Editors' Note: When President Nixon made his Watergate speech Wednesday night, Associated Press reporters checked the reaction of Americans of many walks of life and political persuasions by sitting with them as they watched the President on television. The following account was prepared from dispatches filed by AP staffers Joe Tybor-Chicago, William Di-Mascio-Harrisburg, Pa., John Broder-Miami, Alexander G. Higgins-Concord, N.H., Ann Blackman-Washington and Mark Kautz-San Francisco.

It was quiet in the large house at the Knox dairy farm in Weare, N.H. The President was on television talking about Watergate.

R. Leslie Knox, 53, watched the color set in the corner of the living room from the couch, getting up once to get a can of beer.

His wife Barbara, 51, sat in a nearby chair equally silent. Their daughter Jean, 9, fell asleep in her mother's lap toward the end of the speech.

Their son Paul, 22, and his fiancée Martha Griswold, 19, who lives on a small farm in the town, were there. Paul sat next to his dad; Martha in a chair next to Mrs. Knox.

The hired hand, Frank Flis, 18, was there, and Dick Smith, 55, a neighbor from nearby Contoocook wandered in later.

As the Knoxes gathered around the set in New Hampshire, among other Americans tuned in were those in a bar in Steelton, Pa., in an expensive home in San Francisco and a middle class house outside Chicago. A congressional aide watched in Washington. Some Salt Lake City businessmen viewed the address from a private club.

"I think at first I was probably sympathetic to Nixon," said Leslie, a burly man who was born in Montreal. "I think there are very few people who could be hung out on a clothesline like that and be questioned about every little thing."

"I'm wondering how well anyone would do. I'm sure I wouldn't do very well myself."

"There's a lot of things that go on this farm that I don't know about," continued Leslie, who says he and his wife are Republicans who voted for Nixon in 1972.

Across the country, in the expensive Presidio Heights section of San Francisco, lawyer William K. Coblentz, 50, watched the speech in his three-story, brown shingle home.

"I thought it would be a finely calibrated combination of pre-emptive omission and protective apology and that's exactly what it was," said Coblentz, a liberal Democrat who donated money to the McGovern campaign. "It was a well-orchestrated speech. Listening to it, I think I have become more of a cynic than ever before."

Coblentz, a member of the University of California board of regents who opposed conservative Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan on a number of issues, watched the program with his family and some friends.

"Gad, he looks like a cadaver," Jean Coblentz, his wife, said of the President.

In the luxurious Doral Beach Hotel in Miami Beach, Fla., Zack Smith, there for an insurance convention, said before Nixon spoke: "You've got to trust your President like you believe in God." After watching the speech in his carpeted hotel room, Smith, 27, a bachelor WASHINGTON (AP) — Proclaiming anew he was not involved in the Watergate scandal, President Nixon has appealed to the nation to let the courts decide the guilt or innocence of individuals involved.

"The time has come to turn Watergate over to the courts where the questions of guilty or innocence belong," Nixon said. "The time has come for the rest of us to get on with the urgent business of the nation."

Nixon accepted full responsibility for the actions of his aides "because the abuses occurred during my administration and in the campaign for my re-election." He also defended his decision not to turn over presidential tape recordings to the special Watergate prosecutor or Senate Committee.

But he said the Senate Watergate committee had failed to disclose "the slightest evidence...that I had any knowledge of the planning for the Watergate break-in."

Nixon's nationwide television and radio speech and accompanying statement defended his efforts to learn the truth about Watergate—the facts of which the President said, he did not learn until March 21 this year.

He concluded with a plea to "not stay so mired in Watergate that we fail to respond to challenges of surpassing importance to America and the world."

Nixon's long-awaited statement did not offer rebuttal Watergate questions. "It has not been my intention to attempt any such comprehensive and detailed response," Nixon explained.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., commented that the president's address "did not add anything to his other speeches that would tend to divert suspicion from him." But Goldwater said he supports the President in his appeal for Americans to recognize dangers to the country and the world.

George Bush, chairman of the Republican National Committee, called the speech "credible and very reasonable." He said he is convinced the American people want the country freed "from the Watergate obsession."

His counterpart, Robert Strauss of the Democratic National Committee, said the President "neither added nor subtracted anything from where we were before he went on the air."

Nixon reaffirmed the stand his lawyers have taken in federal court—that by releasing tape recordings made of conversations in his office and on his telephone "the confidentiality of the office of the President would always be suspect."

"That is why I shall continue to oppose efforts which would set a precedent that would cripple all future presidents by inhibiting conversations between them and those they look to for advice," he said.

Nixon said from the time of the break-in "I pressed repeatedly to know the facts and particularly whether there was any involvement by anyone at the White House."

He said he depended on Justice Department and FBI investigations and assigned White House counsel, John W. Dean III, to monitor those investigations.

But through the summer of 1972, Nixon said, he was told no White House members were involved.

"I trusted the agencies conducting the investigations," Nixon said. "I did not believe the newspaper accounts that suggested a cover-up. I was convinced that there was no cover-up, because I was convinced that no one had anything to cover up."

Nixon only obliquely referred to former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III's assertion that he told the President on July 6 last year that "people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you by using the CIA and FBI..." to cover up the probe.

Nixon said his own investigation was prompted because "I learned of some of the activities upon which charges of cover-up are now based."

He said he was told of fundraising for the Watergate defendants, but not that the money was to buy silence. Nixon added that, he was told a member of his staff had talked to one of the defendants about clemency "but not that offers of clemency had been made."

And he said he learned about blackmail attempts by E. Howard Hunt, demanding $120,000, "as the price of not talking about other activities, unrelated to Watergate, in which he had engaged."

The President said the allegations were in general terms and not supported by details or evidence.

The statement conflicts with Dean's testimony, who said he was specific and told Nixon in March that the demands might reach $1 million; Dean said the President said that should be no problem.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a member of the Senate committee, said he was disappointed with the statement

Again Extending Freeze On Oil Industry Prices

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phase 4 regulations for the oil industry still are not complete, and the price freeze on oil possibly will have to be extended a second time, Cost of Living Council sources say.

Although the price freeze was lifted from the rest of the economy Monday, it was extended an extra week for petroleum, until Aug. 19, because the new regulations weren't ready last week as scheduled.

A council spokesman said it was virtually certain the regulations would not be ready today. He said the council is hoping they can be released Friday, although there was doubt even of this date.

Even if the regulations are ready Friday, it still would give the petroleum industry—from oil refiners to gasoline retailers—less than three days to prepare to put them into effect in time for the freeze to be lifted Monday.

"Obviously it's going to be tight," said a council spokesman Wednesday when asked if it would be possible for the industry to move that fast over the weekend. It wasn't clear what was holding up the oil regulations.

Authority over price increases in the oil industry, meanwhile, was placed Wednesday in a new office of Price Stabilization, headed by Bert M. Concklin.

The office will be responsible for decisions on important price increase requests during the Phase 4 anti-inflation program from major firms in manufacturing, services, non-food wholesale and retail trade, and the oil industry.

Concklin's office also will be responsible for making recommendations on requests from entire sectors of industry for exemption from the Phase 4 controls.

In addition to the oil regulations, the council still had not decided its policy on public disclosure of proposals from major firms for price increases.

Although major firms began Monday giving notice to the government of their intention to increase prices in 30 days, there is yet to be a coordinated policy for compiling and releasing the information.

Stolen Smokes

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — A man has been arrested in New York City and charged with possession of more than $1,500 worth of stolen cigarettes. Authorities said they are believed to be part of a truckload of cigarettes and tobacco products worth $127,000 hijacked in Winston-Salem last Friday.

Lewis Cassas of Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested Wednesday and charged with criminal possession of stolen property. Police said they were looking for a man from Queens, N. Y., in the case.

The driver reported the truck was hijacked as he was taking the cigarettes from an R. J. Reynolds plant in Winston-Salem to the trucking company terminal 29 blocks away. He and the empty truck were found the next day in different areas of South Carolina.

Hijack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Middle East Airlines plane was hijacked today on a flight from Libya to Lebanon and flown to Lod airport in Israel, a spokesman for the airline said.

In Beirut, a spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a Marxist guerilla group, said it received information that Israel at first refused to allow the plane to land but finally granted permission.

The front said none of its men were aboard the Boeing 707.

Relatives of passengers waiting for the plane in Beirut were told it would be five hours late.

Abroad, Nixon Scored Little With Message

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Initial foreign editorial comment today on President Nixon's Watergate speech suggested it did not do much to clear the air.

In Geneva, the independent afternoon Tribune de Geneve said Nixon's defense was "more moderate than expected."

His promises of future vigilance will undoubtedly be approved by all Americans who see a need for cleansed political morals. But first one must drain the abscess. And Mr. Nixon has tackled this task rather poorly and rather late."

Israel's largest circulation daily Maariv said in an editorial that Nixon probably had not rescued himself, but expressed hope that Watergate would not damage his foreign policy.

"Many nations in the world will be sorry if because of the American internal imbroglio, the American effort to ease world tension will be harmed," Maariv said.

Copenhagen's conservative tabloid, B.T., commented: "This was Nixon at his worst."

Another Danish tabloid, Ekst-rabladet, said Nixon "failed on all scores to reply to the serious charges which are implicating him directly and personally in the Watergate scandal."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, hinted that it, like Nixon, too would like America to get on with its urgent business.

Tass ran Nixon's comment about pending legislation followed by the quotation dealing with "uncertainty" and lack of trust. It was the clearest indication yet of Soviet concern with effects of Watergate.

British correspondents in Washington generally agreed the speech added little, if anything, to the public's knowledge of the scandal.

Israel Warns Hunt For Terrorists Will Go On

By ARTHUR MAX

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel warned the world today that despite condemnation from the U.N. Security Council, it will not let the rules of international law stand in the way of its hunt for Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

"We will still get those that advocate the liquidation of Israel and those who continue to engage in murder," Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, said at a military ceremony.

"There is no way to get to them within international law, but we have the right of existence and the right of self-defense."

He added that "international law is not enforced against the terrorists." And he warned that the world can expect more operations like the interception last Friday of a Lebanese airliner the Israelis thought was carrying four guerrilla leaders.

The plane was diverted to an Israeli airfield, held for two hours and then released when it was found that the wanted men were not aboard.

The United States and the other 14 members of the Security Council voted unanimously Wednesday to condemn the Israeli action. Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Yosef Tekoah, rejected the condemnation, terming it "the customary one-sided text that this organ has been producing in the Middle East situation." He said it showed the world body "is unable to cope with international terrorism in general and with Arab terrorism in particular."

The censure resolution was a compromise introduced by Britain and France following three days of debate and negotiations. Egypt, Iraq, the Soviet Union, Sudan, Indonesia, India, Yugoslavia and China all favored a stronger resolution, ranging from harsher condemnation of Israel to urging all countries to withhold aid from the Jewish state. But anything tougher could have drawn a veto from the United States, Israel's strongest backer.

Volume Up, Prices Dip On The Greenville Mart

The Greenville Tobacco Market dropped yesterday, with tobacco bringing $85.75 per hundred pounds, as compared to Monday's record of $86.17. Volume trade was up, however, with 569,830 pounds of tobacco sold.

Goldsboro again topped the market with an average of $86.44 per hundred pounds. Goldsboro was also down, however, from yesterday's high of $86.70. Wilson gained sharply and secured second place, with an average of $86.33 per hundred pounds.

Avoid A Scene With A Gentle Swan Song

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: At my age, I should be giving advice, not asking for it, but I just don't know how to handle this.

My husband passed away two years ago of a terminal illness. While he was sick, his best friend Charlie (a divorced man) was wonderful to both of us, and he promised my husband he would "look after" me.

After my husband's death Charlie helped me in my grief and loneliness, and I transferred the love I had for my husband to him. He's pushing for marriage, but I just don't trust him. I have become suspicious, jealous, and resentful of Charlie. He says he loves me, but he is very often "unreachable," which upsets me. I have caught him in several lies, for which he always has explanations, but I am not convinced.

Every time I try to tell him I want to hold off marrying him, he gets a terrible attack of something. (Asthma or the shingles.) I am so afraid he will die, and I'll be responsible for it.

How can I get out of marrying him without making him sick?
IN A BIND

DEAR IN: Avoid a scene. Gently ease Charlie out of your life. See others and drop him gradually without telling him it's his swan song. It's your neck or his.

DEAR ABBY: I need help soon. My son is engaged to be married. I met his bride-to-be only once. She is a beautiful, rich society girl. I hear they are having a big church wedding. There will be judges, congressmen, governors and all kinds of high-class people there. Abby, I have never been to a wedding like this let alone been IN one.

This is way out of my class. I wish I could say I have a headache at the last minute and ditch the whole thing. I don't know what to wear, and I won't know how to act or what to say. I'm afraid I'll be a hick from the sticks and I'll embarrass my poor son.

I do janitor work in an office building at night, and I just won't fit in with these people.

How can I—either learn fast or get out of it?
GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Be yourself, and you'll do just fine. Ask your son to find out what kind of gown the bride's mother is wearing, and wear one that will go well with hers. [Perhaps your son and his fiancée can help you purchase the dress and accessories.] You need not feel inadequate or embarrassed. After all, you are contributing something to the wedding that is of the utmost importance: The groom!

DEAR ABBY: BUGGED IN THE BRONX, a secretary, complained because her husband called her at work several times daily to talk about nothing. She said she cuts him short, saying she's busy, but he calls right back to finish a long, boring story.

You advised her to keep cutting him shorter and shorter until he gets the message.

It won't work. Here's my advice: Tell him: "No calls at work unless the house is on fire or somebody drops dead." When he continues to call, as he will, do this: When you say: "Hello," and he says: "Hello," you say "Good-by," and hang up on him before he has a chance to say anything else. When he calls back and says: "You hung up on me," you say: "I know it," and hang up on him again. Nothing else will work.
BEEN THRU IT

DEAR BEEN: If that's not "cutting him shorter and shorter until he gets the message"—what is?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Couple Weds In Recent Ceremony

Miss Kathy Susan Wier, daughter of Mrs. Lou Wier of Greenville, and Mr. John W. Wier of Atlanta, Ga., and Jeffery Wayne Hunnings, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hunnings Sr. of Greenville, were married Sunday, Aug. 5, at three o'clock in the Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

The Rev. Robert Hufford officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Randy Buck, organist. Miss Susan Smith and John C. Wier, brother of the bride, were vocalists.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of ivory satin. The pearled beau d'ange lace bodice featured a scooped neckline and long cuffed bishop sleeves. The A-line skirt fell from the empire waistline and the detachable chapel train was appliqued with pearled lace. Traditional bridal buttons enhanced the back and cuffs of the gown.

Her elbow length mantilla was edged and appliqued with beau d'ange lace to complement her gown. The bride carried a semicascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, white miniature carnations, and yellow sweetheart roses with tips of greenery tied with a yellow and white satin bow.

The bride's only accessory was a diamond lavelier, her great great uncle's gift to his bride on their wedding day.

Mrs. Eva Kearny served as matron of honor and Miss Janice McGowan was maid of honor. Other attendants were Miss Cindy Bissett of Raleigh, Miss Jackie Wier, sister of the bride, Miss Holly Presser, Miss Chris Kondracia, and Miss Debbie Hall.

James Ray Evans served as best man. Ushers were Michael Wier, brother of the bride, Thomas Worthington, William D. Hunnings of Newport, brother of the bridegroom, Edward Johnson of Greensboro, Rickey Lloyd, William Moye and Ray Howard.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Marie Cox. The bride attended East Carolina and is now associated with Delph Hardware, Raleigh, as office manager.

The bridegroom attended

Wymore College, Orland, Fla. and is associated with W.E. Dansey Co.

After a wedding trip to the seashores, Mr. and Mrs. Hunnings will reside in Raleigh.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

The receiving line was composed of the bride and bridegroom and their parents.

The register table was covered with an imported cutwork cloth with a three branch candelabra having an epergnette arrangement of yellow daisies and white roses and a portrait of the bride. Mrs. William Hodges of New Bern, presided.

The bride's table was covered in a silk organza cloth with lace and satin bows at each corner. In the center of the table was a five tiered wedding cake, and on either side were candelabras with tall white tapers and arrangements of white roses to complement the wedding cake.

After the bride and bridegroom had cut the first slice of cake, it was served by Mrs. Grace Corso of Greenville. Mrs. Robert B. Dominick poured punch. Good-byes were said by Mrs. John Wier Sr. of Williamston.

Supermarkets Encourage Impulses While Discouraging Comparisons

By MARIAN BURROS
WNS-Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — By encouraging impulse buying and discouraging price comparisons, Betty Furness says supermarkets don't give the consumer a chance for "rational decision making."

And, according to New York City's Commissioner for Consumer Affairs, the techniques are essential to keep up the supermarkets' volume. Volume, not profit ratio, is the name of the game in the food merchandising field. Because, she explains, if the volume is high enough "you can make a very nice return on your original investment."

Confusing the customer

about the relative price of similar items and tempting her to buy things she doesn't need are tricks of the trade.

By offering, for example, seven different soft drink packaging combinations of the most popular beverage, price comparisons are difficult, if not impossible to make. Depending on the combination the consumer chooses, she can spend anywhere from 26 to 54 cents a quart for that particular product. This is called package proliferation.

In addition, the fact that packages come in so many odd sizes and sell for prices ending in seven or nine cents makes division more difficult and doesn't help the matter.

According to Miss Furness, who spoke at the Washington Journalism Center conference on the high cost of food, if the original Truth-in-Packaging bill had been passed, instead of the watered-down version, odd sizes and package proliferation would have been controlled so that the consumer would not have "80 different choices." For example, among four different brands of tuna fish. These include "3½ ounces for 27 cents, 6½ ounces for 37 cents, 7 ounces for 45 cents and 9½ ounces for 57 cents."

Two other "tricks" which make price comparisons more difficult include "packaging to price" and "slack fill."

"Packaging to price" involves raising the cost of a product by putting less in the package while charging the same. It's possible, for example, to make a new 14 ounce box look similar enough to the old one-pound box especially if they are not side by side, so that the customer doesn't even notice the difference.

"Slack fill" is a variation of packaging to price. The food manufacturer uses a big box but doesn't fill it to the top.

It isn't that the consumer can't read, but she is willing to believe what her eye tells her at first glance. Unfortunately she does not spend enough time grocery shopping.

Without a strong packaging law, unit pricing has been necessary, but the former Johnson administration consumer affairs advisor claimed that "supermarkets are not crazy about the idea, for obvious reasons. They often don't enter into the spirit of things." In the Washington area it is not as successful as it might be because it is often difficult to read the unit pricing labels when they are there. And many, many times, they don't exist at all or are hidden behind boxes of merchandise piled in the aisles.

While making price comparisons so difficult for the consumer, Betty Furness says the supermarkets, through merchandising techniques, make impulse buying almost impossible to resist.

High markup items are stocked around the periphery of the store because customers "tend to circle the rim." Shopping carts are "carelessly" filled with a product not far from the checkout counter. Many people think such a "haphazard" display means "sale," but it doesn't.

An expensive new product is placed next to an inexpensive old product; another way to encourage people to try the new product. Finding frozen boil-in-the-bag (with-seven-seasonings) green beans next to frozen orange juice is an example.

A costly variation of a staple item will be packaged in box with a glamorous picture while the inexpensive product will come in a simple cellophane bag — Spanish rice mix at about one dollar a pound versus ordinary long grain rice at about 44 cents per pound.

Even changing the location of items from time to time forces the shopper to "prowl the aisles" making it more likely for her to pick up an unwanted item.

Consumer education, according to the woman who opened a Westinghouse refrigerator door thousands of times in a television commercial, is essential if the consumer is going to be able to make rational decisions.

Certainly learning that certain methods of display and packaging "are only tricks," is helpful. Because, as Miss Furness says, "...

with magic tricks, once you know about them they don't work on you as well as they once did."

Family Reunion Set For Sunday

KINSTON — Several hundred persons are expected to assemble at the Croom Meeting House from across the United States Sunday. The house is located on Highway 55, about eight miles south of Kinston.

Since 1930, the Crooms have been meeting to honor the memory of their descendants, and also to have fellowship and a picnic lunch together.

The Croom Meeting House was built by Lot Croom in 1823, and is owned by the Croom family. It contains all of its original furnishings.

Persons who have items of interest for display should bring them.

History Must Judge Our Role

The United States bombers are at long last staying at their home bases in Southeast Asia with the deadline agreed to by Congress for conclusion of bombing in Cambodia past.

It probably is as good time as any to declare the United States war role in that troubled part of the world at an end, although recalling the strange turns the war has taken in the past, we can say that nothing is truly certain.

At any rate it is the first time in a decade that U. S. military men have not been actively engaged in the war and most Americans prayerfully hope that our forces will never again become engaged in an Asian war.

It will be argued for decades in the future as to what accomplishment or what harm we did in our long military involvement in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. At this point, there is a very shaky peace in Vietnam and we have no way of knowing whether South Vietnam could defend itself alone in the event the North launched a new war.

In Cambodia, things look difficult, indeed, for the government of President Lon Nol. His rag tag army was doing a poor job of defending the country even with strong U. S. air support and it is doubtful if his defenses will hold at all when a new attack comes. The best hope might be some agreement for the restoration of Prince Sihanouk to power in Cambodia.

So at this point the situation hardly looks worth all the bloodshed and agony and internal strife that our involvement has caused our own country.

The question that historians with a better perspective will have to answer is whether the long war changed the course of world events to a better direction.

It is certainly a vastly different situation that we find among the major powers today than that of the early 1960s. The Communist giants of China and the Soviet Union now seem to be blood enemies and both of them have recently improved their relations with the United States. It is possible that our nation will eventually have to act as a mediator between the Communist giants.

Certainly the world's balance would be different today if there had been easy Communist victories in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. The final judgment of United States' Southeast Asia involvement will still have to be made in the future.

They'll Include Boats, Bikes

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—Don't be surprised if even boats and bikes come in for a share of attention this fall when planners go to the General Assembly to talk about mass transit.

More traditional methods of moving people, naturally, will come in for more attention than the relative handful of bicycles across the state, and even smaller number of boats.

And of course some exotic and new forms of transportation will capture the spotlight as planners talk about moving masses of people along highly populated Piedmont corridors of commerce.

But to James F. Daughtry, it's the quieter, simpler things which also count, and he's largely involved in drawing up that package of mass transit proposals and budget considerations to be sponsored by the Department of Transportation this fall.

A native of Raleigh, Daughtry has spent recent years in California where the West Coast syndrome of outdoor recreation rubbed off. He admits happily to being influenced greatly by programs in California, Washington and Oregon to preserve natural beauty and make the land more enjoyable for people.

To Daughtry, transportation is more than just getting to and from work and the store and doctor's office.

Travel Variety "It's a service which allows people to reach and enjoy a wide variety trip—from start to finish.

"And beyond just riding, transportation has a social value for people, and one of those very important social values is recreation," Daughtry said.

And so, in the back of his mind are bike trails and boat marinas and yacht basins built and operated by the state or a responsible agency.

Systems of inland lakes and rivers and more especially what Daughtry believes one of the most exciting waterfront potentials of any state—the coast, Inland Waterway and sound system in eastern North Carolina—is a potential for recreational transportation which all can enjoy.

The bicycle, too, is coming in for more than a common share of attention across the state.

In Chapel Hill, bike routes are marked and protected; in Charlotte, businessmen periodically stage bike-towork ridings to show need for protected routes and even the public affairs office of the N.C. Department of Transportation takes note of the trend by observing that last year Americans bought more bicycles than automobiles.

In Rocky Mount, police chief D.C. Hooker says more adults are riding bicycles than he's seen in "33 years of police business."

Boom Grows

Bike shop owners see the boom continuing and growing as more people get the fever and demand governmental action to provide safe, separated facilities for bike riding.

"But we can get into the business in North Carolina while there is still time," he added. "What's required is separation of bikes from automobiles, and this can take place in both isolated areas for bike trails such as in parks; and in urban areas where people can use bikes for transportation.

"There's a real potential for enjoyment here, and in marinas and yacht basins, potential for income," Daughtry said.

Meanwhile, on college and lower school campuses across the state, students are rediscovering the bike in numbers. In Asheboro recently students held a bike-day rally with races and prizes for the class which could count the most bikes ridden to school.

Status Symbol

One student observed that bikes will continue to come back, and that the automobile, once a prime status symbol on a high school campus, is out now—they are all too common, they cost too much, and they pollute.

Around the Highway Building in Raleigh where Department of Transportation offices are housed there are lots of people who are career employees. They've been here for years, and the department has been known as the Highway Department, and the governing body the highway commission.

To those folks, Daughtry works in what they term the "non-highway shop." He doesn't agree with that term, though he admits the validity of it. The state has a fine highway system, but what the future planners hope for is a total transportation system—including boats and bikes.

Bringing In A Big City Man

By JOHN KILGO

John J. Ryan, by North Carolina measuring sticks, would have to be considered a "big-city" man. His appointment as chairman of a group pushing for passage of the Nov. 6 mixed drink referendum has already stirred controversy.

Ryan is a former president of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce. A native of New York City, Ryan served until last month as vice president and general manager of Southern Bell for North Carolina.

Listen to the Rev. Coy Privette, head of the Christian Action League, on Ryan's appointment:

"That was very interesting. The wets, it was reported, wanted to get somebody from a small town to head their drive, a man known politically, with no Chamber of Commerce connections. It looks like they had difficulty getting the type persons they wanted and had to take who they could."

North Carolina businessman and promoter Hugh Morton, long an advocate for mixed drinks in the state, thinks—at least in this instance—that Mr. Privette is all wet.

"John Ryan is a proven, highly capable gentleman," Morton says. "A referendum of this type takes state-wide organization. Ryan has a blue-million contacts all over the state. I think he's an excellent choice."

C.C. Cameron, president of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce and the man who announced Ryan as chairman of the wets, refutes Privette's remarks. Cameron says Ryan was the first choice.

"We wanted a proven leader—a persons who was successful," Cameron said. "We wanted the chairman to have proven himself in areas of service, civic endeavor and statewide achievement. We also wanted our chairman to devote full time to this effort between now and Nov. 6. John Ryan met all the qualifications."

Those who have worked with Ryan call him tireless, a good organizer and a man with contacts. The criticism is that he sometimes gives the impression that he's "talking down" to people.

Privette, a leader of the dries, says the wets "are acting in desperation" by turning over leadership of the campaign to the Chambers of Commerce.

"They couldn't get anybody else to carry the ball," Privette said, "so the Chambers had to do it. But there are a lot of Chambers in this state who don't want to become known as a liquor lobby and won't work for it."

Privette calls the Nov. 6 vote on mixed drinks a moral issue. Morton calls it a political issue.

"A great deal of people from all walks of life will be for this referendum," Morton says. "Some knowledgeable ministers are on our side. We have travel people and business people. Businessmen are embarrassed by our primitive current system of control. We can sell a barrel but not a drink. Tourists and outsiders come to North Carolina and ask what kind of hick state do we have. Businessmen are fed up with it. You could expect them to take the lead in a campaign such as this."

Morton says the dries are making "outlandish" comments about the number of mixed drink outlets that would spring up in the Nov. 6 referendum passes. "Probably only 10 or 15 counties would end up with mixed drink outlets if the referendum passes," Morton said. "All counties don't have the same conditions. Liquor-by-the-drink wouldn't be good for some counties, while others want and need it. This vote will let the counties decide what system of control would best suit them."

Opinions In Brief

"A lot has been said about the declining value of the dollar. Nevertheless, we don't know of any country that has declined American aid." — Faribault (Minn.) News

Strength For Today

CHANGES OF ALTITUDE

A slight change of altitude on the part of the viewer makes a great difference in the appearance of a landscape. We appreciate this most when we view the landscape from an airplane, but often a change of position up or down of only a few feet will change the appearance of a landscape for us considerably. A countryside has one appearance to a man on horseback and another appearance to a man on foot. If you have ever walked along a road which you were accustomed to travel by automobile, you must have noticed the profound change of aspect.

This principle operates also in the field of morals. The higher we push our standards, the more does the appearance of the world about us change. Things which we considered quite legitimate when we operated our lives on the basis of lower standards appear to us as decidedly unallowable when we adopt higher standards. Even the smallest moral efforts may raise us to a point where nothing looks exactly the same as it did before.

Meat Price 'Dividend'

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's runaway meat prices possibly can bring a dividend of fewer heart attacks and strokes, says a food expert.

Americans generally eat too much fat and some meats are a major source of it, says Mary Winston, nutritionist of the American Heart Association.

A high intake of fat is considered harmful to the heart, she explains. Being overweight also taxes your heart.

So, eating smaller portions of meat "would be a plus factor." So would the right choices of vegetables to substitute for the proteins contained in meat.

During World War II, the death rate from coronary heart attacks went down in countries where once-rich diets were cut back in total fat and calorie content.

But a wrong choice of substitutes for meat could be harmful, Mrs. Winston cautioned in an interview. "Don't just substitute omelet for beefsteaks because eggs are cheaper. The yoke of one large egg contains 250 milligrams of cholesterol. Our Heart Association recommends you try to take in no more than 300 milligrams a day, averaged out over the week."

An excess of cholesterol, a waxy material, is blamed for clogging arteries of the heart and brain and producing heart attacks or strokes.

Food prices may well have profound effects on American patterns of eating, and housewives need some guidelines to assure good nutrition for their families, says Mrs. Winston. She was nutrition consultant to the new "American Heart Association Cookbook," containing more than 400 recipes from appetizers to desserts.

For years, Americans have been getting some 40 per cent or more of all their calories from fats. Heart experts urge reducing it to 30 per cent, with less of the total fat being the "saturated" type, which hardens when left standing at room temperature.

The fat around meat is highly saturated. Three ounces of lean beef provides 8.4 grams of fat and 189 calories.

Three ounces of chicken provides 5 grams of fat, and 150 calories.

But that's for chicken without the skin. Eat the skin, and the three ounces give you 14 grams of fat, and 248 calories, because most of the chicken fat lies on the inside of the skin.

Three ounces of most fishes supply 4.5 grams of fat and 126 calories. The fat in fish is unsaturated.

Meats, poultry and fish, eggs, skim and whole milk, yogurt and cottage cheese, are "complete" proteins containing all eight proteins considered essential to good nutrition, plus others.

Vegetables differ in content of the essential eight. Soybean contains seven, lacking one called methionine. Corn meal has that, though, so a combination of the two foods make up a diet as effective as one based on meat.

Various other combinations fill the protein demand, such as noodles with kidney beans and walnuts, grains and dried beans. Rice is not a "complete" protein. But a little meat added to it wipes out the deficit, making it quite sufficient.

On other points of advice, Mrs. Winston says:

—The potato is much maligned as "fattening." But it is the butter, the sour cream, and other goodies that people put on the potato that makes it high in calories.

—If you are cutting back on butter and milk, which are good sources of iron and vitamin A, consider having beef liver once a week, because it's another good source of these nutrients.

—Frozen dinners "are ter-

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The dearest art in America is the art of listening. You can hardly hire anybody, even a psychiatrist, to listen to anyone. Everybody wants to be heard; when everyone talks at once, who is left to listen? What we need is a National Clam-Up Day during which everyone, from child to centenarian, would shut up and enjoy himself — and perhaps listen to the echoes of some of the wise things said but unheard yesterday.

About the worst thing you can tell a woman is that she snores. No woman will admit she does. But it is a feminine delusion that only men snore. The medical fact is that men and women snore about equally, that is, in actual numbers. But in quality of performance, the snoring of women is far inferior to that of men. No woman could ever match the depth of wheezy raspings, bottomless gurgles, stentorian sighs, cacophonous snorts, and snorous roars of a fat, middle-aged man sleeping off a huge dinner of pig knuckles, sauerkraut and beer.

The biggest problem in the average business office is what to do with a homely girl who can't spell either — but who is too nice to fire.

About the most useless thing on earth is a picturesque post card from someone you dislike who could afford to go to a better vacation resort than you went to.

No matter how much smarter you are than the other fellow, you are always willing to listen to his advice on two subjects — how to cure the hiccups and how to get rid of a cold.

Most men go to their graves secretly convinced, no matter how many other goodies life showered on them, that somehow or other they never managed to get their fair share of sex. And they wonder who did get it.

God never made a canyon, man never dug a well, as deep and empty as the drained faces of tired people you see any day in a New York City subway. They look as eroded and changeless as an abandoned farm, fixed by time in hopelessness. Nothing shows more dramatically what is wrong with civilization than this expression on subway faces.

Heaven might get more recruits if one of its attractions was more often pointed out: it is the one place left where you can go and get away from inflation. You can also escape death and taxes there.

Air Power Alone Didn't Work

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States raked Indochina with bombs for more than 8½ years, but in the end all that air power failed to bring the kind of peace this country sought.

In Cambodia, where the final U.S. raids were flown, an armada of fighter bombers and B52 heavy bombers may have bolstered the government's staggering army for the past six months.

But the 170,000 tons of bombs rained on Cambodian insurgents during that time did not force a cease-fire, which was the stated American objective, and the future of the U.S.-backed Cambodian government looks grim.

The raids were halted at midnight EDT Tuesday under an agreement between President Nixon and Congress.

In Laos, where American planes propped up the Laotian army with some 63,000 tons of bombs after the Vietnam cease-fire, there is an uneasy truce. But the Communist Pathet Lao and their North Vietnamese allies dominate about 80 per cent of the country, as do the insurgents in Cambodia.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese are expanding the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos to carry in larger tonnage of supplies to their troops in South Vietnam, even though this is forbidden under the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

Boosters of U.S. air power claim the North Vietnamese were forced back to the Paris conference table by the heavy bombing of Hanoi in December.

Even if this is true, and there are those who argue that it isn't, the agreement finally completed by U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats in January has not worked out as Dr. Henry Kissinger, the chief U.S. negotiator, had hoped. Many of its key terms remain stillborn.

The fighting goes on in South Vietnam, although at a lower level and without American troops.

Meanwhile, the North Vietnamese have never stopped pumping war material, supplies and men into South Vietnam in the face of a flat ban on such activity under the peace agreement.

In March, Nixon announced that the United States had told North Vietnam "of our concern about this infiltration, and we believe it to be a violation of the cease-fire and the peace agreement."

The North Vietnamese "should not lightly disregard" this warning, Nixon said.

But the North Vietnamese have done just that, so it appears the massed U.S. air power, including more than 430 bombers and fighter bombers in Thailand and 150 B52s on Guam, held no further terrors for Hanoi.

And, while Nixon's threats were being ignored in Hanoi, the continued bombing in Cambodia caused problems for Nixon at home, costing him much of his remaining war support in Congress.

In fact, Nixon suffered a defeat when he reluctantly accepted a bombing cutoff date.

With the future of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos very much in doubt, the United States appears to have achieved relatively little through a mighty air war effort that dumped a record 7.4 million tons of bombs on Indochina starting in 1965.

Nixon's Chronology Of Watergate-Related Events

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a chronology of Watergate-related events referred to by President Nixon in his Wednesday television address and accompanying statement on the Watergate affair.

The "summer of 1972"

Nixon gave orders to the Justice Department and FBI to conduct a "thorough and aggressive" investigation of the June 17 Watergate break-in. He did not specify the exact date he gave those orders.

July, 1972—Nixon told former aide John D. Ehrlichman that executive clemency would not be considered for those who participated in the break-in.

July 6, 1972—Nixon learned the Central Intelligence agency was not involved in the Watergate break-in and that he told acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray to "press forward vigorously."

Aug. 29, 1972—Nixon's stated publicly that no one then employed at the White House was involved.

Sept. 12, 1972—Nixon met with senior staff and cabinet members and some legislative leaders to hear Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst report on the Watergate investigation. Nixon said Kleindienst reported that no one at the White House and no higher-ups in the campaign committee were involved.

Sept. 15, 1972—The grand jury indicted the five Watergate burglars along with former Nixon campaign aide, G. Gordon Liddy and former White House aide E. Howard Hunt. Nixon met with former presidential counsel John W. Dean III, who gave him no reason "to believe any others were involved."

Feb. 16, 1973—Nixon said former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray III assured him the FBI had conducted a thorough investigation of Watergate.

Mar. 17, 1973—Nixon said he first became aware of the break-in by the Special Investigations Unit of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Mar. 21, 1973—Nixon reported receiving "new information" showing the depth of the Watergate scandal.

Mar. 22, 1973—Nixon scheduled a meeting with top aides and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to discuss this information.

Mar. 23, 1973—Dean was sent to Camp David to write a complete report on Watergate.

Mar. 28, 1973—Mitchell indicated to Ehrlichman that he had no further information on the case.

Mar. 30, 1973—Nixon learned Dean could not finish his report and assigned Ehrlichman to conduct an independent investigation.

Apr. 14, 1973—The President directed Ehrlichman to turn his findings over to Kleindienst.

Apr. 15, 1973—Nixon received additional information from Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen. Nixon said he decided the matter, would best be handled by the Justice Department and the grand jury.

Apr. 17, 1973—Nixon announced that new inquiries were underway and that he had instructed all government employees to cooperate.

Apr. 18, 1973—Nixon learned the Justice Department was probing the break-in of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office, and directed Petersen to "stick to" the Watergate probe and stay out of matters that might involve national security.

Apr. 25, 1973—Nixon and Kleindienst agreed to disclose the break-in in the Ellsberg matter to the judge trying the Pentagon Papers case.

May 17, 1973—The Senate Watergate committee began its televised hearings.

May 22, 1973—Nixon issued a lengthy statement discussing his relationship to the case. This was the most recent date mentioned by Nixon in his address and statement.

Long Day Of Sun-Studies By Spacemen

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab 2 astronauts planned a record day-long observation of the sun from their orbiting laboratory today.

A total of 8½ hours was set aside in the flight plan to probe mysteries of the sun with a $121.2-million assembly of eight telescopes.

Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma each scheduled turns at the telescope console. But Garriott, a solar physicist, was to dominate with a total of about seven hours.

Additional solar observation time was put on the schedule when the astronauts reported they were bored with their free time in space and asked for a heavier experiment work load. They said they had become so acclimated to life in orbit that they were completing their normal schedule far ahead of time.

They were in the 20th day of their planned 59-day mission.

Physicists hope the experiment will help unlock the secret of thermonuclear fusion, which is the source of the sun's energy. This would aid in the search for an unlimited and pollution-free power source on earth.

While Garriott concentrated on the sun, Bean and Lousma planned medical and other scientific experiments today.

On Wednesday, Bean took a second test spin on an astronaut maneuvering unit, whose 14 small jets spit nitrogen gas on command and move the astronaut about. It is worn like a hiker's back pack and was tested inside the high-ceiling second story of the station.

Gen. Omar Bradley Undergoes Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only five-star general, underwent emergency surgery early today for insertion of a sieve-like device to prevent recurrent blood clots from migrating to his lungs.

The general's wife Kitty said in a statement after the operation: "The general has survived surgery. His condition is serious, but the prognosis is very hopeful."

Bradley, 80, was hospitalized Monday at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center for treatment of blood clots in the lungs.

"Heparin injections have helped dissolve the clots but have failed to prevent recurrent attacks," a hospital spokeswoman said.

When Bradley was admitted to the hospital, doctors said his blood clots apparently were caused by an operation on a football injury he suffered at West Point nearly 60 years ago.

Bradley commanded the American troops which landed on the beaches at Normandy, France, on D-Day, June 6, 1944, and fought on to victory over Nazi Germany. After the war he served as the first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

from Asheville, N.C., said in his slow southern drawl: "I believe 'em. I know he's a damn politician, but I believe him. I got to."

In another chandeliered room in the Doral, site of the Republican National Convention Headquarters in 1972, Joan and Dick Tannenbaum, both 27 and in Miami Beach for a vacation, watched the same speech.

"He'd kill his own mother for a postage stamp," groaned Joan as Nixon reiterated his refusal to release the Watergate tapes. "If he's innocent, he doesn't have to make speeches."

Contractor Robert Smith watched from the Steelworkers Bar, a tavern a half a block from the Bethlehem steel plant in Steelton, Pa.

"This man is either responsible or irresponsible," said Smith, 50, a Democrat who did not vote for Nixon. "They're not my words, I read them somewhere. But that sums it up."

The owner of the bar, Peter Colello, 62, was more economy-minded. "I voted for the guy but never again," Colello, a Republican councilman, said. "I was paying $1.45 a pound for capocoli (Italian lunch meat). Now I'm paying $2.47. He's too damned busy trying to alibi himself to do the country any good."

Al and Eileen Massura lounged in the paneled family room of their $60,000 four-bedroom, split-level home in Oak Lawn, a suburb of Chicago.

"He spoke in generalizations as he usually does," said Eileen Massura, 48. "He failed to explain himself on specific questions."

Her husband Al, 47, retorted: "What does he have to explain?"

Massura is a masonry contractor in business for himself. His wife has an M.S. in psychiatric nursing.

"I'm sure he (Nixon) couldn't have known everything that was going on," he said. "This man as president has to oversee very many things. It's not just a matter of watching over what John Dean is doing today or what John Ehrlichman might be doing."

His wife countered: "He is so aloof. Here is this little Greek god, but instead of sitting on Mt. Olympus, he is sitting at Camp David."

At the University Club, a private club where you can bring your liquor in predominantly Mormon Salt Lake City, a bunch allowed in the bar. House rules.

"Excellent," said David E. Quinney, 54, former executive of a general construction firm. "He laid the facts out and didn't try to whitewash himself. I've always thought Nixon was a good speaker."

In Washington, D.C., Waring Partridge, 27, an aide for a Republican congressman and a former worker in Vermont for the Committee for the Re-election of the President, watched the speech, his head in his hands, elbows on his knees.

"It had nothing of substance," said the Yale graduate. "I had the feeling that three-quarters of what he had given us is a bitter pill and he's saying 'swallow it, we have three more years.'"

In Missouri, the pike family is represented by three species—the common or northern pike, the grass pickerel and chain pickerel.

Suggests No Demo 'Help'

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—Thomas S. Bennett says Tar Heel Republicans need no assistance from State Democratic Chairman James R. Sugg in selecting a GOP state chairman.

Bennett, a Morehead City attorney who is Gov. Jim Holshouser's choice for the post now occupied by Frank Rouse, made his comment Wednesday after Sugg said in a TV interview the he felt Rouse had been treated shabbily in view of his services to the Republican Party and that he would "have to" side with Rouse in the contest.

Bennett said in reply that the GOP state chairman will be elected "by the good Republicans of North Carolina" at their November convention and "I don't think they will require the assistance of the chairman of the Democratic Party in North Carolina to help them make up their minds."

When asked for comment on this, Sugg said he had not intended to meddle in Republican affairs and that he is "not the least bit interested in who is the chairman of the Republican Party in North Carolina whether it is Frank Rouse or Tommy Bennett."

HUNTING PLANE GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP) — Searchers today are scouring a wooded area between Greenwood and Abbeville for a private plane feared down in heavy fog next GOP state chairman will early today.

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the convention day, sponsored by the Woman's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Convention of North Carolina, Wednesday at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church.

Mrs. J.B. McLester, first vice-president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Berthenia D. Horne, executive secretary-treasurer, gave her annual report, noting that almost $24,000 was received over the budget.

Mrs. Vera Slade, of Ahoskie, president, delivered her final message. She challenged the convention not to be discouraged but to follow their purpose and achieve their goal of following God.

Dr. Wendell C. Sommerville of Washington, D.C., executive secretary of the Lottie Carey Foreign Mission Convention, reported that the convention has the largest expenditure of any non-white organization in the world, according to the National Council of Churches. North Carolina Baptist support the Foreign Mission through this organization.

Reporting on the J.J. Johnson Baptist Assembly was Dr. T. A. Watkins of Wilson, a chairman of the General Baptist Convention. This assembly being erected in Lauringburg is under the direction of the Woman's Convention.

The president of the Young Adult Department, Mrs. Amanda Stevens of Lumberton, delivered her final message to the delegates. The Youth department presented a service plaque to their president, Miss Jerryl Edwards of Fayetteville.

Music was furnished by the Cleveland County Woman's Auxiliary choir under the direction of Mrs. Jettie Lucas. Tuesday's symposium carried the theme "Lord What Would You Have Us Do—through Fellowship, Serving, Giving, and Prayer." Mrs. Amaza Davis, Mrs. Janie D. James, Mrs. Lugenia M. Jones, Mrs. E.B. Arrington, Mrs. Wilimena Davis, and Mrs. Jennie Bruton presented the program.

Several area residents were featured in Tuesday night's welcome program. The speakers included Mayor Eugene West; Stuart Savage of the Daily Reflector; Dr. Robert Holt of East Carolina University; and G.H. Leslie of Burroughs-Wellcome.

Dr. C.R. Edwards, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Fayetteville and president of General Baptist State Convention, greeted the guests and congregation.

Specialist In Fair Condition

BOSTON (AP) — Heart specialist Paul Dudley White is reported in fair condition at Massachusetts General Hospital where he is recovering from a minor stroke — his second in less than three months.

Spokesmen for Massachusetts General said that the 87-year-old doctor, who was stricken Monday, was alert and talking with hospital personnel on Wednesday.

White suffered a similar stroke in June and a heart attack two years ago. While hospitalized in June, he got out of bed to treat a patient who had traveled a long way to see him.

Speaking on the "three great truths" related by Isaiah, Aaron Johnson of Fayetteville gave the annual sermon. He is the pastor of Mt. Siani Baptist Church.

Featured on tonight's program will be two guest speakers, the Honorable Joy J. Johnson and Dr. J. Archie Hargraves. Mrs. Mildred Chavis will report on the Miss Shaw contest, a part of the "Have A Heart for Missions" program.

Music will be provided by the J.A. Nimmo choir of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church.

Council's Work Praised By Gov. Holshouser

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser told the Council on State Goals and Policy Wednesday that it can be proud because much of what it has recommended has been done.

"And much is still coming around," Holshouser told the council at its first meeting of the year.

"You've talked about industrial development in smaller towns to spread the population around, you talked about a statewide kindergarten program, a rural health care program and a state land use policy," said the governor who is chairman of the council.

He pointed out that these goals had either been attained or that major progress in these areas had begun.

The 15-member council is a long-range planning committee for state government.

Travel Centers On Interstates

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — On interstate highways, where you can go for miles without coming to a town, municipalities with a restaurant, gasoline and comfort station and sometimes overnight accommodations are springing up at major interchanges.

Now Hardee's Food Systems and Exxon have announced they will open six experimental travel centers along Interstate 95 from North Carolina to Florida.

Each will be called a Hardee World, and will be on a three-acre site on less-congested interchanges. Each will contain a Hardee's fast food restaurant, a gift and candy shop, a family entertainment center, and gasoline pumps.

Nuclear Plant Sites Studied

RALEIGH (AP)—Carolina Power & Light Co. said Wednesday a site in Buncombe and Madison Counties is being considered as the location for a future nuclear power plant.

Darrell Menser, CP&L vice president said the site along the Sandymush and Turkey creeks also is being investigated as a possible site for a steam electric generating plant.

Doctor Says People Need Him; Air Force Doesn't

MORRIS, Minn. (AP) — Claiming that this rural community needs him more than the Air Force does, a young physician has won the first step in a court battle aimed at keeping him out of the military.

Dr. John F. Stock won a temporary restraining order Wednesday in federal court at St. Paul that prohibits the Air Force from calling him to active duty at this time.

Stock, 26, said he was turned down by the Air Force recently when he asked to be allowed to practice two years in a Morris clinic in lieu of two years of military service.

Patients each a day and on call every other night. In the Air Force, he said, he'd been a general medical officer at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base in Gwinn, Mich. The base has a 35-bed hospital with 14 doctors, he said.

Stock said he signed up with the Air Force while a freshman at the University of Minnesota Medical School in 1968 to avoid the "doctor draft hanging over our heads." He said it was virtually certain that he and his classmates would be drafted immediately after they completed their internships.

Stock said he completed his internship June 23 in St. Paul and went to the area where he grew up to help the local doctors for the summer. Shortly after arriving in Morris, he received his orders from the Air Force to report for active duty on Aug. 19.

"... I came to help for the summer. That's all I intended to do. But I'm literally swamped already. I've already got a fulltime practice. I'm seeing 30 to 40 patients a day.

"If I wasn't here, the people would be denied what I think is adequate medical care. Knowing that, and what I'd be doing in the Air Force, I decided to appeal on a plea of community hardship. The Air Force ignored it."

Mrs. Davis Appointed Pitt UCP Chairman

Mrs. Russell Reid Davis has been named general chairman of Pitt County for United Cerebral Palsy of North Carolina. The appointment was announced today by Mrs. Pat Ellis.

District Campaign Chairman.

As chairman, Mrs. Davis will be in overall charge of the HAPPINESS IS HELPING Campaign for 1973 on the most dreaded of all childhood crippling.

In accepting the appointment, Mrs. Davis stressed the importance of the UCP services to this community which help children with cerebral palsy to become at least partly self-sufficient. She emphasized the valuable services of Pitt County's local Home Service. Consultant, Mrs. Elizabeth Hill, R.N. and praised the Greenville UCP Developmental Center which opened in September 1972 in facilities provided by the Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

This center, she noted, will be licensed to serve 25 children and already has an enrollment of nine children with a staff of three—a director, a teacher, and one aide. Many professional services are available through East Carolina University and other community resources.

Mrs. Davis also noted that UCP represents an important hope to the handicapped children as well as to their parents. "These children have the courage and determination to try to help themselves overcome enormous handicaps, and they deserve all the help that we can give them," she declared. Cerebral palsy strikes every 53 minutes somewhere in the nation. The condition is caused by damage to the motor centers of the brain, usually before or at birth, and affects the body's muscular control. The disorder may be accompanied by such related problems as defective vision, deafness, and mental retardation.

"This is a challenging assignment," Chairman Davis said. "We must not only provide an upgraded standard of services for the cerebral palsied children and adults in our community of the 750,000 affected in the United States, but we must also join in the mass assault on cerebral palsy through research to discover the causes and to develop a preventive or cure."

Mrs. Davis, a native of Richmond, Virginia is employed by the Pitt County Schools and teaches at D.H. Conley High School.

She has been an active church member of The Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church where she has taught Sunday School and worked with the youth, and is married to the Rev. Russell Reid Davis, pastor of Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church and The Ballards Crossroad Presbyterian Church. They have three daughters, Catherine, Elizabeth, and Anne.

Mrs. Davis received her B.A. Degree from Westhampton College of the University of Richmond and the M.A. Ed. in Counselor Education from East Carolina University. She has done volunteer work at The Crippled Children's Hospital and The Cerebral Palsy Workshop in Richmond, and she has served on various PTA Committees in Greenville and Pitt County. She was the 1972 Pitt County General Chairman for United Cerebral Campaign Fund Drive.

To Be Replaced By Food Stamps

RALEIGH (AP)—Federal officials have notified the state Division of Social Services that the program under which surplus commodities were distributed to the poor will be replaced by a nationwide food stamp program on July 1, 1974.

John H. Kerr, head of the division's food assistance branch, said that 65 North Carolina counties already have the food stamp program and that three others will have it by Oct. 1. He said it would be necessary for the remaining counties to come under the program by next July 1.

Hearing Is To Be Public

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Next Monday's court hearing for Joseph P. Kennedy III on a citation for negligent driving will be public, his attorney says.

The citation stems from an auto accident Monday afternoon on Nantucket Island. The car which Kennedy was driving overturned, seriously injuring one of his six young passengers.

Kennedy is a son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"We're really very flexible," attorney Wayne Holmes said Wednesday. "There may be a full trial on Monday."

Pamela Kelly, 19, Centerville, Mass., remained in serious condition at a Hyannis, Mass., hospital. Her spine and a leg were broken. She is paralyzed from the waist down. Doctors say it will be several weeks before they know whether the paralysis will be permanent.

Kennedy suffered cuts and bruises. His brother, David A. Kennedy, 18, suffered a back sprain.

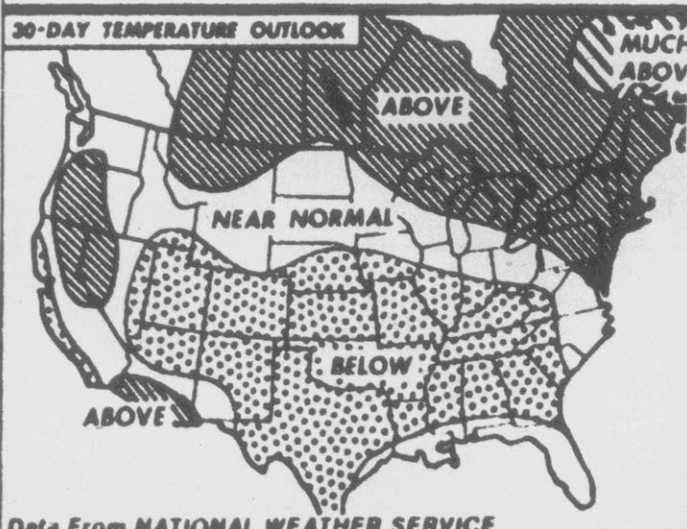

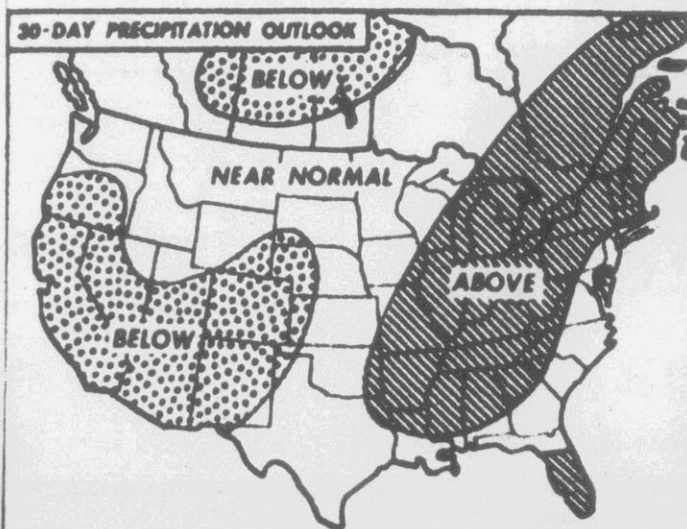

Hooting Owls

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Philip M. Jardim, a University of California student, sat under a park tree for 50 nights making notes for a paper on the hoots of owls.

He reports that the screech owl's call lasts two or three seconds and that the record-breaker in his notes made 47 calls in four minutes.

It's A Small Town, But It Belongs To Carlson

LOTTS CREEK, Iowa (AP) — Realtor Oliver Carlson has bought himself the near-ghost town of Lotts Creek for $4,400 and plans to pump some life into it and into his pocketbook.

The decision came when the Algona, Iowa, man was having coffee with a fellow realtor who suggested, "Why don't you buy Lotts Creek."

That was in August 1971. Carlson bought one side of the street then and recently completed purchase of the other side of the block-long "downtown" area of this town near the Minnesota border.

His six buildings include a former general store, hardware store, locker plant, feed store, creamery turned into a cheese factory, and what once was a buttermaker's residence.

Carlson, who allows that some folks "think I'm a little eccentric," says he also owns Oak Lake near Algona along with four other persons. It's a 100-acre sports oasis for snowmobiling and skiing if you like being towed, and "minor league" fishermen can go after bullheads.

At Lotts Creek, Carlson would like to convert the general store and hardware store into vintage museums and antique sales shops.

He'd offer the brick creamery to a small business, explaining, "I'd like to see one that would employ a dozen or 15 people. We need small industries so our young people don't have to go somewhere else."

Right now, Lotts Creek has a population of three in the heart of town — Carl Pijahn, 63, who's lived there since 1919, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pijahn.

They own their own place.

If you want to stretch the boundaries half a mile north, you could take in a couple of farms, a church and vacant church school building, plus three other residences.

Carlson, a talkative 49-year-old, would like to restore buildings on both sides of the streets much like they were in the 1800s. He has a photograph to work from.

"We have to preserve some old landmarks or there won't be any left to preserve," said Carlson, who says he has his eyes on a couple of upcoming celebrations with which to coordinate his ideas for rural restoration.

One is the centennial of Lotts Creek Lutheran Church in 1975.

The other is the u.s. bicentennial in 1976, and Carlson is convinced the itch for antique buying among many Americans will increase through that time.

Lotts Creek also has some Indians-settlers lore. Henry Lott reportedly was the first white settler in the area. He clashed with Indians after some of them invaded his place, so the story goes, and slew Chief Sidominduta, a Sisseton Sioux and others in the redman's family.

That brought Indian revenge against white settlers which some historical accounts call the Spirit Lake massacre.

Reorganize The SCLC

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The Southern Christian Leadership Conference embarked on a program of reorganization today with a reluctant Rev. Ralph David Abernathy once again at the helm.

Abernathy, who announced his resignation July 9 as SCLC president, was swept back into office Wednesday and given a free hand to guide the civil rights organization by a unanimous vote of the SCLC board of directors.

The announcement of the rejection of Abernathy's resignation and his later acceptance of the presidency were greeted by cheers and applause from the 1,000 delegates attending the SCLC's 16th annual convention at St. John's Missionary Baptist church here.

Abernathy, successor to Martin Luther King Jr. as SCLC president, said he would serve for at least one more year and told delegates now is a "time for unity."

He hugged Vernon E. Jordan Jr., president of the National Urban League, who on behalf of the league pledged $1,000 to the financially troubled SCLC. Abernathy had cited financial troubles as the reason for his resignation.

Emphasizes The Immortal Soul

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI walked from his residence here to an adjacent church Wednesday to say Mass for thousands of Italians gathered to mark the Feast of the Assumption.

He told the worshippers: "Struggles, politics, scientific conquests will pass, but the souls and charity works will never pass."

"The soul is immortal and it is because of this that the Roman Catholic Church is aware of the importance of the soul of life."

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A special grand jury was expected to start hearing testimony today on allegations that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was involved in a bribery and kickback scheme. Meanwhile, the Justice Department confirmed Wednesday that Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson met with Agnew privately to discuss the status of the investigation. The meeting took place Aug. 6, according to department spokesman Horace Webb.

The overall investigation began last December, but did not involve Agnew until this spring. Subpoenaed records date back through Agnew's term as Baltimore county executive and governor of Maryland.

The New York Times reported in Thursday editions that Richardson told Agnew that prosecutors have statements from more than 20 Maryland businessmen who say they gave cash to Agnew associates in return for state contracts.

Citing unnamed sources, the Times also said Richardson told Agnew:

—That three Agnew aides have told prosecutors they turned over some of the payments to the former Maryland governor. The three were identified as Lester Matz and Jerome Wolff, now Baltimore engineering consultants, and Allen I. Green, described by the Times as a former close friend of the vice president.

—Green told prosecutors he gave kickbacks to Agnew about five times a year until 1969, less often after Agnew became vice president. Green was identified as president of a Towson, Md., engineering firm.

Webb said "The attorney general met with the vice president on Monday, Aug. 6. The purpose of the meeting was to supplement the information contained in the letter the vice president received from the United States attorney with a general picture of the status of the investigation."

He refused to say whether "the general picture" included the substantial details of the allegations.

Up to now the grand jury has concentrated on investigating officials in Baltimore County, where Agnew made his political start more than a decade ago, and of engineering firms doing substantial business with the county and the state.

One man already has told a court he received and passed on cash kickbacks, and sources close to the investigation indicated indictments may be returned shortly.

In other developments: —Agnew's financial records, requested by U.S. Attorney George Beall, were expected to be examined today in the vice president's Washington office.

—All nine federal district judges in Maryland withdrew from participation in the Agnew phase of the political corruption probe. A judge from outside the state will be appointed.

—Judge C. Stanley Blair, who swore in the investigating panel last year, quit the case entirely. Blair was Maryland secretary of state when Agnew was governor and served as his chief of staff in the first two years of his vice presidency.

—The vice president, in Denver Wednesday, urged in a speech support of President Nixon over Watergate. He did not refer to his own problems.

Board To Offer New Plan For Desegregation

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board voted in a special meeting Wednesday to submit by March 1 a new desegregation plan for the 1974-1975 school year.

U.S. District Court Judge James B. McMillan ordered earlier this summer that the board do so. He expressed the hope that a new plan could resolve the Charlotte school desegregation case once and for all.

Previous plans submitted by the board were unacceptable to him, and the schools are operating under a plan he prepared after hearings and with the help of outside consultants. It involves large-scale busing, and the board is appealing in an effort to have the court declare it is operating a unitary system and need no longer be under Judge McMillan's jurisdiction.

Scattered Fighting Near Phnom Penh

By DENNIS NEEDL
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia
(AP) — Scattered fighting was reported on three sides of Phnom Penh today, and insurgents withdrew for resupply on the southern front, Western military attaches said.

Fighting continued northwest of the city where the Communist-led rebels are dug in near the approaches to Pochentong Airport, 4 1/2 miles from the center of the city, the sources reported.

The attaches said the rebels were badly hurt by U.S. bombing before the raids ended Wednesday and were drawing back south of the city for strategic purposes.

The Cambodian government said it detected no sign of a new offensive shaping up against the city.

Col. Am Rong, chief spokesman for the Cambodian military command, said refugees from areas held by the insurgents reported they were still trying to make up heavy losses suffered in the final weeks of the American air blitz.

"They are regrouping and re-supplying, and it could be one or two months before they are ready for a big push," he said.

The government reported the recapture of Kompong Kantuot, a district town 11 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, and the clearing of Route 38, which runs around the outside of the city's southern defense perimeter.

A communique said the center of Kompong Kantuot and the nearby village of Kompong Tuol were recaptured at noon Wednesday, an hour and a quarter after the American bombing stopped. It said the insurgents pulled back and there was little resistance.

Fighting was reported also at Set Bo, 13 miles south of Phnom Penh, and at Prey Baing, 20 miles to the northeast. But there were no big attacks on government positions reported.

The Cambodian command believes that the Communist-led insurgents are unable to take prompt advantage of the end of the American bombing because their primitive logistics force them to make lengthy preparations for any big offensive.

Am Rong said the government also believes the insurgents may be having trouble finding recruits to fill their ranks. He claimed 10 more defectors came over to the government north of Phnom Penh and reported the peasants are increasingly unhappy with attempts by the rebels to impose communal farming methods.

Registration will be held 9-10 a.m. with two workshops scheduled 10 a.m. - noon and 2-5 p.m. Lunch will be from noon to 2 p.m.

A show and dance with music by the Soul Challengers will be the final activity. This event will be held at the Bachelor-Benedict Clubhouse on Howell St. from 8:00 p.m. - 12:30 a.m. The semi-formal affair is open to the public and admission is $2 per person.

Some American sources in Phnom Penh express the belief that time may not be entirely on the side of the insurgents. They suggest that the longer President Lon Nol's government holds out, the greater will become the differences between the various insurgent factions.

Elsewhere in Indochina: The South Vietnamese government reported 79 cease-fire violations by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, with 27 Communist troops and two civilians killed. The action included the ambush of a train on the central coast, attacks on four government positions in the central highlands and an attack on outposts 15 miles southwest of Saigon.

In Vientiane, the capital of Laos, diplomatic sources said the right-wing faction led by the Sananikone family is blocking the signing of the agreement to set up a provisional coalition government.

Meanwhile, negotiations with the Communists are continuing.

No-Show By Magruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder postponed an appearance in federal court today at which he was expected to plead guilty to a conspiracy charge in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

Magruder had been scheduled to appear before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, but at the last minute his attorney notified the Watergate special prosecutor's office that he wanted to delay the appearance.

Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's reelection committee, testified before the Senate Watergate committee that he had agreed to cooperate with the prosecutors and, in exchange, would be allowed to plead guilty to a single conspiracy charge.

Frederick C. LaRue, another former Nixon campaign aide, accepted a similar offer from the prosecutors and pleaded guilty to conspiring to obstruct justice on June 27.

"I believe the contrary to be true," Inouye said. "Never have we as a panel or as individuals ever suggested that the President was aware of or involved in the break-in."

Nixon deplored the abuses in the 1972 campaign, but said a few overzealous people should not be permitted "to tar the reputation of the millions of dedicated Americans who fought hard but clean for the candidates of their choice in 1972."

He pledged to do all he could to ensure one of the results of Watergate "is a new level of political decency and integrity in America."

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Palestinian tractor driver in south Lebanon was so distracted by Israeli jets overhead Wednesday that he ran over his 13-year-old son and killed him, local newspapers reported today. They said the man, Mahmoud Osman, fainted and was still unconscious 24 hours later.

WRONG PLACE AT THE WRONG TIME — New York Yankee Jim Ray Hart twists to elude the tag of California Angel shortstop Rudy Meoli after Hart tried to advance on teammate Felipe Alou's grounder Wednesday.

Unfortunately, Alou hit his ball into the path of Hart's advance from second to third base and Hart was tagged out. Alou reached first on the fielder's choice, but the Angels went on to win, 3-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Reds' Walk To Willie Pays Off

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer
There were nearly 21,000 people in the Three Rivers Stadium stands Wednesday night. There were two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning, and Cincinnati's Jack Billingham was facing one of baseball's most feared hitters—Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

There was no score, and a bad pitch to Stargell could have meant disaster.

With the less-threatening Rich Zisk on deck, Reds manager Sparky Anderson decided to gamble and walk Stargell intentionally.

The idea paid off for the Reds, as Zisk tapped harmlessly in front of the plate and was thrown out to end the inning. Then Cincinnati scored a run in the ninth to defeat the Pirates 1-0 for Billingham's seventh shutout of the season.

In other National League games, the Atlanta Braves crushed the staggering Chicago Cubs 15-1; the San Francisco Giants bombed the Philadelphia Phillies 11-2; the New York Mets blanked the San Diego Padres 4-0; the Houston Astros shut out the slumping St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, and the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Montreal Expos 7-2.

Braves 15, Cubs 1
Darrell Evans cracked his 34th home run of the season and Dave Johnson added his 32nd to highlight the 19-hit Atlanta attack that sent the reeling Cubs to their 10th consecutive loss and the 32nd in their last 42 games. Evans' homer tied him with Stargell for the major league lead.

Giants 11, Phillies 2
San Francisco powered Juan Marichal to his 237th career victory, making him the winningest active pitcher in the major leagues. Marichal and Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals had been tied for the lead, but Willie McCovey's three-run homer in the first inning gave Marichal all the runs he needed to take over the top spot.

Mets 7, Padres 0
Tom Seaver's two-hitter was backed by three New York home runs in their triumph over San Diego. Jerry Grote hit his first homer of the season and the first grand slam of his career in the fourth inning to spark New York's hitting heroids.

Astros 3, Cards 0
Run-scoring doubles by Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson in the sixth inning supported a five-hitter by Jerry Reuss.

Another highlight was provided by Jim Wynn's spectacular catch of a Mike Tyson drive in the St. Louis second inning. He gloved the looping line drive with two men on and one out to save the shutout.

Dodgers 7, Expos 2
Bill Buckner homered, doubled and singled, scored two runs and led Los Angeles over Montreal. Don Sutton and Jim Brewer combined to help the Dodgers maintain their 2½ game lead over the Reds in the League's Western Division.

In American League action Wednesday, the California Angels topped the New York Yankees 3-1; the Kansas City Royals stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-1; the Minnesota Twins topped the Detroit Tigers 9-7; the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Texas Rangers 5-1, and the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

McNally Claims 17th Straight Over Texas

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Washington Senators moved to Texas but couldn't get away from Dave McNally.

They may be the Texas Rangers to most, but to McNally they're the Texas Patriots.

"I'll admit I've done some good pitching against this team," said McNally in an understatement after whipping Texas 5-1 Wednesday night for his 17th straight victory over the Rangers.

McNally started his winning streak in 1968, when the team was in Washington. He can't explain it, only enjoy it.

McNally had a no-hitter going until Toby Harrah led off the seventh inning with a single. The only other hit off the Baltimore left-hander was a home run by Bill Sudakis in the eighth.

The victory moved Baltimore into first place in the American League East, one-half game over Detroit.

In the other American League games, the California Angels beat the New York Yankees 3-1; the Kansas City Royals stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-1; the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and the Minnesota Twins downed the Detroit Tigers 9-7. Rain postponed Oakland at Boston.

Angels 3, Yankees 1
Winston Llenas' pinch single with two out in the eighth inning drove home the tie-breaking run and sparked California to a 3-1 decision over New York.

Royals 5, Indians 1
Al Fitzmorris scattered seven hits for his fifth straight victory since his recall from the minors to lead Kansas City to a 5-

1 verdict over Cleveland. Brewers 5, White Sox 4
A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by John Briggs in the ninth inning scored Dave May and carried Milwaukee over Chicago 5-4.

Twins 9, Tigers 7
Larry Hisle's two-run homer in the eighth inning powered Minnesota to a 9-7 success over Detroit. Before Hisle won the game for the Twins, the Tigers had tied it 7-7 in the top of the eighth on Ed Brinkman's home run.

National League scores: Atlanta 15, Chicago 1; San Francisco 11, Philadelphia 2; Cincinnati 1, Pittsburgh 0; Houston 3, St. Louis 0; New York 7, San Diego 0, and Los Angeles 7, Montreal 2.

Defense Still Questionable, But Browns Headed For Victory

By RICHARD BILOTTI
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have consistently produced winning football teams, and it doesn't look like this year is going to be any different.

Since 1950, when the Browns joined the National Football League, they have had only one losing season.

The Browns wound up with a 10-4 record last season despite numerous injuries to both offensive and defensive lines and losing three of their first five games.

This year's group appears to have some question marks on defense, but is solid offensively. Nine-year veteran Rich Jackson, who had a knee operation, already has been cut from the squad. The Browns had high hopes that he would do wonders as a defensive end.

Another defensive end, Joe Jones, is coming off a knee operation. It remains to be seen what he can do.

Bob Briggs and Nick Roman played the end spots last season, doing an adequate job.

University of Arizona defensive end Bob Crum was picked up in the third round of the draft in an attempt to fill that need. However, coach Nick Skorch repeatedly has noted that no one has taken charge of the end positions as yet.

Linebackers are another problem. Dale Lindsay, a regular inside, is plagued by knee problems. Veteran John Garlington has been sidelined with a pulled hamstring.

Three cornerbacks are returning to the lineup: Tom Darden, Clarence Scott and Ben Davis. Bobby Majors, picked up as a free agent last year, has shown some promise in camp and rookie Jim Stienke could add some depth.

The only defensive spot the Browns are not worried about are the tackles. Walter Johnson and Jerry Sherk are among the league's best pairs.

The offensive line is solid, with Bob DeMarco at center, Gene Hickerson and John Demarie at guard and Doug Dieken and Bob McKay at tackle all returning from last year.

First-round draft choice offensive guard Pete Adams could turn out to be a good backup. The 6-foot-4, 260-pound lineman put on a good show in the College All-Star game.

That line will give quarterback Mike Phipps the time he needs to get his passes off.

Backing up Phipps are seven-year veteran Don Horn and Brian Sipe, who spent last year on the Browns' taxi squad. Horn was acquired from the Denver Broncos in a winter trade.

Phipps will be tossing to veteran wide receivers Frank Pitts and Fair Hooker, each of whom pulled in more than 30 passes last year.

The Browns have finally found some depth in running backs.

Veterans Leroy Kelly and Bo Scott will be able to rest because of Billy Lefear, Hugh McKinnis and Greg Pruitt.

The Browns have been looking for someone to support place kicker-punter Don Cockroft, but he's not likely to need the help. Last year Cockroft won the Golden Toe Award for having the most accurate toe in football. He scored 94 field goal points.

NEXT: The Cincinnati Bengals.

U.S., Russians Battling Again

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The recurring battle for sports supremacy between the United States and Russia was on again today as the seventh World University Games began.

The Americans have sent their largest contingent—well over 300 men and women—to compete in eight sports. Of these, many were swinging into action on the first full day of competition.

Kathy Schmidt, a 19-year-old six-footer from Long Beach, Calif., who has been chasing the women's world javelin record, looked like America's brightest hope in Lenin Stadium today.

Kathy's best throw is 208 feet, 1 inch, less than six feet short of the world mark.

The most spectacular track event of the day's program was the gruelling 10,000-meter run. Two Americans—Richard Bowerman of Indiana University and Charles Maguire of Penn State—were trying to hold off the strong challenge of the East Europeans.

Gold medals were to be decided in these two events and in the men's shot put. The Americans had two shot putters—Dana La Duc of the University of Texas and Jesse Stuart of Western Kentucky University—in the field.

Other medals to be decided Thursday were in men's foil fencing and the women's team gymnastics in optional exercises.

The real importance of these games is that they could be a trial run for the 1980 Olympics.

The Russians wanted to stage the Olympics in 1976 but were beaten out by Montreal in the vote by the International Olympic Committee. A decision on the 1980 site will be made next year, and at the moment Moscow appears the only serious contender.

One man who is watching things closely is Lord Killanin, who succeeded Avery Brundage last year as president of the IOC.

Eagles Hope For Better Luck In Meeting With Steelers Tonight

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles, fresh from a 45-21 trouncing at the hands of the Cincinnati Bengals, collide tonight with the tough Pittsburgh Steelers in a National Football League exhibition game.

Eagles' coach Mike McCormack can be forgiven if he has the feeling that things are going to get worse before they get better. His young team is a heavy underdog against Pittsburgh.

Steelers' coach Chuck Noll plans to give McCormack and the Eagles the Steelers' best shot. He'll start the same team that opened against Miami in last season's American Football Conference playoff game, led by quarterback Terry Bradshaw and running back Franco Harris on offense, and "Mean" Joe Greene on defense. Terry Hanratty is expected to spell Bradshaw in the second half.

The Steelers are 1-1 in exhibition play, beating Baltimore 34-7, and losing to Minnesota 10-6. Noll expressed dissatisfaction with his offense, declaring it lacked "intensity."

Harris, the Steelers' leading runner last season as a rookie, has been used sparingly because of a bruised thigh and knee, but has been pronounced fit for tonight.

McCormack, who compared his club's performance against Cincinnati with a high school team, will start with young John Reaves at quarterback, and substitute with veteran Roman Gabriel in the second half.

Washington will be at Buffalo on Friday, while on Saturday Baltimore will play Detroit at Memphis, Houston plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, Minnesota will be at Kansas City, Chicago at Miami, New England at Atlanta, Oakland at Los Angeles, St. Louis at Denver and New Orleans at Dallas.

On Sunday, Paul Brown goes against his old team when his Cincinnati Bengals play the Cleveland Browns at Columbus, Ohio, a cross-town rivalry will be resumed at New Haven, Conn., when the New York Giants play the New York Jets, and San Diego will be at San Francisco.

When the Bears try to put an end to Miami's 21-game winning streak, John Huarte will not be on the sidelines. The Notre Dame quarterback, who reached one of the high points of his professional career when he won the Heisman Trophy in 1964, reached one of the low points Wednesday when he was placed on waivers by the Bears and unclaimed by any club.

Coach Abe Giron said Huarte is a free agent and might play football in Canada where another Heisman winner from Notre Dame—Joe Theismann—currently plays for Toronto.

New York Giants Coach Alex

Webster said he still was undecided about his starting quarterback for the regular season, but announced that Norm Snead would open against the Jets Saturday and Randy Johnson probably would start against Pittsburgh Aug. 26.

Miami said it would keep star running backs Mercury Morris and Larry Csonka out of action again this week. Morris has not seen any game action after suffering a hip injury before the recent College All-Star game. Csonka has been out since the All-Star contest with a leg bruise.

Grad Takes Putt Title

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Mike Baldoza, just five months out of high school, earned $50,000 and the world putting championship Wednesday by blasting veteran Charlie McIntosh in a 36-hole match.

Baldoza, 18, won the first two holes from McIntosh and buried the 32-year-old from Decatur, Ga., with an avalanche of aces. He reeled off five consecutive holes in one and beat McIntosh 7-and-6.

Asked if he was able to grasp the magnitude of a prize 100 times the size of his largest previous one of $500, Baldoza said, "Fifty thousand dollars is beautiful. But being world champion is really the great honor. There have been so many great ones before, I'm just glad to be one of them."

The youth will remain in Tulsa for the national medal play tournament Friday. After that he plans to travel to Australia in the fall for another tour.

The Junior Putters Association ended its national championship Wednesday when the Fort Worth team defeated Winston-Salem, N.C., 27-21, for the title. Phoenix, Ariz., defeated Euclid, Ohio, 31-17, for third place.

Only State Film Censors Now Feel Back In Style

By KENNETH FRANKLING BALTIMORE (UPI) Age of Baltimore, once called the members of the Maryland Board of Censors "professional smellers." Others complain the board wastes taxpayers' money.

But board members feel they are "civic-minded people who are interested in government and the public's welfare."

Mary Avara, David E. Preller and George Andreadakis are members of the only statewide agency in the nation that censors motion pictures—from cartoons to hard-core pornography.

The board has weathered such critics as Mencken, constitutional challenges in the courts, and efforts by many state officials, including former Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, to abolish it.

As governor in 1967, Agnew tried to starve the board to death by refusing to fund it in the state budget. But his action was challenged in court and declared illegal. The censors now operate on $50,000 a year.

Struggles over? "The board has been fighting tooth and nail to stay alive in the last decade," said Mrs. Avara, 55, a widow who is also a ball bondsman. "Now I don't think we'll have to fight so much. But we're ready."

All three board members expect similar boards will be set up in other areas of the country as the result of the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling that local community standards can form the basis for judging obscenity.

"We don't have to defend censorship when the Supreme Court says it's okay," said Preller, 49, a Baltimore lawyer who is chairman of the board.

"We are leaders in the field and other states will create censor boards," he said. "The states have legitimate interests in protecting citizens against pornographic matter. The Supreme Court felt that distributors had gone too far."

New Weapons Andreadakis, 49, feels the supreme court ruling gave censors important new weapons in their battle against what they consider smut.

In operation since 1916, the board reviewed 1,225 films last year, not including the 25-cent "peep show" films it also regulates. It rejected 45 films outright and cut scenes from 50.

The board refuses to award official seals to films that it feels when taken as a whole appeal to prurient interests, depict patently offensive conduct, or which lack serious literary, artistic or scientific value when contemporary standards are applied.

The board is held to a tight 15-day schedule. Each film must be reviewed and either approved or rejected within five days of its arrival at a downtown screening room.

Time Schedule If a film is rejected, the board has three days to take it to court. A hearing on the film's obscenity must be held within five days of the time the board goes to court. The court must then render a decision

"I Am Curious (Yellow)," considered to have paved the way for more explicit movies, was rejected by the board. State Attorney General Francis Burch saw the film at least twice before concurring it should be banned. The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the ban 4-4. The movie finally was shown in Maryland three years later, but with deletions ordered by the court. $100 Fine Persons convicted of showing films without the board's seal of approval can be fined $100 for each film. Most of those fined operate seedy movie houses or the coin-operated "peep shows." The three board members feel special qualifications are not needed to act as the judges of what the public may or may not see. "I know what's garbage," Mrs. Avara said. "Garbage is thrown in the garbage can." Mrs. Avara works full time as a censor with an annual salary of $4,000. Preller, with a salary of $5,000, and Andreadakis, who earns $4,500, work part-time. In May, the controversial "Last Tango in Paris" was reviewed by the board. It received approval without difficulty. Trashy Tango "The distributor thought we'd chop or ban it, but we didn't," Mrs. Avara said. "It was garbage—trashy, dull, crude and vulgar—but it wasn't obscene." Mrs. Avara feels censorship could be ended in Maryland by establishing something like a red-light district for racy films. But she is not optimistic. "I'm completely in favor of taking all X-rated films and hardcore and putting them in one honky tonk section," she said. "Access would be restricted only to those adults who really deserve to see such film. "But if won't happen because proprietors are irresponsible and won't keep the kids out." Unable at present to control violence in movies, the board is considering asking the state attorney general to sponsor legislation allowing it to censor violence as well as sex. "It will probably take a supreme court ruling or an act of the legislature to give us that power," Preller said.

Little Known Of 'Mastermind'

HOUSTON (AP) — So little is known of the 33-year-old electrician who allegedly masterminded a macabre chain of 27 homosexual killings that even his middle name got mixed up until it appeared on his grave-stone.

"Dean Arnold Corll," it said. Police had been saying it was Dean Allen Corll, but a check of birth, Army and driving records showed the grave citation was right.

A small point, but it stood uncorrected for a week, subject to the same dearth of information that has made a mystery of everything about Corll.

Elmer Wayne Henley Jr. has said he shot Corll to death the morning of Aug. 8 during an argument at a sex and paint-sniffing party.

Henley, 17, and David O. Brooks, 18, later led investigators to the graves of the teenagers and detailed to police nearly three years of living boys to apartments and houses where Corll resided.

Henley and Brooks now are under indictment on charges of murder and are being held in jail.

A copyright story published by the Houston Chronicle traced Corll's background from a Fort Wayne, Ind., birth record to the fatal shooting in suburban Pasadena through relatives and friends who requested anonymity.

Corll was born on Dec. 24, 1939, in Fort Wayne to Arnold and Mary Corll, both 23 at the time.

"But his parents never were happy," a woman relative said. Corll worked with his mother, then known as Mary West, in a candy business after high school graduation and then went north in 1960 to care for his recently widowed grandmother.

"He knew she'd be alone and would need someone to take her to church and places," the relative said. "He got a job up there, stayed with his grandmother two years, but he always managed to send a little money to his mother down here."

In 1962, Corll lived with his mother, brother and half-sister in Houston in the Heights area where a number of the victims of the mass murders later grew into their teens.

Install Greene As Director

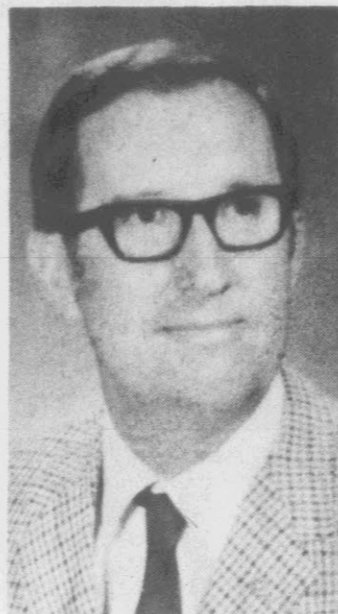

Dixie E. "Dick" Greene of Greenville was officially installed on the board of directors of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company Friday night at the 119th annual stockholders meeting.

Greene was one of eight men recently appointed by Gov. Holshouser to the office.

One of the two North Carolina owned railroads, the A. & N.C. was originally chartered during the 1852-53 N.C. General Assembly. It was leased to and operated under various companies before the Atlantic and East Carolina Railway Co. took over operations in 1939. The Southern Railway acquired A. & E.C. interests in 1957 and the Atlantic and North Carolina is now approaching the status of a trunk line railway.

Greene has been with Brown & Wood Inc., a local Pontiac-Cadillac-Fiat Agency dealership, for the past 17 years. The Robersonville native is currently chairman of the Pitt County Republican Executive Committee.

A graduate of UNC, he is a member of various civic organizations, including the Jaycees, Rotary Club, and Elks and Moose Lodges. Greene is an active member of Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

He is married to Ruth M. Greene, formerly of Robersonville, and they have three sons.

Wife Is Suing Vincent Price

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Vincent Price has been sued for divorce by his wife of 23 years, former costume designer Mary Grant Price.

The divorce petition on Wednesday said the horror film star and his wife had been separated since Jan. 15. They were married Sept. 30, 1949, in Tijuana, Mexico.

Mrs. Price asked custody of their daughter Mary, 11, and child support. The petition said disposal of the couple's community property had been settled by prior agreement.

Trophies will be given to winners in each age group and a trophy is also to be given for the player making the most holes in one.

The 1973 tournament is sponsored jointly by the Greenville Jaycees and the Greenville Putt Putt Course.

Opposing Psychiatric Test In Mass Killings

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Elmer Wayne Henley Jr. were to go to court today to battle a state attempt to force a psychiatric examination of the youth, one of two teen-agers accused in the largest mass murder in the nation's history.

Charles Melder, a defense lawyer, blocked an examination by the Harris County psychiatric unit Tuesday but said Henley, 17, probably would be in court for today's hearing.

"I never heard of such a motion nor has any other lawyer," Melder said in an interview.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Mike Hinton said the prosecution was making the unusual move "because of the extreme atrocity and depravity of the killings."

Twenty-seven bodies of teenage boys and young men have been unearthed since Henley called police Aug. 8 to tell them he had killed Dean A. Corll, 33, the alleged mastermind of a homosexual procurement, rape and slaying ring.

Henley has been indicted separately in two of the 27 slayings and jointly with David O. Brooks, 18, in a third death.

Henley was also charged with three of the murders by St. Augustine County authorities and has told police he took part in nine of the slayings. Brooks said he witnessed some of the killings but denied taking any direct part.

"We feel sure both defendants are mentally competent under the law," Hinton said. "We are just trying to be extra cautious. If a psychiatrist found him (Henley) incompetent we would bring that evidence to the attention of the court and ask that he be committed to Rusk (a state hospital for the insane)."

Meanwhile, Dallas police investigated what appeared to be a homosexual procurement operation that extended across the country.

"Based on my investigation, I have reason to believe Dean Corll was connected with that ring in Dallas," Melder said. But authorities said there appeared to be no link between the ring and the mass slayings.

Belfast-To-Dublin Trains Are Halted

BELFAST (IP) — All rail traffic between Belfast and Dublin was halted today after 10 gunmen stopped a freight train on the line near Newry and put two milk churns in the engineer's cab.

The churns were thought to contain explosives, and British army demolition experts were called. Meanwhile, the gunmen had fled.

Wednesday night a car loaded with 200 pounds of explosives blew up outside a crowded waterfront bar in Belfast, killing one man, injuring 12 and blowing the roof off the building.

It was the 866th confirmed death in four years of communal violence in Northern Ireland.

On a hillside outside Belfast, police arrested eight Protestants apparently engaged in guerrilla training. A police spokesman said there was an exchange of shots, but no one was hurt.

The Social Democratic and Labor party, Northern Ireland's Catholic party, appealed to the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army to end its guerrilla war against British rule. It said the campaign had achieved nothing but the continuation of internment without trial of suspected IRA members.

Nixon Admits Scandal Undercutting Policies

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has conceded for the first time that the Watergate scandal is sapping confidence in his foreign policy, both at home and abroad.

But he said in his address to the American people Wednesday night that he will not let "an obsession with the past destroy our hopes for the future."

Specifically, Nixon stressed U.S. interests in Europe and Southeast Asia.

He said he intends to press ahead with negotiations to limit U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear weapons and to reduce American and Russian troop levels in Europe.

Henry A. Kissinger, the President's principal foreign policy adviser, made a similar appeal earlier this month. As he put it: "Domestic problems must not be used as an excuse for abandoning our international responsibilities."

The hard fact is that in Europe and Southeast Asia, the two areas Nixon dwelled on, the Administration has obvious diplomatic problems on its hands.

Eight months into what the President has proclaimed to be the "Year of Europe" there is no unified response within the European Economic Community to Kissinger's appeal for a new Atlantic charter.

Some observers are convinced the Watergate affair has contributed to the delay. And they would not be surprised if Nixon postponed his planned trip to Europe until next year.

In Southeast Asia, there is no sign of imminent negotiations in Cambodia and in Vietnam the ceasefire agreement remains tenuous while hopes to rebuild the north and south economically are stalled.

But it was not until his radio and television address that the President made a public connection to Watergate.

"Confidence at home and abroad in our economy, our currency and our foreign policy is being sapped by uncertainty," is the way he acknowledged it.

School Lunches Raised A Dime

CHARLOTTE (AP) — School lunches have been raised a dime in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County schools. Pupils will pay 45 cents in elementary schools and 50 cents in junior and senior highs.

Officials who announced the increase Wednesday cited the rising costs of food, labor and other items.

Some Questions Unanswered

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest Watergate statement has left behind it questions that remain unanswered.

Among things Nixon did not answer in his speech and statement Wednesday night were:

—Why he didn't demand an accounting by his campaign director, John N. Mitchell, who swore he would have told the President about a cover-up if asked.

—Why he didn't directly ask his former counsel, John W. Dean III, whether anybody was involved in the wiretapping besides the seven men who were indicted and later convicted.

—Why he didn't follow up on a telephoned warning from former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, less than three weeks after the break-in, that men on the White House staff were trying to confuse the investigation.

—Why he didn't ask the FBI or the Justice Department to investigate "new information" which he says first came to him from Dean last March 21. This included allegations that other campaign officials were involved in the wiretapping, that money had been paid to the silent defendants, that clemency had been discussed with one of them and that another was attempting to blackmail the White House.

—How he first learned of the 1972 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, and why he delayed for more than a month before allowing the information to go to the judge in the Pentagon Papers case.

Nixon has promised to hold a news conference sometime before Labor Day. Some of the unanswered questions may be addressed then.

Nixon did proclaim his own innocence once again. He repeated his earlier denials and broadly rebutted and downgraded Dean's sworn accusations against him.

He also added a handful of relatively minor details to what he had said nearly three months earlier, and altered two or three points in his own story.

But in his 28-minute speech, and the 2,800-word brief that accompanied it, he offered no blow-by-blow account of the wiretapping and cover-up.

He said he is too busy being President to "enter upon an endless course of explaining and rebutting."

And he said the affair is being investigated by the Senate and a federal grand jury. Both are trying to pry crucial tape recordings away from Nixon, who refused to turn them over.

"I recognize that this statement does not answer many of the questions and contentions raised during the Watergate hearings," Nixon said in his written brief. "It has not been my intention to attempt any such comprehensive and detailed response."

Twenty-Five Cars Derailed

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Twenty-five cars in the middle of a Seaboard Coast Line freight train derailed two miles north of nearby Matthews Wednesday, ripping up 300 feet of track.

No one was injured when the mostly empty freight from Hamlet to Bostic derailed. The cause was not learned.

A railroad spokesman said the tracks could be cleared by noon today.

At least 20 undamaged cars at the front of the train left the scene behind the original locomotive. Another engine picked up undamaged cars at the back of the train.

Will Again Hunt For Ironclad

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP)—Another search for the sunken Civil War iron clad ship Monitor will come Friday when the Duke University research vessel Eastward puts to sea.

Plans call for the Eastward to search an area off Cape Hatteras and about 20 miles south of Diamond Shoals. This is near the spot where the Monitor disappeared in a storm in 1862 while being towed to Wilmington to fight a Confederate ironclad being built there.

'Last Vigil' By Peace Pickets

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—One of a group of pickets that assembled on Franklin Street Wednesday bore a placard that read: "The Last Vigil."

For six years the weekly vigil to protest the war in Viet Nam had been held every Wednesday. With the end of the bombing in Cambodia, Mrs. Charlotte Adams who organized the protest commented "We can finally go home."

Holding His Wheat Off The Market

By J.D. WILSON
Associated Press Writer
WILTON, N.D. (AP) — Oscar Hagstrom is watching wheat prices set records but says he can't afford to sell his crop.

Hagstrom, who has more than 600 acres of wheat under cultivation in central North Dakota, says he is holding his wheat off the market for now to avoid a higher income tax bracket he says would put him in the poor house.

The 64-year-old farmer says other North Dakota farmers are having similar income tax problems.

A bushel of wheat brought $5 for the first time in history this week on the Minneapolis Grain Exchange. Since then it has slipped slightly but the price is still about $3 more than a year ago.

The price spiral took off in the wake of last year's massive sale of wheat to Russia. Hagstrom said a grain callup forced producers to sell up to four year's supply of stored grain. "When (Agriculture Secretary Earl) Butz called for all grains to be delivered, all grains had to be sold," he said.

Hagstrom, one of the largest wheat farmers in Burleigh County, said he tries to limit his gross income to $50,000, then bring his expenses up to pay taxes on $10,000.

He said if he decides to sell the 8,000 bushels he's holding now, he'll ask for a delayed payment which he would receive in 1977.

Hagstrom, like others who make their living raising grain, thinks prices are finally where they should be.

"Producers of farm products are really coming into their own in a monetary sense," he said. "Prices are finally where they should have been all these last 50 years."

Cars Given To Railroad

WARRENTON, N. C. (AP)—The Warrenton Railroad, described as North Carolina's smallest rail line, has received a U. S. government donation of 16 cars from the deactivated railroad at Ft. Eustis, Va.

A spokesman for the line says the seven passenger cars included in the gift will be used primarily for weekend excursions along the two and one-half miles of track.

The passenger excursions will be operated by the Warrenton Railroad Society, which owns 25 per cent of the railroad. The city of Warrenton owns the other 75 per cent.

The 97-year-old line, established originally to haul pulp wood, now hauls freight during week days between Warrenton and a branch line of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad at the Warren Plains community.

The old line is small, but it now uses diesel electric engines instead of choo-choos.

See A Big Year For Fiberglass

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 500 million pounds of sheet molding compound will be produced in 1978, it is predicted by Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., leading supplier of glass fiber. Eighty per cent of the fiberglass-plastic automotive applications, half the consumer products and 30 per cent of fiberglass-plastic electrical products will be molded from it.

Arrest May Set Inmate Free

CHICAGO (AP) — For three years Wilbur McDonald waited in prison, pleading his innocence in a 1970 killing and praying that the real killer would be caught.

His prayers may have been answered Wednesday as he walked out of the Criminal Courts building free on a $20,000 personal recognizance bond. McDonald is scheduled to appear in court again on Sept. 25, and the Chicago Sun-Times said today it has learned that State's Atty. Bernard Cerez will recommend McDonald's outright release.

He was freed just 32 hours after Lester Harrison, an ex-convict with a long record, reportedly confessed to the 1970 slaying of Agnes B. Lehmann, which sent McDonald to prison. Harrison, 51, was arrested Monday in Grant Park moments after the stabbing death of Elaine Ott of Seattle in a restroom. Newspaper accounts citing unnamed police officials said Harrison has confessed to the Ott and Lehmann killings and to killing two other women in the park in the last year. Harrison has been charged only in the Ott slaying and authorities would not comment directly on the newspaper reports. McDonald, 34, a Chicago factory worker with a record of minor arrests, was freed by a Circuit Court judge who conferred behind closed doors with McDonald's lawyer and an assistant state's attorney. McDonald was greeted by his two sisters, three brothers and tearful mother, Pearl Burden, as he left the court building.

Two of the brothers had driven through the night to bring their mother from her home in Lebanon, Ky.

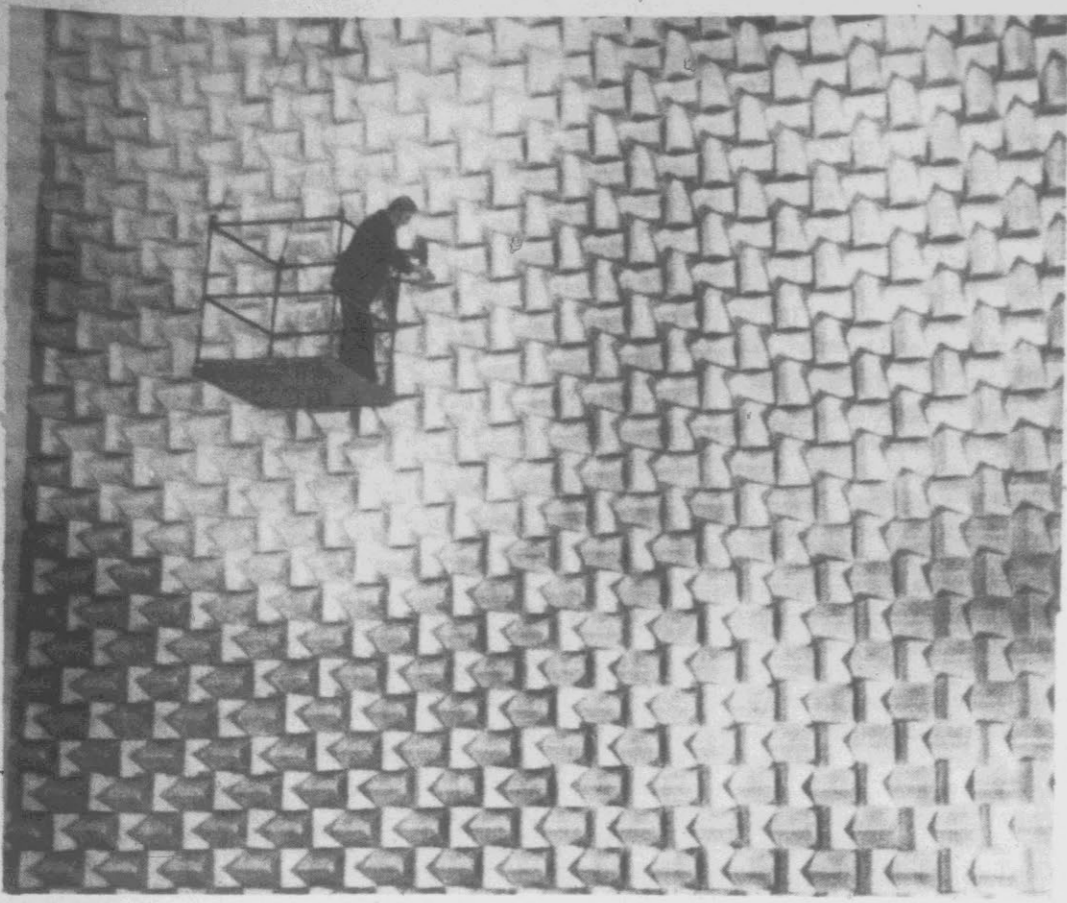

"I'm so happy ... We never had any doubts about him ... I knew some day he'd come home to me," Mrs. Burden told newsmen.

McDonald showed no bitterness about his years in prison. "When they returned the guilty verdict, I thought it was a mistake. Humans make mistakes. I was certain I'd eventually get out."

Why? "Because I'm innocent," he said simply.

It was on July 11, 1970, that police found McDonald lying unconscious some 200 yards from Mrs. Lehmann's naked and beaten body in Grant Park along the downtown lakefront.

AN "ANECHOIC CHAMBER" —David Nixon "floats" by one of the walls of this installation built by Westinghouse engineers in Sunnyvale, Calif. to measure noise level generated by gears which are being tested for the Navy's DD963 Spruance Class destroyer program. Two of the walls and the ceiling of the test chamber are composed of special foam blocks which the engineers say eliminate outside noise and make it possible to accurately measure noise level of the gears. The other two walls made of plywood can be removed, to permit the gears to be lifted in place. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon Chooses Protect 'Confidentiality' Role

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has again rejected special prosecutor Archibald Cox's contention that the courts should decide whether the White House tapes are essential evidence in the grand jury's investigation.

If he were to turn over the tapes, Nixon said in his Watergate statement Wednesday night, "the confidentiality of the office of the presidency would always be suspect ...

"I shall therefore vigorously oppose any action which would set a precedent that would cripple all future presidents by inhibiting conversations between them and the persons they look to for advice."

Nixon has refused to comply with subpoenas issued by Cox and the Senate Watergate Committee demanding tapes of presidential conversations about Watergate.

In what he called "the common sense of the matter," Nixon said "it is absolutely essential, if the President is to be able to do his job as the country expects, that he be able to talk openly and candidly with his advisers about issues and individuals ...

"Indeed, on occasion they must be able to 'blow off steam' about important public figures." Cox took a different view in the argument he filed in federal court Monday in support of his request for a court order demanding Nixon obey the subpoena.

"Under the usual rule, the court—not the President—determines whether particular documents are privileged by weighing the need for evidence against any governmental interest in secrecy," the Harvard Law School professor wrote.

As for the specific case of the nine tapes Cox subpoenaed, the prosecutor argued, "The interest in confidentiality is never sufficient to support an official privilege where there is reason to believe that the deliberations may have involved criminal misconduct.

"Second, under the particular circumstances of the present case, the need of the grand jury for the critically important evidence provided by the recordings upon a question of wrongdoing by high officials and party leaders easily outweighs the slight risk to the freedom of executive discussions."

Indict Seven In Muslim Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven men from Philadelphia have been indicted in the wounding of Bibi Khaalis, the former Pamela Hawkins, daughter of Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins of Charlotte, the first black to run for governor of North Carolina, and the murder of her children.

Four children aged two weeks to 3 years were drowned and an 11-year old boy and two men were shot to death in the home and headquarters of the Hanafi Muslims in Washington on Jan. 18.

Mrs. Khaalis, wife of Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, leader of the sect, and Almira Khaalis, his daughter, were shot and wounded, but have recovered.

Some of the dead were children of Hamaas and Bibi Khaalis, and others were his by a former marriage. Hamaas Khaalis was not present at the time of the slayings.

The $78,000 house in northwest Washington where the murders occurred had been given to the Hanafi Muslims by Milwaukee Bucks basketball star Kareem Abdul Jabbar, formerly known as Lew Alcindor.

Indictments were filed in the District of Columbia Superior Court Wednesday against John Clark, William Christian, James Price, Ronald Harvey, John Griffin, Theodore Woody, and Jerome Sinclair, also known as Jerome Davis. Each is charged murder, assault with intent to kill, and robbery and burglary resulting from the ransacking of the house. The indictment accuses them of conspiring on Jan. 14 in Philadelphia to kill Khaalis and other persons present at the Hanafi headquarters.

Police first said they believed the slayings may have resulted from a religious feud, but they added this was only one theory. U.S. Atty. Harold Titus said the investigation is continuing.

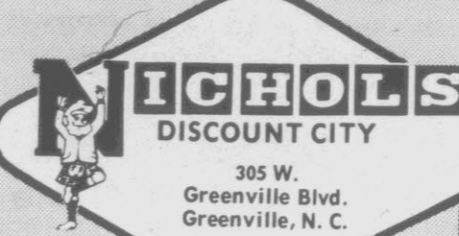

The Hanafi sect of orthodox Islam claims about 1,000 members. It is not associated with the Black Muslims lead by Elijah Muhammad.

At the time of the mass murders, Hamaas Abdul Khaalis said they were in retaliation for letters he had sent to Black Muslim mosques calling Elijah Muhammad a "living deceiver."

Sums Revert To The Treasury

NEW YORK (UPI) — Make way for something that doesn't happen often—money reverting to the U.S. Treasury because it couldn't be spent the way it was supposed to be.

The news is in a bulletin from the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. To wit: "The $1 million authorized for the improvement of teacher preparation at the undergraduate level will revert—unspent—to the Treasury following an opinion of a consultants' review panel that none of the approximately 100 proposals met the criteria for funds."

Now An Alternative For That Horse Worth Saving

By JAMES A. SHAMP
WHEATLEY, Ont. (UPI) — They shoot horses, don't they? Not any more they don't. Any horse worth saving has an alternative now when it suffers a broken leg or other injury or illness that once meant the death penalty.

It's all part of a burgeoning technology, spurred by rapid growth in the North American horse population. And the experts are stopping at nothing—from tissue transplants to hydrotherapy—to keep expensive race horses racing and family pets out of the glue factory.

"People aged 45-70 remember seeing horses shot right in front of the grandstands if they broke a leg in a race," said Dr. Lloyd McKibbin, a Wheatley veterinarian who specializes in horse medicine. "But this generation won't see that. All at least, they shouldn't have to see it."

"It's true a lot of veterinarians and horsemen don't know what can be done, even for race horses now. But legs can be set today, and by application of hydrotherapy we can have a horse back on the race track winning races."

Transplant Pioneer
McKibbin is a pioneer in the transplanting of fascial tissue from one part of a horse to another, much like the operations often performed on football players to repair torn knee ligament. He also has a good track record with the elaborate pool adjoining his Wheatley Downs base, 40 miles from the U.S. border at Detroit.

"Detroit's best horse, Classic Brandy, had a shattered knee," recalled McKibbin. "We put the bones together and swam him. He's won many races since then."

"One of the best standard-breds in Chicago, Cecil T, won $36,000 after he swam here last year. He had a fractured knee."

McKibbin, whose 100,000-gallon pool is operated by his son, Terry, said he got the idea several years ago to build a heated, enclosed pool so horses could exercise muscles after surgery, during certain periods of soreness and in bad weather.

72-Degree Pool
Now, horses brought to Wheatley Downs for exercise or treatment bathe in the 10-foot deep, 40-foot circular pool, kept at a constant 72-degree temperature. The water is chlorinated and constantly filtered through charcoal and sand. A trainer stays with the horse to give the animal any needed assistance.

When the horse leaves the pool, it is taken into a padded stall, where it is allowed to roll in several inches of sand, kept at 100 degrees, to dry off. The horse is then taken to a nearby automatic walker to dry off slowly in a greenhouse-type room.

"Pools for horses were slow to come to North America," said McKibbin. "They've been using them in Puerto Rico and South America for years."

"Canonero II, who won the Kentucky Derby last year, worked out by swimming. I happened to be with Canonero's trainer the day he won the Derby. I asked him after the race how much time Canonero had in the pool. He just said, 'Lots.'"

"The Canadian Olympic Equestrian team took the gold medal in Mexico City with horses trained in water—not all of it, of course, but as far as the buildup, much of that work was done in pools."

Rainy Day Exercise
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Newberry of South Rockwood, Mich., recently installed a pool for their standardbreds at their farm near Monroe—site of disastrous multi-million-dollar floods from Lake Erie swells and torrential rains.

"It's a little too early for us to see any results on injuries," said Mrs. Newberry. "But with all this rain it sure comes in handy. We can exercise the horses in any kind of weather. It seems we're in a rain belt here. There have been many times when our horses would have to stand in the stall for three days at a time if it weren't for the pool. It's also really nice for winter exercise."

"With year-round racing now in Michigan, it takes its toll. Horses can go lame easily, running on hard tracks every Saturday night all summer and in mud all winter. But with the pool, we don't have as much danger of a horse getting sore from running too much on the track."

No Research Money
Dr. Oscar G. Swanstrom, a veterinarian at the Michigan

State University Large Animal Clinic in East Lansing, has been conducting research on the use of swimming pools for training and therapy for horses.

"We're still in the developmental stages as to how it can be used," said Swanstrom, who has worked with the Newberrys' horses as well as Wheatley Downs animals. "One big problem is that even though ownership of horses has grown tremendously in recent years and is likely to keep growing, there is no money available to us for research into this type of thing."

"Horse information is out of date," said Swanstrom. "After World War II, everybody said it was out of date. We had tractors and cars, and didn't need horses. Now it's burgeoning."

"When the average guy who has a horse in his backyard goes out and buys a book on the subject, it's written in the 1920s. We have a lot of new information now, and we feel we have to get it to the people."

"The public is not aware of our capabilities in repairing fractures. We have a high rate of success using bone screws, plates, pins, wires and other things."

Cost is one problem. The swimming and care of a horse runs about $10 to $12 a day, and there are some problems that can't be helped by swimming, especially for race horses. Most advocates of the swimming plan agree swimming can't replace track exercise or owner handling completely. Race horses must become accustomed to track conditions, and all horses use somewhat different muscles in swimming and running.

Still, more horses than ever are being saved to run—or just romp—again. Fewer are dying just because of an injury to one thin leg.

The 'Worry Clinic' Interest Soars With A 'Stake'

Judy surprised me when she jumped up suddenly and danced a jig in front of the TV screen. For we men folks had been focussing on the pro Super Bowl football game. We though she was dozing. Note what made her a football fanatic!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE X-588: Judy is the wife of my son Daniel, the dental surgeon.

During the Super Bowl last winter, we were all sitting in the living room.

"Wow!" exclaimed Judy, as she suddenly jumped up from the davenport and danced a job around the room.

"He intercepted that pass! Hurrah!"
"Well, I am a football devotee myself but I was surprised to see such avid interest displayed by Judy.

For normally, she prefers TV movies and anything except the interminable athletic contests.

So I asked her why she was so excited by that pass in interception.

"Oh, I win a new dress if my team wins! And that was one of the players on my team who caught that pass!"

"When did you start this system of winning dresses?" I inquired.

"Oh, we began it last Thanksgiving.

"And I have already won 3 new dresses from Dan.

"If I select the favorite team, he may insist that I give him 7 points or 10 points before I am entitled to a dress.

"Sometimes he takes the favorite, so then I don't have as much chance.

"But this winter I have been winning, even with the underdog teams!"

Athletic Widows

Many of you wives complain that you are "athletic widows" during the baseball or football seasons.

For your mates are glued to the TV screen and often will not come to the table to dine with you.

You may even serve them their meals on TV trays so they can munch on their hamburgers while watching the game.

But if you wish to motivate women toward football, imitate the deal that Dan makes with Judy.

For Judy is a slender girl, weighing about 115 and about 5'3" tall.

You wouldn't suppose she had much interest in the rugged game of football.

But with a new dress at stake, she is as widely enthusiastic as her husband.

Her case merely shows that if you put the proper motivation on any subject, the interest of the workers of spectators zooms fast.

The same phenomenon occurs when you have a son playing on the team or some other relative or even a close friend.

For then you engage in what we psychologists call "empathy" and project yourself more viddily into the conflict.

Judy thus expended a lot of calories jumping up and down whenever her team made a first down or scored a field goal or touchdown.

She was almost as enthusiastic as if she were the coach of the team.

And she groaned when it looked for a time as if her team was going down to defeat; then screamed in delight when it suddenly went into the lead with a surprising last minute touchdown.

Husbands, help your wives develop more interest in your hobbies by adding a little zest like a new dress or even a box of candy.

And send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets).

Dan is a football fanatic, having won 4 letters in football while at college in Michigan.

During the football season, the women in our house get very little chance to view anything on TV if a football game is scheduled!

Europe is the world's most active area in promoting bridge for young players. In many schools and colleges, bridge is an accredited course. There is a European Junior Championship for players under 25, and last year 19 countries entered this event.

The hand above was played in a match between the juniors of Turkey and Spain. When Turkey held the North-South hands, their players reached six spades on the auction shown. The missing three aces and the king of trumps, declarer succeeded in making the contract.

North's raise of his partner's one spade opening to four spades is largely preemptive. South decided to gamble that his partner held a red ace, and leaped to slam. It would have been wise to check on that by cue-bidding five clubs giving partner the room to show either the ace of hearts or the ace of diamonds—the Blackwood convention is not suited to this hand, for if North does show an ace South cannot be sure that it is not the ace of clubs. West was wise not to double on the strength of his two aces—but the temptation might have proved irresistible had he suspected that his partner also had an ace.

West made the normal lead of the ace of his shorter suit. Unfortunately, that proved to be the only card that gave South a chance. As West couldn't believe that anyone could bid a slam missing three aces, he shifted to the ace of clubs at trick two.

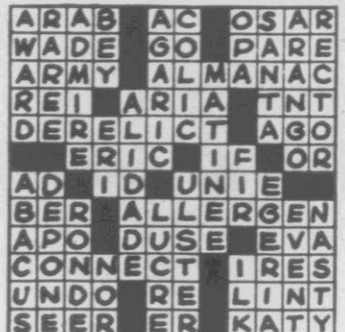

Declarer ruffed and saw a chance to get home. Fearing that West might have a singleton heart, he spurned crossing to the queen of hearts to take a trump finesse in favor of leading the ace of spades. When the king dropped, all declarer had to do was to draw the remaining trump, discard the queen of diamonds on the fourth heart and cross-ruff the remainder of the tricks.

Note that it is essential for West to shift to a diamond at trick two to defeat the slam. With any other play, declarer can come to twelve tricks if he draws only one round of trumps before playing four rounds of hearts. The rest of the hand can be crossruffed.

Young Thirty-Pounder Makes Big Splash

GET READY, GET SET, GO. . . Little Trey Dansey — all 30 pounds of the 30-inches high lad — shows how to jump off a diving board at Tar River Estates pool. He takes to water like a duck and enjoys the leaps from the diving boards at the pool.

UNDER WATER SWIMMER. . . In addition to diving and swimming on the surface, 2½-year-old Trey — son of Greenville City Councilman Bill Dansey — likes to perform under water, by swimming as well under the surface as on top. And when you want him to stop, he wants to keep right on going.

OFF THE BOTTOM. . . To top things off, young Trey makes trips to the bottom of the pool, in 4, 5, even 6 feet of water to retrieve objects tossed to the bottom for his benefit. (Reflector Photos by Stuart Savage)

Julia Child Is Not Returning To Fall Screens

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's official now. Julia Child has bid adieu to public television and won't be back this fall with new episodes of her "French Chef" series. The shows you'll see will be reruns.

It's not that she lacks an underwriter for her popular cooking show. It's just that she wants to take a break after a decade of showing viewers how to whip up Gallic eats.

"There are people who would like to underwrite new shows, but Julia's been working for 10 years straight," says a spokeswoman at Boston's WGBH-TV, where "The French Chef" is produced.

"She has a house in France and she sort of wanted to take a sabbatical," the spokeswoman said, adding that there is a possibility Miss Child might do occasional cooking specials or start her series again. She said underwriters are interested in both prospects.

"But we can't do a thing about it until she comes back after Labor Day and we've talked to her about it," the spokeswoman said. "So, there won't be a new series of 'French Chef' programs this fall."

"There might be a few specials if she likes the idea. If she decides to go back into daily production, there might be another series but it wouldn't be ready for this fall, obviously."

Miss Child, a pleasant matter-of-fact woman, began cooking on public television Feb. 11, 1963. Since then, she's done nearly 330 shows and written several best-selling cookbooks.

Her show was in danger of going off the air last September for lack of an underwriter, which in public TV is a sponsor who pays for cost of the show but isn't allowed to surround it with commercials.

Finally, the Polaroid Corp., which had underwritten the show for three previous years, decided to do it again for the 1972-73 season when no other support seemed imminent.

Walter Cronkite, the veteran reporter and anchorman of the CBS Evening News, has been missing from that weekday show since May 28. But he's not ill and hasn't been declared AWOL by the network.

He's just been vacationing, courtesy of the new contract he signed this spring with CBS.

A network spokesman says the five-year contract provides for a three-month vacation each year. That is indeed a good contract.

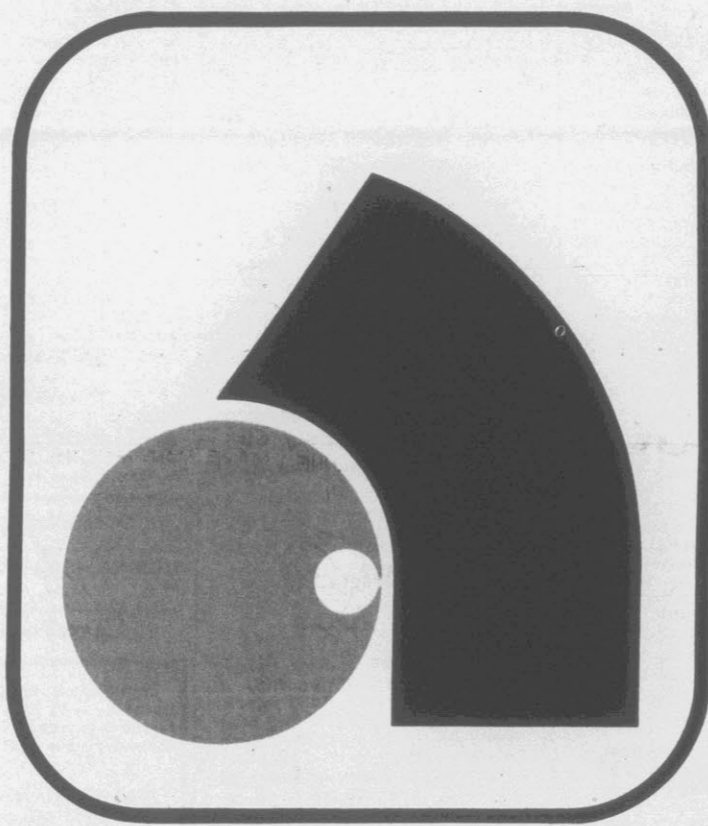

Staff Plans Workshop

The library professional staff of East Carolina University will conduct an internal workshop led by Dr. Martha Jane Zachert, professor, School of Library Science, Florida State University, Aug. 23-25.

The program will feature a lecture by Dr. Zachert which will be open to the public, 8 p.m. Aug. 23, in the social room of the ECU Home Economics Building.

Dr. Zachert's participation in the workshop was secured by the professional staff development committee. A spokesman said the committee "feels very fortunate to have this distinguished professor on the campus." Dr. Zachert, on leave this academic year, is serving as a curriculum consultant to the University of South Carolina Library School. Her working background includes Enoch Pratt Free Library, Southern College of Pharmacy, Mercer University, and she has taught at Emory University, Georgia State College and Florida State. She is currently managing editor of the Journal of Library History.

Purpose of the workshop is to assist the ECU library professional staff to examine their role as individual librarians as well as to examine generally the role and purpose of the university library. Dr. Zachert's lecture will be on "Service, Accountability and a Professional Role."
