

Mitchell Calls Watergate 'Horror Story'

Dollar Makes Gains In Foreign Trading

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar opened significantly stronger on Europe's foreign exchange markets today after a rally in the closing hours of trading Monday.

The dollar gained in London, Paris, Frankfurt, Brussels and Zurich, but the mood of the markets remained uncertain. Dealers pointed out that the dollar rose Monday when the markets opened, fell during the day, then climbed again on the strength of indications that the U.S. government was using some of its foreign reserves to support its currency abroad.

Washington denied this, but the belief persisted among European dealers today.

The dollar opened in Frankfurt at 2.34 marks, up from 2.32 at the close Monday. The opening rate in Zurich was 2.7825 Swiss francs, a sizable gain over the closing 2.7225 Monday.

In Paris, the dollar crossed the psychological four-franc barrier again, opening at 4.01; it had closed at 3.9225 francs.

And in London, the dollar's improvement brought a weakening of the pound, with the rate falling from $2.5585 to $2.5581.

The dollar also bounced back in Tokyo to a rate near the level where most trading has taken place since mid-March. After a fall Monday to 254 yen, a record low, dollars for overnight delivery opened at 260 yen, dipped to 257.80 and closed at 262.10.

The Hong Kong branch of Peking's Bank of China announced the third revaluation of the Chinese currency against the Hong Kong dollar in less than six weeks. The Chinese gave no reason, but Hong Kong bankers said the change was obviously due to the troubles of the U.S. dollar, to which the Hong Kong dollar is tied.

The new exchange rate is 36.11 renminbi—or rmb—per 100 Hong Kong dollars, 4.97 per cent above the previous rate of 38 rmb per 100 and 7.38 per cent above the pre-June rate.

The dollar's upward trend was attributed to a report from a number of dealers that the U.S. Federal Reserve System had bowed to pressure from France and other West European governments and used some of its foreign currency reserve to buy dollars and prop up the rate.

The reports were denied by the U.S. Treasury Department, but on the international money markets unconfirmed reports of what may happen often have the same weight as officially acknowledged developments.

During the weekend the representatives of the European state banks, in Switzerland for a board meeting of the Bank of International Settlements, put strong pressure on the Federal Reserve representative to get the Nixon administration to reverse its announced refusal to tamper with the market.

The bankers announced that arrangements had been made to intervene in the market "to facilitate the maintenance of orderly conditions," but they gave no indication what action was planned or when it might be taken.

That announcement caused the dollar to surge upward when markets opened Monday. When the support did not materialize, it again sagged, then rebounded with the opening of the New York market at mid-afternoon in Europe.

BEFORE WATERGATE COMMITTEE — Former Attorney General John Mitchell appears before the U. S. Senate Watergate Committee today for public hearings and was expected to deny implication in the affair. He held a private session with members of the committee on Monday. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell testified today that when G. Gordon Liddy first broached plans for 1972 political espionage it was "a complete horror story" that involved wiretaps, girls and code names.

Mitchell told the Senate Watergate committee that in hindsight, he not only should have thrown Liddy "out of the office, I should have thrown him out of the window."

Testifying about a meeting on Jan. 27, 1972, Mitchell said Liddy outlined a political intelligence proposal that "just was beyond the pale."

Mitchell said as he recalls the meeting, "I told him to go burn the charts," and said what President Nixon's campaign organization was interested in was information gathering and protection against demonstrators.

Mitchell also said "I violently disagree" with the earlier testimony of former campaign deputy Jeb Stuart Magruder that at a Feb. 4 meeting, the then attorney general was involved in discussions of the Democratic National Committee as a target for electronic surveillance.

Mitchell said he made major decisions about Nixon's re-election campaign while he was still head of the Justice Department.

Mitchell, testifying under subpoena, said Nixon had asked him "to keep an eye on the (campaign) committee, to see that they didn't get out of line over there."

The former Cabinet officer thus appeared to contradict his own previous testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee, where he testified on March 15, 1972 that he had "no re-election campaign responsibilities."

Mitchell said today that he saw frequent memoranda about such things as state presidential primaries, budgets, and hiring of personnel.

At the start of his testimony at the Senate committee's televised hearings, Mitchell said he joined the late J. Edgar Hoover in opposing a domestic intelligence plan that contemplated burglaries.

President Nixon has said he approved the plan but rescinded it five days later, on July 28, 1970, because of Hoover's opposition.

"I opposed the plan for the very simple reason that in the case of domestic problems I was very much opposed to surreptitious entry, mail covers, others aspects involved at the particular time," Mitchell told the committee.

In the opening phase of his testimony, under questioning by committee counsel Samuel Dash, Mitchell discussed domestic intelligence proposals and plans prior to the Watergate political wiretapping.

He said he had not been aware of the so-called "plumbers operation" set up by the White House to ferret out news leaks when that was created. Mitchell said he learned of that operation after June 17, 1972, the date of the wiretap burglary at Democratic national headquarters.

Mitchell was expected to tell the televised hearing that he became aware of some aspects of the Watergate cover-up four days after the break-in.

At the outset, Mitchell's attorney, William G. Hundley, registered his client's formal objection to testifying "so we can protect our legal position." Hundley asked that it be stated on the records that Mitchell was under subpoena, and would be liable to contempt charges if he refused to testify.

This was done because Mitchell is under indictment in New York in a campaign fundraising case. He has pleaded innocent.

Sources close to the investigation said Mitchell told the committee staff Monday that he met regularly with President Nixon but never discussed the cover-up with him. Mitchell indicated, however, that former presidential aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman were linked to the cover-up, one source reported.

Mitchell, who headed Nixon's re-election campaign at the time of the June 17, 1972, break-in; denied previous testimony by others that he approved the bugging plan, the sources said. He claimed that his deputy, Jeb Stuart Magruder, kept pressing for approval of the plan but that he always rejected it.

The sources said Mitchell told investigators that on June 21, four days after the break-in, he learned that Liddy and E. Howard Hunt were members of a special White House unit called the "Plumbers" and that the unit had broken into the Los Angeles office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Hunt also was convicted in the Watergate break-in.

The Plumbers group was set up to plug news leaks.

Realizing that such information could severely damage the re-election campaign, Mitchell was quoted as saying, he agreed to keep the affair quiet and approved paying legal fees for the defendants arrested in the Watergate case.

Senate investigators characterized the bulk of Mitchell's private interview as "all denials" and predicted his televised testimony would take less than the two days set aside for it.

Meanwhile, lawyers for Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans asked a federal judge in New York to dismiss perjury, conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges

Strikers March Against Dictator

By RAUL GARCES
Associated Press Writer
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Hundreds of demonstrators were arrested and scores injured as police attacked 5,000 marchers protesting the dictatorship in Uruguay.

Leaders of the outlawed labor unions ordered a step-up in the general strike that has nearly paralyzed the country since President Juan M. Bordaberry dissolved congress two weeks ago and began ruling by decree.

The march on the presidential palace Monday night was the largest antigovernment demonstration so far. The marchers sang the national anthem and repeated the phrase "tyrants tremble."

The police attacked the marchers on 18th of July Avenue near the palace, and the fighting raged more than two hours. The police fired tear gas grenades, then moved in with billy clubs. Mounted officers joined in, using the flat side of their sabers.

Younger demonstrators tried to throw up barricades, but they were overwhelmed.

As the police pursued the demonstrators through narrow side streets, the army moved tanks up to the national university and fired tear gas into buildings occupied by striking students in defiance of a presidential order closing all schools. The troops made no attempt to enter the buildings, however.

Police said some 300 persons were arrested during the street battle. Bystanders also were clubbed when they couldn't get out of the way fast enough. Witnesses reported dozens of persons were bloodied, but no fatalities were reported.

Earlier in the day, a 16-year-old youth was shot and killed by a military patrol. Officials said he was in a group of youths that fired on a policeman, but his friends said he was painting an antigovernment slogan on a wall. A 28-year-old Communist teacher was shot fatally Friday as he was throwing rocks at a bus defying the general strike.

The call for intensification of the strike apparently was aimed particularly at public transportation, which had been returning to normal, and at shops in downtown Montevideo and newspapers publishing sporadically despite heavy censorship.

The labor unions and university students have been leading the protests against the military-backed dictatorial policies of the president. They want Bordaberry to resign and call new elections

Look Toward Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has given public support to peace overtures by Cambodia following talks at San Clemente between President Nixon and Huang Chen of the Communist Chinese liaison office.

Following the San Clemente talks, the State Department asked Monday that the People's Republic of China, the Soviet Union, and other interested governments give their "serious and favorable consideration" to the Cambodian government's offer to negotiate a cease-fire with its adversaries.

"The United States government believes that the restoration of peace in Cambodia is a question to be resolved through negotiations among the Khmer (Cambodian) parties themselves," State Department spokesman Paul Hare said.

Hare called attention to a declaration read Friday in Phnom Penh by Cambodian Foreign Minister Long Boret.

In it, the Cambodian government called for reviewing the old three-nation international control commission, urged respect for the Vietnam agreement of Jan. 27 calling for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Cambodia and Laos.

Farm Bill Goes To Floor Battle

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was ready today for a battle over a bill that would plow new ground for America's farmers and eventually could have its sharpest impact on consumers and taxpayers.

Fights were expected over the level of guaranteed incomes for farmers and proposed new limits on government payments to large-scale growers. The provisions were in a four-year farm program and food stamp bill.

The Nixon administration has attacked the heart of the bill—the level of guaranteed income for farmers, a so-called target price system of supports for the three basic crops of cotton, wheat and feed grain such as corn.

Under the target price concept, crop subsidies that run about $3.5 billion a year would be eliminated as long as current relationships between farm prices and crop production costs continue. In effect, if prices stay high there would be no government payment to farmers.

A controversial feature, expected to be attacked through a proposed amendment, provides that target prices for the final three years of the four-year bill would be adjusted annually to reflect the cost of farm production and changes in yields of these crops.

Under the House committee's version, the Agriculture Department estimated the cost of major programs at $3.36 billion for the current fiscal year, rising to between $7.2 billion and $7.4 billion during fiscal 1978. But a congressional researcher put the level at between $1.5 billion and $1.8 billion a year.

Approval Given For Transfer Of Common

By TOM BAINES

A resolution authorizing the transfer of the title to the Town Common property in Shore Drive to the city was approved Monday night by the Redevelopment Commission.

The authorization to prepare the Deed of Dedication, approved subject to concurrence by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was made on the condition that the city fulfill its commitment to complete improvements in the Shore Drive area.

The city is installing underground utilities in the area, it was noted, and gas lamps will be installed along the walkway. In addition, excavation will be done in the north east section of the Town Common as part of the construction of a natural amphitheatre facing the river. Soil moved from the site will be used in other areas along the river.

Other landscaping work, including grass and tree planting is planned. Money for the improvements has been included in the city budget, it was pointed out.

In other business, commissioners voted to accept a proposal submitted by Sheridan Engineering Inc. of Louisville, Ky. for a traffic signalization study in the CBO area. The proposal, one of four received from independent engineering firms, represented the low bid and was approved at $12,870. The engineering staff of the Utilities Commission had been scheduled to do the work, according to executive director Joe Laney, but it was found that the commission does not have the staff or specialized equipment to conduct such a survey. HUD gave the go-ahead to have the work contracted.

In addition to the CBD signalization study, ten more intersections in the surrounding area will be done to coordinate the downtown signals and the cost of the additional work will be paid by the city.

Laney reported that a change has been made by the Highway Commission in the uniform relocation payment schedule concerning payments that will be made to families that are relocated by the Redevelopment Commission as a result of property purchase.

The Highway Commission, Laney explained, was authorized under the Uniform Relocation Act to issue a fixed moving expense schedule that agencies would follow in making relocation payments. The schedule was issued in January of 1971.

The recent change in the schedule, effective on all relocations after July 1, does not involve an increase in the maximum amount that can be paid to move "household effects," but adjusts payments according to room size. The maximum a family may receive is still $300, Laney reported, but the amount paid to move a five-room house, for example, has been increased from $165 to $175. Other increases follow the same guideline.

Real estate officer Kirby Boyd said that five parcels were acquired in CBD since the last meeting and an option was negotiated on another parcel. A verbal agreement on another parcel has also been received, he said. Demolition on six structures in the area is complete.

A bid opening for a triangular-shaped vacant lot located between Short Street and the Norfolk Southern Railroad behind Blount Fertilizer was held Monday morning and David Evans Jr., who qualified last month as a bidder for Disposal Parcel E-1, submitted the only bid.

Commissioners voted to accept Evans' bid of $11,784 subject to HUD approval. He indicated that the lot, which contains some 53,500 square feet, will be used for storing either lumber or building materials.

Bruce Jackson, project manager for the Southside Project (N.D.R.-134), reported that preparations are being made to acquire ten parcels in the Mill Village area.

Jackson said that title information is currently being prepared and second appraisals in the project are about two-thirds complete. Francis Scott Key of Atlanta is scheduled to begin his review appraisal work in Southside later this month, he added.

Russian Wheat Sale Boosted Grain Price

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last year's massive sale of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union nearly doubled the domestic price of the grain and caused U.S. food prices to rise, according to a report to Congress.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) said Monday the wheat sale increased prices for bread and other flour-based products, and beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products, because it caused higher feed grain costs.

"Congress should consider requiring that agencies develop definitive ground rules so that expected benefits from exports can be appropriately weighed against their impact on various segments of the domestic economy," the GAO report said.

The domestic wheat price jumped from about $1.68 a bushel in July 1972 to $3 in May 1973 because of the $700-million Russian sale, the GAO said. The sale also severely disrupted transportation facilities creating higher costs, shortages and delays.

The report also chided the administration for paying $300 million in export subsidies, although "GAO believes many of these sales would have been made even with reduced subsidies."

The GAO study "nailed down some of the abuses of the Department of Agriculture's handling of the affair that cost U.S. taxpayers and farmers," said House Agriculture Committee member John Melcher, D-Mont., who requested the study. Rep. Pierre S. du Pont, R-Del., who also asked for the report, called it "damning" and said, "I'm appalled by the laxity and tunnel vision they found to be normal operating procedure in the department."

The GAO also said the Agriculture Department failed to provide timely information on crop conditions to farmers to allow them to make marketing decisions.

It suggested a joint government-business committee including farmers, processors, distributors and exporters be established to improve dissemination of foreign agriculture information.

Soviets Start Houston Visit

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Ten Russian cosmonauts and a delegation of space engineers started their first full day of "elementary" school today, including English classes.

The cosmonauts and 24 engineers arrived at the Johnson Space Center early Monday to begin planning for the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project, a U.S.-Russian space flight planned for 1975.

They were greeted by an American delegation that included Air Force Brig. Gen. Thomas Stafford, who spoke to the Soviets in broken Russian and once offered his services as interpreter.

Aleksei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, was asked if he foresaw any language problems connected with the space flight.

Leonov turned to Stafford, who will command the U.S. ship, and asked "Translation please?"

When Stafford relayed the question, Leonov broke into a wide grin and laughing loudly, replied, "No problem English."

A Space Center spokesman said the Russians would be here three weeks but their visit would include only the "elementary" phases of the planned July 15, 1975, flight.

The spokesman said most of the briefings would be in classrooms. He said specific mission training was scheduled for next year.

An American crew is scheduled to make a similar trip to Russia in October.

NO INJURIES IN COLLISION — Although an estimated $5,500 property damage resulted, no injuries occurred when a Seaboard Coast Line Railroad engine struck a truck trailer at a crossing two-tenths of a mile North of the Greenville City Limits on N.C. 30 about 12:35 p.m. yesterday. Driver of the tractor-trailer truck was identified by Highway Patrolman Larry Thames as David Lee Bembridge, 22 of Washington, N.C. Damage to the trailer, which was struck by the train and cut in half, was set at $5,000 while damage to the SCL engine was set at $500. Engineer of the train was identified as Bobby B. Brannan of Rocky Mount. Bembridge was charged by investigators with failing to yield the right of way at the crossing.

Little Comment On IRS Check

GREENSBORO (AP)—North Carolina's top FBI man, Ralph Rampton, said Monday he was aware of a "preliminary" investigation involving the U.S. Senate campaign of Democrat Nick Galifianakis last year, but refused to comment further on the investigation.

Galifianakis charged last week that the FBI conducted an "inopportune and critical" probe into his use of a plane owned by the firm of his campaign manager. He said that he did not regard the investigation as harassment at the time, but has had second thoughts about it since.

In reply to whether or not harassment was involved, Rampton said, "Oh, you've got to be kidding. We don't harass anybody. We don't get involved in any investigation unless there is a possibility of violations of the law."

Rampton said any additional comment on the matter would have to come from the U.S. Justice Department.

Galifianakis' campaign manager, Russell Walker of Ashboro, said that officials of his company often used the aircraft for personal business and that the firm was later reimbursed. He said the investigation into its campaign use was dropped.

Galifianakis had charged the probe was initiated by a complaint from an official in the campaign of Republican Jesse Helms. Helms later defeated the former congressman.

Tankers Arrive At Phnom Pehn

By DENNIS NEELD
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Five oil tankers and an ammunition barge reached Phnom Penh Monday night after running a gantlet of heavy fire from insurgents on both banks of the Mekong River.

Another tanker was abandoned in flames 27 miles downriver from the Cambodian capital.

U.S. Phantom and Corsair jets strafed the rebels' positions on both banks of the river for some 15 miles, but low monsoon clouds hampered them. The rebels raked the river convoy with 75mm recoilless rifle fire, armor-piercing rockets and small arms fire.

The tanker Mekong Trader was hit and set ablaze as it rounded Koh Tachor Island two miles above the Cambodian river base at Neak Luong. The vessel was beached on the island, and the Filipino crew was taken off by Cambodian gunboats. One crewman was wounded.

"We had a lot of American air cover, but there was a very big rain when we got hit and the planes were unable to fly," said Melchor Cabunelas, 30, one of the crewmen. "For most of the way, two or three jets were with us all the time, striking along both banks. But when we needed them most, they were not there."

Meanwhile, a convoy of 136 trucks and 51 trailers carrying rice and fish arrived from Kompong Som, Cambodia's seaport. It was the first convoy from the coast since the road was reopened Sunday.

In northwestern Cambodia, a heavy firefight was reported three miles from Angkor Wat, the 11th century ruins that are a reminder of the days when the Khmers of Cambodia ruled much of Indochina.

A government communique claimed 15 Khmer Rouge insurgents were killed while the government lost one soldier. The insurgents have held Angkor since full-scale fighting broke out in 1970.

In South Vietnam, the release of two Canadian officers held by the Viet Cong appeared nearer. The Viet Cong said the Canadian cease-fire delegation had informed it the South Vietnamese government had given assurance its forces would refrain from military activity in the area where the two men are held at Xuan Loc, 45 miles north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong said earlier that an effort to release the two Canadians failed because of the South Vietnamese. The Saigon command's chief spokesman denied the allegation.

Douglas Will Visit China

GOOSE PRAIRIE, Wash. (AP) — More than 20 years after President Harry S. Truman advised him to tell the Chinese Communists "to go straight to hell," Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is going to visit the People's Republic of China.

Douglas, 74, said on Monday that he and his wife, Cathy, will fly to Hong Kong Aug. 9 and go on to China on an invitation from the Peking government.

Douglas said in a telephone interview from his mountain retreat 40 miles west of Yakima, Wash., that he'd been trying to visit China since about 1950.

He said he was granted a visa in 1956 but Secretary of State John Foster Dulles refused to validate it.

"Dulles said it would be bad business," Douglas told Bob Lucas, executive editor of the Yakima Herald-Republic, in a copyright interview. "He said that, if we go over there, they would want to come over here."

Truman's suggestion as to where the Chinese Communists could go came after a trip

Douglas made to India after North Korea invaded South Korea to start the Korean War, the justice said.

Douglas said that, during his two-week visit to India, he was told Mao Tse-tung would send the Chinese army into North Korea if Gen. Douglas MacArthur's United Nations forces penetrated north of the 38th parallel.

Douglas said Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru asked him if he could get that message to Truman, and Douglas said he talked to Truman when he returned to Washington.

"When I had finished, Truman said, 'Are you through talking?' I said yes," Douglas recalled.

"He said, 'Let me tell you something: My intelligence is better than yours. Those God-damned brigands would never dare enter the war. And if they did, it would be the sorriest day in their history.'"

Douglas said that, after more scorching language, Truman told him, "You can tell them to go straight to hell."

The Chinese army did not enter the Korea War when U.N. forces crossed the 38th parallel in pursuit of the retreating North Koreans, but Chinese "volunteers" later poured into North Korea as U.N. troops drove toward the Yalu River dividing line between North Korea and China.

Released Peace Corps Members Relax After Flight From Kenya

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — More than 100 members of the U.S. Peace Corps rested today in the capital of Zaire after being held for 51 hours in Uganda.

A chartered flight brought the 111 Americans here Monday night after President Mobutu Sese Seko vouched for them and Uganda's President Idi Amin let them go. Amin said he thought they might be mercenaries on their way to fight in Burundi's tribal war or Israeli agents.

After an uncomfortable Saturday night in the Entebbe, Uganda, air terminal, the 48 young women and 63 young men spent the rest of their detention in a hotel beside Lake Victoria.

"Another day or two here would be fine with us," said Ken Beck, 25, of Walla Walla, Wash., before leaving.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman

from the Watergate scandal.

The U.S. Embassy in Kampala, Uganda's capital, said no request had been made to Amin for an apology for the detention and none was offered. Radio Uganda said President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania had sent Amin a message praising him for holding the Americans until they were investigated.

In Washington, State Department press officer Paul Hare said the department was gratified that the Americans had been released.

"But we remain deeply concerned that they were detained ... and will be considering the implications this situation has for us," he said.

The Americans' chartered plane landed Saturday at Entebbe to refuel and then took off for Bujumbura, Burundi. They were to transfer there to smaller planes because the airstrip at Bukavu could not take their VC10 jet.

Amin ordered the plane back to Entebbe just before it crossed the border, threatening it with MIG jet fighters of his air force. There was speculation he was retaliating for the U.S. government's adverse reaction to his Fourth of July message to President Nixon in which he accused him of murder in Cambodia and expressed hope he would soon recover from the Watergate scandal.

GOP's Youth To Hold Hearing

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The nation's Young Republicans plan to hold a special hearing today on Watergate because the group's annual convention has been swamped with Watergate resolutions.

Peter R. Chase, resolutions committee chairman, said Monday that at least six resolutions on the controversy had been handed to the committee and that "many more" are expected.

Chase predicted the committee will recommend a mild resolution on the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last year and the aftermath.

"I'm sure the sense of the committee will be that the President is not guilty of wrongdoing," he said.

He suggested that the committee may include language in the resolution urging President Nixon to communicate about the incident with the American public.

The convention officially opens at 7 p.m. today but many of the delegates have been in Atlanta the past two days for preliminary sessions.

Bob Morgan of Louisiana presented a resolution calling on the President to "establish more effective liaison with the people" and to "pay attention to the voices of those who worked for his election."

Morgan and Chase argued about a portion of the resolution which asserted that Nixon had "surrounded himself with zealots, malcontents and paranoids." Chase said he believed the language should be "less inflammatory" but Morgan declined to accept revisions.

"I thought this would be a controversial item," Morgan said, "but after talking to some delegates it seems that it will not be."

The committee declined to take action on the proposal, one of at least 36 different resolutions submitted to the group. The committee will hear all delegates who have resolutions and then report to the full convention those resolutions it feels should be passed.

Other resolutions introduced Monday include statements in support of prompt construction of the Alaskan oil pipeline, a project that has drawn strong opposition from conservation groups, and suggestions that all efforts to grant amnesty for Vietnam-era draft-dodgers be rebuffed.

Resolutions also have been offered calling for a "strong foreign policy" and for private ownership of gold.

The preliminary sessions must also contend with rival delegations from Virginia and Texas. The credentials committee will hear today seating challenges involving splinter groups which separated from the main Young Republican organization in their state and held rump conventions to elect their own delegates.

Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., will deliver the keynote address tonight.

Amin ordered the plane back to Entebbe just before it crossed the border, threatening it with MIG jet fighters of his air force. There was speculation he was retaliating for the U.S. government's adverse reaction to his Fourth of July message to President Nixon in which he accused him of murder in Cambodia and expressed hope he would soon recover

Military Trial Set

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A civilian court cleared the way Monday for Sgt. Chester W. Collier, 23, of Copeland, Fla., to be tried by a military panel on two charges of murder during a shooting spree at the Seymour Johnson Air Force Base hospital on June 24.

Civilian murder charges were not pressed with leave in Wayne County District Court. The action gives the state the option of renewing the charges later.

The Air Force has not set a trial date.

Collier is charged with two counts of premeditated murder and three counts of attempted premeditated murder. The charges were filed after a gunman burst into the hospital emergency room and fired a volley of shots from a .22 caliber rifle, killing two airmen and wounding three others.

Bid-Whist Night Set

Wednesdays have been designated as bid-whist nights at the West Greenville Recreation Center at 7:30. Participants may bring a partner or choose one after they arrive.

Wade Johnson, Jr., and Rufus Huggins won trophies at the first meeting.

The recreation center offers bowling, putt-putt, basketball, volleyball and other activities during the summer.

For information concerning the activities, call 752-7540. Formerly the Eppes Gym, the center is open 9 a.m.-noon and 2-10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Approve Pay Raise

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Advisory Budget Commission has approved five per cent pay raises for 51 high level state employees.

The raises, if approved by the next General Assembly, would affect only employees not covered by the State Personnel Act.

Salaries of nine cabinet secretaries would be raised to a range from $26,250 to $35,426.

The commission postponed action on merit pay raises for 47 clerks of superior courts. All 100 clerks received $3,000 raises in 1973.

There were several new looks on the commission. Four new Republican members were present, the first men of their party every to serve. The commission was larger, having been expanded from six to 12 members by the 1973 legislature.

And Gov. Jim Holshouser personally presided, performing a task most of his predecessors have delegated. He said he hoped to chair as many meetings as he could attend.

May Create New Jobs

KINSTON—An expansion announced yesterday at the Dupont plant here, coupled with a similar expansion announced a year ago, could create 800 new jobs at the "Dacron" plant here, which began production in 1953.

Plant manager James Piet said yesterday that authorization has been received to install equipment capable of producing more than 50 million pounds of draw texturizing feed year for use in making double knit fabrics for men's and women's apparel annually.

The multi-million dollar expansion will create about 400 new jobs when completed by mid-1975.

An expansion announced a year ago—similar manufacturing unit now under construction—is set for completion in the spring of 1974 and will create about 400 new jobs when in full production.

Combined, the two expansion programs will increase the current 2,800 people employed by the Dupont "Dacron" facility to about 3,600.

About 35 per cent of the current 2,800 employees live in Pitt County.

The Kinston plant has been expanded several times since operations began 20 years ago. The Dupont plant here produces "Dacron" staple and polyester filament yarn for apparel.

Traveling In Europe

Miss Ruth Lambie, an assistant professor of child development and family relations in the ECU School of Home Economics, will be in Scandinavia a month and a half this summer studying in her field.

During her stay in Scandinavia, she will study at the University of Gotenborg and visit various educational and social service programs available to pre-school children in Seden, Denmark, and Finland. About a quarter of her time will be spent in Stockholm, where she will consult with Dr. Karin Stensland Junker, a noted Swedish physician and psychiatrist. Dr. Junker is the founder and organizer of the Lekotecket, a toy-planning and lending program which provides training and guidance for parents and families of physically handicapped children.

Subsidized in part by a grant from East Carolina University, Miss Lambie hopes to use the knowledge gained during her study and conferences to set up adaptations of the Lekotecket program in Eastern North Carolina.

June Was Warmest

June was a warm month locally, Greenville Utilities statistics show.

High temperature for the month was 94 degrees compared with 92 for the same month last year. Low temperature was 55 degrees and last year it was 44 degrees.

There were no degree days heating in June 1973, but there 11 in June, 1972.

Degree days cooling for June this year were 351 compared with 226.5 last year.

Rainfall for June totalled 5.47 inches compared with 3.54 inches in June, 1972.

However, rainfall for the fiscal year (July 1, 1972 through June 30, 1973) was down from 50.42 inches to 47.95 inches.

In the electric department peak KW demand was 81,900 for June, 1973, compared with 73,200 in June, 1972.

The peak day in water usage in million gallons was 7,567, compared with 6,18 for the same month last year.

The peak day for sewage was down from 6.2 million gallons to 5.8 million gallons.

July 24 Is First Date

MACON, Ga. (AP) — The state commissioner of agriculture, Tommy Irvin, has set July 24 as the starting date for auction sales of the 1973 flue-cured tobacco crop in the Georgia-Florida belt.

Foul weather, including heavy rains during the winter and early spring, have hampered production on this year's crop and production may not top last year's 176 million pounds.

Harvest and curing is about on schedule everywhere except in Evans, Bulloch and Tattnall counties, Irvin told a meeting of the Georgia Tobacco Advisory Committee here Monday.

The Florida Tobacco Advisory Council met earlier to poll crop information in Florida. It is customary for Florida to go along with the date set in Georgia because there are 23 markets in Georgia and five in Florida.

Georgia markets are in Adel, Alma, Baxley, Blackshear, Claxton, Douglas, Fitzgerald, Hahira, Hazlehurst, Metter, Moultrie, Nashville, Pearson, Pelham, Quitman, Statesboro, Swainsboro, Sylvester, Thomasville, Tifton, Valdosta, Vidalia and Waycross.

Florida markets are in High Springs, Jasper, Lake City, Live Oak and Madison.

Parents Hassle With Daughter About Profession

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a female college student majoring in education of the deaf. I love this kind of work and can hardly wait to go into it professionally when I'm finished.

My parents are very much against my working with the deaf. They are afraid they will end up with a deaf son in law. Abby, I know my parents love me, and I love them, too, but I just can't understand their reasoning.

I have told them that I have a "gift" for working with the deaf. My grades have been outstanding and I have already been offered a position after graduation in a school for the deaf, but my parents are not at all pleased about it.

I dread summer vacation because I know my parents will hassle me about changing to some other line of work. I would like your opinion.

TORN

DEAR TORN: There is a great need for dedicated young people in the field you chose, and I commend you for your choice. Stick to your guns.

DEAR ABBY: I know a woman who is receiving public assistance illegally. She claims to have no other source of income, but the truth is she is living with a guy who has plenty of money and she needs welfare aid like I need another head.

I have thought about reporting her, but I must admit it would be because I dislike this woman and the guy she's living with. I'm afraid if I report her under these circumstances my conscience will bother me. What should I do?

NAMELESS AND PLACELESS, PLEASE

DEAR N AND P: Judge not, that ye be not judged.

DEAR ABBY: Enough of this nonsense about the effects of the disparity of ages in May-December marriages.

When I was a young man punching cattle in Wyoming, I remember when a 40-year-old sheepherder married a 10-year-old girl. He was four times as old as she was.

After they had been married for five years, he was 45, and she was 15, which made him only three times as old as she was. When they had been married for 20 years he was 60, and she was 30, which made him only twice as old as his wife.

How long will they have to be married before they are the same age?

ROY ROSENBERG

DEAR ROY: Aw, come on, Roy, you can't pull the wool over my eyes with that kind of yarn. Ten-year-olds aren't permitted to marry in the U. S. A.

CONFIDENTIAL: TO THOSE WHO WROTE TO THE EUTHANASIA COUNCIL FOR COPIES OF "A LIVING WILL": If you have not heard from them, please, please be patient. They have been inundated with requests for copies. Thirty thousand additional wills were printed, which were gone in a few days. In order to handle the mail, extra help was called in. Finally they had to move to larger headquarters. An estimated 100,000 wills have been sent out to date.

Interested persons should contact Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, 752-6760, or Mrs. George Manning, 758-2214, for reservations.

ABC's college football schedule for the fall will consist of 37 games, 13 national and 24 regional telecasts. First one is UCLA vs. Nebraska Sept. 8.

Quality In Fashion Concerns Women

NEW YORK (AP)—American women are becoming more fashion conscious, says one woman who should know.

She is Leona Bowman, author of a fashion newsletter which has been predicting trends in what women will wear for 10 years.

The tiny and blonde Mrs. Bowman makes two trips to European fashion showings each year and keeps an eye on American fashion the remainder of the time.

Her track record is a good one in the four years she has been chief trend spotter of her publication.

"European women still have more assurance than American women, but there is a growing fashion consciousness here. Americans are finally becoming more concerned with quality; they don't buy dresses they'll throw away in a short time.

"American women are traveling more and learning about fashion as they go," Mrs. Bowman added. "Americans do travel better — they always look better. Otherwise, fashion is becoming pretty much the same all over.

"There is, for example, no one look that is American, although we do have the best sportswear in the world. The things that are different around the world are fabrics, colors and the attention to detail that one finds only in European clothing," she said.

One thing does worry the fashion prognosticator. She says fashion magazine reporting in general is bad today.

"I get so angry when people downgrade everything. They report only far-out items in a show and ignore good things. They keep saying fashion is dead, or they say pants are out when really they are not. Women still care what they wear. A new outfit still does much for them psychologically," Mrs. Bowman said.

From previews of fall fashion in Paris, Mrs. Bowman predicts that the boot-length, longer skirt will be popular this fall.

"Manufacturers may not want it because it takes more fabric, but it is comfortable and easy and it is a good alternative to slacks for women who prefer a skirt," she added.

"Women are going to wear what they feel looks good, no matter what a retailer says. They should have the option of making a choice."

Mrs. Bowman says women are through with fads in clothing design and are looking for value instead. She says sweaters will be marvelous for fall, and predicts that mother of pearl buttons will be the height of style.

Jeans are still very important in Europe. Women are wearing denims with their slacks or Donegal jackets. And patches on the jeans — some are satin appliques, some are embro-dered. There are lots of denim shoes, and new kimono-sleeved jackets that wrap and tie to wear over jeans," she added.

"Lots of people are wearing denims or slacks tucked into high boots. I think we'll soon see some slacks cut like jodphurs to go with that look.

American manufacturers disagree, but I think it will go. Every designer is influenced by jeans."

Mrs. Bowman says she often gets tired of the crush at Paris showings. She thinks it's a fire hazard to pack so many people into such rickety showrooms.

Teach Children That Greenery May Cause Harm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Summer foliage that delights the eye may also cause thousands of poisonings when part of an innocent-looking plant ends up in the digestive system, according to experts.

Dr. Frederick F. Newirth, medical director for Firemen's Fund American Insurance Companies, says even the most commonly cultivated plants have a lethal effect when eaten.

"That makes it imperative," he added, "that children be taught that it is dangerous to eat any part of any plant."

Newirth noted that such common plants as hyacinths, narcissus, daffodils, oleander and dieffenbachia can cause death.

Other plants that may prove fatal if eaten include mistletoe, foxglove, daphne, golden chain, rhododendron, yew, twigs and leaves of wild and cultivated cherries, and jimson weed.

Newirth said that the smallest sampling by a curious child can lead to serious illness and even death. He emphasized that many other plants when eaten may cause serious discomfort and illness.

"Rather than trying to make a child a vest-pocket botanist by teaching him to watch out for deadly fauna, teach him that all flowers and plants are not to be eaten unless he finds them on a plate at mealtime," Newirth said.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Highsmith, recent bridal couple, were entertained at a barbecue Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hardee at Glenwood Lake.

The individual tables were arranged on the lake front and were covered with red and white cloths and centered with arrangements of mixed summer flowers. The lake front was outlined with candles.

Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hardee, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Hardee Jr. and Mrs. Gertrude Hardee.

Approximately 85 guests were present for the event.

City Recreation Makes Big Jump

Some big things are beginning to happen in the city recreation area, as the proposed 1973-74 budget shows.

First, of course, funds have been allocated ($150,000) from federal revenue sharing for construction of the long awaited municipal swimming pool.

There has not been a municipally operated swimming pool here since the old one on E. Fifth Street was closed in the 1950s. That location has subsequently served as a parking lot and now as a new street location.

So now with revenue sharing funds the pool will become a reality and the 1973-74 budget provides funds for eight parttime people to operate the pool during summer months. Included are a pool manager, assistant manager and six lifeguards.

The department also operates three recreational centers, and six parks on 143 acres of city owned property, along with two parks on leased property.

The budget calls for three full time additional men, two to initiate a landscape maintenance program for city parks, median strips, Sheppard Memorial Library and the town common which is now in the process of landscaping and improvements.

The third full time employee would be a recreation supervisor for the exceptional who would provide recreational programs for more than 1,400 developmentally disabled children and adults within the city. A $7,200 state grant was received for this purpose.

The department will continue to operate the Moyewood Social Services Center and the West End Center. Included in the Moyewood funds are matching funds for a day care operations grant administered by the Pitt Social Services Department. The West End Center, initiated last year with a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, provides recreational activities to residents of West Greenville. It is located in the renovated former gym of Eppes High School.

The department would operate with 23 people during the 1973-74 fiscal year as opposed to 20 in 1972-73. It's budget would be $239,880 compared to $203,419 in 1972-73.

County Job Is Demanding Also

By JERRY AUSBAND
The Shelby Daily Star
Shelby, N. C. — County commissioners are city councilmen with a broader constituency, right?

Almost, but not quite.

The pressures for services are virtually as great on commissioners as they are on aldermen; the abilities to tax and to pass laws are almost as wide as aldermen have, and wider in some other ways; and the problems of the municipalities are also problems of the commissioners in addition to the problems of the aldermen.

After all, residents of municipalities, large and small, are also county residents.

Some municipalities, traditionally, have been closed at the city limits to county commissioners, and some smaller municipalities in name only have been completely dependent on county commissioners for services and authority.

"I still have to remind our commissioners not to say 'out in the county,'" Cleveland County Manager Joe Hendrick says.

County Councilmen

The fact is that county commissioners are more and more becoming county councilmen in the municipal sense of the word. As the flight to the suburbs continues, abated only by the predominance of city school systems in some locations such as Shelby, county commissioners become, well, just commissioners.

Some county boards of commissioners may feel they already have learned the lesson of providing city-type services; others know they have not; still others are only awakening to the facts of 1973.

Counties already have most of the authority granted to cities, in law-making, taxing and such areas. But, as pressures for services in suburbs increase, important differences should be noted.

For one thing, county governments are not organized like city governments. Where the city police chief is appointed as a professional lawman, the county sheriff is elected and is answerable to the county manager and county commissioners only by the pursestrings.

Warning Given American Jews

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — An oblique but unmistakable warning by President Nixon to the American Jewish community not to jeopardize detente with the Soviet Union has been taken with utmost seriousness by Jewish leaders worried by the political passion that continues to grow around the issue of Soviet Jewish emigration.

The warning, unpublished until now, was given by the President at his most recent meeting with the bipartisan congressional leaders on June 22.

In that cabinet room session, just before he moved to San Clemente, Mr. Nixon displayed a cool, unemotional but inflexible resolve not to let the keystone of his foreign policy — an unprecedented working relationship with Moscow centered on trade — collapse on the question of internal Soviet emigration policy.

Mr. Nixon briefed the leaders on the results of his talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Coming to the transcendent issue of his promise to Brezhnev that the U.S. would grant most favored nation treatment (that is, tariff equality) and Export-Import Bank credits to the Soviet Union, Mr. Nixon first appealed to the congressional leaders not to let anything interfere with fulfillment of that pledge. Then, pointedly, he added: the U.S. cannot make its policy hostage to any one group. To do so, he went on, would be bad for the country — and bad for that group.

Translated, the President was saying that passage of the Jackson amendment, which would deny both credits and tariff equality to Moscow unless all restrictions on Jewish emigration are lifted, would jeopardize detente. In turn, that could stir up anti-Jewish reactions inside the U.S. by other citizen groups more interested in detente than in Soviet Jewish emigration to Israel.

After Mr. Nixon finished, Henry Kissinger, himself a German-born Jew, strongly supported the President in private conversations taking direct issue with a thesis of Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, author and highly successful promoter of the Jackson amendment.

Even if Jackson is right, said Kissinger, that Moscow needs U.S. aid and credits so badly it will permit the U.S. Congress to dictate its emigration policy, the U.S. should extract concessions affecting the entire U.S., not one favored group or foreign country.

With all this, however, Jackson continues to hold a prohibitive balance of power in both the Senate and House on his amendment to the trade bill. He has not lined up 77 Senators, with the recent addition of Louisiana's Sen. Russell Long, a key figure as chairman of the tariff-writing Senate Finance Committee.

In the House, Jackson counts 285 co-signers of his amendment. Hence, despite President Nixon's genuine fear that the amendment carries seeds of destruction for U.S.-Soviet detente, and could backlash against the American Jewish community, nothing on the horizon seems likely to avoid a head-on collision.

The probability of such a collision, and its possible aftermath, is feared both within the Israeli government and by responsible leaders of the American Jewish community. In Jerusalem, conservative political party Gahal tried to force a vote in the Knesset (parliament) putting Israel squarely behind the Jackson amendment. Prime Minister Golda Meir wisely blocked it.

Here, the potential political problem is vividly seen by such prominent American Jews as Max Fisher, a strong Nixon supporter and head of the Jewish Agency; Jacob Stein, president of the influential Conference of Presidents of Jewish Organizations; and Richard Maass, chairman of the National Conference on Soviet Jewry.

They are, of course, committed to the Jackson amendment. But they are privately counseling extreme caution on the issue. Moreover, they maneuvered to change the date of the anti-Brezhnev Jewish rallies last month so as not to coincide with Brezhnev's arrival (a move that failed only because Brezhnev's schedule changed at the last minute and brought him here one day early).

These Jewish leaders, however, will never lobby against the Jackson amendment, because free Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union is one of the most volatile and emotional issues that confronts world Jewry. But, as the President obliquely suggested, it is also an issue that could not match the far more potent question of East-West detente.

Hence, a classic confrontation with possibly tragic consequences now seems inevitable.

Strength For Today

WHEN MEN FIND GOD
In one of his most beautiful passages St. Augustine wrote: "With thy calling and shouting my deafness was broken; with thy glittering and shining my blindness was put to flight. At the scent of thee I drew in my breath, and I pant for thee. I have tasted, and I hunger and thirst. Thou hast touched me and I am on fire for thy peace."

It is then that he touches us. It is in that hour, like St. Augustine, that we are aflame with his peace.

Oregon War On Litter

WASHINGTON—The sovereign state of Oregon draws its name, or so I have been told, from the Algonquin word for "beautiful water." The preservation of natural beauty thus has a long tradition in Oregon, and the good word these days is that Oregon is doing something to keep that tradition alive. The state's "bottle bill" is working.

Over the strenuous opposition of the brewing and canning industries, Oregon adopted its anti-litter law in June of 1971. The act went into operation on October 1 of last year. Since that time, cans with pull-tab openers have been banned outright in Oregon, and all beer and softdrink containers have been required to carry refund values.

The Environmental Protection Agency recently released a pocket-sized study of the act's first six months of operation. Gov. Tom McCall's office has provided some figures from the State Highway Division as of June 1. The data indicate that, while the act has imposed some inconvenience and a few hardships, the law is achieving a spectacular reduction in the volume of litter.

In an effort to measure the act's effectiveness, the Highway Division last September made a meticulous count along 25 one-mile stretches of typical Oregon highway. In that month, just before the law went into operation, the division counted 25,775 pieces of litter along the test roads. The figure included 2,061 beer cans, 719 soft-drink cans, 481 non-returnable beer bottle, and 86 non-returnable soft-drink bottles.

In May of this year, the most recent month for which figures are available, total litter had dropped to 7,933 pieces, a reduction of 69 percent. Only 153 beer cans and 38 soft-drink cans were picked up. The number of non-returnable bottles had dropped to 41.

Oregon's program admittedly has imposed a burden on retailers, who find it a nuisance to handle storage and refunds on thousands of reusable bottles. The act also is blamed for the loss of 142 jobs in two small canning plants that have

In spite of the hoopla surrounding the visit to the United States by Russia's Leonid Brezhnev, and despite the outward goodwill atmosphere generated by his talks with President Nixon, one should not look for miracles in the relations between this country and the Soviet Union, or changes in the stated goals of the Kremlin.

Ideological rivalry will continue between the two superpowers despite all the glad-hand diplomacy exerted by President Nixon and the Communist leaders.

This holds particularly true of Red China, still the enigmatic and implacable foe of Western civilization that it has been since the Communists took charge in 1949.

A specialist in Soviet internal affairs, Paul K. Cook, in the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research, warns that as Soviet nationalism expands, "the Kremlin's suspicions of, and hostility toward, the West may even be strengthened."

His descriptions of the Soviet Union are found in a congressional study of the Soviet Union written by American and foreign Kremlin watchers.

The volume was released last Saturday by the Joint Economic Committee, headed by Rep. Wright Patman.

While he believes ideological rivalries between the countries are strong, they are not on a collision course — yet, but he said that development of normal trade relations is hindered by the Soviet need for massive foreign credits.

Congress is reluctant to grant most-favored-nation tariff status for Soviet goods.

But Nixon's liberal policies toward Communist nations may serve to change the minds of the members of Congress.

Just why he should want to strengthen the economic status of the Soviet Union remains a mystery to those who know about the Soviet Union.

A Soviet Union strong economically, poses as much a threat to our way of life as one that saps its economic strength in order to feed its ravenous military machine.

There is no rational explanation as to why we should help the Soviet Union bury us, as Nikita Khrushchev said the Soviets would do, and just as every Red dictator before him, all the way back to Lenin, promised to do.

And just as Leonid Brezhnev would like to do, despite his camaraderie with Nixon during his visit to the U. S. recently.

The report showed that six persons were killed and seventeen injured in the series of twenty accidents investigated by the patrol. Eight persons were arrested for driving while drunk. Six reckless drivers were nabbed and two persons received tickets for speeding.

Little Hope For Lower Prices

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The failure of food production to keep pace with consumer demands leaves little hope that food prices will drop or even remain at their current level in the near future, says the director of the federal Cost of Living Council.

"Given the fundamental facts of our economy, some food prices may even rise," Dr. John T. Dunlop told an Atlanta news conference Monday.

"In the first six months this year," he said, "the amount of food produced in the U. S. was less than that produced in the first half last year—and that in the face of greater demand."

Dunlop was in Atlanta to hear suggestions from businessmen on what course of action president Nixon should take when the present price freeze ends in mid-August.

He said the next phase—Phase 4—probably will place strong controls on food prices but he refused to rule out price increases. "It's a matter of how much and over what period of time," he said.

The federal official suggested that food prices could be eased by increasing the supply and refraining from instituting price controls at the farm level.

The federal government has plans to boost the number of acres open for planting, he continued, and has placed export controls on more than 40 agricultural commodities in an effort to increase supply.

"We'll know better the future of food prices when these crops start coming in later this year," Dunlop said.

Dunlop said he could not support a blanket regulation prohibiting the increase of food price. He said such a policy might harm some industries, such as poultry.

Using broilers as an example, Dunlop said thousands of baby chickens have been destroyed in recent weeks because of the soaring prices of chicken feed.

He said the price of soybeans, a major ingredient of chicken feed, had dropped from $10-$12 per bushel prior to the current freeze and export embargo to about $6 at present.

If feed costs decline, he said, chicken farmers will be able to grow birds and sell them at a profit. "If not, I agree that the price of chickens must be raised," he said.

"Controls are a two-headed sword," Dunlop explained. "They hold down prices but they also threaten supplies. There is no choice but to allow price boosts on some products."

He said that Phase 4 controls "will be a matter of choices. We want low prices but we also want supplies. What we're trying to decide now is how to do that."

Dunlop also said that tighter and more mandatory controls may be placed on gasoline, although he said no definite decisions have been made.

Turning to another matter, the federal official said there is "merit for substantial" wage increase for Georgia legislators and some state officials.

However, he said he believed the proposed increases now being considered by the council are too much of a "big bite" at one time.

Under the measure, approved earlier this year by the General Assembly, some state officials would receive salary boosts in excess of 70 per cent.

Building Boom In N. C. Mountains

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
LINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The condominium is currently the hottest item in the booming second home development business in the North Carolina mountains.

In the past four years, developers of the mountain's most expensive resorts have seen almost a complete turnaround in the type of home that wealthy southeasterners want to buy for their leisure activities.

Where once they built and sold only the traditional homes, they are now building almost only condominiums.

A condominium is an apartment, but one which is purchased instead of rented. The terms vary with the sort, but generally the owner buys title to the interior walls and everything inside them.

He gets a joint ownership of the outside walls and the land on which the building rests.

At prices ranging up to $100,000, resort condominiums offer more than the average city apartment, though they may not be larger.

They come with paneled walls and plush carpets, with decorator touches like spiral staircases. Even the least expensive studios have balconies and stone fireplaces.

And with them comes the opportunity to play in the mountains—at golf, tennis and skiing—or simply to enjoy a rushing creek, clean air and mountain vistas.

The newest resort in Linville is building only condominiums. And the developer of Adams Apple Racquet Club says he is selling them faster than he can build them.

Adams Apple is so called because it is situated on a knob below the chin in the profile that Grandfather Mountain etches against the sky.

Owner Bob Bingham says he has sold 35 condominiums at prices ranging from $17,500 to $55,000 since he started operations in 1972. He has plans to build 100 more.

On the other side of Grandfather Mountain, the Grandfather Golf and Country Club has completed 94 condominiums and plans to build between 150 and 200 more.

The developers have diverted a stream to create an island near the golf course's 18th hole, making room for more of the apartments, designed as attached, two-story units.

The Grandfather condominiums were the first to be built in the state back in 1968. The least expensive sold then for $29,000 and bring $44,000 now. The new models range from $50,000 to $100,000.

At Sugar Mountain, the woodland near the ski slopes echoes to the sounds of hammer and saws as construction proceeds on 125 condominiums, which will double the present total. At the same time, work is going forward on only a dozen single family houses, reflecting the ratio at Grandfather Mountain as well.

Sugar Mountain's prices range from $30,000 to $70,000. Although they are aiming principally at different segments of the leisure home market, the developers of the three resorts agree that several things have contributed to the switch to condominiums.

The condominium owner doesn't have to worry about keeping up the grounds of a home. He pays a share of a maintenance fund which, according to Grandfather's Joe W. Hartley, is substantially less than a homeowner would pay.

At most resorts, the management runs a rental service; the owner can leave his place available for rental to vacationers and derive some income from that, although there are no guarantees.

Each of the three large Avery County resorts says it appeals to a different type of person.

Adams Apple's Bingham is "after the youth market." His resort features only tennis, and he says his buyers play tennis in the summer and ski in the winter.

He points to the Larry Brown, the dapper, 33-year-old coach of the Carolina Cougars as a typical owner.

Grandfather attracts an older, wealthier group, a spokesman said, pointing out the condominium owned by Clifford Roberts, the retired Wall Street financier who directs the Masters Golf Tournament.

And Sugar Mountain, a salesman said, attracts a buyer who is "between 27 and 45, has three children, makes more than $25,000 per year and is generally a WASP, although we have some Jewish owners and no policy against selling to blacks."

Despite the fact that they are consuming large chunks of the mountains with their developments, the resort owners point, not without an eye toward the environmentally conscious consumer, to their ecological contributions.

"I can't tell you how many

Tricia Is Not Pregnant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has denied a published report that Tricia Nixon Cox, the older daughter of President and Mrs. Nixon, is pregnant.

"There is no basis for the report that Tricia is pregnant. It is incorrect," Helen Smith, press secretary to Mrs. Nixon, said of the news story published by the Evening Star-News.

The newspaper attributed its report to "an authoritative source."

Tricia, 27, was married to Edward Finch Cox, a young lawyer, in 1971.

thousands of dollars we've spent getting grass to grow on our ski slopes to prevent erosion," said Dr. Tom Brigham who runs Sugar Mountain.

Bingham is proud of Adams Apple's trees. He points out condominiums where special holes have been cut in a balcony to allow a tree to grow through rather than be cut down. He tells of his battles with the tennis court installers to prevent them from cutting more than a minimal amount of timber.

Grandfather's lavish color sales brochure speaks of clear streams and "carefully preserved vistas."

But even though the big developers are convinced they are not destroying the mountain environment, they are beginning to worry that someone else might." So are some local officials in Avery and Watauga counties who, until recently, had been strong advocates of development.

But they are discovering that development is something that, once started, is difficult to stop, or even control.

(Tomorrow: "I'm afraid it's already gotten out of control," says the chairman of the Avery County Commissioners about resort development. He and other local officials explain why they're finding it hard to do anything about it.)

closed down since October. Offsetting the layoffs, the EPA's view, is a probable increase in employment in bottling plants.

This is a modest price to pay, or so it seems to me, for so drastic a reduction in the litter that uglifies our highway and shames our people. No other country in the world has the litter problem that one encounters in affluent America. The psychologists, I suppose, could find some explanation for this masochistic rapping of our national beauty—something in us that hates our land, something of the vandal, something of the brute.

The canning industry, as you might expect, has launched a counterattack against the Oregon law. (A similar law has just gone into effect in Vermont.) The Camerican Can Co. brought suit against Oregon authorities, contending that the bottle bill violates the commerce clause and the equal protection clause and, besides, it denies the consumer freedom of choice. One Oregon court already has held the act fully constitutional, and the Oregon Court of Appeals is to hear argument on the measure this fall.

Two recent decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court may strengthen Oregon's hand. In one case, the court upheld a California regulation controlling the sale of liquor in "bottomless" bars; in another, the court upheld a South Carolina tax on liquor importers. In both cases, the court gave new meaning to the Twenty-first Amendment, which reserves power to the states to handle the importation and sale of alcoholic beverages.

Oregon's Senator Mark Hatfield, encouraged by his state's experience, on June 25 introduced a bill to make the ban nationwide. Congressmen Edward R. Roybal of California and Joseph P. Vigorito of Pennsylvania introduced similar bills in the House. In both House and Senate, serious efforts are under way to get at the problem through recycling.

There are too many ugly Americans cruising our highways ever to solve the matter wholly. No appeal to beauty is likely to affect the trashers. But Oregon has pointed the way for other states and the Congress to beat the problem of the throwaway can.

Flynn Home To Observe Decade

The Flynn Christian Fellowship Home of Greenville is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

Established in 1963, the house at 409 Pitt Street has been home for a night or a week or a month or a year for about 2,000 alcoholics.

The only demands made of the men living there are that they go to Alcoholics Anonymous once a week and that they attend the church of their choice each Sunday. The room and board charge is $20 per week and most of the men go out to jobs in the daytime and are there during their leisure hours. Any one of them who starts drinking must go elsewhere.

There is a Board of 15 directors who determine the policy and they pay the bills of the home. Mrs. Lee Hannah, who was president of the Board when the home was opened in 1963, recalled the names of the original board and said it was they got the highly successful project off the ground. Some are still Board members, she said. They were John Proctor, treasurer, Mrs. Sellars Crisp, secretary; Mrs. W. T. Young, Dr. Bert Aycock, T. I. Wagner, Austin Britt, W.S. Bost, Hubert Robert, the Rev. William Quick, the Rev. John Drake, Mrs. Graham Flanagan, Bobby Gaylor, Herbert Proctor, Harold Black and Mrs. Hannah. Dr. John Wooten gave the use of the house on Pitt Street at first, but later the present house was bought for the purpose.

The present manager is "Curly" Wilhelm, who runs the home with a cook and a helper. Their salaries and all expenses of maintaining the home are met through contributions and with ABC funds set aside for the rehabilitation of the alcoholic, Mrs. Hannah said.

Projects Save Lot Of Money

Small watershed projects in the Midwest alone saved $7 million and protected more than 10 million acres of rural and urban land during the heavy flooding in the early 1973.

This was emphasized by Robert Long, assistant secretary of Agriculture, in a talk to the 20th National Watershed Congress in Wichita, Kansas, which a number of N.C. delegates attended.

The assistant secretary remarked "This emphasizes the urgent need to help our local communities obtain more watershed projects, and I hope we can agree that a small watershed is a sensible place to begin managing soil and water resources. Unfortunately, in some area watersheds have become battleground between landowners and members of certain ecological groups."

Robert G. Little of Grimesland, chairman of the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation district, voiced agreement with Long's views. "It is good for individual citizens to ask questions about local projects.

Often this results in modifications which are an improvement."

"But I also believe that a citizen should study the facts carefully before he contributes money or becomes a member of a group that, through court action, seeks to stop or delay projects that may be urgently needed in the next few years."

M.E. "Red" Knight of Corapeake, president of the N.C. Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts added, "It is a fact that we are going to need more water, more food, electricity, highways, airports, drainage, and other things to maintain our standard of living—and this is true even if the work done does disrupt fish or wildlife temporarily."

Little added, "Perhaps the solution to our fish and wildlife problem is for our state and federal conservation agencies to work together to better manage and utilize more than 1,600 wildlife refuges which cover more than 50 million acres in the U.S. today."

Damages In Local Wreck

More than $1,000 damage was reported in two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11:30 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive 300 feet from the Farmville Boulevard intersection involving cars driven by Thomas Ray Cooper of Route 1, Greenville and James Lee Short, Dorchester, Mass.

Police, who estimated damage at $250 to the Cooper car and $400 to the Short vehicle charged Short with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Ronald Lee Keel of Route 4, Greenville was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of an 8:45 a.m. mishap on Greenville Street 10 feet North of the Second Street intersection.

Investigators identified the driver of the second vehicle involved as Frederic Ronald Phillips of 203 North Oak St.

Damage was estimated at $50 to the Keel truck and $350 to the Phillips car.

Brezhnev To Visit Cuba

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will make his first visit to Cuba at the end of this year, the official news agency Tass reports.

Tass, in a one sentence announcement Tuesday, said Brezhnev would travel to Cuba "in December 1973-January 1974."

During an official visit to Moscow a year ago, Cuban leader Fidel Castro extended an invitation to Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. An official announcement at that time said all three had accepted the invitation, but Tuesday's report indicated Brezhnev alone would make the trip.

Tass said Brezhnev's trip would be a "friendly visit," meaning the trip is not an official one and is unlikely to produce any major agreements between the two nations.

Watergate . . .

against the ex-Cabinet members.

The lawyers argued that the government prosecutors improperly injected the Watergate affair into the New York case, which involves an alleged campaign-financing deal with fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco. The lawyers said that because of Watergate the federal grand jury in New York was prejudiced toward indicting Mitchell and Stans, both of whom have pleaded innocent.

In other developments:

—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer reported that Ehrlichman said the President told him a month after the break-in he never wanted to discuss executive clemency in the case.

In an interview, Ehrlichman said he told the President last July, "Sooner or later, you're going to be confronted with the suggestion by somebody that these fellows be given clemency . . . It's an extremely dangerous subject for you to ever get into."

Ehrlichman said Nixon agreed, replying, "Let's agree right now this is a subject we'll never discuss." I adhered to that. It was never discussed."

Ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III testified that Ehrlichman obtained Nixon's promise of executive clemency for Hunt last Jan. 4 and that Nixon later expressed regret at having discussed the subject with a former special counsel, Charles W. Colson.

—In Miami, Fla., Dade County prosecutor Richard Gerstein said a Cuban exile leader has made a sworn statement that he delivered $21,000 to four of the watergate burglars.

Gerstein said that Manuel Artime, a leader of the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1961, testified the cash came from Hunt and was passed to the four Cuban-Americans Hunt hired to break into the Democratic headquarters.

Artime told an investigator he had frequent contact with the five Watergate figures and met with them as recently as last week at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., Gerstein said.

Busy Week For President Nixon

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, back in the White House after a 17-day California stay, has a busy week ahead. A Cabinet meeting, sessions with economic advisers and a meeting with Republican congressional leaders are on his calendar.

Nixon returned to Washington Monday night via Kansas City, where he witnessed the swearing-in of new FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley. The session with top Senate and House Republicans, with whom he meets regularly, was set for today.

Meetings with his Cabinet and with economic advisers who are helping him prepare Phase 4 wage-price restraints are scheduled for later in the week, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Nixon told his Kansas City audience, gathered around a plaza at the federal building, that the United States is entering "a new era in . . . achieving peace at home."

Declaring that "enormously significant" foreign policy developments "may obscure the progress we have made in . . . moving toward peace at home," Nixon cited a recent reduction in street crime, a quieting of campus unrest, absence of major rioting in cities and a lessening of the drug abuse problem as evidence of what he termed the domestic new era.

Police estimated Nixon's audience at 12,500. A sizable number of anti-Nixon demonstrators were segregated behind rope barriers across a street.

Kelley, 61, a former FBI man who had been Kansas City's police chief for the past dozen years, said that as FBI director he would "always keep in mind we are servants of the law and not its masters."

The first permanent director since the death of J. Edgar Hoover in May 1972, Kelley promised to enforce federal statutes with vigor and said:

"I believe they can and should be enforced fairly and equitably. No matter what is the position of the citizen affected, he should be accorded the full rights guaranteed him, but more than that the dignities and courtesies owed free and proud people."

Kelley flew to Washington with U.S. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson after the ceremony. He was expected to return to Kansas City later in the week to open a temporary office in the federal courthouse.

Bahamas Joins Free Countries

By IKE FLORES

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—

After nearly three centuries of foreign rule, independence and a new era came to the Bahamas today.

More than 50,000 cheering residents of this nation of islands proclaimed their freedom from Britain in midnight ceremonies combining royalty, pagentry, fireworks and a colorful salute to his history.

At 11:59 p.m. Monday, the Union Jack came down for the last time. Bahama's new tricolor took its place atop the flood-lit, 45-foot flagpole two minutes later.

The flag-raising in Nassau's huge Clifford park "was the signal of a new era for our Bahamas," said Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling. He presided over the ceremony with Britain's Prince Charles and the outgoing British governor, Sir John Paul.

Prince Charles was to present Pindling and his government today with the "constitutional instruments" signifying the formal severance of colonial ties with Britain.

In remarks prepared for the acceptance ceremony, Pindling told the prince they would be publicly displayed "as a constant reminder to living Bahamians and Bahamians yet unborn that the universal principles embodied therein constitute a sure foundation on which to build a stable, orderly and flourishing society."

He also declared gratitude to Queen Elizabeth II for her "generous expression of good will . . . and the confidence Her Majesty has reposed in us."

Medical Panel Meets With Gov.

GREENSBORO (AP)—A panel of consultants studying North Carolina's medical education needs has scheduled meetings in Raleigh Friday with Gov. Jim Holshouser and, separately, with Lt. Gov. James Hunt and Democratic legislators.

Dr. J. I. Levine, secretary of the panel named by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, said in an interview published today the meetings are among several held by the study group.

"We are trying very hard to reach an objective decision with respect to the health care of the state and expansion of a four-year medical school. We are talking to as many people as we can, including medical professors, doctors in private practice, law people and politicians," he said.

The panel was charged with the responsibility of exploring the state's medical training programs and facilities and recommending any action needed to correct them, including the possibility of new four year medical schools. The study came amid a continuing effort by East Carolina University to obtain a four-year medical school.

Holshouser will meet with the panel Friday morning, the day after he and members of the Board of Governors are to be dinner guests of ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins. The governors meet in Greenville Friday. Levine said his panel would meet with officials of the Board of Governors Friday night.

Arrested On Bomb Charges

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—

The propaganda minister for the militant Rights of White People organization was charged Monday night with three bombings in Wilmington.

Lawrence Robert Little, 18, faces 10-year to life sentences on charges of bombing a newspaper and synagogue and five to 13 years on bombing an apartment.

Little was taken into custody Sunday on charges of failing to reveal that he was a former mental patient when he bought a gun in his hometown of Jacksonville, N.C. on May 3.

He was the propaganda minister for an organization of segregationist whites who have confronted blacks in several years of continuing racial crises in this port city.

The offices of the Wilmington Journal, a black owned weekly newspaper, were destroyed by a blast on May 28. No one was in the building at the time and there were no injuries.

An explosion extensively damaged the B'nai Israel Synagogue on June 20 and an apartment was slightly damaged on June 17.

Little is the second Rights of White People leader to be charged with a bombing this year. Leroy Gibson, head of the North Carolina group, is awaiting trial on charges of bombing a co-terminure bookstore in Jacksonville earlier this year.

Gold Division Sees Tie

Hallows pulled off a 14-13 upset of Dainty Maid and Four Seasons blasted GUCo, 26-7, to put the two teams into a tie for first place in the Gold division of the City Softball League.

In the first game at Evans 1, Morgan Printers took a 10-6 win over Balentines. Morgan got off to a 2-0 lead in the first but Balentine got a run in the bottom of the inning. Three more came in for Morgan in the second with Blaentine adding a lone score. L. Williamson opened the third with a hit for Morgan and W. Jackson also got a hit. Both scored on a double by W. Summerlin for all the runs they needed.

Morgan added three more in the fourth, including a homer by Williamson. Balentine got three in the third and one in the seventh.

In the game two, Parkers bombed the Daily Reflector, 18-3. After spotting The Daily Reflector a pair of runs in the first, Parkers rallied for four for enough to win it. Robert Garrett singled and scored on a double by Joey Boswell. Wayne Avery drove him in with a single and Robert Nichols hit a two-run homer.

The Daily Reflector added one in the second. Parkers got two in the second, one, a homer by Meeks, in the third, two in the fourth and nine in the sixth.

Hallow's put down a seventh inning rally by Dainty Maid to pull out their win. They had taken a five-run lead in the first but Dainty Maid cut it to one with four runs in their half of the frame. Hallows' stayed in front with two in the second while Dainty Maid got one.

The fourth inning was just a repeat of the second, scoring wise. The Hallow's lead now was 9-6. Three runs in the sixth and two in the seventh made Hallow's think they almost had it wrapped up but Dainty Maid rallied for six runs and closed the gap to 14-13 before they were finally gotten out.

Meanwhile, over at Evans 2, there were four games on tap. In the first, a make-up game, Four Seasons demolished GUCo for a share of the Gold lead. Eleven runs in the first for Four Seasons was enough. GUCo had gotten a run in the first but it quickly disappeared. Ray Carrawan led off reaching on an error. Ronald Vincent Charles Vincent and Tommy Jordan all got hits for two runs. William Maye doubled to score Charles Vincent and a double by Donnie Brewer scored K. Jordan and Maye. Chuck Humphrey doubled and both he and Brewer scored on a double by Walter Stasavitch.

John Childers reached on a fielders choice scoring Stasavitch. In batting around a second time in the inning, Four Seasons added five more runs including a homer by Carrawan.

One more run came across for Four Seasons in the second. They added three in the fifth, two in the sixth, and six in the seventh. GUCo got four in the third and two in the sixth.

Purple Division champs, the Little Sluggers, has a scare last night as they squeaked past Burger King 5-4. Burger King broke into the lead in the second with a pair of runs. The Little Sluggers tied it in the fourth but Burger King went back in front with two in the fifth. The Sluggers cut the gap to one, 4-3 in the sixth and then pushed over two in the seventh to win it. Robbin Coggins doubled and scored on a double by Wayne Briley. An error on the play let Briley score the winning run.

Union Carbide won its game from Hardees by a forfeit.

In the last game, Proctors took a 14-10 decision from the Jaycees. Proctors broke the ice with two in the first but it was tied up in the second by the Jaycees. Proctors went back in front in the third but the Jaycees came up with three to take the lead. Proctors scored two runs in the fourth to regain the lead and added a homer by Rose in the fifth. The Jaycees tied it at 5-5 in the fifth as they pushed over two runs.

The lead stayed the same with both teams scoring two in the sixth. Proctors opened the game in the seventh with a five run rally to bring in the winning run. Rackley led off with a homer and Copel followed with a single. Copeland reached on an error and Sanders got a hit to score Copel. Tucker doubled in Copeland and Saunders and Tucker scored on a double by Kight. Caddis doubled to score Kight.

Feels Like Rookie But Isn't

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — John Hadl says he feels like a rookie.

But John Hadl isn't a rookie. He's an 11-year veteran of the National Football League.

He's with a new team this year, after 11 years with the San Diego Chargers. So, in many ways, he is a rookie.

"But I know more than a rookie would," Hadl, 33, said Monday as the Rams opened summer practice at Fullerton State University.

Hadl was acquired by the Rams from San Diego in the off season.

"My enthusiasm is as high as it's been all my career. I'm really pumped up, said the University of Kansas graduate."

The Chargers granted Hadl's wish last January and traded to the Rams a man who has thrown for nearly 27,000 yards and 201 touchdowns.

Hadl doesn't really have a challenger for the No. 1 quarterback job with the Rams, since the Rams in the meantime met Roman Gabriel's request and traded him to Philadelphia.

But he faces the pressures of becoming the leader of the team, of proving himself to new teammates and fans.

Hadl and Chuck Knox, the new Rams head coach, aren't worried, though.

"John Hadl is a winner," Knox said, with emphasis on winner. "He's a very dedicated quarterback with leadership ability and a good arm."

Elsewhere in pro football, running back Duane Thomas reached agreement on a contract with the San Diego Chargers. Ron mix, the Chargers' executive counsel, said he reached an accord with Abner Haynes, Thomas' agent Sunday night.

Kathy Whitworth finished in the top ten in 22 of 29 individual events in the 1972 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour to earn $65,064.

Babe Ruth Stars Take First Round, 27-3 Win

LITTLEFIELD — Greenville's Babe Ruth All-Stars smashed the Stars of Creswell last night in the first round of the Babe Ruth District Tournament. The Greenville team rolled to a 27-3 win.

Greenville pitchers Kelly Heath and Macon Moye held the Creswell batters to just three hits. The three runs they scored were all unearned.

After putting a man on in the first without a score, Greenville broke the game open with a seven-run spree that netted them all the runs they really needed. Moye walked as did Ed Connolly and Jim Wilkerson also walked to load the bases. Curtis Lee Leys drew a walk to force in Moye. Jimmy Averett slammed a double to drive in Connolly and Wilkerson. Heath reached on an error that scored Keys and Averette. Keith Jones kept it going with a triple and he scored when Mike Belton reached on an error. Moye was safe on another error that moved around Belton to third but Creswell finally got the third out without another score.

Six more came over in the third. Keys got on by a Creswell miscue and he stole his way around to third. David Dixon doubled to drive him in and a triple by Heath scored Dixon. Jones singled to score Heath. Jones stole second and beat the throw to third when Belton hit into a fielder's choice. Moye also hit into a fielder's choice that got Belton at second but scored Jones. Connolly singled in Moye and after Connolly moved to second on an error, he scored on an error on Jim Wilkerson's fly to right.

The Greenville All-Stars added six more in the fourth and four in each of the fifth and sixth innings. The only runs for Creswell came in the second, when A. Chambers walked and went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on a hit by Krawczyk, and then in the fourth and seventh innings.

Greenville will meet the winner of the New Bern-Seymour-Johnson game in the second round tonight.

The Orioles are 1½ out.

Pat Kelly's one-out single capped a two-run rally off New York relief ace Sparky Lyle in the ninth inning and lifted Wilbur Wood and the white Sox to victory.

Wood, who had lost nine of his previous 11 decisions, allowed six hits in raising his record to 16-12.

Kurt Bevacqua's pinch grand slam home run in the fifth inning sparked the Royals over the Brewers and helped ignite a free-for-all that emptied both dugouts.

Mason entered the Rangers' game with Detroit in the 10th inning after Texas used a pinch hitter for the starting shortstop. With one out in the 12th, Tom Grieve singled off Bob Miller and Mason hit his second homer of the season.

er gives me 100 per cent and boots three or four in a game, he just boots them, that's all."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox nipped the New York Yankees 4-3, the Boston Red Sox blanked the Minnesota Twins 2-0, the Kansas City Royals outslugged the Milwaukee Brewers 13-6 and the Texas Rangers shaded the Detroit Tigers 9-7 on Jim Mason's 12th-inning homer. Oakland and Cleveland weren't scheduled.

The victories by the Orioles and the Red Sox further tightened the race in the East Division. Rico Petrocelli drilled a two-run homer and Bill Lee pitched a seven-hit shutout as the streaking Red Sox beat the Twins and pulled to within one game of first-place New York.

Belvoir Drops Pair On Sunday

Williamston swept a pair of games from the Belvoir semipro Sunday as they took the first 9-2 and the second 7-5.

Williamston got enough to win the first game in the second inning. Mobley reached on an error and Mobley walked. Whitley singled to score Mobley and an error on the play scored Raynor. Harper reached on an error and a base hit by Williams drove in Whitley. Joyner walked and Coltrain walked also forcing in Harper. A hit by Hooks scored Whitley and Joyner and an error on Mobley's grounder scored Hooks.

Williamston added one in the third and two in the sixth.

Belvoir scored in the seventh. Belvoir slipped out to a 2-0 lead in the first and got another one in the second. Williamston came up with a run in the second and tied it up with two in the third.

Belvoir pushed over two more in the third but Williamston pulled within one, 5-4 with a score in the fourth and then went ahead in the fifth with three runs. They held on to the lead for the win.

Miller Hopes To Play Own Game

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer
TROON, Scotland (AP) — Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open Champion who symbolizes the new generation of American golf, began winding up for the British Open Championship today with a single aim—to be first.

"The American public is just not interested if you come fifth or even second," he said. "If you don't win you might as well not leave home."

Miller, the last of the stars to arrive here, flew into nearby Prestwick Airport early Monday morning, and left himself barely 48 hours to tune up for Troon's 7,064-yard, par-72 links alongside the Firth of Clyde.

Scottish golf addicts were out in force to see the 26-year-old Californian in his first practice round less than six hours after he touched down on Scotland's West Coast.

The immense interest was in a youngster who seemed to be breaking through the old guard of golf and setting a new standard for the 70s. Everyone here recalls his last round of 63 to win the u.s. open at Oakmont, Pa.

"I'm still trying to recover from that 63," Miller said.

"The golf world would soon forget me if I never did anything else. I'm going to concentrate on playing my steady game of pars with maybe one or two birdies when the chips are down."

Miller, listed along with Arnold Palmer and Australia's Bruce Crampton as 14-1 bets for the British crown, said, "Mentally I'm very sharp, but physically perhaps not so good after the long flight from the States."

"What could change the outlook would be a strong wind blowing in from the Firth," Miller conceded.

"I hit the ball extremely high and that's no good in wind. You can't expect me to beat Lee Trevino in a 50 mile-an-hour gale."

Trevino is aiming to become the first American golfer to win the British Open three years in a row. He is the second favorite at 6-1 behind Jack Nicklaus, the 7-2 betting choice in the 153-man field.

FIGHT ON THE FIELD — Brewers' catcher Ellie Rodriguez, center, is grabbed by most of the Kansas City Royals in a rubar that erupted in last night's game at Milwaukee. The fight started when Royal's pitcher, Fran Healy ran at Brewer pitcher Gary Bell after Bell threw three balls very close to Healy's head. Both Healy and Bell were ejected from the game. (AP Wirephoto)

Can Hal King Hit Any Thing Other Than Homers?

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

For Hal King, it's all or nothing—especially in a pinch.

In a game highlighted by a league-record 25 walks, King belted a pinch-hit grand-slam homer to highlight a seven-run uprising that lifted Cincinnati to an 11-6 victory over the Montreal Expos before a national television audience at Montreal's Jarry Park Monday night.

It was the Reds' fifth consecutive victory and ninth in 10 outings.

King started the Reds on their hot streak July 1 with a two-out, three-run pinch-homer in the ninth inning against Los Angeles that lifted Cincinnati to a 4-3 victory over the Dodgers. He has three hits in 14 times at bat this season—all of them homers.

The 10 pitchers used by the two teams surrendered 25 walks, breaking by one the National League record for walks in one game. The major league record is 30, set in 1916 by Detroit and Philadelphia of the American League.

Clay Carroll of the Reds, who picked up his sixth save of the season and was one of the few pitchers to perform well, delivered the 25th walk in the ninth inning to Ron Fairly.

In the only other National League games Monday night, the Atlanta Braves topped the Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 in 10 innings and the New York Mets edged the Houston Astros 2-1 in 12 innings.

Norm Miller's first base hit of the season, a run-scoring pinch-double, ignited a three-run 10th-inning rally that boosted Atlanta past the Phils.

Miller, an outfielder acquired this spring from the Houston Astros, has been sidelined with a herniated disc. He was hitless in five trips to the plate before his double off Barry Lersch, 24.

Paul Casanova sent the game into extra innings for Atlanta with a two-run homer, his first of the season, in the ninth.

Felix Millan's two-out single drove home Willie Mays in the 12th inning with the winning run for the Mets. Lee May homered in the seventh for Houston, but pinch-hitter Jim Beauchamp sent the game into extra innings with a two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth.

Houston outfielder Cesar Ceno suffered torn ligaments in his ankle and will be out a minimum of three weeks.

Some Holes Are Horror

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer
TROON, Scotland (AP) — The last time the British Open Golf Championship was played at Troon, the men running the scoreboard ran out of cards marked seven, eight and nine.

Some players blamed the "postage stamp" for the sky-rocketing scores in 1962. But most shook their clubs at the "railway."

Arnold Palmer, at the crest of his career, humbled Troon with a 72-hole total of 276 for a six-stroke victory. That 12-under-par score is the record for the British championship.

But as Palmer flourished, others withered.

Many blamed their misfortunes on the eighth, a mere 126-yard hole believed to be the shortest in championship golf.

It's known as the "postage stamp" because of its tiny target—a green menaced on all sides by dunes and ferocious bunkers.

One golfer took a 14 on it.

The "railway" is the nickname for an even more sadistic exercise in frustration. It's the 481-yard 11th hole, a par five with both tee and green close by the track carrying trains between Glasgow and Scotland's West Coast.

Palmer was one of the few to realize that it had to be played safely. He kept his driver in his bag and worked a trusty No. 1 iron to produce 4-3-4-5 on his four rounds.

Now Palmer, a little grayer, is back for the 102nd British Open, which opens on Wednesday. After his first practice round, he was asked how he fared on the 11th hole. "A birdie four," he said with a grin.

It was as if he'd never been away.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints of the National Football League have swapped an undisclosed draft choice for defensive safety John Fuller of the San Francisco 49ers.

The 6-foot 185-pound, who played at Lamar Tech, was a fourth round draft choice for the 49ers in 1968.

Walker To Be U. Of K. AD

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Clyde Walker, an assistant athletic director at North Carolina, will be named athletic director of the University of Kansas Tuesday, the Kansas City Times reported in its Tuesday editions.

The paper said the official announcement will be made in Lawrence, Kan., by Chancellor Archie Dykes at a news conference at 10 a.m.

University officials did not verify the selection and Walker did not comment Monday afternoon, but the paper said he boarded an airplane at the Raleigh-Durham airport to fly to Kansas City. His wife said he was out of town Monday night.

Walker, 43, coached high school football in Raleigh, N.C. He joined the University of North Carolina in 1967 as a recruiter and moved up to assistant athletic director for business last year.

Walker and three others were on the final list of persons considered. Sources said the others were Ray Nagel, athletic director at Washington State; Tom Butters, assistant athletic director at Duke; and Chuck Rohe, executive assistant football coach at Virginia Tech.

Season For Road Work

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is the time of year when motorists are most likely to run afoul of "booby traps" in the form of bulldozers, barricades, ditches, detours and other hazards created by road construction work, an auto safety expert warns.

"We all know that highway construction reaches its peak in the warm-weather months," says George E. Wilson, executive vice president of C.I.T. Service Leasing Corporation, nationwide motor fleet leasing firm. "If we forget, this can pose very special problems for motorists whose experience is limited to routine driving."

Wilson cites a tollway resurfacing project that in a two-week period last year caused three auto accidents in which four people were killed and 11 were seriously injured.

"Despite warning signs and barricades, drivers became confused and tried to enter wrong traffic lanes," he explains. "They might have been spared if they had slowed down at the first warning signs."

His advice: Keep alert at all times for road construction warning signs. And slow down when you see one.

"The driver who rounds a curve at high speed and suddenly finds a barricade, a bulldozer or a cement truck in his lane will slow down—but he'll have to do it the hard way," says Wilson.

Believe Found Wealthy Wreck

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A team of treasure hunters says it has found a wreck believed to be the Nuestra Senora de Atocha, a 350-year-old galleon worth an estimated $400 million.

The divers displayed on Monday three silver bars, 711 silver pieces of eight and other artifacts they said they recovered from the wreck site in the Marquesas Keys 40 miles west of here.

The treasure hunters estimated the worth of the items at $750,000.

They said one of the 60-pound silver bars matched the description of a bar on the manifest of the Atocha, which wrecked in a hurricane in the first quarter of the 17th century.

The divers said the bar carried engravings that matched records in Seville, Spain, which list bar No. 4594 as weighing 63 pounds with a fineness of 2,380 parts of silver.

The Atocha carried some 40 tons of treasure, and a sister ship that went down in the same storm, La Margarita, carried 27 tons.

The state of Florida gets 25 per cent of the value of any treasure recovered, and the searchers keep 75 per cent.

Dennis English, a state marine archaeologist overseeing the salvage operation, said, "If their research is correct, it certainly is the Atocha."

He said the discovery could be "one of the most spectacular" ever made from both the historical and monetary standpoint.

DR. JASPER L. LEWIS

Dentist To Locate Here

Dr. Jasper L. Lewis Jr. begins the practice of children's dentistry here Monday.

Dr. Lewis, whose office is located in Suite 2 of the Tipton Annex at 230 Greenville Boulevard, is now taking appointments. He is the first specialist in pediatric dentistry to locate in Greenville.

He is a native of this area, having lived in Greene County for some time. A graduate of LaGrange High School, he received his B.S. degree from Wake Forest University in 1965 and his Doctor of Dentistry degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1969.

He spent two years as a dental health officer at Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska and then returned to UNC to specialize in pedodontics, earning his M.S. in this field this year.

He and his wife, the former Anne Haynes of Martinsville, Va., have two sons, Lee, five, and Richard two.

Oil Industry Will Undergo Govt. Audit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cost of Living Council says it will conduct a thorough audit of the oil industry as part of the price freeze monitoring program, it was reported today.

The council's Special Freeze Group will initiate "a monitoring program ... to spot check and determine if there is compliance as far as the price freeze is concerned and also to check supplies," an unnamed official of the group is quoted as saying in Tuesday's editions of the Dallas Morning News.

The audit will cover operations from the oil well to the gas pump, the Morning News said.

The paper also said the council reportedly is considering a rollback in oil product prices to mid-May levels. And it said the council is considering denying oil companies their customary markups following import oil cost increases.

The council source said results of the audit would show whether there is a real fuel shortage, whether there are price violations and where fuel supplies are going.

He said this would indicate what sort of priority is being given to farmers, independent service station operators and the government.

There were these other developments in the oil situation: —The state of Florida filed suit in Tallahassee against 15 major U.S. oil companies alleging they created a nationwide fuel crisis to force independents out of business and to hike prices.

Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin filed the suit Monday in federal court, charging the companies violated the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts by engaging in an illegal monopoly and unreasonable restraint of commerce and trade.

The 68-page suit asks that the oil companies be forced out of the crude oil exploration and production business.

Industry spokesmen say they want to read the suit before commenting.

—In Los Angeles, a federal grand jury probe has been launched into gasoline prices and marketing practices in California and four other western states, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The paper said subpoenas were issued for documents including diaries, appointment books and confidential files kept by corporate executives. The U.S. attorney's office was reported to be directing the investigation, but officials declined to confirm or deny that an investigation is under way, the newspaper said.

The probe begun Monday includes the companies' activities in California, Oregon, Arizona, Washington and Nevada, the Times said.

Cigars For Courtroom

ASHEVILLE (AP)—A woman being tried in state District Court told Solicitor T.E. Lipsey III she was having labor pains. But she said she believed that if the trial moved along fast enough she would be able to finish the case.

Lipsey was taking no chances. He moved for a continuance. Judge W.M. Styles granted it, even though a witness protested, saying she could deliver a baby if it came to that.

That was last Friday. The woman was rushed to a hospital, where she had a baby girl that day.

Monday morning, cigars tied with pink ribbons were handed out in the courtroom.

Back Pay Gives Woman A Shock

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP)—The mail brought Doris Bowers a letter that left her "just sort of numb, and thrilled."

Mrs. Bowers' surprise was a check for $33,476.70 - that's about $24,500 after taxes - as the biggest of eight back payments made by the J. P. Stevens Co. to eight former employees.

The payments, totaling more than $100,000, were ordered by the National Labor Relations Board as back payment for employes dismissed during a labor dispute with the Textile Workers Union of American in 1968. Mrs. Bowers said she rejected an offer to regain her old job.

"I had something I was more interested in. I am helping my husband with a seaford market," she said.

Mrs. Bowers said she resisted the temptation to rush out on a shopping spree, but she did buy some new clothing for herself and her family. And, she said, she paid off some "straggling bills."

The TWUA said other checks went to Shirley Hobbs, Raonoke Rapids, $14,070; Louis E. Futrell, Wallace, $12,115; Harry Nelson Hunter, Wallace, $2,502; Charles Leroy Epley, Wallace, $8,906; Gladys Whitener Clark, Hickory, $113,734; James Jones, Hickory, $1,184; and James R. Bibey, Aberdeen, $20,484.

Dies In Collision

LENOIR, N.C. (AP)—A 20-year-old Caldwell County woman, Barbara Ann Coffee of Rt. 5, Lenoir, died of head injuries today after her car collided with a tanker truck in Lenoir. She died after surgery at Forsyth Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Her sister, Joanne Coffee, 18, is a patient in that hospital with abdominal injuries and fractures of the right leg and left arm. Their 17-year-old brother, Richard Coffee, is in Caldwell Memorial Hospital in Lenoir.

The driver of the tanker, 41-year-old Neal Harold Perkey of Maiden, was not hospitalized.

Families Happy Over Release

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Terrific...so happy...so relieved said parents of three North Carolinians who were among the 112 Peace Corps volunteers released Monday after two days of detention in Uganda and allowed to begin their work in Zaire. But one said she would like her son to come home now.

The "terrific" was the reaction of Harold "Lou" Bello, former basketball referee, now a sportscaster, and the father of Kenneth G. "Gerry" Bello. He said his son planned to enroll in law school after completing his service with the Peace Corps.

Mrs. Bello said her family "considered Africa a dark continent full of uncertainties. I think the threat becomes more real now. I hope the political situation will be more stable in Zaire." Radio Uganda said that President Idi Amin had ordered the Peace Corps contingent of 49 women and 63 men seized because he suspected the Americans might be Israelis or white mercenaries bent on adding to the tribal troubles that have neighboring Rwanda and Burundi in turmoil.

Patricia A. Dean, also from Raleigh, was in the contingent and her mother said, "I'm so relieved." She added that she and her husband "support that youngster 100 per cent. She was so enthused and so much wanted to go."

But Mrs. Dean said some of her own enthusiasm had worn off. "I think she's in somewhat of a hot spot. She'll be living a life different than she's ever known."

In Albemarle, Mrs. H.W. Baltes said, "I'm just so happy to know that now he's going to go on his way." She was referring to her son, Harry W. Baltes, 22, who joined the Peace Corps last month after graduating from Appalachian State University. He "thought it would be a challenge," his mother said. "He wanted to help some unfortunates—or those that couldn't help themselves. Anyway, he wanted to do something. I wonder how he feels about it now. As far as I'm concerned, I'd like him to come on home."

Blowholes Still Are Leaking Gas

WILLIAMSBURG, Mich. (AP) — On April 18, natural gas started seeping to the surface in this northwestern Michigan village and authorities ordered all 85 families living in the area evacuated.

Now, nearly three months after the gas blowholes appeared, fumes still are escaping from some and only six of Williamsburg's homes are ready for permanent reoccupancy.

And Grand Traverse County Sheriff Richard Weiler says the town may never return to normal.

Weiler said on Monday that nine dwellings remain vacant because concentrations of gas make it too dangerous to work near them. Another five homes are free of gas but have major water or sewer problems, he said.

Fifty-five dwellings are cleared for occupancy on condition that further work be done, such as degassing their water supplies.

Clean-up work has left its traces almost everywhere.

Weiler said every building in town now has one to four venting pipes outside to carry gas eight to 10 feet into the air.

Water still must be trucked in daily, and state Department of natural Resources crews patrol constantly to check for new buildups of gas.

Williamsburg's main road, Michigan 72, still is closed because of gas blowholes that opened on the roadway.

The sheriff said he believes that all residents will be able to return to their homes by Sept. 1, "if it's possible at all."

But he warned that Williamsburg "could be right back where we were" when cold weather comes unless something can be done to make certain frost does not seal off existing gas leaks, forcing the gas to find a vent elsewhere. Experts are working on that problem, he said.

Strain Is Too Much

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says that his upcoming crusade in Minnesota may be one of the last of its kind.

The years of taking the huge outdoor evangelistic services around the world have begun to take their toll and are becoming a physical strain, he told a news conference on Monday.

The July 13-22 crusade at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds in St. Paul "may be one of the latter stadium crusades," he said.

"I'm physically unable to do it," added Graham, who will be 55 in November.

He said he can't continue preaching "from second base" much longer and said the crusades soon will begin depending more on television to carry his message.

His Best Achievement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of the top achievements of the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, who announced Monday his retirement as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was organizing a coalition that won pay increases and union recognition for black workers at a hospital in Charleston, S.C.

The victory of the coalition of civil rights and labor organizations came after a 100-day strike and Abernathy's arrest on a charge of inciting a riot. It was an important victory for the SCLC, which was trying to rekindle the flame which had flickered with the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Abernathy's predecessor.

Abernathy's record in North Carolina during his five years of leadership was marked less by major victories than by stand-offs or small gains in a number of encounters.

Depending upon what he hoped to achieve, Abernathy threatened to "turn North Carolina upside down" or praised it as a "leader among the states of the South."
