Dr. Humber Honored As PTI Building Dedicated

Speaking to over 500 persons during the dedication of the Robert Lee Humber Building at Pitt Technical Institute Sunday afternoon, Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., characterized Dr. Humber in this way:

"Where there was knowledge, he drank deeply of its nectar; where there was beauty, he lingered and admired; where there was discord, he brought tranquility; where there was deprivation, he offered opportunity; and where there were people, he extended a caring hand."

While citing many of Dr. Humber's contributions to his fellowman such as his work with the World Federation, the field of the Arts, education in institutions, service in the North Carolina Senate, and his Christian stewardship, Hunt said, "Although his interests and activities were worldwide, he never failed to come home and land his prestige and unique talents to local interests and efforts. Greenville and Pitt County were his first benefactors."

"He neither sought nor accepted any accolades for the results of his labors which will be of timeless benefit to his fellowmen," Hunt emphasized.

According to Hunt, Pitt Tech stands as an enduring landmark of Humber's allegiance to Pitt County and its entire citizenry.

"The right of all individuals, young and old, rich and poor, elite and impoverished, to pursue academic and practical education commensurate with their abilities aspiration...was one of Dr. Humber's ideals of the worth and dignity of man," Hunt said.

Dr. Humber was the standard-bearer in Pitt Tech's embryonic states. The phenomenal growth, utility of services and even the architecture of the campus here are all trademarks of his influence," Hunt noted.

A bronze plaque, inscribed with Dr. Humber's last works, will be affixed to the Humber building.

Welcoming members of the Humber family and friends to the dedication ceremonies, Dr.

William E. Fulford Jr., Pitt Tech president, described the occasion as a landmark event in the life of the institute.

Reflecting on his association with Dr. Humber, Fulford told the ceremony guests, "He strived for excellence and never accepted anything less. "Dr. Humber found significance in the mundane; meaning the common place; and he never yielded to obstacles in his pursuit of quality, beauty, and opportunity for all mankind," Fulford stated.

Ed Davenport of Farmville, a member of the board of trustees at PTI, introduced Lt. Gov. Hunt for the dedicatory address. During the presentation of Dr. Humber's portrait, Sen. Vernon White, chairman of the board of trustees, spoke of Dr. Humber's early efforts in establishing and founding of the institute.

"Those of us who served on the board with him, can never forget his wisdom and his counsel. We looked to him for direction and advice, and were never disappointed or misled," White said.

Master Robert Lee Humber III, Dr. Humber's grandson, unveiled the portrait which will hang in the Humber Building. Dr. Fulford concluded by saying, "As we dedicate this structure, we must seize the spirit of this occasion to rededicate our efforts, talents and energies toward those end and those ideals which Robert Lee Humber kindled at Pitt Technical Institute."

An open house followed the dedication ceremonies. All the curriculum departments and extension programs had exhibits on display portraying the functions and purposes of the different programs.

Now in its 12th year of service to Pitt County, Pitt Tech has more than 670 curriculum students enrolled in 30 different programs. Two-year programs offer an associate in applied science degree, while one-year programs grant either diplomas or certificates.

Currently, more than 2,000 adults per quarter are participating in extension courses. These courses relate to learning new skills or upgrading skills in occupations and improving one's educational and cultural experiences or broadening one's avocational interests.

The Humber Building includes 31,458 square feet of floor space and houses the school library, extension offices, area consultants, and 11 curriculum departments.

Government troops attempting to recapture the village of Sethbo, 12 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, on the Bassac river, also ran into trouble.

Three battalions with a squadron of M113 armored personnel carriers and the support of two American F105 fighters advanced only 500 yards and then were stopped by well entrenched guerrillas on the northern outskirts of the village.

In South Vietnam, another helicopter flying for the International Commission of Control and Supervision was fired on Sunday while over a "contested area" in the Mekong Delta, but the aircraft was not hit.

Convoy Reaches Phnom Penh After Undergoing Heavy Fire On River

By LEE RUDAKIEWYCH
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The first Mekong River convoy to reach Phnom Penh in two weeks arrived today after losing a tanker to Communist fire.

Meanwhile, reports reached Phnom Penh that Cambodian insurgents overran a post 34 miles northwest of the capital last Friday, captured about 100 troops and slaughtered them.

Port authorities said the convoy of three tankers, three freighters and three munitions barges from South Vietnam came under heavy attack from shore fire 26 miles from Phnom Penh. One of the tankers carrying petroleum was sunk and two of the freighters were set ablaze by rocket fire. But the freighter crews put out the fires.

The crew of the tanker Vera No. 1 reportedly jumped overboard before she sank and government gunboats escorting the convoy picked all of them up.

The convoy traveled the 60 miles from the South Vietnamese border to the outskirts of the capital under an umbrella of American and Cambodian jet fighters dropping 500-pound bombs along both banks of the river. The jets could be seen from Phnom Penh swooping in low for attacks on suspected Communist positions 12 miles down river.

The convoy was the first to brave the Mekong since April 23 and brought sorely needed fuel and other supplies. The Cambodian insurgents have occupied long stretches along the Mekong for the last three months, and within the last month only five small convoys have made it to Phnom Penh. The government has had to ration fuel, and on an American airlift is supplying it with aviation fuel.

The government post overrun Friday was at the village of Kampong Tralach. One of the garrisons who made it back to Phnom Penh said 30 of the defenders escaped, but the insurgents herded the rest to the bank of the Tonle Sap river and killed them. This is the usual fate of prisoners taken by the Cambodian Army also.

It was the second time last week that the insurgents captured a large number of government soldiers. On Monday, about 580 were reported led away after a battle near Neak Luong, the Mekong ferry crossing southeast of Phnom Penh.

Kampong Tralach is four miles east of Sala Lek Pram, a garrison town and district center. Officers there said they had also lost radio communication with a company of troops at Chhouk Sar village two miles away and that heavy fire turned back a column of reinforcements Saturday despite support from four U.S. Phantom jets.

Government troops attempting to recapture the village of Sethbo, 12 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, on the Bassac river, also ran into trouble.

Three battalions with a squadron of M113 armored personnel carriers and the support of two American F105 fighters advanced only 500 yards and then were stopped by well entrenched guerrillas on the northern outskirts of the village.

In South Vietnam, another helicopter flying for the International Commission of Control and Supervision was fired on Sunday while over a "contested area" in the Mekong Delta, but the aircraft was not hit.

Marine General Is Said To Have OK'd CIA Burglary Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — Sources say that while Marine Corps Commandant Robert E. Cushman Jr. was serving as deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency he gave the go-ahead for CIA assistance in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist, the New York Times said today.

Ellsberg is a defendant in the Pentagon papers trial.

The Times, quoting sources close to the Watergate case, said Gen. Cushman authorized the use of CIA material and research for the burglary at the request of former Presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman. Cushman, who left the CIA in 1971, reportedly accepted full responsibility for the decision to let the CIA assist in preparations for the break-in, the Times said.

In grand jury testimony last Wednesday, E. Howard Hunt Jr. told of using disguises, fake identification papers and a "safehouse" in Washington provided by the CIA in advance of the burglary.

Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy and Hunt were identified recently in a government memorandum as the men who broke into the office of Ellsberg's former psychiatrist after publication of the Pentagon Papers.

Watergate To Get Special Prosecutor

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson promised today he will name a special, independent prosecutor to head the Watergate investigation and said he will ask the Senate to express its confidence in the man.

Richardson said he'll make the appointment once he is confirmed as attorney general. He said he has not yet found the right man to head the probe.

Acknowledging worries over how the Watergate investigation would be pursued, Richardson said, "After much careful thought about how best to respond to these concerns, I have decided that I will, if confirmed, appoint a special prosecutor and give all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."

With special emphasis, Richardson said the special prosecutor would report only to him as attorney general. This seemed to imply that President Nixon would have no direct hand in the investigation.

The nation's two largest newsweeklies say ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify that Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up administration involvement in the Watergate incident.

Time and Newsweek gave slightly different accounts, but both said Nixon's purported remarks came in a meeting among the President, Dean and another top White House aide.

Richardson, currently the secretary of defense, was chosen by Nixon last Monday to become the new attorney general and take personal responsibility for the Watergate investigation.

"I would welcome, in addition, an expression by the Senate as a whole of its confidence in him," Richardson said.

There have been numerous calls in the Senate for someone of the caliber of a Supreme Court justice with no ties to the Nixon administration, to personally investigate the Watergate scandal.

"I have taken into account the fact that, because I have held office in this administration from its beginning, my objectivity may be questioned," Richardson told a Pentagon news conference.

Richardson appears before the Judiciary Committee on his nomination as attorney general on Wednesday. Because he has yet to be confirmed by the Senate for that job, Richardson declined to answer questions after reading a three-page statement.

Of the search for a special prosecutor, Richardson said, "It may take some time to find the right person." He made no estimate of how long that might be.

Man Is Victim In Wilson Fire

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — A Wilkes County man died in a hotel room fire Saturday night in Wilson.

Sam Warren, about 50, of Thurmond, died in the blaze in his fourth floor room of the six-story Hotel Cherry.

The cause of the fire was undetermined. Fire Chief Ben Williams said a man in a nearby room said he heard an explosion.

names have been mentioned as likely choices.

One is Lawrence E. Walsh, a deputy attorney general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He is a former U.S. District Court judge and a member of a New York law firm.

Another is Judge Irving R. Kaufman, in line to become chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeal for the 2nd Circuit. Persons close to the judge told the New York Times he had been approached but turned it down.

Kaufman is the judge who in the early 1950s sentenced Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, two convicted atom spies, to death.

Another is Judge J. Edward Lumbard Jr., soon to retire as chief judge of the U.S. Appeals Court 2nd Circuit.

Others mentioned are Herbert J. Stern, U.S. attorney for New Jersey and William T. Coleman, a lawyer in Philadelphia.

Richardson, in an apparent reference to Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, said his decision to name a special prosecutor should not reflect on the Justice Department, the FBI or any United States attorney. Petersen has been directing the Watergate investigation from within the Justice Department.

Some senators had indicated they might delay acting on Richardson's nomination as attorney general, pending firm word that a special prosecutor would be named.

His announcement today is expected to clear away the potential for any resistance to his replacing Richard G. Kleindienst, who resigned as Justice Department chief.

Sale Of Hospital Notes Is Approved

Pitt County Commissioners this morning approved a resolution calling for the sale of $1 million worth of hospital bond anticipation notes in order to meet expenses incurred in planning for the construction of a new medical facility here, before revenue bonds approved by county voters are sold.

County Attorney W. W. Speight told commissioners that $100,000 would be used for architects fees while other expenses would take other portions of the revenue. He said the bond anticipation notes would be due and payable in January 1974.

Present plans call for the sale of the hospital revenue bonds later this year, when contracts are let for construction of the new hospital.

Pitt Memorial administrator Jack Richardson told commissioners that at present, July 25 is considered the "earliest day" bids for construction of the hospital could be called for. He noted that if the July 25 date is met, bids could be opened September 25 and contracts for construction could be awarded October 10. Construction of the new medical facility could then begin in November or December, Richardson noted, with 30 months allowed for completion of construction.

Commissioners approved an agreement with the Greenville Redevelopment Commission calling for the sale of the Tucker Building and lot at the intersection of Third and Greene Streets to the redevelopment body for $50,000.

According to Speight, a clause in the agreement would permit the county to sell the property to a third party at a higher price for development according to Redevelopment Commission regulations.

In other business at their morning session, commissioners heard reports from various county departments and agencies; re-appointed Rommie W. Mallison of Winterville to the Jury Commission for a two year term beginning July 1; and appropriated $10,000 for use by Pitt Technical Institute for paving parking lots at the school.

More Demands By Kidnapers Tension Easing Of Diplomat

By VICENTE MORALES
Associated Press Writer
GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The kidnapers of U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardy were reported making more demands today following the transfer to Cuba of 30 prisoners whose freedom had been demanded in exchange for the American diplomat.

"The situation has become extremely complicated. There are new demands," said Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero of Jalisco state Sunday. "We just have to wait now. It could be hours or days...."

He did not say what the demands were.

Shortly before, the governor received a note from Leonhardy saying he was being treated well and his kidnapers promised to release him "at the proper moment."

Leonhardy's wife, at home with the couple's two young daughters, received a telephone call from the kidnapers Sunday afternoon saying new instructions would be phoned later. The second call had not come by midnight.

Officials of the state and federal governments and of the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City waited with Mrs. Leonhardy. A special telephone line was installed at the house, apparently to keep the government in Mexico City in close touch.

Outside the house, nearly 100 newsmen, photographers, neighbors and onlookers waited through the night.

Thirty persons were released from jails in six Mexican states Sunday afternoon and flown to Havana in a Mexican air force plane, meeting the ransom demand of the guerrilla group that seized the 58-year-old consul-general Friday evening as he drove home alone.

Most of those released were young people accused of bombings, bank robberies, shootings and subversion. Some had been held since 1971 without trial.

The kidnapers, a revolutionary guerrilla group called the Armed Revolutionary Forces of the People, also demanded nationwide publicity for all communiques they issued. In a statement Saturday night, the kidnapers complained because not all the newspapers in Mexico City published the communiques on the front page.

Leonhardy has spent 30 years in government service and is scheduled to retire next year. He is the first foreign diplomat to be kidnaped in Mexico. There have been two kidnappings of Mexican officials, a university rector and the director of federal aviation, but both were released unharmed after the demands of the kidnapers were met.

Israel Marks Twenty-Fifth Birthday

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 400 warplanes roared across the land of the Bible today as Israel celebrated its 25th anniversary with prayers and a three-hour display of the mightiest array of military hardware ever seen at one time in the Middle East. Some 300,000 cheering spectators jammed the decorated streets of Arab and Jewish Jerusalem for the parade. But the birthday was more festive than warlike despite the biggest armed display in the Middle East since the 1967 War.

Troops and police guarded the parade route against guerrilla sabotage and reserve troops were mobilized for security. But there were no disruptions.

Prayers for peace were held in synagogues before 2,000 troops and more than 160 tanks and artillery guns moved past Premier Golda Meir, government and military leaders and David Ben-Gurion, the 86-year-old founding father of Israel.

Led by five jets spewing blue and white smoke and helicopters towing flags, the Israeli air force provided a roaring umbrella for the festivities. Israeli-built jets spelled out the Hebrew letters for 25 years, 108 American Skyhawk bombers and 80 Phantoms shrieked behind and 24 French Mirages recalled the spearhead of the 1967 War.

Hundreds more planes — old Stratocruiser and Dakota transports, flimsy Piper

Cubs, paratroop carriers, helicopters, sleek super Mysteres and 10 trios of Phantoms with glowing afterburners — flew the length and breadth of Israel, taking the message of warning to the Jewish nation's Arab neighbors from the Red Sea desert to the Lebanese border and the ceasefire line with Syria.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is so personal I cannot discuss it with anyone. I am 67 years old. I lost my husband two years ago, and at the same time I lost my hearing. It is amazing how your friends will desert you when you've lost your hearing, so I took up lip-reading and sign language.

Last summer I met a 36-year-old man who is also deaf, and we have been having a wonderful romance. (I am discreet and do not flaunt it.)

My husband was impotent the last 10 years of his life due to illness, but I remained faithful to him even though the desire for sex was still in me. It still is, and this young man has made me feel like a new person.

My friends have criticized me terribly for going with him. After being denied sexual pleasure for 10 years I feel I am entitled to a little enjoyment for as many years as I have left.

I have no intentions of marrying the young man because if I did, I would lose all my benefits. Please let me know what you think. I will abide by your decision.

ANONYMOUS IN ARIZONA

DEAR ANON: As an adult, you may make your own decisions without concerning yourself with what your so-called friends say. I advise you to do just that.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic widow married to a good Catholic widower. The problem is he won't let me into our bedroom while he's dressing or undressing. And if he's in the room while I'm undressing, he turns his head. He acts as if it's sinful for us to see each other undressed.

I thought maybe time would improve the situation, but it has been years, and he's still the same.

I must admit that our sex life is wonderful—in the dark. This may not seem like much of a problem but it makes me feel less of a wife, and I am hurt.

What is the official Catholic position on nudity, Abby? Perhaps the reason for my husband's attitude can be found there.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There is no Catholic doctrine on nudity. Nudity is the natural state and is so regarded in matrimonial affairs. You can't blame your husband's inhibited attitude on his religious upbringing. Leave well enough alone, lady. You're doing well where it counts.

DEAR ABBY: We're a couple of old goats. My husband is 72 and I'm 70. We're not in the best of health, but we're not feeble or senile (I hope), and the Lord willing, we will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in June.

We want to give a dinner party ourselves and invite our friends, relatives and a few neighbors, but our married daughter and son won't hear of it. THEY want to give the party and foot the bill.

Abby, we appreciate what the kids want to do, but they both have families and need their money. We want printed invitations with a line on the bottom, "No gifts, please." The kids are having a fit and say, "You just don't do that." [Abby, we don't need anything!] We don't want to make jackasses of ourselves, but at our stage in life we don't want more things. Help, please.

MIDWEST READER

DEAR READER: Let the kids give the party, and don't suggest, "no gifts."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Adams of Greenville announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Carol, to Charles Wayne Bobbitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack King Bobbitt of Littleton. The wedding will take place May 27.

The luncheon will be held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club beginning at 11:30 a.m. Bridge, for interested members, will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Youth Held As 'High Priest' For Human Sacrifice

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A South Carolina teenager wearing an emblem identifying him as "His majesty, the Devil," was charged Sunday with officiating as "high priest" at a human sacrifice by Satan worshippers, police said.

The slaying confirmed a two-year-old prediction by Volusia County Sheriff Ed Duff, who said that a series of grave desecrations, cemetery black masses and animal sacrifices could lead "to a human being sacrificed if these people don't settle down." Daytona Beach Police Chief Robert H. Palmer said David Otis Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., was charged with first-degree murder in the black mass (torture death of Ross "Mike" Cochran, 17, of Fresno, Calif., April 27.

Palmer said Hester was identified "as the priest, practicing and leading others in witchcraft and Satanism. When arrested, he had an emblem identifying him as 'His majesty, the Devil.'

He also had the tattoo of a cross drawn upside down on the back of his left hand."

Arrested with Hester was John William Gasper, 35, of Daytona Beach, who was charged with being an accessory after the fact. Hester and Gasper also were charged with possession of narcotics, police said.

Police said Hester and Gasper were arrested after police stopped a car and ran a check on its occupants.

Police say Cochran's mutilated body was found along a lonely road. The body was bound with ropes and the skull had been crushed by a blow from a club.

Cochran, whose parents sent him to a school for problem youngsters near Daytona Beach last year, was lashed to a makeshift altar in the basement of a rundown rooming house the transient residents had nicknamed "roach haven," police said.

Officers said that before he died, he was flogged with chains and slashed with broken glass.

Police said nine other people arrested last week were charged with first-degree murder in Cochran's death. Officers said they broke the case after a youth picked up on a burglary charge told police he "had something to talk about."

Police said Cochran was a student at the Green Valley School in nearby Orange City until police removed all students from the school during a raid on the school last February.

The state has filed suit to close the school, charging that students were subjected to cruel punishments and encouraged to engage in sexual activities.

Officials said Cochran's parents, who have been unavailable for comment, allowed their son to become a material witness in the case.

After he was removed from the school, Cochran was placed in the care of a Daytona Beach family, but he moved out of that home after a month and was living in a boarding house while working as a change boy in one of this resort city's arcades.

Witchcraft gained some notoriety in Volusia County about two years ago. Police found graves desecrated and pieces of bodies removed from coffins. There was evidence that black masses had been held in cemeteries. Then officers turned up the remains of animals which apparently had been used as living sacrifices in Satanic rituals.

Duff spent some time investigating the macabre activities and concluded that they were the work of cultists who were also involved in narcotics.

He said then he was worried the Satanists "might be working up to human sacrifice."

Work Is Begun Here In Staging Musical Revue

Frank Massey, New York director for the musical revue "To Greenville, With Love" arrived here Tuesday to begin casting and holding rehearsals for the show.

The musical revue is being sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville and will be professionally staged by Jerome H. Cargill Producing Organization of New York.

Massey gave his first professional performance at age seven as half of an "Adagio Tap" dance team and he's been performing since. At age 11 he was a regular on a local TV show in his home town of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and at age 16, he started teaching dancing.

When not directing shows for the Cargill organization, he tours in Broadway musicals. He most recently appeared in the David Merrick production of "Promises, Promises."

Massey's performing credits include not only acting, singing and dancing in Broadway musicals, but also ballet, opera, night clubs and symphony concerts. He has appeared with such stars as Martha Raye, Donald O'Connor, Betsy Palmer, Shirley Jones and Louis Armstrong and many more, in more than 100 different shows.

His work has taken him from Los Angeles to New York, Paris, Berlin and Moscow. In addition, Massey has appeared on "Secret Storms" and in several commercials.

"To Greenville, with Love" will be presented on the evenings of May 18-19 at McGinnis Auditorium. The proceeds from the show will be used to provide summer time student fellowship for ECU medical students.

These fellowships will be coordinated by Dr. William H. Waugh, ECU Medical School, and Dr. Alfred L. Ferguson, Greenville physician, and will be used for study and training in kidney research with Dr. Waugh and study and training in the treatment of kidney diseases at Dr. Ferguson's clinic.

General admission tickets went on sale April 16 and will be $2.50 in advance of the show and $3.00 at the box office the nights of the performances. Tickets may be purchased from any club member or by writing to P. O. Box 2806, Greenville, or by calling 758-2362.

Procedures Simplify The Vote

In case you are chomping at the bit to vote in municipal elections this month, it might be well to be reminded that the local election will be held this year on Oct. 9.

In another change, if a run-off is required it will take place on Nov. 5.

The changes will take place under the Uniform Municipal Election Law approved by the 1971 General Assembly and the mayor and councilmen currently holding office will just continue to serve until the belated election is held. In past years municipal elections have been held in May.

According to Mrs. Myra Cain, chairman of the Greenville Interim Board of Elections, candidates may begin filing at noon on Aug. 17 and the deadline for filing will be at noon on Sept. 14.

There is also no more double registration. A local voter who is on the county elections books is eligible to vote in the city election. In addition the same polling places will be used for the municipal election that are used for state and national elections.

A county registrar will also be on duty at city hall this year until the county election office is moved from the third floor of the courthouse to the ABC offices at Cotanche and Second.

Many of the problems of separate city and county elections systems have been eliminated under these new procedures.

In years past, it was often confusing to voters to find out that even though they were registered with the county, they were not eligible to vote in municipal elections until they placed their names of the city books.

There were problems on election day because voters were accustomed to going to the precinct polling places, only to find there were just two polling places for municipal elections. Finally there was no provision for run-off elections so the high candidates were automatically declared winners.

We think these changes will mean much smoother and less confused municipal elections. Long time voters have only one thing to remember. Don't go to the polls to vote until Oct. 9.

Woman Power In Ascendancy

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH Woman's place is in the House, and the Senate, too, as well as in the home.

Nine women serving in the North Carolina General Assembly offer evidence that there's nothing about the job of making laws that a woman can't do as well as a man.

And the overall legislative performance is improved because the feminine viewpoint is included, said Rep. Lura Tally of Cumberland.

"I think this session will show the contribution of women members through more attention and funding for education and causes involving children and youth, issues which are close to women," she said.

Woman power is on the ascendancy in Tar Heel politics, and will be a force to be reckoned with in future campaigns, said Rep. Marilyn R. Bissell of Mecklenburg. The nine in the present session is a record, but just a beginning, she added.

"More women will win next time," she predicted. "The time was ripe for women to be elected in 1972. We will go forward from those gains, not slip back."

Political Interest Rising
Rep. Frances F. Tomlin of Cabarrus said the presence of a significant number of women in the legislature gives encouragement to those back home. "Wherever I go, women come up to me and say, 'I want to run. How did you go about it,'" she said.

"I definitely feel women are going to be more active in politics from now on. Both parties will have more women as candidates, and our number in the legislature is going to increase."

Maybe a female House Speaker isn't just around the corner, but it's a possibility not so distant as in the days when only an occasional woman or two made it to the legislature.

The first to serve was Lillian Exum Clement, a Buncombe County Representative in the 1921 session. She was elected one year after women got the vote through ratification of the equal suffrage amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The trail Miss Clement blazed has had few travelers. Including this session, only 31 women have served in the General Assembly. The previous record for one session was six in the 1965 legislature. The number was down to two in 1971.

A factor turning the tide was women voting for women. Rising political awareness accompanied the thrust for sex equality. Causes formed locally and at the state level recruited candidates and assisted in campaigns.

Caucus Gave Push

A strong caucus in Charlotte had a lot to do with the election of women to three of the eight Mecklenburg House seats, said Rep. Bissell, an organizer and former chairman. "Perhaps we were ahead of other places. We showed women what they can do," she said.

The North Carolina Women's Political Caucus lost its major legislative goal with the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). After heavy lobbying on both sides, the Senate rejected its ratification by North Carolina.

The battle isn't over, promised Rep. Bissell. ERA will be a fighting word in next year's legislative races for the 1975 session, she said.

"I know some people already are out recruiting candidates to run against those Senators who killed ERA dead," she reported.

That number includes Sen. Elizabeth Ann Wilkie of Henderson, the only woman in the upper chamber, who voted with ERA opponents.

The eight women in the House were together in support for ERA, but they didn't get a chance to vote since the Senate action laid ratification to rest until the 1975 session.

Senior Lady Legislator
Den mother for the female troop is Rep. Nancy W. Chase of Wayne, serving her sixth term. The others include Reps. Jo Graham Foster and Carolyn Mathis of Mecklenburg, Patricia S. Hunt of Orange, and Margaret Keese of Guilford.

Five of the nine are Republicans — Sen. Wilkie, and Reps. Bissell, Keese, Mathis and Tomlin. The four Democrats are Reps. Chase, Foster, Hunt and Tally.

Women don't see eye-to-eye on every issue just because they are women, said Rep. Tally. "We are individuals. As legislators, we've pretty much gone our own way," she explained. Meetings have been informal and social, with no attempt to arrive at a "woman's position" on bills, she added.

That's as it should be, agreed Rep. Tomlin. When women come on so strong as women, she said, there is the risk of turning off other women.

The route to further political gains is through the normal party channels, where women can show they can compete on an equal footing with men, she added.

Watergating The Inflation

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The stage was actually set one week ago for Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz's total victory over the political instincts of President Nixon and the influential forces pressing him hard to impose a new price freeze.

Called by Mr. Nixon to "stand by" for a top-level anti-inflation huddle on April 27, these influential backers of a new price freeze to brake consumer price inflation (now roaring at an annual rate of 11.7 per cent) never did have their meeting. At the last minute, Mr. Nixon called the meeting because, as he confided to one intimate: "What's the use of meeting if George has decided not to change his mind?"

The decision by the all-powerful Shultz "not to change his mind" and to limit any change in Phase II to little more than cosmetics, may prove as costly to Mr. Nixon's political future as the decision of his ex-White House aides to do nothing about the Watergate disaster for eight long months except deny its existence.

The Watergate cover-up, in short, was a calculated risk that somehow the whole dangerous mess would go away and disappear. Likewise, Shultz is now betting against similar high odds that the dangerous mess of inflation will also go away and disappear, if only given a little time.

"George," said a hostile witness, "is Watergating the inflation."

Only time will prove or disprove that accusation, but the risk that Shultz is taking in the face of the President's already devastating setback from Watergate is clear and ominous. If the huge, nearly 12 per cent increase (on an annual basis) in the February-to-March consumer price index continues at anything like that level, the political effect among rank-and-file voters will far outweigh the effects of Watergate.

Submitted to high officials in the Nixon administration, is unavoidable from the daily, spongelike consumer surveys of Albert Sindlinger. Remove the deep and growing discontent of inflation, Sindlinger is finding, and the impact of Watergate on rank-and-file voters is still surprisingly modest.

In short, Mr. Nixon's obvious political need today is to shore up his credibility and prestige with voters by a convincing demonstration that he is dealing with strength and confidence with inflation. Instead, all he offered in his long statement on Wednesday was hope.

But even Schultz's understandable preoccupation with the economics, as contrasted to the politics, of the roaring Nixon inflation is highly suspect to such influential figures as Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Rep. Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, respected economists in the outside world and, most important, president George Meany of the AFL-CIO. These anti-Shultz advocates of much tighter inflation controls believe that the slight April decline in the wholesale price of agricultural products was the cutting edge of Shultz's latest success in persuading the President not to opt for a new freeze of retail prices.

That April decline of 11 per cent, however, was a drop in the bucket compared to the overall increase in wholesale agricultural prices this year, running at an annual rate of 103 per cent. Instead of showing the trend Shultz and the President are counting on, the slight April decline may prove to be an aberration.

Indeed, the conspicuous absence of Meany from the meeting of the Labor-Management Advisory Committee on Wednesday should be seen for what it was: one more signal of the rising anger of organized labor against the stand-pat inflation policies of the administration. Meany has summoned his executive council to a two-day meeting next week. The main question: should the AFL-CIO stay on the Labor-Management Advisory Committee or declare open warfare against Mr. Nixon?

By ART BUCHWALD

That New New Nixon

WASHINGTON—We've had an Old Nixon and a New Nixon, and Monday night on nationwide television we saw a New New Nixon. How the New New Nixon came to be President is a very interesting story.

Back in January, 1972, the New Nixon was engaged in working out the details of the Vietnam cease-fire and solving difficult problems with Red China and the Soviet Union. Because the duties of the Presidency consumed so much of his time, he turned over his re-election campaign to the Old Nixon, who at the time was unemployed and needed the work.

On June 17, while the New Nixon was in Florida resting up from his trip to Moscow, he received word of the Watergate break-in. He was appalled at this senseless, illegal action and was shocked to learn that employees of the Committee for the Re-election of the President were involved.

The first thing he did was to call the Old Nixon and order an immediate investigation to find out who was responsible.

The Old Nixon promised the President that he would leave no stone unturned in rooting out the people who were involved in this sordid affair.

As the weeks went by, The Washington Post and other newspapers started writing that people in the White House were involved in the Watergate. The President called in the Old Nixon and asked him what he knew about it.

The Old Nixon replied, "It is rotten journalism, hearsay and mudslinging at its worst. I have talked to John Dean III, Charles Colson, John Mitchell, Jeb Magruder, H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman and they have assured me that no one in a position of any responsibility had anything to do with the Watergate. I also have seen Pat Gray's FBI files and everyone is clean."

The New Nixon breathed a sign of relief, but he gave further instructions to the Old Nixon. "I don't want a whitewash. The chips must fall where they may."

"Yessir."
On March 21, the President received new information implicating members of his own White House family. This information shocked and appalled the New Nixon because the White House was a sacred trust.

He called in the Old Nixon and demanded his resignation.

"I'm not going to be the scapegoat," the Old Nixon shouted. "If I go I'm going to involve a lot of other people."

The New Nixon told the Old Nixon he could stay on. Then the New Nixon went to Camp David to think about what he should do. He knew he had to get rid of the Old Nixon. However, he was hoping to save Ehrlichman and Haldeman.

But the pressure was too great, and a group of highly influential Republicans flew in secretly to see him. They told him he would not only have to get rid of the Old Nixon, Kleindienst, John Dean III, Ehrlichman and Haldeman but he would also have to go himself.

The New Nixon couldn't believe it. "I haven't been accused of anything."

Check A Gift Horse

By JOY STILLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Always look a gift horse in the mouth. Otherwise it might bite you. My steed arrived through the courtesy of my husband, who had won a $10 gift certificate at an office party.

He turned it over to me because (choose one): he is generous to a fault; he does not need anything; the certificate came from a woman's specialty shop.

"Easy come, easy go," I muttered happily as I dashed off to the store to exchange my windfall for something really frivolous. Alas! Frivolity comes with a high price tag in that particular shop. I decided to settle for practicality.

Unfortunately, the store's practical things were also in the luxury class. Nowhere could I find a common meeting ground for my desires and the face value of my certificate. I tucked it in my purse to await the seasonal markdowns.

The spring sales came and I went bargain hunting. But with the temperature in the 70s I didn't feel a drastic need for a fringed mohair scarf.

I regularly transferred the certificate into the pocketbook du jour, never knowing when I might find my heart's desire. One day as I passed the store I decided to see if anything new — and cheap — had arrived, and reached for the now-frayed certificate.

Gone! Lost! A ten-dollar treat forever denied me! I chided myself for not having spent it speedily if not well.

When I eventually found it tucked in another purse I decided to use it immediately. My visit to the shop failed to turn up anything I really wanted so I finally concluded that an extra bottle of my favorite cologne would not go amiss.

It came to $7.50, plus tax. The saleslady regretfully declared that my change could only be given in a store scrip. Knowing full well that I could never find anything to use that $2-plus, I grandly announced I would just take another bottle of the cologne.

With the tax, the transaction came to $16.05.

While the whole thing cost me $6.05, a lot of aisle-pounding and some moments of despair, I take comfort in the fact that I should still be smelling good by the time the next gift horse trots my way.

Letters submitted for publication must be limited to 300 words, and signed.

To the Editor:

It has been noted with some concern and misgivings that attempts are being made to provide commuter airplane service to the Raleigh-Durham airport from Greenville.

This attempt is startling in view of the pollution problems that still exist in Greenville. Why should we add to these by creating more activity at our limited airport? At one time the airport was at the outskirts of Greenville. The picture has changed and it is now a part of an increasing populated area plus the expanding medical buildings and the new hospital that will become a part of this area.

With the Kinston airport located only about 28 miles away and with a new and modern four-lane highway for easy access, why should we want to burden Greenville with a condition that could prove very troublesome. Rational thinking is needed to avoid increasing air traffic over Greenville.

Years ago the Chamber of Commerce had a dream of a tricity airport for Wilson, Rocky Mount and Greenville. Maybe this dream could be resurrected and a substantial airport created within a 20 mile radius of each of the three cities. Until then let us not burden Greenville with further pollution-makers. If the national slogan is "Keep America Green" then our slogan should be "Keep Greenville Clean."

Insurance Companies' Forecast

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Because they must plan their investments years ahead if they are to guarantee policy payments years ahead, life insurance companies are forced to look deeper into the future than some other companies.

One of them, Metropolitan Life, has just issued a forecast of the economy not just for next year but for the next five years, right through 1977. They foresee more good news than bad. But they also see what you probably knew they would.

Inflation, that is, may average about 3.5 per cent a year, once considered an unacceptable rate, although lower than the 4.5 per cent average of 1967-1972.

Unemployment is expected to remain near 5 per cent, which is still considered unacceptable, although the number of jobs will rise sharply. The percentage will remain relatively high because there will be more job seekers.

Regarding that other enemy of the pocketbook, taxes, the forecasters noted: "Unlike some previous periods, any tax cuts will probably be negligible because of pressures for public expenditures in such areas as waste disposal, public transportation, urban redevelopment and income maintenance."

If you learn to overcome these problems, the forecasters suggest you might look forward to unprecedented prosperity, with increases in real income permitting greater expenditures for automobiles and homes and leisure. The projections on incomes are likely to surprise even those Americans who, during the 1960s, adjusted to steadily higher living standards. More adjustments are in store, because:

—The proportion of family units earnings less than $10,000, which shrunk from 66 per cent in 1967 to 43 per cent in 1972, is foreseen falling to only 26 per cent by 1977.

—The proportion of families earning incomes of more than $15,000, which rose from 12 per cent in 1967 to 29 per cent by 1972, will climb to nearly 50 per cent, or 29 million families, by 1977.

—Per capita income, which was $3,800 last year, is expected to rise to $5,250 in 1977. And family income before taxes, which averaged $9,000 in 1967 and $12,400 in 1972, is foreseen rising to nearly $17,000.

The disturbing element in these projections is that the figures, like so many of those used by government and industry, include inflation as if it were something gained rather than lost. It is added in when it should be subtracted out.

Still, the Met forecasters estimate that purchasing power should rise. Before deducting for taxes, they say, incomes will be higher by about 8 per cent a year. Subtract the 3.5 per cent inflation, therefore, and you will have a better idea of real increases in buying power.

Strength For Today

LIVING THE TRUTH

Beliefs never become really true for us until they begin to make a difference in the way we act. In the same way, no one ever understands truth until he begins to live it. The long arguments over religion are made by people for whom they are interesting intellectual exercises. People who really believe in religious truth seldom feel a need to argue about their beliefs. They simply become a part of their lives.

This is why few people who really believe in God work out philosophical justifications for their belief. They live every day in the consciousness that they are in the hollow of His hand. They talk with Him and are conscious that He finds a variety of ways to answer their petitions and requests. For them to believe is to know and to act.

The way to understand a truth, therefore, is not to brood over it but to live it. When it becomes integrated into life it becomes as luminous and warming as sunshine.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are likely to start the day thinking you can do far more than is advisable. You would be wise to let others know you value their good points, listen to their suggestions, investigate further, then prepare to put a big new course of action in effect tomorrow for best results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you strive for the goodwill of others, you find you can enjoy recreations that are just right for you, inexpensively. First get good suggestions from an expert concerning business matters and complete work started.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you believe in your own ideas, be sure you do not try to force them on others. Work on them yourself and get ahead faster. Make a plan that pleases you and those who dwell with you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Tend to your shopping while you think out those personal plans you have, then be very cooperative with associates. Reach a far better understanding. Avoid writing letters that could lead to controversies right now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget the financial now, and concentrate on being with good friends for pleasure or important conversations, or both. Get on the policy level at group affairs. Avoid shop talk.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You should make a complaint to a big official, but are not sure of your facts, so forget it. Do nothing that can jeopardize your good name. Evening can be delightful with the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't fuss with little things if you have some big plan to put across. Get right at the practical work. Make that fine new contact, and steer clear of one who complains. Take it easy tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what a good friend has to suggest instead of putting that hunch to work that is not accurate. Get into the recreational activities that most appeal to you. Avoid one who could lead you in the wrong direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An associate could deliberately be doing what you disapprove of, but if you remain calm you win out. Handle all career matters in a most efficient way. Show others you are intelligent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Expressing your creative talents is best today. Avoid business and emotional matters as much as possible. Perfect those hobbies that are to your liking. Seek to gain more education.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Change conditions somewhat with good friends so there can be more harmony in the future. Get into the amusements that are most appealing. Make your home a true haven of rest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't disagree with one at home who is just as subtle and stubborn as you, or there could be a bad argument that is best avoided. Get together with associates and accomplish a great deal. Get rid of whatever disturbs harmony at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle those affairs that require real intelligence and impress others favorably. Control temper on telephone with one who may be exasperating. Show others how much you like them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those strong-willed young people with great charm. Teach early to use tact and a smile instead of trying to fight way through life which would accomplish little and cause self-hurt. Also teach to focus on big things instead of fussing over the small ones that amount to little. Then there can be much success, especially in government, teaching, writing, etc. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Demo Women's Buchwald Col. Workshop Set

WASHINGTON, N. C.—The annual Democratic Women's Workshop is being held Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge on W. Fifth Street Extension here.

Congressman Walter B. Jones, and several party officials and legislators are expected to be present.

Registration and lunch will be $5 per person. To register, one should contact Mrs. Halene Cayton, treasurer; Beaufort County Democratic Women's Club, P. O. Box 475, Washington, N. C. 27889.

One of the Republican leaders said, "In matters as sensitive as guarding the integrity of our democratic process, it is essential that the public have total confidence in the President of the United States. While you are probably innocent, you were in the White House when all this took place."

"But who will replace me?"

The door opened and in walked the New New Nixon. "I'm sorry about this, Dick," the New New Nixon said, "but the country comes first."

The New New Nixon sat down in the President's chair and started dictating the speech he gave Monday night.

As the New Nixon left the room, the New New Nixon told a friend, "This is the most difficult decision I've ever had to make."

Panel Resignation Is Seen To Upset Balance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two weekend developments have added more heat to the controversy over North Carolina's medical education needs.

The resignation of one of the five consultants engaged to study the medical school question was disclosed, and brought a prompt, negative reaction from a spokesman for East Carolina University, which wants to be the site for a second state-supported medical school.

Student Named To Who's Who

Miss Juanita Bullock, a graduating senior at N. C. Central University in Durham, has been selected for membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1972-73.

A business administration major, she is a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Phi Beta Lambda National Business Club, the C. T. Willis Business Administration Club, and is a dormitory counselor for freshmen women.

After graduation May 20, she will be employed with UniRoyal Company in Atlanta, Ga. She is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Daniel Bullock Sr. of Greenville.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Prospects for Wednesday through Friday include chance of showers each day. Highs will be in the 70s and lows in the 50s.

And in Goldsboro, the Eastern North Carolina Press Association, despite division in its ranks, endorsed a resolution supporting "serious consideration" of ECU's candidacy for a second medical school.

The resignation came from Dr. Robert S. Stone of the University of New Mexico, who reportedly is taking a federal appointment to the National Institute of Health.

Stone's resignation alarmed ECU's Dr. Edward Munroe, who said his absence "destroys the balance" on the five-member panel. Munroe said Stone was one of two members who came from backgrounds of work in new medical schools.

University of North Carolina President William C. Friday agreed that Stone would have to be replaced by a man familiar with the problems of fledgling medical schools. Friday said such a man would be appointed but he did not say when.

The resolution supporting consideration of ECU was adopted by a vote of 15-8 after it was introduced by Joe Parker of the Ahsokie Herald. Several members abstained in the voting.

Prior to that, the association rejected 20-8 a resolution by Frank Daniels Jr. of the Raleigh News and Observer that would have acknowledged the need for more physicians but made no mention of ECU.

New Typhoid Is Resistant

CHICAGO (AP) — A strain of typhoid fever that is resistant to commonly used drugs is being brought to the United States by travelers returning from Mexico, say three California researchers.

The type of typhoid currently is epidemic in northern and central Mexico, the researchers reported in the May 7 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"The coincidence of large numbers of American tourists and epidemic typhoid fever in Mexico virtually assures the continued occurrence of imported typhoid, particularly in the border states," the researchers wrote.

At least seven cases of typhoid fever caused by a strain resistant to chloramphenicol, a drug generally used to treat the disease, have been imported to the United States, said Drs. Ruth M. Lawrence, Elliot Goldstein and Paul D. Hoepflich of the University of California School of Medicine at Davis and the Sacramento Medical Center.

N.C. Traffic Claims 28 Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic accidents killed 28 persons in North Carolina during the weekend, including seven who died in a head-on collision in Gaston County.

The Highway Patrol said the deaths pushed the state toll for this year to 565, compared to 611 for the corresponding period last year.

Partial reports indicated at least 151 persons were injured during the weekend in 70 accidents investigated by the patrol.

Three pedestrians were among those killed.

A Lenoir County man, Howard C. Hawkins, 52, was run over and killed Sunday night on N.C. 11 a half mile north of Kinston. Another pedestrian, Sam Brooks, 70, of Winston-Salem, was killed in a hit-and-run situation on a rural road near his hometown.

Robert Silver, 52, of Rt. 1, Castalia, was killed in an accident on N.C. 56 about 12 miles east of Louisburg.

Six Gastonia youths and a Lincoln County motorist died in a head-on crash on U.S. 321 about 1 1/2 miles north of Dallas in Gaston County. The highway patrol said a car driven by Bobbie Dean Webb, 35, of Rt. 4, Lincolnton, strayed across the center line and collided head-on with a car driven by Ricky Merrill, 19, of Gastonia.

Five passengers also died in the collision. They were identified as: Jerry Wright, 7, Gregory Jackson, 16; and Ken Lee Durham, Roy Allen Gilmore and Bernard Kennedy, all 13.

A motorcycle accident in Gaston County took the life of John Raymond Bridges, Jr., 24, of Kings Mountain. He died when his motorcycle ran off a rural paved road and into a barbed wire fence 1 1/2 miles south of Bessemer City.

Three persons died when a speeding car went out of control and skidded into the path of a second vehicle on N.C. 32 in Gates County. The victims were listed as James S. Pierce, and his wife Ora H. Pierce, both 67, of Sunbury; and Stanley B. Knight, 20, of Gates.

Separate accidents in Robeson County took two lives. Ervin L. Miller, 42, of Florence, S.C. was fatally injured when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control on a curve and overturned on N.C. 130 west of Fairmont.

The patrol said Terry Lowry, 21, of Lumberton was killed when a car traveling at high speed went out of control on a rural road and overturned several times.

A 31-year-old Asheville man was crushed to death when he was pinned between a runaway car and a pole. Police identified him as William B. Greene.

Fred Henry Burns, 42, of Sanford, was killed when a speeding car in which he was a passenger went out of control and overturned three times on N.C. 27 in Harnett County.

Bruce Stevenson Dillon, 22, of Winston-Salem was killed in a three car accident just outside Winston-Salem on U.S. 158. Officers said Dillon was driving a car on the wrong side of the road, racing with another driver. The patrol said Dillon's car hit a third vehicle.

Nelson Vaught, 17, of Shalotte was killed during a police chase on U.S. 17 south of Shalotte. Police said Vaught was a passenger in a car which hit a tree.

A 22-year-old Ayden man died when his speeding car ran off a rural road and crashed into a tree near Snow Hill. Police identified the victim as Charles Edwards, Jr.

William Floyd Rhodes, 22, of Nakina died when his speeding car wrecked on a rural road near his home in Columbus County.

Joe Phillips Crews, 18, of Louisburg, was killed when a car ran off N.C. 56 east of Louisburg and overturned several times.

The patrol reported eight-year-old Dawn Pilar Byrd of Benson was killed when she ran into the path of a vehicle near her home.

A car-train wreck took the life of a 26-year-old Raleigh man. The patrol said Otis Lee Hinton died near Apex when he drove his car into the side of a train.

Two Stokesdale residents died when their speeding car lost control in a curve on a rural road south of Madison and struck another car broadside. The victims were identified as James Ray Bruton, 22, and Gloria Shepherd, 20.

Robert Parham, 17, of Norlina, died when the vehicle in which he was a passenger left a rural paved road in Warren County and overturned.

New Courses For N.C. Chartered By Legislature

By SAM D. BUNDY

One final action and two preliminary actions taken by the General Assembly this week would chart new courses for North Carolina. The final action came when the Senate passed by a 2 to 1 margin the liquor by the drink referendum. On November 6 the people in all 100 counties will vote for or against liquor by the drink. The decision now is in the hands of the voting public. If, on November 6, 1973, the people vote against liquor by the drink, then no county can have it; however, if it carries, then those counties now having ABC stores may have it on application by the Board of Commissioners to the State ABC Board or on a referendum called by a petition of 20 percent of the voters. The county referendum, of course, would have to have a majority favoring liquor by the drink. No longer will this issue plague the General Assembly. The people can now speak on the issue.

A second change in direction is passage of an Ethics Bill by the Senate. This must still be acted upon by the House and, if passed by the House, would require legislators to file reports of their financial interests. A Legislative Ethics Committee would be created to investigate violations of the ethics act and violators could be censured or expelled from the General Assembly. I have no objection to such a bill and it will not take a big piece of paper to list my financial interests.

Much talk has been made concerning the amount of time used and the amount of money spent in campaigning. If the Senate follows through on a bill passed by the House, the time and money elements will both be curtailed. A bill passes by the House, the time and money elements will both be curtailed.

A Much talk has been made concerning the amount of time used and the amount of money spent in campaigning. If the Senate follows through on a bill passed by the House, the time and money elements will both be curtailed. A bill passed by the House would set the Primary on the Tuesday after the second Monday in September. The second Primary, if needed, would come in October and the General Election in November as usual.

Two other items of interest occurred this week when the Senate Finance Committee by a 10 to 2 vote postponed indefinitely the bill to repeal the soft drink tax. If no move is successful to reconsider, this issue is dead for the 1973 and 1974 session and cannot be considered again until 1975.

The big money action of the week was the 18 to 15 vote by the General Assembly's joint appropriation sub-committees recommending setting aside 25 million dollars for a new four year medical school in North Carolina. It is encouraging to not that Rep. John Gamble, D-Lincoln County and a doctor himself, the introducer of the measure stated "In the final analysis, the decision for a new medical school rests in this room." Sounds good to me.

Hold Man In 2 Slayings

SWANSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Glenn Glancy, 23, of Rt. 1, Swansboro has been charged with murder in the death of his brother and another man and was held without bond in the Onslow County jail.

The sheriff's department said Glancy is also charged with assaulting two deputies. One deputy was wounded with birdshot fired from a shotgun at the time of the arrest.

Police charge that Glancy shot his brother, 38-year-old Billy Glancy, then took Billy's wife hostage and fled in a car. He allegedly stopped at a grocery store and took a second woman hostage, then sped towards Belgrade, about 13 miles away.

Officers said Glancy turned around at Belgrade and raced back to his father's home in Swansboro, where the hostages were released unharmed.

According to deputies Glancy then went into his father's house and fatally shot Edward Steiger, 48, who lived nearby.

In an exchange of gunfire with police, deputy Paul Buchanan was hit with birdshot from a shotgun. He was treated and released at a hospital.

Police said Glancy was armed with two pistols and a shotgun. He was also charged with two counts of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill in connection with shooting at the deputies.

Charged In 2 Bombings

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The national president of the Rights of White People organization, Leroy Gibson of Wilmington, has been charged in connection with last week's bombings of two Jacksonville book stores.

Gibson, a unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in North Carolina last year, was held on $50,000 bond in the New Hanover County jail pending a hearing Tuesday before the U.S. magistrate.

The ex-marine was taken into custody in Myrtle Beach, S.C., late Friday by agents of the U.S. Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division.

He was arrested on a federal warrant charging malicious damage using an explosive device.

The "United We Stand" underground bookstore, which specialized in liberal, antiwar and civil rights books, was extensively damaged by an explosion May 2. There were no injuries. The next night, Boe's Bookstore, specializing in adult books, was bombed.

Onslow County authorities said explosives placed in the rear of each store exploded about 9:30 p.m. each evening.

William D. Behen, special agent of the Charlotte office of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division, said Gibson waived extradition from South Carolina to North Carolina.

Taxpayers Pay Heavily For Grain Sale Subsidies

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers are spending between $50,000 and $100,000 a day in subsidies for at least 20 huge tankers waiting in U.S. ports, often for weeks, to be loaded with wheat and corn for the Soviet Union.

And even larger subsidies will be paid while the ships are at sea, an Associated Press survey shows.

In all, government officials say, 83 U.S.-owned ships have qualified for the special subsidies to haul grain to the Soviet Union.

"We don't know what the total subsidy bill will be," says R.A. Coonin, a spokesman for the Federal Maritime Administration.

tration. "Any figure I give you now would be understated." Coonin said in an interview the waiting time in ports is "of growing concern" and that efforts are being made by the government, the shipping industry and the grain trade to speed schedules.

Meanwhile, he admitted, it still is common for ships to wait for weeks at Gulf ports, where most of the grain is loaded. In all, he said, the total time involving federal subsidies, including actual shipping and return, is commonly 60 to 90 days.

The subsidies vary according to size of ship and cost factors. While at sea the subsidy rate usually is $500 to $1,000 per day more than when the ships are in port waiting to take on grain. Few of the larger tankers reportedly qualify for subsidies in excess of $10,000 at sea. Officials say most receive less. The subsidies are paid so that U.S. ships, much more expensive to use than foreign vessels, can haul part of the $1 billion worth of wheat, corn and soybeans sold to Russia last year.

The ships—nearly all tankers—begin earning subsidies as soon as they reach the port where they take on grain.

An example is the Gulf Queen, a tanker with a capacity of 35,000 tons. Many are larger. At least two U.S.-owned tankers begin last October are in the 70,000-ton class.

According to Maritime Administration officials, the Gulf Queen arrived in Port Arthur, Tex., on March 12. For nearly seven weeks, at 2 federal subsidy estimated at $4,200 per day, the ship stood idly by while others took their turns at elevator grain-loading spouts.

Finally, on April 24, the Gulf Queen sailed for a Soviet port on the Black Sea with 32,500 tons of grain. While making the round-trip voyage—estimated at about 20 days "sea time" each way—the Gulf Queen will draw approximately $4,800 a day in federal subsidies for her owners, identified by the Maritime Administration as Blackships, Inc., a subsidiary of Gulf Oil Corp., New York.

The ocean-freight subsidies involving grain sold to the Soviet Union last year—some 19 million tons of wheat, feed grain and soybeans—are part of an arrangement worked out with Moscow so that U.S.-owned ships could participate in the unprecedented shipments.

Basically, the situation is this: Ships owned by foreign countries cost less to construct, operate and staff with people. Vessels suitable for grain cargoes owned by U.S. firms are mostly tankers and are much more expensive to use.

When the Nixon administration and Soviet officials worked out an agreement late last year, it was specified that U.S.-owned vessels would handle about one-third of the total tonnage of grain to be shipped to Russian ports.

As part of the deal, the Russians agreed to pay a "negotiated" rate for hauling grain they purchased to Black Sea ports. That rate was based primarily on an average foreign-ship cost of hauling cargo. The foreign rate is approximately half the cost of U.S.-ship charges.

To allow U.S.-flag ships part of the action, the government agreed to pay freight subsidies to bridge the gap between the higher costs of using American vessels and the negotiated rate.

TV Plans Two 'Emmy' Shows

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences this year is giving its Emmy awards in two separate shows—one for entering and the other for news achievements.

The entertainment awards—voted on by members of the TV entertainment industry—will be given out May 20 in Los Angeles in ceremonies broadcast by the ABC television network.

Two days later, CBS will televise Emmy news awards ceremonies here. And who were the judges for these awards?

All were TV critics from newspapers around the country. They convened in Chicago two weekends ago to view the entries and cast ballots.

Their expenses for the Chicago trip were paid by the academy, according to an academy spokeswoman who said between 60 and 70 TV critics took part in the voting.

Broadcast newsmen weren't invited to participate in the voting for Emmy news awards because of possible conflict-of-interest, according to academy officials. Okay. But why TV critics? Why not print journalists who've covered the stories cited in the Emmy news nominations and know first-hand the time, work, contacts and deadline pressures involved in getting these stories?

Academy officials say print journalists might exhibit bias against their electronic brethren.

And, says the academy spokeswoman, the idea of TV critics as judges was endorsed by the networks and recommended by the journalism school professors who've judged TV news for the academy in the past.

Spring isn't over, but the ABC, CBS and NBC summer evening entertainment schedules already are out. And it appears CBS will have an all-run summer unless the current Writers' Guild strike is resolved by early June.

A new variety show and two situation comedies were scheduled to start in July until the strike put them in doubt, CBS says.

NBC's summer schedule calls for two weekly shows. One, a country music show taped in the Nashville area, is scheduled to appear Thursday nights, starting July 19.

It isn't affected by the strike. The other show, a musical variety program hosted by singer Helen Reddy, is affected. If the dispute continues, her show won't start in mid-June as planned and reruns of other shows will be offered, NBC says.

ABC has three original situation comedy series and an hour comedy-variety show coming in the summer weeks. It says none of the shows is affected by the writers' strike.

Two of the situation comedies—"Thicker Than Water" and "Love Thy Neighbor"—debut June 13 and June 15, respectively. The third, "Corner Bar," is the same series that appeared on ABC last summer. It now has a new cast, fresh pretzels and is scheduled to appear Aug. 3.

Bank Is Levelled By 'Implosion'

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Demolition experts brought down the old North Carolina National Bank building in downtown Winston-Salem Sunday morning.

Thousands gathered to witness the destruction of the seven-story structure at 9:10 a.m. Carefully placed charges of dynamite forced the building to collapse inward on itself in a demolition process called implosion.

The bank building, constructed in the 1920s, was destroyed to make way for the $10 million NCNB Plaza. A new 14-story bank building has already been constructed in the Plaza 40 feet south of the old structure.

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser said today he has formed a high-level panel to explore North Carolina's needs for more energy.

Holshouser said the panel would be instructed to study the energy shortage and "to recommend appropriate state action to respond to this problem."

He said the secretaries of the departments of Commerce, Transportation, Natural and Economic Resources, and Administration would serve on the panel.

"I will ask this group to convene promptly and to seek all the information pertinent to the subject it can gather from state agencies, from utility companies and energy producers and distributors, as well as from the consuming public and any other interested parties," Holshouser said.

Holshouser said the panel would be instructed to work close with a proposed legislative study commission "so that our best efforts can be brought to bear on this critical problem."

The governor disclosed creation of the panel in a speech prepared for a meeting of the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association.

Arrest Four For Bombing

DUBLIN (AP) — A search for guerrillas who blew up three British soldiers just across the border in Northern Ireland netted four men Sunday, and they were scheduled to appear in a Dublin court today.

The identities of the four were not announced prior to their court appearance, and it was not known if they had been linked to the killing of the soldiers. All four were believed to be members of the Irish Republican Army, and one of them was believed to have escaped from jail in Northern Ireland, where he was serving a sentence on an arms charge.

The four men were arrested in Dundalk, just over the border from Crossmaglen. It was there that two explosions killed the soldiers Saturday and injured several others as patrols checked wires leading across the border 500 yards away. It was believed that the explosions were set off from the Irish Republic.

The death of the soldiers raised Northern Ireland's confirmed fatality toll to 784 in nearly four years of communal warfare.

Her entry, a tempera called "Rainbow on a Mountain," was done spontaneously at the Community Child Care Center.

Some 1,200 pieces of art were exhibited; but Salvatore Federico, assistant professor of painting at Virginia Commonwealth University who was the show's judge, called the tot's painting "the freshest piece of work in the show."

Tuesday Victory Could Nail Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Appalachian State was what might be called an unimpressive 13-9 over-all record, but one victory Tuesday will nail down the Southern Conference baseball championship for the Mountaineers in their first year of eligibility in the league.

The Mountaineers dropped a 9-4 nonleague decision Sunday to Western Carolina, but they had moved into position to win the conference title Saturday with a 9-1 triumph over East Carolina in the second game of a doubleheader after the Pirates won the opener 5-4.

Appalachian will play host in another twin bill Tuesday to Richmond's defending champion Spiders, whose repeat hopes were dealt a severe blow in a double defeat last Friday at The Citadel.

The split with East Carolina left Appalachian at 10-2 in league play, followed by the Pirates at 10-4 and Richmond at 7-4. Should the Spiders win both games Tuesday and a makeup game with Davidson's Wildcats, the league race would wind up in a three-way tie.

By beating Richmond twice, The Citadel's Bulldogs nailed down at least fourth place with an 8-5 record, followed by Furman's Paladins and William and Mary's Indians at 6-6. Davidson at 1-10 and Virginia Military's Keydets at 0-11.

VMI snapped an eight-game losing streak Sunday with an 8-3 victory over Washington and Lee's Generals after being pounded 11-1 Saturday by Virginia's Cavaliers. Other Saturday games saw Furman beat Armstrong State 7-3 and William and Mary lose to Virginia Tech 2-1.

A four-run third inning gave Appalachian a 4-1 lead over East Carolina in their first game, but the Pirates tied it with three in the fourth and finally won in the ninth on a triple by Jimmy Paige and a wild pitch.

Appalachian put the second game away early, scoring seven runs in the first inning. It was a breeze after that for Mountaineer pitching ace Steve Anspaugh, who threw a four-hitter at the Pirates.

Rod Brewer had five hits, including a homer, and Phil Upton and Donnie Ross three each Sunday in VMI's victory over W&L, in which the Keydets scored three runs each in the seventh and eighth innings. Brewer and Upton drove in two runs apiece.

The Keydets had been assaulted for 13 hits Saturday by Virginia with the Cavaliers' Dave Bracht getting four, including three doubles, and Peter Anderson hitting a solo homer. Virginia pitcher Dave LaCross scattered eight VMI hits.

Mike Arrington not only limited William and Mary to four hits, one a ninth inning homer by Corky Bishop, but drove in the winning run for Virginia Tech with a triple in the seventh inning.

Today's only game had Furman scheduled at Western

Pete Reiser 'Victim' In Brawl

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer Pete Reiser used to crash into walls as a player and now he's crashing into people as a coach.

Reiser, famous for getting knocked unconscious while chasing fly balls for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, was one of the casualties Sunday in a fight-filled baseball game at Candlestick Park.

Before the relatively sane second game was won 4-3 by the Giants, Reiser was carried from the field on a stretcher after getting belted in the head during a fourth-inning brawl in the opener.

He wasn't the only one the Cubs lost, however. Third baseman Ron Santo was earlier struck by a pitch and had to make a fast departure for hospital x-rays. In addition, Chicago played the first game after the fourth inning without Manager Whitey Lockman, coach Hank Aguirre and pitcher Mill Pappas. They were ejected along with Giant pitcher Jim Barr, who also had to be taken to the hospital for precautionary x-rays.

All x-rays eventually proved negative.

In the National League's other games, the Atlanta Braves beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1; the Houston Astros walloped the New York Mets 14-8; the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Montreal Expos 6-1; the San Diego Padres tripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0.

In the American League, Oakland took a doubleheader from Cleveland 12-0 and 7-3; the Texas Rangers defeated Detroit 7-2; Baltimore blanked the California Angels 5-0; the Chicago White Sox turned back the New York Yankees 11-2; Milwaukee stopped Kansas City and Minnesota pounded Boston 10-3.

Marty Perez and pitcher Gary Gentry, the last two hitters in the Atlanta batting order, drew bases-loaded walks with two out in the eighth inning off reliever Billy Wilson as Atlanta beat Philadelphia.

Bob Watson brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the sixth inning and Lee May's grand slam highlighted a seven-run explosion as Houston beat New York. The victory was the eighth straight and 14th in 16 games for the hot Astros.

Roger Nelson scattered eight hits and Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion hit home runs to lead Cincinnati over Montreal.

Mike Caldwell pitched a two-hitter and San Diego went on a 1-6 hit rampage, including homers by John Grubb and Clarence Gaston, in the Padres' victory over Pittsburgh.

Al Downing stopped St. Louis on two hits and Joe Ferguson slammed his sixth homer of the year in Los Angeles' victory.

Door Open To Triple Crown

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Secretariat, his image shining brighter than ever, now takes on the task of trying to win the Triple Crown and his opposition might not be too great—at least in numbers.

"He ran pretty good for a crippled horse," jockey Ron Turcotte said Sunday after Secretariat wiped out rumors that he had a knee problem with an overwhelming victory in the Kentucky Derby.

"You know something he might have run that in 1:56 if he was all right," Turcotte chided.

With his stature damaged by an upset loss in the Wood Memorial April 21 and rumors sweeping Churchill Downs Saturday that Secretariat had hurt himself and might even be scratched, Secretariat responded by beating Sham by 2½ lengths in a record time of 1:59.25 for the 1¼-mile Derby.

"There won't be many trying him in the Preakness," said trainer Lou Goldfine, adding that he was taking Shecky Greene, who finished sixth, and My Gallant, who finished ninth, back to Chicago.

"I'm going to weigh things over," said trainer Bill Resseguet, whose Our Native finished third, 10½ lengths back of the flying winner.

One of those expected to test Secretariat in the Preakness, the second Triple Crown race at Pimlico May 19, was Sham.

Two of Sham's teeth were loosened when he bumped his head in the starting gate and they were removed after the race. However, trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin said Sham ran a fine race and there were no excuses.

Martin also will send two other colts to Pimlico—Knighly Dawn, who won an allowance race on Derby program.

Winston 500-Miler Became $1 Million Junkyard

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — David Pearson, Joe Frasson and Ramo Stott were among the lucky ones in Sunday's Winston 500-mile stock car race that wound up as a $1 million junkyard. Pearson, 38, kept his cool and won the race—his fifth straight on the Grand National circuit and his fourth at 500 miles this year. He also will bank $26,095 to go with the $61,735 he already had won.

Stott, a 37-year-old veteran from Keokuk, Iowa, wrecked his Mercury on the 10th lap around the 2.66-mile Alabama International Speedway, and watched horrified as 18 other cars barreled into each other in the worst pile up in National Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing history. "I already had unbuckled my seat harness," Stott said later. "And had started to get out of the wrecked car. But then I saw it coming—cars spinning all over the place, ramming into each other, spewing tires, wheels, engines and parts everywhere. I decided to stay in the car." Stott, who finished second in a race at Talladega last August and who currently leads the stock car standings in the rival United States Auto Club, said the engine cracked in his car. The other drivers said it was oil from Stott's car that triggered the chain-reaction crash that followed. Buddy Baker, Cale Yarborough, Bobby Allison and Frasson, who were running in first through fourth places, rammied into the mess at more than 190 miles an hour—directly in front of many of the estimated 77,000 persons who watched.

Before it was over, 15 cars had been eliminated, some so bent and broken that they were unrecognizable. Frasson, Wendell Scott, Earl Brooks and Slick Gardner were treated for injuries. Scott, the only black driver on the circuit, required hospitalization for a lacerated arm and a broken pelvis. Pearson, driving the famed Wood brothers Mercury that he and A. J. Foyt used to win $175,000 last year, skittered

Rankin Wins LPGA Play

RALEIGH (AP)—Judy Rankin played what she called a "steady round" Sunday to win the championship in the LPGA Raleigh Golf Classic with a one over par 217.

Mrs. Rankin shot an even par 72 over the 6,300-yard Raleigh Country Club course. "With the weather the way it was, I thought it would take at least a 70 to win," said Mrs. Rankin, who started the day tied with Jo Ann Prentice at 145.

Miss Prentice had a final round of 77 and finished tied for fifth. Kathy Whitworth, who started one stroke back, could do no better than 75 and a tie for third.

Chako Higuchi, one of four Japanese players on the tour, shot a two under par 70 to capture second place with a 219, winning $3,400.

Gale Denenberg also had a 70 and tied for third with Miss Whitworth at 221, winning $2,365.

Williamston Tops Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE — Williamston struck for two runs in the fourth inning and then turned back a Robersonville rally to gain a 2-1 win over the Golden Eagles here Saturday night.

The win improved Williamston's overall record to 15-3 while Robersonville dropped its fourth game against 15 wins. The Tigers, after threatening in the third inning, got the game's first run in the fourth when Mike Bundy socked a home run. Dwight Ange followed with a walk, stole second and moved down to third when the ball was misplayed on the steal. Mike Weaver reached on an error and Ange came in to score the second run. Robersonville saw threats in the third, fourth and sixth innings turned back before pushing across its only run in the seventh. Jeff Warren reached on a ground out. Mike Mathews grounded to third and reached first safely when the ball was errored by the first baseman. Stokes came all the way home on the error and when the throw went home Mathews went to second to get into scoring position. Loyall Corey then struck out to end the game. Ricky Brown, who was on deck when Corey struck out, was the only player in the game to get more than one hit as he went two-for-three for the Eagles. Roberson started for Williamston and Weaver came on in the fourth to finish up and get the win. Wilson started for the Eagles, was relieved by Doyle Farmer in the seventh, but came back to finish up the frame. Wilson took the loss. Robersonville winds up the regular season tomorrow against Oak City. The eagles play the Tidewater Conference champion a week from Tuesday as tournament play begins.

Dilemma In USGA Picks

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The 73rd North and South Amateur Golf Tournament, which wound up with Mike Ford beating Bill Halvey 1-up on the 38th hole Saturday, did little to ease the growing dilemma of the U.S. Golf Association officials who will pick the ten-man Walker Cup team to meet the British Aug. 24-25 at Brookline, Mass.

On several occasions, golfers have used the North and South championship as a stepping stone to nomination to the cup team. "But consider the finalists this year. Ford, a 23-year-old Rollins College senior from Yonkers, N.Y., never before had won anything more than a club title in five years of competitive golf.

Harvey, a 42-year-old Jamestown, N.C., nomad of the fairways, has won over 200 tournaments in two decades and is known up and down the eastern seaboard. But he has not won a blue ribbon event.

When the tournament began there were such young cup hopefuls as Bill Mallon of Duke University and Danny Edwards of Oklahoma State, the defending champion. Both are thirsting for a cup team invitation. Mallon lost in the third round, Edwards in the fourth.

Out-Battled Russians In Fourth Game

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ernie "D" turned the tide and won the hearts in an 83-75 victory by the U.S. national basketball team over the Russian national team.

Six-foot-one Ernie DiGregorio of Providence personally pulled the Americans together after a slow start Saturday night and led them to their third victory in four games with the Russians on their American tour.

The aggressive whirling dervish scored 20 points and handed out eight assists, some of them of the ultra-spectacular variety.

However, as spectacular as DiGregorio was, the entire game was played under a shadow that has plagued the entire series—the roughness allowed under international rules.

In all, 86 fouls were whistled (43 against each team). There was also an undercurrent of general hostility that came near explosion several times.

In the worst of these, American assistant coach Draff Young punched one of the official statisticians in the head during the second half after running down the floor and apparently losing his temper when asked to sit down.

DiGregorio said the style of play is "a lot rougher" than U.S. college ball. "There's no comparison."

Bruce Crampton Turned Corner

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — "I told you earlier this year," Bruce Crampton said. "The best is yet to come."

"The good things are just getting started." Crampton had just polished off a one-stroke victory—he led by three to five most of the final round and it got close only at the end—in the Houston Open Golf tournament Sunday, his third pro triumph of the year.

"Nothing has changed from what I said at Orlando, Fla. The best is yet to come for Bruce Crampton," he said.

With three victories—only Jack Nicklaus can match that total—and a season's leading $153,678 in earnings to his credit, the statement could only stand as a warning to the rest of the pro tourists that the curly-haired Australian is ready to assume a dominant position in pro golf. He won it with a par 72 in the final round on the 6,905 yard Quail Valley Golf Club course for a 277 total, 11 under par. Former PGA champion Dave Stockton took second with a charging finish. He birdied three of the last four holes for a 69 and 278.

The current Masters titleholder, Tommy Aaron, wasn't a factor. He had a final 79 for 298. "I got close only at the end. Crampton had guilt a four stroke lead with rounds of 66 and 67 Friday and Saturday and never really was threatened.

"I wouldn't say I was conservative," Crampton said, "but I wasn't gung ho. I figured with a four stroke lead if I could keep on making pars I wouldn't be in such bad shape."

Final scores and money winnings (a-denotes amateur):

No Game After Two Blowouts

CLINTON, Iowa (AP) — Unlike the mighty Casey of Mudville baseball fame who finally succeeded in striking out, the Danville nine didn't even get to bat.

The team left Danville, Ill., by bus Saturday for a 200-mile trip to Clinton for a Midwest League baseball game.

The squad had gone only about 20 miles when the bus had a flat tire. A spare tire was put on, but it blew out with some 90 miles still to go.

A call to Danville brought a school bus to pick up the stranded team, and it arrived with the erstwhile squad at 8:45 p.m.

Both teams were completing warmups some 55 minutes later when the umpire called the game because of rain.

Back To Singles For Stan Smith

MONTREAL (AP) — Stan Smith is going to become a little more selfish this week at Dallas.

"Playing singles and playing doubles take different mental approaches," the Pasadena, Calif., native said Sunday after he and Bob Lutz of Tiburon, Calif., had won the $80,000 World Tennis Doubles Championship.

"This week I've concentrated on being a team player. Starting tomorrow it's back to singles in Dallas and I've got to concentrate on playing by myself again," he added. Smith and Lutz swept Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Chicago's Marty Riessen 6-2, 7-6, 6-0 for the first-place share of $40,000. Riessen and Okker won $16,000.

The champions reached Sunday's final round with a 7-6, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6 victory over veteran Australians Rod Laver and Roy Emerson in Saturday night's semifinal round.

Mobster Testifying Against Old Mafia 'Buddies'

Editors Note: Recently, UPI reporter Edward V. McCarthy interviewed mobster Vincent "Fat Vinnie" Teresa, who has assumed a new identity and is in hiding under federal guard while he continues to testify against his old Mafia buddies. Now, McCarthy has another exclusive interview, this time with a government informer who is not a mobster but has helped to send several criminals to jail. The witness, born James Kevin Barrett in Brooklyn, is a former policeman who wound up dealing in pornography supplied by the Mafia. He, too, has undergone an identity change.

By EDWARD V. MCCARTHY
NEW YORK (UPI)—He was born James Kevin Barrett in Brooklyn and joined the Baltimore, Md., police force under that name.

He was arrested as a pornographer under the name James Kelly.

Only 33 years old, he has lived enough lifetimes for three men three times his age.

He feels trapped by his life "in between a rock and a hard place," he says. Barrett must continue to serve the government as a witness. However, he says he is not being paid enough to do so and will be left broke and unable to work anywhere when the government is through with him.

"The government pays my fare from where I now hide to Maryland while I testify before a grand jury or at a trial," Barrett says. "But after paying my room rent and meals and then fare back to my present home, there's nothing else for me and my wife. They flatly refuse to pay me any kind of subsistence."

Barrett has money, but that is being eaten away as he continues his strange, lonely existence.

Barrett was 12 when his family moved from Brooklyn to Baltimore. He joined the Baltimore police force after placing first out of the 1,400 men who took the test in 1959. He also finished number one in his class at the police academy.

As a policeman he was officially commended seven times in three years for acts of bravery.

He seemed destined for greatness or sudden death.

But, Barrett says, "I was getting $128 every two weeks. One day I went looking for a pair of shoes, and then suddenly realized I couldn't afford to buy them. I said to hell with it, it wasn't worth dying for."

He resigned and went to work for an insurance agency. Then Barrett began to move around from job to job, and along the way his name changed to Jim to his friends.

Married and the father of a girl, he moved along to nightclub in what they call "the block"—an area of strip joints, nightclubs, peep shows and "porno figures."

A friend got him a job managing the nightclub and he saved his money. Still another friend steered him into partnership in a pornographic bookstore.

Barrett says he was running the store for a month "dealing in filthy books, pornographic movies, you name it," when he suddenly realized, from his police background, that the stuff he was peddling wasn't being turned out by amateurs in furnished rooms, but by Mafia figures.

"I went to an old friend, a lieutenant in the police department, and told him I wanted out, and asked only that the force lay off until I could unload, because I wanted no part of what I finally realized I was into."

The lieutenant, however, advised him to continue, and make a profit if possible, but gather evidence as an undercover man. The FBI, he says was called into the case by the lieutenant.

For nine months, Barrett says, with the knowledge of the police and the FBI, he pretended to be what he not, gathering names, dates and places.

Then, a federal arrest was made, and he was included "to maintain my cover until it time to give evidence."

The case was brought to trial in Manhattan Federal Court and Barrett's testimony wound up with the conviction of seven pornographers, including Mafia figure Samuel F. Manarite.

Barrett headed back to Baltimore.

Back in Baltimore, he used the proceeds from the sale of the pornographic book store to open his own nightclub.

Barrett says his annual take from the club climbed to the $100,000 mark. He wasn't interested in, or thinking about, doing any more testifying for the government, even though he still knew a thing or two which hadn't been brought out in the New York trial on the Mafia control of pornographic materials throughout the nation.

Then, on June 2, 1971, something happened which brought about a massive change in Barrett's life.

He had become divorced, remarried and had custody of his daughter, living with his new family in a Baltimore suburb.

One day, instead of driving his old car home as usual, he traded it in for a new one.

At the shop where he traded in the car, a mechanic went to work on it to get it ready for resale. When he touched some wires, there was a near-fatal explosion.

Police reacted to the scene and found that the explosion was caused by dynamite caps.

Barrett gritted his teeth and prepared to do some long talking before grand jurors and the government strike force.

He has a copy of an official letter signed by New York City Attorney-in-Charge Daniel P. Hollman, dated June 10 that year, which reads in part: "This memorandum is written in support of a request for the government to relocate and provide an identity change for James Kevin Barrett also known as James Kelly."

"Barrett testified to October 1970 for approximately two days. He also supplied information to the FBI prior to that time."

His testimony and information was extremely significant...

Hollman continued: "Mr. Barrett went to considerable risk and expense to help the government and it is respectfully suggested that it is the government's obligation to relocate him and pay for any expense that he might incur in such relocation..."

Barrett was relocated, his identity changed, right down to new drivers, license and social security number. "Cover" identity was worked out to account for his recent years which would place him thousands of miles from Baltimore.

Despite the changes, the subpoenas to appear before grand juries kept coming. Hours of testimony, hundreds and hundreds of miles of travel, nights in motels-over 100 different motels in the United States and in Canada for himself and his new wife.

"My daughter was sent back to live with her mother," says Barrett. "It was no life for her."

At first the government money came, but Barrett says it started to dwindle as government administration changes took place.

Then, he says, there was no money, except for travel and meals when directly testifying. Barrett says he had to dip into his savings in order to subsist.

"Even with my new identity," he says, "I can't get a job, for several reasons. "If I take a job, how can I tell my new boss every couple of weeks that I have to mysteriously go away to Baltimore for a couple of weeks, month in and month out. No employer would stand for that. The alternative would be to expose myself, and take a chance on someone getting behind me or my wife.

"I can't even take a chance on getting picked up by the local cops for a driving accident or socking some guy for making a pass at my wife, or such thing. My prints would automatically be forwarded and when they came back it would be with my true identity. Again, all that government effort to build a new identity would be blown out the window."

"So," he says, "I can't work, but if this keeps up I'll have no money left so that when all the testifying is done I can open up a small business for myself and continue to live an anonymous life.

"I'm down to about $25,000 in savings now-and this can't go on. The Justice Department officials say they won't give me daily subsistence because I have money of my own."

"Why should some punk like Vinnie Teresa, who stole millions of dollars for himself and tens of millions for the Mafia, be totally supported by the government while I am allowed to head straight into poverty and for the welfare rolls?"

"And if that days comes, just what am I supposed to tell the welfare people-that I'm a secret agent?"

Barrett says he's bitter-and he doesn't mind who knows it.

He's supposed to appear at an upcoming trial in Baltimore but is trying to get the subpoena quashed on grounds his own civil rights are being violated by the government.

James Kevin Barrett is no longer a willing witness.

Motion Sickness A 'Fact Of Life'

TORONTO (AP) — If you suffer the miseries of motion sickness, you're in good company.

Lawrence of Arabia got sick when he bumped across the desert on his camel, Lord Nelson got sick when his ship rolled and pitched on the Atlantic; and Julius Caesar got a tummy ache when thundering along on his chariot.

"Another famous case," says physiologist Dr. K. E. Money, "was naturalist Charles Darwin."

"Apparently, he got so seasick that he got off his boat at every chance he could."

Motion sickness plagues mankind in airplanes, boats, automobiles, and swings and on other moving objects such as camels, elephants and roller coaster rides.

Dr. Money, who works for the defense research board of the defense and civil institute of environmental medicine in Toronto, said scientists are making some progress on the subject but they are still puzzled.

Some persons are so seriously afflicted that they get sick by just looking at a ship, a phenomenon Dr. Money described as a conditioned reflex.

Dr. Money said that scientists are missing a link in the chain of cause and effects and that there probably is a chemical within the body that, if isolated as the missing link, might lead to rapid discoveries and treatment procedures.

Some interesting discoveries have been made: for example, women are more susceptible than men and the rate of motion sickness is 25 times higher on ships than on airplanes.

Dr. Money said commercial drugs are reliable but also offered advice for those who suffer from the sickness.

For those who get sick in cars, he suggests that they keep a steady eye on the horizon because the visual stability appears to help the sufferer.

Leonid Brezhnev Looks Good By Soviet Measure

Student Sells Himself As A Human Guinea Pig

SEATTLE (AP) — David Cargo, 22, is a University of Washington senior in mathematics. He works as a computer operator. And he's one of the most popular human guinea pigs around.

In the past two years, he has popped pills, smoked marijuana, swallowed lengths of rubber tubing and been poked, pinched, prodded and examined—all for about $500.

"It was fairly easy money. It helped pay the rent," he said.

Another reason is curiosity, he said. And as a fringe benefit, "for most of the past couple of years, I've had one doctor or another looking over my health very, very carefully."

His first experiment paid $5 and was required for credit in a beginning psychology class. He had to maneuver a ball through a tilting maze, estimating before each attempt how far he thought he could get the ball to go.

His next job was drinking dissolved sugar at 30-minute intervals over a two-hour period while researchers took blood samples to see how fast the sugar was being absorbed by his body. He got $30 for that.

But what really sold him on selling himself as a guinea pig was when he was paid $20 for smoking a single marijuana cigarette.

"They did have people in the study who had been stoned before," Cargo said. "They wanted to test whether having one person who had been stoned before affected the people smoking the dope."

Another project paid $111 for Cargo to wear "nylon-like underwear, just like the Apollo astronauts used" to control his skin temperature while he was inside a device that forced his blood into his legs.

The purpose was to find out if "you should cover a shock victim and keep him warm," he said.

He now is taking four colchicine pills daily in a test to see if the compound, long used in treating gout, is effective as a male contraceptive.

Then there was the time he swallowed some quarter-inch rubber tubing. Scientists moved it up and down in his throat to measure the strength of the sphincter muscles in his esophagus.

He said the only offer he has refused was $100 to remove three grams of muscle tissue near the shoulder. It would have been painful and required his arm to be in a sling for a week, he said.

"Maybe I would have done it for $200. But $100? Never!"

By William L. Ryan
AP Special Correspondent

Something new has been added to the Soviet "cult of personality" sweepstakes, and it makes Leonid I. Brezhnev look really good.

The general secretary of the Communist party, looking more and more the big boss these days, still doesn't get as many "applauses" as Joseph Stalin got, but for a 15-minute speech on May Day, he did enormously well. He got some new type "applauses" too, that have not shown up before in the press.

When a big leader makes a big speech in Moscow, Pravda and the rest of the press in reporting the text insert in bold face, between parentheses, how and how often the audience interrupts with "aplodimentii," which comes out applauses, plural, in Russian.

"Applauses" always have been important to Kremlinologists. By examining Pravda carefully and adding up totals, one could tell just where a leader stood in the hierarchy by the number and type of interruptions credited to him in a printed text of a speech.

At the beginning of a Stalin speech, it would invariably be: "Stormy, prolonged applauses becoming an ovation; cries of 'Long live Comrade Stalin.' All rise." Thereafter in a 1952 speech, his last in public, he was interrupted by "stormy applauses" nine times, "prolonged applauses" three times, "stormy, continuous applauses" twice, "stormy, prolonged applause leading to an ovation" twice. Then at the end, it was: "From all parts of the hall cries of 'Long life to our great Stalin: Hoorah for the great leader of all the people! Glory to great Stalin, creator of all victories."

Nikita Khrushchev gave long speeches, so he got a lot of "applauses." In one typically long speech he got 48 plain, ordinary "applauses," 30 "continuous applauses," 11 "stormy applauses," 22 "stormy, continuous applauses" and, at the end, just one "stormy, continuous applauses. All rise. Cries of 'Glory to the Leninist Communist party of the Soviet Union! Glory to the great Soviet Union!'" No cries of glory to the leader, personally, however.

interruption was "stormy applauses, cries of Hoorah!" That happened four other times. He had one "stormy applauses," one "stormy, continuous applauses," five "stormy, continuous applauses; participants of meeting shout 'Hoorah!' two "stormy, continuous applauses, over the square thunders a many-voiced Hoorah!"

The final crowd reaction, according to Pravda, went this way:

"Stormy, continued applauses. Over Red Square rolls a mighty 'Hoorah!' not falling silent, becoming a warm ovation. Voices ring out 'Glory to the CPSU—Communist party of the Soviet Union—' 'Glory! Glory! Glory! Participants in the meeting sing the proletarian hymn, 'Internationale.'"

Arrest Man In Shooting

Investigation of a Friday night incident at Lawson's Trailer Park near here resulted in the arrest of a 32-year-old Greenville man on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and shooting into an occupied dwelling.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Linda Tripp, 22, of Lot 56, Lawson's Trailer Park, was shot in the chest with a .32 caliber pistol around 11:30 Friday night.

Sheriff Tyson said that Garland Lancaster of 1301 Cotten Road was arrested around 1 a.m. Saturday and charged with shooting into the mobile home occupied by Miss Tripp.

The sheriff reported that Lancaster was jailed under $8,000 bond and a hearing was scheduled for May 29 in District Court here.

Miss Tripp was reported in satisfactory condition this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

GOP Chairman Wants Campaign Dismantled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican party chairman George Bush says he wants to see President Nixon's re-election campaign dismantled and its money spent on helping GOP congressional candidates next year.

"These moneys were given to support the President," said Bush in an interview. "The best way to support him would be to gain control of one or another house of Congress."

His comments came after party officials said they feared a Wednesday fundraiser for the '74 election would meet only half of a $2 million goal.

He said he did not know the legalities of closing down the Committee to Re-elect the President, which is involved in lawsuits arising from the Watergate case.

Like his predecessor, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Bush has been trying unsuccessfully to obtain for the party funds left over from the Nixon re-election campaign.

Bush said future Republican fundraising efforts will be centralized under the new party treasurer, Nashville investment banker Pat Wilson, who reports directly to Bush.

GOP fundraising efforts in 1972 were completely outside the Republican National Committee and were headed by Maurice Stans, treasurer of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Bush said he was optimistic about the '74 elections because he felt the voters would distinguish between those involved in Watergate and party regulars.

"Since the party is separate from the illegal activities of the few, in my judgment the party will not be the loser," said Bush.

The 'Worry Clinic' Feeing Their Deflated Egos

Helen is heartbroken at the change in her new husband. He seems to love John Barleycorn far more than his new bride. But Helen is responsible for his tragic change in personality, though she doesn't even dream she is at fault. Study this case carefully!

By GEORGE CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE X-501: Helen D., aged 32, lost her husband 3 years ago. "Dr. Crane," she bogan, "I

"He was gallant and kind, so we finally fell in love and I married him 3 months ago. "But he soon began to drink heavily, though I had never known that he ever touched liquor. "Now he is becoming a drunkard and I fear he will lose his teaching position, for I can't cover up' for him entirely. "Dr. Crane, he is really a wonderful man so I am heartsick at this tragic turn of events. "What can I do to help him break off his addiction to alcohol?"

Ego Camouflage
When people begin to swill down alcohol to excess, beware! They are usually trying to run away from serious inner deflation of their ego. In psychiatry, we call alcoholism a "fire escape" from an inner "burn" that is destroying the victim's ego! What is the "burn" that would make a science teacher suddenly flee into alcoholism? Fear is often at the root of such drunkenness! John Barleycorn's victims thus may dread the police, if they have embezzled or killed or forged documents, so they try to hide in an alcoholic stupor. Others may likewise be terrified of death from cancer. Many women who have submitted to abortions, also are scared lest God will strike them down with insanity or a heart attack or especially cancer of the womb, so they use liquor as form of anesthesia for their conscience. Stage fright often starts many teenagers, as well as actors, into the use of liquor, for they mistakenly think alcohol gives you courage. Alas, it merely dopes your brain so you no longer appreciate the seriousness of the situation. Thus, you react like children, for you I.Q. is actually lower when you have alcoholized your brain. Some childless wives also take to liquor to anesthetize their conscience so they can enter into illicit affairs. But widows and divorced wives must always be doubly on guard against unwittingly causing good men like Helen's mate to seek the whiskey flask. Later this week I shall give you the actual confession of this science teacher, but keep in mind that second husbands usually worry about a "ghost."

And that ghost is the former husband of their present wife. For they make a mistaken diagnosis of the usual woman's lack of boudoir ardor and thus think they must be sexually inferior to the former husband! Their mental conflict of her second husband may be totally unsuspected by the wife, but it can render a normally ardent male platonic, even before the honeymoon is over. One of the basic causes of divorce in second marriages such as Helen's, is this secret sexual inferiority complex that develops in the second husband. So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. For a seductive wife is better than a psychiatrist in this type of case!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Rebuilding Old Warsaw Castle

By EDWIN SMITH
WARSAW (UPI) — Workmen rebuilding Warsaw's Royal Castle after 28 years in ruins are having problems the original 15th century builders did not face.

"We're having to dig down three to four yards beneath the original foundations to make room for heating and air conditioning tunnels," said engineer Henryk Pakula. An American-built air conditioning system will protect the many precious paintings and sculptures saved when the building was destroyed during World War II and to be restored to the rebuilt castle.

At this stage most of the work is heavy reconstruction of foundations and exterior walls. "We have about 350 workmen on the site, from the National Enterprise for the Reconstruction and Conservation of Monuments, plus 100 soldiers who have donated their labor under our social action scheme," Pakula said. Expert painters, plasterers and stonemasons will move in to recreate the elegance of the home of Poland's last 18th century king.

Reconstruction is a skilled profession in Poland, which suffered heavily in World War II. Many of those working on the castle are the sons and apprentices of the men who raised the first buildings out of the rubble that covered Warsaw in 1945.

NewlnmatesAt Children's Zoo

NEW YORK (AP) — Tamanduas, ferrets and hawks have gained roles in a children's zoo that is better known as the place for youngsters to pet gentle and familiar creatures like rabbits, sheep and ducks.

Opening its children's zoo for the 33rd summer season, the Bronx zoo has introduced new exhibits and some unfamiliar animals.

One new exhibit permits children to peer inside a real, working beehive. Attendants will carry around ferrets, hawks, owls and snakes for children to inspect and touch.

A most unusual animal there is the tamandua, an anteater from central America that has a prehensile tail that can grasp as a monkey's tail does.

Use newspapers to cover low-lying evergreens and shrubs near the house when you are painting. Keeps the plants and shrubs from becoming speckled with droppings.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN
© 1973 THE GOREN TRUST
BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠2 ♥KQ84 ♦KJ103 ♣7553
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♥ Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—This hand is worth about 12 points in support of hearts, and the suggested call is a jump to three hearts. This would be an overbid in case you had not passed originally but, if partner has made a shaded bid, he need not go on.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J2 ♥QJ95 ♦Q1076 ♣KQ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—A response of two no trump is our choice. This is not up to the standard of a two no trump response but in view of the previous pass, such a call may be made with 11 or 12 points. This hand contains 11, plus some slight values in the way of intermediates.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q54 ♥A109753 ♣7654
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♣ 1 ♥ 2 ♠ 3 ♥
4 ♦ 4 ♥ 6 ♣ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—In this situation, we would fear that the enemy can fulfill their slam contract and would choose to make a sacrifice bid of six hearts, but preparatory to doing so we would make a call of six diamonds so that if the enemy proceeds to seven clubs your partner will be apprised of your void in diamonds. Naturally, if doubled, it is your purpose to return to six hearts.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ54 ♥KQ654 ♦K2 ♣Q
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—Four no trump. A Blackwood call is recommended. It is not improbable in view of partner's strong bidding that he has three aces. If so, you should be willing to contract for slam. There is no real danger of getting overboard, for surely partner would not do such strong bidding without two aces.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1063 ♥A742 ♦AK64 ♣Q3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
3 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Four clubs. Since you have better than an opening bid, you should make one more try for game and the recommended call is four clubs. It is hard to visualize a hand on which a 10 trick contract would not be safe on this sequence of bids.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K2 ♥Q102 ♦AQ104 ♣AQ8
The bidding has proceeded:
East South
What do you bid?
A.—Our choice is for a bid of one no trump, which is preferred to the double for the reason that you have not ample preparation for the major suits. If partner chooses to bid hearts voluntarily, you will be prepared to support the suit.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠73 ♥Q95 ♦532 ♣K10764
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass Pass
2 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. You have not sufficient values to justify voluntary action. Partner's hand is limited to some extent by the fact that he failed to double but merely reopened as cheaply as possible with another suit. He probably counted on you for this much when he reentered the auction.

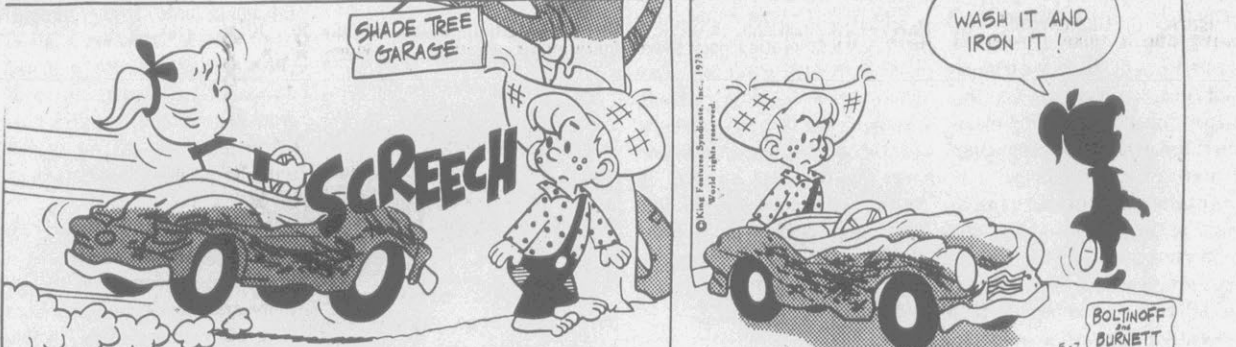

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10975 ♥K2 ♦10963 ♣Q32
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♦ Pass Pass
2 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. Partner must take your raise with a grain of salt inasmuch as you were unwilling to raise to two spades on the previous round. In view of your previous pass and the fit in partner's suit, you may take the liberty of raising.

Topless Craze Grows In Islam

EDITOR'S NOTE — While showing more than a navel is still technically unlawful, nightclub owners in North Africa and the Middle East are demanding topless displays. But taking a topless troupe through the land of the belly dance is as hazardous as saying "No" to an Ethiopian prince who's used to having his own way.

At the other end of the table Gabby is whispering urgently into the ear of Ferenc Lakatos, a former Hungarian freedom fighter who considers his street fights with Russian tanks in Budapest less hazardous than chaperoning a group of topless dancers through North Africa and the Middle East.

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
KHARTOUM (AP) — Gabby is a huge, oily man who never takes off his dark glasses, even at night, and sweats profusely. It's dinner time in the El Shark restaurant. Gabby's fat face is a veritable Niagara and his hand is perilously close to Beverly Wilde, a shapely 18-year-old topless dancer from Essex, England.

Lakatos shakes his head at Gabby's deal. The statuesque blonde is his wife and any fool can see she's worth more than 100 camels.

"You can have problems if you don't know the Middle East," he explains as Gabby wanders off.

Her pearly teeth sink into a plump Sudanese pigeon. Slap. Gabby withdraws his hand with a reproachful look.

Gabby is strictly bush league compared with the white slaver who tried to buy the Lakatos troupe in Tripoli, or the Ethiopian prince who locked the girls in his palace and refused to let them leave Addis Ababa without a private strip show.

Outside, a howling storm is depositing half the Nubian Desert on the streets of Khartoum and the outdoor stage of the Gordon Music Hall. The Lakatos Top Abundance Troupe has the night off because of the sandstorm.

"That's Africa," laughs Lakatos. "One day we're having lunch with Haile Selassie and the next day we're fighting off a crazy prince. Actually he's a very nice man. But when he drinks ... whoeee, look out."

"It stings," says 24-year-old Wendy Weaver of Middlesex, England.

Lakatos' wife, Ildika, was a prima ballerina in Hungary. The other nine girls in his troupe are modern dance graduates of the Arts Educational Trust in London. Most of them joined up for travel.

But even fully clothed, four generously-endowed British misses and a statuesque Hungarian blonde are a sensation in the sleazy El Shark. Khartoum's leading flesh peddler wants to buy the Lakatos dancers.

"Husband hunting? Not me," says 23-year-old Timea Oscar of London. "I've had four proposals, two of them from Arab oil sheikhs. But I'm not ready to settle down yet, even with a millionaire."

Ex-Inmates Try Farming

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — While thugs and robbers still suffer brutal punishments in many parts of Africa, Somalia, which already provides training and rehabilitation in prison, has taken another step forward with "after prison farm cooperatives."

"Who knows, maybe I'll make it big in show business," says the Gordon Music Hall is not exactly big-time cabaret but Lakatos insists he has come to out-of-the-way places like Sudan to "maintain the purity of dance."

At Lanta-bar, around 37 miles west of Mogadishu on the Shebelle river, 600 young ex-prisoners are learning farming. An initial squad of 140 set up a cooperative farm on a voluntary basis in the vicinity of the prison early last year after completing their sentences.

"Europe," he says contemptuously, "wants sex, not art."

The Ministry of Agriculture provided them with a stretch of wild forest land, bulldozers, food, seed and know-how. More than 60 of them quit within the first three months, but 80 ex-convicts decided to put up with the hardships and make farming their role in society.

"A little topless is all right. If a girl has something to show I let her show it. If there's nothing there it stays covered."

The first yield of the cooperative was around $6,300 and about 250 acres are now under cultivation. The cooperative provides tomatoes for a small processing factory nearby.

"I couldn't get a booking without it."

"It is a pilot project," says Gen. Ismail Ahmed Ismail, commander of the Prison Corps. "Its fate depends on successful expansion. If it succeeds, then it will be introduced to all the country's five agricultural regions."

His point is demonstrated at the following day's rehearsal in the Gordon Music Hall, which lies in the shadow of a mosque minaret.

"One, two, three ... one, two, three." The girls bounce across the stage to the goggle-eyed enjoyment of several Sudanese clad in long, flowing Gallabia robes.

"Hayye alal salah. ... come to prayer," wails the mozaen in the neighboring mosque.

No one turns to face Mecca.

INTERIM AGREEMENT
WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Workers at the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. in Winston-Salem have returned to their jobs following an interim agreement between union and management officials on contract terms.

—Geographic distribution. One-fourth of all older Americans live in just three states. New York, California, Pennsylvania. States with the lowest percentage of aged are Hawaii and Alaska.

—Sex and marital status. The 1970 census shows 11.6 million older women but only 8.4 million older men, a ratio of almost 139 older women per 100 older men. This disparity results from continuing trend for life expectancy to increase faster for females than for males. Prospects for the future are that this disparity will grow ever larger. The preponderance of widows among older Americans is a result of this difference in life expectancy. It is also influenced by the social custom of women marrying men older than themselves. Most older men are married; most older women are widowed. Close to 40 per cent of all the married older men are married to under-65 wives.

—Income and poverty. The older population is essentially a low-income group even though there are considerable numbers of wealthy among them. In 1970 half of the 7.2 million families with 65 plus heads had money incomes of less than $5,053. Almost a quarter had incomes less than $3,000; another quarter had $9,000 or more.

—Health costs. In fiscal year 1970, of the total of over $58 billion spent on personal health care, over $15.7 billion or 27 per cent was spent on persons aged 65 and over. Health care expenditures for an older person are three-and-one-half times those of an under-65 person.

A WILD RIDE — Rebecca Lincoln, 8, hangs on to a new spring-mounted ride in a city park in Richardson, Tex. The seat is fashioned into a mouse-like character which can be made to rock back and forth, almost touching the ground in front. This fisheye view shows the forward angle. (AP Wirephoto)

NOT SAYING MUCH — Mrs. John Dean, wife of fired White House lawyer John Dean, tells a reporter she has nothing to say regarding the Watergate Case as she answers a few questions at their home in Alexandria Sunday. Alexandria is a suburb of Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

Over-65 Group Is Big Factor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Facts and figures on older Americans make a complex mosaic.

Key features of this 20 million segment of the population, as put forth by Uncle Sam's Administration on Aging (AOA):

—Every tenth American is 65 or older. If the birth rate keeps dropping, some prognosticators estimate by the year 2000 it is possible that 50 per cent of the American population will be "over 50."

—In total numbers the over 65 population today represents a huge group, equaling the total population of all ages of the nation's 21 smallest states. In age alone they vary from just 65 to more than 125. Social Security is paying benefits to more than 5,200 centenarians!

—Sex and marital status. The 1970 census shows 11.6 million older women but only 8.4 million older men, a ratio of almost 139 older women per 100 older men. This disparity results from continuing trend for life expectancy to increase faster for females than for males. Prospects for the future are that this disparity will grow ever larger. The preponderance of widows among older Americans is a result of this difference in life expectancy. It is also influenced by the social custom of women marrying men older than themselves. Most older men are married; most older women are widowed. Close to 40 per cent of all the married older men are married to under-65 wives.

—Income and poverty. The older population is essentially a low-income group even though there are considerable numbers of wealthy among them. In 1970 half of the 7.2 million families with 65 plus heads had money incomes of less than $5,053. Almost a quarter had incomes less than $3,000; another quarter had $9,000 or more.

—Health costs. In fiscal year 1970, of the total of over $58 billion spent on personal health care, over $15.7 billion or 27 per cent was spent on persons aged 65 and over. Health care expenditures for an older person are three-and-one-half times those of an under-65 person.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Two mountain farming partners proved their 1971 state corn growing championship was no fluke by winning it again last year.

The 1972 North Carolina corn growing kings again were Charles Cook and Ernest Lawing of Horse Shoe. The yield on their Transylvania County river bottom corn land was 196.5 bushels per acre.

They won the title last year with a 205-bushel yield. "We were disappointed that we didn't have another 200-bushel entry in the contest, but we were very pleased with the way the North Carolina yields turned out," commented A. D. Stuart, North Carolina State University extension agronomist.

Stuart pointed out that the state contest had been won two straight years by 200-plus yields. The first one was in Wayne County in 1970.

North Carolina produced 1,340,000 acres of corn last year with an average yield of 80 bushels per acre — a state yield record.

Runners-up in the 1972 contest, which is administered by a committee of representatives of agricultural agencies, were father and son Guy and Oscho Deal of Rowan County with 176 bushels per acre. Third place finisher was William Wade of Lenoir County with 172.5 bushels.

A soil scientist at North Carolina State University predicts that the average yield of all crops produced in the state would drop 50 percent this year without the use of chemical fertilizers.

Dr. J. Fulton Lutz predicts that crop production would drop another 25 percent in 1974 as soil nutrients were further depleted.

Dr. Lutz said his predictions are made to show the serious questions raised by people who want to ban chemical fertilizers. Two states have passed legislation in recent years banning the use of fertilizers. In both cases, the legislation was quickly rescinded.

"We must learn to live with fertilizer or starve," Dr. Lutz stated.

He pointed out that North Carolina farmers never made more than 20 bushels of corn per acre prior to 1952. With the aid of more nitrogen and other fertilizers, the 1972 yield was 80 bushels per acre.

Fertilizers have helped wheat farmers triple yields in the last quarter century, and similar increases have been made in other crops.

Extension entomologists at North Carolina State University have expressed concern over "the failure of many farmers to take adequate precautions with some of the newer tobacco insecticides."

The specialists warn that most of the newer insecticides, unlike DDT, are dangerous to people handling them and to people entering treated fields.

Growers are urged to avoid any unnecessary use of insecticides and to handle the insecticides that are used carefully.

Research has shown that farmers are wasting money to treat for hornworms unless they have an average of five large hornworms for each 50 plants.

Last year only about 3 percent of the fields in the Border Belt had sufficient hornworms to justify treatment through the third week of June.

The entomologists pointed out that farmers should not try to stay ahead of the hornworms by applying insecticides as a preventive treatment.

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK

The 1973 county corn crop has been planted and farmers have experienced one of the fastest germination periods we have had in a long time. This short germination period has provided us with excellent stands of corn, but has also resulted in a number of weed control application problems. There are several chemicals which do a good job on post-emergence corn weed control and for a listing of these, contact your local agricultural chemicals dealers or the County Agricultural Agents Office.

Two sites have been selected for corn weed control demonstration plots. One of these is on the farm of Kenneth Dews, on the 264 By-pass across from Eastern Tractor Company, and the other is on John Dunn's farm, on the Bethel Highway about three miles north of Greenville.

All interested persons are encouraged to stop by periodically throughout the growing season and observe these demonstration plots.

Other corn tests which growers will be interested in are: A Liquid vs Dry Fertilizer Test on the Blount Farm in Bethel. The cooper for this test is Ray Andrews. And a Corn Population Test on the farm of Alton Johnson, Stokes. In this test, the same variety of corn has been planted at four different populations to determine stalk damage and yield reduction.

By the end of the week most of the peanut acreage in the county will have been planted. Even with the reduced seed quality this year we should have a good stand of peanuts. Farmers are reminded to pay close attention to weed problems and to use that cracking, or early post-emergence weed control application to provide for season-long weed control. For any questions on good weed control, please call us.

Many home owners have experienced problems with their dogwood trees. Either the trees didn't bloom, or they didn't look as good as they had previously. If they didn't bloom, sunlight may be the problem. Dogwood require large amounts of sunlight to do well. Another reason for few blooms is heavy fertilization the previous year causing fast growth.

If your dogwood had dark brown spots on the blooms and leaves, you may have a fungus disease called Anthracnose. This disease can be controlled by the use of a regular spray program with 2 teaspoons 50 percent WP Captan, to one gallon of water. The first spraying should be done as the buds break in the spring; the second at petal fall; the third at mid-summer, and the fourth at pre-dormant stage (after the flower buds are formed).

For further information, please call the Agricultural Extension Office 758-1196.

Public Invited To Real House

A spring open house for the public has been announced to take place at Real House on Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m. and continuing until 5:00 p.m.

Miss Holly Brenner, chairman of the Open House Project, has announced that from 4:30 to 5:00 p.m. in the afternoon, the Open House would conclude with a special awards ceremony.

REAL House is located at 300 East Eighth Street, at the corner of East Eighth and Cotanche Streets.

The public is welcome to attend and to inspect the REAL facilities.

Mississippi was the first state to have a planned system of junior colleges.

They recommend, instead, that farmers check or have their tobacco fields checked at least once per week. In this way they can detect a hornworm infestation before sufficient damage is done to cause a loss to the crop.

TOBACCO TALK

By RAYMOND D. COLTRAIN

It's time to start the watch for diseases. Now that the plants are being put into the field, we have to start using disease prevention measures. We have had some anthracnose noted in the county. Blue mold has shown up in a couple of places in the state.

In looking at these two diseases, blue mold causes a purplish, black colored leaf. The leaves will be erect and stiff. Anthracnose will make the leaf appear to have been burned with a chemical. Brown elongated spots will appear on the undersides of the leaf along the leaf veins and mid ribs.

Another disease to be on the look-out for on the plant bed is damping off. This may also occur in the field. The first symptom will be near the soil level. The stem will be very mushy and will be brownish in color and of course the rotting will be occurring.

The use of any fungicides containing ferban, maneb, zineb, or metiram will prevent these three diseases. If you already have them, spraying will help control the diseases. Watch out for old friend "Mosaic" and be sure to take all preventive measures possible. You can eradicate mosaic by being very careful... The chief symptom of mosaic is the light and dark green mottling on all or part of the leaves of an affected plant. The virus may be present in tobacco scrap, manufactured tobacco products, undecayed tobacco stalks and stems of a preceding crop, and some weeds. It is spread from plant to plant by mere contact. The use of the milk treatment prevents tobacco mosaic, but is of no value after the plants become infected. Workers should not smoke, dip or chew tobacco or tobacco products, and should dip their hands in whole or skimmed milk or in a mixture of 1 lb. dried skimmed milk to 1 gallon of water every 20 - 30 minutes while pulling plants and ridding plants in the transplanter.

If you have any questions, please call 758-1196, or come by our office at 203 W. Third Street.

Utility Is Using Solid Wastes

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Household garbage is helping beat the energy crisis in St. Louis. Union Electric Company, an area utility, is using municipal solid waste to produce electricity. Each ton of low sulphur refuse burned in the utility's boilers generates 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

The solid waste also is being mined for natural resources. Steel cans and other ferrous metals are magnetically removed from the garbage for recycling. A local steel company will use the scrap cans in place of an equal amount of iron ore to make new steel."

Bodega Bay, California, was discovered by Spanish explorers in 1775.

Stop working so hard for peanuts. Let Lasso® help.

Lasso is the preemergence herbicide from Monsanto that works—and works hard—for peanuts.

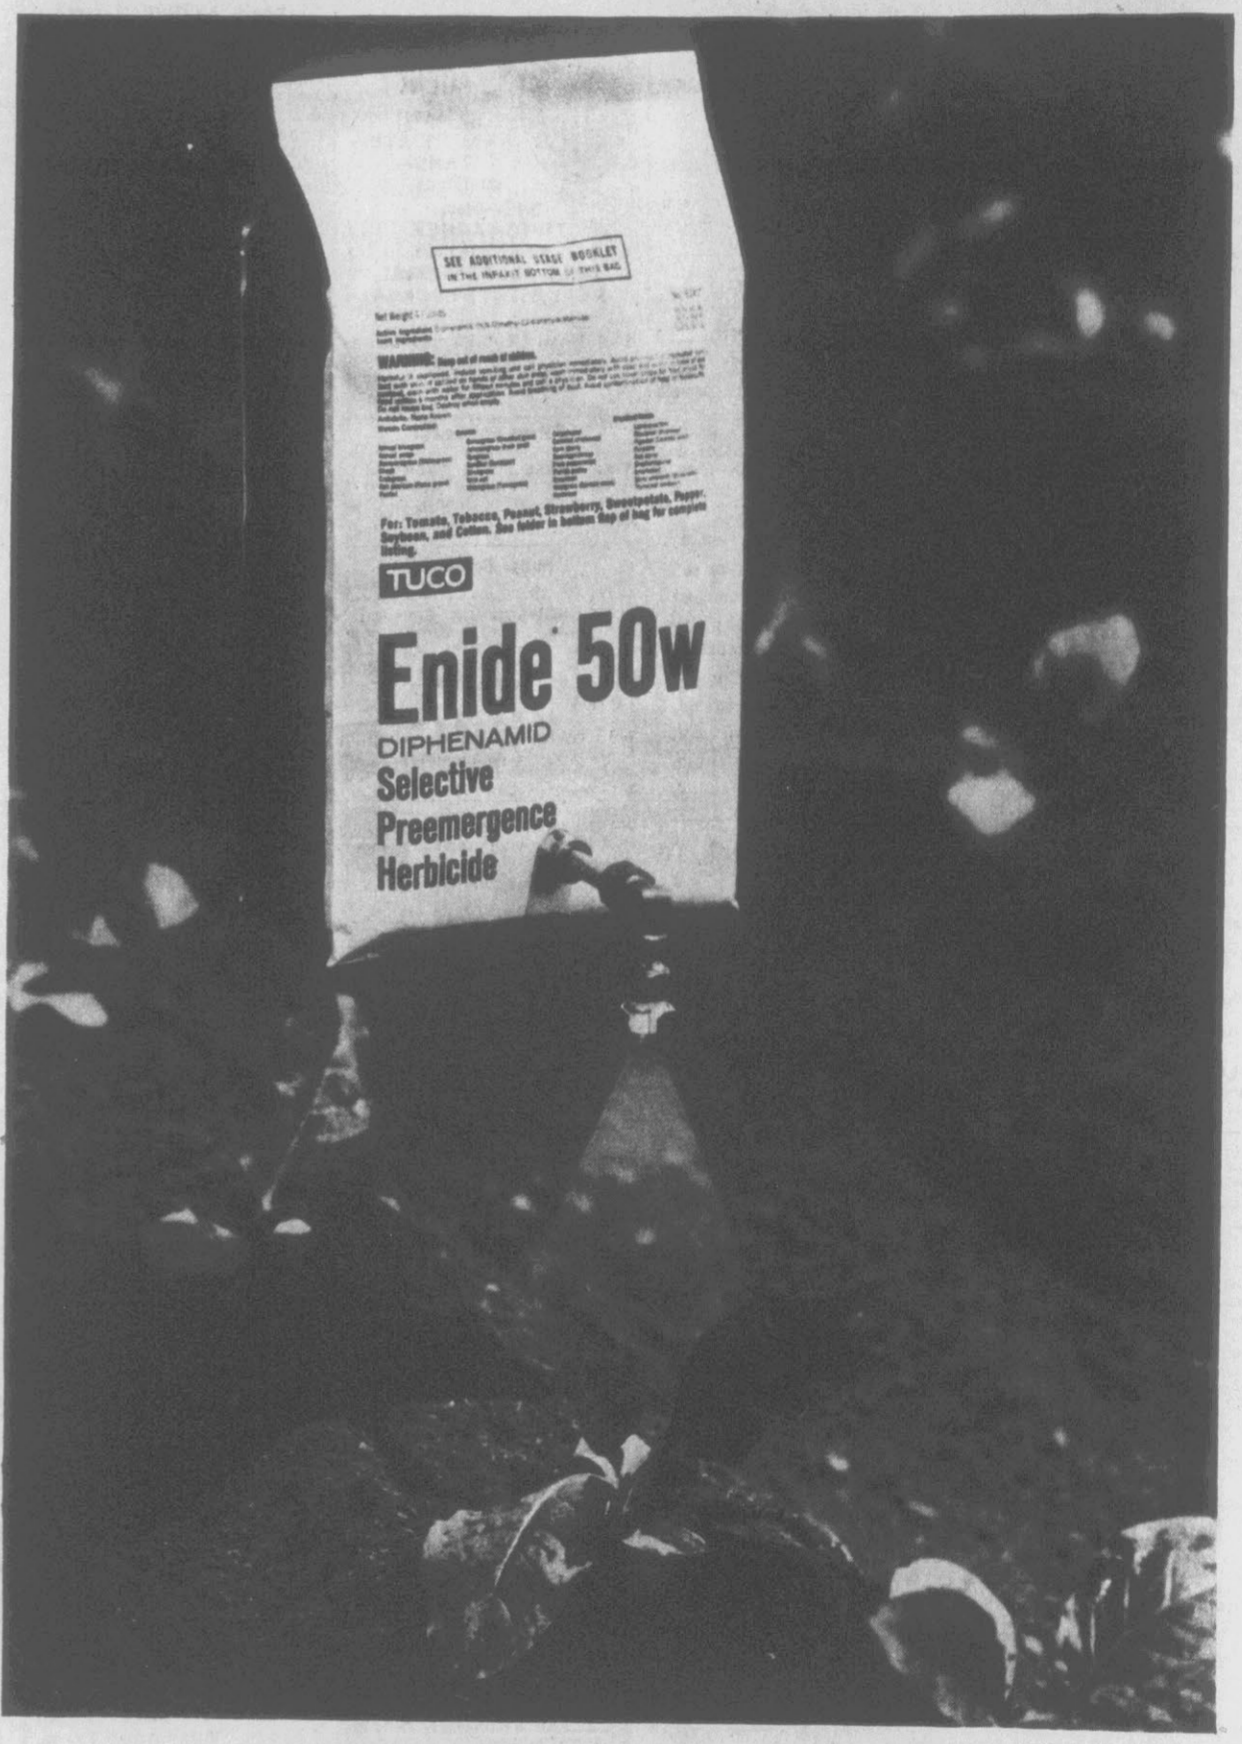

For openers, it's the preemergence herbicide proved effective against North Carolina's worst troublemakers: Crabgrass, Fall Panicum, and Pigweed. Plus many other annual grasses and broadleaf weeds that can diminish the quality of your yield.

You can stay with Lasso, too. Because it's also a great herbicide for your corn and soybeans.

Lasso is easy to use. Comes in convenient granules or easy-to-use liquid. Both forms make application easier.

Application that can be done at planting. No need to incorporate. Surface apply it, broadcast it . . . or, for real economy, band it on.

No matter how you apply Lasso, it's safe to your peanuts. Won't affect roots or stunt plant growth. And it doesn't carry over in the soil . . . which makes it safe to rotate to a second crop on schedule. Lasso. Effective. Convenient. Safe for your crop. Lasso. Works hard for peanuts. So you don't have to work as hard.
