May 17 Opening Is Set For Watergate Hearing

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced today that his special Watergate investigating committee will open hearings May 17 and has agreed to subpoena ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Ervin said that if the committee determines it is necessary Dean will be granted limited immunity from prosecution in order to obtain his testimony regarding high-level administration involvement in the Watergate scandal.

The committee's immunity grant does not prevent Dean from being tried and convicted on other evidence but only from having his own testimony used against him.

Dean is reported to have told government investigators that President Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up the role of top White House aides in Watergate.

The White House on Monday denied that the President had any role in any such cover-up.

Ervin said the long-awaited public hearing to probe Watergate and other presidential campaign activities will be held beginning at 10 a.m. May 17 and will be scheduled three days weekly, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursdays.

No witness list for the opening session was immediately available.

Federal prosecutors reportedly have refused to promise Dean that he will not be prosecuted for testimony to the federal grand jury investigating the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

This development could lead Dean to remain publicly silent on the affair until after any trial—which could mean months—for fear of possible self-incrimination.

Resume Lebanon Battle; Guerrillas Control Lost

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese air force jets kept up a steady attack on Palestinian guerrilla positions near the Beirut airport today as government and Palestinian leaders struggled to halt fighting that broke out again Monday night.

Informed sources said President Suleiman Franjieh and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat had agreed to a one-hour ceasefire to give Arafat a chance to bring his forces under control. But heavy gunfire could still be heard, and there were strong indications that Arafat and his associates had lost control of significant elements of the guerrillas.

The army reported a guerrilla attack on the airport had been repulsed. The airport, normally one of the busier crossroads in the Middle East, was reported closed because of shell craters on the runways.

Premier Amin Hafez submitted his resignation to Franjieh after only 19 days in office, reportedly because the air force jets had been ordered into action against the guerrillas.

One report said the president had not decided whether to accept the resignation.

As the army and the guerrillas battled on the outskirts of the capital with artillery, tank cannon and small arms, Franjieh ordered the air force to keep planes up constantly.

The government declared a state of emergency, reimposed an around-the-clock curfew and closed the airport.

An army communique said the Palestinians opened fire with rockets and mortars shortly before midnight on army positions in Bir Hassan, on the south side of Beirut. It said "fire was concentrated particularly on the airport and the army combat school on the airport road" and three soldiers were wounded.

Flares and tracers lit the night sky, and the government radio advised Beirut residents to turn out their lights. Machine gun, tank cannon and mortar fire could be heard from time to time during the night, and a rocket exploded in the city, wounding seven persons.

Two Hawker Hunter jets began attacking the guerrillas at dawn, twisting and diving over refugee camps near the airport and making repeated low-level passes. The fighters fired rockets and cannon shells at positions close to the Bourj el Barajneh camp and a resident nearby said guerrillas in both that camp and the Shatilu camp threw up heavy antiaircraft fire.

Heavy casualties were reported among the guerrillas, and ambulances raced in an out of the area.

The fighting spread to a refugee camp on the eastern edge of the capital.

Beirut Radio said Hafez submitted his resignation to Franjieh after a coexistence agreement he helped negotiate with the guerrillas Monday broke down in less than 24 hours.

Hafez was named premier April 25 after the Israeli raid into Beirut forced the previous government to bow out. His resignation put all power in the hands of Franjieh

U.S. Consul Freed By Guerrilla Band

By VICENTE MORALES
Assmciated Press Writer

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — "Thank God," said U.S. Consul General Terrance G. Leonhardy when he returned home Monday night and embraced his wife 76 hours after a guerrilla band kidnaped him on a street here.

"I am very happy," the 58-year-old diplomat said. With bloodshot eyes and a heavy, gray stubble on his cheeks and chin, he made a brief appearance for photographers supported by his wife on one side and Jack Higgins of the State Department on the other. But his doctor would not allow him to answer newsmen's questions.

Leonhardy was freed, tired but unharmed, 39 hours after the Mexican government released 30 persons from jail and flew them to Cuba to ransom the American.

"I can only express how happy I am to be free again and reunited with my family and with friends and colleagues, both Mexican and American," he said in a brief statement read to newsmen for him by a spokesman.

"I would also like to say how deeply grateful I am to all those who helped so much, and especially to the Mexican authorities whose constant preoccupation and efforts made my release possible."

There was no immediate word where Leonhardy was held after a group of armed men grabbed him Friday afternoon as he drove home alone.

Mrs. Leonhardy was in the United States at the time, beginning a 10-day visit with friends, but rushed back Saturday and joined the couple's two young daughters.

The first word of Leonhardy's release came when he called his home at 10:25 p.m. from a local bar. Jack Dennis, an information officer at the consulate, answered the phone.

"A woman was on the telephone with a very low voice, and she sounded strained," Dennis said. She told him: "Consul General Leonhardy is here."

"Where?" Dennis asked.

"Morelos 1864."

"May I speak with him?"

There was a pause, then a man's voice said: "This is Terrance Leonhardy."

"I recognized his voice right away," Dennis said. "Then his wife got on the telephone, and I didn't hear what was said."

A consulate car with a doctor picked him up and brought him home. He entered the house at 10:45 p.m. through a side door to evade the jam of newsmen and onlookers outside.

Budget Figure?

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly's Joint Appropriations Subcommittee today approved a state budget calling for total spending of nearly $3 billion during the next fiscal year.

The subcommittee will make its recommendations to the full appropriations Thursday, climaxing four months of legislative work on the budget and appropriations bills.

The co-chairmen of the subcommittee-Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, and Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance-recommended spending cuts of $48.3 million to bring the big budget in balance.

They recommended that a proposed medcal school reserve fund be reduced from $25 million to $7.5 million. Proponents of an expansion of the one-year East Carolina University medical school have been supporting the inclusion of a reserve fund in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Senior Citizens Week Proclaimed For Pitt Beginning On May 20

B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners yesterday signed a proclamation designating the week of May 20 as Senior Citizens Week in Pitt County, during the commissioners' afternoon session.

Upon a motion by the entire board, the commissioners adopted the proclamation resolution which said the county is "indebted to all county citizens over 65 years of age that have made contributions to the progress and development of the county through their knowledge, leadership and hard work, and noted that it is to the advantage of all residents of the county "to continue to have active involvement and participation of this increasing segment of our citizens in the design and development of programs for the betterment of the county through the use of their capabilities and experienced knowledge in all areas of community affairs...and...to recognize that these older adults are a valuable resource and can continue to make contributions to the county."

In other business during the afternoon, commissioners were told that the county received some $190,900 in federal revenue sharing funds on April 9; and it was reported that a local bill to abolish the 12 special school districts within Pitt County to form one district (with the exception of the Greenville district) has been ratified by the North Carolina General Assembly.

Passage of the school district bill does away with special districts which were formed in past years to provide supplemental revenues for schools in the various districts and consolidates the county into one district, granting authority for a maximum supplemental levy of 35 cents per $100 valuation t county-wide.

Single Disaster Agency Sought By Pres. Nixon

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate disaster activities in a single federal agency that would speed aid to victims while forcing the states to assume more responsibility in recovery from floods, earthquakes and other natural catastrophes.

"This bill would place greater emphasis on protecting people and property against the effects of disasters before they occur," Nixon said.

"While we cannot fully control the occurrence and the impact of disasters, we must do all we can to prepare for them, to prevent them, and to mitigate and remedy their effects."

The proposed Disaster Preparedness and Assistance Act is designed to standardize benefits for disaster victims; improve execution of the assistance program; prevent the misuse of benefits; strengthen preventive measures to minimize future losses, and increase the role of state and local governments in implementing the disaster program.

The President said the act "represents a comprehensive new approach to a very crucial problem." To ease the transition to the new system, if adopted, he proposed that during its first year of operation a special federal grant of $250,000 be provided to each state "to help it increase its disaster preparedness and assistance capabilities."

Nixon noted that there were a record 48 disasters in 1972, including tropical storm Agnes, and that so far this year "spring floods and tornadoes have brought tragedy to many areas of our country."

Besides centralizing major disaster activities in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), the bill would establish a single revolving fund for all disaster loans and a single Disaster Fund "for other kinds of disaster assistance such as low income and emergency housing grants."

It also will:

—Transfer from federal to state management the responsibility for temporary housing assistance and for such recovery programs as debris removal, repair and restoration of facilities, streets, bridges and utilities.

—Authorize federal grants to the states of up to 75 per cent of estimated cost of repair and reconstruction of public facilities and community services.

—Expand eligible facilities to include public recreation, Indian reservations, and private nonprofit educational, utility, emergency, medical and custodial care facilities.

Three Committees To Probe CIA Role In Burglary Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three congressional committees plan inquiries into the CIU's involvement in the burglary of the office of a psychiatrist who treated Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

All three committees oversee CIA operations.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., announced Monday that ranking present and former officials of the agency have been invited to testify on Wednesday before his Senate Appropriations subcommittee on intelligence operations.

He said James Schlesinger, CIA director, and Dr. Bernard Melloy, chief of the CIA's psychiatric division, would be among the first to testify.

The senator said his panel will hear later from Marine Commandant Robert E. Cushman Jr., who, while deputy CIA director, reportedly authorized the use of CIA equipment in the Ellsberg burglary case.

Another witness scheduled to testify later is Richard Helms, the former CIA director who now is U.S. envoy Iran.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., said his Armed Services subcommittee on the CIA would begin hearing witnesses Thursday.

The third inquiry was disclosed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the Senate's joint CIA oversight committee.

Two Attempted Rob Lenoir Bank

LENOIR, N.C. (AP)—Two males attempted to rob a branch of the First Union National Bank in Lenoir this morning, the FBI said.

An FBI spokesman said two men pulled up to a drive-in window at the bank at about 10 a.m. and presented the teller with a note demanding money.

No money was taken.

To Lay Down Weapons

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Indian militants holding Wounded Knee were to lay down their weapons today, ending a 70-day siege that claimed the lives of two of the insurgents but accomplished the militants' goal of calling national attention to Indian affairs.

The Feb. 27 takeover of this Pine Ridge Reservation village by militants of the American Indian Movement caught the nation's attention and held it for more than two months.

An agreement to end the armed conflict was signed Sunday by government negotiators, village occupants and traditional headmen and chiefs of the Oglala Sioux tribe.

Arrest Youth In Shooting Death

HICKORY,N.C. (AP)-Police in Hickory today announced the arrest late Monday of Gregory Hill, 18, of Hickory, on a charge of first degree murder in the shooting of Kenneth Lee Young, 17, in his Hickory apartment late Sunday.

Authorities said witnesses told them the shooting climaxed an argument involving black and white youths.

Hill remained in jail today pending scheduling of a preliminary hearing.

Food Program Failures Charged In N.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs says 70 of North Carolina's 100 counties are reaching one-third or less of their poor with food programs.

The committee, in a report, "Hunger—1973", says that although the South has made substantial gains in the last five years in subduing hunger, North Carolina has made almost no progress in supplying food to its poor.

The committee said there are 29 "hunger counties" in North Carolina. These are counties with more than 25 per cent of the population below povertylevel income and 33 per cent or more not benefiting from food programs such as food stamps or surplus commodities.

They were listed as Alleghany, Anson, Ashe, Avery, Beaufort, Camden, Cherokee, Chowan, Clay, Duplin, Gates, Granville, Harnett, Hoke, Jackson, Johnson, Macon, Nash.

Also Pamlico, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Richmond, Robeson, Vance, Watauga, Wilson and Yancey.

In addition the committee listed 41 "failure-to-feed" counties. Counties in this category have more than 25 per cent of the population above the povery level, but fail to reach at least one third of their poor. On this list were:

Alamance, Alexander, Buncombe, Burke, Cabarrus, Caldwell, Cartaret, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Cleveland, Craven, Cumberland, Currituck, Dare, Davidson, Davie, Gaston, Guilford, Haywood, Henderson, Iredell, Lincoln.

Also, McDowell, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Moore, Onslow, Orange, Polk, Randolph, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Stanly, Stokes, Surry, Transylvania, Wake, Wilkes and Yadkin.

Standard Oil Announces Gasoline Rationing Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of California has announced plans to ration gasoline to its 21,000 service stations across the nation in an effort to meet anticipated heavy fuel demands later this summer.

Although some neighborhood service stations may have to limit the number of gallons sold to customers, gas deliveries would not drop below last year's sales volume of some 15.3 million gallons a day, a company spokesman said Monday.

"This is a preventive measure more than anything," the spokesman said. "Our inventories are lower than last year at this time and there's always a marked increase in gasoline consumption during the summer."

Limited domestic refining capacities, shortages in natural gas supplies last winter, reduced gasoline mileage of new cars, and "a general speed-up in the economy" have "severely" drained inventories, the spokesman said.

Texaco, Mobil and Shell Oil companies already have announced similar rationing plans, he said. Standard has a total of 5,600 stations in California with most of the rest in western and southeastern states.

Fireproofing Children's Sleepers Causes Problem

By SANDRA GITTENS

NEW YORK (AP) — Textile and clothing manufacturers are still having problems trying to meet new government standards requiring children's sleepwear to be fire-resistant.

By July 29, all domestic and imported sleepwear up to size 6x must meet federal requirements and withstand 50 normal machine washings while retaining fire-resistant qualities.

One major problem is finding a fire-resistant treatment effective and usable for all fibers now used in children's sleepwear. Each fiber reacts differently to fire. Synthetics are usually less flammable than cotton, linen and rayon. But synthetics such as nylon, polyester and acrylics often melt as they burn. The sticky substance that results produces localized burns.

Fiber manufacturers have found that fabrics treated to be fire-resistant need special care. For example, treated cotton flannelette cannot be washed with bleach or low-phosphate detergent or sent to a commercial laundry.

Costs are another problem. Textile experts warn that consumers ultimately will have to foot the bill. They fear added costs could run into millions of dollars. But in 1967 when Sears Roebuck introduced and promoted fire-resistant sleepwear, customers disliked the smell, feel and durability. They felt, also, that they were being told they were not good parents. They refused to spend the extra dollar for treated sleepwear.

Dr. Enid Tozier, president of the Association of College Professors of Textiles and Clothing, believes the federal standard is bad because "There is no 100 per cent effective treatment for fire resistance."

One company which says its fibers can pass the flammability tests is Allied Chemical Corp. James Houston, director of apparel marketing, says nylon sleepwear made from their fibers is not flammable, but that seams and trims applied by manufacturers cause problems.

All ornaments, appliques, designs or other exposed materials applied to children's sleepwear are expected to pass the government tests. Because of this, seams are being made from nylon or polyester to eliminate a "wicking effect," Houston said.

Three possible routes to passing government standards are suggested by Monsanto Textiles Co. They are fabric finishes, fabric construction and fiber modification.

But Monsanto has found that fabric finishes have varying longevity and may weaken the fabric and have toxic side effects. Fabric construction points to the inexplicable fact that some normally flame retardant fibers fail to pass the test in certain construction while marginally acceptable fibers pass.

The fiber modification way seems to be the surest long range solution to the problem. But Monsanto says there are not enough varieties of flame retardant fibers to meet the demand.

At a Spring Mills conference on consumer protection and flame retardant fibers, Dr. Ruth Hovermale of Winthrop College, S.C., reviewed factors which affect consumer choice: durability, care, allergies and odor. She said that in areas having water with a high mineral content, the fire retardant characteristics of fibers are often destroyed in laundering.

Sidney Edelstein, president of the Dexter Chemical Co., says his company found after a two-year study that residual traces of chemicals remaining in a fabric after scouring and dyeing often contributed to flammability — even those agents originally put in to check it.

"We have discovered that you have to actually flameproof your chemicals," Edelstein says, "otherwise you may be contributing to the problem rather than reducing it."

So until July 29 — and probably after — the best safeguard against burns, according to Hans Grige, technical consultant for the National Safety Council's home department, is close parental supervision.

Hire Gardener To Clean Neighbor's Yard?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have had our house up for sale for months [because of a transfer]. It is in a most desirable neighborhood and is unusually beautiful, with lovely lawns and gardens.

Our broker has told us that it would have been sold long ago except for the neighbors who share our driveway. Their yard is in dreadful condition! The conclusion of the prospective buyers is that hippies must live there. This is far from the truth as they are wonderful people and good friends and neighbors in every other respect.

I would gladly hire my gardener to clean up their yard—but of course I don't want to humiliate them—so we remain unsold and we may have to reduce our price to the level where other careless people can afford it. In that case we would be doing a disservice to our other good neighbors as well as hurting our own financial position.

So, Abby, be a good girl and pass on a hint that no doubt would be appreciated by property sellers all over the U. S. A. STYMIED IN SALEM

DEAR STYMIED: You must be kidding! Why don't you tell these "wonderful people," whom you call your "good friends," to clean up their yard not only for themselves but for you? And if you would "gladly" hire your gardener to clean up their yard but fear "humiliating" them, go ahead and hire him. Those neighbors need to be humiliated.

DEAR ABBY: After 18 months, I'm still hopelessly in love with my ex-wife. Are there statistics available regarding the incidence of second marriages to the same partner? Do they work better than the first-timers?

Not knowing where she and our two children are complicates matters. Reading this may move her to contact me if she has experienced the same doubts and loneliness that I have felt since the day we parted. HEARTBROKEN IN DINUBA, CAL.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Forget the statistics and get down to cases. If she's keeping her whereabouts a secret from you, that's probably the way she wants it, in which case I suggest you forget it. If that's not the case, ask her lawyer to get in touch with her and try to negotiate a reconciliation.

DEAR ABBY: I have a tender face and my husband has a rough beard. It was no problem getting him to shave before going to bed. On our honeymoon I said: "Old men shave in the morning, and young men shave at night."

We've been married for 27 years, and he still shaves at night. CUDDLED AT NIGHT IN VA.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Prison Sentence With Difference

REIMS, France (WNS)—Mrs. Roger Drouet, 39, objected when her husband was sentenced to 13 months in prison for drunken driving and injuring a pedestrian. She told the judge that her husband is the only provider for their family of 13 children and that he got drunk from depression over their living conditions. "We still live in a barracks even though our names have been on the city's housing list for 18 years," she testified. The judge reduced the prison sentence to five years and ruled that Drouet can serve it at night, after working all day to support his family.

Resource-Shortage Warning Supported By Agency

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial theory that resources shortages may actually threaten modern civilization today won official support from a U.S. government agency for the first time.

In the first comprehensive survey of U.S. mineral resources since 1952, the U.S. Geological Survey warned that "not merely (U.S.) affluence, but world civilization" are "in jeopardy."

The Geological Survey published a 722-page, item-by-item analysis of U.S. supply and demand in 64 mineral resources and warned that many of them are, or will be, in short supply.

A study prepared at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology two years ago, called "The Limits To Growth," warned that modern civilization would overshoot the world's ability to sustain it, and would collapse unless population growth and industrial production are soon curtailed.

A similar view was expressed by British scientists in a paper called "Blueprint for Survival."

But such ideas have been criticized by others, including public officials, who charged that the gloomy projections were based on inadequate data and shaky assumptions.

The new Geological Survey study, which set itself the task of gauging the adequacy of mineral supplies for the future, thus lends new, and for the first time official, support to the dire warnings of the "Limits" and "Blueprint" studies.

"Careful study of ... the volume in its entirety," wrote editors Donald A. Brobat and Walden P. Pratt, "leads to the conclusion that only a few commodities are readily available to the United States in quantities adequate to last for hundreds of years.

"By no means is it too early to become concerned about future mineral supplies—and to start planning.

"The real extent of our dependence on mineral resources places in jeopardy not merely affluence, but world civilization," they said.

Brobat and Pratt urged that the environmental problems of mining "enormous volumes of low-grade ores" should be tackled "squarely, realistically, and soon ... between industry and the public at large."

They pointed to "the extent to which many potential by-products or coproducts are literally being wasted—lost forever—because there is no apparent economic incentive for recovering them."

Geological Survey Director V.E. McKelvey, in a chapter on mineral resource estimates and public policy, expressed personal confidence that the world can develop adequate mineral resources to support and create high standards of living for thousands of years to come.

McKelvey based his view on the "undeveloped potential ... in each of the processes by which we create resources," saying that "our experience justifies the belief that these processes have dimensions beyond our knowledge and even beyond our imagination at any given time."

Death Penalty Restored In About Dozen Of States By Lawmakers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lawmakers in about a dozen states have restored the death penalty, and measures to bring back capital punishment are under consideration in at least 15 more states.

An Associated Press survey showed that measures reinstating the death sentence for certain crimes have been enacted in Florida, Montana, Nebraska, Georgia, Connecticut, Nevada, Arkansas, Wyoming, Ohio, Indiana and Utah. Tennessee legislators also have passed a capital punishment bill that is awaiting the governor's signature.

The Supreme Court ruled last July, in cases involving Texas and Georgia, that the death penalty as imposed in most states was unconstitutional. The ruling left the way open for capital punishment to be reinstated, providing it is imposed uniformly.

Most of the new laws and the pending measures list specific crimes for which the death penalty may be imposed—usually the killing of a policeman or fireman and various other types of murder.

The most recent restoration of the death penalty came in Connecticut and Nevada where action was completed last week. In both states, the conditions leading to imposition of the death penalty include the murder of a policeman or fireman on duty, murder for pay and murder committed by prison inmates serving life sentences.

Arguments over just when the death penalty should be imposed—if at all—have stalled capital punishment bills in several states.

In Pennsylvania, for example, the House Law and Justice Committee combined six measures into one bill that would have mandated death for persons furnishing drugs that cause a user's death, for hired assassins, for anyone convicted of a felony that results in death, for killers of on-duty policemen or firemen and for those who murdered a hostage or committed a killing during a hijacking.

After two days of heated debate, the measure went back to committee for further work. Opponents claimed that the bill had too many inconsistencies.

Rep. Robert Wise of Williamsport argued: "A man could kill his neighbor's wife, draw and quarter her and he wouldn't be put to death. Yet, an accomplice to a bank robbery where an accidental murder occurs would be put to death."

The Mississippi legislature passed a bill that would have made the death penalty mandatory for a convict committing a murder and for persons convicted of premeditated murder, aircraft piracy, treason and rape of a child under 12.

Gov. Bill Waller vetoed the bill, saying that, although he favored restoration of capital punishment, the measure enacted was unclear. He recommended that the issue get top priority at the next legislative session.

Killed Off Over 200 N.C. Road Projects

RALEIGH (AP) — Some 210 Scott administration secondary road jobs which the state Highway Commission deleted at a meeting in Hickory last Wednesday were "not in the best interest of the taxpayers," Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz said Monday.

Lentz said in a prepared statement that some of the $5.8 million worth of secondary roads jobs which the commission axed "were simply out of priority."

He said that in some cases "facts on rating sheets appeared to have been inflated either intentionally or unintentionally."

"We found a case in which property owners were assessed much, much less than the proper amount for paving a road under the property owners' participation plan," Lentz added.

He noted a bill is pending in the General Assembly to require the Highway Commission "to go ahead with all projects approved by the previous commission."

"This would be most unfortunate if the department was ordered to build roads to help residential developers fulfill the obligations they should fulfill, or to continue projects which were so far out of line with priority procedures," he asserted.

Arrest 5 In School Brawl

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP)—Albemarle police say there will be more arrests in connection with a disturbance Monday at Albemarle High School. Five pupils were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct following the outbreak of fighting between blacks and whites.

All five were later released on bond.

One 19-year-old who was not a pupil was arrested for trespassing on school grounds, police said.

Authorities estimated about 15 to 20 pupils were involved in the fighting. The school operated a regular schedule Monday and was expected to remain open today.

A bomb threat was telephoned to the school Monday afternoon, police said. The school was cleared and firemen searched, but no bomb was found. Classes resumed.

Officials indicated that some blacks were upset over the method of electing cheerleaders at the high school.

The school was closed Friday morning after scuffling erupted in the halls between classes.

Stock Split By Jefferson Pilot

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Jefferson-Pilot Corp., which has insurance broadcast and newspaper interests, is splitting its stock 2 for 1.

It has been paying a quarterly dividend of 23 cents s share. It wsll pay 24 cents to shareholders on record May 18th, and then contemplates paying 12 cents a quarter after the split is effective June 1.

Directors authorized the split Monday, after directors had proposed it three months previously. It will double authorized shares to 40 million.

The company announced net income of $8.1 million for the first quarter of this year, equal to 68 cents a share. Figures for a year earlier were $6.8 million and 57 cents a share.

Out Of The Lawmakers' Hands

A mixed drink bill has been approved by the State Legislature and North Carolina voters will decide the issue in a referendum Nov. 6.

There must have been a sigh of relief from many long time legislators that the issue was at last out of their hands, for it has been something that the lawmakers have wrestled with through many sessions.

If the mixed drink measure is approved by the voters counties which have ABC stores could allow mixed drinks through petition of the county commissioners to the State ABC Board; or through a county referendum called by the county commissioners or by petition of 20 percent of the county's registered voters.

There would be restrictions on mixed drink sales. They would be allowed in Grade A restaurants seating at least 36 persons or in convention centers seating at least 200 persons.

Arguments for and against mixed drinks have been repeated through the years. Wets argue that convention and resort centers need mixed drinks if they are to draw visitors from other states which have mixed drinks. They also argue that less alcohol will be consumed in mixed drinks than is now consumed in an evening under the present "brown-bagging" arrangement.

Dries argue that we do not need any more ways to consume liquor under any circume liquor under any circumstances. Both sides this year apparently decided that the matter was going to come up again and again in the State Legislature and the only way to remove it as an issue was to gain a decision from the people in a referendum.

Dry forces have pledged a major campaign against passage of the mixed drink issue and it is certain that various groups allied with travel, convention and resort business will be pushing for approval.

It is a matter which every voter owes it to himself and his state to consider carefully between now and Now. 6. The way the vote goes in the referendum will probably determine North Carolina's course on liquor by the drink for a number of years.

Liquor Again Up To Voters

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—For the third time in the 20th century, North Carolinians will go to the polls this fall in a statewide referendum involving the sale of liquor.

BRYAN HAISLIP

In 1908 and 1933, Tar Heels voted overwhelmingly dry. Will history repeat itself in 1973 on the question of legalizing liquor-by-the-drink"

Proponents and opponents are divided on the prospects, but they agree that an intense, emotional and expensive campaign will precede the answer at the ballot box on Nov. 6.

The General Assembly's enactment of the referendum bill last week fixed the date and set the stage for public debate on the merits and hazards of a system permitting mixed drink sales.

The issue is apt to polarize urban versus rural sentiment, and raise heated arguments about the evils of alcohol, promotion of travel and convention business, private profit in liquor sales, and the best means to control alcoholic beverages.

Dry leaders acquiesced to the legislation, shifting tactics from opposition in past sessions to limited, local option votes on the question. They look to defeat the proposition on a statewide basis.

Opponents Have Challenge

"Were not cocky. We know we face a real challenge in organizing and financing a campaign," said J. Marse Grant of Raleigh, editor of The Biblical Recorder, state Baptist publication, and a dry leader

"I feel confident the people of the state do not want liquor-by-the-drink. Of course, nobody knows until we go to the polls."

An effect, Grant estimated, will require an active group in each of the 100 counties and a minimum of $250,000.

The focus of opposition will be given by the Christian Action League, an organization of churches and citizens which already has a contact in every county. Billboards, brochures, a speakers bureau, and all elements of a full-scale campaign will rally dry forces to defeat the issue.

An equally vigorous effort can be expected on behalf of liquor-by-the-drink, long an elusive goal sought by cities and resort areas. They are likely to provide the major source of support, in votes and in financing a campaign.

The North Carolina Travel Council, active in the cause in the past, did not lobby for the state referendum. It may well participate in urging a favorable vote.

How It Works

That outcome would open the way for mixed drink sales in each of the 85 counties which now has at least one ABC store within its borders.

Implementation would come through a petition of the county board of commissioners to the state ABC board, or a countywide vote on the question called either by county commissioners or upon demand of at least 20 per cent of the county's registered voters.

Sales would be restricted to Grade A restaurants serving at least 36 persons, or convention centers seating at least 200 persons. They could choose between liquor-by-the-the-drink and the present practice of brown bagging.

Legislators who gave the people the right to vote on the issue have differing opinions on what they will do with it.

"I have doubts that it will pass," commented Rep. Jimmy Love of Lee, chairman of the House ABC committee.

Close Vote Seen

"I predict it will be very close," said Sen. Arthur Williamson of Columbus, chairman of the Senate ABC committee. "Rural areas will vote very strong against it, and urban areas will be strong for it. I look for heavy campaigning on the subject."

Optimism was expressed by Rep. Claude DeBruhl of Buncombe, long an advocate for liquor-by-the-drink. Disgust with brown bagging and the desire for better control will turn voters to the new system, he said.

"The question all along has been the fear of dry forces to submit to a referendum for fear it would pass," he said. "People are more in possession of the facts, and they understand that this method will give better control of alcohol."

A couple of opinion surveys have indicated liquor-by-the-drink would be approved in a statewide vote, said Rep. Laurence Cobb of Mecklenburg. Getting out the urban vote, he added, will be the deciding factor.

"I hope it passes, but I fear it will not," said Rep. Robert Vance Somers of Rowan. "I want to see the issue settled and taken out of the legislature where it has taken far too much time and talent already."

The prospect of a low turnout in rural areas and a heavy vote in the cities gives a good chance the proposition will pass, said Rep. Dan Lilley of Lenoir, a staunch dry leader. "The challenge to those who oppose it is to get their folks to the polls," he added.

Sec. Dent Was Also Deceived

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON – THe depth of White House deception of President Nixon's own official family reached a barely credible low point in February when two top White House aides promised Secretary of Commerce Frederick Dent that Jeb Stuart Magruder was wholly innocent of any involvement in Watergate and ordered Dent to hire him.

Frederick Malek, who had been the President's personnel chief before becoming deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, was one of those two aides.

It is entirely possible that Malek was personally unaware of Magrucer's deep involvement in Watergate, but that in itself would be a most sinister possibility. It would mean that the White House aides who did know the facts were using an unwitting Malek as their agent to place such Watergate-tainted aides as Magruder in new and high government posts.

But White House counsel John Dean III, described by high former administration officials as the second of the two White House aides involved in selling Magruder to Dent, most definitely did know all about Magruder's Watergate involvement.

Dean was the author of the in-house Watergate report for the President last summer which completely whitewashed the White House of any Watergate involvement. For Dean not to have known about the complicity of Magruder, then with the Committee to Reelect the President, in inconceivable.

But White House pals of Magruder, a protege of ex-staff chief H. R. Haldeman, apparently felt more loyalty to Magruder for having agreed to deny under oath and Watergate knowledge or complicity than to Dent or to President Nixon's Commerce Department.

Dent, clearly concerned about what amounted to a White House order to give Magruder a $36,000 - a -year job which did not require Senate confirmation, was told by the White House that Magruder had been "cleared bythe (Watergate) grand jury" and that Dent had noting to worry about. (Dent also told friends that under American jurisprudence a man is innocent until proven guilty.

Magruder worked in his Commerce Department job, driven around town in a chauffeured limousine paid for the Committe to Reelect the President, until he was fired on April 27. That was shortly after he went back to federal prosecutors and began to sing.

GOP SUES FOR DIVORCE

An extraordinary private communication from sponsors of the big (but undersold) fund-raising dinner May 9 for the House and Senate Republican campaign committees contains a flat statement that "the Republican party was not involved and ought not to be implicated in the Watergate incident."

That quote, from an April 25 statement by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, former party chairman, was included in a communication to party fat cats under the letterhead of "New Majority Dinner Committee," which said:

"At no time has the Republican National Committee or its financial arm, the Republican National Finance Committee, or the congressional or senatorial committees, been accused of any wrong doing in their political activities or handling of campaign funds last year."

The reason for this appeal for mercy, based on the fact that the White House-supported Committee to Reelect the President had no links to the Republican National Committee, is the threatened failure of the May 9 fund-raising dinner to yield anything like what it should. As of two days ago, less than $600,000 in cash and had been taken, in about half the goal for one week before the event itself.

Sponsors of the dinner hoped the claim by Dole that the "Republican party" as such had nothing to do with

Strength For Today

THE GUIDE IS THERE

During the nineteenth century the Crystal Palace of London was a favorite place for the holding of expositions and conventions. It also contained a mirrored maze in which people could wander for hours without being able to find their way out. But above these labyrinths a man was stationed on a high platform visible from every passageway. If a wanderer became completely confused and was hopelessly lost, he could always call to the man on the platform and ask to be guided out. Then, by simply following the directions of the guide, shouted down from the platform, the wanderer could find his way out of the maze.

This is illustrative of the way we can all look up to God in an hour of bewidlerment and be led through the maze of this world's circumstances. Some people never look up, but grow more bitter and confused as they wander from place to place trying to find peace. They need to raise their eyes. The Guide is really there.

THAT'D BE A GREAT TURN OF EVENTS!

It's Time To Go Metric

A House subcommittee will resume hearings this week on a proposal nearly as old as the Republic itself — a proposal that the United States officially "go metric." It is high time, in my own view, to set the project in motion.

The operative word here is "officially." Important segments of American science and industry have been slipping unofficially into the metric system over a period of years. The pharmaceutical industry, for one example, converted 15 years ago from the old drams and grains to milligrams and grams. Only last month, General Motors announced that it will switch to the metric system for all new products. Ford's next four-cylinder engine will be metric. Camera film everywhere is sold in such sizes as 35-millimeter.

The decision before Congress, as a practical matter, is not whether the international metric system will come into increasing use, but whether conversion will be planned or unplanned. The principal bills before the subcommittee, sponsored by Robert McClory (R-Ill.) and Olin E. Teague (D-Texas), differ only in proposing an officially planned conversion over a 10-year period.

Such a conversion wouldn't be easy, as spokesmen for the AFL-CIO and for various industries have made clear. Within the steel industry, the subcommittee has been told, a changeover would cost an estimated $2.16 billion, and these massive costs would produce "little or no benefit." Absorbing such costs in only part of the problem: Millions of workers would have to be taught to "think metric" and to speak in a new vocabulary of kilograms and centimeters.

Proponents of conversion acknowledge these arguments, but contend the difficulties are overblown. Great Britain, now well into its own conversion program, has discovered that much of its timetable was not too fast, but too slow. Japan, which converted in 1961, has had the same experience. Neither Australia nor Canada has encountered insuperable obstacles.

The uncomfortable fact, it is the United States is now in a lonesome class with such industrial giants as Tonga, Trinidad and Gambia. All the rest of the world has gone to the metric system. If major U. S. exporters are to compete in world markets, sooner or later, regardless of congressional action, they will have to follow the lead of the automobile and the pharmaceutical industries.

An act of Congress, officially fixing the international metric system as our standard of weights and measures, would greatly accelerate this trend. If the government were to require that all of its own purchases and operations be conducted in metric units, the rest of the country willy-nilly would be dragged along. It would be a while before postal clerks began to sell stamps for a three-kilogram package, but the time of transition would pass.

The foreseeable difficulties could be considerably eased by programs of soft and subtle indoctrination. It might startle TV viewers — but only briefly — to be told on the evening news that tomorrow's winds would be at 9 miles, or 14.4 kilometers, an hour. A housewife, buying a new measuring cup, would not be inconvenienced if the units were in ounces on one side and milliliters on the

Other Editors Say Still Higher Prices

(Henderson Dispatch)

Everyone who eats—and all of us have to—is concerned and worried about high prices. But if speculation in some quarters is borne out in fact, "you ain't seen nuthin yet." And this particular threat cannot be laid to inflation.

Floods have devastated millions of acres of cultivated farm lands in the Middle West which have been inundated by unprecedented floods. There has been too much rain in some parts, too cold in others, too many storms, heat followed by cold and vice-versa, all of which constitute a threat to crops this year in states which are the nation's bread basket.

Even higher prices for meat, fruit and vegetables later this year are forecast. And there will be no closing of the nation's balance of payments deficit by further exports of crops.

One report says winter snowstorms have killed an estimated 250,000 cows, steers and calves costing more than $100 million. Because of heavy loss of breeding animals, many ranchers will have to keep more animals back from market to build up their stocks. Beef supplies especially may be short until October and maybe a year or more.

If the flooded areas do not emerge from high water and the ground dry out, a large portion of the acreage will be lost to crops this year, it is feared. Half the peach crop in Georgia is said to have been lost.

It's been a long time since there has been as much rain and accompanying bad weather as last fall, during the winter and much of the spring thus far. It is conveivable that the condition could constitute a threat to the nation's superabundance of food, and certainly that there will be no huge surpluses to give away to foreign countries, or sell at a price below the market.

All of these developments combined may be as a warning to America's wastefulness and its wanton squandering of its resources. It's something to think about.

Buggy Whip Futures

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Haven't heard any ivory tower economists or hard-headed brokers speak of it yet, but it seems reasonable that if you have any stock in the buggy whip factory you'd better hold onto it. It may rise out of sight.

This is because of what is termed the "energy crisis" but which really is nothing but an acute case of the shorts in the oil and gas supply.

They're talking now about dollar-a-gallon gasoline, and when that comes, people may turn to horsepower again.

Most people's cars get about 12 to 14 miles to the gallon, no matter how much they lie about it. And a horse will walk that far for only 50 cents or so of oats by offhand estimate.

This could mean our streets will be filled with horses and buggies. If the environmentalists who are blocking the Alaska oil pipeline believe that will improve the ecology, they just don't understand horses.

The shortages already are here as survivors of this recent winter found.

It's so bad that a fellow we know built a second fireplace in his house and laid in a good supply of wood to let it cure before the gas and heating oil supplies are gone.

There are a fairly large number of persons who didn't know what gas heat was until they were grown men and women.

Some of these complained about central heat when it finally came. They just couldn't get warm unless they backed up to a fire.

Even if there hasn't been any fire there for years, they back up to it and hook an elbow over the mantle. It is an act built into their genes and chromosomes over countless centuries, just like breathing.

But, man, is it a lot of work! It's much easier to flick the thermostat up a couple of degrees than to cut half a cord of wood a day.

Of course it's not that much work if you have a small boy to do the wood chopping for you.

There were some com-

One Pet Theory Is Shot Down

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are some observations that might change some of your pet theories.

—One of the common explanations for higher food prices is that Americans are seeking greater amounts of processed foods in order to save time in the kitchen and perhaps even to serve a tastier meal.

When we buy raw foods and prepare them at home we expend a certain amount of time and effort. We must call on skills developed over the years, skills for which we don't ordinarily charge the family.

But when we buy foods that are partially or fully prepared, we must pay for the time and artistry of the factory cook. We generally conclude that such a bargain is fair enough, especially in this day of working wives.

But a check of retail food prices in at least one area, New York-northeastern New Jersey, shows that the rise in the prices of some processed foods is much smaller than for the raw products.

Government figures show that a 10-pound bag of potatoes, for example, rose from 93.9 cents in March 1972 to $1.33 cents in March 1973.

But a seven-ounce can of instant mashed potatoes rose only from 38 cents to 38.7 cents. And a nine-ounce package of frozen French fries barely rose at all — from 17.3 cents to 17.5 cents.

While the comparisons between raw and prepared foods didn't always show the same result, it does suggest that while processed foods generally do cost more than raw, there are some offsetting factors, such as volume buying, mass production and the ability of preparers to buy raw foods at their seasonal lows.

—Washington insists that inflation will be brought under control, and that it isn't unreasonable to expect a 2 or 3 per cent rate by the end of the year, compared with a rate triple or double that during the first quarter.

A survey by the McGraw Hill economics department of basic industries — the ones that affect the prices of many companies who use their products or who supply raw materials — indicates a lot of businessmen don't believe it. They expect their prices to rise 4 per cent this year.

The survey showed, for example, that manufacturers of automobiles, trucks and parts expect their own prices to rise 3 per cent this year over last, and to rise another 18 per cent by the end of 1975.

Airlines are said to anticipate a 2 per cent rise this year, but a 19 per cent increase in the 1973-1975 period. And truckers are listed for increases of 7 per cent and 21 per cent, respectively, for the two periods.

FLOOD TAKES OUT BRIDGE—The 15th Street bridge in Denver gave way Monday as the South Platte River became a torrent of fast moving water after Sunday's all-day rain. Many homes along the South Platte were evacuated. Concern now centers on the warm weather expected and the heavy snows deposited in the mountains. (AP Wirephoto)

Williams Claims 'Conspiracy'

DETROIT (AP) — In an attempt to halt his extradition to North Carolina to stand trial for allegedly kidnaping a white couple in 1961, black activist Robert Williams told a federal judge Monday the case is a political ploy inspired by the Ku Klux Klan.

Williams, acting as his own attorney said:

"I'm going to have justice or the white men are going to have to kill me. We're not talking about extradition. We're talking about a vicious racist conspiracy to deprive me of my rights."

U.S. District Court Judge Fred Kaess has not ruled on Williams' request to halt the extradition.

Williams fled to Cuba, Africa and Mainland China rather than stand trial for allegedly kidnaping a white couple during a 1961 racial disturbance in Monroe, N.C. Williams, former president of that city's NAACP chapter, maintains he took the couple to his home to protect them from an angry black mob.

Kidnaping charges against four other persons stemming from the incident were dropped in 1965, and Williams returned to the U.S. in 1969 believing the charge against him also had been dropped.

"The whole world knows this is a racial and political case inspired by the Ku Klux Klan that runs wild in North Carolina.

"I'm not asking for mercy. I'm only asking for the right for the truth to be heard. I hope this court and all other courts in this country will give my people some alternatives other than the gun."

Williams, who has been fighting extradition ever since Michigan Gov. William Milliken signed the order in 1969, charges Milliken and North Carolina Gov. Robert Scott have conspired to deprive him of his constitutional rights.

A request by Williams to examine records of other state extradition requests to see how many have been honored is also being considered by Kaess.

Denial Of Vote Rights Upheld

RALEIGH (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld a North Carolina statute which denies felons the right to vote.

The court's decision Monday came on a case begun by Fred Fincher of Scotland County, after the county election board prohibited him from voting.

State law removes the rights of citizenship, including the right to vote, of any person convicted of a felony.

The General Assembly passed a law last month which would make restoration of a felon's citizenship automatic after his final discharge from correctional supervision, including parole or probation.

Currently, the felon must apply to have his citizenship restored.

Watergate will appeal to the party loyalty or regular donors who are just as disillusioned with the Committee to Reelect the President and with Watergate are Dole and the party professionals.

"The fact remains," said the unsigned letter mailed 10 days ago to 26,000 Republicans donors, "that may of our supporters indentify these (regular) party committee as part and parcel of what they are reading to their papers. This is very unfortunate because the "Watergate affair' has had an effect on our fund raiding... other. (In time, her cookbooks will be in metric measurements anyhow.) It would be useful if the state highway departments, when they replace information signs, would let us know that Cleveland is 50 mi., or 80 km., down the road.

Two years ago, a Commerce Department study recommended an official, planned 10-year conversion, but the authors of the study emphasized that many nonmetric units would remain in common use. There would be no need to abandon such familiar terms as furlong, hand, cord, pica or, for that matter, "pinch." The housewife would continue to speak of a cup of vinegar, though the cup would contain 250 milliliters. Milk would come in liter containers, but we'd keep on calling them quarts. No one is suggesting that a first down on the football field would mean 9.144 meters to go.

The metric system dates from the French Revolution. It has been in worldwide use since 1840, and thus qualifies as a reasonably old idea. It is an idea, I believe, whose time in the U. S. has come.

pensations. This came on days when it was bitterly cold and the small boy's mother or grandmother decided to cook on the fireplace rather than start up the huge old cookstove in the kitchen.

Well, in no time at all the beans bubbled, the biscuits rose and browned, the ham sizzled, and there was the meal.

TV dinners aren't half the trouble.

They don't taste half as good, either, if memory serves properly.

CRIME AND CORRUPTION are rampant in the world and, according to the Bible, retribution comes as a consequence. The world is suffering a great "time of trouble." There is much cause for great rejoicing, however, because this dark cloud of trouble has a silver lining. God's new invisible and visible supernatural government will soon be established on earth, and will make it a new worldwide paradise. Crime and corruption will be abolished, and all men of good will can then have everlasting safety, peace, joy and life. For details write The Bible Standard, Chester Springs Pa. 19425. One Injured In Accidents

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,250 property damage caused in two collisions investigated here yesterday.

Police reported cars driven by Mary Franks Jackson, 28, of 201 Fairlane Rd. and Vance Newton, 58, of Route 1, Greenville collided about 5:10 p.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Farmville Boulevard, causing an estimated $350 damage to the Jackson car and $300 damage to the Newton vehicle.

Newton was charged with failing to yield the right of way in the mishap.

Officers reported a passenger in a car driven by Donnie Maylon Wrench of 1305 Dickinson Ave. was injured when the Wrench car collided with a vehicle driven by Christine Daniel Farmer of 507A Van Nortwick St. about 6:20 p.m. at the intersection of Dickinson and Line Avenues.

Officers, who set damage to the Farmer car at $150 and estimated damage to the Wrench vehicle at $450, charge Mrs. Farmer with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

See Problem In Gasoline Needs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An Independent Petroleum Association of America report said today the oil industry will be hard pressed to meet domestic requirements for motor gasoline this summer.

"Any interruptions in domestic or foreign supply patterns will further aggravate the problem," the association's supply and demand committee said in its midyear report.

"To the extent that gasoline output and yields are maximized at the expense of distillate oil inventory buildups this summer, the supply situation for heating oils to meet next winter's requirements will be jeopardized."

The committee estimated that the 1973-74 winter season demand for heating oils will be 6.6 per cent higher than for the 1972-73 winter months.

"Importation of products becomes an increasingly critical factor in meeting the projected requirements," the report said.

The committee estimated that total domestic product demand this year will exceed 17.3 million barrels a day, compared with 16.3 million in 1972. Gasoline demand is expected to increase from 6.3 to 6.7 million barrels a day, with heating oils increasing from 3.1 to 3.3 million.

Total imports for 1973 were estimated at 6,189,000 barrels a day, compared with 4,741,000 last year.

"Much of the crude oil necessary to supplement domestic production should be low sulphur oil, since a substantial percentage of U.S. refinery capacity cannot process high sulphur crude oil," the report said. "But sweet crude oil is in short supply globally, and it is possible that refineries in the United States will operate below capacity levels due to the unavailability of suitable crude oil charge stocks. In that event, it would become necessary to import additional refined products to meet the balance of projected requirements."

Meeting On Prison Role

RALEIGH (AP)—Corrections Commissioner Lee Bounds was scheduled to meet with Gov. Jim Holshouser this afternoon to discuss Bounds' role in the reorganized prison department.

David Jones, state secretary of social rehabilitation and control, also planned to sit in on the meeting at the governor's office. Under state government reorganization, the corrections department has been placed under Jones' administrative control.

Jones and Bounds have been at odds for several weeks over what authority each has. Bounds requested today's meeting for a ruling from the governor.

There have been numerous reports that Bounds might resign unless he can win assurances he will keep most of his authority. He left the door open again in an interview Monday night, saying he would never place himself in a position where he could not resign on the spot.

Two Escapees Are Recaptured

RALEIGH (AP) — Correctional officials reported that two escapees from the Correctional Center for Women were recaptured Monday.

Patricia Ann Corum, 18, of Greensboro, serving four years for forcible trespass, and Sandra Youngblood, 16, of Fayetteville, serving one day to four years for robbery, had escaped from the prison unit Sunday night.

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—The National Park Service has begun a two week study that will be used to plan future development of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Project Progress Reports Received

The sponsors of the Swift Creek Watershed Project received progress reports on the 110, 230-acre project including Pitt, Beaufort and Craven Counties, last week.

B. Alton Gardner is chairman of the Pitt County Drainage District No. 3. Other members are E.C. Davenport of Rt. 1, Winterville, and Ray Garris of Rt. 1, Ayden. Truman Haddock of Clay Root represent the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District in the project.

The project is divided into two construction segments. According to George Murrell, SCS civil engieneer, the first segment includes Swift Creek and Fork Swamp along with all their tributaries. All surveys have been completed and plotted for improvement of the channels and SCS is now preparing the construction designs.

Murrell stated that farmers in the area have improved about 15 of the channels on their own since the project plan was completed in 1968.

SCS District Conservationist Roy Beck reported that much of the work on the project was done by two persons whose salaries were paid by the Emergency Employment Act.

A public meeting was set for June 13 to report on progress and problems of all landowners in the Swift Creek, Fork Sqamp and Clay Root areas. The meeting will be held at the Ayden Elementary School at 8 p.m.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Steady today. Supplies barely adequate. Demand good with retail ads at 49 cents for cut-up leading the way. Weights desirable at most points.

North Carolina hens: Prices generally steady. Supplies barely adequate and demand good. Too few souces reported to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market skidded today as continued worries over inflation and the Watergate scandal blocked any continuation of last week's technical rally.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.65 at 945.06. Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange edged out advancing issues 593 to 457.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was down 0.22 at 58.29 at 11 a.m. On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was down .01 at 23.63.

Cabot Corp. was the most-active on the Big Board, down ⅝ at 26⅜. Most of that action came in a 224,700-share block, traded at 26, off 1.

Unishops was second-most-active, unchanged at 2½, and General Development was third-most-active, down ⅛ at 9½.

Alaska oil interest issues were mostly higher, with the Senate Interior Committee expected to complete soon legislation for the proposed Alaska pipeline. Atlantic Richfield was up ½ at 84½, and Commonwealth Oil was up 1⅛ at

Flood Watch In N.C. Mountains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A flash flood watch is in effect for the southern and central North Carolina mountains for today.

The National Weather Service issued the watch late this morning.

Moisture laden southernly winds ahead of a slow eastward moving cold front is causing showers and thunderstorms over the southern North Carolina mountains which may cause flooding, the weather service said.

The clinic will be conducted by Al Proctor, Coordinator of Sports Medicine for the State Department of Public Instruction. He will be assisted by area physicians.

Alabama Hit By Tornado

GERALDINE, Ala. (AP)— Two persons were killed and four were missing in a tornado which struck parts of Northeast Alabama early today, state troopers said.

Troopers said two people died when the storm hit four miles north of Geraldine, about 25 miles north of Gadsden.

Officers said three persons were injured, one seriously, when the tornado touched down earlier between Albertville and Guntersville along U.S. 431 in Marshall County.

Several state trooper units were dispatched to Geraldine, where storm damage was blocking Alabama 75. Some buildings had been destroyed, officers said.

Damage had not been determined in the earlier strike in Marshall County, about 35 miles southeast of Huntsville.

In addition, authorities said tornado-like winds heavily damaged three houses and a barn near the small Jefferson County community of Johns on the Jefferson-Tuscaloosa County line. There were no reported injuries.

A witness said that storm west of Birmingham threw a heavy coal truck into a ditch.

ACCEPT PRINCIPLE

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The Anglican Church of Canada Monday became the fourth Anglican church to accept the principle of admitting women to the priesthood.

PTA Meeting Is Slated Thursday

The Sadie Saulter School PTA meeting has been scheduled for Thursday night at eight o'clock in the school cafeteria.

The main feature of the program will be the election of officers for 1973-74.

Find Remains Of Early Kiln

GLEBE HARBOR, Va. (AP)—Archaeologists of the Virginia Historic Landmarks Commission have unearthed an almost perfectly preserved kiln neargy 300 years old along the shore of a creek in this eastern Virginia community.

The commission said the kiln was built by Morgan Jones, a Welshman, and Englishman Dennis White in August 1677 to produce glazed earthenware jugs and bowls. The kiln was shut down in November 1677 when White died.

Nearly half of colonial artifacts consist of pottery, but "until now we could only speculate on the way it was made," said Dr. William M. Kelso, the commission's historical archaeologist who headed the nine-day dig.

The kiln, unearthed Monday along the shore of Lower Machodoc Creek in Westmoreland County, is the earliest known plant in Virginia, and perhaps in the United States, Kelso said.

More elaborate than any pottery factory of the same period unearthed in England, the kiln will be the most documented one yet uncovered, he added.

The kiln is located on a hill that may be doomed by developers. It stands on a subdivision lot scheduled for construction, and Kelso said he did not know if the kiln would be preserved.

The earliest Virginia kilns found before this discovery were at Yorktown and Green Springs.

Besides the clues the kiln proves to pottery making, Kelso said, it is also an indication of southern enterprise.

"Historians generally have overlooked industry and crafts in the South because of the scarcity of records," he said. "This is one indication that all industry was not centered in the North."

Reorganization Progress Report

RALEIGH (AP) — After making "substantial progress" Monday night, a six-man conference committee was expected to meet again today to try to settle Senate-House disagreement over a bill to reorganize the state Highway Commission.

The bill would create a 12-member state Transportation Board to replace the highway commission. It would also set up a 14-member Secondary Roads Council which would supervise secondary road matters under the Transportation Board.

When the bill was passed by the Senate last week, it tacked on about a dozen amendments. The conference committee was appointed to work out differences after the House refused to accept the Senate changes. When the conference meeting broke up Monday night after more than two hours of deliberation, Rep. Jimmy Green, D-Bladen, reported:

"We've made substantial progress."

One of the amendments would have nine members of the transportation board named by the governor serve at the pleasure of the governor instead of four-year terms as provided by the House.

Another Senate change eliminated a provision of the bill under which highway projects would be subjected to line item budgetary review by the General Assembly.

Still another Senate amendment eliminated a formula for allocation of secondary road funds among the counties.

Other members of the conference committee are: Reps. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison; J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell; and Sens. J. J. "Monk" Harrington, D-Bertie, D-Mecklenbuurg, and Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir.

STATUE DRIVE

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Students at Truman High School have begun a drive to raise $100,000 to $150,000 for a lifesize statue of the school's nameskae, former President Harry S. Truman.

One Bombing Is Charged Gibson

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The national president of the Rights of White People organization, Leroy Gibson of Wilmington, has been charged with malicious damage using an explosive device in connection with the bombing of a Jacksonville, N.C., book store.

A hearing for Gibson, who is being held in lieu of $50,000 bond in the New Hanover County jail, was scheduled today before a U.S. magistrate.

The Associated Press reported erroneously Monday that Gibson was charged in two book store bombings. However, a spokesman for the U.S. Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division said today he has been charged with one bombing.

Gibson was taken into custody in Myrtle Beach, S.C., late Friday and charged in connection with the bombing May 2 of the "United We Stand" underground bookstore. The store specialized in liberal, antiwar and civil rights books.

Boe's Bookstore, specializing in adult books, was bombed the next night. No charges have been brought in that case.

Gibson waived extradition from South Carolina to North Carolina.

Arrest Man For Drug Violation

Pitt County Sheriff's Deputies early today arrested a 25-year-old man on drug law violation charges following a 1 a.m. raid on his Chestnut Street home here.

William Douglas McWinn of 1313 Chestnut St. was charged with possession of more than five grams of marijuana with intent to distribute following the early morning raid, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said.

Bond for McWinn was set at $5,000 pending a hearing in District Court June 4.

'Fade Away' Your Gray

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Grecian Formula 16 lets him control just how much gray he slowly gets rid of—some of it or all of it.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.—Thousands of men all over the country are discovering they don't have to dye their hair a solid dark color to look years younger. Grecian Formula 16 is not a dark messy dye. It is a colorless liquid as easy to use as hair tonic. Used every day, the gray slowly 'fades away' and is replaced by natural-looking color. The change occurs so slowly over a period of time even closest associates don't notice it happening. The user has complete control of just how much gray he slowly gets rid of—some of it or all of it. Once the desired results are obtained weekly use thereafter is all that's necessary. The hair definitely does not have a dyed look. Grecian Formula 16 is available at all drug counters.

DiGregorio Paces U.S. To 89-80 Win

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Even in basketbrawl, there's a place for the little man.

Ernie DiGregorio of Providence, the littlest man on the floor, proved it Monday night as he sparked the U.S. squad to an 89-80 overtime victory over the touring Russian National basketball team before 15,734 at Madison Square Garden.

"Ernie sure got us going when we needed it, didn't he?" praised U.S. Coach Bob Cousy, a pretty fair little man in his own right. "He picked us up when we were in trouble, big trouble."

Ernie D. sank a pair of baskets in the final minute of regulation play to erase a 73-69 Russian lead, hit two baskets in overtime and set up two more to put the Americans out ahead, then stymied the Russians with his artful dribbling and ballhandling.

"As I've said before, Ernie is the best player—pound for pound—that I've seen in college this year. Some of the things he does are just amazing."

The Russian coach, Vladimir Kandrashin, was equally impressed.

"If we had him, we wouldn't lose any games," Kandrashin said.

From the time he re-entered the game, with 2:08 to go in regulation, up until the finish, Ernie D. was the whole show.

"At the end I felt I had to take over—and I did," said the six-foot All-American. That he did. His shooting was deadly, his passing brilliantly accurate, his dribbling dazzlingly deft.

In the overtime, with the U.S. squad safely in front, he ran circles around the Russians as they tried to take the ball away from him. None could catch him.

"I don't think any of them can take the ball away from me," he said afterwards, with more honesty than braggadocio. "It's not their style."

Ah, their style—basketbrawl.

"It's not quite basketball as we know and love it," said Cousy, smiling.

"Blatant, dirty fouls," said 6-9 center Len Elmore of Maryland. "They do everything they can get away with—elbows, grabbing your jersey, hitting in the back when you go for rebounds. It's brutal."

What the Russians lack in finesse—and they lack a lot—they make up for in power. Under the boards they can hold their own with anyone, but they do not have the finesse or agility of the Americans. So they concentrate on what they do best—hammer away under the boards until the ball drops through, or a foul is called.

"It's a rough game, but those are international rules and we agreed to play by them," Cousy said.

A total of 75 fouls were called on the two clubs. Eight players fouled out. Five of them were Russians, including the team star, Aleksandr Belov, who had 13 points.

DiGregorio led both clubs with 25 points and 11 assists. Barnes, in his best showing since injuring his knee in the NCAA semifinals, had 21 points, many on spectacular feeds from DiGregorio. Elmore had eight rebounds and Ron Behagen seven to pace the Americans, who outrebounded the visitors 32-28.

Cussed The Weather, But It Helped Him

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston's John Curtis had some unprintable things to say about the weather in Chicago Monday night, so it's a good thing he wasn't working at his off-season job as a sports writer at the time.

Instead, the 25-year-old lefthander was doing his pitching thing for the Boston Red Sox. And what he did was limit the Chicago White Sox to five hits and snap their nine-game American League winning streak 4-1.

"I was cursing under my breath when it started to rain," Curtis said after some early-inning precipitation.

But the wetness turned out to be a blessing in disguise, soaking the artificial turf in White Sox Park just enough to cause the Chicago outfielders some fifth-inning grief.

Orlando Cepeda led off with what looked like a single, but center fielder Ken Henderson slipped chasing the ball and Cepeda limped into second. With two on and two out, John Kennedy also hit what appeared to be a single. This time, right fielder John Jeter lost his footing and by the time he recovered Kennedy had a triple and the Red Sox had two runs.

In the only other American League action, Baltimore trimmed California 8-2. New York at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 5-4, San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Houston blanked Montreal 6-0, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati 3-2 in 14 innings and the New York Mets beat Atlanta 7-2. San Francisco and St. Louis were not scheduled.

It was Curtis' first start since April 19 and his first triumph and first complete game of the season. He also pitched his way out of the bullpen and back into the Red Sox' starting rotation.

While the White Sox' streak came to an end, Houston stretched its string of victories to nine as Dave Roberts hurled a six-hitter in blanking Montreal.

Pittsburgh unloaded on Los Angeles ace Don Sutton with solo home runs by Willie Stargell, Dave Cash, Richie Hebner, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver to beat the Dodgers, wiping out a 4-1 deficit in the process.

San Diego, which had beaten the Cubs only 10 times in 51 meetings and were 0-3 this season, whipped Chicago behind Bill Greif's two-hit pitching. Fred Kendall and Dave Campbell each collected a single and double and drove in two runs while Greif blanked the Cubs until Jose Cardenal's eighth-inning homer.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson ordered an intentional pass to rookie Mike Rogodzinski, with two on in the 14th inning, but reliever Pedro Borbon also walked Mike Ryan on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run for Philadelphia.

Karate Club Wins

This past weekend the ECU Karate Club, assisted by the Greenville Recreation Karate branch, captured the South Eastern Championships.

Led by their head instructor, Bill McDonald, the ECU club and the Greenville Recreation club won twenty-five trophies with the closest competing team winning only twelve. The tournament, held at the Georgia Tech Student Center, was the place for heavy competition as schools from throughout the South East were present.

The ECU club has set a world record for university wins as they ended up the year with 129 - trophies. Some of the trophy winners from ECU were Ron Rowell, John Roberts, Sam Barger, Steve White, Danny Pearce, Jim Kearney, Danny Pearson, Kathy Ferrell, John Brantley, Cliff Herring and Jimmy Lewis.

Jaycees Rally To Claim Win

The Jaycees took advantage of four straight bases-loaded walks to rally past the Kiwanis yesterday, 6-5, in the opening North State Little League baseball game.

The Kiwanis took the lead with two runs in the second. Sterling Ashby singled and stole second, moving to third on an out. He scored on Skip Hill's single, and Brad Brown was hit by a pitch. Ben Miller then singled in Hill for a 2-0 lead.

In the fourth, the Jaycees got their first run. M. Crisp reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an out. K. Barnes singled, and a hit by T. Brown brought Crisp over.

Then, in the fifth, three more Jaycees crossed to push them into a 4-2 lead. M. Pollard singled and stole second, moving to third on an error. J. Whitford singled him home, and J. Winstead finished things off with a homer.

The Kiwanis ralled for three in the sixth to take a 5-4 lead. Ashby walked and Mitchell Brann reached on a fielder's choice. The two stole up a base, and Brown tripled in both runners. Miller reached on an error, scoring Brown.

But the Jaycees came right back to score two to win it. Barnes led off with a triple. T. Gartman and L. Talbert both walked, loading the bases. A walk to Pollard bought in Barnes with the tieing run, and another to Whitford, forced in Gartman with the game-winning run.

Miller led the Kiwanis hitting with two, while Whitford, Winstead, Barnes and Brown each had two for the Jaycees.

Elks Romp To 14-4 Victory

The Elks rolled to a 14-4 victory over Integon yesterday in the opening game of the Tar Heel Lottle League.

Integon pushed over three runs in the first inning to take the initial lead. Micahel Walker walked and Bobby Wiggins reached on an error. Todd Galloway doubled to drive in both runners and he scored on Will Barrat's single making it 3-0.

It stayed that way until the bottom of the third, when the Elks pushed over eight runs to take the lead for good. Chris Ross reached on an error and moved up on another. Jarvis Campbell singled and Lance Cain doubled in Ross and Campbell. Jimmy Lee was hit by a pitch and Gavin Ray walked. Mack Stocks reached on an error, scoring Cain and Lee. Leen Jackson walked, reloading the bases, and William Sneed singled to score Ray. Don White hit a sacrifice fly to bring in Stocks, and Ross walked. campbell singled in Jackson, and Sneed scored on an error on the play with the eighth run.

The Elks added five more in the fourth. Cain singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Lee walked, as did Ray. Stocks grounded out, but Cain scored on the play. Jackson singled in Lee, and Ray scored on Sneed's out. Don White singled in Jackson, and moved up on a wild pitch, scoring when Ross reached on an error.

Another run came over in the fifth, while Integon got one more in their half of the sixth.

Galloway led Integon with two hits, while Campbell, Cain and White each had a pair for the Elks.

Rampants Host Bears

Rose High School's Rampants will play host to New Bern High School tonight.

Game time will be at 7:30 p.m. at Harrington Field. The Rampants will be out to claim their fifth victory in eight Division II starts against the Bears.

Rose has one other game left, also a home affair, on Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Harrington against Kinston.

Gymnastics Exhibition

"Gymnastics in Motion," an exhibition of various gymnastic tricks, will be held in ECU's Memorial Gymnasium tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the exhibition free of charge. Fifteen members of the ECU Gymnastics Club will perform tumbling exercises, floor exercises and exercises with the parallel bars and other apparatus.

The Gymnastics Club is sponsored by the ECU Department of Health and Physical Education intramurals office.

Jim Holt Looking Forward To July 24th

By PAT THOMPSON

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—July 24 will be one of the biggest days of Jim Holt's baseball career.

Coincidentally, the All-Star game is scheduled that night in Kansas City. Although the 28-year-old Minnesota Twins outfielder from Graham, N.C., might be selected to play if he continues his current batting pace, he'll be happy for other reasons.

Holt, who is hitting .389 to rank as the No. 2 batter in the American League, will become a four-year major league veteran on that date and qualify for the players' pension fund.

It's been a long wait.

This is the third time in his career Holt has battled his way back from the minor leagues, and he's holding the job by batting out of the No. 9 position in the lineup.

"Someone has to hit there," said Holt. "I don't care if I'm batting third, fourth or ninth — just so I'm playing. I figure if that's where they want me to hit, I don't have any beef."

The 6-foot, 200-pound Holt expresses no complaints either about what he has had to do to win a spot with the Twins.

He spent the 1968 season with Minnesota after the Twins drafted him out of the Kansas City A's organization in 1967. He hit .208 in 70 games.

It was down to Denver in 1969, and he responded with a .357. He made the Twins again in 1970 and 1971, hitting .266 and .256 with four homers. Then he got the news in the spring of 1972.

"They called me in and said they had the guys all set and couldn't take me with them last year ... that they were sending me down, Holt recalled.

With Tacoma in 1972, Holt hit .333 to earn a late-season appearance with the Twins. He hit .444 in 10 games.

So what attitude did Holt take to Orlando this spring? "I went to spring training with the same intentions as always to make the club," said Holt. "I had about the same spring I had the year before. Maybe I played a little more ... I just went there hoping to make the ball club.

"I didn't know how they planned to use me this year, whether I was going to start every day or play just against right-handers or when someone got hurt."

Holt has played in 17 of the team's 21 games, getting 21 hits in 54 at-bats and driving in nine runs with a homer, two triples and three doubles out of the No. 9 spot.

Twins' Manager Frank Quilici explains he likes to have Holt bat ninth to strengthen the bottom of the order and possibly get something started for the top of the lineup.

Holt, who will be 29 on May 27, played four years of high school baseball in Graham before enlisting in the Army and then won a spot on a service team in West Germany after a three-day tryout.

A friend who was in the A's system recommended Holt be offered a tryout when he returned to the United States.

"I went to spring training with the A's in 1965," said Holt. "I still had six months left to go in the service and I couldn't get out early because of the Vietnam thing. So the A's told me to wait until next year."

Holt did report again, played two years in the A's system.

Five Unbeatens Remain In City Softball After Monday's Games

Five teams remained unbeaten following the six City League Softball games last night. Still without a loss are Union Carbide and Proctor's in the Purple Division, while Parker's, Four Seasons and Dainty Maid are unbeaten in the Gold.

Picking up victories last night were the Little Sluggers, Proctor's, Greenville Utilities, Four Seasons, Parkers and Morgan Printers.

In the opener of Field One, the Little Sluggers nipped Hardee's 9-8. Hardee's pushed over three in the first, then added one in the second. Little Sluggers came up with two in the third, but Hardee's scored another in the fourth to lead, 5-2. Little Sluggers moved ahead with five in the fifth, but three by Hardee's in the bottom of the inning pushed them back in front, 8-7.

Little Sluggers got two in the sixth to win it. R. Coggins doubled and M. Roebuck got a hit. G. Holland walked and Phil Page singled. A hit by P. Fleming brought in the winning run.

In the second game, Proctor's took a 7-4 win over Burger King. Proctor's got one in the second and three in the third. Burger King came up with four in the fourth to tie it up. Proctor's then scored two inthe fifth to take the lead for good. King reached on an error, and Rose got a hit. Belcher doubled, driving in both runners. Proctor's then added one more in the sixth.

In the final game of the night, Greenville Utilities nipped the Jaycees, 5-4. GUCo pushed over two in the first, but the Jaycees matched it in their half. GRCo added two more in the third, but two in the sixth by the Jaycees again tied it. The winning GUCo run came in the seventh. Newsome reached on an error and Heath singled. Outland reached on a fielder's choice, and another, by Eakes, brought in Newsome.

Four Seasons slipped by Balentine's in nine innings, 8-7, on the opener on Field Two. Four Seasons scored two in the first, and Balentine's got one in the second, then added three in the third. Two more came over for Balentine's in the fourth. Four Seasons rallied for four in the seventh to tie it at 6-6, and both teams scored runs in the eighth. Four Seasons pushed over the winning run in the ninth. Roy Carawan doubled and with two outs, scored on Ron Vincent's double.

In the second game, Parker's romped to a 27-8 victory over Hallow's. Hallow's got three in the first, including a homer by Bumgarner. But Parker's came back with seven in the bottom of the inning. Hallow's scored two in the second, but Parker's put the game on ice with seven in the bottom of the frame.

Jay Boswell doubled and Johnny Carraway reached on an error. Robert Nichols homered, and Willie Walters started it again with a single. Jimmy Evans got a hit and Bruce Gray doubled. Wayne Avery singled, moved up on Jimmy Mills hit and scored on a passed ball, for a 14-5 lead. Parker's added one in the third, four in the fourth, and four more in the sixth. Hallow's got one more in the fifth and two in the sixth.

In the final game, Morgan Printers beat the Daily Reflector, 13-6. The Reflector got three in the first, while Morgan scored one. But in the third, Morgan added six for a 7-3 lead, and they were never behind again. L. Williamson singled and B. Williamson got a hit. Arnold doubled and Cayton added a two-bagger. Boles doubled as did Jamieson. Summerlin added a final double, scoring Jamieson with the seventh run. Mordan added five in the fifth and one in the sixth, while the Reflector scored two in the fourth and one in the seventh.

Greenville In Pair Of Wins

Greenville's Kentucky Fried Chicken semi-pro team swept a doubleheader from Jamesville Sunday, winning the first, 11-0, and taking the second by forfeit after piling up an 8-2 lead in the bottom of the third.

Elsewhere, Williamston beat the Jollie Giants, 8-2, and 16-3, in a twin-bill at the Fairgrounds.

In the first game for KFC, Brown tossed a two-hitter at Jamesville to give Greenville the victory.

Greenville scored all they needed with five in the first inning. Wilson walked and stole second, moving to third on a wild pitch. Vincent also walked and so did Jarman, loading the bases. Meeks reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Wilson, but getting Vincent. Jordan walked and Gurganus hit a grand-slam homer.

From there, Greenville added two in the second, two in the fourth and two in the sixth.

In the second games, Jamesville picked up two runs in the top of the first, but Greenville came back to tie them up with a homer by Jarman in the bottom of the first. Greenville then pushed into the lead with two more in the second.

Phillips singled and Boles got a hit. Wilson singled in both runners. Greenville added four more, including a homer by Vincent in the third before the game was halted.

In the first game between Williamston and Jollie, Williamston pushed over a run in the first, and another in the second. They got what proved to be the winning run in the third when Mobley doubled and came around to score.

Williamston added one in the fifth, and two each in the sixth and seventh. Jollie's got one each in the fourthand fifth.

In the second game, Jollie's pushed ahead with a run in the first but fell behind when Williamston came up with three in the second.

Williamston added three more in the fifth to wrap it up. Hooks singled and Bryant doubled. Mobley singled and came around when Wynn singled for a 6-1 lead. Williamston added four more in the sixth and six in the seventh. Jollie's picked up two more in the sixth.

Games Are Postponed

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — The Richmond at Appalachian State doubleheader for the Southern Conference baseball championship has been postponed until Wednesday afternoon because of the threat of rain Monday.

Appalachian is 10-2 and Richmond 7-4. If Appalachian wins either game, the Mountaineers will advance to the NCAA East regionals, starting May 24 at Starkville, Miss.

If Richmond wins both games, its game Thursday at Davidson will decide if a playoff with Appalachian will be necessary for the NCAA berth.

Bethel In Big Victory

ROBERSONVILLE—Bethel Junior High School rolled to a 19-5 victory over Robersonville yesterday.

Bethel picked up 13 runs in the third inning to put the game on ice.

Charles Dixon led the Bethel hitting with two, while Ronnie Massenburg homered. Michael Teel had three hits for Robersonville.

'Horse Sense' Is The Criteria

Opal's questions would make ideal debate topics for high schoolers! We need delegates to Congress who are not merely charismatic 6 footers, but lacking in "horse sense" and the rugged experience of having earned their own money. We don't need playboys in Congress!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE X-502: Opal W., aged 28, teaches Civics in high school.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we used your textbook when I was a student at the university.

"And I was doubly interested in your chapter entitled 'Psychology Goes to the Polls,' for my goal was to teach Civics.

"Now I have some questions that my own pupils have raised.

"You may recall that Senator Percy last fall sided with Senator Bayh in urging another Amendment to our U.S. Constitution.

"The claim that since the voting age has been lowered to 18, then we should also reduce by 3 years the minimum ages for U.S. Representatives and U.S. Senators.

"Instead of the present minimum of 25 and 30, respectively, they want young people to be allowed to serve in the House when they are 22 and in the U.S. Senate when 27.

"For they cite Dr. Margaret Mead as authority for the claim that Americans now mature 3 years earlier than was true 50 years ago.

"Is that really true, Dr. Crane?

"Or are Senators Percy and Bayh just trying to start building up an appeal of young supporters in their wish to run for the presidency in 1976?"

Propaganda Strategy

Perhaps you readers can quickly answer Opal's second question.

For "Potomac Fever" afflicts many members of Congress, so they start their propaganda many years in advance.

My psychological diagnosis is a blunt "Yes" to Opal's 2nd query.

But we must distinguish between physical growth vs. self-reliance and business judgment.

True enough, our young people now are taller and heavier than their ancestors of 50 years ago.

But we taxpayers should not stress mere anatomy when we elect members of Congress.

"Charisma" is now a popular term to decribe Teddy Kennedy and other handsome young fellows who may exceed 6 feet in height and weigh 180 pounds.

But height and weight don't correlate with shrewd understanding of tax problems or the many worries of housewives, farmers and small retail merchants who are drowning in a morass of red tape and multiple taxes.

Actually, the I.Q. (intelligence) of the American population has declined since World War I.

America's pioneer advocate of intelligence tests was the late Dr. Henry H. Goddard, who first translated the famous Binet Intelligence Scale into English.

Way back in 1918, his estimate put the ouright febbleminded at 4 million in the country, and that was 55 years ago.

Meanwhile, they have been breeding like rabbits, supported on welfare by you hard working taxpayers.

And they mate, often incestuously, at 14 or 15, and produce 5 children per couple, while the good stock of America don't average 2 children per family!

At present after 3 mating generations of the feebleminded and borderline cases, we have at least 30 million subnormals.

Alas, after 12 yearss of grammar and high school even the normal teen-agers can't read or use arithmetic as well as the 8th graders of 50 years ago.

This is due to the new math, frilly courses and "earminded" stress by TV.

Nor are young adults as resourceful and self-reliant, for a far larger pecentage now live on papa's "allowance" checks! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Quakers Find A Peaceful Prof

BRADFORD, England (UPI) — Harvard University's Prof. Adam Curle will take up his chair in July as the world's first Professor of Peace.

The Bradford University chair was established with the help of a grant from the Society of Friends (Quakers). The university eventually plans to offer both postgraduate and undergraduate studies in its Department of Peace Studies.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day. Take the best from your past, analyze it and update for big progress towards your most desired ambition. Be sure to give some compliment to those you want to see more.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to contact friends and cooperate with them on projects or hobbies of mutual liking. Greater happiness is possible with the one you love. Stop being so belligerent

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Look about your home and decide how to improve it for more harmony, comfort, and beauty Plan to entertain more in the future. Put across that idea which can increase your income.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find the right method now that can make you more productive and active and bring you more money and happiness Get together with relatives, friends and join forces A good neighbor can be helpful also

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Concentrate on big sums you can command, instead of worrying about the small bills you owe. A big business expert can give you suggestions that are invaluable. Follow them to the letter Buy a comfortable pair of shoes

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) You can put your best foot forward now with others and accomplish a good deal through social activities in p m Some entertaining can be helpful Invite only the right people.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Sit in the quiet of your study and decide how to have more of the good things of life, but keep your ideas to yourself Follow your hunches, which are accurate now Avoid acting hastily

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You can gad about, see people with excellent results if you project your special type of charm You can handle affairs wisely Don't let an unfriendly person interfere with your progress

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Study whatever is puzzling to you and come up with the correct answers; go to right sources for data you need Plan your romantic pastime for the p m early if single, otherwise mate is most cooperative

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Investigate new interests that are appealing and get out of that dull existence Make new friends among those whose experience has been different from yours. Avoid that depressing person.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) You know exactly how to handle many responsibilities today. Make collections; pay bills. Figure out how to respond to mate better. Come to that fine understanding you desire Be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb. 19) Being with associates so you can make better arrangements for the future is wise today. Cement better relations. A good day for reconciliations with others. Take the initiative and all is fine

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You can be highly efficient at all that work you have ahead of you and get excellent results Interest new people and co-workers in some plan you have that can be most profitable Avoid one who gossips

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can make a real name for self, provided you encourage to think big, to get into matters of policy with others that can bring real success, and not to become so involved in small details of a project that big issues are neglected Give good religious training and good diet for best results Sports should not be stressed.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for June is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

ECU Summer Theatre Now Only Weeks Away

The East Carolina Summer Theatre is now less than two months from its opening date of July 3. Featuring five musical comedy shows, the Summer Theatre has now been operating in Greenville for ten years. The upcoming season includes APPLAUSE, MY FAIR LADY, H. M. S. PINAFORE, COMPANY, and YOU'RE A GOOD MAN CHARLIE BROWN.

A special feature of the summer theatre this year will be the return of The Piccadilly Puppets, a children's show which played to an estimated 1200 children last summer. Scheduled for morning performances at 11:00 a.m. from July 25-28, the puppet theatre will present their newest production, "Gladiola Thornbeak and the Glumberg Miracle."

The season ticket drive for the East Carolina Summer Theatre began prior to Christmas and will continue through the opening of APPLAUSE.

Persons wishing to purchase season tickets (which offer a sizeable discount over the full admission price) should do so as early as possible in order to assure getting the best remaining seats.

Ticket orders are taken at P. O. Box 2712 in Greenville, or can be made by calling 758-6390. Prices are $18.00 for the regular season tickets and $12.50 for the Monday Night Special.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♡	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♡

Altho South appears to be off four tricks—two hearts, one diamond and one club—he managed to salvage his four spade contract by projecting a series of end-plays against one of the defenders.

South opened the bidding with one spade and West overcalled with two hearts. North made a jump raise to three spades, forcing to game. East was somewhat tempted to enter the auction, however the level of bidding as well as his singleton heart acted as an effective deterrent. South, of course, proceeded to game in spades.

West led the king of hearts and when the dummy was put down, it appeared that the fate of the contract hinged on the fate of the club finesse, inasmuch as the declarer was off two heart tricks and one diamond on the face of it. When East followed to the opening lead, South concluded that he had a singleton heart, for West was not apt to overcall at the two level with anything less than a five card suit.

Declarer decided that he might obtain extra working room and thereby improve his chances somewhat by postponing the club finesse until he had first attacked his opponents' line of communications. After winning the first trick with the ace of hearts, he drew two rounds of trumps ending up in the dummy. A diamond was led next and East put up the ace, felling South's king. The suit was continued and declarer ruffed.

A small club was led and dummy's queen was finessed. East was in with the king and since a diamond return would obviously present declarer with a ruff and discard, East led back a club. North won the trick with the ten and cashed the ace on which South discarded a heart. The remaining club was led from dummy, covered by East's eight, and declarer shed another heart, permitting his opponent to hold the lead.

This time East had no escape. The forced return of either a diamond or a club, permitted South to discard his last heart as the dummy ruffed. In all, he lost two clubs and one diamond—but not a single heart trick.

Kenya Grape Crop Pushed

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A lone Israeli agricultural expert is pioneering Kenya's grape industry and the results, he says, are vineyards comparable to Europe or the Middle East.

Gadi Schalitin says grapes are not easily grown in the equatorial climate of East Africa. But by adopting elaborate pruning methods the climatic disadvantages can be overcome.

"The performance has been quite good ... as good as one could expect in France or Israel," he said, discussing one experimental crop.

The grapes now being grown are mainly table grapes. "Wine grapes will come later," says Schalitin.

Grapes from Greece and Egypt now sell for about $1.50 a pound in Kenya's groceries and markets. If the Kenyan grape industry can be commercially developed, it would be an economic blessing to the country's farmers.

"Even an African small-holder farmer who grows grapes on a one-acre plot can get rich very quickly. All it requires is an intensive input of work," he says.

So far the riches have not yet come, because most of the grapes have been for experimental use. But at least one of the agricultural stations has yielded crops of more than 700 tons per acre.

Award Won By Local Student

CHAPEL HILL — William Alan Jackson of 809 Washington St., Greenville, was the recipient of the Student Body President Award at a recent ceremony held at the School of Pharmacy of the University of North Carolina.

The award is presented in recognition of the president of the student body.

Kentucky Area Once Inland Sea

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Louisville, Ky., area was once like an inland Caribbean Sea about 375 million years ago. The sea has gone but fossils still remain at the Falls of the Ohio, Louisville's northern boundary with Indiana.

James E. Conkin, a geology professor at the University of Louisville, says the fossils found at the Falls date to the Middle Devonian period, although some may be as much as 4 billion years old. Most of the fossils consist of marine life such as snails, clams, armor-plated fish and coral.

Says Forgery Ordered To Implicate Pres. Kennedy

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt has testified that special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson directed him to forge cablegrams linking President John F. Kennedy to the killing of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Hunt, in Watergate grand jury testimony released here Monday by the Pentagon papers trial judge, said he had found enough in State Department files to hint at Kennedy involvement in the 1963 assassination. But he said Colson declared that wasn't "good enough" and ordered the forgeries.

In Washington, Colson denied the charge.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne released the testimony as part of the mounting evidence of government involvement in the Pentagon papers case and the prosecution of codefendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Hunt said he was working on a White House probe of the Pentagon papers leak in 1971 when he spotted documents that might be used to embarrass the late President Kennedy's family. He said some documents also appeared to be missing, and he figured those would be the most damaging.

Hunt said he relayed this information to Colson, and Hunt quoted Colson as saying, "Well, what kind of material have you dug up on the files that would indicate Kennedy complicity?"

"... I showed him three or four cables that indicated that they had pretty close to pulled the trigger against Premier Diem's head, but it didn't say so in so many words," Hunt said in testimony before the grand jury last Wednesday.

"Inferentially, one could say that is was a high degree of administration complicity in the actual assassination of Diem and his brother."

He recalled that Colson said, "Well, this isn't good enough. Do you think you could improve on them?"

"I said, 'Yes, I probably could, but not without technical assistance,' Hunt testified, noting that as a former CIA agent he had been given training in "floating forged newspaper accounts, telegrams, that sort of thing....

"So he (Colson) said, 'Well, we won't be able to give you any technical help. This is too hot. See what you can do on your own."

Hunt then detailed how he used a Xerox machine, razor blades and a typewriter and "I set about creating two cables which bore on that particular period."

In early November 1963, Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu were shot to death during a coup. The Pentagon papers study of the Vietnam war shows that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other U.S. officials supported the coup plans. Kennedy is not personally linked to the events in the study.

The 42-year-old Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, 36, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers in 1969. Ellsberg has admitted leaking them later to the news media.

Insisting that all discoveries in his probe of White House and Watergate links to the trial be made public, Byrne also released a lengthy affidavit from former White House aide Egil Krogh, who verified that he headed the White House unit assigned to undercover work on the Pentagon papers leak to news media.

Krogh admitted he approved plans to burglarize the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist and said he made the decision sometime after a meeting with President Nixon.

He said that at that meeting Nixon had stressed the importance of plugging leaks of classified data to news media. He did not say that the President had knowledge of the burglary plan by Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Would Delay Salary Boost

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser has asked that a pay boost for governor not be effective until after his term is over.

Holshouser noted in a statement Monday that the General Assembly's Joint Appropriations subcommittee has tentatively voted to increase his salary from $38,500 to $45,000 a year, effective July 1, 1974.

The governor agreed with "the reasoning that the governor's salary should be at the top of the salaries paid state officials."

He said, however, it appeared to him the state Constitution "prohibits the legislature from enacting a salary increase for a governor during his term in office. Since my term does not end until January, 1977, it would seem that this legislation, as presently written, would not be constitutional.

"Even if this is not the case, I do not feel it would be proper for me to allow my pay to be increased during my term," Holshouser added. "Therefore, I have told the legislators that if this bill is considered further, I feel it should be made effective after my term is completed."

ReserveAugmented By Duke Power Co.

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Duke Power Company announced Monday the successful initial operation of a power unit that will increase the company's summer reserve generating capacity to at least 13 per cent.

Austin C. Thies, senior vice president for production and transmission, said the first unit of the Oconee Nuclear Station just north of Clemson has been activated and the first power was produced 10:58 p.m. Sunday.

"We are entering a testing and start-up phase in which the unit will be started and stopped as we gradually increase power output toward expected commercial operation at the end of June," he said.

The facility has a prospective output of 886,300 kilowatts. Combined output wth its two other units will total 2,658,900 kilowatts. The three units form the first of a planned nuclear generating plant on the Duke system of 7.3 million kilowatts, or 40 per cent of the total expected generating capacity by 1980.

Oconee 1's operation this summer will set reserve power at 13-15 per cent rather than the nine per cent available last year. Oconee 2 is expected to be in operation by the end of the year, and Oconee 3 is due for use in 1974.

Under construction is a two-unit facility on Lake Norman north of Charlotte, N.C. Another nuclear generating station is planned for Lake Wylie between Charlotte and Rock Hill, S.C.

Goal Above Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union begins negotiations Wednesday for wage and benefit increases above government guidelines but sharply below 1970's initial demands.

Informed sources said Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons will open the bargaining for a three-year contract with a package of demands including:

—Wage hikes of 50 cents an hour for each of the three years.

—A $3 increase in pension contributions currently averaging about $13 a week.

—A $3 hike in health and welfare payments, also running about $13 a week.

—An unlimited cost of living escalator clause, plus an expensive package of new vacation schedules, holidays, sick leave and improvements in working conditions.

Fitzsimmons will present the package to Trucking Employers Inc., representing some 16,000 trucking operations and 400,000 truck drivers.

Hargett Given Student Award

CHAPEL HILL—Ernest George Hargett II of Greenville was the recipient of the Phi Delta Chi Outstanding Senior Student Award at a recent ceremony held at the School of Pharmacy of the University of North Carolina.

The award was presented in recognition of the member of the chapter who is judged to be the outstanding senior student in the fraternity.

Hargett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hargett of 110 Avon Lane, Greenville, will graduate from the School of Pharmacy May 13. He has completed the five-year pharmacy course and is now eligible to take a state examination for registered pharmacist licensure following a period of internship. He will be employed by Biggs Drug Store, Greenville.
