

Rising Costs Await New Energy Message From President; Due 'Soon'

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher costs for food, clothing and gasoline pushed consumer prices up sharply again last month, the government reported today. The increase was at a slightly slower rate than in April, however.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the rise in the cost of living in May at six-tenths of one per cent. This works out to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, down from the 8.4 per cent annual rate of increase that was projected in April.

In a separate report, the bureau said the purchasing power of workers declined last month because of price increases.

Food again accounted for a big rise in the cost of living, increasing nine-tenths of 1 per cent in May to a level 14.5 per cent above a year ago. On a seasonally adjusted basis, grocery prices rose 1.1 per cent in May, off from the 1.3 per cent jump the previous month and a record 3 per cent boost in March.

The over-all food index, which includes food purchased in grocery stores and restaurants, jumped 1.1 per cent in May seasonally adjusted. This followed increases of 1.4 per cent in April and 2.4 per cent in March.

However, the bureau said meat prices dropped one-tenth of 1 per cent unadjusted, reflecting in part the effects of the ceiling on meat prices ordered by the administration in March.

The consumer price report followed a gloomy report from the Agriculture Department earlier in the week predicting food prices will average 12 per cent higher this year despite the 60-day price freeze and President Nixon's promise of new Phase 4 controls. The effects of the 60-day price freeze will not begin to show in the consumer price report until July's report in June prices.

The total consumer price index, including food, other goods, and services, increased at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 8.7 per cent in the final three months of Phase 3 controls. This was an acceleration from the four per cent annual rate in the final three months of Phase 2 which ended in January. In the full 14 months of Phase 2, the annual rate of price increases held to 3.6 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to issue a new energy message shortly, again proposing government reorganization in the area.

Informed administration sources say three major reorganization proposals were under serious consideration:

—A legislative proposal to create a new Department of Energy and Natural Resources, built around the present Interior Department.

—The separation of energy research and development programs from Interior and the Atomic Energy Commission, uniting them under a new energy research agency.

—The appointment of a new energy policy coordinator in the White House, to report directly to the President.

Former Pennsylvania governor William W. Scranton was offered the job as White House "energy czar" but turned it down for personal reasons, sources said.

In addition, the new energy message was expected to propose increases in the federal budget for energy research and development and new energy conservation measures.

It is no secret that the administration will propose a Department of Energy and Natural Resources; Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said so in a recent television interview.

But Morton shed little light on the energy aspects of the package.

Informed sources said the administration may yet change its mind before the energy message is issued and decide to rely on an inter-agency energy policy committee, perhaps expanded from the present oil policy committee. Or it might press for Congressional approval of its earlier proposal for a three-member energy policy council modeled upon the Council of Economic Advisors.

The new energy message would be the second this year.

On April 18 Nixon sent an energy message to Congress removing oil import limits, proposing to end federal regulation of natural gas prices and proposing the general concept of a Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

His new message originally was expected late last week.

The White House would say only that the message would be issued "in the near future." One administration source anticipated it within "a few days."

Nuclear Restraint Guideline Agreed

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will sign today an "agreement on principles" regarding limitation on nuclear offensive weapons, White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler said.

The agreement, to be signed in midafternoon in the White House East Room in Washington, will outline basic principles of negotiation for U.S. and Soviet negotiators at the now-recessed Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT—in Geneva.

Ziegler said Nixon and Brezhnev put the finishing touches on their agreement late in the evening Wednesday in their summit talks here.

He said the President and the Communist leader, at the same time, will sign a second agreement between their two countries "on scientific and technical cooperation in the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

The announcement came as Nixon and Brezhnev prepared for their fourth day of direct talks.

They were to get together at 11 a.m. after meeting first privately with top aides.

Nixon and Brezhnev, who came to this presidential retreat 75 miles northwest of Washington Tuesday night, spent most of Wednesday afternoon and evening talking about international issues and the stalled efforts to achieve permanent limitations on their countries' massive nuclear arsenals.

As they began Wednesday's session, Brezhnev told newsmen that his talks with Nixon "without question," would produce "good results."

The agreement giving instructions to the Geneva SALT negotiators is not a treaty, but is considered essential to get the stalled arms limitations talks moving again.

It could rival in importance the pair of pacts reached last spring in Moscow when Nixon and Brezhnev held their first summit. Those accords placed permanent limits on nuclear defensive systems and a five-year limitation on some offensive missiles.

Before coming to Camp David, Nixon and Brezhnev witnessed the signing of four modest bilateral agreements on agricultural, oceanographic, transportation and cultural exchanges.

Tien, while they were at the presidential retreat Wednesday, lower-level officials signed a reciprocal income tax agreement.

Brezhnev is to host a banquet for Nixon and other ranking U.S. officials tonight at the Soviet Embassy, before meeting Friday morning with 40 select representatives of the American business community—presumably to encourage U.S. investment in his country.

Late Friday, the two leaders head west for Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., villa where they will continue the talks until Sunday, when Brezhnev heads back for Washington and a Monday departure from the United States.

Skylab Crew Prepares For Return Home

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab's astronauts quietly and efficiently put their space station in order today as they prepared to return to earth Friday at the end of a record 28-day mission.

On their last full day in orbit, Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz cleaned the house-size laboratory, getting it ready for the Skylab 2 crew that is to visit the station for 56 days starting July 27.

At their request, the astronauts were up an hour early today, at 2 a.m. EDT, to complete the two-day deactivation of the lab. Included was transfer of film, tapes and other experiment equipment into the Apollo ferry ship.

By 6 a.m., before most Americans were up, they were eating lunch and were ahead of schedule.

Later, the capsule communicator was greeted with a cheer when he told the crew the carrier Ticonderoga had practiced an Apollo recovery operation with a simulated landing at a distance of 4½ miles "and the time from splash to hatch open on the deck was 33 minutes."

"Fantastic," Conrad exclaimed. "But we hope to beat 4½ miles."

Pornography Is Dealt Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a 5-4 decision reversing a decade-long trend toward permissiveness, the Supreme Court today severely restricted the range of pornography protected by the Constitution.

In an opinion written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court held:

—Local community standards rather than national standards may be used in determining whether material is obscene and therefore not protected by the Constitution.

—That juries and courts no longer need to find that material is "utterly" without redeeming social value before they declare it obscene.

—Instead, Burger wrote, they may determine whether the work "taken as a whole lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value."

—That juries and courts no longer need to find that material is "utterly" without redeeming social value before they declare it obscene.

Seeks Fuel For Farmers

RALEIGH (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has appealed to Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz personally for help in the fuel crisis facing some North Carolina farmers.

"Please help me. I have gone through all the channels," Graham wrote by hand at the end of a typewritten letter to Butz.

Graham told the agriculture secretary in a survey of fuel distributors who have had their supplies cut off or reduced sharply, "I find that several hundred North Carolina farmers are without supplies of gasoline and tobacco fuels."

"Many farmers who are attempting to run their tractors on gasoline purchased from service stations are finding these purchases limited to 10 gallons or less, which you know is an extremely inefficient way to run a farming operation," Graham wrote.

He added that at the moment, "I do not see enough fuel in sight to make and dry our crops. We have not received satisfactory allocations under the voluntary compliance sys-

Sum For Farmville

An Economic Development Administration grant of $194,150 for improvements to the town of Farmville water system was announced today.

Separate announcements of the grant came from Rep. Walter Jones and Sen. Jesse Helms. Sen. Helms said he has worked with Farmville officials and the administrator of the FDA for early approval of the grant. "I am delighted that federal funding for this project has been approved so that Farmville can meet its critical needs for water and continue to prosper economically."

Jones said that the funds will be used to construct a 500 gallon-per-minute well and a 500,000 gallon elevated storage tank. The estimated total cost of the project is $388,300. Some $117,000 will come from state Clean Water bond funds and $77,000 will be supplied from a Farmville bond issue approved last year.

Between 20 and 30 citizens attended the budget hearing. Most of the individuals who spoke at the session spoke in favor of increased support for public education in both the city and county school systems.

Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, in brief, are developments in the Watergate case:

DEAN—John W. Dean III has quoted President Nixon as saying he had been told by late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that electronic surveillance had been used against Nixon in the 1968 presidential campaign.

GARMENT—White House aide Leonard Garment said logs provided to the Senate Watergate committee of Dean's meetings and phone conversations with Nixon "did not come from the White House." He said the document apparently is a Senate staff memorandum.

man Sen. Sam J. Ervin was reported to have decided to release nearly all the documents Dean took from the White House.

ACLU—The American Civil Liberties Union contended convictions of the seven watergate defendants should be thrown out because they resulted from "frauds upon the court."

HUNT—Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt's lawyer confirmed Hunt has testified former White House aide Charles W. Colson considered ordering Hunt to break into the home of the suspect in last year's shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace.

All But Confirm Refinery In The East

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A vice president of a Texas natural gas company has written a North Carolina state legislator all but confirming the firm's plan to construct a $300 million crude oil refinery in eastern North Carolina, a local television station said Wednesday.

In a related development, Station WTAR said another Texas firm confirmed that Continental Oil Co. plans a $200 million refinery in the West Norfolk section of Portsmouth.

The station said Transco Energy Co. Vice President Robert Smith has written a Murfreesboro, N. C., legislator his company considers a 1,300-acre tract in Hertford County, N.C., "the best crude oil refinery site on the East Coast."

Transco said it will ship crude oil from the Middle East to the firm's proposed West Norfolk terminal and pipe it to the Hertford site near the community of Tunis, N. C., the station said.

At the refinery the crude oil will be refined into natural gas equivalents. The plant capacity will be 100,000 gallons daily or about 400 million cubic feet of gas. The gas will be pipelined into the Transco network to Philadelphia and New York.

The station said a Continental Oil Co. spokesman confirmed his company is picking up options on 86 acres in West Norfolk next to 623 acres owned by Transco for the Portsmouth refinery.

Project engineer Kenneth McKinney said the object is to give the company room to build a $200 million (fuel oil) and naphtha refinery in the West Norfolk area.

McKinney said Continental will refine about 200,000 gallons of crude oil daily at the plant.

About 10,000 gallons will be used to operate the refinery; 140,000 gallons will be turned into fuel oil similar to that used in home furnaces and utility plants; and 40,000 gallons will be changed to naphtha and sold to Transco, he said.

He said Transco will change the naphtha into a natural gas equivalent at a plant yet to be constructed and will sell the natural gas in New England.

Year Of Solid Economic Growth Seen For N.C.

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Former Gov. Bob Scott said today indications point to "a good year of solid economic growth" for North Carolina and the Southeast.

In a talk prepared for the annual conference of the North Carolina Industrial Developers Association, Scott noted these economic factors:

—North Carolina merchants are expecting a 20 per cent boost in retail sales.

—The Employment Security Commission is predicting 53,000 persons will enter the labor market in North Carolina, bringing total employment to a record of 2.3 million.

The travel industry is expecting an even better this year than last when 45 million out-of-state visitors came to North Carolina.

Although start of single-family housing may not be up, increases in apartments and condominiums are expected to result in a 6 to 7 cents boost in construction activity in the state.

—The state's Commerce and Industry staff see no reason why 1973 will not equal or surpass last year's record in investment by industry in new and expanded plants.

—Gross farm income may be up slightly.

Scott, who is now executive vice president of the North Carolina Agribusiness Council, said the economic picture "is a continuation of the situation we have witnessed in the South for several years."

In a talk Wednesday night to an international affairs conference here, Scott blamed the current energy crisis on "poor long-range planning both by government and private industry."

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Sunday

RALEIGH — The Highland Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Lillian Kim Jarrell and Thomas Jarvis Tripp III.

The double ring ceremony took place Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. John Eddins, pastor of the bride, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. James Monroe Jarrell and the late Mrs. Jarrell of Raleigh. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Tripp, Jr., also of Raleigh. He is the grandson of Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Garris of Greenville.

The sanctuary was decorated with tiered candelabra containing bouquets of white summer flowers and greenery. At the altar was a white satin covered prie-dieu where the couple knelt for benediction. Family pews were marked with a single candle and satin bows.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Neal Padgett, organist. Tommy Rose, soloist, sang, "Give Me Thy Hand", "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal fitted gown of white silk organza, sleeveless with a scoop neckline and sweep train. The gown was highlighted with embroidered motifs and the cathedral length veil was covered with motifs attached to a lace cap. She carried a bouquet of miniature white roses and orchids tied with satin ribbons and streamers.

Miss Robin Jarrell attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a floral organza gown designed with a halter neckline accented by an empire waistline. Her headpiece was a crown of greenery and she carried a bouquet of pink roses with pink satin ribbons and long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Angela Tripp, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Connie Creech, Miss Debbie Ayscue and Miss Phyllis Massengill all of Raleigh. Their gowns, headpieces, and bouquets were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Jarvis Tripp Jr., father of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen included Wayland

MRS. THOMAS JARVIS TRIPP III

Denton and Ronnie Garris, cousin of the bridegroom of Greenville, Otha Barker and Jimmy Wilson of Raleigh.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a formal floral gown. The sleeveless bodice featured a V-neckline with an empire waistline. She carried a hand bouquet of a cymbidium orchid.

The grandmothers were remembered with purple throat orchids. For a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mrs. Tripp changed into a medium gray suit with pink and gray floral blouse and pink accessories. She wore the orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Garner High School and will enter Holding School of Nursing in September. The bridegroom is

Pool Owners Are Flooded With Friends

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are installing a swimming pool, and already everyone we know is asking if they can come over and use it when it's finished. We are not rich. We both work and are paying for this pool with our hard-earned money.

If we wanted to swim with a bunch of people, we'd go to a public pool. We are putting in our own because we want our privacy.

How do we tell these people that we aren't looking for company after our pool is completed? Or worse yet, what do we say to the neighbors when they come knocking at our door in their swimsuits? HIS AND HERS

DEAR H AND H: People with pools must have rules, but there's no point in alienating everyone before your pool is finished. Wait until it's ready for use, and alienate them one by one.

DEAR ABBY: Women are getting so nervy now with the Women's Lib thing, they are asking men to dance.

I had a harrowing experience the other night when my wife and I were at a public dance hall. She left me to go to the powder room, and you wouldn't believe the number of klutzes who moved in on me, asking me to dance with them. I am 68, bald and no bargain, but that didn't seem to make any difference.

Next time I'll go to the powder room with my wife. Phoebe on equal rights! BALDY

DEAR BALDY: Don't "phoebe" so fast. Why shouldn't women be able to ask men to dance? Some men would be delighted. And those who aren't can always say no.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are legally separated, and I am expecting next month. The doctor says it will be twins. [I already have one child.]

I want to send out birth announcements. Is this proper under the circumstances? If it is, should I write in my name only where it says, "Parents" on the announcement? Or should I include his too?

I hadn't even thought it might not be proper until my family raised the question. They all have different opinions. EXPECTING TWINS

DEAR EXPECTING: Under the circumstances, forego the printed announcements. Write a personal note to your close friends to inform them of the double-header.

DEAR ABBY: I am still chafing over the doctor who wrote that he resents his parents for allowing him to be circumcised as an infant.

Point one: What mature person would harbor such resentment for a temporary discomfort that he can't even remember? And point two: If he knew his business, he would know that cervical cancer among women whose husbands are circumcised is far less frequent than among the others. SIGN ME GLAD

Man Leaves Fortune Unknown

MANCHESTER, England (WNS)—Harry Taylor never earned more than $30 a week during his working years as a welder, but he never failed to bring his wife Ester a bouquet once a week even after he retired. Now that he has died at the age of 87, he has left her the surprise of her life: a $1.5 million fortune. "I knew that he dabbled in stocks, but I never dreamed that he had accumulated that much," said Mrs. Taylor, 85. "Harry always had the happy, magic touch."

Make Summer Meal

According to government statistics, over two million Americans—or one person out of 100—suffer each year from salmonellosis. This is one form of the malady popularly known as "food poisoning," and, while it is rarely fatal, it certainly can be uncomfortable and inconvenient.

Commercial kitchens in hospitals, restaurants, schools and hotels are required by law to maintain high standards of sanitation. Managers of such institutions are schooled in sanitary food-handling methods.

But during the summer months, many non-professional quantity food-handlers are thrust into positions of cooking for the church picnic, the girl scouts' campout or the family reunion. And, during the warm, humid summer months food-poisoning bacteria run rampant.

Precautions against "sickness germs" are the same, whether you are making chili in a camp kitchen or potato salad for the neighbors in the backyard. Following are some cleanliness rules to ward off food poisoning this summer:

1. Wash hands before preparing food and following any interruptions during food preparation. Wash hands again after handling raw meat, fish, poultry or eggs.
  2. Rinse utensils and food containers in water and then wash in soap or detergent and the hottest water available. Wash chopping blocks and counters before and after each use.
  3. Do not wash pet dishes in the kitchen sink if it can possibly be avoided. If you have no choice, scour the sink and adjacent areas thoroughly.
  4. Exterminate flies, insects and rodents.
  5. Use separate sponges or dishcloths for counter-wiping and dishwashing.
  6. Cook foods thoroughly and serve immediately after cooking or refrigerate. Store leftovers promptly in the refrigerator or discard. Food that has thawed must be cooked, never refrozen. Plan picnic menus with the least perishable foods. Avoid serving foods containing eggs such as custards or sauces, and salads made with mayonnaise unless they can be refrigerated as soon as they are prepared.
  7. Scrub picnic tables and benches, vinyl tablecloths and placemats and serving utensils. Wash meat grinders and slicers immediately after using them.
  8. Learn to keep hands out of food and away from dish and utensil surfaces that come in contact with people's lips. Do not taste with the cooking spoon or lick your fingers.
  9. Insist that all campers and family members wash before eating.
- Finally, remember that just because it's a picnic (or church supper or campout or whatever), does not mean anything goes. On the contrary, more precautions must be taken because more people are involved and the conditions for bacteria growth are more prevalent. Why ruin a good time with a bad after-effect? Make this summer a healthy one by emphasizing sanitation in food handling.

Agriculture Economy Helped

Although rapidly increasing food prices are causing problems for family budgets the higher farm income is going to mean a better economy for our area.

We are still a heavily farming oriented economy in Eastern North Carolina and when the farmers prosper it means more business for shops and stores and more money for the better things of life.

Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell has predicted a rise of nearly $2 billion in net farm income for 1973.

"These are exciting days in American agriculture and especially challenging for state commissioners of agriculture in the South, where farming is so much more diversified," he said at the Southern Association of State Agriculture Departments' meeting last week.

He predicted that Southern states will get an increasing share of national livestock and timber production.

"At least one Southern state is among the top 10 states in cash receipts for 23 of the 25 major agricultural enterprises," he said. "That means the South is deeply involved in nearly everything grown or raised on a farm, from corn to cattle, from broilers to soybeans and from peanuts to apples and barley and tomatoes."

Campbell said net farm income has risen 31 percent in the past four years. He expects it to hit a record $21 billion this year.

It is encouraging that after all these years of attempting to build a sound farm economy in the South the efforts of so many people and organizations at last seem to be paying dividends.

Back in the 1930s the South was often referred to as the nation's number one economic problem, and this was due to a great extent to the extremely poor return from farming.

Now farming seems to be prospering in the South and our farmers have done the right things in diversifying and mechanizing. This new farm prosperity is apparent in Eastern North Carolina and it is most welcome.

Like A Breath Of Fresh Air

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
East Carolina University,
News Bureau Director
Greenville, N.C.—Math and music are interests Jerome Hines pursues with restless enthusiasm.

Professionally, he is a singer of international reputation, a veteran of 27 seasons with the Metropolitan Opera Company and countless concert tours.

As a vacation, he turns to the intellectual stimulation of mathematics. He recently ended a "vacation" at East Carolina University, lecturing and conducting seminars in higher mathematics.

His visit was an interlude of relaxation in the calm atmosphere of a small university campus, and also a reunion with a friend from student days at the University of California at Los Angeles, Dr. Tullio J. Pignani, ECU mathematics chairman.

"It's peaceful, pleasant and stimulating here," Hines said of ECU. "It's like a breath of fresh air to come to a place like this. It must be nice to live here."

Tall (6-6) and trim at 51, the singer said he lives on an upbeat tempo.

A Restless Pace
"Yes, I'm restless. At least my wife, Lucia, says I'm a restless person. I go at two different paces, both of which I enjoy," he said.

"For a long time I was searching for something. But I found that 18 years ago when I discovered God, through Christ. Suddenly my search was years ago was over."

Hines confessed to restless activity, both mental and physical. "I have a lot of energy," he said. "I find it relaxing to change the form of my activity."

"My profession has tensions and they build up. So I change to non-professional activity, and the tension goes away. There's no tension in swimming and scuba diving, collecting coral and building walkways, or putting the complexities of mathematics into their simplest basic terms."

Truth In Simple Form
Mathematics, Hines said, "is Truth in its simplest form." And, he added, "the beauty of it is that we all have a computer (the mind)—a superb computer that no amount of electronic hardware and programming can match."

"No computer can solve such problems as crossing a street, dodging a car or catching a ball so quickly and effectively. It all involves basic mathematics principles."

As a youngster Hines disliked math and was poor at it. He had been allowed to skip some early grades in grammar school and it was not until about the ninth grade that a teacher went back and taught him the basics of adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing.

"Then I became fascinated and began to study math in earnest," he recalled.

Author On Mathematics
Now Hines, who holds degrees in math, chemistry and physics, is preparing a series of 12 mathematics papers for publication. Pignani and his ECU staff are assisting in the editing.

Hines' papers deal "with some of the concepts I have developed. We re-examine the basic issues and go from there."

Hines and Pignani were UCLA students in the classes of the Dr. William Whyburn, who came to the ECU mathematics department before his death last year.

Hines appeared in an operatic concert here in 1972. Between performances, he wandered into the math classrooms. He solved problems as a relaxation between performances.

The so-called "new math" instruction in secondary schools got a bad review from the musician-mathematician. He called it a poorly-grounded concept, whose weakness does not show up until the student reaches the theory stage and enters higher mathematics analysis. "Then, failure to grasp the basic concepts of math loses the student," he observed.

Dr. Whyburn shared the belief that "new math" creates student confusion, Hines recalled. "He told me, 'Why, they won't be able to add a laundry ticket,'" he said.

Hines left North Carolina for his island home on Bonaire, off the coast of Venezuela. In addition to vocal exercise, he will practice his Christian faith through broadcasts over Transworld Radio, the world's largest interdenominational church radio. Hines will sing hymns in Russian, German, Portuguese, Spanish, Italian and English.

Next spring in Memphis, Tenn., he will produce his own opera based on the life of Christ which he has done previously in Miami and Detroit.

Annual Session Idea Oversold?

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH—It is certainly no foregone conclusion that North Carolina's Legislature will stick with annual sessions.

As a matter of fact, it seems certain at this time that a strong move will be made in the General Assembly next year to go back to meeting every other year.

The North Carolina Legislature adjourned in June and scheduled another session to begin January 16 of next year. Most people figured this would be the start of annual sessions and while it may be, that fact is no longer assured.

"Annual sessions are the most oversold thing since Lipton tea," said Sen Eddie Knox of Mecklenburg.

Former House Speaker Phil Godwin, now a state Senator from Gateville, tells me: "I don't think annual sessions are going to work, and I sure don't think the taxpayers will be able to afford them."

It would appear that what happens in the Legislature next year will determine the future of annual sessions.

Rep. Craig Lawing of Mecklenburg was a strong supporter of annual sessions when the matter came before the Legislature last year. Now he isn't quite so sure.

"It suits me better to spend four months in Raleigh one year and three months the next year," Rep. Lawing said, "rather than spending seven months at one stretch every other year."

"But we were two weeks late adjourning this year. If we get away next year by April 1, or by April 15 at the latest, then I'll still be for annual sessions. But if we're still meeting on May 1, I will introduce a bill myself to go back to the system we had before of meeting every other year."

Ten-term Senator Julian R. Allsbrook of Roanoke Rapids has always been opposed to annual sessions. He tells me some of the people in the Legislature who supported annual sessions last year are now having second thoughts.

"We left a lot of unfinished work and continued it until next year," Allsbrook said. "Either we're going to be in Raleigh longer than people planned when we went to this experiment, or we're going to deal with legislation in such haste that we might be prone to do a bad job."

Sen. Allsbrook contends annual sessions will result "in a tremendous increase in the cost of government at every level."

Sen. Knox says he fully expects a strong bid to be made next year to put the Tar Heel Legislature back on a schedule of meeting every other year.

"I'm not sure we can stop it now," Knox said. "It would be just like jumping off a moving train. But annual sessions will meet with some very strong resistance next year. If we don't get away from it, a lot of good people are going to have to get out of the Legislature. I'd say Phil Godwin would fall into this category."

In addition to the heavy workload that the Legislature put off until next year, some legislators believe new bills—which will be time consuming—will be introduced next session.

"I called up there the other day," Knox said, "and learned that 20 new bills had already been drafted for next year, and we haven't been out of session but a month."

Says Rep. Lawing: "I don't agree that annual sessions will cost the taxpayers more money, if we follow the rules we made when we tried this. But if we sit up there and prolong each session, then it'll get costly and run everybody out of a chance to serve. I'd say we'll find out next spring what the future holds for annual sessions."

Strength For Today

UP FROM TROUBLE
The jet aircraft was coming in for a landing when suddenly the pilot gunned the engines, shot upward through the clouds, and took a position in a holding pattern. The passengers were surprised and alarmed, particularly when the plane circled over an hour before finally coming in for a landing.

Upon leaving the plane a passenger asked the pilot had been aborted. "Oh," said the pilot, "there was trouble on the ground, and when there is trouble you always go up."

That night in his hotel room the passenger turned over in his mind what the pilot had said. In his life there had been a good deal of trouble but it had never occurred to him that a proper response to it might be to go up. He had sought solutions which he arrived at were partial and temporary. But in the coming years, when through prayer he achieve a peace he had never known before, he often thought gratefully of the pilot who had said, "When there is trouble on the ground, always go up."

Question Of Threshold

FREDERICKSBURG, VA.—The Virginia State Bar met in this historic and lovely little city last week and I drove down from Scrabble to serve as a luncheon speaker. Fredericksburg figured in the American Revolution and 80-odd years later in the War for Southern Independence. Its old brick walks have known the boots of patriots and rebels (or, depending on your point of view, of rebels and of patriots)—boots of men who disobeyed the rule of law.

I had lately been rereading Antigone, that exquisitely wrought drama of conscience versus crown, and I had been grappling with several hundred letters having to do with Daniel Ellsberg. It occurred to me, driving down to Fredericksburg, to speak to the lawyers, who live by the law, on the ancient theme of disobedience to law. Can such disobedience ever be justified? And if so, how?

The threshold question is easily crossed. Of course there are circumstances when disobedience to law offers the only recourse against injustice or oppression. If our founding fathers had submitted tamely to the rule of law, the American Revolution would be remembered as the American rebellion, and the rebel Washington would have been hanged.

The right to overthrow oppressive government—more accurately, the right to attempt to overthrow—is at least as old as the House of Thebes. At lesser orders of magnitude, this same right to break the law regularly has been invoked by men and women of strong wills and stubborn heads. It is a long pathy but a straight one, from Antigone to Carrie Nation; the line runs from Socrates, who taught impieties in ancient Greece, to Scopes, who taught Darwinian theory in Tennessee.

Yet the path, on examination, is not all that clear. In our own time, one finds deserters, draft evaders, student demonstrators, and men who steal documents all along the way. If certain unlawful acts can be justified morally—and my argument is that of course they can—what are these circumstances that permit extenuation?

Half a dozen guidelines, it seems to me, might be tentatively put forward. The act of disobedience should be the last resort, not the first. Lawful remedies must be patiently explored; the mechanisms provided by society for the redress of grievances must be given a fair chance to work.

To borrow from Mr. Jefferson, the act cannot be motivated by "light or transient causes." Whether the purpose is American independence, or Southern independence, or an end to segregation on the buses of Birmingham, the cause cannot be petty, or trivial, or merely personal.

The unlawful act must bear some relationship, directly or symbolically, to the grievance complained of. Pouring blood on draft records made a certain symbolic sense; trashing the streets of Georgetown, in the name of peace in Vietnam,

Other Editors Say Modest Start

(The N.Y. Times)
President Nixon's "Year of Europe" has been such a non-starter to date that any positive act to refurbish this country's relations with its Atlantic allies merits commendation. NATO foreign ministers took such a step in Copenhagen last week when they agreed to review their military, political and economic relations in light of an international situation vastly different from the one that gave birth to the Alliance twenty-four years ago.

The review will be carried out in Brussels by the permanent representatives of the fifteen member nations. This body has not commanded much attention in recent years; but it may represent the proper level at which to begin the long-haul effort to construct the "revitalized Atlantic partnership" called by Henry Kissinger a few weeks ago.

NATO Secretary-General Joseph Luns, who worked hard to persuade the ministers to commission the study, doubtless exaggerated in calling the decision "a broad underwriting of the position of the United States" as disclosed by Dr. Kissinger. But it was decidedly better than nothing at a time when much of the trans-Atlantic dialogue has been marked by suspicion and acrimony. It was something of a triumph for Secretary of State Rogers that he persuaded a reluctant France to go even this first mile.

Mr. Rogers reiterated Mr. Nixon's promise to maintain the American troop strength in Europe pending negotiations with Soviet bloc, expected to begin in October, for mutual and balance reductions in force levels. But the allies know full well that pressures for unilateral American withdrawals may become irresistible if the negotiations for further European support bog down.

The NATO representatives hope to agree on at least a preliminary report on Alliance principle and inter-allied relationships in a changed and changing world in time for President Nixon's scheduled visit to Brussels this fall. Such a report would fall far short of the "new Atlantic Charter" envisioned by Dr. Kissinger; but it would have some utility at a crucial time for the trans-Atlantic connection.

Ervin Relishing 'Old Morality'

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a country lawyer by his own description, Sen. Sam J. Ervin is flavoring the Senate Watergate hearings with a taste of back home morality.

The North Carolina Democrat has drawn from the Bible, an occasional adage, an old philosophy professor and a St. Louis lawyer to make his point at the televised hearings.

Finance men in future campaigns wondering how to handle political money openly should keep in mind the biblical passage which says, "Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil," the committee chairman advised at one hearing.

"I hate to make comparisons," Ervin said after questioning former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W.

Sloan Jr. about Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy's role in converting campaign checks into cash. "But I would have to say ... Mr. Liddy in one respect was like the Lord. 'He moves in mysterious ways, his wonders to perform.'"

Ervin also told Sloan that his testimony had "renewed my faith in the old adage that 'an honest man is the noblest work of God.'"

Taking note of Sloan's testimony that perjury was involved in the Watergate case, Ervin was moved to "meditate for a moment on the old saying, 'what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive.'"

After arguing with Gerald Alch, former lawyer for Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr., about the admissibility of lie detector tests in court, Ervin said:

"An old lawyer in St. Louis made a speech some time ago in which he said, 'Do not waste your time looking up the law in advance, because you can find some federal district court that will sustain any proposition you make.'"

After asking Alch about a book McCord planned to write, Ervin quoted the scriptures:

"Much study is a weariness to the flesh and of making books there is no end." He added, "It seems that everybody who gets into jail today wants to write a book about it."

Commiserating with former New York policeman John J. Caulfield's dilemma of choosing between McCord, a friend, and President Nixon, Ervin remembered "what my old philosophy professor told me. The greatest trials we have in this

Files Dirty Jokes

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
NICE, France (AP) — There's something distinctly unfunny about a man who has filed away over 60,000 dirty jokes.

Gershon Legman admits it himself: for someone who doesn't mind being called the world's greatest authority on erotic humor, he's not a very ha-ha guy.

Legman has an archivist's heart that makes his telling of a filthy story turn into something like an ornithologist's sighting report.

"I heard this one first in central Tennessee..." he'll say, and then fill in an historical-psychological analysis of the story before absent-mindedly tossing away the punchline.

He began research in 1938 for the first volume of a book, "The Rationale of the Dirty Joke."

Until he stopped to spend more time on folk songs and limericks, Legman, of Scranton, Pa., went around talking to people about anything long enough until he could lay his standard question on them: "What is the dirtiest joke you've ever heard?" The answer was normally fed into the Legman filing system with scholarly rigor.

Legman, though an American, has lived in the south of France for about 25 years with much of time going into his great compilation, which has been published in about 10 languages.

What he has perceived is that American dirty stories often have racial or homosexual themes. The Germans and Dutch are scatological, he says, and the basic French motifs deal with adultery and impotence, whatever the subject, he says, British jokes are essentially aggressive and full of one-upmanship.

Legman's theory on why people tell dirty jokes is that they are an outlet for hostility and anxiety.

"The teller is often forcing his jokes on his audience, and passing his fears on to them. When you laugh, he's reassured. Tell me your favorite story and I'll tell you something about your sex life."

Two Greenville Reservists Help Restoring Old Cannon

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
HAMILTON — The pattern of people participation in the mission of restoring the Civil War cannon and equipment salvaged from the Roanoke River near Martin County's Fort Branch continues to expand.

The latest in the continuing saga is assistance provided by two men from Greenville's Army Reserve 398th Supply Company.

The two, 1st Lt. Kenneth Wheeler and S-Sgt. Franklin Meeks, were in Hamilton late Tuesday afternoon to assist personnel of the State Department of Art Culture and History restoration team from Fort Fisher, Wilmington, who are now working on restoring the weapons.

"Franklin and I used the 398th's five ton wrecker to lift the largest of the cannon from the ground into a preservative pit," Wheeler, company commander of the 398th Supply Company explained.

"The cannon is a pretty heavy weapon," Wheeler said. "Henry Winslow told us it weight 8,000 pounds. I think every pound of its was there, too."

Wheeler and Meeks used the wrecker's crane to lift the cannon from the ground at a storage spot in downtown Hamilton. Water has been sprayed periodically on the weapon to keep it from drying out and becoming brittle.

"We also placed a couple of trunnions in the preservative pit for the restoration team," Wheeler said. Wheeler said men of the 298th would be giving assistance at a future date when it was time to remove the cannon from the vat.

Restoration personnel engaged in on-the-spot measures to begin the process of removing more than a century of accumulated encrustment are Leslie Bright, a Marine Preservationist and Gordon Watts, an Underwater Archeologist, both of the State Department of Art, Culture and History restoration team from the Fort Fisher (Wilmington) Preservation Laboratory. "We were here earlier on an observation visit," Bright, who heads the restoration project, said. "As things stand now, provided no complications arise, we should be able to complete the restoration of the pieces by the middle of July."

In addition to the larger cannon, which is approximately 11 feet in length, two other cannons and several fragments were recovered. "Two of the cannons were recovered with carriages attached," Bright said. "All these pieces seem to be in a remarkable state of preservation considering the length of time they were underwater." It has been nearly a year since the Civil War weapons were salvaged early last summer from the Roanoke River after having lain buried in the soft mud of the river bed for well over 100 years.

Bright explained the major steps he and Watts will follow in restoring the cannons to the best possible condition. "First there's electrolytic reduction, commonly called electrolysis," he said. "When this process is completed, the pieces will be brought close to the boiling point to remove traces of the chemical. After that, they will be dried and a protective coating applied to the surfaces."

Bright said university students from Raleigh as well as local people are providing valuable assistance in the work being done. A protective fence has been erected. "This will safeguard the weapons and still give visitors a chance to see them," Bright explained.

A committee last year was formed in Martin County for restoration and preservation of Fort Branch, about four miles east of Hamilton. The earth works fort stands on a bluff locally known as Rainbow Banks above the Roanoke River. Henry Winslow is president of the committee.

Currently, ownership of the salvaged cannon is under litigation.

Kilgo . . .

Those who elect deliberately to break the law should understand they have no right to break the law with impunity. They must accept the risk of punishment; and once brought to the bar, they must challenge the hated law head-on, without pettiffogery or evasion. It is this consideration, among other, that distinguished Martin Luther King from Daniel Ellsberg.

The act of disobedience should be open, not covert. One searches in vain to find moral justification for the draft dodger who goes underground, or for the anonymous peacenik who defaces public property and runs away.

Finally, the act should inflict no pain, suffering, or serious hardship on innocent persons, not responsible for the grievance alleged. The bombing of public buildings would be a case in point.

Mind you, I am not suggesting that any one of these considerations, or all of them together, add up to exculpation. Moral justification is one thing, legal justification quite another. Law must be enforced, as Creon told Antigone, "when it is right, and even when it's not." Men who elect to act beyond the rule of law may wind up in the pages of history as heroes, patriots and martyrs; but the preservation or order demands that most of them, like King, spend some time first in the Birmingham jail.

Italy not only won the World Bridge Olympiad held in Miami Beach last June, but captured the Women's Team event as well. A strong performance by South Africa, whose contingent, incidentally, was coached by my good friend and longtime teammate — Peter Leventritt of New York City, enabled them to emerge with runnerup honors. The United States finished third.

In today's hand, taken from the match between Italy and the American Ladies' Team, the latter muffed an opportunity to gain a substantial swing. The bidding is presented at the table where the United States held the North-South cards. West opened the bidding with one club and East responded with one diamond. Inasmuch as South held substantial values and both major suits, she chose to make a takeout double in preference to overcalling in spades.

North chose to respond with one heart on a three-card suit, in preference to bidding one no trump, which usually designates about 8 or 9 points. When South showed her spades next, North rebid one no trump. As North had shown some signs of life, South took the slightly aggressive course of jumping directly to four hearts. For obvious reasons, North corrected to four spades, which became the final contract.

West opened the ace of diamonds and shifted at trick two to a low club. North played the eight, East the queen and South won the trick with the ace. Declarer cashed the ace of spades and, when the jack appeared from West, continued with the king on which her left hand opponent discarded a diamond.

A low heart was led to dummy's king so that declarer could sluff her losing club on the king of diamonds. A diamond ruff put South back in to lead the ten of spades which dislodged East's queen. A diamond return forced declarer again and she had to use her last trump, the ten, to draw East's remaining spade.

South was down to the A-9-7 of hearts while West retained the queen-ten and the king of clubs. Declarer was obliged to concede the lead to her opponent in hearts and the latter cashed her high club for the setting trick. If declarer had finessed North's jack of hearts at trick five, instead of leading over to the king, she would have taken 10 tricks on the deal.

At the other table, when the Italian Team held the North-South cards, they never entered the auction. The American West opened the bidding with one diamond and her partner responded with one spade on the East hand. This call served to keep South out of the auction altogether. West rebid two clubs and East took a simple preference to two diamonds which was passed out.

Declarer was held to seven tricks and Italy scored a profit of 50 points at both tables. If the American South had made four spades, her team would have gained 370 points on the deal (the bonus for a non-vulnerable game is 300 points) instead of losing 100.

Art Work Shown This Week By Three Seniors

TRIO... of works by three ECU senior artists. From left to right, a detail from Frederic Foushee's design for screwdrivers; a pottery candle holder, Jan Mann; and a portion of a painting by Owen Waddell. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Three seniors of the School of Art, East Carolina University, are offering some welcome early summer diversion in individual shows on view at three places — in the Student Union Gallery and the third floor of Rawl Building, both on campus, and at the Mushroom Art Gallery, downtown Greenville.

The three, Miss Jan Mann at the Mushroom; Frederic Steven Foushee in the Student Union Gallery; and Owen Alexander Waddell, Jr., in the gallery on Rawl's top floor, have their work on view this week only. Viewers wishing to take the three in have little time left to see their works.

In more than a dozen paintings, Waddell covers a wide spectrum of deep shadow-suggestive colors — grays, dark blues, black-greens, red browns.

References to grids, to landscapes, and to forms from imagination provide an interesting scope to this senior's rewarding exhibit.

Foushee's commercial designs, displays, page inserts, lettering specimens and a few photographs, are in color and black and white. This commercial design show would gain from better lighting than is provided in its present location.

At the Mushroom, Jan Mann again shows her affinity for bits and pieces of small driftwood worked into slow moving mobiles. Miss Mann's sure touch with this material clearly indicated the Nags Head native has acquired from childhood a love of handling and treasuring the nature she shaped bits of wood. Jan is also showing pots and vases in earth beiges and browns. These have a natural beauty that are perfect companions to the driftwood mobiles.

Mail Delivery For Snow Hill To Begin

Beginning July 7, the 2,500 residents of Snow Hill, will begin receiving city delivery of their mail for the first time.

Carl C. Ulsaker, Regional Postmaster General, Southern Region, Memphis, Tenn., said he has authorized District Manager Joe Wise of Charlotte to commence delivery of mail to Snow Hill residents on that date.

Under postal regulations, residents are required to provide their own mail boxes on the curbside in front of their homes.

Ulsaker said the city delivery of mail will be accomplished by two auxiliary city routes serving the business district and the curbside delivery to residential areas.

No change will occur in the rural delivery of mail beyond the city limits. Uniformed city letter carriers will make the daily deliveries to 700 family units in Snow Hill.

Prior to the commencement of city delivery, residents of Snow Hill who lived within one-fourth mile of the post office had to walk to the post office to get their mail from rented boxes or from the general delivery window.

Ulsaker said, "We are pleased to offer this improved mail service for the families and business firms of Snow Hill."

New Area Code For Va. Phone Calls Slated

TARBORO—Starting June 24, a new area code - 804 - will become effective for making long distance calls to the southeast portion of Virginia.

The present area code - 703 - will be retained for calling telephone subscribers in the northern and western portions of the state.

Some of the major cities in the new 804 area are Richmond, Newport News, Norfolk, Charlottesville, Danville, and Lynchburg.

In the future, the 703 area will include Arlington, Alexandria, Culpepper, Fredericksburg, Roanoke, Staunton, and Martinsville.

The boundary line between the two areas extends from a point near Fredericksburg down through the Blue Ridge Mountains to the area near Martinsville.

Nominate Four To Art Board

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Art Society has nominated four persons to the Board of Trustees of the state art museum. The action is the first in what may be a series of changes in the board.

Renominated as members were Mrs. George W. Paschal Jr. of Raleigh and Dr. Joseph C. Sloane of Chapel Hill. Nominated as new members were Gordon Hanes of Winston-Salem and Finley T. White of Durham.

Supervisors Took Course

Twenty-two supervisors from seven state agencies have completed the Management Development Seminar hosted by East Carolina University.

The seminar, held in New Bern, was directed by Dr. Lester Zerfoss, Governor's Consultant for Management Development.

The event is part of North Carolina's Management Development Program, an effort to establish a work climate which encourages the growth, development and effective utilization of employees.

The participants attended lecture, workshop and discussion sessions on various supervisory skills.

They included representatives from the following departments of state government: Motor Vehicles, Mental Health, Health, Social Services, Highway, Personnel and Revenue.

Mayor Entered In Putt-Putt Benefit

Mayor Eugene West will appear at Greenville Putt Putt Golf Festival for the benefit of the mentally retarded, sponsored by Greenville Putt Putt and WNCT-Radio.

The festival is a week-long affair beginning June 23 and running through June 30 in which golfers may play two hours of golf between 5:30 and 7:30 each night for 75 cents. All proceeds from the week will be donated to the North Carolina Association for Retarded Children.

WNCT Program Manager,

Gene Trent, said that the association works with other agencies to coordinate needed services and to inform the General Assembly of the needs of the retarded in North Carolina. Consultation is offered to parents and families who face the problems of mental retardation, and most important, funds go to support research to discover the causes and prevention of mental retardation. To date, there are over 150,000 mentally retarded citizens of North Carolina.

Advance tickets for the festival can be purchased at Greenville Putt Putt and donations given by calling WNCT at 758-1070.

WELCOME, BUT— CHARLOTTE (AP) — The general president of the Textile Workers Union of America, Sol Stetin, said Wednesday that a pay increase in some Southern textile mills is welcome but that he hopes "this time the increases will not be too little and too late" to curtail a labor shortage.

Britisher Flays Ervin Hearings

LONDON (AP) — A leading British columnist Thursday compared U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin's technique in the Watergate hearings to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy's badgering of alleged Communists and security risks in the 1950s.

Columnist Bernard Levin of The London Times said the Senate Watergate committee "is just about the most scandalous violation of every standard of justice to take place in a free society since the southern gentry abandoned lynching as their favorite outdoor sport."

Ervin, D-N.C., heads the committee, which has postponed its sessions until the conclusion of a U.S. visit by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Times' editorials have been critical of the hearings. Levin, just back from 10 days in the United States, said witnesses who stood up to Ervin, who "denied his accusations and refused to implicate anybody else, were torn to pieces."

"Those who agreed with everything he said and hastened to add the names of others were given an easy passage and congratulated at the end of their session," he said.

McCarthy's Senate hearings in the 1950s probed into the private lives of hundreds of accused persons.

Levin criticized Ervin's "yokum-hokum — the mugging and grimacing, the posturing and posing and hamming."

"The conduct of the chairman is so deplorable that the lack of any serious protest against his behavior is in itself a measure of the loss of nerve on the part of so many distinguished Americans ...," he said.

City Counts 2 Accidents

An estimated $2,700 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday.

Greenville police reported heaviest damage — an estimated $800 to each of two cars involved — resulted from a 7:30 a.m. collision at the intersection of First and Harding Streets involving cars driven by Pell Pickett Fulp of Durham and Stanley Andrew Figlewski of 108 North Oak St.

Officers, who reported Figlewski was injured in the mishap, charged Miss Fulp with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Carol Lynn Ball of London Inn was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of a 2:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Officers reported the Ball car collided with a car driven by Frank Wendell Sanders of 1713 Morningside Pl.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the Sanders car and $600 to the Ball auto.

I Can't Get That Done In Chase Manhattan Plaza'

By GORDON F. JOSELOFF
MOSCOW (UPI) — The wire of Alfred Wentworth's intercom snaked across the thick, green carpet of his new Chase Manhattan Bank office in the hotel Metropole. Obviously, it would not do.

"I told madame (the hotel representative) to hide it—cut into the wall or something," Wentworth said.

"She asked when could she get it done. I said we don't work Saturday and Monday in an American holiday. I came back today and it was finished. "I can't get that done at One Chase Manhattan Plaza in New York."

For Wentworth, a Chase senior vice president and the first American banker to be accredited to Moscow in 50 years, the story is typical of the first class treatment the Soviets have been giving him, his wife and his American assistant.

"Pleasantly Surprised" It is part of the current Soviet drive for better relations with the United States, particularly American businessmen.

"We're doing surprisingly well," the 27-year Chase veteran said in an interview. "I know it sounds as if I've gone bush or something, but we came in with low expectations and have been pleasantly surprised."

It took Wentworth and his assistant, Dick Buckley, and a two-man Chase team from New York, about six weeks to convert three hotel rooms into their new office, opened in mid-May.

Carpeting, drapes, paint, furniture and even the art work came from Chase headquarters.

No Banking Facilities The office has no banking facilities. Its sole function is to help Chase customers do business with Soviet trading organizations.

Bank of America recently announced it would soon open a similar office. First National City Bank of New York is likely to shortly receive Soviet approval for its office.

About the only frustration Wentworth admits to so far concerns communications.

"Not being able to deal on the telephone is a very frustrating thing," the 53-year-old, 6-foot-4, former infantry officer said. "In New York you do a great deal. The phone service is good. People are willing to speak on the phone and there is no language difficulty."

"Here all three things are reversed. Service isn't that good. English is a problem. As a result, I find myself chasing all over town. It delays things. It just takes a bit longer to do things here."

Drives A Chaika To help him do the chasing, Wentworth has two Soviet cars and drivers. He is probably the only western businessman driving around town in a Chaika, a luxury Soviet car that resembles a Cadillac of the late fifties.

Wentworth and his wife, Nancy, first visited Moscow in February. They decided they liked the city and two months later sold their home in Short Hills, N.J., and came here for a full tour of duty—about two years. Their only previous overseas post was four years in London.

Unlike some other foreign businessmen and airline representatives who have lived in hotels for up to three years, the Wentworths were lucky to move immediately into their own apartment—a sublease 15 minutes from the Chase office.

The three bedroom apartment—actually two apartments converted into one—is located in one of about a dozen apartment building complexes for foreigners scattered around Moscow. Soviet security police mount a 24-hour guard at the compound entrance.

"The Russians have been extremely kind to us," said Mrs. Wentworth, a blonde mother of two grown sons. "I'm told they have done things for us that they have not done for other people at all."

Will Study Russian

To help her run her household, Mrs. Wentworth has a Russian maid who speaks some English. (Neither of the Wentworths speak Russian, although Wentworth did take an intensive 40-hour course at Berlitz. Both plan to study the language.)

"I think the only small problem is getting used to the food situation," Mrs. Wentworth said, referring to the lack of fresh vegetables for much of the year. "It's just a matter of looking back into my memory book of recipes and coming up with things like we had when we were first married."

"You don't expect to find American hamburger in Moscow and you don't expect to find a good bowl of borsch in New York City."

To supplement what is available here, Mrs. Wentworth brought plenty of nonperishable food and drug supplies with her. "I spent about $500 in a Short Hills supermarket in one afternoon," she said.

The Wentworths expect to move into their own apartment in the early fall. Like the office, a professional interior decorator will design it from floor plans and all the furniture will be shipped from New York.

Golf, Anyone?

Opening the office, hosting a large reception for bank chairman David Rockefeller—Chase paid 6,000 rubles ($8,280) to rent the Metropole Hotel restaurant for the evening—and getting settled into their temporary home left little time for much else for the Wentworths.

But now they expect to have more time to devote to other things. Already they have spent a weekend at Zavidovo, the country retreat for foreigners 75 miles north of Moscow. And Wentworth would love to find a place to knock a golf ball around.

Both Wentworths see any sacrifices they have to make and frustrations they endure as well worth it.

"I Can Be Helpful"

"It's an exciting time to be here," Wentworth said. "Lots of things are happening in my world that seem to be accelerating and I think I can be helpful."

Mrs. Wentworth added, "The main thing is if you can realize that the reason you are here is not just personal, the reason you are here is worldwide, then you realize you are doing something for the world."

"That is a fairly large statement to make, but I feel we are doing something for the world and I think my husband is the guy who can pull it off if anyone can."

It Doesn't Pay To Cross Judge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A Sunday afternoon on the golf course meant more work for City Judge Ray Churchill.

The judge and other members of his foursome were so irritated when several motorists drove across a fairway, they jotted down the license numbers.

Five persons later appeared before Judge Churchill, who suspended their licenses and sentenced each to spend two hours in jail.

Says Hunger In N.C. Is An 'Emergency'

RALEIGH (AP) — The hunger situation in North Carolina is an "emergency" and will get worse instead of better unless drastic steps are taken. That assessment of the situation was made by John Kerr, chief of the food assistance section of the state Department of Human Resources at a conference Wednesday of social workers and nutritionists called to draw up a state plan for reducing hunger. "We're not talking about people dropping dead of hunger in the streets," he said. He added, "we are talking about people born with a gnawing sensation in their belly, who go through life hungry and die hungry and don't even know they are hungry."

Kerr pointed out that while North Carolina has experienced nearly a 100 per cent increase in four years in the number of poor persons receiving federal food assistance, other states have increased their participation by 150 to 300 per cent. The conference brought together nearly two dozen representatives of state and county agencies involved in food assistance program. It was called in response to a federal report that found nearly 70 per cent of one million poor persons not participating in federal food assistance programs.

The group discussed the causes of the hunger problem and made recommendations for eliminating it. The recommendations will be reviewed by a smaller committee charged with drafting a state plan within the next 30 days for reducing hunger and malnutrition.

Southern Bell Seeking Rate Increase In N.C.

RALEIGH (AP) — Southern Bell Telephone Co. has appealed to the North Carolina Utilities Commission for a $33 million annual rate hike. The increases would include boosting pay booth telephone charges from 10 to 20 cents, tripling the cost of telephone installations to $43 and increasing private customers telephone bills by from 50 cents to $1.50.

If granted, it would be Bell's third rate increase in two years.

Bell Vice President and General Manager John J. Ryan said the company would not seek to make the increase effective until after the end of the current 60-day price freeze.

Ryan said increased operating costs and the increased expense of expanding facilities made the boost necessary. "I'm sure it's obvious that past inflation has affected our company and its earnings drastically," Ryan said. "Our present rate request is being filed to recover from the serious effects of the inflation."

Ryan noted the last increase in public coin-operated telephone service was in 1952. He said the cost of providing that service has outstripped the income. He said those using the service should pay for it more directly.

In addition, Ryan said the cost of installing, moving and connecting telephones should be borne more fully by the customer receiving the service, rather than spreading the cost among all customers.

Bell asked that the old $10 installation fee be raised to $32 early in 1972, but it was hiked only to $12.50. In June of 1972, the commission granted rate hikes totaling $6.1 million. After Bell appealed, it granted an additional increase of $5.85 million.

No Violation In Want-Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided Supreme Court today held that laws prohibiting sex segregation in newspaper want ads do not violate the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The 5-4 decision upheld an order by the Pittsburgh Human Relations Commission that barred the Pittsburgh Press Co. from designating jobs in its want-ad column by gender preference.

The newspaper publishing company had maintained that the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of the press prohibited such interference with its judgment.

Writing for the majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said the commission's narrowly drawn order prohibiting sex-designated want ad columns "does not infringe on the First Amendment rights of Pittsburgh Press."

At the same time, Powell emphasized that the court did not intend to allow government "at any level" to forbid the Pittsburgh Press to publish and distribute advertisements commenting on the Pittsburgh anti-discrimination order or its enforcement.

The newspaper published its want ads under headings of "jobs-male interest" and "jobs-female interest." The newspaper also published a notice that sex discrimination in hiring was prohibited by law.

The high court majority said the advertisements, as purely commercial advertising, are not protected by the First Amendment.

F-111 Is Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee has voted to continue production of the controversial F111 swing-wing fighter-bomber, apparently trying to override acting Defense Secretary William P. Clements.

The bomber version of the F111 is considered the only alternative to the B1 in replacing the aging B52 bombers now in use.

The amendment proposed by Stratton authorizes $172.7 million for 12 more of the F111s to keep the production line open. The committee approved it by voice vote.

Reportedly Stratton said that with production of both the B52 and F111 shut down, congress would have no alternative but to approve the B1, currently being developed by the Air Force. Stratton refused to comment on his remarks at the closed committee session, but he has made similar statements in the past.

All those picked up have been denied permission to leave for Israel.

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT HOME INSULATION

Actually, all homeowners pay for insulation whether they have and enjoy it or not. The savings on fuel alone will more than pay for the cost of insulating.

An insulated home is more comfortable in winter and summer. Condensation and wall-sweating is reduced. Smaller and less expensive air conditioning units can be used efficiently. With today's high energy costs, the following insulation features are recommended to obtain the most efficiency from your air conditioning system: ceilings—equivalent 6" fiberglass, walls 3 1/2" fiberglass.

The win left the Lions tied with R. C. Cola, 9-4, in the league, with only two games left. The Jaycees are 3-10.

Mike Williams hurled the victory, allowing only two hits in the four official innings before rain washed out the rest of the game.

Peter Pace singled in Worthington and Roger Williams was hit by a pitch. Peter Pace singled in Worthington and Roger Williams was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Alan Collier reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Mike Williams, and Shelton Wilson was also safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Pace. Arthur Fletcher reached on an error, letting Roger Williams in, and Collier scored the final run when Scott Galloway walked.

Pepsi Eases By College View

Pepsi-Cola scored two runs in the sixth inning and made them stand through a College View rally in the seventh—and a lightning delay—to come out 3-2 out, Hester walked again, and winners in the first game of the Babe Ruth twinbill at Guy Smith Stadium last night.

The second game between Home Builders and Carolina Dairies was called due to rain with Home Builders batting in the top half of the first inning. Macon Moye went the distance for Pepsi to pick up the win. He struck out and walked three. Jimmy Averitt was the loser for College View, though he struck out six and passed three.

College View took an early 1-0 lead in the first inning when with one out, Keith Jones walked, stole second, went to third on an infield out, and scored when the pitcher's attempt to pick him off went through the third baseman's glove.

Pepsi tied the game in the fourth inning. Danny Hester walked, but was forced by Curtis Keys' grounder. After Keys moved up on a passed ball, Moye grounded to the shortstop, who nailed Keys at third after a rundown. During the rundown, Moye went to second, and when a late throw to second went into the outfield, Moye came around to score.

Pepsi then scored the clincher rally in the top of the sixth. With two out, Hester walked again, and came around on Keys' triple to left. Keys came in with the winning run when Moye singled to center.

College View made a run at victory in the bottom half. It was during that inning that the game was stopped due to lightning. Despite the delay, play continued. Mike Shank reached on an error, but Jay Chenier's grounder got him. Chenier moved to second on a wild pitch, and batter Jones walked, his third of the night. Both moved up on a passed ball, and a second passed ball scored Chenier from third. Jones was left stranded at third when Averitt grounded out to end it.

Home Builders had already scored two runs on five hits, and gained a walk to load the bases when rain called a halt to their battle with the Dairymen. It will be replayed Saturday.

On All Loop Team

LAURINBURG — Ray Andrews of Williamston has completed his sophomore year at St. Andrews Presbyterian College with his selection as shortstop on the Dixie Conference's All Conference baseball team. Despite the Knights' last place finish in the league, Andrew's play earned him a three-way tie in the balloting for shortstop, the only spot other than pitcher where more than one player was selected.

Ray, an honorable mention selection in basketball, handled 93 fielding chances with 12 errors. While batting average dipped in the past season to .208, he led the Knights in extra-base hits with two triples and four doubles. He also aided the Knights thin pitching corps with several stints as a relief pitcher.

Pitcher Finally Gets Chance To Bat For Himself In American

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Who was that designated hitter? That was no designated hitter—THAT was Cy Acosta.

Tanner after the White Sox' 8-3 victory over the California Angels. Acosta's historic appearance was hardly worth it—he struck out.

The inning helped the White Sox break a five-game losing streak. In the other American League games, the Cleveland Indians beat the Detroit Tigers 7-6; the New York Yankees trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 2-1; the Boston Red Sox turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2 and the Texas Rangers blanked the Minnesota Twins 3-0.

George Hendrick knocked in the winning run with a single in the last of the ninth inning to power Cleveland over Detroit. Hendrick won Tuesday night's game for the Indians in exactly the same manner.

Hendrick, who also hit three home runs Tuesday night, hit another one for Cleveland Wednesday. The blast, his 14th of the season, came in the seventh inning and gave the Indians a 6-2 margin before the Tigers rallied to tie the game in the top of the ninth.

Designated hitter Jim Ray Hart hit a two-run homer and Sparky Lyle rescued Mel Stottlemyre from an eighth-inning jam to help New York beat Baltimore. Stottlemyre had a one-hitter going until the Orioles mounted their biggest threat of the night in the eighth. Lyle came in with men on second and third and gave up a run on a ground ball before nailing down the victory. It was Lyle's 18th save, 11 of them in the Yankees' last 11 victories.

Kurt Bevacqua delivered the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 12th inning to give Kansas City its triumph over Oakland. The A's tied the game 4-4 with two runs in the ninth on an RBI double by Gene Tenace and a sacrifice fly by Joe Rudi.

Pepsi Defeats Dainty Maid, The Elks By 5-3 Hardee's Win

Tar Heel Little League champion Pepsi-Cola edged by the Elks, 5-3, yesterday to gain their 12th win in 13 starts this year.

The loss knocked the Elks record down to 6-7 and put the pressure on them to finish as high as second. They now trail second place Integon by two games with just two left.

Hardee's and Dainty Maid picked up victories in the City Softball League last night in a pair of games.

Hardee's rolled to a 17-2 win over Hallow's, while Dainty Maid ripped Union Carbide, 21-3.

Bush: Way To Pitch To Aaron

SHANNON, Miss. (AP) — The man who gave up Babe Ruth's final two home runs says present-day pitchers should think about only one thing when they face Hank Aaron—if the Atlanta slugger is up against them seeking his 715th home run: knock him down.

The other Pepsi run came across in the fourth. Jeff Wilson reached on an error and Avery doubled. Worthington singled to drive in Wilson to make it 5-1.

Hardee's added four more in the second with Grant homering, then got three in the third, with Long Mann homering, three more in the fourth with homers by Grant and Byrd, and finished with three more in the sixth: The other Hallow's run came on a homer by Padgett in the seventh.

"If I was pitching and Aaron came up needing one more homer to break Ruth's mark, I'd dust him off," says 70-year-old Guy Bush. "Anything to get him out of the game. He would know I'm not his friend."

The game was the only one scheduled on the light league night just before tonight's All-Star Game.

Doesn't Matter Where Bucs Are Now—At End

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"At this time of the year, it doesn't matter whether we are in first, last or fifth place," Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon was saying. "The only time that matters is the last day of the season."
The Bucs, defending champions in the National League East, took occupancy of the basement by losing 5-3 Wednesday night to the Chicago Cubs while the Philadelphia Phillies were scrambling into fifth place by edging the New York Mets 4-3. The Cubs retained their 4½-game lead over Montreal's surprising Expos and dumped the Pirates 9½ off the pace and half a game back of the Phillies. It was Pittsburgh's 14th loss in the last 18 games. In the National League's other games, Cincinnati downed

San Francisco 7-5, Montreal whipped St. Louis 5-1, San Diego turned back Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-5 in 11 innings.
The Phillies bounded into the heady atmosphere of fifth on the strength of Wayne Twichell's four-hitter and run-scoring singles in the fifth inning by Terry Harmon, Willie Montanez and Greg Luzinski.
Those hits overcame the Mets' 3-1 lead, built in the fourth inning on Felix millan's single, John Milner's triple, Ed Kranepool's sacrifice fly and Wayne Garrett's homer. Luzinski had doubled for the Phils' first run in the first inning.
Homers by Tony Perez and Hal King highlighted the Reds' six-run outburst that sent the Giants down to their ninth loss in the last 11 games. The homers countered clouts by Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes.

The Expos reeled off their ninth victory in the last 12 games on the strength of John Boccabella's three-run homer in a four-run third-inning that keyed a 13-hit assault against the Cardinals.
The Padres, halting their losing skid at 10 games, got a pair of runs-batted-in on a single and a sacrifice fly by Dave Winfield, the left fielder selected earlier this month in baseball's free-agent draft. Steve Arlin scattered nine Houston hits, one of them Doug Rader's eighth homer.
Dave Lopes walked, Bill Buckner singled, then Atlanta third baseman Darrell Evans booted Steve Yeager's two-out grounder, giving the Dodgers their victory, which widened their West Division lead over the Giants to three games.
In the American League, Cleveland clipped Detroit 7-6, the Chicago White Sox whipped California 8-3, the New York Yankees nipped Baltimore 2-1, Boston tripped Milwaukee 3-2, Texas zipped Minnesota 3-0 and, in a 12-inning game, Kansas City defeated Oakland 5-4.

Power Shifting To West Coast

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Auburn Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan feels the balance of collegiate football power—just like track, baseball and basketball—is shifting to the teeming populations of the West Coast.
"For a number of years the PAC Eight was down, but they've rebounded in a strong way...I wouldn't be surprised if the balance of power is shifting to that place," said Jordan, who is the East coach in Saturday night's 13th annual Coaches All-America football game here.
"I was out there (California) this summer and they've got something like 22 million people," Jordan said. "That's compared with 3.7 million in my state (Alabama). There are bound to be great athletes. They've got great coaching and great weather."
"Track has always been a phenomenal sport out there. So has baseball. Some of their basketball players aren't from California but they sure do a good job of recruiting."
Jordan said, "I know we have substantial football in the Deep South. It's good in the Big 10, the Big 8 and the Southwest Conference, but all those people on the West Coast kinds of worries you."

John McKay, coach of the national champion Southern California Trojans, is the mentor for the West squad for Saturday night's nationally televised 7:30 p.m., CDT, kickoff in Jones Stadium.
McKay has brought five of his players with him for this game.
"Now, that John is a fine person and a great coach," said Jordan in a drawl. "I hate to put the hat on any coach, but he ought to be favored in this game. He's got some of his own players and then gets his pick from Oklahoma, Texas, and Nebraska. I'd say to make the West the favorite would be a step in the right direction."
Jordan, it might be noted, is a master at psychology. His club upset Colorado in the 1972 Gator Bowl to culminate a 10-1 Cinderella season which also included a victory over arch rival Alabama.
"In a game like this, it doesn't hurt to try to fire your team up," Jordan grinned. "They already know how to block and tackle."

Wottle Runs Amazing 3.53.3 In Mile Win

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — "I knew I had him after three laps," exulted Dave Wottle, victor over Steve Prefontaine Wednesday night in a sizzling mile clocked at 3:53.3.
Another Olympic gold medal winner, Rod Milburn, equaled his own world record in the 120-yard high hurdles at 13.0 seconds. No one was within 10 yards at the finish.
How fast could he have gone? "I know it would have been under 13.0," said Milburn, the NCAA champion from Southern University.
The performances of Wottle and Milburn were the highlights in a nearly impromptu track and field meet attended by 12,000 delighted fans. The meet was pulled together during the past three weeks to raise funds to restore the west grandstands at Hayward Field, where the University of Oregon has developed so many distance runners.
Wottle and Prefontaine leave for Europe this month for a summer's campaign against Europe's best.
Skip Kent of Wisconsin, who won the 880 collegiate title in 1:47.2, ran a lifetime best of 1:56.4 in winning that event.

Randy Williams, Olympic gold medalist from Southern California, lost to UCLA's James McAlister in the long jump. McAlister leaped 26 feet 7½ inches. Williams was second at 26-1¾.
Oregon's Mac Wilkins never got a chance to go after Randy Matson's collegiate record in the discus. Wilkins, who won the AAU title Saturday with a throw of 211-11, pulled a groin muscle while hurdling in practice Tuesday.
World record holder Jay Silvester won the discus with a throw of 202-9. Olympian Tim Vollmer, formerly of Oregon State, took second at 202-3.
Jon Anderson of the Oregon Track Club and Mike Keogh of Manhattan were dead even with 300 yards to go in the three-mile. Then Keogh spurred away and won in 13:27.6, with Rick Riley pouring it on down the stretch to take second. Riley, formerly of Washington State, was clocked in 13:29.6. Anderson, the Boston Marathon winner, was third in 13:32.

Benny Brown of UCLA came prepared for another shot at Arizona State's Maurice Peoples in the 440.

Also-Rans Now Net Favorites

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LONDON (AP) — Even when Wimbledon is being boycotted, it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good.
Ilie Nastase of Romania suddenly has become an overwhelming favorite to win the world's most coveted tennis title. And a bunch of players who were rated outsiders a week ago could be listed among the seeded places.
Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., Alexander Metreveli of Russia, even 17-year-old Swedish teen-ager Bjorn Borg could be among the top seeds when the postponed draw is made Friday.

Nastase is a member of ATP and had pledged to join in the boycott if Pilic was not allowed to play. But the Romanian National Tennis Association telephoned Nastase Wednesday and gave him orders.
"I shall play," he said.
Connors, a surprise quarter-finalist at Wimbledon last year, is not a member of ATP.
"It looks like a big chance for me," Connors said as he strolled around Queen's Club with his constant companion, Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.
Chris laughed off suggestions of a boycott by women players who think they should get a bigger share of the prize money.
"Nothing could stop me from playing," the 18-year old American said.
The women's boycott has not gone further than the talking stage. Few think it will materialize.
Margaret Court of Australia, who already has won the Australian and French titles and is going for the Grand Slam, pulled out of the Queen's Club tournament Wednesday with a back strain.
"I am seeing a specialist today and I just hope I will be fit for Wimbledon," said Mrs. Court.
She is the No. 1 seed with defending champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., No. 2.

Plans for Wimbledon, which starts Monday, were wrecked when the militant Association of Tennis Professionals called on its members to walk out in sympathy with Nikki Pilic, the suspended Yugoslavian.
More than 30 men had joined the walkout Wednesday night and the number is expected to grow to 70 or 75.
Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who beat Nastase in the 1972 Wimbledon final, had gone. So had Australia's John Newcombe, three-time winner of the title, veteran campaigner Ken Rosewall of Australia and Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va.
Of the 16 original seeds, only Nastase and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia were left.

who have joined CFL teams include Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska and Joe Theismann of Notre Dame, as well as 19 NFL draftees this year.
"People who have watched them as college players can see them on television playing in the CFL," Gaudaur said. "Also, a player who signs doesn't have to worry about proper exposure because he'll be seen in Canada and the United States."
Gaudaur said he welcomed the influx of Americans who are crossing the border to play in Canada because "they are an asset to the CFL and to Canada."

CFL To Try To Interest U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Canadian Football League, its ranks bolstered by former United States collegiate stars, attempts to again tackle American interest with nationally televised games.
The CFL launched a schedule of 20 games last season, but the series was scrapped after eight games due to a lack of advertiser interest. Last night, the CFL broadcast a replay of its 1972 Grey Cup game between Saskatchewan and Hamilton, inaugurating a series of weekly live broadcasts which will include the All-Star Game, four exhibitions and five regular season games concluding Aug. 29.
The series will resume Nov. 25 for the Grey Cup championship, the Canadian equivalent of the National Football League's Super Bowl.
"We were well received last year by the viewers and the press in the United States," said CFL Commissioner Jake Gaudaur. "Viewers in the United States can identify with many CFL players because they are all well known. American college standouts who have joined CFL teams include Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska and Joe Theismann of Notre Dame, as well as 19 NFL draftees this year.

Day Care Center For Kids During Divorce Action

By GEORGETTE WAGNER

CHICAGO (UPI) — A courtroom is no place for a child, particularly when his home is being torn apart in divorce action.

To spare children such emotional stress, Our Children Foundation (OCF) recently opened a courtroom childcare center here which its founders believe is the nation's first.

The supervised playroom in the Chicago Civic Center is free of charge to any child, 2 to 12 years old. During its first six weeks, 90 children showed up.

Painted a sprightly yellow and orange with children's drawings on the wall and child size furniture, the center contrasts with the austere courtrooms surrounding it.

On a recent Friday morning, six children were seated primly at two miniature tables, munching cookies and sipping soda. They soon abandoned their party behavior for the real fun. The room is filled with toys and the children bounced from one toy to another.

Like Christmas

A 6-year-old hopped on a hobby horse. Three potential artists gleefully scribbled on tiny easels. A 4-year-old concocted "pretend" dinners. A little boy donned racer's goggles and hat to commandeer a plastic sanitation truck.

"It's like going on a Christmas shopping spree," Mrs. Beverly Steele, an administrative aide, said.

A 5-year-old breathlessly told her mother, "We had a party. Cookies and pop. And she read me a story. And ..."

"We find people bring children to many courts because they have no place to leave them safely," Circuit Court Chief Judge John S. Boyle said when he announced the playroom's opening. "The center will be a boon, not just to divorce courts but to all the courts."

The energetic founder of the center and its supporting organization, Mrs. Rhoda Bresler, said, "I went into the Civic Center (before the daycare facility existed) and saw children sitting alone in the corridor. They looked frightened. I saw one child crying."

Spare The Child

Some parents can't afford babysitters, some have nowhere to leave their children and others reject help from friends to conceal that they are in court, Mrs. Bresler said.

To use the facility, parents obtain a form from the presiding judge. The same parents must drop off and pick up his child, ensuring the parent can be located in emergency. The procedure is also a precaution in custody cases.

Mrs. Bresler expressed concern for children whose parents were getting a divorce. "We try to spare them the trauma of seeing their homes torn apart," she said.

"We realize we cannot erase whatever has been going on for two to five years," Mrs. Steele said. "The center is another side where people do care for kids. A bright side."

She stressed the center was strictly a child's playroom. "We don't question, apologize or quiz," she said.

Silence In Court

While the children appeared to enjoy their daycare in court (one child cried when he had to leave), their parents seemed equally pleased. One mother, collecting her 4-and 6-year-olds, said, "I think it's one of the greatest things that's happened. It's real convenient. And you can hear (in court). You don't have to say shhh."

The playroom is supported by dues-paying members and fund-raising events.

"I want it to be free of taxpayer's money," Mrs. Bresler said. "If it isn't funded privately, they'll have to increase the public's taxes. I don't want children to be a pawn."

She said the foundation wants to establish childcare centers throughout Chicago and Illinois, and that a federal volunteer organization approached her to head a drive to open up courtroom daycare centers across the nation.

INTERIOR POLLUTION

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Research biologists at the University of Missouri in St. Louis are studying the pollution problem man is building in his own body because of the increasing use of chemicals in food processing, insect control and therapeutics.

A PLACE TO PLAY — While their parents air grievances in the divorce court, children have a place to play at the Chicago Court facilities in the Civic Center. (UPI Telphoto)

Pet Cemetery In Calif. Provides All Amenities

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

CALABASAS, Calif. (UPI) — It looks a bit like Punchbowl Crater in Honolulu, where Americans killed in the Pacific during World War II are buried, as one drives the narrow winding road up a hillside dotted with wildflowers.

But this is the Los Angeles Pet Cemetery, final resting place of some 25,000 dogs, cats, otters, goats, horses, lions and a couple of goldfish.

Since 1929, bereaved pet owners have been burying their furry friends here, and in recent years, in more than 400 other pet cemeteries throughout the United States.

Celebrities like Richard Nixon patronize the places—his Checkers is buried at Bide-A-Wee Cemetery in Long Island under a headstone and two American flags—but most of the customers are ordinary citizens.

"They're just people like you and me," says Al Carboth, owner for the past 25 years of Cal Pet Crematory in Sun Valley, Calif.

Perpetual Care Offered

They're just run of the mill people who can't really afford it, but love their animals."

Carboth provides only cremation services at $35 to $75, depending on the animal's size, but most cemeteries offer cremation or burial, embalming, caskets, viewing rooms, and even perpetual care of the grounds.

The Los Angeles Pet Cemetery has a small "slumber room" where owners may view their pet lying in state on a blue satin covered stand. There are two flower stands in front of the casket, and Mrs. Gay Collier, who has been making pet funeral arrangements for 26 years, says many owners order elaborate displays from florists. The redwood caskets, made on the premises, are lined in pink, blue or white satin. The smallest—about eight by 12 inches—is intended for birds.

Special Bird Section
There are also some more deluxe models, covered in blue plush and lined with tucked satin, which Mrs. Collier said were "actually made for still-born babies."

Buried on the 10 acres in the hilly Los Angeles suburb are a number of celebrities' pets and a few animals famous in their own rights.

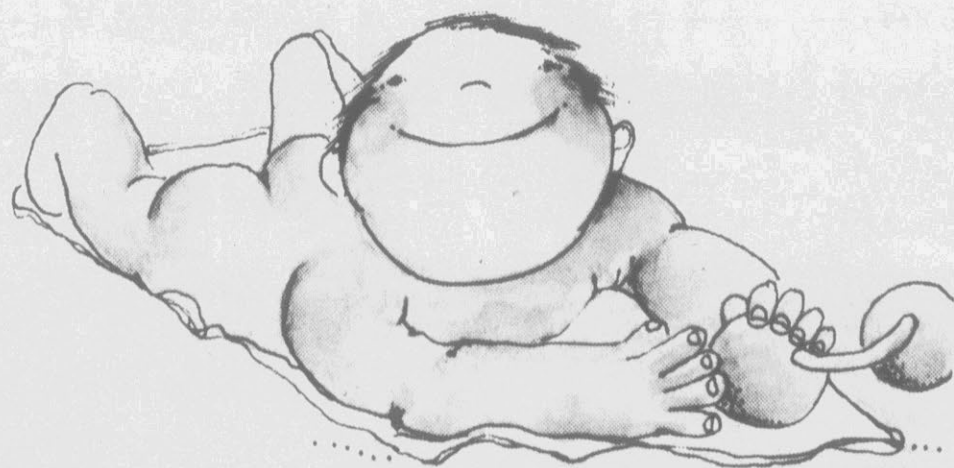

"We have Hopalong Cassidy's Topper, a circus horse, and two horses which belonged to the original Tonto (not Jay Silverheels)," Mrs. Collier enumerated.

"We also have two goldfish. The owners moved to California from Chicago and when one died they had it buried here. Not long after, the other fish died, and it was buried alongside the first.

"We have a special section for birds, and we have one hummingbird and one quail," she continued.

We have several of Lionel Barrymore's dogs and cats, Rudolph Valentino's dog Kabar, Alfred Hitchcock's dogs, Linda Darnell's rooster, Mae West's monkey, and Bob Newhart's dog. And Diana Ross had a dog and cat which were poisoned in her Las Vegas hotel room,

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you and most persons are likely to have considerable compassion and want to help others who are having a difficult time. It is also a day and evening when art, music, romance and culture in various forms can be most rewarding to those who now take the time to engage in them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get private affairs solved satisfactorily. Tonight be sure you are thoughtful with mate. Rid yourself of whatever is tiresome and improve conditions around you. Do some constructive reading.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Discussions with good friends can help you gain your finest aims now, then enjoy the recreational activities with them. Visit with a bigwig friend in late evening and make fine new plans for the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to make big headway where civic work is concerned, so start this early for best results. Get know-how from a new acquaintance of note. Think wisely, justly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An out-of-towner has fine ideas to discuss with you, so spend enough time with this person. Write to those at a distance and show your devotion, desire to see them soon. Make your life more worthwhile.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use your intuition where the romantic side of life is concerned and you get better results. Handle your responsibilities with a smile on your face and you win. Happiness is yours for the making.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A long conversation with an associate brings forth worthwhile information that had eluded you before. Do some entertaining of all partners. Tap the mental bank and make the future brighter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Those around you are apt to be quite upset today and would appreciate your thoughtfulness and kindness. Do something about having better health: Let professionals guide you properly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Mate may not be in the mood for fun so don't pressure to go out with you to recreational places that could be too strenuous for him or her. Concentrate on creative matters instead. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to handle those family matters in a most intelligent fashion. Quickly get rid of tensions that have built up in that most important realm of your existence — home and hearth are very vital now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care in motion, especially in driving on the highway, etc., is necessary if you are to avoid expense and trouble. Get rid of tensions between you and regular associates. Don't step into some needling trap.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study the right outlets so you can add much to present income, since this is what you need to get out of a slump. Improving quality of your work is also very helpful. Budget carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel discontented, which is a sign you are not feeling well, or need new inspiration, so perk up and do your best, or get help you need. Forget any unworthy habits you may have. Replace with the finest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who is all heart and sentiment and will go to the aid of others at the drop of a hint, but others had better beware of trying to put something over on your youngster, otherwise they have a formidable enemy. Ideal chart for the humanitarian professions and bringing beauty and culture where it is lacking. Give good spiritual training early and teach to work, whether rich or poor.

The 'Worry Clinic' Debate Should Be Stimulant

Judge Sharp's big audience shows the usual women's attitude about "cheese cake in the boudoir." Successful wives approve. But those whose mates are straying, then blame their husbands instead of facing up to the real facts!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE X-538: Judge William T. Sharp asked me to address an annual banquet of his city's Chamber of Commerce.

It was to be Ladies' Night and the dinner was held at Canyon Inn, in Hosierville's famous McCormick Creek State Park. The packed dining room gave me a very appreciative audience, with the exception of maybe 2 per cent of the wives.

"Dr. Crane," a couple of wives protested, "we wish you had explained in more detail your statement that the best insurance against divorce is cheese cake in the boudoir instead of roast beef in the dining room."

But 3 or 4 other ladies told the charming 50-year-old woman at the Hotel Desk that they were furious about my even mentioning cheese cake in the boudoir.

"For you can see that I have held my weight down to the same as when I got married. If I ever went up 2 or 3 pounds, I immediately brought it down."

"My husband was tall and weighed 195 on our wedding day. But he slowly reached 210, then finally 225, after which I put him on a diet till he got back under the 200 mark."

"And we were happily married for 30 years, till I lost him by death."

"But if these women whose toes you step on, would just follow your advice, they wouldn't try to pass the buck and blame you or the outside siren when their husband starts chasing around."

"Dr. Crane, I told them so and let them know that I had personally tried your suggestions and that they worked perfectly!"

Actually, it is a compliment when wholesome debate develops over this column or my public lectures.

For it is controversy that fills football stadiums!

Rehearsing For Summer Theatre To Day Camp

One hundred actors, singers, dancers, and stage technicians assembled Tuesday in McGinnis Auditorium to begin work on the tenth season of the East Carolina Summer Theatre. After a short meeting and welcoming address by producer-director Edgar R. Loessin, the company split into several groups to begin rehearsals.

First on the season's bill is the Broadway hit show Applause, which will star Evelyn Page who comes to Greenville from New York, and a background which includes numerous Broadway musicals.

Following Applause will be My Fair Lady, which was first produced by the Summer Theatre ten years ago during the premiere season. Opening night of My Fair Lady is July 12, and it will be a gala event with Governor Jim Holmhouse, members of the North Carolina General Assembly, and the University of North Carolina Board of Governors attending.

The last three shows of Season Ten are Gilbert and Sullivan's H.M.S. Pinafore, Steven Sondheim's Company, and the "Peanuts" musical, You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown.

Tickets for the ECU Summer Theatre can be reserved by calling 758-6390, or going to the box office which is located in the lobby of McGinnis Auditorium.
