School Calendar For 1973-74 Term Sketched By Board

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
Members of the Pitt County Board of Education yesterday discussed the school calendar for the 1973-74 school year. It was decided that school should start about August 27 and end by June 5.
Teachers, if approved on the state level, will be paid for 200 days next year instead of the current 187 days. If the additional work days are approved, they will have to be placed in the school schedule for the coming year.
Students will still attend for 180 days.
It was decided that teachers would be polled to see when the additional work days are needed most and then, a schedule be worked out.
The board approved a recommendation by Superintendent Arthur Alford that personnel be retired as they reach their 65th birthday, provided an adequate replacement is available, rather than waiting until the school year ends.

The board turned down a request from the Teachers Communication Committee that teachers be paid in 12 installments.
Alford reported that no other school system in the state is paying in 12 installments and that the majority of the teachers would have to approve such a move before it could be acceptable. He suggested that the payment of 12 installments be delayed for at least another year.
The Teachers Communication Committee also requested that personnel be paid a partial payment in May since the last pay day was April 23 and the next is June 7. The board decided this would be feasible. It would be impossible to have the salaries approved and paid by the Raleigh office at this late date.

Emmett Floyd was employed by the board to work at North Pitt High School as an assistant principal. He will share teaching and administrative duties with other personnel. If his work proves satisfactory, and subject to the approval of Principal Walter Latham, the North Pitt Advisory Council and the board of education, he will be hired to replace Latham as principal of the school when he retires May, 1974.
Carl Toot discussed the Career Education Program in the Pitt County Schools.
Toot said the programs, in grades kindergarten through sixth grade at Bethel and all seventh and eighth grades, have shown merit and should be continued and-or expanded while being careful to maintain reasonable limits to insure the primary goal is to enhance basic education.
Toot said the elementary students have had the chance to become aware of certain trades and professions for years. This experience, according to Toot, has shown no abuse of the child's learning in the basic subjects.
"While care should be taken to hold these experiences within reasonable bounds, the practice seems worthy of continuation," Toot said.
Toot explained that the high school occupational programs, being on an elective basis, has produced a sharp division of students.
"Parents and peer groups seem to have influenced student choice, which results in occupational education being primarily for those students who do not normally succeed in academic areas," Toot noted.

'Paid Vacation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Illinois man roused from bed by narcotics agents raiding the wrong house says suspension of the agents is like giving them a vacation because "they're still being paid."
"They've got to put a stop to this and not let it happen to other people," said Herbert Giglotto of Collinsville, Ill., after he was told of the suspension on Tuesday of four federal narcotics agents.
The agents, aided by 11 others from local police, last week mistakenly raided the Giglotto home and that of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Askew. Giglotto and his wife said they were subjected to physical and verbal abuse and had property damaged.
The Askews have filed a $100,000 damage suit.
Suspension of the federal agents was announced by Myles J. Ambrose, the nation's chief drug law enforcer, who said he also was seeking a grand jury investigation. The four agents were not named.
"I have said before that people who use their badge to violate other people's constitutional rights are worse than criminals," said Ambrose. "I have absolutely no intention of whitewashing or absolving them."
The agents, he said, were suspended with pay.

Local Men Nominated For Bd. Of Governors

RALEIGH — Two Greenville men, Dr. Andrew A. Best and David J. Whichard, have been nominated for membership on the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina system along with 14 other persons.
Dr. Best is one of five present members of the Board of Governors renominated by the General Assembly's joint committee on University Trustees. Whichard is among 11 new nominees to the post.
The nominations, which begin a complicated election process to fill eight vacancies on the UNC board, came at a meeting of the legislative committee Tuesday.
The chairman of the Senate trustee committee, Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, said more nominations would be received later this week or next week at a joint session of the General Assembly.

Persons finally elected to the eight posts must include one woman, a minority race member, one Republican and five at-large members.
The Senate will elect a woman, a minority race member and two large members while the House will select one Republican and three at-large members.
Present board members renominated were: Dr. Best, Hugh Cannon of Raleigh, Mrs. L. Richardson Preyer of Greensboro, Thomas J. White of Kinston and George Wood, of

Other nominees included: Whichard, co-publisher of The Daily Reflector and a member of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees; Dr. Lynwood E. Williams of Kinston; L. P. McLendon Jr., of Greensboro; Luther H. Hodges Jr., of Charlotte; Harold H. Thomas of Asheville; Ike Belk of Charlotte, Dr. Donnie H. Jones of Princeton, Clifton Blue of Aberdeen; John Winters of Raleigh; Mrs. James E. Semans of Durham; and Phillip G. Carson of Asheville.
Dr. Best, a Greenville physician, and Winters are minority nominees while Dr. Jones is a Republican.

All-Volunteer Military Failing Manpower Goals

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office estimates the new all-volunteer military will fall short of manpower goals unless it hires more civilians, recruits more women and lowers its intelligence standards.
A GAO report says the military next year could fall 11,000 to 83,000 short of its goal of 345,000 new recruits—primarily for the Army and Marines—under present mental-ability levels and high school graduate quotas.
The GAO analysis, based on GI volunteer trends in past years, was prepared for delivery today to the House military-manpower subcommittee.
It said the military could compete with the civilian labor force for 433,000 to 580,000 women a year, but only plans to recruit 36,700 women a year by 1977.

"It is apparent," the GAO report said, "that much greater potential exists to use women in uniform."
The report also said the Pentagon has decided to turn some 35,000 military jobs over to civilians next year instead of 70,000.
"Here again," the report said, "significant additional potential exists."
The GAO also suggested the military could attract into uniform civilians with especially needed military skills by signing them up at higher rank rather than enlisting them as recruits.
The report predicted the Army and Marines, with their present high school and intelligence standards, would have the greatest trouble in getting enough recruits for the new all-volunteer military. The Navy will have some trouble and the Air Force will have none, the report said.

Larger Role For Vice President Spiro May Be Filling Gap

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, seeking to put his White House in order, is said to be considering an expanded role for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew now that two top aides have left because of the Watergate scandal.

The President was closeted in the Oval Office with Agnew Tuesday, discussing the vice president's new responsibilities. What they will be is expected to be announced shortly.
A restructuring of the White House staff, made necessary by the resignations Monday of chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and top domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman, also was discussed with Agnew and at a 30-minute meeting with the Cabinet.
"It's a meeting that has to be seen as important," a White House source said. "We can assume that the subject dealt with the future more than such things as Watergate."
A participant in the Cabinet meeting said Kenneth R. Cole, executive director of the Domestic Council, will take over some of the duties handled by Ehrlichman and eventually may replace him.
It was also reported that Stephen B. Bull, assistant to the President, has taken on added duties in short-term scheduling and paper flow. It is not considered likely that he will replace Haldeman—but rather that the chief of staff's duties may be taken over in part by the Office of Management and Budget.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman were seen leaving the White House Tuesday carrying stacks of documents, even as the FBI mounted a 'round-the-clock guard in offices containing Watergate-related files.
Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the guard was posted "to physically protect the files to make sure that access and removal of any files were supervised in accordance with very strict procedure." He said FBI agents checked everything removed by the two resigned aides.
White House sources said that before Haldeman and Ehrlichman resigned, they inspected government files, seeking documentation for their claims of innocence. The search apparently resulted from news accounts that fired presidential Counsel John W. Dean III was prepared to give investigators documents relating to an alleged White House coverup of Watergate.

Meanwhile, The New York Times today quoted sources as saying six former high-level figures are expected to be indicted in connection with the alleged coverup.
The Times identified the six as Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, deputy Nixon campaign director Jeb Stuart Magruder, and Frederick C. LaRue, a special assistant to Mitchell when the latter was Nixon's campaign chief.

Switching

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally, President Nixon's former secretary of the Treasury, plans to announce today that he is switching from the Democratic to the Republican Party.
Connally, a political protégé of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, now is regarded as a potential contender for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.
In advance of a news conference in Houston, Tex., Connally telephoned friends and associates in Washington to tell them of his switch.

FARMVILLE — Vowing to "continue to live by faith," Frank K. Allen accepted the Farmville Man of the Year Award at the annual Chamber of Commerce and Civic Clubs' dinner Monday night.
Allen has been mayor of Farmville twice and has been a commissioner. He is now Chamber of Commerce president and operates Farmville Implement Company here.
He serves the First Christian Church of Farmville as a deacon, an elder, president of the Christian Men's Fellowship, superintendent and a teacher in its Sunday School, chairman of the Church Board, and as a lay speaker. A Kiwanian, he is now secretary-treasurer of the Farmville Club, which he helped to charter, and has been its president and a lieutenant governor in the organization.

He has served the community as chairman of the Bloodmobile Drive and as chairman of the United Fund drive, as a director of the Pitt County Development Commission, a director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, and as a member of the Farmville Economic Council. He is president of the North and South Carolina Farm Equipment Dealers' Association.
He and his wife, the former Dorothy Rader, have one daughter, Mrs. John W. Craft of Arlington, Va.
Speaker for the dinner meeting was Dr. D.R. Jones, chairman of the East Carolina University School of Education. Dr. Jones paid tribute to his hometown, Farmville, and spoke of its growth as well as of progress in the education field. Chamber of Commerce director Louis Williams said.

Sulphur Plant

RALEIGH (AP) — A $1.6 million liquid sulphur terminal will be constructed at Morehead City, Texas Gulf, Inc. announced Tuesday.
The facility, which will have a capacity of more than 500,000 tons annually, will be the largest such terminal on the east coast, according to H. V. W. Donohoo, senior vice president of Texas Gulf's Agriculture Division.
Donohoo said construction of the plant will begin immediately on Radio Island on land the company is leasing from Aviation Fuel Terminals. He said the facility is scheduled for completion in early 1974.
Texas Gulf uses sulphur in the manufacture of fertilizer.

Lebanese Troops And Guerrillas Clash In Battle

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese troops and Palestinian guerrillas battled with machine guns and automatic weapons in the streets around a refugee camp on the southwest side of Beirut today.
Thousands of rounds of fire were exchanged in the fighting. It appeared that the army was trying to force the release of two corporals kidnapped by the guerrillas and believed held in the Sabra-Shatila camp.
Political sources said the Palestinians apparently seized the two soldiers to pressure the government into releasing nine guerrillas arrested on Monday.
There was no accurate report of casualties.
Reporting from a vantage point near the camp, Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen said mortar fire and the crunch of hand grenades could be heard.

The guerrillas said they fired armor piercing weapons at army tanks and armored cars, which they said began taking up positions early today around the camp. Authorities believe the two kidnapped soldiers are held there.
The fighting spread from the camp environs to other nearby areas. Drivers braked their cars desperately and turned away. Pedestrians dove for cover.
Jensen said the firing broke out in one area and then shifted to another as the guerrillas made hit-and-run attacks on the troops.
Thick clouds of smoke billowed over the camp.

Farmville Unit Of Boys Club Approved By Commissioners

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners last night gave their blessing to the proposed beginning of a Farmville unit of the Boys' Club of Pitt County.
Austin Britt, president of the Board of Directors of the Boys' Club of Pitt County, presented the long-range plan. Mrs. Betsy Gordon told of her interviews in Farmville, which she believes has established the need for such a club "for the boy who is not being reached by the regular athletic and recreation programs." Graham Gutting, director of the Greenville unit of the Boys' Club, outlined three summer programs that could begin this summer, to establish a foothold for the Club, and measure the response here. There are a six-weeks Ecology Club, a six-weeks' Adventurer's Club, and a three four-weeks' Outdoorsmen's Club. It was pointed out that the Boys' Club would complement the Recreation Program and has Recreation Director John Roberson's full support.
Two parking places on the west side of the 100-block of South Contentnea Street were designated as two-hour spaces, honoring the request of CPA Vance Taylor.

town Administrator Andy Martin was directed to advertise for bids on a motor grader and a chopper, the latter a machine that would "chew up" tree limbs as they are gathered by the Street Department.
After some discussion of how the town should contribute to the Farmville Schools athletics program, Commissioner Wilton Duke suggested that a committee of three members from the Farmville School Advisory Committee and three Town Commissioners be formed to discuss relations between the Town and the local schools.

Commissioner Redden suggested that once agreements are arrived at, that they be published immediately.
Since a public hearing on the paving of South Contentnea Street from Main Street to L.H. Chestnut's Store brought no protest, the request was approved.
The extending of $500 for the Mid-East Economic Development Commission budget was approved, also.

No discussion during a public hearing on an amendment to the town's subdivision regulations ordinance also brought an approval by the Board.
All the Commissioners signed a letter of commendation and appreciation to retiring policeman Grover Bailey for his 21 years of service, and also voted him a bonus as a "token of appreciation."
Citizens Cleve Whatley and Howard Ellis were appointed to the Town Recreation Committee.

More Than 200 House Members Go Junketing

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Few corners of the world escaped inspection visits in 1972 by House members traveling on official business.
The wanderings of more than 200 members took many of them to such places as Paris, Rome, Hong Kong, Muscat Oman, Bangladesh and Zaire. On most of the trips, committee staffers accompanied their bosses.
In all, they spent the dollar equivalent of close to $700,000, much of it in foreign currencies owned by the United States and spendable only in the country of issue. Not included in the cost was the expense of military aircraft in which many groups traveled.
Some members made several foreign trips during the year, visiting different places on each tour.

Among the travelers were 16 representatives who, by reason of retirement, or election setbacks, were in the "lame duck" category. Some of them waited until they were tossed out of office to make their final official visits.
Among those who traveled after having been defeated were William S. Conover, R-Pa., William P. Culin, D-Ky., Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., Sherman P. Lloyd, R-Utah, George P. Miller, D-Calif., and John S. Monagan, D-Conn.
The highest tab reported was $112,431 by the Appropriations Committee, which sent 18 members on various excursions.
The cost of foreign travel for the Foreign Affairs Committee for 18 members was $102,700. Other large spenders were Armed Services, $55,700; Banking and Currency, $46,800.
The House delegation to the Interparliamentary Union listed expenditures of $56,500 for 10 members and four staffers.

Elbow-To-Elbow Should Not Hurt Cheek-To-Cheek

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Would you advise a husband and wife to work together every day? My husband is opening a new business and a lot of people have told me we might get tired of each other if we're together all day and all night. We get along very well.

I am a bookkeeper and receptionist so it's not like we'd be elbow-to-elbow all day long.

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: If you get along well together, and aren't elbow-to-elbow all day long, there's no reason why it shouldn't work out. Some married couples who are nose-to-nose all day enjoy being cheek-to-cheek all night, while others who are apart all day would be happier apart all night, too.

DEAR ABBY: This is my opinion of your answer to the mother of the married daughter with five children. "Mother" said her daughter's husband earns a very modest living, can't feed and clothe his family properly, and can't pay his bills. "Mother" was upset because her husband refused to help out because their son in law gives 10 per cent of all his earnings to his church.

Your answer was typical of the over-zealous religious fanatic. You said, "Surely you can't fault a man for honoring a commitment to the church!"

Why not? The son in law obviously thinks more of his church than he thinks of his family.

To top it off, you advised "Mother" to go against her husband's wishes and "dip into the sugar bowl" and help this family anyway.

I sure hope the father in law wrote and told you where to get off.

NAUSEATED IN CINCINNATI

DEAR NAUSEATED: He didn't. But quite a few others did, and I had it coming. Many readers pointed out that a man's first obligation is to his family, and if he can't support them adequately [not luxuriously, but adequately] he should offer his personal services to the church in lieu of money. [Now, why didn't I think of that? I'll take 10 lashes with an old prayer shawl.]

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column for many years and have never seen my problem discussed. When my husband and I were married, a friend suggested that we could have a nice sum for retirement if we would put a quarter in a box every time we made love.

As retirement time approaches I find that the coins aren't plunking into the box the way they once did. In fact, so far this year they've only been plunked twice.

With inflation and all, the way it is I suggested that my husband put a $20 bill in the box every time from now on. The way things are going he would have to pay only a couple of times a year.

TROUBLED IN TRENTON

DEAR TROUBLED: Between the rise of inflation and the fall of the plunking, it should average out like old times.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend called me this morning and said, "If I asked you to marry me last night, I must have been stoned."

How would you have answered him?

MARY BETH

DEAR MARY BETH: I'd have said, "And if I said 'Yes,' I must have been crazy."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

and added she encourages the male students to date the girls who share their classrooms, "but they don't do that.

"Tech guys seem to date girls from other colleges because they think they're less threatening," she added.

Crawford-Richmond Vows Said

May Fellowship Meet Planned

Mrs. Robert Barrett Crawford II

BURLINGTON—Miss Rita Ann Richmond and Robert Barrett Crawford II were married at 4:00 p.m. Saturday, April 21, in a garden setting in the Burlington City Park here.

Dr. Jack Newman of Burlington, and the Rev. Robert Crawford of Ashland City, Tenn.; father of the bridegroom officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ray sang "The Wedding Song" and "Song of Songs," an original composition.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Kerr Richmond of Burlington, and the bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Crawford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza and cluny lace. The detachable chapel train was trimmed in bands of lace.

A ballerina length veil fell from a headpiece of seed pearls and cluny lace and the bride carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Sandra Fagge was the bride's only attendant. The bridegroom was attended by Jim Phillips of Richmond, Va.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the park area. The wedding party led the guests over a foot bridge decorated in white and green ivy along a path bordered by spring flowers to the refreshment table where the bridal couple cut the wedding cake.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in New Bern.

The bride received a B.S. degree from East Carolina University, Greenville, and now teaches at MacDonald Junior High School, New Bern.

The bridegroom attended East Carolina University and is employed by National Spinning Co., Inc., Dye Division, Washington.

Competing In Men's World Is Lonely

By CATHY YARBROUGH

Journal and Constitution Writer
ATLANTA (AP)—After receiving a Master of Divinity degree from Columbia Theological Seminary, Caroline Leach, 25, didn't particularly want to take charge of a church.

"I had some thinking to do, so I decided a campus environment would be the ideal situation," said Miss Leach, a native of Chattanooga, Tenn.

With an eye on its female population, she selected Georgia Tech because of her past experiences as one of the few women swimming in a school of males.

"It's very frustrating for a female to compete with men. A woman is socially isolated if she tries to exert leadership as a human being. It can be very lonely," recalled Miss Leach, the only female campus minister in Georgia.

"So, I thought the women at Tech would want someone there to talk to," she added. She counsels both male and female students from the Presbyterian Center of the school.

As at Tech, female students at Columbia Seminary were not ordinary sights.

"There were about five girls when I came and about 18 when I left the seminary," Miss Leach explained. Stressing that professors didn't cause problems, she said that the male dominated student population at Columbia, "didn't welcome me with open arms."

"Sometimes they were downright hostile. They would either not speak or acknowledge me or walk up quoting Scriptures, trying to say I had no business studying to be a leader in the church. Many male students even asked if I was there to catch a husband," Miss Leach reported, adding that most of the males in her class were "much older and married."

Originally she came to seminary to study christian education.

"But I decided that if I was going to get anywhere in the church I was going to have to be a minister and be one who was smarter and who preached better than everyone else," she explained.

The negative reactions of the male students "of course made me feel ostracized. But I also began doubting myself and wondering if it was God's will that I should be there."

At first, she admits, she didn't know "what to say to the ridicules. I had come to learn, not to put up with anti-female feelings."

But soon she began responding to criticism by quoting Scriptures proving that God did not intend women to be on a lower level than men, Miss Leach said. She hopes to be ordained into the Presbyterian ministry soon. Though she specifically had the female population in mind when she came to Tech, Miss Leach counsels both sexes. "I hear both males and females complain they don't have a date for Saturday night," she said with a smile.

Transition In Help Pattern

By BRYAN HANSLIP

RALEIGH—Local governments need a button-puncher in Raleigh to clear channels to state agencies and programs.

BRYAN HANSLIP

The evolving pattern of federal assistance to solve community problems demands a closer coordination between the state and its cities and counties.

Said S. Leigh Wilson, executive director of the North Carolina League of Municipalities:

"The whole ballgame is changing in the way levels of government must work together in the delivery of services," explained Wilson.

The transition is from direct funding for specific projects to revenue-sharing and bloc grants for broad purposes, he said. More and more, he pointed out, what cities are doing must be related to state programs in the field.

Unfortunately, he added, local officials in the state capital often encounter a confusion of agencies involved in the same program and find it difficult to see the right person or get a timely response.

A local-state service office, located at the governor's right hand, is the solution proposed by the N. C. State Local Task Force in a report recently presented to Gov. Jim Holshouser.

State Government Access

The idea would be to expedite access into the corridors of state government, said Wilson, who served as chairman of the steering committee for the year-long study.

"It would make available somebody to punch buttons and open doors, in the name of the governor, when local governments request information and action from state agencies," he said.

Frustration, expense, and wasted time result from the lack of such a contact point, the task force report stated.

"One local agency has spent two years from first application to first service in gaining state approval of an application for day care," it said. "This kind of delay should not be tolerated, nor should it be necessary for local officials to spend full days in Raleigh tracing an application for assistance from one agency to the next, trying to determine its position in the review process and if all the required reviews have been executed."

"A mechanism with direct access to the authority of the Governor needs to be established as an extraordinary means of assisting local governments, state legislators, and state agency officials in obtaining information and action from state government."

State Of Recommendations

The recommendation is one of more than a dozen drafted by the task force. Others include a directory of state programs as a guide to local officials, a system for sharing information collected by state agencies, a comprehensive planning process to link goals and decision-making, and a study to clear up confusion regarding the local use of revenue-sharing funds.

The task force study involved the city of Winston-Salem, but its implications are statewide and even regional. Its findings have application to all Tar Heel local governments, Wilson said.

In addition, it is expected that other states will look to it with interest in the developing relationships between state and local governments. Winston-Salem is one of two cities in the Southeast, along with Jacksonville, Fla., where the federal government participated in an in-depth examination of the state and local roles.

The task force cost, some $65,000, was shared jointly by local, state and federal funds.

"The task of examining intergovernmental relations is often a complicated and frustrating experience, and we realize that our efforts during the brief period of the Task Force's existence represent just a beginning," said Chairman Meade H. Willis Jr., Winston-Salem banker, in transmitting the report to Gov. Holshouser.

North Carolina, the chairman added, "must begin to build and maintain a continuing vigilance on the evolving relationships between the several levels of government. Without such attention, joint efforts between local government and the State will not be successful."

As a factor in the quality of future services, the study is a first milestone on the route to state-local cooperation that has an impact for every citizen, Wilson said.

He found one disappointment in the scope of the task force study. It failed to deal with some of the things which need to be done locally in promoting cooperation between units of government, he said.

The structure of local government in North Carolina divides responsibility between cities and counties in many programs, Wilson pointed out. Some recommendations for better organization of local authority, through consolidation or creation of joint agencies, would have been helpful to improve the delivery of services, he said.

Watergate "belongs here in this office. I accept it."

On the other hand the president said he had been misled on previous investigations of the Watergate affair. Earlier in the day it had been announced that White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Erlichman and Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst had resigned and presidential counsel John W. Dean III had been fired.

Nixon said Haldeman and Ehrlichman were two of his closest friends and trusted assistants; however the integrity of the White House had to "take priority over all personal considerations."

Any who committed criminal acts in connection with Watergate would have to bear full responsibility, Nixon said and Elliot L. Richardson had been named attorney general with authority to oversee administration investigations into the Watergate affair.

He said it was essential to restore faith in the American system and make certain that abuses are purged from politics.

Noting that Watergate had taken much of his time recently he said he must turn his full efforts toward "the larger duties of this office," particularly the search for peace.

Certainly Tuesday's actions did not clear the president of concern and responsibility for the Watergate mess, but it did represent action to remove those who might be under suspicion from active participation in White House affairs.

His talk Tuesday night seemed to come from the heart and, at last the man who the public elected as their chief executive was giving some explanation of the problems that evolved from Watergate.

We have no idea what further revelations will come from the investigations, but we do know that the public wanted an explanation from the president on the serious questions that had been raised.

It would be a serious violation of constitutional rights to brand anyone who has resigned in the Watergate aftermath. On the other hand the administrative staff needed a thorough revision to restore public confidence in the White House.

The president has taken steps in this direction and, while there are still questions to be answered, we feel his actions were effective in restoring public confidence in the executive branch of the government.

Vietnam War Is Hanoi-ized

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BINH DINH PROVINCE, South Vietnam—Any lingering misconception that this is a South Vietnamese civil war can be erased by a remarkable recent development: cadres from the North Vietnamese army's 3rd Division demobilized to fill civil political posts in Communist-controlled hamlets of Binh Dinh province.

That completes Hanoi-izing the Communist struggle for South Vietnam. What started as a South Vietnamese insurgency was long ago taken over militarily by North Vietnamese regulars. Now, using the ceasefire to try making the Vietcong's Provisional Revolutionary Government more than a political abstraction, Hanoi has placed northerners as political administrators in the handful of hamlets it controls, here and elsewhere in South Vietnam.

This undercuts the old U.S. doctrine that the war will never end until the underground Communist apparatus—called the Vietcong infrastructure (VCI) by the Americans—is eradicated. For years, Washington pressed Saigon to wipe out the VCI through the Phoenix program, highly controversial and never very successful. What is happening now, however, suggests that not the VCI but legions of invading North Vietnamese troops constitute the heart of the insurgency.

One basic reason why northerners are taking over politically in attempts to build a Vietcong nation is the failure of the VCI to recover from its devastating losses in the failed 1968 Tet offensive. The Phoenix program's estimate of 70,000 VCI members nationwide is almost surely grossly inflated.

But if any province still has a VCI ready to assume administration, it should be Binh Dinh, a traditional Communist stronghold, thanks partly to the Saigon regime's corrupt administration and incompetent military leadership here.

South Vietnamese intelligence experts believe there are sufficient Binh Dinh VCI left to govern the limited Communist jurisdiction.

The answer is that Hanoi wants to control in Binh Dinh and elsewhere with its own men. Hanoi's strategy in South Vietnam today is principally military, not political. Unwilling either to hold elections sure to be won by Saigon or to begin building a new guerrilla-political structure, Hanoi relies on military muscle.

Thus, the Communist cutting edge here is the North Vietnamese 3rd Division prowling around the province. After a lull late in March, the 3rd Division—reinforced and resupplied since the ceasefire began—went on the warpath in April assaulting government outposts in Binh Dinh.

Consider one recent night in Tam Quan district, the province's most fiercely contested area. North Vietnamese sappers overran an outpost manned by about 20 South Vietnamese rangers sent up from Saigon. The toll: 16 rangers killed—one of the bloody Communist ceasefire violations that seldom attract world attention. That same night, a few Communist mortar rounds were fired into a nearby village, abandoned during the 1972 Communist offensive but slowly being reoccupied by refugees coaxed back by the government.

Strength For Today

THE BIGGEST WHY IN LIFE

A question which people often ask a minister is "Why has God taken away this loved one of mine. This husband, this mother so needed by her children, this promising child, and has left a lot of worthless people who do no good for themselves or the rest of the world?"

One answer might be that God wants to give the worthless ones a further chance. Also, there are many people who finish a well-rounded life long before old age. This does not mean that from our standpoint they appear to have finished their work. It does mean that in a comparatively few short years they have learned how to live and so are ready for eternal life. Some people learn this early in life, some later, some never. Life is a proving round. We are here to get ready to live forever. The disciplines of life tutor us in these matters.

Such an explanation, of course does not cover all cases. But many a grief-stricken heart would be soothed if people could remember that life is a season of training, and that after the training is over, God calls his children home.

Detroit Licks Pollution

WASHINGTON—Detroit has so much trouble meeting the Environmental Protection Agency's emission standards that it was given one year's grace, until 1976, to produce an engine which will not pollute the air. Even with the extra 12 months, the automobile companies insist they will not be able to meet the EPA deadline.

The auto manufacturers are so desperate that they are now submitting alternate proposals to Washington which they believe will take care of the air pollution hazard.

One promising plan I heard about was brought to EPA the other day by Huxley Barnstable, an automotive engineer who has been working on the emission problem for years.

He told me, "It is absolutely impossible for Detroit to develop an engine which will meet EPA requirements by 1976."

"Then you're throwing in the towel?" I asked.

"Absolutely not. It's true that we can't build an engine that will cut down on carbon monoxide, but we believe we have developed a device which, when attached to a human being, will make it impossible for him to breathe the poison we emit."

"That's fantastic!" I said. "For years the automobile companies have devoted all their research to cutting down on pollution created by their engines. Only recently did we realize it was easier to invent a gadget to put on a person."

"What is it?" I asked ex-

Watergate Impact Not Proven

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A sampling of opinion following White House resignations Monday indicates that some business spokesmen fear Watergate is having a negative impact on the economy. But proving it, others say, is more difficult.

"A major — maybe disastrous — loss of respect for the administration is developing just when new inflationary pressures are building," said a statement prepared last week for Elmer Nicholson, chairman of CNA Financial Corp.

The statement, which Nicholson said Monday "reflects a good deal of my views," asserts that "it will be almost impossible for President Nixon to mount a major effort...to keep the economy moving in a somewhat orderly fashion."

But Zenon Hansen, chairman of Mack Trucks, stated "as far as our business is concerned, we don't think it will have the slightest effect. What it does to business in general I don't think I'm qualified to say."

He continued: "I think it's a damn shame to create a tempest in a teapot. It should have been handled pronto. But it has served in bringing out the true character of some of the people involved."

A spokesman for the National Federation of Independent Business, which claims more than 300,000 members, stated at San Mateo, Calif., that Watergate has caused great uncertainty and lack of confidence among small-business men.

"All our surveys show that smaller-business men had the feeling progress was being made toward economic sanity. And now it's like hitting a stone wall. It will take very drastic measures to restore confidence."

The spokesman, Niel Heard, said: "Small business feels the country is in a vacuum. The small-business man's whole existence is walking a tightrope, anyway. They can't plunge ahead; they must go with the trends. Now they don't know what to expect."

Arch Booth, executive vice president of the National Chamber of Commerce, whose annual meeting was scheduled for Tuesday in Washington, stated:

"I think up to now everybody is upset and I even say disgusted with the way it developed. But there has been no effect on the economy as such. Maybe in the stock market, but it can't be proved."

Both the New York and American Stock exchanges declined comment, but several brokers indicated that the impact on prices was totally negative. One broker, asking anonymity, reminded the questioner: "Don't forget that we're regulated by Washington."

John Wright, Bridgeport, Conn. analyst and money manager, said: "I don't think it has had much effect on the market so far and I don't think it will have any lasting effect."

George Katona, dean of consumer researchers and now retired from the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, said the Watergate scandal could be very bad for the economy. "It spreads ultimately into unconnected things, like investments," he said.

Added To The Female

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — While I am aware that physical adaptations in the human race have taken place over the ages, I never expected to witness an instantaneous mutation myself.

However, I have recently had the awesome privilege of observing such a phenomenon — the appearance of a new appendage to the hand, wrist or arm of women.

This adjunct, so far confined to the female of the species, is not composed of flesh and bone, but rather of canvas, felt, plastic, straw, leather, linen, brocade, metallic cloth or suede.

It appears in a variety of colors and trim, solids and multicolors. It is plaid, flowered, alligator-grained, embroidered, sequined, woven or embossed.

It is zippered, flapped, snapped, buttoned, gripped, drawstringed, belted, gusseted or grommeted.

It is rumored to be detachable from its host but this may just be hearsay since as far as I can determine, where milady goes it goes too.

Perhaps that is why it is called a tote bag.

Since this omnipresent appendage is of recent vintage, I find myself speculating on how its owner has managed to fill it so full so fast. Were there enough odds and ends around the house to give it that interesting bulge or did she have to go out and purchase doodads to make it so plump?

Some of the bags are open affairs, and then I can get a glimpse of such mundane objects as a folding umbrella, a magazine or knitting paraphernalia. But what forbidden sights lie nestled in the dark recesses of the carefully zipped totes? It's not that I want to invade anyone's privacy when I peer. It's just that I hope to get some ideas about what to pack

Pitt County, it is believed, leads the state from the standpoint of lack of enthusiasm over the advent of legalized beer, if records of the issuance of licenses is to be taken as an index to the situation. The county tax collector said today he had issued only eighteen licenses for the entire county Greenville, with the largest population of any town in the county, led the number of beer dispensers, seven having been issued license to do business here.

Greenville was in the midst of one of the timest municipal elections yesterday in the memory of the oldest residents. Certainly nobody in recent years has witnessed a battle of ballots without any contest at all and that was what was taking place at the courthouse yesterday. Only seventy-eight ballots had been cast during the mid-afternoon

"Because things are so bad, if the attorney general resigns, people rather think it is a poor time to invest or to buy a house."

"Clearly, business firms, which are mostly Republican, are downcast in view of such news and may not go ahead with their spending plans."

Pierre Rinfret, economic consultant and chief economic adviser during the President's reelection campaign, indicated that in his opinion the preoccupation with Watergate has caused inaction on "the urgency of the economy."

Following the President's address, Rinfret said "he has not had time for the problems of the economy he knows exists." But, he added, "it is mistaken to think that lack of action on inflation is acceptance or contentment with it."

Rinfret said he anticipated economic action against inflation as soon as possible. "I don't think Nixon has made up his mind about what action," he said, "but I believe he will not passively accept inflation."

Swami Is Lecturing Twice During Week

Swami Bhashyananda, head of the Vivekananda Vedanta (Hindu) Society of India in Chicago, will be lecturing twice in Greenville this week.

On Thursday at 7:15 p.m., he will speak at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church on the topic, "Religion, Economic Progress, and World Peace."

On Friday, at 11:00 a.m., his topic will be "Vedanta," which is the major expression of the Hindu religion. This lecture will be on campus at East Carolina University in Room B-102 in the Social Studies building.

A native of India, Bhashyananda was born into a family of seven generations of priests and scholars.

He received the M. A. degree in English and Sanskrit in Nagpur, Central India, and in 1937 joined the Rama Krishna Mission, a monastic organization founded by Shri Rama Krishna. Swami Vivekananda was the main disciple in spreading the teachings of Shri Rama Krishna.

As a member of the monastic order, Bhashyananda worked in various capacities at Nagpur until he was transferred to Calcutta in 1962 to be Assistant Secretary of the mission's Institute of Culture.

In 1964 he was appointed assistant head of one of the mission's New York Center, and a year later, was appointed head of the Vivekananda Vedanta Society in Chicago, the position he presently holds.

The swami is here as a participant in ECU's Afro-Asian Symposium, sponsored by the North Carolina Commission on International Cooperation through the ECU Office of International Education.

The public is invited to attend the two lectures.

"This is Detroit's answer to the air pollution problem," I tore the paper off. "Why, it's a gauze bandage with strings on it!"

"That's correct," Barnstable said. "You tie it over your nose and mouth when you go outside and it will cut the dirty air you breathe by 50 per cent."

"It's so simple," I said. "How did you scientists ever think of it?"

"It was really an accident," Barnstable replied. "One of our researchers was going through an old National Geographic and saw a photo taken of a group of people during a typhoid epidemic in Japan. They were all wearing

Installed At Annual Meet

Arlene Hoot has been named president of the Pitt County Association of Classroom Teachers for the 1973-74 school year.

Other officers installed during the annual meeting last week were: Helen Johnson, president-elect; Beulah Mebane, vice-president; Alberta Monroe, secretary; and Linda Calder, treasurer.

ACT is the teachers division of the North Carolina Association of Educators. The purposes of the organization are to promote within the teaching group the highest type of professional practices and to foster a genuine loyalty to the Code of Ethics of the education profession.

It also works to improve working conditions, morale, security, and responsibility of the classroom teachers.

Plan Weekend Church Services

The following services are scheduled for Warren Chapel FWB Church on U. S. 264 eight miles west of Greenville: Friday at 8 p.m., quarterly conference; Saturday at 8 p.m., Holy communion with Elder Joe Hedgepeth as guest speaker.

And, Sunday at 9:45 a.m., Sunday school, 11 a.m., morning worship. The pastor, Elder A. L. Miller will present the sermon Sunday accompanied by the Senior Choir and the Senior Usher Board.

At 2 p.m. a barbecue will be served. At 3 p.m. Dr. W. L. Jones and his congregation of Mt. Calvary FWB Church will be in charge of the services.

Savings Bonds Sales Advance

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pitt County during March were $70,574. January through March sales totaled $193,713, representing 32.8 percent of the county's goal of $591,000, according to R. W. Howard, County Volunteer Chairman.

E and H Savings Bonds sales in North Carolina totaled $7,125,488 for the month.

"I leave it to the Japanese," I said.

"The beauty of it is that these bandages will cost the consumer only $1 while an antipollution device on a car would cost $300. We've done it at a $299 savings to the car."

"And they said Detroit has been asleep all these years."

"What we have to do now is to persuade the Environmental Protection Agency to make it a law that everyone in this country must wear a gauze bandage by 1976," Barnstable said. "Anyone who goes outdoors without his bandage would be subject to a fine or imprisonment, or both."

"It puts the onus on the public where it belongs," I agreed.

"Our contributions to the Clean Air Act would be that you wouldn't be able to start your car until your bandage was tied over your mouth."

"I don't see EPA could turn down your proposal," I said.

"If this doesn't prove that the auto companies have gone the extra mile, then I don't know what will."

"I hope you're right," he replied. "because the gauze bandage is the only thing we've got."

The reason is mainly terror. Besides accelerating attacks on outposts and resettlement villages, there are frightening rumors (partly Communist-spread) of a Ho Chi Minh's birthday offensive on May 19. better lately, it still inspires less than total confidence here.

Intelligence experts doubt the rumored Ho Chi Minh offensive, but Hanoi still has two future options here. It can attempt cutting South Vietnam in two with the total conquest of Binh Dinh. Or it can continue harassing village resettlement, undermining confidence in the government's ability to protect its citizens. Both options are essentially military, totally dominated by Hanoi and carry few elements of genuine civil war—a description fitting the Vietnam war generally today.

Pentagon Papers Lawyers Charge 'Bribe' Attempt

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defense attorneys in the Pentagon papers trial, accusing former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman of trying to bribe the trial judge, have demanded that any Watergate or White House links to the trial be made public.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, rejected on Tuesday a government request to keep from the press further developments in a continuing court-ordered probe. He said he would make public any documents relevant to the trial.

Attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo asked for dismissal of the indictments against them after the government revealed that Ehrlichman knew two Watergate conspirators had burglarized the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist in 1971.

The defense also cited an Ehrlichman contact with Byrne on April 5 at the Western White House where Byrne said earlier he was told he was in line for a high "future assignment in government," reportedly the directorship of the FBI.

Although Byrne said he had refused to consider any offer until after the trial, the defense motion called it "possibly an attempt to offer a bribe to the court—an attempt made in the virtual presence of the President of the United States which was frustrated only because the judge refused to listen to the offer."

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in the copying of the secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war, which Ellsberg subsequently leaked to the press in 1971.

Arguing against a secrecy rule, defense attorney Leonard Boudin said the court's probe of Watergate connections had been aided by publicity.

He cited a published story in the Washington Evening Star-News as saying one of the Watergate conspirators billed the White House for four hours' work the day of the break-in at Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office.

The story said Watergate prosecutors have airline tickets showing two of the conspirators were in Los Angeles at the time of the break-in.

He contended the newspapers are disclosing relevant facts in more detail than the government.

The disclosure spurred the judge to announce he would not allow the case to go to the jury until all White House and Watergate links are investigated and analyzed. He held the dismissal motion under consideration.

The latest disclosures came in an FBI memo about an interview with Ehrlichman last Friday, in which the White House aide said he had been asked by President Nixon to make an independent investigation of the Pentagon papers leak to news media.

Ehrlichman said in the interview that Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr., were hired for the job. He said he knew that the two were trying to produce a "psychiatric profile" of Ellsberg, seeking to show that Ellsberg had "emotional and moral problems."

Ehrlichman said he knew Hunt and Liddy were making trips to the West Coast to develop this profile. But he said he was not told of the break-in at the psychiatrist's office until afterwards.

When he learned of the burglary, the report said, Ehrlichman told Hunt and Liddy "not to do this again." The report said Ehrlichman doesn't know whether anything was obtained from the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding. He gave no information on whether such psychiatric records were used in prosecution of Ellsberg.

Ellsberg's chief attorney, Leonard Boudin, told the judge: "I have never seen such misbehavior on the part of the government before.... We are dealing with the highest authority in the United States, the President and his ... trusted subordinates in whom he still has confidence."

Byrne, sombre and speaking with deliberation said, "I intend to get the full story. I intend to get to the bottom of this. I want to find out if we're talking about one burglary. I want to find out what we are talking about. This case is not going to any jury until I have the opportunity to analyze all actions involved."

Ellsberg was first indicted in June 1971, two months before his psychiatrist's office was burglarized. The court probe seeks to find out whether the burglary provided "tainted evidence" for the trial.

Board Rules Mix Pupils

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte-Mecklenburg County Board of Education will send 2,000 pupils to different schools in the fall to remain in compliance with federal court desegregation orders. Changing housing patterns have left some schools with more blacks than the orders allow.

The reassignment plan would mean that 500 fewer pupils would be bused.

The board also voted 8-1 Tuesday night to ask U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan in the fall to declare that Charlotte and the county have achieved a fully integrated school system. This would mean that in most instances the system would no longer be forced to reshuffle pupils, even if some schools become majority black. Reassignment would be necessary only if official action by governmental agencies led to majority black schools.

The schools are operating under McMillan's desegregation orders.

By a 5-4 vote, the board passed a resolution for a national constitution convention to outlaw busing for racial integration.

The Bunkers Are Poster Feature

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jean Stapleton, the television wife of Archie Bunker, helped exhibit the new "We're All in One Family" mobile billboard here Tuesday.

The poster portrays "All in the Family" show characters Archie and Edith Bunker standing side by side with a young black neighbor, Lionel. The text reads: "We're All in One Family ... Let's Act Like It!"

The poster was designed by the Philadelphia Human Relations Commission. Chairman Clarence Farmer presented Miss Stapleton with a citation saluting the show for "exposing the falsity, silliness and dangers of unthinking prejudice...."

Cabarrus Insists On Own Garbage

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)—The Cabarrus County Board of Health said Tuesday that if any garbage is to be used to fill a 15-acre hole in the infield of the Charlotte Motor Speedway, it is going to be Cabarrus garbage and not garbage from adjoining Mecklenburg County.

The hole, 100 feet deep in places, was left when dirt was removed during construction of the auto racing track and used to bank the turns.

The speedway is in Cabarrus County, just over the Mecklenburg line. Its president, Robert Howard, had asked to allow Charlotte in Mecklenburg County to dump garbage in it. In turning him down, the Cabarrus Board of Health said landfill areas were needed for its county. It will see what can be done to fill the hole with Cabarrus garbage.

Urged Conserve Heating Oil

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina schools are being told to employ every trick to use less heating oil next fall.

They are being told that—assuming average winter weather—the shortage can be licked through such measures as keeping temperatures at 70 degrees or below, closing doors and windows, and checking insulation.

The United States produces 32.5 per cent of the world's automobiles.

Lt. Gov. Hunt To Speak Sunday

Lt. Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. will be in Greenville on Sunday, May 6, 1973 to address the friends and guests of Pitt Technical Institute during the dedication of the Robert Lee Humber Building.

The dedication ceremony will begin at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, in front of the Humber Building (two-story classroom building).

Immediately following the dedication will be Open House at Pitt Tech. The Open House will feature complete tours of the campus and special exhibits by all departments and divisions of the schools.

All citizens of Pitt County are extended an invitation to attend the dedication ceremonies and Open House.

The two-story classroom building, completed in 1970, is being dedicated to Dr. Robert Lee Humber, former chairman of the Pitt Tech Board of Trustees.

Church Rally Is Set Thursday

A special rally will be held at the First Wesleyan Church Thursday evening at 7:30. The Rev. R. S. Shelton, North Carolina district superintendent, will be the guest speaker.

The pastor, H. A. Lewis, extends a welcome to the public. The church is located on the New Bern highway, in the Bells Fork community.

Dr. Humber, a native of Greenville, was an active civic and cultural leader in Pitt County, North Carolina, and the nation. He also served as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest University and Meredith College. An active political leader, Dr. Humber served three terms in the N. C. Senate.

Pitt Tech President, Dr. William E. Fulford, Jr., remarked today concerning the events taking place Sunday: "This occasion represents a great day in the life of this institution. Dr. Humber gave so much to so many and expected so little in return."

"It is only fitting that we dedicate this building to the man whose foresight made it a reality."

AUCTION HIGHLIGHT. . . of the Flea Market at the Greenville Art Center, to be conducted at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, will be this engraved print of the White House with an accompanying card signed by President Nixon. Other interesting donations from public figures will also go on the auction block at that time. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Flea Market Set For Greenville Art Center

An autographed card and engraving of the White House from President Nixon; cuff-links from Governor Jim Holshouser; a signed photograph and senate ball point pen from Ted Kennedy; a painting by Dr. Leo Jenkins; and an art object from Senator Jesse Helms — these are items to be auctioned off at 1:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon at the Flea Market being held at the Greenville Art Center.

This year instead of the traditional sidewalk art show, planners for the Art Center's annual event decided to see what would happen by switching to an affair a quite different in nature.

There will still be, however, art works by Greenville artists, including East Carolina University art students, on sale for the day long event. This will include ceramic pots and bowls, a favorite in past years. Also expected are paintings, prints and drawings, as well as photographs and possibly some small sculpture or constructed art works.

A check to date on items being received at the Art Center — donations from individuals and firms — shows a real diversity of items. There are, for example, a sideboard and a double garage door (about eight by 20 feet in size); jewelry, small kitchen appliances, draperies and fireplace equipment, and pieces of china.

Items for the flea market will continue to be received at the Art Center through 5:00 p.m. Friday. For the convenience of donors, the Art Center is remaining open through the lunch hour each day this week. Opening hours are 9:00 a.m. and closing hours 5:00 p.m.

Anyone with a salable item big or small, they would like to donate is encouraged to bring it to the Art Center at the earliest possible time.

All proceeds realized go to the Building Fund of the Art Center.

Tax Relief Offered In Senate Measures

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolinians would be given a food tax credit of $14 per dependent in filing their state income taxes under legislation introduced in the Senate Tuesday.

Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, sponsored the bill which, he said, would cost the state about $45 million in revenue during the next fiscal year.

Under his proposal, if a taxpayer, for example, owed the state $100 after computing his income tax and he had three dependents, he would subtract $42 from that amount. If the state owed him a refund, the $42 would be added to the amount due him.

The food tax would be retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Kirby also sponsored two other bills, one of which would exempt natural fruit juice and vegetable juice concentrates from the one-cent tax on soft drinks.

"I don't think it was ever intended that natural fruit juice and vegetable juice concentrates come under the soft drink tax," Kirby told newsmen. His bill would cost the state $1.3 million during the next fiscal year and the loss would be $570,000 the second year.

Signing Contracts Can Make Or Break Budding Musicians

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The do's and don'ts of signing music contracts are foreign to many new artists nowadays and the result has been willing to hundreds of budding careers.

One of the fastest ways for a new singer or songwriter to stifle his intentions of "making it big" is to sign his name to a contract which he only thinks he understands. It's a matter of priorities, patience and legal guidance.

"One of the recurring problems is the young artist who comes into town fresh off the bus and signs the first piece of paper with the first person who promises to record him," says Dick Frank, a Nashville lawyer who's been negotiating contracts for music personalities since 1958.

"Rarely do they read what they're signing," he said.

"More often than not, the inexperienced new artist is going to fall into the hands of borderline outfits," says Frank.

The explanation for such a precarious dilemma is twofold: infatuation with the idea of stardom and fly-by-night recording companies whose lure is often deceptive.

"It's the anxiety to get their voice before the public and the fear that if they don't sign what's before them, the chance will escape," Frank added.

"It's a complex thing and you never know that you're in trouble until you wiggle your ears and your head falls off."

In hopes of stemming the tide of bad contracts, the Country Music Association in Nashville pamphlet entitled "What Every Song Writer Should Know." About 50 of them are sent daily to persons seeking advice. A portion of it reads:

"The first rule for the inexperienced writer should be: Never pay any money to any publisher for publishing a song. Nor should payment be made to setting lyrics to music, music to lyrics, examining of manuscripts or promising to publish and promote."

Infesting the publishing business are so-called "song sharks" who, for fees ranging from $20 to hundreds more, promise to put a person's poems to music, says the CMA.

"These so-called publishers," according to the CMA handout, "will send you impressive and enforceable contracts. However no sane person would sign those contracts if he or she actually understood them."

What it all boils down to is this: never sign any contract without obtaining the services of a reputable attorney knowledgeable with music contracts.

"Artists look on this as more of an obstacle than it is. Respected attorneys wouldn't turn down a man who wanted advice simply because he was broke right then," said Frank.

"Besides, the boy may come back with the biggest hit to ever come down your street," he said with a broad grin.

Here's a brief list of some other rules to follow in signing contracts:

—Always thoroughly understand any contract before signing it. And, from the start, get copies of your own.

—In general, says Frank, beware of outfits which make a person pay for his own recording session. Good firms should be willing to foot the bill. If not, get written proof of what they promise to do—before making payment.

—In the first year of a contract, the recording company "should not only agree to record but also to release one single during each six months," he says.

—Management contracts: Never give a manager full power of attorney. "In effect, it's giving a whole series of blank checks to the person."

—Songwriting or publishing contracts: Make sure the publisher agrees in writing to obtain a certain number of recordings of your music, which if not obtained within a certain period of time—like two records per year—will give the artist the right to terminate contract.

—Booking contracts: "Should provide at the very least a minimum gross either in terms of dates and/or dollars."

—Beware of so-called indemnification clauses, found in 90 per cent of the contracts. They make an artist responsible for damages if sued by another firm, whether he is violating a contract or not.

"Every reputable business welcomes a clear-cut contract," says Frank, "to avoid misunderstanding and trouble down the road with the artist."

By the same token, he cautions, "I've seen cases where artists have driven such a hard bargain that it destroys their career."

School Grant Proposal Presented Committee

Charles M. Dickens, Coordinator for Federal Programs for Greenville City Schools, presented the 1973-74 Grant Proposal to the Advisory Committee for the Emergency School Aid Act. At its meeting Tuesday night Dickens indicated that the two areas of chief academic concern in the proposal are reading and arithmetic, with emphasis on aiding students whose academic performance in these subjects is two or more grades below their grade placement.

The title of the proposal is STAR (Special Tutoring in Arithmetic and Reading). The major goal is to "provide concentrated individualized instruction to students who require additional work in reading and or arithmetic," Dickens said.

Rev. O. J. Rooks, Chairman of the Committee commented, "I think this is a good proposal which is intended to serve a worthy cause for our boys and girls. Without a doubt, I think that we should endorse it."

The $240,000 grant request will be submitted to HEW this week. Information relative to its approval is expected by mid-June. Upon the receipt of official approval, the instructional aspect of Project STAR will commence with the 1973-74 school year.

Others present at the meeting were George Garrett, Mrs. Charlotte Sweeney and Miss Judy Little.

Application Form For Superintendent Readied

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

With a few minor changes recommended by a 15 member group of the Citizens Advisory Committee and a committee working with Dr. Ralph Brimley, the application form to use in seeking a superintendent for the coming school year received the stamp of approval from members of the Greenville City School Board.

Meeting in a workshop session Wednesday night, board members spent a little more than an hour in evaluating and discussing recommendations. In its final draft, the form was shortened considerably from its initial outline.

Two sections, one dealing with religious participation; the other, a 22 item listing of criteria, were eliminated. The criteria deemed desirable for the type of person sought to fill the vacancy will be the subject of information in requests to character references furnished by applicants.

The board's approval signals the go-ahead on sending out forms to several persons who have already indicated an interest, and to persons whose names are being furnished by state education agencies.

Dr. Brimley, of the faculty of the School of Education, East Carolina University, acting in the capacity as a consultant to the school board, said that final forms would be prepared today and mailing will also begin going out today.

Dates of consideration of applications were established. The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 14 to begin the process of preliminary screening applications on hand. They have also reserved the evenings of May 15 and 16 for screening if that much time is needed.

Following a narrowing down process through preliminary screening, applicants to be considered for personal interviews will be notified and interview dates established.

Dr. Brimley revealed that in accordance with wishes expressed by school board members at the special call meeting last week, he had placed advertisements for the vacancy in major newspapers in Virginia, North and South Carolina.

Board members opted against a suggestion that an ad be placed in "The New York Times." Dr. James Bearden expressed an opinion that an ad in the Times could conceivably result in a deluge of inquiries that would unreasonably burden the administrative staff.

The earlier recommended date as June 1 for final postmark date of applications was confirmed by the board.

"This trend may continue resulting in a reduction in staff requirement and program offerings at the high school level, unless the career education task force concept were applied.

"So long as high school students continue to be influenced by outsiders to select the elective academic programs, the occupational program may become more and more a 'dumping ground' for the slow learning student," Toot emphasized.

The board approved a recommendation that each elementary principal be required to visit a minimum of 25 parents during the summer months with a listing of those visited to be submitted to the central office by Sept. 1.

It was approved that the basketball games between Ayden-Grifton and D.H. Conley High Schools be played during the afternoon due to some conflict between the two teams this past basketball season.

Alford reported that the 1973 School Board Conference will be held in Chapel Hill on May 8-9. An audit of Title III NDEA was accepted by the board.

Maternity leave was granted to three teachers.

A special budget session of the board was set for May 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Health Planning Director Named

John M. Wasson of Greenville has been named Director of Comprehensive Health Planning for the Mid-East Commission, according to an announcement today by Dr. G. Earl Trevathan Jr., chairman of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee and Jack A. Runion, Mid-East Commission chairman.

Wasson earned a masters degree in social work from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he specialized in community development. For the past two years he has served as community services consultant for the North Carolina Department of Human Resources, with much of his recent experience involved directly or indirectly with health related problems.

According to Dr. Trevathan, the health planning committee will work to promote and to assure the highest level of health attainable for those persons living in the Mid-East region. In order to achieve this goal, he added, "it is necessary for the providers and consumers of health services of the planning committee to work with other providers and consumers and reach an agreement on the health needs of the region, the goals and qualities of a health delivery program, and the proper health resources to develop to meet those health needs."

Wasson, according to Dr. Trevathan, will be responsible for developing the Comprehensive Health Planning Program in accordance with the guidelines and guidance of the comprehensive health planning committee.

Activities For Sunshine Girls

The Operation Sunshine girls this week made jump ropes, lemon pies, and life-sized paper dolls.

The jump ropes were made by weaving twine and searing the ends. Forrest Brown showed them how. Lynn Scarborough helped them make the pies. They made the paper dolls by tracing themselves on newsprint and then drawing in features and clothes and painting the pictures. Their self-portraits are posted throughout the Sunshine Center, located at the corner of Third and Pitt Streets here.

Accused Duo Black Capital In Custody Needs Stressed

Two men, charged with drug law violations in connection with a State Bureau of Investigation undercover operation in Pitt County which began last December were taken into custody in North Myrtle Beach, S.C. and returned to Greenville yesterday by SBI agents and Greenville Police.

Scott Van Have, 17 and Leonard Garry Martin, 22, both of Lake Placid, N.Y. were returned here yesterday by officers after being taken into custody by South Carolina officers on warrants issued here, Greenville Chief Glenn Cannon explained.

Van Have, according to Cannon, is charged with distribution of codeine while Martin is charged with distribution of codeine and marijuana. Bond for the two has been placed at $5,000 each.

The men were among a group of 19 individuals for whom warrants were issued following the SBI undercover operation. Fourteen of the defendants were taken into custody April 12 by state, city and county officers, while another was taken into custody in Moore County.

Schlitz Plant Workers Strike

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Workers are on strike at Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. plants in Winston-Salem and Memphis, Tenn.

Schlitz said in Milwaukee that it was still negotiating on a new contract for five plants to replace one which expired at midnight Monday.

The 400 strikers at Winston-Salem and the 350 at Memphis are represented by the National Conference of Brewery and Soft Drink Workers Union, an affiliate of the Teamsters.

The union also represents workers at Schlitz plants in Tampa, Fla.; Van Nuys, Calif., and Longview, Tex.

The union has asked wage increases and changes in job assignments.

RALEIGH (AP)—Black civil rights activist and Fayette, Miss. mayor Charles Evers said Tuesday night that capital is the major weapon blacks will need to enter the business world on an equal footing with whites.

Evers, 50, was in Raleigh to attend a banquet honoring Soul City founder Floyd McKissick at the first North Carolina Minority Enterprise Trade Fair.

The black community wants only its "share of the (economic) pie," he told the civic and business leaders gathered at the banquet.

Evers urged blacks to exhibit the courage and skill necessary to succeed financially and politically.

"We can't be jealous and envious of each other. We blacks have always had something to offer — we just never had the chance. When we get the chance, for God's sake, let's not pass it up," he said.

He also urged the federal Small Business Administration and banks to make it easier for black entrepreneurs to get loans.

"Americans respect political power and economic power. If we don't get some of that money and some of that vote, we're not going anywhere," Evers said.

"We as a race spend more money than any other once we have it to spend," Evers told reporters at a press conference earlier Tuesday.

"Black is beautiful — it's true — but you're ugly as hell if you're broke," he said.

Evers said he will definitely be a contender for the governor's seat in Mississippi in 1975. He ran as an independent for that post in 1971 and lost to Democrat William Waller.

The Democratic National Committee man also said he will back Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., for the Presidency in 1976. He said Brooke is the best qualified and most eligible man to inherit President Nixon's job.

Long-Range Phasing Out

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy decided four years ago to make the base cutbacks and realignments announced in Washington two weeks ago, says Navy Undersecretary Frank Sanders.

"This reduction was the result of a thoroughly thoughtout, deliberate decision that was made back in 1969," Sanders said in a speech Tuesday night.

"The Navy had a hard choice to make. We could go ahead with the needed modernization of our ships and aircraft, or we could maintain our numbers, but we could not do both."

Navy officials decided to continue a decade-long trend to reduce the fleet, Sanders said. He said the number of ships has dropped from 917 to 523 and aircraft from 5,000 to 3,900 in 10 years.

The phasing-out and consolidation of bases was part of that operation but "took longer to plan," Sanders said, "because it affected the lives of thousands of people and the economic well-being of scores of communities."

He maintained that the Navy is helping communities replace by the end of June all jobs eliminated in the cutbacks.

Rampants Surprise Wilson With 7-3 Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

WILSON — Rose High School's Rampants, with no pressure from the Division II race on them, ripped the Wilson Titans, 7-2, here yesterday, knocking their hosts out of first place in the Divisional standings.

Wilson went into the game tied for first place with Rocky Mount, both having sustained one loss. Wilson now must come back against the Gryphons on Friday if they are to have a chance at the league title.

Rose, meanwhile, still has a mathematical chance at sharing the title if they win their remaining games and Rocky Mount and Wilson cooperate by losing two of their remaining three games.

Rose pushed over a run in the first inning of mistakes of the Titans. With one down, Robert Brinkley drew a walk. After another walk, Stanley Cobb also got a walk. Grif Garner then hit a chopper in front of the plate, and Wilson's Clay Johnson picked it up and fired high to first, with Brinkley scoring on the overthrow for a 1-0 Rampant lead.

It was shortlived, however, as Wilson came back in the bottom of the inning to tie it up with an unearned run of their own. Robin Rose led off with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. With one down, Ricky Bass grounded to third. After the throw across the field to get Bass at first, Rose took off for third, and the relay back was high, and he came the rest of the way with the tying run.

The Rampants moved back ahead, this time for good in the second, pushing over three runs. Lee Cherry led off with a walk and Fred Lemmond sacrificed him up. With two down, Al Heath singled to left, scoring Cherry, who bowled over Titan catcher Stan Johnson, to slide home safely. Heath moved on to second on the play and scored when Brinkley singled to left. John Barwick followed with another hit, this one to right, bringing in Brinkley with the fourth Rampant run.

Wilson came back to threaten in the third. With one down, Rose walked and Doug Dickens singled, but Cobb struck out the next two batters to get out of that.

The Rampants then picked up three more in the fourth. Dickie Johnson bunted his way safely on board, and Mike Wallace came on to run for him after he had moved on to second when the ball was overthrown at first. Heath walked and Brinkley singled, driving in Wallace. Barwick followed with a single to center, scoring both Heath and Brinkley to up the lead to 7-1.

Rose had a light threat in the fifth when Cherry walked and was sacrificed up, but tied there. Just before walking, Cherry had connected to drive the ball out of the park down the left field line, but the umpire ruled the ball had gone foul just before going out. In the sixth, the Rampants threatened again when Heath led off with a double and moved to third on an out, but didn't score.

Wilson came back with its other run in the fifth, when they threatened to do much more.

Babe Ruth Opening

The Babe Ruth League open play tonight at 6:15 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium with a single game. The opener pits Home Builders against North Carolina National Bank.

Two other games will be played on Friday, with the first game at 6:15 p.m. The first is College View vs. Planters Bank, with Pepsi-Cola meeting Carolina Dairy in the second. All six league teams will be in action Saturday, with the first game at 4 p.m.

Billy Davis with a single and Rose walked. Dickens singled to left, loading the bases. Bass hit a sacrifice fly to right to lad them again. Cobb bore down, however, fanning the next batter to end the inning.

Cherry came on in relief in the sixth, and Wilson used two errors in the seventh to threaten again. Bass reached on one miscue, and Johnson on another before the Titans were finally retired.

Farmville Central Captures 3-1 Victory Over Faltering Conley

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings suffered another setback yesterday as they saw the Jaguars of Farmville Central rally for two runs in the sixth and add another in the seventh to take a 3-1 win over Conley.

The Vikings had scored first but the two Jag tallies in the sixth won it for the Farmville team, their seventh win of the year against five losses. Conley has now lost four and rops a full game back of loop-leading C.B. Aycock, which is 7-2.

For the most part, the game was a battle between Conley hurler, Vic Corey and FC's Bobby Daniels. Both pitchers went all the way with Daniels getting credit for the win. He struck out three, walked one and gave up four Viking hits. Corey fanned five, walked two and scattered five hits.

Conley set Farmville Central down in order in the top of the first and then broke open the scoring with a single run in their half of the frame. Clennell Streeter slapped a one-out single back up the middle and moved to third when Willie Streeter's grounder was errored. Clennell Streeter scored on Cleve Averette's sacrifice fly.

The Jaguars put a man on third in the second as Barry Johnson bashed a triple to right. He could not score. In the third, Glen Dwyer led off with a hit and stole second but Corey struck out the side leaving Dwyer stranded. Conley threatened to put up another run in the third as Eugene Forrest reached on an error and was sacrificed up. Clennell Streeter walked but a pair of pop-ups ended the inning.

Farmville Central gave the Vikings a scare in the fifth as they loaded them up. Jeff Cobb struck out but the ball got by the Viking catcher and Cobb beat the throw to first. After Cobb stole up, Ed Wells reached on an error that moved Cobb to third. Tommy Cobb walked to fill the bases but a ground out ended the attempt.

Although they failed to score in the fifth, the inning had whetted the Jaguars' appetite for a score and they pushed over a pair to take the lead in the sixth. Barry Johnson slapped a one-out hit to left and moved onto second when the leftfielder could not find the handle. Daniels reached on an error moving Johnson to third and an error Dwyer's ground ball scored him with the tying run.

Cobb walked to load the bases and Wells reached on the fourth error of the frame and that scored Daniels with the go-ahead run.

Willie Streeter opened the Conley half with a double but saw the next two Vikings go down. Keith Gould was hit by a pitch but a fly out left them standing on the bases.

The Jags added an insurance run in the last inning as Bobby Wooten singled and Tony Oakley walked. Daniels was hit by a pitch to load them up and a sacrifice by Dwyer drove in Wooten.

Aycock Tops Greene Central

PIKEVILLE—C. B. Aycock High School gained a 6-1 victory over Greene Central High School yesterday in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Aycock continued to hold onto the lead in the conference with the victory.

The Falcons scored first, pushing over a run in the first. Richard Lancaster doubled and scored on a single by Terry Durham.

In the second, Greene Central scored its only run. Bobby Supel reached on an error and was sacrificed up. Barry Anderson walked and Stevie Williamson got a hit to score Supel.

Aycock broke the tie with a run in the third. Lancaster again doubled, then scored on a single by Tommy Herndon.

In the fifth, Aycock put it out of reach with four more. Jay Edgerton singled and Darwin Pittman walked. Lancaster singled in Edgerton and Durham was intentionally walked. Terry McFatter then doubled to clear the bases.

Durham, in tossing the win, scattered three hits, struck out 13 and walked two.

Williamson had two of the three Ram hits, struck out 13 and walked two.

Williamson had two of the three Ram hits, while Lancaster had three for Aycock.

Greene Central travels to Farmville Central today.

Lakers Survive Late NY Rally

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman called for his defending champion Los Angeles Lakers to improve if they hope to beat the tenacious New York Knicks who nearly overcame a 20-point deficit Tuesday night.

Opening the National Basketball Association championship playoffs, the Lakers surged to a 93-73 lead at the Forum with just 1 minute 12 seconds left in the third quarter.

Then the Knicks came roaring back, finally losing 115-112. "That was one of the most frustrating games I ever had to watch," Sharman declared, adding:

"I think we caught them a little tired and if we expect to win this series, we are going to have to have better movement and get the ball down the court quicker."

Wilt Chamberlain controlled the backboards for the Lakers and forced the Knicks into outside shooting where they didn't start hitting until the fourth quarter. Then Dave DeBusschere and Bill Bradley scored nine and eight points, respectively, to lead the comeback.

Overall, DeBusschere was the losers' leading scorer with 25 points but he commented, "The fact we closed to within three points makes no difference. The fact remains that we are 0-1."

The second game in the best-of-7 final series will be played at the Forum again Thursday night at 7:30 p.m., PDT, with another capacity crowd of 17,505 assured.

Jerry West led the Lakers at the start and Gail Goodrich paced the second half when West got into foul trouble. He fouled out finally in the fourth quarter, the first time since 1970 that he has collected six fouls.

Goodrich scored 30, Jim McMillian 27 and West 24. Chamberlain tallied 12 but more importantly, he hauled down 20 rebounds and blocked seven shots.

Jamesville In Win Over Bears

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School rolled to a 4-0 victory over Bear Grass in the Martin County Conference yesterday.

The game turned into a pitching duel between Bear Grass' Keith Williams and Jamesville's Curtis Ange much of the way. Williams scattered four hits, struck out eight but walked five and hit two. Ange fanned nine, walked one and also allowed four hits.

Bear Grass, however, had only one threat, getting a man as far as second only once.

Jamesville broke the scoreless tie in the third with three runs. Jerry Ange singled and Rucky Dickerson tripled him in. Kevin Holiday walked and Gurkin Martin singled in Dickerson. Eric Martin walked and Ronnie Padgett hit a sacrifice fly to score Holiday.

In the fourth, the Bullets

Only Good News Was Church League Opens Pirates Sign For San Francisco

With Six Games Played Another Cager

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Bill Virdon of the Pittsburgh Pirates got some bad news Tuesday night ... and then he got some worse news.

First the bad news: Virdon was ejected by umpire Doug Harvey with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth inning for protesting ball-and-strike calls.

Now the worse news: With Virdon en route to the clubhouse, Bobby Bonds slammed a three-run double that capped a seven-run explosion and lifted the San Francisco Giants to a stunning 8-7 triumph over the slumping Pirates.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs trounced Los Angeles 9-5, Montreal outslugged Atlanta 9-6 despite a pair of home runs by Hank Aaron, Houston blanked Philadelphia 3-0 as Jerry Reuss outdueled Steve Carlton and San Diego pounded St. Louis 10-5. The New York Mets and Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled.

American League scores: Chicago 6, Baltimore 5; New York 6, Kansas City 1; Milwaukee 4, Oakland 3; California 6, Detroit 2 and Texas 7, Boston 6. The Cleveland-Minnesota game was rained out.

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose was breezing along with a five-hitter and a 7-1 lead when he walked Bonds to open the ninth. But he recovered to get a pair of forceouts and it appeared as though the Pirates would snap their five-game losing streak.

Moose issued two more walks and pinch hitter Chris Arnold tagged reliever Ramon Hernandez for a grand slam home run. Gary Matthews followed with a double and Hernandez loaded the bases with two more walks. That got Dave Giusti in ... and Virdon out.

Bonds tagged a 2-2 pitch up the alley in left-center as Matthews, Dave Rader and Jimmy Howarth all raced home.

Fourth-inning home runs by Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Jose Cardenal powered the Cubs over Los Angeles. It was Chicago's fourth win in a row and boosted them into a first-place tie with the idle Mets in the NL East, the first time since June 24, 1970—except for opening day—they've been that high.

Fred Kendall and Dave Campbell each drove in three runs and Nate Colbert doubled home two more as San Diego trounced hapless St. Louis. It was the Cards' 16th defeat in 19 games and their seventh loss on the road, where they have yet to win.

The Padres snapped a 3-3 tie with six runs in the fifth inning off Scipio Spinks and Wayne Granger. Derrel Thomas drove in the tie-breaking run with a single and Colbert's double sent two more runs across.

Pinch hitter Hal Breeden's tie-breaking infield hit with the bases loaded and Ron Hunt's single accounted for three runs in the eighth inning and led Montreal over Atlanta despite the 679th and 680th career homers by Aaron.

Darrell Evans' three-run homer in the sixth gave the Braves a 5-4 lead but the Expos went in front 6-5 in the seventh when Tim Foli singled and Mike Jorgensen homered.

Jim Wynn's fifth-inning homer gave Houston's Reuss the only run he needed to beat Philadelphia and the Astros added a pair in the seventh, the second coming when Wynn was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on a single by Hector Torres.

Tom Quinn, head basketball coach at East Carolina University, announced recently that Donnie Owens has been awarded a grant-in-aid to play basketball at East Carolina University.

Owens, the son of Mrs. Mary Nell Owens of Etoile, Ky., has played the past two seasons at Florida College at Temple Terrace, Fla.

A 6-1 guard, Owens was the most valuable player both years at Florida College and was named All-Conference both seasons. He also made three All-Tournament teams and had the best free throw percentage in the Florida Junior College Conference last season.

Owens played for Temple Hill High School where he was the most valuable player for two seasons, all-conference two seasons and all-regional. He also played in the Kentucky All-Star game.

"Owens is a typical Kentucky style guard," said Quinn in making the announcement. "He is a good shooter, good ball handler and is good on the fast break. He adds experience to our backcourt which lost four seniors via graduation. He should help us in playmaking and scoring."

Owens is the third basketball player awarded a grant-in-aid to play for East Carolina this year.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Avoid getting stirred up about a property matter today, otherwise a bitter argument is possible. Analyze where you stand financially and think of the most practical ways to overcome handicaps. Don't consult experts at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although you may feel a financial lack, take no chances with unwise investments. Stick to the accepted methods and all works out fine. Do nothing unwise emotionally. Relax tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't get into an argument with one you think is deterring you from gaining personal aims, since you could be in error. A day to exercise much self-control. Stop being so demanding with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although you feel imposed upon, don't get into arguments or matters could get worse. Being alert to conditions around you could prevent an unfortunate happening. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Steer clear of those friends who don't see eye to eye with one another, or you could get caught in the middle of an unpleasant situation. Don't become involved in an argument.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take no risks where your good name is concerned and take no chances with debating in public. Political involvement is not good now, since others are arguing too much. Engage in your hobby.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new thoughts and ideas that are progressive, but don't give up present methods. Study every angle for possible use in the future. Avoid one who gossips too much. Be calm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Not a good day to talk over monetary affairs with others, but tomorrow is fine. Avoid the possibility of getting into arguments. Come to a better understanding with mate in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although an associate is difficult, don't lose your temper or there could be added trouble. Get those promises of a public nature handled properly. Do nothing that could hurt others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You find that some co-workers are not in a good mood, but don't upbraid them. Try not to work so hard that your health is endangered. Be moderate in all that you do today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can have fun but it is important that you stay within your budget or you could regret it later. Your mate is in a bad mood, so try to be more cooperative. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to do anything that could upset others at home or there could be a big argument there. A social affair should be postponed until a better time. Do some studying tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much care in motion is important or you could get into trouble. Think before you speak. Show that you are peaceful, kind and gentle with others. Avoid one who is a terrible gossip.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who likes to argue. At an early age teach to work with hands and read more so this excessive energy is properly channelled. Self-discipline should be taught early, or your youngster could go off on tangents that could lead to trouble. Give as much religious training as you can. Sports will be helpful.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

College Program Is Aimed At Veterans

By GARY LUHR
Associated Press Writer

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A member of President Nixon's task force on higher education for Vietnam era veterans thinks colleges' efforts to attract veterans too often "end at the admissions office."

"Veterans have the maturity and motivation (to succeed in college) but often lack academic self confidence," said Dennis Love, dean of developmental studies at Pikeville College.

Since coming to Kentucky, the 30-year-old Ohio native has spent part of his time traveling to other schools promoting programs "to get the veteran back on his feet."

"It's a matter of saying to the veteran, 'College is not as hard as you think,'" Love said.

At Pikeville, this effort is known as the Veterans Educational Training Program, a study skills course that covers such basics as how to take notes, how to outline a textbook, how to listen in class and how to prepare for examinations.

"A lot of veterans went into the army because they flunked out of college or because they couldn't get in in the first place," Love said.

"Many saw the army as a means of upward mobility but a lot of them came back without any usable skills," he said.

The most recent figures from Frankfort listed about 16,000 unemployed veterans in Kentucky.

"The biggest problem (in getting veterans to college) is reaching them," Love said.

In many places, he said veterans who have already returned to college are working in outreach programs. "But even they are having trouble reaching other vets," he said.

Traditional methods aren't working, he said. Among new methods he described is a mobile van in Detroit that visits neighborhoods where returning veterans live. Another includes advertising in "want ad" columns, "which is often the only thing a veteran is reading these days," he said.

"The Veterans Administration is doing all it can. The states, the cities and the colleges themselves have to do more," Love said.

Before coming to Pikeville, Love headed a similar veterans program at the University of Detroit. There, he said, veterans who took his course averaged grades that were twice as good as those who didn't.

Love said a class predominantly for veterans serves another purpose in that it gives them a chance to talk about mutual problems and experiences.

This is especially important, he said, because unlike previous postwar periods there no longer are large, easily identifiable groups of veterans on campuses.

Experience Is 'Compressed'

CHICO, Calif. (UPI) — Using a computer, a course simulating several years of business operations compressed into a few weeks of classes is being offered at Chico State University.

Students assume top management roles in hypothetical firms which compete for profits, offer market shares and engage in other business operations. Grades are based on the student's self-evaluation of his firm's performance and his contribution to the company's progress.

Cymbal-Making In The Family

By RODNEY PRIDER
ISTANBUL (AP)—What do the Grenadier Guards, Armenian churches, jazz bands and Carnegie Hall have in common? They all use cymbals — tinkling thin ones, clashing big ones — and they all use cymbals made in Istanbul by a family which has been making them since the early 17th century.

The Zilcan family has been at work since 1623, producing nothing but the finest cymbals, from a formula handed down from father to son and still kept a solemn secret. They make their own alloy, cast their own molds, and hammer, batter scrape and polish them into the final product, which they treat as tenderly as hi-fi fans treat their most cherished records.

The end product, they say, is the best in the world, and the list of customers is impressive. Some 2,000 to 3,000 pairs are exported each year, most of them to America, at prices ranging from $20 to $100.

The Zilcans, an Armenian family, have only a small share of the world cymbal market, and the American branch of the family, established at Weymouth, Mass., for the past 50 years produces many more than are made here.

The Zilcans attribute the quality of their instruments to their secret formula, and the fact that all the stages, including mixing the alloy of copper and tin, are done in the same workshop.

The workshop is a one-room, high-roofed shed in the slums outside the 4th-century city walls of Istanbul, where it stands cheek by jowl with live animal traders, auto repair shops and fitters and turners.

Inside, nine workmen, some Turks and some Armenians, hammer and hone and burnish and polish. The noise they create makes conversation below a bellow impossible.

"The finer tuning is done at the end of the day, when the noise stops," shouted Kerop Zilcan, 60, the cousin of the present owner Mikhail, 65.

The cymbals come in four thicknesses — paper-thin, thin, medium, and medium-thick, and in any number of diameters from 10 inches to 24 inches, depending on the specification of the buyer. The paper-thin and thin cymbals are used by dance-bands, the medium by symphony orchestras, and the thick by military bands such as that of the Grenadier Guards.

The firm of Toledo Brothers handles the orders and the exporting, and their representative calls each night at the workshop to collect the 20 or so cymbals produced during the day.

These have to be picked up gingerly by the edges — touch one and the perspiration has to be immediately rubbed off with a rag or the tone will be spoiled, Kerop Zilcan said.

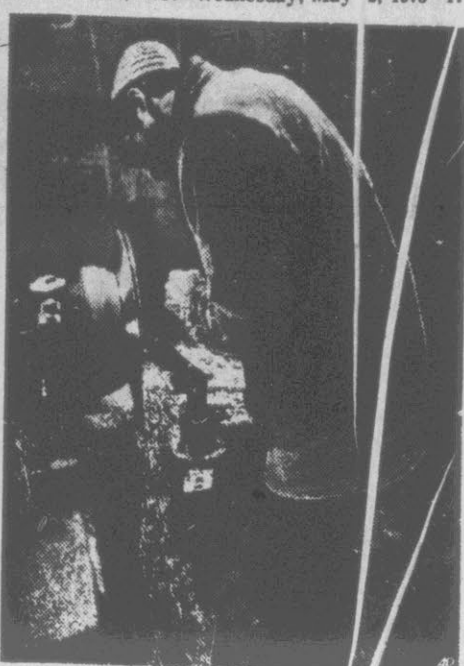

The Zilcan family cannot trace their origins back to pre-history, but they still have records to show they were producing cymbals for the "Meh-tar" bands of the Ottoman army's Jannissary corps, which terrified the armies of Europe with their shrill pipes and clashing cymbals. More peacefully, they still provide the Armenian Patriarchal church here with the cymbals used to accompany the choir at the Liturgy.

Cymbals have been in use as musical instruments since the Bronze Age, and are probably the oldest musical instruments man has. Primitive tribes in New Guinea and Australia use a wide variety of objects — stones, shells and sticks to clash together to maintain the rhythm for their songs, and these certainly pre-date primitive wind instruments made from hollow branches and the much later stringed instruments made from animal sinews.

The Zilcan family cannot trace their origins back to pre-history, but they still have records to show they were producing cymbals for the "Meh-tar" bands of the Ottoman army's Jannissary corps, which terrified the armies of Europe with their shrill pipes and clashing cymbals. More peacefully, they still provide the Armenian Patriarchal church here with the cymbals used to accompany the choir at the Liturgy.

Runs 80 Miles In 24 Hours

FREDERICIA, Denmark (UPI) — Journalist Preben Skjoedt ran 80 miles nonstop in 24 hours and claimed a world record. He stopped only for a couple of 30-second intervals for massage and was greeted with champagne and a hot bath after the feat, which took place on a cold and blustery February day.

MUSIC MAKERS — The Zilcan family in Istanbul has been making cymbals since 1623. The formula they use is handed down from father to son and still is kept a solemn secret. In the two pictures above, a workman is shown working on a cymbal and holding the finished product.

Cymbals, it seems, wear out in time, and there is a constantly growing demand from newly-formed orchestras, especially school orchestras, which keeps the trade going. The present owner of the factory has no son to carry on the trade, but a nephew, also called Mikhail, who is currently studying in Paris, is to take over the business.

More Choose A Vacation Of Camping

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — All estimates are that more Americans than ever will choose camping vacations this year. It has become a holiday way of life for more and more Americans of all ages.

There's no doubt about it, camping can be fun. And it can save money at the same time. But the wise would-be camper plans ahead. Not to do so may spoil a grand vacation.

Nothing can be more frustrating, for instance, than to pull in to a campground at twilight and be told that it is "filled up." Usually another campground is not within easy driving distance so the family has to put up at a motel and hope for better luck the next day.

Each year, as the number of campers has multiplied, more campgrounds have been constructed. But there still are not enough to take care of the peak vacation-time load.

Plan Ahead
Campers should always plan ahead by mapping their trip and making reservations for overnight stops, especially in mid-summer. It is wiser to go camping before the Fourth of July and after Labor Day when campgrounds are much less crowded.

Outdoor camping has many things to recommend it. It is much more economical for a family of four or five to spend a vacation camping than at a resort. Most campgrounds charge less than $4 a night, including electric hookups. Some camps offer free movies or organized activities such as hayrides and square dancing or hiking expeditions.

There are drawbacks. Rain can spoil a day in a camp. So can bees and mosquitoes. But veteran campers get used to bad weather and insects.

Many newcomers will go camping this year if for no other reason than to fight inflation and the higher cost of living. Some of them will foolishly buy recreation vehicles and find at the end of the season that they really don't like camping after all.

Expensive Models
Recreation vehicles are ideal for big families who plan to spend every vacation on the road. The more expensive models have toilets, showers and bathtubs built in and they pay for themselves in five years or less depending on how often they are used.

The beginning camper should hold off on a recreation vehicle and start with a tent, which will pay for itself in savings in one summer. Fancy tents are expensive but sturdy and roomy ones can be purchased for less than $100.

Before going on the first camping trip, the father of the family should set up the tent in his backyard, if the yard is large enough, or plan an afternoon outing in a place where the tent can be erected. The beginner should never wait until he gets to the campsite to put up a tent for the first time.

The original outlay also should include sleeping bags and cots, flashlights and lanterns, a propane stove, pots and pans, paper plates, a habachi and charcoal, insect repellants and first aid kits.

Tents should be pitched on fairly level ground. A slight slope is preferable because rain will drain away from the tent.

It is not necessary to buy a refrigerator because plastic ice chests will serve the same purpose. Block ice, which can be bought near any campground, will last much longer than cubes or crushed ice.

A camper should be able to tell at the end of his first trip whether he enjoys this kind of living. And if he is thinking of camping permanently then he can put his money in a recreation vehicle that has almost all of the conveniences of home—although many an avid outdoorsman will say that takes the fun out of camping!

Slow To Enjoy Chicken Dinner

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Although chickens were introduced into Egypt in 1500 B.C., they were not used as food for another 2,000 years, says a University of California researcher.

Louis Grivetti, a doctoral candidate in cultural geography, reached his conclusion during a study of the burial places of ancient rulers.

The smell of mothballs is repulsive to squirrels.

Mexico City Pawnshop Offers Unusual Array

By MARK McHARRY.
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Little did Aztec emperor Montezuma dream the site of his magnificent palace in Tenochtitlan would one day be a pawnshop. But it is and has grown to be Mexico's National Monte de Piedad, or national charity fund, with 28 branches encompassing all sorts of social services for the needy as well as functioning as a pawnshop. The Monte de Piedad is patronized by tourist and Mexican alike in need of money or in search of a bargain. Middle and lower-class bureaucrats make use of the Monte to pick up some quick cash to pay for a short holiday, or pawn an item when returning from a vacation to get money to live on until payday. Founded in 1775, the head office of the Monte de Piedad is a grandiose colonial structure built by Hernan Cortes after his conquistadores seized the Aztec empire. The cavernous building is full of new and used merchandise, its high-ceilinged, narrow corridors gloomily lit by bare lights and serving also as temporary storage for some of the bigger items. A walk through Monte reveals its pawnshop-department store-market heritage transformed into something unique. One room is full of new washing machines and stoves, with guarantee tags hanging neatly from each item. Across the hall a room stacked with machine parts, featuring well-used welding units and a commodious barber's chair, has packages of dainty dolls in its window. The radio section — where one radio which lists for $30 new in the States is $52 used here due to high import duties — also has an obstetrical table. While such luxury goods as cameras and radios are fairly costly in Mexico, watches, the No. 1 item of all pawnshops, can be picked up fairly cheap. Some of the more unusual items are 19th-century pistols for $20 or swords for $25. Furniture seekers at the Monte can buy fairly stylish pieces, nicely broken in, for a lot less than new. The Monte aims at selling its new goods below market prices, so those whose Spanish isn't good enough to brave the markets could find good buys here. All new items come directly from manufacturers. Here comparison with conventional pawnshops should end, for unlike most, Monte's interest is not in accumulating money or in its customers, but in the poor it serves. National pawnshops got their start in Persia in 1450 and were imported to Italy by Lorenzo de Medici's son, Pope Leo X, 75 years later. Their use was then, as now, to provide a way for the poor to take out loans without having to go to usurious money lenders.

Spanish Count Don Pedro Romero de Telleros, who made his fortune in a Mexican silver mine, founded the present-day Monte with a capital of $24,000. According to Director of Information Antonio Mora, the enterprise now boasts some $36 million capital with an average of $1,600 in loans made daily. Owners of pawned items are given up to 10 months to pay back their debts, paying a two per cent monthly interest on their balance, quite good for Mexico, where interest rates are generally high. If they default in the interest payments, or don't repay the loan, the item is placed on sale.

Monte has no limits on what is accepted. Anything and everything, Mora said, excluding perishables, can be pawned. In 1971, Monte accepted a precious stone worth over a quarter of a million dollars, giving its owner an $80,000 loan. The gem was redeemed. But such transactions are unusual. "Our first interest is directed to the needy," Mora says, and "social assistance is the justification of our existence." Monte uses its profits to pay for a variety of beneficial works, among them a private elementary school, a college of social work, five "social assistance centers" with medical facilities and day care centers, an old age home and about 100,000 free meals monthly.

In the social work school, one of the subjects taught is how to organize group discussions on topics such as sex education, family planning, alcoholism and drug abuse. The emphasis is on the "development of the personality."

Naturally, an unconventional store has its special problems. One of these is the "coyotes," unscrupulous vendors who stand outside the Monte trying to pawn off shoddy, or sometimes stolen, merchandise at inflated prices. The coyotes, who "constitute a true danger to the economy of the people," according to a Monte bulletin, are being eliminated with the help of the civil authorities. Those the Monte considers tame enough are invited inside, where, along with local artisans, they can display their wares at fixed prices for an eight-cent fee, with the organization taking a two per cent commission.

Zero Breakage Now Predicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lighter glass bottles and jars with "zero breakage" were predicted by Richard L. Cheney, a consultant to the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, in a talk accepting the glass industry's Phoenix Award for outstanding service.

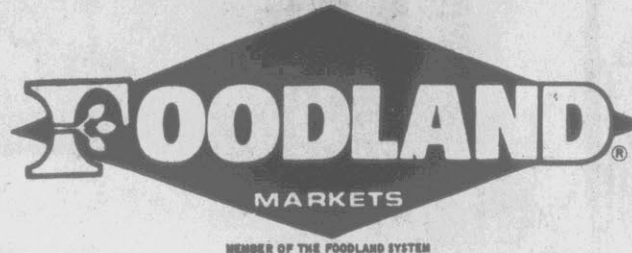

Cheney said that because of this, as well as the abundance of raw materials of which glass is made, more and more glass will be used as a replacement for containers made of other materials. He said "the new attributes of zero breakage and lighter weight, added to the chemical inertness, transparency, impermeability and lack of odor and taste of glass," will produce better containers for packaged goods.

The 'Worry Clinic' Avert Divorce By Psychology

Marie's complaint shows the all too common modern tendency to pass the buck. Instead of going from pillar to post, face the music and learn to solve your own sexual problems. On this printed page you learn the specific formulae for happy homes!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE W-593: Marie F., aged 33, is facing a sexual crisis. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I wrote to a popular woman's advice columnist and she was sympathetic but urged me to consult a local Marriage Counselor.

"But I live in a small town and hesitate to do that.
"Besides, you are a double doctor and thus tell people exactly what to do, right in your newspaper column.
"So how can I prevent a divorce?"

"We have 3 children in grammar school and I had thought ours was an ideal marriage.
"But now I find that my husband is running around with a 20-year-old secretary in his office.
"He admits he had an affair with her while the children and I were away for a week's visit with their grandparents.

"And he has quit kissing me or showing any affection, so I feel crushed.
"Should I give him a divorce, as he has suggested?"

Erotic Delirium
When a person has a high fever, he may become delirious and talk "out of his head."
Well, erotic delirium is also a very real ailment and affects millions of husbands whose boudoir relations with their wives have grown stodgy and prosaic!

The odds almost invariably favor the wife if she will just play her cards seductively and follow this prescription:

(1) Tactfully stall for time and don't even mention a divorce.
(2) Reassure yourself with the fact that most husbands, even when chasing around with a paramour, still state they'd much rather have an "affair" with their wives, if the latter would serve equally enticing boudoir cheesecake.
(3) Men are generally much more erotic than women, so they often become panicky as they realize they are no longer as ardent with their wives as during the first year or two after the wedding.

Whereas they exceeded their brides by maybe a 4 to 1 ratio at the time of the honeymoon, they may now have declined to 2 to 1. That's still far more than the usual wife craves.
But it seems like a shocking reduction to the husband, who soon begins to wonder if he may not be slipping into a senile, sexless age bracket prematurely.
That's when he may look elsewhere, not because he loves the paramour, but just to reassure himself that the old zip and zest haven't been snuffed out entirely.

(4) So you wives of straying mates must not indulge in nagging and belittling remarks, calling him a heel and a rotter, for then you will not inflate his ego as much as the cooling paramour who praises him to the sky.

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT" is the tattoo on every man's chest, so if you deflate him while the rival siren boosts his vanity, naturally he will want to go where he obtains the most ego inflation.
(5) Fight fire with fire, meaning exceed the paramour's

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, May 2, 1973—21
brand of boudoir cheesecake.
Slenderize; adopt diaphanous nighties and a new brand of perfume; disrobe seductively; and act gay even though you feel your heart is breaking.
And if he doesn't come to you, go to him and wage a seductively aggressive campaign, for men much prefer their own wives if the latter offer them as delightful cheesecake as the paramour!

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♣ Pass
4 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♥

The above hand produced a substantial swing when it was dealt in a recent team-of-four contest. The auction was identical at both tables and South became the declarer at a final contract of four spades.

West opened the king of hearts, at one table, continued with the ace and then a third round putting South in with the queen. Declarer led a small spade, West followed with the three and the jack was played from dummy. The six of spades was returned and, when East showed out, South played the queen to dislodge West's ace.

West switched to a club which declarer won in his hand with the jack and another spade lead enabled the latter to successfully finesse North's nine and then pick up the ten with the king.

The dummy was high and South had restricted his losses on the deal to two hearts and one spade.

At the other table the play began in an identical fashion. West observed, however, that if he merely permitted nature to take its course, he would end up with only three tricks on the deal—and South would score a profit.

Therefore, when the four of spades was led at trick four, he followed suit with the eight, concealing the three. When dummy's jack won the trick, South had something to think about. If the spades were divided three-two, it did not matter what declarer did next. If they were four-one, however, then he must determine which way to play the suit.

If West has four spades headed by the ace-ten, a small spade must be led from the dummy next. West's play of the eight led declarer to believe that East was more apt to have four trumps and was holding off with the ace in order to steer his opponent off the track.

In order to protect himself against a trump concentration on his right, South continued with the king of spades from dummy. If East played the ace and West showed out, declarer could lead thru the ten-three subsequently and pick up the suit.

When East showed out, West's subterfuge was revealed; however, it was too late for the declarer, and he was obliged to concede two tricks and a grudging congratulation to the resourceful defender.

One Injured House Resuming Debate In Accidents On New Primary Date

An estimated $2,450 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported William Elijah Hudson Jr., 16, of 1709 Knollwood Dr. was injured when a car he was driving collided with an auto operated by Donna Lynne Bunch, 16, of 119 North Woodlawn Ave. about 7:40 p.m. on Hagsdale Road 32 feet South of the Umstead Avenue intersection.

Damage to the vehicles was set at $900 each by investigators who charged Miss Bunch with operating left of center.

Nora Hinnant Craft of Ayden was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of a 12:25 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets.

Police reported the Craft vehicle collided with a car driven by Lillie Bullock Randolph of Route 6, Greenville causing an estimated $300 damage to the Randolph auto and about $350 damage to the Craft car.

Calls For More Pollution Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill introduced Tuesday by Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., WOULD GIVE North Carolina at least $52 million more to control water pollution than is now planned.

It would require that no state receive less for water pollution control in fiscal 1973 and 1974 than it received in fiscal 1972.

North Carolina's funds were sharply cut by the 1972 Water Pollution Control Act, which substituted a need criterion for the old population formula.

RALEIGH (AP) — The House was to resume debate today on a bill which would change the date of North Carolina's primary election from early May to the third Tuesday in June.

An amendment by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford to set the primary date on the Tuesday after the first Monday in September was being debated.

Former Justice Raps 'Screening'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren says a proposal to screen cases before they reach the Supreme Court "is fraught with practical, jurisdictional and constitutional problems of the first magnitude."

A study group appointed by Warren's successor, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, has proposed screening by a seven-judge tribunal to trim the high court's work load.

But Warren told the Bar Association of the City of New York that "in more than 40 years the court has never had a backlog."

"I have abiding faith in the ability of the Supreme Court to take whatever internal steps are necessary to maintain a firm control of its docket and to see that equal and speedy justice is accorded to all who come before it," he added.

DRIVE PROGRESSES

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Wake Forest University has announced receipt of $2.3 million in cash and pledges in its drive for $8.59 million for endowment, a fine arts building and renovation of two buildings.

Tuesday when the House approved a motion by Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, to adjourn.

Johnson said other House members were waiting to offer other amendments to the bill which has twice been to the House floor and returned to the House Elections Committee.

Jones said the purpose of his amendment "is to place the primary nearer the general election, in order to cut down on the length of the campaign and on the costs of a campaign."

He added, "We don't want to vote in June or July because of vacations and we don't want May because we might still be in session then."

Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, said he favored a September primary date but it would create "some real problems."

A September primary date, he explained, might make it necessary to eliminate second primaries and absentee voting and turn over to the counties the job of printing general election ballots.

In other legislative developments Tuesday:

The Senate Transportation Committee tacked on several amendments and approved a House-passed bill to reorganize the state highway department.

The House Air and Water Resources Committee approved a Senate-passed sedimentation pollution control bill after removing a provision giving any citizen the right to sue the state to enforce the bill's provisions.

The House voted 77-25 to approve a measure which would amend the North Carolina Constitution to reduce from 21 to 18 the age at which a person could run for any state office except governor and lieutenant governor. The minimum age for those offices is 30. The amendment would be submitted to voters next Nov. 6.
