Eddie Rickenbacker, 82, Dies At Swiss Hospital

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Capt. Eddy Rickenbacker, America's outstanding fighter ace of World War I and builder of Eastern Airlines, died in Neumuenster Hospital early today, a hospital source said. He was 82.

An Eastern spokesman in Miami said the cause of death was heart failure and that Rickenbacker's wife was at his bedside.

His death ended a career of excitement and danger that prompted him to say in 1970: "I've cheated the old Grim Reaper seven times that I know of."

An Eastern spokesman said funeral services would be held in Columbus, Ohio, his native city, later this week.

Rickenbacker was the epitome of every Walter Mitty's dream.

As early as 1914, he was pushing race cars to 134 miles an hour on the sands at Daytona Beach.

By the time the United States entered World War I, Rickenbacker was earning $40,000 a year as an auto speed demon.

In 1917 he enlisted in the Army and became staff driver for Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Though 27 and two years over the age limit for airmen, the 6-foot-2 Rickenbacker transferred to the fledgling flight service and got his lieutenant's commission after only 12 practice flights in the fragile Spads.

Assigned to the 94th Hat-In-The-Ring Aero Pursuit Squadron, he shot down his first plane with a machine gun April 29, 1918. A month later he shot down his fifth to qualify as an ace.

Soaring without a parachute in primitive planes propelled by engines less sophisticated than those in today's lawnmowers, Rickenbacker eventually blasted down 21 German aircraft and five observation balloons out of the skies over France.

On his way to becoming America's ace of aces, he met propeller to propeller with the flying circus formed by Baron

Manfred von Richthofen, the "Red Baron."

Surrounded by three scarlet-nosed planes of the German "ace of aces," Rickenbacker tried to get away but his pursuers showed "extraordinary adroitness in handling their machines. The heavens seemed quite crowded with the three dancing Fokkers."

"After a time, an opportunity came to try to outrun them, and with the motor full open and the nose straight down, I looked back and saw them fading away in my rear."

The American who learned to fly by the seat of his pants later was to say: "From hero to zero is about the average hero's fate. This hero business shouldn't be taken too seriously."

But a generation later and half a world away, Rickenbacker's cool head in another war gained him the "hero" badge again.

While on a mission for the secretary of war, the B17 in which he was a civilian passenger ran out of fuel on Oct. 21, 1942, and ditched in the South Pacific some 600 miles north of Samoa.

The eight men aboard escaped with their lives and four "scrawny" oranges.

"After the oranges were gone," Rickenbacker recalled, "there showed up a terrific lot of pangs of hunger and we prayed for food. Within an hour after prayer meeting a seagull came in and landed on my head ... we wrung his head and feathers from him and carved up his carcass and distributed and used his innards for bait."

Drinking rain water and eating fish lured by the seagull's guts, seven of the eight survived 24 days on the craft before being rescued.

A year earlier, Rickenbacker was critically injured when an EAL passenger plane crashed in a pine wood near Atlanta, Ga., killing eight.

Although trapped in the twisted wreckage and pinned over the body of a dead passenger, the Eastern president told his fellow survivors: "I'm awfully sorry this had to happen to you men."

Rickenbacker's entry into commercial aviation came through the auto industry. His Rickenbacker Motor Co. designed the first car with four-wheel brakes, but stiff competition forced his auto off the market and his company into oblivion soon after the birth of both. Again he turned to airplanes.

Taking over management of EAL in 1935, he paid General Motors $3.5 million for it three years later and became president and general manager. He was made board chairman in 1953 and retired in 1963.

He built Eastern from 400 employees to a company which today employs over 35,000.

Following his retirement, Rickenbacker and Adelaide Frost Durant Rickenbacker, the woman he married in 1922, divided their time between Miami and New York, where sons David E. and William F. maintain homes.

Rickenbacker's last public appearance came when he led a July 4th parade on Key Biscayne.

Besides his widow and his sons, five grandchildren survive.

A grade school dropout at the age of 12, "Capt. Eddie" also was the recipient of 15 honorary doctorate degrees — and The Medal of Honor.

Presidential Palace Burns

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Explosions continued for hours this morning in the presidential palace in downtown Port Au Prince where a fire touched off a large munitions storage area.

There was no official word on the cause of the fire or the whereabouts of President Jean-Claude Duvalier, who has an apartment in the building, which resembles the White House.

Board Meeting

The Greenville Board of Education will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the continuation of last week's regular board meeting when all of the scheduled agenda items were not taken up.

The session will be held in the board room at the W. Fifth Street administrative offices.

Announce Increases In N.C. Food Prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Retail prices of fresh pork jumped by as much as 30 cents a pound today as North Carolina supermarkets passed on to consumers increases allowed under Phase Four of President Nixon's economic program.

Winn-Dixie, with stores throughout the state, raised the price of its own brand of bacon by 30 cents a pound - to $1.39 - and other fresh pork went up from 20 to 30 cents a pound. Another big chain, A&P, boosted its bacon by 26 cents and other fresh pork by 10 cents or more, depending on its own cost.

Supermarket prices for eggs also jumped from four to 10 cents a dozen, depending on the size and quality and type of store selling them.

A survey of supermarkets early today indicated the price hikes were general, varying only in the amount implemented. Some stores indicated other price jumps would be ordered later in the week.

Bill Temple, manager of an A&P store in Rocky Mount, predicted lettuce would be selling for 68 cents or 69 cents a head by the end of the week. Most stores have been selling lettuce for less than 40 cents a head.

Surprising, there were no indications that milk - long a controversial item for North Carolina consumers - would cost more in the immediate future. All stores contacted indicated the retail price for milk was holding steady.

In Raleigh a Winn-Dixie spokesman said the price increases posted today were mostly on pork and eggs, which Winn-Dixie increased by an average of four to five cents.

An A&P spokesman in Charlotte said the chain was boosting egg prices by 10 cents a dozen.

Smaller chains such as Fowler's, in the Durham area, and Harris Teeter, in the Piedmont and foothills area, posted similar price changes.

Independent supermarkets generally were holding firm on their prices, awaiting new contact with salesmen and distributors.

John Hutchens, of Food World in High Point, said he had not increased prices as of this morning but expected to do so later. He predicted, however, that "prices will subside as the situation moves along."

Kroger manager John Perry, also of High Point, did not hold out such hope for consumers.

"I figure prices will continue to rise. We will keep stocking as long as we can, but I know prices will have to be up," he said.

The High Point Kroger store boosted eggs by about five cents a dozen, bacon went up 20 cents a bound and fresh pork 10 cents a pound.

Bennie Mack, assistant manager of the UDI Supermarket in Durham, said eggs were up already from 7 to 10 cents a dozen and may rise more. The supermarket pushed the prices on four types of bacon by 20 to 26 cents a pound, with a top of $1.49 a pound. Mack said he had also received an alert from his distributor that flour prices would go up soon.

Denials From Former Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former White House aide testified today that H. R. Haldeman instructed him in the spring of 1972 to have G. Gordon Liddy "transfer whatever capability he had" to gathering information about Democratic Sen. George McGovern.

Gordon Strachan, who was a top aide to the former White House chief of staff, told the Senate Watergate committee that he relayed that order to Liddy.

He said the instructions came some time after April 4, when Strachan said he had advised Haldeman in a memo of Liddy's $300,000 plan for gathering campaign intelligence.

Liddy was convicted early this year as a conspirator in the Watergate wiretapping.

Strachan said Haldeman's instructions were to have Liddy switch his attention from Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the early Democratic presidential front-runner, to McGovern, who eventually won the Democratic nomination for the White House.

Strachan also told the committee "it was fairly common knowledge" that the driver for Muskie was in the pay of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President or at least supplying information to the Nixon campaign.

Strachan gave this account of Haldeman's intelligence order: "Haldeman called me up to his office. I carried a clipboard. He told me to contact Liddy and transfer whatever capability he had from Muskie to McGovern and particularly to learn what his relationship was with Sen. Kennedy."

Sen. Edward S. Kennedy, Strachan testified, had for months been a special object of Haldeman's interest in political intelligence.

Strachan, elaborating on a 15-page prepared statement he had read to the committee Friday, said he had informed Haldeman in writing of the reported approval March 30 by John N. Mitchell of the Liddy intelligence plan.

He said Haldeman put "a black check mark" beside the paragraph of the report dealing with this information, indicating it had been read.

Strachan said Haldeman then scheduled a meeting with Mitchell for April 4, and the subject of the intelligence plan was on the agenda.

Strachan said he interpreted the lack of any further direction from Haldeman as indicating the matter had been discussed.

Strachan said that soon after he learned of the break-in, he began going through his files to see if any material related to the event.

He said he met with Haldeman June 20 and "was scared to death. I thought I would be fired at that point for not having figured out" what the intelligence gathering plan meant.

But Haldeman mentioned it almost jokingly, said Strachan, and the "he told me to make sure our files are clean."

Strachan insisted he wasn't told of proposals to use wiretapping against the Democrats, and he testified FBI investigators have substantiated his statement that all campaign documents weren't sent to him automatically.

Strachan kept up his denials of testimony by Jeb Stuart Magruder, the former Nixon campaign deputy who swore he told Strachan about early wiretapping proposals, told him about final plans to bug the Watergate, showed Strachan logs of wiretapped conversations.

Magruder said he automatically sent Strachan all campaign documents, including memoranda concerning the wiretapping plans and early bugging proposals.

Strachan denied it. "Mr. Magruder...relies on the fact that I automatically materials would have come over to me.

Heavy Russian A-Blast

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — While Pacific Basin nations waited for the second explosion in France's current nuclear test series, the Soviet Union apparently set off one of the largest underground blasts in its history.

The Uppsala Seismological Institute said the underground explosion at 2:29:55 a.m. — 9:29:55 p.m. EDT — had a magnitude of 7.1 on the Richter Scale. The director of the institute, Prof. Marcus Baath, said there have been only five explosions in the last 10 years with a Richter magnitude of 7 or more.

The explosion occurred in the Semipalatinsk area of Siberia.

The first device in France's 1973 test series was exploded Saturday while suspended from a balloon 2,000 feet above the Mururoa Atoll. Its force was estimated at 5,500 tons of TNT. There was speculation that it was the atomic bomb to trigger the French hydrogen bomb.

The French government maintained public silence on its test series.

Kill Them Now, Or Free Them

DUBAI (AP) — A coded message originating in West Germany told the hijackers of Japan Air Lines jumbo jet today to kill the passengers immediately or let them go without delay.

The message said: "If you intend to kill the passengers on board jumbo 444 do it at once, otherwise be human enough to release them."

"It sounds ridiculous if you permit those whom you obviously want to kill to receive refreshments and meals."

"Please give up your intentions. There are other means of unbloody possibilities to reach your political aims."

The message was signed off "13569, inhabitants of Federal Republic of Germany."

Palestinian guerrilla organizations frequently send coded messages including long series of numbers on radio broadcasts in the Mideast.

The coded signoff could mean the message was transmitted by accomplices or allies in West Germany.

Four hijackers are holding 139 passengers in 100-degree-plus heat here, and the air pirates announced earlier that they had expected instructions very soon from their headquarters.

Commission Will Limit Self To Charter Topics

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — The refusal of the Democratic Charter Commission to allow anything but the charter to be taken up at a scheduled winter meeting in 1974 isn't "ducking issues," commission chairman Terry Sanford said Sunday night, but it is the most practical position to take.

The former North Carolina governor presided over two days of discussion by the commission at Colorado State University and the sharpest debate topic was whether discussion of noncharter issues should be permitted.

Party liberals sought such discussion. A coalition of southern party officials led by Donald Fowler of South Carolina, and John Moyle, Florida chairman, opposed the move.

National party chairman Robert S. Strauss also has indecated he is against such discussions.

Sanford said he did not think in-depth consideration "could be given to any array of great public issues" at the charter meeting for several reasons. He said the charter itself would occupy most of the time and the charter commission has agreed work should be completed in three days.

"This is an extremely important function going to the very foundation of the service of the Democratic party in the future, and worth our undivided attention," he said at a news conference after the Sunday session.

"To think that we can carefully consider such a basic document and then have time left to take all the great issues of the world is just plain foolish," he added.

A proposed charter was put before the 1972 national convention but the convention failed to act on it. Instead, party officials decided a charter commission should work to decide how the charter should be drafted.

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP) — As he is most everywhere these days, North Carolina's Democratic Sen. Sam Ervin Jr. was the center of attention at the party's weekend Downeast Jamboree.

The jowly, white-haired chairman of the Senate Watergate investigating committee was besieged by newsmen and well-wishers whenever he left his motel room. Meanwhile, the state party, many of its members rejoicing at the discomfiture Ervin was bringing to Republicans, mapped out a new finance system to take it into the 1974 elections. Ervin commented on the White House's refusal to release tapes of Presidential conversations to the investigating committee. He said it is becoming harder and harder to assume that President Nixon had nothing to do with the Watergate coverup. Ervin refused to go any closer to a commitment to run for reelection in 1974, but his comments did nothing to weaken presumptions voiced by many of the 450 party stalwarts in attendance that he will seek a fourth term.

Ervin Center Of Attention At Demo Gathering

Two men considered potential rivals to Ervin were also in attendance. Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, who introduced Ervin in glowing terms at Saturday's banquet, maintained a low profile throughout the weekend.

The only announced candidate for Ervin's seat, Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, kept a well-stocked hospitality room open and was busy handshaking and button-holing influential party members.

Saturday morning, party leaders met in an open session to discuss finances. They endorsed a $341,000 party budget introduced by new state treasurer Edward Renfrow.

Renfrow said the budget was predicated on collecting an average of 10 cents from each registered Democrat in the state. He said it would give the party a strong financial base with grass roots support.

Renfrow said 34 per cent of the money would be collected on the county level. The rest is to come from fund raising efforts like the Downeast Jamboree, at which party faithful paid $50 per person.

Couple Weds In Ceremony Miss Lila Ruth Wingate Is Performed On Sunday Bride Of Henry B. Harris

NEW BERN—Miss Debbie Kay Hooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie D. Hooks of New Bern, became the bride of Michael Thomas Vicks of Hampton, Va., in a double ring ceremony solemnized on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Kenneth B. Bryan, pastor, officiated. The pulpit was arranged with palms, seventeen branched candelabra holding white cathedral candles and baskets of white gladioli, mums and gypsophylla. The pews were marked with white satin ribbons and wedding bells. At the altar was a prie-Dieu where the bride and bridegroom knelt for the wedding prayer and the benediction. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Julian Wagemaker of New Bern, organist, and Jim Ferebee, who sang "If" and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride, given in marriage and escorted by her father, wore a full length formal Victorian gown of white silk organza and imported lace, accented with seed pearls and crystals. Her veil of imported silk illusion fell from a headpiece of petals of lace encrusted with pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of miniature white carnations with lavender and white ribbons.

Miss Karen Elizabeth McNeela of Norfolk, Va., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeannie Kim Hooks of New Bern and Mrs. Michael W. Harris of Norfolk, Va., sisters of the bride, Mrs. Neal Phillips of Naranja, Fla., Mrs. John Muktarian of New Bern, and Mrs. Frank E. Carroll of Chesapeake, Va.

The attendants wore identical floor length gowns of floral lavender dotted swiss designed with a V-neckline and capelet collar trimmed with lace and sheer lavender wide brimmed hats accented with satin ribbons. They carried nosegays of yellow daisies and lavender pom poms, tied with matching ribbons.

John W. Vicks of Portsmouth, Va., was his son's best man and ushers were Frankie Carroll of Chesapeake, Va., Charlie Dock Hooks Jr. of New Bern, brother of the bride, Michael W. Harris of Norfolk, Va., Ray Williams and Max Adams of Virginia Beach, Va.

Rodney Hooks, brother of the bride, was high bearer.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of light blue silk organza designed with a ruffled V-neckline and sheer sleeves ending in ruffled cuffs with matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidiums.

Mrs. Ernest A. Hooks of Winterville, paternal grandmother of the bride, chose a floor length pink gown with matching accessories and wore a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Joseph B. Beddard of Winterville, maternal step-grandmother chose a floor length gown with matching accessories and wore a white carnation corsage.

Reception

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the New Bern Golf and Country Club. Guest were greeted by Miss Sybil Jenkins of

New Bern.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mills of Winterville, presided at the bride's book.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Marvin Boyd, Mrs. James Mills, Mrs. Linwood Hooks of Winterville, Mrs. Keith Evans of Mount Olive, Mrs. A.T. Hooks, Jr. of Wilson, Mrs. L.A. Hooks, Mrs. George Tyndall of Greenville, and Mrs. Terry Todd of Wilmington.

The refreshment tables were arranged in a T-shape with floor length white linen cloths. A four-tiered wedding cake was flanked by matching daisies, pom poms and miniature carnations entwined three branched candelabra.

For a southern wedding trip, the bride change into a two-piece lime green knit suit with matching accessories and a flower lifted from her bouquet.

Mrs. Vicks attended Lenoir Community College, Kinston and East Carolina University, Greenville. She is employed at the Bank of Virginia in Norfolk, Va.

Mr. Vicks is a graduate of Wilson High School, Portsmouth, Va., and is manager of Western Auto, Hampton, Va.

On Saturday evening following the rehearsal, a dinner party was given for the wedding party by John W. Vicks at the New Bern Golf and Country Club.

Hawaiian Night Held By Welcome Wagon Club

Over a 100 Welcome Wagon Club members and their guests were present for the Hawaiian Night part held Friday night at the Tar River Estates party room.

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor and Mrs. Charles Goodman, co-hostesses for the affair, were attired in Polynesian style outfits and welcomed each person with "aloha" and a traditional lei.

The party room was decorated to carry out the Hawaiian theme with greenery and colorful artificial flowers. There were groupings of sea shells, sand and fishing nets in various parts of the room as representative of the islands' famous beaches and water sports. Numerous rainbow-hued candles were used to give a soft glow of light suggestive of Hawaiian moonlight. The pool area was decorated with Tiki torches and clusters of artificial flowers were floating in the pool.

A buffet supper consisting of many authentic native dishes was served in the early part of the evening. Afterward, there was music, dancing and swimming for the guests.

Personal

Mrs. Pat Pinel and son, Robbie, of Denver, Colo., are visiting her grandmother, Mrs. D. C. Whitehurst, of 704 Willow Street, Greenville.

AYDEN—In a ceremony Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Lila Ruth Wingate became the bride of Henry Benjamin Harris III in the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. C.H. Overman.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Braxton Lawrence of Nanjenny, Md., organist. The Rev. Phillip Cooper of Greenville sang "Whiter Thou Goest," "More" and the "Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lyman Wingate of Ayden, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white lace over silk, fashioned with long pointed sleeves and empire waist. The neckline was embroidered with seed pearls. The cathedral train was attached at the shoulders.

She wore a three tiered shoulder length veil of illusion attached to a petal crown of peau de soie and satin with pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of miniature carnations centered with a white orchid.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Earl Johnson of Rocky Mount, and the late Mr. Henry Benjamin Harris Jr. of Greenville. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. D.R. House of Greenville.

The church background was accented with jade foliage. A fifteen branch candelabrum was placed in the center with a basket of gladioli, chrysanthemums and jade foliage on each side. The couple knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu.

Mrs. Johnny Beddard of Rt. 1, Ayden, was the matron of honor. She was attired in a long yellow summer cotton dress fashioned like that of the bride with an empire waist and short bell sleeves. She carried a nosegay of daisies, baby's breath with yellow satin streamers. She wore a yellow bow, matching her dress, in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pamela McLawhorn of Winterville, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Alton Crandall of Robersonville, Mrs. Leon Harris of Ayden and Miss Janet Jones of Greenville.

The wore long green summer cotton dresses fashioned like that of the honor attendant and bride. They carried nosegays of daisies and baby's breath with green satin streamers and wore green bows in their hair.

Miss Tracy Hodges of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in a long yellow summer cotton dress fashioned like that of the matron of honor. She carried a princess basket of daisies and baby's breath. She wore a yellow bow in her hair.

Joseph Briley of Greenville was ring bearer.

D.R. House of Rt. 5, Greenville, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Alton Crandall and Sammy Roebuck, both of Robersonville, Ronnie Briley and Tommy Landen, both of Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a blue polyester dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a green polyester dress with matching accessories and Mrs. D. R. House, aunt of the bridegroom, was attired in a blue dress trimmed in pearls and matching accessories. They wore corsages of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a lavender and white princess styled dress of polyester with matching accessories. She wore an orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The couple will reside in Elizabeth City.

The bride was formerly employed at Eckerd's Drug Store, Greenville, and is a graduate of Ayden High School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Stokes-Pactolus High School and Pitt Technical Institute with an associated applied science degree in agricultural chemicals. He is employed by Weyerhaeuser Farms, Elizabeth City.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. C.H. Overman of Ayden. An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday night at the Ayden Community Building.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of mixed summer flowers with two three branched silve candelabra.

Good-byes were said by the bride's parents.

Bird Bids On Antiques

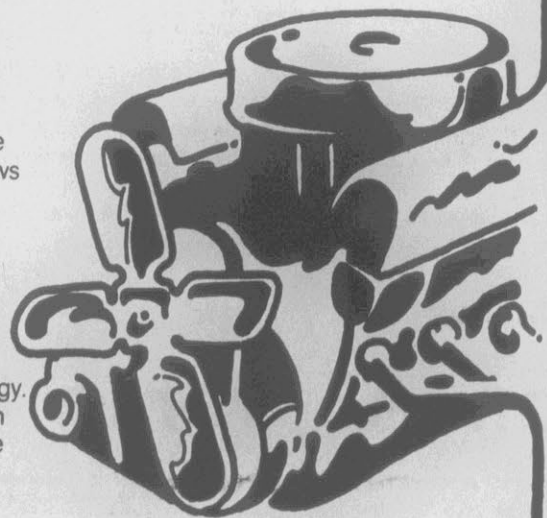

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS) — Audrey van Rijn, 42, couldn't figure out who was bidding up the art and antique objects that she was selling at her charity auction. Turned out to be a mynah bird belonging to the hostess of the house in which the sale was taking place. "What a clever bird, he always kept quiet before the final bid," said Mr. Van Rijn.

Miss Kay Flye Weds In Housekeeping Job Has Become Game Of Hide And Seek

Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Sandra Kay Flye became the bride of Edward Rudolph Warren III Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville. The Rev. Charles Edwin McGowan, uncle of the bride, of Decatur, Ga. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Flye of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rudolph Warren, Jr. of Goldsboro.

Lee Hendricks, organist, and Mrs. Thomas Forrest, flutist, presented a program of wedding music prior to the ceremony. Mrs. John David Bain, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The sanctuary was decorated with the altar table centering the church. The table was flanked by two massive arrangements of agapanthus and chrysanthemums. On the far sides were fifteen semi-circle candelabra entwined with springerli greenery. At the altar was a decorated prie-dieu with bouquets matching the attendants bouquets tied with yellow and white satin. The family pews were marked with satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown of bridal mist and pearl trimmed with cluny lace styled by Eve Museco for Milady Bridals. It was fashioned with a high see-through yoke outlined with a ruffle and a high wedding band collar, a high rise bodice and long lace sleeves. The lace and ruffle effect were repeated on the A-line skirt, hemline, and flowed into a full chapel length train.

She wore a formal length white illusion veil attached to a profile headpiece of white Venise lace petals. To complete her attire, the bride wore an antique necklace given to the bride by the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Oscar N. Lovelace.

The bride carried a bouquet of daisies, miniature carnations, white orchids, and baby's breath tied with white satin.

Miss Carrie Dawn Flye and Miss Ginger Leigh Flye attended their sister as maids of honor. They wore formal length gowns of yellow dotted voile featuring smocked halter tops. The hemlines were accentuated with ruffled flounces in the cotted voile. Matching shawls completed their attire. The honor attendants carried hand bouquets of baby's breath, yellow and white daisies and miniature carnations tied with yellow bows and long streamers. Headbands of daisies matching the bouquets were worn in their hair.

Also attending the bride were Miss Marguerite Elaine Fleming, Miss Sara Ann Evans, Mrs. Grant Jarman, all of Greenville, Miss Susan Lynn Thornton of Washington, and Miss Rebecca Jane Lackey of Stoney Point. Their gowns and bouquets were similar to those of the honor attendants.

Honorary bridesmaids included Miss Laura Brude Hadley, Miss Myra Dwight Garrett, Miss Mary Wesley Harvey, all of Greenville, Miss Jane Elizabeth Nussman of Salisbury, and Miss Elizabeth Camille Rockett of Charlotte. They carried nosegays matching those of the bridesmaids.

Dallas Mason Evans of Oxford, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Edward Rudolph Warren, Jr. father of the bridegroom, served as bestman. Groomsmen included William Lovelace Warren and David Wesley Warren, brothers of the bridegroom, John David Bain, David Grady Nichols, both of Greenville, Burke F. Clark of Richmond, Va., and John Lynwood Hunt of Oxford.

Mrs. Flye chose for her daughter's wedding, a deep pink, streetlength ensemble. The fitted dress was topped with a short sleeve, three-quarter length imported lace jacket and matching accessories. Mrs. Warren wore a light blue silk organza dress and jacket ensemble. The dress was of princess line with a belted back. She chose matching accessories.

MRS. EDWARD RUDOLPH WARREN III

Both mothers wore diasy corsages.

Mrs. Paul L. Flye, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Edward R. Warren Sr. and Mrs. Oscar N. Lovelace, both grandmothers of the bridegroom, also wore corsages of daisies. Mrs. Louis M. Edwards, grandmother of the bride was unable to attend.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed to a lime green pantsuit with matching accessories. Her outfit featured navy, green, and white plaid accents. She wore an orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. The bridegroom is also a graduate of East Carolina, where he was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. He is presently employed with the Division of Blind Services of the Department of Human Resources, Raleigh. The couple will reside in Raleigh.

The wedding was under the direction of Mrs. Walter Cox.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The refreshments, bride's and register tables were covered with white satin cloths and garlanded with rich green improved smilax.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of spring flowers flanked by five branched silver candelabra with matching bouquets. The silver punch bowl was encircled with smilax.

Assisting with receiving and serving were aunts and uncles of the bride, Mrs. Charles McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Richard I. Flye, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bradshaw, Mrs. Jim Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Aldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Floyd, Miss Patty Flye, Miss Stacy Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas M. Evans and Miss Mary Katherine Flye, cousins of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans, Mrs. Dessie Stanley and Mrs. James T. Smith.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the Warren-Flye wedding party included a wedding breakfast in the banquet room of the First Federal Building Sunday. Guests included parents of the couple, out-of-town relatives and friends.

Hosts and hostesses included Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Aldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flye, aunts and uncles of the bride, and Mrs. Louis M. Edwards, grandmother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lackey, Miss Rebecca Jane Lackey and Kenneth B. Hite entertained the Warren-Flye wedding party, relatives and out-of-town guests at a cocktail party Saturday evening at the Candlewick Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Warren Jr., parents of the bridegroom, entertained the wedding party, relatives and out-of-town guests at an after-rehearsal dinner Saturday night at the Holiday Inn Restaurant.

On Friday, Miss Flye was honored at a bridesmaids luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club given by Mrs. Van C. Fleming Jr., Miss Marguerite Elaine Fleming, Mrs. Plato G. Evans and Miss Sara Ann Evans.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mother and sole bread winner of three school-age children. I have worked hard to provide for us since my husband died four years ago.

Recently I landed an ideal job as a housekeeper for a rather wealthy family. I work three days a week and the location and pay is excellent.

On a few occasions the husband has come home unexpectedly, and when his wife hears his car in the driveway, she pushes me into a walk-in closet to hide me until she can get me out without having her husband see me.

When I asked her why she was hiding me, she said I was her "secret" help, and she didn't want her husband to know she had as much help as she does. [She has another woman come three days a week, too, but he knows about HER.]

Abby, I feel so foolish sneaking around this way, but I need the money. Should I stay on? What if the husband finds me one of these times? STIR CRAZY IN THE CLOSET

DEAR STIR: Since the job is ideal and you need the money, stay there. If the husband finds you, let his wife explain what you're doing there. If he has a sense of humor, you're home free.

DEAR ABBY: It seems I have a problem. I am 47 years old, and last year I married for the second time and my wife is expecting soon. Since this is the first child I have ever fathered, and probably my last, I want him to have a special name. [No argument, please. I KNOW it will be a boy.]

My surname is "Huffman," so I would like to name our son "Manhuff." My wife's maiden name is Wolfe, therefore I want his middle name to be "Wolfgang," his full name being, "Manhuff Wolfgang Huffman." [His nickname would of course be, "Manny."]

My wife objects strenuously. She says it will be a burden to the boy and people will make fun of him.

What do you think, Abby? If you feel the boy will be handicapped by such a name, please let me know, as I have his best interests at heart. JACK [OF ALL TRADES]

DEAR JACK: Never mind what I think. Since your wife objects strenuously, forget the "Manhuff Wolfgang," and name him "Jack Jr." [P. S. If he's a "she," you'll have no problem.]

DEAR ABBY: I am a 69-year-old man. I buried my wife five years ago. We had a good life together, but I think it is time now for me to get interested in some of the nice ladies who have been so kind to me these past five years.

My problem is that I have been paying $13 a year for the upkeep on my wife's plot. It's not the money that bothers me, it is the yearly reminder of my wife that keeps me from getting interested in another woman.

What do you suggest?

NOT FREE YET

DEAR NOT: Inquire about the possibility of paying for the maintenance of the plot for the duration of your lifetime. I'm sure it can be arranged.

Welcome Addition To System

Greenville's new Eastern bypass was opened to traffic when it was accepted by the state Division of Highways last Wednesday.

Barriers were removed from the dual laned road, for which costs totalled nearly $4 million, and traffic began to pass through.

The new route is expected to divert much traffic generated by the industrial area north of the river from Greene Street and First, the route that was followed to reach East Street from the north.

The bypass construction involved the building a new bridge across the Tar River, the third crossing of the river at Greenville. The other two are at Greene Street and Memorial Drive.

The Eastern bypass is fenced and traffic lights are located at the N.C. 30 intersection.

It is regrettable that the bypass is not fully limited access—there is access to the road at designated spots along the fenced right-of-way and several secondary roads cross it.

We do not see this as a major problem in the near future but we fully anticipate industrial growth in the future which will make the need for full limited access obvious.

We would hope that enough right-of-way was acquired at the N.C. 30 and U.S. 13-N.C. 11 intersections so that overpasses could be constructed when future traffic volume requires.

Finally we hope that planning will proceed rapidly for the dual laning of N.C. 30-33 to Washington to the east and tying the western terminus of the Eastern bypass to an adequate four-laned limited access route to Raleigh. Both of these projects are essential to the continued development of our area.

All-in-all, though, the Eastern bypass is a welcome addition to the Greenville thoroughfare system. It will surely spur industrial development in the North Greenville area, as well as opening broad new sections for business and residential development.

Obviously New Slogan Needed

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolinians take their state very seriously.

And it is quite obvious to the people at the Travel and Promotion Division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources that a new travel slogan is needed.

It isn't, they insist, that "This Year, North Carolina" is all that bad. It's just that the homefolks don't like it a bit.

And so, underway from now until the end of August is a contest for North Carolinians to send in their own suggestions for a travel promotions slogan.

"The contest just started, so it's too early to tell about response. But we expect several thousand," says Mrs. Sarah Krouch, assistant director of the Travel and Promotion program. The winner will get a whirlwind statewide vacation trip as a prize.

But already, and without any official contest being underway, citizens by the hundreds have written to criticize the "This Year, North Carolina" slogan, and suggest some the writers think better.

Actually, there are two slogans this year. One for at-home consumption is "Our State, It's Great, Discover It This Year." That theme is designed to promote stay-at-home vacations by Tar Heels.

New Booklet
To help promote that idea, Mrs. Krouch said, a booklet is now available from the Travel and Promotion Division in Raleigh which spells out close-to-home tours local people can make in one day.

In brief words, pictures and maps, the booklet outlines 11 suggested one-day outings: Mountain country from Asheville south and west in the Smokies one day, north along the parkway to Cumberland Knob another; Piedmont and northwest mountain attractions from a Winston-Salem base; Charlotte and vicinity; the Urban Piedmont including Greensboro, Charlotte and the Pinehurst-Southern Pines area, the Heart of North Carolina, embracing the area from Greensboro to Raleigh, including Durham, Chapel Hill and Hillsborough; the Capital City tour; Historic Southeastern North Carolina covering from Raleigh to Wilmington and along the water to Southport; the Old Homes Tour and Black-beard's Roost featuring Outer Banks highlights; and finally the Land of Many Beginnings concentrating on Manteo and other early development down east.

A picture in the front of the travel guide for Carolinians, incidentally, has pulled together all the famous characters you'll find around the state at various amusement parks, historical dramas, or tourist attractions, ranging from the Tin Man, Indians, pirates, Moravian ladies from Old Salem and a mountaineer plucking a zither to a white-bearded Santa Clause.

South Dakota?
Meanwhile back at travel promotion headquarters, Tar Heel residents are still arguing about that slogan. One newspaper had editorialized that "This Year, North Carolina" conjures only an image of "Next Year, South Dakota."

And Mrs. Krouch is just as quick to defend. The slogan was suggested by the state's travel promotion advertising agency, Capital Communications, Inc., and approved by the travel committee.

And while the flap is far from over, the slogan is just coming into use.

"It obviously won't even hit until next year—so actually it will be 'This Year, North Carolina' next year," Mrs. Krouch said.

National advertising in magazines and newspapers will use that slogan until mid-summer, 1974 before a new slogan, perhaps one picked from the flood of suggestions, will be implemented.

So far, of course, the hands-down favorite of Carolinians is "Variety Vacationland," a sentimental favorite which travel promoters say will continue to be used in advertising copy, brochures and letters.

"But it's funny that one letter we got strongly condemning the new slogan and defending the Variety Vacationland theme came from a fellow who worked here when Variety Vacationland was used," Mrs. Krouch said.

As for some of the suggestions already coming in, a 12-year-old girl proposes: "Tar Heel State, Vacationland, Beautiful, Wonderful."

And a Tar Heel radio station staff submitted: "Nothing Could Be Finer Than To Visit Carolina—North, That Is."

A Nixon Label On Phase Four

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Partly because of the political ravages of Watergate, President Nixon overruled the pleas of top economic advisers for a tax increase and personally drafted the tough Phase IV anti-inflation controls program to court the immediate good will of voters at the possible long-range cost of losing the anti-inflation war.

Just as he ordered the June 13 across-the-board freeze over the advice of those same advisers, Mr. Nixon has now constructed a Phase IV anti-inflation program streamlined for quick political approval and flying a bold "Made by Nixon" pennant.

Even when he was riding high earlier this year after his record landslide and before the Watergate scandal broke, his loose-controls Phase III program grew politically intolerable. Geared for high profits and hence expanding production, Phase III did not prevent prices from going up. The result: his much-delayed order of June 13 which put the economy in the straitjacket of a freeze.

Now fighting for his political life, Mr. Nixon understandably dare not risk a repeat of that baleful Phase III. More than any decision he has recently made, the President has proved by his choice of Phase IV weapons that approval of the voting public, not the opinion of business or economists, is now his first concern.

This alone explains the President's decision not to push for any tax increase. Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, strongly urged a tax increase. Only marginally less insistent was economic czar George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury. These advisers were urging a choice of 12 different tax options on the President, including across-the-board personal and corporate income tax hikes between 2 per and 6 per cent.

The no-tax decision, made early last week in a three-hour meeting of his economic high command, was the President's own. Only Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, backed Mr. Nixon. Burns pleaded for at least a temporary tax hike to sop up purchasing power.

Rejection of such advice may give Mr. Nixon more economic trouble tomorrow than political profit today. It puts the entire burden of the anti-inflation battle on Burns's Federal Reserve System and the extremely tough new Phase IV price controls.

This threatens the program's credibility in the world of business and industry, menacing the expanding production base essential for long-term control of inflation by creating more good for sale.

Besides his tax decision, the President showed his need for immediate political gain by turning down Shultz and Burns on the politically dangerous question of the price "bulge"—this is, the immediate rise in prices—following the end of the freeze. Most economic advisers preferred a sharp, immediate bulge, no matter how high. Instead, Mr. Nixon will produce a long drawn-out price rise—a flattened bulge—by severely limiting the percentage of higher costs that businessmen may pass through in higher prices.

With prices sure to go up anyway, Mr. Nixon's unsuccessful advisers argued that from a purely economic standpoint it is better to risk short-run political anger with a sudden bulge, to be followed by expanding production. Now, they fear, producers will be squeezed between rigid controls and spiraling raw material prices, holding production down.

In both the "bulge" and tax-rise debates, a Watergate-weakened Mr. Nixon lacks the political freedom to wheel and deal. He dares not risk further loss of voter support by adopting either higher taxes or looser controls. So, the President resurrected the old Phase II program, tailored to the slack, slow-moving economy of late 1971, and imposed it on the tight, full-employment economy of 1973.

The only appeal from the President's decision is in Congress. Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee is studying a novel scheme to "impound" receipts of higher income taxes, returning them to taxpayers in the next recession. Such a plan has been informally discussed by Mills and Burns.

But for Congress to increase taxes over a President's wish defies tradition and political common sense. The President almost surely will have to live with a Phase IV which while acclaimed by voters today, may prove disastrous to long-run control of inflation and to Mr. Nixon himself.

Strength For Today

NO NEED FOR APOLOGY

In these days when skepticism is quite widespread even among church members and "Objectivity" is the attitude assumed by so many people who consider themselves to be knowledgeable and sophisticated, many people of sincere religious faith tend to become apologetic about their beliefs. Certainly the believers need not feel this way, and they will find that in times of crisis they will have much greater reserves of strength and confidence than those who cherish "objectivity".

The story is told about a

Salvation Army worker who was leading a French family in prayer in the cellar of their home during World War II. While German troops were sacking the town. The door burst open and a German soldier rushed in with fixed bayonet. He stopped upon seeing the little group in prayer and then pulled a picture of his wife and children from his jacket. "Will you pray for them too," he asked. Faith can be stronger than even the most bitter hatreds generated by war and is a force that science and "objectivity" knows nothing of.

The Oval Office 'Bug'

WASHINGTON—The most interesting information about President Nixon having all his offices in the White House bugged was that the tape machines were "voice activated"—that is to say, they automatically went on when someone started to talk.

Not all the conversations in the Oval Office had to do with the President and his visitors. I have in my possession a tape of two cleaning women who did not know the office was bugged. The time of the taping was 12:05 a.m.

(Sound of Vacuum Cleaner.)

Voice singing: "Carry me back to ol' Virginny." Vacuum cleaner stops.)

"Okay, Mathilde, it's my turn to be President of the United States."

"You were President last night, Clementine. It's my turn to be the President."

"I was off last night. Bethlyn must have been President last night. Now I'm going to sit in the big chair behind the desk. Who you want to be, Mathilde?"

"I'll be the queen of England."

"Don't be so smart. Why don't you be Sammy Davis Jr.? Now come over to my side of the desk and hug me."

"I don't want to be Sammy Davis Jr. I think I'll be Henry Kissinger."

"Okay, Henry. I want you to go to China."

"What for, Mr. President?"

"I want two orders of wonton soup, six egg rolls, a container of chop suey and a dozen fortune cookies."

"Who you want to be now, Mathilde?"

"I'll be the former attorney general of the United States of America."

"Okay, Mr. Former Attorney General. Now I got to ask you this question. You know anything about this Watergate mess that everyone's been talking about?"

"No sir, Mr. President. I don't know nothing about nothing, and if I did know I wouldn't tell you."

"That's no way to talk to the President of United States of America. I want to get to the bottom of this affair. Send in my loyal, devoted and trusted assistants."

"Who am I now?"

"You be John Dean."

"Okay, Mr. President, I am John Dean. What you want to know?"

"What's going on with this Watergate business, John?"

"You really want to know?"

"What for am I President of the United States if I didn't want to know?"

"Okay, Mr. President, I'll tell you."

"Get out of here. I don't want to know."

"Now who am I?"

"You be Haldeman."

"Hi, Mr. President. I am Bob Haldeman, your loyal and able chief administrative assistant."

To the editor:

I'd like to comment on a July 8 letter to the editor about changes in the N.C. law on scholarship for children of N.C. veterans. A July 1 article has said that the General Assembly enacted legislation to provide state scholarship law to permit their use at technical institutes. Apparently this article was subject to misinterpretation. It only noted two changes in the law — not the complete law.

Prior to the recent legislation concerning children of POW-MIAs, the basic law provided the following scholarship:

Class I—An unlimited number of four-year scholarships to children of men dying in service or after from service-connected causes.

Class I-B—An unlimited number of four-year scholarships to children of war veterans rated 100 per disabled from service-connected disabilities (limited to tuition and fees only, as these children also receive federal scholarships, and often Social Security.) Class 2—100 four-year scholarships annually to children of N.C. veterans rated 30 per cent or more disabled from wartime disabilities. Class 3—100 four-year scholarships annually to children of N.C. veterans rated permanently and totally disabled from non-service-connected disabilities.

The 1937 N.C. General Assembly began providing for the education of war orphans, and it was not until 1954 that Congress began providing for them. Even today, the state law is much more liberal than the federal law-providing a greater number of scholarships, and often providing more assistance.

The 1937 fight, incidentally, was led by Greenville schools superintendent June Rose, then state commander of the American Legion, and Gov. Gregg Cherry, then a member of the General Assembly.

As is the case with many N.C. programs, other states look to our program as a model—but I know of no state which has matched it.

The Monday following publication of this item, the local Veterans Service office filed applications of behalf of six Pitt County children for POW-MIA scholarships.

Soaked By Ten Percent

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — I have just gotten 100 per cent soaked in 10 per cent chance of rain.

When the radio announcer advised me of the 1 to 10 odds this morning I reviewed my options:

Carry one section of my umbrella; don the front panel and left sleeve of my raincoat; unfold my pleated rainbonnet to 1-10th of its potential; or just forget the whole pessimistic prediction.

Of course, I have to concede that the weatherman did at least mention the word rain, even though it was merely a whisper. More often his forecast of sunny skies is still ringing in my ears when I step unprotected out of the house into a downpour.

I would give up listening to these imaginative prognostications except that I persist in the hope that somewhere I will find a clue as to whether the day I am facing calls for minimum or maximum coverage.

The weather report and I never seem to make the proper connection. No matter when activate the radio my timing fails to coincide with the forecast. My wardrobe problem remains unresolved while I receive a detailed fill-in on the news of the past 24 hours, a sports roundup, the business outlook and the views of the station as expressed in a verbal editorial, all interspersed with commercials.

As a helpful gesture my husband recently bought me a radio-type gadget tuned to a frequency that broadcasts nothing but official weather information 24 hours a day.

A flick of the wrist, and you get an instant spiel on the elements. The drawback to this arrangement is that what the temperature will be in this town on this day comes at the beginning of a five-minute tape. If I miss it I'm subjected to everything I don't want to know about the weather.

Up to now I had found no reliable guidelines as to whether the weather and whether I should take along a raincoat and umbrella, but I have at last found the foolproof solution.

I have purchased a small house with two little doors through which emerges one of two figures. If the little girl is out it won't rain despite the early morning clouds. But if the witch is glowering at me I grab my rain gear.

So far she has been right every time, no matter how sunny the skies when she makes her prediction.

Plans New Charges Of Mutiny

By FEED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force major has accused the Army of failing to investigate dismissed misconduct charges against a group of ex-pows and says he will file new mutiny charges against the men.

Maj. Edward W. Leonard Jr., said, "I'm going to ask that the Army investigate, which it failed to do after Col. Theodore Guy filed his charges" against five Army and three Marine enlisted men who had been under Guy's command in a North Vietnamese prison. Leonard also was a captive there.

Leonard blamed the Army, although the Navy also dropped similar aiding-the-enemy and other charges. The secretaries of the Army and Navy both found on July 3 that there was insufficient evidence to take the cases to courts martial.

"I suggest the Army decided to drop charges and the Navy Department didn't have much choice unless it wanted to have egg on its face," Leonard said in a telephone interview from Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

"I do not believe that the POWs who served honorably were given an opportunity to present their side." Leonard said that during the time they were in prison he himself shouted a direct order to "stop all forms of collaboration" and that he got back talk spiced with an obscenity.

Army officials have acknowledged that their investigation of Guy's charges involved only a study of documents, mostly transcripts of general debriefing interviews with POWs conducted long before any formal accusations were filed.

Army officials said three of the soldiers have been honorably discharged since Guy's charges against them were dropped nearly three weeks ago. Pentagon legal officials said that as civilians, these men are now beyond the reach of military law and cannot be tried under civilian law either.

These three are former Staff Sgts. Robert P. Chenoweth, 25, Portland, Ore., and King D. Rayford, 27, Chicago, and former Spec. 4C Michael P. Branch, 26, of Highland Heights, Ky.

Still in service are Army Staff Sgts. John A. Young, 27, Grayslake, Ill., and James A. Daly, Jr., 25, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Marine Staff Sgt. Ifonso Riate, 28, of Santa Rosa, Calif., and Marine Pvt. Frederick L. Elbert Jr., 25, of Brentwood, N. Y.

The eighth man, Marine St. Abel L. Kavanaugh, 24, of Denver, was an apparent suicide before the charges were dropped.

Leonard, 34, was shot down over Laos while covering a search for a lost pilot in May 1968 and spent nearly five years in prison.

He said he will sign the charges this week, then submit them to the commander of the air university, who will forward them to Washington.

Ratify New Postal Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new two-year contract with the U.S. Postal Service has now been ratified by all four unions involved in negotiations.

The four unions represent 617,000 of the service's 700,000 workers.

Under the new contract postal wages will rise about $1,000 a year. They currently average $10,000.

Latest to initial the agreement were officials of the 195,000-member National Letter Carriers Association, who indicated membership approval Friday evening.

It had previously been ratified by the American Postal Workers Union, National Rural Letter Carriers Association and Mail Handlers Division of the Laborers International Union.

Claims CIA In Chappaquiddick

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-month congressional probe has produced testimony that the CIA was unknowingly used in investigating not only Daniel Ellsberg's Pentagon Papers leaks but also Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Chappaquiddick accident.

And chairman Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., of the House intelligence subcommittee conducting the probe says it is unclear how unknown was the CIA's involvement in an effort to block part of the Watergate investigation.

"There is some conflict in my mind as to how cooperative the CIA was in this," Nedzi said.

As the probe neared its conclusion both Nedzi in the House and Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee announced they will draft legislation to get the CIA out of such domestic affairs.

Nedzi said he doubted Congress could simply outlaw any CIA involvement in domestic activities but added, "I believe we can tighten it up."

There has been no dispute to the testimony that the CIA supplied false identifications, voice changers, wigs and other equipment that wound up being used both in the Sept. 3, 1971 break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office and the June 17, 1972 Watergate break-in.

The Ellsberg burglary was allegedly supervised by Hunt and Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, who at the time were members of the White House intelligence unit investigating leaks of the Pentagon Papers to the press.

But Hunt told the House subcommittee the CIA equipment was originally secured not for either of the two break-ins—but for Kennedy's Chappaquiddick accident, Nedzi said.

Nedzi said Hunt testified he told former White House aide Charles Colson he needed a disguise from the CIA to interview a man he had been told—incorrectly he said it turned out—could supply new information on Chappaquiddick.

Colson testified to the House subcommittee the next day that he had approved Hunt's Chappaquiddick interview but denied being told that CIA equipment was to be used.

WHERE BODY FOUND — The body of Mark Bernard Matson, 16, of Washington Court House, Ohio, was found in a slab of concrete in this bathroom of a Miami home, Saturday. The owner of the house, Albert Brust, was found dead in the backyard, an apparent suicide. The pool of blood in the foreground is where the concrete and body were located before air hammers broke the concrete open. (AP Wirephoto)

Torture-Chamber Killer Suspect Had A 'Record'

MIAMI (AP) — Police say the dead man suspected of the torture-chamber killing of an Ohio youth and the rape of the youth's teen-age girl companion had a criminal record.

And homicide detective Don Mathews said Dade County police were reopening several unsolved cases to see whether Albert Brust, 44, might have been linked to them. He gave no other details.

Authorities revealed that Brust registered with county officials as a convicted felon on the same day he applied for a job as a building inspector last year.

Police found Brust's body Saturday after neighbors reported that he appeared to be dead, seated in a lawn chair in the back yard of his suburban Miami home. Authorities said Brust apparently killed himself by taking poison.

Officers then found the dismembered body of 16-year-old Mark Bernard Matson cemented into a shower stall in the house. He previously had been reported missing from his home in Washington Court House, Ohio.

Police said a room adjoining the bathroom in which Matson's body was found had been converted into a torture chamber and the entire house in a busy residential area had been soundproofed inside with three inches of foam padding.

They said the torture chamber was an airtight room lined with cinderblocks, five inches of wood and another six inches of foam. They said padlocks, chains and belts extended from the walls and the metal ceiling.

Authorities said Brust, a minimum housing inspector for Dade County, had been charged with kidnap, robbery, assault and grand larceny in New York in 1951 and was sentenced to three to 10 years in prison. He was paroled in 1957.

After they found the bodies, police contacted a 15-year-old from Frankfort, Ky., who had told police in nearby Fort Lauderdale last week that she and Matson had been picked up while hitchhiking by a man driving a white van.

She told police that they were taken to a torture chamber and forced to perform sex acts while the man took pictures. Police said she told them Matson tried to overpower the man

Rites Held For Ralph P. Hanes

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Funeral services were held Sunday for Ralph Philip Hanes Sr., 75, of Winston-Salem, founder of Hanes Dye and Finishing Co.

He died Saturday in a Seattle, Wash., hospital following a heart attack suffered while on a fishing trip in Canada.

Hanes was for many years a member of the executive board of the North Carolina Department of Archives and History and also served as a member and vice chairman of the board of trustees of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Survivors include his widow, two daughters, a son, a sister and a brother.

"One more thing, Bob. I need four more golf carts for San Clemente, a new volleyball court and a gazebo for Key Biscayne."

"You got them, Mr. President."

"Now you be John Connally, Mathilde."

"Yessir, I'm John Connally, reporting to help you out of your troubles."

"John."

"Yessir, Mr. President."

"Get out of her. (Laughter)"

"Well, since I'm the President, I think I'll make a proclamation. I hereby free all the slaves."

"That's President Lincoln, not President Nixon."

"I didn't say which President I was, did I?"

Filipino Beauty Begins Reign

ATHENS (AP) — Margarita Moran has begun her reign as Miss Universe 1973.

The 19-year-old Philippine beauty was crowned Saturday in the ancient open-air theater at the foot of the Acropolis. She was selected over contestants from 60 countries.

"I really did not want to enter any beauty competition," said Miss Universe, whose grandfather was Manuel Roxas, the first president of the Philippines. "My friends pushed me into it and here I am."

Miss U. S. A., Amanda Jones of Evanston, Ill., was first runnerup.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs today are steady to 2.50 higher. Tops of 47.00-48.00 at Siler City and Denton; 46.50-47.00 Rocky Mount; 45.00-47.00 Wilson and High Falls; 46.00-46.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 47.50 Mount Olive; 45.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina broilers: Market steady today. Supplies barely adequate to short of a continued good demand. Weights desirable to light.

North Carolina hens: Prices stronger on heavy types with firm undertone. Supplies of heavies barely adequate and demand good. Trading on light type too limited to release prices.

Heavies at farm, 18 cents; light type too few.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices surged ahead again today in a flurry of buying which analysts pinned to the market's underlying strength after a summer slowdown.

They said it was a continuation of last week's rally and showed that investors were in an optimistic mood despite negative factors such as rising interest rates and pressure on the dollar abroad.

At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones industrial average, which rose nearly 25 points last week, was up 3.68 to 914.58. Advances held a 7-to-4 lead over declines in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE composite index was up .17 to 57.26 at 11 a.m. while the price-change index on the American Stock Exchange was up .06 to 23.24.

Deere & Co. topped the active issues on the Big Board. It was up 3/4 to 45 1/2, and analysts said the climb reflected renewed interest in agricultural-machinery companies after large foreign sales of U.S. crops. They said international Minerals, up 1/2 to 28, also benefited from more demand for fertilizers as a result of the grain sales.

Oils were generally strong, lead by Exxon, which rose 1 1/2 to 93 1/2 after reporting that second-quarter earnings climbed 54 per cent to $510 million. Standard Oil of California was up 3/4 to 69 1/2, Texaco gained 3/4 to 33 1/2, Gulf Oil added 1/2 to 24 1/2 and Occidental Petroleum rose 1/4 to 11.

Talley Industries was down 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 after the staff of the Securities and Exchange Commission said it was considering taking legal action against the company as a result of an investigation into an inventory writedown the company took three years ago.

Charge Man In Shooting

A Greenville service station operator has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury following a shooting Sunday that sent one man to the hospital.

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said that the assault warrant was served on W. H. Tripp Sr., operator of the Holiday Shell Station on Memorial Drive.

Cannon said that Wilbur H. Chestnut of 1710 Battle Street was shot in an arm with the bullet lodging in his chest following an argument with Tripp at the station around 11:30 a.m. Sunday. Chestnut had apparently stopped for gas when the incident occurred.

The chief said that Chestnut was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. A hospital spokesman said this morning that Chestnut was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit.

Cannon reported that Tripp was released on $500 bond pending a hearing in District Court on Aug. 20.

3 Accidents On Weekend

One injury and nearly $3,400 in damages resulted from three accidents investigated over the weekend by Greenville Police.

Elwood Fleming Pittman of 213 N. Library Street was reported injured when the car he was driving was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by William Carl Taylor of 913 N. Railroad Street.

Officers, who preferred no charges following the 10:01 p.m. Saturday wreck, estimated damages to the Taylor car and $750 to the Pittman vehicle.

Police said that the accident occurred on N. Greene Street at its intersection with First Street.

Willie James Best of 105 Howard Circle was charged with failing to see his intended move could be made in safety following a 10:43 a.m. wreck Sunday at the N. Memorial Drive-N. Clark Street intersection.

Officers said that the accident involved cars driven by Best and Irvin Yarell of Box 7064, Pope AFB, Ft. Bragg. Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the Yarell car and $400 to the Best vehicle.

No one was reported injured. No charges were preferred following a wreck Saturday at the intersection of E. Tenth Street and Washington Street involving cars driven by Daisy Gray Payton of Rt. 4, Greenville, and Luis Acevez of 1311 Willow Street.

Police, who reported that no one was injured in the 5:06 p.m. accident, set damage to the Acevez car at $400 and some $40 to the Payton vehicle.

Babe Ruth Stars Give HV 13-4 Drubbing

PREPARATIONS BEGIN—Practice for the Boys Home All-Star game set for Saturday night at Ficklen Stadium actually began yesterday with a light workout but heavy work began this morning with practice continuing all week and tapering off towards Friday. In the top photo, Williamston's Mike

Weaver (52) hands off a back out of the picture. Weaver will be playing for the North. In the bottom shot, Rose High's Reggie Perkins (third from the left) gets set to go out on a pass pattern. Perkins will be representing the Rampants on the South squad. (Reflector Photo)

HICKORY—Greenville's Babe Ruth All-Stars have come back after losing their opening round game, to win two and move into the third round of the State Babe Ruth Tournament.

Sunday, Greenville trounced Harmony Valley of Asheville, 13-4 eliminating Harmony from the tournament. Dennis Cristiano started for Greenville on the mound and got the win. He was relieved in the fifth by Curtis Keys who got the save.

Harmony Valley got a three run lead in the first but Greenville matched it and pulled away in the next frame. Greenville scored in every inning but the seventh which they did not play.

Lee Marshburn reached for Harmony on a double and an error on John Trammel's grounder let him score. Jeff Jackson doubled in Trammel and after a wild pitch moved Jackson to third, he score on a fielder's choice by Phil Owen.

Greenville tied it up, 3-3, in the bottom of the inning. Kelly Heath walked and Macon Moyer singled. Mike Brewington singled to drive in Heath and an error on the play let both Moyer and Brewington score.

Greenville took the lead in the second with a single run. Cristiano led off with a hit and Joey Cherry doubled. Keys walked and Keith Jones slapped a hit to score Cristiano.

Greenville pushed over two in the third for enough to win it. Brewington reached on an error and was sacrificed to second. Cristiano singled him across and Cherry got a hit sending Cristiano to second. Keys walked loading the bases and walk by Heath forced in Cristiano.

Greenville got a run in the fourth as Moyer homered. Heath hit a two-run shot in the fifth and a three run blast by Mike Bleton with another run in the sixth rounded out the scoring.

Cherry led the hitting with three. Moyer, Cristiano and Bleton each had two. Jackson had two for Harmony.

Greenville is scheduled to meet Pembroke this afternoon at 5:30 p.m.

Thomas Expected To Report To 'Skins Today

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer
CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Duane Thomas, the moody but talented running back, is expected to start his career anew today with the Washington Redskins, his fourth team in his four years in the National Football League.

Coach George Allen says Thomas, acquired in a trade with San Diego, is due to arrive here at the Dickinson College training camp this afternoon but he won't hold him to it.

"I want him to come in with all his personal problems cleared up," Allen said when making the announcement. "As far as I'm concerned, if he doesn't get here Monday, I'm not concerned. We didn't give him a deadline.

"I just hope he wants to play as badly as we want him to succeed."

Allen described the players' reaction to the trade, in which the Redskins gave up two high draft choices in 1975 and 1976, as "shocked" and "amazed."

Quarterback Bill Kilmer said: "We kid ourselves that we've got a lot of misfits on this team. He's going to fit right in if he wants to win."

Thomas, 26, was the rookie of the year in 1970 for Dallas and was the star of the 1972 Super Bowl before his troubles over contract terms began with the Cowboys.

No one on the Redskins knows Thomas better than linebacker Steve Kiner. He and Thomas were roommates in Dallas.

"The problem with Duane at every place he has been is that people overreact to him," said Kiner, who has asked Allen to let Thomas be his roommate again. "He's just one guy on a 60-man squad."

He said Thomas's problems began in Dallas.

"He led the team in rushing for two straight years and was getting $23,000," he said. "They wouldn't renegotiate his contract and that started it. Another discontented player, full-back Ken Willard, is scheduled to start working out with the San Francisco 49ers today."

An eight-year veteran who had hoped he would be traded,

National League East Is Team(s) To Beat

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
You know that business about the leader at the All-Star break being the team to beat?

Forget it.
The whole National League East is one big bunch of teams to beat...and no two teams know it better than the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals and nosediving Chicago Cubs. And consider this, too: The New York Mets are dead last—but just 7½ games out of first.

The Cards, who started the season as though they'd spend it in the basement, have won seven of their last 10 games. And the Cubs, who a few weeks ago seemed to have the flag wrapped up, have dropped nine of their last 10.

St. Louis took possession of first place by half a game Sunday with a three-run rally in the eighth inning for a 5-4 victory over West Division leader Los Angeles—not too long after the Cubs had fallen victim to a three-run rally in the 13th inning that gave the San Francisco Giants a 4-1 triumph.

In the rest of the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from San Diego, 3-1 and 13-7; the Philadelphia Phillies took two from Atlanta, 6-5 and 5-1; the Cincinnati Reds blanked Montreal 6-0 and the Mets downed Houston 3-2.

Giants 4, Cubs 1
Ace Ferguson Jenkins pitched 12 innings of four-hit ball—one of the hits a Dave Kingman homer that tied the game in the eighth inning.

Then Bob Locker took over, the Giants loaded the bases and Gary Thomasson singled for a pair of runs. Bobby Bonds applied the icing with a sacrifice fly that made it 4-1.

Pirates 3-13, Padres 1-7
Willie Stargell and Dave Parker keyed Pittsburgh's 3-1, 13-7 sweep of the Padres. Stargell decided the opener with a two-run double, then belted his 29th and 30th homers of the season, tops in the majors, in the nightcap. Parker slammed a solo homer in the opener and kicked in with two doubles and a single in the finale.

Phillies 6-5, Braves 5-1
The Phillies took advantage of Atlanta's club-record seven errors to down the Braves 5-1 after unleashing a 13-hit assault headed by Bill Robinson and Willie Montanez to take the first game 6-5.

Reds 6, Expos 0
Jack Billingham's 6-0 six-hit victory, his sixth shutout, was dimmed by the loss of the Reds' All-Star shortstop, Dave Concepcion, who suffered a dislocated ankle in the seventh inning.

Johnny Bench hit a home run to ignite a four-run fourth inning that carried the Reds over the Expos.
Mets 3, Astros 2
With Wayne Garrett on second base and Bud Harrelson on first, the Mets pulled off a double steal against the Astros in the seventh inning.

Then Garrett broke for home and Tom Seaver, the batter, dumped a perfect suicide squeeze bunt that gave New York the winning run in the 3-2 squeaker over the Astros.

In the American League, it was Chicago 4, New York 2 in the first game of a twinbill and the Yankees 2, White Sox 0 in the finale; Minnesota 10, Boston 7; Kansas City 7, Milwaukee 5; Oakland 5, Cleveland 2; Baltimore 8, California 2, and Texas 4, Detroit 3 in 10 innings.

SPORT SHORT

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BOSTON (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, salvaged from baseball's scrap pile by the Boston Red Sox after the American League adopted the designated hitter rule, continues to move up on the list of the game's all-time great sluggers.

Cepeda, barely able to run because of bad knees, hit his 14th homer of the season Sunday in a 10-7 loss to the Minnesota Twins. It gave him 51 runs batted in this season and 1,312 for his major league career. He broke out of a tie with Mickey Vernon for 29th place on the all-time RBI list.

KC Scoreboard Out Of Order

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can't tell the players without a scoreboard.

Kansas City, site of Tuesday's All-Star game, had its $2 million scoreboard out of whack, so a trio of American League All-Stars brought attention to themselves Sunday—just in case.

—Amos Otis belted a two-out three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, rallying the Kansas City Royals to a 7-5 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

—Reggie Jackson slugged two homers in Oakland's 5-2 triumph over Cleveland.

—Brooks Robinson drove in five runs with a homer and two singles in Baltimore's 8-2 victory over California.

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota battered Boston 10-7; Texas edged Detroit 4-3 and the Yanks and White Sox split a pair of games, Chicago taking the first 4-2 and New York gaining the second 2-0.

A's 5, Indians 2

The only fellow earning his living in the American League who has more homers than Otis and John Mayberry is Jackson. Jackson lost out on a chance for a three-day vacation because he has 23 homers and 81 RBI. So he'll be in Kansas City Tuesday.

"I could use the rest, but I want to play in the game," said Jackson, whose two homers and four RBI provided Ken Holtzman with his 15th victory.

Orioles 8, Angels 2

Baltimore's Robinson hammered a two-run homer, his seventh, in the second inning, later adding a two-run single in the fourth and an RBI single in the fifth.

Robinson's single in the fourth chased starter Rudy May, 6-8, when the Orioles scored five runs on two hits, five walks and an error.

Twins 10, Red Sox 7

Tony Oliva, hitting .297 and playing exclusively as a designated hitter, drove in four runs in the Twins' victory over the Red Sox.

Southpaw Jim Kaat, backed by a 15-hit attack, featuring George Mitterwald's three-run homer, earned his 11th victory in 20 decisions.

White Sox 4-0, Yankees 2-2

Stan Bahnsen beat the Yankees, his former teammates, for the fourth time this year in the opener. Then New York came back to take the second game behind Fritz Peterson's pitching and Ron Blomberg's two-run double in the first.

Sunday's bat day crowd cheering their Yanks at the Stadium was 53,664.

Rangers 4, Tigers 3

In Texas, Bill Sudakis hit a two-out single in the bottom of the tenth to score Jim Fregosi with the winning run.

In the National League it was: Pittsburgh taking two from San Diego 3-1 and 13-7; Philadelphia sweeping Atlanta 6-5 and 5-1; St. Louis 5, Los Angeles 4; Cincinnati 6, Montreal 0; New York 3, Houston 2 and San Francisco 4, Chicago 1 in 13 innings.

All-Stars Take On Dolphins

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars, winless in the last decade against professional football champions, will not uncloak their talents until Friday night when they tangle with the Miami Dolphins at Soldier Field.

Never in the 40-year history of the game has a team been kept as underdog as the current squad mixed with All-Americans and top pro draft choices.

The All-Stars have picked up the label of "Mystery Team" and have been accused of training at John McKay's "Country Club."

McKay, who guided the Southern California Trojans to the national championship last season, is making his first appearance as the All-Star coach and has shunned the usual routines of former squads.

The first thing McKay did was cut the two-day drills to one a day. Instead of the three or four scrimmages a week, he has held only one limited scrimmage since the camp opened. McKay also ruled out the usual scrimmage against the Chicago Bears in which the collegians receive their professional baptism.

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota battered Boston 10-7; Texas edged Detroit 4-3 and the Yanks and White Sox split a pair of games, Chicago taking the first 4-2 and New York gaining the second 2-0.

Littler Wins St. Louis Classic

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gene Littler looked as if he didn't know whether to laugh or cry. He settled for a big sigh of relief as a broad smile spread across his pale, usually expressionless face.

"When you do something you believed you could never do again, it's got to be a great thrill," the 43-year-old veteran said after his emotion-charged victory in the St. Louis Children's Hospital Golf Classic Sunday.

His final-round 68, two under par on the 6,544-yard Norwood Hills Country Club course, nailed down his first triumph since cancer threatened not only his career but his life just 16 months ago.

He had to make an eight-foot par putt on the final hole to hold off Australian Bruce Crampton, the season's leading money-winner who boosted his total to more than $240,000 with a second-place finish.

Crampton had a final 67 for 269, one back of Littler's total.

Bert Yancey, Bob Goalby and Lee Trevino were next at 271. Yancey had a 66, Goalby a 71 and Trevino blew to a 72 after running afoul of a photographer.

Goalby, a former Masters champion, crept to within a single stroke before making what he called "a couple of stupid bogeys" on the 18th and 17th holes.

Trevino had a one-stroke lead when the day's play started but bogeyed the third while Littler birdied the hole with a 15-foot putt. It was a two-stroke swing in Littler's favor and put him in the lead to stay.

Trevino, declining to discuss the incident with newsmen, obviously was bothered by a photographer who scurried across the fairway while he was addressing the ball on the tee. He backed off but put his drive under a tree to the right, had to play the next one lefthanded and put it in a trap.

He also bogeyed the seventh and Littler birdied it, hitting an iron within two yards of the cup. It was another two-stroke swing and Trevino was out of it.

Here are the final-round scores and money winnings:

Gene Littler $42,000 66-68-68-68—268

Bruce Crampton $23,940 71-66-65-67—269

Lee Trevino $11,130 69-64-66-72—271

Bob Goalby $11,130 65-68-67-71—271

Bert Yancey $11,130 68-69-68-66—271

Mike Wynn $6,279 67-69-67-69—272

Jim Ferriell $6,279 67-67-70-68—272

Tom Watson $6,279 72-67-66-67—272

Hubert Green $6,279 70-68-67-67—272

Tom Shaw $6,279 73-63-69-67—272

Hammering Hank Counting Down Last Fourteen HR's

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — With career home run No. 700 tucked safely away in the record books, Atlanta Braves slugger Henry Aaron now begins the countdown toward that other magic number—714.

"I think maybe I can do it this year," the 39-year-old Aaron said when asked if he could break Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

"I wanted to have 700 before the All-Star break. I feel that 14 more this season isn't impossible."

Aaron connected for No. 700 Saturday night against Philadelphia Phillies left-hander Ken Brett, depositing a 400-foot drive 10 rows deep into the left-center field stands at Atlanta Stadium.

"That's the first one he hit off me and it'll be the last," said the 24-year-old Brett, who captured his ninth victory of the season in the Phils 8-4 come-from behind victory.

"I wouldn't care if he hit four home runs off me," said Brett. "As long as I go in the record book as winning."

Two other Aaron milestone home runs came in losing games at Atlanta Stadium. He hit No. 600 off Gaylord Perry, then of San Francisco, April 27, 1971 and No. 649—the one to pass Willie Mays—off Philadelphia's Wayne Twitchell on June 10, 1972.

Aaron, 39, is currently averaging one home run per nine at bats this season. At that pace he would finish the season with 44 and 717 career-wise.

If Aaron snaps the record this year, he says he will "honor his contract." He is in the second year of a three-year pact, calling for $200,000 annually.

For the fan who caught the coveted No. 700, the Braves management gave away 700 silver dollars in return for the ball. It was captured by an 18-year-old Atlantan, Robert Winborne.

"I was glad it went into the stands so a kid like Robert could get the money," Aaron said.

Aaron readily admits that the pressure was far greater on Roger Maris when he hit 61 home runs in 1961 to break Ruth's single season mark of 60 set in 1927.

"Sure there's a difference between Maris' record and mine. He had a lot more pressure. He had to do it in one season."

His home run and single Saturday night and single Sunday ran his hitting string to 10 straight and upped his batting average to .255 with 52 runs batted in. In that stretch he has connected for six home runs and 14 RBI.

Sunday he had a single and a walk in five at bats off Phils' lefty Steve Carlton and righty Dick Ruthven in the opener of a doubleheader. He sat out the nightcap.

Pearson Wraps Up 9th Win In Ten Races

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP)—Stock car racing drivers are still chasing David Pearson and the incredible Wood Brothers' Mercury to record-setting feats on the Grand National trail.

Pearson, a 38-year-old veteran from Spartanburg, S.C., recorded his ninth victory in his last 10 starts Sunday when he breezed home almost two laps ahead of Cale Yarborough to capture the Dixie 500 at Atlanta International Raceway.

It was a ho-hum finish after Pearson shot past Yarborough's spinning Chevrolet 253 miles from the finish.

Cale, aboard the Junior Johnson machine, had held the lead for 110 laps around the 1.5-mile asphalt oval before three blown tires sent him spinning in the fourth turn. He never got back in contention.

"It all boiled down to the fact I was downright lucky," said Pearson. "Cale spun out twice. There was no way I could outrun him."

Yarborough's second spin, however made little difference. It came on pit road when he slid on a slick spot and rammed his left front into the retaining wall 76 laps from the finish.

"I'm surprised I've won as many races as I have, but I have to give the Wood Brothers credit," said Pearson. "I hope we keep on going. I'd like to get a couple more this year."

Pearson's victory was his eighth on superspeedways this season, cracking the Grand National standard of seven he had shared with Bobby Allison and LeeRoy Yarborough. It was his 21st career superspeedway conquest, placing him two ahead of Richard Petty, only million dollar winner on the circuit.

However, Pearson is ready to join Petty in the exclusive ranks. He earned $16,150 to run his career total to $986,650.

"That should be good but I didn't win all that money," Pearson said. "The driver gets half."

While Pearson was running a flawless race, other name drivers had their problems on a track made slick by intense heat.

Bobby Isaac placed the Bud Moore Ford in front for 29 early laps before spinning out, ramming the wall in the fourth turn and leaving the race with a jammed steering mechanism.

"I just lost it," said Isaac. "I do think we showed 'em a thing or two while we were out there." He had led for only 32 laps the entire season coming into the race.

Also exiting early were Buddy Baker, out shortly before the 100-mile mark with a damaged axle following a spinout and collision with the inside wall and Petty moments later when his Dodge blew an engine.

Allison also departed near the halfway mark when his Chevrolet developed valve problems.

That left some high finishes open. Donnie Allison, Bobby's brother, took third in a Chevrolet; Joe Frasson was fourth in a Dodge and Lennie Pond fifth in a Chevrolet. Jody Ridley of Atlanta, making his first Grand National appearance, drove a Mercury to the No. 6 spot.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today lends itself to practical conversations regarding money or property. Let common sense be your guide. Don't overlook the ideas advanced for facilitating your progress. A large-scale plan can be a success if it is simplified.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good opportunities exist for adding to your present abundance, so don't waste time. Get busy and bring in results. Follow a good hunch you have. You deserve rest and relaxation tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get an early start on achieving the personal goals you've mapped out. Your appearance can be a big help, so take steps to look as charming as possible. Entertaining brings fine results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A frank discussion with an expert could accelerate success in achieving your intimate aims. Be more demonstrative with one who is close to you. Take the initiative in striving for harmony.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Getting together with a good pal will help you gain the data you require. Something you have wanted for a long time is easily obtainable now. Think along constructive lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Channel your energy into more prestigious directions. Encourage higher-ups who can help you reap rewards from your abilities. Sidestep an opponent who is envious of your assets right now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on career and find ways to demonstrate your common sense and loyalty. Seek the latest methods and devices that can add to your success. Show appreciation to a loyal friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Trust your intuition and good judgment with everyone today for best results. Generous affection will please your mate. It's important to follow through on those obligations you've assumed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Greater rapport with an associate now will bring increasingly better results. Become involved in civic activities where you will be noticed. It's not too early to plan for more security.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You'll have a better chance of working out new ideas if you cooperate fully with your co-workers. Appearance is important now. Obtain new clothes that compliment your personality.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find amusement and recreation with good friends you really like. The difficulties blocking creative expression should be gone now, so try putting your talent to work. Avoid an opponent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Doing nice things for those who need your help now reaps good rewards. Find the appliances that smooth chores at home but don't go overboard on costs. Efficiency is the keynote now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make and keep appointments now that can enhance your success in the future. Travel and communications should be dealt with wisely. This is not the time for taking risks of any kind.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be blessed with practical attributes that can assure comfort and prosperity later in life. Your influence could bring out best efforts. Encourage early contact with persons who can help further your progeny's career. Teach the importance of character, and let your aversion to vulgarity be a guiding principle. Give spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Sees Trend To Family Games

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — There is an industry trend toward family participation games, reports a toy and game firm executive.

Charles Diker, president of Aurora Products Corp., says the breakdown of the family unit which was prevalent in the 1960s is ending. He said families are looking for projects that stress togetherness and that the toy and game industry is gearing up to meet the demand.

The 'Worry Clinic' Offensive To The Fastidious

Read Gordon's questions. For coeds don't like to be kissed through a screen door! Nor have their escort's kisses strained through a "droopy drawers" type of mustache. Discuss this case about the psychology of masculine hirsute adornment!

By GEROGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case X-565: Gordon J., aged 21, is a medical student.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I notice that you seem to veto the long hippie hairdo.

"Plus the use of bushy mustaches that droop around the corners of the mouth.

"Yet you wear a mustache yourself!

"So why did you start such a hirsute facial adornment?

"And how do you defend yours in contrast to the drooping sort now popular with many college boys?"

Mustache Psychology

When I started teaching psychology at Northwestern University, I was only 21 years old.

Many of my students were at least 20.

In order to add an appearance of more maturity, I started my mustache.

But mine differs greatly from the "droopy drawers" variety typical of modern hippies.

First, my mustache was neatly cropped and made a straight line across my upper lip.

This straight line trim offsets the usual downward droop of the corners of a man's mouth. It thus intimates more snap and executive ability.

British Generals adopted it, instead of the bushy handlebars and "droopy drawers" mustaches.

Furthermore, my mustache was kept clipped so it never came closer than a quarter of an inch to my upper lip.

And this is vitally important for any man who is dealing with people in a speaking role, whether as a salesman, teacher, or public speaker.

For even if we are not deaf, we all tend to rely on lipreading in order to follow a speaker's words more accurately.

A bushy, drooping mustache thus reduces greatly the ability of people to understand our spoken words.

That's doubly crucial regarding television performers!

For if they wear a bushy mustache that hangs over their mouth and thus "strains their voice," the video audience finds it more difficult to understand their remarks.

Second, a bushy mustache, as well as a heavy beard and a feminine hairdo that hangs down to a man's shoulders in unkempt

Check Manual Before Pulling

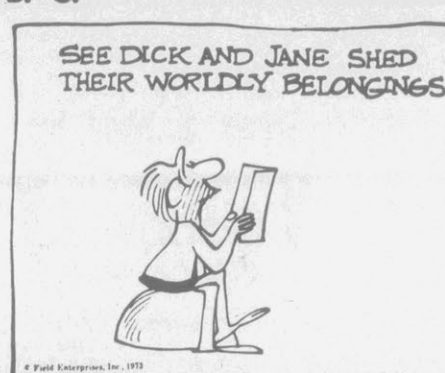

NEW YORK (AP) — If you plan to pull a trailer, camper or boat this summer, check your owner's manual or your dealer first, says the Modine Manufacturing Company, maker of automotive cooling systems.

Many cooling systems are not designed for trailer towing applications and may require a larger radiator or transmission oil cooler. A quick check now may prevent a several hundred dollar repair bill later this summer.

style, also suggest germs, dirty soup stains and contamination when such hairs drop into the food platters at the dinner table.

A generation ago, many old farmers also wore beards, upon which they drooled tobacco juice and into which they dribbled their soup.

That connotation still makes modern diners squeamish when they see hirsute waiters at restaurants (or straggly long-haired waitresses).

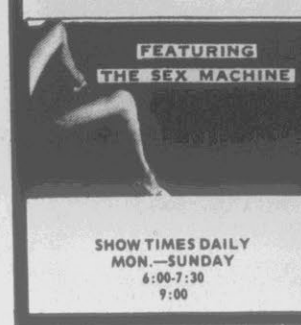

Pastidious patrons thus will shun such eating places!

Campaign Expense Bill Attracts Amendments

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill designed to hold down campaign expenditures is set to come before the Senate and is attracting a host of Watergate-related amendments.

The Senate was scheduled to start working on the bill Wednesday, and was expected to spend most of its time between then and a recess beginning Aug. 3 on the legislation.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the debate had been postponed from Monday because of a death in the family of Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., co-floor manager of the bill.

Mansfield said "we're going to make every effort to pass the bill by Aug. 3.

Meanwhile, the Senate planned to act today on a public works appropriations bill.

One of the campaign bill's amendments was being offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who was seeking to prohibit an individual from contributing more than $100 to a candidate for federal office.

While campaign spending takes top billing in the Senate, government spending will be the chief issue in the House with the start of debate tomorrow on an anti-impoundment bill.

The measure would give either the Senate or the House 60 days to disapprove any presidential impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

A tougher bill already has passed the Senate. It would require Congressional approval of impoundments within 60 days or the funds would have to be released.

In the House, Republicans plan to try to attach to the anti-impoundment bill another measure to establish procedures for reshaping congress-sional handling of budget and spending priorities.

The Democratic leadership wants to keep the two bills separate, but Republicans argue that if Congress curbs presidential power to withhold appropriations, it should take greater responsibility for holding down spending.

The campaign spending bill would limit individual contributions to candidates for the House and the Senate to $5,000 and to candidates for President to $15,000. This amount could be contributed in both primary and general elections.

The proposed spending limits in the bill are 15 cents for each person of voting age for primary elections and 20 cents for each person of voting age in general elections.

In the case of presidential candidates this could mean a spending ceiling of $27.8 million in the general election. This

Clark Considers Run For Senate

NEW YORK (AP) — Ramsey Clark, a former U. S. attorney general, says he is considering running for the U. S. Senate from New York.

Clark made his announcement during a television interview Sunday in which he also accused the Nixon administration of turning over the Justice Department to "a band of outlaws."

Clark, 45, is now in private law practice in New York City. He served as attorney general for just under two years in the Johnson administration but his career in justice spanned eight years of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

would be in addition to up to $20.8 million that could be spent in winning nomination.

The bill also would repeal broadcasting's equal time requirement by permitting broadcasters to give free time to major party candidates without giving equal time to other candidates in a race.

Five N.C. Republicans Consider Race For Senate

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Food prices are high just like the price of virtually everything else. The difference is, food prices will come down eventually. The other prices may not. They usually don't. Americans are so used to prices going up and never coming down that the tendency is to lump every item into the same category. Overlooked is the fact that agriculture responds to high prices by increasing production, often to the point of overproduction. This brings prices down.

North Carolina State University extension economists, in a recent series of papers on the many aspects of food pricing, point out that agricultural products do not follow the continuous upward trend that many other products follow.

Agricultural prices do go up, as they have in recent months, but they also come down. Sometimes they go up very fast, but they often go down very fast.

A 3 percent meat price increase this month, for example, doesn't mean a 40 percent increase for the year, as might be expected. In fact, it may mean a 10 percent decline somewhere down the road.

The nature of livestock production reveals why meat prices move both ways — up as well as down. A farmer can't decide today to produce a beef steer or hog and market it tomorrow. Weeks, months or even years are required.

The farmer doesn't know what price he will get for his product at the time he decides to produce it. He guesses that it will be profitable. He often bases his guess about prices on what he has been getting recently and what he is getting now. So, if prices are high now, he guesses maybe they will stay high at least long enough for him to get geared up and produce a lot more at the high price level.

Once the farmer has decided to produce something, there are not many good ways of stopping the production process. Once a baby pig is born, there is a pretty good chance that in four to six months there will be a 200-pound live hog headed for market.

So what happens? When prices are low, farmers decide to cut back on production because they are losing money. But when they reduce production, prices begin to go up. So they decide to increase production again in response to the profitable prices. But it takes time before they have anything to sell. As everyone eventually has more to sell, prices fall again but they have to go ahead and sell all they have started to produce even at low prices. Thus, the cycle starts all over again.

The length of the cycle depends on the length of the production process and other factors such as changes in production costs and changes in consumption habits which change the normal relationship between levels of production, prices and profits. The hog-pork cycle tends to be about four to six years in length, the beef cycle is longer — 10 years or more.

When several commodities reach the high price part of their cycles at one time, it may have a rather drastic effect on food prices. This seems to be what has happened recently, according to the N. C. State University economists. So meat prices are high. But it is not likely that they will stay high very long. They will be low again and then it will be the producers rather than the consumers who are in a bind.

The only thing that makes these ups and downs tolerable, for producers as well as consumers, is that at least prices are neither high or low all of the time.

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin acts out the drama of the Watergate hearings on national television, a group of five prospective Republican opponents in 1974 are waiting and watching. All of them would like to be part of the Senate's exclusive 100-member fraternity. But only one of them is determined to run against Ervin no matter what the odds.

Ervin, of course, has not said definitely that he will run. Should he decide to retire, the Republican field could become unusually crowded.

But as of now, interviews with Republican leaders and prospective candidates yield the following list of potential contenders: U.S. Reps. James Broyhill and Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell; state Sens. Michael Mullins of Charlotte and Hamilton Horton of Winston-Salem; and Charlotte stockbroker Charles R. Jonas Jr.

Broyhill and Mizell are no strangers to speculation about Senate candidacies. Both are now refusing to say what their plans are for 1974.

Either would enter the race with Congressional experience and established reputations among Republican voters. But they would also have to give up relatively secure seats in the House for the opportunity to run against a man who is probably getting more media exposure than all members of the House combined.

"Broyhill and Mizell both really want it," said one well placed Republican source last week, who declined to speak for attribution. "But they're not going to run unless their polls show then that Ervin can be taken."

Should they decline to run, the field would be open to any of the three lesser-known candidates.

At least two polls now being circulated in GOP circles show that Jonas would have the least trouble in getting the state's voters to identify him. He is, of course, the son of former U.S. Rep. Charles R. Jonas.

Jonas headed the North Carolina Nixon campaign committees in 1968 and 1972, but at 32, he has never run for public office.

The cachet of his father's name, however, gives him a head start should he decide to run. The poll's being circulated, none of them taken by Jonas, show his name identification rating with the voters to be as high as Broyhill's or Mizell's.

Jonas, as he acknowledged in a telephone interview from his Charlotte office recently, was much more enthusiastic about running in April, before the Watergate case cracked open and the televised hearings began.

Now, he says, he expects to wait until September or October before making a final decision about running.

His decision will not hinge entirely on political factors and Ervin's expected popularity, Jonas said. "I also have to consider whether I can ask my family to share the financial and other burdens of a candidacy." Anyone running for the Senate seat, most observers agree, must have at least $250,000 in hand to run an effective primary campaign unless his name is already a household word.

Jonas says he hasn't got it. Moreover, he says, "I have to wonder if I'm qualified just because I have a well known name. I think I am, but I've never held public office."

Jonas adds that at his age, there will be other campaigns.

Another temporizing potential candidate is Morton, the joint caucus leader in the state legislature.

Horton, a short, balding and urbane lawyer, recently set off some speculation when he made a well publicized endorsement of the proposed East Carolina University medical school.

It appeared to be the act of a man trying to draw attention and support from Easterners but Horton denies this. He says he is a "very unlikely" candidate, more likely to retire from politics than run for the U.S. Senate.

There is no such temporizing in the camp of Mullins, a dapper Charlotte attorney and first-term state senator. His major claim to fame came on the state Senate floor this year when he changed his mind just before the roll was called and reneged on his commitment to vote for the Equal Rights Amendment, helping send it to a narrow defeat.

Mullins says he is going to run, barring unforeseen circumstances such as the entry of Broyhill into the campaign.

His campaign is being managed by state Rep. David Jordan of Charlotte, a fellow first-term Republican. Jordan outlined the way in which Mullins, and probably any other Republican, would run against Ervin.

Age, he said, would be played to the fullest advantage. All of the prospective GOP candidates give away at least 30 years to Ervin's 77.

In addition, Jordan said, the nominee could rely on substantial assistance from national Republican sources if he appears to have a chance to defeat Ervin.

He and other Republican strategists are hoping that if the election is seen as a referendum on Ervin's handling of the Watergate investigation, the voters will decide it is being handled poorly.

Count 16 Lives Lost In Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 16 lives were claimed by traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend, bringing the state's highway death toll for 1973 to 982. The state Highway Patrol said 1,026 persons were killed during the corresponding period last year.

Twelve-year-old Joseph Andrew Campbell of Omaha, Neb., was killed Sunday two miles west of Golston in Chatham County when he rode a minibike from a driveway into the path of a vehicle.

A Friday night accident claimed the life of another 12-year-old. The victim was Karol Crystey Pigford of near Willard, struck by a car on U.S. 421 about 18 miles north of Burgaw.

Walter Smith Jr., 25, of Rt. 1, Dudley, died Sunday in a two-car crash at the intersection of I-85 and U.S. 70-A north of Smithfield.

A 27-year-old Mobile, Ala., man was killed Sunday in a one-car wreck on U.S. 17, ten miles west of New Bern. Officers identified him as Gordon Samuel Griffin, whose car left the road at a high rate of speed and struck a tree.

Edward Wayne Freeman, 73, of Winston-Salem was killed Sunday when his car ran into the back of another vehicle that had skidded out of control on N.C. 109 south of Thomasville.

George David Osteen, 20, of Swannanoa was killed Sunday when a car struck his motorcycle on I-85 a mile south of Gastonia.

A 31-year-old Gatesville man, Edward Lee Savage, died Sunday when his car left N.C. 37 just north of Gatesville and overturned.

Two cars collided head-on Saturday night on a rural road three miles east of Hollister in Halifax County, claiming the lives of two Littleton men. Officers said 21-year-old George Harrell was driving on the wrong side of the road and struck another auto. He and his passenger, Ernest Lee Davis, 27, were killed. Two other persons were injured.

John Dallas Miles, 23, of Burlington, died early Sunday when he lost control of his car on a rural road five miles north of Burlington. The vehicle overturned, pinning Miles beneath it.

Walter Allen Campbell, 22, of Lillington, was killed Saturday night when he lost control of his car and crashed head-on into another vehicle on N.C. 210 just south of Lillington.

Another head-on collision claimed the life of 49-year-old Thomas Fletcher Knight of Shannon. Knight was driving at a high rate of speed, the patrol said, when his car crossed the center line of a rural road in Robeson County and struck another auto.

A three-car pileup Saturday on U.S. 17 about 12 miles south of New Bern killed 24-year-old Donna Lou Schoyer of Jacksonville, N.C., and 29-year-old Tom Linwood Bryant of New Bern.

Eighteen-year-old Ledrew Harold Lovick of Vanceboro lost his life Friday night in a one car smashup in Vanceboro. Officers said his auto left the road and hit a tree.

A 19-year-old Cary girl, Karen Denise Porter, was killed Saturday in a one-car wreck in Raleigh.

Five Persons Slain In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Five persons died in Northern Ireland during the weekend, but large-scale attacks expected from both Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists did not materialize.

The dead included: —Two young members of the Irish Republican Army, a boy and a teen-age girl. British authorities said they were killed by the explosion of a bomb they were carrying in Newcastle, County Down.

—A young man whose body was found at the entrance to a Protestant district of Belfast.

—A 53-year-old Protestant woman whose nude, mutilated body was found in Belfast. She was known to have Catholic friends, and it was thought she had been murdered by Protestant fanatics.

—A British soldier who died of wounds suffered in a bombing last week.

The deaths raised the confirmed death toll to 856 in the four years of communal warfare in Northern Ireland.

The weekend was the first anniversary of "Bloody Friday," when the IRA set off 19 bombs in Belfast and killed nine persons.

Militant Protestants had threatened to mark the anniversary with violence of their own to avenge the dead. An outbreak also was feared from the IRA in retaliation for the arrest last week of 18 of its leaders.

To counter this, the army threw a screen of 4,000 soldiers into and around Belfast. Hundreds of checkpoints were set up, slowing traffic to a crawl. Most people stayed home.

Outside Belfast, there were bomb blasts in Armagh, Londonderry, Downpatrick and Dundrum. No one was killed or seriously wounded by these blasts.

Image Changed By 'Instant Tea'

NEW YORK (UPI) A "little old ladies" drink. The advent of instant tea has changed that image, according to the Tea Council of the U.S.

Iced tea, especially in the younger age brackets, has become a full-fledged part of the beverage revolution which now sees cold drinks served all year long, the council said.
