Officials at the U. S. embassy here, deeply involved in the trade picture, are privately glum. "I would say the import situation is very, very dark," one diplomat told us.

Some candid Japanese officials express astonishment that U. S. Ambassador

Robert Igersoll, a hard-charging Chicago industrialist who has performed impressively since arriving here a year ago, should devote so much time to the Sunkist case considering its low dollar potential. They suggest, probably unfairly, that the effort is more to please President Nixon's California constituents than to affect overall trade.

In any event, Japan clearly will not permit a free flow of American farm products, the area where the U. S. can compete efficiently worldwide. Japanese farmers must be protected, an economist close to the government told us, "in order to keep Japan a little like the old Japan." Apart from such sentimentality, the conservative rural base of the ruling Liberal Democratic party requires agricultural protection. Predictably, the agriculture minister last week reported to Tanaka that trade liberalization simply is not feasible.

Nor are the Japanese much more relenting on computers, potentially the best American market here. The rare Japanese officials who will talk frankly about it confide they have no intention of dropping quotas and let IBM control Japan's computer market, a nation's "brains" in the latter 20th Century.

Beyond farm products and computers, removing Japanese quotas the last two years in response to Washington's demands has not helped American imports.

A major reason: the hideously complicated distribution system here, jacking up the price at each point en route to the consumer. The horrible example is Ford's $,000 Pinto, which ends up with a prohibitive $5,000 price tag. Rather than plow through that Japanese business jungle, the American manufacturer just forgets it.

That's the point, say many Japanese. They contend the

Strength For Today

Receptiveness To Grace
"The grace of God is like pansies," said a woman recently in my hearing.

I had heard divine grace likened to many things, but this was the first time I had ever heard it likened to a bed of pansies. The woman went on to explain that if one wants to keep a flower garden in full bloom, it is necessary to pick the flowers frequently. And this is particularly true in the case of pansies. The oftener they are picked, the more prolifically they bloom.

Similarly, the more we avail ourselves of God's grace, the more does God send it to us in abundance. If we make no use of God's gifts, if we pass them day by day, they disappear at last or are taken from us. Divine gifts retain their freshness and grow in profusion when we use them day by day, they disappear at last or are taken from us. Divine gifts retain their freshness and grow in profusion when we use them and take joy in them. God is in profusion when we use them and take joy in them. God is not reluctant to give his gifts. And the more we take of what he offers, the more we can be sure of a continuation of his gifts.

'Yes' To Legal Service

There are times, sad to say, when American conservatives appear to constitute "the stupid party," as John Stuart Mill once labeled their British counterparts a century ago. By their failure to give active support to a continuing program of legal services for the poor, my brother conservatives are abandoning their principles and exhibiting a dull-wittedness that makes a man despair.

Of course a legal services program should be extended! Let the Congress, if it pleases, scrap everything else that has been funded through the Office of Economic Opportunity. Let the administration, if it can, dismantle a hundred boondoggling, programs grants-in-aid. But in one form or another, the Neighborhood Legal Services must be maintained.

Chiseled in stone above the great white columns of the U. S. Supreme Court are four famous words: Equal justice under law. No concept in our public life is nobler and no concept has been more poorly served. The grim truth is that for all practical purposes, we still have two systems of law in this country, one for the rich, another for the poor. Every newspaperman who ever has covered the small claims and criminal courts of his city know this is so.

Granted, much has been done in recent years. Indigent defendants, even in serious misdemeanor cases, now have a right to counsel. Bail reform has remedied some of the most flagrant evils of the criminal justice system. Since 1965, the federally assisted legal services program has greatly benefited the poor in areas of civil litigation. Now this civil program -- a program seeking to promote equal justice under law -- is threatened with abandonment. Conservatives, dedicated in principle to this elementary proposition, ought to be in the forefront of a fight to push the cause along.

But where are they? They are grumbling that in recent years the program of legal services has been abused. Doubtless this is true. It would be incredible not to discover abuses in a program

Other Editors Say The Sappy Season

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

Just when everybody thought the damper had been turned down on the East Carolina University medical school issue for this sitting of the Legislature, here comes Rep. Larry Eagles with his gobs ballooned and chest heaving blowing mightily on the coals. It's enough to reduce a weary Honorable to tears, or maybe helpless laughter.

What Mr. Eagles has in mind is a statewide $50 million bond election to turn ECU's infant on-year medical program into a full-fledged four-year spectacular. Barring a change of mind, the referendum bill will drop with a dull thud sometime today. Rep. Eagles is very much aware, of course, that a special committee has already been commissioned by the University system's Board of Governors to study medical training needs in the state. The committee is to present its report in September and the report is expected to say whether another state medical school is needed and if so where it ought to be located. Rep. Eagles has only scorn for the study. "The people of North Carolina have enough sense to know we need doctors," he said, "and where the school ought to be, better than somebody from New York." So he would have the people, with their exhaustive knowledge of medical training and the staggering costs involved, decide, and bet an initial $50 million and continuing annual costs on their decision.

Rep. Eagles also is aware that the University's Board of Governors, under higher education reorganization, is supposed to decide on degree programs. One of the major reasons for reorganization was to remove such decisions from the hotbed of legislative policies. A $50 million referendum for the specific purpose of creating a four-year medical school at ECU would amount to a complete bypass of the Board of Governors, leaving the decision to the people with the consent of the Legislature. That alone would shatter the University system, still in its first year.

The best hope is that no one, not even the ECU red-hots, will take Rep. Eagles seriously. If the House is still on an even keel, it will pat him on the head, send the bill to a timely end in a safe committee, and go on about its business. It's springtime, yes, but this particular sap must not be allowed to rise.

A Season Of Annual Meetings

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This is a time of year that tests executive patience, a period on the corporate calendar that falls between issuance of the annual report and plans for a summer vacation. It is annual meeting time.

The number of affairs increases this week and reaches a peak in the third and fourth weeks of the month when, by one count, the stockholders of at least 145 companies listed on the New York or American exchanges gather on April 24.

As usual, only a tiny percentage of shareholders will attend most meetings, just as only a relative few will do much with the annual report except use it to stir the air in the stuffy auditorium.

The number who will ask a question from the floor will constitute an even more infinitesimal fraction. Almost no business will be conducted that has not, because of planning and legal requirements, been agreed upon in advance.

If a fired-up stockholder mistakenly assumes he can sound off as he pleases in this world of corporate democracy he is soon disabused of the notion when he finds his microphone turned off on orders of the chairman.

What purpose then, other than to observe a traditional rite of spring, is served by the annual meeting? Very little, say some corporate leaders, except to irritate them, use up their time, and appease some windy discontents.

Too often, they say, a professional meeting-goer seeking publicity can distract from the best laid plans, which usually include a little executive boasting about performance or the introduction of a great new product.

J.B. Fuqua, chairman of an Atlanta-based conglomerate by that name, has been conducting a personal battle against having meetings at all, arguing that they are a costly nuisance whose purpose cannot even be explained.

Never, says the head of this 18,000-worker company, has even one in a thousand stockholders attended a meeting. Fuqua says that when polled, 99 per cent of them agreed that the meetings should be dropped.

It would be much more edifying, he insists, if he were to communicate by mail with

Although earthquake scares are more common on the West Coast of America than on the East Coast, no major section of the nation is immune from them. Since 1700, more than 1,000 earthquakes have been reported east of the Mississippi River.

Color can help make you feel warm or cool. Employees in one firm complained that an air-conditioned lounge painted blue and gray was too cold. Although no change in temperature was made, the complaints ceased after the management painted the lounge brown and orange.

All things that go up don't come back down. An example is the cost of government in America. Total annual government expenditures — including federal, state and local — increased in 50 years from a mere $9 billion in 1922 to $410 billion in 1972, according to the Tax Foundation.

How does the manager of company a spend his time? It is estimated that he spends 25 per cent of it simply telling other employees what he wants them to do.

Exit lines: Michelangelo's dying words were: "My soul I resign to God, my body to the earth, my worldly goods to my next of kin." Mohammed said, "O Allah! Pardon my sins. Yes, I come." Lady Mary Wrotley Montagu murmured, "It has all been very interesting."

Worth remembering: "The girl who marries a man to mend his ways is likely to find he isn't worth a darn."

Noted Scientist To Be Speaker For Sigma Xi

A noted marine geologist and oceanographer, Dr. Robert S. Dietz, will be the speaker at the annual spring banquet of the East Carolina University Sigma Xi Club. The topic of Dr. Dietz's lecture will be "Continents Adrift: New Orthodoxy or Persuasive Joker?"

The banquet will be held at 7 p.m. on Friday in the South Cafeteria on the East Carolina University Campus. Sigma Xi is a national honorary society embracing all scientific disciplines and is dedicated to the encouragement of research.

The featured speaker, Dr. Dietz, has made many contributions to his field. His research on meteor craters in the earth's surface, and on the development of the relationship between continental drifting and sea-floor spreading are considered to be outstanding. His work has demanded that he visit every ocean and every continent, including Antarctica where he went with Admiral Byrd's last expedition. He is the author of about 175 articles and reports and is the co-author with Jacques Piccard of the book "Seven Miles Down."

As well as holding membership in many scientific societies, he is a Fellow of both the Geological Society of America and the Geological Society of London. He was a pilot during the Second World War and retired from the reserve with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. His present position is with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Miami, Florida.

Voting Again On Traffic Bonds

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Citizens voted today on whether Charlotte should issue $22.9 million in bonds for street improvements to relieve traffic congestion.

Most of the proposals were defeated Sept. 2 when voters rejected 10 of 13 items in a $53 million bond referendum.

The City Council and both Charlotte daily newspapers have supported the bonds. Both opposing organizations maintained that taxes will increase, and that the council cannot be trusted to use the money for the stated purposes.

About 100,000 residents of the city were eligible to vote, and 20,000 were expected to do so.

Plan a Total Weed Control Program This Year

Get profits from your soybean fields this year by planning your program now. Good yields don't just happen. It takes good weather conditions, proper timing, and specific plans for a total soybean program to result in a successful year.

One part of your planning should include your herbicide program. An important item to remember is to use a herbicide that's suited to your soil conditions.

In this area where soils range from sandy loam to black land, LOROX* linuron weed killer controls both broadleaf weeds and grasses. An application of LOROX at planting controls your tough weed problems like pigweed and fall panicum.

To get good control, plant seed at least 1 1/4" deep on a flat seedbed. Recent tests indicate higher yields resulted when seed was planted flat as compared to furrow planting. For good weed control, use application rates of 1 1/2 to 2 lbs. broadcast per acre.

LOROX is economical. A broadcast preemergence costs $4 to $6 per acre. If weeds become a problem after beans are up, come in with a post spray of LOROX. A post spray costs just $1.25 an acre.

Proper planning does take time and work, but your efforts will be repaid when you get high yields this fall.

(Continued from page 4) involving 2,500 lawyers in 900 neighborhood law offices. As Chief Justice Burger once remarked, "this program attracts young, idealistic lawyers, and sometimes they have more zeal and adrenalin that judgment and skill."

But these occasional abuses, while serious, have been few. Viewed on the whole record, the legal services program has helped to foster a sense of confidence not only in the courts, but also in what is known vaguely as "the system." In a message two years ago, urging creation of a wholly independent Legal Services Corporation, President Nixon made that point: "This program can provide a most effective mechanism for settling differences and securing justice within the system and not on the streets."

Unhappily, Nixon now seems to be dragging his heels. The present $70 million program is to expire in June, and nothing is yet in sight to take its place. It would be calamitous to let the concept go. As a recent report from the General Accounting Office made clear, the great bulk of case-work by the NLS lawyers involves legal problems arising from housing, domestic relations, employment, and consumer grievances. A million such cases were handled last year. The typical client is not the young revolutionary, seeking protection for the obscenities he prints in an underground paper. The typical client is an old man, barely literate, about to be evicted from his home.

What is needed — and needed promptly — is a bill to create an independent legal essential representation for the poor. Such a corporation should have backup facilities for research. It ought not to be denied a hand in "law reform." Neither should it be prohibited from bringing the class actions that often provide the most effective remedies at law.

Conservatives should back such a bill, in the full awareness that from time to time they will be irritated, harassed, and outraged by the "zeal and adrenalin." Mistakes will be made. Incidents of bad judgment can be expected. But if we truly believe in equal justice under law, we ought not to be deterred from supporting an effort to make those words in stone something more than an empty phrase.

(Continued from page 4) American businessman, no longer the shrewd Yankee trader, simply will not fight for Japanese business, once 10 feet high in Japanese eyes, is now viewed here as a midget-lazy, unimaginative, inefficient. Except for a short, exotic list (computers, beef, jet fighters, nuclear power plants, etc.), Japanese businessmen feel they can outsell the Americans here and abroad with better products. Sol, one reacts to American import possibilities this way: "If Americans prefer the Toyota to the Pinto, why shouldn't the Japanese?"

Here is an underlying mind-set, seldom openly expressed by the courteous Japanese: Japan is being forced to sacrifice exports to the U. S. and profits because American inefficiency prevents American products from being sold here. Whatever its validity, that attitude carries disturbing implications which will be examined in a future column.

Farmville Men Held In Virginia

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Police Department has been notified that two Farmville residents have been arrested in Chesapeake, Va. and charged with the robbery of the Edgecombe Bank and Trust Company in Fountain.

Charged are brothers, Frank Gorham Jr. and Ronnie Lee Gorham, both of Farmville. They are being held without bond in Chesapeake, Chief Tanner said.

The bank in Fountain was robbed Nov. 10, 1972 of an undetermined amount by three disguised men. Bank manager Doug Moore was taken hostage, but was released just outside of town.

Open House 'Success' Despite Steady Rains

The open house at Burroughs Wellcome's manufacturing facility here was a success in spite of the rainy weather, BW officials reported. Jim Goes, company staff specialist who was in charge of the tour arrangements, said that "we were very pleased at the response Saturday, even though it rained like cats and dogs all day."

Goes noted that 3,815 visitors toured the plant during the day and he added, "The ideal thing about it was that the flow of people was steady all day, Flooding . . .

(Continued from page 1) five-foot waves on the Mississippi and the Corps of Army Engineers pinpointed two potential trouble spots. At Kaskaskia Island, 60 miles south of St. Louis, the Corps ordered all but 16 of the island's 300 residents to evacuate Monday as winds gusting to 60 miles per hour sent huge waves crashing into water-logged levees.

"The way it looks now, I think the levee's going to break," said Paul Johnson, district engineer for the Corps.

"I could be wrong. I hope I'm wrong." He said the levee on the northwest side of the island was eroded so badly that patrols were not being permitted on it.

Another potential trouble spot was at Chouteau Island, near Granite City, Ill.

Although the 70 families there have not been ordered to evacuate, a spokesman for the Corps described the situation as critical.

The Mississippi fell nearly a foot at St. Louis Monday, to 38 feet, after cresting at 39.8 feet on Friday. The Missouri was down to 33 feet at St. Charles, Mo., but still eight feet above flood stage.

Downriver, in Louisiana, the Mississippi continued a slow drop as Army Engineers siphoned off some of the river by opening the Bonnet Carre spillway 30 miles upstream from New Orleans.

rather than an influx at one time." The interest of the visitors was also gratifying, he commented, noting that officials had estimated each tour from start to finish would take about 40 minutes but the number of questions asked lengthened the tours to an average of about one hour.

Visitors were allowed to go through the plant at their own pace, Goes explained, and staff members were stationed at various points to answer questions and assist in any way necessary. A number of static displays were also set up, he noted. Two tablet machines were in operation for viewing, as well as several ampule filling lines in the sterile products section. Five production lines in the packaging department were running to illustrate that phase of the plant's operation.

The tour also served to benefit the employees, Goes said, as many brought their families out to give them a preview of their jobs. Special passes were issued to some of the employee family for tours in various areas of the plant not on the regular schedule.

Goes said that the company appreciated the help furnished by the Explorer Scout Post, sponsored by the company, throughout the day.

Richmond Adds To League Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Richmond's defending champion Spiders have moved into the lead in the rain-plagued Southern Conference baseball race.

The Citadel and William and Mary split, the Bulldogs taking the opener 8-2 and the Indians the nightcap 5-2. Both teams have 2-3 league marks.

Davidson's scheduled conference doubleheader at Virginia Military Institute was postponed because of wet grounds.

The Spiders won the opener against Furman with two runs in the fourth inning that proved decisive, because the Paladins scored twice in the fifth to pull within a run.

One run scored on an error and the other on Bobby Mitchell's single, his second hit. Mitchell had set up a run in the first inning with a bunt single. Singles by Todd Brenizer and Vinny Whitehead, an error and Walt Kalita's single produced the Furman runs.

Billy C Tops ABA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When Billy Cunningham left the National Basketball Association Philadelphia 76ers last April under court order to honor his contract with the American Basketball Association Carolina Cougars he went from a team that had a 30-52 NBA season to an ABA team that had just completed a 35-49 campaign.

Looking back today, the newly-named ABA Most Valuable Player said, "I made up my mind then I'd never go through a losing season like that again. I couldn't accept that."

The 6-foot-7 New York City native won the praise of rookie Coach Larry Brown, a former teammate at the University of North Carolina, for the hustle he displayed in pre-season camp in September.

Brown recalled that "Billy worked his tail off at camp and so did Joe Caldwell. When the players saw how hard two superstars were working, they all did."

Cunningham said he "didn't want to just go through the motions." He added that he was accepted by his new teammates and "we all realized everybody had to give a little bit."

The Citadel scored four runs in the first inning of the opener at William and Mary and three in the sixth as Ron Terry and Ted Feaster each had two hits and Feaster drove in two runs. Rusty Booth and Hank Welch combined to scatter eight William and Mary hits.

John Mileson pitched a four-hitter for the Indians in the nightcap, in which William and Mary scored all its runs in the fifth inning on three hits, a sacrifice, three Bulldog errors and a wild pitch. Ferris Allen singled home two of the runs.

Spiders Pin Bucs

The Cougars, who never had experienced a winning season, led the East Division from opening day, with Cunningham the spearhead.

The University of Richmond rolled to an 8-1 victory over the East Carolina University Pirates here yesterday.

The loss was the ninth in 11 starts for the Pirates this season. Richmond now holds a 4-4 record.

The Spiders swept the singles events, and captured the first two doubles before the Pirates finally won in the concluding match of the day.

Yankees Off To Worse Start Since The 1940's

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Because everybody deserves a second chance, the New York Yankees will continue with the 1973 baseball season. That's because some people deserve not only a second chance, but a third, fourth, and, in the case of New York, a fifth one as well.

The Yankees, pre-season favorites in the American League East with at least one Las Vegas bookmaker, have started 1973 in reverse, dropping their first four games for their worst start since World War II.

Royals To Show Field

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Weather permitting, a capacity crowd of 42,000 will get an eye-ful of computers in action tonight when the Kansas City Royals take the wraps off of their new $43 million baseball stadium.

The Texas Rangers will provide the opposition. The pitchers will be Paul Splittorff for the Royals and Pete Broberg for the Rangers.

From the spectators' standpoint, though, the action on the field may take a back seat to the electronics show on the $2.75 million, computer-controlled scoreboard.

The scoreboard, rising 12 stories high, will do all sorts of things. It will, of course, chart the progress of the game and that of other major league action.

Bertie Nips Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — Bertie High School pushed over a run in the top of the 12th inning to take a 5-4 victory over Williamston High School last night.

It stayed that way until the 12th, when Bertie finally scored again. Sillinger reached on a two-base error, took third on a passed ball, and scored on M. Williford's single.

The game had been tied at 4-4 since the fifth inning, as both struggled to end it for six scoreless innings after that.

The loss dumped the Williamston record to 5-2. The play host to Perquimans on Wednesday.

Bertie took the lead in the second inning, pushing in two runs. S. Thomas walked and B. Goldstein reached on a three-base error, scoring Thomas. A pickoff attempt on Goldstein at third was also errored, allowing him to score.

Butchers Await Return Of Normal Meat Sales

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Butchers generally agree that it is too soon to know whether housewives are returning to normal meat-buying after last week's consumer boycott.

"It's better than last week but still off 20 per cent," said a spokesman for Fed Mart Stores, Inc., in San Diego.

An Associated Press spot check Monday showed mixed results at meat counters, but even stores reporting brisk meat sales said any lasting effects of the week-long boycott would not be known until later.

The Acme Food Market Chain, with 529 stores in seven states along the Eastern Seaboard, said meat sales were up "sharply," and Grand Union said a check of stores in the Washington, D.C., area indicated "a Monday like we can't remember. Things are jumping."

However, Acme Markets, Inc., in Philadelphia reported sales slightly low for a Monday; and Charles Weigl, owner of a meat market in New York City said business still was off about 20 per cent.

Monday was the deadline for posting price ceilings imposed by President Nixon on beef, pork and lamb.

Frank Vaia, vice president of Nation Wide Beef, Inc., of Chicago, said there now was a 10 per cent reduction in the availability of livestock products and added that snow storms may cripple transportation of dressed beef from Western and Southwestern areas.

Richard McGuire, president of the New York Farm Bureau, said the week-long boycott of beef, pork and lamb had not been effective and predicted: "In the long run, consumers will be adversely affected."

In a statement prepared for a congressional hearing, McGuire said the boycott failed to recognize inflation as the cause of high prices and added: "The threat of future boycotts could discourage producers from increasing production."

Ship Carried Marijuana Will Lecture On Meditation

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Special Agent John Dolan of the U. S. customs Bureau said agents would resume their search today of a Colombian vessel where 1,200 pounds of marijuana, with an estimated $1.2 million street value, were found Monday.

Dolan said the marijuana was found under planking in a spot at the vessel's stern which was searched last Friday without turning up anything.

He said the marijuana apparently had been shifted to the spot in the belief that it would not be searched again.

The vessel, Felipe, out of Barranquilla, Colombia, arrived at Wilmington Thursday. It had stopped earlier at Savannah, Ga.

Dolan said no arrests had been made.

The Felipe, Dolan said, is a sister ship of the Francisco Miguel on which 2,000 pounds of marijuana and 25 pounds of cocaine were found about two weeks ago by customs agents in New York City.

Will Lecture On Meditation

Lectures on Transcendental Meditation will be given Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Science Building, Room 102-B, on the ECU campus by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Leavitt of Chapel Hill.

The first will be on the technique; the second on the mechanics, Leavitt said. Both are free and open to the public. "Transcendental Meditation," he said, "is a simple, natural technique taking 20 minutes twice a day for renewing energy, intelligence, and creativity, by tapping their sources within the mind. It provides a state of physical rest and relaxation which has been scientifically proven to be deeper than the level of rest gained during deep sleep, a means of fighting tension, which we believe is the greatest hazard in today's society."

It has been endorsed by Maj. Gen. Franklin Davis, head of the Army's War College; by the General Assembly of Illinois "as an alternative to drug abuse." It is being used by the State of Michigan in its drug abuse treatment program and in public schools in Canada, he said.

The Wednesday and Thursday lectures here are sponsored by the non-profit educational organization, the International Meditation Society.

Article On High Court To Appear

An article by East Carolina University political scientist Tinsley E. Yarbrough will appear in the June issue of the Duke University Law Journal.

Students Complete As 'Road Scholars'

Students from Pitt Technical Institute and Martin Technical Institute are now competing in the "Road Scholars" trouble shooting contest.

Auto shop instructors throughout this area are now holding classroom tests to determine which students will win the title of "Road Scholars" in the regional Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest at the North Carolina State Fairgrounds, Raleigh, May 10.

The "road scholars" will be members of two-man trouble shooting teams selected by their instructors for this competition.

The teams at the regional contest will be looking for a series of malfunctions which are deliberately hidden in new cars to test the knowledge students have gained in classes in auto mechanics. Their job is to find the malfunctions using classroom procedures, correct them, and restore the cars to perfect running order.

There are 113 regional contests scheduled throughout the United States this spring. Regional meet winners receive trips to the National Finals in Boston June 25-27 to compete for more than $90,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies, tools and automobile components which will be given to their schools for auto shop training aids.

Preachers Die In Poison Test

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP)—Two preachers of a snake-handling Holiness sect also took strychnine to test their faith—and died.

They were the Revs. Buford Pack, 30, of Marshall, N.C., and Jimmy Ray Williams, 34, of Carson Springs, Tenn.

They died Sunday, a few hours after drinking the poison at the Holiness Church of God in Jesus' Name. Both had survived snake bites at previous services.

Pack, the father of four children, was working as a laborer in the construction of a consolidated high school in North Carolina. Funeral services for him will be held Wednesday afternoon. He was a native of Newport, which is just over the North Carolina line.

The 'Worry Clinic' Self-Control Is Launched Early

Sarah's husband uses her as a punching bag. And beat up his own teenage daughter. Yet he is an intelligent man, with a college degree. So learn the 3 ways to control such violent emotional outbursts, starting in early childhood!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
 CASE W-574: Sarah B., aged 38, attended a Marriage Clinic sponsored by her pastor.

"Dr. Crane, she asked during our forum-discussion period, 'I have a problem husband.'
 'He's normally a very good man.
 'But he has a terrible temper which he can't control.
 'When he explodes in violent anger, he will pound me black and blue with his fists.
 'He even beat up our daughter when she was 15 years old.
 'Yet he reads your column every day and thus should have learned how to control his emotions by now.
 'What can be done to teach a man not to beat his wife?'"

Wife Beaters

Once I had a woman patient in the same boat with Sarah. But her brother was a professional middleweight boxer.

So this pugilist beat up her sadistic husband and threatened to repeat the process if he ever again found his sister covered with black-and-blue marks.

This apparently sufficed.

For some temper tantrum adults have never had their bluff called.

So they continue trying to bully weaker and defenseless folks all their lives.

Once you call them, as by invoking the police (or even a prize fighter brother), they may learn to control their childish outbursts of temper.

But the control of emotions involves these 3 vital parts:

- (1) Control the external environment.
- (2) Too much eyestrain, as from watching television incessantly, may predispose to irritability in children as well as adults.
- (3) Likewise, too much sedentary work will also bottle up the normal physical energy that seeks expression.

In the schools, we thus schedule recess periods in mid-morning and mid-afternoon, primarily to give the kiddies a chance to run and romp, thus letting off steam.

Around the house, such tasks as mowing the lawn, washing windows, painting the garage or jogging in the morning or at night, will do much the same thing.

A punching bat or weight lifting will also dissipate such excess energy.

(2) Control of the internal environment.

Occasionally a person has too much thyroid secretion, which then makes him irascible and incline to fly off the handle.

A thyroidectomy may be necessary in such cases.

Also, excessive intake of caffeine drinks, such as coffee, tea and cola beverages, will make its victim "jumpy" and thus easily aroused to anger.

Certain drugs will do the same.

Frustrating a husband's eroticism may also cause angry blows.

A peptic ulcer or a chronic eyestrain headache will likewise wear down your self-control and leave you more liable to an emotional explosion.

Fear and prolonged tension, as worry over sterility, can cause nagging.

And use of alcohol over the functional mental gee to that of a child, thus anesthetizing the control centers in the brain and letting the victim indulge in childish emotional outbursts.

(3) Punishment, pain or threats of retribution often checkmate the chronic sadistic bullies, just as that boxer nipped his brother-in-law's brutality in the bud.

So send for my booklet "How to Control the Emotions," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets).

Explorer Post Enjoys Outing

A weekend of fun and adventure was the order for members of the High Adventure Scout Explorer Post 205 and Explorer Post 25 of Farmville, who spent the weekend in the N. C. Mountains. Back-packing, pioneer camping, fishing, and a skunk were the highlights of the weekend.

Explorers from Post 205 making the trip were Gary Butts, David Diehl, Dillon Forbes, Walter Gray, Danny Harrington, and Dwight Harris. Adults who made the trip were Advisor Thomas Butts, Asst. Advisor Hugh Benson and Post 25 Advisor Jack Farrior. Mr. Farrior also served as host and tour guide.

Explorer Post 205 is sponsored by Memorial Baptist Church.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
2 NT	3 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♥
Pass	Pass	Dble.	Pass
Pass	Pass

A driving finish enabled Richard Khautin, Forest Hills, New York, and Warren Kornfeld, New York City to overtake the leaders and win the Blue Ribbon Pairs—the premier Pair Event of tournament bridge—at the Fall Nationals which was held in Lancaster, Pa. It was their first National title.

A variety of results were obtained when the above hand was dealt during a qualifying round of the Blue Ribbon Event. The optimum East-West contract was five diamonds, however, most of the North-South pairs were permitted to play four hearts and made either four or five depending on the defense. One East-West partnership, who were enterprising enough to enter the auction, achieved a satisfactory result on the deal by doubling their opponents in five hearts and recording a two trick set.

West passed as the dealer, and when the auction reverted to him, his opponents had opened the bidding and responded in his two shortest suits. Even though the auction was about to enter the three level, it was his desire to compete in one of the remaining suits, but which one? If East had good clubs and only indifferent diamonds, then clubs would provide the better vehicle.

In order to avoid guesswork, West made an unusual no trump overcall by bidding two no trump. Since he had already passed, it must be obvious that he is not making a natural call, and the common sense of the situation is that he wishes his partner to take a choice between the unbid suits.

North showed his support for South's response by raising to three hearts. East's jump to five diamonds is worthy of note. This bid is not nearly as drastic as it may seem, since he has an excellent fit for both suits that West is known to have by virtue of his unusual no trump overcall. If it proves that five diamonds cannot be made, then surely the opposition can score substantially their way, and the sacrifice should be relatively cheap.

South proceeded to five hearts and after the next two hands passed, East doubled. West was on lead with a void in spades, and realizing that he might obtain two ruffs in that suit provided that he could put his partner in twice, he opened the deuce of diamonds. The underlead of the ace was, of course, risky, but West felt that desperate measures were in order.

East was a bit surprised to win the trick with the king, but he had no trouble in diagnosing that his partner had no spades. A spade return netted one ruff and when East was put in a second time with the ace of clubs, another spade lead completed the damages resulting in a 300 point profit for the defense.

Telephone System Improvement, Expansion Ready

Improvement and expansion of Greenville's telephone system is about to begin. Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company's manager, Don A. Collier, said today a $253,166 program has been engineered and scheduled.

Another program totalling $127,846 is scheduled for about the same time. The first project provides for placing a conduit system and additional facilities along N. C. Highway 11 south toward Winterville and adjacent areas in the southwest section of the Hooker Road Office area. There are now 593 lines and 732 stations working throughout the feed area.

Construction in this section continues at a rapid pace. Subdivisions and trailer parks in Winterville are expanding with new additions planned for this year. The development of the area is expected to continue and accelerate since a large number of new homes are being built by employees of industries located at Greenville, Ayden, Grifton, and Kinston.

It is planned to begin construction of the conduit system in May and to complete the work by August of this year. Placement of the cable should begin in August with the cutover scheduled for November with 685 lines and 826 stations. These loads are expected to increase to 2,521 lines and stations by November, 1983.

The second project proposes to reinforce facilities along N. C. Highway 30 northeast to Pactolus. The existing cable serving this area was placed in 1962 and there are presently 113 lines and 200 stations working in the feed area.

These additional facilities are much needed due to the new four-lane eastern by-pass, additional construction along this highway, and the future expected residential and commercial growth of this area.

Construction is planned to begin in May and the cutover is scheduled for August of this year with 150 lines and 248 stations. These loads are expected to increase to 737 lines and stations by August, 1983.

Collier said that the rapid growth of Greenville and the surrounding areas in recent years has brought about a tremendous demand for telephone service and has taxed the capacity of present facilities. Collier also said the new improvement and expansion programs have been engineered to meet today's needs and also to allow for telephone growth in the future.

Proper Waste Storage And Disposal Stressed

"Proper storage and disposal of waste materials are essential to good business and to the health and appearance of the community," according to a joint memorandum from County Health Department director Robert D. May and Greenville

City Manager W. H. Carstarphen.

With the cooperation and assistance of the N. C. Board of Health, the Pitt County Community Health Department and the Sanitation Division of the Greenville Public Works Department have developed the following requirements for solid waste containers: They should be metal, of not more than 25-gallon capacity, and having tight-fitting covers and strong handles. There should be no more than three in any one location. Larger ones should be of design approved by one of the two agencies. Lids should be tightly closed at all times and waste that would attract flies and/or rodents should be put in plastic bags and tied before being placed in the container. Containers should be kept clean and functioning properly. Containers installed weekly by the City Sanitation Division.

Additional information about these requirements or waste disposal services by the city and county government may be obtained by contacting either Mayo Allen, director of public works for the City, 758-4109, or W. M. Pate, chief of the Environmental Health Division of the County Health Department, 752-4141.

Nurses Here Next Month

If you ask 18,000 nurses what their problems are, you're bound to get an ear full.

A one-day regional conference of nurses participating in a survey of the N. C. State Nurses' Association will be held in the School of Nursing Auditorium of East Carolina University May 3. This is one of three conferences in the state to let nurses "talk back" about their continuing education needs, their feelings about their practice, their reasons for dropping out of practice, and what they think a professional association should offer as priority programs and services.

Serving on the Conference Planning Committee is Phyllis Nichols of Greenville, president of District 30.

The meeting is open to any registered nurse, to members of other health disciplines, and to interested lay people. All who attend will receive a copy of the printed survey report.

Led Workshop On Alcoholism

Bryom Anderson, coordinator of the East Carolina University-based National Occupational Alcoholism Training Institute, led a workshop program at a Washington, D. C. convention last week.

Anderson directed the State Occupational Programs Section at the convention of the Association of Labor-Management Administrators and Consultants on Alcoholism.

Convention program sessions concerned the theme, "Report to the Nation on Occupational Alcoholism Programs." Anderson spoke on ECU's NOATI program, which is training 111 occupational program consultants for work throughout the U. S.

Moore Speaks At Convention

Dr. Charles H. Moore of the East Carolina University psychology faculty addressed the Southeastern Psychological Association convention in New Orleans April 5-8.

He spoke on Induced Anxiety, a behavior therapy procedure which he has used in his research at ECU for the past five years.

During this period, Dr. Moore has read, sponsored or co-authored five similar reports on the procedure and has published six articles in professional journals.

Industrial Arts Group At Meet In New Jersey

Five members of the East Carolina University School of Technology faculty attended the American Industrial Arts Association's annual international conference in Atlantic City, N.J. April 2-6.

One member of the ECU group, Dr. William R. Hoots Jr., appeared on the program as a reactor to presentations on the role of industrial arts in career education.

Dr. Hoots is currently the Association's Vice President for Elementary School Industrial Arts.

Other members of the ECU delegation included Dr. Thomas Haigwood, dean of the ECU School of Technology, and Robert Leith, Bob Tate and Jerry Tester, faculty members of the Department of Industrial and Technical Education.

How I wrote a check for more money than I had in the bank and lived to tell about it.

Talk about hair-raising episodes in a person's life. I mean, my husband isn't one to kid about money, you know?

Well, I had just opened a Cash Guarantee Account at Planters National Bank. And I'm walking down the street and I see some things I need that are on sale, but I don't have enough money in our checking account to buy them. So I just go on and write a check anyway because I know Cash Guarantee will automatically put enough money in my checking account to cover the check. And leave me with a little besides.

So I got home and I said look, Rocky, at the things I got on sale today. And I overdrew our checking account to do it so what do you think about that, ha, ha.

Rocky made this horrible gurgling sound and started running around the kitchen table after me. I was running so fast, but I finally managed to get out something about Cash Guarantee Account and how it had helped me save all that money because I could shop the sale and all.

That slowed him down a little. So I told him how we could use Cash Guarantee for emergencies and how convenient it was because it was just like writing yourself a loan when you needed one, from $500 to $5000.

Well, that was all it took. Now Rocky thinks I'm brilliant about money, which is why he let me tell my story to the world.

So if you want to be safe and smart about money at the same time, go to Planters and open your own Cash Guarantee Account. Believe me, you can't find a better friend to save your life. I know.
