Station Is Uninhabitable

Experts Review Options For Troubled Sky Lab

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — One temperature reading inside the troubled Skylab space station shot to 150 degrees today as the space agency pondered whether to rocket three astronauts to the lab to install a cover or balloon to shield the craft from the searing rays of the sun.

'Uncontrollable'

"The little man" — A Parisian, back to camera, watches as employees of Godot et Fils, one of Paris' on-the-street gold dealers, counts the gold coins he is selling as the price of gold soars to new highs. Georges de Poplavsky, president of Godot, calls the selling of gold, hoarded by the "little man" insane. "There's an uncontrollable power acting on the market now" de Poplavsky says. (AP Wirephoto)

That is one option being considered by experts who are coping with what to do about the high temperatures that presently make the orbiting laboratory uninhabitable. They say the high readings, which have risen steadily since the craft was launched Monday, are the main barrier to sending astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz into space Sunday to link up with the 85-ton lab.

Mission Control reported today that throughout the night radio commands frequently shifted the attitude of the Skylab so that different areas were exposed to the sun.

This helped stabilize the average temperature in the main workshop cabin at about 110 degrees, a spokesman said. But one sensor in a scientific airlock section sent a reading of 150 degrees.

Temperatures on the outside sunlit surface of the lab "remained at a rather high 250 to 300 degrees," the spokesman reported.

The problem resulted when protective thermal paint was stripped from the spacecraft during a launching mishap.

NASA also is considering dispatching the astronauts on an abbreviated inspection mission that would involve a fly-around of the Skylab to evaluate problem areas, followed possibly by a docking and brief onboard inspection.

A decision on what to do and when and if to launch may not come until Saturday, reported William C. Schneider, Skylab program director. The countdown on the astronauts' Saturn 1B rocket continued on schedule in case the green light is given for Sunday.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz are involved in the decision-making process.

Schneider said that, if it is decided to take up a balloon or some other shade device, the flight might have to be delayed several days to acquire and test the object and give the astronauts time to rehearse installation.

Record N.C. Budget Near Enactment

RALEIGH (AP) — With North Carolina's public schools the main beneficiaries, a record state budget for a single year neared enactment in the General Assembly today.

In rapid-fire order, the House Tuesday whisked through a measure appropriating $166 million for permanent improvements at state agencies and institutions and a bill appropriating about $2.7 billion for operation of state agencies, institutions and the schools next fiscal year.

The permanent improvements measure also sped through its final two votes in the Senate while the big operations spending measure was approved in the Senate on one of its final two votes and awaited final action today.

In addition, the House approved and held for further action today a measure to submit to North Carolina's voters this fall the question of issuing $300 million in state bonds for school construction. The bond funds would be divided among school districts on the basis of school attendance and allocations would range up to $20 million in Charlotte-Mecklenburg.

The increases voted in the big operating budget measure included $33 million to increase terms of teacher employment to 10 months, $26 million to hire additional teachers so that size of classes can be reduced and $28 million for expansion of state-operated kindergartens.

The big spending measures, which have been under consideration in committee for more than four months elicited little floor debate after they were explained by Rep. Carl Stewart

Pitt School Board Okays Current Expense Budget

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education last night gave approval to a tentative current expense budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year, but postponed action on a list of proposed capital expense items.

The list of current expense expenditures—which must be approved and funded by the Board of County Commissioners—totals more than $1.2 million in county funds, an increase of more than $260,000 over the current year's budget of $943,000 in county money. If commissioners give their approval to the proposed budget and fund the requests, the total current expense budget, including state funds, would total more than $2.7 million.

Pitt superintendent of schools Arthur S. Alford termed the current expense requests as "maintenance" budget. He added that any special district levy—up to 25-cents per $100 valuation is authorized—would provide an "enrichment budget" for the schools. This, too, must be approved by County Commissioners who may levy any amount of the special district levy they deem necessary and proper.

Included in the $1.2 million-plus budget approved by the board is a 5.5 per cent cost of living pay for administrative and maintenance workers (teachers salaries are set and funded by the State); a $38,200 increase over the current year for instructional supplies; and increase of more than $82,000 for instructional services; and increases of more than $74,800 and $42,900 for operation of plant and maintenance of plant.

Also included in the budget is an increase of $37,800 for auxiliary services over the current expenditure of $20,000, which included $22,600 for libraries ($2 per pupil).

The total instructional service budget amounts to $322,600 as compared with this year's $240,300, while the total request for operation of plant and maintenance of plant total $257,500 and $337,400. Fixed charges, such as social security, insurance, and retirement total $127,500, while the total request for auxiliary services amounts to $52,800.

ECU Trustees Hear Morgan Urges Board Be No Rubber Stamp

North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan, chairman of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees for the past 10 years, urged the board not to allow themselves to become "simply a ceremonial body" under the University of North Carolina system's powerful Board of Governors.

Morgan, a member of the board for the past 15 years goes off the body July 1. Yesterday's meeting of the trustees was the final regular session of the board with Morgan as its chairman.

Morgan warned of the danger of the ECU board becoming a rubberstamp when it is reconstituted and a new board is named from nominees "screened" by the UNC Board of Governors, although it is possible that some of the present trustee will be appointed to the reorganized board.

He urged these members to continue to "work as hard, or harder" than ever to further strengthen ECU and said there should be no letup in efforts to give the university its proper voice in shaping the institution's future development.

In remarks to the ECU Faculty Senate, yesterday, Morgan said, "Much has been accomplished here at East Carolina during the last decade and a half. But as I leave the Board of Trustees, much remains to be done.

"I would hope that our new trustees and the University system's Board of Governors will work to continue the progress that this institution has already made. I especially hope that they will work for equity within the system."

Morgan added, "There is no good reason why the destinies of some institutions should be furthered at the expense of destinies of others."

"When the people of North Carolina send their children to any institution in the system, they should be able to do so with the confidence of knowing that (Continued on Page 10)

Gold Prices Begin Waver

By FRED W. COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Gold fell back from record prices in Europe today for the first time since early last week, then steadied for perhaps another climb. But the U.S. dollar began to improve.

Gold opened in Zurich at $104.50 an ounce, down $6 from Tuesday's close.

In London, the metal brought only $107.50 in early trades, down $3 on overnight levels. But in the daily midmorning fixing, the five leading bullion dealers agreed on a fixing price of $111, or 50 cents above Tuesday's close.

This price, which the five dealers agree on each morning as the level they think the market will reach, indicated they believe the market still is trending upward, but much more gradually than in the past two days. At Tuesday's fixing, for example, they raised the price nearly $5 an ounce.

The metal reached $100 an ounce for the first time Monday and kept climbing to new records over the next two sessions, helping to weaken the dollar on money markets. By late Tuesday, however, dealers were openly saying the market had overreacted and a turnaround had been generally expected.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened stronger on the foreign exchange market, at 2.7840 West German marks. It had closed there Tuesday at 2.7750. Dollar weakness in Germany late last week helped trigger dollar selling elsewhere, and any sustained dollar recovery there would be likely to help the U.S. currency in other centers.

The dollar also gained in early trading in London, Paris and Zurich. It brought 3.1613 Swiss francs in Zurich, up from 3.1333 late Tuesday, and 4.4650 French francs in Paris, a rise of four centimes. In London, the pound dropped to $2.55, down from an 11-month high of $2.57 on Tuesday.

It was not clear yet whether the drop in the gold price and the improvement in the dollar were brief technical adjustments in market patterns or the beginning of a period of steadier trading. Financial markets usually move in spurts, and it is possible that later this week gold will soar again and the dollar plunge.

One usually accompanies the other, since investors and speculators who feel that the dollar is shaky sell dollars and buy either stronger foreign currencies or gold.

The prime reason for the latest run on the dollar is concern that the Watergate scandals will weaken President Nixon's hand in dealing with economic, trade and monetary problems.

Should gold continue to soar higher and the dollar plunge lower, foreign goods, trips abroad and foreign business operations would cost more for Americans. Otherwise, the week's flurry will have little or no effect on them.

ECU Building To Be Named For Jenkins

The East Carolina University Board of Trustees voted unanimously Tuesday to name the new Humanities Building now under construction on the campus here in honor of Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins.

Jenkins, president and chancellor of ECU since 1960, had left the meeting when the motion to name the $4.2 million modernistic Art School complex in his honor was made by the outgoing trustees chairman, Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

The action came as the final item on a lengthy agenda handled by the board at its last regularly scheduled meeting before it is reconstituted July 1. Jenkins was informed of the action at his home where he and Mrs. Jenkins were hosts for a social hour and dinner Tuesday evening.

The trustees' executive committee named the gallery in the new humanities building in honor of another ECU administrator, Dr. Wellington B. Gray, Dean of the School of Art.

Gray has been at ECU for 17 years, first as director of the Department of Art, then since 1962 as dean of the School of Art.

The Jenkins Humanities building is being constructed in two stages and will contain 118,000 square feet of floor space capable of accommodating 1,000 students and 50 faculty members. The first stage with 55,000 square feet of floor space will be completed in about a year and the second, larger stage for which a $2.1 million appropriation is contained in the 1973-74 capital improvements budget will be constructed later.

The Humanities complex which eventually will house the entire ECU School of Art has been described by Gray as "a better situation in design than anything else in this part of the world."

Features will include banks of rectangle bay windows on the north and south sides, each providing proper lighting for a studio. There will be 14 studios on the floor and seven on the ground floor.

The windows will be of unfiltered glass to allow art students to use the cold blue light from north and south exposures rather than the changing yellow light from east and west.

The first floor will house sculpture studios, plastics and advanced sculpture rooms and wax and bronze studios, wood and metalworking shops, clay mixing rooms and an electric foundry. Lecture rooms with wall mounted projector screens will be on the ground floor and there will be a main entrance on the Fifth Street side of the complex with a large loading dock area in the rear. Because of cutbacks in original budget requests, galleries and administrative office areas were omitted from the first stage construction.

Governor Appoints Dr. Gray

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, Dean of the School of Art, East Carolina University, has been named by Governor Jim Holshouser as a member of the North Carolina Awards Commission.

The commission is responsible for selecting recipients of the North Carolina Award, the state's highest honor.

"I am delighted to be appointed," Dr. Gray said, "and am pleased in the confidence the governor has expressed in me."

"I hope that I will be able to contribute something to selecting and honoring North Carolinians who have participated with distinction in the past in the field of fine arts."

Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins said "Dr. Gray is a very distinguished educator and should do an excellent job for the State of North Carolina in this capacity."

"His reputation for thoroughness will insure that any recipient of an award associated with Dr. Gray will be highly worthy."

Dr. Gray is completing his 17th year at East Carolina University. For the past 12 years, since the art program at ECU became a School of Art in 1962, Gray has been dean of the school. Prior to that he was director of the Department of Art.

Pitt Hospital Board Studies Retaining Of Efficiency Consultants

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees agreed to talk further to a representative of the George S. May International Management Consultants Company, which promises it can increase efficiency in the hospital to save between $75,000 and $100,000 a year.

"Good management is achieving your objectives through people," Dr. John Baker, chief analyst for the May Company, told the Trustees. He has spent six days here analyzing the many procedures of the hospital and in surveying and interviewing hospital employees. He said Pitt Memorial has the potential to increase its efficiency to between 75 and 80 per cent.

Efficiency is now a good 60 per cent, he said.

One big problem with Pitt Memorial is that it does not have a definite enough management plan. He also said that surveys among employees show low morale. Many employees said they did not know who their boss is and that they do not feel that suggestions made by them will be listened to. He said these problems should be eliminated with departmental and job manuals plus improved communication among different management levels. The hospital has an excessive turnover of employees, which could be alleviated with personal audits of those hired, he said. Baker is a Ph. D. in psychology and business administration and has a major interest in industrial psychology and has had extremely good results, he said.

The hospital is a big business, he said, needing about $12.50 a minute to keep operating at its present level. He proposed that his company send in a team of four installation engineers to work with the administration in improving the efficiency of the hospital, writing manuals, testing employees, and the like.

The head of the team will meet with the Executive Board of the Trustees and other interested persons Thursday at 8 p.m. and no decision will be made until this time, the Trustees decided. If the team is hired, the cost will be $45 per manhour plus expenses for the team.

Bob Barnes, who heads the hospital's Materials Management Department spoke to the Trustees, telling of the Department's work of acquiring, storing, distributing, and disposing of supplies for every phase of the hospital work. The Department handled $943,000 worth of supplies last year and keeps a tight inventory control. By bulk buying over and once a year bid-letting, costs have been kept to zero inflation over last year, he said. Glenn Strickland and Ephraim Smith, trustees who visited the department this week, commented on the efficiency of the department and of its neatness despite constant turnover of supplies. The department has 17 (Continued on page 10)

Canoeists Ponder New Try To Cross Atlantic

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A pair of Utah canoeists were thinking it over today, undetermined whether they would set out again in their 16 foot sail-rigger craft for an Atlantic voyage to Portugal.

Mrs. Shirley Haycock and her companion, Bob Geedy, set out Monday from Wrightsville Beach in a heavily laden outrigger canoe. They were towed to port through Topsail Inlet about 10 miles up the coast late Tuesday afternoon, weary but undismayed.

Mrs. Haycock told a newspaper by telephone, "I just don't have any comment at this time. It may take several days of discussion before we come up with any further plans." She was reached at the home of Harold Geedy, no relation to Bob Geedy, at his home in the Ogden community near Wilmington.

The canoeists earlier Tuesday had refused assistance by a fisherman who came alongside off Topsail Island, but late in the afternoon they accepted a tow by Brad Knight, who came upon them about a mile offshore.

Knight, a United Air Lines pilot vacationing at his Old Point home on Topsail Sound, said by telephone, "They were off Topsail Inlet and not making much headway. I was out in the inlet and saw them and recognized their boat right away."

Knight said he pulled up in his 19-foot boat, powered by a 135 horsepower outboard, and asked if he could help. He said they replied they would like to go ashore.

Mrs. Haycock, 40, of Price, Utah, said last week the purpose of her effort to sail across the Atlantic was to call attention to the needs of senior citizens. She heads a senior citizens program at her home in Utah and toward that end named her canoe "Senior Citizens Ark."

Driver Charged In Collision

Victor E. Escalle Jr., of Lawson's Trailer Court was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident and driving under the influence following investigation of a 9:15 p.m. collision here yesterday at the intersection of Evans and 14th Streets.

Police reported the Escalle vehicle collided with a car operated by Ronald Ray Smith of Route 1, Winterville, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Smith car and about $1,500 damage to the Escalle vehicle. Escalle was reported injured in the crash.

Coordinator To New York

Stanley E. Spangler, coordinator of public and national affairs for the extension division of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, will attend the May meeting of the board of directors of the Foreign Policy Association Friday in New York.

He will address the board on the "1973 Great Decisions" program in North Carolina. This is the second year that FPA has chosen North Carolina as the state with the greatest participation in the country in "Great Decisions."

One of the major regional programs for "Great Decisions" was coordinated by Gayle Everett of the division of continuing education at East Carolina University. Almost 700 persons in a 30-county area took part in discussion groups.

"Great Decisions" is an annual program which involves citizens in the study and discussion of eight key foreign policy issues facing the United States.

Mixed Blood In Auditions For Pianists

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A study by two North Carolina medical researchers says the Lumbees of Robeson County probably have "more Negro and white ancestry than Indian in their racial composition."

Dr. William S. Pollitzer of the Department of Anatomy at the University of North Carolina Medical School and Dr. Amoz Chernoff, then of the Duke Medical School, published their study in the December, 1964, edition of "Human Biology," a medical journal.

They ran blood tests on 1,273 Lumbees in 1958 in an attempt to draw some conclusions about the racial ancestry of the Lumbees. A group of Lumbees led by Howard Brooks is currently seeking federal recognition as Tuscarora Indians, which they believe will entitle them to federal benefits.

Drs. Pollitzer and Chernoff used four different mathematical methods of comparing several identifiable genes, minute particles of genetic information hidden in the nucleus of the blood cells.

Those genes occur with different frequencies in different races. By comparing several genes whose frequencies are known for the suspected ancestor races of the Lumbees, the scientists were able to get a genetic picture of the Lumbees.

Despite difference in the fourth methods used to compare the data, the amount of Indian ancestry ranged from a low of 10 per cent to a high of 21 per cent.

Pollitzer said he wanted to be "very cautious" that the study wasn't misinterpreted. "All this rests on the idea that there is some fixed and rigid definition of race, while actually there is no such thing," he said. "You must understand that race is always in a state of flux; it's a continuum."

Beginning today and continuing through Saturday, auditions for the National Piano Playing Auditions are being held at the A. J. Fletcher Music Center on campus at East Carolina University.

Mrs. Karen M. Hause, district chairman for the auditions says the annual event is sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers. The auditions are held nationally with thousands of young pianists taking part.

Judge for the Greenville District Auditions this year is Christopher Giles, teacher of piano, theory and piano literature at Wake Forest University. He holds degrees from Florida Southern College and George Peabody College and has performed on television in recital.

Giles is presently a member of the certification committee for North Carolina Music Teachers Association.

Troops Fire

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Zambian troops opened fire on a party of foreign tourists at the Victoria Falls, killing at least one and possibly two Canadian women and wounding a man from the United States, the Rhodesian government reported today.

The dead and wounded were not identified immediately.

A government statement said one Canadian woman was killed instantly by automatic rifle fire and another Canadian woman was hit and fell into the Zambezi river. The statement said the bodies of the women have not been recovered.

The falls, one of the great natural wonders of the world, are on the middle Zambezi River on the border between Zambia and Rhodesia.

The bodies were reported in the deep gorge near the towering falls and recovery would be difficult.

It is the second time Zambian troops have been accused of killing civilians by sniping across the border.

Summer Cooks Can Aid Ecology

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Outdoor cooks mindful of ecology and economy can serve both causes this summer by following a few simple rules.

In planning meals, skip steak and other expensive cuts of meat in favor of variety meats and poultry. Chicken and turkey are good with barbecue sauces or just basted with a homemade oil, vinegar and spice mixture. Beef heart, prepared like Peruvian anticuchos, or spicy hors d'oeuvre, traditionally is served with corn on the cob.

Several vegetables can be baked on a grill or directly on the firebed without using foil wrappings. Medium baking potatoes need 1 to 1½ hours on coals, and small acorn or butternut squash, 45 to 50 minutes. They should be turned often for even cooking.

Best Cooked on Grill
Whole eggplant and corn, with silks removed but husks left on, are best cooked on the grill, and turned often. Sprinkle the corn husks lightly with water to keep them moist during cooking. Corn takes about 25 minutes and eggplant will vary widely, according to size and shape.

Remember to increase all cooking times if the weather is chilly or windy or both.

Perhaps the biggest extravagance with many amateur outdoor cooks is the use of too many briquets. The amount needed depends on the size and type of food to be grilled, the type of grill and the weather. In general, a single layer of briquets that extends about an inch beyond the dimensions of the food is enough. Be sure to allow space for heat to penetrate between pieces of food.

More briquets are needed for roasts, whole poultry and anything cooked on a rotisserie. If more charcoal is needed as cooking progresses, add it around the edge of the burning coals.

If food is cooking too fast, either move some coals to the sides of the grill or separate the coals slightly.

Good but Expensive
Briquets in a grid-like cardboard package make a good but expensive starter. One clever cook we know makes his own from loose briquets, bought in bulk, and placed in halves of molded cardboard egg cartons. About 20 minutes before starting the fire, he sprays one or more units lightly with liquid starter and lets it soak in. One or two minutes before starting the fire, he also sprays starter on the other briquets to be used and piles the extra coals in a stack or pyramid on briquet-filled cartons to create a draft that will catch fire quickly.

Empty waxed cardboard milk cartons also can be filled with briquets for starting fires. Or you can keep on hand a tightly covered jar of briquets soaking in liquid starter to cover. Use a few soaked ones at the bottom of your pyramid.

Save partly-burned briquets by dousing them, one at a time, in a container of water. Use tongs to hold each one in the water about 1 second, then return it to the firebowl to dry at least 24 hours.

When the ashes have cooled, strewn them directly on a vegetable garden or lawn as fertilizer or add them to a compost heap.

Marriage Becomes Picture Of Unhappiness

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married two months. My husband is 44, and I am 41. For years he lived alone, ate plain meals, and didn't have a very exciting life.

He loves photography, takes good pictures, and wants to become a professional.

In the short time we've been together I have booked him for an exhibit at a good gallery, I got some of his pictures published, and I've set up a future exhibit at a museum. I'm presently working on getting us a free trip to Europe with a group of professional photographers.

I am his wife, agent, cook, mentor, and lover. So tonight I prepared a really jazzy meal with candles and the works. When we sat down, I asked him: "Are you happy?"

Well, I didn't expect Robert Browning's sonnets. A simple "yes" would have sufficed. You can imagine my shock when the dirty dog says: "Well, I'm not too unhappy."

That really turned me off. I mean, I couldn't get excited over him again for the next 100 years.

Please tell me where I went wrong. Maybe if I did nothing like some wives he'd appreciate me more. What now?

DEAR DISGUSTED: A helpmate can do too much to help. He'd probably prefer eating baked beans in the dark with a woman for whom HE put the beans on the table. Give him a chance to see what he can do for himself—and you.

DEAR ABBY: Joe Blow and I were married and had three children. Then Joe Blow and I were divorced. I then married John Doe. Now I learn that John Doe had several wives before he married me—none of whom he bothered to divorce!

Question One: Am I still legally Mrs. Joe Blow? I certainly can't be Mrs. John Doe if he is a bigamist, can I?

Question Two: Is there a central United States bureau or agency where ALL divorces are recorded so a person can find out who is legally divorced? WHO AM I?

DEAR WHO: Answer One: You are still Mrs. Joe Blow—in name only if John Doe is a bigamist. Answer Two: There is NO central bureau or agency where all divorces are recorded.

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old son, Erik, is marrying Heather, who is 21. Erik asked his father to be his best man, and naturally his father was flattered and delighted.

When Heather heard about it she said she had asked her 21-year-old girl friend to be her maid of honor, and it will look ridiculous for a 47-year-old man to stand up for the groom when a 21-year-old girl is standing up for the bride. Heather has asked Erik to reconsider.

Do you think it will look ridiculous? And how should this sticky problem be handled? ERIK'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I see nothing ridiculous about it. Heather should be told that the best man and maid of honor do not necessarily have to be the same age.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Certificates Of Achievement Awarded Club

The Junior Woman's Club of Greenville was awarded several certificates of achievement at the N. C. Federation of Woman's Club convention.

The convention was held in Asheville May 8-11.

The local club was given a certificate for its outstanding service and dedicated efforts in the fight against kidney disease through the GFWC Junior Project "Alliance For Life." The club also received a certificate of appreciation for the services rendered to the National Association for Retarded Children.

The International Affairs Department was given a merit award for its work in international policy and was second runner-up in the state in both Senior and Junior Women's Club in that division.

A highlight of the convention was the announcement that Mrs. Pat Hudson, formerly of Greenville, was named second runner-up in the state for the Juanita Bryant Citizenship Award. Mrs. Hudson spent many hours to educate the public of sickle cell anemia victims and setting up screening programs at the local health department.

Those attending from the local club were: Mrs. Bill Fuqua; Mrs. Matt Gustafson; Mrs. Melvin Hathaway; Mrs. Stuart Savage; and Mrs. Bob Swinson.

The neat look is creeping up on American women for spring and summer. Gloves, hats sometimes, and all that. It is expected to be seen on young and old.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Clarence Godwin of Oxford, and sisters-in-law of the bride-elect, Mrs. Robert C. Jackson and Mrs. I. Bruce Jackson Jr.

Miss Jackson was remembered with a gift of silver by the hostesses.

No Alternative To Coexisting

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will arrive in Washington June 18 for eight days of intensive talks with President Nixon concerning Soviet-United States relations.

The visit was announced by White House foreign policy advisor Henry Kissinger who returned from four days of discussions with Brezhnev in Moscow. He said the administration hopes Brezhnev will be treated with the "courtesy and respect consistent with the great importance we attach to this visit."

To be discussed will be such issues as disarmament, trade, the Middle East and expanding of cultural and scientific exchanges.

The two countries will be taking another step in the thawing of the Cold War which followed World War II and the normalization of trade and relations.

There are those in the United States who are highly suspicious of the betterment of relations between the U.S. and Russia. They seem to believe that trade and other exchanges between the Capitalistic and Communistic giants are an impossibility.

We do not share this belief. As a matter of fact the two countries must coexist in this modern world. There is no other choice.

No doubt the Soviet Union was driven to seek an accommodation with the United States because of the rise of its Communist neighbor—China. But most international alignments are brought about because of similar concerns.

The United States and the Soviet Union could not stand isolated from each other forever. Both are too big and too powerful for this. And certainly there is not a prayer for reducing our big expenditures for the military unless we can reach some understanding on this with the Soviets.

We would expect the president to carry on some hard bargaining with the Soviet leader, so that our interests will be protected. However, if we can reach some agreement on disarmament and trade, as well as the Middle East and perhaps Southeast Asia, then this will have been a very worthwhile meeting.

Can't Say No To Overspending

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Lobbyists and pork barrel politics have made this the most overspending legislature in state history.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Sen. Robert Vance Somers of Rowan, an unabashed conservative, gave that as his personal summation of the $2.9 billion North Carolina budget due the coming fiscal year.

"Everybody's got their hand out, and they're getting it filled," said the young Republican freshman. "Practically nobody in the legislature has had the courage to say, 'No,' to anything. We ought to realize we would do a service for the people of the state to vote against some appropriations."

His is a minority view among lawmakers who regard the budget as a vehicle for progress, Sen. Somers acknowledged. "It's the destiny of the conservative to be on the losing side," he said.

"That doesn't dim his conviction that excessive government spending is an evil of the age, spawned in Washington by federal doles and now pervasive at all levels.

Outstretched Hands
"The prevailing attitude is, 'If we don't get it, somebody else will.' The result is that everybody forgets political principle and sticks out his hand," Somers declared.

Lobbyists plead their causes, and legislators promote their special projects, he said. "Pork barrel is rampant," he reported. The budget is fattened, he said, with bills put in by legislators to assist projects in their own area. He was told to watch out for lobbyists, Somers said, before he came to Raleigh to serve his first term. The warning was well taken, he added. "Every group known to man is down here asking for something," he said.

Professional educators led the pack in the quest for state funds, he declared. "I found the most effective, demanding and persistent lobbyists are the public school teachers," he asserted. "They have the largest hands and the longest reach."

Critical of Governor
Gov. Jim Holshouser in programs he requested dispelled any prospect that a GOP administration would exercise restraint on spending, Somers said. "I'm very disappointed," he added.

Somers recalled that Holshouser as a candidate endorsed the goals of professional educator organizations. Campaign oratory didn't include the hard questions of cost and who pays the bill, he contended.

The pay-off is in the budget, and the taxpayers get the bill, the Senator said.

Somers singled out the governor's recommendation to reduce class size. To reduce the average public school class by one pupil, he said, means a $26 million item in the budget.

Differences between the senator and the governor go beyond the budget. Somers, a maverick in party ranks, found himself in the out-group when Holshouser defeated Jim Gardner of Rocky Mount in the primary for governor.

Rapport with Legislators
If party factions put him out of step with the executive, political philosophy makes him feel at home in the legislature.

As a conservative, Somers said, he finds congenial company among his colleagues. That's not surprising, he observed, since the Tar Heel temper is basically conservative regardless of party label.

"I have a lot of rapport with eastern Democrats," he noted.

While many legislators share his conservatism, few exhibit equal commitment. His position, said Somers, grinning, "is somewhere to the right of Machiavelli and Louis XIV."

The extravagant quote is part of the Somers style, turned to his theory that politics is an ego trip. "I distrust any politician who says he wants to run for office to serve the people," he said. "We run because we think our ideas are good for the state."

Somers, 35, started offering his ideas early. He was elected judge of Randolph County court at 26, then the youngest judge in the state. He moved to Rowan, and was the only Republican in history elected prosecuting attorney of county court there.

He tried the impossible dream as the GOP candidate against U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., in 1968. He lost the campaign, but his oratory caught the attention of a right-wing group financed by Texas oil money which sent him on a speaking tour of the Southwest on conservative themes.

The irony, Somers recalled, was that he received handsome fees to speak in distant place and never got an invitation to talk for free at home.

Hanoi Aims At All Indochina

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

VIENTIANE, Laos—By blocking a coalition government agreed in principle by Lao Communist leaders over two months ago, North Vietnam uses the Paris ceasefire agreement of Jan. 27 to further its imperial ambitions for Indochina.

The truth, sugarcoated in Washington, is depressingly clear in this hot, dusty little capital in Asia's hinterland: Hanoi will send men and supplies into South Vietnam through Laos until it completely controls Cambodia or wins the Vietnam war or both. Thus, the present military lull in Laos after a decade of bloodshed is merely Hanoi pausing while it awaits results elsewhere.

In Washington, high officials always felt the Paris agreement would bring peace to Vietnam only if Hanoi fulfilled its promise to remove North Vietnamese troops from Laos and cease using this country as a supply corridor. In Vientiane, there was no doubt the Communists would break that promise.

Nobody understands these harsh realities better than Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of Laos for 11 years and at age 71 perhaps Indochina's only genuine statesman. "The Communists want Cambodia in order to attack South Vietnam," he told us in an interview in his villa. "First Cambodia, then South Vietnam. After that, Laos will fall by itself."

Clearly, the Hanoi politburo intended to haggle endlessly over separate ceasefire in Laos following Jan. 27, while launching its Cambodian offensive. But Souvanna crossed up Hanoi by giving the Pathet Lao, the Lao Communists, almost everything they asked—including half the seats in a new coalition cabinet.

Souvanna's concessions in the Laos ceasefire agreement signed here Feb. 22, besides infuriating right-wing Laos politicians and generals, stunned Hanoi. Whereas the Paris agreement's Article 20 requires all foreign troops to leave Laos but sets no time limit, the Vientiane agreement requires them out 60 days after the new coalition government takes office. Hanoi would have no part of that.

The result: Hanoi ordered the Pathet Lao to delay seating the new government. So the Pathet Lao negotiator regularly visits the office of the Lao government negotiator, compliments him on his air-conditioner in sweltering Vientiane and then leaves. There will be no serious negotiations until the Pathet Lao gets a green light from Hanoi.

Meanwhile, newly free of U. S. air raids, Hanoi is sending trucks bumper-to-bumper in broad daylight down the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos for the military build-up in South Vietnam. Inside Laos, the Communists are building roads and houses, attempting to lure some 200,000 to 300,000 refugees back to Communist-controlled territory (two-thirds of Laos but containing barely 20 per cent of its 3 million people).

Some U. S. and Lao officials believe Hanoi will continue this ominous lull until its conquers South Vietnam. Others feel Hanoi may give the green light to resume negotiations when Cambodia falls. With a guaranteed supply route through Cambodia, it might consent to token troop withdrawals along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

But everybody here agrees North Vietnam will never remove all its 80,000 regulars from Laos. Hanoi simply cannot count on Pathet Lao troops against CIA-trained Lao irregulars. Sisouk Na Champassak, the knowledgeable defense minister, told us Hanoi will never go below 10,000 regulars.

Moreover, resumed negotiations would confront the partition question. Souvanna envisions a neutral, independent, non-partitioned Laos with government power shared between Communists and non-Communists. The Pathet Lao, following Hanoi's orders, insist on virtual partition: Communist ministers taking seats in Vientiane's coalition cabinet but Communist domains hermetically sealed by military buffer zones.

Even partition would be only an interim step. Seated

Strength For Today

THE GREATEST WORDS

What would your answer be to the question, "What is the most important statement in the Bible?" Many people would probably quote the famous verse, "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten son..." Others would designate the statement, "God is love," as signifying everything in the divine nature for which our hearts yearn. Still others would quote the words with which the Bible opens, "In the beginning, God..."

But for everyday Christian seeking to live a satisfactory life in the midst of an unsatisfactory world, there is certainly no combination of words in the entire Bible more helpful than the words uttered by Jesus in Gethsemane, "Thy will be done." These were almost the last words which Christ uttered, and they constituted the crown of His life. In the same manner, when we get to the place that we can utter these words, we have come indeed to a state of consecration which will produce peace of mind and spiritual power.

Brezhnev On Watergate

WASHINGTON—Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev met with Henry Kissinger last week at the Soviet leader's home outside of Moscow. The conversation naturally got around to the Watergate and this, in essence, is what was said. "Gospodin Kissinger, I do not understand all this business about Watergate that is taking place in your country." "Well, Mr. Brezhnev, it's rather difficult to explain. It appears that members of the President's political party bugged the headquarters of the opposition party."

Other Editors Say Flashpoint

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The present conflict between Lebanese government troops and Arab guerrillas, while not directly involving Israel or any of the Arab states, should be regarded with concern, for Lebanon is traditionally a "flashpoint" for trouble in the Middle East.

Thus, when Lebanon gets into trouble, one can anticipate a new crisis to develop. If that happens, and a new all-out conflict develops, it could damage the general atmosphere of relaxing relations between the East and the West.

Lebanon, then, is the spot to watch for signs of future difficulty. The current strife springs from the Lebanese president's resistance to Palestinian guerrillas' claims to a right to live on Lebanese territory by their own rule and to mount attacks on Israel from there.

But since the Lebanese bear the brunt of the almost inevitable Israeli retaliation, Lebanon disapproves of such action. Also, the hostility damages Lebanon's economy which is based mostly on tourism.

Syria, Lebanon's neighbor, seems to be eager to move in forces to aid the Palestinian guerrillas. Egypt and Libya are pledging support to the guerrillas. In Lebanon itself, support for the guerrillas comes largely from the Moslem segment.

If there is an effort to upset the Lebanese system of government, then Israel will very likely interpret that as a threat to its own security, and when such threats arise Israel is not a nation to sit idly by and watch these threats turn into hostile action.

Thus, if action is taken by the guerrillas to tip over the Lebanese government, Israel may be tempted to intervene. And should that happen, the flashpoint will have been reached once again.

Some sources believe this is why Moscow sent a high military figure to Damascus to advise the Russians' Syrian friends to play it cool. While strife has always played an active role in Communist plans, it would not be beneficial to Moscow's program for the Middle East at this time.

The hostility in the Middle East is not confined to Arab vs. Israeli. Arabs have violent disagreements among themselves. So one Israel watches nervously as Arabs fight among themselves and neighboring nations exchange threats.

These similarities between the current trouble and that of 1958 and 1969 are obvious, and equally obvious is the threat to the Lebanese system each time such a situation arises.

party finding out what the revisionist counterrevolutionaries are up to?"

"That's the way our people felt about it, too. But unfortunately some newspapermen got wind of the story and started to write about it."

"Why didn't the President put the newspapermen in insane asylums?"

"We cannot do that in the United States, Mr. Brezhnev."

"That's too bad. You cannot have order and discipline in a country if you are unable to put writers in mental institutions."

"That's true. The real problem though was that after the Watergate trial, it was revealed that members of the White House staff tried to obstruct justice and keep any higher-up from being implicated."

"Naturally, Gospodin Kissinger. What other choice would they have?"

"In our country the people want to get to the bottom of things. They want to know who is responsible for a crime."

"Even if the President is involved?"

"Yes, even if the President is involved."

"Why didn't President Nixon shoot everyone who had anything to do with Watergate, so that nobody would talk?"

"Some of the people involved were his best friends." "In the Soviet Union, a leader has no friends. He must do what's right for the people even if it means losing a few bureaucrats."

"We're aware you do have a different system, Mr. Brezhnev, but we must deal with the Constitution. The President has to take responsibility for what his subordinates do, no matter how serious the crime."

"What kind of system of justice is that? The President should torture his subordinates until they confess he had nothing to do with it."

"We've thought of that, but it just wouldn't work in the United States because Congress would get wind of it

How To Lose Friends

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you have too many friends?

Most of us feel we could use a few more. But now and then we meet someone who, perhaps because of a gathering feeling of misanthropy or because he has too many credit cards, decides his garden of friendship has become overcrowded and is threatening to choke him with palship.

HAL BOYLE

His solution is simple. All he has to do is weed out that garden.

How? Well, one way is to put a burr in the glad hand of his fellowship.

Here are a few time-tested remarks that have broken up many lifelong friendships:

"I don't see why you should be having any trouble with your teen-age children. Our two are perfectly well-behaved. Often, in cases like yours, they come about because the parents simply don't make the necessary effort to understand their children."

"I could lend you the money, but I'm not going to because I am convinced I'd be doing you more harm than good."

"If I were you, buddy, I'd start right now looking for another place to hang my hat. The boss has tipped me confidentially that he wants me to take over your job next month."

"Your wife wants me to run off with her, but I've decided against it. When have you ever done that big a favor for me?"

"My mother-in-law is staying with us for a month. What weekend can we park the old bag with you. She'd love to show you her album of childhood pictures of all the presidents. The only one missing is Millard Fillmore."

"I'd love to lend you my new

Greenville High School closed last night with graduating exercises in the Campus Building of East Carolina Teachers College.

The diplomas were awarded by Professor Cannon and J. E. Winslow, members of the school board. The Dixon athletic cup was awarded to Roger Taylor. The annual award of $5.00 from the Woman's Club to the student with the best scholarship was presented to Miss Martha Scoville. The Keech distinguished service cup, which in recent years had gone to a single individual, was awarded to two students this year because each had established the highest all-round scholastic rating. The cup was awarded to George Willard and Harold Sugg. Class officers for 1933 were President Carl Joyner, Vice-president Naomi Gaskins, and Secretary-Treasurer Lynette Dixon.

Standard & Poor's Corp. reports that of the 1,495 companies whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, 190 reported in April alone that they had increased holdings of their own shares in the first quarter.

Another group also has been active, as usual, and that is the insiders, or the officers and directors of corporations. Some well known companies are more than 50 per cent owned by their own executives and directors.

Blues In Securities Industry

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A

tragedy of the securities industry, where red ink is spreading and layoffs are rising, is that it probably could be in the midst of a golden age if it had only made the proper moves.

But apparently it didn't, and the prices of stocks are depressed and corporations are concerned about future financing and individual investors are conserving their money in bonds and banks and real estate.

Where it went wrong is now the subject of in-depth studies, but it seems fair to state that:

—Individual investors lost their confidence not so much in stocks as in those who sold them the stocks, and they may not re-enter the market until the securities industry clears up its own affairs.

—In-fighting continues among the various institutions that are to be part of the new central market place. And now the industry has reversed itself and seeks higher, not lower, commissions.

—They feel that investments in no-risk or small-risk securities, such as government and corporate bonds, which now pay relatively high rates, are preferable to the uncertainties of a volatile stock market.

And so, at the very time that more Americans than ever before have money to invest, and at the very time that corporate profits are at their highest in several years, stock prices are badly depressed.

One reason is the absence of the individual investor, bothered by memories of past scandals and inadequacies, by "unfair" competition from huge institutions, by fear of broker stability, by commission uncertainties, by regulatory problems...

You can draw up your own list, and probably you would have to include what the pollsters claim and what the pros at first denied, that there is pervasive uncertainty in the country that demoralizes investors.

As a result of some or all of these reasons, much of the recent activity in the market has been by institutions, such as mutual and pension funds, which really have little choice but to invest.

Pitt NAACP Met Sunday

WINTERVILLE — A number of items were discussed as the Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People met Sunday at Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church here.

Several matters involving the public school system were on the agenda including the selection of members of the Board of Education and school principals—as was a discussion of employment in the county.

Those attending the session discussed what can be done to keep young people in the county from leaving in order to gain employment.

Officials noted that NAACP legal defense fund support buckets and jars are being placed over the county in churches and business firms for donations.

Pitt NAACP president D.D. Garrett presided at the meeting.

"I guess our families won't be seeing so much of each other from now on, Jim. My wife just inherited some money. It isn't a lot—but just enough so that my wife feels we should move up a little socially."

"Now and then I get the feeling I'd rather have you as an enemy than a friend, Fred. That way I'd know for sure just where you stood."

"Yes, we ought to get together for a lunch as soon as possible, old boy. My calendar is pretty tight through August 1975. But call me up anytime after that, and we'll see if we can't find a day when we're both free."

What can stop Hanoi? "Only the great powers, guaranteeing our neutrality and independence," he replied. That means continued responsibility here for the United States, fatigued by long frustration in Indochina and now unbalanced by the Watergate scandal—a subject worthy of a future column.

Hunt Three Escapees For Killing Of 6 In Family

REYNOLDSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — They were as good as folks as they come," a south Georgia sheriff said of the six slain members of the Ned Alday family. "And they didn't drink beer, wine or whisky."

As residents of the tiny rural communities near the Florida and Alabama lines mourned the victims, police pressed a search today for three men who escaped from a prison farm in Maryland.

"They were church-going and hard-working," Seminole County Sheriff Dan White said of the Aldays.

Early Tuesday five of the Alday men were found lying face down in a beer can-littered house trailer with bullet wounds in the backs of their heads.

Hours later the nude body of the wife of one of the men was found in a field about six miles away. She had been shot in the back of the head and the shoulder, and she had been raped.

The victims were identified as 66-year-old Ned Alday; his sons Jerry, 35, Chester, 32, and Jimmy, 25; his brother Aubrey, 57 and Jerry's wife Mary, 25.

Police said they were seeking three escaped convicts for questioning in connection with the slayings.

A car found near Mrs. Alday's body was traced to a Pennsylvania youth who officials feared was kidnapped by three escapees from the Wicomico County work farm in Maryland.

Police identified the escapees—described as armed and dangerous—as Carl Isaacs Jr., 19; George Dungee, 35, and Wayne C. Coleman, 26, all of Baltimore, Md. Isaac's 15-year-old brother was believed to be with the three men.

A search by sheriffs deputies, state Division of Investigation (DOI) officers and FBI agents focused on Mrs. Alday's white-and-blue 1970 Chevrolet, believed to be in the possession of the assailants.

DOI Director William Beardsley said the car with Pennsylvania tags was seen late Monday by witnesses "convoying the white Chevy" belonging to Mrs. Alday.

Investigators said interviews with neighbors indicated that three men may have followed Mrs. Alday home Monday while her husband and the other Al-day men were planting corn at their 525-acre farm.

Police theorized that the men may have been slain in night-marish sequence as one after another went to Jerry Alday's mobile home to see why Ned Alday had not returned with a truck to the site of a bogged-down tractor.

Coroner Paul Mosely said Ned Alday was shot seven times—four times with a .22 caliber weapon, twice with a .32 caliber weapon and once with a bullet that has not been found.

For armed robbery and Dungee 18 months for contempt of court, records show.

Baltimore County, Md., police said the three had boasted they would "kill any policeman who tries to stop us for any reason." A spokesman said authorities had reason to believe the three headed south toward North Carolina or Florida.

Dr. Larry Howard, director of the state crime lab, said he had never heard of a case in Georgia involving the murder of so many members of one family.

Mosely described the Aldays as "a very respectable family. We've never had anything like this happen in this part of the state."

Bud Alday, a surviving brother, said he discovered the bodies about 1:30 a. m. Tuesday after searching for the men when they failed to return from the fields.

The three Maryland escapees had strikingly similar descriptions. Coleman was reported to be 5-feet-5, 140 pounds; Dungee 5-feet-4, 145 pounds; and Isaacs 5-feet-6, 150 pounds.

Dungee, a Negro, and Isaacs, a white, both have prominent scars on their left legs, an FBI spokesman said. Coleman, also white, and Isaacs reportedly have tattoos on both arms.

Isaacs was serving four years for breaking and entering and robbery at the time of his escape from the minimum security prison farm in Maryland. Coleman was serving 10 years for armed robbery and Dungee 18 months for contempt of court, records show.

Baltimore County, Md., police said the three had boasted they would "kill any policeman who tries to stop us for any reason." A spokesman said authorities had reason to believe the three headed south toward North Carolina or Florida.

Dr. Larry Howard, director of the state crime lab, said he had never heard of a case in Georgia involving the murder of so many members of one family.

"It's the biggest, deliberately planned homicide in Georgia," he said.

Clyde Earnest, who has a farm several miles from the Alday place, said as he joined hundreds of others at the Alday trailer Tuesday, "All of their neighbors are going to work to get their crops in for the rest of their families. All of us are so close."

County tax collector E. C. Bridges described the Aldays as "hard workers and a close-knit family and just plain good folks. I don't believe the Aldays had an enemy in the world."

Another Med School Needed: Rountree

RALEIGH — "It just makes good sense to build where you already have started," declared Rep. H. Horton Rountree of Greenville, in reference to the medical school efforts of East Carolina University.

Democrat Rountree, who has fought for East Carolina and its medical school campaign as a representative from the Eighth District for four successive terms, indicated ECU's four-year school efforts would shape up in the 1974 session.

He expressed disappointment that $25 million could not be set aside in the 1973 session. He added, however, that the $7.5 million will be a good focal point.

Rep. Rountree, interviewed as the General Assembly prepared to take a break until the 1974 session, said he would continue to push for East Carolina.

He said the Greenville university not only needs a four-year medical school to "help alleviate the critical shortage of doctors in Eastern North Carolina," but another will be needed in the future to serve the west, possibly in Charlotte.

He said he would support that effort, too, after calling attention to overtures that other areas might be vying for the medical school East Carolina has been seeking.

Rep. Rountree said East Carolina has moved toward a four-year medical school since the 1965 session, explaining that cooperative efforts are in the works with community hospitals in Greenville, Kinston, Goldsboro, Washington, N. C. and New Bern.

He said ECU has gone through all proper channels in developing a medical school program, resulting in trained people, equipment and growing facilities to help meet the doctor needs of "our people in the East."

Rep. Rountree, who serves on a standing committee of Appropriations, noted that annual sessions will enable the General Assembly to keep a closer look at subsequent legislation and come forth with new ideas on left-over bills.

He expressed the belief that the base budget system that is geared to charting new expenditures in the light of previous requirements "is excellent."

He said fiscal operations need constant examination if the taxpayer is going to get the most mileage from his tax dollar.

"There should always be greater accountability," he declared. "The general public should get proper services and the proper perspective for money they have paid in taxes."

Rep. Rountree pointed out that although the General Assembly is taking a break, it does not halt legislative activity.

As an example, he said he would be having to make trips to Raleigh in the interest of legislative committee work to which he has been assigned preliminary to the 1974 session.

"Annual session mean more continuity in the legislative process and that's good because it will provide better legislation and better benefits to the people," he added.

Appreciation Day For Brimley Set

Plans are near completion by friends of Dr. Ralph Brimley to honor him upon his retirement from East Carolina University after forty-one years of service to the public schools and higher education in North Carolina.

He is married to Louise Wood Brimley and they have two daughters, Mr. Albert Newton from Montgomery, Alabama, and Mrs. Jean McNeill from North Wilkesboro, North Carolina.

Appreciation day ceremonies will be at the new Wahl-Coates Laboratory School located on East Fifth Street in Greenville. Dr. Brimley's friends are invited to attend at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 20.

Speakers scheduled to be on hand to honor Dr. Brimley include Congressman Walter B. Jones, ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins, State Representative Sam Bundy, and George Willard, Superintendent of Wilson City Schools. Dr. Douglas Jones, Dean of the School of Education, ECU will make the presentation of a retirement gift to Dr. Brimley.

A planning committee composed of public school and university people have been making arrangements for the occasion and a presentation will be made to Dr. Brimley at this time.

Dr. Brimley has served as a teacher, principal, superintendent, and professor of school administration. He is a member

ABANDONED AND BRUISED — This baby boy was found abandoned Monday on the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kaltwasser in Brunswick, Ga. The blond boy's left hand was burned and there were bruises over his face as from a beating. A spokesman at Brunswick Memorial Hospital said that it hasn't been determined yet whether the child's left hand would have to be amputated because of gangrene. (AP Wirephoto)

15-Car Train Is Hijacked

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — A 15-car Seaboard Coast Line freight train was hijacked here early today and driven more than 30 miles before it crashed into a gondola, authorities said.

Police said a 25-year-old woman sitting in the firemen's seat in the train's engine was the only person found aboard when it derailed.

Authorities arrested Mary Lane Pipkin of Sanford and brought her to the Seminole County jail here, said Detective Tom Hennigan. Charges are pending, he said, because "It's been a long time since we had a theft of an entire train. We'll have to check the Florida statutes."

The hijacking occurred during the changing of crews at the Sanford terminal, deputies said.

At one point the train which was driven up to 45 miles an hour through busy switching yards narrowly missed crashing into a train coming in the opposite direction, deputies said.

Hennigan said the woman told deputies she was unaware of what was happening.

"She remembers she went to a telephone booth to make a call, then the next thing she remembers is waking up after the derailment," Hennigan said.

"We think there were more people than this one girl involved," police said.

Boudreaux New Ass'n President

Robert M. Boudreaux, financial aid officer for East Carolina University, has been named president of the N.C. Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators for the coming year. The election was held at the association's Spring meeting recently at Appalachian State University, Boone.

Other officers elected for the 1973-74 year were William M. Mackie, director of financial aid, Wake Forest University, president-elect; Benjamin E. Casey, director of student financial aid, Atlantic Christian College, treasurer, and Ms. Alma Newby, director of financial aid, Elizabeth City State University, secretary.

"There is no reason why the faculties that teach at different institutions should be compensated differently or have different size work loads. The amount and kind of work any professor has to do and the compensation he gets should depend on his qualifications alone. Whether he works in Elizabeth City or Boone should make no difference.

"And there is no good reason why the faculty at one institution should have a lesser role in its governance than the faculty at another."

Morgan said he will call a special meeting of the present ECU Board of Trustees before July 1 to consider possible revisions in the University code.

He told the Faculty Senate that he would appoint a committee of representatives of the board to meet with Faculty Senate members within the next two weeks, if possible, to discuss the code and recommend revisions.

Some faculty dissatisfaction with sections of the code has been expressed, Morgan indicated.

Seven Soldiers Die In Wreckage Of Helicopter

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — Seven soldiers were killed early today when an Army helicopter crashed during a flight to evaluate a new night vision device, a base spokesman said.

The wreckage of the helicopter was found at 8:20 this morning, nearly eight hours after the craft was due to return to the base.

A search for the chopper was launched when the UH-1H helicopter failed to return to the post's Godman Army Air Field at 12:35 a.m. as scheduled.

The wreckage was found about two miles north of Muldraugh, Ky., nearly four miles north of the base airfield, the base spokesman said.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Ellsberg Sleeps At Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now Daniel Ellsberg is sleeping in the Watergate.

It was disclosures arising out of the Watergate investigation that led to last week's dismissal of all charges against Ellsberg, who had leaked the Pentagon papers to the press.

Tuesday night, Ellsberg and his wife flew to Washington so he could testify to a congressional committee about government secrecy.

They spent the night in the Watergate Hotel.

Rice-Planting By Hirohito

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito put on rubber boots and a felt hat, rolled up his sleeves and began planting rice seedlings.

Hirohito did his planting Tuesday in a paddy field on the Imperial Palace grounds.

The wreckage was found about two miles north of Muldraugh, Ky., nearly four miles north of the base airfield, the base spokesman said.

Cites Attention To Recreation Fields

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Reporter

"Recreation is becoming a first class citizen in North Carolina," James Stevens, Director of the North Carolina Office of Recreation Resources told a delegation of about 75 officials and interested persons attending a day long recreation workshop in Tarboro Tuesday.

Stevens was one of several state officials assisting in conducting the workshop focus on a wide range of projected programs to meet recreational and ecological needs in the ten county area comprising the Coastal Plain Development Association.

Stevens revealed that in the Monday evening session the State Legislature had approved House Bill 334. "This allows cities and towns to operate recreation systems outside their corporate limits," he said, "and gives them authority to acquire land."

Spring Concert Set Thursday

The East Carolina University chapter of Phi Mu Alpha will present its spring concert Thursday, and ECU School of Music students Jeanette Dameron and Ronald Parelo will perform in recital Friday and Monday, respectively.

Two other new bills were cited by Stevens as indicative of the promise of more solid support to all phases of recreation activity in North Carolina.

House Bill 333, which also passed both houses on Monday night, Stevens said, "will permit local governments to use property tax money for recreation." Previously, a local vote on use of tax money for this purpose was required.

Publications Editor for the N.C. Division of Travel and Promotion; Mrs. Patsy Bullock, Chairman, Home Economics Committee of The Coastal Plain Development Association; Dr. James M. Stewart, Community Development Specialist; Thomas Hines, Head of Recreation Resources Administration; and Julian Goff, member of the Coastal Plain Travel and Recreation Committee. Mrs. Effie Raye Bateman, chairman of the Travel and Recreation Committee, presided over the workshop.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.C. (AP) — The seventh annual North Carolina Blueberry Festival opened today in the Elizabethtown-White Lake area in the southeastern part of the state.

Breakage By Sonic Boom

A sonic boom attributed to a jet flying over Greenville this morning apparently caused a glass pane to fall from the front window at Overton's Supermarket.

Phi Mu Alpha music honor society members, performing at 8:15 Thursday, will present a mixed program of selections by Eler, Anderson, Ginastera and Hindemith.

The festival, sponsored by 13 counties, also promotes tourism and commerce in the area. It runs through Sunday.

Parker Overton said the boom, which occurred around 9:45 a.m., caused an eight foot by eight foot pane to fall from the window and break.

ECU Building . . . School Bd. . . .

The ceiling for the building will be finished by painting, drawing, craft and jewelry rooms and some office space.

There will be a beauty pageant Friday night. Other events will be a parade, a golf tournament for men and women, and a parachute drop by the Golden Knights of Ft. Bragg.

Elected To Ass'n Posts

Dr. Thomas E. Long, professor of psychology at East Carolina University, is the new president-elect of the North Carolina Psychological Association. He will serve as president for the term 1974-75.

A walled brick patio area will contain five kilns including one truck kiln with a trolley for rolling sculpture and ceramics in and out of the heating area on wheels. Other kilns will be conventional shelf-type.

Another important step is the compilation of a State Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan (SCORP). "This document," Stevens said, "is basically an overall plan that identifies through a comprehensive inventory government, private and commercial areas of rivers, streams, estuaries and sounds that are in one or another way part of the inclusive recreation system."

He was elected at the NCPA spring convention last week in Chapel Hill.

The second stage of the complex will house galleries, faculty space, administrative offices and classrooms.

Stevens emphasized the necessity to plan wisely for the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

Other new officers include Karen Bumgardner, ECU graduate student in psychology, who will serve as Affiliate Representative to the Executive Committee.

In addition to the Humanities Building name, the trustees acted to name two other relatively new ECU campus buildings in honor of well-known friends and benefactors of the university and the ECU community.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

NCPA, the primary psychological organization in the state, is intended to advance the science of psychology as a profession and as a means of promoting human welfare.

Upon Jenkins' recommendation, the Social Science Building on Tenth Street was named in honor of Lawrence Brewster of Greenville, and the Education Building in honor of the late J. Brantley and Carrie Speight of Winterville.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

Recipient Of Scholarship

Sarah Helen Moore, senior student in the East Carolina University School of Home Economics, is the recipient of a $500 scholarship for graduate work in dietetics.

Brewster, a New York City native, joined the ECU faculty in 1945 as a member of the staff of the Department of Social Studies, where he remained as Professor of History and director of Graduate Studies in History until his retirement in 1969.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

Nutritionists To Workshop

Dr. Alice Scott and Elisabeth Schmidt of the East Carolina University Department of Food, Nutrition and Institution Management will attend a workshop at Virginia Commonwealth University this weekend.

Speight, a Pitt County native, founded the Speight Seed Farm with the help of his wife, the former Carrie Gardner a Wayne County native and an ECU graduate. He was known as one of the first producers of hybrid seed corn in North Carolina, while Mrs. Speight initiated and developed the tobacco seed division of Speight Seed Farm.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

HEIL

In other action toward the close of the meeting, the trustees adopted a resolution expressing appreciation to Morgan, an ECU alumnus, who has served 15 years on the board and who has been chairman since 1963.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

Jenkins said he had recommended reappointment of those board members who will be eligible for reappointment and whose present appointments began recently. One of those leaving the board will be Mrs. Russell Kirby of Wilson, the only woman trustee. She is the wife of a state legislator.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

The new board will be appointed by Gov. Jim Holshouser from a list approved by the University Board of Governors which is screening nominations.

Stevens said that the full utilization of recreational areas in the ten county area while being constantly aware of protecting the natural environment.

Other ECU Board members are Ashley B. Futrell of Washington, Troy Dodson of Greenville, Clarence Wickham of Tarboro, Edward Green of Dunn, Bill Bodenhamer of Jacksonville, new Student Assn. president, Ralph Kinsey, Jr. of Charlotte, Robert Jones of Raleigh and Frederic Cox of Grifton. ## Robersonville Slips By Knapp, 5-4, To Advance In 1-A Playoffs

WELCH — Robersonville's defending State Class A champions got off on the right foot yesterday, outlasting Knapp's Knights for a 5-4 victory in the first round of the 1973 playoffs.

The win boosted the Golden Eagles in the second round of the playoffs to be held this Friday. They will meet Creswell, a 2-0 victory over Mattamuskeet, at a time and place to be set later today.

Robersonville's ace Doyle Farmer went all the way to get the victory for the Eagles, winning his ninth against three losses. He scattered five hits and only one of the runs he allowed was earned.

The losing pitcher, Harris, was suffering his first loss of the year after seven straight wins. Knapp pushed into the initial lead, scoring a run in the top of the first. Rodney Knight singled and stole second. Guy Gilleland followed with a double, driving in Knight for a 1-0 lead. Later in the inning, Gilleland was thrown out at the plate on an attempt to score on a hit.

The Knights pushed over another run in the second frame. Jeff Guard singled and was safe at second when Jeff Hampton's grounder was muffed at second. A third infield grounder, this one hit by David Sawyer, also failed to get anyone, as the throw to second was too late this time, loading the bases. Knight then reached on another fielder's choice, scoring Guard for a 2-0 lead.

The Eagles broke the ice in the bottom of the second, scoring three runs to take the lead. Larry Jackson reached on an error and Masonic Stokes came on as a courtesy runner. Jeff Warren doubled and Kim Knox singled, scoring Stokes, and moving Warren to third. Knox stole up a base and Mike Matthews followed with a double, driving in both baserunners.

Knapp rallied in the fifth to score two runs and regain the lead, 4-3. Sawyer reached on an error and Knight, attempting to sacrifice reached on another error, allowing Sawyer to come Knapp ab r h rbi R'ville ab r h rbi Knight, cf 3 2 1 1 Corey, lb 4 0 0 0 T. ## Umpires Make Houston Angry

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Phil Niekro's five-hit pitching wasn't what bothered Houston General Manager Spec Richardson and Manager Leo Durocher.

Nor was it Dusty Baker's three-run homer, which provided the batting support for the Atlanta Braves' 4-1 victory over the Astros Tuesday night.

It was the umpiring.

"I'm fed up with them," was Richardson's comment about the Atlanta Braves' 4-1 victory over the Astros Tuesday night.

"I'm tired of my ball club being beaten...by umpires."

Durocher then announced he was playing the game under protest, claiming Pryor did not let the Astros make a play on Baker at the plate.

"Pryor had the ball in his hands," Durocher said. "As soon as he saw the man (Baker) running home and the signal (by Froemming), he threw the ball to the ground."

"If May has the ball he throws the man out. But there's no way you can throw a man out if you do not have the ball. And that's why we protested."

Second baseman Glenn Beckert's sparkling fielding play in the ninth inning saved the Cubs' victory.

With Chicago ahead 4-2, the Mets got one run in the ninth and loaded the bases.

Speedy Bud Harrelson slapped a grounder up the middle against a drawn-in Cub infield, but Beckert darted to his left, gloved the ball, leaped and threw home, barely nailing sliding Ed Kranepool.

John Milner then grounded out to end the game.

Montreal Manager Gene Mauch tried a five-man infield—taking out his center fielder and substituting a second shortstop, Tim Foli—but Pittsburgh's Dave Cash responded by lining a one-out, bases-loaded single over third baseman Coco Laboy's head to drive home the winning run in the 11th inning.

Joe Torre boosted his average to .327 by lashing three line-drive singles in the Cardinals' victory.

Tony Perez clubbed two home runs, giving him five for the season, as the Reds beat the Dodgers. Don Gullett, 4-2, was the winner.

Chris Speier's fifth home run of the year sparked the Giants to victory.

Taylor Is Mile Champ

BETHEL—North Pitt High School's Kathy Taylor captured the state championship in the mile at the State Girls' Track Meet held last week in High Point.

Miss Taylor easily won the event, running it in 5:22.2, breaking last year's state mark by 43 seconds. The old mark was 6:05.2.

A 5-0, 85-pound junior, Miss Taylor began running for her health. During this past spring, she ran with the boys' track team, and while not running for points, did manage to beat a number of his competitors.

This Saturday, she'll be taking part in the Junior Olympics, to be held at East Carolina University. She expects to take part in the 440-dash, the 880-yard run and the mile run.

Another Pitt County girl, Vickie Hawkins of Conley High School, took fourth place in the state meet in the shot put, with a toss of 35 feet, 8 inches.

KINSTON—Mike Weaver came two counts shy of a perfect game yesterday but still hurled his Williamston Tiger team past the White Oak Vikings, 9-0, in the first round of the State 2-A baseball playoffs.

Of those two only one was a base hit and that came on a two-strike count on Viking Steve Lassiter. One out later, Don Mills reached on an error but Weaver struck out the next batter and got the third out on a grounder to short.

Until the fifth, the Vikings had only managed to get two balls out of the infield and only one of them was well hit. Weaver limited the other four batters that got a piece of the ball to easy infield outs.

Weaver went all the way for Williamston fanning 14 batters. He threw 84 pitches and only twice did he get behind on the opposition.

While Weaver was canning the Vikings from the mound, his teammates were sealing them up from the batter's box. Doug Banks started for White Oak and went three innings before being knocked out. He walked seven, struck out none and gave up five runs on four hits. James Canady relieved him in the fourth and was just as ineffective allowing four runs and four hits along with two walks.

The Tigers put together scoring rallies in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings. The only threat for the Vikings came in the sixth.

Weaver gave everyone a hint of things to come as he fanned the first three men he faced. The Tigers put a man on as Hubert Smith walked and stole second in their half of the frame but did not score. Williamston got a man to third in the second inning when Joe Roberson reached on an error and Mike Bundy and Vann Andrews each drew walks. A pair of pop-ups ended the threat.

They finally broke into the lead in the third getting two runs. Smith led off the inning with a single to center and Weaver walked. The Vikings tried to pitch Smith off at second but the ball got away into center field letting both runners move up. Keith Brown tried to sacrifice Smith in with a fly to left but Smith was caught at the plate. Weaver went to third on the throw.

Joe Roberson reached on an error to drive in Weaver and Berwyn Barn singled to move him up. Bundy walked to load the bases. Another walk, to Andrews, forced in Roberson.

Four more came over in the fourth. Dwight Ange led off with a single and Smith followed with a hit. Both moved up on an error and Weaver drew a walk. After the pitching change Brown sacrificed in Ange and a walk to Roberson loaded them up again.

Barnhill rapped off his second hit scoring Smith and a single by Bundy drove in Weaver. Roberson went to third and Barnhill to second. Roberson tried to score on the play as the ball sailed over the White Oak catcher but he was nailed as he slid across. A single by Bundy brought in Barnhill.

Ange scored again in the fifth for Williamston to make it 7-0. After walking, he stole second and an error on the play let him go to third. The ball got away for the centerfielder on the miscue and Ange raced home to score.

The Vikings came back in the top of the sixth with their only threat. Lassiter slapped a hit back up the middle and moved around to third on the error on Mill's grounder to second. That was all they could get.

The Tigers pushed over the last two scores in the bottom of the frame. With one out, Roberson got on by an error and Barnhill got a hit and Roberson scored all the way from first. Barnhill went down to second on the relay. An error after Bundy was thrown out, moved Barnhill to third and a single by Andrews brought him in.

Barnhill led the Tiger attack with three hits in four trips. Smith had two hits.

The Tigers advance in the play-offs and will next meet

R. C. Rips Optimists

R. C. Cola rolled to a 13-0 victory over the Optimists yesterday as Junior Hardee tossed a one-hitter at them. The victory was the second in three starts for R. C., while the Optimists are 0-3.

Hardee didn't allow a baserunner until the fourth when errors gave the Optimists their first threat. Another error and a walk put two on in the fifth and Bennie Campbell led off with the lone hit in the sixth.

R. C. Cola got all it was to need in the second, scoring seven runs. Jeff Worthington led off, reaching on an error. Jay Wood was safe on a fielder's choice as an error moved Worthington to third. In the sixth, three more scored for the Moose. Lemmond singled and Carroll walked. Meeks reached on an error and Wood singled, scoring Lemmond. An error on the play let Carroll come in, but Meeks was caught at third. Heath then singled, and Wood scored on an error on the play.

Nolan Ryan Tosses No-Hitter At Royals

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I was terrible warming up," said Nolan Ryan—but a warm Nolan Ryan is nothing like a hot one.

And the California Angels' flamethrower was once again his usual searing self Tuesday night, hurling the American League's second no-hitter of the baseball season, a dazzling, remarkably easy 12-strikeout performance.

It was the first no-hitter for the 26-year-old right-hander, who has spent the past few seasons coming oh, so close to achieving that feat.

Having finally made it, did he think it was his most thrilling moment in baseball?

Obviously, you say.

Wrong, he replies.

"Coming into a World Series game was a greater thrill," Ryan insisted. "That was it!"

That was when he was a member of New York's Miracle Mets in 1969, when he pitched 2 1-3 innings of scoreless, three-strikeout relief to preserve a victory over Baltimore.

In Tuesday night's other American League games, Milwaukee outlasted Cleveland 2-1 in 17 innings, Minnesota mauled Texas 9-5 and the Chicago White Sox edged Oakland 6-5 in 12 innings. The Baltimore-at-Boston and Detroit-at-New York Yankees games were rained out.

In the National League it was St. Louis 8, Philadelphia 4; the Chicago Cubs 4, the Mets 3;

San Francisco 4, San Diego 2; Atlanta 4, Houston 1; Cincinnati 4, Los Angeles 1, and Pittsburgh 9, Montreal 8 in 11 innings.

Ryan likely was not even thinking of a no-hitter—not after what happened to him last Friday in his last start. He lasted a scant one-third of an inning against the White Sox, who drove him from the mound with a five-run, four-hit barrage.

But of such misfortunes stars are made.

"I think that shelling helped me bear down," said Ryan, last year's major league strikeout leader with 329 who raised his major league-leading total to 82 with his dozen against the Royals—the 35th time in his career he's fanned 10 or more in a game.

"Something like that," he said of the White Sox' shelling, "makes you wake up and bear down."

And bear down he did, fanning the side in the first inning, in which he gave up one of his three walks. Inning after inning went by. By the seventh, it would seem, the 12,205 Kansas City fans would be in an uproar. After all, they knew what no-hitters were all about. Their own Steve Busby had thrown one at Detroit less than three weeks ago.

But the fans were surprisingly quiet...almost funereal, as Ryan set down batter after batter. Only when the Royals appeared on the verge of breaking the spell did they come alive.

So Ryan tolled in silence—until the eighth inning, when pinch-hitter Gail Hopkins stepped up with two out.

It was Hopkins who, last year in Anaheim, stepped up in the eighth inning and wrecked Ryan's no-hit bid with a single.

He nearly did it again, punching a looping liner over second and into short center field. But shortstop Rudy Meoli dashed out and backhanded the ball. It was, until the last pitch of the game, as close as the Royals would come to getting a hit.

"Being a fastball pitcher," Ryan said, "you have a tendency to overthrow more than control pitchers do...Somebody with a fastball gets away with bad pitches and that's where I've been hurt. It's taken time to realize this."

So now it was the ninth. He disposed of Fred Patek on a pop foul off first base, then fanned Steve Hovley. That left it up to Amos Otis. The Kansas City slugger came within a few feet of shattering the dream.

He slammed a shot out toward the right field fence. Ken Berry took off after it. Berry had taken over for Bob Oliver in the seventh inning as a defensive replacement. Oliver, after all, had done his job on offense, drilling a home run and a single to knock in two of the Angels' runs.

The ball and Berry arrived at the wall almost simultaneously. Berry snared it with his back about a foot from the fence and Ryan had his niche in the record book.

In Milwaukee Dave May jumped on a Brent Strom pitch with one out in the 17th inning and crashed his 10th homer of the season, tying him for the major league lead and boosting the Brewers into first place in the East Division.

Bert Blyleven gave Texas just one hit through the last seven innings and Harmon Killebrew hit his second homer of the season to break a 5-5 tie in the seventh and pave the way to the Twins' triumph.

Pat Kelly's double with two out in the 12th inning lifted the White Sox to a two-game West Division lead. It came after John Jeter had singled and stolen second.

Ayden-Grifton Wins In Finale

LITTLEFIELD—The Ayden-Grifton Chargers closed out the 1973 baseball season with a 4-3 victory over Greene Central yesterday.

The Rams pushed into the early lead, scoring twice in the first inning. Stevie Williamson led off with a walk and Jerry Carraway was safe on a fielder's choice. Both advanced on an infield out, and Jeff Letchworth singled to drive both across.

In the second, Ayden-Grifton rallied to score three runs and take the lead. Ray Eubanks singled and Tony Koonce got a hit. Paul Ricciarelli walked, loading the bases. Ronnie Salmon then singled, driving in both Eubanks and Koonce. Don Phillips and Tom Craft both drew walks, forcing in Ricciarelli.

Greene Central came back to tie it up with a run in the third. Letchworth doubled and moved up on a fly out. He scored on Bobby Supel's sacrifice fly.

The game remained tied until the bottom of the seventh, when the Chargers pushed over the winning run. Salmon singled and Craft got a hit. Horace Tripp then singled to drive in Salmon with the game-winning run.

Letchworth and Dale Pridgen each had two hits for Greene Central, the team's total. Salmon led the Charger hitting with three of their seven.

The Ayden-Grifton team finished the season with an 8-12 overall mark and a 7-11 Eastern Carolina Conference record.

Watergate Hearings Will Shape Public's Verdict

N.C. Courts Today Are Less Congested

RALEIGH (AP)—Crowded court dockets are not the problem they used to be in North Carolina, according to the 1972 annual report issued Tuesday by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

"We have frequently heard that court congestion is a serious problem in our state," said Bert M. Montague, director of the administrative office. "Our statistics simply do not support that proposition."

The report says there were 72,527 criminal and 37,431 civil cases pending in the state's Superior Courts at the end of the year.

Montague said, however, there has been a "turn around" in the number of pending cases, which last year's report said was increasing at an "alarming rate."

The report says the number of criminal cases pending has decreased by 9.9 per cent in 1972, compared to increases of 32.3 per cent in 1970 and 28.3 per cent in 1971. Montague said for the first time since 1965, more cases were disposed of than new cases were filed.

He said the number of pending civil cases has decreased in each of the past six years.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearings that are likely to shape the public's final verdict on the Watergate scandal open Thursday. The Senate has promised the most thorough look Americans ever have taken at the way they elect a president.

For the public they'll offer an open airing of the Watergate affair that has been festering intermittently since the June break-in at Democratic national headquarters. For historians they'll provide material on campaign finagling for years to come.

Thursday and Friday, and possibly into next week, the Senate committee will begin methodically reconstructing the bungled burglary that eventually cracked the White House power elite.

Later it will take up dirty campaign tricks, secret campaign funds and misuse of government power for political ends. The hearings could last, off and on, until late November.

Leadoff witness will be Robert C. Odle, director of administration for the Committee for the Re-election of the President. He is to outline the structure of President Nixon's 1972 campaign. Next will be Sgt. Paul W. Leeper, one of three Washington policemen who answered a nightwatchman's call and arrested five men inside Democratic offices at the Watergate building in the early morning hours of June 17.

Then will come star witness James W. McCord Jr., who was among those caught.

It was McCord's name that furnished the first publicly known link between the wire-tappers and the Nixon campaign committee. McCord was employed as chief of campaign security and his name showed up on public reports filed by the Nixon campaign.

After McCord and six other men had been convicted early this year in the wiretapping, he furnished another key to the case by telling prosecutors and Senate investigators what he knew about the affair.

McCord gave hearsay evidence that high administration and White House officials had been involved, and he said he had been paid several thousand dollars and offered executive clemency to go to jail and keep quiet.

As prosecutors began running down leads supplied by McCord, the White House cover-up of the affair collapsed.

There were reports Jeb S. Magruder, once the No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign, had accused former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and presidential Counsel John W. Dean III of approving the wiretapping.

Then accounts were published that Mitchell claimed he heard talk of wiretaps but disapproved such tactics. Dean vowed publicly that he wouldn't be made a scapegoat, after secretly talking with prosecutors himself.

Soon it was known that not only wiretapping and election shenanigans were involved.

Nixon cited major developments in the case April 17, and on or before April 30 some of the administration's most powerful men resigned or were fired: presidential staff chief H.R. Haldeman, chief domestic-affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman, Dean, Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and others.

The scandal continued to boil. The Ellsberg burglary. Forged State Department cables. New reports of illegal handling of campaign funds. A Florida indictment for political espionage. A scheme to blame the CIA for the wiretapping, and another scheme to use the CIA to cover it up.

Major disclosures and developments of the ever-widening scandal came almost daily.

Indictments of Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans for their dealings with accused mutual fund looter Robert L. Vesco. Missing files from wiretaps placed on 13 government officials and 49 newsmen. Dismissal of charges against Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg because of government misconduct. Discovery of the missing wiretap logs in Ehrlichman's White House safe.

The many ramifications of investigations that began with the Watergate burglary have raised questions whether Nixon, who launched his second term on the biggest landslide plurality in American history, retains ability to govern the nation for the next 3½ years.

Half the American public believes Nixon knew about the wiretapping in advance, polls show, despite the President's repeated claims that he didn't. Ralph Nader and Martha Mitchell have called on him to resign.

Some columnists and editorial writers have suggested that Congress should impeach Nixon if it is proved he knew of the affair in advance.

When the television cameras turn on in the Senate Caucus room on Thursday morning, the nation will begin hearing testimony on the inner workings of a political campaign that used spying, espionage, wiretapping, burglary and safes full of secret campaign cash.

The question being asked is, will the public believe, as many told pollsters they believed during the 1972 campaign, that this is "just politics?" Or will they be so dismayed by tactics disclosed in the hearings that no candidate will dare allow such deeds again?

London Becoming Financial Center Of The World

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Welcome to London, the new banking center of the United States.

The idea may have sounded silly once, but not since late last year when the lord mayor of London announced there were more American banks here than in New York or any other city.

Fifty different American banks now have their own branches in London, against only 45 in New York, and the reason is simple.

For the past decade, this city has been moving toward the day when it could replace New York as the undisputed financial capital of the world, a title London held once before, for the century between 1815 and 1914.

ternational dealings. Even New York does much of its overseas business here.

As the U.S. dollar has weakened, through two devaluations in 14 months, London's importance as a financial center has gained.

And now that Britain has joined the world's richest trading bloc, the European Common Market, the return of London's pre-eminence, under any financial yardstick, could well be on the way.

For Britain, the prospect is remarkable. Throughout the past decade, this country was an economic cripple, plagued by a host of problems that made it one of the weakest industrialized nations in Western Europe.

based only in part on good business. Good luck, in the form of some unintended help from the U.S. government, played a major role.

London's resurgence as a financial capital probably owed its start to the unplanned side effects of Kennedy administration policy.

At the time, Washington tried to reduce America's balance of payments deficit 8 the net outflow of dollars abroad — by imposing more and more restrictions on U.S. lending overseas. In effect, Wall Street's efforts to finance foreign business were hamstrung.

But American companies abroad were still generating funds that could be kept overseas and put to investment use on this side of the Atlantic. For example, there was nothing to prevent an American company in West Germany from lending dollars to another American company in Italy.

posited in Europe, money that became known as Eurodollars. British and foreign banks in London quickly cornered the new market.

By the late 1960s, the Eurodollar market was clearly the most important financial development in Europe since World War II. Today it is the largest international money market in the world, estimated to total more than $70 billion. By all accounts the lion's share of the Eurodollar loan business, up to 80 per cent of it by some reports, is conducted in London.

It was the Eurodollar business that brought the foreign banks to London for a piece of the action. Their number has doubled since 1967 and is still growing.

foreign banks in London, far ahead of New York in second place with 170.

Many of these banks were at the heart of the speculative wave that touched off the last international monetary crisis and led to the 10 per cent devaluation of the dollar Feb. 12.

The speculators are their clients, among them treasurers of international corporations and money managers for Arab oil sheiks.

These men watch carefully the exchange rates — or prices — of the dollar and other currencies in world money markets, hoping to profit when they smell a change coming. Early this year they thought they spotted a sure winner.

The United States announced that it had spent $8.5 billion more abroad than it had earned overseas in 1972. To the speculators this made the dollar look weak against the money of countries with trade profits like West Germany and Japan.

hunch was right. What mattered was that they had the money to back up their bet. All the resources of the huge Eurodollar pool. They sold billions of dollars to buy marks and yen in such volume that governments could no longer defend the old rates. The dollar went down in another devaluation.

The mark went up in another reevaluation. The speculators had another profit, perhaps their last killing of this kind.

One of the lessons learned from this crisis was that Kennedy's curbs on American investment abroad had only created a Eurodollar market that was more trouble.

The Nixon administration decided to try and bring this money home. U.S. Treasury Secretary George Shultz announced that American constraints on foreign investment would be phased out by the end of 1974.

In theory this could end London's Eurodollar bonanza. Americans and Europeans could go back to borrowing their dollars in New York.

But few British experts are really worried yet. They believe that many European and American firms will continue to wheel and deal in dollars right here. For one thing there are fewer regulations here, like those in the United States which force companies to make more public disclosures.

In any event, London's reputation as the top international financial center in the world does not live by banks alone.

The City of London, the square mile that forms the financial district here, also contains:

— The largest international insurance market in the world, which has made Lloyds of London a household word.

— The Baltic Exchange, which controls some two-thirds of the world's charter shipping business.

— A foreign exchange market for international currency dealings that is also the largest in the world.

— A gold market that ranks jointly with Zurich as the world's biggest.

— Fifteen commodity exchanges which set world prices for cocoa, coffee, sugar, copper, tin, lead and zinc, among others. Only in the bulk agricultural sector does London trail another commodity market, Chicago, in importance.

— The second largest stock market in the world after New York, bigger in terms of capital value of quoted stock than all exchanges on the European continent combined. More than 40 American and Japanese brokerage houses center their European operations in London.

It is credentials like these that have made international finance Britain's most important industry by far since World War II.

New York, although richer today, is largely a domestic market, where American money is raised for American business. London already ranks as the highest financial center for in-

But while Britain's manufacturers were generally stagnating, its financial paper-pushers were raking in record profits, mainly from the wealth of other countries.

These loans were made essentially in dollars already de-

Belly Dance Schools Are Sprouting

By ANITA MARIE LAPHAM
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —
The sultry art of belly dancing has descended quietly on this old Southern cotton capital.

Hips undulate and veils swirl as nearly 100 women of all shapes and sizes discover that ledanse du ventre is not only capable of seducing kings, but good for trimming figures, walking tall and enticing the men at home.

"I just show my husband the exercises and we're off to the bedroom," said tall, blonde Faye Berry, a homemaker. "I'm not ashamed of it."

"I was so tall when I went through school that I slouched and I've always been so clumsy. But now, I'm really proud of how I look—and I think I'm getting much more graceful."

She is one of the students in the flourishing Scheherazade Academy of Middle East Dancing recently started here by Lillian Mueller, who uses the professional name of Miss Ileana. Similar studios are mushrooming in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and smaller towns.

"Career women, homemakers and students—women from 15 to 60—have enrolled in my classes," said the pert blonde, who took up belly dancing as a hobby in Chicago four years ago. "I really got hooked," she added simply.

One of the students travels 188 miles round trip from Corinth, Miss., for each weekly lesson. The women leave the 75-minute sessions tired and perspiring but elated.

The woman from Mississippi—who didn't want to give her name—says she plans a private performance for her husband later. "My husband is all for it but I haven't dared to tell my 20-year-old son, or any of my friends—at least not until I learn how to do it."

"I plan to shoo off my son, lock the door and light the fire. Then I'll dance."

The most common goals of the students seem to be the gaining of self-confidence, poise and good posture that come from the exotic music in Miss Ileana's record player.

They dance in everything from knit dresses and leotards to skirts of sheer layers of colorful chiffon with seductive slits to the thigh. Sequined bras top off the chiffon skirts.

"I think it gets back to earthiness," said Mrs. Sharon Wilson, 23, of Memphis. "Along with the strenuous exercise, belly dancing offers a touch of the exotic."

She said she got little response from her husband when she first told him about belly dancing, although she has competed in national contests in other dances.

"But when I started practicing, his eyes and ears kind of perked up. Of course he thinks the sexual excitement is the whole point of it—but that's really just an added benefit."

Divining Rod Works, But Unexplained

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — Dust was rising in oppressive heat from the vast and arid flatland near Bombay, Indian, when Peter Treadwell suddenly ended his long walk and firmly announced, "Here is water."

The spot, less than two yards in diameter, was pointed out to a drilling team which soon went to work through solid basalt rock. Ten weeks later, it struck water at a depth of about 200 feet flowing through a rock fissure only inches wide.

There was enough water to assure supply of a new plant subsequently built at the site. Thana, by a pharmaceutical company, F. Hoffmann-La Roche and Co. of Basel.

The find maintained the "100 per cent success" record the company has registered in searching for water for its numerous international projects with a method scientists still overwhelmingly reject as humbug — the divining rod.

Since ancient times, rods have been used to search for hidden things, including water, gold, oil and even criminals. But to date, there is no scientific proof of any causal connection between movements of a rod and the finds it supposedly made.

"For a scientist, the successful divining rod is a completely unsatisfactory thing," concedes Dr. Treadwell, a chemical scientist. "However, scientific or not, the method pays off," he explained in a company publication. "It is 100 per cent reliable."

Treadwell has been searching for water for the company since the 1940s when he joined it. He made his first find on company grounds at Basel when cooling water was needed for a factory. He has since used the rod in many parts of the world, including Japan, Indonesia, Pakistan, the Philippines, Australia, Spain and France.

The find in India was the most spectacular so far, according to Treadwell. Two other Swiss companies searched for water in the same area with the most modern detecting equipment. But they missed the water artery by about one yard.

"The equipment was not precise enough because the water is flowing in very narrow fissures, one to 10 centimeters wide," Treadwell comments.

A relative "taught" him to use the rod. He grasps the branches firmly with both hands and cross-crosses the search area, marking the spots where the u-shaped rod, now usually of aluminum, indicates an underground stream, by rising forcefully.

"You don't have subtle sensations," Treadwell relates in describing a find. "It is as if someone pushes you, or boxes you." Operators, he says, are "thoroughly normal people with no specific talents."

One theory he ventures involves an unidentified "radiation beam" emitted by the subterranean stream and casting a "shadow" on the surface which is sensed by the operator even through rock or reinforced concrete.

"The phenomenon exists," he says. "But we lack the explanation."

Holding Special Church Service

A special service will be held at the Evangelistic Tabernacle Thursday beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will be "The Apocalypse."

It is a 50-minute sacred oratorio, musically presented by the Oratorio Society of Heritage Bible College. It is written and conducted by Dr. O. Talmadge Spence, president of the college.

There are 22 scenes taken from the Book of Revelation emphasizing the second coming of Jesus back to earth.

The church is located three miles west of Pitt Plaza on 264-By-pass.

The pastor of the church is the Rev. T.L. Byrd. The public is invited to attend.

MEETS MONDAY
The Eastern N.C. Genealogical Society will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Craven Technical Institute on Racetrack Road in New Bern.

Artificial Meat May Soon Be On Chileans' Table

By ARTHUR GOLDEN
SANTIAGO (UPI) — In the near future, perhaps later this year, Chileans may be eating artificial meat to replace scarce beef and pork.

The man-made food will be elaborated from protein extracts. Scientists insist it will taste like roast beef.

President Salvador Allende authorized about $300,000 this month for construction of a pilot plant to turn out 17,000 tons a year of the product.

Manufacture of artificial meat has been under study for three years by researchers at the University of Concepcion, center of an industrial zone 350 miles south of Santiago.

University Rector Carlos von Plessing visited Allende recently with an analysis of the research. He described the president and physician as extremely interested in the project.

Von Plessing said the pilot plant near Concepcion would probably begin operations by the end of the year. The initial product would be used by the university's 10,000 students. Sale of the product would pay for the plant in 90 days, he said.

The rector said the laboratory-developed meat had the same protein value as beef. "We believe that, properly seasoned, it will taste like a good roast," he said. Moreover, Von Plessing said, use of artificial meat will help Chile save money by curbing beef imports. It will also stimulate development of the nation's own cattle industry, he said.

Allende said last month that Chile will import $345 million this year in beef and other foods. This will represent a tremendous drain on the nation's dwindling hard currency reserves.

Diverting consumer attention to artificial meat would permit an increase in Chile's beef cattle population, which has remained at the same level for 50 years.

Housewives now line up for hours outside butcher shops on weekends the only days when beef is legally sold. Pork is also in short supply but without restrictions on sale.

Ingo Junge, research director of the university project, said the man-made meat product would be based around meat from soybeans and protein-rich lupine plants.

Junge said the artificial meat would be marketed in dehydrated form. "Just add lukewarm water and it will be ready to serve," he said.

The most important benefit of the product will be its inexpensive cost to the consumer, Junge said. He said 2.2 pounds would cost less than 20 cents, one-seventh the cost of a roast.

Neither soybeans nor lupine plants are raised commercially in Chile at present. Junge said planting about 150,000 acres with the beans and plants could solve the nation's annual protein deficit.

It could also provide Chile with new export crops, he said. Japan alone imports 100 million tons of lupins plants annually for industrial use.

Try Hotline

In an effort to respond to the needs of North Carolina citizens, the Department of Human Resources has established a toll-free "Hotline" to assist persons needing services. The number is 800-662-7950.

All problems, questions, and crises involving children and youth will be identified as the concern of the Governor's Advocacy Commission on Children and Youth and will be referred to the Commission by the Department of Human Resources, according to a release from the Commission.

The 20-member Commission was established by the 1971 General Assembly to advise all agencies of state and local government that provide services to children and youth or their families. The Commission strongly urges all individuals to use this service.

Nixon Hints Elderly Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What kind of additional help and relief can aging Americans expect from Uncle Sam this year? No one really knows. But there are some straws in the wind — as evidenced by the "older Americans" section of President Nixon's State of the Union message.

The President pledge $200 million to fund programs of the Administration on Aging (AOA) — a funding level more than four times that appropriated for AOA programs in fiscal year 1972. He also pledged tax relief for the elderly — property taxes which in many instances are so high that the elderly cannot afford to remain in the modest home they own.

"I will submit to the Congress recommendations for alleviating the often crushing burdens which property taxes place upon many older Americans," the President said. Highlights of the "older Americans" section of the message, reprinted in the April issue of "Aging," a government magazine put out by AOA, include:

— "One measure of the Nation's devotion to our older citizens is the fact that programs benefiting them — including Social Security and a wide range of other activities — now account for nearly one-fourth of the entire Federal budget."

— "Nevertheless, we are confronted with a major item of unfinished business. Approximately two-thirds of the 20 million persons who are 65 and over own their own homes. A disproportionate amount of their fixed income must now be used for property taxes."

Analyzed Meat, Suing Market

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland woman who says she spent $17.50 to have two packages of ground beef analyzed has sued a supermarket chain for $100,719. She contends the ground beef contained too much fat.

Suzan Winder is asking $100,000 for exemplary and punitive damages, $700 for legal fees, $17.50 for the analysis and $2 for the cost of the meat.

She says Fred Meyer Inc. acted maliciously and in wanton disregard for her rights and feelings by selling her ground beef with a fat content higher than the 15 per cent specified by store policy.

Break Ground On New Schools

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — University of Texas System officials have broken ground for construction of the UT Dental School and UT School of Nursing at San Antonio. A completion date of 1975 has been set for the $30 million projects.

The dental school will be a four-level structure and will open to a freshman class of 152 dental students in a four-year program, 48 dental assistants in a one-year program and 24 dental laboratory technicians in a two-year program. The nursing school will have two levels and accommodate 400 undergraduate and 75 graduate nursing students.

Law Chandlier Inhibits View

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — You've heard about the housewife who never sees her husband because he's hidden behind a newspaper at the breakfast table. Home furnishing experts point out the same thing can happen with an improperly hung chandelier.

A chandelier hung too low can inhibit comfortable viewing across the table. As a general rule, advises Scovill's Lightcraft of California division, the chandelier should be 30 to 40 inches above the table. On higher ceilings the chandelier should be even a little higher.

The 'Worry Clinic' Still The Best Of All Nations

Heed Mr. Murray's report of his visit to Red China! When irate minorities try to downgrade the U.S.A., ask them to cite the superiority of ANY other nation. If they know of a better paradise on this globe, ask them why they don't emigrate! Make 'em put up or shut up!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE X-508: J.E. Murray recently toured Red China as a member of a group of American newspapermen.
"I kept trying to guess," he said, "why the people seem so patient, even satisfied with their lot."
"An obvious reason is that there is enough food, probably for the first time in China's long history."

Actually, our huge shipments of American grain the past few months, both to Red China and Russia, are what is preventing a disastrous famine in both of those countries!

"There is no advertising," Mr. Murray continues, "and no pressure to keep up with the Wangs (Joneses) through consumption."

"Clothes and personal adornment are muted."

When my son, U.S. Congressman Philip M. Crane, visited Hong Kong a year ago, he went to the beaches to interview the exciting swimmers that were dragging out of the water after a 5-mile trip from Red China.

And they described the dreary life behind the Bamboo Curtain. "Our total yearly earnings," they admitted, "came to 200 Chinese dollars ($70 in American money)."

"But it requires that amount to purchase just the minimum daily food calories to survive. "So we had nothing for shoes, clothing or any other purchases."

Try to contrast that drab, dictatorial type of living with the exciting and luxurious advantages enjoyed in America, even by our so-called poor.

Our welfare cases enjoy TV, electric lights, flush toilets and far better winter heat than the charcoal braziers of China.

So did you ever wonder why we lead the world in our superb standard of living?

It isn't our vast amount of natural resources or moderate climate, for China and Russia possess them.

No siree! It is the fact that we are a Republic, with rights of minorities guaranteed in writing in our famous U.S. Constitution.

And under that Constitution, we are granted freedom of choice, both at the ballot box, as well as in the super marts.

We can also worship as we please or stay way from church altogether.

In Russia and China, however, religion is dictated by the state!

Our "free enterprise" system means you are free to start a grocery store or restaurant, machine shop or doctor's office as you wish.

In Socialistic England, the retail stores are regimented by the government, which will not even let a merchant order from a wholesale house without a government O.K.

And John Bull dictates the hours for opening and closing your shops!

Also in Socialistic Britain, the radio and TV are regimented.

Here, you can tune in several TV frequencies in your area and pick any program you wish, including superb sports events as well as movies and educational lectures.

"Where freedom is," said Benjamin Franklin, "there is my country."

And freedom is still synonymous with the U.S.A. despite the trend at Washington to make "Big Brother" our guardian by 1984

So stand up and debate anybody who tries to downgrade our country in preference to any other.

Send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic" (Americans Must Never "Shut up"), enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Caught Taking Belled Panties

LONDON (AP) — Somebody stole Norma McCafferty's new bra off her clothesline, so she sewed a bell into her brightest pair of panties and hung them out as bait.

In the small hours the bell rang, and a waiting cop grabbed Jack Cohen, 50, of London's East End.

Brought before the magistrates Monday, Cohen admitted stealing the bra and trying to steal the panties.

"There's nothing wrong with me," he told the judges. But they ordered him held for medical examinations and another hearing on June 4.

Chemical Used To Sterilize

DALLAS (UPI) — Scientists in the American Chemical Society say a chemical known as ethylene oxide will be used in larger quantities to sterilize plastics used in medical equipment.

Researcher Dr. Richard W. Tock of the University of Iowa said plastic cannot be heated to temperatures used to sterilize glass and metal, and so a chemical must be used instead.

A potential ten-trick swing hinged on West's selection of an opening lead against South's three no trump contract.

The first round of bidding requires no comment. However, South was confronted with an interesting problem when West's one heart overcall was passed back to him. Inasmuch as North was unable to take action, it appeared unlikely that the partnership could score a game in clubs which would require the winning of 11 tricks.

On the other hand, South observed that it would be a cinch to scramble home with nine tricks at no trump, provided that West led a heart. South accordingly jumped to three to trump which became the final contract.

West gave careful consideration to his opening shot. If he led the queen of hearts to dislodge the king, he would probably establish five tricks for himself in that suit. However, West lacked a quick card of reentry and he feared that the unit of time surrendered to the declarer, by giving the latter a trick at the outset, might deal the defense a fatal blow.

West decided to lead from his sequence in diamonds in the hope of finding his partner with something in that suit. The king of diamonds was opened and East signalled encouragement with the seven. When the king held, West continued with the queen on which South dropped the jack. A third round of diamonds enabled East to mop up the suit, and now a heart shift thru declarer's king turned the deal into a total rout.

The defense scored four diamond tricks and six hearts for a net profit of 600 points. If West had led the queen of hearts originally, South would have taken all 13 tricks.

Red Carpet For Heavy Gamblers

By WILLIAM DICKE
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A trip to Las Vegas is expensive for most people, but for some it's free — free food, free lodging, free drinks and free entertainment. Even the roundtrip air fare is free.

These are the big money gamblers, those willing to risk $2,500 to $5,000 over three or four days.

Most of the resort hotels lining the glittering Las Vegas Strip compete strenuously for the heavy rollers, sending scouts across the country to find them and offer them free junkets to the gambling capital. Although there are no official figures, one junket manager estimates more than 2,000 guests arrive on junkets here every week.

In recent years the hotels have been building a "family" image for the Strip, offering all sorts of package plans for the family. A typical $34.95 two-night, three-day package for two persons includes lodging, meals, a dinner show, two cocktails and inexpensive gifts.

But the hotelmen haven't forgotten that much of their success has been built on big stakes gambling.

The hotels figure it costs them an average of $600 to give a gambler a free trip here. The hotels also figure the house claims 20 per cent of every dollar gambled. That means, on the average, that a gambler must put up at least $3,000 for a hotel to break even.

One hotel requires a minimum of $2,500 in "action" from junket players. "Then we allow for human nature," said a man who has run junkets for the hotel. "The losers will lose much more than the winners win."

In the hotel's eyes the best player, he said, is not one who makes huge bets for short periods but one who makes $10 bets and plays for eight hours at a time for the three days. "He'll wind up dropping everything."

What about big winners? Hotel men love them about as much as they do big losers.

"If a guy's willing to put up $5,000, they don't care if he's a big winner and walks away with a lot," says William Friedman. He is an instructor at the University of Nevada and teaches the nation's only course in casino management.

"The idea is they have to give them so much action."

The hotels maintain a network of junket representatives in major cities, either full-time salaried employees in branch offices or independents who are paid $25 to $50 a head, depending on the player's "quality."

On every trip, he said, some players turn out to be "riders" or nongamblers. If they haven't put up a deposit, they receive a free trip.

Many of the hotels have a grading system to determine how much junketeers are wagering. One hotel rates players from AAA for excellent to C for average, P for poor and F for fraud.

Retroactive Insurance Bill Will Benefit Lawmaker

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Rep. R. C. Soles, D-Columbus, says a bill he introduced and helped push through the North Carolina House Tuesday could enable his colleague, Rep. Jimmy Green, D-Bladen, to collect an insurance claim of between $250,000 and $500,000.

Soles' bill would prohibit insurance companies from enforcing their standard 60-day deadline for filing detailed claim reports. It is retroactive.

Soles told the House the bill was designed to help tobacco warehousemen in his district who were unable to complete their damage reports in time after an ice and snow storm caused roofs to collapse on about 60 buildings last January.

Soles did not tell the House, however, that four of the buildings belonged to Green, a powerful legislative leader who is considered the heir apparent to the speaker's chair in 1975.

Nor did he disclose that he has been representing Green in his negotiations with insurance companies, writing letters and speaking in his behalf. Soles, an attorney, and Green represent the same southeastern district.

In response to later questioning from newsmen, Soles disclosed Green's financial interest and his own activities in the matter.

Green was annoyed when he was asked about his interest in the bill. "I don't talk about my personal business with reporters," he said. "You're meddling in the legislative process."

Green said he did not know whether his claims had been filed before or after the 60-day deadline or how much his losses were.

Soles, however, said Green's claims were just now ready for filing and gave the $250,000-$500,000 estimate.

"This is a bill that will benefit a lot of people, not just Jimmy Green," Soles said.

Soles said the insurance companies, represented by the General Adjustment Bureau, had not yet officially decided whether to invoke the 60-day deadline and refuse to pay the claims, "but we hear they will."

The insurance officials Soles said were handling the green claim were unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Soles said he had not been contracted or paid a retainer to act as Green's attorney. He said he would be "under consideration" for that job, should the case go to court.

Soles and other House Democrats had to exercise themselves Tuesday to keep the bill intact. Republicans none of whom specifically mentioned Green, moved to delete the bill's retroactivity clause and thus negate the chance that Green might benefit.

They were supported by one influential Democrat, Rep. Herbert Hyde, D-Buncombe, who said the retroactivity clause was unconstitutional, and their amendment passed.

A few minutes later, however, Soles moved to reconsider the amendment. On two largely partisan votes, the amendment was reconsidered and then defeated.

The bill was then passed on a voice vote and sent to the Senate as Speaker James Ramsey, D-Person, ignored Republican objections and calls for a division.

Soles argued that the unusual severity of the storm and its damage had made it impossible for the contractors and estimators in the area to service all the people who needed damage estimates within 60 days.

Green voted four times against the Republican amendment and in favor of Soles' bill.

More Frills In 1974 Unveiling

DALLAS (UPI) — The Chrysler Motors Corporation's plan to unveil its 1974 car and truck models in a convention atmosphere this summer means a lot more than cars, trucks and dealers arriving in Texas.

The company said it would also bring miles of drapery and carpeting, thousands of floral pieces, 25,000 sweet rolls, 125,000 cups of coffee, two freight cars loaded with fruits and vegetables, a ton of ice cream and trailer loads of groceries and other staples.

Radial Tires On Most 1976 Cars

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — When the 1976 model cars come out, two out of every three new American vehicles will have radial tires as standard equipment, according to an industry source. B. F. Goodrich's prediction is based on the continued rising rate of sales of radials in the nation's auto tire replacement market, now pegged at 35 per cent a year.

Traffic Dips In Panama Canal

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Ocean-going transits of the Panama Canal dropped from 14,617, or an average of 40 per day in fiscal 1971 to 14,238 or 38.9 per day in fiscal 1972, the Panama Canal Company reports.

The decrease, the company says, was the result of U.S. dock strikes, a U.S. coal strike, a Japanese seamen's strike, the long Japanese recession and uncertainty caused by revaluation of the yen and other currencies.

EGG SIZES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Egg size is based on weight per dozen. According to a standards set by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, extra large eggs must weigh at least 27 ounces per dozen; large, 24 ounces; medium 21 ounces and small, 18 ounces.

U.S. Fishing Industry Sees Early Death Due Foreign Fishing Fleets

By DANIEL Q. HANEY Associated Press Writer GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — American fishermen who live off the waters of the North Atlantic say their livelihood may be dead within a few years, the victim of foreign competition. Haddock, the lifeblood of Boston fishermen, have been all but wiped out by foreign fleets which fish outside the 12-mile international limit. And many other commercial species, including flounder, perch and herring, have been dangerously depleted in the once-rich waters stretching from Cape Hatteras, N.C. to Maine.

Unless the federal government persuades foreigners to take less fish or seizes control of the fishing off its shores, industry people say commercial fishing will cease in the North Atlantic, possibly within three years. "The foreign fleets are rapping our waters," says Jack Donegan, president of a local of the Seafood Workers Union. "If we don't move by next year, three years from now we're going to be kissing the industry good-bye," Donegan said. "Everyone is saying the same thing — management, labor, scientists and government. We're all in the same boat." "It's inevitable," said Commissioner Frank Grice of the Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries. He predicted that other species will follow the way haddock are headed and become commercially extinct.

Plan Cherry Hosp. Tour

The Pitt County Mental Health Association is organizing a group to tour Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro on Mental Health Day, Tuesday, May 22. The bus tour at the hospital will include stops at Richardson Building, the Vocational Rehabilitation facility, the Therapeutic Center, and Woodard Building, or the Children's Unit. Participants are asked to bring a bag lunch for a picnic on the hospital grounds. Reservations for the tour may be made by contacting the Mental Health Association office, 752-7448.

After lunch at 1 p.m., the group will have the opportunity to visit the unit where Pitt County citizens are housed. At 1:30 p.m., the Music Therapy Department will present a musical program in the Therapeutic Center. The schedule is arranged so a person may attend all or any part of the day's program.

Degree Awarded Pitt Countian

RALEIGH — One Pitt County was awarded an associated degree during the graduation exercises for the 12th class of the Agricultural Institute at North Carolina State University Friday. Frank Eli Coburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Coburn of Rt. 5, Greenville, was awarded a degree in general agriculture. The Agricultural Institute is a two year curriculum which prepares students to manager farm enterprises and to hold other positions in businesses related to agriculture.

Opines Poetry Good Therapy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A University of Arizona speech professor says poetry may be good emotional therapy for prison inmates. Dr. David A. Williams teaches a literature course at the university that deals primarily with poetry as an outlet for feelings. He said he plans to offer it at Arizona State Prison through the inmates' educational program. Williams said the typical student response to the course has been, "I feel better." "A poem gives license to talk about feelings that have been locked out of a person," Williams said, and some psychologists have been looking into that aspect of poetry as a therapeutic tool.

WHERE IT HURTS PATCHOQUE, N.Y. (AP) — Just across the road from the boyhood home of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell there's a new apartment complex. The name? "Watergate Apartments."

Congress should have declared control of the East Coast fishing banks 10 years ago, said Tom Powers, mate of the Mary and Joseph, a fishing boat out of Boston. "Fishing is just about done here," said Powers, a 43-year veteran of the seas. "Uncle Sam has tried to be Santa Claus for the world." Last month, 312 foreign vessels, 190 of them Soviet, plied the North Atlantic coast, the National Marine Fisheries Service reports. The foreign ships fly the flags of about 17 nations. While Americans fish with small trawlers which are no more than 130 feet long, the government-supported Europeans work with fleets of large trawlers that feed their catches to 600-foot factory ships. "It isn't going to be a very nice situation (for Americans) as long as they are fishing like that," said Russell T. Norris, regional director of the fisheries service. "It's not a bright future."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Tonight's full moon brings much activity of a fixed nature and you would be wise to decide on the best outlets available to you and concentrate upon making headway. Put your financial affairs in order for today's outstanding influence. ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Handle all association and personal matters in a most intelligent way. Be sure to pay an important bill. A different attitude toward an associate can bring far better results. TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You have to be very careful now in dealings with others, especially where allies are concerned. Trying to force others to do what you want could meet with stiff resistance. Use diplomacy. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan your time more carefully so that you can get more accomplished. See what you can do to become a more vibrant person. Avoid one who does not give you the respect you deserve. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans of what you want to do away from your home, in business or pleasure, and all goes smoothly. Put your finest talents in the right channels. Show that you are thoughtful. LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Don't bring up any ticklish subjects at home or a big argument could result. Use tact and give compliments if deserved. Make sure you pay a bill that has been long overdue. Relax tonight. VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Obtain appliances that will help make your regular work more precise, easier and more profitable. A good day to handle important correspondence, be it business or private. Be wise. LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You have many practical affairs to attend to and should waste no time in doing so. Study your property and see how to make it more comfortable and valuable. Avoid one who wastes your time. SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Your relationship with associates should be improved today by your concentration upon them. Stop trying to show dominion over others and strive for more harmony. Avoid an argument. SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Know your own limitations and be sure to do your regular duties well. Seek the aid of a specialist to help you on a problem. Avoid one who is a negative thinker. Show devotion to mate. CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Think over how best your friends can fit into your ideas for the future and don't be afraid to use them. More affection and generosity for mate is wise. Come to a better understanding. AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have to handle a personal project yourself without depending on others, if you want it done right. Don't take any risks where family or higher-ups are concerned. Safeguard security. PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Others will give ideas that can be most helpful to you in the future, so put them in operation. Make new and interesting acquaintances and enrich your life in many ways. Be conscientious. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people whose life will be full of changes, so give training that will prepare for such. Ideal chart for business in foreign countries. Teach the importance of idealism, otherwise this becomes a materialistic life and much happiness could be lost. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for June is now ready. # Most Of Public Opposes Bombing Laos, Cambodia

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — The latest nationwide Gallup survey shows Americans opposed to the bombing in Cambodia and Laos by a 2-1 margin and, by approximately the same ratio, they think that bombing will lead to a reinvolvement of American troops in Southeast Asia. In addition, by an overwhelming majority, the public wants congressional sanction of further military action in Southeast Asia.

The peace agreement signed in Paris last January ended active American involvement in the fighting in Vietnam. United States forces have, however, continued bombing, particularly in Cambodia.

Nearly 6 in 10 Americans (57 per cent) disapprove of the bombing and 29 per cent approve; 14 per cent have no opinion. Correspondingly, 59 per cent feel the bombing will lead to renewed American troop commitments in Southeast Asia, 26 per cent think it will not and 15 per cent have no opinion.

By a 6 to 1 margin (76 to 13 per cent), Americans feel the President should seek a vote of approval from the Congress before carrying out additional military action in Southeast Asia.

Earlier this month in his State of the World message, President Nixon termed the situation in Laos and Cambodia "fluid," and warned that in continuing to violate the peace agreement, North Vietnam risked "revived confrontation" with the United States.

Presidential critics have said Nixon should seek congressional approval before undertaking acts of war such as the bombing of Cambodia. Two weeks ago, in defending administration policies before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Secretary of State William Rogers claimed war powers were deliberately left vague and ambiguous in the Constitution on the assumption they would be "defined by practice."

Large majorities in all major groups support congressional approval prior to further military action in Southeast Asia. Approximately the same proportion of Republicans, Democrats and independents (three in four; think approval of Congress should be required prior to further U.S. military commitments.

Here are the questions asked with the findings:
"As you know, U.S. planes are bombing Communist positions in Cambodia and Laos. Do you approve or disapprove of this action?"

	Approve	Disapprove	No Opinion
NATIONAL	29	57	14
Republicans	40	47	13
Democrats	20	64	16
Independents	32	57	11

"Do you think this action will lead to our getting involved in Southeast Asia again with U.S. troops?"

	Yes	No	No Opinion
NATIONAL	59	26	15
Republicans	46	38	16
Democrats	67	19	14

TV Fun And Games Stop Thursday

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — All three networks are stopping their daytime fun and games at 10 a.m. EDT Thursday to televise the long-awaited start of public hearings by the Senate Select Committee investigating the Watergate scandal.

It will be the first time since November 1970 that any network has halted its daytime soap operas, game shows and reruns for live coverage of Senate committee proceedings.

NBC did it that year during a Senate inquiry into the unsuccessful Son Tay prison raid in North Vietnam.

A major witness in Thursday's Watergate hearings will be James W. McCord Jr., according to an aide to Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., head of the Senate Select Committee.

McCord, 48, is the former security chief for President Nixon's campaign committee, the Committee to Reelect the President. He is among those convicted in last June's break-in at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

Eight days of hearings have been scheduled by Ervin's committee, including a Friday session. The other days are May 22 through 24 and June 12 through 14.

It isn't known yet how many of the hearings after Thursday will be carried live by the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks. Spokesmen for their news departments say that will be decided and announced on a day-to-day basis.

The hearings also will be broadcast live from start to finish on the 28-station Eastern Educational Network of public TV stations and taped in full for evening broadcast by the Public Broadcasting Service.

The commercial networks' live coverage of at least Thursday's session continues a tradition — albeit erratic — that began in 1951 with the televising of Senate hearings into organized crime in the U.S.

Three years later, the big Senate show on TV was the Army-McCarthy hearings in which millions of viewers saw the dramatic confrontation between Joseph Welch, a courtly Boston lawyer, and the abrasive, Communist-hunting Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

In 1966, the live TV coverage focused on Senate hearings into the escalating Vietnam war. Among other things, it resulted in one angry, high-level resignation — at one of the networks.

Fred Friendly, CBS News' president since March 1964, abruptly quit when his network elected to broadcast reruns of "I Love Lucy" instead of continuing its coverage of the Senate hearings.

Ironically, those were the last Senate hearings televised live by CBS News, according to a network spokesman, until CBS announced plans to cover the Watergate hearings starting Thursday.

Friendly, now a television consultant at the Ford Foundation and a journalism professor at Columbia University, says the Watergate hearings far outrank in importance any of those previously televised.

For that matter, he says, "I think it's the most important hearing since 1868 and the attempt then to impeach President Andrew Johnson.

"This is not because it (the Watergate hearings) is a 'show,' but because it's the way this country goes about correcting the mistakes of our process. It's certainly more important than Teapot Dome ...

"Here you have a whole Executive department on trial."
