Greece Declared Republic

ATHENS (AP) — Premier George Papadopoulos announced today that he was abolishing the monarchy and making Greece a presidential republic.

Papadopoulos proclaimed himself first president of the new republic in a radio brodcast to the nation.

Papadopoulos had taken over as strong man and crown regent in March 1972. He masterminded the April 1967 coup which brought the military junta to power, suspending parliamentary rule.

He said the junta made the decision to end the monarchy in a special Cabinet meeting today. A plebiscite will be held within two months to ratify the decision, he said.

Following the referendum, Greeks will vote in a general election for a new parliament by the end of 1974. It will be the first election in Greece since February 1964.

The premier said investigations showed that King Constantine was involved in the recent abortive attempt by admirals and navy officers to topple the government.

Papadopoulos accused Constantine, self-exiled in Rome since 1967, of "collaborating with foreign forces, of turning against the armed forces, of becoming a political leader and even collaborating with murderers."

The junta's decision was no surprise. For a week, the junta has been leaking rumors of its intentions to solve the monarchy issue.

Watergate At A Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, in brief, are the latest developments in the Watergate scandal:

TESTIMONY—Congressmen taking testimony from leading figures involved in various aspects of Watergate say some present and former top officials in government are telling different versions about the same aspects of the scandal.

ERVIN—Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., Watergate committee chairman, said the American public would be shocked if the contents of top-secret papers taken from the White House by fired Counsel John W. Dean III were revealed. He said the papers disclose a "Gestapo mentality" existed at the highest levels of the Nixon administration.

RICHARDSON—Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson ordered the Justice Department to deliver directly to Cox any reports related to the scandal. He said Justice Department investigations and prosecutions should be continued, but that Cox should be consulted before significant decisions are made.

AGNEW—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said in a Cleveland speech that the American people would prefer Congress to spend more time on the energy crisis than in speculation over Watergate.

Boom Fails Affect Unemployment Rate

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate, still failing to respond to the economic boom, held stubbornly at five per cent of the work force in May, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the U.S. job picture was essentially unchanged since last November although the economy was in the midst of one of its most vigorous expansions in history during that period.

As in April, the number of people that the bureau counted out of work totaled 4.4 million. The work force remained at 84 million, the bureau said. The figures were adjusted to take seasonal job patterns into account.

Actually, there was a small decline in total unemployment, but the drop was about in line with the usual job picture from April to May, the bureau added.

The report cast new doubt on whether the Nixon administration will be able to bring the jobless rate to the range of 4.5 per cent by year's end, as it has forecast. The administration now is trying to slow the economy down, a policy that would tend to push the unemployment rate up.

The bureau said the number of nonagricultural payroll jobs climbed modestly last month, increasing by 150,000 to 75.2 million. There was a similar increase in payrolls in April.

The jobless rates for most of the other major groups of the labor force remained at about the same levels as in April. For adult men, it was 3.4 per cent; adult women, 4.6 per cent; and teen-agers, 15.4 per cent.

There was a small decline in the unemployment rate of white-collar workers, from 3.1 to 2.8 per cent.

For Vietnam veterans, age 20-29, the jobless rate was 5.9 per cent. But for those from 20 to 24, it was 8.2 per cent, an improvement from the 9.3 per cent in April.

For blacks and other minority groups, the jobless rate increased slightly from 9.1 per cent in April to 9.4 per cent in May.

The bureau said that the number of unemployed persons who had lost their last job was 1.6 million, the lowest point since April 1970.

The report said the average hourly earnings of production or nonsupervisory workers went up by two cents to $3.84.

Average weekly earnings increased $1.12 to $142.46, primarily because of the increase in hourly earnings and a small rise in the work week.

Pompidou, Nixon Relations Warmed

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou today ended their two-day summit talks. They agreed to work for a revitalized transatlantic alliance that can meet the changing needs of the 1970s.

The American and French leaders took leave of each other with few if any firm accords of substance but with an understanding that if all goes well a unique summit conference of North American and West European government leaders can be arranged.

This would bring together all 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, plus Ireland which is the only non-NATO country inside the Common Market.

Personal relations between the two presidents evidently warmed considerably during their conference with each passing subtle political compliments to the other.

French officials, for instance, reported this conference exchange between the two leaders:

Nixon claimed he has been working since 1969 to improve American-French relations. Past misunderstandings in his view were the fault of American politicians who had failed to understand the aspirations of the late Charles de Gaulle. He was quoted as quipping: "I'm becoming more and more Gaullist myself."

Aides reported Pompidou came back immediately with: "In my own country people are saying I'm becoming less and less Gaullist."

"That," rejoined Nixon, "is not apparent to me."

Pompidou emerged from the conference briefly to address newsmen saying his agreements with Nixon outnumbered their disagreements.

"The results will show themselves in the coming months and years," he said.

Nixon and Pompidou shook hands after their windup meeting and Nixon said, "I'll see you in Paris."

Pompidou smiled and waved goodby.

Dollar Hits Record Low

LONDON (AP) — The American dollar plunged to record lows at the opening of European exchanges today and the price of gold soared to new peaks.

Dealers said there appeared to be a massive distrust of the solidity of the dollar and selling orders were flowing in from all directions.

The rush to unload dollars was particularly heavy in Frankfurt, where the value of the American money dropped nearly five pfennigs during the first half hour.

Turmoil in the foreign exchanges spilled over into the bullion markets and sent the price to a record high of $119 dollars an ounce both in London and Zurich, the world's two biggest trading centers.

The floodgates appeared to open after Thursday's Ascension Day holiday when all European markets except London were closed.

The dollar hit record lows in Frankfurt, Paris and Zurich. In Paris, the rate dropped almost 10 centimes to 4.2925 francs. In Zurich, the dollar dropped from Wednesday's 3.1025 Swiss francs to 3.0650. In Frankfurt, it opened just over one pfennig lower at 2.7040 marks, only to drop to 2.6570 marks before recovering to 2.6750.

Dealers said trading was extremely nervous and all one-way, against the dollar.

In the London bullion market, the price of gold jumped from Thursday's closing $114.75 to $119. In Zurich, gold jumped $5.75 an ounce from Wednesday's closing level of $113.25.

In Hong Kong, however, the price dropped back slightly from Thursday's record high of $115.31 an ounce.

Donate Gunships

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The U.S. government has given the Cambodian air force "a small squadron" of helicopter gunships for close air support in tight combat situations, military sources said today.

In South Vietnam, Viet Cong sappers blew up an ammunition dump 12 miles from Saigon, killing one government soldier, wounding 13 and destroying 3,000 tons of artillery shells, authorities reported.

A normal squadron numbers about 20 aircraft. The sources said the UH1 "Huey" gunships, equipped with miniguns and rockets, arrived in Cambodia Tuesday. They were used for the first time Wednesday, escorting convoys along the Communist-infested Mekong River supply corridor. Security considerations precluded disclosure until today.

Cambodian pilots trained in Thailand "are doing a really good job with the choppers, both flying and maintenance," one informant said.

Day Of Leisure Aboard Skylab

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Like most anyone on a day off, Skylab's astronauts slept late in their orbiting station today. They looked forward to the luxury of man's first space shower after a week of work in the warm laboratory.

They slept nearly three hours past their normal wakeup time and once they were up and around they had little to say to Mission Control of the first leisure day ever enjoyed by men in space.

It is one of three free days planned during the 28-day mission by Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz.

Experiments are suspended for the day. Unless there is an emergency, mission control will leave them alone, except for relaying routine messages.

Experts on the ground will continue to troubleshoot Skylab's power shortage, working on procedures for one of the astronauts to take a space walk to release a stuck solar panel.

Commander Conrad hinted Thursday night there may be at least some chores to do.

"It'll be more like a field day," he radioed. "We've got an awful lot of housekeeping to do. Things are scattered all over the place, so we'll spend some time cleaning house."

Conrad said he hoped to play orbiting tourist and snap some pictures from the window during the day. He asked the control center for the map coordinates of Egypt's pyramids and African Mt. Kilimanjaro.

One thing they're looking forward to is the shower, scheduled for late afternoon. Each will lather himself, step behind a circular plastic shower curtain and use a hand-held device to spray himself with about two quarts of water.

In the weightless environment of the space station, the water droplets were expected to cling to the curtain and the astronauts. The spacemen will suck them up with a hand-operated vacuum cleaner.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz have worked in 80-degree plus temperatures since boarding the station a week ago and have reported they are somewhat sweaty.

Ingram Moving

RALEIGH (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram says he is "moving full speed" to abolish the assigned risk program and implement a reinsurance plan of handling liability insurance for high-risk drivers.

Ingram announced Thursday he is calling a meeting for June 8 to organize a board of governors which will operate the reinsurance plan set up by the 1973 General Assembly.

The board is to be organized within three weeks and will then have 60 days to draw up a plan of operation for Ingram's approval.

Ingram pointed out that it is the first reinsurance plan for auto liability insurance ever enacted in the United States. He commented that "the eyes of the nation are on North Carolina and this important automobile insurance reform."

Under the reinsurance plan a motorist would buy his liability insurance from the agent of his choice and receive immediate coverage from the company of his choice.

Talks Of Spy Plan

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Sam Ervin says secret papers of former presidential counsel John W. Dean III detail White House plans to set up "an interagency operation to spy on Americans, especially those who disagreed with the administration."

Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the select Senate committee probing Watergate, told a news conference Thursday the papers reveal a "Gestapo mentality" in the highest levels of the Nixon administration. The Gestapo was the secret police agency of Nazi Germany.

"It would be a great shock to the American people" if the papers were made public, he said.

Sources close to the Watergate investigation have said the plan was devised to collect information on antiwar radicals, black militants and Arab saboteurs, among others.

Claim Trawlers Rammed Tug

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — A government spokesman charged today that 10 to 20 British trawlers rammed an Icelandic tugboat three times in disputed waters east of Iceland, leaving it in danger of sinking.

Hannes Jonsson, press secretary to the government, called it a "horrible act of British aggression."

HIT PROTECTIONISM

JERUSALEM (AP) — More than 1,000 businessmen from abroad concluded a five-day conference on the Israeli economy Thursday and urged the government to lower protectionist trade barriers.

Must Decide If Price Worth It

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says Americans must decide if they want to "pay the price attached to environmental considerations" as fuel supplies ebb.

"Environmentalists don't want the Alaskan pipeline," Butz said after the National Agriculture Meeting on Fuel and Transportation here Thursday.

"Those opposed to the pipeline should be the first to experience a shortage," he said in an address to 250 national farm leaders.

Charlotte Firm Low Bidder For Addition To Joyner Library

David M. Hunt Construction Co. of Charlotte was low bidder for the general construction contract for a 90,100 square-feet addition to East Carolina University's Joyner Library when bids were received 90 days ago.

Work on the project, which is now under way, is scheduled for completion in about 18 months, officials say.

The Hunt firm, according to information supplied by James J. Lowery, director of the physical plant at ECU, submitted a low base bid of $1.44 million ($1.51 million including alternates) for construction of the three-story addition which will almost double the size of the present 92,000 square feet library.

Other low bidders and their base bids on the project included: plumbing, Thompson Plumbing, Inc. $49,000; mechanical, Kinston Plumbing and Heating Co., $258,735; electrical, Bryant-Durham Electric Co., $177,300; elevator, Westbrook Elevator, $20,544; electronics, Electronic Sound and Equipment Co., $6,455; wood casework, Sperry-Rand, $35,704; and metal casework, Sperry-Rand, $51,072.

According to Wendell W. Smiley, director of library services at the university, the library addition will be a three-story structure located to the west of the present facility. Connecting the old and new sections will be a one-story link containing a new main entrance for the library.

Smiley noted that the main service desk will be located in the one-story area when construction and renovation of the present building are complete (the General Assembly this year apppopriated $720,000 for renovation of the present building to make it compatable with the new addition), while reading room, reference, periodical, reserve will be housed in the three-story addition.

Included in the plans for the new building are a central music distribution system for continuous music as well as an intercommunications system for messages, Smiley said.

In addition to the low bidders on the project, other firms submitting proposals and their base bids included: general, George W. Kane, $1.60 million; L. P. Cox Co., $1.69 million; and T. A. Irish Make A Surprise Choice

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

The Irish Republic's surprise choice of English-born Protestant Erskine Childers as president opens the way for a new attack on religious feuding in Northern Ireland, but Childers doubts whether his victory will have any immediate effect.

Terrorists killed two persons in Belfast late Thursday as Northern Ireland held local council elections as a prelude to legislative elections June 28. The Protestant Unionist Party, which has ruled Ulster for 50 years, again held firm control.

More than 88 per cent of the electorate voted in some areas and observers saw this as a defeat for the Irish Republican Army, which had called for a total boycott of the polls.

In his presidential campaign Childers, 68, promised to try to get Northern Ireland's Protestants and Catholics to the conference table in an effort to bring peace to the six counties under British rule.

Despite his religion, his English upbringing and opposition to the Irish Republican Army, Childers is expected to have trouble persuading Ulster Protestants that a Dublin politician can offer a genuine hand of friendship.

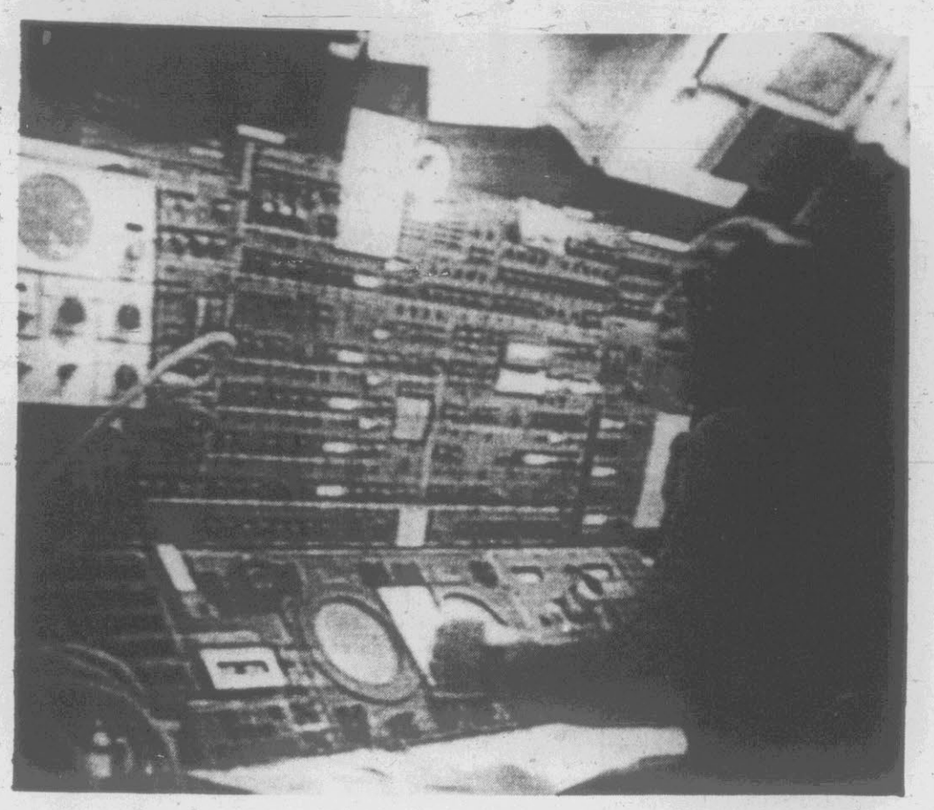

Although the Republic's new government has also proclaimed aims of national reconciliation, the new president's personal initiative is limited by the constitutional role of the Irish presidency, which is largely ceremonial and akin to the British Monarchy.

Some observers note, however, that such limitations did not prevent King George V from making personal initiatives to solve the Irish question in 1920.

"I would like to use whatever influence I have in establishing a common feeling between the two parts of the country and above all in helping the two communities in the North to get to know each other better," Childers said Thursday.

Childers replaces Deamon de Valera, the 91-year-old founder of Fianna Fail who held the presidency for more than a half century during the stormiest era of Irish politics.

The New York-born de Valera, now fragile and nearly blind, plans to retire to a home for the elderly in suburban Dublin with his 95-year-old wife, Sinead.

Dental Insurance Plan Hearing Set In Raleigh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A plan for dental insurance has been proposed for North Carolina. It's the Delta Dental Plan, similar to the Blue Cross and Blue Shield for prepaid hospital and medical insurance.

The Delta plan originated in California, Washington and Oregon in 1955. From the Pacific Northwest it has expanded to most of the industralized states, with about 17 million persons under coverage.

Ferris Hoggard, executive president, says Delta has asked to set up a comprehensive program of insurance to cover the cost of basic dental care in North Carolina. It would be the state's first dental insurance plan.

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram will hold a hearing in his office in Raleigh on June 27 to consider Delta's proposed rates and any opposition to the plan. If he is satisfied the plan is sound, he can then license the company immediately.

Hoggard said Delta will concentrate on selling group coverage to large corporations and labor unions as a fringe benefit of employment. He said the alverage Delta plan would include all diognostic, restorative and preventive work. The premium of $10-12 a month for a family of four would be paid by the employer. The patient would pay the first $25 of each dental bill, and Delta would pay 80 per cent of the remaining portion. Plans are available at additional cost in which Delta would pay all charges.

Orthodontics (braces) and prosthetics (dentures) are not included in the basic plan, but may be attached as a rider.

Before Delta moves into a state, it obtains the approval of the state dental society. It has done so in North Carolina and Commissioner Ingram told the convention of the society in Pinehurst last month that he favored granting a license to Delta. He said it would provide dental health at reasonable rates. A past president of the society, Dr. Joseph Johnson of Laurinburg, said about 940 of the estimated 1,500 dentists in the state have agreed to sign with Delta.

New Hurricane Season Begins

MIAMI (AP) — The Atlantic hurricane season begins today and experts predict seven of the massive, soaked whirlwinds — with two hitting the U.S. coastline.

Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the National Hurricane Center, said he can't tell the future or see into a crystal ball. But he said the predictions are based on storm statistics compiled over the past 100 years.

He also emphasized that the center is "in no position to say whether we will get a big hurricane or a small hurricane."

Simpson said no storms are brewing at the moment, adding that June and July are normally quiet months for the hurricanes.

August is usually the first active month, with two or three storms building to the height of the season by early September, he said.

Storm expectancy drops in the latter part of September, picking up again in October, he said.

The season lasts through November.

"We can expect in a normal year to have 10 name storms," Simpson said. "Of these, seven could reach hurricane intensity and two could reach the U.S. coastline."

American Red Cross spokesman Peter J. Barreca isn't too optimistic about this being a normal year.

"A killer storm is long overdue," he said. Barreca advised advanced summer precautions including:

— Keep emergency equipment such as candles, oil lamps, flashlights and battery-operated radios and fire extinguishers.

— Know how to remove or secure shutters or awnings.

— Remove branches that could fall and cause damage.

— Know the location of Red Cross emergency shelters.

— Keep a supply of emergency food such as canned goods and milk and check emergency cooking facilities.

The hurricane center announced earlier this month that "Alice" would head the list of names for Atlantic storms. Other names include Brenda, Christine, Delia, Ellen, Fran, Gilda, Helen, Imogene, Joy, Kate, Loretta, Madge, Nancy, Ona, Patsy, Rose, Sally Tam, Vera, and Wilda.

New Landfill Ordinance Goes Into Effect Today

The City of Greenville's new Landfill Operations Ordianance, adopted by City Council on May 3, goes into effect today. The new ordinance is designed to improve operating procedures at the landfill site, reduce the environmental pollution resulting from the landfill operation, and limit use of the facility to individuals, businesses, industries, and institutions within the City of Greenville and its one mile extra-territorial perimeter.

The most significant elements of the new ordinance include a list of materials which will be prohibited from disposal at the landfill site, minimum vehicle requirements for those vehicles utilizing the landfill, and provisions under which industries located within the City's extra-territorial perimeter may contract with the City for use of the landfill.

Minimum vehicle requirements will require that all waste brought to the landfill site for disposal be enclosed or covered in such a manner as to prevent the littering of streets leading to the landfill site. Operating hours for the landfill will be from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Saturdays. The landfill will be closed on Sundays and all public holidays.

Commenting on the new ordinance, City Manager William H. Carstarphen commended the Public Works Department and its Landfill Division for the "good job they have been doing in handling and properly disposing of the constantly increasing amounts of solid waste generated by the Greenville Community".

Carstarphen said, however, that without the new Landfill Operations Ordinance, the City would have been unable to continue operating the Landfill site in an environmentally acceptable condition. "We all are beginning to realize the responsibility we have for the proper mnagement and protection of our environment; these new procedures will help the City of Greenville carry out its share of those responsibilities," Carstarphen said.

The City Manager emphasized that those industries within the City's one mile extra-territorial perimeter area wishing to continue to utilize the City Landfill site should secure use permits from the City Manager's Office. Fees for the use of the Landfill site by extra-territorial industries will range from $1.50 per load for vehicles of one-half ton or less in capacity to $10.00 per load for vehicles of greater than one and one-half tons in capacity.

Pitt Has 2 Grads In Class At NCSD

Two students from Pitt County will graduate Sunday, from the North Carolina School for the Deaf (NCSD) in Morganton during the school's 78th annual commencement exercises.

They are Donya Nadine Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil B. Heath of Greenville; and Edward Spence Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones of Greenville. Jones is one of nine seniors who will attend Gallaudet College in the fall. Gallaudet, in Washington, D.C., is the world's only liberal arts college for the deaf.

These seniors are members of a graduating class of 56.

For most students at the School for the Deaf, graduation culminates 15 years of work — three years in preschool training and 12 years of academic work. In addition to receiving a diploma, most graduates will receive a vocational certificate in a skilled area, such as printing, data processing or automotive repair.

NCSD, founded in 1894, is the only high school for the deaf in North Carolina. It offers a full extra-curricular and co-curricular program for its 240 students. Pre-high school study for hearing impaired children is offered at three locations in the state — NCSD in Morganton; Eastern School for the Deaf in Wilson; and Central School for the Deaf temporarily located in Raleigh.

Hauled All Four To Jail

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Four women in separate cars were arrested on drunken driving charges when a lone sergeant went to investigate what he thought would be a routine fender bender.

Fort Myers police said Thursday it began when Sgt. James Bowen was investigating a crash between two cars on a bridge over the Caloosahatchee River.

As he was writing driving-while-intoxicated charges on the two female drivers, a third woman, also tipsy, smashed her auto into his patrol car.

Just as he finished arresting her, a fourth female driver aggravated by the traffic jam on the bridge began honking her horn and ordered Sgt. Bowen to clear up the mess. She said the lights of the wreckers were hurting her eyes and she was in a hurry to get home.

Bowen slapped her with a DWI charge, too, and hauled all four to jail.

Consider Dacron Plant In S.C.

KINSTON — The DuPont Co. announced it is considering construction of a plant to manufacture "Dacron Polyester" staple and filament fibers at a site some 20 miles north of Charleston, S.C.

The 2,000 acre site on the Coope River was purchased in 1970. It is now being evaluated for possible use in DuPont's program to expand production of "Dacron" to meet a growing demand, the company reported.

A decision, it was noted, is expected within the next few months.

Daddy's Money Oils The Skids For Fiance

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl with a broken heart. I met Rick in college at the beginning of the year. We fell in love and planned to be married this summer. Rick is a graduate student.

My daddy is in oil and has a lot of money, but I wish we were poor because Daddy's money is what caused my problem.

When Rick went to talk to Daddy about marrying me, Daddy asked Rick to meet him at his office. Daddy had a lawyer there with some papers for Rick to sign, saying if the marriage didn't work out Rick wouldn't get any of my money I'll be getting when I turn 21.

Rick wouldn't sign anything, instead he called me up and said he didn't want any part of a family like mine, so now I am without a boy friend.

My daddy said if Rick really loved me he would have signed those papers. I told my Daddy he had no right to ask Rick to sign anything.

Please tell me what you think about all this? I don't have a mother. CRYING MY EYES OUT

DEAR CRYING: Your father should have talked it over with you first. But if Rick gave you up just like that, your daddy could have been right. Dry your tears, honey. Rick could be back.

DEAR ABBY: Because my husband and I are unable to have children of our own, we applied as foster parents thru our state welfare department.

Our first child was a teen-age girl, fresh out of a girls' correctional institution. It was a frustrating experience for us—and for her, too. After admitting our failure, the case-worker removed her from our care and gave us another foster child. Since then, we have had many, mostly teen-agers. Many we've helped. A few we have not, but those we've helped have more than compensated for the others.

Abby, you wouldn't believe the number of friends and relatives who ask us: "Why do you take in those damaged kids who have been abused and kicked around and taught to lie and cheat? If they were your OWN, you'd have to put up with them, but you're crazy to ask for unnecessary headaches. Can you really love those kids?"

Our reply: "Most of our children are just like your children, with one exception. Our children have been denied the love and understanding of their natural parents. We have tried to provide them with that love and understanding. If you and your spouse were to suddenly die, and neither friends nor relatives wanted to take on 'unnecessary headaches,' what would happen to your children? I guarantee you, we could love them as easily as we love the children we now have."

What else can we say, Abby? FOSTER PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Nothing. You've said it all. And beautifully.

Mayor Aims To Getting People Involved

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't smile when people call Barbara Impellittiere "her honor."

They aren't joking. The 27-year-old brunette is the new mayor of the village of Cold Spring, N.Y., across the Hudson River from West Point. She's serious about things she wants to do for her hometown of 2,083 residents.

"When I decided to run, it was a personal sort of crusade. I didn't expect photographers and reporters to descend on the house because I was young and female. I wondered how community people would feel, of course. I called and they said 'Run!' They know women's liberation is not my thing. I didn't think it was a youth thing. It was just personal," the new mayor said.

Born and brought up in Cold Spring, Barbara works as spot broadcasting buyer for an advertising agency. She commutes an hour and a half, each way, to work in New York City every day.

The daughter of a former professional boxer, Barbara says she learned about politics from her dad. He was Raymond Impellittiere, who died six years ago. He is remembered in Putnam County, where Cold Spring is located, as an automobile dealer active in Democratic politics. He was 245-pounds, 6 feet 7 inches tall, and in his ring career he compiled a 44 win, four loss record. A cousin of his was a former mayor of New York City.

"I never even met him,' Barbara said, "but people always ask me if politics runs in the family."

Barbara was a county Democratic committee woman and member of the Philipstown Democratic Club. She began that involvement while campaigning for her father in 1960 when he ran unsuccessfully for sheriff.

"I always thought that someday I might get into politics, but I had no timetable. This year it happened to be easier because I had fewer activities, and not many other people were interested," the young woman said.

Barbara said it is important to her to bring people together.

"My platform was continuing present projects and promoting unity, trying to promote more community spirit. I care very much about the village, about what happens to it and future growth," she said.

She wants more people involved in civic activities and as part of her campaign conducted a voter registration drive. It's complicated because general and town elections have separate registration from village elections. Residents don't always comprehend the difference, and think one registration visit does it all.

"People outside Cold Spring think it's unusual that I'm 27 years old and still living at home. Our family is very close. (In addition to her mother, Barbara lives with two sisters and a brother.)

"It's the kind of house where, if you aren't there, you're calling up to see what's going on. I enjoy commuting. The people on the train are another family. We've had birthday parties and I've learned to play cribbage.

"If you enjoy people and enjoy living, everything can be fun," Barbara added. "And I think if my father were here, he'd be proud of me."

The new mayor, who won the election 510 to 142 over a male opponent, is paid $1,200 annually.

During her two-year term she will work with four other village board members making decisions on everything affecting services and government.

"Growth is our biggest problem. We have to decide how and in what direction to grow. We have water system problems and must plan effectively for that," she said.

The youthful executive says it's "out of place" to bring up a political future now. It is too far ahead, she added, to even think about.

"I'm more concerned with what happens to Cold Spring. There's not enough caring among young people. Maybe with new ideas and improved communication, that can change."

"Good Cheap Food" Cookbook May Not Be So Inexpensive

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cookbook titled "Good Cheap Food" seems a natural for the best seller list in these inflationary times—but is it?

With prices rising rapidly, any book on this theme risks obsolesence before it reaches bookstores. Such is the case, unfortunately, of Miriam Ungerer's newly published cookbook of that title ($10 in hardcover, $3.95 in paperback, both from Viking).

Her first recipe is a good example—a pot-au-feu, or one-dish-meal soup, which calls for: Four pounds of boneless beef roast such as top or bottom round or rump ($1.49 to $1.79 per pound in various Manhattan supermarkets);

Three pounds of beef shinbones or shoulder knuckle (89 cents a pound);

A 4-pound roasting chicken (53 to 89 cents a pound); and

A Whole Kielbasy

A whole kielbasy, or Polish sausage (about $1.37 per sausage).

This works out to about $12.22 cents for the meat and poultry alone, or $1.22 per serving, if you shop around for the best buys. The total cost rises when you include the vegetables, soup stock, gas or electricity to cook the soup, and shoe leather or gas or transit or cab fare used as you walk, drive or ride from store to store.

Another less-than-bargain recipe at today's prices-actually, they're pre-boycott prices—is galantine, a boneless stuffed roasting chicken of 6 to 7 pounds.

The 53-cent-a-pound birds ran no larger than 4 to 5 pounds each, so right away you're in trouble. Assuming you can find —and float a loan—for the 89-cent-a-pound variety, you'd also need for the stock and stuffing such costly ingredients as:

One half pound of salt pork (89 cents a pound);

$1.39 for Chops

Half a pound of lean fresh boneless pork ($1.39 a pound for chops, if you bone them yourself);

Stewing veal (sorry, couldn't find any, probably indicating that the price really is out of sight);

One-fourth pound of cooked ham or tongue (50 cents worth of boiled ham at $1.99 a pound is cheaper than buying a whole tongue, unless you're planning a meal around it soon);

Half a calf's foot. Short of calling at a slaughterhouse, where have you seen a calf's foot for sale lately?

And do save your change. You'll also need a cup of dry white wine and ¼ cup of cognac or madeira, soup stock, herbs and vegetables.

In fairness, it must be said that some of Miss Ungerer's recipes are relatively cheap: Vegetable dishes, for example, and combination foods such as macaroni and tuna salad, bean salad vinaigrette and stone broke hash, made with canned corned beef.

Too Many Break Promise

But far too many of her main dish meat and poultry recipes break the promise of the book's title.

If you're willing to spend $10 or more on a cookbook to help cut food bills, a better new one to put your money on is "The Jack Sprat Cookbook" by Polly Zane (Harper & Row $10.95). Because it is intended for persons on low-cholesterol diets, it calls for no expensive cuts of marbled meats, no shellfish, creamed foods, butter, cream and high fat cheese.

Recommended servings are smaller than usual.

Meat, fish and poultry recipes reflect good taste, inventiveness and an eye on the food budget.

Even the 14 veal recipes are not outrageously priced, because they generally allow only 1½ to 2 pounds for six servings or 1 to 1¼ pounds for four servings.

More Than 600 Recipes

Mrs. Zane's book contains more than 600 recipes, plus a foreword by Dr. Campbell Moses, medical director of the American Heart Association, and supplementary material in easily understandable language by Dr. Daniel Steinberg, a leader in research on the relationship of diet to heart disease.

For only $2.95 and with only 95 recipes, "The Pennypincher's Book of Fine Food" by Caroline Hightower (Simon and Schuster) has stood the test of time better than most cost-cutting cookbooks.

Shopping advice in its introduction is just as sound now as it was when the book was published in 1968. And shopping is just as important as cooking knowhow when you're trying to save money.

The suggested meat servings allow for ½ pound each, which is unrealistic today, but they're easy enough to reduce, at either the meat counter or the dinner table.

Bonnie Cashin, award-winning designer, was asked what one thing motivates her works. She answered: "Love. Love of color, love of texture, line and form; love or rearranging elements in response to patterns of living as I see it. And, love in the doing."

Exercise In One's Opinion

Pepsi-Cola has completed a poll of newsmen nationwide of the most important news events of the past 75 years — that being the number of years Pepsi-Cola has been around.

The results showed that the Man Landing on the Moon was considered the top story of the past 75 years by the participating journalist.

Others in order were:

—Atom Bomb Dropped on Hiroshima.
—John F. Kennedy Assasination.
—World War II
—World War I
—Bombing of Pearl Harbor
—Russian Revolution
—Great Depression
—Wright Brothers Flight
—1929 Stock Market Crash
—Vietnam war.

We saved our own list which we submitted some months ago. Here it is:

—Rise of Hitler and World War II
—Atomic Bomb
—U.S. Depression and Roosevelt New Deal
—World War I
—Vietnam War
—Rise of Communism in Russia, China and Eastern Europe.
—Israel and Middle East Tension
—Assasination of John F. Kenndy
—Truman stand in Greece, Berlin and Korea.
—Desegregation of U.S. South.

We suppose that every reader can argue about either list, but looking back we cannot imagine how we left off the man moonlanding and we would have to be symphathetic with including the Wright Brothers flight, especially since it took place so close to us.

If we were making the list now we would be tempted to include Watergate, anticipating the great impact it is going to have on American politics. But then we do not know what we would leave off the original list. It was an interesting exercise, however, and one in which ever reader's opinion is as good as the professional newsmens'.

1974 Assembly To Act Faster

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — There's a pretty good guarantee the General Assembly won't drag out the session far into April when it comes back to Raleigh next January.

BRYAN HAISLIP

That's the May date for party primaries, an event which will involve all those members with ambitions to continue their services in the legislature.

A failure of concensus for an alternate left unchanged the time for primary voting Proposals to shift it tc summer of fall were debatec to a stalemate.

The result did a favor for the citizenry, in the view of Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state board of elections.

"It didn't cost a dime, and it could save a lot of money by making it a shorter session," he said. Lawmakers eager to be home campaigning aren't as likely to prolong legislative business, he observed.

'It's possible, but improbable, that the legislature could move the 1974 primary soon after it convenes next year, Brock said. Such short notice, he said, would be damaging to the process. "It would be more appropriate, if a change is to me made, for it to apply to the 1976 primary," he said.

Tuesday Primary Set

There will be something different next year. For the first time, the primary will fall on a Tuesday (May 14) rather than the traditional Saturday. That shift, approved in 1971 but suspended for the 1972 primary, is designed to attract a larger voter turnout.

The primary date change was one of a slew of ideas legislators produced affecting elections. Like it, those representing a radical departure from present practice were defeated or delayed.

An altered political climate inspired some measures with a partisan edge. One would have taken from Gov. Jim Holshouser, a Republican, the power to give his party a majority on the state and county boards of elections.

It raised a storm of flak, and its Democratic sponsors withdrew the measure. It would have made membership on the boards correspond to voter registration for the parties, thus keeping the Democratic balance.

Othere changes proposed in election laws which didn't get far included abolishing the run-off primary and requiring voters to sign a poll book.

Many Proposals Offered

Altogether, nearly 70 bills dealing with election laws were introduced during the session, Brock reported. "I can't remember a session more prolific with election legislation," he said.

Among the handful enacted, Brock identified as a significant accomplishment a simplified absentee ballot for both primary and general election.

"It doesn't add to the cost, and it serves the convenience of the public which makes it a pretty good piece of legislation," he said.

An experiment in 1972 with a primary absentee ballot helped in the design of the law. At that time, complaints were heard about the lengthy procedure required to apply for and vote an absentee ballot.

The principal feature of the new law, Brock said, is a one-stop process. The citizen who can't get to the polls on election day will be able to go to the county board of elections office, apply for and receive a ballot, mark it and return it all in one trip, he explained.

A Faster Count

Another change will speed up counting on election night. In the past, absentees were returned to the precinct to be counted there after the regular tally. That frequently meant late returns, particularly in populous counties with a lot of absentees, Brock noted.

The new method will provide for all absentee ballots to be retained at the county office, and counted at 5 p.m. on election day, Brock said.

Along with tinkering with the machinery, the legislature assured a fall trip to the polls for Tar Heel voters.

It set for next Nov. 6 a statewide referendum on the question of liquor-by-the-drink sales. It also authorized a $300 million bond inssue for public school construction, subject to the vote of the people. The date will be set by proclamation of the governor, and likely also will fall on Nov. 6.

For the first time in history, a statewide pattern for municipal elections will prevail this fall. Previously, city officials generally were chosen in the spring. The key note in that balloting also will come Nov. 6.

Mitchell Adds To The Riddles

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—John Mitchell denied to federal investigators three weeks ago that he had any role in the 1969-70 national security wiretaps despite documentary evidence that he approved them, piling new riddles on top of the mystery over both his past and future role in the Watergate scandal.

Mitchell's denial lacks all plausible explanation. Nor is it the first time that Mitchell's denials of Watergate-connected events have been contradicted by facts which had to be known to him. Thus, investigators in both the Justice Department and the Senate wonder about the value of his future testimony, a growing doubt that could play into President Nixon's hands if Mitchell attacks him.

In private conversations, Mitchell gives the impression both of confusion and of a desire to tell all. Combined with the questions of his credibility, Mitchell—once the strongman of the Nixon administration—now becomes a dangerous unknown in the Watergate mess.

That was shown by his strange conduct in the FBI's routine investigation of the 17 or so national security wiretaps. Attempting to find the then missing wiretap files, FBI agents interviewed Mitchell in New York in mid-May. He not only denied any knowledge of the taps but said flatly he had not approved them.

But when the files shortly thereafter were located in a White House safe, the FBI noted that John Mitchell's approval was signed to them. Could it have been a Justice Department clerk duplicating the Attorney General's signature? FBI officials personally familiar with Mitchell's signature said absolutely no. Moreover, some of the wiretap requests contained marginal notes unmistakably pencilled in by Mitchell.

To make sure, the FBI called in handwriting experts to test the signatures. Their verdict: they were signed by the real John Mitchell.

At the same time, Mitchell was saying, "I don't know what the hell he's talking about," in response to an allegation by a former aide that Atty. Gen. Mitchell had asked him to contact Supreme Court justices to protest an anti-wiretap decision. Mitchell's earlier denials under oath that he played a role in the 1972 campaign before resigning as Attorney Genral, farcical on its face, has been contradicted by other sworn testimony. He has amended his previous sworn denials of any prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary. And he has been indicted for perjury in the Vesco case.

Now, Mitchell seems eager to get on the witness stand to talk. Taking up habits made famous by wife wife, he has placed late evening telephone calls—not to newsmen but to friends—to indicate that desire. But is not clear what he wants to say. If fact, some of these friends have described him as "rattled"—about as far as he could get from the Mitchell of old.

One Mitchell associate belives his agitated state of mind was set off by a private telephone call from a newspaper correspondent telling Mitchell that ex-presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, never a friend, was going to implicate him deeply in the Watergate scandal. After that, Mitchell told the UPI's Helen Thomas over the telephone that somebody was trying to make him "the fall guy'" in the scandal.

According to one Nixon intimate, none of this is surprising. He contends that Mitchell, contrary to his strongman reputation, habitually would deny on Tuesday what he said Monday in the administration's inner councils. "John Mitchell's problem is that he can't remember what he says," contends this presidential adviser.

But he had always been a rival of Mitchell. Friendlier sources are baffled by Mitchell's present demeamor. Republican politicians regarded him as a straight talker who certainly did remember what he said from one day to the next and vastly preferred him to President Nixon's haughtly personal aides.

Indeed, one high-level Republican who has known Mitchell well for years feels he has changed tremendously in recent weeks. While Mitchell has been losing his grip, he says, his wife Martha has been playing a cool and long-headed game against the White House. Despite

Strength For Today

FACING THE STORM

Birds in a snowstorm instinctively face directly into the wind. The reason is that only in this way can they shed the snow or sleet from their bodies. If they turned their backs into the storm their feathers would get soaked and they would freeze.

Their unconscious instinct leads them to do something which we humans should erect into a policy in life-meeting the storm by facing it. How many are those clear eyed, confident men and women who inspire us because we know that they have faced many a storm in life and have survived. Nothing is too dreadful to survive if we face it calmly and go through with it. It becomes intolerable when it pursues us and claws at us from behind. Then, like the birds who might turn their backs to a storm, our defenses go all awry and we invite defeat. If we have to go down, it is certainly better to go down fighting.

Learn from the birds: don't take the storm on the back; take it on the beak.

Like The Forsyte Saga

WASHINGTON—It was May, 1975, and the Watergate hearings were still being televised every day. It was the longest show in the history of television and, like The Forsyte Saga, it was hard to keep all the characters straight.

The Bilkin family sat in front of their set bleary-eyed, but determined to see it through.

On the stand was John Dean III who had been testifying every day for eight months.

Maude Bilkin said, "What a nice-looking boy. Tricia made a smart choice marrying him."

"Tricia isn't married to John Dean," Alan Bilkin said, "she's married to Jeb Magruder."

The Bilkins' 16-year-old daughter Ellie spoke up. "I thought Julie was married to Jeb Magruder and Tricia was married to Sen. Sam Ervin."

"No," said Joel, the 18-year-old son. "Sam Ervin is married to Martha Mitchell. Their son is Henry Kissinger."

Maude replied, "I thought Henry Kissinger was the nephew of John Ehrlichman."

Alan Bilkin shook his head. "No, don't you remember last year it was revealed that Henry Kissinger was H. R. Haldeman's long lost son?"

"That's right," Joel said. "And Henry Kissinger and Martha Mitchell were in love but they broke up when G. Gordon Liddy tapped their telephone."

"Didn't Martha Mitchell marry Maurice Stans?" Ellie asked.

"No, she married Robert Vesco and moved to Costa Rica," Maude said.

"I don't remember that," Alan said.

"You were working that day," Maude explained.

"What happened to Dick Helms?" Alan asked.

"Dick Helms became the head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and lost a finger at Wounded Knee," Joel said.

"I thought Bebe Rebozo was at Wounded Knee," Ellie said.

"No, Bebe Rebozo became the governor of Florida when Daniel Ellsberg was appointed the head of the CIA," Allan said.

"Wasn't Daniel Ellsberg Patrick Gray's lawyer?" Maude asked.

"No, Ron Ziegler was Patrick Gray's lawyer. But then he resigned to become the commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps," Joel said.

"I thought Richard Kleindienst was made the commandant," Ellie said.

"No, Kleindienst became the head of ITT after Dita Beard moved to Denver," Alan said.

"It does seem hard to follow," Maude said. "Let's listen."

Ellie said, "Dean seems to be talking about President Nixon."

"What happened to President Nixon?" Joel asked.

To the editor:

In a recent article in the Daily Reflector, Dr. John East conveyed some strange ideas concerning academic research, at least as far as the sciences are concerned. Contrary to what Dr. East says, scientific research is scholarship in its truest sense. Research can, of course, be poor and pointless, just as is true for researchless scholarship as espoused by Dr. East.

Whether or not the results of research can be applied to solutions of man's problems has no relation to the quality of this scholarship. The key point is that a person at a university be given freedom, within limits, to pursue his interests in research.

Finally a true university cannot exist without research any more than it could exist without Dr. East's researchless scholarship.

Sincerely,
Graham J. Davis

To the editor:

I would like to thank the writer from Newton Grove for sharing with us his thoughts in his excellent letter to the Public Forum (ref. 5-28-73). His satire on the current problems in the White House was simply superb.

Noisy Hybrid Female

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe I'm a male chauvinist pig. Maybe I'm not a male chauvinist pig.

HAL BOYLE

But whether or not I am, I'm tired of being called one by a lot of strident women who ought to be tossed into the town pond as common scolds.

A lot of men I know are also getting annoyed by being denounced as male chauvinist pigs by a pack of female harridans who wouldn't be pleased by a man if he were a cross between Sir Galahad and St. Francis.

Because of a courtesy to the fair sex learned at my mother's knee — the lesson was applied with the back end of a hairbrush — I wouldn't refer to these shrewish ladies as female chauvinist pigs.

But female they are — and chauvinists they are. The dictionary defines chauvinism as "undue partiality or attachment to an ideal or cause."

I submit that a majority of the women of America themselves recognize that some of these apostles and their claims are ridiculous, hysterical and downright laughable. Some of these female chauvinists seem to want not equality with men but outright war between the sexes. I don't think the ordinary American woman wants to be without a man or, having him, to make a war between them. The goal is one of mutual affection and respect — and fun.

But what is puzzling to most men is a new type of hybrid female emerging from the women's liberation movement.

She is the type who wants to exact from a man the gallantries of the past but at the same time insist on her right to compete with him on fully equal terms in the career field.

Even if she is trying to take his own job away from him, she expects him too —

Push her way through the revolving door as they enter the office building.

Let her enter the elevator first.

Let her get out of the elevator first.

Defer to her during office conferences.

Watch her flaunt sex in a way he can't.

Let her have the first cab he can hail on a rainy day, if they leave the office at the same time.

Light her cigarettes at office functions.

Reach for the tab first if they have a business luncheon.

Yes, she is woman — he is man. Even though she is after his very bread and butter, he can't treat her as a rival. Politeness is forced on him by every tradition of the past.

What can a man do to deal with the underhanded tactics of this new hybrid type of woman he now confronts more often every year?

The truth is that it is all so new to him the average man hasn't figured out yet what he can do — except to break his

Stock Mart Sees Instability

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Bogged down in a slump that some brokers call the worst in their memory, the stock market looks around warily like a turtle poking out its head, hoping to find assurance. And all it finds is instability.

Instability in politics, in monetary affairs, culturally, financially. In Watergate, gold and dollar prices, in the prices of grain at Chicago, in the level of consumer confidence.

And so, turned in upon themselves, all brokers can do is contemplate their own miserable, unstable state of affairs, while a prolonged and long delayed reorganization of the nation's investment machinery seems stalled.

The central marketplace, a goal that would eliminate much of the self-interest and peculiarities of the individual exchanges, is still but a goal. The Securities and Exchange Commission has lost two aggressive leaders in less than a year. And at a time when Wall Street was trying to encourage confidence, another brokerage house might have to be liquidated.

Seat prices on the Big Board, which once sold for more than $500,000 and which were relied upon by many brokers for their retirement, recently dipped below $90,000. American Stock Exchange seats are selling for less than $30,000.

Prices of shares in companies that are considered essential, strong, highly reputable and with good futures have fallen to what some brokers feel are their ultimate lows, and still the customers remain unexcited.

The market went right through one of the biggest booms in years, with corporate profits soaring — and stock prices falling. And now when they say it can't get worse, the economists are talking about a 1974 recession.

And so those who make sell stocks look for signs that the storms are ending. And the most welcome sign would be more selling.

Read the market literature, the letters that go to favorite customers, the newspapers, the industry magazines, and you find them talking about the coming climax, the big selloff that indicates rock bottom.

Following this, prices hopefully will bounce up to where they should be, accompanied by a resurrection of spirits that will energize even the most doubtful buyer.

Indicator Digest, which surveys market literature and business and money indicators, claims that its own average "now shows unmistakably that the present bear market rivals the historic 1929-1932 crash, and in some respects is even worse."

From the peak of December 1968, it says, "the entire body of stocks" has dropped 55 per cent on average. And "if you look beyond the top 50 institutional favorites," it notes, you can find 70 to 90 per cent declines.

Such erasure of values would seem to indicate rock bottom. However, nobody can really say for certain, because a selling climax that finally clears the air can only be seen in retrospect. Many declines look like climaxes, only to be followed by more declines. The convulsive shakeout now being sought couldn't be called a climax unless confirmed by sharply rising prices in following days.

Senate-House Compromise On Cambodia Bill Sought

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A conference committee will have the task of thrashing out a compromise between a Senate bill that would cut off all funds for U.S. military action in Indochina and a milder House version.

The Senate Thursday voted to cut off all funds for U.S. combat activity in Cambodia and Laos. The House had voted 219 to 188 May 10 to deny any funds in a $3.6-billion appropriation bill for any further hostility by the United States in Cambodia.

A majority of Republicans turned against President Nixon's bombing policy as the Senate voted 63 to 19 for the anti-bombing amendment sponsored by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo. The Senate ban, which applies to all money ever appropriated by Congress for any purpose, was attached to the same $3.6-billion bill.

Administration spokesmen had said that the House actipn, even if the Senate concurred, would not have stopped the bombing. B52 raids were started in March to force withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from Cambodia, in compliance with the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the administration said.

Eagleton said final adoption of his amendment after a House-Senate conference agreement would make any further U.S. combat activity in Cambodia and Laos illegal.

The conference probably will take up the bill next week.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., urged House conferees to remain firm against the all-inclusive Senate fund cutoff.

The Senate action, he said, undercuts presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger's negotiations with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho. The sessions resume in Paris June 6, as both men seek full compliance with the cease-fire accord.

"You are encouraging further bloodshed in Indochina," Tower told the Senate after the vote Thurrsday. "Don't think that lives are going to be spared just because we are out of it."

The Senate rejected two modifications of the Eagleton amendment proposed by administration backers who complained it would "tie the hands of the president."

The Eagleton amendment was approved by 43 Democrats and 20 Republicans. Another 16 Republicans and three Democrats voted against it.

The appropriation bill was passed 73 to 5.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇

A slight slip in timing proved fatal to declarer's cause in today's hand. The bidding was straightforward and North and South reached a four spade contract routinely.

West opened the king of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer apparently had to lose three tricks in the club suit, so that the fate of the contract appeared to hinge on the trump situation. In his haste to find out how the spades split, South promptly cashed the ace and king.

When East showed out on the second round, declarer's prospects were considerably dimmed. He continued by taking his top hearts and ruffing a third round in dummy. A diamond was trumped in the closed hand to enable South to ruff out his remaining heart. Another diamond was trumped with the five of spades bringing declarer's trick total to nine — five aces and kings in spades, hearts and diamonds and two ruffs in each of the red suits.

South was still left with one trump, the eight of spades and, if there were some way to lead from the dummy at this stage, he could have put his trump card to good use by ruffing out North's last diamond for the game fulfilling trick. Since he was in his hand, however, he had to surrender the lead, and after West drew the last trump with the queen of spades, the defenders took the remaining tricks.

South's mistake was quite simple to avoid. At trick two, he should have led a diamond from dummy in order to get in an early ruff. He can now cash the two top trumps and if the spades split evenly, everything becomes routine.

When the queen of spades holds out, South begins his cross-ruff, as before. The only difference is that, with one ruff already in, declarer is in position when the last diamond is led from dummy to put his eight of spades to effective use to score the 10th trick. The defense has no effective counter-measure at its disposal.

Had To 'Suppress' Evidence Of Guilt

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge says that because former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell ignored a command of Congress, the court had to suppress wiretaps showing evidence of guilt in 11 federal gambling, narcotics and bribery cases.

U.S. District Judge William Mehrtens said Thursday an April hearing in Miami at which Mitchell testified revealed the wiretaps were illegally authorized.

Only the attorney general and a few assistants can approve wiretaps under a law passed by Congress. It was revealed during the hearing that while Mitchell was attorney general, others in the U.S. Justice Department authorized wiretaps.

"For some reason unknown to this court, the highest law enforcement officer in the land believed he could ignore an express command of Congress," Mehrtens said.

"The blame for this waste of public resources, however, does not rest with the court," he added. "It lies squarely in the office of the attorney general of the United States."

The 11 cases were consolidated from several states for a single hearing on the wiretap issue.

"The evidence of guilt derived from the wiretaps is overwhelming," Mehrtens said.

NaturalGas Co. Asks Rate Hike

RALEIGH (AP) — Piedmont Natural Gas Co. of Charlotte has asked for a rate increase it says would amount to about 37 cents a month for its typical consumer.

It wants to pass along on July 1 price increases from two suppliers. It has been given permission to pass along the first increase, about 13 cents a month a customer. It says the new rates will bring in $2.8 million a year in North Carolina.

Mitchell's own public statements professing the President's innocence, Mrs. Mitchell has subtly warned "Mr. President" that, if her husband is made the Watergate scapegoat, "Mr. President" is going to seriously damage himself.

The demise of hard-nosed John Mitchell, from his inexplicable denials of provable facts to his wife's implicit threats against the President, has bewildered and saddened Republican politicians. They had regarded him as a political sanctuary when the Haldeman-Ehrlichman palace guard spurned them. Now, Mitchell has become one of the most combustible, uncertain elements in the Watergate disaster.

New Prodigy Of Religious Publishers

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Here in the old cattle country of Texas, a once-groping newcomer has become a prodigy of the religious publishing world.

Word, Inc., is the talk of the trade. It is one of the westward firms which have risen to challenge the religious publishing predominance of the East.

"A lot of it was providential and extremely fortuitous," says Jarrell McCracken, 45, the savvy founder-president of Word, whose sales now run $11.5 million annually, exceeding the religious output of most Eastern publishers.

Besides happenstance, however, some special insights into the religious concerns of the country also have gone into the shifting balance of religious publishing and into the stream of top-sellers from the houses of the West and Midwest.

"New York is not really the place to be to know the religious pulse of the American people," McCracken said in an interview. "I don't believe you can effectively publish religion without being a part of it and being with the people who are involved in it."

That specific, avowed commitment to nurturing faith has been a hallmark of the emerging big-time religious publishers of the inland region. Some have hewed to a distinctively conservative, evangelical output, such as Zondervan Publishing House of Grand Rapids, Mich., with ballooning sales.

While Word, Inc., also stemmed from that conservative, evangelical orientation in founder McCracken, a dedicated Southern Baptist, the company has broadened its range to enlist authors of various Christian views.

"The old liberal-conservative labels are not really viable," said Floyd Thatcher, 55, the company's vice president and executive editor, a veteran in the field. "We're concerned with the entire Christian arena.

"We want to reach the guy who has turned off the church as well as the church people locked into sterile approaches to religion and also those confused about why they are in church, people searching for the real meaning of Christianity."

The firm has turned out a long line of big sellers, including: "A Taste of New Wine," by Keith Miller, 650,000 copies in hard cover now going into paperback; "A Second Touch" and "Habitat of Dragons," also by Miller, totaling 400,000 in hard cover; and "The Stork is Dead" by Charlie W. Shedd, 125,000. The high figures compare with an average book's sales of under 5,000.

"Whatever an author's Christian position might be, we're interested in it if it carries authentic meaning, whether we agree with all of it or not," McCracken said. He said this has nettled some conservatives but their position gets ample attention, too.

"The church is in a transitional change as significant as that of the Protestant Reformation," he said. "The church is going to emerge with a totally different shape and form, and we're interested in the ideas pointing the way."

Word, Inc., got its beginning in 1951 when McCracken, then a sportscaster who preached and taught youth groups on weekends, recorded a catchy portrayal of Christianity as a football game, complete with dubbed in crowd noises.

Stores in the area soon were demanding the record, called "The Game of Life," and McCracken gradually was propelled into the record business. His firm grew into the country's largest religious record company; and in 1965, it entered the book field. It has turned out 325 titles so far—nearly 50 a year.

The new superhighway is a masterpiece of engineering skill, yet you still can't see around the curve in the distance. Whatever lies beyond the bend is as much a mystery as it was when this was a single-lane road.

Today we are living in the space age and are exposed to fresh miracles with almost every passing hour. But we still can't "see around the bend" of life. We are as human as we ever were and have no way of knowing what is coming next.

Since the beginning of time, man has lived with this mystery. What keeps him going? For many, it is the knowledge that the answer to our fate lies in far more capable hands than ours. This is God's universe, after all, His creation, and we are His creatures.

True, you can't see around the bend. But you can equip yourself for life's journey by taking a single, all-important step. This step is toward the church of your choice.

Skeptical Over Peace Hope

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some American diplomatic and intelligence experts are skeptical about Henry A. Kissinger's optimism over prospects of a meaningful cease-fire in Indochina.

The main point of concern at the moment is the reappearance of major North Vietnamese tank forces in at least two areas of South Vietnam recent days.

One intelligence source said a complete North Vietnamese tank regiment has infiltrated through the demilitarized zone into the area around Hue in Military Region I. He said the better part of a second tank regiment has been reported in the same area. That totals more than 300 tanks and other heavy armored vehicles.

He noted there was another infusion of armor last month down the Ho Chi Minh trail into South Vietnam along the border with Cambodia.

This bold move indicates Hanoi is very confident, these officials say, since such an operation requires moving sophisticated equipment far from supply bases.

They add it also means Hanoi is preparing to launch an offensive if new attempts fail to make the Jan. 27 cease-fire truly work.

Kissinger will meet in Paris Wednesday with special North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho in the second round of the latest effort to implement the original cease-fire.

Kissinger said after returning from the first session last week that he expected to reach "new understandings" next week on implementing the Jan. 27 agreement.

When asked about the national-security adviser's optimism, the sources said they "wished they could share" Kissinger's view, but they knew of nothing to substantiate his assessment.

The doubters also pointed out that Kissinger was optimistic about the chances of the original agreement to end the fighting. Instead, the combat level has stayed high throughout most of the post-cease-fire period.

Kissinger also predicted a quick cease-fire in Cambodia, and that has never come close to fulfillment, they said.

Another source also indicated recently captured enemy documents may have been planted to fool South Vietnam and the United States. These documents and other intelligence information indicated Hanoi intends to abide by whatever new arrangement Kissinger and Tho work out.

"What is more likely to happen is that Hanoi and the Viet Cong may ease off for a month or two. If they don't get some political advantage in that period then they will attack," one administration official said.

According to this source, an intelligence expert, it is unlikely the Kissinger-Tho sessions will result in any meaningful change in the balance of power in the South.

Flood Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — Recent flash floods in western North Carolina which took 11 lives and caused millions of dollars damage, prompted Gov. Jim Holshouser Thursday to remind citizens that federally subsidized flood insurance can be made available for them.

The governor said in a statement he is urging local governmental units in North Carolina to contact the Department of Housing and Urban Development and find out how their community can qualify for the flood insurance program.

Holshouser said HUD officials had told him once local governments have qualified for flood insurance, "any citizen in North Carolina can qualify for it within six working days."

Prison Slayings Result In Death Penalty Pleas

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Calls for restoring the death penalty followed the slaying of the warden and his deputy at Holmesburg Prison. Two inmates previously accused of killing policemen have been charged with the murders.

"When you take away the chair, what can you do with these men?" asked Capt. Leroy Taylor, 49, who received serious stab wounds in the back when he tried to save the two slain prison officials.

"This is a good case for the electric chair. We need the death penalty back," said Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo.

Warden Patrick Curran, 47, was stabbed three times in the back and Deputy Warden Robert Fromhold, 51, was knifed 13 times Thursday, a medical examiner said.

Police said inmates Frederick Burton, 25, and Joseph "Jojo" bowen, 27, drew knives after being admitted to Fromhold's office. They reportedly sought permission to have Orthodox Muslim prayer meetings seven days a week instead of three.

Police said a fracas began while Fromhold was alone in his office with the two men. Curran and Taylor were attacked when they came to Fromhold's aid after hearing a scuffle, prison officials said.

The episode left Fromhold's office a blood-splashed shambles.

Police said they recovered two table knives honed to razor sharpness. The 1,200 inmates in the facility built for 700 had been allowed only spoons during meals until this year, when they were allowed forks and knives.

New President For Lutherans

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Dr. David W. Preus has been inducted as president of the American Lutheran Church (ALC).

"I ask all of you to join in expecting as much of God, in expecting as much of the ALC, and of each and of ourselves, that we may bless God and serve in some adequacy in our earthly state," Preus said at the induction ceremonies on Thursday.

Dr. Fredrik Schiotz, president emeritus of the ALC, was officiating minister for the ceremony at Zumbro Lutheran Church. More than 1,100 persons attended the service.

BOSTON (AP) — Heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White is reported in fair condition at Massachusetts General Hospital after suffering what doctors described as a "small stroke."

White, who treated Dwight D. Eisenhower when the late president suffered a heart attack in 1955, was admitted to the hospital on Wednesday. He is 86.

Respond To Nader Suit

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A spokesman for Duke Power Co., whose nuclear generating plant at Oconee, S.C., was attacked in a federal suit by Ralph Nader Thursrday; says, "We have installed redundant safety features. If we had thought there was any danger, we wouldn't have built them," (the three units).

Nader and the Friends of the Earth, a national environmental group, asked to have 20 such facilities shut down because the Atomic Energy Commission licensed them "without requiring adequate protection for the health and safety of the public."

The first of three units planned by Duke at Oconee, the only one in operation, was cited.

Duke's Bill Burton said the plant has just begun operating and is slowly being brought to its full capacity of 886,300 kilowatts. He said at present the facility is running at 40 per cent of capacity and is turning out 350,000 kilowatts.

Release Mother To Feed Baby

DOBSON, N. C. (AP) — A mother who had been sentenced to two days in jail for contempt of court was freed after one day because she had to breast-feed her baby.

The father, Roger D. Slate, said the boy had to be breast-fed every hour. He had to bring him from their home at nearby Mount Airy to Join Mrs. Slate in jail after she was imprisoned.

Judge George M. Harris allowed mother and baby to go home Thursday.

He had imprisoned her the day before after she allegedly had hit a woman her husband had been convicted of assaulting. The assault conviction resulted from a finding that he had pointed a gun at her.

Farm Priority On Gas Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the administration's Oil Policy Committee says farmers have first claim on the nation's dwindling gasoline supply.

"Right now, I say farming is at the top priority because of the planting season," Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday.

Simon was questioned about domestic fuel supplies as he appeared to testify on economic aspects of the world fuel supply situation.

Expect Bumper Sardine Pack

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — There may be a bumper crop of sardines in New England waters this year.

The National Marine Fisheries Service says that larval herring spawned in 1971 were the most numerous in eight years and that if all continues to go well with them there should be a strong rise in sardine pack. The five-year average is 27 million pounds, but in 1972 it was only 22 million.

Apartment Complex Work Here Halted

Construction has stopped on the King's Row apartment complex on East Tenth Street here and the developers of the project, General Building and Masonry Contractors, Inc. are seeking an arrangement in the Bankruptcy Division of U.S. Middle District Court in Greensboro to settle its debts.

Clyde T. Rollins, a Greensboro attorney representing General Building and Masonry, said the company intends to pay its debts—amounting to some $855,000—as soon as possible.

The development firm, Rollins said, has seven major projects under construction in Greenville, Greensboro, Raleigh, Wilmington, Spartanburg, S.C. and Lynchburg, Va.

Rollins said the firm has filed with the federal court under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy act, which allows the court to enjoin foreclosure proceeding while arrangements for payments to creditors are worked out.

The firm has also filed under Chapter 10 of the act, Rollins explained— a provision for reorganization of the corporation under which the federal court has jurisdiction to reorganize the corporation and assist the debtor in dealing with secured and unsecured creditors.

"There will be more orderly disposition of all the property of the debtor corporation," Rollins explained, "and gives...time to deal with creditors."

Bad weather and spiralling materials costs have caused the financial difficulty, Rollins explained. Prices for building material have increased 25 per cent since November, he noted.

Mrs. Cheryl Taylor, chief clerk to the referee in the Middle District Court Bankruptcy Division said General Building and Masonry filed the proceeding, called an "arrangement under Chapter 11 on April 16. The filing for reorganization under Chapter 10 was made May 25, Rollins said.

Rare Wine's Price High

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A glass of wine for $250?

That's the way the high bid worked out at an auction of rare wines Thursday, when a rehoboam of 1929 Chateau Mouton-Rothschild brought $6,000.

The bid was offered by Richard Kronheim, a wholesale liquor distributor of Washington, D.C., who made the offer by mail. A rehoboam is equal to six 24-ounce European bottles, and his bid averaged $1,000 a bottle or $250 for a six-ounce glass.

Kronheim said in a telephone interview that he doesn't know now what he's going to do with the wine, "but I hope to drink it at some time in the future."

The Mouton-Rothschild, considered among the finest of Chateau wines, is unique because it is almost all that is left of that vintage in that size bottle, said a spokesman for Heublein Inc., Hartford, Conn., which conducted the auction.

Thursday's sales brought a total of $273,500 from nearly 1,000 different buyers who purchased 30,000 bottles altogether.

Vehicles Collide At Intersection

An estimated $400 damage resulted from an 8:55 a.m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets, according to Greenville Police Department investigators.

Officers reported $200 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in the mishap.

The drivers of the cars were identified as Margaret Eagles Honeycutt of 203 Oxford Rd. and John Graham Clark of 1108 East Tenth St.

Clark was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

No injuries were reported.

Collections Top $2,200

Collecting over $2,200 from sponsors, 94 local cyclists biked 20 miles in the Eastern Carolina Diabetes Association's recent Bike-A-Thon.

Riders from Greenville, Washington, Ayden, Grifton, Farmville, and Bethel participated in the trip which consisted of riding from the WNCT-TV station to the Ayden Elementary School and back.

Prizes were awarded to the three people who collected the most money through sponsored miles ridden. First prize, a three-speed bike, was awarded to Donna Casey of Grifton. Christine Bainbridge of Greenville won the second prize, a cassette tape player. The third place award, a badminton set, was won by Lou Ann Baldree of Ayden.

The money collected will be used to further diabetic research and education, and to meet certain needs in the area.

Sponsors who have not turned in their pledges may mail checks to ECDA, 707 E. Munford Rd., Greenville, 27834, or turn them in at Harmony House South.

Equal Time For Dissent

CHARLOTTE—A Charlotte Television station, WSOC, will give equal time to opponents of an expanded medical education program at East Carolina University on a Monday-noon interview show in light of an appearance on the same program May 21 by ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins.

Ray Barath, a WSOC official, said Dr. Jenkins appeared on the noon-time news program and noted that the primary thrust of the interview dealt with the need . . " of another medical school, where it should be located" and "what assurance do we have that the graduates will then serve in the areas of North Carolina that most ned physicians."

"Questions were raised as to the cost, too," Barath said, noting that Dr. Jenkins disputed the $75 million to $100 million figure suggested by some, saying that the cost would be about $20 million instead.

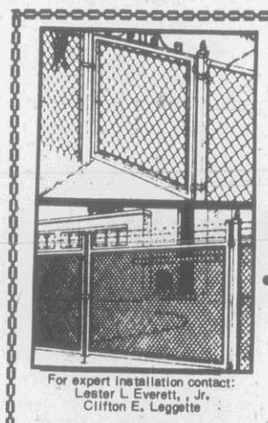

Barath said two Charlotte physicians, Dr. David Citron, president of the Mecklenburg County Medical Society, and Dr. Marvin Lymberis, former chairman of the medical center study committee in Charlotte are scheduled to appear on the Monday program.

Robersonville Opening Quest

RED SPRINGS — The Robersonville Golden Eagles open play tonight against the Red Springs Red Devils in the finals of the North Carolina State High School Class A Baseball championships.

Robersonville will send its ace hurler, Doyle Farmer, to the mound in the 8 p.m. game that opens a best-of-three series for the title, currently held by Robersonville.

The Eagles will be making their seventh straight appearance in the tournament, having won two state titles in the past, and finished second on four occasions.

Farmer holds a 13-3 record going into the game, including one no-hitter. Matt Wilson is scheduled to get the call in the second game, set Saturday at 2 p.m., with Jimmy Stalls who has been out with an injury, scheduled to make his return in the third game, if needed. That contest will be played at 8 p.m. Saturday night, should the series go the limit.

Farmer will be facing either Mike Boyd or Jimmy Britt in the opening game. Boyd has a 7-4 mark, while Britt is 11-1. Both have picked up no-hitters along the way.

In the hitting department, Robersonville is led by shortstop Ricky Brown, with a .370 average, while third baseman Doug Warren is hitting .350 and Wilson, who is an outfielder when not pitching, has a .310 average.

Red Springs' batting attack is paced by Robert Bryant, a second baseman, who has a healthy .470 average. Ray Watts is hitting .340 while Al Wilson is hitting .325.

The Eagles carry a 20-4 record into the finals, while Red Springs is 18-6-1 for the year

Exchange Rolls Past Graniteers

The Exchange pushed over eight runs in the first two innings, and went on to claim a 14-4 victory over the Graniteers in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday.

The win moved the Exchange up to 3-5 in the standings, while the Grainteers fell into the basement all alone, 2-6.

The Exchange grabbed the lead with four in the first inning. Cliff Fearington singled and Al Schackleford reached on a fielder's choice as did Garland Lancaster. John Williams singled in Fearington, and Eric Deal followed with a triple, driving in all three base runners.

In the second, they came back with four more runs. Steve Irwin reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an error. Pep Cox singled and an error allowed Irwin to score while Cox took third. Fearington doubled to score Cox, and Shackleford brought him home with a hit. Shackleford was put out, however, trying to stretch it. Lancaster singled and scored on John Williams double to make it 8-0.

The Graniteers broke the ice with one in the fourth. Wade Dean walked and Mike James was hit by a pitch. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Garrett Young reached on an error, allowing Dean to score.

The Exhange added two more in the fifth. Lancaster walked and Williams singled. Deal got a hit to load them up, and Mark Douglas singled in both Lancaster and Willaims.

The Graniteers added three more in the fifth. H.L. Austin singled and Mike Moye walked. Henry Wooten reached on a fielder's choice and a walk to Dean brought in Austin. James reached on an error, bringing Moye, and Young also was safe on a miscue, scoring Wooten.

Williams reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Fearington, and Deal was safe on another, that got Schackleford at home. Douglas sacrificed in Lancaster and Gordon Douglas singled in Williams with the final run of the game.

Little Mint Gets 1st Loss

Beltone handed the Little Mint its first loss of the season last night in the Ladies Softball League, taking an 8-6 victory. The loss didn't knock the Little Mint off the top, however, as they matained the lead with a 7-1 record over Beltone, now 6-2.

Two Pluses For Tom: Best Golf, No Jack

BY BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf has two big pluses going for him.

" I'm playing about as well as I ever have," he said after his brilliant, course record-matching 65 in Thursday's first round of the $200,000 Kemper Open.

That's been good enough to win six titles and more than $700,000 in his career on the pro tour.

But it wasn't good enough to win last week in Atlanta. The talented Weiskopf may have been at the top of his game, but it wasn't good enough. That's where the other plus comes in.

Jack Nicklaus isn't here.

Nicklaus, who scored a comfortable, front running victory over runner-up Weiskopf, isn't competing. He's the only man able to handle the streaking Weiskopf in recent weeks.

Big Tom won the Colonial National in Fort Worth—Jack didn't play there, either—and then scored well enough to win any previous Atlanta tournament last week.

Asked if he was pleased that Nicklaus wasn't playing, Weiskopf just smiled broadly and said, " I'm just trying to keep the same pattern I've had going in the last few weeks."

While his seven-under-par effort tied the course record at the 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club layout, he needed every stroke to stay in front of youthful Lanny Wadkins. Wadkins, the Byron Nelson winner, had a 66.

At 67 were Ken Still, Mac McLendon, Bert Green, Leonard Thompson and red-headed rookie Pat Fitzsimons.

Arnold Palmer, coming off a one-month layoff, and Australian Bruce Crampton, a three-time winner this year, headed a group of more than a half dozen at 68 as the touring pros took advantage of near-perfect golfing weather to make a mockery of par.

More than half the field of 147 matched or bettered par 72 and there were 60 in sub-par figures.

Among them were 61-year-old marvel Sam Snead, 69; Lee Trevino, 70; and defending Kemper champion Doug Sanders, 71.

Gary Player had his problems, however. The little South African, making only his second start of the season in the United States, could do no better than 75 and must improve if he is to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Weiskopf said he didn't get in a practice round and didn't decide until Wednesday to play in this tournament.

"I'd committed to play, he said, "but both our babies were sick. My wife wasn't feeling too well either. If she'd needed help in taking care of the babies, I wouldn't have come here. But she got to feeling better a couple of days ago."

He didn't get to Charlotte until Wednesday and confined his practice to some work on the putting green. It didn't seem to bother him.

He missed only one green—the 18th, where he chipped up, close to save par—wasn't in trouble otherwise and didn't have a bogey.

He had four birdies going out—two on putts in the 8-10 foot range, one after rifling a six iron to within two feet of the flag and the other after reaching a par five with a three wood second shot—then flashed home with a string of three consecutive birdies.

Seeking Putters

The Junior Putters of America, operating at the Putt Putt Golf Course at 10th Street Extension, will put their league play into operation on Tuesday evening.

They are still looking for younsters to play, however, and emphasis that both boys and girls are equally eligible to participate. "We still need a good number of children," a Putt-Putt spokesman said. "And the first 90-100 that sign up will be accepted."

Plans call for eight teams with 11-12 youths per team to participate in twice-weekly league play that will continue through July 12. League matches will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6 p.m.

To be eligible to play, a boy or girl must be 10,11 or 12 years old. A $2 registration fee is charged, but all play during league action is free. In addition, league members may practice free from 4 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A city champion will be crowned at the end of the season, based on the league play, and it is hoped that the team will be able to attend the regional tournament to be held in Columbia, South Carolina.

Further information on the leagues can be obtained from the Putt-Putt course.

Chicod In Win

CHICOD—Chicod outlasted the Hornets, 10-9, in a Southern Pitt Little League game yesterday.

Robin Forbes was the winning pitcher, while Randy McGowan absorbed the loss. Jesse Carmon, Timmy Mills and Michael Clemons led the Hornet hitting with two each. Neil Johnson led Chicod with a pair.

Chicod is now 2-0 in the league, while the Hornets are 1-1.

Summer Tickets

Season tickets for the East Carolina games in the N.C. Collegiate Summer League have been placed on sale.

Tickets this year are $10 for a season ticket for an individual. There is also a special price of three for $25. A family ticket can also be purchased, allowing all members of an immediate family to attend. The price of this is $15.

East Carolina will open play in the league on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Harrington Field, playing host to the University of North Carolina.

Fourth Straight For M-K-S Team

Moore-King Sullivan won its fourth straight game without a loss last night downing the winless Fire Fighters, 3-1. Taff Office also picked up its first victory of the year, taking an 8-1 win over South Lenoir.

In the opening game, Taff Office broke the ice with two runs in the third inning. Pete Cullop singled and John Causey walked. A pickoff attempt went wild and Cullop came around to score, while Causey moved to third. David Clifton then singled in Causey for a 2-0 lead.

In the fourth, Taff came back with two more runs. Tom Craft walked and stole second, and Donald Cannon reached on an error, also stealing second. Cullop doubled to drive in both runners.

In the fifth, Taff added two more runs. Willie Streeter reached on an error and Craft cracked out a two-run homer.

The final two came over in the sixth. Jack Jones walked and Cullop singled. Clifton brought them in with a base hit.

The lone South Lenoir run came in the seventh. Don Whaley walked and stole second, scoring on Kenny Baker's single.

The second game turned into a pitching duel between Moore-King-Sullivan's Ricky Harrell and William Carraway of the Fire Fighters. Harrell allowed only three hits, while M-K-S got only four off Carraway.

Both teams had opportunities, but it wasn't until the fourth that M-K-S pushed over the first run. Steve Fuchs walked and stole second. Herb Wilkerson then singled to drive Fuchs, over for a 1-0 lead.

They came back with two more in the fith. Wayne Bailey singled and stole second. Mike Wallace walked. Bobby Bryan then singled to drive in Bailey. An error allowed Wallace to come in.

Fire Fighters came up with their only run in the seventh inning. Randy Adams singled and took second on a passed ball. An error on the attempt to get him allowed Adams to come the rest of the way for the score.

Holtzman Gets Wins, But Suffers For It

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman said Jim Ray Hart was always able to hit him, he didn't mean it literally—at least not till now.

Holtzman, the A's ace left-hander, was breezing along with a one-hitter after retiring the first 20 Yankees in order until Hart led off the eighth inning with a line shot off Holtzman's left leg.

The ball caromed on the fly to Deron Johnson at first base for the out, but Holtzman had to limp off the field. Rollie Fingers came on to complete the A's one-hit, 6-0 triumph over New York Thursday night.

Reggie Jackson hit a two-run triple and a solo homer to provide batting support for Holtzman. Sal Bando also homered for the A's, who ended a five-game losing streak.

In other American League games, the California Angels edged the Boston Red Sox 7-6, the Kansas City Royals beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-1, the Chicago White Sox blasted the Detroit Tigers 10-2, the Minnesota Twins defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 and the Texas Rangers beat the Cleveland Indians 9-5.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs pounded the Houston Astros 16-8, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Atlanta Braves 3-1 and the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cards 3-2.

Bob Oliver, who came into the month of May with just three runs batted in, boosted his season total to 29 with a three-run homer in the seventh inning, lifting California past Boston. It was his seventh home run of the season.

Kansas City pitcher Gene Garber raised his record to 5-1 with a six-hitter over the Orioles, and he did it by not falling behind the batters.

Dick Allen blasted a three-run homer and a run-scoring double for the White Sox, who snapped Detroit's five-game winning streak. Ed Herrmann also homered for Chicago, and Eddie Fisher, 5-3, pitched a complete game.

Consecutive singles by George Mitterwald, Jim Holt and Danny Thompson broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning and put the Twins ahead to stay. Harmon Killebrew, who had a run-scoring single in the first inning, provided an insurance run with a solo homer in the eighth.

Texas scored eight runs in four innings against Cleveland. Jeff Burroughs' two-run double highlighted a four-run first inning, and Rico Carty blasted a homer for two more runs in the second.

Andy Wants More Safety

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Before this year's accident-jinxed Indianapolis 500 race Andy Granatelli said speeds had increased to the point that the event was unsafe.

Now Granatelli, whose STP corporation ran the car Gordon Johncock drove to victory, says his team will pull out of Indianapolis and United States Automobile Club competition next year unless there are changes.

"All of us in racing must face the fact that we are simply going faster than our tracks and drivers can safely handle these flying missiles," he said Thursday. "This is not only a demand for reform but a sincere and sad plea to all of my fellows in racing to assist me in obtaining this kind of reform."

Granatelli has been involved in Indianapolis racing since 1946.

Fines For Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle can fine players $200 for leaving the bench during a fight on the field, says the National Labor Relations Board.

The NLRB also said in a decision Thursday that the NFL Management Council and its 26 member clubs did not violate good faith bargaining requirements in its discussions with the NFL Players Association over artificial turf in 1971.

The board agreed with the players union, however, that the installation of artificial turf is a mandatory subject of collective bargaining because it affects working conditions.

The players association filed a grievance after Rozelle fined 106 players for leaving the benches while fights were in progress on the playing field in three 1971 preseason games.

Willie's Homer Spoils Chance

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I throw hard and Willie Stargell swings hard," said Gary Gentry, "so if he hits the ball, it stands to reason it's going to go a long way."

Stargell hit the ball hard, and it went a long way Thursday night.

Pittsburgh's veteran slugger blasted a three-run homer against the Atlanta right-hander in the bottom of the eighth inning, spoiling an otherwise neat job by Gentry and lifting the Pirates to a 3-1 victory over the Braves.

The homer was Stargell's 14th this season, tops in the major leagues. It alos was a tape measure job, landing in the upper deck of Three Rivers Stadium, an area reached only three times before...each of those times by Stargell.

Nellie Briles, who doesn't have to worry about pitching to Stargell, earned the victory with a three-hitter.

Elsewhere in the slim National League schedule, Chicago battered Houston 16-8 and Cincinnati edged St. Louis 3-2.

In the American League, California nipped Boston 7-6, Minnesota trimmed Milwaukee 4-2, Oakland blanked New York 6-0, Texas defeated Cleveland 9-5, Kansas City beat Baltimore 4-1 and Chicago trounced Detroit 10-2.

Cincinnati ended St. Louis' winning streak at eight games, beating the Cardinals on a home run by Joe Morgan.

Morgan's sixth homer of the year snapped a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning to beat Bob Gibson, 3-6. He had doubled in the fourth when the reds scored their first two runs.

Lou Brock had a two-run homer for the Cardinals.

Jose Cardenal and Carmen Fanzone each drilled two-run singles in a 10-run Chicago explosion in the first inning as the Cubs blitzed Houston.

All of the Cubs runs were unearned with Doug Rader's two-out error opening the gates.

Coke then rallied in the third for nine big runs to take a 12-9 lead. Crumpler started it off with a single and McGee walked. Lowe also walked, as did Billy Branningan, forcing in Crumpler. Chapman singled to score McGee, and Sanderson walked, forcing in Lowe. Mark Jones doubled to drive in both Brannigan and Chapman, and Crumpler singled in Sanderson. Lee Hardee got a hit to score Jones and McGee walked. Lilley singled in Crumpler and Hardee with the final two runs of the inning.

The Kiwanis tried to rally, coming up with one in the fourth, but that was all they could manage. Coke added one in the fourth and then came up with four more in the fifth to wind up the scoring.

ODESSA on a SUNNY DAY

Those citizens who have time, stroll in the parks or sit and read their newspapers in the sun. Those who are lucky enough to work outside find they have the bright day to help along their labors. It's a day to buy flowers for someone special, a day for visitors to explore the city.

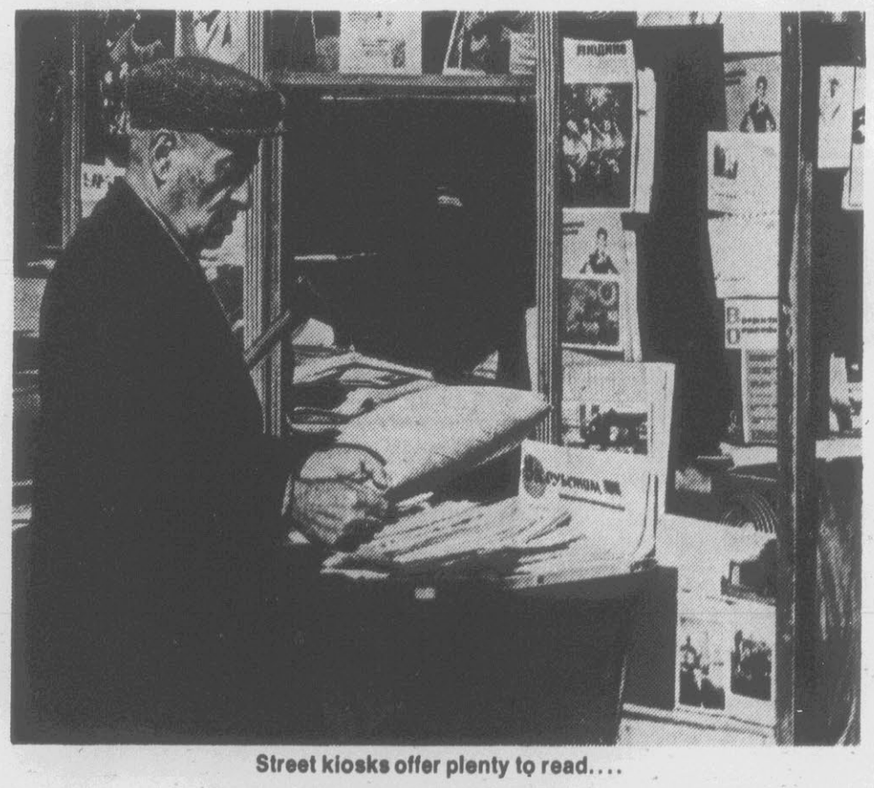

Odessa, Russia's largest Black Sea port, has a milder climate than does the rest of the Ukraine. It's a handsome city, with an abundance of trees along the streets and in the parks, in contrast to the surrounding steppes which are treeless for the most part. There are beaches nearby, too—all of which helps to make Odessa a favorite resort for Russians themselves as well as for foreign tourists. AP Newsfeatures.

Tourists from Eastern Europe out to see the sights.

The work of the busy Black Sea port goes on.

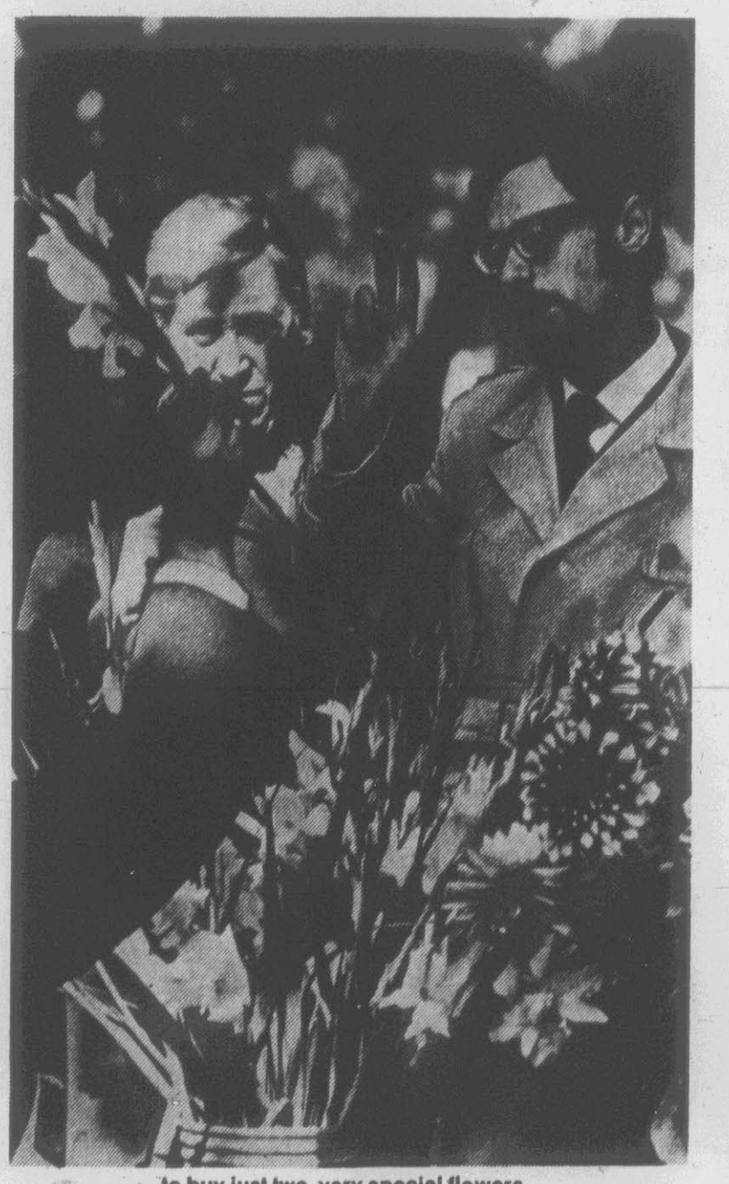

Street kiosks offer plenty to read....

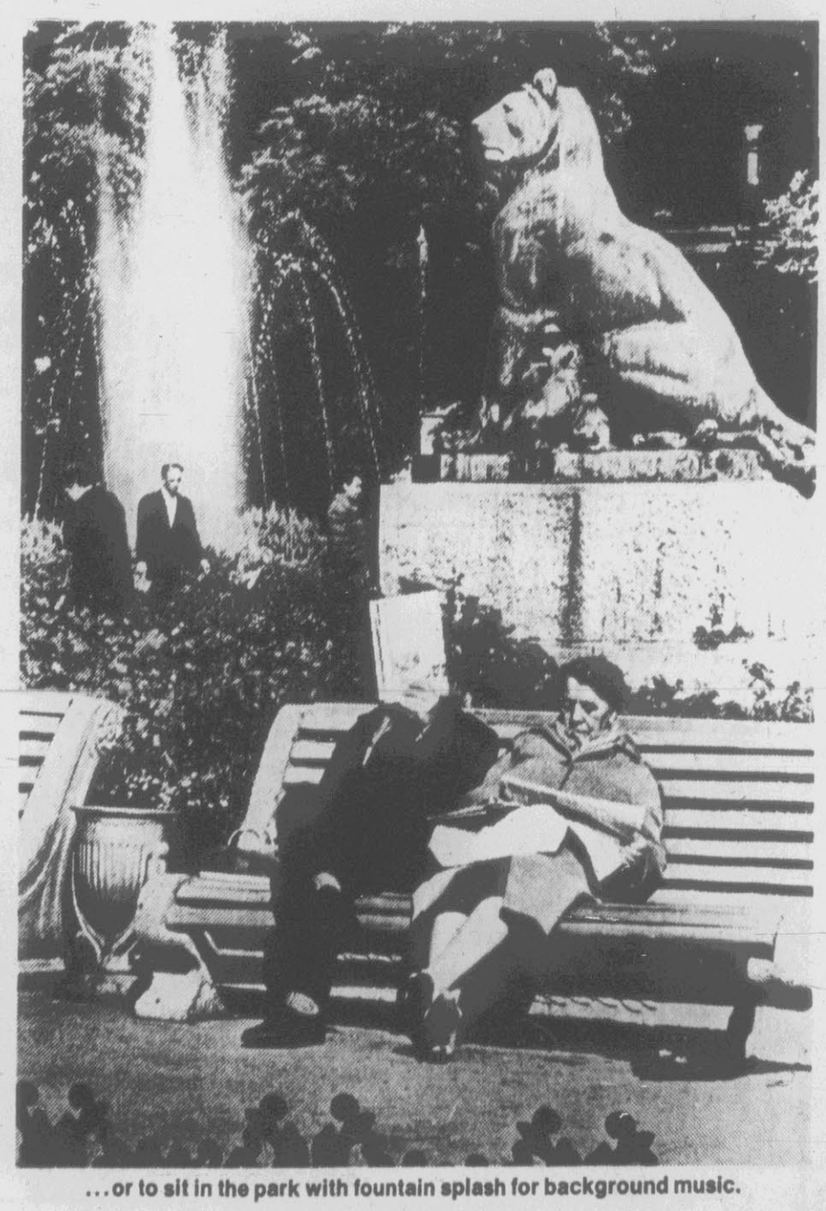

...senior citizen has his newspaper, the young their music.

It's a good day to nose down the store front...

...to buy just two, very special flowers...

...or to sit in the park with fountain splash for background music.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Pet Helps The Psychosomatic

Alma has a 4-legged doctor in the house to extrovert her attention and reduce her imaginary aches or pains. Beware of Sen. Kennedy's National Health Insurance Plan (to cost $77 BILLIONS annually). Alma's plan is better and involves no taxes!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D.

CASE X-522: Alma D., aged 74, is a widow, living alone.

"But, Dr. Crane," her married daughter protested, "I have scolded Mother repeatedly.

"For she has a fox terrier dog and spends money on dog food ant I feel she should devote to her own grocery bill.

"Isn't it disgraceful that millions of dogs and cats lead a luxurious life here in America while babies are dying in India and Africa for lack of food?"

Dogs are Doctors

At first glance, it might seem that Americans waste millions on feeding their pet cats and dogs.

But dogs and cats save their owners millions of dollars in medical fees!

And I'm not joking!

For when a widow has lost her lifelong mate, she tends to develop many aches and pains, UNLESS.

And that big "UNLESS" means, unless she can extrovert her attention and expend her love on some living object in her home!

Dogs and cats, parakeets and even golfish or a geranium, thus checkmate a lot of psychosomatic ailments that otherwise would develop in spinsters, widows and even widowers, too!

So what little money they spend per week on feed for their pets will more than offset that amount in the cost of medical prescriptions and drugs at the corner pharmacy.

In fact, we doctors have found that a dog or cat at Nursing Homes and even in our state mental institutions, will likewise extrovert the attention of the human patients, thereby reducing their trend toward introversion and involution of personality.

Remember insanity is actually a withdrawal from a cruel or unfriendly external reality!

A pet dog or cat barks gleefully or purrs its fondness for its owner, thereby giving that lonely adult (or child) an audible compliment.

And compliments make us want to stay in touch with external reality so they combat insanity and the eccentric personality of a Silas Marner.

A recent newspaper account stated that 23 million American families own dogs.

And 12 million have cats!

With the hue and cry for billions to be squandered on National Health Insurance, it would thus be far cheaper to urge far more ownership of dogs and cats!

Since they offer solace and companionship, compliments and even audible responses to cheer up their lonely owners, such creatures are effective allies of psychiatry and even the general medical practitioner!

When I deliver Sunday pulpit addresses, I remind the congregation of the fact that Jesus must have been a Smiling Preacher. Why?

Because children flocked around him—and so did dogs, I feel sure!

For kiddies and dogs follow people with cordial voices, smiles and a friendly (not a sourpuss) face.

That's why I urged artists to give a new picture of Christ that showed him smiling, so Ivan Pusecker, of Columbus, Ohio, did that.

In fact, I was presented his original painting when I delivered the Sunday sermon at the Ohio State Fair some years ago.

Mankind has never seen fit to use the name of Deity for any other creature on this planet, but he does employ that name in reverse, for "man's best friend," the dog!

For G-O-D is reversed, as D-O-G, to designate our canine pet!

A dog also reassures many a frightened, tense or lonely youngster, thus eliminating medical fees!

Vision Check Is Due At Age 3

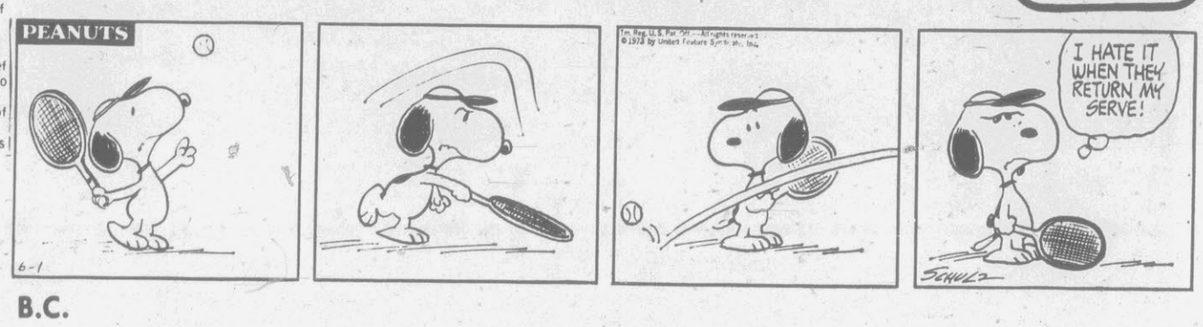

NEW YORK (UPI) — When a child reaches age three, it is time to check the way he or she sees because poor vision can retard the normal development of skills needed for the tasks ahead in school.

The American Optometric Association points out that a youngster who is not visually-equipped for school may fall behind his classmates, may be taunted by them, eventually grow to hate school and may become a behavior problem or a school dropout.

Lowell Thomas Just May Be 8th Wonder Of World

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lowell Thomas, 81 and in his 43rd year as radio's most durable newscaster, is working on a two-volume reminiscence but his multitudinous activities — such as skiing—keep getting in the way.

"I've written 52 books and am working on three right now," said Thomas, the nearest thing to a national institution in the flesh, on a flying visit to Manhattan between skiing trips to Utah's Wasatch Mountains and Alaska's glacial slopes.

LOWELL THOMAS, 81, is in his 43rd year as radio's most durable newscaster. —(UPI Telephoto)

"I'm writing about my radio experiences, my 20 expeditions to remote parts of the world and life in general, and I'm also working on a biography of Gen. Jimmy Doolittle (the aeronautics hero)," Thomas said. "I've been working on the Doolittle book for 40 years but put it aside when I got involved in radio."

Being "Involved," Thomas indicated, is the secret of staying vital. He rarely sits and claims to be as allergic to desks as he is to shirts (he prefers turtleneck sweaters). During the interview he paced his oak-panelled office in the landmark Henry Villard mansion, perching occasionally on a chair arm or table.

More used to asking questions than answering them, Thomas preferred to discourse with as little interruption as possible on a subject currently closest to his heart. It is the revival of "This Is Cinerama" in New York, Toronto, Atlanta, Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles and eventually several other cities.

Thomas took Cinerama, the vision-enveloping 3-camera movie with 7-channel stereophonic sound, out of the experimental studio and into the forefront of show business in 1952. He did what the Rockefellers and Time-Life, original backers of Cinerama developer Fred Waller, had failed to do over a period of 14 years.

"I realized that they had a geyser of gold and all we had to do was make a show—not fiction, but a non-fiction film that would make the audience feel it was actually experiencing what it saw on the screen," Thomas said.

"This Is Cinerama" was a global success in 30 cities where theaters were altered for wide-screen presentation. Untold millions shrieked down a roller coaster ride, flew over Niagara Falls, glided on Venetian canals, thrilled to opera in Milan and shuddered at a bullfight in Madrid.

Thomas sold his interest in Cinerama after the third production had racked up a total box-office gross of $130 million.

"President Herbert Hoover told me radio had four stages—invention, sound, color, Cinerama," Thomas said proudly. "After Cinerama, all the Hollywood companies jumped into wide screen film. But Cinerama, encompassing even the watcher's peripheral vision, was more suited to non-fiction material because its whole magic was audience participation. You watch a story in a fiction film, but you don't take part."

Hoover was just one of the famous friends Thomas mentioned. A sampling of others included Lawrence of Arabia, the Dalai Lama whom Thomas visited on an expedition to Tibet, King Edward VIII with whom he explored India, and Olympic ski star Alf Ingen, his recent skiing companion in Utah.

Thomas' 1924 best-selling book on Col. T. E. Lawrence catapulted Thomas to fame and later the job as first radio network newscaster in 1930. Since then few places on the globe have escaped Thomas' on-the-spot examination, providing grist for lectures, books, movie features, television series and chances to ski on five continents. He has declared the 20th Century the Golden Age of Exploration.

"I know we usually describe the age of Columbus and Vasco da Gama that way, but a large part of the earth's surface still needs to be explored in detail. New Guinea is the world's largest island, if you accept the theory that Greenland is an ice-covered archipelago, and it is just beginning to be explored. Three-fourths of the earth is covered with water and we're just getting into that. And then we have space—without limit."

Thomas, who broadcasts five nights a week on the CBS network, said he plans to do some undersea exploration "when several television projects I'm working on allow me the time." He stood beneath paintings of the Seven Wonders of the World, depicted for Cinerama, as he said goodbye to his visitor. The thought could not be suppressed: Is this man, born the year of President Grover Cleveland's election, the Eighth Wonder?

Non-Fee Job Placement Service Now Statewide

The non-fee placement service offered by the North Carolina Employment Security Commission to job seekers is now part of a statewide Job Bank system.

According to Jim Hannan, manager of the Greenville ESC office, the new service is designed to improve recruitment for employers and to greatly enlarge the job possibilities for job seekers.

"This month all non-fee state ESC offices will be linked by computer service," Hannan explained. "It is envisioned that they will become part of a nationwide job network as proposed by the U. S. Department of Labor."

At the present time, all job orders to applicants in all other offices throughout the state.

"The Greenville Job Bank will enable our interviewers to expose job applicants to job orders throughout eastern North Carolina and across the entire state. At the same time, if an employer in Greenville is looking for a professional worker, a technician, or skilled worker, his job order can be exposed to applicants throughout the state and even nationwide." Hannan said.

A number of cities in a given area comprise the Job Bank. Job orders from each employer within that area are compiled by computer into a unified listing of available jobs.

The list, updated daily, is distributed to each state employment office in the area.

"When completely operational, Job Bank networks will quickly bring the information on available applicants through North Carolina and the nation," Hannan said.

Rouse Talks To Albemarle GOP

ELIZABETH CITY — North Carolina Republican Party chairman Frank A. Rouse told a party gathering here last night that the Albermarle area is the last stronghold of the Democratic party in North Carolina.

"We need to zero in on this area now," Rouse told the party faithful, "so that when November '74 comes around, the Democrats won't be able to pile up a majority here in the U.S. Senate race."

Rouse told the gathering that the First Congressional District is the only district that Republican Sen. Jesse Helms did not carry in 1972.

"By all rights, Jesse should have gotten his biggest plurality in the First District, because most of the Democrats share his basic political philosophy," Rouse emphasized.

The state party chairman, himself a resident of the First District, explained that the southern part of the district went for Nixon and Helms but noted that the Albermarle Area is the "forgotten area" of North Carolina politics.

"With our record budget, it is now time for the North Carolina COP to become visible and viable in all of North Carolina. We're ready, willing, and able to help, now."

First District Republican chairman William E. Dansey of Greenville was in charge of the event, held for party leaders in Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Hertford, Hyde, Tyrrell, Pasquotank, Perquimans, and Washington Counties.

Belfast Appears Ready For Summer Bloodletting

Editor's Note: Associated Press correspondent Colin Frost has covered the communal strife in Northern Ireland since the current round began in mid-1969. He returned there this week after several months and in this dispatch tells what he found.

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — To the returning visitor, life in Belfast seems to be in one of its better periods.

A Saturday evening with only four bombs ... A weekend with only three violent deaths, one of them a 4-year-old boy hit by mistake.

People are out on the streets. The soldiers at the scores of checkpoints are relaxed and cheerful.

But beneath the surface the tensions of years of turmoil are stirring again for the summer bloodletting. July and August are the "bad" months in Northern Ireland's bloodstained calendar. People know it and are frightened.

The elections for district councils Wednesday were an attempt to turn the people to orderly politics. But the bombs that hit the center of Belfast during the voting gave notice that the Irish Republican Army is still in business.

The IRA's three-year campaign to end Protestant domination of Northern Ireland and reunite the six counties with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic has already wrought more damage than did Hitler's bombs in World War II.

The property toll runs into scores of millions of dollars. Whole stretches in the center of Belfast have been flattened. The main shopping center is guarded like a fortress; everyone and every vehicle is searched on entry. But still the occasional bomb gets through.

One person in every nine has changed his home during the troubles, most of them out of fear.

Intimidation — the threatening note in the letterbox, the brick through the window — is part of life where the Catholic and Protestant communities overlap. If the warning is ignored, the gasoline bomb is next.

As people move out to the western suburbs, the troubles travel with them. In Ballymurphy and Andersonstown, whole blocks of new apartments are empty, their windows shattered in crossfire between the IRA and the British Army.

Houses built within the past two years already are bricked up or shuttered with corrugated iron.

There is a heavy psychological toll, too — the trouble stored in young minds that may explode in future generations.

"The exploitation of children is one aspect that singles itself out in vileness," said the Roman Catholic bishop of Belfast, Dr. William Philbin.

"They are enticed by bribes, by reminders of injustices past and present, by lies and threats and by any and every other means into executing infamous orders.

"The weakest in character and lowest in intelligence of a whole generation of children are being perverted into habits of viciousness and hatred. They are being taught that evil is good."

From the other side of the religious divide, the Presbyterian church in its annual report made a similar assessment. It said youngsters are turning to drink and violence. People are either physically or mentally exhausted or to a degree brutalized.

"Many are no longer easily shocked by the grim events in their situation."
