

DOUBLE DROWNING . . . Members of the Greenville and Grifton rescue squads search the waters of Contentnea Creek yesterday for one of two teenaged youths that lost their lives in a double drowning mishap. Grifton rescue men recovered the first body about 6:45 p.m. before the Greenville unit arrived. The second body was recovered at 7:24 p.m. by Greenville rescuers shortly after they arrived.

Two Grifton Boys Drown While Swimming Tuesday

GRIFTON — Two local teenaged boys were drowned here late yesterday afternoon in a swimming accident in Contentnea Creek.

identified the two victims as Bernie Brock, 15, and Dwight Griffin, 16.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said witnesses said Brock died while attempting to save the Griffin youth from the dark waters of the creek.

According to Tyson, Griffin swam to the South side of the creek, near the Grifton fishing pier, with two other boys and was returning when he suddenly said he could not make it back to the North bank.

Brock jumped from the pier in an effort to pull the Griffin youth from the water, but both went under.

The double drowning was reported at 5:58 p.m. and members of the Grifton Rescue Squad recovered Brock's body at 6:45 p.m.

Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad, called to assist in the dragging operations recovered the body of Griffin at 7:24 p.m., shortly after they arrived at the scene, just East of Grifton.

Both deaths were ruled accidental.

Mrs. McGrath Running Again

Mrs. Mildred T. McGrath, who became the first woman in recent history to serve on the city council, has filed for reelection in the Oct. 9 municipal elections.

Mrs. McGrath, in filing at city hall yesterday morning, is the first person to officially announce an intention to seek office in the upcoming election. The incumbent council member was appointed to the board in September of 1971 to fill the unexpired term of councilman Johnny Edwards who resigned for health reasons. Mrs. McGrath ran seventh in the race for the six council seats in the May 4, 1971 election and finished only 78 votes behind the sixth place finisher.

Mrs. McGrath, who moved here from Greeley, Colo. in 1957 with her husband, East Carolina University professor Harold McGrath, earned her degree in accounting from ECU and received her master's degree from Colorado State University.

Rouse Runs For GOP Chairman

RALEIGH (AP) — State Republican party chairman Frank Rouse said today he will seek re-election at the party's state convention in November.

Rouse announced his plans to seek re-election in Kinston, his hometown, at the first of a series of meetings with newsmen and party representatives across the state.

His announcement was seen as the first step in an all-out battle for control of the party with Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser.

"Today, I am announcing for re-election for chairman of the North Carolina Republican party, because I am committed to finishing the job that we started. I'm committed to work until the Republican party is the majority party in North Carolina," Rouse said in a statement. He continued, "I offer you my total commitment to continue to serve the Republican party. I offer you two years' demonstrated ability coupled with my uncompromising dedication to the principles that have enabled our party to make unprecedented gains in North Carolina."

Rouse said he was "committed to serve not only our senator, our governor, our congressmen, and other elected Republicans, but every registered Republican in North Carolina."

Holshouser already has named Morehead city attorney Thomas S. Bennett as his choice for the party chairmanship, and has agreed to serve as Bennett's campaign manager.

Leaf Sales To Halt For One Week Here

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Tobacco Market will join other Eastern and Border Belt markets in suspending all tobacco sales during the Labor Day week.

The decision to halt sales for the week of Sept. 2-8 was made by the industrywide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee last Sunday after buying companies said they were having problems getting enough labor and trucks to haul tobacco from the warehouses to processing plants.

Local tobacco officials did not express any urgency in the situation but most said that they regretted that the action had to be taken.

"I hated to but due to the labor situation and shortage of trucks, I guess it had to happen," commented Harding Sugg of Star Plahters Warehouse here.

Sugg, noting that the Border Belt appears to be having more problems with labor and transportation shortages than eastern markets, said that he feels the committee is trying to prevent the situation on the Eastern Belt from getting any worse.

Alf Forbes, president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, commented, "I understand it's a congestion in the plants that's causing the problems." He said that as far as labor is concerned, "we are in fair shape here and some of the other markets around here are in fair shape but others are not."

Forbes pointed out that the local market is experiencing some problems involving a shortage of trucks and overall transportation of tobacco.

He asserted that the week's layoff in sales will simply result in it taking "more time for the farmer to sell his crop. It will take a week longer to sell it." Farmers who are booked for next week's sales won't lose their positions, he pointed out, but they will be pushed back a week.

Forbes said that possibly the Labor Day week will give some of the buying companies a chance to catch up and the holiday might help to ease the labor situation.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor for the local Tobacco Board of Trade, explained that the committee's action affects three selling days, Sept. 4, 5, and 6, since Labor Day or Sept. 3 this year is always observed on a sales holiday. No sales are held on Fridays, he explained.

"It puts everything a week late and that doesn't make us happy at all," he said. "I don't think the farmers and warehousemen are happy with the situation either."

The sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, Louis Williams, added, "I think it will make the season a week longer but over a period of so many weeks I don't think anything will be lost."

The tobacco sales holiday was discussed during Tuesday night's Pitt County Farm Bureau meeting and David Smith, president, said that, "Our farmers are very unhappy about the holiday to say the least."

He noted, "This has been an expensive crop from planting time through harvest. Then too, bills are due, interest rates are at an all time high and therefore the tobacco must be marketed as fast as possible." It was asserted that any let up in sales places a hardship on the producer.

"We feel that the way we market tobacco is outdated," he said. "Many of the farmers in this area have invested high sums of money to mechanize their operations, but we are marketing tobacco the same way our parents did."

The president continued, "The only way the mechanization of tobacco can be successful is to

Record Toll In Mexico

By CHARLES GREEN
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Torrential rains drenched rescue workers in some parts of southeast Mexico today as they searched for bodies or trapped survivors from the worst earthquake in modern Mexican history.

The rains added to an already serious flood problem and drove more people from their homes.

Late figures from the quake areas 120 to 220 miles south and east of Mexico City indicated more than 600 persons perished in the devastating earth shock at 3:51 a.m. Tuesday.

It was the highest death toll of an earthquake in Mexico since the keeping of such records started in the early 1900s.

President Luis Echeverria scheduled a bus tour of the devastated area today.

The quake, coming during the worst rainy season in 30 years, extended a disaster area that already covered much of central Mexico. Seventy-six persons have died in floods in the past month, the homes of more than 400,000 have been damaged and millions of dollars worth of crops have been ruined.

The earthquake which registered 6.5 on the Richter scale, struck at least 24 cities, towns and villages along the Sierra Madre range in the states of Puebla and Veracruz.

130 Pints

Some 130 pints of blood were donated to the Bloodmobile at the Greenville Moose Lodge yesterday.

"We just hope today will be as good and put us over our 244-pint goal," Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Red Cross Executive Secretary, said.

Today's hours are from 10 to 4 p.m.

$87.78 Average Day On Greenville Leaf Market

The Greenville Tobacco Market, now operating with four sets of buyers, sold more than one million pounds of tobacco yesterday for an average of $87.78 per hundred pounds.

The Greenville market sold 1,438,073 pounds of leaf for $1,262,389. Greenville's average was the second highest in the Eastern Belt yesterday.

Leading the markets in average was Goldsboro with an average per hundred pounds of $88.50.

The Farmville Market yesterday obtained its highest average for this selling season. That market average $97.13 per hundred pounds after selling 587,303 pounds of leaf for $511,755.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market, a larger volume of quality leaf tobacco yesterday was responsible for the high average. Offerings yesterday consisted of more leaf grades than any previous sales day. The volume of primings and cutters declined sharply as compared with other sales days. To date, the Farmville market has sold 4,100,121 pounds of tobacco for an average per hundred pounds of $85.67.

Other markets selling more than one million pounds of tobacco yesterday were: Wilson with 1,505,971; Rocky Mount with 1,107,007; and Kinston with 1,135,752.

Stabilization receipts for Eastern Belt yesterday totaled 90,102 pounds.

Plans for the modern, one-story structure show the building containing staff offices, conference rooms, a drafting room, an exhibit room for Eastern North Carolina products, a library and a 300-seat auditorium. It is to be completed by August, 1974.

The cost of the project is $556,000 and is funded in part by the State; the U.S. Economic Development Administration; and the Coastal Plain Regional Commission.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Saturday Ceremony

Miss Sarah Maude Hagan became the bride of Steven Michael Arnaud Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in the St. James United Methodist Church. The Rev. Christian White performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick T. Hagan of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Arnaud, also of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Frances Cain, organist, and Dick Brunson, soloist, who sang "We've Only Just Begun" and "I Take Thee, Dear."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown with a high neckline, cluny lace bodice accented with seed pearls and leg o'mutton sleeves of cluny lace with fitted cuffs. The skirt featured a wide lace flounce at the bottom and the chapel length train.

Her Juliet cap was covered with beau de soie and lace appliques with a chapel length illusion veil bordered in lace trim. She carried a nosegay of white roses, pom poms and baby's breath with bridal streamers.

The maid of honor was Debbie Hartsell of Greenville and the matron of honor was Sally Smith of Hobgood, cousin of the bride. They wore formal length lilac crepe gowns designed with an open collar of white crepe edged in crocheted lace. The cuffs of the long sleeves were also of white crepe edged in lace and the natural waistline was enhanced with a self-tie belt with long streamers. They each carried a nosegay of pink and orchid flowers with matching streamers.

Bridesmaids were Sue Hagan and Jeanie Hagan, sisters of the bride, Terry Peede, all of Greenville, and Judy-Wilcox of Raleigh. Their pink crepe gowns were styled identical to those of the honor attendants and they carried identical flowers.

Charles Davenport of Pactolus, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Pat Hagan, brother of the bride, Guy Sumrell, Lewis Gidley, Steve Heath and Bill Turcotte, all of Greenville.

The church was decorated with two crescent seventeen branch candelabra with an altar bouquet of white summer flowers flanked by standards of bridal greenery.

The bride attended East Carolina University and the bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is serving in the U.S. Navy, stationed in California. The couple will reside in San Diego after a wedding rip to unannounced points.

After the ceremony, a reception was held.

The refreshment table was covered with a crocheted cloth over pink and centered with an arrangement of pink, blue and yellow summer flowers flanked by candelabra adorned with ivy.

Mrs. Charles Davenport served cake and Mrs. H.S. Leggett Jr. and Miss Peggy Leggett poured punch.

Miss Jo Leggett presided at the guest book.

A wedding brunch was held at the Holiday Inn Saturday morning given by Debbie Hartsell and Judy Wilcox.

Mrs. Charles Davenport entertained at an after-rehearsal party at her home Friday evening.

WHAT SHOULD YOU DO WITH FOOD IF IT THAW'S?

Occasionally, frozen foods are partially or completely thawed before you discover that the freezer is not operating. Partial thawing and refreezing does reduce the quality of foods, particularly fruits, vegetables, and prepared foods. Red meats are affected less than many other foods.

You may safely refreeze foods that have thawed if they still contain ice crystals or if they are still cold—about 40 degrees F.—and have been held at this temperature no longer than one or two days after thawing. Foods warmed to 40 degrees F. or higher are not likely to be fit for refreezing.

You Can Refreeze Thawed Fruits

Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat, but it may spoil their flavor. So you can refreeze thawed fruits if they still taste and smell good. Of you can use them in cooking and baking or for making jams, jellies, and preserves.

Be Careful When You Refreeze Thawed Meats and Poultry

Meats and poultry become unsafe to eat when they start to spoil. Therefore, examine each package of food before you decide what to do with it. If the color or odor of the thawed food is poor or questionable, get rid of the food. It may be dangerous! Tests show you can refreeze beef, veal, and lamb that show no sign of spoilage. If the package has been opened, the meat should be rewrapped before refreezing.

Be Careful When You Refreeze Vegetables, Shellfish, and Cooked Foods

Often, you can't tell by the odor whether vegetables, shellfish, and cooked foods have spoiled. Bacteria multiply rapidly in these foods. So don't refreeze any of these foods when they have thawed completely. If ice crystals are still in the food, you can refreeze it immediately. Usually it is safe to do so, even though the quality may suffer. If the condition of the food is questionable, get rid of it. It may be dangerous!

Do Not Use Melted Ice Cream

Refreeze Food Quickly

Clean your freezer before refilling. When you refreeze thawed food, freeze it quickly.

If your freezer is full of warm foods, to get a quick refreeze it is best to take the food to a commercial locker plant. Chill to 0 degrees F. or below before taking the food back to your home freezer. Wrap the food with newspapers and blankets before moving it to or from the freezer plant.

To refreeze food at home, turn the adjustable temperature control, if your freezer has one, to its coldest position. When the current comes on again, the freezer will run continuously and the food will freeze quicker. Place the warmer packages against the refrigerated surface if possible, but pile them so air can circulate around them. After the food is well frozen, turn the temperature control to its usual setting. If the freezer is too full, move some of the colder packages to the refrigerator, and return them gradually to the freezer. Foods that have been frozen and thawed require the same care as goods that have never been frozen. Use refrozen foods as soon as possible.

Be Prepared

More Women Enter Field

By Jeanette Johnson

For The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Women currently compose fewer than 10 per cent of practicing physicians in the United States, but their number is slowly increasing.

Estimates are that approximately 19 per cent of students entering medical school this fall are women, compared with 16.8 per cent in 1972, 13.7 per cent in 1971 and 11.1 per cent in 1970.

At Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, one of the nation's largest colleges of medicine, with an enrollment of more than 800 medical students, women will make up 21.8 per cent of this fall's entering class. Dr. Jerome Parnell, chairman of the committee on admissions, says the increase in the percentage of medical students represents a sharp increase in the number of women applying for admission to medical schools.

Figures compiled by the Association of American Medical Colleges indicate that, in 1972, 16 per cent of all medical school applications came from women and in 1971, 12.8 per cent.

The upsurge in admission of women to medical schools comes little more than a century after Elizabeth Blackwell became the first woman to graduate from a school of medicine in the United States.

Random interviews with several of Downstate's women graduates suggest that one would be hard put to make generalizations about women physicians, whose motivations, talents and personalities are as varied as those of their male colleagues.

Dr. Dorothy Bocker was Downstate's first woman student. She was graduated in 1919 and recently retired from practice. Today she is 89 and lives in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Dr. Iris Slater was one of nine women who graduated in 1961 in a class of 135 students. An ophthalmologist, she has a private practice in Manhattan, appointments at Flower and Fifth Avenue hospitals and New York Medical College, where she is involved in research in glaucoma. She says she does not feel she encountered any particular problems in medical school because she was a woman, but feels she was treated differently when trying to obtain a residency.

"The interview at one of our more illustrious institutions really turned me off. The chairman did not ask me once about my medical interests," she recalls, "but he did spend a great deal of time on my social life."

Dr. Marie Zeterberg, class of 1954, chose pediatrics, the specialty that is by far the most popular among women physicians. "Pediatrics is a natural field for women. You feel very much at home here," says Dr. Zeterberg, who maintains a practice in Brooklyn.

Dr. Barbara Delano, class of 1965, says that her husband influenced her decision to study medicine. "I was always interested in medicine, and for a while I thought about being a nurse. I didn't want to give up the opportunity to be a wife and mother to be a doctor, but my boyfriend in college, who's now my husband, encouraged me, and made me realize that I could be a physician as well as a wife and mother."

Until July 1, when she completed her training and relocated to a hospital near Los Angeles, Dr. Jacqueline Struthers, class of 1965, was chief resident in cardiac and thoracic surgery at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. She was the first woman accepted for the medical center's surgical training program, and, obviously, the first to finish.

Dr. Struthers concedes that she has made sacrifices for her career. Recently married to a helicopter pilot, she says she wanted very much to get married when she was an intern, but waited six more years because she did not feel she could handle marriage and surgical training at the same time. Also, she says she does not plan a family.

Dr. Struthers feels that women patients will seek her out because she is a woman, and can establish better rapport with them. With male hospital patients, she generally waits a day or two to let them know her before she reveals that she

Practical Recipes Featured In Book For 'The Poor' Gourmets

By ANNE DARLING
NEW YORK (WNS)—
"Somewhere out there must be an audience that is literate and poor who could like a cookbook," says Miriam Ungerer, whose new book for "skinflint gourmets" is intelligently written, tartly explicit and—given the current mood of women in American supermarkets—utterly timely.

An experienced newspaperwoman and first-rate cook, Ms. Ungerer wrote "Good Cheap Food" (Viking) in reaction to elaborate or gimmicky cookbooks that assume their readers are not only as smart as gibbons and inventive as owls, but also rich, "since the recipes cost so much to make."

Ms. Ungerer has collected and adapted practical recipes from places where she has lived—many different states, islands of the Caribbean, and Europe (she was a United States Information Service reporter in Germany for five years). In addition, she is an avid reader of old cookbooks.

'Meat Mania'
Europeans do not share what Ms. Ungerer calls "the American mania" for meat. In Europe she learned to shop for and prepare unusual, inexpensive cuts of meat such as veal breast, lamb neck and ribs, and pork shoulder.

"It isn't necessary to use the expensive cuts of meat," she said. "The Europeans use meat, but in much smaller amounts, in stews and goulashes. And they eat wonderfully."

In "Good Cheap Food," which sells for $10 in hardcover and $4.95 in paperback, and was illustrated by her Dominique, Ms. Ungerer offers these suggestions, among others, for good cooks on a tight budget:

POT-AU-FEU . . . the mainstay of French home cooking, is Miriam

Get to know what an entire carcass looks like. (Her book includes diagrams.) Too many women, she says, gawk in "dazed wonder" at little packages in the supermarket. It's impossible to know what can be reasonably expected from a cut of meat if the cook has no idea whether it comes from the animal's neck or rear.

Shop for kitchen equipment in second-hand stores, junk shops, or at country lawn sales. Used pots and pans are often the best.

Learn about fats and their uses. (A section of her book is devoted to the subject.) Liver tastes better cooked in bacon drippings, for example, than in butter.

Iranian Dizi

One of Ms. Ungerer's favorite recipes is for "Iranian Dizi" a dish she calls "exotic but not weird." It's made with three kinds of beans and lamb neck. The author, who is married to a sports writer—that it appeared on the sports pages of a New York newspaper the next day.

This recipe for "Spaghetti Carbonara" is proof that all Italian food is not red. A bacon and egg

Those attending were Danny Smith, Dan Turner, Steven Hiter, Trellis Moore, Linn Moore, Jeffrey Davis, Timmy Moore, Wayne Drake, Michael Drake, Eddie Midyette, and Greg Strickland. Miniature mini bikes were given as favors and good-byes were said to Kenny and his mother.

concoction, the dish has no tomatoes or garlic—and will serve four persons generously for less than $2.50

Spaghetti Carbonara
¼ lb. lean smoked bacon in one piece (or some thick sliced lean bacon)
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1 lb. spaghetti, linguine or fettuccine freshly milled black pepper.

Those paper-thin slices of Incredible Shrinking American Bacon will add nothing to this dish. You will need a chunk of good, strong, smoked country bacon (or hog jowl) to give the spaghetti character. Cut a quarter pound of it into fat matchsticks and saute them slowly in a heavy skillet that has been rubbed with fat. Drain on paper towels and set aside. Reserve the rendered fat in the skillet; add butter if you haven't 3 tablespoons left.

Cook the pasta "al dente" in at least 6 quarts of boiling salted water. Meanwhile mix together the beaten eggs, cheese, black pepper, and the bacon sticks. This mixture must be awaiting the freshly drained hot pasta or, simple as it seems, the dish will be a disaster.

Drain the pasta well but quickly; then mix it by large forkfuls into the bacon-egg-cheese. Pour the warm reserved bacon fat over the spaghetti, toss quickly, and serve in hot soup plates with more cheese passed round. To my mid, a little freshly chopped parsley improves this dish, but then, to my mind a little chopped parsley improves almost any pasta dish.

PTI Director Gives Program

The Greenville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, International met Monday evening at the Holiday Inn. Hugh P. Stanley, evening director for Pitt Technical Institute, presented the program. He told of the curriculum to be offered by PTI to the secretaries in this area in order that they might qualify as certified professional secretaries.

Mrs. Hazel Rumbley, office manager for Morgan Printers, Inc., was welcomed by Mrs. Joyce Mills, president, as a prospective member. Other guests include Susie Sapp, CPS, Frances Swarr, both from the Raleigh Chapter, Bett Teterton, Faye Ingalls, and Mary Alice Johnson of the Washington Chapter.

During the business session, it was reported that four of the chapter's officers and one committee chairman attended a North Carolina Division meeting in Raleigh Saturday.

Those attending were Mrs. Mary Quiggins, vice president, Mrs. Karen Averette, recording secretary, Mrs. Yvonne Hardee, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Judith Garris, treasurer, and Mrs. Becky Jackson, chairman of the CPS and Education Committee.

DEAR ABBY: You were wrong when you advised against reporting the fraudulent welfare recipient. If someone told you that he had witnessed a robbery, would you advise him to "judge not"?

Welfare agencies welcome legitimate complaints, and each complaint is objectively investigated. The complainant may remain anonymous if desired, and his name is never revealed to the client. However, vague statements such as, "I know 10 people on welfare who drive Cadillacs and have $1,000 in the bank," are stupid and useless. A person making such a comment usually cannot name a single person who even comes close to that description. Complaints should be as specific and factual as possible.

We find that most complaints are not well-founded because the complainant is trying to "get back" at the recipient, or that he has drawn a wrong conclusion by not knowing all the facts in the case. But it is worthwhile to investigate each complaint.

If fraudulent and ineligible cases can be eliminated from the welfare roles, more resources will be available to help those who are truly in need, and the burden will be lighter on Mr. Taxpayer.

WEST VIRGINIA SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR W. V. S. W.: Thank you for your fair and helpful letter. Your answer was much better than mine. I believe all witnessed crimes should be reported, but encouraging every American to "inform" on his neighbor for an assumed wrongdoing would lead us uncomfortably close to becoming a police state, and that I abhor.

DEAR ABBY: I recently became very much attracted to a gentleman who proudly admits to being 73. He's a snappy dresser and is full of fun. I am a middle-aged woman, but this man leaves me in the dust when it comes to dancing, tennis, golf, and any other physical exercise you can name.

He seems very much interested in me. My question: At his age, is he harmless?

JOYCE

DEAR JOYCE: If you mean what I think you mean, if he's "harmless" he won't be able to do you any good. But whether he can do you any good without doing you any harm will depend on YOUR condition.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding that lady who wants to be spanked on her bare bottom: I will gladly oblige her. I am a 68-year-old widower. I am also a retired upholsterer with 50 years experience on seats and bottoms.

An afternoon session is scheduled from 2:00 to 3:30 o'clock at the same program will be repeated from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m.

Mitchell will demonstrate a special method of restoring the finish on old furniture. In addition to the refinishing process, he will show water ring removal, brass cleaning, wax removal, dent and scratch filling and give other suggestions on furniture care. Individuals may bring a small piece of their own furniture, for example, a drawer, and Mitchell will discuss proper refinishing methods for each piece.

The program is being arranged by Mrs. Sue May, Pitt County home economics extension agent. There will be no admission fee and interested persons are urged to attend the Doctor Develops Home Treatment that RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES In 15 Minutes or Your Money Back!

Queen Helene Mint Julep Masque 15 Minute Treatment Must Show Immediate Improvement or — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home-treatment that rinses away blackheads in a matter of minutes. It was demonstrated recently on five teen-age girls and three boys.

The results were breath-taking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cloth used to wash off the Masque. But this wasn't all! Acne-pimples improved after one application, enlarged pores reduced, and rough complexions became cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. These results certainly indicate why teen-agers are now saying "this is one product that really works". . . and why mothers of teen-agers have endorsed its use.

The Masque-Cream Treatment is indeed a remarkable discovery, not only for clear healthy skins, but also for the self-confidence, poise and self-esteem a fine complexion brings to teen-agers!

Anyone Can Use It

If you suffer the agony of teen-age blackheads, acne-pimples and rough unsightly complexions, give yourself this home treatment at our risk. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent, called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" were softly kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads and foreign impurities.

As it firms and hardens, its suction-action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your towel. And your skin feels clean. . . really clean. . . refreshed, smooth like velvet!

Start Now Improve Your Complexion

Don't take a back seat or be a wall-flower because of bad skin. If you want to get your full share of fun and parties. . . clear up your complexion and let Mint Julep Masque "Lead the Way"! You certainly owe it to yourself to try a single fifteen minute home treatment to convince yourself that this new Queen Helene masque-cream can work wonders for you.

Attention! MOTHERS of Teen-Agers

Queen Helene Mint Julep Masque is a MUST for you, too! It will help tighten sagging skin on face and throat, relax tired face muscles and stimulate a fresher, cleaner, more youthful complexion. Try a medicated Mint Julep Masque Treatment YOURSELF. You'll be delighted with the skin-tightening experience and more alive feeling that comes with every treatment.

New Outlet For Area Tobacco

Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., announced last week that the firm has sold $900,000 in tobacco to the People's Republic of China.

Thus we can see an important new market opening up for a product that is produced on our area farms. W.G. Glenn, president of Carolina Leaf and Edwin W. Skinner, senior vice president for overseas operation, said 800,000 pounds of Virginia flue-cured leaf will be shipped to Shanghai. Agreement on the sale was made last November at the autumn trade fair at Canton.

The sale of tobacco to China should be a plus all around. It provides a new outlet for American grown leaf, new customers for our tobacco processors and it will certainly help with our nation's balance of payments.

It will also provide new business for North Carolina ports, hopefully with Morehead reaping some of the benefits.

This is an important development in our world trade.

Ratification Of This Appointee Reasonable

The naming of Henry Kissinger as secretary of state replacing William Rogers should be a good move.

With Vietnam behind us and a new era of relations opening between the United States and China and the Soviet Union, no one could be in a better position to steer foreign policy than Kissinger.

He, after all, has been as personally responsible for bringing on this new era as anyone.

Henry Kissinger has often been a man engaged in secret negotiations in the past as the president's personal advisor. In this new position he will be more answerable to the public and more accessible to Congress as foreign policy matters develop. We hope there will be no difficulty in obtaining Congressional ratification of his appointment as secretary of state.

Big Money For Liquor Battle

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—If both sides raise and spend the amounts of money they're talking about in the statewide mixed drinks battle, better than $800,000 will be spent—most of it on television, newspaper, radio and billboard campaigns.

The actual amounts spent will probably never be known, however.

One side—led by the Christian Action League—says it plans to spend some $300,000, and will file publicly an accounting of contributions and expenditures.

The other side—backed by chambers of commerce, hotel-motel owners, developers and restaurant people—says a ballpark figure they have adopted is $500,000 and they will not file any reports.

"A report is not required by North Carolina law, and we have no intention of reporting," a source said. "This is a red herring raised by the opposition. They are saying that liquor money is going to come into the campaign, but there is no experience of this. The distilleries take a hands off attitude."

Sources of Income
Where will this money come from?

The Christian Action League, with some 7,500 churches as members, is setting specific goals for each church and leaving it up to the members to raise the money as they see fit.

Individual contributions are being received, officials report, and while a report of contributions is planned, the committee will accept anonymous contributions.

Asked recently if cash money without a name attached would be used, co-chairman Allen A. Bailey of Charlotte said the group will take any funds they can get for the fight against mixed drinks.

The spirit of the campaign was seen at a meeting of the Christian Action League leadership last week. One member present told Bailey that he had responded to the chairman's request to raise $800 in his community and in "half an hour on the telephone raised $1,700."

Bailey laughingly responded "Did I say $800? I mean $8,000; that's your goal."

The local fund-raiser laughed right back, and said, "I'll get it."

The anti-drink forces will sign their ads People Who Care About North Carolina.

Wet Strategists Busy
Meanwhile, strategists for the campaign for mixed drinks are operating from Charlotte where retired Southern Bell Telephone executive John J. Ryan is chairman.

The campaign has a definite chamber of commerce flavor with more than one fulltime executive with Charlotte Chamber serving actively.

Ryan, meantime, is stumping the state talking with backers, and was in Raleigh last week to meet with major real estate developers, including Edward N. Richards who developed North Hills shopping mall. He also met with Jerry Williams, executive vice president of the N.C. Restaurant Association.

The campaign for mixed drinks will launch a six-week intensive advertising promotion leading up to the Nov. 6 referendum. A Charlotte advertising agency, Cargill, Wilson and Acree, is planning the program which will concentrate on the economic benefits of mixed drinks and will be pitched to the theme of "Choice and Control."

Major Theme
A major theme will be that economic development of urban areas is geared to conventions, trade shows and sales meetings, and that national groups will be attracted to downtown civic centers in the state only if mixed drinks are available. The question of choice enters the picture, backers say, in that individual communities and counties which have ABC stores can make their own decisions over whether to allow mixed drinks if the referendum passes.

The pro-liquor forces do not plan to reveal sources of income—or even to name the finance chairman publicly—but a source said the bulk of the money will come from tourist interests, chambers of commerce, restaurant and motel-hotel owners and private citizens. A spokesman said they do not anticipate out-of-state money coming in, and that experience in Mecklenburg County's referendum in 1971 showed that none did.

During August and early September, both sides plan some press conferences across the state with charges and counter-charges flying.

Then, in mid-September the advertising campaigns will start, and by October Tar Heel residents will see saturation of billboards, air waves, bumper stickers and newsprint by the opposing sides.

No Retreat On Aide-Linkage

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

President Nixon's unequivocal linkage of his own Watergate defense to his claim of total innocence for former aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, a linkage that stunned even presidential aides, represents a high stakes gamble for the future.

In the privacy of the White House, Mr. Nixon has long stressed his total confidence in his two departed lieutenants whose resignations he accepted under pressure April 30. What surprised presidential staffers now in San Clemente was that he proclaimed their innocence so loudly in last Wednesday's press conference.

Why the surprise? Because the President's top advisers have always expected Haldeman and Ehrlichman to be indicted, and nothing has changed their minds. They believe special prosecutor Archibald Cox seeks to indict the two even without testimony against them by deposed White House counsel John W. Dean III. Thus the trials of Haldeman and Ehrlichman would become a de facto trial of Richard M. Nixon—precisely what presidential advisers wanted to avoid.

The Haldeman-Ehrlichman problem is submerged in the San Clemente euphoria generated by the press conference. Mr. Nixon handled his press inquisitors with hard authority and his aides now feel the worst is over. But they forget that the day Cox asks the grand jury for indictments lies ahead and that Mr. Nixon has now upped his own potential stake in those proceedings by tying himself so closely to his old aides.

A foretaste of that linkage came in late June with White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt's memorandum in response to Dean's charges before the Senate Watergate committee. But senior presidential aides let it be known that the Buzhardt memo's blanket defense of Ehrlichman and Haldeman was a blooper, not truly reflecting the President's desires.

Moreover, the consensus inside the White House than called for Mr. Nixon to separate himself from Ehrlichman and Haldeman. One senior aide close to the President privately blamed Ehrlichman personally for the extent of the Watergate crisis. Leaked White House stories forecast presidential disengagement from his two former lieutenants.

That such stories were mostly wishful thinking was revealed with disclosures that Mr. Nixon had given Haldeman White House tapes to monitor after being warned by the Justice Department of Haldeman's possible indictment. But not even his own staff was prepared for Wednesday's total commitment to the Haldeman-Ehrlichman cause.

Besides predicting their exoneration, Mr. Nixon did not bother to cloak his intimate association with their defense. In telling why he had given the tape of the Sept. 15, 1972, Oval Office meeting to private citizen Haldeman, Mr. Nixon did not bother with previous explanations by aides that the tape contained matters too sensitive for an outsider to hear. Rather, he said, "I wanted to be sure that we were absolutely correct in our response" to Dean's charges.

The press conference, furthermore, puts Mr. Nixon in the position of embracing the Ehrlichman-Haldeman testimony in detail while disputing in some degree almost everybody else—including Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen. The President's press conference account of his April 18 conversation with Petersen about the Ellsberg psychiatrist's burglary bears slight resemblance to Petersen's version.

Even the President's faithful supporter and former aide Clark MacGregor is now disputing Mr. Nixon. Mr. Nixon told the press conference he "first of all" asked MacGregor to investigate the Watergate burglary. MacGregor, who did not take over as Mr. Nixon's campaign manager until two weeks after the burglary, has no such recollection.

Calling A Tree Surgeon

(Art Buchwald has gone off for a few weeks to forget about Watergate. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns which he insists to the best of his recollection, at that point in time and in hindsight, everyone wanted to read again.)

WASHINGTON—The age of specialization has touched every part of our society. Recently I had tree trouble, a beautiful large oak was dying, and I immediately called a tree surgeon.

At first he didn't want to come. "I'm sorry, I don't make house calls," he explained.

"Then I'll cut down the tree and bring it into your office," I cried hysterically.

"Don't panic. I'll come over."

Three days later he arrived. He walked over to the oak and shook his head. He touched the trunk once, looked up at the branches and said:

"You have a very sick tree here."

"I know it. What can you do to save it?"

"I don't like to the look of those lower limbs."

"Neither do I," I said. "What can you do about the limbs?"

"I'm not a limb man," the tree surgeon explained. "I only do general trunk work."

"Do you know of a good limb man?"

"I know of one and I only hope for your sake he's available. That will be $25, please."

A few days later the limb man came. He was all business.

"You've got two broken limbs and a wound on your main branch. Also, I don't like those stub lesions which are bleeding sap."

"Do whatever has to be done," I said.

"I can't touch the limbs until we heal the lesions."

"Then heal them."

"I'm not a stub lesion expert. I'll give you the name of one. When he gets finished, I'll come back and work on the limbs. That will be $50, please."

The stub lesion surgeon arrived and worked for 20 minutes. Then he said, "Your tree is suffering from malnutrition. It has to be fed."

"Feed it," I begged, "and don't worry about the cost."

"I don't feed trees," he said indignantly. "You need a root man for that."

"You don't know of a root man, do you?" I asked.

"There's one out in Chevy Chase. I'll see if I can get him to come. That will be $75."

A week later the root man arrived with his drill and started operating on the oak. He poured nourishment into the ground near the roots.

"Will it be all right?" I asked him.

"The well you have around the tree is much too small. You're strangling it. I can give it all the food in the world and it won't do any good if the tree can't get any air or water."

"Then why did you feed it?" I asked.

"You told me to," he replied.

"I don't suppose you have anything to do with tree wells?" I asked.

Left To Find A Fortune

By HAL BOYLE
SUN CITY CENTER, Fla. (AP)—Every year thousands of young people from all over America migrate to New York City, hoping to find fame or fortune in the nation's largest metropolis.

HAL BOYLE

Jerry Gould, a native New Yorker, reversed the trend. He left Manhattan because he could no longer stand it, found opportunity in Florida, and now is one of the country's larger home builders.

"I simply got tired of being pushed about and intimidated in New York," he remarked. "The people who like it feel it is the best place in the world to be, but I feel sorry for them."

"There are a lot of cultural advantages in the big city, but I resent the fact that most of the people who live there don't make enough money to enjoy them. Unless you have money in New York, where's the fun?"

"That isn't true in Florida, and other parts of the country. Here you don't have to be rich to play a little golf, go fishing, or just sit and enjoy the climate."

It wasn't sour grapes that led Jerry, who had spent three years in the Army during World War II as a medical technician aboard a hospital ship, to pull up stakes and move south in 1950.

He was a highly successful advertising salesman in Manhattan and had saved up enough money to buy a partnership in his father's retail clothing firm in Miami. Within a short time he also had become a partner in a leading advertising firm and then entered the booming land development field in 1955.

Since then he has built 6,000 homes in Florida and elsewhere.

A pioneer in obtaining legislation to outlaw shady land sale schemes, he prefers the role of "community developer" rather than that of a promoter merely selling land on the installment plan.

He and a partner designed and built Lehigh Acres, a community of some 15,000 people 13 miles from Fort Myers.

But Jerry expects Sun City Center here to be his real life monument in community development. As president of the W-G Development Corp., he bought the 2,000-acre site from the Del E. Webb Corp., founder of Sun City, Ariz. The site has since been enlarged to 11,000 acres, and by 1980 Gould expects 30,000 people will be living there in three adjoining communities.

"That's far enough, I feel, to project for the future," said Jerry. "Theoretically, we have room to put 60,000 residences here and a population of 150,000 persons."

Then he added candidly: "But I'm 49 now, and I may not live to see it."

At present Sun City Center is largely a retirement town limited to residents aged 50 or over, where children under 18 can come only as visitors. Later segments appealing to younger family groups are planned, as well as an area for small ranch estates.

The developers also hope to draw residents from such nearby cities as Tampa, Sarasota and St. Petersburg.

EMPTY PROPHECY
Nothing intrigues us more than to try to peer into the future. We all like to engage in prophecy, and there is no one who can engage our attention so quickly as a person who pretends to speak with authority and assurance concerning the events of tomorrow.

We should not waste time trying to predict tomorrow, rather we should try to determine it. Big Selling Job For Demo Funds

By JAMES LOVELAND
NEW YORK (UPI) — Super-salesman John Y. Brown Jr., the fellow who brought you Kentucky fried chicken, is taking on another selling job that he hopes will be the beginning of a new political movement in the country.

"We've got to get the people involved in political campaigns," the 39-year-old Brown said, "and the best way they can become involved is to donate to the party of their choice."

To accomplish this end Brown, the honorary treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, plans to use television to sell the people on the idea of political contributions.

The vehicle will be a four-hour nationwide telethon scheduled for Sept. 15 on NBC to raise money for the Democratic Party.

"We are still some $3.1 million in debt from the 1968 campaign," he said, "and we hope to raise at least $3 million to take care of the creditors."

"America Goes Public" The telethon will be the second Brown has organized to bail the financially strapped party out of the red.

The first, shown in July, 1972, raised some $4 million with an average contribution of about $10, he said. Next month's telethon, to be called "America Goes Public," will be roughly one-third entertainment, one-third preaching and one-third hard sell.

The "solution to a Watergate is to change the method of raising campaign funds," the millionaire said. "The public will have to take up the responsibility and television is a revolutionary method raising funds."

Brown, a handsome six-footer whose graying hair and southern charm make him seem like a real Kentucky colonel, said the "country is disappointed and bitter but I think it wants to get involved with political campaigns."

Financing Problem
"If we could prove to Congress that normal people are willing to donate $10 or $20 to a particular party, then we could do away with large contributors."

Brown said the number one problem in the American political system is the financing of campaigns.

"It is the core of the political system and we would never have had a Watergate if things were different," he said. "The system breeds corruption because large contributors always expect something in return."

Television, the force behind the sale of some $700 million worth of Kentucky fried chicken in 1971, should not be allowed to package candidates and pitch them to the public, he said.

"We should not have candidates packaged by Madison Avenue," Brown said. "But we should use it to have candidates debate, be cross-examined by the press and cross-examined by the people. Television can show you for what you are."

He said that on the upcoming telethon, to be broadcast from Los Angeles, many of the Democratic leaders will be on hand to take calls from viewers.

Salesman Extraordinary
For Brown, the telethon seems to be a natural progression in his career as a salesman of extraordinary success. Described as a natural born salesman who could unload raincoats in the Sahara, Brown was the founder, former president and recently retired chairman of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. He invested $160,000 in borrowed money to start the company in 1964 and five years later the stock was worth between $55 million and $60 million.

The company became a subsidiary of Heublein Inc., in a $245 million merger on July 8, 1971.

It was because of Brown that Col. Sanders, creator of the secret chicken formula, has become a familiar face throughout the world.

Brown left the company recently to start a hamburger franchise called Ollie's Trolley. He already owns a chain of restaurants called Lums.

Speaking about the telethon, Brown said, "The people are interested in this country of ours. I think the public will pay and now is the time to find out. It will be one hell of a selling job."

"That's what I thought." I finally found a stonemason who agreed to build a well around the tree for $400.

It took him two days to do it and when he finally finished he said, "You know, mister, you got a real sick tree there."

"I know it," I said. "It's none of my business, but if I was you I'd get myself a good tree surgeon."

dispute makes Mr. Nixon the sole buttress for Ehrlichman's astonishing claim that MacGregor showed no interest in uncovering the truth about Watergate.

Most remarkable in revealing Mr. Nixon's mindset is his interpretation of a June 1972 call from FBI director L. Patrick Gray that staffers might mortally wound him. Presumably, Gray meant Haldeman and Ehrlichman as well as Dean. But what did Mr. Nixon say? "I assume that the individuals he (Gray) was referring to involved this operation with the CIA," said the President.

All this, say Nixon staffers, reflects merely the President's unconditional loyalty to those unflinchingly loyal to him. Mr. Nixon's critics contend, without proof, that it suggests far more: a plot involving Mr. Nixon and his ex-aides, possibly reflecting fear the aides might turn on him. Whatever the cause, it ties Mr. Nixon to the Watergate future in potentially ominous ways.

will be their surgeon. "They're generally a little doubtful at first. Then they start thinking, 'Gee, if she's the only woman surgeon here, she must really be good.' The first thing you know, they're bragging about having a woman surgeon."

One of two Downstate graduates who specialized in neurology, Dr. Iris Fletcher Norstrand, class of 1941, an attending neurologist at the Brooklyn Veterans Administration Hospital, says her career has been "a struggle every inch of the way."

Her parents bitterly opposed her plans, and refused to help finance her medical education. Her sister, playwright Lucille Fletcher, put her through medical school.

"A woman has to be three times as good as a man to get the job a man gets," says Dr. Norstrand. "Promotionwise, I believe I've had an extremely difficult time. One has to spend so much energy fighting that should be spent taking care of patients and teaching and doing research."

Dr. Norstrand has taken out some of her frustrations in writing. She is looking for a publisher for a novella she finished about a woman physician.

your food there in an emergency.

2. Try to locate a source of dry ice in your community.
3. Keep canning supplies on hand, and keep canning equipment in good working order. At times, the only practical solution is to can thawed food to save it.
4. During the seasons when power failure is frequent in your community, it's good insurance to run the freezer between 10 degrees and 20 degrees below zero.
5. In choosing a freezer, select one with good insulation. A well-insulated freezer keeps food cold hours longer than a poorly insulated one, when the power goes off.
6. Use care in preparing, packaging, and freezing food. The more sanitary you are in preparing food for the freezer, the better it will be able to withstand a stoppage of the freezer. Sanitary preparation means fewer bacteria to cause spoilage. Frozen bacteria are not dead bacteria; when they warm up they become active.

The GAO Is More Than Government Bookkeepers

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office has come a long way since the days when its auditors spent most of their time checking government ledgers to make sure the taxpayers' money was being spent properly.

The GAO still has plenty of accountants on its payroll. And it still keeps a close eye on government spending.

But the congressional watchdog agency tries to do much more.

"We are trying to make our work more relevant to the congressional intent," says Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, who has headed the agency since 1966.

"We are trying to look into the question whether programs are working or not, getting into program effectiveness, program evaluation," says the 59-year-old Kansas-born Ph. D. and career public servant.

The 3,100 professionals on the GAO staff include lawyers, engineers, industrial management specialists, business administration graduates, statisticians, actuaries, systems analysts and computer experts.

There is even one medical doctor because some of the most expensive programs GAO checks on are in the health field.

The agency also has a number of consultants on call for specialized inquiries.

The increasingly variegated professional staff gives a measure of how widely GAO's activities have spread beyond the old assignment of auditing the books and making sure the dollars appropriated were spent for designated purposes and no other.

During one recent month, chosen at random, GAO sent 27 reports to Congress. Among the titles:

—Progress and problems in achieving objectives of the school lunch program.

—Need for improved controls for identifying and correcting safety defects on light aircraft.

—Need for improved consumer protection in interstate and land sales.

—Social Services: do they help welfare recipients achieve self-support or reduced dependency.

—The federal catalog program: progress and problems in attaining a uniform identification system for supplies.

—Progress and problems of U.S. assistance for land reform in Vietnam.

—Extent of cost growth and delays in construction programs of the Department of Defense.

—Opportunities for improving the Atomic Energy Commission's administration of agreements with states regulating users of radioactive materials.

—Analysis of cost estimates for the space shuttle and two alternate programs.

Part of GAO's work load, Staats estimates 10 per cent, is dictated by specific statutes.

His agency is required, for example, to audit the books of government corporations. Some single-purpose laws, such as the one authorizing government guarantee of loans to the Lockheed Corp., specifically require GAO oversight and reports.

Requests from Congress account for 25 per cent of GAO's effort, and this segment is growing.

Some of the requests come from committee chairmen, and GAO treats most of these as commands.

Others come from individual members and, while the agency does not look on these as having the legal force of committee requests, it tries to avoid flatly turning any down.

Sometimes requests from individual members fall into a pattern that suggests a general survey and report to Congress as a whole. In other cases, GAO staffers negotiate with the inquiring lawmaker's office and agree on reasonable limits for investigation.

The rest of GAO's projects, roughly two-thirds, are self-generated.

The agency keeps a resident staff on Capitol Hill, closely in touch with committee staffs, and has others detailed to major executive agencies.

The GAO also has 16 regional offices in the United States, including one in Hawaii, and four in foreign countries, including one in Saigon which may be phased out.

These outlying representatives comprising more than half the GAO staff, are under instructions to keep abreast of the far-flung governmental operations, anticipate developments in which Congress will be interested and make suggestions for studies.

Reports, often critical, on individual Defense Department contracts were a stock in trade of the GAO during much of the 60's.

There are now fewer such reports now. Staats has cited three reasons for the shift in emphasis:

—The Pentagon's own Defense Contract Audit Agency has been established to take over most of such individual audits.

—The Truth in Negotiations Act, for which GAO pressed, requires contractors to submit certified cost and price data in their negotiations.

—GAO has broadened its investigative scope.

The watchdog agency enjoys generally good relations with its master, Congress. It has little trouble over its annual budget, which may reach $100 million this year.

But the relationship has not always been one of unalloyed affection.

In 1965, the year before Staats became comptroller general, a House Government Operations subcommittee looked into allegations that, among other things, the GAO was putting headline-hunting titles on its reports on defense contracts and making them public before the firms concerned had a chance to see them in final form.

According to GAO sources, the subcommittee's report produced a chill in the agency that led to considerable caution for several years.

GAO apparently has long since recovered its self-assurance.

The process presumably has been helped along by the present comptroller's policy of shifting emphasis toward efficiency studies rather than searches for irregularities—although the latter have not been abandoned.

Some changes in procedures that began after the subcommittee investigation continues — for example, more neutrally worded titles and a rule that Congress and the persons reported on get copies of GAO reports a day before they are released generally.

Moreover, the GAO reproduces, essentially in full, as annexes to its reports the comments and disagreements of agencies and persons reported on.

Sources in the agency say, in fact, that there has now appeared some counter-criticism that GAO has become too easy on business. If the complaints come from both directions, they contend, GAO must be doing its job.

The agency has not hesitated to spell out in its reports instances of what it considered less than full cooperation by some of the governmental units it has studied. It has disagreed with defense agencies, units of the Treasury and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., among others.

There is some firing back.

At a recent congressional committee hearing, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, the Chief of Naval Operations, took strong exception to what he called inaccurate GAO estimates of the cost of homeporting warships in Greece.

As for his general opinion of the agency, the admiral said, "I think they serve a useful function. I think that their work, like that of every other agency, ranges from very good to very bad, and I think this particular study was neither the best nor the worst I have seen."

Zumwalt complained also that when the GAO makes a study "it is not possible for the body being investigated to see the report in time to respond in an intelligent way."

The GAO, for its part, says it allows at least 60 days for the subject of a report to study the preliminary draft and make its comments before publication.

This is one reason, Staats says, why reports sometimes appear dated. A major study requires up to 18 months to complete.

Last year, the GAO was handed an additional, potentially controversial job it did not want.

When Congress passed the Federal Election Campaign Act, requiring much record-keeping and reporting and setting limits on spending for political advertising, it resolved a dispute as to whether the act should be administered by an independent commission by dividing the responsibility.

The GAO was given the task of overseeing the reporting provisions relating to campaigns for president and vice president; the development of advertising spending regulations for all candidates for federal office, and auditing and reporting on the campaign fund built up by the dollar checkoffs taxpayers authorize on their income tax returns.

The secretary of the Senate and clerk of the House were given major responsibility for those provisions of the act regulating campaign activities for their branches.

Staats created an Office of Federal Elections within the GAO and brought in an old Budget Bureau colleague, Philip S. Hughes, to head it.

Hughes, in an interview, called the act workable, but not perfect.

But he said he thinks he and his staff of about 30, who have the job of overseeing some 2,000 registered political committees and groups, have made progress.

Many of the campaign committees are hit-and-run affairs put together for a single effort, he said. But he said that among the continuing ones, such as national party and state central committees, the word is out that "you'd better watch out for those bastards from the GAO. We didn't think they'd come around, but they did."

Hughes said his unit has referred about 30 cases to the Justice Department. Most, he said, are traceable to sloppy Budget and Accounting Act. The same law set up the Bureau of the Budget, now the Office of Management and Budget.

The General Accounting Office belongs to Congress, as the budget office belongs to the president.

The comptroller general, it is true, is appointed by the president for a 15-year term, but once a comptroller is confirmed by the Senate only Congress can remove him. It never has.

The salary is $42,500 a year, the same as a senator or representative, and at the end of his term he may retire on full pay.

He thus enjoys a notable degree of independence.

The GAO staff is under Civil Service, with the attendant protections and prohibitions against political influence.

Staats was deputy director of the Bureau of the Budget, a registered Democrat but essentially a nonpolitical career civil servant, when President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed him comptroller general.

Secret Executions In Syrian Army Reported

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian secret police have secretly executed 42 army officers following an abortive attempt to assassinate President Hafez Assad, foreign diplomats in the Syrian capital report.

Syrian informants said 60 or so officers had disappeared after being arrested by the secret police, which is headed by Assad's brother, Col. Rifaat Assad.

The diplomats said the president was ambushed on July 12 as he was touring northern Syria. His car was riddled by bullets, and a report published in Beirut a week after said he was shot in the leg. Lebanese doctors who treated him at the time said they performed minor surgery to correct a leg inflammation.

The diplomats said the plotters were Sunni Moslems, the majority sect in Syria, who resented Assad's systematic promotion of Alawite Moslems to senior positions in the army.

Assad is an Alawite, and the sect has come to dominate the ruling Baath Socialist party, since he seized power in November 1971.

Along with the arrests, the Assad brothers were reported to have instituted a widespread purge of Sunni Moslems among junior officers. The diplomats said no senior officers have been reported implicated in the assassination attempt. But there was speculation that the defense minister, Gen. Mustafa Tlas, who is the only Sunni Moslem in the Baath hierarchy, might become vulnerable if the purge continues.

The Sunnis have been in opposition to Assad's regime since it made public a new non-sectarian constitution in March that did not designate Islam the state religion. At least 55 persons were reported killed and more than 60 wounded when the army quelled rioting mobs of Sunnis in Homs, Hama, Aleppo and Latakia.

Reinstating Of Policies

RALEIGH (AP) — Durham Life Insurance Co. is reinstating 12,000 mortgage insurance policies it cancelled earlier this year.

Company President T. A. Upchurch said Tuesday notices to the policyholders would be mailed promptly.

"We regret the inconvenience to these policyholders from our earlier action," he said in a prepared statement, "and will move as rapidly as possible to complete the reinstatement."

State Insurance Commissioner John Ingraham held three hearings after the company cancelled the policies. Company officials testified the policies were terminated after repeated attempts to make them profitable failed.

Ingraham had not issued a ruling pending negotiations between his department and the company.

The cancellations left many elderly couples with no life insurance on their home mortgages and many said they were unable to obtain similar coverage from other firms because of their age.

At a hearing in May, a company official said the firm lost $500,000 by writing cancellable mortgage insurance policies and would probably lose another $1 million if the company continued to write policies for persons over 55.

Upchurch said the company's decision to reinstate the policies had been reached in cooperation with Ingraham.

$800,000 Settlement In Damage Suits

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Nine lawsuits which asked a total of $8,025,000, in damages from the city of Winston-Salem have been settled out of court for a total of $800,000, city officials announced.

The suits were brought in connection with an explosion Sept. 27, 1969, at the National Guard armory on Link Road in Winston-Salem in which three men were killed and several others hurt seriously.

The Winston-Salem Board of Aldermen voted unanimously at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon to approve the settlement.

Six survivors and the estates of the three men who were killed sued the city, claiming the blast was caused by methane gas leaking from a city-operated landfill adjacent to the armory.

The plaintiffs claimed the city was negligent in handling the landfill, but the city countered that if anyone was negligent it was the guardsmen and the state, which operates the armory.

The trial in Forsyth Superior Court began Aug. 20, and several of the survivors had testified.

The state of North Carolina joined with the plaintiffs, seeking reimbursement from the city for $145,000 in claims paid under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The federal government also was seeking reimbursement for hospital expenses it paid for the victims.

In addition to the settlement Tuesday, the state agreed to drop its attempts to obtain reimbursement for Workmen's Compensation and the federal government agreed to release about 90 per cent of its claims.

The jury was excused Tuesday morning and a lengthy discussion followed in the judge's chambers. Later in the afternoon, the Board of Aldermen met and agreed to the settlement.

The state Supreme Court had previously denied a request from the city that it be granted governmental immunity in the case.

The highest single settlement announced Tuesday was $218,000 to Harold F. Dunevant, whose hands were nearly burned off and whose face was severely scarred in the 1969 blast. He had sought almost $1.5 million in damages in the largest of the nine suits.

Smoked Out Of Subway

NEW YORK (AP)—"The way it jolted the train knocked a lot of people down and about two seconds later there was smoke all over," said one subway rider stranded when a concrete tunnel archway collapsed.

"We were trying to get down to the floor because we couldn't breathe," recalled Mary Ann McReedy, a key punch supervisor from Brooklyn. "A lot of women were crying and fainting."

She was among hundreds of rush hour passengers trapped for more than an hour Tuesday in sweltering 115-degree heat after a massive chunk of concrete smashed into the side of the train.

One Long Island man died and 18 other persons were taken to hospitals for smoke inhalation, heat exhaustion and other injuries.

Passengers and firemen said that despite the heat and smoke there was little panic.

Testimonial Dinner Is Planned Sunday

FARMVILLE — The officers and members of the H. B. Sugg Charitable Association, formerly The H. B. Sugg High School Alumni Association, will honor Herman Bryant Sugg, principal-emeritus of the school at a testimonial dinner Sunday, Sept. 2, at Farmville Central High School, at 3 p.m.

Sugg was born and reared on a farm in Greene County near Snow Hill. He was educated in the Grammar School at Snow Hill and graduated from Mary Potter Memorial School at Oxford and Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. He furthered his education at Lincoln University.

He served in World War I, and after his discharge from the military service, he accepted the job as principal of a school in Farmville.

From 1918 to 1957 Sugg labored at "putting" the school among the best in North Carolina. Under his supervision and direction, the school grew from a four-room makeshift building to a modern brick edifice of 32 rooms and 34 teachers, the Charitable Association Chairman, Cleveland Vines said.

By request of his fellow citizens and the Pitt County Board of Education the school was named H.B. Sugg High School. It stands today as a fitting memorial and as a deserved tribute to this man," he said.

He went on, "The H.B. Sugg Charitable Association, with chapters in Washington, D. C., New York; Baltimore, Md.; Stanford, Conn. and Farmville take pride in honoring Mr. Sugg for his outstanding educational contributions.

Vines said the Association is inviting all teachers, students, administrators and citizens of Farmville and Pitt County to join with them to help make this a momentous occasion.

The speaker for the affair will be D. H. Conley, former superintendent of Pitt County Schools. Additional remarks will be made by Sugg's daughter, Mrs. Vera S. Mosley; Mrs. Patricia W. Hagan, president of H. B. Sugg Charitable Association; L. H. Mosley, a former teacher of H. B. Sugg School and now principal of Gumberry High School in Gumberry.

Did No Harm To Hostages

STOCKHOLM (AP) — "Don't harm them—then didn't harm us," two women hostages cried as police Tuesday night seized the pair of gunmen who had held four people for 132 hours in a Stockholm bank.

"We never felt the boys were a threat to our lives," 21-year-old Kristin Enmark told a newsman. "We were scared that the police would do something that would force them to turn desperate."

The two convicts—safecracker Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, and life-tem murder Clark Olofsson, 26—surrendered after police pumped tear gas into the bank vault in which they were holding three women and a man prisoner.

There was no bloodshed, and doctors at the hospital to which the hostages were taken said, their condition was "good under the circumstances."

Miss Enmark denied reports that one of the other two women had been raped repeatedly.

"None of them did anything to us," she told newsmen who interviewed her in Sabbatsberg Hospital.

Hit-Run Driver Struck 2 Cars

Greenville police are continuing their search today for the driver of a vehicle that struck two cars at different locations early yesterday afternoon and fled both scenes.

Officers reported the first incident occurred about 1:05 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive.

There a car owned by Mary Ellen Foreman, Route 1, Fountain and driven by the unidentified hit and run driver collided with a car driven by Fannie Alston Jackson of 110 West Moore St., causing an estimated $250 damage to the Jackson auto.

The Foreman car left the scene of that collision and at 1:10 p.m. was involved in a collision at the Little Mint parking lot North of the Tar River Bridge on Greene Street.

Police, who investigated that mishap reported the Foreman car struck a sign, wall and a parked car at the parking lot.

Owner of the parked vehicle was identified as Robert Bruce Braxton of 500 Church St.

Damage was set at $250 to the Foreman vehicle, $150 to the Braxton car and $125 damage to the sign, wall and bushes at the Little Mint.

Following the second collision, the driver of the Foreman auto jumped from the car and ran into the low-lands North of the Tar River. Officers, who searched the area, were unable to locate the driver.

Investigators reported one passenger in the Braxton car was injured in the collision. They said the passenger received minor injuries when knocked to the ground, as she was stepping from the parked auto, by the force of the collision.

Investigation of the case is continuing.

Farm Bureau Board Backs Med School

Dr. Wallace Wooles, Dean of the East Carolina University Medical School, told the board of directors of the Pitt County Farm Bureau last night that "the people of Eastern North Carolina need and deserve adequate medical facilities including enough doctors to take care of the people in this area.

Dr. Wooles said, "We need a four-year medical school at ECU with intern and residency programs in community settings to enhance the medical school's capacity to serve the medical needs of the population in Eastern North Carolina."

Members of the board adopted a resolution supporting the four-year medical school at ECU. J.C. Galloway of Greenville, a member of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation board of directors, outlined plans to seek the support of the other 99 county Farm Bureau organizations in the state.

Plans are also underway to present the resolution to the voting delegates at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation in Charlotte in December, it was pointed out.

David Smith, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, presided during the session.

Boeblingen, Germany (UPI) — Half of West Germany's service stations will be converted to self-service places by 1980, an oil company predicts.

A survey by the Shell Oil Co. showed 44 per cent of all motorists prefer to service their cars themselves. Shell predicted that by 1980 Germany's 44,000 gasoline stations will be reduced to 30,000 and only half of them will be manned.

Inflation May Be Hurting The European Even More

Rural Medicine Real Challenge To 'Ivy Leaguer'

MODERN DOCTOR—Dr. Allan Graham, foreground, with lab technician at the Crum-Kermit Clinic, a privately owned medical center in Crum, W. Va., where the Yale medical school graduate is the only physician.

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
CRUM, W. Va. (AP) — It's a long way from the Ivy League to this coal country community but Dr. Allan Graham hopes to interest others in the route he recently followed.

"There is a lot here," he said. "Things of interest and excitement you'd never find in a medical center like Yale."

As Graham leaned back in his chair to speak, a bright beam of sun found its way through the tall pines just outside his office window to strike his necktie, accentuating the vivid yellows and golds.

"There is such a tremendous challenge to rural medicine. You do so much as an individual," he said. "In urban areas, you're just one in a very large crowd."

A native of Chicago and graduate of Yale medical school, Graham finds himself head physician — and only physician — at the Crum-Kermit Clinic, a privately owned medical center.

"This is the last place on earth I ever thought I'd be," he confessed.

After completing an internship at Stanford, he joined the National Health Service and soon discovered his first outpatient experience would be in West Virginia.

"It certainly wasn't what I had intended," Graham said, "but once here, I was delighted."

The 28-year-old doctor, whose hair style and taste in clothing appear out of place, feels right at home.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Inflation is hitting Europeans, too, perhaps harder than it is Americans. Associated Press correspondents in Europe looked in on three families, all of them headed by postmen, to see how they are faring. In London, postman Jerry Hodges brews his own beer. A French postman tills his own vegetable garden. An Italian is making it on tips. The first of three articles follows.

By HARVEY MORRIS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Terry Hodges is a London postman, an average wage earner and family man. He hasn't had roast beef on the dinner table since Christmas or bought a new suit in years. He can't afford a vacation away from home.

Advise Removing Luggage Tags

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take those old tags off your luggage, advises the Air Transport Association. Even though you're proud of all the places you've visited, keeping on the old baggage tags can confuse baggage handlers and increase the possibility of bags going to the wrong destination. The association emphasizes that the only tag, in addition to identification, on your bag should be the one for the current trip.

He's one of the many Britons hit by inflation that is running close to 10 per cent this year. Like many of his countrymen, Hodges says he is keeping his family going by working 20 to 22 hours overtime a week.

His regular work week is 43 hours and for this he is paid the equivalent in pounds of $67.50. His overtime brings it up to $75 to $85.

Of his $3,400 annual salary, $1,900 is tax free because he is married. He is allowed $500 tax free for each of his two children. His wife receives a government benefit of $2.25 a week for their youngest child.

From his salary each week, he pays $2 for his pension and $2.20 for health insurance. On his basic salary he pays a tax of $3.10 a week. On the money he receives for overtime work, he pays an additional tax amounting to 30 per cent.

Hodges' paycheck supports his wife June and children, Jacqueline, 5, and Karen, 2. Hodges, who is 35, has been with the Post Office 3½ years. It's a secure job, he says, but the security is offset by limited financial rewards.

An unofficial survey of food prices, issued by a consumer group, suggests grocery bills rose two per cent last month.

For the Hodges, statistics on inflation amount to a simple formula: They get less for their money — less food and less clothing, the two areas where inflation has really bitten deeply.

Offer Tips To Carpet-Buyers

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you're planning to purchase a new rug or carpet, the General Services Administration's (GSA) new booklet, Carpets and Rugs, contains many valuable tips on fiber, texture, flammability, size, carpet wear and price.

For a copy of Carpet and Rugs, send 90 cents to Consumer Product Information, Pueblo, Colo.

There is a big saving in growing your own food and everyone wants an allotment, so Hodges has to go on a waiting list. Price hikes have also been hitting clothes, particularly for the children. Mrs. Hodges hopes to save up enough to buy a new sewing machine and make them herself.

Hodges bought a pair of shoes a couple of years ago for $5. He said he went to buy some recently and found the cheapest were $11.25 and any worth having would have cost $17 to $20.

He has bought two suits since he was married seven years ago.

"If I bought another one now it would have to be on credit and I would have to do another hour or so overtime each week to cover the cost. It's just impossible," he says.

The Hodges family lives in the upper half of a rented house in Colliers Row, a working class suburb. It is owned by

With best lean bacon at $1.25 a pound, the family has reluctantly changed to the cheaper and less appetizing "streaky" bacon.

The prices of salad greens and other vegetables, once almost giveaways in British stores, have also shot up and Hodges wants to start growing his own.

He has a small garden, so he applied for an "allotment" — a form of suburban strip farming with small plots of land leased out by local councils. But now there is a big saving in growing your own food and everyone wants an allotment, so Hodges has to go on a waiting list. Price hikes have also been hitting clothes, particularly for the children. Mrs. Hodges hopes to save up enough to buy a new sewing machine and make them herself.

Hodges bought a pair of shoes a couple of years ago for $5. He said he went to buy some recently and found the cheapest were $11.25 and any worth having would have cost $17 to $20.

He has bought two suits since he was married seven years ago.

"If I bought another one now it would have to be on credit and I would have to do another hour or so overtime each week to cover the cost. It's just impossible," he says.

The Hodges family lives in the upper half of a rented house in Colliers Row, a working class suburb. It is owned by

All Facets Of Transportation

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Transportation systems more than adequately cover New York State, which boasts of service by nine railroads; a 14,500-mile highway system, including the New York State Thruway; 22 airports, including 11 jetports; an 800-mile free waterway system, the Port of New York and the world-famous St. Lawrence Seaway.

When they moved there in September 1970 the rent plus local taxes amounted to $10.40 a week. In 1972 this was increased to $12.75 and now it is $16.75.

House prices have doubled, even trebled, in recent years and the average cost of a home in the area where the Hodges live is about $25,000. But for the Hodges owning a home is out of the question.

Inflation means to them that luxuries are the first to go. Terry and June haven't had a night out together since their wedding anniversary last August. They even brew their own beer and roll their own cigarettes.

The Hodges have two weeks of vacation coming up.

"We won't be going away," says Hodges. "We'll just take the kids out for days at the seaside." The seaside means Southend, London's Coney Island.

To pay for the vacation Hodges has had to work massive overtime, sometimes bringing his total working week up to 86 hours.

"Most day I start at 5 a.m. and don't get home til seven in the evening.

He also works Saturdays and one Sunday in five.

"Overtime's a curse," he says. "but we couldn't live without it. If some emergency crops up, like an unexpected bill, I just have to do a few more hours. But sometimes overtime is short."

Terry runs an 11-year-old car to get him to work in the early hours and to take the children out — "it's cheaper than paying all the bus fares." But when it gets too old he doesn't think he'll be able to replace it.

Like everyone in Britain the Hodges get free health treatment but adults now have to pay a 50-cent prescription charge for medicines which until a few years ago were free.

Hodges stays in his job because he likes it and it's secure, with a pension and a strong union.

"But we just seem to be getting worse off all the time. I used to put two pounds in my pocket at the beginning of the week to buy my meals, now I need nearer three pounds" — $7.50. "I'm doing the same amount of work and more but in buying power I'm poorer than before."

"I don't know what's to blame. Perhaps it's the Common Market or the changeover to decimal currency. The government says world food prices are higher. At least they've almost stopped blaming the greedy workers."

Building your money: Why different savings plans pay different rates.

Savings plans can be confusing. We know. At Bank of North Carolina, N. A., we offer five different ways for you to save money. And four different interest rates.

Why?
Simple. The longer you let us keep your money, the more we can pay you for it. Because we can earn more with it.

But when you see things like "minimum deposit period, 2 years", that shouldn't scare you.

Your money is always available to you, should there be an emergency.

Let's say you've deposited $100 in your Money Builder savings plan at Bank of North Carolina. It earns 6 1/2% interest if you deposit that $100 for at least two and a half years. Let's say that you need that $100 after it's been in our bank for 15 months. You can get it immediately, but you'll have to lose a certain amount of interest. You'll receive no interest for the last 90 days, but you'll receive 5% (instead of 6 1/2%) for the twelve months your money was in the account.

There is another reason for having different savings plans that pay different rates. It lets you choose the plan that is best for your needs. That helps you build your money best.

And the best way to select the best way to build your money is to come in and talk with your Bank of North Carolina banker. He'll explain in plain English what our legal-sounding banking terms mean. We want to help you build your money. That's our business.

Hawaii Now Hunting Way To Tap Nature's Boilers

EDITOR'S NOTE — Coursing upward from the center of the earth are streams of molten rock, the source of the world's 600 volcanoes. Now scientists want to know if they can tap nature's vast heat potential to produce useful electrical power.

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — What do Iceland and Hawaii have in common? Volcanoes, that's what. But Icelanders have learned to tap the heat of their volcanic heritage to produce cheap, nonpolluting power. One day, Hawaii and the other volcanic areas of the world may do the same. Even now University of Hawaii scientists are testing this potential basin of heat with the help of a scientist from the Colorado School of Mines who has been drilling into an active volcano for months. They are seeking evidence of underground steam or superhot water beneath two active volcanoes on the island of Hawaii, Kilauea and Mauna Loa. In Iceland, the capital city of Reykjavik long has tapped underwater steam and hot water to produce electricity and to provide hot water for residences. But the sources of Icelandic volcanic power are more accessible than those elsewhere. Hawaii, biggest of the eight inhabited Hawaiian Islands, is 200 miles from the island of Oahu, where densely populated Honolulu and the Navy's big base at Pearl Harbor are located. If successful, the Hawaiian venture could lead to an inter-island electricity-generating system that would free the islands of present requirements for importing fossil fuels across the Pacific, with resultant high costs for electricity. And it could have beneficial impact on the energy problems of the U.S. mainland and many other parts of the world for these reasons:

1. It could open the way to tapping steam or hot water for electrical energy from the bowels of the world's 600 active volcanoes, most of which lie in the so-called "ring of fire" encircling much of the Pacific basin. The American volcanoes, which might be tapped besides those in Hawaii, are in the Aleutian islands, the Alaska Peninsula and possibly those in the Cascade Mountains. The latter are believed to be "dormant," not extinct.
2. It might also point the way to harnessing the heat still underlying many of the earth's numerous inactive volcanoes.
3. Technology expected to be developed during the volcano-probing effort might also be used to harness hitherto inaccessible or unrecognized

"geothermal" resources in non-volcanic areas of the United States and elsewhere. These include estimated vast areas of deep-lying "hot rock" that might be used to create electricity-generating steam if water could be piped down to them. The National Science Foundation, through its Research Applied to National Needs (RANN) program, has provided $252,000 for the first year of a possible five-year project. Hawaiian state and county governments have pledged another $200,000. The University of Hawaii sought nearly $5 million in federal funds for the first two years. Says Dr. Raymond Zahradnik, one of NSF's energy specialists: "We must first be convinced that there is (extractable) geothermal energy in the volcanic area, and then we must be convinced that it can be successfully and economically used for generating power." So far, he says, the agency is encouraged by the results of another project that was underway before the University of Hawaii was awarded its grant. That venture involved grants totalling $563,000 to Dr. George Keller of the Colorado School of Mines to drill a test hole into the bowels of Kilauea volcano. Kilauea is one of the most active volcanoes in the world but, like Mauna Loa, Hawaii's other active volcano, has seldom erupted explosively. Since 1969, Kilauea has been more or less constantly active, pouring out lava in what scientists call "controlled" fashion. Part of Keller's quest was to determine whether any reservoirs of steam or hot water, if found, would be accessible enough, and of sufficient size, to serve as practical power sources. Keller started his drilling early this year at a point about a mile from Kilauea's main crater, which towers 3,400 feet above sea level. By mid-July, after slow, difficult drilling, the drillers reached a depth of more than 4,000 feet — some 600 feet beneath the ocean's surface — and struck what may turn out to be pay dirt. "The drilling was terminated at that point," says Dr. Zahrad-nik, "because the drilling was very difficult. But we had obtained scientific results ... very exciting." He said that Keller and his aides had found a very sharp increase in temperature to some 300 degrees Fahrenheit at the bottom of the hole. "It's very likely that a production well can be found elsewhere on the island, but we're hoping to follow through on this with scientists of the University of Hawaii." Even if Keller had struck a steam or hot-water reservoir, it couldn't have been used as the underground source. Keller's hole is located in a national park where commercialization of the nation's natural resources is forbidden. It will remain for the University of Hawaii scientists to determine whether practical sources of energy exist elsewhere. They have plenty of room to explore, by drilling and other means, because the island has five active and inactive volcanoes that have merged to form the largest volcanic pile on earth. "Confident that their quest will be successful, the scientists envision building a pilot plant for the initial production of electricity in about a year or so. "I think I'll be living long enough to see electrical energy produced from molten magma," says Dr. John W. Shupe, the university's dean of engineering, the principal investigator for the project. "As a paper-shuffling dean," he says with a smile, "I'm pretty excited about the whole thing."

School Is For Drunk Drivers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco is opening a mandatory school for drunk drivers. Seventy persons put on probation have been sentenced to attend the four night sessions over a period of a month. The school's purpose is to make sober and better drivers out of the students.

Sees Restored Beef Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scarcity of beef in the supermarkets may be nearing an end, according to an Agriculture Department spokesman. "There seems to be a little buildup under way," he said. "Earlier this month we had verified that 70 packing houses were closed. By early this week we estimated that fewer than 50 were still closed," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified. Price controls for all foods except beef were removed July 18. The lid on beef is scheduled to be removed Sept. 12. In a department report issued Tuesday officials said production of all red meat in July was 2.651 billion pounds, down 5 per cent from June, but about the same as last July. Other details of the report included: —Beef output in July was down 3 per cent from June, but about equal to that month a year ago. The January-July output was 4 per cent less than 1972. —Veal production in July was down 4 per cent from June, and was 27 per cent less than last July. Production in January-July was 27 per cent less than a year ago. —Pork production declined 11 per cent from June to July, and was down 1 per cent compared with last July. January-July output was down 6 per cent. —Lamb and mutton production increased 10 per cent from June to July and was 16 per cent above last July. However, January-July production was 5 per cent below last year. —Poultry meat output on a ready-to-cook basis dropped 3 per cent from June to July, and was down 1 per cent in January-July from a year earlier.

Propose Discarding Subversives List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is thinking about discarding a list of some 300 so-called subversive organizations originally compiled for use in screening government job applicants. "I think they're tending now toward abolishing it," said one official. "The list is of dubious value. Why have something that's absolutely worthless?" One source said only about 20 of the organizations remain in existence. The list includes groups ranging from the Committee to Uphold the Bill of Rights to the National Blue Star Mothers of America.

Among the active groups are the Communist Party U.S.A., the Ku Klux Klan and various offshoots of both. Such groups as the Black Panthers and others in government disfavor during the turmoil of the 1960s never made the list. Department sources said the criminal division and other officials have prepared memos recommending that Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson do away with the list. Department spokesman Horace Webb refused to discuss contents of the criminal division recommendation because he said Richardson had not seen it yet.

Prehistoric Cultivation

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee archaeologists have found what they call the earliest known evidence of plant cultivation by prehistoric inhabitants of the eastern United States. The group, directed by Dr. Charles H. Faulkner and Dr. Major McCollough, found the charred residue of domesticated sunflower seeds on Watts Bar Lake in eastern Tennessee. They dated them about 5,000 years ago.

Texas Prisons Require Work

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Convicts in the Texas prison system are required to work 40-hour weeks in agricultural, industrial, construction or maintenance programs. Prison officials say because of this employment the cost of keeping a prisoner in Texas is $4.55 a day, compared with $20 a day in states without the work programs.

Auto Price Decision In A Week Will Try Impose Patronage Curb

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council may decide within a week whether to grant Phase 4 price increases sought by the nation's big four automakers, a council spokesman says.

because a public hearing had been held.
The proposed hikes, ranging from $61 a model sought by American Motors to $106 a model sought by Ford, take effect automatically unless the council vetoes them. General Motors has asked for an increase averaging $102 a model; Chrysler, $70 a model.

Representatives of all four manufacturers, however, have said the increases will be inadequate to meet the increasing costs, and additional hikes may be requested in the near future.

Members of a council hearing board questioned the automakers at a day-long public hearing

Tuesday. Ford and General Motors were asked if they still needed the full amounts requested in view of the fact that Chrysler and American Motors had proposed lower increases. Representatives of both Ford

Counter Suit By Policemen

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Charlotte policemen have filed a $150,000 countersuit against a black man. He has charged that two policemen stopped him while a white woman was a passenger in his car, and assaulted him.

Wilbert Woodrow Alexander, 24, who had filed the original action, listed as defendants the two policemen he said stopped him, their supervisors, and the city of Charlotte. In the countersuit the policemen deny the charges and ask $100,000 damages. One of them, J.D. Ensminger, asks an additional $50,000 on the claim that Alexander hit him and bit his finger. Alexander had said Ensminger threatened his life.

Ensminger is defendant in a $1 million suit charging him with shooting a 17-year-old black youth to death two years ago. The suit was filed two months ago.

and GM said they would take a "hard look" at the situation for competitive reasons.

This raised the possibility that the council might trim the Ford and GM requests.

Representatives of all four automakers indicated to the council that they would probably seek additional price increases shortly to cover higher labor and materials costs.

Henry W. Welch, vice president for finance of General Motors, said GM has not had a price increase to cover material or wage costs since December 1971, although such costs have increased $92 per vehicle on the average.

The increases now under consideration, the automakers say, are to recover the cost of government-mandated safety and antipollution equipment on 1974 models, including improvements for bumpers, seat belts and roofs.

Kenneth C. Merrill, comptroller for Ford's North American automotive operations, questioned whether "these price adjustments should be considered price increases at all, because the products are changed to give benefits to the customer that are at least equal to the costs."

That view was challenged by the only hearing witness who did not represent the automotive industry, Peter J. Petkas of the Corporate Accountability Research Group, a Ralph Nader-affiliated group.

"The mere fact that safety and emission control standards are federally mandated is no justification for unquestioningly passing their cost on to the consumer," he said.

JOB MISHAPS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Department of Commerce says 27 deaths and nearly 35,000 injuries from on-the-job accidents were reported during May, 1973.

City Sanitation Strike Ended

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—About 40 sanitation workers ended a 1½-day strike Tuesday. The city agreed to permit them to leave as soon as they complete each day's assigned tasks.

City Manager Francis Luther said the same service will be maintained—garbage collection at least twice in eight days for each household.

Arrest Hoffman For Drug Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Abbie Hoffman, a founder of the Youth International Party (Yippies), has been charged with selling $500,000 worth of cocaine to plain-clothes policemen here.

Police said Hoffman, another man and two women were arrested Tuesday "without any incidents or any struggle" after they sold the three pounds of cocaine in a room at the Diplomat Hotel on West 43rd Street.

Hoffman, 36, was one of the eight defendants in a conspiracy trial that stemmed from demonstrations during the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago. The charges eventually were dismissed against all eight defendants.

It would be on a share-for-share basis. It would create the nation's third largest publicly held mortgage insurance company, with $2.34 billion insurance in force and $59.3 million in total assets.

Four Injured In Accidents

An estimated $2,300 property damage resulted here yesterday from two traffic collisions which saw four persons injured.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 2:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Oak Streets involving cars driven by Francine Elks, 17, of 304 Prince Rd. and Thurman Decator Vincent of 214 Arlington Dr.

Would Curb Cash Outlay In Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The use of large amounts of cash for political contributions or to pay campaign expenses should be prohibited, says the head of the government's new federal elections unit.

"The most serious problem is cash," Phillip S. Hughes said in an interview discussing the experience the Office of Federal Elections has gained since the federal campaign election act went into effect last year.

Hughes' office, part of the General Accounting Office, administers provisions relating to record keeping and reporting in campaigns for president and vice president.

"There's nothing much you can do about (cash) unless someone starts talking," Hughes said. "The law should prohibit any significant cash receipts or expenditures."

Watergate investigations have brought widespread public attention to big transactions in currency during the 1972 presidential campaign, especially by the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

The Senate has passed a campaign practices bill that includes a $100 limit on cash contributions and his fate is uncertain in the House.

Hughes estimated that he and his staff of about 30 are responsible for checking on some 2,000 registered political committees.

"Of course, a lot of the political committees are hit-and-run operations — many (George) McGovern people, for example, will probably never surface again," Hughes said. "But the party committees, the state central committees and the like are continuing."

The permanent political organizations are likely to be more careful in their record-keeping and other practices now that GAO is looking into their books, he said.

"They'll get serious if they think we're serious"

Hughes said most 1972 violations of the law were traceable to inexperience and sloppy record keeping, but "the best way to conceal skulduggery is not to keep good records ... I cannot believe that with large amounts of loose cash floating around and with no good records kept some people weren't creaming it."

Hughes said his office has referred 30 instances to the Department of Justice for possible prosecution, and that the department has been slow to prosecute, looking for malice and intent to conceal.

"We took the position that with amateurs running so many of the committees, violations would be a dime a dozen and we would be selective in referring them" Hughes said. "We had 100,000 pages of records to review and you could probably find some kind of violation on each page."

Judge Rules Today On Nixon Tapes Turnover

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A ruling on whether President Nixon must turn over tape recordings demanded by Watergate prosecutors was expected today from a federal judge.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's decision would wrap up the first round of a historic debate headed for the Supreme Court.

Nixon's lawyer, Charles Alan Wright, and his courtroom adversary, special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, agree that the final decision will influence government and the presidency for years to come.

Cox set the stage for the confrontation when he subpoenaed nine tapes of conversations between the President and a number of White House aides implicated in the Watergate scandal.

The Senate Watergate Committee, whose hearings produced the disclosure that Oval Office conversations had been taped routinely, also has gone to court to seek access to the tapes.

Committee members feel the tapes would shed light on various contradictions in the testimony of key presidential aides who appeared before the panel.

Nixon has said the tapes would be ambiguous. He has based his refusal to disclose them on the claim of executive privilege—the theory that the Constitution grants a president the right to withhold information if he judges it to be in the national interest.

"We do not contend for a moment that Richard M. Nixon is above the law," Wright has argued before Sirica.

He said the Constitution confers certain powers upon the president and added, "These do not put the man above the law, but they do limit the extent to which the law can make its force felt against the man who holds that office."

Cox, however, contended that not even a president is absolved of the obligation to furnish information necessary to a criminal investigation.

Union leaders have begun lobbying with members of the House of Commons and plan a demonstration on Parliament Hill Thursday. The non-operating employees now make an average of $3.54 per hour and initially demanded a 21.6 per cent increase over two years. The railways offered 13.5 per cent.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Barbara Eden has filed for a divorce from her husband of 15 years, actor Michael Ansara.

In the suit filed Tuesday in Superior Court, Miss Eden asked for custody of their 7-year-old son Matthew and child support and alimony from Ansara.

The 35-year-old Miss Eden starred in television's "I Dream of Jeannie" series. Ansara, 40, has appeared in numerous television shows, including "Broken Arrow." They were married in January 1958.

EMPLOYMENT IN JULY TOPS '72
RALEIGH (AP)—Nonfarm employment in North Carolina was down in July as compared with June but higher than a year ago.

State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel reported today that the July employment totaled 1,941,400 and was off 10,700 from June but 35,800 higher than July a year ago.

Creel explained that the July drop resulted largely from vacationing textile, apparel, furniture and school maintenance employees.

The labor commissioner reported that average factory earnings of $2.95 showed no change in July, but that weekly earnings were down $1.48 to $118.59 due to a shorter work-week.

Might Defy Work Order

OTTAWA (AP)—Some of Canada's striking railroad workers are ready to defy a back-to-work order from Parliament if they don't like the terms of the order, according to union officials.

Ray Jones, president of the 10,000-member Toronto local of the Associated Non-Operating Railway Unions, suggested railroad workers may call in sick if they consider Parliament's settlement unfair.

"We're not going to bow down like sheep again," he said, referring to the back-to-work order from Parliament that ended the 1966 national rail strike after nine days.

Another union leader said, "The only question is how widespread the dissident membership is."

Robert Stratton, chairman of the Montreal strike committee, said a shift back to rotating strikes would be one possibility. The non-operating employees held four weeks of regional walkouts of varying durations before launching the nationwide strike seven days ago.

Parliament is scheduled to meet Thursday to pass legislation to end the walkout. It could either adopt a settlement to the wage dispute or order arbitration.

Union leaders have begun lobbying with members of the House of Commons and plan a demonstration on Parliament Hill Thursday. The non-operating employees now make an average of $3.54 per hour and initially demanded a 21.6 per cent increase over two years. The railways offered 13.5 per cent.

Ayden-Grifton Hopes To Be In Thick Of Race For Loop Title

By WOODY PEELE

(One of a series)

LITTLEFIELD — The Ayden-Grifton Chargers went 8-2 last year and only finished an amazing third in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Greene Central grabbed off second place with a 9-1 mark, while Southern Nash took the title with a 10-0 mark.

This year, however, Coach Mike Overton, entering his second year as the head Charger, feels his team should be the one to beat.

Seven starters return off the offensive unit, and seven are also back on defense, including some who got both ways.

"It's a good nucleus," Overton said. "But we don't have too much depth. We're going to have to stay healthy to be a true contender."

Last year, this was the downfall of the Chargers. They lost key people in key situations, and it may have cost them the title. "We should be as good or better than last year's team," the coach said, "if we stay healthy."

The offensive backfield may be the strongest point of the team. All of the backs are returning and they have some backup strength. Greg Nelson returns to the quarterback position, and Overton feels he has improved his passing. "He should be one of the better passers in the conference," he said. "He's also a threat to run and a good ball handler."

The tailback will be veteran Tony Koonce, who filled in most of the season last year when Willie Stewart was hurt. He picked up 750 yards in six games. Tom Craft returns as the fullback. He was used mostly for blocking last year, but Overton says he'll be running more this year.

Milton Brown returns at the split end position where he caught 26 passes last year, leading the team. The tight end will be Don Phillips, who didn't play last year, while flanker Melvin Stewart is back.

The offensive line has several returning veterans. Mike Rose returns at center, while All-Conference Ronnie Dixon is back at the right guard spot. Jesse Brown has been moved from the defensive to offensive tackle for this year, while the left guard is newcomer Willie Williams. Ned Craft, up from the junior varsity will be the other tackle.

"We were worried about the line at first," Overton said, "but it has been looking good so far. We should be improved over last year, but again we can't afford injuries here."

In the defensive line, there is a lot of experience. Ronnie Salmon is back at one defensive end, while Brown will be at right tackle. Frank Rackley, a transfer, will handle the guard position, while another newcomer, Mike Garris, will be at the other guard. Ernest Dixon returns to the left tackle spot. The other defensive end spot isn't certain yet. Either Ronnie Dixon or William West will handle.

Meanwhile, during both practice sessions yesterday, the Pirates continued to work on their conditioning, and in inserting new wrinkles into their offense and defense. Time was also spent on polishing plays.

East Carolina now has a little over a week left before its opener with N. C. State in Raleigh on September 8.

"The line is big and strong and should be one of our stronger points. We average over 220, and still have quickness."

Rom Craft returns to one of the linebacker spots, while freshman Markham Wheatley has been surprising in grabbing off the others. The secondary will have Milton Brown back at safety, with Melvin Stewart at one halfback spot again, and Paul Ricciarelli, up from the junior varsity, at the other.

One of the other bright spots should be the kicking game, where Melvin Stewart returns to handle the kickoffs and extra points. Ricciarelli appears to be set for the punting.

Overton's style of offense is to keep the ball on the ground to control it, but he notes that the team will pass more than they did last year. "If our defense can keep them from scoring, the offense will run more to keep them from getting it as much."

In the Eastern Carolina race, Overton likes his own teams chances, but figures it should be a four team race, with Southern Wayne, Greene Central and Farmville Central as the four vying with the Chargers for the title.

"Injuries will be our number one problem. If we can avoid them," Overton said, "we can be right in the race to the end. But we have to stay healthy."

After 15 Years, Ray Nitschke Bows Out; Riggins Leaves Jets

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Nitschke's eyes were filled with tears. He had lost the battle with age—a more determined foe than any lineman he had faced in his 15-year National Football League career.

"There's no room on the Packer squad for three middle linebackers," he said, "so I'm retiring."

There was only one regret for the 36-year-old veteran, "...that I can't turn the clock back to 1958 and become a Packer all over again."

His voice wavered, his eyes grew more moist.

"The spirit's still there, but the numbers game got to me."

His expression was nothing new. The brash insistence of Time that aging stars leave the game they love has claimed untold numbers of veteran players.

"I've been prepared for this for the last month or so—even when camp started," Nitschke said. "But I wanted to be prepared to help out if I was needed ... if they called on me."

The call never came. Packer coaches had to concern themselves with Jim Carter, Nitschke's replacement since 1971. The fact that Nitschke had anchored Green Bay defenses through five championship seasons and two Super Bowl crowns just couldn't stop the clock.

There was another, less emotional, departure from pro football Tuesday—that of running back John Riggins from the New York Jets' camp. Riggins, who had been holding out for over $100,000 after gaining 944 yards and being voted the club's Most Valuable Player last season, returned to his Centralia, Kan. home after contract negotiations failed.

"I went for all the marbles," he said. "It was all or none. The way I see it now, I don't think I'll be back."

Meanwhile, things were returning to normal at other NFL camps after wholesale cuts Monday brought rosters down to the 49-man limit.

The Minnesota Vikings traded wide receiver Gene Washington to the Denver Broncos in exchange for wide receiver Rod Sherman and an undisclosed draft choice.

Washington, 28, is a seven-year veteran and a former first round draft choice. His career statistics include 172 receptions for 3,087 yards, but a foot injury has bothered him the last two seasons. A former hurdler at Michigan State, Washington's best year came in 1968 when he caught 46 passes for 756 yards.

Sherman, who has played with the Oakland Raiders, Cincinnati Bengals, then Oakland

Strawderman To Miss 3 Contests

Butch Strawderman, a 6-3, 218-pound junior, has become the second Pirate sidelined because of injuries, East Carolina coach Sonny Randle announced.

Strawderman suffered a sprained knee in practice, and will miss from four to six weeks of play. Dr. James Bowman, team physician, said that it might be possible for him to be ready for the home opener with Furman, but it was doubtful that he would be able to play in the road games against N.C. State, Southern Mississippi and Southern Illinois.

The big linebacker was an honorable mention All-Southern Conference last year as a sophomore and was expected to play a key role in the defense this year.

Cunningham Is Back In Court

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association will present a motion in U. S. District Court Friday, requesting a temporary restraining order against the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association in a case involving the services of Billy Cunningham, who now has been a star for both clubs.

The case involves litigation over which team Cunningham should have played for in the 1971-72 season and where he should play this season.

The Cougars are seeking to halt the Philadelphia team from proceeding with a suit in Pennsylvania seeking Cunningham's return to the 76ers.

The Cougars filed suit earlier this year against Riko Enterprises Inc. of Philadelphia, owner of the 76ers, asking $1,044,383 as lost revenue, expenses and punitive damages for the year they contend they were denied Cunningham's services.

Cunningham, who led the Cougars to the ABA East Division regular season title last

Oliver's Homer Paces Pittsburgh

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
You must be kidding, Al Oliver with an inferiority complex? But there it was.

Long known for his swaggering confidence, the Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder admitted Tuesday night that he's a "hit-and-hope" hitter.

"I hit and hope for the best," said Oliver after hitting a home run to start the Pirates to an 8-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Oliver, who usually boasts that he's the "greatest" and excludes immodest self-assurance, was not so positive Tuesday night despite the big blow.

"I'm not a home run hitter," said Oliver. "I'm a hard-luck hitter. If I was paid for line drives, I'd be the first million dollar player in baseball."

"I was just glad the homer got us going."

The homer not only got the Pirates going, it kept them coming in the National League East race. They kept the pressure on front-running St. Louis and remained two games behind as the Cardinals beat the Houston Astros 8-3.

In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the San Francisco Giants 1-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos 6-1; the New York Mets turned back the San Diego Padres 8-6, and the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Atlanta Braves 9-6.

Cardinals 8, Astros 3
Lou Brock's two-run single keyed a four-run St. Louis fourth inning and lifted the Cardinals to an 8-3 decision over Houston.

The Cards trailed 3-0 going into the inning after Houston's Bob Gallagher hit a two-run double and John Edwards a run-producing single in the second inning.

Phillies 1, Giants 0
Bill Robinson's seventh home run in the last 10 games backed Wayne Twitchell's four-hitter in Philadelphia's 1-0 success over San Francisco.

Dodgers 6, Expos 1
Steve Garvey's home run keyed a two-run rally in the fourth inning that started Claude Osteen and Los Angeles to a 6-1 decision over Montreal. After Garvey's home run tied the game 1-1, the Dodgers scored the tie-breaking run on singles by Willie Crawford, Bill Russell and Ron Cey.

Mets 8, Padres 6
Wayne Garrett's 10th homer of the year broke a sixth-inning tie and triggered a five-run rally that carried New York over San Diego 8-6. Winner Jon Matlack survived a two-run rally by San Diego in the first.

Cubs 9, Braves 6
Henry Aaron smashed his 706th career homer and knocked in four runs, but Chicago rallied for three runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth to beat Atlanta 9-6. Aaron's three-run shot in the first inning put him within eight homers of Babe Ruth's monumental record of 714. The Atlanta star has had 33 so far this season.

American League scores:
Cleveland 4, Kansas City 3; Texas 5, Baltimore 3; Minnesota 5, Detroit 0; Chicago 6, Milwaukee 4; Oakland 6, Boston 1, and California 5, New York 2.

EMPHATIC OUT—Umpire Ed Vargo calls Clarence Gaston of the San Diego Padres out at home plate as New York Mets catcher Ron Hodges holds his glove high to show he has not dropped the ball after the tag. Gaston tried to score on a sixth inning bunt by Clay Kirby, but was caught by a strong throw from Mets third baseman Wayne Garrett. The Mets won, 8-6, in Shea Stadium in New York. (AP Wirephoto)

Decker Tosses Fifth Straight Twin Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
A little rain isn't such a very bad thing. Just ask Minnesota pitcher Joe Decker, who stepped into the sunshine after a June shower made him a starting pitcher.

Decker tossed a five-hitter Tuesday night, shutting out Detroit 5-0 for his sixth consecutive victory. That's not bad for a guy who spent two months waiting for a chance to pitch.

The loss kept the Tigers seven games behind Baltimore in the American League East race. The first-place Orioles had their 14-game winning streak ended by Texas, 5-3.

Elsewhere in the American league Tuesday night, Cleveland edged Kansas City 4-3, Chicago downed Milwaukee 6-4, Oakland defeated Boston 6-1, and California beat New York 5-2.

Decker was the long man in the Twins' bullpen—and not terribly happy about it—in April and May. "For the first two months of the season, I pitched 11 innings," said Decker.

Then the Twins got rained out of a game in Cleveland in June and Manager Frank Quilici's rotation loosened up to the point that Decker could get a start. He's been a revelation ever since.

"Finally they went with me, and I'm thankful for the chance," said the pitcher, who ran his record to 9-5 with his shutout over the Tigers. He has not lost since July 13.

Joe Lis drove in two of Minnesota's runs with a single and a homer, dropping the sagging Tigers to their fourth straight loss and 10th in the last 15 games.

Rangers 5, Orioles 3
Baltimore's 14-game winning streak ended when Texas beat an old nemesis, Dave McNally, 5-3.

McNally had won 17 consecutive decisions since 1969 against the Rangers and their predecessors, the Washington Senators.

Indians 4, Royals 3
Frank Duffy drove in two runs and Cleveland hung on to edge Kansas City 4-3, dropping the Royals 5½ games behind first-place Oakland in the AL West.

Tom Timmerman shut the Royals out until the eighth but Fran Healy made it close with a three-run homer against reliever Ken Sanders.

White Sox 6, Brewers 4
Rookie Bill Sharp stole home and Bill Melton hit his 17th homer of the season, as the Chicago White Sox defeated Milwaukee 6-4.

Tony Muser doubled home two runs for the White Sox and Pedro Garcia and Dave May homered for the Brewers.

Angels 5, Yankees 2
Bob Oliver ripped three straight hits including his 15th homer, helping California defeat the staggering New York Yankees 5-2.

Not Quite Your Average Coach

By B. F. KELLUM
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Al Conover, Rice University's unpredictable head football coach, likes to keep his players and assistants guessing as well as the opposition.

It's all because "Big Al" thinks football should be fun as well as hard work.

He believes he can have a winning program and also one in which the players enjoy what they are doing.

Discipline has been relaxed. There are no bed checks. The players can grow hair and chin whiskers down to their knees if they are able and so desire.

Rice players have just one rule—they must conduct themselves in a manner becoming a Rice football player at all times.

During a basketball game last winter, Conover didn't think one of his players was abiding by that rule in the stands and he turned bouncer and escorted the player out of the Rice gym.

Last year, his first season as the Owls' head man, Conover turned somersaults on the field, directed an opponent's band and threw a chair through a dressing room window.

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) — Presbyterian College withdrew its application for associate membership in the Carolinas Conference Tuesday after the conference reaffirmed its rules on athletic grant-in-aid. And an application for full membership by Campbell College was tabled until the fall meeting in December.

Associate membership would have allowed Presbyterian to play for the conference football championship.

Presbyterian, which along with Newberry had withdrawn from the league last fall, had wanted an increase in the number of football scholarships.

The conference reaffirmed that state grants for North Carolina students be counted in the total number of football grants-in-aid allowed a school.

The fall meeting will be at Catawba College. Other members of the conference are Lehigh Rhyne, Atlantic Christian, Elon, High Point, Mars Hill, Pfeiffer, and Guilford.

Wrestling Car Tough Enough For Yarborough

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — "Ever wrestled a bear, or locked your arms around a 1,000-pound steer?" asked race driver Cale Yarborough.

"Well, I never did either of those things. But steering a 3,800-pound stock car racer around this track comes about as close as you'd want to get. It will do until you get to the bear or the steer."

Yarborough, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty were among the first drivers to check into shopworn old Darlington International Raceway today as preparations began for the 24th running of the Southern 500 on Labor Day.

The entries in Monday's $135,000 event were to begin practice runs around the 1½-mile oval during the day.

They will begin qualifying Thursday for positions in the 40-car starting field. Yarborough, Baker and Petty, are leading candidates for the front row pole position.

It will be nothing new for any of them.

These three, more than any of the nearly 50 entries, hold very special attention at Darlington, oldest of the South's big stock car racing ovals.

When Yarborough was 11, speedway guards spent the day keeping him from clinging to the wire fence that separates the front grandstand from the racing surface. Yarborough still lives only 10 miles from the track.

At the age of 10, Petty already knew his way around Darlington pits. His job was to keep the cooler full of ice so his racing father, Lee Petty, could quench his thirst during pit stops.

Baker, when 12, slipped past the guards so he could be in victory lane when his father, Buck Baker, won the Southern 500 in 1953.

The three youngsters, now in their 30s and financially secure from purse winnings, won the famed race in later years.

"It's an entirely different racing situation here than at any other track," says Yarborough. "At Darlington, your biggest competition is the track—not the 39 other drivers in the lineup."

"That's why the regular tour drivers love the old place, and at the same time hate it with a passion," said Yarborough, whose only victory at Darlington came in 1968, when he was a member of Ford's factory team.

"They built the place in 1950, when stock cars did well if they reached 80 miles per hour," he added. "Now we run 150 miles an hour under racing conditions, and we're doing it with heavier, more powerful cars under the same conditions that prevailed 24 years ago. Only the racing surface has been replaced."

Net Suspensions Are Ruled Out

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Now that the threat of suspension is over for some of the top names in professional tennis, 200 players from all over the world can concentrate their efforts toward winning the U.S. Open title.

The International Lawn Tennis Federation announced Tuesday that it would make no decision until after the Open regarding possible suspension of players who have signed with World Team Tennis.

So, co-top seed Ilie Nastase of Romania will begin defense of his men's title in a match against Humphrey Hose of Venezuela today, while Billie Jean King, last year's winner, will face Peggy Michel of Los Angeles.

Nastase was fined $5,000 by the Association of Tennis Professionals Tuesday night for defying the group's boycott of the All-England championships at Wimbledon last June.

Controversy had marred the prestigious tournament in late June, when 70 members of the ATP boycotted the tournament.

Yugoslavian star Nikki Pilic was barred for refusing to represent his country in Davis Cup competition, and ATP players stayed away from the courts in support of Pilic's stand.

The other men's top seed, Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., will meet Patrick Proisy of France, while the women's second seed, Margaret Court of Australia, will play Pat Pretorius of South Africa.

The action will be on the famed West Side Tennis Club courts, with other matches involving seeded men including: No. 3 Arthur Ashe of Miami against Colin Dibley of Australia; No. 4 Rod Laver of Australia vs. Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md.; and No. 5 Ken Rosewall of Australia against Graham Stillwell of Great Britain.

In women's play, No. 3 Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. met Rayni Fox of Miami Beach, Fla.; No. 4 Evonne Goolagong of Australia faced Barbara Anne Downs of Alamo, Calif.; and No. 5 Kerry Melville of Australia played Ann Kiyomura, San Mateo, Calif.

New England Woman An Anti-Highway Crusader

By ERLINDA VILLAMOR WINDSOR, Conn. (UPI) — When Mrs. Alice Finstad hits the road, it's for a reason, and so far she's always had the right of way. Mrs. Finstad is Windsor's fiercest foe of highways, credited with leading her community in successfully opposing part of a beltway which would have been routed through the heart of the town. State officials have come to regard her as an expert on highways and mass transit, and no blueprint or master plan is completed without her unofficial imprimatur.

"My town even wants me to run for the Council, or for the legislature," said the outspoken 57-year-old housewife.

Not bad for a one-time secretary who never went to college and whose only previous experience with fighting city hall dates several years back when she opposed a pathway through the woods which children could use as a shortcut to school.

"I told the Town Council it would be a dangerous pathway because it would be in an isolated area," Mrs. Finstad said.

The Town Council voted not to build the pathway. That was 18 years ago. Things were to be repeated for Mrs. Finstad, but as a much grander scale.

Today, from an outsized kitchen in her small home, Mrs. Finstad, now a grandmother, is fighting two highway projects which if built would gird her neighborhood of 250 homes and 20 commercial establishments with 22 lanes of asphalt.

"See that wire fence," she drew the curtain in her kitchen. "That's the state fence separating my property from the highway. If I-291 is built through Windsor, I would have a 60-foot high ramp over my backyard."

Some 30 residents have organized and called themselves The People Against Highway Expansion in Windsor or Pahew, to carry out a formal battle against I-291 and the addition of four lanes to I-91.

Most of the brain work, however, is being done by Mrs. Finstad. To buttress the group's arguments, Mrs. Finstad had to produce a 300-page impact study.

"I didn't even know what environmental impact study was," she said.

But long hours of poring over books and magazines on the subject, studying federal laws and regulations and highways and environmental policies gave her everything she wanted to know about highways.

"The most important thing is to know what you're fighting," she said, fiddling through the state's voluminous draft plan for the highways.

With one rebuttal after another, Mrs. Finstad chipped away at the highway plan which she described as "mediocre."

In brief, Mrs. Finstad argued the proposed highways would isolate "an established, integrated, densely populated residential neighborhood of low and middle income housing" from the rest of the community.

The battle cry became "Stop I-29 and I-19, another Berlin Wall."

She threw up her roadblocks by citing the noise and drainage problems the constructions would cause; damage to wildlife in the area, and the demolition of at least four historical houses, and a park.

Above all, Mrs. Finstad contended, Windsor didn't need more highways, but an effective mass transit system.

Mrs. Finstad said she is short on sleep and together with officers of the group life has been a constant shuttling from Windsor Town Hall to the State House to Capitol Hill, selling bumper stickers and holding cake sales for the group's coffers.

When Gov. Thomas Meskill announced last month the state would not construct I-291 through the town, it was thought that the highway fighter would finally catch up with her sleep. It was not so.

"Windsor still has I-91 to fight," she declared during a victory party in her honor.

There are reports that I-91 would be a tougher nut to crack. But Mrs. Finstad said she's not daunted.

"See my garage? If I-91 is expanded we would have 50,000 cars zinging through my garage daily," she said.

"We'll fight, even if we have to go to court—even if we have to bake a million cakes," she said.

Kissinger To Ask Most Officials To Stay On

By KENNETH J. FREED WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger plans to ask most key state department officials who served under outgoing Secretary of State William P. Rogers to stay on when he takes over as secretary, administration officials say.

Kissinger wants to keep the staff intact to gain the confidence of the department and bolster morale, said the officials.

He already has asked Deputy Secretary Kenneth Rush to keep his job, and Rush has agreed. Kissinger also was expected to extend the same invitation to all current undersecretaries and assistant secretaries, at least until he gets set-led in his new job.

And, administration sources say, Kissinger plans to let department officials help him in making key policy decisions.

Kissinger is said to have told Rush, for instance, to take a leading role in European affairs.

Rush formerly was ambassador to West Germany and has experience in dealing with the Soviet Union and East European diplomats as well as with allied leaders.

Kissinger also has met with Theodore L. Eliot Jr., the new U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan and formerly head of the State Department's secretariat.

Another official summoned to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., after last week's announcement that Kissinger would be the new secretary was Helmut Sonnenfeldt, an expert on Europe serving on Kissinger's White House staff while awaiting action on his nomination as undersecretary of the Treasury.

Officials said Kissinger also has asked several other U.S. ambassadors to meet with him in the next 10 days to go over department manpower needs, policies and problems.

Use Of Ancient Water Studied

By JOE EDWARDS Associated Press Writer NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A marine biologist believes Tennessee sits on the eighth ocean of the world and had conducted successful experiments sustaining marine life in ancient water taken from beneath the surface.

Dane Jones believes pollution threatens the country's coastal shores — and consequently the fishing industry.

For that reason, he feels there's a successful future in pumping ancient, unpolluted water to the earth's surface and then sustaining oysters, shrimp and the like in it.

"We are convinced it is the salvation of the fishing industry in the next 20 years," he said in his laboratory.

He said his firm, Arkansas Gulf Midland, a Tennessee Corporation, hopes to be the world's first such research-production farm within the next seven to nine months.

Investors have spent $50,000 in the last two years on a pilot project in which Jones has been experimenting with his theory.

He is pumping between 400-500 gallons of water daily from 400-600 feet beneath the surface at an undisclosed location in Tennessee.

He has aerated and filtered the water and kept an oyster alive in it for 31 days and also sustained crab and shrimp.

The oyster project was aborted, he said, "after we found we were successful."

"I ate two or three of the oysters," he said. "The taste was much better than regular ones."

There's an abundance of water beneath the surface, he believes, and feels the cost of producing seafood in this manner would not be prohibitive.

The key to his project is the cleanliness of the water.

"There is no ocean in the world as clean as this water," he said. "It's been removed from man's polluting forces."

He believes the potential of his theory is overwhelming.

"It's a possible answer to a protein shortage years from now. In 4,000 productive acres, it would be possible to produce all the protein consumed by the world in one year."

School Milk Is Cut Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk subsidy programs for some 40 million school children are being canceled.

The Agriculture Department said lack of funds is forcing it to eliminate the milk subsidies for schools that also have a federally subsidized lunch program.

Schools without the subsidized lunch program will continue to get the milk subsidy, officials said, a provision affecting about six million children.

Under the milk subsidy the government has provided an average of three cents toward the price of a half-pint of milk. The price of a half-pint of milk is now expected to rise to 10 cents when schools open for the fall term.

The lack of funds stems from the fact that Congress has not approved a new appropriation for the program. However, a $97 million allocation is pending in a conference committee.

Trouble Due A 'Handful'

BENSON, N.C. (AP) — Police say a "handful" of young people have caused trouble in Benson since the town adopted an ordinance two weeks ago banning public consumption of beer.

"Just a few of them don't like it," Police Chief William C. Stewart said Tuesday. "But we're not going to let them dictate to us. We intend to enforce the law."

Stewart said that before the ordinance was adopted, some young people would sit on the sidewalk curbs drinking beer.

Nearly 100 persons, most of them ranging in age from 18 to 28, have been arrested since Aug. 17 on various charges, including disorderly conduct, Stewart said. Sixty-two were arrested last weekend when Benson officers called in 14 highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies for assistance.

Police Sgt. K.W. Parker said young people have gathered in groups ranging up to 100 persons at night to protest the ordinance, but no mass demonstrations have occurred.

He said several broken windows, smashed windshields and destruction of service station gas pumps had been reported since enforcement of the ban was ordered.

"I think it's doing the town of Benson good," said Parker. "You don't see the beer bottles and broken glass on the lots, things like that."

Cross-Country Monitor Set Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The first cross-country computerized monitoring of acutely ill patients has begun between Pacific Medical Center here and Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York.

Via a private line, patients in the intensive care unit at Mt. Sinai are being monitored on a 24-hour basis by a computer-based system originated and developed at the San Francisco Medical Center.

The system reports 35 different measurements every 10 minutes or, on request, every 45 seconds, through eight different sensors leading from the patient.

Replica Of Junk To Sail Pacific

By GEORGE BOLTWOOD COPENHAGEN (AP) — Did the Chinese reach Central America 2,000 years ago — long before Europeans arrived in the Americas?

An Austrian-Danish expedition is planned to sail a Chinese junk from Hong Kong 8,600 nautical miles across the Pacific to the Bay of Panama to test the theory. The idea was generated in a conversation in Gras, Austria, between Arno Dennig, 36, owner of St. Gotthard Schloss — a castle — and his good friend Kuno Knoebel, 38, an executive of the Austrian television service.

Archaeological discoveries in Panama, Peru and Ecuador have indicated a distinct Chinese influence on artifacts of the Indian cultures of those regions.

Some archaeologists claim to have detected Chinese art forms in buildings, decorations, pictures of gods and even in a certain form of writing — called knot script — peculiar to the Mekong Delta. Dennig contacted his brother-in-law, Carl Frederik Grage, 42, a Danish engineer and renowned yachtsman.

Would it be possible for a junk of the type used 2,000 years ago — during the Han dynasty — to sail across the Pacific? After two months of study, Grage decided it could be done. In Hong Kong he got on the trail of a clay model, discovered in Canton, of a junk of the period 200 B.C. Called a tower boat, it was a warship with places in the tower for archers and spearmen.

Grage has had to make do with a photograph of the clay model, but he hopes to get permission to see the original in Canton. From the photograph he made a model of the junk and tested it in a tank he set up in his back yard. With financing from Fritz Molden, a prominent Vienna publisher, the building of a full-size junk will begin soon in Hong Kong. To keep it true to the original, not a single piece of metal will be used in the construction. The one sail will be of the traditional bamboo.

The big question is whether such a sail can survive such a long voyage in which cyclones will probably be encountered.

The Chinese of the Han dynasty had 28 stellar constellations by which to navigate. Grage, who will skipper the junk, said he will use a sextant, however. Also, the junk will carry inflatable life rafts in order to qualify for a license for a ship's radio.

Grage will be accompanied by Dennig and Knoebel and they hope to recruit a physician and a marine biologist. Two Chinese will be included in the crew because, Grage said, they are such good seamen.

The junk's best speed is estimated at six to seven knots and the average is expected to be three knots. So the voyage will last several months.

Grage has set May 25, 1974, as the sailing date. For only two weeks at that time are the winds favorable for a start from the Hong Kong area.

Benjamin C. Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Nicholson of Williamston, was promoted to specialist four while serving with the Army Strategic Communications Command, South, at Ft. Clayton, C. Z. Nicholson is a personnel specialist in the command's Operations Company.

Pvt. Bennie D. Russell, son of Mrs. Olivia Russell of Greenville, completed advanced individual training with the 58th Infantry of the 197th Infantry Brigade at Ft. Benning, Ga. Russell learned the techniques of fire tactics of a rifle squad and also received instruction in patrolling, individual combat operations, landmine warfare, land navigation, communications, and firing the M-16 rifle and the M-60 machine gun. The private, who enlisted for duty with the 197th, is guaranteed a minimum of 16 months of service with the unit.

Pvt. William H. Dail (above) son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Dail of Rt. 2, Ayden, is currently stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii with the 19th Infantry of the 25th Division. Dail, who enlisted in September of last year for three years duty finished his high school equivalence and passed the GED test with honors. He plans to continue his studies in the field of education.

Egghead Goes To The Cabbages

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jacob E. Dailey is superintendent of schools in Bristol Township in Pennsylvania. He believes in sitting down among or near the cabbages at a supermarket on Thursday nights. Or near the toothpaste and pain killers.

He figures the supermarket is the place to meet the working mothers, the dads who don't come to PTA meetings and others in the community with whom he must keep open lines of communication. He and his colleagues hang out a sign and take on all questions. They set up near a high-use aisle — pharmaceuticals or produce. In the latter instance, the supermarket superintendent often sits near the cabbages. No one's called the egghead a cabbagehead — yet.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You start out with excellent judgment and the desire to extend your interests far beyond present boundaries. Later, you feel just great and very romantic, but there is a decided deceptive condition present — just as likely to be within yourself as from outside.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Important to make new arrangements with both associate and with mate in p.m. if you want the future to develop more satisfactorily. Stick to the truth since your mind is too tired to do much angling, anyway. Then you come out on top.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Put that good taste to work and make your abode, business place more attractive. Show co-workers the better side of your nature. Your health needs more attention now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to let your imagination run away with you when dealing with the one you love, or there could be some bad misunderstanding. Enjoy regular recreations instead of jumping into new ones that could be far from anything you might like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to get dull routines-tuned up so they are more efficient, but first study how others have done so for the best results. Make your home more attractive in some way. The right painting could work wonders.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) If you state to others how much you appreciate them, you get excellent backing from them now, and your life becomes more worthwhile. Buy the clothing that makes you look like a new You. Thrill the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Plan how to improve any real estate you may have, as well as how to add appreciably to present prosperity. Buy and sell with more wisdom and show you know how to handle money. Avoid extravagance.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You are highly charming and can accomplish much in the world of activity right now, so get an early start. Accept invitations in p.m. of a social nature. Dress well and wow 'em!

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Some investigation will give you the answers for which you have been searching for some time. Don't be afraid to show your devotion to those you really love, otherwise they feel neglected. Increase happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Instead of being so blunt with others, use tact and show more affection if you want more harmony, happiness. Being more willing to go out socially is good. Dress well and within your means.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Try not to give others the wrong impression in the outside world, or you could ruin your reputation right now. Use wisdom and you can make big headway with the influential. Stick to own knitting in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have new ideas and want to make new associates, which is fine provided they are the right ones, so be selective. Make those plans to travel that are important. See to it that your wardrobe is right.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Making certain that you keep promises to others in a most honorable and exact way is important right now. Do whatever will put your mate's mind at least partially at ease. Then mend your ways.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those pretty young people who could be very badly spoiled by others if you do not teach early to stand on own two feet, otherwise there could be failure instead of the fine promise in this chart. There are outstanding talents here and the ability to be neat and accurate, so give the best education you can afford. Permit to follow religion of own choice for best results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Cattle Rustling A Big Business; Risks Declined

By CHARLES J. CANNON
DENVER (UPI) — A hundred years or so ago a man caught with someone else's cattle wound up dancing on air from the nearest cottonwood tree.

Cattle rustling is still big business, but the risks have declined considerably. Colorado officials say they often are hard-pressed to get a judge to take the crime seriously.

"You take a fellow who's been caught red-handed stealing a $500 cow," State Brand Inspector H. L. Rove said, "and unless he's got a prior record, the judge puts him on probation and he's right back at it."

Many attorneys say they would rather defend a rustler than prosecute him because the chances of winning the case are better.

Logan County Sheriff Vince Bianco agreed.

Rustling Increases

"You've almost got to catch them in the act," he said. "What makes it so bad is that farmers don't check their pastures for several days at a time. By the time they discover their loss and report it, their livestock has probably gone through an auction several hundred miles away."

High meat prices these days have caused some persons to go "shopping" in ranchers' pastures. Livestock rustling, a multi-million-dollar-a-year business, has taken a sharp upward swing during the past several years. Although no national tabulation of losses is available, estimates are that livestock losses due to rustling this year could reach $30 million.

In Colorado, sheriffs throughout the state report only scattered instances of cattle, sheep and hog rustling. Authorities credit stiff brand laws in the state for keeping the situation in hand.

"But several Eastern states, among them Iowa, have asked us for copies of our brand regulations to cut down on the sale of stolen beef," Rowe said. "It's gotten to the point in some states where you can sell a whole truckload of stolen livestock at public auction with no questions asked."

Southeast Hit Hard

American National Cattlemen's Association records reveal the extent of the Speed-Reading Claims Heard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Would you believe reading at 81,000 words a minute? Educators at Rheem School in Moraga, Calif., are claiming several of their fifth graders, speed reading graduates, have hit that many words per minute.

Nation's Schools, a journal for school bosses, says the rapid reading program, 10 weeks long, is Optimization. It was developed by the Reading Foundation of California.

problem. In 1971, estimated rustling losses were $15 million nationwide. Texas authorities estimated a loss of $1.75 million last year and Alabama authorities predicted farmers and ranchers there would lose $1 million this year.

One of the areas hardest hit by rustling is the Southeast, a relative newcomer to the livestock industry. Officials in Florida and Alabama say the size of ranches, often as large as 500,000 acres, makes policing extremely difficult.

Methods used by rustlers vary. Some livestock thieves simply wait until a rancher and his family are gone, back up to his loading chute and drive off with his herd.

Rewards Offered
An easier but less profitable scheme is to shoot an animal in a pasture, cut off the choice hindquarters and leave the rest to rot.

Insurance company officials say farmers and ranchers are compensated for only a small percentage of their actual losses. A primary reason is that most policies require that the insurance company be notified within 24 hours of the theft. Ranchers often don't discover the loss until days, or weeks, afterward.

Some state livestock organizations have set up their own groups to combat rustling. The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association last year reported its special agents had solved more than 200 cases involving over $2 million in stolen livestock.

In Florida, a state livestock association offers a $500 reward for conviction of a rustler, and some county agencies there offer as much as $1,000.

Fleeced By Mail Fraud

NEW YORK (UPI) — Consumers are fleeced of over $500 million a year through mail frauds, according to Janet Wilson, extension consumer education specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Consumers who become victims of correspondence school frauds are people with little education desperately trying to improve their economic opportunities.

She said fraudulent schools will accept anyone willing to sign a contract. Once it is signed, the victim has little chance to get out of it. Consumers can protect themselves by investigating before they sign any contracts. Check with employers in the particular industry involved to determine the value of a particular course. Miss Wilson also advised the consumer: be suspicious of mail order schemes that demand money for information about good pay for easy part-time work in your home. Some are direct frauds.

Europe Savors Free-Spending Tourists From Japan

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — The scene around Rome's Trevi Fountain no longer focuses on Americans tossing in coins, but Japanese snapping cameras.

Behind the information desk in a Geneva department store sits a Japanese-speaking hostess. Signs advertising "Paris by Night" tours in the French capital are in five languages and the first listed now is Japanese.

And on a winding street in Toledo, Spain, near a 15th Century cathedral, a little restaurant serving the national dish of paella offers its menu—in Japanese.

Europe tourist centers are adjusting their sights away from the legendary American tourist to the new fast-growing source of business: the free-spending Japanese tourist.

In the 1950's Americans armed with cameras and cash invaded Europe. Today their wallets are thin with devalued dollars. Now it's the Japanese with their hard currency who form the promising new tourist wave.

Began in 1964 Japanese, cameras 'round necks, are taking boat cruises on the Rhine River in Germany and filling bullrings and flamenco nightclubs in Madrid. One of every four tourist buses stopping at St. Peter's Square in Rome this August is full of Japanese and they're lining up to visit Lenin's Tomb in Moscow's Red Square.

"Japanese tourists are doing what the Americans did 15 or 20 years ago, making their first trip to Europe and wanting to see as much as possible—preferably nine countries in three weeks," said a spokesman at the German National Tourist Office in Frankfurt.

Japanese started traveling abroad in 1964, when regulations on taking currency out of the country were eased to allow short trips, according to a Japanese Air Lines (JAL) survey. With all foreign exchange restrictions lifted in 1972, 1,392 million Japanese tourist went abroad, 89 per cent more than in 1970.

JAL expects a 35 per cent boost for 1973—and still the number of tourists will be only two per cent of Japan's population, a still untapped tourist market.

Most of the Japanese go to Asia or U.S. Pacific islands but 178,478 flew into Europe in 1972, a 44.8 per cent boost over 1971.

Government officials and private businesses are scurrying to cater to the Japanese spenders. Brussels staged a Japanese-language folklore show on its 14th century square, La Grand Place, this summer. Several German cities published brochures about their attractions in Japanese. Greece has started an advertising campaign in Japan.

Prefer Own Food Geneva's tourist office is preparing a guidebook in Japanese. The Louvre Museum in Paris has trained special guides to conduct tours in Japanese and some welcome signs at Orly Airport now are in Japanese.

The British Tourist Office is working on handling the Japanese tourist market. A spokesman said, "We are a little behind preparing for the rush but changes will occur in a year or two."

The tourists from the Orient like to sample European food but most prefer their own familiar dishes, according to the Japan Travel Bureau in Paris.

More than 25 Japanese restaurants have sprung up in Paris during the last two years, most catering mainly to tourists from home. One has opened behind St. Stephan's Cathedral in Vienna and two are in business in Rome.

In Paris nearly every shop in the tourist areas of the Champs Elysees Boulevard and the Opera House have signs in the windows in Japanese. Advertisements in Paris newspapers seek "Japanese-speaking salesgirls."

Salesgirls speaking Japanese work in Rome shops, including the ultra-expensive leather shop, Gucci's. The assistant manager said, "They come in four or five at a time, smile, point to their feet and say, 'Want Gucci shoe,' no matter the style or color, just so it fits."

Most Japanese come to Europe on group tours because of the language problem and complexity of their multi-nation trips, JAL said. Some take the grand tour on their own, such as a dozen young Japanese who recently pulled into Brussels in five yellow Volkswagens.

A JAL report said the Japanese took to travel because they have a tradition of travel helped in recent years by rising incomes and cheaper tour prices. Most are affluent company executives in their 30's and groups but more and more women and young people are traveling.

"Japanese used to rest in order to work. Now we work in order to relax—and travel," the JAL report said.

Free And Reduced School Meal Policy

St. Gabriel's School today announced a free and reduced meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price of meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size-income criteria for use in determining eligibility.

Family	INCOME
	Lunch-Free	Reduced Price
1	0- 2,740	2,741- 3,280
2	0- 3,600	3,601- 4,320
3	0- 4,460	4,461- 5,360
4	0- 5,310	5,311- 6,380
5	0- 6,100	6,101- 7,320
6	0- 6,890	6,891- 8,260
7	0- 7,600	7,601- 9,120
8	0- 8,310	8,311- 9,980
9	0- 8,310	8,961-10,750
10	0- 9,600	9,601-11,520
11	0-10,240	10,241-12,190
For each additional family member	640	770

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for meals free or at reduced prices. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office at each school. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for the benefits. If the family has such children living with them, and wishes to apply for such meals for them, they should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color or natural origin.

Under the provision of the policy the Principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may make a request either orally or in writing to Rev. N. C. Mulholland, Pastor of St. Gabriel's whose address is 1120 W. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C. 27834 for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the office of the Greenville City Schools where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

Gasoline Is 'Available'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supply of gasoline is improved and threats of service station shutdowns over the Labor Day weekend have evaporated, the American Automobile Association reported.

In its final summer spot check of gasoline supplies the AAA Tuesday reported improvement in the availability of gasoline for the eighth straight week.

"This week 58 per cent of stations contacted are operating normally—maintaining hours of operation in effect before the summer fuel pinch and allowing motorists to fill their gas tanks," the association said.

The AAA said this compares with 55 per cent normal operation last week and 43 per cent on June 28, the low point of the summer.

Some gasoline retailers had planned a shutdown over the Labor Day weekend, but the AAA noted that this became a protest without a cause when a federal judge suspended Phase 4 controls on gasoline.

The AAA said that of 3,981 stations surveyed 40 per cent were still limiting hours to some degree, 4 per cent were limiting purchases, 1.2 per cent were out of at least one grade of fuel, 1.1 per cent were closed for lack of fuel and .6 per cent expected cutbacks from their wholesalers.

Responsible

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Edison Co. employees say one of the utility's power plants was responsible for the oily soot that fell on both sides of the Detroit River for two nights.

One Edison worker, who asked not to be identified, said on Tuesday that black smoke "so thick you could walk across it" began spewing from a smokestack at Edison's River Rouge plant Sunday night.

A worker on the Sunday midnight shift said Edison smokestacks were "blowing out smoke all night" and the situation was not corrected until an inspector closed a faulty damper at 8 a.m. Monday.

Falling soot blanketed a 10-mile band cutting across Detroit, several suburbs and Windsor, Ont., across the Detroit River.

Authorities were inundated with complaints about blackened cars, boats, homes and clothes.

Another Ride On Freeway

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon went for another drive on the California freeways, accompanied by his wife, Pat, and daughter, Tricia Nixon Cox.

Escorted by two Secret Service cars, the Nixons stopped Tuesday for an hour at Red Beach inside the Camp Pendleton Marine base.

The Western White House did not announce the President's excursion until the Nixons had arrived at the beach. A news media car that attempted to follow them found its path blocked by the Secret Service.

BEATING THE HEAT AT THE ZOO

There are many ways to keep cool on one of summer's hottest days in Chicago. These animals at Brookfield Zoo have their own means of cooling it. If you're a Kodiak bear, top, you hop out of your own pool and let dripping water do the job. If you're a penguin, you stay in your refrigerated enclosure; and if you're a baby elephant, you get doused with buckets of water by your attendant. (AP Wirephoto)

REMEMBER WHEN MOST THINGS

WERE "HOME DELIVERED"?

NOT TOO LONG ago many grocery stores, meat markets and drug stores offered Free Home Delivery. Not many still offer it today. Even the milkman and bread truck are less frequent in many communities today. The twice-a-day mailman now comes only once.

ONE OF THE FEW remaining home-delivery services is performed by your newspaper carrier. When you think about it, it is rare to have such personal daily service on such a low-priced item.

PERHAPS THE MOST discouraging part of a newspaper route is in collecting from the customers. Most people have the money ready for their newspaper carrier at the regular time. However, some readers require the carrier to make two, three or even more trips in order to get his money. We hate to see these young carriers discouraged. We also hate to see a good businessman give up his route because of the time and effort it takes to collect.

WON'T YOU HELP HIM, (and us) by having your money ready every time?

The 'Worry Clinj' Infatuation Is Not True Love

Dola's packed church crowd of women listened most attentively to an hour's discussion of love problems. These ranged from the confusion of sexual infatuation with "true love" (as shown by Dickens' Sidney Carton) to parental, religious and altruistic love.

with true love. In both, the victims get but-terflies in their tummy, feel

Opening lead: King of ♠
Declarer managed his re-sources well to bring home a slam contract imperiled by an adverse distribution of the outstanding trumps.

North-South conducted an intelligent auction to get to six spades. After the one diamond opening had elicited a one spade response, North was close to a jump to three spades. However, he chose the more conservative action of a simple raise. South's three diamond bid is forcing for one round—after a partnership has found a fit in a major suit, a return to opener's minor suit obliges him to keep the bidding going for one round.

Since the double fit im-proved his hand, North jumped to four spades. South now knew that this partner was better than minimum with all his points outside the trump suit, so he felt good enough for another try. His cue-bid of the ace of clubs encouraged North to show his ace of hearts, and South's leap to slam closed the auction. With a 3-2 trump division, seven spades could be made.

West led the king of hearts, won in dummy. It seemed that 12 tricks presented no problem. However, when South led a trump from dummy at trick two, East produced the jack. If that card were honest, declarer saw that he would have to lose a trump trick to West.

Declarer realized that control of the trump suit was the key to the slam. He could not afford to win the trick and use trumps as entries to his hand to ruff hearts, for that would leave West with a high trump. West could use that card to ruff the third or fourth diamond, stranding declarer with a club loser.

South solved his dilemma by allowing East to win the trick with the jack of spades, playing the nine from his hand! The defenders were helpless. East shifted to a club, but declarer rose with the ace. A heart was ruffed in dummy, declarer returned to his hand with a trump and ruffed his remaining heart. The queen of diamonds served as the entry to the closed hand to draw West's remaining trumps, and dummy's two clubs were discarded. Dummy was left with nothing but good diamonds and took the remainder of the tricks.

love?" No, indeed, for sexual infatuation gives you the same emotional reactions.

In true love, you are so concerned with the ultimate best interests of your sweetheart that you'll defer marriage or even lay down your life, as Sidney Carton did in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities."

In sexual infatuation, however, the focus of your attention is on your own selfish and sensual gratification.

If a high school girl thus demands that her senior classmate elope and get married, that obviously indicates lack of true love!

For she is prejudicing his future educational and financial career, so she is obviously not trying to do the most good for him!

Take your Bible and read II Samuel, Chapter 13, for then you'll see a classical example of what was supposed to be true love, but turned out to be sexual infatuation.

For Prince Amnon was so enamored of the Princess Tamar that he took to his bed, sick with love for her.

But when he finally conspired to get her alone in his boudoir and then assaulted her, Verse 15 immediately states:

"Then Amnon hated her exceedingly, so that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than love wherewith he had loved her and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone."

In my address I had also shown the varying types of love, as of parents for children, dedicated teachers for their pupils, and even that of medical researchers who die for future generations, still unborn.

So I warned the ladies that what men don't regard true love as synonymous with mere sexual indulgence, for they may sexually assault women whom they hate!

So send for my booklet "Sex Difference Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It can stop divorces! Offshore Oil Is Reason For An Isolated Village

EDITOR'S NOTE: The desolate moonscape of the surrounding Egyptian desert stretches far away. From a helicopter you can see Mt. Sinai where Moses delivered the word of God. And here is a transient village on the sands, serviced by eight boats, 50 vehicles and four planes. Its reason to be is offshore, an oil field of great promise.

By C.C. MINICLIER Associated Press Writer RAS SHUKHEIR, Egypt (AP) — If you like your boom towns with a little raw and racy excitement, this oil town hard on the shore of the Red Sea isn't the place.

There are no women, no vegetation, not even a market place or a common saloon. A night on the town comes to two cold beers and a movie.

The reason for Ras Shukheir's existence is lost in the mists of old. It is a huge oil field, opened just before the war with Israel in 1967, a lucky piece of timing since the Israelis gobbled up another major Egyptian field when they swept across the Sinai to victory.

Two years after oil was discovered Ras Shukheir was a full blown town, a sprawling warehouse, two-story villas, its own squash court, everything needed to operate the Morgan oil field. But little else.

There is no field in the conventional sense. "And there is no Mr. Morgan," field superintendent Mahmoud Ibrahim Al-lam patiently explains to visitors. The word "Morgan" comes from some local coral.

Located 18 miles offshore, it was discovered by American oil men and it is Egypt's major oil source, pumping 403 million barrels since it opened.

It is the 16th largest known underwater field in the world. A new area was opened recently and is expected to produce 100,000 barrels a day by the end of the year, Allam says.

Visitors to the off shore facilities are surprised to learn they are closer to Israeli-occupied Sinai—only five miles—than to Ras Shukheir.

Not visible from here in the morning mists, the field is clearly visible at night from both sides of the Gulf of Suez, marked by two giant burn-off flames, consuming some 250 million cubic feet of unwanted natural gas daily.

From an approaching helicopter one can see in the distance Mt. Sinai, where Moses is said to have received the Ten Commandments.

Although the oil was discovered by the American Oil Co., AMOCO, there are only five Americans on the 370-man payroll here. The oil is produced by the Gulf of Suez Petroleum Co., jointly owned by AMOCO and EGPCO, the state run Egyptian General Petroleum Corp.

"Oil is good for everybody and I expect there is a lot more oil in the gulf," says process supervisor Sabry Mohamed el Sherif, 29, who started work there two days before the field opened.

Oil from Morgan is shipped to Japan, Brazil, the United States, England, Spain and Italy.

A million barrels were shipped to the United States in one recent month.

The high salaries and quiet, open spaces of the desert and sea are given by most employees as reasons for working in a community without women, or even vegetation.

There are no regular holidays for Moslems or Christians. Each man works 12 days and then takes the company plane or bus 285 miles northwest across the desert to Cairo for nine days off.

The only money spent here by employes is for a beer or two in the evening. Nothing stronger is sold.

Asked how he felt about being away from his wife so much, a production engineer, Ibrahim el Zawahry, 32, here six years, said, "That's fine, we need the money."

The loneliest men are probably those on the offshore platforms, working 75 to 120 feet above the rolling seas. The metal walkways are slick with oil and salt spray and the roar of machinery and rush of gas through pipes prevents any coherent conversation, except in the near sound-proof Porta-Kamp units from Houston, Tex. These contain an office, refrigerator, sink, two-way radio, toilet and repair room.

The biggest platform, valued at $20 million, is manned by a three-man crew of engineers, as are the other inhabited platforms. One engineer is always off duty and another is ashore sleeping, leaving one on board on a 12-hour shift before the helicopter brings out his replacement and takes him in for some hot food, a shower and sleep.

Since oil was discovered more than $165 million have been invested here and a new $45 million project is under construction to partially purify sea water and pump it back into the field at a rate of some 400,000 barrels a day—to lift the oil surface. This is to increase yield and cut costs.

Study Women In 7th Grade

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Alert, a women's legislative review published in Middletown, Conn., says "Bravo" to the Greenwich, Conn., public school system for adopting a seventh grade program on women.

The new program, three weeks long, centers on the changing role and image of women. Written by Lyn Nevins, a junior high social studies teacher, the program deals with sex stereotyping in elementary school readers and the lack of women in history texts. It also gets into inequalities in job opportunities and pay scales. Ms. Nevins is chairman of the Connecticut Task Force on Education, National Organization for Women (NOW).

(Further reports on sexism in children's books are in Alert's No. 9 edition, P.O. Box 437, Middletown, Conn.)

Dobie Gray Tasting Success—He Knew Before His Career-Slump

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's been seven long years since Dobie Gray tasted the kind of success he's now enjoying, but the misfortunes which had his career tumbling in the mid 60s aren't likely to hinder any anymore.

At present, Gray, 31, is fast emerging as one of the few black singers whose appeal knows no boundaries. His current single "Loving Arms," shows signs of being as big as "Drift Away" and both have met wide acceptance from the pop, rock and country music sectors alike.

In 1965, Gray emerged on the music scene with a million seller called "In Crowd," but the soul-singing style that brought him fortune back then is long gone. Country-soul is now his role.

"That's something I wanted to do because it is natural to me," Gray said while in Nashville recording his second album.

"I've been put down for it by a lot of people who don't understand it. Some of the blacks think I'm turning my back on my heritage. Whites think I'm trying to crash in on their thing."

"I pay no attention to people like that. You can't please everyone, so like the man said you gotta please yourself."

Gray has made a habit of trying to please himself. His authentic attitude, he said, set his career back "five to six years."

At a time when black singers were appealing mostly to soul audiences, Gray's style seemed too out of place. He was the first entertainer to ever record "Rose Garden," "Celebrity Ball," and "He Ain't Heavy." But he insisted on doing them in his country-soul style and the country the tunes met great success through other performers.

It's that same style which now makes him appealing to listening audiences.

"When I was in there coming off the 'In Crowd,' they wanted me to keep that 'In Crowd' type of music and image. I never did come across. It wasn't my kind of thing."

"When I tried to tell my managers that, they were no longer interested in me. There's always someone else you know."

Gray said he was "saddled with producers who wanted to turn me into a James Brown." "They were expecting something else and when they didn't have it, they turned off."

"I said somewhere there's got to be somebody who believes in what I want to do. That's what I've found in Nashville."

Gray plans to leave Los Angeles near the end of the year and make Nashville his permanent home.

"Music and good vibes—that's all I've found in Nashville. I'm sure it has its share of bummers like every other town, but I can cope with them here because there's refuge in picking up my guitar and finding somebody good to write a song with..."

"Within 5 to 7 years, this will be the metropolis of music," Gray predicted.

Five years from now, however, Gray may not be on the music scene.

"I started out to be an actor. That's my greatest ambition. It hasn't changed," said Gray, who spent two years with the West Coast cast of "Hair" playing two prominent roles. He's also acted in two movies.

"My music to me is everything," he said. "Needless to say the acting, right now, has to be secondary. But the music will make things easier in that direction."

Comparing his newest album, due for release by fall, with his first album of a year ago, Gray said: "This album is better material, tastier arrangements. It's more country than the first album. I was raised on that kind of music—those are my roots." Until his late teens, he grew up on a farm in Brookshire, Tex.

The object of the first album, he said, was to "get our music accepted by a lot of people and we accomplished that."
