

Identify Martin Bormann Skeleton

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The West German government officially closed its books on Martin Bormann today when the Frankfurt attorney general ruled that a skeleton recently unearthed was "with certainty" the remains of Hitler's long missing deputy.

"Martin Bormann died on May 2, 1945, between 1 and 3 a.m. on the Invalidenstrasse railroad bridge (in Berlin) a short time after his accomplice Adolf Hitler," Attorney General Horst Gauß said.

He ordered that the 28-year search for Bormann be terminated and the warrant for his arrest lifted.

Gauß told a news conference that if anyone is arrested on suspicion that he is Bormann, "we will be dealing with an innocent man."

Reports of Bormann being seen have come repeatedly from foreign countries since 1945, but none have been confirmed. West German embassies and missions abroad now will be directed to ignore any further reports.

War criminal hunter Simon Wiesenthal attended the news conference and told newsmen that he was 99 per cent satisfied that the skeleton unearthed in West Berlin last December was Bormann's. But he expressed one per cent continuing doubt, saying "there are still hairs in the soup."

Gauß and investigator Joachim Richter based their conclusion on:

1. A comparison of the skeleton's teeth with an old sketch from Bormann's dentist.

2. Skull and bone measurements.

3. The discovery of mended fractures in an arm and collarbone, fractures such as Bormann had suffered.

4. Reconstruction of Bormann's face on the basis of the skull of the skeleton.

5. Discovery of glass splinters from a capsule like those used by leading Nazis to commit suicide by cyanide poisoning.

A second skeleton found buried in an old fair ground was identified as that of Dr. Ludwig Stumpfegger, the last physician in Hitler's bunker when Berlin was falling. Bormann and Stumpfegger were among seven top Nazis who broke out of the Fuehrer's bunker late on the night of May 1, 1945, a day after Hitler committed suicide.

Midwest Hit By Snowstorm And Deep Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An early spring storm that paralyzed parts of the Midwest churned across the Northeast today bringing heavy snow and freezing temperatures.

Freeze or frost warnings were extended from Missouri and Illinois into the Ohio Valley and to the Gulf Coast states. Only Florida was expected to be spared. Birmingham, Ala., reported a record April 10 low of 31 degrees.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted for parts of Maine, where five inches already had hit Rumford. Greenville and Houlton had four inches. Several more inches were predicted for today.

Gale-force winds pounded much of the Great Lakes region and the northern New England coast.

In the Midwest, where the winterlike storm struck fiercely Monday and Tuesday, cleanup operations progressed and most snow-clogged highways were opened.

Fair skies prevailed over most of the nation outside the East.

The death count for storm-related incidents totaled 30 for Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Most of the victims were pushing cars, shoveling snow or seeking shelter from the storm when they died.

Moderate temperatures were expected to help the Iowa situation, but just as relief was coming, a new peril arose—flooding streams. The National Weather Service said the Des Moines River, Cedar Creek and the Skunk River all would be over their banks by the weekend.

In Missouri, new concern was expressed about the flooding Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The Corps of Army Engineers was assessing possible effects of the storm and additional snow melt on the St. Louis region. Levees in Illinois and Missouri withstood a strong attack from the pounding of six-foot waves stirred up by winds up to 60 miles per hour Tuesday.

Flooding in Monroe County, Mich., south of Detroit, and the Toledo, Ohio, area were said to be the worst in the past half-century. Damage estimates soared into the millions as residents began returning to homes damaged by the storm-tossed waters of Lake Erie.

Meanwhile, a biology professor at Southern Illinois University raised the possibility of a new problem in the flood areas.

Dr. Joel Margalit said standing water left from the floods could produce a bumper crop of disease-carrying mosquitos.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese sent about 1,000 tons of artillery shells and other ammunition into northern provinces of South Vietnam last week, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Meanwhile, an estimated 700 North Vietnamese trucks were said to have rolled down the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos during the same period.

Most of this materiel also is expected to end up in South Vietnam, the sources said.

Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson spoke Tuesday of a "continuing buildup in the materiel available to the North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam."

"While this does not in itself point to the likelihood of any major new offensive in the short term," Richardson said, "nevertheless, the process by which this has been going on has been in violation of the cease-fire agreement."

Thus, the North Vietnamese supply shipments have been continuing without letup despite President Nixon's warnings first uttered in March and twice repeated since then.

South Vietnamese military authorities have told American officials the North Vietnamese will have been resupplied and equipped sufficiently to launch major attacks this month in the two vulnerable provinces just below the demilitarized zone.

Regardless of differing estimates as to when a North Vietnamese offensive might come, there is general agreement that Hanoi is preparing for extensive military operations in South Vietnam, where the war was supposed to have ended through the cease-fire Jan. 27.

Reinforcing this belief are inelligence reports of Communist engineer troops improving an important road across the DMZ so trucks can drive directly south through the old U.S. Marine base at Khe Sanh, regardless of weather.

Also, U.S. intelligence says the North Vietnamese have extended a motor-fuel pipeline

Utilities Approve Gas Rate Increase

Utilities commissioners approved an increase in gas rates Tuesday night, to become effective May 1.

The action was a "tracking" increase, which means that it covers the cost of an increase in rates by Greenville Utilities supplier. That increase was 1.5 cents per million cubic feet.

Under the new schedule the first 200 cubic feet will continue to be $1.50 minimum. The next 800 cubic feet will go from .259 per ccf to .261 per ccf; the next 2,000 cubic feet will go from .219 to .221 per ccf; the next 47,000 cubic feet from .159 to .161 per ccf and over 50,000 cubic feet from .119 to .121 per ccf.

Customers purchasing gas on an interruptible basis will have their rate increased from 62 cents per mcf to 64 cents.

Director Charles Horne

reported that the Pitt County commissioners had agreed to participate to the extent of 50 percent in the cost of extending a sewer outfall line to an industrial site on the old Whichard farm.

The commissioners turned down a request from Garrison-Evans Luber Co. to provide utilities in North River Estates subdivision under the old policy.

Approved was a policy which would allow the person making application for an area light to deposit funds for payment over long periods.

The change was made to allow several persons to participate in an area light with one person acting as agent. The lights, similar to a street light, cost $3.50 per month.

Named Finalist In Competition

Nancy M. Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Martin of Greenville, has been announced a finalist in the annual National Merit Scholarship Corporation program for 1973.

In this selection of winners are students who have received scholarships sponsored by major American firms and corporations, in four-year merit scholarships ranging from $100 to $1,500 each for the four year period.

Nancy, a senior at Rose High, is one of 34 winners from North Carolina. Her scholarship is one sponsored by Burroughs Wellcome Company, with headquarters in Research Triangle Park and a plant in Greenville.

Burroughs Wellcome, a manufacturer of pharmaceuticals, is sponsoring three merit scholarships for 1973 and to date has sponsored a total of 23 scholarships since the

Credit Cards

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Standard Oil apparently thinks Gregg Chastain is a pretty good credit risk.

So good, in fact, that the company sent him 315 credit cards in the mail Tuesday.

Chastain found the cards, all with his name and credit number and packed in a small box, waiting for him when he came home from work.

National Merit Scholarship program has been in effect.

Nancy plans to major in pre-law studies after graduation from Rose High. She is a member of the National Honor Society, vice-president of the French Club, a member of the Spanish, Math and Science-Ecology Clubs, and the Rose High Chess Club.

NANCY M. MARTIN

She has won awards in French and Spanish.

Additional winners in other categories of the National Merit Scholarship winners will be announced at a later date. The current list of winners covers only winners of standard four-year Merit Scholarships usually named for the sponsoring organization.

Lebanon Shaken By Israeli Raid On Terrorists

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Suleiman Franjeh today pondered whether to accept the resignation of Premier Saeb Salam, submitted to him because of the Israeli raid on Beirut.

The United States meanwhile denied charges by the Arab guerrillas that it had a hand in the raid.

Security forces in armored cars, on foot and wielding batons dispersed 500 demonstrating students trying to reach the American Embassy today to protest Israel's surprise raid on Lebanon.

The shouting, clapping students, who had been marching in the streets since early morning, scattered into side streets to regroup. Other students marched elsewhere in the troubled city.

Equipped with bullhorns, several students led the embassy demonstrators in chanting "Down with imperialism" and "There Is No Difference Between Israel and the United States."

Extra security forces were moved up to the embassy in the wake of the Israeli attack. Demonstrators who tried to reach it Tuesday also were turned back.

Premier Saeb Salam, who resigned Tuesday night, cautioned the Lebanese and Palestinians against "exploiting funerals to stir up violence."

Public funerals are planned Thursday for the three Palestinian leaders slain in their apartments by the Israeli commandos early Tuesday.

Informed sources said President Suleiman Franjeh has decided to accept Salam's resignation.

Three Pitt County Students Named To Leadership School

Three Pitt County students have been selected to attend the Summer Leadership School held on the campus of Mars Hill College June 17 through July 20.

The students are: Cynthia Elizabeth Rook, a student at North Pitt High School; Rose High student William Francis Prichard Jr. and Donna Sayce, a student at D.H. Conley High School.

The three local students will be among 100 from North Carolina chosen to attend the leadership session. The purpose of the program is to identify potential leaders at the secondary level as well as approaches to developing individual competencies.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rook Jr. of Bethel, Miss Rook's high school activities include membership in the Pep Club and Future Homemakers of America. She serves as an aide in the North Pitt reading lab.

A member of the Bethel United Methodist Church, she is active in the Methodist Youth Fellowship, sings in the church choir and teachers Sunday

Indian Commission Plans No Active Session On Robeson Case

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer

The North Carolina Commission for Indian Affairs "will hear (grievances) from any tribe," its chairman says.

W. R. Richardson of Rt. 1, Hollister, chief of the Haliwa Tribe in Halifax and Warren counties, is acting chairman of the two-year-old commission. He told The Associated Press Tuesday that the commission has heard from Tuscarora Indians from Robeson County at one recent meeting but plans no further active session with them.

A group from Robeson is in Raleigh, seeking to have the commission called into special session to hear their grievances, which include recognition as a tribe.

The Indian commission was established by the 1971 general Assembly. H. Pat Taylor of Wadesboro, who was lieutenant governor at the time and who was an ex-officio member until leaving office early this year, recalls meeting with the organization twice.

"The theory behind it was that they (Indians) needed some organization to express their interests, their concerns. I've thought right much about it in view of recent events and I think that's not a bad idea," Taylor said.

"If we'd created the Indian commission 15 years ago we might not have the problems we have today. One of the things about government is that it never tries to solve a problem until it becomes a crisis.

"I feel like the commission never got started good," Taylor added.

The commission has an executive director, Early Maynor of Pembroke, 12 members who represent four Indian groups, and Raleigh offices. It meets every three months with the next scheduled session April 20, according to a spokesman for the Tuscaroras.

Chairman Richardson could not confirm the date.

Richardson, who pointed out he was elected vice chairman of the commission but has held the chairmanship because the former officer stepped down before his term expired, indicated he believes the organization can be useful to Indians. "It's not doing what we hoped it would do; it's new," he said.

The statute setting up the commission empowered it to pinpoint problems affecting Indians and seek solutions.

Members are the Haliwas, Lumbees from Robeson County, Coharries from Sampson County and Waccamaws from the Lake Waccamaw area.

Former state Sen. Zeb Alley of Waynesville, one of the legislators instrumental in getting the enabling act passed, said other states have similar commissions. He noted that even though the eastern North Carolina Indians are not recognized tribes, "they have problems associated with Indians—poverty, the need for jobs."

The Cherokees of the North Carolina mountains, the state's largest tribe, are not on the commission. Alley said at the last minute in the 371 session he was asked by Cherokee leaders to exclude them from the bill. He said they "had liaison with the federal government through the Bureau of Indian Affairs, a direct channel to Washington."

The commission has authority to deal with the federal government, under the state law, regarding North Carolina Indians. But Chairman Richardson said in answer to a question about whether it has, "I'd rather not make any comment on that as yet."

Churchwoman Says Church Is Big Enough For All

By PAT KAILER
Journal Staff Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Mrs. Roger Davis, moderator-elect of the newly organized Synod of the Southwest of the United Presbyterian Church, dispels what she calls a general feeling that the church doesn't want Indians or women involved.

A Navajo long active in women's activities of the Presbyterian church, she can speak with some authority of both groups.

"There is a feeling the church structure is so closed and rigid and not flexible enough to really involve people, but my experience has proved otherwise," she said.

"It just comes down to the person. It's a matter of getting in there and working."

Of Indians, she said that for a long time they have been told by the Presbyterian church or by reservation missionaries what policies are going to be, but now it's changing.

"It really bothers me — the Indians complain, but they don't always want to get involved at the synod level where decisions are made. I don't see how they can complain if they're not involved — they're at fault if they allow it to continue."

And of women, she says, "It's difficult to get women involved at the decision-making level. They tend to restrict themselves to traditional women's church work. And I'm not just talking about Presbyterian women."

Mrs. Davis didn't find it all that easy to get involved at the synod executive level herself.

"When the call came asking if they could put my name up for the moderator-elect spot, I wasn't sure. Every now and then I still have cold feet about it and wonder if I should have said no."

"But my husband said, 'You've been stressing involvement for Indians and women. If you back out now, you're not practicing what you're preaching."

"I replied that it was up to him, that if I got involved, there'd be a lot of sacrificing on both sides. And it was a brand new synod, and so big, I was sure I wouldn't be elected. Often ordained ministers fill this position but it's amazing this year. Many more laymen were elected to positions."

Outgoing and friendly, the church leader smiles and says she was surprised to be elected general chairman of the synod ministerial committee, the committee that works with budgets and does the ministerial hiring and firing.

She's taken some good-natured teasing about that as to how popular she's going to be with the ministers.

Whatever her duties and wherever they take her, the family is first.

"We have our children such a short time," she said, "and I wouldn't be able to do this job without the whole family's cooperation."

Her husband, Roger, has long been active in the church, but not so much now: "We can't have two in the family so active."

A graduate of the University of Arizona, Davis is director of the resources division for the Navajo tribe and is the son of retired reservation missionaries.

Mrs. Davis, born to Presbyterian parents at Tuba City, Ariz., went to high school at the Ganado Mission and Flagstaff, attended college at Northern Arizona University.

She and her husband moved to Window Rock in 1954. Their oldest child, Tony, is a senior at NAU in Flagstaff. They are also parents of two daughters, Grace, 14, and Charlene, 10, and another son, Roger II, a first grader.

Young people in the church are one of the moderator-elect's greatest concerns.

Speaking of her personal faith and her concern for faith in families, she said, "It may be going too far to say the church-oriented family is the only family that's going to survive, but that's the way I feel, said Mrs. Davis. "I realize and am frightened that so many families are going in an opposite direction. I feel my faith is and always will be my foundation and I really can't imagine not having it,"

She Wants To Know 'Who's My Dad?'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old and reasonably well adjusted altho I grew up without a father.

My mother told me that a few months after she married my father he was killed in the war. It didn't take too much intelligence to figure out that if my father had really been killed in the war he would have been considered a hero in the eyes of his widow, and she'd have kept his memory alive with pictures, letters and souvenirs to be shared with his family. It also seemed strange to me that I had never met one relative on my father's side.

I have concluded that I am illegitimate. Believe me, I love my mother and I am not judging her regardless of what the facts were, but I would like to know who my father was. Should I ask my mother?

CURIOUS DAUGHTER

DEAR CURIOUS: You say you "love" your mother, and I'm sure you do. For 30 years you've given her no reason to suspect that you doubted her explanation. Leave it that way, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-year-old daughter who is so boy crazy she worries me sick. All she thinks about is boys. She's got boys' names written all over her books. And every piece of paper by the telephone is marked up with initials and boys' names.

When the doorbell rings she runs like lightning to talk to any delivery boy it happens to be.

What really bothers me is she lies. I don't allow her to go in cars with boys so she walks to a girl's house and the boys meet her with a car there. I found this out by reading her diary. I asked her for the truth and she lied to cover up her lies. How can I get the truth out of her?

MRS. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: The only reason children lie is because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. Give your daughter that courage by assuring her that no matter what she has done you will understand and forgive her. Perhaps your threats are too frightening and your punishments too severe. Give your child plenty of love and expect the best, and you'll rarely be disappointed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old single woman. I am reasonably happy and normal in every respect, and believe it or not, I am not desperate to get married. Nobody can believe this.

I have several relatives who are determined to find a husband for me. They have given my telephone number to dozens of men, from 25 years old to 60! I've been called by widowers, bachelors, and men who have been married from one to five times! I have dated any number of these strangers and have found them to be boring, presumptuous, arrogant, immature, and in general a waste of time. When a friend suggests a blind date, I ask the friend to invite both of us to a party so we can meet. But with relatives giving my phone number to every Tom, Dick, and Harry, I am on the spot unless I say, "I'm going with someone," and I hate to lie.

So, what can I do about these well-meaning relatives? NOT THAT DESPERATE

DEAR NOT: Treat them as friends, and ask them to invite you and the man they had in mind to a party. Or if a stranger calls who sounds interesting, make a coffee date with him. That way you won't have to invest a lot of time on a pig in a poke, and he won't invest a lot of money on a gamble.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "S" IN ROSEBURG, ORE.: Tell your "ex" that the key to your home does not go with visitation privileges to see the children, so please return the key. And if he doesn't, have your locks changed.

Fashion Designer Gives Tips To Home-Sewers

By United Press International

McCall's Patterns has retained the services of world famous designer Halston. He has designed six styles for their new Carefree Pattern collection. He also has some tips for home-sewers. To wit:

—Know what styles are becoming to you before selecting patterns.

—Know exactly what your lifestyle is, so that you can successfully plan your wardrobe needs.

—Be sure when making clothes and fitting them that they are comfortable. (Halston suggests before a garment is finished you "move" in it. Try fixing your hair, sit, walk ... in front of a mirror.)

—Make sure the fabric suits the style you intend to make.

—Plan your wardrobe early in advance and co-ordinate a color theme. Plan accessories accordingly so that fewer pieces are needed.

—Pay attention to details. Spend the time, even if it means an extra day or two, to finish a garment properly. Don't shortcut ... take all the pattern instruction steps ... you'll be happier with the result. (Halston believes an outfit should be as pretty on the inside as the outside.)

—Prints are fun, but solids have a longer life in any garment.

—Skirt lengths are mid-kneish, above the knee only if you have pretty legs and are young.

Look at your proportions and the proportions of an outfit in front of a full length mirror before you hem.

—Silhouette: a narrow shoulder and a narrow bodice is young looking and more becoming to most women. Below the waist an outfit can be cut away from the body.

—If you make clothes that are becoming and comfortable you are at ease and this breaks all barriers of tension, socially.

—Do make clothes in colors most becoming to you.

Picasso Legacy For The Ages

No doubt Mankind will spend centuries digesting the influence of Pablo Picasso on the world of art.

Picasso died in France this week at the age of 91. His period had spanned the great era of world history that saw most everything we consider modern developed—the automobile, aircraft, electric power and, perhaps the thing that affected his style most, photography.

He was actively at work on new art, which will become priceless treasures, right up to his death. Contrary to the image of the great artist whose work is only appreciated many years after death, Picasso enjoyed huge success while he lived and was probably the world's richest artist because of it.

Picasso's style was tremendously controversial and from most of us it brought forth the observation, "It may be art, but I don't understand it."

Picasso's answer was, "Everyone wants to understand art. Why not try to understand the song of birds? Why does one love the night, flowers, everything around one, without trying to understand them? But where art is concerned people think they must understand it."

Picasso was the genius of modern art. His output of work was huge and because he lived so many years, he left us a legacy of art which will elicit debate and controversy for years and even centuries to come. It may be equally as long before the effect of his work on art and design is fully evaluated and appreciated.

Basic Catalyst Of Tax Reform

RALEIGH — Politics is the catalyst moving tax reform from the realm of abstract discussion to realistic possibility in the 1973 General Assembly.

When Gov. Jim Holshouser, a Republican, gave his support to repeal of the soft drink tax, it sent Democratic legislators searching for alternatives.

Tax Relief Secondary
Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt said he has not changed his position that tax relief is secondary to unmet needs. The budget prepared by the Appropriations Committee must be carefully evaluated, he said, before consideration for reducing revenues.

"In light of federal cut-backs in essential programs in North Carolina, to take a substantial bite out of the tax base would have very serious consequences," he warned. In the event a tax cut is possible, he added, it should be "as broadly based as we can make it. We should take into account the fairness and equity of the tax, and also who's going to get it back."

The soft drink tax would rank high as a candidate for elimination on the basis of its discriminatory nature, he granted. "In terms of who get the tax back, food would rate higher," Hunt said.

Repeal of the soft drink tax has been the object of a highly visible and intensive lobbying campaign by the industry.

Hard Choice Posed
What some Democrats would like is to put the Republicans and Gov. Holshouser in the politically uncomfortable position of choosing between a special interest, such as the bottlers, and the tax on food.

Efforts to get a vote on soft drink tax repeal in the House Finance Committee failed last week. It was sent, along with a variety of tax reduction measures, to a subcommittee for study. The delaying tactic presented a serious handicap to the repeal effort.

In the aftermath, Holshouser intimated he might revise his position after assessing the situation. "I'm not prepared to say yes or no right now," he said, on whether he will stick with the soft drink tax repeal.

The larger question is the scope of the revenue structure, not just a single levy, said Sen. Smith. North Carolina has moved over the past decade from dependence on the income tax to the sales tax as its major source, he said. "I'd like to see that trend reversed," he said.

Taxpayers would come off better under his plan, even those in the $20,000 income bracket, he predicted. The typical family at that level would pay $10 more income tax and save $40 in sales tax on food, he said.

Higher taxes would result for less than three per cent of taxpayers, those at the very top, he said. Through credit on federal income tax, Smith noted, they would recoup some of the increase to the state — a form of revenue sharing.

There's Not Much The Peacekeepers Can Do

There is not much the peace keeping mission in Vietnam can do, if its helicopters are to be shot down by Communist forces.

Nine persons were killed in a helicopter crash over the weekend, including four members of the commission. Since then two other helicopters have been shot at in missions over Viet Cong-held territory.

The Viet Cong expressed "deep regret" at the deaths but claimed the helicopter was off its prescribed path.

A peace keeping commission should be able to go wherever it needs to go to end the shooting in Vietnam. It is most regrettable that this is not now the case.

Deaf Ears In White House

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The deepening resistance of Richard M. Nixon's White House to outside criticism on the disastrous course of the new Nixonomics was dramatized in the President's refusal to accept a prepaid telephone call from Dr. Pierre Rinfret last week.

Rinfret, Canadian-born head of the New York economic consulting firm of Rinfret Boston Associates, sometimes acts the brash iconoclast in the occult world of economics. But to President Nixon and the 110 gilt-edged financial and industrial clients in Rinfret's consulting portfolio, he is more often regarded as a trend-setter whose advice politicians of all ideologies seek out.

Indeed, President Nixon thought so highly of Rinfret's ability to marry economics and politics on the speaking platform that he named him chief campaign spokesman for economics last fall. There never was any regret inside the White House over that decision.

Yet, when Rinfret attempted to telephone his galvanic alarm over runaway inflation to Mr. Nixon one day last week, he failed to reach not only the President but his chief of staff, H. R. (Bob) Haldeman. Instead, Rinfret was deftly deflected to Haldeman's assistant, Lawrence M. Higby. Higby listened and said nothing when Rinfret, in a burst of exasperation, told him to inform Mr. Nixon that the new Nixonomics of rampant inflation—with no sign of serious preventive medicine either at the White House or in George Shultz's Treasury Department—mark the "political Waterloo" of the Nixon presidency.

Rinfret is not the only objective, outside economist now convinced that if Mr.

Nixon does not plant across-the-board price controls on everything the American consumer buys—a major shift in administration policy which had not occurred as we write this—the American economy will be sucked ever deeper into ruinous Brazilian-style inflation, followed by recession.

Albert Sindlinger, probably the nation's leading expert on consumer analysis, is telling his marketing research clients that his earlier prediction of an acceptably gentle economic downturn in the fourth quarter of 1973 has been drastically changed. The new prediction: a full-fledged recession.

Sindlinger's remarkably accurate polling data, based on thousands of nationwide telephone samples, shows a precipitous decline in consumer confidence since the President's self-defeating and politically disastrous March 29 ceiling on meat prices — ceiling at their highest price level in history. It shows, more ominously, a dangerous increase in hedge buying against future inflation.

In short, it makes this telling economic point with immense political significance: that inflation psychology, all but knocked out during the successful Phase I and II of the President's anti-inflation program, was magically reborn with the pro-inflation adrenalin shot of Phase III three months ago.

There is, moreover, irrefutable evidence that Mr. Nixon had originally planned a far more draconian anti-inflation move on March 29. The speech he made that night, imposing a ceiling on meat prices, was originally drafted by the President himself with little advice from do-nothing administration economists. At the last minute, however,

Inspector Colombo Calls

WASHINGTON—Peter Falk playing his famous role of Colombo walked into the East Room of the White House in his dirty raincoat and flashed his police card. "Inspector Colombo" he said showing it to President Nixon. "Say, this sure is a nice house you got here. How much does a place like this cost?"

"I'm having a private party for my staff," the President said indignantly. "What do you want?"

"Oh, I really apologize," Colombo said. "I didn't mean to come busting in on a party. Say, is that a real oil painting of George Washington? It's a fantastic work of art—don't get me wrong, I don't know anything about painting."

"Will you state your business, Inspector?"

"I'm just making some routine inquiries about the Watergate bugging case. You see, I'm on loan to the Senate investigating committee from the Los Angeles Police Department. It will only take a few minutes."

"We have nothing to hide here," the President said. "This is my assistant, H. R. Haldeman, my legal aide, John Dean III, my former assistant, Charles Colson, the former secretary of commerce, Maurice Stans, and the former attorney general, John Mitchell, and his wife Martha."

"This is really a great honor," Colombo said. "I never thought I would get to meet so many important people. Wait till I tell my wife. She's really going to be bowled over."

"What exactly is it you want to know?" the President asked.

"Oh, yes," Colombo said, taking out his pad and pencil. "Now let me see."

Martha Mitchell said, "Inspector, I'd like to tell you a few things about the Watergate...."

"Martha, will you shut up?" John Mitchell interrupted.

"They're not going to hang this on my John," Martha said.

"Martha!"

"Can I offer you a drink, Inspector?" the President asked.

"Just some orange juice if you've got it, Mr. President. I have a bad stomach. You know in this job you never eat properly. Last night I had a tuna fish sandwich on a roll and...."

"Will you get on with it, Inspector?" H. R. Haldeman said.

"I'm sorry, where was I? Oh yes, now about the Watergate. This is just routine, you understand, but where were each of you the night of the break-in?"

"I was watching 'Patton,'" the President said.

"I was in Mexico City at a bank," Maurice Stans said. "I was reading FBI files," John Dean III said.

"I was cutting the budget," H. R. Haldeman replied.

"I'll tell you where John was," Martha Mitchell said. "Martha, clam up," John Mitchell said.

"Well if I don't tell him, I'll tell United Press," Martha said.

"You see," Colombo said, shutting his notebook. "I knew this would all be a waste of time. I told them no one in the White House knows anything about the Watergate. Say, that is some rug. Do you mind if I take a picture of it to show the folks in Los Angeles?"

Just then the butler came in with Colombo's glass of orange juice.

"Thank you very much," Colombo said to the butler. "I

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: Most men can't spell mayonnaise.

At any one time—except when they are asleep—no more than two out of every ten people are usually free enough from fear, passion, financial troubles or loneliness to be called as sane and normal as they should be. When they are asleep, the number of normal people probably rises to two out of five—on good nights.

HAL BOYLE

If you are over 40 and want to be shocked by how far you have failed physically, simply play a game of hopscotch with a 10-year-old girl.

The cheapest millionaires are those who smoke cigars. They will generously take you to lunch, but when you return to their office for a talk they will fish a big cigar from an expensive box of them on the desk and spend the next hour blowing smoke in your face. Rarely will they hold out the box to you and invite you to have one or a handful. To them the cigars are a kind of symbolic reward which only they deserve. If you need a free cigar, ask a cab driver—not a millionaire.

On a rainy day, three times as many men as women will get their eyeball stuck by the point of an umbrella. Anyone who thinks this percentage is accidental doesn't know human nature—or the female gender.

The reason I haven't taken up yoga, as many of my friends have, is that I figure if God had wanted me to be a pretzel, he would have made me one.

The ordinary adult feels about teen-agers pretty much like Gelett Burgess felt about the purple cow—he'd rather see than be one. Speaking of Burgess, here are three more lines from this wry and partly forgotten humorist you may like:

"Many people live alone and like it, but most of them live alone and look it." "To be two years a widow exceedeth a college education." "If the Lord would only send something interesting, I wouldn't mind if it was only a plaid pig."

Any girl who sticks a guy for a sirloin steak three times in a row when he takes her out to dinner doesn't deserve marriage anyway.

One out of three people who take up an office collection for any cause doesn't chip in a buck himself. And it isn't because he forgets to.

Guys with white shoes don't wear very well either.

One of the things I feel sorry for about kids growing up today is that most of them never have put their ear to a railroad track to hear if the train is coming. Remember what a thrill and feeling of daring that gave you the first time you did it?

For that matter, how many alive now can recall ever having been switched by a buggy whip? Once was enough to improve any character.

Other Editors Say 'Accident Of Birth'

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

The U.S. Supreme Court's ruling upholding the use of local property taxes to finance public schools has, perhaps predictably, been decried by a number of educators.

"The yield of crops and the concentration of wealth in individual communities will continue to determine the king of education each child receives," says Allan M. West, acting executive secretary of the National Education Association.

"Thus the quality of education a child receives depends in no small part upon the accident of birth or residence—the place a child's parents happen to live."

This is essentially true, but it is also true that a great many other things in life also depend upon the accident of birth, beginning with looks and basic physical stamina—the kind of parents one happens to "choose."

The question is how far government should attempt to level out the inequalities of life, and this seems to be one thicket which the Supreme Court wisely refrained from leaping into.

If it is properly within the domain of the courts to equalize the financial disparities between a state's school districts, what about the disparities between the quality of police and fire protection and other government services in each community? Then there is the larger question of educational inequalities between the states themselves.

As West points out, there is nothing in the decision to prevent the states from reforming their own school finance systems. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., writing for the majority, made clear that the court was not endorsing the status quo.

This, and the fact that there have been so many class-action suits on the issue, not just the one in Texas on which the court based its decision, suggests that it is a very real problem which the individual states must sooner or later find ways of remedying.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American way of life, primarily the quest for a cleaner, safe, more secure environment, is contributing inexorably to the problem of rising prices.

Cleaner air, safer cars and more employment security are some of the more positive and desirable factors that can lead to higher prices. But negatives, such as poor workmanship, are equally potent inflators.

Close to 37 million vehicles have been recalled in 6½ years for the correction of safety defects, at least some of which can be attributed to faulty workmanship at the design or assembly stage.

Another negative factor is theft. In a new book, "Security Control: Internal Theft," Bob Curtis, a business and government consultant on retail store theft comments:

"Employee theft is the most critical element in store inventory shortages. It accounts for an estimated 60 to 75 per cent of a store's losses, and nearly a third of all business failures...are brought about by employee theft."

Environmental issues, however, appear to be second only to rising demand itself in pushing up some prices, not just for gasoline, fuel oil and electricity but, it is claimed, for new housing also.

Advance Mortgage Corp., a home mortgage lender, claims that "ecological restrictions already are pushing up prices in Washington, D.C., Southern California, the New York suburbs and less pronouncedly in Atlanta and Chicago.

"Paradoxically," says Irving Rose, president, "the ecological restrictions have increased demand. The news that they are in prospect converts future into present buyers. People rush to acquire their piece of Eden before the gates are shut."

Lumber suppliers and critics of U.S. land policy also claim that short supplies could be alleviated somewhat by permitting easier access to reserves on public lands.

Automobile safety standards are criticized as inflationary in this month's First National City Bank "Monthly Economic Letter," which suggests that some requirements might be made less rigid and others optional.

It notes that an Office of Science and Technology report estimates the 1975-1976 federal standards could hike the retail price of a car by $350, or twice what industry officials believe would be the cost of less stringent California measures.

An Environmental Protection Agency report to Congress estimates that in 1977, when all federal controls on motor vehicles are scheduled to be effective, the annual costs will be more than $8 billion.

It is not only the demand for quantity that's pushing up prices, the demand for quality is, too.

GOD CARES

Does God have any real care for our needs?

Men have asked this question with bated breath from the beginning of time. There is nothing academic about a question of this type. Men ask it as the circumstances of life jostle them. It is in the hours of darkness that they doubt the goodness of God. If they are broken by evil fortune they anxiously ask themselves and anyone else who will listen to them: does God really care? The Bible's answer to this question is always positive and unwavering. Yes, God does care. He is against our sin, but he is never against us. In sunlight and darkness, in health and in disability, in prosperity and in poverty, in achievement and in disappointment, God is always with us. Even the Old Testament writers, to whom the fullness of God's loving purpose had not been revealed, affirm that God is good. In the New Testament, we find the full answer to this question as we look upon the life and purposes of Christ.

Lecture-Demonstration On Dance

In two sessions Tuesday at McGinnis Auditorium, 14 young dancers of the North Carolina Dance Theater demonstrated basic techniques and danced excerpts from their repertoire for fifth and sixth graders from Greenville City Schools.

From 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. and again from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m., the lecture-demonstration session began with Duncan Noble, Associate Director of the theater, giving a brief history of the development of ballet and modern dance. Noble also explained that dances are based on basic body movements — bend, stretch, rise, glide, dart, jump and turn, with dance incorporating these movements in variations and combinations of variations.

"Dance is really a creation of design in space," Noble told the young audience.

During their four day residency in Greenville, Janet Spencer, General Manager, said that the N. C. Dance Theater of Winston-Salem is conducting seminars in the public schools in Greenville. These were held yesterday, and are being held today and Friday.

In addition, the company will spend Thursday in master classes at McGinnis Dance Studio in conjunction with students of Miss Mavis Ray, choreographer at East Carolina University. On that date, the dancers will be joined by Robert Lindgren, director of the dance theater.

The highlight of their four day residency here is to be a public concert at 8:15 p.m. Thursday evening in McGinnis Auditorium. (Tickets are now available at $1.50 for children under 12 and $3.00 for adults).

One of the dancers, Gwen Spear, is a native of Greenville. The other 13 dancers are Sharon Filone, Kathleen Fitzgerald, Rodwic Fukino, Jan Horn, Cortlandt Jones, Lynn Keeton, Shultz apparently dissuaded Mr. Nixon from going nearly so far as he had intended. The tepid result shocked insiders who knew the President's original intention.

Thus, free-marketeers Shultz and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, as of this writing seem bent on a replay of Nixonomics I, where the administration brazenly stuck to its discredited "game plan" for two years before junking it with the dramatic Aug. 15, 1971, wage-price freeze.

To plan and carry out that sensational about-face, Mr. Nixon had to reach far beyond his stand-pat economic regulars and enlist Texas Democrat John B. Connally.

Although no one outside the White House today can get through to Mr. Nixon on the equally disastrous Nixonomics II, a similar spectacular reversal is clearly in order. Otherwise, the President can forget all about his new Republican majority.

Synthetic Food Colors Topic Of New Concern

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New concern is being expressed about the safety of synthetic food colors as a federal ban takes effect today against a widely used violet dye recently shown to cause cancer.

"The Violet No. 1 ban should be a reminder that artificial colorings constitute the single most questionable class of food additives," says microbiologist Michael F. Jacobson, co-director of the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

"None has been adequately tested," he said. "Many colorings have been found to cause cancer or damage to internal organs of the body."

Man has been dyeing his food for thousands of years and, especially in earlier periods, dying as a consequence.

The first colors were designed to make food more appealing or to promote fraud.

In the early 1800s a woman dropped dead after eating pickles colored green with copper sulfate, supplied by her hairdresser.

And in 1860 a druggist supplied the color for a caterer's green pudding served at a public dinner. Two guests were killed by the copper arsenite.

"It is understandable that attitudes today toward legitimate use of color in foods sometimes reflect the fact that for over 2,000 years a common purpose of adding color was to defraud the consumer or to disguise adulteration," the National Academy of Sciences said in a 1971 report.

The Industrial Revolution in the mid-19th Century spurred development of more-stable coal-tar dyes. The danger of impurities was not understood and they often were used indiscriminately.

"Unfortunately, when they had a bad batch of textile color they'd sell it to the guy who wanted to dye food," said Keith H. Heine, colors expert in the Food and Drug Administration.

Today, as pharmacologists and toxicologists refine their techniques, purified derivatives of coal tar are being studied anew to determine if they cause cancer, birth defects or genetic mutations.

A German scientist began the first federally funded safety testing of coal-tar dyes in 1900. Seven were selected for listing in the 1906 Pure Food and Drugs Act.

Federal certification for purity was voluntary until 1938, when it became mandatory for the 15 colors then on the list.

About 50 colors now are certifiable in the United States, to make strawberries red even after cooking, mint-flavored gelatin green, and orangeless drinks orange.

Even pet food may be colored. Batch-by-batch certification is not required for another class of colors, including cochineal which is extracted from the bodies of insects.

The 1938 law was black and white on the question of safety, forcing the FDA to delist several dyes and threatening nearly all because at very high dosages they might cause harm to test animals.

The 1960 Color Additives Amendment allowed the agency to set safe limits for use, but imposed an automatic ban on any dye inducing cancer in man or animal.

At least a dozen dyes have been banned or partially banned since 1919 because of the controversial supposition that, if they pose a threat to animals, they're dangerous to man as well.

The NAS has estimated per capita consumption of dyes at .012 pounds annually.

Violet No. 1, banned starting today, had been in use for 22 years and, as recently as March 1972, received a clean bill of health from the academy but with recommendation for further studies.

Jacobson petitioned for the dye's removal but was turned down. In the meantime, usage increased twentyfold to more than 33 tons last year for coloring food, drugs, cosmetics and meat ink used by Agriculture Department graders and inspectors.

Early this year Japan turned over to the FDA confidential summaries of two rat-feeding studies, with strong evidence that Violet No. 1 causes cancer.

The ban poses an immediate and perhaps costly problem for industry, which had made increasing use of the violet dye mixed with a relatively new color, Red No. 40, to produce a shade similar to Red No. 2. The latter has been under strong attack by consumer groups.

Development of a new dye and safety studies cost a minimum of $500,000, according to Heine.

FDA expects to complete its own tests on Red No. 2 soon. The dye accounts for about 85 per cent of all colors added to food, especially beverages.

Seeking Use For Holes In Ground

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — A research project under way in the eastern Kentucky coal fields of Pike County may result in abandoned deep mines becoming more than just holes in the ground.

Projected as a new source of industry for the depressed Appalachian area, the abandoned mines would be used as underground sources of heat to grow vegetables in nearby greenhouses with the necessary warmth being pumped from the depths of the mines, providing ideal temperatures for growing such crops as radishes, lettuce and other vegetables.

LOW UNEMPLOYMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment in the Southwest Metroplex fell to 2.4 per cent in 1972, one of the lowest areas in the country, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The Southwest Metroplex is a 6,214 square mile area around Dallas and Fort Worth.

Friedan, Goldberg Sound Off On 'Female Identity Crisis'

By TOM FOREMAN JR.
Reflector Staff Writer

Before a nearly filled Wright Auditorium, Betty Friedan and Lucianne Goldberg expressed their views on the 'female identity crisis' in a debate last evening.

The debate was the fourth in succession which had taken place on the East Carolina University campus during the day. It was also one in a series of lectures in the Family Life Conference and Union Lecture Series, now in its 13th year.

Mrs. Friedan opened the debate with her topic, "Human Liberation: Co-Sex Revolution." She noted that some women were at first afraid to put up resistance. "We were all isolated and alone; we had replaced the traditional women's place in the home with a sort of sophisticated version of the same thing."

She briefly talked about her book, "I felt after each chapter I completed I must be crazy, and soon after my book came out, it became clear that there were millions of women, each of which felt freakish..."

Her book "The Feminine Mystique", published in 1963, sold more than one and a-half million paperback copies, and is continuing to sell well today.

"It simply is no longer possible for women to occupy their energies for most of their years on this earth in motherhood," she noted, pointing out that from now on women will have the responsible choice in terms of motherhood.

She also lashed out at the legislators of North Carolina who had opposed the passing of the Equal Rights Amendment, saying that they will be defeated by the vast majority of women and growing numbers of men who support ERA.

Mrs. Goldberg followed with her topic, "Female Identity Crisis." "When I was told I was going to be invited here to debate the mother of the Women's Liberation movement, it was truly one of the thrills of my career, which will give you an idea of how my career is going."

She thought that the idea of a female identity crisis was "part of the rhetoric brought about by the Women's Lib movement." Mrs. Goldberg also noted that if there was any female identity crisis, it was the Women's Liberation Movement which caused it. That statement brought a mixture of applause, and hisses from the crowd.

She stated that the reason she had formed her "Pussycat League" was because she felt someone should stand up and answer the militant demands of Women's Lib. Mrs. Goldberg also lashed out at the media for making the movement seem more profound than it actually was. She said the media had made a one-sided presentation of the Women's Lib issue.

Mrs. Goldberg called Women's Lib a middle-class phenomena whose leaders tend to view the world in terms of that class. She felt they had misanalyzed the role of the female in American society. "Far from being exploited, the middle-class female constitutes a pampered, privileged class the likes of which the world has seldom seen." She said a great deal of damage had been done to men and women by the Women's Liberation Movement.

Fund Drive For Summer Camp

Funds are now being raised by the N. C. Society for Autistic Children to send as many as possible to a special camp for autistic children this summer.

The camp is to be held Aug. 5-25 at Camp Chestnut Ridge near Efland. The local Society has announced that the Greenville Jaycees have donated $100 to the project. Other donations would be welcomed, according to Dr. Mort Rabin, director of the Eastern TEACCH program, which treats autistic children at the Developmental Evaluation Center here.

New Senator Figures He Owes His Support To 'Little Guy'

By JUDY FRIE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dick Clark ran for the U.S. Senate because there wasn't anybody else in Iowa who thought Republican Sen. Jack Miller could be beaten in an obvious GOP landslide year. And now that he's there it is perhaps no surprise that it is the "little guy" he's out to help.

Clark got the task of carrying the Democratic banner in Iowa in 1972 almost by default. Rep. John Culver, D-Iowa, had been expected to challenge Miller, but Culver opted for keeping his relatively safe House seat. It seemed Miller would win reelection without any real opposition.

At the time, Clark had been administrative assistant to Culver for seven years. When his boss decided not to make the challenge, Clark stepped forward.

Popular Incumbent
Nobody in Iowa gave him much chance. He was an unknown, with no elective experience, running against a popular incumbent.

Clark, 44, went about running with a walk—a 1,300-mile walking tour of Iowa, and with single-minded dedication and maximum effort, hammering away at Miller's record. And the no-chance Democrat upset Miller with a late rush, despite the fact that Richard Nixon carried Iowa by landslide proportions.

Clark isn't one to talk much about himself, but his ideas on subjects both economic and social paint a picture of a man who thinks the little guy in American life needs a champion.

In an interview, the freshman senator spoke of a "callous"

Nixon administration attitude toward the farmer, of a tax structure that bestows "windfalls" upon private interests while the average taxpayer receives the "crumbs," laid the blame for the "evils" of the government on dependence on private campaign contributions, and saw "disastrous" effects resulting from termination of social services programs.

Lean Years
His concern may stem from the fact he grew up on a farm near the hamlet of Paris, Iowa, during the depression. Those lean years taught Clark about inequities and helped instill a determination to right wrongs.

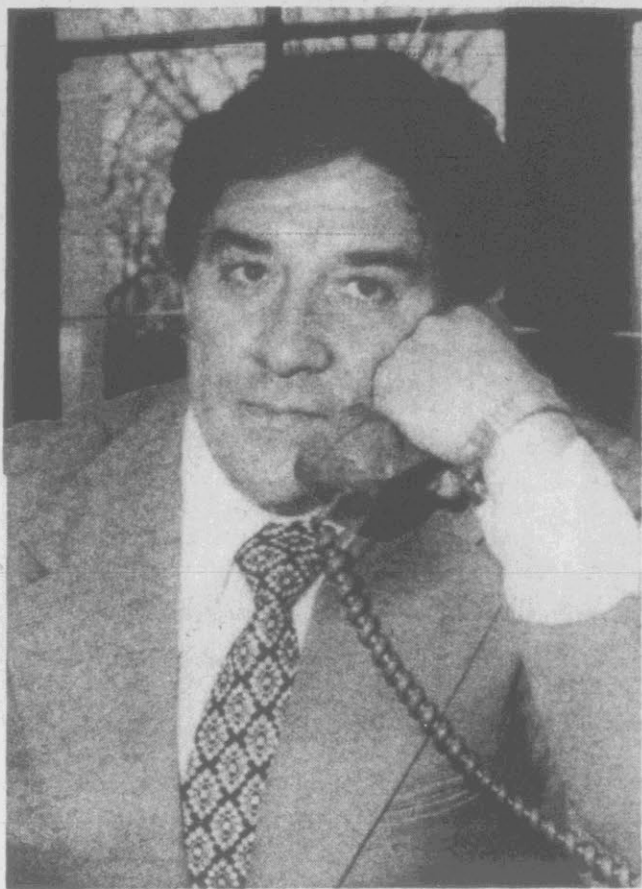

Since his election he's been devoting himself to "learning as much as I can as fast as I can." His office and staff reflect that. Telephones ring continually. Constituents and fellow legislators drop in to say hello. Notes collected from his assignments to the Senate Agriculture and Public Works Committees and the Democratic Steering Committee are scattered about the office.

He took time out from all the organized confusion to talk about the issues that concern and trouble him. For instance, the farmer. Does the administration really care about him?

"It takes a callous attitude," he said. "The Nixon administration is much more concerned about agribusiness than it is in agriculture."

That attitude, he maintained, is reflected in the way the Department of Agriculture is set up, among other things.

"All positions over there at the Secretary and Undersecretary level are filled by people from agribusiness. The department is dominated by the giant feed companies."

SEN. DICK CLARK sees himself as one who thinks the little guy in American life needs a champion. (UPI Telephoto)

Further, proposed cuts in farm programs such as acreage allotments threaten the existence of the small farmer because "he couldn't survive the boom and bust nature of the farm economy without supply management," Clark said. "and we'd end up with a small number of corporate farms."

Anticipate Problems
He also blames the skyrocketing food prices on the administration because it "didn't anticipate the problem" when it started making arrangements to negotiate the Russian wheat deal.

"They (the administration) held down production and exported a great amount of grain and ended up with a shortage here. That forced the farmers' prices up."

Clark also backs legislation—which he acknowledged is "having a difficult time"—to reform the tax system.

"The people who tend to receive the greatest benefits in the tax code, with its loopholes, are those who make the largest campaign contributions," he said.

And it's that "tremendous lobby" that is responsible for the trouble the reform effort is in, he contended. "The private interests zero in. They've got the money and the influence to bring to bear on the congress."

A long list of what Clark called "vast inequities" in the tax structure included the investment tax credit, the capital gains tax, the accelerated depreciation allowance and the oil and mineral allowance.

Where does all this leave the average taxpayer?

"Nowhere," Clark said. "He gets the crumbs."

See Invasion Of Chinese Clam

GREENVILLE, Del. (UPI) — A tiny but destructive Chinese clam has been discovered in sizable numbers in the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Trenton, N.J., the Delaware Museum of National History reports in its journal, Nautilus.

This is the first time the clams have been seen in the Northeast. The clam multiplies rapidly. It clogs intakes, canals, pipes, pumps and irrigation ditches and disrupts turbine engines used to produce water power.

WelcomeCenter System Boosts State Tourism

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Millions of visitors stopped off at Tennessee's seven interstate welcome centers during 1972, helping make it a record for the state's tourism industry, reports Glen W. Whistler, director of the state's tourism development commission. More than a million visitors from the 50 states and Canada signed the guest registers at the centers during the year.

"We know from surveys, however, that only about a third of the travelers who stop by the centers for assistance or information actually sign the register," Whistler said. "This means that more than 3 million persons visited our welcome centers during the year." A total of 40 million visitors spent more than $571 million on vacations and business trips to Tennessee in 1972, resulting in a record 9 per cent increase in the tourist business over 1971.

Pension Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon sends to Congress today comprehensive pension reform legislation which he says will help protect workers from losing pension benefits if they lose their jobs.

Nixon is updating a program he sent to Congress in December of 1971. So far it hasn't made much progress through the legislative mill.

The White House says the new program will propose tax benefits for individually purchased retirement investments and a mandatory vesting to protect pension rights.

But congressional sources say Nixon is not including federal insurance against termination of pension plans. That is included in several major pension bills proposed by members of both houses.

In his 1971 proposal, Nixon asked the departments of labor and Treasury to make a study of benefit losses under pension plans that are terminated. He said information was needed on the number of workers affected by pension plan terminations and the degree to which they are harmed so that federal policy could be worked out.

Goldwater Voices Fear

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says Republican candidates will lose all over the country next year and the GOP will be out of the White House in 1976 unless President Nixon acts now to clear up the Watergate case.

Further, the Arizona Republican said in an interview published today by the Christian Science Monitor, the damage done to Nixon's image by the case is drying up financial contributions to the GOP.

Goldwater said that when he urged Nixon to speak out on the situation, he was told by the President, "I've already done something." The senator said he was later told Nixon's staff would testify before a grand jury, "which I don't think is enough."

"All of us who support Nixon are going to be on the line in the 1974 election," Goldwater said. He added that he might not support the President if he found out Nixon had known of the bugging of Democrat headquarters in Washington but remained silent.

Concerning contributions to the GOP, the senator said he has received "letters and calls from Republican friends of

Pitt Contest Is Set For Sunday

The annual "Mother of the Year" contest sponsored by the Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will be held Sunday at 7:45 p.m. at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church, 400 Hudson St.

Mrs. Ella H. Morgan, chairman of the contest said all churches in the county have been invited to be represented in the contest with a mother.

The winner of the local contest will go to Raleigh next month to represent Pitt County in the state contest.

Johnnie Wooten, in charge of the music for the program, said several singing groups will perform during the program.

Pupil Injured

Two students were suspended from Aycock Junior High School Tuesday following an early morning scuffle involving three students.

Paul Rasberry, principal of Aycock, said the two were suspended for the maximum time, ten days.

The third student involved was reportedly taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital, treated and released. "If he was," Rasberry said, "it was after school hours as he was in school all day following the incident."

The 18th (Prohibition) Amendment went into effect Jan. 16, 1920.

You have a lot going for you with today's electricity.

And you decide how much.

Because until you flip the switch or push in the plug, the washer doesn't wash, the dryer doesn't dry, the toaster doesn't toast—and the meter doesn't turn.

But sometimes that can be hard to remember. Because today's appliances are so convenient that it's easy to forget them once you put them away—which makes it just as easy to forget the electricity you used to put them to work.

And at Vepco we think that's only natural. Because all our thousands of trained people and the billions of dollars in equipment and technology are here for just one reason: to make sure you always have the economical electricity you need—whenever you decide to use it. And all you have to do is flip a switch or push in a plug.

But if you ever do think about electricity—and especially if you only think about it when the bill comes—we hope you'll remember that you decide how much you're going to use.

We're here to see that you get all you require.

Errors Let Rocky Mount Take 4-0 Win

Farmville Central Rallies To Slip Past North Pitt By 6-3

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's Tony Oakley slapped a sixth inning single to drive in two runs and lift the Jaguars past the Panthers of North Pitt, 6-3 yesterday, and give them their fifth win of the season.

The Panthers had ground their way to a 3-0 lead after five innings scoring once in each of the second, third, and fifth frames. The Jaguars cut the lead to a run's margin in the bottom of the fifth with a pair runs and then surged in front with a four-run sixth that was too much for the Panthers who were dropping their fifth game in six starts.

Ed Wells got the win but had to struggle for it. He struck out five, walked three and scattered nine Panther hits. North Pitt started with Rick Harrell who went five and two-thirds innings fanning five, walking four but limiting the Jags to four hits. Steve Fuchs relieved him in the sixth with two out but the damage had been done. Fuchs walked one but that walk forced in the sixth Jaguar run.

North Pitt went to work on Wells in the first inning. With one down, Ken Tetterton doubled and Linwood Brown reached on an error. Both moved up on a ground out but another grounder finished the frame.

The Panthers broke through in the second, however, as Denis Bunn slammed a round tripper into right center for the first score of the game.

Harrell, meanwhile was keeping the Jaguars in check and in the third, Harrell aided his cause by driving in the second Panther run. Ben Johnson led off with a single but was thrown out as he tried to steal second. Tetterton followed with a walk and he moved to second on Brown's single. Fuchs flied out sending Tetterton to third and Harlee slipped a hit through the hole at short driving in Tetterton for a 2-0 lead.

Jeff Price walked for North Pitt in the fourth but he was erased in a double play. In the Farmville Central half, Phil Lewis blooped out the first hit off Harrell but he was forced at second and the Jaguars failed to bring another man around.

North Pitt added a third tally to their lead in the top of the fifth as Brown reached on a fielder's choice and went to third on Fuch's hit. Harrell got himself another RBI driving in Brown with a hit to left.

The Jags finally got the Harrell in the bottom of the inning and started the Panthers to sweat despite the cold wind which had been whipping sand in the players' eyes the whole game.

Wells drew a one-out walk and Oakley got one also. Jeff Cobb blasted a ground rule double that lodged in the centerfield bleachers. Wells scored on the play making it 3-1 and moving Oakley to third. Glen Dwyer lashed a ball of Harrell's glove and was forced as the Panther secondbaseman made a fine play that just got Dwyer but it did not stop Oakley from scoring to pull the Jags within one, 3-2.

North Pitt struck back in the top of the sixth and put three on. Price singled but was forced at second. Craig McLawhorn's grounder. Johnson walked but a long fly ended the threat.

The Farmville Central broke loose for four scores and the lead. With one out, Barry Johnson popped up in front of the plate. The ball got away from the catcher and landed in fair territory leaving Johnson safe at first. After Johnson stole second, Tommy Cobb walked. Bobby Daniels singled to center to fill the bases. Wells grounded back to Tetterton at first who could not find the handle in time for the out. That let Johnson score the tying run and there was still only one out.

Oakley fouled one off and then boomed a hit into left driving in both Cobb and Daniels. Jeff Cobb walked reloading the bases and a walk to Dwyer, given up by Fuchs, forced in Wells for a 6-3 lead.

Fuchs moved to second in the top of the sixth on an error and

ROCKY MOUNT — Three straight errors after a double play failed brought Rose High School's Rampants to their knees yesterday as Rocky Mount High School took a 4-0 victory in a Division II encounter.

The loss was the first in conference play for the Rampants, who had earlier beaten New Bern. They are now 1-1 in the league and 5-2 overall. Rocky Mount's record climbed to 7-1 overall and 1-0 in the league.

Rose High's Stanley Cobb and Rocky Mount's Larry Daughtridge had been wrapped up in a pitching duel until the fourth inning when the errors allowed the Gryphons to score three runs. Another miscue to open the fifth set up their fourth run.

Rose had only three scoring opportunities in the game, and couldn't make any of them pay off.

Daughtridge, despite throwing three wild pitches, and walking four, showed good control when he needed it, striking out 15 Rampants, including as many as five in a row. Cobb, who walked only two, struck out six. None of the runs he allowed were earned.

Rose had its first chance in the opening inning. With one down, Robert Brinkley singled to second. Then, with two away, Cobb hit a grounder to deep short. He just beat out the throw, but Brinkley kept going around third, and the relay to home easily cut him down at the plate.

Rose got another baserunner in the third when Al Heath walked, and moved up on a wild pitch, only die at second.

He also started off a bases-loaded inning for the Rampants in the sixth, when they trailed 4-0. Heath got a one-out walk, and with two away, Barwick hit through the middle to second, reaching safely, and Cobb got the only clean Rampant hit, to left, to lad the sacks. But a strikeout ended the inning with no damage done.

Rose also put a man on third in the seventh, as Harding Sugg walked, moved up on a balk and took third on a wild pitch.

Rocky Mount also threatened in the first. Phil Ford singled to second and stole that base. In the second, a single by Hilton Sykes and a walk to Jimmy Lewis put two runners on for the Gryphons, but they didn't scratch.

But in the fourth, things blew up for the Rampants. With one down, Tommy Crocker singled to left and Randy Wunderlich walked. Sykes grounded to third, where Crocker was forced, but the relay to first for the attempted double play was in the dirt, leaving Sykes safe. Lewis then lifted a fly to right that was dropped, allowing Wunderlich to score. Daughtridge helped his own cause with a grounder to second that was muffed, scoring Sykes. Then, Ford reached on another error at second, as Lewis streaked home with the third run.

In the fifth, Rocky Mount did it again. Randy Warrick led off by reaching on an error, and a passed ball allowed him to take second. Wunderlich singled to left, driving him in with the fourth and final run.

The Gryphons again threatened in the sixth, as Lewis singled and was safe on a fielder's choice at second on Ford's infield grounder.

The Rampants, after playing host to Farmville Central in a non-league game this afternoon, play host to Wilson in another conference game on Friday at Guy Smith Stadium. Game time is 4 p.m.

Vikings Hold Off Saints, 4-3

DUDLEY—Conley High School remained atop the Eastern Carolina Conference standings with a 4-3 victory over Southern Wayne yesterday.

The win left the Vikings in command with a 6-0 record for the season. Southern Wayne is now 3-4.

Bobby Bryant of Conley and Carroll of Southern Wayne wrapped up in a pitching duel most of the way. Both allowed only three hits. Bryant struck out 11 and walked none in going the route, while Carroll fanned 14 and walked four.

Conley pushed over two runs in the second to take the lead. Clieve Averette singled and Bobby Bryant walked. Vic Corey sacrificed them up and an error on the play allowed both to come around.

In the third, the Vikings got their second two runs, and that proved the difference. Willie Streeter reached on an error and Clennel Streeter walked. Randy Adams brought both of them home with a double.

Southern Wayne struck back with a pair in the bottom of the fourth inning. Robins singled and Carroll reached on an error. Clark slammed a triple, scoring both runners to make it 4-2.

Southern closed the gap to one in the fifth. Hood's fly ball fell in when the Viking fielder tried for a diving catch and by the time the ball was recovered, Hood had streaked all the way around. But the Saints were cut off there and scored no more as Conley hung on to win it.

Conley travels to Southern Nash today for its next game. Conley 022 000 0-4 3 3 Southern Wayne 000 210 0-3 3 3 Bryant and Forrest; Carroll and Burroughs.

Robersonville Defeats Bears

BEAR GRASS — Robersonville High School upped its Martin County Conference record to 2-0 yesterday with a 4-0 shutout win over Bear Grass.

The win left them in first place in the early standings in the league. Bear Grass was playing its first conference contest, and is 0-1.

Doyle Farmer tossed the victory for Robersonville, shutting out the Bears on three hits. He struck out seven and walked four on the way to the win.

Robersonville broke the scoring ice in the third winning getting a lone run. Kim Knox singled and came around to score when Ricky Brown was safe on an error.

In the fifth, the Golden Eagles picked up three more runs. Jeff Warren reached on an error and Brown singled. Doug Warren was also safe on an error, loading the bases. Jimmy Stalls reached on another mistake by the Bears, and that scored Jeff Warren. Larry Jackson followed with a single, bringing in Brown and Doug Warren for the 4-0 margin.

Bear Grass threatened in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings, but failed to push a run across. Knox lead the Robersonville hitting with two in three trips.

Aycock Downs Ayden-Grifton

LITTLEFIELD—Charles B. Aycock High School gained a 6-4 victory over Ayden-Grifton yesterday in an Eastern Carolina Conference game.

The victory left the Falcons with a 4-2 record in the league, while Ayden-Grifton tumbled to a 2-5 mark.

Aycock pushed over a run in the top of the first to take the lead. Richard Lancaster led off with a double and Tommy Herndon reached on an error. Terry McFatter was also safe on an error, scoring Lancaster.

The Chargers came right back to tie it up in the bottom of the first. Paul Ricciarelli walked, as did Tony Koonce and Ned Craft. A walk to Horace Tripp forced in Ricciarelli.

Aycock came up with four in the third to take the lead again. 5-1. David Pittman walked and Lancaster singled. Terry Durham walked, loading them up and a wild pitch brought in Pittman. Herndon doubled in Lancaster and another two-bagger by McFatter scored Lancaster and Durham.

Ayden-Grifton scored once in the bottom of the third. Craft walked and Dan Phillips singled. Tripp then reached on an error, scoring Craft.

The Chargers pulled within one with two more in the fourth. Ronnie Salmon singled and Ricciarelli walked. Both advanced on an out, and Craft doubled them home.

Aycock added its insurance run in the seventh. Herndon reached on an error and McFatter singled him home.

Ayden-Grifton travels to Southern Wayne today.

NEBRASKA NIPS TEXAS SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The Gilliland husband and wife team came a long way to win the first annual spring best-ball mixed foursome golf title at Harder Hall in Sebring, Fla.

Wilma and Bruce Gilliland of Kimball, Neb., defeated Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Lammers of Baytown, Tex., 4 and 2 in the final.

"They deserved to win," says Lowell Lammers. "Wilma played so steady that Bruce could pull off his best pitch shots and get close to the pin. We played with these two lovely people three days and there was only seven shots difference between us. They are great competitors."

Jamesville Rips Oak City By 11-3

OAK CITY—Jamesville High School rolled to an 11-3 victory over Oak City's Trojans here yesterday in a non-league encounter.

The two Martin County Conference teams were meeting in a non-conference affair. Their conference meetings will come later in the season.

Jamesville broke the game open early, scoring six big runs in the first inning. Ricky Mobley, Eric Martin and Billy Brown all walked to load the bases. Bucky Dickerson singled, and that brought in Mobley. Ron Padgett followed with a walk, scoring Martin. Jerry Angel then stepped in and slapped a grand-slam home run, making it 6-0.

Oak City came up with two runs in the bottom of the inning. Charles Belflower walked and William Freeman reached on an error. Walter Lyons singled, scoring Belflower, and Ronald Duggins doubled, but Freeman was cut down at the plate. Eddie Ayers singled, driving in Lyons with the second run.

Jamesville added another run in the third, upping their lead to 7-2. Kenneth Holiday doubled and scored on Gurkin Martin's single.

From there, Jamesville went on to add two in the fifth and two more in the seventh. Oak City picked up one more in the seventh.

Gurkin Martin and Angle led the Jamesville hitting, each getting two.

Cougars Open Series With Colonels Tonight

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—The Carolina Cougars, East Division champions, meet second place Kentucky tonight in the first game of their best-of-seven series for a berth against either Utah or Indiana, West Division finalists, for the American Basketball Association championship.

Cougar star Billy Cunningham, voted the league's most valuable player, gave Carolina the edge, citing the team's bench strength. In regular season play, the Cougars had a 6-5 edge over the Colonels and ran up a 57-27 record on the way to their East Division leadership.

The series opens at 8 p.m. at the Charlotte Coliseum and then shifts to Greensboro for Saturday afternoon's nationally televised second game. The series shifts to Louisville for the next two games.

Carolina's 6-10 center, Tom Owens, said he feels that the outcome of the series will depend on "who's able to keep their front line out of foul trouble."

The Cougars hope to utilize their speed edge over Kentucky with an idea of driving the Colonels into foul trouble. Cunningham and his front line partner, Joe Caldwell, are noted for their ability to go to the basket.

On this score, Owens, the other member of the front line, noted, "Billy and Joe can both beat Walt Simon and Dan Isell in driving to the hoop, and my job is to get in position for the pass when Artis Gilmore goes over to help out on Joe or Billy. Or if Billy and Joe go all the way to the hoop, I want to be in position to rebound."

Caldwell, 6-5, is expected to get Carolina's defensive assignment against Isell, Kentucky's husky 6-9 forward who averaged 27 points a game in regular season.

Owens, at 6-10, will be giving inches in his job of guarding the 7-2 Gilmore, who led the league in shooting percentage. But as Owens sees the job, "I hope to force Artis to set up two to three feet farther out than he wants. This would take away his hook shot."

Kentucky is expected to open with Gilmore, Isell and Simon, with Rick Mount and Mike Gale in the backcourt.

Colonel Coach Joe Mullaney said he doesn't plan to use all-star guard Louie Dampier, who is hampered by a broken bone in his foot, in either of the two games in North Carolina. "Unless an emergency occurs," he adds.

Lakers, Golden State In Wins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Milwaukee General Manager
Wayne Embry had the right idea when he tried to have Game 5 of the Bucks' National Basketball Association playoff series postponed.

Forced to play the game in Madison, Wis., after being evicted from their home court by a realtors show, the Bucks asked for the delay when a snowstorm prevented them from reaching their impromptu home for a workout.

Golden State beat the snow into Madison and held a two-hour practice. It must have helped, because the Warriors knocked off the Bucks 100-97 Tuesday night to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-7 quarter-final.

In the only other NBA game played Tuesday night, Los Angeles defeated Chicago 123-102 to take a 3-2 lead in that best-of-7 series.

There were no American Basketball Association playoff games scheduled Tuesday night.

Embry's request for the postponement was rejected by Golden State General Manager Bob Feerick and that decision was upheld by the NBA when Embry pursued his request with the league office.

Forced to play the game, the Bucks wound up wishing they hadn't. Rick Barry sank a lay-up and two free throws with 1:14 left to play, shutting off a Milwaukee comeback and helping the Warriors to the victory. Clyde Lee had 21 points and 16 rebounds for Golden State.

The Bucks, down by as many as 18 points, fought back to take the lead with just over two minutes left. But Mahdi Abdul-Rahman's layup restored Golden State's edge and then Barry's layup made it 98-95. Jon McGlocklin cut the lead to a single point with one minute left but Kareem Abdul-Jabbar missed a hook shot in the final 20 seconds. Lee grabbed the rebound and Barry's two foul shots settled the issue.

Golden State can finish the series with a victory at home Friday night. Los Angeles gets the same chance in Chicago the same night.

The Lakers ripped the Bulls with Jerry West contributing 36 points.

Chicago had wiped out an 18-point LA lead and held an 81-80 edge with 2:40 left in the third period. Then Keith Erickson hit for the Lakers and West strung seven straight points for an 89-93 lead that increased the rest of the way.

Wilt Chamberlain had 21 points and 29 rebounds for the Lakers.

In tonight's pro basketball action, Boston and Atlanta, tied at 2-2, play Game 5 of their NBA quarter-final and Kentucky meets Carolina in the opening game of their ABA semifinal.

Guardsmen To Summer Camp

The 514th Military Police Company of Greenville will be among the nearly 1,000 Guardsmen attending summer camp at Ft. Bragg May 26 through June 9, according to Brig. Gen. Robert A. Hughes.

At camp, the Guardsmen, all members of the North Carolina Nondivision Troop Command, will conduct annual Army training test, carry out unit training, and where possible assist comparable "sister" units of the regular Army, Hughes said.

Hughes, from Parkton, is commander of the Nondivision Troop Command.

In addition to the Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the command, located in Raleigh, the 205th Medical Detachment and 823rd Medical Detachment of Durham will be on duty at Ft. Bragg.

The 878th Engineer Company of Henderson will assist in clearing a parachute drop zone and the 694th Maintenance Company of New Bern and Farmville will assist a regular Army maintenance battalion.

The 167th Military Police Battalion of Washington and the 213th MP Company of Greenville and Washington will attend summer camp at Ft. Riley, Kan. during the same period of time.

$5,490 Worth Of Meat Stolen

DENVER (AP) — Joseph Lombardi says certain persons apparently have found a way to circumvent the problem of high meat prices, at his expense.

Lombardi, owner of the Cardinal Meat Co., told police Tuesday that burglars broke into his warehouse Monday night and made off with $5,490 worth of steaks.

Four new executive officers for the campus Student Government Association have been elected by the East Carolina University student body.

William Hayes (Bill) Bodenhamer of Jacksonville was chosen president among four candidates for the office. Frieda Anne Clark of Cary was elected vice president; Kathy Holloman of Shelby, treasurer; and Sandra Langley of Erie, Pa., secretary.

The new officers will direct the executive branch of the ECU Student Government Association, the campus governing body for the 10,000 resident students.

Other election results included referendum defeats of a proposal to change the name of the campus magazine from REBEL to MORPHEUS and a proposed elimination of a minimum grade point average for campus officers.

The students voted to replace the popular election of campus marshals with automatic election of marshal applicants with the highest academic grade point averages.

Three Vehicles Collided Tuesday

A three-vehicle collision here yesterday afternoon resulted in an estimated $2,700 property damage.

Police reported cars driven by Pearlle Cannon Strickland of Route 8, Greenville, Shelton Ray Mercer of Route 1, Goldsboro and Frank Boyette of Washington collided about 4:26 p.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Fifth Street.

Damage was estimated at $800 to the Strickland car, $1,700 to the Mercer vehicle and $200 to the Boyette auto.

Both Boyette and Mercer were charged with failing to see their intended movements could be made in safety.

Mansion Bill Is Introduced

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation to provide funds to renovate the governor's mansion was introduced in the General Assembly Tuesday.

Rep. Herbert Hyde, D-Buncombe, and Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, offered the identical bills to appropriate $575,000 to renovate the 82-year-old mansion.

The Department of Administration estimated it would cost that amount to restore the existing mansion if a new residence is not built.

Plans to construct a new executive mansion, presented to the legislature last week by the Executive Residence Building Commission, have come under fire from some historians and architects who feel the present mansion should be maintained or that a replacement should have a contemporary design.

The bills introduced Tuesday would provide such improvements as modern heat and air conditioning, electrical rewiring, modernized bathrooms, and restoration of the exterior brick walls.

Rutledge Plans Leave HEW Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip J. Rutledge, the highest ranking black in the department of Health, Education and Welfare, is leaving his post May 5.

Rutledge Tuesday announced his resignation as deputy administrator of HEW's $15 billion-a-year Social and Rehabilitation Service. He will become director of policy analysis for the National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors and has joined the staff of a program training blacks for public service.

In a 90-minute news conference Tuesday, Rutledge declined to speak of any disagreements he may have with the Nixon administration.

"That's not my style," Rutledge said.

Lawmen Complete Workshop At ECU

Nine eastern North Carolina police and sheriff department employees have completed a workshop on Police Administration at East Carolina University.

The participants, law enforcement personnel from Washington, Williamston, Rocky Mount and Greenville, attended sessions on planning, budgeting and other management training skills.

Program sponsors included the ECU Division of Continuing Education, the ECU Department of Social Work and Correctional Services, Sheriff Ralph Tyson of Pitt County, and Police Chief Phillip Paul of Washington.

PROMOTED WASHINGTON (AP)—Jerry Friedheim, top spokesman for the Pentagon for the last four years, has been named assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

Names of participants and their positions of employment follow:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville — James E. Gurganus, Pitt County Deputy Sheriff; and Ralph Tyson, Pitt County Sheriff.

Child Hurt By Blows To Self-Image

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Something sad happens to the child who always gets chosen last in games, who falls off his bike and can't seem to catch a ball.

His self-image suffers. By the time he outgrows his clumsiness, if he ever does, he has already absorbed a great deal of social punishment from his peers.

He may compensate in a variety of ways—by concentrating on his studies and becoming a scholar, or by spending his recesses helping the teacher clean erasers.

He may become what some experts term a dive-bomber—the kid who zooms around the playground crashing into other children and hitting. A study of juvenile arrests shows that youngsters with perceptual-motor problems have a disproportionately high percentage of truancy.

And although nobody seems to understand just why more boys than girls suffer from motor difficulties. Some of these youngsters develop sex gender identification problems they find refuge playing with the girls instead of trying to compete with other boys.

For the past 10 years, kinesiologists at the University of California at Los Angeles have been working with clumsy children in a special remedial program for perceptual motor learning.

Its director, Dr. Bryant Cratty, says 20 per cent of all youngsters—or about 50 children in every elementary school in the United States—suffer from a motor problem, to one degree or another.

Youngsters referred to Cratty undergo an hour-long test with their parents watching through a one-way mirror. They are also given a game-choice quiz and asked questions which reveal that most of them consider themselves unpopular and feel unhappy much of the time.

After their individual problems are analyzed, the children may be enrolled in twice-weekly after school sessions designed to improve their coordination, balance, agility and physical skills.

"We improve movement in kids who don't work well with their bodies," Cratty says. "We are interested in movement for its own sake because clumsy children are unhappy."

"They range over the entire IQ system," he says. "They just can't work effectively with their bodies. We have one six-year-old now who moved like a two-year-old when we got him, but he could read from the dictionary."

According to Cratty, there are some 60 or 70 possible causes of motor disabilities—but the most common stem from difficult births—sometimes from birth anoxia, a breathing problem caused by a prolapsed cord or a cord wrapped around the infant's neck, momentarily hindering the oxygen supply to the brain.

"But usually it is not too fruitful to determine the cause or to worry about whose genes are at fault. It is better to try to solve the problem," Cratty says.

He hires undergraduate students to work with the youngsters, aged four to 13, on about a one-to-three ratio. Smaller groups put too much pressure on the child, he feels.

The children practice bouncing on trampolines, tight-rope walking on wide balance beams, and somersaulting on padded mats in the gymnasium of an elementary school.

"The prognosis for these kids is pretty good, if we catch them young enough," Cratty says. "Although we do not know whether we have actually modified their neurological problem or just taught them more effective strategies for accomplishing motor tasks."

By the time he's three, Cratty says a child ought to be able to walk a two-inch wide line for 10 feet, draw a simple cross with a crayon, and jump forward three steps with both feet in the air.

At five, he should be able to draw circles and squares, touch his fingertips consecutively to the tip of his thumb, and balance frozen on one foot for four to six seconds.

A seven-year-old ought to be able to toss a ball 15 feet into a four-foot square target and skip rhythmically.

"A five or six-year-old who can't touch consecutive fingertips is also going to have trouble tying his shoes or fastening buttons," Cratty observed.

Radio Class In Alaska Is By Satellite

By MARGUERITE DEL
GUIDICE

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI) — Every Monday at midnight, a gravelly voice sputters a welcome over a ham radio in Alaska, and at its command 20 outpost villages tune in to an unusual teaching seminar that is bounced off a satellite 22,300 miles above the equator.

A 15-week radio course titled "Teaching Techniques for Rural Alaska," the seminar was begun recently under auspices of the National Education Association (NEA), its affiliate in Alaska and the University of Alaska.

The "satellite seminar" is the brainchild of Dr. Harold E. Wigren, a staff member of NEA's Instruction and Professional Development (IPD) program.

"We are trying to help these teachers (in Alaska) sharpen their skills and increase their professional development even while they are snowbound in their villages," Wigren said.

The Alaskan villages or "earth stations"—stretching from Barter Island to Nome, just off the Soviet border, and inland to places like Fort Yukon, Anaktuvuk Pass and Arctic Village—rotate the seminar's presentation each week around the course theme, "How to Get Students to Take Responsibility for Their Own Learning."

Wigren and his colleague, Mrs. Frances Quinto, also with NEA's IPD program, "stand by" in Bethesda with one or two different resource persons each week.

In a modern office on the top floor of the National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Wigren and Mrs. Quinto meet an hour or so before air time to discuss the evening's program with the resource persons for that particular session.

In a recent meeting titled "Children as Teachers," Wigren and Mrs. Quinto hosted Mrs. Carrie O. Staten, a Baltimore elementary school principal; and Joseph W. Taylor, a high school biology teacher and coordinator of cross-age teaching programs in Baltimore. Cross-age programs are when, for example, a sixth grade student teaches a first-grader.

Jumbled Jargon
At the stroke of midnight—7:00 p.m. Alaska time—a voice bellowed "all clear," and the discussion started.

Interspersed with a few jumbled attempts at satellite radio jargon—Mrs. Staten kept forgetting to say "Over" when she finished speaking—the round-robin-like discussion continued for the 55-minute allotted broadcast time.

A teacher said his problem was the cross-cultural, rural setting in Alaska. He said that he had not been prepared for practical teaching on a junior high school level.

"I was student-trained for secondary-level teaching, and wasn't prepared to cope with a junior high setting," he said.

"Yes," another Alaska-side participant piped in, "I think at times we've all been in that situation."

The discussion began and individual participants contributed ideas about cross-age teaching as well as relating personal experiences.

"Share some of your experiences with us, will you please?" a voice asked Taylor.

"Well," Taylor replied, "I'm involved with a number of cross-age programs in Baltimore. The student response to cross-age teaching is greater at the elementary level, much greater...What we want to do is bring in all students—the low achiever and the academically successful student."

Wigren instructed his guests to be "very careful we don't act like we know all the answers. They're very sensitive about that."

Smoke Is Barred From Commons

LONDON (AP) — The British House of Commons is to stay free from smoke pollution.

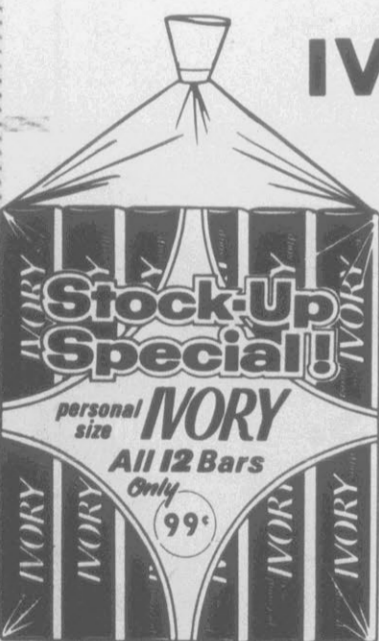

Pipe-smoking Labor MP Roy Mason urged that experiments be conducted to permit smoking during certain periods when the house is sitting.

Rejecting the idea, Conservative floor leader James Prior said "I am not aware of any general desire by MPs for such an experiment. On the contrary, my predecessors experienced pressure for the extension of nonsmoking areas."

Endorse One Tax District

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Area Advisory Council went on record recently in support of the Pitt County Board of Education's resolution abolishing separate school tax districts and the establishment of one Pitt County School administrative unit for all purposes.

It was reported that 62 children have been registered to participate in the kindergarten program at H. B. Sugg School next year.

H. B. Sugg Principal Frederick Graham reported the school was conducting parent visitation and that the turnout had been very good. He also reported that pictures had been made for a school annual which will be on sale later this year.

Russ Cotton, principal of Farmville Central, expressed his sadness at the death of Bernie Fleming. He taught carpentry at Farmville Central.

Cotton reported the Farmville Central Booster Club will sponsor a country and western show May 5 at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. The stars will be Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty.

The Band Boosters will hold their annual horse show on May 27.

John McKnight, principal at Sam Bundy Elementary School, reported that 70 children have enrolled in the first grade for next year. The possible loss of one Title I position for the next school year was also mentioned.

Stamp Show Set In May

Again this year, an interesting and colorful postage stamp exhibition, ASHEPEX 73, will be highlighting weekend activities, May 19 and 20 in Asheville, N. C.

The success and interest in last year's exhibit has spurred the Asheville Stamp Club to sponsor the exhibition this year, again at Holiday Inn West. Exhibition hours will be 11:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. May 19 and 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on May 20.

Exhibits can be entered by anyone in Western North Carolina and prizes will be awarded. For further information concerning the exhibit, watch this newspaper or write The Asheville Stamp Club, P. O. Box 250, Asheville, N. C. 28802.

Pepsi-Cola explodes a shopping myth.

Pepsi-Cola in this 6-pack of returnable quarts with reseal caps costs just about the same, ounce for ounce, as most of the brands that claim to be bargains.

It's true. Ounce for ounce you spend just about the same for Pepsi-Cola in this 6-pack of returnable quarts as you do for those brands you thought were bargains. And when you add in Pepsi-Cola quality, we think you'll agree that Pepsi is a real bargain. Next time you shop, compare.

Pepsi. A real bargain.

The 'Worry Clinic' Kissing Mates Live Longer

Tom wonders at the 5-year greater lifespan of kissing husbands! But there are at least 7 medical and psychological reasons to explain such longer life. Wives, order the booklet below, for it will bring you far more kisses!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D. M. D.
CASE W-575: Tom B., aged 27, is an insurance salesman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "a recent report from the insurance companies of Germany has puzzled me.

"For it showed that a husband who kisses his wife each morning will outlive the nonkissing husband by at least 5 years!

"Since you are both a psychologist, as well as a physician, how do you explain that fact?"

Bugging Reduces Library Losses

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A legal form of bugging has cut library book losses at Carnegie Mellon University.

The university installed an $11,000 surveillance system in its libraries two years ago, and officials say book losses have dropped from 10 per cent of the libraries' total volume to one per cent.

A tape is hidden in each book; and if it is not validated, a lock is activated on a turnstile leading out of the library.

Officials say the yearly cost of book replacement has been reduced from $9,000 to about $900.

"Deliverance"

(4) If a husband kisses his wife in the morning, that is likely to show that she serves enticing, cheesecake in her boudoir. So such a man is less likely to be so erotically starved that he is vulnerable to the wiles of attractive sirens at the office, store or factory where he works. This fact should reassure the wives, too, so their lifespan also ought to be lengthened!

(5) Happy husbands, as shown by this goodbye kiss in the morning, will thus not have as many auto accidents en route to work! For they will not try to take out their inner ire upon the motor or drive aggressively. They will thus be more inclined to show greater highway gallantry and give the other driver the right of way.

Angry husbands, who chew out their wives at breakfast, then slam the door and omit kissing those wives goodbye, are far more likely to rump a fender or be called over to the side of the road for fast driving.

(6) A kissing husband is also more likely to have children! So he is more careful at school crossings, for wider family interests produce greater empathy.

And he is more likely to protect his family via life insurance!

(7) A kissing mate is less likely to use alcohol, for John Barleycorn is the crony of sexually fearful men, scared of impotence.

A pair of lawyers, Amalya Kearse of New York City and Rhoda Walsh of Beverly Hills, Cal., combined forces to win the Life Master Women's Pairs held in Lancaster, Pa., last fall. A big final session enabled them to pull away from the rest of the field.

Nimble footwork by Kearse and Walsh with the East-West hands enabled them to upset South's enterprising three no trump contract in one of the deals taken from the Championship Event.

East's third seat opening bid of one spade is primarily distributional in nature and is a common tournament practice to compete for a part score. South displayed good judgment in overcalling with one no trump. Holding a balanced hand with 17 high card points, there is little to be gained by bidding two clubs, inasmuch as the

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening for you to live according to your loftiest ideals and ambitions and to let those who are able to help you attain these goals know what they can do to be of service to you. Take the time and make the effort to delight those you like by compliments, courtesies.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now have a wonderful day enjoying amusements you most like. Show more affection to your mate. Put those creative ideas to work and expand them. Avoid one who is unfriendly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do whatever will now bring more harmony and happiness into your home. Entertaining others will show them what a fine personality you have. Dress in high style but with good taste and make everyone feel at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Being more expressive with allies and coordinating your efforts more intelligently is wise. Broaden your vision, aims. State your views to others simply and clearly. Do nothing to hurt anyone in any way.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you think along more prosperous lines financially, you find you can take steps in the right direction. Listen to the good ideas which banking institutions or business experts give you. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are magnetic and can improve your image socially and with the public in general. Group activities are fine. Be with the right people to give you a boost.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into those confidential affairs at which you are so adept and become more successful. Follow your intuition and you make big headway. Avoid one who is a hypocrite.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A dynamic and loyal friend now gives you fine advice on how to get ahead faster, solve your problems. Going to some group meeting can prove to be most worthwhile. Dress in good style, but don't wear fancy clothes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact a powerful person who can give you the support you need for your particular aims. Involve yourself in civic affairs that will add prestige. Show you can do a beautiful job.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine day for getting out to new sites and people who can prove most interesting and beneficial for you. Secure the data you need and put it to good use. Avoid one who is pretty much of a pest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many responsibilities but can now understand just how to handle them most efficiently. Closest tie gives you the backing you need. The p.m. can be particularly happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sit down with partners and figure out a way to make the future more profitable and happier as well. Get into the outside outlets that are most pleasing with others, also. Avoid one who is a drag.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get busy at that work ahead of you, but also work on some plan that will be profitable to you and associates as well. Stick-to-itiveness brings fine results now. Steer clear of an irate person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who think big and wants to become big, who has remarkable ideas that can become an actuality, bringing fame and fortune, provided the schooling is adequate and there is encouragement at home early in life. Whatever has to do with working with the public in general is fine, in big organizations, high places. Give a good grounding in religion and ethics.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Senate Kills Right-To-Sue Bill

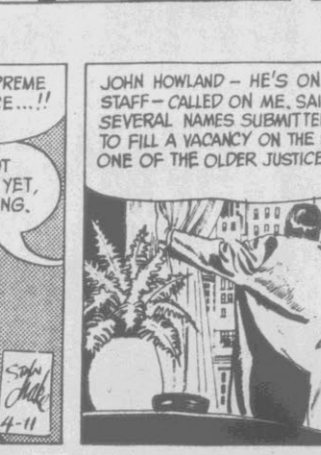

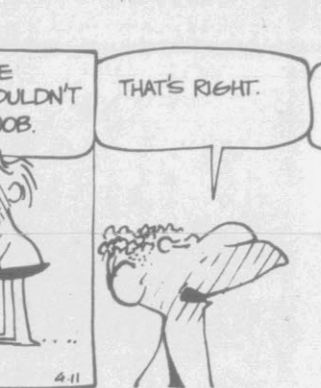

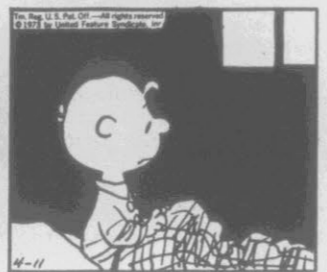

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — "A final and quiet death sentence" has been handed down by the North Carolina Senate to a bill which would have given citizens the legal right to sue in environmental disputes.

By a 30-17 vote Tuesday, the Senate referred the bill to a "graveyard" committee—the Judiciary 1 Committee chaired by Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Norwood Bryan, D-Cumberland, had been approved by the House earlier this year.

Under current state law, an individual can go to court against polluters only if he has suffered direct and tangible damage as a result of the pollution. The usual standard set by the courts is a demonstrable financial loss.

Bryan's bill would allow a citizen, after giving 90 days notice to the state, to go to court and seek an injunction directing state anti-pollution agencies to enforce their own regulations against a polluter.

Godwin's motion had been expected by Staton, but a third motion, by Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, was not. Moore asked that the bill be referred to Allsbrook's committee with instructions that the committee report back on it by April 26.

The motion caught supporters of the Bryan bill by surprise. Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsthy, who regarded the Godwin motion as a death sentence, said it was the best compromise available to the bill's supporters and urged them to vote for it.

But several of the bill's supporters decided, in the confusion, that they would not vote for a motion to re-refer the bill.

Scout Earns Eagle Award

James Dewin Clement Jr. received his Eagle Scout Award Sunday at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Clement. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clement of Raleigh and Mr. and Mrs. John Stedman of Lumberton.

J. E. CLEMENT

Rev. John Miller, Scoutmaster of Troop 205, presided over the ceremony. Others participating were Dr. Milan Johnson and Dr. Harvey Billica.

Mrs. Clement pinned the Eagle award on her son and then Jim presented his father and grandfathers eagle tie clasps. He also presented his mother a mother's pin.

Clement is an eighth grade student at E. B. Aycock Jr. High School and a member of the Jr. Varsity basketball team. He is also a trainer for the football team.

In scouting, he has been an assistant patrol leader and a patrol leader and has received the God and Country Award. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

PTA Will Meet Thursday Night

The South Greenville PTA will meet in the school's auditorium Thursday at 7:30 p.m. An Easter musical program will be presented by the first and second grades.

During the business meeting, the election of officers for the 1973-74 PTA of South Greenville School will be held.

DO YOU REALLY WANT A GOOD INCOME . . . BEGINNING NOW?

Are you your own enemy . . . because you think "too small?" With us, you may make $9,000 to $15,000 first full year.

These are typical earnings for our people in Sales, not exceptions. And dozens of our people move ahead to earnings of:

$20,000 to $35,000 per year.

Our people share our success, which has been phenomenal. In the last ten years alone, we have grown nearly fourfold! Our income now is near the quarter-billion mark annually. We are TOP-RATED in our industry.

CAN YOU QUALIFY? Check:
() Age 18 or over
() High school or equivalent
() Sports minded
() Ambitious, looking for a career, not just "work?"
With us, you get started fast, because we combine thorough training at our Center with a PROVEN sales method. Your commission can build each year and we keep training you for moving ahead. One big advantage at Sales work with us: NO limit on how fast and far you can advance. Remarkable benefits and security too.
Stop holding yourself back - call now for a personal interview.
