

Nation Under Phase Four Wage-Price Rules Today

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is now under Phase 4 wage-price regulations, which took effect today.

Under the new rules imposed by President Nixon, prices set by small and medium sized businesses may be increased to reflect cost increases since the last quarter of 1972.

However larger firms, the 1,700 companies with business of $100 million a year, will have to give 30 days notice of any price hikes.

Exempt from the new regulations will be businesses with 60 employees or less, as will the lumber industry and public service industries.

Gasoline and petroleum products will remain frozen until Aug. 19, and beef prices will be frozen until Sept. 12. Special rules will apply to the insurance and health industries.

The 5.5 per cent wage increase guideline is to continue from Phase 3.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent says Phase 4 will probably be ended this year, but no firm date for ending it has been set.

The administration has not made predictions as to the results of the new program and no target for the rate of inflation by the end of the year has been set.

The goal of Phase 4, officials said, is to permit inevitable price increases to take place gradually, rather than suddenly, and to limit increases to cost increases and not allow profit hikes.

Officials hope Phase 4 will be the last attempt to control the nation's economy. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said he doesn't expect to announce Phase 5. Shultz said he believes either Phase 4 will be the last such program or he won't be the secretary if Phase 5 is needed.

Food prices were partially unfrozen in July and some government officials have shown concern over the price increases since then.

Pork and eggs have been two of the fastest rising items, and officials say they also fear a jump in the cost of bread.

"We expected an increase but food prices clearly have gone up higher than we expected," said Kenneth Feder, director of the Office of Food Price Monitoring in the Cost of Living Council.

Hails $22.9 Billion Program

President Signs Highway Bill

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed a compromise $22.9 billion highway bill today, hailing it as a significant move to ease urban congestion by opening the Highway Trust Fund for mass transit improvements.

In a statement released as he signed the measure in a White House ceremony, Nixon said the legislation "reflects a spirit of constructive cooperation" between Congress and the administration.

The three-year bill authorizes $2.9 billion more than requested by Nixon, but is $5 billion below the spending level voted by the House.

Nixon complained, in his statement about the higher spending but added, "I am confident that the act can be properly administered so as to not violate my commitment to a noninflationary budget."

The bill for the first time allows trust fund money to be used in the second year for bus purchases and in the third year for bus and rail capital investments.

Nixon called this a "landmark provision" and said it will give states and localities "the flexibility they need to set their own transportation priorities."

"The law will enable them at last to relieve congestion and pollution problems by developing more balanced transportation systems where that is appropriate rather than locking them into further highway expenditure, which can sometimes make such problems even worse," Nixon said.

Nixon signed the bill after returning from Camp David, where he worked on a public response to the Watergate scandal.

The President returned to the White House Sunday night after spending six days working with aides on the televised speech he plans to deliver about the middle of the week. He has not set the time.

The highway bill was approved by Congress before it broke for a summer recess Aug. 3. The three-year bill had been stalled for 10 weeks while conferees debated whether trust funds could be diverted to rail transit lines.

The diversion was supported by Nixon, but he initially objected to the amount of money to be taken from the fund. Threats of a pocket veto were dropped after Congress indicated it might not act on the bill until after the recess.

The bill allows $200 million in trust funds to be spent on the purchase of buses in fiscal 1975 and the entire $800 million earmarked for urban highways could be spent on rail transit systems the following year.

Highway Trust Fund revenues from gasoline and other road-user taxes previously had been restricted to highway-related projects. The fund was established in 1956.

The 1973 highway bill allows states to turn back urban highway funds and spend an equal amount of general tax money on mass transit projects. About $3 billion in general revenue funds become available for mass transit grants to urban areas.

Stripped from the bill by the conference committee was a Senate-passed provision that would have provided $800 million in operating funds for failing transit lines.

The bill provides $8.6 billion for construction of the interstate highway system over a three-year period.

An additional $9.75 billion was authorized for completion of the 42,500-mile interstate network by 1979.

Rural primary and secondary roads receive $3.3 billion. The same amount goes to urban highways.

Sen. Sam Prefers Nixon Be Queried

BREVARD, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the Senate committee investigating the Watergate scandal says he would rather President Nixon be questioned by either a congressional committee or the news media rather than to rely on a presidential statement.

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., commented to newsmen Sunday that a presidential statement on the situation could "both conceal and reveal."

"I think that (a news conference) would be much preferable to a written or telecast statement," Ervin said. "The Washington news media can ask both pertinent and impertinent questions."

Ervin was an added attraction for Sunday's non-partisan Trout Festival at Brevard. The festival was aimed at promoting trout fishing. About 3,000 persons attended. The veteran North Carolina Democrat, spoke to newsmen after addressing the festival crowd of about 3,000 persons. He repeated his hope that President Nixon will be absolved of involvement in the case.

"I hope when the evidence is in I can file a report saying conscientiously that the President was not involved. After all, he's the only president we've got and we have to get through the rest of his administration," Ervin said.

But, the 72-year-old lawmaker also reiterated his criticism of Nixon's refusal to turn over White House tape recordings believed important in the Watergate coverup.

Turning to home state political matters, Ervin indicated he hasn't made up his mind yet whether he'll seek reelection next year. He said he isn't surprised that there is some criticism of him in the state because of his Watergate investigation.

In his talk to the festival crowd, Ervin did not directly mention the Watergate affair. "It's great to escape from the confusion of Washington," he said, adding that the reason for the confusion is, "Some in high places don't know where they are going and some don't go where they are looking."

Before his 10-minute speech, Ervin shook hands and autographed programs and "Senator Sam" tee-shirts.

Among those at the festival were Ervin's only announced opponent for the Senate next year, Democrat Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, and Rep. Roy Taylor, D-N.C., whose district includes Brevard.

Cambodian Insurgents Press Their Offensive

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Khmer Rouge insurgents attacked a government position less than five miles west of the Phnom Penh airport today and captured Skoun, a road junction town 35 miles northeast of the Cambodian capital, military sources reported.

American pilots kept up their round-the-clock campaign to kill as many of the Khmer Rouge as they can before the bombing ends in two days. A battalion of about 500 paratroopers at Skoun had been under heavy attack for the past two days. The sources said they were attempting to slip past the insurgents in small groups.

Skoun's civilian population of about 5,000 abandoned the town two years ago when it first came under attack. But field reports said families of some of the paratroopers were still there when the final Khmer Rouge assault began.

West of the Phnom Penh airport, the insurgents were attacking at the village of Tuol Leap, one of the major links in the airport's defenses. U.S. bombers could be heard trying to drive back the assault force.

In Phnom Penh itself, the rolling thunder of heavy B52s and the thud of the smaller explosives from F111 and Phantom fighter-bombers continually jolted the refugee-swollen city of 1½ million persons.

Wheeler Airlines will begin scheduled airline service between Raleigh-Durham Airport and the cities of Greenville and Beaufort-Morehead City tomorrow.

Two plane loads of airline officials, dignitaries, news media representatives and community leaders will depart Raleigh Durham at 9:30 a.m. on the inaugural flight.

Ceremonies are scheduled in Greenville at 10 a.m. and at the Beaufort-Morehead City airport at 11:50 a.m.

Initially, there will be three roundtrip flights daily—Monday through Friday—from Raleigh to Greenville and two daily flights to Beaufort-Morehead City with intermediate stops in Greenville.

Wheeler Airlines, headed by Warren H. Wheeler, a Piedmont Airlines pilot since 1966, will utilize a Beechcraft Tradewind aircraft for the commuter service with a Britten-Norman Islander plane as a reserve aircraft.

The twin-engine Tradewind cruises at 200 miles per hour and carries a crew of two, eight passengers and 300 pounds of cargo.

The airline is beginning operations with a $75,000 grant from the Coastal Plains Regional Commission.

"We are confident that this new service to Greenville, Beaufort and Morehead City will be self-sustaining," Wheeler said. "Each of these communities have healthy, growing economies which we believe will support their service.

"Scheduled air service, will be a valuable addition to the resources of these thriving eastern North Carolina areas." One-way fare to Greenville is $17, while fare to Beaufort-

Morehead is $23 from Raleigh Durham. In addition to passengers Wheeler Airlines will fly freight as space allows, depending on passenger complement.

According to Wheeler, as soon as agreements are reached with other airlines, passengers will be able to get confirmed reservations with tickets to their ultimate destinations in the U. S. or overseas through Wheeler Airlines.

At present, any airline can provide through ticketing with Wheeler, with the passenger's baggage being checked through to the Wheeler city.

Wheeler planes are scheduled to depart for Raleigh from the Pitt-Greenville airport at 8:12 a.m., 4:02 p.m. and 7:40 p.m. for the 35 minute flight. Flights leave Raleigh for Pitt-Greenville at 7:30 a.m., 3:20 p.m. and at 5:15 p.m.

A direct flight from Greenville to Beaufort-Morehead City leaves Greenville at 6 p.m.

In addition to Wheeler, other members of the airline's management team include Michael Jones as director of flight operations and William Gardner as director of maintenance.

New Confidence In Space Ferry

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Mission Control is becoming more confident that the Skylab 2 astronauts will be able to return to earth Sept. 25 in their own ferry ship and that a rescue flight won't be necessary.

Asked by newsmen Sunday if it now appeared the astronauts will make a normal trip home, flight director Charles Lewis said: "At this point, you're probably correct."

But as a precaution, a rescue rocket and another Apollo craft will be moved to a Cape Kennedy, Fla., launch pad Tuesday. The rocket could be launched Sept. 10 or later if needed.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma began the 17th day of their planned 59-day orbital journey, with commander Bean set to try out a jet-propelled back pack that looks like something out of Buck Rogers.

He was to flit about at a speed of about two feet a second in the high-ceiling second story of the house-size Skylab.

The back pack, called an astronaut maneuvering unit, or AMU, is being developed for possible use on later space missions when astronauts will transfer between spaceships or move around while making external repairs to orbital stations or unmanned satellites.

The AMU, which weighs 255 pounds on earth but is weightless in space, is worn like a hiker's back pack and carries its own electrical supply and nitrogen gas propellant.

The firing of 14 directional thrusters are operated by two hand controllers mounted on arms extending from the AMU. Bean and Lousma Sunday conducted the ninth earth resources pass of the mission, gathering data over California, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas and Central America.

Three Died In Greensboro Fire

GREENSBORO (AP)—Three persons died in an early-morning fire that gutted a house in Greensboro today, the city fire chief said.

Chief Buck Wuchae identified the victims as William F. Lee Sr., 52; Mrs. Irene Lee, 49; and a 50-year-old nephew, Raymond P. Wilson.

Most Carolina Congressmen Have Outside Business Interests

By WILLIAM DICKE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven of the 13 veteran members of the House from North and South Carolina report they held outside business interests in 1972.

Reps. Mendel J. Davis and William Jennings Bryan Dorn, both South Carolina Democrats, said in annual reports required by a House committee that they held no outside interests that required disclosure.

Dorn went beyond the minimum required statement and listed his assets and liabilities, as he has periodically since coming to Congress.

Three members of the North Carolina delegation and one member of the South Carolina delegation are freshmen who took office last Jan. 3. The income they reported was received before they came to Congress.

The reports showed that last year they earned money as attorneys, general counsel and vice president to a broadcasting company, director of a firm and partner in a farm.

The reports filed with the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct give only a limited picture of members' holdings.

Congressmen, who are paid $42,500 yearly, are required to report their interest in firms with substantial business with the federal government or subject to federal regulatory agencies if the interest exceeds $5,000 or provides more than $1,000 income.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., claimed the most extensive portfolio, with 12 stocks.

Rep. Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, R-N.C., reported the most paid speeches, with five honoraria.

The reports: North Carolina — Walter B. Jones reported 347 shares of stock in United Utilities and 751 shares in American Mortgage Insurance Co.

L.H. Fountain reported he was vice president and general counsel and a stockholder in Coastal Plains Broadcasting Co., Inc., Tarboro, N.C. He also listed stock in United Telecommunications, Kansas City, Mo., in Jefferson Pilot Corp. and Edgecombe Bank & Trust Co., and an interest in a farm near Tarboro.

David N. Henderson said he has a half interest in a 25-acre farm. He said he received an honorarium of $700 from the National Air Transportation Association of America that was treated as a campaign contribution.

Ike Andrews, a freshman, said he received income from the law firm of Andrews and Stone, Siler City, N.C. He said he received more than $5,000 income from the Piedmont Cattle Credit Co., Siler City.

Wilmer D. Mizell listed honoraria of more than $300 from the Hamilton County, Ind., Republican Committee, the Touchdown Club of Frederick, Md., Illinois Bankers Group Nine, Coshocton, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce and Fulton County, Ind., Republican Committee.

Richardson Preyer listed stock holdings in: Richardson-Merrell Inc.; Piedmont Management Co., Ind. (common stock and $1 convertible preferred) of which he is director; Sterling Drug Inc.; Piedmont Associates, Ltd.; General Electric; Texaco, Inc.; Delta Airlines; Exxon, Inc.; National Airlines; NCB Corp., Eastman Kodak. He said he received more than $5,000 each from sale of Gulf Oil common stock and Corning Glass Works common stock.

Charles Rose, also a freshman, said he held 2,000 shares of common stock in Lumbee Bank of Pembroke, N.C. but resigned from the board of directors when his term expires last May 16. He said he likewise resigned from the law firm of Rose Thorpe & Rand when he was sworn in last January.

Earl B. Ruth listed stock holdings in Tolley International Corp.; Virginia Electric & Power; Cobined Communications; Chase National Life Insurance; Southern Company; Duke Power; Piedmont Natural Gas; and Southwest Factories, Inc.

James G. Martin, a freshman, said he was paid a salary by Davidson College, Davidson, N.C., as a member of the Board of Commissioners. He said he also was reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenditures during his campaign by the Martin for Congress Committee.

James T. Broyhill listed stock holdings in the Bank of Granite, Granite Falls, N.C. He also said he owned shares of stock in companies that do not do substantial business with the federal government or operate under federal regulatory agencies. These companies, he said, are Broyhill Furniture Industries and affiliated companies, Lowes Stores, Inc., Lance, Inc. and the Southern Furniture Exposition Building. He said he did not receive a salary from the firms.

Roy A. Taylor listed stock holdings in Akzona, Inc.; Carolina Freight Carriers; Carolina Power & Light; General Motors Corp.; Northwestern Financial Corp.; Piedmont Natural Gas Co.; Ryder System and United Telecommunications, Inc.

Small Cars Are Slated To Get 1974 Spotlight

By CHARLES C. CAIN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Spurred by the gasoline shortage, small car sales are higher than ever and are expected to take the spotlight when the U.S. auto industry presents its 1974 models next month.

Ford, General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors all put heavy emphasis on their new offerings at the smaller, lower-priced end of the line.

The U.S. automakers sold 1,759,706 compact and subcompact cars in the first seven months of 1973, an increase of 436,333 over the same period last year. The small cars accounted for 29.3 per cent of U.S. domestic auto sales in the first seven months of this year, compared with 22.4 per cent in the same period of 1972.

Small foreign cars also are selling well. Volkswagen sold 296,934 cars in the first six months of this year, compared with 265,366 in the first half of 1972.

Mazda, the only car on the U.S. market with the Wankel rotary engine, has sold 73,055 cars so far this year, compared with 27,210 for the same period last year.

The increases have occurred despite the dollar devaluation that made imports more expensive. "The dollar devaluation didn't help, but the fuel crisis did," said a spokesman for Volvo, which reported sales of 34,122 cars in the first six months this year. That's almost 7,000 more than in the same period last year.

The U.S. automakers aren't ignoring the big cars—which George Romney, former president of AMC, once called "gasoline guzzling dinosaurs." But it appeared virtually certain that the hot spot in the 1974 auto sales race would be the small car field.

Entries such as AMC's new compact-sized Matador II coupe and Ford's rejuvenated Mustang line were typical of offerings in that category. American manufacturers expressed confidence their small-car offerings would further blunt the inroads of foreign cars into the U.S. market.

There was general agreement among them that the foreign-car share of the U.S. market, which reached 15 per cent in 1970 and 13.3 per cent last year, would be reduced next year. Chrysler president John J. Riccardo said, "The trend toward smaller vehicles has been in effect now for some time, several years, and with the emphasis on gasoline and the shortage thereof and the prices thereof and one thing and another, that trend will undoubtedly continue."

Twelve Die In N.C. Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least a dozen persons were killed in North Carolina weekend traffic accidents, including five people in a one-car wreck in Wilson County, the state Highway Patrol reported today. The weekend deaths pushed this year's road death toll to 1,093, which is 43 fewer than had died at the same time last year.

Troopers said five persons, including two Maryland residents, died when their car crashed into a bridge on U.S. 117 about seven miles south of Wilson early Saturday morning. The dead were identified as Julius Capers, 39, and Norma Capers, 38, both of Baltimore, Md., and Pat Taylor, 10, Quinton Taylor, 8, and Kerry Taylor, 6, all of Rt. 2, Wilmington. Two other persons were hurt in the accident.

Max Daniel Barrow, 9, of Rt. 1, Oak Ridge, died on a rural road 10 miles south of Greensboro when he drove his minibus from a private driveway into the path of another vehicle, the patrol said.

Walter Arthur Mack, 50, of Rt. 5, Greensboro, was killed when his car ran off a rural road three miles north of Greensboro and hit a tree.

Larry Elton Harper of Rt. 1, Ayden, was killed Sunday when he was struck by a hit-and-run vehicle on a rural paved road in Greene County about three miles north of Hookerton. The patrol said he had been lying in the road.

An Edenton man, 28-year-old Wildred Littlejohn, was killed when the car he was driving ran off a rural road six miles east of Edenton and crashed in a ditch.

A 2-year-old Chandler girl died when the car in which she was riding ran off N.C. 151 about 10 miles west of Asheville and struck a house trailer. The patrol said the victim was

The U.S. auto firms also intensified studies of alternate power plants, like Wankel, a German-developed engine that has only one-third as many parts, half the size and half the weight of a comparable piston engine.

Crystal B. Mease.

A three-vehicle collision Saturday morning on U.S. 220 four miles north of Star in Montgomery County killed Herman Thomas Bundy of Rt. 5, Archdale, the patrol said.

Charles Marks, 89, of Tillery, was killed when he rode his bicycle into the side of a vehicle on N.C. 481, nine miles east of Halifax.

A one-car accident near Ellijay, Ga., Sunday was fatal to Oscar Quentin Smith Jr., 28, of Murphy, N.C., Georgia authorities said. His death did not count in the North Carolina weekend tally.

The Associated Press Counts weekend traffic fatalities in North Carolina from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

Power Cut By Lightning

Severe thunderstorms caused widespread damage to Greenville Utilities electric distribution system Saturday and Sunday.

Assistant Director Malcolm Green said a circuit was out on U. S. 264 bypass to Ballards Crossroads when lightning struck a voltage regulator at Frog Level and blew the top off. A fire resulted and county fire trucks were called to the scene to extinguish it. Power was out from 11:55 p.m. Saturday until 12:25 a.m.

Sunday a circuit feeding Hollywood substation was out from 6:55 until 7:30 p.m. when lightning damaged a circuit breaker.

A line serving First Street from Shore Drive to Elm was out from 6 p.m. until 6:34 Saturday and again from 9:20 to 9:45 p.m. Sunday.

In addition there were widely scattered problems throughout the system including the Stokes area and the south end of the county.

Man Charged In Cutting Incident

Alvin David Parrott Jr., 36 of Route 2, Greenville was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill following investigation of a cutting incident Saturday.

According to Police Department Capt. W. M. Carr, Parrott allegedly cut Charles Ross, 29 of 2529 Memorial Drive with a knife wounding Ross on the stomach, back and neck...

The incident occurred at the Ross residence and was reported at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, Capt. Carr explained. Investigation of the incident is continuing.

Geographer Advises 38 States

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When geographer G. Etzel Percy talks about a union of 38 states, he is speaking about the future, not the past.

Percy, formerly the State Department's top geographer and now a professor at the California State University in Los Angeles, thinks his plan to revamp the map of the United States would save taxpayers $4.6 billion a year in administrative costs.

And the plan to eliminate 18th and 19th century boundaries that Percy considers obsolete would streamline the 50 states into 38, balanced in population and size.

New boundaries would pass through sparsely populated areas, eliminating the problems plaguing cities that straddle state lines.

And the new states would be given new names to reflect their physical or cultural attributes.

Cascade, the name of the major mountain range that dominates the area, would apply to the entire Pacific Northwest.

The reorganization also would create the State of Ozark, comprising parts of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi.

The professor insists his proposal is practical but doubts it ever will become a reality.

For one thing, politicians who would lose their jobs would stand in its way, he said. But there is another reason, too.

He added: "So tightly woven around us is the concept of statehood that we tend to regard it as sacrosanct."

The states Percy would create and what they would comprise are:

—Kennebec: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and northern New York.

—Mohawk: central and northwestern New York and a stretch of northern Pennsylvania.

—Plymouth: the coastal strip from New Hampshire to Connecticut.

—Hudson: southern New York, northeastern Pennsylvania and the western portions of Massachusetts and Connecticut.

—Susquehanna: central and southeastern Pennsylvania.

—Chesapeake: Delaware, Maryland, a part of southern Pennsylvania, northeastern West Virginia, central and northern Virginia and the District of Columbia.

—Albemarle: southern Virginia and central and eastern North Carolina and the southeastern fringe of South Carolina.

—Carolina: western North Carolina, central and southern South Carolina and Eastern Georgia.

—Biscayne: southern Georgia and Florida.

—Allegheny: western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and eastern Ohio.

—Mackinac: incorporating the areas bordering the Great Lakes.

—Erie: western Ohio, eastern Indiana and northern Kentucky.

—Appalachia: southeastern Ohio, central and southern West Virginia, eastern Kentucky, northeastern Tennessee and northwestern North Carolina.

—Cumberland: southern Kentucky, central Tennessee, northeastern Alabama and northwestern Georgia.

—Piedmont: central Georgia and northwestern South Carolina.

—Talladega: Alabama and eastern Mississippi.

—Dearborn: southeastern Wisconsin, northeastern Illinois, northern Indiana and southwestern Michigan.

—Wabash: eastern Illinois, central and southern Indiana and northwestern Kentucky.

—Superior: eastern and central Minnesota and central and northern Wisconsin.

—Prairie: central and eastern Iowa, northeastern Missouri, northwestern Illinois and southeastern Wisconsin.

—Osage: eastern Missouri and southeastern Illinois.

—Ozark: southern Missouri, eastern Oklahoma, northern and central Arkansas, northwestern Mississippi, and eastern Tennessee.

—Bayou: southern Arkansas, eastern Texas, Louisiana and southwestern Mississippi.

—Dakota: North and South Dakota, excluding a strip along their western borders, and eastern Minnesota.

—Platte: southern South Dakota, central and eastern Nebraska, northern and central Kansas, western Iowa and northwestern Missouri.

—Shawnee: northern Kansas, central and western Oklahoma, northern Texas and eastern New Mexico.

—Alamo: Texas and southeastern New Mexico.

—Bighorn: western North and South Dakota, eastern and central Montana and northeastern Wyoming.

—San Luis: southeastern Wyoming, Colorado, northern New Mexico, eastern Kansas and western Nebraska.

—Cochise: central and western New Mexico, southeastern and central Arizona.

—Bitterroot: western Montana, northwestern Wyoming, central and northern Idaho and eastern Washington and Oregon.

—Bonneville: southwestern Wyoming, Utah, southeastern Idaho, eastern Nevada and northern Arizona.

—Cascade: central and western Washington and Oregon.

—El Dorado: western Nevada and northern and central California.

—San Gabriel: Southern California, southwestern Nevada and eastern Arizona.

Panda Food Isn't Cheap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Zoo has found it isn't cheap to feed its two most celebrated residents, the pandas Hsing-Hsing and Ling-Ling, a diet of rice gruel, minerals and honey.

They also must have side dishes of carrots, the finest apples, sweet potatoes, milk bone dog biscuits and a sort of moist dog food.

The zoo projects the pandas' food bill for this year at $3,989 — only about $1,000 less than it costs to feed four elephants, who eat such relatively cheap things as hay and horse feed.

Exotic diets cost more. It will cost $4,380, for example, to feed three kiwi birds a Canadian concoction of earth worms free of DDT.

For panda ruffage, each gets a 15-to 20-pound portion of fresh bamboo, which thrives throughout the capital area. The bamboo itself is free, but the zoo pays for cutting crews and testing for lead contamination.

Hsing-Hsing, the male, weighs 229 pounds, adding 155 pounds on stateside cooking. Ling-Ling, the female, is slightly older and has gained 104 pounds to 240, since arriving from China.

The concern over whether the pair will have cubs — which would be a Western zoological first — is focused for now on Hsing-Hsing's size and ego.

Nature says he should be larger of the pair. Until that day comes, says a zoo spokesman, the pair will be kept apart to avoid the possibility of female domination.

Swine producers in Pitt County farrow approximately 6,000 sows twice each year. From these sows 120 thousand or more pigs are born. After about one week of age approximately 20 percent of these pigs are dead, and within three weeks another 7 percent die. The loss of 30,000 new-born pigs during the first few weeks of their life represents a staggering loss of potential profits which the swine industry is forced to bear.

If you are one of the producers that keep losses down to at least half of this average loss, then no doubt you have had satisfactory profits and like the hog business. On the other hand, if your losses equal the average figures, you are probably wondering if you should remain in the hog business.

Raising your pig-per-litter average is the best profit opportunity you have in cutting costs and increasing returns in your hog enterprise. In planning for increased pig-per-litter average, analyze your records and determine your strength and weakness. If records are not available, inventory your present situation and start some, as records are the first step in improved management.

Next, develop your plan and establish goals for the future. A realistic goal should be ten or eleven pigs weaned per litter. In order to do this, you must be prepared before the pigs arrive, and you must stay with your sows during farrowing. Other factors influencing decreased litter size are: overfeeding of the breeding herd; cool, damp, dirty farrowing houses; absence of farrowing stalls; insufficient milk supply; improper removal of needle teeth and care of the navel cord at birth; unequalized litter size, and presence of anemia. All of these are areas in which a producer can work to increase his pig-per-litter average and also increase his profit-making opportunities.

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

AYDEN — Miss Debra Virginia Sugg of Ayden, and George Arthur Guthrie of Rocky Mount were united in marriage Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in the Ayden United Methodist Church. The Rev. Roy L. Turnage officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Worth Sugg of Ayden and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linwood Guthrie of Atlanta, Ga.

The chancel of the church was centered with a hanging basket of pink, orchid and white flowers, complemented by nine-branched tree candelabrum filled with flowers of the same color scheme. Standing palms, lighted tapers and bridal greenery intertwined at the communion rail at which the couple knelt completed the setting.

Mrs. Agnes Goldston of Raleigh, organist, and Mrs. Cora Lee of Greenville, vocalist, presented a program of wedding music. Mrs. Lee sang "One Hand, One Heart", "We've Only Just Begun", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie, fashioned with a high neck and an empire bodice, each bordered with a fluted ruffle and re-embroidered alencon lace. The full, long sleeves were trimmed with re-embroidered alencon lace applique and finished at the wrists with fluted ruffles and white satin ribbon. The empire bodice and shaped skirt were trimmed with sprays of alencon lace appliques and seed pearls. A fluted ruffle, attached with alencon lace, finished the skirt. A white satin ribbon with a bow and streamers circled the waist. A detachable, chapel length train, trimmed to match the gown, fell from the waist. To complete her attire, the bride wore a veil of chapel length illusion attached to a white Camelot cap of alencon applique.

The bride's attendants wore formal gowns of orchid linen and Italian lace designed by Priscilla of Boston. A Victorian collar of lace encircled the neckline. The butterfly sleeves were of matching lace. The A-line skirt fell softly from the empire waistline and flowed into a brush train. The gowns were finished with a lace border. They all wore picture hats of white bridal braid with matching orchid ribbon flowing from the back and carried nosegays of orchids, carnations, pink daisies and white miniature carnations with pink, orchid and white streamers.

Mrs. Dottie Sugg of Kinston sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Connie Nobles of Kinston served as the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Missy Guthrie of Atlanta, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Cynthia Moore of Ayden, Mrs. Mary Eberhardt of Raleigh, and Mrs. Josie Thomas of Charlotte. Honorary attendants were Mrs. Dianne Hill and Miss Carolyn Van Hoy of Raleigh.

The flower girl, Ginger Pittman, of Black Mountain, cousin of the bride, wore a gown similar to the attendants and carried a princess basket of rose petals.

Ernest Guthrie, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Bill Guthrie of Atlanta, brother of the bridegroom, Ralph Thomas of Beaufort, cousin of the bridegroom, Michael Sugg of Kinston, brother of the bride, and Edward Simpson and Gerald Troyer, both of Beaufort.

The ring bearer, James Pierce of Kenly, cousin of the bride, carried a heart-shaped satin pillow.

The mother of the bride wore a formal ensemble of apricot worsted silk, styled on princess lines, with a jeweled mandarin neckline and pleated chiffon sleeves cuffed at the wrist. She used matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal long sleeved beige satin gown with a sleeveless beige, black and brown vest. Gold accessories complemented the ensemble. The mothers wore corsages of white tube roses.

The wedding was directed by Miss Monza Saad.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, parents of the bride entertained wedding and out-of-town guests at a reception honoring the bridal couple at the Ayden Golf and Country Club.

The bride's chosen color scheme of orchid, pink and white was used throughout the room. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. George King and directed to the bridal table where punch was served by Mrs. Bert Jenkins, Mrs. Liv Oates Beddard, Mrs. Nathan Thomas and Mrs. Lewis Thomas.

MRS. GEORGE ARTHUR GUTHRIE

The bride's three-tier wedding cake was surrounded four heart shaped cakes, topped with miniature cupids, doves and wedding bells and were interspersed with bridal greenery and lily-of-the-valley. Guests were served by Mrs. Arlando Turnage and Mrs. Jimmie Lee Jones.

Miss Isabel Gorham presided at the guest register and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vowell said good-byes.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Campbell College where he graduated cum laude with a B.A. degree in history. He is employed with the Employment Security Commission, Rocky Mount.

The bride is a graduate of Meredith College where she graduated cum laude with a B.S. degree in home economics. She will be employed by Belk-Tyler of Rocky Mount as an interior designer.

The couple will reside in Rocky Mount following a wedding trip to Nags Head.

An informal hour honoring the bride was given at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George King. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. King and her daughter, Tina.

The bride and bridegroom were honored at an after-rehearsal dinner Saturday night, given by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Guthrie, parents of the bridegroom. Members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests were present for the buffet style meal. The bride and groom chose this occasion to present their gifts.

Special Club Project Planned At Meet

Plans for a special club project were discussed Wednesday at the luncheon meeting of the Greenville Welcome Wagon Club.

A trash and treasure sale will be held Saturday, Sept. 15, at the Elm Street Park by the club. It was announced that the various club interest groups are scheduled to resume in the fall.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Rolf Kannen, president.

Mrs. George Manning introduced the following guests: Mrs. Don Edgerley; Mrs. Larry Porter; Mrs. Walter Wilcox; Mrs. Chester Robins; Mrs. Russell Lee; Mrs. Rosa Wooten; Mrs. Robert Woronoff; Mrs. Donald Martin; Mrs. Warren Chanton; Mrs. Jack Watts; and Mrs. David Persall.

Adoption Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ted G. Norris of Camden, S. C., announce the adoption of a daughter, Virginia Gaston, Mrs. Norris is the former Virginia James of Greenville.

Sister Concerned About Stealing

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a working girl, 19, and I live at home. I have several younger brothers and sisters, and it is really sad to find that someone in your own family steals. That is my problem, and I don't know which one it is.

I have hidden my purse in my bowling bag, underneath my clothes in drawers, and even far back in my closet, but someone always finds it and helps themselves to some money. I have missed 5s, 10s, and even $20 bills. [They never take it all.]

How can I find out who is guilty?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I know of no "traps" you can set, although I'm sure there are many. Why don't you put a lock on a drawer [or closet] and wear the key around your neck on a chain?

DEAR ABBY: Phil and I were married for two years, and I thought we had a great marriage. He was 23 and I was 25.

Then Phil went back to college full time while I worked and paid the bills. [I'm a surgical nurse.] It was working out fine until Phil became more than casually involved with a female classmate, and in a sequence of events they were both kicked out of school. [He had stolen a test and they were both caught in possession of it.]

Phil then transferred to another school. The girl also transferred with him. By the way, she's 21, divorced, and has a child.

I demanded a showdown and Phil said he "loved" us both and couldn't decide between her or me.

My pride was hurt, so I locked him out, and now, of course, he is seeing her.

I still love him and regret locking him out. I don't want to lose him, but I couldn't take his running from her to me. Please tell me how to get him back.

SORRY

DEAR SORRY: You could swallow what's left of your pride and ask Phil to reconsider, but after locking him out, I'd say you blew it.

DEAR ABBY: I get so riled up when I read those pathetic letters signed, "Neglected Mother," or "Forgotten Father." They are from old folks who are not wanted by their children. Abby, I wonder if they have ever stopped to ask themselves why?

One day, many years ago, I came home from work and found my four children watching TV. When I poked my head into the room, they didn't even say hello. I was hurt and angry. Then I said to myself: "You fool! If you can't make yourself more interesting than that damned TV set, it's your own fault."

I admit, I used a bit of bribery in the form of peppermint candy and a few minor toys, but within a few days when I entered the house, there were hoots and hollers: "Daddy's home!"

Old people should consider that their loneliness could be caused by themselves. Many are excused for being difficult because of their age. Why? No one has a right to be difficult whether he be young or old. Old age doesn't give one the license to complain all the time [we all have troubles], to talk all the time and reminisce too much [other people like to talk about themselves, too], or to expect constant attention.

Old people should make an effort to be good company. They should also have a hobby, so they can enjoy being alone.

I am 60 years of age, and if I grow old and nobody comes to see me, I hope I am wise enough to realize it's 99 per cent my own fault.

CHARLIE IN ROME

DEAR CHARLIE: Loneliness for you? I'll bet against it.

Architect Turned Sculptor 'Has This Thing For Bigness'

By EVE SHARBUTT

AP Newsfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Muriel Kaplan says she is a frustrated architect turned sculptor who "has this thing for bigness."

The "thing" is one factor in her abstract architectural sculptures. She creates them from such materials as structural steel. Massive designs she creates must be in a material that supports itself.

She created twin 29-foot arching towers for a Tarrytown, N.Y., office building, and two giant steel sculptures, one weighing two and a half tons that is balanced on a corner, for a Pennsylvania theater complex.

"A lot of sculpture has no relation to modern buildings. I feel you can't put an old-fashioned statue in front of them. With zoning setbacks and plaza areas, buildings need modern sculpture," Mrs. Kaplan said. "For some time, I've been talking to builders and trying to convince them that modern-style works in today's materials are needed."

"When you work on this scale, you really have to go beyond sculpture. It is physical as well as philosophical. The sculptor is working in the same general environment as the architect. It's something in the air," she added.

The attractive, fortyish woman, mother of four, went back to school to study welding when her youngest child was ready for school. A graduate of Cornell, she received her master's degree from Sarah Lawrence and has studied art "everywhere I could" while her children were growing up.

"Now, when I want to learn something new, I go to the craftsmen who really do it. When I wanted to learn about plastics, I went to a factory to learn what the machines would do, what size pieces they could fabricate and how," she said.

Working in wax, Mrs. Kaplan creates a design. She says the sheet of wax is similar to a sheet of metal, bending just as metal will bend and about the same thickness as a metal sheet. She creates a model after she is satisfied by the wax sculpture, and sends the miniature model to a manufacturer of steel or other material. "A stone carving teacher told me that the artist gives to the stone as the stone gives to the artist. You work with materials and think what they can do; it's the two of you working together," Mrs. Kaplan said.

The large sculptures the artist prefers are expensive; they must be done on commission. Mrs. Kaplan says she often finds herself pitching a handsome, modern sculpture to owners of modern new buildings when she meets them at parties.

In the meantime, she works on sculpture that is just the opposite of her giant iron and steel arches. She does portraits, heads from miniature to normal size, in epoxy and clay.

"They are two very different, separate things. In portraits, the work is more personal. Large sculpture is cerebral, so monolithic that you must pay close attention. Portraits are emotional. Each has its place and they balance each other. Each makes me appreciate the other more. But the large ones mean more to me," she said.

This summer, Mrs. Kaplan and her husband, a retired textile executive, visited Florence to study Renaissance art.

She keeps her own work in her studio. In her city home, she has a gallery-like collection of other artists' work. So far, she says, all are marvelous investments.

"People think the world of art today is loose and free, but that is not so. There is little tolerance for things new or different. I did a life-size epoxy figure, a modern version of Zeus hurling a thunderbolt."

Mistake By Justice Douglas

That was a unfortunate thing that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas did in ordering a halt to the bombing of Cambodia.

It is simply a fact that Justice Douglas had issued an order which he could not enforce. Fortunately the other eight justices recognized this and apparently after telephone consultation, quickly reversed the Douglas order with Justice Thurgood Marshall taking the lead.

It is interesting to note that the bombing never stopped all the while that Douglas' order was in effect and a Pentagon spokesman said there would be no interruption while administration lawyers were seeking to reverse the order.

'Multi-Mode' Transit Plans

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A pair of state officials, both professional planners, are taking a long look at mass transportation down the road for North Carolina, and what they see is not more downtown buses.

In fact, they consider rural transportation problems just as severe as urban ones since census surveys show that a fourth of the rural people in the state don't even have access to a car.

The need in North Carolina, according to John Cameron, assistant secretary for planning in the state's Department of Transportation, is a statewide system of transportation linking existing methods with some new—perhaps exotic—means of moving people and goods from starting point to destination.

Cameron terms this approach in planning an effort to form a "unified transportation system," and noted that in planning jargon it has come to be known as "multi-mode" transportation.

"There must be a balance in transportation. There is a place for the automobile, it is here to stay... and the same is true for trucks and buses," Cameron said.

Cameron and his chief aide, James F. Daughtry, manager of transportation planning and programming, occupy a crowded office in the Highway Building. Desks and tables are piled high with research reports, notes, rough draft program outlines and transportation reports from across the nation.

From this budding effort will come a package of legislative proposals and budget considerations this fall, Cameron said.

Cameron and Daughtry are quick to admit that the state's involvement in mass transit is pretty skimpy at this time, and Cameron said he got the assignment in addition to other duties, "pretty much by default."

But he sees better times ahead in what he feels is a growing state commitment to mass transit. "I have recommended to the secretary (Bruce Lentz) that a division of mass transportation be set up," he said.

"The approach is not well defined at this point, and this office is here as an interim measure only. But it is appropriate that we not wait too long, but define our goals now, and go on record as really supporting mass transportation in this state... and that must be done in the context of not taking away the grass roots involvement of local communities in planning and working on mass transit."

A boyish-looking 31 years of age, Ameron holds a master degree in planning and is a graduate of N. C. State University and the University of North Carolina. He is a former city planner in Raleigh. Daughtry is a 1962 grad of N. C. State and returned recently to his native Raleigh after eight years heading a transportation consulting firm in San Diego, Calif.

Both men see this state as already having a fine highway system and the potential to develop a mass transit system "before we face that crisis which confronts major population centers such as Boston, Chicago and so on," Daughtry said. The big thing, he added, is to face the question: "Do we care enough about our cities and about our offspring to tax our resources to plan ahead for mass transit, and at least open up our options for the future."

It is too early right now to tell what the fall proposal will look like in terms of specifics. But Cameron said it will treat three basic problems in transportation in North Carolina:

1. Urban mass transit—getting people to work, shopping, to recreational opportunities in the city;
2. Rural transportation—getting people to available social services, shopping, jobs in the cities in areas where a quarter of the people don't have access to an automobile or other form of transit;
3. Inter-city mass transit—means of linking the large concentrations of people, primarily along the Piedmont section of the state from Raleigh to Charlotte, but also including outlying large cities as well.

Ticking off on his fingers a rapid history of transportation in America, Cameron recalled that riverboats were an early form of transit, followed by the stagecoach, the railroads, the automobile and then the airplane.

"It may be that for transportation in North Carolina, particularly along heavily populated corridors, the opportunity is at hand to turn back the clock to an earlier form of transit," Camron said with a grin, and declined to elaborate.

But without getting specific, he said what is likely to happen will be a form of rolling vehicle using existing interstate highway property, railroad rights-of-way or "some combination of the two—or some new rights-of-way—to form a new system."

And what would have happened if a new Supreme Court order could not have been obtained? Chances are there would have been another test of the separation of powers with Justice Douglas left to enforce his own order.

The results could have been disastrous for the majesty and power of the courts.

This is not to say that there is no room to question the legality of the southeast Asia fighting, but the fact is it has gone on for many years with American involvement and we doubt if there are many wars in world history which have been halted through a judicial order.

It is ironic, too, that Congress has given an implied consent to the final days of Cambodian bombing through its compromise agreement with the administration which allows the bombing to go on until Aug. 14.

Justice Douglas made a bad mistake in attempting to do with the stroke of a pen something that it took Congress, which has the direct authority, months to work out. Douglas order was unrealistic and it could have irreparably harm the prestige of the Supreme Court. Wisely, Justice Marshall intervened.

Turning To Nature To Solve Man's Problems

Two of modern mankind's problems may be solved by age old species of life.

It was reported last week that the Air Force is experimenting with the falcon to keep airport runways clear of birds that smash into planes.

Then in Bermuda an oil eating bug called the arthrobacter is being studied as a means of disposing of waste oil. The bug can clean out an oil tankers' bilges, then dies and makes high-quality fish food.

Maybe Nature's way is still best.

Nixon Address Theme Unclear

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Senior White House aides now plotting a conciliatory approach seeking national unity in Richard M. Nixon's singlemost important address since his famous self-defense in the Checkers speech 21 years ago are running up against one White House hardliner: Richard M. Nixon.

Pressing the conciliatory theme is the top-level White House team of Alexander M. Haig, Jr., Ron Ziegler, Melvin R. Laird, Bryce Harlow and Henry A. Kissinger, all in agreement. "We're all pushing conciliation," one White House adviser told us, "all of us, that is, except the President."

Thus, only days before the scheduled and long-promised presidential effort to escape the entangling coils of Watergate with a major explanation of his own conduct, the tone and mood of the speech have not yet been decided. This ambivalence, which has marked every presidential step of the way since the Watergate crisis began, may conceivably result in a last-minute change of plans—no speech at all.

That would not displease some Republicans—including Mr. Nixon's most stalwart defender on the Watergate committee, Sen. Edward Gurney of Florida. Gurney believes that the complex of disputed facts, contradictions and lies which baffle out of Watergate simply do not lend themselves to a speech format. Much more preferable to Gurney would be interrogation of the President by a small group of reporters or perhaps lawyers or politicians.

No such format is under White House consideration today. Present plans call for Mr. Nixon to address a bipartisan audience, including some Congressmen, in the White House East Room over national television.

That at least would avoid the forensic sterility of a set-piece Oval Office speech from the presidential desk, the setting for Mr. Nixon's April 17 and April 30 speeches. But the president has decreed no questions until a later meeting with the press, devoted to the Watergate atrocities.

In that setting, too, White House aides, while not agreeing on every detail, want the President to spin out a blend of courageous mea culpa, admitting having imposed far too much trust in departed aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, mixed with a dramatic appeal to "out there"—the voters, not the establishment elite. The appeal: free the President from the Watergate coils so that he can get on with the job of being President.

This blend of mea culpa and the appeal to free the President to lead the nation must also court the Democrats, these White House aides say. Only a credible Nixon theme of "national unity," according to this thesis, can begin to defuse the Watergate passions and return the nation closer to normality.

"The fact that Ray Price (Mr. Nixon's chief speechwriter and a Republican moderate) is writing the speech," one middle level White House staffer, a hardliner, told us, "makes me worry that he's going to take a mea culpa copout."

That sentiment is hard at odds with the senior staff (Haig-Ziegler-Laird-Harlow-Kissinger) but far more representative of the politics of Richard M. Nixon than the "national unity" theme. Thus, in the words of the middle-level staffer: "When the President works over Ray's draft, he'll take out the mea culpa."

Instead of appealing for bipartisan unity on a theme of post-Watergate conciliation, the hard-line theme is specific: since Mr. Nixon now has the Senate Watergate committee on the run and

Strength For Today

VIRTUES IN ORDER

There is a statement in the first chapter of II Peter which gives a fine picture of the progress of the Christian life. It reads as follows: "To your faith add virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge self-control; and to self-control patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness love."

One of the most important things about the living of a good life is to get our virtues in proper sequence. Housewives find that in cooking they must not only use certain ingredients but if they are to get the dish they want they must mix these ingredients in a certain prescribed order.

In this brief passage Scripture, the apostle Peter points out that the Christian life starts at a definite point and comes to its fullness at a certain definite point. It starts with faith and is consummated in love.

Cheating Their People

WASHINGTON — "There has been a lot of misinformation in the press as to why New Zealand has raised such strong objections to the French holding their atomic tests in the Pacific," Anthony Cubert-Jones, a New Zealander, told me. "We are not against France having an atomic bomb. As a matter of fact, we welcome it. The French deserve a bomb. They've earned it."

"Then what is your objection?" I asked.

"We feel that by holding their tests in the Pacific, the French are cheating their own citizens."

"I don't understand."

"The French taxpayer has paid a billion dollars to have his government develop an atomic bomb. But he has been unable to see what he's getting for his money. All he can do is read in the newspapers that France has set off a bomb in the Mururoa. He has to take the French government's word that the explosion was a success. We New Zealanders feel this is very unfair to French citizens who have paid for it but get none of the joy of actually seeing an atomic bomb go off."

ART BUCHWALD

"But what's the solution?" "I think the French should hold their atomic tests in France so everyone can see them."

"Are you suggesting the next atomic explosion take place over Paris?"

"Now you're being ridiculous. You know it's infeasible to hold atomic blasts in a large city. What I have in mind is that the experiments take place in either Burgundy or Bordeaux. The French could clear away 20 or 30 miles of vineyards, build a testing complex and send up the bomb in a balloon to explode over the countryside. The mushroom cloud would be visible for hundreds of miles and could be witnessed by millions of Frenchmen. Can you imagine how proud the French would be to see their own bomb, made in France by Frenchmen, floating over the Eiffel Tower?"

"Wouldn't there be some health hazards?" I asked.

"The French have assured us that there is no danger from their experiments on the Mururoa atoll so I'm sure the same would be true if they blasted away in France."

"I wonder why the French never thought of it?"

"I suppose they thought those of us who live in the Pacific should get the benefit of their bomb. Perhaps they believed it would help tourism in Tahiti. I can't speak for their thinking, but if I were a Frenchman, I'd be damned mad that I didn't get the fallout from a bomb I paid

'Flop' Hit It Rich

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Uttal flopped in doughnuts. He flopped in the retail clothing field. He flopped as a songwriter. He flopped a couple of times as a music publisher.

HAL BOYLE

But now, at 51, Larry Uttal has made a fortune as one of America's top record executives.

"You learn more from your failures than you do from success," said Uttal, the bearded, unconventional president of Bell Records, one of the top companies in the business. Recently his firm had the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3 top hit singles on the sales charts, a feat unprecedented in the industry.

His firm over a two-year period has become a leading producer in Great Britain and turned out 20 gold records, each of which has sold more than a million discs.

"But you can lose money, even on a hit record, if you spend too much for the talent or promotion," said Uttal. "The things that count in this business are continuity and followup."

"You don't have time to enjoy the luxury of a hit record. It may gross $400,000 for the manufacturer, but he may not only five per cent of that. Its life as a heavy seller usually lasts only about six weeks. At the end of from three to six months it is dead — and there is nothing dearer than a dead hit record. If you aren't ready then to follow it up with another hit, you'll probably be dead soon, too."

Part of Uttal's success is attributed to his skill in handling artists and discovering new talent.

The Bell stable includes such stars as the Partridge Family, the Fifth Dimension, David Cassidy, Dawn, Edison Lighthouse, Vickie Lawrence, a featured performer on the Carol Burnett television show, and young Gary Glitter, who has been hailed as "The Elvis Presley of Great Britain." Bell also turned out the original cast album of the musical "Godspell," which won the industry's Grammy Award.

Larry, who studied statistics in college, became a captain in the medical corps during World War II. He said he turned to pop music chiefly to escape the ordeal of "12 hateful years of playing classical music" as a child.

He learned from his two children to appreciate rock music, of which he is now an expert judge.

They All Say: Don't Blame Me

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — When historians come to write about this period of American economic history, they will discover a theme more normally found in a mystery story.

Detective-like, they will probe deeply in an effort to explain why prices soared and controls were required, why the dollar plunged, why interest rates soared, why shortages developed, why economic confidence deteriorated.

They will study the public utterances of administration officials, just as a detective interviews the principals, and will get the same answer: Don't blame me.

Speaking last week to a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent reiterated the administration's position, which more and more appears to be a declaration of innocence: Government "can hardly be blamed for the present supply and demand spiral."

This seemingly has become the official administration position, being almost identical in meaning to the President's statement last month that the cause was "an extraordinary combination of circumstances."

Those circumstances were, as he described them, a decline of domestic food supplies, the booming of the domestic economy at an exceptional pace and a powerful demand for goods and services.

All these factors or consequences might be recognized, of course, not only as subject to government influence through fiscal, monetary and other policies but also as outright responsibilities of the federal government.

That, at least, has been the growing assumption of most administrations since President Hoover, and citizens who heard a resolute new president assume his duties in 1968 aren't likely to believe Nixon turned his back on that trend.

While some of what the administration says might be true, there are many possibilities for investigation that don't fit into the category of "extraordinary combination of circumstances," which don't seem "impersonal, natural."

program, of its discontinuance of Phase 3 offers possibilities.

Worth studying also is the policy of making agricultural exports a major factor in trade expansion without understanding fully the domestic needs.

Nearsightedness and even blindness at the Agriculture Department might be a factor. It didn't know how much food was being exported, couldn't foresee developing shortages and was forced to raise its 1973 estimate of domestic food price increases from six to 20 per cent within a matter of months.

Certainly to be considered is the failure of the administration to bring fiscal and monetary policy into harmony. While the president was cutting spending, the Federal Reserve continued to fuel demand by permitting an expansion of money.

Apaches Intend Bennett Confident Pursue Claim He Can Beat Rouse

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Descendants of the Apache warrior Geronimo plan to renew their legal battle with the government to collect damages for an alleged atrocity which decimated their tribe around the turn of the century.

The Indian Claims Commission already has awarded members of the Chiricahua Apache tribe more than $16 million in return for the seizure of their ancestral lands in Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico.

But the Chiricahuas are demanding millions more, claiming they were imprisoned by the government under inhumane conditions for 27 years.

Government documents show the Chiricahuas, mostly old men, women and children, for with my hard-earned francs."

"Why do you think Pompidou insisted the explosion take place in Micronesia instead of Burgundy or Bordeaux?"

"This is only conjecture on my part, but I suspect he was afraid the thing wouldn't go off. It would have been very embarrassing if he told everyone in France he was going to explode his bomb in Burgundy, and the thing puffed. Can you imagine the disappointment of the vine growers in the area?"

"Is it too late to persuade the French to move their future tests to France?"

All of us in the Pacific hope not. As a matter of fact, Australia, New Zealand and Japan have offered to pay for shipping everything back to France, including all the technicians and military personnel. We would hate to see them go, but it is our belief that the French will never believe they have a sufficient deterrent unless they can see it explode with their own eyes."

"Then New Zealanders and Australians harbor no bitterness toward the French?"

"Of course not. Have you ever met a Frenchman you didn't like."

voters are getting bored, he should attack as "vindictive" the political "enemies" now preventing him from doing the job that over 60 per cent of the voters elected him to.

That advice not only conforms to Mr. Nixon's combative instincts but exactly comports with Mr. Nixon's sudden attack on unnamed enemies during his routine dinner toast to Prime Minister Tanaka of Japan last week.

Moreover, the President can scarcely ignore the highly favorable reaction that his embattled Vice President received in his all-out public self-defense Wednesday. The fact that Agnew lashed back at his attackers in the press—and Mr. Nixon has not — did not go unnoticed in the White House.

President Nixon's instincts would almost surely carry him down that dangerous path if it were not for unanimous advice of his senior advisers. In fact, he may pick that road anyway—and risk a polarization of deadly danger to the nation.

were transported to internment camps in Florida, Alabama and Oklahoma after being evicted from their homelands.

The Apaches originally filed suit against the government in 1949, asking for $7.5 million in damages—$14.3 million in today's dollars.

Lawyers for the government did not contest the facts, but in 1971 the Indian Claims Commission dismissed the suit on grounds it did not have jurisdiction over wrongs suffered by individuals—only those suffered by an entire tribe. The commission held it was "irrelevant that each and every member" of the tribe was imprisoned.

The ruling was upheld on appeal by the U.S. Court of Appeals, but lawyers for the Apaches are preparing a second appeal and say they will take their case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Find Body Of Missing Man

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — The body of an Elizabeth City man, missing for four days, was found over the weekend in a wooded area of the city, dead from an apparent suicide, police said.

Police Chief W.C. Owens identified the man as Elisha Keyes, about 70, who had been missing since Wednesday. Owens said Keyes was found with an electrical cord around his neck and tied to a small tree.

Dr. Jerry Pickeral, a pathologist at Albemarle Hospital in Elizabeth City, was quoted as saying there was no indication of foul play.

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP) — The governor's choice to be the next chairman of the North Carolina Republican Party, Thomas Bennett of Morehead City, is confident he will defeat incumbent rival Frank Rouse, if Rouse decides to seek re-election.

"There is no doubt I will win the post of state chairmanship...," Bennett said a week-end meeting, where he met Rouse face-to-face. "Everywhere I go, there is support."

Bennett and Rouse encountered each other at a meeting of the state's Young Republican Club executive committee. Bennett, a former state legislator from Carteret County, said he and Rouse shook hands and "exchanged a few words" at a pig picking Saturday night.

Rouse, of Kinston, has been at odds with Gov. Jim Holshouser's administration and Holshouser announced last week he would support Bennett for the party chairmanship.

Rouse was expected to use the weekend meeting at Atlan-

The date for the school bus drivers' examination was incorrectly stated in Sunday's edition of The Daily Reflector. The test will be given Tuesday, Aug. 14, at 8:30 a.m. at Rose High School.

Both the classroom and road test will be administered by Bob Conleton of the State Department of Motor Vehicles' driver examination division.

David Barnhill, Rose High guidance counselor, requested that all certified bus drivers meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 23, at the school.

tic Beach to announce he would seek re-election as party chairman, but he made no such announcement and there was speculation among party leaders that he would decide not run.

Bennett, a former state legislator from Carteret County, said that he and Rouse shook hands and "exchanged a few words" at a pig picking Saturday night.

Bennett's supporters were at the weekend gathering in full force and turned out for a cocktail party in Rouse's honor Saturday afternoon. Bennett himself did not attend Rouse's party.

Vehicle Rolled Into Tar River

An estimated $1,500 damage resulted to a car owned by Willis Johnson Stancill of 213 Stancill Dr. yesterday when the vehicle rolled off a 25-foot high embankment into the Tar River, police reported.

Capt. W. M. Carr said the vehicle was parked just off River Drive, about 30 feet East of the Library Street intersection, then rolled off the bank into the river, landing upside down in about 10 feet of water.

The incident occurred about 3:50 p.m.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Tobacco farm owner-operators "cleared" about 22 cents a pound on their flue-cured crop last year despite a rise of production costs to nearly 64 cents a pound.

The largest single component of the total cost figure was an average expenditure for hired labor of 17.4 cents a pound.

These are some of the key statistics pulled from an analysis of the records of flue-cured tobacco farms enrolled in the Farm Business Records Program at North Carolina State University.

The economist who made the analysis, Dr. Charles Pugh, said the figures "should be fairly representative of owner operated farms."

In commenting on the analysis, Dr. Pugh explained that the 22-cent "profit" represents the farmer's return over cash expenses and depreciation of equipment and buildings. It doesn't include compensation for his own time and investment.

The base statistics from the farms in the analysis were these:

- Average total acreage of tobacco per farm was 23.5.
- Average yield per acre was 2,113 pounds.
- Average per pound cost of production was 63.5 cents.
- Average price received was 85.5 cents per pound.

On the cost side, the second largest expenditure behind that for hired labor was 9.5 cents per pound charged to rent. This represents the total rent paid by the 19 sample farms divided by the pounds produced.

"The farms had substantial quotas of their own," the N. C. State University economist said, "Therefore, this 9.5 cents per pound figure is below the average cost of leased-in quota."

Depreciation costs averaged 8.7 cents a pound; supplies, including chemicals, 4.2 cents; fertilizer 3.8 cents; warehouse charges and miscellaneous 3.7 cents; interest 3.5 cents; curing fuel and other utilities 3.2 cents; gas and other fuel 2.3 cents; repairs 2.2 cents; insurance 2.2 cents; and taxes 1.7 cents.

"We feel this is probably the most accurate set of records we've ever had on a small group of tobacco farms," the farm management economist said. "They should provide growers who are keeping their own records with a good basis for comparison. They should also encourage the many farmers who don't attempt to keep cost records to do so."

Wide distribution of the cost breakdown is being made in an effort to encourage better record keeping.

many decisions they have to make in operating a farm and a tobacco enterprise.

Better quality tobacco in 1973 is a goal of many tobacco growers this year, according to Franklin M. Green, Rockingham County extension agent.

Green said growers have made a conscious effort to study the problems that have caused low quality in the past.

Green explained that some of the causes of trouble last year were identified as excessive nitrogen, late transplanting and harvesting immature tobacco. These were complicated by too much rainfall and cool weather in the early growing season.

Growers have already made progress toward avoiding some of these same problems this year. More of them have selected varieties that are more resistant to root diseases, and a great deal of attention has been given to planning the best possible fertilization program.

Much will still depend on the weather.

Arts Series Stamp Is Honoring Poet

Poet Robinson Jeffers will be honored by the second stamp in the American Arts series, to be placed on sale this week.

Already honored was musician George Gershwin by a stamp issued earlier this year.

The Jeffers stamp is the second of four in the series to be issued during 1973. The other two, planned for later in the year, will honor artist Henry Ossawa Tanner and writer Willa Cather.

All four stamps, designed by Mark English, are in compatible formats, and are printed in the semi-jumbo size.

Jeffers (1887-1962) studied the classics, particularly Greek and Roman, in private schools abroad, then studied medicine and forestry before electing to become a poet. He lived in seclusion with his family near Carmel, California. Much of his poetry, allegorical in technique, concerned his neighbors, three of whom, plus a burro, appear in the stamp montage.

The stamp will be accorded first day ceremonies in Carmel on Monday, and go on nationwide sale, starting Tuesday.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices fell again today as investors continued to worry about inflation and its offshoots, particularly soaring interest rates.

At 11:30 a.m., the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.52 at 884.86. The blue chip indicator was down 9.11 Friday and down 17.16 for last week, obliterating the gains of a three-week rally in July. Declining Big Board issues today had an almost 3-to-1 lead over gainers.

American Telephone & Telegraph Warrants, down 1/4 at 4%, was the Big Board volume leader. American Sterilization, down 1/2 at 11%, and Occidental Petroleum, down 3/4 at 9 1/4, were active also.

On the American Stock Exchange, Brown-Forman, down 1 at 21 1/4, was the volume leader.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of some common shares was down 0.40 at 55.44.

The Amex's price-change index was down .04 at 23.13.

Awaits Better Grades

RALEIGH (AP) — A marketing specialist for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture says he looks for tobacco prices to move into at least the middle $90 range when better grades appear on warehouse floors.

"On top quality leaf, I wouldn't be surprised to see prices move into the high $90s," Tommy Bunn said in an interview.

"Prices will climb as better quality tobacco comes on the floor," Bunn said. This pattern has occurred on the Georgia-Florida Belt, he noted.

Several agricultural officials in North Carolina have spoken out against the market prices this season.

B. C. Mangum, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, said growers were getting a "raw deal at the marketplace."

Ayden Man An Engineer

RALEIGH — Elmer Floyd Wiggins of 1701 Pinedale Drive has met the requirements for registration as a professional engineer.

Wiggins has been employed by North Carolina State University for four years and serves as a consulting engineer for the Research Stations Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

Among his achievements is the engineering design for the buildings, irrigation, and layout of the Horticultural Crops Research Station at Clinton. He is currently working on the bull testing facility for the Piedmont Research Station.

The Ayden native received a B.S. degree from North Carolina State University in Biological and Agricultural Engineering.

His activities include the North Raleigh Exchange Club, the North Carolina Irrigation Society, and the North Carolina Agriculture Engineering Society. He is a member of the Garner Methodist Church and is active in Methodist Children's Home.

Rose High Key Club Organized At Sunday Meet

The Rose High Key Club held its charter meeting Sunday night with a cook-out at J. H. Rose High School. The Key Club is a civic organization sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club and composed of young men attending high school.

Special guest of the meeting was Mike Rollins of Williamston, recording secretary of the Carolinas district of Key Club. Rollins spoke to the 26 attending charter members on the duties and functions of a Key Club in its school and community.

Randy Alford was appointed temporary chairman of the new chapter until elections are held at the next meeting on Thursday, August 16. Faculty sponsor for the Rose High Key Club is David Bumgardner. Les Garner and Jerry Fulford will serve as Kiwanis Club advisors.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Zion Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate the church's anniversary Tuesday through Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Their Hostess Stayed In Bed

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The hostess wore rumpled white pajamas and didn't get up to greet her guests. But nobody at Ruth Hoffman's party seemed to mind.

Mrs. Hoffman, 57, held the party for more than 100 family members and friends Saturday in her room at Sequoia Hospital here.

She learned she had terminal bone cancer the day before Mother's Day and began planning the party a short time later.

"I want to see and talk with and touch them all I can," she said as the visitors streamed into her flower-laden room to sign a guest book, hug her and chat.

"We all have to die, and I wanted to have a party for my friends," she said. "I feel wonderful, I'm surrounded by the people I love."

Amid the quiet chatter and laughter, Mrs. Hoffman's face brightened as she held her 5-year-old grandson, Scott Gage, and softly sang, "Rock a bye, baby, in the treetop."

"She is the most amazing woman I ever met," said Jan Gregory, who shared the room with Mrs. Hoffman when she was hospitalized recently for back surgery. "Ruth insisted upon being wheeled up to the surgery section every day just to cheer me."

Mrs. Hoffman said her one concern was that doctors keep her alive until the party. "After that, I don't care. I'll be ready," she said.

Avers Food Stamps Are The Culprit

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham says food stamps are a culprit of rising food costs in America today.

"We might as well face reality," Graham said in an interview Sunday on WXII-TV. "Food stamps are one of the reasons for the increased cost of food. I emphasize that because those people with food stamps are competing right there in the market place with those who don't have food stamps."

Americans, he said, "cannot take for granted that there will always be poultry products, bacon, ham or beef. I say most genuinely and without any hostility whatever that we have seen the last of so called cheap food in North Carolina and this country under the present system."

Graham added, "There are a lot of people getting food stamps that don't deserve them. I've heard people say, 'I can't get anybody to work because all they want to do is go down and get their food stamps.'"

On Phase 4, Graham said he had hoped the Nixon Administration would lift the price ceiling on beef last week. "You're going to see the same thing prevailing with beef...that you've seen in the last two or three days in the price of chickens and eggs."

He said higher labor costs, as well as increased production costs, have helped boost food prices. "I want everyone to have a living wage that will work and earn it. But I don't like people that are paid for not producing," the commissioner said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will take its time reducing massive American air power in Southeast Asia after all bombing in Cambodia ends at midnight Tuesday.

Some U.S. war planes, including B52 heavy bombers, will remain in Thailand indefinitely as a deterrent to possible new North Vietnamese offensive thrusts.

Pentagon officials say a continued American military presence in Thailand is justified under the nearly two-decade-old Southeast Asia Treaty.

According to present planning, officials say, the United States will start pulling out some of its 660 planes and 45,000 American servicemen about a month after the bombing halt.

About 430 of these planes are bombers. The rest include reconnaissance and electronic warfare craft, tankers, transports and helicopters.

The unwinding process will extend over a period of many months, with most of the planes and men returning to the United States and some to other bases in the Pacific area.

The United States probably will give up most of the seven bases it uses in Thailand but will hold on to the $90 million complex, including a B52 field and a major naval port, it built at Sattahip on the Gulf of Siam.

The Americans also are expected to remain at Nakhon Phanom, a base in northeast Thailand from which U.S. efforts to locate missing American servicemen are conducted.

Meanwhile, the Air Force will scale down gradually its force of about 140 B52s still on Guam.

The first squadron of 15 B52s was withdrawn to the United States from Guam a month ago and the Air Force is anxious to get the rest back as soon as possible so the heavy bombers can be returned to their original mission as part of the nation's long-range nuclear striking force.

The White House reportedly vetoed a faster pull-back of B52s in recent weeks because it felt such a movement would deprive the United States of leverage in its efforts to gain a Cambodian cease-fire before the bombing ended on orders from Congress. Those efforts failed anyway.

Ten days ago, President Nixon told Congress that "North Vietnam would be making a very dangerous error if it mistook the cessation of bombing in Cambodia for an invitation to fresh aggression or further violations of the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire Paris agreement."

Dig Up 24th Victim

HOUSTON (AP) — Jefferson County sheriff's officers dug up a 24th body today in the Houston mass sex slayings case and continued their search for more corpses on a Gulf Coast beach.

The body was found shortly after digging resumed near High Island, where two other bodies were found Friday. Officers have been told they may find as many as 30 bodies before they finish.

DH's Make Day For Themselves

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

If American League President Joe Cronin has any historical and promotional sense, he'd designate every second Sunday in August "Designated Hitter Day."

For Sunday, August 12th was the day people were forced to recognize that the DH was not just another hitter:

The best performance was by Boston's Orlando Cepeda, who went five-for-five with a home run and California's Frank Robinson went three-for-four with two homers in the Red Sox' 14-8 victory over the Angels.

Red Sox 14, Angels 8
"I think I'm hitting the ball as good as ever," said Cepeda after his five-hit performance had sparked Boston to a 14-8 victory.

His recent 1973 stats, exclusively as a DH, make it hard to argue. He has hit in 16 consecutive games, going 27-for-64 in that stretch to raise his average to .302.

Brewers 10, Twins 9

The Dave May-George Scott combination is the greatest pair to hit Milwaukee since beer and bottles were first introduced to each other.

The "Milwaukee 2" were on trial again in the 10th inning, against Minnesota.
May stroked a two-out single for the tying run.

Scott then lashed his own single for the winning run as the Brewers came from behind to nip the Twins 10-9.

A's 13, Yanks 12

"I don't think we'll win the pennant — we don't want it badly enough," said New York pitcher Sam McDowell after the Yankees blew a six-run lead and lost 13-12.

"We just let it go down the drain. We set the 'Pride of the Yankees' back 15 years."

Designated hitters, Deron Johnson of the A's and Jim Ray Hart of the Yanks tallied five hits and split a pair of homers.

Tigers 6, White Sox 2
Designated hitter Gates Brown and Jim Northrup blasted home runs, powering the Detroit Tigers and Jim Perry to a 6-2 victory over Chicago.

It was the 16th triumph in 20 games since the All-Star break for the AL Eastern Division-leading Tigers.

Orioles 10, Royals 6
Earl Williams slammed a two-run homer and designated hitter Tommy Davis added a two-run triple, highlighting a third-inning rally that sparked the Orioles to a 10-6 decision over Kansas City.

Indians 7, Rangers 6
Walt Williams singled with two out in the 11th inning and came home on Chris Chambliss' double to give Cleveland a 7-6 success over Texas.

In the National League, it was: Pittsburgh 5, Atlanta 2; Houston 3, Chicago 2; Cincinnati 7, St. Louis 2; San Francisco 4, New York 1; Los Angeles 2, Philadelphia 1 and in a doubleheader, Montreal 2, San Diego 0, then the Padres 4, Expos 3 in 10 innings.

Coach John Madden Is Thankful For Close Ones

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"It's important to play tight preseason games," said Oakland Raider Coach John Madden. "I'm thankful."

Madden might have added he was especially thankful for having the "old man" around to help him win those tight games — preseason or otherwise.

George Blanda, the 45-year-old whiz, provided the last quarter heroics again Saturday when he booted a 16-yard field goal with four seconds remaining to provide the Raiders' 27-26 margin over the Dallas Cowboys.

Blanda's 33-yard field goal earlier in the quarter started the Raiders comeback from a 26-14 deficit.
In other Saturday action, Atlanta beat Baltimore 34-20, Miami beat New Orleans 14-13, the New York Jets trounced the San Francisco 49ers 34-14, Chicago beat Houston 34-7, Green Bay defeated Buffalo 10-3, St. Louis defeated San Diego 17-13, Cincinnati swamped Philadelphia 45-21 and Cleveland and Los Angeles tied 21-21.

The New York Giants scored their second consecutive preseason victory with a 13-7 decision over the New England Patriots Sunday.

Kansas City hosts Detroit Monday night.

Norm Van Brocklin said the Falcons' victory over the Colts was an education for young quarterback Pat Sullivan.

"I'm sure Patty learned a little bit about linebacker play," Van Brocklin said of the second-year quarterback's first start in the National Football League.

The former Heisman Trophy winner completed 11 of 22 passes for 91 yards and a touchdown, but had three passes intercepted, two by Colt linebacker Stan White.

"It was quite an education," agreed Sullivan.

Also receiving an education was Chicago Bears rookie signal-caller Gary Huff, formerly of the Florida State.

"The kid played pretty well," Bears' coach Abe Gribson said. "But he made some mistakes. His old coach, Bill Peterson, who coached him at Florida State was blitzing him three out of every four plays."

Huff hit on touchdown passes of 22, 15 and 12 yards and got to extend his appearance because of an injury to Bobby Douglass.

For the second straight week, reserve quarterback Jim Del Greco led Miami to victory.

Brooks Hopes For Respect

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — David Pearson is still looking for enough prize money to put him in auto racing's $1 million class, and Dick Brooks hopes the sport will show him a little respect.

Brooks, a 31-year-old driver who has been without a strong car most of his professional life, finally got one that would hold together and won Sunday's rich Talladega 500-mile stock car race in the major upset of the season.

"I was crying so hard I couldn't even see the checkered flag. I laughed and I cried like a baby that whole last lap. I pounded my fists on the steering wheel to be sure it was for real," said Brooks, a migrant from Porterville, Calif.

Pearson, 38, needed only $13,560 to join Richard Petty as the only stock car winners of $1 million in prize money.

While Brooks was floorboarding his two-year-old Plymouth to the first major triumph of his career, Pearson had to coax every ounce of power from his badly-fading Mercury in order to capture third place.

Brooks picked up $20,850 from the $145,000 purse, the biggest paycheck he'd ever seen. Pearson was paid $9,040 and now needs $4,310 to reach the career $1 million plateau.

Brooks will get the respect he deserves and Pearson will surely reach his financial goal before the season is out.

"I'm still looking for a regular ride," the begrimed winner said. "I have been around the business long enough to have proved myself as a driver, but nobody has come around and made an offer for a decent car. Maybe they'll look again, now."

The race was marred by the death of second-year driver Larry Smith, 31, of Lenoir, N.C. Smith's Mercury crashed head-on into the first turn concrete barrier during the 14th lap and he was dead of massive head injuries before he reached a hospital.

In between Brooks and Pearson, in as wild a finish as the sport has seen recently, was strongman Buddy Baker, and Baker's crew felt their man had won the race.

Baker was leading the chase with about 30 miles to go around the 2.66-mile Alabama International Speedway. He had started 21st among the 50 drivers—Brooks had started 24th—and had brought his Dodge into contention quickly.

But with only 13 laps to go, Baker's machine suddenly erupted smoke as he barreled down the front straight, Brooks and Pearson on his rear bumper.

The yellow caution flag waved quickly, it appearing that Baker's engine had broken and dropped out on the track.

Baker's crew chief, Harry Hyde, questioned whether the yellow slowdown flag had waved before the three cars roared across the start-finish line. Had it done so, neither Brooks or Pearson could have passed Baker without being subject to penalty.

Track officials said the yellow flag did not wave until after all three cars had passed the flag stand, thus giving Brooks and Pearson freedom to pass Baker without penalty.

Baker was paid $12,590. Fourth place went to James Hylton in a Mercury, fifth to David Sisco in a Chevrolet, sixth to Cale Yarborough in a Chevrolet, seventh to rookie Darrell Waltrip in a Mercury, eighth to Cecil Gordon in a Chevrolet, ninth to Walter Ballard in a Mercury and tenth to rookie L.D. Ottinger in a Chevrolet.

There were more than 50 official lead changes among 15 drivers as Brooks ran up an average speed for the race of 145.45 miles per hour despite seven yellow light situations that consumed 57 laps.

Two Unbeatens In T-of-C

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Nashville, Tenn., and North San Gabriel Valley, Calif., each came from behind Sunday night to emerge as the only remaining unbeaten baseball teams in the Babe Ruth Tournament of Champions.

Nashville and North San Gabriel, both 2-0 now in the double elimination tournament, meet in a showdown at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

In second-round games Sunday, North San Gabriel beat New Orleans, La., 6-2; Nashville edged Bloomington, Ind., 4-3; Sugar Creek, Mo., pushed Syracuse, N.Y., out of the tournament, 9-4; and defending champion Seattle eliminated Meriden-Wallingford, Conn., 13-0.

Sugar Creek (2-1 in tournament play) meets Bloomington (1-1) at 6 p.m. tonight, while New Orleans (1-1) battles Seattle (1-1) at 8 p.m.

The winners of tonight's two games meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday. New Orleans grabbed a 2-0 lead over North San Gabriel, but catcher Jim McGuffin doubled in two runs as the winner's scored three in third inning and were never again challenged.

Nashville had a tougher time with Bloomington, which took a three run advantage before Nashville got its first run in the bottom of the third inning.

Trailing 3-2 in the bottom of the sixth, Nashville's Phil Stinson reached base on an error, stole second, reached third on a pass ball and scored on a squeeze play that also left Barry Dean safe at first.

Dean scored the go-ahead run following a single and two consecutive walks.

Seattle won its game in the first inning with six runs. The loss was Meriden-Wallingford's second in the tournament and eliminated them from contention.

Sugar Creek exploded for five runs in the fifth inning to break open a close contest and hand Syracuse its second loss, 9-4.

IN GREENVILLE, N.C. TUESDAY

WILL EXPLAIN

HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

Louisville, Ky. Aug. 13, Mr. R. W. Yarbrough will be back in Greenville, N.C. AGAIN Tuesday, Aug. 14. Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every man and woman now losing hair should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION.

GUARANTEED
You will be given a written guarantee on a pro rated basis from the beginning to the end. Naturally we could not give you such a guarantee if it didn't work.

CAN'T HELP
Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

MANY CONDITIONS CAN CAUSE HAIR LOSS. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it is too late.

FREE CONSULTATION
Just take a few minutes of your time on Tuesday, Aug. 14, and go to the Holiday Inn U.S. 13 Memorial Dr. in Greenville between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for R. W. Yarbrough, room number.

There is no charge or obligation... all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way.

Nicklaus Tops Bobby Jones

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — No matter what his rivals say, Jack Nicklaus remains unconvinced he's golf's greatest player ever.

"I don't know if Bobby Jones is better or I am," said the game's No. 1 superstar Sunday, even though he had just shattered Jones' revered 43-year-old major title record of 13 victories.

"I do know he achieved his in shorter time," said the awesome Golden Bear, whose final round charge to a three-under-par 69 gave him a 277 total and a bulging four-shot decision over runnerup Bruce Crampton.

"At 33, I know I'm going to play a long time," Nicklaus added, "and the only way to compare is when you're through."

"The only measuring stick to-day is major titles. You can't compare stroke averages. The courses are so different," he said.

Nicklaus' powering game crumbled his Canterbury Golf Club opponents and brought these testimonials:

Crampton—"It was a pleasure to be an eyewitness to history being made. He borders on the unbelievable. Here's a man in his early 30s who could do this so early and with such ease."

Tom Weiskopf—"Jack's the greatest player who ever played the game. There isn't a shot he can't make. He's the greatest ever because the caliber of play is so much better now. It's tougher to win."

Consider these accomplishments for a man just reaching pro golf's prime age:

—Four Masters, three PGA, three U.S. Open, two British Open, two U.S. Amateur.

—12 major pro championships, one more than Walter Hagen's previous record.

—Just over $50,000 short of $2 million in official tour earnings since 1962.

—49 official tour victories, not counting his two British Opens.

—Five victories in 15 tour appearances this year including 13 times in the top ten.

—$245,424 in 1973 earnings, second to Crampton's $270,841, with the $45,000 first prize check.

Nicklaus arrived at the 6,852-yard course without a victory in his last five tournaments.

"I'll have to change that," he said on the eve of this, the last of the major tournaments for 1973.

He did, with a concentration seldom attained by his modern day rivals.

Crampton finished at 281 with a final 70.

Mason Rudolph, one stroke behind Nicklaus with upstart Don Iverson through 54 holes, struggled to a 73. He shared third at 282 with J.C. Snead and Lanny Wadkins, both with 69s.

Nicklaus put his rivals away with consecutive birdies on six and seven for a two shot lead. His advantage never dwindled under that figure down the stretch.

His four shot margin equaled another record. It matched Al Geiberger's standard for PGA medal play established in the 1969 PGA at Akron Firestone.

Belvoir Loses, 11-4

Kentucky Fried Chicken of Greenville took an 11-4 victory over the Belvoir Bombers in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader yesterday. The second game was called after five innings due to rain. The score was tied at two.

KFC scored five runs in the first for all the runs they needed. Reger singled, E. Vincent walked and T. Cox singled to load the bases. A passed ball scored Reger, Vincent scoring on another passed ball, and Cox stole home for three runs. G. Jarman walked and stole second, and went to third when A. Gurganus reached on an error. R. Phillips singled home Jarman, but Gurganus was thrown out trying to reach third. R. Phillips singled and came around when M. Meeks reached on an error, stole second on a double steal.

KFC scored two more in the second and sixth, and single runs in the fourth and seventh.

Belvoir got two in the third.

William Ward led off with a walk and reached second on a sacrifice. Bobby Short singled him across the plate, and later himself scored on a walk to J.C. Daniels and a double by Orlando Little.

Belvoir scored two more in the fifth when with one out, Robert Johnson walked and stole second. Daniels reached on a walk, and both men scored when Wade Johnson doubled.

The Bombers took a two runs lead into the bottom of the fifth, but KFC tied it when E. Vincent walked, reached third on a two-out single by L. Conrad, and scored on an error on the centerfielder. Conrad scored on three successive walks with the tying run before the rains came.

August Is Hot Month, Reds Are Hot Team Now

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
August is hot, but the Cincinnati Reds are hotter.

The surging Reds continue to pressure Los Angeles' front-running Dodgers in the suddenly tight National League West race thanks to a pace that's even hotter than the weather.

When the Reds whipped St. Louis 7-2 Sunday, it stretched Cincinnati's current winning streak to five straight and eight victories in the last nine games. Manager Sparky Anderson's crew has logged a 33-10 record since July 1, chopping 9½ games off Los Angeles' once awesome West Division bulge.

The Dodger lead remained at 1½ games over the streaking Reds as Los Angeles rallied to beat Philadelphia 2-1.

Cincinnati 7, St. Louis 2
Pete Rose's second double keyed a five-run second inning that carried the Reds past the struggling Cardinals. It was the seventh straight loss for St. Louis and chopped the Redbirds' NL East lead to three games over Montreal and Pittsburgh.

Dodgers 2, Phillies 1
The Dodgers came from behind to beat Steve Carlton and the Phillies 2-1.

Greg Luzinski's 19th homer accounted for the game's only run until the eighth inning. Then, rookie catcher Joe Ferguson tagged a pinch homer, tying the score for Los Angeles.

In the ninth, the Dodgers pushed across the deciding run on consecutive singles by rookies Tom Paciorek, Steve Yeager and Dave Lopes.

Giants 4, Mets 1
Tito Fuentes knocked in all of San Francisco's runs with a three-run homer and a double, leading the Giants a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Ron Bryant throttled New York on six hits and started the Giants winning rally when he walked with two out in the fifth inning. John Milner misjudged

New SC Comm?

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A league spokesman says the naming of a new commissioner of the Southern Conference could come in the near future.

"We'd like to be able to announce something within a few weeks," the spokesman said Sunday night as the 53-year-old conference opened its annual "rouser" at which the eight league coaches will discuss prospects for the upcoming football season.

Lloyd Jordan, who has been the league's commissioner since 1960, is due to step down at the end of the year, and a special committee has been at work since last spring seeking a successor.

"We've interviewed quite a number of people," said the spokesman, but he declined to name anyone under consideration.

The three-day get-together of league officials, coaches and newsmen got under way with a panel discussion at which major attention centered on the recent decision by the National Collegiate Athletic Association to operate in three divisions.

Garry Maddox' fly ball and it fell for a double. Then Fuentes followed with a homer.

Astros 3, Cubs 2
Stumbling Chicago dropped its eighth straight with Jimmy Wynn scoring Houston's winning run in the eighth inning of a 3-2 victory.

Wynn walked in the eighth, raced to third on Cesar Ceno's single and scored on an infield out.

Pirates 3, Braves 2
Pittsburgh closed to within three games of first place in the NL East as Willie Stargell drove in two runs with a triple and a double, leading the Pirates to a 5-2 decision over Atlanta.

"I'd have to say we're fortunate," said Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon, whose club is closer to first place than it has been at any time since May 12.

Montreal 2-3, San Diego 0-4

Montreal trimmed San Diego 2-0 in the first game of their doubleheader with rookie Steve Rogers, 4-0, allowing four hits in eight innings and Mike Marshall nailing the victory down in the ninth.

In the nightcap, Clarence Gaston's pinch double tied the score for the Padres in the bottom of the ninth inning and then Dave Roberts reached Marshall for the game-winning homer in the 10th as San Diego earned the split, 4-3.

In the American League Sunday, it was Baltimore 10, Kansas City 6; Milwaukee 10, Minnesota 9 in 10 innings; Detroit 6, Chicago 2; Boston 14, California 8; Oakland 13, New York 12; and Cleveland 7, Texas 6 in 11 innings.

corners. John Pitts has regained his strong safety spot and Chuck Detwiler, obtained from San Diego, is at free safety.

ones.

The situation is not good at tight end, however. Starter Jan White announced his retirement and Saban has been working John Mosier in the spot.

The offensive front appears adequate with Dave Foley and Donnie Green at tackles. Top draftee Paul Seymour in the wings, and Reggie McKenzie joining Goode at guard. Rookie guard Joe DeLamielleure is also ready.

Rookie Bob Kampa could see lots of action at defensive tackle, since veteran Don Croft is out of action with a knee injury. Jerry Patton will hold down the other tackle post.

Walt Patulski, in his second year, will be at one defensive end, with Allen Aldridge or Louis Ross at the other.

The defensive backfield is much more stable, with Robert James and Tony Greene at the

however, because he lapped the other boats. He failed to win the race when his boat ran out of gas with about four minutes left. Bill Smith of Burlington N.J. won the race. (Reflector Staff Photo by Craig Faulkner.)

Race Driver Larry Smith Killed At Talledega 500

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Larry Smith, a stock car driver who said before the Talladega 500 race Sunday that he had a score to settle at the big track, was killed when his car ran into a wall during the race.

No other car was near Smith's when it rammed into a concrete retaining wall on the 14th lap. Doctors said the 31-year-old driver suffered massive head injuries.

Track officials said the headrest on the car seat was broken by the impact. They said Smith apparently ran the two previous laps on a cut tire, with only the safety inner liner keeping the car rolling.

"I have a score to settle at Talladega," Smith had said before the race. "I have never been able to run well at this track. Things happen to me here that don't happen anywhere else."

"Like in May, when I'm cruising along, staying out of trouble, and there's this big pileup of cars on the backstretch. I can't avoid it, and I hit one or two cars spinning in front of me. Just enough damage to my car to put me out of action."

"That's why I have a score to settle at Talladega."

After striking the wall, Smith's black and white Mercury rode the six-foot high barrier for more than 100 yards before rolling down to the infield and stopping.

It was Smith's second season on NASCAR's big tracks after an apprenticeship on the clay tracks of North Carolina. He had won $24,565 in prize money last year.

His death was the first at Talladega since the track opened in 1969.

Each American To Spend $125 More On Food

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New reports of record crops which are still not big enough and possibly the highest rise in food prices in history indicate Americans are still paying for a grain shortage brought on by last year's huge sales to Russia.

Wheat futures prices shot over the $4-a-bushel mark to all-time highs last week, while a loaf of bread on the grocery shelf went up 3 or 4 cents and

50-50 Chance Of Recession, Says Economist

SEATTLE (AP) — There's a 50-50 chance the country is on the verge of a recession, says Dr. Walter Heller.

Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, said President Nixon's series of economic controls have left people "totally confused by the administration's zigging and zagging, distortions and inequities."

He said the economy is highly overheated and needs a slow-down. This might result in increased unemployment and government programs would be needed to soften the blow, he said.

"The trouble is Nixon vetoes appropriations for such programs that might help to get men off the relief rolls and onto the tax rolls. I rate the chances of our heading into a recession at about 50-50."

A Smiling Spiro Made A Birdie

PALMS SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, smiling and tanned, tried his hand at golf again this weekend, but ended up in the rough or the sand most of the time.

On the second hole Sunday, his ball wound up on another hole's tee.

There was one bright spot and Agnew was emphasizing it. He made a birdie on the Tamarisk Country Club's ninth hole.

"You should have seen me on the ninth hole," he said. "I hit a six iron about that far from the hole," indicating about a foot.

Agnew was spending the weekend here with entertainer Frank Sinatra.

beef was virtually unobtainable in some areas.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced domestic grain crops will be lower than originally estimated and international grain authorities predicted continued worldwide shortages and record prices.

But the biggest bombshell of the week was the statement by the Agriculture Department that food prices may rise as much as 18 to 22 per cent this year over last. The biggest jump on record was 21.3 per cent in 1947.

The department had announced it expected Americans to spend about $135 billion on food this year, compared to $125 billion last year.

But a 20 per cent increase would take it closer to $150 billion. In rounded numbers this translates to $125 more spent on food this year by every man, woman and child in the United States or $500 for the average family of four.

The government acknowledges that at least 2 per cent, or half a billion dollars, of the increase is directly attributable to the scarcity caused by a sudden boom in export of U.S. food.

Non-government estimators place the figure considerably higher. They assert almost the entire explosion in food prices can be traced in some way or other to the grain shortage.

The lack of wheat, other grains and soybeans has been blamed for higher prices in primary products such as flour, bread, corn for the dinner table and cereal for the breakfast table.

The scarcity of grain also has driven up the price of commodities dependent on feed grains and other feedstuffs, including meat of all kinds, milk, butter, cheese and eggs.

As people turn away from meat because it is unavailable or too expensive, the increased demand drives up the price of the meat substitutes.

Since the demands of World War II died out in the late 1940s, the United States has produced more food than it could eat, sell or even give away, depressing prices and building up huge stores of grain.

That picture gradually has been changing as the rest of the world sought more and better food and found the money to buy it.

What had been a slow trend became a runaway boom last summer when the Soviet Union bought 440 million bushels of U.S. wheat, 275 million bushels of corn and 40 million bushels of soybeans.

In addition to the Soviet crop failures which necessitated the purchases, other failures or disappointing harvests of wheat and protein products like peanuts and peruvian anchovies, created a worldwide food crisis.

Apparently no one in this country anticipated just how much grain the Soviets would buy from U.S. dealers, but the impact was immediate. The price of wheat doubled from July to September.

Slow to react, the Agriculture Department maintained an export subsidy on wheat until September, holding down the price for the Russians and costing U.S. taxpayers $400 million.

Some European countries were reported to be hoarding U.S. grain because the price was so good, while Americans were heading toward $1-a-dozen eggs and $1.40-a-pound bacon.

Although the Soviets haven't bought as much this year, the global strain on U.S. supplies continues. Total exports for the year appear to be going even higher than in 1972.

The Agriculture Department predicts wheat exports for the 1973-74 season to be slightly less than last season, but nearly a billion bushels have been registered for export already.

And Commerce Department figures show overseas shipment of corn running 60 per cent ahead of a year ago.

At the same time, the Agriculture Department is falling back on its earlier crop estimates. It now predicts the wheat crop will be 11 per cent greater than last year, with corn up 2 per cent and soybeans 20 per cent. All are records. In announcing the reduced crop estimates last week, Deputy Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Richard Bell said: "One could safely assume that prices will remain firm."

Under questioning, Bell explained that by "firm" he meant "they'll be strong." He added that strong prices are usually "higher prices."
