

Can't Recall Asking CIA Help 'Conflict' By Ehrlichman

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman blames a former deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency for its role in the Watergate coverup.

And the former White House adviser says he can't recall asking for CIA assistance that E. Howard Hunt used in the Ellsberg burglary.

Ehrlichman's testimony conflicts with that of present and former CIA officials. The Senate Appropriations subcommittee on intelligence today called former presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman to give his version in a closed session.

Ehrlichman testified behind closed doors Wednesday, then gave newsmen a 17-page transcript of his prepared testimony. The question-and-answer portion of his testimony wasn't released.

Ehrlichman said he wouldn't have ordered restrictions on the FBI's Watergate investigation last year if CIA Deputy Director Vernon Walters had stated flatly that there was no danger of uncovering secret CIA operations in Mexico.

But instead, Ehrlichman said, Walters gave an "equivocal response" during a meeting in June 1972, shortly after the Watergate raid. Haldeman and former CIA Director Richard Helms also were at the meeting.

On the Ellsberg matter, Ehrlichman said he hasn't the faintest recollection of making a telephone call which former CIA Deputy Director Robert Cushman swears he received around July 7, 1971.

Ehrlichman said it is possible someone else called Cushman and used his name. He also said Cushman wrote him a memorandum earlier this year saying he couldn't recall who made the telephone call.

On May 11 Cushman gave a sworn affidavit to House investigators saying he received the call from Ehrlichman, who "stated that Howard Hunt was a bona fide employee, a consultant on security matters, and that Hunt would come to see me and request assistance which Mr. Ehrlichman requested that I give."

Subsequently Hunt obtained disguises, forged identification, a camera, a recorder and other gear used in the burglary Sept. 3, 1971, of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a Beverly Hills, Calif., psychiatrist who treated Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—Rep. Charles H. Wilson, chairman of a House Post Office subcommittee, asked Postmaster General E. T. Klassen to investigate reports that mail intended for two Democratic presidential candidates last year was tampered with by the Post Office.

George B. Gould, an aide to Wilson, said he has learned that some mail of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was read and copied in the Washington Post Office during Muskie's New Hampshire campaign, and that letters intended for Sen. George McGovern were tampered with while the South Dakotan was campaigning in Florida.

—A tentative Sept. 11 trial date was set in New York for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, financier Robert Vesco and New Jersey Republican leader Harry Searns in connection with a secret donation to President Nixon's 1972 campaign. U.S. District Court Judge Lee Gagliardi said the trial could come even earlier.

The four are charged with obstruction of justice and conspiracy.

—U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica approved a Justice Department request for a 20-day delay in granting immunity to ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III and Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon campaign. The two are seeking immunity from prosecution for whatever they testify before the Senate Watergate committee.

Henry Hall Wilson Announces Bid To Win Ervin's Seat

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—Henry Hall Wilson announced today that he is leaving his position as president of the Chicago Board of Trade to run for the U.S. Senate in 1974.

Wilson announced at an outdoor news conference that he will seek the North Carolina Senate seat held by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., which, Wilson said, in a prepared statement, "will fall vacant next year."

"I do not like the way this country is being run, and I intend to do something to do about it," Wilson said.

The Monroe native said he suffered "grave concern about the impact of the disclosures of recent weeks in creating disillusion of the public...with the conduct of public affairs."

"I think that through the years North Carolina has not received the attention it deserves, either from the federal government or from the national business establishment," he said.

"I think that if elected to the Senate...I can change this," Wilson, a Democrat said.

To support his candidacy, Wilson, 51, cited his six years working in the White House under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson as legislative liaison. He also has served in the North Carolina Legislature and has completed six years as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, principal commodity market in the United States.

Wilson said he spoke with Ervin, for whom he professed "the warmest respect", before announcing his candidacy. However, he said that he will make the race even if Ervin decides to seek reelection.

Wilson said he has no campaign organization at present and declined to disclose the names of any prominent supporters, but, he said, "I wouldn't be here if I didn't think I could do it."

In a question and answer session on the steps of a Monroe home he is purchasing, Wilson said if elected he would support a constitutional amendment to prohibit busing of school children out of their neighborhoods and work for a cutoff of funds for the bombing of Cambodia.

Watergate investigator Ervin, 76, has held the Senate seat since 1954.

The other Senate seat from North Carolina is held by a Republican, Jesse Helms, who won it last year.

Ervin also is to be in North Carolina today. He is to hold a news conference in Winston-Salem at 4:30 p.m., and then be a guest there at a private, $50-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner. Then he will attend a rally and reception at a convention center. The sponsoring Forsyth County Democratic party expects about 3,000 party members from Forsyth and neighboring counties to attend the rally and reception.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Red Cross chapter, said that an unprecedented number of disasters in the United States this year have affected thousands of families and left hundreds homeless.

Mrs. Taylor explained that the funds presented by the Pitt United Fund will be used where needed to assist families in recovering from the recent floods, tornadoes, and explosions.

Widely Ranging Talks

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — President Georges Pompidou of France warned President Nixon today that there would be "great danger" in any unilateral cutback of America's 300,000 strong military force in Europe.

In the first session of the French-American summit conference, the two leaders ranged widely over the problems confronting the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Their exchanges were "very useful and constructive," a French spokesman said after the 2½-hour meeting which ran on 30 minutes beyond its scheduled span.

While Nixon and Pompidou were focusing on the political and strategic issues of the transatlantic partnership, their foreign and finance ministers were meeting separately on the more practical and technical problems that divide the United States and France.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Michel Jobert examined the tense situation in the Mideast, in Vietnam where a frail peace settlement is barely hanging together and in Cambodia where fighting persists. On each of these issues there were gaps between the two sides.

On the money, trade and economic front, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing discussed ways in which key governments can act to help restore a stable world monetary system. Here, too, American and French ideas differed.

Hijack Ransom Raised

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The hijackers of a Colombian airliner today dropped their demands for the release of 140 leftist prisoners here but raised their money ransom from $200,000 to $400,000.

The four-engine turboprop Electra was on the ground in Aruba, a Dutch island in the Caribbean north of Venezuela.

The aircraft took off from there before dawn today with the two masked hijackers and their hostages for Lima, Peru, but it was forced to return to Aruba because the engines' oil ran low.

A report from Princess Beatrix Airport in Aruba said the hijackers then permitted 33 women and children to leave the aircraft for food and medical attention. That left 56 passengers and crewmen remaining on board with the hijackers.

The plane was hijacked in Colombia Wednesday by the hijackers armed with submachine guns. Early today the Colombian government rejected the hijackers' original demands. Later the pilot, Capt. Jorge Lucena, reported to his superiors in Colombia that this irritated the hijackers and that the situation had become tense.

Price Of Gold At Record High

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold jumped $1 an ounce to a record $115 at today's opening of the London gold market. But by midmorning the five main dealers had pulled the price back 50 cents.

Dealers said turnover was moderate in London, the only major European center open during the Ascension Day holiday.

The U.S. dollar weakened further in relation to the British pound. The pound opened at $2.5650, then moved up to $2.5680.

GRIFTON — Dr. J.O. Carson of Grifton has been named to fill the unexpired term of Sam Nelson on the Pitt County Board of Education.

Nelson's resignation is effective with the July meeting of the school board.

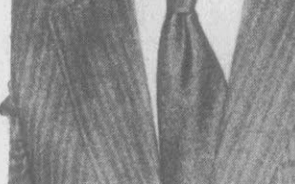

A Bethel native, Dr. Carson has been a family physician in Grifton for the past 18 years. Prior to that he practiced in Spring Hope for one year.

Dr. Carson graduated from Bethel High School. He received his B.S. degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel and attended the UNC-CH School of Medicine for two years. He received his M.D. degree from the University of Maryland.

A member of the board of directors of First Citizens Bank, Dr. Carson has served on the Grifton Advisory Council and the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council for four years. He is also a member of the Pitt County Diabetic Association's board of directors.

Dr. Carson is a past president of the Jaycees and was named recipient of the Key Man Award one year. He is also a past president of the Lions Club.

DR. J.O. CARSON

Dr. Carson is a member of the Grifton United Methodist Church where he serves on the administrative board.

He is married to the former Connie Ruth Hill of Wilmington and they have three children, Cindy, 17, Janet, 15, and Amy, 10. He is the son of Mrs. Don Carson Sr. of Bethel and the late Mr. Carson.

"I consider it an honor and a privilege to serve Pitt County in this way," Carson said. "I will strive to live up to the current standards of the present members of the board."

Nelson said he feels Dr. Carson is very capable of serving on the board. "He has a great interest in education and is a very capable replacement."

Nelson began serving as a board member in October, 1966. He spent approximately 20 years as a member of the Grifton Advisory Council.

For Rights Of Unborn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abortions, except to save the life of the mother, would end under a constitutional amendment proposed today by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.-N.Y.

The amendment would establish that fetuses are persons entitled to constitutional and legal protection. In its recent decision on abortions, the Supreme Court held that fetuses are not persons in the whole sense and that they do not possess the capability of meaningful life.

Buckley took issue with the court's finding and said the terms of the amendment would specifically establish that unborn children are persons within the meaning of the 5th and 14th amendments to the Constitution.

On the money, trade and economic front, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing discussed ways in which key governments can act to help restore a stable world monetary system. Here, too, American and French ideas differed.

Tornado Expert Warns N.C. Ordeal Not Over Yet

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina is having its worst tornado season on record as the result of an unusual combination of winds, temperatures and humidities.

Since weather tends to repeat itself, the danger is not yet over, says Allen Pearson, the nation's top tornado expert.

Pearson, who is with the National Severe Storm Forecast Center in Kansas City, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Wednesday that series of tornadoes that swept across the South Sunday, Monday and Tuesday resulted from a shift in the jetstream thousands of feet above the earth.

Pearson noted that four conditions are necessary before tornadoes can form: high humidity, temperatures above 70 degrees, strong southerly winds near the ground and a jetstream flowing from the west or west southwest in the upper atmosphere.

He explained that the jetstream is the layman's term for winds traveling at 80 to 200 miles per hour in a belt perhaps several hundred miles at 25,000 to 30,000 feet.

It had been running on an axis from Tucson, Ariz., to Jacksonville, Fla. But it weakened there and reformed farther to the north, running roughly from Oklahoma City to Nashville, Tenn. "This is when it really hit the fan all over the South," Pearson said. "It was the worst outbreak of tornadoes the country has ever had. It's just fortunate that none of them hit a populous center."

Pearson said a tornado forms underneath a squall line of thunderstorms 50,000 feet in the air. Winds in the core of the storm can blow straight up at more than 50 miles an hour.

When they do, air is sucked from ground level. The rising column of air is given a "twist" by the quartering, southerly winds below the thunderstorm.

"It starts going faster and faster, just like the water draining from a bathtub, except in reverse," Pearson said.

He added that the peculiar combination of winds, temperature and humidity that spawns tornadoes should not occur more than once every three or four years.

But, he added, weather tends to repeat itself so that somewhere in the South, tornadoes might strike again before summer.

But, if they don't, North Carolina has already had more than enough.

Since Sunday, he said, the U.S. Weather Service has confirmed 12 tornadoes in the state. There had been three others earlier, making a total of 15 thus far this year.

The previous record in North Carolina for May was six in 1954; the most for any one year was 12 in 1964.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

It's time to revive timbales — those creamy baked mixtures of poultry, fish or cheese that were all the rage in grandmother's day. Years ago these mixtures were cooked in drum-shaped individual tin molds called timbales. But nowadays custard cups are used. For a salmon timbale use the following recipe. When it was tested in our kitchen our tasters thought it just right.

SALMON TIMBALES

1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
3/4 cup milk
1 can (1 pound) or 2 cans (each 7 3/4 ounces) salmon, undrained
4 eggs, lightly beaten
2 tablespoons sherry
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper

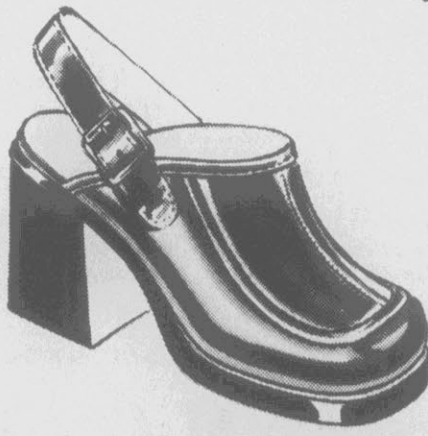

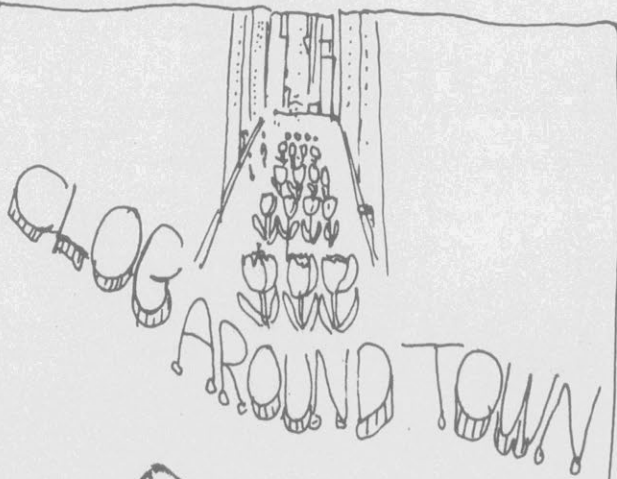

In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat melt butter; stir in crumbs, onion and parsley and cook, stirring often, until crumbs begin to take on a golden color. Stir in milk and, stirring constantly, cook until hot — about 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Add salmon with its liquid and flake; add eggs, sherry, salt and pepper; mix well. Turn into 6 six-ounce buttered custard cups.

Set cups in a shallow pan containing about 1 inch of hot water. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a silver knife inserted near center comes out clean — about 30 minutes.

Run a small spatula around edge of cups and invert on a serving platter or individual plates. Serve with cooked green peas and mushroom sauce. Makes 6 servings.

400 recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Feel Compelled To Speak Out

More and more North Carolinians of prominence are feeling compelled to speak out in favor of the development of the medical school at East Carolina University to a full four-year degree granting institution.

Sen. Ralph Scott, chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, has informed the Board of Governor's study committee of his feelings on the matter. "We should go ahead and get a two-year medical school started at East Carolina University, looking forward to a four-year school," Sen. Scott told the out-of-state study team in a letter.

"The people believe they do need an additional medical school and that it should be at Greenville," Scott said. "The people are not even listening to anything that the (medical) folks are saying which, as they see it, this committee is just sent here to make it look regular and that (the committee) knows the answer before they get here."

He said eventually the school will be expanded by the politicians, and it should not have to be done this way "because it should come from leaders in the health leadership field."

Like all the Scotts, Ralph Scott has never been known for mincing words. He has, however, been astute in keeping up with the needs of the people. He sees the need for development of the ECU medical school and he has had the courage to tell the study team so.

Also this month, Marse Grant, editor of the influential Biblical Recorder, the Baptist publication, endorsed the expansion of the ECU medical school.

He said people of the east lacked adequate medical care and that construction of the four-year medical facility appears to be a certainty. He praised the General Assembly for setting up a $7.5 million medical school reserve fund and he said he favored any move which will improve North Carolina health care, particularly in small towns and rural areas.

It would have been just as easy for these leaders, and others who are speaking out now, to say nothing on the ECU medical school question, particularly in view of the vehement opposition of powerful little groups. Like so many leaders, however, they have obviously reached the conclusion that they have to speak out on an issue which so much involves the health and welfare of their fellow Tar Heels. They are to be commended for it.

Vital Role For National Guard

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — Living up to its proud history, the National Guard is taking on a vital new role in the nation's pattern of defense.

Guardsmen from Tar Heel communities, and their comrades across the country, are undergoing training at a level of intensity unsurpassed in peacetime. The goal is to demonstrate that, in the event they are needed, Guard troops can be prepared for combat alongside the regular Army.

Guard readiness as a component of reserve capability is a key factor to the success of the Volunteer Army and Zero Draft concept.

"It's a serious challenge," said Brig. Gen. William M. Buck, acting state adjutant general. "It demands of us a proficiency unheard of before."

The National Guard's place in the defense establishment is no longer back-up but front line, Gen. Buck emphasized at a briefing last weekend.

The defense picture coming into focus out of Washington envisions that in any future emergency build-up of the armed services, the initial and primary source will be from the National Guard and Reserve rather than the draft. Some 45 per cent of the nation's total defense capabilities are now in the National Guard or Army Reserve.

N.C. Guard Strength
North Carolina has approximately 11,200 National Guardsmen. The total includes 7,469 troops in the 30th Infantry Division (Mechanized), which the state shares with South Carolina and Georgia. The Division has some 3,095 in its South Carolina elements, and 3,462 in Georgia.

The Guardsmen of Old Hickory, nickname for the 30th, are part of the 400,000 officers and enlisted men of the Army National Guard which is the largest of the organized Reserve components of any of the service. There are more than 3,000 units in some 2,000 different communities throughout the 50 states.

For these weekend warriors, citizens drawn from all walks of life, there is a stepped-up tempo in the inactive duty schedule of year-round training and heightened activity for summer field exercises.

The pace is particularly intense for the 30th division, chosen by the Defense Department as the experimental unit for a test to determine if the training time after mobilization can be cut from ten to six weeks.

A Critical Experiment
Designated Test Two, it is one of 11 initiated by the office of the Defense Secretary to validate the concept of relying upon the National Guard and Reserve forces. The outcome can be expected to weigh heavily in the U.S. military structure of the late '70s.

The climax for the test, spanning 18 months and costing millions of dollars, will come at the 30th Division's annual encampment at Fort Stewart, Ga. Its performance in a staged war game against regular Army troops will be evaluated by a military team to measure the degree of training proficiency attained.

Due to Test Two, the summer training for the 30th will span a month-long period, from July 28 to August 27. However, individual units will be phased into and out of training during the period so that most individual Guardsmen will not be required to spend more than two weeks at camp.

Test Two presents the 30th Division with its greatest challenge since its role in World War II, said Maj. Gen. Daniel K. Edwards of Durham, commanding general. Gen. Edwards distinguished himself in that conflict, later served as assistant Secretary of the Army in the administration of President Truman.

Gallant History
Old Hickory and its men passed with flying colors the World War II trial by fire. Mobilized late in 1940, the Division was deactivated five years and some 20,000 Purple Hearts later after earning the title "Workhorse of the Western Front."

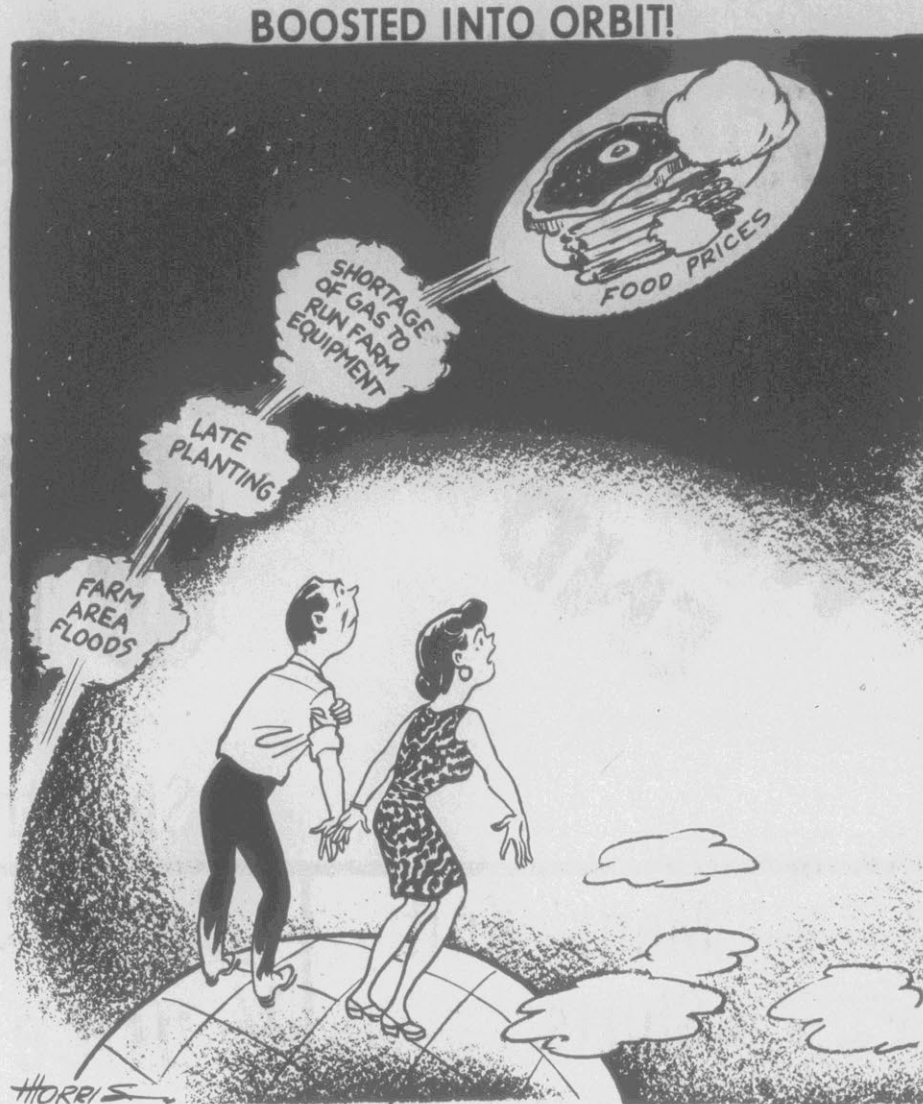

That added a chapter to its gallant history. During World War I, the 30th was credited with cracking the Hindenburg Line.

North Carolina units of the 30th claim ancestry from such organizations as the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, second oldest military unit in the United States, organized in 1793.

The National Guard is unique in its dual role. It is subject to the call of the Governor for state emergencies, such as civil disorder and natural disaster. It also answers the President in national emergencies.

Test Two has cut red tape and loosened purse strings in equipping the 30th Division. Instead of Army hand-me-downs of the past, it is acquiring first-class equipment. For example, the North Carolina National Guard now has more than 50 helicopters worth more than Four-Year House Terns?

In his radio address of May 16, dealing with reform of Federal election laws, President Nixon touched lightly on two heavyweight proposals for changing the structure of our government.

By implication, he appeared to support the view of "many political scientists" that a President should be elected for a single, non-renewable six-year term. He also recalled that he himself long had favored four-year terms for members of the House, "with half of the 17-member Commission on Federal Election Reform consider the proposition.

These are old proposals, many times considered, and as many times rejected.

Throughout most of the Convention of 1787, the delegates appeared wedded to the idea of a President, chosen by Congress, for a non-renewable term of seven years. It wasn't until the last two weeks of the convention that a four-year term, without limitation, was agreed to.

The idea of a single six-year term was briefly revived 25 years ago, in debates on the 22nd amendment, but talk faded when agreement was reached on a two-term limitation. Political scientists still may think highly of the six-year plan, but no popular support can be discerned. The objection is well taken, it seems to me, that six years is too long for a poor President, while eight years is enough for even a good one.

Nixon's second proposal, that members of the House be named for four-year terms, has a good deal more in its favor. The idea gathered momentum after the Civil War and in 1906 won ringing endorsement from the House Judiciary Committee before the resolution was defeated on the floor. Again in 1923, a similar amendment got out of committee. Lyndon Johnson strongly endorsed the plan in 1966. Now Nixon has revived the debate.

The arguments, pro and con, have changed little through the years.

Proponents of a four-year term observe that the work of the House has increased greatly, both in complexity and in volume, since the two-year term was fixed in 1787. It is contended that it takes longer for a congressman to master the issues before him. In sharply contested districts, it is urged, a member of the House serves for his first year and campaigns — expensively — in his second. If the entire House were elected to coincide with a President's term, the incoming President presumably would have a better chance of getting his program through.

One more advantage was expressed vividly by the House committee in 1923: "With an election every two years the political grafter who thrives on partisan strife and on the nervous uncertainty controlling candidates for office is able to live from one election to another by the bundle secured at his unholy business. The adoption of the proposed amendment would render it less possible for this creature to ply his trade."

Opponents of the four-year term, in my own view, have the better case. It is unclear, under the Nixon proposal, how districts would be divided in the first instance, so that half the seats might be filled in 1976, the other half in

Rouse Admits A Rift Exists

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH—Reports of a rift between North Carolina Republican Party Chairman Frank Rouse and gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson have not been exaggerated in the least.

"He's (Anderson's) sitting over there in the Governor's office with 25,000 jobs," Rouse told me in an interview, "and I'm sitting here shuffling papers and there's no way I can be effective. I don't agree with Mr. Anderson on a lot of things he does. But if there's a war going on, I'm the one on the defensive. I don't have anything to wage war with."

The interview with Rouse covered several subjects, but later it came back to Anderson.

"Some people who stay in politics a long time become eat up with hate," Rouse said. "Mr. Anderson has a severe dislike for a number of people in the Republican Party and I'm maybe at the top of that list."

"He (Anderson) took the offensive on this soon after he got in his present position. I was a little paranoid about it for 60 or 90 days, but for the past two months I sort of accepted it. I am, however, keeping my flanks covered."

Question: How are you and Gov. Holshouser getting along?
Rouse: "Some people made a big production out of this because of what I did in the primary. (Rouse supported Jim Gardner in the GOP primary). After the primary I worked as hard as possible for Gov. Holshouser. He knows this, and he's been as nice and as cordial to me as any fellow could."

Question: Will you seek another term as GOP chairman?
Rouse: "I don't know and I'm being honest. I've been away from my business and little girl for two years. I don't know how to do anything in moderation. I go wide open or nothing. I'll have to wait and see what happens and what people want."

Question: What do you think about the Legislature that just adjourned, the job that it did?

Rouse: "I think it's fantastic. I think our 50 members were patriots to the man. And I give credit to the Democrats, a great deal of them, for putting the good of the state ahead of partisan politics. None of the real nasty purely political bills passed. The Democrats had 70 per cent of the membership over there and they could have passed anything they wanted."

Question: You criticized Attorney General Robert Morgan last week for his alleged treatment of a Republican House member. Will you expand on that?

Rouse: "Well, here you have Bobby Morgan, the top law official in the state, saying to Rep. Boger (of Davie County) that he's going to get him if it's the last thing he ever does. (Ed. Note: Morgan denied making such a statement, and denied cursing Boger). There's gossip that Mr. Morgan has been in Washington trying to tie the North Carolina Republican Party to Watergate. I don't know how in hell he's gonna do that. Bobby Morgan ought to be chasing dope pushers and cigarette smugglers but he's out running for the U.S. Senate. He's nervous because Sen. (Sam) Ervin is getting all that TV time. He made a lot of noise about running for Governor and then chickened out. Now that he's making about running for the Senate, he can't chicken out again. But he would have trouble with Sen. Ervin and he's worried about it and I think it's beginning to show."

Question: Do you think the Republican Party should take a stand one way or the other on the East Carolina University medical school controversy?

Rouse: "I don't know and I'm being honest. I've been away from my business and little girl for two years. I don't know how to do anything in moderation. I go wide open or nothing. I'll have to wait and see what happens and what people want."

Public Forum

Letters submitted for publication must be limited to 300 words, and signed.

To The Editor:

The article by Dr. John East, "The Professor and His Identity Crisis", points out a current phenomenon, but instead of helping to eradicate it, it is bound to contribute to its proliferation.

As a college professor with years of successful teaching combined with scholarly activity, I resent and protest a statement such as: "We have degraded teaching as a vital function of the university professor." What if not contempt can be expected by the public when reading such a "confession"? Had the author written his expose in first person, or, had he used the word "some" when referring to the teaching profession as a whole, the above remark might have been justified.

While it is true that some professors, either through their own inclination, or due to pressure, have neglected their primary duty in favor of research, the majority perseveres—in rather adverse circumstances—to impart knowledge with a great deal of dedication.

If we are looking for an objective answer as to why the young people of today often turn to technical institutions instead to colleges, we shall find that the blame does not lie with the American professor. The culprit is an administration (already 4½ years in power), which has brought this country to the brink of economic disaster, creating a situation in which the old, magic word "opportunity" became replaced by "joblessness".

The pursuit of pure knowledge is stimulating and rewarding. Man, however, can't live by ideas alone. The young people of today know that they live in a country in which the skilled laborer has better chances to survive than the intellectual. Obviously, not all are able to accept this reality without sinking into apathy.

When and if America becomes able to afford intellectual pursuit again, neither the student nor the professor will have identity problems.

Hunts Down Nazis

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — Beate Klarsfeld looks like—and is—a good German housewife. But she is something else: she hunts unpunished Nazis.

Mrs. Klarsfeld was running a vacuum cleaner over an Oriental rug in the living room of her Paris apartment when a reporter called to talk with her. A table was set for her bank clerk husband, due home shortly for lunch.

A quiet, honest faced woman, pregnant with her second child, the 34-year-old, red-haired housewife invited the reporter to sit with her on a sofa, then said softly:

"I will hunt them down wherever they are."

She claims she helped put German Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger out of office. Her exposure of ex-Nazi Ernst Achenbach killed his appointment to the German seat on the Common Market Commission. She also boasts she helped put a former Gestapo chief in France, Klaus Barbie, in jail in Bolivia.

Not James Bond Type
Mrs. Klarsfeld hardly looks the type for such James Bond-like activities, but she's been hunting unpunished Nazis for seven years.

"It's a moral engagement," she said in her fluent French. "Injustice revolts me. I'm not doing any witch hunt. I expose people who live unpunished like respectable people although they sent 3 million Jews to the gas chambers."

"I am a German. If a German protests, it's much stronger."

"Furthermore, perhaps I can help change the mentality of the German people. And German youth must see that there exist German adults who speak against the Nazis."

To a visitor there is little in her apartment on a comfortable, middle-class street in west Paris to indicate she is a Nazi hunter. The only traces are a tiny South American monkey, acquired on her two Barbie-hunting trips, and books she has written in the well lined bookcases. In one, the story of her life, she lists 250 Germans who dispatched French Jews and resistance fighters to the gas chambers and were con-

Canada Expects Viet Fighting

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
SAIGON (AP) — Canada has pulled out of the four-nation Vietnam peacekeeping force because it is convinced North and South Vietnam cannot be stayed from a return to fullscale warfare.

The Canadian assessment is that the weakness of the ceasefire agreement, the uncooperativeness of the Hungarian and Polish members of the ceasefire commission and the attitudes of both Vietnamese sides must lead inevitably to renewed war.

Senior Canadians in Saigon say it has become more and more apparent that the Vietnamese sides are drifting toward a "fatal acceptance" of a military rather than a political solution to their differences.

These Canadians even offered a war timetable recently. The Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are now in a position to mount limited offensive operations, they said. By the end of the monsoons in October, the Communist side probably will be able to mount an offensive on the same scale as the massive offensive in the spring of 1972, the Canadians estimated.

It was just this sort of eventuality that the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision was sent to Vietnam in February to prevent. Canada's throwing in the towel seriously weakens the peacekeeping force's potential, most observers here feel.

U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger reportedly has laid the groundwork for a tighter peace agreement in his recent talks in Paris with Le Duc Tho of the Hanoi Politburo. But reports of progress in these talks were not enough to convince the Canadian government that it would be useful to keep its people in Vietnam.

From the beginning, the Canadians were unhappy about their mission.

"This will have to be the last time Canada enters into this sort of thing without having a say in the writing of the peace agreement," one Canadian officer in the field commented.

A senior Canadian in Vietnam charged recently that the U.S. government had "betrayed" Canada by leading it to believe that "secret accords" with Moscow and Peking guaranteed that the vague provisions of the ceasefire agreement would be kept, particularly that there would be no Communist military buildup.

Other major problems developed.

The Viet Cong withdrew its field representatives because of demonstrations against them that the government staged in Hue, Da Nang and other areas. There are now no VC personnel with the commission outside Saigon.

The Viet Cong also filed few ceasefire complaints, with the result that 95 per cent of the commission's investigations were of charges by the Saigon government. Yet the commission's field teams reported obvious violations of the ceasefire by the Saigon forces that were not being reported.

One Canadian officer lamented in Qui Nhon: "We know only a tiny percentage of what is going on here."

Strength For Today

CONSCIENCE
The word "conscience" comes from two Latin words which mean "with knowledge." Our conscience, therefore, consists of that inner set of judgments which have grown up in our own hearts and which automatically react to every situation, telling us whether we are doing right or wrong. Someone has said that conscience is the man inside us who talks all night and keeps us awake. If he is offended he is a most uncogent companion, torturing us with doubts and fears. But if he approves of what we are doing he is a source of confidence and contentment. Of two things we can be certain; he will never let us go and he will always tell us what is on his mind.

Many are the characterizations which have been made of conscience. It has been likened to a torch which burns more fiercely the more we try to blow it out. But however we describe it, we know the source of its power: it is the vice regent of God in the human heart.

By-The-Drink Bill Debated

Chosen Greene Teacher Of Year

DURHAM (AP) — Liquor by the drink would encourage drunken driving and increase the consumption of alcohol, a leader of dry forces said Wednesday. His opponent in a debate on the statewide mixed-drink referendum Nov. 6 replied that mixed drinks were more likely to encourage moderation.

The debaters were the Rev. Coy Privette, president of the North Carolina Christian Action League, and Hugh Morton of Linville Falls and Wilmington, a real estate developer and promoter of tourism.

Privette, pastor of the North Kannapolis Baptist Church, said that states which most recently approved liquor by the drink are now discussing whether to legalize gambling. "To us, it's a Pandora's box," he said, "If you get one thing, you get them all."

Morton said the bill for mixed drinks is "very tough and restrictive. It is actually a tightening of liquor laws in the state." He said the bill would not allow a bartender to sell a drink to a person who appears to be intoxicated. "The brown-bagging establishments we have now don't provide this control."

Privette and Morton debated at a special forum sponsored by the Greater Durham Chamber of Commerce.

Publisher Says Paper Did Not Back Chavis

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The publisher of the Wilmington Journal, a black-oriented weekly newspaper whose office was heavily damaged by an explosion Monday night, said today the newspaper has not supported civil rights activist Ben Chavis.

The Associated Press reported earlier that the paper had supported Chavis and two other blacks, Molly and Leatrice Hicks of Wilmington, who are to be tried on charges of conspiracy after the fact in the death of a black youth in Wilmington almost two years ago.

Publisher T. C. Jervay said he supports the efforts of civil rights leaders to improve the life of blacks, but does not condone actions which lead to violence. And, he said, the paper has not specifically supported Chavis.

Gospel Sing On Saturday

WINTERVILLE—A Gospel Sing will be held at A. G. Cox Junior High School in Winterville Saturday at 8 p.m.

Groups taking part include "Together In Christ" from Bell Arthur, "The Messengers" of Winterville, "The Temples" of Greenville and "Gospel Chargers" of Winterville.

Mrs. Linda Seymour, fifth grade teacher at Maury Elementary School, was selected from a field of eight candidates to represent Greene County in the 1973-74 Teacher of the Year Contest.

Mrs. Seymour is a graduate of East Carolina University and has been a teacher in the Greene County Schools for four years. She was an active participant of many varied activities in college and her activities have continued through out her teaching career.

She has served as N.C.A.E. building representative for Maury and helped to organize a cheer-leading squad at her school, serving in the capacity of sponsor. Mrs. Seymour served as chairman of PACE for Greene County. She is an active member of all of her professional organizations and presently is serving as the new secretary of District 14 of N.C.A.E.

She uses the individualized approach with her fifth grade students and finds it most successful. Mrs. Seymour stated, "With this year nearing its end, I am looking forward to continuing my work with the cheerleaders, in the N.C.A.E., and trying some new ideas and techniques with my students. Each year I learn something new from my students, and this keeps me eager to return the next year."

Other schools represented in the county contest included: West Greene-Mrs. Judy Davenport; South Greene-Mrs. Jean Hardy; Greene Central-Mrs. Peggy Hollingsworth; East Greene-Mr. Willie Morris; Snow Hill Junior High-Mrs. Mary Shirley; North Greene-Mrs. Isolene Taylor; and Walstonburg-Mr. Retho Williams.

The Teacher of the Year Contest is sponsored by the Encyclopedia Britannica Companies, the Council of Chief State School Officers, and the Ladies Home Journal. Mrs. Seymour will enter the district competition representing Greene County in the fall.

1978. Apparently the plan would give us a four-year Congress instead of a two-year Congress, and it might make the House, like the Senate, a "continuing body."

The most serious objection, voiced by conservative political philosophers since Mason, is that four-year terms would deny the people the power of reasonable swift response to public events. Mason's idea was for "frequent, certain, and regular elections," and the two-year limitation serves to keep a Member close to his district.

Mason felt that legislators could best be restrained from oppression "by feeling and participating the Burthens of the People," and he urged that "they should, at fixed Periods, be reduced to a private Station, and return into that Body from which they were originally taken." The idea of limiting Senators to, say, three terms, and members of the House to nine, would set off a howl, but it might make sense.

Marriage and Politics
Mrs. Klarsfeld began life in a Protestant family in Berlin. Her law clerk father "voted for the Nazis because everybody else did. My parents taught me nothing about the war."

After working as a secretary, she left for Paris to work for a French family in order to learn the language. In 1963 in a subway station she met young Frenchman Serge Klarsfeld and they began a friendship that ended in marriage.

Marrying Klarsfeld began her political awakening, she said. "My father had been in German uniform. Serge hid in a closet when the Germans took his father away to the gas chamber because he was a Jew," she said.

German Mother Tires
"When our son was born we agreed he must understand that all Germans are not to blame, that his German mother had learned the lessons of the past and tried to do something."

When Kiesinger, who worked in the German foreign ministry's radio department during World war II, became West German chancellor, "My husband and I decided to protest," Mrs. Klarsfeld said. "I was working in Paris for the Franco-German friendship youth organization and I felt it was not good for German youth to see an ex-Nazi in the government. I wrote an article in a Paris newspaper about Kiesinger—and lost my job."

Prison Boss Burglarized

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—A parolee from state prison was found guilty Wednesday of burglarizing the home of the executive head of the state prison system.

A circuit court jury fixed the punishment at seven years in the State Penitentiary for Sam Westry, 32, of Norfolk. Westry pleaded not guilty to burglarizing the home of Norfolk attorney Victor J. Ashe, the Chairman of the State Board of Welfare and Institutions.

Westry was paroled in August 1970 after serving about a quarter of his 20-year prison term for the pistol slaying of an Oceana-based sailor in 1963.

Before Judge Robert S. Wahab Jr. imposed sentence, Westry asked him that if there "was any way in your power to eliminate part of the sentence, I'd appreciate it."

The judge overruled a defense motion to suspend part or all of the sentence and to order a presentence report on Westry because "it would disturb the verdict of the jury."

Westry was convicted in February of the burglary last October of a local welding company. For that offense he was sentenced to five years in prison, a term that will run consecutively with Wednesday's sentence.

He still faces another charge of burglary for the break-in last October of a local department store.

Among Students On Dean's List

PETERSBURG, Va.—Mamie E. Maye of Greenville, N.C., was named to the dean's list at Virginia State College here for the past semester.

She was one of 555 students named to the list. Twenty-six of the students achieved a perfect grade point average of 4.0 and the remaining 529 had average grades ranging from a high of 3.9 to a range of 3.0 to 3.4 (B or better).

against him and seven other enlisted men — five soldiers and three Marines — who were held at the Hanoi prison called the Plantation.

The complaint was filed by Col. Theodore Guy of Tucson, Ariz. He was taken prisoner when he was shot down over Laos on March 22, 1968.

"I couldn't believe it at first," Branch told newsmen Wednesday night. "That's why I had to get away for a couple of days."

Branch's attorney, William Hagedorn of Newport, said the suit will seek damages for defamation of Branch and his parents.

He said Branch also was concerned that the charges might upset current divorce litigation against his wife, Marilyn, in Indianapolis, Ind. The custody of their two children is at stake, Hagedorn said.

Lifer 00001 In Tiny Grave

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — B.J. is gone, a lifetime served honorably behind prison walls without being charged, convicted or sentenced.

B.J., listed as Lifer 00001, now is in a tiny grave in a flowered garden tended by the men serving life terms at the Washington State Penitentiary.

A small metal plaque says simply:

"B.J. The Cat, lifer. Born here, died here."

"He was a pretty good ol' cat," said lifer John Hawkins.

"There's a lot of people around here who miss him. You see a little cat walkin' along, it kind of makes you feel a little different."

B.J. showed up mysteriously as a tiny kitten inside Lifer's Acre several years ago.

Although prison rules forbid inmates to have pets, the cat, promptly named B.J., was tolerated.

Grant To Boost 'Horsepower'

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — "Horsepower" is getting a boost, thanks to a $131,000 grant from the federal Manpower Development and Training Act to the former Walnut Hall Stud Farm here in the heart of the Bluegrass.

The funds will be used to train horsemen in starting classes at the Kentucky State Horse Park here with a class of 19 enrolled for the initial class in equestrian skills.

The enlisted men are charged in the complaint with cooperating with the enemy. Branch, 26, also is charged with insulting Air Force Maj. Edward Leonard of Winlock, Wash., in October 1971.

Talking with newsmen aboard Hagedorn's houseboat on the Ohio River, Branch said of the alleged insult: "Somebody said something. It wasn't me."

Branch disputed reports from officers that a command and communication system had been set up in prison camps—at least for most of his imprisonment of four years and 10 months. He said there was little communication between officers and enlisted men even though they were in the same compound.

"When the war was coming to an end, and this is my own opinion, Col. Guy and the other officers started making a show of order," Branch said.

"I'm sure they wanted to show that they had a chain of command and they could do it with the pressure off. The North Vietnamese showed that they didn't want any trouble by then either."

Branch said he couldn't understand why he and his cellmates were singled out by Guy.

"He and the other officers did what the North Vietnamese made them do. We did what we had to do," Branch said.

Branch was captured by the Viet Cong on a beach near Pleiku in 1968. He said he had gone there to think after receiving "a Dear John letter from my wife."

He admitted signing a statement that "I was a deserter, to stop the beatings. I also made some radio tapes ... but I'm surprised if they used any of them, I was crying so hard."

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both Catholics. My husband wants to join the Masonic Order. I say the Masons will not take a Catholic. My husband says they will. If he is right and joins the Masons, I say if the Catholic church finds out about it they will kick him out, and he won't be able to receive communion with his family, and when he dies they won't give him the last rites.

Something else that I never could understand: Why can't a Catholic be a Mason, too?

IN THE DARK

DEAR IN: The Masons WILL accept Catholics, but a Catholic who joins the Masons forfeits his right to receive the sacraments, and he will be canonically excommunicated from the Catholic church. [You can't "kick" a Catholic out of the church—he can attend church if he wants to, but he can't receive the sacraments.]

The Catholics view Masonry as a formal religion, and one cannot be a Catholic and a Mason for the same reason that one cannot be a Catholic and a Lutheran or a Catholic and a Mohammedan at the same time.

DEAR ABBY: I am now a grown man, but when I was a child my parents never forced me to eat anything I didn't like, and I never suffered from it. I now tend to follow that approach with my own children. I have divorced and remarried, and my present wife and I have my children from my previous marriage for many weekends and most of the summer.

We get along fine, except at mealtime. My wife feels that children should be made to eat food they don't like, on the theory that it is good for them, and they will grow to like it. The children have made an honest effort to try certain foods which don't appeal to them, but they simply don't like certain things. My wife tends to prepare at least one thing at every meal that the children don't like, and it is a constant hassle at mealtime.

We have agreed to let you arbitrate and will abide by your decision.

FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Angry arguments at mealtime are bad for the digestion. I vote for a compromise. If the kids are too picky and don't like too many things, for nutrition's sake, bear down. But don't force food on them just to prove your wife's authority over them. That's not fair.

DEAR ABBY: I've been putting this off for so many years I am ashamed of myself, but now I must do something about it.

When I was very young I had an illegitimate daughter. When she was 2, I married a fine man, and we had three children of our own. All four children think my husband is their father.

My husband never legally adopted my first child. She just used his last name, and it has gone on like that ever since.

This first daughter is now 44 years old, and one day in order to get old age benefits she will have to have a birth certificate. I seem to recall that when she was an infant I destroyed it for fear she [or someone else] would find it.

I don't want her to know the circumstances of her birth, but I think I am cornered. Can you help me?

TROUBLED MIND

DEAR TROUBLED: The laws vary in different states. Talk to a lawyer. He may be able to help you get another birth certificate without disclosing the facts. It's worth a try.

PRINCETON, N.J., May 30 — John Connally, a strong potential contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976, runs far behind Massachusetts Sen. Edward Kennedy in an early trial heat of the bicentennial presidential race in 1976: 50 to 36 per cent.

By way of comparison, Kennedy defeated Agnew in a test election released 1st month, 51 to 38 per cent.

The latest survey was taken less than a week after Connally announced his switch from the Democratic party to the GOP.

A Gallup survey conducted last month, prior to Connally's switch to the Republican party, found he was the third choice of Republicans for their party's nomination in 1976 behind Vice President Spiro Agnew and California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Connally, a former Texas governor, receives his greatest regional support from the South where he and Kennedy are nearly even (46 to 41 per cent). Winning over the traditionally Democratic South was a major factor in President Nixon's 1968 victory, and may be important again in 1976. The South contains 147 of the 270 electoral votes needed to elect the President.

One factor that may account, in part, for Connally's showing is his lack of political "visibility." According to a Gallup survey released last month, 89 per cent of those questioned has heard something about Kennedy while only 71 per cent identified Connally.

Kennedy receives considerably more support among Democrats than Connally does among Republicans. Although Connally led the "Democrats for Nixon" drive during the 1972 presidential campaign, it should be noted that he only recently became a Republican officially.

VOTE BY GROUPS

Analysis of the current findings shows Kennedy defeating Connally in most major population groups. Kennedy receives his most substantial support from a looming "Kennedy coalition": non-whites (where his margin is 9 to 1), young people (3 to 1) and those at the lower end of the economic scale. Kennedy also enjoys a 2-to-1 margin over Connally among blue-collar workers, a group Nixon appealed to in the 1972 campaign in his attempt to forge a new Republican majority.

Connally, Nixon's former Secretary of the Treasury and present adviser, receives his greatest support from those in the professions, business and other white-collar vocations, the college-educated and those in the highest income bracket.

Here are the questions asked in the survey:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If John Connally were the Republican candidate and Sen. Edward Kennedy were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

All those who indicated another preference or had no opinion were then asked:

"As of today, who you lean more to, Connally or Kennedy?"

The results, nationally and by groups, with results to both questions combined:

Flood Death Toll Now 11

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death toll from Memorial Day weekend flooding in North Carolina has risen to 11 with the recovery Wednesday of the body of the last known missing person.

The body of Jason Roberts, 26, who lived in a mobile home in the Cane Creek section of Buncombe County near Asheville was found Wednesday evening about four miles downstream from the mobile home park where he lived.

Roberts' mobile home was destroyed early Monday by rampaging creek waters after a deluge of rainfall in western North Carolina's rugged mountains. Ten other bodies have been recovered in the western part of the state since the storm.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday, W.D. Swift, vice president of property claims services of the American Insurance Association, estimated that tornadoes spawned by the severe storms did $1.2 billion in damage in North Carolina.

The flood damage has not yet been tabulated but is expected to run into the millions of dollars.

Seek To Close Nuclear Plants

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader and a national environmentalists' group today asked a federal court to shut down 20 large nuclear power plants in 12 states, saying they threaten the lives of millions of Americans.

In a suit against the Atomic Energy Commission, Nader and the Friends of the Earth—FOE, which claims 20,000 members, charged that the AEC has violated the atomic energy act and its own power-plant safety regulations.

Specifically, they charged the commission with "illegality ... (in) ... continuing to permit the operation of certain nuclear power plants without requiring adequate protection for the health and safety of the public by way of effective and re-

Bar Owners To Pay Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — The owners of a bar have agreed to pay $1.1 million to a man injured in an automobile accident allegedly caused by one of the bar's patrons.

The settlement was approved Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesch on the basis of a 1971 state Supreme Court decision which held that bartenders and bar owners are responsible for injuries caused by obviously intoxicated persons they continue to serve.

Attorney Bruce Walkup brought the suit on behalf of Howard Bennett, 62, a former history professor, and his wife Elizabeth. Bennett sustained brain damage in the 1968 crash and has been hospitalized since.

The Saviors Union of the Pacific, which operates the bar, bartender Tom Commins and bar manager Jack Wilson were defendants in the suit.

DEADLY FIREBALL—A ball of fire rises from the inside wall where Swede Savage's STP racer hit the inside retaining wall coming out of the fourth turn during the Indianapolis 500-mile Race Wednesday.

The racer disintegrated on impact and slid down the straightaway, seriously injuring Savage. A member of his pit crew was killed when struck by a fire truck as he ran to aid the driver. (AP Wirephoto)

Gordon Johncock Captures Win In Jinxed Indianapolis Event

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 57th Indianapolis 500-mile race ended as it began—in tragedy and in the rain.

Gordon Johncock was awarded the victory Wednesday, two weeks after Art Pollard was killed in a crash during practice, two days after David "Salt" Walther was burned badly in an aborted start of the race, and two hours after driver Swede Savage was critically injured and a crewman killed.

The triumph by the small and dapper Johncock was witnessed by an estimated 20,000 spectators surrounded by more than 200,000 empty seats at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

"I have been running races for 18 years, a lot of them very frustrating, but this has made it all worth it," said Johncock.

The race was red-flagged to a halt after 133 laps—332½ miles—because of rain. When asked if he was happy the rain came, Johncock replied: "No, I'd like to have seen it go 500 miles."

Johncock averaged 159.014 miles per hour for the shortest race in the event's long history. The race was over in 2 hours, 5 minutes and 27.66 seconds.

The 36-year-old Johncock is expected to get more than $200,000 in prize money from the third straight Indy purse of more than $1 million.

Johncock beat Billy Vukovich by 1 minute, 25 seconds, while third place went unofficially to Roger McCluskey. Mel Kenyon placed fourth and Gary Bettenhausen was fifth.

Savage, 26, of Santa Ana, Calif., was involved in the second serious accident in his career. He was critically injured in a sports car race at Ontario, Calif., in 1971.

He was reported in critical condition at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis with fractured legs and burns on his face, arms and right hand.

Armando Teran, a 22-year-old bachelor from Culver City, Calif., died about one hour after he was struck by a fire truck driving the wrong way on the pit road while it hurried toward Savage's accident.

Five former Indy champs, the most in one race since the 1920s, were not on the track at the end of the race.

Three-time winner A. J. Foyt Jr. lost out with two cars, breaking something in his own No. 14 Coyote, then hopping into teammate George Snider's No. 84 and running into more mechanical trouble.

Defending champ Mark Donohue, 1970 and 1971 champ Al Unser, 1969 champ Mario Andretti and Bobby Unser, who won in 1968, all met the same fate. Polesitter Johnny Rutherford, never really in the running, was only one of 11 drivers still moving when the final red flag came.

Sluggers Up Four More Months Like May Are M-K-S Slips By Lead In Purple All Walston Wants For Dodgers Morris Into 1st

The Little Sluggers gained ground in the City Softball League's Purple Division last night with a victory, while Four Seasons and Dainty Maid remained tied for the lead in the Gold Division.

In the opener at Field Two, Greenville Utilities gained a 13-11 victory over Morgan Printers. Morgan picked up one in the first, but Greenville Utilities came back to pick up seven in their half of the first. Morgan added another in the third, while GUCo also got one. In the fourth, Morgan picked up three more, but three more by GUCo, all on a homer by Rouse, kept them ahead. Morgan pulled four more in the sixth, but in the bottom of the frame, GUCo got what proved to be the winning runs. Outland singled and scored on Herring's triple. Heath then singled in Herring for a 13-9 lead. Morgan added two more in the seventh, but that was it.

In the second game, Dainty Maid rolled to a 16-7 win over Proctor's. Dainty Maid scored six runs in the first inning, then came back with four in the second to put it away. Smith Worthington doubled and Bob Harris. Powell came around on a hit by Dwight Foster and a sacrifice fly by Billy Bateman scored Tripp with the 10th run. Dainty Maid added three in the third, one in the fifth, another in the sixth, and one more in the seventh. Proctor's scored one in the fourth, three in the fifth and three more in the seventh.

The last game at Field Two, saw Parker's rolled to a 14-1 win over Union Carbide. Parker's got all it needed in the third, scoring four runs. Bruce Gray doubled and Jay Boswell reached on a run-scoring error. He scored on a passed ball. J. Evans singled and Robert Garrett doubled, and both scored on Wayne Avery's fielder's choice. Parker's added seven in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth. The lone Union Carbide run came over in the fourth.

In the opener on the other field, Little Sluggers gained a 5-3 win over Hallow's. Hallow's pushed over all three runs in the first inning as Gravatt homered. The Sluggers came back with one each in the second and fifth, then pushed over three in the sixth to win it. R. Craft walked and L. Hardee got a hit. M. Parrell doubled, and scored on hits by W. Claybrook and P. Page with the final run.

In the second game, Balentine's outit Hardee's, 16-13. Balentine's pushed over four in the first, but Hardee's came back with a pair in the top of the second. Balentine's scored three more in the second, while Hardee's came back with four in the top of the third, including a homer by Nicholson. Balentine's scored two more in the third. They added three more in the fourth, while Hardee's came up with three in the top of the fifth. One Balentine run scored in the fifth, but Hardee's then scored four in the sixth to tie it at 13-13. Balentine's then scored three in the bottom of the sixth to win it. M. Briley singled and scored on J. Phillips' triple. G. Vincent finished it off with a home run.

In the final game, Four Seasons took a 10-2 win over Burger King. Four Seasons pushed over four in the first to score all they would need. B. Tripped off with a triple and C. Meeks singled. T. Jordan got a hit and W. Moye tripled. He scored on C. Vincent's single for a 4-0 lead. They added one in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth, with Jordan homering. Burger King got one each in the fourth and sixth innings.

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer "Give me four more months like May and everything will be all right," said Los Angeles Dodger Manager Walt Alston.

Four more months like May for the Dodgers would be more than just all right—it would be fabulous.

The Dodgers had their merriest May in many summers with a sensational .313 team batting average, including an 18-hit performance Wednesday night that buried Steve Carlton and the Philadelphia Phillies 9-4.

The Dodgers averaged 11.7 runs per game in May and had a 19-8 record.

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1; the San Francisco Giants trimmed the New York Mets 3-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates turned back the Atlanta Braves 4-2; the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 and the Montreal Expos split a doubleheader with the San Diego Padres, winning the first game 5-3 and losing the second, 3-2.

In the American League, it was: New York 4, Oakland 3; Boston 2, California 1; Texas 3, Cleveland 2; Baltimore 5, Kansas City 4; Minnesota 4, Milwaukee 0 and Detroit 8, Chicago 4. Home runs by Roger Metzger and John Edwards and the three-hit pitching of Ken Forsch carried Houston past Chicago. The Cubs sewed up Forsch's fifth victory in 10 decisions with a two-run sixth inning against Chicago starter Milt Pappas, 2-4.

Tito Fuentes' second home run of the season, a leadoff blast in the sixth, broke a 2-2 tie and carried Tom Bradley and San Francisco over New York. Bradley knocked in the first two runs for the Giants with a single in the second.

Reserve shortstop Jackie Hernandez drove in the tie-breaking run with a sixth-inning single in Pittsburgh's victory over Atlanta. Al Oliver opened the Pittsburgh sixth with a single and stole second before scoring the winning run. Dave Cash's hit later in the inning delivered an insurance run for the Pirates.

Ted Sizemore's two-run single capped a three-run rally in the eighth inning that powered St. Louis over Cincinnati. Lou Brock's run-scoring single snapped a 2-2 tie and then Brock stole a base to put runners on second and third and set the stage for Sizemore's hit.

Bob Bailey drove in three runs with a pair of homers in Montreal's opening-game victory over San Diego. The Padres pulled out the second game on John Grubb's three-run homer in the eighth.

Pembroke Opens Play

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball tournament opened here today with eight teams battling for the title.

Host Grand canyon college is making its third entry into the national tournament. The Antelopes will face Pembroke, N.C., State in the first round of the double-elimination tournament.

Other first round contest send U.S. International of San Diego against Malone, Ohio, College; Phillips University, Okla., against Valdosta, Ga., State; and the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh against Eastern Connecticut State.

The series will continue through Monday.

U.S. International comes into the tournament with a seven-game victory streak and has won 21 of its last 22 contests.

Valdosta State has won 13 its last 14 starts and carrying six pitchers on the squad, four with seven victories each.

Malone and Phillips are both young clubs, but Wisconsin-Oshkosh will come into the tournament as the number two best-hitting team in the country.

Moore-King-Sullivan moved into first place in the Senior Babe Ruth League yesterday with a 1-0 victory over previously unbeaten Morris Body Shop at New Bern.

The game went eight innings before M-K-S pushed over the lone run of the game.

Elsewhere, Kinston beat South Lenoir, 6-1, while Quadrant took a 7-0 decision over the winless Fire Fighters.

Moore-King-Sullivan had a chance to score in the first inning. Wayne Bailey singled and Mike Wallace walked, but Herb Wilkerson grounded into a double play, getting himself and Wallace. Wallace, after leaving second, however, started to return there, and it drew a throw from the first baseman. Bailey then sped home beating the relay from second. The umpire, however, charged Wallace with interference, and sent Bailey back to third, and the inning ended before he could score.

In the fourth, they had another chance when Wilkerson and Bobby Bryant both singled, but it died there. Bailey singled in the sixth, but was thrown out just before Wilkerson reached on a two-base error.

Finally, in the eighth, M-K-S got the winning run across the plate. Bailey singled and Wallace got a hit. Wilkerson grounded back to short, and the play got Wallace at second, but the relay to complete the double play and end the inning was just to late.

Bailey kept going and made it across with the run before the ball could be relayed again to home.

Morris' lone threat came in the fifth when an error and a walk put men in scoring position after a wild pitch.

Bryant hurled the victory, allowing only two hits. He struck out 13 and walked two. The 13 strikeouts brought his total to 41 in 22 innings so far this year.

College View Is Upset By Dairy

Carolina Dairies scored seven early runs and held on to defeat College View, 9-6, in Babe Ruth League action last night.

Carolina Dairies' pitcher Wayne Miller toyed with a no-hitter for four and two-thirds innings, but Jay Chenier broke up the effort with a double in the fifth inning. He finally gave up three base hits.

The game overall lacked artistic quality, as both teams committed a total of 13 errors in the field and there were 16 walks by three pitchers.

The Dairyemen struck early. Leonard Williams reached on a walk, stole second, and got to third on a sacrifice. With one out, Sid Ashby was awarded first on catcher's interference, and himself took second. Both men scored on Wayne Miller's single, and Miller later came around on an infield out and an error.

Carolina Dairies batted around to close out the game with four more runs in the second. They scored single tallies in the third and seventh innings, also.

College View tallied four in the third, all without a base hit. Greg Sasser reached when the left-fielder dropped his line drive, moved to second on Keith Jones' walk. Sasser came around to score when an attempt to nail him at third was thrown away, with Jones following on the same error. Jimmy Averette reached second on another error, went to third on an infield out, and scored when the catcher tried to pick him off. Then with two out, Conner Merritt walked, stole second and third, and came home when the catcher again tried to pick him off.

CV scored twice in the seventh. Ross Hawkins reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Chenier's single, Chenier taking second on the throw to home. Merritt's single moved him to third, and Chenier scored on a sacrifice fly.

Elks Edge Moose, 4-2

The Elks rallied for two runs in the third, then pushed over two more in the seventh inning to nip the Moose, 4-2, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

The win left the Elks with a 5-2 record, while the Moose are now 3-4.

The Moose scored first, pushing over two runs in the first inning. Mitch Meeks singled and moved up on David Carroll's hit. Both advanced on a passed ball and Danny Wood singled to score Meeks. Paul Lemmond got a hit to drive in Carroll, but the rally ended there.

The Elks came back to score two in the third and tie it up. William Sneed walked and Lance Cain singled. Jimmy Lee singled, scoring Sneed. Don White walked to load them up and Len Jackson also drew a free ticket, forcing in the tying run.

It remained in a 2-2 deadlock until the seventh inning, when the Elks came up with two runs to win it. Mack Stocks doubled and Gavin Ray singled. An error on the play let Stocks come over with the go-ahead run, while Ray moved to second. William Sneed singled and Jarvis Campbell reached on an error, allowing Ray to score the insurance run.

fire, frustration and tragedy. But it came to a happy ending for Gordon Johncock, a gutty little guy who came off of eight failures and beat auto racing's biggest stars for top honors in the Indianapolis 500.

"I wish it had gone 500 miles," the tiny, 38-year-old racing veteran said after winning Wednesday's rain-delayed and rain-shortened 57th Indy race. "For me, it's the greatest thing in the world."

While he profited from the rain that halted the gruelling test after 133 of the 200 laps over the 2½-mile asphalt track, the brash, cocky graduate of the dirt tracks left no doubt that he thought he could have held on all the way.

He finished one-half lap ahead of Bill Vukovich Jr., while former champions A. J. Foyt Jr., Mark Donohue, Mario Adretti, and Al and Bobby Unser failed to finish the abbreviated race.

The curly-haired, pug-nosed 1973 champion, who associates say "fears no man or beast," gunned his Eagle-Offenhauser at a speed that at times reached almost 200 miles per hour under dark, menacing clouds and finished in a cold, drizzling rain.

He didn't even have the pleasure of seeing the checkered flag.

"The speed is getting so fast, it scares me to death," said three-time winner A. J. Foyt, Jr.

A. J. doesn't scare easily.

Flight Training Is Just One Of Benefits In ROTC

When East Carolina University graduating seniors received their diplomas Sunday, a number of men also received commissions in the U.S. Air Force as participants in the Reserve Officer Training Corps.

At least seven of these new officers came away with a little bit more than a diploma and a commission, because they have won a private pilots license through participation in the AFROTC flight instruction program at ECU.

According to Lt. Col. Kenneth W. Field, assistant professor of Aerospace Studies the flight instruction program (FIP) serves as a screening device to weed out those who "won't cut the mustard later on a pilots" and acts as a motivational device "to encourage people to come into the ROTC program."

Under FIP, ROTC seniors are taught to fly at no cost to the student. A contractor is engaged to provide 35 hours of flight instruction to the cadets, including 20 hours dual instruction and 15 hours solo flight. In addition, a ground school course is taught by ROTC instructors.

The ECU students have received their instruction over the past few years through a contract with Jim Darden at Pitt-Greenville Air Service.

Cost per student in the flight program, Col. Field said is about $860.

The officer explained there are two ways students can enter the ROTC program. First, he noted, a student can enter when a freshman, taking military subjects during his entire four years at the university and spending one four-week period at summer camp between his sophomore and junior years.

Or, Col. Field explained, a person can enter the ROTC program in his junior year, taking a heavier load of military classes after spending a six-week period in summer training.

In addition to the free flight instruction given qualifying seniors, Col. Field noted that other financial benefits are available to ROTC participants.

He said scholarships are available which provide for full tuition, laboratory expenses, incidental fees and allowances for textbooks. In addition, scholarship recipients and all cadets in the Professional Officer Corps (students in their junior and senior years) receive a subsistence allowance. The subsistence allowance totals $100 per month.

After graduation and commissioning, FIP pilot candidates enter a 48-week long program, where they receive 208 flight hours, 273 academic hours and 160 training hours in simulators to qualify them as Air Force pilots.

The seven cadets who have won private pilot licenses through the flight instruction program this year include David B. Stevens Jr. and Carl T. Knott Jr. both of Greenville; Billy R. Craft of Jacksonville; Ronnie W. Smith of Route 2, Hamlett; James A. Steele of Goldsboro; Franklin W. Sutton Jr. of Kinston; and Michael J. Ulmer of Annandale, Va.

AFTER SOLOING. . .Col. Earl D. Bruton Jr., professor of Aerospace Studies at ECU talks with cadet J. A. Steele of Goldsboro after the ECU senior soloed in the AFROTC's FIP program.

ECU Grad Worked With Social Staffs

Miss Rhoda Corbett, a recent graduate of East Carolina University has just spent the past several months in social work with the social service staffs of the Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina, Inc.

Majoring in social work, Miss Corbett worked at the Kennedy Home in Kinston under the direction of Horace Hawes, director of the home.

She received instruction in working with families on applications and in group care. She made extensive visits to the local community agencies, including Caswell Center, Cherry Hospital, mental health centers, departments of social services and schools.

Miss Corbett worked with a group of five girls who will be employed in public work this summer for the first time.

A native of Selma, Miss Corbett received her B.S. in social work from ECU this spring. At ECU, she was a dean's list and honor roll student, a GA leader in a Greenville Baptist Church and a member of the National Association of Social Workers.

Increased Sums To Medicare Recipients Hits Snag

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Out-of-pocket medical expenses for 22.5 million elderly and disabled Americans receiving Medicare will increase $360 million a year beginning Friday.

Monthly Part B premiums for coverage of doctor bills and a wide range of other medical services will increase 50 cents to $6.30 per recipient, while the annual deductible before Medicare benefits are paid will increase by $10, to $60.

The Nixon administration's proposal to add another $700 million a year to Medicare recipients' medical and hospital bills has met stiff resistance in Congress, however.

Legislation designed to put the proposed increases into effect Jan. 1, 1974, reportedly still is bottled up in the Office of Management and Budget.

More than half the Senate has signed a statement opposing the plan, and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has vowed it will never pass.

Under Social Security Act amendments passed last year, about 1.7 million disabled persons under 65 and an estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons suffering from chronic kidney disease will be covered by Medicare for the first time starting Friday.

Part A Medicare is hospital insurance for which eligibility is automatic when a person qualifies for Social Security.

Part B is optional, covers physicians' bills and certain medical supplies, and requires a monthly premium payment.

In the new fiscal year, Part A is expected to reach 23.1 million persons at a cost of $8.2 billion and Part B is expected to be selected by 22.5 million at a total annual cost of slightly more than $3 billion.

The Department of Health,

Education and Welfare attributes the 50-cent monthly increase for Part B to greater use of physicians' services, more expensive services, and higher costs and increasing use of hospital outpatient services.

The increase will hold for two years, HEW said, unless Congress boosts benefits in the interim. Previous premium increases were 20 cents in 1972, 30 cents in 1971, $1.30 and $1 in 1968.

Last month the Social Security Administration sent cards to the newly covered disabled, telling them that they would be automatically enrolled for Part B coverage unless they returned the card. In the past, Medicare beneficiaries were required to return cards only if they wanted to participate in the supplementary medical-insurance program.

Part B covers physicians' bills and the cost of prosthetic devices, medical supplies and equipment, and laboratory services in and out of the hospital. It does not include prescription drugs outside the hospital.

When Congress voted to increase the deductible from $50 to $60 each year, it also expanded coverage to eliminate the home-health-agency co-payment and include the services of speech pathologists and, in limited cases, chiropractors.

After the deductible has been met, the beneficiary pays 20 per cent of future bills and the federal government pays the balance of what it considers reasonable charges.

Under Part A hospital coverage, the patient pays $72 the first day and nothing more until the 61st day when he or she pays a daily charge of $18.

Curlers In Hair Offend Most In Poll

By WERNER VOLLMANN
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA (AP) — Austrians appear to object less to people bathing in the nude on public beaches than to women running around with their hair in curlers, in public.

This at least was one of the results of a survey conducted by the institute of Market and Social Analysis among 1,450 persons who it said were representative of all other Austrians.

The test persons, asked what they considered an offense against good taste and customs, were supplied with a list of 21 answers from which they could pick out the one they agreed with.

Seventy four per cent said women with curlers in their hair offended good taste, 61 per cent said it was poor taste when a motorist tapped his head to show another he was a nut, and 60 per cent believed going to a theater or concert in street clothes was not right.

The list continued with 58 per cent asserting it was contrary to good taste not to help a woman into her coat, 57 per cent that it was bad to start smoking before people sitting at the same table had stopped eating, and 55 per cent that it was not right when men kept their hats on when greeting someone.

Nude bathing on public beaches was objected to by 54 per cent, and it was seventh place on the list.

A mere 12 per cent said it was against good taste to go to a restaurant without a tie.

Women and men who worked in their gardens in extremely short dresses or in underwear were objected to by only 3 per cent.

Austrians apparently consider it poor taste if someone who holds a doctor title is addressed only as mister. Thirty two per cent said this was not right.

The survey did not disclose, however, whether it was in better taste to address someone as doctor who holds no academic title at all. This at least is done by many who want to be friendly, or who expect favors from the person addressed as doctor who holds no such title.

Canada Imports From U.S. Rise

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada imported $794 million more goods from the United States in the first quarter of 1973 than it did in the first quarter of last year, Statistics Canada reports. Total imports were $5.24 billion, up from $4.23 billion for the 1972 period.

New Landfill Site Disposal Area Meets Objection

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Temporarily, Greenville has a new disposal area in operation within the city's 80 plus acre landfill site. Situated immediately behind the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Briley at 100 Cemetery Road, the current fill-in site is the object of opposition by Jack Hall, who lives at 2517 East Second Street, next door to the Briley house.

"I did not receive a notice this was going to take place," Hall said. "Naturally, nobody wants a garbage dump this close to their house." The nearest point of fill-in from the Hall's backyard is about 50 feet.

Hall said that to the best of his knowledge there was no effort made to hold a public hearing before the project got underway to determine his feelings or that of others in the neighborhood.

"The first part they filled in I don't object to," Hall said, referring to the initial approximately 50 feet of fill. "They used house waste, bricks, old timber, concrete. Such things as that is no problem about smell or possible rats."

Hall said he called Mayor S. Eugene West late Tuesday night (May 22) and told him about the unpleasant smell coming from the fill in after trucks began dumping raw waste in the area behind the first 50 feet fill-in. He said further that on Wednesday he met with the mayor, Public Works Director Mayo Allen, City Manager William Carstarphen, and Fred Wood (of The State Health Department).

"Mr. Allen stated he had read regulations, but didn't find anything about how close to residences a dump could come."

Hall stated that at a later date, Allen, Carstarphen and Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath visited the site with him. He said when he asked if the raw garbage would be left open, that Allen told him "it would be covered."

Hall mentioned that on Tuesday night this week, after the bulldozer had finished work for the day, a couple more piles of garbage had been unloaded and remained uncovered until Wednesday morning. "The way the city has done this is in violation of the law as I see it," Hall said.

When questioned about the situation, City Manager Carstarphen said "I have no knowledge of specific distances (of dump locations from residences) set forth in codes or ordinances.

"However," Carstarphen explained, "there are two or three key things we've been guided by. The first is that the landfill predates any existing houses in the area. Second, the basis for sanitary landfill procedures we're following has been given a grade A process rating by Fred Wood for the procedure we're using."

Carstarphen added "I can understand Hall's expressed concern about the odor, and I concurred in his concern about children playing in the area, so we installed a temporary fence to alleviate dangers."

The city manager said that "we're operating this as a temporary area." He added when the fill is completed, it will be covered over and landscaped.

He mentioned, that the first area of the fill was made at Mrs. Briley's request, and said the area now being filled is city property, the southwestern edge of the 80 or so acres of the city's disposal site.

A resident of nearby East Third Street, who asked not to be identified, said she and others were at first upset about the choice of this site as a dump area, but that they felt assured the mayor, city managers and others concerned would work it out satisfactorily. The resident said if they had been asked about it in advance, she felt certain most residents of the area would have voiced objections, but not now.

Public Works Director Allen said the fill would be covered with 28 inches of dirt, and that in addition to eliminating the gulley as a snake infested area, the bank formed by the fill would also provide a safety wall between the police firing range and the houses.

Burroughs Wellcome Co. Products With Skylab

Burroughs Wellcome Co. products have again been selected to be a part of America's latest adventure in space, the company announced.

The three astronauts who are conducting the repair mission on the Skylab Workshop are carrying Actifed tablets for treatment of allergies and Neosporin Topical Ointment for prevention of skin infections as a part of their first aid kit.

In addition to the products carried by the astronauts, seven Burroughs Wellcome products are on board Skylab in the Workshop's medical kit.

Skylab products carrying B.W. Co. labels include Sudafed 60 mg. tablets, an oral decongestant; Aerosporin Otic Solution, for ear infections; Lanoxin .25 mg. tablets, a digitalis preparation for treatment of congestive heart failure; Marezine injection, to prevent motion sickness; Ascodeen-30, an oral analgesic; Actifed tablets and Neosporin Topical Ointment.

The National Aeronautics Space Administration makes independent investigations of pharmaceutical preparations to accompany the astronauts on their missions in space. Burroughs Wellcome, it was noted, only learned of the inclusion of the company products just before the launchings.

Three B.W. Co. products, Actifed tablets, Marezine injection and Neosporin Topical Ointment were included on the Apollo manned moon flights.

The latest use of Burroughs Wellcome products continues its association with exploration. B.W. first-aid kits were carried to the North and South poles; into the jungles of Africa and South America; and on early transoceanic flights, it was pointed out.

The products used in the Skylab program were manufactured in Greenville.

The company, with corporate headquarters and research laboratories in Research Triangle Park, is part of the worldwide group of pharmaceutical companies headed by The Wellcome Foundation Ltd of London, England.

Budget Director Resigns Office

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser today accepted the resignation of acting state budget director Frank Justice and appointed a political science professor to replace him.

Holshouser, in a news conference in his Capitol office, emphasized that he was sorry to see Justice leave state government, saying he accepted the resignation with a "deep sense of personal regret."

The new budget director will be S. Kenneth Howard, a registered Democrat who, until recently, was with the Institute of Government and taught political science at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

resign in March.

Howard is the author of a book, "Changing State Budgeting", which Holshouser had on his desk today and which sparked a discussion of possible changes in the budgeting process since the General Assembly has gone to annual instead of biennial sessions.

The governor said he has changed his position of earlier this year on budgeting. Though he once favored continuing with a basic biennial budget and making only minor changes in the second legislative session, he said he now favors annual budgeting.

The transition period to annual sessions is over, he said, and annual budgets will permit more accurate revenue and out-flow estimates.

Justice, who would say only that his age is "about 50" said he had no plans beyond merely "enjoying myself" after he leaves his post at the end of June.

Pitt UF . . .

the Pitt chapter, Frank Stanton, chairman of the American National Red Cross, said that the disaster relief funds were totally depleted.

Mrs. Taylor said that "funds to cover all the necessary expenses in major disasters are not included in the annual budget of the American Red Cross or the Pitt County chapter's annual budget. There would be no way possible to budget for unpredictable things such as tornadoes, floods, and hurricanes," she added.

The secretary pointed out that when the major catastrophes occur, an appeal goes out to the local chapters to help participate in providing the necessary relief to those affected.

"Due to the fact that the local chapter of the Red Cross is a member of the Pitt County United Way there are not outside appeals or fund raising campaigns to raise the money requested by the National Red Cross for disasters," she continued.

In the southeastern states alone, the Red Cross has spent some $1,008,753 to help the 6,677 families who have applied for assistance, Mrs. Taylor said. "These were families affected by the record flooding in Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama and Louisiana. As the water goes down in these flooded areas 3,100 additional families are expected to apply for assistance, which could add an expenditure of approximately $482,000."

Disaster-stricken families have been given money for food, clothing, some medical needs and cleaning supplies, it was noted. Mrs. Taylor said that those families have also been given assistance for immediate furniture needs such as beds, bedding and cooking utensils.

"All Red Cross disaster assistance given is a gift to the American people from the American people through their United Way contributions," she asserted.

Mrs. Taylor explained that hundreds of Red Cross Staff and volunteers responded in towns stricken by disaster by first providing emergency assistance in the form of shelters. At the peak period, with 20 states affected, some 150 shelters were in operation.

In addition to the 13,000 persons being fed three meals a day in the shelters, an additional 18,000 emergency workers were being fed from mobile vans.

"It was only a year ago that Pitt County was on the receiving end of the Red Cross disaster relief program when approximately $870 was sent to several Pitt families to aid them in recovering their losses as a result of the tornado that struck in the Red Oak and Bell Arthur sections," Mrs. Taylor recalled.

More Arrested In Edenton's Demonstrations

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — Officers arrested three blacks Wednesday as demonstrations continued at Edenton's Confederate monument.

The arrests were made as officers broke up a group of more than 30 blacks who had assembled at the monument and heard a speech by Golden Frinks, field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and organizer of the protest.

Officers said two of those arrested were charged with failure to disperse and the third with using obscene language. Bond was set at $100 each.

The demonstration was part of black protests over the firing of black high school band leader. More than 100 persons have been arrested in three weeks of protest. Eleven persons have been arrested this week in attempts to take down a Confederate flag at the monument.

Hitchhiker Is Shot, Dropped Out Of Car

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)—Police report that a youth was shot twice and dropped from a moving car Wednesday night.

They said he had identified himself as 19-year-old Roy "Butch" Ashbrook, and told them his mother, Mrs. Bertha Ashbrook, lives in Miamisburg, Ohio.

The Cabarrus County sheriff's department at Concord reported that a truckdriver saw him tumble from a car on Interstate 85 near North Kannapolis, in the Concord vicinity.

The department said he was taken to Cabarrus Memorial Hospital in Concord, where he was discovered to have bullet wounds in the back and the jaw. The hospital said his condition was not critical.

The department quoted him as saying he had been given a ride while hitchhiking, but as not remembering much more immediately.

STREAM ENDOWED
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky has 18,000 miles of streams with running water, making it second only to Alaska in that category.

Four families were given assistance for food, clothing and household furnishings.

New Bear Sanctuary Is Established By State

Final hunting and trapping regulations, as approved by the state Wildlife Resources Commission for the 1973-1974 season have established a new bear sanctuary at Jarrett Bay Game Land in Carteret County, according to Wildlife Protector Kay J. Dunn of Winterville.

Dunn said that in addition to establishing the new bear sanctuary, the regulations also established three either-sex deer hunts. These hunts, Dunn said, include one a Cherry Point Marine Air Station in Craven County and at Camp Lejeune in Onslow County—from December 15 to January 1; and one in a portion of Beaufort County from December 15 through December 22.

The gun season for deer in eastern counties having an open season, Dunn explained, will be 11 weeks long, from October 15 through January 1.

In other action, Dunn said, the commission established a uniform state-wide season for taking deer with bow and arrow (September 14-October 13) and will allow the taking of deer of either sex with a bow and arrow on all commission-designated Game Lands during this special four-week season.

Dunn said this means that deer of either sex may be taken with bow and arrow during this September 14-October 13 season on areas designated for either sex deer gun seasons scheduled later in the season.

According to the Wildlife Protector, wild turkey season will be from April 13 through May 4 in this area.

The commission closed the season on rare fox squirrels statewide and reduced the other trapping season to a period from January 1 to January 31, Dunn explained.

Dunn said that the commission voted to prohibit the possession of all firearms and bows and arrows on commission-designated Game Lands during the closed season.

FTC Charges Plastic-Makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-six chemical firms have been charged by the Federal Trade Commission with falsely advertising flammable plastics as self-extinguishing or non-flammable.

The FTC also named as defendants in the action the testing firm that set the flammability standards and the plastic industry's trade association.

Plastics involved in the charges are all forms of polystyrene and cellular or foamed-polyurethane. Last year more than one billion pounds of these plastics were marketed for use in construction and home furnishings.

The FTC charged in its proposed class action complaint that the plastics burn faster and produce more heat than conventional building materials, and also produce toxic gases.

The FTC asked that the firms halt the misrepresentations and inform purchasers of the alleged unreliability of the products and that the tests for burning characteristics be discontinued.

Dow Chemical Co. denied that it had misrepresented products, and the Upjohn Co. said it had already changed its description of the plastic's qualities.

The firms can ask a hearing before an administrative law judge, or they can agree to the FTC proposals without admitting guilt.

The plastics are also used for insulation, furniture cushions and bedding, panels and siding, cabinets, chairs, tables, pipes and lighting and plumbing fixtures and in airplane interiors and in the trouble-plagued Skylab Space Station.

SAUCER THAT FLIES—Beth Schoenberg, 16, and brother Paul, 21 (right) built this plastic and wood flying saucer over a two-month period after reading an article in Popular Mechanics.

The nine-foot disc is powered by a three-horsepower lawnmower engine and can travel at 25 mph for about one mile while hovering three feet above the ground. (AP Wirephoto)

The workshop was in conjunction with the Early Childhood Library Specialist Program at North Carolina Central University.

The group was introduced to the concepts of library and media services to young children.

CASE X-521: Hal B., aged 24, has a sex dilemma.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I married my college sweetheart. 'She is beautiful and with the 'measurements' of a modern Beauty Queen. 'Her name is Laura, the same as my mother's. 'And she has all the virtues that should make any husband happy. 'But I find that I am growing platonic in our boudoir.

"It scares me, so I consulted a genio-urinary expert, who said I needed testosterone shots to make me virile. 'But after 6 months of those injections, I am still no better. 'In fact, I am worse, for now I have lost hope and have even considered suicide.

"For I feel it is unfair to my lovely wife to have her hoked any longer with an impotent mate. 'Dr. Crane, is there any possible chance I might get better?"

Psychic Impotence

Yes, indeed! For impotence in men is usually above the eyes, due to a severe sexual inferiority complex.

Sometimes their defeatism attitude develops on the first night of the honeymoon.

For by the time they have gone through the strenuous wedding day, plus a tiring reception, and then have reached their motel or hotel hideaway, it is often 2 a.m.

Thus, they are so weary that the bridegroom is only partially able to function, so doubt and fear immediately are lodged in his mind.

"Maybe by tomorrow morning," he thinks, "I'll do better."

But next day he enters marital relations with a semi-scientific attitude.

For he is trying to analyze his own behavior and contrast it with the previous night's failure.

This very act of analyzing is thus a cerebral (mental) process.

Alas, you cannot "cerebrate" and also "emote" simultaneously without having one or the other of those opposing processes go into quick decline!

So a man who has had doubt implanted in his mind or who subconsciously regards his bride as partaking of his own mother's image, is then likely to grow platonic.

You will note that Hal said his bride has the same name as his mother.

So she subconsciously aroused the old incest taboo that most children acquire with reference to romance with their parents.

Many brides likewise suffer from the same reaction, if they have selected husbands who remind them a great deal of their fathers!

That's why many wives, as well as scared husbands, resort to liquor on the honeymoon!

For they find it isn't till they are half intoxicated that they can forget those subconscious inhibitions to eroticism with their new mates.

In this type of case, the victims need to have a full explanation of the psychic cause of their platonic feelings.

For normal males, unless victims of metallic poisons or in advanced stages of TB or diabetes, are not organically impotent.

Their platonic condition is "above their eyes."

And an understanding bride can offset such male inhibitions if she will play her cards seductively and even aggressively serve more boudoir cheesecake.

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent a Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus

Complex At Williamsburg

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Anheuser-Busch, Inc., announced today a $30 million Busch Gardens family entertainment complex to be built near here will have "America's Pre-Colonial Heritage" as its theme.

Plans for the complex were unveiled at a news conference by August A. Busch Jr., chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the company.

Busch said construction on the new Busch Gardens will

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, May 31, 1973—19 start soon and that it is expected to open in the spring of 1975.

The park is to be built on a 300-acre site on U. S. 60, five miles south of here, and will complement nearby Colonial Williamsburg, the Rockefeller-financed restoration of Virginia's 18th century capital.

Anheuser-Busch recently opened a new brewery on a 3,600-acre tract in James City County, outside of Williamsburg. Busch Gardens will be on a portion of this tract.

Police officials said they will enforce the new ordinance, once they know what it covers or leaves uncovered.

President Theodore Roosevelt called the Grand Canyon "the one great sight which every American should see."

Opening lead: Eight of ♣. Last June, Italy's renowned Blue Team emerged from a two-year retirement to compete in the Fourth World Bridge Olympiad held in Miami Beach. They led a record-breaking field of 39 nations in the qualifying rounds and, in the finals, handily defeated the reigning world champion United States entry, the Dallas Aces, to retain the title they had won in the Third Olympiad four years ago in Deauville, France.

Today's hand is taken from an early deal of the final round and launched the Italians to a lead which was never relinquished. The bidding in the diagram occurred at the table where the Americans were seated North and South. A small slam in diamonds was reached on an aggressive sequence of bids. The first round of the auction was routine and North's rebid of two spades was systematic—he was playing an artificial club system that demanded that a five card major be rebid. When South showed his second suit, hearts, North gave a simple preference to four diamonds. Perhaps South should have contented himself with a game undertaking by simply proceeding to five diamonds, inasmuch as his hand was worth 15 points and partner had not taken any constructive action after his opening bid.

South, instead, cue-bid the ace of clubs which was a definite slam try. Inasmuch as North had previously held himself in check, the latter now revalued his hand and, realizing that his values in diamonds and hearts would assuredly fill in South's holdings in those suits, North proceeded directly to six diamonds. The next two players passed and the Italian player in the West seat doubled, altho it is somewhat difficult to uncover a sound reason for his action.

West opened the eight of clubs, the six was played from dummy, and East put in the jack which dislodged declarer's ace. Since it was necessary to obtain an immediate discard for North's losing club, South cashed the ace, king, queen of hearts and stuffed the six of clubs on the third round. The nine of spades was led next and passed around to East's ten after West and North followed with small spades. A trump was returned and won by dummy's jack.

South now attempted to establish the spade suit by ruffing a second round of the suit with the three of diamonds. A club ruff put dummy in to trump another spade with the five of diamonds, as both opponents followed. All declarer needed now was to find a two-to-five division in trump. He led the seven of diamonds over to North's queen. If both defenders followed to this play, it would account for all the outstanding trumps and dummy's long spade could be established with one more ruff. Unfortunately for the American declarer, East showed out of diamonds and—altho South was able to trump away the king of spades with his ace of diamonds—he had to use up North's remaining trump, the king, to reenter dummy via a ruff. West took the last trick with the ten of diamonds and the United States suffered a 100 point deficit on the deal.

At the other table, where Italy was seated North-South, a simple game contract of three no trump was reached. West opened the jack of hearts and South routinely took nine tricks—three hearts, five diamonds, and one club to chalk up a 400 point profit for his country (in tournament bridge a 300 point bonus is awarded for a nonvulnerable game). The total swing to Italy on the deal was 500 points.

The exhibit commemorates the first presidential inauguration, which was held on the balcony of the original Federal Hall. The exhibit was designed for the White House and has been on display there since the first of the year.

The Masonic Bible is on loan from St. John's Masonic Lodge No. 1 in New York. The same Bible was also used for the inauguration of Presidents Harding and Eisenhower.

'Bevo' Howard Memorial Air Show June 17 At Charleston

had been flown in France, Rumania, Germany, Cuba and the United States. (Photo courtesy Howard Memorial Fund)

A Memorial Air Show for the late Beverly E. (Bevo) Howard, internationally known stunt flyer who died in Greenville on Sunday, October 17, 1971 will be held Sunday, June 17 at 3:00 p.m. off Charleston's Battery in Charleston, South Carolina.

The veteran performer, considered one of America's greatest aerobatic pilots, struck a tree while performing at the Greenville-Pitt County Airport in a benefit air show for the Pitt County Boys' Club. Howard was 57 years old.

On the day of his death, Colonel Ernie Moser, president of the St. Augustine, Florida based Air Circus, suggested that consideration be given to a memorial air show in Greenville on the first anniversary of Howard's death. Moser's suggestion was never carried out.

In March this year, Howard's five children established a Beverly E. Howard Memorial Trust Fund. The primary purpose of the foundation is to cover expenses of restoring Howard's 1936 Buecker Jungmeister, which was severely damaged in the crash.

Howard was particularly fond of children. Many of his engagements were in connection with benefit events to raise funds for various youth organizations.

In the June 17 memorial air show, a number of outstanding aerobatic exhibitions are scheduled, with nationally known pilots taking part. The U.S. Air Force will pay a flying tribute to Howard as Thunderbirds wing by. Other events will include parachute jumps.

The principal event of the show will be the acceptance for Smithsonian Institute of Howard's restored plane. Michael Collins, former astronaut, will accept the rebuilt Buecker Jungmeister for the Smithsonian.

The director of the Smithsonian's Air Museum has said Howard's plane will occupy a place of honor in the museum's new, $40 million facility.

The five children of Howard establishing the trust fund are Beverly E. Howard, Jr., Miss Alden B. Howard, Miss Langhorn M. Howard, John Ball Howard, and Mrs. Amanda Howard Done.

A number of prominent Americans are serving as steering committee the June 17 Beverly Howard Memorial Air Show. General Mark W. Clark is honorary general chairman. Others on the committee are General James H. Doolittle, Arthur Godfrey, W.T. Piper, Jr., Captain Eddie V. Rickenbacker, and Lowell Thomas.

Austin Britt, current president of the Pitt County Boy's Club, said that R.W. (Wally) Howard, the first president of the Pitt County Boys' Club, Graham Gutting, current executive director of the club, and Mrs. Gutting, and possibly representative boys from the club would be attending the Charleston memorial show.

Spain's Own Little Car At End Of Road

MADRID (AP) — The SEAT 600, the little car that took Spain into the automobile age, appears doomed. Auto industry sources say it probably will be phased out of production by the end of the year.

If it is, it will mark the end of an era as important to Spaniards as the Model T Ford was to Americans decades ago. For thousands of Spaniards, the little car that looks like something Walt Disney might have designed, was their first sign of wealth after the civil war left the country devastated in 1939. Of the country's nearly five million vehicles clogging the roads, nearly one-fifth of them still are estimated to be 600s.

It "was the clearest sign of our economic miracle," said a Madrid newspaper while noting the 600 had been made obsolete by its bigger brothers, models 850, 124, 127, 1430, etc., and by a rise in the per capita income. When the first 600 came off the production line in 1957, per capita income was about $200 a year. Government officials now claim it exceeds $1,100.

But for most Spaniards, the home-produced version of the Fiat model was their first car. Every weekend found the four-seater jammed with adults and children off for a Sunday drive.

SEAT (Sociedad Espanola de Automoviles de Turismo, Inc.) officially has remained silent on plans for the popular "seiscientos," Spanish for 600. The company, owned partly by the government's National Institute of Industry, partly by Fiat and partly by private interests, is known to be concerned by the car's small profit margin. Before taxes it sells for $1,155.

The company sold 36,115 of the cars in Spain last year and exported 37,399. But officials say the profit margin on exports barely met production costs.

The car has changed little since it was introduced in Spain. Its practical top speed still is 60 m.p.h., parts are available in almost any town and it is easily the most parkable automobile in the country.

The news that it might disappear "has fallen like a thunderclap from a clear sky," wrote one columnist.
