

City Adopts Budget; Tax Rate Set At $1.08

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The ordinance for the 1973-74 Greenville budget was approved Wednesday night with a budget totaling $5,453,140 and a tax rate of $1.08 per $100 property valuation.

With the exception of former City Manager Harry Hagerty and Building Inspector J. Woodrow Wilson, there were no members of the public present at this first public hearing on the city's budget.

"I think this shows the public must have confidence in its city government," Mayor S. Eugene West said.

The approved $5,453,140 total is slightly higher than the $5,286,284 recommended in the preliminary budget. The increase, however, reflects, among other factors, legal accounting for an amount of $379,204 in inter-fund transfers which were as a matter of planning shown as a deducted item in the preliminary budget.

Some other changes are reflected in the totals of various categories of the budget. For example, the general fund in the preliminary budget estimate was $3,443,151. The actual approved amount is $3,130,525, a decrease of $312,626.

This sizeable decrease basically results from the lowering of the proposed tax rate from the recommended $1.21 to the adopted $1.08 rate. Of the $1.08, $1.02 is the general fund, and six cents for the debt service fund.

The adopted debt service fund total is $436,392, as opposed to $430,455 estimated in the preliminary budget.

Shared revenue funds in the adopted ordinance is $1,495,723. This is an increase in this category of $147,448 over the amount estimated in the preliminary budget, and results from a number of capital outlay items carried over from the previous fiscal year.

In prefacing a request that the council consider action to establish the tax rate at $1.08, Mayor West pointed out that in the recent county-wide property re-evaluation, the value of taxable property was increased by approximately 30 per cent.

The main factor behind making it possible to cut the tax rate from the recommended $1.21 to $1.08, Carstarphen pointed out, is the shift in budgeting of approximately $160,000 from revenue sharing funds to be applied to several capital outlay items that normally would have been funded by general revenue funds.

"It is my feeling that if we can deduct about 30 per cent from the previous rate ($1.54 per $100) it will put taxpayers paying about the same amount of taxes they paid last year," the mayor said.

"We've got an increase due to overall increase of property value, and we've got revenue sharing to fall back on in some places. This should allow us easily to meet our obligations with the $1.08 figure."

Unsure Controls To Be Effective

By BILL NEIKIRK

WASHINGTON (AP) — As planning for Phase 4 wage-price controls nears an end, not all economic officials in the Nixon administration are sure the controls will work.

One official who has participated in Phase 4 planning predicted the tough new system soon to be announced will not enjoy great popularity with the American people.

"People are going to be more unhappy," said the official, who asked not to be identified. "There will be disillusionment with it."

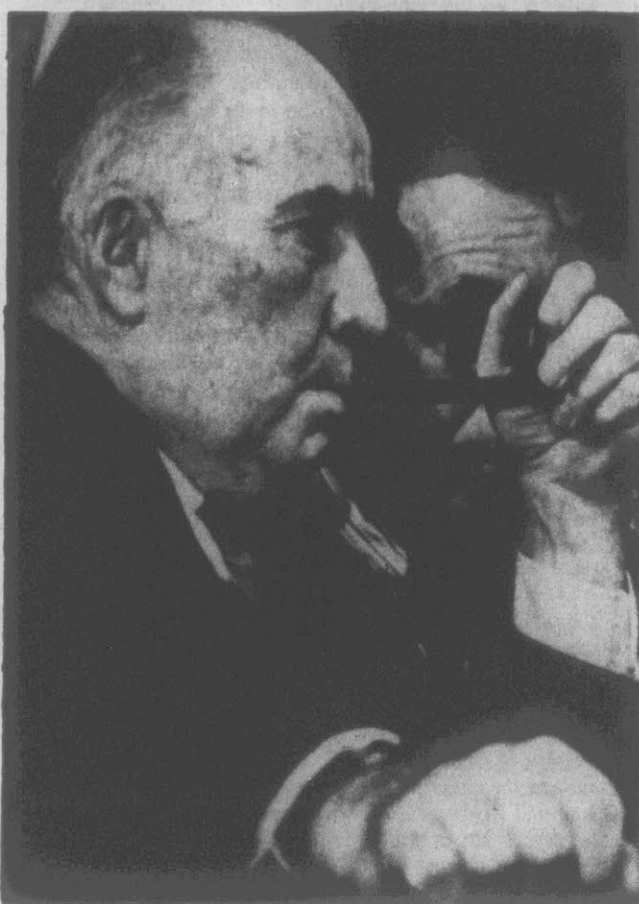

He predicted that this would help enable the administration to drop wage-price controls relatively soon and return to a free market.

"Do you want to know what the real impact of Phase 4 will be?" he said. "Just compare the first freeze with the second, then compare Phase 2 with Phase 4. It will be about the same relationship."

By that, he meant that the 90-day wage-price freeze President Nixon imposed in August 1971 and the Phase 2 system of controls that followed enjoyed general public support. But the recently imposed 60-day freeze aroused much less enthusiasm and led to reports of food shortages, killing of baby chicks and industry calls for relief.

Dollar Drops Again In Value

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar slumped again today on Europe's foreign exchanges after a two-day recovery from record lows.

Dealers said the cause of the dollar's poor showing in early trading was lack of determined support from the U.S. Federal Reserve Board and other central banks.

The dealers said the Federal Reserve's support buying earlier in the week had been more symbolic than effective. And the Bank of France and the West German Bundesbank had also bought only small amounts of dollars to bolster the rate.

Announcements by the state bankers after a meeting in Switzerland last weekend and by the Federal Reserve on Tuesday had hinted at strong government buying to support the dollar. This reversed the downward trend, but when the hints turned out to be psychological ploys, the dollar once more went begging for buyers and the rate started down again.

At the opening in Frankfurt, the dollar dropped to 2.3775 marks, well below Wednesday's closing 2.4035.

The opening rate in Zurich was 2.85 Swiss francs, down from 2.8750.

In Paris the decline was sharper—from 4.16125 francs to 4.105 and then 4.085.

In London, the British pound edged up to $2.5475; it had closed Wednesday at $2.5473.

The price of gold, which generally rises when the dollar weakens, rose $1 an ounce in Zurich and $2 in London to $119.75 and $120.75.

The dollar did better in the Far East, where most of the trading was over for the day before the markets opened in Europe. Dollars for spot delivery rose slightly in Tokyo, from 264.35-264.80 yen to 264.92-264.95.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John N. Mitchell said today President Nixon has been "lowering the boom" on Watergate participants since April, doing exactly what he should have done.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, said he didn't see much evidence the boom had been lowered on anyone except fired White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Mitchell had testified earlier that he sought to shield Nixon from word of Watergate involvement and other wrongdoing for fear the President would take strong action and damage his own re-election campaign.

Inouye asked what strong action Nixon took after he did find out.

"I think he has done so by the appointment of a special prosecutor, removing the people from the White House that were involved in the activities..." Mitchell said.

Inouye said that except in the case of Dean, fired on April 30, Nixon did not appear to have reacted strongly.

White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman resigned from Nixon's staff the same day, but Inouye noted that the President had said he regretted that and considered them fine public servants.

"Is this lowering the boom?" Inouye asked.

"No," said Mitchell, "but it shows a streak in the President of warmth and kindness that most people haven't attributed to him before."

Mitchell implied that the resignations of Haldeman and Ehrlichman were less voluntary than they had been made to appear in the White House announcement.

"It's my opinion, senator, that particularly during the month of April and the succeeding, intervening period of time, he has done exactly what he should have done in lowering the boom by removing the people from the White House and by appointing the special prosecutor," Mitchell told the Senate's televised Watergate hearing.

Inouye said it was intense pressure from Congress that led to the appointment of special prosecutor Archibald Cox. But Mitchell said that was Nixon's action "... What were the causes of it I think we can all have different opinions upon," Mitchell said.

The White House had resisted appointment of the special prosecutor, finally authorizing the step on April 30.

It was Mitchell's third day of testimony and for the third day, his wife, Martha, was not on hand.

As for presidential action to get rid of aides involved in Watergate, Mitchell cited the cases of Jeb Stuart Magruder and Egil Krogh.

Krogh, a former White House aide, resigned May 9 as under-secretary of transportation.

Magruder quit April 26 as policy director at the Commerce Department.

At the end of a long and acid exchange Wednesday with Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., Mitchell had acknowledged that he probably ignored his legal duty as a lawyer and former attorney general in the cover-up of wrongdoing he called "White House horrors."

Mitchell, once director of the Nixon re-election campaign, concluded that day of testimony with one, half-muttered last remark: "It's a great trial they're conducting up here, isn't it?"

The committee met for an hour in private this morning to discuss the President's refusal to appear in person or to produce his papers, but did not complete its discussion.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said the panel also went over its list of remaining witnesses and planned another closed session in the early afternoon.

Lawyers on the investigation team said it was possible no vote would be taken immediately as senators waited to assess the impact of new feelers seeking voluntary cooperation from the President.

An Associated Press survey of all seven members of the Senate Watergate investigating committee disclosed no votes in favor of issuing a subpoena to the President.

But it appeared a majority could be mustered for a vote telling the President to surrender the documents the committee believes it requires.

Meanwhile, sources inside the Senate investigation reported former New York policeman Anthony Ulasevic invoked the Fifth Amendment in a private interrogation session to avoid answering staff members' questions on his role as an investigator for the White House.

Ulasevic has testified in previous open session, answering all questions. He is due to be called again, and sources said he will claim his Fifth Amendment rights on all subjects on which he has not yet testified.

It could not immediately be learned whether the committee would seek to grant Ulasevic partial immunity from prosecution to compel him to answer all questions.

Mitchell was scheduled to be followed to the Senate witness table late Thursday by White House counsel Richard A. Moore, 59, the man to whom ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III testified he confided "my deep concern about this matter, especially the cover-up."

Pressure on the President to modify his stand against releasing presidential papers came from both the Watergate committee and special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, and vice chairman Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., used their questioning of Mitchell to send signals to the President on the issue.

"I don't think that executive privilege covers any political activities whatsoever," Ervin said. "They are not official and have no relation to his office."

In other developments, The Washington-Star News reported that in 1970 Kalmbach organized a dummy organization to channel $1.5 million secretly to Republican Senate campaigns.

The paper said that Kalmbach organized the "Public Institute," ran it out of a basement room in a Washington townhouse, and sent money by means of cashiers checks to Republican Senate candidates—including Weicker, now a member of the Watergate committee.

It said that about $200,000 is believed to have gone to each of the GOP Senate campaigns in Florida, Tennessee, Nevada, North Dakota and Maryland.

The source of the money remains unexplained, the newspaper said.

Savings To Draw Higher Rate

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Most area consumers will earn more interest on their savings accounts and certificates of deposit as a result of recent government action authorizing banks and savings and loan associations to up their payable interest rates.

A survey of local banks revealed that all will increase their regular or passbook interest rates and a fairly uniform schedule of rates on certificates of deposit will be adopted although there will remain some variance on minimum deposits.

Warren Whitehurst, North Carolina National Bank vice president here, said that the bank has increased the rate it pays on regular savings accounts from four and a half per cent to five per cent.

Whitehurst reported that the five per cent NCNB savings certificate is now paying five and a half per cent daily interest, guaranteed for two years. The certificate matures every three months but is automatically renewed.

NCNB's one-year certificate has been increased to six per cent interest that is payable or accrued every three months, the official noted. The old rate was five and a half per cent.

The third NCNB savings certificate now pay six and a half per cent and can mature anywhere between two and a half years and four years in three month increments, according to Whitehurst.

On all savings instruments, Whitehurst said, if the deposit is $1,000 or more the interest can be paid by check, compounded or accrued, or deposited to regular savings or checking accounts. If the deposit is under $1,000, the interest is accrued.

Savings draw daily interest, he said, and the new rates are retroactive to July 1.

The manager of Bank of North Carolina's Greenville office, Charles Burnette, announced that the bank is raising the interest rate on passbook savings to five per cent, effective the first of this month.

In addition, the regular five per cent blue chip plan is now paying five and a half per cent, compounded quarterly, and the five and three quarter blue ribbon plan (up to 24 months) is up to six per cent.

The bank is adding a new savings plan called the BNC Money Builder, the manager reported, and it will pay six and a half per cent, guaranteed for the full period of the contract anywhere from two and a half years to six and a half years. A minimum of $100 deposit is required.

BNC certificates of 90 days or more but less than one year now draw five and a half per cent interest under the revised rates while one year up to two and a half year cd's earn six per cent. Certificates of 30 months or more earn six and a half per cent.

According to Joe Gurganus of Planters National Bank here the bank will pay, effective Aug. 1, five per cent on regular savings accounts, compounded daily and paid monthly with an annual effective yield of 5.13 per cent. PNB's Golden Savings plan will pay five and a half per cent, compounded daily and paid quarterly. The plan calls for a minimum of $100 to open and the funds must remain on deposit 90 days to draw the five and a half per cent.

The bank's certificates of deposit program follows the same interest guideline as the other banks. The 90-day to one-year certificate, requiring a minimum deposit of $500, will pay five and a half per cent while the one-year to two and a half years certificate, also requiring a $500 minimum deposit, earns six per cent beginning in August. A certificate of two and a half years or longer, requiring a minimum deposit of $1,000, will earn six and a half per cent, Gurganus reported.

The passbook savings rate at Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. is also up to five per cent from four and a half, according to T. Spencer Hill. Hill said that the interest is compounded daily and paid monthly.

The bank's blue chip savings program now earns five and a half per cent interest and is compounded daily and paid quarterly.

Wachovia's 90-day guaranteed investment certificate, Hill reported, is now paying five and a half per cent, compounded daily and paid either monthly or quarterly. The one-year certificate, guaranteed for five years, earns six per cent interest and is compounded daily with a monthly or quarterly payment schedule.

Hill announced Wednesday that Wachovia is now offering a two and a half to four year certificate that will earn six and a half per cent interest.

Bill Glidewell at The Bank of Winterville's Greenville branch said that the new interest rates are also being adopted there with the passbook savings plan now up to five per cent.

Certificates of deposit will also reflect an increased rate, uniform with other banks, he said.

The manager of First Union National Bank of Farmville, Cleve Whatley, also reported an increase of one-half per cent to five per cent on passbook savings as well as an increase in certificates of deposit interest rates, consistent with the increases allowed by law.

Branch Banking and Trust Co. of Wilson announced increases in interest rates on savings plans and the introduction of two new guaranteed savings certificates.

The new certificates will pay six and a half per cent annual interest on funds left for two and a half years and six per cent on funds left for one year, the bank reported. Both certificates require a minimum deposit of $500.

BB&T also increased to five per cent the annual interest rate of regular passbook savings and to five per cent the annual interest rate of regular passbook savings and to five and a half per cent the rate paid on prime passbook savings.

The bank's new rates are retroactive to July and apply on deposits of less than $100,000.

Action by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board will also mean an increase in savings rates at savings and loan associations. Herb Lee, executive vice president of Home Savings and Loan Association, said that passbook savings accounts there are now earning five and a quarter per cent interest, compounded quarterly.

Home Savings is also paying six and a half per cent now on savings certificates of a minimum of $1,000 for a period of one year or less than two years.

The new bank rates were made possible by the increase in time deposit rate ceilings announced by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation last week.

Where Trained Has No Bearing

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser says experience in other states has shown that training more doctors "no matter where that training takes place, will not mean we will have more doctors in rural areas."

"We will not solve this problem as long as doctors continue to concentrate in large cities," Holshouser said in a talk prepared for delivery Wednesday to the North Carolina Rural Development Conference.

Holshouser noted that the North Carolina Rural Development Committee which includes federal and state employees, "has been of value in bringing about greater coordination and cooperation among agencies on all levels of government."

He pointed out that the committee has established state task forces for work and study of the environment, rural health, and rural housing. He said these problems are "among the most urgent and complex matters facing our state today."

He said these fields as well as the shortage of medical care, are at the top of his administration's priority list.

"If we are to halt the flow of our rural and small town families to the cities, one of the first things we must do is help them get adequate medical care in their own communities," Holshouser added.

"Rural health clinics may not solve the problem alone," the governor added. "But their potential already has been demonstrated dramatically by pilot programs undertaken in a few North Carolina communities under federal grants."

He also urged the expansion of industry-hunting programs so as to help small towns and rural areas find industries that "will pay them good wages while showing consideration and appreciation for the environment."

Will Erwin, secretary of agriculture for rural development, told the conference the "only way to curb this flow (from farm to city) is to get job opportunities in rural America."

Erwin said the polls show that "most people who move out of rural America don't want

Limited Sales Begin July 31

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A proposal under which sales opportunity would be allocated to individual markets of each flue-cured tobacco belt in accordance with growers' choices will be put into effect this year, this year.

This was decided Wednesday by the industrywide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee during a lengthy meeting.

The committee strongly endorsed the idea of grower designation of markets. But it said the designation program for 1973 was considered so hastily drawn that many farmers did not understand it.

The committee urged, however, that a "grower choice" program be developed in time to be implemented for the 1974 marketing season.

After lengthy wrangling, the committee made the initial allocations of sales opportunities to the various belts and marketing areas for the upcoming season.

The formula for the allocations was based partly on each belt's sales history over the last five years, and partly on its estimated 1973 leaf production. The first official estimate of this year's production was released Tuesday.

At the session, spokesman for the big Eastern North Carolina Belt argued at length for an increase in the poundage they will be permitted to sell, particularly in the early part of the season.

The committee made some concessions to the East, but their spokesmen still were not satisfied.

The 1973 marketing season will get underway Tuesday, July 24, in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, and possibly the North Carolina Border Belt.

Border warehousemen will meet in Lumberton today to set their opening.

A week after the first openings, on July 31, limited sales will begin on the Eastern Belt with four sets of buyers. The sets will be increased to 13 for the third, fourth and fifth weeks of the season, and eventually to the belt's full quota of 33 sets.

Sales will begin Aug. 27 on the Middle and Old Belts, with 21 of their normal complement of 41 sets of buyers.

The Eastern Belt was allowed to move about 14 million pounds of its allocation for the 16th week in early November up to the first part of the season—the second through the fifth weeks.

Eastern spokesmen complained, however, that their belt is the only one in which sales will be spread over as long as 15 weeks. Other belts will complete sales in 12 weeks or less.

The Easterners also complained their belt is the only one to receive sales opportunity that is less than its expected production.

The belt is expected to produce 396 million pounds this year, but its sales allocation is 391 million. The main reason for this is that, historically, Eastern farmers have hauled million of pounds to other belts for sale.

The Georgia-Florida Belt received a sales allocation of 151 million pounds, 22 million more than estimated production. South Carolina was allocated 143 million, or six million more than anticipated production. And the North Carolina Border Belt received an allocation of 117 million, 20 million above the crop estimate.

Appears Disturbed

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have three preschool children. My husband has a good position with a well-known corporation.

My problem is the lady next door. She is around 40, divorced, and has teen-age children. We live in townhouses and our front doors are side by side.

About a year ago she told me that she was the reincarnation of Cleopatra and has had visions as proof. Later she told me another neighbor, who was trying to possess her body, was making her stink! Then "Cleopatra" started leaving her garbage by the front door, which attracted flies, so my husband asked her to please remove it. She insulted my husband and accused HIM of making her stink, too. [My husband removed the garbage himself.]

When a friend called on me a few days ago, "Cleopatra" met her on my doorstep, announcing that SHE was now the Queen of Austria! She also told her that I was making her stink. Later that day she rang my bell to tell me that she knew my husband and I had entered her house while she was away. She used insulting, abusive language.

She must be sick. What can we do? Is there some society we can call? One almost hates to get involved.

INSULTED BUT FORGIVING

DEAR INSULTED: Contact your County Welfare Information Service and report your neighbor's peculiar behavior to them. They will investigate the matter without using your name. She appears to be disturbed and in need of help.

DEAR ABBY: I have just won $500 in a contest, and my husband is furious because I told him I am going to give the money to our church. Our church is in dire need of funds for an important project. I prayed hard to somehow get the money for this project, so when I saw this contest advertised I entered it. I made a promise to God that if I won the contest, I would give the money to the church.

My husband doesn't believe in God, and says a promise like that means exactly nothing. He says I am crazy for feeling the way I do and he thinks we should spend the money on things we need for ourselves. I must admit we could use it right now, but I feel it was the power of prayer that brought us that money and it belongs to the church.

My husband is barely speaking to me. Abby, we honor commitments to people. Why not to God? What shall I do?

CONTEST WINNER IN N. Y.

DEAR WINNER: You won the money and it's yours, so give it to the church if you wish.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy with a question to ask you. What do you think of long hair on a boy?

My father is so old fashioned it's pitiful. He thinks if a boy has long hair, he is on drugs or something. He makes me wear my hair real short, and I feel like a freak. Abby, I wouldn't think of taking drugs, but I want to be one of the crowd. How can I get my father to let me wear my hair a little longer?

GEORGIA PEACH

DEAR PEACH: I think it's what is IN a head that is important—not what is ON it. I see nothing wrong with long hair if it's kept clean and neat. However, a sign of maturity is being able to play by the rules. Don't nag or whine. When your father notices your maturity, he may change his mind.

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — When you're looking for ways to stretch expensive protein in the form of beef, veal, pork and lamb, put supplementary protein in salads, salad dressings, vegetable mixtures and even desserts.

Here are some recipes that do just that with eggs, cheese and other dairy products and canned tuna. They're geared to summer meals and some can be made a day ahead.

Cheesy salad dressing is good on cooked mixed vegetables or as a dip for raw ones, such as carrots, celery sticks, cauliflower-erets and broccoli. Combine ¼ cup of crumbled blue cheese with ¾ cup of cream style cottage cheese, ¼ cup of plain yogurt, ¼ teaspoon of liquid red pepper sauce and 2 tablespoons of milk. Blend well and chill before serving. Makes 1 cup.

Cottage cheese is the major protein source in spicy cole slaw. In a large bowl, combine ½ cup of mayonnaise with 1 teaspoon each of prepared yellow mustard and seasoned salt or chili powder. Blend well. Add 1 cup (8 ounces) of cottage cheese and 4 cups of finely shredded cabbage. Toss to coat well with dressing. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

Yogurt Supplies Protein
Yogurt supplies the protein in this low calorie fruit and vegetable salad. Combine ½ cup of plain yogurt with 1 tablespoon each of lemon juice and prepared yellow mustard and ½ teaspoon each of sugar, onion salt and paprika. Stir in 2 unpeeled apples, cored and chopped, and 3 cups of unpeeled thinly sliced raw zucchini. Chill. Serve on lettuce leaves or a bed of shredded lettuce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

This molded main dish salad contains only 135 calories per serving. Sprinkle one envelope of unflavored gelatin over ¾ cup of cold water in a small saucepan. Stir constantly over low heat 3 to 4 minutes, or until gelatin dissolves. Stir in 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of spicy prepared mustard and ¼ teaspoon of liquid red pepper sauce. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix 1½ cups of chopped fresh uncooked spinach with 4 teaspoons of lemon juice. Place ¾ cup of cottage cheese and 3 tablespoons of water in an electric blender container, cover and process at high speed until smooth, or beat until smooth with an electric mixer. Add spinach mixture, cottage cheese and 4 hard-cooked, diced eggs to gelatin and mix well. Chill until firm in 3 cup mold. Unmold to serve and garnish with small fresh spinach leaves. Makes 4 servings.

Salad Made Ahead
Tuna, tomato and zucchini salad should be made several hours to a day ahead. Drain liquid from a 1-pound 12-ounce can of tomatoes—reserving tomatoes—into a small saucepan. Sprinkle 2 envelopes of unflavored gelatin on the tomato juice and stir constantly over low heat about 5 minutes, or until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat, stir in ¼ cup of minced raw onion or 2 tablespoons of instant minced or chopped onion that has been reconstituted in water and drained, 2 tablespoons of chopped fresh parsley, ½ teaspoon of dried leaf basil and 2 teaspoons of salt. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Cut the drained tomatoes into small pieces and fold them into the gelatin mixture along with 1 cup of shredded raw zucchini and 1 (6½ or 7-ounce) can of tuna, drained. Chill until firm in a 6-cup mold. Makes 6 servings.

A pint of fresh strawberries stretches to six (half cup) servings in this frozen dessert. Reserve 3 berries from a 1-pint basket. Place remainder in an electric blender container with 1 pint of vanilla yogurt, 1 egg white, ½ cup of light corn syrup, ¼ cup of sugar and 1 tablespoon of lemon juice. Blend until smooth. Freeze until firm in a shallow 1-quart bowl. Scoop into chilled dessert dishes and garnish each with a strawberry half.

Everything Right On Schedule

North Carolina has a $50,000 out-of-state study commission to tell it whether it needs to expand the ECU medical school to four years.

This came after ten years of debate and a tremendous amount of work by a lot of people which finally culminated in the founding of the one-year school at ECU.

After the committee has been operating for a respectable length of time, the first leak has appeared in a Piedmont newspaper.

What did it say? You guessed it. The speculation is that the team will propose something less than eventual expansion of the one-year medical training program at ECU into a full-fledged four-year school.

We have that uncomfortable feeling that everything is running right on schedule.

Resignation May Be End Of An Era

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy announced this week that he was resigning as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Abernathy had headed the SCLC since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in April of 1968. He said the resignation was primarily due to lack of financial support.

Abernathy's resignation could be looked on as the end of an era. It is important to remember, however, that the movement headed by Dr. Martin Luther King was very much a personal movement. It was difficult for anyone to pick up the reins following the assassination. Abernathy did as well as he could, but there was really no way to replace the leader of the non-violent civil rights movement of the 1960s.

Raw Material Allocation Seen

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON—Federal allocation of raw materials and such vital metals as steel and aluminum to stimulate rapid growth of the nation's manufacturing capacity is the heart of a new anti-inflation program now under secret study by Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas.

While declining comment, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee may soon make a speech on his economic bombshell. It would give the government power to direct these materials into new plant and equipment and away from production of such consumer items as autos, attacking future inflation by increasing the future supply of goods.

To divert materials into new plant and equipment, the plan contemplates a tax write-off over only five years—a reversion to the highly successful plant-and-equipment explosion in the Korean war. One result of that experience was an increase of industrial capacity so large that inflation was held to about 1 per cent a year between 1951 and 1960.

Mills' intimates say he feels the plan not only would take care of long-range, chronic inflation—that is, price rises following the present inflationary cycle—but that the economic stimulus of a plant and equipment boom would ease the impact of the recession he now sees ahead.

Mills has not discussed his proposal with the President. In fact, the powerful Mr. Taxation in Congress has not been asked to discuss anything with the President for many months. But if he goes public with the plan, the White House is certain to call on him for discussions.

A FOOTNOTE: Congressional liberals are sure to oppose any fast tax write-off favoring business on grounds that the investment tax credit is too much now. Mills' probable response: the only guarantee against endless inflation is much greater supply, which means much greater industrial capacity.

Laird vs. Bombing The first major policymaking victory by Melvin R. Laird in his tenuous new role as White House counselor was President Nixon's agreement to end all Indochina bombing by Aug. 15, a compromise frowned on by national security chief Henry Kissinger.

Even Mr. Nixon's strongest supporters on Capitol Hill, including House Republican leader Gerald Ford, had become convinced they could not limit the bombing ban to Cambodia and Laos. Since the ban would also include Vietnam, they urged a time cut-off as the only possible compromise.

But Kissinger was negative. One dovish Republican Senator called him to urge a time cut-off compromise but got the impression from Kissinger that Mr. Nixon would veto any bombing ban covering all Indochina in order to keep his option for future bombing of Vietnam, North or South.

The difference was made by Laird. In close contact with Ford, he convinced Mr. Nixon the Aug. 15 deadline was the best possible retrieve.

A footnote: The compromise averts one future possible collision between Laird and the President. Laird, who as Secretary of Defense fought the 1972 Christmas bombing, would have adamantly opposed future bombing of North Vietnam, even in response to a Communist offensive. The Aug. 15 cut-off kills that presidential option.

Neither Kehrli nor the White House would explain this arrangement for us. Anonymous figure who wielded substantial power in the Haldeman era, he is still listed as "staff secretary to the President"—one of many Haldeman holdovers whose continued presence exasperates Republican politicians.

Kehrli's only apparent employment before joining the Mariens in July 1969 at age 24 was a job under Haldeman in the Los Angeles office of the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency. Just 16 months later, Kehrli was mysteriously detached from the Mariens and assigned to then chief of staff Haldeman's White House.

That was November 1970. In February 1972, Kehrli, by now a captain, "resigned" from the Mariens, having completed his service after only 2½ years in the Corps, half of that in the White House.

Strength For Today

A GREAT GOD So says the Bible; and yet so many people have a little God. He is as remote as a friend to whom they have not written in many years. He enters into their lives no more than a stranger. If they know him at all it is in the experience of a briefly uttered prayer each day asking for some protection, seeking some gift, and closing with a quick amen.

But all the saints have had a great God who filled the Universe, before whom they moved with awe, and in whose overwhelming presence they found abiding peace. In the presence of such a God they forgot everything but praise. As they praised him they found their hearts and minds coming around to a position of peaceful trust. Prayer should, above everything else, be the worship of a great and awe-inspiring deity. When we can say, "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised!" there we have found the secret of effectual prayer.

Might Muddle Through

WASHINGTON—Old liberals never die; they only crusade away. So it is with James MacGregor Burns, historian, biographer, and oracle-in-chief for the born-again Democrats.

Undismayed by last year's debacle, he stands fast by the tattered flag of party reform. The Williams College professor turned up last Sunday on Meet the Press. Most of his questions predictably went to Watergate, but part of the interview dealt with his role as resident intellectual within the Democratic camp. It is a role he assumed partly by reason of his sincerity, conviction and undoubted integrity, and partly by reason of the default, abdication and unfrocking of such predecessors as Schlesinger, Galbraith and Moynihan.

Burns was the chief architect, intellectually speaking, of the new party structure built by the Democrats in advance of the 1972 campaign. In his 1971 book, "Uncommon Sense," he offered a blueprint for a political coalition composed of five groups:

"First, the poor, especially the urban poor, who would serve as the foundation as well as the chief beneficiary of radical coalition politics. Second, the blacks, already a key voting bloc in many city and some state elections. Third, that enormous pool of the young. Fourth, organized labor, the biggest, most economically powerful, most politically mobilized group of all. Fifth, sizable sections of the white collar, middle-class sectors."

Burns was equally definitive on those he would exclude. "The time had come for bluntness; there simply is no room in the Democratic party for conservatives." He didn't call for purges. "The party should simply become so clearly, forthrightly, the reform-minded, liberal-radical party of the day that those who do not share its goals see no point in joining it."

The Democrats took Burns' advice. They set up a national convention self-consciously stacked with the poor, the blacks, and the young. They adopted an egalitarian platform that cried in Jacobin accents for the redistribution of wealth; they nominated a candidate who proposed to dismantle the Navy, soak the rich, and give a thousand dollars to every man, woman and child in the country. The ticket swept Massachusetts and triumphed in D.C.

Well, Burns was asked, had he given bad advice? The professor was unperturbed. No, indeed. Drastic reform cannot be accomplished overnight. Last year's coalition suffered for want of labor's help. The party's candidate stumbled over Tom Eagleton and never recovered from the false start. His ideas, Burns insisted, are still sound.

The principal idea is to strengthen the office of president in terms of domestic affairs. Burns is impatient with our long history of gradualism, (Continued on page 5)

Indian Red Tape

By WILLIAM C. MANN Associated Press Writer NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian red tape is as tangled as the human web that administers it. On that stifling afternoon in the police station, it was up to its usual mischief.

The old car had wheezed dead beside the U.S. Embassy, and the police towed it in. Diplomats don't like eyesores cluttering their streets.

"All you have to do is go to the magistrates and get a release order," the police lieutenant said. "You will have your car in 30 minutes."

No chance. Magistrate Balbir Singh, his head tightly swathed in a yellow turban, glanced over the petition for release and said: "Get a report from the police. I can't release the car unless I know all about it."

The report—four handwritten lines on the bottom of the petition—required only 45 minutes.

Back to the magistrate, who threw the petition in the direction of his typist for the release order, which was dutifully typed on the back and initialed by Singh.

Then back to the police station.

"But you don't have the receipt for the crane charge," another lieutenant said.

The receipt, it was said, must come from the police barracks, where there was another half-hour wait while a man took the 30 rupees—$4—somewhere for the duly signed receipt.

Back to the police station.

The paperwork seemed in order, said the ranking policeman on duty, but "Have they checked the motor number and the chassis number?" he asked. A 15-minute search failed to locate the chassis number, but the temperature was 103 degrees Fahrenheit and the officer said, "I guess it's right."

Then came the final crisis: Balbir Singh, the fill-in judge, had signed the document instead of Jacob Ali, the usual magistrate for that station. It was decided that the stationhouse officer—the station's top man—must pass on the validity of the unknown initials.

A grilling by the stationhouse officer followed. Appeased, the officer surrendered the car—after the petitioner wrote himself permission to take custody of the vehicle, which was registered in his company's name.

The term "red tape" was born in British India, when documents of interest to the crown were wrapped in red ribbon, or tape. The tradition of bureaucratic obfuscation that went with the empire survives, embellished, in free India.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL

July 12, 1933

The curing of bright leaf tobacco is beginning to pick up sharply in Pitt County at this time and is expected to hit its peak in a week or two. The curing process actually got under way during June and will be completed next month when millions of pounds of the golden leaf will be stored in pack houses ready to deliver when the market swings open here the later part of August.

Children living within two miles of public school during the forthcoming session will have to walk instead of riding in buses. The county operated one hundred buses last year but due to the economic situation there has been a sharp cut in the use of school buses.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for publication must be limited to 300 words, and signed.

To the Editor:

To attempt a complete rebuttal of your headline "Firemen Receive 16 Percent Increase" would be too long and could not repair all the false impressions people have embedded in their minds.

To begin with, the "16 percent" was an updated figure from 1969. Firefighters, like all city employees received 5 percent. Starting pay was elevated $2.00. Where this leaves your misleading, erroneous and completely false statement, God only knows. I am not blaming you, you only print what you are told.

Evaluating your statement it takes a more qualified man to become a policeman. I have only one word "Bull!" A firefighter must be a high school graduate (or equivalent), physically fit, mechanically minded, and willing to put his life on the line. How many times have you seen a disaster strike and you were sent an incompetent oaf for a Rescue Man? How many houses have you seen lost because the firefighters were not trained? A firefighter is under six months probation, during which time he has more to do than play checkers. He learns friction loss, fire pump principles, ladders, first aid, chemicals of fire, rescue, forcible entry, and other fire related matters. At least give us a parity with the police. In the city's evaluation category of job placement, Greenville's Fire Department rates two steps below the police in each pay bracket. This isn't hard to understand, though—the man who interviewed and recommended our pay grade admitted he had only been in one fire department before.

I invite any citizen to come and spend 24 hours with us, 8 a.m. to 8 a.m., and see if you haven't earned your eight hour pay. By the way, we work 64 hours a week and get paid for 40.

Don't Take Broker For Granted

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You are entitled to expect that the broker with whom you deal has an adequate understanding of his business, including a fair degree of skill in record keeping. But don't take it for granted.

Poor books and records is by far the commonest reason for failure listed in the 1972 annual report of the Securities Investor Protection Corp., which at the time had 64 liquidations on its books.

"Inadequate, inaccurate or nonexistent books and records must be mentioned as one of the most significant conditions encountered in almost all of these cases," it reported. Here are the reasons for failure of the 64 firms: Poor books and records 44; dealing in highly speculative issues 29; mismanagement 28; misconduct 26; high operating costs—poor controls 21; lack of knowledge of securities business 18; and adverse market conditions 10.

Several reasons were involved in the biggest failures, but perhaps the biggest shock is the combination of poor book-keeping, mismanagement and ignorance of the business by brokers who posed as authorities if not experts.

"This failure of record keeping has led in some cases to a loss of control of the business," the protection corporation reported, adding: "The work of the trustees in-all of these cases has been impeded in varying degrees by bad records, no records, false records or noncurrent records.

"In some situations it has been impossible for trained accountants to reconstruct the books and records needed by the trustee."

On the subject of mismanagement and ignorance, it commented: "In many cases, the operating management did not have the qualifications or experience needed to operate a general securities business. Principals did not possess the knowledge of complicated trading procedures or basic concepts of good management...."

It said many firms "were ignorant of brokerage accounting and regulatory rules and regulations." Some of the failed firms were simply inept, it said.

The protection corporation's job is to liquidate firms and return the assets to customers and others, but its data suggest serious flaws in the implementation of securities laws.

How is it possible, for example, for a firm to be licensed as a broker when its principals are unable to maintain books, have a general ignorance of management techniques and don't understand the securities business?

The unanswered question — and one that the protection corporation is not responsible for answering — is how they got into business in the first place.

Jackson Not Sure No Fraud Was Involved

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee says he cannot accept the Justice Department's conclusion that no fraud was involved in last year's Soviet wheat sale.

"A most unfortunate series of bad decisions were made in the grain deal," Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Wednesday.

"I am simply not at this time prepared to conclude that all of the bad decisions were the result of bad judgment," Jackson said. "There is the very real possibility that other factors may have been involved."

Jackson's subcommittee is probing the 425-million-bushel sale of last July and August.

Meanwhile, Wednesday, the Agriculture Department released new figures indicating that the Soviet Union has bought more than 7.8 million metric tons of American grain for delivery by next summer.

According to a department spokesman the grain will come mostly from this year's crop. No dollar value was given for the new shipment. The total value of the 1972-73 grain and soybean exports to Russia, totaling nearly 19 million tons, was about $1.1 billion, the department's report said.

$1.4 Million Suit Filed

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — An Edwardsville salesman has filed a $1.4-million suit charging federal drug agents illegally raided his home and jailed him for 77 hours.

John Meiners, 27, claims agents ransacked his home without warrants. He said they knocked a hole in his living room wall, broke the front door and a window, drank his beer and stole a stereo.

The allegations were contained in a three-count complaint filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Springfield.

The predawn raid was carried out April 21 by agents of the Drug Abuse Law Enforcement unit based in St. Louis, Meiners said.

Meiners said that at one point an agent held a gun to his head, and some agents fired weapons outside his house.

Meiners claims in the suit that his civil rights were violated.

In addition to the $1.4 million in damages, he also asked the court to direct his name be expunged from all federal and state arrest records made during the raid.

Two couples in Collinsville have also filed suits as the result of raids by federal agents. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gigolotto are seeking $1 million in damages and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Askev $100,000.

Meiners decided to file suit when he began to feel the Justice Department was dragging its feet in investigating the raids, his attorney said.

Charles Heads Home

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles sailed from Nassau to the strains of Auld Lang Syne after wrapping up five days of ceremonial functions celebrating Bahamian Independence.

The 24-year-old heir to the British throne boarded a Bahamian police boat Wednesday and sped to the H.M.S. Minerva, which sailed toward Grand Bahama Island for a one-day stopover. The ship, on which the tall, slim prince serves as gunnery officer, will go on to Grand Caymen Island on routine Navy exercises.

Several thousand tourists joined the crowds of Bahamians jamming the dock area for a last glimpse of the royal visitor.

American Planes Hit Targets In Cambodia

By LEE RUDAKIEWYCH
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — American planes attacked insurgent positions south of Phnom Penh today in support of encircled Cambodian battalions and other government forces battling for two small bridges.

U.S. F111 and F4 jet fighter-bombers concentrated their attacks 10 miles south of the capital near the junction of Highway 3 and Rural Route 38 and in the vicinity of the two small bridges seven miles to the east of Route 38.

Route 38, a two-lane blacktop road that connects Highways 2 and 3, leads into the Phnom Penh suburb of Takhmau and from there the insurgents could strike at the capital or its airport.

The Cambodian command said three of its battalions were encircled in schoolgrounds just outside the town of Kompong Kantoet, a mile east of the junction.

Seven miles to the east and only six miles from Phnom Penh's southern perimeter, four government battalions and

Charge Two With Drugs

Greenville police officers Tuesday night arrested two teenagers on marijuana possession charges and took two other persons into custody after they allegedly hampered officers in one of the drug arrests.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers charged Dennis Ray Suggs, 18, of 904B Bancroft Ave. and Jimmy Lee Harris, 19 of 401 Darden Dr. with possession of marijuana after finding the illegal weed in their possession on West Fifth Street. Officers later charged Suggs' mother, Annie Suggs, and his younger brother, Michael Tyrone Suggs, 16, with interfering with the arrest of Suggs.

Mrs. Suggs was charged with disorderly conduct, according to Cannon, while Michael Suggs was charged with interfering with an officer.

The younger Suggs had been taken into custody by Greenville officers on Monday night on marijuana possession charges.

Bond for Dennis Suggs and Harris was set at $500 each while bond for Michael Suggs was set at $200. Mrs. Suggs' bond was set at $100.

about 20 armored personnel carriers faced an estimated 1,800 enemy troops near the two bridges, the Cambodian command said.

A battalion defending one of the bridges was encircled for the second day, and relief troops were trying to fight their way through from the second bridge half a mile away.

The Cambodian command also reported fighting at Trapeang Thnot nine miles northwest of Phnom Penh, at the Tonle Sap River ferry town of Prek Kdam 17 miles north of the capital, at Prek Tameark on the Mekong River 13 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and near Ponley, on Highway 5 going to the Battambang rice region. In South Vietnam, a U.S. search team investigated the wreckage of an American helicopter missing for six years and found the remains of several U.S. servicemen in it.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon said the wreckage was found in dense mountainous jungle near the central coastal town of Nha Trang. An American spokesman said the remains were taken to the central identification laboratory in Thailand for positive identification. The men had been listed as missing since the crash, but their identities were not made public.

The Joint Casualty Resolution Center, which has the job of finding the remains of missing American soldiers, said Montagnard tribesmen led them to the wreckage.

Uruguay Strike Is Collapsing

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The general strike protesting President Juan M. Bordaberry's assumption of dictatorial powers has collapsed, leaving Bordaberry and his military backers in firm control.

Although union leaders and the government denied reaching a secret agreement, labor sources said the government has offered a five-point program aimed at a reconciliation between the president and the unions.

Communist leaders of the outlawed National Workers Convention, who had been guiding the strike from hiding, ordered the workers on Wednesday to return to their jobs. A union source said there had been bitter argument between radicals who wanted to continue the 15-day-old strike and moderates who contended "the situation was too grave" for the strike to continue. The moderates won.

Striking workers returned to their jobs. The capital once again began to bustle with activity.

Drivers involved in the collision were identified as William Henry Pittman of 204 Ridgeway St. and Nellie Marie Jones, Route 2, Bethel.

Pittman was charged by investigators with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

No injuries were reported.

(Continued from page 4) compromise, piecemeal solutions and muddling through. He envisions a president who would rule the country, with or without the consent of Congress, through regional task forces and proconsuls. Such a president could raise or lower taxes by decree, grant or withhold federal aid, impound or spend public funds. And such a president would Get Things Done! He would eliminate property, preserve the environment, and achieve an "equality of condition" among all the people. On the seventh day, perhaps, such a president would rest.

If the Democrats buy this farago of idealism and authenticity, despondent Republicans can revive their flagging hopes. This country does not accept the idea of equality among men, and this is for the best of all reasons, as John Randolph once said, because it is not so. We give lip service to the concept of equal opportunity, but equality of condition? The voters will never buy it.

Neither will the voters buy the crash-program activism that Burns has in mind. "Beware of energetic governments," said Jefferson. "They are always oppressive." We had better believe it. If the Democrats let themselves be polarized as the "liberal-radical party of the day," pledged to dictatorial schemes of equalization, the GOP will yet survive.

(Continued From Page 4) will be explainable, but ten days of requests to the White House produced no explanation. Kehrl's secretary said he would not take our calls.

Our check with Marine Corps headquarters produced disturbing implications that Haldeman cut large corners: three years on active military duty was the absolute Marine Corps minimum during the days of the draft; no exception could be found to the general rule that, within that period, no officer could be "detached" to civilian duty.

Three Arrests In Break-Ins

Three arrests have been made by Pitt and Martin County deputies in connection with a series of recent break-ins at a Rt. 2, Robersonville residence. Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested Delores Hollis Wynn, 23, Jesse James Wynn, 19, and Linda Hollis, all of Rt. 3, Williamston, and charged them with breaking, entering and larceny of the Garland Whitehurst home. Sheriff Tyson said that Mrs. Wynn is charged with entering the Whitehurst home on three different occasions and bond on the three counts of breaking, entering and larceny was set at $2,000. Jesse James Wynn is charged with two counts of breaking, entering larceny of the Whitehurst residence and bond was set at $1,500, the sheriff noted. Linda Hollis is charged with one count of breaking, entering and larceny and bond was set at $1,000. Sheriff Tyson, adding that all three have posted bond, said that hearings have been scheduled for Aug. 3 in District Court here. The Whitehurst home, he reported, was allegedly entered on June 20, and twice on July 6. An assortment of articles, valued at between $200 to $300 were reported missing. Entrance was gained through a rear screen door and by forcing open an inside door, the sheriff added.

Speed Up Information On Cancer Progress

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
FT. DETRICK, Md. (AP) — The government moved today to make recent life-giving advances in cancer treatment more widely available to people throughout the United States. The advances, especially with the use of anticancer drugs, concern three specific forms of cancer — a form of leukemia called acute lymphocytic leukemia; Hodgkin's disease, a cancer of the lymph nodes; and lymphomas' cancer of the tissue other than Hodgkin's. Advanced drug treatment of cancer usually develops in major medical centers and there is a lag between development and the time new treatments reach the general public and the average physician.

To speed up dissemination of these new techniques, the government is setting up seven regional centers — demonstration projects — through which it can reach some 120 hospitals across the country with this new information. The contracts for these projects total nearly $2 million. Dr. Frank J. Rauscher Jr., director of America's recently stepped-up $500 million a year national cancer program, made the announcement at a seminar on health for medical writers staged jointly by the White House and the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Rauscher, who also is director of the National Cancer Institute, addressed newsmen at the institute's new laboratories at the one-time biological warfare research center of the Army at Ft. Detrick. He said that acute lymphocytic leukemia, Hodgkin's disease and non-Hodgkin's lymphomas have been chosen for the demonstration program because "recent advances in treatment—particularly with anti-cancer drugs—have greatly improved survival times for patients receiving such treatment." Under the contracts announced today seven primary hospitals will act through regional networks of contributing hospitals to demonstrate to community physicians and other health workers the most helpful treatment for the three diseases chosen. Rauscher said the seven regional programs are intended to deliver the best possible cancer treatment at the community level. The seven primary hospitals including their contract awards for the first year are: Childrens Hospital of Los Angeles which will receive a $229,573 contract; Childrens Hospital Medical Center, Cincinnati, $218,171; Dartmouth Medical School, Hanover, N.H., $128,054; University of Alabama Medical Center, Birmingham, $356,675; Childrens Hospital of Denver, $211,454; New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, New York City, $486,097; and Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, New York City, $308,138.

College For Kids Is Teaching Them Early

KENTFIELD, Calif. (AP) — San Francisco Bay. Public funds are being sought now, she said. "This was a very necessary program because so many school districts have no outlet for gifted children," said Mrs. Harsham. Laura Walker, 12, has spent a great deal of her time in the electronics laboratory. A bandana around her head to keep the curls out of the way, she intently works with the tiny parts of a voltage tester. "She's 12, and she's done in two weeks what some of my college students work on all semester," says instructor Jay Stryker. Bret Harsham celebrated his fifth birthday last month as he progressed through fifth and sixth grade readings and moved to the seventh grade level. Jesse Harsham, Bret's mother and community coordinator for the program, said the program originally was paid for by the children's parents with matching funds from the college which is located north of er. "I've never done anything like this before, but I made a radio. It gets eight stations. I really like it," she said. Running dry TOKYO (UPI) — Daily water consumption in Tokyo, the world's most populous city, with 11.6 million residents, totals about 7 million tons. The city government says demand for water will rise to 11 million tons a day by 1985 and the Japanese capital will be short 2.1 million tons.

Virus May Give Clue

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
FORT DETRICK, Md. (AP) — A slow-acting virus that causes a neurological disease resembling multiple sclerosis in humans has been found to be the most potent virus for producing cancer in animals. Relating this Wednesday, a top government researcher stressed that there was no evidence that the virus can cause cancer in man. But he said that the discovery could help determine whether viruses can cause any form of human cancer, as well as provide a clue to the solution of a strange but common type of brain tumor in children called "medulla blastoma." Dr. Donald Tower, acting director of the government's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke (NINDS) told about the discovery at a science writers seminar staged by the White House and the Health Education and Welfare Department.

Dr. Tower said the discovery was made by Dr. Richard Johnson and associates at the Johns Hopkins Medical Center, Baltimore, Md. He said the virus has long been known to cause a human nervous system disease known as "progressive, multi-focal, leuko-encephalopathy," or PML. He said it attacks and erodes the myelin, the membrane that sheathes nerves emerging from the brain and spinal cord, which is an extension of the brain. The process is similar to that found in human multiple sclerosis, although there's still no proof the latter disease is caused by a virus, Dr. Tower said. "When the virus is recovered from the brain of a person who has died from the disease it causes brain tumors in rabbits and guinea pigs ... (and is) ... the most potent tumor-producing virus in animals," he said.

First POW Divorcing

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Joan Profflet, wife of the first prisoner of war to step off the first plane from Hanoi, has filed for divorce. She cited irreconcilable differences. Mrs. Profflet separated from Navy Capt. Leo Profflet May 1 after 19 years of marriage. She reportedly is living in a Palo Alto apartment while Profflet remains in the family home. She filed the divorce petition Tuesday in Santa Clara County Superior Court. She seeks joint custody of the couple's sons, ages 14 and 17. They also have two adult daughters. Profflet, 44, was shot down Aug. 21, 1967 during a combat mission over North Vietnam. He was held prisoner for 5½ years.

Bonner To Sue Gov'nor

RALEIGH (AP) — A disappointed Republican office-seeker says he plans to sue Gov. Jim Holshouser. Jordan Bonner of New Bern, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress who said he now plans to become a Democrat, said in an interview Wednesday he will seek to file a breach of promise suit against the governor. Bonner said he moved to Raleigh on Holshouser's pledge of a state job and said he would seek to recover "damages incurred."

No Favorites For GOP Youth

By DICK PETTYS
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The nation's Young Republicans—often playing a bellwether role in the national convention years—haven't picked favorites yet in the 1976 presidential race, their leaders say. Vice President Spiro Agnew and California Gov. Ronald Reagan seemed to be the most widely mentioned candidates among delegates to the Young Republican convention here. But Tennessee Sens. Bill Brock and Howard Baker, former Treasury Secretary John Connally and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller also were being mentioned. "I don't think it's reached that point yet where our members are sitting down and picking their candidates," said Dick Smith, 33, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the newly elected chairman of the Young Republicans. Smith said his own support will go to a "conservative of the Agnew, Reagan or Brock stripe." Jack Carlson of Bloomington, Minn., chairman of the Young Republicans' credentials committee for the convention, said the Young Republicans "think it's premature to discuss specific candidates now." "In the next two years there'll be a lot of that talk. But right now I haven't heard people talking about which candidate they will support." Retiring Young Republican Chairman Don Sundquist of Memphis, Tenn., said Agnew and Reagan are the most widely mentioned candidates among Young Republicans, and that Agnew seems to have the edge now. "I would say the vice president has the edge by virtue of his having campaigned nationally. He's very popular among Young Republicans," Sundquist commented. But Peter R. Chase of Beverly Hills, Calif., who chaired the convention's resolutions committee and helped draft its Watergate position, said the vice president may bear Watergate scars in the 1976 campaigns.

"I'm not saying Agnew was involved, but just by his having been in Washington (during the Watergate incident) he might suffer (at the polls)," Chase said. Chase, a public relations man, said his own support would go to Reagan. "He'd made a good candidate the party could unite behind ... He'd have a better chance than those candidates who are based in Washington. He's standing at a distance from Watergate."

But Chase said he could support Agnew as well, if the vice president wins the republican presidential nomination. Massachusetts Sen. Ted Kennedy will probably take the Democratic nomination if he wants it, most of the Young Republican leaders said. But Smith said the Democratic race "will probably be another zoo." Sundquist said he doesn't think Kennedy will run, but predicted that Sen. Hubert Humphrey will try one more time and that there will be "a big push" for Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

"But I don't see any candidate who can beat ours," he added. Sundquist also said he sees the chances as being "very good" to have a Southerner on the Republican presidential ticket. He specifically mentioned Tennessee Sens. Baker and Brock, but said the South has many potential candidates who could enhance a presidential ticket.

Winning Was Most Important

By WALTER MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — By the testimony of John N. Mitchell, the re-election of President Nixon was overriding in national importance, an end that justified almost any means.

The former attorney general and campaign director offered the political equivalent of the professional football creed pronounced by the late coach Vince Lombardi.

"Winning isn't everything," Lombardi said. "Winning is the only thing."

And Mitchell has told the Senate Watergate committee that he would have countenanced anything, short of treason or high crimes related directly to the presidency, for the sake of Nixon's 1972 victory.

Mitchell said he was concerned primarily about things he considered worse than Watergate, about wrong-doing and spying he called "the White House horrors."

The friend and aide once regarded as the man closest to Nixon said he decided in June 1972 that the President "should not have been involved in connection with these matters that bore directly upon his election, and he should have been protected from knowledge of them."

"Anything at all?" asked Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

"...I am sure if it had to involve treason or other high crimes and misdemeanors that were directly related to the office, that there would be a very definite breaking point," Mitchell replied.

Mitchell said that, if he had told Nixon, the President would have acted against people in his campaign and the White House, and the result would have been damaging to the re-election effort.

Mitchell's testimony about the political situation that confronted the Nixon campaign and the Democrats in June 1972 does not mesh with the assessments he was offering around that time.

"I don't believe that anybody thought the election was locked up, certainly with respect to the time element of June 17, with the potentials of the people that might become the Democratic candidate at the convention ...," he said.

On May 18, 1972, a month before the Watergate burglary, Mitchell said in an interview that Sen. George McGovern would likely be the Democratic nominee.

He also said the voters would reject McGovern.

He was right on both points.

Attended Conference

George F. Hamilton, chairman and associate professor of physical therapy, School of Allied Health and Social Professions at East Carolina University, recently attended the National Conference of the American Physical Therapy Association in Houston, Texas.

He attended the conference as a North Carolina representative to the House of Delegates which conducts the business of the association annually. In addition to this function a number of educational activities are offered during the week long conference, and this year presented special sessions on Burn Management, Spinal Cord Injury, Hand Injury, Acupuncture, Systems Analysis Approaches to Physical Therapy Education and Service, Psychological Aspects of Human Behavior, Research Needs, Methodology, and Clinical Application, and Early Screening and Management for Neuromuscular and Musculoskeletal Deficits.

Some 30 therapists presented reports on their original investigation studies. Hamilton chaired a number of these presentations and served as formal discussant on a paper titled "Energy Cost In Ambulation with and without Prosthesis in the A-K and Symes Amputee."

Find 2nd Dead Body

COLUMBIA (AP)—Officers report a man serving time for the murder of one woman has directed them to the body of another buried in the Myrtle Beach area.

The woman's identity has not been established.

Chief J.P. Strom of the State Law Enforcement Division said Wednesday that Donnie Burl Lemmons gave the directions.

Lemmons was stationed at the Myrtle Beach Air Force base at the time of the murder of a 27-year-old woman last year.

Strom said Lemmons is being questioned about a similar slaying in New Mexico that occurred while he was stationed there at Holloman Air Force Base.

Attacking Lion Is Killed By Grandmother

By WILLIAM C. WERTZ
Associated Press Writer
RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — "He was just ripping the baby apart," says a grandmother who killed a mountain lion with a butcher knife as it mauled her infant grandson.

"I did what I had to do, that's all. I think anyone, with God's help, could have done the same thing," said Mrs. Peter Underdahl of Anoka, Minn.

The boy, 18-month-old Jason Cowden, was listed in serious condition Wednesday in the intensive care unit of a Rapid City hospital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cowden of Anoka.

"Bear Country" is a fenced park containing bears, buffalo, wolves and mountain lions. The animals roam freely within the fenced area, and tourists drive their own vehicles through the park eight miles south of Rapid City.

Mrs. Underdahl, 53, fought back tears as she described her ordeal in an interview at the hospital.

"All I kept saying was, 'Bring me a knife! Bring me a knife!' Finally, my husband handed me a butcher knife and I jammed it in and twisted it and the lion went slack, and I knew I had pierced the heart," the slender, 5-foot woman said.

"I said a prayer that the Good Lord would give me the strength and the right spot, and He did."

Mrs. Underdahl said the lion was about 10 feet away when Mrs. Cowden stopped the motor home and opened a side window to take a photograph.

"It was just lying down and calm as could be," she said.

She said the lion sprang when the baby came toward the window.

"I think it was the quick motion and the baby's small size, the prey thing. You know, those animals attack anything smaller and weaker than they are," she said.

Mrs. Underdahl said she could not criticize the park management.

"The park is well-protected," she said. "We have a set of rules. The rules said don't get out of your car and don't roll down your windows. But who would have thought that the lion would just leap up like that?"

Watching For Hijack Attempt

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — French police took precautions today against any attempt by opponents of French nuclear tests to hijack a French plane and fly it over the test site in the South Pacific.

With the first explosion in France's 1973 test series apparently imminent, armed guards were put on all French commercial planes flying into and out of Papeete. All passengers and their baggage were closely searched at the airport.

A French order barring all unauthorized ships and planes from the seas and skies for 72 miles around the test site in the Mururoa Atoll took effect at midnight Tuesday. But weather observation ships that left Papeete last Saturday were not expected to reach the Mururoa area before the weekend.

Therefore it was believed the first blast would not be set off before the weekend or next week.

When the test explosions are held, it is expected that they will be announced by the Australian or New Zealand governments, the leaders of the anti-test movement, and not by the French government. That was what happened last year.

In attempts to focus world opinion on the tests and the opposition to them, the New Zealand frigate Otago sailed into the prohibited zone Wednesday. The American yacht Fri, owned and sailed by David Moodie of Sausalito, Calif., was reported 40 miles west of Mururoa. At least three more protest yachts were en route to the area.

Australia and New Zealand got an injunction against the tests from the International Court of Justice in The Hague, but France refused to recognize the jurisdiction of the court.

It is believed that three test explosions will be held, then there will be a pause, and three more explosions will be set off in the second half of August. Paris has warned aircraft to stay clear of the skies for 500 miles east of Mururoa, indicating that at least one hydrogen bomb explosion is planned.

The French tested thermonuclear devices in 1968, 1970 and 1971.

Says Must Stand Trial

MIAMI (AP) — Ailing under-world figure Meyer Lansky must stand trial despite a heart condition, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge Joe Eaton said that prosecutors will supply at government expense a court nurse and a cot so Lansky, 71, can rest. He said court sessions would be limited to about four hours a day.

No date was set for the trial on charges of income tax evasion.

Lansky underwent open heart surgery earlier this year. His trial was scheduled to begin Monday but was delayed pending testimony from medical experts. prison sentence for criminal contempt. He was charged after failing to return from Israel to answer a subpoena from a federal grand jury investigating skimming operations at a Las Vegas casino.

Unassigned lands in Oklahoma Territory were ordered opened for settlement on March 3, 1889, when Congress attached a rider to the Indian Appropriation Bill.

Beer Hours Under Local Control Acts

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that North Carolina cities and counties can impose a complete ban on Sunday beer and wine sales—even in country clubs or restaurants having brown bagging permits.

The court ruled unconstitutional a phrase in a state law that forbids local governments from regulating beer and wine sales after 1 p.m. Sunday in businesses with brown bagging permits.

The portion of the law in question "confers a special privilege upon holders of brown bagging permits" and is therefore invalid, the court said.

The ruling could eliminate the common practice of having a beer at the country club or at a brown bagging restaurant on Sunday afternoon.

The phrase knocked out by the court was enacted last year after complaints were made that folks going out to dinner could take a bottle of liquor to a restaurant with a brown bagging permit and could have a drink but could not order beer or wine with the meal.

The court said the remained of the law—which says that local governments can regulate or prohibit beer and wine sales from 1 p.m. Sunday to 7 a.m. Monday—is still valid.

A prohibition against selling beer or wine from 1 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sundays is effective state-wide.

The court ruling came in a suit by a group of Gibsonville grocers who had permits only to sell beer and wine for off-premises consumption.

A Gibsonville ordinance prohibits Sunday sales, but the state law kept local officials from enforcing it against any palces with brown bagging permits.

The grocers contended the ordinance discriminated against them and asked that it be eliminated.

However, a lower court and the Appeals Court ruled the portion of the law excluding brown bagging licensees was illegal instead.

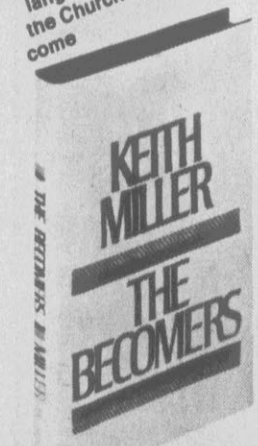

"We hold that (the law) without the provision is a valid exercise of the police power of this state and grants to the town of Gibsonville the authority to place and enforce a total ban on the sale of beer and wine on Sundays after 1 p.m.," the court stated.

The mayor noted that in the most recent workshop session, the figure of $1.12 had been discussed, and added he thought the four cents additional reduction could be reached realistically.

In response to questions from council members, City Manager William Carstarphen said the reduced tax rate would have "Some minor effect on the amount of revenue sharing funds received. However," he added; "the actual dollars in tax money created is $12,497 for each penny of tax this year. Last year it was something over $9,584 for each penny, so the revenue sharing reduction reflected should be very slight."

Sr. Babe Ruth Stars Take 5-1 Opening Win

HAVELOCK—Greenville's Senior Babe Ruth League All-Stars rode the pitching of Ed Wells and the hitting of Jeff Cobb to a 5-1 win over host team Havelock last night in the opening round of the Coastal Plains District Sr. Babe Ruth Tournament.

Greenville pushed over two in the top of the first for all they really needed but added a run in the seventh to insure the win. Havelock scored in the third.

Wells went all the way for Greenville striking out nine, walking one and scattering six hits. Havelock's Rusty Nelson fanned 11 Greenville batters, walked four and he gave up nine hits.

The Greenville team advances to meet the Division II champs tonight while Havelock drops down into the losers bracket to face Coastal Carolina.

Two doubles in the top of the first led to the two Greenville scores. Cleve Averette slammed a one-out double and a second one by Bobby Wooten drove him in. Jeff Cobb then slashed the first of his three triples an out out later scoring Wooten.

Jim Hodges doubled for Havelock in the bottom of the first but was picked off trying to steal third.

Erich Stoddard doubled in the Havelock second but he too failed to score. David Clifton walked to open the third for Greenville and was sacrificed to second. He was left stranded as the next two men went down swinging.

Havelock finally broke the ice in the third with a single run. With one down, Nelson tripped and scored on a wild pitch.

Greenville matched it in the top of the fourth as Cobb tripled again and he scored on a wild pitch.

Havelock threatened to score again, in the fourth, as John Lee doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch after Mike Barchette walked. Wells fanned the next three to get out of the inning.

Greenville also threatened as they put two on in the fifth. Averette doubled and Wooten walked. A wild pitch let them both move up but could not go farther.

Then in the seventh Greenville sewed up the win with two scores, Wooten drew a two-out walk and stole second. A second walk went to Barry Johnson and both stole up. Cobb slashed another triple scoring both runners for the final 5-1 margin.

Cobb's three triples led the batting for Greenville. Rick Harrell had two hits, both doubles, while Averette had a pair of doubles.

Weiskopf Takes Four Stroke British Open Lead

By NOEL HUGHES Associated Press Sports Writer TROON, Scotland (AP) — Tom Weiskopf was in front today at the start of the second round of the $125,000 British Open Golf championship after beating back a tough wind on Troon's seaside links that left many contenders struggling to catch up.

British bookmakers quickly reshuffled the betting odds after Weiskopf scored a four-under-par 68 over the 7,064-yard layout alongside Scotland's west coast.

Jack Nicklaus, who shared second place with fellow American Bert Yancey on 69, still was the favorite, with his odds trimmed from 7-2 to 9-4.

Backers could have had 10-1 on Weiskopf before the tournament; now the best the bookies would offer was 4-1.

Weiskopf, Nicklaus and Yancey, together with U.S. Open winner Johnny Miller, were about the only players to find a real answer to the gusty winds which varied in strength but never let anyone forget its presence.

"It's a funny course for me," said Weiskopf. "I can't really figure out where to go."

There were plenty of less polite comments on the conditions which forced many scores into the 80s.

Even the leaders were unanimous that the wind would probably decide the winner of this 102nd British Championship. Weather forecasters said the prevailing westerly winds which whipped the course may shift to the south a little during today's play.

That should please defending champion Lee Trevino, who was numb after a disappointing 75.

He said he needed a change of wind direction to get into contention.

Trevino, who opened as the second favorite in the betting, dropped to 20-1 as the field of 153 set out to avoid the 80th place cut which takes place after the second round.

Luzinski Gets Homers; Aaron Misses 697

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

For Henry Aaron, time is running out. For Greg Luzinski, there's plenty of it left—but he's playing as though he's trying to beat Hammerin' Hank to Babe Ruth's home run record.

Aaron had a productive night at the plate in Philadelphia Wednesday night with a pair of singles and a double. But he didn't get what he's been going after since last Sunday, namely his 24th homer of the season and 697th of his career which would have moved him within 17 of the Babe's once "unbeatable" record of 714.

The 696 puts Aaron a mere 660 ahead of Luzinski—but for the past two nights, Philadelphia's 22-year-old outfielder has been outshining Atlanta's most famous slugger.

Luzinski hit a homer in defeat Tuesday night. And on Wednesday night, he hit a pair, the second one a towering two-run shot in the seventh inning to catapult the Phillies to a 6-5 victory over the Braves.

In other National League games, Montreal nosed out Cincinnati 4-3, San Francisco downed the Chicago Cubs 7-3, Houston belted the New York Mets 7-1, Pittsburgh crushed San Diego 10-2 and Los Angeles tamed St. Louis 3-1.

Pitcher Steve Renko may have found the secret to winning with Montreal: If there's a job to be done, do it yourself.

Last Saturday night he drove in a pair of runs with two of his three hits in a victory over Houston. And on Wednesday night, he got the key hit in a two-run seventh inning that beat the Reds.

Like Luzinski, Ed Goodson had a pair of home runs. His second of the game highlighted San Francisco's five-run seventh inning that sent the Cubs down to defeat.

The Astros parlayed five singles and Lee May slugged a two-run homer to trounce the Mets. Bob Watson, Doyg Rader, Tommy Helms, Skip Jutze and Tommie Agee did the second-inning damage against Jerry Koonsman and gave Dave Roberts all the runs he needed for his route-going victory.

Right-hander Nelson Briles, taking a cue from Renko, drove in a pair of runs and Willie Stargell hit a record-setting homer for Pirates in their rout of the Padres. And, like Renko, Briles also did the job on the mound, scattering seven San Diego hits. Stargell's homer was his 25th of the season, giving him a share of the major league lead. And it was the 302nd of his career with the Pirates. That broke the club record held by Ralph Kiner.

Don Sutton, 11-5, taking over the league strikeout lead with 130, fanned a dozen Cardinals and got all the backing he needed from Willie Davis, who cracked a two-run homer for the Dodgers, who managed only two other hits all night off Bob Gibson and reliever Diego Segui.

ALL SET FOR 'THE MATCH'—Tennis players Billie-Jean King and Bobby Riggs smile during questioning at a New York news conference yesterday. The two have agreed to meet in a $100,000 match, but the time and place have not been agreed upon. The match, billed by its promoter as "The Match," will pit the 29-year old current Wimbledon queen against the 55-year old flagbearer of male supremacy. (AP Wirephoto)

Riggs Setting Up For Showdown With King

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Billie

Jean King, the bouncy "old lady of tennis," held down the net so Bobby Riggs, the little hustler, could jump it with ease.

"I don't need that," said Riggs, feigning indignity.

He tippy-toed over, nevertheless, but if he has his way it'll be the last time he'll concede anything to the reigning Wimbledon queen.

With $100,000 on the line, he's out to prove that a 55-year-old has been who pops vitamin pills like peanuts, can beat the world's best woman—26 years his junior.

The match Riggs has been dreaming about for months became a reality Wednesday when Jerry Perenchio, the promoter who thrives on spectaculars, agreed to put up the cash for the biggest single payoff in the history of tennis.

Only the date and site have yet to be set, but Perenchio, who promoted the 1971 heavyweight title fight between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier, promised the details would be announced soon.

Riggs tried to bait Billie Jean long before he hooked Margaret Court in a $10,000 Mother's Day fiasco. Finally Mrs. King bit.

Offensive tackle Tim Stokes, a third round choice from Oregon, signed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

Linebacker Mike Kutter quit the New England Patriots after Wednesday's practice.

No Namath Means Jet Camp Has Opened

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The sighting of the first Robin is the harbinger of spring.

The blooming of the cherry blossom is the forerunner of summer.

And the absence of Joe Namath is a signal that the New York Jets' training camp has opened.

For the fourth time in the last five years, Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank has given the quarterback permission to report late to training camp.

This year, Namath has some television commitments to fulfill, necessitating the late start for the 30-year-old quarterback. Ewbank said he granted Namath's request willingly, considering the quarterback's previous record in pre-season drills.

"In those two-day practices, Joe works too hard," said Ewbank. "His arm gets sore and his legs swell up, and when they have to drain his knees, it's a mess."

So Ewbank will use the time to give a thorough look to the four other quarterbacks in the Jets' camp: Al Woodall, who spent last season on the taxi squad; Don Gault, Bill Demory and Jim Foote.

In developments at other NFL training sites, safeties Dick Anderson and Jake Scott ended their threatened holdout from the Miami Dolphins, with Anderson reporting to the Miami camp and Scott reportedly on his way. Rookie defensive end Karl Lorch left camp.

Ermal Allen, 52, a member of the Dallas Cowboys coaching staff since 1962, was reported in fair condition at a California hospital after apparently suffering a heart attack. Rookie wide receivers Mike Amos of Cal Poly and Eric Cross of Stanford, left camp voluntarily.

Wide receiver Jim Lash, a third round draft choice from Northwestern, signed a contract with the Minnesota Vikings.

Gary Hrivnak, a lineman from Purdue, signed with the Chicago Bears. Hrivnak, used at defensive end and tight end for the Boilermakers, will play defensive tackle for Chicago.

The Philadelphia Eagles placed running back Larry Crowe and linemen Bill Farrell and Sid Bailey on waivers after each failed the physical.

The Buffalo Bills placed guard Jim Reilly on waivers. Rookie Scott Lewis of Grambling was missing from the Houston Oilers camp and was waived.

Offensive tackle Tim Stokes, a third round choice from Oregon, signed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

Best Pitch Of Game Was By Yanks' Munson

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fritz Peterson and Sparky Lyle combined to pitch a four-hitter, but the best throw the New York Yankees made Wednesday was by catcher Thurman Munson.

With the Yanks clinging to a 2-1 lead, Chicago had runners on first and second with none out in the ninth. Lyle came on to relieve Peterson, and pinch-hitter Tony Muser stepped to the plate with orders to bunt.

Lyle fired a hard slider and Muser missed. After hesitating, Munson fired to shortstop Hal Lanier, picking pinch-runner Joe Keough off second.

"Sparky's slider was almost a fastball," said Munson. "I saw Lanier moving to second and I threw hard. Keough was just caught leaning."

Lyle then struck out John Jeter, who came in to bat for Muser, and threw out Carlos May on a bunt attempt to record his 23rd save of the season, tops in the majors.

Ron Blomberg homered in the second inning and Lanier doubled and Horace Clarke singled him home in the fourth for the Yankees' runs. Chicago scored off Peterson, 7-10, in the fifth when Bill Melton doubled and Ken Henderson singled.

The victory, combined with Boston's 3-0 loss at Minnesota, enabled the Yankees to move back into first place in the tight American League East pennant race.

In other American League games, the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland Indians 9-3, the Detroit Tigers whipped the Texas Rangers 14-2, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the California Angels 7-1 and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Kansas City Royals 8-1.

The Red Sox, meanwhile, who started the game in first place by three percentage points, were stymied by the sixth hit pitching of Minnesota's Bert Blyleven, 12-8.

Catfish Hunter kept Oakland atop the AL West and raised his record to 14-3 with a four-hitter against Cleveland. Sal Bando homered for the A's, Jack Brohamer and George Hendrick for the Indians.

Jim Northrup slammed a pair of three-run homers and drove in eight runs as the Tigers walloped Texas. The runs were the most scored by Detroit since July 12, 1969 and eight RBI were the most for a Tiger player since Northrup hit a pair of grand slam homers on June 8, 1968.

Willie Horton added a three-run double and Dick McAuliffe and Duke Sims had homers for the Tigers.

Rookie batterymates sparked Milwaukee to victory. Eddie Rodriguez, 2-0, pitched a five-hitter while catcher Darrell Porter hit a three-run homer and drove in another run with a bases-loaded walk.

In the National League, Houston beat the New York Mets 7-1, San Francisco topped the Chicago Cubs 7-3, Philadelphia nipped Atlanta 6-5, Montreal edged Cincinnati 4-3, Pittsburgh belted San Diego 10-2 and Los Angeles turned back St. Louis 3-1.

TRON, SCOTLAND (AP) — Gene Sarazen, the most sprightly 71-year-old star in golf, skied the ball into the cup Wednesday for an amazing hole-in-one during the first round of the British Open Championship.

"The moment I punched that five iron to the green I knew the ball was going into the cup," said the stocky veteran who plays in the old golfing gear that the British call "plus-fours" and the Americans call "knickers."

Sarazen, who first came to Tron exactly 50 years ago, was applauded off the course by the Scottish crowds. He won the British Open in 1932, and as a former champion, he doesn't have to qualify for the tournament.

Only a few hours before entering, he told friends: "This will have to be my last big tournament. If I break 85 in the first round I'll be lucky. There's no way I could make the cut." Sarazen, a golfing legend, and a darling of the Scottish fans, wound up with a seven-over-par 79.

Nevertheless, everyone was cheering for him.

"I'm glad my hole-in-one was filmed—nobody would have believed that I'd have done it otherwise," Sarazen said.

It was his seventh ace—and the first in 40 years.

Nearly Asked Hoover To Quit

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—President Nixon was on the brink of asking J. Edgar Hoover to step down as FBI director in late 1971, the Charlotte Observer says in today's editions.

The paper says in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, "One reason for the near-firing, a well-placed administration source said, was Hoover's stubborn refusal in 1970 to go along with a White House plan to increase spying activities against domestic dissidents and radicals."

The story by Saul Friedman referred only to this source, who was not otherwise identified.

The dispatch said that "to the dismay of White House and Justice Department officials who wanted to see Hoover leave, and who thought they had a commitment from the President, Nixon unaccountably backed down at the last minute..."

"The source learned about the abortive effort to relieve Hoover months later, following the director's death on May 2, 1972.

"Several of the President's top advisers, including the then

White House chief of staff, H.R. "Bob" Haldeman, had urged the President on several occasions during 1971 to dismiss Hoover in a dignified fashion.

"Nixon is said to have refused until late in the year. "As the source related what he later learned, Hoover met with the President, who had agreed to ask Hoover to step aside by the end of the year.

"Hoover, who would have celebrated his 77th birthday on Jan. 1, 1972, was long past the mandatory retirement age of 70. But President Nixon, like President Johnson, had given Hoover a special exception each year.

"When Hoover met Nixon, the source said, 'The few who knew what was going on expected the President to tell Hoover to step down. But when Hoover left, he still had the job.'

"Asked why Nixon changed his mind, the source shrugged: 'We didn't learn the reason. We just figured he couldn't do it.'

"On other occasions the President has shown extreme reluctance to personally fire members of his administration. He usually gave the task to subordinates."

Watergate Committee, Prosecutor Urge Nixon To Ease Paper Stand

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee and special prosecutor Archibald Cox are pressing President Nixon to modify his tough stand against releasing presidential papers and avoid a constitutional confrontation.

Committee members scheduled a closed session today to discuss the possibility of trying to subpoena the White House documents, but an aide said he does not expect any decision on the issue this soon.

Rufus Edmisten, aide to Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said in an interview he doubts the committee will do more than "consider what course of action to take to obtain the materials the committee needs to do its job."

An Associated Press survey of all seven members of the Senate Watergate investigating committee disclosed no votes in favor of issuing a subpoena to the President to appear and testify.

But it appeared a majority could be mustered for a vote telling the President to surrender those documents the committee believes it needs for its investigation.

Edmisten said the senators are "looking for signs. But so far we've seen no dove, no olive branch."

The committee has asked the White House for all documents relevant to the activities of staff members involved in the 1972 campaign.

President Nixon wrote Ervin last week that to comply with the request would "inevitably result in the attrition and the eventual destruction of the indispensable principle of confidentiality of presidential papers."

Edmisten said the only sign the White House might back away from that hard line was oral communications asking for a more specific request.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Cox has been quietly negotiating with the White House in an effort to avoid a similar confrontation over presidential documents relating to Watergate.

A White House spokesman acknowledged that discussions are going on with the prosecutor's office and that, so far, the issue is unresolved.

Cox has maintained he expects to have access to all documents necessary for his investigation and that he would make a public issue out of any lack of cooperation by the administration.

In related developments: —Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that, effective last May 23, presidential aides were barred from copying documents they worked on while at the White House.

Warren had no explanation for the delay in announcing the ground rules. —The White House invoked executive privilege in U.S. District Court Wednesday in response to a subpoena to produce documents relating to a decision to increase milk price supports.

The subpoena was issued May 10 in connection with a civil suit filed by Ralph Nader, which alleged the administration raised the price supports in exchange for campaign contributions.

Dairy industry executives contributed $422,500 to the Nixon re-election campaign. Asked if he anticipated a court battle on executive privilege, Edmisten said, "I can foresee one if the committee were to subpoena the papers. The White House then might ask the courts to quash the subpoena."

"You've got a very historic confrontation building here," he said.

Social Security Payments Upped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 30 million recipients of Social Security can look forward to bigger monthly checks under a law signed by President Nixon.

In a statement Wednesday, Nixon said he was extremely pleased to sign the legislation, which will increase Social Security benefits by at least 5.6 per cent effective July 1, 1974.

The President termed the changes "good news for millions of our citizens."

The new law also places Social Security taxes on annual earnings of up to $12,600 effective Jan. 1.

Taxpayers' earnings up to $10,800 now are subject to the 5.85 per cent Social Security tax. A previous bill raised the maximum to $12,000 next year, but this is changed by the new law.

The White House estimated monthly benefits will increase by at least 5.6 per cent and could rise by 5.8 per cent, depending on computations of living cost increases.

Nixon said the "critical feature" of the bill "is an increase in Social Security benefits of more than 5 per cent next year in order to meet the rising costs of living."

"I have long held that Social Security cannot contribute to genuine financial security until it provides an automatic means of compensating for cost-of-living increases."

Congress last year provided for automatic increases in benefits as living costs rise, effective in January 1975.

The mid-1974 increase in the latest legislation was designed to help bridge the gap until the escalator clause takes effect.

The new law also raises to $2,400 a year the amount an individual can earn and still collect full benefits. The ceiling had been $2,100 a year.

Mills Assured Of Pain Relief

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he has been assured it is possible to be completely relieved of a back pain that prompted him to consider retirement.

"I've talked to a number of doctors yesterday and today who tell me it's entirely possible if I just follow the regimen that they would lay out for me that I could be completely relieved of pain," said Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

He was interviewed in Washington Tuesday and the program was carried on KTHV television here Wednesday night.

Mills, 64, said he expected a complete cure of his back problem if he would take things easier.

He added that he could "carry on with my own congressional duties" but might have to designate others on the committee to help handle that workload.

Mills said he would decide whether to run again for Congress "after I find whether I can get relief from the pain that I have been enduring."

Asked if he would seek either the House speakership or the vice presidential nomination on a ticket with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, Mills said:

"I don't know whether I would be interested in running for either of the jobs if I were totally and completely free of any pain."

Reynolds Files Suit

GREENSBORO (AP) — The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. claims two patents issued to it in 1970 for increasing the filling capacity of tobacco are being infringed on by the American Tobacco Co. in the manufacture of cigarettes.

A suit was filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court by Reynolds Leasing Corp. of Jacksonville, Fla., as present holder of the patents. Reynolds Tobacco is the parent company of Reynolds Leasing.

The action is directed against American Brands Inc. of Reidsville, which is affiliated with the American Tobacco Co.

Asks New Study For Alaskan Pipeline

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the oil companies of creating an energy crisis, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., has asked the Senate to delay action on the Alaskan pipeline while studying an alternative route through Canada.

"It is my belief that a pipeline-delivery system through the Mackenzie Valley of Canada would be the most logical means of transporting North Slope oil to American markets," Mondale said Wednesday.

In his Senate speech, Mondale introduced an amendment calling for the government to immediately begin negotiating with Canada for the pipeline. The measure also would require an 11-month study by the National Academy of Sciences, comparing the economic, environmental and national-security aspects of the alternative routes.

Mondale said: "It is quite clear that there is a real connection between the nation's energy problems, the creation of that problem, and the desire by the oil industry for lucrative concessions from Congress.

"The question before us is whether we will make a major decision affecting American energy needs on the basis of adequate information, or whether we will ratify a decision made by a few huge oil companies, acquiesced to by American government agencies and never seriously tested."

There were dissenting views. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said that, if a pipeline to carry Alaskan oil passes through another country, "you can never be sure it will be made available to the United States." Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, agreed. "It is unreasonable to assume that Canada will deny its own people oil for our benefit," he said.

In other related developments Wednesday:

—The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled that major oil companies cannot summarily cancel franchise agreements with service stations unless they can show that the station owner "failed to substantially perform his obligations under the lease and dealer agreement."

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., charged at a Senate antitrust subcommittee hearing that major oil companies were looking for new home heating oil accounts while denying independent retailers adequate fuel supplies.

—Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., accused the petroleum industry of failing to commit substantial resources to research and development. He was testifying before a Senate Interior subcommittee.

—The Senate, by 88 to 4 vote, approved an amendment requiring Senate confirmation of the director of the energy policy office. The amendment would permit Colorado Gov. John A. Love, the recently appointed energy coordinator, to perform his duties pending a confirmation vote.

No-Fault Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Supreme Court has struck down a portion of the state's no-fault automobile insurance law but state officials say they are confident the remainder is constitutional.

"This decision does not give me any cause for alarm," Deputy State Atty. Gen. Barry Richard said Wednesday after the court invalidated a section of the law prohibiting motorists without collision insurance from suing for property damage in minor traffic accidents.

"They have left the door open for the possibility that they will uphold the remainder of the act," Richard said. He noted that another suit challenging the entire law is pending before the high court.

The 4-3 decision sent a Miami woman's case back to a Dade County court that had upheld the prohibition. The woman challenged the law after being prevented from suing to collect $250 in damages from a traffic accident.

The invalidated portion prohibited persons without optional collision coverage from filing suit to recover property damages under $50, the threshold for seeking damages under the no-fault provisions of the Florida law.

Justice James Adkins Jr., writing for the majority, said the legislature did not have the power to abolish the common law right to sue "without providing a reasonable alternative to protect the rights of the people of the state to redress for injuries."

The majority opinion added that the legislature also must show "overpowering public necessity" before eliminating such a right.

Richard expressed confidence the state could demonstrate both factors when defending the entire no-fault law.

The law, enacted in the closing hours of the 1971 legislature, enables motorists to collect medical and property damages from their own insurance companies, regardless of who was at fault in the accident, if property damage was below $50 and personal injury claims were under $1,000.

Burton Has His Side

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Richard Burton says his estranged wife, Elizabeth Taylor, is "constantly seeking problems." But he adds: "I can't live without her," a West German daily newspaper reports.

"She worries about her figure, about her grandchildren, about her mother, about the color of her teeth and expects that I drop everything to immediately devote myself to these problems. I cannot," Burton is quoted as saying in the interview published Wednesday in Bild Zeitung.

Life with the 41-year-old actress was stormy, "but this peace is driving me crazy," Burton is quoted as saying.

Burton also reportedly said that actor Peter Lawford contributed to the Burtons' separation.

The interview in the couple's 16-room villa in Switzerland came a day after a West German magazine quoted Miss Taylor as saying that mutual jealousy led to the couple's separation after nine years of marriage.

Burton was last reported at the home of his lawyer in Quogue, N.Y., and was not immediately available for comment.

The 'Worry Clinic' Advice May Be To Their Benefit

Airlines, you better heed Andrew's shrewd advice! The railroads failed to make consumer surveys until airplanes diverted much of their passenger business. So you better perform some consumer surveys before it is too late. Hungry passengers resent delay!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE X-558: Andrew R., aged 44, is a management expert. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I recently refereed a conflict between the airplane pilots and the airlines.

"Many pilots are brilliant professional men, such as psychologists, lawyers and other specialists who enjoy flying, both for its high salaries and the zest of the game. "The salary scales range from about $17,500 to $49,000, with extra pay for those who operate the gigantic 747 planes. "These pilots and co-pilots must take frequent rigid medical exams. "So they know their future (like that of professional athletes) may not continue for many years. "That's one reason they now demand such high salaries and other fringe benefits that are no longer compatible with large scale aviation. "For example, in the 1920s when prop planes were in vogue and took maybe 20 hours or more to cross the country, the pilots were paid a premium for bringing their plane to its destination an hour early. "They also received extra bonuses for reduction in gasoline consumption, etc. "But pilots, I am sure, would be willing to negotiate for even lower pay if they were also guaranteed jobs after an adverse medical exam stopped their actual flying duties. "Thus, if they could go into Public Relations or Management or other phases of the huge airplane industry, they would not have that insecurity of wondering when they might suddenly be medically grounded.

"In meeting the zooming costs, moreover, airlines have often offended their passenger clientele. "For example, I recently returned via plane from New York to Chicago. "And I clocked the time it took the stewardesses to run up and down the aisles, taking orders for whiskey. "They devoted 90 minutes to their liquor customers, leaving us only 30 minutes for getting our dinners. "In fact, the plane had started its descent for O'Hare Airport while the girls were pushing their carts along the aisle. "The dishes rattled and one of the carts started racing down the aisle, because of the steep angle of the descending plane. "The airlines claim they make a lot of money using stewardesses as bar maids. "But I counted the number of drinks served, and found that the total profit wouldn't offset just one additional passenger ticket! "Meanwhile, passengers grumbled about getting their dinner late and then couldn't enjoy their coffee because of the plane's descent at Chicago. "Well, if veteran pilots were given jobs in Public Relations, they would certainly iron out this rhabard over liquor sales that alienate passengers and upset the efficient serving of the 100 other pay customers who crave food on schedule, don't you think?"

"Amén." "Since I travel a great deal on lecture tours all over America, I have likewise resented the affront to maybe 100 hungry passengers just because a few tense patrons want to soothe their fears via vodka or whiskey. "And it doesn't produce better Public Relations to make $100 on liquor sales which barely offset one extra passenger ticket! "Most of our airplanes during the week are only partly filled, and the many crashes, plus hijacking episodes, aren't improving the appeal of air travel, so the airlines better heed Andrew's pertinent advice. A DOG'S TALE WAKAYAMA, Japan (AP) — A small shaggy dog was spotted on a street with a paper-wrapped package in its mouth. When two men approached the dog, it dropped the bundle and ran away. Police said the men found $300,000 in the package.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when your keyword should be "organization" of whatever you need to put in perfect working order. You are able to expand in areas that are important to you. A full moon stimulates much activity. Avoid any arguments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to be diplomatic with higher-ups today, otherwise you could have serious setbacks where career matters are concerned. Don't forget to pay an important bill. Seek good advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have responsibilities to take before planning a trip. Try not to fall for a charmer's plan and save yourself trouble and expense. Show that you have willpower. Consult the right people.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you keep promises you have made. Show that you understand your business very well. Loved one could be in a bad mood, but use tact and all is fine. Sidestep an annoying troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Have little to do with associates today, since they are in an irate mood. One in public life could oppose you now, but take it in stride. Don't take any risks. Think in a happier vein.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you are irate at having so much work to do, keep busy and you can gain the benefits you seek. Health treatments can improve your appearance now. Show devotion to mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make plans for inexpensive pleasure now and have more fun because you know you can afford it. Look into a new outlet that could be profitable in the future. Improve on your credit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There could be a serious argument at home now if you are not careful so use tact. Keep busy making necessary repairs. Not a good day to start an uptrend toward greater success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure that you use much care in motion and don't be belligerent with officers of the law or you could get into trouble. An ally should be treated with understanding at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use more honest methods instead of trying to force your way into whatever you want, which would not be appreciated by others. Show others that you like them and add to happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may be bitter to a good friend you feel has been disloyal, but this is not the case, so cool it. Dress well and engage in more social activity. Show more appreciation to associates.

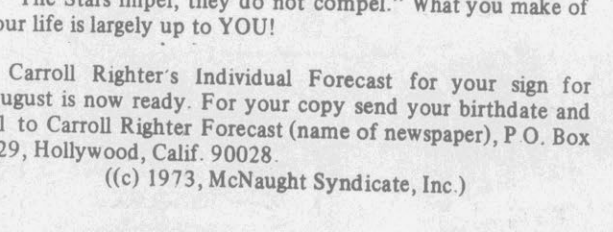

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't think that others are imposing upon you. Keep busy by attending to the tasks ahead of you with enthusiasm. Use your finest judgment now, since your intuition is not working well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A friend appears depressed, but this is because there are problematical matters you have no control over. Not a good day for attending group affairs. Make long-range plans for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a born organizer and would do well in such fields as real estate, business, merchandizing and the like. Teach early to be a good listener, otherwise your progeny could talk away many of the fine opportunities that are in this chart. Give spiritual training early in life. Don't force sports on this youngster. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

$100,000 Back Pay

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The AFL-CIO says eight North Carolina workers fired by J.P. Stevens in unionization efforts in 1968 have received more than $100,000 in back pay from the textile chain recently under court order. Harold McIver of the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department in Charlotte says two more former Stevens employes, in Rock Hill, S.C., are expected to receive payments totaling more than $17,000 in the next few days.

South's heart suit is only barely biddable. Here, however, the bid has advantages that make it the recommended bid. It has led inhibiting value, and any other suit led would be to South's advantage. After North showed his spades, South jumped in no trump to show 19-20 points, and North carried on to game.

diamond tricks. However, the hand requires great care. After releasing the queen-jack of spades, there is no obvious entry to get to dummy so that declarer can score dummy's master spades.

A thoughtless declarer might find it hard to resist the temptation of winning the first trick with the nine of diamonds. Then after cashing the queen and jack of spades, he would suddenly realize that he had no way of getting to dummy to make the two high spades. He could try underleading the ace-king of diamonds, but West would surely win the queen and declarer would be left to his own resources. He would end up with seven tricks, as he would have to lead from his hand all the time.

A more thoughtful declarer would appreciate the problem of finding an entry to dummy. As it is most improbable that West has led a singleton against a no trump contract, declarer can make the same three diamond tricks and force an entry to the dummy if he wins the first trick with the king of diamonds.

The queen-jack of spades are taken and declarer continues with the ace of diamonds and another. Whether West takes the queen of diamonds now or later is immaterial: dummy's jack of diamonds is an entry to the high spades and the contract is made.

Crop Forecast May Drop Costs Sit-Com Shows Milk Industry Feels Shortage

May Drop Costs Make Comeback May Develop During The Fall

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A report Tuesday by the Agriculture Department predicting farmers will harvest more corn and soybeans this year is raising hopes in the Nixon administration that the rise in food prices can be slowed.

No one says that grocery prices will go down soon, but the prospects of larger crops used to turn out meat, milk and poultry could mean a more gradual rise.

Larger crops also suggest that the United States may be able to let up in a few months on rationing soybeans and other protein feedstuff to foreign buyers.

Export restrictions were put on those products recently by the administration to assure enough for American livestock and poultry producers until new crops come in.

Soaring export demand for wheat, corn and soybeans has helped boost feed costs here at home and has been mentioned as an important factor in retail food price increases.

High feed prices are being blamed for the cutback by farmers on breeding stock for hogs and chickens, meaning that production of pork and poultry will be reduced soon.

Processors and farmers also have blamed the Nixon price freeze for predicted shortages in some food supplies.

Without substantial increases in grain and oilseed production this year, officials believe that American consumers would be headed for serious supermarket shortages by next winter and even sharper cutbacks in export shipments to foreign buyers.

The Agriculture Department says, however, that farmers fought off severe weather last spring and now plan to have 6 per cent more acres of corn and 24 per cent more soybeans for harvest than in 1972.

"This was a day that the optimism came out on top," Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said Tuesday. "If there ever was a need for an abundant crop, this was it."

The report said that record crops of corn and soybeans are likely this year if favorable weather continues. A record wheat crop, 13 per cent larger than 1972, already is being harvested.

Corn production could rise to nearly 5.9 billion bushels, a little less than Nixon planners had hoped but in line with expected needs.

Soybeans, many of them planted on land forsaken by corn growers because of severe spring weather, could exceed goals and total 1.59 billion bushels, a 24 per cent gain.

Officials believe that the figures add up to enough to give cattle, hog, poultry and dairy producers an economic shot in the arm next fall through lower prices for feed.

If that happens, according to plan, farmers will be encouraged to expand animal and poultry production and put more food on consumer tables.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Television, it is said, goes in cycles with different kinds of shows moving in and out of favor.

If that is true, and the short history of the medium seems to substantiate it, then we must be seeing a resurgence of situation comedy.

Quite likely in the future it will be at the expense of the police shows that grew like Topsy in the past decade.

It has been suggested that the law and order shows were a subtle reaction to the unrest of the 1960s and now that the times are quieter the public is looking for lighter entertainment.

In any case, the number of situation comedies is increased to 22 in the fall. All are a half hour except the hour-long "Love American Style."

Police shows in the upcoming season more or less hold their own—19 in all—but they still occupy the most time because all but "Adam-12" run from 60 to 90 minutes.

A major reason for the increase in comedy is that NBC took a sad look at the ratings charts and once again found itself bested by CBS. Leading the way for CBS were such shows as "All in the Family," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "The Bob Newhart Show" and "Maude."

NBC, on the other hand, was top-heavy with detective shows, several of which ran to 90 minutes. Yet its consistent ratings leader was the half-hour "Sanford and Son."

In the recent past NBC has not had much luck with situation comedy. It would have been left out of the picture entirely if it had not been for "I Dream of Jeannie" and "Get Smart" and, currently, "Sanford and Son."

In the fall, NBC is making a determined effort to get back into the picture. The network is adding four new comedies, "Lotsa Luck," "Diana," "The Girl With Something Extra" and "Needles and Pins." That's in addition to "Sanford" and "The Brian Keith Show," which was formerly "The Little People."

Friday night, in fact, becomes a virtual belly-laugh battlefield. Both NBC and ABC are all comedy that night and CBS breaks the pattern at 9 p.m. for the Friday Night Movies.

On television nothing succeeds like success.

If the swing to more comedy proves successful, you can be certain that the cycle will continue to turn in that direction. And virtually the only place for movement is in the abundance of police shows.

Miller Comeback

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Ann Miller, launching a comeback on the stage after suffering a head injury nearly a year ago, says she owes it partly to former astronaut John H. Glenn.

"Glenn called me and told me not to worry, that I would walk again," recalls the 50-year-old actress who suffered a concussion of the inner ear in an accident last August. A heavy stage curtain struck her during a performance in St. Louis of "Anything Goes."

Glenn suffered a similar injury in a bathtub fall several years ago.

In "Blithe Spirit," currently at San Diego's off-Broadway theater, the veteran of Hollywood dancing shows floats lazily as a spirit but does no dancing. "I'm back on my feet, anyway," she said in an interview Tuesday. "I still have these dizzy spells, but I'm looking forward to dancing up a storm someday, like a woman of 30."

Carolina by time the public schools open this fall, industry sources said Tuesday.

"I think the supply is going to be very light," commented Grady Cooper, executive director of the North Carolina Milk Commission.

Retailers, processors and producers contacted in a survey agreed with Cooper. Some forecast higher retail milk prices and others predicted more dry milk solids would be used in milk products.

The Raleigh Times reported results of the survey Tuesday.

The manager of the American Dairy Association of North Carolina, Homer Sink, said in Greensboro that vastly increased feed grain prices, higher costs of dairy machinery and higher labor costs had created the shortage. He said dairy farmers are sending their cattle to slaughter in greater numbers and some are getting out of the business.

"All indications are that there will be a shortage," said Gayle Spivey of High Point, manager of the A&P processing plant there. The plant supplies milk to A&P stores in North Carolina.

Ben A. Kilgore, manager of the Pine State plant in Raleigh said his plant already has begun using dry milk solids in making cottage cheese, ice cream and other milk products. Kilgore said these products taste no different, but are more expensive to manufacture.

J. C. Koon, manager of the Winn-Dixie regional office in Raleigh, said he was "concerned about having an adequate supply of all food products at this point."

"If circumstances stayed the way they are, with labor costs and feed uncontrolled, certainly shelves could be blank," Koon said.

J. D. Wooten, merchandising manager for Colonial Stores, Big Star and K-Mart Food Center markets in Raleigh, said his company would seek to import milk from western states if local supplies run short.

"The grocery business has never been without fluid milk," he said.

Urge Don't Freeze Wage

NEW YORK (AP)—Sol Stetin, general president of the AFL-CIO Textile Workers Union, has urged the Cost of Living Council to reject any industry effort to freeze textile wages.

Stetin said Tuesday that leading firms are planning to ask for the freeze to head off an imminent 7 per cent increase in wages and benefits at Greenwood, S. C., mills and several other textile companies in North Carolina and South Carolina.

He said a freeze would "single out one of the lowest paid groups of industrial workers in the country as guinea pigs in a lopsided experiment launched in the name of halting inflation."

In a letter to Dr. John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, Stetin said: "The only purpose it would serve is to enable an industry, which is notorious for its opposition to industrial democracy and collective bargaining to continue to refuse to share its profits with its employees."

Survivors On Visits

Editor's note: The South Vietnamese government expects hundreds of relatives of U.S. servicemen killed or missing in Vietnam to visit the country within the next few weeks. Mrs. Lorraine Hayden of Concord, Calif., was one of the first such tourists. Her son, U.S. Marine 1st Lt. Edward G. Hayden, was killed a year ago this month in Quang Tri City. Mrs. Hayden flew there last week "to get some peace of mind." The difficulties and experiences she had in reaching her goal are described in the following dispatch.

By TRACY WOOD
HUE, South Vietnam (UPI) — The last time Mrs. Lorraine Hayden saw her son, Edward, was Mothers' Day last year. The next day he flew to Vietnam and was killed two months later during the fighting for Quang Tri City.

"When he was killed, I decided to come out here someday but I didn't know when because I had promised him I would look after my daughter," Mrs. Hayden of Concord, Calif., said.

Hayden's slender, attractive mother has been divorced for 23 years. She worked as a secretary to support both her son, who was 26 when he was killed July 20, 1972 at Quang Tri City, and her daughter, Pamela, now 23.

Mrs. Hayden's daughter was married this June. Without telling her daughter—"so I wouldn't spoil her honeymoon"—Mrs. Hayden quit her job and made arrangements to fly to Saigon and then to Hue, 400 miles to the north, in a determined effort to see the place where her son died.

Her trip was made over the strenuous objections of relatives, who feared for her safety, and against the advice of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon.

Before traveling to Vietnam, Mrs. Hayden had never been out of the United States.

"The last time I saw him was Mothers' Day. He left the next day," Mrs. Hayden said in an interview on a vine shaded restaurant terrace in Hue, 30 miles south of Quang Tri City.

The flight from the U.S. to Saigon takes about 22 hours.

Mrs. Hayden arrived in the morning at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

There was no one at the airport to meet her. Mrs. Hayden said neither Pan American World Airways nor the South Vietnamese government had an information booth to guide foreigners.

"I had no trouble with customs," she said. "They couldn't speak English so I just opened my suitcases and they looked through them and my purse."

"I saw this sign (in English) that said 'three people to Saigon, $3.00, one person $5 (U.S.).'"

It is illegal to use any money except South Vietnamese piasters. However, there is no place at the airport to exchange currency.

Mrs. Hayden took one of the advertised cars to the hotel in Saigon where she had reservations, but had to pay the driver in U.S. dollars.

"I broke the law—I realize that," Mrs. Hayden said, "but what else could I do?"

From her hotel to the U.S. Embassy is about six city blocks. She walked in the 90 degree-plus heat to the embassy to find out how to change money and how to reach Quang Tri City.

The embassy gave her the address of a bank about a mile away. Mrs. Hayden walked to the bank but was told she could not cash traveler's checks unless someone at the embassy signed for them. She walked back to the embassy and was told that wasn't true. Back at the bank, she finally got some money changed "so I could get something to drink and eat."

Edward Hayden was on his second tour in Vietnam when he was killed. He received two bronze stars during the last five days of his life.

"When they gave me the bronze stars for my son, somebody commented that he died for Vietnam and that that government didn't do anything (in the way of awards)," she said.

"Now that I've been here, I think I understand. There are millions and millions who died. They've had so many problems."

The next day, Mrs. Hayden again was scheduled to fly to Hue. Her hotel did not tell her they had rental cars to take her to the airport, so she took a taxi to the downtown terminal where buses leave for the airport.

"Nobody could speak English," she said. "I sat down trying to figure out what to do. Finally this girl came up. She was leaving for Saigon and she told me where to get the bus."

The girl, a Vietnamese, also gave her the name of an American official in Hue.

Tips Given On How To Save On Energy

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Cutting back energy consumption five per cent means a little more heat this summer and a little more cold this winter, the Nixon administration says.

It means going easier on the gas pedal, avoiding "jackrabbit starts" and 70-mile-per-hour speeds on the highways. Or keeping the house darker at night and repairing leaky faucets.

These are some of the energy-saving measures suggested by a key administration energy official, Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, chairman of President Nixon's Oil Policy Committee.

Nixon urged Americans on June 29 to reduce their personal energy usage by five per cent, but suggested only a few ways how this could be achieved.

At a reporter's request, Simon asked his staff to prepare a list of ways that the average American could save energy. The compilation centers around energy conservation in the home.

For example, raising the thermostat of home air conditioners by 4 degrees will save 15 to 20 per cent in electricity, the list says. In the wintertime, dropping the thermostat four degrees can save 10 per cent in electricity.

Or, "use fans rather than air conditioning," it says.

The list suggests turning off all appliances and lights that are not needed and buying electric appliances that use less electricity.

What was meant by appliances that use less electricity was not explained, but one official said, for example, that frost-free refrigerators use more electricity than refrigerators without that convenience.

Other suggestions included reducing electric power use during peak demand periods of late afternoon and early evening; keeping heating and air conditioning equipment in good condition; removing dust from registers and ducts, and replacing and cleaning filters.

Or, repairing leaky faucets, especially hot-water faucets; using a humidifier on the furnace in the winter; making more efficient use of appliances, like washing clothes only when there is a full load.

Automobile drivers could reduce their speed from 70 to 50 miles per hour and save 20 to 25 per cent in gasoline, the list said.

"Buy cars more economical in gasoline use," because the list said, More economical cars can save 1,000 gallons of gasoline a year or $400.

In addition, as Nixon suggested in his message to Congress, the list said many Americans could avail themselves of public transportation or use car pools to commute to work.

Simon and his staff said the list does not include all suggestions for saving energy. Americans may have their own ideas, he said.

Polling Places Are Designated

The Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee has designated polling places for the July 17 referendum on acreage-poundage marketing quotas for flue-cured tobacco.

The committee advised that all growers 18 years of age or older who share in the 1973 flue-cured crop of its proceeds are eligible to vote in the upcoming referendum. Where no tobacco is produced in 1973 on a tobacco allotment farm, only the owner and operator are eligible to vote.

County ASC Committee chairman W.F. Tyson noted that acreage-poundage quotas have been in effect since 1965 and tobacco growers will determine through the referendum whether or not to continue the program.

If two-thirds or more of the votes cast are "yes," the quotas will continue in effect for the 1974, 1975, and 1976 crops. If more than one-third of the vote is negative, there will be no marketing quotas and no price support in effect for the 1974 crop, Tyson explained.

The chairman noted that if marketing quotas are rejected in this year's referendum, another referendum will be held next year. If quotas are continued, the next referendum will be held in 1976.

The list of polling places include: Ayden A, Ayden Community Building; Ayden B, Ayden Community Building; Beaver Dam, fire house; Belvoir, McAlvin-Turner Store; Bethel, town hall; Carolina, Roebuck & Parker; Chicod A, Porter's Supply; Chicod B, Grimesland Town Hall; Chicod C, Spencer's Store; Chicod D, L. C. Venter's Store;

Falkland, community building; Farmville, fire station; Fountain, town hall; Greenville A, Howard Forbes' Store; Greenville B, Farmers Tobacco Warehouse; Greenville C, Red Oak Fire Station; Greenville D, Eastern Pines Community Building; Pactolus, Satterthwaite's Store;

Swift Creek A, Quinerly's Store; Swift Creek B, Stokes & Lane Store; Winterville A, town hall; and Winterville B, Worthington's Cross Roads.

The polling places will be open between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Treasure Goes To Drunk Tank

By KEN GEPFERT
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Part of a Spanish treasure sought by undersea adventurers for three and a half centuries has been locked away in the drunk tank of an old North Florida county jail.

The State of Florida Wednesday took custody of what treasure hunters say is a portion of a $600 million fortune which has been hidden in the wreckage of the Spanish galleons Nuestra Senora de Atocha and La Margarita since 1622.

Under the watchful eye of armed guards, the haul was flown from Key West to the state archives, housed in an old Leon County jail. It was assigned space in an abandoned, sub-basement drunk tank.

Treasure Salvors Inc., a firm of treasure hunters that located the fortune, estimated the value of the gold and silver artifacts at $750,000. But Archives Director Robert Williams declined to talk of monetary value.

"It's irreplaceable," Williams said after personally escorting the 500 pounds of treasure to Tallahassee in a state airplane. "People have been looking for this treasure for 351 years. Its value far exceeds what you could sell it for."

Seven armed Florida Marine Patrol officers stood guard over the treasure at Key West as it was loaded aboard the plane in four beer coolers filled with sea water to prevent the long-submerged items of treasure from deteriorating.

Williams and his staff will sort through the treasure before transferring it to a vault in an undisclosed Tallahassee bank.

Among the trove were 1,172 Spanish pieces of eight, three 62-pound silver bars, assorted silver spoons and plates and Rosary beads of golden coral. There was also an astrolabe, an instrument for observing celestial bodies. The navigation instruments were used by 15th century mariners.

By law, the state is entitled to keep 25 per cent of the treasure, which was discovered under 20 feet of sand 30 miles off Key West last week. Williams said the treasure hunters will get their share after the state assesses the historical value of the find.

The two galleons went down as they headed for Spain with treasures plundered in the New World by Spanish conquistadores.

Damaged By Fire

FALKLAND—The home of Mrs. C.H. Mayo here suffered extensive smoke and water damage during a fire yesterday afternoon.

The alarm was turned in at 3:13 p.m. after smoke was seen coming from the attic by a passerby, Jerry Little. The Falkland, Farmville, and Belvoir Fire Departments participated in extinguishing the blaze, which was believed to have started when lightning struck an electric hot water heater.

Mrs. Mayo and her sister, Miss Mattie Moore, who lives with her, were not at home at the time.

A tobacco barn fire on the Speight Seed Farm was answered by the Winterville Fire Department at 8:34 a.m. but the barn was a total loss.

Sixty per cent damage was done to a barn on the F.M. Davis farm near Joyner's Crossroads. Farmville Fire Department answered the call.

At 3:55 p.m., a barn on the R.J. Cannon farm near Cannon's Crossroads burned. Ayden Fire Department responded to the call.

Grifton Fire Department was called at 12:46 a.m. today to stand by at a wreck scene.

Eight tobacco barn fires have been reported so far this harvesting season.
