Nixon Buys Time With Consumer Price Freeze

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has frozen all consumer prices for 60 days, jolting an inflation-plagued economy with a surprise shock treatment while buying time to build a tougher wage-price control system.

Wages were not frozen by the President. Neither were rents, interest and dividends or raw agricultural products at the farm level.

But Nixon told the nation in a television-radio address Wednesday night that all other prices paid for goods and services during the next two months cannot exceed prices that prevailed in the June 1-8 base period.

Congressional action is required for proposed export controls and other supporting elements of the President's fourth attempt in two years to curb inflationary pressures. But the price freeze went into effect Wednesday night when he signed an executive order.

Unless lifted sooner, the freeze expires Aug. 12. by then, Nixon said, he will have ready "a new and more effective system of controls" to replace Phase 3—a limited system which his economic advisers admitted was a failure.

Phase 4 controls, Nixon said, "will involve tighter standards and more mandatory compliance procedures than under Phase 3" and will include special measures to stabilize retail food and gasoline prices.

Members of Congress had mixed reactions to the President's moves.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, voiced some reservations but said he would withdraw for 90 days his pending Senate amendment to freeze wages, prices and consumer interest rates.

Republicans generally supported the President. "Right on target," said House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Democrats were less enthusiastic. "I'm fearful that it may not be broad enough," said House Speaker Carl Albert.

Leading economists were split, too.

"Too little, too late, too complicated, too political," said noted economist Eliot Janeway.

"It's a definite improvement," said top University of Pennsylvania economist, Dr. Lawrence R. Klein.

Nixon told the nation in his 15-minute address from the Oval Office that the economy is strong—"we are in the middle of one of the biggest, strongest booms in our history."

But for a variety of reasons, he said, "prices are going up at unacceptably high rates and the great part of this increase is due to rising food prices."

He then outlined his price freeze as part of what he called "bold yet sensible policies to meet our temporary problems." Other elements of the President's program include:

—An urgent request for Congress "to give me the new and more-flexible authority needed" to impose export controls on products such as grain and animal feedstuffs. "In allocating the products of America's farms between markets abroad and those in the United States, we must put the American consumer first," he said.

—A presidential order for the Internal Revenue Service to immediately audit the books of companies that raised their prices more than 1.5 per cent during Phase 3. If the increases weren't justified, Nixon said "the prices will be rolled back."

—A request that Congress allow him to eliminate tariffs on imported meat and other scarce items such as plywood and zinc, plus authority to sell more surplus commodities from government stockpiles.

—A promise of new farm legislation to put "high production ahead of high prices," a threat to veto any spending bill that exceeds his proposed budget, and a plea that Congress quickly clear the way for the Alaska pipeline to combat oil and gasoline shortages.

Nixon said he didn't freeze wages because they hadn't been a significant cause of price increases. They will remain for now under Phase 3 guidelines which generally call for pay boosts to be held to 5.5 per cent a year.

But officials made clear that wage controls are forthcoming in Phase 4, which Nixon said "will recognize the need for wages and prices to be treated consistently with one another."

In recent months it became increasingly clear that Phase 3 wasn't checking inflation. consumer prices rose at an annual rate of 9.2 per cent during the first four months of the year while food prices shot upward at an annual rate of 25.4 per cent.

"Everybody admits Phase 3 was a failure," Treasury Secretary george P. Shultz conceded at a news conference Wednesday night. "Let's not argue about that."

In his speech, Nixon repeated his opposition to a government-controlled economy. He said Phase 4 will be intended to "return us as quickly as possible to the free-market system."

Magruder Admits Watergate Role; Says Nixon Untold

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder today confessed to involvement in the planning and cover-up of the Watergate wiretapping, but said President Nixon had no knowledge "of our effor in this matter."

Magruder's public admission came in a brief prepared statement he read to the televised hearings of the Senate Watergate committee. He said he was willing to take the consequences of his actions.

"Unfortunately, we made some mistakes in the campaign which led to a major national concern..." Magruder said. He said he takes full responsibility for his own role.

Magruder said as far as he knows, during the entire period of the Watergate planning and cover-up, "at no time did the President have any knowledge of our errors in this matter.

"He had confidence in his aides and some of us failed him," Magruder said.

Magruder, testifying with limited immunity from prosecution for what he says to the Senate investigators, told the committee he would name others who participated with him in the operation.

The 38-year-old former cosmetics executive read his dramatic statement almost as an afterthought, after committee questioning had begun with routine questions about his background and position in the campaign.

His lawyer broke in to ask that he be permitted to read the statement.

Answering the initial questions, Magruder said former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was responsible for the Nixon re-election campaign "from the beginning." Magruder said that meant May 1971, long before Mitchell left the Nixon Cabinet.

He said H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's former White House chief of staff, was the liaison man with the campaign organization.

Magruder said wiretapping was first proposed Jan. 27, 1972, at a meeting in the office of Atty. Gen. Mitchell.

He said it was proposed by G. Gordon Liddy, who had been detailed to the Nixon re-election campaign from the White House specifically to set up an intelligence operation.

Mitchell, White House counsel John W. Dean III, and Magruder were present at the 30-minute meeting, Magruder said.

Besides wiretapping, Liddy also proposed a plan to kidnap leaders of radical groups, hold them in places like Mexico, and return them after the Republican National Convention, Magruder said.

He said Liddy also proposed the use of call girls to gain information from Democratic officials. Liddy wanted to hire a yacht and equip it with cameras and recorders, Magruder said.

"I think all three of us were appalled at the scope of the project. I don't think it was in Mr. Mitchell's or Mr. Dean's mind," Magruder said.

He said Mitchell indicated this wasn't acceptable and directed Liddy to come up with some acceptable plan.

Magruder said he reported this meeting to Gordon Strachan, a member of the White House staff who reported directly to Haldeman. "I think I discussed the general nature of his (Liddy's) proposal," Magruder recalled.

Magruder said Strachan was also sent the results of a second meeting held Feb. 4, 1972, at which wiretapping was discussed.

This was also in Mitchell's office with Dean, Magruder and Liddy present, he said.

Magruder said Liddy's second proposal also was rejected, but that Liddy was encouraged to kee0 working. He said Mitchell "just didn't feel comfortable with it at that level."

Heavy Reliance On Blood Donors Told Red Cross

An average of one unit of blood is used every four and a half hours at Pitt Memorial Hospital, according to Dr. Lee West, pathologist at Pitt Memorial.

West, speaking last night to board members of the Pitt Chapter of the American Red Cross, said that in the five-year period from 1967 through 1972, our blood quota has risen about 45 per cent but donor turnout here has increased only six per cent.

The pathologist said that during the same period, the rejection rate has been about 16 per cent. Some 469 untis of blood have been collected at the hospital in the past five years, West reported, and in the immediate past year, 200 units have been collected.

He told board members that Pitt residents are the fourth highest users of blood in the Tidwater blood region that includes 59 hospitals.

West emphasized the increasing blood needs of Pitt County and asserted that the blood program here is one of the most vital functions of the Red Cross.

Miss Nell Stallings, first aid and water safety programs chairman, reported that 252 first aid standard certificates were awarded during the July 1, 1972 through June 1 period. She said that 160 multi-media first aid certificates, 124 advanced certificates, 25 junior, 62 senior and 99 various swimming certificates were also awarded during the year.

Miss Stallings explained that these courses are still being taught and persons needing information concerning a first aid or water safety program should contact the local Red Cross office.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt chapter, said that during the year 240 families were given Red Cross asistance in Pitt County. She noted that the United Fund chapter here responded to an appeal from the American National Red Cross and sent $1,135 to aid the relief and assistance of disaster victims.

According to Billy Ross, blood chairman, the last blood visit of the period will be at Burroughs Wellcome on June 19. The visit, he said, is not for the general public but is being held for company employees.

The county is some 300 units short of its quota of 2,380, Ross said. The 200 units that were collected at the hospital during the year will be creditied to the county's total, however, bringing the deficit down somewhat. A good response at Burrough Wellcome could put the county in better shape, it was pointed out.

The regular board session was attended by 15 members. O.E. Dowd Sr., Pitt chairman, presided at the meeting held at St. Paul Episcopal Church.

'Unlikely'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the federal tax on gasoline is "very unlikely," Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says.

Shultz had earlier disclosed the administration was considering a boost in the 4-cent a gallon excise tax, partly in an effort to discourage gasoline usage during the current shortage.

The secretary all but ruled out such a proposal in response to a question at a press conference called to disclose President Nixon's new 60-day price freeze.

It was one of the options Nixon was considering during intensive discussions on the economy in the past few weeks.

Stranded In Cable Car Trip

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Thirty-eight persons remained stranded in two aerial cable cars high in the Sandia Mountains today after a cable slipped out of its track Wednesday night. Police said there was no danger of the cars falling to the ground.

Rescuers were using bulldozers to push a crane up the mountain to lift the cable, which drives the cars, back into place.

The stranded passengers, including a baby, were in fine condition, said Robert Nordhaus, president of Sandia Peak Tram Co. A mountain rescue team helped hoist food and blankets to the cars.

"They're comfortable. They're not complaining," Nordhaus said. "The baby has milk and a stove to warm the milk."

The cable cars got stuck early Wednesday night when the haul cable, which pulls the two cars between the crest of the mountain and the lower terminal, slipped from two track cables. The cars remained suspended from two guide cables.

Officials said thundershowers were moving through the area when the incident occurred.

Police said one of the two cars was en route up the 2.7 mile cableway to the top of the 10,300-foot Sandia Peak, and the other was descending when the slip occurred.

One of the cars stopped 1,800 feet from the top of the cableway, and the other 1,800 feet from the bottom. The top car was stranded some 600 feet above ground, and the lower car about 250 feet above ground.

Skylab Repair Needed

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houstor (AP) — Space agency officials decide today whether the "fix anything guys of Skylab 1 should tackle another space-walk repair job.

Aboard the orbiting laboratory, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz scheduled a short workday. They plan to go to sleep two hours early, the first step in preparations for their return to earth next week.

Conrad and Weitz will aim Skylab earth resources cameras at sites they tried to photograph earlier in the mission but missed because of instrument problems.

The picture-taking starts on the coast of Oregon and continues as the spacecraft passes over the western United States, across Texas and then down over central and South America.

They will be collecting data for geologic studies in California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. Scientists hope to study insect infestation and soil salinity from pictures taken of Rio Grande valley farms in Texas.

Meanwhile, high-ranking space agency officials meet to evaluate the need for a fourth space-walk repair effort.

The point to be decided is whether Skylab needs another sun shade. The astronauts installed one parasol-like shade the day after their May 25 launch. But experts are concerned that orange nylon material in the parasol may fade and rot in the intense sunlight of space.

A second shade, which resembles a window curtain and is deployed on two poles, is aboard Skylab, and the astronauts are trained in setting it up.

One space walk already is scheduled for next Wednesday. Kerwin is to remove film from a telescope camera system outside the space craft.

If officials decide the second shade is needed, the astronauts will install it during another space walk on Wednesday.

Dr. Hadley Is Honored For Recreation Service

AWARD OF HONOR. . .for Community Services was received by Dr. Herbert Hadley (left) on Wednesday night. Recreation Commission Chairman Sidney Carraway presents the award.

Dr. Herbert Hadley, Greenville physician, on Wednesday night received the Award of Honor for Community Service from Recreation Commission Chairman Sidnay Carraway.

"For the years you have served, for the ideas you have brought to us," Carraway said, "we are truly grateful.

"Some of your ideas we opposed, more we accepted, and there were times when you were late getting to the meetings," Carraway added, "but you have given freely of your time and efforts to help the cause of recreation for all in Greenville."

Dr. Hadley in May completed ten years as a commissioner for recreation, the maximum permissible under city laws. In addition to these years on the commission, he has been instrumental for many years before the past decade in working for the advancement of the city's recreation program.

Attorney Louis Gaylord, one of the guests at the June meeting of the Recreation Commission, paid tribute to Dr. Hadley. "When I was but a youth Herbert Hadley was already an old man and a legend in this city for his fine work."

"I've not been on the scene since Greenville changed its charter from Martinsborough," Dr. Hadley remarked in accepting the award. He briefly contrasted recreation facilities in Greenville in the days of his youth and those now established in the city.

"We used to swim in a hole in the stream behind what is now Hardee's," he said, "and played sand lot baseall all over town.

"Over the late ten years," Dr. observed, "a fine rapport has port has been established between the commission and the

Program Of Motorcycle And Minibike Safety To Be Offered

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Greenville Recreation Commission, at their monthly meeting Wednesday, gave the stamp of approval in a three to two vote that will bring a two day program of rider safety for motorcycles and mini-bikes to Greenville in September.

Introducing an offer by the Uamaha company, Director Boyd Lee explained details of the company's proposed training service. Lee said the company has a one million dollar insurance coverage to cover any possible personal injury or damage to the site used, and would bring in 30 machines, and sufficient personnel to provide the instruction.

No fee will be charged to participants. The event, according to Lee, has the support of the Chamber of Commerce. Guy Smith Stadium is the site to be used for the two day rider safety program scheduled for September 8 and 9.

To Mrs. Louis Gaylord's question of whether other cities had approved similar offers by Yamaha, Lee said, "yes, cities all over the nation have accepted the offer." He added it would not present a great problem to the company if the commission rejected the request to provide a location, as he felt the company would be able to find another location in Greenville.

Dr. Edgar S. (Dick) Douglas, Sr., newly appointed member of the commission, offered a new motion that the Recreation Commission provide the requested location.

Approved unanimously was a request from the Greenville Fire Fighters Association to have use, without the usual fee, of the Elm Street Gymnasium for a benefit affair.

The Fire Fighters have plans to sponsor a summer basketball league consisting of four teams that would play a total of 12 games. Six of the games, beginning this Friday night, would be played in the Elm Street Gym, with the remaining six to played away from Greenville.

All proceeds of the league games will go to funds being raised for the new Burn Treatment Center in Chapel Hill.

Commissioners approved forfeiture of the usual $50 per night use fee of the gymnasium.

In reporting on legislation of exceptional interest in recreation, Lee briefly commented on several bills. House Bill 220, Lee said, "a bill that would appropriate $7,500 per year to each county to begin a county recreation program, has been postponed until next January."

House Bills 523 and 524, which according to Lee are "bills whereby the State Government would replace discontinued federal Land and Water Conservation funds, was defeated. I understand it will be reintroduced in January," Lee added.

Calling House Bill 333 "one of good news," Lee said "this bill, approved by the legislators, provides that tax money can be appropriated for recreation as a necessary expense item in the same manner that fire and police is considered a necessary expense.

"No special vote or referendum is required on the part of the people for recreation funds under House Bill 333," Lee concluded.

On the proposed swimming pool for Greenville, for which $150,000 has been earmarked by City Council from Revenue Sharing Funds, Lee gave a brief committee report. He said specificiations of the pool had been decided as a 50 meter one, with Evans Park as the location.

There's More To Life Than Politics, Mrs. Chisholm Says

REP. SHIRLEY CHISHOLM

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For most congressmen, politics is life. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., thinks there's a lot more to living than that.

So she won't be spending the rest of her life in politics.

"There are just too many other things I want to do," said the Brooklyn congresswoman and unsuccessful candidate for president.

"One of those things is establishing a political institute that would teach young people about politics. I've overcome many obstacles, and I'd like to share with young people some of the ways they can succeed," she said.

"All my life, I've worked within the system's organized groups, taking around petitions and filling in for speakers. I labored in the vineyards for 15 years before I ran for Congress and I've been able to assess the weaknesses and strengths of many of my opponents.

"I can explain to young people that they must work in the system. They can't just tilt at windmills," Mrs. Chisholm said.

Another of the plans Mrs. Chisholm has for the future includes writing. She enjoys it. A new book, "The Good Fight," details some of the triumphs and minor disasters of her presidential campaign.

"When it was all over, we could look back and wonder what else I might have done. Well," she mused, "I know now that if I had had money, anything might have happened. I was telling the people what they needed to hear."

If she had it to do over, the congresswoman would still campaign for the presidency. She says that because she stayed through to the end women, blacks and other minority candidates will now be taken seriously in future campaigns.

"That was a problem at first. Many people did not realize I was a serious candidate. They believed I was, as other candidates said, 'on an ego trip.' But in the end, they realized there was something to what I was saying," Mrs. Chisholm added.

The congresswoman says people who see her battling for things that matter may think of her as an angry person. She says she doesn't thrive in a public role.

"I'm a private person. I don't go in for a lot of hoopla. Personally, I'm very happy. I've been happily married to the same man for 24 years. His ego must be intact because he's secure in his own right. He comes from a political family although he doesn't care for politics. He says so long as the people want you, fine, but he also asks if I want to make it my life. I've decided I do not."

She added that she could never make the presidential race again despite her widespread support because of the mental and physical anguish involved.

Her next project is trying to save the Office of Economic Opportunity, and she views it as extraordinarily important.

"A subcommittee is holding hearings to get people to tell us how poverty programs should be changed, detailing the weaknesses and strengths of each program. I know there are weaknesses, but I don't believe we should throw the baby out with the bath water," she said.

"The President, in abolishing OEO, doesn't seem to understand it will cause acceleration of public assistance rolls," she added.

A long time concern of Rep. Chisholm has been day care, which is also involved in the OEO cuts. She believes a national day care system would alleviate the tax burden on the middle class of supporting public assistance.

"A woman who brings her child to a day care center is able to work and pay her just share of taxes. Women will tell you straight, 'Look, I want to work. But I don't want to leave my child in a parking lot. I want him to be able to learn.'

Congress misunderstands day care. They think you can leave kids with old ladies or somebody in the neighborhood. I'm educating them, but it's slow work. They don't understand that day care is a professional field," Mrs. Chisholm said.

She also feels Congress isn't representative of real people.

"We need more teachers in Congress, and fewer lawyers," she added.

A perfect size 7-8, the Congresswoman says she does all her clothes shopping by mail order. She has no time to haunt exclusive stores, and wouldn't anyway, because people recognize her and stop to talk or get her autograph.

"I tried disguises, a wig and sloppy old clothes," she said, "but it didn't work. People still wanted to talk."

Use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler to cut carrots paperthin and add the slices to a tossed green salad.

Zoo To Benefit From Bridge

A bridge luncheon to benefit the North Carolina Zoological Gardens will be held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ernest Holt.

Sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club, the luncheon will be open to 40 bridge players. All places have been filled, Mrs. Holt said. Animal-related prizes-a stuffed Pooh bear, a carved mountain goat, cardinal jewelry, to name a few-will be given.

The total proceeds, expected to be $80, will be sent to the N. C. Zoological Society immediately.

The hoop skirt was designed to disguise the fact that the Empress Eugenie was pregnant. The year was 1855. The country was France.

Bikini-Wearing Mom Is An Eyeful

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: In your opinion, should a 26-year-old wife and mother of four wear a skimpy bikini while painting her house and doing her yard work?

We have a young woman like that in our neighborhood. The houses are close together and the viewing is easy. A few of the wives have mentioned to her that maybe she should cover herself a little more, but she says it's the only way she can get any sun. Meanwhile, all the men and teenaged boys are getting a free show.

I think it's positively indecent. Is there any way we can get her to put some clothes on when she's outside?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: Probably not. But if SHE gets burned from all that overexposure, it may teach her a blistering lesson.

DEAR ABBY: Some members of my family have been putting me down because my husband and I do not go overboard decorating our son's grave.

We prefer to give a nice donation to our Baptist Children's Home in honor of our son's memory instead of spending a lot of money on plastic flowers that are picked up and put in the trash can at the cemetery in a few weeks time.

My sister says it looks like we don't care about our son. One sister in law who never even sent our son a get-well card during his illness, now drags flowers out to the cemetery nearly every Sunday.

We hardly ever visit our son's grave because we feel he is not there, but his soul is in heaven. The two times we went it was just hysterics for all of us.

My family are constant cemetery visitors. A trip to the cemetery becomes an all-day outing. They visit everyone they can think of. Are they right? Or are we?

MOM AND POP

DEAR MOM AND POP: Pay no attention to your family's remarks. There is no "right" or "wrong"—each person is entitled to do as he pleases in such matters.

DEAR ABBY: Please print these simple rules for people who have a party line:

1. Limit your calls to 15 minutes. If you can't say it in 15 minutes, hang up for 15 minutes and place another call. Someone else may want to use the line.

2. Please don't curse someone who is using the line when you want it. Words can really hurt a person.

3. Never take your telephone off the hook because you don't want to be disturbed. You tie up the line so no one can use it—not even the little old lady down the road who may need a doctor in a hurry.

Abby, I am only 15, and I like to talk on the phone as much as anybody, but when you have a party line you have to think of other people. My boy friend told me he tried to get me for 2 hours last night. He called every 5 minutes and kept getting a busy signal.

I follow the rules and I sure wish everybody else with a party line would.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

DEAR LIVE: Beautiful! Thanks for writing.

Casts Cloud Over All Politics

The United States needs to get at the truth in the Watergate scandal as rapidly as possible and with the least considerations for the political implications of the matter as possible.

Given the nature of the politicians, however, we suppose it would be futile to ask that they get on with seeking truth in the matter without making some political capital out of it.

Thus along comes Clark Clifford, a former Secretary of Defense under Lyndon Johnson with a proposal to solve the whole thing. All that has to happen is for President Nixon to resign and Vice President Spiro Agnew also to resign — except it would not happen in quite that order.

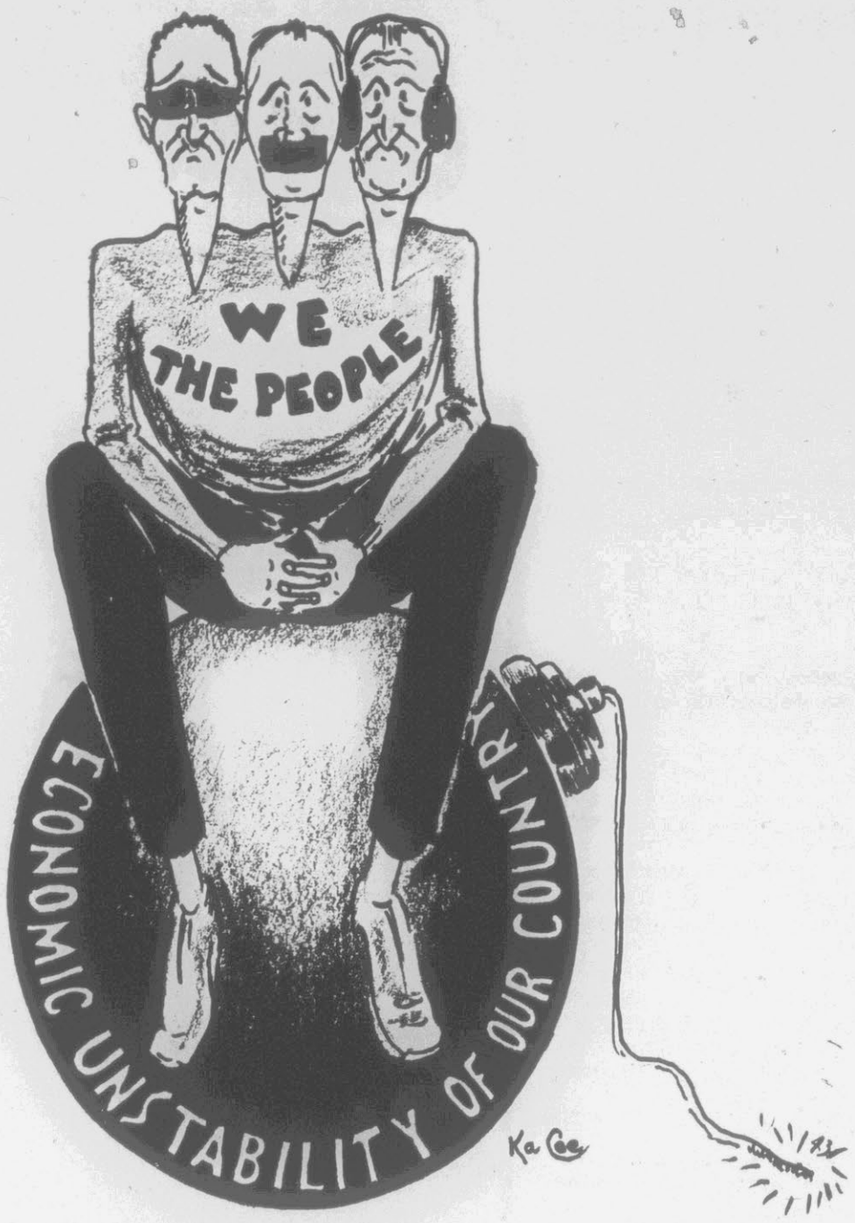
Clifford suggests in a New York Times article that Agnew resign first. Then under section 2 of the 21st amendment to the Constitution the president would nominate a vice president "who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both house of Congress."

To make this scheme work, Clifford said Nixon should ask Congress to present him with a list of three qualified individuals from which he could select a new vice president. The selection being duly made, Nixon would resign his office and the new vice president would take office as president.

All Clifford has to do now is convince Nixon, Agnew and Congress to go along with his plan. Obviously the plan is silly and political to its roots.

Then over in the Capitol we have the Senate select committee proceeding with hearings on Watergate at the breathtaking rate of two or three days a week. The hearings adjourned May 25 and the senators rushed back on June 5. Last week there were three days of hearings, and this week everybody went back to work on Tuesday. At this rate, no doubt the hearings can be stretched out to the elections of 1974. It is just possible though that if the select committee will go to work the truth can be dug out with dispatch rather than dragging out the nation's agony.

Politicians will be politicians, but perhaps those who want to gain politically by the situation might stop to consider that the entire area of politics is suspect in the minds of the public — not solely the White House. Playing politics with this deplorable situation could throw a cloud over all the proceedings underway at present.



Words That Neary

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that secretaries get tired of hearing:

HAL BOYLE

"If anybody calls me while I'm in the washroom, tell them I'm in conference."

"The trouble with all secretaries is that they are secretly in love with their bosses."

"Margie Lightly, three other secretaries have married since you started working here, and you're still single. Are you losing your sex appeal?"

"I'm no whiz at spelling, Margie, but I think you are putting too many k's in the word accommodate."

"This is the second time you've come to work this week wearing a pants suit. I want you to understand clearly, young lady, that I'm the one who wears the pants in this office."

"The pet dog of one of our biggest clients just died. Do you think I need to get in touch with him personally, or do you think a simple telegram of condolence will do? The trouble is I can't remember what the mutt's name was."

"If my wife calls, tell her I'm in conference. If she calls back, tell her I'm in another conference. If she calls a third time, put her on my line."

"I'm trying to call on as many prospects as I can today, young lady. There's a bottle of scotch in it for you if you get me in to see your boss before 10 o'clock."

"I don't know anything about her boss, but he can't be much of a leg man. If he was, she wouldn't have her job."

"You must have got to work late, Margie. When I breezed in at about 9:50 a.m., the morning coffee you put on my desk was still hot."

"What would you buy your wife for her 10th wedding anniversary, if you were me, Margie? Whatever it is, go to the department store and pick it out during your lunch hour."

"I'm sneaking off for a little golf, Margie. If anybody but God calls me, I'm in conference — but you don't know where."

Saunders May Say It Later

By BRYAN HAISLIP

SOUTHERN PINES — The Research Triangle is a beacon for economic development, attracting to North Carolina premium industry and sophisticated facilities for private and government research.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Twenty years ago it was a gleam of an idea. For one dark hour, its light almost failed.

The man who saved the Research Triangle was William P. Saunders, a businessman of vision and practical outlook.

"I could see the potential it had for North Carolina. I had faith in the idea," recalled.

What's good for his native state guided Saunders in a career mixing textile manufacturing with politics and public service. Every governor since J.C.B. Ehringhaus late in the '30s called on him by appointment to some position.

Now 75, he is serving his fourth term in the State Senate, a Democrat representing his county of Moore and four others in the 19th district.

Man Of Few Words

As a Senator, Saunders is in his seat but rarely on his feet. He operates quietly and with few words.

That follows the advice a friend gave him when he was starting out as a yound man. "Bill" the friend counseled, "what you don't say now you can always say later."

He speaks when the time is right. What he had to say at a critical juncture saved the Research Triangle.

The proposal to draw on resources of science and learning at the universities of the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill Triangle area to establish a research park emerged in the early days of the administration of Gov. Luther H. Hodges. Saunders urged Hodges to pursue the idea.

Initial reaction was lukewarm. Saunders, then director of the Conservation and Development department, brought into the picture Karl Robbins, a textile tycoon and business associate. Through Robbins' investment, options were acquired on some 4,000 acres as a site for the proposed park.

Time For Decision

The day came when $100,000 in options had to be picked up. Robbins was out of the country and couldn't be reached.

A group of business leaders met with Hodges and Saunders to decide the fate of the fledgling project. Around the table were men who could command millions instantly. One by one, they declined to commit money to save the options.

Saunders spoke up. "Would there be any objection," he asked, "if I put up the money myself?"

His banker thought it a risky venture, but Saunders regarded it as an act of faith rather than finances. "I just wanted to see the thing go," he said.

"Go" was the word from the turning point. The North Carolina business community rallied its support, and with the years the Research Triangle became a powerful force for jobs and economic growth beyond it immediate area.

Land purchased in the beginning for $250 an acre now carries a price of $5,000 and above, Saunders observed.

Saunders, born in Dallas, established himself in textiles in the Sandhills country. He decided to retire early. "I had lost my wife. I wanted some time to hunt and fish, to read and travel," he explained.

A Persuasive Friend

Those plans were aborted by a call from Hodges, a classmate at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill who moved up from lieutenant governor to governor upon the death of William B. Umstead.

Saunders had planned a trip to Germany to visit a daughter. He yielded to Hodges' persuasion, put off the trip, and agreed to come into state government for one year. He never made the trip, and stayed in Raleigh six-and-a-half years as C&D director.

That was the period of record-breaking industrial development in North Carolina. Under Saunders, trade missions throughout the United States and abroad originated as a device to sell the state as a location for new and expanded industry.

As a salesman, Saunders adheres to simple rule — let the customer do the talking. "He won't be sold, however much you say, unless you've got what he wants to buy," he remarked.

North Carolina had what industry wanted to buy, in resources and business climate, he added.

His deferred retirement was delayed again when he ran for the Senate. Next year will bring the decision whether to run for a fifth term, but Saunders keeps quite on his political palans.

"What I don't say now," he said, with a sly salesman's smile, "I can always say later."

No Retreating By Neil Jones

By JOHN KILGO

WADESBORO — Former State Sen. Neil Jones—who headed the Governor's Commission on Automobile Insurance—and Insurance Commissioner John Ingram are not seeing eye-to-eye on the matter of no-fault auto insurance.

Ingram says his office will get to work to try to have a no-fault bill ready for the '74 Legislature. He charges that the Governor's Commission presented a bill that was backed by the industry but did not adequately protect the public.

Jones takes to that statement like a duck would take to the Sahara.

"That" Jones says of Ingram's charge "is ridiculous. It's the most absurd foolish thing I've heard in my life. There'a nothing in our bill that is industry-oriented. It's my notion that when you get the Commissioner in a corner—and we had him in a corner over no-fault—he starts acting like something was dominated by industry.

Either he's saying it wrong and knows he's saying it wrong or he hasn't read the bill. It's my opinion that he simply doesn't know what he's talking about."

About Ingram's plan to work on a new no-fault bill out of his office. Jones says that would be fine "if it's a legitimate no-fault plan."

"It's not important to us who sponsors the bill" Jones says "as long as the people of North Carolina get good bedrock insurance reform.."

Jones says the Governor's Commission can take credit for getting Ingram in the no-fault business.

"If we hadn't kept pushing," Jones said "he never would have said anything about no-fault."

Jones and members of his Commission plan to be politically involved between now and January, in hopes of getting the no-fault bill passed.

They will not start over with a new bill. They'll take the one which was revised and passed by the Senate and try to get it out of the House Insurance Committee.

"The bill passed by the Senate is not all the Commission hoped it would be," Jones said, "but it's still a very good bill."

Rep. Sneed High, chairman of the House Insurance Committee stalled no-fault in the House. As Jones put it: "We thought they used some very slow, deliberate haste in considering the bill."

Jones concedes opponents of no-fault in the House were effective in holding up no-fault and he says: "They in effect sandbagged the thing."

Members of the Governor's Commission will not travel North Carolina talking to people in the House who weren't for the bill the first time around.

"We're going to do our missionary work," Jones says. "We're going to meet with these people in their hometowns, in their offices and in their backyards, an see if we can persade them on the merits or our position."

Jones feels the timing will be much better for no-fault in 1974 than it was last year.

It's his belief that the people are tired of hearing about no-fault and are ready to see the Legislature act on it.

"The 1973 General Assembly didn't have to go back before the voters," Jones say. "But the '74 Legislature knows they have to face the voters in November and I don't believe they'll do it without a no-fault bill on the books."

Hatchetmen Fail Again

In its issue of May 28, The Nation magazine makes one more effort to discredit the conviction of Alger Hiss. After 25 years, the liberals still will not accept the truth, to which Whittaker Chambers long ago bore witness, that their own golden boy could have been a Communist agent.

A whole generation, of course, has grown up that knew not Alger Hiss. His two trials for perjury (the first ended with a hung jury, the second in conviction) were among the most celebrated trials of the postwar period. The hearings of August, 1948, which incidentally rocketed Congressman Richard Nixon to national prominence, were the sensation of the day.

On the surface, the drama involved two men only. Alger Hiss was the quintessential young Harvard lawyer, onetime clerk to Justice Holmes, counselor to the ailing Roosevelt at Yalta, an important figure in the formation of the United Nations. He was a liberal, an intellectual, a man of apparently impeccable credentials.

His accuser was a stolid, pudgy ex-Communist, Whittaker Chambers, then a senior editor for Time magazine. The astounding accusation, in sum, was that in the mid-Thirties, as a party courier, Chambers had known Hiss closely as a member of the Communist party. This Hiss denied under oath. The charge and the denial led to the perjury trials.

The Hiss-Chambers case was far more than a personal drama. Chambers effectively destroyed himself in order to bear witness to the implacable nature of Communist conspiracy. His book, "Witness," published by Random House in 1952, one day will be ranked among the great autobiographical works of the century. If Western freedom were a religion, and had its own hagiography, Chambers would rank high among its latter-day saints.

In seeking to establish the innocence of Hiss, The Nation's apologists, Raymond A. Werchen and Fred J. Cook, necessarily seek to defame Chambers. Their feeble effort, this time around, has chiefly to do with the purchase of a Ford automobile by Mrs. Chambers in November of 1937. A bill of sale, issued by the Schmidt Motor Company of Randallstown, Md., was offered as evidence in the June, 1949, trial. Werchen and Cook charge that the bill of sale was "fabricated."

Their reasoning strikes me as a frantic exercise in grasping at straws. Chambers' own account of the transaction, on page 39 of "Witness," conveys the same ring of truth that reverberates through the whole of Chambers' testimony (Chambers misspelled the dealer's name—it was Schmidt, not Schmitt—but the discrepancy is immaterial). The car was purchased, partly with $400 provided by Hiss, as part of Chambers' concealed plan to break with the party the following year.

The Nation's attackers make a great thing of the dates here involved. Hiss at first had denied knowing Chambers at all. Trapped by an avalanche of detailed evidence, he desperately fashioned a story that he had known Chambers for a few months under the name of "George Crosley." His "best recollection" was that he last saw Crosley "sometime in 1935. Whether it was in the fall or not I am not sure."

Chambers steadfastly insisted that he had known Hiss first in infiltration of the

Other Editors Say Play It Safe

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

The "good old summertime" is wonderful.

But, a word of CAUTION!

Four lives have been lost in Craven County this year from drownings. The most recent being two children.

Nothing said here, or anywhere, can relieve the sufferings of the loved ones left behind.

Such happenings bring sorrow to us all. They also point out the need for safety on and near the water.

All of us who enjoy the water — regardless of whether it is the ocean, the sounds or river — must be careful.

Perhaps, according to safety officials, learning to swim is one of the most important rules to follow. Even a person who can "dog paddle" may be able to stay afloat.

Another rule for all swimmers, experts and novice alike — is never swim in areas not protected by lifeguards. They are trained and skilled in their jobs. If there is no lifeguard — stay away from the water.

Fishermen and boaters should also heed the safety requirements. Boats should carry the necessary equipment and be operated in accordance with the law. The Coast Guard Auxiliary, boating clubs and other organizations offer courses in the proper handling of boats.

Those who fish and crab from piers and along the banks of sounds and ponds should also be careful. It is easy to fall from a pier or step into a hole — and drown. This is especially true if the victim is burdened with fishing gear.

One prime safety rule is to refrain from going into the water alone — or fishing alone.

In case of an accident, you will have a much better chance to survive if you have companions nearby to aid you.

This rule is often violated by young and old alike!

These suggestions, advocated by experts, are not all of the things everyone should do for their safety. There are others, based mostly on common sense, which we must observe.

Opinions In Brief

"Your tax dollars at work: two new office buildings and a parking garage in Washington, D.C. cost $133 million. A lounge for House members only: new carpet $32,000; new drapes $22,000; new chandeliers $45,000. So you can see, the war on poverty continues."—New Rockford (N.D.) Transcript.

In an effort to determine absence or presence of the Japanese Beetle in Greenville, an inspector of the United States Department of Agriculture, will carry on extensive trapping operations in the city during the next month. Approximately two hundred traps will be set in those sections of the city in which the Japanese Beetle would most likely be found if the insect has reached this locality. The inspector will then visit each trap at least twice per week to see that it is functioning properly and to determine whether any Japanese Beetles have been caught.

Strength For Today

TRUE RELIGION

Christianity is superior to all other religions because it deals with the inside of a man's life. Of course it exerts a profound influence upon his acts, which are external, but it relates every act to an inner impulse which has been vitalized and renewed by faith.

Religions other than Christianity usually put their emphasis on eternals. They emphasize conformity to certain traditional rites and customs. But Jesus made it plain that He came to change the human heart. He came not to destroy the law, but to fulfill it.

We can always detect falsity in religion by noting the extent to which it emphasizes the external and neglects the internal. If it puts first emphasis on rites and ritual, it is far from the gospel of Christ. If, on the other hand, it primarily emphasizes consecration, faith, purity, and loving service, it is a religion in accord with the ideals of Christianity, even if not specifically Christian itself. It is pointed toward the truth.

A Product Must Have Quality

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More pure energy and creativeness probably pours into America's marketing of products than into the invention and design of the products themselves. And nobody believes this more than the premium people.

Marketing men will tell you that you can no more sell a worthless product through promotion than you can produce a lily white image for a corporate polluter. But if the product has any quality, you can send it on its way.

There are, for example, instances of products that cost less to produce than the container that carries them. And there are products that sell not for their intrinsic desirability but because of the premium attached.

Selling the image and selling "something additional" have, therefore, sometimes become as important as the primary product itself, as is illustrated by this tiny tabloid summary of a cocky industry with its sights on the stars.

Premiums have been around a long, long time, hundreds of years by some calculations, but certainly from the pre-Civil War days of B. T. Babbitt, who offered a color lithograph for 25 of his soap wrappers.

Before that time premiums were handed out regularly, but generally not in a systematic way. In 18th century Louisiana, for example, the premium was lagniappe, generally a bit of candy or gum drops or a bit of shrimp.

By 1973 the industry had grown to the massive proportions of $4 billion, made up of a multitude of incentives ranging from bubble gum cards to round-the-world trips for winners of sales contests.

Trading stamps, incidentally, failed to keep pace. After growing from a pea-size $10 million in 1950 to the watermelon proportions of $900 million five years ago they slipped to under $700 million but reportedly are growing again.

Govm't Spent $423,000 On Pres. Nixon's Estate

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government says it has spent $423,000 at the request of the Secret Service for improvements at President Nixon's San Clemente estate intended to increase presidential security.

In the fullest accounting to date of federally financed work on the President's oceanside California property, officials Wednesday night listed projects ranging from a $175,000 electrical system to a $1,700 workshop renovation.

The tentative figure compiled by the General Services Administrationat White House request was about double the dollar amount of San Clemente projects disclosed in news articles during the past two weeks.

The White House also has asked the GSA to prepare a report on similar projects at the President's Key Biscayne, Fla., home. That breakdown should be available in a few days, an official said.

All of the San Clemente work, a White House spokesman said, "was at the express request of the Secret Service for security reasons."

Through Herbert Kalmbach, who was his personal attorney until recently, Nixon paid for portions of some projects such as a sewer connection, the official said.

"The GSA was scrupulous in dealing with Kalmbach ... in pro-rating what the government should pay for," he said.

Kalmbach, of Newport Beach, Calif., has been a major Nixon campaign fund-raiser and has been linked to payments to defendants in the Watergate bugging conspiracy. The White House said last month he no longer was the President's personal attorney.

Most of the work was done in the summer of 1969 as part of "Operation Sunrise," the code name for the crash effort to prepare the San Clemente estate for the first family's occupancy.

It is in addition to the $123,514 which the White House said last month the Nixons had spent personally for improvements.

Local building permit records listed about $14,000 in projects apparently paid for by the Nixons, including a $5,000 swimming pool, a $2,000 fireplace and a $7,000 kitchen renovation.

Nixon purchased the 29-acre tract in 1969 with the help of a $625,000 loan from wealthy New York industrialist Robert Abplanalp, the White House said last month.

In December 1970, it said, Nixon sold all but 5.9 acres of the tract to Abplanalp in a complex transaction which left the President with a net investment of $374,514 in the house and homesite and Abplanalp with an investment of $1.2 million for the remaining 23 acres.

Vast Fish Kill In James River

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A mammoth fish kill which resulted in the deaths of "hundreds of thousands" of fish in the James River near here has ended, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science (VIMS) says.

"It would appear to me that it is over, unless there is some unforseen foulup," Dr. Jackson Davis of VIMS said Wednesday.

Davis said lethal doses of chlorine have dissipated after apparently leaking from the Hampton Roads Sanitation District's sewage treatment plant at the mouth of the Warwick River, which empties into the James.

VIMS scientists reported that chlorine from the treatment plant was responsible for the kill, but new tests have shown that fish placed in the polluted sections of the river can survive now that the plant has altered the chlorine flow.

The State Water Control Board, however, is reluctant to seize on the VIMS explantion that clorine from the plant caused the fish kill.

A board spokesman said Wednesday that the agency "can't talk about beginning enforcement action" because its own scientists have not isolated the cause of the fish kill.

The dead fish began showing up in the river late last month, and VIMS officials traced the kill back almost to mid-May. VIMS estimated a one time that probably 10,000 fish were dying each day.

government, then in actual espionage for a much longer time. Werchen and Cook say that Chambers' original story was that "he had broken with communism in 1937 and hadn't seen the Hisses since the end of 1936." They charge that Chambers changed his story to fit the veidence later adduced.

Who is fabricating what? Werchen and Cook should examine the record. On page 671 of the House hearings, Chambers testified that he had not seen Hiss "since 1938." On page 1079, it is "about 1938." On page 1178, "I continued to know Mr. Hiss until I broke with the Communist party in early 1938, and I saw him once again toward the end of 1938." The same testimony appears at page 1190. It was Chambers who consistently told the truth; it was Hiss who consistently lied.

Hiss is now 68. He has served his time in prison. Those of us on the anti-Communist right have no desire whatever to rehash these events. But when The Nation sics a pair of hatchetmen onto the good name of Whittaker Chambers, who is dead and unable to defend his reputation, we hve noc hoice. We owe Chambers this witness ourselves.

Ayden Adopted VEPCO Rates

AYDEN — The Town Board of Commissioners adopted Virginia Electric and Power Company's (VEPCO) electric rates Monday night.

They adopted the residential, housing authority, and small and large general service summer and winter schedules. These are identical to those presently in use in Greenville and Winterville.

The new rates will be reflected in the June billing which customers will receive the first of July. They represent an approximate ten to 20 percent increase, depending upon the amount of kilowatts uded.

The residential service rates apply to separately metered and billed supply of alternating current electricity to any customer for use in and about (a) a single-family residence, flat, or apartment; (b) a combination farm and one occupied single family residence, flat, or apartment, provided farm buildings are used only seasonally; or (c) a private residence used as a boarding house with no more than one cooking installation no more than ten bedrooms.

The summer residential rates for the months of July through October will be as follows:
First 90 KWh $5.75 per KWh
Next 120 KWh $2.95 per KWh
Next 390 KWh $2.15 per Kwh
Excess over 600 Kwh $2.30 per KWh

Two changes will be in the winter rates for the months of November through June:
Next 390 KWh $1.38 per KWh
Excess over 1500 KWh $1.17 per KWh

A minimum charge of $3.00 per month was also stipulated in the residential rates.

The Town Board passed a resolution involving the paving and curb and guttering of Fifth Street, Reaves Road, High Street, and Princess Street as soon as the funds become available. A petition for street improvements on Stokes Street was accepted and a public hearing was set for July 9.

Steve Nobles, Gratz Norcott, and Fred Yorke were appointed to two-year terms on the Municipal Elections Board, effective July 1.

The Commissioners accepted the low bid of Howell Fire Apparatus Co., for a new 1,000 gallon per minute pumping engine for the Fire Department.

Other resolutions involving street paving, the Littlefield Landfield, and a Metropolitian Sewage District for Ayden, Grifton, and Winterville were passed.

In concluding the meeting, the Board of Commissioners accepted a preliminary study on the placing of electric lines underground.

'The Colonel' To Red China

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kentucky Fried Chicken's famed Colonel Sanders is planning an "invasion" of Mainland China aimed at importing Chinese fryers to tempt palates in Hong Kong.

Stuart D. Watson, president and chief executive officer of Heublein Inc., KFC's parent firm, said Wednesday that negotiations are almost complete with Chinese officials to buy chickens to fry and sell through the Hong Kong store which is to open later this year.

Watson said KFC is the main force in Heublein's International Group formed last year and currently Colonel Sanders' goateed, string-tied, kindly face smiles down on customers at 570 outlets dotting the globe from Japan to South Africa.

He said the International Group was formed to establish new markets for Heublein acquisitions that also include Smirnoff vodka and United Vintners' wines.

Await Setting Hearing Date

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Insurance Commissioner John Ingram is expected to announce a hearing date soon on a proposed average increase of 18.4 per cent in the overall level of workmen's compensation insurance rates.

The request for an increase was filed Wednesday by the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina on behalf of 227 insurance companies licensed to write this form of coverage in the state. The bureau proposed that the increase become effective July 1.

Workmen's compensation insurance is purchased by employers and provides benefits to workers injured in industrial accidents.

The proposed rate level increase was brought about by two factors, according to Paul Mize, general manager of the rating bureau. He cited increases in benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act enacted by the General Assembly to become effective July 1.

The other factor was a revision May 1 of the North Carolina Industrial Commission medical, dental, nursing and hospital fee schedules which govern fees for services rendered to patients under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The Bahama Islands consist of 3,000 islands, cays and rocks rising in the Atlantic Ocean 70 miles off Palm Beach, Fla. and stretching southeast for 600 miles.

"We hope to complete necessary action to send bid requests out to three reputable firms within the next week or two," Lee said, "and when the bids are received we will carry this back to the City Council for their consideration."

Wednesday night's meeting was the annual dinner-meeting of the Greenville Recreation Commission. In addition to commissioners, guests attending included wives and husbands of commissioners and Recreation Department personnel.

Also present were City Council members Dr. Frank Fuller, Clarence Gray, and Mrs. Mildred McGrath and their wives and husband.

May Run Short Of Curing Fuel

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Oil Jobbers Association said today fuel for curing tobacco may run short this summer.

M. W. Stancil of Selma, president of the association, said in a statement that a recent survey indicated the state "could be several million gallons short in respect to heating oil for tobacco curing."

"We are quite alarmed over the fact that certain oil wholesalers have no prospects for fuel and their customers could suffer," he said.

Swamped With Ticket Orders

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The promoter of two performances by Elvis Presley here July 1 is returning almost $300,000 in mail order ticket requests.

Lon Vanrell of Varnell Enterprises, Inc., said a total of 19,202 seats were available for Presley's shows. He said word of Presley's forthcoming appearance in Nashville leaked out May 12 before any tickets had been printed. Within three days, he said, he had enough mail order requests to swallow up the available seats.

Some requests came from as far away as California, he said.

Telephone calls about tickets, he said, "are driving me up the wall."

CONTRACT SETTLEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—A settlement was reached shortly after 6 a.m. today in contract negotiations between National Airlines and its clerks and booking agents.

Get Contract On Emissions Study

RALEIGH (AP)—The Environmental Protection Agency said today it has awarded a $111,955 research contract to Calspan Corp. for a one-year study of the effect of fuels and additives on auto exhaust emissions.

EPA project officer William Conner said the agency was studying such additives as gasoline detergents, smoke suppressors and antiknock compounds to determine what emission mixtures they produce.

Opening lead: Eight of ◇

Last June in Miami Beach, Italy's renowned Blue Team emerged from a two-year retirement to defend successfully the World Bridge Olympiad title which they had won in 1968. They defeated the United States in the final round.

Today's hand is taken from one of the qualifying rounds. The Americans suffered a substantial setback to the Netherlands that was swelled thru an incautious double.

The bidding in the diagram occurred at the table where the Dutch players were seated North and South. North held the bare minimum requirements for his opening bid of one diamond — 13 points and two defensive tricks. South's hand was worth 19 points. However, any ambitions he had for bigger things diminished when his partner simply rebid diamonds each time, and he finally settled for a modest game project by bidding three no trump.

The United States player, seated East, doubled the final contract which is a conventional call requesting the lead of dummy's first bid suit. While East's diamond holding is impressive, he lacks outside values — and the auction strongly suggests that West is short in North's suit and may be able to lead diamonds only one time. South, who held considerable in reserve for his previous calls, redoubled.

West opened the eight of diamonds, the three was played from dummy and East won the trick with the ten. The shift was to a heart and declarer was in with the queen. The ace of clubs was cashed, followed by the jack and West put up the king, on which North discarded a diamond. The jack of hearts was returned and South was in again with the king.

Declarer cashed the queen of clubs, but when East showed out — discarding the jack of diamonds — there were only eight top tricks available: three clubs, three hearts and two spades. A spade was led to the king, the ace of hearts was played, on which South shed the three of clubs and a small spade was continued. East played the six and declarer finessed the jack. When this held, he cashed the ace of spades and the ten of clubs and cheerfully conceded the balance, since he had nine tricks in. His profit on the deal was 950 points — 450 for the trick score and 500 bonus for a vulnerable game.

At the other table the United States reached a contract of four spades with the North-South cards. The jack of hearts was led by West and when the dummy was spread, declarer observed that he had four top tricks in hearts and clubs, and he resolved to score the remaining six via a cross-ruff.

After winning the opening lead with the king of hearts, South cashed the queen and then played the ace of clubs and ruffed a small club with the eight of spades. On the ace of hearts, he sluffed his lone diamond and then trumped a diamond with the deuce of spades.

A club was ruffed with the king of trumps, but when a diamond was returned and trumped with the four of spades, West overtrumped with the seven, cashed the king of clubs and then gave his partner a club ruff — to complete the defensive book. East retained the queen-nine of spades and eventually scored the setting trick in that suit.

The 100 point profit scored by the Dutch for defeating four spades, added to the 950 point total accrued by their teammates at the other table netted a swing of 1,050 on the deal to the Netherlands — sufficient for them to triumph over the United States in the match.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 15, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's full moon requires you to use much caution in order to avoid a difficult situation from the past. By using good judgment the matter can easily be resolved. Otherwise, you could flounder more and increase the problem.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep calm and don't permit anyone to rush you into anything or cause you to act unwisely. Avoid an overly talkative person who has an eye on your assets. Show that you have wisdom.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't jump into a new activity that looks good but isn't or you could get into trouble at this time. Listen to what a respected adviser has to suggest. Don't lose temper with kin.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show that you are conscientious in keeping promises you have made to others and make a good impression on them. Engage in civic work you want to do. Show that are a good citizen.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure that you conduct your work in a most precise fashion so that you gain the greatest benefits. Plan how to have improved health in the future. Consult the right people.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to enjoy yourself at any cost, but it's better you do important work first and then stay within your budget. Being extravagant brings the disfavor of mate. Think logically.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to argue at home or it could result in an unhappy experience. Improve your surroundings and make necessary repairs in the home. Strive for more harmony with kin. Keep calm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to exercise extreme care in motion of any kind today or you could suffer damages and loss of money. Care in speech is also important. Try not to criticize others at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It isn't money that will help a situation that is bothering you now, so do what is right from a moral standpoint. Postpone seeing an adviser until a better day. Take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You feel so discontented that you want to lash out at others, but use diplomacy instead and get better results. Improve your appearance and make an excellent impression on others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It is wise to control yourself instead of giving in to influences that want you to act erratically. A willingness to give a friend a helping hand is right. Stay within your budget.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Just because you are feeling excited is no reason why you should become involved in a quarrel with another. Relax and show courtesy for best results. Consult a business expert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Higher-ups are under some sort of pressure and you should show them loyalty now instead of acting irate. Make sure you don't take any risks now or you could regret it later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people with a great deal of energy which should be channeled in the right directions early in life. Make sure that foreign languages are added to the course of education, since there will be much travel during lifetime, in connection with life's work. Give spirtual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Price Freeze Questions And Answers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some key questions and answers about President Nixon's new price freeze announced in a nationwide television and radio broadcast Wednesday night:

Q. How long will the freeze last?

A. For up to 60 days, but it could be cut short if the Nixon administration is ready to put in a new mandatory system of wage-price controls.

Q. Are prices of everything sold in stores covered by the freeze?

A. The answer is yes. There are no exemptions at the retail level, and none at the wholesale level. The only exception is at the farm level. Raw agricultural commodities sold by farmers are exempt. But after the first sale, the freeze takes effect.

Q. Won't these squeeze the middleman if the farmer receives a higher price for his product, but the wholesaler and retailer finds his prices frozen?

A. It could, but the administration believes its efforts to increase food supplies will tend to hold prices down and prevent this from happening.

Q. How is the administration trying to increase supplies?

A. It has taken a number of actions already, but Nixon announced he plans to put export controls on feed grains, such as wheat, barley, and rye, effective Thursday, if Congress gives him the power.

Q. How would export controls step up supplies of food?

A. They would hold down the amount of such grain exported overseas, and increase supplies here. The administration said the freeze wouldn't work very well if it fails to get the authority to control exports.

Q. Will export controls apply to meat?

A. No, not yet, but the administration is holding open that possibility should there be a sudden surge in meat exports.

Q. How can the government limit exports if it doesn't have the power yet?

A. First, it is requiring exporters to make reports to the Commerce Department, beginning Thursday, on any new contracts involving export of grain.

Second, the bill going to Congress would seek to cover those contracts.

Q. At what leel does the President's action freeze prices?

A. Basically, at the levels that existed during the week of June 1-8.

Q. What agency will enforce the freeze?

A. The Internal Revenue Service, with 2,000 agents.

Q. Can any company apply for an exemption?

A. Yes, but the government says there will be few granted.

Q. Are wages, interest rates and dividends covered?

A. No. But wages continue under the current Phase 3 economic guidelines. These call basically for wages to be held to 5.5 per cent.

Q. Why didn't Nixon freeze wages?

A He said there was no need to. They have on the average, stayed within the guideline.

Q. Is the administration planning to do anything about profits?

A. Yes, it plans a "profit sweep," a check by the Internal Revenue Service to find out if companies are keeping within the profit restraints of Phase 3, the largely voluntary program for controlling wages and prices.

Q. What happens after the freeze is over?

A. The administration says it will go to a tough, new system of mandatory wage-price controls. It will be called Phase 4. According to Treasury Secretary George p. Shultz, it could be tougher than the mandatory wage-price system known as Phase 2.

Q. Where can consumers go if they have questions about the freeze?

A. Call local IRS offices. According to the Cost of Living Council, they will be ready for "freeze operations" on June 15, 1973. It is also the place to take a complaint if a violation is suspected.

Q. Do stores have to post freeze prices?

A. According to Nixon's executive order, each seller must prepare a list of all freeze prices for all commodities and services and "shall maintain a copy of that list available for public inspection, during normal business hours, at each place of business where such commodities or services are offered for sale." There may be a posting requirement later, but now stores only have to keep lists on hand.

Rocky Mount Two-Hits Greenville, 4-0

Rocky Mount's Larry Daughtridge handcuffed Greenville's American Legion with two hits last night as the Rocky Mount team took a 4-0 victory and pulled into a tie for second place with Greenville.

Both teams trail unbeaten Snow Hill with 2-1 records.

The contest was a pitching duel between Daughtridge and Greenville's Randy Potter. Rocky Mount pushed over a run against him in the second, then erupted for the remaining three in the final two innings.

Greenville, meanwhile had only four scoring oppportunities during the night and only one batter reached as far as third base.

Daughtridge fanned nine on the way to the victory, but didn't have perfect control as he walked six.

Potter, in his eight and third innings of work scattered six hits, two of them for extra bases, while walking five and striking out eight. Vic Corey came on in relief in the top of the ninth, getting the final two batters on a strikeout and a popup.

Greenville offered the first threat in the game, putting a man on second in the opening frame. With two down, Bill Lee walked and took second on a passed ball. But an infield out ended the threat.

Rocky Mount then pushed over its first run in the top of the second. With one away, Tandy Warrick singled. Terry Leonard followed with a hit and Jim Lewis reached when his fly to right was errored. Leonard was cut down, however, as he overran second, as Warrick moved on to third. Hilton Sykes then singled, driving in Warrick for the 1-0 lead.

It stayed that way until the eighth inning. Rocky Mount did have a couple of chances in the meantime, however.

In the fifth, with two down, Ray Davis walked and stole second, only to die there. In the seventh, Leonard lead off with a walk and advanced on a passed ball, but got no further as he watched the next three go down without moving him.

Greenville had another chance in the second. Jerry Griffin led off with a walk and Potter sacrificed him up. Both a strikeout and an infield grounder ended it.

In the fifth, Griffin walked again, this time with one down, and was again sacrificed up. Duncan Charlton also walked, but another infield out ended that one too.

Rocky Mount pushed over its second run in the eighth inning. With one away, Tommy Warrick walked. Tommy Crocker followed with a single and Sonny Wooten boomed out a double, easily scoring Warrick. Potter came back to get the side out without further damage.

Greenville's best threat came in the eighth when their only runner reached third. Charlton led off with a single and took second on a passed ball. Johnny Barwick walked and both were sacrificed up by Lee. A fly ball and an infield out again stopped Greenville, and that was it for them.

Rocky Mount added two more in the ninth. Jim Lewis walked, and after being sacrificed up, watched Daughtridge reach on an error. Ray Davis then lined a shot up the alley in right center, as both runners came around. Davis ended up on third with a triple. Corey then came on to retire the side and keep Davis stranded.

Greenville will play host to Wilson tonight at 8 p.m. in another Area I game.

ROCKINGHAM, N.C (AP)— A judge refused Wednesday to order Little League baseball to let a girl play with a team at Monroe, N.C.

So Who Needs Designated Hitters?

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League, the only major baseball league in the universe without designated hitters, got down to basics Wednesday night and proved why there are no additives or artificial ingredients in its product.

—The St. Louis Cardinals' Rick Wise came within two outs of pitching a no-hitter.

—The Atlanta Braves' Darrell Evans continued a streak which gave him 19 straight plate appearances without an official out.

—The Montreal Expos pulled off a triple play.

—The Atlanta Braves scored 18 runs.

—The Philadelphia Phillies scored 16 runs.

Not bad for a league that thinks DH means double header, eh?

And in the National League, St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 8-0; Atlanta embarrassed Pittsburgh 18-3; Montreal edged San Diego 3-2; Philadelphia punished Los Angeles 16-3; New York beat San Francisco 3-1 and Houston defeated Chicago 6-1.

The scores in the American League were: Kansas City 2, Baltimore 0; Texas 4, Cleveland 2; Chicago 10, Detroit 2; Milwaukee 3, Minnesota 2; California 7, Boston 5 and New York 8, Oakland 3.

"By the way Luis, nice hit," Joe Torre joked to Luis Melendez, who hit a grand slam homer, but was lost in the shuffle because of Wise's no-hit bid. "You just picked the wrong night." So did the Cincinnati Reds, who were handcuffed by the Cardinal right-hander all night. Joe Morgan's sharp single up the middle with one down in the ninth was Cincinnati's offense for the evening.

Evans' 14th homer of the season highlighted a six-run fourth which erased a 3-2 Pittsburgh lead and Atlanta went on to collect a total of 17 hits and the victory.

The Phillies also built up their batting averages as every starter except Cesar Tovar hit safely. The Phils rolled sixes in each of the first two innings and coasted to an easy victory over the Dodgers.

The hockey fans in Montreal might have called it a hat trick, but in baseball parlance, it's known as a triple play. The Expos made their contribution to conserving energy when they recorded all the necessary outs in one inning on the same play during their victory over the Padres.

Felix Millan of the Mets celebrated the one-year anniversary of his last home run with another one to help Tom Seaver record his eighth victory.

Ironically, the homer Millan hit last June 13th came off Seaver when the Met second baseman was playing for the Braves.

Houston Manager Leo Durocher got a measure of revenge over the team which fired him last season as Don Wilson and Jim Ray combined to six-hit the Cubs. Cesar Cedeno belted a two-run homer.

Graniteers In Rally To Win

The Graniteers rallied in the final two frames to take a 10-8 victory over the Moose yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League. The victory dropped the Moose down into the basement of the league with the Graniteers. They share 3-8 records.

The Moose started the scoring in the first inning. Mitch Meeks walked and moved up when David Carroll reached on a fielder's choice. Leslie Robinson also was safe on a fielder's choice that got Carroll at second. Scott Peele singled in both Meeks and Robinson, who had taken second on a passed ball. Peele stole second and Danny Wood singled. An error allowed Peele to score, making it 3-0.

The Graniteers came up with two in the second. Mike Tucker and Jamie Byrd both walked, as did Art Pittman. A wild pitch scored Tucker. Greg Toler also walked and Micah Dixon singled, scoring Byrd.

In the third, the Moose picked up three more runs. Paul Lemmond reached on an error and Asheley Taylor singled. Meeks singled in Lemmond and Carroll doubled to score both Taylor and Meeks.

In the fourth, the Moose came up with two more. Peele singled and moved to second on an out. Lemmond singled and an error let Peele come around. Jason Garris walked and Taylor singled in Lemmond to make it 8-2 for the Moose.

But in the fifth, the Graniteers came up with six runs to tie it. Mike James singled and Tucker reached on an error. Wade Dean walked, as did Wayne Stokes, forcing in James. H. L. Austin singled in both Tucker and Dean, and Dixon singled to score Stokes and Austin. Dixon came over on an error after Garrett Young singled.

The final two that meant the difference came in the sixth. James walked and Stokes doubled. Henry Wooten singled both in with the winning runs.

Tryouts Are Set

The Kansas City Royals and the Cincinnati Reds will be holding tryout camps in the area on Saturday.

The Royals will hold their tryout camp at 10 a.m. at Guy Smith Stadium, under the supervision of John Holt.

The Reds camp will be held from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Greene Central High School, near Snow Hill, under the direction of Bill Jamieson and James Fulghum.

Players wishing to try out are requested to furnish their own personal gear, such as shoes, uniforms and gloves. Balls and bats will be furnished.

CARDS TO FINISH YEAR

The St. Louis Cardinals scored five runs in the first two innings with Bob Gibson pitching. But the Pirates got five runs in the eighth and won their opener, 7-5.

The Cardinals lost three games in Pittsburgh but Brock says: "We held a team meeting and voted to finish out the season."

Brewers Win To Move Into 2nd

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Brewers used to live in the cellar but now find themselves in the penthouse.

Long an American League doormat, the Brewers have discovered room at the top in the East division.

"We've proven we can play with all the clubs in both divisions," said Johnny Briggs after the upstart Brewers nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3 Wednesday night for their sixth straight victory and 11th in 12 games.

The triumph put Milwaukee into a tie for second place with the Detroit Tigers, just a half-game off the New York Yankees' East-leading pace.

In the other American League games, the Texas Rangers whipped the Cleveland Indians 4-2; the Kansas City Royals blanked the Baltimore Orioles 2-0; the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 10-2; the California Angels downed the Boston Red Sox 7-5 and the New York Yankees belted the Oakland A's 8-3.

National League scores: Philadelphia 16, Los Angeles 3; Montreal 3, San Diego 2; New York 3, San Francisco 1; Atlanta 18, Pittsburgh 3; St. Louis 8, Cincinnati 0 and Houston 6, Chicago 1.

Jim Spencer and Toby Harrah each hit home runs and Spencer drove in another run with a single to lead Texas over Cleveland and Gaylord Perry.

Cleveland Manager Ken Aspromonte, noting Perry's unimpressive 6-7 record, said: "I'm not worried about Perry. He has been in slumps before and has worked out of them."

Lou Piniella knocked in two runs with a double in the eighth inning and Dick Drago scattered eight hits to pace Kansas City over Baltimore.

Chicago belted four home runs, including a three-run shot, to overwhelm Detroit.

Frank Robinson's base-loaded double keyed a four-run rally in the second that helped California beat boston.

Fritz Peterson and Sparky Lyle combined on a nine-hitter, leading New York over Oakland.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets' catcher Jerry Grote had the cast removed from a fractured right wrist Wednesday and was advised by Dr. Peter Lamotte, club physician, that he would be required to keep the wrist in a splint for a few more weeks.

He will also begin daily whirlpool treatments.

Grote's wrist was fractured May 11 in Pittsburgh when he was hit with a pitch thrown by the Pirates' Ramon Hernandez.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Spartans of the American Soccer League announced the signing of three players Wednesday.

Signed were former All-American halfback at St. Joseph's College Ed Blaney, and two players from last season, halfback Jorge Pulita of Argentina and fullback Bob Hunter of West Chester State College.

The Spartans, who led the league's Mid-Atlantic Conference last season, have a record of 1-0 this year.

Southern California Captures Baseball Title For 4th Straight

By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Baseball dynasties aren't dead, just ask Arizona State.

The top-rated collegiate team suffered a 4-3 loss Wednesday night to Southern California and for the fourth straight year the Trojans carted home the national collegiate baseball crown.

"We were young and scrappy, but we said we could play with anybody." said usc coach Rod Dedeaux. "And that's the way we won it. We scrapped."

Southern California, 51-11, didn't wow anyone with hitting, but won the College World Series in its typical methodical manner—with good defense and by taking advantage of the breaks.

"Throughout the game, whenever it seemed we might be able to score a few runs, or break out, they came up with the super defensive play," said Arizona Coach Jim Brock.

"They had at least five super defensive plays," he continued. "Their defensive play throughout the game proved to be the difference."

And an end of Southern California dominance isn't in sight.

"We wanted this title very badly," continued Dedeaux, who has coached eight of the nine Trojans title clubs.

Final containment came from the arm of sophomore Jeff Reinke, who threw no-hit ball over the final three and two-thirds innings to save the victory for Mark Barr.

Reinke, a sophomore who is at USC on a basketball scholarship, typifies what college teams have to contend with when they face the Trojans.

He didn't have a mound decision all year, but when called upon in a crucial situation produced.

Reinke pitched out of a two-on, one-out jam in the sixth by allowing only a run on a wild pitch and got the final 11 outs without permitting a base runner.

Southern California scored twice in the first on a double by Roy Smalley, Ken Bowman's single, an error and Ken Huizenga's single and added two in the third on consecutive doubles by Bowman and Huizenga and an error by Sun Devil relief pitcher Doug Slocum.

Arizona State, which finished No. 2 for a second straight year after coming to the double-elimination classic top-ranked, scored two runs in the fourth and one in the sixth before Reinke shut the door.

If Arizona State had won, the series would have gone to a climatic 15th game.

USC became the seventh team in the 27-year history of the eight-team classic to capture the crown without a loss. The others: California (1947 and 1957), Texas (1949), Oklahoma (1951) and Southern California (1961 and 1968).

The total six-day attendance of 65,356 was the fourth best in the 24 years the classic has been played in Omaha and was record for a 14 game series. The final night crowd was 12,050—sixth largest ever.

U.S. Imports Are Costing More Due Devaluation

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — While dollar devaluation shows signs of success abroad, American consumers are feeling the pinch of higher-priced foreign goods.

A survey shows prices of imported goods have gone up on everything from artichoke hearts to automobiles as a result of the 10 per cent devaluation in February.

"Right now devaluation is correctly perceived as a negative thing because it's a major factor in the horrendous inflation we have," said William Wolman, an economist with Argus Research Corp.

The aim of devaluation was to reduce this country's $6.8-billion trade deficit — the difference between our imports and exports — by lessening the value of the dollar against other currencies.

The idea was to increase American exports by making them less costly and thus more competitive overseas, and to slow imports by making them more expensive in the U.S. market. That was the same idea behind the first devaluation in 1971.

The time lag between adoption of such a program and observable effects is generally six months to two years. It's expected that consumers will feel the impact of higher-priced imports almost immediately, but positive effects such as higher employment that arise from boosting exports sometimes take longer.

"In their role as consumers, Americans have been hurt by devaluation," said Wolman. "But they're going to benefit in their role as wage earners, although it will probably take until next year before this becomes apparent."

Government figures suggest the devaluation program is finally working, at least as far as the nation as a whole is concerned. The United States achieved its first trade surplus in 1½ years during April, with merchandise exports exceeding imports by a seasonally adjusted $196.3 million.

Some economists dismiss the April figures as illusory and say much of the gain was due to the increased dollar value of major export items such as chemicals, rather than increased sales volume.

Some observers maintain steeper price tags won't deter a large segment of the purchasing public.

"Highly affluent buyers with discriminating taste aren't going to be diverted from what they want," said Arthur Freedman, professor at the Wharton School of Finance. "They'll still purchase Jaguars, caviar, French wine and audio equipment, even if they do cost more."

Economists speculate however, that devaluation will hurt sales of passenger cars, this country's principal import item with a total value of some $5.7 billion.

The foreign car manufacturers say it's too early to predict the outcome because many dealers are still selling cars in inventory at their old prices.

Sales are up right now, reflecting the big rush by buyers to beat devaluation price increases, but German and Japanese car makers expect 1973 volume to only equal 1972 levels.

Even a drop in passenger car imports, while helpful to Detroit, appears likely to be counterbalanced by the nation's increasing need for foreign fuel.

Petroleum and its byproducts, with a value of $4.3 billion, are this country's biggest import item. "They're going to be a basic problem in correcting our balence of payments," said one economist.

Electronic products are another area where devaluation could hit hard. Most merchandise comes from Japan where upward revaluation of the yen made export prices climb even more steeply than other places.

Food and drink is another area where consumers will feel a pinch.

"Prices have gone up on everything from anchovies to nuts," said David Jawitz, president of Camerican International a processed food importer. The increases range from 3-4 per cent on some staples to 10 per cent on items such as tomatoes and pineapples, which have had poor worldwide yield.

"But we're selling a lot more cheese, perhaps because there's been so much publicity about how much meat costs these days," said part owner Larry Klein.

Wine prices have risen sharply too. Schieffelin, a major importer, says costs have risen 10-30 per cent with the biggest jumps in some premium French and German wines where demand is great but the crop is small.

But there are some relative bargains, including Scotch whisky, Polish vodka, Jamaican rum and Spanish, Greek and Israeli wines. These items have gone up only a few cents a bottle at most because the producing countries revalued their currency at a smaller upward rate than Japan or the Common Market bloc.

A Better Way Than The Pill

Mae argues that it is better to give her teen-age daughter the "Pill" than to have her come home pregnant from a dance. But that's the "Either-Or" fallacy in logic. Smart girls use a secret tattoo to hold men, without sexual affairs!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE X-533: Mae D., aged 38, defends her giving the "Pill" to her 16-year-old daughter.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "I'd much rather my daughter used the 'Pill' than that she come home from a dance as a pregnant teen-ager.

"So why do you attack us modern mothers for supplying such contraceptive devices to our high school daughters?"

Either-Or-Fallacy

Mae illustrates one of the "10 Fallacies in Logic," as explained in the booklet below.

For she seems to think her daugher's behavior must be of the "Either-Or' type.

Either she will get pregnant.

Or she must use the "Pill."

But this "Either-Or" fallacy precludes a third course of action.

Modern girls don't need to submit to sexual exploration by their callow high school or college escorts.

They can remain popular, win fraternity pins or engagment rings, and gain an adoring husband without indulging in sex with any or every boy friend who dates them

How?

By realizing that everybody has this vital tatto indeliby stamped on his chest at the moment of birth:

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

Promiscuously bending the will of girls to the point of sexual affairs, inflates the ego of the boy.

It thus makes him feel important, at least for the moment.

But meanwhile he tends to lose respect for his paramour so she is reduced in ther prestige.

That's why such a boy will likely "ditch" her when he gets ready to propose marriage.

For a man wishes to pick a wife whom he can respect.

Any smart girl can inflate her escort's ego far more by her tactful verbal compliments and attractive smile, than by selling out to every Tom, Dick and Harry escort.

They are afraid of losing their temporary boy friend, unless they give in to him 100 percent.

Girls are notoriously poor gamblers.

If a boy threatens to jilt them unless they submit to sexual exploration, they often succumb.

Like Biblical Esau, they don't look ahead to future implications.

Indeed, many of them soon lose the very escorts they tried to "bribe" via sex, for the latter run away if the girl gets pregnant.

Or such boys discard the girls who are "easy marks" to pursue those who hold them at arms length, but still inflate their desire to feel important by means of verbal praise.

Despite Women's Libbers to the contrary, women are poorer gamblers than are men!

So they "give in" to their escorts, using sex as "bait" or a "bribe" in their frantic fear they will be deserted.

But experienced males don't get hooked thereby, for they know that if they pour on their fervid protests of "true love," the girl will easily submit, even without a wedding ceremony.

You parents are derelict in failing to teach your daughters the pros and cons of masculine psychology, so have them read this column daily!

Send for my booklet, "Common Fallacies in Logic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Whether in for a night or for several months, patients in Danish state-run hospitals are not allowed to slip into nightgowns or pajamas brought from home. They have to wear those long-hemmed, white cotton, open-backed outfits.

Suggests World Citizen Status

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, has proposed establishment of a world citizenship.

To qualify for such citizenship, Father Hesburgh told Harvard University alumni Wednesday, an applicant would have to "certify his or her belief in the unity of mankind, in the equal dignity of every human being."

Father Hesburg said an international agency granting the world citizenship should also require that the person show a willingness to work for world peace.
