Searching For 6 Missing In Tornadoes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Search operations were scheduled to resume this morning for six persons missing in western North Carolina after the area was slashed by 36 hours of destructive tornadoes and rampaging floodwaters.

Seven persons were known dead as the storms demolished homes and businesses, uprooted trees, downed power and communications lines and washed away bridges.

"It looked like a tidal wave coming at me," said Porter Fowler Jr., an Asheville policeman, describing a four-foot wall of water which swept through his father's trailer park at the Skyland community in Buncombe County late Sunday night.

The water carried with it for about a mile downstream a small mobile home that was occupied by two families.

The bodies of David Wayne Woody, 23, and his two-year-old son Christopher were recovered near a bridge about a mile from the park. Still missing when the search was called off because of darkness were Woody's daughter, Shannon, 9 months; and Jason Roberts, 26, a neighbor.

Woody's wife, Annette, and Roberts' wife, Kathryn, were rescued when they were discovered clinging to a tree in the swollen stream. Both women were taken to local hospitals suffering from shock where they were reported in satisfactory condition Monday night.

The Woodys and their two small children left their mobile home to seek shelter in a nearby brick home, but got only as far as the Roberts' small trailer where they sought shelter when the floodwaters hit. Ironically, the Woodys' abandoned mobile home weathered the storm unscathed.

Authorities in Ashe County reported that four persons have been found dead and four more were missing Monday night.

Three bodies representing three generations of one family were recovered Monday from the wreckage of a flooded house in the Beaver Creek community on the south fork of the New River. They were identified as Mrs. Roscoe Wilcox, 50; her daughter Bernita Wilcox Pruitt, 25; and Mrs. Pruitt's son Bobby Gale, 4. It was feared that two other persons were in the house at the time of the disaster.

Authorities said a body identified as that of Mrs. Evelyn Howell Phipps, 41, was recovered Monday near the Crumpler section of Ashe County. Her husband and son were missing.

Haywood County authorities said the body of a nine-year-old girl was recovered Monday in the Pigeon River near the Blue Ridge Parkway. Karen Hutmaker drowned Sunday night as her father, Air Force Sgt. Marlin Hutmaker of Shaw AFB, S.C., was trying to swim to safety from his flooded campsite with the child clinging to his back.

Gov. Jim Holshouser called out a unit of the N.C. National Guard in Buncombe County Monday, where damages to private property were estimated at around $2 million.

A state of emergency continued today in the Cherokee County town of Murphy. Mayor Cloe Moore said flood waters had risen three feet above the pumps at the town's water plant. He asked that the town's 2,082 residents use water only for drinking until the flood waters subside.

Spokesmen for Appalachian State University at Boone in Watauga County reported five buildings were flooded and four feet of water covered the parking lot of the university motorpool. Damage there was estimated at $150,000. Three of the 50 state-owned cars occupying the parking lot were swept away.

Ned Trivette, the university's vice chancellor for business affairs, said water depths in campus buildings ranged up to two feet. He said the school's basketball court was inundated by two inches of mud.

The N. C. Highway Patrol reported that two major roads remained blocked by flood waters and mudslides late last night. They were N.C. 105 near the Hounds Ear Lodge at Boone and U.S. 421 west of Boone. The patrol said several secondary roads and bridges were also impassable.

"I've seen a lot of floods before, but this is the worst one," said W.J. Perrigo, Asheville coordinator for the state Civil Defense agency. Some 200 people were evacuated from homes in the rural sections of Buncombe County Sunday night, but most were back in their homes Monday.

A number of tornadoes touched down in the western half of the state Sunday and Monday, including Catawba, Cleveland, Rutherford and Mecklenburg counties.

One or more tornadoes struck the Charlotte area around 7 p.m. Monday, according to the National Weather Service. Officials reported hundreds of trees were uprooted and power lines downed there, but no one was seriously injured.

Cease-Fire Plan OK'd In Principle

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Government sources said today that the South Vietnamese government has agreed in principle to a detailed timetable for a true Vietnam cease-fire.

The agreement, worked out in Paris by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho, calls for both Saigon and the Viet Cong to order all their units to stop shooting, the sources said.

The sources said Saigon has requested some modifications and made some counter-proposals. They did not elaborate.

These sources predicted the following developments:

—Kissinger and Tho will officially announce their agreement on strengthening the original cease-fire accord at the conclusion of their next round of talks in Paris scheduled to begin June 6.

—The United States will halt all air reconnaissance missions over North Vietnam.

—Twenty-four hours after the announcement, the Saigon government and the Viet Cong will order opposing battlefield commanders to cease their fire.

—Five to 10 days later, Saigon and the Viet Cong will grant guarantees of privileges and immunities for members of the two-party Joint Military Commission. The two sides will fully deploy observers into the field to keep the peace.

—Within five to 10 days, the United States will resume operations to remove mines from North Vietnamese waters and also will resume economic talks with Hanoi.

—Within three months, zones of control will be delineated.

—Within six months, a National Council of National Reconciliation and Concord must be established and an election procedure set up to shape the political future of South Vietnam. Under terms of the original agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27, this was supposed to have been accomplished by the end of April.

—Military commanders of the opposing parties will meet to establish safety corridors through the respective zones of control.

—Respect for the demilitarized zone and a withdrawal of troops and war equipment from the buffer zone. Demobilization of forces by both sides.

—The establishment of legitimate ports of entry for the replacement of war materials by each side on a one-for-one basis.

—The release of the remaining Vietnamese military and civilian prisoners of war.

The sources said terms of the agreement were communicated to President Nguyen Van Thieu by William H. Sullivan, Kissinger's aide in the Paris talks with Tho. Sullivan was in Saigon for three days last week.

Consider Gasoline Tax Hike

By BILL NEIKIRK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today the Nixon administration is considering a proposal to raise gasoline taxes.

Shultz, speaking at a news conference for economic reporters, also indicated that the administration has under study other tax-increase proposals to help cool the rapidly expanding economy.

As for the gasoline tax, Shultz said it is "one of the many things we are reviewing all the time."

He said there are pluses and minuses connected with the proposal and stressed that no decision has been made. The federal tax now is four cents a gallon.

Asked later if the administration is leaving the door open to general tax increases as a tool to help cool the economy, Shultz said only that there is a debate going on.

Shultz said the administration has to manage carefully the problem of cutting in half the present fast rate of economic expansion. Raising taxes is one method.

President Nixon, during last year's campaign for reelection, committed the administration against boosting taxes.

North Atlantic Allies Urge Icelanders And Britain To 'Cool It'

BRUSSELS (AP) — The United States and 12 North Atlantic allies urged Britain and Iceland today "to exercise the utmost restraint" in their cod war.

The appeal was made at a meeting of the North Atlantic Council, made up of permanent representatives of the United States, Britain, Iceland and the other 12 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

An announcement said the council "took note" of Iceland's demand that NATO get the British government to remove its warships that are protecting British trawlers in the disputed waters Iceland is claiming outside the 12-mile limit.

The dispute between the British Conservative government and the leftist coalition headed by Prime Minister Olafur Johansson threatens the NATO base in Iceland from which the alliance keeps track of Soviet submarines in the North Atlantic.

The demand followed the shelling Saturday of the trawler Everton by an Icelandic gunboat within the 50-mile territorial limit Iceland proclaimed last September.

Britain, West Germany and other nations whose fishermen traditionally fish those waters around Iceland reject the new 50-mile limit, saying Iceland has no right to expand its territorial waters unilaterally beyond the generally accepted 12-mile limit. Iceland claims its vital fishing industry is threatened by foreign fishermen.

Johannesson's government has indicated it might reconsider its NATO commitment if the British warships are not removed to give its gunboat a free hand against the trawlers. The government already has banned British planes from the U.S. base at Keflavik.

NATO diplomats in Reykjavik, Iceland's capital, speculated that Johannesson may be trying to lure Britain's warships into a duel coincident with the arrival Wednesday in Iceland of President Nixon and President Georges Pompidou of France for a meeting.

Sun Scopes

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab astronaut Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin today pointed a battery of telescopes at the sun, hoping to give scientists their best look yet at how this seething sphere of gases controls our solar system.

Physicists also hope the experiment will help unlock the secret of controlled thermonuclear fusion, the source of the sun's energy. This might aid in the search for an unlimited, pollution-free power source on earth.

While Kerwin tuned up the $107-million array, Charles Conrad Jr. and Paul J. Weitz assembled cameras and sensors which they'll use starting Wednesday to survey the earth's resources.

It was the fifth day of the planned 28-day orbital flight. The telescopes are mounted on a large device that is extended away from the orbiting station on long metal arms. Kerwin operated them from a workshop console which Conrad calls so complex "it's like playing three 88-key piano boards at one time."

Broadcasters 'Unobligated'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court held today that broadcasters may not be required to accept some paid advertising on controversial public issues.

The U.S. Circuit Court here had held that if a broadcaster accepts at least some kind of paid advertisements he cannot flatly refuse to accept paid announcements on public issues. Today's decision by a split court reversed that holding.

The case was brought to the high court by the Federal Communications Commission, the Columbia Broadcasting System, American Broadcasting Co. and operators of WTOP radio and television stations here.

Writing for the majority, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said that under the right-of-access system envisioned by the Circuit Court, "the commission would be required to oversee far more of the day-to-day operations of broadcasters' conduct, deciding such questions as whether a particular individual or group has had sufficient opportunity to present its viewpoint and whether a particular viewpoint has been sufficiently aired.

"Regimenting broadcasters is too radical a therapy for the ailment..." that brought the issue into federal courts, Burger wrote.

The dispute arose in 1970 with a request by the Democratic National Committee for an FCC order compelling broadcasters to sell time to "responsible entities" for comment on public issues.

In a case that was heard at the same time, a group called Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace challenged WTOP radio's refusal to provide for one-minute antiwar announcements.

The FCC sided with the broadcasters, sending the case to the appeals court.

The Supreme Court held that neither the Communications Act under which broadcasters are regulated, nor the First Amendment require broadcasters to sell time for paid editorial announcements.

$4.8 Million Authorized For Capital Improvements At ECU

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina University came away from the 1973 General Assembly with more than $4.8 million authorized for capital improvements at the Greenville campus — including funds for three building projects and money for utilities, roads, walks, parking and storm drainage.

Rep. Horton Rountree said ECU received legislative approval and funding for all their priority group one capital improvement requests. He noted that the only group two request funded by the legislature was a request for $12.23 million for construction of a building for the medical school at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

According to Clifton Moore, vice-chancellor for business affairs at ECU, the priority group one items requested and funded included three building projects: a $2,135,000 addition to the humanities building (a 63,000 square foot addition to a building for which construction began just a few months ago on Fifth Street); a $720,000 renovation of Joyner library (to make the present facility more functional with the new addition for which construction has just begun); and a $1,850,000 expansion of the heating plant on 14th Street (to complete replacement of the old coal-fired plant on the main campus and establish a new utility center).

Other projects funded were: $38,000 to provide new fire hydrants, water service lines, upgrade street and area lighting and provide a new peripheral electrical distribution loop; $55,000 to provide for construction and renovation of roads, parking areas, curbing and guttering and sidewalks; and $40,000 to provide permanent storm drains in the area of new construction.

Projects not funded included renovation and addition to Wahl-Coates school ($1.44 million requested), and $700,000 for an administration building; both group two priorities; and $500,000 for a planetarium building, a group three priority.

Two of the items included in the items funded — the addition to the humanities building and renovation to the library — fit hand in hand with projects funded by the 1971 General Assembly.

According to Moore, the legislature in 1971 appropriated $2.01 million for a School of Art, or humanities facility. Construction on this project began recently and the appropriation for an addition to the building with complete the project.

An addition to Joyner Library was also funded by the 1971 General Assembly, according to Moore. The $3.1 million allocated, Moore emphasized, will "more than double the size of the existing library."

The 90,000 square feet addition, Moore explained, coupled with the $720,000 renovation of the old building approved this year, will make a highly functional library facility.

Contracts for construction of the library addition were let several weeks ago and construction has already begun, Moore explained. Completion of the addition is expected to require about 18 months.

Lobbyist Says N.C. Consumers Helped By Assembly

ALUMNI DAY. . . Four members of the 1923 graduating class of East Carolina Teachers College pose in the dresses they wore for their commencement exercises. Celebrating their 50th anniversary since

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A legislative lobbyist for Tar Heel consumers feels that overall the consumer benefited from the deliberations of the 1973 General Assembly.

"We feel the citizens have come out better," was the conclusion of Mrs. Lillian Wood, president of the North Carolina Consumers Council as she weighed the accomplishments of the legislature. Mrs. Wood said the citizen benefited from the "wise decision" of the General Assembly to increase state appropriations in the fields of education, mental health, public health, social services and state parks rather than make the tax cuts recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission.

Even so, Mrs. Wood was disappointed in some of the decisions of the lawmakers. One of these came when they decided to put off no fault auto insurance until next year and another was when no action was taken on legislation to remove the sales tax from food and reform the state income tax. Still another was the failure to act on land-use planning and the death penalty.

In these respects, she said, the General Assembly "has been rather conservative" and laws to protect the "welfare and rights of the citizens have not moved ahead."

She said she is hopeful that these things will be considered in the interim before the General Assembly reconvenes and that the legislature will "move positively to enact them in 1974."

One consumer oriented bill which the General Assembly enacted would enable an individual to file suit against businesses for unfair and deceptive trade practices. The consumer's attorney fees would be paid if he proved his case.

The consumers council opposed and the General Assembly defeated a measure advocated by the small loan industry which would have boosted the maximum amount of small loans from $900 to $2,500 and would have extended loan periods from 39 to 48 months.

The consumers council felt that once a borrower had signed up for one of these loans "he would never get out," Mrs. Woo said.

She was unsuccessful in her opposition to a bill that will empower the state Milk Commission to set maximum as well as minimum wholesale and retail prices for milk.

She said the council prefers laws that promote competition in the prices charged the consumer.

The consumers council was more successful when the General Assembly enacted a bill making it illegal to tamper with the odometer on automobiles. This will help the buyer to know the exact mileage of the used car he purchases.

Mrs. Wood also was disappointed when no fault insurance was postponed until next year. She said the reinsurance facilities bill will benefit consumers by eliminating the purchase of auto liability insurance through assigned risk, but she says the worth of the legislation was greatly reduced when the Senate removed collision insurance from the reinsurance plan.

AussieNeedsNo U.S. Invitation

CANBERRA (AP) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam says the relationship between Australia and the United States is so close that he doesn't have to wait for an official invitation to visit Washington.

Whitlam said today he would visit Washington on his way from Mexico to Canada to attend a conference in early August.

The Australian prime minister was asked in parliament whether he had been invited by President Nixon to the White House. There has been a marked coolness in relations between the two countries caused by Whitlam's criticism of Nixon's Vietnam bombing policy early this year.

Dry Forces Map Effort Morgan Speaks At Martin Tech

RALEIGH (AP) — The Christian Action League is laying the groundwork for an all-out campaign to defeat the liquor by the drink referendum in North Carolina Nov. 6.

Nearly 200 Christian Action League trustees and other leaders attended a two-hour meeting Monday at which a basic plan of action was presented.

"The main thrust of this campaign will be on the county level," Privette told the group. "During June and July, county leadership will be enlisted and elected."

The league's executive committee will name six state officers to direct the campaign. These include co-chairmen, youth chairman, laides chairman, treasurer, and director of communications. Privette said a similar organization will be set up in each of the state's 100 counties.

Area rallies will be held the second week in August, beginning in Asheville and extending to Williamston and Wallace in the east.

"If this meeting today is an indication of things to come—and I think it was—this issue will be defeated Nov. 6," Privette said.

W. Arthur Tripp Said Improving

The condition of W. Arthur Tripp, local businessman and former State Highway Commissioner, is said by his daughter, Mrs. Donald Patrick, to be greatly improved. "He is out of the cardiac unit now," Mrs. Patrick said, "and hopefully, we will be able to bring him back to Greenville at the end of this week or early next week."

Tripp suffered a heart attack on Monday, May 21, while driving into the outskirts of Raleigh. "He managed to make it to the emergency entrance of Rex Hospital," Mrs. Patrick said, "and a security guard assisted him in getting into the hospital for emergency care."

WILLIAMSTON—Referring to "thoughtless persons today who are attacking our government and proposing revolutionary changes through violence instead of using the legal means for effecting needed changes," North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan cautioned that such persons should think again about damaging beyond repair the "delicate fabric of our society based on law."

Morgan made his remarks as keynote speaker at graduation exercises of 61 students of Martin Technical Institute near Williamston Friday night.

The Associated Press counted 565 traffic deaths during the 1972 Memorial Day weekend, also three days. The record toll for a three-day observance of the holiday was 597 in 1969.

A packed audience was on hand for the fifth annual graduation exercise, held in the foyer of the main campus building.

Clarence Biggs, Director of Student Personnel Services, presented special awards for outstanding contributions to Kay Damren, Ruth Whitaker, Melvin Biggs, Charles Davis, Edward G. McGowan, William T. Elliott III, Jane Leggett, Frances O. Davison, and Jean Andrews.

Twelve students received diplomas for completion of one year vocational programs. A total of 49 students received an Associate of Applied Science Degree in seven different fields of study.

Bobbitt-Adams Vows Said In Ceremony On Sunday

On Sunday at 1:30 p.m., Miss Deborah Carol Adams became the bride of Charles Wayne Bobbitt in the chapel of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. Troy Barrett officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Myers Adams of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack King Bobbitt of Littleton.

Prior to the wedding ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist.

The church was decorated with spiral candelabra entwined with sprays of greenery. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the vows and rings were exchanged and the bride and bridegroom knelt for the benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of peau de soie and re-embroidered chantilly lace, styled by Edith Vincent for Alfred Angelo. It was fashioned with a high neckline and the empire bodice of lace featured a sation band and bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. Lace details were repeated on the Z-line skirt which flowed into a chapel train.

A capulet of flower designs was attached to a three tiered finger-tip veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow baby's breath.

Miss Colene Kelly, was maid of honor and Miss Marcia Schiller was bridesmaid. They wore formal length gowns of polyester chiffon with multi shades of green and orange on a background of yellow. The empire bodice, accented with velvet ribbon, featured full sleeves and deep cuffs. Matching ribbon bows with sprays of flowers were worn in their hair. They carried white wicker baskets of champagne carnations, yellow and white spindle daisies with abay's breath.

Jack King Bobbitt, father of the bridegroom, served as best man and John Pegram, uncle of the bridegroom, served as usher.

MRS. CHARLES WAYNE BOBBITT

The mother of the bride wore a blue dress with a complimenting jacket. The mother of the bridegroom wore a dress of yellow. They were both remembered with a corsage of white cymbidium orchids. The three grandmothers attending were remembered with corsages of white carnations. Miss Tanie Shae Adams, sister of the bride, was also remembered with a corsage.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the church.

Mrs. Troy Barrett of Greenville directed the wedding.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a brown pants suit with matching accessories. She also wore a corsage of white carnations and yellow baby's breath lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School, Greenville, and is presently a sophomore at East Carolina University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Littleton High School, Littleton, and is presently a senior at East Carolina University with a major in business education. They will reside at Rt. 2, Greenville.

On Saturday evening, the wedding party was honored with a dinner at the Candlewick Inn given by Mrs. Bobbitt and Mrs. John C. Pegram, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Luncheon Held By Club Friday

The Greenville Woman's Club closed its activities for the summer months Friday with a luncheon meeting held at the club building.

President Mrs. Ernest Holt conducted the business session and welcomed members and a guest, Mrs. Walter Woodward. Three new members named were Mrs. C.L. Gilbert, Mrs. Marie Horn, a transfer, and Mrs. Kay Van Vansdam.

The following announcements were made: a benefit bridge will be held at the home of Mrs. Holt on June 19 and proceeds will go for a federation project, the Zoological Gardens; and a free cancer clinic will be held at the Health Center on July 11.

Mrs. S.P. Rogers, vice chairman of the Arts Department, reported on the May meeting and announced Oct. 9 as the date of their next meeting. Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell reported on the last Home Life department meeting and also on

Loafer No Longer Couple Exchanges Vows In A 'Minor' Problem Ceremony Saturday Afternoon

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was given every opportunity for as much education as he wanted, plus room and board without costing him a quarter, but as the kids say today, "he blew it."

Now he comes and goes as he pleases, lounges around the house, reading, listening to records, eating like a king, contributing nothing, and making long speeches about what is wrong with the world. We told him to please get out until he either gets a job or goes back to school and completes his education. So far, neither alternative appeals to him.

He says that he is a minor and we have to take care of him until he is 21. That means another eight months, and I don't think we can take it. Any suggestions?

HAD IT IN DETROIT

DEAR HAD IT: In Detroit your son is an adult at 18, and he has no more right to live on your property than a stranger. You can give him the official 30 days notice to move out of your home, and if he refuses, the court will advise him that he has 10 days to move, after which, they will "help" him.

You don't live in Detroit—you live in Atlanta, Ga., or Muscatine, Ia., or Boston, Mass.? Well, ring up your local Legal Aid Society and find out what the law in your community says.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 22-year-old daughter. She has always had many boy friends and girl friends until about a year ago when she met this one girl at school. Since then, nothing has been the same.

My daughter has dropped all her other friends and she associates only with this one girl. They are together morning, noon, and night. They have all their classes together, and after school this friend comes home with her, eats dinner here, and on weekends she spends the nights here.

They never have dates, but it doesn't seem to bother them—they are so wrapped up with each other. It just doesn't seem normal to me.

Abby, I am beginning to wonder about the relationship between these two girls. I love my daughter more than my own life. What should I do?

HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Let your daughter know you love her and accept her as she is. There is no more convincing proof of your love.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say about a guy who is so egotistical he flies the American flag on his birthday? He was in World War II, and all he ever did for his country was get a dishonorable discharge.

Isn't there a law against flying the American flag whenever you feel like it? And if so, what is the penalty, and where do I turn this conceited bum in?

Nothing would give me more pleasure. Thank you.

GALVESTON, TEX.

DEAR GALVESTON: You'd better find another way to punish the guy. There is no law against flying the American flag anytime, or all the time.

the bake sale.

Mrs. Mary Faye Shires, International Affairs chairman, thanked members for their participation in the recent symposium.

Mrs. Dink James reported on the Author's Luncheon and told of the commemorative plates which were displayed. Mrs. Wellington Gray will be the club's Art Center representative.

Mrs. Holt and Mrs. J.L. Savage, delegates to the NCF-WC convention, gave reports. Mrs. Savage explained the ESO, the federation's sorority and gave requirements for membership.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J.E. Ricks, Mrs. J.C. Lanier, Mrs. Marvin Riddle, Mrs. Marie Clark, Mrs. Louise Taylor, Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. Mildred Manning, Mrs. Julia Blanchard, Mrs. Fenner Allen, Mrs. L.A. Stroud and Mrs. Virginia Wright.

GRIFTON—On Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in St. John's Episcopal Church, Miss Marion Price McLawhorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Bernard McLawhorn of Grifton, and Wayne Clay Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Glenn Lehman, also of Grifton, were united in marriage.

The Rev. Milton Wright officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Altar vases were filled with white snapdragons, mums and greenery. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbons.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Mary Ellen Price of Raleigh, organist, and cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white polyester crepe gown with a mandarin collar, long fitted sleeves with lace cuffs. The bodice and skirt had lace overlay. Her floor length veil of illusion fell from a bandeau of white lace and daisy trim. She carried a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies.

Miss Barbara Kaye Rasberry, her maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of powder blue polyester crepe made with long sleeves, which were accented with self ruffles as was the neck and a-skirt. She carried a single long-stemmed red rose.

The bridegroom was served by his father as best man. Ushers were brothers of the bridegroom, William Lehman of Greenville, and Wade Morton Lehman of Grifton.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding, an aqua knit with matching head-piece and accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a coral double knit with matching accessories and a white orchid.

Mrs. K. E. Price, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a navy polyester print dress made with short jacket, white accessories and a white orchid. The bride and bridegroom are both in their senior year at East Carolina University.

After a wedding trip to the coast, they will be at home in Greenville.

For her wedding trip, the bride changed into a yellow polyester sheath with white accessories and a corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Reception After the ceremony, a reception was given at St. Mark's Paris House for the wedding party and guests. Receiving were Mrs. Bernard McLawhorn, Mrs. Joe Price, Mrs. Roy L. Jackson, Mrs. Glenn Price and Mrs. Bruce Cannon.

Mixed spring flowers decorated the hall. The bride's table was overlaid with a pink satin cloth and held an Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. George Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lehman, Mrs. Robert Mewborn and Mrs. Dorothy Callicutt.

Half A Record In '73 Session

The 1973 General Assembly compiled only half a record — and we will have to wait until 1974 to understand fully how effective this General Assembly has been.

It will certainly be remembered for one action this year. In previous years the State Legislature has met biennially and in recent years the sessions have been running into the summer. This year the Democratic controlled Legislature — with a Republican in the governor's mansion — concluded early that it would meet again in 1974. Thus the lawmakers made up a one year budget for the first time. When they meet next year they will make up another one year budget for the fiscal year 1974-75, although much of what was included in the 1973-74 budget will set the tone for 1974-75.

The 1973 Legislature may also become known as the one which finally handled the liquor-by-the-drink question. This is something that has been wrestled with by every Legislature, but the 1973 General Assembly set a statewide vote for Nov. 6 on liquor-by-the-drink. Hopefully that vote will settle the issue for some time to come.

This year's General Assembly set up a reinsurance facility for high risk drivers, eliminating assigned risk; but it shied away from the no fault program.

Minimum wage was increased from $1.60 to $1.80 effective Sept. 2 and rights of patients in mental institutions and hospitals were spelled out.

There was a restructuring of the highway department which set up a board of transportation and Secondary Roads Council.

A number of issues went over to the 1974 session, however. Included is the no-fault, primary election date change, ethics code for legislators, removal of Highway Patrol from governor's jurisdiction.

The Legislature will also in all probability consider the expansion of the medical school at East Carolina University in 1974.

So it is clear that, even though the Legislature is now into annual meetings, the 1974 session will in fact be a continuation of the 1973 session. Some of the major matters will be decided next year and this General Assembly's effectiveness will be judged on the results of both sessions.

A Commitment Is Reaffirmed

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — North Carolina's historic commitment to public schools got a resounding affirmation from the 1973 General Assembly.

Lawmakers loosened the purse strings for education with a liberality unmatched in recent years. From kindergartens to community colleges to higher education, including private institutions, they poured out millions to aid the quest for quality education across the board.

The funds provided move the state to the threshold of "a breakthrough toward better learning," said Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction.

The hopeful sign, he added, is that the attitude shown by elected representatives of the people may signal a turn-of-the-corner in public confidence and support for schools after the stress of social change.

School administrators now must respond to the legislative challenge, Dr. Phillips said. "The legislature has put the monkey on our back to prove that we can make something good happen in the classroom. We're raring to go," he said.

Implementation In Motion

A called meeting of the State Board of Education on Friday (June 1) will examine the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, to prepare procedures and guidelines for local superintendents. They need the information promptly, Dr. Phillips explained, to implement locally the extension of term, kindergartens; pay schedules and other new and extended programs authorized by the legislature.

Appropriations of more than $688 million will go to operate the public schools next year.

The budget adopted fits the pattern laid out by educators. "Of the $134 million we requested for new and improved services, the lawmakers granted $123 million, or 92 per cent of our requests," Dr. Phillips reported. "Surely, this General Assembly has earned the title 'friend of education.'"

Bipartisan Cause

Friends wore labels of both political parties. In the unsettled atmosphere created by a Republican governor and a Democratic majority in the legislature, the education cause carried a bipartisan banner. Gov. Jim Holshouser, whose program endorsed most of the goals, said achievements for education rank high on the session's record. In long range impact on the state, he added, the commitment to a kindergarten system may be the single most significant action.

The success for education gives a reading of the public mood, Gov. Holshouser added. "I suspect it reflects a healthy turn of events in North Carolina public opinion for support of the public schools," he said.

Democratic voted enacted advances for education, reminded Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the party's top state office holder who presided over the Senate. He said the initiative and in-put of Democratic solons secured the forward thrust in public school appropriations.

In dollars, the major item was $33.4 million to extend to ten months the terms of employment for school teachers. Dr. Phillips translated it into 3 1/2 million additional hours of professional service annually to school children. "It provides for 180 instructional days for students and gives teachers the extra days needed for playing, evaluation, and in-service training," he explained.

Class Size Reduction

Another $26 million was earmarked to reduce class size. By law, a limit is fixed on the number of pupils in public school classrooms. Grades one-to-three will be limited to 26 pupils; grades four-to-eight, 33 pupils; and high school grades to 35 students per class, or 150 per teacher per day.

A major step to kindergartens for all five-year-olds comes from $12.3 million. The funds will maintain the present 149 classes and open 522 new kindergarten classes next fall. Each of the state's 152 school units, under the legislation, may operate a minimum of two kindergarten classes beginning in September.

A timetable envisioned by the General Assembly will make a statewide kindergarten system available in the fall of 1978.

Teachers received a 5 per cent pay increase, effective July 1. In addition, the extended term will amount to nearly a 7 per cent increase in annual income.

Others items in the education package: $3.2 million for separate buses for elementary and secondary students; $5.8 million to improve occupational education; 200 new teachers to work with the gifted and talented, the mentally retarded, the speech or hearing impaired and other children with physical problems.

Bryce Harlow's Emergency Job

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Although President Nixon has made no specific request yet that he return to full-time duty in the White House, the wise and experienced Bryce Harlow has been secretly giving Mr. Nixon and the White House staff invaluable help there since the Watergate scandal broke open, while keeping his job as a Washington lobbyist.

That worries friends of Harlow, former high aide to Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon and now Washington vice president of Proctor and Gamble. If White House demands on his time continue, he will either have to take a leave of absence from the nation's largest soap company or say no.

With Watergate scandals flooding the White House, Harlow will not risk involving Mr. Nixon in new criticism that the nation's business is being handled by a highly-paid lobbyist operating out of the White House.

Harlow himself, in a closed-door session with Southern Republican state chairmen May 16, pointed up a similar conflict-of-interest involving Gen. Alexander Haig, Jr., the President's "interim" chief of staff and one of the few aides in whom Mr. Nixon now reposes total trust.

Harlow told the Southern Republicans that Haig either would have to give up his role as the President's chief aide, with highly sensitive duties going far beyond the usual traffic-cop function of a staff aide, or "leave the Army."

The reason: no military officer, Harlow said, should be permitted (or compelled, as in Haig's case) to fill an essentially political job at the highest civilian level of the government.

Harlow's own predicament as outside adviser on continuous call from the White House is similar, and he knows it. He left Mr. Nixon's White House as cabinet-level head of the congressional lobbyist staff in December 1970, to make money, after 23 years in the government, 10 of them in the White House.

The fact that the President is now calling him back for "consultation" shows how thin the White House staff really is, with Haig (full-time) and John B. Connally (part-time) the only replacements for the Haldeman-Ehrlichman-Dean top level pre-Watergate staff.

Connally intimates he intends to "slip off into the night" at the first upturn in the President's political fortunes. With no visible Nixon intention to hire conventional Republican politicians and with Haig's tenure shadowy, it may well be that Mr. Nixon's SOS will go to Harlow himself, long a natural resource of Republican Presidents, to come back permanently.

Is Agnew Programmed? Suspicious by conservative Republicans that Vice President Spiro Agnew is being totally programmed by the White House to his own political detriment were fed last week when he referred to the Watergate scandal as a "manufactured" issue.

In a little-noticed speech last Monday (May 21) to the Republican Bull Elephant Club (composed of top congressional aides), Agnew also called Watergate "the alleged and insinuated wrongdoing" that Republicans at large should avoid "protesting" to much.

That's the tone of the Vice President's speeches around the country, all of it designed to serve his boss.

Conservatives hoping to run Agnew for President in 1976 are horrified. They think the only correct and safe posture for Agnew now is to say nothing. To risk tainting himself with the sin of pretending that Watergate is only a minor classic, say his conservative friends, could do irreparable damage to Agnew's political future.

A CIA Defender Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, seeking to save the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) from the Watergate wreckage, believes it has been assaulted not only from President Nixon's erstwhile

'Swamp Water' As It Is

President Nixon's long Watergate statement last week was clear, understandable, and regrettably revealing. The President is not yet out of this foul swamp, but his statement moves him toward the sunlight of restored public confidence.

Looking at Watergate is like looking through a microscope. Put a drop of swamp water on a slide, adjust the focus, and one sees certain things. Increase the magnification, and one sees still more. Another increase, and still other substances appear. All these things were there all the time. The naked eye could not see them.

This is true of the Watergate story. Like a third magnification, the President's statement brought into view one small part of the invisible world of intelligence gathering. It has been there all the time, through Democratic and Republican administrations alike. To have its existence thus revealed is embarrassing; in some ways the experience is deeply alarming; but we ought not to flinch from the truth: This is swamp water as it is.

The main purpose of Nixon's statement was to draw a sharp distinction between Watergate itself and the national security operations that became entangled with it. The distinction is real, and it is important. "Watergate," in this context, embraces only those acts of political espionage and sabotage — the bugging of Democratic National Headquarters, the fabricating of scurrilous campaign letters. These acts were squalid and contemptible; there can be no justification for them.

The national security operations are something else entirely. The assignment given to various "plumbers," in 1969 and again in 1971, was a prudent, proper, and indeed an indispensable assignment: They were to stop leaks of highly sensitive information. These leaks had to be plugged. The means that were employed toward this end may sit uneasily on the American conscience, but both the means and the end may be justified.

In mid-1969, as Nixon said, he was deeply involved in foreign policy initiatives that demanded "highly secret diplomacy." Leaks of secret information could endanger them all. But leaks did occur, from persons having access "to the most highly classified security materials." The source had to be found. This meant wiretaps on the telephones of reporters and government officials alike. In guarded language, the President suggests that the plumbers succeeded: The taps "produced important leads that made it possible to tighten security."

The investigations of 1969 turned up something else also — a shocking lack of coordination among the various intelligence-gathering agencies. By July of 1970, FBI Director Hoover had severed his liaison with everyone else. An Intelligence Evaluation Committee, created to relieve the intolerable situation, recommended that various techniques that had been suspended — including selected break-and-entry operations — be resumed. Hoover again balked. The plan never was put into operation.

In June of 1971, we are led to understand, the situation still obtained. When the New York Times began publication of the Pentagon Papers, including a great many documents not a part of the 47-volume study, it appeared that national security might be imperiled by a leak "so grave as to require extraordinary actions." Nixon immediately created his own Special Investigations Unit, headed by John Ehrlichman.

Words That Weary

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a lady librarian gets tired of hearing:

HAL BOYLE

"What have you got left on the shelf where you hide the really racy stuff?"

"I don't want any of your books, kid. You're the one I'd like the check out. What would you like to do tonight?"

"Why are you always shushing people so it's so quiet in here you can hear a pin drop? Who wants to listen to a pin drop, anyway?"

"Do you have any sure-fire books on how to make money after 65? My husband is retiring next month."

"I found this copy of 'Forever Amber' in the children's section. Hasn't it been misplaced — or am I just that far behind the times?"

"There are a couple of high school kids smooching behind the nonfiction stacks. Aren't you going to do something about it?"

"No, I don't want any books, lady. I just want a place where I can sit down and take a nap. I'm homeless."

"Garbage, garbage, garbage! That's all they write nowadays. If a man like Charles Dickens were alive today, he'd have to earn a living writing for seed catalogues."

"Whom do I report a dirty old man to? No, he didn't say anything to me, but he just sits across the reference table from me and leers whenever our knees touch."

"Why Elsie Dimmer, don't tell me you've been working at the library here ever since we got out of college! Whatever became of your plans to go to Broadway and become an actress?"

"Please, Miss Dimmer, can't you just forget I owe the library 55 cents for returning my books late? If I have to pay you I won't have enough money left to go to the movies and meet my boy friend."

"What about those nice books about the Bobsey Twins? Did they ever grow up? I think one of the reasons I was so unprepared for marriage was that I was still reading about the Bobsey Twins until I was 16."

Fear Of Institutional Trading

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A deep fear of institutional trading has spread through the securities industry, which only a few years ago scorned the individual investor and scrambled for the big block commissions.

The individual wasn't paying his way, was the common excuse for declining the odd lot business of the small investor in favor of the huge commissions paid by insurance companies and banks and pension and mutual funds.

But now the attitude of many industry leaders is 180 degrees different. They fear institutional trading will ruin the markets. They are courting individuals.

There are some interesting reasons for this. One of them is that liquidity, or the ability to smoothly match buy-sell orders, requires many investors willing to trade at various prices. When the traders are only a handful of institutions, the price spread grows and the market is convulsed. Not everyone on Wall Street was heartened, for example, by the 29.42 point leap in the Dow Jones industrial average last Thursday. Rather than seeing it as evidence of strength, they viewed it as an institutional aberration.

Too often, they say, the institutions not only own the same stocks but buy them at the same time and sell them almost in unison. Playing games with each other, and without liquidity, they produce wide price swings.

John Whitehead, chairman of the Security Industry Association, provided some remarkable figures on concentration of ownership at a recent meeting of that brokers' organization:

"One of our largest banks," he said, "received over $1 billion in retirement and pension fund money to invest last year. It placed 65 per cent of that amount in just seven stocks, another 20 per cent into eight other stocks and the balance into less than 15 other issues."

While this may be exceptional behavior, it isn't unique. The assets of scores of institutions are concentrated in the same list of less than 50 stocks, while other, very worthwhile companies, are ignored.

These ignored companies now are highly distressed about the lack of interest in their shares, which have plummeted to the lowest price-earnings ratios — the number of times per-share earnings at which the stock sells — in many years.

For the first time in decades, some of them are seriously concerned about their ability to raise capital, or at least to raise it without incurring prohibitive costs. Some companies with "normal" P-E ratios of 12 to 18 are selling for 6 to 9.

So that is one reason: The concentration of investing power in a relative few

Ford Co. Gives Food Packages

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Residents of a Buenos Aires shantytown line up today to receive 3,000 food packages from the Ford Motor Co.'s Argentine subsidiary.

The packages, delivered Monday to the local church, were part of the first installment of Ford's million-dollar protection payoff to the People's Revolutionary Army, whose guerrillas wounded two employees of the company during a kidnap attempt last week.

The company also delivered $400,000 to two children's hospitals. It also has promised to hand over 22 ambulances, a total of $180,000 worth of food for slum dwellers and $300,000 in school supplies for shantytowns.

Some Peronist youths opposed accepting the first food packages since they came from terrorist activities. But the leader of a liberal religious movement, the Rev. Carlos Mujica, told them:

"Now is not the time to quarrel about ideologies. Let's get this food to the people. At least the children will have tasted milk and cocoa once in their lives."

Meanwhile, Argentina's new Peronist president, Hector Campora, restored diplomatic relations with Cuba after an 11-year break and announced he would establish relations with the Communist governments of East Germany and North Korea.

Argentina is the seventh of the 25 members of the Organization of American States to Cunniff Col. . . .

(Continued from page 4) produces extremes of price in some corporate issues and results in a vast number of other issues being all but forgotten.

But there is another aspect to this situation that some people might think represents poetic justice. It concerns the fact that on orders of more than $300,000 the rates are now negotiated rather than fixed, as they were a few years ago.

It results in this scenario, related by Whitehead:

"Broker: By the way, Mr. Institution, we think we should charge you 8 cents a share on the excess over $300,000.

"Institution: John, I only want to pay 4 cents. I never pay more than that.

"Broker: But, Mr. Institution, we had to position half the block ourselves, we got you a price only one-eighth below the last sale, and, if you'll remember, your original purchase of the stock was based on our research recommendation.

"Institution: Well, I don't know about research. That's another department. But as I told you, John, 4 cents is all I'm going to pay. There are lots of others who will do it for that.

"Broker: Well, all right. But next time we've just got to do better. By the way, do you have any other blocks we can work on?"

Concluded Whitehead: "I say to you that this is not 'negotiation.' It is 'dictation.'"

Others would call it rate competition. It didn't exist when the brokers were courting the institutional trade. Back then they agreed upon prices.

Kilpatrick Col. . . .

(Continued from page 4) and these Plumbers did indeed take extraordinary actions. Among other things, they burglarized the office of a psychiatrist threatening Daniel Ellsberg. It seemed conceivable then that Ellsberg was part of a foreign espionage apparatus.

We can imagine with what reluctance Nixon last week disclosed this third degree of magnification. Many Americans will be shocked to comprehend that their own government, under different Presidents, has engaged in the shadowy techniques attributed to Communist regimes. Many of us share the distaste of Henry Stimson for clandestine operations. "Gentlemen," said the Secretary of War, "do not read other people's mail." But like the drop of swamp water, this is the way the world is, and for trying to keep these things covered up, the President merits not blame, but praise.

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
Like the unwelcome thump of a flat tire, the reality of the gas shortage now begins to prey on the minds of motorists accustomed to driving as though there were always more fuel tomorrow.

Warnings went out early that drivers who took to the highways for the Memorial Day weekend might have to shop around for gas to get home.

Most of them made it because there are still huge quantities of gasoline available. But the locked service stations and gas rationing encountered by many underscore that the supply is not quite enough.

Demand for gas has been increasing seven per cent a year, and traffic counts continue to grow. At the same time, many major oil companies say they do not have enough crude oil and have begun allocations to dealers based on 1972 sales.

"Not many months ago we were hounded by salesmen wanting to sell fuel. Now you have to scrounge all over the place," says Ray Alderson of Yellow Freightways in Kansas City.

Transit officials seek bids for fuel and get no replies. State troopers in Florida have been ordered to cut back mileage.

Taxi drivers in a Des Moines Iowa, fleet have been told not to turn on their air conditioners.

The effects of the shortage have been felt or feared for weeks by many whose livelihood depends directly or indirectly on motor fuel. But there is little evidence that car owners have curbed personal driving.

Most drivers contacted in a pre-weekend Associated Press survey said they did not plan any changes in driving habits or vacation plans. The question is whether they will have to.

A handful of stations were limiting customers to five gallons over the weekend. Many independent and major stations have cut back hours or closed Sundays.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness last week reported 882 of the estimated 220,000 stations in the country were closed for lack of gas. Another 1,863 were threatened with shutdowns, the OEP said.

Generally, the independents are most affected. They captured a quarter of the market over the past decade by buying surplus gas from major oil companies and selling it at 2 to 10 cents a gallon less than the standards.

One federal official calls them "a very helpful competitive spur." Under a voluntary allocation plan that the administration announced three weeks ago, the major oil companies were urged to "share the shortage" among their stations and the independents.

Industry sources say the shortage is essentially the result of limited supplies of crude oil and limited refinery capacity.

An opposite view is voiced by California Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, a Democrat. He notes that U.S. refineries operated "at less than 75 per cent capacity last year" and listed record first quarter profits this year.

While the debate goes on, Illinois officials have set up a hot line for farmers needing fuel. An Iowa gas tank company is selling more storage tanks to farmers than ever before.

Lack of competition in bids for bulk fuel supplies forced Los Angeles County to accept a lone bid for gasoline at a 67 per cent increase.

The driving crunch lies ahead this summer, and no one is sure what will happen. Some industry analysts predict the shortage will last into the mid 70s because it will take that long to expand refinery capacity.

Silver Dollar Sale Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Services Administration is conducting another sale of silver dollars minted in the last century.

The sale starts Friday, with a closing date for bids of July 31, and includes coins minted at the now closed Carson City, Nev., mint in 1878, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1890 and 1891.

These are part of a large store of old cartwheels discovered a decade ago in an out-of-the-way vault in the Treasury. About 800,000 of the coins have been sold in earlier sales at $30 each.

For uncirculated dollars in the sale the minimum bid will be $15 for 1878 coins and $30 for the others. There also will be sales of scratched and tarnished coins from Carson City, and circulated and uncirculated coins from other mints at minimum bids of from $3 to $5.

Bid forms were made available at post offices and banks around the country.

A furious Symington told his colleagues that the charge was leaked by Foreign Relations Committee staffers, out to cut down both Helms and the CIA.

However, Helms received a unanimous clean bill of health from Symington and other Armed Services Committee members after their investigation into possible Watergate links. Any attempt to force Helms out of Teheran will be vigorously opposed by an influential bipartisan bloc of Senators.

"I went in the hospital at 6:30 in the morning, and got out at 4 the same afternoon. I had a tumor that had to come out, and after the necessary tests (taken as an outpatient), my doctor and I decided I'd used the new ambulatory surgical unit. Imagine—outpatient surgery! I'm sure part of the reason I felt so good afterward was knowing I'd go right back home, where I feel at home. And next day the nurse came to check my progress. Fine idea!"

Outpatient surgery, as practiced at Watts Hospital in Durham, is a dramatic new way to handle minor operations more efficiently.

Outpatients get the same quality of care as inpatients—at a lower cost. Formerly, this same operation would have required three days in the hospital.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina helped establish this new unit at Watts. We're working with other hospitals now to set up similar units.

And, we cover all the same expenses, on an outpatient and home care basis, that we cover for in-hospital cases.

With lower costs and the time saved, everybody benefits.

At a time when everyone's concerned about hospital costs going up, we're working with programs such as this to help hold them down.

Study Pilot Asylum Plea

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German government today is considering an application for asylum from a young Soviet pilot who parachuted from his plane moments before it crashed.

A spokesman said the government was investigating the motives of Lt. Yevgeny Lvoich, 21, who asked for asylum after his SU7 fighter crashed Sunday about 23 miles inside West Germany near Brunswick.

Asylum is granted routinely to run-of-the-mill defectors. But Lvoich is the first Soviet pilot known to have defected since 1967, when the pilot of a MIG17 made a wheels-up landing in a Bavarian meadow and asked for asylum in the United States.

Authorities were investigating whether Lvoich crossed the border with the intention of defecting or if the request was prompted by the crash.

Carolina, particularly in small towns and in rural areas.

The editor said that there is no alliance between the state's dry forces and ECU backers and he does not believe there are any attempts being made to form such an alliance.

Roll Bars Argued Following Nine-Car Pileup At Indy Start

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "How much longer are we going to let this go on?" fumed Gary Bettenhausen, probing the wreckage of David "Salt" Walther's 77 McLaren-Offy in the Speedway's Gasline Alley.

"We'll keep on having serious injuries and deaths until we put roll cages on these cars. I've been fighting for them for a long time. The drivers are 90 per cent in favor of them. Still nothing is done.

"Look how many deaths we've had from cars that land upside down. I'm one of the few guys to walk away from such a wreck. But the guys are just too proud or something to go for the cages."

The 25-year-old Walther was the chief casualty in a nine-car accident Monday on the first lap of the rain-delayed—and ultimately postponed—Indianapolis 500.

His car hit the outside wall, severed two support poles, flipped over, spun and burst into flames before the startled eyes of spectators in the main grandstand.

The driver was pulled from the burning machine and flown by helicopter to nearby Methodist Hospital. He was reported in stable but serious condition from burns on 40 per cent of his body and a broken left wrist.

An hour after the flaming crash, after most of the 350,000 spectators had begun streaming out of the massive complex to await Tuesday's second try at the race, Walther's garage on the north end of the alley was as grim as a wake.

Inside, in a funeral atmosphere, a concerned Bettenhausen, whose own father had crashed and died on the old brick and concrete oval, and Walther's chief mechanic, Tom Smith, probed the wreckage of "No. 77" with the care of a surgeon.

Roll cages—the need for them—were an integral part of Bettenhausen's analysis. The Indy type cars have a high headrest, which partly protects the driver, but not cages, bars built a foot or so high around the driver's seat.

"They are compulsory now on sprint cars and midget cars, every kind of car except these," Bettenhausen said. "I remember one year six men were killed in sprint races when their cars turned over. Since the cages were installed, I know of only two."

Art Pollard, killed in a practice spin prior to this year's time trials, was in a similar accident. Bettenhausen had his car turn eight flips before landing upside down in 1969 at Milwaukee.

"I was just lucky," he said.

"Later I told one of the drivers that we should have protective cages, and he just laughed at me. I felt like knocking his teeth in."

Indy Tries To Restart Today

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 57th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was rescheduled for today with the pall of a fiery, wrenching crash and an ensuing torrential downpour still hanging over the ancient Speedway.

The crash came on the main straightaway only seconds after the lead cars of the 33-car field had started the rain-delayed race. It stunned the immense crowd of more than 300,000 persons who had waited for four hours.

The race was rescheduled for 10 a.m., EDT. The National Weather Service predicted a 30 per cent chance of showers.

One driver, David "Salt" Walther, 25, of Dayton, Ohio, was hospitalized by injuries received in the accident, as were nine spectators. Walther was listed in critical condition with burns on 40 per cent of his body, a broken left wrist and a possible back injury.

Dr. Thomas Hanna, head of the Speedway medical staff and in charge of the infield hospital, said most of the injured spectators suffered burns.

Drivers Mike Hiss and John Martin received minor injuries and were expected to be in the field today if their cars could be repaired in time.

Crews of the cars damaged in the wreck—which involved nine vehicles—and Speedway repair crews worked throughout the night to get both the cars and the track ready for the race.

Walther's car rammed into the wall, turned upside down and exploded into flames. The crash sent a shower of debris that dented several other cars and flew into the front rows of the crowd only about 20 feet from the track.

The crash sheared off two steel poles supporting a cable and wire mesh fence above the wall, but the cables kept the cars and bigger pieces of wreckage from going into the grandstand.

Only Walther's McLaren was ruled out of the race.

Martin and Hiss both said they felt their crews would have their Eagle automobiles ready to go. Lee Kunzman's Eagle was questionable since it sustained heavy damage, but the crew insisted it would be ready.

Jaycees Hand Coke 3rd Loss

The Jaycees handed Coca-Cola their third straight loss, 10-4, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League. The victory raised the Jaycee record to 2-5, while Coke has now slumped to 4-3.

Coke came right back to pick up one in their half of the frame. Ronnie Chapman walked and stole both second and third. He scored on Marshall Crumpler's single.

The Jaycees added another run in the second. Mike Pollard reached on a two-base error and took third on a wild pitch. Larry Talbert walked and Todd Weeden singled to score Pollard.

Coke came up with two in the third to tie it up. Will Sanderson reached on a fielder's choice and advanced on a wild pitch. Crumpler was also safe on a fielder's choice and stole second. Lee Hardee doubled to drive both in to make it 3-3.

In the top of the fifth, the Jaycees came up with three runs to move ahead for good. Barnes reached on an error and Matheis singled. Marion Crisp walked and Talbert reached on a two-base error, scoring both Barnes and Matheis. Allan Avery and Jay Lemmond both walked, forcing in Crisp.

Wilbur Wood Picks Up Two Wins As Chicago Sweeps Tribe Twice

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wilbur Wood pitched a six-hitter Monday night. In two games, that is, not one.

"Wilbur Wonderful" added a pair of victories to his imposing total with his latest work of art, 6-3 and 4-0 decisions over the befuddled Cleveland Indians.

The White Sox' Left Arm went five innings in the first game, continuation of a 16-inning suspended affair from Saturday night, and gave up two hits and one unearned run. He fired a four-hitter in the regulation game to bring his record to 13-3, the best by far in the majors.

Incidentally, his 13 victories are half the White Sox' total.

In the other American League games, the Minnesota Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles 10-3; the California Angels beat the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4; the Detroit Tigers nipped the Oakland A's 4-3 and the Kansas City Royals turned back the Boston Red Sox 5-4. Rain postponed a contest between the New York Yankees and Texas Rangers.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Houston Astros 4-2; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Chicago Cubs 6-5; the San Francisco Giants trimmed the New York Mets 6-5; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Atlanta Braves 3-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 and the Montreal Expos nipped the San Diego Padres 7-6.

Jim Kaat, aided by a six-run third inning, scattered 12 hits in Minnesota's victory over Baltimore. The left-hander survived a shaky start and two homers by Bobby Grich to notch his sixth victory in eight decisions.

Steve Braun belted two bases-empty homers for the Twins, one in the fifth and another in the seventh. Also included in Minnesota's 12-hit attack was a two-run homer by George Mitterwald, a 435-foot shot into the right-field bullpen.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run triple highlighted Minnesota's game-breaking third inning.

Pinch-hitters Tom McCraw and Winton Illenas came off the bench to drive in runs in the seventh inning, rallying California over Milwaukee.

Norm Cash's two-run homer helped Detroit to a 4-0 lead and the Tigers held on to beat Oakland for Joe Coleman's ninth victory. Coleman hadn't given up a hit in the nationally televised game until a two-out double by Sal Bando in the fourth.

Cookie Rojas' run-scoring single capped a three-run rally in the ninth inning to lead Kansas City over Boston.

Messersmith In Strikeout Mark

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

For it's 1...2...3 strikes you're out at the old ball game.

At least, that's the way it always was until Andy Messersmith and Joe Ferguson of the Los Angeles Dodgers decided to play a different tune Monday night.

Messersmith became the first pitcher in modern national league history to fan the first six batters at the start of a game, and matched the major league standard as he pitched the first inning of the Dodgers' 5-1 victory over the Phillies.

In the second inning, the only trouble was that Messersmith was playing fast ball and catcher Ferguson was playing passed ball.

Greg Luzinski struck out but reached first when the third strike got away from Ferguson. Bill Robinson and Mike Schmidt also fanned. Then Luzinski took second on another passed ball before Bob Boone broke the strikeout string with an outfield fly.

Messersmith, who finished with 12 strikeouts, picked up No. 7 by getting Unser again in the third...and again the pitch escaped Ferguson for another passed ball...and again a batter struck out only to wind up on first base.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco Giants held off the New York Mets 6-5, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Chicago Cubs 6-5, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Houston Astros 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2 and the Montreal Expos knocked off the San Diego-Washington Lane Ducks 7-6 on Clyde Masflore's three-run pinch homer with two out in the ninth inning.

Juan Marichal boosted his lifetime record against New York to 26-5. He lost his shutout bid on John Milner's two-run homer in the sixth.

Joe Morgan singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning, providing the Reds with a comeback 6-5 victory over the Cubs.

Dock Ellis, with help from three relievers, halted his personal five-game losing streak in the Pirates' victory over Houston.

Rick Wise drove in what proved to be the winning run and pitched the Cardinals over the Braves with ninth-inning relief help.

Mashore's game-winning blow for Montreal followed two-out singles by Hal Breeden and John Boccabella and made him the 18th player in major league history to hit two consecutive pinch homers.

The 'Worry Clinic' It Might Fill A Body's Need

My mother, now 95, got her teaspoonful of concentrated ocean water this noon, before I took her to the Restaurant for lunch. And Ronald might find that same method MIGHT zoom his height a few inches. Note what a daily drop of iodine did for our 4 Crane boys.

trace chemicals from ocean water. For the prevailing winds in American blow from West to East.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
CASE X-519: Ronald T., aged 15, is a high school sophomore. "Dr. Crane," he began, "you can see that I am pretty short for my age."
"So is there any simple way to add a few inches to one's height?"
"A recent medical columnist said the average American man is now 5' 10 1/2" tall.
"But I am still only 5'7".
"That doctor also stated that people in California grow taller than the average. Why?"
Trace Chemicals?
Maybe the answer is due to

Which means the sea spray from the Pacific Ocean is carried inland for hundreds of miles.

"For example, the iodine content of 'cow' butter, derived from California cattle, has a higher than normal iodine content for at least 200 miles inland.

Which means the ocean's spray has been wafted inland by the heavy winds and thus deposited on the grazing lands. And I am not speaking of the evaporated water vapor that produces rain, for it is like distilled water in being free of chemicals.

The West Coast gets unevaporated water spray that is borne by the winds. And this ocean spray not only contains iodine but all the 44 water soluble trace chemicals of the sea.

When our 4 boys were in high school, they were also quite short.

Indeed, our oldest, George IV, was the shortest of all the 400 boys as well as girls who entered South Shore High School that freshman year.

And our boys didn't inherit any great heights, since their grandfathers on both sides of the family had been on 5'6" and 5'7".

And their grandmothers were also short women.

Besides, I was barely 5'10" and Mrs. Crane only 5'3".

So I told our boys to squirt one drop of tincture of iodine in their glass of milk each morning, since that might help accelerate their growth while in the teenage "shooting" stage.

They did. And George attained 6'1".

His brother Phillip, now our Illinois U.S. Congressman, reached 6' 1/2", while Daniel and David hit the 6-foot mark. As a rule, the average child grows about 2 inches taller each year til 13. Then that is the "shooting" year, when he zooms 3 1/4 inches or more. The average growth thereafter is about one inch per year till 18. Sometimes people grow after the age of 21, but 18 is the usual cutoff point for height.

A high-scoring semi-final round by Jack Kennedy and D. A. Hadden of Shreveport, La. enabled them to lap the field in the Men's Pair Championship at the Spring Nationals which were held in St. Louis. Second place in the event was taken by Kit Woolsey and Steve Robinson of Washington, D. C.

Kennedy and Hadden exhibited a stout defense to defeat South's six heart contract in today's hand taken from a qualifying round of the event.
The slam was reached on the bidding sequence presented in the diagram. After South's one heart response was raised by the opening bidder, the former realized that big things were in the offing if his partner held the right values. South's rebid of three diamonds is a one round force inasmuch as hearts is the agreed trump suit.

North cooperated by cue bidding the ace of spades. This was, of course, a forward going call since he could have signed off by merely returning to three hearts. Now that South was reassured regarding the weak point in his holding, he pro-

Opines Offices Are 'Buried'

DALLAS (AP) — An all-encompassing system is needed to bring sanity to offices buried under tied-up phones, piled-up computer printout, procedures, unnecessary correspondence, manuals, mail, memoranda and meetings.
That's what Raymond A. Hay, a Xerox Corp. vice president, recently told more than 200 Dallas business and civic leaders.
"Xerox is committed to containing this coming office information explosion," he said, adding that the company is developing a total information systems capability.

Has Misgivings Over IQ Tests

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Intelligence quotient (I.Q.) test scores, used extensively in schools for years, are not accurate measures of learning ability, according to University of Minnesota researchers.
"We spend fortunes on IQ-testing every year," said S. Jay Samuels, professor in the education college. "But the IQ test is probably a biased instrument. It doesn't measure what a child is able to learn, but only what he has learned in the past."

Moose Vote End Bylaw On Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The Loyal Order of Moose has voted to end its requirement that members be Caucasians.

The organization's 85th International Convention voted Monday to delete references to race from the Moose constitution and bylaws. One delegate said the vote by show of hands was overwhelmingly in favor of the proposal. Moose officials would not comment on the vote.

More than 1,400 delegates are attending the five-day convention. The membership question had not been brought before previous conventions.

The Moose and another fraternal organization which has a similar membership provision, the Elks, have been threatened with loss of chapters' liquor licenses because of their exclusionary membership policies.

In a case involving a Pennsylvania Moose chapter, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states may grant liquor licenses to private clubs even though they practice racial discrimination. But the high court also has left stand a Maine statute barring the granting of such licenses to "whites only" clubs. That case involved the Elks. Thus states may grant licenses to such clubs but are not required to do so.

The Elks will hold their convention in Chicago in June. The Rev. William M. MacKenzie, a Roman Catholic priest from Middleboro, Mass., has said he will ask the convention to change the admissions policy. Father MacKenzie said he jointed the Elks as an avowed foe of the policy.

Middleboro scoutmaster William F. Ezell, who is black, headed the Elks-sponsored troop and applied for lodge membership, but was turned down. He brought suit and the case still is in the courts.

Three Injured In Monday Mishap

Three persons were reported injured in a 4:25 p.m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of Elm Street and Overlook Drive.

Police reported cars driven by Janet Waters Garris of 2402 East Third St. and Floyd Elliott Mattheis of 1402 Evergreen Dr. were involved in the collision and damage was estimated at $300 to the Garris car and $250 to the Mattheis auto.

Police reported Mrs. Garris and two passengers in her vehicle were injured as was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Moderate Fire Damage Monday

Greenville firemen reported moderate damage resulted to a house at 210 Line Ave. about 9:40 p.m. when a fire erupted there.

Fire officers said the blaze apparently resulted from a short circuit in a television which ignited window curtains. The fire spread from the curtains and found its way into the attic of the home.

The sugar pine, found from southern Oregon to lower California is the largest of all pines.

How I wrote a check for more money than I had in the bank and lived to tell about it.

Talk about hair-raising episodes in a person's life. I mean, my husband isn't one to kid about money, you know?

Well, I had just opened a Cash Guarantee Account at Planters National Bank. And I'm walking down the street and I see some things I need that are on sale, but I don't have enough money in our checking account to buy them. So I just go on and write a check anyway because I know Cash Guarantee will automatically put enough money in my checking account to cover the check. And leave me with a little besides.

So I got home and I said look, Rocky, at the things I got on sale today. And I overdrew our checking account to do it so what do you think about that, ha, ha.

Rocky made this horrible gurgling sound and started running around the kitchen table after me. I was running so fast, but I finally managed to get out something about Cash Guarantee Account and how it had helped me save all that money because I could shop the sale and all.

That slowed him down a little. So I told him how we could use Cash Guarantee for emergencies and how convenient it was because it was just like writing yourself a loan when you needed one, from $500 to $5000.

Well, that was all it took. Now Rocky thinks I'm brilliant about money, which is why he let me tell my story to the world.

So if you want to be safe and smart about money at the same time, go to Planters and open your own Cash Guarantee Account. Believe me, you can't find a better friend to save your life. I know.
