Watergate Story Nears Full Unveiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard J. Kleindienst today withdrew from the Watergate investigation because it involves people with whom "I have had personal and professional relationships."

Kleindienst did not elaborate.

The Washington Post reported today that Jeb S. Magruder, former No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign, had told federal prosecutors that John Mitchell and John W. Dean III approved and helped plan the Watergate wiretapping last year.

Kleindienst served under Mitchell at the Justice Department before Mitchell resigned as attorney general in order to head the President's re-election campaign.

Magruder said Mitchell and Dean, who is President Nixon's official lawyer, arranged payoffs to defendants in the Watergate case to buy their silence, the Post reported.

Kleindienst said he withdrew from the case last Sunday because he was advised then "of information which relates to persons with whom I have had personal and professional relationships..."

Kleindienst, in a three-paragraph statement issued at the Justice Department, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen will take over full control of the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

Magruder was absent from his home in suburban Maryland this morning. His lawyer said late Wednesday night that he would testify voluntarily when called before a federal grand jury. The Post said that would be today.

Mitchell, a former U.S. attorney general and chief of President Nixon's re-election campaign, called the Post story "nonsense."

"This gets a little sillier as it goes along, doesn't it?" he said to a newsman as he left his New York City apartment.

Dean, who is counsel to President Nixon, could not be reached.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said: "The White House is not prepared to react to a story based on sources. At a time when the rights of individuals would not be jeopardized by a comment, an appropriate comment will be made."

DeVan L. Shumway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, said he had no knowledge of the matter.

The Post quoted sources in the executive branch as saying Dean might soon resign from the White House staff, and that presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman might follow suit. The newspaper quoted sources as saying there is "no known evidence" linking Haldeman to criminal involvement in the Watergate affair.

The Post said it gained its account of Magruder's statements from three sources in the White House and in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. Magruder had been second to Mitchell in the campaign hierarchy, and retained the No. 2 spot after Mitchell resigned in the wake of the Watergate raid last year.

Magruder told the prosecutors, the Post said, that he was present at a February 1972 meeting in Mitchell's Justice Department office attended also by the attorney general, Dean, and G. Gordon Liddy, one of seven men convicted in the conspiracy.

The allegations came on the heels of President Nixon's statement Tuesday that his own month-long investigation had exposed "major new developments" in the case. Nixon said any White House aide indicted in the affair would be suspended immediately and any convicted would be fired.

That presidential declaration followed months of assertions by White House spokesmen that no one currently in the administration was in any way involved.

Mitchell, a former law partner of Nixon's in New York City, has been a close personal friend, ran the Nixon campaign in 1968, and was a principal figure in the first Nixon term.

U.S. Navy Halts Its Minesweeping Off N. Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has halted minesweeping operations in North Vietnamese waters in an apparent attempt to force Hanoi to scale down Communist attacks in Cambodia and delivery of troop reinforcements and supplies to the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

North Vietnam reported today that the Navy stopped its sweep operations two days ago without explanation and withdrew its ships and planes from the coastal areas where they had been working. Hanoi charged this violated the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

After the Hanoi announcement, Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said in a statement that the mine clearing activity was suspended because "of the failure of the other side to abide by the agreements and assurances of Paris." He spoke of "the other side's failure to respect the unilateral cease-fire declared by the government of Cambodia, and ... the continued flow of enemy supplies into South Vietnam."

The United States suspended the minesweeping operation once before, on Feb. 28, when there was a delay in the release of U. S. prisoners of war held by North Vietnam. The POWs were released four days later, and U. S. Navy planes went back to sweeping the waters at the entrance to Haiphong.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said the minesweeping stopped again Tuesday and the U.S. task force pulled out of the area.

It also claimed that in some two months of clearance operations, the Americans had exploded only three of the "tens of thousands" of mines U. S. planes planted in North Vietnamese waters last year.

The statement accused the U. S. government of deliberately retarding the work and said the suspension of operations was evidence of a "premeditated" plan to prolong, in effect, the maritime blockade of North Vietnam.

Elsewhere in Indochina:

Radio Phnom Penh announced that Brig. Gen. Lon Non, Cambodian President Lon Nol's controversial younger brother and chief adviser, is going to the United States to see Nixon, and South Vietnamese government sources said President Nguyen Van Thieu is planning visits to six Asian nations in June looking for aid and a chance to improve his regime's image.

The broadcast from Phnom Penh said Lon Non was going on a "special mission for the government" but gave no dates or details. The U.S. government has been reported trying to get both Lon Nol and Lon Non to go abroad in the hope that the Communists would enter into cease-fire negotiations with a caretaker government. The Communists have repeatedly refused to negotiate with Lon Nol.

Soaring GNP Carries With It 6 Per Cent Rise In Inflation Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today reported the economy advanced at a rapid rate of 14.3 per cent during the first quarter of the year, with inflation soaring at a rate of 6 per cent.

The Commerce Department said the country's gross national product rose $40.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.235 trillion.

The increase compares with a GNP advance in the fourth quarter of last year of $30.9 billion or 11 per cent at an annual rate.

The gross national product is the value of the nation's output of goods and services and is the broadest indication of the economy's performance.

Without the rate of inflation of 6 per cent, the real output during the first quarter was 7.9 per cent, compared with real growth of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1972.

But the rate of inflation of 6 per cent during the period was bad news for the economy. It was the biggest quarterly jump since the fourth quarter of 1970 when it was 6.3 per cent.

The 14.3 per cent increase in the GNP equaled the increase in the first quarter of 1971 when the economy was recovering from a General Motors strike and from a recession.

The government economic goals for 1973 are for an increase of 10 per cent in the GNP, including 2½ per cent inflation, but the quarterly figure showed the rate of inflation was more than double the administration's goal.

Consumer expenditures accounted for a major portion of the first-quarter increase. They were up $28 billion in the first quarter, compared with $17.1 billion in the fourth quarter last year.

Purchases of durable goods increased $9.3 billion compared with the increase of $2.2 billion in the previous quarter, and purchases of autos and related equipment were up $4.8 billion.

New car sales reached 12.5 million units at an annual rate.

Other increases in the consumer category were nondurable goods, up $12.5 billion, compared with $8.4 billion in the fourth quarter; spending on food, up $6.2 billion; spending on clothing, up $3.5 billion and spending on services, up $6.2 billion.

The GNP report noted that an increase in after-tax personal income of $22.7 billion was less than the increase in consumer spending during the period.

As a result, it said, personal savings decreased from $62.8 billion in the fourth quarter to $56.9 billion in the first quarter and the savings rate fell from 7.6 per cent to 6.7 per cent. The savings rate is the percentage of disposable income put into checking accounts.

Community Aid Program Is Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today proposed a $2.3-billion program of shared revenues to help cities, urban counties and the states finance community-aid programs.

The proposal, if approved by Congress, would abolish the government's present system of grants to assist community development.

Under Nixon's proposal, funds would be allocated directly to local governments to permit development in accordance with local objectives and priorities without first getting approval from Washington.

By allocating funds according to formula on the basis of need, the administration said, many communities not reached under the present grant program would receive funds.

Secretary James T. Lynn of the Department of Housing and Urban development, said in sending the administration proposal to Congress, "the time has come to reduce federal control, red tape and reviews" of community development programs."

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development," Nixon said last month in announcing his special revenue sharing proposal.

"Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington was spending it if they like. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval," he continued.

Nixon said the measure is intended to replace what he called "inflexible and fragmented" categorical grant-in-aid programs such as Model Cities and urban renewal plus projects providing grants for water and sewer projects, demolition, neighborhood facilities and rehabilitation work.

Nixon first proposed the community development legislation in 1971 but failed to muster enough support in either the House or the Senate.

Editors: Remaining grafs are embarged for Noon EST.

Among features of his new proposal are:

—The money for cities and urban counties would be based on a formula reflecting community needs and there would be assurances that this would not be less than received under the previous programs.

—Funding would be provided for smaller communities.

—While activities now supported by categorical grants may be continued, local leaders would determine whether to do so.

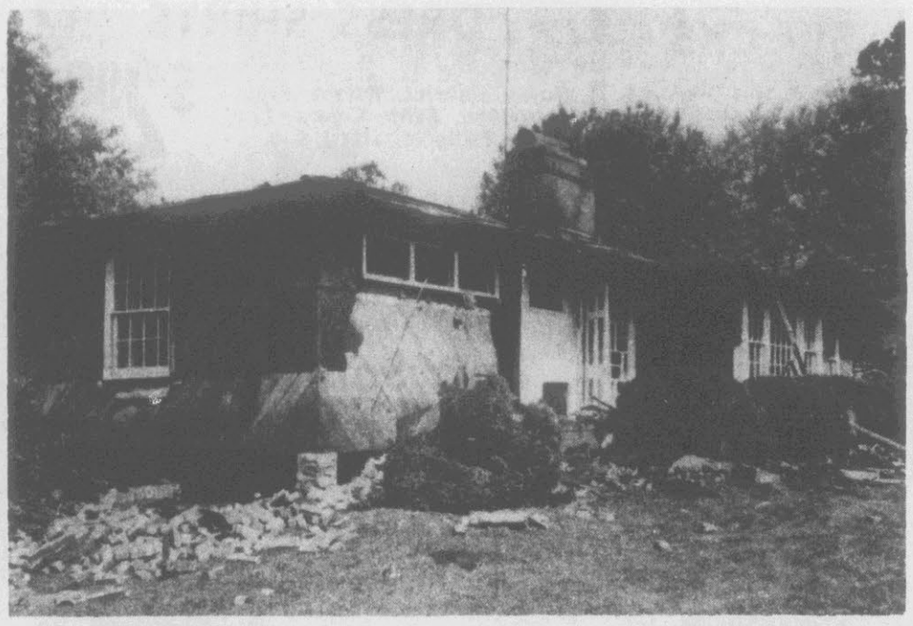
—Recipients would be required to show the federal government only that they are complying with federal statutes in the way they are spending revenue-sharing money.

—Shared revenues would not have to be matched by local funds.

While the Better communities Act would replace seven Housing and Urban Development categorical programs it would not affect HUD's housing and community planning authority.

The administration said a large share of the total funds appropriated annually under the act—about 78 per cent by the fifth year at a $2.3 billion level—would be allocated and made available directly to all central cities in metropolitan areas: all cities over 50,000 population, and all urban counties with a population of over 200,000.

Fire And Explosion Heavily Damage Home



WALLS CRUMBLED. . .The J.B. Kitrell, Jr. home stands in a mass of rubble after a fire early this morning. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest).

An early morning fire today left a home at 600 South Elm St. a mass of burned wreckage.

Fire units were called to the house, owned by J.B. Kittrell Jr., at 3:45 a.m. Officers said the dwelling was engulfed in flames when they arrived and reported an internal explosion caused brick veneer outside walls of the house to crumble.

The explosion, according to firemen, resulted from a backdraft caused by a fresh supply of oxygen reaching superheated fuel and fire-caused gases inside the dwelling when the fire burned through the roof.

The Kittrell family, asleep in the dwelling when the fire started, escaped uninjured, officers reported.

The fire apparently started from a car in the Kittrell garage.

Officers said investigation of the cause of the fire is underway.

Gasoline Cut-Off Fought

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)— Three independent oil companies say they will be forced to close their 230 service stations in North Carolina if their supplier goes through with plans to stop delivering gasoline to them by Sunday night. They asked U.S. District Judge James McMillan to order the Crown Central Petroleum Corp. to continue supplying them.

The judge said after a preliminary hearing Wednesday that he did not want to rule until all evidence was presented. He suggested that Crown see whether it could ration gasoline to them so they could stay open until a decision is made on their lawsuit.

The suits claim Crown and other large wholesalers are trying to force independent stations out of business.

However, a lawyer for Crown said the company wants their business, but doesn't have enough gasoline to supply them and its own stations, plus independents under written contract. He said supplies of crude oil to Crown's refinery have been cut.

The three plaintiffs contend Crown violated oral agreements in reducing the supply of gasoline to them this week. They are the Tar Heel Oil Co. of Statesville, U-Fil-Er-Up of Greensboro, and Eaton Oil Co. of Charlotte.

Team Training To Find MIA

BANGKOK (AP) — A team of men representing the U.S. Navy, Marines, Air Force and Army are training for one of the grimmest—and possibly the longest—jobs of the Vietnam War.

In the dry terms of an official release, their job is to "look for persons missing in action and remains not recovered."

The organization is known as the Joint Casualty Resolution Center—JCRC.

Its headquarters are at Nakorn Phanom in northeast Thailand. About 75 of the total 150 men involved in the search for downed U.S. airmen and ground troops missing in action are already at the base.

The U.S. Military Assistance Command Thailand—MACTHAI—said the search will be done by field teams composed of an officer, radio operator, a medic, an explosive expert and an interpreter.

All will have special training in jungle survival techniques.

Once a crash site or grave is located, other teams called crash site investigators and experts from the Central Identification Laboratory—CIL—will be flown to the scene.

CIL, made up of military and civilian specialists mainly from the former U.S. Army Mortuary in Saigon, will inspect the site and have the remains flown to the U.S. army camp at Samae San in Thailand.

Scholarship For Bethel Student

Miss Phyllis Robin McKee, a senior at North Pitt High School, has been awarded a $4,000 academic scholarship by East Carolina University. Miss McKee, daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Robert F. McKee, Bethel, is a member of the National Honor Society, the French Club, the Future Homemakers of America, and the Annual Staff at North Pitt High School. She was also selected to serve as a Marshal and attended the North Carolina Governor's School. Miss McKee is a National Merit Finalist. At East Carolina University, she plans to major in English.

Miss McKee was selected by the East Carolina University Scholarship Committee following an evaluation of her high school academic and citizenship records, and after she appeared for an interview before the members of the Scholarship Committee. Dr. H.D. Lambeth, Chairman of the selection committee, announced that Miss McKee was one of the recipient chosen by the committee to receive one of the East Carolina University Academic Scholarships.

Other recipients of $4,000 scholarships announced were: Michael Wayne Kegerreis, Charlotte; Otho Allen Daniel, III, Winston-Salem; Alan Steward McQuiston, Annandale, Va.; Barbara Ann Mathews, Charlotte; Jeffrey Hoyt Krantz, Charlotte.

Three Boys Held As Extortionists In 3rd Grade

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Three boys extorted nearly $1,000 in the last eight months from two classmates in the third grade by threatening to beat or kill them, the sheriff's department says.

The alleged extortionists, two 9 years old and the other 11, were charged with common law robbery. They are being held at the Forsyth County Youth Center for a hearing in Juvenile Court today.

Authorities did not release their names nor those of the two 9-year-old boys who, the sheriff's department, said began making payments on the second day of the term last fall at a county school.

Lt. J. W. Trivette of the department said the alleged extortion scheme was discovered Tuesday when a father missed a $100 bill from his wallet while he was at work.

Trivette gave this account:

His son stayed home from school that day. He called his wife and told her to ask the boy if he had taken the money.

The boy admitted that he took the money to keep from getting hurt. He told his mother he had feigned sickness so he would not have to attend school and be forced to make a payment.

He said he was to have paid the boys who threatened him $200 on Tuesday, but was frightened because he was $100 short. He began making payments on the second day of the school term last fall. What began as lunch money extortion soon developed into $10 and $20 payments, Trivette said.

The father of one of the boys said the two youths were beaten three times before they agreed to pay. The parents noticed the bruises, but the boys told them they had been scuffling with other boys at school.

The father said he did not know how many payments the boys made.

"Last Friday, I came back from a trip and noticed a $100 bill missing from my wallet," he said. "I decided not to do anything about it and just see who was taking the money.

"When I was at work Tuesday, I found another $100 bill missing from my wallet, and that's when I began to suspect something was happening to the boy at school."

The boy paid $100 Friday. He was told to have another $200 by Tuesday, the father said.

"I am as mad right now as I ever have been," he said. "I think of the anguish this boy has gone through for the last eight months. His grades dropped off. He was staying out of school. At first I thought it was drugs.

"He couldn't play with other kids. He was forced to play with those three boys. He was frightened to death...really in pain."

Corrections Expert Says 'Job Was Decided For Me'

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dark-haired Laurel Rans is a consultant in corrections.

The pretty 32-year-old spent five years as a superintendent of the Iowa Women's Reformatory in Rockwell City.

Her interest in the process of change in corrections is the product of on-going learning, she said.

"Corrections is making tremendous strides through hard work by competent people. They are bringing about change as fast as there is support from society to do it. Corrections is becoming a learning environment," she added.

"I didn't decide to go into corrections work," said the member of the criminal justice group of Arthur D. Little, Inc.

"It was decided for me. I had just gotten my master's degree and was looking at hospital administration when a professor recommended that I take a look at Iowa. I had no corrections background.

"But it was no problem. I spent the first couple of years studying management. My background had not told me how to organize a healthy environment for groups of people in order to bring about behavioral change. I was of the one-on-one school. But I learned," she added.

In the beginning, Miss Rans said it was a definite advantage to work in an open institution with no wall or fence and no history of punitive lockup structure.

"I toured 19 states to see federal and state correctional institutions and I learned that compared to other places, Iowa wasn't so bad," she said.

Extending the confines of the prison into the community was important in rehabilitation, she added. Halfway houses and work release programs were her first goals.

"Each year we doubled the number of people in our work release program and in separate training programs, and we maintained the same level of escapes, about 5 per cent," Miss Rans said.

She thinks that the way prisons are structured takes money out of our pockets, because the atmosphere breeds dependency.

"If we create an environment where an individual can develop, a tremendous amount can be done within the inherent limits of a prison.

"This country created high security systems without any screening systems to make sure only dangerous people were in them," she added. "Of the people institutionalized, 80 per cent don't need to be in high security but there is no alternative."

The most expensive prison sentence is death, she said. Next is life and then, institutionalization. Work release costs about 25 per cent of the cost of institutionalization and probation is one tenth of the cost.

"Think what you could do for salaries with more money," she added. "There are tremendous needs for training."

At Rockwell City, Miss Rans created units combining professional people with security personnel. Everyone worked together on training, treatment, strategy and evaluation of behavior.

"We must teach individuals in prisons to expect realistic consequences for their behavior. If a window was broken, the person who broke it had to pay. The individual who slashed her wrists had to pay the doctor bill. Broken windows and slashed wrists became rare," she added.

Miss Rans speaks often of prison inmates as "clients," and she still receives letters from some of the women.

"You have to have a life of your own, away from the system," she said.

A different life is one reason she became a consultant on criminal justice.

She said the massive penal institution as we know it is almost impossible to manage and run, given present funding.

"We must identify present and future needs of corrections systems and provide planning on cost factors, alternatives and management.

"And we want to look at county jails. They're a filter process in which 80 to 90 per cent of all the people who ever go to prison enter. If we can divert some of the people at that level, we might prevent second-time offenders," she said.

Juvenile problems are another area which Miss Rans believes needs extensive study. Juvenile offenders should not be placed in jail with adults, she said.

"Corrections people must also be retained in the system without growing out of it. We have to be aware of the needs of all kinds of people. After all, we're all struggling to create a framework of reference in which everybody can grow."

Movie Queen's Face Is Familiar, Not Famous

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Sure, I'm sad I've never made it to being a big superstar, but I feel absolutely no bitterness. I came out of a town of 250 people and to have done what I've done is something extraordinary."

The tall, statuesque brunette from Marysvale, Utah, holds the unofficial title of Hollywood's "Queen of the B's," bestowed upon her by a film critic, and she is obviously proud.

Moviegoers and late late show fans probably won't recognize her name but they'll remember Marie Windsor as the sultry other woman, a frontier madam, a gun slinger, a jungle goddess, a dance hall girl and a poverty stricken shrew.

Miss Windsor concedes she has had her share of bad breaks but the actress says "I've never been discouraged. I've always believed that something good is coming around the corner."

Her unyielding professionalism had made her a favorite of film buffs and critics alike.

"I'd do anything a part requires," says the actress. "If they say they want purple hair, I'll dye my hair purple. I'm not temperamental about anything if they wave work in front of my eyes!"

Whether it's a pit part in "Hell's Half Acre," or her role as a brassy wife leading her husband into a life of crime in Stanley Kubrick's celebrated "The Killing," the actress gives it all she's got.

Her usual role as the tough, unsympathetic woman is a contrast to her real-life role as the chic, gracious wife of Beverly Hills realtor Jack Hupp. The couple live in a modest, ranch-style house in a Hollywood Hills canyon, a further contrast — not quite the environment one would expect of a socialite and top realtor.

Although the actress displays a strong devotion to her work she is reluctant to accept anything that would keep her from her husband and 10-year-old son Ricky. Her latest picture, "Wednesday Morning" with John Wayne, kept her on location in Durango for five weeks, the longest she has ever been away from her family.

"My personal happiness is much more important than my career," she says. "My primary aim is to have a happy home life. Those great ladies of the silver screen have wanted what I've been able to get but they've not been willing to give enough to get it. Of course, Jack has always been wonderful, very understanding, because his own father was the silent actor Earl Rodney."

From childhood, Miss Windsor has loved to perform and her parents encouraged her in her ambitions. Dancing lessons were followed by acting lessons, then dramatic studies at Brigham Young University and coaching in Hollywood by Maria Ouspenskaya. And today she is still studying.

"I never stop working," says the actress. "Acting's not like bicycle riding, something that comes back to you when you leave it lie."

MOVIE QUEEN — Actress Marie Windsor, shown here with her son Ricky, 10, has appeared in a wide variety of films as the sultry other woman, a gun slinger, a jungle goddess and a dance hall girl.

Toddlers' Eyesight Can Be Checked

NEW YORK (AP) — How well does your baby see? Eye specialists can now examine a toddler's vision even before he can talk.

Dr. Halden N. Haffner, consultant to the Society for Visual Care, recommends that babies' eyes should be tested no later than age 3.

"In fact, children between 1 and 3 respond more rapidly to corrective therapy than older children," he said. "We often see patients as young as six months at the Infants' Vision Clinic, a recently established department of the Optometric Center of New York."

The examinations indicate whether treatment should be prescribed.

In a majority of cases, proper eye exercise or therapeutic lenses may solve most existing problems, Dr. Haffcer said.

Eye specialists agree that million of American children are poor learners because of poor visual abilities and that many of the disabilities go undetected for years. The time to treat inadequate vision is before the child enters grade school, Haffner added.

"There is no reason why a child should suffer the psychological scars of problems caused by uncorrected, inadequate vision," he emphasized. "Children may be frustrated in adapting to life if vision handicaps them in school performance or play activities.

"For instance, examination of one 11-year-old child in public school during a visual screening revealed her vision was so poor that she was mislabeled legally blind or heavily myopic.

"No one had previously bothered to take the time to examine her thoroughly. And because there was a language problem, there was poor communication between the doctor and the little girl. After we prescribed corrective lenses she broke down in tears, exclaiming, 'I can see the letters!' She knew how to read, but before she wore glasses, she was severely near-sighted. Now she can see the blackboard and her mother's face. Her ability to work in school has zoomed," Dr. Haffner added.

When the emphasis in elementary school changes from learning to read to reading to learn, a child with undetected vision problem may encounter his first serious emotional difficulties.

Dr. Haffner reported that a survey of students in Euclid, Ohio, who did not complete high school shows that all the students had one deficiency in common: a severe reading problem. This produced failing reading grades in elementary school and failing grades in English in high school.

"In this survey," he added, "there is convincing evidence that the reading failure often could be related to poor visual efficiency."

A recent White House Conference on children and youth reported that 80 per cent of delinquents studied in a special program had severe learning difficulties, especially in reading. Poor vision was determined to be a contributing factor in 50 per cent of these cases.

Dr. Haffner offers these signs as an indication that a child may need an eye examination by qualified professionals:

Stumbling over small objects, blinking more than usual when doing close work, holding books too close to eyes, rubbing eyes excessively, shifting of head or thrusting head forward, inflamed or watery eyes, blurred or double vision.

Miss Schaal Gives Program Tuesday Night

Miss Jennifer Schaal was keynote speaker at the meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Charles Ross.

A senior at J. H. Rose High School, Miss Schaal was one of the Community Ambassadors from here last year.

Dressed in a Nigerian dress, she told of spending several months in Nigeria, Africia, and showed slides of the towns and families she lived with.

Mrs. Jim O'Brien, president, conducted the meeting and welcomed Mrs. Tracey Medlin as a new member.

A report on the bake sale held Saturday was given by the president. Proceeds from the sale will be given to Operation Sunshine.

Mrs. Stuart Buchanan and Mrs. Ross told of plans to entertain the Operation Sunshine girls at an Easter party and egg hunt Wednesday afternoon. They will be assisted by Mrs. C. P. Shaw and Mrs. Joe Johnson.

Mrs. O'Brien announced that a report of the nominating committee will be given at the next meeting. A program on drugs to be given by a member of the Greenville Pollice Department will highlight the May 15 meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. George Russ.

Club members and their husbands will be honored at a June cookout at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.

AAUW Members Hear Speakers

Mr. and Mrs. John Grier and Harry Allen were guest speakers at the Monday evening meeting of the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women.

They discussed their interest in and efforts toward developing a program aimed at drug education and rehabilitation for the youth in Greenville.

Initially this program would involve a coffee house conducted in Christian atmosphere later followed by the establishment of a rehabilitation center.

Miss Joan Pfeifer was welcomed as a guest.

Hostesses for the metting were Mrs. Stancil and Mrs. Daniel Taylor.

Make sure your cakes, cookies and quick breads are completely cool before storing them.

N.C. Losing Valuable Talents

Dr. Cameron West is leaving North Carolina to accept another position after many years of service to his home state.

Dr. West will be the new head of the Illinois system of higher education, a broad position which encompasses all facets of higher education in that state.

The importance of the position which Dr. West is taking is an indication of what a high caliber man North California is losing to Illinois.

Dr. West served as director of the North Carolina Board of Higher Education and consequently he brought to the newly organized board of governors his unequaled knowledge of the statewide system of higher education.

As one of the few persons on the staff of the new board of governors who had had contact with all the state's university campuses, Dr. West made important contributions in designing a system.

It is regrettable that Dr. Cameron West's unique background in North Carolina higher education will be lost to the board of governors while it is still trying to develop its role as true policy body for all the state's universities.

However, no one can blame Dr. West for accepting such a challenging position as has been offered him in Illinois. His talents and knowlege will be sorely missed by our own state.

Looking To The 1974 Session

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Health and taxes are certain issues for the North Carolina General Assemby to deal with when it meets again in 1974.

The first will center around the quest for more physicians to practice in the state; specifically, the prosposition to establish a medical school on the campus of East Carolina University at Greenville.

BRYAN HAISLIP

The second is likely to focus on a renewal of the soft drink industry's struggle to repeal a $20 million annual levy on its product. Also a factor contributing to the tax fight will be the effort for broader reform, including taking the sales tax off food and revising income tax rates.

The strong feelings both subjects arouse can be expected to produce pitched battles among the lawmakers. Whatever the outcome, the fallout of political flak could be an influence in next year's campaigns.

Agenda previews for '74 by House Speaker Jim Ramsey and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the Senate's presiding officer, placed the ECU medical school controversy on the list.

'74 Surfacing Predicted

"The whole medical care situation is a seething issue which probably will surface in '74," said Ramsey.

The legislature is not in position to handle the matter, he suggested, until the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina system has had a chance to evaluate the question of medical training. The study it has in progress on a new medical school, whether or not located at ECU, can give the starting point for legislative action, he added.

Hunt advocated setting aside $25 million so that the next session can be ready to provide for expanded medical education.

Whatever recommendation comes from the university system, he said, the legislative mood at that time will be to move on the ECU medical school and chances will be good for success.

"If the Board of Governors doesn't endorse the ECU proposals, there will be an effort in the next General Assembly to build the school," the lieutenant governor predicted.

No Challenge To Structure

Hunt said he does not see that as a challenge to the new higher education structure, the light in which it has been cast by many legislators and education officials.

"It's not all that clean and neat. This is an area of pressing concern and is more than just a matter of education per se," he insisted. "This is also a matter of the health care of the citizens of the state, and that's a concern of the General Assembly."

Skirmishes so far on tax repeal and reform have been inconclusive. Bills on the subject have dead-ended in a subcommittee of the House Finance Committee.

They will remain there, dormant but not dead, until the legislature returns next January, House Speaker Ramsey indicated.

Taxes In Deep Freeze

"I do not think the General Assembly will erode the tax base of the state at this session," he commented. He counseled a wait until there is a clear picture of federal fiscal policy before North Carolina makes any decision affecting the in-flow of revenue.

Gov. Jim Holshouser, who had given support to repeal of the soft drink tax, agreed with Ramsey's analysis of the present situation. The governor said he has accepted the prospect that no tax repeal will be forthcoming from the legislature before it recesses in mid-May.

What his position will be next year, when tax repeal efforts are revived, could have a bearing on the outcome.

Speaker Ramsey took a dim view of both repeal and reform of the tax structure, short term and long range. "North Carolina ranks 43rd among the 50 states in taxing its citizens. I certainly do not feel that our tax load is oppressive," he commented.

Clashes over health and tax issues are only two of the major items which will face lawmakers when they start the trial run to annual sessions.

A criminal code revision, state government reorganization, and sweeping environmental protection proposals also will be on the docket.

What the loaded agenda illustrates is that 1974 will be the valley of decision for the annual session concept.

Some lawmakers who oppose the idea see the likelihood that the Legislature will bog down under the strain, and run

Our Congratulations To All-America City

Our congratulations go to the neighboring city of Wilson which was announced as one of the United States' All-America Cities last weekend.

Wilson was a winner along with ten other cities throughout the nation in the competition sponsored by the National Municipal League and the Saturday Evening Post.

Wilson was described as a "top agricultural and tobacco market in Eastern North Carolina " whose "economy is being bolstered by new, industrially-based jobs."

Wilson's citizens put many hours of hard work into the community development projects which won their city this award. We share their pride in this coveted honor.

Words That Weary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a widower gets tired of hearing:

"You'll love to meet her, Joe—she's just your type."

"You've got to quit thinking of the past. After all, you're still a young man—comparatively speaking, anyway."

HAL BOYLE

"Why don't you come eat with us tonight, Joe? Me and the missus aren't speaking, and maybe you could help break the deadlock."

"Listen, old pal, will you do a buddy a favor? How about me borrowing your apartment tonight? You could go to the movies or something."

"How's your love life, kid? A guy with his own salary to spend — I'll bet you have to beat them away with a baseball bat."

"You'll thank me later for introducing you to her, Joe. She sews her own clothes and likes opera."

"This is the second time you've had us up here this month, sir. Don't you know you're not supposed to try to flush hot grease and paper towels down the toilet simply because you sink is full of dishes?"

"Did you ever think you might be too particular, Joe? You know you're not getting any younger, and beggars can't be choosers."

"I'd like to go to the poker game with you tonight, Joe, but I can't. My wife and I are celebrating our 20th wedding anniversary."

"You're not the only one who misses her, Mr. Joe. It's so lonely now when I come to clean your apartment. Every minute I still keep expecting to hear her call from another room. She was a real lady."

"I don't blame you for not rushing into another marriage, Joe. I rushed into three of them — and I'll probably die in alimony jail."

Says Ervin In High Esteem

By JOHN KILGO

Sen. George McGovern says he believes North Carolina Sen. Sam Ervin will emerge from this session of Congress "as one of the most important men in Congress, who has won the respect of everyone serving in that body."

In a private interview with me on a recent trip to Charlotte, Sen. McGovern also said he believes many of the views he expressed during the 1972 campaign for the Presidency will soon be shared by a majority of Americans.

My conversation with the South Dakota Senator went like this:

Question: How is Sen. Ervin regarded in Washington?

McGovern: "He has won the respect of everyone in the Senate through his knowledge of the legal process, his knowledge of the constitutional scheme of things, and his persistence in protecting individual privacy and liberty. I think he's going to emerge from this Watergate investigation and from other things that he's attempting to do in the Senate, as one of the most important men in the U. S. Congress."

Question: What kind of man would you like to see named director of the FBI?

McGovern: "Someone like your Sam Ervin. Someone with an understanding and appreciation of the Constitution, who is independent of political ties."

Question: Does it seem to you that people seem more concerned about Watergate now than they did during the election campaign?

McGovern: "Yes, but I tried to tell them from every platform I took in all sections of the country. I think in a peculiar kind of way there was a delayed reaction to the Watergate scandal. It's taken a while for it to sink in. High officials of the government that don't hesitate to wiretap or burglarize a major political party, might not hesitate doing it to a private home, office or bank."

Question: Are you satisfied with Terry Sandford being chairman of the Democratic National Charter Commission?

McGovern: "I think he's an ideal man. He understands the political process. He understands the importance of maintaining an open and fair system of party procedures. He and his commission will play an important part in continuing to build on the reforms we made in 1972."

Question: What did you gain by running for President?

McGovern: "It's a privilege. Not more than 100 people have had that privilege in the history of the country. You come to learn the nation in a way that you couldn't possibly learn in any other way. I've come to a new appreciation of the diversity of this country, in both its strengths and its weaknesses."

Question: What did the nation gain from your running?

McGovern: "That remains to be seen. History will have to decide that. I do think it's fair to say I helped bring the war to an end. Mr. Nixon, throughout most of his public career, has supported American military involvement in Indochina. I've opposed it through most of my public career and my position came to prevail in the end. I tink it was the force of our campaign that built the kind of counter pressures that brought the war to at least a temporary end. I'm happy about some of the things going on in Cambodia. At least the intense pressure of our campaign helped set in moting those steps that reduced our involvement to an end.

Out Of The Pigeonholes

Thousands of college seniors will take their degrees next month in "political science," thus certifying their mastery of a contradiction in terms. Politics is an art, not a science, as George McGovern belatedly recognized last week.

The senator from South Dakota, it will be recalled, once was a full-time professor in this arcane field. He was a prime mover in the effort, a couple of years ago, to bring scientism to the Democratic party. This was, in its way, like asking the Rolling Stones to play Chopin, but the professor is a dauntless man.

As a result of his labors, last year's Democratic National Convention was a marvel to behold. Veterans in the press gallery were struck dumb. We had seen nothing like it under sun or moon. The new rules had produced a highly computerized convention, in which the delegations were divided by dozens of decimal points, but where were the old pols? The old pols, it appeared, had not been invited.

The Democratic National Committee fed us with the fact sheets. Of the 3,194 elected delegates, 1,275, or 39.9 percent, were women. Another 688, or 21.5 percent, were youths. Still another 488, or 15.2 percent, were black. The rolls also numbered 142 Latinos, 27 Indians, 12 Orientals and 2 Eskimos, whose percentages, respectively, were 4.44, 0.845, 0.375, and 0.062. The fact sheets failed to classify the remaining 560 delegates, who presumably were old males not otherwise attached.

We stared at these statistics in alarm, wondering whether a young Indian girl had been counted once, twice or three times, and we sighed at the symmetrical perfection of the egg carton from New York—142 males and 136 females, the whole number being further subdivided into 70 youths, 35 blacks, 17 Lations, 1 Indian, and 1 Ms., name of Abzug.

The underlying theory, of course, was that the state delegations should reflect the state populations. The theory was half-baked. It provided no pigeonholes labeled Jew, Catholic, Protestant, farmer, veteran, Polish, Italian, student, housewife, homosexual, or union man. The reformers, pleading the necessity to take one step at a time, promised in the platform to do better next time.

Not so. At last week's meeting of the Democratic Charter Commission, Professor McGovern manfully confessed error. He recommended that language be deleted that had created the quota system for women and young people. "I believe," he said, "that delegates should represent people, not type of people."

This is precisely what critics of the new rule were saying last summer. The quota system was not an affirmation of democracy, but a postive denial of democracy. The scheme converted flesh-and-blood people to mere punchcards, not to be mutilated, folded or spindled. It made the computer king.

To the Editor

I have just read the account in the April 17 Daily Reflector of Dr. Cleetwood's failure to win re-election. I have heard nothing in advance, have heard no radio or TV news about it, my only information being what I have just read.

Our children have all finished High School so I have no connection with the schools, other than an abiding interest in the best possible education for all Greenville young people. Therefore, I cannot knowledgeably pass judgment on the good things or the weak things about our school system. I recently had a conversation with parents now out of state whose two children finished high school here within the past four years and have gone on to excel in above average universities. My one question was, "Do you think the Greenville schools prepared them well?" and without a moment's hesitation the answer was, "Absolutely." Others, I'm sure, could tell a different story because individuals differ, but this does tell us that there is good education going on.

Three things come to mind: How did five have such a complete meeting of the mind? Were there private meetings in advance? Also, the question comes again as it did some years ago when Dr. Cleetwood was under fire: What are the reasons the members give for opposing Dr. Cleetwood? I believe the public has a stake in this and reasons should have been given.

This expression is not to defend or accuse—simply to ask questions. My thid question is, how could this come about without the citizens of Greenville being aware of the situation?

Respectfully,
Mary Bailey W. Davis

One Hundred Pitt County men will be eligible for jobs in the giant reforestration program set in motion recently by President Roosevelt with Congressional approval. These men will be picked from the ranks of the unemployed and will receive $1.00 per day, clothing and housing. The reforestration program in North Carolina will be conducted in the national park in the western section and is expected to play a big part in clearing up unaccessible regions in the rough mountain region.

A county-wide Grange was organized at a public meeting at the court house last night. J. G. Farmer, of New Hampshire and lecturer of the National Grange, delivered the principal address.

Strength For Today

MOTIVES

Francis Bacon in one of his essays draws a contrast between the love of excellence and the love of excelling. The former is extroverted desire. It is supported and impelled by a desire to do something well. The latter has behind it the selfish desire to get ahead of someone else. The person who aspires to excellence wants to produce a distinguished piece of work; the person who wants to excell wants only to draw attention to himself. The lover of excellence centers in the thing produced; the love of excelling centers in the person.

It makes very little difference what a man produces, provided he is impelled with the love of excellence. He may make a piece of furniture or write a book, paint a picture or build up a business or farm bumper crops. God is lavish in this distribution of human capabilities. A man who has real health of soul and mind desires to create something and this desire is much more important than any impilse to display prowess.

Executive Job Market Booming

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The executive job market is booming again, with perhaps 5,000 new openings a month in the $15,000 and up category, but a lot of applicants are writing themselves into the discard heap.

These otherwise accomplished executives haven't mastered the simple art of writing a resume that will give the facts clearly and concisely, says William Breitmayer, who scans thousands each month.

About 15 per cent of those received by Breitmayer, president of Executive Register, "are messy and illegible, are shoddy quality machine copies, or simply are so poorly written that even we can't make head or tail of them."

It's understandable, says Breitmayer, whose company computer processes the applications for its corporate clients, that an executive, like anyone else, would find it awkward to write about himself.

"When a successful person severs relations with a company it's like a divorce, even if he initiated the action. He feels on the defensive and he doesn't present his best. He finds it difficult to tell a straightforward story."

The same curious phenomenon has been observed elsewhere, too. When 40-plus clubs were formed in 1970 to help find jobs for idle executives aged 40 or more, it was found that resumes were one of the major obstacles.

It was discovered that men and women who were masters in dictating business letters to secretaries were helpless when it came to writing objective reports on their own careers, especially without a secretary's aid.

Since Breitmayer, whose headquarters are in New Canaan, Conn., with offices in New York and San Francisco, makes his living by supplying computerized data on executives to his corporate clients, he would just as soon not have to toss away several hundred resumes each month. And so he sets some guidelines:

—The first item should be a brief, personal sketch that gives the reader a feeling of knowing a little bit about you. Include date and place of birth, marital status, children, address, telephones, height, weight, health, foreign languages.

Opposition Voiced To Coastal Management

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Land developers, local officials, environmentalists and state officials all have had their say on the proposed coastal are management act now before the North Carolina General Assembly.

After the public hearing on the bill was over Wednesday, the consensus from the more than 20 speakers was that most local governments oppose the bill, some developers like it, environmentalists don't think it's strong enough, and the state departments which would administer it are strongly in favor of it.

James Harrington, Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, led the hearing by saying the bill was "needed now to forestall a disease that threatens to turn this unique portion of our Goodliest Land into the Great Wasteland."

But several local officials from the coastal area said the cure was worse than the disease. Dwight Wheless, attorney for Dare County said the bill recklessly strips local governments of their authority to regulate land use.

He recommended that the bill be rewritten to give the state an advisory role and leave the power in local hands.

But while Wheless felt the bill went too far, Dr. Orrin Pilkey of Duke University spoke for environmentlaists who said it did not go far enough.

The bill, he said, did not have enough teeth to prevent careless and damaging development on the coast, but it would represent a "false security blanket" that would lull the public into thinking the problem had been solved.

Few developers spoke publicly at the hearing because of time limitations. One of the state's most controversial developers, however, did attend.

William Henderson, president of the corporation which owns Bald Head Island, said the bill had his support, though he would like to see a few changes.

Henderson said the bill's effect would likely depend on how it was administered.

At issue was a bill which has been studied since 1969 and was finally finished and introduced a month ago with the backing of the Holshouser administration.

It would establish a coastal resources commission and vest in it and Harrington the power to stop and control development in "environmentally sensitive" areas of the North Carolina shoreline.

Drug Charge Is Dropped

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Heroin possession charges against actress-singer Barbara McNair have been dropped by federal prosecutors after investigation by the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

At the same time on Wednesday, a grand jury indicted Miss McNair's husband-manager, Rick Manzie, 32, on a charge of attempting to possess a heroin compound.

The two were arrested Oct. 17, 1972, at the Playboy Club in McAfee, N.J., where Miss McNair was performing. Federal agents said then the couple had accepted a half-ounce of heroin intercepted at Newark Airport and brought to Miss McNair's dressing room by agents posing as delivery men.

Jointly Hunt For Millionaire

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI, Internal Revenue Service, and federal marshals have begun a search for millionaire Edward Krock.

He failed to appear in federal court in Boston on Wednesday to answer charges of income tax evasion after being charged by a federal grand jury with failing to report $6.2 million income between 1966 and 1969 and failing to pay more than $1.4 million in personal taxes.

U.S. Attorney Herbert J. Stern said that as a result of the grand jury's action the U.S. District Court would be asked to dismiss the criminal complaint against Miss McNair. The procedure is considered a matter of form.

The plan, for all its pretty percentage marks, did not provide demonstrably better representation. The Illinois contingent that finally was seated was a trimph of political science; the delegation came from the reforemers' laundromat free of soil or stain, smelling of soap and starch, but it gave no account to the Hon. Richard Daley, mayor of Chicago. In November, as one consequence, Cook County went for Nixon by nearly a quarter of a million votes.

McGovern would correct that situation also. He told the Charter Commission that new guidelines should assure that "senior party leaders" are promised a place at future conventions. Organizations that run independent slates, such as Daley's in Chicago, should be permitted to put together their delegations as they please.

The professor's proposals brought a howl from Ms. Abzug, who saw them as a "serious" setback to the role of women in the party. His recommendations will please others—notably Jews and old pols. Jews despise quotas and old pols dearly love the limelight. By thus concentrating on politics and forgetting political sceince, party leaders may regain some lost ground. And as McGovern knows better than most men, a party that in November lost 49 of the 50 states has a lot of lost ground to regain.

beyond the four-month limit which leaders envision. If that happens, the public and legislators alike might conclude the old biennial format wasn't so bad.

The complicating factor next year will be the imminent legislative primary races. Under the political gun of running again, members might shy away from explosive issues that could handicap their chances for reelection.

"Beyond that, I think we raised some questions about the tax structure, welfare structure, about priorities, about excessive expenditures for military purposes...questions that will not go away. One day soon I think most of the things I recommended in 1972 will come to be accepted by the majority of American people."

Question: How about the Democratic presidential nominee for 1976. Who do you think it will be?

McGovern: "I've learned not to look in crystal balls too far in the distance. I don't think many people would have guessed in 1968 that George McGovern would be the candidate in 1972. I'm not going to make the mistake of trying to guess what the electorate is going to say four years from now."

Question: Would you be interested in running for Vice President in 1976?

McGovern: "No, I wouldn't."

—The second item should be your educational background, with the names of each institution attended, majors studied, and the date each degree was awarded. These two items should use no more than onethird of the first page.

—Provide specific details on your career, starting with your present or most recent position and concentrating on the most recent 10 years.

List the name of the company, and the city and state where employed. Describe your responsibilities in each job clearly, showing the chain of command through which you reported as well as functions reported to you.

Figures on the size of the company and your part of it, including sales, numbers of units or people, will help give weight to your story. Give the specifics, but keep it brief and stick to the main points.

An employer is interested only in the "what" of your jobs, not in your own qualitative judgment of how well you did them. Try not to force your words. Be straightforward, and let the reader decide for himself.

—Speak for yourself. Resumes produced by resume writing firms fall into a set pattern which is recognized and downgraded by employers. Since you pay their bill, resume writers describe your virtues too extravagantly.

—Reproduce your resume professionally. Don't try to save money by typing your own resume or by using carbon copies or cheap machine reproductions. Have it typed professionally and reproduced on offset.

Don't crowd the page but use enough white space so that it can be read easily and quickly. Underline titles and company names. Use short sentences and paragraphs.

Remember that you want the reader to say: "This person has put together a simple and clear statement of what he has done, and where and how he has done it. Therefore, he must also be well organized and effective."

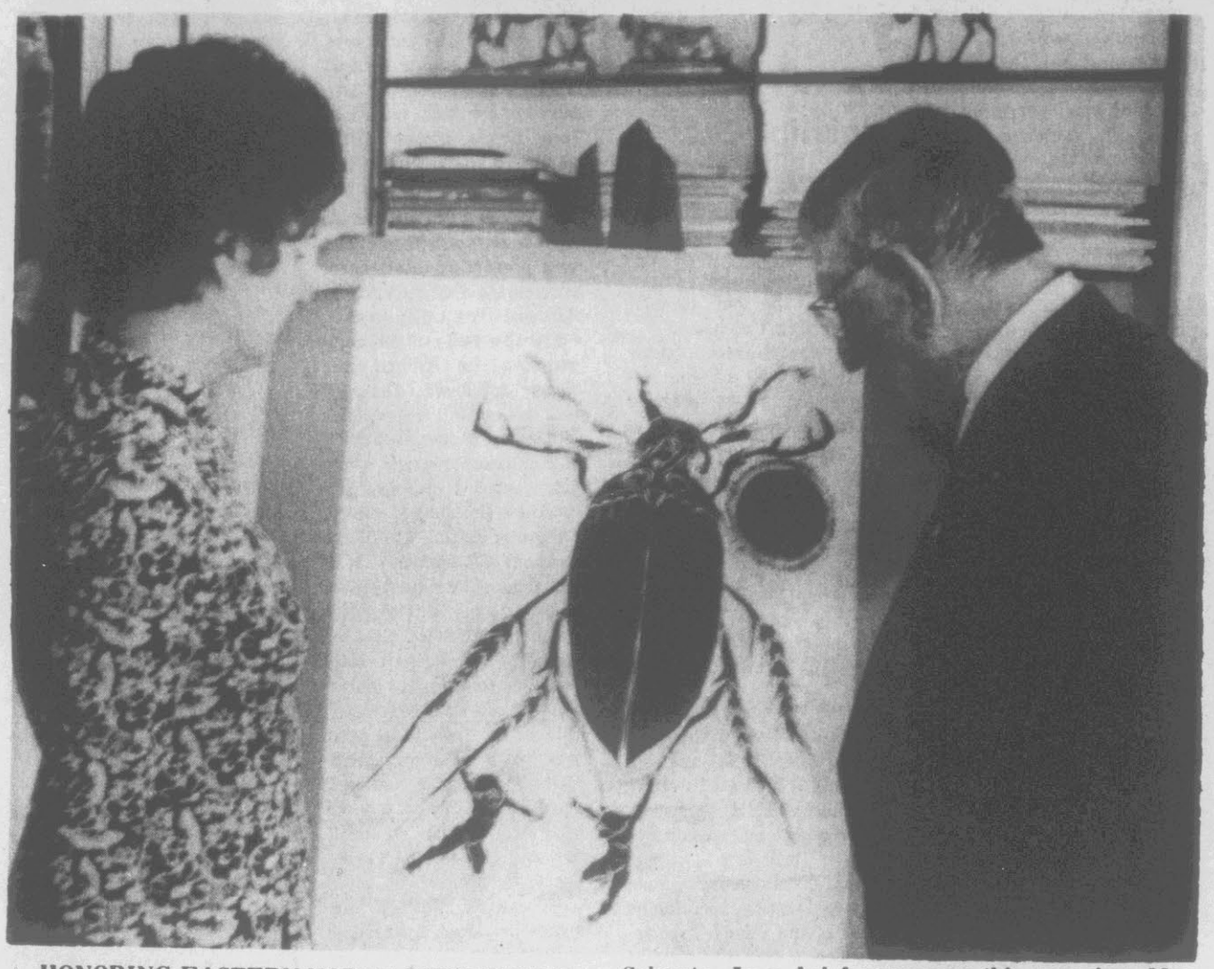
Art Gift Memorial To Service In Southeast Asia



HONORING EASTERN NORTH CAROLINIANS. . .who served in Southeast Asia, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin K. Blount, Sr., have given the Greenville Art Center six black and white prints by Thai artist Praphan Srisouta. In a brief ceremony this morning, Mrs. Edith Walker, director of the Art Center, accepts the gift from Blount on behalf of the East Carolina Art Society. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Reflector Staff Writer

In what may be the first tribute of its kind, a Greenville couple today has honored the men and women of eastern North Carolina who have served their country in Southeast Asia in recent years.

Marvin K. Blount, Sr. this morning presented to the Greenville Art Center six black and white prints by artist Praphan Srisouta of Thailand.

The prints were purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Blount as a joint expression of honor to eastern North Carolinians.

"These works of art are given to commemorate the dedication and loyalty of our young men and women of eastern North Carolina who have served their country so faithfully," Blount said.

"I feel this is a fine way to keep in rememberance the young people who left family and friends to serve their country," he commented, "especially those who made the final sacrifice of their lives. But we remember too, "the young men who suffered long years as prisoners of war, as well as all who have served and have returned home to eastern North Carolina."

Accepting the prints on behalf of the East Carolina Art Society and the Greenville Art Center, Mrs. Edith Walker, director of the art center said, "I am deeply moved, Mr. Blount, by this tribute you pay to the men and women of our area who have served in Southeast Asia. It's a beautiful gesture.

"I'm also honored that you've chosen the Greenville Art Center to be the benefactor of this lovely tribute."

Mrs. Walker added, "I think your choice of the works of a Southeast Asian artist reflects a spirit of brotherhood among our people here and people of that part of the world."

Blount, a lawyer, businessman and farmer, is president of the Rachel Maxwell Moore Foundation founded by the late Mrs. Moore of Greenville.

He is an advocate of Greenville becoming the focal point of art in eastern North Carolina. In recent years he has been active in promoting this concept, with the hope that eventually an art museum will be established in Greenville that will provide a wide range of art facilities for citizens of the entire eastern part of the state.

Praphan Srisouta is perhaps the best-known young artist of Thailand. Currently he is in the U.S. on a Rockefeller grant completing work on the MFA degree at Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. Srisouta has exhibited by invitation in a number of major international shows, including ones in Indonesia, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Saigon, and in West Germany.

The six prints will later go on exhibit at the Greenville Art Center.

Recruit Dies In Foxhole

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—The Marine Corps said a young recruit was found dead in his collapsed fox hole early today.

The base public affairs office at Camp Lejeune said the recruit, whose identity was not released, "apparently died of suffocation resulting from the collapse of sandy soil around him."

The incident occurred at Camp Geiger, one of the base's training areas.

The dead Marine was among 238 recruits undergoing one week of basic infantry and tactics training at Camp Lejeune. They are regularly assigned to Paris Island, S.C.

It was the second incident among the recruits this week.

Seven Marines were injured, none seriously, on Tuesday when a hand grenade exploded near their training bleacher. A Marine spokesman said their instructor had been demonstrating various types of grenades when he, apparently without realizing it, pulled the pin on a fragmentation grenade.

The recruits, some of them less than 40 feet from the grenade, had about three seconds to seek shelter.

The grenade had a killing radius of 20 feet and a casualty inflicting radius of 48 feet, the spokesman said.

DECLARE DIVIDEND

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Directors of Piedmont Aviation, Inc., declared a 10 per cent stock dividend at their annual meeting Wednesday.

May Apply To Kindergarten

The East Carolina University Kindergarten Program is now accepting applications for summer and fall sessions.

The Summer Kindergarten will run for six weeks, beginning June 4, and the fall program will begin in September.

Parents of kindergarten-aged children may apply for either or both sessions at the School of Education office in the Educational-Psychology Building.

Application deadline is April 30.

Students Make Virginia Tour

E. B. Aycock Junior High School students under the leadership of Faye M. Creegan visited Luray Caverns in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia last Sunday.

The group also visited Monticello, home of Pres. Thomas Jefferson, Ash Lawn, home of Pres. James Monroe, the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, the New Market Battlefield Park, Natural Bridge, and drove the Skyline Drive in Shenandoah National Park.

Twenty-nine new members have been initiated into the East Carolina University chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma honor society in business administration.

They were formally initiated in ceremonies Tuesday, April 17. The new members include five members of the ECU School of Business faculty, six graduate students and 18 undergraduates.

Membership in the society is open to faculty members and to advanced students with superior academic grade point averages.

New faculty members of the ECU chapter include Dr. Charles Broome, Dr. William H. Collins, Kenneth A. Donnalley, Dr. R. B. Keusch and Dr. Tilton Willcox.

New Student Members Include:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville - Bobby Bryant, husband of Joyce S. Bryant, 1005 S. Elm St.;

Grifton—James Bernice Tyndall, son of W. H. Tyndall.

Exercise Class Conducted

The Recreation Department announces that exercise class for women are now being held every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at the Elm Street Center from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. Interested women should come and wear comfortable, loose fitting clothes and bring a terry cloth towel.

Classes are continuing in "Bread Dough Flowers". Class hours are on Tuesday from 9:00 to 12:00 a.m., 2:00 to 4:30 p.m., 7:30 to 10:00 and on Wednesday from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 10:00 p.m.

Mathematicians Attend Meeting

A six-member delegation from the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics attended the regional meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics in Charleston, S. C. last week.

They were faculty members Dr. Katye Sowell, Dr. Kathryn Hodgins and Vann Latham, and students Delaine Sharp, Sue Hagan and Linda Vann.

Dr. Sowell and Dr. Hodgins directed program sessions at the meeting.

Miss Hagan is the daughter of Patrick L. Hagan, 207 S. Library St., Greenville.

Hoffa Claims Proof Of Perjury In His Trial

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Former Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa says he has proof the Justice Department forced the main prosecution witness to commit perjury in Hoffa's 1964 jury tampering trial.

"I have in my possession a 31-page document where the only witness against me admits that he committed perjury and that he was given each night by the federal government questions and answers he was to repeat the next morning on the witness stand," Hoffa said.

He said the witness, former Louisiana Teamsters head Edward Partin, would make a public statement on the contents of the "document" in the "next 10 days." Hoffa said Partin had given the statement to a court reporter but did not say how he obtained it.

Partin, however, could not be reached immediately for comment.

Hoffa made the statement in an interview with a Dayton television talk show host, Phil Donahue, during a program taped in Atlanta and aired by WLWD here last week.

Last January a federal court in Cincinnati, Ohio, refused for the fifth time to overturn Hoffa's 1964 jury tampering conviction.

Hoffa's lawyers had argued that Partin, the government's key witness in the trial, had perjured himself and that the Department of Justice knew of the alleged perjury.

Hoffa indicated he would use Partin's alleged statement in an effort to secure a reversal of the requirement of his parole last year that he not take part in union activities until 1980.

Hoffa was charged in Nashville, Tenn., in 1962 with attempting to extort a kickback on a labor contract with a trucking firm The case ended in a mistrial.

In 1964, Hoffa was convicted with three other men of conspiring to tamper with the jury in the 1962 case. His appeals were rejected and he began serving his eight-year sentence in 1967.

Last year, President Nixon granted Hoffa parole, provided he agree not to take part in union activities before 1980.

Partin has since been convicted of extortion and was sentenced last Friday to seven years in prison. He is free pending an appeal.

Brown Authors New Textbook

Dr. Robert M. Brown, professor of education at East Carolina University, is the author of a new textbook for college students in education courses.

Dr. Brown's "Educational Media: A Competency-Based Approach" concerns the use of audio-visual materials in the classroom and enables the student to practice teaching procedures that he will later use with actual pupils.

Hospital Bd. Adopts Patient's 'Bill Of Rights'

A "Patient's Bill of Rights" has been adopted by the Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, as "a reaffirmation of the hospital's dedication to patient service."

The 12 tenets are as follows:

1. The patient has the right to considerate and respectful care.

2. The patient has the right to obtain from his physician complete current information concerning his diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis in terms the patient can be reasonably expected to understand. When it is not medically advisable to give such information to the patient, the information should be made available to an appropriate person in his behalf. He has the right to know by name, the physician responsible for coordinating his care.

3. The patient has the right to receive from his physician information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure and-or treatment. Except in emergencies, such information for informed consent, should include but not necessarily be limited to the specific procedure and-or treatment, the medically significant risks involved, and the probably duration of incapacitation. Where medically significant alternatives for care or treatment exist, or when the patient requests information concerning medical alternatives, the patient has the right to such information. The patient also has the right to know the name of the person responsible for the procedures and-or treatment.

4. The patient has the right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law, and to be informed of the medical consequences of his action.

5. The patient has the right to every consideration of his privacy concerning his own medical care program. Case discussion, consultation, examination, and treatment are confidential and should be conducted discreetly. Those not directly involved in his care must have the permission of the patient to be present.

6. The patient has the right to expect that all communications and records pertaining to his care should be treated as confidential.

7. The patient has the right to expect that within its capacity a hospital must make reasonable response to the request of a patient for services. The hospital must provide evaluation, service and-or referral as indicated by the urgency of the case. When medically permissible a patient may be transferred to another facility only after he has received complete information and explanation concerning the needs for and alternatives to such a transfer. The institution to which the patient is to be transferred must first have accepted the patient for transfer.

8. The patient has the right to obtain information as to any relationship of his hospital to other health care and educational institutions insofar as his care is concerned. The patient has the right to obtain information as the existence of any professional relationships among individuals, by name, who are treating him.

9. The patient has the right to be advised if the hospital proposes to engage in or perform human experimentation affecting his care or treatment. The patient has the right to refuse to participate in such research projects.

10. The patient has the right to expect reasonable continuity of care. He has the right to know in advance what appointment times and physicians are available and where. The patient has the right to expect that the hospital will provide a mechanism whereby he is informed by his physician or a delegate of the physician of the patient's continuing health care requirements following discahrge.

11. The patient has the right to examine and receive an explanation of his bill regardless of source of payment.

12. The patient has the right to know what hospital rules and regulations apply to his conduct as a patient.

The Trustees asked that a copy of the rights be given to each patient or his family and that all hospital personnel become familiar with them also.

Milk Price Hearing Set

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Milk Commission plans to hold a hearing May 22 to consider setting minimum milk prices at the retail level statewide.

The hearing was set Wednesday by the commission. Executive secretary Grady Cooper Jr. said it will mark the first time the commission has considered uniform retail milk prices statewide.

Charles Colvard of the North Carolina Milk Producers Federation said he believes milk producers will favor retail minimum prices.

"It tends to stabilize the price," said Colvard. He indicated that price stability would insure that producers would want to stay in the milk business.

Mrs. Lillian Woo of the North Carolina Consumers Council said the commission "should eliminate price fixing at all levels."

The seven-member commission is charged with setting minimum prices that the farmer receives for his raw milk from the distributor-processor.

The commission also has authority to oversee the rates at which the distributor-processor sells the processed milk to grocery stores.

Took New Wife After Divorce

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Earl Warren Jr., son of the former chief justice of the United States, has taken a new bride eight days after divorcing his wife of 17 years.

In a brief courthouse ceremony on Wednesday, Warren married Antoinette Mira Buerk, a widowed 32-year-old legal secretary who lives in the Sacramento suburb of Carmichael.

Warren, 42, is a judge in Sacramento Municipal Court.

Warren's first marriage to Cleo Patricia Kent ended last week after long litigation over the custody of their four children. Warren received custody of one of the children.

Wounded During Fighting

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Mariano, an ABC television correspondent, and Le Phuc Dinh, his Vietnamese cameraman, have been slightly wounded while covering the outbreak of fighting near Cambodia, the network said. Neither man required hospitalization after the Wednesday incident near the Mekong River in South Vietnam.

How One Family Faces Tightening Financial Bind

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Bob Connors used to own a twin-engine, 30-foot boat, buy new cars every other year, and dine out on steak three times a week.

Now, the boat has been sold, they're still driving their 1967 station wagon with 112,000 miles, and a $6 barbercue dinner once a month is a special treat.

Connor, 36, a furniture salesman, father of five children with four teen-agers living at home, had been living the good life and his only thought was that it would get better. But then he lost his job and the subsequent 30 per cent drop in family income disrupted his dreams. Adding to the problem were the rising costs in living and the expensive tastes acquired over the years.

The Connors are facing their first real financial bind.

"I'm desperately concerned," said Connor, a balding man of medium build. "The only thing that keeps me going is that I still have a few years ahead of me and maybe things will pick up for us again."

He used to earn about $19,000 as an assistant manager at a large furniture store in Houston. His wife, Dolores, brought in another $6,000 for secretarial and accounting work.

Their four-bedroom Spanish-style house on the outskirts of Houston is still decorated with touches of their more affluent days. There are several sets of Mediterranean furniture, thick shag rugs and six-foot plastic flowering plants.

"We paid cash for everything and there wasn't anything I couldn't buy if I wanted it," said Dee, a lively, petite blonde. Daughters Nancy, Paula and Theresa took modeling lessons, Jay and Butch were active in the town sports programs. The family exchanged $1,000 worth of gifts at Christmas. The Conners had all they wanted and about two years ago Dee quit her job so she could be home for the children.

Then, last year, Bob left his job for a combination of personal reasons and pressures on his firm due to increased competition. He took another sales position paying about $13,000.

Everything seemed to fall apart at the same time.

There were three operations in the family and $5,000 in medical bills and no insurance to cover them. Payments on the boat, the furniture, the freezer started to pile up. Food prices, taxes, insurance rates all went up as well.

Now, the Connors are several thousand dollars in debt.

In an effort to get clear, Bob sold the boat. "That was so depressing," said Bob grimacing. "I really felt I'd had my day."

The Connors next sold their mutual funds and withdrew all their savings. They applied for two loans, and considered selling the house to move into an apartment. Dee went back to work part time as free-lance secretary and real estate sales person.

The penny-pinching and scraping to get by began.

Dee supported this month's meat boycott, but then the Connors had not been eating much beef the last few months. The huge freezer they still owe money for is empty. Dee used to buy tenderloins for the family for $10. She can't afford to spend that much now, and besides that same cut of beef has gone up to $13. Their grocery bill is about $50 a week, which is about what it was two years ago, says Dee, but then there were steaks in the shopping bags as well.

Family meals consist of lots of chicken, chili, lasagna and spaghetti. Bob has gone from 135 to 170 pounds in the last year. "It's probably because I quit smoking, but it sure must have something to do with all that starchy stuff we have to eat, too."

The Connors talk wistfully about "the good old days" when things were "flush."

"We took a fantastic vacation once to Colorado with the children. We charged everything and had $1,300 in traveler's checks. Now, we can't even afford to go to Corpus Christi," says Dee.

They still have American Express and Carte Blanche charge cards but keep them only for future days. There are no new clothes or spending money for the children, and gone are the days when they could give 14-year-old Butch a custom-made surfboard.

"I consider buying a magazine a form of entertainment," says Dee, who picks up her monthly Cosmopolitan at the stands and has kept up her subscriptions to Reader's Digest, National Geographic, Bon Appetit and Vintage, a gourmet wine magazine to satisfy her epicurean tastes. Dee is fascinated by French wines, knows the best year for Nuits St. Georges, but the only bottle on the kitchen shelves now is Italian Swiss Colony for cooking.

Dee, a smart dresser, is partial to name designers for herself and her daughters, one of whom made the best-dressed list at school. She used to spending several thousand on clothes but today she can't remember when she last bought a dress.

Both Dee and Bob have to drive more than a half hour to work. Keeping up the station wagon and the 1970 Pontiac is an $80 month expense they have to cope with. But they have started to use the self-service gas stations. A gallon of gas is 10 cents cheaper there.

Some pleasures are hard to give up, no matter what the cost. "We bought a dog the children all loved only to discover it was allergic to fleas," said Dee. "Well, you don't just get rid of the dog. So we have to spend about $30 for cortisone shots twice a year."

It's important to Dee to look good. "You've got to present yourself well to the world. I don't want to look like some tacky, dumb housewife and no matter how tough things get, I won't give up my make-up and false eyelashes."

Dee easily spent $40 a month for bleaching her hair, but has been using that money to pay off the furniture. She wears wigs every day so she doens't have to go to the beauty parlor for a set. There was a time when she owned about 20 wigs, but they've long since been sold and she's down to three.

"What I miss most," said Dee, "is not being able to go into a department store and buy what I want. Once if I saw a beautiful set of crystal glasses, I just handed the saleslady $100 and walked out with a box. I haven't bought anything that wasn't an absolute necessity in months."

Bob says he'd really like to have his own furniture store some day. But that requires lots of capital. For a time the Connors considered selling their house for $30,000, but Dee was reluctant.

"It's the only thing we have. It's our only security. What if the new business didn't work out? Then where would we be?"

Public Opinion Favors Stricter Controls Program

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J., April 18 — With the extension of the President's authority to control wages and prices voted Monday by the House of Representatives, the latest nationwide Gallup survey shows public opinion heavily in favor of making wage-price controls "more strict."

Currently 51 per cent of Americans think these controls should be "more strict" while 17 per cent want less strict controls. Twenty-three per cent think they are all right as they are now.

These findings are recorded at a time when pressures are building to strengthen wage-price controls and inflation is far and away the top worry of the American people, according to a recent Gallup survey. In addition, the Gallup Standard of Living Index shows Americans feel it takes $149 per week for a family of four to make ends meet, a record high.

One of those who urge stricter controls is Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who recently urged a return to a Phase I economic control "freeze." Terming "rampant, runaway inflation" the country's most serious problem, Mr. Mills declared a "a complete freeze without time duration is in order now."

Today's survey results are consistent with earlier findings recorded in surveys taken before President Nixon announced the 90-day wage-and-price freeze in August 1971.

The findings on this issue have shown the American people to be in favor of some form of controls, with sizabel proportions willing to accept more rather than less strict controls.

Following is the question asked and the results:

Do you think wage-price controls should be made more strict, less strict or kept about as they are now?

WAGE-PRICE CONTROLS SHOULD BE...	%
More Strict	51
Less Strict	17
Kept as Now	23
No Opinion	9

The latest results show an increase from the previous survey in August in the proportion of people who say controls should be made "more strict." Following is the trend since November 1971:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a very successful business. He is a devoted, faithful husband and a wonderful father. All my friends think I'm the luckiest woman in the world. I would be, if it weren't for the fact that I am terrified that my husband will go to prison for income tax evasion.

He hasn't paid any taxes in six years. At first he really didn't have the money at tax time. The next year he put off filing until it was too late. The third year he didn't need an excuse. Now he says he knows plenty of others who don't pay any taxes, so why should he?

I have talked to him until I'm blue in the face. Now he refuses to even discuss it.

Abby, I am worried sick that with the new computer system they will soon catch up with him. What can I do?

JANE DOE

DEAR JANE: If you can't talk some sense into his head, confide in your lawyer and ask him to. If he 'fesses up, the penalty will be considerably lighter than if the feds catch him.

DEAR ABBY: Listen to this. A friend of mine is pregnant and some of her friends are getting together to give her a baby shower. This woman is 44 years old, soon to be 45, and she has six children and is a grandmother to boot. [Her oldest is 23 and her youngest is 12]. I say it's ridiculous to give a shower for a woman this age. Some of my friends disagree with me. What do you say? A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I see nothing ridiculous about it. On the contrary, I can't think of anyone who could use the lift more.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about "Jane," who was convinced that she should take care of her elderly father has haunted me.

I am 60, and God forbid that any of my children should ever have to "take care" of me. I want my children to remember me as a strong person who is capable of taking care of himself. I never want to live with any of my children. It would present all kinds of problems and I'd feel guilty.

Just give me a room in a good clean nursing home where I can have my own corner, forget responsibility and can be served without feeling that I'm imposing. I don't want to worry about illnesses, family quarrels, or the grandchildren's grades. I've been thru all that. Give me peace.

Don't forget me, tho. Call and write now and then. And invite me for Sunday dinner occasionally. Let me entertain you in my room. But please, don't try to "take care" of me. Let me retain some dignity in my old age.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices remained higher today but below peaks reached earlier in the session.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was up 3.23 at 961.54. Earlier, it was up over 5 points.

Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 2 to 1.

Analysts said the gains were a follow-through of the rise of late Wednesday, when the Dow rose nearly 5.

Other Big Board prices included American Telephone, which reported higher earnings, up ⅜ to 53¾; Texas Instruments, which also reported sharply higher profits, up 8¼ to 170¾ after a delayed opening; and Bausch & Lomb, which announced higher first-quarter operating net, up 1¼ to 19⅞.

Autos were strong and actively traded. Ford rose 1 to 65¼, and General Motors gained ¾ to 73¾.

Oils also were up after President Nixon's energy message Wednesday. Exxon rose ⅜ to 100⅜, Gulf rose 1¼ to 25⅝, and Texaco was up ⅞ to 41.

On the American Stock Exchange, Investors Diversified Services A, which reported lower net, was off 1⅞ to 27.

Congregation To Goldsboro

The Greenville South Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses plans to leave Saturday to attend a two-day seminar in Goldsboro. Sessions begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and end at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

According to Tucker, local presiding minister, about 900 are expected to attend with delegates coming from 10 congregations in North Carolina and Virginia.

Morning, afternoon and evening sessions have been designed to highlight the convention's theme "Do All Things For God's Glory" and will feature Bible discourses, demonstrations and experiences.

The main session will be Sunday at 2:00 p.m. when Wendell P. Roe, of world headquarters in Brooklyn, N. Y., will speak on the subject "Decide Now for Divine Rulership."

All sessions are free and open to the public.

Double-Warning In Winterville

WINTERVILLE — Police Chief W.E. Whitehurst cautioned Winterville resident today that enforcement of two city ordinances—one requiring vehicles garaged within the town limits to display a current Winterville municipal license tag and the other prohibiting dogs running at large—would be stepped up.

According to Whitehurst, vehicles garaged within the town are required to display current town license plates. The deadline for puchasing the plates, Whitehurst noted, was February 15.

Chief Whitehurst also noted that an ordinance which went into effect March 1 prohibits dogs from running at large within the town.

He explained that under the ordinance, dogs must be on a leash at all times when off their owners property.

The chief noted that persons violating the ordinances are subject to arrest.

Claim No Fight On OEO Verdict

WASHINGTON (AP — The Washington Post says in today's editions that the Nixon administration will not fight a judge's decision that stopped the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Post quoted White House sources to the effect that the administration was concerned that some portions of the decision, if appealed, could be expanded to have an adverse effect on other Nixon decisions, such as impounding of funds.

A spokesman for OEO Director Howard Phillips would neither confirm nor deny the Post report.

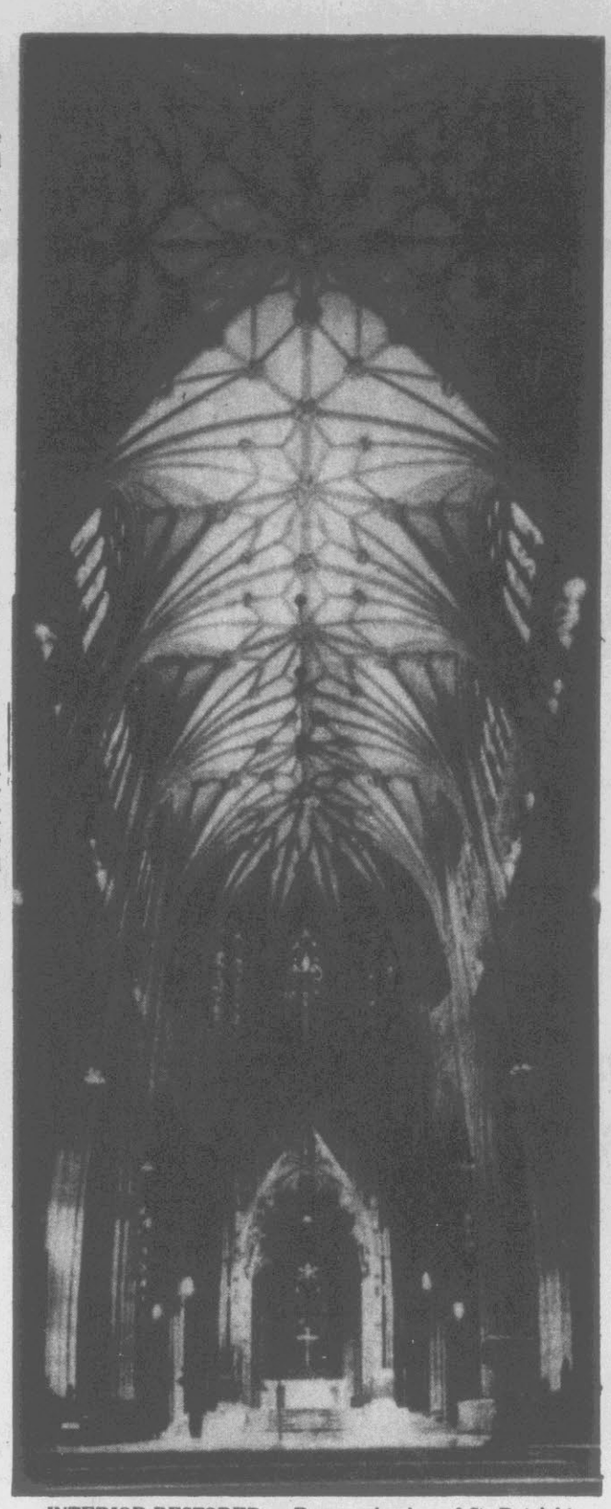
Approve White House Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A vote by the House of Representatives has paved the way for the controversial project to extend the West front of the Capitol.

By a 215-185 margin, the House approved Wednesday an appropriation of $58 million for the project that would provide more office space for members and committees.

CENTER CLOSING

The Meadowbrook Day Care Center will close this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. for the Easter holidays. The center will resume its normal schedule Tuesday morning.



INTERIOR RESTORED — Panoramic view of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York shows the altar and ceiling of the famed church following an $800,000 restoration that removed 90 years of accumulated dust, grime and lampblack. Freed POWs Will Meet Rescue Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former U.S. prisoners of war from the Son Tay prison camp near Hanoi will have the opportunity to meet the Green Berets who tried to free them in an abortive 1970 raid, thanks to a Texas billionaire.

Lex Byers, an executive of the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday that computer tycoon H. Ross Perot is flying the 60 Green Berets and 200 ex-POWs and their wives here for a celebration April 27-28. Byers said the former prisoners, now at various U.S. military hospitals, chose San Francisco for their meeting with the Berets, now stationed at bases around the world.

The Berets — handpicked and secretly trained for the special assignment — made a helicopter raid in November 1970 on the prison camp 25 miles outside Hanoi, but all American servicemen had been removed from the camp. Military leaders defended the raid against congressional criticism, saying it was essential to boost prisoner morale.

Byers said the two groups will be housed at a luxury hotel and honored with a noontime downtown motorcade. Plans also include a public luncheon and several private functions.

Perot, who is footing the bill for the entire weekend, in 1969 sponsored a charter flight that unsuccessfully attempted to deliver Christmas presents to POWs in Vietnam. There was no estimate of the cost of the reunion here this month.

Falkland Names Planning Board

FALKLAND—The City Council, meeting here Wednesday night, appointed a planning board to make a study of the needs of the town and recommend areas of improvement.

Mayor Bill Jones said that the need for sidewalks in Falkland was discussed and the board will look into the matter as well as other future needs for the town.

The mayor noted that the planning board will meet in the near future with the Pitt County Planning Board to coordinate activities.

Pete Norville was named chairman of the new board and members are Percy Stancil, Mrs. David Morrill, and Dick Peaden.

President Of Honor Society

CHAPEL HILL — Roger Douglas Billica of Greenville has been named president of Phi Eta Sigma, national scholastic honorary society, at the University of North Carolina.

A total of 111 University of North Carolina freshmen have been initiated.

The society, established in 1923 and represented by chapters on major college and university campuses, is open to any male student with a B plus in the first semester or both semesters of the freshman year.

Radio Nostalgia Is Catching On

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you hear "The Lone Ranger" on radio these days, don't be alarmed. It's still 1973.

What is happening is an aural time warp caused by Charles Michelson, a New York broadcasting veteran who for eight years has been promoting a gradual mini-boom in radio nostalgia.

He owns the rights to rebroadcast a dozen half-hour radio series that were the real biggies of the 1940s, series like "The Green Hornet," "The Shadow," "Gangbusters" and "Sherlock Holmes."

He began leasing them to stations in 1965 and says the shows now can be heard on more than 400 stations in major, medium and minor markets across the U.S.

Michelson got in the broadcasting business in 1938 as a distributor of the shows that now are his golden oldies. His market went flat in the 1950s with the arrival of television.

He went into television as a buyer of U.S. programs for overseas TV stations. But he kept the 16-inch shellac records on which the words and deeds of Lamont Cranston, Kato and others were preserved.

"We decided around Christmastime in 1964 to throw out these old records," said Michelson, 63. "But just before we did it, I got a little sentimental — it must have been the holiday season — and I said, 'let's see if maybe we can do something with them'."

Whereupon he wrote to friends he'd known for years at 25 key radio stations in the U.S. He proposed a revival of radio's golden days. Twelve said they were interested and he was in business.

But first there was a period of negotiations with the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists. The talks involved fees that would have to be paid the artists on the original radio shows.

"We didn't even have a list of the original actors, anymore," he laughed. "We finally had a committee of actors from the old days come in and listen to the shows and identify the voices."

The necessary fee arrangements were made and he went to work.

Oddly enough, the greatest fans at the start were college students running campus radio stations.

"They looked on this as camp material, you might say," observed Michelson, who says the radio nostalgia market now falls roughly into three categories.

One is the youth market, teen-agers for whom "The Lone Ranger" is something new and exciting. The second is the memory lane market, people who grew up listening to radio. The third is the freeway market, motorists who'd rather hear "Fibber McGee and Molly" than music or news during the rush hour.

Warning On Easter Pets

It's possible for children to pick up Salmonellosis, a disease which causes severe diarrhea, abdominal cramps, and possible death in infants and young children, from Easter pets like baby ducks, chicks, and rabbits.

Every year following the Easter season, there is a decided increase of Salmonella diarrhea in children that can be traced to Easter pets, according to W.M. Pate, chief of the Environmental Health division of the Pitt County Health Department. This applies to pets bought from pet and department stores, as well as to free pets used by promotional purposes by certin businesses.

Pate recommends that, if a pet is obtained as an Easter present, it be kept outdoors and not handled by small children. Parents should see that all children wash their hands with soap and water immediately after handling pets, both at the Easter season and all during the year, he says.

Haise To Leave AstronautCorps

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Spaceman Fred W. Haise Jr., a member of the crew of Apollo 13, is leaving the astronaut corps to become an executive in the space shuttle program.

Haise, 39, has been appointed assistant to the manager of the space shuttle orbiter program office at the Johnson Space Center here.

An astronaut since April 1966, Haise made only one space flight — the moon mission of Apollo 13 which was forced to return to earth without landing on the moon after an oxygen tank explosion.

Cunningham Leads Cougar To 102-91 Victory Over Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Billy Cunningham led the Cougars' scoring attack as Carolina tied the American Basketball Association Eastern Division playoff series at 2-2 with a 102-91 victory over Kentucky.

Action in the best-of-seven series moves back to the Cougars' home court at Greensboro for the fifth game Friday night.

Cunningham, who scored 32 points, was backed Wednesday night by Mack Calvin with 23 points and Steve Jones with 14.

Carolina Coach Larry Brown said the win "really felt good.

"We did what we had to do as well as we've accomplished any task all year," he said. "This was a big one. It was a gut ball game."

Dan Issel poured in 31 points for the Colonels, and Wendell Ladner added 23, but no other Kentucky player scored more than nine.

"I thought we should have had the lead the way the game was played early," Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney said, "but we just didn't hit the shots."

Carolina moved out to a 31-21 first quarter lead. The Colonels trimmed it to 53-50 at the half, but the Cougars pulled away to 78-70 by the end o the third quarter.

Early in the final period, as the Colonels suffered a rash of missed shots and turnovers, Cougar Ed Manning dumped in seven unmatched points to put Carolina ahead 89-72, and the Cougars never looked back.

Kentucky's Mike Gale, who caught an elbow in the eye during the first minute of play, required three stitches to close a cut in his left brow, but he said he'd be ready to play Friday.

So did Cunningham, who pulled a back muscle in a second-quarter fall but continued to play.

In Friday's contest, Coach Mullaney said, the Colonels "are going to try to do the same things we always do, and that includes getting the ball, shooting and scoring."

The series returns to Louisville Saturday for the sixth game, and if a seventh is needed it will be played Tuesday either at Greensboro or Charlotte.

Rampants Rush Past Wilson And Kinston In Final Meet Of Year

Rose High School's track team rolled to another victory yesterday, sweeping a tri-meet held at the East Carolina track.

The Rampants put together 93½ points to take the victory. Wilson finished second with 61½, while Kinston was a distant third with 12.

Al Hunter again paced the Rampants, winning three events, and running a leg on the winning 880-yard relay team. He won the discus, the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Calvin moore provided the Rampants with two other wins, taking both the long and triple jumps.

Chinese Show Basketball Skill

PARIS (AP) — The People's Republic of China, with a 6-foot-10, 250-pound center and a couple of deadeye guards, showed France why Chairman Mao likes basketball.

A mainland China team beat the Frenchmen 89-86 Wednesday night in the first game of a long European tour.

"They said they wanted to learn from us," said the French coach, Joe Jaunay. "I think we have something to learn from them."

Before the game, Lu Ting, the Chinese team manager who suggested that Chairman Mao was a basketball fan, described his players as "fast, supple and precise."

He wasn't too far off.

Hsu Cheng Wen, the 6-foot-3 team captain, hit eight of 12 one-handers in the first half to keep his team in the game while it was getting untracked. His shot was a casual over-the-shoulder thrust vaguely reminiscent of Dick Barnett.

The French led 40-37 at the half but soon were panting and missing shots and accepting aid from their opponents when they hit the floor.

The Chinese even apologized at times for fouling.

"That's some piece of flesh," one of the Coubertin Hall crowd of 4,000 said of Chao Liang Tsai, the center. Chao is broad-shouldered and thick-legged, doesn't jump much and shoots awkwardly.

But he's good at getting in the way.

Bucs Are Rained Out

BOONE — For the second straight time, a doubleheader between East Carolina and Appalachian State University was rained out yesterday.

The games were rescheduled for May 5 in Boone. East Carolina was forced to cancel a game with UNC-Wilmington on May 5, and another date with Pembroke on the 5th to set up the meeting, which could mean the conference champion ship.

Southern Track Scheduled Here

The 1973 Southern Conference track championships will be held at East Carolina University, it was learned late yesterday.

The meet was originally scheduled to be held in Williamsburg, Virginia, at William & Mary. But yesterday, officials at the Virginia school informed East Carolina that they would be unable to complete their track's refinishing to an all-weather one in time for the meet to be run on Friday and Saturday, April 27-28.

There had been some question when the meet was originally scheduled for Williamsburg whether the track would be ready and East Carolina was approved at that time as an alternate site.

"We still have to clear it with the (Southern Conference) Commissioner," East Carolina Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich said, "But we expect that to be more or less automatic."

The meet will begin on Friday and wind up Saturday afternoon giving the Pirates a full-sports weekend for fans of the area. Besides the track championships, the Pirates will also be hosting VMI in a lacrosse match and The Citadel in a baseball game on Saturday.

Renko Assures Himself Of No Worse Than Last Year In Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I always start a season hoping to do better than the last"—Steve Renko, pitcher, Montreal Expos.

Renko may not better his 1972 record, although it would be hard to do any worse, but he's assured himself of doing at least as well.

The tall right-hander, who won his 1972 debut and then suffered through a horrible 1-10 summer, hurled a four-hitter in his first 1973 appearance Wednesday and outdueled Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton in pitching the Expos to a 2-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

It came one year to the day after his lone 1972 success, in which he beat the New York Mets, and was his first complete game since Sept. 16, 1971.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Mets 1-0 for the second day in a row, San Francisco edged Atlanta 4-3 on Bobby Bonds' 11th-inning homer, Pittsburgh trimmed St. Louis 8-2, San Diego defeated Cincinnati 4-2 and Houston beat Los Angeles 7-2.

American League scores: New York Yankees over Baltimore 7-4, Detroit over Boston 7-1, Oakland over Kansas City 7-6, California over Minnesota 3-2, Chicago White Sox over Texas 6-5 and Milwaukee over Cleveland 4-0.

Renko held the Phillies hitless until the sixth, when they touched him for two hits. The other two hits and their only run came in the ninth. Meanwhile, the Expos scored both their runs off 27-game winner Carlton in the first inning on RBI singles by Hal Breeden and Jorge Roque.

The Cubs pushed across a first-inning run against New York's Jon Matlack on Cleo James' single, a stolen base, Glenn Beckert's sacrifice and a wild pitch and made it stand up behind the six-hit pitching of rookie Ray Burris, Larry Gura and Jack Aker.

Bonds' 11th-inning homer off Atlanta's Tom House stretched the Braves' losing streak to six games and capped a thoroughly forgettable inning for the relief pitcher.

In the top of the 11th, with Sonny Jackson on second base, Johnny Oates on first and none out, House bunted into a rare unassisted double play by catcher Dave Rader. House bunted a short pop in front of the plate and Rader caught the ball for the first out and continued running to second base, tagging the bag for the unique double play. Jackson was near third and couldn't return in time.

Willie Stargell drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and Milt May added three RBI's as Pittsburgh blasted St. Louis. Stargell's homer highlighted a four-run first inning against Rick Wise, who owns the Cardinals' only triumph in 10 games.

Fred Kendall doubled to set up San Diego's first run, doubled home the second, scored the third on a single by winning pitcher Steve Arlin and squeezed home the fourth.

McAdoo Named Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob McAdoo of the Buffalo Braves was named today as the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year for the 1972-3 season by a landslide vote.

The 6-foot-10 McAdoo, who played college ball for the University of North Carolina, got off to a slow start with Buffalo, but after adjusting to the pro game, blossomed out as a top scorer in the second half of the season.

He scored 39, 39 and 45 points in his last three games of the season, finishing with an 18-point per game average and 9.2 rebounds per game in addition to blocking 216 shots. During his last 51 games, he shot 48 per cent from the floor and averaged 22.8 points per game and 10.8 rebounds.

In the voting by sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 NBA cities, McAdoo received 12.840 of a possible 17 votes. Lloyd Neal of Portland was second with 3.726. Then came Chris Ford of Detroit with 0.167, Jim Price of Los Angeles with 0.143 and Bud Stallworth of Seattle with 0.125.

"I had my troubles adjusting," said McAdoo. "I had never guarded small, quick forwards like John Havlicek, Bill Bradley and Lou Hudson. I was confident I could be an NBA center, but had to get used to being a 6-10 forward."

Attendance at Yonkers Raceway for harness races was off 18 per cent in 1972 from 1971.

Chargers 2nd In Track Meet

DUDLEY — Southern Wayne rolled to an easy victory in a dual meet with Ayden-Grifton High School yesterday.

The Saints finished the meet with 88 points, while Ayden-Grifton put together 28. Conley High School, scheduled for the meet, did not participate.

Southern Wayne won every event but two, the long jump and the high jump. Jesse Brown of Ayden-Grifton won the high jump, going 6-2, while Wilbur Chapman took the long jump with a leap of 20 feet, 3 inches.

The Chargers' next outing will be next Thursday in the Eastern Carolina Conference track meet.

Buzzy Braman, an outstanding basketball player from Springbrook, Md., has been awarded a grant-in-aid to play at East Carolina University. It was announced by Tom Quinn, head basketball coach at ECU.

Braman, a two year starter at guard for Springbrook High School, averaged 21.6 points per game and six assists during the 1973 season in leading Springbrook to a 20-2 season finish.

Braman was named first team All-Metropolitan, first team All-Maryland State, and the Best Player in Montogomery County, Md.

"Braman is the best player I have ever coached," said John Barrett, coach at Springbrook High School. "He is an excellent jump shooter, an excellent passer and a good floor leader. He is just an outstanding basketball player."

As a junior Braman was second team All-Met and second team All-State as he led Springbrook to the State Championship. In the State Tournament, Braman was named the Most Valuable Player.

"Braman possesses an uncanny knack for scoring in all types of situations," said Quinn in making the announcement. "He always seems to be able to hit the open man when he is double-teamed. He has the ability to play the wing or the point in our offense and is mature enough to see action on the varsity as a freshman."

Barman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Braman of Springbrook.

Bucs Announce Co-Captains

Carl Summerell and Mike Myrick, both seniors, were elected recently as the 1973 East Carolina University football co-captains by their teammates.

Summerell, a starter at quarterback for the past two seasons, led the Pirates in total offense averaging 154.5 yards per game in 1972. The Virginia Beach, Va. native also threw for 1275 yards and 12 touchdowns in leading the Pirates to a 9-2 record and the Southern Conference Championship.

Myrick, a native of Goldsboro, was a starter at safety in the "Wild Dog" defense until he injured an ankle in the sixth game of the season. He missed the reset of the year. In addition, Myrick returned punts for the Pirates and intercepted three pases before his injury sidelined him.

"I don't think our players could have chosen two finer men as their co-captains," said Sonny Randle, the Pirate head coach. "Both Summerell and Myrick have excellent leadership qualities both on and off the field."

Summerell will again start at quarterback for the Pirates in 1973 while Myrick has been moved to defensive halfback.

The Pirates open their 1973 football season September 8 in Raleigh against North Carolina State.

Conley Bows To East Wayne

NEW HOPE — Eastern Wayne High School knocked D.H. Conley off the top in the Eastern Carolina Conference yesterday with a 6-5 victory.

Conley had rallied from a 5-1 deficit to tie it up, but the Warriors pushed over a run in the bottom of the seventh to win it, handing the Vikings their third loss of the season, and their second in a row.

Conley opened the scoring in the third inning with a run. Clennell Streeter singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Willie Streeter walked, and Randy Adams reached on an error, loading them up. Clevie Averette grounded out, but Clennell Streeter scored on the play for a 1-0 lead.

Eastern came right back in their half of the inning to score four runs and take the lead. Keith Rhodes reached on an error, as did Alfred Rowe. Robbie Price singled, scoring Rhodes with the tieing run. Kem Kough singled and Tommy Long walked forcing in Rowe with the go-ahead run. Eddie Gurley also walked, scoring Price and William Stallings hit a sacrifice fly to bring Kough over.

In the fourth, Eastern added its fifth run. Price singled and stole second. He took third on an out and scored on Long's single.

Conley rallied in the sixth for four to tie it at 5-5. Keith Gould and Vic Corey both walked and Ricky Phillips singled in Gould. Clennell Streeter doubled to score Corey, and Willie Streeter singled in both Phillips and Clennell Streeter.

But Eastern came back with the winning run in the seventh. Roger Sutton reached on an error and Jackson singled. Ron Chadwick then got a hit, scoring Sutton to end the game.

Conley pays host to C.B. Aycock, the new league leader, in a key game on Wednesday.

Ayden-Grifton Nips North Pitt

BETHEL — Ayden-Grifton High School rallied to take a 3-2 victory over North Pitt's Panthers yesterday in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

The Chargers had twice fallen behind in the game, 1-0, then 2-1, before taking the lead for good.

North Pitt struck first, scoring a run in the third inning. Ben Johnson walked and stole second. Steve Fuchs also walked and Rick Harrell reached on a single, and when the ball was errored also, Johnson came home to give the Panthers a 1-0 edge.

Ayden-Grifton erased that with a run in the fifth. Paul Ricciarelli walked and stole second. Don Phillips then doubled to drive him in with the tieing run.

But North Pitt went right back ahead with one in the bottom of the fifth to make it 2-1. Johnson reached on an error and moved up on an infield out. Linwood Brown walked and Fuchs reached on an error that allowed Johnson to score.

The Chargers came back with two in the sixth to push ahead, this time for good. Tom Craft singled and Tony Koonce walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch, and a double by Ricciarelli brought both of them home.

Phillips and Ricciarelli both picked up two hits for Ayden-Grifton, while Harrell and a pair for North Pitt.

The Panthers host Greene Central on Wednesday, while North Lenoir is at Ayden Grifton.

Aycock Slips By Jaguar Nine

FARMVILLE — Charles B. Aycock High School came up with three runs in the top of the seventh inning yesterday to hand Farmville Central a 4-1 Eastern Carolina Conference defeat.

Aycock scored first, but Farmville Central came back to tie it up, but could never take the lead in the game.

The first run came over in the fifth inning. Durwin Hawley was hit by a pitch and moved on to second when a pickoff attempt at first was thrown away. David Pittman then singled to bring him in and give the Falcons a 1-0 lead.

In the sixth, the Jaguars broke the scoring ice and tied it up. Tony Oakley walked and Bobby Daniels singled, and both advanced on an error on the play. Ed Wells grounded out, but it brought in Oakley.

Aycock rallied for three in the seventh to win it. Parker Davis led off with a triple and came home on Billy Goff's single. Joe Edgerton singled and both moved up on an out. Pittman hit into a fielder's choice, scoring Goff. Richard Lancaster then singled to score Edgerton with the final run.

Phil Lewis went two-for-four for the Jaguars, and was the only hitter on either team with more than one.

Farmville Central travels to Southern Nash on Wednesday.

Boston Celtics Given Some Of Their Own Medicine By New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knicks gave the Boston Celtics some of their own medicine. In fact, it was an overdose, but not fatal.

"We were so out of it, it was pathetic," said Coach Tom Heinsohn after his lethargic Celtics were lashed 129-96 by the Knicks Wednesday night.

The worst defeat in Boston's playoff history—the 33-point margin exceeding by nine their two previous record losses—came just three days after the Celts whipped the New Yorkers 134-108 in the opener of the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference final.

"We played a super game last time," said Heinsohn, the NBA Coach of the Year. "They played a super game this time and we didn't play any kind of game at all."

So overwhelming was the defeat, behind the 24 points of Walt Frazier, that the Knicks cleared their bench midway through the final quarter.

Knicks Coach Red Holzman, when asked if he thought the trend was changing from squeakers to run-aways, he replied:

"God, I hope not. I can't stand this. To have what happened in Boston Sunday night and here tonight, you realize you really do play one game at a time."

Carolina Coach Larry Brown and Utah Coach LaDell Andersen could have used a little of the Knicks cushion in their American Basketball playoffs. The Cougars sneaked past the Kentucky Colonels 102-91 in the East but the Stars barely nipped the Indiana Pacers 104-103 in the West to even both best-of-seven division finals at 2-2.

Jimmy Jones pumped in 34 points and Willie Wise hit a key basket with 58 seconds left for the Utah triumph while Billy Cunningham tallied 32 for Carolina.

"These have been a great, hard-fought four games and now we are starting all over again," said Andersen. "We just won one on their floor and they are going to come out and try to do the same thing to us."

In the NBA West, Golden State says it has a remedy for the Los Angeles Lakers' Jim McMillian tonight.

"We've made adjustments," Warriors' Coach Bill Attles said of possible potions for McMillian, who poured in 37 points for the defending champion Lakers in their 101-99 triumph over the Warriors in Tuesday night's first game.

Oakland Uses Tenace Homer To Take Victory From Kansas City

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

For today, baseball fans, a few introductions.

Over here, wearing the mustaches and funny colored uniforms, are the Oakland A's. Call them World Champions. No, no, forget the American League standings and the 3-6 record. They are the World Champions.

Over there, wearing the smiles and confident looks, are the Kansas City Royals, sitting atop the AL West. They are smiling because of an 8-3 record.

Kansas City in first place and Oakland in fifth. Charley Finley, owner of the A's, could be excused for wondering just what's going on here. This could develop into an identification crisis.

Just to make sure their identities don't get too confused, Finley's mustached men turned the tables on the Royals Wednesday using a familiar weapon—a Gene Tenace home run—to take a 7-6 victory from Kansas City.

Elsewhere in the American League Wednesday, the New York Yankees rallied for a 7-4 victory over Baltimore, California edged Minnesota 3-2, Chicago edged Texas 6-5, Detroit defeated Boston 7-1 and Milwaukee shut out Cleveland 4-0.

In the National League, Chicago blanked the New York Mets 1-0, Montreal edged Philadelphia 2-1, San Francisco topped Atlanta 4-3 in 11 innings, Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 8-2, San Diego beat Cincinnati 4-2 and Houston whipped Los Angeles 7-2.

The Royals gave the snazzily-dressed A's a scare. Kansas City wiped out an early 4-0 lead on a three-run homer by Ed Kirkpatrick and a solo shot by Cookie Rojas.

Then an error by Oakland catcher Ray Fosse allowed two unearned runs to score and the World Champions were trailing. Fosse's single made it 6-5 in the seventh and then Tenace, last year's World Series hero, straightened out the identity crisis with his ninth inning homer following a leadoff single by Reggie Jackson.

The Yankees delivered some ninth inning thunder of their own with a pair of two-run homers by Thurman Munson and Felipe Alou carrying them to their victory over Baltimore.

Detroit unloaded on Fenway Park's close-in left field fence with Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Ed Brinkman all smacking home runs and Jim Perry coasting on the long-ball offense with a five-hitter to defeat Boston.

Minnesota's Bert Blyleven must have figured he had Frank Robinson's number. He struck out California's designated hitter the first three times he faced him in the Twins' game against the Angels. On his fourth trip to the plate, Robinson got even with a 410-foot home run that gave Nolan Ryan his third straight victory.

Dick Allen stroked a home run, double and triple, driving in four runs as Chicago defeated Texas. That gave the White Sox' slugger 12 hits, eight of them for extra bases, in 32 at bats this season.

Toumey Opening Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament opened today with three games on neutral sites and Clemson, the regular-season leader, receiving an opening bye.

North Carolina played Wake Forest at Raleigh; North Carolina Slate and Duke met at Chapel Hill, and Virginia and Maryland played at Durham. The losers will be eliminated.

Then all other games will be played Friday through Sunday at Chapel Hill, on a double-elimination basis.

The winner will go on to the NCAA District 3 tournament late next month at Starkville, Miss.

Previously, the league determined its champion in regular-season competition.

This year, the regular season, in which each team played 12 games, determined the pairings just as in basketball.

Clemson won two games from Duke Tuesday to clinch first place with a 10-2 record.

N.C. State finished second on a 9-3 league record and defending champion Virginia was third at 7-5. North Carolina and Wake Forest shared fourth at 5-7, followed by Maryland, 4-8, and Duke 2-10.

Clemson, which played seven road games in five days through Tuesday, welcomed the first round bye. Coach Bill Wilhelm's Tigers make their first tournament start at 2 p.m. Friday at Chapel Hill against Thursday's North Carolina-Wake Forest winner.

The two other Thursday winners meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Distribute Med School 'Facts'

The Greenville Jaycees, in furthering their support of the East Carolina University medical school, are attempting to "make the facts available throughout the state and let them speak for themselves," according to a project spokesman.

Charles Marston of the local chapter said that a project committee here has prepared a brochure and fact sheet summarizing data compiled from a variety of sources, including Board of Governor reports.

He pointed out that the chapter is sending the information to each Jaycee organization in the state and urging fellow Jaycees to make the facts available to their respective legislators.

"We are not trying to tell the legislators to vote for the medical school but we are merely providing them with the summarized sheets," Marston explained. He noted that the Supplemental Approproation Request made by the Board of Governors as well as American Association of Medical Colleges cost estimates are revealed by the Board in their report.

Pointing out that the medical school at ECU has been endorsed by the Jaycees on a statewide basis, Marston said that the local chapter hopes to have the cooperation of other Jaycee organizations in making the information available.

The brochure, stating that "expansion of existing medical schools has been suggested as an alternative to the establishment of a new medical school," points out that expansion of the University of North Carolina medical school, including new faculty office and laboratory facilities, and renovation of present facilities, expansion and renovation of North Carolina Memorial Hospital, and increased state support for state residents at Duke and Bowman Gray, according to costs proposed in the budget and the requests by the board, would be an estimated $26,810,000. The net gain in students by 1980 would be 37.

The American Association of Medical Colleges estimate, the brochure cites, would be $17-19 million for a new medical school, including site preparation, a basic scinece facility, and renovation of community hospitals. By 1980, it is estimated that 70 students would be entering the new medical school.

The fact sheet prepared by the Jaycees notes that the average doctor-population ratio in the state is one doctor for every 970 people. In the West, the figure is one for every 961; in the Central Piedmont, one for every 427; in the North Piedmont, one for 975; and in the South Piedmont, the ratio is one for every 1,134 residents. In the Northeast, according to the fact sheet figures, the ratio is one doctor for every 1,567 and in the Southeast region of the state, one for every 1,759.

"North Carolina ranks 44th in the nation in the ratio of practicing physicians to population," the data reads. "Yet, last year over 50 percent of North Carolina students applying to medical schools in the state were turned away."

Eastern counties, representing some 25 per cent of the state's population, it was noted, have only 16 per cent of the state's active practicing physicians.

Jack Cox is serving as external vice president for the Jaycees here. The project, which comes under the chapter's external activities, is chaired by Rod Tripp and Dick Kiernan is project director.

Bicycle Inspection And Riding Tests Saturday

The Evening Optimist Club of Greenville has been conducting its annual Bike Safety Week which began Monday.

The week's activities will be concluded Saturday morning. The week is designed to teach cyclists and motorists the rules of the traffic safety code.

George Russ, Optimist Club chairman for the project, announced today that a bike inspections and bike riding skills tests will be held Saturday from 9:30 a.m. until 12 noon. The locations this year are Third Street and Eastern Elementary Schools.

The purpose of the week is to promote awareness of safe bike operation by bike rides, alertness and awareness of drivers for bike riders and to promote safety on bikes.

The Optimist Club, in addition, is emphasizing bike safety through contact in the public schools and to the general public with posters and bumper stickers.

Optimists C. P. Shaw will head the Saturday inspection and tests at Third Street School while Jack Thornton will be at Eastern School. They will be aided by other club members in addition to a member of the Greenville Police Department at each school

The childrens' bicycles will be checked for defects and Optimists will encourage that necessary repairs be made. In addition, the child's ability to handle a bicycle will be tested.

The policemen will be on hand to register bikes not previously registered and the charge of registration is 50 cents.

A membership card in the Optimist Bicycle Safety Club, inspection sticker and safety creed will be presented to all children who pass the skills test and if their bicycle passes inspection.

The bike inspection and skills tests will be open to all Greenville children of all ages, who own bicycles.

A celebration of worship and Holy Communion will begin at 11 a.m. Easter.

The public is invited to attend the Lenten-Easter worship services.

Pure Air Still In Four Places

LONDON (AP) — Fifteen thousand school children aided in the drawing of a map which shows there are only four parts of Britain where it is still possible to breathe pure air.

The evidence shows the pollution-free areas are Hadrian's Wall, which the Romans built to keep the Scots in their place; the Lake District of northwest England; Exmoor in the southwest, and parts of Norfolk on the east coast.

The children based their findings on lichens which grow on concrete, stone and tree barks. The plants are sensitive to sulfur dioxide and the children mapped where they were growing and on what.

The survey was organized by the Advisory Center for Education in conjunction with The Sunday Times newspaper.

Halfway To 'Repealing' Theory Of Evolution

Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee, the state of the Scopes 1925 monkey law trial, is halfway toward having a new law that will ban the teaching of the theory of evolution of man as fact and require equal emphasis be placed on other theories including religious versions.

Nearly 50 years after the trial of John T. Scopes, a biology teacher in Dayton, Tenn., on a charge of violating the ban, and six years after the repeal of the old law, the State Senate voted 28-1 without debate to set up the new restrictions.

The bill is under consideration by the House.

The bill was introduced last week by Sen. Milton Hamilton of Union City in Northwest Tennessee and by Rep. Tommy Burnett, a Church of Christ preacher and lawyer, from Jamestown on the Cumberland Plateau.

Hamilton predicted there would be little opposition and there was. Only Sen. James White of Memphis voted against the measure.

"We engaged in debate over the origin of man when we should be addressing ourselves to the future of man and grappling with the problems with which he is beset here-and-now," said White. "We should be addressing efforts toward the problems of disease, affliction, illiteracy, crime, drug abuse, unemployment, overpopulation, corruption in government and the ultimate blasphemy—the constant warring of the nations of man."

Hamilton said he tried to avoid debate on the bill because "the national news media came down here to make us look like a bunch of barefoot Tennesseans. I think they wanted something like another Scopes trial."

Hamilton said the schools teaching the theory of evolution have been teaching it as fact since the repeal of the law in 1967.

The bill originally required equal space be given in textbooks to all theories of the origin of mankind. This was amended to provide equal emphasis on each theory.

"I had no idea this would receive national attention," said Burnett. "I don't see this as the type of legislation the liberal press wants to cover."

"The bill merely requires that all theories of evolution be taught. I see no reason for it to open old wounds," Burnett added, "except, of course, Tennessee already has the scar of the Scopes trial."

The trial took place during a hot, dusty July week in Dayton and brought to the small town in Southeast Tennessee Clarence Darrow to defend Scopes and William Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state and a three-time losing presidential candidate, as the special prosecutor.

Scopes was convicted and fined $100, left Tennessee and became a geologist for an oil company in Louisiana. The fine was never paid because the State Supreme Court reversed the conviction on a technicality.

Doctor Claims 'Vindication'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"I think I've been vindicated," asserts Brooklyn, N. Y., physician Howard B. Levy on winning a civil court reversal of his 1967 Army conviction for refusing to train combat medics headed for Vietnam.

"Very few people agreed with my position at the time," the 36-year-old dermatologist said Wednesday in New York City on hearing of the U.S. Court of Appeals reversal of a District Court finding.

"But it's become clear," he said, "that the United States was using medicine for political purposes in South Vietnam, and that was immoral."

Levy, a captain on the post medical staff at the time, was one of the first military protesters against U.S. involvement in the Vietnam conflict.

His conviction at Ft. Jackson in Columbia, S.C., and his sentence of three years, drew widespread attention.

With the Army refusing bail, Levy served 19 months in military prisons, then seven months in a U.S. penitentiary before being freed on $,000 bail granted by a civil court during his appeal.

He now practices at Lincoln Hospital at the Manhatten Detention Center.

The appeals court gave military authorities 90 days to grant Levy a new trial of the case in which the sentence included dismissal from the Army and forfeiture of all pay.

He was charged with refusing to obey a lawful order, conduct unbecoming an offner and a gentleman, and conduct bringing discredit to the armed forces.

In throwing out the conviction, the court upheld the constitutionality of the military article defining a lawful order, but said Levy's conviction under it may have been prejudiced by evidence admitted on the other two charges.

Those charges were tossed out as being so vague as to be unconstitutional. The court observed:

"In a society witnessing rapidly changing manners and mores, against what existing standard is gentlemanly conduct measured?"

"Discredit upon the armed forces," the court said, is so "open-ended and all-encompassing" a charge that it "runs counter to the basic philosophy of criminal codes of all modern nations."

Predicts Good Year For Tobacco Sales

RALEIGH (AP)—Flue-cured tobacco growers were told Wednesday that world-wide market conditions indicated 1973 would be a good year for flue-cured sales.

"Because of a world-wide short supply in flue-cured leaf, there will be an increased demand for U.S.-grown flue-cured and that should bring good prices this year," said Stuart G. Christian Jr., chairman of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association.

Christian and E.J. O'Brien III, president of the Tobacco Association of the United States, issued their statements from their organizations' Raleigh headquarters.

The two organizations represent a majority of the buying power on the U.S. flue-cured auction markets.

"The 1973 season offers a wonderful opportunity for U.S. tobacco growers," Christian said, "not only to take advantage of the decreased production in other parts of the world, but also of a favorable monetary devaluation."

O'Brien predicted 1973 "would be another strong market for U.S. flue-cured leaf" despite the season's late start due to heavy rains.

He said tobacco growers "should produce as much tobacco as possible under the present quota system to meet the 1973 demands of foreign and domestic buyers."

Man Charged In Murder On Bus

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A 35-year-old former mental patient stabbed and killed a 71-year-old tourist Wednesday on a bus traveling through eastern North Carolina after telling him, "I know you. You are the devil," Raleigh police said.

The dead man was identified as Clarence Cornelius Niccum of Nyssa, Ore. Raleigh Det. Capt. J.V. Haley said Niccum was dead when the Greyhound bus arrived at the Raleigh terminal Wednesday morning.

Billy Fisher, a 35-year-old Cumberland County man, was arrested and later charged with murder, Haley said, adding that a doctor on the bus was prevented from ministering to the dying man.

After Niccum was stabbed, Haley said, Fisher walked to the front of the bus with the knife in his hand and told the bus driver to "keep driving."

Niccum was on an extended bus tour and the bus was enroute from New York to Florida.

Police said their investigation indicated that about 8:30 a.m., Fisher walked up to Niccum's seat and said, "I know you. You are the devil. My Lord, Jesus Christ, told me to kill you."

After making the statement, Fisher reportedly pulled a pocket knife and began stabbing Niccum, keeping other passengers away.

Dr. Anant Mauskar said Fisher prevented him from administering to the victim.

Mauskar said that a few minutes after being stabbed, Niccum began gasping and apparently died shortly afterwards. "There was nothing I could do in that situation," he said.

Fisher had been a patient at Dorothea Dix mental hospital in Raleigh on two occasions, according to a spokesman for the N.C. Department of Mental Health.

Haley said it was determined that the stabbing occurred in Franklin County, and Fisher is being held by Franklin County authorites.

The first mayor of Atlanta was paid $200 per year and each member of the City Council got $20 per year.

Student Aid Bill Waiting

WASHINGTON (AP) — College students would be eligible for $872 million in federal aid to help them attend school if an emergency money bill gets presidential approval.

The bill, passed by Congress Wednesday, would direct President Nixon to continue the existing student aid programs instead of putting most of the money into a new one, as he had requested.

The $872 million for student aid is the same amount Nixon requested, but the bill provides only $122 million for the new basic grant program instead of the $622 million asked.

The Senate originally voted to raise the money for the new program to $385 million, but in conference with the House the higher figure was dropped in favor of the House version.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who originally proposed the new program, objected strongly to the conference agreement but accepted it because of what he said was the urgent need of the colleges to know what financial aid will be available for students now applying for the fall term.

Pell said the allocation of funds in the bill would "destroy much of the effectiveness of the new program" for this year. He voiced hope Congress would greatly increase the funds for it in the fiscal 1974 budget, in which Nixon requested $959 million.

Offer Series Of Tennis Lessons

GRIFTON—The Grifton Recreation Commission will sponsor beginning tennis lessons each Wednesday and Saturday and running through May 12.

The lessons will be held at the Grifton town park and no charge will be made. Participants should bring their racket and balls, however.

Lessons for children will be from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

Adult lessons will be from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays and from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays.

Sunrise Service Planned Sunday

GRIFTON—A Community Easter Sunrise Service will be held in Grifton at 6 a.m. Sunday at the Grifton school athletic field.

In case of rain the service will be held under the canopy at the front of the school.

First, Please The Customer

Larry's criticism should challenge all coeds who wish to gain a wedding ring. For girls should focus on the "Customer" and find what he prefers! Mascara and eye shadow symbolize sex playmates but not the girls who get wedding rings!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE W-582: Larry Z., aged 20, is a university senior.

"Dr. Crane," he began "why do coeds act like silly sheep and try to ape all the freakish fads in the realm of cosmetics?

"For example, I have noticed that it is usually the girls from the small towns who are more likely to go to excess in their use of eye shadow, mascara, false eyelashes and excessive lipstick.

"And they also stampede to smoke cigarettes, as well as take alcoholic drinks instead of a cola beverage.

"Most men look on mascara as the evidence of a girl who wants to make people think she is a potential Hollywood starlet.

"Yet the men I know are turned off by the sickly blue eye shadow and especially by false eyelashes and beady mascara that oozes on your shirt collar.

"If girls would spend more time learning how to carry on jolly conversation and if they'd apply your 'Compliment Club' strategy, they'd be much more popular with men."

Fearful Coeds

Girls from smaller towns are often afflicted with a social inferiortiy complex.

For they grossly overrate the knowledge of their city sisters.

It requires courage and self-confidence to resist the stampede tendency of sheep and, alas, most girls are 2-legged ewes.

So they try to flee into the anonymity of the crowd and meld with what they think are the social pace-setters.

The cigarette advertisers thus would depict a coed strolling in an apple orchard in Spring, with a gallant escort beside her.

When the boy would offer her a cigarette, she would take it and accept the flame he held to its far end.

Then she'd soon snort smoke out of both nostirls, thus looking like the old locomotive smokestack of the days when trains were stoked with soft coal.

Most girls in America really didn't enjoy smoking, but they wanted to mimic their sophisticated sisters, so they'd choke and splutter and get sick as they became initiated into this social habit.

The cigarette manufacturers first stampeded girls into the use of cigarettes while I was stationed at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts.

And we men of the town had difficulty finding a suitable restaurant thereafter, for the girls would try to smoke at the tables, holding the cigarette with one hand while trying to wave the smoke away with the other.

They'd also leave the tables strewn with ashes and even contaminate the sugar bowls likewise.

So we men had to dine in a downtown hotel to get away from such stampeding fillies.

Larry is quite right in saying men are rebuffed by many of the smeary fads in cosmetics.

"Then why are the girls so frantic in adopting them?" you may ask.

Well, girls dress primarily to mimic their female fashion pace-setters, and only secondarily consider their main targets, namely, M-E-N.

Of the 50,000 male applicants to our famous Scientific Marriage Foundation, only ONE ever asked us to introduce him to a girl who smoked or drank liquor!

But that fact doesn't register with girls, for if they see a cigarette ad depicting a coed sucking on a cigarette, they stampede after their coed pace setter, though alienating men.

Fat, elephantine girls with thighs as thick as tree trunks would also don the most abbreviated mini-skirts (as would the bowlegged and knock-kneed females) just because fashion leaders did so, though they appeared doubly ridiculouus to men!

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have the chance to obtain the information you need from higher-ups during the daytime. The evening finds you able to take advantage of another opportunity. You can afford to help a good friend who is in need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend social affairs where you can meet persons who can be helpful to you in the future. Now is the time to pursue a desire of long standing. Use extreme care in travel. Think logically.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Tap your subconscious for the answers you need to present problems, which are important. Your mate will go along with you in a new plan you have in mind. Take health treatments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Strive to gain more goodwill from associates today, which will be relatively easy. Improve your image in public and make life easier for yourself. Use good judgment in travel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can handle tasks easily if you go ahead and act cheerfully instead of deliberating so much. Seek the right clothing that makes you look more refined. Stay within your budget.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use astuteness in handling family affairs now and get good results. Clear up a condition that is not good at all. Don't act as though you know it all or you will receive illwill from friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use good judgment in handling problems with others and get the right results. Be more cheerful when conversing with friends, associates, relatives and business contacts. Be poised.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Engage in practical interests that mean much to you; consult experts. Make improvements to property that add to its beauty, comfort and value in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are highly magnetic now but take care you don't take unfair advantage of others and alienate them. Tone down some for best results. Gain the aid of those you meet socially.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Dealing in a conscientious fashion with others is the best way to get good results now. Keep any information given you in confidence. You can easily make a good impression on others.

CAPPICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A day to go out and make new contacts instead of staying in a limited groove. Meet higher-ups who can be helpful to you in your career. Put those talents you have to work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good friends mean much to you now so show them your appreciation and gain increased goodwill for the days ahead. A new friend you have can give you the information you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take steps to improve handling your duties. Attend to a credit matter so it won't bother you any longer. You can easily avoid a dangerous situation tonight. Be alert at all times.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who thinks straight and talks straight and has realistic ideas. Give as much academic education as you can afford. An urge to travel should be satisfied early in life so your progeny can easily settle down to whatever stable field is decided upon as a career endeavor.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♣

A brilliant false card by West led to the upset of South's four heart contract.

West opened the nine of clubs, the five was played from dummy and East put up the ace. He shifted to the ace and queen of spades and declarer was in with the king.

South proceeded to draw trump by first cashing the ace of hearts—on which West followed suit quite nonchalantly with the ten. He had been doing some thinking on his own, and he realized that, if declarer were left to his own resources, he would cash the top heart honors and then lead toward dummy's jack—thereby restricting West to one trick in the suit. Only drastic action on West's part could alter his opponent's course.

The fall of the ten of hearts gave South something to think about. Now that the defense had cashed their two aces, declarer's only concern was to hold his trump losses to one trick. Of course, if West's heart holding consisted of the queen-ten doubleton, South could score an overtrick by playing the king next to drop the queen.

If the ten of hearts was a singleton, however, the play of the king would surrender the contract for it would establish two heart tricks for East. South finally decided to take out insurance against East's holding all the missing trumps.

The dummy was entered with the ace of diamonds, and the jack of hearts was put thru. If East followed with a small heart, declarer intended to let the jack ride. If the finesse lost, South's contract was assured because the trumps must now divide three-two. If East covered the jack with the queen, declarer can play the ace and then the only trick he would lose in the suit would be the nine of hearts.

When East showed out on the second heart, it was revealed that declarer had been conned into making a losing play, for West could not be prevented now from winning two trump tricks.

Research Wins Him Federation's Award

Animal studies indicate that greater protection against tuberculosis may be provided by aerosol immunization into the respiratory tract than by standard injections, a University of Flordia medical student recently told scientists from around the nation.

This second year medical student is Craig Spencer, grandson of Mrs. Virginia J. Spencer of Greenville.

His address before the Southern Section of the American Federation for Clinical Research was judged in competition with the work of full-time faculty members and it won him a Student Research Award from the Federation. He was one of four students in the nation to receive such an award.

He said his findings are based on studies utilizing both the nasal spray technique and standard injections in administering Bacillus Calmette-Guerin, a commonly used tuberculin vaccine, to guinea pigs. The guinea pigs that received the BCG by nasal aerosol produced a greater amount of cell-mediated immunity (disease fighting response within cells), he said. Because the tuberculin bacillus invades through the respiratory tract, the aerosol immunization provides a more direct defense against the organism, he believes. He hopes further testing of aerosol immunization will lead to development of more effective TB vaccination.

Spencer's studies were supported in part by a training grant from the National Institute of Health. A Fort Lauderdale, Fla. native, he and his wife have an 11-month-old daughter.

Ayden-Grifton FFA Chapter Wins 2nd Place

The Ayden-Grifton High School Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was a second place district winner in the 19th annual North Carolina FFA land judging contest held at Franklin High School last weekend.

The annual competition is sponsored by the Carolina Power and Light Company and the North Carolina Bankers Association in cooperation with the FFA and various governmental agencies to help future farmers develop their skills in soil classification and management.

Members of the Ayden-Grifton team are Linwood Brooks, Chris Parisher, Michael Tyson, Jimmy Edwards, Grady Gaskins and Dan Cope. The group advisor is Paul A. Bradley.

Secretaries To Meet Tuesday

The April meeting of the newly-organized Greenville Legal Secretaries Association will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Restaurant.

The program will consist of a banquet and installation ceremony for the incoming officers. Anyone planning to attend the dinner is asked to make reservations by calling Mrs. Carolyn Mayo at 758-2151 or 758-4356 by Friday at noon.

Sorority Raised $1,066 For ACS

The colony of Gamma Sigma Sigma Service Sorority at East Carolina University raised $1066.29 for the Pitt County Cancer Crusade Saturday.

The money was collected in five hours by the girls at four Greenville intersections. Kathy Sampson was in charge of the project, working with Mrs. Mary Bruton, Special Events chairman of the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Egg Hunt Set Friday Morning At Three Sites

The Greenville Recreation Department is holding its annual Easter Egg Hunt this Friday morning April 20th at 9:30.

The Hunt will take place at three locations: Guy Smith Stadium, West Greenville Recreation Center and South Greenville Recreation Center. Individually wrapped candy eggs will be "hidded" at different areas at each location for each of the three age groups that will hunt together. These age groups are for children two through 5, 6 through 9, and 10 through 12 years old.

There will be enough eggs for everyone to find several. In addition, two special eggs will be hidden for each age group and a large filled Easter Basket will be awarded to the finders of these eggs.

School Site For Benefit Program

The festive program of gospel music slated for Saturday night, carried in a story in yesterday's paper, will be held at East End School in Robersonville, and not at the Holy Mission Church of God in Christ.

The program is for the benefit of the Holy Mission Church Building Fund. Tickets are available from Mrs. Eva Mae Lloyd, 1211 Myrtle Avenue, telephone 758-1654 in advance or at the door at performance time, 8:00 p.m.

'Singspiration' Sunday Night

WINTERVILLE—A singspiration will be held at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday night at 7:30.

The Gospel Chargers, Hines Cousins and the Messengers Quartet will be the featured singers.

Nixon Action Averted A Constitutional Showdown

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's insistence on broad authority for executive silence began at the Watergate's edge—but gave way to compromise amid a tide of congressional and political protest.

His decision to permit testimony by his aides in the Senate's Watergate investigation averts what could have been a constitutional showdown on the doctrine of executive privilege.

But that issue hasn't gone away. And there remain disputes over warmaking powers and presidential authority to undo programs enacted by Congress.

All three involve what the Constitution says and what it means.

As lawyer, candidate and President, Nixon has pronounced himself dedicated to a strict interpretation of the Constitution. He set that as his test for Supreme Court nominees.

The current controversies between Congress and the White House hinge on who does the interpreting. Presidential authority in the areas of executive privilege, undeclared war and the impoundment of appropriated funds involves powers that are implied, not spelled out, in the Constitution.

Before he became President, Nixon criticized the Supreme Court for decisions he said moved it into lawmaking areas that really belonged to Congress.

"... Under our Constitution, the true responsibility for writing the law is with Congress," he said on July 7, 1968. "The responsibility for executing the law is with the executive and the responsibility for interpreting the law resides in the Supreme Court. I believe in a strict interpretation of the Supreme Court's functions."

Nixon critics contend now that his actions are blurring those lines of constitutional authority.

Executive privilege is a doctrine—not a law—under which presidents have refused to permit congressional testimony by their aides.

Earlier in the Watergate controversy, Nixon expanded upon it to declare that past and present members of his staff would decline to appear before formal sessions of congressional committees. The administration said it could be invoked to cover any executive branch employe if the President decided silence was in order.

In yielding to permit appearances, but not necessarily answers to all questions, in the Watergate investigation, Nixon said he was making an exception, not dropping his rule.

Pressure and protests from leading figures in his own Republican party preceded the shift by a President who once had challenged the Senate to a Supreme Court test on the issue.

It could flare again another, lesser controversy, for the White House has cited executive privilege in refusing to give Congress records of government-financed travel during the 1972 presidential campaign.

The war powers controversy arose time and again during the Vietnam conflict, and it has been revived by new U.S. bombing in Cambodia and Laos.

Nixon critics contend he has no legal or constitutional authority for the bombing, and there is a move underway in the Senate to ban it unless Congress specifically approves.

The administration has claimed authority for Indochina actions in the President's constitutional role as commander in chief.

"The administration's constitutional authority to bomb Cambodia rests on the circumstance that we are coming out of a 10-year period of conflict," said Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson. "This is the windup."

That has been challenged in Congeen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., contended that any new action in Indochina is in effect a new war, requiring approval of Congress.

Legislation now pending, and opposed by the administration, would define and limit executive authority to use U.S. troops abroad in any future conflict.

In the third area of disputed prerogatives, the administration has been challenged in court for refusing to spend money on some programs despite laws creating and financing them.

Twice, in cases involving impounded highway aid funds and the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, federal judges have ruled that the administration acted illegally.

Either case could wind up in the Supreme Court. And legislation in the Senate would empower Congress to overrule the President whenever he seeks to impound appropriated funds. Nixon has withheld at least $8.7 billion voted by Congress.

ERA Turned Down By 2 More States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two more states — Florida and Ohio — this week rejected the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

A committee of the Ohio Senate on Wednesday turned down the proposed amendment by a 6-3 vote. The vote came three weeks after the Ohio House approved it by a 56-40 vote.

The proposed amendment could be brought back before the Ohio Senate's Financial Institutions, Insurance and Elections Committee during the current legislative session on a motion to reconsider by a committee member who voted against the ERA. But Chairman Stanley J. Aronoff said this was unlikely.

The Florida House of Representatives killed the amendment on a 64-54 vote on Tuesday.

The Ohio action brought to 16 the number of states in which the amendment has been either rejected or legislative action has been taken which would normally preclude further consideration this year.

Thirty states have approved the amendment since Congress passed it on March 22, 1972, but one of them, Nebraska, has attempted to rescind its approval, a move which is doubtful legally. The amendment needs ratification by a total of 38 states to take effect.

It reads: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."
