Mortar Fire, Ground Assaults Reds Test Hue Defenses

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces have stepped up probing attacks on the outer western and southern defense line of Hue, the South Vietnamese military command said today.
More than 300 mortar rounds were fired Thursday night at infantry and airborne units guarding the approaches of the former imperial capital on the coast 400 miles north of Saigon, the command said.
Ground assaults followed on several government positions, but only one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and four were wounded, the command said. Enemy casualties were not known.
Harassing attacks on Hue's defense perimeter were renewed about two weeks ago after a month-long lull in action around the city.

Heavy fighting was reported Thursday for the second day 15 miles southwest of Saigon. The command claimed 29 Viet Cong were killed during an attack on a ranger camp near Ben Luc. I said the attack was repulsed and the only government casualties were four militiamen wounded.
The government also reported its forces killed 22 men in driving off assaults on several ranger positions around Kontum, in the central highlands 260 miles north of Saigon. Government losses were put at one dead and two wounded.
In Phnom Penh, meanwhile, the Cambodian command said activity by antigovernment forces had dropped sharply in the last 24 hours.
The only significant fighting reported in Cambodia was at Koh Anlong Chen, 12 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. But details were not available.

A military spokesman said government forces were continuing offensive operations on all fronts to consolidate their positions.

Western military attaches in the Cambodian capital reported

Thursday that the insurgents had made a limited withdrawal south of Phnom Penh to build up their supplies.

Nixon Discarded Long Statement About Watergate

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon junked a voluminous Watergate statement because he feared it would prolong the Senate investigating committee's televised hearings, sources report.
The sources, who are in a position to know the President's thinking, also said Nixon has no intention of expanding on his most recent statements about the scandal staining his administration.

"He's already answered the questions," one White House official declared as he pounded his fist on texts of the President's Wednesday night's speech and statement and his previous May 22 and April 30 Watergate responses.

The President's latest written statement was 2,800 words, considerably shorter than his television speech. Nixon conceded that it "does not answer many of the contentions raised during the Watergate hearings."
"The facts are complicated, and the evidence conflicting," he told the nation. "It would not be right for me to try to sort out the evidence, to rebut specific witnesses, or pronounce my own judgments about their credibility."
The White House sources gave another reason why the President decided not to give a detailed, point by point rebuttal and analysis.
If he had, they said, the Senate Committee would have begun an extensive examination of Nixon's account, digesting it in the televised hearings Nixon would like shut off.
"They would have gone on and on and on, they would keep moving over the same ground forever," one official said. "It would have served no useful purpose."
As a result Nixon issued the slimmed-down statement, using only a fraction of the novel-length analysis and rebuttal drafted by his White House lawyers.
When the President holds a promised news conference within the next two weeks, he is certain to face a barrage of Watergate questions.
But his aides say they don't expect him to expand on his past statements, even though the presidential assistants express annoyance at suggestions that key Watergate questions remain unanswered.
Nixon has denied any advance knowledge of the bugging and any role in the subsequent cover-up, has accepted responsibility for misdeeds of subordinates, has promised to be more vigilant, and has urged Americans to "get on with the urgent business of our nation."
The White House aide, thumping again on copies of the presidential denials of involvement, said "there are just so many times you can say it."

A European Trip Slated

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will travel to Europe in November and expects to sign a document there designed to patch up cracks in the Atlantic alliance, high administration officials say.
One ranking official said the proposed declaration of principles "definitely will be ready" by the time of the President's trip.
The comment came in interviews as the White House confirmed that presidential adviser Henry Kissinger is planning his own European trip next month.
Kissinger has accepted an invitation to address a Sept. 10 meeting of the Belgium NATO Association in Brussels. A White House spokesman said Kissinger presently has no plans to visit other European capitals. But officials would not rule out the possibility that he might use the occasion to explain to his European counterparts a new U.S. draft of the declaration. There has been speculation that Nixon's European trip might become a casualty of the continuing Watergate controversy and be called off.

But the administration officials, who spoke with the understanding that they would not be identified, said the trip will take place in November.
Precise dates have not been selected, nor have the capitals to be visited. But present planning is for the trip to last about ten days.
Officials said the U.S. draft takes a cautious approach and does not contain dramatic new elements. But it was understood that the proposals are in line with the philosophy spelled out by Kissinger last April when he called for a new Atlantic Charter.
Some European leaders viewed the phrase "Atlantic charter" with considerable suspicion and U.S. officials now talk of a "declaration of principles."
But the basic goal is the same—a revision of relationships among western powers in light of changed circumstances.
The basic points of the proposed charter call for a more equal sharing of economic and military burdens and increased attention to such problems as international trade and finance.

Secondary Road Council Named

RALEIGH (AP)—The appointment of a new 14-member Secondary Roads Council to direct secondary road operations in North Carolina was announced Thursday by Gov. Jim Holshouser.
Holshouser selected Cecil Budd, 57, of Siler City to serve as chairman of the council which was created by the 1973 General Assembly at the same time it set up the new state Transportation Board.

The Secondary Roads Council will have the responsibility of adopting annual work programs for secondary roads in each county.
The governor appointed one member from each of the state's 14 highway engineering divisions. They serve at the pleasure of the governor rather than fixed terms.
Budd, who is from Division 8, is one of eight members of the former Highway Commission who will serve on the council.
The others are:

Kenneth Hudson Roberson, 48, of Robersonville, Division 1; Wilber Earl Rabon, 37, of Rt. 2, Leland, Division 3; Rudolph Wood Jones, 42, of Rt. 3, Benson, Division 4; Walter Proctor Scarborough, 56, of Rt. 4, Zebulon, Division 5; Gordon Brown Loflin, 38, of Rt. 3, Denton, Division 9; Claude E. Billings Jr., 50, of Wilkesboro, Division 11; and Ted Smith, 50, of Swannanoa, Division 13.
Other members include Bobby Matthews, 39, of Morehead City, Division 2; Sammy Stephenson, 40, of Angier, Division 6; F.D. Hornaday Jr., 61, of Rt. 2, Snow Camp, Division 7; Keith Almond, 52, of Albemarle, Division 10; John T. Alexander, 68, of Statesville, Division 12; and John R. Mitchell, 47, of Brevard, Division 14.

Officers Of Sheltered Workshop Are Elected

Dr. Sheldon Downes has been re-elected as president of the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center, Inc. at the recently held annual Board of Directors meeting.
Also re-elected as officers of the Sheltered Workshop were Dan Bowen, vice-president; Henry Dunn, secretary; Warren Whitehurst, treasurer; and Joseph O. Clark, member-at-large. R.A. Gurganus was elected assistant treasurer, succeeding Mrs. Ella Abbott.
All the officers were elected for a one year term.
Eight new directors were also named for three year terms. These are: William E. Honeyblue, Williamston; John House and R.A. Gurganus, both of Robersonville; Burney Tucker, Winterville; Tom Bullock, Farmville; and Rev. Clarence Gray, Robert Browning and Ted Gartman, all of Greenville.

Dr. Kenneth Quiggins of Greenville was named director for 1974.
In reviewing accomplishments of the past year, Howard G. Dawkins, executive director, pointed out that the Sheltered Workshop is debt free at this time. "During the year we paid off our indebtedness for our mobile home units."
The executive director expressed appreciation for assistance to the Sheltered Workshop provided by the Jaycees, the Welcome Wagon, Alpha Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, several industries, and a number of individuals.
"We were able to use these gifts to purchase recreational equipment and build sidewalks around the living units," Dawkins reported.
Also cited for valuable contributions to the Sheltered Workshop were East Carolina University, Pitt Technical Institute and the Workshop's Industrial Committee. "Through their leadership more industries have become acquainted with the possibilities of job placement for our clients," Dawkins noted.

Dawkins has also emphasized that the general public can give assistance by making use of facilities available at the Sheltered workshop. "We have people trained to do picture framing and furniture finishing," he said. "This is not only a real service to people needing these things done, but is one of our main sources of income for the Sheltered Workshop."

Gasoline Price Levels Frozen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail gasoline prices will remain frozen at present levels until Sept. 1, the result of a second extension of the administration's price freeze on gasoline, the director of the Cost of Living Council has announced.
Except for retailers of gasoline and diesel fuel, the price freeze will be lifted from the petroleum industry at midnight Sunday, John T. Dunlop said Thursday.
The freeze on the petroleum industry was scheduled to go last week but was extended because oil regulations under the administration's Phase 4 anti-inflation program were not ready. The freeze was lifted from the rest of the economy Monday.
Dunlop said the oil regulations would be released today, but that gasoline and diesel fuel retailers will need additional time to compute new price ceilings under them.
He said previously that the new ceilings will provide for rollbacks in some cases, and increases in others.

The council said that retailers will be required to post special government-supplied stickers on all of the nation's estimated one million-plus gasoline pumps, by Sept. 1 showing the ceiling prices and octane ratings of gasoline.
Ceiling prices also must be posted on diesel fuel pumps, the council said.
Drafters of the oil regulations are said to have been racing the clock to have the regulations ready this week.

Just A Friendly Hijack

TEL AVIV (AP) — The drunk Libyan who forced an Arab airliner to land in Israel probably will be charged with hijacking the plane and endangering the lives of the other 124 persons aboard, a magistrate told him today.
Magistrate Eliezer Goldberg ordered the Arab, Mahmoud Touni, held for 15 days while police investigated the hijacking. The judge said the police wanted him held for "hijacking an airliner and endangering the lives of its passengers and crew."

"I do not deserve to be kept in jail for doing something I believe in — showing the friendship of an Arab for Israel," Touni protested.
"I didn't hurt any of the passengers. I planned this action for several years so that nobody would be harmed."

MIAMI (AP)—A tropical wave extending from Cuba through the western Caribbean caused heavy rain over portions of Jamaica overnight, the National Hurricane Center reported today.
The system is moving westward at about 15 miles per hour, the center said.
It warned residents and shipping interests in the northwestern Caribbean to keep in touch with weather stations as conditions favored the strengthening of the wave during the next 24 hours.

Meat Packers Paying Refunds

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it expects the Charlotte-based division of Armour and Company, meat packers, to complete $37,092.02 in refunds to its customers by Aug. 30.

The company agreed to make the refunds after an IRS investigation showed it had set its meat price ceilings too high.
The IRS said that from March 29 to June 30, the company overcharged 2,316 customers in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee. The customers were wholesalers, retailers, distributors, restaurants, jobbers and food processors.

Board Meeting

A wide range of agenda items is on tap for the August meeting of the Greenville City School Board to be held at 8:00 p.m. Monday.
Resignations and elections of personnel; budget-finance matters to include the 1973-74 budget approval and Title I and Title III funds; and milk and food prices from part of the agenda.
Other items to be considered include the curriculum for kindergarten; state and Southern Association accreditation; immunization law and a dental project; the statewide bond issue; long range school facilities plans; and an easement on the Mumford Road school property.
The Monday meeting is to be held in the Board Room of the central office on West Fifth Street.

Greenville Tobacco Market Average Up In Thursday's Sales

The Greenville Market rose slightly yesterday, bringing in $85.77 per hundred pounds of tobacco sold. The volume decreased, with 565,284 pounds sold as compared to Wednesday's 569,830.
Goldsboro still led the Eastern Belt with the highest prices, bringing in 86.78 per hundred pounds. This was an increase over $86.44 Wednesday average.
Tarboro attained second place with an average of $86.57 per hundred pounds.
The belt average rose with $85.93 on sales of 3,640,315 pounds for $3,128,017. This showed a slight decrease in the number of pounds sold compared to Wednesday's 3,693,996.

With a top price of 91 cents per pound for several ties of quality cutters, volume sales continued heavy on the Farmville Market.
According to sales supervisor Louis Williams, the offerings consisted of mostly primings but the lugs and cutters showed an increase in volume.
Prices dropped to $85.44 per hundred pounds compared to yesterday's average of $85.74.
The following tabulation, compiled by the Market News Service, shows the results of Thursday's activities on the Eastern Belt.

Prison Psychology Tips From Former POWs

SEATTLE (AP) — A criminal can be rehabilitated only if he first decides he has done something wrong and then is given "a whole range of choices," says a former Vietnam war prisoner.
Air Force Maj. Kile Berg of Seattle was one of three former POWs who spoke Thursday about the psychological effects of long-term incarceration at a session of the American Corrections Association meeting here.
"If it is a question of preparing a person to re-enter society, then that should be the main point from the beginning," Berg said. "The first step is to convince a prisoner that he did something wrong. But it must be in such a way that he comes to that decision on his own."

He said his imprisonment was more difficult because he didn't know exactly how long it would last. The North Vietnamese had tried to "rehabilitate" the POWs as Communists but failed, mainly because the choices they gave prisoners were "virtually no choice."

"I do believe if we are trying to make prisoners members of the community, then we can't cut him away from that community," Berg said. "You must give the prisoner a whole range of choice."
Navy Cmdr. Richard Stratton, imprisoned more than six years, stressed that incarceration creates a martyr psychology that makes captives feel they have no obligation to obey their captors' rules except to survive or avoid extreme punishment.

The Palo Alto, Calif., resident said solitary confinement became ineffective for him because it "aroused my basic competitive nature." But he said he felt he was losing his mind after 25 days of total blackout.
Berg, Stratton and Army Sgt. Maj. Dan Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., agreed that extreme punishment alienated prisoners and made them more resistant to their captors.

Soyburger Is Good Idea Other Records Give But Names Are Confusing Date Of Birth

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
NEW YORK (WNS) — Some food companies are complaining that local and federal agencies are trying to stop the fanciful names being used to sell mixtures of hamburger and soy protein. Among the names that retailers and processors in various areas have adopted are Patti-Mix, Newburger, Juicy Burger II, Superburger, Burger Extra, Patty Burger and others that say anything but "part soy product."

Actually the soyburger patties are a very useful idea, if fairly priced and honestly sold, and the high price of meat has made then the fastest-growing new food product. But the different names and varying ingredients have confused the public to the extent that not only several state agencies but the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced plans to standardize labeling so people know what they are buying.

The USDA program will establish two categories of "patties." Products made of ground meat plus up to 30 per cent added fat, and seasonings, will be called "Meat patties." Patties with other ingredients such as soy products, cereals, meat byproducts and poultry products, will have to be called "Patties with meat."

Now this sounds like another one of the subtle distinctions noticeable in other government food standards that consumers are supposed to keep in mind; for example, that a product called Chicken with Noodles must have at least 15 per cent chicken meat but one called Noodles with Chicken need only 6 per cent. Another example of these confusing subtleties in labeling is the a product called Beef with Gravy must have at least 50 per cent beef (cooked basis), while one labeled Gravy with Beef need have only 35 per cent.

But in the case of "Meat patties" the USDA is taking another and very significant step. The "patties with meat" will have to list actual percentages of ingredients. This is the first time the USDA is requiring that percentages of the main ingredients of a processed food must be listed on the package.

This proposal is a real breakthrough for consumers who for some years have been pleading for such information on processed and ready-to-eat foods.

Relative Cost
Meat patties with added soy protein should provide a substantial saving. Many stores sell a mixed hamburger with soy mixture (25 per cent soy) for 15 to 20 cents a pound less than the all meat hamburger; for example, 79 cents compared to 88 to 99 cents for hamburger.

Some stores have been selling the mixture for only 10 cents less than the price of all-meat hamburger, thus keeping for themselves a disproportionate amount of the saving from using the cheaper soy products. One supermarket operator boasted in a trade paper interview that he made an additional 8 per cent profit this way.

What about the food value?
The hamburger-soy mixtures are approximately as nourishing as all-meat hamburger for most people's needs. Of all plant foods, soy protein is the closest in quality and completeness of its amino acids to meat protein. A test by the Hyde Park Consumers Co-op in Chicago found that a mixture of 70 per cent hamburger and 30 per cent soybean derivative had a protein level of 17 per cent compared to 18.5 per cent for all-meat hamburger.

The hamburger-soy mixture even may be a little healthier for some members of the family. Vegetable protein contains virtually no cholesterol and is low in saturated fats.

The USDA also has proposed regulations to make sure you know when soy products are used in canned meat products. For example, Chili Con Carne must have at least 40 per cent meat under present requirements. The new regulation would still require this much meat. But if a canner added more than 3 per cent large-particle textured vegetable protein (usually a soybean product) he would have to say so on the label. He also would have to reveal the use of any coloring added to the TVP to make it

Helpful Hints

Dried fruits retain quality better during the summer if you refrigerate them, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The 1972 pack of sardines totalled about 37 million pounds, an increase of 15 million pounds over the previous year. The big supply should mean lower prices for consumers in coming months.

Ground beef that releases a lot of juice while cooking may have been ground while it was still frozen. Ice crystals in the meat melt when the meat is cooked. This can occur with meat frozen at home or at retail stores.

look like meat.

Can Mix Own
You also can buy soy products to mix with hamburger yourself. Some stores sell three-ounce packages of dry soy protein concentrate blended with wheat crumbs and seasonings which you mix with water. The mixture then is blended with a pound of ground beef, giving you 1½ pounds of hamburger-soy mix.

You also can use oatmeal as a handy extender. It has relatively good-quality protein even if not as complete as that in soy beans, and costs you only 2 cents an ounce compared to 6 cents or so for hamburger.

Thus, you can mix 1½ pounds of hamburger with a half-pound of oatmeal and have two pounds of your own "patties with meat" for $1.50 to $1.60.

Nonfat milk powder is an even more nutritious extender for patties, meat loaves and casseroles since its protein is the same complete quality as that of meat.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from TROUBLED MIND who is worried because she will soon be entitled to Social Security, but has no birth certificate to prove her age.

There are other documents which are acceptable. For instance: School records; census record; an insurance policy which shows birth date; marriage record showing date of birth; permits, licenses, or voting record with age shown.

There are thousands of people who were not born in this country and therefore have no birth certificates. But if one of the above-mentioned documents is offered as proof of age, it will be acceptable to the Social Security office.

N. Y. POST READER

DEAR READER: Thank you for providing my readers with this helpful information.

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you how I handled the "snoring husband" problem: For years I slept beside him and had many sleepless nights because I just didn't want separate bedrooms. I finally took a look at myself and reasoned that my husband would rather have a rested, loving wife in the morning than what I had become, so I explained that I wanted to hug him until he fell asleep—then I'd go into the guest room to sleep, and the first one awake in the morning would come to the other's room to be together.

Nothing has worked out better. I usually wake up first, take the pins out of my hair, brush my teeth, and apply a few dabs of his favorite perfume—then I plug in the coffee and quietly slip into bed with him. In a few minutes he smells the perfume and coffee and we enjoy a sweet time of being together. He seems much happier now than he has been in all our 26 years of marriage.

This works out so much better than a whole night of tossing. Each night we thank the Lord for each other, and we do it together. A couple becomes so close when they pray together. So tell the wives of snorers to do what I did, and not to forget the prayer—or the perfume.

GRATEFUL AND HAPPY

DEAR G. AND H.: Beautiful. But this arrangement is possible only after the kids have left home. Or for childless couples with guest rooms. For the less fortunate I recommend adhesive tape for his mouth and ear plugs for her ears, or a gentle jab in the ribs accompanied by: "Roll over darling, you sound like a 747."

DEAR ABBY: This is a delayed answer to "A Believer in Buffalo," whose objection to your stand on "living wills" was printed in your June 5th column here. [Delayed because I was in the hospital.]

It seems to me that "Believer," not you, is the one who thinks she's God. "God determines who shall die and when," she says. Why isn't she willing to let Him? Why does she insist that men use all those gadgets to thwart His will?

As for myself, my viewpoint is halfway between the two extremes of doing nothing and doing a ridiculous amount of interference. I want to live as long as my brain is active, and will use all available help in doing so. When my brain goes, I'll be dead anyhow and would prefer not to have the rest of my body kept artificially alive.

Secrecy And Uncertainty In Agnew Inquiry

BALTIMORE (AP) — The grand jury investigation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew remained shrouded in secrecy and uncertainty today, following high level meetings between federal probes and the head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

"I know where we are; I don't know where we're going," said U.S. Atty. George Beall, amid reports the Agnew phase may be temporarily stalled by legal complications.

However, persons close to the investigation indicated some indictments may be returned shortly in the probe that began last December as an investigation of Baltimore County officials and engineering firms.

Agnew, who was notified two weeks ago he was under investigation for possible violations of bribery, extortion, conspiracy and tax laws, has labeled as "damned lies" the allegations he had accepted kickbacks.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen came here from Washington Thursday, his second unannounced visit with Beall.

Hearings On Leaf Eyed

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Rep. Charles G. Rose says he will seek to hold a hearing in the fall in his 7th North Carolina District on farmers' claims that tobacco companies got together before auction time and agreed to pay lower prices than usual for flue-cured leaf.

Rose, a Democrat from Fayetteville, said in an interview Thursday that while he has found no direct evidence of collusion among companies, he has had enough complaints for an investigation. He also said he had toured the South Carolina-North Carolina Border Belt markets and found sufficient evidence to "warrant my conducting an investigation."

"I'm going to ask the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee to allow me to hold a hearing in the fall to determine just what the situation is."

He is a member of the tobacco subcommittee, and said he would ask that two other members to join him in the hearing.

Some of the six counties Rose represents are important ones major ones on the Border Belt. The six are Robeson, Cumberland, Columbus, Brunswick, Hole and New Hanover.

BANQUET GUESTS
TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice William O. Douglas, his wife and a delegation led by him were honored at a banquet Thursday night in Peking.

He sat in on an interview with a Maryland businessman who reportedly implicated Agnew in an alleged bribery and kickback scheme.

Both Petersen and Beall declined comment on the investigation into alleged kickbacks and political corruption in Maryland in the last decade—before, during and after Agnew was governor.

A source close to the investigation said "there is nothing mysterious about Petersen's interest. He came here to be briefed on the status of the

'Stolen' Car Found In The Wrong Garage

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Early the morning of Jan. 13, 1972, Gary Siedschlag parked his car in what he thought was garage No. 50 at the Kingsbrook Apartments.

A short time later, Siedschlag checked No. 50 and discovered his new 1972 model car was not there. He reported it stolen.

Two weeks ago, about 18 months after the incident, the manager of the apartment complex rented garage No. 51 to a new tenant.

The woman promptly complained of a very dusty car in her garage.

It was Siedschlag's car — covered with an inch of dust.

Police and the Kingsbrook management said they believe Siedschlag parked the car in the wrong garage. Siedschlag said he prefers to believe the car was stolen from the right garage and returned to the wrong one.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — General of the Army Omar N. Bradley remained in serious condition today, a day after undergoing emergency surgery to prevent blood clots from entering his lungs.

Defects At Power Plant

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission and Virginia Electric & Power Co. said Thursday that weld cracks have been discovered in structural steel supports at Vepco's North Anna nuclear power plant about 50 miles northwest of here.

The utility said steel supports for a steam generator at the plant had been welded improperly.

William L. Proffitt, a Vepco official, said the cracks are not connected in any way with the plant's nuclear reactor, nor are they a result of the geological fault running under the site.

Proffitt said the defects were detected by Vepco about six weeks ago during a routine inspection. He said repair work, consisting of burning out the original defective welding and replacing it, has begun.

An AEC spokesman said such defects in construction are not uncommon. She said Vepco notified the AEC when the cracks were found.

Proffitt called the construction problem routine.

"There is nothing ominous, nothing sinister about it," he said. "There is no need to blow it out of proportion and scare everybody."

Two Sets Of Standards Here?

One has to wonder if there are two sets of standards in the governor's office, one for Gov. Holshouser's aides and the other for ordinary citizens.

The governor's aide, Gene Anderson, has a restricted drivers license which confines his driving to Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. due to a previous conviction.

Then last weekend Anderson was involved in a wreck in New Bern and officers discovered the restricted license. Now he faces charges of driving with a suspended license.

Gov. Holshouser was quick to jump to his aide's defense. He did not think Anderson had disobeyed the "spirit" of the law, the governor said, because the intent of the restricted license was to allow him to function as a gubernatorial aide.

Well, either the governor thinks his aide is entitled to special privilege under the law or else the governor's defense ought to be suitable for any citizen with a restricted license who wants to argue that he drives on Sunday for the noble cause of taking little old ladies to church.

Unless Gov. Holshouser wants to change things so that all citizens can receive the benefit of this indefinite "spirit" of the law, then he should insist that his staff abide by the letter of the law, just as all other citizens are expected to do.

UN Security Council Did What It Had To Do

The United National Security Council did what it had to do in condemning Israel for forcing down a Lebonese airliner.

The action was unanimous with the United States included in voting for the condemnation.

The world cannot accept such acts against civilian aircraft. The United States should continue its friendly relations with Israel, but it should not apologize for the condemnation.

U.S. And China Ties Strained

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The first potentially disastrous result abroad of President Nixon's Watergate catastrophe is now being felt with stinging impact in the collapse of his Cambodian policy and, more important, in the sudden awareness by Peking that the American connection is shot through with dangerous unpredictables.

The reaction in Peking to Mr. Nixon's worst time of troubles is still to a large extent ambiguous, shrouded in the minds of China's cold-eyed policymakers. These men regard the new American connection as having only one justification: as a counterweight to the power and hostility of the Soviet Union.

But not all the signs are completely ambiguous. Thus, the delay in Sen. Mike Mansfield's much-heralded second trip to Peking was specifically due to a polite but no-nonsense warning from Communist authorities there that this was not a propitious time.

The reason for that, it now appears certain, is that the special usefulness of Mansfield, as perceived in Peking, was his own special relationship with Prince Sihanouk, the ousted Cambodian monarch and Mansfield's old friend.

At the time Mansfield, the Senate majority leader, was originally asked to make his second visit to Peking, Communist China was looking to the Sihanouk option as the most promising of all the limited possibilities for settling the Cambodian civil war on terms not totally unacceptable to Peking.

The restoration of the mystic, playboy prince, the most popular figure in a country that until recently used to laugh at politics, was designed to give Peking an enduring political influence in Phnom Penh. With Sihanouk restored, and backed by both Peking and Washington, the threatening growth of power throughout the Indochina peninsula by North Vietnam would be at least temporarily stopped.

Moreover, precisely some such political deal with Sihanouk was what Mr. Nixon has been plotting for months. Indeed, there is solid reason to believe that if Congress, in its unprecedented action of June 30, had not forced a bombing ban on the President, the U.S. and China could have contrived just such an end to the Cambodian sector of the Indochina war by mid-September. It was to prepare the way for such a settlement that Mansfield was needed in Peking. Likewise, it was to bargain for just such a settlement that Mr. Nixon had ordered his ace foreign policy expert, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, to go to Peking early this month. That journey, along with Mansfield's, will now not take place this month.

Imagine, then how the cold-eyed rulers of Communist China must be reacting to the sudden discovery that President Nixon's freedom of action to negotiate has been undermined—in this case, by the bombing ban. Continuation of the bombing was judged no less in Peking than in Washington as an essential part of the complicated formula to lose the pro-Hanoi, "Khmer Rouge" Communist revolutionary movement in Cambodia, paving the way for Prince Sihanouk.

Suddenly, Peking's clandestine ally in this complex political maneuver, Richard M. Nixon, is crippled not by foreign influence but by his own Congress reacting to growing presidential weakness induced by Watergate.

In Peking, the political ravages of Watergate are probably perceived with the same disbelief that guided U.S. policymakers during the ravages of the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution in China in the late 1960s.

"Would Washington have made its political connection with Peking at the height of the cultural revolution?" one top Nixon lieutenant asks rhetorically, "when no one could even predict that the rulers of China would remain rulers for even another month?"

Or, as another White House aide put it sarcastically, Peking must wonder how the party that was repudiated in a historical landslide last November now finds its policies accepted in Congress, while the big winner, President Nixon, becomes the big loser.

Nothing has happened yet to destroy the short-term durability of the Washington-Peking axis. Its foundation—Peking's fear of Moscow—has not changed an iota.

But hideous dangers lie behind the ambiguities of subtle change in the way Peking—and all other nations—must now be studying the trust and durability of the U.S. as an

Visiting A Laundromat

(Art Buchwald has gone off for a few weeks to forget about Watergate. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns which he insists to the best of his recollection, at that point in time and in hindsight, everyone wanted to read again.)

WASHINGTON — There comes a time in every man's vacation when he has to go to the laundromat. My time came earlier than I had expected and I found myself struggling with not one but two baskets of dirty laundry. I threw one into the machine and then sat down on the bench to watch it as it whirled around.

"What are you in for?" the man sitting next to me asked.

"I got caught playing gin rummy when I was supposed to be watching the kids in the swimming pool," I said.

"What did you do?"

"I made the mistake of taking a sunbath next to the house," he replied. "My wife said, 'As long as you're doing nothing why don't you take the clothes to the laundromat?'

I said I wasn't doing nothing, I was doing something. I was sunbathing. She said, 'That's next to nothing.' So here I am. I never realized there was this much dirty laundry in the world."

"What do you use?"

"I don't know. Just any detergent."

"Don't you use a bleach?"

"I did once, and the towels came out lilly white."

"What's wrong with that?"

"They were blue when I put them in. What do you use?"

"I use an all-purpose soap that makes our clothes fluffy and clean because it has no harsh ingredients. Look at my hands. They're so soft you would hardly guess I did any laundry at all."

"My hands are rough all the time. Maybe I'll switch over to your soap. Who told you about it?"

"My mother-in-law."

"I guess she should know."

"Let me ask you something. Do you find it's a mistake to put blue jeans in with sheets?"

"I try to avoid it, if I possibly can. But if I only have one basket, I don't have a choice."

"Which cycle do you like the best?"

"I like to watch the clothes being rinsed after they've been washed."

"I prefer the drying cycle because then I know I'm

A Nice Lunch, Celeste

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — "The trouble with putting armor on," said Celeste Holm, "is that, while it protects you from pain, it also protects you from pleasure."

The remark is typical of Miss Holm, who has a reputation of being one of the wittiest as well as as ablest ladies of the theater in our time.

Since her first role as Juliet at the age of 6 — minus two front teeth — Celeste has starred in every branch of show business, from musicals to lectures. She was nominated three times for an Oscar and won one for her work in the film, "Gentleman's Agreement."

In her most recent success, she played "Aunt Polly" in the latest screen treatment of "Tom Sawyer." Seeing her blonde vitality today, it is hard to believe that it has been nearly 30 years since she used to stop the Broadway hit "Oklahoma," with her song about the girl, who couldn't say no.

Here are a few remarks made by Celeste, actress, philosopher, and gourmet cook during a midtown luncheon: "Acting is controlled schizophrenia. That sounds neurotic, but isn't. You are playing someone else while being yourself."

"There is nothing more relaxing than making bread. It makes you feel like part of the pangenry of generations. So does yoga."

"I don't see how anyone lives without a purpose in life. It offers fantastic possibilities for anyone with imagination."

"I enjoy acting in the theater because it is the greatest way I know to bring people together without them being self-conscious about it."

"I have no big frustrations. My only fear is that man may destroy himself through ecological mistakes or his own spiritual discouragement."

"I do have a couple of small neuroses. I always lose keys, and if I have to introduce a number of people, I never can remember the name of the last person, even though that may be the one I know best."

"The trouble with our international policy is that it turns people off. When you turn people off, you defeat your cause."

"Everything you do affects other lives, so you must be aware of what you're doing. Generally speaking, I feel that if you do something new every day, and learn something everyday, you won't waste your time on earth. I try to live a 26-hour day every day, and that's my biggest fault."

Nice lunch, Celeste, Come again.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for publication must be limited to 300 words, and signed.

To the Editor:

As husband of one of Greenville's several hundred public school teachers I would like to express my astonishment at the action of the North Carolina Board of Education seeking to "enforce" a forty hour week on my wife and other teachers of the state. If it did not speak of the woeful lack of understanding of the professional teacher's work on the part of the Board and the State Superintendent of Instruction it would be too ridiculous an action to warrant a response.

This action by the Board and Dr. Phillips was an obvious attempt to prove to the community their stewardship of the teachers of the state and in their own words, "assure the legislators and taxpayers that increased salaries were being earned."

Instead of coming to the defense of their colleagues in the extremely important and beleaguered field of education they imply that teachers must prove themselves worthy of their profession by punching a time clock!

I'm sure that my wife and the great majority of teachers in this state would be delighted to move down to a forty hour week. They would be happy to give up several hours per night of grading papers and preparation. Forty hours a week would mean no more P.T.A. meetings without time and a half, no more parents' conferences after school, no more hot summers in a college classroom for re-certification, no more noisy "working lunches" of 20 to 30 minutes with the students, no more late afternoon teacher's meetings and no more late evening phone calls for after-hours conferences with parents.

A nice, clean, quiet "professional" eight to five job with an hour's relaxed lunch would be a touch of heaven for most teachers. I'm sure that the teachers themselves would vote for such a week's work — if they did not see their job in human terms, calling forth the kind of dedication the great mass of teachers have, beyond the simple "putting in" of forty hours per week.

Alaska Counts On Oil Revenue

By JOHN GREELY

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — When Alaska's oil starts oozing to West Coast markets, perhaps sometime in 1977, the state expects a $500 million windfall in annual tax revenue.

The total could be as low as $200 million, depending on future oil prices and the outcome of secret negotiations between the state and industry over how to fix a value for North Slope oil and who should do it.

The talks between Gov. William A. Egan and the seven companies composing the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. have been going on for about a year. They were initiated when the consortium filed suit against newly adopted state tax and regulatory laws.

At stake are huge sums of revenue for Alaska's 310,000 residents, who fully expect the trans-Alaska pipeline to be the first of several major projects for moving their vast oil and gas resources. Until the disputed were adopted, Alaska's oil royalties had been figured as a percentage of the wellhead value, or the refinery price less the cost of getting it to market. But, while the pipeline has been under court challenge for two years, inflation and environmental stipulations have more than tripled its original $1 billion cost.

Fearing zero state revenue, Egan sponsored and the legislature approved last year a $2.65 per barrel floor on North Slope wellhead prices. Above that level the state would reap a percentage tax, below it a flat cents-per-barrel assessment, thus guaranteeing flow into the state treasury.

By setting prices in the field, the state has attempted to tread ground traditionally held by the industry. And the oil companies resent it.

However, state economists predict — and the industry has yet to dispute it — that Alaskan oil will be selling for $4 or more a barrel by 1978, so the $2.65 wellhead floor may never be needed.

What has particularly piqued the industry is a law giving the state regulatory authority akin to that of the federal Interstate Commerce Commission.

Instead of operating under life of the field leases, the industry would be forced to renegotiate contracts every 25 years or less. The economic life of the pipeline is expected to be 35 years.

In addition, the act gives the state an option to buy up to 20 per cent of the pipeline, if the legislature approves, and sets out land rental charges geared to escalate as industry profits rise. The tax could mean an additional $275 million for the state during the life of the pipeline, according to state-industry estimates.

Passage of the laws was spurred by Egan's assertions the state would be bankrupt by 1977 due to heavy deficit spending that has been eating into the $900 million that oil companies paid in 1969 for drilling rights on the North Slope.

Although the Prudhoe Bay pool from which the pipeline will flow contains an estimated 9.8 billion barrels of recoverable oil, the field is just a fraction of the area of the North Slope, where exploration is still in its infancy. Geologists believe more than 20 billion barrels can be pumped from the slope, with trillions of cubic feet of natural gas to follow.

Exploration also has just begun on the continental shelf of Alaska where huge unproved reserves may lie.

The economic benefits for the state's residents will be many, although theories abound whether they will come in a big boom or a little bang.

An industry-recommissioned study predicts 18,000 new jobs will be available during the three years of pipeline construction and that the population will grow by 40,000 people. Unemployment, however, is expected to increase due to the influx.

Strength For Today

A SOURCE OF JOY

When St. Francis of Assisi and his friends went about through the villages of Italy some 12 centuries ago, they were frequently asked to what religious order they belonged. They answered that they were of no order, but were men of Assisi who lived a life of complete renunciation. Francis at their heat was continually singing praises to God for his untiring goodness. As one of his biographers says, "These men were able to rejoice so much because they had abandoned so much."

How strange such words sound today. They would commend themselves more to our common sense if they read, "They were able to rejoice so much because they had gained so much." But St. Francis and his friends had an insight much more profound than our common sense. They were aware that what they had renounced in the things of this world was of little importance compared to what they had gained in the world of God. In this materialistic world St. Francis and his act of renunciation gives us a chance to see true values.

Enrollment In ROTC Is Up In 2 Carolinas

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Enrollment in Reserve Officer Training Programs (ROTC) is increasing at colleges and universities in the Carolinas.

A decline after the end of the draft and the Vietnam peace agreement was only temporary.

Extensive recruiting for the ROTC throughout the nation also helped.

In at least one case, at the University of South Carolina, girls are filling some places once occupied by men who enrolled the avoid the draft.

Lt. Col. Richard T. Fernald, assistant professor of air science, said the Air Force ROTC unit has 10 girls and expects to graduate the first one next May.

"The program's appeal to girls is increasing every year," he said. "We've received inquiries from 25 or so girls so far, and I have applications from about 15."

Fernald said another factor for an increased retention rate at USC is a new program called Community Service Projects which is offered as an alternative to drill. The cadets are given a chance to get leadership credit for working in the community.

The armed services traditionally have relied on college ROTC programs for the majority of their commissioned officers. And the enrollment picture is good news to recruiters who have had trouble filling the new all-volunteer army.

ROTC instructors say that better students are enrolling since escaping the draft is not a factor.

A survey by The Charlotte News shows that increases in ROTC enrollment are expected at the University of South Carolina, Clemson, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

An ROTC instructor at Davidson College, the only college in the Charlotte area with a military science department, said it's too early to tell these students have not finished registering yet. Davidson also will offer ROTC courses to students from the University of North almost finished. But sometimes you can get some fun out of the first cycle when the soap starts attacking the clothes. Once, two of my sport shirts got all tangled up, and I bet the guy sitting next to me five bucks the blue one would win. But I lost."

"I never thought of betting on laundry."

"I'll tell you one thing. It was more interesting than watching the Super Bowl."

"That lady over there had her eye on my laundromat. I still have another basket to do."

"You'd better go over and protect it. Women have no mercy in this place."

"How come they look so nice on the beach and so mean when they come here?"

"I've always wondered that myself. Maybe it's because they couldn't get their husbands to come. Hey, look! There's a bra caught in a beach robe."

"Gee, it's as much fun as watching 'Last Tango.'"

"I'll give you five bucks the beach robe wins," he said.

"You've got yourself a bet," I replied excitedly.

Carolina at Charlotte, Belmont Abbey College, Gaston College and Johnson C. Smith University.

Some students win ROTC scholarships, which pay tuition, plus $100 a month while school is in session and pay for military science textbooks. In return for a scholarship, a graduate has an obligation of four years on active military duty.

Capt. Jimmy Hull, an assistant professor in the University of North Carolina Air Force ROTC unit, said between 15 and 20 per cent of the students left last fall when they found the draft was ending. "But the next semester we had that many people coming into the program. These students that left were in the program to escape the draft, and some of them would tell you so. But the ones in now are in because they like the educational and career opportunities."

The pay is not bad, either. Lt. Roger Stokes, instructor of freshman in the Naval ROTC program at Chapel Hill, says, "The pay for an ensign in the Navy is higher than the mean pay for a Carolina graduate. The pay for an ensign is $530.70 a month, which does not include living allowances and uniform allowances. That brings it up to about $700 a month."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for you to swiftly put in motion some course of action difficult during the busy week, but possible today because you have the free time, or access to others and to places where you can pioneer in some new arrangement that can bring you tremendous advancement.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day for planning how to gain your most cherished desires and taking the initial steps in such directions. Have any treatments necessary to improve your health. Become a more dynamic you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into the activities that will make the future more prosperous and satisfying so you need not worry so much. Use your hunches, which are good now. Don't deliberate too much and miss out on action required.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with friends who can give you information you need and extend any favors you want. Attending some group affair can bring excellent results now. Dress in right style.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan time for pleasing higher-ups and gaining their support for the future. Situations develop that show you how to become more successful. Take it easy tonight. Enjoy kin.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This is the right day to take that little trip to get the data that means much to you, but has been hard to get before. Make some new associate who can be helpful to you in the future. Drive with care.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ideal day to keep promises you have made to others and add to your prestige, good credit. Don't disappoint the one you love. Show you are a thoughtful and courteous person. Gain affection.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Now that you comprehend a plan which an associate has, be sure to cooperate with him and get fine results. You have to act more quickly if you succeed where a civic matter is concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you let fellow workers in on your plans, they will cooperate with mutually excellent results. Find the right articles to add to present wardrobe and look more modish and charming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being with persons at places you mutually like can make this a most interesting and delightful day. Thoughtfulness toward mate brings excellent results. Show that it is both your duty and pleasure to do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy and do those things at home that improve both the house and the harmony that should be increased there. Get rid of the cause of friction. Stop being so hardheaded and show your human side more.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Problems can be handled satisfactorily now since you are thinking clearly and logically. A good talk with regular associates improves daily routines quickly. Get your heads together early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to think over how to add to your present income appreciably so you need not worry so much about money in the future. Sit down with an influential person you know. Ask for advice, which can prove invaluable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people whose mind is buzzing with ideas of all kinds and who wants to put them in action right now, so teach early to pick out the best ones and then plan carefully every step before doing anything about them. This will lead to success, otherwise nothing will be accomplished. Make sure you give the finest education you can afford. There can be fame here, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Three-Year College Degree Experiment

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (UPI) — As institutions of higher education go, you might say Bowling Green State University is in its adolescence. It was founded in 1910. Harvard, by comparison, was founded in 1636 and is an old man.

Bowling Green these days is blowing its trumpet and saying —wow, look at us. For one thing the school has a huge grant to press forward in an experiment that may change the shape of higher education everywhere someday. The experiment: get in, get out with your degree in three years. Who needs four?

The school with 15,000 students also is easy on most family budgets. The tuition is $210 a quarter, something like the low-tuition found at most state colleges and universities. The old man Harvard, by contrast, asks a lot, as do most private colleges. With room and board —more than $5,000.

Bowling Green also boasts a new look in housemothers. The mother-image housemother is giving way to younger women not much older than the women living in the houses. Last academic year, for example, nine of 12 sorority housemothers were students, most doing graduate work in the college's student personnel program.

The school says the young housemothers appear to be doing a good job and a relaxed atmosphere seems to prevail in the houses where there are younger persons in charge. So says Linda Ogen, assistant dean of students.

One major drawback is the turnover of housemothers. The younger women leave after completing their studies. An advantage of the older housemothers is the element of continuity they are able to provide within each house.

Fraternities at Bowling Green have opted to retain more mature women in housemother positions. The older women provide a good example for fraternity men by encouraging neatness and taste in manners. One experiment is underway in which a young male graduate student is cast as a fraternity "housemother."

Wellington Won At Waterloo, But Napoleon Gets The Honors

by JACK R. PAYTON
WATERLOO, Belgium (UPI) — Ask almost any schoolboy and he'll tell you Britain's Duke of Wellington defeated Napoleon in the 1815 battle of Waterloo. A visit to the souvenir shops and museums at the old battlefield might shake that conviction.

The shops on the edge of the battlefield in central Belgium's rich farmlands are filled with mementos of Napoleon, his generals and his wife Josephine.

There are dinner plates and wall plaques with images of Napoleon, water glasses with his likeness etched on the side, English-style tea services with a regal "N" on each cup and saucer—even a Napoleonic beer bottle opener.

There are few signs of Wellington or the Belgian, Dutch and Prussian soldiers who fought with his British army.

The abundance of Napoleonic memorabilia has upset more than a few Englishmen. After all, it was their man who won the battle of Waterloo, not France's "Little Corporal," right?

Not so, says Norbert Brassine, owner of a restaurant and Napoleon museum at the foot of the lion monument commemorating the battle.

Fan Of Napoleon Brassine, who sometimes wanders around his restaurant, Le Bivouac de L'Empereur, in an 1815 French grenadier uniform, is not exactly neutral when discussion turns to Wellington and Napoleon.

"You know who really won the battle?" the 76-year-old Brassine whispers as if to share a secret. "It was Napoleon."

"He won the war of minds," Brassine explains, tapping an index finger on his forehead. "It was Napoleon who wanted to make Europe one, not Wellington. Now Europe is becoming one. It is Napoleon's ideas that are followed now. His thought won in the long run."

Brassine's devotion to the French general is evident in his rustic, wood-beamed restaurant. Every wall has its French flag or etching of Napoleon. A life-size wooden grenadier stands by the doorway. There are even steel busts of Napoleon on the andirons in one fireplace.

The souvenir counter is jammed with Napoleonic trinkets.

Brassine has a ready answer when asked why he and his fellow souvenir sellers display few mementos of Wellington or Gen. Gebhard Leberecht Von Bluecher who commanded the Prussian soldiers that cut down Napoleon's army.

Belittles Wellington We are merchants here," he says between sips of mineral water. "We sell what the people want. They don't want souvenirs of Wellington or anybody else. Even the English don't buy souvenirs of Wellington. We had them but they sat on the shelves for years."

Asked why this is so, Brassine says: "Napoleon was a very great man. Wellington, well..."

Such sentiments do not sit well with the British, particularly the present Duke of Wellington, who has organized a committee to improve his ancestor's representation at the Waterloo battlefield.

In a recent complaint, the present duke said the museums and shops at the battlefield had come under the control of a "fanatical Bonapartist," and that his committee hoped to counter the "Napoleonic bric-a-brac and propaganda."

There is a museum devoted to Wellington, but it is two miles from the battlefield and the tourists who visit it.

NEW YORK (AP) — The market drifted downward today in dull trading.

The 10:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.10 at 870.64, once again close to its closing low for the year of 869.13 on June 25. The Dow blue chip indicator closed Thursday down more than a point after being up over 7 points at the beginning of the trading session.

Declining Big Board stocks today had a 344-to-291 lead over advancers.

American Telephone preferred, down 1/2 at 48 1/4, was the Big Board volume leader, followed by Southern Co., unchanged at 16 3/4; American Metal Climax preferred, down 4 1/4 at 87; Texasgulf, down 1/4 at 24 3/4; and American Metal Climax, unchanged at 35 1/2.

The giant Japanese trading firm of Mitsui announced an agreement for it to purchase 50 per cent of the aluminum business of American Metal Climax for $125 million by 1974.

On the American Stock Exchange, Great Lakes Chemical, unchanged at 9, was the volume leader.

Assailant Fled With His Pants

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police say Charles Wrinkle refused to give up his money when he was accosted in a hamburger shop and it cost him his pants.

Wrinkle, 56, lost his trousers Tuesday in a fight that ensued when he refused to turn his wallet over to an assailant, police said.

The assailant fled with the pants, wallet inside, but Wrinkle caught and held the man for arriving officers, police said.

Obscenity Law Said Too Vague

RALEIGH (AP)—District Court Judge Edwin S. Preston held that North Carolina's obscenity law is "extremely vague" and "impossible to apply" Thursday as he acquitted an employe of a downtown adult book store of obscenity charges.

Wake County Solicitor Burley B. Mitchell Jr., who prosecuted the case, disagreed with the judge in a newspaper interview later and called it a "mis-application of the law."

Buffalo Trying New Backfield; Pittsburgh Rallies Past Eagles

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills will unveil a new backfield lineup and a new stadium tonight in their pre-season home opener against the Washington Redskins.

The largest sports crowd in western New York history may be on hand for the event. The new 80,000-seat stadium in suburban Orchard Park, the largest in the National Football League, is expected to be sold out.

Buffalo Coach Lou Saban is expected to start rookie quarterback Joe Ferguson in place of three-year veteran Dennis Shaw. Veteran fullback Jim Braxton will be back in the starting lineup after being bumped last week in favor of Bo Cornell. Braxton's running-mate will be Randy Jackson, starting in place of the injured O.J. Simpson.

The Redskins will be without the services of their premier running back, too. Larry Brown is being held out of the lineup for the first four exhibition games by Coach George Allen. But the National Football Conference-champion Redskins will have Duane Thomas running in Brown's place.

Allen will start with Billy Kilmer at quarterback, then switch to 16-year veteran Sonny Jurgensen in the second half.

The Pittsburgh Steelers came from behind and defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 17-3 Thursday night in the opener of a full weekend of NFL exhibition games.

The Steelers took advantage of two botched punting situations in the second half for 17 points against the defensively tough Eagles.

Saturday in the NFL, Baltimore takes on Detroit at Memphis, St. Louis is at Denver, Houston plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, Minnesota is at Kansas City, Chicago at Miami, New England at Atlanta, Oakland plays Los Angeles at Berkeley, Calif., and New Orleans is at Dallas.

On Sunday, Cleveland plays Cincinnati at Columbus, Ohio, the New York Giants take on the New York Jets at New Haven, Conn. and San Diego is at San Francisco.

"There's a good chance Ray Nitschke will play this week," said Green Bay Packer Coach Dan Devine Thursday. The 36-year-old Nitschke, voted the best middle linebacker of the NFL's first 50 years, currently is listed as a third stringer and is fighting for survival on the roster.

Veteran Earl Morrall will share quarterback duties with Bob Griese when Miami meets Chicago in the Orange Bowl. Morrall has not played since the College All-Star game last month.

Veteran linebackers Bob Matheson and Mike Kolen also will see action for the Dolphins after recovering from injuries.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry has selected quarterback Jack Concannon to start over perennial QB rivals Roger Staubach and Craig Morton when Dallas hosts New Orleans.

Hank Breaks Drought; Hits His 702nd Homer As Braves Rip Cubs

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Hank Aaron doesn't think he will equal Babe Ruth's baseball career home run record of 714 this season.

"I don't really think it's possible," the Atlanta slugger said Thursday after he had walloped his 702nd in the eighth inning as the Braves broke loose for nine runs in handing the once proud Chicago Cubs their 11th straight defeat 10-2.

"I'm just not going to play that many more games," Aaron said. "I'd like to hit five or six more and I think that's possible."

The Braves have 38 games left to play, but the 39-year-old

Aaron doesn't figure to play in all of them.

Aaron's latest homer, his 29th of the season, came with two on off a 2-2 pitch by Cub pitcher Jack Aker.

"It was the hardest hit I've had in about three weeks," Aaron said. The ball traveled well over 400 feet, disappearing over the left field bleachers in Wrigley Field.

Aaron's homer was his first since July 31, which at the time put him 13 behind Ruth's record. "I'm happy to get off that 13," Aaron said. "I was beginning to get superstitious about it."

Aaron's homer also brought him to within one of Stan Musi-al's extra base hit record of 1,377.

Cleveland blasted Kansas City out of first place in the American League West 10-4 and Oakland replaced the Royals in the top spot by defeating Boston 6-3. San Francisco shaded Philadelphia 2-1 in the only other game scheduled Thursday.

Indians 10, Royals 4
Kansas City had beaten Cleveland nine straight times this season, but this time it was the Indians' turn. They unleashed a 16-hit attack and topped the Royals from first place in the AL West 10-4.

Ron Lich helped pitcher Dick Tidrow gain his 10th victory by driving in four runs on two doubles and a single. Chris Chambliss contributed a home run and Buddy Bell a triple. Paul Splittorff, a 15-game winner for Kansas City, suffered his seventh defeat.

The defeat dropped the Royals one percentage point behind Oakland.

A's 6, Red Sox 3

Vida Blue showed his 1971 Cy Young Award-winning pitching form in beating the Red Sox on a four-hitter 6-3. He didn't know it at the time, but the victory moved Oakland back into first place in the AL West when Kansas City lost to the Indians in a night game.

Reggie Jackson helped Blue gain his 13th victory against seven defeats by hitting two homers good for four RBI. Jackson now has 29 HRs for the season.

Jr. Tourney Is Underway

The Greenville Tennis Club's junior tournament got underway yesterday at the Elm Street Tennis Courts.

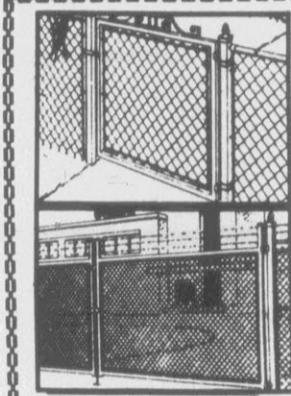

The tournament is open to junior members of the club under 18 years of age.

Susie Pittman is the number one seed in the girls division, while Lou White is second seeded. Jack Warren and Jim Proctor are the first and second seeded boys, respectively.

Play continues this afternoon at 4:30 p.m., and at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The public is invited to watch the matches.

Lotz In Lead In Sutton Golf

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Dick Lotz was out of the woods, Bruce Devlin was out of the tournament and Ben Crenshaw was off and running going into today's second round of the $200,000 USI Golf Classic.

"I've been in the woods so long nobody remembers who I am," the slump-ridden Lotz said Thursday after taking the first round lead with a hot-putting 67, five-under-par on the 7,212-yard Pleasant Valley Golf Club course.

Devlin, the skinny Australian veteran who won this title last year, was disqualified for taking an improper drop. He signed for a 71, but played the ball from the wrong place after going into a hazard on the 15th hole.

And Crenshaw, the most highly-touted youngster since Jack Nicklaus, got off and running as a pro with a 71 that he called "very mediocre—just another round of golf."

It was his first round as a professional.

Lotz, who has been in a deep slump since winning two titles and more than $125,000 in 1970, held a one-stroke lead over Bert Yancey and Rik Massingale, tied at 68.

At 69 were Steve Melnyk,

Tom Jenkins, Roy Pace, Ross Randall and Dave Glenz.

Lee Trevino could do no better than match par 72 under the gray, threatening clouds that hung over the hilly layout, and Australian Bruce Cramp-ton, who has won four titles and more than $270,000 this season, struggled to a 73.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Tom Weiskopf are not competing.

Beneath this soft and warm exterior, there lies a heart of plastic.

So far, it's only a valve. Eight-year-old Janet Hernandez has one.

It may not be long before a whole working heart will be made out of plastic.

Men in plastics research at Union Carbide are working on the almost impossible job of designing plastic's compatible with the body.

Their most crucial job is making an ultra-thin polypropylene fabric for lining the inside of the heart. A fabric coated with parylene that will allow human tissue to grow into and around it to keep blood from clotting.

A plastic heart isn't the only part of the body we're working on. Maybe someday there will be a little plastic in all of us.

Right now, we've got you surrounded by our plastics. We were in plastics before most people knew the word. We make more plastics than anyone else. We haven't scratched the surface yet.

Why is a great big company like Union Carbide so concerned about a little bit of plastic for the body?

Because.

Beneath our corporate exterior, there beats a heart.

Kuhn Sidesteps; Interleague Play Sidelined Another Year

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Major League baseball fell one vote short—the tie-breaking vote Commissioner Bowie Kuhn chose not to cast—Thursday of adopting interleague play in 1974.

Kuhn, who favors limited interleague play, cited but declined to explain a challenge by the National League of his legal powers to cast the vote. "However, he said he was "not precluding the possibility of casting it in the future," if the legal question is resolved.

The impasse occurred as expected when American League owners and officials unanimously favored interleague play and the National League voted unanimously against it during the closing session of the majors' annual summer meetings.

Kuhn announced creation of a "special blue" ribbon steering committee" of five members, including two owners in each league and himself, which he said will have broad authority to make recommendations on all baseball matters.

The committee will report at the majors' winter meetings in Houston. Its members were not immediately named.

Bud Selig, president of the American League's Milwaukee Brewers, was bitterly disappointed but not surprised when interleague play failed to pass.

"I didn't fall away in a dead faint," said Selig, member of a four-man committee which has been studying the issue since January.

"But the committee wouldn't have spent all these hours and travel if we didn't sincerely feel we had a chance," he said.

Charles Bronfman, board chairman of the National League's Montreal Expos, said opposition to interleague play was not rooted in the National's attendance advantage.

"That goes in cycles," he said. "I think we already have the ultimate in interleague play in the World Series. I don't think interleague play would help the series."

Big Men In Backfield May Be Key To Cincinnati Grid Success

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — Marion Motley and Jimmy Brown spoiled Cincinnati Bengals Coach Paul Brown. It isn't likely he'll find a Motley or Brown in 1973, but if plans work out, the coach may have what he's been looking for: a backfield of bull-sized backs.

And it may be the only backfield made up of ex-tight ends in the National Football League.

"There's a big advantage in big backs," said Brown. "Look at Miami and Green Bay. The big backs can take you a long way and we need one bad," said Brown, who is the NFL's oldest active coach. He turns 65 next month.

Brown likes the looks of 12th round draft choice, Charles "Booby" Clark, who has been impressive in training camp. Clark, a 6-foot-2, 240-pound tight end from Bethune-Cookman (Fla.) College, is a brutal blocker and has blazing speed for a big man.

Isaac Curtis, a 9.3 sprinter at San Diego State, was the first of three straight receivers selected in the draft.

"We needed more speed on the outside," said Brown. Former All-Pro tight end Bob Trumpy and split end Chip Myers, who caught a team record 57 catches last year, give Cincinnati excellent receivers.

The Bengals appear equally well-stocked in lineman, due to heavy drafting in that direction the first five years.

The offensive line is a plus, with veterans Bob Johnson, Vernon Holland, Stan Walters, Pat Matson, Howard Fest and Rufus Mayes making up a solid base.

The defense, though still young, should again be Cincinnati's strength. With Mike Reid, an All-Pro defensive tackle at age 25, heading the battle-tested squad, the Bengals could be even better than last year when they ranked third among the NFL's 26 clubs.

Joining Reid as top defenders are linebacker Bill Bergey, safety Tommy Casonova and defensive back Lemar Parrish.

"We will be a better team," said Brown. "How that translates into wins and losses remains to be seen."

Soviets Grab Off 1st Gold

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Track and field competition at the World

University Games swings into high gear today and American athletes will be bidding for some gold medals that so far have been swept up by the Soviet Union.

In Thursday's opening events, the Soviets picked up four golds and one bronze to a single silver medal for the United States—won by Kathy Schmidt of Long Beach, Calif. in the javelin throw.

Soviet winners were women's javelin thrower Svetlana Koroleva, shot putter Valery Volkov, fencer Basil Stankovich and the women's gymnastics team, led by tiny Olga Korbut.

Yugoslavia's Daniel Korica won the 10,000-meter run and was Thursday's only other gold medal.

The young and quick American men's basketball team overwhelmed Great Britain 123-74 in an opening round robin game, but still was a long way from a medal with strong Soviet Union and Cuban teams standing in the way.

America's fortunes may change today. Dave Roberts of Rice University and Terry Porter of Kansas University both qualified for the pole vault final, and Steve Riddich of Norfolk State and Thomas Whatley of Alabama University both qualified for the 100-meter dash final.

Kathy Lawson of Massachusetts University and Mattline Render of Temple both qualified in the women's 100, but will have to face Russia's Nadezhda Besfamilnaya and Finland's Lisa Pursiainen.

Dennis Schultz of Oklahoma University and Darwin Bond of Tennessee University qualified in the 400 meters, and Rick Brown of the University of California in the 800.

Olga Has More Gold

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians won four gold medals on the first day of the World University Games and held one major press conference.

For whom?

Olga, naturally, who else? They almost tore down the sports palace when Olga Korbut showed up Thursday night for the finals of the women's team optional exercises on the beams and bars.

They went into hysterics when she pirouetted, leaped and bounded through her final number like a cross-breed of a Bolshoi ballerina and a high jump champion.

When she'd led the Soviet team to another gold medal, as she had done so often at Munich, she and her teammates were taken to the press room for a formal interview.

But the newsmen only had eyes and questions for Olga—in German, French, English and Russian, especially Russian.

They asked her many questions.

Did Olga think the directors of the sport were spoiling the development by banning certain daring routines?

"It is impossible to stop gymnastics," she replied. "How can you forbid people to run faster or lift more weight?"

No No-Knock, No Wiretapping Power In New Code

Texas Lawmen Will Hunt More Graves

By JIM BARLOW
HOUSTON (AP)—The Galveston County sheriff plans to search a stretch of beach today for graves of more possible victims in the nation's worst confirmed mass murder.

Sheriff J. B. Kline said he had no specific information about where any bodies might be buried but he owed it to parents of missing boys to make an effort.

The bodies of 27 boys and young men slain in an alleged homosexual torture ring were found in graves on an adjacent beach in Chambers and Jefferson counties, at a boat stall in southwest Houston and near Lake Sam Rayburn north of here.

Kline said that, weather permitting, county officials would search about a one-mile section of the beach with a road grader.

Meanwhile, state District Court Judge William Hatten refused on Thursday to order an immediate psychiatric examination of Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, one of two teen-agers indicted in the killings.

He told Harris County Dist. Atty. Carol Vance, who had requested the exam, that the defense normally makes such a request and that Vance should back his motion with legal precedents and return Wednesday, when Henley will be arraigned on the three murder indictments returned against him.

Defense attorney Charles Meider had told Hatten a court order sending Henley to the county psychiatric unit for examination would violate his constitutional rights against self-incrimination.

The grand jury that indicted Henley also handed down one indictment against David Owen Brooks, 18.

A district attorney's aide said a grand jury may return.

Authorities were led to the graves after Henley called police Aug. 8 to tell them he had shot and killed Dean A. Corll, 33, the alleged instigator of the mass slayings.

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Two legislators responsible for interim work on the revision of North Carolina's criminal code say that no-knock and wiretapping authority for police will not be in the bill when it is presented to the 1974 General Assembly.

The authority to electronically eavesdrop and enter homes without prior identification—both in certain circumstances—was included in a proposed criminal code revision presented to the 1973 legislature.

That proposal was turned over to Judiciary subcommittees in both houses. They were told to comb through 250-page document, which completely rewrote state law dealing with police powers, criminal investigations, bail and trial procedures.

Rep. Wade Smith, D-Wake and Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, both say that the overwhelming consensus on their subcommittees is to delete the no-knock and wiretapping authority. A section defining police power to stop and frisk persons on the street will remain, they said.

Both Smith and Strickland were on the 26-member special commission which drew up the proposed code revision over two years of work. They said

Charge Driver Hit Two Cars

Steven Kyle Price, 17, of 1310 Evergreen St., was charged with careless and reckless driving after two parked cars were hit late last evening.

According to Greenville Police, Price's car was going through the parking lot behind the H.L. Hodges Hardware building when he struck one parked car owned by Thomas W. Ambrose III of 204 Fairway Dr. His car traveled further down the lot and struck another car owned by Ronnie Lee House of Bethel.

Damage to the Price car was listed as $700; damage to the Ambrose car was $200, and damage to the House vehicle $75.

the commission was sharply divided, with narrow majorities prevailing in favor of no-knock and wiretapping.

The no-knock provision would allow police to obtain special supplements to the normal search warrant. With the special authority, they could enter a private home without knocking if they believed evidence would likely be destroyed between the time they identified themselves and the time they entered.

The wiretapping provision would allow the Attorney General to obtain special authorization from a judge to tap telephone wires or electronically bug a suspect's premises. All unauthorized wiretapping would become a felony under the proposed law.

Smith and Strickland said the no-knock and wiretapping sections would probably be deleted entirely, leaving North Carolinians the protection against them afforded by the federal constitution.

That protection, Smith said, lies primarily in the Fourth Amendment. That amendment has been construed to mean that evidence gathered through illegal search or wiretap cannot be introduced in court.

The legislators, speaking in separate interviews, agreed that the stop and frisk provision actually narrowed police powers as defined in recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

The code proposal would allow police, if they observed someone in suspicious circumstances, to detain them for 20 minutes and search them for dangerous weapons by patting outside their clothes.

Smith and Strickland said current North Carolina statutes say nothing about stop and frisk, and U.S. Supreme Court decisions give police slightly broader authority to make on-the-spot searches.

Neither Smith nor Strickland thought the atmosphere created by the Watergate scandal was decisive in convincing legislators to oppose the two provisions.

"Most of the lawyers in the Senate were opposed to this before the Watergate hearings started," Strickland said.

Smith agreed, although he added that he thought Watergate had bred a healthy distrust in the mind of the public toward government power.

"I have been worried that in the furor over rising crime, we might be stampeded into eroding our civil liberties," he said.

Smith quoted the late U.S. Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis: "Experience should teach us to be most on our guard to protect liberties when government's purposes are beneficent. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in the insidious encroachments by men of zeal, well-meaning but without understanding."

Smith said his subcommittee hoped to finish with the bill in October and present it to the joint House Judiciary Committee, which may hold public hearings before the legislature convenes in January.

Corrupt Practices Act Said 'A Mess'

RALEIGH (AP)—Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state Board of Elections, says North Carolina's Corrupt Practices Act is a mess and should be completely replaced.

Brock spoke Thursday at a meeting of a subcommittee of the House Election Laws Committee.

Among other things, the act requires candidates for state office to file lists of campaign contributions and expenditures.

Brock said various state agencies give conflicting interpretations of what the law actually requires. It was passed in 1931, and has been amended several times.

"Anything you do would be an improvement; you can't make it any worse," Brock told the legislators. "I would say that amending it would be futile. The whole thing should be assigned to its grave."

According to Brock, the law does not require, for example, that candidates in a general election report contributions to them; only those to campaign committees must be disclosed.

Brock told the subcommittee the law has different provisions for legislative candidates from single and multi-county districts in the House and the Senate.

"The poor guy running for office out there doesn't know what he's supposed to do, and often we can't tell him."

The chairman of the subcommittee, Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, confined the meeting to a general discussion of problems in campaign financing. It was the first summer meeting. Only two other members, Reps. Lane Brown, D-Stanly, and Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, showed up.

They are both sponsors of campaign-spending bills that were carried over from the 1973 session.

They agreed that the subcommittee would have to tighten up filing procedures and make them standard; determine whether it had legal authority to regulate elections for Congress; and whether action taken in 1974 could apply to the 1974 primary and general elections.

Brown said legislation to limit campaign spending would have to be dealt with in a separate bill.

Club Plans Pay Tribute

MRS. ROSALIE JONES

The Ever-Ready Club of Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church is sponsoring an appreciation service honoring Mrs. Rosalie Jones for her outstanding and loyal service to the church, community, and schools. The service is scheduled for Sunday, at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary of the church.

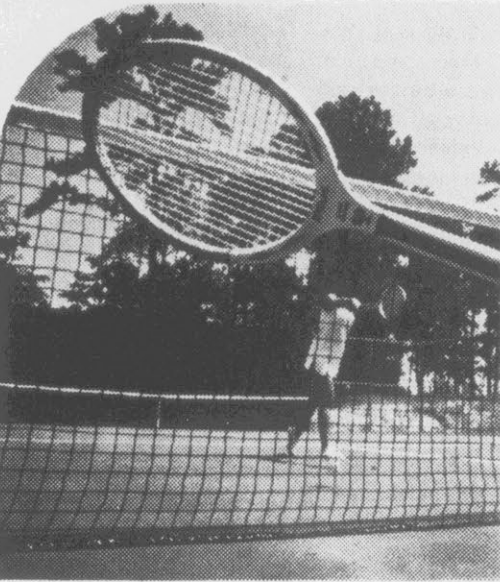

Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Fayetteville State University, and has done graduate work at the University of Michigan. She is presently employed at the W.H. Roberson School in Winterville.

Guest speaker for the program will be Mrs. S.M. Moore of Greenville. The public is invited to attend.

Ex-Hell's Angel To Be Speaker

GREENSBORO (AP)—Rick Carreno, former member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle gang in Los Angeles, will be a featured speaker tonight at the third annual statewide Youth Evangelism Night.

The event is sponsored by the Baptist State Convention. Sixteen thousand young people and adult leaders are expected in the Greensboro Coliseum.

Church To Begin Using New Education Building

NEW CHURCH EDUCATIONAL BUILDING . . . of Grace Free Will Baptist Church will be occupied Sunday with special morning and evening services.

With special morning and evening services, Grace Church will occupy its new $220,000 educational building Sunday. The two-story building, with 14,000 feet of floor space, includes a large office complex, a gymnasium, and a kitchen. It is fully carpeted and uses electric heat. Wired for close circuit TV, the building will accommodate 600 additional Sunday school students. Office space includes offices for the pastor, the associate pastor, and a minister of education, who will be employed in the fall. These three offices open into a spacious secretarial office. In addition, there is a printing room. The gymnasium, with its basketball court, will be used for social activities and supervised youth programs. Organized youth groups meet weekly during the school year. Contracted by J.H. Hudson, the building was begun in October. The new structure complements three other units of the church. During the morning worship hour Sunday, Dr. Jerry Falwell's choir director, Dave Randlett, will be the guest soloist. The day's activities will be climaxed by a choir concert at 7 p.m. and a fellowship hour after the service.

The Rev. Chester Phillips pastors the church with the assistance of associate pastor Doug Randlett.

Break-Ins Told By 7-Year-Old

MIAMI (AP) — Police say a 7-year-old boy has admitted breaking into 21 homes and hauling off as much as $1,600 worth of goods. The 3-foot-6, blond, blue-eyed child began crying when arrested Thursday and said he had sold most of the loot for hot dog and ice cream money, police reported. "It breaks my heart, man, I tell you," said Detective Phil Cowart. "He's a helluva cute kid. I felt sorry for him."

The haul for each of the last three or four burglaries amounted to $300 to $400 in watches, jewelry and portable radios, police said. But police said the boy sold the items for just a few dollars. The boy's name was not released. Police said his parents are separated and apparently live in New York, leaving him to live with his grandmother here.

The neighborhood ice cream vendor said the boy was "a big spender," Cowart said. Cowart said that, after his arrest, the boy agreed to point out the burglarized homes while riding around in a police car. "He sat in the front seat. We bought him a Coke and ice cream and drove him around while he pointed out all the places he hit," Cowart said. Police recommended counseling and have decided not to prosecute the youth. Homecoming At Church Sunday

 Rev. Fred Jones will speak at Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church's homecoming Sunday. Dinner will be served at 1 p.m. and a singspiration will begin at 2 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has proclaimed Aug. 26 as Women's Equality Day and urged speedy ratification of the Equal Rights amendment to the Constitution

THE CROSSROADS

Who am I? What is life? Where am I going? Why am I here???

Almost everyone who's ever lived has at one time or another asked himself one or all of these questions. Or others—What shall I do? Where shall I turn? Why did this have to happen to me? Who will help? When???

Sooner or later every man seeks understanding. The seeking can be exhilarating, depending upon where one searches.

Those who turn to God and His Church find unlimited opportunities opening for them, as their concept of life is enriched and enlarged.

If you stand at the crossroads and the world seems a turmoil of conflicting ideas, turn to your church. Its truth never wavers. Its strength and purpose can make your life fuller and happier.

Odd Impact Of Inner Conflict

Note Rev. Milton's sexual conflict. He found himself involved in a potential "triangle." But his moral training opposed his erotic fascination. In the resulting impasse, he apparently imitated St. Paul but with only his left eye!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE X-589: Rev. Milton, left eye." Hysterical Blindness St. Paul also lost his sight in both eyes while en route to Damascus. For he stood, consenting, at the time Stephen was brutally stoned to death. And he was fanatical in his zeal to eradicate the early Christian disciples, but an inner conflict developed within him. So he is considered an example of hysterical blindness, due to recoil from his sadistic cruelty to innocent Christians. Rev. Milton proved to be a first cousin of St. Paul. His wife was a stodgy though dutiful housekeeper who ignored serving cheesecake in the boudoir. Frustrated in his erotic appetite, he was unusually susceptible to a college coed who volunteered during the summer to serve as his secretary. She was a voluptuous doll who sat at a typewriter in front of Rev. Milton but at his left. Because of his unsatisfied erotic hunger at home, plus the unusually attractive coed seated before him all day, he found that his eyes strayed in her direction repeatedly. An inner conflict soon developed between his conscience and his sexual attraction to the coed. "Dr. Crane," he confessed in my office, "I prayed about this and thus imbued with a stern feeling of loyalty to his wife, he tried to ignore the ravishing temptation at the neighboring desk.

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, August 17, 1973—13 problem constantly and wrestled with my conscience till I was a victim of insomnia. "But my infatuation for the girl kept growing. "In fact, I contemplated all sorts of wild ideas, including the possibility that I might even run away with her and desert all my past moral training. "But I dismissed that as an insane solution, yet still I felt this almost hypnotic attraction to her.

So I soon showed him the reason for his sudden blindness, and then told him his wife to serve more cheesecake in the boudoir! So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Record Exports By Chemical Co.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Exports of $275 million worth of American-made products in 1972, an all-time record and a 15 per cent increase over 1971, have been reported by the Dow Chemical Co. The company spent more than $200 million in the United States on new or expanded manufacturing facilities and about $150 million in other countries. C.B. Branch, president, said.

"After an unusually fitful night, I came down to the office one morning exhausted. "Suddenly, I found that I couldn't see out of my left eye! "I was blind! "But my eye doctor cannot find anything organically wrong with that eye, yet still I cannot see. So can you please help me?" Readers, you can surmise the diagnosis of this case, especially if you have followed this daily column for some length of time. Rev. Milton's subconscious mind merely blotted out the view of this attractive coed who sat in front of him and at his left!

Once this motion picture sinks its fangs into you, you'll never be the same.

In declarer play, there is often a very thin line between success and failure. Any opportunity to enhance your possibility of success should, therefore, be grasped. South applied this principle on today's hand and brought home a contract that would surely fail if played by a less thoughtful declarer.

North showed both his suits after South bid and rebid his seven-card suit. With two stoppers in the unbid suit, South elected to bid two no trump at his third turn rather than bid clubs again, and North contracted for the nine-trick game.

"priceless"

There are some things in life that have no price.

At Stratford Arms we try to create an atmosphere that makes it a happy place to live.

Even though our apartments are reasonably priced some people think the attitude and atmosphere are priceless. Come and see and feel it. Sorry we're all booked on 3-bedrooms but our 1 and 2 bedroom apartments are a delight.
