Ervin Refuses Defer Watergate Hearings

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. says he plans to resume the Senate Watergate hearings Tuesday despite special prosecutor Archibald Cox's request that the televised sessions be delayed several weeks.

The North Carolina Democrat who heads the Senate Watergate committee told a news conference in Boston Sunday that Cox had asked him to postpone further hearings until indictments have been returned. Ervin said that could mean a two-to four-month delay but it won't happen "if it's up to me."

"The Justice Department has had this case for almost a year," Ervin observed. "The American people have a right to get to the bottom of this."

The panel is set to resume the hearings with Sally Harmony as the first of five former Nixon campaign workers to be questioned this week. Mrs. Harmony, who was a secretary to convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, probably will be followed by Robert Riesner, Liddy, ex-campaign committee treasurer Hugh W. Sloan and former commerce secretary and campaign finance chief Maurice Stans, committee sources report.

Meanwhile, Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss confirmed an Associated Press report that his Dallas, Tex., home was broken into and ransacked three weeks after the Watergate break-in last year. Nothing was stolen, he said, but he believes the burglars apparently were searching for party financial records.

Strauss was party treasurer at the time, and Watergate burglar Bernard L. Barker has testified his men were looking for Democratic financial records when they were caught inside party headquarters at the Watergate complex last June 17. Barker said they found none.

Columnist Jack Anderson reported today that call girls were recruited "to wheedle political secrets" from Democrats at their Miami Beach convention last year. But investigators "have been unable to determine whether they were actually used," Anderson wrote.

James W. McCord Jr. one of the Watergate burglars, interviewed Sunday on the CBS broadcast "Face the Nation," said he is convinced that President Nixon "set in motion the Watergate operation and followed through on it."

But the former CIA and re-election campaign security officer admitted he had no direct evidence linking Nixon to the break-in.

McCord said his conclusions are based on hearsay and his knowledge of how the Committee for the Re-election of the President operated.

Nixon has denied any prior knowledge of the incident or any effort to cover up high-level involvement in it.

In other Watergate developments during the weekend:

—The Washington Post and The New York Times carried similar stories Sunday saying ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III has told of more than 30 conversations he had with the President this year.

Quoting unnamed sources, the reports said Dean met secretly with Watergate committee chief counsel Samuel Dash and told him the President had "substantial knowledge" of the Watergate coverup while it was under way.

The Post said one of Dean's strongest charges was a reference to a meeting with the President shortly before the seven Watergate defendants were sentenced March 23.

According to the account, Dean said Nixon asked him how much the defendants would have to be paid to insure their continued silence, in addition to the $460,000 they already had received.

Dean reportedly replied the additional cost would be about $1 million, and the President was said to have told him there would be no problem in paying that amount, the Post quoted sources as saying.

Experts Sift Debris For Clues To Wreck Of SST

By ELIAS ANTAR

GOUSSAINVILLE, France (AP)— Aviation experts sifted through the wreckage of a Soviet supersonic airliner today trying to learn why the pride of Russia's civilian air fleet crashed.

Thousands of spectators watched as the four-engine TU144 exploded during an exhibition flight Sunday at the Paris air show. Flaming wreckage crashed onto the town of Goussainville north of Le Bourget airport.

Fourteen persons were killed, 28 were injured. The dead included two Russian pilots and four other crew members, the only ones aboard the streamlined plane.

It was the first reported crash of a supersonic civilian airliner since the Soviets began their program in the mid-1960s. The plane has a maximum cruising speed of 1,550 miles an hour — 2.35 times the speed of sound.

A French-British consortium has built four Concorde supersonic jets, and the latest version made a demonstration flight just before the TU144's.

Witnesses saw the Russian plane make a low level, subsonic pass before the grandstand and then go into a steep climb with the undercarriage lowered.

Pilot Mikhail Koslov leveled out just below the cloud cover. The TU144's nose dipped, and the 210-foot plane went into a dive. As the 180-ton jet neared the ground, a piece of the right wing broke off. A tongue of flame gushed from the plane as it broke apart.

About a dozen houses were destroyed or badly damaged as torn metal, flaming engines and fuel rained on the town. Wreckage was scattered over a strip more than 100 yards wide, and some pieces landed in a nearby wheatfield.

Fabric from the plane's orange and blue interior was draped over utility lines, gateposts and red tile roofs. A section of wing knocked down part of a low wall around a school, and one huge metal part crushed a little cottage.

The experts said it would be a long time before the exact cause of the crash became known. Andre Turcat, a chief test pilot on the Concorde, said it was essential to find out what made the nose of the plane dip after the climb.

Observers in Moscow said the crash must have been a stunning blow to Soviet aviation officials and may have set the TU144 program back. The plane was scheduled to go into service in 1975.

The Soviet vice minister of aeronautical production, Vassili Kazakov, had told newsmen at the start of the show that unspecified problems remained to be solved.

The Soviet delegation made no statement after the accident, pending results of the investigation. Kazakov wiped tears from his eyes as personal belongings of the dead crew were shown to him.

Airport Authority Favors Take-Over

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

J. T. Little Jr., chairman of the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority told County Commissioners this morning that the Authority wishes to take over operations at the facility and add two members to the staff in order to offer improved service.

Little said "we need to change the image and operation" at the airport. "We are not giving the type of service that is needed now," he said, explaining that "the only way to do this is take the operation of the airport over."

The facility is currently operated by Jim Darden — the self-employed manager of the facility — under an agreement with the airport authority. Darden, who has operated the facility for more than nine years was at first subsidized by the airport authority but for the past several years has not received payments from the city-county funding.

One maintenance man and a part-time secretary are employed by the authority.

Little indicated the authority is proposing to retain Darden as manager and add two additional employees — all being paid with city-county funds appropriated for the airport authority.

The airport chairman indicated commuter air service to Raleigh is expected to begin about August 1 and indicated that payments from the air service would help fund the additional costs involved in the authority take-over of the airport operations.

No action was taken on the Airport Authority's proposal by the commissioners this morning. In other business during the morning meeting, the county board heard reports from various county departments and agencies.

County planner Howard

Hurlocker told the board that a county-owned site near the airport has been found unsuitable for a sanitary landfill by the State Board of Health.

The planner said the State Board of Health indicated the high water level and poor drainage in the area as reasons for its rejection of the site.

Commissioners told the planner to investigate other possible sites in the general area north and west of Greenville that might be suitable and available.

Pitt Memorial Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson told commissioners planning for the new hospital is progressing, and indicated that advertisements for bids might be made within six weeks. If advertisement for bids comes before the last of July, contracts might be awarded so construction can begin in November or December.

Richardson also told commissioners that a new ambulatory surgical unit at the hospital — the only one in the eastern part of the state — served 60 patients during the past month, its first month of operation.

Dollar Again Slumps

LONDON (AP)— The U.S. dollar fell sharply in Europe as money markets re-opened today, extending last week's fall to record lows. Gold jumped to a new high of $120.75 an ounce here.

In Frankfurt, the dollar dropped to 2.6540 West German marks, a new low there, down from 2.6740 marks Friday. Dealers said trading was extremely nervous. The mark is one of the strongest currencies in Western Europe and when the dollar is in trouble there it is usually weak elsewhere.

The U.S. currency also dropped steeply in London, Zurich and Paris.

Dealers said the main factor was again concern about the effect of the Watergate scandal on President Nixon's ability to resolve U.S. economic problems. The European press headlined reports attributed to former White House counsel John Dean that Nixon was a frequent participant in the Watergate coverup.

As always in climates of monetary uncertainty, investors and speculators were seeking safety in gold. The metal strengthened as the dollar weakened.

Burglar Made Self At Home

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)— A burglar made himself at home when he broke into the apartment of Bonnie J. Bobby.

Police said that when Miss Bobby was away, someone raided her refrigerator, consuming beer, spaghetti and meatballs, and leaving a cucumber salad and potato chips on the premises.

Astronauts Stand By For Instructions On Solar Panel Repairs

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)— With prospects for a space walk to free a jammed solar panel "looking pretty good," Skylab's astronauts today awaited word on how they might do the tricky job.

Making the panel operable could nearly double the electricity in their power-starved space station.

If the space agency gives the green light for the excursion, decisions on who will make the walk and how the one-ton panel will be released will be up to Skylab commander Charles Conrad Jr., who became the world's champion of space flight in total hours logged on Sunday.

"I suspect the commander would want to go out himself," Skylab mission director William C. Schneider told newsmen Sunday.

Capsule communicator Storey Musgrove told the spacemen late Sunday, "Things are looking pretty good for a space walk later in the week."

He said mission control today would pass up suggested procedures for the attempt and all aspects would be discussed in a conference Tuesday between the control center and the astronauts.

"We aim to please," Conrad replied. "We're more than happy to do anything we can."

Schneider said space agency officials planned a day-long meeting today at the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., to discuss the potential for success and dangers involved in the space walk repair job.

They'll also discuss the possibility of extending the scheduled 28-day mission as much as 10 days to make up experiments lost because of low power.

"This is a very desirable thing to do, but we don't want to take a chance with our crew," the director said of the space walk. "The prime consideration will be: Is it a safe thing to do?"

Schneider said the salvage attempt could come as early as Wednesday but there will be no hurry because "we'd rather do it right than rushed."

While ground experts wrestled with the panel problem, Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz scheduled medical, earth resources and solar astronomy experiments today, their 11th day in space.

Conrad passed the world space time record at 1:17 a.m. EDT Sunday. The mark had been set by former astronaut James A. Lovell, a four-time space veteran.

Conrad previously flew on Gemini 5 and 11 and on Apollo 12. He became the third man to step on the moon. Lovell's record was 715 hours, 5 minutes. If Skylab goes the distance, Conrad will top that by almost 18 days.

Common Market Foreign Ministers Prepare For Nixon

LUXEMBOURG (AP)— Common Market foreign ministers began meeting here today to try to unify their policies for the "Nixon round" of trade talks beginning this fall.

Prospects for early, clear-cut progress are nil. But the ministers hope to find out if the members want to work out a common stand before mid-September when the world's major industrial non-Communist countries begin trade talks in Tokyo.

The French have taken a comparatively firm stand toward future trade negotiations, while other market members favor greater flexibility. Among the policies Paris is pushing are:

— Preservation of the joint farm program of high price supports. Britain and some of the other market members are less than enthusiastic about the farm program, since it benefits the French farmers the most. The United States would like to see negotiations allowing easier entry of U.S. agricultural products to the Common Market.

— Continuation of the present common tariff wall set up by the original six market members, West Germany, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and Belgium. The three new members — Britain, Ireland and Denmark — are adjusting to the barrier.

— Return to what France thinks is a more orderly international monetary system, including provisions making the dollar convertible into gold or some other acceptable asset.

One firm decision expected from today's consultations is an invitation to nearly 50 underdeveloped countries, most of them former European colonies, to go to Brussels on July 25 for talks about associate membership in the market.

No action was taken on the Airport Authority's proposal by the commissioners this morning.

In other business during the morning meeting, the county board heard reports from by Israel said their captors tortured them regularly during their three years in jail.

After their repatriation Sunday, one of the pilots told newsmen he had been beaten about his body and on the soles of his feet and had been subjected to electric shocks on several occasions.

Another said that, when they reminded their captors of the Geneva Convention governing the treatment of prisoners of war, they were told the rules didn't apply to them.

In exchange for the pilots, Israel handed over 56 Syrian and Lebanese POWs and a Druse leader from the occupied Golan Heights who was convicted of spying for Syria.

The Israeli military command said the released Arab POWs were the last held by Israel from either Syria or Lebanon and neither Syria nor Lebanon held any more Israeli prisoners. Israel continues to hold 55 Egyptian prisoners it wants to exchange for 10 Israelis jailed in Egypt.

The exchange ended almost a year of negotiations through the International Red Cross. Israel had sought to have the Egyptian-held Israelis included in the exchange but earlier this year softened its stand, the state radio said.

The 56 Arab POWs included five Syrian officers and 10 Lebanese captured in a raid into southern Lebanon last June and in a border clash last September. Most of the other Syrians had been prisoners since a June 1970 armored incursion into Syria.

The Israeli airmen bailed out over Syria after their aircraft were shot down in April or June 1970.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan greeted the three pilots at a border crossing in the occupied Golan Heights.

Former POW Wrote Life Was 'Not Worth Living'

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)— A medical examiner says a note in French found near the body of Air Force Capt. Edward A. Brudno, a former prisoner of war, translates roughly to "life was not worth living."

Brudno's body was discovered Sunday at the home of his wife's parents, where he had been living since his return last February from more than seven years of confinement in North Vietnam.

A psychiatrist from Newton, Mass., said he had been treating Brudno recently. Police called the death a suicide. But the Westchester County medical examiner's office said it would not rule on the death until further medical tests were complete.

However, Dr. Henry Ryan, the deputy chief medical examiner, said, "I know the police have told people it was a suicide. They have reason to."

Ryan said Brudno had a plastic bag over his head when his body was found on a bed. He said the bag "wasn't obstructive" and that more tests, including examination for drugs, will be needed.

The time of Brudno's death was set at late Saturday night or early Sunday.

Harrison police said Brudno, who would have been 33 today, had left a will dated May 22 and nine sealed letters in addition to the note in French.

Brudno married Deborah Gitenstein a few months before leaving for Vietnam in 1965. Police said she received the news of his death at his parents' home in Quincy, Mass.

She returned to her parents' home Sunday.

Brudno was shot down over North Vietnam in a F4 Phantom jet Oct. 18, 1965. Released last February, he was attached to Westover Air Force Base in Massachusetts but was on convalescent leave.

In Washington, Dr. Richard S. Wilbur, the Pentagon's chief health officer, said, "This is the type of thing we were hoping we'd be able to prevent or hold to a minimum."

Wilbur told newsmen on Friday that the Pentagon planned to keep a medical watch on the returned POWs in hopes of avoiding the high rate of violent deaths experienced by prisoners who returned from Japanese camps in World War II and Korean camps.

Brudno was the first returned Vietnam POW to die.

Miss Cynthia Nabors Is Bride Haddock-Cannon Vows Said Sunday

MRS. THOMAS HOWARD AUTRY

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Cynthia Jean Nabors and Thomas Howard Autry. The double ring ceremony took place Sunday at two o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Troy Barrett officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Nabors of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jackson Autry of Red Springs.

A program of wedding music was provided by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist. Soloists were Miss Linda Sasser of Greenville and Miss Donna Painter of Tarboro who sang, "We've Only Just Begun", "Colour My World" and "The Wedding Song."

Mrs. Troy Barrett directed the wedding.

The church was decorated with the traditional green and white. The altar vases were filled with bouquets of white snapdragons, chrysanthemums, and baby's breath. On the altar was a cross flanked by singled candleholders and two spiral candelabras marked either side of the altar. In the chancel of the church, two 20 tiered candelabra with bouquets matching the altar flowers were on each side. In the background were tall standards of emerald and salad greenery. Completing the setting was a profile priedieu where the bride and bridegroom knelt facing each other for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white gown of a la mode silk designed with a high neckline and sheer ruffled yoke of Cluny lace, beaded with pearls and Venise lace flowers. The long fitted sleeves featured ruffled cuffs. A band of lace over white satin centered with pearls, encircled the empire waistline. Appliques of Venise lace trimmed the gown front. A deep flounce of ruffled Cluny lace edged the hemline and attached Cathedral train.

She wore an elbow length white illusion veil attached to a headpiece of Venise lace petals centered with pearls. The bride carried a formal cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations, white summer daisies, and yellow sweetheart roses with improved smilax tied with yellow and white satin.

Maid of honor was Miss Carolyn Rose Nabors, of Greenville sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Dianne Stokes, Miss Linda Deyonne Brewer, Miss Linda Lou Warren, all of Greenville and Miss Martha Wynne Lisk of Siler City.

The attendants wore formal length aqua organza gowns designed with a high neckline. The empire bodice featured a mock weskit of turquoise Chantilly lace over aqua organza and centered with turquoise satin buttons. Matching lace banded the cuffs of the long sleeves. Aqua straw hats with turquoise long streamers completed their attire.

It's dreadful to think in our culture today that people don't know about their sources of food.

The mess of pottage for which Esau sold his birthright generally is described as a sort of thick lentil soup. But this member of the bean family is also good in a salad. Cook dried lentils as the package label directs or drain canned ones. Save the cooking liquid in either case to use in soup and marinate the drained lentils in oil and vinegar dressing, with some finely chopped scallions or chives. Chill before serving.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a white polyester pantsuit with a light blue, navy, and light pink waistband. She complimented her outfit with navy accessories.

The bride graduated from Louisburg Junior College and recently graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry in dental assisting. She will be employed with Dr. Wesley Kelley, D.D.S. of Raleigh.

The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University in business administration. He was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is presently employed by McLeod, Watson, and Lanier of Raleigh.

The couple will make their home in Raleigh.

Reception

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor given by the bride's parents.

The refreshment table was covered with a white bridal satin cloth with a bouquet of summer flowers designed in a five branched silver candelabra.

Miss Betty Jo Causey presided at the guest register where a portrait of the bride was displayed.

After the couple had cut the first traditional slice, Mrs. Frank Burchinal of Lawrenceville, Va., aunt of the bride, served the bride's cake and Mrs. John Franklin Carson Jr. poured punch.

On Saturday evening before the rehearsal, a dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents at Dwight's Restaurant.

A pink, white, and green scheme was used throughout the private dining area.

The bridal couple presented their attendants with gifts.

His Hair Was Longer Than Hers

NICE, France (WNS)—Vivienne Lamonte, 27, has blonde hair almost to her waist but placed second to her husband Robert, 27, in a coiffure contest here because his brunette locks are even longer. "This won't happen again," she reported later. "Robert promised to cut his hair after I threatened to start wearing a false moustache."

The maid of honor carried a semi-cascade bouquet of yellow and white daisies, American Beauty miniature carnations, and aqua blue baby's breath tied with heavenly blue satin with long streamers. Bridesmaids carried bouquets fashioned after the honor attendant.

Best man was Samuel Jackson Autry, father of the bridegroom. Ushers were Jimmy Martin Autry, brother of the bridegroom, of Red Springs, David Angus Autry, uncle of the bridegroom of Raleigh, Peter Edward West, and William Allan Jackson, both of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow crepe dress ensemble. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue polyester dress ensemble. Both mothers were honored with sweetheart rose corsages. The grandmothers of the bride and groom were remembered with sweetheart rose corsages.

Loss Of Wife, Loss Of Money

WIMBLEDON, England (WNS) — Donald Farrier, 36, sued for damages after his wife Margaret was killed in an automobile accident. "She was the business brains of the family," he testified. "She organized the family budget, kept the premises, watched over my daughter and me, and worked 24 hours a day. I have found no one to take her place." The High Court judge awarded $9,000 in damages.

Home Economist Uses The Bible To Teach Nutrition

By JEANNE LESENE
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Katherine R. Hodges uses the Bible to teach good nutrition.

"The Bible is not only a source of information on history and human relations," she said in a telephone interview.

"The more I studied the dietary laws and the foods of the Bible, the more good sense I thought it made."

Mrs. Hodges, wife of a retired patent attorney in suburban Bronxville, N.Y., is a nutritionist, home economist, lecturer and free lance writer. She has given her slide lecture before church and women's groups and an audience at the New York Botanical Gardens.

"In Leviticus, it says: 'Thou shalt not eat the fat of any animal,'" she said, adding that time has proved the medical wisdom of that advice. In recent years, many doctors and medical researchers have linked the consumption of animal fats with high cholesterol levels in the blood and with heart and vascular disease.

Mrs. Hodges, a former high school and college teacher, said eating patterns in Biblical times provide a good nutritional pattern for modern man.

"Even when the people were nomadic, they ate many vegetables. They had no gardens at first. They used herbs a great deal, and herbs are rich in minerals."

Preservation Methods

Any dark green leaves and stalks contain potassium, for instance. People who have certain heart diseases are advised to eat foods that are high in potassium.

She said that the people of the Bible didn't know about minerals in food, but they know that food containing herbs tasted good.

Mrs. Hodges also finds a lesson in economy in the food preserving methods of Biblical times. She said she prefers the ancient methods of drying and salting to modern freezing because freezing takes a lot of power, and one of our biggest contemporary problems involves power shortages.

To show the importance of beans and peas as protein food, she refers to the Book of Daniel, and the story of four children of the Israelites who thrived on pulse (pea) and water at the court of King

Nebuchadnezzar.

(Dr. Ancel Keys, a nationally recognized nutritionist, theorizes in "The Benevolent Bean" cookbook that the children could have lived well "on only peas and water, if, as is probable, they were often exposed to the strong sunlight of their part of the world.")

(He wrote that sunlight would have provided vitamin D, hard water of the area would have provided extra calcium, and a 3,000 calorie per day diet of 15 per cent cooked fresh green peas and 85 percent dried peas would have provided ample vitamins and minerals to reach levels necessary for health.)

Mess Of Pottage

Mrs. Hodges shows a slide photo of an ancient olive oil jar to illustrate her point that individuals need two table-spoons of oil per day to maintain good health.

"People used olive oil in Biblical times to make their bread, and they put olives in the bread. It was more like a pancake than a loaf. They had very little fuel and they knew nothing of baking powder."

She said they also ate a lot of fish—another custom we'd do well to emulate. They ate game birds, too; often the birds were species that could be caught easily as they migrated south from Europe.

An ardent spokesman for the natural foods movement, Mrs. Hodges sees economic importance in learning about foods and good nutrition.

"People are being bombarded (with food information) by commercial interests, and they don't know what to believe," she said. "It's the profit in it that determines what form we get our food in."

"Nutrition used to be taught by mothers to their daughters."

Marriage Announced

High Price Doesn't Mean High Quality

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The growth in the last few years of budget-priced cosmetics should tell us something, says Michael Reich, youthful vice-president of a cosmetics company. The message may be that many women no longer equate quality with price.

In fact heavy acceptance of the company's lower-priced line in the last two years has doubled the volume of the business, which has two lines — budget and moderate-priced. Women with pinched purses were willing to find less costly items in everything they bought and that included their makeup. Others bought it because they couldn't find anything better. Satisfied, both groups began asking themselves why they had to spend more. Simple as that, he remarked.

The company (Nu-Masca) is a division of the New York Pencil Co. founded by Reich's father, its president, 32 years ago.

Another plus in the lower-priced cosmetics line may be convenience, Reich remarked. A card of cosmetics can be taken off a rack at the super market, variety store or drugstore and the see-through wrapped card provides an opportunity to see the cosmetics at a glance.

In any event, awareness has gotten budget-priced cosmetics over their biggest hurdle — being labeled "cheap," he said. Without quality you cannot succeed in any business today, in his opinion. Women have become quality conscious as they have been driven to sample less expensive merchandise.

"We must be even more quality conscious than well-advertised companies because if we don't satisfy the customer the first time around she will not come back. If she is disappointed in higher-priced cosmetics and something goes wrong, she is less likely to blame the manufacturer..."

Eye makeup is the category that has grown most rapidly in these last years, he explained: even with the natural look, the average girl cannot get along without mascara.

And because girls and their mothers — their market is pre-teen to middle-age housewife — like to experiment with colors which could be costly to do in higher-priced lines, the card cosmetics can be fun. In an all-purpose eye makeup kit one can find lashes, four shades of eye shadow, two eye liners, a lash applicator, lash adhesive, for less than $3. Or the customer might prefer a card with ten different colored eyeshadows and automatic long-lash mascara.

The new marketing concept in eyelash makeup is that it will thicken as well as condition the lashes so his company is into that too, he says.

"We must keep up with trends just as we do with higher-priced items. We were prepared for the dark nail polishes because I saw them all over Europe beginning about two years ago. In fact nail polish is always a big-selling item, even outselling lipsticks..."

Reich pioneered the use of multishade cosmetics, he says, which is a big segment of today's cosmetics market — a girl might use three or four shades of eyeshadow. They have expanded the multishade concept into a multiplicity of products within a single package. There are complete face

Tell Fiance About Age

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Only my mother knows my real age because I've been lying about it for several years. I am engaged to an angel of a man who attributes the smoothness of our relationship to our complete honesty.

Altho I've never lied to my fiance about anything else, I've repeated that lie about my age dozens of times in his presence, with friends, applying for graduate school, credit cards, etc.

What I want your advice on is this: Must my fiance ever know my real age? It would be so embarrassing to tell him now. He thinks he's two years older than me, when actually he is two months younger. OLDER WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Tell him and tell him now. Not only for your own peace of mind but in anticipation of the day you'll be eligible for Social Security. ["Oh, what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive."]

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 28 and a nurse. She took a job several thousand miles from home and has been gone nearly a year. We were hoping she'd come home last Christmas, but she said she'd come home next summer and bring her fiance. [She had written about a young man she'd fallen in love with, describing his "beautiful attitudes, brilliant mind, and outstanding character."]

Now we know why she didn't bring him home for Christmas. He's an amputee! He lost both legs just below the knee when he stepped on a mine near Saigon. We learned this yesterday from a letter she wrote us.

We are heartsick. She's such a beautiful girl and could easily get a whole man. Abby, how do parents adjust to knowing their daughter will spend the rest of her life caring for an invalid? HEARTBROKEN PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: What makes you think he's an invalid? You would be amazed how well some people can manage on artificial limbs. There is no reason to be heartbroken. If he's "whole" enough for her it says a great deal for her values. There's could be a completely beautiful and fulfilling marriage.

DEAR ABBY: You defined a homosexual as "one who has erotic feelings about members of his (or her) own sex."

It is my understanding that heterosexuals sometimes have erotic feelings about members of their own sex. Am I mistaken? And by the way, do you think homosexuals are "sick"? CURIOUS IN N. Y.

DEAR CURIOUS: You are correct. In my anxiousness to conserve space I oversimplified. I should have said, "Individuals who have STRONG, PREFERENTIAL erotic feelings about members of their own sex can be considered homosexual."

And I most definitely DO NOT consider homosexuals "sick."

CONFIDENTIAL TO: Those who are interested in reading a delightful little book with a big message about the purpose of life—beg, buy or borrow "Celebrate the Sun" by James Kavanaugh.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Couple Speaks Vows In Sunday Ceremony

BETHEL—In a double ring ceremony Sunday at 3:30 p.m., Miss Marcia Gail Jones became the bride of Bobby Wayne Carson in the Bethel United Methodist Church. Dr. Robert F. McKee officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Cecil G. Jones of Virginia Beach, Va. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Carson of Bethel.

They wore floor length blue and green flowered dresses with empire waists and white picture hats. They carried nosegays of white daisies and baby's breath.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. W. Hunnicutt, organist, J. Linwood Gurganus Jr. and Mrs. N. Eugene Carson Jr., who sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Following a reception at the church, the couple left on a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white organza over satin designed with a high neckline encircled with pearls and miniature lace. The bodice of the gown was of chantilly lace and the full organza skirt was highlighted with lace appliques with small bows and pearls. The skirt flowed into an attached train.

They will make their home in Greenville. The bride and bridegroom both attended East Carolina University and are now employed at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a Camerlot cap edged with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of shatshat daisies with baby's breath tied with white narrow ribbon.

Immediately following the rehearsal Saturday evening, the wedding party and guests were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Linwood Gurganus II in Bethel.

Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. Linwood Gurganus Jr., Mrs. J. Linwood Gurganus Sr., Mr. and Mrs. David T. House Jr., Mr. and Mrs. N. Eugene Carson III, Mr. and Mrs. David T. House III, and Mrs. and Mrs. Robert S. Whitehurst.

Miss Patricia Anne Carson of Virginia Beach, Va., sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Whitehurst and Miss Diane Gardner, both of Bethel.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

Even though I am an inveterate cookbook collector, there are very few cookbooks devoted to Belgian cookery on my shelves. The newest addition to these select offerings was published a couple of years ago — "The Belgian Cookbook" by Nika Hazelton (Atheneum).

Like some of Nika Hazelton's other fine cookbooks, this one is particularly interesting because it goes into the whole Belgian culinary scene and an armchair traveler can have a glorious time delving into its first nine chapters. Fortunately there are also many tempting recipes — from appetizers and salads to desserts.

One of the dessert recipes is a chocolate cake made with cornstarch instead of flour. And although the recipe calls for only 2 tablespoons of butter, the cake is rich tasting. If you like a dessert with full chocolate flavor that's not too sweet, we think you'll appreciate this recipe.

NIKA HAZELTON'S BELGIAN CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 8 squares (each 1 ounce) semi-sweet chocolate
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter, at room temperature
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup sifted cornstarch
- 1 cup blanched, slivered almonds (slightly toasted)
- 6 egg whites

In a medium saucepan over low heat, melt together chocolate and milk. Stir in the sugar, and stirring constantly, cook until the sugar has dissolved completely. Remove from the heat and stir in the butter. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in the vanilla. Gradually beat in the cornstarch taking care that there are no lumps. Stir in the almonds. Beat the egg whites until they stand in stiff peaks; fold them gently into the batter. Generously butter and flour an 8-inch springform pan. Turn batter into pan. Bang pan a few times sharply on the kitchen table to let any air bubbles escape. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and cake has shrunk from side of pan — 50 to 55 minutes. Do not overbake. Loosen the sides of the pan and cool the cake. Serve with slightly sweetened whipped cream.

Shared Funds For Unmet Needs

City Manager Bill Carstarphen has described the expenditure of Greenville's first revenue sharing funds as going to the "nuts and bolts" needs of the city.

"The city has a backlog of equipment replacement needs within the Police and Fire Department's and the sanitation, street maintenance and sanitary landfill divisions of the public works department, and most of these needs are being met with the shared revenue dollars," the city manager stated.

He was talking about the $359,386 in funds from the federal government in the first year of revenue sharing.

In addition to equipment, the decision was made to invest $150,000 in construction of a public swimming pool, $45,000 in Phase I of a three-year street resurfacing program and $10,000 for an animal shelter in the new animal control program.

We have no objections to the program outlined by the city government for this first year. We felt from the start that revenue sharing funds should not be used to take over expenditures already being carried in the municipal government budget; in other words the federal funds should not be used to reduce local taxes. There are too many unmet needs for that.

Second we have felt that year-to-year operating expenses should not be financed with shared funds. The program is too new, and the danger here is that if revenue sharing were eliminated in a few years, a whopping local tax increase would be required to compensate for these funds which would by then be entrenched in the budget.

Thus the best use for revenue sharing funds seemed to be for capital improvement items—things which the city has been needing for some time, but for which it has not been able to find the money.

On the whole it seems the city has outlined a plan for spending the funds this way, and we think that is the prudent approach.

Disassociation Tactic Advised

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH—The Southern strategy plotted by President Nixon for Republican gains may be scuttled by the Watergate scandal.

To win in 1974, a national leader of the party's progressive wing advocated the tactic of disassociation from the President and his 1972 campaign team.

"In order to blunt what may well be the disastrous effect on races next year, Republicans have to do a much better job of showing that the party itself was not involved in Watergate," said Michael F. McLeod, director of the Ripon Society.

McLeod, visiting North Carolina on a swing through Southern states, said the bright Republican hope in the South lies with local leadership of the caliber of Gov. Jim Holshouser.

The Tar Heel chief executive is "off to an outstanding start," said McLeod. "He has an excellent chance to provide a very creative, moderate state government."

National Role Ahead? Whether a national role in the party lies ahead for Holshouser is too early to tell, said McLeod, whose Washington-based organization seeks to draw together progressive elements among Republicans. "The Ripon Society is always glad to see new, progressive governors," he added.

McLeod gave his impressions of the political consequences of Watergate at a Chapel Hill reception hosted by Nick Smith, unsuccessful GOP candidate for state attorney general last year.

Smith, regarded as a likely candidate for Congress in the Fourth District, listened intently to the discussion on Watergate implications for the coming campaign.

Before the Senate hearings began, McLeod recalled, a poll showed that 12 per cent of the voters who went Republican in 1972 would reconsider that decision and vote for opposing candidates solely on the basis of Watergate.

Issue Must Be Faced While the '74 impact can be only speculative at this point, he added, the clear indication is that the GOP must confront the issue before the election. Two points must be clarified to the public, said

McLeod. First, there was virtually no connection between the Committee to Reelect the President and the regular party organization, he said.

Second, the fund-raising effort for the Nixon campaign which produced "an awesome amount of money" and dried up sources for other GOP candidates was handled through Washington with no funneling back to the states, he said.

Only a self-cleaning of the party from the taint of allegations of political espionage and campaign fund violations can salvage future hopes, McLeod asserted.

The shadow cast on the President can be a factor in slowing Republican gains in the South, he added.

GOP Handicapped in N.C.

In North Carolina, as elsewhere in the once Democratic solid South, GOP advances have been linked to a popular President. The resurgence initiated with Eisenhower in the '50s came to a climax last year when the Nixon landslide was accompanied by the election of Holshouser, first Republican governor in the century, and Jesse Helms to the U.S. Senate.

The Watergate affair means that GOP candidates in 1974 will run with a national administration that could be a handicap rather than a help.

Vulnerable spots will be the races for Congressional seats, and the U.S. Senate. Lee influence is expected in state legislative contests, where local interests are predominant.

Many observers now feel that the troubles at the top have all but wiped out Republican chances in the '74 Senate race, and cast a cloud on prospects to pick up further strength in Congressional delegation.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., conducting the Watergate hearings, has gained a hero status that may make him all but impregnable at the polls. While the 76-year-old Senator has not committed himself to seek another term, the impression abroad is that he will do so.

The Ripon Society, formed early in the '60s, has a membership of some 3,000 in 17 chapters across the nation. Only two are in the South, at Memphis and Nashville in Tennessee.

One purpose of his trip, said McLeod, was to investigate the possibility of forming new chapters in the South. While the traditional conservative tone to Southern political life may raise some barriers, McLeod said he was hopeful his group could encourage an emerging progressive strain in the Republican party.

Skylab Effort Shows Space Age Progress

The successful efforts by Skylab 1 astronauts and experts on the ground to salvage the mission illustrates how far we have come in our space efforts.

In early space shots, the astronauts would not have been allowed to attempt such repairs as were carried out in Skylab, unless it had been a matter of life and death.

In subsequent missions, man has shown he can work in space and even on the moon. Drawing on what we have learned from previous space mission, our space people have been able to save Skylab. It is only a small indication of what the future holds for us in space.

President Not Changing Style

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Twice during his closed-door meeting with Republican congressional leaders last week President Nixon performed in a way that raised fresh doubts about his understanding of the real impact of Watergate.

When the discussion turned to the best pipeline route to carry the new North Slope oil from Alaska, Mr. Nixon first heard Sen. John Tower and Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, strongly backed by Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton, argue the Alaskan route was the only one possible.

But a powerful disclaimer came from Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference. Speaking for the Midwest, Anderson argued in favor of the Canadian route, with the precious fuel shipped to terminal points in the Midwest. Otherwise, said Anderson, the Middle West would continue utterly dependent on the East Coast for its fuel.

Mr. Nixon listened, then tautly—and somewhat tartly—proclaimed his decision: the route would have to be via Alaska, not Canada. The reason, he said, was embedded in foreign policy and national security.

Mr. Nixon next lectured the Republican leaders: you will just have to take that on faith. He could not, he added, go into the secret rationale of his decision.

For Mr. Nixon to cloak so prosaic a decision in terms of super-secret foreign policy and national security, following his highly criticized May 22 statement blaming part of the Watergate cover-up on national security, rubbed some Republican leaders present the wrong way.

The impression that the deeper implications of Watergate have not yet penetrated the presidential psyche, moreover, was strengthened when Mr. Nixon made a frankly political pitch just before the end of the White House session.

In a rare but oblique reference to Watergate, the President reminded his high-level Republican audience that, when he took office, thousands of Americans were getting killed in Vietnam. Not only that, he went on, there had been no sign of any break in the long U.S.-China cold war, and detente with Moscow was a remote dream.

Mr. Nixon's message was clear: get out and tell the voters not to forget what I have done for them in the past; don't let this Watergate thing block their view of the real Nixon administration.

There are many such presidential signals that Watergate is perceived in the White House as a far less traumatic national disaster than most politicians consider it. Even if Mr. Nixon is merely trying to give this impression to his congressional leaders as part of his political strategy, the overall effect of presidential business-as-usual is the same. Whether the non-chalance is spontaneous or cultivated, Mr. Nixon's earlier pretense of trying to achieve a clean break with past presidential habits seems now forgotten.

Thus, the President is seeing far more of his former

Sex Vs. The Watergate

LONDON — I don't wish to put down our own Watergate affair, but when it comes to a good government scandal the British have us beat by a mile. Their latest scandal has to do with Sex.

It is the type of intrigue that even a charwoman can understand, having for its major characters cabinet ministers, lords, dukes and call girls. While our Watergate investigation has to do with who bugged whom, the British inquiry has zeroed in on who slept with whom, and for how much. And while the Senate drones on endlessly about what one lawyer told another lawyer in the Watergate break-in, the British scandal delves into the motives of why a man of title, wealth and position would pay for pleasure in the arms of a fallen woman.

What makes the British story different than Watergate is that all the major players are keeping a stiff upper lip. There is no begging for immunity, no taking the Fifth, no threats to implicate others.

When Lord Lambton, Prime Minister Heath's defense undersecretary, was confronted with compromising photographs of himself and a call girl named Norma Levy, he did not say he was doing it on orders from higher authority. Nor did he explain he took his action to protect national security. He did not hide behind the Union Jack.

He said simply on the BBC when asked by the commentator (and this is an exact quote, which shows you why British TV is so much better than ours): "Why should a man of your social position and charm and personality have to go to a whore?"

"Because," Lord Lambton replied, "I think that people sometimes like variety. I think it is as simple as that and I think this impulse is understood by everybody."

The main fear in the so-called Lambton affair was that state secrets had been divulged through the liaisons. But Lord Lambton squashed that on his BBC broadcast. "Businessmen do not go with call girls to talk of private matters. If a call girl suddenly said to me, 'Please, darling, tell me about the new laser ray,' or 'What do you think of the new Rolls Royce developments?' I would have known that something was up."

What also makes the Lambton scandal more interesting than the Watergate (Continued on page 5)

Words That Weary

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a doctor's secretary gets tired of hearing:

HAL BOYLE

"I thought bankers' hours were pretty good, but I guess a doctor's hours has them beat, haven't they?"

"Do you mind if I tell you my symptoms before I get in to see Dr. Medulla? Sometimes I get so flustered I forget to tell him half the things that are really wrong with me."

"You mean this is only Wednesday? Here I've been waiting two hours, and I'm not even supposed to be here until Thursday."

"Judging from the latest magazines I've been reading in your reception room, 1957 must have been quite an interesting year."

"After I've been sitting here half the day, you tell me this is Dr. Medulla's office. I'm supposed to see Dr. Oblongata. Isn't he in this building?"

"No, I don't care to tell you why I want to see the doctor. It's too personal. Just tell him that it has something to do with a stuck zipper — and I got to see him real quick."

"A doctor's waiting room is kind of like a cemetery isn't it? Not much action in either."

"I'm the mechanic at the garage where the doctor gets his car fixed. Does that entitle me to some kind of a professional discount?"

"Listen, good-looking, if you're not tied down, how about letting me take you to dinner tonight and tell you about a couple of interesting symptoms I've developed since I came in here and saw you?"

"No, baby, I'm not sick. I'm the salesman for a drug firm. If you'll slip me in to see the doc for five minutes I'll tell him about a new remedy we're putting out that will make all his patients feel like they can walk on water."

"This is Mrs. Grimsby calling. No, I don't want to make an appointment. I just want you to ask the doctor whether he thinks I might feel better if I took two of the brown pills a day instead of three and four of the pink pills instead of two."

Libya To Control Oil Output

By EDMOND HAJJ
TRIPOLI (UPI) — The Libya of revolutionary Col. Moammar Khadafy has told American oil companies operating in Libya it intends to achieve "100 per cent control" of their interests.

Maj. Abdul Salam Jalloud, the Libyan premier, passed the word to the Oasis group (Continental, Marathon, Amerada-Hess and Shell) April 30 and the Amoseas-Hess (Social and Texaco) May

10. The government served similar notice on Occidental Petroleum.

Negotiators from all three groups arrived in Tripoli a few days later to see what the Libyans meant by 100 per cent control and to submit counterproposals, oil sources said.

The companies were told Libya wanted to buy all the groups' oil "installations in return for compensation on the basis of net book value assets, the sources said. Libya would then be prepared to sell the oil back to the companies at market prices.

But the Libyans proposed that the oil companies should continue to oversee the technical aspects of the operations until Libya could train its own technicians, the sources said.

Khadafy, a strong proponent of the growing campaign to assert Arab control over Middle East oil wealth, nationalized British Petroleum assets in Libya in 1971.

Libyan officials said students were being trained to become the technicians to run Libya's oil industry at the Tripoli Oil Institute. More than 250 other Libyans are taking courses in oil industry techniques in the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Austria and Egypt. As part of its plan to take (Continued on page 5)

Summer Jobs Offered By County Government

A summer employment program has been established by the Federal Government to provide summer jobs for the youth of Pitt County.

This program is being run by the county government of Pitt County and most of the towns, schools and departments in Pitt County have been assigned workers to help them during the summer months.

The employment program lasts nine weeks and each employee will work 26 hours per week.

Persons will earn $1.60 per hour.

Eligible for jobs are those students on vacation from high school and college, Vietnam veterans and disabled veterans under 29 years of age, and youths of families that have an income below the poverty level who do not have suitable employment and who are school drop-outs handicapped, or members of a minority and who are between the ages of 14 and 21 years old.

The hours and types of work are set by the department and supervisor that you work for. The hours a person works will usually be the same as any other county employee. Some of the major types of work include, mowing grass, painting, trimming hedges, cleaning and sweeping, typing, filing and tutoring.

White House aides, fairly or unfairly entwined in Watergate, than even some of his new White House aides know about. Charles E. Colson, the President's top political inside man last year now practicing law in Washington, has been paying secret visits to the White House. Last week he dined with the President at least once, perhaps twice.

In this spirit, Mr. Nixon's pledge to elevate Vice President Spiro Agnew's influence by making him vice chairman of the Domestic Council seems to have aborted. Although uttered a full month ago, the pledge has not yet brought the Vice President on iota of new authority. Agnew told us last week that "there has not been a clear definition of additional responsibility for him yet."

Further, the Vice President said that "I have seen absolutely no change in the President at all as a result of this. (Watergate) and that the Cambodian invasion and mining of Haiphong imposed 'a lot more pressure (on the President) that the overflow from the Watergate.'" Not everything Mr. Nixon is doing these days fits that pattern of scaling down Watergate to diminutive political size. For example, the President suddenly and uncharacteristically cancelled a full day of work and appointments at Key Biscayne last Saturday (May 26) and flew to the Bahaman island of his friend Robert Abplanalp, apparently desperate for escape.

But such signs of inner pressure are rare. Rather, Mr. Nixon's refusal to face the press, his refusal to put politicians in charge of his White House staff and his refusal to disclose everything he knows about Watergate give the truer picture of the President today. Instead of any sharp break with the past, it is still business as usual.

Antenna System To 'Look Back'

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — GTE Sylvania Inc. has announced completion of an electrical design of antenna systems that, from space, might probe the earth and other planets in search of oil, mineral deposits and water.

The antenna systems were used in the Apollo 17 mission. They participated in the lunar sounder experiment which probed approximately three-quarters of a mile below the moon's surface.

Series 'Pushed' By Hugh Downs

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Downs was in town the other day to talk to a network about a new TV series he has in mind. But the proposed show doesn't involve make-believe. It concerns frank discussions of the sexual and emotional problems Americans face in real life.

Before you get the idea the former star of NBC's "Today" show has gone daft, a few things need explaining. In recent years, Downs has become increasingly concerned about the population explosion.

It's led him to join the national board of the Planned Parenthood Federation. And he's national cochairman of the Citizens' Committee on Population and the American Future.

The latter group was formed to keep alive last year's findings and recommendations of a special commission — created by Congress at President Nixon's request — that studied America's population problems.

The way Downs sees it, an educational tv series about sex and emotion would be of great help in carrying out the task of the citizens' committee, formed by John D. Rockefeller III.

"In all honesty, I think the print media has been more forthright about these issues," Downs said. "It's true that television has displayed some real courage in areas of controversy."

"But in the area of human sexuality, it's been strangely silent, damn near completely silent. I think this is because sexuality is considered such a hot potato, which it needn't be if honestly presented."

Downs, who declined to name the network with which he's discussing the proposed series, said he'd like the show to run five times a week.

The topics could range from rape to the pros and cons of abortion or federal funding for contraceptive research, he said.

Each show would have guest experts and a "moderator who knows the difference between knowledge and opinion," Downs said.

He said were he directly involved in the show, he'd prefer to produce it — not moderate it — but he would do whatever was necessary to make the show effective.

is that there was more than one lord involved. As a matter of fact, after Lambton, Lord Jellicoe, the lord involved. As a matter of fact, after Lambton, Lord Jellicoe, the lord-privy seal in Heath's cabinet, admitted to having affairs with call girls as well and tendered his resignation. There has also been a duke mentioned and nobody knows how many knights will eventually be involved.

I must say, the British newspapers are taking it very well. They are keeping the public fully informed on every last detail of the sordid affair, interviewing the call girls in questions, the friends of the lords, the wives and anyone else who can shed light on what has become the best story since the Profumo affair. As far as British journalism is concerned there will be no coverup.

Some Americans in London believe that the British broke the story at this time because they were jealous of Watergate.

"It was pure spite," an American State Department officer told me. "Britain knew it couldn't be a major power without a first-rate scandal and the only way it could top us was to find one with lots of sex in it. We consider the breaking of the Lambton affair at this time as a very unfriendly act."

The only bright side of the story, from the United States' point of view, is that although Lord Lambton has wiped Watergate off the front pages of Europe's newspapers, it's hard to sustain a call girl scandal for very long.

Watergate, on the other hand, will probably go on for years. Americans can take comfort that while Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Mitchell will remain household words for a decade, Lord Lambton, Lord Jellicoe, Duke What's-his-name and Norma Levy will soon be nothing more than a footnote in Britain's long and illustrious sexual scandal history.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Agriculture is considered to be an "outdoor industry" but many of the accidents that plague it occur indoors.

About 20 percent of an estimated 134,000 injuries on farms recently surveyed by the National Safety Council occurred in farm buildings.

"More of them occurred in buildings than at any other single location," explained E. O. Beasley, extension biological and agricultural engineer at North Carolina State University.

Beasley said the survey, which included about 70,000 people on 16,780 farms in eight states, also showed that most farm accidents involve animals and hand tools.

Here are some of the main sources of farm accidents, as shown by the survey, and some ways Beasley believes they may be avoided:

Animals caused one in every 10 accidents. Cows were involved in two-thirds of animal accidents in buildings and in 40 percent of all animal accidents. Horses were involved in 25 percent of all animal accidents in buildings.

As a precaution in avoiding these accidents, don't crowd animals and do speak to a horse before you approach it.

Power and hand tools were involved in 12 percent of the accidents. Eyes were involved in 3.5 percent of the injuries reported.

Good safety procedure requires wearing personal protective equipment like safety goggles, glasses, or face shields. A hard hat would have prevented three of every four head injuries reported in the survey.

Augers and elevators ranked third as objects involved in farm machinery accidents and caused 10 percent of the injuries. Nearly 20 percent of the injuries where a body part was severed involved elevator accidents.

The power should be turned off on elevators and augers before adjusting and unclogging them, and ragged sleeves should never be worn when working close to an elevator or auger.

Wagons were involved in 16 percent of the farm machinery injuries.

To avoid these accidents the tractor should be started slowly when it is hitched to a wagon. If people must ride in or on the wagon, have them sit down and never let people on the wagon hang their legs over the edge and expose them to crushing at gates.

Falls caused nearly one-third of all the injuries on farms in the eight states surveyed. The main source of falls and the percentage for each category were: ladders - 73, horses - 60, and wagons - 47.

Safety procedures require setting ladders out one foot at the base for every four feet in length. Don't try to reach too far while standing on a ladder. Use good lighting on stairs. Keep floors clear and clean. Remove ice and snow promptly.

Farm machinery was involved in 21 percent of all injuries, and tractor injuries accounted for 27 percent of them.

Fingers and legs were the parts of the body most frequently injured with each about 15 percent, and fingers were involved in one of every two crushing injuries.

What was the cost of these accidents in dollars and time lost?

Farmers lost an average of 10 days per injury according to this survey.

They paid out an average of $137 for medical expenses and extra hired help.

Property damage per injury averaged an additional $41.

Her Son-In-Law Among Grads

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson delivered the commencement address at the University of Virginia to a class that included son-in-law Charles S. Robb.

When Mrs. Johnson presented degrees to the law school graduates, she exclaimed, "Oh boy!" when Robb stepped forward. She gave him a kiss rather than the customary handshake.

Robb's wife, the elder Johnson daughter, Lynda Bird Robb, sat a short distance away during the ceremony Sunday.

The late President Johnson had been invited to make the commencement address.

Probably the number one field problem on tobacco this spring has been chemical injury. This has ranged from herbicide to fertilizer damage. The problem usually occurs where the material was not used according to label directions.

Agriculture is usually made more efficient and productive by the wise use of pesticides. Misuse is costly, however. Stunted crops, poor stands, and burned leaves cut into your income. These problems can usually be avoided by "reading the label" and following directions.

Control Storage Pest Of Tobacco

It won't be long now until the new crop of tobacco will be going into the packhouse. You may remember that last year was a bad one as far as tobacco moth was concerned. The buying interests even cut prices where the moth was evident.

To avoid this problem for the '73 season, the following steps are recommended: 1. Clean up! Get rid of all tobacco refuse and sweep the packhouse thoroughly.

2. Gather all used tobacco sheets, bundle them loosely, wrap in plastic cover, and treat them with methyl bromide at the rate of 1 pound-500 cubic feet. (One can should do for most farms.) 3. If the moth is observed after tobacco is stored hang on Dichlorvos resin strip (Vapona, DDVP) per 1000 cu. ft. of storage space. Observe all label precautions in using these materials.

These steps should insure that you will get to market with all the tobacco you cure.

Coastal Plain Agricultural Tour

The annual Coastal Plain Agricultural Tour is scheduled for June 20. The day-long tour will begin with a look at food processing in Wilson County. Tobacco mechanization will be the feature of a Pitt County stop at the Wayne Stokes Farm. Texas Gull's phosphate mine and cattle farm and modern timber harvesting will be the focal points of Beaufort County stops. Bus transportation will be arranged. All interested persons are encouraged to make plans to take part in this tour.

Communists Seek Influence In Africa

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and Communist China are quietly expanding military aid to African countries as they maneuver for influence and support there, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Overshadowed by crises elsewhere, the sometimes competing Soviet and Chinese moves in Africa are logged by U.S. intelligence officials who consider them important in the global power balance.

Communist Chinese were trying to capitalize on the Sudan's alienation from Russia. China also started about $42 million in economic aid projects there.

Guinea, the Russians are estimated by U.S. intelligence to have provided more than 5,000 tons of weapons and ammunition to anti-Portuguese rebels in the past year.

Since then the Sudanese leaders, who blamed the Russians for allegedly helping in a coup attempt against them, have made up with Moscow and the Russians are building a logistical complex in the Sudan, among other things.

The U.S. arms aid program in Africa is strictly limited by Congress, with Ethiopia and Tunisia sharing the total $1.3 million in grants proposed for the new fiscal year starting next month.

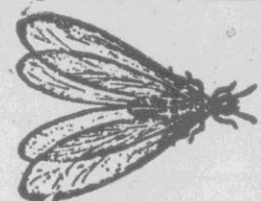

Meanwhile, the Chinese appear to be moving in on Guinea which has relied on a Soviet naval squadron to protect it for nearly two years. Within the past two months, China delivered four fast Shanghai-class gunboats for Guinea's coastal defense. A 40-man Chinese training group accompanied some of the boats, becoming the first Chinese military presence in that West African country.

A series of U.S. intelligence reports traces a pattern of Communist Chinese and Soviet aid initiatives in at least eight African countries.

According to one recent report, Red China is preparing to provide Tanzania with its first jet fighter planes, a squadron of 20 MIG 19s and MIG 17s, by late this year.

As summer draws near, Americans get ready to harvest that most versatile of all fruits, the grape. Keystone of most wines, source of the raisin and the currant, it is the prime ingredient of countless jams, jellies, preserves and confections.

Most of our grape crop comes from the Pacific and Atlantic coastal regions. California, a major producer, starts funneling the fruit of its vineyards to market as early as June. The eastern states follow sometime later. In general, however, the prices will be lowest and the quality at its peak from August through September.

European grapes have not grown well east of the Rockies. But other varieties have. The Catawba, first developed around 1820 near Washington, D.C., was later expanded in New York's Finger Lakes region. By 1860, about 90 per cent of the grapes grown east of the Rockies were Catawbas.

Then the picture changed. In 1850, Boston-born Ephraim Wales Bull perfected the robust Concord grape in the Middlesex County town where Henry David Thoreau lived beside Walden Pond. Soon the Concord became the leading native American grape.

On his farm outside Concord, Bull planted about 22,000 seedlings until he produced what he considered the ideal grape, the big blue-black globe that became so famous in America.

In 1853, Bull exhibited the first clusters of his Concord grapes before the public and walked off with first prize at the Boston Horticultural Society exhibition. The fame of the Concord quickly spread and soon prize cuttings were going for as high as $1,000. It marked the beginning of table grape cultivation in the United States.

The Concord thrived, but Bull died a relatively poor man. The inscription on his tombstone read: "He sowed, others reaped."

In the century that followed the introduction of the Concord at the Boston exhibition, the dusky, slip-skin Concord proved its adaptability in virtually every soil, and showed it was capable of withstanding almost any pest or weather.

As a result, more than 250,000 tons of the concord grape are harvested each year from the Chataqua and Erie grape belt in western New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Arkansas and parts of Canada, among other places.

Today the Concord is not only the outstanding juice producer but also helps fill millions of jars of jams and jellies and other preserves. It is also used in bakery products and as a blend in cold duck and other wines.

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup Concord grape preserves
- 4 medium ripe bananas

- quartered Dash of cinnamon
- 1/2 cup banana liqueur
- 3 ounces light rum
- Vanilla ice cream
- Melt butter in a chafing dish. Add grape preserves and blend well. Add bananas and saute several minutes. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Pour banana liqueur and rum over fruit and ignite, basting bananas with flaming liquid. When flame dies out, serve over vanilla ice cream. Makes 4 servings.

You can save money on your electric bill!

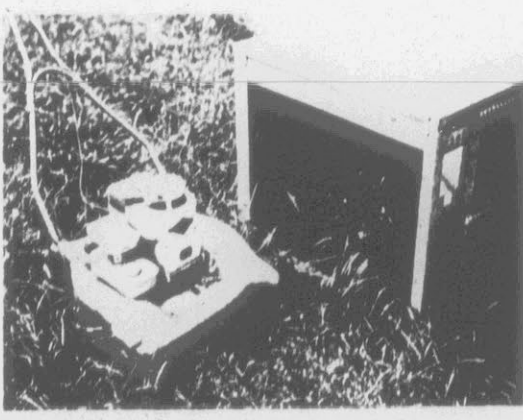

Conserve the use of electric energy. Read these tips—follow them—help us to help you.

1. Never run attic or window fans where the air conditioning is on.
2. Install a vent fan in the attic to exhaust heat (often reaching 140°-160°) and prevent it from radiating down to your living area.
3. A light-colored roof reflects hot sunlight, helping to prevent heat buildup in your attic.
4. Use the exhaust fan over the range while cooking so that heat from the range will not add to your air conditioning load.
5. Save "moisture-producing" activities for cool times of days, like early morning or at night. Mopping, dish-washing, laundering, and bathing put moisture in the air, increasing the humidity which makes you uncomfortable in hot weather.
6. To prevent heat and moisture buildup in your home, use the bathroom exhaust fan during and after bathing, and be sure your clothes dryer is vented to the outside.
7. Placing window units on the north or shady side of the house will reduce their work load.

8. Clean the baffles on window units, but be careful not to damage the evaporator coils or fins.
9. Don't block window units with drapes, shades, pictures, or furniture.

A little preventive maintenance will help your equipment function more efficiently. For example, keep high grass from obstructing the outdoor condenser.

10. If you're entertaining guests in your home, you may wish to turn the thermostat down before they come, and back to normal when they leave. Extra people make extra heat.
11. If you use window units and have a central heating furnace, close the floor or side wall registers and low return air grills while using your air conditioner. This keeps the cool air from escaping through these openings and out of your living area. If you leave them open you may be cooling the area under your house.
12. If you have central air conditioning with an outdoor condenser, keep leaves, grass and other obstacles away from it. They interfere with its operation.
13. Leaving your air conditioner on at night will spare it the burden of having to recool your home each day. The Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute explains that a house, its walls, furniture, and people begin to absorb heat when the sun rises and continue to do so all day. It may be more economical to retain your comfort level than to have to reclaim it daily.
14. If you go away for several days, turn your air conditioning off. You may want to ask a neighbor to turn on the air conditioning a few hours before you expect to arrive to cool down your home in advance. Leave the thermostat at your comfort level, not lower. At a lower setting your system will not cool any faster. It will only continue to cool after your comfort level has been reached.
15. Direct sunshine is a big source of heat. Prevent summer's heat rays from warming your house by drawing drapes, blinds, or shades on the sunny side of your home. Awnings or trees and shrubs will shield the sunny side to cool you and prevent overexertion of your air conditioning.
16. Don't leave unnecessary lights on — they heat the room.
17. For each degree you raise the thermostat of your air conditioner, you can save at least five percent on the cost of operation. So it will pay you to place the thermostat on the highest comfortable setting and leave it there.

WALSTONBURG — An 11-year-old girl was killed about 5:15 Friday afternoon when she pushed a motorbike into the path of an oncoming car one mile east of here on Highway 264, the Highway Patrol reported.

The child was identified as Sandy Faye Boykin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Boykin of Rt. 2, Walstonburg.

Russell Linwood Tripp of Rt. 2, Greenville was the driver of the car, according to Trooper J.T. Whitehurst. No charges were made against him, as the death was ruled accidental.

Whitehurst quoted witnesses as saying that the girl was standing on the shoulder of the highway, that she waited for one eastbound car to pass and then pushed the bike into the path of the Tripp car. She was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Farmville and burial was in the Walstonburg Cemetery. Surviving her in addition to her parents are her maternal grandfather, Albert Braxton of Farmville; and her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Marvin Boykin of Walstonburg.

Considering Senate Race Record Outlay By UN Agency

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Freshman Mecklenburg Sen. Michael P. Mullins confirmed reports Sunday that he is considering entering next year's race for Democrat Sam Ervin's U.S. Senate seat.

Mullins, a Republican, said he had been approached by some members of his party about his possible candidacy. But he said it would be several weeks at least before he could reach a decision.

The 32-year-old Charlotte lawyer finished second in the race last November for four state Senate seats from Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties. It was his first political venture.

Mecklenburg Republican Rep. David Jordan, said a number of Republicans "across the state" were pushing Mullins to enter the race. He said money had already been pledged to support his candidacy in a primary election.

The 76-year-old Sen. Ervin has made no definite statement on whether he will seek reelection in 1974, but indicated last week that it is "a very strong possibility."

Monroe Democrat Henry Hall Wilson became the first announced candidate for Ervin's seat last week. He resigned from the presidency of the Chicago Board of Trade to return to North Carolina and seek election.

NEW YORK (AP) — Soaring gold prices and a declining dollar helped today to continue last week's declining market trend, analysts said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 6.17 at 887.79. Big Board declining issues held a strong lead over advancing stocks, 849 to 261, in light volume.

The dollar declined sharply today while the price of gold continued to climb.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of some 1,500 common issues was down 0.44 at 54.42. The American Stock Exchange price-change index was down .04 at 22.45.

Gulf Oil, down 1/4 at 22 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader. Number 2 in Big Board volume was Uniroyal unchanged at 11 1/4; followed by Deltec International, down 1/4 at 6 1/2, and Woolworth, up 3/4 at 21 1/2.

Bausch & Lomb opened late at 21 1/2, down 1/4. It was delayed pending news that the SEC had charged the company and others with insider trading violations.

Peking Greets N. Vietnamese

TOKYO (AP) — Thousands turned out in Peking today to greet North Vietnam's Premier Pham Van Dong and Communist party chief Le Duan when they arrived for summit talks on the wobbly Vietnam cease-fire.

The Chinese have gone out of their way to underscore importance of the talks, but advance stories did not give an agenda.

In addition to the situation in South Vietnam, it is considered likely that the two Vietnamese leaders will discuss the fragile Laotian cease-fire and the continuing war in Cambodia.

The Peking talks coincide with renewed discussions in Paris this week between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho on more effective application of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

Underline Claim To Car Capital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Was there ever any doubt that Los Angeles is one of the nation's car capitals? Here are some facts from a city engineer's traffic report for 1972:

— There is more than one vehicle for every two of the city's nearly 3 million residents.

— Vehicle registration in the past two years increased almost twice as fast as population.

— There are more cars and trucks in this city than in each of 24 states.

— Total travel on the city's streets and freeways reached 18.5 billion miles during 1972 — the equivalent of 2,000 trips around the world every day.

Perez, Carroll Carry Reds To Win Over Pirates

TRYING IT ON FOR SIZE — Racing driver David Pearson, of Spartanburg, S.C., tries on the winner's trophy after capturing the Mason-Dixon 400-mile NASCAR race at Dover Downs International Speedway Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tony Perez of the Cincinnati Reds made a prophecy to his teammate Clay "Hawk" Carroll as they left Three Rivers Stadium Saturday following a loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Hawk, tomorrow it's going to be me and you," Perez declared.

That premonition was fulfilled Sunday when Perez belted a grand slam home run and Carroll overcame a pulled leg muscle to pitch the Reds to a 5-1 win over Pittsburgh, halting the Pirates win streak at six games.

"We'd been losing and somebody had to pick up the team," said Perez. "...I just had the feeling we'd be the ones to do it."

The Pirates fell 4½ games behind Chicago in the National League East.

Elsewhere, the San Francisco Giants used two-run homers by Dave Rader and Garry Maddox in the ninth inning to nip the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, the Montreal Expos beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, the Chicago Cubs blanked the Atlanta Braves 3-0, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Houston Astros 2-1 in 10 innings and the New York Mets trounced the San Diego Padres 9-2.

American League scores: Milwaukee 7, Chicago 1; Detroit 8, Minnesota 2; New York 3, California 2; Kansas City 5, Cleveland 4; Oakland 12, Boston 1; Baltimore 7, Texas 1 in a game called on account of rain in the sixth.

Philadelphia's Ken Brett coasted into the ninth inning with a 4-1 lead over the Giants but gave up a single to Dave Kingman and a home run to Rader and departed.

Mac Scarce walked pinch hitter Willie McCovey but the Phils seemed about to break their five-game losing streak when Billy Wilson got Bobby Bonds to ground into a double play. But Tito Fuentes singled and Maddox belted his game-winning shot over the left field fence, No. 3 on the season.

Greg Luzinski homered for the Phils.

Hal Breeden drew a bases-loaded walk from Al Downing in the eighth inning to snap a tie and Clyde Mashore hit a two-run homer off Tommy John in the ninth, helping the Expos drop the Dodgers 2½ games behind the Giants in the NL West.

Pitcher Milt Pappas snapped a scoreless tie with his 20th career home run in the sixth inning and hurled seven shutout frames before giving way to Bob Locker, who protected the Cubs' victory over the Braves.

Tim McCarver's bases-loaded single with one out in the 10th inning snapped a tie and lifted the red-hot Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the skidding Astros. It was the 11th win in 12 games for St. Louis while Houston dropped (1) its fourth in a row and (2) into fourth place in the Western Division.

New York's Tom Seaver held San Diego to six hits in recording his fifth straight success and ending the Mets' losing streak at three games.

Club Revises Racing Rules

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The head of the U.S. Auto Club says the deaths and injuries at this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race "should not be used by critics of the auto racing sport to indict the dedicated individuals who constantly strive to make racing — and automobile driving — safer."

USAC President Reynold C. MacDonald said the club's "constant objective is to make auto racing safer and more enjoyable for everyone involved." The USAC directors "responded quickly and positively to suggestions for rule changes" for the championship cars at a weekend meeting here, MacDonald said.

The major changes include shortening wing sizes from 64 inches to 55 inches in width on the rear of the car to "improve visibility and slow the cars somewhat in the turns."

All fuel must now be carried in the left side of the car, in a tank with a maximum capacity of 40 gallons.

The 40-gallon fuel cells in the cars' right side will be filled with energy absorbing material.

Ridley Wins Permatex

BYRON, Ga. (AP) — Dalton Ga., race car driver Jody Ridley won the Permatex 200 Sunday at the Byron-Middle Georgia Raceway.

Ridley collected $1,500 after driving his Ford to victory before some 4,500 fans who watched the NASCAR-scanioned late model sportsman class event.

Sam McQuagg of Columbus won $1,000 for his second place finish followed by Sam Ard of Asheboro, N.C., in third place. Fourth place was won by Pete Hamilton of Atlanta. Mike Ashley of Gadesden, Ala., was in fifth.

The fast pre-race qualifying time went to Buck Simmons of Atlanta who was clocked on the half-mile oval high-banked track at 99 miles per hour. Simmons, however, blew an engine in the 43rd lap and failed to finish.

Trophy Goes To A Tall Player

CINCINNATI (AP) Ray McKay of the Cincinnati Swords, at 6-foot-4 one of the American Hockey League's tallest players, is the winner of the Eddie Shore Trophy as the league's top defenseman.

The six-year pro was a key to Cincinnati's stingy defense which finished second in league statistics. The Swords were the AHL Calder Cup champs.

Poor-No-More David Pearson Adds Mason-Dixon Earnings

By BLOYS BRITT
Associated Press Racing Writer
DOVER, Del. (AP) — David Pearson, the hottest driver in stock car racing for the moment, likes to recall his growing up days in a South Carolina mill village.

"We were so poor we had to eat gravy without any meat in it," he says. "I'd say things have improved a bit since then."

Indeed they have. He puts Grade A meat in his gravy now.

The 38-year-old resident of Spartanburg, S.C., graying and matured from what he admits were "some rough days making my way up," won his sixth race in his last seven starts

Sunday, beating Cale Yarborough by a comfortable 12 seconds in the Mason-Dixon 500 at Dover.

The victory was worth $13,325 to Pearson and it boosted his season's take to $115,255. For the record, he's just $55,126 short of joining Richard Petty as the only stock car driver ever to accumulate $1 million in career winnings.

Pearson's 500-mile average was 119.075 miles per hour, good for a one-mile oval, but far below what his Mercury and Yarborough's Chevrolet are capable of running at such bigger tracks as Daytona and Talladega, Ala.

Even so, he would like to see the stock cars running at slower speeds, and the races reduced to no more than 300 miles.

"I think it would be a good idea to slow the cars about 10 miles, to about 175 m.p.h. at Daytona Beach and that much or more at Talladega," he said. "Then you'd see a better race. If the cars were slower, no one could run off and leave another car. The only thing, I hope they don't slow me down more than anybody else."

Although he didn't mention Indianapolis, Pearson obviously was referring to a move underway there to slow the open wheel turbocharged machines down in the wake of one driver killed and two badly hurt in the rain-shortened race May 31.

The National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing also plans to adjust its technical rules to reduce cars like Pearson's.

Pearson led the Dover chase through most of the final 400 miles and held a lead of eight seconds over Yarborough with 86.6 one-mile laps remaining.

But Yarborough gained the lead during a pit stop and Pearson entertained the crowd of more than 30,000 by overtaking his Chevrolet-driving opponent and adding to his advantage as the race waned away.

Bobby Allison, last year's top money winner with $284,000 came in third in a Chevrolet. Petty was fourth in a Dodge and Cecil Gordon was fifth in a Chevrolet.

Weiskopf Is 'Hot' But Nicklaus Out Of Reach

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, winner of two of his last three starts and second in the other, is one of the hottest items on the pro golf tour right now, but he isn't ready to yell "Bring on Jack Nicklaus."

Not quite. "I'm not going to say 'I can beat Jack Nicklaus,'" Weiskopf said after his relatively easy, front-running three-stroke victory Sunday in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm not going to say that. Because it wouldn't happen. But I'm not afraid of him. I'm not afraid of anyone. I feel that if I play at my best then I can win at any time," Weiskopf said.

"We're both the same kind of players. We're both power hitters. We both have finesse. We're both good putters.

"I still think I played better than Jack did last week. I just made too many mistakes."

That was a week ago in Atlanta when Nicklaus beat him by two strokes though Weiskopf scored well enough to win any previous Atlanta Classic.

And Nicklaus was idle when Weiskopf won the Colonial National Invitation at Fort Worth a month ago. And he was idle again this week as Weiskopf romped home with a final-round 68 and a 271 total, a whopping 19-under-par on the 7,219 yard Quail Hollow Country Club course. It's a record low for this tournament that Weiskopf now has won twice in three years.

"I think I know what Tom felt like a week ago," said Lanny Wadkins, the youthful runner-up. Wadkins didn't get closer than two strokes in the muggy heat for the final round and finished with a 69 and 274.

"I played well and still got beat. I must feel just exactly what Tom felt a week ago. If anyone had told me at the start of the week I'd finish 14-under-par and be second, I'd say he was crazy."

Dave Hill, Lou Graham and Leonard Thompson were next at 277 with Cesar Sanudo, Art Wall, Ken Still, Mac McLendon, Dan Sikes and John Lister of New Zealand bunched at 278.

Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer finished well back. Trevino had a final-round 70 for 280 and Palmer tied for 34th at 284. Australian Bruce Crampton, South African Gary Player and Masters champ Tommy Aaron failed to qualify for the final 36 holes.

Weiskopf's victory, his seventh in eight years on the pro tour, was worth $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and boosted him into fourth place on the season's money-winning list with $121,821. Wadkins won $22,800 and joined Nicklaus, Crampton, Trevino and Weiskopf as $100,000 winners with more than $104,000.

Wadkins, a 23-year-old tour sophomore who won the Byron Nelson only six weeks ago, was paired with Weiskopf in the final group that went out in the 90-degree heat.

"I just never could get close enough to him to put the pressure on him," said Wadkins, who played his collegiate golf at nearby Wake Forest. He was a great favorite with the gallery of almost 25,000.

"I just couldn't catch up. I couldn't get to within one. You know, if it's just one-stroke difference, he might have some pressure. Two is something else. You can breathe a lot easier with two."

He lost his last chance when he put his tee shot in the gallery on the par three 17th hole. He made a bogey, while Weiskopf holed a tough little two-footer for his par and had a three-stroke advantage going to the last hole.

"It was almost easy," Weiskopf said. "I was just so confident, it was almost easy. I just knew I was going to win."

A half-hour of warmups will begin at 6:30 p.m. EST Friday, with the first 50-miler beginning at 8 p.m.

Bout In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Champion George Foreman of the United States will defend his world heavyweight boxing title against Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico in Tokyo Sept. 1 in a program of two championship fights, Muneo Mizoguchi, Japanese fight promoter, announced Monday.

Roman is ranked No. 10 heavyweight challenger by the World Boxing Council (WBC).

The second title match is to be between WBC junior light-weight champion Ricardo Arredondo of Mexico and Morito Kashiwaba of Japan, the WBC's sixth ranking contender.

Mizoguchi said the title bouts will be held at the 15,000-seat Budokan (Martial Arts Hall) in the heart of Tokyo.

Mizoguchi said the fight, to be Foreman's first title defense, was agreed upon on May 24 in San Francisco, and was authorized by the WBC Saturday in Mexico City.

Foreman won the title by stopping former champion Joe Frazier in the second round Jan. 22 at Kingston, Jamaica.

Taff And LM Gain Victories

Taff Office and Little Mint picked up victories over the weekend in Senior Babe Ruth games. Taff defeated Fire Fighters, 6-0, and Little Mint stopped Moore-King-Sullivan, 8-3.

In the first game, Taff got all it needed in the fourth inning. Donald Cannon walked, and came around from first to score on successive singles by Greg Nelson and Willie Streeter. Nelson himself scored on a two-base error and the Streeter single.

Taff sealed it up with three more runs in the fifth, and a one-spot in the sixth.

Wilkins Winn (G) defeated A. Wes Hankins (G) defeated Art Harrington, 6-0, 6-0.

Craig Reid (G) defeated David McLoud, 6-1, 6-4.

W. Winn-B. Winn (G) defeated Harrington-Bressler, 6-3, 6-3.

Craig Reid-Bob Marshburn (G) defeated Loyd-McLoud, 6-0, 6-3.

Fire Fighters had runners as far as third base early in the game, but a double play in the first left one runner stranded, and a fly ball and strike out in the second left the other. Nelson was the winning pitcher, allowing just four hits and striking out nine. Keith Gould started and lost for the Fire Fighters.

M-K-S took an early 2-0 lead over the Little Mint in the first inning. Mike Wallace walked, moved up on a fielders' choice, and scored on successive infield outs. Bobby Bryant followed Wallace around the bases, and scored on a single by Aidi Howell.

Little Mint came back to put the game away in the third inning with four runs. Phil Lewis singled to center, moved to second on a passed ball and went to third on a wild pitch. Gary Cowan walked and moved to second on a passed ball. Both scored when Ed Wells got a single in the infield. Wells scored when Bobby Wooten homered to right field. They added one more in the fourth when Lewis singled and scored on Cowan's double.

Little Mint picked up three more runs, two of which came in the sixth, one in the fifth.

M-K-S managed one more tally in the seventh. Sleepy Carmon walked, and scored on consecutive singles by Phil Dash and Wayne Bailey.

Little Mint increased its record to 4-0, while Taff stands at 2-3. M-K-S dropped to 4-1 and Fire Fighters fell to 0-5.

Canadian reinsman Herve Filion passed the 100 mark for 1973 in mid-April. He entered May with 109 winners.

Vida Blue 'Annoyed' On Arriving Late

By FRED ROTHENBERG Associated Press Sports Writer Vida Blue may be the fastest pitcher in baseball, but he won't win any races. You could ask teammate Mike Hegan about that.

Blue's pitching speed helped the Oakland A's to a 12-1 laugh over the Boston Red Sox. But it was his running speed—or better still, lack of it—which ended prematurely Hegan's Major League record of errorless games for first basemen at 178.

Carl Yastrzemski was batting for Boston in the bottom of the eighth with a runner on first when he tapped a grounder to first. Hegan looked at second, saw he had no chance to force Carlton Fisk, and threw to Blue. But the 33-year-old Yastrzemski beat the 23-year-old Blue to the bag.

The official scorer ruled that Hegan had juggled the ball and credited the big first baseman with an error, his first in 179 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York edged California 3-2; Detroit slugged Minnesota 8-2; Kansas City overcame Cleveland 5-4; Milwaukee whipped Chicago 7-1 and Baltimore topped Texas 7-1 in a game shortened by rain in the sixth inning.

Milwaukee swept its three-game series with Chicago on Jerry Bell's three-hit pitching. "That was the best sinker I've had all year," said Bell, 5-6, who faced only 29 batters. Kansas City came from behind with three runs in the ninth to nip the Indians. Amos Otis' two-run bases-loaded single was the margin of victory.

Margaret Court Whips Chris Evert At Paris

By GEOFFREY MILLER Associated Press Sports Writer PARIS (AP) — "I wish Margaret Court had been in this form when she played Bobby Riggs," said Chris Evert. "She would have hit him off the court."

But Chris won the hearts of the 12,000 Parisian fans who cheered her winning points. Now she has a busy summer ahead—the Italian Championships in Rome, Wimbledon, Forest Hills and maybe a $20,000 challenge match against Riggs.

Chris had played Mrs. Court four times before and beaten her three times—each time on clay. That was why she was favorite to win again on the slow clay of Paris.

In the National League, Chicago blanked Atlanta 3-0; Cincinnati stopped Pittsburgh 5-1; San Francisco trimmed Philadelphia 5-4; St. Louis squeezed by Houston 2-1 in 10 innings, Montreal beat Los Angeles 4-1 and New York outscored San Diego 9-2.

Pressure Of Early Bogies Overcome By Veteran Cornelius

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Kathy Cornelius has been playing golf for 20 years, so you'd imagine that pressure doesn't mean much to her.

Court, 3-0, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4 in a dramatic see-sawing final at the Roland Garros Stadium Sunday.

Chris won the hearts of the 12,000 Parisian fans who cheered her winning points. Now she has a busy summer ahead—the Italian Championships in Rome, Wimbledon, Forest Hills and maybe a $20,000 challenge match against Riggs.

Mickey Lolich, 5-5, who has lost two 1-0 games and two 2-1 games, spoiled Minnesota's Bat Day by stopping the Twins on seven hits for his third straight victory. The Yankees made a lot of people happy, treating a Bat Day crowd of 60,108 to a victory over California. Starting pitcher George Medich was coasting along with a five hitter and a 3-1 lead in the ninth when an error and a single cost him a complete game.

But it took the barbs and jokes of two Hollywood film stars to keep her in the $100,000 Sealy-Faberge Golf Classic, which she won Sunday on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Judy Rankin.

was in the final two days of the rain-shortened, 54-hole event.

Mrs. Cornelius was tied with Mrs. Rankin after regulation play was completed with 217 totals, but sank a six-foot par putt on the first extra hole, the par five, 472-yard 15th hole.

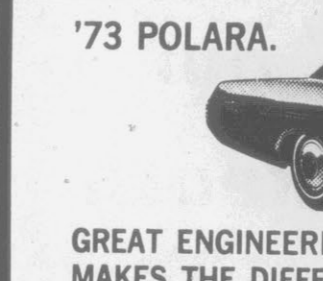

See why sales are up at the Good Guys! tell'em Honey sent ya!

"I feel that the key to my victory was that after bogeying the first two holes today, I didn't get too down on myself," said Mrs. Cornelius, after winning the richest prize in the history of women's golf.

Mrs. Rankin, who missed an eight-foot birdie try by inches on the 18th hole which would have given her the tournament, missed a two-footer on the playoff hole and had to settle for a bogey and second place.

The Midland, Tex., professional collected $11,000 and boosted her winnings on the 1973 LPGA tour to $32,000. She also won a new car valued at $6,000.

The race on the city street circuit, changed this year for the first time since 1929, pointed up the needle match between the two men who have dominated European auto racing this year. Stewart, 34 in two weeks time and brought up the traditional old style circuits, fouled up the start, but three and three for Emerson Fittipaldi and Jackie Stewart in the first six races for the 1973 title of world champion driver.

There are nine races to go on the championship trail—the next is in Sweden, June 17—and most of them are on the new-style tracks which could give Fittipaldi the edge.

Stewart scored his 25th win to equal the all-time record set by the late Jim Clark.

Class-Action Suit Voids Contracts Of 24 People

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In New Jersey, a class-action suit voided the contracts 24 customers had signed agreeing to pay $280 for home educational kits worth about $40.

For California home buyers, a class-action suit means a chance to earn interest on the tax escrow accounts required by the institutions holding their mortgages.

Drug companies accused of fixing prices, oil companies accused of levying excessive credit card finance charges and a door-to-door freezer salesman accused of defrauding his customers all have felt the sting of class-action consumer lawsuits.

The class action suit, filed under federal and state laws, permits those with a common claim to combine their interests and mount a suit which wouldn't have been worth the effort and legal fees if several separate suits were necessary.

Such suits constitute a small but growing proportion of legal cases nationwide.

"Class action is becoming more popular, but not necessarily more successful," said Mark Budnitz, an attorney with the National Consumer Law Center.

The number of class-action suits pending in federal courts at the end of last year was 3,500. Nearly half of them deal with civil rights, and in total they make up about 3 per cent of all federal civil cases. By comparison 25,000 personal injury cases were pending.

The American College of Trial Lawyers studied the Southern District of New York, the single largest adjudicator of federal class-action suits, and found the number filed annually increased nearly four times in five years.

In some cases class-action suits have become a victim of their own popularity, producing a mixed pattern of acceptance by courts.

Five states have approved laws permitting consumer class-action suits, according to the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs. In 13 other states the restrictions on such suits have been eased.

But judges elsewhere have recoiled at the prospect of massive judgments.

The issue of paying interest on home mortgage tax escrow accounts, for example, was accepted as a class action in California, where the legislature has approved class-action bills dealing with consumer and environmental issues. A similar case was denied class-action status in the District of Columbia.

The federal Truth-in-Lending law fines offenders $100 for each instance of inadequate credit information disclosure. When lawyers sued Chemical Bank of New York on behalf of 130,000 charge card holders, the judge called the possible $13 million penalty a "horrendous, possibly annihilating punishment" and disallowed it as a class action. The Senate now is considering limiting liability to $50,000 or 1 per cent of a company's net worth for offenses against the lending act.

Another class-action case spent seven years bounding back and forth from district to appellate courts. The issue was whether an estimated six million persons could sue jointly to get back as much as $60 million they claimed they had been overcharged on stock commissions.

An appeals court finally declared the suit unmanageable as a class action and said: "Class actions have sprouted and multiplied like the leaves of the green bay tree."

Beverly G. Moore Jr., co-author of a Ralph Nader report on antitrust enforcement and now a public interest Washington lawyer, said the stock commission ruling means, "We are about to see the end of significant class actions."

Nathaniel Colley, the California lawyer arguing the rent escrow cases, said the decision

"would in effect eliminate the intended effect of Rule 23." But Colley said the decision will not kill class action suits, particularly in the states.

Officials of the Pacific Legal Foundation, an arm of the California State Chamber of Commerce, have complained the state's class-action laws have led to harassment of business and the government. "I think California is going to start to tighten-up its liberal approach to class action," said attorney Ronald A. Zumbun.

See Chinese Clam Threat

GREENVILLE, Del. (AP) — Scientists at the new Delaware Museum of Natural History here say Chinese clams have disrupted the balance of nature in several major U.S. waterways.

Discovery of the Corbicula manilensis, a clam generally only three-quarters of an inch long, in the Delaware River between Philadelphia and Trenton is reported in the April issue of the museum's journal, Nautilus. The clam multiplies rapidly, crowding out native underwater life because it has no natural enemy in American habitats. The mollusk has never before been seen in the Northeast.

The article also reports Chinese clams in the Savannah River near Millhaven, Ga., and in the Pee Dee River near Society Hill, S.C. How the mollusk was brought to this country is not known, but it was perhaps introduced into California in 1880 by Chinese immigrants from Canton.

Two of the most popular names given West German babies are French, not German — Andreas for boys and Nicole for girls.

Scholars Have Different Hair

NEW YORK (UPI) — Students with high academic averages have substantially more zinc and copper in their hair than students with low grades, according to a study headed by Prof. Adon Gordus of the University of Michigan. The high average students have a lower than normal iodine content "while the reverse is true of students at the opposite end of the grade-point scale," it also was found.

The study was financed first by the U. of M. Institute for Environmental Quality and then by a grant from the National Science Foundation's Research Applied to National Needs.

Antique Dolls In Heavy Demand

SYDNEY (UPI) — Australian dealers are paying up to $380 for antique dolls. The dolls are being sent to the United States where private collectors are paying huge prices for them. The dolls in demand are made from a variety of materials, ranging from china composition and papier mache to wax or wood. Among the more valuable are "bisques" or dolls with faces fashioned from unglazed clay.

Guo! World Shortage of Champagne Looming

By ALINE MOSBY
RHEIMS, France (UPI) — The world is battered by disaster and now still another has struck: a champagne shortage.

Champagne, the world's luxury drink, is in short supply—because there are more luxury drinkers than ever.

"The demand for real French champagne has doubled in 10 years," says an expert at the Moet and Chandon winery. He pinpointed "increasing affluence" around the world as the reason.

This year in an attempt to slow down demand, the wine growers here in the Champagne region of France hiked their prices 20 per cent. Champagne drinkers kept buying the bubbly, anyway, with demand booking particularly in the United States.

Storms devastated 58 per cent of some vineyards in one night and others were 100 per cent lost, Mumms spokesman Gerard de Araya said. As champagne wine is aged at least three years, this means a puny amount of champagne will be bottled and put on the market in 1975.

France's total champagne production in 1972 was 123 million bottles, compared with 117 million in 1971, a 5.7 per cent increase. Further increases depend on the whims of the harvest and what little more land can be planted with grapes.

French Drink It
The French themselves consume 70 per cent of the Champagne country's sparkling white wine. The other 30 per cent is exported. The biggest foreign customer is Britain followed by Italy, Belgium and the United States. The Japanese also are beginning to get a taste for champagne.

Moet et Chandon recently bought land in California to produce sparkling wine (they won't call it "champagne") for U.S. consumption because "there's a champagne shortage. The vineyards in France are limited," a spokesman said.

The increased interest in champagne is evident in this city. Rheims' big tourist attraction now in addition to its 12th Century cathedral is its vineyards and wineries. The Mumms winery in 1972 drew 70,000 visitors, a 20 per cent boost over 1971.

Seeing off two busloads carrying 150 American tourists, one Mumms guide said, "We've got 500 Germans coming tomorrow."

The only sparkling white wine in the world that can rightfully be named "Champagne" is that made in the Champagne area. And because there are just so many vineyards squeezed onto the land of Champagne, production cannot be increased much more.

Get The Grapes
"The demand for champagne is so great that the job is to get the grapes to meet the demand," said one official of the Mumms winery in Rheims, the heart of the lush Champagne district. "The area that can be planted with vineyards is too small to cover the requirements."

"We can increase by four per cent the surface of our land planted with vines, but that's all. The regulations are strict. You cannot plant new vines between old vines or the quality goes down."

"And you can't plant the grapes elsewhere. Only the chalky soil of the Champagne area produces the champagne taste."

To further add to the champagne headache, the 1972 harvest was smaller than usual.

Billy Graham's Largest Crowds

SEOUL (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham ended a five-day crusade in South Korea by preaching to what he said was the largest audience of his 33-year ministry.

Korean organizers of the crusade said a million people were on hand Sunday and to hear Graham's final sermon and said total attendance for the crusade was three million. Korean police estimated the audience at 500,000, still a record.

The crowd caused North Korea to charge the Seoul government with "forcibly mobilizing large crowds to stage a superstitious play in concert with American missionaries."

Graham and South Korean crusade officials denied there had been any pressure from the South Korean government, and Graham said Communist attempts to discredit his work were "nothing new."

The government of President Chung Hee Park, who is a Christian, did provide full support for the crusade.

Associated Press Writer

The American wage earner is going to have to bring home some extra bacon if he wants to keep coffee and eggs on his breakfast table, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and nonfood products in 13 cities on March 1 and rechecked the items at the beginning of each succeeding month. Of all items checked, 35.4 per cent increased in price in the three months from March 1 to June 1, 20.5 per cent decreased, 41.5 per cent remained unchanged and 2.6 per cent were unavailable on one of the two check dates. The total marketbasket bill was up in 10 cities and down in three.

Coffee, up in 11 cities, and eggs, up in 10 cities, led the list of higher-priced items, with the increases at the checkout counter reflecting earlier increases at the wholesale level.

Experts in London, headquarters of the International Coffee Organization, blamed the increases in world coffee prices on crop failures in Brazil because of droughts and leaf rust disease, artificially high prices set by Brazil and Colombia for their exports and withholding of supplies by growers of the robusta variety of coffee, produced mainly in Africa and used particularly for instant coffee.

Most of the coffee increases came between May 1 and June 1, although prices started to rise earlier in some cities. The increases over the three-month check period averaged about seven or eight per cent.

Increases in egg prices varied sharply, ranging from two per cent in New York City to almost 20 per cent in Boston. They also fluctuated widely during the three-month period.

The costs reflected higher wholesale prices for eggs during the first quarter of the year. The Agriculture Department reported that egg prices decreased during the month ended May 15, but there was no immediate indication of a saving for the consumer.

A grocer in Miami, where a dozen medium brown eggs went from 57 cents on March 1 to 67 cents on June 1, said he was selling eggs at what were normally winter or higher prices. "Our supplier is going to go to a dollar a dozen by Christmas," he predicted. The store manager said he was making a 25 per cent profit on eggs.

The careful shopper still could find a few bargains. But ter and pork chops declined in more than half the cities checked. All-beef frankfurters rose in 10 cities from March 1 to June 1. Almost all the increases came in the first two months, however; and prices leveled off after May 1, despite higher wholesale prices and short supplies of livestock at market.

One reason for the steady price was that, in many areas, the meat products checked were selling near or at the maximum allowable under the ceilings imposed by President Nixon at the end of March on beef, lamb and pork.

The items on The AP's checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut porkchops, frozen orange juice, coffee, paper towels, butter, eggs, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, whole milk, all-beef franks and granulated sugar.

The cities surveyed were: Albuquerque, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I.; Salt Lake City, and Seattle.

The same supermarket was used in each city for all the price surveys. Standardized brands and sizes or their nearest equivalent were selected for the checklist.

The total bill went up everywhere except Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Seattle. Items that were unavailable on either March 1 or June 1 were not included in the total either time.

The increases in the total tab ranged from less than one per cent in Providence, where the bill for 14 available items went from $10.29 on March 1 to $10.36 on June 1, to 6.8 per cent in Chicago, where the bill for 15 items went from $10.80 to $11.53.

At Least 11 Die In N.C. Traffic

The North Carolina highway patrol reported at least 11 persons died in weekend traffic accidents on the state's highways.

The fatalities pushed the death toll for the year to 707. That is 39 fewer than for the same period last year.

The patrol said four persons died in four separate wrecks Sunday. Earlier, three Cabarrus County residents were killed when their car struck a train.

The Sunday victims were identified as:

- George D. Shipman, 51, of Charlotte who died in a head-on collision on U.S. 21 ten miles north of Charlotte.
- James Clayton Wade, 33, of Henderson, whose vehicle left a rural paved road eight miles south of Roxboro and hit a bridge.
- Richard Hoyt Arp, 18, of Coats, who was a passenger in a car that hit a bridge on U.S. 301 five miles north of Godwin in Cumberland County.
- And Sandra Nash Price, 21, of Rt. 3, Monroe, whose car was struck by an oncoming car on a rural paved road seven miles north of Monroe.
- Edward Leroy Raye, 68, his 72-year-old wife Zeda Raye, and their 38 year-old daughter, Violet Raye Murray died in the car-train collision Friday evening. The Cabarrus County Sheriff's Department said the accident occurred on U.S. 29A at a marked, but unlighted crossing.
- Others killed during the weekend included J. L. Bullard, 29, of Rt. 1, Rowland, a passenger in a car which hit another head-on on N.C. 72 10 miles east of Rowland; Danny Morris Cauthen, 27, of Lancaster, S.C., whose car ran off N.C. 200 south of Monroe and hit a tree; Carl Linwood Hardy, 3, of Hertford, who ran into the path of a car in Hertford; and John C. Tuttle, 70, of Rural Hall, who was struck by a car which ran off N.C. 65 near Winston-Salem.

Crickets Turned Into Love Bugs

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — A student experiment had a laboratory at Cleveland State Community College crawling with 90 sex-starved male crickets.

The insects were among 300 being studied by biology students learning the courtship behavior of male crickets.

Students and an instructor, Judy Cox, had separated 100 males from the 200 females and placed them in separate boxes. All but 10 of the males escaped.

Youth Loans From FHA Now Offered

James T. Johnson, state director for the Farmers Home Administration, said that rural youths can now borrow money from the FHA through authorization of the Rural Development Act of 1972.

Johnson said that the new program is now being implemented through all FHA county offices. It will enable rural youths who are members of 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, and similar organizations to receive loans to help them establish and operate income producing projects in connection with their participation in organized clubs.

The director noted that the basic objectives of youth loans are educational and practical. Youths, he noted, are taught basic economics and credit principals and provided an opportunity to use their hands and minds for self improvement.

Loans can be made for both farm and nonfarm projects such as, but not limited to, crop or livestock production; farm custom service; auto and appliance repairs; woodworking; welding shop; roadside stands or other income producing projects, Johnson explained.

To be eligible, the applicant must be a citizen under 21 years of age, participate in an organized club, and reside in a rural area or city or town of less than 10,000 population. The applicant must be unable to obtain necessary credit elsewhere and obtain the recommendation of the project from his or her project advisor. If under 18 years of age, the applicant must obtain the recommendation from the parents or guardian.

Johnson said that the interest rate is the same as for regular FHA operating loans. At present, the rate is five and seven-eighths percent.

Information concerning a loan may be obtained at any local FHA office.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, the dealer, you hold:
♠98642 ♥7 ♦A1042 ♣AJ
What is your opening bid?
A.—Pass. While this hand ostensibly contains 13 points, enough for an optional opening, flaws are present in the form of the unguarded queen of hearts and the ace-jack doubleton in clubs. There is the further consideration that no convenient rebid will be available if partner responds with two hearts over a one spade opening.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K ♥63 ♦KQJ432 ♣KQ43
Your partner opens with two no trump. What is your response?
A.—Four clubs. This is the type of holding that calls for use of the Gerber convention. All your problems can be solved by ascertaining the number of partner's aces. If he responds with four diamonds, showing all four, you can confidently bid seven no trump and be prepared to spread your hand after the lead.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠73 ♥AQ642 ♦AQ1097 ♣K
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
What do you bid now?
A.—Partner's three diamond bid is highly constructive since your rebid was not forcing on responder. Game aspirations should, therefore, be entertained and our choice is for a bid of four diamonds. If responder happens to have a hand containing three small hearts, he will have the opportunity to try four hearts over four diamonds.

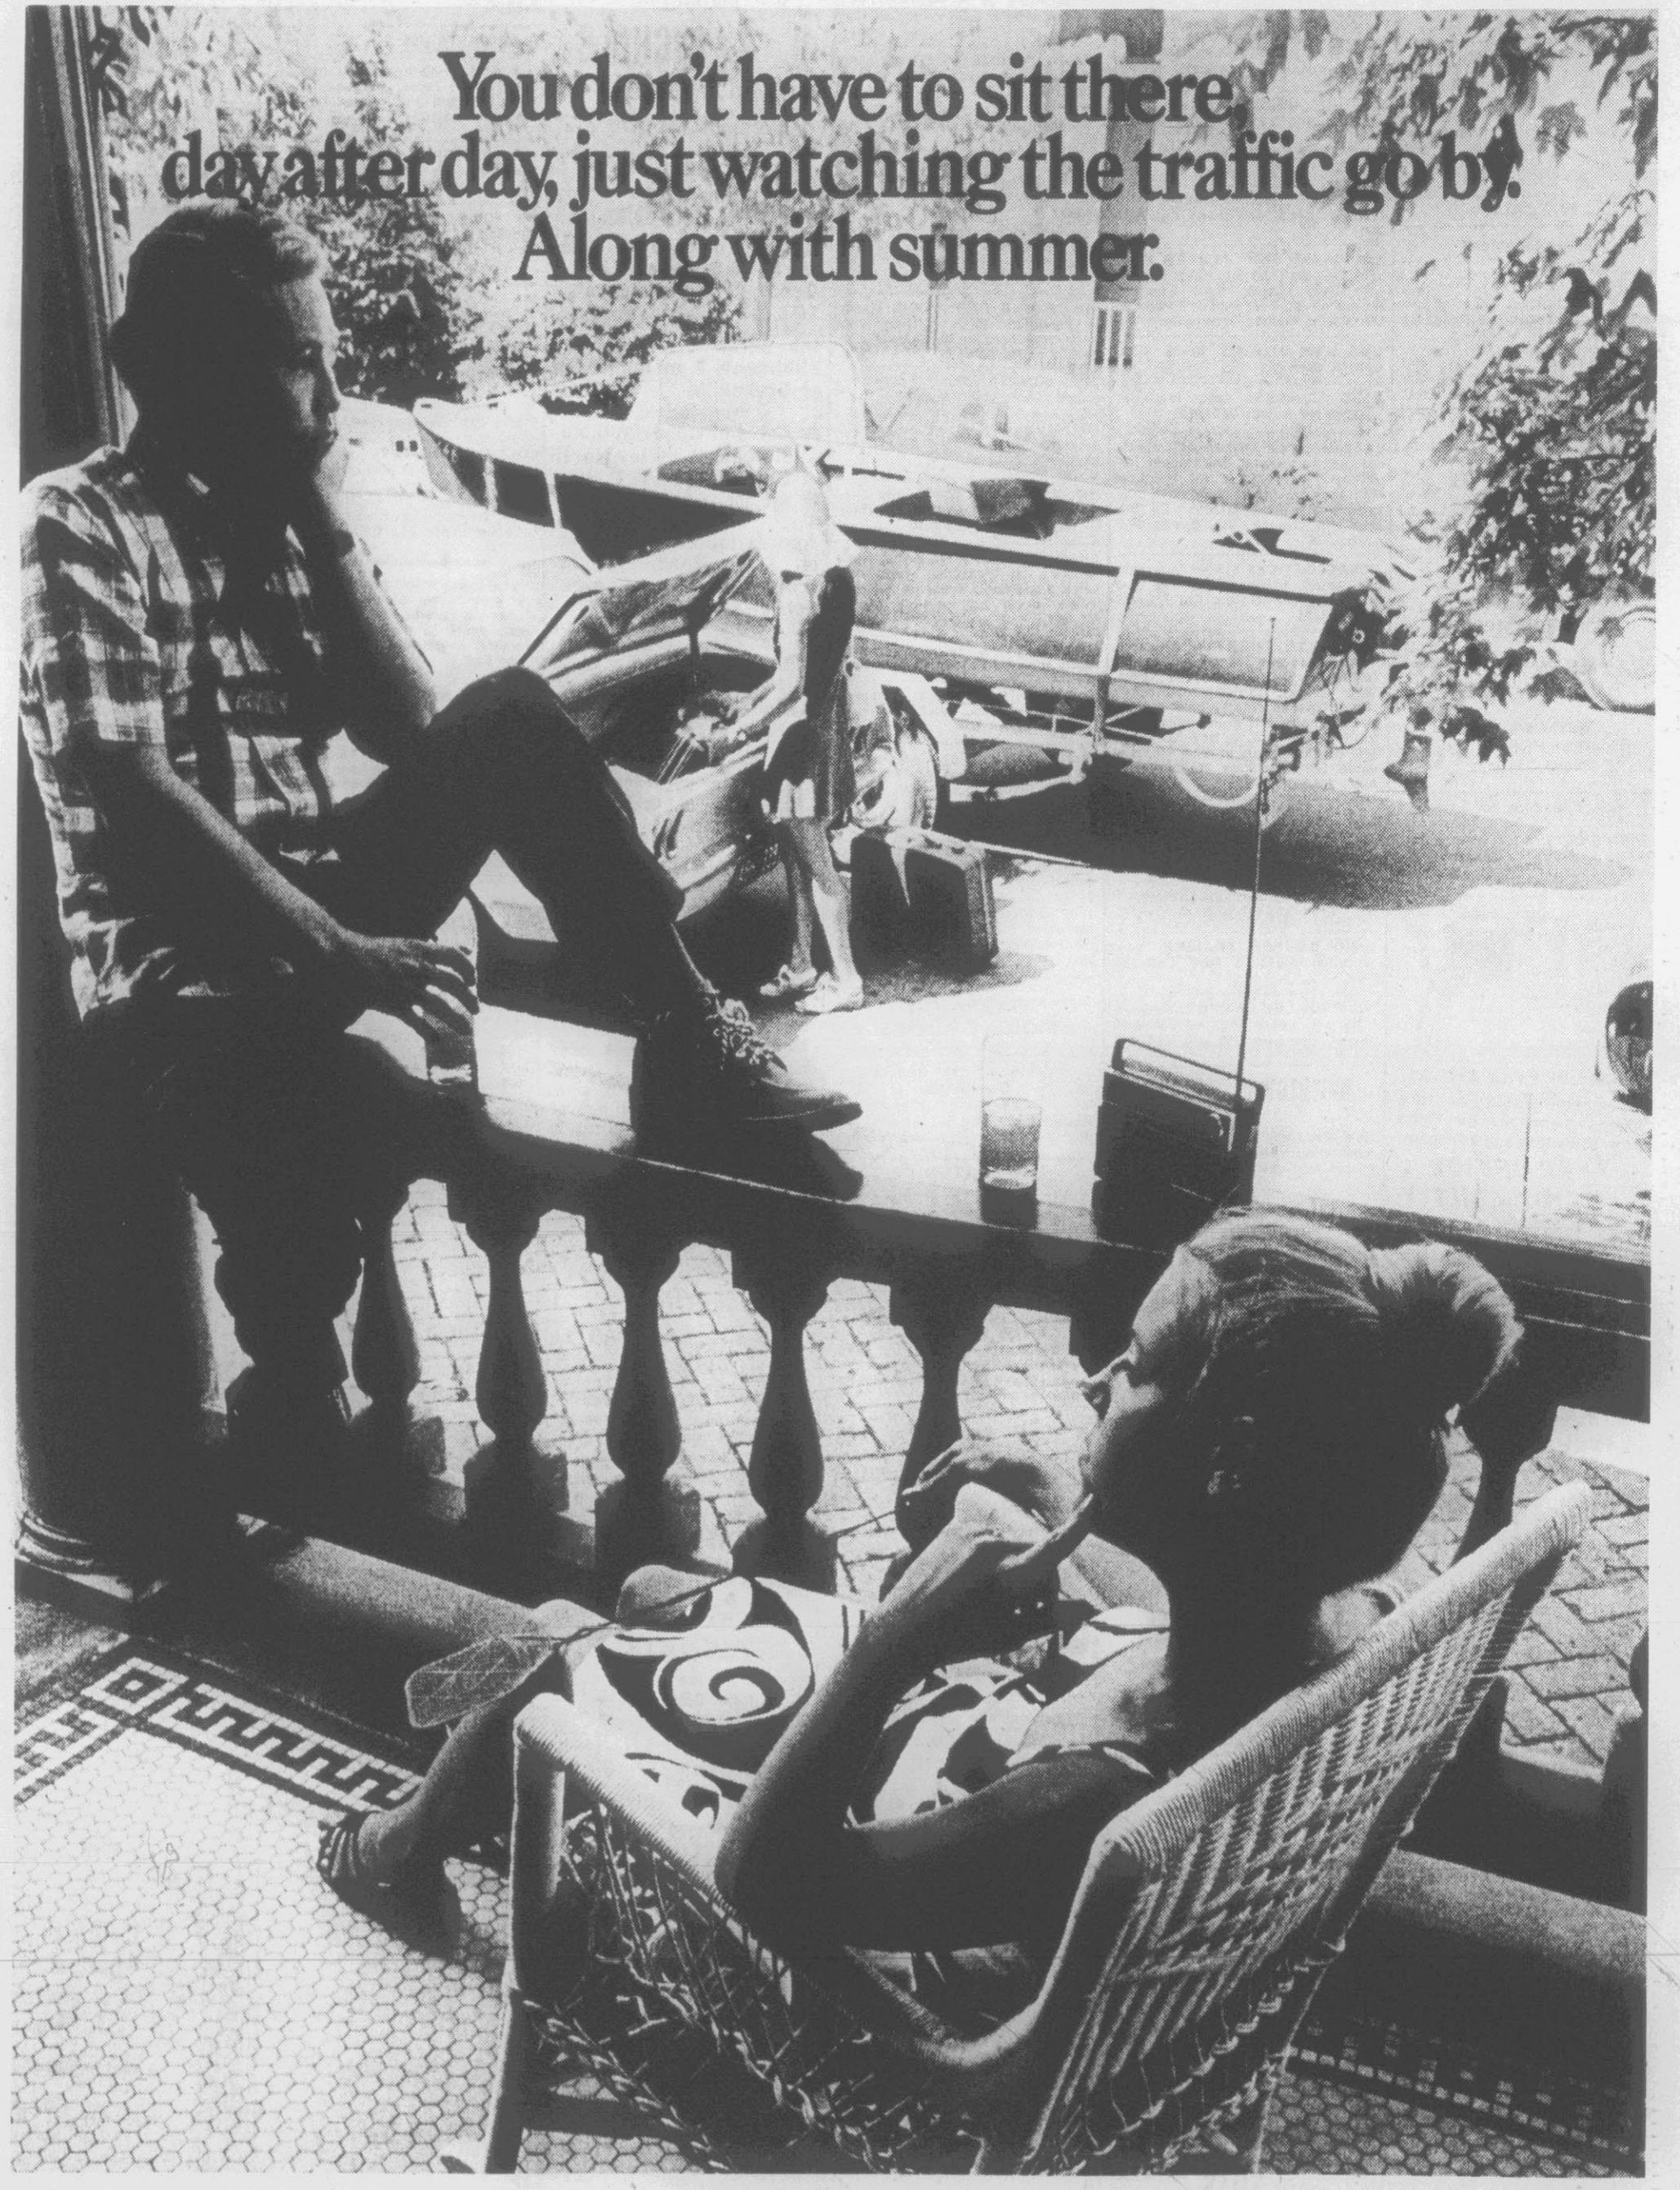

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K3 ♥987 ♦A10965 ♣J92
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West
Pass 1 NT Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. We have not lost sight of partner's previous pass, but in view of the fact that he was willing to double the no trump bid he must be just under an opening bid himself. This means that West will show up with a practically trickless dummy and East will have to operate completely from his own hand.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ107 ♥7 ♦AJ1032 ♣K63
The bidding has proceeded: East South
What do you bid?
A.—Pass. Don't crowd a fellow who might be working for you. Give him plenty of elbow space. Any action by you that tends to impede the opposition is bound to prove to your material detriment.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A632 ♥K43 ♦AKQ95 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded: East South West North
1 ♣ Dble. Pass 1 ♥
Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Inasmuch as partner has been forced to bid and may have only scant values, a jump is not in order. The best strategy calls for a bid of only two diamonds. If partner has any values, he should make a further bid. If he happens to rebid hearts you may then go on to game in that suit. One should be reluctant to give an immediate raise with only three trumps where partner has been forced to bid.

Q. 7 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQJ6 ♥AK5 ♦AJ97 ♣4
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 2 NT 3 ♣ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—A forcing pass is indicated at this point. Your opening two bid was slightly shaded. Partner should be given the opportunity to double three clubs if he finds it to be to his taste. Furthermore, he might be able to bid three no trump which could conceivably be the only safe game contract. In any event partner is obliged to act.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J1064 ♥3 ♦K852 ♣QJ73
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♥ Dble. ?
What do you bid now?
A.—With this mediocre hand we recommend no action whatsoever. It is good policy to make it easy for the opponents to take this proposition off your hands. The fear that one heart doubled would be left in is unfounded. It rarely happens and then you must presume that partner can take care of himself.
