Pneumonia Hospitalizes Nixon

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon experienced a "restless night" and is continuing to suffer chest discomfort from a viral pneumonia condition for which he is being treated at Bethesda Naval Hospital, the White House said today.

When the President entered the hospital, Ziegler said he was expected to remain there for at least a week. During that time, Ziegler said, the President "will carry on his necessary work at the hospital while resting and recuperating."

The 60-year-old President was reported ill and entered the hospital in suburban Maryland Thursday night, after carrying more. The doctor said it had been a battle to get the President to agree to go to the hospital.

It was the first time since he took office in 1969 that Nixon suffered any illness other than a common cold. And it was the first time he has been hospitalized since an injury to his knee during his presidential campaign of 1960.

White House physician Dr. Walter R. Tkach, an Air Force major general, said he foresaw "no complications," and that "rest and recuperation are the primary treatment."

Moore Thought Raid Only An Adventure

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

former attorney general and campaign director, to the Watergate witness stand. Mitchell stuck through three days of testimony to his denial that he had approved the Watergate wiretapping plan, disputing suggestions that he had lied under oath to keep the lid on the scandal during the 1972 presidential campaign.

"In either case just having more doctors in the field does not solve the problem of rural health care in that both in North Carolina and every state in the country — and literally around the world — getting doctors to locate in rural areas has simply been a very, very difficult task and that is the reason behind the rural health program that we are putting together."

New Equipment, Street Work Top Council List

Bid proposals for the first phase of a major street resurfacing program, as well as for several new pieces of equipment for various city agencies were approved Thursday night by the City Council.

Council members voted to reject bid proposals by Tampo Manufacturing Co. and Truxmore Industries Inc. for a new 23-cubic yard container truck for the city's Sanitation Department and authorized the negotiation of a lease purchase agreement with Truxmore for the vehicle.

approval appear slim. Nothing is lost in applying, however. Approval was also given for an application to be submitted to the Governor's Highway Safety Program for funding assistance toward the purchase of a replacement emergency medical services vehicle.

Moore told investigating senators he did not know of official or campaign involvement or cover-up. He said he does not believe President Nixon knew about it.

Moore, recounting to the televised Senate hearings events about which he has said his memory is hazy, said he did not know the dimensions of Watergate when he and others discussed at a California resort a need for money in connection with the problems it had raised.

Campora Resigns To Make Way For Peron

Some leftist factions viewed the new events as a sign that Argentina would have a more conservative government of old guard Peronists who would seek to weaken their stance. There was no immediate reaction from the military men who turned over power to Campora's civilian regime May 25 after nearly seven years of armed forces rule.

There was no immediate reaction from the military men who turned over power to Campora's civilian regime May 25 after nearly seven years of armed forces rule.

A bid of $48,512 submitted by Barrus Construction Co. for the resurfacing of 21 streets was awarded as part of Phase I of a projected three-year street improvement program.

Tampo's bid on the container truck was $15,066.80 while Truxmore offered a bid of $22,065.

Application for a second piece of equipment to replace one of the two units now in operations involves a request for a grant of $7,500 to be matched by local funds. The $7,500 in matching funds has been provided for in the budget, it was pointed out.

Moore said when he carried that message to Mitchell later, the response was in effect: "Get lost."

Ervin said he still hopes to meet with Nixon next week to discuss that controversy, despite Nixon's hospitalization Thursday night for viral pneumonia.

Fire Chief Ray Smith told the board that a list of specifications was mailed out to prospective bidders and only two submitted bids in return, Ward LaFrance and American LaFrance. The pumper quoted by American LaFrance did not meet the specifications stipulated, Smith asserted. American's bid was $40,509.

In other business, the Council approved resolutions authorizing the submission of an application to the Mid-East Commission for a Law Enforcement Assistance Grant in the amount of $17,551.49 for the operation of the West Greenville Recreation Center. A Rescue Squad spokesman reported that certain features that are desired in the new vehicle were not available in units built by Crain M-M Sales Inc. and Superior Coach Sales Co. Their bids were both for $14,120.

Two pieces of mowing equipment for the Recreation Department will also be purchased as bids were awarded to Waller Tractor Co. for a new lawn tractor with mower and Eastern Tractor and Equipment Co. for a flail mower.

Waller's bid on the lawn tractor was $1,086.26 while Eastern Tractor offered a price of $1,129.44. Eastern Tractor submitted a bid of $727.27 on a flail mower while Waller offered a bid of $875.42.

Nixon Promises Meeting, But Ervin Wants To See Documents

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Watergate committee today predicted the panel will vote to subpoena White House documents it wants if President Nixon doesn't release them voluntarily.

Nixon said Thursday that he was willing to meet with Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, but has no intention of backing away from his refusal to give the committee the documents.

Ervin, in a television interview today, also urged Nixon to change his mind and testify personally before the committee.

The agreement on the Nixon-Ervin meeting was announced hours before Nixon entered Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment of viral pneumonia. No date was set for the meeting.

Ervin said that when he meets with the president to discuss the documents he will do so alone, will take no notes and won't say later what happened in the meeting except as to how the issue was decided.

The committee chairman said he believed the President might be persuaded to change his mind about releasing the documents despite a White House statement that Nixon is firm in deciding to hold on to them.

Asked if he would vote to subpoena the White House to turn over the notes, letters, and other papers the committee seeks, Ervin replied, "Yes, I would ... I believe the entire committee would vote to do so."

Ervin was asked if he has an opinion, based on evidence presented so far, as to who in the White House was involved in wiring up the Watergate wiretapping affair. His reply was one of the strongest appeals so far to the President to come forward and testify:

"I have no doubt of the fact that there was a cover-up. There is one human being on the face of the earth who is in a better position, of all earth's inhabitants, to show what then-president had no knowledge of any of these very peculiar circumstances ...

"There is only one human being who is the most competent witness on the point and that is the President of the United States. And that is one reason why I am unable to understand why the President is unwilling to testify before the committee."

Ervin was interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today" show.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., vice chairman and ranking Republican on the committee, said he is optimistic that "some compromise can be worked out" to avoid a court battle over the issue of whether the committee can demand access to White House documents relating to its investigation of the Watergate scandal.

The Nixon-Ervin meeting was arranged after the committee told the President in a letter that his refusal to turn over the documents threatened a "fundamental constitutional confrontation between the Congress and the presidency."

But, in announcing the meeting, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said "there will be no change" in the President's refusal to turn over the documents requested by the committee.

In a letter dated July 6, Nixon had informed the committee that he believes that to turn over the documents would destroy "the confidentiality of presidential papers."

But the committee Thursday passed a resolution saying it is in unanimous agreement that it "is entitled to have access to every document in the possession of the White House or any department or agency of the executive branch of the government" that pertains to its investigation of the Watergate scandal.

Committee members had discussed trying to subpoena the documents but voted Thursday to request a meeting with the President in an effort to avoid the court battle a subpoena probably would precipitate.

The committee had asked the White House to turn over all papers dealing with the activities of any presidential aide involved in the 1972 campaign.

Pressure for White House documents grew after ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III told the committee he believed the President knew about and participated in the attempted cover-up of the Watergate affair.

After Dean spent five days before the committee, several members urged the President to appear before the panel to answer his former counsel's allegations.

Seeking Getty's Grandson

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Police searched today for oil billionaire J. Paul Getty's 17-year-old hippie grandson after the youth's mother reported a ransom demand which she said may have been a hoax.

The teen-ager, J. Paul Getty III, had not been home for two weeks. He has been an habitue of Rome's hippie hangouts and has occasionally been seen selling homemade jewelry to tourists.

The boy's mother, who is divorced from J. Paul Getty Jr., said she had a telephone call Thursday from a man who told her, "We have kidnaped your son. Get the money ready for the ransom. We will call you later."

She said the man did not give any ransom figure.

"I think the phone call was some sort of joke," she commented.

Mrs. Getty said she had not known of her son's absence because she had been on a holiday until Thursday. The caretaker at her apartment said he hadn't been worried because the youth "used to come home late, and he didn't have what you would call a regular life."

Mrs. Getty said she had talked to her former husband, who lives in London, and said he was "in a state of shock, like me." She indicated he had no plans yet to come to Rome.

Mrs. Getty, the former actress Gail Harris, told authorities that her son seldom stayed away from home for any long period of time.

About 50 kidnappings have been reported in Italy in the past two years, and only a few of the kidnapers have been caught. An industrialist was released last February after a payment of a record ransom of $2 million.

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are going to get back together, Burton's lawyer says.

The reunion of the pair will in Rome next week, attorney Aaron Frosch said Thursday. Frosch said friends of the entertainers expect they will end their separation.

"They expect the two of them, Mr. and Mrs. Burton, to return to Rome and rent a villa there where they will stay during the filming," Frosch said.

He was referring movies the pair are scheduled to make in Rome later this month.

Burton flew to Rome Thursday. Miss Taylor is expected to leave Hollywood for Rome soon.

Farm Bill To See Compromise

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A battered farm bill, bound for a veto in its current form, has been yanked off the House floor by backers who hope to shape it more to the administration's pleasure before trying it again Monday.

Compromise efforts may include a sharp cut in the bill's lifespan from four years to just two or perhaps even one year, Agriculture Committee Chairman W.R. Poage, D-Tex., said after the House stopped voting on the bill Thursday.

Without this bill, the 1970 Agriculture act will die on Dec. 31 and farm programs will fall back on old permanent laws that stirred heavy criticism of governmental policies toward growers of America's food and fiber. Programs of food stamps for millions of needy people, and projects of foreign donations and sales through food-for-peace activity, all due to expire, would be continued through this bill.

During three days of increasingly bitter debate, sharp divisions developed in the House.

A coalition with urban forces fell apart amid charge and counter-charge over whether big labor did or didn't support this or that amendment. Long-time advocates of subsidy reforms began carrying the day with proposals to close what they termed giant loopholes that benefit the wealthy at the expense of the taxpayer.

The Nixon administration's forces maintained the cost of the bill as drafted by the Agriculture Committee's Democrats and most of its Republicans was somewhere in the multibillions of dollars—anywhere from $12 billion up, for instance, in a new target price concept with an escalator clause.

Under the target price idea, a level of guaranteed farmer income would be set by pegging a target of $2.05 a bushel for wheat, $1.38 a bushel for corn and 38 cents a pound for cotton. The escalator would annually adjust the target to reflect cost of production and changes in crop yields.

As long as current relationships between crop production cost and farm price are continued, subsidies of some $3.5 billion a year would be eliminated. If prices drop, growers get subsidy payments to make up differences between sales returns and the target.

When the administration finally came to terms with bill handlers on a compromise to abolish the escalator yet keep target price figures workable the committee, the House refused to buy it.

Then, a Republican amendment allowing a year of target prices then moving into a three-year phaseout of farm subsidies was shot down by the House.

Husband Is 'Real' Doctor

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has earned a Ph.D. in psychology, and it took him 10 years of hard work to do it. Recently at a party a woman said, "My brother in law is a doctor—a REAL one." I felt like I had been slapped in the face.

Why do some people think that unless a person is a medical doctor, he isn't a "real" one?

I am angry with myself for not having set that woman straight, but what could I have said?

Please print this, Abby, so others won't make the same mistake. GALLED IN GALVESTON

DEAR GALLED: You could have said, "My husband is also a 'REAL' doctor. He's a doctor of psychology." [P. S. Ignorance is no mistake.]

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what's the matter with me, but I just can't say no. I go with the kind of guys who can talk me into anything. I am only 18, and I can't even remember all the guys I've gone all the way with. Some of them I didn't feel a thing for. I just didn't want to hurt their feelings.

My parents think I'm a "good" girl because I don't stay out late.

I am not dumb, and I am nothing special to look at. I am just average, but I would like to stop giving in to one guy after another. Can you help me? CANT SAY NO

DEAR CANT: You need counseling. Get in touch with your Family Service Agency (if you can't afford private counseling). They can help you straighten out your thinking. Or check your phone book for the Mental Health Clinic nearest you and ask for an appointment. [P. S. I'd like to hear from you after you've followed these two leads. God bless you.]

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion that would give great hope to cancer victims. Most of them make a habit of reading the obituaries with apprehension and fear.

It would, I believe, give them courage and confidence if families would allow obituaries to read: "Mr. X died at the age of 72 of a heart attack. He underwent cancer surgery 20 years ago."

Is there any reason this can't be done? NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: Your idea is great for those who have survived cancer surgery. But how do you think it would affect persons with heart conditions?

DEAR ABBY: I had a very irritating experience recently at a family gathering. One of my aunts greeted me with, "I didn't recognize you because you got so fat!" [And she said this in front of a lot of people.]

As one who has always been heavy, I am very sensitive about my weight and I found this very embarrassing. I feel that such comments are as rude and uncalled for as making fun of a cripple or an otherwise handicapped person.

My family tells me to drop the matter because my aunt is elderly and should be excused. I maintain that age is no excuse. What is your opinion? BURNED

DEAR BURNED: Age could be an excuse. However, since no one can insulate himself against possible hurtful remarks, your only defense is to a. avoid those who are inclined to make them; b. develop a thicker skin; c. try to reduce your "problem."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Binnie Barnes Returns To Movies

By WAKA TSUNODA
NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty years after her retirement, Binnie Barnes, one of the Hollywood sirens of the 1930s, is back on the screen as Liv Ullmann's young-spirited mother in "40 Carats," a movie version of the Broadway play of the same name.

The picture was produced by her husband of 34 years, M. J. Frankovich, but Miss Barnes says he has nothing to do with her getting the part: "The director and the writer wanted me in it," she said. "My husband didn't know anything about it until I got it. I rehearsed some young girls for the part, and they liked my reading, and they wanted me for it."

The London-born actress, remembered for such films as "The Private Life of Henry VIII," and "Man about Town," is a now a 63-year-old grandmother of four, but her face is as fresh as that of a milkmaid that she once was — rosy, unblemished and unwrinkled. "I don't like to see old women with a lot of makeup and four layers of eyelashes," she said. "I use hardly any makeup and get on with it. Overmadeup, you look much older." "I haven't had my face lifted yet, but I think I will eventually," Miss Barnes said. "When I reach 80, if I live that long, and I think I will. Why not? Facelifting is such a marvelous thing. I think every woman should make her best of her face."

How did she feel coming back in front of the camera?

"A little nervous to start with, and then the role was such that you can have a very good time doing it — dancing with Gene Kelly, you know — I enjoyed it. I was a little stiff doing the discotheque number, but once I got back into it, it's like eating. You don't forget how to eat. I came back, danced and worked again. It was simple.

"I look much younger than my age, and that's very good. Older people who see me in the picture can say, 'if she can do it, so can we.' It gives them hope."

Showing still shapely legs under a flower patterned dress, Miss Barnes said she has a "very young, very modern mind, and has always been way ahead of what's going on." She is not at all shocked by the story of "40 Carats" in which a 40-year-old woman falls in love with a young man.

"I know an enormous amount of younger men who are married to older women and are terribly happy. Very happy. It's not unusual.

"Two people in love should be able to do whatever they want. But they'd better make sure they have something more than sex between them. Otherwise, when the first impulse is over, everything is over."

The last of 16 children of a London bobby, Miss Barnes was brought up on a dairy farm the family owned and started her show business career in night clubs. One day, Noel Coward came to hear her sing, and picked her for his play, "Cavalcade," making her famous. She later came to Hollywood, made several movies, and in 1940 married Frankovich.

Miss Barnes says she is not embarking on her second acting career. Her life has been very fulfilling and she wants nothing.

"But if something comes up that really suits me, I'll do it," she said.

Not As Bad As It Might Seem

Call it disregard of a basic American economic creed, or ignorance, but the unfolding story and accompanying complaints sicken the traditionalist observer.

To begin at the beginning: the laws of supply and demand are invariable, and whoever ignores them . . . be it government or individuals . . . is courting disaster.

In moves to placate the price-watchers. Washington imposed a system of price controls that simply cannot work. The end result promises to be not merely a land of plenty, but a land of shortages.

Did they remember that we are a people traders, producers, manufacturers and buyers?

Farmers are not going to produce foodstuff simply because of the demands of sweet charity; neither are manufacturers, fishermen, cattlemen, poultrymen, dairymen, or makers of widgets.

Their productivity is keyed to the simple rule of profit. When government interferes, the flow of production suffers.

Behind every price increase there is the hard economic fact that costs and demand have increased . . . costs related, we should remind, to the years of overspending by the non-Wizards of Washington and their faith in a continued oversupply of dollars in circulation.

The choice to be made is between a land of plenty and a land of shortages. It takes a certain amount of confidence and hard-nosed awareness to face up to that fact.

Prices we pay today for most consumer goods cannot be compared on their face to prices of 1935; but on the basis of per capita income we are getting bargains undreamed-of 40 years ago.

Things are not "tough all over"; it's a matter of perspective, and we seem to have lost our sense of perspective.

People forget (and we don't blame them) that 40 years ago a medium-sized family could live quite well on $35 per week. Well, over the years we've seen living costs rise and "necessities" grow, proportionately rise even faster.

Of course, this is a simplistic statement of the picture, which in truth is too broad to be painted in simplistic terms. But the hard core facts are there, and all Americans will be losers if they are forgotten.

Schools Will Benefit Most

By JERRY AUSBAND
The Shelby Daily Star
SHELBY, N.C.—When

North Carolina's 100 counties go to 100 per cent tax assessment next year, on instruction of the General Assembly, the state's school districts could benefit most.

Those with voter-approved supplemental tax levies for current expenses will find themselves with a tiger by the tail, and maybe, a tempest in a teapot.

Even though assessments of property for tax purposes will be at the appraised value, rather than at ratios now from 50 to 65 per cent across the state, voter-approved tax levy authorizations will stay the same as they are now.

This contrasts starkly with those countywide school districts which are subject to supplemental taxes approved by the county boards of commissioners. These are changeable every year, to provide revenue needed by the schools. So, too, are countywide levies imposed by commissioners to give basic school support.

Supplemental Levies Remain
But school boards whose countywide or district units have authorized up to a certain supplemental levy, such as the 40 cents authorized in the Shelby school district or the 20 cents authorized in the Kings Mountain school district, will still have the spending authority when the assessment is increased to 53.84 per cent next year.

Some may quarrel with the 50 per cent figure, but in a county which now assesses at 65 per cent of appraised value, an increase to 100 per cent of appraisal will mean a difference of 35 per cent, but that amounts to a more than 50 per cent increase. A county now assessing at 50 per cent will go through a 100 per cent increase.

It is true that county commissioners actually levy the supplemental tax, and it is legally true that commissioners could refuse to levy the entire supplemental levy after the assessment ratio changes to 100 per cent, so that school districts would only have the same revenue, or allowing for growth, a slightly larger revenue.

Boards of Education Decide Levy
In practice, however, commissioners traditionally allow boards of education to say how much of the supplemental levy authorization is actually to be imposed. After all, if voters of a district have given authority for a levy, they should have the say-so, the usual reasoning goes.

Thus, after a recent reassessment in Cleveland County, Shelby school board members requested that 34 cents of a 40-cent authorization be levied, while the Kings Mountain school board asked and got its full 20-cent levy.

The Shelby school board allowed for a small growth in revenues, while lowering the tax rate by 6 cents even before a new bond issue raised its debt service levy by a dime. The Kings Mountain board, feeling the pinch of inflation and growth, got a significant increase in revenues by leaving the tax levy at full authorized strength.

An analogy can thus be drawn with the coming of the 100 per cent valuation of property for all county tax purposes.

Revenue Requests
Theoretically at least, 65 per cent ratio school districts with voter-approved supplemental levies should ask for 35 per cent fewer cents of taxes per $100 valuation, to maintain current revenues. Districts in 50 per cent ratio counties should ask for only half the supplemental tax levy after the valuation goes to 100 per cent.

But that doesn't allow for any growth or for any expansion of educational opportunities or for any new legislation that causes additional funds to be spent (annual leave, sick leave and holidays for maintenance crews are one example) or for inflation.

So, dutiful school boards who want to remain politically inviolate will probably be asking for tax levies slightly above the minimum when the 100 per cent valuation goes into effect. Still, they will have the authority, given them by voters, to seek the full levy, no matter what it is.

Just how many districts in the state have voter-approved supplements, as opposed to commissioner-imposed supplements, could not be determined from the Department of Public Instruction. However, 14 countywide school districts have supplemental taxes, while 57 other separate districts have taxes.

The assessment and the levy, then, affects nearly half of North Carolina. That means that taxpayers will have to depend almost entirely on the school boards they elect as to what tax rate for schools they will pay after next year.

Discrepancies Threaten Plan

By ROWLANE EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

discrepancies between formal, Navy-estimated costs of the controversial plan to "homeport" the U.S. Sixth Fleet in Greece and costs compiled by a secret study just completed for Congress not only threaten the homeporting plan but U.S.-Greek relations in general.

Much to the concern of the military dictatorship in Athens, this discovery of highly misleading testimony to the House Foreign Affairs Committee by the Pentagon in the spring of 1972 coincides with sudden disenchantment by the Nixon administration with Greek dictator-president George Papadopoulos.

The roots of that disenchantment are found in Col. Papadopoulos's decision six weeks ago to abolish the Greek monarchy. With a "referendum" scheduled for July 29 certain to give Papadopoulos eight more years as dictator against rising political opposition, the Nixon administration is cooling toward the military regime.

Now, the regime's woes are about to deepen in Congress. The almost unbelievable misstatements made by Pentagon officials (including the astute Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt) about homeporting costs have infuriated congressional experts aware of the matter. A full rendition next week will be given a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, headed by Democratic Rep. Ben Rosenthal of New York.

Testifying will be expert witnesses from the General Accounting Office (GAO), congressional watchdog over spending.

On Feb. 19, 1972, John H. Chafee, then Secretary of the Navy, wrote Rosenthal: "It is currently not planned to expand or build naval facilities other than . . . minor facilities at the airfield. . . We desire to hire and/or lease existing port services, (and) pier space."

Likewise, on March 7 last year Zumwalt told the Rosenthal subcommittee that "we do not have any intention to build military facilities for our ships." When asked by Republican Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey whether "there is no expansion of naval facilities, as such, involved, "Zumwalt shot back: "Yes, sir."

But the GAO's team of experts, sent to Greece early this year for investigation, came home with a shockingly different story. Their report indicts abysmal Navy planning and Navy failure to do its homework. It even raises a suggestion that homeporting in the Athens area may prove more trouble than it is worth.

Here is the heart of the report:

1. Papadopoulos is giving the Navy little cooperation, apparently assuming the U.S. has to do business with him anyway.

2. The claim that the Navy would not build "facilities" was so wrong as to approach complete stupidity or deception. Not one but two multi-million-dollar piers, totalling perhaps $30 million to $40 million, will have to be constructed—the first for destroyers, the second (vastly the more expensive) for a single aircraft carrier.

3. Contrary to Chafee's testimony, the Athens airfield may be unusable, forcing the Navy to use the regular NATO airbase at Crete, 150 miles away, thus piling huge extra expenses on homeporting.

4. Worst of all, the GAO experts will testify next week that the destroyers and the carrier may have to be berthed in completely different waters, perhaps 30 miles apart. That would obviate one basic Navy purpose of homeporting: to give families of American seamen a morale-boosting chance to live together.

The Navy has already signed an agreement in principle to construct a "relocatable" pier for more than $3 million at Elefsis, home port for Sixth Fleet destroyers. "Relocatable" indicates the pier is easily movable, but the word is a euphemism. In fact, the pier, called "phase one" of the plan, is built on permanent piling. To move it would take up to six months at heavy expense. By calling it "relocatable," the Navy apparently hopes to hoodwink Congress into belief that it is not a permanent "installation."

Moreover, the expense of berthing the carrier at Magara (known as phase two), will be 100 times greater, involving not only a pier but also "cold iron" (Continued On Page 5)

Replies For Nixon Fans

WASHINGTON — These are difficult times for people who are defending the Nixon Administration. No matter where they go they are attacked by pseudo-liberals, McGovern lovers, heterosexual constitutionalists and paranoid John Dean believers.

As a public service, I am printing instant responses for loyal Nixonites when they are attacked at a party. Please cut it out and carry it in your pocket.

Oil is essential not only to the nation's economy but to the everyday life of all of us. It affects our health and welfare and our very ability to function in these modern times.

As such as all of us abhor increased government interference with private business, the FTC study suggests the need for effective government regulation of the major oil companies.

Oil is too vital to the life of the nation for its availability and price to be manipulated in the fashion charged by the FTC study.

Nobody Listens To Money Talk

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Poets and dramatists might enthuse over the excitement of uncertainty and the pleasure of the unexpected, but when the subject is money nobody listens to them.

Despite this chance of recession, nobody in an official capacity is prepared to guarantee that prices will fall. They really can't, not when it is impossible to determine if supply will be sufficient for demand.

And at what cost? Housing is becoming one of the biggest question marks. Will consumers raise their savings level sufficiently to keep mortgage lenders supplied with loanable funds? A 1 per cent savings rise means $10 billion. Will it be available?

Were he alive today, for example, William Congreve would never hold an audience of brokers if he continued to maintain that "uncertainty and expectations are the joys of life," and "security is an insipid thing."

A growing fear is that restraints might become counter-productive and cause shortages that would inevitably put pressure on prices.

The stock market, which cannot tolerate much more uncertainty than is already inherent in the nature of that business, flutters occasionally when it sees a glimmer of light, but otherwise it broods about its uncertain future.

Women's Lib Jeers

NEW YORK (AP) — Rolling Stone marks that an active women's liberationist gets tired of hearing: "Why don't you go chain yourself to a fire plug?"

"Gals like you are worse than Dracula. All Dracula ever wanted was blood."
"Listen, Dora, you're not really interested in freeing women. You're really just interested in crucifying men."
"I happen to know that you are making more than $10,000 a year as a legal secretary, Dora. That doesn't exactly put you in the martyr class."
"Why don't you go sit on a flagpole and yell your message to the four winds?"
"I hate to disagree with you, Dora, but I've lived with your father for 40 years, and I've never felt persecuted in all that time."
"A smart woman doesn't need a liberation movement. All she needs is the right man to operate on."
"When a woman has to shout for what she wants, she has already lost the battle."
"Dora, why do you keep insisting men can't stand the thought of having to work for a woman? That's how most men spend their entire lives. All they ask is the right to pick the woman."
"Dora doesn't have to worry about being regarded as a mere sex object. That's the last thing any normal man would think of her."
"Why don't you go down in a scuba suit and whisper your tale of woe to the little fishes?"
"Dora, you know in your heart that you'd be happier if you were married to a husky truck driver who kept you in the kitchen barefoot and expecting."
"The worst damage you dames do is to make ordinary, cheerful housewives discontented with their lives. You make them wonder whether

Strength For Today

A NEW RELIGION?
Do we need a new religion? There are many people who say that we do. They insist that the problems of the world are constantly becoming more difficult and that religion does not provide any adequate solutions. These people are sure that if we would cast out some of our old religious notions and establish new ones, all of our troubles would go away.
But the world's troubles have arisen not from any lack in our religion but from a lack in ourselves. There is nothing wrong with our religion, but there is something desperately the matter with the way we interpret it and especially practice it.
Actually there has probably never been a time in the history of the church when there has been less bigotry, intolerance, and fanaticism than today. What we need is not a new religion. We need to ponder more thoughtfully and prayerfully what we already have.

Will Investigate Security Costs

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee plans to investigate $1.3 billion worth of security installations at President Nixon's private residences — apparently without any comparable figures from past presidencies. The General Services Administration already has told an other House panel that no statistics are available for security expenditures at the private homes of the late Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson, John F. Kennedy or Dwight D. Eisenhower, and said that it would be almost impossible to develop the data.

"We fully recognize the need to provide extensive protection for the security of the president," said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex. "However, it is essential that expenditures made in the name of security be reasonably related to that purpose."

He said his House government activities subcommittee would hold hearings at a date yet to be set. A House appropriations subcommittee under Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., held hearings on the same subject June 27. Steed expressed approval of the expenditures.

The General Services Administration reported it had spent $703,367 on installations and equipment at Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., residence and $626,202 for the same purpose at his Key Biscayne, Fla., compound. The agency also reported operation and maintenance expenditures of $554,321 at Key Biscayne. No similar figure was given for San Clemente.

Administrator Arthur F. Sampson, asked how these sums compared to previous presidential residence requirements, said: "There just aren't any statistics available. We have tried.

We have been requested by the White House, we have been requested by the press continuously to try and find what was spent for LBJ, Kennedy, Eisenhower, and we have not been able to do that." Expenditures for such items as landscaping and a new heating system at San Clemente have been questioned. The Secret Service says the landscaping primarily was to restore grounds to the condition they were in before being dug up for security installations. The agency said the old heating system at San Clemente was unsafe.

The security expenditures are made under three sections of law that authorize the Secret Service to protect the president, direct other federal agencies to assist the Secret Service in that task and enable the GSA to make security installations on private property. The law sets no limit on how many houses a president might accumulate. Even a retired president is entitled to protection at as many residences as he might choose.

Warns Don't Throw Stones

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater assailed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Thursday night for appointing himself "judge and jury in the Watergate affair" as part of a drive for the presidency in 1976.

Goldwater, an Arizona Republican and the GOP's presidential nominee in 1964, told the nation's Young Republicans that Kennedy was "the last person in the country to lecture us" on Watergate.

"Until all the facts involving the Chappaquiddick tragedy are made known, the American people can do without moralizing from the Massachusetts Democrat," Goldwater told the final session of the three-day convention of Young Republicans.

Goldwater's remark about Chappaquiddick referred to an incident four years ago when a secretary riding in Kennedy's car drowned while returning with the senator from a barbeque at Chappaquiddick Island in Massachusetts.

"I know he is running for president, but that's no excuse," Goldwater said of Kennedy. "There is still that little truism which says people who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

The Arizona senator criticized Kennedy's speech at a Fourth of July rally in Decatur, Ala.

"In a speech that was obviously the opening gun of Kennedy's drive for the presidency in 1976," Goldwater said, "the senator from Massachusetts constituted himself as both judge and jury in the Watergate affair."

"He spoke with unctuous righteousness about such things as 'mischief' and 'honor' and 'exemption from restraints,'" Goldwater said. "All of his remarks were obviously directed to the Watergate charges, although he didn't mention them as such."

An aide to Kennedy said he doubted the senator would respond to Goldwater's comments.

capability"—shore installations, including power supplies, which can keep a carrier's services running while its own power supply is cut off.

The State Department has not yet approved phase two, partly because of the deteriorating political situation inside Greece. Whether it ever does will now depend on congressional reaction to the Navy's failure to come clean 16 months ago on the true cost of homeporting and whether President Nixon decides it is time to cut back his huge investment in Dictator Papadopoulos.

ments. He added, however, that he plans to supply Goldwater's office with the five-column record of the inquest into the Chappaquiddick case.

Continuing to speak on Watergate, Goldwater repeated his call for President Nixon to appear before the Senate Watergate Committee.

He said the Watergate issue "could be wrapped up in one afternoon if he (the President) made himself available for that kind of discussion."

"I believe that our party has been badly damaged by the revelations concerning Watergate and related incidents of irregularities of a political nature in 1972," he said.

"I believe in facing facts and calling spades," he continued. "And I say very, very frankly that we have a big job ahead of us."

Goldwater said, "It will take a lot more than Watergate to kill off the Republican party ... I will take a lot more than a biased press, a Ted Kennedy or a gaggle of righteous Democrats."

Young Republicans Back Nixon On Watergate, Military Posture

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The nation's Young Republicans have ended their three-day convention with a mild Watergate resolution and a platform that calls for a strong military posture.

The Watergate resolution—subject of some bitter hassling—was "watered down" on the convention floor and expressed confidence that President Nixon knew nothing of the affair or its subsequent coverup.

The original Watergate resolution, drawn by a committee, proposed that Nixon comment on the matter in an informal, televised program when major witnesses have completed their testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee.

The full convention changed the resolution to suggest that Nixon make further comments in a forum "of his own choice." The more than 1,200 delegates approved the resolution which also declared that the Senate investigating committee has produced "hearsay," speculative opinions and mere gossip.

Peter R. Chase of Beverly Hills, Calif., chairman of the resolutions committee, said the action "took the teeth out (of the resolution) but not its sense."

The convention split over a proposed resolution which would have labeled Watergate as a "political aberration." It also criticized members of the Committee to Re-elect the President for not working more closely with the party.

John Walker of North Kingstown, R.I., objected to the language. He said that Watergate, rather than being an aberration, was typical of campaign practices by both parties. The second resolution died on the convention floor.

In other action, the Republicans adopted a platform that devoted 10 of its 38 pages to national defense and foreign affairs.

The platform called for maximum use of laser technology to develop advanced weapons systems, for continued funding for the new B1 bomber, for continued developing of long-range undersea missile systems and to modernize U.S. naval forces.

It further urged Nixon to use whatever force he deemed necessary to enforce the ceasefire in Southeast Asia, urged the recognition of Rhodesia and endorsed the Alaskan pipeline.

The convention failed to act on more than a dozen resolutions, among them one opposing amnesty for draft dodgers. Others would have commended the phasing out of the Office of Economic Opportunity, opposed the Aug. 15 deadline to halt the bombing of Cambodia, and urged an investigation of actress Jane Fonda and former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, both of whom have made trips to Hanoi.

The Young Republicans executive committee, by default, will have to consider the resolutions when it meets today. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., the final speaker at the convention, said that Nixon was pleased with the platform. He said he had talked with the President earlier Thursday.

"He is particularly pleased with your platform, especially that calling for nuclear strength in this country," said Goldwater.

Attending Honoring Conference Sr. Citizens

Several persons from Pitt County will attend the 17th Quadrennial General Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, Roanoke, Va., beginning Aug. 2.

Attending as delegates will be Wiley D. Vick, Bethel, Mrs. J. Frederick Dixon, Farmville, J. Melvin Moore, the Rev. R.N. Hood, and H. Austin, all of Greenville.

Bishop J. Floyd Williams, general superintendent, will preside over the week-long general conference, where problems of administration, programs for the next quadrennium and church policies will be determined.

Official delegates to the general conference will number approximately 600 but the overall attendance will exceed 4,000 persons for the meeting.

The Senior Citizens of Greenville will be honored in a special service of recognition Sunday at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church during the 11 a.m. service.

The Rev. Adrain D. Brown Sr., visiting minister of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher.

A member of the N.C. Conference of the United Methodist Church, the Rev. Brown, before his retirement as an itinerant minister in 1968, served in pastorates through eastern North Carolina for a number of years. Since 1968, he has served as visiting minister for the Jarvis Church.

The Sunday services will be held in the new church building located at 1400 Red Banks Rd.

Only Eagleton Wasn't At McGovern's Party

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton wasn't there. But just about every other major figure in Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign was on hand to celebrate the first anniversary of his nomination as a presidential candidate.

Even the Secret Service agents who guarded him and the reporters who covered his campaign attended Thursday night's party at McGovern's home.

So did Gary Hart, Frank Mankiewicz, Jean Westwood, and others, from strategists to baggage handlers.

R. Sargent Shriver, who replaced Eagleton as McGovern's running mate after disclosure that the Missouri senator had been hospitalized for nervous exhaustion, was there but left before his turn to speak.

Though many of the 200 guests learned during the evening of President Nixon's hospitalization with pneumonia, none of the speakers referred to it.

McGovern later told reporters, "I regret it very much, and hope he will make a full recovery. No one could be anything other than concerned about it."

McGovern is up for re-election in South Dakota next year, while former Democratic National Chairman Jean Westwood is weighing a Senate or House race in Utah.

There were some familiar scenes from 1972: black strategist Yancy Martin throwing his arms around actor Warren Beatty (his sister Shirley MacLaine wasn't there), and Shriver and Mankiewicz huddling in the kitchen.

A relaxed McGovern mingled with the guests, telling one group that his daughter, Mary, plans to attend Clark University in Worcester, Mass. "Very intelligent voters up there," he said of the only state he carried in last November's elections.

Most of the speakers offered serious remarks. "I believe he should have been president," said Hart, while Mankiewicz said McGovern's "stature will only grow as that of his successful opponent diminishes."

McGovern repeated the words of his acceptance speech that "American politics will never again be the same."

Like the tumultuous Democratic convention in Miami Beach, the evening ended with everyone singing "This Land Is Your Land, This Land Is My Land."

The Loving Union Club of Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate its third anniversary Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church.

Singspiration Is Scheduled

AYDEN—A day-long revival will be held at the Morning Star Holiness Church Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. The guest speaker will be Evangelist Betty Gardner and music will be provided by the choir from Coley's Chapel Church, Grifton.

The Rev. Jo Anna Garris and choir will be present for the 3 p.m. service and at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. Cora Evans and choir will give the program.

The public is invited to attend. The Rev. J.A. Collins is pastor of the church.

Women's Day Services Set

Women's day services will be held at English Chapel Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

Bishop W.L. Phillips is pastor of the church.

Stubborn Fire Still Burning

OVERLAND, Mo. (AP) — A stubborn fire continued to burn out of control today in a building housing 56 million files on former servicemen.

The blaze, which became a day old shortly after midnight, gained momentum Thursday night as it spread from the uppermost floor of the Military Personnel Record Center down to the fifth floor. Portions of the roof collapsed.

Six firemen, who were among members of 20 suburban St. Louis departments fighting the blaze, suffered smoke inhalation and eye irritation. No other injuries were reported.

Officials of the General Services Administration said that arson may have been the cause and the FBI was investigating. Jeffery P. Hilleison, regional administrator of the GSA, said there had been 12 fires of suspicious origin in the building during the last six months.

The sixth floor housed service and medical records on more than 20 million Army and Air Force servicemen, mostly on those who served during the two world wars.

The job of reconstructing destroyed military records "will be the largest reconstruction job we've ever had," according to Walter W. Stender, assistant national archivist.

He said the center was the only depository for the complete record files on men from all branches of service.

Stender said the loss of the records could "delay to some extent the receipt of benefits for some veterans."

Considers Plant Site

RALEIGH (AP)—Carolina Power and Light Co. said Thursday it is considering construction of a 1.1 million kilowatt steam-electric generating plant on the Maho Creek north-east of Roxboro.

The company said the plant would cost about $250 million and would be fired by coal.

A formal study of the site location, about one-half mile from the Virginia-North Carolina state line in Person County, began Thursday.

A GOOD KID

It's nice to see a headline about a good kid—because that's what most of them are.

Of course, his parents worry about him. That's one of the reasons he is a good kid. He's had plenty of opportunity to learn how much they love him . . . how much they care.

They have given him many things, some at considerable sacrifice to themselves. Fortunately, though, their giving didn't end with material gifts.

They have given him ideals . . . standards . . . principles. These are the intangible treasures that you aren't likely to acquire if you didn't find them at home.

And they have given him a faith. It was their faith first. At home and in church they shared it with him. Out of it the ideals and standards and principles naturally grew.

Yes. He's a good kid—due to the Lord.

China Cotton Trade Could Bring Controls

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say the Peoples Republic of China, already buying U.S. farm commodities at a faster clip than anticipated, may be placing orders for large shipments of cotton over the next two years.

The China cotton purchases, along with other foreign commitments, could push the Nixon administration into export controls on fiber if U.S. production falters this year.

Government and trade sources say that China already has bought at least 750,000 bales of U.S. cotton for delivery through the summer of 1974. They say the total could be much higher.

The Agriculture Department confirms that China bought at least 500,000 bales worth perhaps $75 million for delivery during the current crop year which ends July 31.

China, meanwhile, has purchased U.S. wheat, corn and soybeans. Those purchases are both from last year's production and include sales from the 1973 crop.

The cotton sales, which began months ago, are casting a new light on U.S. supply and export demand for the fiber.

Japan is the biggest buyer of U.S. cotton, taking an estimated 900,000 bales in the 1972-73 year. A curb on cotton exports would be particularly bothersome to the Japanese, who are already upset over U.S. export cutbacks on soybeans.

H. Reiter Webb, who heads the cotton division of the Foreign Agricultural Service in USDA, told a reporter he is "pretty well convinced" of the sale of 500,000 bales to China this year.

Webb said he was "much less precise" on how much cotton China has bought or may purchase next season. He indicated, however, that he thought the estimate of 750,000 bales was too high.

The long range buying plan of China was tipped this week by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz. He told a group meeting with him that he had been informed that China currently is negotiating for U.S. cotton as far in advance as the 1975 crop.

Butz did not, however, estimate the size of the possible sales. Other department officials said they could not substantiate reports of advance cotton buying by China through 1975.

Webb said that it was possible, however, that private talks with some large producers have taken place with regard to purchases from crops two years hence.

Meantime, the USDA says cotton exports for the current marketing year to end July 31 may total 4.9 million bales out of a crop in 1972 of 13.7 million.

That would compare with exports of less than 3.4 million from the small 1971 production of 10.3 million bales.

The net effect of last year's larger crop, even with more exports, is a boost in the cotton reserve expected when the new year begins Aug. 1.

That reserve or carryover will be about 4.5 million bales, some 100,000 fewer than expected earlier this year, but more than 1 million more than the reserve last Aug. 1.

The department has not officially indicated what the 1973 cotton crop will produce, but farmers planted 13.1 million acres, down 6 per cent from 14 million seeded in 1972.

Floods and severe weather prevented or delayed plantings in many areas last spring and has raised doubts on good yields this year.

But most of the acreage reduction was a result of a policy decision in the Agriculture Department. That involved a reduction of 1.5 million acres in the so-called national allotment used to compute government payments to growers.

Farmers are free to plant as much cotton as they choose, but a smaller national allotment means that less of their cotton will qualify for full subsidies.

When the cutback for 1973 was announced last Nov. 14, it appeared that the big 1972 cotton crop would result in a much larger reserve on Aug. 1 than apparent now.

But exports, including sales to China, have grown so rapidly that it appears the Nixon administration may be worrying about supplies getting too tight.

Evidence of such concern was an order a week ago by the Commerce Department requiring cotton shippers to begin reporting export sales on a regular weekly basis. Their first reports are to be filed today.

Export orders for cotton from the 1973 crop still to be harvested already have totaled between 4.0 million and 4.5 million bales, according to Agriculture Department officials. One trade source said the total could be as much as 5.5 million bales.

If average weather and yields prevail, the 1973 cotton crop could produce 12.2 million bales. Domestic needs over the next year might run about 8.0 million bales or possibly more.

Thus, if exports next season are as large as 5.0 million bales, total use in 1973-74 could outrun this year's cotton production. That would mean drawing on reserve supplies and probably higher prices for American textile mills.

Claim They're Not Soldiers

By LUIS MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer
VENTANAS, Chile (AP) — Ever since the 15 Russians showed up to help build a railway line in Chile, the rumors and charges have been flying that they really were soldiers in disguise.

"Nonsense," says the physician for the group, which arrived 12 days ago.

"We have been accused of being soldiers and not workers," said Dr. Volodia Shinkarenko, 28. "We have heard this on the radio, and it has made us sad."

The Soviet work group is taking part in the construction of a small stretch of railroad in this tiny port 124 miles north of Santiago.

Despite its size, Ventanas is the site of one of Chile's biggest copper refineries and a power plant.

Members of the Russian group said they were selected to come to Chile in a contest between "the best volunteer workers in the Soviet Union in the field of construction."

Their ages range from 23 to 32. They participated in the inauguration this week of a work camp here where they will live with 25 Chilean workers and students who volunteered to work on the railroad.

A radio station that regularly criticizes the leftist government of Marxist President Salvador Allende claimed the Russians are members of the Soviet army. Several opposition newspapers described the brigade members as "very suspicious."

Shinkarenko said he is the only brigade member who has been in Latin America before. He said he went to Peru with 54 other Soviet doctors to help in relief work following the devastating earthquake in May 1970.

Besides the doctor, there are four railway engineers, two engineering students and eight construction workers in the Soviet group, brigade leader Mikhail Manzatuda said.

They and the Chileans will work together to install 3,300 feet of track between the refinery and the railway line to Chile's main seaport, Valparaiso, about 25 miles to the south.

Shinkarenko said the group hopes to finish the railway link within 40 days. The Russians are living in a railroad sleeping car while the Chileans live in wooden cabins.

Some Foods May Rise 15 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices for certain food items could rise by as much as 15 per cent under the soon-to-be-announced administration Phase 4 anti-inflation program, a spokesman for the nation's food chain stores says.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are among items for which prices are expected to rise sharply, Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of Food Chains, told a House subcommittee Thursday.

Adamy's projections are partly backed up by the chairman of the Cost of Living Council, who says that price increases are inevitable even if businesses absorb some of their increased costs.

Much of the Phase 4 program already has been prepared and probably would be announced next week, Treasury Department sources say.

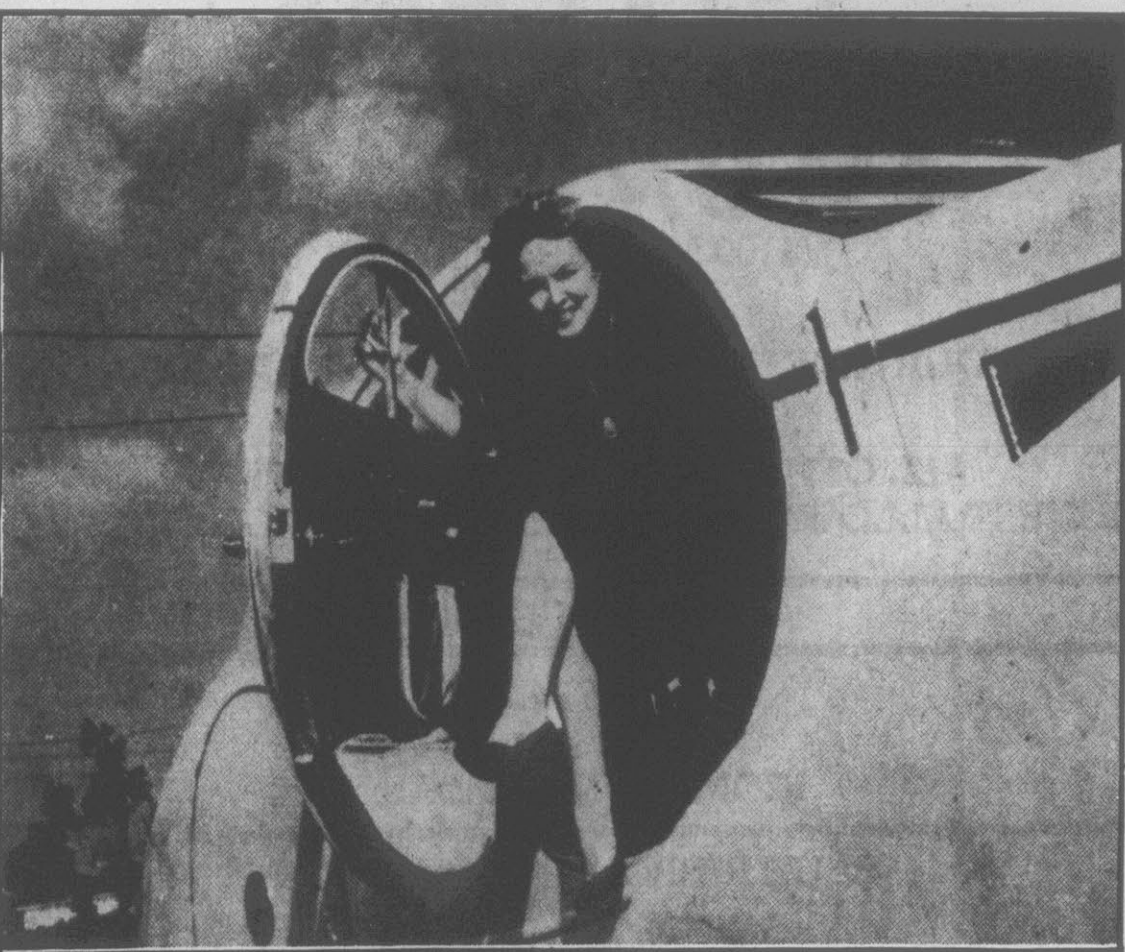

Dunlop said a preliminary analysis of eight nonfood industrial sectors showed that company costs increased by 5.4 per cent during Phase 2 and 3, but that prices went up during the first four months of 1973 by an average 1.2 per cent.

Industries analyzed were steel, paper, glass containers, rubber, cotton textiles, autos, dairy products and processed fruits and vegetables, Dunlop said.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets Wednesday reported prices stronger on large and mediums and weaker on smalls. Supplies were barely adequate on large, adequate on smalls, demand was good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites: 65.35; medium whites: 60.75; small whites: 46.55.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are 50 to 75 cents higher today. 40.50-41.00 Rocky Mount; 40.00-40.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 39.00-40.00 Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; 42.00 Mt. Olive; 40.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady at current price levels. Supplies barely adequate, demand good and weights desirable. F.O.B. dock weighted average price for less than truck lot sales of sized plant grade A broilers to be picked up at docks next week is 47.96 cent per pound.

North Carolina hens: Prices steady on heavy types with a firm undertone. Supplies of heavies fully adequate and demand good. Light type too few to release prices. Heavies, at farm, 14 cents: f.o.b. plants 18.

NEW YORK (AP)—Reacting to President Nixon's hospitalization and general economic uncertainties, the stock market was down today, continuing a slide begun Thursday after a strong three-day rally.

At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.09 at 895.85. The blue-chip indicator had closed down more than 6 points Thursday.

Declining stocks had a 646-to-395 lead over gainers on the Big Board in slow volume.

President Nixon was hospitalized for viral pneumonia and should be out of action for about a week, the White House said. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said he did not know how that would affect the timing of the announcement of Phase 4.

Ford was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4% at 54 1/2, followed by American Telephone, unchanged at 51 1/2; Magnavox, down 1/4% at 10 1/2; and Eastern Air Lines, down 1/4% at 9 1/4.

Teleprompter was the Amex volume leader, down 1 1/2% at 12 1/2.

The Big Board's broad-based index of some 1,500 common stocks was down 0.19 at 55.61.

The Amex price-change index was unchanged at 22.65.

Eligible For Benefits

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser said Thursday workers in nine North Carolina counties hit by tornadoes and flooding May 27-28 may be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits.

Holshouser said workers unemployed now or who were out of work at one time because of the tornadoes and flooding could apply for benefits to the state Employment Security Commission. He said that, under the Federal Disaster Relief Act, benefits ranging from $40 to $60 a week could be paid.

The counties involved are Ashe, Buncombe, Clay, Haywood, Iredell, Jackson, McDowell, Macon and Watauga.

No Plans To Close Morehead

RALEIGH (AP)—A state official said Thursday the Holshouser administration has no plans to close down state-owned port facilities at Morehead City.

Jack Hawke, deputy secretary of transportation, issued a statement saying the department's "plans are for improvement, not abandonment" of the Morehead City plant.

The statement came in the wake of Hawke's disclosure the day before that three shipping executives, who were not identified, had recommended closing of the port.

Hawke also was quoted in news stories Thursday morning as saying he was not sure "anything more should be spent at Morehead until we reverse" reported financial losses.

Application Is Approved

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP)—Applications for federal funds to build sewer facilities for the Brandywine Bay development have been given state approval, Transportation Secretary James Harrington said Thursday.

The residential and resort development is under construction near Morehead City.

Harrington told a Morehead City civic club the applications will be forwarded to federal officials for final approval.

Dedication of the alleyways will provide pedestrian access, it was pointed out, at a minimum width of 12 feet. Trees will be planted and the alleyways will be designed for pedestrian convenience although the access areas will be sufficient to accommodate fire trucks or other emergency vehicles.

The northeast alleyway is the first of four on which easements have been secured.

The recommendation of the Greenville Board of Elections that filing fees for City Council candidates be $25 and $50 for candidates for Mayor was followed and those fees were adopted. In the past, candidates were required to pay a $1 filing fee.

Public hearings on the rezoning of Section I of the Tucker Estates located south of Red Banks Road and opposite Aycock Junior High School from "RA-20" to "R-15" and the C.A. Langley property located east of the Whiard property and north of State Road 1529 from "RA-20" and "Unoffensive Industry" to "Industrial" were held and both rezoning requests were approved.

In addition, applications for the renewal of mobile home permits by Herbert H. Atkinson at 1304 Ward Street and Marvin Lee Cox at 918 Legion Street were approved.

Public hearings were scheduled for Aug. 9 on applications for mobile home permits by the Rev. B.B. Felder for placement of two mobile homes at the corner of Legion and New Dudley Streets; by East Carolina University, School of Allied Health and Social Professions for placement of a mobile home adjacent to the Pitt County Community Health Department and Mental Health Center; and by William L. Johnson for placement of a mobile home on South Memorial Drive across from Wachovia Compute Center for use as a sales office for a car lot.

A public hearing was also set for Aug. 9 on a request by W.J. Simmons for the rezoning of his property located outside the corporate limits of the city on the south side of Mumford Road from "RA-20" to "Highway Commercial." The property, consisting of some 1.5 acres, will be utilized as an ornamental iron works shop. Council members approved a resolution endorsing the proposed Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Project and expressing the city's support of an application to the U.S. Department of Agriculture by the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Council for financial assistance in the development and coordination of plans for long range resource conservation projects.

Ralph Tucker, chairman of the council, and Roy Beck, district conservationist, urged that Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz be requested to authorize priority assistance for the Mid-East projects, some of which Greenville may be participating in.

Council man Clarence Gray was the only member voting against the approval of a statement submitted by City Attorney David Reid in the amount of $1,194.40 for legal services in the case of Sumrell versus Phillips. Councilman John Taylor noted that authorization to pursue the case was given Reid by a previous City Council.

A resolution authorizing the submission of an application to the N.C. Division of Law and Order for a Federal Criminal Justice Grant was approved. The requested grant, in the amount of $22,140, will provide for the continuation of financial assistance for manpower purposes to the Police Department. The department is eligible for a certain amount each year, it was pointed out.

dent had known—or that Mr. Dean believed he had known—of any involvement of White House personnel in the bugging or the cover-up . . ." Moore said.

He said, "It is my deep conviction—as one who has known the President over the years and has had many private conversations with him—that the critical facts about the Watergate did not reach the President until the events that began when John Dean met with him on March 21, 1973."

On those two points, Moore indicated he was sure of his facts and confident in his conclusions. But under rapid-fire questioning by assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner the presidential aide repeatedly said he was unable to recall dates, the contents of specific meetings or the people with whom he met.

Moore did agree with Dean's testimony, however, that Dean told him elements of the cover-up in March and that he counseled Dean to tell Nixon.

Mitchell, who faced some of his toughest questioning in the closing hour of his lengthy interrogation, defended himself against suggestions he couldn't be believed under oath. He said the senators will have to decide whether to believe him or those who contradict him.

Moore testified, "I have absolutely no recollection of any such conversation, and I am convinced it never took place."

Moore was designated to suggest that Mitchell raise the necessary funds, a request he carried to Mitchell in New York and which Mitchell rejected. But Moore denied that he was told the money was to be for the original Watergate defendants, as Dean has testified.

Dean also said, "The meeting concluded on this item, and Moore and I departed together. I told him as we walked back to our rooms that I was very much distressed that this had come up in his presence, but that he now had a very real idea of the dimensions of the situation. I told him that I did not think that he should get involved in carrying such a message to Mitchell."

Moore testified, "I have absolutely no recollection of any such conversation, and I am convinced it never took place."

Dean swore that it was his "conviction" that the President knew of the cover-up because parts of it were discussed in Nixon's presence by Dean and other White House aides. Moore recounted a series of four meetings he and Dean had with the President in March before Dean's March 21 meeting at which Dean said he told the President all he knew of White House involvement in the cover-up.

"Nothing said in my meetings or conversations with Mr. Dean or my meetings with the President suggests in any way that before March 21 the President had known—or that Mr. Dean believed he had known—of any involvement of White House personnel in the bugging or the cover-up . . ." Moore said.

Elkins, Narron Carry Bucs To 11-6 Win

Home run blasts by Jack Elkins and John Narron enabled the East Carolina Pirates to overcome a 6-0, fifth inning deficit and go on to beat the Seahawks of UNC-Wilmington, 11-6.

Elkins' home run came as the climax of a six-run fifth when the Pirates rallied to tie the game at 6-6. Narron's came an inning later with two out. Both homers crossed the fence in almost the same place but on opposite sides of the field.

The Seahawks had taken a 3-0 lead in the first and while ECU was struggling to move men around, they added three more in the fifth. But Wilmington had not counted on the uprising in the bottom of the fifth and neither had they expected to see the Bucs get four runs in the eighth to put the game out of reach.

Steve Herring started for the Pirates but was relieved in the second after one out by Joe Heavner who eventually won the game. Heavner struck out three, walked three and gave up four hits. Paul Fulton began the game for Wilmington but was pulled in the fifth. T.I. Watkins came on and the first man he saw was Elkins who greeted him with the home run tying the game. Watkins went until the eighth and he came out for Carroll Bickers. Bickers, however, faced only two men and Watkins went back on the mound. He finished the game for Wilmington.

With one out in the top of the first, Seahawk Bob Ivey reached on an error and Bobby Schupp walked. Both moved up on a passed ball. Greg Dalton singled to drive in Ivey and a hit by Swain Smith scored Schupp. After a strike out by Mike Brannon, Bill Warmack smashed a ground rule double scoring Dalton.

ECU put a man on as Carl Summerell singled and went to second on a wild pitch. Bobby Harrison walked but both were left stranded.

Wilmington threatened to score again in the second. Fulton walked as did Ivey but Heavner came on to retire the next two men without a score.

East Carolina had two men in scoring position in the bottom of the frame. Rick McMahon singled to left and Russ Smith walked. Both were sacrificed up but that was as far as they could get.

Wilmington went down in order in the sixth. ECU was almost to go down in the sixth the same way but Narron laced one out over the right field fence to put the Pirates in front, 7-6. Heavner shut out the Seahawks the rest of the game.

The Bucs put it away with four in the eighth. Summerell started it off again this time with a walk. Harrison singled him to second and Eason sacrificed. Narron drew a walk to load the bases and McMahon bombed a double to bring in Summerell and Harrison. Greg Fulghum singled scoring Narron and a hit by Elkins brought in McMahon.

Swain Smith led the Wilmington hitting with three singles. For the Pirates, McMahon had three in three trips, Summerell had two Harrison had a pair and Elkins had two.

The Pirates are at home again tonight to host the Camels of Campbell College.

Sr. Ruth Stars Lose Close Game

HAVERLOCK — Greenville's Senior Babe Ruth All-Stars were upended last night as Kinston-New Bern squeaked past them, 11-10.

At one point the locals were down 10-0 but Greenville struggled back to within one but could not pull it out.

K-N got one in the first. Heatherly walked and stole second. Warmack walked and an error on a grounder by Wiggins scored Heatherly.

Two more came across in the second. Parish led off getting on by an error and scored on a triple by Heatherly. Baker singled to drive in Heatherly.

K-N opened it up with seven in the third to get a 10-0 lead. Wiggins reached when his third strike out by the catcher. Head reached on an error and a hit by Jones scored Wiggins. Novick reached on an error scoring Head. Reese doubled to score Jones and Novick while a single by Parish scored Reese.

Heatherly walked and both runners moved around on an error and an out. An error on Warmack's fly let Parish and Heatherly score.

Greenville finally got on the boards with three in the third. David Clifton doubled and Cleve Averette was hit by a pitch. Barry Johnson singled to score Clifton and a double by Jeff Cobb drove in Averette and Johnson.

Novick doubled in the K-N fourth and scored when Parish's grounder was errored.

Greenville narrowed the gap to 11-8 with five in the fifth. Johnson reached on a fielder's choice and Cobb walked. A walk to Bobby Bryant loaded the bases and Tony Oakley was hit by a pitch forcing in Johnson. Rick Harrell doubled to drive in Cobb and Nelson and an error on a hit by Herb Wilkerson scored Oakley and Harrell.

Greenville added two more in the sixth but could not get enough to tie it. Fred Lemmond doubled and scored on an error to Mike Wallace. Wallace moved to third on an error and scored on an out.

Harrell doubled in the seventh but could not score.

Greenville drops into the losers bracket to face the winner of the Havelock-Coastal Plains game. The winner of that game will meet K-N for the championship.

Wilmington put men on in the fourth and fifth innings on a hit and a walk respectively but failed to bring him around. Then in the fifth they came up with three to run their lead out to 6-0.

Smith rapped a one-out single to left and scored on a double by Rannon. Bill Warmack walked and second double of the inning, by Bill Stenger drove in both Brannon and Warmack.

But East Carolina had other ideas and they finally broke the ice in the fifth. And break it they did. Summerell led off with a hit and Harrison got a single to move him to second. Troy Eason walked loading the bases with none out. Narron flew out to right bringing Summerell in with the first Pirate run and a hit by McMahon scored Harrison.

Smith slashed a long triple to right and Eason and McMahon both scored to close the gap to 6-4. Watkins came in and Elkins told him what he thought of the switch by rocking the fence with his first homer scoring Smith and tying the game.

Robinson On The Field Is Not The Same At The Plate

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooks Robinson may be one of the steadiest glove men in baseball, but he's driving Earl Weaver nuts with his roller-coaster act at the plate.

"Every time I want to bench Brooks, I don't," the feisty manager of the Baltimore Orioles said Thursday night. "I put him in the lineup and look what happens."

What happened was that Robinson, who's been having his woes at bat this season, smacked a pair of run-scoring singles, the second one a tiebreaker in the eighth inning to lift the Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In the rest of the American League, Boston beat Texas 5-2, the New York Yankees clouted

Kansas City 10-3, Detroit edged California 7-6, Oakland swatted Milwaukee 8-4 and, in a twilight doubleheader, Minnesota beat Cleveland 8-4 before the Indians came back to gain a split with a 7-4 victory in the second game.

Red Sox 5, Rangers 2

Boston's Luis Aparicio became the eighth player in the history of the game to bat 10,000 times. And his 10,000th was a single that helped build a run against Ranger bonus baby David Clyde. The big run, though, was Tommy Harper's tie-breaking homer in the fifth.

Yankees 10, Royals 3

"Surprise, surprise!" Johnny Callison laughed after hitting his first home run of season to help the Yanks whip Kansas City. It was, indeed, a surprise — mainly that it hasn't come a lot sooner. Callison has averaged 15 homers in his 15 big league years, so this one was a long time coming. "I think it was due," he said. "I almost stopped and asked for the ball."

Tigers 7, Angels 6

Dick Sharon and Duke Sims

drew ninth-inning walks and gave Dick McAuliffe a chance to bat with two out in the bottom of the ninth for Detroit. He came through with a tie-breaking single to dump California.

A's 8, Brewers 4

Ray Fosse's ninth-inning homer triggered a four-run Oakland rally that sent the Brewers down to defeat. After the shot, the A's loaded the bases and Reggie Jackson beat out an infield single for a run before Deron Johnson hit a single for two more.

Twins 8, Indians 4, 7

Jim Holt's tie-breaking single in the sixth carried Minnesota to a victory in their first game with Cleveland.

The Twins had a 4-2 ninth inning lead in the second game. But in the ninth, Rusty Torres walked, John Brohamer, John Lowenstein and Oscar Gamble singled for two runs, Lowenstein scored on a Ken Sanders wild pitch, then Dave Goltz took the mound for Minnesota and was nailed for George Hendrick's second two-run homer of the nightcap that carried the Indians to their split.

Win Moves All-Stars Up

LITTLEFIELD—Greenville 13-year old All-Stars won their second tournament game last night as they edged Seymour Johnson, 5-2.

The win moves the team up in the playoffs and they will take on the winner of the Onslow County-Seymour Johnson game for the championship. Greenville has to win only one more game to clinch it.

Greenville got enough to win it in the first. Doug Selby led off with a walk and Richard Nunn also got a walk. Jeff Aldridge singled to left to score Selby and put Nunn on third. On the throw in, Aldridge went to second. Nunn scored on a passed ball and a squeeze bunt by Greg Lee scored Aldridge.

SJ came back with two in the bottom of the inning. Harrison and Spence both walked. Matthews singled loading the bases and a walk by Johnson forced in Harrison. A ground out by Martowick scored Spence. Greenville added one in the second. John Coffman led off with a double but was cut down trying to steal third. Frazier Sanders reached on a missed third strike and went to second on a passed ball. He stole third and came home on an errored pick-off play.

Greenville got its final score in the fourth. Coffman walked and went to third on a misplayed pickoff. John Cleetwood sacrificed to score Coffman.

Aldridge had two hits for Greenville. Matthews had a pair for SJ.

Immanuel Takes National Title

Immanuel made up for its upset loss to Black Jack last Tuesday night with an 18-0 win over Maranatha to clinch the National Division regular season championship.

Grace made up for its Tuesday night loss with a 16-14 defeat of Black Jack. In the other game, Salvation Army beat Arlington Street by 19-11.

Black Jack broke loose for eight runs in the first while Grace could only manage to get one. Grace rallied for 11 in the third to move in from by two, 12-7. Black Jack got two in the fifth but Grace got five in the fifth. Black Jack managed to pull into a tie as they pushed over seven in the seventh but O. Holloman reached on an error and scored on singles by Pleasant and Thomas to win it for Grace.

Salvation Army got five in the first but Arlington St. cut the lead with three runs. Salvation Army continued to pull away with two in the second and five in the third. Arlington St. got a run in the third but saw Salvation Army ice the game with a seven-run burst in the fourth. Arlington St. got seven also in the fourth.

L. Vanderhaden singled with two out in the Immanuel first and scored on a hit by Jim Grimsley and an error on a hit by S. Carraway. That proved to be all Immanuel needed to win their title. They added one in the second, eight in the third, three in the fifth and five in the sixth.

Thermostat.....

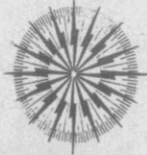

A thermostat is a heat-sensing device which automatically tells equipment to stop or go. As soon as the temperature reaches the point where you have set the thermostat, it turns the equipment on or off. On electric ranges, air conditioners, home heating equipment, irons and dozens of other pieces of equipment, thermostats automatically provide the convenience of accurate temperature.

● But many people use thermostats as switches, setting them too high, then manually setting them too low. This wastes energy and runs up your utility bill. To save money, set your thermostat and let it do the rest.

● For additional savings, try setting your heating a couple of degrees lower than you do now at night; in summer, set your electric air conditioner a few degrees higher. Some people actually try to keep their homes above 80 degrees in winter and below 65 degrees in summer. This is not only expensive, but actually uncomfortable and unhealthy.

● A faulty thermostat can cause heating problems and increase your costs. If you believe your thermostat is not working properly, have it checked or replaced to prevent wasting electricity and raising costs.

● Use your thermostats wisely... for electrical comfort, convenience and economy.

Plane Was Not In Condition

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The plane that carried baseball star Roberto Clemente to his death New Year's Eve was overloaded, had two bad engines and had not been flown in four months, the National Transportation Safety Board said today.

The flight engineer was unqualified for his position and the copilot had a total of six hours in the type of plane being flown, the board added. Clemente, an All-Star outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates, and four others died when the four-engine DC7 crashed shortly after takeoff from Puerto Rico on a mercy flight to Managua, Nicaragua. The plane, owned by a Puerto Rico charter operator, was loaded with relief supplies for survivors of the Managua earthquake.

Clemente, a native of Puerto Rico, had agreed to head up the relief effort after he got word of the Dec. 23 disaster. His organization had collected $150,000 in cash and tons of food, clothing and medicine.

The safety board said its investigation of the accident showed:

—The four-engine propeller driven plane was 4,200 pounds overweight when it took off.

—There was extensive internal failure in the inboard left engine during the takeoff. The board said the failure was traced to previous engine damage caused during a ground accident.

—The inboard right engine was so badly worn that it could not develop full power.

—The aircraft had not been flown in approximately four months.

—And the flight engineer was a mechanic unqualified for his position in the crew. The copilot had six hours of DC7 flight time.

The first attempt of the airplane to take off was aborted, the board said, and the plane was returned to its ramp for work on both right engines.

It said the plane attempted a second takeoff three hours later. The plane took 8,000 feet to get off the ground and gained altitude slowly before turning left to head back toward the airport.

It continued to lose altitude during the turn and crashed into the ocean, about 1½ miles from San Juan's luxury hotels.

The board said an eyewitness told Clemente the plane was improperly loaded and unsafe but that Clemente replied he didn't know anything about this.

It said this report "further sharpens the poignancy of this tragedy and underscores a basic aviation safety issue involved.

"Mr. Clemente presumed the flight was being conducted safely. This was understandable. But faith in a safe operation is not enough."

Weiskopf Still At Front Of British Open Pack

By NOEL HUGHES
Associated Press Sports Writer
TROON, England (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, known for his outbursts of anger, says he has "a better feel, a better imagination, more determination and sharper concentration" to help him through the final two rounds of the British Open golf championship.

No wonder. He has won three of his last six starts and has a three-stroke lead going into today's third round on the heather-clad 7,064-yard Troon layout. He played calmly Wednesday and dazzled the huge gallery lining the links alongside Scotland's Western seashore with a 67 for a 36-hole total of 135—nine under par.

U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller and Bert Yancey shared second place with 138s and Jack Nicklaus was one stroke further back.

Yancey shot his second straight 69 when he ran in a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole—after it hung on the rim and kept him on edge for a few anxious moments.

Miller, who had an opening round 70, improved to a 68 before a light drizzle dampened the course while Nicklaus bounced home with a 70 on five birdies and three bo-neys to put with his opening round of 69.

"I feel better now," Weiskopf said after he toured the course without taking a bogey and shaving five off par with birdies. "I've got a pretty wing and I'm just going out there to play."

"Temperamental reactions have beaten me many times," Weiskopf said after his stunning round. "But I'm a competitor and when things go wrong it hurts. It's the easiest thing in the world to be a loser. Only when you win is it worth all the hours of effort and frustration which turn you inside out."

And although he has won three of his last six starts and $171,027 for the season to rank No. 3 on the U.S. touring pro-money list, Weiskopf won't think of himself as a real winner until he's taken one of the Big Four—one of them being the British Open.

"I won't consider myself a great player until I have won one of the great tournaments," the lanky 30-year-old from Columbus said. "That's what the game is all about. You have got to have desire and guts because talent alone doesn't mean everything."

Defending champion Lee Trevino has conceded he bombed out in his bid to become the first American to take the title three years in a row.

"You've got to remember I don't walk on water," Trevino said with an impish grin after he finished the second round with a 73—148.

Toy Cannon Blasts Phillies

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Toy Cannon, little more than a pop-gun for most of the season, showed some of his old firepower Thursday night. Jimmy Wynn hit two homers, including a tie-breaking blast in the ninth inning, to lift the Houston Astros to a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phils.

"The way I've been struggling, it is nice to know I contributed something," said the 31-year-old outfielder, a veteran of 11 seasons with the Houston Astros.

Wynn, nicknamed the Toy Cannon because he is exceptionally strong for a man who stands 5-foot-10 and weighs just 160 pounds, homered in the first, then broke a 6-6 tie with his 18th homer of the season with one out in the ninth off Barry Lersch, 2-4.

In the only other National League game, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the San Diego Padres 4-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, also by a 4-0 score.

Wynn's second homer climaxed a seesaw affair which saw both teams stage eighth-inning rallies.

With Philadelphia ahead 4-2, Houston scored four times in the top of the eighth. Lee May had a two-run double and Skip Jutze a tie-breaking two-run single in the rally. Wynn had an infield single in the inning.

The Phils came back for a pair of runs in the bottom of the eighth, a bases-loaded single by Bill Robinson tying the score.

But Wynn untied it with his blast over the left field fence in the ninth.

Pirates 4, Padres 0
Luke Walker, a spot starter, hurled his first shutout of the season, stopping the Padres on five hits in Pittsburgh's 4-0 victory. He struck out five and did not walk a batter.

The Pirates' Willie Stargell crashed a three-run homer in the fourth inning, raising his season total to a major-league leading 26. Bobby Bonds of San Francisco and Darrell Evans of Atlanta each have 25.

Bob Robertson added a solo homer in the seventh for the Pirates' other run.

Dodgers 4, Cards 0
The Dodgers' Andy Messersmith, acquired from California in a major off-season trade, pitched a seven-hitter in Los Angeles' 4-0 triumph over St. Louis, striking out seven and not allowing any walks.

It was Messersmith's second National League shutout, after 11 in the American League, and raised his season record to 8-6.

Bill Buckner hit his fourth homer of the season and drove in two more runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth. The Dodgers' other run came in the first.

Oakmont Needs One

Oakmont beat Presbyterian, 16-10, to cut their magic number down to one. If they win next Tuesday night, they will clinch the American Division title.

In other games, St. James took a forfeit win over St. Gabriel's while Trinity dumped Memorial Baptist, 17-12.

Oakmont went to work in the first with two runs. They added seven in the second and added five in the third to win it. Presbyterian got seven in the third cutting the lead to 10-7 but Oakmont got two in the fourth. A three-run rally ended up just short in the Presbyterian fifth giving Oakmont the win.

Memorial broke into the lead in the first with four runs but Trinity tied it up in the bottom of the inning. Trinity pushed over two in the third to take the lead.

Trinity added two in the fourth, five in the fifth and four in the sixth in winning it. Memorial scored again in the fifth and got six in the sixth.

A DESIGNATED RUNNER ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Twice on the June road trip of the New York Yankees, reserve outfielder Ron Swoboda ran for Jim Hart. Since Hart has been the "designated hitter" for the Yankees, Swoboda now is being called their "designated runner." of course, it's only a gag. But Swoboda is happy to be playing with the Yankees, especially since the June 15 trading deadline passed.

Country Music Set

The Greenville Police Department is sponsoring a country music show — The Country Spotlight — August 3 at the Greenville Moose Lodge, with proceeds from the production being used to finance construction of a new police club house and pistol range.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon the shows, one at 7 p.m. and the other at 10 p.m., will feature Freddie Hart and the Heartbeats, as well as Billy "Crash" Craddock and Kathy Lynn.

Tickets for each performance are $5 for reserved seats and $4 for general admission. Discounts are available through purchase of $35, $50 and $100 ticket books, the chief noted.

He explained that $35 books contain 10 tickets while $50 books contain 15 tickets. The $100 books have 30 tickets.

Ralph Lee and a team of workers from the show's producers are currently working out of the police club house asking merchants to purchase books of tickets, Cannon explained.

Tickets are also available at the Police Department from any officer.

Cannon emphasized that no pressure is to be applied in selling tickets to the country music performance and urged anyone feeling they have been pressured to contact him at the Police Department.

Committee Member Baker Did Not Violate Laws With Secret Funds

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, raised $185,000 from undisclosed sources last year to finance part of his re-election campaign.

In doing so, the Tennessee Republican violated no laws since full disclosure was not required until April 7, 1972.

Baker is the only member of the investigating committee, appointed earlier this year, who was up for re-election in 1972.

The disclosure timetable also enabled the Committee to Reelect the President, whose fundraising practices now are under investigation by the Watergate committee, to raise campaign funds from anonymous donors.

Through a spokesman, Baker said the matter would not pose any difficulty or potential conflict for him during the investigation.

The aide, J. Hugh Branson, and "on our part there was total compliance" with the law.

Branson said Baker would be willing within a day or two to make the names of contributors to a Washington, D.C., fundraising committee available. It was not clear how much of the $185,000 was raised by that committee.

Reports on file with the Secretary of the Senate show Baker raised $185,000 before April 7 when the new federal elections law went into effect. It requires full disclosure of all contributions and expenditures over $100 made after that date by a candidate for federal office or by a political committee.

The $185,000 was about one-fifth of the total $1.1 million Baker eventually reported spending in his successful primary and general election campaigns. He won a second, six-year term.

Because Baker was the only member of the seven-man Watergate committee up for re-election last year, he was the only one required to file a public campaign accounting under the new law.

A portion of the $185,000 was raised by a Washington-based committee called D.C. Friends of Howard Baker, which sponsored a fund-raising affair sometime in January or February, 1972.

None of Baker's public reports mentioned the committee, which went out of business prior to April 7. Its existence was uncovered in the reports of various trade and business political committees that reported making pre-April contributions to the Baker committee along with contributions to other senators and congressmen.

Dollar Inches Higher In Slight Trading

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar opened slightly higher on European money markets today with the help of support buying by the central banks. But trading was described as hesitant.

The dollar closed slightly higher in Tokyo—at 265 yen, up from 264.935 at the close Thursday—after the Bank of Japan bought about $10 million.

The West German Bundesbank also was supporting the dollar, helping it to rally in opening bids to 2.3925 marks, up from 2.3880 at Thursday's close.

The dollar also improved at the opening of the Zurich market. It was quoted at 2.87125 Swiss francs after closing at 2.8550.

The dollar was also up in early trading in London, with the pound selling for $2.54175, a slight rise from $2.5441 at the close Thursday.

To Hold Meeting

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Democrats will meet in Atlantic Beach July 20-21 for their second annual "Downeaster Party."

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., will be the principal speaker at a dinner meeting July 21.

Other speakers include Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor and Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, last year's unsuccessful candidate for governor.

In Paris, however, the dollar eased both in interbank commercial trading and on the free market. It opened at 4.125 francs, down from 4.14 francs Thursday.

Gold dropped slightly in both London and Zurich, opening at $120.25 an ounce after closing at $120.75 Thursday.

The 'Worry Clinic' Teacher Study Can Be Help

Miss Harrah shows the value of studying your professor as much as your textbook! Scrapbook this case and take it to college with you! For it isn't superior I.Q. but better study habits that usually win you an "A" vs. a "C" while on campus!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE X-559: Miss Harrah taught Latin at F. Wayne (Indiana) Central High School for two generations.

She was a dedicated YWCA worker, too, for that's how my mother first met her when they were students at Indiana State University at Terre Haute.

My brother John and I both took 4 years of Latin, so my mother made sure we enrolled in Miss Harrah's courses.

John is a Harvard economist who later taught at Northwestern University and then headed the Social Sciences Division at Iowa Wesleyan.

"Miss Harrah never like to see students whispering in her class," John reminisced at a recent family gathering.

"So I used that fact to get an 'A' in all her Latin courses.

"For I often was unprepared over the entire Latin lesson but knew one or two paragraphs perfectly.

"Just as we got down to the paragraphs I could translate with ease, I'd lean over and start whispering to a girl in the next seat.

"Immediately Miss Harrah would stop me and call out: 'John Crane, you may translate the next section.'

"Well, that's exactly what I wanted, so I'd rattle off the English translation of the Latin without a flaw.

"And that little trick worked all through my Latin classes with Miss Harrah, so I always rated an 'A' in her courses."

How Make 'A' Often high school graduates will ask me how to make top grades when they go on to college.

"Dr. Crane," they will inquire, "we understand that the competition is much keener at college, so how can we be sure to win good marks?"

Here are some of the practical suggestions to follow:

(1) Study the professor as intently as your textbook!

If he has written any scientific articles for technical journals, read them so you can quote back at him some of his own ideas.

And after the first written exam, notice if he sticks to basic fundamentals or asks piddling questions about details.

(2) Find out in advance the name of your class textbook and get a copy before the first class session!

Then see who is its author. Read the preface and skim through the entire book quickly, thumbing the pages to get a general idea of its scope, plus illustrations, charts and tables of date.

This gives you a better perspective.

The "A" students obtain this running head start, whereas those who will get a "D", wait for a week to buy their text and thus remain far behind the rest of the semester.

(3) Since competition is much keener in college, for those of lower I.Q. have dropped out previously, you are in brilliant

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1973

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when arguments could result unless a special effort is made to use soft answers that turn away wrath. A considerable amount of preparation could keep out potential trouble. Be alert to uncertain activities of the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid a temptation to undermine a higher-up or you could lose the support of this person which means so much to you. A civic matter should be handled on a better day. Sidestep arguments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It is wise to stick to interests that you know about because new ones could cause some confusion. Obtain the data at libraries and other reliable sources. Be well prepared for the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have not kept promises made to others because you've been too busy at work, so be sure to attend to such now. Don't let a romantic interlude interfere with important duties.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) This is not a good day to persuade a procrastinating associate to do as you wish, so wait for a better time. A mistake you have made in the past can now be erased. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have much work to do, which is fine, for you will be safe from mischief that could lead to trouble. Take health treatments. Get together with one who can put new zip into your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Having fun today is fine as long as you don't persuade others to do anything against their will. Put more time into a special project that appeals to you. Show you are a good sport.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on whatever is pleasant at home instead of the opposite or there could be trouble ensuing. Forget a touchy topic of conversation. Evening is fine for entertaining at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to argue with others

Many contracts appear, on the surface, to be routine, and it is easy for declarer to be lulled into a false sense of security. The hallmark of a successful declarer is to be able to visualize distributions that might endanger your contract and to take the necessary precautionary measures.

For purposes of opening the bidding, North's hand was worth 20 points. However, when South responded one spade the playing potential of North's hand improved immeasurably because of his excellent fit and strong distribution—the hand could make slam even if South had nothing but five spades headed by the king. North scorned subtleties and launched into Blackwood, settling in a small slam when his partner denied holding an ace.

West led a diamond. Dummy's ace was played, eliminating one entry to the table. At first glance it seems that declarer can draw two rounds of trumps and then set about establishing the heart suit for a diamond discard.

This line of play would succeed if the hearts were divided 3-2. However, our declarer was a frugal man, and he considered the possibility of hearts splitting 4-1. In that event, he would exhaust all of his diamond trumps to enter dummy and establish the heart suit, and would have to lose a diamond and a club at the end.

To cater for this, declarer cashed only the king of trumps before playing the ace-king of hearts. His fine technique was rewarded when West showed out on the second heart but could not ruff.

A heart ruff was followed by a spade to the queen, drawing the outstanding trump. Another heart was ruffed to establish two long hearts on the table, and dummy was reentered with a trump. Declarer's diamond loser was discarded on a heart, and the slam was made. The defenders scored only a club trick.

What if West had ruffed the second heart? Declarer would have gone down two tricks instead of one, but there would have been no way to make the hand. And isn't one undertrick a small premium to pay for the possibility of landing a vulnerable slam and rubber bonus?

Sentenced For Fraud

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Glenn L. Greene Jr., Miami, Fla., lawyer, was sentenced to three years imprisonment Wednesday after the pleaded guilty to fraudulently selling $273,000 worth of Kentucky Fried Chicken stock.

U.S. District Judge Woodrow Jones also gave him a five-year suspended sentence and five years probation on a second indictment. Greene was ordered to pay one-fourth of his gross income as restitution to investors in the Monroe, Forest City and Greensboro areas of North Carolina during his probation.

Convictions Jealousy Are Upheld Was Cause

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Court of Appeals has upheld the convictions of two young Hillsborough blacks in the fatal stabbing of an Orange County High School student last year.

Alphonso Clark and Archie Parker were convicted in Orange Superior Court of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years in prison in the slaying of Donnie Riddle, 18.

In another case, the appeals court cleared the way for revival of a two-year-old suit by a former American Party chairman to block implementation of statewide constitutional amendments adopted in 1970.

The decision came in a case in which Superior Court Judge Walter Candy had dismissed a suit by Walter G. Green against Secretary of State Thad Eure.

Canady noted that Green had not taken any action since the suit was filed shortly after the voters approved the six constitutional amendments in November, 1970.

Burgess Is KidneyVeep

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — William Burgess, director of the Gates and Hertford counties health services, has been named vice president of the North Carolina Kidney Foundation.

He was chosen at the quarterly meeting Wednesday to succeed E. Lawrence David III of Winston-Salem, who resigned.

Charles D. Lee of Durham, former secretary of the board of trustees, was elected executive secretary of the foundation.

Elected to the board of trustees were Mrs. John Edwards of Old Town, William Gainey of Raleigh, Dr. Dennis Crews of Asheville, David Rice of Sylva and Hunter Warlick of Hickory.

Mrs. Joann Brickwell of Charlotte, foundation president, was elected to the National Kidney Foundation's board of trustees.

Miniforest Is Planned

CLAYTON, N.C. (AP) — Plans for a $646,000 network of five miniforests across the street to tell the story of forests to North Carolinians were unveiled today with the breaking of ground near Clayton for the first of the forests.

"It is fitting that the first of the five parks is near Raleigh because we are especially interested in making the urban dweller more familiar with forests and forest management," Natural and Economics Resources Secretary James E. Harrington said during the conference.

"Richard ... had a murderous jealousy, and because of this we several times hit each other," she told the magazine.

By the same token, Burton's involvement with other women made her "come apart inside," the magazine quotes her as saying.

She said her husband had been involved with "several women" since their marriage in 1964.

She said her lawyers are preparing for a divorce, but she and the 47-year-old Welsh actor have given themselves three months to save their marriage.

If she is divorced from Burton, her fifth husband, "I can swear to you that I shall never again marry," the magazine quoted her as saying.

Miss Taylor was not immediately available for comment on the article. She reportedly was staying in the Los Angeles area.

The American elm tree is known botanically as Ulmus Americana.

Denies Saying Operation Temporary

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A doctor who performed a sterilization operation on a black woman suing for $1 million denies her mother was told the operation would be temporary.

Dr. A. M. Stanton of Plymouth, N.C., said he operated on Nial Ruth Cox on orders of the state. When told that her mother, Devora Cox, reportedly said she had consented because she feared she would otherwise be removed from the welfare rolls, Dr. Stanton said, "We tell them the truth, we don't hold anything back."

The American Civil Liberties Union filed the suit Thursday in U.S. District Court in New Bern in behalf of Miss Cox, now a 26-year-old nurse's aide at Hempstead General Hospital on Long Island, N.Y. It said she was sterilized in North Carolina when she was 18 and did not understand the nature of the operation.

The suit challenges the North Carolina law providing for ster-

Hearing On Fuel

RALEIGH (AP)—A hearing was scheduled in Raleigh today to collect information about the fuel shortage in North Carolina for use by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Helms' staff assistant, George Dunlop, was to conduct the hearing.

lization of mentally defective persons. The court papers say that she never has been mentally defective and that her mother was told the operation would be a temporary tying of her daughter's tubes.

Dr. Stanton said the operation could possibly be reversed, "but most of the time it's done with the idea that the patient won't be able to get pregnant again."

"These people are referred to us by the county welfare department. We have a lot of mentally deficient people who should be sterilized. The people have to pay the welfare for these children."

Park Will Be Built

FRANKLIN, N. C. (AP)—The Sea Pines Co. said Thursday it will construct a "low density, high quality recreational park" on a 6,500-acre tract near Lake Nantahala in Macon and Clay counties.

Dr. Stanton said his office records show that Miss Cox had two illegitimate children before Feb. 10, 1965, when he performed the tubal ligation.

The class action suit was filed in behalf of Miss Cox and other women in the state "similarly situated."

It follows recent disclosures that 11 girls, including black sisters 12 and 14 years old, were sterilized through a federally funded family clinic in Montgomery, Ala.

Miss Cox told a news conference in New York City Wednesday that she grew up as a poor black with eight brothers and sisters in a home that often was without hot or cold running water and had no stove.

The suit names as defendants Dr. Stanton; Mrs. Shelton Owen Holand, formerly the Cox family caseworker; the director of the Department of Social Service of Washington County, of which Plymouth is the county seat, and past and present members of the state Eugenics Board. Also a defendant is Ursula B. Spruill, director of the Washington County Department of Social Services in 1964-1965, who, the action says, petitioned the Eugenics Board for a sterilization operation for Mixx Cox, who at 18 then was considered a minor.

Thousands Sterilized

RALEIGH (A)—The state Eugenics Commission says thousands of men and women have been sterilized by state order as mentally defective in the 40 years since it was created by the legislature. But the commission, which was named a defendant Thursday in a $1 million suit by a black woman formerly from Plymouth, N.C., says the number of such sterilizations has dropped to a handful recently.

Its executive secretary, Mrs. June Stallings, said that so far in 1973 the five-member commission has approved only 13 of 32 sterilization requests. Almost all the requests came from county welfare departments.

The law says the directors of state mental institutions, county welfare officials, and legal parents and guardians may petition for the sterilization of "any mentally diseased, feeble-minded or epileptic" resident of the county or institution.

The petitioners must then act as prosecutors before the commission, which must decide at its monthly meetings whether to grant the petition. Signatures of three commission members are necessary. The petitioner must inform the person and his next of kin of a pending hearing, and must give them an opportunity to appear and offer evidence.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court in New Bern in behalf of Miss Nail Ruth Cox, now 26 and a nurse's aide in Long Island, N.Y., says that when she was 18 years old she was sterilized in Washington County, northeastern North Carolina, without knowing the nature of the operation. She says she never has been mentally defective.

Receives Scholarship

Miss Dee Anna Braxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Braxton of Route 1, Winterville, is the recipient of a University City Kiwanis Club (Greenville) sponsorship to attend the Cannon Music Camp at Appalachian State University in Boone.

Miss Braxton, a violinist, began studies with Donald H. Hayes and recently has studied with Dr. Rodney Schmidt at East Carolina University.

She has played in the ECU Symphony Orchestra for three years and has also performed with the 1972 All-State Workshop Orchestra and the Governor's School Orchestra of 1972.

Miss Braxton will be on campus at Boone beginning Saturday and will be a student there through August 10. She will be among 250 students studying music theory, applied music, and will perform in orchestra, chorus, band and various chamber ensembles.

Oppose Regulation

MANTEO, N. C. (AP)—A proposed state regulation requiring a 200-foot setback for wastewater treatment facilities ran into opposition Thursday at a meeting of state officials and coastal developers.

The proposal, one of 15 being considered by the state, would require the 200-foot setback from any property not owned by the developer. Septic tanks would be excluded.

Al Rollins, representing two Dare County developers, said builders "would not be able to build" if the proposal is adopted.

The proposed regulations will be presented to the Board of Water and Air Resources next Thursday.

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser predicted Thursday that creation of a statewide kindergarten system this fall will go a long way toward reversing the school drop-out trend in North Carolina.

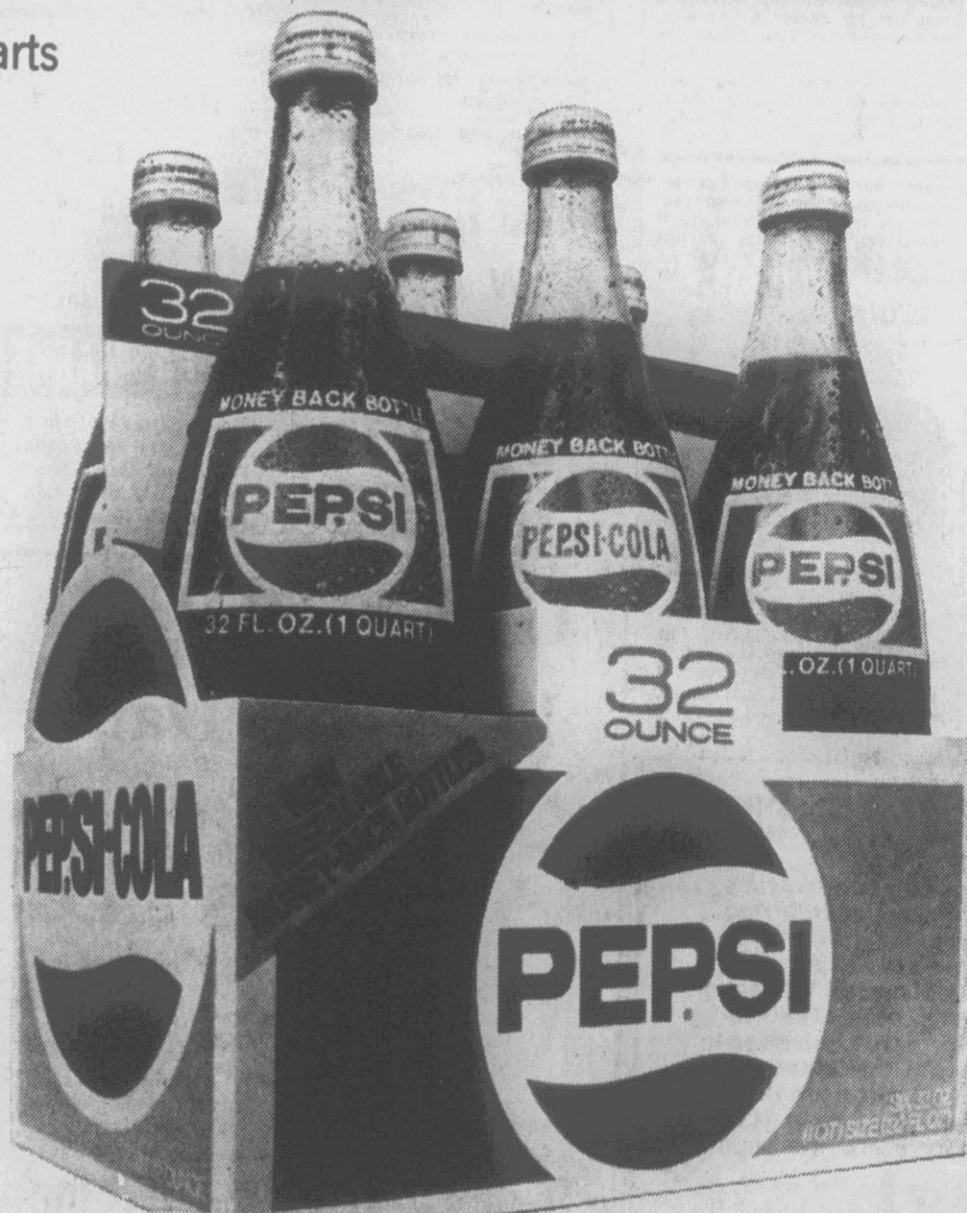

He said the decision to create a statewide system "places us on the threshold of one of the most far-reaching breakthroughs in education."
