Agnew Raps Strategy Of News Leaks

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has accused Justice Department officials of subjecting him to a campaign of smear publicity and trial by headline in "a clear and outrageous effort" to influence a federal grand jury investigating him.

But the Justice Department said there is no evidence to support Agnew's claim.

Referring to reports he said he believed were leaked to the news media, Agnew declared Tuesday that he had to assume "that some Justice Department officials have decided to indict me in the press whether or not the evidence supports their position."

Responding to Agnew's charges, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said the Justice Department was concerned with unfair and inaccurate publicity about the grand jury in Baltimore which is investigating allegations of kickbacks and political corruption in Maryland.

But, in his statement, Richardson said there is no evidence thus far to implicate law enforcement officials in the news leaks. He said an investigation into the leaks is continuing.

In Baltimore, U.S. Atty. George Beall, reiterated a statement made earlier this month that neither he nor any of the other prosecutors in the case were the sources of news leaks.

Beall is heading the grand jury probe.

Big Battle In South Vietnam

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong attack on a government ranger position touched off the biggest battle in South Vietnam's central highlands since the January cease-fire, the Saigon command reports.

The Saigon command said today that 89 Viet Cong and 17 rangers were killed Tuesday in 7½ hours of fighting and 22 rangers were wounded.

The government position was about seven miles northeast of the Ly Thai Loi base camp in Pleiku province, about 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

A government spokesman, Lt. Col Le Trung Hien, said the Viet Cong first shelled the post, then hit it with a "mass" ground assault. He said the 400 rangers had artillery support but no air cover.

Hien could give no estimate of the size of the Viet Cong force, but he contended that the attack provided new evidence that Communist forces are infiltrating south from Kontum province to Pleiku.

The command also reported Viet Cong attacks west and northwest of Kontum and claimed 20 Communist troops were killed. The government said it had only one casualty, an infantryman wounded.

The Saigon command claimed the Viet Cong and

Arrest Orders Said Issued In 'Plot' Inquiry

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal authorities have authorized the arrest of several persons in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate President Nixon, a New Orleans television station has reported.

Station WVUE-TV said Tuesday night "arrest authorizations," which are less formal warrants, have been issued in the case. The station said two persons, one of whom had a high-powered rifle, discussed the killing and several others knew of the discussion.

FBI, Secret Service and police department officials refused to confirm the report.

The Secret Service revealed the existence of the alleged plot before Nixon's visit to New Orleans Monday to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The reports led to a change in the route the President took into town from the airport and cancellation of a scheduled five-block motorcade down Canal Street to the Rivergate Convention Center, site of the talk.

Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said late Tuesday the agency's investigation of the alleged plot is "very active," but he continued to refuse to reveal details of the investigation. He said no warrants have been issued, and he declined to say how many conspirators are being sought.

The Secret Service did say it had issued a warrant for Edwin M. Gaudet after a witness allegedly identified Gaudet as the man who threatened Nixon's life during a discussion in a Canal Street drugstore last week. But the Secret Service said Gaudet was not involved in the alleged assassination conspiracy.

Fights Access To Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyer argued today that a federal court order requiring the President to turn over tape recordings of White House conversations to Watergate prosecutors could set off widespread demands for confidential presidential records.

With his arguments, Charles Alan Wright took the legal battle over access to the tapes into the courtroom before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was on hand to reply to Wright's arguments.

It was the first courtroom oral argument on a constitutional confrontation that is expected to go to the Supreme Court. Both sides have set out their positions in lengthy briefs submitted to Sirica in recent weeks since Cox went to court seeking tapes the President has refused to turn over to either him or the Senate Watergate Committee.

Wright asserted that no court can overrule the President in his judgment of whether confidential conversations should be kept secret.

He said that 18 months ago "nobody of responsible opinion anywhere in the American legal community would have said a court has the power to overrule the President of the United States in a matter of this kind."

He asked rhetorically, "What has caused opinion to change?" and added:

"What has happened has been Watergate. The hydraulic force arising from this sordid and unhappy episode has led men of distinction to say that the 'Constitution means something it has never meant before."

Middle Belt To Seek Full Sales

RALEIGH (AP)—An effort will be made Thursday to find sufficient buyers and flue-cured tobacco sales allocations to begin full strength sales on the North Carolina Middle Belt on Sept. 4.

The move will come at a meeting of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee.

Under a schedule drawn up by the committee several weeks ago, only eight sets of buyers are assigned to the belt for its first two weeks of sales and their poundage allocation for the period is limited to the equivalent of 7½ sets. When in full operation the belt has 15 sets of buyers.

The committee will decide Thursday whether the Georgia-Florida Belt's sales allocation for the first week of September would be moved up to this week and next. Cleanup sales

State Ferry Manager Fired

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP)—Hugh Salter, manager of the state ferry operations since 1969, said Tuesday Transportation Secretary Bruce Lenz had "flatly fired" him.

Salter said Lenz told him in a letter his services were being terminated as of Aug. 31, and that the action was being taken "in the best interest of our organization and our efforts to implement a program to provide improved service to citizens of North Carolina."

Call For More Local Control

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP)—Northeastern North Carolina local officials added their voices Tuesday to a call for more local control in land use planning.

Speaking at a legislative public hearing on the proposed Coastal Management Act were officials of Chowan, Pasquotank and Currituck Counties, and Elizabeth City.

Bees Lose To Pesticides

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Eastern Idaho beekeepers say pesticides have left their honey business less than buzzing this year.

The beekeepers, who normally count some loss to sprayers as routine, say the loss this year ranges up to 75 per cent in some areas.

Skylab Repair

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 2 astronauts will try during a spacewalk Friday to replace a failing gyroscope system which keeps the station from turning aimlessly in orbit.

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said the decision on the replacement was made Tuesday because of a slow deterioration in the main gyro system over the last several weeks.

"They're slowly but surely caving in," Hutchinson said.

He emphasized there was no danger to astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma since the spacemen could take action to stabilize the laboratory.

Hutchinson said the concern is that the system might fail during the six-week period next fall when the vehicle will be unmanned between the Skylab 2 and Skylab 3 missions. Such a failure could prevent the Skylab 3 flight.

Bean and Garriott will make the required space walk. They had planned to go outside anyway Friday to switch film in Skylab telescope cameras.

The astronauts today planned a full load of medical, solar, astronomy and science experiments. They were in the 28th day of the planned 59-day trip.

On Tuesday, the astronauts observed and photographed an eruption on the sun which spewed a mass of radiation into the solar system.

The event, called a prominence, may have been associated with a flare explosion on the back side of the sun that somehow upset the solar magnetic field, scientists said.

Dr. Robert MacQueen of the High Altitude Observatory, Boulder, Colo., said a study of the photos and other Skylab data might help determine how these solar radiation storms affect weather and communications on earth.

Hospital Bd. OKs ECU Affiliation

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees last night approved an affiliation agreement with the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The agreement is general, but would probably provide for medical students to be afforded clinical experience at the hospital in the future. It is generally a statement of desire to work together and support each other, according to Hospital administrator Jack Richardson.

Coverage of the emergency room on a fee-for-service basis was approved. A plan is to be worked out whereby physicians who wish to man the emergency room from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. and be paid by the hospital at a rate of $15 per hour. Whatever nights are not covered under this new plan will be divided among all the medical staff members, as has been the practice in the past, according to Dr. John Wooten, Chief of Staff.

The budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 was approved. It is based on expected expenses of $5,955,338 and projected revenue of $6,092,297. A $136,959 reserve fund is being set up to help pay back a $2 million loan for building the new hospital. A total increase in expenses of 11 per cent is expected, Administrator Richardson said. This includes a 6.4 per cent increase in salaries for hospital employees, many of which are being raised to comply with new minimum wage laws. The amount is expected to be $342,357.

There is a $180,000 funding for depreciation of hospital facilities and equipment. Also there is a two per cent increase in cost of food, utilities ($68,000) and supplies, though supplies increases are kept to a minimum by having suppliers bid on provision of large amounts, sometimes a year's worth, of goods at a time.

Because of the large increase in expenses and the need for the reserve fund for the new hospital construction, the room rate is going up $4 per day as of Oct. 1.

The new rates will be $35 for a ward bed; $38 for a semi-private bed; and $41 for a private room. The emergency room fee is being increased from $5 to $10.

Ralph Hall, the new hospital project planner, reported that he is going over all the contract drawings and documents, making notes on possible improvements and refinements, and that he is meeting with department heads, discussing with them any problems they might have in the old hospital which could be eliminated in the new hospital by prior planning.

Richardson reported that a call to Health, Education, and Welfare in Atlanta Friday revealed that approval of the plans by HEW may come before the end of this month. If so, the bid date could be set immediately. Contracts are usually given 60 days to place bids on such a large project.

A letter of thanks was read from Nichols Department Store for the treatment of Joseph Keller, who became ill while he was here for the opening of the store.

A meeting of the Gifts Committee was announced for Sept. 17. About $2,600 has been received in memorial gifts to the new hospital this year, even though no organized plans for accepting these gifts has been adopted, Richardson said.

Upon the recommendation of the medical staff, the Trustees approved the following staff appointments: Dr. Joseph Kopinski, minor privileges in radiology, including catheter angiography and nuclear medicine; Dr. Kelley Wallace Jr., minor privileges in plastic and reconstructive surgery; Dr. Jasper Lewis, a pedodontist, active staff privileges for admissions and consultation with medical doctors in the operating room, emergency room, and laboratories; and Dr. Philip G. Nelson, advancement to major privileges in psychiatry.

Bombs In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Terrorist bombers struck in Britain today for the fourth day as Scotland Yard looked for them among Irish residents of England.

Two unexploded devices, an incendiary and a booby-trapped book, were found in London.

Six suspected letter bombs were discovered in a mail sorting office in Luton, 30 miles north of London. Police said five had fictitious addresses. Sorters became suspicious because the white envelopes, all addressed in the same handwriting, were heavier than usual. Explosive experts were called in.

A bomb squad defused the cigarette-pack incendiary planted among rolls of cloth in Dickens and Jones, a leading department store in London's bustling West End. It was the 15th fire bomb discovered in a London department store since Saturday and the second for Dickens and Jones.

Scotland Yard declined to comment.

Upward Trend On Leaf Prices Again Tuesday

The Greenville Tobacco Market continued to show a slight increase in average yesterday when 563,775 pounds of leaf went for $486,721. The average yesterday was $86.33 per hundred pounds as compared with Monday's average $86.18.

The highest average was obtained on the Goldsboro market when 275,787 pounds of tobacco sold for $87.86 per hundred pounds.

Following Goldsboro in average was the Williamston market with an average of $87.31 per hundred pounds. The Wilson market was third with an average of $87.29.

An increase in leaf and cutter grades on the Farmville market was responsible for the highest average of this selling season, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market.

The average for the Eastern Belt yesterday was $86.74 per hundred pounds. A total of 3,650,482 pounds was sold for $3,166,251. Stabilization received 17,286 pounds or 0.5 percent of the total pounds sold on the Eastern Belt yesterday.

Wanted: One Rich Second Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to find a wealthy woman to marry, but she has to have more than money. She must be well-educated, pretty, and have a good figure. I don't want one with children living with her. She can take a social drink but she should know when to stop. Under no circumstances would I marry a woman who smokes. She can be anywhere from 35 to 50, but she must be in good health and romantically inclined.

I am a 49-year-old widower who was happily married to the same woman for 26 years. I am 6 ft. 3 and weigh 210 pounds. I am in excellent health and work out in the YMCA daily. I have a master's degree and earn $12,000 a year. I work a 40-hour week and have every weekend off, like to dance, swim and travel. I do not smoke or get drunk, and I am definitely romantically inclined.

I think it's just as easy to love a rich woman as a poor one if all the other qualifications are met. Does this make sense to you?

LOOKING DEAR LOOKING: Yes. And it's just as easy for a rich woman to love a rich man. And a lot easier for her to land one, so don't get your hopes up.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live directly across the highway from his parents, who are very nice.

We have an opportunity to sell our home, which is on a one-acre piece of property given to us by his parents. They say we shouldn't sell because they gave us that land. Now my husband has reconsidered selling, and I am very unhappy.

Abby, we have two sons, 3 and 5 years old, and it is very dangerous living on a busy highway because the boys like to run across it a lot to visit their grandparents. We can't keep them inside all year round, and a fence doesn't help.

We offered to pay his parents for the land, but they refuse to accept anything. Are they being selfish? Or am I being hoggish?

WANTS TO SELL DEAR WANTS: A gift once given becomes the property of the person to whom it was given. His parents have attached strings to their gift. This is their way of keeping you near them, and unless your husband is sufficiently independent to sell anyway, they've got you where they want you.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing for suggestions on what to do about a husband who is in the armed forces, stationed in Missouri. He doesn't feel that it's necessary to keep in touch.

I've asked him to write: He's too "busy." I've asked him to phone: It's too expensive.

Since he doesn't bother writing to me, I didn't write to him, so finally after a long silence, he called me. When I tried to explain why I hadn't written he wouldn't listen.

I am employed full time and have two children to look after. I told him I worry when I get no word from him, and his response was: "If I die, the service will inform you."

What do you suggest?

LETTERLESS DEAR LETTERLESS: Quit playing tit for tat, and write to him whether you hear from him or not. And write happy, cheerful, newsy, interesting letters. And include local newspaper items and amusing cartoons. You can catch more bears with honey than the bait you're throwing out.

ECU Sorority Officials To Plan Fall Rush

About 75 officers and alumnae of the East Carolina University social sorority system will gather here Aug. 30-Sept. 2 to prepare for ECU's annual formal rush period and other sorority activities.

The group will include presidents, advisors and alumnae of the eight ECU sororities and officers of the ECU Panhellenic Council.

They will make preparations for the fall rush, beginning Sept. 10, and for university service projects.

Pamela Willingham Holt, ECU Panhellenic advisor, will conduct the workshop with the assistance of Panhellenic advisor, will conduct the workshop with the assistance of Panhellenic president Sandra Penfield, Panhellenic vice president Nancy Bashford and Panhellenic rush chairman Debbie Lanier.

According to Miss Holt, the purpose of the workshop meeting is to redefine how the sororities can be more beneficial to the campus community and to the local area as well as to assist in strengthening the ECU Greek system.

Children's Learning Disabilities: The Biochemical Approach

By DUSTY SKLAR
NEW YORK (WNS) — Walk into almost any elementary school classroom any day of the week and you're bound to find one of two youngsters disrupting the rest of the class so that it cannot function. Teachers will tell you that this is their greatest headache; parents of these children will confess they are beside themselves with grief and guilt.

Until recently, learning disabilities were thought of as a pressing psychological problem, but now they are seen as a medical problem as well. A growing number of scientists and doctors is finding evidence that many abnormalities in the functioning of these children is associated with a biochemical disorder. In some cases the malfunction is caused by actual physical damage to the brain. According to Dr. William Wendle, Director of Research of The New York University Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine, the damage is often too subtle to reveal itself in EEG tests.

Brain damage can occur before, during or after birth. The time between the conception and birth of a child can be much more significant to his later development than has been believed.

Most Susceptible

In that prenatal period, says Dr. Allan Cott, a New York psychiatrist, "A human being is more susceptible to his environment than he will ever be again in his life." What happens to him then "can help sustain normal development or hinder him for ever achieving his full genetic potential. The events which take place before his birth can exert a life-long influence, for part of the child's environment consists of his mother's immediate state of health, her general physical condition, her age at the time of conception and how fatigued she becomes each day."

The Journal of the American Medical Association describes a study conducted by Dr. Benjamin Pasamanick of Ohio State University College of Medicine which compared prenatal and birth records of 372 white boys with reading disorders with a similar number of matched controls. They found that the "children with reading disorders had a significantly larger proportion of premature births and abnormalities of the prenatal and parnatal periods than their control subjects. The toxemias of pregnancy and bleeding during pregnancy constituted those complications largely responsible for the differences found between two groups."

Dr. Cott, who specializes in children with learning disabilities, made similar observations. In hundreds of detailed case histories of parents of these children, he found many mothers recalled prolonged labor and difficult delivery.

Another study, by Dr. Mary Hoffman, published in Academic Therapy, reported that 25 per cent of a group of failing students were products of difficult deliveries, as against only 1.5 per cent of able students.

British Study

A long-term British study of more than 17,000 births recently concluded that low birth weight babies were more likely to suffer in areas such as copying ability and reading and number work, and were also more likely to be fidgety and clumsy and to make a poor social adjustment in school. Dr. Nevil Butler, Professor of Child Health at the University of Bristol and Director of the study, said that these babies experienced intrauterine growth retardation or malnutrition in the womb.

In addition to toxemia and cigarette-smoking in pregnancy, poor nutrition is an important cause of low-birth-weight babies.

Dr. Cott pointed out that often the diet of a pregnant woman is so seriously inadequate that her child is endangered, and yet there will be no recognizable symptoms in the mother to alarm or alert anyone. Many mothers of the children who come to him for treatment declare that they were put on a severe diet by their doctor during pregnancy because he preferred his patients to have small babies.

Others speak with pride of having delivered a baby of normal weight without themselves gaining a single pound all during pregnancy. Some were prescribed amphetamines to suppress appetite or fight fatigue. Others were given tranquilizers or sedatives. "Anemia during pregnancy is frequently reported," Dr. Cott stresses.

Poor nutrition is often responsible, not only for the child's bad beginning, but for his continued poor development. Dr. Cott has found that many of these problem children also suffer from hypoglycemia, hyperinsulinism of dysinsulinism and therefore should have cane sugar and rapidly absorbed carbohydrate foods eliminated from their diets. "The removal of offending foods from the diet of disturbed or learning-disabled children can result in dramatic improvement in behavior, attention span and concentration."

Sweetened Drinks

It is usually these very children who have a diet richest in sweet foods. "Most children do not drink milk unless it is sweetened with chocolate syrup or some other syrupy additive. All the beverages which they consume every day are spiked with sugar — soda, caffeinated cola drinks, highly sweetened 'fruit juices' and other concoctions which are sold to them on TV commercials. The child who drinks any water at all is indeed rare. The appalling fact about the constant consumption of these 'junk foods' is the parents' belief that these foods are good for their children."

The usual "nutritious" breakfast for some of Dr. Cott's young patients is a "a glass of soda or 'coke' and a portion of chocolate layer cake!"

Choucroute Garnie Is Specialty Of Alsatian Region Of France

By RONALD E. COHEN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Everywhere you go these days you're bombarded with America's fascinating love-hate relationship with the waistline. Hit the neighborhood cocktail party and those bores not talking about Watergate are touting you on their latest diet, swearing eternal fealty to Dr. Stillman.

Pop into a bookstore, and the shelves are fairly creaking with volumes on the newest fad diet. All sorts of doctors are pledging to make you thin. Each has a different method, and each thinks the others are crazy. You can keep yourself so broke buying the latest diet books that you will not have any money left for food—a sure bet you'll lose weight.

Switch on a television set. Either there is a gal in leotards grunting out numbers while she's twisted into pretzel shapes, presumably showing thousands of housewives the way to a firmer bustline. Or there is a panel show with doctors plugging their diet books, and arguing that only theirs is effective.

I don't know how all this nonsense affects you. It drives me to gluttony.

Last weekend I engaged in some of the most pleasurable gluttony imaginable. It added five pounds and Lord knows how many inches, but it was so delicious that I enjoyed every forkful and laughed over my German beer at the good doctors trying to get rich over Americans' loathing of excess lard.

Alsatian Specialty

The recipe is called choucroute garnie. It is a specialty of the Alsatian region of France, where the natives take their eating seriously. After the theater in Paris, patrons head directly to Alsatian restaurants, choucroute on their minds.

Simply, it is garnished sauerkraut. What you garnish it with is up to you. I suggest as many varieties of pork as you can fit in the pot. Here's a sample:

Spare ribs, a thick slice of ham, loin pork chops, a slab of bacon, several different kinds of Alsatian and German cooking sausages (I used smoked and unsmoked bratwursts) and knockwursts.

Take a deep pot and rub the bottom with a tiny bit of lard. Take two small onions and stick them with cloves, and split two carrots. Both vegetables go on the bottom. Now add a layer of sauerkraut, at least one inch thick. If you use canned kraut, drain it thoroughly and wash it several times in cold water. Press it lightly atop the carrots and onions and sprinkle with half a dozen juniper berries and a dozen coarsely ground peppercorns.

Now comes the layering of the meats. Place the spareribs, the pork chops, the ham and the sausages (except the knockwurst) atop the layer of sauerkraut. Then add another layer of sauerkraut, making sure there is a couple of inches of pot at the top.

For each pound of sauerkraut (a large 1 pound, 11-ounce can will yield about one pound of drained kraut) mix 1 cup of meat stock, 1/2 cup of white wine and 1 jigger of gin. Pour the liquid on top.

Can Be Reheated

Cover with a tight-fitting lid and place in a slow oven (300-degrees) or on top the stove for not less than three nor more than five hours. Do not stir or dirturb; if it is cooking slowly enough, it will not burn. The end product should have no excess liquid.

Test by tasting a thread of the top choucroute. It is not done until it absolutely melts in your mouth.

Two and one-half hours before serving, put in slab bacon cut into two-inch chunks. Bury the bacon in the kraut. Bed it down well and cover tightly again, continuing the same gentle simmer. Half an hour before serving, bury the knockwursts similarly.

Many purists won't eat choucroute the first day, saying it is better reheated. Caution: after five hours of cooking, the aroma of sauerkraut will be so overwhelming, it will be hard not to wolf it down on the spot. If you refrigerate it overnight and finish the cooking on the morrow, hold the knockwursts until the next day.

Serve very hot. If reheating, it should take one hour in a 325-degree oven. Serve on a large platter, arranging the choucroute in a mound and piling the meat on and around it. The meat will be like butter, so carve the meat at the table. Hot boiled potatoes go well and good mustard is essential.

German beer is the end, or dry Alsatian wine. Or both.

And, if you're like me, you'll make two pots and eat it for a week.

Bon appetit! I can wish your diet nothing finer than a choucroute!

The Old Guard Was Overruled

The Greensboro Daily News, in an editorial printed elsewhere on this page, maintains that Gov. Holshouser left no doubt in a recent speech that he opposes expansion of the one-year medical school at ECU.

Well, we are not privy to the governor's private thinking in this major issue, but we will have to admit that some parts of that particular speech could have been written by North Carolina's old guard. Still, so far at least, Gov. Holshouser has not expressed outright opposition to the ECU medical school.

That could happen, of course, but we have to keep in mind that the major reason Gov. Holshouser was elected and other surprising things have been happening in our state politics is the fact that the public is just plain fed up with unresponsive government.

The public has come to recognize that there has been a second layer of government in our state which consistently defies Legislatures, governors and the needs of the public in order to carry out its own little aims. One of those aims has been to thwart the growth of the ECU medical school.

It is not lost on the public that, even though this much needed project has been approved by three Legislatures, it is still being "studied" and there are those who still want to question its right to existence. This is in a state where the Legislature is supposed to have the ultimate authority.

Fortunately North Carolina General Assemblies are drawing away from "second layer" government and there is much to indicate that the Legislature will expect its decisions to be abided by.

It is possible that Gov. Holshouser might align himself with North Carolina's fading and fumbling old guard on this and other issues, but to do so would not only be an extremely short sighted political union, it would also be a breach of faith with the people, who have shown they do not want selfish and non-elected interests running their state government.

The voters have spoken on unresponsiveness in government in our state. If the new leaders of either party want to play ball with the old guard, then they can be certain that the voters will continue to cast around until they find leaders who will give them truly responsive government.

Other Editors Say Governor On ECU

(Greensboro Daily News)

Governor Holshouser's opposition to expansion of the one-year medical program at East Carolina University has been generally known in political circles, but he left absolutely no doubt about it in his Durham speech last week. His words are welcome, and we hope they will receive serious consideration. There seems no doubt that the ECU medical school will be a hot political issue when the General Assembly reconvenes next January. The powerful ECU lobby is making an all-out effort to gain legislative approval for a four-year program, and no one should underestimate ECU's political clout.

Governor Holshouser's speech, however, emphasized two salient points. The first, and administratively the most important, is that the medical school question belongs in the hands of the UNC Board of Governors, not in the halls of politics. A team of medical consultants is studying North Carolina's health-education needs, and it will make recommendations to the board when its study is complete. Until then, the Governor pointed out, no action should be taken — certainly not, we would add, in the heat of politics and regional rivalry.

The second point directly refutes the ECU claim that a medical school in Greenville will produce doctors for rural areas of the state. "The crucial question before us is not where we will educate more physicians," the Governor said. "Experience in other states and throughout the world has shown that merely training more doctors — no matter where that training takes place — will not mean we will have more doctors in rural areas." To the contrary, there "has been a trend toward urbanization of our medical profession" — quite simply, the doctors are going where the people are, in the cities and the suburbs.

Certainly improved medical care is urgently needed in rural areas, but where doctors are educated is fundamentally irrelevant to solving the problem. As Mr. Holshouser said, the real solution lies in developing "other, better ways to make more efficient use of the primary-care physicians now in practice as well as those who will graduate in the future." That means the establishment of rural health clinics, paramedical units and other devices by which medical care can be brought to people who need it.

Perhaps the medical consultants will recommend that the ECU medical program be expanded. If they do, and their reasons for doing so seem valid, then approval by the university board would doubtless be justified. But no such recommendation has as yet been made, and until and unless it is, no legislative action should be taken. That is the brunt of the Governor's speech, and his advice should be heeded.

Full-Time Job Against Rouse

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Gilbert L. Boger goes to Raleigh every Monday morning and doesn't go back to his Mocksville home until the next Friday or Saturday. He's working full-time trying to get Frank Rouse re-elected as GOP chairman.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Boger says, "that Frank is going to run again. He hasn't announced formally yet, but I know he's going to."

Says Rouse, in answer to a question: "I've got to clear up a couple of things before I can say for sure that I'm going to run."

Gov. Jim Holshouser is backing Thomas S. Bennett of Morehead City for the chairman's post. It's likely to come down to open warfare.

"In my opinion," Boger says, "a contest like this will not hurt the Republican Party. I think it will strengthen it. The party organization and the administration should be separate. It makes us stronger."

Such fighting within the party is new to Republicans, who haven't had that many state-wide victories in North Carolina. The Democrats have been cutting each other up for years.

"When Frank went over and supported (Jim) Gardner for Governor," Boger said, "people were saying we could never get back together. But after the primary, Rouse went back and worked like the devil for Holshouser. We elected a Governor and a U.S. Senator. It looks like we got together somewhere along the way to be able to do that."

Some Republican leaders in the state are going to be slow to support Rouse, in view of Gov. Holshouser's opposition to his candidacy. It definitely will be considered a slap in the Governor's face if his candidate loses to Rouse. "We're going to have some of that," Boger says. "Some people won't buck the Governor. But we think we have more individual thinkers in the Republican Party than they do in the Democratic Party. Frank's going to run and he'll win. It'll be tough, but he'll make it. Politics is like bailing hay. The man who works the hardest wins, and there's nobody who'll work harder than Frank Rouse."

Rouse partisans are saying the Governor's forces stacked a recent Republican gathering at Atlantic Beach. Said one Rouse worker: "We had 80 per cent of the people at that meeting on our side, if you discount the bumpy-faced favor pushers who were thrown in to make us look bad."

Rouse supporters also claim men hired to screech Republicans for state jobs have taken an active role in Bennett's campaign. A spokesman for the Governor's office concedes some calls were made by these people, but said they were made at night or during coffee breaks.

Says Boger: "I'm sorry the Governor took sides on this thing. He may push us into some things that we wouldn't ordinarily want to do. But we have a lot of friends and we might have to call on them for help."

Boger claims the 50 Republicans who serve in the North Carolina Legislature are solidly in Rouse's corner. "If they had to vote today," Boger said, "at least 35 of those 50 would be for Rouse. I say at least that many, but I really believe he'd have a few more votes than that. That kind of support from Republican legislators has to help us."

What if Rouse wins, how would he and Gov. Holshouser get along then? "I think they'd get along very well, even better than (Continued on page 5)

Would Triple Tax Valuation

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Just how does a business go about meeting all the various local, state and federal regulations involved in a new plant, and how does the local community go about finding out what the new plant will mean for them, and how does the public learn all the possible problems related to the installation—and especially its impact on the environment?

Those questions, and more, were in Jim Harrington's mind when he devised a group called the North Carolina Economic Clearinghouse.

Harrington, secretary of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources, called a meeting of the clearinghouse last week for a daylong exploration of a truly complex proposal for Hertford County on the Chowan River in northeastern North Carolina.

So big is the proposal, Harrington said, that it represents approximately one-half of all the industrial development investment in the entire state last year; it will triple the tax base in Hertford County; it will be a national first in attempts by the fuel industries to refine a synthetic natural gas product from crude oil; it will have profound and lasting impact on the social, economic life of not only Hertford, but surrounding Gates, Bertie and Chowan counties.

No Announcement

But Harrington wanted it made clear that while in-depth talks about the plant are taking place, "it doesn't represent an announcement that it will be built... we are exploring all the problems and complexities."

The plant is proposed by the Transcontinental Pipeline Corp. of Houston, Tex., a supplier of natural gas to the Southeast and into New York and the industrial Northeast.

Lawrence H. Gall, a vice president of the parent company and of Transco Energy Co. formed to pursue the refinery in North Carolina, said the plant would occupy 1,300 acres on the Chowan River near Tunis, N.C.; would take 34 months to construct; would represent a total investment of more than $300 million in capital funds, including $75 million in construction labor costs alone; and is two to four years away from a start because of the complexity of meshing federal, state and local regulations; design and engineering problems; and locking down long-term contracts overseas for a steady supply of crude oil.

Gall, a South Carolinian who now lives in Houston, said the plant is called for by continuing reductions in available natural gas from the ground, and basically would be designed to convert crude oil into a synthetic natural gas product called variously Synagas or SNG which would be them piped out of the North Carolina plant into Transcontinental pipelines in nearby Ahoskie.

Size of Operation

The size of the operation, as indicated by Sec. Harrington, is staggering.

A 650-acre facility on the Elizabeth River in Portsmouth Va., would be used to unload oil tankers and store the crude oil; a 50-mile pipeline would carry the crude to the Tunis site in North Carolina where refining facilities, some of them towering more than 300 feet into the air, would make up the vast processing plant.

The clearinghouse meeting, made up of representatives from Hertford County, Sec. Bruce Lentz of the state Department of Transportation, and top Transco brass, probed the questions in detail.

Also present were representatives of the Department of Education, the State Board of Health, the Coastal Plains commission, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the U. S. Geological Survey, the Wildlife Resources Commission, Water and Air Resources Commission, federal officials from the Division of Community Services in Washington and others.

As Harrington pointed out, the facility, if built, would have impact on schools, community planning, transportation—in short, every phase of life in the area.

Environmental Problems And there are the environmental problems. Experts present agreed there would be potential for oil spillage at unloading and along the pipeline, and the firm would have to take extraordinary care to prevent them—or correct them when they occur.

Water from the Chowan River at the rate of 10 million gallons daily would be used, with three million gallons poured back in. Elaborate treatment methods were detailed, including even storage and treatment of rain water from the site.

But state officials would not say those plans were all right, calling for public hearings and further scientific study before permitting water which will be oily, salty, and will contain a number of minerals to be dumped back into the river unless adequate treatment is provided.

When in operation, the plant would convert 100,000 barrels of crude oil per day into 450 million cubic feet of natural gas. The smoke, steam, noise, gases escaping, water running through, side effects on the community—all were explored, and questions raised toward the possibility of the investment in North Carolina at a future time.

Strength For Today

LESSONS OF ADVERSITY

Many years ago a young doctor, setting up a practice in a small southern town, felt that his whole life was destined to be a failure when he lost his first patient, apparently because of a mistake in diagnosis. In complete discouragement he left town and resumed his practice in a swampy, unhealthy area some distance away where the people were in desperate need of a resident doctor.

As it turned out, this area brought him into contact with some unusual diseases and symptoms which gave him unparalleled opportunities for research. Over the years he worked out new techniques of treatment for these diseases which made his name known throughout the medical world.

Our best lessons are sometimes taught to us by our failures. The best opportunities frequently come to us not in the sunny days of success but after fate has given us what first appears to be some very heavy chastisement. Apparent punishment can indeed be blessing in disguise.

Feel Right At Home In Sweden

By JOHN CUNIFF

STOCKHOLM (AP) — When an American visits Sweden, he usually feels right at home. If you ask him why, he may well reply "so much seems so American."

That's easy to understand because Swedes have the reputation of being the "most Americanized" people in Europe. So much is done in the American way.

They live in a modern, even ultramodern, style, surrounded by budgets. Self-service stores, dispensers and supermarkets rapidly are replacing the little shops around the corner. They buy their clothes off the hook and they go for frozen dinners. Above all, an American has little difficulty in getting around. English is the second language.

And judged by the usual yardsticks for standard of living, Sweden more often than not ranks second only to the United States. It leads Europe, for example, in the numbers of cars, telephones, television sets, washing machines and freezers per thousand inhabitants.

But there are differences, and he longer one stays in Sweden, the more apparent they become.

Like the United States, Sweden is prosperous. The national per capita income, tops in Europe, was $3,695 in 1970 compared with $4,274 in the United States.

But it wasn't always so. During the latter half of the 19th century and until World War I, more than a million Swedes fled the poverty of Sweden, then mainly an agricultural society, and emigrated to America.

As a result of the industrial revolution, which came late to Sweden but took hold very fast, the country's people are in the main a rather uniform middle class of industrial workers, clerks and small tradesmen. In the 40 years from 1930, the percentage of the labor force engaged in agriculture has dropped from 36 per cent to only 7 per cent.

Inflation is an old story to the Swede—prices have risen about 60 per cent over the last 10 years—and prices are a shock even to visiting Americans with their own problems of high priced beef and shortages.

There are no food shortages in Sweden except as they are dictated by a household's budget. A pound of filet mignon costs from $7 to $9, ground beef about $2.50 and pork chops around $3 a pound. So it's no wonder that pea soup, baloney sausage, blood pudding and potatoes with herring have become Sweden's national dishes.

46ers Climb Peaks

By JON HALVORSEN Associated Press Writer KEENE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)

— From the summit of 4,098-foot Cascade Mountain, Harry Gamble's eyes took in a 50-mile view of the Adirondacks in northern New York. He admired the crystalline lakes, the thick forests and especially the mountains.

"Wish we could do it all over again," said Gamble, a small, white-haired figure in a red windbreaker.

"Yeah, Harry," said Glenn Fish, his husky, deeply tanned friend.

"Back to '21, I mean," Gamble added, recalling the year he climbed his first peak.

Gamble, who will be 74 in August, and Fish, 63, belong to the Adirondack 46ers, a mountain climbing club. The only requirement for membership is to hike up all 46 Adirondack peaks judged by an 1897 survey to be 4,000 feet or higher.

They achieved that goal together in July 1969, after both had retired. For Fish, a former certified public accountant in New York City who now lives along the Hudson River in Riparius, the feat took less than three years. He then became president of the 46ers, a post he left last May.

Gamble took a little longer. He climbed 5,344-foot Mt. Marcy, New York State's highest peak, in 1921, the same year he arrived in Pottersville. Nearly 50 years later, after he had turned over his hardware store to his son, he reached his 46th peak.

Now the inseparable companions climb for the fun of it and in all seasons — despite snowstorms, blackflies, the encroachments of age and the fretting of Gamble's wife. "She's the darndest worrier," he says.

"I figure golf is for old men," Gamble says. "Doesn't seem very tiring to me, walking around and hitting a ball." Fish gave up golf after he moved north because, he says, he couldn't find anyone to play 36 holes a day.

Since the two began hiking together in 1968, Fish has been urging Gamble to pause during the ascents and savor the "woods experience." But on the day they climbed Cascade last month with Fish's 32-year-old nephew and two other hikers, Harry moved at his usual speed. Skipping over mud and fallen trees, dodging boulders and humming "Red River Valley," he arrived at the summit a half-hour before Fish. Only Fish's nephew kept up with him.

But perhaps the most significant difference at all between the American and Swedish way of life is that Sweden above all is a thoroughly socialized country—perhaps the most advanced in this respect in the world.

And that means high taxes. Finance Minister Gunnar Straeng has boasted that Sweden leads the international league in taxes.

New Grassed Waterway

The Greenville Golf and Country Club is in the process of establishing a grassed waterway to remove surface water that runs off from adjacent land areas, according to Charles Whitaker, local soil conservationist.

Whitaker said that the grassed waterway is currently being shaped and seeded. He noted that prior to the shaping of the waterway, a ditch existed, that prevented golfers easy access with their mobile carts between the fourth, sixth and seventh holes.

He explained that 24-inch concrete pipe was installed in some 430 feet of the ditch and covered with soil. A drop pipe was installed at the end of the waterway to channel water into the ditch.

Whitaker said that the next stage in the development of the waterway is liming, fertilizing, seeding and mulching. The waterway will be seeded to a fescue-Bermuda grass mixture.

The Pitt Soil Conservation Service offered technical assistance in the waterway project.

Plants Reduce Level Of Noise

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Plants can help reduce noise levels, says Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Research has illustrated that properly designed landscape plantings can be used to deflect, absorb and mask excessive noise," Welch said. He said plantings 25 to 50 feet wide placed close to the noise source have been shown to reduce high frequency noise more than 50 per cent.

"That's all they do?" "Well, they also have to bat when it is their turn. Now watch. The pitcher has just thrown a ball."

"The man didn't try to hit the ball," Miss Mercouri said.

"No, he didn't, because the pitch was a ball."

"I know it was a ball. I can see."

"You don't understand. It was a bad ball."

"Why don't they play with good balls? I thought America was a rich country."

"They do play with good balls. But if the ball doesn't go over the plate, it's called a ball. Now look, he just hit a foul ball. That's a strike."

Miss Mercouri looked at Mr. Dassin incredulously. "A bad ball is a ball, and a foul ball is a strike? Why isn't a bad ball a foul ball? Tell me, who is on strike?"

"Nobody is on strike," Mr. Dassin said. "It's called a strike. Watch, you see, the man just hit a fly to center field."

"You saw a man hit a fly on television?" Miss Mercouri asked.

"Not a real fly. It's called a fly if it goes in the air."

"I want to see the Supreme Court," Miss Mercouri said.

"Wait a minute. The next batter is the best player on the team. Let's see what he does. Look, he just made a long drive into center field and he has a double."

"A double what?"

"Just a double. He has two bases."

"I don't see them," Miss Mercouri said.

"It's two up and two down and a man on second."

"Who's up and who's down?"

"Never mind. If they get one more out, they'll retire the side."

"Can we go sightseeing if they retire the side?"

"No, because then the other team is up at bat."

"It's a stupid game," Miss Mercouri said.

Mr. Dassin was getting desperate. Suddenly he thought of something. "Do you know, the best hitter on the Yankees is a Greek?"

For the first time Miss Mercouri took an interest in the game. "What's his name?"

"Micky Mantoupopoulos. They call him Mickey Mantle for short."

"Come on, Mickey Mantoupopoulos," Miss Mercouri shouted.

"Hit the foul ball over the home plate and show them you can double the bases with two up and two down and don't forget to retire the side!"

"That's it," Mr. Dassin said. "You're getting the hang of it. Now, isn't this better than sightseeing?"

"Are there any Greeks on the other side?" Miss Mercouri wanted to know.

"Just Willie Mays," Mr. Dassin said. "Just Willie Mays."

(Continued from page 2) Dr. Cott has become the country's pioneer in using orthomolecular psychiatry with children with learning disabilities. This treatment seeks to restore the proper balance in the body chemistry through heroci doses of the substances which the individual needs, largely by the use of the right substances in the right concentrations — substances which are normally present in the body.

After several months of large doses of certain vitamins and mineral supplements, depending on the individual child's needs, and with the elimination of "junk foods" from his diet, there are dramatic results in over 50 per cent of the children.

At the present time, there are between five and ten million normal children in our country who cannot learn. Parents and teachers will not deal successfully with this problem, says Dr. Cott, until they "address themselves to the state of the child's nutrition."

Prosperity Finds The Wheat Farmer

By RICHARD LARIMORE
Associated Press Writer
WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP) — A record Kansas wheat crop coupled with all-time high wheat prices have combined to bring unexpected prosperity to wheat farmers.

Sumner County, one of the largest producers of hard winter wheat in the nation, harvested 15.56 million bushels this year for a record average yield of 40 bushels per acre.

After years of selling their wheat for around $1.50 a bushel, or less, the county's farmers are realizing triple that amount. At one point earlier this month, wheat prices passed the $5 a bushel mark.

One small farmer, Elmer Headley, said he had paid all his bills after harvest for the first time in 23 years, and still has a third of his wheat left unsold. Others report they made more money on the first half of their crop this year than they did all last year.

Farmers all over Sumner County are buying expensive equipment, paying off loans and building cash reserves for the bad wheat year they know will come somewhere down the line.

As John Trower put it, the wheat has allowed us to "kind of get caught up." Trower used payments for half his 1973 crop to pay off loans on land and is holding the rest until next year.

Elevator operators estimated that a fourth of the wheat harvested here remains to be sold as farmers wait, hoping for even higher wheat prices.

Hubert Sawyer, vice president of the First National Bank, said many farmers had sold just enough wheat to pay bank notes and were gambling the rest on the wheat market. Sawyer said a tremendous amount of wheat had been sold on contract for Jan. 1, 1974, and then "there's going to be a ton of money in this area compared to last year."

"I feel they're in a heck of a good position right now," Sawyer said.

Sumner County had 387,000 acres seeded in wheat this year, a 10 per cent increase over 1972.

Merle Frame, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service agent, said he estimates another 10 to 15 per cent increase in acreage because of the lifting of the government allotment limitations.

Grant Warns Of Large Profits

RALEIGH (AP)—Editor Marse Grant of the Biblical Recorder told Raleigh Jaycees Tuesday if liquor by the drink is approved in North Carolina, some restaurant operators will reap "almost unbelievable profits."

"Assuming the dispenser of liquor buys it for about $5 a fifth and sells it for $1.50 a drink, this gross profit of 500 per cent," Grant said in a prepared talk.

He added that liquor by the drink would be a departure from a "no personal profit" system on liquor that has served us well since 1935.

Degree Program Being Prepared For Marines

CAMP LEJEUNE — Marines at Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point will be able to attend school on their bases and obtain a college degree if a new four-year program being developed by East Carolina University is approved.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of East Carolina University and General W.J. Wilkerson, Commanding General, Camp Lejeune Marine Base, announced plans for the new program at a news conference Wednesday at Camp Lejeune. Dr. Jenkins said that East Carolina University plans to offer a Bachelor of Arts degree with concentrations possible either in the arts and letters or in the social sciences, but he said the final details of the degrees must be approved by the ECU Faculty Senate and the University System Board of Governors.

"We have every reason to believe that this new four-year program will be approved and will get underway during the 1973-74 academic year," he said. East Carolina University began offering undergraduate work at the two marine bases during the late 1950's. Since the beginning of the program, over 19,000 marines have taken collegiate work at Camp Lejeune and over 14,000 at the Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station.

At the present time East Carolina University enrolls more active duty marines in collegiate academic programs than any other institution in the country.

"Making a total degree program available is certainly a logical step in extending the campus of East Carolina University to the people of the state — both military and civilians," Dr. Jenkins said.

Fate Of Rock Festival Now In Hands Of Judge

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The fate of a Labor Day weekend rock festival rests for the moment in the hands of a federal judge who is to decide this afternoon whether the matter will be sent back to a state court.

Gov. Winfield Dunn, meanwhile, has vowed to "use all

Seven Named To Advisory Group

RALEIGH (AP)—State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel announced Tuesday the appointment of a seven-member State Advisory Council on Occupational Safety and Health which will advise him on administration of the new Occupational Safety and Health Act.

Named to the council as representatives of the public were Dr. Larry Royster of Raleigh; Bill Silver of Charlotte; and Luke Ellenwood of Greensboro. Named as industry representatives were: Art Weiner of Greensboro and Colon Prestwood of Lenoir. Named to represent organized labor were: A.B. Dixon of Charlotte and Ralph Durham of Greensboro.

the facilities that we have at our command," to back up the state's denial of a permit for the festival planned for a 500-acre farm near Benton in southeast Tennessee.

Festival promoters, faced with steadfast opposition from state and local authorities, took the matter to U.S. District Court here Tuesday. They argued before Judge Frank Wilson that the state was violating the constitutional rights of rock music fans.

The proceeding delayed a scheduled state court hearing on Dist. Atty. Richard Fisher's petition for an injunction against the festival.

Fisher contends that the festival, if allowed to proceed, would constitute a nuisance. Fisher and the state Health Department, which last week denied an application for a health permit, say the promoters, C. C. Manifest, Inc., of Evansville, Ind., cannot meet health and safety requirements.

The promoters took the matter into federal court, claiming the state's injunction proceedings "on its face attempts a prior restraint of not only the rights of the petitioners but of rock concert-going citizens of the United States and performers thereto of their right to peaceably assemble and exercise their freedom of speech..."

During the hearing Tuesday, C. Hayes Cooney, an assistant attorney general, told the court the state wants to introduce films and pictures taken at other rock festivals to show why such an event should not be allowed in Tennessee.

"We were prepared to call in state court witnesses from New York, Georgia and other places—all of whom have been exposed to rock festivals before," Cooney said.

'Peoples Day' For Greensboro

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser will go to Greensboro Friday to hold his monthly Peoples Day.

The governor will be available from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Guilford County Courthouse to confer with persons who wish to talk over their problems with the governor.

Arrest Trio For Slayings

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Three youths were arrested Tuesday and charged with Saturday morning's slayings of a young man and a girl who worked at a hamburger drive-in. Detectives said they believed attempted robbery was the motive.

Police Maj. A.J. Gilleland said a rifle linked to one of the youths, Rich Gordon, had been found in an apartment next to his. Gilleland said the rifle had been identified by state ballistics experts in Raleigh as the one that killed Sharon Denise Williams, 17, and Stephen Charles Helton, 20, at a Burger Chef Drive-In.

Charged with two counts of first-degree murder along with the 19-year-old Gordon were Ronnie Young, 16, and Charles Zachary McCain, 20, also of Charlotte. Police indicated an informer led them to the three.

Funeral services for Helton were held Tuesday at Faith Baptist Church in Lincoln County. He was buried in the church cemetery. Miss Williams was buried in Charlotte Monday.

They were slain a week before two other persons were shot to death in a robbery in Charlotte. These victims were a security guard and a night clerk at a motel. No arrests have been made in this case.

Selected Entry For Crab Derby

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser officially proclaimed "Lord Carteret" as the winner of the third annual North Carolina Hard Crab Derby by Tuesday.

"Lord Carteret," who was sponsored by Luther Lewis and Son of Davis, will now go to Crisfield, Md., for the 26th annual National Hard Crab Derby.

"Lord Carteret," jockeyed by James Paul Lewis, won the derby here by racing from the center of a circle to its rim in only four seconds.

Warns Second Wave Of Base Closings Soon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has told the armed services to prepare for possible new base closings and cutbacks before next year's congressional elections.

This would be the second wave of base slashes in about a year.

The Pentagon last April shut, reduced or consolidated 274 installations in 32 states at a claimed savings of $3.5 billion over the next 10 years.

The Pentagon last April shut, reduced or consolidated 274 installations in 32 states at a claimed savings of $3.5 billion over the next 10 years.

Since then, Congress has been cracking down hard on defense money requests for new weapons and one key committee has voted to cut the armed forces by 156,000 men below what the Nixon administration has planned for the post-Vietnam era.

Pentagon sources said Schlesinger has directed the Army, Navy and Air Force to review their base requirements and to send him a list of expendable installations by mid-

December. Congress will have finished work on the defense budget by then, and Pentagon leaders will know where they stand.

Sources said Schlesinger had not given the services any specific guidelines in determining which bases should be closed. The number could run into the hundreds, and probably would include some overseas. There are 451 major bases in the United States and 323 abroad.

Any new base closings and cutbacks probably would be announced early in 1974 when the next budget goes to Capitol Hill but would not take effect until after the voters pick their representatives and senators in November next year.

Congressmen can be expected to fight the loss of bases in their states, and the jobs that go with them.

But Schlesinger has shown signs he intends to be tough in dealing with Congress, an attitude reminiscent of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Set Construction Of New Hardee's

Construction is expected to start within the next two weeks on Hardee's third fast-food restaurant in Greenville, according to district manager Art Haggis.

Haggis said that the new facility will be located on Cotanche Street between Tenth and Ninth Streets. The restaurant will have two driveways on Cotanche as well as an entrance on Ninth and access through Stadium Cleaners parking lot on Tenth.

The district manager noted that the new Hardee's will be almost identical in building design to the other two restaurants operated by the chain here and will have seating accommodations for 100 persons. The latest innovations in equipment will be utilized in the Cotanche Street facility, he added.

Haggis, pointing out that the lot has already been cleared in preparation for construction, said that Hardee's hopes to be in the new restaurant within 90 days after work begins.

Wayne Barber of Greenville, who is currently employed by Hardee's here, will be the manager of the new restaurant, Haggis reported.

Hardee's operates restaurants on E. Tenth Street and Greenville Boulevard. A third facility on 14 Street was gutted by fire earlier this year and will not be reopened.

Spacecraft In The Astrobelt

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — The Jupiter-bound spacecraft Pioneer 11 has begun a seven-month journey through the 56-million-mile-wide astrobelt, the Ames Research Center reports.

Launched last April, Pioneer 11 is now one-third of the way on its 620-million mile trip to Jupiter. It is expected to reach there in early December of 1974, the center said.

Pioneer 10 crossed the astrobelt last year and now is 50 million miles from Jupiter.

The flight through the astrobelt, begun by Pioneer 11 last Saturday and expected to last to March 12, will send the spacecraft through thousands of asteroids hurtling around the sun.

Red China Leaders Hold Secret Talks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
China's Communist leaders have just held some sort of important meeting in Peking, and whatever was on the agenda it's a good bet that fear and suspicion of the Soviet Union is inspiring the regime to get its political house in order.

With Moscow pouring on the heat, Peking probably considers it no longer advisable to continue—as it has for two years—without a defense minister, with gaping holes in upper levels of the military establishment, with gaps in the upper party strata and without fixed guidelines for the succession to aged Mao Tse-tung.

All this year the Russians have been carrying on a propaganda campaign against the pragmatists under Premier Chou En-lai, who have been running China. While the Chinese have been answering back, their retorts have seemed less violent than the attacks.

Even while the big meeting was in session in Peking last week, Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party chief, went out of his way to make serious charges against the Peking regime.

He accused it of a policy "founded on fanatical anti-Sovietism and subversive activity against the socialist countries," and, in fact, of interfering in those countries' affairs.

This was the same Moscow regime which laid down the doctrine that it had a right to intervene with force in any situation where "socialism" was endangered.

The Chinese illustrated on Tuesday how aware they are of the possibilities in that attitude. On the fifth anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, China's United Nations mission circulated a paper entitled, "The longer the occupation, the tighter the noose."

It said Moscow had increased its occupation troops in Czechoslovakia and was still ruthlessly suppressing the Czechoslovak people. Peking has made no secret of its fear that Moscow might try one day to apply that doctrine to China, perhaps with a "surgical" strike against China's developing nuclear weapons system.

Meanwhile, there's a lot of patching to be done. The purges following the downfall of Lin Piao, once successor to Mao Tse-tung, left not only the defense ministry vacant, but also top army and navy posts and key aviation and logistics ones. In the ruling party Politburo, only 13 members remain of the 21 named in 1969, and only half a dozen are really active. The Politburo's inner circle "standing committee" of five now has only three—Mao, Chou and Kang Sheng. Mao, nearing 80, is receding more and more to the background and Kang, 73, has been ailing. That leaves the 75-year-old Chou practically alone in the exercise of political power.

If the party now is preparing to fill the gaps and perhaps ready the National People's Congress that was derailed by the Lin purge, it can be taken as an indication that Chou's people have carried the day against their critics and achieved some political stability. They may now want to move fast, if only because of the Soviet attitude.

Textile Industry Sees Raw Cotton Shortage

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The textile industry has asked the government to license cotton exports, saying a critical shortage of raw cotton threatens consumers with price increases totaling hundreds of millions of dollars.

The assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs, Carroll G. Brunthaver, promptly rejected the idea. He said there will be no cotton shortage, although prices will rise.

Brunthaver commented Tuesday on a letter to Secretary Earl L. Butz from Donald Comer Jr., president of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute.

Comer said the price of cotton contracts on commodity markets has increased more than 150 per cent since last October, reaching the highest level since the Civil War.

"The unprecedented cotton supply and price situation is complicated and magnified enormously for our mills by Phase 4 rules and regulations that are creating great difficulties and pricing uncertainties," he said.

"The combination of these factors is generating near panic in our industry, and the marketing system, in a great many instances, has ground to a halt.

It is only a matter of time before production and employment will be affected—in fact, we have been advised of some slowdowns already."

Comer did not spell out how the proposed export licensing system should work. He said a detailed recommendation would be drawn up at a cotton industry meeting in Dallas, Tex., Friday.

"We basically reject the idea," said Brunthaver. "The President has indicated quite clearly that we are not in favor of restricting exports."

"The mills have excellent contacts in the field," he said. "It is their responsibility to acquire the cotton stocks they need."

"The price of raw cotton has moved up," Brunthaver conceded. "I don't know how much cotton there is in a shirt, but there will be some increase to reflect this increased cost."

Comer said worldwide demand for cotton is at a record high, exports from some other cotton-producing countries have been restricted, Japan is buying up cotton with large holdings of devalued dollars and Mainland China is importing U.S. cotton to make up for a poor crop.

The Pentagon was completed in 1943 at a cost of about $83 million.

Indict 2 In BIA Thefts

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted two Indians Tuesday on charges of receiving property they knew was stolen from the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) in Washington.

The two, both from the Maxton area, are Keever Locklear and Dock Locklear, members of the Eastern Carolina Tuscarora Indian Organization.

Indicted with them was William Sargent of Los Angeles, a leader in the American Indian Movement (AIM), who was living in the Maxton area when federal agents recovered nearly four tons of BIA documents and materials in the area last April. U.S. Atty. Thomas McNamara of Raleigh said at the time that the documents apparently were among those taken from the BIA building in Washington last November during its occupation by Indians.

The three are to be arraigned in U.S. District Court in Fayetteville on Sept. 10.

The grand jury indicted Leroy Gibson, head of the segregationist Rights of White People, on a charge of bombing the United We Stand bookstore in his hometown of Jacksonville, N.C.

Gibson, a retired Marine sergeant, also was indicted on charges of unlawful possession of firearms not registered to him, and of possession of an explosive device. McNamara said he is to be tried at the October term of U.S. District Court in New Bern.

Diplomat Left After Unveiling

NEW YORK (AP)—The Russian diplomat seized last month with an Air Force sergeant who is now charged with espionage has been identified in court papers as Viktor Chernyshev, first secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Diplomatic sources said Chernyshev, who claimed diplomatic immunity, left the United States Aug. 15 for "reassignment."

Chernyshev and Sgt. James D. Wood, 35, of Tacoma, Wash. were taken into custody July 21 after their alleged espionage rendezvous on a street corner in Queens.

Wood, a special agent of the Air Force Office of Special Investigations with access to highly classified material, was charged last Friday with espionage and violations of U.S. military law.

Tuesday said Wood "had on his person numerous 3-5 inch index cards containing what appeared to be names written in Russian."

"A further investigation of the material contained on these cards revealed it would be highly vital to the security of the United States and to the national defense."

Sources close to the case speculated that the cards contained names of Russians supplying information to U.S. intelligence. Their covers blown, such informants would become useless to the United States.

Gannets are among most graceful of birds, fish-eaters who dive for prey at high speed from hundreds of feet up.

Sightseeing boat, above, brings visitors to observe colony, to land and explore Bonaventure.

Gannet puts landing gear down, flattens rudder, ready to alight.

Bonaventure is a small island, off the easternmost tip of the Gaspé Peninsula in the province of Quebec, Canada. It's distinguished by being the nesting place for the largest colony of gannets anywhere in the world. These large, strikingly-marked diving birds, sometimes called sea geese, were almost exterminated from the island a hundred years ago by egg hunters and vandals. Now there are estimated to be 60,000 of them on their rocky haven, Bonaventure, one of several bird sanctuaries in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Bonaventure is one of the most accessible of these bird sanctuaries—regularly visited by sightseers from the mainland during the tourist season.

Poles Restoring Old Royal Castle

POLES and non-Poles around the reconstruction of Warsaw's 18th century Royal Castle. (UPI Telephoto)

By HOWARD A. TYNER
WARSAW (UPI) — Warsaw's 18th Century Royal Castle, which survived 200 years of occupations, uprisings and battles before it succumbed to Nazi bombs 30 years ago, is rising anew from the ruins.

The old baroque structure— for generations of Polish people a symbol of the freedom and independence of their country—is being rebuilt thanks to contributions from Poles and non-Poles throughout the world. Even President Nixon donated $100.

"Sentiments attached to this building obviously cut across all borders," said Prof. Stanislaw Lorentz, the bouncy, 75-year-old Polish National Museum director and project director.

Poland's last king lived in the castle in the 1700's and until 1939 the Polish president had his residence there in the vaulted, three-story palace overlooking the Vistula River on the edge of Warsaw's Old Town District.

The Germans made a special point of destroying the Royal Castle during the 1939-44 occupation. After the war Polish leaders rejected reconstruction proposals as too expensive for the war-damaged nation.

Up To The People

However, when the present Communist Party First Secretary, Edward Gierek, came to power in December, 1970, after a series of riots, one of his first acts of conciliation was to approve plans to rebuild the castle.

"He even told me the state would pay," Prof. Lorentz said. "But I told him no. The Royal Castle stands for what many people have fought for and no state or party or government should pay for it. The people must do it."

Gierek agreed and the decision was a wise one. Few non-political developments in postwar Poland have attracted so much interest among the world's many far-flung Polish communities.

The Polish News agency PAP said donations, queries and letters of encouragement had come from 80 countries, along with contributions of $250,000.

Yard-thick Walls

At home, the Polish people have given 300 million zloties ($15 million).

Engineers are constructing the "new" castle from the 18th-Century plans, although the yard-thick walls will conceal such modern conveniences as air conditioning, central heating and electrical wiring.

"But anyone who might remember back to the original building wouldn't spot the differences," said Prof. Lorentz, who has devoted most of the past 30 years to planning the castle's restoration.

Construction began in 1971 and outside walls are to be finished by 1974. The schedule calls for interiors to be opened to the public in 1978, but some problems may delay that date.

"Can't Wait Forever"
"There are simply not enough specialists around to handle this sort of job," said Mieczyslaw Samborski, an architect working on the project.

"We have literally thousands of people volunteering to help build the castle, but we have to turn them away because what we need now are professionals in restorations."

But if some people have doubts about whether the castle will be finished by 1978, Prof. Lorentz is not among them.

"I will celebrate my 80th birthday in 1978 and I expect the building to be done then," he said. "I can't wait around forever."

What It's Like On Both Sides Of A Store Counter

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rising food prices and shortages of some items have caused headaches for shoppers and supermarket workers alike. To get a look at the situation, an AP reporter, Lynne Olson, spent two days this month at a suburban Washington food store. Here's her report from both sides of the counter.

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer
FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP)—The young woman in red and blue shorts raced to the meat counter, grabbed seven sirloin steaks without a glance at the price tags, dumped them in a shopping cart and issued an order to her 3-year-old daughter: Guard it.

In a flash, the woman was off, darting into the aisles in search of other goods. The little blonde clung to the cart, her bulging eyes daring anyone to come close to the treasure of meat.

A few feet away, Juniata Smith, meat wrapper and delicatessen manager of the Safeway on Lee Highway, watched the scene with smiles.

"Well, it's just another typical day at Safeway," she chuckled.

The shortage of beef and soaring costs of food have added a new element to the bustling and often bizarre world of the American supermarket. The new element is suspense.

It was obvious in two days of people watching at the Safeway market in this Washington suburb, which serves a range of customers from welfare mothers on food stamps to wives of government employes from surrounding middle- and upper-middle-class housing developments.

For shoppers, it's walking in the door without knowing how prices have jumped since their last visits or whether they'll be able to buy meat.

For employes, it's whether there's enough meat to sell and what the customers will say if there isn't. If there is beef, there still is the anticipation of comments on its prices and customers' reactions at the checkout counter when their bills are totaled.

The action has been at the meat counter these days at the Safeway on Lee Highway.

On a recent day, the counter was lined with steaks at $2 a pound and up; pork chops at $2.13 a pound; chickens at 93 cents a pound and fish at 79 cents a pound.

There was a gaping hole, however, in the section marked ground beef, at $1.29 a pound. A sign perched on the rail: "We are short of beef in our display cases because we have been unable to purchase USDA beef at the packers' beef price ceilings...."

The shoppers, most of them young mothers in shorts and elderly women in print dresses, wandered slowly by the counter, shaking their heads and laughing in disbelief at the prices.

Mrs. Carl Bates, who bought the seven sirloins for $28, said: "My husband told me to be here at 10 o'clock to buy steaks. He's from the farm, and he likes to eat. We don't even have a freezer. We had to throw out ice cubes and waffles in our refrigerator's freezer to make room."

As the shoppers continued their slow procession past the counter, Mrs. Smith wrapped pork chops and put them on an automatic conveyor belt that weighed and labeled them.

"Most of the customers don't ask any questions," she said. "They treat it as joke and accept it as an unpleasant fact of life. But they won't be smiling after the beef freeze is lifted. All the meats will probably go up another 10 to 20 cents a pound. Pork chops went up 30 cents in the past week."

Wiping her hands on her bloodstained apron, the tall, grey-haired woman added: "But high prices don't bother me. I don't cook at home because it's too expensive. I eat out most of the time."

Earl Blaes, the meat cutter, came out of the back room with a tray of pork chops. "We overbought on pork," he announced. "We didn't expect to get this much meat."

"There can be a lot of frustration in this business," he said. "People still expect old-fashioned butcher service—special cuts, that sort of thing. Well, we're so busy we can't always give them special service any more."

"It's funny how people try to rely on me. Old women will ask me questions about cooking meat. Or they'll ask me to pick something out for them. I guess it tastes better because their meat cutter chose it."

"And then there are always people like the lady who called me up to the cash register and asked me if there was horse meat in her ground beef. I said no. Then she asked me to look her straight in the eye and repeat that. I felt idiotic, but what else could I do?"

Generally, the customers and the store's 35 employes get along well, despite frustration over higher food costs.

"I like to see my employes treat customers right," said manager Bob White. "It pays off. They come back."

He added, "I was sure with the meat situation and all that we'd hear lots of complaints. But we haven't. I guess they realize the prices are not really the store's fault.

"High prices have become an everyday thing, like talking about the weather. It's something people have got to live with."

For the most part, shoppers agreed.

After paying $56 for a week's worth of groceries for his family, Frank J. Demarest said, "I'm resigned to it. I suppose I shouldn't be, but what can I do? Nothing, absolutely nothing."

"Sure, I'm angry. But what can I do," said a woman nearby. That comment was heard often.

Harvey Langlais, the father of six children, said what he's going to do is never vote for another Republican presidential candidate. The reason is the family's weekly $110 food bill.

"Nixon was the first Republican I voted for, and he's just messed everything up. Why did he have to sell wheat to Russia when we need it so badly here?"

"I've never seen so many people mad at Nixon as people in this supermarket," said Bob Hall, manager of the meat department.

The Langlais, like many others, are stocking up on certain items before prices go even higher.

Many people also are planting home gardens.

"We sold every packet of vegetable seeds on the seed rack this year," said Steve Tyson, a produce worker. "Now, things are slack. Sales of vegetables have dropped off considerably in the past few weeks."

Many customers also said they were buying the cheaper house brands of vegetables and fruits. The store encourages that by prominent display of house brands in the front of the store and in the aisles.

Sales have been slow in recent weeks, and profit has been low, said manager White. The store wasn't crowded, even on Saturday, the busiest day of the week.

"Most of the problem has to do with meat," White said. "People won't come as often when they can't get meat. You get discouraged when sales are down, but I think it's going to get better. At least, I hope."

Will prices ever go down? "With expenses soaring every day—including overhead and salaries—I don't see how prices can possibly go down," White replied.

"I've been a store manager for nine years, and I've never seen things as confused as they are now. A few years ago, I could tell you the price of almost everything in the store. Now, without checking the book, there's no way I could tell you. I'm much more involved now in trying to keep up with everything."

While he talked, employes sat on wooden Safeway boxes in the back room, eating their lunches of cottage cheese and chicken.

They discussed how customers were pushing food prices even higher with acts of carelessness and shoplifting.

Inge Kunner, a checker, described the shoplifting that goes on "right under our noses."

"I'm always finding wrappings from cosmetics and medicine," she said. "People just put the products in their purses and pockets."

"Then there are the people who change labels on food so they pay for a cheaper item," said Mrs. Smith. "There was the lady who brought back a pound of bacon after eating half of it. She said it tasted too piggy."

"And then there was the woman who ate the lean meat on a ham and brought back the fat and bones. She said it was too fat."

She shook her head. "I just don't believe what people do sometimes. It's a crazy business."

Opines Interest In Group Violence Has Seen End Of Its Era

By ROBERT MEDEIROS
Associated Press Writer
WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—"Public interest over group violence has diminished," the director of The Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence says in explaining the planned shutdown of the center.

"I think it is fairly safe to say it is now an end of an era," said John P. Spiegall, the center's director. "The violence of the '60s may very well have begun with the assassination of John Kennedy and ended with the Kent State killings."

Kennedy was assassinated in 1963 and four Kent State students were killed during an anti-war demonstration in 1970.

The center at Brandeis University, set up to study such incidents of public violence, is phasing out its operations and will close at the end of the year.

"Public interest over group violence has diminished since 1971, and the interests of our staff, including myself, have shifted to the non-violent acts of social conflict," Spiegall said in an interview.

"Acts of group violence don't spread and become mass phenomenon as they did in the 1960s. They remain localized and contained, and in that sense we're living in different times."

Spiegall said one reason for this containment is that authorities have become more sophisticated in dealing with mass confrontations.

these things," he said. "Today, authorities are more likely to compromise when dealing with a group of protestors rather than turning the police loose. In fact, police don't want to be called to the scene of a demonstration unless it's a last resort."

He also cited the termination of the Vietnam war and the presence of more solidly organized protest groups.

"The more organized a protest group, the less likely it is to become involved in spontaneous violence. Protest leaders want to obtain their goals with as little violence as possible," he said.

The research center, the only one of its kind in the country, was organized in 1966 following an outbreak of racial disturbances in the nation's cities. A report issued by the center in 1971 identified the underlying causes of these racial disturbances as being social inequalities and injustices.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are steady to $1.00 higher today. Tops of $6.50-57.50 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; $5.50-56.00 Rocky Mount; $4.50-55.00 Tarboro and Bethel; $6.50 Mount Olive; $3.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock brokers: Market tone firm, supplies adequate for a generally good demand. Weight trending heavy.

North Carolina hens: Market generally steady supplies of every type barely adequate for a fair demand. Heavies, at farm, 32 cents per pound; f.o.b. plants too few to report prices.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market skidded again today, and brokers attributed the decline to Wall Street's persistent worry that the White House was paying too much attention to politics and not enough to the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which lost almost 10 points Tuesday to touch its lowest level in 20 months, was down 3.23 more to 854.61 at 11.30 a.m.

Declines held more than a 2 to 1 edge over advances in very slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off 18 to 53.89 at 11 a.m.

The downward drift also was evident on the American Stock Exchange, where the price change index was off .03 to 22.77.

British Petroleum, the Big Board volume leader, was up 1/4 to 14.

But most oils were lower, depressed in part by a negative assessment by some analysts quoted Tuesday in the Wall Street Journal. Exxon was down 1/4 to 88 3/4; Standard of California off 1/4 to 61 1/2; Standard of Indiana down 1/4 to 76 3/4; and Texaco down 1/4 to 28 3/4.

National Cash Register gained 1 to 33 3/4 after a relatively favorable Journal appraisal of its point-of-sale terminals. IBM, which recently unveiled its entry in the point-of-sale market, was up 1/2 to 298 1/4.

Greenville Given Plaque For Pedestrian Safety

Greenville has been given special recognition for its efforts to prevent pedestrian traffic accidents during 1972 by the Carolina Motor Club and the American Automobile Association.

The award was based on a report submitted in the AAA's 34th annual pedestrian safety inventory by Greenville.

According to Brooks, the special pedestrian citation is designed to give recognition to communities with outstanding pedestrian safety programs, which includes an evaluation of their accident records system, specific pedestrian control legislation, enforcement of pedestrian and driver behavior, traffic engineering service for pedestrians, community traffic safety coordination, school traffic safety and public information education.

School Bd. Will Sue To Recover 'Impact' Funds

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Representatives of 13 states met in Chicago last week to prepare for filing suits challenging the federal government's withholding of funds voted by Congress for schools in impacted areas.

Durkan said in an interview that he met with representatives of 13 states in Chicago in preparation for the suits.

The suits are concerned with Public Law 874, which provides that federal installations which pay no state property taxes will make certain contributions to local taxing districts, in this case the school districts.

The Cumberland County Board of Education voted Monday night to file suit seeking to recover $401,000 the school district lost in a cutback of impact funds. Students from Ft. Bragg and Pope Air Force Base near Fayetteville attend Cumberland County schools.

David Barnhill, Guidance Counselor at Rose High School, has asked that all certified bus drivers for Rose High meet with him Thursday morning.

For decades, the statue has been visible at night throughout the city.

Over 200 Employers At Lejeune Job Fair

CAMP LEJUNE — The East Carolina University Regional Development Institute reports that over 200 employers presented job opportunities

Wednesday to more than 3,000 discharged or soon to be discharged servicemen attending the state's second annual Job Fair at Camp Lejeune.

Bill Minette, Job Fair coordinator with the Regional Development Institute, described the fair as "the largest ever conducted in the state."

Mojave Desert Primitive Art Is Being Lost

By JAMES K. STALEY Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's Mojave Desert is a giant treasure chest of primitive art. But federal officials report it is being lost to an army of vandals with highspeed drills, jack hammers and bulldozers.

prehistoric art in the caves of France and Spain when they have the greatest display in their own backyard," Eastvold said. "The Mohave Desert alone has more prehistoric art than any other place in the entire world."

"We had employers attending the fair from as far away as California, Wyoming, Ohio and Massachusetts," he said.

General W.J. Wilkerson, Commanding General of the Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune officially opened the fair Wednesday morning. Also participating in the opening ceremonies were General John J. Tolson, N. C. Department of Military and Veteran Affairs; Irving Peltz, President's Committee on Jobs for Veterans; and Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor, East Carolina University.

Thanks largely to the popularity of four-wheel drive and other off-road vehicles, Isaac "Ike" Eastvold said vandals are destroying or removing the ancient rock carvings of the desert at a rate that will destroy virtually all of them within 15 years.

"At the present rate of destruction, 80 per cent will be gone in 15 years. The ones left will be so badly mutilated we won't have to worry about interpretive or protective programs," he said.

The fair was sponsored jointly by Camp Lejeune, the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute, the Veterans Administration and the N. C. Employment Security Commission.

In some cases, the carvings are more than 5,000 years old, said Eastvold, who has been conducting a photographic inventory of the desert "petroglyphs"—or stone carvings—for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

He said museums, universities and public agencies contribute to the vandalism problem by publishing the locations of the Indian rock carvings. There are more than 1,000 sites in the Mojave alone, he said.

Back-To-School Party Thursday

The Greenville Recreation Department will hold its annual "Back-to-School Ice Cream Bingo Party" for Greenville kids Thursday, at 7:00 p.m.

During the 13 months he has been working on the survey, about one-fourth of the carvings he has photographed already have disappeared, Eastvold said in an interview Tuesday.

BLM spokesman Jerry Harrell said that while it is against federal law to damage or remove the petroglyphs he cannot remember the last case to be prosecuted.

The event will take place at three locations; at the Elm Street Center, South Greenville Center and West Greenville Center.

Top Guns Won't Play Right Away

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CARY, N.C. (AP) — The L&M Open begins Thursday, but Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf and the other big guns don't get into action until Saturday in the unique format set up for pro golf's only doubleheader.

Nicklaus, Trevino and Weiskopf are among the eight exempt players who will compete in the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship to be played simultaneously and on the same course with the final two rounds of the L&M.

This is the way it works: The L&M is a regular, 72-hole stroke play event offering a total purse of $100,000. It will be played Thursday through Sunday on the 6,786-yard, par-71 MacGregor Downs Golf and Country Club course.

Saturday and Sunday, on the same course, the $150,000 Match Play tournament will be held with 16 players competing for a $40,000 first prize.

Two rounds of Match Play will be held each day, sandwiched around the final two rounds of the stroke play tournament.

Eight players are exempt for the Match Play. They are Nicklaus, the defending champion and PGA titleholder; Johnny Miller, U.S. Open champion; and the next four men off the 1972 money-winning list. These are Trevino, George Archer, Jerry Heard, and Grier Jones.

After 36 holes of play in the L&M, the eight players with the best two-round scores will drop out of that stroke play event and join the field for the richer Match Play tournament.

Since the format didn't make provision for exemptions based on this season's performance—except in the Big Four tournaments—Arnold Palmer and Bruce Crampton, who has taken four titles and leads the season's money winning list, aren't eligible except through qualifying in the L&M. They decided to skip the whole affair.

Among the leading players in the 144-man field for the L&M are defending champion Lou Graham; Lanny Wadkins, who scored his second victory of the season last week in the USI Classic; and Frank Beard, runner-up to Nicklaus in the Match Play last year.

New Citadel Coach Sets Title As Goal

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

A certain amount of inexperience, plus a new defensive system and a new coach combine to make The Citadel somewhat of a question mark in the Southern Conference this year.

The Bulldogs have a new coach in Bobby Ross, whose college credits include assistantships at VMI, William & Mary, Rice and Maryland. He replaces Red Parker, who has moved on to become the head coach at Clemson University. Parker was a firm believer in the veer offense, and Ross will follow in his footsteps in this, leaving little to be changed on the offensive unit.

But the defense of Ross will be different. Parker used a 50 Monster defense last year, while Ross prefers the wide tackle six. And to do the job, he's made a lot of shifts in the Citadel personnel.

The Bulldogs are also shy on experience. Four offensive and six defensive starters return, and as stated, most of these on defense have new jobs.

During his first drills, in the spring, Ross had to learn what he had, and he found that somewhat difficult too. There were several players missing, including last year's quarterback, Harry Lynch.

"He was suspended from school the day I got there," Ross said. "That was quite a welcome." Lynch, however, was allowed to return during summer school and meet certain requirements for his continuing at The Citadel.

Another blow came when flanker Ricky Crosby injured a knee during the spring and underwent surgery. It didn't take, however, and in early August, Crosby underwent the knife again, and his future in football is uncertain.

Still, Ross set three goals for his team: to beat Clemson in the opener, to win the Southern Conference championship and to have an overall winning record.

Meeting these goals will not be easy. "I know we're asking a lot, but you have to set your goals high," Ross said. "We're not being unreasonable. We're capable of being a representative team."

Besides Crosby, Ross got a look at tight end Eddie Westervelt and tackle Buddy Parrish on the offense this spring. Defensively, guard Tom Leitner, tackle Jim Roberts, linebacker David Holt, halfbacks Chip Dellinger and Carl Startzman, and safety Rusty Holt return.

The quarterbacking slot, with Lynch missing, fell into the laps of Gene Dotson and Rod Lanning. While both are inexperienced, Ross emphasizes that Lynch will have to win his job back from them, and won't just step in as the first string signal caller.

Dotson was a receiver last year, and together with the uncertain status of Crosby, this leaves the receiver position somewhat muddled. Westervelt will probably hold the tight end spot, while Bob Willis may step in for Crosby at flanker. Rick Myatt, a junior, appears likely to start at split end.

A key to any success Citadel might have offensively, may be the line. It must be almost completely rebuilt as only Parrish returns. Parrish, along with tackle Oren Wood and center Robert Driggers (who moved from guard) were the only lettermen who worked in the spring. Mark DiBois, switched from defense, and Jerald Snow could be the guards. Another candidate is Randy Roerop who missed the spring because of back surgery.

The backfield, aside from the quarterback situation, isn't settled at all. Billy Paine, who saw a good deal of action last year as a reserve, appears to be the top man among the running backs. A pair of sophomores, Lonnie Gibson and Andrew Johnson, also have fine speed. From them will come the backs, and Ross feels that the Bulldogs could be good here, despite the relative inexperience.

In the defensive line, there is more experience, but some new positions. End Mike Dean has moved to tackle. Roberts returns to the other tackle position, while middle guard Leitner moves in as one of two guards. The other guard will probably be Tony Cicoria, who was a reserve tackle last year. Jim Eaves, a defensive rover last year, and Ellis Johnson, a transfer from Army, will be the ends.

"Although we'll be playing a new defense and several of the players will be using new techniques, this could be our strongest point. We do have experience here and some depth," Ross said.

The linebacking involves some restructuring. Looper, David Holt and Kimble Farr return here, all of whom saw action at one time or another. Farr and Holt shared the left linebacker position in the spring, while Cecil Leedy worked on the right side.

Most of the experience is back in the secondary. Three seniors, Startzman, Dellinger and Rusty Holt, all return, and their value may make the defense tough.

Strayhorn Impressive

DALLAS, Tex. — East Carolina's man-in-the-pros, Les Strayhorn, appears in good shape to escape the next cut by the Dallas Cowboys, Curt Mosher, Cowboy Publicity Director, said yesterday.

Another cut of about 10 players is expected to come next Tuesday afternoon.

According to Mosher, Strayhorn is doing "very well." In the two games he's played to date, he's rushed six times for 25 yards, a 4.2 average, including one touchdown. He's also caught two passes, both in Saturday night's game against New Orleans, one stopped at the line of scrimmage, and the other a 45 yard touchdown bomb.

He also carried twice in that game for two yards. "He looked pretty good," Mosher said. "Although I really don't know how his blocking is doing. I'm sure he has a lot to learn, however. The coaches I've talked to felt he was doing all right. He did look very nifty in the open field on the touchdown pass."

Mosher, speaking completely unofficially, said he felt Strayhorn would survive the cut next week. "This is the next to last cut we'll make, and I definitely feel that he has a chance to make the team. We do need a back, and I feel he could come through for us."

Mosher added that he was not speaking for the coaches, however, and this was only his opinion.

Swimmers Aim For More Gold

By FRANK CHEPEAU
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — America's swimmers who won three of the first four aquatic events go for six gold medals today, and the high-riding men's basketball team heads toward a Friday collision with the Soviets in the World University Games.

The U.S. men's basketball squad beat Czechoslovakia 100-59 Tuesday and planned a day off today. Instead the Americans will play Cuba, upset 51-49 by Brazil.

Coach Ed Badger, apparently expecting to meet the loser of the Brazil-Cuba game Thursday and then play Friday's final, was surprised by the knockout setup that includes eight teams.

"We were planning a day of rest Wednesday to prepare for the semifinals," Badger said. "I'm sure the boys will not like the change."

Other games today pit Yugoslavia against Canada, the Soviet Union against Czechoslovakia. Winners play Thursday for a spot in Friday's finals.

The Israeli basketball team defeated Puerto Rico 77-61 despite a third day of heckling by Russian soldiers who ringed the tiny arena ostensibly to control the crowds.

Uniformed Red Army soldiers ripped up a paper Israeli flag held aloft by Soviet Jews while some spectators shouted "kikes, kikes."

A representative of the International University Sports Federation (FISU) was to have been on hand to observe the action, but none showed.

American swimmers finally got their feet wet Tuesday and led by Cathy Carr, grabbed three gold medals in four swimming finals.

American swimmers took three golds, a silver and three bronze, including a third place in diving, to run their medal total of five golds, four silver and 13 bronze for the games.

But the Russians more than kept pace. Vladimir Burre won the other event, the men's 100 freestyle, ahead of Kenneth Knox of the University of Tennessee. Vyacheslav Strakov gave the Russians another gold in the springboard diving event and a Russian also took the silver. American Steve McFarland of Amarillo, Tex., was third.

Soviet pairs also won the men's and women's doubles in tennis to give the host country a staggering total of 48 gold, 23 silver and 23 bronze medals.

Raiders Not Talking About 1972's Defeat

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' 1972 Super Bowl dreams ended with their elimination from the playoffs on one of the wierdest plays in National Football League history.

"It's out of my mind now," says Coach John Madden of the wild windup to last season. "Right after it happened, there was nothing else to think about, because there was nothing to prepare for." Madden's reference was to the play on which Pittsburgh's Franco Harris grabbed a pass that deflected off an Oakland safety and raced for a touchdown with just five seconds showing on the clock, giving the Steelers a stunning 13-7 victory over Oakland in the first round of the playoffs.

"Now, we're working on a new season. Anything I said about last year would sound like sour grapes."

The Raiders are favored again in the AFC West as they shoot for their sixth division crown in seven years.

An offense that gained 4,745 yards last year has all the key men back except for tight end Ray Chester, traded to Baltimore last month for former All-

Pro defensive end Bubba Smith. Quarterbacks Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler combined for 2,522 passing yards in 1972 and Marv Hubbard's club record 1,100 yards led the ground attack.

Fred Biletnikoff, top pass catcher in the AFC last season, is the No. 1 receiver. Third-year pro Bob Moore inherits Chester's job.

Mike Siani or Cliff Branch, each in their second pro year, will start as the other wide receiver, and rookies Steve Sweeney and Joe Wylie seem sure to stick around at least as taxi squad members.

The defense that gave up 248 points last year—compared to 278 the season before—could show further improvement with the addition of Smith. The punting of No. 1 draft pick Ray Guy, who averaged 47 yards a boot at Southern Mississippi, is being counted on to back up other teams and make things easier for the Silver and Black defenders.

This could be the first time in four years that a rookie won't crack the Oakland starting defensive unit. Defensive backs Willie Brown and Nemiah Wilson and middle linebackers Phil Villapiano and Gerald Irons and linemen Art Thoms, Otis Sistrunk and Horace Jones are among the younger players who appear set at their spots for years to come.

The pass rush should improve with Smith putting on the pressure from left end. The rushers scored just 27 sacks last year.

In the offensive line, veterans Jim Otto, Bob Brown, Gene Upshaw, Art Shell and George Buehler are the returning starters.

Backup linemen include John Vella, Dave Dalby and George Seiler. The offensive line will be the hardest spot for a rookie to break in.

New Coach Final Day At Oak City In Shorts

OAK CITY—Franklin Mobley, an Oak City native, has returned to his alma mater as a coach.

Mobley, 26, will handle the football program at Oak City, along with the junior varsity boys basketball, girls basketball and baseball for the Trojans.

A graduate of Louisburg Junior College, Mobley completed his education at East Carolina, receiving his bachelors there in 1969, and his masters in 1973.

Following a two-year stint in the Armed Services, he taught at E.J. Hayes Junior High School in Williamston, where he coached girls basketball and baseball for the past two years.

Mobley is married to the former Judy Clark of Williamston, and they have two daughters, Lindy Frances, 4, and Jessica Marie, six months.

Rennie Stennett is the only Buc regular to bat over .300 against Met pitching in 1972. He hit .310.

No Homers, Just A Fun Night For Hank

By FRANK BROWN

Associated Press Sports Writer

As usual, reporters clustered around Hank Aaron's dressing area in the Atlanta Braves' clubhouse.

But Tuesday night wasn't a night to talk about home runs and Babe Ruth's record. Aaron was loose, smiling, laughing—a side not often shown by the slugger who day after day chases the Babe's all-time record—after Atlanta's 11-7 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

He chuckled over all the running he had done, churning his 39-year-old legs around the bases to score from first on both of teammate Dusty Baker's doubles and legging out a double of his own in the third inning. He mocked indignation at having to work so hard, but couldn't conceal the fact that he was having a good time.

"Dusty's got no consideration at all, making me run like that," the affable Aaron said. "I told him if he's going to run me from first base, he might as well hit a triple."

There would be other times to talk about home runs and Babe Ruth and pressure. Tuesday night, Henry Aaron just had a good time.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-4; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Houston Astros 5-3; the New York Mets edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1; the Philadelphia Phillies outscored the San Diego Padres 9-8, and the San Francisco Giants dropped the Montreal Expos 3-1.

His hits backed Ferguson Jenkins' first complete game since July 6.

Pirates 5, Astros 3
Rookie pitcher John Morlan, 2-1, scored the winning run on Richie Hebner's sacrifice fly in the sixth and defeated Houston's Don Wilson, 9-14.

Mets 2, Dodgers 1
John Milner scored one run and drove in the winner as the Mets topped Don Sutton and the Dodgers. Sutton, 15-8, had carried a three-hitter into the ninth, when Milner's single scored Wayne Garrett from third with the tie-breaker.

Giants 3, Expos 1
A seventh-inning error by Montreal shortstop Tim Foli let San Francisco's Tito Fuentes score from third and helped the Giants top the Expos.

The victory upped Ron Bryant's record to 19-8—tops in the NL in victories.

Phils 9, Padres 8
A bases-loaded double by Del Unser capped a four-run ninth inning and lifted the Phillies to their decision over the Padres. San Diego had held a 5-0 lead in third inning.

The Padres' Dave Roberts drove in three runs with two doubles and a single, but the Phils came back with the help of Greg Luzinski's 22nd home run of the season and Unser's hit.

In the American League, it was Chicago 4, Cleveland 0; Baltimore 2, Minnesota 1; Kansas City 5, New York 4; Boston 15, Texas 9; Detroit 6, Oakland 4, and Milwaukee 6, California 2.

Page Takes NCAA Takes Swipe At Proposed Grid Post Law; Awards Tournament Sites

JAMESVILLE—Linwood Page, 24, has been named as football coach at Jamesville High School.

Page will take the Bullets into their fledgling football program during the 1973 season. The team will compete as an independent this year, but will move into the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin conference in November for competition in sports after that.

A native of Elm City, Page attended East Carolina for two years, then transferred to Atlantic Christian, where he finished his education, graduating in 1973.

In addition to his coaching duties, which also include baseball and girls basketball, Page will teach health and physical education.

A three-sport letterman in high school, Page was named to the All-Conference team in both basketball and football and was his team's Most Valuable Player in basketball. He competed in football while at East Carolina. Page is not married.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Washington, has been reported out of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Atlanta will get the National Collegiate Athletic Association's basketball championship tournament finals in 1977 and St. Louis, last year's site, will have the event again in 1978.

The NCAA executive committee, concluding a two-day meeting here Tuesday, announced a number of other dates and sites for first-round and regional basketball play in 1974 and 1975, along with a plan to inaugurate national football championship games for two divisions of smaller colleges next December.

But the major concern of the committee during the session here appeared to be the NCAA's campaign to prevent passage of U.S. Senate Bill 2365, which would create a federal board to exert controls on international and domestic amateur athletics.

The bill, sponsored by six senators led by Democrats John V. Tunney of California and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, has been reported out of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Alan J. Chapman, Rice University professor who is president of the NCAA executive committee, told a news conference the Senate bill "puts the federal government too much into regulation of amateur athletics" and "would deny colleges and universities authority to effectively regulate their athletic programs."

The Senate bill would affect about 30 amateur sports, including basketball, swimming, track, boxing and wrestling, but the NCAA claims other sports including football, golf and tennis soon would be brought under the federal regulatory powers.

Three House of Representative bills proposing federal intervention in amateur sports were accorded NCAA support as "necessary to correct inept and discriminatory administration of Olympic and other international amateur athletic competition."

The committee set March 9 for first-round games of next year's regional tournaments: Indiana State, Midwest; North Texas State, Midwest; Idaho State, West; and three East sites to be chosen from among St. John's, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, West Virginia and William and Mary.

For the second round of play, March 14 and 16, the Midwest Regional was moved from New Mexico State to Wichita State because New Mexico State is on NCAA probation. As previously announced the 1974 finals will be at Greensboro, N.C.

The 1975 finals are in San Diego March 29 and 31, and the regionals March 20 and 22— a week later than previously announced. The 1975 regional sites are Providence, R.I., Civic Center, University of Dayton in Ohio, New Mexico State and Portland, Ore. Memorial Coliseum.

The Division II football playoffs start Dec. 1 at Atlantic City, N.J. and on the campuses of three schools to be chosen after the season ends. The Dec. 6 semifinals will be at Wichita Falls, Tex., and Baton Rouge, La., and the nationally televised finals at Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 15.

The Division III playoffs, mainly for smaller private eastern colleges, open Dec. 1 on competitors' campuses, and the championship final will be at the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl in Phoenix City, Ala., and will be telecast regionally.

Danny Litwhiler's Michigan State baseball team finished the 1973 season with a 9-9 record in the Big Ten.

Foster Punishes Foe For 'Slur'

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Hometown hero Bob Foster felt his black race had been slurred and, for 15 rounds in the boxing ring, the light heavyweight champion of the world bombarded South Africa's Pierre Fourie in a successful defense of his title.

"I wanted the fight to go 15 rounds. I wanted to punish him," the 34-year-old king of the 175-pounders said after the bout. "Nobody calls me a 'boy' and gets away with it."

Fourie frankly was confused over whether he had called the black champion "boy" when they met at the morning weigh-in Tuesday, but he did apologize and said, "I wouldn't insult a champion."

The South African's manager, Alan Towel, maintained that his fighter had greeted the champion and said, "Tonight's the night, Bobby," and Foster misunderstood the South Africa accent.

The champ doesn't believe that.

Foster pumped hundreds of left jabs into Fourie's face and the challenger was bloody from the first round when he suffered a cut over his right eye. He did finally repay the compliment by slicing the champion over his left eye, an abrasion that required stitches.

Still, there was no doubt the 6-foot-3½ champion dominated his foe, who was four inches shorter and had seven inches less in reach—79 inches to 72.

Referee Jim Cleary and Judge Willis Barnes, both from Foster's home town of Albuquerque, scored the fight 148-120 and 149-130, respectively, while Judge Sydney Beck of Capetown, South Africa, saw it 149-138.

Foster now boasts a 50-6 record while Fourie, unbeaten in 31 previous bouts, is 44-2-1.

Despite Slaps, Sooners Tough

By RON JENKINS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The proud University of Oklahoma football armor received a few dents this summer of 1973, but no one is counting the Sooners out of the Big Eight football race.

Slapped with a two-year probation by the Big Eight for a recruiting violation, the Sooners will not be going bowling for the next two years. They are also banned from television appearances in 1974 and 1975.

The ever optimistic Oklahoma faithful, feeling that the conference action was too severe, are hoping the Sooners will seek vengeance on the football field.

The Sooners, No. 2 in the nation last season after disposing of Penn State in the Sugar Bowl, lost the nucleus of their offense and defense, returning only eight starters on both units.

The lack of an experienced quarterback may be the most ominous sign of all. The only quarterback with any varsity playing time, Kerry Jackson, was declared ineligible and was later injured in an auto accident.

That leaves Steve Davis, a redshirted sophomore, as the probable starter. He will be spotted by Scott Hill, a freshman.

Davis will be joined in the backfield by three superlative runners. They are halfback Joe Washington of Port Arthur, Tex., a tough inside threat with speed to cut the corners; hard-charging fullback Jim Welch, and halfback Grant Burget, another power runner with ample speed.

But you need a lot of running backs to be successful in the wishbone, says coach Barry Switzer, who was elevated to head coach when Chuck Fairbanks became the coach and general manager of the New England Patriots. Switzer says a lack of depth in the backfield is his major concern.

Oklahoma also must rebuild an offensive line. Only tackle Ed Foster and guard John Roush return from the front line that was previously anchored by center Tom Brahaney.

And tight end is a problem. The Sooners may use two wide receivers, having fine passcatchers in lanky senior John Carroll and Tinker Owens, the hero in wins last season over Nebraska and Penn State.

Defense may again be the Sooners' strong suit, but they got a jolt earlier this month when sophomore tackle Leroy Selmon was put on the disabled list for at least six weeks because of inflammation of the sac around the heart.

Rookie Quarterback Is Pressing Domres

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Marty Domres still is the No. 1 quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, but rookie Bert Jones is offering stiff competition sooner than expected.

"We wouldn't be afraid to play Jones anytime now," General Manager Joe Thomas said today. "He has great composure, and wouldn't be flustered by starting."

The confidence in Jones, Baltimore's top draft choice from Louisiana State University, grew tremendously last Saturday when he directed a 14-play, 80-yard drive that produced a touchdown with 29 seconds remaining and gave Baltimore a 32-28 victory over Detroit in their National Football League exhibition game.

Domres, a reserve quarterback at San Diego for three seasons, replaced Baltimore's legendary Johnny Unitas for the last nine games of the 1972 season and threw 11 touchdown passes.

He'll start again in Washington Saturday night against the Redskins, with Jones taking over in the second quarter. It's uncertain which quarterback will play the second half.

Jones, only in his fourth week with Baltimore after playing in the College All-Star game against the Super Bowl-champion Miami Dolphins last month, said he is concentrating on learning the Colts' system and how to run it.

"I'm not anticipating how much I'll play, if I start, or when I'll start," he said. "I'm not saying that I'm even going to play. That's up to the coach."

Then he added: "But I'm a competitor, and I'm never happy with being second."

Meanwhile, the Dallas Cowboys' quarterback situation remained unsettled. Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday Roger Staubach would start in Thursday night's exhibition against the Houston Oilers and Craig Morton likely would play the second half. However, Landry refused to concede that Staubach was ahead of Morton.

"There's no edge either way," he said.

New York Giants Coach Alex Webster met with quarterback Randy Johnson and dispelled reports that Johnson had asked to be traded. Johnson denied the reports. He is vying with Norm Snead for the starting job.

The Philadelphia Eagles named wide receiver Harold Carmichael and guard Mark Nordquist as offensive captains and safety Bill Bradley and linebacker Steve Zabel as defensive captains.

The New Orleans Saints learned they would be without safety Hugo Hollas for the entire season. Hollas suffered torn cartilage and ligaments in his left knee during last week's exhibition game against Dallas.

Off the field, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that New Orleans probably would lose the 1975 Super Bowl if it is determined by the end of the year that the Louisiana Superdome will not be completed in time. However, a stadium official assured Rozelle that the arena would be ready.

Bahnsen Loses No-Hit Bid In Final Inning

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pitching a no-hitter doesn't happen every day. For that matter, neither does losing one with one out left.

"I felt like the bottom fell out of the balloon I was riding in," said Stan Bahnsen of the Chicago White Sox after coming within one out of that baseball feat Tuesday night.

Bahnsen had a no-hitter in the ninth inning before Walt Williams singled and wound up with a one-hit, 4-0 beauty over the Cleveland Indians.

The hit hurt deeply, Bahnsen admitted.

"It was such an emotional thing up to that point," said the White Sox right-hander. "I would have rather given up the hit in the eighth inning."

"I started bearing down in the seventh. You don't get that many chances for a no-hitter, maybe once a year at most."

Jorge Orta, the White Sox' second baseman, drove in two runs with four hits, including his third home run of the American League baseball season.

In the American League's other games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Minnesota Twins 2-1; the Kansas City Royals topped the New York Yankees 5-4; the Boston Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 15-9; the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the California Angels 6-2, and the Detroit Tigers whipped the Oakland A's 6-4.

Orioles 2, Twins 1
Al Bumbry's sacrifice fly scored Bobby Grich with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning as Baltimore registered its ninth victory in a row with a 2-1 decision over Minnesota.

Royals 5, Yankees 4
Lou Piniella's third single of the game drove in Amos Otis with the tie-breaking run and Kansas City went on to a 5-4 decision over New York. The victory helped the Royals move within two games of Oakland in the American League West.

Kansas City reliever Joe Hoerner salvaged the game with four innings of splendid relief. He allowed three hits and no runs.

Red Sox 15, Rangers 9
Reggie Smith drove in five runs with two homers and a single to power Boston over Texas 15-9. Dwight Evans also hit a homer in Boston's 19-hit attack.

Brewers 6, Angels 2
Jim Colborn whipped California for the fourth straight time this season in Milwaukee's 6-2 decision. The Brewers shelled Angel strikeout ace Nolan Ryan.

Tigers 6, A's 4
Mickey Stanley belted two triples and a single and knocked in two runs to lead Detroit over Oakland 6-4.

Top Swimmers Compete In AAU

By BOB FIRESTONE JR.
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Some of the United States' top swimmers, including Olympic triple gold medal winner Melissa Belote, will compete today as swimming events begin in the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships here.

Miss Belote, of the Solotar Swim Team, will be after a fast time in the women's 200-meter backstroke.

One of the top men's events will be the 200-meter backstroke, in which Olympian Mike Stamm of the Coronado Navy Swim Association is expected to be strong.

Another probable top men's event will likely pit Olympians Rick Demont of the Marin Aquatic Club and John Kinsella of the Gatorade Swim Club of Bloomington, Ind.

Swimming preliminaries were to be held in the morning with finals in eight events set for tonight at the Plantation

Country Club Course.

Diving competition also continued today with men's preliminaries and semifinals being held in the three-meter springboard event, and women's preliminaries and semifinals in the 10-meter platform event.

In competition Tuesday, Olympian Mike Finneran of the Ron O'Brien Diving School of Columbus, Ohio, won the men's one-meter diving championship with a total of 498.96.

Finneran is a Olympic veteran, finishing fifth in the three-meters last year in Munich and ninth in the platform. During the Olympic trials last year in Chicago, he became the only person in history to receive a 10 from all seven judges in a three-meter dive.

Second in the one-meter was Richard McAlister of the U.S. Air Force Academy, with 491.85, and third went to Tim Moore of the Ron O'Brien Diving School with 470.40.

National League results: Chicago 6, Cincinnati 4; Philadelphia 9, San Diego 8; San Francisco 3, Montreal 1; New York 2, Los Angeles 1; Atlanta 11, St. Louis 7, and Pittsburgh 6, Houston 3.

Citadel . . .

back, but the punting game is unsure, with job up for grabs.

"We'll be inexperienced and won't especially be big or fast," Ross said. "But we'll play with enthusiasm and toughness and be in shape. A lot depends on the intangibles—attitude and luck. We know we'll have to avoid injuries, because we don't have a lot of depth."

"I think we all want to be winners. . . and we can be," he added.

REMEMBER WHEN MOST THINGS

WERE "HOME DELIVERED"?

NOT TOO LONG ago many grocery stores, meat markets and drug stores offered Free Home Delivery. Not many still offer it today. Even the milkman and bread truck are less frequent in many communities today. The twice-a-day mailman now comes only once.

ONE OF THE FEW remaining home-delivery services is performed by your newspaper carrier. When you think about it, it is rare to have such personal daily service on such a low-priced item.

PERHAPS THE MOST discouraging part of a newspaper route is in collecting from the customers. Most people have the money ready for their newspaper carrier at the regular time. However, some readers require the carrier to make two, three or even more trips in order to get his money. We hate to see these young carriers discouraged. We also hate to see a good businessman give up his route because of the time and effort it takes to collect.

WON'T YOU HELP HIM, (and us) by having your money ready every time?

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds an odd influence in effect. You need to be careful not to become involved in a shady situation without realizing it. The evening finds you with the energy and good judgment to put a new project into action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day for being observant but not for forcing your ideas on others. Once your outside duties are well handled, do some entertaining at home. Invite charming people and have fun.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Daytime can be confining with important duties you have to handle but later you can air your views to the right people. Engage in only those recreations you like in the evening. Be poised.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do whatever will add to your vitality during day hours. In the evening go out socially and make a good impression on others. Talk with a trusted adviser on ways to increase income.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) First handle those personal affairs that are important to your well-being and then go to the amusements that you like. A new plan needs more study if you want it to succeed.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of one who gossips during day hours. Engage in activities of a constructive nature. Personal aims can be achieved later in the day. Come to a better understanding with loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day for adding to public prestige, so keep rooted to routines and get them out of the way. Know what your personal goals are and then be positive in action. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It is wise to obtain the data you need early in the morning so that you will be prepared when dealing with a higher-up later in the day. Evening is fine for enjoying favorite amusement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Busying yourself with the handling of monetary affairs in the morning is wise and then you can meet with allies and make better plans for the future. Intuition is excellent tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Being more understanding of the ideas of an associate and cooperating more with this person brings about greater success now. A civic matter should be handled before attending the social.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to be more determined and take on regular duties early so that you have free time for recreation later in the day. Take time for health treatments. Be more pleasing to kin.

Sometimes A Good Band Has No Listeners

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — There's a saying in Nashville that it takes at least five years for the music industry to discover a real talent.

For Barefoot Jerry, a polished six-man rock group, the five years is almost over, but the horizon remains unclear. About the only people outside Nashville who are familiar with the Barefoot Jerry sound are connoisseurs of rock music. Poor promotion, Nashville's country setting, and inner-group problems early in its career have seen to that.

"We keep cutting good albums and nobody hears them," said Wayne Moss, the group's leader. "That's one reason why we've had some turnovers in the group. A guy will get in and say, 'This is incredibly good, it has to happen soon.' When it doesn't, he splits."

"Nobody knows we exist, and it sure is frustrating." Live or on record, Barefoot Jerry's music boasts far-reaching versatility and tightness. It encompasses hard rock, piano boogie, rock-blues, English rock, and dabbles in country rock. But the group's own creation is one of a toned-down, mellowed-out rock.

Simply stated, its music casts a different and enlightening beam on rock music—at a time when much rock music sounds like it comes off an assembly line.

If you overlook this music, consider it your loss. The group works with standard electric and acoustical guitars and exploits the steel guitar with a creative country-rock flair.

Added are drums, piano, organ, Moog Synthesizer and mellow vocal tones. Everything Barefoot Jerry does on record it does in person.

Moss has been in Nashville 13 years, 10 of those as a highly-touted studio sideman. His early work includes sessions with Dylan, Baez and Simon and Garfunkel.

Together with several other top studio session men, Moss chucked his career as a sideman and concentrated solely on getting the group's music together. It was simply a matter of having some of Nashville's best musicians trying to make it on their own.

In the past five years, the group's sound has evolved 180 degrees and consumes an abundance of styles.

"Good session men have to go in all directions," said Moss. "Consequently, they make the best musicians for a well-rounded group."

Barefoot Jerry's next album is due for release in late 1973. Master recordings of that proposed album take in a lot of popular sounds—Moody Blues, Three Dog Night, Seals and Croft and some self-styled electric guitar work by Dave Doran. Many of the styles are blended into each song, creating a vast but tight sound. And to it all is added the group's personal Nashville touch.

"If somebody comes to see us, rather than hearing two or three hours of one kind of music, I'd like to make them feel like they've seen a complete concert," said Moss.

Getting to see Barefoot Jerry is considered a rare treat. In its five years, the group has performed on stage only four times—despite having already made two impressive albums. The last one, "Barefoot Jerry," is superb both lyrically and musically but it doesn't boast the wide-ranging styles of music that the new album will.

The reason for few appearances are twofold: it's taken five years to get group member who wanted to go on tour instead of concentrating on recording; and promotional problems with recording labels stemming from financial woes and bad timing.

But, says Moss, "Every single member of the band is now ready to go to Thule, Greenland, to make it a success."

Two of the group's four appearances have been in Nashville within the last four months. Another is planned here Oct. 7 with the Marshall Tucker Band.

"Now that we've gone out and started playing for people, the reaction is very gratifying," said Moss.

"When the red light goes on in a studio, about all you can say to yourself is, 'I think I've done well but I really don't know.' But when the people are standing on the tables and jumping, you know you've done good."

Graduated At Center

Thirteen children graduated from Moywood Family and Child Development Center Monday night and received diplomas from Mrs. Joyce Williams, the director.

The children, all of whom are going into either Greenville City or County Schools first grade or public kindergarten programs, are Opal Daniels, Sterling Edwards, Robert Evans, Jacqueline Hardison, George Langley, Jessie Langley, Willie Langley, Mysena Mabrey, Thomas Moore, Bernice Nobles, Jessie Pratt, Teresa Washington, and Petula Whitchard.

The girls wore identical long pink dresses made by their mothers. The Mothers' Group of the Center planned the program, which consisted of songs by the three-, four-, and five-year groups and a song by all the groups combined. They also prepared for the reception which was attended by about 125 persons after the program. Mrs. Williams was speaker for the graduation exercises.

Vegetarian Is Being Joined By The Public

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Vegetarians who've been shunning meat for years are finding it's fashionable these days to dine on fruits and vegetables. They're also finding that popularity has its drawbacks—like higher prices and more work.

"I used to answer my mail every week. Now I have to do it every day, and there's really too much for one person," says Freya Dimshah, wife of the director of the American Vegan Society.

The society, based in Malaga, N.J., is much stricter than most vegetarian organizations. Members eat no meat or fish; nor do they eat the by-products of animals, such as dairy products and eggs. They also avoid all items made from animals, including wool, silk and leather. Many vegetarians eat eggs and dairy products and have no prohibition on things like wool.

Mrs. Dimshah said "quite a bit of interest has been expressed" in the society in recent months, partly because of the high cost of meat and short supply of beef.

She said the society has several hundred paid-subscription members, with several formal chapters around the country. In addition, an unknown number of people adopt part or all of the Vegan philosophy after writing for information, Mrs. Dimshah said. The society published a book called "Vegan Kitchen" and a pamphlet titled "Month of Menus."

Discussing the meat shortage and soaring prices, Mrs. Dimshah—who was born in England and was raised as a vegetarian, although not a Vegan—said: "We have seen this coming for a long time. In order to feed all the people in the world, we have to turn to a diet which, if not totally vegetarian, is at least mainly vegetarian."

She said it takes about one-

Seed Packet Means Food

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — In a weedy vacant lot near the low-income housing project she calls home, Virginia Moore is trying to grow a bargain.

"You get a whole lot of food for just a 15-cent pack of seeds," says the mother of seven.

But gardening isn't as much fun this year for Mrs. Moore, whose weekly grocery bill has jumped from $50 to $80.

For at least three years, she and her neighbors in the Dutch Point project have planted collard greens and egg plants outside their kitchen doors. For many of the black and Spanish-speaking residents, the practice was reminiscent of their roots.

This year the garden is a necessity, Mrs. Moore said.

The city housing authority agreed to turn a quarter-acre lot into a garden for 40 residents.

The 40 plots contain corn, tomatoes, turnips, collard greens, mustard greens and cabbage.

Mrs. Moore's neighborhood lies between Hartford's insurance headquarters skyline and the warehouses and factories along the Connecticut River.

Every evening, the gardeners carry pails of water and hand tools across the street to the gardens. The soil of the lot makes for a poor farm. Rubble is mixed with the gray clay.

"I'm from the South, and we used to eat collard greens and black-eyed peas," said Betty Dunn, a mother of three.

"We're going back to that and canned goods like soup, yams and franks and beans."

Maggie Alston, a welfare mother, says she buys meat for Sunday only, and it's usually chicken.

Campground User Fees Are Relaxed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service is dropping user fees for all family campgrounds and boat launching ramps in the South except for 18 facilities.

R. Max Peterson, regional forester, said the fees previously were charged at 130 family campgrounds in the South.

An amendment to the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act describes the facilities necessary before fees can be charged, he said. It applies to day use areas, campgrounds and all federal agencies concerned with management of recreation facilities.

The campgrounds where the fee will still be charged are: Alabama — Corinth, Bankhead National Forest. Georgia — Lake Sinclair, Rabun Beach. Tennessee — Indian Boungray, Cherokee National Forest. Florida — Juniper Springs, Alexander Springs, Lake Door and Clearwater Lake, all in Ocala National Forest; Silver Lake in Apalachicola National Forest, and Ocean Pond in Osceola National Forest. Virginia — Sherando Lake and Trout Pond in George Washington National Forest; Grindstone and Cave Springs in Jefferson National Forest. Louisiana — Caney Lake and Valentine Lake in Kisatchie National Forest. Texas — Willow Oak in Sadrine National Forest and Caney Creek in Angelina National Forest.

"That's similar to our Canadian situation in dentistry, which is why I have moved into the U. S. A.

"If Americans think federal bureaucrats can do a better job at running medicine and dentistry, then they better cross over the border into Canada for their treatment!

Gordon Liddy's Wife Doubts He'll Speak Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. G. Gordon Liddy says she doesn't know whether her husband will ever explain his role in the Watergate burglary.

But she says "he feels he is serving his country by sitting in jail and saying nothing. He has compared himself to a captured soldier who gives only his name, rank and serial number."

In an article in the September issue of Ladies' Home Journal, Mrs. Liddy said she doesn't know if her husband will talk "even when he gets out of prison."

Liddy pleaded guilty to the break-in at the Democratic National Committee offices June 17, 1972, and began serving a 20-year prison sentence last Jan. 30.

He has refused to give any evidence about the case.

Opening lead: Seven of ♠
Steer clear of two types at the bridge table—those who don't double enough and those who double too often.

North's response of two clubs does not meet with our approval, for the hand is a shade too weak to venture to the two-level. In support of hearts, the hand is worth 10 points—the top limit for a simple raise to two hearts, and that is the action we recommend.

Here, however, the aggressive two-over-one response worked well. When South showed his second suit West elected to double—a rather fatuous action. It was most unlikely that the final contract would be in diamonds and since West could not double either hearts or clubs, he would have been better advised to let nature take its course. As it was, his careless action in the bidding had vast repercussions in the play.

Against four hearts, West led the seven of spades. Dummy's ace was played, and a diamond was led to the king. With nothing to go on, declarer might have tried to cash the ace next, but East would have been able to ruff and play a trump. With only two trumps remaining in dummy, declarer would have had to surrender another diamond trick and two clubs, for down one.

Unfortunately for the defenders, West's double of three diamonds forewarned declarer of the bad break. So at trick three, South led a diamond—but not the ace. He played a low diamond, and the defenders were powerless.

West won the diamond lead with the nine and did the best he could by returning a trump. South won in hand, ruffed a diamond in dummy, returned to his hand with a spade ruff and trumped his remaining low diamond with dummy's last heart. A spade ruff was the entry to declarer's hand to draw trumps and cash the ace of diamonds for the game-going tricks.

Note that even without West's tipoff double, it would have been proper technique for declarer to play the hand as he did. As he can afford to lose one diamond but not two, a second lead of a low diamond is a safety play to protect against a 5-1 break.

Cameras Roll On A New Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The audience, maybe 300 or so hardy souls, began filling the seats of CBS' Studio 41 here while Jose Perez was telling James Coco he was sorry he quit and that he'd like his old job back.

and a prop man made a final inspection tour of the set. All were working on the second episode of "Calucci's Dept.," a new half-hour series about the inhabitants of a state unemployment office run by Joseph Calucci (Coco).

The series, which begins Sept. 14 on CBS-TV, is good for 13 episodes, according to its executive producer, Bob Precht. If it clicks with viewers, more episodes probably will be ordered.

The concern of the moment was to have good, crisp performances in the day's effort. It, like all 13 episodes, would be taped twice on the same day and within the space of a few hours.

The series' creators, Renee Taylor and Joe Bologna, came out to chat with the audience. One young man asked if the unemployment office in the show was modeled on a real one.

DOWN AND OUT — Sometimes it's just too much effort to even pull your tongue back into your mouth. At least that's the impression you get from "Queen," a 4-year-old English Bulldog as she rests on the backsteps of her Virginia home. (AP Wirephoto)

The regulars and extras—16 in all—began taking their places for the opening scene. The set was in two sections, the main office and Calucci's office. Both looked authentic—old, musty and miserable.

The plot centered on a young Puerto Rican employe, played by Perez, who abruptly goes nuts during a bureaucratic squabble over paper-shuffling. He screams, tosses papers in the air and quits.

The show's six scenes were shot in sequence, with delays of one to five minutes between segments to allow for set changes—only two were needed—and to ready cast and cameras for the next scene.

During the breaks, Bologna came out to chat with the audience. One young man asked if the unemployment office in the show was modeled on a real one.

"We've sort of modelled it after the one at 23rd Street and Sixth Avenue," Bologna cheerfully explained. "That's MY office."

The show went smoothly. No retakes were needed, no lines were blown and the laughter was frequent and loud. And few in the audience balked when the overhead "Applause" sign blinked on.

It had the earmarks of a winning series. But the cast won't know until November—when networks usually renew or cancel—if their unemployment office will remain make-believe or become the real, wretched McCoy.

Mailed Bricks Built A Bank

VERNAL, Utah (UPI)—The Bank of Utah here was built with bricks sent through the mail. Residents in 1919 collected bricks from other areas and sent them to Vernal, seven bricks to a package, to build their bank. The bricks were sent by mail because parcel post rates at that time were far less than commercial rates.
