By-The-Drink Referendum Okay Expected

By REESE HART Associated Press Writer RALEIGH (AP) - The Senate was expected to enact legislation today clearing the way for a referendum in North Carolina next Nov. 6 on the sale of liquor by the drink.

Opponents prophesied the bill would pass. Some who voted for it said they did so because they felt the people should have a right to express their view at the polls.

request of the county board of commissioners or by petition of 20 per cent of the registered voters. The request would be made to the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

the registered voters. Mixed drinks could be sold in licensed Class A restaurants with a minimum seating of 36, social establishments and convention centers.

He raised a question about the bill discriminating against restaurants which have a seating capacity of less than 36.

quor." The measure was termed "a piece of trickery, a foot in the door" by Sen. Reid Poovey, R-Catawba.

Although the bill does not say so, it was generally understood that if a new four-year medical school is created it would be at East Carolina University.

Approval of the measure came after a brief discussion during which Rep. John R. Gamble Jr., D-Lincoln, the only physician in the General Assembly, said that North Carolina's shortage of doctors will become more serious unless a new medical school is established.

Food Prices Off In April

WASHINGTON (AP) Wholesale prices of food and farm products declined in April for the first time in six months but the drop was more than offset by the biggest jump in industrial prices in 22 years.

The decrease in prices for processed foods and farm products was led by a 2.9 per cent drop in meat prices, apparently reflecting the effects of the recent nationwide consumers meat boycott and President Nixon's ceiling on meat prices.

But the prices on a broad range of industrial raw materials rose 1.4 per cent, the largest monthly increase since January 1951, said the Labor department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The industrial commodities index is regarded as a truer measure of inflation than food prices as it is less affected by seasonal changes.

Over-all, wholesale prices rose eight-tenths of one per cent in April, a significant jump but below the record 2.2 per cent increase in March.

Wholesale prices usually are later reflected in higher retail prices. The increase was a little higher—one per cent—on a seasonally adjusted basis. Farm products and processed foods increased one-tenth of 1 per cent seasonally and industrial raw materials 1.3 per cent on that basis.

The President said Wednesday in tightening Phase 3 economic controls that price increases "will probably be higher than we would like for some months" but added that Americans "should be mature enough to recognize that there is no instant remedy for this problem."

The BLS said the wholesale price index rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 17.3 per cent over the past six months, sharpest six-month jump since the Korean War inflationary period of 1951.

"Prices in the last three months of the period rose more than in the first three months, reflecting an acceleration in prices of industrial commodities," the government said.

The April increase pushed the wholesale price index up to 130.7, meaning that it cost wholesalers on the average $30.70 more for goods worth $100 in the 1967 base period. This was 11.2 per cent above a year ago.

Lebanon Fighting Spreads

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Tank cannons pounded high-rise apartment buildings today and army-guerrilla fighting spread north of this shell-torn capital, as President Suleiman Franjeh vowed he would not tolerate a Palestinian "occupation army" in Lebanon.

A group of 500 guerrillas was reported battling massed army troops at a Palestinian refugee camp at Dbaye, five miles north of Beirut. Witnesses said some of the guerrillas had occupied a monastery near the camp to escape army mortar and tank fire.

Attempts to enforce a shaky cease-fire, negotiated before dawn and announced again at noon, appeared unsuccessful.

Heavy fighting and shell fire raged at the Tel Zatar refugee camp in the eastern sector of Beirut.

Casualty figures were not available for today's fighting but Palestinian radio broadcasts said 22 guerrillas were killed and 99 wounded Wednesday. They said 10 to 13 Palestinian civilians died and an unknown number were wounded.

Lebanese casualties were not announced.

The other, sponsored by Sen. Cy Bahakel, D-Mecklenburg, was removed at his request. It would have required that mixed drinks sold in motels and hotels

Street Work

RALEIGH - Barrus Construction of Kinston has been awarded the contract for 1.15 miles of improvements on Cotanche and Charles Streets in Greenville.

The contract was awarded during the State Highway Commissioners meeting here yesterday.

The project, from Tenth Street southeasterly to the U.S. 264 bypass, includes widening of Cotanche Street to Charles Street between 11th and 12th Streets and the widening of Charles Street from 12th Street to the U.S. 264 bypass.

The low bid for the project totaled $504, 625.73.

Fires In Carteret

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—Firefighters battled to bring the last of four forest fires under control today in a remote area of northeastern Carteret County about 12 miles northeast of Morehead City.

A spokesman for the North Carolina Forest Service, Harold Grady, said about 20 ground personnel, aided by five tractors and three airplanes, were trying to quell the last blaze, which was burning on about 15 acres of land.

Grady said the fires, which so far have charred about 550 acres, began late Wednesday morning on lands owned by International Paper Co. and Weyerhaeuser. He said he believed the fires may have been intentionally set.

Grady said efforts to put out the fires were hampered by the remoteness of the area along the Neuse River. He said there were no roads into some of the areas and that equipment had to be floated across the river,

Supplemental

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $2.85-billion supplemental measure - the last of the big money bills for the current fiscal year was cleared today by the House Appropriations Committee for action by the full House next week.

The fiscal year ends June 30. The bill's total is $307 million less than President Nixon requested. If approved without change, it would boost to about $175-billion new funds voted by Congress for the expiring fiscal year.

- Large allotments in the final bill include:
$899 million for increased pay costs.
$614 million for grants to states for public assistance.
$370 million for flood and disaster relief programs.
$226.5 million for higher education programs.
$87 million for retired military pay.
$36.5 million for various claims, including Vietnam prisoner of war claims.

Dr. Edwin Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs at East Carolina University, expressed his pleasure this morning at the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee's approval of a bill reserving $25 million for a new four-year medical facility.

"I'm gratified that the subcommittee has clearly recognized North Carolina's need for more practicing physicians," he said, and therefore recognized the "need for a new four-year medical school."

Dr. Monroe added, "I'm sure that this tentative decision on the part of the subcommittee has the support of the vast majority of the practicing physicians and the people of North Carolina."

Hours Of Torture Said Prelude To Death By Young 'Devil's Coven'

SACRIFICIAL ALTAR - On this black painted altar, Ross Michael Cochran allegedly spent the final hours of his life being beaten to death with chains by members of a Satan worship cult. (AP Wirephoto)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - A 17-year-old change boy in a pinball arcade was strapped to a table and tortured for a day before being murdered by a group of young Satan worshippers as a sacrifice, police say.

Police Wednesday charged six young beach transients, who were allegedly members of a Devil's coven, with first degree murder in the death of Ross Michael Cochran of Fresno, Calif., a frail youth who was a major state witness in a suit to close a nearby private school as a "place of lewdness."

"They must have hated this kid like hell because they really tortured him," Police Chief Robert Palmer said.

March Saw Advance In County's Employment

In March total employment in Pitt County was estimated at 29,530 which showed an increase of 730 over the January, 1973, figure.

According to James E. Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission, the two-month increase occurred in farm employment, while both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing posted somewhat smaller gains.

"Unemployment in Pitt County, currently estimated to be five percent of the total civilian work force, fell by 1.1 percentage points from the January level of 6.1 percent," Hanna explained. "It is anticipated that warmer weather will bring increased employment, particularly in construction and agriculture."

Total employment in the Greenville area experienced an increase of 730 during the past 60 days. This increase places the current employment figure at 29,530.

"There has been little change in manufacturing industries during this period, keeping this figure fairly stable," Hannan said. "An overall worker increase of 20 was noted in the factory sector since mid-March. The most significant changes occurred in the non-manufacturing group, as government added 280 workers, and in agriculture which added 340 farm workers."

Comparison of March, 1973, total employment to March, 1972, period shows an increase of 470 workers. The largest gain was in the nonagricultural wage and salary sector as manufacturing industries added 290 workers over the year and nonmanufacturing jobs increased by 630 since last March. The chemical and government industries accounted for the bulk of this annual nonagricultural wage and salary worker increase.

"However, over-the-year employment losses in agriculture and all other nonagricultural employment caused the total employment figure to be only 470 above the March, 1972, total," Hannan explained.

Hannan said it is anticipated that total employment will reach more than 36,500 by mid-June. Construction employment is expected to continue to increase in the Pitt County area.

"Despite the anticipated employment increase during the coming months, summer employment will be hard for many graduates and students entering the work force about June," Hannan said.

City Council's Agenda Ready

The City Council for the second consecutive month has come up with a total of 22 items for the monthly agenda.

Meeting tonight at 8:00 p.m. in City Hall, City Council members will consider five items under old business and 17 under new business.

Under old business items to be considered are: Appointments to boards and commissions; two public hearings—one on requests by Oakwood Mobile Homes to place a mobile home on U.S. 264 bypass west and the ABC Mobile Homes to place a mobile home on U.S. 264 bypass west; the other a public hearing on rezoning the Dr. James M. Williamson property located at the southeast intersection of Red Banks Road and N.C. 43. Also, a request for renewal of three mobile home permits—Vernon Stalls, 134 West Gum Road; Planters National Bank and Trust Co. at the corner of East Tenth Street and Cedar Lane; and Carr Motor Company on Memorial Drive across from the Holiday Inn. The final old item of business is a resolution relating to method of conducting municipal elections.

Items of new business on the agenda are: Application for mobile home permit, United Mobile Homes of America, Inc.; a request for rezoning Weimer-Jones property intersection Greenville Boulevard N.C. and State Road 1523; consideration of a proposed ordinance relating to special provisions for mobile-homes; proposed revisions to subdivision regulations ordinance 243; landfill operational procedures ordinance; animal control ordinance; ordinance amending the 1972-73 budget ordinance; ordinance appropriating shared revenue funds for expenditure; a planned-use report for federal revenue sharing funds; bid proposals for two autos, four trucks, and other items of equipment; and bid proposals for police radar unit.

Also, other items on the agenda are: A municipal agreement on traffic signals at Tenth Street and Dickinson Avenue; a resolution adjusting city and state street systems; special assessments for street improvement policies; off-duty time for police officers; waiver of privilege license for the flea market; and a request for tax refund.

with a deadline filing date at noon on September 14.

On August 27 the Board of Elections will meet to appoint precinct officials. Registration books will be closed to the public at 5:00 p.m. Friday, September 7.

October 9 is the date of elections. In the event it is necessary to call for a run-off, this decision will be announced at 12 noon on Monday, October 15, with run-off scheduled to be held November 6.

Mrs. Cain said there is a possibility that the North Carolina legislature may call for a vote on an education bond referendum and liquor by the drink legislation on November 6. Such action would be publicized in advance.

"In city elections," Mrs. Cain pointed out, "there is one difference from county, state or national elections. No absentee ballots are authorized."

advantages that result from the new uniform municipal elections, law in North Carolina.

"Perhaps the greatest advantage," she said, "is that there is no more double registration. Now a resident registers once for all elections." She emphasized that under the new law, "county registration records are the official records, so if a person is on the county registration books and is a resident of Greenville, he can vote in city elections."

A person not on the county registration books, Mrs. Cain said, "is not registered for any elections."

The second prime advantage, Mrs. Cain feels, "is that now there are identical polling places for all elections. This means the nine precincts in Greenville will serve for city as well as for county, state and national elections."

Municipal Elections Not Forgotten, Filing Begins Aug. 17

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer

It is not a case of city fathers playing the role of Rip Van Winkle, forgetting about city elections in the spring month of May this year.

As a result of a Uniform Municipal Election Law passed by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1971, uniform procedures and dates for election of municipal officials have been established all over the state. The election law also brings municipal elections under the supervision of the State Board of Elections.

Mrs. Myra Cain, chairman of the Greenville Interim Board of Elections, explained changes brought about because of the new law with Greenville elections to be held in the autumn instead of in the spring.

"The date for electing city officials for Greenville this year falls on October 9," she said. "If a run-off is necessary, that will take place on November 6."

Mrs. Cain said this type of election, the one in which election takes place in October with a November run-off is "the one the Greenville mayor and City Council decided on in January 1972. Their decision was for a non-partisan election and run-off to be conducted by a Greenville Municipal Board of elections."

The Greenville decision has been filed with the State Board of Elections.

Dates relative to formulating and holding elections in Greenville were outlined by Mrs. Cain. First, action begins on August 3 with the appointment of a city board of elections. (The current three members, Mrs. Cain, Bruce Koonce, and Rev. William B. Moore, are serving in an interim capacity).

The next step is filing for office by qualified candidates seeking election. Filing dates begin at noon on August 17,

College Alumnae Honored During Homecoming

STAUNTON, Va.—Two alumnae, whose volunteer service has covered such fields as educational television, art shows for the blind, Red Cross, and college governance, were honored during the weekend "homecoming" at Mary Baldwin College here.

Mrs. Joseph W. Timberlake, of Greenville, N. C., and Mrs. Edward S. Madara Jr., of Narberth, Pa., were recipients of the Emily Medallions awarded annually to alumnae for "distinguished service to church, community, and college." The medallions are named for Mrs. Herbert McK. Smith, of Staunton, a distinguished alumna of 1906.

Mrs. Timberlake, a graduate of 1945 and recipient of the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award for a distinguished student career, has been a leader in national alumnae activities as well as chapter work in New York, Richmond, Charlotte, N. C., and Staunton.

For six years, 1955-1961, she also was a college trustee. In Charlotte she was a director of the local Red Cross Chapter and was chairman of women volunteers for all the Red Cross services in that city and Mecklenburg County.

Mrs. Timberlake and her husband, formerly a vice president of Mary Baldwin College, were sponsors of the classes of 1965 and 1971 and were popular for their hospitality to students. Timberlake is now in property management for the M. K. Blount Enterprises of Greenville. Their daughter, Robyn Timberlake, is to be graduated from Mary Baldwin on May 13.

Mrs. Madara, a graduate of 1963 and wife of an officer of Fidelity Bank, was the founder of the Nevil Gallery for the Blind in the University Museum in Philadelphia.

DEAR ABBY: We are retired. As a child my husband was kicked around, didn't have much education, but Bernie schooled himself and became a very big business success. We have no money problems, but I have a big problem with Bernie.

He has decided that he is a "performer." He has had no musical training, but now he tries to play the mouth organ by just blowing in and drawing out. He doesn't wait to be asked, he carries the mouth organ everywhere, and offers to play. He is simply terrible, but people don't know how to discourage him.

We recently went to a party and Bernie held the floor for 45 minutes attempting one song after another. It was dreadful. I was so embarrassed I couldn't hold my head up. Meanwhile he fancies himself a natural talent.

I have a feeling people are looking at us sideways. I asked Bernie not to play in public until he learns a few numbers, but he blew his top and said, "Everyone else thinks I'm great. You're just jealous."

He reminds me of a man we both knew who had a good voice when he was young, but in his later years his efforts to entertain were pitiful. When he died I heard people say, "Well, now we won't have to listen to 'Shanty Town' anymore."

How can I handle this? I love him, but he won't listen to me.

BETTER HALF IN ARIZONA

DEAR BETTER: If you can't enlist Bernie's best friend to tell him the truth about his "talent," and he continues his compulsion to share it, urge him to practice and hope he improves, and try to prevail upon him to make his performances brief.

DEAR ABBY: My husband isn't an alcoholic, but after he's had a few he gets very generous and starts giving away things. [His cufflinks, expensive pens and pencils, even the necktie he is wearing.] He practically forces things on people, some of whom he hardly knows.

Some folks realize it was the booze talking, and the next day they will return whatever he's given them. But most people just keep it.

Is there a solution to this problem?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. Sobriety.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live on the same street with my inlaws, and since we have the same last name, the Post Office is constantly getting our mail mixed up. When my mother in law gets our mail by mistake, she opens it and reads it. Then she brings it over. She knows all our business before we do.

I told my husband to tell his mother to quit opening our mail, but he doesn't want to start a fight. Don't tell us to ask the Post Office to be more careful. They have every excuse in the book from mail sorters who can't read, to addresses they aren't able to make out. Sometimes I think they do it on purpose. What should we do? NO PRIVACY

DEAR NO: Since your husband doesn't want to irritate his mother, a Post Office box might be a good investment.

The following events have been scheduled during the four days: Monday-Thursday, a show will be presented in Fletcher Dormitory social room from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. with the "best in show" receiving $25. All women students, faculty and staff are eligible to enter any original work.

Monday at 8 p.m., in room 201, Wright Building, a panel discussion by active women in the community will be held. Panel members will be Betty Speir, Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, Millie McGrath, city councilwoman, Myra Cain, League of Women Voters, and Fanny Jackson, Meadowbrook Daycare Center director.

Also planned for Monday at 4 p.m. is a MRC-WRC Field Day, on the mall behind Fleming Dormitory, which will include games, food, bluegrass bands and clogging.

On Tuesday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., student representatives from each academic department and representatives from various Greenville businesses will operate booths to explain requirements for the various academic departments, careers possible and new horizons for career women, in Wright Auditorium.

Deborah Henderson and Nelson Crisp, local lawyers, will lead a discussion dealing with the effects of Equal Rights Legislation from 2-3:30 p.m. in the Sociology Building Auditorium.

A show of synchronized swimming and water ballet will be presented by the Aquanymphs and the department of health and physical education at the Memorial Gym pool beginning at 8 p.m.

Life Begins At Age 65

BONN, West Germany (WNS)—Retired people, especially women, are giving a new boost to the West German economy, according to government statistics. In 1950, only 9.5 per cent of the population was over 65 years old. That figure will have doubled by 1980. Mink coats for ladies in "the third age" sold out quickly when a clothing chain advertised, "What your son-in-law secretly wants is a mother-in-law who never grows old." Baby foods, which were suffering from the lower birth rate, grew in sales when old folks began eating them. Now baby-food companies are going to prepare a special line of foods for the elderly.

No-Fault Plan Is Languishing

It is regrettable that the no fault auto insurance legislation seems to be bogging down in the State Legislature.

A bill was finally passed by the Senate, but it appears to be running into trouble in the House.

The no-fault bill passed by the Senate provides that no matter who is responsible in an accident the insurance carrier will pay the damages incurred by his client.

The bill provided that this would apply for medical expenses up to $750 and economic losses up to $5,000. This would take care of most lesser claims and those over this could still be taken to court.

The Associated Press reported last week that the Senate passed bill got a cool reception in the House committee which is now considering it.

This no-fault bill certainly should not be stalled to death in the State Legislature. It is time for the legislators to come to grips with this and develop a no fault bill which will best serve the public.

Still Room For Hickory Stick

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Is the hickory stick that preserved discipline in the little red school house out of place in the classroom today?

Yes, say educators who have seen in recent years that the teacher who spans a student can expect at best an angry reaction from the parents and at worst a visit from the sheriff.

BRYAN HAISLIP

North Carolina is one of only 10 states among the 50 that still allows corporal punishment in the public schools. Teachers have the legal right, whether and how to exercise it in coping with mounting discipline problems is the question.

Only as a last resort is the answer given by Rep. Graham Tart of Sampson, a teacher and legislator. While he has never used it himself, Tart indicated he isn't ready to say corporal punishment should be outlawed.

"Personally, I handle discipline another way," said Rep. Tart, speaking from 14 years in the classroom. "Some teachers may have to resort to measures I don't prescribe myself."

Minimum Use Advised

Physical punishment as a means of dealing with students, he added, "certainly should be minimized."

Home influence is apparent in the classroom, said Rep. Tart. "You can immediately recognize the student who has had discipline at home in the right way," he said.

A firm and fair approach will usually draw an affirmative response from students to disciplinary measures, he explained. "First, you must impress upon the students that you respect them. They, in turn, will respect you," he added.

A task force of the National Education Association studied corporal punishment last year and concluded there are better ways to discipline children. It recommended that corporal punishment be phased out over a one-year period.

The task force advice received editorial endorsement in the current issue of North Carolina Education, the magazine of the North Carolina Education Association.

Hazard To Educators

Experience has shown clearly "that any use of corporal punishment places the principal or teacher in danger of having to defend himself against a charge of assault," the editorial commented.

"True, many of the charges the NCAE has helped defend educators against have been spurious and have been promptly thrown out of court by judges. But as many teachers have learned, a visit from the sheriff with a warrant is no laughing matter and court-proven innocence is often not enough to erase the stigma of arrest."

A changing concept of discipline has created problems at school and caught educators in the middle, said Grady L. Lewis, principal of East Surry High School at Pilot Mountain. "There is growing evidence, for example, that parents rank discipline (or lack of it) as one of the key criticisms they have of our public schools. But there is also evidence that parents are not willing to accept for their children the old-time definition of discipline which served our schools in an earlier day," wrote Lewis in an article for the NCAE magazine.

Opting Out On Discipline "There is increasing indication that educators—caught between parents who demand on thing and expect another, and courts which seem to always side with the student—are 'opting out,'" he said.

"From personal experience, I have come to believe that a great number of administrators and teachers feel they no longer have the authority to control student behavior on the public school campus. These educators appear to be 'reluctant' to 'interfere' with the actions of students."

Lewis suggested five steps to involve teachers, students and parents in finding solutions to school discipline problems:

"To re-direct the thinking of parents who are apathetic or unknowledgeable about the problems of proper discipline.

"To have workshops on how to handle student discipline problems.

"To start a task force on student discipline problems in each school system.

"To call in experts on child psychology.

"To have a student, parent, teacher and administrative committee to study causative (Continued On Page 5)

Bicycle Safety Is Not For A Mere Handful

Greenville is becoming a city of countless bicycles and Police Chief Glenn Cannon recently urged bike riders to be careful.

Basically cyclists should observe the same rules as auto drivers.

The bicyclists might argue that his conveyance should be treated as an automobile would by motorist and that is certainly true. Still the cyclist invariably comes out the worst in a collision with a heavier vehicle. For that reason it is to the bike rider's advantage to be doubly careful.

Bicycles are a good, inexpensive way to get around the city. They are good for ecology because they are pollution free, but they must be operated safely for the protection of their riders.

Scott Believes In New Board

By JOHN KILGO

Former Gov. Rob Scott, who once threatened to "call in all of my green stamps" in order to restructure higher education, says he thinks the matter of a med school at East Carolina University should be decided by the University's Board of Governors.

At the same time, Scott said: "I've been a supporter of establishing a school of medicine at East Carolina University. But by the same token, I think this ought to come the route of the Board of Governors."

One of the hallmarks of Scott's administration was winning that fight to restructure higher education. The old Consolidated University system and the State Board of Higher Education were replaced by a Board of Governors to oversee all 16 state supported universities in North Carolina.

One of the men who fought Scott hardest over this reorganization of higher education was former Sen. John Burney of Wilmington. Says Burney: "They said this was the way to remove higher education from politics. Some of us didn't believe that, but I hoped the Legislature would leave the Board alone to see if it would work. It doesn't look like that's going to happen."

Scott told us in an interview that "the concept and purpose of the restructuring of higher education would be seriously harmed if there were circumvention of the Board of Governors."

"You recognize, of course," Scott said, "that the General Assembly has ultimate authority in all things. But I feel strongly that the new system ought to be given an opportunity to work. It's still in the trial stage. I think it can and will work but we ought to give it a fair trial, irrespective of what the issue may be."

Scott said those people who feel anything connected with government could be completely removed from politics don't fully understand the situation.

"Government and politics are intertwined," Scott says.

"You have politics within higher education itself, as everybody knows. One can't remove it totally and completely. The idea was to remove the decision-making on higher education matters from the Legislature arena, and let that be the job of those who plan, who study and who are professionals."

"The Board of Governors ought to make the decision on a medical school. That Board is charged with the responsibility," Scott continued, "of operating, developing and establishing policies of higher education in North Carolina. If they're going to make all the decisions in the Legislature, there's no need to have boards of any kind. Let them run it all from down here."

At this point, Scott again pointed out that the General Assembly has the ultimate authority and can do as they wish.

"But all the legislators would agree," he said, "that demands on their time, the competition for their attention...those things are so keen they can't really dig into questions like they ought to during the heat of a session." Scott said the Board of Governor's can call in outside expertise, if it so desires.

They don't have to rely totally on the Administration itself," Scott said. "They can supplement in-house staff work and studies. They can call in all the studies they want and in this case (ECU med school) they have. They've got this study underway."

Scott said the restructuring of higher education with the establishment of the University's Board of Governor's couldn't completely take higher education out of politics.

"After all," Scott said, "the General Assembly still appropriates money for higher education, and weighs those requests against requests from other agencies."

But Scott said he is still confident the new system of administering higher education in North Carolina (Continued on page 5)

Prioritizing Classroom

That indispensable publication, the Bulletin of the Council for Basic Education, took a look last month at certain experiments in the public schools of Massachusetts. The experiments had their ludicrous aspects, but Editor Mortimer Smith was not amused.

It appears that Massachusetts last year spent $4,800,000 in combined state and federal funds on ventures known in the field of education as "Title III projects." These are experiments intended to demonstrate "creative solutions to a diversity of educational problems." Massachusetts had some

At Danvers, for example, the local school board won approval for a $105,000 project identified as "Self-Direction Through Group Dynamics." The State Department of Education described the source as "teaching awareness and coping with social learning" and "training in outdoor tasks and group discussion skills."

Medford plunked $112,000 into "Arts for Intergroup Relations Education" (AFIRE), intended to instruct children from kindergarten through the eighth grade in "intergroup-interpersonal relations and the visual and performing arts," emphasizing such issues as "prejudices, groups, emotions, conflict and people change."

In Billerica, the taxpayers — state and federal — invested $91,600 in a project for 400 seventh graders, known as an "Experience with the New Humanities." The investment purchased "student-teacher rap sessions" at which the teachers obtained "the viewpoint of students with the urgency of what's happening now." The project, as Smith gravely notes, "has replaced geography in the school curriculum."

Springfield educators obtained a federal grant of $97,365, to which they added $43,065 in local funds, for "an inter-disciplinary environmental study program" for fourth, fifth and sixth graders. The children, it appears, went to the city park, where they made "discovery hikes" and learned "climbing skills."

Other Editors Say Foreign Oil

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The survival of the United States as a sovereign power, with adequate military capability and economic strength, requires that policies are followed to encourage maximum prudent development of domestic petroleum resources.

President Nixon employed one of the few expedients available recently when he announced he was reducing limits on oil imports in order to ease the shortage of fuel in this country.

But many leaders of the domestic oil industry did not think this was a wise move on the part of the President.

They outlined some of the pitfalls of continued heavy reliance on foreign fuels, particularly those fuels obtained from hostile countries in the Middle East.

In addition to higher consumer costs and the obvious security dangers of overdependence on foreign sources, it is possible that within a decade or less continuance of present trends would run the nation into a $25 to $30 billion annual trade deficit for import of fuel.

The nation's fuel problems are not solely caused by lack of potential oil and natural gas resources in this country, but are due to governmental policies which have discouraged exploration and development.

To correct this situation and expand domestic supplies, oil industry spokesmen urge "immediate" decontrol of wellhead gas prices for natural gas; raising crude oil prices to offset inflation and increased costs absorbed by the industry in recent years; and establishing "as a long-term goal" the extent to which the nation can safely become dependent on imported oil and natural gas.

Whether these suggestions are colored by self-interest or an honest concern over the well-being of the country, one will have to await developments in order to ascertain that.

But it is true that the U.S. became a leader among nations by actively developing its resources. With reasonable regard for the environment, it must continue to do so.

With geological surveys estimating that 55 per cent of the discoverable oil, and 66 per cent of the natural gas in this country are waiting to be found, use of large amounts of foreign fuels should be viewed as a short-term, stopgap measure to be utilized until domestic supplies can be developed.

French Ignore Critics

The next French nuclear tests over the South Pacific, planned for May or June, are making political waves in some countries, but others around the area are keeping quiet for a change.

Tugboats in Australia won't tug French boats. Fishermen in Peru demand that the tests be scrapped.

Private yachts are reported sailing into the test zone. New Zealand is talking of sending a frigate to the site with a cabinet minister aboard and holding France responsible for any damage.

In Britain, a Labor member of Parliament said fallout from last year's French test came down on the descendants of the Bounty mutineers on Pitcairn Island.

Nobel Prize-winner Linus Pauling warned that the tests would increase abnormal births and cancer cases.

In Paris, a member of the Socialist opposition to the Gaullist government asked why the tests could not take place in France if they are as harmless as the government claims.

New Zealand and Australia plan to ask the International Court of Justice at The Hague for an injunction against the tests.

To all the protests, the French government replies firmly that the tests will go ahead as planned. Foreign Minister Michel Jobert said he was astonished at "orchestrated campaigns" to stir up public opinion in Australia and New Zealand.

The French claim the tests at the Mururoa Atoll endanger no one including the populations of the Pacific Basin countries.

The site is 4,000 miles from the Australian and South American coasts and 800 miles southeast of French Tahiti.

A spokesman for Peru's military government said it is convinced the nuclear blasts are damaging to marine life; fishing is a major element in the Peruvian economy. Some Peruvians also fear the explosions will increase the danger of earthquakes.

The nuclear weapon program has always been a matter of national pride in France. Deputy Armed Forces Minister Aymer Achille Fould told the National Assembly Wednesday that of all the factors in the government's decision to go ahead with tests this year.

PENITENCE AND REMORSE

Remorse is probably one of the most futile of all emotions. Of course there is a difference between remorse and penitence. Penitence is being truly sorry for a wrong one has done; remorse is the morbid prolongation of penitence. Penitence, when it is sincere, is always spontaneous, heart searching, and deep. The truly penitent person acknowledges his wrong, makes restitution if he can, sets his feet resolutely in different pathways, and then—most important of all—tries to forget what has happened. The person caught in the coils of remorse keeps turning his wrong doing over in his mind until sorrow for his evil act becomes sorrow for himself. The last extremity of remorse is self-pity.

St Paul said that every day he tried to forget the evil he had done before his conversion on the road to Damascus. He was penitent, but not stricken with a paralyzing remorse. As he expressed it, "Forgetting the things which are behind...I press on."

Watergate Will Reverse Tide

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its struggle to reclaim powers from the White House, Congress may have unwitting and ironic allies in the men who created and tried to hide the Watergate scandal.

For the trauma of Watergate could become a pivotal point in the long controversy over presidential and congressional prerogatives.

That issue was drawn clearly as Nixon's second term began amid disputes over the impoundment of funds, the dismantling of programs approved by Congress, and the power to make war.

In each case, the White House took charge while congressional critics protested.

Those matters have been submerged now in the Watergate, with continuing disclosures and charges of 1972 campaign wrongdoing.

But the broader questions will recur, and when they do, it will be far more difficult for a shaken administration to argue that disputed powers should be gathered to the President and his top aides.

And it will be impossible for them to argue, as John D. Ehrlichman did earlier this year, that one-man rule is proper and necessary.

Hours after Ehrlichman and H.R. Haldeman resigned as two of his top aides, Nixon told the nation Monday night that Watergate demonstrates the operation, not the bankruptcy, of the American political system.

"It was the system that has brought the facts to light and that will bring those guilty to justice," the President said.

But an operating system created by the President and his aides permitted Watergate to happen and, by Nixon's account, to be shielded from him for nine months.

That was a system long on presidential and staff authority, short on congressional and Cabinet consultation. Politically, as the President reported, it was a system that delegated authority for his 1972 campaign.

Nixon has spoken repeatedly of dispersing power from "bureaucrats in Washington," and returning it to the people.

"The concentration of power can get to be a dangerous habit," the President said last Oct. 21. "Government officials who get power over others tend to want to keep it. And the more power they get, the more they want."

He was talking about spreading authority to state and local governments, and thus to the people.

But that judgment obviously has a broader application.

And, in the federal government, the trend throughout the Nixon administration has been toward gathering power in the White House and its senior staff. Watergate is almost certain to change that.

ECU Afro-Asian Symposium Moves Into 2nd, Final Day

A two-day Afro-Asian studies symposium was opened at East Carolina University Wednesday with speakers from India and Africa focusing attention upon social, economic and political problems and progress in that part of the world.

An afternoon session Wednesday featured a wide-ranging panel discussion on the role of international cooperation in community life.

An International Festival and Bazaar put on by international students at ECU and community leaders in Greenville was held Wednesday night at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of ECU, opened the symposium with welcoming remarks at the morning session. Jenkins is chairman of the North Carolina Commission on International Cooperation which sponsors the symposium through the ECU Office of International Education and the university's African and Asian Studies committees.

Director of the symposium was Dr. Kermit King, director of the ECU office of International Education, and Avtar Singh, chairman of the Asian Studies committee. Department of Sociology and Anthropology at ECU, presided for the opening session.

Morning speakers were G.B. Ramakrishna, economic minister of the embassy of India, and Simon Gichuru, First Secretary for Economic Matters, Embassy of Kenya.

Dr. Mary J. Bratton of the ECU Department of History and program chairman for the African Studies committee ECU, presided at the afternoon session. Panelists were Dr. Harold F. Kaufman, Mississippi State University; J.W. Pou, Vice President and Marketing and

Fired, But She Won't Move

ECORSE, Mich. (AP) — Aela Frohman is conducting a "live-in" at the Ecorse City Hall office. She vows she won't leave — even though she's been fired from her job as the city's housing director — unless she's bodily removed or given a court order.

Miss Frohman, 39, was fired Monday by Mayor Albert Zukonik and city councilmen.

Zukonik was unavailable for comment Wednesday, but sources said he had been trying to oust Miss Frohman for alleged mismanagement of the city's 200 public housing units since last fall.

W. Romita, Department of Economics, ECU; Dr. Grace Ellenberg, department of Romance Languages, ECU; and Dr. Baljit Singh, director, Asian Studies Center and Dean of Interdisciplinary Studies, Michigan State University.

The panel discussion was summarized by Dr. Blanche G. Watrous, chairman, African Studies committee, department of Sociology and Anthropology, ECU.

The afternoon program also included a Sitar Recital by Prof. Roger Beresford of New York, a virtuoso in the music of India.

All sessions of the symposium are free and the public is invited.

Wednesday night's International Festival featuring ECU's international students in native costume included a sampling and description of recipes for foods from Iran, India, Korea, the Philippines, Japan, and other countries, and a program of music and dance followed by international films.

materials become manipulative. The people in these projects never visit schools; like celestial beings, they make visitations. The degradation of prose reaches its nadir when we are told that the task of one team of teachers is to 'define and prioritize possible areas for improvement.'"

To be sure, as Smith emphasized, some of the 46 projects in Massachusetts undoubtedly were useful. But if the experiments, taken as a whole, were fairly representative of Title III outlays across the nation, the projects can only be described as minimally productive demonstrations in multi-governmental inter-source relations. boldly as "Project Adventure." Its purpose was "to transmit a sense that life should be entered into fully, actively and compassionately."

Smith observes that many of the Title III projects sounded suspiciously like old-fashioned field trips, in which children were carted by school bus to inspect the local newspaper plant, railway station, or the airport. Evidently, this is exactly what the Massachusetts educators were up to, but field trips no longer are known as field trips. In the new lexicon, a field trip is a child-centered on-site experience.

Smith has trouble with this lexicon. "one is not only depressed by the nature and the cost of the projects," he writes, "but by the quality of the prose in which they are described. Surely the authors of these descriptions, writing in a combination of educato, governmentese and the terminology of psychology or pseudo-psychology, could be had up on charges of corrupting the language."

Moliere Play Will Be Staged By Club

The French Club of East Carolina University, in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the death of the French playwright Moliere, is presenting three performances of Le Medecin Malgre Lui, or The Physician in Spite of Himself.

The first performance, and the one scheduled for the general public, will be held Friday at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the Methodist Student Center on East Fifth Street. Admission is 50 cents.

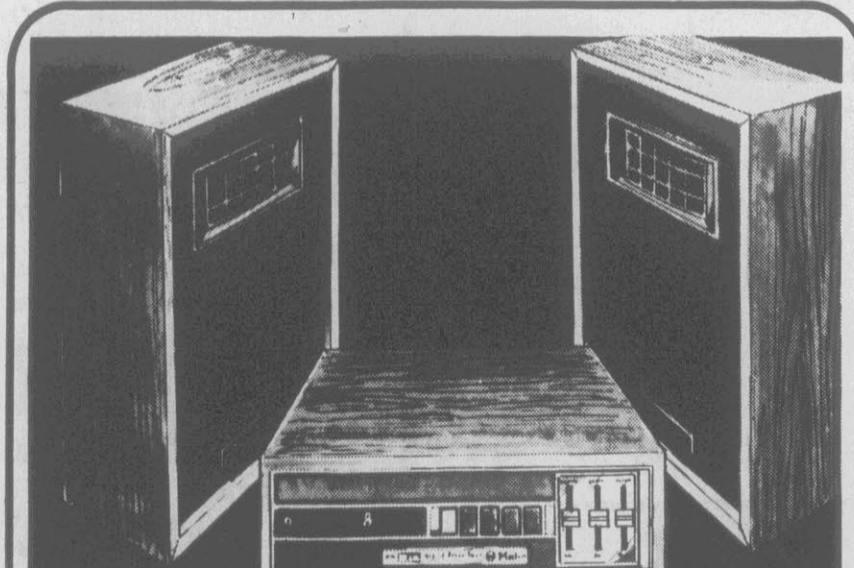

Although the play will be performed in French by students of French at East Carolina University, the play is a fast moving farce and leans heavily on pantomime, so the action should be understandable to persons without knowledge of the French language. In addition, the play's director, Stuart Aronson, will give an English narration of developments prior to each act.

John F. Leys, a graduate student in French, has the lead role. Other members of the cast are Patricia S. Young, Robert C. Payne, Jonathan B. Keathley, Leo Franke, Mark Bunch, Pamela J. Diffie, Catherine C.

Connor, Ruth Ann Copley, Eric B. Smith, Antonio Cosenza and Stephen L. Michniak.

Mark Ramsey is responsible for the lighting and scenery.

The two additional performances, one at 2:00 p.m. Saturday and another at 2:00 p.m. Monday, are for the benefit of high school students of French. Students from the local schools as well as from Bethel, Ahsokie and a number of other area high schools will be attending these matinee performances.

Changing N.C. Primary Date Tentatively OK'd

RALEIGH (AP) — The House was expected to consider again today a bill that would shift North Carolina's primary election from early May to the Tuesday after the second Monday in September.

The bill received tentative approval Wednesday after the House voted 54-43 to adopt an amendment by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford. Jones' amendment shifted the primary date from the third Tuesday in June to the September date.

Before acting on the bill, the House killed an amendment by Rep. Thomas Gilmore, D-Guilford that would have (1) Set the primary for the second Saturday in September, (2) Eliminated runoff primaries, and (3) Set the presidential preference primary for the first Saturday in May.

"In my opinion, it reduces the time and expense of campaigning," said Jones in explaining his amendment.

In other action, the House voted 90-20 to approve a bill that would allow officers to administer preliminary road side tests to persons suspected of drunken driving. The measure now goes back to the Senate for approval of a House amendment which pulled some of the teeth from the bill.

The bill would allow officers to request a motorist to blow into a chemically-treated bag that would record the percentage of alcohol in his blood. Under the House amendment, there would be no penalty if a motorist refused to take the CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP) — The student member of the board of trustees says Western Carolina University will lose 25 per cent of its students if it requires students who live in residence halls to sign a nine-months contract.

The student member, H. Dwight Nelson of Madison, who also is president of the student body, walked out of a board meeting Wednesday after the eight other trustees approved the proposal in principle.

Chancellor Jac. K. Carlton placed attorney W. E. Scott in charge of drafting, with student representatives, an appropriate rental contract, and the board authorized a student affairs committee to act on it.

The acting vice chancellor for student development, Dr. W. Douglas Davis, presented the contract proposal, a campus topic of controversy for the past 18 months. Davis said a stabilized housing operation budget is needed to plan repairs, improvements and a program activities for a university year. The school, part of the state university system, has 5,600 students.

Residence halls were constructed on a self-liquidating basis based on rental receipts. Housing Director Tyler Combs told the trustees that financial reserves should be about $430,000 but are almost nonexistent.

"The Pitt County Board of Elections has adjusted their precinct lines so that areas on the north and south edges of Greenville within the city limits will be included within the nine Greenville precincts.

"For instance," she commented, "Lynndale, although within the city limits, previously voted in Winterville Township. Residents living there will now vote in Greenville Precinct Number 5 at the American Legion building."

Another example she cited is Greenfield Terrace. In previous elections there, although the subdivision is within city limits, residents voted in Belvoir Township. Now they will vote in Precinct Number 1 at the Meadowbrook Recreation Center. There are other small scattered areas north of Tar River where people who previously voted in the Pactolus Township will also be voting in Precinct Number 1.

With this new uniform election law in effect, the City Council recently voted to hire one of the county registrars to be on duty in the Municipal Building (city hall) until the County Board of Elections office is moved from its present third floor location in the County Courthouse to a planned new location in the present ABC building at the corner of Cotanche and BROOKSVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Circuit Court Clerk Harold Brown claims he had bass for dinner the other night which he caught live in his orange grove, miles from any lake, stream or river.

The way Brown tells it, he was driving his tractor weeding the grove when he first spotted the 1 1/2 pound fish.

It was in a bird's mouth overhead. Along came another bird and in an air fight the floundering bass dropped to the dirt in front of Brown's tractor.

He dove down and retrieved it, waving off the swooping birds, he claims. Then he carried it home and his wife fried it for supper.

Even she is a bit doubtful of his "fish tale," but Brown swears it's true and says he's going shrimping in his grove this weekend.

TENTATIVE AGREEMENT CHICAGO (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks announced early today a tentative agreement has been reached with the REA Express Co. ending a nationwide strike after three hours.

Second Streets.

Mrs. Cain said it is her understanding the expected time of transfer to the new office will be this fall.

"I believe the usefulness of this 'branch office' was probably suggested by the fact that during a three week period last September when a full-time registrar was available at city hall, 488 people registered there," Mrs. Cain explained.

Mrs. Cain said the branch office registrar "will be established in city hall within the next few weeks. This will take place as soon as the clerical process of identifying the city residents in the county registration books is complete."

She also added a reminder that when the branch office is opened, a person may register either in the county office in the courthouse or at the city hall branch office.

Basic qualifications to become a registered voter were briefly enumerated by Mrs. Cain. These include a requirement to be 18 years old, to be a U.S. citizen, and a resident of at least 30 days duration.

On the matter of registration of university students, Pitt County Board of Elections Chairman J.B.

Spilman, Jr. said "The policy is the same as it has always been.

"In the case of students, it's a matter of taking one case at a time and considering it on its own merit. If a student is a Greenville temporary resident, then we cannot register him.

"But," Spilman added, "in instances such as that of a student who's been in service, is going to school here, and calls Greenville home, the answer is yes.

"It's difficult to attempt to state details of a uniform policy on this. We must go by N.C. residency laws and rulings of the State Board of Elections. A final decision has to be based on all factors in an individual case."

Spilman said anyone, student or otherwise, can challenge a registrar if for any reason he is not allowed to be entered on the registration books.

Persons who are not certain of their registration status are encouraged to check on this by telephoning the office of the County Board of Elections, telephone 758-4683.

Promotions And Bonuses Resume

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A $26-million boost to the Navy's personnel budget has brought an end to a freeze on promotions and lump sum re-enlistment bonuses, the Norfolk Ledger-Star reports.

The Navy instituted the freeze last December, when the service announced it was feeling a budgetary pinch.

The Ledger-Star said it was told by a Navy spokesman here Wednesday that the $26 million will permit immediate promotions of 2,147 officers and 33,000 enlisted men. It also will permit the immediate payment of about 1,200 re-enlistment bonuses due men in important and critical jobs who agreed to re-enlist for up to six years.

A MATHEMATICS DUO ... at East Carolina University are Jerome Hines (left) and Dr. Tullio Pignani. Hines, veteran singer with the Metropolitan Opera, is in Greenville shaping up a series of math papers to be published by East Carolina University. (Reflector Staff Photograph)

Hines Relishes Field Of Math

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Jerome Hines, America's renowned bass singer who for nearly 30 years has delighted world wide audiences with his superb interpretations of numerous operatic roles, is himself delighted about a current project outside his major field of music.

The towering—six feet, six and one-half inches—singer is spending this week in Greenville, working with professors in Department of Mathematics at East Carolina University in editing for publication his series of 12 mathematical papers.

"I've had five math papers published during my post college years," Hines said. "These past studies have all been in operator math."

In addition to his musical training, Hines holds degrees in math, chemistry and physics.

"This new series," he related, "I started working on two years ago when I was on tour in Russia. It deals with new foundations for mathematics, reexamines basic math at its lowest levels and from there builds up in a philosophy to solve some of the snags and differences that exist in math."

"In deference to having started this work in Russia," he said, "I'm using the Russian alphabet in these studies."

Hines said "Dr. Pignani, Dr. Webber and Mr. Mueller-Roemer are editing the material, which will be published in book form by the university press." (Dr. Tullio Pignani is chairman of the Department of Mathematics, ECU. Dr. Carrol Webber and Peter Mueller-Roemer are faculty members in the math department.)

Asked how it developed that he had chosen Dr. Pignani and the ECU math staff to work with him on this new concept in mathematics, Hines said "At the time I took my degree in math, I studied under Dr. William Whyburn. Pignani at one time was also a student of Dr. Whyburn."

"Last year when I was in concert here, I met Dr. Pignani. Dr. Whyburn was also here at the time, and we started talking about math. Dr. Whyburn was excited when I told him something of my new studies, and asked if he could edit them. "Since that time, Dr. Whyburn died, and Pignani has picked up the torch in getting the papers ready for publication."

In his visit to Greenville, Hines is also conducting a seminar in math at the university. "This is my first experience in conducting a seminar," he said, "and it's something I find very enjoyable."

The Hollywood, Calif. native agreed to take time out from a crowded schedule of lectures and editing consultations to talk about his career in music.

"I began studying singing with Gennaro Curci when I was 16," Hines said. "My first contract was with the San Francisco Opera when I was 18." His operatic debut was in the role of the nobleman Monterone in Verdi's Rigoletto.

"I continued studying voice, and kept singing all the time I was getting degrees in chemistry, math and physics," he said. "During World War II I worked as a chemist." Because of his height, the military would not accept Hines for military duty.

At the end of World War II the young bass singer joined New York's Metropolitan Opera. "This is my 27th season with the Metropolitan," Hines said. "I'll return to begin my 28th season in November in the role of Sarastro in The Magic Flute."

Asked if he often performed in Mozart operas, Hines said, "Not too often. I've sung a fair amount of Wagner's operas, but more of Verdi's than any other composer."

His favorite role, he admitted, is the title role of Mussorgsky's Boris Godunov. "I've sung every existing version of this opera," he added, "in English, in Russian and in Italian." Other roles he named as ones he particularly like to sing include Philip II in Verdi's Don Carlos and Mephistopheles in Gounod's Faust.

In the past quarter century, Hines has performed in just about every major opera house in the U.S., in Europe and in South America. "On four occasions I've sung in Russia on State Department sponsored tours. This has been every three years beginning in 1962." He enumerated the years... '62, '65, '68, '71. I suppose I'm about due again," he smiled.

Hines said he does not hold a record for the number of years spent at the Met. "However, there are not many who have more time there," he admitted. "I know of only four singers who were there when I came and who are still members of the Metropolitan."

With this many years in singing opera, Hines has performed with many of the world's great singers. He named Joan

Changes Proposed In POW Doctrine

By FRED S. HOFFMAN—
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior repatriated U.S. war prisoners have recommended changes in POW doctrines that would allow American fighting men to give more than the traditional name, rank and service number. A number of proposals were offered to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other Pentagon leaders in secret briefings during the past few weeks, according

IT'S A BOY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis and his wife, Leslie Allen, are the parents of a 7-pound boy. As yet unnamed, the boy, delivered Wednesday by Caesarian section, is the second child for the pair. Curtis has four other children by previous marriages.

Sutherland, Renata Tebaldi, Jussi Bjoerling, Leonard Warren, Mario Del Monaco, Birgit Nilsson, John Charles Thomas and Franco Corelli, among others. "I performed with Mario del Monaco in his American debut," he recalled. He expressed great admiration for Miss Tebaldi, calling her "a very lovely person."

Hines' wife, the former Lucia Evangelista, a native of Genoa, Italy, is also a singer. "She was a singer at La Scala," he said, "and after coming to the U.S. she performed in the New York City Opera and with other companies around the country. "She retired, however," he said, "with me and four boys to take care of." Their four sons range in age from John, who is 19 to nine year old Russell. In between are Andrew and David.

"John is a music student at Berklee College of Music in Boston," Hines said, "where he's studying to be an arranger or possibly a teacher."

Besides his operatic roles, Hines has performed lead roles in American musicals. "I was in South Pacific for a couple of summers at Jones Beach in New York with Guy Lombardo, and did two runs in Man of La Mancha at the Papermill Playhouse in New York." He mentioned he is scheduled to perform again soon in South Pacific in a production in St. Louis.

One of the achievements Hines takes obvious pride in is his own composition, I Am The Way. "This is based on the life of Christ," Hines explained. "It has been performed across the nation from the Met to Los Angeles. The first production was in 1956, with the first big, orchestral production in 1967. It's written for 10 soloists and a 65 member chorus."

"It's often performed during Easter week, but is also given performances at Christmas and sometimes on other occasions," he said. Hines also wrote the libretto.

It is evident that this successful singer is a man who has serious convictions about his personal faith, not by proclaiming his beliefs in words or slogans, but in concrete ways such as choosing the life of Christ for the subject of his major composition and, in his personal consideration for other people.

When this reporter asked if he would autograph a copy of sheet music of one of Verdi's arias from The Masked Ball, to be auctioned on Saturday for the benefit of the Greenville Art Center, he expressed delight in being asked.

Beneath his signature, Hines added a simple notation—"John 14:16." This new testament verse reads: "Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

to sources close to leaders among the 566 returned U.S. Southeast Asian war prisoners. The purposes of the recommendations would be to better prepare American fighting men for the ordeal of captivity.

Some former POWs strongly favor drafting guidelines that will tell American fighting men how far they may go in giving enemy captors more than their name, rank, service number and date of birth after being subjected to torture or other severe duress. "Our men need to be told at what point they may decide to tell the enemy some things. And what they may say, as well as how they can provide false information convincingly," said one former POW who asked to remain anonymous. A number of returned POWs have acknowledged making propaganda statements, but said they did so only after being beaten and tortured by the North Vietnamese.

Their actions do not seem strictly in accord with the Military Code of Conduct, drawn up after the Korean War produced a small band of U.S. POWs labeled "turncoats" for allegedly cooperating with their North Korean captors. That 1955 code, reaffirmed by the Defense Department early in the Vietnam war, bans such statements and provides no allowance that some POWs might be forced into making them by being pushed beyond their physical or mental limits.

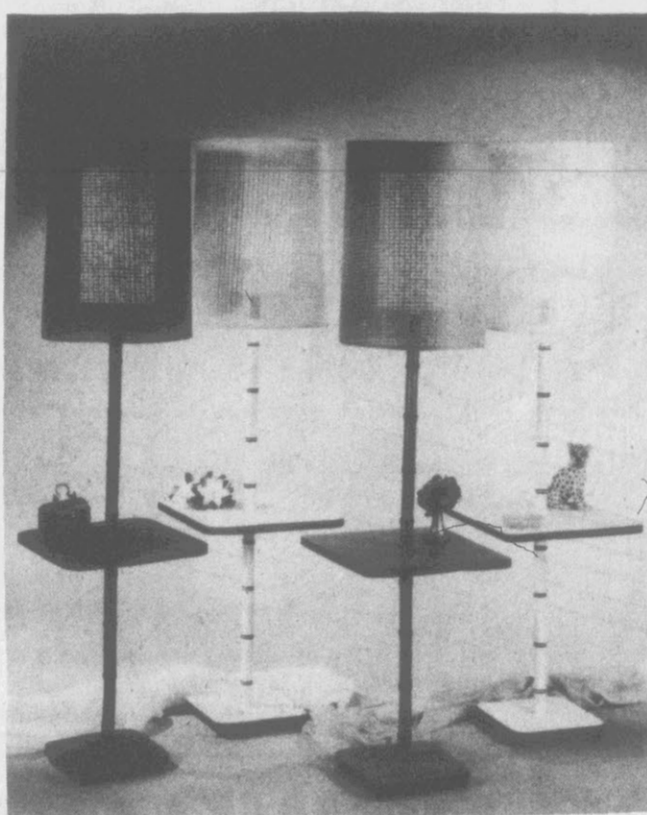

In another area, senior officers who were held in North Vietnam see a need to define the powers and responsibilities of leaders who assume command of other American war prisoners by virtue of their rank. "We need to give commanders better tools to work with when they are completely isolated from the world," a former POW compound leader said.

Pentagon Papers Case May Never Reach Jury

By LINDA DEUTSCH Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon papers trial judge has directed attorneys to give him legal briefs today on dismissal and mistrial motions and raised the possibility that the case may never go to the jury for a verdict.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne has said he will allow jurors to begin deliberations until he probes all facts about a burglary of the office of codefendant Daniel Ells-berg's psychiatrist and alleged White House involvement in prosecution of the case.

Byrne also demanded that the government give him more details about the alleged roles of Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr. in the burglary and in a special White House investigation of the leak to news media of the Pentagon papers.

Ellsberg and Anthony J. Rustations, both former researchers on government projects for the RAND Corp., are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Byrne says he wants more information on the Liddy-Hunt operations in order to determine whether those actions interfered with the defendants' constitutional rights to a fair trial.

Byrne has expressed fears that "tainted evidence" obtained from the Liddy-Hunt work might have been used in the prosecution.

Byrne has stressed an urgent need to find out what papers were found in Hunt's White House office and safe when they were searched by the FBI.

But the only documents surrendered by the government Wednesday were three FBI reports on recent interviews with White House aides John D. Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman and Bruce Kherli.

Ehrlichman's interview added only sparse details to a previous interview. Haldeman and Kherli professed no knowledge of Hunt's and Liddy's role in any White House probe of the Pentagon papers case or Ellsberg. They also said they don't know where reports from such a probe might be.

Ehrlichman, in his second FBI interview since reports of the 1971 burglary surfaced last week, said he believes "there must be papers covering investigation of Daniel Ellsberg" by Liddy and Hunt.

Ehrlichman said in an interview made public Tuesday that he knew about the psychiatrist's office burglary and of Liddy and Hunt's effort to produce a psychiatric profile of Fillsberg to show the defendant had "moral and emotional problems." Ehrlichman said the conspirators worked for the White House at the time.

Of the latest interview with Ehrlichman, conducted Tuesday, the FBI reported, "It has been over a year since Mr. Ehrlichman has seen anything on the Pentagon papers investigation...."

"Mr. Ehrlichman maintained a newspaper clipping file on the Pentagon papers case which he kept in a file cabinet. This file has since been sent to the President's file, however, and Mr. Ehrlichman assumed the material was now in 'archives.'"

The FBI said Ehrlichman told them that the investigation of the Pentagon papers was handled out of the office shared by Egil Krogh, a White House assistant, and David Young, a National Security Agency employee.

"Mr. Ehrlichman did not know the whereabouts of what Krogh, Young, Hunt and Liddy produced as a result of their investigation," the FBI report said.

The FBI agents said Ehrlichman complained to them about disclosure Tuesday of information he had given the FBI.

The FBI report also quoted Ehrlichman as saying he knew of no probes concerning Russo, but had seen FBI reports on Ellsberg's wife, Patricia, and on New York Times reporter Neil Sheehan, whose paper published excerpts from the Pentagon papers in June 1971.

Ellsberg's attorney, Leonard Boudin, accused the government of dragging its feet in providing needed data.

"This is a parody of an investigation. This is a joke," said

Roudin, who has asked repeatedly that the Watergate principals be ordered here to testify.

Bill Would Reduce Church Exemptions

RALEIGH (AP) — Property tax exemptions of land owned by churches in North Carolina would be affected under a bill approved Wednesday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The measure, aimed at the problem of tax-exempt property, was recommended by the Tax Study Commission. It was introduced by Sens. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe, and Wesley Webster, D-Rockingham.

The commission estimated that about one-third of the land in North Carolina is exempt from taxation for various purposes. One section of the bill would prohibit exemptions for church-owned property unless it is used for a religious or educational purpose.

Sen. A. B. Coleman, D-Orange, said large tracts such as a tract owned by the Presbyterian Church, and Lake Junaluska, owned by the Methodist Church, would lose their exemption on thousands of acres of empty land. They would retain exemption for land used for buildings or other activities.

Coleman said many churches have tax-exempt residences for non-ordained personnel. Under the bill, only church-owned residences occupied by ordained ministers would be exempt.

Each county would be required to assess all real property at 100 per cent of its value. Institutions would be required to report each year the amount of tax-exempt property they own and the reasons why it is exempt.

Wednesday.
Big Board decliners led gainers 823 to 304. Analysts and brokers said the sharp declines were caused by investor feelings that President Nixon had not taken strong enough measures Wednesday in his announcement of some new Phase 3 controls. The market had closed strongly higher the previous day in what the analysts said was anticipation of strong measures.

In other economic news today, the government reported wholesale prices of food and farm products declined in April for the first time in six months, but the drop was more than offset by the biggest jump in industrial prices in 22 years. The Nixon administration said it believed the rate of price increases of farm products had "passed its peak."

The New York Stock Exchange average of some 1,500 common shares was off 0.52 at 56.94. The American Stock Exchange price-change index was down .04 at 23.46.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Damon Corp. down 1 1/4 at 26 1/4, followed by International Telephone, down 3/4 at 34 1/2 after closing up 2 1/4 at 34 1/2 on Wednesday.

There was a delay in the opening Big Board trading of Polaroid Corp. because of an order imbalance. A company spokesman said there wasn't any internal reason for the delay.

Teleprompter was the volume leader on the Amex, down 1 1/4 at 18 1/4. The company announced Wednesday that contrary to previous reports it did not anticipate selling any of its shares.

Syntax was No. 2 on the Amex, up 1 1/4 at 55. It forecast improved sales and earnings in the next fiscal year beginning Aug. 1.

Among the groups, in keeping with the general trend of the trading session, steels, rubber issues, farm implements, electronics, and airlines were all generally off.

Senate Passage Slated Today On Ethics Code

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation creating a code of ethics for North Carolina's General Assembly was expected to receive final approval of the Senate today and be sent to the House.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Bob L. Barker, D-Wake, won overwhelming tentative approval of the Senate Wednesday.

Under the bill, legislators would be required to file reports of their financial interests. A Legislative Ethics Committee would be created with authority to investigate alleged violations of the ethics act. Violators could be censured or expelled by the House or Senate, as the case might be.

Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, told the Senate, "Maybe this bill will help in some small measure to reassure the people who have lost confidence and keep the scandals out—and true faith in government and in or not, we do need a rebirth of those of us who are part of it."

"I believe," Kirby said, "the Sen. Charles Taylor, R-Transylvania, said "We have a very some mysterious way this bill imperfect bill. You can drive is needed and will do a lot of an elephant through the loop-good—that in fact it will help holes."

Pirates Sweep Pair From VMI

East Carolina University's Pirates kept their hopes of a Southern Conference baseball title alive yesterday by sweeping a pair of games from Virginia Military Institute, 5-4, and 11-2.

The Bucs raised their league record to 8-3 with the victory, and they are 14-7 overall. VMI is now 0-9 within the conference and 2-11 overall.

East Carolina has three conference games left, playing William & Mary today, and then traveling to Boone to meet Appalachian in a double-header on Saturday. The Bucs must win them all to claim the title.

Tommy Toms did a yeoman's job in the twin-killing, saving the first game for Bill Godwin, and winning the second in relief of Joe Heavner.

The hero with the bat was Jeff Beaton, who drove in five runs on three hits in the second game, after getting a hit and an RBI in the opener, too.

The Bucs had to work for their first victory. VMI pushed over a run first, scoring in the second. Al Morgan walked, and Godwin errored when he attempted to make a pickoff, moving him to second. With one down, Rod Brewer singled Morgan to third, and he scored when Garland Issacs grounded to second.

The Bucs, who had threatened on a single and a fielder's choice in the first, tied it up with a run in their half of the second. With one down, Ron Leggett reached on an error and moved up on Greg Fulghum's out. Beaton then singled to left, scoring Leggett. Godwin followed with a hit, but the rally tied there.

VMI moved back into the lead with a run in the third. Donnie Ross singled to right and scored when Phil Upton doubled to center, making it 2-1.

The Pirates had a chance in the fourth when Fulghum reached on an error, and Jack Elkins, running for him, stole second.

VMI added a run in the fifth, upping their lead to 3-1. With one down, Dan Darnell singled to short and Terrill Williams ran for him. He moved up on an out and scored when Ross doubled to right. VMI went on to load the bases on an intentional walk and an error before the Bucs finally stopped them.

East Carolina then rallied for four runs in the bottom of the fifth for a 5-3 lead. Jimmy Paige, pinchhitting for Godwin singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Mike Bradshaw walked and Troy Eason singled, and was replaced by Spears. On Eason's single, an error on the play let Paige score. Ron Staggs then provided the key blow, slamming a homer to right to drive in Bradshaw and Spears ahead of him.

VMI tried to rally in the sixth, getting one run. Issacs reached on a fielder's choice and Scott Woods was safe on an error. Kavie Thrift singled, driving in Issacs, but the Bucs halted them there.

East Carolina put a men on third in the bottom of the inning as Toms singled and a stolen base and an error moved his runner around.

In the second game, VMI led off by loading the bases on two hits and a walk before the final out came without real damage. The Bucs then got a run of their own in the first. Bradshaw singled and stole second, scoring when Mike Hogan singled to right.

The Pirates had another chance in the third when John Narron and Staggs both singled, but the rally was choked off.

VMI came up with a pair in the fourth. Brewer singled and Morgan walked. Kim Wong reached on an error and a wild pitch scored Brewer. Issacs then grounded out, scoring Morgan for a 2-1 lead.

VMI later threatened in the fifth, putting men on second and third on a single, a walk and an out, but failed to score. They got two hits in each of the final two innings, but did not score. East Carolina, meanwhile, tied it up with a run in the bottom of the fourth. Larry Walters reached on an error and was sacrificed up. With two out, Beaton doubled to left, scoring Walters to make it 2-2.

The Bucs broke it open with six in the fifth frame. Bradshaw led off with a walk and Narron

Southern Meet Now Underway

The Southern Conference's annual spring meeting got underway last night at East Carolina University.

The conference's main item of business, according to the agenda of the commissioner, is to select the site of the 1974 basketball tournament. Representatives of Richmond, Virginia, site of this year's tourney, and Greenville, South Carolina, where the tournament was held in 1972, were both on hand to make reports to the basketball committee.

Committee meetings were to continue today and tonight, with a dinner for the officials at Dr. Leo Jenkins' home tonight.

The meeting of the full conference is set for Friday morning, when committee reports will be heard and acted upon.

There was also some question as to whether the conference would take any action the future of Commissioner Lloyd Jordan. Dr. Francis Bonner of Furman University, president of the conference, said earlier this year, that Jordan planned to retire at the end of this year, but Jordan has said that he has not officially planned this as yet.

Ayden-Grifton Conley Girls Down Kinston Finish Second

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton High School pushed over four runs in the second inning and made it stand as they took a 4-2 victory over Kinston High School last night.

The Vikings pushed into the lead in the first inning, scoring a run. Greg Novicki led off with a walk after two were out, and Rob Jones, Jeff Head and Karren Rhem all followed with similar trips to first, forcing Novicki across for a 1-0 lead.

The Chargers led for four runs in the second inning, however, taking the lead for good. Eddie McCullen walked and Tom Craft singled. Ned Craft doubled, driving in both McCullen and Tom Craft. Paul Ricciarelli doubled in Ned Craft and Ronnie Salmon walked. Ricciarelli stole third, and when the ball was thrown away on the attempt to get him, he came on home for a 4-1 lead.

It stayed that way until the seventh inning, when Kinston pushed over another run. Colin McDuffie singled and Blackwell got a hit. Bruce Reese hit into a fielder's choice, getting Blackwell, but moving McDuffie to third. Duncan Charlton then singled, scoring McDuffie. The Chargers stopped the rally there to take the win.

McCullen, who tossed the victory, did not allow a hit until the seventh inning when the Vikings picked up all three of their hits.

Tom Craft led the Ayden-Grifton hitting with three, while Ricciarelli and McCullen each had two.

Farmville Central did all of its scoring in the first inning, pushing over five runs. Ed Wells singled and Phil Lewis reached on a single. Tommy Cobb walked, loading the bases. Bobby Wooten brought in all three runners with a triple, and then scored when Tony Oakley singled. Oakley, however, was cut down on a double play. Glenn Dwyer then singled and stole second. He scored the fifth run on Jeff Cobb's single.

It stayed 5-0 until the fifth when the Rams finally broke the ice with three runs. Heath singled and Nimmo singled. Stevie Williamson got a hit, loading the bases. William Brown singled in Heath, and Nimmo came over when Jeff Letchworth grounded out. An error on the play let Williamson come in with the third run.

Greene Central came back to score three more in the seventh and push ahead. Albert Holloman walked and Williamson reached on an error. Another miscue let Jerry Carraway reach, loading the sacks. Brown then singled in Holloman, and a hit by Tim Butts brought in Williamson with the tying run. Bobby Supel sacrificed over Carraway with the go-ahead run.

Dwyer and Cobb each had two hits for Farmville Central, while Brown and Butts had a pair each for Greene Central.

Six Teams Unbeaten In City League

Union Carbide, Proctor's, Burger King, Parker's, Four Seasons, and Dainty Maid all picked up victories in the City Softball League last night.

The victories left three unbeaten in the Purple Division, Union Carbide and Proctor's, both 2-0, and Hardee's, 1-0. In the Gold, there are also three unbeaten, Four Seasons and Dainty Maid, both 2-0, and Parker's, 1-0.

At field one, in the first game, Dainty Maid nipped Balentine's, 10-9. Balentine's pushed over four in the first, but Dainty Maid came back with two in the top of the second. Balentine's got one in the bottom of the second, and Dainty Maid came up with two in the fifth. Balentine's added three in the bottom of the fifth, but six by Dainty Maid in the sixth gave them with victory. J. Tripp led off with a single and D. Foster doubled. W. Nelson walked and V. Wade singled. B. Bateman singled and S. Worthington got a hit, scoring what proved to be the winning run on a double by J. Huber, for a 10-8 lead. Balentine's picked up one more in the bottom of the seventh.

Parker's nipped Morgan Printers, 8-7, in their game. Parker's got one in the first, but Morgan came up with one in the second and another in the third. Wayne Avery singled and moved up on a hit by Robert Nichols. W. Wallace reached on an error and Jav Boswell tripled to make it 8-6. Morgan got one more in the seventh.

Four Seasons had little trouble with the Daily Reflector, taking an 11-2 win. They got one in the first, then scored six in the second. W. Moye singled and B. Turcotte doubled. J. Children singled and D. Douglas reached on an error. R. Carrawan singled and D. Brewer doubled, later scoring on an out. Four Seasons then led, 7-0. They added two in the third, one in the fourth and one in the sixth. The Reflector got one in the fourth on a homer by J. Jenkins and one in the seventh.

In the first game at field two, Union Carbide downed the Jaycees, 18-7. They scored five in the first to take the lead, then added three in the third for an 8-0 lead. Frank Goins singled and Tiny Brohawn doubled. Gary Harris singled and an error on Jerry White's grounder scored what proved to be all Union Carbide needed. They added four in the fourth and six in the fifth, with Goins and Oscar Telfare homering. The Jaycees got two in the fourth and five in the fifth.

In the second game, Proctor's nipped the Little Sluggers, 7-6. The Sluggers got two in the second, but fell behind when Proctor's scored four in the fourth. The Sluggers got two in the fourth to tie it, then scored two in the sixth. Proctor's came up with three in the seventh to win. Herman Knight singled and Frank Saunders tripled. Wayne King doubled and scored on a hit by Wayne Ross for a 7-6 lead.

In the final game, Burger King downed Greenville Utilities, 15-8. Burger King scored five in the first, while GUCo came up with three. In the third, Burger King got one, then scored four in the fourth to put it out of reach. Robert Calfe singled and Larry Smith doubled. Eyes singled and Walter House tripled, scoring on a passed ball, for a 10-3 lead. Burger King added two in the sixth on House's homer, then got three more in the seventh.

Aycock Downs Conley By 9-3

HOLLYWOOD—Charles B. Aycock continued to pile up the wins in the Eastern Carolina Conference yesterday, downing D. H. Conley, 9-3.

The Golden Falcons put the game out of reach with six runs in the first inning of play. David Pittman walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Richard Lancaster reached on an error. A passed ball on a strikeout scored Pittman. Tommy Herndon walked and a wild pitch let Lancaster score. Terry McFatter walked as did Elijah Johnson, loading them up. Jay Edgerton singled, driving in all three runners. He later scored on a wild pitch.

Conley came up with two in the second. Cleve Averette walked and Vic Corey singled. William Carmon doubled, scoring both runners. Conley picked up another run in the fifth. Carmon did the honors this time too, getting a home run.

Aycock added to its total in the third with a run. Parker Davis singled and Edgeron singled. Durwin Hawley reached on an error, loading them up and David Pittman walked to force in Davis.

In the sixth, two more Aycock runs crossed. Pittman walked and moved up on a passed ball, scoring on Lancaster's single. He stole second and scored on a sacrifice by Durham.

Conley travels to North Pitt on Friday. C. B. Aycock 601 002 0-9 5 1 Conley 020 010 0-3 3 5 Davis and McFatter: Averette, Gould (1) and Forrest.

Green-Thumbery Bigger Than Ever

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, May 3, 1973—15
20250: "Growing Vegetables At Home, Home and Garden Bulletin No. 163." and "Minigardens for Vegetables, Home and Garden Bulletin No. 163."

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring food prices are driving millions of families into backyard spading and vegetable planting this spring in what may be the biggest outbreak of green-thumbery since World War II Victory gardens.

In the best of times and that his remarks were unfair. An equal number of other letters applauded him, the aide said. Seed merchandisers report sales up generally, but some see higher prices and supply problems later on. One seed company executive, Albert Bijou of Dallas, Tex., said the severe weather this spring has caused many seeds to fail to germinate and must be replaced. He predicted seed prices will double by next fall. Bijou is vice president and general manager of Nicholson Seed Stores, which does business over the northern half of Texas. Many seed producers have been discouraged by low prices and have turned to other crops. Dr. John Lawson, Texas state horticulturist, estimates there are about 85 million home gardeners now. Those are increasing at the rate of one million a year, he said. The interest in small mini-gardens, roughly 10 by 12 feet, is almost as large as during World War II, Lawson said. What about starting livestock operations in backyards? Maybe a miniranch as well as a minigarden? The Agriculture Department, in addition to its many bulletins on vegetable gardens, also has one called, "Raising Livestock on Small Farms." It includes advice on how to raise chickens, ducks, geese, dairy cows, goats, sheep, rabbits, hogs and even squabs, young pigeons. One reminder, according to the bulletin: Check local ordinances before buying poultry or livestock. You may find that rutabagas are far less bothersome than roosters. For less venturesome families single copies of these publications are available free through county extension offices, members of Congress or directly from the Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington, D.C.

A limiting factor, according to a survey by The Associated Press, has been the severe weather this spring. As heavy rains, unseasonal snows and cold temperatures have throttled farmers, so have would-be gardeners been denied their salad days.

The big push for home-grown tomatoes, corn, lettuce, radishes and other garden goodies seems to be building up, however.

At the Department of Agriculture, where dozens of different pamphlets and brochures on gardening are turned out, officials say orders appear to be increasing from county extension offices and members of Congress where such information is available free of charge.

One popular item is "Minigardens for Vegetables" which explains and illustrates how tomatoes, radishes, chives, green peppers and other species can be grown in window boxes, old pails and even flower pots.

Is spading up the backyard badminton court for tomatoes, beans, peas and corn worth it? Depends how big you want to be. If you have to invest $50 to $100 in new equipment, everything from hoes to fancy cultivators, fertilizer, pesticides, gloves, overalls and sunbonnets, maybe not.

On the other hand, packets of seed can be bought usually in small quantities for a few dollars. Tomato plants, ready to set out, cost more, depending on how large they are.

Dr. Clint Turnquist, a University of Minnesota vegetable expert, says people seem to like doing outdoor work and having their own fresh produce. "Maybe it's partly because of the high food prices, but I think people are just getting in the swing, getting on the bandwagon of growing gardens," Turnquist said.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., helped publicize vegetable gardening recently by announcing he was planting lettuce, radishes, onions, string beans, garlic, squash, peppers and tomatoes as a protest against government farm subsidies.

An aide said Conte has drawn letters from irate farmers who complain they have a hard life

Apex Of A Loong, Hard Career In TV Success

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As Earl Hamner Jr. recalls it, his home town of Schuyler, Va., once was described in a federal writers' guidebook as "a tiny hamlet that rises to mild hilarity on Saturday nights."

His warm memories of growing up there since have become a Thursday night staple called "The Waltons," a Depression Era family series that is enjoying boom times on CBS television.

Hamner, who created the series from "The Homecoming," a semi-autobiographical novel he wrote 10 years ago, is having another homecoming involving Schuyler next May 12.

He's going back to the tiny western Virginia town for "Nelson County Day" on the understanding that the well-wishers in the county won't make him get up and orate about his past, present or future.

"I'm afraid I'm not a very good public speaker," says Hamner, whose Virginia accent has survived his gradual migration to Hollywood, fame and a certain amount of fortune as a writer of novels and scripts.

He still says "hoose" for house and "aboot" for about. He wears horn-rimmed glasses, favors tweed coats and resembles an English professor whose minor was soft speech.

Hamner, 49, is the oldest of eight children.

He might be known today as the Rev. Mr. Hamner had it not been for a minor transgression at the University of Richmond, where until 1943 he was a divinity student on a scholarship.

"My family was poor, but Dad was bent on my going to college," he said. "A doctor we know got in touch with the trustees at the University of Richmond about a scholarship. The only thing they had open was a ministerial scholarship. But we took it."

Hamner preferred not to discuss what aborted his future as a man of the cloth. But it was sufficient to get him drafted and shipped off to war just after the Normandy invasion in mid-1944.

"My speciality was defusing land mines," he grinned. "The life expectancy of a man who defuses land mines was then about three minutes. But I kept following behind the lines, and I never even got shot at."

The Army took him out of the defusing business and put him in Paris, where he stayed until 1946. Then he came home, worked at radio stations and studied at the University of Cincinnati on the GI bill. After graduation, he began writing full-time and never stopped.

"The Waltons," on which he serves as executive story consultant, recently won a Peabody Award and has been renewed by CBS for a second season.

It represents the apex of a long, hard career for Hamner, who is happily married, has two healthy teen-agers and two California homes—one in Studio City, the other near the ocean at Laguna Beach.

Doesn't this good life occasionally startle the once-impoverished ex-divinity student from Schuyler?

"No, because—this sounds immodest—I've been a working writer for 20, 25 years and I've always been fairly well paid," he said quietly. "I'm too old now to be impressed by the idea of success."

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Much studying and thinking can now help you gain the things you want the most. Obtain good ideas from experts. Follow your intuition which is good. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Being with good friends to gain your mutual objectives is fine now. Don't ask for any special favors tonight. Get the information you need at a social gathering. Study it well.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Making plans with bigwigs about a civic affair is fine but make sure you do nothing to jeopardize your reputation. Buy whatever appliances are necessary to make your job easier. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Engage in a new outlet that is appealing and through which you can increase your income. Making new allies is wise, but make sure they are the right ones. Postpone an important decision.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you handle all home affairs in a most conscientious way and get right results. Your hunches are good now and should be followed. Using good judgment tonight is vital.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Any arguments with an associate should be discussed in a reasonable way for best results. Be sure to handle an important civic matter in the afternoon. Make future plans tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle all that work with vim and vigor and it will soon be behind you. Take health treatments in the afternoon. Start shopping today for new apparel you want. Express more happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking clearly now and can accomplish a great deal, especially in the field of entertainment. Put those special talents to work and commercialize on them. Do more reading.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have an opportunity to improve situations at home and should waste no time in doing so. Listen to the advice of others and follow the best. Get the new appliances that are necessary.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will develop the ability to whittle ideas down to a practical value and make them profitable. The inventor is in this chart and the education should be directed in such directions. Teach to finish whatever has been started. Being discriminatory where playmates are concerned is wise.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The bidding:
South West North East
5 ♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠
South capitalized on a defender's carelessness in today's hand to salvage a five club contract that was apparently destined for defeat.

West opened the king of spades and East followed suit with the nine. West continued with the queen of spades and this time his partner played the deuce.

The moment of decision had arrived for the opening leader. He feared that if he shifted to a heart and the declarer held the king of that suit, the defense would take no more tricks. It appeared to West that the only trick that might get away was a diamond, and he accordingly shifted to the four of diamonds.

South observed that if the heart finesse succeeded, he would be in position shortly to claim his contract. If East held the king of hearts, however, then the outlook was hopeless unless the opposition faltered. Inasmuch as one discard would do him no good, South went all out and played a small diamond from dummy.

East was in an extremely awkward position. If declarer had the lone jack of diamonds, it might be fatal to let the diamond trick get away. East accordingly put up the ace of diamonds. South ruffed, drew trump and discarded two hearts on the king and queen of diamonds.

Altho it would have been proper for West to switch to the nine of diamonds instead of the four if he did not hold an honor in that suit, nevertheless, he was the major culprit, in our opinion, for allowing his opponent to sneak home safely on the deal. It should have been obvious that East held the king of hearts when he let his partner hold the second spade trick, for, if he had the ace of diamonds but not the king of hearts—then he should overtake the second spade and try to cash the ace of diamonds as the only chance to defeat the contract.

Even after West failed to make the indicated heart shift, he could still have salvaged a profit for his side by returning the jack of diamonds instead of a small one. The defense can hardly expect to take more than one diamond trick, and the play of the jack assures that declarer will cover in dummy. Even the East's ace is ruffed away, South obtains only one sluff and eventually must fall back on the heart finesse.

The 'Worry Clinic' Self-Reliance Can Be Ruined

Heed Dr. Flint's sage suggestions. And note the sound advice of Larry Wineland re making chronic welfare recipients of the pelicans! Clip this column and mail a copy to your Congressmen, for Welfareism is ruining this Republic!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE W-594: Dr. Cort Flint is a famous theologian and former Baptist pastor of a 4,500 member church at Anderson, South Carolina.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I was much interested in your comment that Jesus didn't continue with free picnics after feeding the 5,000 with the lad's loaves and fishes.

"Maybe it was due to his keen understanding of human nature. 'For down in Florida there is a tiny bird refuge, named Pelican Island.

"For-dow 'It supports a colony of 1,000 brown pelicans.

"Larry Wineland is manager of this bird sanctuary, which in winter may contain 10,000 pelicans and other wild fowl.

"Since the food supply then grows scarce, Larry was asked why uncle Sam doesn't furnish bags of fish for the pelicans.

"And Larry replied 'Pelicans are like people! Start giving them a handout, and they'll quit work; then merely line up to get their free fish.'

"Dr. Crane could this be the reason why Christ didn't set up a free food dispensary for the poor?"

Welfare Evils
Undoubtedly Christ knew that people inevitably grow weak and lose their resourcefulness when habituated to free medicine or free food.

That may explain, too, why Jesus stopped his experiment in "socialized medicine" after healing the 10 lepers.

sandwich nor invited him home to dinner!
Even in medicine, we find that cripples tend to rely too long on their crutches, so we medics must encourage them stand alone and learn to bear weight on their formerly injured foot or leg.

On the west coast of Florida, too, the shrimp fishermen used to clean their catch and throw the scraps to the sea gulls daily.

But when the shrimp beds grew scarcer, and the fishermen had to move westward, as to Louisiana, those former "welfare" gulls began to starve.

For they had lost their ability to fend for themselves!

Though their grandparents had flown hundreds of miles to rustle up their own food, these pampered descendants had learned to rely lazily on free handouts from the shrimp boats.

So they became weaklings! And, if transformed into human shape, would immediately have voted for any political candidate that offered renewed welfare handouts!

The Mormon Church is noted for its stress on self-reliance, for it hasn't gone maudlin about the "weak and poor," as have many other churches that confuse pulp sociology with Christ's superb Applied Psychology.

Charity is supposed to be a voluntary act; not a matter of coercion via forced taxes, doled out by political jobholders!

So send for my booklet, "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and get it into all high schools!

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing printing cost when you send for one of his booklets.)

Not Immune To Erupting

CHICAGO (UPI) — Despite common belief, the continental United States is not immune from volcanic activity.

Volcanoes, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, are concentrated largely in a great belt encircling the Pacific Ocean and a shorter belt extending from the Solomon Islands through New Guinea and Indonesia.

The Cascade Range in the northwestern part of the United States is included in the Pacific "ring of fire" and contains several volcanoes considered active.

The tremendous eruption that produced Crater Lake occurred approximately 6,000 years ago. About a dozen eruptions have been recorded in the Cascade Range since the early part of the 19th century. The most recent of these, at Lassen Peak in California, occurred from 1914 to 1917 and produced violent explosions, great glowing avalanches and a flow of lava.

The territorial government of Alabama was established in 1817.

For they took his free cures for granted and 9 of the 10 didn't even say "Thank you," though they were miraculously liberated from a sure death sentence.

Moreover, no Gosple writer says any of those 10 healed lepers even offered Jesus a

Plan Large Turnout Of Club Managers

The Greenville Golf and Country Club will host a meeting of the Carolinas Chapter of Club Managers Association of America, according to club manager Irving Wise.

Wise said that the educational meeting, the first to be hosted by the local club, will begin with cocktails and registration of guests Sunday night at 6:30.

The Monday morning agenda, following breakfast, includes an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Smidt, associate professor of Institutional Management at East Carolina University, who will speak on "1973—The Year of Nutrition Awareness."

The main speaker for the meeting, Wise noted, will be Kenneth Emerson Jr., executive director of the National Club Association of Washington, D.C. who will speak on the Occupational Safety and Health Act Regulation as it relates to clubs. Emerson, speaking from 10 until 11:30 a.m., is considered an authority on the subject, the manager said.

The speakers will be followed by a roundtable discussion at 11:30. Wise added. He explained that the meetings, held every two months at different sites in the Carolinas, are designed as an educational tool for club managers to keep them informed on current situations and also afford them an opportunity to discuss and learn about new developments.
