

Experts Try To Salvage Missions

100-Degree Temperature Inside Skylab

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The crippled Skylab space station developed a new problem today when temperatures of 100 degrees were recorded inside the laboratory. The space agency called it a serious problem but still hoped to launch three astronauts to link up with the station on Sunday.

"It's too early to tell if we're in an unmanageable situation," reported flight director Neil Hutchinson.

"But the Skylab cluster is hot and it's a problem that we'll have to be able to solve if the mission is to continue."

Hutchinson also reported a problem with a stabilizing gyroscope in the spaceship control system.

These add to the difficulties of space agency experts who are trying to salvage three manned missions from America's first space station.

"It's like Houston on a hot, humid day in there," said the flight director, who was speaking at a news conference at the Johnson Space Center near Houston.

He said temperatures of 100 degrees had been recorded in the center of the 85-ton workshop. Normal temperatures would be in the 60s or 70s, he said.

Air-conditioning units are aboard the craft, but to operate them now would be a serious drain on an already depleted power supply.

Hutchinson said that although "we have a serious anomaly and don't know yet how to cope with it," he was hopeful engineers would come up with a solution in the next two or three days, in time to launch the astronauts on Sunday.

He said the gyroscope problem was not as serious as the electrical or heat problems.

Asked to assess the possibility of a launch Sunday, Hutchinson said: "I've not seen a show stopper yet."

Skylab Project Director William C. Schneider was optimistic at a Monday night news conference that all three planned Skylab missions could be salvaged. But that was before the latest problems cropped up.

"We still have high hopes that they can stay up 28 days, but during the last few days their activity will have to be curtailed because of the power shortage," he said.

"Everybody seems to be holding a post-mortem on Skylab," he said. "But we think we can achieve a lot of our objectives."

And he said there is still a possibility that the Skylab 2 and 3 flights, each scheduled for 56 days later in the year, might be fulfilled. He said that assessment probably can't be made until after the Skylab 1 voyage.

The laboratory, as large as a three-bedroom house, was lofted into a perfect 272-mile-high orbit Monday by a Saturn 5 rocket. Everything was going so well during the first orbit that a flight control official called it a "superbird."

$2,481,660 Grant Obligated To City

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today that a grant in the amount of $2,481,660 has been obligated to the Greenville Redevelopment Commission by the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the Southside Urban Renewal Project.

Redevelopment Commission executive director Joe Laney said that reservation of funds for the project constitutes final approval and opens the door for work to begin in Southside.

Total project cost, he explained is roughly $3 million. The city's participation in the project is in the amount of $786,000, all of which will be provided through non-cash grants and aid in the form of street and utility improvements throughout the 180-acre Southside area.

Laney noted that the initial application for Southside was submitted in October of 1970 and was approved in March of 1972. Planning was completed and the application for project loan and grant was submitted to HUD on Feb. 16 of this year.

Redevelopment Commission chairman Billy B. Laughinghouse said that actual work in the project area should commence in 30 to 60 days as soon as a loan and grant contract is executed with the federal government.

Laughinghouse said that the entire project is estimated to take approximately four years. The renewal effort is designed to rehabilitate the entire Southside neighborhood, it was explained.

Laney said that Congressman Jones and Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West "should be given a lot of credit for being able to obtain approval for the project" under difficult circumstances relating to urban renewal.

Hardee Hamburger Restaurant Is Heavily Damaged In Monday Fire

FULL OF HOLES—Firemen armed with axes and power saws cut a number of holes in the roof of the 14th Street Hardee's during their battle with a fire

An early-evening fire yesterday heavily damaged the Hardee's Hamburgers restaurant at 507 East 14th St.

Fire units were called to the blaze at 6:20 p.m. and when they arrived, they found flames breaking over through the roof and fire showing inside the building around a hood over the grill, officers said.

Hampered by dense smoke generated by the confined blaze, firemen used axes and power to cut holes in flat roof to vent the smoke from the building and allow hose lines access to the fire. According to fire officers, the blaze apparently started in the exhaust system over the grill from an accumulation of grease, then spread to the area between the ceiling and roof.

The fire caused heavy damage to the roof and the exhaust system, firemen said. They noted that a fire extinguishing system built into the exhaust system had not been activated when the fire was discovered.

No estimate of the damage to the building was available this morning.

Proposal To Hike N.C. Payroll By $266.5 Million Is Awaited Today

BY MELVIN LANG

RALEIGH (AP)—A proposal to increase North Carolina's state payroll and employ fringe benefit program by 28 per cent, or $266.5 million, is included in an appropriations bill scheduled to reach the floor of the General Assembly today.

The increases include 5 per cent pay hikes for virtually all state employees, more than 1,000 of whom already receive more than $20,000 annually in state funds.

That number will climb substantially if the pay raises are approved.

Led by high salaries paid physicians, dentists and educators, the state university system by far outdraws other state agencies, with 439 persons getting $20,000 or more a year from state funds.

Dr. Christopher C. Fordham, dean of the school of medicine at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, leads the university system and all state employees with an annual salary of $44,100.

In all there are 25 state employees who make more than Gov. Jim Holshouser, who is paid $38,500. All are in the educational or medical field.

Vice Chancellor Cecil G. Sheps of UNC-Chapel Hill is second high at $43,000. UNC President William Friday is paid $42,000 and UNC-Chapel Hill Chancellor Ferebee Taylor draws $41,932.

Top pay outside the educational system is the $41,000 office of the commissioner of mental health, which is now vacant.

Council of State members, now led by Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan's $29,500, also stand to receive more money if the proposed appropriations bill is adopted.

The legislature's joint appropriations subcommittee, going beyond recommendations of the Advisory Budget Commission, has proposed a $35,000 salary for the attorney general, $33,500 for School Supt. A. Craig Phillips, and $31,000 each for the state treasurer, auditor, secretary of state and the commissioners of labor, insurance and agriculture.

Two Democrats head the salary list for top officers in other departments. William Bondurant, appointed by Holshouser as secretary of administration, is paid $33,739. Revenue Commissioner G. A. Jones, a career state employee appointed by former Gov. Bob Scott as an interim commissioner and subsequently retained by Holshouser, draws $30,975.

Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz, Social Rehabilitation Secretary David Jones, Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty and James Harrington, secretary of natural and economic resources, each receives $39,500.

Commerce Secretary Tenney Deane is paid $27,500. Grace Rohrer, the secretary of art, culture and history, and J. J. Tolson, secretary of military and veterans affairs, receive $25,000.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the state's first fulltime officer in that post, is paid $30,000. Community college director Ben Fountain is paid $31,421.

By department, agencies with one or more persons receiving $20,000 a year or more include:

Governor's office 4; lieutenant governor's office 1; Human Resources 252; Justice, including attorneys assigned to the Highway Commission, 20; Revenue 13; Commerce, including the Utilities Commission, 26;

Agriculture 9; Administration (based on income of at least $22,000 a year) 22; Labor 3; Public Instruction 31; Community colleges 8; and

Secretary of state's office 1; Treasurer's office 4; Military and Veterans Affairs 4; Art, Culture and History 4; Social Rehabilitation 18; Insurance 7; Natural and Economic Resources 19; Auditor's office 6; Transportation 60; University of North Carolina system 439; and the courts system 96.

Claims Effort To Involve CIA In Watergate Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The No. 2 man in the Central Intelligence Agency reportedly has accused former White House aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III of trying to enlist CIA help in a Watergate cover-up.

CIA Deputy Director Vernon A. Walters testified in secret Monday before the Senate Armed Services Committee. Later Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Walters had testified that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean were "heavily involved" in efforts to misuse the CIA. Another source said one effort had been a Watergate cover-up.

The account dovetails with statements by former acting FBI chief L. Patrick Gray III.

He testified before Senate Watergate investigators last week, and The Associated Press has obtained an official written digest of his remarks. Gray said Walters got the FBI to postpone interviews with two Watergate witnesses last year on grounds the CIA had "some interest" in them.

Walters later conceded under pressure that the CIA actually had no interest whatsoever in the two, Gray said, but not before Ehrlichman personally ordered Gray to cancel a meeting set up to straighten out the matter between the CIA and FBI.

Gray said he and Walters agreed this "confusion" was "not normal," and the two agreed that Gray should tell President Nixon.

Gray talked to Nixon by telephone that same day, July 6, blamed the matter on "either carelessness or indifference" by White House aides, and warned Nixon that "this could be injurious to the agencies and could wound the President."

Dollar Crisis?

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold jumped more than $5 an ounce on European bullion markets today, and the U.S. dollar weakened sharply. Dealers said another international monetary crisis may be developing.

The dealers reported the rush to buy gold was depressing the dollar, and the sale of dollars was driving up the price of gold. Market sources cited a number of reasons for the wave of dollar selling and gold buying, among them:

—Belief that the Watergate scandals will weaken President Nixon's hand in fighting inflation, in liberalizing trade and in working to reform the international monetary system.

—International corporations are protecting their funds by switching from dollars to safer gold.

Final HUD Approval For Shore Drive Project Reported Monday

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Redevelopment Commission has received final approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development on the budget and close out amendment for the Shore Drive Project.

Joe Laney, executive director, told commissioners Monday night that included in the HUD acceptance of the Shore Drive package was the approval of some $420,000 in Section 1-12 credits for real estate expansion at East Carolina University.

Laney explained that Section 1-12 of the Federal Housing Act allows for the utilization of urban renewal to assist a university in expanding its real estate and in the case of ECU, the 1-12 credits were applied towards expansion in the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Street areas in the vicinity of the new Student Union and Library.

The director, noting that it is hoped that additional credits can be applied towards other ECU expansion, cited university officials for their cooperation and patience in getting details on the matter worked out with the commission to the satisfaction of HUD.

The commission hopes to complete "odds and ends" that remain on the Shore Drive project paperwork and have the project completely closed out by February of next year.

In other business last night, commissioners approved a low bid submitted by D. H. Griffin of Greensboro for demolition work in the Central Business District project. The contract will call for the demolition of six residential and commercial structures as soon as the documents are awarded and the demolition of six other structures later on as the project progresses.

Griffin submitted a bid of $23,060 for the demolition work and Jefferson Florist of Greenville offered a bid of $30,200. Rex Shambley of Chapel Hill had the highest bid of the three, $51,400.

Assistant CBD project manager Jim Bishop reported that the commission has acquired all street right-of-ways for Reade Circle from Evans Street to Dickinson Avenue with the exception of one parcel. From Greene Street at Dickinson to the project boundary at Second Street, acquisition is in various stages. Bishop noted. He explained that offers have been made for acquisition and several have been accepted and others are in

Veteran Pitt County School Supervisor Honored

FARMVILLE—Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor of Pitt County Schools for 21 years, was honored with a special recognition ceremony and reception Thursday night at Farmville Central High School.

Mrs. Baker, with a total of 36 years of service to the schools, will retire effective June 28.

The guest speaker for the event, sponsored by the Pitt County Schools (including all personnel, both professional and non-professional), was Rep. Sam D. Bundy.

"Edna Earle Baker is known for the strength of character, firmness of convictions, and her willingness to go the extra mile," Bundy said. "She will be remembered for her knowledge in her field, her ability to inspire and motivate others, and her ability to transmit that something to others that does not come out of text books."

Bundy added, "She is the kind of teacher that students will long remember. . . she is the kind of supervisor that those with whom she worked will appreciate for years to come."

"As she retires, people can truthfully say that she is one who gave her time, her best efforts and herself to the teaching profession for she is the kind of teacher who believed and practiced the 'Teachers Creed.'" Bundy said.

Mrs. Baker spent 32 years of her total 36 with the Pitt County Schools system. The other years were spent in Greene County and Rowan County.

A graduate of Farmville High School, she received an A.B. degree in primary education and English, an A.B. degree in library science from Woman's College at Greensboro, and an M.A. degree in elementary education and administration from East Carolina University. She also holds a principal's certificate and a supervisor's certificate.

Some of her more outstanding accomplishments include the establishment of the elementary library program in Pitt County, setting up the first driver education program for Pitt County Schools, and the initiation of the reading clinic in 1952 at East Carolina University which she has served coordinator of since that time. Through the reading clinic, more than 735 children have been helped.

Mrs. Baker has served as president and treasurer of the Pitt County Unit of the North Carolina Education Association; president, secretary and treasurer of the Northeastern District of NCEA and served on the state and local legislative committee of NCEA.

MRS. EDNA EARLE BAKER

She is a member of the State Public Relations Committee, member of the principal's organization, sponsored Future Teachers of America Clubs in the Pitt County High Schools, member of the library book committee for selection of books, president of the district library committee and a member of the local NCEA American Education Week Committee for five years.

Having served as secretary and vice president of Delta Kappa Gamma, Mrs. Baker has been Worthy Matron of the Order of Eastern Star.

She has written two articles for the NCEA "Journal" and was included in "Who's Who in American Women" and "Southern Women Leaders in Education."

She is a member of the district, state and national Organizations of Supervisors, member of the Association of Childhood Education, and a member of the local, state and national Education Associations.

A member of the Farmville United Methodist Church, Mrs. Baker sponsored the MYF and taught Sunday School, served as superintendent of the Primary Department and is a member of the Woman's Society of Methodist Church.

She is married to Herman B. Baker and they have two children, William Taylor Baker of Farmville and Mrs. Beth Ward of Roanoke Rapids. She is the grandmother of six children. Upon retirement, Mrs. Baker plans to do some of things she has always wanted to do but not had time for—including traveling, catching up on her reading, crocheting and knitting. She also enjoys raising tropical fish.

"I also want to be of service to the Farmville community. . . I want to stay involved. . . want to be of service to the people of this area," Mrs. Baker said.

Her motto has always been "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "I have always lived by this motto and don't ask anyone to do something that I would not do myself," Mrs. Baker said. She was presented a silver bowl and a check for $715 by the Pitt County Schools personnel. More than 500 people attended the event Thursday night. She was also presented a tribute from the Pitt County Schools office staff in recognition and appreciation for her services during the past several years.

Three Pitt Grads For Peace College

RALEIGH — Some 190 young women, including three from Pitt County, were graduated Saturday from Peace College in Raleigh during the 101st commencement exercises of the junior college for women.

Local graduates include: Kathy Elaine Bullock of Stokes; Sandra Lee Hardy of Robersonville; and Jacqueline Lee Carson of Bethel.

Miss Bullock, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Bullock, was awarded an associate of arts degree. At Peace, she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa academic honorary, the Peace Student Government Association, Peace Student Christian Association and the Peace Student Recreation Association.

She plans to continue her education at East Carolina University in the fall.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Carson Jr., Miss Carson received an associate of arts degree. At Peace, she was a member of the "Lotus" staff, the Future Secretaries Association and the Home Economics Club. She plans to continue her

One Hundred Seventy-One Joined Greenville Walk For Development

One hundred seventy-one Greenville people, sponsored by individuals, clubs, church groups, firms and businesses, put in a lot of walking on May 5 to raise in the neighborhood of $4,000 for the second annual Greenville Walk for Development.

Chairman Mark Carpenter and East Carolina University Baptist Chaplain Bob Clyde said that although final details on funds raised are not complete, indications are that the eventual total will run over $4,000.

In the first such event, held here in the spring of 1972, a little more than $4,300 was realized, and the results are expected to be about the same this year, according to Clyde.

Again this year, Rev. Norman Bennett, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, topped the field in the amount raised individually. Bennett, who with Charlie Rogers tied for honors as the first two walkers to complete the 25 mile route, was sponsored at $20 per mile, netting a total of $500 on behalf of his effort for the fund.

Other details on the Saturday walk include Lester Mitchell, at eight, as the youngest walker to register; with nine year old Venetia Pruitt and ten year old Church Bennett as the youngest walkers to make the entire route.

The oldest walker registered was 52, and the oldest to complete the walk was a 44 year old man.

Max Stephenson and Miss Barbara Turner shared honors for taking the longest time to make the walk, both reached the finish line at 7:30 p.m.

One runner, Mike Elliott, completed the 25 mile course at 3:30 p.m. with a break out for lunch and rest. Another record was that of one walker who accumulated 60 different sponsors.

Of the 171 persons taking part in the walk that began at Ficklen Stadium at 8:00 a.m. on May 5, 90 completed the 25 miles.

Clyde praised the Greenville Police Department "for their really excellent assistance. They stayed with us all day, lending a hand in every way possible," he commented. "Their cooperation insured the safety of the program and made it more efficient in every way." From funds raised, $42.5 per cent will go to furthering the VISTA program which is getting underway in Greenville. Primarily, this will be in form of providing financial support for the salary of a local supervisor. The basic goal of VISTA in this area is job development.

Another 42.5 per cent will be used to help finance two overseas project. The principal one supported by the Greenville volunteer walkers is a seed and small machinery program for the African country of the Cameroons, with a smaller mount going to a well digging project in the Asian country of Bangladesh.

Four Injured In Three Collisions

Four persons were reported injured and an estimated $3,900 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated here yesterday by police.

Officers reported Paula S. Schlundt of Tell City, Ind. was taken to the hospital for examination following a 3:15 p.m. collision on U.S. 264 about 600 feet East of the Evans Street intersection.

Police said the Schlundt car collided with a vehicle driven by Donnie Edward Haley of 113 Belmont Dr. causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Haley auto and about $500 damage to the Schlundt car. Haley was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the accident.

Both Dyana Mayo Lilley of 810 Cotanche St. and Jackie Nan Hardy of 305 East 13th St. were reported injured in a 5:15 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans and 13th Streets.

Police, who set damage to the Lilley car at $1,000 and damage to the Hardy car at $500, charged Miss Hardy with failing to yield the right of way.

No charges were placed in a 3:20 p.m. mishap on Albemarle Avenue 120 feet North of the Allen's Alley intersection.

Officers said a car driven by Joyce Elks Paul of 707 West Fifth St. collided with a utility pole guide wire causing an estimated $400 damage to the car and $50 damage to the wire. Mrs. Paul was reported injured.

Plan Expand

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Duke University trustees have approved a $91 million expansion program for the Duke Medical Center.

"It will be the largest expenditure for a hospital in North Carolina history," Duke medical public relations director Joe Sigler said.

Details of financing were not revealed at the weekend trustees meeting, but indications were that about two thirds of the funds would be raised through revenue bonds.

The medical center now has about 800 beds and the new facility would add 200 more in a structure almost as large as the present building. The expansion would be located near the present hospital and a Veterans Administration hospital.

The construction would be done in phases covering about five years. The trustees did not set a completion date.

Past Supreme Governor Here For Greenville Moose Affair

AT SUNDAY AFFAIR—State director Nandor Kozma, Governor Frank Ray and State Director Garland Beddard and special guest Moose ceremony.

The Greenville Moose Lodge enrolled 13 new members Sunday morning at a candlelight breakfast enrollment.

The occasion was marked by a visit by past Supreme Governor Frank Ray and State Director Nandor Kozma. Ray is a former Regional Director for the Moose, and a frequent Greenville visitor for special occasions.

Ray addressed the gathering on the similarities between the role of Mooseheart toward the fraternity's children and that of a mother's concern and care.

New members enrolled Sunday were James N. Edwards, Raymond G. Evans, Billy Clifton Jones, Larry D. Lee, M. Frank McCracken, Johnnie Moore, Billy O. Nobles, Joseph A. Nunn, James A. Rose, Dalton E. Russell, William J. Schlundt, and Carlton P. Smith Jr., Roy J. Carawan Jr. served as Class Representative.

The Moose board of officers announced last night the lodge swimming pool would open on June 1.

Swimming classes for children of Moose families are scheduled to begin on June 18, July 9 and July 30. Lessons will be held in the mornings before the pool opens.

Executive Seeks A Handle On Changing Advertising's Methods

POPPING SOME QUESTIONS about advertising is Faith Popcorn, an executive who wants to change the way the industry looks at women and at ads that are not truthful.

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Faith Popcorn thinks there should be more than a kernel of truth in advertising.

That's why the next 10 years of her career in advertising are, she says, especially important. She has a chance to change the way the advertising industry looks at women and at truth.

Pretty, 28-year-old Faith was born not Popcorn but Plotkin. A boss in one of her first jobs couldn't pronounce her real name, so the mispronunciation stayed. In advertising, she says, it isn't a handicap to have an unusual name.

Faith's parents are attorneys, and that's what she started out to be — a specialist in criminal law, a dramatic specialist.

"That's what I am now, in a way. I'm trying to save people, but through the advertising industry," she says.

Faith is vice-president and creative director of the Smith Greenland Agency now, but she got involved in advertising by fluke. A man she was seeing was in advertising, and he suggested that she take a course or two so she could understand his business better.

Boyfriend was left behind when Faith got involved in writing conventional ads for $85 a week.

At first she hated it. She says she didn't like manipulating people the way she was hired to do.

"I started getting really angry," Faith remembers, "then I was fired. But a new agency hired me, and they've been supporting my ideas. They are letting me find out what kind of advertising people remember, what means something to them."

In her search, Faith has done laundry with young mothers and climbed scaffolding of buildings under construction to talk about a working man's beer.

One of her strongest points is that television advertising should be more honest. If it takes two washings to make clothes white, she says, the commercial should say so. She thinks it is immoral to let people believe just one washing will take out ground-in red clay.

To back up her research and ideas, Faith talks to average people. With the support of a market research firm, she travels around the country, talking to typical housewives.

"Television is the foremost entertainment most people have today," she says. "They don't have money to go out. They're concerned not with high-flown words like inflation, but with meat prices. They don't know about pollution, but they do know water from the tap isn't fit to drink."

"It's painful to talk to people. It would be so much easier to sit in the office and read studies from Harvard. But things like that don't touch real, ordinary people. They don't experience other people's pain."

Faith says you can't just walk in with a check list and ask people what they think about advertising. People will feed back just what they think you want to hear. "The way they do the census taker," she adds.

"But when you sit down for coffee, stand beside them while they do the laundry, listen to them and their kids, then you know. They don't talk about how much whiter their clothes are. They talk about making things better. And I'm going to convince somebody someday to try advertising my way to make those things better."

"Then," Faith says with a serious face, "I'll be ready to go on to something else. If I work hard, I can be successful in three different careers, maybe something with children."

She says it is a problem when the marketing director of a company says he'll retire in 20 years, and he doesn't care what the future brings.

"But I've talked to kids, they don't believe advertising. They're turned off of it in the crib. Parents I talk to want

DEAR ABBY: Would it be out of line to include the following note on a birthday card for my 12-year-old grandson?

"Dear Bobby, since you couldn't find time to thank me for my Christmas present, I couldn't find time to buy you a birthday present. Maybe next year? Have a happy birthday. Love, Grandma"

Bobby's mother [my daughter in law] defends Bobby's sullen, ungracious behavior, and my son has little influence. The boy is bright but very selfish and spoiled.

I spend a lot of time, money, and thought on gifts for my only grandchild—not because I want his thanks, but because I love him dearly. But Abby, surely someone has to teach manners to children. Am I old fashioned? You may use this letter if you wish. Many grandparents are in the same boat.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: You say you give your grandson gifts because you "dearly love" him not because you want thanks. But if you don't receive thanks you withhold the presents. This is "loving dearly"?

It's true, acknowledging gifts is a sign of good manners. But good manners have been known to cloak the absence of deeper feelings. Skip the gifts [and cards, too] and in a more loving and less punitive way, try to stress the importance of saying "thank you." If he's bright, he'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: After 33 years of marriage, I believe I have discovered a cure for the common cold—sometimes known as the nagging wife. Tho I doubt that it ever has been tried, the best way to get a woman to shut her mouth is to cover it with kisses.

HARRY O. LIBSON, N. Y. C.

DEAR HARRY: While your suggested cure is undoubtedly effective, it's extremely hazardous. It could lead to overpopulation.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the airline pilot whose love life was suffering because his kids came home for lunch, etc., and seemed to be around at the wrong time. Tell him to try the following:

Buy a roll of pennies. Come home, and if the kids are there, take one penny out of the roll and keep it. Go out on the front lawn and scatter the rest of the pennies around and tell the kids not to come in the house until they find all 50 pennies. It's sneaky but effective. Sign me . . .

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Here's a fish dish that's good enough for company. It has great flavor. Serve this dish with heated French bread because lots of sauce goes with the fish fillets and the sauce tastes delicious with the bread. Add a green salad and you'll have a fine main course.

TURKISH FISH TURBANS

1-3rd cup butter
1 large eggplant,
pared and cubed
2 large onions,
finely chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 green pepper,
finely chopped
1/2 pound mushrooms, coarsely chopped 1 can (2 pounds, 3 ounces)
plum tomatoes,
partially drained
1 bay leaf, crumbled
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon oregano
3 teaspoons gravy seasoning and browning sauce
1/2 cup grated (medium-fine)
Swiss cheese
3/4 cup packaged herb-seasoned bread stuffing, crushed fine
2 tablespoons salad oil
6 large fish fillets

In a large skillet heat the butter; add eggplant and cook gently until softened. Stir in onion, garlic, green pepper and mushrooms; cover and simmer about 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, bay leaf, pepper, oregano and 2 teaspoons of the gravy seasoning and browning sauce. Remove about 1/2 cup of this mixture and reserve. Pour remainder of mixture into a 3-quart oblong glass baking dish (13 1/2 by 8 3/4 by 1 3/4 inches) or similar utensil. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 350-degree oven for 35 minutes.

Meanwhile, mash the reserved 1/2 cup vegetable mixture with the cheese, 1/2 cup of the bread stuffing and 1 tablespoon of the oil. Spread the fish fillets flat and pat dry with paper toweling. Brush with remaining 1 teaspoon gravy seasoning and browning sauce. Divide this stuffing mixture among the fish fillets and spread in a thin layer. Roll fillets and secure with wooden toothpicks.

Sprinkle the remaining bread stuffing over the eggplant mixture in the baking dish. Arrange stuffed rolled fillets on top, pushing them into mixture so they stand upright. Brush fillets with remaining 1 tablespoon oil and return to 350-degree oven. Bake uncovered until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork — 20 to 25 minutes longer. Remove toothpicks before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Four hundred recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Add a little olive oil, lemon juice and garlic salt to yogurt; use as a dressing for sliced cucumbers. Mix the dressing in an electric blender.

Romanian Princess Establishes A Growing Monastery In U.S.

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Queen Victoria's great-granddaughter started an Eastern Orthodox Monastery in a mobile home.

The Very Reverend Mother Alexandra, formerly Princess Ileana of Romania, has since moved the monastery from the trailer park in Toronto, Ohio, to 100 acres of land near Ellwood City, Pa. She says that monastery living is one way of bringing together the fragmented Eastern Orthodox Church of America.

At 62, Mother Alexandra says the luxury of the royal palace of Romania is "a long time ago." The daughter of Queen Marie and King Ferdinand, Princess Ileana was twice married and endured exile by both Nazis and Communists.

"No matter where I lived my life, I still would have ended up in a monastery," she said. "In Romania, as here, I thought of it often. I didn't take vows earlier because I had my family to support. I couldn't take on another life until the children were settled."

The former princess and Archduchess of Austria through her first marriage is pleased with a new biography of her mother which has been published recently. Title "Marie of Romania: The Intimate Life of a Twentieth Century Queen," the book was written by Terence Elsberry.

"I was so anxious that the book not say anything that was not true. In justice to Mamma, one must be just because she was herself just," Mother Alexandra said.

"We suffered through some difficult days. In the First World War, there was real hunger. There were, for example, no vitamins. So for two years after the war was over, I had open wounds on my elbows and knees from not eating properly."

"The situation in the second war was much the same. During our youth, we had responsibilities. We worked with Romanian organizations for young people, night schools and summer camps. We always worked with hospitals with my mother."

She was everywhere, caring for the sick and wounded.

"I only had one ball a year, on my birthday, and other times, I was much too tired to go out. The lack of privacy (for the monarchy) was terrible. But one does get accustomed to criticism," mother Alexandra added.

"Even today, criticism doesn't affect me deeply. What does hurt is the deep disapproval of some people when I entered the monastery."

It has not been easy to build a monastery from nothing, she said, but there has been support from Orthodox churches across the country. People tend to be nationalistic about their churches, she added, favoring Russian or Romanian Orthodox custom as opposed to a national American Orthodox Church.

"People misconstrue what a monastery is for," Mother Alexandra said. "Odd people and screwballs don't fit at all. You must be really healthy, of sound mind and very strong for it is a hard life," she said.

Building a road, putting in water and power and a building of prefabricated redwood put a dent in Mother Alexandra's savings.

But there are now three nuns to help run the bookstore, carve and paint icons, make vestments and rosaries and help publish the twice yearly newsletter.

"By the time our congregations see the need of us, we'll be there. We're starting out this year well. People have waited to see if we stuck it out, and with the support from the public, we have," she added, twisting a handmade rosary around her wrist.

Mother Alexandra, a still handsome woman in her traditional black cape and wimple, is a permanent resident of the United States but not a citizen.

"I feel very Romanian in my heart," she said. "I cannot renounce the monarchy and deny my own king. It wouldn't be honest. I can still serve the country and the best interests of the monastery the way I should."

Under a British law of 1703, she is a British subject and says Queen Elizabeth has been "very kind" about keeping it that way.

Although Mother Alexandra's spiritual ties with Romania are deep, she does not regularly correspond with friends there.

"I had a vast acquaintance among all the people and of those friends, I don't know any family that hasn't in some way been persecuted," she said.

She sees some old friends when she visits her family in Europe. One of her sons lives in Detroit. Another son and three daughters are in Austria.

"Everything has its time," Mother Alexandra said, "and the time for the monarchy is over. There's no question of going back."

'FadeAway' Your Gray

1st day 6th day 12th day 18th day

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Grecian Formula 16 lets him control just how much gray he slowly gets rid of—some of it or all of it.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.—Thousands of men all over the country are discovering they don't have to dye their hair a solid dark color to look years younger. Grecian Formula 16 is not a dark messy dye. It is a colorless liquid as easy to use as hair tonic. Used every day, the gray slowly "fades away" and is replaced by natural-looking color. The change occurs so slowly over a period of time even closest associates don't notice it happening. The user has complete control of just how much gray he slowly gets rid of—some of it or all of it. Once the desired results are obtained weekly use thereafter is all that's necessary. The hair definitely does not have a dyed look. Grecian Formula 16 is available at all drug counters.

Power Reduction Less Likely

In this time of energy crisis, we can all rest a little easier with the news that electric reserves will be higher this summer than last.

Virginia Electric and Power, from which Greenville Utilities buys power on a wholesale basis, has indicated it will have reserves of 15 to 18 percent this summer, compared to six to eight percent last summer.

This means there is less likelihood of power reductions for our area. It is good news not only for the Greenville area but also for Winterville, Ayden, Bethel, Robersonville and Williamston areas.

Winterville and Bethel buy their power wholesale through Greenville and the North Pitt County and Martin County areas are served directly by VEPCO.

Most people did not know how close we came to power reductions last summer with VEPCO operating on such close margins.

Since then, however, the Surry nuclear plants have been opened up and a steam plant is scheduled to begin producing in June.

So, while electricity will be more costly this summer, it will in all likelihood be available in adequate supply. In this time energy shortage and higher cost, that at least is something to be happy about.

School Prayer Issue At Stake

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — To pray or not to pray? That is the question up for debate in the North Carolina Senate this week.

On the calendar is a bill to call a statewide referendum to let Tar Heels say whether they favor "voluntary prayer and religious reading" in the public schools.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Its advocates see it as a means to counter U.S. Supreme Court decisions of recent years, restore prayer and the Bible to the schools, and raise the moral tone of American Society.

Those in opposition regard it as an imposition on school children of minority faiths, and an erosion of the principle of religious liberty and church-state separation.

In between are lawmakers in a quandary. No one wants to appear to be against prayer, even on legislation which might amount to no more than an ineffectual gesture.

May Involve Liquor Issue

More politics than religion may enter the arguments. The possibility that the school prayer vote, if approved, would coincide with an election this fall on the liquor-by-the-drink issue could influence the decision.

If the two are on the same ballot, predicted Sen. Robert V. Somers of Rowan, "it will guarantee that liquor-by-the-drink will be defeated."

The Senate Constitution Committee, acting on the assumption that the "next general election" specified in the bill would come this fall, delayed until 1974 a companion measure which would ask Congress to initiate a Constitutional amendment authorizing voluntary prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

The bills introduced by Sen. Elizabeth Ann Wilkie, Henderson Republican, were shuttled through two other committees before the showdown last week which produced a favorable report and sent them to the Senate floor.

Sponsors feel they are getting the run-around and time is running out, said Rep. C. Dempsey McDaniel of Forsyth. He put in the same bills earlier in the House, and encouraged Sen. Wilkie to offer them in the Senate when the House Judiciary II Committee kept sitting on his bills.

People Want It

"This is something the people want," insisted McDaniel. "They are disturbed at court decisions which have taken prayer and the Bible out of the schools. They are not going to stand for the legislature to keep them from having a chance to speak."

McDaniel, a Republican, said he is losing patience with the process. He will see what can be done, he added, to speed up action before the legislative recess expected within the next two weeks.

The effort in North Carolina is part of a nationwide campaign, said Mrs. Zora Hays of Asheville. Representing the Prayer Division of the Leadership Foundation, she was on the legislative scene to lend support for the bills. She also is a director of Restore Prayer and Bible to Schools, another of the organizations behind the drive.

"We are leaving all options open, and drawing attention to the need for clarification," said Mrs. Hays. Congress itself could propose an amendment to the Constitution, she noted, rather than the convention method contained in the bills.

A number of other states have put the school prayer issue to a vote, all with overwhelming majorities, she reported.

Votes In Other States

In Massachusetts, with a heavy Catholic constituency, the vote was 79 per cent favorable; Maryland gave a margin of 73 per cent; and Florida last year produced an 80 per cent vote.

Some members of the Senate committee questioned whether a referendum would serve a useful purpose, since it is accepted that the vast majority of North Carolinians favor prayer in schools.

"Is there any doubt what the results would be?" asked Sen. Lamar Gudgeon of Buncombe. "I'm in sympathy with the idea, but I'm afraid we would be doing a vain thing."

A rabbi and a Protestant minister spoke against the bills. They said worship and religious instruction is the prerogative of the home and church, not the public school.

Any tampering with the principal of religious freedom would be a hazard to religious integrity, said Rabbi Leo J. Stillpass of Raleigh.

"Lord knows, I'm not

Monroe And Wooles Have Been Through It

It is interesting that Dr. Edwin Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs and Dr. Wallace Wooles, dean of the School of Medicine at ECU have been named consultants to assist in planning a new medical school at East Tennessee State University.

Tennessee could not have made a wiser choice.

Dr. Monroe and Dr. Wooles have been through it all in beginning the first year of the medical school here. They got their experience in starting a medical school the hard way and they can be of great help to any institution which is beginning its medical education program.

Greek Caught In A Crossfire

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A public attack on Greek exile leader Elias Demetrapoulos as "an obscure, Greek Communist journalist" at the height of the presidential campaign last fall has now been linked to an anti-McGovern letter-writing campaign inspired by John B. Connally's Democrats-for-Nixon organization.

Federal investigators digging into the black propaganda primary campaign attacks on Sens. Edmund Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey and Henry M. Jackson in Florida, New Hampshire and elsewhere last year have now uncovered evidence linking the attack on Demetrapoulos to Democrats-for-Nixon.

Shortly after his nomination last summer, Sen. George McGovern gave a statement to Demetrapoulos, a Greek exile leader, pledging to cut off all U. S. military aid to Greek if elected. On Aug. 18, Mayor John P. Rousakis of Savannah, Ga., wrote McGovern that he was "shocked and appalled" both by his policy and by McGovern's "irresponsibility" in choosing "an obscure Greek Communist journalist" as his mouthpiece.

That "obscure Greek Communist journalist" could only be Demetrapoulos, a respected editor and writer in pre-1967 Greece who has been lobbying against Greek strongman George Papadoulos and Mr. Nixon's support for him ever since.

The attack on Demetrapoulos via Mayor Rousakis's private letter to McGovern was then published throughout the U. S. in the Greek-American press—not at the time it was written but just three weeks before the election. On Nov. 28, lawyers for Demetrapoulos formally asked the mayor to retract what looked like an "intention to defame" the exile Greek leader.

But it was not until Jan. 8 that mayor found time to reply, and his reply stated that he had been wrong. It also stated that his original use of the word "Communist" to describe Demetrapoulos "was based on a report that was given to me."

When we called the mayor to ask the source of this "report," he was evasive but finally said he had "read it" in a newspaper column. When we asked him to quote from that column, he said the column had reported that Demetrapoulos, upon leaving Greece after the coup d'etat in 1967, stopped off in Poland for a few days.

This was the entire basis for his labelling Demetrapoulos "Communist," he insisted to us. "No one prompted me on this," the mayor said.

But according to federal investigators, the essence of the mayor's letter to McGovern was originally drafted on Democrats-for-Nixon letterhead and sent to Mayor Rousakis. The mayor's own letter became a principal exhibit in the anti-McGovern campaign of Sam Nakis, named vice chairman of Democrats-for-Nixon in September to attack the large Greek ethnic vote to Mr. Nixon.

Gov. Bush?

For the first time in his career, Republican national chairman George Bush is seriously considering a race for governor of Texas in the 1974 Texas election.

Bush is under growing pressure from such old-line Republican powers in Texas as former national committeeman and state chairman Peter O'Donnell and such new party grandees as John B. Connally.

Moreover, some top Connally-styled Democrats have let it be known that if Bush runs for governor they will follow Connally into the Republican party.

But perhaps more important than these pressures on Bush is the fact, known to political intimates, that the Washington scene as viewed from GOP headquarters holds few charms for him. He feels each new Watergate revelation further damages his party even though the scandal was caused not by traditional party regulars but by what one party leader

Niesewand Deportation

Off and on for the past several weeks, hearts have been bleeding profusely for Peter Joseph Niesewand, lately expelled from Rhodesia. My own contrary feeling is that the gentlemen got off lucky, and that he might murmur a few prayers of thanks for the survival of British jurisprudence.

Niesewand is a 28-year-old journalist, born in South Africa and later naturalized as a citizen of Rhodesia. As a correspondent for a number of publications, he last November prepared three articles purporting, in part, to disclose Rhodesia's plans for combatting terrorist raids. He was thereupon arrested and protested under the country's Official Secrets Act, which makes it a felony for any person to publish information "which is calculated to be, or which might or is intended to be useful, directly, to an enemy."

On April 6, a hearing magistrate found him guilty and sentenced him to two years at hard labor, one year of the sentence suspended. The maximum penalty, incidentally, would have been 25 years.

When word of this sentence reached the tender ears of our own Eastern press, a chorus of denunciation broke out. You might have supposed, reading these accounts, that Niesewand was the innocent victim of fascist wolves, vengefully eager to rend him limb from limb.

It may be useful to keep in mind what happened next. Niesewand, of course, had been represented by counsel. He had had the benefit of witnesses in his own behalf. He had every protection known to due process of law. On appeal his case was reviewed by the High Court of Rhodesia, headed by a highly respected veteran jurist, Chief Justice Hugh Beadle.

On May 1, the High Court reversed his conviction, and set aside the verdict and sentence. Beadle's opinion is in the classic tradition of British jurisprudence: It is cogent, soundly reasoned, supported by British precedents, and it is less than nine pages long. Hedges Hector MacDonald and Benjamin Goldin concurred.

It is plain from the opinion, however, that the appellate court took a coldly serious view of young Niesewand's journalistic enterprise. His articles left a clear impression that they originated in an official leak. The information purported to come from authoritative military sources. He was writing about top secret stuff — about the capacity of Rhodesian forces to defend the country against terrorism.

Now, terrorism is no laughing matter in Rhodesia today. Tye custom among weep-easy Protestant churchmen is to regard the guerrillas as noble and virtuous "freedom fighters," seeking to liberate their captive brothers. This is burbling nonsense.

The two principal groups of terrorists now operating in the wild northeast country are known as ZAPU is composed chiefly of the Matabele tribe; its terrorist leaders are Moscow-oriented. ZANU operates through Mashona leadership; it is oriented toward Peking. Both outfits are well-armed.

The two principal groups of terrorists now operating in the wild northeast country

Strength For Today

OVERCOME EVIL WITH GOOD

A book on the creation and maintenance of lawns makes the following statement: "If the lawn is kept in a good growing state, there will be little bother with weeds." Let the grass have a good chance, the writer tells us, and it will strifle the weeds. Fertilizing and watering the lawn is certainly a more efficient means of weed control than painfully digging the weeds out by hand.

This advice on lawn-making has a direct application to our lives. The way to keep life free of evil is not to let the evil get started, and the way to keep the evil from getting started is by cultivating the good. Figuratively speaking, your capacity for kindness and self-sacrifice, for loyalty and love constitute the seeds of your own personal lawn. If you concentrate on making them grow, they can stifle the feelings of anger, selfishness, and lustfulness which are the weeds of our life. A recently published, very popular book carried the title, "The Greening of America." It could be used to describe this greening of our own lives.

Policy Of Testing Capabilities

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How does a nation get itself into an inflationary predicament such as now afflicts the United States and, in fact, almost all the industrial nations of the world?

Fifty years ago, the answer might have been: "Through ignorance." Some economists maintain that the answer still applies. To a great extent, economics remains a science of testing theories against practicality.

Some critics blame politics for violating economic common sense. Faced with an election, an administration might choose inflation rather than unemployment — the two react to each other — as the more acceptable.

But more pertinent today is that most industrial nations are committed by national policy to flirting with inflation, to playing a high-risk game in which they sometimes miscalculate the odds.

The commitment, which in the United States is embodied in the Employment Act of 1946, is to utilize all the resources of the nation to their maximum effectiveness to bring the greatest good to the greatest number.

In doing this, a nation generally is pushing against the limit of its capabilities, a nebulous area beyond which the economic machine produces a lot of steam — inflation — as demand exceeds production. It is testing unknown waters and doing so with a steering mechanism, fiscal and monetary policy, that responds months after the levers are pulled.

Fiscal policy relates to the federal budget and deficits; monetary policy, to interest rates and loans and the amount of money made available through the Federal Reserve.

There are some economists who insist that business and consumer spending react almost mechanically to the application or withholding of these stimuli, not because they are trained mice but because they can't spend without money.

But a growing school of behavioral psychologists insists that the consumer, who now is the biggest single factor in the economy, bigger than either government or business, doesn't act like an automaton.

They say the consumer has considerably more choice than ever before. He has savings and sometimes lines of credit to fall back on when he is pinched by restrictive policies. He actually can defy policy for awhile.

Moreover, much of his spending today is for luxuries rather than necessities, items on which he can exercise choice: To buy or not, to postpone, to buy in advance of need.

Many consumers today are

Spring Membership Dinner For C-of-C Merchants May 23

The spring membership meeting of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association will be held Wednesday, May 23, at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Tom Broughton of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, Commerce and Industry Division, will be the guest speaker.

According to Bill McDonald, chamber president, one of the primary reasons for the meeting is to recognize and get acquainted with several executives of the newer industries in the area.

Also included on the agenda will be:

—Presentation of the "Citizen of the Year" award to the Greenville resident deemed to have done the most to benefit the community during 1972;

—Presentation of the "President's Award" to the member who rendered the most valuable service during 1972 to the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association;

—Nomination of 14 candidates to be voted on by the membership for seven vacancies to be filled on the board of directors.

Tea With Alive

A fund-raising tea party in the attractive Georgetown house of Mrs. Dean G. Acheson should raise several thousand dollars for the infant Committee for a Democratic Majority (CDM), a political brainchild of Democratic operative Ben J. Wattenberg.

Wattenberg, an intellectual out of Lyndon Johnson's White House and co-author of the bestselling "The Real Majority" (with Richard Scammon), has arranged for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Henry M. Jackson to be honor guests at the May 21, $50-a-head party, with 250 invitations ready for mailing.

The symbolism of the Acheson house is stark. A key principle behind CDM is to keep the U. S. strong active as a world power and to battle the new isolationism now rising on the Democratic left. The home of the late Dean Acheson, Secretary of State for Harry S. Truman who molded the Democratic party's whole postwar foreign policy, is the ideal place to advertise the similar foreign policies of CDM.

are known as ZAPU (Zimbabwe African People's Union) and ZANU (Zimbabwe African National Union). ZAPU is composed chiefly of the Matabele tribe; its terrorist leaders are Moscow-oriented. ZANU operates through Mashona leadership; it is oriented toward Peking. Both outfits are well-armed with Communist weapons; and they are vicious. In terrorizing native compounds, they rely on mutilation—with a few revolting African refinements.

If the bleeding-hearts and weep-easies have their way, Rhodesia will fall to one or the other of the terrorist bands. It is interesting to speculate on what would then become of a system of ordered justice dating at least from Magna Carta. It is useful to contemplate the freedom of press that thereafter would survive.

Niesewand and his immediate family have departed for England. He himself will be permitted to return to Rhodesia, if he wishes, for a two-week visit each year. A condition of his expulsion is that he write nothing more about Rhodesia's military forces. The charge against him, as Chief Justice Beadle coolly observed, boiled down to "spying for the enemy." He was narrowly found not guilty, on a careful scrutiny of the evidence supporting his "purpose" in publishing the articles. Let him thank his lucky stars for an easy exile. If ZANU and ZAPU triumph, those stars will not shine on Rhodesia again.

They simply misread the future and thought they could encourage further expansion, Cox said. On top of this came the dollar devaluation, which makes imports costlier. And the bad planting weather hurt, too.

When you're seeking the maximum from the economy, there is always the danger of overdoing it, especially when the fiscal and monetary regulators must anticipate events many months in advance.

But even if the policy is correct, there is that growing feeling that an increasingly powerful consumer can upset it or mute its effects or, for a short time, actually defy it.

Local Cadet Placed 2nd

ROTC cadet Benjamin Gardner White, Jr. of Greenville has been named second place winner among the top six finalists in the National Drill Championship held last week in Washington, D.C.

White, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gardner White Sr. of Greenville, was among more than 100 drillers judged by Regular Army judges in on-the-spot elimination.

The event took place in the National Guard Armory in downtown Washington and was sponsored by the Georgetown University ROTC unit. Drillers were garded on a series of performances in the elimination event.

White is a cadet at the Hargrave Military Academy of Chatham, Virginia. Three of the top six cadets in the event are students at this academy.

The young cadet is also an NCO in the corps of cadets, is a member of the Honor Council and is a member of the National Beta Club.

Discrimination Suit Brought

RALEIGH, N.C.(AP)—The Justice Department has charged a company with housing discrimination in the 350-unit development it manages near the main gate of the Camp Lejeune Marine Base near Jacksonville, N.C.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Raleigh Monday against the New River Management Co. It charges that military tenants are racially segregated at the development.

Work Exhibited By Gary Ross

LYRICAL FANTASY... is captured in 14 black and white ink drawings by Gary Ross in the current Mushroom show. An art teacher in the Raleigh schools, Ross is a graduate of ECU. His show remains up through Saturday. (Reflector Staff Photo).

After a number of group and student shows, it's good to get back to a one-man show, and especially when it's one as refreshing as the current Gary Ross exhibit of drawings at The Mushroom Gallery.

From now through May 19, Ross is showing 14 black and white pen and ink drawings, each a variation of a meticulous fantasy world of almost unbelievable intricacy of detail.

The discipline required to create this pleasant world is clearly evident. That is not to imply, however, that craftsmanship is the over-riding virtue of Ross' drawings.

There's an obvious debt to Beardsley in the arabesque figures, mostly female, some male. The elongated posturing bodies provide a framework for hundreds of fascinating details—flowers, vines, tendrils, maps and hidden masks.

In some of the drawings, geometric patterns suggest what a computer might do if put to work designing Persian wallpaper. Despite the great amount of detail Ross has employed, there is openness in the flow of untouched white areas that sweep in and out and around the drawings.

Currently an art teacher in the Raleigh city schools, Ross is a BFA graduate of the School of Art, East Carolina University.

For a show that is totally different from anything seen for a long time in Greenville, this small one is a good bet. Ross' drawings will undoubtedly appeal to a large number of people for many different reasons. I highly recommend finding time to take it in during the few days it will remain on view downtown in The Mushroom.

Approves Park Land Vote

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation calling for a referendum to provide $50 million to buy and develop state park land was passed by the Senate Monday night, but a companion bill creating an agency to spend the money was postponed.

The Senate delayed action on a bill to create the North Carolina Land Conservancy Corp. after Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, sponsor of the bill, said he had heard it might run into difficulty in the House.

If approved by the House, the bond legislation would set up a referendum in 1973 or 1974, on a date chosen by the governor.

Hostage-Holder Slain By FBI

By ALLEN NACHEMAN
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "He just wanted his kids and was at the end of his patience," said a former roommate of a man shot and killed by FBI marksmen.

Early Monday morning, 25-year-old William H. Abernathy took two guns and two men to the top of a fuel tank at Portland International Airport. He threatened to blow up the 840,000-gallon tank by noon unless his ex-wife and two children were brought to him.

One minute before the deadline, FBI agents shot and killed him. One of the other men had escaped earlier. The other man was not hurt.

Phillip Moss, the ex-roommate, earlier had climbed the tank to try to talk Abernathy into surrendering.

"He told me he saw a lot of people die in Vietnam for no reason, and I told him I did not and that I didn't want to see him die up there for no reason. But he said there was some reason for his action."

"Finally, after passing up early chances to disarm him, I went for his rifle. I got a hand on it near the stock, but Abernathy is too fast. He just jerked it out of my hand and pointed it at me. I knew it was over, and I climbed down the tank stairway.

Moss said Abernathy felt his ex-wife, Nancy Lynn, was hiding his children—Jennifer, 3, and Scott, 9 months—from him. He had given up hope of ever seeing them again, Moss said.

"Gee, how proud he was of his children," Moss said. "He talked about them all the time and would show everybody their pictures."

Abernathy was killed eight hours after he ordered Gene Lloyd, his 56-year-old boss at Lockheed Air Terminal at the airport, and another man to climb the tower with him. The FBI sharpshooters shot Abernathy as he and Lloyd were descending a narrow spiral ladder on the 50-foot tank.

Allegation Is Said Malicious

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newspaper report that President Nixon may have used 1968 campaign funds to buy his California estate has been denounced by the White House as "a total fabrication."

"It is a totally false and malicious report," said press secretary Ronald Zeigler Monday of the Santa Ana, Calif., Register story.

The newspaper quoted unnamed investigators for the Senate Watergate committee as saying they believed Nixon may have used $1 million in unreported funds left over from his 1968 presidential campaign to purchase the estate at San Clemente.

Will Use Grant To Attend ECU

Miss Jannette Dudley of Knightdale has been awarded a $150 scholarship by the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America. She will use the grant at East Carolina University to further her training in the education of retarded children.

The grant is in addition to another $150 scholarship which was awarded to Miss Dudley by the Organization in 1972.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were steady Monday.

Supplies barely adequate to adequate, demand good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites: 54.27; medium whites: 51.49; small whites: 44.01.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are mostly $1.00 higher today. Tops of 36.50-37.00 at Rocky Mount; 35.50-36.50 Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; 35.00-36.50 Wilson and High Falls; 35.00-36.00 Siler City and Denton; 34.50-35.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 36.25 Mt. Olive; 34.00 Salisbury; 37.50 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden and Laurinburg.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: market steady, supplies adequate, demand good and weights desirable.

North Carolina hens: prices steady on heavy types; supplies of heavy types adequate; demand good. Light type too few to report prices. Heavies, at farm, 25 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell broadly today as already shaken investors watched gold prices continue to skyrocket and the dollar being battered in Europe.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was down 4.51 points at 905.18. Earlier in the trading, the Dow had been off more than 11 points.

In the four prior sessions, the Dow has dropped over 46 points, including an 18-point skid Monday that was the largest single decline in almost three years.

The blue-chip indicator pushed beneath the 900 level for the first time since Jan. 27, 1972, but that triggered a slight turnaround as bargain hunters moved in.

Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange swamped advancing issues 990 to 212.

Brunswick Corp. was the most-active on the Big Board.

Sorority Gives Tape Recorders

Four small tape recorders have been given to the East Carolina University Department of Speech, Language and Auditory Pathology by the ECU chapter of Delta Zeta sorority.

This is the third annual gift of the sorority to the speech and hearing department.

Accepting the gift on behalf of the department was Dr. Garrett Hune, chairman. Dr. Hune said the tape recorders will be used in therapy sessions with the handicapped.

Stolen Car Chased, 3 Autos Damaged

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

One person received minor injuries—a Greenville policeman's wife—and three cars were heavily damaged as Highway Patrolmen and other officers attempted to stop a stolen car in and south of Greenville city limits late last night.

Sgt. F.M. Lemmond, investigating the incident, said the chase began about 11 p.m. when Trooper W.L. Thames, headed South on N.C. 43 about 12 miles South of Greenville, "turned around" on a north-bound late-model luxury car that had been reported stolen earlier in the evening from Harvey Bowen Motors at Ayden.

The stolen vehicle headed north at a high rate of speed, failed to stop for the patrolman's blue light and siren, Sgt. Lemmond noted, and reached speeds of 125 miles per hour before reaching Greenville and turning into the Pitt Plaza parking lot.

The patrol officer said Ptl. Thames then attempted to stop the fleeing car by ramming it with the patrol vehicle—four times—but was unable to force the vehicle to a halt.

The car then headed back onto N.C. 43 and headed South, again reaching speeds in excess of 125 miles per hour.

According to Sgt. Lemmond, as the fleeing car rounded a curve at Bell's Fork it ran off the right shoulder; the driver lost control and the vehicle spun around, then collided with a north-bound car driven by Mrs. Betty Letchworth, the wife of a Greenville policeman.

The stolen car swerved into the left hand roadside ditch and came to a halt, then the driver jumped out and ran.

A three-hour search by law enforcement officers failed to locate the driver, Sgt. Lemmond noted.

Policeman J.R. Letchworth was on duty and directing traffic at the intersection of N.C. 42 and U.S. 264 by-pass to allow police cars to move freely through the intersection at the time of the accident.

The sergeant quoted Ptl. Thames as saying the driver of the fleeing car lost control of the auto several times during the chase but was able to regain control of the car before wrecking. He also noted that the stolen-car-driver ran "four or five" other cars off the highway during the chase.

Sgt. Lemmond estimated damage to the Letchworth car at $1,500 while placing damage to the stolen vehicle at $2,000. He estimated damage to the Highway Patrol car at about $800.

A search of the stolen auto, the sergeant said, revealed a television set, radio and car tape player also believed to have been stolen.

Investigation of the incident is continuing, he noted.

condemnation.

Real Estate Officer Kirby Boyd told commissioners that five additional parcels were acquired in CBD during April and deeds are in the process of being drawn for three other parcels. A deed has been drawn on another parcel and signing is necessary.

Boyd said that over one-third of the parcels designated for acquisition in the project have now been acquired by the commission.

Commissioners approved an amendment to a contract with Wheelless & Moore Inc. for reviews, revisions and updating of second acquisition appraisals in CBD.

Commissioners also gave their approval to the designation of Boyd as review appraiser. In accordance with federal regulations, two appraisals are done on every parcel and then a review appraiser is retained to look at both appraisals and make a recommendation to the commission as to the fair market value of the parcel. The commission would then act upon this recommendation.

In the past, it was noted, the commission has used the services of a Rocky Mount appraiser for reviews. In designating Boyd, who is a licensed real estate broker, as the review appraiser, the commission expects to speed up the appraisal process and save money by not having to hire outside appraisers for the job.

Jamesville Nips Oak City Trojans

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville outlasted Oak City in the final game of the season for the two Martin County teams yesterday, 14-13 in a nine-inning contest.

Oak City pushed into the lead with two runs in the first. Johnson walked and Duggins singled. The ball got through the outfield, and both runners sped around to score.

Jamesville came right back in the bottom of the frame to tie it up. Billy Brown was hit by a pitch and Kevin Holiday walked. Eric Martin also walked, loading the bases. Successive walks to Bucky Dickerson and Clifton Hardison forced in Brown and Holiday to tie it up.

Oak City pushed over four more in the second, then scored two in the third. They got four more in the fourth to hold a 12-1 lead. Jamesville started to rally, scoring two in the fourth, one in the fifth and fourth in the sixth, leaving them behind, 12-9.

Then, in the seventh, they pushed over three more to tie it. Holiday walked and Gurkin Martin walked, loading the sacks. Dickerson walked for force in Holiday, and Albert Perry got a single to score both Martins with the tying run.

In the top of the ninth, Oak City pushed back into the lead with a run. Johnson reached on an error and Duggins singled. Lyons was safe on a fielder's choice and Belflower walked to force in Johnson.

But the Bullets came back to score two in the bottom of the frame and win it. Ronnie Padgett singled and Larry Pierce got a hit to score him. Jerry Ange walked and Brown was hit by apitch. Gurkin Martin then walked forcing in Pierce with the game-ending run.

Lyons was hit by a pitch. Gurkin Martin then walked forcing in Pierce with the game-ending run.

Coca-Cola Rips Kiwanis, 13-6

Coca-Cola rolled to a 13-6 victory over the Kiwanis yesterday in the North State Little League. The victory was the third straight for the unbeaten Coke team. The Kiwanis are now 1-2.

Coke pushed over two runs in the first to take the lead. Mark Jones walked and Walter Gurganus walked. Another walk to David Lowe loaded the bases. Walks to Will Sanderson and Ronnie Chapman brought in Jones and Gurganus.

The third saw four more runs come in. Lee Hardee singled and moved up on a passed ball. Jones singled, and Hardee scored on an error. Gurganus walked and Lowe reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Sanderson doubled in all three runners to make it 6-0.

The Kiwanis came up with a run in the third. Ben Miller walked and Michael Clemmons reached on an error. Tom Brown singled to score Miller.

Coke picked up two more in the fourth. Marshall Crumpler reached on an error and scored on Rusty Lilley's double. Lilley took third on an out and scored on a passed ball.

In the fifth three more scored. Barry Tyson singled and Sanderson got a hit. Chapman singled to load the bases and Crumpler doubled in all three.

The Kiwanis scored two in the bottom of the fifth. Brad Brown walked and Stuart Motsinger homered.

Coke closed their scoring out with two in the sixth. Jonathan McGee walked and Lowe homered.

The Kiwanis came back with three in the sixth. Sterling Ashby walked as did Howard Moye. Brown reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Ashby. Miller singled in Moye and an error let Brown score with the final run.

Fairly's Lone Hit Keys Win

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ron Fairly has a good memory—but then again, nights like Monday aren't all that hard to remember.

Fairly got only one hit in five times at bat against the Pirates, but it was the big one—a solo homer in the 10th inning that lifted the Montreal Expos to a 3-2 victory and sent Pittsburgh to its sixth consecutive loss.

"I think it was a fast ball," said Fairly of his game-winning shot off Nelson Briles, "but I'm not sure. All I know is, I hit it well."

"It's easy to remember the good days," observed Fairly, who had fond memories of Briles and the Pirates even before his blast.

He hit another tie-breaking homer off Briles in a game won by the Expos earlier this season. And back in 1965, while playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Fairly again beat the Pirates with a last-inning homer.

In other National League baseball games, Philadelphia whipped St. Louis 10-5, Atlanta topped Houston 7-1 and San Diego beat San Francisco, also by a 7-1 count.

The New York Mets' game against the Cubs in Chicago was postponed due to cold weather, and Los Angeles and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

In the American League, Texas beat Minnesota 7-6 in the opener of a two-night double-header but dropped the second game 6-4 in 11 innings. Detroit defeated the New York Yankees 8-0, Boston edged Baltimore 1-0 in 11 innings, California nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, Cleveland slipped past Milwaukee 2-1 and Oakland beat the Chicago White Sox 5-1.

The defeat was the 14th in the last 19 games for the Pirates, last year's NL East champions. And Briles, who suffered his fourth defeat in five decisions, feels its the pitchers who must pull the club out of its rut.

"When you're not getting anything going, you're pitching has to pick you up. It's up to us."

Philadelphia scored six runs on six singles in the fourth inning to beat the Cardinals. Greg Luzinski had a single, double and triple and rookie Mike Schmidt drove in three runs.

"My swing hasn't been what I wanted it to be," said Luzinski, who came into the game batting .206. Last year he hit .281 with 18 homers.

Atlanta's Mike Lum had a three-run double and a solo homer in the Braves' victory.

"It seems like every time we come to Houston, I'm hitting good," said Lum, adding that the double was off a high, outside fast ball, the homer off a low, inside fast ball.

TROPHY HUNTER — Rose High School's Al Hunter walked off with seven honors last night at the annual All-Sports Banquet. Hulman Brought New Life To Indy

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis 500-mile auto race will run the 57th time May 28 with another colorful show drawing more than 250,000 persons and heard and seen by millions more around the world.

But it hasn't always been so. In 1945, when Anton "Tony" Hulman of Terre Haute, Ind., bought the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, it was in disrepair. Interest in the Memorial Day classic had diminished after the track was closed four years during World War II.

The Speedway, which was built in 1909 as a proving ground for automobiles, is now known in some racing circles as "the house that Tony rebuilt."

The 2½-mile asphalt track is the focal point of the Speedway on the city's far west side, but it isn't the only attraction of the 539-acre property.

Hulman has replaced the ancient wooden grandstand that nearly circled the track with steel and concrete grandstands. There is now an estimated seating capacity of 235,000 and room for an additional 100,000 persons in the track infield.

Hulman has supervised construction of a more-than-100-room motel, a 27-hole golf course with nine holes in the infield and an office-museum building as well as press and hospitality quarters.

Speedway officials never announced attendance figures, but an estimated 60,000 persons watched the 500 in 1946 and prize money totaled $75,000 after a prewar high of $96,250.

Hulman, whose great wealth comes from varied business and real estate interests, has made the Indy race the richest in the world of auto racing.

For the third straight year prize money this year will total more than $1 million.

His newest improvement at the Speedway is an addition to the motel to house VIP suites which rent for $10,000 a year on the second floor and $20,000 for the third-floor. There are six suites on each floor. The rooms, which overlook the track, were all rented long before the addition was completed, most of them by large companies involved in racing.

For race day, tickets for reserved seats sell for from $10 to $40, and it costs $5 a person to watch the race from the infield in the midst of one of the world's largest picnics.

Gasoline Alley, the strip of concrete that connects the garage area with the pits, provides one of the few places in major sports where fans can mingle with their heroes. In fact, drivers, owners and mechanics often have to push their way through the crowd, signing autographs and talking with excited people.

The museum of 500 and Speedway relics is free and open year-round. There is even the opportunity to ride around the track in a Speedway bus for 50 cents, except in May.

But it's the race cars, the speeds and personalities that draw most people here. Racing has changed tremendously since the first Indy 500 in 1911.

Ray Harroun won the first race in a Marmon Wasp at an average speed of 74.59 miles an hour.

Mark Donahue, last year's winner, averaged a record 162.962 m.p.h. in a winged McLaren-Offenhauser.

Hunter Walks Off With Armload Of Trophies At Rose Sports Fete

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Al Hunter needed a moving van to go home last night.

The Rose High School senior who has starred in football, basketball and track, carried off seven trophies during the evening at the annual Rose High School All-Sports Banquet, held at the school.

Hunter was named the Most Valuable Player in both football and track, and received several other awards to go along with those. He received the Steelman Award in track, as the outstanding athlete. He also took the Kiwanis award, presented to the outstanding senior in sportsmanship, and the Dixon Cup, which goes to the outstanding senior athlete.

Rounding it out, Hunter was one of three who will have their name inscribed on the Elks' Award. This is presented to those who have lettered seven times in at least three sports. Mike Harris and Gary Walton are the others receiving this honor.

Overall, a total of 32 awards were presented last night in the various sports supported by Rose High.

Besides Hunter's Most Valuable Player award in football, those receiving awards included, Lindberg Morris, most valuable in JV football; Dickie Johnson, Most Improved; Lee Cherry, Best Lineman; Harding Sugg, Best Defense; and Reggie Perkins, Best Back.

Basketball awards included, Ronnie Barrett, Most Valuable Junior Varsity; and Herb Bynum, Most Valuable Varsity. Tennis awards went to David Walton and Becky Piner, Most Valuable on the boys and girls teams, respectively.

In Wrestling, Alton Hansley received the Most Dedicated award, while Tommy Manning was Most Improved, and Harold Randolph was Most Valuable. Swimming awards included, Most Valuable, Mont Wooten; Special awards, Tom Adams, Harding Sugg, Herb Wilkerson and Wooten; Spirit Award, Laurie Walton; and Coaches Award, Randy Woodward.

Baseball awards included Rookie of the Year, Al Heath; and Most Valuable, Stanley Cobb. It was the second straight MVP award in baseball for Cobb.

In addition to the two awards in track to Hunter, Matthew Clark was named the Most Outstanding Track Athlete, with Calvin Moore as the Most Outstanding Field Athlete, and Nat Perkins as the Most Improved.

The cross-country Most Valuable Player award went to Gary Walton.

The speaker for the banquet was East Carolina University head football coach Sonny Randle, who gave an amusing talk.

He pointed out that East Carolina actually had a 9-3 season last fall. "Oh, I know you remember that we lost to Carolina and State," he said. "But we also lost another. We lost Al Hunter to Notre Dame." That brought on a loud burst of laughter, but Randle added, "It wasn't funny to me."

Randle also issued a challenge to the athletes. "I played 19 years of football, and I can tell you about the first game I ever played in. Remember that you only travel through once, so you've got to make the best of it."

He recalled that when he was in prep school he got some bad report cards, and that his guardian provided the needed

"incentive" for him to improve. "I dreaded facing him with a bad report," Randle said.

But he added that he has learned that the hardest person he has to face is himself. "After some games, I've had to comb my hair looking at the floor. I couldn't look in the mirror."

"Go home tonight and take a good look in the mirror, if you can take it. I'm not talking just about what you do in athletics, but in the classroom and everywhere, in everything you do. If you can (look yourself in the eye) and continue to do so, you'll be a bigger man years from now."

Graniteers In First Victory

The Graniteers gained their first victory of the season yesterday with an 11-2 romp over the winless Exchange. The Graniteers are now 1-2, while the Exchange is 0-3 in Tar Heel Little League play.

The Graniteers came up with three in the first inning. Henry Wooten singled and H. L. Austin walked. Wade Dean reached on an error, scoring Wooten, and another error allowed both Austin and Dean to come around for a 3-0 lead.

The Graniteers added another in the second. Stuart Satterwaite singled and moved to third on passed balls. He scored on Miccah Dixon's single.

The third saw two more come around. Dean reached on an error and stole second. He came around on error's on the play.

Mike James walked as did Mike Moye. Satterwaite singled, loading them up, and Wayne Stokes reached on an error, scoring Irwin.

The fourth saw the Graniteers pick up two more. Dixon reached on an error and Henry Wooten did too. Both advanced on a passed ball, and errors allowed them to score.

In the fifth, they completed their scoring with three more. Stokes reached on a fielder's choice and Dixon doubled. Wooten walked and Austin sacrificed in Stokes. A passed ball scored Dixon and Wooten scored on an error.

The other Exchange run came in the bottom of the fifth. Pep Cox walked, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Shackelford singled him in.

Nurses Top Docs

The Nurses rallied to take a 25-17 victory over the Doctors in the benefit softball game played Sunday at Evans Park.

The Doctors held a 10-3 lead after three innings, but the Nurses came back with a nine-run inning sparked by Jim Mallory, pinch-hitting for Nurse Jackie Travis.

A total of 10 doctors participated in the game, along with approximately 25 nurses. The game, sponsored by District 30 of the North Carolina Nurses Association, was to benefit a scholarship fund for student nurses.

Old-Fashioned Pitching Duel In, Of All Places, Fenway Park

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
Good pitching is supposed to defeat good hitting, except in Boston.

In Boston, there's a ballpark named Fenway with an inviting left-field wall, a scant 315 feet from the hungry batter, that is known to chew up baseballs and baseball axioms alike.

But Monday night, "The Monster" as the wall is less than affectionately known to moundsmen, kept its distance and the Red Sox and Orioles engaged in an old-fashioned pitchers' duel.

Baltimore's Doyle Alexander pitched 10 innings of four-hit, shutout ball and Boston's Bill Lee countered with five-hit, scoreless pitching over nine. But neither hurler was around when designated hitter Orlando Cepeda's single in the 11th scored rookie Mario Guerrero for the evening's only run and a 1-0 Boston victory.

In other American League action, Detroit shut out the New York Yankees 4-0, California outlasted Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings, Minnesota needed 11 innings to defeat Texas 6-4 in the second game after dropping the opener 7-6, Oakland beat Chicago 5-1 and Cleveland edged Milwaukee 2-1.

In the National League, Philadelphia topped St. Louis 10-5, Montreal nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings, while Atlanta stopped Houston and San Diego halted San Francisco by identical 7-1 scores.

The game between the New York Mets and the Chicago Cubs was postponed by cold weather.

Alexander, a young right-hander, and Lee, a veteran southpaw, matched zeroes through regulation, forcing the first scoreless extra-inning game in Boston in two years.

The scoreless duel over nine innings was even more surprising since both pitchers are normally relievers.

"It was unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, "but I've learned to expect the unbelievable in this game."

At Milwaukee, Dick Tidrow hurled a three-hitter over eight innings, but needed relief help in the ninth from Tom Hilgendorf and Jerry Johnson to defeat the Brewers.

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Clemson University has beat out Florida State, Auburn and Kentucky in the bid for prep basketball star Wayne Rollins, a 7-1, 215-pound senior at Crisp County High School, Cordele, Ga.

The signing of a grant-in-aid with Rollins was announced Monday night. More than 150 colleges had attempted to lure him their way.

Rollins averaged 27.5 points 20.5 rebounds per game last season and led his team to a 21-3 record and into the state tournament finals.

Coach Tate Locke said "This has to be the beginning of a new era at Clemson. Wayne's got so much talent and potential that it's unbelievable. He will definitely influence our style of play."

Rollins narrowed his choice of schools to four and settled on Clemson "because of having the chance to play in the Atlantic Coast Conference, which I believe is the nation's toughest and best basketball league."

First Loss Is Given Parker's

The unbeaten list in the City Softball League dwindled to three last night as Dainty Maid handed Parker's an 8-6 loss. Now only Proctor's Four Seasons and Dainty Maid are among the unbeaten.

The Dainty Maid got its victory in the first game on Field Two at Evans last night. They scored a run in the first, but Parker's came up with two in the second. Dainty Maid tied it up with one in the third, then went ahead with two in the sixth. Parker's came back with four in the bottom of the sixth, including a homer by T. Meeks. But in the seventh, Dainty Maid came up with four to push back ahead and win. Vic Wade singled and Smith Worthington doubled. B. Harris singled and J. Huber got a hit. G. Bunting tripled to drive in the winning runs.

In the second game, Balentine's gained a 14-6 victory over The Daily Reflector. Balentine's got two in the first, then came back with eight in the second to wrap it up. G. Vincent reached on an error and B. Jackson singled. M. Sawyer was safe on an error and J. Medlin tripled. E. Vincent singled and M. Briley homered. J. Phillips tripled and J. Briley singled. G. Vincent doubled in Briley with the 10th run. Balentine's added two in the fourth on homers by R. Phillips and Briley, and got one each in the fifth and seventh. The Reflector got two in the third and four in the fourth.

In the final game, Four Seasons romped to a 20-5 win over Hallow's. Four Seasons got three in the first, then added what proved to be the winning runs in the third. R. Vincent singled and T. Jordan reached on a fielder's choice. B. Tripp singled and W. Moye tripled in the sixth run. Four Seasons added four in the fourth, with Jordan homering, three in the sixth, with Vincent homering, and seven in the seventh, with homers by C. Meeks and R. Carawan. Hallow's got two in the third, one in the sixth and two in the seventh.

In the opening game at Field One, Burger King gained a 27-12 win over the Jaycees. Burger King picked up four in the first, but the Jaycees came back with three in the second. Burger King then pushed over 11 to put it out of reach in the bottom of the second. R. Petlue singled and M. Saltes walked. B. Lange doubled as did B. Boisseau. B. Brock also doubled, as did G. Satlin and R. Catlee. A. Tyson singled and B.L. Teele doubled. Petlue singled and Saltes homered to wind it up. Burger King then added four in the third and eight in the fifth. The Jaycees picked up two in the third and seven in the sixth.

In the second game, the Little Sluggers rolled to a 31-4 win over Union Carbide. The Sluggers got four in the first, with R. Craft homering, then picked up three more in the second. B. Hardee doubled and P. Fleming singled. Craft homered again for a 6-0 lead. The Sluggers added five in the third with homers by R. Coggins and W. Briley, four in the fourth, 12 in the fifth, with homers by Hardee, Briley (2), and closed out with three more in the sixth with Fleming homering. Union Carbide got one in the fourth and three in the sixth.

In the final game, Hardee's took a 13-8 win over Greenville Utilities. Hardee's got a run in the first, but GUCo came back with three in the top of the second. Hardee's got two in the bottom of the second, then came up with four in the third. They got all they needed in the fourth, scoring four more. Nickson reached on an error as did Miller. Sneed singled and Byrd tripled. A double by Bolick brought in Byrd with the 11th run. They added two more in the sixth. GUCo picked up one more in the fifth and four in the seventh.

A WALKER PRODUCT
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Harry Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals has predicted stardom for Houston Astro center fielder Cesar Cedeno ever since he first came up to the majors in 1971. In his first two games this spring, Cedeno made seven hits. Six of the hits went for extra bases. Walker managed Cedeno last year.

Jim Gardner—Busy Businessman

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer
A year ago an eastern North Carolina businessman was barn-storming through North Carolina, trying to become governor.

Honor Pupils Announced

FARMVILLE — Four students from Farmville Junior High were named to the honor roll for the fifth marking period while 23 others were placed on the honor roll.

The following eighth graders were named to the honor roll: Charles Davis, Martha Bennett, Beverly Bell and Billy Von Schrititz.

Students named to the principal's list were:

Seventh grade—Curtis Barnes, Connie Shelley, Mike Barbour, Jeff Bundy, Elvie Willoughby, Jimmy Whatley, Donna Worthington, Kay Grant, Gary Hardison, Scott Evans and Debbie Jean Harris.

Eighth grade—Dianne Evans, Debra Joyner, Jerry Rackley, Elaine Saunders, Annise Satterwhite, Alison Turnage, Kim Tugwell, Cindy Williams, Margaret Yelverton, Keith Williams, Odell Edwards and James Whitehead.

"It's hard to believe" that was just a year ago, Jim Gardner says. "Times flies so fast." Gardner, 39, of Rocky Mount, a selfmade business success who found political success was a little more difficult, says he hasn't lost sleep fretting about the defeat Jom Holshouser handed him in the Republican runoff primary last June. Holshouser went on to win the office in November, while Gardner returned home to his family and commercial ventures.

Today Gardner is deeply immersed in a growing motel

Disowned
WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has disowned a statement by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz that Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., is a "publicity-seeking senator" and his Watergate investigating committee is conducting a "political investigation."

"He was speaking on his own," presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Monday of Butz's remarks at a news conference in Charlotte, N.C., the day before.

"I'm not going to agree with the characterization of the chairman," Ziegler said. "I'm not going to characterize the chairman."

chain, Family Inns of America, Inc., of which he is president and chairman of the board. He is also a partner in Brandywine Bay, a proposed resort development near Morehead City; and is chairman of the board of a Florida concern that has 11 Hardee's hamburger stores and plans seven more.

Gardner was once in charge of the entire Hardee's system and was responsible for it becoming the success it now is. He also was responsible for the Carolina Courgars professional basketball team coming to North Carolina. But he sold his interest in both ventures before making the gubernatorial race.

Gardner doesn't miss the hectic life he led from March until early June last year. Now he has more time to spend with his family: "more time than anytime in the last five to six years. I have a plane, fly (to the farflung enterprises), get in and out quickly. I spend most of my time in an airplane."

But he finds the pace enjoyable. "I live business," he said, even though "it kinda keeps you going. I like to see 'em start, get 'em going."

Gardner has no plans to return to politics. "I had 10 good years," the former (one-term) congressman said. "It had its ups and downs. (But) I feel it is time to get out."

He won't accept any draft from the state's GOP to run for office again. "There are too many other good people," he said, naming Reps. James Broyhill and Wilmer Mizell, and Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. There is no need "for tired faces," Gardner added.

In last year's campaign, in which Gardner had a narrow edge after the first balloting before falling 1,600 votes short in the second, Holshouser "wanted it more," Gardner said. "He worked harder."

"Desire is very, very important," he went on.

Noting he had not worried about the defeat, Gardner observed, "I believe the man upstairs takes care of everything."

But he recalled that in May, 1972, he did not think he would lose the runoff and that he does not believe there was a turning point in their campaign. "It was close all the way," he noted.

Gardner also said he did not think Holshouser would beat Hargrove Bowles, the Democratic nominee, until "toward the end of the campaign" in the fall.

But Holshouser's win was "great for the state and the Republicans," he said. "Jim's a very deliberate person. He's shown a lot of imagination. He could end up being one of the very best North Carolina has ever had."

"Politics has kinda been pulled out of this administration," he continued, adding he was pleased that the administration has played down politics in its relationship with the Democratic-controlled legislature.

The future for the GOP in North Carolina has never been brighter, Gardner contends. "The two-party system is a reality, and that's healthy. The parties will be more and more competitive as the years go by."

The bidding:
East South West North
3 ♠ 4 ♥ Pass 5 ♥
Pass 6 ♥ Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
South, the declarer at six hearts, permitted his opponent to score a trick with the ten of hearts despite the fact that the former had a solid holding in trumps. However, this apparent gift was an essential ingredient to a successful campaign.

East opened the bidding with a preemptive call of three spades, and South overcalled with four hearts. There was little room left for investigation and no other suitable bid was available to him. North felt warranted in making a slam try by raising beyond game to five hearts inasmuch as he held some strategic values in the ace-queen of clubs and the king-queen of trumps. South required no more encouragement to carry on to slam, since he had first round control of the opponents' suit.

Altho a club lead would have sealed South's doom, West can hardly be faulted for selecting the more normal opening of the jack of spades, which was ducked by the dummy and East and ruffed in the closed hand. South began drawing trump by leading over to the queen of hearts and low back to the jack in his hand. When West showed out on the second round, declarer abandoned the suit and switched his attention to diamonds.

He cashed the ace of diamonds and continued with the king. East ruffed with the ten of hearts; however, he found himself to be endplayed. He was reluctant to lead away from the king of clubs with the ace and queen in full view, so he returned the ace of spades.

South ruffed, played the queen of diamonds and then ruffed away West's jack on the next round with North's king of hearts. After the three of clubs was discarded on the king of spades, the ace of clubs was cashed and South's hand was high. He had lost only one trick—the ten of hearts.

Had declarer started by drawing three rounds of trumps, he would have gone down to defeat after the club finesse fails. He must lose a diamond trick as well when that suit fails to divide evenly. By first testing diamonds, South remains in position to safely draw the last trump, if both opponents follow to two rounds of diamonds, for he is now assured of at least 12 tricks.

Observe that East would not have benefited by refusing to ruff the second round of diamonds. Declarer will continue with the queen and, if that card is also permitted to hold, he can trump the fourth diamond in dummy with the king of hearts.

Aldridge Wins Dental Award

PINEHURST — Dr. M.W. Aldridge of Greenville was presented the 1973 Preventive Dentistry Award at the first general session of the 118th annual convention of the N.C. Dental Society Sunday night.

Dr. Aldridge is a periodontist who has been an advocate of daily home flossing and crevice brushing to prevent tooth decay and gum disease. He teaches the method in his office and has been instrumental in teaching other dentists to teach it to their patients.

A native of Vanceboro, he has practiced dentistry in Greenville for 22 years, specializing in periodontics several years ago.

A graduate of the Medical College of Virginia, he has been on the Greenville City Council and the Pitt County Board of Health, and is now active in The Way ministry of Greenville. He and his wife, the former Dorothy Five, have three sons, Mike, Steve, and Jeff. He was the first president of the North Carolina chapter of the American Preventive Dentistry Society.

Five From Pitt Are UNC-G Graduates

GREENSBORO — Five Pitt County students were among the more than 1,400 persons to receive degrees from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro during the institution's 81st annual commencement exercises Sunday in the Greensboro Coliseum.

Altogether, degrees were awarded to more than 1,050 undergraduates and to approximately 375 graduate students.

UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson conferred undergraduate degrees on the following:

Miss Wanda M. Dudley, bachelor of science, mathematics, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Cameron R. Dudley, Greenville; Miss Nancy L. Garris, bachelor of science in home economics, child development, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Garris of Rt. 3, Ayden;

Miss Katherine A. Inman, bachelor of arts, Spanish and French, magna cum laude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clifford Inman of Greenville; Miss Jenny S. Manning, bachelor of arts, English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.I. Manning Jr., Rt. 1, Greenville; and Miss Deborah J. Sudor, bachelor of science in home economics, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Sudor of Ayden.

Milk Price Bill Given Senate OK

RALEIGH (AP) — A measure giving the state Milk Commission the power to set maximum milk prices charged North Carolina consumers won the approval of the state Senate Monday night.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Bobby L. Barker, D-Wake, now goes to the House for consideration.

The Milk Commission already has the power to set minimum retail prices and plans a public hearing May 22 to determine whether it should exercise that power.

"Let's give the Milk Commission the authority to deal with the problem of high milk prices. Let's not have them skirting the issue, saying they can't deal with the high cost of milk because they have no authority," Barker urged.

Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth, described the bill, however, as "another step down the primrose path toward government control of a vital industry."

Saying that "we need to let milk find its price in a free market," Horton said, "This bill is more of the same medicine that made the patient sick in the first place."

An amendment offered by Horton to permit milk retailers to sell milk below cost was ruled out of order by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt as "not germane" to the bill.

Led March In Edenton

EDENTON, N.C. (AP)—Black organizers led a march of more than 50 persons Monday through Edenton's downtown district to protest the firing of a veteran Negro high school band director.

Don Woods of Atlanta, a project director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the march and a reported boycott of school by pupils was "a show of force to notify the power structure that the black community will no longer tolerate the racism and discrimination that exists in this community."

The protest began after school authorities notified Richard Satterfield, a school employee for 18 years, he would not be retained.

School Supt. Edwin West said last week that Satterfield would not be rehired because of "incompetence, insubordination and his inability to discipline students."

The SCLC said 1,000 pupils were out of school Monday. A spokesman for the Edenton-Chowan school system said she could neither confirm nor deny the count.

House Kills Off School Prayer Legislation

RALEIGH (AP)—Twenty-eight North Carolina senators voted in favor of prayer in public schools Monday night. Their vote carried no weight as the House 30 minutes earlier killed similar legislation.

At stake in the voting was a Republican-sponsored bill that would have authorized a public opinion referendum in November. Its defeat came when the House upheld a committee decision to kill it.

Although they were aware of the House action, only three senators present voted against the proposal. Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, accompanied his vote with the observation: "The public is about convinced we're a bunch of hypocrites, and after this they'll be sure of it."

Voting against the bill were Democratic Sens. A. B. Coleman of Orange, Marshall Rauch of Gaston and Herman Moore of Mecklenburg.

Harry S. Truman received 23 honorary degrees in his lifetime, 16 while President.

Gray Says FBI Never Found Link To White House

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Patrick Gray III told Senate investigators the FBI never found any link connecting the White House with the Watergate wire-tapping, an official digest of Gray's remarks shows.

Gray was further quoted as saying John W. Dean III assured him that he was relaying FBI reports directly and regularly to President Nixon.

Gray's remarks indicate he was unaware of the top-level coverup of the affair, or of reported attempts to enlist the CIA in the effort.

Gray quit as acting director of the FBI April 27, and Dean was fired three days later from his post as presidential counsel.

The digest of Gray's remarks flatly contradicts some earlier news accounts. Intended for private use by the Senate's special Watergate investigating committee, it was made available to The Associated Press by a Senate source.

Gray was interviewed by the Senate committee's staff last Thursday, and conflicting news accounts—based on various sources—began to surface late the following day.

Some quoted Gray as saying he had told Nixon of high-level

White House involvement in the case, while another said Gray had reported that John D. Ehrlichman tried to impede the FBI's investigation and that Gray had reported this to Nixon.

But the digest of Gray's remarks shows he was aware only of "confusion" that he didn't consider normal for such an investigation, and that he told Nixon he thought this resulted from "either carelessness or indifference" by White House aides.

Thus, according to the Senate's official version, Gray didn't tell the President anything that necessarily would have made Nixon aware of a coverup by his own aides. Nixon said April 30 that he was repeatedly assured by those conducting investigations into Watergate that nobody in his administration was implicated.

The three-page digest summarizes and paraphrases Gray's remarks, giving few direct quotes. It gives this account:

Gray said he started investigating the Watergate burglary June 21, after returning from a trip to California. "His first call from Ehrlichman came at 9:35 on the 21st advising him to be careful about leaks," the document said.

Ehrlichman called again June 28 ordering Gray to cancel a meeting Gray had set up with Central Intelligence Agency officials to straighten out confusion over whether the CIA was interested in two witnesses the FBI sought to interview.

Gray said he and Ehrlichman argued about which of them was running the FBI's investigation. "Ehrlichman conceded that Gray was running it but the meeting was canceled anyway," the Senate paper said.

Later that day, June 28, Gray said he met with Ehrlichman and Dean and that Dean handed him documents from the White House safe of E. Howard Hunt, later convicted in the wiretapping.

Gray confirmed earlier reports that he destroyed these documents—reportedly forged State Department cables—on what he took to be orders from Ehrlichman and Dean.

Contrary to earlier reports, Gray said he held onto the documents for months before destroying them after last Christmas. Dean inquired twice about whether the destruction had been carried out, Gray said.

More than a week dragged by after the June 28 meeting with no resolution of the CIA-FBI conflict, Gray said. He had been told by CIA Director Richard Helms that the CIA had no interest in the case, but received word from Helms' deputy director, Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, that the CIA wanted the FBI to postpone interviews with two witnesses.

Finally, on July 5, "Gray demanded of Walters a written memo from the CIA by 10:30 on the 6th as to any involvement." Thirty minutes before Gray's ultimatum ran out Walters personally delivered a memo stating that the CIA in fact had no interest in the two witnesses, Gray said.

"Gray and Walters then began philosophizing concerning their two organizations and they came to the mutual conclusion that the President should be informed of the confusion ... and that this confusion was just not normal in most investigations," the digest said.

Gray spoke to the President minutes later, at 11:28 a.m., by telephone. Nixon was in Key Biscayne, Fla.; Gray was in Washington.

"Gray then told the President of the problem concerning confusion over CIA involvement of witnesses and that this was a result of either carelessness or indifference of White House personnel, and that this could be injurious to the agencies and could wound the President," the document said. "The President advised Gray to continue his investigation and Gray never had any problem thereafter."

The source who gave The AP the digest said Gray's exact words, not quoted in the document, were, "Mr. President, you are being wounded by men around you who are using the FBI and the CIA"

Gray said he was in constant touch with Dean during the FBI's Watergate probe, and passed on 82 separate reports. "Dean assured Gray that he was reporting directly and regularly to the President. Gray was not surprised at the President's Aug. 29 speech since at that time there was no evidence of involvement by any White House persons."

Nixon said in the Aug. 29 speech that Dean had conducted an investigation clearing everyone then employed by the administration and the White House.

Newsweek magazine reported this week that Dean has denied making such an investigation, a statement that doesn't square with what Gray says Dean told him.

Gray said he knows nothing of a report in The Washington Post last Oct. 24 which said Nixon reopened his investigation into the affair because his investigation never found links in the links to the White House," the White House. "Gray stated that digest said.

Let Planters show you how to get a new car loan without being taken for a ride.

First off, we don't believe in gimmicks. So when you come to Planters for a loan, or when you get PNB financing through a dealer, you won't find any.

What you will get is the straight story on our rates versus anybody else's you want to talk about.

What's more, if you prefer lower monthly payments and a longer-than-normal repayment period, we can tailor the loan to suit your special needs.

So when you need an auto loan, forget about gimmicks and look at that bottom line. You'll find that we don't go around tooting our horn about our auto loans without good reason.
