

Way Cleared For Dean, Magruder To Be Heard

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee pushed ahead with its televised hearings today, backed by a new court ruling, and heard a former Nixon campaign aide list eight officials he had been told would be indicted in the Watergate scandal.

The day's star witness was scheduled to be former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

The court ruling came from U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica less than an hour before the hearings resumed. It cleared the way for former White House counsel John W. Dean III and former campaign deputy director Jeb Stuart Magruder to testify before the committee.

Sirica granted the two men so-called use immunity, meaning their testimony before the committee cannot be used to develop a case against them.

Sirica denied the request of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox for a blackout of radio and television coverage of Senate testimony by witnesses facing indictment in the case.

The day's first witness, Herbert L. Porter, said he met

Magruder across the street from the white House April 14, 1973, and that Magruder listed these eight people Magruder thought would be indicted by the Watergate grand jury:

Magruder himself; former attorney general and campaign director John N. Mitchell; Frederick LaRue, Mitchell's former assistant; Robert Mardian, another Mitchell aide in the campaign; H. R. Halde-man, former White House chief of staff; Gordon Strachan, Halde-man's aide; Dean, and former White House assistant Charles Colson.

Porter, who had been scheduling director of the campaign, said Magruder did not tell him why he thought the eight would be indicted.

Porter, resuming his testimony begun last week, also detailed his passing of some $69,000 in cash to G. Gordon Liddy and other campaign workers.

Aside from the Liddy money, most went in small amounts to various operatives whom Porter described as performing various intelligence and disruption tasks at the campaign sites of Democratic presidential hopefuls in New Hampshire and other primary states.

These operatives did such things as wave pro-Nixon signs at appearances of other candidates, leave leaflets at other candidates' headquarters, and report on morale and movements at other campaign offices.

The committee's schedule calls for Magruder to follow Stans as a witness.

Sirica also ordered Dean to appear at the Watergate grand jury without immunity. His lawyer said Dean would decline to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Sirica also rejected a request by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox to prevent live radio and television coverage of testimony by Dean, Magruder and others facing indictments in the case.

Sirica ruled that he had no power to issue such an order. As outlined at a Senate Watergate committee executive session this morning, the schedule called for questioning Stans later today and Wednesday and questioning Magruder the remainder of Wednesday and all of Thursday. The committee expects to get to Dean next Tuesday in the middle of the visit to the United States of Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

Further Skylab Tests

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab's astronauts conducted an earth resources pass over the north-central and Eastern seaboard states today.

They prepared to fire up an electric furnace and an electron beam gun for metals processing tests which could lead to a space manufacturing business.

Experts predict the materials tests could spawn a multibillion-dollar business late in this century, with orbiting factories producing high-quality electronic devices, superstrong materials, perfectly round ball bearings, precision optical lenses and pure vaccines.

Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz were up early on the 19th day of their 28-day space odyssey to run the earth resources pass that extended from North Dakota across the Great Lakes, Ohio, Chesapeake Bay, the Atlantic and Caribbean.

Sold To Planters

Pitt County attorney W.W. Speight said today that Planters Bank and Trust Co. purchased $1 million in bond anticipation notes issued by Pitt County pending the sale of bonds for construction of a new hospital here later this year.

The notes, Speight said, were sold through the Local Government Commission in Raleigh June 5. Similar notes from several other counties were sold the same day, Speight noted, "but ours was the lowest rate of any sold."

He explained that the interest rate on the Pitt notes, due October 17, 1973, was 4.29 per cent.

The funds from the bond anticipation notes will be used to finance payments incurred in hospital building costs prior to the sale of the Hospital revenue bonds and will be repaid from proceeds of the bond sale.

Satellite Will Warn Of Soviet Missile Shots

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Titan 3C rocket roared into the black sky at 3:15 a.m. today, taking a superspy satellite to an orbital outpost and shaking awake many area residents.

U.S. Air Force spokesmen gave no warning on the launch and issued only a short statement afterward.

But it was learned that the rocket, the most powerful in the Air Force space inventory, was carrying a satellite that is expected to give split-second notice of missile launchings in Russia.

Sources said the satellite, "weighing thousands of pounds," will take a stationary position 22,300 miles above the Indian Ocean.

Carteret Gas?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A New York oil and gas corporation says it has found a significant amount of natural gas in a well in Carteret County near Newport, N.C.

John E. Grassi, chairman of the board of Colonial Oil and Gas Corp. in Rochester, N. Y., said Monday it would take three or four days to tell whether commercial quantities of gas are available in the well.

Grassi said his company has enough confidence in the well to spend $20,000 to "set pipe" in it to further the exploration.

The well is on land owned by International Paper Co. between Newport and Harlowe. Grassi, who said he was making his announcement because of Securities and Exchange Commission regulations, said the well had reached a level of about 3,600 feet. It is being dug as a joint project with Colonial, Chicago rilling contractor Albert Gentles and San Antonio, Tex. geologist Karl Schmidt, Grassi said.

A North Carolina geologist, Stephen Conrad, said he had visited the site and that thus far had been inconclusive. Conrad said more than 100 wells have been drilled in the eastern region in recent years. Several have shown traces of natural gas, he said, but none enough to be commercially profitable.

Unveil Real Peace Terms

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam document being worked out in Paris calls for a realistic cease-fire within 24 hours after signing and includes timetables for other provisions of the original truce, Saigon government sources said today.

The informants said the plan being drawn up by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho also calls for implementation of Article 20 of the original pact. If observed, this could mean an end to U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

Kissinger and Tho were to resume discussions today in the French capital.

The communique was scheduled to be signed last Saturday, but South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu balked.

Article 20 of the original pact says the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong shall respect the neutrality of Cambodia and Laos. There are truce agreements in Vietnam and Laos, but none in Cambodia.

The document showed that Saigon objected to three points. They are: wording used in delineating zones of control, establishment of a Council of National Reconciliation and Concord without linking it to a definite timetable for elections and permission for the Communist side to receive replacement of material through the demilitarized zone.

Here are the 15 points of the joint communique:

1. The United States will stop its aerial reconnaissance over North Vietnam immediately.

2. The United States will resume sweeping mines from the waterways of North Vietnam within five days and will complete the operations within 30 days.

3. A true cease-fire will go into effect 24 hours after the signing of the joint communique.

4. There shall be a delineation of the zones of control by the two opposing parties, the Saigon government and the Viet Cong. The English text used the word "territory." Thieu wants this changed to read military zones of control. Sources said that, if he agrees to sign a document including the word "territory," it could mean there are two territories in South Vietnam and would be tantamount to recognizing the Viet Cong as a legitimate government.

5. Saigon and the Viet Cong shall complete the release of Vietnamese civilian prisoners within 45 days.

6. Within 48 hours, the commanders of the opposing armed forces at those places of direct contract shall meet with a view to reaching an agreement on temporary measures to avert conflict.

7. The two South Vietnamese parties shall agree on points of entry for replacement of war materials.

8. Saigon and the Viet Cong must cooperate with the Four-party Joint Military Team, which also includes representatives of the United States and North Vietnam, in accounting for missing Americans and Vietnamese and in repatriating the remains of American dead.

9. Saigon and the Viet Cong shall prohibit all acts of reprisal and discrimination against individuals or organizations that have collaborated with one side or the other and ensure the democratic liberties of the people.

10. The Council of National Reconciliation and Concord shall be established as soon as possible, and Saigon and the Viet Cong shall sign an agreement on the internal political affairs of South Vietnam within 45 days.

11. The two-party Joint Military Commission, made up of the Saigon government and the Viet Cong, shall be provided full protection, assistance and cooperation and shall enjoy privileges and immunities equivalent to those accorded diplomatic missions and diplomatic agents.

12. Guarantees of security by both sides for members of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision to move about freely without advance notification to Saigon or the Viet Cong.

13. Implementation of Article 20 of the original Paris agreement concerning Laos and Cambodia.

14. Resumption of economic aid talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

Agnew Advocates Long-Range Economic Powers

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called on Congress today to give President Nixon broader authority "to build economic systems which will carry us forward through the rest of the century."

Speaking at a meeting of the Michigan Manufacturers Association, Agnew said global economics have "equal importance" with political and security issues.

Agnew urged congressional action on Nixon's trade reform bill so foreign nations "will understand that, in spite of disagreements here at home, the nation is ready to stand by its historic commitment to build a more open international society as fast as the rest of the world will progress with us toward that goal."

Trade talks scheduled to begin in Tokyo in autumn require particularly broad presidential authority, Agnew said.

Reform in international trade agreements "is not just a question of our lowering chemical tariffs 'X' per cent if the Europeans or the Japanese lower car tariffs 'Y' per cent," he said.

Agnew said the President wants authority for "a period when we must pay more attention to our economic arrangements" to "ease the pressures on and promote the adjustment of American workers to the shock effects of sudden increases in imports into this country."

Agnew said the President "is asking that the current requirements for a U.S. industry to prove injury from imports be relaxed. He is asking for authority to temporarily raise or lower our tariffs when sound economic policy requires such action."

"And he is asking for authority to grant most-favored nation status to Communist countries, subject to congressional veto."

Soaring Temperatures Result In Emergency Power Co. Measures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
With another scorching day on the horizon, utility companies appeared headed today for a second round of power loans and voltage reductions.

The National Weather Service said no movement was expected in the high pressure area that sent temperatures soaring Monday and forced an eight per cent voltage cut in the New York City metropolitan area and smaller voltage reductions elsewhere.

Power companies from Maine to Washington, D.C., cut voltages five per cent to give added power to New York, where the record 95 degree weather strained the supply almost to the limit.

Consolidated Edison Co., serving New York City and Westchester County, said the eight per cent cut back was the maximum before the company resorts to "load shedding," or depriving some customers entirely.

Seven Michigan Power Pool generators out of service forced a five per cent cut for 1.1 million Detroit Edison consumers and all 1.1 million customers of Consumers Power in southern Michigan.

The Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Pool reduced voltage by five per cent and sent the excess to New York and Michigan via Ohio. The New England Power Pool also reduced voltage five per cent after its demand peaked at a record 11.7 million kilowatts.

Commonwealth Edison Co., serving northern Illinois, said it planned to import power today from Wisconsin, Indiana and other areas of Illinois to protect against shortages.

On Monday, Commonwealth reduced voltages 2.5 per cent except in the downtown Chicago area and limited the flow of power to three steel companies that have "interruptible service" contracts.

The National Weather Service predicted a break in the heat wave Wednesday or Thursday.

TVA Power Helps North And East In Emergency Period

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Transmission lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority hummed Monday sending 1.3 million kilowatts streaming north and east to overburdened power systems.

The electricity came from as far away as Texas—700,000 kilowatts from Mid-South Utilities, 400,000 kilowatts from Southern Services and 200,000 kilowatts from TVA's spring rain-swollen reservoirs feeding the hydroelectric generators and its big steam plants.

"We provided some emergency assistance yesterday from our system to the North and to the East, but I don't know what companies specifically benefited," said William P. Zumwalt, power systems director of TVA.

"We are all interconnected. We provided some power and went a step further and asked the companies from the South and West of us if they had any they could provide."

"They did and we piped it through our system to the East," Zumwalt said.

Raw Vegetables Good In Italian-Style Dip

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When American hostesses first started serving dips with before-dinner drinks, the dips usually had potato chips as their accompaniment. But for some years now a good many party-givers in this country have followed French and Italian cuisine and served the dips with a selection of raw vegetables. In France when raw vegetables are served this way they're called Crudites.

For an Italian-style dip for the vegetables we've borrowed an idea from the executive chef of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York City. Here's our adaptation of his recipe.

RAW VEGETABLES WITH TONNATO DIP

1 can (7 ounces) tuna packed in olive oil
4 anchovy fillets
1½ teaspoons capers
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup real mayonnaise
Raw Vegetables,
see Note below

Flake the undrained tuna. Mash the anchovies. Mix tuna, anchovies, capers, lemon rind, lemon juice and mayonnaise. Cover and chill. (For a smoother consistency, blend these ingredients in the electric blender just until smooth.)

Makes 1¼ cups dip.

Note: Serve the raw vegetables with the dip so guests may dunk them in it. For the vegetables choose among these: scallions, radishes, cherry tomatoes, mushrooms, cucumber, celery, knob celery, white turnip, carrot, cauliflower.

The scallions, radishes and cherry tomatoes are of course served whole.

The mushrooms may be sliced if large or left whole if small.

The cucumber may be sliced or cut into strips.

Celery, knob celery, white turnip and carrot may be cut into sticks.

Cauliflower should be separated into flowerets.

Four hundred recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to the "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Shower Given

Miss Maryanne Patton, bride-elect of Randy Mills, was honored Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Grier. Co-hostess was Mrs. Ray Hamilton.

The bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. Colleen Patton, and the mother of the groom, Mrs. Jean Mills, were presented corsages of gardenias upon arrival.

Garden Club

The Grass Roots Garden Club met Wednesday at the summer home of Mrs. Thurston Wynne. Mrs. Maurice Sherman presided over the meeting. A discussion of programs for the coming year was led by Mrs. Wynne.

A pack of lies about her bundle of joy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Today is my 22d birthday, and I just became the mother of a beautiful, healthy baby girl. I should be the happiest woman in the world because I have a wonderful husband, a really great marriage, and just about everything a person could want—but something is bothering me.

When I was 17 I became an unwed mother. I trusted my parents' judgment and let them talk me into giving up my beautiful baby boy for adoption. My parents and their lawyer informed me that six weeks after I gave up my son the adoption was final.

Exactly seven months later I met the wonderful young man who asked me to marry him. We were married three months later. I recently learned that the court allows an unwed mother one year to decide whether she wants to finalize the adoption. Abby, had I known it then my husband and I would have kept my baby. Now it is too late.

My problem is the bitterness I feel toward my parents for having lied to me. I've tried to forgive them but I can't. The resentment I feel for them is eating away at my insides. It seems to grow worse, and now I can hardly bear to look at them. Please tell me how I can get rid of these hateful feelings that are ruining my life. CAN'T FORGIVE

DEAR CAN'T: Even tho your parents probably thought they were doing what was best for you at the time, they should not have lied to you. Harboring hate and resentment is self-destructive, and you may need professional help to rid yourself of these negative thoughts. Ask your doctor to guide you in getting the help you need.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years, and we have one big difference of opinion which keeps our marriage from being practically perfect.

I love to read in bed and he hates for me to. I have always read in bed before retiring. It relaxes me. I have a small beam-type light which doesn't disturb him, but he just doesn't like the idea of my being up reading while he is trying to go to sleep.

LOVES TO READ IN REDONDO

DEAR LOVES: Do your reading in another room, in a comfortable chair or on the sofa. When it's time to retire, crawl into bed with him. I think he resents the competition.

DEAR ABBY: My grandson is a nice-looking, likable fellow, but he exaggerates so much people are beginning to wonder about him.

Junior was overseas with the Army and from some of the stories he tells, you would think he won the war alone. He's in good shape but he claims he has won 11 purple hearts! Everybody knows he saw some action, but he brags so much folks nudge each other and wink behind his back when he tells some of those outlandish tales.

How can I tell him to quit blowing everything up so much without hurting his feelings? I love this kid a lot.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Maybe he's not exaggerating as much as you think. But when you get him alone, tell him that because you love him a lot you think some of his tales are a little far out.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Miss Connie Moore Weds At Marlboro

MARLBORO — Miss Connie Loraine Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Moore, and Johnny Wayne Nanney, son of Mrs. Louise Nanney, all of Farmville, were united in marriage Sunday, June 3, at 4:00 p.m.

The Rev. N. Bruce Barrow of Snow Hill, the bride's pastor, and Elder Douglas Ray of House Church, Greenville, officiated at the double ring ceremony in the Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Susan Parker played piano selections. Several selections were played by Nancy Oakley and the wedding songs were written and sung by Daryl Daughtry of Boone. Following the vows, the bride joined the Daystar singing group, composed of her sister, Brenda Moore, Susan Parker, Carl Parker, Ed Newton and Marshall Thompson in singing a selection.

The bride wore a formal gown, made by her mother, of silk organza with embroidered lace and peau de soie with lace edging the high collar, cuffs of the sleeves and the scoop neckline of the over bodice and the empire waist. A full sleeve of organza was attached to a sleeve above the elbow. The A-line skirt was of silk organza dn peau de soie.

She chose a headpiece of pale yellow carnations. The bride carried a bouquet of daisies, roses, carnations, mums and stephanotis tied with velvet ribbon. Her only jewelry was diamond earrings.

Miss Brenda Moore, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Teresa Moore, sister of the bride, Jean Wells, cousin of the bride, both of Farmville, Jenaet Poole of Belhaven, Chris Council and Debbie Johnson of Elizabethtown, Jackie Flora of Macclesfield, cousin of the bridegroom, Susan Parker, Patricia Little and Celia Harris of Farmville, and Debra Had-dock of Belville, Md., cousin of the bride.

Groomsmen were Wilton Baker of Langley AFB, Va., Don Joyner, David Wrought, Mike Evans, Ken Cobb and David Dwyer, all of Farmville.

After the reception, the bride changed into a pink knit ensemble for a wedding trip. The couple will reside in Williamston. The bride graduated from Farmville Central High School and attended UNC-Chapel Hill. She will resume her studies at East Carolina University in the fall.

A graduate of Farmville Central High School, the bridegroom attended East Carolina University and is now employed by the Ahoskie Division of USI.

Mrs. Jim Craft Jr., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Russell Wells, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home.

Mrs. Danny Carraway assisted in serving. Carolyn Tyson presided at the guest register.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the Nanney-Moore wedding party included an after-rehearsal party given by the mother of the bridegroom and his aunt, Mrs. Roy Flora, in the Memorial Hall of the church.

The bridal couple entertained their attendants at the cookout at the home of her parents.

Refreshing 'Pro-People' View

The Old North State Medical Society last week expressed its "pro-people" attitude in endorsing the development of a new degree granting medical school in North Carolina.

"The physician shortage is widely recognized, and documented by a recent comprehensive study done by a sub-committee of the board of governors," the resolution stated.

"This study concludes that, even with recommended expansion programs, the need for doctors cannot be met by existing schools of medicine."

The society resolved that "the Old North State Medical Society records its opposition to further expansion of existing institutions and be it further resolved that this society endorses the establishment of a new degree granting school of medicine as the most logical and feasible approach toward a solution to the problem of the physical shortage in North Carolina."

The Old North State Medical Society's approach to the problem of medical care is refreshing, indeed, particularly coming as it does after a report was adopted by a narrow majority of the N.C. Medical Association calling for the abolition of the ECU one-year medical school. The Old North State is made up of 130 black physicians, but many of its members are also members of the N.C. Medical Association. We are sure their voices were among those which protested the N.C. Medical Association's short sighted report.

As Dr. Andrew Best of Greenville said, the feeling at the Old North State meeting was that the N.C. Medical Association report constituted an "anti-people" attitude.

"There was a feeling that the prevailing attitude on this very vital question is one that involves a default of professional leadership, which leaves the whole question to be decided in the political arena. We differ with that approach. We think professionals ought to be involved in the blue printing and designing of a program speaking to this most important social questions."

We could not agree more. The Old North State Medical Society has taken an important and progressive stand on this burning issue. These physicians are to be commended for coming to grips with one of our state's greatest problems.

Susie Sharp A Chief Justice?

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The first woman state chief justice in the nation may be elected next year in North Carolina. That prospect highlights the judicial sweepstakes in the 1974 primary and general elections. Seats on the State Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, the trial judges of the Superior Court and district court will be on the ballot.

those to follow them to popular elections.

Lively Judicial Campaigns
It could make for some intense politicking among aspirants to the lofty judicial positions.

In addition to the open races for the Supreme Court bench, the possibility is good for a couple of Court of Appeals contests without incumbents.

Chief Judge Raymond Mallard, 65, and Judge Hugh B. Campbell, 66, among six Appeals Court judges whose terms expire next year, would reach 72 and face retirement before the end of another eight-year term.

There are rumors the two may choose early retirement, and not offer themselves as candidates next year. That would throw open their places for a political scramble.

Appeals Court judges who are expected to run for reelection in 1974 are Walter Edgar Brock, David M. Britt, Naomi Morris, and Francis M. Parker.

Confusing Choices
Altogether, Tar Heel citizens are likely to be confronted with a wide range of choice next year when they mark ballots for the variety of judicial positions at stake.

Voters will be caught in the middle trying to pick among unknowns for high judicial office, said J. Ruffin Bailey of Raleigh, chairman of the N.C. Courts Commission.

"The election of judges is a confusing issue for the public. Many people hardly know the office, much less the qualifications a candidate should have for it," he explained.

A political campaign, Bailey observed, is hardly the forum for a rational evaluation of judicial capability.

What the 1974 experience may illustrate is the need for a better way. The answer advocated by the courts commission is what is known as the merit selection plan, already followed by many states. Under its terms, prospects are screened by a citizen panel and the governor appoints from its nominations.

So far, the General Assembly has failed to adopt merit selection. Legislation to set the plan in motion is in committees, and may surface when the session reconvenes next January. Since it requires an amendment to the Constitution, it could not be enacted in time to affect the 1974 races.

Quote

"Justice is the insurance we have on our lives, and obedience is the premium we pay for it." — William Penn.

BRYAN HAISLIP

A new retirement mandate for judges, plus the unaccustomed presence of a Republican governor, will open up the selection process for the judiciary to political decision to a greater degree than ever before.

Age will preclude Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt, 73 this year, and Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins, 83, from running again. A Constitutional amendment and implementing laws enacted in 1971 set compulsory retirement at 72 for the appeals bench and 70 for the trial court.

Sharp Candidacy Seen
Associate Justice Susie Sharp, whose term also ends next year, is next in seniority on the Supreme Court. The expectation is that Justice Sharp will choose to run for chief justice. That would leave open to newcomers her seat and that of Higgins as associate justices on the seven-member court.

Justice Sharp's service has earned high regard, both popularly and in legal circles. Her candidacy for the Democratic nomination would be an impressive one.

Not in recent history, if at all, has North Carolina elected a chief justice in an open race.

In the past, with no age limit for retirement and under one-party rule, the pattern was for judges to die in office or step aside before completion of their term. In either case, the successor then was named by the governor and ran for election as an incumbent.

The practice worked to promote low-key campaigning for judicial nominations in the primary, and also kept the courts staffed with a corps of Democratic judges.

Now Gov. Jim Holshouser exercises the appointive power as the first Republican chief executive in this century. That doubtless will encourage Democrats on the bench to serve out their terms, and leave the choice of

Revolution In White House

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The revolutionary changes now going on in the White House were dramatized at last Thursday's cabinet meeting when President Nixon said that Laird had flatly rejected the kind of large, personal staff which marked the un-mourned day of J.R. (Bob) Haldeman and John Ehrlichman.

With Laird sitting with him, Mr. Nixon told the cabinet meeting, enlarged for the first time by the presence of the House and Senate Republican leaders, that Laird would work directly with cabinet members "and their own staffs."

That Laird pledge, if kept, amounts to a virtual policy revolution in the Nixon administration. Now, instead of domestic policy being made by White House super-powers operating in semi-isolation from the major executive departments, Laird will keep his White House staff small and work directly with cabinet members and their staffs.

This direct contact between Laird and the executive agencies will be matched by similar high-level contact between Bryce Harlow, expected to be named this week as the newest White House counselor, and the Democratic Congress.

Final arrangements for Harlow to take still another of his perennial leaves of absence from Proctor & Gamble are not completed, but the odds are strong that he will move back to the White House on July 1.

Less clear than Laird's preeminent role as domestic policy chief is his special role, disclosed by the President, as a regular attendant at National Security Council meetings, presided over by Henry Kissinger. As former Defense Secretary, Laird and Kissinger substantially agreed on most security matters, but they had some significant differences.

particularly on the question of trade with the Communist world. Laird, a spongelike absorber of power, worries some NSC staffers.

But Laird and Kissinger conferred privately and at length in the White House last week before Laird's appointment was announced. Friends of both say Kissinger told Laird that as of now he intended to keep his job as Mr. Nixon's top foreign policy adviser. Should Kissinger change his mind, however, it is agreed at the highest White House levels that Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Jr., now the White House staff chief, would take over as national security adviser.

Rewriting History
While most Democratic politicians are courting party unity, Sen. George McGovern's 1972 presidential campaign manager is blasting away at two of the party's senior figures: Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie.

Gary Hart, in a forthcoming campaign memoir called "Right from the Start" (Quadrangle), has harsh words for Humphrey, Muskie and just about everybody else who opposed McGovern for the nomination. He also supplies two new historical footnotes reflecting adversely on Humphrey and Muskie. But others with firsthand knowledge of the two incidents (including McGovern men) say Hart is rewriting history.

Incident No. 1: Less than 48 hours before the June 6 California Democratic primary, Hart writes, Humphrey offered "to deliver an election night endorsement" in return for McGovern picking up "a quarter of a million dollars of Humphrey campaign debts." So, Hart contends, Humphrey really cared little about issues or ideology. Humphrey backed out, says Hart, when the primary results were closer than expected.

In rebuttal, the two

The common cold is still the chief enemy of the factory foreman and the office straw boss. From 40 to 50 per cent of all absenteeism is blamed on colds, and the average worker loses for or five days a week because of them. Sixty per cent of the people have from two to three colds a year, and only six per cent go through a year without one.

Here is a fact that doesn't add to our national pride: The United States has one of the highest rates of alcoholism in the world, and alcohol is recognized as the No. 1 drug of abuse in this country.

The Man Must Be Mad

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. — It is an unhappy measure of the provincialism of the national media that almost no one, east of the Sierras, has heard of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax rebate and limitation plan. This is one of the boldest and most sensible ideas ever advanced in the field of state taxation. It might well serve as a model for other states and for the federal government as well.

Those who are unfamiliar with Reagan's program should brace themselves for a shock. It appears that California last year wound up with a surplus of some $850 million. Can you imagine what Reagan proposes to do with that surplus? You would not guess it in a thousand years. He proposes to give it back to the people. Zounds! The man must be mad!

Such a gesture is practically unheard of in state finance. Some years ago in Virginia, when U.S. Senator Harry Byrd Jr. was then a

To the editor:

Pictures portray images which people like to see. Each individual tends to see that which he would like to see. Newspapers print articles and place pictures with them. Moreover, newspapers serve as a medium to produce and set forth propaganda. If it is the wish of the community to see some people as less humane than others, then that newspaper will establish such a reference for the purpose of propaganda.

But the photos of the 1973 graduates of the Junius H. Rose High School set forth individuals who resembled anything but themselves. My reference in this article illustrates that these pictures of the Black graduates signified little tact, no efficiency and no professionalism. I realize, however, that some Black people are dark, but I also realize that not all Black people are black.

My purpose is to not indict nor accuse anyone of being covertly prejudiced or unusually biased. I simply wish to express my disapproval of the manner in which the photos of all the Black graduates over the past few years have appeared in this newspaper. It is my deepest hope — whether the blame or guilt lies with the newspaper or with the photographer which the school employs — that the pictures next year and thereafter will be presentable and thereby representative of all the graduates, whether black, white, red or green.

Financial Forecasts Debatable

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Every corporation develops sales and earnings forecasts to aid in making operating decisions. But then that information very often gets into the hands of a few insiders who stand to profit by it.

In the routine course of his studies, for example, a stock analyst is bound to learn of the projections and be able to add them to the assortment of fact and fancy from which his own prediction evolves.

Presuming the wisdom of both the corporate seers and the analyst, those in the know can obtain a decided advantage over other investors whose only source is public information. Something like the amateur granting strokes to the pro.

Noting that such occurrences were, in spirit at least, antithetical to the open trading markets it sought, the Securities and Exchange Commission took on the problem ... and then left the decision up to the companies involved.

The SEC ruled, in effect, that financial forecasts should be optional but regulated. Regulated companies that meet certain criteria would be permitted to choose to project or not to project "future economic performance."

Strength For Today

CONCERNING THE MEEK
"Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."
Most people regard a meek person as one who is always yielding and differential to others and who shows little spirit of any kind. Actually meekness is an attitude which man maintains toward his God rather than his fellows. Only religious people can be truly meek. This is the characteristic of that man who has given his heart completely to God, who bows before his Creator, who endures the buffetings of life confident that all things work together for good to them that love God.

The gentleness of the truly meek, their patient long suffering, their willingness to forget injustice and their unwillingness to indulge in retaliation—things are not so much meekness but the fruits of meekness. Meekness itself is that spiritual power in the heart of a man for whom submission to God in thought and deed has become a habit.

Brandt Sees Gains In Conciliating Israeli People

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's encounter with Premier Golda Meir has been like two people edging toward each other on a tightrope. Brandt has sought a balance between German guilt for its Nazi past and the need for Mideast stability to cement the detente of his bridge-building policy to Eastern Europe.

Mrs. Meir has searched for a road between memories of the holocaust her people suffered and Israel's need to be friendly with Germany.

The first visit to Israel by a West German chancellor ended Monday after 98 hours. It was crowded with everything from top-level talks to a fishing trip on the Sea of Galilee.

For Brandt, the trip has been a big success. The chancellor—in shirtsleeves at a kibbutz or silently mourning at a monument to holocaust victims—has endeared himself to many Israelis.

One right-wing youth group followed him and demonstrated, as they do against all things German. But more significant were the thousands of Israelis who didn't protest and waved to him spontaneously as he strolled casually about.

In a cable to Mrs. Meir thanking her for her hospitality, Brandt predicted his visit would have "a far-reaching effect on the future relationship between our peoples."

Brandt's visit brought many small but telling breakthroughs. The German anthem was played here for the first time. The German flag flew wherever he went. In Yad Vashem, the national memorial center for holocaust victims, he read a psalm in German—the language that the state radio banned for 22 years. He made it clear from the start that, although Germany remembered its past, it would not let it overshadow his modern diplomacy. From his visit, Jerusalem won renewed promises of German friendship and understanding. But Brandt got at least as much out of it as the Israelis.

He scored a diplomatic coup when Mrs. Meir, who once vowed never to enter Germany, accepted his invitation to visit there.

He shifted German-Israeli relations onto new tracks, for his presence here emphasized the emergence of a new Germany led by a Nobel Peace Prize winner with a record of anti-Nazi activism. Although aware of Israel's opposition to European Mideast initiatives, Brandt spoke of a "special relationship" exists between the two states, where by Bonn still backed Jerusalem beyond its pragmatic political needs.

Brandt promised "normal relations against the special background of the moral and historic past" but refused to elaborate.

He spoke approvingly of Israel's desire to get a better business deal with the Common Market but, in the same breath, called for a "common European policy" on Mideast peace efforts.

He insisted he did not want to mediate in the Mideast conflict but said he could offer ideas.

"We will recognize and hope stockholders will appreciate that forecasting is difficult and imprecise in any business and that it involves the art of judgment rather than the science of accounting technique."

Two views but, like bookends, there's a variety of thinking between them.

The survey found that more than 52 per cent of corporate decision makers are against public disclosure of financial forecasts, and that the negative reaction grows stronger the closer the executive is to the financial function.

You may wonder then what this finding says about chairmen and presidents, who were shown in the survey to be the strongest supporters of full disclosure.

Here are the responses to the question, "Do you believe that forecasts of earnings and other financial data should be made available to the public?"

Chairmen and presidents, 54 per cent yes, 46 per cent no. Vice presidents, 42.4 per cent yes, 57.6 per cent no. Controllers 43.3 per cent yes, 56.7 no, and treasurers, 36.8 yes, 63.2 no.

Bald Eagle Is Hatched At Zoo

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The first bald eagle hatched in captivity in 57 years has been given a unisex name because zoo keepers can't determine whether it is a boy or a girl.

The eagle, born at Crandon Park Zoo near Miami on Valentine's Day, has been christened Zoar, after a popular flying eagle toy.

Zoo officials say it is impossible to tell the sex of a bald eagle until it is about five years old.

(Continued from page 4) out to get some 520,000 valid signatures on a referendum petition. If he succeeds — and he has until June 18 — Californians will vote Nov. 6 on the proposition. Reagan himself has no doubts that the goal will be met.

Opponents say that the limitation plan will prevent future legislatures from meeting legitimate state needs. Reagan's answer if that over the next 15 years, his plan would provide an estimated $41.5 billion in new revenues, above and beyond requirements for funding existing programs. Meanwhile, by his estimate, the people of California would be able to keep and spend as they wish $118 billion.

The criticism also is heard that his plan would provide disproportionate benefits for the rich. Reagan's reply is, nonsense. He proposes to wipe out state income taxes entirely for families with earnings of $8,000 or less and for individuals with earnings to $4,000 or less. The one-shot rebate would apply evenly across the board.

The details are less important than the philosophy behind the program. In a message to the legislature in March, Reagan stated the issue in rhetorical questions: "Are we automatically destined to tax and spend, spend and tax indefinitely until the people have nothing left of their earnings for themselves? Have we abandoned or forgotten the interests and well-being of the taxpayer whose toil makes government possible in the first place? Or is he to become a pawn in a deadly game of government monopoly whose only purpose is to serve the confiscatory appetites of runaway government spending?"

Reagan's own answers are clear. And to judge from the flood of signatures that came pouring in last weekend, these are answers the fed-up people have been yearning to hear.

They agreed the negotiations were informal and inconclusive, no firm offer of money was ever made and no Humphrey endorsement as early as primary election night was ever contemplated. Furthermore, Kampelman told us the conversations were initiated by Van Kyk, not the Humphrey Campaign.

Incident No. 2: Among Muskie's three conditions for becoming McGovern's second runningmate, Hart writes, was "control of the configuration of the vice presidential campaign jet...while democracy tottered in the balance, we seriously debated the interior decoration of an airplane!" Moreover, Hart implies McGovern never really made a firm vice presidential offer to Muskie.

In rebuttal, others present at the Aug. 4 McGovern-Muskie staff meeting say Muskie was demanding control over the financing and operations of the vice presidential campaign and that Muskie staffers mentioned their campaign jet only in passing. By all counts, McGovern did make a firm offer to Muskie though many of his staffers (Hart included) disagreed.

A footnote: Other McGovern operatives are furious at the criticism of them in Hart's book. "Hart's account of the campaign is like a Dr. Goebbels writing the history of the battle of Stalingrad," a high McGovern campaign aide told us. Hart may get little help from his former McGovernite colleagues in his expected fight for the Democratic Senate nomination from Colorado next year.

With all its nutritional benefits, milk is also one of the greatest food values available at your food store today.

Milk is a consumer bargain.

Dairy products—and especially milk—have done well at resisting the tide of inflation. This chart will make it clear:

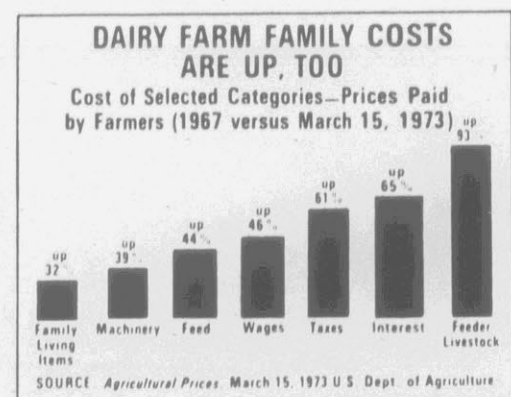

How is it possible milk can remain at a reasonable price when other costs have risen sharply?

The dairy farm family is doing an efficient job.

Milk's continuing reasonable price is mainly the result of the know-how of the dairy farm family. They have been able to develop efficient new methods in production and marketing—increasing per-cow milk production 71% since 1955—even though their own costs have risen markedly.

Count up all the factors.

Milk provides high-quality proteins. It's rich in amino acids for muscle-tissue building and repair. It provides substantial amounts of essential calcium, phosphorus, Vitamin A, Riboflavin, and it is a good source of Thiamine. At the same time, because of dairy farm family efficiencies, milk has been able to hold the price line extremely well. Despite current pressures on the farm family...

Milk is still a Bargain.

Judge Blocks Actions Of Acting OEO Chief

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge has struck another blow at the Nixon administration's plans to shut down the Office of Economic Opportunity, but time and money continue to run out on the antipoverty program.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Jones ruled Monday that OEO Acting Director Howard J. Phillips is serving illegally, and enjoined him from any further actions in that capacity.

OEO officials declined to comment on Jones' action until they had an opportunity to read the decision. The decision opened the possibility that new legal moves would be made to nullify some of Phillips' actions designed to carry out his presidential mandate to close down the agency. Judge Jones ruled that Phillips has served illegally since Jan. 29, 1973, saying that Nixon did not submit Phillips' name to the Senate as nominee for director as required by legislation creating OEO.

The ruling came in a suit filed by four Democratic senators, Harrison Williams of New Jersey, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Investigators reported the Barnes car collided with a vehicle driven by George Truitt Walston of 104 Contentnea St. causing an estimated $400 damage to the Walston car and about $175 damage to the Barnes auto.

State Begins Effort To Buy Scenic Peak

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—The state has begun an effort to buy Crowder's Mountain and turn it into a state park.

There had been fears that the scenic peak west of Gastonia, just over 1,000 feet high and the highest point in Gaston County, might be obtained by strip miners.

Alan Eakes, an official of the State Parks Division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said letters are expected to go out this month asking more than 100 property owners for permission to appraise their property as a first step toward acquisition. He said acquisition is planned in two phases, totaling about 5,000 acres, and would include Crowder's Mountain, Kings Pinnacle, and the land in between.

The legislature has passed a bill introduced by Rep. Carl J. Stewart Jr. of Gaston County appropriating $11.5 million to buy additional land for state parks.

Arrest Boys For Murder

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Chief L. F. Worrrell said today that Fayetteville police Monday arrested two teenagers who were serving breaking and entering sentences at training schools and charged them with murder in the beating of a nine-year-old Fayetteville girl in February, 1972.

Worrrell identified the two held in Cumberland County Jail without bond as James Brunson, 16, and Robert Carmichael, 15, both of Fayetteville.

The body of Vanessa Lewis, a third grade pupil, was found in an abandoned house. Police said she had been beaten with a hammer and raped. She was on her way to school when she was attacked.

Worrrell said at the time of the incident the two youths arrested were pupils at a junior high school in Fayetteville.

Police said a tip last month led to an investigation with cooperation of the State Bureau of Investigation, leading to the arrests.

Wins Delay Of Crucial Vote

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Premier Amin Hafez failed to get a parliamentary vote of confidence today but won a postponement of the crucial vote to try to save his tottering government.

There was speculation that he might have to resign.

Hafez, a Sunni Moslem who was named premier after Israel's commando raid into the heart of Beirut April 10, faces growing opposition from leaders of his sect who want a stronger government. They boycotted the parliamentary session, and the two Sunnis in his 17-man cabinet resigned.

Jogger Takes Bag Of Money

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A morning jogger ran off with $3,200 in weekend receipts from the California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park here, police said.

Jean Fritz told officers Monday she was about to drive to the bank with the money when a man wearing a hooded warm-up suit, dark glasses and tennis shoes jogged up to her car.

He slammed his hands on the hood of the auto, trotted around to the driver's seat and pulled a revolver from his sleeve, she said.

"Hand it over," he ordered. Mrs. Fritz surrendered the paper bag containing the receipts, and the gunman jogged into the shrubbery and vanished.

teachers will be June 12. For the first time, Martin County schools are scheduled to have a full week vacation at Easter. The group told the board of education that are inequities in the local district taxation.

The board has approved recommendations made by the Family Education Committee, one composed of principals, teachers and interested citizens. The main thrust of their recommendation is the improvement of teaching relative to emotional and physical health. Part of the recommendation is the inclusion of one semester course in family life for all students in high school.

A 42,000 budget for the driver education was adopted and is being submitted to Raleigh. Also approved was a request made by the Robersonville Recreation Commission to use the old elementary school property for recreation purposes.

A final matter heard by the board was a concern expressed by the Martin County Citizens Association that efforts be made to maintain a balanced racial ratio of teachers. The board assured that efforts would be made to maintain a fair ratio.

Pepsi Nearing Tar Heel Title

Pepsi-Cola outhit the Exchange yesterday, 11-7, to pull within two games of claiming another Tar Heel Little League championship.

The victory eliminated the Exchange from the title race, and cut the magic number for victory to two. Only the Elks have a chance to pass Pepsi, while Integon can only tie them. Those two meet today to provide Pepsi with some back-door help. An Elk win would eliminate Integon, while an Integon win would insure no worse than a tie for the title with Pepsi.

Pepsi scored first in the game, pushing over two in the first. Jeff Wilson reached on an error and MacDonald Avery was safe on an error, letting Wilson score. Perry Worthington singled, and then stole second as Avery was caught in a run-down. A passed ball let Worthington move to third and he scored on an error on the play.

The Exchange came up with three in the top of the second to take a 3-2 lead. Al Schackelford walked and John Williams doubled. Eric Deal singled in Schackelford and Mark Douglas doubled to score both Williams and Deal.

Pepsi came back with one in the bottom of the second to move ahead. Scott Dupree walked as did Mickey McGrath. Fred Matney was hit by a pitch and Mark Shank reached on an error, letting Dupree score.

Pepsi moved ahead again with a run in the third. Danny Carmon singled and David McClanahan reached on an error. Dupree walked and a wild pitch scored Carmon.

The Exchange came up with two in the fourth to move ahead again, 5-4, Williams singled and Mark Douglas reached on an error. Gordon Douglas singled, and an error on the play let Williams score. Bart Greene singled in Mark Douglas with the go-ahead run.

But in the bottom of the inning, Pepsi pushed over four to take the lead for good. Shank singled and Avery got a hit. Worthington singled to load the bases. Carmon doubled in both Shank and Avery and McClanahan reached on an error, scoring both Worthington and Carmon for an 8-5 lead.

Greenville In Sweep Of Pair

Greenville's Kentucky Fried Chicken semi-pro baseball team gained a pair of wins over Hamilton in the Pitt-Martin Semi-Pro League Sunday. Greenville won the first game, 7-6, in 10 innings, then came back to take the second, 10-1.

Elsewhere, Belvoir took a pair of wins from Jollie, 9-6, and 5-4.

In the opener between Kentucky Fried Chicken and Hamilton, Greenville pushed over four runs in the second inning on two doubles, a pair of walks and a triple by B. Dickens. Hamilton came back in the third with three, while Greenville got another in the fifth. Hamilton then pushed ahead with three in the fifth to take a 6-5 lead. Greenville tied it up in the seventh, then won it in the 10th. That came when A. Gurganus doubled and came around a triple by K. Phillips.

In the second game, Greenville got all they needed in the first inning, scoring three runs. K. Beaman walked and B. Dickens doubled. G. Jarman doubled and scored on A. Gurganus' double for the 3-0 score.

Greenville picked up one more in the second then pushed over six in the seventh to wrap it up. The lone Hamilton run came in the seventh.

In the second game, L. Conrad of Greenville had a no-hitter going until the sixth inning when he allowed the first of two hits.

Belvoir gained the lead in its game in the first, scoring three, then added one in the second. Three came over in the third to sew it up, giving them a 7-0 lead. Jeff Daniels reached on an error as did William Ward. James Little singled in one run, while Curt Sneed doubled in the rest.

Belvoir picked up two more in the fourth to close out their scoring. Jollie picked up one in the fifth, then rallied for five to close the gap to within three in the sixth, but that was it.

In the second game, Jollie took the lead with a run in the first as W. Hardee homered, then picked up two more in the third. Belvoir came up with two in the bottom of the third, then pushed ahead, 5-3, with three in the fourth. Rufus Watson singled and Leon Johnson got a hit, scoring Watson. He stole second and Charlie Boyd singled and also stole up. Sneed reached on an error, allowing both Johnson and Boyd to score, and that was all they needed.

Jollie came up with one in the seventh on a homer by B. Brown to cut the lead to one, but they could come no closer.

Jaycees Outlast Kiwanis By 14-11

The Jaycees outlasted the Kiwanis, 14-11, yesterday in the North State Little League.

The win was only the third in 11 starts for the Jaycees, while the Kiwanis are now 4-7.

The Kiwanis pushed over 10 runs in the first inning and appeared to have it wrapped up. Tom Brown walked and Skip Hill reached when his sacrifice was errored. Brad Brown was safe on an error, scoring Tom Brown. Ben Miller doubled, driving in both Hill and Brad Brown. Sterling Ashby walked and stole second, and Mike Clemmons singled in Miller. Mitchell Brann singled to load the bases and Tom Brown walked to force in Ashby. Hill singled over Clemmons and an error on the play let Brann score. Brad Brown then ended the scoring with a three-run homer.

The Jaycees came right back to score seven in their half of the inning. Marion Crisp walked and took second on a passed ball. John Winstead also walked, and Joey Matheis singled in Crisp. Elvy Forrest walked and Todd Brown walked to force in Winstead. A walk to Mike Pollard brought in Matheis, and Crowell Pope walked, bringing in Forrest. Crisp doubled in Brown and Pollard, and Kenny Barnes walked. Winstead reached on an error, scoring Pope with the seventh run.

In the second, the Jaycees got two more. Brown reached on a fielder's choice and took second on an error. Larry Talbert walked as did Pope. Crisp singled in both Brown and Talbert to cut the lead to 10-9.

In the fourth, the Kiwanis got another run. Miller reached on an error and Clemmons got a hit. Brann singled to score Miller.

The fourth saw five more Jaycee runs scored as they took the lead. Brown singled and Pollard walked. Talbert was hit by a pitch and Teddy Gartman singled in both Brown and Pollard. Barnes walked and Winstead singled to score Talbert and Gartman. Matheis walked to load them up and a walk to Brown brought over Barnes with the final run.

HALF OF A DOUBLE PLAY—San Francisco catcher Dave Rader slides into New York Met shortstop Jim Fregosi too late as Fregosi has already forced Rader out and thrown the ball towards first base to complete the double play on outfielder Ron Bryant's bunt during the third inning on New York's Shea Stadium Monday. # Strikeouts Okay, But Winning Is The Thing

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Strikeout records are okay, says Bob Gibson, but they don't beat winning games.

"The No. 1 thing as far as I'm concerned is still 20 victories this year," the St. Louis Cardinal ace said Monday night after blazing into second place on the all-time strikeout list during a 12-4 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Gibson struck out nine batters to improve his career mark to 2,862. That moved him ahead of Jim Bunning's 2,855 strikeouts and left him behind Walter Johnson's 3,508.

"Any time you do something that gets you into the record books, it's something you will think about once you get the game over," said Gibson. "During the game, however, nothing you do is as important as winning."

and RBI single by Luis Melendez. After the Reds tied the game on Joe Morgan's two-run homer in their half of the first, the Cards put the game away with a five-run second triggered by Ken Reitz's home run.

Incidentally, if Gibson wants those 20 victories this season, he'd better hurry. He only has five so far.

Hank Aaron hit a three-run homer, the 689th of his career, to highlight a six-run fourth that carried Atlanta past Pittsburgh. Aaron's shot, his 18th this year, moved him 25 behind Babe Ruth's 714.

Ron Bryant became the National League's first 10-game winner, pitching San Francisco over New York with ninth-inning relief help. Dave Kingman hit a homer for the Giants' winning margin.

Don Sutton allowed six hits and reliever Pete Richert nailed down the last out to lead Los Angeles over Philadelphia. Greg Luzinski knocked in all the Phillies' runs with two homers. Ollie Brown's two-run single capped a five-run fourth inning that carried Milwaukee over Minnesota.

Brundage Out For More Goals

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage, preparing at 85 to take a new bride, has fixed his eyes on to additional goals—he would like to visit mainland China and he wants to see a shrine in Olympia, where the Olympic Games were born.

"I would like very much to visit China, everyone knows of my interest in that land for years," the 85-year-old former president of the International Olympic Committee said. "Currently, I am devoting my efforts to establishing a place to store all of the treasures of the games."

The robust, vigorous multimillionaire, whose iron will dominated conduct of the Olympics from 1952 through 1972, announced his engagement to a 37-year-old descendant of royalty, Mariann Princess Reuss, Monday.

The date of the wedding was not set. Brundage departed today for Paris, where his longtime IOC assistant, Monique Berlioux, will receive the French Legion of Honor. Princess Mariann, who has been visiting California and Chicago, is returning to Munich.

Although roundly criticized as a doddering old man out of time with the times, Brundage has been credited with protecting the Olympic Games from destruction through creeping professionalism and politics.

"I think China should be a part of the Olympic movement because the country represents such a large part of the population," Brundage said. "But China must come in under Olympic regulations. We have offered them an open hand. But when we invited them in 1956 they replied they would never enter the Olympics as long as 'that capitalistic pig Brundage' was president."

Brundage said he had applied for a visa to enter China. Over the years he collected Chinese and Oriental art valued at $30 to $50 million dollars, subsequently donated to a museum in San Francisco.

"My immediate aim is to establish a museum at Olympia, where the games were born," he said. "I have received favorable response from the various national bodies."

"The Greek government is enthusiastic. The idea would be to set aside some 40 or 50 acres. Each country would be allotted a plot of land to establish a shrine which would not only contain Olympic treasures but also would have displays representing their particular culture. "It would be like an Olympics World Fair—but it would be a permanent memorial to the games."

Lovelace Upstages Sports Authors Show

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain and other sports world figures went literary at the American Booksellers Association convention Monday, then were upstaged by another star, Linda Lovelace.

It happened on the first day on the bookseller's first convention to be held in the West as celebrity authors were being whisked through the press room.

The biggest crowd of the day materialized for the scheduled 3:30 p.m. appearance of Miss Lovelace, star of Deep Throat, and authoress of "Inside Linda Lovelace." Came 3:30 and no Linda.

along the way, the ups and downs. The race and the height thing will be in the book...I'd like to see the Olympic rules changed so I could play in them — volleyball or even basketball. Why shouldn't I be allowed to play for my country, even if I'm making $400,000 a year playing basketball? If I'm willing to play in the Olympics for nothing, it should be okay."

The literary seminar had continued only 10 minutes when Miss Lovelace made her entrance. End of seminar. She posed for photographs with the sports figure and all seemed pleased except Chamberlain. He was asked later if he was perturbed by the incident.

"No I'm not sore at her; she's got her on thing," said the towering basketball star. "But I would rather pose with Jennifer O'Neil." He referred to the beauty in the picture "Summer of '42."

Reporters began asking Miss Lovelace such questions as "Is pornography killing sex." Her reply: "No, I think sex has been suppressed too long. A picture like 'Deep Throat' helps take away all the hangups and inhibitions."

The sports figures departed. Except for Belinsky, who remained at Miss Lovelace's side.

Youth Battles Vets In Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The brash optimism of youth exists side-by-side with the disconcerting doubts and nagging uncertainties of early middle age in the field arrayed for the United States Open Golf Championship.

On the one hand, there's the bright unlined ace of Lanny Wdkins, winner of the Byron Nelson Classic and a strong challenger in a half-dozen other major tournaments this season. "I'm playing awfully well right now," said Wdkins.

And on the other side there's the familiar figure of Billy Casper, a portly, graying 41-year-old veteran. He's a two-time National Open champion, winner of more than $1 million in prize money and holder of more than 40 tour titles—but none in the last two years.

It's frustrating, really disappointing," said Casper, who says he plans a reduction in travel and a cutback in his schedule.

Each will draw a lot of attention in the 73rd U.S. Open that begins a 72-hole round Thursday on the tradition-laden Oakmont Country Club course;

Wadkins as the foremost representative of the youth movement on the pro tour, Casper as an aging superstar seeking to regain the magic that once was his.

"It's my putting," said Casper, echoing a refrain that is familiar among his age group. "I'm playing better now, tee to green, than I have in a couple of years. But I'm putting just awful. It's very frustrating to be unable to score as well as you're playing."

Casper, for years known as one of the premier putters on the tour, said "It's something that can come and go. Right now it's gone, but it can turn around overnight."

Intentional Walk Backfires

By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The percentage move in college baseball just doesn't work against Southern California.

Top-ranked Arizona State found that out Monday night and as a result is a game away from elimination in the 28th College World Series.

"The intentional walk has backfired against every team that has used it against us this season," said USC catcher Ec Putman after the Trojans scored a 3-1 victory over Arizona State.

The sophomore knocked in all three Southern Cal runs, including two in the fifth inning after the bases were loaded via walks—including an intentional pass to bring Putman up.

Arizona State figured it had Putman's number. He was 0-20 in five previous games this season between the two collegiate baseball superpowers.

Defending champion Southern California, 49-11, is the only unbeaten remaining in the double-elimination tournament and faces Minnesota, 31-15-2, Tuesday night.

Minnesota stayed alive by ousting Georgia Southern 6-2. Texas ripped Oklahoma 10-2 to stay in and will test Arizona State, 58-7, in Tuesday's other game.

Texas saw the percentage move blow up in its face Sunday night, and ironically it was Putman who received the intentional walk. Fred Lynn followed with a three-run homer — the margin in a 4-1 USC victory.

The Trojans, gunning for their fifth title in six years, had only four hits-for for a second straight night — but won.

"We got mileage out of what we did," added Dedeaux. "We played the type of game we liked. Good fielding, strong pitching and timely hitting."

Arizona State Coach Jim Brock was far from discouraged.

"We want to play USC again," emphasized Brock, "so we have to get by Texas. We'll try to do to USC what they did to us last year."

Southern California lost a 3-0 early round game to the favored and No. 1 rated Arizona State last year in the series, but came back to take an unprecedented third straight title with 3-1 and 1-0 victories over the Sun Devils.

Minnesota took titles here in 1956, 1960 and 1964 — its only series appearances.

Little Georgia Southern, playing only its second year in the university division, finished 43-12.

Sloan Is The Leader

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Steve Sloan, new head coach at Vanderbilt, led with a two-under-par 70 after Monday's first round of the National Football Coaches Invitation Golf Tournament.

Sloan fired a 34 on the front nine and a 36 on the last half, including three birdies, at Hot Springs village.

Frank Broyles of Arkansas was second with 77. He was followed by Al Onorio of Missouri at 78.

In the writers' division, Larry Gest of the Orlando, Fla. Sentinel shot a 75 to take the lead. Guest was last year's winner in the division. Next was Woody Durham of WFMV-TV at Greensboro, N.C., with a 76. Jack Baldwin, a representative of the Orange Bowl, and Rip Rowan, a representative of the Liberty Bowl, were tied for the lead in the special guests' division with 78s. Close behind was Bob Sly of the University of Arkansas sports network with 79.

Another 18 holes today decides the championship.

Deterioration In Teen Morals

Malcolm's observations about teen-age sex are fairly typical. And thousands of you sophisticated mothers are "accessories" to the venereal infection and unwed pregnancies of your own daughters! You are really Satan's helpers! Wake up!

"Can you cite any facts to prove or disprove the deterioration of teen-age morals?"

Teen Promiscuity
Malcolm's opinion has been documented by such polls as that recently performed by Doctors Kantner and Zelnik at Johns Hopkins University. On a random nationwide basis they surveyed 4,240 unmarried teen-agers, ranging from 15 to 19 years of age. And by the age of 19, they reported that 46 percent had experienced sexual relations. Indeed, 14 percent reported such sexual affairs by the age of 15.

And there was a 3-fold increase over the past 4 years among white girls who reported intercourse at the age of 15.

Even between 1971 and 1972, among black girls, the figure rose from 8 percent to a current 22 percent probability that 15-year olds had engaged in sexual intercourse.

Thus, Malcolm's personal observation in his own high school is fairly typical of the decline in sexual morality.

Alas, our zooming venereal disease rate among teen-agers is another tragic proof of the widespread promiscuity among youth.

Indeed, many mothers from supposedly good suburban areas have given their tacit approval to sexual indiscretions by their daughters. How?

By seeing that those girls are given the "Pill," instead of the former sound parental catechism against unwed sexual relations.

Tens of thousands of these daughters have thus contracted gonorrhea or syphilis, or both, so those mothers are accessories to such venereal infections.

Apparently, the mothers and their daughters have figured that unwed pregnancy was all they needed to fear from illicit intercourse.

If they could see the horrendous medical ravages of venereal disease, maybe they would be scared into more moral behavior!

For gonorrhea and syphilis can produce sterility, heart disease, insanity, arthritis and a dozen other dire ailments!

Only 50 years ago, American girls were reared with the idea that they shouldn't kiss indiscriminately, but reserve such caresses till they were engaged to be married.

Nowadays, millions are being indoctrinated with the Sodom and Gomorrah notion that a girl should "pay" for any casual movie date by letting her escort take undue sexual liberties with her.

This is obviously a sad mistake and very wrong. And a thing is "wrong" not because the "Establishment" or churches veto it, but because it violates this age-old yardstick of what is right, just and morally

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Hold Liquor Vote Talks

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Representatives of seven Chambers of Commerce met in Charlotte on Monday in closed-door meeting to discuss ways to work for the passage of a liquor by the drink referendum in North Carolina this Nov. 6.

Al Pruitt, public relations manager for the Charlotte chamber, said afterwards, "This was a first meeting and no action was taken."

Representatives from chambers in Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Raleigh, Durham, Wilmington and Pinehurst attended the meeting.

Pruitt said, "All kinds of ideas were thrown out." He said that because there is no statewide chamber organization, each representative has to discuss any plans with his group before any decision can be made.

Pruitt said it would probably be difficult for the chamber, as a statewide organization, to take the lead in the referendum. "Obviously the seven Chambers of Commerce which met Monday can't carry a statewide campaign."

Opening lead: Queen of ♣
Alan Sontag and Nancy Weichsel of New York City edged a star-studded field to capture the Life Master Pair Championship at the South Eastern Regionals held in Miami Beach in April. Only a few points behind them, in second place was a Florida Pair—Robert Saron and Robert Woodworth of St. Petersburg.

Today's hand was taken from one of the qualifying rounds. Most of the North-South pairs were content to settle for a part score contract in diamonds and usually succeeded in taking 10 tricks—losing two clubs and one spade on the deal.

A few pairs were more ambitious. One South scored a game in no trump when a defender slipped in discarding as declarer was running his long suit.

Also an original club opening by West could have netted the defenders the first seven tricks, his choice of the queen of hearts from a sequence cannot be faulted. South permitted the lead to come around to the ace in the closed hand.

Only eight tricks appeared to be available—six diamonds and two hearts—but declarer was aware that his opponents would experience some discomfort in discarding on his long suit.

Six rounds of diamonds were played, on which West parted first with the seven of hearts, then the eight of clubs to show a card in that suit and, finally, the eight of hearts. North gave up two spades and one club. East had five discards to make. His first three were in spades. A club came next. When East saw his partner's eight of clubs, he decided to give up his remaining heart—the four—in the hope of cashing several club tricks. This proved to be a fatal misstep.

South exited with the ten of spades. West played the seven, permitting his partner to win the trick with the ace. East shifted to the jack of clubs which held when South followed with the four and West with the five. The club continuation went to West's king, as North discarded the jack of spades. West cashed the king of that suit to complete the defensive book, but was then obliged to lead away from the jack-nine of hearts. South scored the last two tricks with the ten of hearts in his hand and the king in dummy.

East could have set the contract by retaining the four of hearts and sluffing a second club. Now when he gets in with the ace of spades, a heart return thru declarer's ten-six enables West to dislodge North's king by merely covering whichever heart that South plays. Declarer is thereby limited to eight tricks on the deal.

OldNamesCrept In With New

LONDON (UPI) — Local historians had a field day when a reorganization of local government units required new names for 296 new districts.

Some new names, which became official this spring, are descriptive—Three Rivers, for instance. But Restormel, the new name of a district in Cornwall, is the name of a 700-year-old castle and Wansdyke, new title for a district near Stratford, is the name of a road which crossed southwest England before the Romans came.

CUBAN IMMUNITY

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — More than 1.1 million children in Cuba received anti-polio vaccine of the Sabin oral type during an immunization campaign in March, according to a Havana radio broadcast monitored here.

The federal government administers 37.5 million acres of land in Utah—68 per cent of the state's land area.

Environmentalists, Energy Crisis Face 'Collision'

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The environmental movement appears bound for a head-on collision with the energy crisis because of Monday's Supreme Court defense of pure air.

coal-fired electric generating plants, at least until new technology can be developed to clean them up.

At the urging of the Sierra Club and other environmentalists, the Supreme Court upheld a lower-court decision that the Clean Air Act of 1970 forbids any "significant deterioration" of existing pure air.

Larry Moss, vice president of Sierra Club, said environmental groups anticipate a major effort by the coal and power industries to get Congress to amend the law and remove the "nondegradation" standard, which the courts say it now imposes.

Spokesmen for environmentalists and industry said the ruling may bar construction of

Said Moss: "This is probably the most important environmental decision in the history of the movement. We are prepared to go to whatever extent is necessary to make sure this is not reversed in Congress." Even before Moss was interviewed, Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, said Congress must revise the clean-air law immediately.

Duke Power Is Confident

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Duke Power Co., which serves the Piedmont sections of North Carolina and South Carolina, foresees no major problem of continuing an adequate supply of electricity in its area.

A spokesman for the company said Monday, "Our temperatures are about 10 degrees under what they have been having in the Northeast."

The spokesman said Duke was squeezed somewhat last week because some of its generating units were out for either repairs or maintenance.

"Our reserves will be boosted considerably Tuesday (today) when a large 400,000 kilowatt unit at Marshall is returned to service."

The spokesman also noted that Oconee Unit No. 1, Duke's new nuclear powered station near Seneca, S. C., is now operating at 40 per cent of its capacity, supplying about 350,000 kilowatts.

"Barring loss of a major unit or units and extended hot weather, Duke foresees no major problem in continuing an adequate supply of electricity," he added.

In the meantime, nondegradation is the law, and the Environmental Protection Agency is drawing up regulations to carry it out, expected to be effective sometime after June 30.

A spokesman for EPA said the agency must still define the amount of significant deterioration of air quality that may be surpassed.

Moss said the Sierra Club and its allies have suggested that additional pollution in regions with relatively clean air be limited to no more than about 10 per cent of existing pollution levels, down to a minimum allowance of about four or five micrograms per cubic meter.

Burglar Made Change In Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — A burglar climbed a fire escape, looked through a window of the third-floor apartment he intended to rob and changed his mind.

Police said the burglar called a telephone operator on Monday to report that he cancelled his plans to break into the apartment in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section after he saw a body inside.

The operator notified police, who found the body of a woman. Preliminary findings indicated she died of natural causes, police said.

He's Collector Of Cadillacs

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) — Donald Frolich is a city councilman, jazz pianist, aerospace engineer and county transit commissioner. He also collects Cadillacs.

"I just kept buying and never got around to doing any selling," he says.

Continuing a trend set by his father and grandfather, Frolich has nine Cadillacs—five in his garage, two in his driveway, one parked at the curb and one in storage. They are a 1938 model, a 1939, three 1941s, two 1953s, a 1965 and a 1967.

Frolich said his 1939 16-cylinder sedan sold new for $5,000. It gets six miles to the gallon, he said. "If you had that kind of money during the Depression, you didn't worry about gas," he said.

The National Coal Association's Bagge says, "It will stop the construction of any new fossil-fuel power plants in most of the United States."

"It will also wash out any prospect of producing synthetic natural gas or petroleum from the great coal and oil-shale reserves of the nation, killing our best chances of meeting the energy crisis from our domestic reserves," he added.

The Edison Electric Institute, representing the power industry, offered another pessimistic estimate of the court decision's impact.

Fully one-third of the 108 million kilowatts from new plants scheduled for operation over the next five years could be barred by nondegradation if that were interpreted to mean "no deterioration of ambient air quality whatever," the institute said.

The institute provided no estimate of the impact of a less-severe interpretation, such as the 10-per-cent rule proposed by the Sierra Club.

Moss suggested the power industry could build atomic plants or burn desulfurized oil in place of coal. The licensing of atomic plants already has been delayed by environmental lawsuits. A group headed by Ralph Nader filed on May 31 the first of what may become a series of new suits aimed at increasing atomic safety, which could bring still more delays.

Welcome Wagon Rolls To Campus

The East Carolina University campus had another first this morning. The Welcome Wagon came to the campus.

For the last 25 years the Welcome Wagon has been visiting the homes of the newcomers and welcoming them to Greenville. With each visit, the Welcome Wagon Hostess carried greetings from many community organizations and gifts from local merchants.

This morning, at the first orientation of the freshmen and transfer students, Welcome Wagon packets were distributed. There will be seven such orientations through the summer months and concluding in September. In each packet were welcome letters from the city manager, postmaster, Dr. Leo Jenkins and the president of the Student Government Association, Bill Bodenhamer. An information sheet regarding voting was also included from the League of Women Voters.

Each packet also contained a check book of coupons from 35 local merchants offering the student a free gift or discount on merchandise when it is presented in person at the store. This is the first time the freshmen orientation program has extended into the community.

Mrs. Douglas R. Jones, Welcome Wagon Hostess, and Douglas R. Jones, Jr., Host, are carrying out the program which will be a national project this fall, on all college campuses.

Begin Miss N.C. Tests

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Competition begins tonight in the Miss North Carolina Pageant.

There will be nightly judging in swimsuit, evening gown and talent divisions for the 63 contestants.

Miss North Carolina will be crowned late Saturday night. She will represent the state in the Miss America contest in Atlantic City, N.J., in early September, around Labor Day.

As each girl registered Monday, she received an official identification tag, a long-stemmed red rose and plaid slacks.

After a morning orientation session, they headed into a week of activities. Included are luncheons, new conferences, rehearsals and judging.

One of the contestants, Carol Ann Bass, Miss Spivey's Corner, already has two crowns — Miss Rododendron and Blueberry Queen.

But, "You know, I'm still very nervous, she said.

Two Break-Ins Reported Here This Morning

A small safe containing about $300 and a small television were taken in two separate break-ins reported to Greenville police early this morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the first of the calls came at 7 a.m. when a television was reported taken from Louis Flemings Service Station at 1001 Dickinson Ave.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking open a rear window, the chief noted.

The safe, according to Chief Cannon, was taken from the Pitt County Health Department. That theft was reported at 7:35 a.m.

According to the chief, the thieves gained entrance to the building through a window, then removed the safe from a closet and carried the strong-box away. It contained about $300. Investigation of the thefts is underway.
