Four Agreements With Soviet Union Are Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev witnessed today the signing of four bilateral cooperative agreements, then steered their summit talks onto the thorny issue of trade.

Before they began their second day of face-to-face talks, the two leaders traveled separately to the State Department to watch as Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko signed the accords on transportation, oceanographics, agriculture and cultural exchanges.

The accords were reached on a lower level in the weeks before Nixon and Brezhnev convened Monday for their second set of summit talks in 13 months.

Even as arrangements were made for the State Department signing ceremony, the Senate Watergate Committee moved to eliminate the spectre of the event being overshadowed by the testimony of fired White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

party that "I am certain that I'm going to leave here (the United States) in a very good mood."

He described the first round of talks as "very friendly. I was very happy."

Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger commented on the first day's talks by saying, "I think we're doing well. It was a good atmosphere. I think the talks are going in a very constructive way."

One indication of the rapport apparently established between the two leaders came at the conclusion of the dinner party. They agreed to delay for one hour the start of Tuesday's meetings to get some rest. Nixon pointed out that it was 7 a.m. in Moscow when the party broke up.

In addition, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said an agriculture accord would be signed in addition to three previously planned agreements.

Today's talks focus on the Soviet desire for what a Kremlin spokesman called "the large-scale and long-range economic relations."

Congress looms as a potential stumbling block to increased U.S.-Soviet trade. The Soviets' interest in overcoming legislative opposition was evident in Brezhnev's invitation to members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to have lunch with him at the Blair House today.

Two Men Aboard Research Minisub Declared Dead

By CINDY ROSE
Associated Press Writer
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Rescuers decompressing two men in a chamber of a midget submarine that was trapped underwater for 31 hours said today the men were dead.

Rear Adm. John Maurer, commander of the Key West Navy base, said "We have received word from the Sea Diver (the minisub's mother ship) that the two men in the rear compartment are in fact dead."

The two men, Clayton Link, 31, son of the submarine's inventor, Edwin Link, and Albert Stover, 51, a veteran diver and submarine pilot, had been unconscious since 2:30 a.m. EDT Monday and breathing sounds had not been heard from the chamber since 8 a.m. that day.

the wreck of a destroyer that trapped it in 351 feet of water. The sub became ensnared 15 miles southeast of Key West Sunday and was trapped for 48 hours.

Two men in the forward chamber of the sub were pronounced "100 per cent fit" shortly after the craft was freed. They were Robert Meek, 27, and Archibald "Jock" Menzies, 30.

Link and Stover did not respond to radio calls after 2:30 a.m. Monday and breathing sounds in the chamber were last heard about six hours later, when it was feared carbon dioxide had reached toxic levels.

Clayton Link is the son of millionaire inventor Edwin A. Link, 69, who is aboard Sea Diver. Menzies, of Vero Beach, Fla., served as the minisub's pilot commander. Stover is a submarine pilot and veteran diver from Juno Beach, Fla., and Meek is a marine biologist from Santa Barbara, Calif.

Earlier, a Navy officer aboard the Tringa had reported that all four men aboard the Sea Link were definitely alive.

The Sea Link was snared Sunday morning in cables on a scuttled World War II destroyer, the Fred T. Berry, at a depth of 351 feet.

The minisub was under contract to the Smithsonian Institution to study marine life around the Berry, scuttled to create an artificial reef.

After nine unsuccessful attempts to free the Sea Link, rescuers on the Tringa ripped away the cables which trapped the Sea Link. A giant grappling hook was guided into position by an underwater television camera controlled from the commercial research ship A.B. Wood.

Once freed, the Sea Link popped to the surface on its own buoyancy tanks.

Earlier attempts at rescue by divers and other minisubs had been foiled by strong underwater currents.

While Link's father and wife waited aboard the Sea Diver, the wives of Meek and Menzies arrived from California and flew by helicopter to the Tringa for a reunion with their husbands.

Mrs. Stover was secluded in a Key West motel.

None of the wives would talk to newsmen.

Observers aboard the Sea Diver said the senior Link, who built the minisub in his backyard, paced the deck and relayed instructions to other rescuers during the efforts to raise the Sea Link.

"He's a tough old man," an observer said.

Difficult Decisions Put Off By City School Bd.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Decisions in the future on complicated issues was the general trend of action by the Greenville City School Board at its June meeting on Monday night.

In this connection, a special call meeting has been scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 23, to reach a board decision on a Local Educational Agency (LEA) application for state aid for occupational education.

A prepared paper, presented by Mrs. Audrey M. Whitehurst, Director of Secondary Education, did not receive adoption at last night's monthly meeting. The consensus of board members is that the plan, which provides background information for application for state aid for fiscal year 1974, requires more study before attempting a decision to adopt or not adopt.

Mrs. Whitehurst explained that although the long-range plan for occupational education embodies a six-year span, adoption was legally binding for one year only. She also noted the application form had to be submitted by June 30. Because of the board members' wish to study the plan more fully and yet take action prior to the June 30 deadline, a motion was approved to adjourn discussion and to place the matter as the single item of official business on the agenda of a special call meeting on June 25. Following the special call meeting, the board will go into a workshop session to study several additional lengthy items.

One of the workshop items will be further consideration of educational specifications for the proposed new middle-junior high school long-range plans. Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox gave an informal report on data accumulated to date on three specific areas of planning—in arts, fine arts, industrial and vocational arts; the academic field; and special activities.

Superintendent Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, saying he was speaking from a lame-duck viewpoint, said original long-range plans had been for a commitment to equal middle-junior high schools. He mentioned that a newer concept of one school with grades six and seven and another for grades eight and nine, does have an impact on planning. I can envision a tremendous difference in the impact of a six-seven, eight-nine plan as opposed to one of two schools each of grades six through nine.

"The direction of the plan (PERT) has been geared to the assumption of a grade six through nine concept," Dr. Cleetwood said. "If you are going to explore a new direction, you are right in setting a time and place for a workshop so that you can work to move ahead toward a design for the new school."

At the June 23 workshop, Cox will provide school board members with additional planning information on the educational specifications phase of the over-all development plan for the proposed new school.

On the acquisition of the contested site for the proposed new school (the 30 acre Evans property off Hooker Road), board chairman Dr. Badger Clark gave a brief report saying "there's been no change for the last 30 days, every thing is basically the same. The price has been set, and when the statute of limitation runs out the land will be conveyed and paid for unless new developments arise."

Another unresolved matter is the selection of a new superintendent. Following a closed half hour session, chairman Dr. Clark announced "the board Selection Committee has been working diligently. As soon as possible an announcement will be made, and should be made within the next several weeks or so."

Later Dr. Clark requested and approval was given to appoint Associate Superintendent Glenn Cox as acting superintendent with authority to sign checks for the school system.

A paper presented dealing with "Standards, Policies and Guidelines for Implementation of Kindergarten-Early Childhood Education in North Carolina" resulted in board approval for the school administration to accept $47,500 in funds to begin a kindergarten program.

Board members, however, expressed concern on the plan that will involve "five-year olds as an integral part of (an)... educational program for young children, ages five to eight."

Approval to accept funds followed an explanation that any system not voting to accept the state funds as allocated by the State Board of Education (adopted June 1) would not be eligible for Title I funds to continue current kindergarten operations. (Title I funds currently provide for the kindergarten at Agnes Fullilove, a program involving about 200 kindergarten children). The $47,500 in funds voted for acceptance will be to establish three additional classes not exceeding a total of 69 students.

Board members have asked Cox to secure and furnish them more information on the State Board of Education's specific plans for proposed grouping in the five to eight multi-age group. The board also must make plans for the location within existing schools of any new kindergarten program.

In a report on status of federal funding, Federal Funds Director Charles Dickens informed that an application grant for Emergency School Assistance Act (ESAA) funds had been submitted. "We have no assurances on these funds," (Continued on page 6)

A Navy spokesman said the 21-foot Johnson-Sea Link minisub was being brought to Key West by the Sea Diver and that the hatch on the sub's rear compartment had not yet been opened. The spokesman said he did not know how it was determined that the men were dead.

"I assume the doctors had declared them dead," the spokesman added.

Maurer received word that the men were dead about 10:25 a.m. EDT, some 15 hours after the submarine was freed from

Planners Meet On Wednesday

The Pitt County Planning Board will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Law Library in the Pitt County Court House.

Planning board members will hear a report on solid waste disposal in the county and discuss the Forbes Mobile Home Park and Cherry Oaks Subdivision.

Final Version

A final version of the 1973-74 school calendar was adopted by the Greenville School board at the June meeting Monday night. The variation from the earlier adopted calendar was necessary due to a state ruling that teachers are to receive legal holidays observed in the state, and will have one and one-quarter days of annual leave per school month.

The adopted calendar schedule is:

- August 28—Pupil orientation day.
- August 29—First full day of school.
- September 3—Holiday, Labor Day.
- October 23—Student holiday - District No. 15 NCAE meeting.
- October 29—Student holiday - Teacher workday.
- November 22-23—Holiday, Thanksgiving, and holiday in lieu of Veteran's Day.
- December 17-January 1—Winter leave, Christmas and New Year holidays.
- January 25—Student holiday - teacher workday.
- April 11-17—Spring leave, holidays (Easter and holiday in lieu of Memorial Day,) and student holidays.
- June 7—Final day of school for students.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Commander Charles Conrad Jr. and Paul J. Weitz stepped outside the orbiting Skylab space station today, revived a dead battery with a hammer-pounding repair job and swiftly retrieved six canisters of film which may reveal many secrets of the sun.

They slipped outside 45 minutes earlier than scheduled and finished the planned three-hour space walk in half the time.

"Don't fall, it's a long way down," Weitz cautioned as the two astronauts slipped through an airlock hatch for the walk.

"Yep, it's a long way down," Conrad commented as the third crewman, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, took television pictures from inside the laboratory.

The trio was nearing the end of the record 28-day mission, aiming for a Friday splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

The first job outside was to pound on a battery regulator in an attempt to free a stuck electrical relay.

At A Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, are the latest developments in the Watergate story:

DEAN—Fired White House Counsel John W. Dean III is expected to swear that President Nixon knew the Watergate scandal was being covered up, according to a source close to the Senate investigation.

HEARINGS—Hearings into the case by the Senate Watergate committee have been postponed for a week, during the visit to the United States by Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

ANDERSON—Syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reports that Dean used $4,000 in Nixon campaign funds to finance his honeymoon last year, leaving behind an I.O.U.

COX—Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox says he is studying whether a President may be subpoenaed or indicted, but added that this is routine and "it would be wrong to draw any inference."

LOGS—Logs of meetings between President Nixon and Dean, made available to The Associated Press, indicate that the President had only one substantive meeting with Dean last year—more than two weeks after Nixon said an investigation by Dean cleared all administration employees of involvement in the scandal.

PRIVILEGE—Deputy Presidential Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the White House has dropped claims of executive privilege and lawyer client confidentiality which might have prevented Dean from testifying.

No Indications Of Gold Rush

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (AP) — Rocketing gold prices may make prospecting popular again, but there's little indication here of another gold rush.

The bush-wise prospectors who find the gold and the miners and engineers who blast it out of the rocks are taking a cautious wait-and-see approach to news that prices have cracked the $100-an-ounce mark on Europe's free bullion markets.

Bob Hornal, resident geologist here, said "there has been no vast increase in prospecting permits since April 1."

SPEAKS AT ROTARY . . . Bruce Lentz, N.C. Transportation Secretary spoke last night. Here he talks with Bob Browning of Greenville, a member of the Highway Commission. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Transportation Secretary Lentz Disclaims Any 'Big Purges'

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor
North Carolina Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz said last night that no big purges have gone in State government because of the election of a Republican governor.

Lentz spoke here at the Rotary Club meeting.

He said men with business experience and some experts from outside the state have been brought in to help organize and streamline the government.

"Despite what you may have heard, these studies and this search for efficiency are not being done with the thought of making any wholesale personnel changes," he said. "No big purges have gone on in Raleigh or elsewhere because the people of the state chose a Republican governor and the people who are doing their jobs are still doing those jobs.

"What I am trying to say with as much earnestness as I can is that as far as I am concerned we are going to operate the Department of Transportation with as much professionalism and as little politics as possible."

Lentz spoke at the end of a day in which the governor apparently overruled the transportation secretary on the replacement of personnel director David R. Madigan. Madigan took over the personnel operation late in May.

Officially Madigan resigned and his replacement was announced in a news release yesterday. Lentz was summoned to the governor's office and it was subsequently announced that Madigan would stay.

Lentz last night explained the new Transportation

Board that was authorized by the Legislature. It will be made up of 12 members; nine appointed by the governor; three will be legislators; one appointed by the lieutenant governor; one by the speaker of the House and one by the chairman of the minority caucus.

There will also be a Secondary Roads Council to set priorities for the secondary road program. It will be named by the governor.

Lentz said the department wants "no part of a program in which commissioners vie for funds for their areas without regard for the general welfare of the whole state."

"We believe that is the wrong approach to improving North Carolina's transportation system and meeting its needs," he said.

Lentz discussed highway safety and the biggest factor in highway fatalities, the drunk driver.

"Let me tell you the Department I head, which includes the Highway Patrol, is going to make every effort to take this menace off the highway."

"We could use some cooperation from the courts. Far too many district court judges are issuing almost unrestricted special permits to first offender drunk drivers that put them right back behind the wheel after they have paid their fine and surrendered their licenses."

Turning to local highways, Lentz told the Rotarians: "You are interested in highways because you know that you need good transportation if Greenville and Pitt County are going to prosper as they should and" (Continued On Page 6)

State's Tuition Ruling Vacated

RALEIGH (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has vacated a State Supreme Court ruling which upheld higher tuition rates for out-of-state students at universities in North Carolina.

The case was remanded to the North Carolina court Monday with instructions to take another look at it in view of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling last week that Connecticut could not lock non-residents into that status for their entire academic career.

Asst. Atty. Gen. A. A. Vanore Jr. said the case was brought under a state law which required non-residents to live in North Carolina at least 12 months as a nonstudent before they could qualify for lower resident tuition fees.

The law was amended by the 1973 General Assembly which said an individual who moves into the state and establishes a legal residence can qualify as a resident student after a 12-month period.

Kenneth Glusman and Anthony B. Lamb, two former law students at the University of North Carolina, challenged the law and sued for refunds. Resident students were charged $175 and non-residents $700 at the UNC law school in 1968-69; $175 and $850 in 1969-70, and $225 and $950 in 1970-71.

Girl Scouts On Bus Tour

Financed by flea markets and doughnut sales, Senior Girl Scout Troop 470, accompanied by invited friends and chaperones, toured New England and Canada by bus June 9-17.

The group camped near places of interest which included the Pennsylvania Amish country, Man and His World in Montreal, the Thousands of Ontario, and Old Quebec. Heavy rain forced the sightseers to spend two nights in a hotel, however.

Eating Maine lobster and partying in a Quebec home with France Canadians were some of the "unexpected" activities of the tourists.

Troop members who went on the journey included Vallie Stephenson, Sheri Moseley, Pam Keuhn, Rebecca Jone, Deenie Croom, Gail Jones, Chris Colcord, Cherry Croom, Sally Singleton, and Martha Davenport.

Kathy Sharp, Margot Schaal, Dell Haynie, Cyndy Latham, Cathy Davis, Terry Strickland, Steve Jones, and John Harvey were invited guests.

Mrs. Jeanne Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Croom, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James F. Davenport, Jr. and Mr. Ben Clark chaperoned the trip.

Citation For Hiring Vets To Be Presented

The American Legion, in conjunction with the Greenville Employment Security Commission office will present Burroughs-Wellcome Co. a citation tonight in recognition of the firm's efforts in hiring returning military veterans.

The citation, being presented by the local American Legion Post, is designed to give Burroughs-Wellcome Co. due recognition for the company's exemplary record for hiring and retention of veterans.

The local award is being made in connection with a national effort by The American Legion to honor both small and large firms who have exhibited outstanding support for the "Jobs for Veterans" program sponsored by Employment Security offices.

Suspend Clubs' ABC Licenses

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Board of Alcoholic Control Monday upheld suspension of liquor licenses at two widely known North Carolina country clubs - Sedgefield in Greensboro and North Ridge in Raleigh.

The Sedgefield Country Club, home of the Greater Greensboro Golf Tournament, lost its license for 60 days. North Ridge was given a 30 day suspension.

In each case the club was cited for failing to keep liquor bottles marked with the names of owners and with failing to keep bottles in separate lockers labeled with the owners' names. The suspensions had been ordered earlier by an ABC hearing examiner.

Will Not Evict Howard Hughes

LONDON (AP) — Britain isn't about to show the door to Howard Hughes and his billions.

Hughes, who entered the country last Dec. 27, needs a new permit to stay in Britain past June 27. He hasn't applied but a British official said Monday: "There's no doubt he'll get an extension."

Few Londoners have seen Hughes during his stay. The 68-year-old tycoon and his entourage are known to occupy a penthouse suite in the Inn of the Park, overlooking the backyard of Buckingham Palace. But the hotel staff declines to acknowledge Hughes is a guest.

Greenville Lions Club Officers Are Installed

Charles Snell was installed as president of the Greenville Lions Club in a special service held last night. Conducting the installation, was Lions District Governor Elect Tommy Williams of Havelock.

Williams spoke briefly and challenged the Lions to meet their responsibilities head-on during the coming year. He said the Lions must be energetic, enthusiastic and ambitious in order to achieve their goals.

Two annual awards were presented to club members in recognition of their work during the past year. Thurston Perry was selected Lion of the Year and J.D. Wilson was recognized for selecting the Best Program of the Year. Both members were presented trophies for their achievements.

The club was presented two awards announced recently at the North Carolina Lions convention. These were an "Outstanding Club" Award and a "Care Program" Award. Three members of the Greenville Lions were also presented awards at this same time. These awards went to Charles Waller, Care Program; Ed Smith, 100 percent Secretary; and O.E. Dowd, Association for the Blind Scholarship Award.

In addition to Snell the other officers installed included: 1st Vice president, Lloyd Rhodes; 2nd Vice President, Bob Boudreaux; 3rd Vice President, Jim Hix; treasurer, Waitus Howell; Secretary, Ed Smith; Tail Twister, Jack Moye; and Lion Tamer, Jerry Tester. The directors are: Bill Warrington, Charles Waller, Boy Berbert and Malcolm Williams.

Near Tears On Inflation Effect

LONDON (AP) — Inflation's effect on the poor and elderly sent former Prime Minister Harold Wilson's wife home from her shopping "almost in tears last week," the Labor party leader said.

Wilson told a party rally Monday that his wife "had seen a little old lady moving from one part of the shop to the other, pricing all the things she wanted, who eventually went out clutching a pathetic little plastic package of two slices of meatloaf."

Wilson noted that Britain's cost of living had risen by 30 per cent in the three years since Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government took power.

Union Okays GE Accord

NEW YORK (AP) — A top official of the International Union of Electrical Workers says he is "extremely gratified" by the union's vote to ratify a new 37-month contract with the General Electric Co.

John Shambo, chairman of the IUE conference board, voiced the comment Monday in announcing that the new accord had been approved by an overwhelming majority of the union's 88,000 members.

Adoption of the contract headed off the possibility of another showdown like the 101-day strike which came before the union reached its previous work agreement with GE.

Some 22,000 members of the independent United Electrical Workers are to start voting on ratification of a new contract later this week.

These two unions set the pattern for GE contracts involving 11 other unions.

The new IUE contract, retroactive to May 28, provides for raises totaling 47 cents an hour.

Governor Sets People's Tour

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser, traveling by helicopter, plans to make eight stops in six northeastern north Carolina counties Saturday during his first "People's Tour" since taking office.

"This is an area of the state where many people seldom get the opportunity to talk with the governor," Holshouser said Monday. "I want to visit with the people in their communities and to hear what's on their minds."

He plans to make stops at rural stores and shopping centers in various communities north of the Albemarle Sound. The tour will carry him into Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank, Gates, Perquimans and Chowan counties.

Holshouser said the "People's Tour" will augment, not replace, the monthly "People's Day" program.

Following the six-county tour, Holshouser is to speak at Washington in Beaufort County at 7 p.m. at a reception sponsored by the Southern Albemarle Association.

Two stops will be made in Chowan County during his tour to attend benefit fish fries being held to defray the medical expenses of the Howard Clusters of matching Venise lace were applied on the bodice, in cascades down the skirt, and formed a border around the bell skirt. On Saturday, Miss Edna Westbrook, aunt of the bride, entertained at a luncheon at the Downtowner Motor Inn for the bridesmaids and out-of-town guests.

The bride-elect remembered her attendants with gifts.

Are those ever-wider and ever more-colorful ties worn by the men doing their share to bring back the white shirt? Could be. Many times the pattern of the wider tie is so colorful it clashes horribly with a striped or vividly colored shirt.

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 17, and have two kids. They are both by Willie, who is 19. He's in the Army now. We're not married because my mom wouldn't sign for me. When I got pregnant the first time Willie wanted to marry me, but I was only 15, and Mom said I was too young. She said the same thing when I got pregnant the second time.

I work as a waitress, and I live with Mom. She's practically raising my kids. Once in a while I go out with a guy just to get away from the house so my mom made me go on the pill. I guess she doesn't trust me. She stands right there and says she wants to SEE me take it every morning. She says as long as I'm living with her she doesn't want any more kids to raise. This really bugs me.

How can I get my mom to sign for me when Willie comes home in two months?
WILLIE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: You can't. Wait until you are of age. Then if you and Willie still want to marry, you won't need anybody's permission.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a lonesome widower for a year. Three months ago I ran into a nice widow I had known in school 40 years ago. We are very much infatuated with each other.

The complications are: She has an ideal home in a large town. My home has fewer conveniences and is in a smaller town.

Each wishes the other to come to their home to live. What is the custom or general practice?
PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: There is no "rule" concerning which house you should live in. Talk it over between you and decide where you will BOTH be happiest. If she refuses to move, then it's up to you to decide whether you would be happier without her in your own home, or WITH her in hers.

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently died of a heart attack. He was in his 50s and was in good health until his death.

His brothers and sisters are all furious with me because I didn't notify them of his death until after he was buried. [They all live out of the state.]

When I phoned each one, they said: "Why didn't you CALL me? I would have come in for the funeral!" They feel that I cheated them out of paying their last respects to their brother.

Abby, this bunch are all very well-beeled financially; they are constantly traveling all over the world. In the last five years ALL of them have flown right over our town on their way to some exotic vacation spots, and they have never stopped to see us. We wrote, phoned, and begged them to visit us, but none of them had the time.

When my husband died I decided that since his family didn't think enough of him to visit him once while he was alive, I didn't feel like entertaining them at his funeral. Bitterness on my part? You bet! I know how my husband's heart ached when they didn't stop.

Print this. It may give other thoughtless, selfish relatives a jolt. It's later than they think.

First Class Proves The Point

It was announced last week that all of ECU's first class of 20 medical students did well on their finals. All were passed on their work and will go on to Chapel Hill next year for the second year of medical school.

The assessment of their work was done by joint committees of the Chapel Hill and ECU medical schools.

This is a tribute to these 20 hard working students and to a faculty which carried out the first year here while a virtual war still raged about the school's very existence.

These 20 young people and the dedicated faculty make moot any debate over whether a medical school should be established at ECU. The school is already well established and the real question is how rapidly it will be expanded to four year status.

Our congratulations go to these first ECU medical school students and to their faculty.

Canada Has To Worry About Its Own Needs

No one can blame Canada for putting temporary export controls on gasoline and home heating oil for the United States.

It is obvious that Canada is going to take care of its own needs first, and as the world shortage of fuels grows Canada will conserve its oil products.

The action does create more severe problems for the already fuel short United States, and it should make even more clear the necessity for conserving and properly allocating our gas and oil supplies.

Saving Money For Taxpayers

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina's central marketing service for local government bond issues saves money for taxpayers, compared to other Southern states.

BRYAN HAISLIP

The operation of the North Carolina Local Government Commission, created some 40 years ago, has assured fiscal soundness in debt programs for counties and cities and developed more competitive bidding for their bonds.

The Tar Heel system attracted attention and high praise in a recent report on a study of local government bond issues in Southern States.

The study was made by Robert E. Neary, a member of the Municipal Finance Study Group of the State University of New York at Albany. Neary compared the performance of North Carolina local government bonds with issues of other communities of the South during the first half of 1970.

The study period was one of very high interest rates and extremely tight credit, the report noted.

Lower Interest Rates
It found that interest rates for North Carolina municipal bond issues were significantly lower than those rates for local issues of the other Southern states in the six months examined.

The mean value for Tar Heel local bonds (0 to 9 years) was 5.315 per cent, compared to 5.882 per cent for local issues (0 to 9 years) in other states of the region. The mean value for longer term issues (10 years plus) was 5.849, contrasted with 6.431 per cent.

"There are a number of states that review proposed bond issues of local governments and offer technical assistance in marketing bonds," Neary said in his report. "North Carolina is unique, however, in that the state actually conducts the sale of local issues."

The Local Government Commission is housed in the office of State Treasurer Edwin Gill. It functions under the direction of Harlan E. Boyles, commission secretary.

Buyer Confidence
"North Carolina's central marketing service is one of those that through the years has developed what might be called 'confidence' among the buyers," said Boyles. "North Carolina's municipal bonds, quality for quality, have consistently sold at interest rates lower than the indices of the national market."

The study by the State University of New York municipal finance group showed that ratings of local government bonds for North Carolina are much higher than those of local government bonds of other Southern states—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. The Tar Heel ratings, according to the study, are about the same as for the Northern and Western states.

A comparison between the years 1935 and 1970 showed that ratings of local issues in North Carolina increased over 90 per cent. During the period, ratings of other Southern states rose only about 68 per cent.

Savings In Tax Dollars
"This fact alone could account for sizeable savings in net interest costs," Neary observed.

What that means for local government officials is a greater acceptance for their bonds in the marketplace, and saving in dollars for taxpayers.

The number of unrated issues in North Carolina is much lower than for sister states, according to the report. Issues usually are unrated because they are too small or because knowledge of the financial condition of the issuer is inaccessible or inaccurate.

The local government commission has greatly improved both the quality and quantity of information available to bond buyers on the finances of Tar Heel municipalities, the report said.

The commission was established in 1931, as government and private citizens struggled in the throes of the Great Depression. At the time, there were 62 counties, 152 towns and 200 local districts either in default or about to default.

By 1942, only six towns were in default, the report noted. Presently, no local units are in default.

The North Carolina commission now is issuing about $200 million in municipal bonds annually.

A more competitive market has been one result of the commission's work. The report made the point that from 1962 to 1970, the average number of bids per local issue in North Carolina was significantly higher than for the other Southern states.

FBI Probing Narc Agencies

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Citing a secret agreement of two years ago that one federal law enforcement agency would not investigate another, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) strongly resisted before reluctantly investigating federal narcotics agents terrorizing two innocent families in Collinsville, Ill. The agreement, never made public, was approved by then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell. It reflected the long-standing credo of J. Edgar Hoover that the FBI and other federal law enforcement agencies should be trusted to investigate themselves. But Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph Sneed, acting as Attorney General in early May, discarded the agreement and assigned the FBI.

Nor will the investigation stop with Collinsville incidents. The Justice Department's Civil Rights division, under the aggressive leadership of Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, entered the case May 25 and intends to examine a bulging file of alleged excesses by narcotics agents. Thus, the FBI may fully investigate the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement Agency (DALE) and the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs (BNDD).

The federal narcotics agencies investigated themselves after DALE agents terrorized two Collinsville families mistaken for drug offenders the night of April 23. Their "investigation," however, probed the background of victim of the bungled raid in order to undermine his credibility. The BNDD report is a closely guarded secret, denied even to Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois. U.S. Atty. Donald Mackay in Springfield, Ill., was not satisfied with the BNDD report and requested FBI help. The FBI declined.

The matter was resolved in a high-level in a Justice Department meeting in early May. Acting Director William Ruckelshaus relayed the FBI's reluctance to probe a brother agency and cited the secret mutual non-investigation pact. Sneed overruled those objections, ordering the FBI into the case. Since then, the bureau has dug into the Collinsville incidents with traditional FBI persistence.

Bourbons and Watergate
The old Bourbons of the Illinois Republican party, showing they have learned nothing from the Watergate scandal, are pushing to give a seat on the Republican National Committee to the party's most flamboyantly ostentatious fat-cat: Chicago insurance tycoon W. Clement Stone.

Until recently, the frontrunner for the Illinois vacancy on the National Committee was the highly respected Rep. John Anderson, chairman of the House Republican caucus and a possible 1974 Senate candidate. But like the Bourbons of France, Illinois's conservative Republicans forget nothing and learn nothing. Some objected to Anderson's progressive policy positions; many more wanted to stick by the stone-age concept that party positions belong to men of great wealth.

The latter point was made in a letter to state committee members by David E. Brown of Winnetka, Ill., a state vice chairman, when Anderson seemed in the lead. Brown urged that the new national committeeman should be somebody "who has proven his medal (sic) in the business or professional world, who would be at ease with his peers in the financial circles."

Stone, whose $2 million gift to President Nixon's 1972 campaign was the nation's biggest, suddenly emerged as candidate of the Bourbons and may actually be elected by the state committee. Some thoughtful Republicans fear that would prove the Illinois party has learned nothing from Watergate about the danger of big-money politics.

Barkan Sounds Off
All pretense at labor fraternalism was discarded by Al Barkan, the AFL-CIO's chief political operative, when he tongue-lashed factional foes in the labor movement during last month's closed-door session here of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) operating committee.

Barkan, national COPE director, bitterly protested that "a lot of filth and a lot of crap are being circulated around town" by Alan Baron, a left-wing Democratic activist. He next charged that William Dodds, political action chief of the United Auto Workers, is promoting "this kind of filth and crap" designed to portray Barkan as "a political Neanderthal and reactionary."

Barkan next turned to Joseph Beirne, president of the Communications Workers. While political action directors of AFL-CIO unions listened in amazement, Barkan made

Strength For Today

RESTS
Rests in a musical score are necessary if the music is to have meaning. A composition which went on from beginning to end without any rests would be harsh and unpleasant.

Yet in life we seldom appreciate the significance of interrupted melody. We think that life should always go on harmoniously, the melody never ceasing. We chafe at those interruptions whereby the sweetness of the melody is halted even for a moment. Yet, just as rests give meaning to music, so the interruptions of the melody of our lives give them meaning also. We think that we are fortunate when everything goes along pleasantly, and unfortunate when trial comes upon us, but the interruption of the melody is what might give our lives the majesty of a symphony. If we have never faced misfortune, we have never had the opportunity to build character. So if you are angry and frustrated by an adverse turn of fortune, regard it as a rest in a musical score which is necessary to give meaning and balance to the entire composition.

And After Phase Four?

Among the devices of rhetoric is the figure of speech known as an oxymoron, an apparent contradiction in terms. A whole clutch of them might be applied to the President's 60-day freeze. His action was the right wrongness; it merits sad applause; it may well prove a temporary permanence.

Given the awful array of economic factors that had to be taken into account, Nixon could have done no less than he did. It is entirely probable that by mid-August, when Phase IV is imposed upon us, he will have to do more.

The unhappiest consideration of them all is simply this: Phase III had not worked. Phase III, if you recall, came into being in January. It was to be the voluntary time, when the American economy was to demonstrate that the mechanisms of a free marketplace would keep inflation in check. For all practical purposes, mandatory controls were lifted. We were to be restrained largely by our own sense of self-restraint.

What happened? The ink had barely dried on the January executive order before prices went soaring. During Phase II, the increase in retail prices had been held to an annual rate of 3.6 per cent. In the three months from February through April, the annual rate leaped to 9.2 per cent. The wholesale price index, according to the May announcement, climbed to a disastrous 23.4 per cent. On foreign money markets, the dollar slumped badly. Nixon, who finds economic controls abhorrent, had no choice but to crack down again.

A part of the problem, to be sure, can be attributed to bad luck, to bad judgment, and to political misfortune. The spring floods were bad luck; the wheat deal with the Soviet Union was a piece of bad judgment; the Watergate scandals have shaken confidence abroad and weakened the President's rein on Capitol Hill.

Other factors have contributed also. The successive "Nixon deficits" of course have played a part, by increasing the money supply, yet it is patently unfair to blame Nixon alone for these inflationary pressures: Successive Congresses, after all, have floated along on the red-ink tide.

Toss into the equation the continuing imbalance in our trade. Give account to rising personal incomes at home, exerting inexorable pressure in limited supplies of meat. Consider the effect on prices of new laws to reduce pollution and increase industrial safety. And somewhere in this complex equation, write in a symbol for avarice, a symbol for greed.

Nixon therefore was right, it seems to me, in imposing the 60-day freeze. His partisan critics may also be right in complaining that he should have acted sooner, indeed that he never should have taken a chance on Phase III at all. But if all this is right, it is the right wrongness. We are once again retreating from the concept of a free economy, and the ground that is lost this summer may never be reclaimed.

Granted, such a retreat is nothing new. For the past hundred years the concept of a pure "free enterprise" system slowly has been reduced to little more than a totem word. A thousand subsidies, tax breaks, trade quotas and regulatory laws have given us a kind of maked-ball economy: private faces on public controls. Even so, the concept remains, and the forms of a free marketplace remain, and large elements of our commerce still obey the old good laws of fair competition. We must cling to this.

"Let there be no mistake," Nixon said. "If our economy is to remain dynamic, we must never slip into the temptation of imagining that in the long run controls can substitute for a free economy or permit us to escape the need for discipline in fiscal and monetary policy. We must not let controls become a narcotic, and we must not become addicted."

With Phase IV, that temptation will become much stronger and the narcotic will

Mixed Bag Of Apples

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The storehouse of memory is like a barrel of apples.

HAL BOYLE

Some of the apples in the barrel are sweet and redolent and tasty and carry the bounty of summer's wealth and autumnal ripening. But some have gone bad, and to save the better contents of the barrel, they must be thrown away.

So it is with the storehouse of our memory. Most of our memories, if we have led ordinary lives, are good and well worth the saving, because they renew us as long as we live. But with bad memories, as with the spoiled apples, it is better to cast them away.

You've got a pretty good assortment of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when —

A married woman would as soon go skirlless as appear in public without wearing her wedding ring.

More of the world's business was conducted in offices than in restaurants or on golf courses.

The only reason a husband ever entered the kitchen was to kiss his wife hello when he came home from work or to raid the icebox for a sandwich before retiring.

Everybody in the family began to yawn if a dinner guest didn't start making his goodbyes by 10 o'clock.

The favorite drink during the Prohibition Era, at least among the working classes, was home brew. Some of it was so potent that, if you didn't open the bottle carefully, it would explode and you'd get a scar instead of a drink.

It was important what kind of family moved in next to you, because neighbors played a greater role in each other's lives. It made a real rift if you didn't enjoy your neighbor.

A fellow felt pretty well off financially if he shook his pockets and they jingled. Today money that can only jingle doesn't say much; only money that makes a big rustle gets much of a hearing.

If someone died of cancer, members of the family often tried to keep the cause of death

Second Price Freeze Attacked

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The first Nixon price freeze of Aug. 15, 1971 produced a reaction among the elements of the American economy that, like it or not, it probably was needed and the President should be praised for decisiveness.

The second freeze, 22 months later, is having much the opposite effect. It is widely viewed as a jaded remedy for failure, rather than a refreshing and determined quest for victory, as was the first freeze.

The response to the President's somewhat unexpectedly strong action was similar almost everywhere, and it probably illustrates to some degree the results of seemingly endless attacks on the President's prestige.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said it reflected failure. Consumer sentiment, at least as measured by the first surveys, indicate many shoppers would have preferred a rollback. Farmers said it could lead to shortages. Expression of opinion through the market place was similar. The dollar dropped sharply against European currencies and the price of gold rose. The stock market, which is seeking any reason to rise, saw none and fell again.

Some economists who felt that anti-inflation action was needed months earlier, are predicting that the freeze now will do little more than dam up a torrent of price pressures that will eventually burst through.

And others note fearfully that the freeze comes at the very time when economic indicators suggested the boom was fading and that it could pitch the economy into recession.

Whatever, the almost universal response seemed to be that the administration was the last to see how bad things were. Therefore, there are widespread doubts about its ability to foresee the future.

Despite their disagreements, most economists will agree on this: the return to economic equilibrium is a slow, painful process that cannot be speeded by executive order. Supply and demand must be harmonized so that they aren't playing a game of tag with each other. The money supply must be adjusted delicately to the needs and potential of the economy.

This takes time; no push-button responses. It is generally felt that four to six months elapses between the time the order is given and the response.

Most economists now feel that a downturn will occur late this year and early in 1974, although many of them hedge when asked if there will be a recession.

But even if there isn't a recession, there almost certainly will be a slump that will again demand the foresight of the Nixon economic advisers to overcome. And that might take a good part of 1974.

Early Action On Rural Health Clinics

RALEIGH (AP)—The establishment of 15 rural health clinics in North Carolina within 26 months is the goal of the newly appointed director of the state's rural health service program.

Jim Bernstein, 30, made the promise Monday after being appointed to the post by David Flaherty, secretary of human resources.

Bernstein has been an associate of the health service research center at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill since September, 1970. He holds a master's degree in hospital administration from the University of Michigan.

Flaherty announced Bernstein's appointment during a meeting with 22 medical people from throughout the state who had gathered to discuss the rural health program.

The 1973 General Assembly appropriated $450,000 for the program proposed by Gov. Jim Holshouser. The governor told the medical group "we are starting with little steps in order to meet the need" for rural health care.

Bernstein said the state's role in developing rural clinics will be to organize communities, to grant technical assistance on setting up a health care program and to help with construction plans.

The clinics will be staffed by nurse practitioners, who will be the initial medical person to handle patients. The nurses will be supervised and backed up by a physician.

Bernstein said the nurses will operate under strict guidelines and will be in "constant telephone contact" with the supervising physician.

Meat, Poultry Plants Are Reported 'Filthy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A secret government report just made public says investigators found filthy conditions in 10 meatpacking and poultry processing plants across the nation, including three in the Carolinas.

The three included among those described as having unacceptable sanitary conditions were Breeder Poultry and Egg Inc., Morganton, N.C.; Armour Creameries, Marshville, N.C., and Southeastern Poultry of South Carolina, Inc., West Columbia, S.C.

Efforts were being made to reach them for response to the report, which Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., placed in the Congressional Record Monday. He said he had received the information from a concerned person.

The report was compiled by the Office of the Inspector General. It describes a survey of 88 plants, 10 of which were found to have unacceptable sanitary conditions. It said another 28 had questionable sanitary practices.

The report originally was sent to the Department of Agriculture for its use only. It recommended that the department tighten up its inspection of meat and poultry plants.

In reply, the agency said it had forced 30 of the 38 plants to clean up their operations, but eight remained "problem plants." It did not name the eight.

The first U.S. Mint was established in Philadelphia April 2, 1792.

Related To Prison Crowding: Bounds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Corrections Commissioner Lee Bounds says a recent knife fight at one North Carolina prison and a mass escape at another are related to overcrowding of prisons.

And they are harbingers "of more trouble to come," he said in an interview.

He said crowding of inmates causes tension, and that inmates are sleeping in the corridors in Central Prison in Raleigh.

Bounds was interviewed on Monday, a day after four inmates were wounded in the knife fight at Central Prison and nine prisoners escaped from the Stanly County prison unit near Albemarle. Later Monday, there were two other escapes, one from a road gang working out of the same Stanly County unit, and the other from the Danbury minimum-security prison in Stokes County.

In each of these later escapes two prisoners got away, but the two from the Stanly unit were recaptured Monday night, the prison said. It identified them as James McClure, 22, and Paul McCoy, 29, both of Concord, who escaped from a road gang on N.C. 8 near New Lon-

Bounds said the statewide prison population is higher this year. He said it averaged 10,648 last month, 533 more than in May of last year. He attributed the increase to more efficient law enforcement, the growth of the drug problem, a clampdown by the courts, and the end of the Vietnam war. "We always have a surge in admissions at the end of a hot war," he said.

Tornado Hit In Oklahoma

FREDERICK, Okla. (AP)— "They just had to dig the old folks out of the wreckage and haul them away," a witness said after a tornado leveled a nursing home here. More than 40 residents of the home were injured. The nursing home residents were among at least 60 persons injured when the tornado tore through this small southwestern Oklahoma town Monday evening.

Property damage was described as "in the millions of dollars."

"We don't have anyone confirmed dead," Dave Story, Frederick newspaper editor, said. "We know there are at least 60 injured, some of them critically and seriously."

"It's gone, it's just demolished," one resident said of the Hallmark Villa nursing home.

The home and a farm store were flattened and half of the town's elementary school destroyed by the twister.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market drifted lower today in moderate trading after failing to sustain an early morning rally that some analysts said was partially inspired by improvement in the dollar abroad and others termed purely technical. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which was ahead 10 points in early trading, was down 1.59 points at 873.49. Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange edged out advancing issues 53 to 523. Earlier, advances had held a 2-4-1 lead over declines. "The dollar was stronger this morning and that spilled over into the market," said John Smith of Farnestock & Co. "But all the old problems we have began rearing their ugly heads."

Trading was brisk in the morning but slowed later in the day. The noon broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was down 0.22 points at 54.34.

Trans World Airlines was the most-active issue on the Big Board, down 1 1/2 to 21.

On the American Stock Exchange, trading was slow and advancing issues held on to a moderately lead over decliners. The noon price change index was down .02 points at 22.44. Trans World Airlines Warrants was the most-active issue, down 7/8 at 7 1/2.

I wish I could stand here tonight and promise you that this will be done as speedily as possible. "I can't do that. US 264 will be given every consideration and, of course, the startling growth of your university and your city will be a part of that consideration. But there are so many needs in North Carolina, that we must consider where each dollar can be best spent if we are to do the job that the people of the state are demanding. So I promise you that the merits of widening US 264 will be weighed carefully against needs elsewhere and if it deserves priority, it will get it."

OK Maximum Oil Production

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission has authorized maximum oil production for most fields in July, but it warned that the state's oil and gas industry is in a process of self-liquidation unless new reserves are found.

The commission said Monday that new gas and oil discoveries are running about 10 per cent of the amount of gas and oil produced in the state each month.

Tax Takes Executive Is Kidnapped

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An executive with the Argentine subsidiary of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has been kidnapped, police sources said today.

They identified the victim as John Thompson, 55, a U.S. citizen.

Company officials at Firestone Argentina declined to make any comment or disclose Thompson's home town.

The police sources said Thompson was seized Monday as he left the company plant about 15 miles south of Buenos Aires.

They said 10 armed men in five vehicles blocked Thompson's chauffeur-driven limousine and forced the executive into a get away car. Three of the kidnap cars were used to intercept Thompson's vehicle and curb it while the other two were stationed ahead and behind as security, the sources said.

Also approved at the Monday night board meeting were: —An application for $40,000 plus for a driver education budget for 1973-74; —Putting into escrow the $21,000 realized by the sale of the Rose High "Live" project house and authority to use this to begin a similar project; and —Approval of The Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company as a tax sheltered annuities participating company.

Agenda items disapproved Monday night were: —A Student Government Association proposal to permit seniors in the coming school year to leave the campus at lunch time for the purpose of eating off-campus; and —A proposal to declare as surplus a triangular piece of land 116 by 122 by 166 feet adjacent to Aycock Junior High School property.

Under personal matters, 11 teacher resignations were accepted; and two elections approved.

Seek Freeway Deer Overpass

BEAVER, Utah (AP)—Highway and wildlife officials say they will advertise for bids next month on a freeway overpass for deer.

The elevated structure will include dirt and artificial vegetation to simulate the deer's natural paths with fences to guide the animals away from the freeway.

The overpass is to be built in a part of Beaver County where officials say 67 deer have been killed by motorists so far this year.

Expect Fighting

SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu today predicted more fighting ahead for Vietnam and said it is "naive" to believe the Communists will respect the cease-fire.

Thieu told an Armed Forces Day celebration that the second truce, which went into effect at noon Friday, is being violated by the Communists more than the original agreement signed Jan. 27.

Thieu declared that peace "does not come because of appeals for the Communists' good will or begging for their humanitarianism as a number of defeatist and foolish people erroneously think."

Thieu has made similar statements before, but his latest address was seen as more significant than the others. It came only a week after Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho signed a 14-point communique in Paris. The document, which was also signed by the Viet Cong and the Saigon government, pledged that the four parties respect the new ceasefire and immediately implement other major provisions of the original agreement.

Shortly before Thieu spoke, the Saigon military command issued a communique listing another 104 Communist ceasefire violations during the 24 hours ending at dawn today.

School Board . . .

(Continued From Page 1) Board member Edward Dickens said, "but have received encouraging responses. This week we hope to negotiate on an ESAA budget."

Dr. Cleetwood noted "this in itself is most encouraging, as most school units have already scratched from any further considerations."

Dickens further reported that at this point the House Education and Labor Committee was debating a funding formula, and no decision had been reached on this. "There's a tremendous reduction in the number of students coming from low income families," Dickens said, "and this will parallel low funding. North Carolina alone stands to lose $25 million next year."

In line with a recommendation by the Division of Compensatory Education, the school board approved a new formula for county-city school systems sharing in Title I funds. In this new formula, based on the 1970 census, the city schools will receive about 30 percent, and the county schools, about 70 percent of available funds. The old formula, based on the 1960 census, gave Greenville schools a little more than 15 percent share of funds, with the county getting 84 plus percent.

"The county is not in favor of this change," Dickens commented, "but still does not contest it."

A report on collection of pupil instructional supply fees for 1972-73 reveals that about 90 percent of the project total has been collected. This leaves slightly less than $3,000 in fees uncollected through June 15.

The budget report for the month of May, plus accounting for June 1-18, Dr. Cleetwood reported, "shows we're pretty much on the nose. We've spent all but $162,000 of the budget, but June will take care of that."

"By and large it's been a good year," he noted.

Also approved at the Monday night board meeting were: —An application for $40,000 plus for a driver education budget for 1973-74; —Putting into escrow the $21,000 realized by the sale of the Rose High "Live" project house and authority to use this to begin a similar project; and —Approval of The Hartford Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company as a tax sheltered annuities participating company.

Mexican Banks Increase Rates

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An increase of over one per cent on interest rates for mortgage and financial bonds was authorized by the Central Bank of Mexico today.

A spokesman for the bank said the only reason for the increase was to "adjust the bond yields here to those of other parts of the world, where the interest rates have also been increased."

Four Escapees Are Recaptured

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP)—Four prisoners who escaped from the Stanly County unit were recaptured Monday, leaving seven still at large.

Willie Banks, 26, of Charlotte, and Robert Williams, 30, of Charlotte, among nine who broke out from a dormitory Sunday night, were apprehended before daylight.

Two men who escaped from a road gang near New London Monday afternoon were picked up in the Richfield section of Stanly County. They were identified as James McClure, 22, and Paul McCoy, 29, both of Concord.

They quoted an official as saying the students will undergo training for 21 days during the summer vacation.

Graniteers Down Exchange

The Graniteers, suddenly showing muscle, rolled to an 11-2 victory over the Exchange yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

The victory boosted the Graniteer record to 4-9, while the Exchange fell to 5-8.

The Graniteers jumped into the lead in the second inning, pushing over a run. That came on a round-tripper by H. L. Austin.

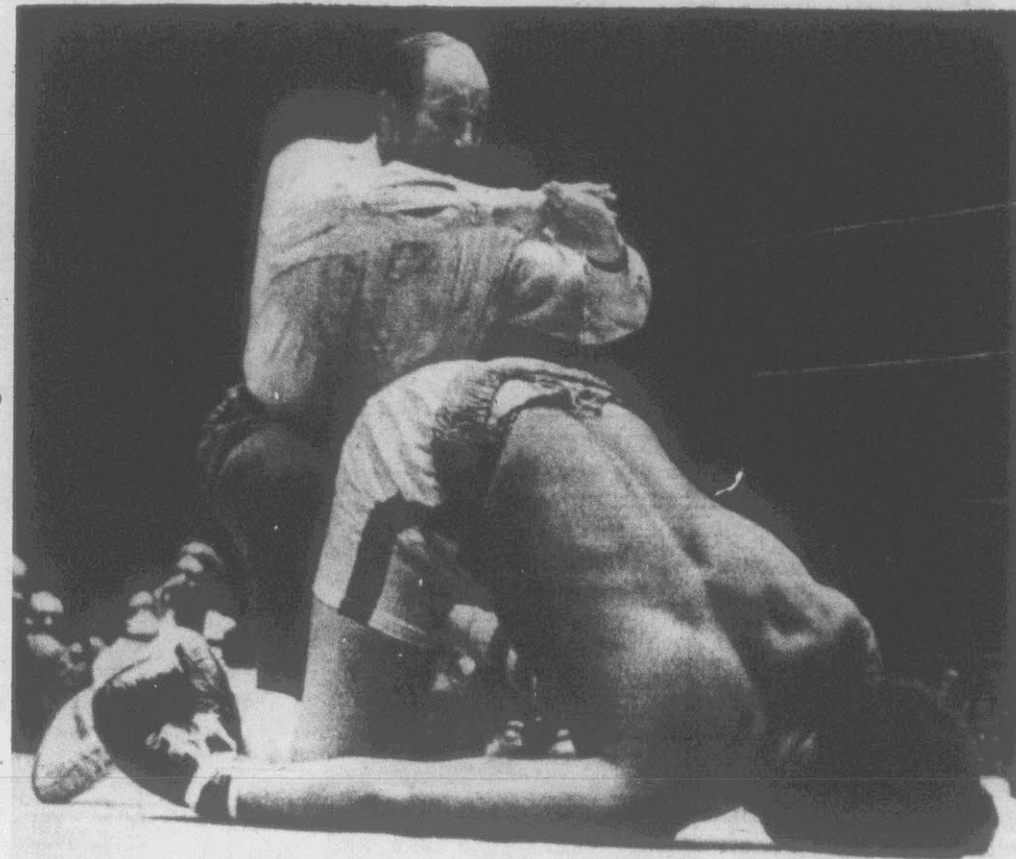

In the third, the Graniteers added three more runs. Wayne Stokes singled and moved up on a passed ball. He advanced on an out and scored on Henry Wooten's double. Wooten moved up on a passed ball and Mike Moye walked. Garrett Young then doubled to drive in both Wooten and Moye for a 4-0 lead.

The Exchange pushed over a run in the bottom of the third. Cliff Fearington doubled and scored on Al Shackelford's two-bagger.

In the fourth, the Graniteers picked up three more. Mike James and Stuart Satterthwaite both walked, as did Stokes, to load the bases. Wooten walked to force in James and a single by Moye brought in both Satterthwaite and Stokes to tie the lead to 7-1.

In the fifth, the Graniteers finished up their scoring with four more runs. Wade Dean James both walked and Satterthwaite singled. Stokes got a hit, scoring Dean and an error on the play let James score. Micah Dixon singled and Wooten's hit brought in Satterthwaite. Austin reached on a fielder's choice that got Stokes at home, but Austin scored when Young reached on an error.

The Exchange got its other run in the bottom of the fifth. Fearington doubled and moved up on an out. Garland Lancaster walked and Pep Cox singled to score Fearington with the final run.

OVER AND OUT—Referee Harold Valan passes judgement over a sprawled Jimmy Ellis after Ellis was knocked out in 2:39 of the first round by Earnie Shavers in their scheduled 12-round heavyweight contest Monday in New York's Madison Square Garden. The knockout puts Shaver into contention for the heavyweight title held by George Foreman. (AP Wirephoto)

By TOM FOREMAN, JR. Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's American Legion Post 39 spotted Tarboro Post 19 one little run in the top of the first, then proceeded to drub the Tarboro club, 12-1 last night.

Randy Potter started and went the distance for Greenville. He allowed only four hits and struck out seven. Potter also helped his own cause, assisting in seven putouts, including a pickoff play at first.

The breezy, but sticky evening, caused by a pre-game rain seemed to have little effect on Potter. Only in the first and fifth innings did he face any difficulty, and both times he managed to wriggle out of the jam.

Tarboro struck first with their only run when Ralph Elks singled, went to second on an infield out, stole third, and came home on a Mike Matthews single. Only two more base runners were to reach third for the entire game.

Greenville came back in the bottom of the inning to score all they needed to close out their opponents. With one out, Will Wollard singled, stole second, and reached third on an error. Meanwhile, Stanley Cobb had reached on a fielder's choice and Bill Lee walked to load the bases. Wollard then scored on a passed ball, Cobb scored on Robert Brinkley's single, and Johnny Barwick's ground ball error brought Lee and Brinkley home.

Greenville put up four more in the third against losing pitcher Al Forrest. Cobb singled, stole second, and was wild pitched to third. Lee walked, and Rodney Perry's double scored Cobb. Barwick then doubled to score Lee and Perry. Barwick moved to third on a throw to the plate, and scored on a passed ball.

Two more came across in the fifth and seventh innings, the freakier of the runs being scored in the fifth. Brinkley reached first on an error. Barwick then left a bloop over the second baseman's head. Brinkley headed towards third; the throw from the second baseman went into left field. Barwick came from first to third on that error and scored when the throw to the plate from left was wide.

Cobb, Barwick, and Brinkley led the attack with two hits each.

In Sunday's action, Greenville's post dropped a 9-7 decision to the Snow Hill Post.

Snow Hill picked up three quick runs in the first when Jerry Narron connected for a three-run homer. They added one in the second when Tommy Herndon walked, and came around on a single and an error.

Snow Hill added three more runs in the top of the third before Greenville could respond. Brinkley walked, and J.C. Daniels errored grounder set Cobb up for an infield out on which Brinkley scored. Daniels and Lee scored on another infield out and another error.

The visitors put up two runs in the eighth, while Greenville scored two in the sixth, one in the seventh, and another in the eighth. Brinkley doubled in the eighth, and scored on Cobb's single. They got a runner as far as third in the ninth, and two more on base, but could bring none of them home.

Dishing Up Homer Is Nothing Funny To Kuhn

By FRED ROTHENBERG Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "I can't believe the commissioner could take this seriously," said Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith.

"It's all a big joke. I don't remember exactly what I was doing," said Phil Hennigan, pitcher for the New York Mets. "But you know how ballplayers are. We horse around in the clubhouse and that's the way it was. Yeah, yeah, I said it; but it was in a joking way."

The trouble is, Bowie Kuhn wasn't laughing. In response to statements by several pitchers who said they would throw a soft pitch to help Aaron achieve his record-breaking 715th home run, Kuhn came down hard.

Kuhn, perhaps feeling that the integrity of baseball was threatened, warned that "suspension will follow where anyone intentionally fails to give his best efforts."

"I am greatly disturbed," he said, "by press stories quoting some of our pitchers as saying or implying that they would be willing to groove a pitch to Henry Aaron to help him in his pursuit of the record for total home runs.

"While I recognize the possibility of misquotation, I must remind you that any such conduct would violate the requirements of major league Rule 21 that every player must give his best efforts toward the winning of any baseball game in which he is involved. To do otherwise will result in a long-term suspension."

St. Louis pitcher Reggie Cleveland—who had said, "I'd throw a medium fastball right down the pike. If he's going to get it off of somebody, it might as well be me,"—reacted this way to Kuhn's edict: "The way he says it, whoever gives up that 715th is suspended for life...I hope I'm not unlucky enough to give up that homer..."

Messersmith had said, "I'll lay it right in," and he didn't deny it, adding that he wasn't being serious.

Hennigan also didn't disclaim his earlier statement—"Every one is in this game for money. If it's me, I'll tell him what's coming. It will be a half-speed fastball down the middle. It will be like batting practice, I'd be a fool not to do it."

He sang the same tune on Monday night, only in a different key.

"I'm not going to retract that other statement," he said in Philadelphia to Tom Baldwin of The Associated Press. "I said it, but Kuhn should know how ballplayers joke."

"How could serving up that pitch mean anything to a pitcher? Does anybody think money's going to come to them? It'll mean just as much, if not more money for me if I get Aaron out."

Tug McGraw, a Met teammate, had agreed that being Aaron's 715th victim could be financially rewarding when he said: "I'd throw my best pitch and hope like hell he hits it. I'd be a commodity. I'd always be in demand on the banquet circuit."

McGraw stuck by his statement and then agreed with Kuhn's reaction.

"I didn't feel I was misquoted," McGraw said. "I still say that I would give Aaron my best stuff and hope like hell he hits it out. I'm not going to lay it in there. I'm not going to give it to him. But if he does get it off me, more power to him. I don't think the commissioner would object to that."

"But I think the commissioner is right," McGraw said. "It's his job to maintain respect for the game. When players say things that put the game in a bad light, whether they meant it or not, he should take a strong stand."

"I read the story," McGraw continued, "and I felt some of the players used poor judgment. That's not the way the game is played. What are the fans to think?"

"They read the papers, you know. That stuff not only cheapens the game, but it would cheapen Aaron's record."

"What does Aaron have, 680 homers? He didn't need any favors to get there and I'm sure he doesn't need any favors now."

And Aaron doesn't think he'll get any. The Atlanta slugger, who has belted 691 home runs, expects just the opposite.

"I've got 23 more to go and pitchers are being extra careful even right now," he told The AP's Jack Stevenson in Los Angeles after being informed of Kuhn's statement.

"I think if any pitcher throws any different, it's just talk. I'm sorry this came up. Some said it. I don't really believe they meant it."

Coca-Cola Rips Kiwanis, 16-1

Coca-Cola rolled to a 16-1 victory over the Kiwanis yesterday in the North State Little League.

Rusty Lilley tossed a two-hitter in the victory for the Coke team. Coke is now 8-5, while the Kiwanis are 4-9.

Coke pushed over five runs in the first inning to take the lead. Ronnie Chapman walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Will Sanderson reached on an error and an out by Marshall Crumpler scored Chapman. Lilley then helped himself with a two-run homer. Lee Hardee kept it going with a single and Mark Jones walked. Hardee stole third and an error let him score. David Lowe walked, as did Walter Gurganus. A walk to Chapman forced in Jones for the 5-0 lead.

In the second, Coke added three more. Crumpler singled and moved up on a wild pitch. He took third on one error and another let him score. Lilley walked and Lowe reached on an error. A second miscue let Lilley score. Lowe took third on a wild pitch, and scored on another error.

Foreman Looks At His Opponents

By GEORGE FOREMAN
With Paul McCarthy
Oakland Tribune Writer
HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — I don't like to fight those slick, jabbing guys because they make it tough to get inside and work on the body.

They usually move around well, and you spend half your time trying to get off first, beating them to the punch.

Now when you start evaluating leading contenders—especially those with an effective jab—you might just as well begin with the legend from Louisville.

MUHAMMAD ALI—People put up with him because of what he's done in the past—the way he stood up, how he talks on television and for what he used to do.

If they judged him on his recent fights, he would 't be such a favorite. A lot of times he's not in shape and doesn't slip punches real well.

In fact, he's not really a good fighter any more.

For a guy who talks about how he never got hurt, Ali could destroy the game. Every time I look on television, it seems he either has a puffed up or stitched up eye or his jaw's all swollen up or wired shut or something.

Still, he has to be the best boxer around. As soon as the bell rings, he comes out snapping his left jab. The guy with the best jab has the best show, and his is the best when he gets it working.

But Ali has slowed down a lot and doesn't have any right hand any more. I went to see him just before the Norton fight, and I could tell he'd lost something—a certain glow in his face was missing. It was like somebody had stolen something. Some kind of snap was gone.

OSCAR BONAVENTA—We had a fight lined up last September, but it fell through.

He's one of the best of the bunch, I think. But Oscar has broken his left hand three times in the last two years, so it's a question of how it'll hold up in the future. His style is unorthodox—people say he's awkward—and that makes him hard to beat. He throws good combinations and everybody knows he can hit. He put Joe Frazier down twice, didn't he? And he had Ali in trouble in the ninth round before Muhammad finally stopped him in the 13th.

JOE FRAZIER—I was the winner when we fought, but Joe could just as easily have been the winner if he'd been able to get his stuff going, maybe if he had been as dedicated and willing to sacrifice as I was, he'd have been able to get off that night.

I think his fight with Joe Bugner July 2 in London will be an interesting one. This young guy Bugner has a good right, and I think he'll get a chance to use it with Frazier.

But if Joe can weather his storm, then I think he'll show a lot of people he still has something left.

I'm sure you won't see Joe doing a whole lot of smokin'. He'll try to bob and weave, just trying to impress people. The guy's a respected man, he's proven everything and shouldn't try to impress people now because people are impressed best when you're impressed with yourself.

What can you prove after you've become champion? Frazier has been the best-recognized as the best in the world at one time—so what else is there to gain? He's really got nowhere to go.

FLOYD PATTERSON—Isn't he amazing for a man of 38? He's supposed to be one of the richest, but he's still dedicated and always in shape. I just wonder how long he can go on without getting hurt.

JERRY QUARRY—Last time I saw him he looked like he still had all his juices flowing and, if he does, he can still be a winner. Jerry is a real dangerous hooker, but he seems to cut easily and that's lost some big fights for him. He can't seem to beat the big guys like Ali (knocked out in the seventh and again in the third), Frazier (stopped in the seventh) and Ellis (lost decision). You've got to be impressed with the way he keeps coming back to stop newcomers such as Mac Foster and again with Ron Lyle. But I think time's running out on him.

ERNIE TERRELL—He's a personal friend of mine. I've been out socially with my wife and Ernie a few times. Ernie's big and strong and might just be the best of them all. I think he can beat anybody and I'd like to give him a shot at the title before I'm through.

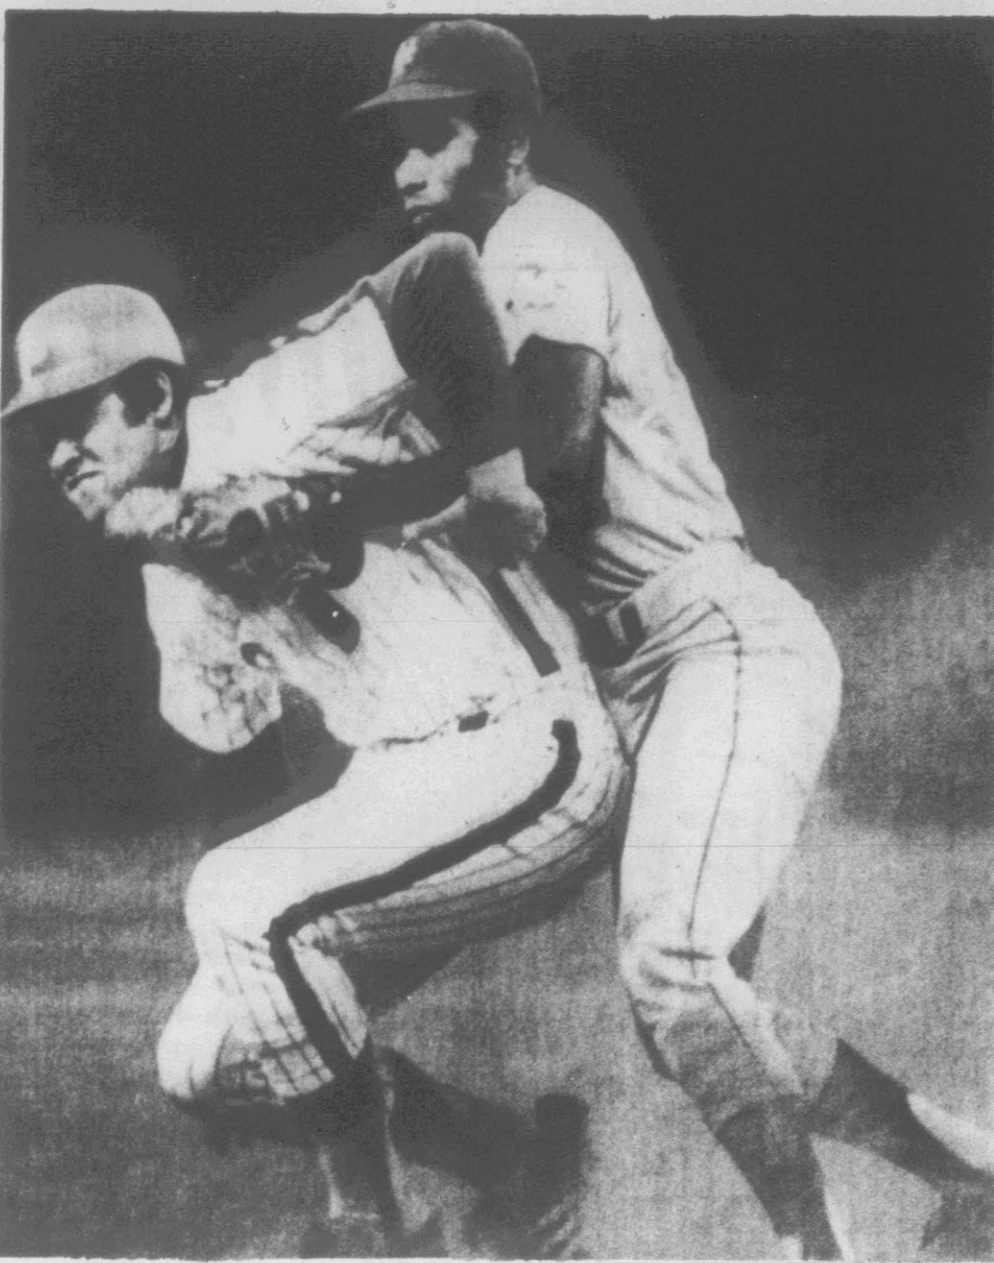

JIMMY ELLIS—People say he's a small heavyweight, but he's got a good record (37-7-0), so he's a bona fide heavyweight in my book. His losses all have come against good fighters. He has one of the best sneak right hands in the business.

I don't claim to be able to list every challenger, or even to know all about some of them.

But maybe that's one of the beauties of boxing: You never know who's coming along to shake up the rankings and rise to become the champion.

Somewhere there's a kid working hard, maybe in a boys' club or a YMCA or in the Police Athletic League. He's got courage, intelligence and he's willing to work hard because he believes he can be a champion some day.

And you know something? That kind of a guy can't be stopped until he gets to the top. I guess that's why boxing has been such a big sport for so long everywhere in the world.

HOLD UP—Bob Boone of the Phillies is delayed from getting to home plate at third base by New York Mets' third baseman Teddy Martinez in the second inning of Monday night's game in Philadelphia.

Boone went to third on a pickoff attempt from second base, and then went home after the throw got away from Martinez at third base. (AP Wirephoto)

Five Way Battle For First In AL's West

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
How tight is the American League's West Division race? Well, the New York subway at rush hour would be spacious compared to the five-way squeeze going on over there.

Chicago is still running in front, but just barely after dropping 11 of its last 16 games, the latest a 9-2 thumping at the hands of California in Monday night's nationally televised game.

That victory left the Angels in fifth place, but only 1½ games behind the White Sox. Squeezed between those two are Minnesota and Kansas City, both only one-half game behind, and Oakland, a mere one game back.

In Monday's other AL games, Oakland slugged Kansas City 9-5, Milwaukee ripped Boston 8-3, Detroit defeated Cleveland 5-1 and Texas dented Minnesota 7-4. New York and Baltimore were not scheduled.

In Monday night's only National League games, Philadelphia defeated New York 9-6, Pittsburgh beat Chicago 3-1, St. Louis shut out Montreal 1-0 in a game halted by rain after five innings and Los Angeles beat Atlanta 13-3.

The Angels stung Chicago for four runs in the fourth inning, two of them on Alan Gallagher's triple. They added five more in the fifth, three of them on two bases loaded walks and a wild pitch by reliever Jim Geddes.

That was enough to tag the White Sox with their fourth straight loss. "You have to take the bitter with the sweet," said Sox Manager Chuck Tanner, reflecting on his team's skid. "There are no excuses."

While Chicago and California occupied most of the national TV, Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon decided that his team's role as the backup game hurt the Royals against Oakland.

"I hope we're never on national TV again," he said. "Everytime we're on there, we walk a bundle." KC pitchers surrendered nine bases on balls and the game was only shown in Chicago and Anaheim, Calif., where the White Sox and Angels were blacked out. Imagine if the whole country was tuned in.

Jim Mason slugged his first major league home run and Dave Nelson scored three runs, helping Texas past Minnesota. The victory left the sixth place Rangers 12 games behind in the West and with a very lonesome feeling at the bottom of the division.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee's sizzling Brewers stretched their winning streak to 10 games, longest in the majors this season, by whipping Boston. George Scott accounted for three of the Milwaukee runs with a pair of homers as the Brewers won for the 15th time in the last 16 games and opened a 1½-game lead over idle Baltimore in the AL East.

Detroit supported Jim Perry's four-hit pitching with homers by Dick Sharon, Bill Freehan and Aurelio Rodriguez to defeat Cleveland.

It was the sixth straight loss and 16th in the last 18 games for the Indians.

SOME GALS DO WELL
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth is leading the Ladies PGA golf tour. Going into the busy part of the season just before Memorial Day, Kathy had earned $40,762. Mickey Wright was in second spot with $35,508.

The only other gal golfer above the $30,000 mark was Carol Mann. She was above that figure by $602. But 15 other women golfers were above the $10,000-mark in earnings for the first five months of 1973.

studying the abuse of legitimate drugs by amateur athletes attempting to improve their performance.

Tests for drug abuse in the past have been limited to screening winning athletes.

"If the athletes know they're all going to be tested, that would be a deterrent," Pritchard said.

He did not elaborate on the method that would be used or at what point in a day's competition the tests would be made.

The NCAA oversees collegiate athletics. It is drawing up a list of drugs that will be banned from its athletes.

The witnesses before the subcommittee indicated the most frequently abused drugs were amphetamines and anabolic steroids, which reportedly build up weight and strength.

The NCAA prohibits use of all but "therapeutic" drugs, those prescribed by a physician for illness, injury or deficiency.

Ellis Holds Sway In Battle With Chicago

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are wallowing in the unaccustomed depths of fifth place in the National League East, but despite that revolting development two facts are still right up there with death and taxes in the sure-thing league...the Pirates will beat Fergie Jenkins and Dock Ellis will beat the Chicago Cubs.

Monday night's 3-1 Pittsburgh victory gave Ellis a lifetime 112 mark against the Cubbies while Jenkins is a mere 9-21 against the Pirates and has dropped eight in a row since he last beat them two years ago.

It was the start of a key eight-game home stand for the Pirates—four each with the Cubs and the Mets—and left them 8½ games behind the East Division-leading Bruins.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Dodgers trounced the Atlanta Braves 13-3, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Montreal Expos 1-0 in a rain-shortened five-inning contest and the Philadelphia Phillies outslugged the New York Mets 9-6.

American League scores: Milwaukee 8, Boston 3; California 9, Chicago 2; Oakland 9, Kansas City 5; Detroit 5, Cleveland 1; Texas 7, Minnesota 4.

The Mets, who came to Philadelphia with a five-game winning streak, couldn't stop Ken Brett, who posted his third straight pitching victory and has homered in each of his last three starts.

Brett survived a three-run homer by New York's Rusty Staub in the first inning and drove in two runs with his homer and a sacrifice fly while Mike Schmidt knocked in three runs with a double and homer.

The normally light-hitting Phils have won seven of 10 games on their current home stand, during which they've hit at a .321 clip with 11 home runs.

Bill Russell drove in five runs with four singles, leading a 17-hit attack that powered the Dodgers to their rout of the Braves and increased their lead in the West Division to a full game over idle San Francisco.

Home runs by Darrell Evans, his 16th, and Dave Johnson, his 13th, accounted for all the Braves' runs off Andy Messersmith, who scattered six hits. Messersmith also contributed three singles and drove in a run in the Dodgers' third straight victory.

Rookie Mike Tyson slammed his first major league homer, leading Rick Wise and the Cardinals over the Expos. Tyson, hitting just .231 at game time, belted a Balor Moore pitch over the left field wall in the second inning.

Wise, pitching his second consecutive shutout, was touched for only two singles as he raised his record to 9-3.

SEVEN-RUN LEAD LOST

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees offer the best proof as to why the Texas Rangers have lost twice as many American League games as they have won this spring.

In a recent game in Yankee Stadium, Texas held a 7-0 lead in the top of the second inning. But the Yankees came on and won the game 9-7.

TROPHY TO MASSENGALE
GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Former PGA touring pro Don Massengale received the Paul Grossinger trophy at the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association's annual dinner following a round of golf over the Grossinger course. Massengale is the home pro at the Elmwood Country Club in White Plains, N.Y.

Massengale has two $65,000 years on the tour and has been Elmwood's pro the past two years. "Eleven years on tour were great," says Massengale, "but I wouldn't swap my club job for the tour again." He wants to be around to see his two small children grow up.

HAS BIRDIE PROOF

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Golf course architect Joe Finger of Houston, Tex., takes a lot of ribbing for some of the unusual holes he has designed at the Grossinger Country Club Course here. But Finger proved the "island green" on the sixth hole isn't such a tough par 5 hole after all.

Playing from the back tee, Finger drove over the creek in front of the fairway. He put his second ball within the iron shot of the "island green." Then he put a nine iron to the green and sank the 15-foot putt for a birdie 4.

"See," said Finger, "it's not a tough hole," after his playing partners had put three balls into the lake.

FILION GETS AROUND

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — May was a busy month for Canadian reinsman Herve Filion who in 1972 drove the winners of 605 harness races. In a two-week span he had won at four tracks — Yonkers, Roosevelt, Freehold and Northfield Park in Cleveland. He even made one trip to Saratoga, N.Y.

Filion won at all tracks but Saratoga. May put him on top for 1973 with 141 winners, five more than William (Buddy) Gilmour. Filion even went to Roosevelt Raceway one Sunday night when it was closed. But on that occasion he picked up from the New York Chapter of U.S. Harness Writers' Association his 1972 Achievement Award.

Random Tests For Drugs Set

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Athletes participating in National Collegiate Athletic Association competition will be subject to random tests for drug use beginning next fall, an NCAA official says.

Robert W. Pritchard, chairman of the NCAA's drug education committee, said the athletic organization would carry out urinalysis and other tests on athletes, following a decision reached at a recent NCAA convention.

"The situation is critical," he said.

The tests would not lead to punishment, Pritchard told the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee Monday, but would be used "only to gather facts which we hope will provide us with future direction" in fighting drug abuse.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., is

The 'Worry Clinic' Ripe Old Age For Diabetics

Elmer's case should alert every diabetic to the danger of zooming the level of sugar in our blood stream. But diabetics often live longer just because they are forced to rule their stomach by their brain, so it can be a blessing!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.C.
CASE X-537: Elmer G., aged 39, is a diabetic.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I recently developed a severe infection in my right foot."
"For a time, it looked as if I might lose that leg."
"Now the doctors have warned me not only to take my daily shot of insulin."

Our pancreas miraculously is "triggered" to secrete more insulin after we eat, or to reduce the output when the sugar level is normal.

But by the time we reach middle age, a reduction in many bodily hormones take place.

"But to wash my feet every night and also put on a clean pair of socks every morning."
"Why this tress on a diabetic's feet?"

Diabetic Psychology
Many patients with diabetes think it is a slur on their virility to be pronounced diabetic.

But that's no more true than to have your hair turn gray!

In our youth, most of us manufacture ample insulin to burn up the sugar in our blood. Normally, the sugar level should range between 80 and 120 points.

Thus, many pigment cells in our scalp apparently are unable to "paint" our hair black or brown or red, as formerly.

So we begin to show many gray hairs and even turn snowy white. Same is true of our pancreas, for we may now secrete only 50 units of insulin where as in youth we might produce 100 units.

Prior to 1922, when Drs. Banting and Best discovered insulin, the diabetics had to rely on rigid dieting to stay alive.

And if they were severe diabetics, they seldom survived very long.

Dr. Andrew C. Ivy's theory of cancer, now admitted by our leading cancer research experts, also states that in youth most of us also produced enough anti-cancer hormone to prevent the development of cancer cells.

But by middle age, many of us aren't secreting enough of that anti-cancer hormone (which he names Carcalon), so we also need to tap an outside source of Carcalon, as from horse blood.

Diabetics usually have run low on their internal production of insulin, so they "borrow" a daily outside "shot" via needle, to keep their blood sugar level in the 80 to 120 normal range.

If, however, they ignore their shots of insulin (or oral therapy), their blood sugar doubles, trebles or may run 400 to 500 units of sugar instead of that 80 to 120.

That's dangerous because germs thrive in sweeter blood!

So your feet thus need diligent care, for they encased in shoes, where the heat, plus the much sweeter blood, may then let infection zoom fast.

Diabetics thus should be doubly careful to pick hangnails or nick their skin when trimming their toenails!

They also need to wash their feet in soapsuds every night and be sure to wear freshly washed socks or stockings every morning!

Untreated diabetes likewise causes blindness, heart trouble and is often linked with lung infections, too.

But if you diabetics faithfully stay on your diet or take your daily outside shot of insulin, you can live to a ripe old age.

In fact, diabetics often live longer just because they are forced to rule their stomachs by their brain!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Very Ecumenical Performance

ROME (AP) — Conductor Leonard Bernstein says the concert he will perform before Pope Paul VI at the Vatican on Saturday will be "profoundly ecumenical."

"A Jew will be at the podium in the center of the Roman Catholic Church," Bernstein told newsmen Monday.

The concert will mark the 10th anniversary of Pope Paul's accession to the papacy.

Will Destroy Baby Chicks

WINDSOR, N.C. (AP) — The operator of a Windsor hatchery says that 4,000 baby chicks already hatched and several thousand eggs in various stages of incubation will be destroyed this week.

Glenn Lancaster of Lancaster's Hatchery said Monday several broiler producers had called in to say they did not want the chicks but would pay for them.

The chicks were to be grown out and sold as broilers. The broiler producers who had ordered the chicks apparently saw no hope of making a profit on them under the Nixon administration's price freeze.

Meanwhile, Paul Morgan of Morgan & Sons, a broiler processor at Greensboro, said that as a direct result of the Nixon price freeze, broiler production in North Carolina and the nation will be cut by 15 to 25 per cent.

Morgan said there will be "drastic cutbacks" in the number of eggs placed in incubators.

An indiscreet overcall by a member of the United States Team led to a substantial gain for Italy in today's hand, taken from last year's Olympiad won by the latter's renowned Blue Team.

The bidding given here occurred at the table where the Americans held the North-South cards. North was the dealer and passed, and—after two more passes—West opened the bidding with one heart. North chose to overcall with one spade, a doubtful procedure in view of the unfavorable vulnerability conditions and the fact that partner failed to open the bidding in third position—which he might have been expected to do with anything approaching the required values. In short, North had much to lose and very little to gain, inasmuch as he was offering the opposition a fielder's choice on the deal.

East doubled, as he held four defensive winners with the possibility of a further promotion in the trump suit if partner held a spade honor or as part of his opening bid values. South retreated to one no trump in an effort to extricate his side. This bid was passed back to East, who doubled once more and after South ran a second time—to two clubs—East doubled again. The bidding finally subsided at this point.

West opened the king of spades and when the smoke had cleared, declarer ended up with five tricks—which dealt the American team an 800 point setback. One spade or one no trump would have fared no better.

At the other table, West also opened the bidding in fourth position with one heart, but the Italian player seated North did not enter the auction and East and West routinely reached a contract of three no trump. Altho declarer could have taken 10 tricks, he played cautiously to assure his contract and ended up with a 400 point profit (100 for the trick score plus 300 which is awarded in tournament bridge for a non-vulnerable game).

Since Italy had scored 800 points at the other table with the East-West cards, their net profit on the deal was 400 points.

Poll On Watergate More See Nixon Involved

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N.J. — The reaction of the American public to Watergate, as of early June, can be summed up as follows:

1. Two out of every three Americans in the latest survey believe that President Nixon was involved, to at least some degree, in the Watergate affair.

2. At the same time, approximately half of all persons dismiss the Watergate affair as "just politics—the kind of thing that both parties engage in," although a sharply increasing number believe it is a "very serious matter," revealing corruption in the Nixon administration.

A series of questions was asked to determine public awareness of the Watergate affair, views on Nixon's degree of involvement, and whether or not the public regards Watergate as revealing corruption in the Nixon administration.

To measure awareness, this question was asked first: "Have you heard or read about Watergate?"

Following are the latest results, with the trend, starting with an early measurement during last fall's presidential campaign:

HAVE YOU HEARD OR READ ABOUT WATERGATE? (Trend in Awareness)
Sept. 22-25, 1972	52%
April 6-9, 1973	83
April 27-30	91
May 11-14	96
June 1-4	97

Another question in the Watergate series sought to find out whether the public believes Nixon was involved and to what extent:

"Here are four statements concerning President Nixon's connection with the Watergate affair. Will you please tell me which one comes closest to your own point of view?" (Survey respondent was handed a card with the four statements.)

The results show that 67 per cent of persons believe that Nixon was involved in Watergate, either in the planning or the cover-up. One in five (19 per cent) say he was not at all involved and 14 per cent have no opinion.

Nixon planned the Watergate "bugging" from the beginning	8%
Nixon did not plan the "bugging" but knew about it before it took place	28
Nixon found out about the "bugging" after it occurred, but tried to cover it up

Nixon had no knowledge of the "bugging," and spoke up as soon as he learned about it
No opinion—Not heard or read

Views on the extent of Nixon's involvement depend in considerable measure on one's political affiliation. For example, only three per cent of Republicans say Nixon planned the bugging from the beginning, compared to 14 per cent of Democrats. Correspondingly, at the other extreme, 37 per cent of Republicans say Nixon had no knowledge of the incident, while a far smaller proportion of Democrats (9 per cent) hold this view.

A mid-May survey showed 46 per cent of persons interviewed holding the view that Nixon knew in advance about the Watergate bugging and 56 per cent of the opinion that Nixon participated in a cover-up of the Watergate situation.

This question was also asked: "Which of these two statements comes closer to your point of view about Watergate?"

"1. It's a very serious matter because it reveals corruption in the Nixon administration.

"2. It's just politics—the kind of thing that both parties engage in."

The latest findings show a sharp increase since an early April survey in the percentage of Americans who feel that Watergate is a very serious matter. Three in ten held this view in April, while nearly one-half (47 per cent) do so in the latest survey. Here is the comparison:

	Serious Matter— Reveals Corruption	Just Politics	No Opinion— Not Heard or Read
April 6-9	31%	53%	16%
June 1-4	47%	46%	7%

The increase since April in the percentage of people saying the Watergate affair is a serious matter has been greatest among persons between the ages of 18 and 30—and among Democrats, providing still further evidence that the issue is becoming an increasingly partisan one.

Since April the percentage of Democrats describing Watergate as a "very serious matter" has climbed from 43 to 63 per cent, while the increase among Republicans has been from 13 to 25 per cent.

The findings reported today are based on interviews with a total of 1,546 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period June 1-4.

You can't lock out the truth

Freedom . . . of speech and of the press . . . belongs to all the people. To know what's going on in the world, and to have a voice in the course of events, are basic human rights. Americans are lucky. Our nation was founded upon these rights, and our Constitution protects them. What we have to do for ourselves is take care to protect the Constitution. We can't let anyone suppress the free flow of information. Because that's how we communicate . . . and how we govern ourselves.
